Bila takes commission seat

Dennis Bila Will wait and see

By Dennis Coffman staff writer

Newly-appointed Plymouth City Commissioner Dennis Bila will take a 'wait and see" approach to his new job. Bila was appointed unanimously during a regular city commission meeting Monday night, replacing Mary Ellen McKercher, who resigned McKercher, who was in her first term on the commission, left when her husband transferred to a new job.

This is the first time Bila, 44, has held an otherwise-elective municipal government position. Through appointments, he served on the Plymouth Planning Commission and the Plymouth Parking Commission.

Bila never has run for public office. He brings a mathematics background to the commission which could prove helpful in budget matters, Bila said. 'I'll just be watching for awhile," said Bila, "although I am supportive of (Plymouth Mayor David) Pugh and his policies."

fessor at Washtenaw County Community College since 1969. He has been a teacher since 1963.

The newly appointed commissioner holds a bachelor of science degree from Central Michigan University and a master of arts degree from Wayne State University.

He has had 13 of his books on mathematics published.

Bila, a resident of Plymouth since 1972, was completing a three-year term on the planning commission.

"I think my mathematics back-will help me understand finance," said Bila. "Numbers don't scare me."

HE BELONGS to no organizions in the Plymouth area, but is president of the Faculty Association at Washtenaw County Community College.

"I've been involved in labor negotiations (at the college) and that experience should help," said Bila.

Bila, a Michigan native, is married and has two children; a son is in law school and a daughter is a reporter for the Saginaw News.

The city commission appointed Judy Berry to finish Bila's term of office on the planning commission.

The city commission also extended the term of office of Jack Kenyon, who has been chairman of the Economic Development Corporation of the city of Plymouth.

Kenyon will serve on the EDC through June 30, 1990.

All three of the mayor's appointments were approved by the city commission by unanimous votes.

Court's goal: speeding sentences

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

Just when the 35th District Court appeared to be at its best, things got better

First it was the consolidation under one roof on Plymouth Road across from Burroughs, then there was the streamlining of service, and now same-day sentencing.

This is so much better for the internal use of the court personnel," said Chief Judge James Garber. "It's better for the defendant, it's better for the attorneys and it's better for the court."

'It" is a computerized assessing system which allows the court to screen offenders for sentencing recommendations the same day they are found guilty.

In the old days - all of several could take weeks. Now, some 40-50 percent of the criminal cases - mostly drunk driving - are sentenced the same day.

"SAME-DAY sentencing is something we tried to do before but for whatever reason, we couldn't stick to," said Garber, whose court services the communities of Plymouth, Canton and Northville.

Quick sentencing became harder to do with Michigan's new drunk-driving law, which took effect in March of 1983

Prior to the new, tougher law, alcohol screening before sentencing was left up to the court. Consequently, judges wouldn't require screening of first offense drunk drivers, Garber said. "Unless there was some objective indication that a person has a drinking By Dennis Coffman problem, like prior offenses, we would sentence without screening."

In cases where there was a question, about half (400) required screening before sentencing, according to Garber.

> THEN CAME the new law, which requires screening of all drunk-driving offenders.

The 100 percent screening requirement, along with an increased drunk- presented a problem. We were running driving case load, put the court into a sentencing tailspin

"Before the law we handled 837 cases one year and 843 the next. In 1984, the first full year of the new law, we had somewhere in the neighborhood of 2,500 cases," Garber said.

We now were doing six times the number of screenings - obviously that

The lawsuit, filed against the department and officers Thomas Zedan, Wayne Carroll, Ronald Kaminski and Joseph Kahanec, followed the 1982 arrest of Henry, who had charged that the officers used unreasonable force in effecting his arrrest - and in doing so violated his constitutional rights.

"But now, under self-insurance, the community has a direct input if there is no merit in the case."

McClorey said this method at least

"Anytime you have to schedule a case more than once, it's like filing a brand new case each time," Garber said during an interview this week.

"Instead of having to schedule the matter three more times for sentencing, we can handle it in one day.

'It brings the sentence as close as possible to the actual offense, which for rehabilitation purposes, closer is better," said the judge, who likened the principle to training a child or pet.

The closer you get the punishment to the actual occurrence of the offense, the better your chances the message will sink in," he said.

screening completed a two-phase process. First they would fill out a questionnaire, and then take part in a oneon-one interview with a probation offi-- all aimed at signalling possible cer drinking problems.

The results of the questionnaire were shown as a MAST (Michigan Alcohol Screening Test) score. Based on that score, the person was placed in a category of probability in regard to having a drinking problem.

The second phase was a half-hour interview with the probation officer to reinforce the questionnaire findings.

Prior to the new law, the 35th District Court was handling about 800 drunk-driving cases a year, of which force used during his arrest, he suf-the jury returned a verdict absolving the officers, following two days of deliberation.

At the time the verdict was handed down, Henry's attorney, Donna Grant, would not indicate whether or not the decision would be appealed. Although the jury wasn't polled, Grant indicated earlier the verdict came from a split vote.

WHEN REACHED Tuesday, Grant refused to comment on the case. "If I have anything to report, I will contact you," said the Birmingham attorney.

But Henry, her client, said he could not afford an attorney if an appeal were mounted.

McClorey said the monetary judge-appealable, the verdict in the case was not

"It's past the appeal period (for the lawsuit)," said McClorey. "Given all the circumstances, there is no appealable issue in the case. The verdict is consistent with applicable law. There has been no reversible error by the judge. The appeal, if it came, would have to address the good faith of the verdict.'

McClorey's law firm handles insurance cases for the more than 100 Michigan communities that are members of a Risk Management Authority.

"The authority allows the community to have a direct input into the case, while in the past, insurance companies allows a community such as Plymouth to recoup taxpayers' expenses in fighting what he described as frivolous, nuisance lawsuits.

"Consequently, we want to make it unrewarding for them to file," he said.

In this case, the citizen who brought the lawsuit was made to pay court costs. Very often, attorneys for such plaintiffs operate on contingency fees, so that they share in the awards but not in the penalties.

However, according to McClorey, even that might change. "Eventually,

Kidnap suspect held Ann Arbor man accused of abducting Plymouth girl

By Diane Gale staff writer

Canton police arrested a 56-year-old Ann Arbor man in connection with the abduction of a 4-year-old Plym-outh girl from Canton's Meijer Thrifty Acres in July.

James Statley was arraigned Tuesday on an abduction charge, carrying a maximum penalty of life imprisonment, in 35th District Court before Judge John MacDonald. A plea of not guilty was entered for him.

Statley was arrested after a Meijer's security officer in Taylor told police about an October 1984 incident involving a man who matched the description of the suspect - 5 feet 3 and portly.

"We decided to go and talk to him, and we saw things that fit into the case and it led us further down the road," said Canton police Lt. Alex Wilson, who worked on the case with Canton Detective Rene LeBlanc.

"The more we checked on him, the better he became a suspect, and final-ly we got enough evidence to obtain a warrant this (Tuesday) morning," Wilson said. He declined to elaborate on the incident at the Taylor Meijer's.

LEILA WARNER was abducted July 7 from Meijer's while shopping with her mother, Sonia Warner, 24 Warner told Leila to wait near the Barble doll clothes for "just a minute," a Canton police report said. When Warner returned her daughter was missing.

Canton police searched through the store and fields around the building at Ford and Canton Center roads.

Leila was found by a young couple about 8:15 that evening walking along the side of a road in Leoni Township near Jackson.

Leila told police the man took her into the woods near Race Road, laid out a blanket and had her sit down. She said the man then left the area.

Wilson said there was no evidence Leila had been sexually assaulted during the incident.

At Statley's arraignment Judge MacDonald set bond at $50,000 or 10 percent.

A preliminary examination is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Aug. 29 before Judge MacDonald. Statley, who requested a court-appointed attorney, said the date conflicted with an appointment he has at Ann Arbor's Veteran's Administration Hospital for

follow-up on surgery done earlier this month.

Statley, arrested in his Ann Arbor home, failed to post bond by late

Tuesday afternoon and was taken back to Canton's police lock-up. If he is still unable to post bond by Tuesday or Wednesday he will be taken to the Wayne County Jail.

Mark Majeske, 4, of Livonia has found a friend who sees him rain or shine - mailman Thomas Tucker of Plymouth. Mark (at right) and "Barclay" the stuffed animal sit in Tucker's truck while he prepares the mail bag.

Mail carrier has friendly helper

By Susan Buck staff writer

Neither rain nor sleet keeps 4-year-old Mark Ma-jeske from his self-appointed mail rounds. Daily since 1983, Mark has accompanied his postman buddy, Thomas Tucker, as Tucker delivers mail on Bennett Street in northeast Livonia.

The law prevents Mark from actually placing the mail inside mailboxes. But Tucker lets Mark hand mail to recipients with their permission and if they are present when the two approach. It's a demanding job for any 4-year-old planning to enter elementary school in Redford Township next month.

And it's especially demanding for a youngster who is totally deaf in his left ear, 60 percent deaf in his right ear and suffers from congenitally weak forearms. Mark's forearms are missing a major bone

The youngster wears a hearing aid on his right ear and, for support, splints on both forearms.

"We have fun some days when he leaves them (the hearing aid) home," said Tucker, a 1959 graduate of Clarenceville High School and a Plymouth resident.

HOW DID Mark acquire all this responsibility? "Generally, he'd watch me from the front window," said Tucker, 43. "One day I said to him, 'Do you want to come along?' and that's how it all start-

Mark eagerly awaits Tucker's daily mail visit, which usually comes around 1 p.m. Tucker's route, with its 550 stops, encompasses Six to Seven Mile Road and Inkster to Middlebelt. He has delivered mail to the 19 houses on Bennett Street for the last 24 years.

The 26-year postal veteran completes all his rounds on time and still gives extra attention to theeager, inquisitive little boy.

Tucker stops to pick up Mark every day before he begins his Bennett deliveries.

A bright new red tricycle which Mark received as a Christmas present last year has cut the time needed for the two to walk the route together this year

"It's easier this year because he's bringing his trike," said Tucker. "Last year, he walked."

SOME DAYS, Mark pulls a wagon. "Tom's been more than a mail carrier," said Mark's mother, Connie Majeske. "He's so good with him; he's so patient. They talk about colors, the weather and the temperature."

Tucker said that he can tell when Mark is having a bad day. "He's had a lot of ups and downs. In the wintertime he gets sick a lot."

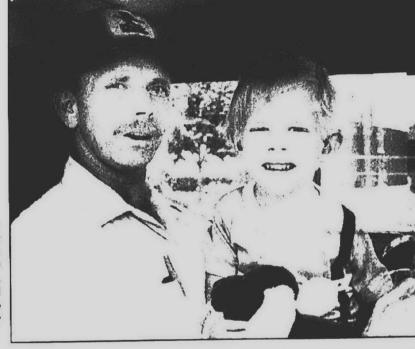

Occasionally, Mark's cockapoo puppy, Samantha, accompanies the two.

K mart to put beef in Canton store

By Diane Gale staff writer

4A(P)

To all those wondering people asking "Where's the beef," one answer will soon be: K mart in Canton Township.

Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburgers, made famous by Clara Peller croaking the inquiry over the airwaves. is making plans to serve up its hamburgers and other offerings from K mart on Ford and Sheldon roads. The businesses have entered a 10year agreement allowing each to step away from the deal at any time.

Canton's locale initially will be the country's only K mart providing a Wendy's, but if the trial run takes off, the plan will expand nationwide.

"We don't know how many K mart operations would be suitable." said Barbara Palazzolo, K mart manager of public communications. "This is just a test. This is a program that sounds like a good marriage."

WENDY'S IS SLATED to begin ringing up sales at the Canton site in mid-November. The fast food restaurant will operate from a 1,800-square-foot space and will replace K mart's cafeteria. Contract terms require Wendy's to pay K mart a flat fee meeting K mart's current sales per square foot in the cafeteria operation, Palazzolo said.

Wendy's and K mart say sales gained from each other's customers are a major benefit of the joint venture.

"Because of Wendy's quality foods and services it will also increase traffic in our stores," Palazzolo said.

"As the (nation's) second largest retailer, K mart generally has very high traffic counts and that's something that is very important to Wendy's," said Paul Raab, Wendy's manager of corporate communications. Slashing opening costs by providing an existing structure is another major plus of teaming with K mart, he said.

"This is the first time Wendy's will be getting into any kind of relationship with a retailer," Raab said. But Wendy's operates in other "non-traditional" sites like universities and hospitals around the United States, he added.

K mart has experience working with retailers by leasing out space to companies like Meldisco Shoes and financial services, Palazzolo said. She emphasizes that offering the fast food menu to K mart shoppers is not as unusual as it may appear on the surface.

"K mart has always been interested in the food industry," she said. "We have some type of food in all the stores."

A VARIETY of foods has passed by the K mart cash registers for quite some time. Many of the sites have cafeterias, food stands with meats and soft drinks, and a cookie and candy area. Most recently, gourmet sections have been added at some K mart locations.

Selling food has "proven to be a very good venture," Palazzolo said. K mart operates more than 100 cafeterias across the country, including Furr's Cafeterias in southern states and Bishop Buffets in the midwest and western United States.

Wendy's hires about 50 people to operate a location, said Raab, who insists that an existing Wendy's location in Canton — Ford Road west of I-275 — is a plus rather than adverse competition to the planned K mart site.

"We have found out that location is such an important factor in the consumers' choice of where they will eat," Raab said. "Sometimes our restaurants that are very close to each other don't cannibalize each others' sales. In fact they help each other by getting people in the habit of eating at Wendy's."

Court speeds up sentencing time

two to three months between conviction and sentencing."

Sometime in 1983, the court applied to become a state-certified alcohol-assessment center working with the ADE (Automated Drinking Evaluation) system.

Under the ADE system, offenders fill out a computer questionaire which is read and compiled within minutes. The result is a score between one and five, five being the highest probability for having a drinking problem.

"For almost a year and a half we ran parallel systems — the old way and the ADE," Garber said. "After almost a year we made a determination that the computer, if anything, was doing a better job than we were in personal interviews."

IN JULY of this year, the court started leaving the initial decision up to the computer.

"If the person came back as a one or two (low probability of drinking problems), we didn't go any farther.

"If the person came back as a three, four or five, we went the extra step with the personal inter"They also don't have to take more time off work to come down here and be sentenced," Garber said, adding the court docket is freed up with same-day as a result.

A local attorney, Tom Meconi of Canton, handles - in addition to others - a lot of the court's indigent cases.

"Same-day sentencing is something more courts are attempting," Meconi said.

Because interviews with probation officers still are available, he believes the system works well. "I can't see anybody suffering from it as long as that flexibility remains," he said. As for those who don't have drinking problems and are convicted and sentenced in the same day, Meconi believes it's a better approach. "For those who are involved with an isolated incident, exposure to the criminal justice system usually is enough to put the fear of God into them," he said.

"There's no need to hold sentencing over their head as some form of leverage."

"CLEARLY, UNDER the old system, we were missing a few with drinking problems who were first offenders — there were no objective indications of the problem in their record." Garber said.

view," Garber said.

"The result was that we were prepared to sentence the same day in 40 to 50 percent of the cases," he said.

