AT&T decides to hang up on Sheldon plant

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

AT&T will close its Sheldon Road-based repair and warehouse operations by the end of 1985, placing some 180 jobs on the line.

The communications company announced plans Friday to consolidate its distribution and repair operations nationwide, forcing three facilities to close. Service centers targeted, besides Plymouth, include Miami, Florida and Kent, Washington.

"The announcement represents the continuation of AT&T's long-term program begun in July 1983 to reduce costs and improve space utilization," said Bob Musgrave, a company spokesman.

AT&T currently leases more than half of the 500,000 square-foot Ameritech (former Western Electric plant) building at 909 Sheldon. Ameritech uses the balance of the building for its regional warehouse and distribution center.

"Our repair and warehouse support operations in Plymouth will be consolidated at the service center in Cleveland, although a local presence will be maintained in the Detroit area to serve custom assembly and logistics requirements," Musgrave said.

"Some 180 jobs at the Michigan Center will be affected," he said, adding that AT&T will retain a "strong presence in Michigan and the metropolitan Detroit area with a total of nearly 6,000 employees and a payroll of more than $200 million."

COMPANY REPRESENTATIVES are scheduled to meet with Communications Workers of America (CWA) Local 4095 to discuss the Plymouth jobs. CWA Local 4095 President Ray Most couldn't be reached for comment.

"By July, we should know the specific numbers of employees affected and the kinds of support and programs to be offered. It will take the next couple of months to complete discussions," Musgrave said.

"In the past in such situations, company assistance has included offering transfers and reassignments, early retirement supplements and layoff allowances."

Nationwide, the consolidation will affect some 600 jobs.

The Miami center move to Atlanta, Ga., will affect some 300 repair jobs, while distribution and a repair operation will remain. The Kent center move to San Leandro, Calif., will affect 120 repair jobs, with distribution activities remaining in the Seattle area.

"Although some 600 jobs will be impacted by the phasing in of the consolidation plans over the next several months, this does not mean that this many employees will necessarily be laid off," Musgrave said.

"In some cases, certain job functions will remain in or near cities now served by the centers." The consolidation program was prompted, primarily, by the recent divestiture of AT&T — although Musgrave points to two factors involved with the telephone repair areas.

Customer ownership of phones and the increased durability of AT&T phones have created less of a demand for repairs, he said.

"This is part of a nationwide move to see where we can consolidate and cut costs."

AT&T ORIGINALLY owned the Sheldon Road facility but turned the deed over to Ameritech as part of the divestiture, according to Mike Brandt, an Ameritech spokesman.

The lease arrangement, for 236,000 square-feet, began in January 1984 and is set to expire at the end of this year.

Brandt said AT&T holds an option to continue the lease but apparently won't, in view of Friday's announcement.

Ameritech, which employs 170 people at the Sheldon Road plant, isn't certain what will happen once AT&T pulls out of the two-story facility.

"Where that leaves us is a good question," Brandt said.

The plant sits on 36 acres of land and includes warehouse and office space. Ameritech uses its portion of the building for warehouse and distribution.

The Sheldon Road facility is an important link in Ameritech's distribution network, serving as the regional clearing center.

"Plymouth plays a big role — it is the receiving center for what we buy for Ameritech," Brandt said.

"We are not planning layoffs at the plant but it is one more piece that has to be put into the study that is under way. We are examining what our requirements are for warehousing and by later this summer we should have a better idea of what's going on."

Regardless of what Ameritech decides to do with the plant, AT&T's decision to leave the facility will affect government coffers.

Although it doesn't own the facility, AT&T pays property taxes on its equipment — which Musgrave said will be transferred to Cleveland.

Last year, AT&T paid a total of about $88,500 in personal property taxes on its Plymouth operation — $34,500 for AT&T Information Systems, $53,800 for AT&T Technologies and $269 for AT&T Michigan Inc.

No silver lining in a 'dust cloud'

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

Several Burger and Micol street residents, angered over the condition of their dirt roads, took complaints to the Plymouth Township Board Tuesday night.

The residents, armed with a petition, requested the board take action to authorize "a more complete and thorough chloride program" for their streets.

But once the dust settled, following almost an hour of debate, trustees simply voted to receive and file the residents' petition — as well as calling for future chloride spraying to be done on days other than Friday-Sunday.

By doing so, the board hopes residents will have time to complain if an inadequate spraying job is done.

The township currently pays for several chloride applications each year on all its dirt roads to help prevent dust. Officials explained they paid for the program even though it is a county responsibility.

"These residents are not only extremely dissatisfied by the dusty conditions prevalent in our neighborhood but find the township's responses to these conditions as being totally inadequate," said Elaine McGlinn of Burger. McGlinn said she was the spokeswoman for the 38 people who signed the petition.

"We consider an adequate chloride application as a basic service which is the responsibility of the township," she said.

"We can't open our windows, and we consider it a health hazard. The current dust conditions prevent residents from the full use of their property."

ALTHOUGH THE petition states Burger and Micol didn't receive a chloride application in April, DPW Director Tony Hollis said the streets were sprayed on April 27 — ahead of the normal schedule.

Dry conditions throughout April prompted the early spraying, Hollis said, adding that he has to work within a budget and is authorized for up to three applications per year.

"If the board wants to authorize more, I'll do it," he said. "But you could chloride once a week and you still may have dust."

"We know we have some problems with some roads," Supervisor Maurice Breen said. "It's a question of how much money, or to what extent, we want to expend on that type of program."

"Twenty years ago the township decided to go into its general fund to do more than the county is doing but the money all comes from one source — the taxpayer," Breen said.

"You have to remember that county roads are just that, county roads — they are not the township's responsibility."

Yet, Breen said, the township took Wayne County to court recently to insure the county provides the chloride service. The township's spraying is supposed to be over and above what the county does.

Townships in Wayne County are the only ones in the state which pay for their own chloride program, according to the supervisor.

"HAVE YOU taken this up with the Wayne County Road Commission?"

Attorney general rules on spouse-abuse law

By M.B. Dillon Ward and Gary M. Cates
staff writers

An attorney general's opinion regarding domestic violence will do little to change police practices in Canton and Plymouth townships, and the city of Plymouth, say local law enforcement officials.

Issued Tuesday, Attorney General Frank Kelley's opinion affirms a 1978 state law permitting police to make warrantless misdemeanor arrests without witnessing actual spouse abuse. Many Michigan police departments have been reluctant to test the law, fearing it could be held unconstitutional if challenged, said Dan Loepp, spokesman for the attorney general.

Canton and Plymouth police departments apparently have not been among them.

"We have incorporated the law into our policy, so it's not new to us. As far as taking advantage of the extra ability to make arrests (in domestic violence cases), we have and will continue to do so," said Canton Acting Chief Larry Stewart.

"We do have some reluctance to respond to every domestic violence call — we don't go to every one," added Stewart. "It depends on what's being said, the seriousness of the assault and many, many variables that the officer takes into consideration."

Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers was appointed just a month ago and in that time has not confronted the issue.

"I've seen departments where they are reluctant to make arrests without seeing the abuse take place, and I've seen departments that encourage such arrests. It really varies from community to community, department to department and officer to officer," he said.

Myers supports the law, saying "it certainly is a tool for law enforcement officers."

"I guess it's nice to have the opinion in our favor," he added.

A Minnesota study that polled large police departments suggests that "the best way to handle domestic situations is to avoid recidivism by arresting the abuser," Myers said.

By arresting the abuser, he or she is forced to seek counseling or help, he said.

"More than anything, arresting abusers forces them to come to grips with their problem. A task force on spouse abuse in Michigan has recommended arrests be made in dealing with such situations," added the chief.

Both Myers and Stewart caution that "by no means should (warrantless arrests) be a blanket policy. Officers have to make their judgment at the scene," says Myers.

The chief has seen "many cases where one spouse says, 'Take them away,' and the next day they are mad that their spouse was arrested."

Because of that, Myers believes it's still best to obtain a written statement from the abused spouse at the scene — even though the officer has the power to make the arrest without a signed complaint.

"Normally, just the idea that police have been to the home is enough to terminate the violence at that point," said Stewart, who also has found that "often, on the next day the complainant doesn't want to (press charges)."

"The severity of the attack and the attitude of the abuser are the kinds of variables that determine our next step. If the man is still aggressive and tells you that once you leave he's going to really clean her clock, we would take him, or the woman as the case may be, into custody."

FIRST STEP, a Wayne County agency for abused women, applauds the opinion.

"I think it's wonderful. The law has been on the books for several years, yet it hasn't been enforced," said Carol Kayner, First Step special needs advocate.

"Many, many times police will not do anything for a woman even though it's obvious what has happened.

"I think if you talked to police, they might say they have a very high injury or fatality rate, so they're very reluctant to get involved in family violence."

First Step would like to see Michigan legislators consider taking enforcement a bit further.

"In six other states, they arrest both parties if necessary (in situations where) the victim has had to hit back," said Kayner. "It sort of implies a social sanction against domestic violence and lets people know that this is not okay to do."

NEITHER STEWART nor Myers relishes memories of handling domestic violence cases.

It's the most dangerous call for an officer to respond to, says Myers.

"It was always one of my least favorite calls to go on when I was on the street. A lot of officers get assaulted by the person that made the call. A lot of times alcohol is involved and it impairs people's rationality."

"Family problems are just about the most uncomfortable situations there are to deal with," agreed Stewart, who suspects "a good number" of such cases go unreported. "An officer really can't sit there and counsel these people by virtue of training or time. A lot of times when I was on the road (prior to the law's passage in 1978), I was certain more violence would occur."

While Stewart and Myers contend officers "will feel a little bit better" in light of the opinion, "it's just that, an opinion," said Myers.

"The attorney general doesn't decide if something is constitutional or not.

Who knows — a court could turn around a week from now and declare such arrests unconstitutional. His opinion is a policy statement more than law," he said.

Stewart agrees, but points out that there are other cases in which officers

Community remembers soldiers who served

THE PLYMOUTH-CANTON community celebrated Memorial Day Monday with a parade and ceremony in Kellogg Park.

Participating in the commemoration were members of American Legion Passage-Gayde Post 391 and VFW Mayflower Lt. Gamble Post 6695.

Honorary parade marshal and speaker at the ceremony was State Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, whose 36th House District includes Plymouth and Canton. William B. Nicholas of the American Legion was grand marshal.

Master of Ceremonies was Steve Garagiola, sportscaster for Channel 7 who lives in Canton.

The National Anthem was played by the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Band, directed by James Griffith. Janine Bologna, a senior at Plymouth Salem High School, recited "In Flanders Field."

A WREATH of flowers was laid on the memorial rock by Roger Cloutier, American Legion Commander, and Don Vanlaningham, VFW Commander. The volley salute was presented by the

Playing taps was VFW Bugler Harry Krumm of Plymouth. The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Plymouth Mayor David Pugh.

The parade started at 10 a.m. at Theodore and Main and proceeded down Main Street to Kellogg Park, where the traditional ceremony was held.

Other dignitaries participating were Tim Hicks, VFW Post, aide to the grand marshal; Rev. Ronald Phelps, chaplain VA Hospital, invocation and benediction; Fern Burleson, Legion Auxiliary; and Vene-ta Hornbeck, VFW Auxiliary.

Woodcarver retires his knives

Advancing years and illness have caused Charlie Langell of Canton, the well-known wood carver who fashioned the Mayflower ship on display in the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth for several years, to carve his last major piece.

Now 76 years old and fighting a serious illness, he has laid aside his tools at his home on Canton Center Road and now will rest with his models which adorn his livingroom.

"I've had a good time," he said while looking at the bits he has saved for himself, "and now am ready to call it a career insofar as major pieces are concerned."

He has been doing top work with his carving knife for the past eight years and credits his ability to his boyhood study of the Great Lakes freighters which passed his home very day.

"I didn't take any lessons," he said with a serious tone in his voice. "I just whittled away until I became fascinated and then started my real career carving the images of fish."

Once he started he kept at it with the Mayflower ship as one of his prizes. Langell liked to tell that he sent to England for blueprints and followed them with his adjustments and did the job in eight months. It has stood as a classic model since then.

AMONG HIS other pieces is a replica of the Royal Yacht he sent to Queen Elizabeth in England, a replica of the Tashmoo (a pleasure boat which traveled from Detroit to Tashmoo Island every day of the summer). It was the main means of entrance into Tashmoo Park — then a rival of Bob-Lo.

A third piece which helped earn his reputation is the fishing craft he carved — a real copy of the craft which plied the water around England.

"While most folks like my carving of boats, my favorites are fish. My last one was what I called the Red Keckle, an unusual fish found in the Atlantic Ocean near the British Isles."

Aside from his boats Langell has carved feature bits of Indians riding in their lands, and horses in action.

"I don't know just why I took to fish but I guess it was my childhood days at Marine City when our main recreation was to go fishing."

As he pointed to the various displays in the livingroom, he was asked how much money they were worth. He just smiled.

"The officials in Canton Township wanted me to display them in a museum but when I told them I would only if they were insured for $96,000 they lost interest in a hurry."

While being invited by friends to go north for a vacation to relieve the lonesomeness of his widowed life in Canton, Langell has steadfastly refused.

"This is my home and I love to sit and look at the work I have done. That is satisfaction enough for me."

"I have put away my major carving knives and I will live the rest of my life in memories."

New Mason

William R. Heller of Hines Court, Plymouth, was among a group of 100 Masons from 11 southeastern Michigan counties to receive the 32nd Degree of Scottish Rite Freemasonry at the 298th semi-annual reunion of Detroit's Scottish Rite Bodies held recently in the Masonic Temple. The class was named in memory of John H. Mitchellson of Lincoln Park, a retired general supervisor of maintenance for Ford Motor Co.

Kelley's ruling upholds arrest policy

may make warrantless arrests, traffic accidents among them.

Loepp of the attorney general's office says there have been "no appellate challenges of the law as far as we know" and that "in his 24 years in office, Attorney General Kelley has had about 99 percent of his opinions upheld by the courts."

The opinion doesn't mean police can arbitrarily make arrests, he added. "Officers must have probable cause to believe a crime has been committed), see evidence of an assault or battery; and the complaining person would have to corroborate the story," he said.

The opinion was written because the attorney general's office became aware that "while the intention of the legislation was good, it was not being followed through," added Loepp. "Obviously, domestic violence is a large problem in society. The opinion is intended to build confidence in police, to let them know they can make these moves and not feel they have to look over their shoulders."

Perfectionism ineffective

Perfectionism not only does not guarantee success, it may impede creativity and productivity.

In a recent study on productivity and mental health, a group of salesmen who were perfectionists were determined to be under greater stress than their non-perfectionist peers. And the perfectionists weren't earning any more money than their counterparts. According to Dr. David Burns, the discouragement, depression, anxiety and pressure that often plague perfectionists can impede their creativity and productivity. Burns is the director of the Institute for Cognitive and Behavioral Therapies at the Pennsylvania Medical Center.

Residents seek dusty roads relief

Trustee James Irvine asked, "Any service you get from the township now we receive no money for and it is not our responsibility. I suggest that you and your neighbors put a torch under Mr. Lucas and the road commission," Irvine said.

McGlinn asked if the board wasn't supposed to be their representatives. "We went to court and won a lawsuit. I consider that pretty good representation," Irvine said. Breen echoed Irvine's comment.

"Why don't you call up Bill Lucas and give him all the hell you're giving me?" Breen said.

"Even though we got the judgment we've had to threaten to go back to court to get the county to do the work."

Resident Carol Burger asked how residents can get the county to spray when the township has to go to court.

Breen told the board the only way to respond to the complaints is to authorize the purchase of spraying equipment or to have the street paved. Because the current spraying is contracted, the township can't respray a road.

Burger and McGlinn said they weren't interested in buying equipment or having the road paved.

"WE JUST want our fair share," McGlinn said.

"I don't know if you're not getting more than your fair share," Breen said.

"We don't get that many calls. Most people recognize that you are going to get dust on a dirt road. Quite frankly, the dust control program in the township has been quite good," he said.

Trustee Abe Munfakh said he paid more to buy a house on a paved road and his tax dollars are going for chloride applications for others on dirt roads.

"We're already doing something beyond what our responsibility is," Munfakh said.

"Perhaps you should go back and ask your neighbors if they are interested in asphaltting," Trustee Andy Pruner said.

"If you can't afford paving it, you can't afford it but investigate it," Clerk Esther Hulsing said.

Building societies

A class at Bird Elementary School recently created a mini-society with its own trade and money units to learn more about societies and economies. Robert Kohdreck, a shopkeeper, is shown here counting his money. He sold football cards to other members of the mini society for one Samolian each. Other shops sold candy, cookies, school supplies, etc.

JCs seeking funds for 4th

The Plymouth Jaycees still need contributions to help finance the parade and fireworks for this year's Fourth of July celebration.

This year's parade will be the largest in the history of the Plymouth-Canton community, predicts Fred Eagle, parade co-chairman.

The Jaycees need money from local businesses and individuals to help cover expenses for the parade and are appealing to the community for support. Contributors thus far include Mary Childs, Tony Licata and C.L. Finlan Insurance. Contributors will be listed in the Observer.

Donations may be mailed to Plymouth Jaycees 1985 Fourth of July Parade, c/o 14728 Ronnie Lane, Livonia, Mich. 48154. For further information, contact Eagle at 464-6797.

Attention: Observer & Eccentric Travel Desk

Observers learn to spot air pollution

By Penny Wright
special writer

"Where there's smoke, there's fire," goes the old saying.

The Wayne County Air Pollution Control Division has a different version: "Where there's smoke, there could be an emissions violation."

The trick is to observe violators in the act of polluting and produce admissible evidence for possible court proceedings. The division's "smoke school" is a tool for that purpose.

"It's basically an eyeball technique," said Howard Murray, information director for the division. "Visible emissions can tell a trained observer a lot about the combustion processes and manufacturing operations in a plant."

EVERY SIX months, the Air Pollution Division of the Wayne County Health Department conducts a training school for visible emissions evaluators, or "smoke readers."

The object: to train observers to accurately judge the opacity (density) of a plume of smoke — or fumes, dust, mist or haze — in order to determine whether minimum emissions standards have been violated.

The skill requires a keen eye and an instinct for sleuthing.

During a recent session, more the 100 observers gathered at a grassy field in Westland. Clipboard and pen in hand, each observer fixed a steady gaze on a blue portable smoke generator. At the sound of a horn, a burst of smoke spewed from the stack, and the observers made an opacity reading.

THE PROCESS was repeated every 15 seconds, until 50 emissions had been recorded.

For example, grey or black smoke may indicate material is being burned with inadequate mixing of fuel and air. White smoke often results when combustion is cooled by excessive drafts of air. And brown or yellow smoke can indicate burning of such substances as asphalt with inadequate temperatures or poor mixing.

By the end of the three-day training school, an observer must have judged 50 emissions within a specified accuracy for certification. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency requires smoke readers to recertify every six months.

MURRAY EXPLAINED that visual observers offer many advantages over mechanical measurement devices: No expensive equipment is required, observations can cover a wide area, observers can distinguish sources and causes of emissions, and visual testimony is accepted by the courts.

