Ice fest to have world's best carv

Plymouth will "fine-tune" its ice spectacular this year with the help of expert Japanese carvers who will be flown in specifically for the event. Last year, 300,000 people visited the spectacular and the same number is expected this year.

Plymouth streets and Kellogg Park will feature 400 of the ice carvings. There also will be special dinners and shows associated with the spectacular. "In Sapporo, we met Japanese chefs who were ice carvers. The Japanese are considered the best ice carvers in the world. They have been, for the past 25-30 years or so," said Scott Lorenz, general manager of the Mayflower Hotel which again will serve as "ice central" for the spectacular.

"The Japanese have fine-tuned their From Thursday through Jan. 19, art," said Lorenz, who with City Manager Henry Graper is co-chairman of the event.

Among the six Japanese guests visiting will be: Kelichi Oshio of Asahigawa. the chef who was All-Japan Ice Sculpture champion in 1981; Haruo Niiyama of Sapporo, chef; Akira Ogura of Sapporo, chef; Tetsuo Yamanaka of Sapporo, chef, director of the Sapporo All-Japan Ice Sculpture Association, director of the All-Japan Cook Association and a member of Escoffier, France; Kuniyasu Ota of Sapporo, chef and 1983 gold medal winner in the World Cooking Contest; and Mitsuyuki Koya of Sapporo, chef and the 1984 All-Japan Ice Sculpture champion.

THESE PRIZE-WINNING Japanese chefs not only will carve for the Plymouth Ice Spectacular but also will cook a special dinner at the Mayflower Ho-

They will bring special ice-carving tools from Japan for use by the carvers. The specialized tools are not available in the United States.

The ice spectacular begins with 200, 400-pound blocks of ice in the Midwest Ice Company warehouse, Detroit. The carvers will complete their work there and then the carvings will be transported in freezer trucks, with police escort to Plymouth Wednesday evening.

"Historically, the temperature has been below freezing," said Lorenz. "But even if the temperature goes up to 40 or so, it would require days for the sculptures to thaw. Of course, the sun could melt them, too. But the sun only makes them glisten and that small amount of melting actually just fills in the cracks in the ice.

Shackled court escapee found

A man who escaped from a detention cell in 35th District Court in Plymouth last Thursday while awaiting trial was arrested at the home of an acquaintance in Livonia about nine hours after he fled, a Michigan State Police spokesman said.

Dennis Robert Lucey, 21, was arrested about 7:45 p.m. after a tip was received on his whereabouts, said state police Sgt. Wayne Bullen. Troopers Gregory Matfey and Michael Lewis, as well as Livonia Police, assisted in apprehending Lucey.

Lucey, who wasn't armed, didn't resist arrest, Bullen said. The shackles with which he had been bound prior to his escape had been removed with bolt cutters, Bullen added.

Lucey had been brought to the district court at Plymouth and Haggerty from Jackson Prison to stand trial on charges he assaulted another inmate at the Phoenix Correctional Facility in Northville Township.

following the alleged assault.

Lucey had been left in a detention ed cell in the 35th District Court building with another prisoner, said George R. was secured by a steel door with a small plexiglass window.

Bullen said Lucey was picked up by an acquaintance - who indicated he just happened upon the scene - shortly after leaving the building.

LUCEY ALLEGEDLY kicked in the window, Wiland said, slipped out and walked along a short corridor to freedom via another door which hadn't been properly secured.

The other prisoner remained in the detention cell, Wiland said.

Wiland said Lucey's escape was the first from a detention cell at the district court since the building was opened in 1981.

'There was an oversight on the part of a police officer who failed to secure the door that would have prevented the escape," Wiland said. "If that door had been secure, he would not have been able to get out."

A spokeswoman for the township police said several persons phoned to inquire about the helicopters and tracking dogs in the area.

Several groups of sledders in Hines Park were informed about the escape, said Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers.

William Overton, deputy warden at Phoenix, said he was reviewing the reports of corrections officers who accompanied Lucey to court to determine whether any policies were violated.

Lucey allegedly tore up a jail cell and bit an officer when he was taken to the Plymouth city lock-up following his capture, Myers said.

More charges may be lodged against Lucey following the unsuccessful es-Wiland declined to identify the off- cape attempt, Bullen said.

Some city of Plymouth residents have been under the impression that under city codes no building could be built higher than two stories.

When a proposed apartment building at Wing and Harvey was denied, some felt it was because of the mythical two-story rule. When Jack Wilcox announced his plans to build condos at the point of Kellogg Park, word went around town that the city's building codes would not permit the six-story struclure.

However, that is not the case.

IT WAS POINTED out that the Village Green apartments in the rear of the Farmer Jack store on South Main are more than two stories.

A check with city hall showed the city has no ordinance limiting the height of a building. Instead the height of a building is determined by its distance from the lot line or turnround to the building.

The drawings of the Wilcox project, which the planning commission will consider Wednesday evening, reveal that the distance from the proposed condo building to the turn-around or the lot line is 71 feet.

Under the guideline the height of the building can be one and one-half times this distance, which means the proposed condos can be 11/2 x 71 feet or 96 feet.

According to City Engineer Ken West the Wilcox condos can rise to the height of 96 feet or eight stories. The plans call for six stories, so the height is OK.

THE PLAN also calls for a certain amount of parking.