"So far I've heard nothing but favorable responses about same-day sentencing. Most of the lawyers that practice in this court are very busy and like not having to be tied up another day for sentencing."

Defendants find it easier and cheaper to handle everything in one day — avoiding additional fees for an attorney's presence at a later sentencing date, he said. "We have had some first offenders who came back as a three, four or five and do have a drinking problem.

"I think that's one of the better aspects of the new law. Even if we are only picking up 50 of those type individuals a year, it is worth it because we are picking up 50 of them earlier," Garber said.

"Sure the new law meant a tremendous case load was dropped on us, and it created a backlog at the start, but we now have come to grips with it," he said.

One of Mark's stuffed animals also goes for a daily ride in Tucker's mailbag. On Monday, "Barclay," a stuffed dog and a neighbor's gift, peeked out from the bag.

Residents of Bennett street have grown accustomed to seeing the pair.

And the two always take the time to smell the flowers along the way.

A highlight for Mark and Tucker is checking out neighbor Georgia Hunt's rose garden.

"They're good friends," said Hunt as she watched them sniff her roses. "There's nobody like him (Tucker)."

YEARS AGO, Mark's brother Michael, 20, now in the U.S. Navy, and ly accompanied Tucker on his route. "But I've never had anybody walk with me like he (Mark) does," admitted Tucker.

Kirsten Loafman, a 5-year-old Rougeway Street resident, also is a frequent companion of the two.

Tucker carefully carries Mark's trike when it's time to cross the street. "Look both ways," he tells Mark.

As they approach the Prince resi-dence, Mr. Prince calls out to Tucker: "I see your boss is with you again." Tucker has empathy for the problems of his postal patrons. But he is tight-lipped when it comes to his own personal problems, said Connie Majeske. When his mother was ill recently, he confided his Through keen questioning, Ma-jeske said she was able to glean the we may be able to impose costs against the attorney himself," he said.

The implication is that if an attorney faced the possibility of actually being made to pay opposing attorneys' fees and court costs, then the attorney for the plaintiff would be somewhat more reluctant to bring the case to trial.

McClorey said that the Plymouth case and others have allowed municipalities to defend themselves, rather than settle out-of-court to avoid a legal hassle

"WE'VE WON a bunch (of such lawsuits) for Redford Township," said McClorey, who has represented Redford for the last 12 years.

"We have an exceptional track record and have won some significant cases," he said.

He has cases coming up for the po-lice departments of Redford Township quin. and Dearborn Heights.

Persistence pays off for city furniture retailer

By W.W. Edgar staff writer

1.2.2

No finer proof of the truth of the old saying "Patience is its own reward," can be found than by listening to Ed Buzenberg, the veteran furniture dealer, recall the highlights of his career.

Starting in the furniture business in Detroit with his father he has seen three establishments taken out from under him. And the one that will live with him always was the corner of Meyers and Schaefer in Detroit when lightning struck and set fire for a total loss.

Sitting in one of his favorite chairs in the Walker & Buzenberg furniture store on Main Street at Union close by the railroad, he said that the furniture business was born in him and that nothing could keep him out of it - not even a lightning and a fire.

He has been in Plymouth for the past seven years and has a lease which he calls solid for the next three. And he is looking forward to even better business because that section of Main Street is gaining in business locations and he plans to be a major part of the activity.

STARTING TO recall his career of 43 years in

One of the area's supermarkets (Danny's) is going to move next door in a month or so, but Buzenberg thinks that will be a big boost in business

While he runs the business and now is bringing in his two sons, David and Eric, he also has his sister, Eleanor Neynorber, with him as the bookkeeper and office help.

the furniture business he truned back the pages to 1933 when his father's store was at Grand River and Kirby in Detroit.

It was here that his patience had its first test. While business was good it had to give way to the Ford Expressway.

"We didn't mind that so much because the expressway was needed. But I always will recall my days there and how I got started.'

From the rains of that first store he moved to Meyers and Schafer and was settled there nicely when the lightning struck. It was a terrific blow and left the place in a blaze of fire that ruined the entire building.

"There was nothing to do after that but move again. This time it was to Lahser and Evergreen. It was from there in 1978 that the move was made to Plymouth.

We always had liked Plymouth and the people and many times we visited the Mayflower Hotel. We found the people nice and the city in itself was nice and looked like a fine place to settle.

"So we came to Plymouth in 1978 and hope to stay here for quite a while.

What I liked about Plymouth was the fact that the people didn't look for modern furniture. They looked not so much for antiques but good, comfortable pieces. And that is what we specialized in when we opened. We wanted to serve the Plymouth folks. And they have been kind to us."

They're gearing up for the annual Muzzleloaders Rendezvous next weekend at the Western Wayne County Conservation Association's grounds in Plymouth Township. Families from Michigan, Ohio and Ontario gather for pioneer shooting contests and games, according to Chairman Joe (Burnt Owl) Barney.

You'll see pioneer life and games as they were known in 1600-1840 - sewing, log sawing, tomahawk and knife throw, tug of war, trade gun match, novelty shoots, pistol match and other tests of luck and skill.

Barney adds there will be evening campfires and Sunday breakfast at the clubhouse to provide campers a bit of semi-civilized relief.

Campers may arrive at the WWCCA's grounds after 6 p.m. next Thursday, Aug. 29. The grounds are at 6700 Napier Road, between North Territorial and Five Mile. Primitive sites are available, and camping gear must be thematically accurate to the pre-1840 period.

For the softies, there is a "tin tepee" area available - but without water or them where to begin.

Registration of $10 per family (plus $3 per additional shooter) will be collected on arrival.

If you're new to the muzzleloader ame, check with Joe or Pat Barney at 348-2338 (Novi) about contests, accommodations and directions.

BICYCLISTS have so many good paths to pedal on that it's hard to tell

So the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) has issued detailed maps showing and rating roads by their suitability for 'cyclist. It cov-ers Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Ratings are based on trafic volumes, road width and speed. Bike shops and clubs are listed.

You can get a copy free if you're in downtown Detroit and stop at SEMCOG's offices, 800 Book Building, 1249 Washington Blvd. (at Grand River). Or you can send $1 to "Bike Maps" at the same address in Detroit 48223. If you write, be sure to specify which maps you want and the quantity.

VETERANS PROGRAM EXTENDED

Area Vietnam era and disabled veterans should be aware of recent changes affecting the Veterans Readjustment Appointments (VRA) program. VRA is a federal hiring program providing special, non-competitive hiring of these veterans. Originally scheduled to expire Sept. 30, 1984, the program has been extended through Sept. 30, 1986, through pas-sage of the Veterans Benefits Improvement Act (PL 98-543). It is not expected that the VRA pro-gram will be extended beyond that date. In addition to extending the program, PL 98-543 raised the entry grade level maximum from GS/ WG-7 to GS/WG-9 and also provided limited appeal rights during the first year of appointment. A Viet-nam era or disabled veteran who has completed no more than 14 wears of education may coupling to a more than 14 years of education may qualify for a VRA. (This restriction may be waived for disabled veterans). For further information, interested vet-erans may call the local American Legion hotline at 453-9494 and leave a message regarding information desired.

Teacher shortage a real possibility

By Teri Banas staff writer

Michigan public schools are teetering on the edge of a new trend that may see teacher shortages occurring soon.

While the surplus of educators has grown since the 1960s, when shortages last plagued state classrooms, concern is mounting once again among state and local school officials that a new shortage is imminent.

"It was unreal," recalled one school administrator, Livonia School Superintendent George Garver, about the 1960s. "I remember opening a classroom in the fall with no teacher to staff it. The shortage of teachers was just unreal. We'd go anywhere to find a teacher. I'd like not to return to those days."

The shortage of teachers was so drastic in the mid-1960s, he said, that administrators from Michigan would travel to 15 and sometimes 20 states in search of a school teacher. Occasionally, they had to compromise in their search for quality instructors.

Now, many school districts across the state are finding vacancies in teaching positions for math, science and special education.

WHAT IS causing the shortage?

• In the past five years, there has been a 42 percent reduction in the number of graduates from Michigan teaching colleges and universities. Meanwhile, K-12 public school enrollments have dropped only 10.5 percent.

• Today, Michigan schools graduate 3,000 teachers a year, compared to the peak statewide figure of 20,000 during the late '60s and '70s.

That indicates the market is starting to loosen up a little bit in job opportunities," said Dan Austin, director of teacher certification for the Michigan Department of Education. "We're starting to see an upward trend in the number of openings for new teachers.'

• School officials are beginning to move through their once-lengthy lay-off lists. Only three years ago 5,000 Michigan teachers were listed on lay-off. Today that figure is down to 400. Discouraged by economic forecasts, many have found jobs in other fields.

• The children of "baby boomers," emerging in such sunbelt states as Florida and Texas, are sending searchers into Michigan to tap local resources. The Houston Independent School District this fall alone will need 1,000 new teachers, state officials report.

• Retirement is on the minds of many of today's employed Michigan teachers. The state's recently adopted Early Teacher Retirement Program takes effect Jan. 1 and may open up retirement opportunities sooner for some educators and school administrators. It allows for "30 years of service and out" or any combination of years of service and age, adding up to 80.

Years ago the average working teacher was age 35; that's now up to 44, the oldest in Michigan history. "The retirement bill combined with the reduction in the layoff lists and fewer teachers coming out of colleges - we could have some shortages," Austin said.

PATRICK SCHEETZ, assistant director of placement at Michigan State University, concentrates his work in the area of teacher counseling. He agrees there has been a "dramatic turnabout" in the teacher market in the past few years. "Two years ago there were 800 teachers hired across the state. That went up to 1,800 one year ago. And this coming year, we anticipate there will be 2,500-3,000 hired. The demand is picking up," Scheetz said.

Besides the reasons Austin cited, Scheetz said K-12 school enrollments in Michigan have been leveling off and, in some cases, slightly increasing. "There's a mini baby boom going on around the country, but in Michigan, it's holding steady."

He added the rebound in Michigan's economy has improved finances in some school districts. As a result, new teachers are being hired as programs are reinstated and class sizes are lowered.

"Some school districts can afford a better teaching force now," he noted.

THE UPSWING is especially visible in university placement offices such as Michigan State's.

Today, Scheetz said, recruiters from as many as 40 Michigan school districts have arrived on campus for the fall hiring, and some 90 out-of-state recruiters from the growth areas of the sunbelt also are seeking Michigan-trained teachers.

One area school that has begun hiring new faculty members is the 15,000-student Plymouth-Canton school district.

"We don't have a lay-off list," said Norman Kee, the district's personnel director. "We're in the process of hiring. Last Monday we submitted 12 (new hires) to the board, and we could have another dozen.

Kee said his district needs to hire new teachers from all specialties. He has found most applicants have classroom experience, many have worked as substitute teachers, and some have taught in private schools, where salaries are substantially lower than in the public system.

"I think sometime in three years, we may have a shortage. But right now we have a substantial number of applicants and can can be quite selective," he said. "We're still looking at 30-40 applicants for each opening."

IN BIRMINGHAM School District, Superintendent Roger Garvelink announced plans to hire at least 30 new teachers this year. "We definitely see some dramatic changes," says Garvelink.

To get quality applicants, he said, Birmingham has had to develop aggresive recruitment procedures. It has re-established ties with college placement offices left untended in 20 years and has offered more than minimum pay to new-hires.

Like other school officials around the state, though, he is looking at the future. In the next five years, a large part of the Birmingham teaching staff will retire. That is cause for concern today, he said

"Fifteen years ago we hired warm bodies. We weren't discriminating. The public tolerated it. I see quite a different attitude today," he said. "Parents are having fewer children and have higher expectations for their children's education. And we do

IN LIVONIA Garver shares the same concern. He recently was recommended to serve on a statewide task force organized by the state Department of Education to look into the future of teaching.

According to Austin, the committee will:

• Examine teacher supply and demand.

Develop incentives to retain teachers.

· Examine ways to recruit students into the profession

 And look at recruiting minorities, currently under-represented in the education field.

SC idea: 5-year tax, 20 years of improvements

By Tim Richard staff writer

They have no doubt Schoolcraft College needs new revenue. They agree next March is the time to ask voters for a property tax increase.

But community college trustees want more time to mull over the ambitious 20-year financing plan proposed last week by Vice President W. Kenneth Lindner.

"I don't think I've ever seen anything like this before," said trustee Paul Y. Kadish of Livonia, a board veteran of more than a decade.

crease in the property tax of one mill for five years. With it the college could:

• Raise $3.4 million a year from 1986 to 1990 for a total of $17.8 million. Spend only about $1 million annually for the first five years.

• Invest the excess at an estimated 8 percent interest.

Spend the earnings and principal over 20 years - achieving $33 million in improvements, double the amount taken in taxes.

"It's a limited endowment plan," explained trustee Harry Greenleaf, a Livonian who has spent eight years on the board. "It's a better approach than bonding, where you have to spend some LINDNER RECOMMENDED an in- of your money on interest."

LINDNER UNVEILED the plan at a special meeting last Wednesday. It's likely to be on the agenda at the regular Aug. 28 meeting and future meetings until a ballot proposal is formulat-

College officials are eyeing March 24 and 17 as special election dates.

Trustee Rosina Raymond of Livonia liked the idea of asking for a round number - one mill - instead of a fraction of a mill.

"One mill is simple and clear. You'd be surprised how many people confuse 0.8 mill with 8 mills," she said, referring to unsuccessful millage requests of the past.

ONE MILL amounts to $1 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation (SEV). A house with a market value of $60,000 would have an SEV of $30,000. The tax would cost $30 a year, minus state property tax rebates, which 60 percent of homeowners receive.

"We need a citizens committee to help us (campaign)," said trustee Laura Toy of Livonia.

Maybe a 'Friends of Schoolcraft College," added Raymond, recalling how a Friends of the Library group spearheaded a millage drive in the city of Livonia.

THE MONEY, according to Lindner's outline, would go into four

"It's a jewel," says John O'Dell. He refers to a 7^{1/2}-mile segment of the Huron River flowing through the Island Lake State Recreation east of

The vehicle course and gun range currently are threatened by a lawsuit from nearby residents. O'Dell hopes a compromise can be worked out, and he emphasized that such such recreational activities would "not be allowed to destroy the pristine qualities of the park."

MANAGING A park in southeastern Michigan is far different from running state parks in such upper peninsula spots as Brimley and the Porcupine Mountains, where O'Dell previously worked.

"Down here it's almost crisis management," said the ranger. "The problems here are more intense and varied, and you have them for a longer period of the year."

areas, partly capital, partly operating: • Plant fund — 50 percent. Site improvements, major maintenance, renovation and remodeling, limited con-struction and refurbishing of the 20year-old buildings.

• Equipment replacement fund --25 percent. Equipment for current programs where equipment is technically obsolete or physically worn out. Cited were computers, CAD/CAM (computer-aided design and manufacturing) and robotics.

• Development fund - 10 percent. Faculty and staff development (training), program development and grant applications supporting new programs.

• Budget stabilization fund - 15 percent. A variation of the common "rainy-day fund" idea, it would reduce the affect of uncontrollable circumstances, such as the mid-year state-aid cuts during the recession, and such catastrophic losses as a reduction in valutions or enrollments.