"We encourage industry people to attend our sessions along with people from government and regulatory agencies," said Murray. "Industries have to meet visible emissions requirements, so the sessions teach them how to conduct self-appraisals."

Attending the school that day were employees of several large firms, including Great Lakes Steel, Ford Motor Co., General Motors, Detroit Diesel, Chrysler, Bendix and Detroit Edison.

Jim Keller, from GM's environment audit group, said, "The sessions give me a chance to recalibrate my eyes." Keller said his group travels to 176 GM plants throughout the U.S. and Canada over a two- or three-year period to make sure the facilities are in compliance with air quality standards.

He is required to keep track of the varied air emissions requirements of each state. According to Keller, Michigan is tough about enforcing air pollution requirements. So is California.

STRONG ENFORCEMENT has paid off. Howard Murray noted since EPA air quality standards were set in 1970, Wayne County has experienced as much as a 50 percent improvement in reducing polluting air emissions.

"The real drop in air emissions pollutants occurred from 1971-72 to 1980, when large sources (smokestacks) were brought into compliance," Murray said.

The curve has leveled out beginning from the 1980s, and the improvements have not increased as dramatically.

Wayne County is one of three governmental agencies statewide (others are City of Grand Rapids and Muskegon County) to assume local control over air pollution.

"We are hoping to improve the emissions quality with tighter controls by this fall," Murray said. Currently if the opacity of smoke, fumes and dust, from such sources as smokestacks, vehicles, parking lots and storage sites, exceeds 30 percent over a specified time interval, a violation occurs. The proposed opacity limit is tightened to 20 percent.

our land

Penny Wright

THE BIGGEST problem is particulate matter, or fugitive dirt, coming from unpaved roads, dirt piles and unsurfaced parking lots. "Canton and other townships have a big problem with this," Murray said.

Air pollution officials measure the success of their enforcement with the change in complaints they receive. In former years, most citizen complaints focused on smokestacks. Now more complaints deal with odors.

Bob Zabick, division enforcement supervisor, described a call from an apartment house where motorcycle gang members parked their bikes inside the building. "We found the gang was running the bikes inside the house while they tuned the machines."

On another call, residents of a neighborhood complained about unusual odors coming from a house.

"The division has its hands full," said Zabick. Funding cuts have reduced the number of field inspectors to 12. "We have had private citizens, who are involved with environmental groups, enroll in our smoke school," he added.

Wayne County maintains a 24-hour emergency phone line, 274-3366, for complaints about suspected air emission violations. Callers are encouraged to provide details about sightings especially, times when emissions were sighted and wind direction at time of sighting.

OU to award 806 degrees on Sunday

Oakland University will honor 696 undergraduates and 110 graduate students in five ceremonies Sunday.

Commencement speakers will be Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy; OU Trustee and Utica Community Schools Superintendent Donald L. Bemis; William L. Kath, executive engineer with Interior Systems Engineering of Ford Motor Co.; and Ann Douglas, Dorothy Rider Pool professor of nursing at St. Frances de Sales, Center Valley, Pa.

Individual ceremonies allow each academic unit to develop special programs to honor graduates and their parents.

Honored at the College of Arts and Sciences ceremonies will be Linda Nicholson of Utica and Robert McClory of Royal Oak. They are recipients of the Matilda R. and Alfred G. Wilson Awards given yearly in memory of the couple who donated their land and money to establish OU.

WANTED: BACKYARD POOLS

Backyard pools are needed in Plymouth, Canton and Northville by the Plymouth Community Family YMCA for its backyard swim program. If you have a pool and would like to donate its use for one to two hours a day for a two-week period, call the Y at 453-2904 for more information, including information on how pool donation can benefit your children. The pools are needed for the two-week periods of July 8-19, July 22 to Aug. 2 and Aug. 2-17.

ROTARY SEEKS HOSTS

Canton Rotary is seeking volunteer families to host Luis Ivan Escobedo Delado, 17, an exchange student from Mexico who will be arriving in August. While living in Canton, the student will be staying with three or four host families. To volunteer as a host family, or to obtain more information on the exchange student program, call Chuck Bares, Canton Rotary International youth chairman, at 453-2577 or 981-4400.

EMPLOYMENT DYNAMICS

Recruitment for the Employment Dynamics program is under way with applications being accepted through May. Purpose of the program is to help unemployed young adults improve their job-seeking skills and find permanent employment.

Participants must be ages 17-21 and live in western Wayne County. Participants must meet income guidelines. The program is sponsored by Growth Works Inc., Plymouth. Interested persons may contact Lissa Spitz at 455-4093.

Employment Dynamics is a federally funded program which provides young adults with job search skills training, paid on-the-job work experience and job placement assistance.

ART IN PARK

Art in the Park, held the past three years in conjunction with the Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival, is a juried show which will be held in Kellogg Park July 6, 7. For further information or for an entry application, contact Show Director Diane Quinn at 453-0001 or the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce at 453-1540.

FOURTH OF JULY

Plans are being made for the 1985 Fourth of July celebration in Plymouth featuring a parade and fireworks sponsored by the Plymouth Jaycees. Last year, the parade attracted some 4,500 spectators and the fireworks some 25,500 persons, according to Fred Eagle, parade co-chairman. The parade will begin at 10 a.m. Thursday, July 4. Parade entry forms soon will be available at Plymouth City Hall or Plymouth Township Hall or by calling Eagle at 464-6797. The parade also needs donations from businesses to cover the expenses of the parade. Send donations to: Plymouth Jaycees, c/o 1985 Fourth of July Parade, 14728 Ronnie Lane, Livonia MI 48154.

HISTORICAL MUSEUM EXHIBIT

Fairy lamps, sailing ships, perfume bottles, still banks all are being exhibited in Plymouth Historical Museum now through Sept. 8. Candle-burning fair lamps were made from the 1840s to the 1860s and used as night lights - an unusual three-sided lamp with figures of a cat, dog and owl is included in this rare collection. Among the sailing ships exhibited are such models as the Robert E. Lee, the Mayflower and the Titanic. The museum, located at 155 S. Main in Plymouth, is open to the public from 1-4 p.m. Thursday, Saturday, and Sunday. Admission.

The sale will continue until the books are sold out. Spree coupon books offer savings at well-known restaurants, movies, sports and amusements plus discounts for auto care, retail goods and on services. The charge is $8 per book.

YMCA GUIDE RECRUITMENT

Anyone interested in joining the YMCA Indian Guide program, which promotes meaningful relationships between parent and child, may sign up from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays at the Plymouth Community Family YMCA on Union Street in Plymouth.

The Guide programs include: Indian Guides for fathers and sons ages 5-9; Trail Blazers, fathers and sons age 10 and older; Braves, mothers and sons age 5 and older; Princesses, fathers and daughters, age 5-9; Trail Mates, fathers and daughters, age 9 and older; Maidens, mothers and daughters, age 5-8; and Trailettes, for mothers and their daughters, age 9 and older.

CANTON HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Canton Historical Society at 7:30 p.m. meets the second Thursday of each month in the Canton Historical Society Museum on Canton Center Road at Proctor.

MINOR HOME REPAIRS

The Conference of Western Wayne Minor Home Repair Program has been funded through Senior Alliance Inc., for fiscal year 1985. The program assists persons 60 and older and owning their home with minor home repair tasks. For information, call 525-8690.

COMPUTERS IN LIBRARY

Four Apple IIe computers are available for public use in the Dunning-Hough Library, 223 S. Main, Plymouth. Children younger than age 14 will be required to attend a training workshop or pass a users test. Children younger than age 8 must be accompanied by a parent while using the computer. All patrons must have a library card and must sign a responsibility card also signed by a parent or guardian. Once the responsibility card is on file at the library, patrons may reserve computer time and software. Rules and instructions for using the computers, the responsibility card, and a list of software are available at the library. For more information, call 453-0750.

WANTED: CIVIC RADIO HELP

Plymouth Area REACT Team (PART) is looking for new members for emergency radio communication (no experience necessary) and other community programs. All residents from Plymouth, Canton, Northville and surrounding areas are invited. The group meets at 8 p.m. the second Thursday of each month at Plymouth Township Hall, Mill at Ann Arbor Road. For more information, call 455-9609 or 453-7641.

'RIDE WITH US'

WEATHER SPOTTERS

Plymouth Township's Office of Emergency Preparedness is looking for volunteers to be trained in skills that will be used during a township emergency or disaster. Training includes damage assessment, shelter management, first aid and severe weather spotting. Training meetings are held on the fourth Saturday of each month from 9 a.m. to noon at the Plymouth Township Hall at the corner of Mill Street and Ann Arbor Road. Township residency not required.

VETERANS PROGRAM EXTENDED

Area Vietnam era and disabled veterans should be aware of recent changes affecting the Veterans Readjustment Appointments (VRA) program. VRA is a federal hiring program providing special, non-competitive hiring of these veterans. Originally scheduled to expire Sept. 30, 1984, the program has been extended through Sept. 30, 1986, through passage of the Veterans Benefits Improvement Act (PL 98-543). It is not expected that the VRA program will be extended beyond that date.

In addition to extending the program, PL 98-543 raised the entry grade level maximum from GS/WG-7 to GS/WG-9 and also provided limited appeal rights during the first year of appointment. A Vietnam era or disabled veteran who has completed no more than 14 years of education may qualify for a VRA. (This restriction may be waived for disabled veterans.) For further information, interested veterans may call the local American Legion hotline at 453-9494 and leave a message regarding information desired.

Symphony board made mistake

To the editor:

When the Plymouth Symphony Board members decided to fire Johan van der Merwe after the season was completed and said, "We're doing this for the good of the orchestra," it put me in mind of Adolf Hitler when he said, "We're doing this for the good of Germany."

Do they really know what they're doing? Do those people know what in the world they've done?

I'll tell you. They've: 1) fired an excellent conductor without due process; 2) trampled on the rights and feelings of the orchestra members; 3) completely disregarded a voiced vote by a majority of the membership of orchestra; 4) surrounded themselves with, listened to and allowed themselves to be influenced by self-seeking persons.

The symphony board has to learn one great lesson: The Plymouth Symphony is not in existence to serve the self-directed, self-seeking aims of the board. The board exists to serve the needs, direction and audience — present and future — of the Plymouth Symphony.

This cannot be achieved in the present state of affairs. The board must consult the orchestra membership by way of a representative in regard to every move they intend to make which would affect the future of the orchestra. Their dismissal of the former representative from attendance at board meetings because "there are board actions about which the orchestra membership need not be aware" speaks most strongly of their determination not to communicate their thinking to the membership at large.

What do they think they are — some autonomous anonymity? Some star chamber?

They can't manipulate without consultation. Does the board want change in the PSO? All right; consult, step by step, with the membership. Tell them the board's intentions and wait for feedback. Don't put those thoughts in the hands of a so-called "players' committee" that is supposed to communicate with the membership and doesn't.

The board doesn't ask; they make decisions and pass them on — decisions over which they have no right to have any control — soloists, conductors, literature, yes-or-no children's concerts.

They hire an orchestra general manager, at a salary many people would love to earn, to write what I think are boring, pedestrian program notes and make artistic decisions for which I'll bet you anything he has barely any qualifications.

I'll go you one bet farther — I'll bet you anything that they have, and have had for some time, someone like Charles Greenwell or Russell Reed in the wings, waiting to take over.

Before Gunther Herbig's appointment, the orchestra membership was given an opportunity to vote their approval. Is the PSO board any better than the DSO board? I don't care how fantastic the new conductor may be; they have no right to bring him/her in without a tryout and approval by the orchestra.

As awkward an allusion as it may seem, would you buy a new car without test driving it? What makes me really angry is the thought that, long before the April 18 meeting of the program committee, the board probably already knew that Johan was not going to be asked back. Still, they let him attend that meeting and plan what he thought was going to be his season. What a contemptible farce!

If they had any collective brains, they'd have kept Johan for at least one more year and not thrown the wet blanket of upheaval over the PSO on its 40th anniversary. Their actions probably won't destroy the PSO, but I know from 35 years' experience as a orchestra musician that the group will be severely demoralized.

I don't care how much money the board brought in this year; that's their job. Stick to it. They should not apply themselves to areas in which they have no expertise.

The next time the board decides to fire a conductor, I hope it will have the courage to do it to his/her face — person to person — not through the anonymity of a letter — and give him/her a chance to say farewell to the orchestra that he/she had sweated blood to mold and train and lead to the greatest heights of achievement in its 40-year history.

The PSO board is a group of mortals; they shouldn't play God.

Robert W. Jones
Plymouth

Faculty unhappy about windows

To the editor:

We wish to express appreciation for past improvements to the physical environment at Allen School — flooring and lighting in the gymnasium, new heating plant, carpeting, painting, etc.

We recognize that Michigan is in a region of severe winters, and are aware that the window areas in our three older wings are excessive. We, both as teachers and as taxpayers, also are interested in energy saving.

However, other aspects need to be considered in operating schools. A part of educational philosophy has been that a pleasant physical environment is conducive to student learning. Neither should energy conservation be of greater importance than child safety.

Replacement of glassed areas by panels has been started in our entryways and newer wing.

This has created blind entrances which make it impossible to supervise children visually — and thus poses a threat to their safety. It has heretofore been a practice for any adult passing to be aware of any difficulty outside and to take necessary action. This is no longer an option because there is no way to see.

Two small rooms with narrow, slit-type windows have had over three-fourths of the window area completely blocked. Walking into the small classroom, the appearance (even with the lights on) is that of a continual rainy day.

The Allen School building will be here for many years after present board members and school personnel have gone. None of us wish to leave a legacy of mistakes in either building or renovation.

It is our understanding that the school board has the responsibility for final approval of exchanging of windows for panels. We strongly urge board members to meet with us at Allen to see what has been done.

Symphony board made mistake

To the editor:
When the Plymouth Symphony board members decided to fire Johan van der Merwe after the season was completed and said, "We're doing this for the good of the orchestra," it put me in mind of Adolf Hitler when he said, "We're doing this for the good of Germany."

Do they really know what they're doing?
Do those people know what in the world they've done?

I'll tell you. They've: 1) fired an excellent conductor without due process; 2) trampled on the rights and feelings of the orchestra members; 3) completely disregarded a voiced vote by a majority of the membership of orchestra; 4) surrounded themselves with, listened to and allowed themselves to be influenced by self-seeking persons.

The symphony board has to learn one great lesson: The Plymouth Symphony is not in existence to serve the self-directed, self-seeking aims of the board. The board exists to serve the needs, direction and audience — present and future — of the Plymouth Symphony.

This cannot be achieved in the present state of affairs. The board must consult the orchestra membership by way of a representative in regard to every move they intend to make which would affect the future of the orchestra. Their dismissal of the former representative from attendance at board meetings because "there are board actions about which the orchestra membership need not be aware" speaks most strongly of their determination not to communicate their thinking to the membership at large.

What do they think they are — some autonomous anonymity? Some star chamber?

They can't manipulate without consultation. Does the board want change in the PSO? All right; consult, step by step, with the membership. Tell them the board's intentions and wait for feedback. Don't put those thoughts in the hands of a so-called "players' committee" that is supposed to communicate with the membership and doesn't.

The board doesn't ask; they make decisions and pass them on — decisions over which they have no right to have any control — soloists, conductors, literature, yes-or-no children's concerts.

They hire an orchestra general manager, at a salary many people would love to earn, to write what I think are boring, pedestrian program notes and make artistic decisions for which I'll bet you anything he has barely any qualifications.

I'll bet you one bet farther — I'll bet you anything that they have, and have had for some time, someone like Charles Greenwell or Russell Reed in the wings, waiting to take over.

Before Gunther Herbig's appointment, the orchestra membership was given an opportunity to vote their approval. Is the PSO board any better than the DSO board? I don't care how fantastic the new conductor may be; they have no right to bring him/her in without a tryout and approval by the orchestra.

As awkward an allusion as it may seem, would you buy a new car without test driving it? What makes me really angry is the thought that, long before the April 18 meeting of the program committee, the board probably already knew that Johan was not going to be asked back. Still, they let him attend that meeting and plan what he thought was going to be his season. What a contemptible farce!

If they had any collective brains, they'd have kept Johan for at least one more year and not thrown the wet blanket of upheaval over the PSO on its 40th anniversary. Their actions probably won't destroy the PSO, but I know from 35 years' experience as an orchestra musician that the group will be severely demoralized.

I don't care how much money the board brought in this year; that's their job. Stick to it. They should not apply themselves to areas in which they have no expertise.

The next time the board decides to fire a conductor, I hope it will have the courage to do it to his/her face — person to person — not through the anonymity of a letter — and give him/her a chance to say farewell to the orchestra that he/she had sweated blood to mold and train and lead to the greatest heights of achievement in its 40-year history.

The PSO board is a group of mortals; they shouldn't play God.

Faculty unhappy about windows

To the editor:

We wish to express appreciation for past improvements to the physical environment at Allen School — flooring and lighting in the gymnasium, new heating plant, carpeting, painting, etc.

We recognize that Michigan is in a region of severe winters, and are aware that the window areas in our three older wings are excessive. We, both as teachers and as taxpayers, also are interested in energy saving.

However, other aspects need to be considered in operating schools. A part of educational philosophy has been that a pleasant physical environment is conducive to student learning. Neither should energy conservation be of greater importance than child safety.

Replacement of glassed areas by panels has been started in our entryways and newer wing.

This has created blind entrances which make it impossible to supervise children visually — and thus poses a threat to their safety. It has heretofore been a practice for any adult passing to be aware of any difficulty outside and to take necessary action. This is no longer an option because there is no way to see.

Two small rooms with narrow, slit-type windows have had over three-fourths of the window area completely blocked. Walking into the small classroom, the appearance (even with the lights on) is that of a continual rainy day.

The Allen School building will be here for many years after present board members and school personnel have gone. None of us wish to leave a legacy of mistakes in either building or renovation.

It is our understanding that the school board has the responsibility for final approval of exchanging of windows for panels. We strongly urge board members to meet with us at Allen to see what has been done.

Zoo comes alive with ideas, money

WE APPLAUD the rejuvenation of the Detroit Zoological Society, which recently sent out a mailing soliciting new members and boasting of its $600,000 investment in the zoo's new penguinarium.

And we encourage zoo lovers to heed the call for $35 family memberships, which not only admit your family to the zoo at Woodward and 10 Mile for the year, but are tax-deductible.

A year ago a team of Observer & Eccentric Newspapers staffers found the city-owned Detroit Zoo was in deteriorating shape, with no capital budget and a moribund Zoological Society.

All across the country, we found a trend toward shifting control of zoos to private zoological societies or to county government. Only in Detroit was a city government desperately trying to hang on to control.

Since then, the Zoological Society, under executive director Charles M. Hammond, has come alive with ideas to improve the 54-year-old zoo and raise money.

WE REPEAT the advice of 1984:

● Don't donate to the Detroit Zoological Park, the city fund. Your $1 contribution to the city won't raise the $6 million zoo budget to $6,000,001. It will mean the city will reduce its subsidy, and not one chimpanzee will get an extra banana.

