Mandatory belt law put into effect today

By Dennis Coffman
staff writer

Michigan State Police are warning motorists that they will begin "immediate" enforcement of the state's new seat belt law.

"We had a discussion of (the new law) at a staff meeting," said Sgt. Marvin Gier of the Second District Headquarters of the MSP, which patrols Plymouth and Northville.

"We feel that motorists have had a long enough grace period, for the last three or four years, and that we should begin immediate enforcement of the law.

"I mean, it's not like writing a ticket for someone who does not have two tail lights. This is a life-or-death situation," said Gier.

BY "IMMEDIATE," the state police meant one second after midnight Sunday (last night).

"I only wish we could have begun enforcement before the weekend," said Gier.

Needless to say, police seem to like the new law.

However, Michigan motorists don't have to worry about local or state police pulling them over when they spot an unused seat belt dangling from its hook inside the vehicle.

"The driver must have committed some sort of violation," said Gier. "We will perform only secondary enforcement."

BUT EVEN secondary enforcement is reason enough to buckle up. An unbelted motorist who commits a traffic offense would find himself receiving a citation for the primary violation, then would get a surcharge — an additional ticket for not wearing seat belts.

"We can't stop him for not wearing a the belt, but we can ticket him for having the belt off, if we pull him over for some other violation," said Gier.

The ticket will amount to a $10 fine from today until Dec. 31, 1985. The fine will increase to $25 on Jan. 1, 1986.

The mandatory seat belt law will be the same, even though the amount of the fine will change.

The law requires that front seat occupants must wear seat belts and shoulder harnesses as well, if the harnesses are available.

BACK-SEAT passengers are completely excluded from the new seat belt law.

"But we felt that there would be a domino effect," said Gier. "If people in the front seat buckle up, then passengers in the back seat would automatically buckle up. The front seat passengers will insist on it."

Gier said the domino effect occurred when the state instituted a mandatory child restraint law. Parents buckled their children into special seats (under two years old) and then buckled themselves and their older children into standard belts and harnesses.

The state police have not added manpower to enforce the law, according to Gier. "Everybody is aware of the seat belt law. Monday will be a day like any other day. We'll just have another law to enforce."

As for enforcement at a local level, Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry said issuing tickets for seat belt violations will be left to the officer's discretion — as are all violations.

Township officers also will look for evidence of non-seat belt usage during accident investigations, Berry said. However, whether a ticket is issued will be up to the officer.

The Plymouth Police Department reportedly hasn't received a copy of the law, but most likely will be warning motorists not using their seat belts.

Balloons to fly this weekend

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Despite a bumpy take-off, preparations for the Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival are going smoothly.

That's the word from Scott Lorenz, general manager of Plymouth's Mayflower Hotel who is promoting the July 5-7 event along with Gordon Boring, owner of Walled Lake's Wicker Basket Balloon Center in Plymouth.

Due to a lack of agreement with Plymouth Township officials, Canton Township will host the balloon launch this year for the first time at Centennial Educational Park (CEP), Joy and Canton Center roads.

"The purpose of the event was to promote Plymouth and now it has been expanded to promote Plymouth and Canton, to build traffic at local shops, support sponsors and obviously for the Mayflower Hotel," Lorenz said. "It is also to promote good relations between Plymouth and Canton."

ALTHOUGH THE PROMOTERS were behind schedule due to the delay in finding a site, Lorenz said the event should be a big success. Approximately 40 businesses have agreed to sponsor a balloon at $750 for local companies and $1,000 for those who own their own balloons. About 60 balloons will fly during this year's festivities.

Businesses are given a "high" level of advertising exposure by sponsoring a balloon, but some companies won't receive any "personal benefit from it whatsoever," Lorenz insisted. "They just want to benefit their town.

"In fact, some sponsoring businesses refused to have the company's name placed on the balloon."

Maintaining a "classy event" has been a major goal.

"We are very careful that we don't carnivalize the thing," Lorenz said. "Many balloon events around the country become carnivals and we are not interested in that."

"Although there is a lot of pressure from people who want to put booths out there we just don't want it to become all junked up."

ENTERTAINMENT WILL also be kept at a low key level. The girls marching band of Denmark, which will be in the area during the balloon launch, will be featured. Also, Tom Dean from WCLS will be heard over the loud speaker as announcer.

In return for Canton's support this year, the promoters have agreed to give the community first rights on hosting the event in the future.

"That's fine with us, they're (Canton officials) very cooperative and that's

New officers on streets

Township cops take reins from the city

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

When Plymouth Township residents awoke this morning, a new group of police officers were patrolling their neighborhoods.

At the stroke of midnight, the township's newly established police department took over the duties formerly contracted to the city of Plymouth.

The 57-member department completed initial training last week and the officers were sworn in Friday afternoon. Of the 57, 20 are sworn officers, 30 are Community Service Officers (CSOs) or reserves, and seven are dispatch workers.

"There are a few minor things we need to do yet, but, yes, we're ready for Monday," Police Chief Carl Berry said last week.

Police consultant Robert Parsons, who helped design and implement the department, echoed Berry's comments.

"We are totally on our timetable," Parsons said last week. "In fact, we are actually ahead of the timetable."

"I believe we have a very professional department here. As a police consultant, I am very pleased with the way the department is turning out."

BECAUSE OF the shift in police service, Berry said township residents

All township requests for police, fire, and/or emergency medical help should go to 453-2545. Residents of the city of Plymouth should continue to dial 911 for all police, fire and/or emergency medical help.

have a new telephone number to call in the event of an emergency. All township requests for police, fire, and/or emergency medical help should go to 453-2545.

"In the past, residents called separate numbers for police and fire," Berry said. "Now (with a central dispatch) everything is handled by the one number."

If the new number looks familiar, it should. The new emergency number is the same number used in the past for township fire calls. It now is used for all emergencies.

Besides handling police, township dispatchers will direct fire and DPW phone and radio traffic. In the past, the fire department and DPW handled their own dispatching.

Non-emergency, informational or business calls to the township police department should be directed to 453-3869. Non-emergency calls to the fire department should continue to be directed to 453-2546.

Residents of the city of Plymouth should continue to dial 911 for all police, fire and/or emergency medical help. Non-emergency calls to Plymouth police should go through 453-8600 and 453-1234 for non-emergency Plymouth fire calls.

AT THE SAME time the township department comes on line, the city department enters a new phase — having been reduced from 20 to 16 officers.

As a result of the township's decision to abandon the $467,000-a-year shared services contract, the city was forced to develop new methods to provide law enforcement.

This week marks the start of Plymouth's "team concept" or approach. Under this system the department has been divided into shift and specialization teams — each shift team being comprised of a member from each of the specialization teams.

Parade, fireworks, picnic top July 4th celebration

A patriotic parade, dazzling fireworks and an old-fashioned family picnic are among the festivities on tap for Plymouth's annual Fourth of July celebration.

All of the fun will start Thursday morning at 8 a.m. with a Fourth of July run. Registration for the foot race will start at 6:30 a.m. Prepaid entries are $5, and $7 the day of the race.

The race will start from, and registration will be at, the corner of Harvey and Ann Arbor Trail. According to the Jaycees, the price includes a T-shirt, trophies and "goodies."

FOLLOWING THE race there will be a Mason's Pancake Breakfast at the Masonic Lodge, across the street from Kellogg Park. The breakfast is open to the public.

The main afternoon event is the 24th annual Plymouth Jaycees Fourth of July Parade — set to begin at 1 p.m. and travel along Main Street.

This year's Grand Marshal will be Lt. Gov. Martha W. Griffiths. Other notables will include Wayne County Executive William Lucas, county Commissioner Mary Dumas, Sheriff Robert Picano, state Rep. Gerald Law and other government officials.

The 1985 parade will feature some 80 entrants, including floats, bands, marching units and displays.

Before the parade, a special ceremony will be held at the Plymouth Rock between City Hall and the library. W. W. Edgar will present a short speech detailing the history of the rock, which was a gift from the city of Plymouth, England.

The rock ceremony will start at noon.

AT 3 P.M., all of the holiday action will shift down Ann Arbor Trail to the Plymouth Township Park as the Jaycees hold their first Fourth of July Old Fashioned Picnic.

The Jaycees hope to make the picnic an annual event for families throughout the community.

Activities planned for the picnic include games for the entire family, a '50s and '60s dance, eating and plenty of fun.

Picnic participants are encouraged to bring their own blanket and picnic lunch and plan to make an entire day out of it. Pop, cotton candy, popcorn and other goodies will be available at the park.

The dance will start at 6:30 p.m. at the Lower Pavillion and continue until dark.

Once the sun sets, it will be time for the traditional fireworks display. Unlike years past, the display will be at the Township Park instead of Massey Field.

Dubbed the "Pyrotechnic Extravaganza," the fireworks are being sponsored Central Distributors and other Plymouth community businesses.

Jaycees officials recommend the best way to get a good seat for the fireworks is to come to the park for the picnic and dance — that way you'll already be there.

Pacing herself at 34 minutes and 54 seconds, Sue Hachigian, a Canton resident, was the first woman across the finish line.

And they're off.

On their toes Run draws a crowd

LESS THAN 80 runners turned out for the Canton Country Festival 5-Mile Run Saturday — a day that took turns dousing and drying off folks outside.

Breezing to victories were University of Detroit cross country runner Ken Dubois in 26.08 and Susan Hatchigian of Canton in 34.53.

Plaques and medals went to top finishers in six male and female age groups. Others won prizes donated by local merchants, including a Key Tours weekend trip for two to Toronto. Refreshments were served, and staffers from Oakwood Hospital Canton Center were on hand to administer emergency medical services.

Entrants, who enjoyed rural Canton scenery while trekking along country roads, received hats and visors.

Threatening weather held off long enough for the field to finish the run, which ended at the recreation complex behind township hall.

For complete race results, see today's Sports Section.

Twenty-six minutes later, Ken Dubois of Livonia came in first.

Bob Dates, Canton recreation supervisor, keeps an eye on the finish line to record accurate times.

Rod Jenkins of Canton contemplates the race.

Bell plans to conduct area industrial survey

By Dennis Coffman
staff writer

Plymouth will be the target area for a new Michigan Bell survey to determine how industries view their community.

Bell, in cooperation with the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, Plymouth Township and the City of Plymouth, will begin to interview chief executive officers of manufacturers in the two communities.

The "Michigan Business Retention and Expansion Survey" will assemble the responses provided by the CEOs and feed them into Bell's computer in downtown Detroit.

"From this, we'll get a printout of the profile of the Plymouth business community," said Steve Balasia, manager of the Economic Development Department at Bell.

BALASIA SAID the survey would pinpoint strengths and weaknesses in the community and allow the owners or chief executives to articulate their feelings toward the local government.

"We can find out why they're attracted to the community and what bothers them — things like police protection, blocked-up sewers, street repair," said Balasia.

"We can then arrange to bring together local government leaders and business leaders. Bell is committed to community service. If the community does well, Bell does well," he said.

The survey, in the form of in-person interviews, will be conducted by volunteers. "These key business people will talk with CEOs. The volunteers will be asked to do one or two surveys," said Lynn Anderson, chamber president.

"This will be a total community effort," she said. "The information will be provided to the schools, too. It will be an interplay of the total community. But the interviews will be businessmen talking to businessmen."

Balasia said the in-person interviews should take about one hour. Bell will also mail surveys to local manufacturers. Bell will pay the cost of the mailing.

THE PROFILE will allow Plymouth to compare its wages, labor pool, utilities, taxes, markets to those of other communities to determine why companies are moving in and out of the area. "We hope to be able to target in on those businesses that are thinking of leaving the area and try to keep them," said Anderson. "When manufacturers move in or out of an area, there is a ripple effect."

Companies such as Federal Pipe and Steel Corp. and Plymouth Plating Works would be contacted. Retailers, such as McDonald's or K mart, would not.

"It can be very beneficial," she said. "Every industrial and manufacturing company will be asked to participate.

In some instances, Bell has had 65-85 percent participation.

"One businessman said it was the first time anyone ever asked him anything about his business and where he needed help," she said.

The program has been underway in Livonia and is getting underway in Westland, Southfield, Troy and Brighton.

Plymouth Township officials have indicated their support for the survey. The Plymouth City Commission is expected to vote favorably on a resolution of support tonight.

Retired postal carrier reflects on career, service

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

Standing in the spacious living room of his home on Woodgate and enjoying his retirement as the oldest post office clerk in Plymouth, Roswell "Mike" Tanger recalled some of his experiences on the mail route when two-cent stamps were in vogue and post cards could be sent anywhere for a cent.

