New approach: 'Lump sum' tax request millage authorization request the next year (1986). Plymouth Township voters will decide July 29.

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

One of the most confusing aspects of the upcoming Plymouth Township millage request is that the ballot proposal won't break down millage figures for each of the traditional categories general operation, police and fire.

Instead, voters are being asked to authorize up to a four-mill levy, which combined with one-mill special voted for fire through the year 2000, will give the township an available maximum of five mills ($5 for every $1,000 of state equalized valuation or SEV).

This is the first time township voters have been asked to approve a "lump sum" millage request. In the past, millages have been specially voted for police or fire for a specified number of

A millage request is needed at this time because of the number of specially voted millages expiring or already

Without a request, the township would be forced to operate on two mills

First of two parts looking at the in one year (1985) provide revenues for

A half-mill, specially voted for fire in February 1979, expired at the end of 1983. Another one mill for police, voted in September 1979, expired at the end

Thus the only millage available without a vote this year would be the one mill specially voted for fire (in August 1981, running to December 2000) and one mill for general operation.

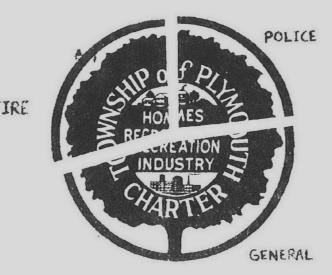

RECOGNIZING THE increased demand for services as the township develops, the township board unanimously agreed it was time to seek authorization for the full charter limit of five

But realizing it couldn't recall or abolish the one mill for fire still in effect, the board decided to seek an additional four mills.

Although a total of five mills would be available, trustees are looking toward a 1985 property tax rate of 3.88 mills. Members of the board have promised not to levy more than what is needed to meet the 1986 budget - which hasn't been adopted yet. The 1986 budget most likely will be worked on and adopted in the fall, but in the meantime, Supervisor Maurice in 1986 - because millages collected Breen has developed some numbers

How 3.88 mills divide

Based on rough budget projections for 1986, a 3.88 mill property tax rate for Plymouth Township would break down into 1.86 mills for general operation, 0.93 for police, and 1.09 for fire. Put another way, of each dollar paid in property taxes, 48 cents would go to general operation, 24 cents for police and 28 cents for fire.

with which the board has been working. would remain constant at 6 percent.

The projected 3.88 millage rate roughly is based on a 5 percent increase in the 1985 budget, with the exception of police. Four major budget areas are funded by property tax dollars: general admin- and fire. istration, police, fire and building, engineering and planning. Other areas, such as block grants, federal revenue sharing and solid waste don't depend on property tax dollars.

Based on Breen's rough 1986 projections, the shift in expenditures from 1985 to 1986 would be:

 General administration — from $1.05 million to $1.11 million. Only looking at the four areas funded by property tax dollars, general administration spending would shift from 46 percent of the total in 1985 to 42 percent in 1986.

- from $396,998 to Police $635,000. Looking at police spending in relation to the other three, it would move from 17 percent of the total in 1985 to 24 percent in 1986.

• Fire - from $708,555 to $743,982. In terms of the four-area total spending, it would shift from 31 percent in 1985 to 28 percent in 1986.

 Building, engineering and planning - from $145,951 to $153,248. In terms of the four-area total spending, it

TO GET a better understanding, the 3.88 mills which would be sought can be broken down into the three traditional millage areas - general, police

To arrive at the figures, the percentage figures must be multiplied against the total millage. Trying to figure the amount of millage required for a certain activity can be confusing because of other revenue sources.

Besides property taxes, the township receives revenues from the state, from the sale of licenses and permits, the municipal golf course, interest earnings and intergovernmental sources.

The 1985 budget called for more than 50 percent of all revenues to come from sources other than property taxes. Consequently, the percentages from the areas funded by property taxes must be used.

BASED ON the percentages calculated from the rough budget projections, a 3.88 millage rate could be divided to 1.86 mills for general operation, 0.93 mills for police and 1.09 mills

The general operation levy would include general administration and building, engineering and planning.

Pursell and company do well as budget plan starts to excel

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, believes you have to burn the midnight oil if you want to share the spotlight.

The nine-year congressman may not be basking in the national spotlight as the legislature battles over the federal budget, but Pursell's homework certainly has put him in the fringes of that Pursell is budget task force chairman for a group of House Republicans calling themselves the 92 Group. The 40-member group includes representatives from a variety of states and draws its name from the year 1992, when they hope for Republican control of the House.

As budget chairman, the lifelong Plymouth resident developed what may become the compromise budget document as the Republican Senate locks horns with the Democrat House.

This is the most serious domestic problem this country is facing, for the U.S. government to get its fiscal house in order," Pursell said Friday, during an interview in Plymouth.

Because of the importance of the issue, the 92 Group decided to develop its own budget proposal, which was introduced in the House on May 9 - following more than 1,000 hours of work.

"To sit there and wait for the Senate plan just blows my mind . . . I resent tive youth of our country.

that," Pursell said, explaining why his group started its work in January.

LENDING CREDIT to the 92 Group budget is the fact it is the only budget to receive Congressional Budget Office (CBO) recognition. CBO representatives worked alongside task force members, verifying the numbers.

"Credibility is nicer than pride of authorship," Pursell said. "There's an outside chance that the guts of this will end up in the federal budget."

Pursell views his budget, titled a "Blueprint for Balance," as a compromise measure. The document is the first of a three-year plan aimed at reducing the national debt through reductions in spending.

During fiscal 1986 — which begins Oct. 1, 1985 — the 92 Group would like to reduce spending by $51 billion - $32 billion in outlays (by freezing the budget at 1985 levels) and $19 billion in program cuts (beyond the budget freeze).

Pursell admits shaving a $946 billion national budget by $51 billion doesn't seem like much but he believes it's a

"Interest on the national debt is the third most expensive item in the general fund," he said.

"For every dollar that is sent to Washington, 12 cents is taken out to pay the interest on our debt."

The national debt currently stands at some $1.8 trillion - a figure which Republicans to report out a budget troubles Pursell, considering the rela-

At the time the 92 Group began working on its budget proposal, Pursell said he fully expected more proposals to be made. He was surprised to find his document was the only one generated with CBO recognition.

Because of its credibility and moderate approach, Pursell said the 92 Group work was the basis for the House approved budget plan.

"About 80 to 90 percent of the House budget plan was 92 Group work," he

House budget committee chairman William Gray, D-Penn., recently told Pursell the 92 Group budget is being used in compromise talks with the Sen-

AT THE same time Pursell was working on a budget proposal, he took a bold step on the House floor.

When the first of the 1986 spending authorization bills came up for a vote in the House in April, Pursell walked across the aisle to start a bipartisan budget freeze effort.

By combining forces with Rep. Bruce Morrison, D-Conn., the Morrison-Pursell freeze movement was born.

The two representatives successfully trimmed the NASA authorization bill back to the 1985 budget level. They did the same with subsequent authorization and appropriation bills coming to the House floor

Morrison and Pursell have a sevenfor-seven track record at this point with one vote going 398 to 1 in their

Because of the success, authorization committee chairmen have asked to offer the freeze admendments to maintain control of their bills - knowing that Morrison and Pursell had the votes to do it themselves

Whether or not we are successful all the way through is yet to be seen," Pursell said. "We're going to lose

But in the meantime, the movement has drawn some attention and influence to Pursell's corner. He has received calls from the White House asking him to offer some amendments. as well as calls from other representatives and senators seeking support.