The new condos on Union, opposite the Masonic Temple, will be closed in with a wall. Each tenant will be given keys to be used to enter the underground parking area.

On the Elizabeth Street side of the project, there will be a parking lot for a number of cars. All told there will be 96 parking spaces for the condos, which will be for 44 tenants.

Heads of government foresee upbeat year

By Doug Funke staff writer

Plymouth merchants will enjoy a prosperous 1986 and residents will continue to receive services they've come to expect from municipal and township government if forecasts made by local officials come to fruition.

And all at no increase in property taxes, according to projections.

Both Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper and Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen were upbeat recently as they pulled out their crystal balls for a look at the year ahead.

"As far as construction is concerned," Graper said, "I would project $10-20 million of development. The image of the community is it's still growing - revitalizing itself on a daily ba-Sis.

"We'll see growth, slow but steady, in terms of residential," said Breen, adding that he expects to see housing starts increase 21/2-5 percent this year as in years past.

The township has about 7,500 housing units and a population of 26,000 spread over 16 square miles, Breen added.

"WE'VE HEARD rumors of significant commercial development being ship want to be left alone. requested out here," he said. "That's one of those things that where there's smoke, there's fire, but I have no specific comment to make."

Development can benefit a community in several ways.

"I think any time you see a town that's growing and has good vital signs, it has a great impact on the value of houses in the community," Graper said. "Development means a stabilizing or perhaps lowering of taxes."

That effect, he said, takes a couple of years to materialize.

A Plymouth city resident might believe there isn't much room for growth in an older community of 2.2 square miles with about 3,300 housing units and a population of 10,000.

That isn't necessarily so.

Graper cited as evidence of a city on the move plans to build condominiums on the Clarence Moore Farm and on the Jack Wilcox property, an addition to the Adistra Corp. on Union, and feelers on the Western Electric building on Sheldon.

Township and city residents seem to have different expectations from local government.

It's almost as if people in the town-

"I DON'T think we try to be intrusive," Breen said. "It's placid. I don't think there's a lot of upheaval. Basic services are being provided and will continue to be provided.

"I don't think we have any great plans to do anything. I don't anticipate capital improvement projects of any magnitude."

Building blocks were put into place last year with the establishment of a township police department, construction of a police station and passage of a millage to fund police and fire operations

This year, it will be a matter of management, Breen said.

Plymouth city residents may be a bit more demanding and more community-oriented, perhaps because of the compact nature of the city.

"We provide a high degree of service. They expect it to be excellent," Graper said. "I think the average homeowner enjoys the image created by government. We have an outstanding image around the state - a city of festivals."

Graper said the city may conclude the remainder of its residential paving 1986 and '87.

"It went so smoothly last year and we feel the bond market is very good. Now is the time to go into it."

Property owners whose streets are improved will pay off the bonds through special assessments.

An addition also is planned for the DPW building to be funded by the sale of property at the DPW yard, Graper

BOTH GRAPER and Breen said they don't foresee a tax increase this year.

Property in the city is taxed at a rate of $18.71 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation (half of market value). The township tax rate is $5.36 per $1,000.

Police and fire contracts expire this year in the city, fire in the township. Both Breen and Graper said they anticlpate tough negotiations.

"From what I see on the horizon, I don't think there's much more we can give," Graper said.

City negotiators would probably try to look at saving tax dollars on fringe benefits if public safety employees insist on large wage increases. We've got X-amount of dollars to program this year rather than over work with and we don't intend to go out and ask for more," Breen said. "We know we can't meet their demands. It may end up in arbitration. We've been there before."

> Graper also recognized the possibility of going to binding arbitration and, therefore, the need to present a legitimate contract proposal.

A good national economy should help both communities.

"If the economy keeps up the way it's been moving, it should definitely aid us with the specialty shops down-town," Graper said. "I think Plymouth has always had a bit of glamor to it. I think it's something we're all proud of and it's something we've worked hard at to maintain."

THE TOWNSHIP'S semi-rural atmosphere still proves attractive, Breen said.

So, too, does its proximity to the city of Plymouth's central business district and many special events.

"They like the fact they can live in the township and have a quaint little city in the middle and not have to pay as high taxes," Breen said of township residents.

2 police cars wrecked in ambulance chase

By Dennis Coffman staff writer

Two Plymouth Township police cars were demolished following the pursuit of a stolen ambulance which was driven down Main through Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Plymouth Police Chief Carl Berry said he intended to file a charge of assault with intent to commit great bodily harm less than murder against the man who drove off with the ambulance

The two patrol cars joined the Dec. 30 pursuit of the suspect, David G. Boretti, 31, of Southfield, after Boretti allegedly got into the Southfield Emergency Medical Services truck, which Mile and Prosper, Southfield - and drove off.

The Southfield Fire Department notified Southfield Police about 8:30 p.m. that the vehicle was missing. No force was used, apparently. in the takeover.

THE PURSUIT led police through Livonia, the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township and into Canton. By the time the procession reached downtown Plymouth, there were six jurisdictions involved.

"There were seven police cars in pursuit." said Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers. "Our aim at that point was to protect citizens from whatever crash or damage occurred."

Myers said his department sent two cars, but when officer saw the driver of was parked in the fire station at Nine the ambulance weaving recklessly the Plymouth patrol cars traveled adjacent to the ambulance to keep motorists from turning into the procession from one of the sidestreets.

"It did not make a whole lot of sense to join the procession when seven police cars already were involved," said Myers.