He has now been retired for 25 years, but some of his days on the postal route, and later as a clerk in the office brought back some hearty chuckles.

"It wasn't easy carrying mail in those days," he said, "when we had to carry the mail in big leather bags through rain, snow and ice." But fortunately, there was no 'junk' mail in those days.

"After several years of that, I went to work as a clerk. This position wasn't as trying as carrying the mail, but I enjoyed every day of the 41 years and three months I was on duty with the mail."

WHILE HE spoke, his wife, Nancy, who has been active in school work and enjoying her club, reminded him of the fear he had as a mail carrier.

"Oh yes," he said, "we always had to be afraid of dogs that roamed the streets in those days. But I never was a victim of any dog's pranks."

Tanger said that he was only 19 years old when he started toting the big leather mail bags. And he smiled when he recalled that he was the first postman to use a bicycle.

He had left school at age 16 and went to work for the Daisy Air Rifle firm. Later he went on the Ford payroll.

Then one day a friend, Ezra Rotnour, Plymouth's first mail carrier, persuaded him to take the examination for the postal job. He took it and won.

It was a great break for him as he was happy every day of his life as a mail worker. Then he married Nancy, and since his retirement, they have traveled around the world.

This happy retiree looks back on his job and forever is thankful to the late Ezra Rotnour for steering him into postal work.

BUT HE SHIVERS just a bit when he talks of the piles of "junk mail" that are left in the mailbox most every day.

"We just couldn't have carried it and I am glad that this custom came along after I left."

Tanger shudders when he thinks that it now costs 14 cents to mail a postcard which once went around the world for a cent.

Now able to sit down and pleasantly recall the days of his post office work, he is happier that he and his wife are able to travel and see the world with all of its problems.

The Tangers recall that they were married in the Presbyterian Church in Plymouth.

But with their travels, they admit that they have been lucky to be able to look back on a joyful life. While it was broken at times with a bit of sickness, they are living happily — except when they go to the mailbox and find it filled with "junk" mail.

Police take position

Starting today, the officers were expected to start working under the team concept and would be scheduled for 12-hour shifts, instead of eight hours.

The new system was designed to provide the opportunity for professional growth, while maximizing the use of patrol resources.

Both departments, one being brand new and the other being rearranged, will be put to the test this week.

Starting on Thursday, officers will have to deal with traffic and crowd problems associated with the Fourth of July celebration — including a race, parade, picnic and fireworks.

The weekend will bring even more people and traffic as the Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival hits town.

Chiefs from both departments said everything was set for the July 1 change, and will be working in cooperation in the coming days.

"Whatever needs to take place with the city of Plymouth has taken place or is taking place," Berry said.

School building moved twice during the 1880s

(Part 10)

In October, 1854, only a year after Ebenezer J. Penniman aided the formation of the consolidated Union School by donating his Seminary building to the Plymouth school system, the school board decided that more classroom space was needed.

A committee appointed to look into the matter recommended construction of a 46-by-28-foot addition to the seminary building. It was to be two stories high — "the same as the present building." Estimates for putting up the addition ranged from $1,027 to $1,123.

E.J. Penniman, who had not yet delivered the deed of the Seminary to the board, and was apparently using it as a lever to have things done his way, said he would turn over the deed immediately if the board built an entirely new building instead of constructing an addition.

Rejecting this idea, the board continued with its plans for an addition which was completed in 1855.

Five years after he donated the seminary lot and building, Penniman was still holding the deed. In 1858, a committee of Isaac Hedden, Henry Fralick and John Kynock were asked to approach him to ask what additional improvements to the building were needed before the deed was demanded of him. It is not clear when he actually delivered the deed, but it may have been at this time.

MEANTIME, IN 1856 the board passed a motion to sell "the school house in the lower village or rent same if it can be done without cost to the district in repairing it."

In the following year, the building was sold to George Starkweather for $30.

In 1865, the board entered into an agreement with architect D.W. Taylor to make alterations and repairs to the Union school building for $1,450.

past and present

Sam Hudson

When the actual cost came to $1,898, the board borrowed money from George Starkweather at 8 1/4 percent interest in order to get the job finished.

The wood frame school, as it was in the 1870s, has been described by Daisy president Charles H. Bennett, a pupil during that period.

Writing in 1952, Bennett said the building contained five rooms, two on the ground floor, and three on the second.

"The third room was a classroom built between the two larger rooms. It had no outside ventilation or windows and was lighted only by four good-sized kerosene lamps, two at each end of the room. When the wicks were turned a bit high and the lamp chimneys began to throw out black, kerosene-scented smoke, you could well imagine you were working in a coal mine. That was nearly 80 years ago and I can still smell them."

More of Bennett's recollections of the old schoolhouse are on page 197 of my book, "The Story of Plymouth, Michigan."

THE MOVEMENT to decentralize the schools which surfaced in 1875, as discussed in a previous column, may have had its impetus in 1872 when T.T. Lyon moved that the board look into the practicability of building two ward school houses "at such points as would best accommodate the children of the district."

As indicated, nothing actually was done to build a ward school until 1927.

By 1883, the Seminary building and its addition had outlived the community's needs and a committee was appointed to select plans and obtain estimates for a new school house. The committee, which George Starkweather chaired, included E.J. Penniman and C.B. Crosby.

In September, the board voted to accept the committee's recommendation that $9,000 be borrowed, and bonds be issued at the rate of 5 percent, for the purpose of building a new school on the site of the old one.

At a referendum held on September 22, residents approved the proposal by a vote of 84 to 36.

At a board meeting early in 1884, it was voted to pay $200 to Henry Bearman to move the old building from its site to the "common" where it was used until the new school was completed. I assume the common was the park in front of the school. The old building, whose nucleus was the Seminary built by Penniman in 1840, was sold in 1885 to Marvin Berdan for $150.

Berdan had it installed at the rear of the Hotel Plymouth, which stood near the corner of Main and Ann Arbor Trial. It was used as the hotel barn.

In 1941, the wood frame building which had begun its existence 101 years earlier.

Plans for the new school building were obtained from the Detroit architectural firm of J.V. Smith and Sons. The contract to construct the building went to Walter Fairbairn, also of Detroit. The heating and ventilating system was put in by Isaac Smead and Co. of Toledo. The blackboards were furnished by E.E. Lyon of Oberlin, Ohio.

There's nothing quite like home

Be it ever so humble, there is no place like home.

Back in our school days when we used to sing this song every week, we used to laugh. Most of us lived in rather poor neighborhoods. We had small houses, very little lawn and a garden patch.

We used to smile because most of us dreamed to see the ocean, some of the colorful mountains, the skyscrapers in the city and other things of beauty in our land.

But these wishes were only wishes. There was little hope of ever seeing them. So we had reason to believe that there were other places that would impress us more than our homes.

Well, life takes some funny twists. And it so happened that conditions in our family were such that there was little chance of seeing the beauty spots of the world.

All we could do was dream and every Friday afternoon as part of our exercises, we would sing the old song — designed to make us appreciate the home in which we lived.

Then Lady Luck took a hand in The Stroller's life. He had worked hard and long to learn the machinist trade. It was far from what he would have liked. But he had to be content.

THEN CAME a morning that changed his entire life. He ventured into the office of our hometown newspaper. It happened to be publishing day and he was in the way.

At the height of the action, the funeral director's wagon passed and the editor, trying to be nice, asked him to follow it — to find out who had died, and then come back.

He did. But the death was not important as news. But he was asked to jot down a paragraph or two to be printed in the paper. When he saw his work in the public prints, he was sold on a new career. And here Lady Luck took a hand again.

He was invited to join a new daily paper in the city and was named sports editor. With that title he traveled with ball clubs, football teams and golfers.

Then Lady Luck placed her hand on the stroller

W.W. Edgar

him again. This time he became the bowling co-ordinator of Michigan and traveled to all conventions.

Now he had the chance to see the mountains, the ocean, fly in planes, and live in modern hotels.

He had the chance to see the Rockies, Mount Rushmore, the Hawaiian Islands, flew the Atlantic, changing of the Guard at Buckingham Palace in London, the arch of Triumph in Paris and the Notre Dame cathedral in Paris along the Seine River. He rode through the black forests of Germany and saw all the great sights.

Lady Luck had really smiled on him.

THEN CONDITIONS under which he had no control caused another shift.

During vacation time not so long ago, he was forced to remain at home. No boating, no fishing, no sight seeing. Just home.

Making the most of this, The Stroller decided to spend his time in the garden and the lawn. He pulled weeds for days, cut flower beds and arranged a lawn setting amid the evergreens.

Suddenly, he liked it. He had fun planning for the type of lawn and yard he wanted.

The sun shined so brightly during the day. Then at dusk the sun went down and there came the silence of the trimmed lawn, the flower beds and the arrangement of the flowers.

As he sat there, a bit tired, but pleased with the changes his work had brought above, he dreamed of others that would be made during this home vacation — far from the oceans, and the famed beauty spots. He suddenly started to hum the old song of this school days!

"Be it ever so humble, there is no place like home."

WHIPLASH

Whiplash injuries can result from a sudden backward and forward whipping movement of the neck, caused by an auto collision, a fall, a powerful slap on the back, or even a violent sneeze. The ligaments and muscles controlling the spinal segments are stretched or sprained allowing the vertebrae to slip into abnormal positions. Nerves are then "pinched" or irritated, giving rise to headaches, nausea, dizziness and other pain.

VERTEBRAL SUBLUXATION COMPLEX (V.S.C.)

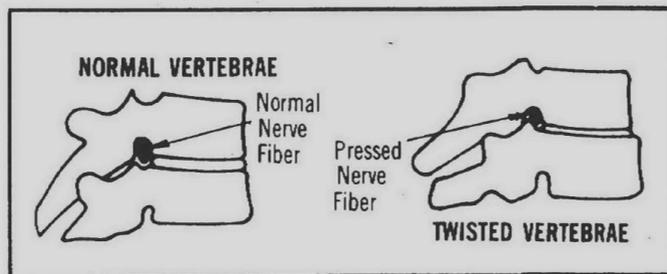

Noted scientist Carl Sagan writes in his book, The Dragons of Eden, that each cell in the body receives a nerve supply from an average of twelve different nerve fibers. When one considers that there are forty quadrillion (40,000,000,000,000) cells in the average human at birth and the entire body only weighs 8 to 10 pounds and by age 20 years, body weight is 15 times its original weight that there are a lot of nerve fibers. There are so many nerves that if everything were removed from the body except the nerves there would be, so great a mass of nerve fibers that the body would retain its exact form and you could not see through it.

Why so many nerves? Science tells us that each cell of the body functions in unison and that unison needs communication. It is the job of nerve fibers to carry communication from brain to cell and cell back to brain. The brain makes the decisions for proper function.

DORLAND'S MEDICAL DICTIONARY, which uses the same definition of health as the World Health Organization, tells us health is a condition of optimum physical, mental and social well being and not merely the absence of diseases and infirmities. By that definition, health is not just the lack of symptoms.

Symptoms are signals from the body which usually appear at the end of a disease process long after the start of the condition.

William Boyd, M.D., author of Boyd's Pathology, which is widely used in medical schools states that all disease first begins with dysfunction. Function is controlled by the nervous system. The main cause of interference to the nervous system is from the vertebral subluxation.

Vertebral subluxation is caused by trauma to the spine causing a vertebrae to slide out of its normal position and to be "locked" there. This in turn caused either compression or stretch on the nerve fiber bundles. When nerve fibers receive pressure, communication is altered.

Altered communication leads to loss of cell function and, as Dr. Boyd said, lost function leads to disease.

DR. MASHIKE SHOWING A VERTABRAL SUBLUXATION TO A PATIENT.

DR. MASHIKE ADMINISTERING A LOW FORCE ADJUSTMENT, THIS TYPE IS GIVEN TO YOUNG PEOPLE AND INFANTS.

Chiropractic is the science of finding and removing vertebral subluxations. I personally do not give spinal manipulations. A manipulation is a gross non specific racking of bones and does more harm than good. A chiropractic spinal adjustment such as I use is a precise scientific predetermined movement of one vertebrae back into its original intended position.

Usually adjustments don't hurt. On large adults the pressure used is more and on infants the pressure is so light it would not crack an egg.

I urge you to ask questions about the vertebral subluxation and ask for proof to the answers you receive; don't be brushed off or told you wouldn't understand.

I have found thousands of subluxations in thousands of spines and have removed them. My patients have gotten well when they thought there was no hope. If you want to be healthy, I would be pleased to examine your spine and give you an honest evaluation of your subluxations.

Salad Days are here!

If spring is in the air, can salad days be far behind?