The efforts of Morrison and Pursell have been recognized by the media as

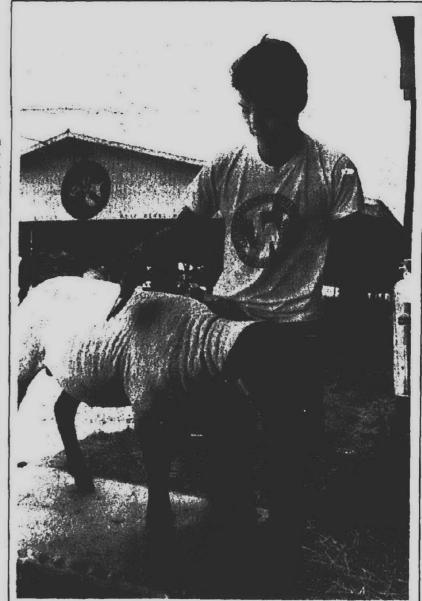

"When this town is wallowing in hot and useless partisanship it is like a breath of cool, clean air to see a couple of legislators actually doing something useful and non-partisan," syndicated columnist Otis Pike recently wrote.

Pursell believes what is happening is significant and believes having his work recognized "certainly is an hon-

O'Hair, Ficano applaud victims rights laws

By Teri Banas staff writer

The laws of Michigan soon will award new rights to a growing number of people - crime victims.

In a series of bills signed by Gov. James Blanchard called the Crime Victims Rights Acts, victims were assured that no longer would the criminal justice system exclude the innocent while attempting to punish the guilty.

'There's going to be a lot more interplay between the victim, courts and police than in the past, and I think that's good," predicted John O'Hair, Wayne County prosecutor.

It also was applauded by Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano.

State Rep. William Van Regenmorter, R-Jenison, one of the bills' three sponsors, said the system has made victims feel "ignored, or worse, in the tims partners along with prosecutors, police and judges.

There are built-in protections which will assure that victims of felonies and high misdemeanors will be kept informed of the prosecution of offenders, given certain protections against harassment and assured a greater chance of restitution for their losses

SOME HIGHLIGHTS of the package:

· Authorities will be required by law to serve timely notices to crime victims at several stages of the arrest and conviction of those who injured

Notices will be made within 24 hours of a suspect's arrest; victims will be apprised of all court hearings and pleabargaining arrangements; and they will be alerted when the convicted per-tor "must sit down and discuss with the victim" the disposition of the case, such as when it plans to plea bargain, before it happens, Van Regenmorter said.

The victim also must be notified of changes in the convicted person's security or confinement, such as an escape or community placement.

· Victims will be allowed to address pre-sentencing investigation, either in person or by writing, to present their side of the story and the crime's impact on their lives. Purpose is to avoid victims' feeling "left out" of the last step in the prosecution of their as-

• For the protection of victims, the court will be required to house victims and the accused in separate waiting rooms before the start of hearings. And if the victim suffers harassment by the way." It will be corrected to make vic- son is released from jail. The prosecu- accused, prosecutors can petition for bond revocations to keep the accused in iail while awaiting court hearings.

• The victim also has a right to remain in the courtroom throughout the course of the trial and court hearings. A victim who is also scheduled to testify may be barred from the courtroom only before testifying.

• An extensive portion of the package addresses restitution of damages and losses to the victim, placing much of the responsibility on the judges to see that the victim is "made whole."

Judges have been restricted so far in requiring restititon, said Van Regenmorter. "Our estimates are that in 15-40 percent of the cases meaningful restitition will be made," he said.

Services in place of a money exchange may be required, according to one provision. Restitution can be made part of the conditions of parole. • There's even a so-called "Son of Sam" provision to prevent accused criminals from profiting from their misdeeds, said Van Regenmorter. If a convicted criminal sold his story to the media, for example, any resulting earnings would be turned over to the victim as restitution and to the state for payment on his "room and board" during incarceration. Half of any remainder directed to the Michigan Crime Victims Compensation Fund.

"So, the defendant would get very little if anything," the lawmaker said.

WAYNE COUNTY Prosecutor John D. O'Hair said he doesn't anticipate any difficulties in fulfilling the law's intent.

We have 90 days to determine how the bill(s) will be implemented . see there will be a need to coordinate efforts with local police agencies; the police have the obligation to inform the public while the prosecutor tells them the rights. But we've been working on it, and I don't see any real problem.

Some additional staff will be needed to assist in the expected increase in communications functions, he said. But whether the county receives additional funding or attempts to perform the service under its current budget hasn't Van Regenmorter credited O'Hair's office with supporting the legislative work by assigning assistant prosecutor Andrea Solak to work closely in devising the laws.

"We've been totally supportive at all times," O'Hair said. "The significant part of this legislation is to make the crime victim feel they're an important part of the criminal justice system."

SHERIFF Robert Ficano, who also testified before a legislative committee in support of the rights package this year, said he applauds the effort to give the victim "equal participation" in the criminal justice system. You know, one the biggest problems has been (when a case is assigned) it's the state of Michigan vs. the accused."

He added that the package joins the Michigan Crime Victims Compensation Act in helping to restore victims' losses. Until now, many victims were forced to start their own civil suits to win restitution.

But Ficano said the laws need to go further. Another effort the sheriff supports is the attempt to allow as testimony the videotaping of statements by sexual crime victims, such as children.

ONE RESIDENT of western Wayne County, an advocate of better policecourt relations with residents, called the package a "terrific" boost to victims of crime.

"It's about time they think of the (victim) as the offended party," said Sharon Cisco, a Livonian who recently helped establish a Crime Prevention unit in her city to improve communication from authorities. "It's sad that it hasn't been happening all along.

"I constantly ran into the word 'vigilante' when we were working on the crime prevention plan. Well, we're not. We're just tired of being forgotten in

Still awaiting tax information

On May 19, 1985, I addressed a letter to the editor of the Plymouth Observer and the supervisor of Plymouth Township requesting specific information be published regarding the request for increased millage.

As yet I have not received a reply to my request nor have I seen the information published, yet I had considered the information as shelf items before the Plymouth Township Board could make a millage increase request. Therefore I repeat my request.

A published tabulated listing of the current calendar year expenditures as compared to the proposed calendar year expenditures with a variance column with the increases and decreases and an explanation for each.

The township fund balance was reported as $908,000. How many years did it take to build it to that level? And a list of the expenditures that reduced it to $282,500. In other words a listing of the way in which $625,500 was spent.

It is my belief that with the above information the voter will be able to

'Shared time' rule affects 150 districts

"The U.S. Supreme Court decision does not mean the end of sharedtime programs in Michigan. The Supreme Court decision simply means that non-public school students participating in shared-time programs must go to a public school to receive these services.'

THE STATE school superintendent said the constitutionality of shared-time programs in Michigan was upheld by the Michigan Supreme Court in a decision written by Chief Justice G. Mennen Wil-Runkel said 6,451 students attending 298 non-public schools in 152 public school districts in Michigan received remedial reading and mathematics instruction during the 1984-85 school year. The cost of these programs was paid for with Chapter I funds.

These services are provided by reading and math teachers or teacher aides who are employed by the public school district and sent to the non-public school to teach those children who qualify for the services," Runkel said. "All materials and equipment used in the remedial

"IT IS OUR fullest intention to comply with these Supreme Court decisions," Runkel said. "We will seek legal advice from the attorney general's office on how best to comply with today's Supreme Court decision concerning the New York

"Although we do not have too much information on the New York decision, we assume that it means these programs may no longer be offered in the non-public schools, but that the non-public school students who qualify for federally funded remedial programs will have to receive these services in the public schools."

A complaint about CEMS

It would appear we need another of the famous Graper-Beauchemin excuses for non-service from the CEMS.

On Saturday, July 13, a customer had seizure of some sort while at Cloverdale Dairy with his family. The wife asked me to call 911 for an ambulance, which I did. I very calmly told the girl answering the phone who I was, what was happening and where, very explicitly. She asked me where it was again and I repeated, "Cloverdale Dairy on Forest, behind the Mayflower Hotel." I asked how long it would be and was told, very sarcastically, "As soon as I get off the phone."

Within seconds two Plymouth police cars arrived and when one of the officers called to see where the ambulance was, he was told it would be 15 to 30 minutes. He got a little upset and demanded they send the fire department squad. Within a matter of seconds, the squad arrived. Soon after their arrival the seizure ended. The man was diabet-

After the squad packed up to leave and everything was over and done, the fabulous CEMS unit drove by. This is the second time we have witnessed the slow response of CEMS at Cloverdale.