Trustee Sharon Sarris of Livonia commented: "The simpler it is for the voter, the better. This plan has four elements to it. We need to discuss whether that can be clearly stated."

SCHOOLCRAFT voters approved one mill in the early 1960s and 0.77 mill for debt retirement in 1967. Because of state law changes, the college now uses the entire 1.77 mills for operations and levies an additional (and decreasing) 0.15 mill for debt retirement, for a total of 1.92 mills. No: increase has been voted since 1967. "If we tried to place the entire bur den for revenue growth on students (tuition), we'd price ourselves right out all the market," Lindner said.

(P,0)11A -!

"In the 1960s, our enrollment was 70 ercent liberal arts (students planning to finish their last two years at a and versity) and 30 percent career;" Lindner said. "Today it's 70 percent or more career and 30 percent transfer.

Career students cost more to train, particularly in areas requiring computers, microprocessors and word-processing equipment, he said. College of-ficials have talked of the need for 10,000 square feet of space for a computer lab and business office computers.

"TEN YEARS ago the average student carried 10 credit hours. Now it's seven credit hours. We are processing more heads to generate the same number of credit hours," Lindner said.

Thus the need for registration, custodial and counseling staffs rises faster than the number of credit hours, he concluded.

Needs can be expected to rise 2 per-cent a year faster than revenues, Lindner said. The current budget, balanced by dipping into a reserve fund, is $18.5 million. Next year the revenue "shortfall" is expected to be $700,000, and that shortfall will grow to nearly $2 million annually by fall 1990.

Police get tough with speeders shows Michigan motorists are driving faster than the 55 mph legal limit, Michigan State Police director Col. Gerald L. Hough has announced plans to step up enforcement.

State police will be employing special measures to target areas including I-75 south of Detroit, I-96 between Lansing and Detroit and I-94 in southwestern Michigan.

Hough said troopers will use aircraft equipped with speed timing devices,

Jarred by a state traffic study that unmarked patrol cars at target areas where speeding has become a chronic problem and patrol units equipped with Vascar, a speed timing device not affected by radar detectors.

Besides the loss of lives, federal highway funds are at stake, the law enforcement officer points out.

"First of all it's a matter of safety," Hough said. "The 55 mph limit has proven to be a life-saving law we can live with. Secondly, the loss of highway funds affects all of us."

HOUGH'S announcement followed a meeting with Department of Transportation director Jim Pitz whose department's nine-month study showed 51 percent of the state drivers exceeded the 55 mph limit. The study concluded in June. It also detailed that almost 89 percent of motorists on urban freeways drive faster than 55.

In long-range planning, Hough said, legislation will be needed to keep speed compliance in check.

"We ask the community to help us

His suggestions include:

A han on radar detectors.

• Increasing the number of penalty points a driver receives for violation of the 55 mph limit.

• Authorization for officers in the department's Motor Carrier Division (MCD) to issue citations to motor vehicle operators across the board. The MCD now regulates commercial carriers (trucking) only.

"If everyone will cooperate and slow down a little, we can save $10 million," Pitz said.

Job training offered to county residents

O&E Classifieds work! O&E Classifieds work! O8

Two employment training programs for those seeking skills in the clerical and building maintenance fields are open for applicants from western Wayne County.

The programs are sponsored by United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit and pay $3.35 an hour.

The clerical program lasts 13 weeks and begins with three weeks of training at the Garden City Adult Education Center. The balance of the time will be spent in on-the-job work experience in local non-profit agencies, said program counselor Nancy Moir.

There will be follow-up workshops to assist participants in finding full-time jobs, she said.

THE SECOND program teaches entry-level building maintenance skills in electrical, plumbing, carpentry and grounds care work. This program runs nine weeks and is offered through Henry Ford Community College at its Dearborn vocational center on Michigan Ave. A transportation allowance is provided in this program. Work experience will be available in area school buildings.

Applicants to both programs are selected based on federal income guidelines and residency requirements. The programs start in September and screening is ongoing. For more information, call 865-4044.

Column was a bomb stood place. It is divided neatly into two

The following guest column by Chester Belloc of Canton was written in response to a Moral Perspectives column which appeared in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

14A(P)

THE REV. Robert Schaden's "Moral Perspectives" columns seldom fail to exhibit that most tepid form of liberal religion - Christianity-and-water.

The gist of Rev. Schaden's recent column, "More Seem Willing to Challenge Madness" (Aug. 8), is that at the end of World War II the United States was just as evil in its military tactics as Nazi Germany

The war in the Pacific theater was as good as over, and there would have been no need for an invasion of the Japanese home islands. But the evil rulers of the U.S., believing that an invasion of Japan was not only necessary but would bring about many thousands of military and civilian casualties, decided to drop the atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki (no doubt cackling in satanic glee the while).

"It was," Rev. Schaden writes, "as though we dropped it because we had it and because we were sick of being kicked around in a very long war."

THIS IS ALL, of course, sheer drivel. But it is necessary to the purpose of Rev. Schaden's column.

For in the next breath, our thesismongering man of God draws a parallel between the decision to use atomic weaponry in 1945 and Secretary of State George Schultz's statement that he favors pre-emptive military strikes against the amoral, blood-thirsty terrorists of the world. Schultz wants to strike at terrorism because, as we all know, we in America are "sick of being kicked around in a very long war."

But, according to Rev. Schaden, there is hope in the face of the ultra-conservative, "jingoistic" madness that leads people to oppose terrorism and the crazed, suicidal military tactics of the Japanese empire of World War II. There are (cue the strings and French horns!) many people today who "stand willing to challenge the madness than was the case in the waning years of World War II."

The good reverend brushes tears of righteous joy from his eyes as he notes, "Even the threat of jail is as powerless to stop them as it was with the prophets of old" - as if the phony, made-for-media, ceremonial "arrests" of today's war protesters have anything even remotely in common with the deadly ordeals undergone by the ancient prophets.

camps: on one side - Rev. Schaden's side there are the peace-loving, long-suffering, morally pure-as-the-driven-snow forces of sweetness and light; and on the other there are the mindless, right-wing television preachers, corrupt government officials, and the war-crazed dolts who follow them.

(Funny, but I've always heard that it is America's conservatives who have cornered the market on stereotyping and malignant generalizations. One learns something new every day.)

What Rev. Schaden failed to comprehend as he sat down in the comfort of his study to tap out his cozy article is that one may be a Christian — as good a Christian as he — and yet recognize that the people of the world cannot be quite so easily categorized and that the moral choices open to us are nowhere near as tidily tied up as he conceives them.

And while it is true that "Jesus refused to bless the sword of Peter," He did not tell Peter to give up his sword forever (see Luke 22: 35-8). Self-defense is not forbidden, though slights and insults ("If your brother strikes you . . .") are to be forgiven.

One can hardly see the will of God in witholding the use of deadly force during World War II, which would have resulted in the complete extermination of the world's Jews and the conversion of all "non-Aryans" into fodder for Hitler's death camps.

Rev. Schaden owes a good portion of his very existence and right to free expression to the fact that in an earlier time a number of men and women - not slavering war-mongers, but ordinary men and women - saw fit to preserve our freedoms through the use of force, knowing full well that our lives and liberties could only be preserved thusly, and not, figuratively speaking, by lying back on a couch and sneering at everyone else for not being martyrs and confessors.

FINALLY, AS for Rev. Schaden's statements that World War II would have ended soon without deployment of the Abomb and without a staggering number of casualties, that "we dropped it because we had it and because we were so sick of being kicked around," and that Americans staged post-war parades not to celebrate the war's end but to celebrate the atomic destruction of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, there is but one thing to say:

Perhaps before discoursing again on the deeper questions of human morality as he has in his recent article, Rev. Schaden

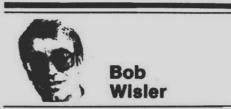

Jackpot state strikes again

THE BOOKSTORE that I used to go to has a lottery ticket sales cash register next to its regular register. The store features a wide variety of books, magazines and newspapers.

On Saturdays I liked to browse through the store selecting carefully. But no matter where I went, I could hear the annoying sound throughout the store - chuka, chuka, chuka, chook; chuka, chuka, chuka, chook.

It was the lottery register constantly spewing out its tickets. People who wanted to hit it big milled around the register with pieces of paper, pencils and sometimes booklets in hand.

vices to the public, not lottery tickets or gambling casinos.

THE NEWS that the state Lottery Department will begin holding two Lotto drawings a week, instead of one, did nothing to relieve my disquiet.

True, the bookstores and drug stores promoting pipe dreams while on the other hand preaching prudent spending and fiscal responsibility.

THE STATE, like a carny barker trying to entice the suckers in for one more penny-ante game, emphasizes the payoffs. Lottery officials talk little about the actual odds or how less than half the bets actually go into the winnings pool.

In fact, the odds of winning the big Lotto payoff are astronomical. Betting money on such a payoff - no matter how small the wager - isn't betting, Chickie Sherman would say, it's giving your money away.

Still the myth goes on, with the media aiding and abetting it.

THE WORLD, as presented in Rev. tal Christian virtue of simple honesty. Schaden's article, is such a simply under-

U.S. highway board defangs energy rule

IF YOU can find a better energy policy, adopt it.

But since Lee Iacocca knows Washington isn't going to tackle the energy issue, the Chrysler chairman is campaigning for Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole to keep the teeth in one of the few energy policies this country follows.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration last month cut 1986 mileage standards from 27.5 mpg to 26 after Ford and General Motors complained they could not meet those goals without curtailing the sales of their profitable large cars.

Dole could reverse NHTSA's change.

CHRYSLER, UNDER Iacocca, downsized its products and folded its large-car line. Among the Big Three, it stands alone as being able to meet the original 1986 Corporate Average Fuel Economy (CAFE) standards.

Ford and GM have continued to produce large cars that are again popular with the public now that the price of gasoline has stabilized. Without reduced CAFE standards, Ford and GM face huge financial penalties.

Chrysler sees itself as being penalized for building cars achieving mileage ratings it believed the government would demand. Ford and GM say that because they offer a full line of cars and trucks, they can experience more dramatic shifts in their CAFE ratings from year to year.

THE AUTO COMPANIES are notorious for their dislike of federal regulations.

They won't admit it, but they probably can thank CAFE standards for forcing them to face up to the Japanese challenge even as belatedly as they did. GM now boasts that it has more than doubled its fleet average from 1974 when its cars averaged 12 mpg. Japan, by the way, set 31 mpg as the standard for its manufacturers last year. But the U.S., with 6 percent of the world's population gobbling up 33 percent of the world's energy, doesn't see the need for sticking fast to fuel economy regulations, even though transportation accounts for about 40 percent of our energy usage.

Energy conservation has become a quaint idea, something that went out of fashion as soon as the OPEC nations resumed flooding our markets with crude. Car pooling, gas lines and dialing down are reminders of the bad old days, so we dismiss the fact that non-renewable energy sources are being tapped dry.

And we look the other way when the United States is mentioned as becoming a major debtor nation, thanks, in large part, to the oil we import.

WHEN A HARVARD panel was asked a few years ago to evaluate energy conservation, the panel concluded that conservation was important for two reasons: We not only reduce our energy consumption, but we save on our balance of payments.

If the powers that be in Washington stay cool to the idea of saving energy, maybe they can warm to getting our import-export ratio back in kilter. Then Iacocca can target the treasury secretary in his cause to get lower CAFE standards.

It would be the right decision even if for the wrong reason.

The Senate killed a resolution opposing NHTSA's plan to reduce mileage standards from 27.5 to 26 mpg. See Roll Call Report in today's edition.

ON SATURDAYS, the final day of the weekly lottery, the purchasers have a desperate quality. They act like bettors at race track windows just before the bell goes off - intense, agitated, almost perspiring despite the air conditioning.

The lottery ticket buyers never look at books or magazines. The book buyers never go near the lottery ticket register. It is as if they are from two different worlds.

What in God's name are these people doing in a bookstore? Bookstores should be for people who like books. Lottery tickets should be sold somewhere else.

I have similar feelings about governments being involved in selling lottery tickets. Government should provide ser-which sell tickets won't be as jammed on Saturdays because there won't be the same last-minute surge (the state lottery commissioner says). But we will be treated to the spectacle of drawing the Big Lotto winner twice a week and seeing the obligatory television and news stories about "instant millionaires" twice a week instead of once.

The move to twice-weekly drawings seems to be little more than an attempt to capitalize on the interest state residents have displayed in Lotto, which has set national sales records since it started one year ago.

The move also plunges the state deeper into operating on one hand like a huckster

THE DANGER is that as the state learns to rely on gambling as a source of income, it will turn increasingly to gam} bling, rather than prudent management, to bail itself out of trouble.

Even now gambling promoters are circling around Detroit waiting for the election to get over so that they can push for establishment of gambling casinos on Belle Isle.

To turn a beautiful park into a mecca for those who deal in bloated promises and broken dreams is an affront to the idea of recreation and a natural setting as a civilizing and restful influence on the populace.

Meijer: fine eye for detail

TO EVERY rule there's an exception. "Thrifty Years" by Hendrik G. Meijer is an exception to two rules: 1) Be wary of an "authorized" biography, and 2) a book about one ethnic group - in this case, the Dutch - won't be interesting to other groups.

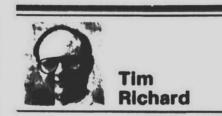

Hendrik G. Meijer is better known around these parts as Hank Meijer. His subject is his grandfather, Hendrik Meijer (1883-1964), founder of the string of supermarkets and discount stores that spread from western Michigan to Canton and now Northville Township.

Hank was an excellent and promising reporter for the old Observer Newspapers in the early 1970s when, regretfully, he joined a nondescript counter-culture pa-per for a spell. Last time I chatted with him, be was working on an advanced degree in history.

His book combines historical scholarship and the illuminating anecdotes of the newsman.

THE FIRST Hendrik Meijer was born in the Netherlands, worked in a cotton mill, served his time as a draftee in the Dutch army, set sail for the United States at the age of 23, and bounced around the country in odd jobs.

Before you conjure up the image of a western Michigan Dutchman - puritanical Calvinist, arch-conservative Republican — be apprised that old Hendrik was a socialist, anarchist and general non-believer. Why, he even spoke glowingly of Franklin Delano Roosevelt and encouraged folks on welfare to trade in his store.

Hendrik was 50 and a barber in little Greenville during the Depression when he decided to get into the grocery business. His business biography is one element of "Thrifty Years,"

Tales of the Old World are another. You don't have to be Dutch, as I said, to savor Hendrik's conflicts with the ways of a European monarchy. I once heard the late Harry Golden say that his Carolina Israelite essays were appreciated by Swedes and Frenchmen because they practiced the same customs.

Those of us who knew immigrants can kick ourselves for never taping their recollections before they died. We will envy the way Hank recorded the impressions of Hendrik's widow along with the old-time merchants, customers and Rotarians around Greenville.

MANY SOURCES are woven together in "Thrifty Years" - personal interviews, diaries, letters between his grandfather and grandmother, business history, world history, newspaper accounts and Meijer store ads - to make a story about the man, the store, the people and the times.

Hendrik studied the methods of the A&P supermarkets and attempted to improve on them. One day a Meijer customer in Greenville attempted to return a 10cent box of cereal that turned out to he A&P's private brand.

