BESIDES BEING assigned to a platoon, Myers said each officer will be assigned to one of four specialty teams traffic and patrol specialist, evidence technician/initial investigator, crime prevention/community service specialist and a supervision team comprised of the platoon leaders.

Although officers will be working in specialty areas, all of them still will be required to perform routine police du-

Myers said the area of specialty really will serve as a resource to the platoon - rather than having officers only performing their specialty.

Traffic and patrol specialists are the coordinators on their platoons for patrol service, including development of patrol strategies," he said.

The traffic/patrol specialists also will: study traffic and accident records to find patterns, place a priority on traffic enforcement, monitor ticket production in their platoon, coordinate the scene of major accident investigations, and promote the use of radar and Breathalyzers in their platoon.

"These officers will not be limited to investigating accidents, nor will they handle all the accidents on their platoons," Myers said.

"They are a resource for the other platoon officers and will be responsible for the proper patrol and traffic programs used by their platoon," he said.

Myers said the team approach is innovative and will further the officers' professional development.

Many of the officers will participate in seminars and classes relating to their area of specialty, and then pass their experience on to the department through in-house training sessions.

Besides the team concept, Myers also announced that one officer is going to be assigned to parking enforcement and night foot patrols.

"During the daytime the officer will work with parking and in the evening he will provide foot patrols in the downtown and park area," he said.

Berry pickin' time

Joyce Moomey of Northville enjoys the pleasant warmth of an early June day at a pick-your-own strawberry farm. She is shown here at Blessed's Berry Farm on Powell Road north of Ann Arbor Trail. Bob Blessed, who has been raising strawberries in Plymouth Township for more than 20 years, was out of business last summer after a severe winter harmed aging plants. Blessed replanted five acres last year which are now full of ripe fruit waiting to be picked - at prices which have remained unchanged for the past three years. Blessed said the extra warm temperatures in May have caused the berries to ripen early this month and they are in their prime right now. For daily information on picking, call 453-6439.

The fifth annual Spring Arts Festival will be held this weekend in Plymouth.

The show, sponsored by the city of Plymouth and the University Artists and Craftsmen Guild of Ann Arbor, will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, June 8, and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday in Kellogg Park.

The booths will be located throughout the park. Refreshments will be available in The Gathering, the pavilion on Penniman Avenue between Union and Main.

The focus of the two-day festival is a juried exhibition and sale of the work of more than 100 artists and craftsmen from Michgian and throughout the Mid-

The media represented includes painting, photography, sculpture, graphics, ceramics, wood, metalsmithing, glass, leather, etchings, jewelry and fibers.

The public is encouraged to meet the artists and ask them questions about their work and its production.

Jazz will feature prominently in the two-day festival. The festival stage will present some of metro Detroit's most popular jazz musicians, many of whom have played either in the Detoit or Swiss Montreaux Jazz Festivals.

Performers will include Bob Du-Rant's Big Band, Ron Jackson, Ed Nucelli. Wendall Harrison, the McKinney Cottonpickers, John Katalenic, and

Plymouth city commissioners gave final approval to the 1985 street paving program Monday night, including two streets which residents requested be dropped.

The commission took action to approve the special assessment roll for the project, as well as accepting the low bid of $302,800 for the work.

Besides receiving petitions requesting Roosevelt and Hartsough be eliminated from the program, the commission earlier heard complaints about the city's method of cost allocation for the

The total cost of the program is split

lated on an average front footage cost, which is arrived at by dividing the total project front footage by the total project cost.

Several residents said the method was unfair because some streets require more work than others and the project should be divided into categories based on the work to be done.

However, the commission proceeded with lumping all the work into one project and averaging the cost.

be Solomon up here," Mayor David Pugh said during Monday night's precommission meeting.

"We could come up with a whole time until it will need the work."

75 percent homeowners/25 percent bunch of ornate ways to special assess, city. The homeowners' share is calcu- but it will require more steps," City Manager Henry Graper said.

> "WE RECEIVED petitions from Roosevelt and Hartsough, signed by residents that did not feel the streets needed to be paved," Pugh said.

> "Roosevelt visibily needs repair and we have been told by the city engineer that the cost of patching would exceed the cost of repaving.'

If Roosevelt were eliminated from the 1985 program, it would be included It gets pretty damn hard for us to in the 1986 program, he said.

"Hartsough, in comparison to Roosevelt, doesn't show the same need," Pugh said. "But it's only a matter of Pugh called for motions to drop both streets but no commissioners were willing to sponsor such a move - thus the streets were included.

As for the method of assessing costs, Pugh said a new petition from residents of Fairground was received. The Fairground residents believe their share should be dropped from 75 percent to 45 percent because the street was used as a "railroad bypass." Earlier, some 25 copies of a letter sent by resident Dave Barrett were received. Those letters called for dividing the assessment into two categories based on the extent of work. "These issues primarily had to do with fairness in the cost of paving. The comments received said that even if there was a 5 percent variance in the cost of work to be done, there should be separate assessments," Pugh said.

Assuming a 50-foot lot, the mayor said a 5 percent difference works out to be $2.38 per year, over the 10-year assessment - excluding interest.

"Even if there were a 40 percent differential, it would only be $19 a year." As for the Fairground petition, Pugh cent - assuming a 50-foot lot - only would mean a $27 per year savings. Other streets in the city receive different levels of traffic, he said.

"If we treat one differently, shouldn't we therefore treat each one different.

"There is difficulty in trying to determine 100 percent fairness. We know the recommended program may not be 100 percent fair but it treats everyone the same," the mayor said.

PUGH SAID several things need to be kept in mind. Repaving the street helps with property values and helps with drainage.

Also, the low bid of $302,800 for the project is 20 percent below the esti-mates, he said. That bid, from Holloway Construction, was accepted in a separate vote.

By proceeding with the program now, rather than reallocating costs and delaying the program, Pugh said the city could take advantage of the low bid - which could provide as much savings as reallocating.

The city also hopes to take advantage of a strong bond market, which will mean a lower interest rate.

"If the bond market stays where it's said going from 75 percent to 45 per- at, we're looking at between 6 and 9 percent on the interest rate," Graper

If the city waited to reallocate costs,

Graper said they might miss out on the low interest rates.

"In fact we are proceeding with the work on next year's paving program because of the condition of the market," Graper said.

The city hopes to sell the bonds for the 1986 program in January or February and invest the money until the work starts.

City Engineer Ken West said lumping all the 1985 work into one project enables the city to obtain substantial savings on the work - as reflected in the low bid. If the work would have been divided by category, the costs would have been much higher, he said.

The special assessment roll was confirmed subject to the changes in frontage foot costs due to the low Holloway

The original estimate of $11.91 per front foot will be dropped to $9.51. Commissioners decided to adjust the annual assessment cost, rather than leaving it at $11.91 and dropping off. the last two years.

By doing so, commissioners said they were giving residents the benefit of the savings "up front."

Doggedly factual

Here are some interesting facts about humans' favorite companion, the dog:

• The Tahitian bear dog is the rarest breed of dog, with only five known examples surviving. The dogs were formerly used for hunting big game by the Tahitian Indians of western Canada.

• The Yorkshire terrier, the Chihuahua and the toy poodle are the smallest breeds of dog. Miniature versions have been known to weigh less than 16 ounces in adulthood.

• As a species, the St. Bernard is the biggest breed. The heaviest example weighs 305 pounds, standing 39 inches at the shoulder.

 Almost 10,000 people attended the funeral of a mongrel dog named Lazarus in San Francisco in 1862. The pooch belonged to the eccentric Emperor Norton I of the U.S., Protector of Mexico.

Auto dealer foresees imports

staff writer

Within six months to a year, the automobile business in the U.S. will be converting to a world market and the country will be flooded with imported cars.

This is the opinion of Lou LaRiche, the Chevrolet dealer in Plymouth, who said that at the moment, every Chevrolet dealer will be taking on three Japanese models - just as a starter. Already LaRiche has the Subura from Japan to go with the Chevrolet and is planning to take on the Sprint and the Spectrum.

While Chevrolet is leading the way in General Motors imports, other divisions are planning to take on imports.

Chrysler Corp. already has a deal with a Japanese automaker whereby it handles Mitsubishi products and Ford Motor Co. has several models it will handle when the real place. LaRiche predicted that within two to three years, 40 percent of the cars sold in America will be imports.

Why is such a complete change about to take place? LaRiche said that the cars can be built cheaper and, in some cases, better in foreign countries.

He pointed out that all the leading companies in the U.S. have stock in the foreign automobile firms. And because cars can be built cheaper over there, they will import LARICHE ALSO pointed out that the au-tos now are in a world market as the American companies are buying parts from across the sea and in come cases the foreign companies are building over here.

How did all this happen?

"Well," LaRiche answered, "the foreign countries like Japan and Korea bought parts over here, then improved on them. and now the imported parts are used in the

"Don't be surprised to learn that Korea will be the biggest source for imported cars. In that country, they have cheap labor and have improved on the parts. So, it could become a race between Korea and Japan for the major part of the American market."

According to LaRiche, who always has an optimistic outlook, "It may not be as bad as it looks for the American working man.

"When the robots came on the market, the assembly line men found other jobs or trained for them. And the computer business has advanced rapidly and the workers who were forced to change are being replaced rather handily.

"It will be the same over here if the foreign companies decide to build plants in the United States. They will take up some of the workers and help to train all the rest."

The big thing to consider is that the auto industry, which once was almost solely American, is now becoming a world activity with more and more changes to come.

County forwards rebate on sewers

Residents may see a slight decrease in their next sewer bill thanks to Wayne County.

County Executive William Lucas last week announced a rebate of some $2 million to communities served by the county owned and operated Rouge Valley wastewater interceptor.

The 15 communities served by the sewer interceptor - which runs to the Detroit sewage treatment plant - will receive credits on their billings. The county Department of Public Works will credit the billings immediately.

"Investment earnings and sound fiscal practices within the department are responsible for these savings," Lucas said.

Plymouth is expected to receive $42,800, while Plymouth Township is expected to receive

Although he wasn't aware of the announcement, Plymouth Township DPW Director Tony Hollis said the amount is "fairly inconsequential" when divided among all of the township's sewer customers.

Nevertheless, Hollis said the past practice for such rebates is to apply the amount as credits on the next customer billing - most likely meaning a "couple of dollars."

The City of Plymouth, however, will not be passing on its rebate. Instead, City Manager Henry Graper said the rebate will return to the water and sewer fund.

The city absorbed a past sewer rate increase with water and sewer funds, Graper said.

In the past, credits have been given to communities after Detroit grants rebates based on "look back adjustments" to its charges for sewage disposal. Hollis said this was the first rebate he can remember from the county.

Youth Corps seeks 15,000

Young adults living in Wayne County outside of Detroit and downriver communities can now apply for a chance to work this summer through the 1985 Michigan Youth Corps.

Pending legislative approval, the statewide program will provide jobs paying a minimum of $3.35 per hour for a total of 15,000 youth. Those taking part will work in county parks and recreational areas, along roadways and other county worksites.

Unemployed youth between 18 and 21 can apply at any Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) or Department of Social Service office.

Applications are also being taken in Room W-169, Schoolcraft College, Livonia; and at 5454 Venoy Road, Wayne. Universities, colleges and high schools will also carry applications.

How the board hopefuls stand on district issues

for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education, the Observer asked each questions on issues and gave them the opportunity to respond with biographical

The candidates are David P. Artley, Renee Vermeersch Casilas, Stephen G. Harper, George Johnson, Richard W. Sumpter, and Dean Swartzwelter.

Two persons will be elected to the school board in the annual election on Tuesday, June 10. The questions asked of each and their answers follows:

QUESTION 1: How should the issue of random selection be handled? (75 word maximum allowed for answer)

Casillas: "I'm in favor of the current random selection process which allows the balancing of the school's populations without continually changing school boundaries as the population shifts. Since students are able to take classes in either school, the process allows the advantages of a wider variety of course offerings."

Johnson: "I do not agree with random selection. Enrollment should be done geographically in the high schools as in elementary enrollment.

Sumpter: "I would support a family assignment. The random assignment would apply to the first sibling entering the system. After this assignment each additional sibling would have the option of the family assignment or being placed in the random process to balance the populations. This would not, however, change the family assign-Artley: "Extension of random selection to ninth grade was a must something that I supported since the ninth grade left the Park. It could easily be extended to whole families allowing school loyalties to be maintained. Exceptions to random selection are dif-

To inform readers about candidates ficult to deal with - it might be better to look at open enrollment or one school concepts at the Park. Constant review is a must and it should involve staff, parents and citizens in general.

> Swartzwelter: "Random selection has served a valuable role for district in the past. It has balanced student populations between the two high schools, integrated the community both socially and academically, and eliminated the need for boundary changes. In the future, however, changes should be made to improve the system and eliminate hardships imposed on certain groups of people. The recent extension of the sibling rule for three to four years is an example of improvements.

Harper: "The recently passed random selection policy is a fair and equitable means of assigning students to the high schools. Most other changes, proposed at various times over the years, would result in unequal treatment of various groups of students, or would create an imbalance in student ed is not available to make a decision cant changes to the system should be the subject of a mjaor community survey prior to board passage."