● Instead donate to the Detroit Zoological Society, PO Box 8237, Royal Oak 48068. Your gift will be used for capital improvements, such as the new penguinarium, a new gate, new signs and educational graphics, two male chimps at Island Lake, an aeration system for the duck ponds, improvements in the elephant, tiger and lion houses.

The zoological society, under director Charles M. Hammond, has come alive with ideas to improve the 54-year-old zoo and raise money.

STATE GOVERNMENT had a role in these improvements. Instead of merely subsidizing the city, the legislature this year came up with $15 million in capital improvement money, with plenty of strings attached.

Obviously our legislators learned the bitter lesson of the Detroit Institute of Arts and the Main Library — whatever money Detroit gets from the state will not be used to supplement those cultural institutions but to enable Detroit to reduce its own contribution while clutching political control.

Meanwhile, we would encourage the city of Detroit to learn the lesson of the British Empire which gave its colonies independence when it found it was being bled dry by them.

In the same way that Detroit surrendered its TB hospital in Northville Township and its prison in Plymouth Township, it should think of turning over control of the zoo — either to a consortium of county governments, the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority or the Zoological Society.

Giggles give way to health concern

METROPOLITAN OPERA week in Detroit. Sellout crowd for "LaBoheme." Act I intermission: no line outside men's restroom; 18 in line outside women's restroom.

Act II intermission: two men outside men's restroom; 20 in line outside women's restroom.

Same old story that freelance writer Penny Wright reported last March: When there is a line outside a restroom, the chances are 100 in 100 that it will be a women's line. It's true at the Masonic, it's true at Michigan Stadium, it's true at Pine Knob — and so on.

She talked about it with building managers. Most just didn't see it as a problem. "Go before you leave home," said some. "Arrive a little early and go then," said others.

She talked about it with architecture students — most of them males. Most men didn't see a problem. But women students unloaded their own tales of inadequate restrooms.

She surveyed our readers, and they poured out their war stories.

Whenever one brings up the subject of long lines outside women's restrooms, the first reaction one gets is an embarrassed giggle. Then the conversation gets very, very serious.

The situation is deteriorating, despite the political advances of the women's movement. Compare the well-advertised restrooms of the old downtown Hudson's store to the practically hidden restrooms of suburban malls.

It's more than a matter of convenience. It's a matter of public health. Dr. Jack Lapides, retired professor of urology at the University of Michigan, reports that of 250 women with recurrent urinary tract infections, the majority were infrequent voiders, urinating once in five to 10 hours. Lapides believes they distend their bladders by waiting so long, weakening their anti-bacterial defenses.

In short, long lines in restrooms are harmful to women's health. Moreover, they take the fun out of the opera, the theater, the football game.

We are inclined to endorse the view of the female architect from Maryland who suggested women's water closets should outnumber men's by 2½ to 1.

'Fall in, soldier'

Ethics become part of the job

WHAT'S MORE important — personal ethics or business ethics? Or are the two inseparable?

Was the recent E.F. Hutton check kiting a case of a corporation spitting in the eye of the law or of a few overzealous employees seeking advancement on the corporate ladder?

Was General Electric's guilty plea to defrauding the Air Force by filing 108 false claims for payment a case of corporate greed or personal greed?

Business scandals are nothing new. Gerald F. Cavanagh in his book, "American Business Values," reports that during the 1970s, 11 percent of the largest U.S. firms were convicted of crimes ranging from bribery and criminal fraud to illegal campaign contributions, tax evasion or some type of price fixing. Some major corporations had as many as four convictions.

Perhaps some good has come of the convictions. Cavanagh reports that almost 75 percent of all U.S. firms now have codes of ethics. Business leaders like W. Michael Blumenthal, chairman of Burroughs Corp., have attempted to address business values. Blumenthal has proposed that business executives form a professional association to formulate a code of ethics and set up a review panel for self-monitoring. While Blumenthal found other CEOs in agreement on the need to set up such a review board, he found his business colleagues couldn't agree on what issues such a board should address.

That shouldn't be surprising. The question of personal vs. corporate ethics is analogous to the chicken and the egg debate. Do personal values shape the corporation? Or does the corporation shape the individual?

If we're unsure about the answers, we can't yet look to our business schools for much help. Cavanagh tells us that among graduate schools of business, only 16 percent offer formal ethics courses. Harvard Business School, called the "West Point of capitalism," didn't plug the gaping hole in its curriculum by offering ethics courses until the late '70s.

If ethics is foreign to some of today's business leaders and graduate students, perhaps it won't be to tomorrow's. U.S. Secretary of Education William Bennett is urging elementary and high schools to stress the three C's: character, content and choice. According to a 1984 Gallup Poll, 68 percent of parents of public school children said a top goal of schools should be to develop standards of right and wrong. This was second behind the 74 percent who cited teaching children how to speak and write properly.

Business leaders are often criticized for looking at their businesses only in terms of that which can be measured: net income, return on investment, market share. And sometimes it's this obsession with numbers that prevents advances in qualitative factors: quality of product, quality of worklife. Perhaps it even contributes to discouraging corporate climates that reward ethical behavior and punish unethical behavior.

But if the push for ethics from elementary to graduate schools is sustained, corporate America should take the opportunity and at least meet it half way.

Case histories outline real problem

We've got a problem in Middle America — a much larger problem than we imagine.

Some folks would call it teen-age drinking. But that would be a lie to let that label stand.

In fact, the misuse of alcohol has become so pervasive in American society that we are being driven to enact laws protecting children from their own parents.

On the face of it, this new law out in Farmington Hills sounds good. In short, it penalizes adults for serving alcohol to minors at house parties. Its intent is squarely aimed at graduation parties.

Those of us in the area are keenly aware of alcohol-related deaths in the past year or so. Most recently four youths have been killed in auto accidents.

It's a slaughter, for sure, but a slaughter with a not-so-subtle twist — one that should be remembered by the adults, the decision makers in our hometowns.

THESE CHILDREN who were killed in auto accidents were sober. That's correct. Sober. It was the other driver, the adults, in the other car who were drunk. These were just a few of the tens of thousands of cases of children pitted against adults — drunk adults.

And although it has been drunk adults killing sober children, this law really is aimed at the children. Because, well, because adults have lost control of themselves and their own children in very many cases.

As defined in this ordinance, "adult" translates to 17-year-old. Few of us really believe that 17-year-olds are adults. But like many other laws and ordinances, this most recent government mandate says it's so.

And the intent of a law will define how it is enforced. The intent of this particular ordinance is to make sure that teen-agers aren't serving alcohol to their friends while mom and dad are out doing whatever — maybe even drinking.

It will be a cold day in hell before the police raid an adult-sponsored party to see if the children are drinking alcohol. Besides, kids and adults rarely, if ever, drink together.

Rather, each group has its own social haunts and rituals to fulfill. The only place they meet after fulfilling the alcohol-induced custom is on the road — frequently head-on.

In truth, children are about the same as they always have been. They love, trust and admire adults. And they enjoy more than anything else imitating adults.

Alcohol abuse is the legacy this adult generation has left to its children. If teen-agers are abusing it so readily, it's only because they have learned it from the adults.

Adults like to pretend they are real concerned about this drinking situation. But most of it is just that — pretending. Recently a teen-age group labeling itself SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk) held a seminar.

The children wanted to teach the adults. But few adults came. From a high school of more than 1,000 students, only 30 or 40 parents cared enough to attend, to hear what their children had to tell them.

We've got a problem in Middle America today. The adults are consuming the children, and the cries of the young are no longer heard by the parents.

discover Michigan

DID YOU KNOW that the Michigan Constitution which went into effect Jan. 1, 1964, contains 12 articles? The cornerstone of Michigan law includes a declaration of rights and covers elections, general government, the legislative, executive and judicial branches, local government, education, finance and taxation, property, public officers and employment. The final article covers amendment and revision.

Go ahead—talk to yourself!

"I WANT you to start talking to yourself."

When I give these instructions to a patient, I often get strange looks in return. Many people assume that a shrink's job is to tell you to stop talking to yourself, not to begin.

However, learning how to speak to ourselves in a healthy manner can serve as an effective way of coping with stress and avoiding depression.

Certain erroneous beliefs have been floating around in our society for centuries, and most of us have somehow picked them up and made them part of our own attitudes.

FOR EXAMPLE, you know that a neighbor looks down on parents who leave their children with a baby-sitter for any more than a few hours. You and your spouse have planned a runaway weekend up North and have arranged for the kids to stay with a baby-sitter.

Suddenly, however, you feel that you should keep the weekend a classified secret lest this neighbor find out and lose respect for you. Somewhere in your head, you're saying to yourself, "Everybody should like me and approve of what I do."

Where did that belief come from? When you think about it logically, it doesn't make much sense because there is no way we can please everyone, and if we try, we'll certainly never please ourselves. Nevertheless, probably all of us at times have said the same thing to ourselves — that people should like us and the things we do.

HERE ARE some examples of other illogical beliefs that often influence our feelings and behavior.

- "I must be the best."

In our competitive world, it is very hard to admit that you are average in anything of importance. To be average is often equated in our minds with being unimportant and insignificant. How many times have we avoided doing things, things we may enjoy or benefit from, because "I never was very good at it."

- "The influence of the past cannot be overcome."

This belief may prompt a person who was abused as a child to resign himself to the fact that he will never be able to trust or become close to others. Another person may conclude that because she has always been a private person, she'll never be able to display affection.

- "Certain acts are unforgivable."

Many people carry the burden of guilt needlessly throughout their lives. A tragic example of the impact of this belief is the number of our Vietnam veterans who continue to psychologically torture themselves for things that occurred 20 years ago when they were frightened, inexperienced kids thrust into the horror of war. They are unable to put their actions into perspective, they are unable to believe that forgiveness can ever be obtained.

- "We have little control over our unhappiness."

People tend to stoically resign themselves when things are going bad; they fail to take steps to make things better because they believe there is nothing they can do. However, most of the unhappiness we experience is the result of — or at least intensified by — our hypersensitivity to, over-reactions against, and faulty interpretations of what happened.

- "The worst will happen."

I don't know who Murphy, of Murphy's Law fame, was, but there have been days when I thought he was an optimist. How often have we worried needlessly because we convinced ourselves that the worse would happen?

The list of negative beliefs could go on and on.

WE CAN best combat the effects of these negative beliefs by becoming psychology

Dennis Sugrue

more aware of them, and by confronting them with reason.

The next time you are feeling uncomfortable, listen to what you are saying to yourself. Chances are you're saying something negative which is untrue or is a gross exaggeration. Point out the fallacy to yourself. Talk to yourself — emphasize the positive.

Nutritionists tell us we are what we eat. Likewise, we feel what we think. If we feed ourselves with negative statements based on false assumptions or beliefs, we will indeed feel tense and despondent.

If we can instead speak to ourselves from a positive, reasonable perspective, our outlook can improve significantly.

Recycling cuts waste

By Timothy Nowicki
special writer

DURING "Recycle Week" in Michigan, the Michigan Recycling Coalition sought to enlighten people about the advantages of recycling what otherwise would be trash.

One advantage of recycling rubbish — such as plastic milk cartons, bottles or cans — is the reduction in volume of solid waste.

Waste is now disposed of in landfills that are rapidly reaching their capacity. These disposal sites also take away wildlife habitat that could support various species of plant and animal life.

HABITATS THAT are lost, ironical-

nature

ly, demonstrate how waste should be treated. A major concept discovered by natural scientists is the complex web of cycles in nature.

Everything in nature is recycled to support the continuation of life on Earth. Individual organisms like trees and animals exhibit a life cycle of birth-growth-maturity-death. But in the natural world, the small component parts of a tree or animal are all recycled back into the natural scheme — to be used again by another individual's life cycle.

Through the years, the natural world has developed these cycles to preserve and ensure that life will continue with the limited resources available. That is why life has been on Earth for millions of years, because each individual and every molecule of that organism will be recycled.

RECYCLING IS a simple process that each person can do and which will make a contribution.

Paper drives and recycling motor oil are convenient ways to begin thinking about recycling. Simply flattening cans is another way to reduce the volume of trash, so that you do not have to use as many trash bags.

A Degree of Excellence

Wayne State University

What Distinguishes Wayne State University As One of the Nation's Leading Urban Universities?

You're trying to forecast your future. You've decided that looking on the bright side, it's pretty grim. You have the potential, but lack the credential: a Degree of Excellence.

Wayne State University can help you shape your future. We offer 600 areas of study leading to 300 graduate and undergraduate degrees. Courses are offered early morning to late evening. You can select from a wide array of courses even if job or other commitments impose time problems. Three out of four of our students work at least part time, and half are employed full time. It's tough, but they manage.

If you're willing to make the commitment, you can earn not just a degree, but a Degree of Excellence.

As a leading urban research university, Wayne State University faculty members and students are among the best and brightest around. The average WSU student ranked in the top third of his or her high school senior class. Frankly, if you didn't compile at least a 2.75 grade point average in high school, you'll be hard pressed to gain admission. Rigid standards? You bet. But if you meet our standards, you'll encounter stimulating intellectual challenges daily in our classrooms and labs.

As a Wayne State student, you'll have the advantage of being part of an ethnically diverse student body, learning in a truly cosmopolitan atmosphere in the heart of the Detroit Cultural Center.

Diversity.

Your learning experiences don't stop at the classroom door. They continue in your friendships among the diverse student body. The male-female population is nearly equal. We are 72 percent white, 22 percent black and 6 percent other minority. There are 1,200 foreign students representing many parts of the globe.

We are located in the Cultural Center and our neighbors offer still more opportunities. The Detroit Institute of Arts, International Institute, Detroit Science Center, Center for Creative Studies, main Detroit Public Library and many others are nearby.

The total environment is stimulating, challenging and rewarding. This exciting urban area is also one of the metropolitan area's safest neighborhoods, with a lower overall crimes against people rate than all but a couple of suburbs.

Of America's 2,500 colleges and universities, the Carnegie Commission identified 98 as major (Class

I) research universities. Wayne State University ranks among this elite 4 percent of leading research universities.

In addition to the main campus at the hub of the Ford, Lodge and Chrysler freeways, WSU has convenient centers in East Detroit, Sterling Heights, Southfield, Birmingham, Southgate, Eastside and Northwest Detroit.

For more information, call your "Opportunity Line," 577-1000, from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday.

THEY'RE PLANNING a farewell reception and open house for Sister Mary De Salles, principal of Ladywood High School for the past seven years.

The party, arranged by the Parent Teacher Guild and the Ladywood Mothers Club, will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the auditorium of the school. Alumnae and friends are invited to attend.

In her seven years at Ladywood, Sister De Salles has been responsible for a remarkable growth. The school has reached new levels of excellence in academics, music and athletics — achieving state honors in all three fields.

She has been transferred to Our Lady of Refuge School at Orchard Lake. Sister Mary Alexander, former assistant principal, has been named principal at Ladywood.

CELIA STUART, junior arts theater major at Eastern Michigan University, has a role in "Waltz of the Toreadors." Celia will play The New Maid in the French farce that was winner of the New York Drama Critics Award for best foreign play of the year.

Although she doesn't appear until the latter part of the production, her role is most significant in the development of Jean Anouilh's comic yet pseudo-serious tale. The play opened on Broadway in 1957.

"The Waltz of the Toreadors" is scheduled for three performances in Quirk Auditorium. Curtain time will be 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 6, 7 and 8. For reservations and information, call EMU Theatre Box Office, 487-1221.

Celia was active in drama during her high school years at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park. She was one of the Plymouth Park Players who traveled to Villach, Austria, two years ago for the international theater festival. Celia's parents are Alan and Lois Stuart of Plymouth.

KAY YEAGER came in second in the regional School Bus Rodeo and now she's eligible for the state finals. The Plymouth Canton Community Schools bus driver will compete for the state title June 19 in Eaton Rapids.

Regional competition was hosted by the Livonia Public Schools. The rodeos are co-sponsored by AAA Michigan and the Michigan Association for Pupil Transportation.

Drivers are rated on their ability to drive a standard school bus in narrow areas, back into a stall and perform other maneuvers demonstrating basic driving judgment. Contestants also take oral and written tests to rate their knowledge of safety regulations for crossing railroad tracks, loading elementary students and other routine situations.

Livonia drivers Mary Ellen Wilson, who came in first in the regional, and Ruby Cooper, who came in third, also qualified for the state finals. Thirty-eight of Michigan's top school bus drivers will compete for the state title.

EVERY FOUR years there's a big dance festival in Rzeszow, Poland, and the next one will be in 1986. A change in regulations will allow dancers under 18 to participate in the festival for the first time.

This decision, made a quarter of a world away, has stirred excitement in Canton and Plymouth. Some of the Centennial Dancers may go to Rzeszow.

The group was formed here in 1980 by the Polish National Alliance. Five years later, the majority of the 104 dancers — about 50 percent of them — still come from the Plymouth-Canton community. About 40 percent are Livonia residents with Northville, Westland and Garden City completing the membership.

One of their big assets is the number of boys in the group, 35 of them. Most Polish dance groups of this size have only 10 male members.

The Centennial Dancers won best unit prize in the Farmington Memorial Day Parade. They were told parade-watcher response was in their favor. They'll be in the Plymouth Fourth of July Parade, the Canton Country Festival Parade, the Wyandotte and Livonia ethnic festivals. And they always

8 area homes open for league tour

By Elinor Graham
staff writer

The Plymouth Symphony League's 1985 home tour has been tagged "A Home for All Seasons," for the biennial event has a new twist this year.

The eight homes on display are not confined to the usual "rich and the beautiful," although that category will not be ignored. Three exceptionally elegant homes in the rolling hills of Plymouth Township are on the tour.

What has been added is variety — complementing lifestyles of young professionals, singles, newly marrieds, couples with starting families and retirees.

Contemporary condominiums in a secluded wooded area have an appeal for singles, young marrieds and those looking forward to a serene retirement.

The East Lake Victorian house was built in old Plymouth in the 1880s by a transplanted New Englander. A hideaway apartment over Emma's Restaurant in downtown Plymouth has an unexpected roof garden. A quaint frame house built in the 1920s has been carefully renovated, making it the perfect starter home for newlyweds or for empty nesters. And the country home created by a couple with a small daughter is a real charmer.

THE HOUSES were selected with an eye for beauty — homes for all seasons of life — filled with ideas to inspire and admire.

Hours for the two-day tour are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday, June 7 and noon to 5 p.m. Saturday, June 8. Admission is $7.50 and tickets may be purchased in advance in Plymouth at me and mr. Jones, Beitners Jewelry and Kober's Rite Shoes, in Canton Township at Book Break, in Northville at Orin Jewelers, or by calling 453-5181. Mail order tickets are available until May 31 by writing to Home Tour Tickets, 11808 Beacon Hill Drive, Plymouth, MI 48170.

Special home tour attractions have been arranged by the league.

Each of the homes will be accented by an antique car in the driveway. Refreshments will be provided in the garden of one of the stops. Ticket holders will receive discounts on meals, June 1-8, at several of Plymouth's fine eateries, Plymouth Landing, Hillside Inn, Emma's, Dairy King, Ann Arbor Road House and the Mayflower Hotel.