The coming of spring signals that season of the year when fruits and vegetables are most abundant and at the peak of freshness. It's the perfect time for "Salad Days," when meals are lighter and highlight a variety of fresh vegetables and fruits.

Americans have taken the simple side dish salad served in Europe at the close of a meal, and transformed it into a complete meal for lunch or a light dinner. From a combination of greens tossed with oil and vinegar, the salad has developed into a main dish influenced by the cuisines of Japan, France, Italy, China and even Mexico. The "trendiest" salads this past year, according to the leading magazine of the restaurant industry, were Italian-influenced pasta salad, and south-of-the-border mac salad. But these are only the tip of the iceberg!

A common denominator of these international salads is fresh produce from America's supermarkets, and a variety of bottled dressings to accent the cool, crisp flavors. Our favorite green for salads is California Iceberg Lettuce, which is much admired for its crisp texture and mild flavor, and makes a versatile base for any salad recipe. Another favorite lettuce may be sliced and cut into wedges, then tossed with a variety of individual lettuces wealth of fresh produce and salad ingredients. They bring a world of flavor to American salads, and also can be used as marinades for meats and vegetables, or as a flavoring agent in cooking.

Many favorite bottled dressings today are formulated to reduce calories, yet deliver the full flavor of regular dressings. Both are a boon to salad eaters and calorie-conscious consumers.

Four new salads with international flavor and flair have been created by the Kraft Kitchens to herald "Salad Days." Canton Chicken Salad, Alpine Salad and Acapulco Bean Salad are hearty enough to serve as entrees. Italian Style Potato Salad can complement grilled meat, fish or poultry or round out a no-cook supper of cold cuts, cheeses and sliced tomatoes.

Here are some simple salad combinations for use throughout summer salad days:

- Marinate cucumber slices and red onion rings in creamy Italian or creamy garlic dressing.
- Marinate sliced tomatoes in golden caesar dressing, top with shredded mozzarella cheese and serve on a bed of lettuce.
- Mix spicy-sweet French dressing with cooked green beans, french onion rings and sliced tomatoes.

ing. Chill and serve on lettuce.

- Make homemade croutons by tossing 2 cups Italian bread cubes with 1/4 cup Italian dressing; place on ungreased baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees, 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Makes 1-1/2 cups.

Blend a medley of beans, avocado, onion and shredded lettuce with taco dressing to make a Mexican main dish salad accented with cheese and corn chips.

ACAPULCO BEAN SALAD

- 1 15-oz. can garbanzo beans, drained
- 1 8-3/4-oz. can kidney beans, drained
- 1 avocado, peeled, chopped
- Catalina brand French dressing or taco dressing
- 1/3 cup pitted ripe olive slices
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 1-1/2 cups shredded California iceberg lettuce
- 4 California iceberg lettuce wedges
- 1/4 cup (1 oz.) shredded sharp natural cheddar cheese

Combine beans, avocado, 1/2 cup dressing, olives and onions, mix lightly. Chill. Add shredded lettuce, toss lightly. Spoon mixture into lettuce cups, top with cheese. Serve with tortilla chips.

Chopped ham and Swiss cheese strips are blended with crushed tarragon and buttermilk dressing to make a tangy topping for iceberg lettuce wedges and cooked fresh asparagus spears.

ALPINE SALAD

- 2 cups chopped ham
- 1 lb. asparagus spears, cooked, cut into 1-1/2-inch pieces
- 2 ozs. aged natural Swiss cheese slices, cut into strips
- 1/3 cup sliced almonds, toasted
- 1/4 cup pitted ripe olive slices
- 1 6-oz. bottle buttermilk creamy dressing
- 1 teaspoon dried tarragon leaves, crushed
- 4 California iceberg lettuce wedges

Combine ham, asparagus, cheese, almonds and olives. Add combined dressing and tarragon, mix lightly. Chill. Arrange lettuce on platter, surround with ham mixture. 4 servings.

Variation: Substitute chopped cooked chicken for ham.

For pods, water chestnuts and carrots add crunch to Canton Chicken Salad, tossed with a refreshing blend of buttermilk dressing and ginger. Spoon each portion onto a slice of crisp iceberg lettuce.

CANTON CHICKEN SALAD

- 3 cups chopped cooked chicken
- 1/4 lb. Cantonese pork

Add combined dressing and ginger, mix lightly. Chill. Top lettuce with chicken mixture. 4 servings.

Add zest to a backyard barbecue by serving a colorful potato salad accented with zucchini, red pepper, green onion slices and creamy Italian reduced-calorie dressing.

ITALIAN STYLE POTATO SALAD

(Not Illustrated)

- 4 cups cubed cooked potatoes
- 1 cup celery slices
- 1/2 cup zucchini strips
- 1/2 cup chopped red pepper
- 1/4 cup green onion slices

Cold soups are perfect for a hot summer day

Warm summer days call for fast, cool meals, and avocado soup is just the ticket. Prepared with buttery-ripe avocados, cucumber and lime, the soup has authentic Mexican flavor. Make it the night before to allow flavors to blend as it chills, and serve as a first course or a light luncheon or supper main dish.

Light, refreshing and full of the season's best flavors, icy cold soups are just about perfect for warm weather meals. Easy to prepare without sophisticated equipment, these cooling soups can be made the day before and tucked into the refrigerator until it's time to serve. They're a great change of taste from summer's standard barbecues and last-minute sandwiches, and nothing could be easier on the cook.

Throughout the Southwest, cool summer soups have long been menu favorites — especially when prepared with south-of-the-border flair. Home economists representing Pace Foods Inc. in San Antonio have created two exciting icy soups with authentic Mexican flavor by teaming seasonal fresh vegetables with a few everyday ingredients and using picante sauce to eliminate the effort of finding and preparing chiles and other exotic ingredients.

Served as the main dish for a casual family meal or for entertaining, Picante Avocado Soup is light yet satisfying, with rich, fresh flavor appeal. Be sure to select fully ripened avocados in order to enjoy their most buttery texture and fullest flavor. Avocados are ready to use when the fruit yields easily to gentle pressure. A casual-as-summer way to serve this soup is buffet style, with the soup in a chilled tureen and accompaniments arranged for diners to help themselves. Sliced green onion tops and diced cucumber make "soup-er" stir-ins, and be sure to set out additional picante sauce for those who like their cold soups with plenty of "heat." Crusty French bread, a basket of fresh fruit and a selection of cheeses will complete the easy, elegant meal.

Gazpacho, that humble Spanish soup sometimes thought of as a "liquid salad," has found international celebrity as a year-round favorite. San Antonio Style Gazpacho simplifies the preparation and travels the taste toward Mexico with the addition of picante sauce. Busy meal planners with active summer lifestyles note that a more tasty, nutritious and low-calorie soup will be hard to find. Chock full of garden fresh vegetables and spotlighting the season's most succulent tomatoes, this no-fuss soup receives a unique nutritional as well as a flavor boost from picante sauce. Serve this bright, light soup as a first course in place of a salad, or as a main dish for an easy, refreshing warm weather meal.

PICANTE AVOCADO SOUP
 2 large ripe avocados, peeled, seeded and cut up
 2 cups chicken broth
 2 tsp. lime juice
 1 cucumber, peeled, seeded and cut up
 ¼ cup picante sauce
 1 cup half-and-half
 ½ tsp. salt
 Green onion tops, thinly sliced and salt. Cover and chill. Top with green onions. Makes 4 to 6 servings, about 6 cups soup.

SAN ANTONIO STYLE GAZPACHO

2 cups beef broth
 1 medium onion, quartered
 ½ cup lemon juice
 ¼ cup olive oil
 2 tsp. salt
 1 46-oz. can tomato juice
 2 cups finely chopped celery
 2 tomatoes, diced
 ½ cup picante sauce
 ¼ tsp. pepper
 2 medium green peppers, chopped
 2 small cucumbers, diced
 Croutons

Combine 1 cup of the broth, onion, lemon juice, oil and salt in food processor or blender; process until smooth. Transfer to large bowl. Add tomato juice, remaining beef broth, celery, tomatoes, picante sauce and pepper; mix well. Chill at least 3 hours. Top each serving with green pepper, cucumber and croutons. Makes 8 servings, about 12 cups soup.

Use fresh veggies in a cool, crunchy salad

Delicious, praiseworthy salads are worth noting these days because there are lots of fresh vegetables available.

To start, here's a new potato salad made with those lovely little red potatoes (the skin is left on for extra taste and color), crunchy celery, ham strips and sliced radishes garnished with kitchen-ripened tomatoes. The dressing is what does it here — a Dijon mustard base, spiced with garlic and crunchy with celery seed.

An Oriental orange dressed slaw uses finely shredded carrots, cabbage and sliced scallion (green onion). This salad is made ahead and refrigerated for several hours for the flavors to blend.

New potatoes should be stored in a dark, dry place and washed just before using. Rinse celery in warm water, then drain and refrigerate in a plastic bag with air holes. Refrigerate carrots in a plastic bag. Cabbage stores well when refrigerated unwrapped.

½ tsp ground black pepper
 ¼ cup thinly sliced radishes

In a large saucepan bring 1-inch water to a boil. Add potatoes; return to a boil, reduce heat an smmer, covered, until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain and cool slightly. Cut potatoes into quarters (makes about 4 cups); place in a large bowl along with celery and ham. In a measuring cup combine oil, vinegar, mustard, egg yolk, celery seed, salt, garlic powder and black pepper. Beat with fork or wire whisk until smooth. Pour over potato mixture. Toss gently to coat evenly. Cover and refrigerate until ready to serve. Stir in radishes. Serve on a bed of lettuce garnished with tomato wedges, if desired.

ORIENTAL CARROT SLAW

½ cup peanut oil
 3 tbsp orange juice concentrate
 2 tbsp rice wine vinegar
 2 tbsp soy sauce
 ½ tsp ground ginger
 3 cups finely shredded Florida cabbage
 3 cups shredded Florida carrots
 ¼ cup thinly sliced scallions (green onions)

In a large bowl combine oil, orange juice concentrate, vinegar, soy sauce and ginger. Beat with fork or wire whisk until smooth. Add cabbage, carrots and scallions; toss well to coat evenly. Cover and refrigerate until ready to serve.

YIELD: 4 to 6 portions (about 5 cups)

NEW POTATO AND HAM SALAD

Water
 1½ pounds small red potatoes (unpeeled)
 1 cup thinly sliced celery
 1 cup sliced boiled ham cut in 2-x½-inch strips
 ½ cup vegetable oil
 ½ cup cider vinegar
 2 tbsp Dijon-style mustard
 1 egg yolk
 ¼ tsp celery seed
 1 tsp salt
 1 tsp garlic powder

Beef stir fry makes dining light and easy

Warmer weather is here, and so is our desire to spend more time outdoors, spend less time in the kitchen and eat light, low-calorie meals.

Beef is a versatile meat source that can be prepared in many different ways to match the diet and time constraints facing many Americans today. For example, the flank steak can be cut into thin strips and quickly cooked using the popular stir-fry technique. Stir the ingredients constantly during cooking so they heat evenly and quickly.

Another benefit of the quick stir-frying method is that it helps retain the nutrients present in the food. While our bodies need about 50 different nutrients every day, scientists have found that if we get the proper amount of 10 major nutrients, we'll probably get enough of the other 40. Beef 'n' Eggplant Stir-Fry supplies significant amounts of the daily requirements of many of the major nutrients — 116 percent of daily vitamin C requirements, 76 percent of protein needs, 48 percent of niacin, 37 percent of phosphorus, 35 percent of iron, 31 percent of thiamin, 30 percent of vitamin A and 27 percent of riboflavin.

To keep this nutritious meal "light and easy," serve an assortment of fresh fruits for dessert.

BEEF 'N' EGGPLANT STIR-FRY
 Preparation time: 35 minutes
 Cooking time: 25 to 30 minutes

1 beef flank steak (1 to 1½ pounds)
 4 tbsp dry red wine, divided
 ¼ tsp EACH dried basil leaves, dried oregano leaves and salt
 ¼ tsp pepper
 1 eggplant (approximately 1 pound), pared, cut into 2 by ¼ inch strips
 2 cloves garlic, minced
 4 to 5 tbsp olive oil, divided
 1 large red pepper, cut into thin strips
 1 tbsp cornstarch
 ¾ cup beef broth
 2 cups cooked spinach linguini
 1 tbsp grated Parmesan cheese

Partially freeze steak to firm. Cut steak in half lengthwise; slice each half diagonally across the grain into thin slices (knife should be almost parallel to cutting surface). Combine 1 tablespoon wine, basil, oregano, salt and pepper; sprinkle over meat. Stir-fry eggplant and garlic in 3 tablespoons hot oil in wok or large non-stick frying pan 8 to 10 minutes or until eggplant is transparent. Add red pepper and continue cooking 2 minutes. Remove from pan; reserve. Stir-fry beef strips (½ at a time) in remaining oil 2 to 3 minutes. Remove from pan; reserve. Combine cornstarch with beef broth. Stir into drippings with remaining wine and cook until thickened, stirring occasionally. Stir in reserved beef strips and vegetables and heat through. Combine linguini and Parmesan cheese. Serve beef stir-fry over linguini. 4 servings.