QUESTION 2: To provide adequate space for middle school enrollment, should the district: sell Central Middle and continue to rent Lowell; renovate Central Middle so it's more useable and discontinue the lease of Lowell; or build a middle school, sell Central and end leasing of Lowell? Why? (75 word

Johnson: "I think letters should be sent home with every student or voter for that matter to poll them on their opinion. The voters, parents etc. should be the people to make the final decision. But my vote would be to renovate Central and use any existing buildings we already have available within the ing is critical. Leasing Lowell was a good move noting the fluctuating nature of student enrollment at the time. Now, it is apparent that we need a middle school in Canton where the greatest population increase is taking place. It makes sense, in the short run, to renovate Central rather than close. We need space NOW. We must plan for the future through bond issues and keep Lowell open for now."

Harper: In order to house middle school enrollment and reduce class size, it is necessary to keep both Lowell and Central several years. In meantime, district should renovate Central. A new middle school would cost twice as much as Central renovation, and would not have Central's large floor space or excellent specialized facilities. If significant long term enrollment downturn occurs, Lowell lease could be terminated, if overall class sizes are not adversely affected."

Sumpter: "All the information needpopulation between the schools over on the future of Central Middle School. time. Any future proposal for signifi- The continued use of Lowell Middle School would depend on the future of Central. I am a strong advocate of the neighborhood school, therefore, a need for a middle school in the southern part of the district is needed."

> Swartzwelter: "Student populations have leveled off but not declined as anticipated. Ninth grade is largest class in the district (1,300). The K-2nd grades are increasing. The district will need both Central and Lowell middle schools well into the 1990s - plus additional space. The open classrooms at Eriksson, Field, and Hulsing elementary schools should be converted to closed classrooms, and a flexible building for use as either an elementary or middle school should be built in southern portion of district.

Casillas: "The bond committee, composed of community representatives, school administrators, teachers, other school personnel and architectural con-

Artley: "The whole question of hous-ng is critical. Leasing Lowell was a of what to do with Central and Lowell as well as other needed renovations and improvements districtwide. This committee is readying a report to present to the school board and community. Input from this committee and the community is needed before determining the best solution to the middle school housing problem."

> QUESTION 3: What educational areas do you feel need attention and improvement? Why and what better alternative is there? (75 words)

Artley: "Class size must be reduced and must be expressed in actual terms. That and discipline can do more for the learning environment than anything else. We must search for better ways to finance schools rather than be at the mercy of an oscillating economy. Perhaps as a function of business and/or income tax. Libraries and research resources are crucial - next year's budget reflects some improvements."

Sumpter: "Now that our ninth grade is part of a four year high school program, the classes needed in the middle school must be improved to reflect those available at the Park. This could be done by assigning all the ninth graders to one or two locations."

Swartzwelter: "Class sizes are too large in elementary and middle schools. Classroom effectiveness is not adequate for children and teachers with classes at present size. This situation is partially caused by space shortages. As a district, we must solve the space problems and find sufficient funding to reduce class sizes. The state may ultimately assist local boards with funding to reduce class sizes (statewide) based on an incentive formula to reward districts that lower their class academic students need personal atten-

class size from kindergarten through 12th grade the problem will more than likely remedy itself. The remaining 80 percent can only benefit as well. The teachers will have more time to teach rather than being bogged down with paper work and overcrowded class-

Casillas: "Class size reduction is an issue of concern for both parents and teachers. An experimental program in Indiana designed to improve students' basic skills in reading, writing, and arithmetic by reducing class size from kindergarten through second grade, found that students in smaller classes scored higher on standardized tests, presented fewer discipline problems, and teachers reported increased productivity and effectiveness.

Discipline is a constant problem and must be continually addressed by parents, teachers and administrators.

Harper: "District moving in right direction, but should place added emphabetter programming for clustergrouped TAG students; smaller classes district-wide; increased "capacity" in critical secondary electives (computers, etc.); up-to-date equipment and teaching materials; more quality staff development and inservice opportunities. Should also place more emphasis on goals for students and on variety of outcome-based educational techniques to address wide spectrum of student learning styles and abilities."

OUESTION 4: How will you utilize your leadership skills on the board? How will you arrive at decisions on controversial issues? (50 words)

Harper: "Have needed skills in strategic planning, and financial management to achieve goals. As former board member and long-time volunteer, provide broad experience. Decisions must Johnson: "The 20 percent or so lower represent wishes of community, not personal biases of board members. Will tion and special help in reading and seek all facts on issues, solicit commu-writing. By lowering and equalizing nity feedback through public forums, surveys, and personal contacts.'

> Casillas: "My experience as a parent, teacher and school consultant make me acutely conscious of the absolute necessity of continual dialogue among parents, teachers, school administrators, students and the school board. Controversial issues can be decided only after opinions have been actively solicted from all concerned parties."

> Swartzwelter: "Will utilize leadership skills to increase communications between board and all groups affected by board decisions. Will serve as catalyst to bring fresh ideas to board for open discussion. After obtaining input from groups affected by an issue, will evaluate and weigh inputs and seek creative alternatives to obtain best decision.

Johnson: "A good leader should always make decisions to the best of their ability, placing the welfare of students first above their own self intersis on: developmental placement and est. Again I like the idea of polling the curriculum in early elementary grades; students, parents, teachers and taxpay ers when possible. If it is not feasible an certain issues I will make a decision which I feel will benefit the majority of the community."

> Artley: "I have led the fight for an internal communication committee and chaired staff morale committee. co-sponsored "Coffees with Board," promoted more open regular board meetings, sought labor peace through expedited bargaining and chaired many school events. I believe in active and involved board leadership. Research the issue, hear facts, consult and > Sumpter: "I believe the key to good leadership is communication. By communicating with the public, other board members and professionals before an issue comes to the table would insure the best decision being made. This communication is the best way to handle controversial issues.'

SC hopefuls give board good marks

staff writer

It's a pretty good team, and it gives high marks to President Richard McDowell.

That's what three candidates say about the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees's performance and the community college's chief administra-

"There's no problem I know of," said challenger Hussein S. (Hank) Karzun when asked which decisions of incumbents Michael W. Burley and Sharon L. Sarris he disagreed with.

They spoke recently in a candidates' forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters in Livonia.

Two of the three will win six-year terms on the college board at the June 10 election. The college conducts its elections in odd-numbered years at the same time as school districts in northwestern Wayne County.

REPEATEDLY the candidates shied away from questions about the administration's broad hints that in 1986 voters should be asked for a property tax increase.

Burley, chairman of the board the last two years, called a millage hike "a last resort. At no time has the board considered a millage. A finance subcommittee is to consider a millage." A Northville district teacher, Burley said he would consider a millage increase "only if it (the lack of one) cuts into the program."

Burley said any millage should be "earmarked for a sinking fund" rather than used for operations. "But we're not close to it," he emphasized.

He recalled that a previous board said the Culinary Arts addition couldn't be constructed without a millage increase. Although the millage failed in 1979, a scaled-down addition was completed anyway, he said.

Sarris, a General Motors communications manager and former teacher, called the question "an assumption," saying it is "not so obvious" more property tax revenue is needed although it's "certainly an option." Other options are increasing tuition and more state aid.

Schoolcraft's $18 million budget is covered onethird by state aid, one-third by property taxes and one-third by tuition. In two straight years, the administration has hinted broadly that millage should be sought for capital needs rather than operations.

Karzun, a product design engineer in Ford Motor Co.'s light trucks division, said, "Education should be supported at any cost" but felt any Schoolcraft request should be for a short time period. "We should keep pressure on the administration and unions to balance the budget," he said.

A native of Palestine, Karzun said he has a "positive impression" of the incumbents, but asked for a chance to bring new blood to the seven-member board.

PRESIDENT McDOWELL, in his third year, was generally applauded.

"High marks," said Burley, who chaired the meeting when the board conducted its recent closed-door evaluation. "We gave him a 6 on a scale of 7. There was no increase in salary. We will discuss that at a June 12 meeting."

"Very pleased," said Sarris. "He has taken appropriate leadership roles . . . There is room for

"He was very gracious to fill me in," said Karzun, who was barred from the closed-door evaluation. He liked McDowell's stress on employee involvement which he said was borrowed from the Japanese and is being used in the auto industry.

OVER SEVERAL years, Schoolcraft has cut its full-time faculty from 160 to a projected level of 152 next fall. The candidates were little worried about the trend.

Sarris called it "something to be concerned about," but noted part-time faculty members can bring flexibility to college staffing.

Burley said the ratio of fulltimers to part-timers is 60-40 but that the ratio shouldn't drop below 50-50. He said full-timers "help maintain the quality of the program and protect it.'

Karzun said, "The quality of the program depends on the quality of the teachers. I will keep my eye on quality rather than full-time or part-time faculty. There are needs for part-time teachers."

THE CANDIDATES were asked what they see in the six years ahead. Burley: More advanced placement of students based on competency, no strikes (a high priority) due to "mutual gains" bargaining with the Faculty Forum, more adult education (including recertification of teachers, more outside funding and possibly expansion of the district into Redford Township and Wayne-Westland.

Sarris: Stronger business-industry relatioinships, more coordination with local districts, and greater efforts to recruit and retain students and faculty through "creative marketing" of the college.

Karzun: Enrichment of technical programs, broad-based and balanced programs. "I agree with a lot of the programs and suggestions."

"WHAT UNIQUE qualities does each possess? Burley: "a professional educator 20 years, from preschool to graduate school," has taught educational leadership at Eastern Michigan University.

Karzun: Has managed projects (wheel design, with a team of designers, lawyers, marketing and purchasing people at Ford).

Sarris: "Knowledge of the community" through corporate and political contacts. "People tell me their opinions. I do my homework and pay attention to details."

Best medicine: Less fat, smoke

DID YOU know that:

• A rather startling finding of a recent medical report is that prevention, through two simple life-style changes, has had more impact on reducing the death rate from heart disease than sophisticated medical treatment. The two simple changes: reducing fat consumption and cigarette smoking.

• Unfortunately, there is no scientific evidence that grapefruit, or grapefruit concentrate in a pill, contains enzymes that reduce appetite or increase the rate at which the body burns

- Scientists estimate that "disuse" accounts for almost half the decrease in cardiovascular fitness that normally occurs with aging.
- When it comes to heart disease risk, recent studies suggest that where body fat resides counts more than how much fat there is. Tummy fat, in particular, increeases heart attack risk dramatically.
- According to an American College of Sports Medicine position statement, exercising fewer than two days a week at less than 50 percent of maximum capacity and for fewer than 10 minutes a day is inadequate for developing and maintaining fitness in healthy adults.

- · Although alcohol is not usually viewed as a performance-enhancing drug, some athletes believe it relaxes them. However, considerable research now indicates that alcohol ingestion causes a deterioration in motor performance, particularly in sports that require information processig and rapid reactions to changing events.
- Health conscious fast-food addicts, take heart: A national fast-food restaurant chain with more than 400 eateries in 24 states now provides patrons with low-fat, low-cholesterol, low-salt and low-calorie meals within minutes. Anyone for a plain turkey sandwich and an unlimited salad bar?

Jobs available this summer

The Michigan Youth Corps will be in operation again this summer to curb unemployment among the community's young adults.

Each summer the Michigan Youth Corps seeks to place 18-21-year-olds into a variety of jobs in the area.

The work sites include state and local parks and recreation areas, state and local highway areas, schools, hospitals, and similar locations.

The program is scheduled to operate 30-40 hours a week for six to 12 weeks. To be eligible the applicant must be a resident of Michigan and be unemployed.

Applications can be picked up and submitted 10:30-11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday at the Rock Shop at Plymouth Salem High School, at the Chief Connection at Plymouth Canton High School, or at the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) branch office on Joy Road between Lilley and Haggerty in Canton Applications should be turned in as soon as possible as they will be given priority. For further information, call Larry Greenway between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. at 451-6307.

where scientists work alongside physicians, transforming discovery into treatment. They found that Harper concentrates on the tough adult cases in cancer, heart disease and serious vision disorders. Patients like Kathy come to Harper Hospital at the Medical Center with confidence. They come because Harper is a major participant, together with the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York and the M.D. Anderson Tumor Institute in Houston, in America's network of only twenty Comprehensive Cancer Centers. Patients know that if the diagnosis is cancer, there is no better place to be than Harper Hospital. And they come with confidence because the Kresge Eye Institute is at Harper Hospital. This important Medical Center resource is devoted exclusively to the problems of vision. And through its research and clinical work, the Kresge Eye Institute gives new hope to millions with impaired vision throughout the world.

Harper is hope for heart patients, too. Its large scale, nationally recognized program brings together research, teaching, surgery and medicine. More open heart surgeries are performed each year at Harper than are performed at any other hospital in Michigan. But of more significance is the growing number of heart patients Harper is able to treat successfully each year without surgery. For Kathy and her family.

For you and your family. Harper Hospital is Research. Science. Hope and Healing.

House refuses to soften South African sanctions

corded on major roll call votes May 16-23.

HOUSE

SOUTH AFRICA - By a vote of 148-256, the House rejected an amendment to soften proposed economic sanctions against South Africa.

The vote left intact a ban on most types of new U.S. investments in South Africa that is part of HR 1460, an anti-apartheid bill that remained under de-

The rejected amendment sought to permit American capital to be invested in new companies that voluntarily adhere to the anti-discrimination, fair employment principles of the so-called "Sullivan

At issue was whether non-whites in South Africa are helped or hurt by U.S. disinvestment.