I only continue to pray that I never need rescue service while in the City of Plymouth.

Along with this weird rule, the scholastic standing of the team also will be another factor, along with the standings in the conference.

THE ENTIRE plan has been ridiculed by athletic officials in other schools, and it puts all the coaches in a very odd position.

This is so because of the fact that the Wolverines of the University of Michigan have drawn more than 100,000 at each home game for the past few

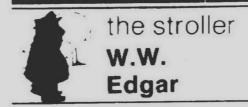

How can a coach fare with that kind of competition only a few miles away?

How many football fans do you think would go to see the Hurons in Ypsilanti on the final Saturday in November if the Michigan team were meeting Ohio State at the same time for the Big Ten championship - or even its in-state rival, Michigan State?

A coach's salary ought not to be based, in part, on attendance. The coach should not be made a ticket seller. He has enough to do producing a winning team. The school or some of its student clubs should have the task of selling season tickets.

DON CANHAM, athletic director at U-M, has developed a great program on the basis of season tickets. He uses the various organizations at the school to build up a demand. It is said, though not offially, that the Wolverines sell 80,000 season tickets each season.

That's fine, but the big point is that the tickets must be ordered and paid for by June 1 each year. With a ticket price of $14 per game, you can im-ing new "all natural" weight-loss where there are reports of easy and fast "Super" Pill developed by the JMA (Japanese Medical Association) has just been approved for distribution in the United States. Reportedly, it can guarantee that you will lose more than a pound a day without dieting, from the very first day until you reach your ideal weight and figure. News of this "Super Pill" is literally sweeping the country. It's called Amitol and there has never been anything quite like it before.

CHRISTMAS IN JULY,

"Flushes Calories Right Out

Of Your Body' What makes Amitol so thrilling and unique is its reported ability to flush calories right out of your body. Amitol is completely safe it contains no drugs whatsoever. Its ingredients are derived solely from the Konjac root which grows primarily in Northern Japan.

Why the Konjac root? It has been used in Japan for over 1600 years to produce rapid and natural weight-loss!

Japanese studies verify that Konjac root actually prevents fat producing calories from being absorbed into your system. They say it does this by surrounding much of the fats, proteins and carbohydrates you have eaten with a protective viscous coating which is then gently flushed out of your system. And according to Japanese research this produces absolutely amazing results.

And who can disagree! Amitol (although brand new to this country) is already heing called by many people, "the most exciting weight-loss break-

REST AND ARTHRITIS

An inevitable accompaniment of arthritis is disruption of sleep. While ending the day's activities relieves strained joints, rest brings out the ache in fatigued muscles and ligaments. The effect is that even slight turns in bed cause sharp pains and resulting sleep-

The best way to avoid an uncomfortable and fatiguing night is by resting during the day. If at all possible, you should rest for 30 to 60 minutes in the mid-portion of your day's activities. You should lay down on a firm mattress and in a quiet place. It is not necessary to sleep, though relaxation to that extent is to be encouraged. What is important is that you break from usual activities.

If resting is not possible because of a responsibilities, it is unlikely that any a regimen will substitute for the toxic instead, you will need to compromise expectations as to the extent instance control your arthritis.

Coping in makeshift school rooms after the fire

This is a continuation of the article about the aftermath of the high school fire which Margaret Norgrove wrote for the 1916 Plythean. She is telling of the classes she attended in the Knights of Pythias Hall on Main Street opposite Kellogg Park.

There are some advantages about our new system. We can always find an excuse for not having our lessons; we can either say our books were all burned, or that we have no reference

"The only thing that really didn't burn was the 'Missouri Compromise" which we had stored away in our mental notebooks.

"Webster's Dictionary is just a faint memory of an enormous book full of things we were never intended to know (but which one sarcastic teacher was always urging us to get an introduction old study hall; - it burned up. Now again I say, of all misfortunes some good must come.

'Mr. Reebs, the superintendent of schools, has his office at the Christian Science Church next to the Village Hall; that certainly was the best thing accomplished by the fire, for it gave him such a good opportunity to go to

'And still another is, if you noticed, students are very seldom sent out of class to the office now; it would be such a delightful trip we wouldn't mind it at all, - that's why we didn't have to go

'John Gale's Corner serves now for the purpose of study hall and rest room. This corner, at the present time, is the Plymouth United Savings Bank. I wouldn't be doing our apartments justice if I didn't say a few words about some of our class rooms.

"First is Miss Hanford's room (teachto), which stood on a small table in the er of English and History), the kitchen, which is the room where the K.P.'s

past and present

keep the goat; he lives in the big closet, right behing Miss Hanford's desk. (He'll get her, too, some of these days when she asks us too many questions). We've never seen him; but some of the boys have given him shingle nails, which is his chief article of diet.

"We also have the honor of Ralph Waldo Emerson's company on the wall; poor man, its a wonder he doesn't turn his face to the wall sometimes. And the blackboard! It glares at us, a great black thing, standing on long spindly legs, ready to be mopped with a rag, which the teachers are forever quarreling over as to who shall use it next; but I'm glad the blackboards were built up high; the teachers can hardly reach them, so we don't have quite so many examinations.

'You may find Miss Daniel (English and German teacher) in her little 2 x 4 coop any time of the day, when she is not having classes. She has no windows and is generously supplied with a light from a small bulb hanging from the ceiling; and as for air, why should a teacher need air?

There is still another room that has no windows. I don't know its original use, but we use it for a class room; here the German students talk to their hearts content unless someone faints (you know there is no air allowed in this room; it must have been meant for

Some of us have classes in the back part of the building, and for some reason or other these classes are always very appetizing, a fact accounted for by the smell of lard and fried cakes that comes floating in the windows with every breeze from the bakery near by.

"Over and above all our difficulties, I must confess, we are grateful to the K.P. Lodge for allowing such an unruly bunch to wear out their stairway, sit on their kitchen stove and occupy their chairs, and when we get into our new building we shall appreciate it more for having been without a school.

'So here's hoping that the students and teachers that survive this crisis will sing the praises of the K.P. Hall down through the ages of the Plymouth High School.'

MISS NORGROVE'S humorous account of what it was like to teach and attend high school classes at one of the many locations put into use after the fire also serves to remind us of the problems members of the school board had to face during the first few weeks after the disaster.

For a while, their families saw little of them during the evening hours. Seven special board meetings were held in April, three in May and four in June. Among the first decisions was to rebuild the high school on the same site. Men and boys were hired at $2 a day to remove brick from the ruins.

At a meeting on April 28, it was decided that $100,000 had to be raised to defray the cost of the structure. On May 9, the electorate voted 207 to 59 to issue bonds for that purpose. The bonds were sold to the Plymouth United Savings Bank for 4½ percent interest.

R.A. LeRoy of Kalamazoo was engaged as an architect for the structure. On June 29, the board approved the bid of Byers Brothers, also of Kalamazoo, to build the school house at a cost of $91,104. A contract for seats of plain oak, with 1/4 oak top, was awarded to the Cleveland Seating Company.

What makes city so unusual?

The City of Plymouth, which covers only a few miles of the earth's surface, is earning a reputation as an unusual city.

This is the finding of those engaged in the real estate business who are shaking their heads in surprise these days because they can't find homes to satisfy the demand.

Most everyone they talk to these days, the Realtors say, would like to live in Plymouth but there is little place for them.

The average asking price for homes now is about $85,000 and many of the would-be buyers are looking for something in the $50,000 bracket and there are very few such sites available.

WHAT MAKES the city so unusual? What is there about it that makes the public want to live here, once the starting point of the plank road to Detroit.

Well, first of all, Plymouth is unusual because it contains so many business places and offices in so small a section. It is one of the few places with a major hotel and a shopping center right in the heart of What's more, to add to the attractiveness of the area, is the existence of a well-shaded park in the heart of the business section.