Tour guests will have an opportunity to win an item that reflects the personality of some of the homeowners: reproduction of an oak curio eight-day grandfather clock, a Baldwin brass candlestick lamp with pierced shade, a face cord of apple firewood, a signed designer natural cotton/hemp wallhanging, a 24-inch cut-glass circular panel by Tim Iovan, and a plant.

PAT HANN designed her personal condo on three levels. Her bedroom and daughter Amanda's and a bath are on the entry level. The upper level boasts a European-design kitchen done in a soft peach matching the living room couch, a wraparound deck and a greenhouse with a circular window. The lower level has an entertainment walk-out area including a bar and Amanda's playroom. Focal point on this level is an original hide-a-bed, stripped and oiled by Hann, who refinished many of her older pieces of furniture.

Sylvia and Joseph Garcia have been renovating their Victorian house on Union Street for two years. All the screens and storm doors had to be custom made because none were standard sizes. The pot-bellied stoves and gas lights have been replaced but many of the original features remain — the door hinges and knobs, stained glass windows, maple woodwork, oak moldings with bullseye corners.

The kitchen phone area once housed a dumb waiter. Furnishings are authentic antiques and the small barn in the back yard was the carriage house.

BETH AND JACK, a pair of do-it-yourselfers, removed three layers of wallpaper from the guest room and parlor. Beth stenciled the walls with her own designs. She made the quilts, pillow shams, comforter and pierced lamp shades. Jack removed windows, installed a fireplace, refurbished the bathroom, and created a cathedral ceiling in the kitchen as part of a complete remodeling project. Jack's dad made all the wooden toys, the lamp display case, loveseat and oak shelves.

The results are a beautifully appointed country home reflecting the love that pervades every corner of every room.

Janet and Brian's apartment is a showcase for their collections — teddy bears, pewter, old cameras. All their furniture is antique or homemade. How so much fits in the small apartment over a restaurant, without looking crowded, is a tribute to Janet's decorating talents. The charming rooftop garden is an added delight.

KIM AND STEVEN renovated their '20s vintage frame house and decorated it in Williamsburg shades of blue, cranberry and beige. The result is like something out of Country Home magazine. Door knobs came from the Saline Antique Mart. Steve's great-grandfather slept in the Victorian cradle. Stereo equipment is tucked behind an old maple jelly cabinet, the television hidden in a carved ash country cupboard, and an old oak treadle sewing machine is equipped with a modern electric sewing machine head. Kim's attention to detail is noted in her stenciling on the country curtain tie-backs, pillows and framed cross-stitching.

THE GEPHART'S outstanding Plantation bungalow was built in 1958 and renovated in 1984. Plymouth architect Robert Novak designed the changes to create a comfortable home for the couple and their five children. The main kitchen floor is made with matching fireplace brick, but covered with five coats of verathane for practicality.

The recreation room has an oak floor and a mirrored wall for the children's ballet practice. It has a Pewabic tile fireplace, a second full kitchen designed for the older children, and on the west wall is a map of Moscow, printed in Russian.

The girls' rooms have walk-in closets, private bath and vanity changing room. The master suite, originally designed as a mother-in-law apartment, is now a combination bedroom and office. Antiques throughout the home are British or family heirlooms. The circular table and chairs came from an English pub.

DIANE AND HAROLD fell in love at

Please turn to Page 4

Diane and Harold Berquist's Tudor home is full of special features — jacuzzi bath, saunas, hobby room, game room. Graham and Bea Laible's 1930 Ford Victoria is one of the 14 antique cars that add a bonus of interest to the league tour.

The welcome mat is out at the Kohmeschers' and of course it's a braided one at their carefully restored home. The pleasant entry leads to a beautifully appointed country home.

Friends rally to put Canton driver in race

"Say Yes to Michigan" — a familiar phrase, to which I respond. "Michigan, say Yes to Michigan-ers."

That's right! Let's put our money behind a Michigander, specifically, a Cantonite. Jim Hull is his name, and racing is his game. If you caught the late news on Channel 2 last Thursday, you already may know all about the problem. But in case you missed it, or perhaps would like to learn more, here goes.

Jim lives in Canton with his wife, June, and their five children. He works at the G.M. Tech Center in Warren, and is having a frustrating time getting backers for his upcoming race. Jim is now into big-time racing, but has plenty of experience behind him. As a matter of fact, he has been racing anything on wheels from go-carts right on up to your basic Grand National car for the past 13 years.

Just a couple of years ago I did a Chatte column about his racing at Waterford Hills raceway. Just last year we encouraged everyone to get out to Michigan Raceway and catch him in the Champion Sparkplug 400 where he was racing with the big boys. If you made the race or if you watched it on TV, you heard all about him as the announcers told of the local boy, who was thwarted by two engine fires. Sad but true, but not the end of the line for Jim, only the beginning. He is back this year for the Miller High 400.

THAT'S A QUICK background. I'll give you more details later but I'd like you to start thinking of people you know who might be interested in sponsoring a Michigander on the racetrack. After all how many Michiganders are we supporting on the racetrack? Which state is known for automobiles? Why don't we have a fantastic race team featuring a fantastic Michigander?

Actually, if you have ever been interested in sponsoring anyone, this is the time to do it. A "spot," which could be a hood, a quarter panel, etc. goes for $1000 in this race, compared to $15,000 in most other Grand National races.

We have a 13-year veteran who already has a ride contracted, who can't get a major sponsor. The procedure itself is confusing, and a lot different than I had imagined.

YOU SIGN A contract for the use of someone's car, then you must secure the sponsors to foot the bill. The sponsors get their names on your car, and with live coverage of the race, that's a lot of air-time for their name.

When we are talking about $15,000 per spot on the car, you can see why you need corporate sponsors.

Anyway, Jim has a car contracted for the June 16 race, a 1985 Monte Carlo owned by Dick Bahre of Statesville, N.C. The car is No. 23. Now here comes the terrific part.

As I mentioned before, Jim works at the G.M. Tech Center and the folks out there want Jim to know that Dick Bahre is not the only one who has confidence in him. They are doing all they can to see that he gets out on that track June 16. They have started a real grass roots effort to assure his success.

Fellow workers are signing up for $12 a person. In return, each name is signed on the car. The names won't be picked up by the television cameras as easily as a corporate name that takes up an entire hood, but fame and fortune are not what they are after. They have set out to do it with or without a corporate sponsor. Sort of, "If you can't join them, fight them." And do it they will! As of Sunday evening, when I last spoke to Jim and June, they had 166 names signed up.

AS I MENTIONED before, Jim and June have lived in Canton for almost nine years. They have five children attending Field and Eriksson schools, two dogs and two cats.

Jim has raced at all the major tracks around the United States including Talladega, Daytona, Mid-Ohio, and so on. He has proven his skills to many. Before he was seen out on the track last year, his biggest problem was finding a ride. Lately he has received several offers, but he can't get the sponsors.

If the owners of the cars are willing to take a chance, where are the local businessmen?

Last week Channel 2's Steven Still was out to cover the story and he can't understand it. They all wished him well and, like all of us, can't understand why the big industrial state on the upswing can't support one local driver. Why do all the race car drivers have to be from out of town?

So, that's my challenge to Michigan. If you can't or don't wish to become a corporate sponsor, perhaps you would like to try the $12 deal. This is not likely to happen too often in your life — a chance to sponsor a car in a Grand National Race. Call Jim or June at 397-1321 to make arrangements.

Channel 2 will be out again as Plymouth Chamber of Commerce will have the car on display in Kellogg Park 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday, June 13, for your inspection. "Take your kids, over to see, our pride and joy, old 23." The end result is a challenge.

JIM IS NO stranger to adversity. In case you missed previous columns about Jim let me give you a short summary.

Jim was playing with the Washington Redskins when they discovered he had brain cancer. He beat that some years back. Last year the engine caught fire in time trials, but not before he had an opportunity to prove what he could do. So, technically, he beat that too. This year he can't get any big-time sponsors and, by golly, he's going to beat that, too.

Take the opportunity to at least see the car in Kellogg Park, then tune in your TV for the live coverage of the race June 16. This is what the Jim Hull story is all about, making good things happen, changing bad to good, turning things around, always finding a way. The best of everything to the Hulls and friends. Good luck, Jim.

THINGS ARE happening all over Canton.

St. John Neumann church is about to lay the cornerstone for the addition to the present building. I mention this because after our Sesquicentennial year, history and passing things on seem important to me now. Maybe it's just because each day I become more and more a part of history — sort of a historical fixture to hear my kids talk. The children have been asked to write letters to be placed in the cornerstone and opened in 100 years by children. I think it's a great idea. I'd love to read those letters, wouldn't you?

I CAN'T wait for the Interdenominational Olympics this year. It was a great success last year, actually amazing for the first time out! More than nine churches participated, and we are looking forward to even more this year.

ONE LAST reminder, adopt-a-tree time is drawing near, June 8. In case you haven't heard, let me explain. Canton will be offering the trees along Sheldon for summer adoption. The adoptions will be handled by the Beautification Committee. Each adoptive family will be given, free of charge, top soil, marigolds and black edging to dress up their little loved one. You will be expected to tend the weeds through the growing season as would any good parent. There is no charge for adoption. The entire project is to be entered in a major magazine Keep American Beautiful contest. If you call soon, you may be able to pick the general location of your tree. My tree is named Ashley and is on Sheldon near Westminister Way. That way, it's a short walk to King Custard for our reward. If you don't have your tree yet, call Pam 453-1122; Arlene, 455-5915, or Geri, 459-4132.

Have a great week and give me a call.

Child Health Day planned

Ronald McDonald surprised James McLensghan, 4, of Plymouth Township by dropping in to say "Hi" in the pediatrics division of Oakwood Hospital. James was recovering from a hand injury. The clown was preparing for his participation in a special Child Health Day program planned for 1-3 p.m. Saturday, June 8 at the Dearborn Hospital. The program will feature a 30-minute presentation by Ronald in the hospital auditorium, 18101 Oakwood Boulevard. The theme will be "Growing Up Healthy." For information call 593-8010 8 a.m.-noon Monday through Friday.

"Kathy's family needed hope."

A young mother with a serious illness. Her family in crisis. They came to Harper Hospital and found new hope. They learned that Harper is a university-based research and teaching hospital. A place where scientists work alongside physicians, transforming discovery into treatment. They found that Harper concentrates on the tough adult cases in cancer, heart disease and serious vision disorders.

Patients like Kathy come to Harper Hospital at the Medical Center with confidence. They come because Harper is a major participant, together with the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York and the M.D. Anderson Tumor Institute in Houston, in America's network of only twenty Comprehensive Cancer Centers. Patients know that if the diagnosis is cancer, there is no better place to be than Harper Hospital.

And they come with confidence because the Kresge Eye Institute is at Harper Hospital. This important Medical Center resource is devoted exclusively to the problems of vision. And through its research and clinical work, the Kresge Eye Institute gives new hope to millions with impaired vision throughout the world.

Harper is hope for heart patients, too. Its large scale, nationally recognized program brings together research, teaching, surgery and medicine. More open heart surgeries are performed each year at Harper than are performed at any other hospital in Michigan. But of more significance is the growing number of heart patients Harper is able to treat successfully each year without surgery.

For Kathy and her family. For you and your family. Harper Hospital is Research. Science. Hope and Healing.

energy-efficient windows and neutral colors to create a soft uncluttered, totally livable home.

Harold designed the basement with its jacuzzi and for Diane, who is Finnish, a modern sauna. The living area, bar and game room in the walk-out basement level are perfect for entertainment. Most-lived-in room in the house is the wonderfully spacious kitchen which Diane is decorating to her own taste.

WALT AND MARY designed their spacious French Provincial dream house to suit their love of entertaining. The impressive foyer leads to the formal living room where the first of Edna Hibel's lithographs is displayed. The leather furnishings in the adjacent family room make an interesting contrast. Innovative thermopane Florentine-design leaded-glass doors lead to the deck. Other glass doors lead to Walt's office where carpenters worked for two weeks to miter the three beams in the cathedral ceiling.

All kitchen and bath counter tops are Corian, a marble look-alike that allows all nicks and cuts to be sanded out.

The lower level has a complete kitchen for entertaining at the couple's famous pool parties. Game room art includes a political satire by Wayne Howell and the antique slot machines still work.

Solar heating system heats the pool and hot water holding tank. There are two furnaces, large for first and lower levels and a smaller one for the third level, when needed.

A new gazebo lends a nostalgic touch to the no-maintenance pool and backyard.

The Kohmeschers removed layers of wallpaper from almost every room of the house and the result shows what two do-it-yourselfers can accomplish. Jack's dad made all the wooden toys on display in the dining room. One of the home-tour guests will win a Baldwin brass candlestick lamp with a pierced lampshade made by Beth Kohmescher. It will be on display at their house.

Carter-Yockey

Barbara Lynn Yockey and Richard Kenneth Carter exchanged marriage vows March 30 in Alumni Memorial Chapel, Michigan State University, East Lansing. Clinton Bell of Waterloo, Ontario, the bridegroom's uncle, officiated. The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Yockey of Plymouth and Mrs. Kittie Carter of Detroit and the late Kenneth W. Carter. The bride wore a traditional gown with a cathedral train and leg-o-mutton sleeves. Her sash hat matched her dress and she carried white roses, carnations, ivy and baby's breath. Patricia Yockey of San Diego, Calif., was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Sally Johnson, Cheri Chandler and Pam Yockey. Zoe Yockey, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Matt Ottinger was best man. Tyrone Tiedeman, Michael Carter and Michael Yockey were groomsmen. Ushers were Stephen Carter and Kurt Yockey. The couple honeymooned in Florida after the wedding reception in the Kellogg Center, MSU. They are living at Clifford Lake, Stanton.

The bride is a 1976 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School. She earned a bachelor of arts degree in business administration in 1980 at MSU, and doctor of jurisprudence degree in 1983 at West Virginia University. She is an associate attorney with Miel & Miel Law Firm in Stanton. Her husband is a graduate of Grosse Pointe North High School and MSU where he earned bachelor's degrees in geology and computer science. He is an associate software engineer with Rapistan in Grand Rapids.

Macunovich-Montagna

Dr. and Mrs. Phillip P. Macunovich of Redbud, Plymouth, announce the engagement of their daughter, Paula Anne, to Robert James Montagna of Marquette. He is the son of Kenneth A. Montagna of Marquette and Mrs. Geraldine Dawe of San Jose, Calif. The bride-elect graduated from Plymouth Salem High School in 1979 and from Northern Michigan University in 1984. She is employed by Shopko Stores Inc. and the city of Marquette — Lakeview Arena. Her fiancé graduated from Marquette Senior High School in 1970 and the Apprenticeship School for Carpenters and Millwrights in 1973. He is employed by Blount Bros. Inc., in Quinnesec.

They plan a July wedding in Divine Savior Catholic Church, Westland.

Osterday-Melnik

Gilbert and Nancy Osterday of Ranier, Canton Township announce the engagement of their daughter, Julie Rene, to Eugene P. Melnik, son of Joseph and Geri Melnik of Wedgwood, Canton. The bride-elect graduated from Plymouth Eastern High School in 1981 and from Eastern Michigan University in 1985. Her fiancé is a graduate of Plymouth Salem High School and attends Madonna College. He is employed by Electronic Data Systems, Warren, in resource management.

They plan an August wedding in St. John's Ukrainian Catholic Church.

have the honor of performing on the main stage at the Hart Plaza ethnic festivals.

Marty Pack, an expert on Polish dancing, is joining the Centennial staff. He has served as guest choreographer with them. He is director and choreographer of the Wisla Song and Dance Ensemble, an adult group. He will attend the U.S. Dance Festival in July in San Francisco. Joann Ygeal, who has been an active supporter of the Centennials for five years, says they'll know more about their chances of going to Poland when he returns.

Polish dancers from Germany, France, Australia, New Zealand — all the countries where Poles emigrated — go to Rzeszow for the festival.

It's a preservation of heritage, third and fourth generations of Americans dancing the old dances.

Syed Razvi begins the sunset prayer — one of six daily prayers Muslims say during Ramadan.

The Razvi family and a guest enjoy dinner which is served after sunset during the holy period of Ramadan.

Ramadan Fasting key element in search of grace

By Mary Rodrigue
special writer

ABOUT THE time most families sit down to dinner tonight, the Razvi family of Westland will be doing other things: praying, meditating, reading. One thing is certain, there will be no food on the table.

They are among the billion followers of Islam worldwide who fast during the ninth lunar month called Ramadan, which began May 21.

Even 9-year-old Saqib, the youngest of the three Razvi children, will abide by the fast, which prohibits eating or drinking anything, even water, from 100 minutes before sunrise to five minutes after sunset.

"Fasting in Ramadan is voluntarily undertaken for the grace of God," said Syed Razvi, a medical research coordinator in the School of Education at Wayne State University.

While children played in a schoolyard across the street on the eve of Ramadan, Razvi stood barefoot on an Oriental rug in his living room, faced east toward the Muslim holy city of Mecca, and began Azan — a call to prayer.

His wife, Zia, translated the Arabic chant: "God is great. I witness there is no God but God. There is no prophet but Mohammed. Come for prayers. Come for goodness."

Joined by Saqib and daughter, Ayesha, 13, Razvi led the sunset prayer, one of six daily prayers Muslims say during Ramadan.

THE FAMILY WILL consult a calendar charted by the Islamic Association of Greater Detroit during Ramadan, which continues through June 19. It lists the precise time of "sahoor" — when to stop eating before dawn (between 4 a.m. and 4:30 a.m.), sunrise, sunset and when the six daily prayers should commence on a day-by-day basis. Taraweeh, a special final prayer, is said 90 minutes after sundown. Muslims pray five times daily the rest of the year.

"The fast is not as bad as it seems. You get used to it after the first couple of days," said Zia Razvi, a native of India who moved here after marrying her husband in 1970.

In the days to come, she will awaken her children at 4 a.m. for a light breakfast. "Just cereal or toast," she said. "No one feels like eating much at that hour." Yet breakfast is all they have to sustain them through daily routines of work and school until dinner is served after sundown.

Ayesha says at school during Ramadan she heads for the library while other students head for the cafeteria.

"The important thing is to keep yourself busy and not think about food," Syed Razvi said. "It's all in the head."

All Muslim men and women are obligated to fast. Exceptions are made for the elderly, ill, pregnant or nursing women and children under 12. Saqib, only 9, is fasting for the first time this year "because everyone else is doing it and I wanted to join in too."

"We fast to seek the pleasure of God, not for worldly gains, such as losing weight," said Syed, although each member of the family expects to shed a few pounds.

"And also to feel how poor people who have no food feel," added his daughter Ayesha.

IF THE FAST is unintentionally broken, it is invalidated and must begin again. If it is deliberately broken, it must begin again and continue for 60 days.

During the month of Ramadan, the Razvis will host a party for Saqib, who has just completed reading the Muslim holy book, the Koran, after two years of study. Although the celebration begins before sundown, Syed Razvi assured an enquirer that absolutely no food or beverage will be served before sundown.

church bulletin

CLARENCEVILLE METHODIST

Clarenceville United Methodist Church will host Robin Sullivan of WMUZ Radio's "Praise Company" at its monthly manna service at 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 7. Sullivan will share her testimony with the congregation following a time of praise and worship. The church is on Middlebelt, one block south of Eight Mile.