U.S. conservatives often argue that continued foreign investment is necessary to improve the lot of the victims of apartheid. Liberals say only the jolt of disinvestment will force the South African government of grant full rights to non-whites.

Supporter Henry Hyde, R-III., said disinvestment cause "further unemployment deprivation. . . hunger, and I dare say revolution

Opponent Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., said the South

Members voting yes favored the amendment. Voting yes: William Broomfield, R-Birmingham. Voting no: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel. D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

DEMOCRATIC BUDGET - By a vote of 258-170, the House approved the Democrats' fiscal 1986-88 budget resolution, which calls for $967.3 billion in 1986 outlays, projected revenue of at least $794.1 billion, and an annual deficit of $173.2 bil-

The measure (H Con Res 152) will be merged in conference with the GOP-controlled Senate's budget plan, which also would cut the deficit by $56 billion in 1986 but which differs from the Democratic plan with respect to Social Security and defense, among other areas.

The House budget freezes 1986 defense spending at its 1985 level, while the Senate allows military outlays to rise with inflation, a projected hike of $32 billion. The House permits cost-of-living adjustments for Social Security, while the Senate freezes Social Security for one year.

Neither chamber would increase taxes. Members voting yes supported the Democratic leadership's budget blueprint.

Voting yes: Hertel, Ford, Levin. Voting no: Pursell, Broomfield.

GOP BUDGET - By a vote of 102-329, the House rejected the Republican leadership budget that was offered as the chief alternative to the Democratic budget resolution (above).

The GOP proposed inflation-adjusted defense spending in fiscal 1986 in place of the freeze in Social Security cost-of-living hikes.

Among the GOP's domestic austerity proposals were a 10 percent cut in the legislative branch budget, a three-year, 77.5 percent cut in Amtrak subsidies, tougher "workfare" requirements for food stamp recipients, and elimination of the Synthetic Fuels Corp. and the Appalachian Regional President Reagan reluctantly accepted the amendment as part of the fiscal 1986 defense authorization bill (S 1160), which was headed for final passage and conference with the House.

Under the amendment, the bill will fund production of only 12 more MX's in addition to the 42 copies authorized in previous years. Reagan had wanted authorization of 48 more missiles. Also, the amendment permits no more than 50 missiles to be based in existing, reinforced Minuteman missile silos.

Sponsor Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said: "I am hopeful *that this compromise will put behind us the question of MX basing . . . in a vulnerable position.

Housing prices rise with economy

By W.W. Edgar staff writer

An interesting sign that the recent times are coming is shown by the increase in the average prices of homes in Plymouth

A recent check of Realtors and real estate firms shows that the current average price is $80,000 with the possibility that they will go even higher.

When it comes to Plymouth Township, the average price is now considered about $85,000. One of the reasons given is the fact that the township has a wide area of residential property and side lawns and gardens. So, the condos more costly homes are being built.

Ken Way, the city assessor, doesn't agree with the real estate people at the many single homes.' moment and according to his figures on recession has faded and that good the city rolls, the average price is about $60,000.

He said that the figures are increasing because the present occupants of many of the older homes are having them improved and modernized.

ON THE OTHER hand, Way pointed out that the present trend is toward condominiuns.

"Present-day folks," Way said, 'don't want such things as front lawns, doesn't have residential property for

It goes something like this.

You manufacture a product that a lot of people want to buy. Unfortunately, the leading scientists in the country say the product is a health

To make matters worse, people are dying. That doesn't do much for your corporate image. So you decide to do something about it.

First, you begin running a very provocative series of advertisements. In those ads, you use the word "controversy" to imply that there's still some question about the link between cigarette smoking and heart disease.

Then you tell the public it's your responsibility to enlighten them so they can make their own informed decision.

Finally, you present research results and statistics that support your point of view. In short, you cover your bases.

A well-known fact.

And a simple one: Advertisers don't say bad things about their products.

They also don't "lie" — because the law won't let them. Which means that if someone else says something bad about their product, they look for a way to paint a prettier picture. And if that means grabbing at straws, they'll take the biggest one they can get their hands on.

That's what one tobacco company recently

They zeroed-in on the Multiple Risk Factor Intervention Trial (MR FIT). Conducted from 1972 to 1982, MR FIT was a study of almost 13,000 middle-aged men considered high risks for heart attack because of high blood pressure, high blood cholesterol, and cigarette smoking.

Over the course of the study, half the men received special attention intended to reduce those three risks while the other half received only normal medical care.

Result? Only a 7% difference — not statistically significant — in the number of heart disease deaths between the two groups.

If you're a tobacco company, you couldn't ask for a happier ending.

You could, however, tell the rest of the story. Namely that during the 1970s the entire US population reduced its risks due to increased awareness of heart disease. And the men in the experiment - including the ones who didn't receive special medical attention - were no exception. Many of them stopped smoking. They changed their eating habits. And they kept closer tabs on their overall health.

The simple truth of the MR FIT matter is that at the end of the study, both groups had reduced their risk of heart disease. So naturally, and not surprisingly, the number of heart disease deaths between the two groups was not significantly different.

Oh yes, one more bit of information about MR FIT that might have been overlooked: the men who quit smoking (in both groups) had a coronary death rate almost 50% below that of those who kept smoking.

The truth prevails.

It also hurts sometimes. It can be especially painful when it threatens sales.

At the American Heart Association, we have nothing to gain by presenting partial truths. We have no motive other than that of improving the quality of life.

And we have no need to grab at straws when we hold in our hands the Surgeon General's Report which contains hundreds of studies establishing the link between smoking and heart

What we do have at the American Heart Association is a problem with advertising that's disguised as an impartial report. With ulterior motives that take on the appearance of genuine concern. And with irresponsible ads that show little respect for public intelligence and even less for human life.

That's the science of selling cigarettes.

Business survey shows earnings to rise in region

People in charge of small- and medium-sized businesses are optimistic about the economy in general and prospects for their own companies. That's according to Touche Ross' third annual regionwide business survey Conducted in March and April by the Big Eight accounting and consulting firm in conjunction with Crain's Detroit Business, the survey was made of business owners and managers.

The survey was mailed to 4,000 businesses in southern Michigan and northern Ohio. Responses were received from 498 individual businesses, a 12.5percent return rate. The results have a confidence level of plus-minus 4 per-

• Plan to add employees but list labor costs as their No. 1 problem.

• Favor reducing workers' compensation costs as the best way to improve the area's business climate.

· Are about evenly split on the impact of the federal income tax simplification proposal.

Court asked to drop rule

The state Senate is nudging the Michigan Supreme Court toward adopting a court rule that would make it easier to introduce testimony from children into court, according to state Sen. Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford.

Courts generally prohibit second-hand testimony called "hearsay" - as evidence. For 92 years, however, Michigan had a "tender-years exception" to that rule. It allowed adults to testify on what young children had told them about rape, incest and abuse cases.

The Supreme Court adopted the rule in an 1886 case, but reversed itself in 1978, prohibiting evidence told to an adult by a child. The current rule requires the child to testify in open court.

THE SENATE resolution asks the Supreme Court to adopt the "tender years" exception to the nohearsay rule. Author is state Sen. Connie Binsfeld,

The Senate Judiciary Committee unanimously voted it out of committee, 3-0," said Nichols, a freshman and member of the committee.

The Senate also passed the resolution, which lacks the force of law. No roll call was available because the resolution was adopted by voice vote.

Nichols said the rule change is part of a package of reforms being sought to obtain more convictions in child molestation cases. House Bill 4033, now before the Senate Judiciary Committee, would allow Sometimes called the "Christmas videotaping of interviews with children. tree" bill, because it has ornaments for EXPERTS TOLD the Senate committee that children were not inclined to lie or fabricate a story the first few times they told it.

But the more children were asked to tell the story - to teachers, principals, parents, counselors, police detectives, the prosecutor, the court - the more disturbed they became, and the more guilty they felt about getting an adult into trouble.

VETERANS PROGRAM EXTENDED

Area Vietnam era and disabled veterans should be aware of recent changes affecting the Veterans Readjustment Appointments (VRA) program. VRA is a federal hiring program providing special, noncompetitive hiring of these veterans. Originally scheduled to expire Sept. 30, 1984, the program has been extended through Sept. 30, 1986, through passage of the Veterans Benefits Improvement Act (PL 98-543). It is not expected that the VRA program will be extended beyond that date.

In addition to extending the program, PL 98-543 raised the entry grade level maximum from GS/WG-7 to GS/WG-9 and also provided limited appeal rights during the first year of appointment. A Vietnam era or disabled veteran who has completed no more than 14 years of education may qualify for a VRA. (This restriction may be waived for disabled veterans). For further information, interested veterans may call the local American Legion hotline at 453-9494 and leave a message regarding information desired.

By W.W. Edgar staff writer

Fred and Judy Oldenberg, longtime residents of Plymouth, have opened a commercial art store and art school on Main Street called the Art Store and

It is in Charlestown Square in the center of the new development on Main just north of the railroad tracks. The school already boasts three classes of students each day with plans for more in the offing.

The store is a "brother" to the Art Store and More in Livonia owned by David Messing who also writes the art column for the Creative Living section of the Observer & Eccentric Newspa-

"We had thought of an art store and classes for some time," Mrs. Oldenberg said in the new surroundings. "But we hesitated for a while. Then when Fred left his job at Michigan Dairy we decided the time was here and here we are.'

The walls in the school room are filled with designs for beginners and for those in the higher grades.

They include all kinds of art work, from the drawing of birds to business posters and the students have little trouble following the examples.

While Oldenberg is in charge, his longtime friend Messing is on hand to help out.

The school is an unusual addition to the business section in the downtown portion of the city and the newness of Charlestown Square makes the art store and school more valuable to the

Mrs. Oldenberg said "the thrill of owning your own business makes this experience well worthwhile."

Today, May 30, 1749, our little flotilla of six voyageur canoes has successfully negotiated the rapids of La Chene and now is approaching the dock of the quiet little island of Ste. Helen de Champlain. This lovely place marks the western edge of the center of our world, Montreal.

As soon as we dock, all of us, Catholic, Protestant and pagan alike, will bow our heads in the chapel of the patron saint of the voyageurs, the good Ste. Anne

And I, for one, am so grateful to be able to walk again on good mother earth that I shall leave an extra golden sou in Ste. Anne's poor box. What a joy it is to be able to stretch one's legs and walk after long weeks of sitting in one position in the cramped quarters of a voyageur's crowded canoe.

Today I will stay at the Convent of Montreal and visit with my old friend, the Mother Superior, Sister Constance. Before I left d'Etroit, Robert Navarre asked me to tell her of our need for a good school. I am to beg her to send a competent teacher.

Our Detroit children, except for the few whose parents can afford to send them to Montreal or to Quebec are growing up as illiterate waifs. They are forgetting their beautiful language, and are beginning to speak a strange patois of French, English, and Indian which is not native to us at all. And they cannot read or write.

Navarre also asked me to tell her what I could of the political situation. But who am I to explain something to a Mother Superior? I am sure she knows more than I do about everything.

Does she know that the British have made great inroads into our Ohio Valley? With some Virginians and Pennsylvanians they have organized France has explored, mapped, and claimed this land for more than a century. Who are the British to claim it now? We bought it from the people who really owned it - the Indians.

Navarre told me that the Ohio Company is controlled by; some wealthy English and rich Virginia planters including the Washington brothers. So what! That doesn't make it theirs. Possession is nine-tenths of the law. And we have possessed it since 1615 when Champlain first walked through that region staking out our ownership.

We know all this but the English won't listen. I am afraid of another war and what a horror that may be. These modern cannon the British have can blow us all to bits.

I wonder if the Mother Superior knows of the plot the English have concocted with the Huron of Sandusky and d'Etroit. We almost were destroyed by this foul scheme because we were so

The Hurons used to be our allies, but the English control them now. How did they do it? They give them a better deal with the furs, and they also give them more wampum, beads, and fire

THE BIGGEST THREAT to our security in d'Etroit is the inroad these English have made in our fur trade.

Without Indian furs and the help of loyal voygeurs, and the coureurs de bois, our d'Etroit will be destroyed. We are not a farming community. Without trade we cannot survive. We just farm enough for our own needs, but primarily we are traders, hunters, storekeepers and craftsmen. We must have control of our water highways.

Navarre informed me that we are forced to drive sharp bargains with the Indians because we have no money coming from Paris. The English have twice as much to bargain with - more money from the treasury to pay for his plated.)

d'Etroit may be doomed.

Without wampum, diplomacy is not enough. Dare I tell Sister Constance the real reason for our poverty?

Before I left d'Etroit, Navarre stated that our secretary of state, the noted Comte d'Argenson, called the follies of Sister Constance that the king's favorour King, Louis XV, the "tomb of the ite mistress, Madame Pompadour, is nation." I could believe Navarre be- the beneficiary of huge sums. She is one cause he was the loyal notary, of the reasons why we do not have scrivener, and the tax collector at d'Etroit.

"Louis does not have his financial house in order," Navarre said. "Just this year, 1749, Machault d'Arnouville, controller-general, had to impose a 'vingtieme,' or twentieth tax, on ALL incomes including those of the privileged classes.

"I paid it grudgingly," admitted Navarre, "but I should have saved my Perhaps I will have the courage to tell the sisters that this ridiculous taxation was successfully resisted by the Parliament, the provincial Estates, and by the clergy. The conclusion was reached in a study sponsored by Concerned Citizens for the Arts in Michgan (CCAM). It was funded by the Skillman Foundation, conducted by Touche Ross and released by Gov. James J. Blanchard.