These are all unusual things but they become more so when one learns that the busiest part of the city is built over a large water pipe through which the Tonquish Creek

Then, for a city so small in size, it also has a section which would please anoyone looking for antiques and other things which go back for years. Old Village has taken on a major role in the city proper. And it is becoming more so with each passing month.

HERE ARE some of the unusual things about the city.

It is the best known Sister City with Plymouth, England, from which the Pilgrims came to discover and start the building of America.

It has a railroad going through the - not only at one point (across Main Street) but across two other major thoroughfares. That is the reason why years ago the Daisy Air Rifle Co. was formed at its sidings and became world famous.

Another unusual point of the city is that it voted to move its high school beyond the city limits. It now is at what is called the Centennial Educational Park but really it is much on the order of a college cam-

Among other things which now make it unusual, Plymouth has its city hall in the center, a large library and an historical museum on the edge of the business center and a funeral parlor right in the midst of the shopping center.

There are more business places per person than any other area. It has its full share of luncheon clubs, a Masonic temple, all sorts of women's clubs and a city ice rink and a cultural center.

The fans deserve better

Now that the major league baseball players have set Aug. 6 as a strike date, it might be well if they took some time to do something fitting for the fans who pay the bills. The players, some of them millionaires, now want to discuss salaries and the pensions with little thought of what they could do for the fans, some of whom travel miles just to watch them play far into the night. Down through the years, the players have been given most anything they asked for in terms of salary. Most important was agreeing to a free agent clause. Under this clause, if a player isn't satisfied with his salary, he can go the free agent route. And in many cases, he gets what he asked for and the club owners are forced to pay the sum

IF THIS present day setting leads to another strike, it will harm the baseball season just as it did a few years ago and make a mockery of the nation-

All the while, little thought is given to the fans, some of whom drive miles and miles, and pay high prices just to watch players go through their act - if you can call it that.

Nothing is being said by the players that they will improve their activity on the diamond and end slow baseball.

There was a time, not too long ago, when the Stroller was a daily worker in

W.W. Edgar the press boxes of the major leagues

the stroller

and well he recalls that when the games lasted more than an hour and a half, he had to tell the readers of his paper why it took so long to play nine

The regular time in those days was an hour and a half for nine innings. The public prints in those days had to tell the fans why it required more time and place the reason on a prominent position on the sports pages.

BUT TIMES have changed. Now games have gone as long as four hours, for no special reason.

Most of the fault now rests on the shoulders of the pitchers. They take all kinds of time fussing with the mound in every inning. Then they keep trying to catch a man off first base. This oftimes gets monotonous.

And the batters, too, come in for some of the blame. They never come to bat without scraping the earth around home plate. Oftimes they also back away and take time out. These moves all take time, and the poor fan must sit and wait until the player feels he is ready to play.

That is okay when a fan lives in the city or the suburbs. He or she can get home at a reasonable hour. But what about those who come a distance and it is well into the morning hours when they get home? Let's take a look at the groups that come from such places as Marine City or Port Huron or even Lansing? There are many who come that distance for most every game.

THEY ARE forced to speed their way home on the expressways and clutter up traffic almost to the danger point - just because a pitcher or a batter took extra time.

Oftimes the manager is to blame: It takes him what seems like a long time when he goes to to the mound to change

Yes, the players could do well if they took the fans into consideration instead of going on strike for better salary terms or the increasing of pensions.

They owe it to the fans.

THE WHOLE GRAIN TRUTH ABOUT HOME-MADE BREAD

How many times have you started a diet by cutting out the bread? You've heard all the reasons: 'Bread has too many calories.' "It's loaded with fattening carbohydrates." "Just looking at a slice of bread will add a pound."

But oh, how hard it is to give up a toasty muffin in the morning or a sandwich made from two slices of home-made bread or even a snack of crusty pretzels.

Don't despair. There's happy news for all you bread-lovers on a diet plan: Bread is actually good for you...and your diet!

Bread often gets an undeservedly bad reputation in the diet world. In fact, it's not the bread that's fattening but all those sweet extras. A generous portion of butter or jelly can triple the calorie count of a slice Baking your own breads can satisfy an urge to be creative and provides a pleasure that dieters often deny themselves—the gratification of home-cooking.

The most common method of baking loaf bread is in the classic metal pan. Many cooks, however, like to experiment with "free-form" shaping using cookie sheets, casserole dishes and round or square cake pans. You'll even find special pans for muffins, rolls, popovers and brioche.

Whole grain breads play an important nutritional role in any diet. Whether you're dieting to lose weight or simply eating to maintain good health, these delicious, vitamin-packed breads are a must.

In the nutritional tables, breads take their place with the carbohydrate group. Not fattening in themselves, carbohydrates actually have the same number of calories as pure protein and less than half the calories of fat. And, whole grain breads are power-packed sources of important

All of the recipes featured here are for delicious, very easy-to-prepare whole grain breads made with wheat germ. the heart of a grain of wheat. Low in calories and high in vitamins, they make an important contribution to any eating regimen.

Besides the nice, nutty flavor and interesting texture of these breads, you're also getting B vitamins, iron, calcium, protein, trace minerals and valuable fiber.

There's no mystery about bread baking: It's fun, it's easy and your kitchen will be filled with the delightful aroma that only a loaf of freshlybaked bread can create.

TIPS ON CHOOSING BAKEWARE

Whether you're ready to bake bread or bread pudding, pretzels or pie. you'll want to select bakeware that gives you the best, no-fuss results. A quality nonstick surface on a well-made product is one of the best ways to feet foods and easy clean-up.

Here's a quick reference guide to choosing bakeware:

Aluminum conducts heat evenly for better browning. It provides unl-form cooking without "hot spots." Aluminum cannot be used in microwave or to store and freeze foods.

Stainless steel is very bright and light.

Glass and ceramic bakeware do double duty because you can bake and serve in the same dish. Use in both microwave and conventional ovens. Reduce cooking times or temperatures when baking in glass — it retains heat longer.

Plastic now goes from freezer to microwave to table and to dishwasher. The new ovenware with "SilverStone" tolerates higher baking temperatures than other plastics and may be used in a conventional oven as well as a microwave, Whichever material you choose, with proper care and cleaning, your bakeware should last for many years.

REGAL WHEAT GERM BREAD PUDDING

Servings: Makes 6 to 8 Preparation time: About 35 minutes Baking time: About 1 hour 5 minutes Calories: About 265 per serving

6 slices firm white bread

2 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened

1/2 cup wheat germ.

regular or brown sugar and honey, divided 1/2 cup raisins, divided 3 eggs. divided

3/4 cup sugar, divided

2 teaspoons vanilla extract

1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg

1/4 teaspoon salt

2-1/3 cups skim milk

1/3 cup currant jelly Preheat oven to 350°. Spread bread slices with butter. Cut into 1-inch squares. Cover bottom of 1-1/2 quart nonstick casserole with one-third of the bread squares, buttered side up. Sprinkle with one-third of the wheat germ and onethird of the raisins. Repeat with two more layers each of bread squares, wheat germ and raisins Separate yolks and whites of 2 eggs. In medium-sized bowl, beat together 1 egg, 2 egg yolks, 1/2 cup sugar, vanilla, nutmeg and salt. In small saucepan, heat milk: add slowly to egg mixture, stirring constantly. Pour evenly over bread layers. Place casserole in larger pan of warm water (water should come halfway to top of casserole). Bake for 60 to 70 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean: remove from oven. Increase oven temperature to 425

Prepare meringue: In small bowl, beat 2 egg whites until foamy; gradually add remaining 1/4 cup sugar, beating until stiff peaks form. Spread jelly on pudding to within 1/2-inch from edge of casserole. Swirl meringue over jelly, sealing to edge of casserole. Bake 4 to 5 minutes, or until lightly browned. Serve warm or cold.