Boretti has been charged with the unlawful driving away of an automobile, according to Southfield Police spokesman Gary Conant. Boretti was arraigned Dec. 31 before 46th District Judge Norman Feder who set bond at $10,000.

Boretti will face a preliminary examination in 46th District Court Wednesday.

It still is unclear why the $45,000 ambulance was stolen, police said.

THE CHASE ended with a collision at Morton Taylor (Main extended) and Joy at the boundary between Canton and Plymouth townships.

At that location, the ambulance came to a halt after it struck a car driven by Janice Kuzinski, 33, of Can-Kuzinski was taken to Oakwood Hospital with a fractured right arm and later treated and released from Beaumont Hospital.

The ambulance was involved in two other accidents, one at Joy and Lilley and the other at Newburgh and Five Mile in Livonia.

The ambulance struck the car driven by Diana Bodner, 26, of Westland, in the Five Mile-Newburgh collision. Bodner sustained minor injuries and was not hospitalized.

The Canton man, 33, possibly driving under the influence of alcohol, struck the Plymouth Township patrol car as it chased the ambulance. The patrol car then careened into another car.

The second patrol car was damaged when the ambulance struck the car driven by Plymouth Township patrol officer Roger Neirynck on Morton Taylor south of Joy.

Plymouth Township police will seek to charge Boretti with assault with intent to commit great bodily harm less also was heavily damaged.

According to police, no resistence was offered by the suspect after the ambulance was brought to a stop. Plymouth Township police turned him over to Livonia Police who turned him over to Southfield Police.

Other charges may be brought against Boretti by other municipalities. but none was filed as of Friday. The destruction of the two Plymouth Township police vehicles was especial-ly costly because the cars are self-insured by the township.

According to Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry, both township cars involved in the chase were heavily damaged in the two collisions, but one may be repairable. The EMS vehicle

Robert Henry, city of Plymouth traffic safety officer, made the point last fall that drunk drivers are getting harder to find.

Three assaults were reported between 1:41 and 3:56 a.m., Snider said. One man was hit in the head with an ax, Snyder said, but apparently didn't sustain serious injury.

VE JOINT FLUID?

Normally the knee joint contains a small amount of fluid to provide frictionless contact between the bones during movement. Excess fluid occurs in reaction to joint injury or inflammation, and makes itself known by knee swelling and painful walking.

The extra fluid causes strain not only in the involved knee but on the other knee and both hips and ankles as walking is impaired. There is no way to know if the body will absorb this excess, but it is certain that the strain will continue as long as the extra fluid remains. Taking a "water pill" is not helpful, since the joint fluid is in its own compartment and is not influenced by water loss occuring elsewhere in the body.

Physicians want to aspirate - place a needle in the knee and remove the fluid with a syringe because no better way exists to relieve pain and improve joint function immediately. For the same reason, aspiration is the recommended treatment for excess fluid developing in the shoulder, elbow, hip, and ankle joints.

Know how to prevent fires

You can make every week fire prevention week, although the official one is the second week in October. Now is always an excellent time for a serious home security check.

Do you know the most effective fire prevention measure? Do you know the most effective fire escape procedures - in case you do have a fire? Five thousand people die each year in home fires. You and your family don't have to be included in those statistics. Here are some Fire Prevention Week hints from professionals.

• Fireplaces should be completely screened.

Don't go to bed expecting a fire to "burn out." Don't leave candles burning unattended. .

· Install a heat and smoke alarm in the immediate vicinity of all rooms and on each floor of the house, including the basement.

· Don't smoke in bed! Cigarettes cause close to one-third of all multiple deaths from home fires.

Here are some fire escape procedures: • Always sleep with the bedroom or hall door closed. Closed doors can keep flames out long enough for you to escape through a window.

Board set precedent on naming schools in 1949

(Part 25)

Until 1951, Plymouth had only three schools — Plymouth High, Central Grade and Starkweather.

Then between 1951 and 1978, in response to increasing population in the townships of Plymouth and Canton, 15 new schools were built within the Plymouth-Canton school system.

With the new schools came the matter of naming them. Even before the first of them was built, the policy of naming them in honor of outstanding teachers or administrators was set.

That was in 1949 when Donald Sutherland was president of the board and Helmer A. Nelson was superintendent of schools.

1N MARCH OF that year, voters had approved the borrowing of $1,350,000 for building two more elementary schools and a high school gymnasium building, remodeling existing buildings and acquiring additional sites.

At the board's September meeting, when Kenneth Hulsing was president, it was decided to name the first of the new elementary schools after George A. Smith.

Smith, the superintendent of schools with the longest tenure (1918-1945), was present at the dedication of the school at 1298 McKinley in 1951. He died later that year.

He was the first Rotary Club governor from this district, and was the Republican candidate for state representative a short time before his death. The first principal at Smith School was Ruth Eriksson who was later to have a school named after her.

The next elementary school was built in 1951, the year Russell Isbister succeeded Helmer Nelson as superintendent of schools. Located on the former Cooper property at the corner of Sheldon and Ann Arbor Trail, it was named after Nellie E. Bird.

Mrs. Bird, who served the school system for 33 years, had been principal 27 of them at Starkweather and Central Grade schools.

Before she died, at age 98 in the spring of 1980, Mrs. Bird told a reporter that her proudest accomplishment was earning a master's degree at the University of Michigan. "I worked 20 summers to get that degree," she explained.