KENN CHRISTOPHER, our neighbor at the Michigan Racing Commission office, would like to help a temporarily incapacitated resident. He will donate a pair of crutches to an individual or, as he suggested, "An area nursing home may need an extra pair. They are in good condition."

The crutches may be picked up at the Plymouth Observer office, 489 S. Main Street between 9 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Kenn hopes to turn a practical joke into a benefit for some unfortunate person. He received the crutches as a gag gift for his 40th birthday.

PLYMOUTH'S Fourth of July parade marks the debut of a brand new marching group. In later years, parade-goers will be able to recall — with pride — "We saw them first."

The John Smith Clothing Company's Briefcase Drill Team will be easily recognized. Each will carry a briefcase. Each of the 18 members of the precision drill team will be wearing a dark business suit, white shirt and red tie.

They will be accompanied by a drummer.

They wore casual attire for their first practice session on the deck of the central parking lot. General Fred Hill was enthusiastic over their progress. He said they were "the best darn group of recruits around."

"What a practice! You guys are fantastic. My thanks to all of you for your attention and your interest in making this craziness happen," he told the troops.

Their routine is patterned after the movie, "Stripes."

Fred said, "Although our performance is a put-on, our impact will be based on the precision of our marching, our drill team movements and our chants and cadence counts."

They are professionals and businessmen — accountants, lawyers, even the director of a community chorus.

After a second Sunday evening practice, they will be all spit, polish and precision for the July 4th parade.

THE STINGERS, an area soccer team for girls 13 and 14, will represent Michigan in the Mid-West Regional finals July 19-22 in Kansas City.

The Stingers, in their fourth season, already are a two-time winner of the Michigan State Cup for their age division.

Right now, they are looking for sponsors to help defray the expense of chartering a bus to take them to the tournament. Anyone wishing to make a donation can call Don Smith, coach, 459-7686, or Doris Edwards, assistant coach, 349-8628. Any help will be appreciated.

The girls try out for the team. They play in the Bonanza League, competing with teams from Midland, Troy, Livonia and Grand Blanc. The Stingers have played 16 games this season and they have scored 84 goals with just 14 against. Members of the team are from Canton, Plymouth, Northville and Farmington.

Doris Edwards said, "We are taking 18 girls to Kansas City. There are 11 on the field and free substitutions are allowed."

HEIDI WORDHOUSE is working in Pfarrkirchen, Germany, this summer. When she learned teacher Gloria Logan planned to visit former her former drama students from the Centennial Educational Park this summer, Heidi was hoping she'd come to Germany.

Heidi is an original "Plymouth Park Player" and interpreted for the troupe when they went to Austria with "Feiffer's People."

CONGRATULATIONS to the Plymouth-Canton Civitan Club on its 13th anniversary. The club's contributions to the community have been astounding and appreciated.

Girl Scouts bound for high adventure

Sailing the Great Lakes, exploring the west on horseback, attending an international camp in Jamaica are on the summer agendas of three senior Girl Scouts from Plymouth.

Each was selected to represent the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council at national or international events this summer.

Beverly Gildhaus will attend "Set Your Sails" from July 20 through Aug. 12. This Wider Opportunity in Scouting has a Great Lakes setting. After a session in Lansing to learn the skills necessary to work as a deckhand, the Scouts will set sail on the waterways of the Great Lakes. The three-day cruise will include wind surfing, snorkeling and water skiing, while docking at a different port each night.

Beverly, daughter of Barbara and Bill Gildhaus, is a member of Senior Troop 501. She has been in Scouting for nine years and is a senior at Plymouth Canton High School. She is on the varsity swim and track teams and sings in the choir.

"I love sailing — it sounds like a blast," Beverly said.

HOLLY TUCKER will be one of 40 Scouts at "Saddle Straddle" July 21 to Aug. 4. The event at National Center West in Ten Sleep, Wyoming, is sponsored by Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.

While exploring the center on horseback, the Scouts will improve their skills, develop new riding techniques and prepare for an extended pack trip to remote areas of the center. They will have an opportunity to show off their riding skills at a Gymkhana. Holly's parents are Barbara and Thomas Tucker of Greenbriar Lane. She is a member of the National Honor Society at Plymouth Salem High School and belongs to Girl Scout Senior Troop 501. She says Scouting has given her goals and challenges to meet.

JULIE ROBINSON will attend International Camp '85 at Shortwood Training College in Jamaica. She is one of eight Senior Scouts selected from applicants from across the country to go to the July 20 to Aug. 9 event.

Girl Guide Association of Jamaica is sponsoring the international gathering. There will be hikes, excursions, service projects, and cross cultural sharing based on the theme, "Caring and Conservation."

She says she is excited about "sampling the many cultures that will be represented at the camp. I am proud to represent my council and my country."

She attends Ladywood High School where she is a member of the National Honor Society and the orchestra and band. She has been a Girl Scout for nine years and is a member of Senior Troop 626.

Julie's parents are Maureen and Fred Robinson of Plymouth.

Color analysis: passing fad or fashion aid?

More and more women are going into analysis.

Not the couch-and-notebook-and-psychiatrist kind, but the color-cosmetic-figure-wardrobe-personality kind.

Unlike psychoanalysis, which tries to probe the inner person, color, cosmetic et al, analysis apparently is an attempt to improve upon the outer person. Sometimes such superficial characteristics reflect what the person inside is really about, sometimes not.

But like it or not, it looks as though color-cosmetic analysis is the latest self-improvement fad, perhaps the next in line to supplant aerobics.

Color, cosmetic and wardrobe analysis seem to have been placed under one umbrella term by a Plymouth beauty salon. The salon — the Cutting Quarters — has hired a certified color and fashion consultant for "full image" service.

"Not only will clients receive advice on hair, style and perms, but also on makeup, wardrobe, colors and designs of garments best suited for their lifestyles and workstyles," said Janet West who, with her husband Jim, owns and operates the Cutting Quarters.

The Wests have invited Bonnie Virag, a graduate of Academy Nvart School of Dressmaking and Designing and of the Fashion Academy of California, to provide clients with advice on what is considered to be the best combination of colors and cosmetics that harmonize with the clients' skin tones.

Virag will assist with wardrobe planning, garment selection and tips on eyewear, hats and accessories.

"Color in your wardrobe is the special magic that can transform you from what you are to what you would like to be," said Virag.

AS MORE women enter the work-

Bonnie Virag color analyst

place, there has been an emphasis on wearing the right clothes for the job, or "investment dressing."

Although most women have the coloring that will allow them to wear some shade or hue of every color, color analysis provides a guide to the ones that are best for the woman being analyzed.

Virag, who studied at the same school attended by author Carole Jackson who wrote "Color Me Beautiful," said she follows the methods developed by the school — the Fashion Academy of California.

The fashion business appears to be going the way of accounting and finance. They now have "certified fashion consultants" with diplomas from fashion schools, just like CPAs are certified accountants and CFPs are certified financial planners.

Virag, a Livonia resident, is a certified fashion consultant who studied under Gerrie Pinckney and Marge Swenson, who pioneered color analysis.

"A color analyst is an added plus to our salon," said Jim West. "Once our clients relate to the cool or warm tones in their skin, they will understand why their hair color needs more ash or more gold and will trust our judgment."

In addition to hair care facilities, the Cutting Quarters provides waxing, electrolysis and a tanning bed.

Computers rated by one who knows them

By Dennis Coffman staff writer

Nick Curp, service manager, finds beauty is only skin deep when it comes to computers.

If you are considering buying a computer, it might be a good idea to consider not only whether the prospective unit is user-friendly, but also whether it is repairman (repairperson, repairer)-friendly as well.

A computer's beauty may be only skin deep. Take, for example, the Kaypro 2X, which is even described by its manufacturer as "homely."

But homely as the Kaypro home computer may be, it is nevertheless given the highest possible rating where it really counts — under the skin — by Plymouth computer repairman Rick Curp.

Curp, who is service manager at Computer Time, 770 Penniman, repairs most makes of computers, but considers the Kaypro the best value.

"It's far better than the IBM," said Curp. "With IBM, you're just paying for the name. But you get so much more with Kaypro and yet the IBM costs two or three thousand dollars more."

Kaypro is one of the IBM compatibles — machines designed to accept IBM software. Curp has found that most of the compatibles are very good buys.

"Kaypro parts are sent out fast, too," said Curp.

He also recommends Kaypro because the manufacturer offers a complete home computer package — keyboard, disk drive, monitor and printer — at a single price.

BUT CURP also is definite about the machine he would rate the worst.

He said the Commodore comes in last, in terms of reliability.

"Commodore may be the best bargain for the money, because it is cheap. But the breakdown rate is incredible," said Curp. "If you buy a Commodore, hope that the problems occur during the first 90 days (of the warranty)."

Though some users of Commodores have been lucky, Curp said he has requests for Commodore repairs that average two a day, a higher rate than the other makes.

Are computers becoming easier to service?

"Yes," said Curp. "A lot of the IBM-compatibles and the Zenith are self-diagnostic; that is, they have diagnostics inside the machine. LEDs light up if the circuit board is bad or if there is not enough power. Also, some computers now have their chips socketed to the board, rather than soldered, so they can be easily removed."

IMPROVING SERVICEABILITY may be one reason not to buy a computer now, even though functional capabilities may have reached a plateau.

Although the Japanese are gradually making inroads in the computer market, Curp said they haven't overwhelmed the market.

"A lot of companies have subsidiaries of Japa-

'Some are self-diagnostic, that is they have diagnostics inside the machine. LEDs light up if the circuit board is bad or if there is not enough power. Also, some computers now have their chips socketed to the board rather than soldered, so they can be easily removed.'

nese companies. One of these is Star Micronics, part of Star Electronics of Japan. Epson is also Japanese," said Curp.

Curp is certified by their manufacturers to service microcomputers and printers from Star, Epson, Okidata, Omron, Zenith, Kaypro, Commodore and Franklin under warranty.

He works out-of-warranty on IBM, Apple and others.

Curp called the Apple a good computer, basically. Although he said it has many minor problems, major repairs are few.

He rates the Franklin, a similar machine, above the Apple. Franklins, he said, have more peripheral features, such as 80-column cards, dual interface cards and numeric keypads, included in the basic package, for which Apple charges extra.

Both Apple and Franklin have been having financial problems. Apple recently laid off more than 1,000 employees, and Franklin has just come out of Chapter 11 bankruptcy filing.

REPAIR RECORDS for the IBM-compatibles are very good. Their cost of repair is less than the cost of repairing an IBM.

That cost is important, because it can amount to $60 an hour at stores such as Computerland. Computer Time charges $40 an hour.

Curp said one-third of the problems with computers lies with the operator, not the machine itself. He will work with an operator to find out what the operator is doing wrong.

The repair field is dominated by men, he said, though women make excellent repairpersons.

Curp was trained at Oakland Community College. He recommends basic electricity courses at high school and digital electronics, CCD now offers courses in repairing microcomputers.

TAKING GOLD BY TABLETS

Traditionally taking gold therapy in rheumatoid arthritis required aif-injection at regular intervals; now there is a gold tablet that can substitute for injections.

Both forms can cause decrease production of red and white cells and platelets, and possibly damage the kidneys; these complications are less likely with gold tablets than with injectable gold. However, the tablet form can cause diarrhea or stomach cramps, a problem that rarely occurs with injectable gold.

Initiating injectable gold requires a weekly visit to the doctor's office; though once the gold is injected, it's absorption into the body is assured. The tablet form necessitates a physician's visit only once a month; but the medication must be taken twice a day. Forgetting a dose means a corresponding loss of gold's effect.

At present, my preference is to begin with injectable gold. Patients starting gold have active arthritis and need close followup; coming in weekly is in their interest. Usually they are taking several medications, and the injection relieves the need to schedule yet another drug. When their arthritis is controlled, they can transfer to gold tablets.

SOME OF THE GREATEST THINGS IN AMERICA

In Ansel Adams' eyes, America's wilderness is its most precious national treasure. Through photography, he immortalized the unspoiled beauty of Mt. McKinley for all to see. Some things never change.