MICROWAVE DIRECTIONS Follow directions for combining ingredients as given above, through pouring blended liquid over bread. Place casserole in microwave oven. Cook on mediumhigh power for 10 minutes, rotating casserole after 5 minutes. Remove from microwave oven; spread jelly on pudding (as above) and prepare meringue. Swirl on top of jelly, sealing to edge of casserole. Cook 3 minutes on medium power until merinque is set. If a brown merinque is desired, place under broiler 1 to 2 minutes, watching closely.

WHEAT GERM DATE BREAD

Servings: Makes 1 loaf; 16 slices Preparation time: About 15 minutes Baking time: About 55 minutes Calories: About 225 per slice

2-1/4 cups all purpose flour 1/2 cup wheat germ.

regular or brown sugar and honey

1/2 cup sugar 1 tablespoon baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt

cup milk

1/2 cup vegetable oil

egg 1 cup chopped dates

1/2 cup coarsely chopped walnuts Preheat oven to 350°. In medium-sized bowl, combine flour, wheat germ, sugar, baking powder and salt; set aside. In small bowl, beat together milk, oil and egg. Add to dry ingredients; stir just until moistened. Fold in dates and walnuts. Spread in nonstick 8-1/2 x 4-1/2 inch loaf pan. Bake for 55 to 60 minutes. Cool in pan 5 to 10 minutes. Remove from pan: cool completely on-wire rack. Wrap in foil or plastic wrap, and store overnight for easier slicing.

Experience the pleasure of these delicious whole grain breads—all containing the natural goodness of wheat germ. And, baking them in nonstick bakeware makes for easy cleanup and perfect results.

SOFT PRETZELS

Servings: Makes 30 pretzels Preparation time: About 30 minutes Baking time: About 15 minutes Calories: About 75 per pretzel

1-1/2 cups grated sharp Cheddar cheese

1-1/4 cups

regular wheat germ. divided

1 tablespoon sugar 1 teaspoon salt

3/4 cup plus 1 tablespoon water, divided 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter or margarine package active dry yeast 1-1/2 cups all-purpose flour 1 egg

Preheat oven to 375°. In large bowl, combine cheese, 1 cup wheat germ, sugar and salt; set aside. In small saucepan, heat 3/4 cup water and butter until warm (105°-115°F). Stir in yeast until dissolved; remove from heat, and add to wheat germ mixture:

Stir in just enough flour to make a soft dough that leaves side of bowl. Turn out dough onto floured board. Knead about 5 minutes, or until dough is smooth and elastic. Divide into 30 pieces. Roll each piece into a 12-inch rope. Twist each rope into a pretzel shape.

Place pretzels on nonstick baking sheets. In small bowl, beat egg with 1 tablespoon water. Brush each pretzel with egg mixture and sprinkle with remaining wheat germ. Bake pretzels for 15 to 18 minutes, or until lightly browned. Serve warm.

WHEATY YOGURT MUFFINS

Servings: Makes 12 muffins Preparation time: about 10 minutes Baking time: About 17 minutes Calories: About 155 per muffin cup whole wheat flour 3/4 cup wheat germ, regular or brown sugar and honey

3 tablespoons packed brown sugar 1/2 teaspoon baking powder 1/2 teaspoon baking soda

1/2 teaspoon salt container (8 ounces) plain low-fat yogurt

6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted 1 egg, slightly beaten 1/2 cup raisins

Preheat oven to 375°. In large bowl, combine flour, wheat germ, brown sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Add yogurt, butter, egg and raisins: stir just until moistened. Fill nonstick muffin-pan cups about two-thirds full. Bake muffins for 17 to 22 minutes. Serve warm.

MICROWAVE DIRECTIONS

Follow directions for combining ingredients as given above. Fill paper-lined microwave-safe muffin-pan cups half full. Microwave 6 muffins on 50 percent power for 4 to 4-1/2 minutes, rotating pan after two minutes. Repeat for remaining batter. Let stand 2-3 minutes before serving. Serve warm with butter or honey if desired. Makes 15-16 muffins.

Now is the time to try authentic Belgian cuisine

If you have a friend who seems to possess an overflowing knowledge of almost every type of cuisine, ask him or her to describe the typical foods and specialty dishes of Belgium. Or, go back a step - what do you know about the cuisine of Belginm?

When was the last time you, or anyone that you know, dined in a Belgianstyle restaurant (when, of course you weren't in Belgium)?

Even the most knowledgeable food enthusiast and cook probably doesn't know a great deal about the cuisine of Belgium, largely because of its physical proximity to France. Like a more successful big brother, France, the culinary mecca, has overshadowed Belgium, with a classic cusine far more renowned than Belgium's own unique style of cookery.

BUT THANKS to the work of Enid Gordon and Midge Shirley, the foods of Belgium in all their glory and splendor are brought to the American public in a new volume, "The Belgian Cookbook" (Merrimack Printing Co.).

In an effort to explore the unknown delicacies of Belgium, noted region by region, Gordon and Shirley have put together a beautiful counterpoint of Belgian landscape, which help the reader to understand and get a feel for Belgium and its people, and how these recipes have been a part of their lives for generations.

It is common knowledge abroad that Belgians love to eat and savor their food with intense pleasure. And according to Gordon and Shirley, in recent years a growing sense of regional identity and a renewal of interest in authentic cooking has led to a reappraisal of the cusines of the Belgian provinces.

Belgian cuisine is known not only for the quality of its dishes but for the quantity: Witness the size of the portions served in restaurants.

THE PROOF that Belgians are very serious when it comes to the matter of food can be found in the street signs of Brussels, where more than 120 streets are named for some kind of foodstuff.

The authors of "The Belgian Cookbook" are first to admit that it is almost impossible to describe the cuisine of any country in just a few words of phrases, and the food of the Belgian provinces proved no exception.

There are features that are typical of Flanders, for instance, you'll find the velvety sauces made with butter, cream and egg yolks, not unlike those of Normandy.

In Limbourg there remains a tradition of cooking with red wine and, in the Ardennes, there is a predilection for rich, aromatic brown sauces that go well with game.

"The Belgian Cookbook" is not unusual in format, running the gamut of Belgian dishes from soups, stocks and sauces, through drinks, preserves and

THE RECIPES are written in accordance with the metric system but, for those not adept with metrics, there is a translation table at the back of the book, and the recipes listed here have their ounce and pound counterparts listed in parentheses next to the appropriate ingredient.

The manner in which this volume has been written makes discovering Belgian foods all the more enjoyable, and invokes a desire to discover more about this cuisine.

The following recipe for Troute Au Vin Rouge (trout simmered in red wine, from the Ardennes), reproduced lovely example of the rich and flavorful sauces from that region.

The recipe is simple, as is the unwritten rule for most Belgian cuisine, but the results are both flavorful and texturally appealing.

TRUITE AU VIN ROUGE Trout simmered in Red Wine, From the Ardennes

100 g. butter (7 tbsp) 3 shallots 100 g. mushrooms (3.3 ounces) 2 tbsp. flour Juice of one lemon thsp. chopped parsley % liter red wine (approx. 31/4 cup)

(You will need a casserole big enough to hold the fish side by side and deep enough to take the liquid, and which can be used on top of the stove.)

• Melt the butter and saute the finely chopped shallots until they begin to soften. Add the sliced mushrooms.

 Brown gently and add the flour. Mix well and, when the flour has been soaked up by the butter, add the wine. 3 thsp. cream scrumptious recipes and pictures of the a particular region or province. In from "The Belgian Cookbook," is a Bring slowly to the boil and simmer for 10 minutes

Clean and wipe the trout dry. Add to the wine, with salt and pepper, and cook very, very gently so that the liquid is just simmering for 15 minutes.

• Place the trout on a warmed serving dish and reduce the sauce to thicken slightly. Check the seasoning.

· Away from the heat, add the lemon juice and stir in a walnut-sized piece of butter. Sprinkle with parsley and serve with boiled potatoes.