The first principal at the Bird School was Nancy Tanger who had taught under Nellie Bird at Starkweather and had succeeded her as principal at Central Grade School.

THE NEW HIGH school gym and swimming pool were opened in 1952 on the former Al Smith property on Main Street. The Smith house was sold to Robert J. Jolliffe for $550 and removed from the property.

Prior to the opening of the gym. the school vacated the gym at the Methodist Church which it had been using for four years.

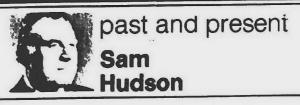

1952 also was the year in which old Central Grade School was converted to a junior high school (seventh and eighth grades) and placed under the supervison of Arthur Alford who had been working within the elementary grades. In the following year, when a new elementary school was opened at 11100 Haggerty Road, the board voted to name it after Edna M. Allen. She had taught in the system for 32 years.

She had arrived in Plymouth in 1918 as principal of the high school. After 10 years, a heart condition forced her to give up that position, but she continued to teach English until 1950. Thomas Workman was the first principal at Allen School.

Another elementary school was opened at 8375 N. Sheldon Road in Canton Township in the spring of 1956 when Carl Caplin was president of the school board. It was named in honor of James J.S. Gallimore.

Gallimore, who attended the dedica- a sports palace.

tion, was a member of the school board for 20 years and its president for several terms. When Henry Ford opened one of his "village industry" plants in Plymouth in 1923, Gallimore was its superintendent.

1956 ALSO WAS the year in which the board agreed to a request by attorney J. Rusling Cutler to declare the Kenyon School property abandoned with the understanding that it was to revert to the heirs of the original owner under the terms of the 1883 deed. After that, the Root family heirs sold the property to Cutler's parents, Mr. Plymouth Township.

Palace of sports will be no more

In all the glad tidings that were passed along during the holidays there was one sad note that caused The Stroller to try hard to swallow thelump in his throat.

It wasn't in the obituary column of the daily press. It wasn't given bold headlines nor any special place to attract attention.

But hidden away in one of the back pages was a short — very short — bit that brought the sad news that Olympia Stadium on Grand River was to be demolished and replaced with something better.

It seems that such a passing was hard to believe. But during the 50 years of its existance the Olymipia was the sports capital of the state and the best known building in the city.

IT WAS IN the late '20s that a group of wealthy persons who lived in the city decided that the time was ripe to build

Until then the old building on Woodward Avenue was all that was available for such sports as basketball, the fights and the automobile shows. It wasn't enough.

So the Olympia was built. And when it was finished and the doors were opened it was rated the best in the country. With this new building only a short hop from downtown, the real reason for its existence came with the surprise announcement that a franchise had been obtained in the National Hockey League. This also included a team in ' the top minor league.

Now hockey was a Canadian sport. It would be new to many Detroiters. But the group seemed to have an inside path and hired Jack Adams to take over the hockey end of the new enterprise. Jack had been a great player. He didn't waste any time getting on the job. He was a real taskmaster. And it wasn't long until the new place was filled.

THERE CAME A big question.

Few of the sports writers in the area knew much about hockey, except that it was played on ice.

That foisted a new job on Adams. He

Miss Farrand, who grew up on a farm on Ann Arbor Road, became a teacher after taking a six-week course in Ypsilanti and passing an examination. Her first job in Wallaceville earned her $8.75 a week. She had to pay $5 of that to the school director for room and board. In 1967, she told a reporter that she had to work 37 years to get her college degree.

In June 1961, when a second junior high school was under construction at 44441 W. Ann Arbor Trail, the board decided to call it Junior High West.

The earlier one on South Mill was renamed Junior High East. Later, the names were changed to East and West Middle schools.

not only had to teach the players but had to teach the writers, too.

So, one afternoon he invited The Stroller to a practice session. He had the team go through slow motion and Jack explained every move — not only how the puck was slapped around but he told the language that should be used.

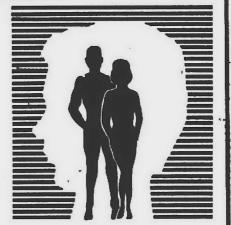

Every afternoon he had The Ströller out in the pressbox and it wasn't long until his name appeared before the hockey stories in the paper.

It was an unusual happening for the local sports writers, for it got us away from baseball, basketball, and fights and it made it interesting to learn-the sports of other countries.

All the while Adams' major league team was showing signs of greatness and it wasn't long until he had his team. good enough to win the Stanley Cup — the top award in the Canadian game.

And it was this victory that enabled Detroit to be called the City of Champions.

PLAYING THE GAME WITH FRENCH FLAIR

When mornings range from chilly to goosebumps, the hunt is on. Whether the game's afoot with feathered or furred creatures, it's time for golden hours in the countryside bagging great dinners. Hunting for the pot provides pleasure unknown to supermarket shoppers - field and table have a special mystique for those who follow the delights of the chase.

Since game is a rarity, prepare yours to best advantage-French style. In France they have wonderful ways with game; farmers and countryfolk have always been enthusiastic hunters. Rural France is dotted with hunting cottages, and many of the great châteaux of the Loire Valley, for instance, were built because of the hunting passions of kings. A great cuisine has evolved around venison, emerald-crowned mallard, pheasant -the "king of the feathered game"- and the like.