Hendrik's son Fred, staffing the cash register, started to explain that it couldn't have come from the Meijer store, but old Hendrik took Fred aside and ordered him to make the refund because:

'We can eat it ourselves; don't send him back to A&P for a dime."

THE IMMIGRANT who started a food store that grew to become one of the m tion's 100 largest retailing firms never lost sight of the goal of satisfying the common customer. Hank writes: "Even in his 70s . . . he sat in on meet ings and looked for ways to challen complacency.'

Young Hank the author could be a work thy heir of old Hendrik the retailer great sense of the big picture, a fine with for details.

HUD housing units cut to '85 level

Here's how area members of Congress were re-corded on major roll call votes in the days before the current House and Senate recess. HOUSE

By a vote of 213 for and 204 against, the House reduced by half the number of new public housing units proposed as part of the Department of Housing and Urban Development's fiscal 1986 budget.

The vote cut the number of new units from 10.000 to 5,000, the same number funded in fiscal 1985. This sliced $990 million from the proposed HUD appropriation, which later was set at $14.9 billion.

The appropriations bill (HR 3038) was sent to the Senate.

Supporter Toby Roth, R-Wis., said, "We have got too many 'yes but-ers' in this body," lawmakers who say "I am concerned about the deficit but not on this bill . . ." Opponent Edward Boland, D-Mass., said, "I have been dealing with these housing programs now for some 30 years or better, and . . . in my judgment, this is one of the most important housing programs to deal with the problems of the poor."

Members voting yes wanted to cut the fiscal 1986 appropriation for new public housing by $990 million

Voting yes: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Voting no: Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

TREASURY — By a vote of 288 for and 133 against, the House exempted several agencies from a proposed 2.65 percent cut in the fiscal 1986 Treasury Department appropriations bill.

This reduced the proposed cut from $192 million to $35 million.

President Reagan was opposed to the amend-ment, which exempted the Postal Service, Internal Revenue Service, Customs Service, Secret Service, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and certain law enforcement training programs from the budget reduction.

The House later sent the bill (HR 3036) to the Senate.

Sponsor Ronald Coleman, D-Texas, called it "pennywise... but pound foolish" to inflict cuts on agencies such as the IRS and Customs Service that generate revenue for the Treasury.

Opponent Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., said, "The taxpayers would rather see a reduction in spending than some fabled increase in tax revenues out in the never, never land of the future.'

NASA - The House rejected, 112 for and 300 against, an amendment to freeze the fiscal 1986 appropriation for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and National Science Foundation at 1985 levels.

The amendment sought to cut $160 million from the NASA budget and $22 million from the NSF budget. It was proposed to the 1986 appropriations bill for HUD and other agencies (HR 3038; above). Sponsor Paul Henry, R-Mich., said, "Each of us supports efforts to cut the deficit. All too often, and unfortunately on a regular basis, we come round and round saying, 'But let's begin somewhere else.' Opponent Herbert Bateman, R-Va., praising the space program, said "a mindless freeze that freezes everything without regard to the implications on our body politic is not the way to achieve budget reduction.

FUEL EFFICIENCY — By a vote of 52 for and 39 against, the Senate tabled (killed) a sense-of-the-Senate resolution in behalf of higher fuel-efficiency standards for passenger cars. The resolution opposed the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration plan to lower from 27.5 miles-per-gallon to 26 mpg the standard that automakers must achieve by the 1986 model year.

Detroit has had ten years to meet the 27.5 mph "fleet average" requirement. Chrysler is technologically prepared to comply, but General Motors and Ford argue that compliance will force them to cut production of larger cars and lay off thousands of workers.

This resolution, proposed during debate on (S 410), lacked statutory force and was only an expression of Senate opinion.

Don Nickles, R-Okla., who voted to kill the reso-lution, said, "We need to be helping (U.S. automak-... and certainly not doing anything that ers) would encourage more imports in this industry.

Daniel Evans, R-Wash., who sponsored the reso-lution, said the higher fuel-efficiency standard should be kept "if we are at all serious about energy conservation, if we are at all concerned about the dependence on foreign oil."

Senators voting no were opposed to any lowering of the 27.5 mpg fuel-efficiency standard. Voting yes: Carl Levin.

Not voting: Donald Riegle.

"Kathy's family needed hope".

A young mother with a serious illness. Her family in crisis. They came to Harper Hospital and found new hope. They learned that Harper is a university-based research and teaching hospital. A place where scientists work alongside physicians, transforming discovery into treatment. They found that Harper concentrates on the tough adult cases in cancer, heart disease and serious vision disorders. Patients like Kathy come to Harper Hospital at the Medical Center with confidence. They come because Harper is a major participant, together with the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York and the M.D. Anderson Tumor Institute in Houston, in America's network of only twenty Comprehensive Cancer Centers. Patients know that if the diagnosis is cancer, there is no better place to be than Harper Hospital. And they come with confidence because the Kresge Eye Institute is at Harper Hospital. This important Medical Center resource is devoted exclusively to the problems of vision. And through its research and clinical work, the Kresge Eye Institute gives new hope to millions with impaired vision throughout the world. Harper is hope for heart patients, too. Its large scale, nationally recognized program brings together research, teaching, surgery and medicine. More open heart surgeries are performed each year at Harper than are performed at any other hospital in Michigan. But of more significance is the growing number of heart patients Harper is able to treat successfully each year without surgery. For Kathy and her family. For you and your family. Harper Hospital is Science. Research. Hope and Healing.

LEANNA WHEELER of Plymouth clocked 11,000 miles on her second-hand car during her fiveweek round-trip to Alaska. LeAnna, who graduated from Michigan State University last year, took along her friend, Enid Weiss of Southfield, a 1985 MSU grad.

They left Plymouth July 8 and headed north then west across the Upper Peninsula, through Wisconsin and Minnesota to Canada. They drove through Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Calgary to the Rockies and visited Banff and Jasper National Parks.

"We heard about the Klondike Days in Edmonton so we went back to Calgary and up to Edmonton," LeAnna said. They passed through Dawson Creek in British Columbia and then on up to Dawson City in the Yukon.

They took along a tent for camping and LeAnna said they were glad they had a little propane stove as camp fires were not allowed in British Columbia because of the forest fires.

CAMP FIRES were permitted in Alaska and they were impressed and pleased with the fact that all campgrounds are free in Alaska.

"We went to Mt. McKinley National Park. Now they call it 'Denali,' the old Inuit name that means 'the great one.' You can't drive your car into the park," LeAnna said. A free bus service is provided to tour the park, an eight to 11-hour trip. Passengers can stop off wherever they wish to camp or hike. When they want to leave, they just catch the next bus out.

She said they saw a lot of Michigan license plates in Alaska, many on recreation vehicles. "Although some fly in, then rent a car when they get there.

"We had no major problems with the car and were never stranded. Prices were not bad in the large cities like Anchorage and Fairbanks. Gas averaged $1.60 per gallon but we paid as much as $2. Things were more costly in the little towns in between," she said.

THE ROADS were good except in British Columbia. Fireweed bloomed along the roadsides.

It's all part of the new quilt show, "Our Favorite Quilts," at the arts council's Artists and Craftsmen Show, Sept. 7 and 8, in Central Middle School. Baby sitter selection serious business

By Richard Lech staff writer

ELECTING a baby sitter is not child's play.

Child-care experts said finding the right sitter is serious business and requires extensive research by parents.

But parents don't always take the time and effort to check properly the person to whom they're entrusting their children's lives.

"A lot of families will call a baby sitter and hire the baby sitter for Saturday night. Then their next contact is Saturday, and the parents have 15 minutes to tell the baby sitter about the child," said Rose Lebbon, a registered nurse and in-service instructor who teaches Annapolis Hospital's Red Cross baby-sitting course.

"You take all the time to nurture and develop a child, and then you go and turn them over to a baby sitter, and all the preparation you give them is 15 minutes?' Using the wrong sitter - or one who's not been properly prepared can lead to abuse or to tragedy when an emergency situation arises. Last month a 24-year-old Livonia woman, Michelle L. Mackey, was charged with killing the 14-month-old girl she was caring for after allegedly becoming angry at the child's crying. Mackey, who has been charged with second-degree murder, told police she had disciplined the child by spanking and shaking her.

the baby to administering CPR or handling an accidental poisoning.

If the child starts crying, a sitter who has taken a baby-sitting course will have some idea of what to do, said Lynn Lecours, information specialist for the American Red Cross in Detroit.

The Red Cross course recommends that sitters ask themselves a series of questions to find out why the child is crying — Is the child hungry, too warm or too cold, in need of a diaper change, teething, in pain or discomfort, ill, or just lonely because the parents aren't home? The course then recommends what steps to take in each case.

"You have to go by troubleshooting," Lebbon said. "If you go through the troubleshooting, and nothing seems to help, either call the parents or a neighbor. But you don't become frustrated."

The courses also cover what to expect from children at different age levels, so a sitter doesn't feel frustrated because he or she is expecting too much of the child. should contact several parents who currently are using the sitter's services — as well as parents who used the sitter in the past, to find out why they no longer use them.

IF THE baby sitter will be using his or her own home to care for the child, parents should check if the sitter is registered with the state.

It's a little-known fact, but sitters who use their own homes to care for children that are unrelated to them and receive compensation in return must register as a family day care home, said Jacqueline Wood, the assistant director of Division of Day Care Licensing of the state Department of Social Services (DSS).

The division can tell parents whether a registered sitter has a criminal record or a history of abuse, Wood said.

The regulation doesn't apply to baby sitters who go to the child's home to baby sit "We explain to them (sitters) the best way to go to an interview is just as you would for a job," said Lois Ray, a medical assistant who teaches baby-sitting courses at Henry Ford Hospital's Fairlane Center.

"You should have the baby's parents interview your mother, and vice versa."

The sitter and child should have some time together, so the parents get an idea of how they get along.

"Let them have some time alone, where you can see them playing and interacting with the children," Lebbon said. "Does the sitter get down at their level, play with them, or is she standoffish?"

Lebbon suggests trying out the sitter for short periods, such as a trip to the store, before entrusting the children to the sitter for an extended period of time.

Once they take the job, baby sitters should have a working knowledge of the home — where fire extinguishers and doors and windows are and how to work door locks — in case of a fire or other emergency. going on while the sitter is there.

"Ask the neighbor if anything unusual happened. Did the kids seem under control? You'd be surprised what the neighbors say."

A mistake parents can make is to assign a baby sitter other duties, such as washing the dishes or vacuuming the floor, Lebbon said.

"If a baby sitter is frustrated because things are not getting done, I can see how they could lose control because they didn't know what priorities are," Lebbon said. "The first priority is to watch that baby. Nothing in the world is more important than the security of that infant."

"We really emphasize keeping a constant eye on that child, even when it's sleeping," Ray said. "We tell them to check in every half an hour. They don't have to touch them, just make sure they're sleeping peacefully."

PERHAPS the best way to find out how things are going with the sitter are through the child itself.

They saw black and brown bears, dahl sheep, moose, caribou and grizzlies, "just through binoculars, they were far away."

Fresh fish was inexpensive. They had fresh salmon and crab. Milk was expensive in Alaska but most expensive at Point Barrow up on the Arctic Ocean — $6 for a half-gallon. After several attempts, they flew to Point Barrow.

Their first flight was over-booked and another was canceled because of bad weather.

LeAnna said there were about 2,000 Eskimos there. "It was an Army base at one time. It was freezing cold — Arctic perma frost. They gave us parkas. I had sweaters and two sweatshirts under the parka and I was still cold."

They traveled to Homer on the Kodiak Islands and visited fishing villages along the coastline.

THEY DROVE down to Skagway and took a ferry to Prince Rupert, British Columbia.

Leanna said it was huge boat and an enjoyable trip. They saw whales, puffins, seals and eagles along the way.

From Prince Rupert, they headed south to Montana and drove home through the United States.

LeAnna's description of her trip to Alaska was interspersed, frequently, with "I'd go back," and "I'd do it again."

Anyone considering a drive to Alaska should talk to LeAnna. She'll have a hundred reasons why they should go.

MIDWEST HARMONY Chapter, Sweet Adelines, Inc. is moving, according Linda Lupo of Canton Township, president of the group.

Their new rehearsal location will be the Senior Citizen Fire Station Center, 10800 Farmington Road, Livonia, just south of Plymouth Road. First rehearsal in thei new home will be Wednesday, Sept. 4.

home will be Wednesday, Sept. 4. Anyone interested in joining the group should call Pat Daubenmier of Canton, 981-4098 for information. BABY-SITTING experts recommend a variety of steps parents can take to find a sitter.

The first is to take a look at the sitter's credentials.

Parents should ask is whether the sitter has taken one of the baby-sitting courses offered by hospitals, schools, the Red Cross and other agencies. The courses can cover everything from feeding and diapering "A person who's likely to abuse a youngster is a person who doesn't have a realistic perception of what normal behavior is in an infant," said Katherine Crossley, program director of the Community Commission on Drug Abuse (CCODA)/Livonia Counseling Center

"People can expect more from a child than a child is able to give in terms of attention, compliance or love."

PARENTS ALSO should ask for and contact a baby sitter's references.

Even a teen who's never worked as a baby sitter before should have a minimum of two references — a clergyman, teacher or school counselor who can attest to the sitter's character, Lecours said.

If the sitter is experienced, parents

"Only when the child is taken from its own home (does) the state feels the risk increases dramatically," Wood said.

It's a misdemeanor for sitters who use their own homes not to register with the state, but many of them apparently don't know about the law or ignore it, Wood said. The DSS estimates only 20 to 25 percent of such sitters actually are registered.

Mackey, the sitter charged in the recent Livonia infant death, was using her own home to watch the infant and was not related to the child, Livonia police said. According to state law, she should have been registered as a family day care home, Wood said.

"But we don't show her to be registered under this name," Wood said.

ONCE PARENTS find a sitter's credentials in order, they should set up an interview with the sitter, and if the sitter is a teen, with the sitter's mother, too. The sitter should have a clear idea of what to do if the child becomes ill or otherwise needs special attention. The parents should leave a phone number at which they can be reached, as well as the number of a neighbor in case there's no answer at the first number.

WHEN "BREAKING in" a new sitter, parents should observe the sitter in operation, just to make sure things are going smoothly.

"We encourage parents to drop in unexpectedly on a home so they see what goes on in a home when they're not supposed to be there," Wood said. "Drop in at lunch, or get out of work early."

Lebbon said it's a good idea to have a neighbor keep an eye on what's Parents should check for bruises or any abnormal behavior that would suggest the child is being abused or neglected. Ray recalls one child who panicked when placed in small room for a hearing test, apparently because he had been locked up in small rooms in the past as punishment.

Older children can talk about their experiences, but Wood pointed out they'll be more likely to open up if it's made part of their daily routine.

"If your child is of the age where they can verbalize, talk to the child every night about what they do at the day care home. If child has it as part of the normal day, they will start telling you what happened."

All the precautions in the world can't guarantee that abuse or accidents won't occur, the child-care experts agree. But such measures greatly increase the odds of a happy relationship between parents, child and baby sitter.

Who are they?