NEVER CHANGE.

But one great American tradition has changed—U.S. Savings Bonds. Now Savings Bonds pay higher variable interest rates like money market accounts. That's the kind of change anyone can appreciate.

Just hold Savings Bonds for five years and you get the new variable interest rates. Plus, you get a guaranteed return. That means you can earn a lot more, but never less than 7½%.

But some of the best things about Bonds haven't changed. The interest earned is still exempt from state and local income taxes. Still cost as little as $25. And can be purchased at almost any financial institution. Or easier yet, through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds. Like the wilderness, they're another part of our proud heritage.

Variable rates apply to Bonds purchased on and after 11/1/82 and held at least 5 years. Bonds purchased before 11/1/82 earn variable rates when held beyond 10/1/87. Bonds held less than 5 years earn lower interest.

'G-Gosh!' is Landis' newest

Fairuza Balk stars as Dorothy, the Kansas farm girl who finds new adventures, in "Return to Oz."

Rochester resident and longtime songwriter Sheila Landis has a new album out. Her fifth, making her one of the most prolific self-producers among local musicians, the new album is called "G-Gosh!"

She also leads a band and although she and her band seem to have been passed over by the smaller summer music series, she's appearing at Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival.

"We're the only Detroit wedding band playing Montreux," joked Landis. But, don't believe it. She may have to do weddings to keep going in the music business, but she's an outstanding songwriter, whose albums document a growing body of poetic work.

"G-Gosh!" was written entirely by Landis and includes a range of tunes, from a sort of Sheila Landis meets the Gothic Romance in song with "My Brief Career as Countess" to an enjoyable R&B tune in "Monday Afternoon."

There aren't a lot of her albums around and to get "G-Gosh!" you may have to go to more than one local record store.

Detroit attorney Gregory Reed was among the more able and interesting speakers of the daylong conference at the Veterans Memorial Building on the riverfront. He is author of a new book, "This Business of Entertainment and Its Secrets."

Speaking about legal issues affecting musicians, Reed told the jazz musicians in the audience that "packaging and imagery" are terribly important to achieve success in the entertainment field.

The successful entertainer, Reed said, is one who not only has a total commitment toward his art but also is able to be creative and unique "with out-mimicking" anyone else.

Reed, who has authored other books, has been a producer and has represented numerous entertainers in television and music. "This Business of Entertainment and Its Secrets" is available in many local bookstores or by mail from New National Publishing Co., P.O. Box 2645, Detroit 48231. Cost is $24, which includes postage.

BECAUSE LANDIS is still struggling to make a decent living in the music business, she was one of several musicians who attended a recent "Jazz Concepts of the '80s" workshop in Detroit last week.

Sponsored by the Great Lakes Arts Alliance, the workshop was intended to assist musicians in handling their product (their musical talent) in a better way.

ANOTHER BIT of reading for the musician who is looking for help to get through the musical maze is "Making It in the Music Business."

Written by a young rock musician, the brochure is published by the American Federation of Musicians and available free at either the Detroit Federation of Musicians office in Southfield or the Oakland County Federation of Musicians in Bloomfield Hills.

While the brochure is short, it does

on music
James Windell

tell about some of the pitfalls when trying to make it by playing clubs, dealing with agents and trying to get that elusive recording contract.

IT'S BILLED as metro-Detroit's largest cocktail concert series, but "Summer Nights" at the Troy Hilton is one of the least heard of, and perhaps most underrated, series going on in the area.

The poolside courtyard of the hotel, at Maple Road and Stephenson Highway, is one of the most pleasant music settings around, and on opening night (June 7) the weather and music was ideal.

The Summer Nights series started with Hugh Borde's Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band. The irresistible combination of Caribbean, reggae, pop and jazz worked wonders in creating a real party atmosphere.

Borde, one of the original steel drum players from Trinidad, is among the area's busiest musicians. His band plays at several local summer music series and returns to Summer Nights six more times before the Friday-Sunday night series ends Sept. 20.

More information about the music scheduled for the rest of this summer — and there's a heavy sprinkling of Golden Oldies and '50s bands — can be had by calling 583-9000.

THE SUN Messengers, a local band which believes in a simple and effective philosophy of "keep the music danceable," is also very busy this summer.

With previous summers' engagements at P'Jazz, Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival and other places around town, the band led by Rick Spangler and Rick Steiger is back this season with a heavy schedule.

Among appearances by the Sun Messengers will be gigs Wednesday, July 3, and Thursday, July 18, at the "New Center Swings" concerts in the New Center Park in Detroit.

It's obvious the Sun Messengers love music, its repertoire a sprightly mix of big band favorites, Afro-pop, funk and reggae. The group is one of the better musical products in the Detroit area — and another group that deserves wider attention.

Fine sequel arrives from Disney Studio with 'Return to Oz'

"Return to Oz," now playing at Detroit-area theaters, is an excellent trip, well worth your flight time.

Sequels are always problematical. When a film has become an institution, as the "Wizard of Oz" has, and survived an unsuccessful spinoff ("The Wiz"), it is an even more iffy proposition. Certainly television's now obligatory spring screening of the "Wizard," and the mythical proportions to which Dorothy and her friends along the yellow brick road have risen, make a tough act to follow.

Under the circumstances, then, "Return to Oz" is a well-done sequel. Much to Disney Studio's credit, the charm, wonder and flavor of the 1939 epic has been matched, although some will complain, quite rightly, about the violence.

"Return to Oz" is a contemporary movie, which partakes of our current values, and these include a great deal of violence. Those who remember Bambi's mother and the hunters, the Wicked Witch and her flying monkeys, or the endless destruction on Saturday morning cartoons, may not feel the need to insulate their children from this film, although I'd have second thoughts about taking a 5-year-old.

IN SPITE OF THAT, the film manages to develop its own character while possessing the charm of the original. The story is a new one, based on L. Frank Baum's "The Land of Oz" and "Ozma of Oz."

Dorothy (Fairuza Balk) pines for her friends in Oz but Aunt Em (Piper Laurie) will have no truck with this Oz nonsense.

Aunt Em figures Dorothy is ill and takes her off to the quack, Dr. Worley (Nicol Williamson), who just happens to double as the Nome King once Dorothy gets back to Oz. Jean Marsh plays Dr. Worley's Nurse Wilson, as well as Princess Mombi of Oz.

During a storm, Ozma (Emma Ridley) and Dorothy flee Dr. Worley's clinic and get washed away downstream. Naturally, they wind up in Oz, prey to the Wheelers, clever modern-day equivalents of the Wicked Witch's flying monkeys. They look and act like a genetic cross between punk rockers and motorcycles.

The Wheelers do Princess Mombi's evil bidding. She, in turn, owes her allegiance to the Nome King, a very nifty combination of actor Williamson and superb clay animation, which also provides the King his courtiers — the rocks and mountain cliffs.

The good guys on Dorothy's side include my favorite, the mechanical general, Tik Tok; Jack Pumpkinhead; Gump, and a pretty saavy chicken, Billina.

BELLINA'S RELATIONSHIP to the Nome King's fatal weakness is the scenario's one major fault. Personally, I like eggs, but if he can't handle cholesterol, I can cope. It would have been much more exciting and developed much greater anticipation if it had been clear that eggs spelled trouble for the king. Oh, that's why they were after Billina and she was hiding!

Aside from that, I thoroughly enjoyed this "Return to Oz." Balk is a sweet and talented Dorothy who manages the role effectively as her own person without aping Judy Garland. Marsh is properly stern as Nurse Wilson and sensuously evil as Princess Mombi, at least until an audience with the king reduces her to quivering pulp.

Visually the film is well photographed and has an intriguing appearance. The special effects and animation should delight every viewer, although some may be so imbued with the original that they will fail to see the charm of the sequel.

Jean Marsh is Princess Mombi of Oz, who directs the monstrous Wheelers in evil tasks.

Winery achieves new prominence

Two events occurred recently, independent of each other, that caused my attention, and now yours, to focus on one of California's renaissance wineries, Buena Vista. The changes this Sonoma County property has gone through recently have brought it from relative obscurity to esteemed national prominence.

For a winery that perhaps seven years ago was known more for its important history than its lousy wines, that is quite a step. But Buena Vista has done it.

Just east of the city of Sonoma, this is the site of the original plantings of the modern California wine industry. Indeed, one can still visit the locations of the original vineyards planted by Count Haraszthy in the mid-1800s. Here zinfandel was developed during a checkered decade of hype and promotion, and a huge stone structure, still standing, was built to make wine. This was all well before Krug, Schramm and Beringer began their winemaking work in neighboring Napa.

But Buena Vista has never really been a winery of great distinction. In the last 20 years, it has been troubled by erratic ownership and lack of capital to develop into a competitive position.

THINGS BEGAN to change only a few years ago. By the early 1980s it had developed so rapidly that it began to win awards with astonishing regularity and today has become recognized as one of the premier labels in all of California.

Jill Davis, winemaker, was brought in from Beringer in 1982. Her presence, both in finishing off the wines she inherited and producing new ones, seems to be one of the key factors in the changes that have occurred. Her tenure is coincident with Buena Vista's resurgence.

The winery now produces fewer varietals than in the past and is relaxing Special Selection Chardonnay, Cabernet and Pinot Noir. These have been highly acclaimed and have perhaps done the most in making BV the respected name it is today.

Also, lovely things are being done with fume (sauvignon) blanc and gewurztraminer, in addition to its regular releases of chardonnay and cabernet. And their spicing, a blend of about equal parts of riesling and gewurztraminer, has been a marketing success.

Add to these a recent issue called pinot jolle, a beautiful pinot noir blush wine that clearly rivals the best of the white zinfandels on the shelf. It possesses some fine pinot noir character, hard to achieve with that grape, that demonstrates fine winemaking skills at work.

BUT IT IS with the reserve wines that BV is truly making its mark in the industry. The reserve wines are quickly earning awards and prestige that have enabled them to rival the best. They are not inexpensive but are usually more affordable than Beaulieu Latour, Mondavi Reserve and other high premiums. Investment wines for the future.

wine

And this bridges us nicely to the second event to be reported, a recent wine-tasting shootout held locally.

Ten of the most successful 1978 and 1979 cabernets were assembled for a comparative tasting by an experienced group of winetasters. All of the wines had previously won previous tasting flights of their kind in recent months.

Thus, winners were pitted against winners. Big names (and prices) were involved, including Beringer Private Reserve, Jordan, Estrella Reserve, Pine Ridge Rutherford, William Hill and Carneros Creek. The scores were almost uniformly high for the evening. The wines were excellent.

The winner: Buena Vista 1978 Special Selection; the runner up, Buena Vista 1979 Special Selection. Rarely does one winery so dominate a tasting event.

The future for BV looks good, too. It has built a new winery in the Carneros district of Napa-Sonoma, to grow and produce its wines of the future. BV will concentrate on the cool weather grapes that do so well in the region. And the old winery is to become wholly dedicated to being a tourist attraction, continuing to display its proud history to wine-country travelers.

Buena Vista's past, historically important and viticulturally forgettable, remains in Sonoma. Its future lies in those Carneros Chardonnays, Pinot Noirs and Cabernets from the cool south. And it lies with people like Jill Davis who can turn a winery around. It could even name a new proprietary wine "Phoenix" in its own honor.

Athlete of the Year

Academically, athletically and spiritually, Craig Morton's life is in solid working order. The Plymouth Salem graduate, who brought electricity to a dismal football season with his unfailing ability to catch the ball and brilliant open field running, will leave secure Plymouth behind to tackle a new challenge in the Ivy League. His performances both on and off the field have earned Morton the honor of being the first Plymouth-Canton Observer Athlete of the Year.

'Never give up when you are down'

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

CRAIG MORTON stood out in front of Plymouth Salem High School and thought back on his four years.

He may not be seeing the old place for a while. In the background, a few hundred yards away, was the Centennial Educational Park football field and track — the sites of his most memorable triumphs.

"You know what (my athletic experiences) taught me," Morton said. "They taught me never to give up on anything. No matter how far you get down, you can always come back. Never give up when you're down. You can always come back and make it — and I'm not just talking about football. This applies to anything in life."

Craig Morton is a special young man. He starred on both the football fields and the track at Salem. And he starred in the classroom carrying a 3.5 grade point average. His coaches and teachers praise him for his maturity and leadership qualities.

For those reasons, Craig Morton has been selected the first Plymouth-Canton Observer Athlete of the Year.

"YOU'RE NOT picking me, are you," Morton said when told of the honor.

"Geez, I didn't play basketball this year. I figured that would hurt my chances."