Everyone in Michigan has a stake in the arts, and the study clearly shows that," said Oscar E. Remick, president of Alma College and chairman of Michigan Council for "Individuals look to the arts for inspiration, excitement and enjoyment. Corporations count on the arts to enrich the quality of life for their employees. And state and local governments rely on the arts to bring tourists, new businesses and residents to Michigan," Remick said.

Central School is a landmark

There recently has been some talk in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools ed at 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth. about the possibility of tearing down Central Middle School.

And if Central's fate is the wrecking ball, just what is to become of the school's 23-acre site? Some people in our community would like to see apartments or condominiums on that property. What a shame that would be!

Central Middle School is a landmark in Plymouth which serves not only as a school but as a recreational center for the community.

Can we fight to have Central reno-vated rather than razed and replaced by a new school in Canton? Yes, we can. If you are concerned about this issue, please come with us to the next school board meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 11, at the board office locat-

Cottonwood seeds in air

By Tim Richard special writer

N MICHIGAN we take trees for granted. Only when one travels to parts of the country, where trees are sparce, do we recognize their absence.

In fall, we become more aware of trees because of their brillant colors. But during the remainder of the year, we become aware of particular trees as they produce flowers or seeds.

Recently, while driving around town, I was reminded of the cottonwood tree because there were thousands of little fluffs of "cotton" floating through the air. They were very noticable when backlit by the sun in the morning and the evening.

Attached to each of these fluffs was seed that developed from flowers produced earlier this

EARLY FEMALE flowers on cottonwood trees are similar to pussy willow flowers on willow trees. They grow into long catkins that look like bottle

The flowers are pollinated from pollen produced by flowers on separate male trees.

Large groups of female trees produce so many seeds that they can block drains at times. I remember jogging down a street where the seed fluffs were so thick in the air that I had to close my mouth so I would not inhale one.

Producing large numbers of seeds is nature's way of ensuring that some will germinate and grow to maturity. In the case of the cottonwood, many areas are suitable for growth.

In fact, park systems frequently plant them because they need little care, grow fast, and provide a good amount of shade.

THE LARGE, spade-shaped leaves, with notched borders, often rattle in the wind because the stem of the leaf is flattened and catches the wind like a sail. Some trees have extended their leaves 130 feet To support a tree that large, the trunk can measure six feet or more in diameter.

Next time you see some white fluffs in the air, look around, because there may be a cottonwood tree nearby. But don't be hasty. There are several other plants that also produce fluffs to disseminate

Our best choices for school board

ONDAY residents of Canton and Plymouth will elect two members to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

20A(P)

Actually there will be two separate races." Three candidates seek a full four-year term on the board; three others try for one two-year term.

In considering the best choices, the Observer is aware that the school board needs continuity and stability right now. Last June Flossie Tonda decided not to seek re-election, and voters chose two newcomers to the board, Les Walker and Nancy Quinn. Both were wise choices.

Then Tom Yack resigned, and newcomer Dean Swartzwelter was appointed in his stead. Quinn then resigned, and newcomer Marilyn Schwinn was named in her place.

These changes have left the board only four trustees with much experience -Elaine Kirchgatter, E.J. McClendon, Roland Thomas and Dave Artley. Of these four, only Kirchgatter and McClendon have more than three years of experience.

OUR CHOICE for the two-year term is Dean Swartzwelter.

Swartzwelter (an incumbent by appointment) has a record of involvement in school affairs, including attempts as a candidate. Neither challenger has such a record of involvement. That minus is especially significant given the turnover on the board in the past year.

One candidate has an impressive background in education. But the electorate should not be swayed by candidates with an education background. The school board hires, and taxpayers pay for, administrators who have strong backgrounds in education. It is better to have on the school board persons with other ex-- business, industry and periences homemaking, for instance.

Swartzwelter has a college degree with a major in accounting, graduated from the U.S. Army Finance School, and now is employed by Ford Motor Co. He has been active in the school district for the past eight years and has been a longtime proponent for Talented and Gifted (TAG) programs

THE CHOICE FOR the four-year term is less clear.

Incumbent David Artley of Canton was elected in June 1983 and has grown in the office. He particularly has been an advocate for improving communications of the board and administration with employees and the public. He also has pushed for improved employee morale and for more stability for students.

Artley also has demonstrated leadership as president of the Plymouth-Canton Band Boosters Association. He has a record of involvement in the Lowell and Tanger PTOs.

But in this race, Stephen Harper has the equivalent experience of an incumbent. Harper served on the school board from 1977-81 and, in fact, has more experience as a trustee than Artley has.

Beyond that, Harper has an extensive background of involvement in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools - before and after his service on the board. He was cochairman of the Citizens Advisory Councils (CAC) in 1975-77 and 1981-82. He was co-chairman of school millage election committees in 1975-77 and 1981-85. He served on the Alternative Education committee in 1976-78 and 1980-85. And he was on the external communications committee in 1983-84. He also has been active on the board of Growth Works.

Harper, a 12-year resident of the school district, has degrees from Washington College and Babson College and has 18 years of experience with Ford Motor Co. in financial analysis and control, business planning and strategic planning.

Based on our personal observations of both over the years, and considering Harper's deeper and broader involvements, the Observer endorses Stephen Harper for the four-year term.

But we are concerned that if Harper is elected the school board would have three Ford Motor Co. managers - Thomas, Harper and Swartzwelter. That is a balance problem of a different sort.

Based on our screening of candidates, we recommend as best qualified Dean Swartzwelter for the two-year term and Steve Harper for the four-year term.

But whatever your choice, be sure to vote. Remember, every vote counts.

MESERVIER'S ECCENTIFIC PROFIES VOTER APATHY SCHOOL BOARD ACINE FOR ECAPO.

Educators pick the boards

WANT A HOT tip on who will win Monday's school board election in your district? Check which candidates your local education association - read "teachers' union" - are endorsing.

"We don't have any great, dark, deep ulterior motives or secrets like some people say we do," protests Bill Reese, president of the Wayne-Westland Education Associ-

Carol Rundio, president of the Plymouth Education Association (PEA), is more candid. The PEA is looking for candidates who will "be favorable to the teachers and to other unions," she said. "We don't expect them to do all we want them to, but are they favorable and will-

THE PROBLEM IS, with the kind of support some unions give, they may be expecting more than a ready ear.

In those cases, support through financial contributions or campaign workers is enough to make or break a candidate. Candidates know it.

"Some candidates want to be up front and say they are endorsed by us. Others don't want to use our name but do want workers," said John Hackett of the Birmingham Education Association.

Support in past years has ranged from allowing candidates to use the union name to donations and mailings, Hackett said. Candidates are given a choice.

TYPE OF SUPPORT varies widely between Michigan Education Association (MEA) affiliates.

Sammy Rubley Ruetenik, president of the Bloomfield Hills Education Association, said its political action committee (PAC) makes endorsements and informs the membership. No direct contributions are made to candidates, but mailings to selected people in the district are paid for by the PAC.

School board elections have the "most immediate, direct impact on the working lives of members, and I can't think of a better reason to be involved," Rubley Ruetenik said.

Jim Carlson of the Livonia Education Association (LEA) said that a PAC representing all unions in the district makes donations of $300-$500. Mailings and donations to fund-raisers also are made.

PERHAPS THE worst case of influence peddling is in the Wayne-Westland school district, where political involvement of union groups has gone beyond the WWEA.

Candidates there receive anywhere from $300 to $600 from WWEA alone. Adding another $500 for each of three candidates it's endorsing is the Wayne-Westland Building Administrators Associ-

WWBAA members are being asked to identify "positive voters" and to send out 100 post cards each. They also are asked to "Have volunteer teachers or PTA members call from their homes (on election day) to insure a high voter turnout.

"If your building representative refuses (sic) or will not cooperate in the planning of the support of these candidates, please call me," says a memo from a WWBAA co-president.

It gets worse. Two senior citizen clubs, sponsored by the school district and meeting in a taxpayer-funded school building, were permitted by school officials to campaign for the same three candidates supported by the unions. The supervisor of the program, however, was reprimanded for campaigning during working hours.

HAVE THOSE who don't vote, or who don't take a critical look at candidates and their endorsements, surrendered their "Educators do most of the voting," answered a spokeswoman for the Farmington Education Association.

But the impact of union support goes far beyond election day. Think about that the next time a union contract comes up for renewal.

Better yet, think about it Monday when you vote.

New terms for Burley, Sarris

HERE IS no good reason to replace incumbents Michael W. Burley or Sharon L. Sarris on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees June 10. Quite the contrary: They have made such a good case for reelection that most challengers have backed off.

The board isn't always unanimous, but there is a consensus without deep divisions. The trustees like President Richard McDowell because he has delivered what they wanted and what he promised: "outreach" programs to industry and commerce, a marketing effort to retain students, a quiet but highly effective program to promote women into management, successful collective bargaining, improving efforts to raise private funds.

The board, as Sarris puts it, works as a team. Everything takes four votes. No one trustee tries to hog credit.

BURLEY HAS overcome our well-considered aversion to seeing an educator from one district serve on the board of another. A Northville teacher, Burley thinks in managerial terms and gives no evidence of trying to second-guess the Schoolcraft administration. He is an objective thinker. He is fair. As chairman the last two years, the Canton resident has used the position with an even hand. He deserves a second six-year term.

Sarris, too, was a teacher but again gives no evidence of trying to second-guess the administration. Now a member of General Motors management, the Livonia resident delves deeply into the processes of board teamwork. Moreover, her three years on the board could provide anyone a course in how to do your homework and ask good questions.

Not only does she deserve re-election, but her political party (Democratic) should consider running Sarris for the state Board of Education one of these CHALLENGER Hussein S. (Hank) Karzun, a Ford engineer from Livonia, has virtually no differences with the board. Most of the things he considers "new ideas" are already being implemented - an indication he is on the same wave length as the incumbents. That speaks well of all of them.

A warning to everyone: Incumbents have a tendency to dodge questions about raising taxes, and Burley and Sarris have dodged well. But it's crystal clear that McDowell and Vice President W. Kenneth Lindner see no way around a millage vote

McDowell and Lindner are right. All the new vocational programs, all the hightech programs, all equipment needs, all the roof repair needs, all the computer laboratory needs add up to one thing - a modest millage request for capital expenditures, preferably for a limited time period. The trustees should face it.

SEMTA looks abandoned

BY ALL ACCOUNTS, the Southeastern Michigan Transporation Authority is on its last wheels.

Funding and service have declined since 1981, and now the SEMTA management warns that service will have to be halted entirely unless new funds are forthcom-

Federal subsidies may be out. The Reagan administration is not interested in providing operating subsidies for transit.

SEMTA officials repeatedly claim that a new area tax is necessary to keep SEMTA vehicles rolling. Most frequently mentioned is a 1 percent increase in the sales tax, which would have to be approved by voters.

Legislators and key local and state government officials have been reluctant even to put such an issue on the ballot, sensing little support for a tax increase for a service which the majority of their constituents would not use.

Now there is a movement afoot to form a new area transit authority, one which would oversee separate operations in Detroit and the suburbs, hiring a mix of public and private operators.

Many government officials feel this kind of arrangment will be the only way public transportation can survive.

THE INABILILTY of SEMTA to negotiate a merger with the Detroit Department of Transporation bus system (D-DOT) is frequently mentioned as one reason for reorganizing public transit. Detroit Mayor Coleman Young is usually portrayed as the heavy who refuses to give up his bus system.

The reasons for the present faltering SEMTA operation are many and varied, but to portray Young as the chief glitch is not quite accurate.

Public transportation was riding high in the Ford and Carter years. Federal money kept pouring in.

SEMTA provided new vehicles for D-DOT, rush-hour bus service in and out of the central city and a number of dial-aride-type programs for suburban elderly and handicapped.

AT ONE POINT it appeared that SEMTA would adopt a meaningful transit plan for the metropolitan area. The plan called for construction of a light-rail system along the Woodward corridor from Detroit to Pontiac, alias "the subway."

Suburban interests, mainly in Oakland and Macomb county, vociferously argued against spending any money for the lightrail system. Years of wrangling ensured that the plan would never be put into effect. This wrangling, as much as anything else, led to the present state of torpor.

Meanwhile, Young steadfastly refused to have SEMTA absorb D-DOT. Young has shown a consistent reluctance to cooperate with anything that would make it easier for people to move to the suburbs. He has deplored freeways and sewer expansion. It would be natural for him to oppose a transit system which would enable commuters to whiz in and out of the

With these problems and with the federal aid declining, SEMTA has been crumbling.

THERE IS NOT enough public demand for public transportation, especially in the suburbs where every family has three cars and most workers drive alone to jobs.

The public's interest in mass transit died soon after it became apparent that the world was not running out of oil, that car companies were going to build cars that consumed less gasoline, that the OPEC cartel could not go on raising prices willy-nilly forever and that gasoline prices would level off at what most people feel is an affordable level.

Night baseball's 50 years began in U-D dressing room

DURING the week prior to Memorial Day, night baseball was celebrating its 50th anniversary. It may come as a surprise to learn that the plans for the change from daylight to artificial light was first voiced in the dressing room of the University of Detroit football

It so happened that on that day, "Red" McPhail, who had taken over the reins of the Cincinnati club in the National League, was getting ready to officiate at the football game. He was a good friend of Gus Dorais, the U-D football coach, and a good football official for the college game.