If you can/identify these young women you must have been a resident of the original Lake Pointe subdivision in Phymouth Township and perhaps a member of the Lake Pointe Village branch of the Woman's National Farm & Garden Assoclation. The garden club will celebrate its 25th anniversary 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 12, at First Methodist Church of Phymouth on North Territorial Road. All former members are invited to attend and to call 453-3905 or 453-2296 for reservations. One of the club's first fundraisers was a Christmas Walk in 1961. Handmade and home-baked goods were offered for sale at the homes open for the walk. Admiring their efforts were garden clubbers Diane Lichfeld (standing left), Nadine Heid, Artene Motkus, Heien Beigert, Lois Duebiber, Marge Truesdell, Heien Whipple, and Fern Uras; Jan Elston (seated left), Gail Stannard and Alva Holk. Good old 42 comes through for Canton

You may remember a couple of weeks ago I told you of a young man from our fair community who was about to compete in the United States Michigan Men's Pageant. The spectacular event was to be in the Premier Center, hosted by Marilyn Turner with full media coverage.

I also mentioned, just in passing of course, that the young man could be seen when he co-hosted my cable TV show, the "Sandy Show." Greg Lea is the son of Barb and Denny Timmerman of Glouchester in Canton and brother of Gina and Jeff.

Well, folks, he pulled through for us! There were 63 gorgeous contenders on stage and we had expected only 30. But there they were, all decked out in tuxevery impressive. As they dos walked around, across, over and back again we were proud just to know someone on that stage, personally. As it turned out, that was not to be the highlight for us that evening.

FINALLY, the long-awaited names of the 10 finalists rang out. And whose number did we hear? Good old 42.

I didn't realize it was Greg's number. When I saw him step forward and heard his name, I couldn't believe my ears. I thought immediately of that-ever-so-calm Barb. I wished I could see her face, but she was too far away. However, nearby was that rarely unexcitable brother of his, Jeff. After those at our table - my daughter Tammi, Laurie Karpinski and a very nice gentleman rooting for Joe Kosmalski of worked my way over three tables and congratulated Jeff.

Then and there, we were all ready to grab Greg and call it a night. One of the 10 finalists! We couldn't believe it. What a fantastic night. But he probably wants to stay, so we did.

IT TOOK forever.

There were only 10 utterly fantastic men left up there and one of them was Greg. Every time each candidate came on stage, the host would read his biography. Each time, Greg's went something like this, "and in Greg's spare time he co-hosts a cable TV show." Does that send chills down your whole body and back out again.

You should have heard the comments from Marilyn Turner and her son, Dean, who was co-hosting with her for the first time. They warned John Kelly to look out, referring of course to his co-host position on "Kelly and Company" and "Good Afternoon Detroit." It was wonderful.

Time for the dreaded questions. They were, for the most part, bad, senseless and irrelevant. Things like, "If you were to place only two things in a time Belleville — had finished screaming capsule that would best represent the old 42 was and congratulating each other, I '80s, what would they be?'' The poor runner-up.

contestant froze, so did the audience. He ended up naming only one thing, the New York Times, pointing out that it covers just about everything. We applauded and let him out of there, only to have the next poor devil hit with the burning social question, "If you were Superman for one day, what would you do to improve the world?" We figured most of the guys had been discussing that very thing backstage all night. What else on a night like this?

Actually, the audience passed it off as just another silly question and wished they would quit hassling the contestants.

The night was as glamorous as a night could be. It included fantastic sparkling gowns from every boutique imaginable - the type seen on Dynasty, absolutely stunning. I was tempted to order 12 or so for myself, to wear when both my bankbook and my figure shape up. But they'd probably be out of style by then.

BACK TO THE gorgeous guys. Back to Greg. He did not fail us. As the 10 finalists stood center stage with the other 53 contestants behind them. we couldn't believe our ears as good old 42 was announced as the fourth

He stepped forward, received a huge trophy (which will be seen on the Sandy and Greg show) and we screamed. Everyone cheered for him, and somehow, when I tell people about it, I always say he won. For me, fourth was a win. I could never imagine being one of the 63, much less the top 10, and finally fourth runner-up.

We were very proud, excited, thrilled, and in general, happy as could be. The only thing that could have made it any better would have been to have all of you there to share in the excitement and pride of one of our own making it.

I know you'll be hearing a lot more about Greg in the future. And you'll be able to say, "Oh yes, I knew him when he hosted our local cable program about our community. I was in the studio audience one time, charming fellow. He gave me his autograph over coffee afterwards." Or something like that. Congratulations to Greg, his fami-ly, and to all his friends who helped him. Great job everyone.

THERE WERE many things I wanted to talk about today, but I just received an important call that I feel should take immediate priority.

Learning is a roomful of energetic preschoolers trying to sit quietly while a teacher recites a pre-planned lesson from a standardized manual.

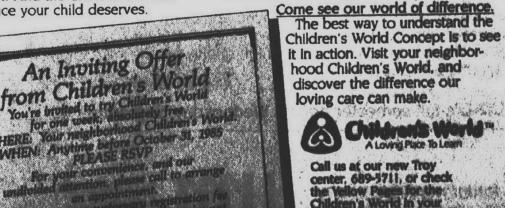

Loving to learn is that same group of children exploring the wonders of the world with a teacher who makes the process of learning as fresh and exciting as the lesson itself.

That's the Children's World Concept. And the Children's World difference your child deserves.

The Children's World Concept: A child taught with love loves to learn.

Our teachers teach from the heart to open the mind. They're free to create activities which spark each child's natural eagerness to learn at his own pace. Your child will gain confidence and welcome new experiences. In short, your child will learn the joys of learning at Children's World. And that's a lesson that will last a lifetime.

ASSEMBLIES OF GOD

Historical chronicle Book commemorates Plymouth church history

HISTORY commemorating the 150th anniversary of First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth has been published in conjunction with the sesquicentennial celebration. Written by Plymouth author Samuel Hudson, the book is available in hard cover.

Titled "150th Anniversary History, First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, Michigan, 1835-1985," the book chronicles the story of local Presbyterians from the building of the first church in 1835 to events of the present day. The foreword is by the

Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee. The 200-page book, illustrated with 65 photographs of people and events past and present, is priced at $11. Copies may be purchased from the church office, 701 Church St., Plymouth

Dr. Hudson is author of two earlier books about the history of Plymouth and a book published last year about the history of Schoolcraft College. He has written a weekly history column for the Plymouth Observer for the past 10 years.

THE BOOK HAS a list of pastors from 1835 to 1985, an index and a chronological list of highlights of the church's history.

Some of the events highlighted in the history are:

• How the first white frame church was built on the present site in 1835 at a cost of $386;

• constructing the second church in 1849 from bricks made in Plymouth:

Dr. Hudson is author of two earlier books about the history of Plymouth and a book published last year about the history of Schoolcraft College.

• the Believe-It-Or-Not Ripley cartoon in 1936 which told how the Plymouth Presbyterian Church burned to the ground, but not the church pulpit or Bible (still in the church's possession); · why Church Street was rerouted when the new church was built on the same site in 1937:

• detailed events of the pastorates of Walter Nichol, Henry Walch and Philip Rodgers Magee; • the story of the old Presbyterian

Cemetery, Plymouth's first burial ground:

 the Ladies Aid Society which ran the "Presbyterian Eating House" at the Plymouth Fairgrounds in the 1890s:

• early church disciplinarians who frowned on dancing and card-playing; • a special chapter, written by Nancy Tanger, about the church's stained glass windows and memorial gifts.

Chris Gilles is two matches away from making her debut at the U.S. Open Tennis Championship at Flushing Meadows, N.Y. Gilles bypassed the U.S. Open pre-qualifier Gilles bypassed the U.S. Open pre-qualifier tournament last weekend by winning the United States Tennis Association (USTA) Womens National at the Kiamesha Lake Country Club in Monticello, N.Y. She needs to win two matches at the U.S. Open qualifier Friday to earn a berth in the main draw of the U.S. Open.

The win at Kiamesha was the third tournament win in three straight weeks for Gilles, a Plymouth native and the No. 1 singles player at the University of Wisconsin.

Two of the three wins were in national tournaments, the USTA National Hardcourt Championships in Cleveland and last weekend's USTA Nationals. The third was the Northeast Amateur Tournament in Portland, Maine.

GILLES HAD not won a national amateur tournament prior to this summer.

"I hope she keeps winning. Maybe she can earn some money and help pay some of these traveling expenses," joked Brian Gilles, Chris' father. "No, really, it's worth it all just seeing her make another step. These (national) tournaments are a great experience for her. She needs it."

At Kiamesha, Gilles swept through the field without yielding a set.

(P,C)1C

She defeated Angel Cobb 6-1, 6-0 in the first round and Amy Tarkinson of Colorado and the University of South Carolina in round two, 6-1, 6-1.

Gilles knocked off another South Carolina product, Rita Winebarger, 6-3, 7-6 to advance to the finals.

Diane Dopson from Texas A&M was Gilles' victim in the championship match, 6-3, 6-1.

Dynamic Dameron duo

Dave (above) and Dennis (left) Dameron, Plymouth Salem's super siblings, have just completed a successful summer of wrestling. In the AAU National Junior Olympics at Iowa City, Dave Dameron took a gold medal in freestyle wrestling, a silver in Sombo and a silver in Greco-Roman before fracturing an arm. Dennis grabbed a gold in Greco-Roman and a bronze in freestyle. Both were selected to compete in the U.S. Wrestling Federation National Senior Championships in Iowa City. Dave had to decline because of a hamstring injury.

Wide world of sport: a madman's hideout

VERY YEAR at this time, the same penetrating question strikes, flooring me with its direct simplicity.

After an hour or so, my wife may loosen her hammerlock and allow me to regain my feet. But her queries continue, gushing forth in a jumbled mass of confusion and frustration. "What is this hangup you have with sports?"

she demands. "Why don't you grow up? I won't see you for the next 10 months, you know. You'll work five nights a week, until two or three in the morning, writing about some silly game. Then you'll come home and watch another game on TV.

"And don't give me that 'thrill of victory, agony of defeat' stuff either," she screams, shaking me by the collar. "There can't be that many thrills, that much agony in high school sports. "Tell me it's the cheerleaders — that I can at least understand." I MULL over her question, then explain it to the best of my ability.

"OK, it's the cheerleaders," I reply with what remaining breath I possess. Her grip around my throat loosens, followed by what big-time wrestling announcers would refer to as "a pause in the action." I wait until she's calmed down before risking her wrath once again. "Now do you want to know the real reason? It's the thrill of victory, the agony of defeat." In all honesty, I do believe my Wide World of Sports answer is as good as any. A Time magazine article on athletic milestones last week referred to sports as both "inessential industry" and "essential reverie." Americans devote an enormous amount of time and money on sports, a relatively inconsequential segment of life.

IT'S TRUE. People are starving in Africa and shooting in Lebanon, but the only death we acknowledge is the slow demise of the Detroit Tigers. Ask any sports fan on the street to spell apartheid and it's an even bet he'll ask, "Who's he play for again?"

Logic has never been any human's strong point. I'm a sportswriter, which makes me less human than most (a fact confirmed by any coach) and, therefore, less logical.

But I do try. I try to understand why Iran sends children on senseless suicide attacks. I try to understand the fear, the hopelessness, the waste of a nuclear arms race. I try to understand why terrorists explode car bombs in the middle of civilian populations.

Then I hear things like the hottest movie in Beirut is "Rambo," and I'm ready to give up.

SPORTS ARE EASY. Black and white. Good guys vs. bad guys. Winners and losers. Fans can cheer lustily for their favorites, hiss despisingly at their rivals.

And whatever happens on the playing field, there's always another game. Another chance or challenge. Sports are never (with English soccer a possible exception) a matter of life and death.

In the coming months, every high school athlete will experience the sweet taste of victory and the sour stench of defeat. A single moment of a game, or even a practice, could highlight a season. But each — both the "thrill" and the "agony" — will demand attention.

Sports are simple. Hard work precedes victory. That's all that need be understood. Give an honest, all-out effort, push your talent to its limit, and no matter what story a scoreboard tells, victory is achieved.

IT'S UNFORTUNATE real life can't be more like sports. Instead, the pendulum swings in the opposite direction. Recruiting scandals, drug addictions, labor strikes are frequent invaders on the sport pages, constant reminders of the nonsensical world in which we live.

A clash looms in the not-too-distant future. It's inevitable. On one hand, people see that hard, diligent work will be rewarded with victory. They believe that the simple ethic applied in sports can work in the outside world, too.

But decisive victory is rarely reached in real life. Ours is a world of mediation and arbitration. Compromise is the cure for the world's ills.

By the same measure, when the problems we face daily intrude upon sports, we're puzzled, shocked. An athlete making a half-million dollars a year risking it all by ingesting drugs, we ask? Doesn't he know any better?

Athletes are superior beings with superior talent. Drug addicts are torn and tattered, discovered roaming aimlessly on shabby city streets. No connection between the two is conceivable.

YET IT EXISTS: athlete and junkie. The real world mingling with sports. Can the two co-exist? Probably not, at least not as presently perceived.

Opposites attract, and as they do they become more alike. That, no doubt, is the future of sports. My fervent hope is that it doesn't change too much. It's one of the few escapes from a life filled with harsh realities. It's enough of an escape that I prefer to base a career on it, and treat the rest of the world like the grim sideshow, rather than vice versa.

But none of this is explainable to someone who doesn't understand the importance of enduring a vicious tackle in exchange for two extra yards.

"It's that thrill of victory and agony of defeat," I repeat to my wife, then add before she can slug me again, "and the cheerleaders look darn good, too."

'New kid' wins MDA 10K event

By Marty Budner staff writer

Detroit-area race buffs better take note. There's a new kid on the block who made a smashing debut in Sunday's second annual Michigan MDA 10kilometer run in Southfield.

Dan Predmore, who arrived in town some 10 days ago from Ithaca, N.Y., startled most everyone by winning with a highly respectable time of $0:51.4.

Predmore's not unworthy of the recognition.

It's just that race officials expected familiar faces like defending cochamps Joe Caruso and Tony Mifsud to head around the final turn and into the Travelers Towers area across from the Southfield Civic Center as leaders of the pack.

But it was Predmore who strode in first through the finish gate ahead of the 221 runners who completed the run. A few moments after the race, the 26year-old Cornell University graduate maintained his sense of humor despite the humid conditions which took a toll on most of the competitors.

"I haven't lost in Michigan yet," he quipped while biting into a julcy piece of watermelon.

"I HAVEN'T raced in five weeks, and I didn't know what to expect. I surged ahead of the field about threequarters of a mile into the race and I usually don't like to do that. And I don't know why I did it today.

"I just started to put the pressure on them. I started hurting about the three mile mark, and at one point someone (Caruso) was only about 15 or 20 yards behind me.

"That's when I started moving again," he said.

Predmore, who lives in Bloomfield Hills and works at the GM Tech Center as a mechanical engineer, raced mainly 10k's and 5k's back east. Originally from Rochester, N.Y., he was a member of the Corneil track team.

Predmore says he doesn't really enjoy marathon racing, although he has competed in two of them at Boston. "I running

consider myself mostly a 5k and 10k runner," he said.

And he showed why on Sunday. He took the lead shortly into the run and never trailed, although it did get close halfway through the race.

Caruso, a member of the Livoniabased Racquets Unlimited Racing Team, nearly caught Predmore after working his way through the field because of a poor start.