The following recipe for Carre De Porc Aux Quetches (loin of pork with plums, from the Ardennes) is just another flavorful example sure to entice us all to learn more about this wonder-

Here are 2 dishes that are tasty, nourishing, easy

American kitchess today, it is probably appropriate to ask "who's cooking?" In recent years, with more and more women entering the workforce, men have started to make their way into the

Demographic surveys suggest that men are preparing all parts of the meal, especially dinner main dishes, and are participating in the cooking for both pleasure and day-to-day survival. In dual-income households, men often share some of the shopping and cooking responsibilities with their partners, while single men usually rely on their own culinary skills to put dinner on the Men may be venturing into the kitchen for all different reasons, but when it seem interested in ones that are tasty, nourishing and easy to prepare.

TWO ENTREES that fit that description are updated versions of traditional family dishes. Both Mexicali Corn Scramble and Deep Dish Spaghetti Pie were specially developed to appeal to men with all levels of expertise in the kitchen. Each dish uses basic cooking skills to combine readily available ingredients, such as ground beef, eggs, prepared spaghetti sauce and a can of vacuum-packed corn.

Mexicali Corn Scramble is an attractive, meal-in-one skillet dinner that adds tremendous flavor to a familiar egg dish. With a south-of-the-border accent, this dish is prepared by scramin a large skillet, then adding spicy sausage and cheese. For a dramatic-looking presentation, stand tortilla chips along the edge of the skillet and serve with taco sauce and additional chips.

In a unique take-off on spaghetti and mat sauce, Deep Dish Spaghetti Pie features a "crust" of cooked spaghetti noodles topped with meat sauce. The spaghetti "pie" filling of ground beef, prepared spaghetti sauce and corn, which adds an unexpected sweet flavor and crisp texture, is easily prepared in

The filling is then spooned over the noodle crust and topped with green pepper rings and shredded cheese before baking in the oven for 30 minutes. Served with garlic bread, Deep Dish

Kevin Costner, Scott Glenn, Kevin Kline and Danny Glover star in Lawrence Kasdan's "Silvarado," a pretentious, violent movie full of western cliches. Rosanna Arquette, John Cleese and Jeff Goldblum co-star.

Kasdan shoots himself in foot with 'Silvarado'

Adolescent self-indulgence seems to be the name of the game in Hollywood these days. Lawrence Kasdan is right in the midst of it, doing his thing, no matter how boring.

And unless you're eagerly awaiting a body count unmatched since Vietnam, the 24 hours of "Silverado" will bore you stiff.

After considerable success with screenwriting credits for "Raiders of the Lost Ark" and "Continental Divide," and co-credits for "The Empire Strikes Back" and "Return of the Jedi," Kasdan directed, cowrote and co-executive produced "The Big Chill." The latter was a success, although a distasteful film with its characters reflecting selfindulgence at their worst.

But you can't argue with success, and now Kasdan has produced, directed and written (with brother Mark) a truly unpleasant western that meanders through 135 minutes of every Western cliche imagina-

LET'S TRY and sort it all out, although I don't know why. There are four heroes (one's not enough?) in this epic epic. Paden (Kevin Kline) is a drifter, but a man with strong loyalties to dogs and little Scott Glenn is Emmett, returning from five years in prison for murdering cattleman McKendrick's father. His daredevil, reckless brother, Jake (Kevin Costner), and big, strong Mal (Danny Glover) join with Scott and Paden as they travel to Silverado to be reunited with their families.

Mal's father, Tyree (Jeff Fahey), is a black farmer and, then, there's sister Rae (Lynn Whitefield), who becomes a dance hall hostess and friend of the nefarious gambler, Slick (Jeff Goldbaum). It's not clear whether the McKendricks hate Tyree because he's black or because he's a farmer. Probably both. In any event, it gives Mal something to avenge.

But wait. We've barely begun to discuss the cast of thousands or 204 or 554 (not counting horses and chickens), depending upon which page of the press kit one reads. The whole project is so confused, and confusing, that the producers don't seem to know what's going on.

ON THE WAY to Silverado our four heroes save the wagon train from the Box Canyon outlaws. Little do the wagon train folk know that McKendrick wants their land for cattle grazing and will do anything to get their title, including burning the land office and beating up on the register of deeds and his family. It just happens that Mrs. Register of Deeds is the sister of Emmett and Jake.

Oh, boy, are the McKendricks gonna get it. Meanwhile, remember the wagon train? Hannah (Rosanna Arquette), the farmer-to-be, is on that train and her allures give Paden something to think about once he gets to Silverado.

Now guess who's sheriff of Silverado, doing McKendrick's dastardly deeds? Paden's old friend, Cobb (Brian Dennehy), who also owns the saloon where Paden meets diminutive bartendress, Stella (Linda Hunt). Remember, Paden likes little creatures

You probably think I've retold the whole story, but you're wrong. I didn't even mention the cavalry outpost or the town of Turley.

IT IS SAD that Kasdan assembled this talented crew and spent a bundle on filming from November 1984 to March 1985. Included in the waste was the construction of a 47-building town using 750,000 board feet of lumber, 30,000 board feet of planking and 2,300 sheets of

If the film had any style or class, then such construction would be well worth the effort. As it stands, however, "Silverado" is a dull and leaden rehash of every Western cliche since Edwin S. Porter's 1903 western, "The Great Train Robbery."

Republic Studios used to turn out westerns on low budgets in 16 days, and they looked it. Kasdan spent a lot of time and money on "Silverado," but it sure doesn't show

Linda Hunt confronts Brian Dennehy after a shootout as Kevin Kilne, Scott Glenn and townspeople look on. "Silvarado" was produced and directed by Lawrence Kasdan and co-written by Kasdan and his brother, Mark.

Wines a match for northern scenery

My last column explored the vinicultural delights of beautiful downtown Paw Paw and some points west in southwestern-lower Michigan, part of our "Explore Michigan" theme this

Now we go north, all the way to our little finger tip on the west coast, Leelanau County. Here the terrain is more undulating, the region more isolated and the region dotted with lovely lakes and coastal scenery. There are many who feel the Leland area is Michigan's finest: I share that.

There are four bonded wineries in the county. The oldest, dating all the way back to 1976 (compare to some German and French properties that go back some 800 years), is the Boskydel Vineyard of Bernie Rink and his family. Located in the center of the penninsula overlooking Lake Leelanau, the operation was begun and continues to be the work of a single family.

In this Finger Lakes-like setting, they produce between 2,700 and 3,000 cases of wine a year from their 25 acres, enough to support the family. Next year, when Bernie retires from his position as head librarian at Northwest Michigan College, it will be their sole support. But there are no plans to VIGNOLES, Seyval and De Chaunac are the chief wines, all made well. The last is used in their Red blend and in the varietal Rose. They also have made in 1983 a most fruity, rich and pleasant wine from the Aurora grape, one too often overlooked in Michigan.

All in all, a most amiable place to visit. Open 10-6 daily.

An aside to our usual fare is in order here. Leaving Boskydel recently on a lovely June afternoon, I saw an amazing sight. A huge harvester was methodically and quickly clearing a several-acre field of strawberries. Mechanically harvested strawberries?

The owners claimed that the machine was one of only two in the world; his family had built and owned them both. It was taking some 10 tons per acre, separating greens and fruit at the end of a conveyor belt and spitting the unbroken berries out the side into lugs. Traditional harvest is two or three tons

The tongue of the harvester ran horizontally along the ground, neatly slicing off the tops of each plant, harvesting all the growth, leaving the plant intact to bear another harvest. All this was being run by four teen-aged boys, sons to the family.

Then, two miles to the north, there was a huge field with some 50 laborers bending over to harvest berries by hand. A memorable contrast.

FARTHER UP the peninsula on the east side, in the village of Omena (post office, general store and bar), is Leelanau Ltd., second oldest winery in the region.

They also make a Baco Noir (the 1983 was rich and gentle, full of soft earth flavors reminiscent of a lesser Burgundy), a couple of Auroras and a De Chaunac Rose. In additon they are releasing their second cuvee of a sparkling wine, most flavorful and piquant.