Sitting in the room waiting for the call to the field and knowing full well that sportswriters were present, McPhail said to

'Gus, I have an idea that baseball can be played at night, and it could be a boon to the game. I think I might try it down there on the banks of the Ohio River.

EVERYONE SMILED. But that didn't faze McPahil, who was as stubborn as he was fit for the official's job.

No one paid much attention to Red at the time except to figure he had another dream.

But the football season was ended, and he went to Cincinnati to handle the baseball reins, and the thought of night baseball suddenly became a national topic. Many thought it couldn't be done. They didn't know Red McPhail.

Soon came the word that the Cincinnati Reds, of the National League, were going to try night baseball with hopes that it would become a major part of the game.

Time went by. McPhail said nothing until that opening game was a success and there were dreams that baseball was to undergo a radical change.

IT TOOK a lot of work and planning, but McPhail's dream came true. One by one, major league parks ventured into the night game, and the entire structure of the national pasttime was altered.

Today only one major league baseball stadium is without lights. It is Wrigley Field in Chicago, and the folks over there are sticklers for the old-fashioned idea.

When night games proved a success, several great changes were made. Some cities built domes over their playing fields. That allowed games to be played in the rain.

The popularity led to the abandonment of the holiday double-headers, when games were played in the morning and afternoon. This meant two admission charges and a full day in and around the ballpark.

NOW BOTH games are played for the price of one admission to the ballpark.

While all this was happening, electric utilities were forced to improve all lighting, just to care for the baseball games. Electricity for homes was improved and even the stadia like the Olympia in Detroit were ideal places to watch sporting events and other forms of entertainment.

A lot has happened since the day at the University of Detroit stadium prior to a football game. Even that stadium is now only a memory. But Red McPhail's dream of night baseball goes merrily on, with prospects for bigger and better surprises in the next 50 years.

It sure was a happy 50th birthday for the national pasttime.

Gunther Herbig His first year brings praise, larger audiences n his first year as music director of the Detroit Symphony, Gunther Herbig often brought local audiences to their feet in appreciation. His work with the orchestra and, in his travels as guest conductor with other orchestras, has received high praise.

The number of subscribers in Maestro Herbig's first year rose by 35 percent, testament to the public's perception that this is, indeed, a conductor of special talents.

Backstage visitors have come to know his wit and charm. As he moved about his new home of Detroit he was welcomed warmly. This year he issues his own warm invitation in return: come downtown to hear him, and the Detroit Symphony musicians, doing the work they love.

Critical acclaim

"Herbig's ability to give logical shape and meaningful purpose to sprawling works is his most impressive talent to date, and he used it brilliantly here (in conducting Shostakovich's Fourth Symphony)." Detroit Free Press

Clearly Herbig is getting through to his musicians. It's not just precision he's after, not just playing softly or producing more sound from the bow. He's got them listening to each other with an intensity you can almost feel."

Nancy Malitz Detroit News

"Apparently the reports we've been getting from Detroit are not without foundation. Gunther Herbig, the East German who this season took over the music directorship of the Detroit Symphony, truly is a musician of phenomenal talent... Herbig's performance was not just sensational, but magnificent .. James Wierzbicki St. Louis Post Dispatch

"If you are a Beethoven fancier, you will beg, borrow, or steal a ticket for tonight's repeat performance... Beethoven of this (Herbig's) quality does not come this way very often."

SPRINGFESTIVAL

Fri, Sat & Sun, June 7, 8 & 9

Spring festival to open

Something for everyone — a parade, arts and crafts exhibits, flea market, and sidewalk sales — are in store for the fifth annual Garden City spring festival this weekend.

Festival committee members are putting in their last-minute prayers for warm, sunny weather for the activities to start Friday afternoon, continue Saturday and conclude Sunday afternoon in the city's business district at Ford and Middlebelt.

There will be free entertainment, Saturday parade and fun runs, sidewalk sales, arts and crafts exhibitors, auto and recreational vehicle displays, food booths, flea market and kiddie rides.

The festival committee is made up mainly of members of the board of directors of the sponsoring Garden City Chamber of Commerce. They met Thursday morning to finalize details.

There will also be a flea market Saturday and Sunday and a benefit Sunday to raise funds for the Michigan Humane Society.

The benefit will have the Hair Hut beauty salon cutting hair for $8 for adults and $5 for children. Providing the atmosphere will be Hair Hut stylists dressed in animal outfits.

TO PROMOTE the festival, nearly 500 posters have been displayed in local store windows and public buildings. The posters were among those submitted by local students in the annual festival poster contest.

Winners will receive prizes at noon Saturday at the entertainment stage on the northwest corner of Ford and Middlebelt, just east of K mart, and in front of the Santaland castle.

The winners were Garden City High School honors art student Bonnie Cesarz; Garden City Junior High School student Scott Szukielowicz;, and St. Raphael Catholic School sixth grader Sheila Lowe.

They were receive gifts valued at $25, $15, and $10, respectively.

The festival will start Friday after-

The festival will start Friday afternoon, resume at noon Saturday and again at noon Sunday.

The festival's flea market will be on the east side of Middlebelt, one block north of Ford, adjacent to the Warehouse Way parking lot.

The parade will start at 11 a.m. Saturday with a new route.

PARADE participants will assemble at 10 a.m. at the former Burger Junior High School parking lot, on Beechwood at Dillon, move to Ford, east to Middlebelt and north to the Garden City High School parking lot at Maplewood.

have a full schedule of free entertainment Friday through Sunday. The entertainers will be on a portable stage at the Santaland castle, on the northwest corner of Ford and Middlebelt, just east of the K mart store.

Following is the schedule:

Friday, 6 p.m., Garden City/Wayne Karate Studio; 6:30 p.m., Sing Out Dearborn; and 8 p.m. "Malus Imperator" rock group.

Saturday, 9-11 a.m., police department auction; noon, festival poster awards presented; 1 p.m., Schoolcraft Community Wind Ensemble; 3 p.m., American Dance Academy; 5 p.m., Robert Lee Dance School; 7 p.m., David Ross "Elvis Impersonator;" and 8 p.m., rock concert.

Sunday, noon, "In Cahoots," country pop and rock group; 1:30 p.m., Garden City/Wayne Karate Studio; 2 p.m., Robert Lee Dance Studio; 3:30 p.m., Garden City Civic Choir; and 4 p.m. American Dance Academy.

Free entertainment, like these Robert Lee Dance Studio students in last year's Garden City spring festival, will be available Friday through Sunday.

Tang was selected by a committee of members of the Plymouth branch at the University of Michigan After tion committee American Association of University Women. When Johanna Vallier died in 1983, her daughters asked the AAUW to administrate her memorial fund. Their mother had been a 30-year resident of Plymouth and a charter member of the Plymouth branch AAUW.

We believe this $200 stipend for a Plymouth Canton or Plymouth Salem senior will honor and help nurture what was important in Johanna Vallier's life," was her family's decision.

Born and raised in Cass City, Johanna Vallier graduated from Michigan State University, where she was selected for Mortar Board, an academic honor society. Her high ideals and continuing quest for knowledge, both academic and applied, were obvious to those who knew her. She practiced her belief that knowledge is of good use only if shared.

COST OF THE course is $137.25 university tuition for three credit hours at $45.75 per credit hour. Eastern Michi-tion. gan registration fee is $15 making it a total of $152.25. Course materials are

Students may register through Cheryl Johnson, TAG coordinator, 550 N. Holbrook, Plymouth. Her telephone number is 451-6581. Deadline for application is June 7.

Instructor will be Jay Yager, professor of art at EMU.

On the first day, students will be introduced to the components of a video production and the use and care of video equipment. Various types of video productions will be discussed with emphasis on those which lend themselves to a small scale independent produc-

Their first assignment will be to design, devise, write and plan a 30-second, one-shot video piece.

THE NEXT DAY each student will conceive and direct a short video piece. Each will have the opportunity to direct, operate a camera, operate a VCR, control sound and perform in front of the camera.

During the course, students will work on all aspects of production, identifying and solving specific problems as they come up. They will learn about mike locations, lighting, camera moves and sound levels.

Students will shoot titles for finished productions, make dubs of finished tapes, review, duscuss and evaluate tapes technically and aesthetically.

Finished tapes will be presented to an audience of students' families and other invited guests.

How to submit news items to newspaper

News of clubs, service organizations, engagements, weddings and wedding anniversaries are printed without cost in the Suburban Life Section of the Plymouth Observer and Canton Observer newspapers.

News items may be dropped off or mailed to the office at 489 S. Main St., Plymouth 48170. Special forms are available for club news, engagements, weddings and 50th wedding anniversary announcements. Black and white pictures are preferred as they reproduce more clearly than color photos. A self-addressed, stamped envelope assures return of the pictures, or, they can be picked up at fore the actual date.

Church to launch stewardship drive

The United Methodist Church in Wayne will launch an "Advance for Christ" stewardship campaign to correspond with the expansion and improvement of its facilities. A kickoff banquet will herald the campaign at 6:30 p.m. Monday. The church has a rich history that dates back to 1858 when the land was purchased for the construction of the red brick church on the site occupied by the present church. In 1929, the educational building was opened for both Sunday School classes and worship services.

A sanctuary was built in 1956, followed by a new parsonage in 1976.

Since 1826, when the Rev. Elias Patee preached his first sermon in Wayne, the Society of the Methodist Church has served the community.

The first congregation consisted of six people who met in private homes. They continued to meet in that manner, until 1850 when they joined with other protestants to form a union church. For further information, call ministers Daniel J. Wallace and Martha C; Gregg, 721-4801.

Our anthem should stress peace, not

The musical group Friends will perform a concert 4-6 p.m. Sunday, June 16, on the lawn of St. Edith Catholic Church in Livonia.

They are (front row) Denise Leonardi and the Rev. Bernard Hall and (back row) Pat Madden-Roth and the Rev. Joe Dailey.

the type of music that is played in bars has an influence on the drinking patterns of patients. Along the same line, some parents are concerned that the type of music to which their children are exposed can have a negative influence on behavior and even attitude toward life. And they may have a point.

Those who are in the business of molding human behavior of both individuals and crowds have long been aware of the influence of various kinds of music. Add the lyrics to the music and both the message and the influence is intensified.

All of this came sadly to mind recently when I attended a Tiger baseball game. It was American Legion Day at the ballpark, and the strains of "The Marine Hymn" greeted me and 30some thousand others as we took our seats. This music extolling the glories of battle got me to wondering why there is not some way to honor the men who have given of themselves without glorifying the tragedy in which they were forced to take part.

moral perspectives

Rev. Robert Schaden

Next on the agenda before the first pitch was thrown was the traditional singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner." Again we listened to the glories of war a la "rockets' red glare and bombs bursting in air." Some might insist that is only a song or words. But this is much more that just any song or only words. This is our national anthem. It is the song of America, and it speaks to our children and the world about that which we treasure and cherish.

BUT WE are an America crying for peace, a nation that prides itself as being a nation of peacemakers. Why not sing about what we cherish rather than glorify that which we put up with in order to attain what we cherish? It is not as if we do not have a suitable substitute. "America the Beautiful" has been proposed many times. It is not only a song that most Americans are able to sing, it is one that glorifies our beauty rather than extolling our trage-

There are those who would suggest that even the thought of changing the national anthem smacks of a lack of patriotism. But it would seem to me that the best patriotism is that which seeks to preserve what is truly great about who we are while at the same time being willing to modify those things in our tradition that fail to express what really makes us great.

All the music in the world will never be able to raise war and violence from the dehumanizing experience it is. Even an attempt in such a direction diminishes everything good we claim to Perhaps the music of teens influences the way we perceive the world. But it is just as true that the music we play and especially that which we hold so sacred sends a message and influences the values of those who come behind us. Somehow a legacy that speaks of the beauty of the skies, the majesty of our mountains and the hope of brotherhood for which we strive strikes micas a legacy preferable to one that extella the imagined glories of our wars. If we are really concerned with the influence that the music makers like on the young with songs fe ears we might look beyon of current which is means t unhealthy and other living things.

MHSAA decisions worthy of applause

BELIEVE in giving credit wherever it's due, and some is due the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA). In the past I've rarely been so generous. I still believe problems exist within the organization that regulates sports for nearly all of the state's high schools, notably the snail-like pace it takes in implementing changes. That apparent indecisiveness to me signifies a weakness in leadership.

But back to the subject at hand, which is giving the MHSAA a deserved—if somewhat surprising, considering the source—pat on the back for changes it orchestrated at its May 5-8 meeting in Cadillac.

AND IF MY complimenting the MHSAA isn't shocking enough, prepare for another jolt. The MHSAA may be ridiculed in the next few days regarding the boys' baseball regionals, and I don't think the association deserves it.

Imagine that' Applauding and defending the MHSAA in the same column. Will wonders never

I doubt it. But whether they do or not, here's the baseball controversy that's simmering.

Plymouth Canton and Salem will host a fourteam regional that includes Livonia Stevenson and Farmington Harrison. The opening games are set for 10 a.m., with the championship contest following.

HERE'S THE RUB: The American College Test (ACT) is scheduled for 8 a.m. to noon. It's the last chance for seniors to take the exam, which many colleges require for entry.