Not much. There is a pleasant uniqueness to this young man. Salem track coach Gary Balconi calls it a silent leadership.

"Craig is a very self-directed young man," Balconi said. "He's not influenced by things that influence other young men, yet he is still able to live within their environment. His peers respect him and the decisions he has made with his life."

Religion plays a vital role in Morton's life. He has dedicated himself to living a Christian life.

"It's one thing to say that religion is a part of your life, but Craig proves it every day," Balconi said.

Morton is presently spending his days working with underprivileged youths through a program sponsored by his Salvation Army Christian Church.

MORTON FREELY discusses his spiritual life, but admits that it's not always easy to talk of around his peer group.

"It can be inhibiting," Morton said. "A lot of people will be talking about going out and drinking and things like that. But I've seen what can happen with that. It just takes one mistake."

His religion, his solid family life and both Balconi and football coach Tom Moshimer have been powerful influences on Morton.

But Morton's true strength comes from within. It's an inner strength, one that has allowed him to perform at the top of his abilities in crucial situations both on and off the athletic field.

It's a self-confidence that has enabled him to make very hard decisions without second-guessing himself.

And yet, there is a sincere humility about him — one that allows him to share his successes with his coaches, teammates and teachers. It is this humility, this altruism, that makes Morton popular among his peers.

ONE GOT A sense of Morton's inner strength watching him perform on the football field last fall. In what was as dismal a season as Plymouth Salem has had in football, Morton stood out as a pride source.

A most electrifying open-field runner and a sure-handed receiver, Morton rewrote the offensive record books at Salem. He was thrown to in six football games. In those games, he caught 34 passes for 664 yards and scored nine touchdowns. He also returned four kickoffs for 156 yards and a TD, and 11 punts for 514 and two more TDs.

But his proficiency for the big play is what he'll be remembered for at Salem.

In the season opener last year, he gained 253 of Salem's 343 total yards in a heartbreaking loss to North Farmington. He scored on plays of 80, 64 and 90 yards.

THEN THERE was the play against Walled Lake Central. Down by a touchdown, three seconds left, the ball 31 yards from the end zone. Morton, triple-teamed, juttied into the corner of the end zone.

Quarterback Steve Sobditch tossed the ball high into the air. Somehow, in the mass of bodies that went after the ball, Morton came down with it and the game went into overtime.

Yet even at the height of his personal triumph, his concerns were about other matters. His football team had a 2-6 record going into the season finale.

The prevailing mood of the Rocks was, "Let's get this thing over with." But, Morton did a bit of research. He discovered that coach Moshimer was one victory shy of 100 in his career at Salem.

"We've got to win it for him," Morton said at the time. "He's got 99 wins at Salem. He didn't tell anyone about it and we've lost the last couple weeks. He's just been kind of waiting around to get it."

The fire was lit under the Rocks. They crunched Redford Union 35-22.

ON THE track, Morton had to overcome a streak of bad luck. In his very first meet his sophomore year, he turned an ankle falling off the track and missed four weeks. He was kept out of action his junior year by a bout with mononucleosis.

"I told Craig that if he ever had a complete season, he'd be fantastic," Balconi said.

This season, Morton had a complete season and filled a crucial role for Balconi.

"He was just very unselfish," Balconi said. "He filled a lot of holes for us. When I asked him where he wanted to run, he just said, 'Wherever you need me, coach.'"

He ran the 100-yard dash once, and ran a 10.4. He ran the high hurdles once, ran a 15.7. Mostly, Morton anchored Salem's tough sprint relays, taking the 400 team to the state meet and setting a Salem record.

BUT THE biggest test of Morton's senior season happened away from the playing fields.

He had to decide on where to go to college. After assessing all the pros and cons — involving such factors as girlfriend Kim Whittaker, leaving home, staying home, what level of athletics and academics to pursue — Morton chose Dartmouth College and the Ivy League.

"I really want to go, and then I don't," Morton said. "I want to get away from Plymouth. But I hate to leave my family and my friends. It's real secure here. But, I think I need to get away and take on a new challenge."

The toughest part might be leaving Kim Whittaker behind. His girlfriend of two years will be attending Central Michigan.

"It's going to be real tough," Morton said. "The phone bills are going to kill me."

But Morton made his decision. And like all the other decisions he's made, he's sure he's acted correctly and he has the blessings of family and friends.

As Balconi said, "Whatever he chooses to do academically and athletically, he'll be a success."

Each year, the Plymouth and Canton Observers will honor a high school athlete as "The Athlete of the Year."

Those selected will be seniors from either Plymouth Canton or Plymouth Salem high schools.

The Athlete of the Year will excel in more than one sport as well as in the classroom. The selection will be made by Chris McCosky, Observer sports editor.

Salem's Gravlin named Observerland coach of year

By Brad Emons
staff writer

After his first season of coaching varsity baseball at Plymouth Salem, John Gravlin was wondering if he had made the right decision to succeed Brian Gilles, who led Salem to the state Class A semifinals in 1983.

Gravlin went 13-9 that first year, but wasn't completely comfortable.

"With the Salem baseball program there's so much to do it's unbelievable," Gravlin said. "I had to ask myself: 'Is this something you want to do?'

"I finally said to myself: 'If you're going to do it, then do it well.'"

Gravlin dedicated himself early and the hard work paid off as Salem won the Western Lakes Conference, winning 12 of 13 league games, to go along with a 16-8 overall record.

"It was a combination of commitment from our players and acceptance toward our team goals," Gravlin said. "And there was no question who the coach was."

"It boiled down to hard work. The 29 of us got together and established the goals. We were fortunate to achieve them — it was a little luck and hard work."

The Observer sports department has selected the second-year Salem mentor as Coach-of-the-Year in baseball.

Several other Observerland coaches turned in stellar jobs in other sports. Here are the remaining Coach-of-the-Year honorees: Jim Lenic, Garden City, girls softball: The first-year Garden City coach took a sophomore-laden team and finished 16-4 overall after an 0-13 Cougar season in 1984.

Lenic directed the Cougars to a 7-3 Northwest Suburban League record, good enough for second place behind first-place Livonia Franklin, the state runner-up.

Norene Divens, Livonia Stevenson, girls soccer: Under the coaching of Divens, Livonia Stevenson recaptured the state championship after finishing second in 1984.

In 1983, Divens led to Spartans to the state crown.

This year's Stevenson squad finished with a 19-0-1 record, winning the Western Lakes Soccer League for the second straight time.

Fred Hanert, Livonia Bentley, boys track: Also in his first year, Hanert guided Bentley to one of most successful track seasons ever.

Bentley won nine dual meets and made a strong showing in the Livonia City Meet, finishing second behind perennial area power Churchill.

Ironically one of Bentley's best track seasons ever came in the final year of the school's existence.

Bob Richardson, Plymouth Canton, girls track: It's been a slow process building a track program at Plymouth Canton, but the Chiefs arrived in 1983 behind the veteran Richardson.

Canton won the Western Division side of the Western Lakes Activities Association with a relatively young team.

It was the Chiefs best overall dual meet season since the school opened.

Big Brother

Lynn Swann pounds pavement for Big Brothers, Big Sisters

By Brad Emons
staff writer

He pulled the game like poetry in motion, flying through the air with the greatest of ease.

Even though he's retired, former Pittsburgh Steeler wide receiver Lynn Swann is as smooth off the football field as he was on the gridiron.

Swann, national spokesman for Big Brothers/Big Sisters, spoke Monday before the Livonia Rotary Club at Idyl Wyld Golf Course. He later played in a benefit golf tournament (Tuesday) at Western Golf and Country Club in Redford.

Swann, best remembered for his 1976 Super Bowl MVP performance against Dallas, is sincere in his efforts on behalf of Big Brothers/Big Sisters.

"I never had time to be involved as a Big Brother because I always playing on the weekends," Swann said. "But a friend of mine from Pittsburgh was on the national board and I'd go and speak at their conventions every year.

"I liked the fact that they were enthusiastic about commitment."

SWANN MAKES as many as 10 appearances a year for Big Brothers/Big Sisters, going from an honorary national spokesperson to the spokesperson for the group.

"This is the main group I work with, although I've done some work with Multiple Sclerosis and the National Repertory Ballet Company in Pittsburgh," he said.

Swann is also a TV sports analyst under contract with ABC. He recently completed his third season of doing USFL football with Keith Jackson.

Swann admits there is uncertainty surrounding the USFL, which is moving from a spring schedule to play in the fall of 1986.

"I don't know what will happen," Swann said. "I'm under contract for ABC and it's not likely I'll be doing

Monday Night (NFL) Football. "I've worked in broadcasting since 1976. I won't bother me (not doing football broadcasts) because I'll do something else."

SWANN ADDED that ABC will most likely drop its coverage of the USFL.

"ABC signed a contract (with the USFL) for two years and options for spring football," he said. "They're not committed to the fall."

Swann's three years of broadcasting USFL games has had its highs and lows.

"The league has improved tremendously and it's been competitive," he said. "But my job is like most other jobs. If it's an exciting game, then I'm excited. Let me turn the question around: 'Does every story you write turn you on?'"

The ABC broadcaster calls former Michigan Panther quarterback Bobby Hebert (now with the Oakland Invaders) "talented."

Eccentric stars gaining ground on Observerland

A view through Eccentric-colored glasses:

I WATCHED THE Observer & Eccentric Girls High School All-Star Soccer Class Friday night and read the game story by my colleague Chris McCosky Monday morning. Both the game and the story impressed me.

However, there are some additions I'd like to make, along with some observations. So if Chris will allow, let me fill you in on what I saw.

First, some background. Three years ago, the All-Star game was just an idea in the back of my head. Dennis O'Connor, our sports supervisor at the time, went through the proper channels to make the idea a reality.

The game matches players from the Observer area — Livonia, Garden City, Redford, Westland, Farmington and Plymouth — against players from the Eccentric area — Birmingham-Bloomfield, Southfield, Rochester, Troy and West Bloomfield.

NATURALLY, SINCE I'm from the Eccentric end and Chris is from the Observer end, there's a natural rivalry. I thought Chris handled the story very objectively. But this piece is a column, which means objectivity can be cast aside with McCosky's game notes.

Here goes:
• I'm extremely proud of the job our girls and coaches performed in preparation for the game and in the game itself. It was obvious, as Observer coach Norene Divens noted, that the Eccentric players practiced together a great deal for the game.

The first year, the Observer team blew out the Eccentric team, 7-1. Last year, it was a 5-2 Observer victory. This year, a 4-4 tie, and, despite the adage that a tie is like kissing your sister, both teams were winners.

The tie was a big shot in the arm for the Eccentric team as the girls were used to playing second fiddle to the Observer teams. After all, Stevenson is a two-time state champ, and that end of town was twice a big winner in the previous all-star games.

Jim Hughes

The tie was also as good as a win for the Observer team. It was down, 3-0, at the half, but showed its true form to battle back from deficits of 3-0 and 4-3. It would suit me just fine if all the games ended in a tie.

• Any time you get a group of stars together, there are some who will shine brightly. They say great players make great plays, and that was truly the case.

Cindy Wass, Athens' sophomore sensation, scored the first goal of the game, which gave the Eccentric team its first-ever lead in the series. Troy's Carol Grenn continually came up with great defensive stops when the Observer team was threatening to score. Seaholm's Katy Andrae was all over the field making those great plays. And that's a typical performance for Andrae. Stevenson's Mary Kay Hussey, Lisa Brocardo and Paula Divens, along with Mercy's Annette Ruggiero, turned in their usual great performances.

• You can't talk about standouts without dwelling on the performance of Eccentric goalie Lisa Riker of Marian. The circumstances involved make it more remarkable.

Athens' Lynn Eckhout, the all-state goalie and first-team Eccentric All-Area player, was scheduled to start in goal. But she fractured her hand five days before the all-star game and was scratched from the lineup. An emergency call was placed to the home of Caroline Robbins, the second-team All-Area goalie from Bloomfield Hills Lahser, but she was out of town. Out of the country, in fact.

Riker, who was named to the honorable mention list on the All-Area team, was called, and she answered. Boy, did she answer. Without practicing with the All-Stars, Riker showed up Friday and made some tremendous saves. Two of the Observer squad's goals came on penalty kicks, which are all but automatic goals. If not for those, it's quite possible the Eccentric team would have pulled off the upset, and we would have had an honorable mention player as the game's MVP.

• I also was happy with the crowd — listed at 332 — and the media representation. There were at least four newspaper writers — McCosky of the Farmington, Plymouth and Canton Observer papers, Brad Emons from the Livonia, Redford, Garden City and Westland Observer papers and Marty Budner from the Birmingham-Bloomfield, West Bloomfield and Southfield Eccentric papers, along with that guy from the Troy and Rochester Eccentric papers.