Leelanu also makes an array of fruit wines, a trend slowly disappearing

Buddy Rich and his Big Band will make their P'Jazz appearance on the terrace of the Hotel Pontchartrain at 6:30 p.m. Monday. Brookside Jazz Band, featuring Ursula Walker, will make its 14th P'Jazz appearance at 6 p.m. Wednesday, and the Alexander Zonjic Quintet will play at 6 p.m. Friday.

Bernard "Buddy" Rich has been in show business practically since birth; when he was 18 months old he was standing on stage in his parents' vaude-

At the age of 11 he toured the vaudeville circuit with his own show band. His jazz career began in 1938 at the Hickory House in New York City where he appeared with Joe Marsala, and later played in the bands of Bunny Berigan, Artie Shaw, Tommy Dorsey and Benny Carter.

In 1946, Rich formed his first jazz band. After two years as a bandleader, he decided to accept an offer from Norman Granz to tour with the Jazz at the Philharmonic Troupe

In April 1966 he formed a big band again for the first time since 1951. He assembled some of the leading jazz players of the time, Gene Quill and Pepper Adams, but the leading role was reserved for Buddy Rich.

THE BROOKSIDE Jazz Ensemble, featuring jazz vocalist Ursula Walker, performed at the first P'Jazz concert in 1971 and has performed every year

Featuring a 20-piece group made up of some of Detroit's finest musicians, they have played at the Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival, Meadowbrook with Nancy Wilson and Renaissance Live.

The Brookside Jazz Ensemble features original music with arrangements by various band members. They also play big band compositions of Maynard Ferguson, Stan Kenton, Buddy Rich, Bob McConnell and Woody Herman.

The Alexander Zonjic Quintet, featuring the popular Canadian flutist, who have toured with the Bob James Band for several years, will play the Friday P'Jazz concert.

No stranger to the P'Jazz stage and the local scene, Zonjic retains his love for popular, classical and jazz music. He said "The knowledge of chord structures I gained in playing guitar in rock and roll bands helped me to play jazz."

Ticket prices for the Buddy Rich and His Band concert are $11 for reserved seating and $8 for general admission. The Redford Roadrunners, who number more than a hundred and hail from all over metropolitan Detroit, are hosting Saturday evening's Classic — a race for runners of all ages and abilities.

800-plus to run in Roadrunner Classic

By M.B. Dillon Ward staff writer

The Redford Roadrunners, a tricounty group of folks with a fervent love for fitness and fun, have competed in hundreds of races from Redford to Rio. They know what it takes to ner who with fellow race directors organize a quality road race and party - and that's exactly what they're staging Saturday night

At 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the Livonia Family Y (just north of I-96 and west of Farmington Road at the corner of Stark and Lyndon), a shotgun start will see 800-plus runners go for the gusto over a fast, flat, TAC-certified five-mile course in the 2nd Annual Roadrunner Classic.

Expected are Michigan Woman Runner of the Year Ella Willis, defending champion (24:33) Tobin Jones of Westland, Ann Arbor's Craig

North, popular 77-year-old masters runner Jim Ramsey and Bill Stewart, world record holder for the masters' mile (4:11). (None will have to worry about getting a run for his money from world-class marathoner Doug Kurtis. Kurtis is a Redford Roadrunwill be busy working.)

Attempting to clip the women's mark of 28:32 notched last year by Free Press marathon winner Karen Hubbard will be University of Michigan women's cross country coach Sue Parks, a 36-minute 10-kilometer runner and a 2:46 marathoner, Kathy (Stahecki) Taklaian, and U-M tracksters Melissa Thompson, Stephanie Robertson, and Cathy Schmidt.

CASUAL RUNNERS and walkers can relax - they'll be among friends. While top competitors duke it out, running

Livonia's roller-skating 71-year-old Leo Goldberg and Walter the Middleaged Balloon Dog will entertain the fun-seekers on hand.

The Roadrunners last year's crowd-pleasing race.

This race is well-organized and there'll be a good party afterwards. The course is well-marked with accurate splits every mile and wellmanned aid stations," said Kurtis, Michigan Runner of the Year who at last month's 26.2-mile Rio Marathon clocked a second-place 2:17.30, a minute behind Oregon's Ron Tabb.

ROADRUNNER CLASSIC entry forms are available at sporting good stores, in Michigan Runner's June edition, Vic Tanny and the Livonia Y. Late check-in begins at 4:30 p.m. Saturday in the Y parking lot. At 5:30 p.m., entrants may limber up with a Vic Tanny aerobics work out. Instructors will lead post-race cool-down stretches also.

The $12 late entry fee buys a hot pink-on-lilac muscle shirt, admission to the party, food, refreshments and entertainment. Non-runners attending post-race festivities will be charged $5, while children under 12 will be admitted free. T-shirts are $5. Early registration, which closes today, is $10. Checks may be made payable to the Redford Roadrunners. If postmarked by today, entries may be mailed to the Roadrunners, P.O. Box 52007, Livonia, Mich., 48152. All proceeds go back into the race.

HANDCRAFTED wooden awards will go to the first three finishers in each of 10 men's and 10 women's age groups. Race Computer systems Inc. will compile times within an hour after runners cross the finish line. You needn't place to win somethin numerous donations from local merchants will be given away.

Restrooms will be available, but entrants should arrive dressed to run. First aid will be provided by the Livonia Fire Department, while Livonia police will handle traffic control. Parking is free. More race information is available by calling 769-5016.

Now for the fun stuff. While dancing under the stars to anything from Jail House Rap by the Fat Boys to flags and lights, she added.

Rick James, the Pointer Sisters, Beatles, Aretha Franklin, John Anderson and everything in between, Classicgoers can fill up on Hygrade Ballpark franks, bagels, chips, Coca-Cola and Stroh's.

Sponsoring this year's race are the Stroh Corp., Livonia Parks and Recreation, Jet Speed Printing of Livonia, Running Fit of Ann Arbor, the ivonia Family Y, the Roadrunners, Coca-Cola, Danny's Foods, Hygrade Food Products Corp., Paul's Fruit . Market, Joe's Produce, Adidas, William Spencer P.C., McDonald's, Joe Leone & Sons, Palmer & Son Moving Co., and Racquets Unlimited.

We're anticipating lots of neighborhood enthusiasm and live dancing by all," says race director Ellen Henry. The outdoor dance floor will be festooned with balloons, banners,

Pete is last harvest for Hellier's Rose garden

By Chris McCosky staff writer

ON'T TELL Ron Hellier that coaching baseball isn't a bed of roses

He won't believe it. Since 1967. Hellier has coached a bouquet of Roses

First there was Chip Rose, who graduated from U-D High in 1964. Hellier coached him throughout Class A ball.

Stu Rose, now the head baseball coach at Redford Union, and Tim Rose were the second batch of Roses to come through the Hellier camp. Stu graduated from Livonia Stevenson in 1970, Tim from U-D in 1971. Hellier coached these two in the old Detroit Free Press League, the forerunner to the present day Adray League.

Rob Rose, a 1976 Livonia Stevenson grad, played for Hellier in the Livonia Adray circuit.

BUT NOW, after nearly 20 years, Hellier's Rose garden is almost empty. Pete Rose, the youngest of eight children brought upon this earth by Jan and Jim Rose, is playing his final season under Hellier in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League.

"Boy, it sure will be different (without a Rose on the roster)," the soft-spoken Hellier said.

"I was kidding him (Hellier) the other day that I should get a job on his coaching staff," said Pete Rose. "It would be Hellier and the two Roses

Stu Rose is currently Hellier's assistant with the Livonia Adray team.

Perhaps it is not so unusual for a the same coach. Perhaps it happens often. Yet, there is something about the Rose quintet - maybe their talent, their closeness as a family or their relationship with Hellier - that is

All five were excellent players. They were fierce competitors, looked to for leadership by their coaches and team-

"They were all infielders," Hellier said. "And they all seemed to bat alike. It was as if they all went to the same camp - well, I guess they did, in a

THE CAMP Hellier was referring to was not his own. He was referring to the keepers of the Rose garden, parents Jan and Jim.