"I thought I could catch him. But, the problem was, while I had to work my way up to the front, he was just cruising along. I had to work to get up there and by the time I reached him I couldn't pass him.

"I tried, but I couldn't," said Caruso, who finished first in his age group (30-39) but second overall with a time of 31.08.8. "I feit pretty good out there. But I've been running all summer and not really racing. I like to peak in the fall."

Ron Lessard of Ferndale, another member of the Racquets Unlimited Racing Team, finished third overall in 31.45.4. Rob Utterback and Don Demetriades of Ann Arbor finished fourth and fifth, respectively, with times of 32:01.8 and 32.20.2.

Garden City's David Homann won the 19-under division and took sixth overall with a fine time of 32.39.4. A 1985 graduate of Garden City High School, Homann will attend the University of Tennessee this fall.

ELLA WILLIS, the veteran racer from Detroit, was the women's overall winner at 36:02.6. Joyce Rankin of Colorado Springs, Colo., won the 30-39 women's division and was second to Willis in 36:46.6. The third-place women's finisher was Kathy Frover of Bloomfield Hills (37:07.1), followed by Ellen Weglarz of Bloomfield Hills

New RU coach maps strategy for 1985

By Bred Emona staff writer

What kind of football will new Redford Union coach Jim Gibbons play in his initial season?

Gibbons plans several new wrinkles in the Panthers' game plan.

First of all, RU's kicking game will be overhauled, a sore point during the past several seasons.

"The kicking game is something we stressed all winter and summer," Gibbons said. "I think we'll be OK."

Secondly, Gibbons will incorporate a ball control offense. Thirdly, RU will possess, in the words of Gibbons, "a strong, tough defense."

He inherits a 3-6 club from Harvey Heitman, losing 16 starters to graduation. The most notable losses were running back Don Angel, who rushed for 1,401 yards and center Rob Sopha. "We need experience winning," said the new coach. "If we get some games under our belt, and we play well, we could be tough to handle."

BUT GIBBONS says he's nervous about the upcoming season, joking that "I might not find the field on opening football

"The buck stops here," he said, pointing at himself. "I can't point at another assistant right now."

RU plays its first four games at home, but must face formidable opponents like Livonia Stevenson and Redford Bishop Borgess

The Panthers will also be playing for pride in 1985, since the newly aligned Northwest Suburban League -- RU. Garden City, Dearborn, Woodhaven and Dearborn Edsel Ford - will not play a round-robin schedule until 1986.

"We're playing Garden City for the league championship," cracked Gibbons. "No, wait a minute, we play Woodhaven, too. Aren't they in our league?"

The Panthers appear to have size and strength defensively.

Returning on defense will be linebacker Mario Picano (5-feet-11, 210 pounds), tackle Jerry Manus (5-10, 255), terest shown by some 50 freshmen.

linebacker Bob Kamen (5-8, 165), and defensive backs Ed Mogielski (5-6, 160) and Marc Buchan (5-6, 155).

NEWCOMERS AND POSSIBLE starters defensively include tackle Jim Bommerito (6-3, 220), end Ken Payton (5-7, 160), tackle Randy Picano (6-0, 210), end Jerry Schornack (6-3, 190) and cornerback Jim Pavlovich (5-10, 185).

Many of the above mentioned players will play offense, too. Virtually all the skill positions have to be filled by underclassmen.

Fighting it out at quarterback are juniors Dave Marshall (6-1, 170) and Mike Rucinski (5-9, 160), the latter whom is also a wide receiver along with junior Steve Droste (5-9, 170) and sophomore Rob Kennedy (6-1, 155). The running backs could be junior Kevin Messner (5-10, 175) and sophomore Scott Gilbert (5-7, 145).

Gilbert and senior Mark Gamboa will handle the kicking chores.

Gibbons is currently carrying 35 var-sity players, but only 14 sophomores turned out for pre-season practice. Gibbons, however, is encouraged by the in-

Willis, who has competed in a dozen marathons and is a past winner of the West Bloomfield Half-Marathon, was 22nd overall.

"I was expecting to come in under 36 minutes," she said. "I think I was a little tired.

"I just didn't have any competition," said Willis. "It was a good tune-up for me because I'm running next week in the Governor's Cup race at the State Fair."

Race director Mike Keeler, who works for the Southfield Corp., said 267 people registered for the race.

"Overall, we had a lot of preparation for the race and I think everything went well," he said. "We raised a lot of money for MDA and I think we'll see even better results next years because of all the hard work put into the race this year.

"I think the runners will pass the word around," he said. The word also will pass around about Predmore.

Eli takes swing against diabetes

Eli Zaret of WDIV-TV fame led a celebrity-ridden group of 136 golfers in the first Ameri-can Diabetes Association-Michigan Affiliate Golf Outing at Dun Rovin Golf Club in Plymouth Township Monday. The event grossed approximately $16,500 for the fight against diabetes. Eli hosted the event which featured celebrities Jim Johnson (WRIF), Mickey Lolich (ex-Tiger), Ron Kramer (NFL Hall-of-Famer), and Bill Gadsby (former Red Wing), to name but a few. The winning foursome in the scrambles tourney was comprised of Dan Boisture (former EMU and Detroit Wheels football coach), Dan Boisture Jr., Ken Tompor and Vince Barbato.

ly retirement beforehand or work into your 70s?

A major factor in your decision is likely to be the size of your Social Security benefits.

WHEN TO RETIRE. You cannot receive full benefits until you reach the full-benefit retirement age. This currently is 65. Starting in the year 2000, the full-benefit age will gradually in-crease until it reaches 67 in 2027.

If you work past the full-benefit age, you can earn larger benefits. For those now near retirement age, your monthly benefit will be increased by 3 percent for each year after 65 that you don't draw a Social Security check.

For those who reached 65 before 1982, the credit is 1 percent for each year. Starting in 1990, the credit will be gradually increased until it reaches 8 percent in 2008.

EARLY RETIREMENT. You can begin receiving Social Security as early as age 62. But if you start before 65, your benefits are going to be permanently reduced to take account of the longer period you will be getting them. If you step down at 62, for example, you can receive no more than 80 percent of full benefits.

CURRENT RULES. The following are some of the rules of Social Security payments:

 Monthly Social Security benefits and supplemental income benefits (SSI) are increased by 3.5 percent.

• Maximum payments are adjusted. For someone who turned age 65 in 1984, the maximum monthly payment is $728. The average monthly SSI payment is $449 for an individual and $776 for a couple.

· Social Security payroll taxes are increased. This year, employer and employee each pay 7.05 percent on income up to $39,600.

• Self-employed persons also face a larger Social Security tax bill this year. The net self-employment tax in 1985 is 11.8 percent on the first $39,600 of selfemployment earnings.

• Benefits for disabled persons in-crease this year. A disabled widow or widower is entitled to 71.5 percent of the deceased spouse's age-65 benefits. This is in addition to the regular, across-the-board benefit increase.

WHEN YOU APPLY. Once you decide when you will retire, apply at your local Social Security office at least two or three months before you plan to stop working. This way, your benefits will start as soon as you stop working. When you turn 65, drop by - even if you don't plan to retire - to arrange your Medicare coverage.

Take with you your Social Security card or a record of the number, plus proof of your date of birth. A birth certificate or record of baptism before age 5 is best.

Original records or copies certified by the issuing agencies are preferred. Also desired are W-2 forms for your last two years of employment or, if you are self-employed, copies of tax re-turns and proof of filing such as a cancelled check.

In Grand Rapids, the Grand Plaza is all hey call it a renovation, but the old Pantlind Hotel was never like this.

The 12-story red-brick hotel in the heart of Grand Rapids dominated the city from before World War I until after the Vietnam War. But the lumbermen and furniture makers would never recognize the pink and green lobby gleaming under three huge crystal chandeliers and a ceiling covered with gold leaf.

The wrought-brass railings that go up the double staircase and around the mezzanine were there in the old days. And the owners were wise enough to leave things like the old glass mail chute, the kind that lets you watch a letter flutter past unexpectedly while you are waiting for the elevator.

The paneling that wraps around the lower half of the lobby looks as if it was reborn from another age, but I suspect it's new, like the huge gold sunburst against the lobby wall.

WHEN YOU sit in the beautiful oldworld lobby, it is hard to imagine that the other half of this hotel, a few hundred feet away, is a gleaming glass 29story tower with the atrium, greenplants and other contemporary accents that go with it.

If you look at the space between the Pantlind, now the Grand Plaza East, and the glass tower, the Grand Plaza West, you could be even more confused.

A two-story concourse connects the two buildings across what was once a street to a third building once used to exhibit the furniture made by Grand Rapids furniture makers and now used as an exhibitors hall.

At street level that concourse is the main entrance and registration lobby of the Amway Grand Plaza Hotel, drain. which ties all these individual architectural units into one building.

The Monroe Mall, newest street development in the downtown area, also either starts or ends at the Grand Plaza. Festivals are regularly held on the mall, as are regular musical concerts in summer. The shops are still a little shabby looking, but the facelift is moving toward completion of a high-rise multistory shopping mall at the end of the pedestrian walk.

SOME THINGS have fortunately not changed since the last time I was in Grand Rapids. One, of course, is the Calder, which was erected with the help of a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts in the late 1960s. Many people asked, "Is it art?" in those days. But it wasn't long before the immoney. Meantime, the Grand Plaza has age of the Calder was seen on garbage trucks, city stationary and street flags.

If you take a walking tour of the city, you'll find such nationally recognized artists in many places and an excellent art museum built into what was once the old federal building. The Public Museum is also of great interest. A new Public Museum and a branch of Grand Valley State College are in the city's "dream plan" for the future; both are Sisters, Ore. - Strangers visiting her sometimes do a double take when passing a ranch just outside this small town. In the shadow of the snowcapped Cascade Range, scores of llamas graze in fields near the highways.

Seeing these exotic, woolly South American relatives of the camel, one startled visitor asked, "Are you sure we're not in the Andes?'

Few ranches in South American contain as many llamas as the Patterson spread near Sisters. "We generally have 550 or 600 animals on hand," says Jack Kellerher, who manages the Patterson herd, the largest in North American.

Although most lamas in the United States are concentrated in the Far West, herds also exist in unexpected places such as Oklahoma, Wisconsin, and Kentucky. Experts estimate that there are as many as 7,500 to 10,000 llamas in the country. "You can find them everywhere from Florida to Alaska," says Kellerher.

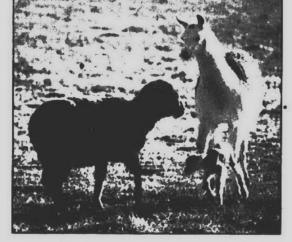

SCIENTISTS TRACE the llama to a little ances tor of the camel that roamed the plains of North America in the Eccene epoch, about 53 million years ago. The protocamels wandered west to Asia and africa, to become today's two-humped dromedaries, and southward to the Andean region, where they evolved into the four American cameloids: llama, alpaca, guanaco, and vicuna. Indians of the Andean Mountain region of South American have raised and used llamas for hundreds of years. The animals carried supplies for the conquering Inca armies into all corners of their empire. Called the "camels of the Andes," llamas even today carry cargo over long, rugged mountain trails Liamas also provide the Indians of the Andes with wool. Their dried droppings provide fuel. Even after death, the faithful creatures serve the Indi-ans, who make their hides into leather and use their fat to make candles.

Publishing tycoon and multimillionaire William Randolph Hearst brought the first llamas to the United States in 1929 for his elaborate California estate, San Simeon.

IT'S EASY to see why the geffle creatures, with heir soulful dark eyes and inquisitive dispositions, ave steadily gained admirers ever since. Children sinessmen value them for m as pets, bu tax advantages, and hikers admire them as bag-gage carriers. Some ranchers in the West use llamas to guard their herds from coyotes.

Others train them to pull pony carts. "They're wonderful around kids," says Kellerher, who points out that the llama's reputation as a spitting, vindictive beast is a total misconception.

Instead of spitting, a llama that feels it's been overburdened simply lies down until its load has been lightened. The animals can comfortably carry about 60 to 80 pounds. "Liamas make excellent pack animals,." says the representative of a company that organizes pack trips. "They can cover 20 miles in a day. They're surefooted on the rockiest slopes. And they keep going in any kind of weather."

INVESTORS ARE finding that the animals are ust as reliable on a financial statement. "In order just as reliable on a financial statement. "In order to use llamas as a tax advantage, you should end up with a minimum of three pair," advises one llama promotion brochure. The pamphlet notes that llama herds can be depreciated over a three- to five-year period, and an "investment credit may be taken on breeding stock the year of purchase." Cheap to maintain — they thrive on grass and alfalfa — and easy to care for llamas are also alfalfa - and easy to care for, llamas are also fruitful. Females produce babies in 11 months, yet current demand far outstrips supply. Prices of $1,500 to $2,000 for single animals are commonplace, and a good breeding pair brings $15,000. A prize female recently went for $53,000 at auction.

The more expensive llamas often compete for money prizes and ribbons at shows around the country, where they're judged on everything from bone structure and coloring to the quality of their wool. Good-quality wool goes for about $2 an ounce.

OWNERS SPARE no expense in caring for their charges. Just outside Bend, Ore., Sheron L. Herriges, known as the "llama mama," cares for sick and orphaned baby llamas from all over the country. "I've had as many as 38 babies in the nursery and five in the house at one time," she said.

Not long ago, one concerned owner rushed his sick baby llama to Herriges in his private plane. "It was a delightful little four-passenger plane," she said. "And as it touched down we could see the baby in the back two seats, nose pressed against the win-dow and ears flopping quite happily." Herriges thinks the budding ilama industry will continue to flourish. "Llamas are aristocratic, clean, low-keyed, and gentle," she explains. Turning to an appealing baby llama named Harriet, she gives the clincher: "Just look at those eyes — that'll tell you why people get on wait-lists to buy them."

cast of the musical "A Chorus Line" in 1978, she wanted to establish credentials as a dramatic actress. She moved from New York to Los Angeles, where she has done television. movies and even produced some musical revues, yet here she is again, back starring in "Chorus Line."

What enticed McKechnie to return, she explained over luncheon with the press Monday at downtown Detroit's Caucus Club, was the opportunity to appear in the national company tour, which may be the last big tour for the show.

The musical is still playing on Broadway, but the show is now available for productions by theater groups throughout the country. This will probably be the final razzle-dazzle "Chorus Line," with a cast assembled that is as close to the original as possible. McKechnie explained that many of the cast members starred or understudied in the show on Broadway or in major productions of "Chorus Line" in other countries. Also featured in the cast for the first time is the show's co-author, Nicholas Dante.

McKechnie was equally attracted to this new "Chorus Line" because it allows her to repeat the role of Cassie (which won her a Tony award) and enforces her viewpoint that the touring show should be as good as she can help to make it.

THE TOUR BEGAN in June and keeps getting extended. It now runs through November. Performances in the Detroit area opened Tuesday night on the big outdoor stage of the Baldwin Pavilion on the Oakland University campus near Rochester. "Chorus Line" continues at Meadow Brook at 8 nightly through Saturday, plus a 2 p.m. matinee Saturday.