Not the least of their charms is that virtually no other food teams so marvelously with the bouquet and flavor of fine wine. The recipes that follow all do beautifully with red Hermitage from the Côtes du Rhône vineyards, full flavored, rich, smooth. or a velvety red from Burgundy's famous wine towns. And, since some of these recipes use white wine, serve the same wine with the meal - a dry, flinty Graves from Bordeaux, for example.

Wild duck is most unusual and absolutely delicious stuffed with couscous and served with green peppercorn sauce. Couscous is a wheat semolina relished in Morocco - and a favorite in southern France as well. It teams with pinenuts, currants and green peppercorns - the fresh zesty version of the familiar black or white dried spice. The ducks are basted with French white wine, enlivened with Dijon mustard, roasted, and flamed with Cognac, the world's finest brandy. Serve the ducks with their wine-and-green-peppercorn sauce, and there you have an incomparable duck dish.

If luck didn't serve you at the marsh, never mind-the supermarket can help with Long Island ducklings. You can still prepare them memorably with French white wine and French red currant preserves, the latter a classic game accompaniment.

Venison is always prize meat, and we offer a blue-ribbon version. The steaks are served with a deluxe sauce based on French chestnuts; the buttery, mellow taste of chestnuts especially successful with game. The great marrons of the world come from Privas, France, in the Ardèche region in central France, a gift of nature enjoyed by food fanciers since Roman times. The chestnuts go into a magnificent sauce of French red wine, minced French shallots, cream and Cognac.

As for pheasant, it comes to the table with onions, apples and cabbage. What lends the dish real pizzazz is its saucemade with French red wine, cassis and French red currant preserves. Cassis, the delectable syrup made from black currants, teams with the preserves for the fruity taste so traditional and pleasant with game.

These rich meats are generally served with simple salads, followed by cheese and fruit platters. We suggest a trio of cheeses: Pipo Crem', an unusual bleu that slices nicely; Tommes des Pyrénées, a satiny, tangy semisoft cheese from the Basque region; and Chaumes, a soft-ripened cheese with an orange rind and distinctive flavor and aroma.

There you have game meals fit for kings and princesqueens and princesses, too. Be assured that the royalty who hunted the fields and forests of France wouldn't have eaten better than your own guests when you have such splendid recipes.

Five-Way Cincinnati Chili tops plate of pasta

Garlic, seasonings add zing to basic ground beef mixture

Chili is a favorite from coast to coast. However, each region has its own distinct flavor and blend of ingredients. Cincinnati chili is the latest popular version among chili experts.

What make Cincinnati-style chill different from all the rest? The basic chili dish is actually quite similar. It's made with ground beef, tomatoes and spices including one or all of the following seasonings: cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg, ginger, allspice, cardamon and coriander. Some versions also include unsweetened chocolate and vinegar. The most unique feature of chili, however, is the way it's served over pasta and topped with various combinations of grated cheese, chopped onions or peppers, red kidney beans and oyster crackers.

The basic ingredient of the chili is ground beef. Ground beef is available in the supermarket in varying degrees of leanness from 70 to 90 percent lean. Any of these ground beef categories can be used in chili. However, since the beef is browned and the drippings are poured off before adding the other ingredients, the less expensive 70 to 75 percent lean ground beef is the best buy.

Cincinnati chili uses a variety of ingredient toppings in the three-way, four-way or five-way versions. Three-way Cincinnati Chili uses vermicelli topped with the chili mixture, chopped onions and grated cheese. And the Five-Way Cincinnati Chili includes everything - vermicelli topped with beans, covered with the chili mixture and finally sprinkled with chopped onion and grated cheese.

FIVE-WAY CINCINNATI CHILÌ

Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, 45 minutes. To assemble chili, layer the following ingredients on ß indi-vidual plates: vermicelli, beans, chili mixture, onion and cheese. Makes 6 servings.

The latest trend in chill is a combination of pasta, beans, chill mixture, chopped onions and grated cheese called Five-Way Cincinnati Chili.

Oodles of noodles Varieties of pasta exceed 13 baker's dozens

If "Hamlet" had been written by an Italian, the line might have read: "There is more pasta in heaven and Farth, Horatio, than you can wag linguine about."

The glossary of pasta names, from acini di pepe (peppercorns) to zita (bridegrooms), exceeds 13 baker's dozens. In the middle is my favorite, linguine (small tongues).

I've used the tiny acini di pepe in Italian soups. I've baked zita with cheese or served the large, tubular pasta with pot roast.

Linguine I eat with many things. It is really a spaghetti, but the shape is that of a narrow, thick noodle. So I enjoy it with so-called spaghetti sauce.

What I like about the names is that they translate into a description of the specific pasta. For instance:

Safflower oil makes this soup low cholesterol

Ditali (thimbles) -- Macaroni related to the elbow, but cut in shorter lengths. Good in soups.

Farfalle (Butterflies) - Americans usually make them out of egg noodle dough and call them bows. They complement lima beans or chicken giblets. Fettuccine (small ribbons) - The straight or loosely bent and curled noo-dle that Alfredo made famous also goes well with poultry or fish.

Manicotti (small muff) - The commercial form is a tube that at least four inches long, more than an inch in diameter, cut diagonally at both ends and stuffed with cheeses or meats.

Rotelle (wheels) - They come with hub, spokes and groved rim; they are also square. Rotelle means "small wheels." Americans call them twists. Good in thick or thin sauces.