The support we've received from the family has just been tremendous," Hellier said. "Even when things were going bad, you knew you could look up in the stands and they'd be behind us."

Jim Rose was a standout baseball player in his own right. He was one of the top baseball products in the region and on his way to a pro career when his father died. Jim was 16 and had to quit baseball to help support the family.

"He always loved baseball," said Stu Rose. "He more or less instilled that love in us. When he was a kid, this was before there was television, my dad wanted to skip school to listen to the World Series on the radio. His mother, our grandmother, wouldn't let him miss school. But, while he was at school, she kept score of the game for him. She recorded every pitch so that his strength was in academics.

family of baseball players to play for when he came home, he could relive the game.

> The love of baseball flowed easily from father to sons. As youngsters, Chip, Stu, Tim and Rob (Pete, the baby, particiapted only as a spectator) used to spend the bad-weather months playing baseball indoors via a dice-baseball game. During the spring and summer, the most intense backyard whiffle-ball league was staged.

> TO THIS day, the Roses gather on weekends at their parents' home in Livonia to partake in some touch football, basketball, and, yes, even an occasional whiffle-ball game.

"The inner-family rivalries were always intense, but a lot of fun," said Jim Rose. "They still play basketball together in the winter. Everyone has gone their own way, but they always come back on the weekends.

Because the five Rose brothers are cut virtually from the same mold, one tends to note the subtle differences between them. Chip Rose, now a successful attorney, set the standard for his four brothers, both on the field and in the class-"I don't mind talking about my brother Chip," Stu Rose said. "He's one of my favorite people. I think out of all of us, Chip was the best player. He had all the natural instincts. But, he had the worst body. If he had Rob's body, he'd be playing pro ball."

Chip played baseball for Moby Benedict at the University of Michigan but "He is really smart, close to genius IQ," said Stu. "It was tough in the classroom for the rest of us because Chip set such high standards. There was a lot of pressure, but it was good pressure."

STU AND Chip were almost identical in nature, according to both Hellier and Jim Rose. Neither could be called a good loser.

"The biggest thing that sticks out in my mind is I remember how much the older two hated to lose. They were so competitive, so were the others, but Chip and Stu especially," Hellier said. Redford vs. Livonia was the big rivalry during Chip's and Stu's playing days. How ironic that Stu now coaches "I told (AD) Bob Atkins when he called me about the job that I had hated Redford and his baseball program all my life," Stu said. "But, he still wanted me." Wisely so. Stu has been able to transfer his competitiveness and intensity, as well as his knowledge and love of the game, to his RU players. TIM ROSE was a bit of an enigma. He had as much, if not more, talent than his brothers but lacked the desire. "He just didn't seem to care much about baseball," Stu said. "Basketball was his game."

Still, it was Tim Rose who will be remembered for rapping a thundering triple off Frank Tanana, then of Catholic Central.

Salem's Johnson among S'craft recruits

staff writer

Last year's Schoolcraft College men's soccer team, in the estimation of coach Van Dimitriou, was not the school's most talented but it was "one of our most cohesive units."

In plain terms, that means the Ocelots worked hard for everything they got, which was eight wins in 12 games and a Region XII championship.

Still, weaknesses were evident, particularly in the front line where the McFarland - managed just six scores. Dimitriou's off-season task was obvious: first, recruit some scorers and, second, find an able replacement for all-region goalkeeper Brian O'Shea.

HIS EFFORTS have been fruitful. Dimitriou has commitments from a trio of proven scorers and two wings who should help. And, although the Schoolcraft coach warns that "we're never going to get someone like Brian - he was the best goalie the school's ever had," he has a trio of goalkeepers who should make the transition less

Perhaps the Ocelots biggest recruit is John Gelmisi, the Livonia Stevenson scoring wizard whose father, John, is Dimitriou's assistant. Gelmisi was allstate as a Stevenson senior, leading the Spartans to the Class A finals.

He collected 36 goals and 19 assists his final season and three times scored four or more goals. In three years, Gelmisi had 79 goals and 34 assists.

THERE WERE three reasons Gelmisi chose Schoolcraft, other than his father serving as an assistant, according to Dimitriou: "He found out we would give him a full semester's tuition, he was interested in the programs we offered, and he knew he could play right

"He'll play forward for us, although a player like John could play anywhere. We haven't had a forward like him since Nick O'Shea, and that was way back in 1981.'

Dimitriou's other scoring finds are

Johnson, a 1984 Plymouth Salem graduate who played his freshman year at Florida Southern.

AT THE WINGS, Stevenson grad Joe Novak and Livonia Bentley alumnus Gene Pulice should help. Novak was selected to the all-Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) and was honorable mention all-Observer. Pulice was also honorable mention all-Observer.

Rob, an all-MIAA player at Albion, is presently an assistant manager at Standard Federal Savings Bank.

Interesting story about Rob. He's the only left-handed hitter in the family. His brothers Chip and Stu are responsible for that. They figured he'd be better off hitting from the left side, so they taught him to hit left-handed as a child.

THERE REMAINS one more Rose in Hellier's baseball camp. And many say Pete Rose - the baby, the one who sat inside with his mom and watched the old whiffle-ball games out the back with sisters Cynthia, Mary and Nancy, bunch.

Said Hellier: "Pete has had the most opportunity in terms of coaching. He is very strong. He get's a lot of extra base hits. He hit that home run in Tiger Stadium last year. He's definitely got the potential. But, he's smart, too. He's going to MSU to get an education first. Baseball comes next."

Mike Finn, who plays college hockey at Alabama-Huntsville, scored a pair of goals once again to scored two goals for the Wildcats Thursday night.

Wildcats nip Bulldogs, 3-2

The Little Caesars/Chrysler-Plymouth Midwest Summer Hockey League has been a showcase of some heavy offensive power so far this sea-

But when the two division leaders squared off at the Plymouth Cultural Center Thursday, the defense came to the forefront.

The Bakes Conference-leading Wildcats, behind the sterling goaltending of Keith Walk and Tim Genyk, choked the Tex Conferenceleading Bulldogs 3-2 in a battle of unbeaten teams.

The Wildcats came into the showdown having scored 10 or more goals in three previous games. Bulldog goalie Walt Edwards put a crimp in the Wolves' goals scored average.

Goals by Mike Finn and Jeff Henchel offset one by Plymouth's Joel Koviak to give the Wolves a 2-1 lead late in the second period.

WITH 27 seconds left in the period, Finn, who plays college hockey at Alabama-Huntsville, beat Edwards for the Wolves' third goal.

Genyk made the lead hold up in the final period, although the Bulldogs (4-1) managed a goal from Rick Tosto, with assists from Mark and Joe Ham-along the defense from Dennis Smith and Tom Dolan. The victory was the Wildcats' second of the week. On Tuesday, they

Baseball tryout

The Major League Scouting Bureau, representing 26 major league baseball teams, will conduct a baseball tryout camp for players 16-23 years of age from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, July 25, at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo Players should bring their own shoes, glove and uniform. American Legion players must have written permission from their coach or post commander to participate.

Dick Colpaert, head scout for the bureau, will conduct the camp.

A correction

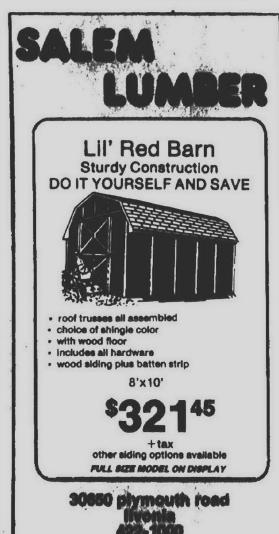

The phone number to call for more information regarding Northern Michigan's Gold Coast, a golf and resort package of 17 golf courses and eight resorts along the Lake Michigan shoreline in northwest Michigan, is 1-800-222-2220.

The number was incorrect in the July 15 editions of the Observer.