Longest-running show in Broadway history, the New York production is still playing on Broadway. McKechnie was one of the original Broadway "gypsies," or dancers, who got together with the show's originators to tell their stories that became a part of it on stage.

She laughed about appearing now in a "period piece" that opened in 1975! But she talked about one of the reasons for the show's phenonenal success. " 'Chorus Line' is about personal relationships. It will never date," McKechnie said.

Returning to "Chorus Line" wasn't easy, she said. "Dancers want to deny their physical limitations as long as they can. I wanted to be able to say, 'I really kept my dancing going.'

ELVIS PRESLEY impersonator Danny Vann, a Canton resident, used to avoid performing in August, the month the rock superstar died. Aug. 16 was the recent anniversary of Elvis' death in 1977.

"The year Elvis died I was afraid people would think I was an opportunist," said Vann, who stopped doing his shows during August for several years. He changed his mind, however. "I'm here as an Elvis fan. No one can replace him. Recently, I feel I can go out in August," he said of his performances that pay tribute to the King of Rock 'n' Roll.

Vann wil be appearing at a dinner show at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Wayne Ford Civic League Hall in Canton. Vann's band also will be there for the two shows, at 8 and 10 p.m. Dinner begins at 6:30 p.m. followed by the shows, each different and both included in the admission price with dinner. For ticket information, call 722-8180 or 898-6361.

Vann had a large turnout for his show Sunday at East Detroit Memorial Park in East Detroit. He expects 300-500 Elvis fans will come to dance to his band, the Selectmen, a fivepiece group, and to see his performance, in which he uses a guitar mostly as a prop.

"I don't use the guitar as much as I used too," he admitted. "It kind of slows down my dancing."

ONE OF THE things that makes Vann's show special is "I'm in the audience almost as much as I'm on stage." Women react strongly to his presence. In fact, they act kind of crazy, he said.

He also recalled: "One time in Saginaw I stepped off the stage and was immediately engulfed by the audience. It scared the living daylights out of me."

Born and raised in Bay City, the 32-year-old Vann grew up listening to Elvis' songs and watching his movies on television. "He was always my idol. I always wanted to be like Elvis," Vann said. He has been doing Elvis shows since Christmas 1968.

Vann is employed full time as a programmer analyst in management at the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. in Southfield. He's been married for 13 years and he and wife Dawne have two children, a boy, Troy, 7, and a daughter, Shannon, 4. They've lived in Canton for three years.

Six feet tall and weighing 175 pounds, Vann said that unlike many other Elvis impersonators, "I'm not overweight." He has a repertoire of, some 200 of Elvis' songs and in his show performs some of the numbers associated with the later part of the singer's career including a concert version of "Hurt" that Elvis did in the late '70s.

(R,W,G-5C)*7C

VANN'S ALL-TIME favorite Elvis song is "Can't Help Falling in Love With You," from the movie "Blue Hawaii."

A natural Elvis look-alike, he said, "The only thing I do to look more like Elvis is to wear a hairpiece. My hair's curly. But the sideburns are mine."

The entertainer has done shows twice in Las Vegas, at the Imperial Palace Hotel Casino and at the Frontier Hotel. He said he has been ranked among the best Elvis impersonators in the country, from among hundreds, in looks, stage presence and vocally. Vann thinks the real date Elvis fans should celebrate is Jan. 8, when the celebrity was born. "To me it's kind of morbid for so much activity in August," he said. When Vann per-forms in August, "The way I explain it is, we celebrate Elvis's life in the things he gave us."

Tasting, sharing bring pleasure

Learning about wine is, blessed'y, a never-ending mission. Whether it be facts about grape growing, taste preferences, its history, its serving, viniculture, marketing ... it is all a complexx mosaic of knowledge, taste, values and sensitivity that can be subsumed under the rubric "wine appreciation."

The facts and information are, of course, the easiest for the learner to acquire. For the price of a few sound bottles of burgundy or riesling, one can acquire several well-written and informative books by such notable authors as Hugh Johnson, Maynard Amerine or Leon Adams.

Their authoring efforts provide endless hours and days of beneficial study. The topic in general is well served in its literature. And there are magazines, journals and periodical reviews published by societies and individuals that are extremely informative.

But learning the facts of wine, its geography, creation and attributes in no way helps an individual in that most important single component of wine enjoyment: drinking the stuff.

AND FOR THAT, only experience will do. To develop a set of values, to know why a wine is as good as it is, to have a benchmark for evaluation, all this requires a fair amount of consumption. (Such a burden!)

But there's a caveat here. Drinking alone, not gaining the perspective of others, not sharing observations about a wine's attributes, can be extremely insular. There may or may not be a personal danger in drinking alone (there is that 12 percent alcohol to take into consideration always), there certainly is an intellectual component in wine that benefits from discussion with others, from shared observations.

Whether a wine is liked or not is only part of the issue; whether it is well made and representative of its origins is also important. A wine can be considered and described without necessarily being liked especially.

What do you like about a wine? What are its weaknesses? How could it be improved? What does it lack? With what food would it best go? Does it stand well alone? What about its color, texture, acidity, balance? These questions can best be addressed through discussion with others equally serious about wine. They may "know" more or less than you do about wine, but all can discuss its components and joy to some extent, thereby learning from others as one increases one's own knowledge and broadened experiential base.

Probably the best way to find others

who share interests and enthusiasms of this kind is to join a group of people who drink wine together regularly. One of the benefits we in the Detroit area have, an artifact of our size and relative sophistication, is that there are several such groups who assemble regularly to assay wine.

MOST OF THESE groups offer wellchosen, usually reasonably affordable, comparable selections. By joining with others one can usually sample six to 10 wines an evening and at the cost of a single bottle, thereby quickly broadening one's scope. A wine can be sampled and discussed over an ounce or two of it; one isn't obligated to drink all 25 ounces in the bottle to learn.

And there are the occasional functions, no more than half a dozen a year around here, by two local wine merchants - the Red Wagon and the Merchant of Vino - and one tasting group, the Winetasters - where 50 to 100 wines are made available in a single evening for patron sampling.

These events, however, tend to have a carnival atmosphere that serves a purpose but is not very conducive to critical discussion and evaluation.

Most prominent locally are the efforts of the several chapters of Les Amis du Vin. Participation in tastings is, for the most part, not restricted to members (though members do receive an excellent magazine with membership). The only trick is to get on the mailing lists.

Most significant for Observer & Eccentric readers are the Greater Detroit Chapter, which tends to assemble most frequently in the Dearborn area (call Roger Faust, 335-5139) and the Oakland Chapter, run out of the Beverage Warehouse (644-2155). In addition, the east side of Detroit is served by Gibbs' excellent wine store on Gratiot, and the Washtenaw County group is centered at the Village Corner in Ann Arbor (601 S. Forest 48104).

The only regularly meeting, nonaffiliated group in metropolitan Detroit is the Oakland County group called the Winetasters. Clearly the most expensive one usually, it offers good value. Contact Dennis Walsh, 852-9307, for details

"The Sting" (1973), 8 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 7. Originally 129 minutes. TV time slot: 165 minutes.

Here's a near-perfect movie, complete with wonderful performances, great characterizations, toe-tapping music and maybe only one plot twist too many. But that's nitpicking. Director George Roy Hill is reunited with his Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid (Paul Newman and Robert Redford) in this fast-paced, funny, heart-warming revenge caper. Newman and Redford are marvelous together and a fine supporting cast - including Robert Shaw, Harold Gould, Eileen Brennan and Charles Durning - adds plenty of flautes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

"Junior Bonner" is director Sam Peckinpah's most relaxed, most poignant, most watchable movie. Steve McQueen - in one of the finer, more introverted performances that typified and distinguished the last decade of his career - stars as an aging, homecoming rodeo star. Robert Preston and Ida Lupino turn in equally vivid performances as his wind-swept, middle-American parents. Ben Johnson and Barbara Leigh co-stars. Rating: $3.30.

"The Amazing Howard Hughes" (1977), in two parts at 2:30 Tuesday and Wednesday nights on Ch. 4. Originally 215 minutes. TV time slot: 240 minutes.

Tommy Lee Jones' understated por-trayal of Howard Hughes is disappointing, but there's enough going on on the fringes of this made-for-TV movie to keep it somewhat interesting. One of those sidelights is Tovah Feldshuh's portrayal of Katharine Hepburn, a onetime love of H.H. Of course the movie's too long for its own good but worth tuning in for curiosity sake on one night or the other.

Rating: $2.50.

"Rio Lobo" (1970), 8 p.m. Wednesday on Ch. 50. Originally 114 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

"Rio Lobo" is another in a series of macho John Wayne movies directed by Howard Hawks. Macho is the key word, because these works - all westerns are men's movies in the worst sense of the term. Women are used only as set decoration (Joanne Dru in "Red River." Angie Dickinson in "Rio Bravo" and Jennifer O'Neill in "Rio Lobo"). They're miscast, misdirected and terribly out of place in Hawks' world, where men gotta be men and do things that Ernest Hemingway would be proud of. Later directors would do away with obligatory love interests and make better men's movies ("The Sting," for instance). But in Hawks' day, love interests were a necessity, and he made the least of them.

IN A UNIFORMLY good cast, special kudos goes to Melinda Buckley as Val for her comedy number about the girl who dances like a "10" and looks like a "3." It's good stuff.

Michael Gorman as bby is one of those funtypes. I suspect at least he should.

The one memorable song from the show. "What I Did For Love," is touchingly performed by Lisa Leguillou. She plays the spirited Diana as sort of a latter-day Rita Moreno

The show's finale is a big production number, complete with gold suits - testimony to the fact that every attempt is made to give this produc-tion of "A Chorus Line" the authenticity of the original New York show.

Lighting, costumes and choreography are all first rate. The music is taped, a minor drawback, thanks to a sound system that gives the sense of a live performance. In fact, most everything about "A Chorus Line" is lively and tastefully done.

Podium debut Plymouth Symphony invites 1st woman to lead yule concert

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

N SUNDAY, Dec. 15, Carolyn Eynon of Birmingham will pick up her baton, the members of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will be poised and at her downbeat the concert will begin. No, Eynon hasn't wanted to be an orchestra conductor all of her life - only for about the last 15 years. She's been conducting instrumental and choral groups in the metropolitan area since 1970, but the Plymouth Symphony concert at Plymouth Canton High School will be her first time conducting a semiprofessional orchestra by invitation.

Appearing with the orchestra in the Christmas concert will be the Madrigal Chorale of Southfield, a 60-member group Eynon has been directing since 1978

"I love conducting," she said with an infectious smile. "You're the instigator for all the sound. I never dreamt I was gonna be a conductor when I went to college. I was a major in piano performance. Choral conducting was a required course. I never knew I could do it until then. I love it."

The chorale will give five major concerts in the coming season, each different in content - Prudential Town Center's "Concert in the Garden" series, Nov. 24; Old St. Mary's Church, Greektown, Dec. 14; Plymouth Canton High School, Dec. 15; Shaarey Zedek Synagog, March 11; and Christ Church Cranbrook, April 27.

EYNON said the concert with the Plymouth Symphony is special because "It's the first time the Plymouth orchestra has hired a female conductor.

They really went out to hire a female conductor and they called me. When I got that phone call, I couldn't believe it. I sent them a video. I have videos of all my concerts and that was it."

Not only was she told she could do the program herself, but she also convinced them they should have the Madrigal Chorale on the program which will include Respighi's "Laud to the Nativity," portions of the "Messiah," and a sing-along.

"It's very special for us to be there," she said. "I'm really geared to music for all ages. I'm always concerned with reaching out to everybody."

A pre-doctoral candidate in conducting at U-M, Eynon said she has all of her classwork done for the degree, "But right now I'm on hold. When my little one's in school, I hope to finish it."

When she took over the Madrigal Chorale, which will be 71 years old this year, it was the Madrigal Club of Detroit and had 18 female members peri-

The word "club" in the name bothered her, so it was changed to chorale and the city of Southfield agreed to become a sponsor.

"In 1981 we went coed, there is so much more in the repertoire for men's and women's voices.

The chorale now runs between 50 and 60 voices.

"I'd like to keep it at 50 experienced, qualified singers," said Eynon, explaining that singers get new jobs, move away or run into other responsibilities, so she likes to have a few more than her minimum 50.

"It's a challenge to keep a real coherent sound."

EXPLAINING that the chorale rehearses 7:30-9:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Eynon said, "I find that, as an individual, it's important to be very up for rehearsals and to be very well organized. I have a lesson plan for every week. Music people are doers. They like group activity, they like team spirit and everyone in the chorale is extremely busy. It attracts outgoing, disciplined people, so I'm not going to waste their time.

"We have families — husbands, wives and children. We have members from Garden City, Northville, Novi, three from Grosse Pointe, one lady who drives in from Howell and 10 from Birmingham.

"And I'm always recruiting," Eynon said, "always looking for that wonderful tenor, that wonderful bass-baritone.

Eynon is an attractive, joyful person who can easily generate a high level of enthusiasm whether she's simply talking about her work or is on the podium conducting a chorus or an orchestra.

Each concert on the upcoming schedule has something special going for it.

The holiday concert on Saturday, Dec. 14, in Greektown in always a sellout, said Eynon. The March 11 concert at Shaarey Zedek Synagog will be the first with all Jewish composers. One of the selections on that program will be Leonard Bernstein's "Chichester Psalm.'

The Christ Church Cranbrook concert on April 27 will be a tribute to Leonard Bernstein.

Eynon's extensive background in music and choral work has brought her many satisfactions and taken her to many different countries. Still, the performance at Plymouth Canton High School on Sunday, Dec. 15, promises to be one of the most exciting in terms of challenges and gratification.

Appearing with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra in the Christmas concert will be the Madrigal Chorale of Southfield, a 60-member group Eynon has been directing since 1978. The program will include Respighi's "Laud to the Nativity," portions of the "Messiah," and a sing-along.

The San Francisco Ballet delivered a conventional, well-received program Saturday night at Meadow Brook. The Detroit Symphony Orchestra accompanied.

The pavilion and lawn were packed with spectators, for the short, ordinary production. Performances were flawless, yet the spark of something new, exciting and memorable was missing.

This was a standard evening of ballet. It was riskless - a predictable sure-hit in a metropolitan area lacking its own resident classical ballet company, a would-be contributor to the classical dance form.

"I had no narrative idea for the work, only wishing to have the dancers complement the music as best I could," wrote choreographer Geroge Balanchine in the program.

Mission accomplished. The dancers did, indeed, complement the melodic, declarative music. Of special interest was lead dancer, Alexander Topciy, whose charm and masculine energy sparked the brisk, light movements of the whole troupe. The 20-minute piece was pleasing and poetic. Birds chirping added a nice touch to the outdoor, pre-dusk setting.

The crowd's attention was easily transferred to the program's second piece, "Norwegian Moods," 1976.

The dance dialogue between Cynthia Drayer and Julian Montainer was light and tender, creating the kind of mood that causes adults to smile, as if watching two well-behaved children playing nicely together. Their sweet smiles were as magnetic as their perfect movements.

The first of two 20-minute intermis-

THE first, second and fourth movements were delivered. Piano soloist Roy Bogas's skillfull fingering added much to the rendition.