Stevenson coach Jim George feared he might lose his ace pitcher, Rob Ognian, as well as several other key players. Ognian has since had his test rescheduled for Sunday. So has Ken George, the Stevenson coach's son who plays for Harrison.

Still, should any players from either team—and several from each had scheduled the exam—have to take the test instead of playing Saturday, it could severely hamper their chances. And the MHSAA will be blamed for poor scheduling.

THIS IS NOTHING so new. Spring brings senior proms and graduations, too. When Redford Union met Oak Park in a predistrict game May 24 and the contest went into extra innings, several RU players had to choose between attending the prom that night or finishing the game.

A trio picked the prom. One RU player had rented a limousine for the evening, so who can blame him? (RU did win the game).

The scheduling for regional games is established by the tournament manager, who is assigned by the principal of the hosting school. Paul Cummings has that position for the Salem-Canton region. Fred Sible, who handles baseball for the MHSAA, said game time scheduling is strictly up to the tourney manager.

"THERE'S ALWAYS a chance of conflicts," Sible said. "But our baseball schedule is set right now for 1987. They should know well in advance."

And, as Sible pointed out, it isn't the first time the ACT has been given. Seniors had four other chances to take it. Oct. 27. Dec. 8, Feb. 9 and

April 20
Cummings could change the times, should all four competing schools agree to the switch. But with graduations and proms possible on Saturday night, any of the schools could object to pushing the starting time back.

Whatever happens, this is one time the MHSAA should not interfere. Leave it up to the four schools competing and the tournament manager to work it out. In this instance, no decision is the right decision for the MHSAA.

SPEAKING OF DECISIONS, at last month's meetings, the MHSAA made a few of major proportions. I have few complaints with any of

First, the council voted to expand the football playoffs to 16 teams per class. An additional playoff game can be added because of an extra weekend in the schedule.

A review process will follow after the season to determine if the expansion will remain.

It's a good move. More teams mean more interest and less worrying about computer points. In previous years, unbeaten teams missed out on the playoffs because they lacked those valuable computer numbers.

One suggestion: dump the regional format and just take the top 16 teams in the computer rankings. Separating the state into regions serves no purpose.

ANOTHER GOOD move by the MHSAA is adopting the smaller basketball for girls. Colleges went to the smaller ball last year and, although its effects were inconclusive, it seems ludicrous that high school players should use a bigger ball than college players.

My only question is why delay the adoption until 1986? Is it that hard to find a supply of smaller basketballs?

A third good move: relocating the state girls soccer final to Northville High School next year. Considering the teams that played for the championship the last three years were from Salem's Mike White placed sixth in Saturday's Class A state finals in the 110-meter high hurdles.

White scores at state for Salem

Although nobody recorded a firstplace finish, several Observerland athletes turned in strong performances during last weekend's state track championships.

Lansing Everett won the Class A boys title at Flint Northwestern, scoring 56 points. Redford Bishop Borgess was the area's top finisher, scoring 14 points to gain 17th place.

The Spartans' Chuck Albright took fourth in the long jump with a leap of 22 feet, 4% inches. Borgess also gained fourth in the 400-meter relay as Fred Owens, Marion Pittman, Marlon Montgomery and Corey Ivey were clocked in 42.8. Montgomery took sixth in the 300 low hurdles (38.2), while Owens settled for eighth against a very stiff 100 dash field (10.8).

Redford Catholic Central finished 20th overall with 11 points, based on Steve Shaver's third place finish in the 1,600 (4:20.2) and Marty Hegarty's fourth in the 3,200 (9:30.4).

Other Observerland performers scoring points included Dave Homann (Garden City), 1,600, fifth, 4:21.0; Mike White (Plymouth Salem), 110 hurdles, sixth, 14.8; and Mike Meehan (Livonia Churchill), high jump, eighth, 6-3.

Westland John Glenn's 3,200 relay squad of Frank Shelly, Tod Lilla, Jay Hunt and Kyle Szukaitis took sixth with a time of 8:04.3.

AT THE GIRLS MEET in Flint, Glenn's 3,200 relay squad of Michelle Sanchez, Karen Opp, Laura Grazulis and Pam Eldridge recorded Obseverland's highest finish, taking second in Class A behind Dearborn Edsel Ford with a clocking of 9:35.1.

with a clocking of 9:35.1.

Glenn, 17th overall in the team standings with 14 points, also received points from Anna Parish, who finished fifth in the shot put (38-10) and seventh in the discus (117-10).

Ann Arbor Pioneer took the team title with 56 points.

Farmington Mercy's Terri Ford captured fourth in the 100 dash (12.56), while Borgess' Sue Naster placed eighth in the discus (116-4).

In the Class B state meet at Jackson, Livonia Ladywood was sixth overall with 19 points. Hemlock was the team champion with 51 points.

Joan Arndt figured in most of the Ladywood scoring, finishing fourth in the 800 run (2:21.0) and anchoring the Blazers to second place in the 1,600 relay (4:03.3) and third in the 3,200 relay (9:52.0).

Joining Arndt in the 1,600 relay were Sue Willey, Angela Dugas and Monica Gall. The 3,200 relay was made up of Willey, Kathy Denhard, Janine Kloc and Arndt.

In Class C at Clare, Redford St. Agatha's Colleen Murphy gained fourth in the 1,600 run with a time of 5:21.3.

Humphries drafted by Toronto

By Brad Emons staff writer

The majors are still a long way off, but Plymouth Salem graduate Joe Humphries took a step in the right direction Tuesday when he was taken in the third round of the amateur baseball draft by the Toronto Blue Jays.

Humphries, a pitcher, indicated that he would sign immediately with Toronto and forgo his senior year at Western Michigan University.

"I'm going to sign," said the hard-throwing righthander. "And that's some good (bonus) money I'll have coming. They'll pay you to go to school. They put school into your contract."

According to area scouts, players drafted in the third round usually command anywhere from a $30,000 to $50,000 signing bonus.

Although he was an outstanding pitcher and outfielder at Salem. Humphries was not drafted out of high school.

As a freshman at WMU, Humphries started in left field. As a sophomore, he started the season at third base, went back to the outfield and wound up at first base.

at first base.

During his first two years at Western, Humphries pitched only 16 innings. But in a rare start late in his sophomore season, Humphries tossed a two-hitter in a 1-0 loss to Kent State.

OVER THE SUMMER, Humphries played for MFI, a sandlot team in Battle Creek which posted a 58-13 record and was the only team from this country to beat U.S. Olympians on their exhibition tour.

Humphries went 4-0 and notched three saves. He also played outfield and batted .363.

Shamrocks play wind perfectly to win state title.

Redford Catholic Central netters swept to a state tennis championship at the wind-swept Midland Community Tennis Center.

They overcame Birmingham Brother Rice, who topped CC in regular season Catholic League play, and the elements en route to the title Saturday.

"Weather was a big factor. It threw a lot of people out (of the tournament) early," CC coach Frank Garlicki said. "We finished play at 8 in the evening in a misty rain and 60 mph winds."

Earlier in the day, competitors were forced indoors when winds knocked over eight-foot-tall judge's chairs. "We played inside for about half an hour when lightning struck an electrical generator and set the building on fire," Garlicki said.

The building was evacuated and the tournament completed outdoors

CC'S EARLIER season loss to Rice came in a dual meet.

"We have a tendency to tense up a little bit in that kind of situation," Garlicki said. "But I never had any doubt that we could win the state title.

"We got an amazing effort out of everybody. The weather was the hardest thing to cope with, but maybe it kept their attention focused so they worried more about it than their opponents."

While it was football that brought him to Michigan, it was in track that Hall enjoyed his greatest success. He earned four letters in track and, in his final competition as a Wolverine, busted the school record in the decathlon.

Hall scored 7.034 points to finish first at the Central Collegiate Meet May 24-25 at Eastern Michigan Univer-He surpassed the former U-M record by a mere two points.

There's no way of telling how good Hall could have been if he had concentrated on the decathlon throughout his collegiate career. Not that his football career was a flop. Had Hall gotten a better break, he might have made a greater impact in his first choice of Hall's best moment in football came when he was called on to relieve Steve Smith in the 1983 Rose Bowl. Although he had almost no experience, Hall rallied the Wolverines to within a touchdown of UCLA, but the comeback died and Michigan lost 24-14.

DURING 1983 spring practice, Hall hurt his right knee. He played on it that fall, but his mobility was reduced and he was ineffective. After the season, ly advised Hall to give up football or risk permanent damage.

I was really disappointed I couldn't play," he recalled. "I wasn't agreeing with the decision at the time, but it was the right thing. I couldn't move laterally without hurting the knee.

With football taken from him, Hall devoted himself to track and the decathlon. He first became interested in the 10-sport event as a junior at Stevenson. With the encouragement of then-Steventon track coach Tom Bills, Hall entered the National Junior Olym-

It was a natural event for him. In high school. Hall competed in both hurdles events, the discus, long jump, high jump and 440-yard run.

"I was already halfway there," he said when the idea of competing in the decathlon was suggested. Hall finished first in the Midwest Regionals to qualify for the National Junior Olympics, where he placed second, even though it was only his third decathlon.

AS A FRESHMAN at Michigan, Hall continued to impress as a decathlete, finishing second at the TAC Junior Nationals. But that's where his other deterred him.

"I started to concentrate on football," he said. "The guys I beat as a freshman kept working on the decathlon. Now they've passed me."

Hall's injured knee was no problem in track. The running is straight ahead, so there was no lateral strain. With track his only concern - he did play basketball as a sophomore for an injury-depleted Wolverine squad - Hall worked heavily on weights during the fall and winter.

His efforts resulted in greater strength (he went from 210 to 220 pounds), which in turn resulted in improved performances in the throwing events. Until late in the season, Hall owned Michigan's best toss of the year in the discus, an event usually reserved for offensive-lineman types, not quart-

No longer can the Detroit area be scoffed at for claiming to be the capital of the bowling world. The scoffing through the years was based on the fact that the Detroit area did not produce stars like other bowling centers in the country.

That has been changed now and two woman bowlers have helped to change the feeling. Mrs. Mary Mohacsi has risen to the point where she is rated the best amateur in the country. And the former Detroiter, Aleta Rzepecki Sill recently won the Queen's title for the second time in three years

In the all-star classics more than 100 bowlers are averaging more than 200 And Joe Norris the best bowler ever produced in the area is still going strong and is near the goal of toppling 100,000 pins Aside from that the Detroit area has six members in the national Hall of Fame. PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS TO EIGHT MILE RD. (M-102)

All interested citizens are advised that the Michigan Department of Transportation is proposing to widen and resurface Eight Mile Road (M-102) from Grand River Avenue (M-5) easterly 5.2 miles to the Southfield Freeway (M-39) in the cities of Detroit and Southfield and Redford Township in Wayne and Oakland Counties.

The proposed project calls for adding a fourth travel lane for each direction of Eight Mile Road. This would be accomplished by paving the outside shoulder and installing curb and gutter at the edge of this new pavement. The existing pavement would be recycled and the road resurfaced. As part of this project, the two bridges carrying Eight Mile Road over the River Rouge would be widened to carry an additional lane This widening would occur on the median side of the roadways to avoid disruption to the Telegraph (US-24) ramps. This project would not require the acquisition of any

Under Federal and State Policy, any citizens who would be affected by the proposed project may request in writing, that a formal public hearing be held concerning the social, environmental and economic effects of this proposal.

As required by Federal regulations, an Environmental Assessment has been prepared. Studies and coordination for this project demonstrate that implementing the proposed action will not have a significant impact upon the quality of the environment. Copies of the Environmental Assessment for this project may be obtained from

Those disagreeing with the determination set forth in the Environmental Assessment, or those requesting a public hearing are invited to furnish written comments summarizing the specific substantive and factual basis for such opposition. Please address

If CC did tense up, they could be forgiven. Only three members of the 10-man championship team are graduating seniors. One is a junior, five are sophomores and one a freshman.

"It's a very young, very talented team and we should be good for some time to come," said the CC coach. "We made doubles the focus of our efforts the last two years."

Last year CC won Nos. 2 and 3 doubles but finished second to Midland Dow in the state tournament. This year CC won Nos. 1 and 2 doubles while advancing to the semifinals in No. 3 doubles, accumulating enough points along the way to propel them to the championship.

TOP FIVE finishers in the tournament were: CC, 22 points; East Lansing and Okemos tied for second with 18 each; Birmingham Brother Rice and Midiand Dow tied for fourth with 16 each.

CC sophomore Mark Agah of Farmington Hills also finished first in No. 2 singles play.

Other members of the team are: senior Mark Egnatios of Dearborn Heights, No. 1 singles; sophomore Philip Eagleson of Detroit, No. 3 singles; senfor Bob Heimbuch of Farmington Hills, No. 4 singles; and No. 3 doubles partners junior Walt Bartels of Livonia and sophomore Rob Transou of Farm-

"My arm got stronger as the season went along," Humphries said. "They drafted me basically on potential and they liked my attitude.'

A lot of Humphries' development was orchestrated by his father, Joe Sr.; his high school coach, Brian Gilles; and WMU pitching coach Randy Ford, who played at one time in the Blue Jays' farm system.

"MY DAD is pretty excited," said Joe Jr., "because he says he's taught me everything I know.