USA Today was a no-show.
• Although the stars put on quite a show, there were some players who were not around to exhibit their skills. Missing from the Observer squad were Doreen Beagle (Stevenson), Dena Head (Salem), Jennifer Huegll (Churchill), Kim Paterson (Bentley) and Sheri Wolfe (Bentley), all of whom were participating in a soccer tournament in Minnesota.

The Eccentric team missed Debbie Wojtaszek of Marian, who also had other commitments. Karen Bedmark (West Bloomfield) and Eckhout were injured. Wass missed most of the game after her goal when she injured her right ankle and was taken to the hospital and returned in a cast.

• When you put on an event like this, you hope its worth all the red tape and paper work. Mary Kay Hussey certainly made me feel the work was worth the extra effort. After the game, Hussey was quoted as saying, "This is a great game. Don't let anyone take it away."

We'll try, Mary Kay. I want this to get bigger and better. The $1 we charge at the gate goes into expenses for running the game. We'd like to see it grow so we can do more for the sport.

230 soccer squads gather for Wolverine VI tourney

Michigan's largest ever youth soccer tournament will be launched Friday at Schoolcraft College.

The sixth annual Wolverine tournament will draw 230 elite youth soccer teams vying for titles in 11 age categories.

The tournament, which will host an estimated 4,000 players, includes teams from Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, California and Canada for the three-day event.

A major highlight will be a 14-and-under boys team competing from Scotland.

"This is the largest we've ever had, and the soccer will be excellent," promised Walt Peterman, tournament chairman. "Michigan is one of the leading soccer-producing states in the U.S. and our youth classic is considered one of the best."

SOCCER

The tournament, hosted by the Michigan State Youth Soccer Association, also features several college All-American and Olympic-bound players.

TOURNAMENT GAMES will be played at 26 different fields — 13 at Schoolcraft, nine at Livonia's Bicentennial Park and four at Livonia's Jaycee Park. All fields are within a four-mile radius.

Qualifying matches begin at 8 a.m. both Friday and Saturday. The championship games are scheduled for 10 a.m. Sunday at Schoolcraft.

Schoolcraft College is off Haggerty between Six and Seven Mile roads; Bicentennial is on Seven Mile and Gill, west of Newburgh; Jaycee Park is on Seven Mile, between Farmington and Merriman roads.

The Observer and Eccentric coverage area produced six Wolverine V champions including the Troy Blue Streaks, girls 12-and-under; Troy Lightning, girls 14-and-under; Livonia Diamonds, boys 14-and-under (Division I); Vardar III, boys 14-and-under (Division II); Troy Tornado, boys 16-and-under (Division II); and the FLIP Rowdies, girls 19-and-under.

Admission is $1 per car for the action at Schoolcraft College.

Shoemaker drops out

Jockey Bill Shoemaker, citing a riding commitment in California for trainer Charlie Whittingham and miscommunication with his promotional agent, has canceled his engagement to ride Saturday, July 13, on Michigan Mile Day at Ladbroke DRC.

Shoemaker, who expressed disappointment over the decision, committed to ride a stakes horse on the West Coast after verbally telling his promotional agent that he would ride in the Michigan Mile.

"The relationship between my promotional agent and myself has diminished greatly as a result of this cancellation in Michigan," said Shoemaker, via telephone to DRC officials. "There is an obvious communication problem between the two of us."

Ladbroke DRC had also planned to distribute 10,000 copies of Shoemaker's new book to patrons entering the track on Michigan Mile Day.

"WE UNDERSTAND Mr. Shoemaker's decision and as a result have changed our promotional plans for Saturday, July 13," said Donald Dren, president of Ladbroke DRC. "We will be giving away a free $2 daily double wager to each person entering the track and each person will receive and complete an entry blank to be eligible to win a 1985 Buick Regal."

The drawing for the car will be staged between races prior to the Michigan Mile Handicap.

Ladbroke DRC will celebrate Independence Day by presenting its "Half-Price Weekend," Thursday, July 4 through Sunday, July 7.

Prices will be cut in half on admission, parking, programs and concession items, excluding alcohol and tobacco. Also featured will be barbecues, entertainment, magicians, along with the opening of Ladbroke's brand new picnic area, located at the north end of the grandstand.

Theater staging variety of shows

By Cathie Breidenbach
special writer

IT'S A BUMPER crop of summertime theatre productions, promising to fill mellow summer nights in metropolitan Detroit with laughter and song.

Like girls wearing bikinis, theater offerings that attract the most attention during vacation season seem to be on the lighter side — musicals and comedies. People who like to get out to see a live performance rather than stay home to watch reruns and videos on a flickering TV set have more choices this summer than ever before. There's something doing every weekend now through Labor Day.

The list of coming attractions reads like a roster of seasoned Broadway successes — "Chorus Line," "Carousel," "Once Upon a Mattress," "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," "Hello, Dolly!" and "Godspell." In the last few years, the metro-Detroit climate has been warming to summertime theater, and the trend of holding summer workshops and bringing in productions is expanding.

Last summer Meadow Brook Music Festival included a musical as part of its summer season on the Oakland University campus near Rochester. "Oklahoma!" was so popular that this season "A Chorus Line" is scheduled to dance across the stage at Baldwin Pavilion.

THE NATIONAL Touring Company will present eight performances of the hit show, starring Donna McKechnie, a Royal Oak native who was in the original Broadway cast. "Chorus Line" will run evenings Tuesday-Sunday, Aug. 20-25, plus two matinee performances.

Pavilion tickets for evening shows run $20; tickets on the lawn are $12; matinee seats are $15 in the pavilion, $8 on the lawn. Call the box office at 377-2010 for information.

Earlier in the summer, during the week beginning Tuesday, July 16, the Star Theatre of Flint also will bring in a company of dancers to do "A Chorus Line." This will be followed the week of July 30 by Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical "Carousel" with John McCook, star of the soap opera, "The Young and the Restless," and the TV series, "Codename: Foxfire."

All tickets are $12.50. Senior citizen and student discounts are available. Call 239-1464 for information.

The irrepressible "Dolly!" will be back in town at the Birmingham Theatre from Wednesday, Aug. 7, to Sunday, Aug. 25. Patsy Garrett, star of the movie "Benji" and veteran TV actress, will play Dolly.

Robert L. Moloney Productions has rented the Birmingham Theatre to present six weeks of Summer Stage musicals, three weeks each of "Hello, Dolly!" and "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." The latter will run Wednesday, July 17, to Sunday, Aug. 4.

SUMMER STAGE musicals at the Birmingham Theatre is a first-time venture for the Moloney company that produces entertainment for theme parks, cruise ships and conventions.

Tickets range from $7 for matinees, $9 for evening performances on Wednesdays-Thursdays and $11 for Fridays-Saturdays. Group rates are available. Call 373-4410 for ticket information.

This year for the second time ever, the Avon Players will put on a summer show Friday-Saturday, July 19-20 and 26-27, at its playhouse in Avon Township. The summer experiment was initiated by college-age players in the group.

The players will perform, direct and stage the high-energy musical "Godspell," which is based on the Gospel according to St. Matthew and is particularly suited to the enthusiasms of young players. Tickets are $5. Call 375-1527 for information.

For those who hunger for meatier fare, even in sunshine season, the Farmington Players will present a Summer Workshop Production of the poignant drama, "Elephant Man," based on the true story about a grotesquely deformed man's struggle against the ugliness of prejudice. "Elephant Man" will run Friday-Sunday, July 19-21, and Thursday-Saturday, July 25-27, at the Farmington Players Barn on 12 Mile Road in Farmington Hills.

Tickets on Thursdays and Sundays are $3, Fridays and Saturdays $4. Call 661-4599 for information.

SUMMER IS becoming not only a grand time to see theater but a good time to learn the ropes at area theater-schools and workshops. Those smitten by the call of the footlights can polish their skills at Cranbrook and Will-O-Way theater schools and at a summer workshop for adults put on by the Theatre Guild of Livonia Redford. The evening workshop by the guild will focus on the technical aspects of theater, and students will help stage the premiere production of a play by a Michigan playwright on Fridays-Saturdays, Aug. 2-3 and 9-10. Call 522-8057 for ticket information.

Cranbrook Theatre School opens Monday, June 24, and offers three simultaneous sessions for different age groups ranging from third grade through college. Students study speech and movement on the Cranbrook grounds and at the outdoor Greek Theatre and St. Dunstan's Playhouse on Lone Pine Road in Bloomfield Hills.

Performances for the public during the last week of July and the first two weeks in August culminate the theater school sessions. Call 645-3678 for information.

Will-O-Way Apprentice Theatre offers summer classes for both students and adults. Afternoon sessions for students ages 8-17 run Monday, July 15, through Thursday, Aug. 15, at the new playhouse on Cole Street in Birmingham. Evening classes for adults run Sunday, July 14, through Sunday, Aug. 11. Will-O-Way will open the musical "Once Upon a Mattress" on July 12, to run Fridays-Saturdays through Aug. 31.

"Mattress" will be Will-O-Way's first production in the new Birmingham playhouse which it has just finished renovating. Tickets are $7, $4 for senior citizens and children under 12. Call 644-4418 for information.

THE FAST-PACED comedy "Not With My Daughter" plays Friday and Saturday evenings through Sept. 14 at the Jimmy Launce Dinner Theatre at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn. The Hyatt offers three theater package options: $25 for theater and dinner at Julio's, $18 for theater and dinner at Kafay's and $9.50 for theater only. Call 593-1234 for reservations.

Another light comedy, "A Gentleman and a Scoundrel," plays through Saturday, Aug. 24, at the Somerset Dinner Theatre in Troy's Somerset Mall. Tickets are $18.50 and include dinner at the Cafe Jardin, followed by the romantic comedy. Call 649-1359 for reservations.

Events, concerts offer season of fun

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

SUMMER FESTIVALS and outdoor concerts abound. No matter what your interest — whether it's music, theater, dance or dining — there are special events to keep you going all season long.

Meadow Brook Music Festival continues its 22nd year of classical and popular music concerts outdoors at Baldwin Pavilion on the Oakland University campus near Rochester. The festival, which opened in mid-June, runs through Thursday, Aug. 29.

The July schedule kicks off with the Pointer Sisters on Tuesday, July 2, followed by James Dapogny's Chicago Jazz Band on Wednesday, July 3. Fireworks will light up the sky after concerts featuring the Detroit Symphony Orchestra conducted by Sixten Ehrling, with pianist Andre Watts, on Thursday, the Fourth of July, and Sunday, July 7.

There also will be fireworks at the Friday and Saturday night series, with the Rovers and the Kingston Trio performing July 5, and "Summer Solid Gold," Richard Nader's Rock and Roll Spectacular with Ricky Nelson and other stars July 6.

More offerings on the Meadow Brook calendar will be the Boston Pops on tour, conducted by John Williams, Friday, July 19; Perry Como, Tuesday, Aug. 6, and the San Francisco Ballet, Friday-Saturday, Aug. 16-17. Call the box office at 377-2010 for details.

The Sun Messengers leads off the July lineup from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesday, July 3, and the Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band plays at this month's first Thursday night concert from 5:30-8:30 p.m. July 11.

The downtown Detroit scene also is brightened by the Detroit-Windsor International Freedom Festival, which began Friday, June 21, and continues through Thursday, July 4. Three million people are expected to attend 25 major events at the 27th annual festival.

AMONG NEW activities this year are the Independence Eve Celebration at old Fort Wayne, Wednesday, July 3, and the First of America Freedom Classic Bicycle Competition on Detroit streets July 4th.

Call 224-1184 for details.

Theater-goers have a festival devoted to their interests in Wayne State University's Summer Theatre Festival, which gets under way Tuesday, July 2, on campus in Detroit. The Hilberry Theatre and the Studio Theatre, downstairs at the Hilberry, will offer five modern plays through Saturday, Aug. 3.

A CHILDREN'S matinee of "Androcles and the Lion" opens the festival at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, July 2. There will be evening performances of other plays, in rotating repertory: "Crimes of the Heart," "Green Julia," "The Bed Before Yesterday" and "The Island." For ticket information call 577-2972.

A major theater festival that is a favorite of metropolitan Detroiters is the Stratford Theatre Festival in neighboring Canada. The festival's 33rd season, which continues through Sunday, Oct. 13, at Stratford, Ontario, offers Shakespeare's "King Lear," "Twelfth Night" and "Measure for Measure."