SCALLOPS AND TWISTS

2 garlic cloves 2 Tbsp. margarine 2 Tbsp. olive oil 1 lb. bay scallops salt and black pepper to taste 1 can (28 oz.) crushed Italian plum tomatoes 1 can (15 oz.) tomato sauce 1 Tbsp. chopped parsley 1 tsp. dried basil leaves

1 lb. twists (rotelles), cooked to desire firmness

In Dutch oven, saute garlic in melted margarine and hot oil until brown; disgard garlic. Add scallops, salt and pepper, simmer 5 minutes, occasionally stirring. Add tomatoes, tomato sauce, parsley and basil, let come to boil on medium heat, cook covered 25 minutes, occasionally stirring. Reduce heat to low to keep warm until ready to serve and spoon over pasta. Serves 4-5.

'Chorus Line' dance strong, story weak

Audrey Landers does a terrific job singing "Dance: Ten, Looks: Three," about a dancer who realigns her chassis, in "A Chorus Line."

There is a clever number in "A Chorus Line" (PG-13), "Dance: Ten, Looks: Three," that tells it all, for the "Chorus Line" choreography truly is a "ten" but the story is zero.

For a show that set so many records on Broadway and commanded a record purchase price for movie rights, it is a sad commentary on Hollywood intelligence when it comes to stomaching the limp and embarrassing excuse for storytelling in this major motion picture.

The film went through unusual trauma in the Hollywood process before it emerged under Richard Attenborough's ("Ghandi") direction. It is difficult to imagine a man of Attenborough's talent allowing release of "A Chorus Line" in its present state.

Auditions are being held for a chorus line as "A Chorus Line" opens and naturally the cattle call for dancers has brought out herds of dancers attracted by the lure of the Great White Way.

THIS NEW SHOW is being choreographed by Zach (Michael Douglas) with an able assist from Larry (Terrence Mann). Zach's mania for perfection and his driven, acerbic devotion to duty make him quite a bastard. He truly needs Larry's sensitivity and concern for others.

As the auditions proceed, enter Cassie (Alyson Reed), Žach's former lover who wants to dance again. Well, Zach is bitter that she went to L.A. and tells her to get out. So much for the "Chorus Line" plot - and that's not much.

This lack of story is at the heart of the film's problem, "Dance: Ten, Story: Zero." In the synthetic reality of the Broadway musical stage, it doesn't matter. Audiences accept a limited plot as long as the songs and dances are exciting, romantic, moving and energetic.

The same is not true of motion pictures whose incredible surface realism makes us believe what we see on the screen.

The conventions of romantic Broadway musicals crumble when someone breaks into song and the camera zooms in for a close-up of every zit. The show's big number, "What I Did for Love," is effectively destroyed by the camera hovering around, over and under Cassie's rendition.

IT IS HARD to believe an accomplished director like Attenborough would miss this obvious point.

Nor is it easy to understand how Douglas, a talented performer and producer, would participate in such a debacle. His characterization of the harddriven Broadway choreographer comes across as a caricature of a chain-smoking dyspeptic.

On the plus side, Larry is an engaging, caring human being rendered brightly by Terrence Mann, who leads the dancers and keeps things moving with a sense of humor and tenderness. He definitely needed a positive outlook to get through this story.

The original Broadway production was staged as an audition on stage and the film might have profited by staying inside as well.

The gratuitous shots of Cassie riding a cab over a bridge into Manhattan and the little schticks with Cassie and Larry in the prop room and in the alley detract from the show's impact as a romantic statement about Broadway shows. Totally forget the stupid flashbacks of the Cassie-Zach love affair.

In spite of all this condemnation, "A Chorus Line" is filled with high-energy, exciting dance routines that make it entertaining and worthwhile. The intensity of the massed ensemble and the minimal characterizations of the principal contestants in the audition are the very best.

Several solos are particularly noteworthy: Charles McGowan's "I Can Do That," Gregg Burge's "Surprise, Surprise" and, of course, Audrey Landers' "Dance: Ten, Looks: Three.'

If you figure out a way to get your popcorn while the story is on and get back to your seat for the dancing, "A Chorus Line" can be fun cal support.

"Often we've found that patients return to the hospital sooner than they would if they had someone to assist them," said Carol Munsell of the Michigan Cancer Foundation (MCF).

Even if the patients do have a family at home, it's often impossible for someone to be there at all times to provide support. Munsell is coordinating a new MCF program designed to fill this gap by providing help for cancer patients in their homes. Under the program, vol-unteers will be recruited to serve as home-care volunteers. THE VOLUNTEERS will offer assistance with the activities of daily living, help with shopping or errands and provide respite care so other members of the family can leave home for short periods of time.

Above all, the patient will have someone at home who cares, Munsell said.

program. A $15,000 grant from the Mary Thompson Foundation is paying for the program, which will cover the entire Detroit metropolitan area.

"I've always been interested in home care, and when this came along I thought that this was just the perfect thing."

Potential volunteers will undergo an initial screening with Munsell. The volunteers will need to have adequate transportation - and the ability to empathize with others.

"We're looking for someone who is sensitive and caring. They need to be mature and have good communication skills."

THOSE WHO pass the initial screening will participate in a 10-week training program, beginning in January, at the MCF Oakland Service Center, 2611 N. Woodward, Berkley.