"I give a lot of credit to Randy for my success. He paid extra attention to me because I had the potential. Western had a very good program and very good coaches.'

Gilles was elated upon hearing the anything you'd ask and that personality carries over. I think it's great."

If Humphries agrees to a contract, he'll most likely be assigned to the Jays' rookie league farm club in Medicine Hat, Alberta (Canada).

"A lot of people told me I'd go in the first five rounds," said Humphries. "I went to a lot of personal tryouts. I threw at Riverfront Stadium (in Cincinnati) last Saturday."

HUMPHRIES, a criminal justice major, plans to return to Kalamazoo for school in the winter.

"I'll be back at Western unless they want me to go to the instructional league, and that's usually a good sign,"

All the signs pointed in the right direction Tuesday. Maybe the big leagues

Livonia Stevenson made its trip to Flint's Atwood Stadium for the Class A girls soccer showdown against Troy Athens Saturday armed with everything but expectations. And that may have been its biggest advantage.

Stevenson scored five first-half goals - four for itself and one for Athens en route to a 5-2 victory and the state championship. It was the Spartans third straight trip to the finals and their second victory.

"I think the girls remember what happened last year," said Stevenson

2-1 upset loss to Northville, a team Stevenson had beaten twice earlier in the season. The Spartans came into last year's final confident of victory. They left disappointed.

"Some of the girls have never forgotten it," Divens said. "When we came out here, we said we were going to play one of our best games of the season.

Father, son battle in baseball regional

By Tom Panzenhagen staff writer

There's a sign on the bulletin board in the Georges' home in Farmington Hills. Today it reads "2 DAYS TO SHOW TIME."

The sign's been updated daily by Jim George, Livonia Stevenson's baseball coach, and his son, Ken, Farmington Harrison's second baseman. On Saturday Stevenson and Harrison, father and son, will go at each other in Class A regional baseball action at Plymouth Canton High School.

Show time is 10 a.m.

"KEN IS my best friend," Jim George said. "We're having a great time with this. But Saturday's a differ-

"If Ken couldn't go to Stevenson, though, I'm glad he's at Harrison. I've seen them play, aside from us, more than any other team in the last couple of years. They're a bunch of fine young According to Ken George, who's been in a hitting slump lately, "It could be interesting. I'm attack ready to break out with a big the arlier in the year, in a 6-2 Harrison loss, Ken had two hits againt his dad's team.

"Ken doesn't know it yet," his dad countered, "but he's going to a late party Friday night."

Ken said he's been trying to steal his dad's signs over the dinner table. Meanwhile, Ken's coach, John Herrington, joined in the fun. "We're not going to tell Ken our signs until just before the game," he said.

CAUGHT IN the middle of the friendy family feud, of course, is Mary Ellen George - Jim's wife and Ken's

"I'm going to root for whoever is up at bat," she said. "But if Ken wins, he might not eat dinner here for a while.

"Actually, there's a lot of teasing going on. They've been ribbing each other pretty good. But Jim would be happy, and I would too, if Ken did extremely well (against Stevenson).

"There's no easy way out of it, scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday at though. Someone has to be a loser."

Northville's upset of Stevenson last to Athens' Heather Mikolas.

Divens got that one back on a penalty kick with three minutes left in the opening half, her second score of the contest, to make it 4-1.

They had a little bit too much strength, a bit too much power for us," said Athens coach Tim Storch. "I felt definitely we were the underdogs coming in. I told our kids we were going to have to play above ourselves to win.

The youthful Red Hawks were not up to the task. Certainly the astroturf field, a surface Athens has never played on (all three of Stevenson's state final games have been at Atwood), made a difference. Stevenson connected on far more of its passes on the speedy surface than Athens.

BUT STORCH made no such excuse. Instead, he was already planning

"We should be back," he said. "People are going to see this 5-2 score and think we didn't play well, but it easily

Storch felt Hussey's second-half goal she scored it with her back to the net, booting the ball in with the back of her foot - could have been a pushing violation on Hussey. Maureen Sudek assisted.

Later, a goal by Athens' Janeen Lalik was disallowed because Elaine Zager, who took over in goal for Beagle, was injured and the referee whistled the play dead. Storch felt it was stopped too soon.

ATHENS FINAL came with 18:26 left. Heather DeGroot pushed the ball past a sprawling Dudek and Cindy Wass converted to make it 5-2. The Red Hawks next best scoring opportunity came with 20:12 left in the game, when a trip earned them a penalty kick. But Beagle dived to her left and deflected Kathleen Guzinski's shot just wide.

Athens will have other chances in the next few years, to be sure. And as Stevenson's loss to Northville last season spawned a title this year, the Athens players will remember this game, this

Rules complex for IRA, pension beneficiaries

Last week, we discussed the beneficiary rules for life insurance. Here are some general guidelines for IRAs and pension plans

IRAs

Rules of the Internal Revenue Service are complicated. If the account owner dies after distributions from the IRA have begun, distributions must continue to be made to the beneficiary over a period no longer than the original schedule.

If payments had not started at the time of the owner's death, distribution generally must be made within five If payments begin within one year after the death, distributions must be made over a period no longer than the beneficiary's life expectency. But if the beneficiary is a spouse, this one-year rule is liberalized so that payments may begin no later than the date on which the owner would have reached

Pension plans

Under the new Retirement Equity Act, a married retiree may no longer elect to receive a pension for himself or herself alone unless husband and wife sign a notarized waiver to permit it. Without the waiver, the retiree must finances and you

elect a straight life annunity that would pay the surviving spouse at least 50 percent of the benefit that both would receive while they were alive.

One of the leading insurance companies presents this example of a typical pension plan. A man age 65, with a wife age 60, makes $25,000 a year at retirement. He could receive annunity payments of $624 a month if he and his wife have signed the waiver.

Without the waiver, under the new rule, the couple would receive no more than $549 a month while both were alive. The survivor would receive half

Other arrangements are possible without the waiver. For example, the survivor could receive 75 percent or even more of the inital amount. At 75 percent, in the above case, the couple would receive $518 a month and the survivor would get $388.50.

Stage combat

Actor teaches special techniques for fist, sword fights

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographer

John Michael Manfredi of Rochester (left) and Wayne David Parker of Dearborn, who have worked together on swordfighting sequences for the theater, discuss staging a fight. By Cathie Breidenbach special writer

APTURING THE hot-headed, fist-swinging excitement of a fight and making it look like the real thing is a specialized theatrical skill.

John Michael Manfredi of Rochester is an actor who also stages fights for both the theater and movies. "Fights have to be choreographed just like dances." he said.

Manfredi worked on stage combat in plays this past season at the Actors Alliance Theatre Company in Southfield and Meadow Brook Theatre on the Oakland University campus near Rochester. He choreographed fight scenes in a movie that will premiere in Michigan this summer. Manfredi usually acts in the productions for which he creates fight sequences.

In Actors Alliance's recent athletic version of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," Manfredi played the lovestruck Hortensio and assisted Wayne David Parker of Dearborn in choreographing movements. Last fall he wielded a rapier in Meadow Brook's "Cyrano de Bergerac" and worked on the dueling sequences with Parker, who is a member of the Society of American Fight Directors.

OF PARKER, with whom he's worked numerous times, Manfredi said, "Whenever people in Detroit want help with stage combat, they call David Parker, and if he can't do it, they call me." Manfredi is one of six cast members in Actors Alliance's production "El Grande de Coca Cola." He choreographed the humorous gymnastics as well as a masterful slow-motion fight, in the slapstick comedy that plays through Sunday, June 16.

Choreography is essential no matter whether the fight is staged before a camera or a live audience. "And stage combat demands good body control and a certain amount of athletic ability," Manfredi said. He explained that in hand-to-hand combat on stage, the person who receives the blows does much more work than the one dishing out the violence.

"The guy getting hit is in charge of making the sounds (called knapps) by striking his hands together or hitting his thigh." The trick is hiding the action of the knapp from the audience as well as hiding the fact that the fist didn't really hit the other guy. The technique of camouflaging specific actions from the audience is called masking.

Directors of early movies had a long way to go in perfecting their skills at masking, and the results of their inexperience were often laughable. Many of us remember ridiculing faked fights in movies and plays when masking was abysmally bad and the actors' fists obviously missed the jaws of the guys with whom they were supposedly slugging it out.

When masking is good, the fight seems believable and the audience is unaware of the tricks used to sustain the illusion of reality. Those like John Manfredi, who specialize in stage combat, understand the necessity of chore'Whenever people in Detroit want help with stage combat, they call David Parker, and if he can't do it, they call me."

- John Michael Manfredi

ographing every minute action in a fight and of drawing the audience's attention away from what's to be masked in order to make the fight convincing.

THIS JULY, Manfredi's first major film, "Stryker's War," will premiere in Michigan. Manfredi planned the fights for it. He also plays one of four marines in the film, which was shot in Detroit by Action Pictures.

"You can get away with things in film that you couldn't do on stage," he said of the difference between fighting in front of a camera rather than before a live audience. Camera angles in film can mask action the audience isn't supposed to see and directors don't have to worry about synchronizing sound and action because sound is dubbed in afterwards.

For those who assume that knapp sounds in a stage battle are supplied by someone backstage, Manfredi explained that nothing looks more faked than having the sound out-of-synch with the action. The person getting hit is in charge of making the knapp sound because he's in the best position to coordinate sound with action.

Manfredi grew up in Ohio and became interested in fights when he was a kid watching the swashbuckling heroics of Errol Flynn and Gene Kelly at the movies. He attended Kenyon College in Ohio for three years, then spent a year at the Goodman School in Chicago, a nationally known drama school.

In 1982 he and his wife, Krista, who's from the Detroit area, settled in Rochester. They're awaiting the birth of their first child in mid-June. Manfredi works as an actor, a stage combat specialist and as a drama teacher. This summer he will teach Voice for the Actor and assist in Stage Combat classes in the Actors Alliance Summer Training Program.

Winning smile

Birmingham-based Broadway producer Ivan Bloch is a happy man about his show, "Joe Egg," winning a Tony Award at ceremonies Sunday night at New York's Shubert Theatre. "Joe Egg" was honored as Best Revival, and actress Stockard Channing was named Best Actress in a Play. Judith Ivey, appearing in another of Bloch's productions, "Hurlyburly," was chosen as Best Supporting Actress in a Play. "Hurlyburly" and "Ma Rainey's Black Bottom," also a Bloch production, were both nominated for Best Play."

"Torn Curtain" (1966), 12:05 Saturday night on Ch. 9. Originally 128 minutes. TV time slot: 130 minutes.

Alfred Hitchcock's "Torn Curtain" is frightfully bad. The master of suspense manages only one chilling moment when Paul Newman must quietly kill a communist police agent in the kitchen of a farm house without alerting the agent's partner outside. The sequence, in which Newman batters, strangles, stabs and finally gases the agent before he succumbs, would be worth the price of admission. But the rest of the movie is so dreadful, and the interaction between Newman and icy co-star Julie Andrews so stilted, that ultimately nothing can save the picture.

The movie may have been doomed from the onset. Hitchcock, who shaped his stars to the detriment of their own creativity, did not see eye-too-eye with Newman, a method actor who shunned Hitch's direction. Andrews wasn't so brash but she turned in a very wooden performance. To top it off, Hitchcock hated the musical score composed for

Berman brings own magic to 'Kuni-Lemi'

Performances of the Birmingham Theatre production of the muinformation call 644-3533.

By Barbara Michals special writer

Good things can indeed come in small packages, and "Kuni-Leml," the small-scale musical currently at the Birmingham Theatre, brings a big load of joyous laughter, terrific songs and delightful characterizations.

Russia, the show has often been called "the poor man's 'Fiddler on the Roof.'" This is a misnomer because "Kuni-Leml" is a perfect gem of a musical in its own right.

The two musicals do share some very universal themes - the conflict depth to the character without overdobetween generations and the difficulty ing the comic aspects. of holding on to traditions in a rapidly changing world.

Reb Pinkhos (Shelley Berman), a prosperous Hasid, has engaged the losical comedy "Kuni-Leml" continue cal matchmaker (Gene Varrone) to find through Sunday, June 30. For ticket his daughter a suitable husband from a good religious family. Kuni-Leml (Stuart Zagnit) is the mate selected, but Carolina (Patricia Ben Peterson) has a mind of her own and prefers her penniless and secular tutor Max (Joseph Kol-

MAX DECIDES to masquerade as his cousin Kuni-Leml and thus marry Carolina by trickery. Meanwhile, the matchmaker's daughter Libe (Liz Larsen) pines for a husband of her own. It's A tale of Jewish families in czarist merry mayhem when soon there are two Kuni-Lemls, two Carolinas and two confused fathers.

Berman plays Pinkhos to perfection. With sighs, hand gestures and meaningful silences, he has embellished the original role, bringing warmth and

Berman holds his own in the vocal department. "A Meeting of the Minds" is a charming duet with Carolina when it appears she agrees to marry the man her father has chosen. In "A Little Learning," the distraught father laments that he never was swayed by the new liberalism and allowed his daughter a secular education.

As Reb Kalman, the matchmaker, Varrone is marvelous. While his jaunty bowler and checked jacket (with matching skullcap) suggest a charla-tan, Varrone's twinkling eyes, jovial manner, and rich, booming voice make him a lovable rogue.