RIVERSIDE PARK CHURCH OF GOD

Corra Ricketts, who has served as a missionary in Kenya and soon will be working in Brazil, will be the guest speaker during Mission Day '85 on Sunday, June 2, at Riverside Park Church of God. There will be a World Services Day mission offering at the 10:45 a.m. service, a potluck dinner at 12:15 p.m., and mission vesper at 1:15 p.m.

WOMEN FOR JESUS

Dominican Sister Loretta Mellon will be the guest speaker at the next meeting of Women for Jesus, at 7:30 p.m. Monday, June 3, at Roma's of Garden City, on Cherry Hill between Venoy and Merriman roads.

FAIRLANE ASSEMBLY

Songwriter and recording artist Len

Mink and his wife, Cathy, of Cincinnati will be the guests at the 8, 9:45 and 11:30 a.m. services Sunday, June 2, at Fairlane Assembly of God in Dearborn Heights. Mink has cut nine Christian music albums, had his own syndicated musical variety show, and has appeared on such television programs as "The Tonight Show," "The Mike Douglas Show," "The 700 Club" and "The PTL Club."

The Minks also will be sharing testimony and song at a Women's Fellowship luncheon from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturday, June 1. Tickets are $5, and reservations and information are available by calling the church office at 561-3300. Fairlane Assembly is at 22575 Ann Arbor Trail, one light east of Telegraph and one block south of Warren Avenue.

The Rev. George Flattery III, Assemblies of God missionary to France, will speak at 7 p.m. Sunday, June 2, at the church.

ST. KENNETH

All the high school graduates of St. Kenneth parish, 14951 Haggerty, Plymouth, are invited to a special Mass and brunch with their families at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, June 9. The feast is "Corpus Christi," the Body of Christ.

Detroit is suburbs' 'vital center'

In the relationship between the cities and the suburbs, some assumptions are misleading and untrue.

It is often assumed that the compelling reasons why all suburbanites should be committed to the welfare of Detroit, to the point of making real personal sacrifices on its behalf, is because all suburbanites came from the city originally. Therefore, the argument proceeds, all suburbanites have a debt to repay, for the city's parks in which they played as children, for the schools in which they were educated, and for the churches and synagogues in which they were raised in faith.

The fact of the matter is that a very large percentage of families in the new suburbs never lived in the city but were born and raised in the older suburbs.

Of the population of the metropolitan area, we wonder how many people count Royal Oak, or Ferndale, or Southfield, or Lincoln Park, or any of the dozen or so nearer suburbs around Detroit as their "hometown?" Or in an moral perspectives

Rabbi Irwin Groner

area whose chief industry employs a national work force, how many people move here from other parts of the country? Thus, if there were an attachment to a city, it might as likely be not be for Cleveland, or Philadelphia, or Chicago, Detroit being a place one heard about but never actually visited.

THOSE OF US concerned for the city's social and economic plight should hope to involve others in these concerns but not for sentimental reasons.

It is a dangerous and blissful assumption that sympathy, compassion, and concern for our troubled city and its people can be generated by nostalgia. But, there are far better reasons than that for hoping that Detroit will once again be as fine a city to live in or near as some of us remember.

We need to restore the economic and social strength of Detroit because the city alone can provide the vital center for what could otherwise be a group of disparate communities. Detroit has institutions of art, learning, culture and entertainment which provide for the life of the spirit. Sports activities and ethnic festivals similarly enrich and diversify the experiences of those who live in a large area around Detroit. Without a strong center, the spokes of the wheel cannot hold. In much the same way, the legal, professional, commercial and financial establishments of downtown Detroit need to be nurtured, encouraged and enhanced for the benefit of all.

IN RECENT WEEKS, announcements have been made of plans and projects for Downtown Detroit and the riverfront involving major investment and financial commitment.

These projects, a very hopeful sign, need to be integrated into a "master plan" for encouraging the stability of neighborhoods, providing new housing in and near the center of the city and revitalizing Downtown Detroit.

We, who live in the suburbs, should share in this commitment not because of nostalgia for the past, but rather because the renaissance we bring to Detroit will serve to bless us and our children.

Fitness really can be such fun

IN THE RELATIVELY short span I've spent on this planet, one of the many things I've observed is that people like to have a good time.

For many that goal becomes a lifelong pursuit. And yet I'm always shocked by the extremes people go to.

"Nothing in moderation" has become the battle cry for fun-lovers everywhere.

Sports were always intended, basically, to be fun. The thrill of competition, the joy of a well-played contest — that's what sports are all about.

WINNING? THAT isn't so important. As long as you play well and have fun. Look how much fun Tommy Hearn had when battered senseless by Marvyn Marvin Hagler. And everyone knows that all true Detroit baseball fans would have overturned cars and set them ablaze even if the Tigers had lost the World Series.

No, winning isn't so important. Anyway, you get the idea how much people like to have fun and how much they like to have fun in sports.

Anything goes. That became clearly evident to me when I realized someone was convincing large masses of people that self-inflicted torture can be oh-so-enjoyable.

Fitness that's fun? Impossible, I said. No one's going to submit to the grunts and groans, the sweat and anguish, the pain and fatigue that accompanies physical labor for fun's sake — are they?

APPARENTLY THEY are. Witness the growing number of exercise salons popping up all over. Vic Tanny's, perhaps the most popular of this genre, just opened its 18th club in the metro Detroit area. The latest is in Southfield, with other openings scheduled for Troy and Sterling Heights later this year.

These are not like the workout gyms of yesteryear, those single-room sweatboxes with a few mats scattered on a cement floor and barbells stacked in the corner. These beauties cost big bucks. The Southfield club carries a $2 million price tag. The Troy Vic's goes for $5 million.

What's more, there are more than 2,000 Vic Tanny's nationwide. That makes it a very big business indeed. Prices vary, but a basic single membership to Vic's runs $598 for the first year and $198 renewal every year thereafter.

AND THE WHOLE operation is contingent on convincing people that getting in shape is joyous.

I wouldn't believe it. I mean, I like working out, but I don't go running around a track for a couple of hours, giggling all the way.

To me, fitness is a necessary evil. Sort of like having to work for a living, or raising children — you get out of it what you put into it. Work hard and maybe you'll become a millionaire. Work your kids hard and maybe they'll become millionaires and share their wealth with you.

Work out hard and maybe you'll live long enough to enjoy any wealth you might have accumulated.

That's not what these exercise places are selling, though. They're selling fun.

I HAD TO investigate. This was utter madness even when the moon wasn't full.

I visited the Plymouth Vic Tanny's. Got the grand tour — 25-yard swimming pool, saunas, whirlpool, dozens of weight machines, a running track, racquetball courts, etc. But, most importantly, I found an answer to my query.

Vic's has an aerobic dance room.

Now understand, the aerobic dance room has done for Vic Tanny's what the plane has done for travel: revolutionize it. If you've ever seen aerobic dancing you'll understand why. It's dominated by females.

Girls love to dance. And guys love to watch girls dance.

THE AEROBIC dance room is conveniently located in the middle of the running track. The room is open on just one side, so you've got to run pretty fast to get a glimpse of two dozen girls bouncing about to some Kool and the Gang tune.

And some guys do run pretty fast. That puts them a step above the "perchers." Those are the characters who hang out by the weight machines, located on the other side of the track from the opening to the dance area.

Some work on the machines for a little while, at least pretending to be interested in their fitness. But then there's that bunch that just perch themselves against a railing, staring unabashedly.

Only their eyes get much of a workout. I saw guys leave the place after an hour and they never even broke a sweat. The perchers have an argument, though. Their aerobic condition must improve, considering the pounding they put their hearts through.

I saw a poll last week that listed the most common places women go to meet men. Ranked near the top of the list were sporting goods stores and fitness clubs, which seems to reaffirm what mankind's favorite sport truly is. So where do I sign up?

Gallagher power surge belts Chiefs in tourney

By Chris McCosky staff writer

The inaugural Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Invitational Baseball Tournament was quite an event Saturday, complete with fireworks in the grand finale.

Canton baseball coach Fred Crissey gathered three of the state's top 10 teams — Bishop Gallagher (No. 2), Davison (No. 4) and Canton (No. 10) and another that had been ranked most of the year (Plymouth Salem).

It was the No. 2-ranked team, Gallagher, that provided the fireworks.

Gallagher began the day by pounding Salem 15-6. Meanwhile, Canton upset Davison 11-10 — holding on for dear life after wasting an early 6-1 lead.

That set the stage for a Canton-Gallagher title game — a battle of two proud and successful high school baseball programs. But the Gallagher bats brought an early end to the suspense.

GALLAGHER (32-6) unleashed a four home-run, eight run attack that earned them an 8-2 victory and the praise of some of the college scouts on hand.

"I've been scouting high school baseball across the country for six years and I've only seen one other team have that kind of hitting balance throughout the lineup," said Kansas City Junior College baseball coach Steve Bertelson of Gallagher. "Their No. 9 hitter could hit third or fourth in most anyone's lineup."

Both teams came into the finale facing a serious arms-shortage — both having used their No. 1 pitchers in state tournament games on Friday.

Inside: Plymouth Canton baseball coach Fred Crissey has done much more than win games in his tenure with the Chiefs. The man behind the area's No. 1 baseball team speaks out on recruiting — Page 3C.

Each team used the third starter in their respective pitching rotations.

Canton's Mike Clark was greeted by an opposite-field home run from Gallagher lead-off hitter Mike Fici to start the game. The Lancers added another run in the second then blew the lid off things with a power drive in the fourth.

Designated hitter Al Mussilli hit a two-run shot to get things going. Mike Downey singled, moved to third on Clark's errant pick-off throw and scored on a wild pitch.

After a walk to Fici, Mike Kocan blasted another two-run shot. Mike Ericson then closed the six-run outburst with a blast to deep right-center.

"I'VE SAID this many times, it's not the offense

Canton's aim: tame Gabriele

By Chris McCosky staff writer

Count on one thing this Saturday at the state Class A District Baseball Tournament at Walled Lake Western: the scouts, both professional and collegiate, will be out en masse.

The main attraction, of course, will be Dan Gabriele — he of the 90-plus mph fastball and one state title already at Walled Lake Western.

But, the attentive scouts will get much more out of Saturday than another peek at one of the best pitching prospects ever to come through these parts.

At 10 a.m., North Farmington (12-9) will play city rival Farmington Harrison (12-10). Then, at 12:30 p.m., Observerland's No. 1-ranked team Plymouth Canton (22-5) will take on Gabriele and Western (14-9).

PERHAPS THERE aren't any Gabriele's on the other three teams, but there are some bonifide prospects:

● North Farmington: Tom Cotter, a right-hander, throws a fastball consistently in the low-80s. Bob Chwalk, a 6-4 lefty, throws equally fast. Offensively, catcher Mike Rudin and shortstop Eric Engel have been the most dangerous hitters. Mark Dillman has been very consistent, as well.

● Farmington Harrison: There are few teams that can surpass the Hawks in terms of pure athletic ability. The Hawks' major weakness is lack of a pitching depth. Although, Mike Inch and Vince Enright have come on strong over the later half of the season. One of the brightest prospects in Observerland is junior shortstop Brian Smolinski. He is currently hitting .435 and packs a good deal of power. Catcher Mike Colovos, second baseman Ken George and center fielder John Miller have also played well both offensively and defensively.

● Plymouth Canton: Pitchers Bucky Blake and Mark Coburn have attracted a good deal of attention this season from college scouts, as have catcher Dwayne Bennett and pitcher-infielder Mike Clark. A bit unheralded, yet most productive, are juniors Chris Sisler and Mark Stevens. The hottest hitter of late in the Canton lineup has been senior John Lenders. First baseman Pete Morman, a senior, may be Canton's most consistent hitter.

Potent bats lift Salem to district semifinals

One Centennial Educational Park softball team remains alive in the Class A softball tournament.

Plymouth Salem survived some sloppy defense Friday to post an 8-3 victory over Howell in a pre-district contest.

The Rocks will take on the winner of the Ann Arbor Huron-South Lyon pre-district at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Huron.

"We didn't really look that sharp," said Salem coach Rob Willette. "We made four errors and at least three mental errors. We're not going to be able get away with that against some of the better teams."

gest was a potent hitting attack. Jessica Handley, sophomore shortstop, led the way with three hits including a double and triple.

Marci Walker had a pair of hits as did Leslie Plichta. Plichta knocked in three runs with a triple. Sandy Oberliesen banded a two-run triple.

Steady Sue Carlson was on target from the mound. She scattered nine hits and didn't yield a walk.

The Rocks are 19-4 on the season.

Rock girls fare well at River Rat relays

The Plymouth Salem girls track team, champions of the Western Lakes Lakes Division, made an impressive showing at the Ann Arbor River Rat Relays Saturday.

The Rocks scored in 13 of 17 events, scored 38 points and placed seventh out of 16 teams.

Nancy Smith, Janet Holmsted and Amy Johnson combined on a 43-9 to take second in the long jump relay.

Cheryl Durrer, Mary Beth Weast, Kristin Hostynski and Denise Durrer combined on a 4:10.2 and placed fourth in the mile relay. That time was .6 off the Salem record.

The Rocks also placed fourth in the middle distance relay, with Heidi Dupret, Martha Suddendorf, Cheryl and Denise Durrer combining on a 7:02.0.

PLYMOUTH CANTON placed 15th in the meet with 22 points.

The Chiefs set school records in both the 4-mile relay and discus relay. Karen Boluch, Rachel Mann, Jennifer Griffith and Jenny Kincer combined on a 23:20.1 in the 4-mile. Hollie Ivey, Patty Janiga and Tory Barger went 263-1/2 in the discus.

Ginnie Johnson, Janet Armstrong, Vicky Minar and Ivey placed third in the field event 880-yard relay (2:00.3).

Both Canton and Salem were among the favorites in Wednesday Western Lakes conference meet. Complete results of the league meet will be in Monday's Observer.

Bowlers won't forget Strohs

The Stroh Brewing Co. that founded the all-star leagues back in 1934 is not being forgotten by the bowlers even though it has stopped brewing at the Detroit plant.

The company was paid high tribute Tuesday evening at the All-Star banquet when an official trophy was named for Ray Gowalski, one of the officers, and a replica will hang in the Stroh headquarters. There will be another presented to the outstanding bowlers each year.

The all-star classics produced many great bowlers. Heading this list is Joe Norris and with him are such well known names as Buzz Fazio, Billy Golembiewski, Tony Lindeman, Bill Bunetta and Joe Joseph. And Mr. Stroh, the founder, is honored with a place in the Detroit Bowling Hall of Fame.

TOURNAMENTS: The Champion of Champions tournament, originated by the bowling proprietors as a summer activity, is having one of its best programs in more than a decade. Each house in the Observer area, claims it is one of the saviors of the otherwise slack summer season.

MERRI-BOWL: The Kings and Queens event is producing good scores. During the past week Chuck Hargraves topped the kings with 791 with handicap and Dee Dalgen paced the queens with 721.

WOODLAND LANES: Kay Connelly paced the Early Birds with a 640. Ken Smoltz had the top game among the seniors with a 297 for high single.

WESTLAND BOWL: Midge Pash-

kat, a clerk at the bowl, had a great time at the Peterson Classic in Chicago over the weekend when she rolled a 211 on the final holiday squad to take one of the prizes. Joe Attard paced the Detroiters with a 1414 series.

Alice Wolfe got away to a good start in the ladies afternoon league with a 507. Janet Jenkes had a high game of 211.

SUMMER LEAGUE: While the leagues are just forming, many establishments are counting on the mixed leagues over the weekend and the trio leagues, a new fad started last year, to fill the weeks' calendar.

Area cagers fall in AAU tourney

The Farmington-Plymouth Saints, a 16-under AAU girls basketball team comprised of players from Farmington Hills Mercy and Plymouth Salem high schools, fell one game short of the national AAU tournament last weekend.

The Saints, coached by Hank Handley, lost to Detroit Brick City 96-80 in the AAU state finals at Schoolcraft Community College.

The Saints opened the state tournament with a 61-48 victory over Birmingham Friday. Jean Wassenberg (Mercy) led the Saints with 15 points.

Jessica Handley (Salem) and Michelle Fryatt (Mercy) added 11 apiece.

On Saturday, the Saints romped on Anchor Bay, 70-46. Mercy's Missy Duczynski scored 25 points. Fryatt and Handley contributed 12 each.

The tables were turned on the Saints in the title game Sunday. A small but lightning quick Detroit team blew the Saints away. Duczynski scored 19 and Fryatt 14 for the losers.

Detroit will represent Michigan in the AAU nationals June 28-July 6 in Fairfax, Va.

gymnastics

Jeannotte is lone Class I at regionals

Twenty-six Michigan gymnasts will be competing this Saturday and Sunday in the men's United States Gymnastics Federation (USGF) Regional Meet at Eastern Michigan University's Warner Gymnasium.

Michigan will be represented by 12 Class III gymnasts, 12 Class II, one Class I and one Junior Elite. Class III compulsories will commence at 3:30 p.m. Saturday (June 1) with optionals at 11 a.m. Sunday (June 2). For all other classes, compulsories are at 7:30 p.m. Saturday with optionals at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Six states make up the regional: Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio and Michigan.

Michigan's lone Class I gymnast is Chris Jeannotte of Plymouth. Jeannotte, who trains out of the Farmington Gymnastics Club, needs to score 95 or better to qualify for the USGF National Meet.

CLASS II gymnasts also need to score at least 95 to qualify for nationals. Also, the top six Class II scores will earn a spot on the regional team.

Among Michigan's Class II contingent is state champ Brian Halstead of Lansing and Adrian Besancon of Livonia — both competing for the Great Lakes Gymnastics Club. Bret Trochio, Robby Thomas, David Thomas and Mark Miesal will represent Farmington Gymnastics Center.

For the Class III gymnasts, the regional meet is the highest level of competition. The top Class III performers from the regional will earn special training sessions at the Olympic Training Center in Colorado.

John Besancon and Jason Whitfield of Livonia will compete at the Class III level, as will Doug Stiebel (Livonia) and Nate Blackburn from the Farmington Gymnastics Center.

Terry Gillespie of Great Lakes Gymnastics Club in Lansing will Michigan's lone Junior Elite. Gillespie has qualified for the McDonald's Championships of the U.S. where the United States National Team is selected. Last month, he signed a national letter of intent to attend the University of Nebraska.

Recruiting's no ego game to Crissey

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

STEVE BERTELSON has coached baseball for six years at Kansas City Community College — one of the more successful JC programs in the country. His baseball season ended last week and his recruiting season began.

First stop, as it has been for the two previous years, was Plymouth Canton High School in southeastern Michigan — a bit removed from Kansas City.

As Bertelson stared out at the sun-baked Canton field Saturday, he was asked the obvious question — why Canton?

His face, every bit as sun-baked as the field, grew pensive. He needed only two words to answer the question: "Fred Crissey."

But he also knew the answer would be insufficient and would lead to more questions. So he began at the beginning.