The program will cover how to care for patients at home, communication and listening, spiritual and legal conone patient and be expected to spend a minimum of three hours per week in the patient's home.

"I'll also go into the home with the volunteer myself on the first visit so they feel a little more confident," Munsell said.

Health care professionals will refer the patients on the basis of need, she said.

If the patient succumbs to the disease, the volunteers will be prepared to work with the family through their time of bereavement.

"This way, someone the family's acquainted with will be in contact with them. They'll call them, take them out, send them a card on special occasions."

For more information on becoming a home-care volunteer, call Munsell at 833-0710, Exts. 206 or 291, or the Regional MCF Service Center at 336-4110.

When it comes to high school wrestling, you won't see any Refrigerators on the mats these days

The Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA), following new guidelines set by the National Federation of State High School Associations, has established a 275-pound maximum for prep grapplers.

The rule has affected a pair of area heavyweights as big as the Chicago Bears' William (Refrigerator) Perry, Ed Miller of Garden City and Bill Critcher of Farmington.

The new limit has drawn criticism, particularly from Mount Clemens coach Larry Walters, who considered challenging the MHSAA through litigation.

Mount Clemens wrestler Lyle (Pooh) Burrell, who posted a 37-10-2 record last season, weighed 339 pounds at the end of football season and has since resorted to dieting in hopes of reaching the limit.

Critcher, who weighed 337 pounds last year, has dropped below the standard and is wrestling this year.

FARMINGTON COACH Barry Walsh is an advocate of the new rule.

"Seeing it from Bill's standpoint, it was the best rule that ever happened to him," Walsh said. "Bill has a better outlook about himself. He carries himself better. He has better strength, agility and balance. He hasn't missed one practice and his injuries are down. Bill's a better wrestler.

When Walsh heard about the new rule change last spring, he sat down with Critcher's father and talked about establishing a regimented diet. Critcher tried Herbalife program and it worked. He lost the excess bulk.

"They've had the same rule in college now for two years," said Walsh. "You have weight limits in international competition. I like the new rule and I'd go and testify for them at the state (MHSAA)."

The rule, however, has prevented Miller, unable to cut the necessary weight, from competing this year. The Garden City heavyweight tipped the scales at 339 pounds at the end of football season.

"I DON'T UNDERSTAND how a 300-pound kid can play football and hit a 125-pound kid, but he can't wrestle," said former GC coach Dean Shipman, now the school's assistant principal. "Nationally they made a rule and the state (the MHSAA) just went along with it. They did what's easiest. There's got to be a better way than jeopardizing a kid's chance.

Shipman would like to see the MHSAA establish a superheavyweight class as an alternative.

"I've been fortunate in my coaching career to have big heavyweights." Shipman said. "Ed was a possible state qualifier and state placer."

Garden City first-year coach Phil Freeman calls the rule "arbitrary."

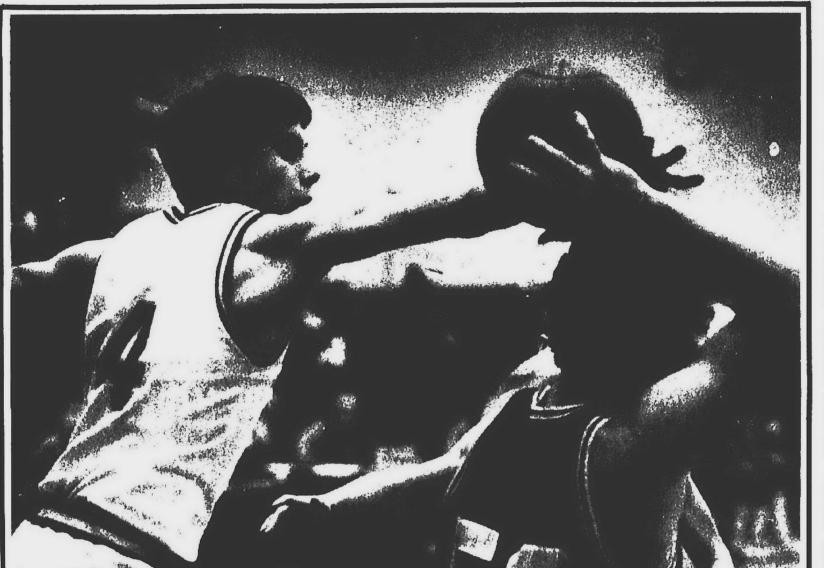

"I don't like the rule," he said. "I guess they (the MHSAA) wanted to stop a kid wrestling from somebody that was 75 pounds heavier. If they're worried about it being unsafe, they could give more authority to the referee. I think there are enough rules in the sport to make it safe."

FREEMAN SAID he is disappointed about the new ruling because Miller was only in his second year of wrestling.

"Last year was his first year and he made great prog-ress," said the GC coach. "He qualified for the regional, but broke his collarbone. He wrestled all summer and was looking forward to the season."

Although the 6-foot-5 Miller has dropped about 20 pounds, he hasn't been practicing with the team.

"I know there's a kid at Crestwood of that size and I know the Mount Clemens coach (Walters) has a list of seven or eight from around the state," Freeman said. "The thing that bothers me is that it they took a kid out of wres-

Solid checking keeps Worden on ice for WMU

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Two things happen when a team gets hot:

First, the players actually enjoy working hard during practice, an attitude that carries over to the games and helps keep the streak going. And second, the players who were playing when the team got hot continue to play, which also helps keep the streak going.