Cloned singlet costumes added an interesting androgynist theme to the piece and solists Nancy Dickson, Simon Dow, Laurie Cowden and Russell Murphy were versatile and in control of their movements, as well as the audience.

The concluding "Western Sympho-ny," 1954, was lackluster, cute and more festive and showy than the previ-

The majority seemed like balletic square dance steps. This piece was a pageant of forceless fun.

Hip-swaying and shaking by the female leads elicited small giggles from members of the audience. Many dancers were included in this piece and the score included many recognizable western tunes.

This was an enjoyable evening of ballet and music that appealed to a wide range of viewers. Neither inspiring nor revolutionary, the company and orchestra received three curtain calls and thunderous applause throughout the evening.

You probably didn't know this, but I am a great cook . . . outdoors, that is. Inside I can't even boil an egg, but outside on an open grill, I'm . . . I'm Hey, I can roast a hot dog with the best of em. Sandy thinks I'm a terrific outdoor chef, but really with enough seasoned tenderizer and a couple quarts of barbeque sauce, anybody could be just as good, almost.

Of course I must admit, my wife's barbeque sauce helps. She makes it with grape jelly and you've never tasted anything so good. Ummm . . .

artifacts

Anyway, to reward my culinary process, Sandy bought me the top of the line, Golden Classic, double burner, auto start, side and front tray, gas grill complete with window and fuel gage. This grill has everything but a wash and rinse cycle, and I love it. But, you wouldn't believe the assembly instructions for this baby.

I spent two days looking for parts like the "venturi support brace screw 'c' " which was further clarified as a "pan head standard sheet metal screw one and three eights long, coarse thread." You know I'm not sure I ever did find that screw.

AFTER TWO days of slowly reading aloud to myself I did it. A couple weeks later, I got an urgent call at the art store from my wife, Sandy. "Honey your grill just caught on fire." "How can a grill catch on fire?" I asked in amazement

Well, later when I got home, I was on the horn to the store. The manager said, "That must be defective, just return it, and we'll give you a new one."

I guess I was so relieved about getting a new replacement that I forgot about the job ahead of me.

Still smiling, I ripped open the box and out flew the instruction booklet, and believe it or not, it opened to "venturi support brace 'c' pan head standard" "Oh no," I gasped. What's wrong?" Sandy asked, thinking it was the wrong grill. "I gotta put this thing together again."

Every time I try to explain a casting technique for sculpture, I get the feeling I'm talking you in circles just like the sadist who wrote the instruction manual for my grill.

SO HERE we go. I want to relate to you my favorite method of casting sculpture which is the making of a rubber mold. For this technique you need liquid rubber ($4.50 a half pint) molding plaster ($2.50 five pounds) and hydrostone ($3.50 five pounds). The liquid rubber technique is fast, easy and the only way to produce many copies or castings from one or-ginal. The original can be soft clay, baked ceramic, wood, metal or just about anything you want to copy.

Another good feature about liquid rubber is that it will not karm your original piece. For a mold of a simple kpiece imagine a detailed clay sculpture of a dog's head and neck.

Don't worry about the rubber's ability to cast details as it will clearly cast even a thumbprint left on the clay. First of all, with a throwaway brush, lightly apply a thin coating of rubber forcefully blowing out any air bubbles

The first coat will dry in about 20 minutes. Then apply the second coat a little thicker allowing an hour or two drying time.

The color is your cue to when it is dry. The wet rubber is bright pink and as it dries it turns deep red. Apply at least four coats letting each dry thoroughly.

NOW BEFORE you pull the mold from off the original, mix up the moulding plaster and make a onetwo- or three-piece mold around the rubber mold. Without this support mold, the rubber mold will balloon out when you pour casting plaster into it.

The support mold only takes about 15 minutes to make and is well worth the effort. On a simple shape, as our example, you can merely stick the empty rubber mold in sand for support if the support mold step seems too involved.

Now with your support mold fin-ished, separate the halves and peel the rubber from off the original. Let the mold turn inside out as you pull it from off of the original (kind of like pulling off a sock) next return the rubber mold so that it is a perfect negative of the original. Place the support mold around it and turn it upside down, so that the base of the mold is facing up.

Now mix your hydrostone to a heavy cream consistency and slowly pour the mixture into the negative space of the rubber mold. Hit, shake or vibrate the mold to loosen any air bubbles that might form against the rubber mold surface. Hydrostone will not stick to the rubber mold and in only 18 minutes, it is almost at a ceramic harness.

HERE'S the fun part: When the hydrostone is hard, separate the support mold and peel the rubber from off of the now perfect copy of the original. Best of all you can repeat this casting over and over, creating dozens of perfect copies of one original from only one rubber mold.

You'll love making molds with liq-You'll love making molds with inq-uid rubber, You may even catch your-self walking around the house looking for things to duplicate three dimen-sionally. Castings with hydrostone is fast, easy and permanent. This tech-nique works so good I bet I could cast a perfect replice of a "venturi sup-nert hrace areaw 'c' may heed stapport brace screw 'c' pan head sta dard. . ."

Singer's voice lifted to boost opera students

By Shirles Rose Iden staff writer

Marjorie Gordon has always believed that music is in her genes.

remember and had music lessons since Life Insurance Co. infancy," says the noted artist, a member of one of the world's largest musical families.

To date, the lyric coluraturo soprano has logged an enviable track record of in opera, orchestral concerts, chamber music concerts, solo recital, theater, television, and radio, and she's still running.

With 40 major operatic roles in her repertoire, she has operated by the maxim: love music; have voice, will travel. Married to violist-conductor Nathan Gordon, she has traveled with him to many parts of the world, usually on music business.

Gordon, who describes herself as "New York born, bred and buttered" came to Michigan as a "husband follower" when Paul Paray of the Detroit Symphony hired her husband as first violist.

Both Gordons have made themselves part of the metropolitan cultural community. He founded the Dearborn Symphony, conducted the Woman's Symphony and she started Detroit Opera Theatre.

"TODAY this has evolved into the Piccolo Opera Theatre, but it was the very first professional opera company here," she says. "Now we are invited to become Southfield's resident opera company. And we have the Piccolo Regional Opera Society (PROS) started to encourage opera growth."

You can't live in a desert of culture and there's no need to, either. We have so much talent here."

Mining the talent is quite important to Gordon as is giving opera talent the opportunity to perform. Presently, she is involved with promoting a vocal eved that music is in her genes. competition being sponsored by the "I wanted to sing as long as I can city of Southfield and the Maccabees

The new competition, part of Maccabees' "Quest for Excellence" program, is open to vocalists in Oakland, Wayne, Washtenaw, Macomb, St. Clair, Livingston, Ingham and Monroe counties, flawless musicianship and versatility according to Maccabees vice president of communications Vincent Mercer.

Maccabees will award three grand prizes toward educational expenses of $3,000, $2,000, and $1,000. Cost of the competition are being underwritten by Maccabees with additional funds raised by PROS.

APPLICATIONS will be taken until Oct. 25 with a preliminary selection due Nov. 23-24. "In January we will select three groups of nine vocalists, then narrow it to nine finalists and the three winners," says Gordon.

We hope to give the singers opportunities to perform in the area. Piccolo Opera is already internationally known and the Mid-Michigan Opera Company is planning an opera showcase."

Gordon says the vocal competition participants must live in the eight county area, be American citizens, have recommendations from two professional musicians and be prepared to sing five operatic arias in four languages.

Applicants must also supply a cassette or reel-to-reel tape of 15 minutes or less duration with the application, copy of birth certificate, and a $10 check or money order as entry fee.

Those wishing to compete should obtain their application in person from the Cultural Arts Division of the Parks and Recreation Department at the Civ-

"We want to keep the competition simple for now," says Gordon. "We expect many different levels of competency."

PRESENTLY PROS is asking for contributions to help fund the competition as well as opera programming. "We have different categories of contributors such as the Caruso Circle, the Pinza Circle and the Callas Circle," she explained. These contributions should also be sent to the Civic Center address.

Arts, a center proposed for Southfield, says administrative duties have been keeping her busy. She has been an adjunct professor of music at Wayne State University since 1961.

Despite the fact her family are all musicians, they encouraged her to study in another field to make a living. "I decided to try dress designing and started Hunter College (New York) at age 14 as an art major.

"I had a minor in math and couldn't even add two and two, so I changed to Biology with a natural science major. I've used every bit of this education. On the musical side, her learning began "in fancy with piano lessons at age 5." But Gordon always knew she wanted to sing. "My mom took me to the piano teacher at 5 and I was asked 'What do you want to do?' and I said sing."

At 17 she began vocal training, later making her debut with the New York Philharmonic.

"MY UNCLE was Mischa Mishakoff and one time I was visiting him and his bride as a quartet was rehearsing. I noticed a dark-haired man and it was mutual." From "noticing" grew courtship and

Marjorie Gordon and Nathan Gordon were later married. They have a grown son and daughter and one grandson.

Part of her full calendar is her schedule of teaching at home. "I have students who have sung all over the civilized world in opera and jazz performance." she says.

Maria Ewing of the Met came to me at age 16 and I got her scholarships from the Music Study Club and Cranbrook. She later married Sir Peter Hall. Singing students come to you as adults, so they come and go. "It's like having children all over the place."

Ideal choices are the sweater with a skirt or pant, a mix of paisley, woven pastels, the exciting return of tapestry, black suede or a blazer and skirt.

An entire new generation is falling for sophisticated, yet understated, looks updated from the '50s and '60s to give the '80s their own special appearance. Few would equate film director sans pareil Alfred Hitchcock with being the epitome of sophisticated fashion; but the frumpy, obese and brilliant film maker's choices of leading lady - Tippy Hedren in "The Birds" and Princess Grace in "Rear Window" - were personifi- or wool wrap coats. Leather, too, makes a

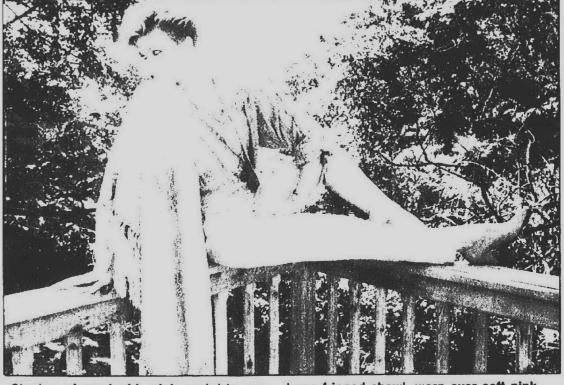

The cashmere sweater set, its jacket sweater tossed casually around the shoulders or wrapped at the hip, tops long, slim skirts or pants. The polo coat, longer by far and lean as ever, is back for good.

CLOTHING COLLECTORS have scoured clean vintage clothing emporium collections of the classic Hermes scarf in brilliant, precision patterns, and Liberty squares so distinctive in vibrant paisleys. Wear them wrapped around the head or tucked in the neckline of lush, luxurious fur wraps. Many styles are pared down versions of styles first introduced in classic Hitchcock films.

Anything reminiscent of Chanel, from Tshirts to jodhpurs, sweaters and hats to the little black dress, which is longer this year, embody the look of the '80s. Perhaps they represent a visual repudiation of the voluminous, layered looks that may prove to be Japan's biggest, and possibly only, export flop of the decade.

You are looking for sporty glamour this fall, a casual, elegant, in-the-know way of dressing that shouts its own message cool confidence.

Brilliant thinking Color shapes a fall palette will hold a gamut of shades, from the palest tone pastels to vivid brights taken right off an Impressionist palette.

Daring are the Daliesque shades of chartreuse, lemon yellow and black when played off against contrasting backgrounds. Look for sophisticated dark-toned coats to peel back in the cool breeze to reveal brilliant linings and contrasting pattern on pattern sweater outfits that range to the outer limits of the rainbow.

Nighttime goes brilliant, too, from darkest dark to fabulous jewel tones. You'll be hard pressed to choose just one of the extravagant, beaded, abovethe-hip jackets. Faux jewels at the wrist, throat and lapel, the bigger the better, also cover the spectrum of the rainbow. Pearls, pearls and more pearls, embroidered on clothes and draped around the throat, are as important as big, jeweled cuffs at the

WE THINK one of the most dazzling design spectrums of the season is Sonya Rykiel's wool and angora sweatering. Figured with rhinestone amulets and gold bead trim, the shapes are now, the ambiance pure Imperial Russia and its czarist cossack regiments.

Rykiel represents the best of the international pastel collections while Bette Appel showed us that some of the truest and best brights come from Bloomfield Hills. Appel's "silkies" in Chanel gains new relevance this season with a palette of color that great house hasn't achieved in years. Once the territory of elegant but conservative matrons and young anti-establishement types who scoured vintage clothing stores for their suits, bags and accessories, Chanel comes roaring back with an entire new spectrum of brights patterned on the traditional Chanel but treated to new sophistication through the use of color.

FOR DAYTIME and evening, metallics, paisleys, tapestries and brocades are shaped in deep, deep tones and the brightest hues, corraled by master craftsmen into designs suitable for the office, dinner and theater.

Feet sparkle with color this season, with the best color treatments bringing newness to boots, shoes and evening flats. Paisleys, tapestries, jewel tone leathers are all worth consideration. The appearances we like the most are both elegant and comfortable, which is no mean trick.

Throats and ears will sparkle with accessories and ornamentation. The simplicity of the turtleneck will become something special when complemented by a collar of old gold beads.

The shapes and colorations of the season are luxe, winking out a message that says "I am rich" as lights dance on this brilliant palette of colors.

Fall Fashion

One of the season's great coats, bold shapes in white, black and sable, $1,000. By Castelbajac. Roz & Sherm.

Coat shapes worth warming to

HERE IS an entire new segment of American women who are going to fall in love with cooler weather this year. These are the women we call serious coat collectors. The coats in store for them this fall are strong shouldered, mostly narrow in shape, sometimes full-skirted, and almost always very feminine. And they come in a most exclusive variety of fabrics and furs:

The big wonderful looks include bold versions of the classic polo or camel's hair coat that sweep below the calf. Richer and grander versions of the narrow dress coat are layered with luxurious fur icing that sweeps about the upper torso to provide the deepest collaring in years. Reminiscent of Edwardian England, imperial Russia and the Raj, paisleys frankly emulate lengthened versions of the smoking jacket. Daytime and evening tapestry wrap coats are detailed with deep collaring and festoons of silk cording. Opulence is everywhere.

WHETHER HIP-length, 7/8-length, or cut off at the ankle, the elegant Chesterfield steps out in new brights with shiny gold buttons, or it smolders in deep shades that invite smokey paisley accessories. The season's emphasis on texture and design is a point not lost on the fur industry, which has been shearing up for its own imaginative interpretations of the enriched look. Fur coats emphasize the attention to shape and proportion that has gone into dresses, suits, pants and evening wear.

Like their wool contemporaries furs sweep to the ankle, rest at ease at the 7/8-length, brush the top of the leg just below above-the-knee skirt lengths. The styles are so versatile and fun they are equally at home over narrow skirts, pants and dresses for daytime and simply fantastic over the nighttime dazzlers.

Two of the versatile shapes for fall include the navy double-breasted military coat, $480, is by Perry Ellis. Hudson's. The black and blue, rib knit trim coat, $315, is by Christine Albers. Bonwit Teller.