"COACH CRISSEY and I worked together at a couple summer baseball camps. We got to know each other pretty well. I came down to look at his team one year and have been coming back since.

"He has so much knowledge of the game and can communicate what he knows to the kids. You don't see anyone out here (pointing to the Canton infielders) who doesn't know the basic fundamentals of the game. That's important. It saves college coaches a lot of headaches having a kid come into the program already schooled in the fundamentals of the game," Bertelson said.

John Longridge played for Crissey for four years at Canton. He graduated last year and became Bertelson's first recruit from this area. Longridge played a smooth second base and hit .336 for a KJCC team that finished with a 53-10 record and ranked No. 6 in the nation.

'Whatever happens, baseball has to be used as a means to an end. Not the other way around. Whatever happens in college, whether you play or sit or turn pro, it's all gravy.'

— Fred Crissey
Canton baseball coach

This year, Bertelson came to Canton needing a couple of pitchers and a catcher. After seeing Canton play Friday and Saturday, he has tendered pitchers Mark Coburn and Bucky Blake and catcher Dwayne Bennett.

"THE THING about coach (Crissey) is that he won't tell us someone has talent if the talent isn't there," Bertelson said. "He really gets to know his people, he gets real close. He knows what they can and can't do. He has kind of a dual perspective. He knows what I like and what he's got."

Bertelson isn't the only college coach to have discovered Crissey's program. Presently, Fred Rumberger and Mike Battaglia are playing at The School of the Ozarks in Point Lookout, Mo. Scott Ford, who originally signed with the Ozarks, is now playing at David Lipscomb College in Tennessee. Bryan Capnerhurst is playing at Morehead State, Bill Hanus at Michigan State, Mark Bennett at Alma, Jim Dillon at Hillsdale, Tim Collins at Sienna Heights, Scott Bricker at Olivet, Jamie Chilcoff at Eastern Michigan and Marty McCarthy at Ohio State — to mention only the players since 1982.

Unofficially, Crissey has sent some 80 of his players on to college programs. Some have played, some haven't. But, 90 percent of those players have earned a college degree.

"WHATEVER HAPPENS," Crissey said, "baseball has to be used as a means to an end. Not the other way around. Whatever happens in college, whether you play or sit or turn pro, it's all gravy. The important thing is that you're in college and getting a degree and baseball is helping pay for it."

Crissey used Brian Stemberger as an example. Stemberger earned a full-ride scholarship at Eastern Michigan University. He was later drafted by the Toronto Blue Jays and seemed on his way to the Major Leagues when he blew his arm out.

"You can sit around and feel sorry for Brian because he didn't get to the majors," Crissey said. "But, look at it this way. He still got his education and now he has a better than average job."

Every coach has his or her own philosophy on how to handle recruiting. Some stay completely out of it, preferring to let the family handle the responsibility. Some will act as advisers, sending out literature or films of the prospect.

Crissey will do whatever is desired of him. But, if he is asked to help — he's in charge.

"BASICALLY, IT'S a familial thing," he said. "If the parent wants to handle it, that's fine. If they want to use me as an adviser, that's fine also. But if they come to me and say, 'Coach, help me make this decision,' or they want me to help them get a spot, then it can get tough.

"I won't send a kid someplace he can't play. Parents sometimes have trouble understanding that. They sometimes have a different idea about their kid's abilities. Sometimes there's animosity. If I don't think a kid can play somewhere, I say so. And that's not an easy thing to do."

Crissey, because of his reputation as a solid teacher of baseball fundamentals and because he is a straight-shooter, has won the respect of many professional and college coaches. So respected is he, coaches sometimes recruit players on Crissey's recommendation, sight unseen.

"I try never to be false," Crissey said. "It's one of the hardest things in coaching. Because it's such an ego thing, it's easy to get yourself mixed up with a kid. It becomes almost a father situation. You like to be able to say you sent a kid to Michigan or to Arizona State or to the pros. But, if the kid can't play there, you're not doing anyone any good. You have to be honest."

CRISSEY CONSIDERS himself more than just an on-the-field coach. He considers himself, in many respects, a counselor.

"We have to find the right level for them," he said. "You have to take care of the person's educational needs first. The baseball situation comes second. He might be able to play in the Big 10, but couldn't cut it in the classroom. If he goes there, he's nowhere."

It's obvious why Steve Bertelson and so many other college and pro scouts come to Canton routinely every year. As Bertelson so succinctly put it: "Fred Crissey, I'm telling you, the man is a gem."

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Fred Crissey's success at Plymouth Canton isn't measured by his win-loss record alone — just ask any college or pro baseball scout.

Pitching, defense are the keys to beating Gabriele

Herrington also realizes that in the first meeting with North, neither Cotter nor Chwalik pitched.

Canton will counter Gabriele with its ace lefty Mark Coburn. The last time these two squared off, Western won 4-2.

"The thing you have to do against Gabriele is be disciplined at the plate," said Canton coach Fred Crissey. "His fastball just explodes at you. You see it at the belt and it crosses the plate at your eyes. You have to lay off anything from the hands and up.

"We hope it does," Herrington said. "We hope we're able to get that many men on base. We like to run. We stole 98 bases this year. That's a record for us."

"But the thing you must do is keep them off the scoreboard and play defense. They have never shut us out. We just have to keep them off the board and cut down on our strike outs. You put the ball in play and you make things happen."

CRISSEY SEES the Harrison-North winner as a serious dark horse contender.

"You figure Danny goes seven (innings) with us, he can only throw three in the next one. So if Western gets by us, they have to use their No. 2 man," Crissey said.

"No question the odds are against us," Crissey added. "It's at their (Western's) park, their umpires and all the hoopla with the scouts. But, we're really looking forward to it. If you had your druthers, maybe you'd want to be on the other end of the bracket. But, there are advantages to going at it right away. It'll be fun."

The district championship game is set to go at 3:30 p.m.

Canton, Salem split in 1st CEP baseball invitational

that beats you, it's the defense," said Crissey. "Gallagher made three defensive plays that nobody else that we play could make. They beat us with their defense."

The point is well taken. Down 2-0 in the third, Canton mounted a serious rally against Gallagher hurler Terry Bitter. A single by John Lenders and a pair of walks loaded the bases with one out.

Bitter struck out Tom Kenyon on three nasty curve balls. Then Mark Stevens hit a bullet down the first base line. Gallagher first baseman Ericson knocked it down with a lunge, retrieved it, and fired to Bitter retiring Stevens.

"He doesn't make that play, the ball's in the corner and all three runs score," Crissey said.

Bitter, with excellent control of both a breaking ball and an off-speed pitch, kept Canton at bay until the final inning. On the day, Canton mustered just three hits off him, two in the seventh.

CANTON SCORED twice in the seventh. Sophomore shortstop Steve Waite led off with a single and Adam Kocik walked. Lenders then ripped his second hit, a two-run double.

"WE TOOK a real relaxed attitude into that game," Gravin said. "I think we would have come back regardless of what lineup was in there."

● FESTIVAL 5-MILER

The seventh annual Canton Country Festival 5-Mile run is set for 9 a.m. Saturday, June 22.

The race, sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, will begin on Proctor Road, next to the Canton Township Administration Building, and finish at the Canton Recreation Complex.

The advance registration fee, before Thursday, June 20, is $5. Late entry is $6.

Hats, plaques and medals will be awarded along with the grand prize, a weekend trip for two to Toronto. All participants are eligible for the grand prize.

Register in person or by mail at the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, 1150 South Canton Center Road, Canton 48188. (See entry form) Make all checks payable to Canton Township. For more information, call 397-1000.

● FALL SOCCER

Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department will conduct registration for its fall soccer league beginning Monday, June 3.

The registration will take place from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday through June 28.

Boys and girls ages 6-18 are eligible. Registration fee is $25. League play begins in September.

Call 455-6620 for more information.

● CHIEFS FOOTBALL BOOSTERS

The regular meeting of the Plymouth Canton Chiefs Football Boosters Club is set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 4 in room 128 of Canton High School.

● BONANZA KICKS

Bonanza Soccer League tryouts for boys and girls born in 1974 will take place at the Canton Recreation Complex fields 1, 2 and 3 on the following dates: 3-5 p.m. Saturday, June 1 and 6:30-8:30 p.m. Monday, June 3.

Call Woody Branham at 397-2080 for more information.

● MORE BONANZA KICKS

Tryouts for the Bonanza Soccer League, for girls under-16 born in 1970-1971, will take place between 5-8 p.m.

Sundays June 2 and June 9 at Pioneer Middle School in Plymouth.

Interested participants should contact either Tom McNamara at 455-7018 or Larry King at 459-1865.

● SUMMER HOCKEY

Applications are still being accepted for players interested in competing in the Little Caesars-Chrysler Plymouth Midwest Summer Hockey League — a summer circuit housed at the Plymouth Cultural Center for professional, junior, collegiate and high school hockey players.

The league, which last year featured such players as Rich Kromm of the Calgary Flames, Wayne Presley of the Chicago Black Hawks and Mike Donnelly of Michigan State University, is comprised of eight teams.

The season runs from July 7 through August 12.

Players interested should contact A.J. Baker at 761-1001. A player draft will take place June 3. Applications must be in before that.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING SALEM TOWNSHIP WASTEWATER TREATMENT WORKS FACILITIES PLAN

Notice is hereby given that Salem Township will hold a public hearing on Salem Township Draft Facilities Plan for alternative wastewater management systems. The hearing will be held at 8:00 p.m., July 23, 1985 at the Salem Township Hall.

The purpose of this hearing is to present the proposed action evaluated and the environmental aspects. As required by federal regulations the "No Action" alternative has been evaluated and will also be discussed. Comments and views of interested persons on the proposed plan and environmental concerns will be received at this hearing.

The recommended plan includes the construction of a gravity sewer system to serve the Hamlet of Salem, an aerated lagoon and land application of treated effluent by rapid infiltration. The proposed treatment and disposal site is located at the S.W. corner of Chubb and Six Mile Roads.

The local costs for the recommended plan are estimated to be:

Project Cost - $929,000

Local Cost - $702,000

Estimated typical monthly user charges were developed based on grant funding and a millage increase. The estimated monthly user charge is estimated to be $12.45 to $59.40 depending on the amount of grant funding obtained and financing of the system.

Copies of the draft facilities plan will be available for public inspection prior to the public hearing at the following location:

Salem Township Hall

9600 Six Mile Road

Salem, Michigan 48175

Written comments sent to Mr. Richard Sackett, Township Supervisor at the above address will be entered into the public record through July 30, 1985.

Time changes all, even your beneficiaries

Most people have named someone as the beneficiary of a life insurance policy, a pension plan or an individual retirement account.

Unfortunately, many such designations are made without forethought or casually with little thought as to what may take place if the beneficiary comes into a sizable sum of money.

A problem can arise if the designator of the beneficiary does not review the initial decision.

A MAN recently died in Michigan. His second wife, whom he had married 25 years ago, discovered that the beneficiary of her husband's pension plan was his first wife from whom he had been divorced. A settlement would have cost the widow $30,000 of the $100,000 pension benefit.

There are many examples of other situations in which a beneficiary receives no expert advice, either in advance from the designator or from a competent adviser at the time of payment.

A widow was the beneficiary of her husband's life insurance. The company's agent persuaded her to take a lump sum and invest it in a life annuity on which he received a substantial commission. He neglected to inform her she could have taken an annuity option commission free under the terms of the policy.

LIFE INSURANCE

Policies generally offer several op-finances and you

tions, or forms of payments to the beneficiary. A lump sum or several forms of annuities, for example, may be available, or the proceeds may be left with the insurance company at interest or be paid out in installments.

For instance, a new account with a leading insurance company permits the beneficiary to leave the money with the company earning money-market interest rates and to write checks against the balance.

It is possible for the owner of many policies to designate an option in advance, but some financial planners oppose this on the ground that inflation, interest rates and the beneficiary's needs are unpredictable.

A NOTED insurance counselor argues that the most prudent course is for the beneficiary to do nothing until emotional stress has subsided. In the meantime, the money can be left with the insurance company at today's relatively high yields.

In any event, he points out, a person under 65 usually should not elect an immediate annuity. It is better either to leave the money at interest or take a lump sum and invest in safe securities until age 65 or 70, when an annuity would bring a higher pay out because of the shorter life expectancy.

Back in town

Debut album makes things happen for Flash Kahan

After two months on the road performing in concert, local rock band Flash Kahan returns home this weekend, to play Saturday night at Harpo's in Detroit.

The band has been getting good radio airplay with its debut single "One at a Time," as well as excellent coverage on music video programs across the country.

Its debut album is a slick rock package that includes some tasty and listenable cuts, including "One at a Time" and a version of the old Fats Domino hit "I'm Walkin'." The album is selling well, which means the band isn't going to be at home long.

"Everybody in the band is from the Detroit area," said Susan Murphy, publicist for Flash Kahan. Murphy handles promotions for the Birmingham-based Punch Enterprises, the company that manages Bob Seger and Flash Kahan.

Heading back on the road soon to open shows for Joan Jett, Flash Kahan band members include guitar player and co-leader Bruce Flash, who was raised in Allen Park and now lives in Waterford; songwriter, guitarist and bassist Doug Kahan, a resident of Troy; "Franz Baron" DeRaad and Matt DeRaad, who both also live in Troy; and saxophone player Tomo Thomas, who grew up in Livonia and now has a home in Mount Clemens.

Murphy has been watching the band develop over the last three months, ever since Capitol Records released its album "Flash Kahan" in March. She is very pleased with the group. "They've really grown," she said enthusiastically, "and they've found their niche in the business. They were all born to be on stage."

IF YOU LIKE to live in the past when it comes to music, maybe even fondly remember big band nights at the Walled Lake Casino and Edgewater Park, then Dearborn nightclub Angie's has something for you.

It's the New York, New York Orchestra, produced by Southfield resident George Young and conducted by Dan Burger. The band plays the best big band charts it can find.

"I wanted a band that would play tunes you hardly ever hear anymore," says Young, a Southfield resident and former musician and bandleader. "I thought a lot of people weren't interested in the heavy brass sound of a big band but wanted music that was pleasant so they could dance to it."

The response to this format reminiscent of CKLW radio's successful "Music of Your Life" shows that Young is right.

The 14-piece band starts playing at 8:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays at Angie's at Michigan and Telegraph.

IT'S A WARM spring, and what better to do on great evenings than listen to music?

As always, the festivals and music series begin in earnest as May closes. The New Center Swings extensive music series opens up with flutist Alexander Zonjic on Thursday, May 30, and presents a summer full of free concerts at lunchtime and after work.

Other groups scheduled this summer outdoors in Detroit's New Center Park include Norma Jean Bell and her All-Stars, Ortheia Barnes and the P'Jazz Band, the Sun Messengers, Ursula Walker, Loving Cup and Larry Nozero.

The park is across the street from the General Motors Building on Second Avenue.

The sixth annual Motor City Bluegrass Festival takes place Saturday, June 1, at the Meadow Brook Music Festival site in Rochester. Among performers in the festival that starts at noon will be guitar and fiddle champion Mark O'Connor, the Baldock Mountain Ramblers and Roy McGinnis and the Sunnysiders.

A sure sign of summer is the P'Jazz festival on the terrace of Detroit's Pontchartrain Hotel. Its 14th season of jazz begins Wednesday, June 5, when Flora Purim and Airta Moreira take to the outdoor stage that overlooks the Detroit River.

Among the local acts are Norma Jean Bell, Doug Jacobs and the Red Garter Band, Alexander Zonjic and the Brookside Jazz Ensemble with singer Ursula Walker.

For information about New Center Swings, call 872-0186; for the Bluegrass Festival call 377-2010; for P'Jazz call 965-0200, Ext. 3766.

SPEAKING OF Ursula Walker, she had a limited engagement Monday nights at Nicky's in Troy, but that's changed.

"We're too crazy about her to let her go," said John Reaser, one of the two Vocalist Ursula Walker and the Buddy Budson Trio, with Budson on keyboard and Dan Kolton on bass, entertained at a recent afternoon press conference announcing this season's P'Jazz lineup. The trio will be among musical groups performing at the outdoor concert series at Detroit's Hotel Pontchartrain.

Six weeks of SummerStage musicals will be presented by Robert L. Maloney Productions of Pontiac during July and August at the Birmingham Theatre. "Kelly & Company" guest host Jeffrey Bruce will star in "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," Wednesday, July 17, through Sunday, Aug. 4. Movie and TV actress Patsy Garrett will star in "Hello, Dolly!" Wednesday, Aug. 7, to Sunday, Aug. 25. For more information phone the Maloney office at 373-4410.

ETHNIC FESTIVAL

Phil Marcus Esser of Livonia and Barbara Bredius will lead an international sing-along at 6:30 p.m. Friday, May 31, at the "Around the World" ethnic festival, which runs Friday through Sunday, June 2, at Hart Plaza in downtown Detroit. Assisting with the sing-along will be a 1985 version of musical genius Mozart, played by actor Scott McCue. The event also will feature a pageant of ethnic festival queens and the maiden brunch cruise on the Detroit River's new Wayward Princess boat.

PIANO OLYMPICS

The 1985 "Piano Olympics," a contest of 1,300 pianists worldwide culminates Sunday-Saturday, June 16-22, during festival week on the University of Michigan campus in Ann Arbor. The olympics is sponsored by the Young Keyboard Artists Association. A reception welcoming Dale Nyboer, association president, was held recently at Hamell Music in Livonia. A total of $55,000 in prizes will be awarded at the olympics. The competition and special events are all open to the public. For further information call 998-0068.

DIANA ROSS

An "In the Round" performance will be given by Diana Ross at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, June 1, at Joe Louis Arena in Detroit. For tickets at $17.50 and $15 call 567-8000.

MICHIGAN PREMIERE

"In the Sweet Bye and Bye," comedy by Donald Driver, continues its Michigan premiere engagement through Sunday, June 23, at the Detroit Repertory Theatre. Now serving food, the theater offers sandwiches, salads, soup and desserts after each show. A new menu is offered for each show.

GOLDEN EAGLE

Pianists Pierre Fracalanza and Mary Jeva are featured at the Golden Eagle Lounge in the Dearborn Inn. Fracalanza plays from 4:30-7 p.m.

Mondays-Saturdays. Jeva performs from 7-11 p.m. Mondays-Saturdays.

STAR THEATRE

Donny and Marie Osmond will star in the Donny and Marie Show onstage, opening the 14th season Tuesday, June 18, for the Star Theatre of Flint in Whiting Auditorium. Performances are at 8:30 p.m. Tuesdays-Saturdays, 7:30 p.m. Sundays and matinees at 2:15 p.m. Saturdays-Sundays.

Other stars appearing this season include Connie Francis in the Connie Francis Show, the musical "A Chorus Line," country singer Dottie West in the Dottie West Show, John McCook in the musical "Carousel," and Jim Nabors and Florence Henderson in the new Jim Nabors Show. Tickets are $12.50; senior citizens and student discounts are available. For further information, call 239-1464.