Of course, the players who weren't playing when the team got hot often find it difficult to break into the lineup. Which is the case with Bob Worden and Chuck Chiatto, two of Western Michigan University's hockey players.

The Broncos ended 1985 on a roll. They had won eight straight games, including, and most importantly, six in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association (CCHA). They were 15-7 overall and 10-6 in the CCHA.

BOTH WORDEN, a Canton native, and Chiatto, who graduated from Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook, have contributed to the streak. But neither has contributed as much he would like.

"I am really satisfied with my year," said Worden. He should be - he has two goals and three assists in 19 games while playing mostly on WMU's fourth line, and he's just a freshman.

hurts. WMU's strength has been generated from its eight seniors. That leaves precious little ice time for unproven freshmen.

But Worden has made a spot for himself. "Bob's contributed a great deal for us," said Bronco coach Bill Wilkinson. "He's worked hard and he's a hustler We need that from him.

"I'd like to get more goals from him, but in our system the right wings are checkers, bumpers and grinders."

WORDEN WOULD like to contribute more points, too, but that's no easy task on the fourth line, which is noted more for bumping than scoring.

'Ours is an attack line," said Worden. "Coach is looking for a lot of banging around. There's a lot more offense on our first, second and third lines."

That doesn't mean Worden will necessarily be relegated to fourth line duty for the remainder of the season. "No spot is permanently taken, as the coach says," he noted. "He goes day-by-day, week-by-week. No position is locked up." Worden came to WMU from Culver Military Academy near South Bend, Ind., as a scorer. "My game was of-fense," he said, "but now I'd have to say it's checking. (College hockey) is a lot more aggressive than what I was used to. And there are a lot of tricks to learn.'

Cross country ski: less spills, more thrills

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

OMPARED TO the downhill variety, cross-country skiing is literally more on the level. Which might explain the recent increase in cross-country skiers. According to statistics, the number of cross-country skiers in Michigan is expected to reach 800,000 this year, compared to 770,000 downhillers.

The reasons for the legions of newcomers are many. For one, the injuries and high costs of skiing downhill are not associated with the cross-country sport.

Another factor is the aerobic exercise it provides. And, one of the more attractive features, cross-country skiing is a sport for everyone, including seniors and the blind.

"If you can walk, you can cross-country ski," said Dan Stencil, an Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department supervisor.

Stencil, who is involved with an array of cross-country skiing programs offered by the county, believes one of the main reasons for the popularity of the sport is the cost factor. A person can get a complete package of poles, boots, bindings and skis from anywhere between $75 - $150. A pair of downhill boots, alone, can run up to $150.

THE WORKOUT a person gets, according to Stencil, is pretty good also.

"You use all your muscles," said Stencil. "So it's a far better physical and cardiovascular workout."

they can be in downhill.

cross-country skiing itself is fairly easy to comprehend. Participants, unlike downhill skiing, generate their own movement by pushing off their poles and gliding laterally across the snow

The courses, which offer some hills, have trails that are either marked or groomed

Lady Ocelots fall in tourney

By Brad Emons staff writer

Schoolcraft College's Lady Ocelots fought valiantly Monday night but came up a point short against Franklin College of Indiana in the finals of their own women's basketball tournament, 65-64.

A pair of free throws by Rhonda Wundrum with 17 seconds left provided Franklin, now 8-1 on the year, with the final margin of victory. The tournament champion Lady Grizzlies, a four-year school, trailed the entire second half before taking the lead for keeps, 63-62, on two Amy Burge free throws with 59 seconds left. Burge went to the line after coming up with a key steal.

Schoolcraft then committed costly turnovers on its next two possessions to give Franklin the win.

"We played hard, but we had some mental errors that hurt us a lot," said Schoolcraft coach Ed Kavanaugh, whose team is 8-4 overall. "And we had a lot of fast-break opportunities that we didn't cash in on.

"It's hard to look at the positive when you lose by one in your own tournament. The errors we made were not forced.

WUNDRUM LED Franklin with 18 points, while tournament MVP Karen Potempa, a 5-foot-10 sophomore from Michigan City, and Stephanie Shelton added 12 each.

Despite a glaring height disadvantage, Schoolcraft gave Franklin fits with its full-court pressure game. "It was some kind of game," said

Franklin coach Ron Garner, who drew a first-half technical. "It was a great experience for us.

We don't see that much pressure in Indiana. Schoolcraft had superior quickness, and they did a super job of changing defenses.

Schoolcraft had a balanced attack with Livonia Ladywood product Tracy Ladouceur and Dearborn Fordson's Kim Chandler scoring 14 each. Colleen McKay had 12, Sue Lubbe 10 and pointguard Aimee Frye eight.

Franklin opened the tourney Sunday night with an easy 81-36 triumph over Miami of Ohio-Middletown. Potempa scored 20 and added seven rebounds, while Burge contributed 16 points and seven steals. Wundrum also netted 16 to go along with five assists.

ALSO IN THE first round, Schoolcraft held off Kalamazoo Valley, 75-70, behind Chandler's 16 points and nine rebounds. Also scoring in double figures for the Lady Ocelots were La-douceur (15), Lubbe (14) and Lori Abbas (12)

Kalamazoo (2-7), beaten by SC for the second time this year, got a gamehigh 20 points from Lisa Campbell.