Anyone ever confronted with an undesirable blind date will roar with recognition when Varrone extols that "The Boy Is Perfect" while he glosses over Kuni-Leml's failings: a limp, a squint, a hump, a stutter and a little deafness.

ZAGNIT, WHO created the title role in the New York production, does a masterful job of portraying all of Kuni-Known primarily as a comedian, Leml's considerable imperfections. Despite being the brunt of a lot of low humor, Zagnit embues his character with gentleness and sincerity.

Peterson and Larsen are both spirited performers with strong voices, although Peterson's verges on harshness at times. Kolinski is convincingly earnest as Max and has a pleasing voice. He also does a nice job mimicking Zagnit's movements.

Jack Savage and Adam Heller, who double as Max's university pals and Pinkos' Hasidic friends, dash through costume and character changes with great energy. In the Hasidic tradition of joyous celebration, they romp through two of the show's liveliest numbers, "Celebrate!" and "Be Fruitful and Multiply."

All of the songs by Raphael Crystal and Richard Engquist are delightfully melodious and hummable. "Lovesongs and Lullabies" is perhaps the prettiest.

While director Ran Avni has this production a little less frenetic than the New York one, the pace is still unrelentingly lively and the characterizations are better developed as well.

Reb Pinkhos (Shelley Berman), a prosperous Hasid, engages the local matchmaker (Gene Varrone) to find his daughter a suitable husband from a good religious family in "Kuni-Leml."

Proving the old adage that the more things change the more they stay the same, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" is a musical sexual farce set in ancient Rome. .

The current production of St. Dunstan's Guild of Cranbrook bursts with energy. In the show, as directed by Thomas Peterson III, characters don't run across the stage of the outdoor Greek Theater. They practically fly across during the extensive chase scenes. The one character who plods across the stage, aged Erronius (Stan Evans), gets laughs out of sheer con-

Wayne State University

What's Unique About Wayne State University's Location?

It's the Heart of the Cultural Center. It's the Hub of the Freeways... It's a Short Drive from Your Home!

Almost all residents of Macomb, Oakland and Wayne counties are within 30 minutes of Wayne State University's main and medical campuses . . . and residents of the six-county metropolitan region are within an hour's drive away.

All roads lead to Wayne State University: I-94 (the Ford) from east or west; U.S. 10 (the Lodge) from north and northwest; I-75 (the Fisher) from downriver and I-75 (the Chrysler) from north and northeast; and I-96 (the Jeffries) from west and northwest. Several major surface streets also offer easy access.

Once you arrive, you've really arrived. You are in a major center of vitality and activity around Wayne State University: the Detroit Cultural Center. And a few blocks away is the New Center area; a mile away is the Detroit Medical Center, one of the finest and most comprehensive networks of health care institutions in the nation. And we are three miles from Downtown Detroit, Hart Plaza and the riverfront.

The Cultural Center is one of Detroit's best kept secrets. Discover beauty in the Detroit Institute of Arts. Mysteries of nature in the Detroit Science Center. Nostalgia for bygone days in the Detroit Historical Museum. The cross-cultural experience of the International Institute. And the joys of learning at Wayne State University.

The bustling world headquarters of General Motors and Burroughs are a few blocks north in the New Center. The Fisher Theatre and the Golden Tower of the Fisher Building. Shopping arcades. Fine restaurants. Sidewalk musical performances.

In the Medical Center, physicians and researchers from Wayne State University, Harper, Hutzel and Children's hospitals, the Rehabilitation Institute and Detroit Receiving Hospital work to cure ills and improve health care for all.

WSU is where the action is — the Three-Center area of Detroit, composed of the Cultural Center, the Medical Center and the New Center.

For more information, call your "Opportunity Line," 577-1000, from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Java Collector finds cloth treasures

staff writer

Like an explorer who traveled centuries before her, MaryLouise Totton discovered treasures in the small villages of Indonesia.

For three years, the Livonia resident worked for a hotel in Jakarta on Java, one of the islands that make up Indonesia. While living there, she became fascinated by the handmade garments and ornamental fabrics of the natives. Now she collects the "museum quality, one-of-a-kind" pieces - some of them 50 years old - and markets them to private and corporate art collections. museums and galleries.

"They are timeless classics, wonderful, wonderful pieces of artwork," Tot-

"Tribal art is becoming more and more interesting to people. There is a primitive exhibit at the Detroit Instimoving on," Totton said. inte of Arts.

THE FABRICS were used as clothing, sacred cloths, status markers and badges of ethnic identity. Not only art objects, they can teach something about Indonesia, Totton says.

They speak so much of the history ders. of the islands," she said.

Totton got to know the Indonesian people and was introduced to weavers. Since she didn't have room for paintings, she started collecting the fabrics instead, spending her free time in the outer islands gathering them.

NO PATTERN IS done haphazardly. Every motif and symbol means something, such as the social status of the wearer or what tribe he comes from. A woman with two grandchildren wouldn't wear the outfit of a young single woman

"The clothing is used to define you or where you're from," Totton said. "Everything means something."

Among the frequent symbols found in the cloth patterns are blossoms, which reveal one's social class, and "tumpals," triangles that represent travel from one life to the next. Travel is a common motif, also shown by ships, horses and sea creatures.

SOME PATTERNS are made in the batik process, in which wax is applied to the fabric before the cloth is dyed. The wax saves a pattern in the color of the foundation.

Ikatting is a process older than batik. To make an ikat, banana leaves (or leaves of other vegetation) are wrapped around each thread while the cloth is on the loom. The strings are dyed individually, after which the leaves are removed. New leaves are wrapped around threads before each following application of dye.

Women's clothing includes the "lau," a tube dress, the length of which indicates the social status of the wearer. Men wear hip wraps the way American men wear blue jeans, and shawls ("slendang") over their shoulders, according to Totton. When one man meets another of a higher rank, he drops the slendang off one shoulder to show he doesn't have a weapon.

"It's the polite thing to do, like tipping your hat to a lady," Totton said.

"SOUL CLOTHS" are presented at different times in one's life, such as the seventh month of one's first pregnancy.

aching back and family down to Flor-

Sandy's grandparents were always writing, wanting us to come down. Some time into the second week of "hot and therapy," I started feeling pretty good. My mother-in-law, June, was with us as she also was visiting her parents.

One day Mom said, "Well, I have to leave Friday." In shock, we all turned and asked in unison "Why?" Her reply was, "They need me to fill in for one of the girls at the store.'

'You're gonna end a vacation in Florida to go back and fill in for some girl?" I sat in disbelief. "Man . ever get my own business, I hope you'll work for me.

YEARS HAVE passed and my mother-in-law is my business partner. With a partner like Mom, I knew I couldn't help but succeed. A year or two after our store opened, I drew a Christmas card for Mom and on the cover of the card was a cartoon of me painting a picture on a high, shaky platform

On the ground level was Morn nailing boards on the base to steady the spindly structure. Her support put me in business and as a youngster, my own mother's support and encouragement helped me stay into art.

Who's supporting the artist in your family? Now "support" doesn't just mean financial. No, the artist you know of needs much more support than just the money for art supplies. The artist needs positive statements for continual growth, honest criticism for learning, and someone to promote them with a gentle nudge or maybe a Positive statements encourage growth. Like water to the roots of a budding artist, positive statements nourish creativity and encourage the . If I setting of new goals. Artists ware wonderfully sensitive in a positive environment and grow accordingly.

On the other hand, artists are tragically sensitive in a negative environment and creativly become ill accordingly. I, for example, teach art, do art and write about art.

For me to be creative, I must be free from negative input. It jams my creative processes. Since this is such a high priority, my wife and motherin-law support me positively and for this I am thankful.

earily upset about her picture and than the artist should find out why. when I asked what was the matter, she said, "My mom said I should complete one picture every lesson.'

Talk about being under pressure. One young teen-ager consistently did well in her lessons yet never seemed happy with the outcome. Since I had never met her parents, I ran out to the car with her and her wonderfully rendered picture of a dog.

She held it up to show her mom and I said proudly, "Isn't that something!" Her mother's reply was "I guess, I don't like dogs." The followup on both is that they, of course, dropped out of art altogether.

The visual image in a piece of art is an expression of the artist and it is waiting for a reply. To a new artist, the wait may seem endless as a viewer looks at their artwork. The comment by the viewer is either a stone in the artist's foundation or a bruise on a tender ego.

Honest criticism for learning. The word criticism means, "To judge the merits and faults of." Every artist needs criticism to be sure their artwork is accurate in its technical merits and understood in its expression. My own feelings about my individual pieces of art rise and fall with the criticism of my non-artist wife, San-

So I therefore feel that every artist needs someone to tell them "It's good" when it's good and "it's bad"

ARTISTS NEED a gentle nudge or a push ... Some even need a hit in the head. Artists tend to settle into their work and need another person to push them, promote them and get them doing artwork they would perhaps never choose to to.

Like an agent, some mother's or father's line up art jobs for their young artist. Regardless of how much the artist gripes, the "work" is good. The pay may be little and the job may be a drag but the "work" is good.

The artist may insist, "There's no way I can do it," but their promoter, Mom, Dad or whoever, knows they can and supports them positively. And that which couldn't be done gets done, with positive statements, honest criticism and oh yes, a bit of a nudge. That's the way at least it was with me

Arts committee names director

Peter Stroh, chairman of Concerned Citizens for the Acts in Michigan (CCAM), has announced the appointment of Marilyn L. Wheaton as its first executive director and the launching of an economic impact study. Through generous foundation support, CCAM has expanded its activities.

A grant from the McGregor Fund enabled CCAM to hire Wheaton, who has diverse experience in marketing public relations and art education. She was director of marketing and development for John Hilberry and Associates, Architects. Wheaton previously had been on the staff of the Detroit Artists Market and the Smithsonian Institution, Archives of American Art, where she served as researcher and editor on documentary exhibitions and publications.

A $50,000 GRANT from the Skillman Foundation funded an important study of the impact of the arts on the economy of Michigan, which will be unveiled by Gov. Blanchard.

CCAM alerts citizens to issues of concern to art institutions throughout the state, by enlisting the support of public and private funding groups statewide and locally, and by organizing drives for group and individual members.

Sculpted canvases explode with lavish color

By Benita Bornstein special writer

The Ron Gorchov exhibition of recent paintings at the Susanne Hilberry Gallery is a lavish explosion of color.

Gorchov, who, since 1968, has applied his abstract color to shaped canvases, creates a spatial tension between painting and sculpture.

The canvases are constructed, stapled and mounted on specially made thick, wood curved stretchers, eliminating all corners in a shield-like

Convex and concave, the canvases move away from the wall openly displaying its structure, with no attempt to conceal the nails that bend the wood

Likewise, the linen, particularly around the edges, remains exposed, like skin, revealing the painting's inner structure.

Thus, shape and space influence the bold patterning of color as it floats on the saddle-shaped canvas.

Blocks of color sometimes recede and sometimes are thrust forward, but always there is the illusion of space as colors interlock and intersect. The images, too, are illusionary as well as elu-

GORCHOV'S TITLES convey this sense of ambiguity, an evocation of imagery, the paintings suggestions of landscape, places, or ideas.

"Loggia," for example, communicates an illusion of space. By the layering of color, the rounded shapes of the blues, greens and turquoise suggest a waterfall, rising and flowing and punctuated with a startling spray of a peachy orange.

And yet the title would have the viewer seek the structural arcade or platform, or perhaps the open space of the courtvard.

"Seraglio" is quieter in color; blues and grays moving to aqua and pink

Here again, Gorchov's title refers to a Turkish estate, including the mosque and harem, but the painting only suggests, leaving illusion to the viewer.

These paintings show a change from the 1982 "Estate" whereby the canvas is covered in brick red with two welldefined structural shapes of deep gold. These elongated shapes face the same direction and likewise define the shape of the canvas.

Kites inspire artist's paintings

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

The sight of a kite propelled by a gentle wind current conveys a sense of freedom. The fact that it is tethered is forgotten in the enjoyment of its seemingly carefree movement in space.

As a child, artist Richard Smith, like many others, built kites - even a "very ambitious" dragon kite.

But, Smith, born in Letchworth, Hertfordshire, England in 1931, never really gave up his fascination with the form. As a much lauded, professional artist, he has been improvising on the kite theme since 1972.

SEVERAL OF his kite constructions, essentially two dimensional, a group of paintings and etchings are on display at I. Irving Feldman Galleries, 6917 Orchard Lake, West Bloomfield, through June. The pieces of canvas of the kite theme paintings are held by metal struts which frame and secure the shape. Strings are left at the corners as a kind of historical reference. Several of these arranged so the rectangular shapes overlap and project out to make up a single work.

"The shape is the first decision," said

The painting is compatible with the geometric configurations of the work. And while there is a dimensional quality to these works in the forms being overlaid, to Smith they are paintings, related to banners which he also does and likes, but not particularly to sculp-

Colors which vary from brilliant to somber, are always striking and sometimes jarring in their unusual combinations as well as the relationships and the mood which they create.

Smith has done many architectual installations, one of the largest of which is 33 pieces in a vaulted space for Mobil Corp. of Dallas.

His strictly two-dimensional paintings in this exhibit are done on paper mounted on canvas. They are a buildup of many layers of very thin washes with some suggestion of the figure against a grid, all with a sense of mystery about them.

IN ANOTHER gallery are a selection of etchings by Smith and his appreciation for that form is imediately ob-