COMEDY IMPROV

Writers, performers and musicians interested in improvisational comedy are being invited to join the Lunatics Anonymous Writing and Performing Society, being established by the Farmington Players. The troupe will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday-Thursday, May 28-30, at the barn theater, 32332 W. 12 Mile Road, Farmington Hills. For more information call 363-3325.

'BIG STORY'

A new mystery-adventure film, "The Big Story," set in Detroit and Bloomfield Hills, started production last week in Indian Village. Shooting will continue through the summer at various locations in the Detroit area. A cast of local actors will perform in the film, directed by Brian Lawrence and produced by the Independent Film Producers Association of Michigan. For membership in the IFPAM at $20, or more information about the film, call 541-1450 or 398-7744.

PUPPET THEATRE

Rick's Puppet Theatre will present its 27-minute variety show, featuring Bosco Bird as master of ceremonies, Friday-Sunday, May 31 to June 2, at Winchester Mall in Rochester Hills. Showtimes will be at 11 a.m., 1 and 3 p.m. Friday, 1, 3 and 7 p.m. Saturday and 1 and 3 p.m. Sunday. Other celebrities in the free show include Tommy Toot, Jimmie, the stumbling magician; Pinky the Elephant, and Rick's shark.

G&S MUSICAL

"The Pirates of Penzance," Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, June 14-15, and Thursday-Saturday, June 20-22; 2 p.m. Sundays, June 16 and 23, and 1 p.m. Wednesday, June 19, in Varner Hall at Oakland University's Center for the Arts on campus near Rochester. The production will be staged with a 20-piece orchestra. Among cast members are three Birmingham residents, Daniel Watson as Frederic, Melanie Hansen as a lady ward and Harry Carlson as the Major General. Tickets are $4.50 general admission, $3.50 for students and senior citizens. For more information call the box office at 370-3013.

Boblo Island night cruise benefits Focus:HOPE

Focus: Hope's fourth annual moonlight cruise on Boblo's S.S. Columbia will be 8-11 p.m. Tuesday, June 11. Boarding is at 7:15 p.m., with an 8 p.m. departure from the downtown dock on the Detroit River.

At the upper deck Folk Cafe, there will be songs by Ron Coden, Ursula Walker and Buddy Budson, Stewart Mitchell and Pat's People. In the main deck ballroom will be the sounds of Miche Braden and dance music by the Lyman Woodard Organization. Strolling mime Pat Judd will perform. Food and a cash bar are available.

Nearby parking facilities are at the Joe Louis Arena Garage. For tickets at $12.50, call 883-7440 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

Korean group to perform at museum

Samul-Nori will present a program of Korean drumming and dancing at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Auditorium Theatre at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

General admission is $15; students and senior citizens are $10. Performance and afterglow is $50 per person. Funds from the benefit afterglow will be applied toward acquisition of a Korean work of art.

Samul-Nori is performing at the DIA after a performance earlier this year at the Asia Society in New York City.

This ensemble of four Korean drummer-dancers presents a program of traditional Korean folk-festival music and dance.

For tickets and information, call the DIA's ticket office at 832-2730.

You Don't Have To Drag Your Family Into The Woods To Have Fun In A Tent.

They called it "Tent Chautauqua." Teddy Roosevelt called it "the most American thing in America." You'll call it fun. But, first, what's a Chautauqua? Chautauqua was the travelling tent show that brought culture and big-city entertainment to small towns all across America. And from May 30th to June 2nd, Chautauqua's orators, artists, musicians and magicians will be pitching their tent right here in Greenfield Village. Walk into it and you'll be walking into the year 1912. You'll hear some rabble-rousing speeches by the likes of Clarence Darrow, Jeanette Rankin, and Teddy Roosevelt. There'll also be magic shows, folk music, and all kinds of turn-of-the-century games for your kids to play. So call 271-1976 for more information. And then pack up the family and head off to the great American museum that's also great fun.

Going to the movies is different in Fiji Islands

When in Fiji, do as the Fijians do, someone once said. On a recent jaunt to that South Pacific island, I attempted to do what thousands of Fijians do every day — go to the movies.

In Fiji you have to go to the movies because there is no television. No television means no "Teatime Movie," "Saturday Showcase" or "Sir Graves Ghastly Presents."

Video is becoming more and more popular in this former British protectorate, but relatively few Fijians have it. And those who do watch their rental movies on little monitors that resemble computer screens.

So going to the movies was the order of the day. After all, one can lounge at poolside, sipping Fiji Bitter beer, for only so long before a certain torpor sets in — not to mention a certain sunburn. Since there's not much to do in Fiji that isn't directly related to sun, sea and sipping Fiji Bitter, a movie made good sense.

was deciding what to see. The Fiji Times, replete with listings of movies playing all over the 200-mile-long main island of Viti Levu, provided several possibilities.

Of course I wasn't about to forgo the delights of the Fijian climate and lush landscape for a chance to see "Ghostbusters," "Bachelor Party," "Revenge of the Nerds" or "Body Double" again, all of which were playing at theaters in Fiji's two largest cities, the capital Suva, and Nadi, where the international airport sits.

Also showing were "An Officer and a Gentleman," "The Falcon and the Snowman," "The Bounty," "Romantic Comedy" and "The Spy Who Loved Me" — a selection to rival what's usually available on Detroit-area screens.

I wanted to see a Fijian film. Unfortunately, that was impossible because they don't make movies in Fiji. So I settled for the next best thing — an Indian movie.

Not a cowboy and Indian movie but an Asian Indian movie, which are the ## second runs Tom Panzenhagen

rage on Fiji where half the population of one-quarter million is of Indian descent.

AGAIN THERE WERE numerous possibilities, and the ads for the movies made each one seem enticing.

There was, for instance, "Zamana," which the ad writers proclaimed "has proved a super hit." The movie's distributors probably were responsible for the next line: "Get more out of life! Come and see our movie."

"Yudh" also caught my eye, particularly with its cast list that read: "Starring the dynamic duo Jackie Shroff and Anil Kapoor with Hema Halini, Tina Munim, Pran, Danny and Shatrugan Sinha.

A review of "Yudh" on the same page outlined the plot.

"A crime wave sweeps over Bombay City, the factory vans are shot at and the monthly payroll of the workers looted. The worst hit is industrialist Mr. Dayal (Madan Puri). He would have been liquidated if his friend the top industrialist of Bombay Mr. Chinoy (Danny) had not taken him into partnership."

Sounds like a job for Dirty Harry. The review also explained the movie's title: "Yudh" is about the eternal 'Yudh' which exists in every society between the upholder of the law and the law breaker, the police force and the criminals," it read. Oh, that "Yudh," I mused.

MAKING THE CHOICE of a movie more difficult were "Ninja in the Dragon's Den" starring Conan Lee, the twin bill "Mother India" and "Fake Out," and "Majestic Thunderbolt," which the ad writers boasted as "This year's big action-packed production."

India, incidentally, annually produces about 10 times more movies than Hollywood, so there was an abundance of other flicks from which to choose.

About this time, however, the sun disappeared, portending another of Fiji's daily cloudbursts. The walk to the bus into town would be a wet one, I thought.

And then I discovered the night's dinner specialty would be goat curry, and my desire to spend the evening at a movie, munching Fijian popcorn, suddenly were dashed.

I never did make it to a show. But my bartender that night recounted "Majestic Thunderbolt" to me scene by scene. It wasn't the same as being there, but it was better than Fijian TV.

The seduction Island hopping leads to a meaningful experience

SANIBEL ISLAND, Fla. — Islands are seductive. You stop for a brief look, then hours, even days, later you find yourself there still, perhaps sitting in the Brass Elephant while a young maitre' from Michigan prepares scampi and linguini at tableside.

I came to Sanibel Island to visit a friend "for an hour or two at most," on my way from Sarasota to Marco Island, crossing the causeway in full sunshine, enjoying the sailboats bending against the wind, the motor boats knifing white through the water, a water skier swimming back to his boat after a fall.

Couples and families were picnicking, others were leaning fishing poles over beach chairs or poking them out van doors and making a picket fence along the sea edge.

That was midafternoon and here I am at 10 p.m. driving back across the causeway to Highway 41, Marco Island still far ahead of me as I watch the lights of boats blink against the water on either side.

I HAVE BEEN to Sanibel Island before but I have never had the insider's tour from Joan Hooper before, so I know a lot more about the island now than I did after a weekend vacation, doing the Sanibel Stoop morning and night. That's the picture most associated with this island — figures silhouetted against the morning and evening sky, heads bent, hands outstretched in search of the perfect shell.

Sanibel is the southern end of the barrier islands that stretch along the gulf from Texas to Florida, and it daily lives up to its reputation as the best shelling island in the Americas, third best in the world.

Joan and her husband Van Hooper are northerners, like most of the people you meet in Florida, snowbirds who flew down from Wisconsin, sniffed the hibiscus-scented, salt-sea air and stayed. They are publisher and editor of Islands Magazine.

EVERY ISLAND has its own geography, history and lifestyle, but not every island has been populated long enough to have old families and an exclusive social life of its own. In a place like that, tourists seldom get below the surface unless insiders like the Hoopers show them the island the way the real islanders know it.

When local people give directions to some place on Sanibel Island, they always begin with "go across the causeway to the first traffic light." As if there was a traffic light on every corner, instead of one or two holding lonely vigil under the Australian pine trees that long ago overgrew the native salt-bush of the area.

The first traffic light, where Lindgren Boulevard crosses Periwinkle Way, you can turn left to the historic Sanibel Lighthouse with its fishing pier and the best shelling beach on the island; you can go straight ahead to the glorious sand beach that runs past motels and condos on the Gulf of Mexico; or you can turn right into town.

Town is a series of small shopping plazas with names like Heart of the Island Plaza and Periwinkle Place, full of restaurants and boutiques. There's a restored city hall, with a five-flag hurricane alert system that only the locals understand.

THE HISTORY of the island can be briefly told. There are a few not-very-noticeable signs of the early Indian culture, and no sign at all of the pirates who once were here. The story is that they buried their loot on Sanibel and held women for ransom on the island of Captiva, a continuation of the barrier reef joined by a bridge to the western end of Sanibel.

A few lucky inhabitants ruled this sea-sand-sun place alone until a causeway brought the developers in 1963. By 1974, the islanders had had enough. They seceded from Lee County and, in the true spirit of revolution, made themselves into a city and created their own zoning laws.

Now you can't build anything higher

photos by IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Fishing and shelling are favorite activities on Sanibel Island. Sometimes fishing poles leaning over beach chairs or poking out through van doors form a line as thick as a picket fence. These people are trying their luck from the pub-over pier.

than one of those Australian pine trees, and you'd probably get a ticket if you didn't stop for a snowy white egret high-stepping across the road.

The birds were here first and they still rule the roost. Islanders build high wooden platforms so the ospreys can nest somewhere other than on household chimneys.

BIRDS ALSO rule J.N. Ding Darling Wildlife Refuge, a cumbersome name for a beautiful piece of real estate named for a popular cartoonist. It takes up the western half of Sanibel. Local people take their cocktails to the refuge when the Roseate Spoonbills are in.

If you just keep driving west, past the refuge and on to Blind Pass, you cross over a bridge to Captiva. By this time I was not surprised to learn that a lot of rich and famous people live in the first strip of houses near Blind Pass. World-famous artists Rauscheberg and Lichtenstein have houses on Captiva. And a postmistress and justice of the peace called Nethel Moss conducts marriages on the beach.

All this is insider talk, of course, the real question is how can you and I enjoy being a tourist here? It's not a high rise island, and there's not much slick entertainment at night, but it's attractive to the right kind of traveler.

ON SANIBEL you can have your own kitchen in a two-story motel with old world charm, called Song of the Sea, or you can stay in a more sophisticated hostelry once known as the Shell Harbor Inn and now the Hilton Inn. That's where we visited the Brass Elephant, but I'll get to that.

You can also stay in a number of condos, such as those at the Tortuga Beach Club. There's one camp ground but you need reservations and it's usually full. Captiva also has accommodations, especially Tween Waters Inn and the South Seas Plantation.

The Hoopers were so graphic about it that I could easily imagine Christmas Eve at Tween Waters Inn, when candles filled the beach and the nearby Chapel-by-the-Sea. I had to settle for a tour of the lovely old Florida dining room and a peak into the Crow's Nest, where the young folk hang out at night.

"THAT'S ABOUT as exciting as the island gets at night," Joan said. She and I didn't stop there, we settled our well-toured bones into a banquet at the Brass Elephant restaurant, where ex-Detroit Robert Truax is the maitre d'.

As I said at the beginning, islands are seductive. You drop in for an hour or two and the next thing you know you are full of linguini and Caesar salad and you are trying to follow the map as you cross the island causeway in the dark. Over there is the real world and it's full of traffic lights.

Sanibel Island, at the southern end of the barrier islands that stretch along the gulf from Texas to Florida, is often identified with shelling. One frequently sees figures silhouetted against the morning and evening sky, heads bent, hands outstretched in search of the perfect shell. Some say Sanibel is the best shelling island in the Americas, third best in the world.

China beckons U.S. teachers

Two tours of China for teachers, professors and other educators are being offered this year by Michigan Educational Travel Inc. of Ann Arbor.

Round trip costs range from $2,499 to $3,599, and side trips in the Far East and Southeast Asia are available at the end of each tour.

Guiding the tours will be Dr. Robert Hefner, longtime U-M professor, who has led seven similar trips since 1979. A major goal of the tours is to meet teachers and students at a variety of educational institutions; in addition, major tourist attractions, such as the Great Wall of China, are included.

The first trip, Aug. 3-26, includes stops at cities along the "Silk Road" from Urumqi in the extreme northwest region of Xinjiang to Xian — site of one of the greatest archeological finds of the 20th century.

The second trip, Dec. 21 to Jan. 5, features stops in the warmer southern and tropical portions of China.

Application deadlines are 60 days before departure, although some reservations may be accepted as late as three weeks before departure.

For more information write Michigan Educational Travel Inc. at 1407 Morton, Ann Arbor 48104, or call 662-1867.

The profile of this day lily caught Monte Nagler's eye. Notice how use of a dark background helped to heighten the impact of the shot.

Flowers offer lots of photo options

One of the most abundant, beautiful and colorful subjects for your spring and summertime photography is flowers. So plentiful are they that the choices of presenting them photographically are almost endless.

You might, for example, select the close-up shot revealing the innermost heart of the flower, the delicate texture of the stamen, minute drops of moisture, or a single petal that becomes a picture in itself.

Or you might prefer to show the character of a single whole flower, a grouping, or even an entire field of flowers.

The best time to photograph flowers is in the morning when they are freshest. Hot afternoon sun may cause flowers to look limp and wilted.

Diffused sunlight from either behind or the side is best. It will give your flower intimate texture and full color saturation. Fill in flash can also add extra sparkle.

TO FILL the viewfinder with a single flower or part of a blossom, you'll need close-up equipment such as close-up filters, extension tubes, or a macro lens. All work well and will give you pleasing results.

Because you'll often need a small aperture to maximize depth of field, a tripod and cable release are a must to keep your camera steady during the long shutter speeds required.

As always, watch your backgrounds! A distracting or "busy" background can ruin a picture. So be sure to check yours after composing your shot.

Look over the entire viewfinder and use your camera's depth-of-field pre-photography

view to check out the background. You'll often want it as a soft non-distracting blur in your picture.

Better still, carry a small piece of black poster board or cloth in your camera bag and place it behind the flowers. The background will go totally black, resulting in greater impact in your finished shot.

The poster can also act as a wind-breaker to stop swaying flowers on a brisk day.

Try some innovative techniques, too. Shoot a group of flowers, focusing on only one so that the rest become complementary blurs of color. Or move in close and focus on only the stamen, allowing the petals to be out-of-focus blurs.

Also, try sprinkling the flowers with droplets of water to give them a fresh, natural look.

In addition to flowers around your home or in the wild, a local greenhouse will provide excellent picture possibilities, as will the botanical gardens located at Belle Isle and the University of Michigan gardens in Dixboro. The gardens at Cranbrook have flowers as well as scenic woodland areas and outdoor sculpture open to the public for a modest admission price.

Artist inspired by travel

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

When she was a youngster, Eileen Bibby usually was awake at 6 a.m. She would draw or paint at that time because the rest of her family was still asleep and such artistic activities weren't noisy.

Now Bibby's days still start at 6 a.m. Much of them, she spends painting in an upstairs studio in her Livonia home, which is filled with award-winning artworks. Painting pictures has remained something she enjoys doing, along with traveling. With her journeys and her membership in various art organizations, Bibby finds "no limit on ideas," she says.

"Whatever you paint, that's a nice subject."

Bibby's first one-person exhibit, "People and Places," is running at the Scarab Club of Detroit, 217 Farnsworth at John R, now through May 31.

Featured in the showing are persons who modeled at the Scarab Club — where Bibby paints twice a week — and landscapes of places to which the artist has traveled.

BIBBY'S ARTWORKS are more than photographic representations of a person or place. ("You can take a camera and do that," she says). For example, her painting of branches against a colorful canyon wall is actually two different scenes combined. The actual background of the branches was green. She added city buildings in the background of her painting of a young man to bring out what she saw as a street-wise characteristic.

"I capture what the (subject) is, rather than a real direct likeness," Bibby said. "(With landscapes), the person (should) say, 'Yes, I know that place, I've been there.' They're not going to find it any place. It's an impression of the place."

Most of Bibby's works are acrylics, but she also does watercolors and charcoals. She paints on watercolor paper, masonite, cardboard, "anything that is a surface to paint on." Her house is filled with award-winning paintings.

Besides the Scarab Club, Bibby has been active in the Visual Arts Association of Livonia, Livonia Artists Club and Dearborn Arts and Crafts club.

"It takes up a lot of your time," Bibby said.

THE ARTIST, who worked as a mechanical designer, does the initial drawing of a painting on tracing paper to work out the layout and composition. Bibby will have several different painting projects going at once, working on one "until it gets to the point where I don't know what to do," then moving to another and back again. Some works have taken three hours to complete, while others have taken a month.

"The time element varies on how I feel about it," Bibby said.

Bibby attended what is now the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, and took illustration classes at Wayne State University and mechanical engineering classes at WSU and Lawrence Institute of Technology.

"It's nice to have that background to be able to do buildings and vases, but I don't do too many still-lives," she said. "I like to paint on location. All you can really do on location is the initial drawings."

Inspiration for works such as this church steeple come from extensive travel.

'It's nice to have that background to be able to do buildings and vases, but I don't do too many still-lives. I like to paint on location.'

Arts Festival set for Plymouth

The City of Plymouth and the University Artists and Craftsmen Guild announce the fifth annual Spring Arts Festival, to take place Saturday and Sunday, June 8 and 9 in Plymouth's Kellogg Park.

Hours for the festival will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. For information, call the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce at 453-1540 or the guild at 763-4430.

The focus of this two-day festival is a juried exhibition and sale of the work of more than 100 fine artists and craftspersons from Michigan and throughout the Midwest.

AMONG THE wide variety of media that will be represented in this exhibit are painting, photography, sculpture, graphics, ceramics, stained glass, jewelry and fibers. The public is encouraged to meet the artists and ask them questions about their work and its production.