Classic plays by other playwrights are being presented in productions of "The Government Inspector," "She Stoops to Conquer," "Antigone" and "The Beau's Stratagem." Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta "The Pirates of Penzance" completes the theatrical schedule. Concert and lecture series also are featured during July and August. For tickets call 964-4668.

THE SECOND Ann Arbor Summer Festival, which opened Saturday, June 29, and continues through Tuesday, July 23, encompasses all the visual and performing arts. The festival at the University of Michigan campus in Ann Arbor is immediately followed by the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair on Wednesday-Saturday, July 24-27.

French mime Marcel Marceau returns, to be among some 36 international stars appearing at the Ann Arbor Summer Festival. Theme this year will be a salute to Canada, with several Canadian artists performing. Free events are being offered nightly outdoors at Top of the Park. For information about activities and tickets call 763-0950.

Special-interest festivals include the fifth annual Mayflower Hotel Air Balloon Festival on Friday-Sunday, July 5-7. About 60 balloons will be launched, this year from a new site, the 305-acre Centennial Education Park in Canton Township. More than 200,000 visitors are expected for the event, which features balloonists from throughout the United States and Canada participating in five races. For more information call 453-4040 or 453-1540.

The Michigan Renaissance Festival will be held weekends and Labor Day, Saturday, Aug. 17, to Sunday, Sept. 29, at Colombiere Center in Clarkston. This annual event recreates the past, with street entertainers, shows, games, crafts, food and drink all geared to Renaissance revelry. For ticket information call 645-9640.

Museums recall historical past

RECREATING THE PAST is the special reason for many museums in the metropolitan Detroit area. Chief among these is Greenfield Village in Dearborn, one of the nation's top tourist attractions.

This summer, as it does year-round, Greenfield Village offers colorful events that supplement its unique presentation of actual historic buildings, furnishings and other articles of yesteryear.

The colors of the American Revolution will be on display during the annual Colonial Music and Military Muster on Saturday-Sunday, July 13-14. An assembly of 18-century American and British troops, along with several fife and drum corps, will recall military customs, martial music and rural life.

Regular village admission is $8 for adults and $4 for children ages 5-12. Children under 5 are admitted free. The museum also has two-day admission tickets available, plus senior citizen and group rates.

THERE IS no additional charge for the Colonial Music and Military Muster beyond the museum admission.

The village's annual Fire Engine Muster will be held Saturday-Sunday, July 27-28. About 100 fire engines, ranging from hand-drawn to horse-drawn to motor-operated rigs, will be displayed. A noon parade, followed by judging, is planned for both days.

Other festivals scheduled at Greenfield Village include the sixth annual Bluegrass and Traditional Music Festival on Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 10-11; the Gas and Steam Engine Weekend on Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 17-18, and the annual Old Car Festival on Saturday-Sunday, Sept. 7-8.

Greenfield Village is a 240-acre outdoor museum with a collection of historic homes, workplaces and community buildings. Henry Ford Museum is a 14-acre indoor museum with major collections in Transportation, Power, Agriculture, Lighting, Communications and Home Arts.

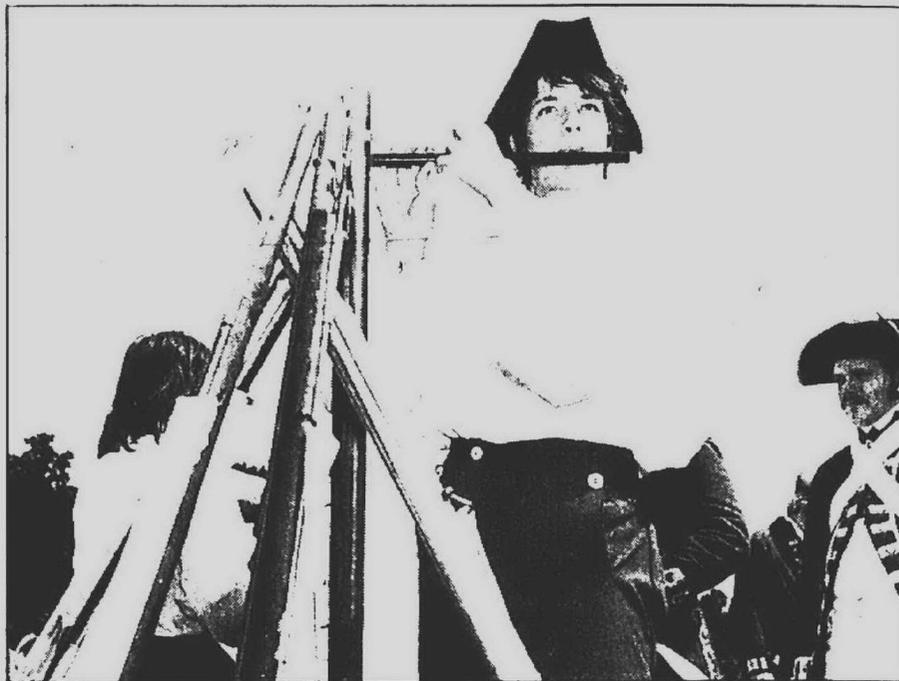

The village and museum are open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. seven days a week. For more information, call 271-1620, or call 271-1976 for 24-hour recorded basic information.

SUMMER IN Greenfield Village also means Suwanee Park is open, through Labor Day. An old coin arcade, Victorian soda fountain and a 1913 carousel are some of the delights that give families a way to experience the bygone era.

At the park, visitors may board the steamboat Suwanee for leisurely rides on the lagoon. The stern-wheeler has been running for more than 50 years and hauls nearly 50,000 passengers a season.

A new attraction at Greenfield Village this summer is the Firestone Farm, originally the Ohio home of industrialist Harvey Firestone. The house, barn and surrounding land are being presented as an operating farm of the 19th century.

The Henry Ford Museum Theatre stages comedies of the 19th and 20th centuries. "The Station Master's Daughter," which opened in June, resumes from Friday, July 12, to Saturday, July 20. "The Male Animal" is the next play, running Friday, Aug. 16, through Saturday, Sept. 14.

Stacked muskets and a piccolo player contrast the activity at the upcoming Colonial Music and Military Muster on Saturday-Sunday, July 13-14, at Greenfield Village in Dearborn.

Another area museum that looks at the past is the Detroit Historical Museum, whose "Streets of Old Detroit" follow the city's life in the 1840s, 1870s and early 1900s. The museum at 5401 Woodward is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesdays-Sundays. Admission charge is voluntary. Phone 833-1805 for information.

Other museums of note include the Historical Fort Wayne and Great Lakes Indian Interpretive Museum at 6325 W. Jefferson, open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesdays-Sundays, and the Dossin Great Lakes museum on Strand Drive on Belle Isle, open from 10 a.m. to 5:45 p.m. Wednesdays-Sundays. For further information, call Fort Wayne at 297-9360, Dossin at 267-6440.

Art, science museums love kids

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

WHEN IT COMES to audiences, museums traditionally take a long perspective. They build their audiences from the ground up, or "kids up," if you prefer.

Children are welcome at all metropolitan area museums (small kids accompanied by adults, of course) and many of the special summer programs will appeal to all age groups.

Whether one's watching or playing, there's plenty happening in sports

By Marty Budner
staff writer

SPECTATOR SPORT or participant sport.

You name it and the Detroit metropolitan area will give it to you. That's why the Motor City is considered one of the greatest sports towns in the country.

Whether it's taking in a professional baseball game or relaxing on a warm summer day with a round at the local golf course, there's a sporting activity around for everyone.

Following is a brief list of summer sports activities.

BASEBALL

The World Champion Detroit Tigers have always been the premier summer sports attraction.

It seems the Tigers are more popular than ever after having swept through the 1984 season like sparks through a dry forest.

The Tigers haven't had that same magical charm with their opponents this summer like they enjoyed last year, but it's still a wise decision to secure tickets in advance instead of relying on game-night purchases. The tickets you want just may not be available once you lumber downtown to Tiger Stadium.

Detroit has a busy home schedule in July as they play 14 dates at Tiger Stadium against Western Division teams Chicago, Minnesota, Texas and Kansas City. The home schedule lightens up in August with only 10 home dates before some hot and heavy September action when the Tigers play 17 home games.

Tickets range from $9 for box seats to $3.50 for bleacher seats. The advance ticket office at Michigan and Trumbull is open daily from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

GOLF

Even though the U.S. Open was played at the opulent Oakland Hills Country Club in Bloomfield Township last June, that doesn't mean golf is over for the season.

Quite the contrary.

Professional golf returns to Michigan with the Buick Open scheduled for Monday-Sunday, Aug. 12-18, at the Warwick Hills Golf and Country Club in Flint. It would be an excellent opportunity for local golf fans who missed the pros at Oakland Hills to catch them in person for probably the final time this season.

There are many public courses around for golf enthusiasts to test their own skills.

FOOTBALL

The Detroit Lions begin training for their 1985 season in mid July at Oakland University near Rochester.

It will be an interesting camp this summer considering the team will be under the scrutiny of former Michigan State University coach Darryl Rogers who took over as head coach this past winter for Monte Clark.

Also, the new-look Lions will have former Buffalo Bills quarterback Joe Ferguson in their den this summer.

The camp workouts, usually twice-a-day for the first few weeks, are free to the public.

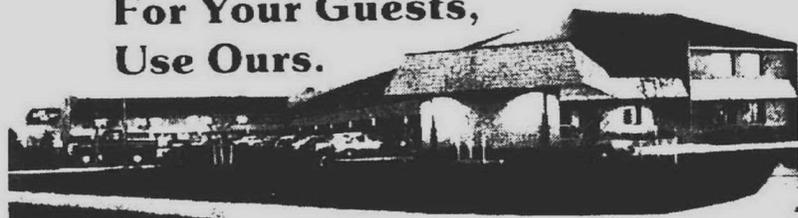

OTHER ACTIVITIES

Horse racing, water skiing, boating and recreational softball are other popular summer-time attractions.

The Detroit Race Course in Livonia and Hazel Park Harness Raceway are open at convenient hours, while across the border, the Windsor Raceway is a unique getaway nights.

There are more than 11,000 fresh lakes in Michigan and recreational water skiing is becoming an increasingly popular activity. Many recreational skiers do not realize that tournament water skiing is available to them. Anyone interested in tournament water skiing can contact Garry R. Markwart, MWSA Promotional Coordinator, 304 Williams St., Eaton Rapids, Mich. 48827.

Boats provide cruising, dining

WHERE THE BOATS are in metropolitan Detroit is where a lot of the summer fun is.

Boblo Island combines 75 amusement-park rides, shows and other attractions with a trip there and back aboard the Boblo boat. The historic steamships sail from Detroit and Gibraltar daily, and shuttle service is provided on Papoose ferries from Amherstburg, Ont.

At the island, pleasures include such new features as a corkscrew roller coaster, an 18-hole miniature golf course and an 1,800-square-foot gift shop. The renovated kiddie ride area has been relocated.

Among shows are the Great American High Divers performing from an 85-foot-high platform, the Islanders starring in a musical extravaganza, and Maxivision stand-up theater giving the experience of being in motion.

PAY-ONE-PRICE tickets (including boat trip from Detroit, rides and shows) are $13.95 for ages 10 and over, $11.95 for children 3-9, and $9.95 for senior citizens 61 and over. For further information, call 259-9500.

Boblo Island moonlight cruises from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. Fridays-Saturdays through Aug. 31 are highlighted by groups playing rock 'n' roll, Motown, jazz, blues or country music. Cruise tickets are $8.95 per person. For ticket information, call 259-7500.

Boblo's Detroit dock is at the foot of the Detroit River in downtown Detroit. This season is the 87th one for the island park.

Celebration cruises include a picnic cruise on the Fourth of July; a salute to Detroit jazz artists with live entertainment nightly 7-10 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 24, through Monday, Sept. 2, during the Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival, and live entertainment and a picnic buffet, on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 2.

Each day of the week during the season are luncheon events, with a narrated Detroit history cruise Mondays-Tuesdays, a fashion show Wednesdays, tasting of an American wine Thursdays and chef's demonstration of American cuisine Fridays. A brunch with New Orleans jazz is featured Sundays.

Prices range from $21 for a luncheon cruise or jazz brunch for adults, $8 for children 7-12; dinner cruise at $39.50 for adults, $15 for children, and $14 for afternoon cruise, TGIF cocktail cruise or afternoon or moonlight cocktail cruise.

An afternoon river cruise, with cash bar and cash snack bar, costs $14 for adults, $8 for children and $11 for seniors. All prices are in Canadian money. For more information, call 519-254-3383.

The Boblo boat takes families to Boblo Island, and lovers on moonlight cruises, all summer long. The island's 87th season is enhanced by such attractions as a new corkscrew roller coaster.