Jazz will be featured prominently in the festival. The festival stage will present some of metro Detroit's most popular jazz musicians, many of whom have played in either the Detroit or Swiss Montreaux jazz festivals. Performers will include Bob DuRant's Big Band, Ron Jackson, Ed Nuccelli, Wendall Harrison, the McKinney Cottonpickers, John Katalenic and Larry Noz-ero.

Refreshments will be available from vendors in the "Gathering" directly across from the festival site, or from one of Plymouth's many fine restaurants within a minute's walk of Kellogg Park.

Art galleries display fine furniture

By Corinne Abett

Furniture has joined the quality fine arts now available in this area. Arkitektura recently opened a showroom of designer furniture and accessories at 800 North Woodward, Birmingham. It isn't the first to carry fine art quality furniture, but certainly the collection is one of the most comprehensive.

Yaw Gallery at 530 N. Woodward, Birmingham, frequently shows hand-made furniture by outstanding, contemporary designer/craftsmen.

Donald Morris Gallery often has choice original pieces of furniture by Josef Hoffmann, Bugatti or other outstanding Bauhaus artists.

Arkitektura founder, Kenneth F. Smith Jr., along with Ronald Saarinen Swanson, have a 2,000-square-foot showroom on the second floor of a new building.

An entire showroom of designs by the likes of Saarinen, Hoffmann, Mackintosh, Aalto, Le Corbusier, Mies van der Rohe and others is new for this area.

Kenneth Smith (left), a Cranbrook educated furniture designer and founder of Arkitektura, sits at the reproduction Saarinen House dining room table with Ronald Saarinen Swanson. The two bring varied skills and backgrounds to the business which is already receiving international attention.

THE SAARINEN pieces in the new showroom are being reproduced from the original designs with exacting care. Smith is the Cranbrook Academy of Art graduate who received exclusive rights to manufacture and distribute Saarinen furniture about two years ago. His output has been well received both nationally and internationally.

Swanson's entry into the business is a natural. As a businessman, he brings a special expertise and balance. As a direct link (Eliel Saarinen was his grandfather) to the talented Saarinen, he is an invaluable resource. Plus, he has a deep appreciation for his heritage.

Smith and Swanson plan to open similar showrooms in other parts of the country, New England, for one, and are working on licensing firms to reproduce Saarinen fabric and metal designs.

Smith, a furniture designer, said, "My biggest push is to present furniture formerly seen only in trade showrooms," adding that consumer buying habits have changed considerably in recent years.

"The discriminating buyer and the desire for quality goods are so refreshing for me," he said recalling what a treat it was for him at Cranbrook to be surrounded by wonderful design.

In addition to originals such as the two chairs, designed by Otto Wagner of Austria in 1902 for the Postal Savings Bank and the Saarinen and Josef Hoffmann reproductions, there many signature pieces by contemporary designers.

SOME of these latter are tableware designed by internationally known architects. These aren't sets of china, but rather individually priced cups, saucers and plates.

There is, for instance, a beautiful espresso pot, designed by Aldo Rossi, architect; a pewter sugar and creamer, from an Eliel Saarinen design and an elegant candelabrum by J. Robert Swanson.

Smith said, "We're trying to show sort of singular decorative objects that I think are noteworthy."

Smith said he is going to fairs in Milan and the Scandinavian countries regularly "looking for the latest classic furniture."

They will also be adding to their inventory of Saarinen furniture. They have all of Saarinen House, Cranbrook and Kingswood furniture to work from.

Smith has already had good success with his beautiful reproductions of dining room furniture from Saarinen House, as well as several of the arm chairs.

So far, the timing seems to be perfect.

Craft shows scheduled

Jurying for Mercy High School's Christmas Arts and Crafts Festival will take place June 1, July 1 and Sept. 1.

For information, call the school at 476-8020 during the day.

Mercy will present its annual Christmas craft festival Saturday-Sunday, Nov. 30-Dec. 1. The festival, now in its fifth year, contains approximately 200 tables of juried arts and crafts.

On Saturday, Oct. 5, the school will sponsor a one-day Folk Art and Country Crafts Festival. All crafts associated with folk art and country are acceptable. Folk art and country crafts will be juried for the last time on June 1.

Mercy High School is located at 11 Mile and Middlebelt roads in Farmington Hills.

The science of selling cigarettes.

It goes something like this.

You manufacture a product that a lot of people want to buy. Unfortunately, the leading scientists in the country say the product is a health risk.

To make matters worse, people are dying. That doesn't do much for your corporate image. So you decide to do something about it.

First, you begin running a very provocative series of advertisements.

In those ads, you use the word "controversy" to imply that there's still some question about the link between cigarette smoking and heart disease.

Then you tell the public it's your responsibility to enlighten them so they can make their own informed decision.

Finally, you present research results and statistics that support your point of view.

In short, you cover your bases.

A well-known fact.

And a simple one: Advertisers don't say bad things about their products.

They also don't "lie" — because the law won't let them. Which means that if someone else says something bad about their product, they look for a way to paint a prettier picture. And if that means grabbing at straws, they'll take the biggest one they can get their hands on.

That's what one tobacco company recently did.

They zeroed-in on the Multiple Risk Factor Intervention Trial (MR FIT). Conducted from 1972 to 1982, MR FIT was a study of almost 13,000 middle-aged men considered high risks for heart attack because of high blood pressure, high blood cholesterol, and cigarette smoking.

Over the course of the study, half the men received special attention intended to reduce those three risks while the other half received only normal medical care.

Result? Only a 7% difference — not statistically significant — in the number of heart disease deaths between the two groups.

If you're a tobacco company, you couldn't ask for a happier ending.

You could, however, tell the rest of the story. Namely that during the 1970s the entire US population reduced its risks due to increased awareness of heart disease. And the men in the experiment — including the ones who didn't receive special medical attention — were no exception. Many of them stopped smoking. They changed their eating habits. And they kept closer tabs on their overall health.

The simple truth of the MR FIT matter is that at the end of the study, both groups had reduced their risk of heart disease. So naturally, and not surprisingly, the number of heart disease deaths between the two groups was not significantly different.

Oh yes, one more bit of information about MR FIT that might have been overlooked: the men who quit smoking (in both groups) had a coronary death rate almost 50% below that of those who kept smoking.

The truth prevails.

It also hurts sometimes. It can be especially painful when it threatens sales.

At the American Heart Association, we have nothing to gain by presenting partial truths. We have no motive other than that of improving the quality of life.

And we have no need to grab at straws when we hold in our hands the Surgeon General's Report which contains hundreds of studies establishing the link between smoking and heart disease.

What we do have at the American Heart Association is a problem with advertising that's disguised as an impartial report. With ulterior motives that take on the appearance of genuine concern. And with irresponsible ads that show little respect for public intelligence and even less for human life.

That's the science of selling cigarettes.

Artist inspired by travel

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

When she was a youngster, Eileen Bibby usually was awake at 6 a.m. She would draw or paint at that time because the rest of her family was still asleep and such artistic activities weren't noisy.

Now Bibby's days still start at 6 a.m. Much of them, she spends painting in an upstairs studio in her Livonia home, which is filled with award-winning artworks. Painting pictures has remained something she enjoys doing, along with traveling. With her journeys and her membership in various art organizations, Bibby finds "no limit on ideas," she says.

"Whatever you paint, that's a nice subject."

Bibby's first one-person exhibit, "People and Places," is running at the Scarab Club of Detroit, 217 Farnsworth at John R, now through May 31.

Featured in the showing are persons who modeled at the Scarab Club — where Bibby paints twice a week —

...me from extensive travel.

...ys painting portraits and landscapes. She has for her paintings through travel.

Arts Festival set for Plymouth

The City of Plymouth and the University Artists and Craftsmen Guild announce the fifth annual Spring Arts Festival, to take place Saturday and Sunday, June 8 and 9 in Plymouth's Kellogg Park.

Hours for the festival will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. For information, call the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce at 453-1540 or the guild at 763-4430.

The focus of this two-day festival is a juried exhibition and sale of the work of more than 100 fine artists and craftspersons from Michigan and throughout the midwest.

AMONG THE wide variety of media that will be represented in this exhibit are painting, photography, sculpture, graphics, ceramics, stained glass, jewelry and fibers. The public is encouraged to meet the artists and ask them questions about their work and its production.

Jazz will be featured prominently in the festival. The festival stage will present some of metro Detroit's most popular jazz musicians, many of whom have played in either the Detroit or Swiss Montreaux jazz festivals. Performers will include Bob DuRant's Big Band, Ron Jackson, Ed Nucelli, Wendall Harrison, the McKinney Cottonpickers, John Katalenic and Larry Nozaro.

Refreshments will be available from vendors in the "Gathering" directly across from the festival site, or from one of Plymouth's many fine restaurants within a minute's walk of Kellogg Park.

Artist inspired by travel

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

When she was a youngster, Eileen Bibby usually was awake at 6 a.m. She would draw or paint at that time because the rest of her family was still asleep and such artistic activities weren't noisy.

Now Bibby's days still start at 6 a.m. Much of them, she spends painting in an upstairs studio in her Livonia home, which is filled with award-winning artworks. Painting pictures has remained something she enjoys doing, along with traveling. With her journeys and her membership in various art organizations, Bibby finds "no limit on ideas," she says.

"Whatever you paint, that's a nice subject."

Bibby's first one-person exhibit, "People and Places," is running at the Scarab Club of Detroit, 217 Farnsworth at John R, now through May 31.

Featured in the showing are persons who modeled at the Scarab Club — where Bibby paints twice a week — and landscapes of places to which the artist has traveled.

BIBBY'S ARTWORKS are more than photographic representations of a person or place. ("You can take a camera and do that," she says). For example, her painting of branches against a colorful canyon wall is actually two different scenes combined. The actual background of the branches was green. She added city buildings in the background of her painting of a young man to bring out what she saw as a street-wise characteristic.

"I capture what the (subject) is, rather than a real direct likeness," Bibby said. ("With landscapes), the person (should) say, 'Yes, I know that place, I've been there.' They're not going to find it any place. It's an impression of the place."

Most of Bibby's works are acrylics, but she also does watercolors and charcoals. She paints on watercolor paper, masonite, cardboard, "anything that is a surface to paint on." Her house is filled with award-winning paintings.

Besides the Scarab Club, Bibby has been active in the Visual Arts Association of Livonia, Livonia Artists Club and Dearborn Arts and Crafts club.

"It takes up a lot of your time," Bibby said.

THE ARTIST, who worked as a mechanical designer, does the initial drawing of a painting on tracing paper to work out the layout and composition. Bibby will have several different painting projects going at once, working on one "until it gets to the point where I don't know what to do," then moving to another and back again. Some works have taken three hours to complete, while others have taken a month.

"The time element varies on how I feel about it," Bibby said.

Bibby attended what is now the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, and took illustration classes at Wayne State University and mechanical engineering classes at WSU and Lawrence Institute of Technology.

"It's nice to have that background to be able to do buildings and vases, but I don't do too many still-lives," she said. "I like to paint on location. All you can really do on location is the initial drawings."

Inspiration for works such as this church steeple come from extensive travel.

The profile of this day lily caught Monte Nagler's eye. Notice how use of a dark background helped to heighten the impact of the shot.

Flowers offer lots of photo options

One of the most abundant, beautiful and colorful subjects for your spring and summertime photography is flowers. So plentiful are they that the choices of presenting them photographically are almost endless.

You might, for example, select the close-up shot revealing the innermost heart of the flower, the delicate texture of a single petal that becomes a picture in itself.

Or you might prefer to show the character of a single whole flower, a grouping, or even an entire field of flowers.

The best time to photograph flowers is in the morning when they are freshest. Hot, afternoon sun may cause flowers to look limp and wilted.

Diffused sunlight from either behind or the side is best. It will give your flower intimate texture and full color saturation. Fill-in flash can also add extra sparkle.

TO FILL the viewfinder with a single flower or part of a blossom, you'll need close-up equipment such as close-up filters, extension tubes, or a macro lens. All work well and will give you pleasing results.

Because you'll often need a small aperture to maximize depth of field, a tripod and cable release are a must to keep your camera steady during the long shutter speeds required.

As always, watch your backgrounds! A distracting or "busy" background can ruin a picture. So be sure to check yours after composing your shot.

Look over the entire viewfinder and use your camera's depth-of-field pre-

photography

view to check out the background. You'll often want it as a soft non-distracting blur in your picture.

Better still, carry a small piece of black poster board or cloth in your camera bag and place it behind the flowers. The background will go totally black, resulting in greater impact in your finished shot.

The poster can also act as a wind-breaker to stop swaying flowers on a brisk day.

Try some innovative techniques, too. Shoot a group of flowers, focusing on only one so that the rest become complementary blurs of color. Or move in close and focus on only the stamen, allowing the petals to be out-of-focus blurs.

Also, try sprinkling the flowers with droplets of water to give them a fresh, natural look.

In addition to flowers around your home or in the wild, a local greenhouse will provide excellent picture possibilities, as will the botanical gardens located at Belle Isle and the University of Michigan gardens in Duxboro. The gardens at Cranbrook have flowers as well as scenic woodland areas and outdoor sculpture open to the public for a modest admission price.

Art galleries display fine furniture

By Corinne Abatt

Furniture has joined the quality fine arts now available in this area.

Arkitektura recently opened a showroom of designer furniture and accessories at 800 North Woodward, Birmingham. It isn't the first to carry fine art quality furniture, but certainly the collection is one of the most comprehensive.

Yaw Gallery at 530 N. Woodward, Birmingham, frequently shows hand-made furniture by outstanding, contemporary designer/craftsmen.

Donald Morris Gallery often has choice original pieces of furniture by Josef Hoffmann, Bugatti or other outstanding Bauhaus artists.

Arkitektura founder, Kenneth F. Smith Jr., along with Ronald Saarinen Swanson, have a 2,000-square-foot showroom on the second floor of a new building.

An entire showroom of designs by the likes of Saarinen, Hoffmann, Mackintosh, Aalto, Le Corbusier, Mies van der Rohe and others is new for this area.

Kenneth Smith (left), a Cranbrook educated furniture designer and founder of Arkitektura, sits at the reproduction Saarinen House dining room table with Ronald Saarinen Swanson. The two bring varied skills and backgrounds to the business which is already receiving international attention.

THE SAARINEN pieces in the new showroom are being reproduced from the original designs with exacting care. Smith is the Cranbrook Academy of Art graduate who received exclusive rights to manufacture and distribute Saarinen furniture about two years ago. His output has been well received both nationally and internationally.

Swanson's entry into the business is a natural. As a businessman, he brings a special expertise and balance. As a direct link (Eliel Saarinen was his grandfather) to the talented Saarinen, he is an invaluable resource. Plus, he has a deep appreciation for his heritage.

Smith and Swanson plan to open similar showrooms in other parts of the country, New England, for one, and are working on licensing firms to reproduce Saarinen fabric and metal designs.

Smith, a furniture designer, said, "My biggest push is to present furniture formerly seen only in trade showrooms," adding that consumer buying habits have changed considerably in recent years.

"The discriminating buyer and the desire for quality goods are so refreshing for me," he said recalling what a treat it was for him at Cranbrook to be surrounded by wonderful design.

In addition to originals such as the two chairs, designed by Otto Wagner of Austria in 1902 for the Postal Savings Bank and the Saarinen and Josef Hoffmann reproductions, there many signature pieces by contemporary designers.

SOME of these latter are tableware designed by internationally known architects. These aren't sets of china, but rather individually priced cups, saucers and plates.

There is, for instance, a beautiful espresso pot, designed by Aldo Rossi, architect; a pewter sugar and creamer, from an Eliel Saarinen design and an elegant candelabrum by J. Robert Swanson.

Smith said, "We're trying to show sort of singular decorative objects that I think are noteworthy."

Smith said he is going to fairs in Milan and the Scandinavian countries regularly "looking for the latest classic furniture."

They will also be adding to their inventory of Saarinen furniture. They have all of Saarinen House, Cranbrook

Glass classes offered

Craft shows scheduled

Jurying for Mercy High School's Christmas Arts and Crafts Festival will take place June 1, July 1 and Sept. 1.

For information, call the school at 476-8020 during the day.

Mercy will present its annual Christmas craft festival Saturday-Sunday, Nov. 30-Dec. 1. The festival, now in its fifth year, contains approximately 200 tables of juried arts and crafts.

On Saturday, Oct. 5, the school will sponsor a one-day Folk Art and Country Crafts Festival. All crafts associated with folk art and country are acceptable. Folk art and country crafts will be juried for the last time on June 1.

Mercy High School is located at 11 Mile and Middlebelt roads in Farmington Hills.

The science of selling cigarettes.

It goes something like this.

You manufacture a product that a lot of people want to buy. Unfortunately, the leading scientists in the country say the product is a health risk.

To make matters worse, people are dying.

That doesn't do much for your corporate image. So you decide to do something about it.

First, you begin running a very provocative series of advertisements.

In those ads, you use the word "controversy" to imply that there's still some question about the link between cigarette smoking and heart disease.

Then you tell the public it's your responsibility to enlighten them so they can make their own informed decision.

Finally, you present research results and statistics that support your point of view.

In short, you cover your bases.

A well-known fact.

And a simple one: Advertisers don't say bad things about their products.

They also don't "lie"—because the law won't let them. Which means that if someone else says something bad about their product, they look for a way to paint a prettier picture. And if that means grabbing at straws, they'll take the biggest one they can get their hands on.

That's what one tobacco company recently did.

They zeroed-in on the Multiple Risk Factor Intervention Trial (MR FIT). Conducted from 1972 to 1982, MR FIT was a study of almost 13,000 middle-aged men considered high risks for heart attack because of high blood pressure, high blood cholesterol, and cigarette smoking.

Over the course of the study, half the men received special attention intended to reduce those three risks while the other half received only normal medical care.

Result? Only a 7% difference — not statistically significant — in the number of heart disease deaths between the two groups.

If you're a tobacco company, you couldn't ask for a happier ending.

You could, however, tell the rest of the story. Namely that during the 1970s the entire US population reduced its risks due to increased awareness of heart disease. And the men in the experiment — including the ones who didn't receive special medical attention — were no exception. Many of them stopped smoking. They changed their eating habits. And they kept closer tabs on their overall health.

The simple truth of the MR FIT matter is that at the end of the study, both groups had reduced their risk of heart disease. So naturally, and not surprisingly, the number of heart disease deaths between the two groups was not significantly different.

Oh yes, one more bit of information about MR FIT that might have been overlooked: the men who quit smoking (in both groups) had a coronary death rate almost 50% below that of those who kept smoking.

The truth prevails.

It also hurts sometimes. It can be especially painful when it threatens sales.

At the American Heart Association, we have nothing to gain by presenting partial truths. We have no motive other than that of improving the quality of life.

And we have no need to grab at straws when we hold in our hands the Surgeon General's Report which contains hundreds of studies establishing the link between smoking and heart disease.

What we do have at the American Heart Association is a problem with advertising that's disguised as an impartial report. With ulterior motives that take on the appearance of genuine concern. And with irresponsible ads that show little respect for public intelligence and even less for human life.

That's the science of selling cigarettes.

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE
