Firefighters, township gear to talk contract

By Doug Funke staff writer

Productivity is the issue for one side. Wages and benefits, apparently, for the other.

Bargainers for Plymouth Township and the township firefighters union are expected to begin meeting soon to renegotiate a contract that expires March

Neither side expects to reach agreement by the deadline. Both sides say, though, they hope to avoid binding arbisaid. A local decision for callbacks on nearly every run increases the amount of overtime needed.

"We have no other choice," Groth said. "We work with only two guys on duty and to go out, we leave the station vacant."

Getting out of the emergency medical transport business and combining police and fire operations into a public safety department would increase productivity, Breen said. Breen said he could implement both changes unilaterally

Any such action, though, probably would be challenged by the union.

Breen declined to get into specific negotiation strategy. "I have not yet seen a list of their demands. We haven't made ours.

"Everything is economics," he said. "Productivity goes to getting people to maximum efforts during normal work as would "just your basic increase in schedule."

It costs less to pay overtime than to hire more people, Breen said.

"SOME GUYS make more than the supervisor (last year), but if you count-ed the number of hours they put in, that's a different story," said James Haar Jr., local union vice president. The union is still making a list of member's priorities, Haar said. "Since we took a wage freeze in '85," Haar said, wages would be important concerns.

Big year looms for construction

By Kevin Brown staff writer

This could be the biggest year ever for construction in Plymouth.

"Construction permits for January exceeded the entire 1985 calendar year," wrote City Engineer Ken West in a recent report to the Plymouth City Commission.

In fact, estimated construction costs based on building permits filed in January total more than $3.5 million - way up from the $64,000 in construction costs based on January 1985 permits.

Explaining that "January is usually the slowest month of the year" for building permits, West added, "I think for the year, we'll probably have more construction than we ever had before in the city."

SOME MAJOR projects being planned, or already under construction, are:

• The $8 million MSI Inc. 44-unit, six-story luxury condominium project on property bounded by Elizabeth, Roe, and Ann Arbor Trail near Kellogg Park. Construction is slated to begin by the end of March with first units ready for occupancy by January;

• The $3.2 million Plymouth Inn, to offer supervised residential living for the aged. Construction began in December on the Hendry Convelescent Center project, on land just north of the current center at Haggerty and Plym-

• A nearly $1 million project to complete a warehousing and distribution center for the Adistra Corp. on land bordered by Hamilton, Roe and Union streets. The Colwell Corp. began project construction in January, completion is expected in June.

West said there also are plans to begin a condominium project on a parcel of land formerly a part of the Moore sheep farm just south of downtown Plymouth. West estimated the project, which may start up this year, would be three-quarters of the size of the condo project planned on the Wilcox property near Kellogg Park.

The surge in local construction, highest since the record $8 million in construction in 1983, will boost the city's real estate tax revenue 3 percent, West estimated. City Manager Henry Graper estimated the city's share at $20,000, with shares also to be split by the school district and the county

The city's share, Graper said, "would help us in offseting inflation." But the construction also should have a ripple effect on the local economy. "When you have new construction, you have the possiblility of creating new jobs," he said, adding, "Some subcontractors in the community certainly will benefit."

Graper acknowledged that some residents have voiced dissatisfaction with condominium construction projects disturbing what they call the special character of "The City of Homes." But with few opponents to the projects, the city is justified in encouraging construction, Graper said, citing benefits to the community.

controversy over poisoning pigeons in Central Parking Lot.

Rose Exterminators came into the city this past weekend and killed a number of birds, and then City Manager Henry Graper called a halt to the operation.

'The poisoning of pigeons is over with - there will be no more," said Paul Sincock, assistant to the city manager, on Tuesday.

Graper early this week sent a memo to the Department of Public Works instructing the DPW to notify Rose Exterminators their services no longer will be needed and to prepare a bill.

"I was out of town over the week-

An end apparently has come to the end," said Sincock, "but I was told the pigeon protesters went over to the deck and tried to scare the birds away from the area. That hampered the efforts of the exterminating company so they couldnn't continue.

SINCOCK SAID several birds were poisoned but he had no idea specifically how many. "We feel we got enough so there no longer is a problem at the deck. Today there are only a few flying around so most are gone - either through poisoning or by being illegally trapped by the protesters."

Some protesters were netting pigeons and removing them from the parking lot to be released elsewhere. Other protesters reportedly were trapping pigeons without obtaining a trapping permit from the Department of Natural Resources.

Earlier one of the protesters told of plans to set up live traps, if they could get permission of building owners, to relocate the pigeons.

On Feb. 21 Julie Catterall submitted an open letter and set of petitions to the City Commission protesting the use of strychnine and avitrol to kill the pigeons. On Feb. 12 the petitions presented to the City Commission contained some 185 signatures and by last weekend the total had reached 390 signatures Assisting Catterall in the petition drive were Amy and Joanne Wilken.

Sam Fullerton, a Plymouth resident opposed to the poisoning, says he learned from a police officer that some 37 pigeons were poisoned over the weekend. Fullerton asked whether the city suspended the poisoning because enough pigeons had been killed or because city officials became convinced the method used was inhumane.

"There is no doubt that I would have opposed the killing of the pigeons regardless of the method used," said Fullerton. "The inhumane approach used, however, exacerbated my resentment and frustration. Equally frustrating was the feeling that those who opposed the plan were continually belittled, patronized and ignored."

Appeal to follow murder conviction — lawyer

By Diane Gale staff writer

Dr. Charles Fisher has been found guilty of first-degree murder in the 1984 death of his wife who suffocated after her head was wrapped with duct tape

The jury deliberated for 21/2 days before delivering the verdict Monday morning following a weekend break. The trial began Dec. 5.

In a surprise move, Wayne Circuit Judge Claudia House Morcom allowed Fisher to go free on 10 percent of $250,000 or $25,000 until sentencing March 26. The mandatory sentence for first-degree murder is life in prison.

AT THE TIME of the attack Fisher worked as a microbiologist at Veteran's Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor. His wife, Ella Maria Mercado-Fisher, 31, worked as a nurse at Chelsea Community Hospital.

"I was shocked that he was not remanded after the jury came back with the conviction of first degree murder," said Wayne County Assistant Prosecu-tor Doug Baker. "That's just unheard

Fisher, 45, will appeal the decision, according to defense attorney Dan Bur-

After the verdict was read in court Fisher told Judge Morcom that he was innocent.

"He said he did not do it, and was not involved in any manner," Burress said.

In a case based on circumstantial evidence, Baker convinced the jury of nine women and three men that Fisher planned a scheme that left his wife unonscious in their Thornwood home July 15, 1984, and concocted a burglary story as his cover. The murder was Fisher's final attempt to stop Mercado-Fisher from taking a trip to Germany July 17, 1984, to visit her cousin Javier Hortato.

FISHER KNEW THE TRIP would mark the end of their marriage because Mercado-Fisher told her parents, Clara and Manuel Mercado, that when she returned she would file for divorce. Manuel Mercado testified that Fisher believed the cousins were having an affair. He said Hortato was a bad influence and was involved with communist politics. Fisher pleaded for help in stopping his wife from taking the trip, Manuel Mercado testified. At the time Manuel Mercado supported his son-in-law, and was to call his daughter July 15, 1984, in an effort to prevent the trip.

Instead, that morning he received a call from Fisher saying his daughter was in a coma, from which she never regained consciousness. Mercado-Fisher died July 20, 1984, at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor after life support systems were removed.

Fisher said he and his wife were robbery victims. He reported to Canton Police that the couple's truck and his wallet were stolen. However, police noted nothing else in the home was taken and the residence wasn't ransacked.

Fisher said he was hit on the back of the head and fell unconscious. When he came to he was lying in the bedroom. Fisher said he released his hands and feet, which were bound with rope, and found his wife lying face down in the living room with a blanket draped over her body.

HE CALLED 911 Emergency twice asking for help, which is documented by tape recordings.

Baker maintained Fisher planned the attack and might have hoped to save her at the last minute to appear to be her protector, gain her approval and nix the trip to Germany. But Fisher waited too long to call for help because he wanted to give his accomplices who took the truck time to get away, Baker told the jury.

After his wife's death Fisher created a facade of grief, Baker said. The mourning was cut short, Baker added, when Fisher placed a companion advertisement in the Detroit Free Press less than one month after his wife died. He asked for responses from white, Hispanic or Oriental women who would be a "friend, wife or possible lover." Marguerite Mary Orosz answered the ad and the two talked about marrying a month later, Baker said.

Orosz testified and attended some court proceedings accompanied by her parents.

Fisher was arrested Feb. 19, 1985, by Canton Police at Inspection Customs in the Virgin Islands where he moved two weeks after his wife's burial. He returned to Michigan to surrender two quested Judge Morcom decide the case last Friday while the jurists were deliberating.

Burress also charges Baker with commenting about information previously ruled inadmissible during closing statements. Police inappropriately en-tered the house and gathered evidence without obtaining a search warrant, and the prosecutor's office failed to supply evidence early in the case, Burress added.

"And those are just a few reasons for appeal that come to mind," Burress said. "He is handling it, I think, very well for a person having that kind of verdict come in."

Fisher's bond was initially set in 35th District Court at the preliminary exdays later. FISHER'S APPEAL will be based on Judge Morcom's refusal to waive Fisher's right to a jury. Burress re-most of his family resides.

enate rolls back tax

By Tim Richard staff writer

Michigan lawmakers will carry the fight over the income tax rate into their re-election campaigns now that they have disposed of the issue in Lansing.

The state Senate Tuesday approved, 37-1, a House measure to roll the state income tax rate back to 4.6 percent effective this March 31. It has been 5.1 percent since last December and was as high as 6.35 percent in 1983.

"This has been one of the longest Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, a co-spon

ALL SENATORS from the Observer & Eccentric area supported Holmes' SB 77. The tax increase wasn't due to expire until 17 percent were on welfare, and we faced Oct. 1, 1997

"We originally had a permanent tax in- and policemon." crease, ' said Sen. Doug Cruce, R-Troy. "We held some feet to the fire. Getting a rollback to March 31 was a significant victory." The 18-months-early rollback will save Michigan income taxpayers $650 millions, according to Republican staff member Gary Wolfram.

The actual tax rate people will see on their 1986 state tax returns, however, will be about 4.72 percent - a combination of 4.6 percent for nine months and 5.1 percent for three months.

The rate was 4.6 percent when Blanchard took office in the recession year of 1983. Its high was 6.35 percent that year. It dropped to 6.1 percent in '84, then 5.35 on Sept. 1, 1984, and 5.1 as of last Dec. 1.

Nichols called the original 38-percent rate increase "too much for too long," indicating Republicans would make it an election-year issue.

DEMOCRATS WARNED the GOP against grabbing too much political credit. "This is a far cry from March of 1983," said Sen. Patrick McCollough, D-Dearborn. "when unemployment was 16 percent, when closing of universities and layoffs of fire

McCollough, whose district includes Gar-den City, said President Reagan should follow Gov. James Blanchard's lead in submitting a balanced budget, adding:

"I see a drift by Republicans to the left in terms of fiscal responsibility, and a drift by Democrats to the right."

BOTH McCOLOLOUGH and Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, said they received "very little" mail in recent weeks about whether to roll the rate back effective Jan. 1, as Republicans had proposed, or March 31, the date offered by Blanchard and the Democrats.

"People aren't following the quibbling about the exact date," said Geake, whose district includes Livonia, Redford, Plymouth and Canton.

"People write only when they feel threatened," added McCollough

SENATE MAJORITY Leader John Engler of Mount Pleasant said taxes will continue to be an issue because of a Senate staff finding that the Treasury collected too much in income and single business taxes last year. He called for a $180-million pro rated refund to taxpayers.

"The Blanchard economic program consists in being governor while Ronald Reagan is president," said the Republican leader

Shot back Democrat Lana Pollack of Ann Arbor: "If Gov. Blanchard had done like the president, we would be $3.4 billion in deficit."

The Senate's lone nay vote was cast by Jackie Vaughn III, D-Detroit. He argued there was too much "unemployment and suffering" and too little spent on "quality education, mental health and prisons" to justify a rollback.

Twenty-four young authors were honored Wednesday for their creative efforts in pursuit of Laureate Prizes for Literature in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

'The writings are just amazing. The quality is unbelievable. Every year the quality improves," said Barbara Schoolmeesters, who served on a panel of district teachers and administrators that evaluated the entries

More than 60 manuscripts - mostly fiction - were judged. The writings were submitted before the 1984-85 school year ended last June.

Four grand winners were selected in the Intermediate Division (grades four through six) and two were chosen in the Primary Division (grades one through three). They were:

• Amy Sullivan, sixth grade, Allen School, who wrote "Survival in the Amazon.

• Kathryn Bolda, sixth grade, Allen, "Through the Years."

· Leah Petrakis, fifth grade, Isbister School, "Why there are Stars and a Moon." • Brent Best, sixth grade, Smith School,

'The Big Strike."

• David Knight, third grade, Field School, "Salt and Pepper." · Jason Sarkozi, third grade, Tanger School, "How I Caught Mouth."

Young Authors abound here

Albert Sneath, a sixth grader at Hulsing School, received a special award for an al-phabet book titled, "Tuff Tongue Twisting Teasers.'

THE WORKS of the division winners and Sneath will now be bound into an anthology and placed in school libraries within the district. All seven also received medals.

'We know the quality of writing is improving," Schoolmeesters said. "That's the thrust of our group.'

Runners-up in the Primary Division were Anne Marie Wilson and Shannon Green from Field and Tanger schools respectively. In the Intermediate Division, Stephen Nail from Allen, Mike Smith from Field and Geoff Eisenlord from Smith garnered runner-up honors. Honorable mention accolades went to Cara Stillings, Melissa Ballios, Heather Robertson, Andrew Albus, Jamie Wrubel and Scott Lefurgy from Allen and Shawn Frentner, Kelvin Chou and Todd Liljestrand from Bird.

David Stubblefield from Farrand,

Matthew Castelo from Hulsing, and Karen Sockolosky from Smith also received honorable mention

RON ZANG taught two winners, a runner-up and three honorable mentions at Allen in the Talented and Gifted program.

While Zang conceded that he worked with quality students, he believes most students can produce work of prize-winning caliber. However, it takes time.

"One thing I notice, and it might sound dumb, is you don't learn to write unless you write and you can never stop being a better writer," he said.

"Any time we write, we share. We pass it along for others to read or read aloud," Zang said. "Writing is an attitude."

Three of Joan Davis' former students at Smith were honored.

"For me, writing is a yearlong process," she said. "Throughout the year, I stress the importance of reading. We have been writing book reports all year long.

"I do stress that writing is a way of life, a form of communication," Davis said. 'That's a total philosophy we try to teach kids."

Family, friends and educators acclaimed all 24 honorees during a special ceremony in Field's multipurpose room.

Jumaneh Judeh of Westland: "We may be starting to play the game later than others, but we're playing catch-up."

Arab Americans seek politica

By Tim Richard staff writer

After a daylong convention in Southfield, many Arab Americans have May 27 circled on their calendars. It's the deadline for filing petitions to run for precinct delegate in the Democratic and Republican primaries.

"We're not involved in either party as a collective group," said Jumana Judeh, who lives in Westland and chairs the Arab American Democratic Federation. "We seek one voice that will speak in both parties. We put on this conference to get in the political mainstream."

Significantly, many speakers at the Arab American Institute gathering were from other ethnic groups — black, Italian, Hispanic. Judeh spelled out why.

"We're no different than any other ethnic group. We may be starting to play the game later than the others, but we're playing catch-up.

"We need to stress the importance of building ties," said Judeh, a former aide to U.S. Rep. George Crockett Jr., D-Detroit, and now a Michigan Bell manager.

"BUILDING TIES." The theme came out repeatedly as ethnic leaders, professional politicians and a top lobbyist addressed nearly 100 Arab Americans in the Michigan Inn.

"It's no secret Arab Americans have been on the sidelines for a long time," said Isa Hasan, who lives in Livonia, runs a pharmacy in Dearborn and is national chairman of the 5,000-member Arab American Republican Federation. "We could have a very decisive input into our state government."

The 1984 Reagan-Bush campaign already knows what Arab Americans can do. It credited the Arab American bloc with registering more new voters than any other ethnic group. "We petitioned the National Heritage council — that's the ethnic arm of the Republican Party — for admission to their group," said Hasan, "and they voted us in unanimously."

BECOMING A precinct delegates is a first step to political influence, said lawyer George Bashara, a former state Court of Appeals judge and now a Republican member of the Wayne State University Board of Governors.

Next steps will be seeking political appointments and government contracts, several speakers said.

HARDLY ANYONE mentioned Israel, although it was in the back of everyone's mind. The reason is that Arab Americans are seeking to influence foreign policy by starting at the grass roots.

People used to see us as a one-issue community - foreign policy in the Middle East," said Democrat Judeh (see other story on this page). Republican Hasan says they seek to soften the United States' "blind support for the state of Israel "

By building ties to other ethnic groups, Hasan added, Arab Americans seek to mitigate the "steretype of the ugly Arab, the terrorist." His voice hardened as he talked about such films as "Delta Force" and "America Under Siege."

BITS OF practical advice were many. Conrad Mallett Jr., aide to Detroit Mayor Young and former aide to Gov. Blanchard, said politicians will ignore a demand "as long as they can" until a group achieves prominence. Once Hispanics were to U.S. Labor "Eaving people on the in 900 employees reportin have 900 lawyers. Everyone moves I'm as A because I wear my ethnicity of my a

"It doesn't matter to me if you're a Democrat be Republican - or a socialist. If you're part of us, we're going to common the start we're going to promote you."

Dr. Alfred Rotondaro, head of the National Ital-1, ian American Foundation, said his "fiercely bloar-1" tisan" group will give an award to Democratic Gov. A James Blanchard. "Why are we honoring the gover-nor? You don't need an answer. He's the governor."

The lineup of other speakers indicated the Arab Americans had caught Lansing's attention: Dr. Agnes M. Mansour (Lebanese), director of the state Department of Social Services; Spencer Abraham; (Lebanese), state Republican chairman; Secretary of State Richard Austin; and Senate Majority Lead-er John Englar of Mt Placement er John Engler of Mt. Pleasant.

WORKING ON campaigns is more important ; than giving money, though that's important, too.

State Sen. Patrick McCollough, D-Dearborn, whose home town is 20 percent Arab American and whose district stretches to Garden City said, "You folks as a group have been a political target and scapegoats . . . Whether you're Democrat or Re-publican, you have to join a party. (Presidential candidates) go after the precinct delegates."

Republian party favored

"Arab Americans, although mostly Republicans, are somewhat liberal in their political makeup," says Dr. James Zogby of the Arab American Institute.

A March 1985 survey at a Washington, D.C., conference showed 52 percent consider themselves Republicans, 25 percent Democrats and 23 percent independent.

Nine percent wanted to increase the defense budget (considered conservative) while 72 percent disagreed. Some 72 to 88 percent favored increasing such domestic programs as encouraging small business and aiding students (considered liberal).

ON CANDIDATES, 70 percent preferred Democrat Jesse Jackson, a black minister, for president, and 60 percent actually voted for Republica Ronald Reagan when Jackson failed to get his party's nod.

A mere 15 percent voted for Democratic nominee Walter Mondale, who angered the bloc early in his campaign by rejecting donations from Arab Americans.

Those attending last weekend's Michigan confer-ence in Southfield listed themselves as 27 pecent Democrats, 26 percent Republicans and 47 percent independents.

Among gubernatorial candidates, according to incomplete results, incumbent Democrat James Blanchard and Republican William Lucas, the Wayne County executive, were in a virtual tie.

"AN ARAB American political agenda" includes more than modifying the pro-Israel bent of U.S. foreign policy. Those attending the Southfield conference were polled and said they wanted these items in the agenda (ranked in order):

1) "The development of a strong presence in the Republican and Democratic parties.

2) "The creation of an Arab American commission or post in the State House to see that Arab Americans receive their fair share of government appointments.

3) "Establishment of an affirmative action program for Arab Americans which would require state agencies and departments, and state institutions of higher education, to give Arab Americans preferential treatment in hiring in order to overcome the effects of past discrimination.

4) "The development of special social services aimed at the thousands of new Arab immigrants arriving each year in the state."

Isa Hasan, Livonia pharmacist, checks the Arab American Institute schedule with Helen Samhan, deputy director of AAI in Washington, D.C.

Where they live

Some 2.5 million Americans are of Arab ancestry, according to Dr. James Zogby, executive director of the Arab American Institute in Washington, D.C:

In Michigan, largest concentrations are the suburbs of Detroit and the Flint area. Jeff Mansour of the AAI in Michigan says the largest group is from Leb-anon with Palestinians second. Others are from Yemen, Egypt and Jordan. In the suburbs, Dearborn is estimat-ed to be 20 percent Arab American, the largest group being from Yemet. Jumana Judeh, a Michigan Bell manager and Democratic leader, says good numbers of Palestinian Americans live in Livonia, Westland and Garden City. Chaldeans make up 10 percent of Southfield's population with lesser con-centrations in Farmington Hills, Royal Oak, Oak Park and Birmingham.

Rifles stolen from house

Firearms, tools and a videocassette recorder were among items reported stolen last Saturday from a house on Five Mile Road in Plymouth Township. The burglar(s) apparently entered the house after breaking glass on a rear door, police accounts indicated. The burglary occurred between 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The missing items included: a Marlin .30-.30 rifle and a Marlin .35 calibre rifle, each valued at $300; miscellaneous Snap-On tools worth $455; an RCA model VCR valued at $389; and a Tobisha microwave worth $150.

Police reported lifting partial fingerprints from the scene

A JVC model VCR valued at about $1,300 was the only thing reported stolen during a burglary of a house on Ann Arbor Road. The resident told police entry was gained through a rear window between 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. Friday.

Police who responded to the scene reported finding two sets of foctprints around the property.

A 1986 Buick Skylark, reported stolen from the Bradbury Condominiums on Newporte between 12.20 a.m. and 10 a.m. Saturday, was subsequently

S'craft works quietly to win millage app raday, February 27, 1988 - O&E

By Tim Richard staff writer

Don't look for an advertising blitz.

Don't expect your mailbox to be stuffed with / pamphlets.

Don't wait for billboards or precincts workers to tell you about the March 24 election.

Friends of Schoolcraft College are running a telephone campaign to stir up enough yes votes to approve a half-mill, general purpose property tax increase.

'We're keeping it as low key as possible," said John Tomey, director of admissions and financial aids, who is the administration's chief strategist for this millage campaign.

Past campaigns have involved door-to-door contact, calls to registered voters and advertising. This one is aimed only at "people identified as having some allegiance to the college," Tomey said

That means 12 to 20 volunteers manning a telephone bank in Waterman Center calling residents four evenings a week, Monday through Thursday, in an attempt to contact people likely to vote in favor of a millage in-

PHASE I — over a seven-week period the volunteers will make nearly 1,000 calls a night to sound out supporters and encourage them to vote.

Those who are called have had some contact with the college, either as a student or atten-dee at a workshop.

College trustee Sharon Sarris says, "We're looking for an informed electorate."It is a familiar campaign tactic - roust out your friends and leave your enemies lie.

The routine goes this way: "Are you aware of the upcoming millage election?" the caller asks. If the person says yes, the next step is to ask if he or she is likely to support the millage request.

"YES" RESPONSES have their addresses verified and are offered an application for an absentee ballot.

'No" folks are thanked for their time and bid good-bye.

We're keeping it as low key as possible.'

John Tomey Schoolcraft stategist

"Undecideds" are offered more information in the form of a pamphlet.

So far, the response is running 57 percent yes, 13 percent no and 30 percent undecided, Tomey said.

Deciphering the "undecided" answers can be tricky. Phone room captains, drawn from col-lege staffers volunteering their evenings, advise the volunteers:

"If they're undecided, ask if they want more information. If they're undecided and don't want more information, that's a 'no.' If they're undecided and want information, they're salvageable."

PHASE II - for two weeks following Phase I, the callers will call back the "salvageables," the 30 percent who said they were undecided to see if they have made a decision. Phase III will be the weekend before the millage election, The callets will contact the "yes" prospects and remind them to vote. Polls are once from a set of the are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday, March.

All registered voters are eligible. The Schoolcraft district includes the K-12 districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, North-ville and Plymouth-Canton, plus a tiny corner of Novi.

What makes this campaign different?

Campus unions are more actively involved than during the unsuccessful campaigns of the 1970s, when they were at odds with then-President C. Nelson Grote. Chemistry instructor Bill Nickels, a former Faculty Forum president, is one of the phone room captains.

FEW VOTERS turn out for school elections, and fewer still vote on candidates or issues involving the community college.

"In our last request in March of 1979, we had a turnout of 7,304," said Tomey. That was dis-framework, sided it with plywood on the ground and were attempting to raise it when it proved unwieldy, police said.

The four requested the assistance of a nearby four-man crew working under the direction of another contractor.

The eight men attempted to raise the wall using 2-by-6-inch lumber as braces. As the wall was being raised the center brace snapped and the wall began falling.

Five of the workers were able to get clear but Howard, Brave and Orlowski were trapped.

Details of the accident were turned over to the West Bloomfield Townshiip building department to determine field Police said Howard, Brave and whether building codes were violated,

MACHINIST TRAINING

The Focus: HOPE Machinist Training Institute has more than 100 openings avail-able immediately for qualified residents of Wayne County who are unemployed or have low tamily income. The slots must be filled by March 31. The institute offers free training in precision machining and metalwork, leading to a career as a machinist.

More than 90 percent of the institute's graduates are placed in jobs. The eightmonth pre-employment course includes shop theory, shop math, blueprint reading, inspection processes, communication skills and experience on lathes, grinders, mills and other machine tools. Machinists are skilled workers who can turn a block of metal into a precisely engineered part according to blueprint specifications.

They set up and operate machine tools to make metal products of required dimensions. The training is sponsored and paid for by Focus:HOPE, Detroit, Wayne County Private Industry Corporation (PIC), Wayne County Department of Social Services and the Governor's Office for Job Training. For more information, call Focus: HOPE at 883-7440 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday

WANTED: CLERICAL VOLUNTEERS

The Senior Nutrition Program ("Meals On Wheels") needs clerical volunteers at its main office at 15495 Sheldon at Five Mile, Northville Township. The program's need for clerical help has created a backlog in servicing senior nutrition needs in the community. The program provides homebound senior citizens with home-delivered hot meals plus hot meals to sites in Plymouth and Canton. If interested, contact Office Manager Diane Barrett at 453-2525.

VOLUNTEER TRAINING

Turning Point, a non-profit community service of Growth Works Inc., 271 S. Main. Plymouth, is conducting volunteer recruitment and training to prepare volunteers for Crisis Phone intervention and phone line counseling. The training covers communication, empathy listening, building and bonding relationships, brokerage skills, crisis intervention, depression management, loss and grief, alcohol and substance abuse, and problem-solving methods.

Training is open to any interested person; no previous experience is necessary. After the initial training program it is required that volunteers make at least a six-month commitment to three nights per month. For further information and a training schedule, contact Sue Davis at 455-4902 from 9 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday.

Attorney Alan A. May of Bloomfield Hills plans to enter the race for the a state Supreme Court.

" The Oakland County Republican is "expected to announce his candidacy in the next few weeks.

Attending last weekend's Republican convention-rally in Kalamazoo, May said he has to complete business plans, before committing to a political race. May, 43, is the party chairman in the 'state's 18th Congressional District, which includes Birmingham, Bloom-" field Township, Bloomfield Hills, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Rochester, parts of Troy and West Bloomfield Township. He also served as Michigan co-chairman of the National Coalition for Reagan. He operates the Southfield law firm of May & May, which was founded by his father, who died in 1979. The firm also has a Detroit office.

May said he would run for the state

House divided? Colleen Engler considers run for governor

By Teri Banas staff writer

Wayne County's William Lucas made Michigan history by becoming the first black candidate to run for Now Colleen House Engler, a state representative from Mount Pleasant, may make history by becoming the first woman from a major party to campaign for governor.

Engler, a conservative Republi-can serving her fourth term in the state Legislature, said she will de-cide in two weeks whether there's enough financial support available to make the race.

"I've been considering it for a while . . . , but I wanted to see the reaction to the other candidates and the kinds of issues they were raising," she said in at last weekend's Republican rally in Kalamaoo.

......

Besides problems with funding, she said she recognized that because she would be entering the race late she may have a problem rounding up supporters.

One leader who could end up in another political camp is her hus-band, state Sen. John Engler, R-Mt. Pleasant, who has declared his support for GOP gubernatorial candidate William Lucas.

"I deal with him on two levels," Colleen Engler, 33, said of her husband. "He's my husband and he's also the majority leader in the senate. He's certainly supportive of me. But this does put me in a difficult situation with him."

As have the four declared Repub-lican candidates in the race, Engler said she would aim criticism at Democratic Gov. Jim Blanchard in any political campaign. She said she has a legislator's perspective of the Blanchard years.

STI.

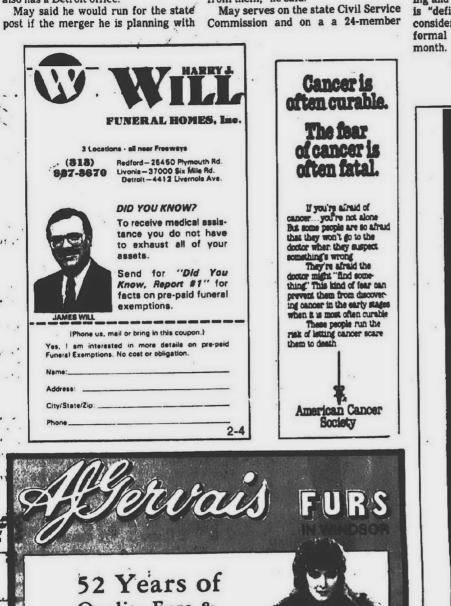

The announced GOP candidates are. Wayne County Executive La-cas, Oakland County Executive Dan Murphy, Brighton Insinceman Richard Chrysler, and Detroit By-countant John Lauve.

Engler spoke against the S8-per-cent tax hike Blanchard engineered two years ago subsequently re-duced, and said the governor was re-sponsible for other tax increases -liquor taxes and utility taxes.

She also disapproved of Blanch-ard's support of district reappor-tionment, "In my case, a whole county got changed," she said. "Now that kind of power politics is not good."

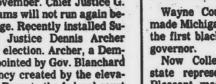

She said that if she runs, she will develop a legislative platform based on Republican interests in areas such as taxation and workers and unemployment compensation to be used for mapping the state's future.

of Commerce has enjoyed some success selling an "Enjoy" coupon book as a fund-raiser and now is offering to make the project available to other community groups.

The Enjoy book contains more than 60 coupons, most worth $5 each, from Canton and Plymouth retail and service businesses. A major appeal to the book, besides the savings at local businesses, is that the price is only $5.

The book is now being made available to civic and charitable groups in Plymouth, such as scout troops, school or other youth groups, to sell for their own fund-raising.

The chamber of commerce will act as the "middleman" for the organizations to help them use the Enjoy book sales as a fund-raising source.

"The Enjoy book is sold exclusively as a fund-raiser," says Terry Bixler, project chairperson for the chamber, "It supports groups and organizations in their efforts to raise money to continue valuable programs.

"The book costs only $5 and as each coupon is worth $5, the savings start at once. There are coupons which will appeal to every member of the family."

In fact, there are 46 types of merchants represented on the coupons, including restaurants, photo finishing, dry cleaning, florists, shoes, printing, musical instruments, picture framing, clothing, computers, fireplace shop, bookstore, video recording, secretarial service, garden center, tailoring, package service, roller skating, pet supplies, pharmacy, car wash, furniture,

The books are being produced by Gail and Ray Holland of Canton who operate Fund Raising Services Inc., 158 N. Main, Plymouth.

The coupons are good through Dec. 31, 1986 and another coupon book will be coming out in June with more and different discounts offered.

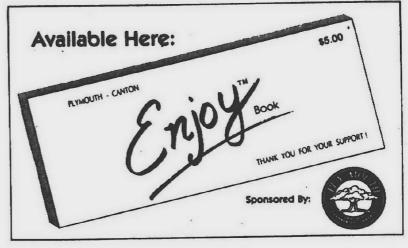

"There's a good chance the buyer will use more coupons because, unlike using the book as fund-raisers for metro-type entertainment coupon books, the savings are right here in the community. Sometimes a person won't use many coupons if you have to drive all over the Detroit area to use them but that's not the case with the Enjoy book," Holland said.

So far, 4,000 Enjoy books have been distributed through the Plymouth Community Chamber and the Canton Chamber of Commerce. Both chambers are chamber projects with members selling them in their places of business Now the Plymouth Chamber is offering the books to local groups as a fundraiser. Anyone wanting information may contact the chamber at 453-1540. "The chamber will act as a clearing house for community groups wanting to get involved," says Bixler. "The clubs and groups will be offered a 40 percent return which will make it worthwhile for them to participate."

but hand-scooped ice cream in multiple flavors.

The weekend gathering of Michigan GOP supporters in Kalamazoo, produced any number of lighter moments. Here's a few:

OAKLAND COUNTY'S prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson perhaps is best known around Michigan for his drive to place a death penalty proposition on the state ballot.

But his remarks at last weekend's convention reinforced his jokester image, which has gotten him into some hot water in the past.

At an opening banquet, Patterson had these barbs to sling: Patterson said Oakland County Executive Dan Murphy's campaign style was like that of his late uncle — "three days after he died."

He compared protest candidate John Lauve to the "last elephant in a parade. Hindsight is barely inspiring.

The prosecutor said Wayne County Executive Wil-liam Lucas' widely publicized trips to outstate Michigan last year inspired the county commission to send him a postcard reading: "Wish you were here." Patterson, who said he likes the opportunity to divert from his "stern prosecutor image," said of Democratic Gov. James Blanchard: "He just doesn't

He reminds me of the guy who went up to visit the Capitol and got separated from would be the Sophia Loren of politics." She added, DICK CHRYSLER showed organizational ability "No one ever says that about me."

NORTHVILLE Township Supervisor Susan Heintz, whose name keeps coming up in connection with the county commission race in Wayne County's 10th District (Livonia, Plymouth and Northville) was overheard remarking about her across-town accommodations that weekend: "I'm staying at La Quinta, way over on the other side of town, and I Pernaps the most pointain of outper-vations came from insurance executive Richard Headles of Farmington Hills, the unsuccessful GOP nomines four years ago when Blanchard bounced into the governor's seat. "The Lucas people say they have 10 out of the 18 chairmen, but then they (party chairman) don't always repre-sent the overall impressions of the dis-trict," said Headlee, who wore lapel-buttons for Lucas, Murphy and, Chrysler in a neat row. "Tm a living example of that. The GOP gathering did just that. More than 2,000 attendees heard blistering personal attacks on the Democratic governor, name calling, and public policy criticisms. But the primary purpose was to unite the party faithful for the state elections this year and for the national political campaigns in 1988. To that end, the four declared GOP example of that. candidates for governor signed a unity pact to steer clear of attacks on one another, and district chairmen worked toward grass roots construction. EVEN SO, commitments soon were becoming widely discussed from 10 of the state's 18 congressional district

The leader of Michigan Republicans, Spencer Abraham, opened last week-end's convention-rally in Kalamazoo by chairmen who pledged to back one candidate - Wayne County Executive William Lucas. Lucas received the loudest and longest applause from the conventioneers.

He started his organizing more than a year ago as he traveled across the state to visit each of the 83 counties, switching political parties only in May. In contrast, Lucas' counterpart in Oakland County, 40-year Republican veteran Daniel Murphy, announced his candidacy for governor only last week, getting a later start on the hoopla, but promising to increase his name recog-nition.

RICHARD CHRYSLER, a Brighton auto industrialist, launched a race last month that was immediately infused by a take-notice $326,000 television advertising campaign.

He soon began picking up supporters among those enamored with the ads' storytelling of the rags-to-riches, jani-tor-turned-millionaire. Many conven-tioneers said they found his lack of government experience appealing, and felt it was time a businessman ran things. Then came John Lauve, the protest candidate and self-dubbed "taxfighter," who arrived from Grosse Pointe with homemade signs and last-minute seating arrangements.

Perhaps the most poignant of o

"Back in 1982 they had me in third place, but I was in first place by Aug-ust. So, a lot can happen by then."

HERE'S how local congressional dis-trict party members and chairment view the GOP candidates' strengths in western Wayne County areas. • 2nd District (includes northern, Livonia, Plymouth and Northville areas, as well as several counties to the west)

Daniel Piercecchi, chairman of the Wayne County portion of the 2nd Dis-trict, said the district hasn't taken any polls but a visual inspection of buttons, badges and other campaign parapher-nalia gives the impression that

"Chrysler appears to have the edge. "Bill Lucas is really an unknown en." tity to the party, so it's hard to judge, though we're delighted to have him.

District chairman Michael Legg of Livonia said there are pockets of sup in port for each candidate, though Lucas and Chrysler have more interest than Oakland's Murphy.

• 15th District - (includes southe edge of Livonia, Westland, Garden City and Canton Township as well as sat veral communities to the south).

District chairwoman Terry Benn said she has taken an "open" position but Lucas appears to be leading in the 15th. She said she has noted "a lot of grassroots support for Chrysler" with his business background fueling the appeal.

Over all, she said it was still "too early" to make predictions.

"IT IS MY fear that we will repeat the mistakes made two decades ago when people who were not professional educators were hired to carry the responsibilities of professional educators and were then identified as professional educators," Morshead said.

"This brought an avalanche of criticism down upon the entire educational establishment because they failed to function as professional educators." Morshead called on the state to establish formal

Currently, individual districts may secure an emergency teaching certificate for teachers when an open position can't be filled by a typically qualified individual.

Based in St. Petersburg, Fla., Staight Inc. has opened a branch at 42320 Ann Arbor Road near Haggerty in Plymouth. The facility is available for young people thoughout the state.

Straight, Inc., operates a program in Ohio which attracted clients from this area. In fact, the Cincinnati branch was used by parents of youngsters with substance abuse problems from Plymouth, Canton, Northville area and other communities in Wayne-Oakland counties. With an "alumni group" of parents in place in this area, arrangements were made to move into the site on Ann Arbor Road.

Straight Inc. is a family-oriented program which has provided substance abuse treatment services to more than 4,000 young people since being established 10 years ago as a private, non-profit corporation. Presently there are about 65 young people from Michigan in treatment with Straight.

STRAIGHT IS a long-term program which serves drug-using persons from 12 to 22 years old. The average age is 16, and the average length of treatment is 13 months.

The treatment program relies heavily on the Twelve Steps of AA (Alcoholics Anonymous), and the use of peer counseling supervised by professional staff. In fact, many clients who "graduate" from Straight often align themselves with AA for support after leaving the treatment center.

Matthew J. Murphy, who has a master of social science degree, is program director for Michigan. Murphy, speaking in Plymouth a few weeks ago, told of how he had worked a number of years with substance abusers in the Washtenaw County juvenile justice system and came into contact with Straight's system. Murphy said he was so impressed with Straight's success rate that when he decided on a career change he applied with Straight.

AMONG THE services offered by Straight are: Evaluation to assess the extent of the drug-using problem; therapeutic serivces

for the young person and the family; sibling support to help brothers and sisters deal with related problems; parent programs to offer support and counseling to parents dealing with family issues; and education services to the lay and professional community through drug-awareness presentations.

The Observer learned of plans for Straight to locate here more than a year ago when the parent of a client from Oakland County called to tell of the hopes and dreams of the "alumni group." The parents of Straight clients from throughout southeastern Michigan banned together not only to urge Straight to locate here but to provide a corps of volunteer help to further that effort. Some parents of "graduates" spent several hours a week volunteering their skills in carpentry work, electrical, plumbing work, etc.

O&E Thursday, February 27, 1986

The volunteers also appeared as speak-ers to local service clubs to tell the story of Straight, and made appeals for financial support. The appeals resulted in such contributions as 11,000 square feet of carpeting from General Motors Corp. and furniture for all staff offices and meeting rooms from Chrysler Corp. In addition, the U.S. Gypsum Co. donated 24,000 square feet of drywall to cover the interior walls built by the gorup of parent volunteer workers.

The Observer welcomes Straight to the community and congratulates the corps of parent volunteers who worked hard and over a long period of time to bring a valuable resource to the Plymouth-Canton community.

Death penalty wrongs us all

N 1846, MICHIGAN became the first English-speaking jurisdiction in the world to abolish the death penalty. Since then, most of the Western developed world has followed our lead. We believe the death penalty should no more be introduced now than slavery, child labor, or denying women a vote - rules in force in 1846.

We sympathize deeply with the victims of violent crime. Violence and murder are as ancient as the human family. Since Cain slew Abel, the blood of countless victims has cried out to the Lord. Our hearts cry out, too, because we believe life is a sacred gift. The whole human community grieves with the family and friends of the victim.

What can be done to make things right? Those who violate Peter 1 life must be held accountable, and the human community demands that justice be done.

Extending death to another circle of family and friends, however, by means of execution does not make anything right. Richard How does another funeral, another bereaved family, another thest le death, make anything right?

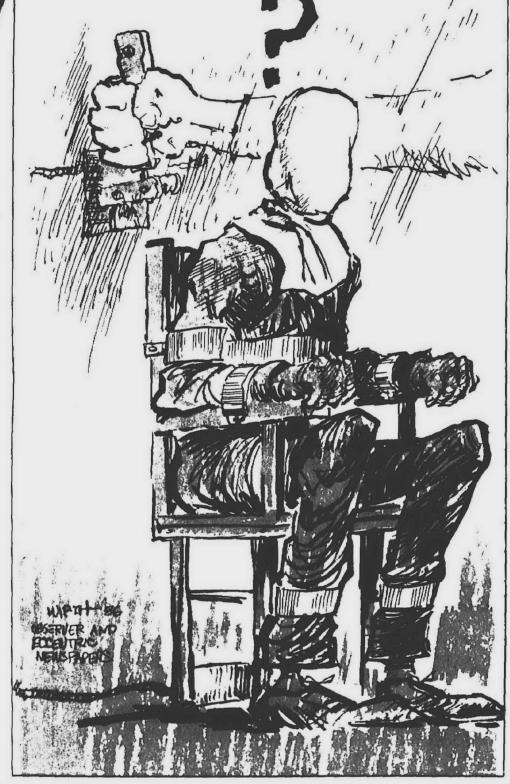

od Dod THE DEATH penalty only wrongs us all.

Jini Ste The death penalty is wrong because it claims innocent lives. Michigan abolished the death sentence after it found that an inager innocent man had been hung, across the river in Windsor, On-· tario Harold

All human systems are fallible, unreliable for such ultimate istant decisions as death. According to a recent ACLU study, at least nk of] int, casl 343 innocent people have been convicted of a capital crime since 1900; 25 innocent people have been executed.

Chris Co The death penalty is wrong because it is used in an arbin mana trary, discriminatory and unfair way. Most who are on Death respon Row are defendants who are too poor to afford experienced, rt Wayı and effective counsel. eer ac

Likewise, the death penalty is inequitably administered in ist rece relation to race. According to a study of homicides from 1976

Fear of death deters crime

APITAL PUNISHMENT deters crime.

We hear a lot of debate both pro and con on the subject of capital punishment and deterrence. In the most recent landmark case from the U.S. Supreme Court dealing with capital punishment (Gregg vs. Georgia),

Justice Potter Stewart, writing with the majority, made the following observation:

"Although some of the studies suggest that the death penalty may not function as a significantly greater deterrent than lesser penalties, there is no convincing empirical evidence either supporting or refuting this view. We may nevertheless assume safely that there are murderers, such as those who act in passion, for whom the threat of death has little or no deterrent effect. But for many others, the death penalty undoubtedly is a significant deterrent."

My opponents in this newspaper debate will claim there are no reputable studies supporting the proposition of deterrence from capital punishment. What they really should be saying is that there are no studies that they choose to accept.

JUSTICE DEMANDS capital punishment.

Even if it could be convincingly demonstrated that there is no deterrence with capital punishment, there would still be a need for that penalty on the basis that justice demands it.

The U.S. Supreme Court, again in the case of Gregg vs. Georgia, touched on this argument most persuasively. Justice Stewart wrote:

"Indeed the decision that capital punishment may be the appropriate sanction in extreme cases is an expression of the communities' belief that certain crimes are themselves so grievous an affront of humanity that the only adequate response may be the penalty of death."

There must be justice in the criminal justice system for the to 1980, an individual is seven times more likely to receive a death sentence if the victim is white than if the victim is black. The death penalty is wrong because it fails to deter violent crime. Since about three-fourths of all murders involve family members or close acquaintances who are killed out of anger or passion, the threat of the electric chair has little effect on these spontaneous, unpremeditated acts.

On the other hand, premeditated murders are committed by people who do not expect to be caught. They are no more deterred by the death penalty than they would be by life imprisonment

THE DEATH penalty is wrong, finally, because it diverts our attention from the real needs of victims' families, and from what might truly improve our society.

If we have the death penalty, it will make people believe something is being done about crime when in fact nothing is being done about crime when in fact nothing is being done except expending enormous sums of money that will divert precious resources and attention away from dealing with the common cancerous crimes of car thefts, breaking and entering, mugging, rape and armed robbery.

We are alarmed by the widening cycles of violence in our society. To all who are asked to take a stand in the current petition drive or, if need be, in the general election, we have one message: Say no to death.

Religious Leaders Against the Death Penalty is an interfaith, interracial statewide organization committed to opposing the introduction of death as a penalty in Michigan. You can learn more by writing:

Judith Craig, bishop, Michigan Area of the United Methodist Church crime of first-degree murder; capital punishment is a just punishment for that offense. It is a punishment that fits the crime

If it is true in America that we stigmatize criminal conduct by the penalty we associate with it, then to stigmatize the heinous crime of cold-blooded murder we must have a punishment of sufficient severity.

AN ENGLISHMAN by the name of Sir James Stephan put it in proper perspective when he said, "The reason murder is considered so dreadful a crime is that we hang murderers.'

I choose to define capital punishment in terms of justice. But when the U.S. Supreme Court justices discuss capital punishment in their many opinions, they always refer to it as an act of "retribution." The Supreme Court says you must have gunishment in the criminal justice system; if you do not, the gystem and respect for it breaks down.

In support of that last statement, one need look no further than the following quotation from Furman vs. Georgia:

"The instinct for retribution is part of the nature of man. and channeling that instinct in the administration of criminal justice serves an important purpose in promoting the stability of a society governed by law. When people begin to believe that organized society is unwilling or unable to impose upon criminal offenders the punishment they deserve then there are sown the seeds of anarchy, or self-help, vigilante justice and lynch law."

Fine print on credit statements tell true story

INTEREST RATES still are high, despite the campaign rhetoric of the Reagan Administration.

People who can't get it want credit. Young couples buying a house are paying double-digit interest rates. The business credit picture is still bad enough that small businesses are lobbying in Lansing for new kinds of financing mechanisms.

It bugs me, then, to receive - unsolicited - plastic cards in the mail with a line ed — plastic cards in the mail with a line of credit totaling $30,000 or so. Without any kind of application on my part, finan-ciers seem to think I should have gilt-edged, silver-embossed, stunningly print-ed credit card after credit card.

Why me, boss? Why not the young couples and entrepreneurs who want credit?

THE SHORT answer to who gets credit seems to be that the credit card business is a high-profit item. Every time you turn around, the credit card company is making money

First, it makes 3 percent or so from the retailer's gross sales price.

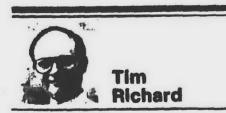

Second, it makes a few bucks off the card holder with the "annual membership fee."

Third, it charges interest at the rate of 18 percent per year if the card holder doesn't pay off in full at the first billing.

Fourth, it charges interest on cash advances, also at 18 percent.

SOME OF the foregoing gems of infor-mation come from the fine print on the back of my lone credit card statement.

And it really is fine print. It's in blue, rather than easy-to-read, conventional-black, designed to cause eye strain if you spend more than five minutes on it.

This statement of "terms and conditions" is printed 120 characters to the line. That's triple the number of characters you'll find in a newspaper column. The type is small.

The idea, of course, is that we're not supposed to read it. The credit card company is relying on our guilibility.

That 18 percent interest rate is an interesting number. One Michigan bank after another has said it doesn't like Michigan's usury laws - usury being the practice of charging what society deems excessive rates of interest. They have moved credit card operations to South Dakota or Virginia.

It's better business, I guess, to zap a credit card customer with an annual fee and South Dakota interest rate charges than to loan a young couple money for a house when they might have a lawyer along to examine the mortgage contract.

FAITHFUL READERS know me well enough to grasp that I'm usually the friend of corporate America, the scourge of the UAW and generally a believer in the free market.

But I can't resist the nagging, gnawing suspicion that credit is being poorly allocated in America.

A solution eludes me. It would be extraordinarily cumbersome for Congress or the Federal Reserve Board to tell banks they must loan U amount to home buyers, V amount to fledgling businesses, W amount to car buyers, X amount to local school districts, Y amount to minorities and Z amount to credit card holders.

Meanwhile, the experts offer this ad-vice: Use credit cards sparingly — and not at all if they are causing you to overspend; pay off the balance every month so you don't have to pay interest; and scrap all the credit cards that come in the junk mail.

Maybe financiers will get the mestage.

Work on the rules revisions began about two years ago, with a Special Education Advisory Committee made up of parents, administrators, teachers and other professionals. The advisory committee package was presented to state Schools Superintendent Phillip Runkel in October.

One of the reasons the rules are being revised is they have been deviated from hundreds of times, especially during the state's financial crisis.

ADMINISTRATORS FOUND that through the deviations, they could save money. Class sizes were larger; teachers taught more kinds of handicapped children, and less time was spent in the special ed classroom.

Concerned about these possible changes are Melba Kubat of Southfield, a volunteer and advocate for parents of handicapped children for 13 years, now running her own consulting business, and Nancy Sura, chairwoman of the Oakland Parent Advisory Committee.

"Dr. Runkel and Dr. Birch (Edward L. Birch, director special education services) have been very supportive in communi-cating with parents," Sura said, "but we are very concerned with putting educable mentally impaired, emotionally impaired and learning disabled all in the same class.'

"I am very concerned with the process by which the changes came about," Kubat said. Kubat is a member of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, by far the largest group in the special education population.

"We were not invited to the meetings," Kubat said.

The meetings Kubat refers to are those held after the advisory committee package was presented to Runkel.

Catherine Trainòr

SOMETIME BETWEEN October and February, representatives of teacher unions, administrator organizations and other professionals met with Runkel. The package made public by Runkel on Valentine's Day was different from the original.

Among the changes in the rules is one that will allow a six-year age range in elementary school special ed classes.

Another change would formalize what has commonly been going on for years: putting learning disabled, emotionally impaired and educable mentally impaired students in the same class.

In theory, you could have a 5-year-old educable mentally handicapped child in the same class with an 11-year-old bril-liant but emotionally impaired child. Teachers cartified to teach children with one kind of handicap, such as a learning disability, are teaching others with a different problem — chicably mentally impaired or emotionally im-paired children. The problems with each are different and require different ap-proaches. proaches.

Under the proposed rules, current teachers will not have to be certified in each disability.

Also formalized will be the "resource center." Students who supposedly need 50 percent or less time in special education will go to the resource center for extra help. A teacher could have as many as 20 children at one time, with a six-year age range and three different handicaps.

KUBAT AND Sura believe that parents of learning disabled children, faced with large classes and teachers giving their best help to more severely handicapped children will put their children in general ed classes There they will get little or so help to the trachers in Printing more time with them will poend less time with general encention students. I would go to the old sod and find out where my great-great grandparents on both sides dug potatoes. I would revel in the brisk, damp air that gave my ancestors their ruddy complexions and, no doubt, drove them to drink.

As time went on, a European vacation seemed less and less realistic. With the coming of children, the ideal vacation shifted to something more American. Culture and history were still important. We wanted them to experience Washington, D.C., stand in awe under the great seated Lincoln, learn history at the Smithsonian and appreciate the glories of democracy at the Capitol and White House. But, for some reason, my two sons don't seem as keen on history as we are. They would rather body surf.

And, lately, so would I. Palm trees and coconuts, warm sea breezes, hot sun on a blindingly white beach - now these are the things that dreams are made on.

There are moments of guilt when I find myself turning away from the ads offering a trip with Father Duffy to Dublin and environs to look instead on a picture of a pleasantly healthy if underdressed young woman inviting me to try Jamaica. O&E Thursday, February 27, 1986 28(P,C) committee needs to hear from you Study

As many of you know, I have been serving on the Canton City Study Committee since last October, along with Ted Grabbe, Dave McDonald, Diane Neihengen and Hank Whalen.

At that time, we were charged with the task of conducting a comprehensive review of the pros and cons of city status. During these months, I have been careful not to refer to that study in this column or on cable TV, simply because to date I have not reviewed all the information I deem necessary in order to come to an enlightened conclusion.

But alas and hurray! Now is the time for all good committees to burst forth and say "So what do you think?"

I wish I could tell you I have reached, or we have reached, a decision, but it seems the more we look, the more we need to know. So for now, I must step back and resist the temptation to tell all.

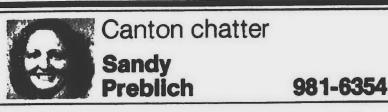

It has not been easy, as you might well know if you know anything about me. I love to tell news, and to be the first with it - what a coup! But that would be irresponsible on my part, and could sway your opinion one way or the other if I were to feed you bits and pieces along the way.

restrain ourselves in order to allow us to have as many of the facts, and to weed out as many of the rumors and falsehoods as possible, before placing the information before you for your consideration. When we do come out with a recommendation, you can believe that we have done all we can, turned over every rock possible, and to the best of our collective abilities placed before you facts and only the facts.

Now, the reason for this information today is simple. We have reached a point in our research where we believe the time has come to find out what you know

Perhaps there is someone out there with a background in city or township life who could shed some light on an area we haven't searched. Or, perhaps you have met with some flaws in either system, city or township government, that you would like to make us aware of, so that we can research them before making our decision.

DON'T GET upset at my use of the phrase "make our decison." Our decison will be strictly an informed opinion of a group of appointed citizens. We will present our findings, our conclusions and the research we used to arrive at those conclusions to the township board upon completion of our research. What happens after that is up to the township board and, believe it or not, you!

That's right, the ultimate decision will be yours. We are trying to sort through the nonsense and answer as many of the anticipated questions as possible in order to save time and for the convenience of the whole township when it's your turn to decide.

Our information will be made available to anyone who wants it upon completion of our task.

Don't take all this too lightly, either. While the decision is ultimately yours, history tells us that a handful of people usually decide the future of us all at election time. Many of you lead very busy lives (who doesn't?) and you may say "Oh, who really cares? I have lived in a city and in a township, and I really never knew one from the other!" Well, don't kid yourself; from what we have learned so far, you'll notice the difference. The question you have to answer is "Is it a difference you'll like or dislike?"

Essentially, as our committee members see it, the question you must answer is "How do you want to see Canton go into the 1990s? As a city or a township?"

WE WILL provide you with as much background information as we can so that your decision can be as informed as possible. However, what we are now saying is this, in order for us to provide you with the answers you feel you'll need, we need to know what your questions are.

I can tell you we have traveled to Lansing, where we met with representatives from the Michigan Office of Management and Budget, the Michigan Municipal League, the Michigan Town-ship Association and State Rep. James Kosteva, who was at one time Canton's township planner.

We also met with Professor Kenneth Ver Burg, an authority and author on local forms of government. We have interviewed all Canton department heads, and met with the Wayne County Road Division, as well as Professor Bernard Klein from the political science department at the University of Michigan.

We have visited a Michigan community that recently switched from a township to a city form of government. Before we complete our research, we plan to visit one other such community, as well as two communities that have decided to remain in a township form of government.

We have examined more data than the typical three-bedroom brick home was designed to hold, and each of us has found or bought new filing systems for our homes as a result.

WE HAVE taken our charge very still a few interviews and probably an-seriously and have tried to respond other file cabinet full of information responsibly. I tell you this so you'll away.

But, as I said, now we must know you what you think. Do you have any areas :-, in mind that we could have missed? We realize that you'll probably have some ; duplicate questions, but that's fine, better to ask a question twice than not to ask at all.

Remember, we are trying to ask the out questions we think you'd want to asknow and to find those answers.

As you can see from the synopsis of what we have done, it would have been quite impossible for each of you tour. gather all the information on your own or to interview all of the people we: have or will.

Make no mistake, we have reached an no decision. As far as I can see, we are.... nowhere near a decision. We are still in the fact-finding stage, so it's impossible for us to have decided anything.

I'm not saying we don't have opin,, ions. If we didn't have them, it would mean all this information isn't affect-ing us in any way. Believe me, that just" isn't so. However, any conclusion is

Bar supports state fund

The State Bar of Michigan has endorsed a statesponsored insurance fund to aid Michigan physicians unable to obtain malpractice coverage from other sources.

George T. Roumell Jr., president of the lawyers' group, said the endorsement was approved by the State Bar Board of Commissioners who represent some 22,000 Michigan attorneys.

"The action reflects the State Bar's concern over recent reports of physicians being arbitrarily cut off from malpractice coverage by insurance carriers," Roumell said.

The insurance fund concept we support already has received the backing of Gov. Blanchard; Dr.

Robben Fleming, who is the governor's special fact-finder in the malpractice insurance problem; and the leadership of Michigan's House of Representatives including Speaker Gary Owen," Roumell added

Creating a state-funded insurance pool to provide physicians adequate medical malpractice insurance coverage is seen by Roumell as "a necessary, immediate step in dealing with the urgency of the maipractice insurance problem in Michigan.

Fleming urges establishment of a state-administered Medical Liability Fund to be financed by an annual assessment on all physicians as a means of providing medical malpractice insurance," he add-

Women take their own path to sobriety

By Richard Lech staff writer

TOMEN ALCOHOLICS are different from men alcoholics, according to sociologist and author Jean Kirkpatrick.

Women have different psychological problems and therefore require different treatment for alcoholism, Kirkpatrick said.

She formed the national group Wom-en for Sobriety in 1975 to offer women a self-help program tailored to their needs and separate from groups such as Alcoholics Anonymous. AA was formed in the 1930s, when it was "not believed there were any women alcoholics," she said.

"Alcoholics Anonymous was never in the very first place intended for women at all," said Kirkpatrick, who is herself a recovered alcoholic.

"It's to its credit that it has helped many women. That shows its very greatness. But I believe women nee something else, which can be in addition to AA or something else entirely."

KIRKPATRICK - not to be confused with former United Nations ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick - is a resident of Quakertown, Pa. She was at Schoolcraft College in Livonia last week to address the local chapter of Women for Sobriety. More than 50 women turned out to hear Kirkpatrick and have her autograph copies of her latest book, "Good-bye Hangovers, Hello Life.'

Kirkpatrick maintained that the formation of Women for Sobriety has increased women alcoholics' chances of recovery by 300 percent. They now have the choice of using AA, Women for Sobriety or a combination of both, she said.

Kirkpatrick said in the past, when treatments designed for men haven't worked on women, it was women, and not the treatments, who were blamed. Women were considered too emotional and uncooperative for the treatments to work.

"The conclusion has always been that the problem is with those neurotic women, and no one has ever said the problem might be with the program."

Women for Sobriety, however, recognizes a basic psychological difference between men and women, she said. Men are raised to have strong egos, so a group such as AA stresses humility as a way of overcoming alcoholism. But women have the opposite problem, Kirkpatrick said.

"I've yet in my life to find a woman who needs more humility."

WOMEN ARE much more prone to suffer depression than men, she said, mainly because they lack a strong sense of self-esteem and personal iden tity, "That's why when you ask women who they are, they say, 'I'm John's wife or Johnny's mother." "Or Johnny's mother."

Women for Sobriety, in its 13-step New Life program, stresses that wom-en need to build a strong sense of self-value and self-worth, she said. Only the first step mentions drinking — "I have a drinking problem that once had me. We now take charge of our life and our disease. We accept the responsibility."

The other steps concentrate on building a positive outlook on life and eliminating negatives. The step that members use the most, she said, is No. 4: Problems bother me only to the degree that I permit them to.

Kirkpatrick suggests that recovering women alcoholics take 20 minutes a day as their own, private time to get close to nature - and themselves. She suggests that they use that time to program their brain positively, starting out by repeating to themselves the program's step No. 5: "I am a capable, competent, caring, compassionate woman.'

'Every thought you have is going to be an action. You can't have a mind of negative thoughts and have a positive life. We can only think of one thing at a time, and that one thing should be a positive thought."

THE MOST-controversial of the WFS steps, Kirkpatrick said, and the one that offers the biggest break with AA's philosophy, is No. 9: "The past is gone forever. No longer will I be victimized by the past. I am a new per-

New Morning School, a certified parent cooperative school for children in preschool through the eighth grade, will host an open visitation day from 9:15 to 11:15 a.m. Wednesday, March 5. For parents who are unable to attend the open visitation day, a parent discussion night will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Tuesday, March 25. Individual appointments to view the school also can be arranged.

New Morning School fall registration can be completed at the open visitation day. Fall classes include:

· Grades one through eight. These classes offer a 12-1 student-teacher ratio and multi-age groupings. A variety of subjects are included, such as music, French, computers, gym/swim, art, a specialized science program, and a full range of academic subjects.

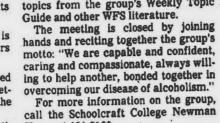

· Full- or half-day kindergarten. Ample opportunity for play, socialization and experiential learning is combined with the introduction of academic skills. A language experience approach to beginning reading and writing is used, along with a phonics approach

• Transitional kindergarten. For children needing an extra year beyond preschool but not quite at the kindergarten level, New Morning offers a daily afternoon class. The class is designed to meet the needs of "young 5s," as well as those of kindergarten age.

· Preschool. Preschool classes meet from 9 to 11:30 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, or on Tuesday and Thursday. They are designed for children ages 21/2 to 6. Music, French, computers, crafts, cooking and readiness skills are included.

T'S A long road from the Livonia Church of Christ to the primitive villages of Kenya, as elder Hay-ward Burton and his wife Sandra discovered last fall.

Chosen by their congregation to tour church sponsored missions in Africa and France, the Burtons spent months preparing for their two weeks in Kisumu, Kenya and a week in Nantes, on the Brittany coast.

Unlike tourists about to take off for some exotic land, the Burtons would live the life of missionaries while abroad -- preaching, helping local villagers, sharing meals with natives.

They set out for their 23-day journey last September with just one suitcase full of clothes. Their other three pieces of alloted luggage contained gifts for the missionaries, Larry and Diane Stephens and their two daughters in Kenya and Kelly Jo Fletcher in France, The Livonia church supports these two foreign missions with about $50,000 annually.

For the Burtons, 30-year Livonia residents with six grown children, the trip was an adventure neither is likely to forget.

FOREVER THEY will remember church services in Kenya: conducted in spartan mud huts. tion seated on backless benches bees, hornets and even a chicken moving in and out at will; Hayward's sermons being translated into Swahili and then into local tribal languages; Masai women, their earlobes sporting large holes and dangling with heavy jewelry, marveling at Sandra's modest pierced earrings.

"We went as representatives of our congregation. Our objective was to try and have them experience it with us, said Hayward, a manufacturer's representative.

Both he and Sandra kept a daily log, which they condensed into a 72-page typrwritten journal to share with their 300- member congregation. The trip also was documented in 400 photographs and slides.

"It was like going back in time to an-other world," said Sandra. "Just to look at pictures, it's not the same unless you're there to see how simply they live.'

FROM THEIR base in Kisumu, a city of 150,000 on the shores of Lake Victoria, the Burtons traveled in a four-wheel drive vehicle to several Kenyan villages on pothill gutted dirt roads that often disappeared into weedy foot paths.

"We never saw another vehicle on grass Added Sandra: "And they were just as curious of our appearance as we were of them. In one bush village where the women kept their shaved heads covered they just couldn't supress their curiousity. They ran their fingers through my hair before we left."

One thing that impressed them about the Kenyans was their cleanliness de-spite doing constant battle with dusty red soil.

"They always looked so very clean, even after miles of walking to service," Sandra said.

WOMEN WASHED clothes and dishes in streams and set them on bushes to air dry in the sun. Although western garb was predominant with the villagers, nomadic Masai warriors wore bright red robes and carried spears.

"One thing we found discouraging was that they didn't repair clothing. We saw children literally in rags because their shirts were so terribly thread-bare," Sandra said. "Some of the missionaries have held classes to show them how to mend clothes. But it hasn't changed."

Photos show that the Stephens family, the missionaries supported by the Livonia church, live a standard comparable to western life.

"Allowing for cultural differences, it's quite the same," Hayward said. "They live in a neighborhood with running water and electricity. They can buy just about everything we can buy here.

"Four mission families live near each other," he said. "They comprise fights occasional bouts of malaria,

"The Stephens learned that the medicine, if taken for a prolonged time, can cause damage to the retina," Sandra said. "So now they only take it when they feel a bout coming on."

Throughout Kenya, the Burtons encountered friendly people anxious to invite them into their modest homes. They credit the attitude of the missionaries for this positive response from the natives.

"The missionaries aren't trying to create American churches, but rather native churches," Hayward said. "The Kisumu team works with 100 different churches. Their role is to be supportive and encouraging, but they hold no authority in any church."

THE NANTES MISSION is different in that it is part of an evangelical con-gregation. While there, the Burtons helped Kelly Fletcher through her regular weekday routine including Bible study, a special canoe picnic trip for church teens, distributing literature, worship services and a business meet-

DON'T LIKE IT.

I don't like it when people change things. In particular, I don't like it when people change things to something I don't like. I thought we had something good going here. Two leagues in the suburban communities we cover were growing into monsters. These two beasts swallowed up smaller leagues, throwing smaller bites back and absorbing those they deemed worthy.

The Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA), which encompasses 12 schools in Livonia, Farmington, Plymouth, Canton, Walled Lake and Northville, and the Metro Suburban Activities Association (MSAA), which numbers eight schools from Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Troy, Rochester, Southfield and Royal Oak, were the demons.

They lurked behind only Detroit's Catholic League and Public School League in power, which I figured was great. Now we'll have some real action, especially in one of my favorite months of the year

MARCH. To some it may herald spring, with flowers blooming as warmer weather thaws the frozen tundra. They view March as a time for love and peace, tranquility and serenity.

Ha, ha, ha. That kind of definition must come from someone living south of Toledo. I still remember snow swirling around Jack Morris in last April's Tiger opener. If you believe spring will arrive sometime soon, then I have an investment you'd be interested in - a luxury hotel in Beirut.

March is just what it implies. The month's name is derived from Mars, the ancient Roman god of war. Is the message clear? Expect nothing pleasant in the 31 days that lie ahead. March is turmoil. Battles waged, vengeance sought, conquests savored. IT'S NO MERE accident that March is tournament time in sports. Emotions run at a fever pitch, with people impatiently, anxiously awaiting warmer weather. The tension builds through bleak February days until it reaches critical levels by March.

So how do you relieve it? You have a tournament

"Tournament - 1. a trial of skill in some game, in which competitors play a series of contests; 2. a meeting for contests in a variety of sports, as between teams of different nations; 3. History: a. a ceremonial contest or martial sport in which mounted and armored combatants fought with blunted weapons; b. a series of knightly contests held at one time and place.'

I didn't write that. It's in the Random House College Dictionary. But I believe it, especially the historical part. I can just see knights of medieval times waiting, waiting, waiting in their cold, drafty castles until the snow melted, then

Last hurrah for Salem?

By Chris McCosky staff writer

Thursday's Western Lakes Activities Association gymnastics meet will not be a typical league meet for Plymouth Salem.

To the Rocks, it is somewhat of a last hurrah.

It is the final league meet for coach Kathi Kinsella and senior Beth Rafail. "This team and I, we kind of grew up together," said Kinsella, who will head west to San Diego after the season to pursue a job at any one of six gymnastics clubs in the city.

"Beth and I have a lot in common in this meet," she said. "We both know it's our last shot and we want to go out strong."

The success of the Salem program is indisputably tied to Kinsella and Rafail. Kinsella took over the program five years ago. The team was 1-19 the first two seasons.

Enter Rafail. In her sophomore year, Salem was 8-2. Last year, the team was 9-2. The team will enter Thursday's meet with a 10-2 mark.

THE FINAL goal for the Rocks, and the eight other teams in the Western Lakes, is to knock off perennial champs North Farmington. The Raiders have won eight straight league titles. Last year, the Raiders got a scare from Walled Lake Western. This year, both Salem and Farmington Harrison are nipping at the heels of the Raiders. "It's going to be a very close meet," said North coach Mary Glitz. "It'll be the best league meet around. It'll come down to balance beam. There are so many falls on beam, the team that hits on beam will probably win the meet."

All three teams have earned team scores in excess of 130 points - that in itself is rather impressive. Salem held the highest score in the area throughout much of the season with a 133.85.

North Farmington eclipsed that Monday night scoring 135.0 against Birmingham Seaholm. Harrison's top score was 130.05.

The next highest team scores in the area were earned by Westland John Glenn (123.9) and Plymouth Canton (121.55).

HOWEVER, THE talented triumvirate will each take some problems into Thursday's meet.

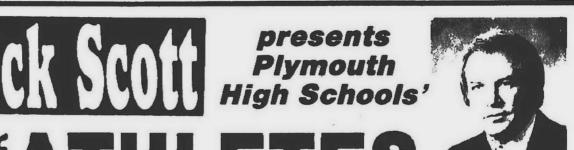

Plymouth Salem's Jackie Huff, its. No. 2 all-around performer, broke her toe last Friday. Kinsella expects her tccompete Thursday but is unsure of her capabilities.

"I know Jackie. She'll go out there: and she'll be in great pain. But she won't do a half-hearted job. She'll go all out," Kinsella said. "But it'll be tough, our chances are getting dimmer by the minute. Our kids won't give up but you can only be kicked so many times."

Rafail, a 34.85 all-arounder, and Becky Talbot (33.25 all around) will have to pick up the slack for the Rocks if Huff's abilities are limited by the in-limbing into their suits of armor and riding off to the season's first tournament.

Farmington Harrison's teams scores have dipped somewhat drastically since reaching the 130 plateau. Injuries and vacations have sapped some of the team's strength.

HAS IT CHANGED so much? Not really Basketballs have replaced blunted lances, that's all.

March tournaments still provide a release for pent-up frustrations, built through months of tortuous indoor training. All teams practice through winter's cold, dreary months with March in mind. More exactly, they practice for the tournament.

Of course, for some teams winning the state tournament is as farfetched as winning the lottery. It's a million-to-one shot. But long odds have never kept anybody from buying into the lottery, and they won't stop an athlete from believing that, if everything breaks just right, he could stake a claim to a state title.

That's what angers me. I thought that by creating two huge leagues like the WLAA and the MSAA, we'd be in for some real tournament fun. Let's face it: Everyone qualifies for the state basketball tournament, but only four teams out of more than 600 finish the season with a win.

The answer is to have more tournaments. Sure, it's nice to play a dozen (or more) games and finish on top in the league, but that can't compare to the drama, the appeal of a tournament.

THE WLAA had a great one in basketball, with all but the last place teams in each division qualifying. But when more schools were added, the format was changed. Now there's only one playoff game, with the first-place teams in each division playing each other, second place against second place, etc.

That's not a real tournament. It's got to be a series of games, so the drama has a chance to snowball.

Here I was hoping the MSAA would follow suit. Once adopted, the format might spread to other tournament-less sports.

I suppose administrators figure too much of a good thing makes it not so good. I disagree. Heck, I cover two basketball games in a day, then go home and watch a couple more on TV, and it hasn't hurt me much (ahem).

Tournaments aren't only good, they're a necessity this time of year. How else can you defuse a potentially serious situation by releasing all those suppressed frustrations? If a team can make a good showing in a tournament, the frustrations will pour out - for both the athletes and fans.

Fewer tournaments mean fewer releases. Which could mean more trouble. It's that simple.

Pretty convincing argument, isn't it? If you believe it, send letters of endorsement — cash or money orders will also be accepted — to me at the Basketball Detoxification Center at Northville State Hospital. These people think I'm crazy!

night. That's what fans are fond of calling Delta Community College's mens basketball team. And usually with good reason.

The duo of Jon Bow (pronounced Bo) and Mo Steward are pretty tough to handle. For example, they combined for 43 points against Schoolcraft College in DCC's opening-round victory in the Eastern Conference playoffs Monday. That got them to Oakland Community College

Wednesday night, but the Raiders didn't allow any repeat performances. In fact, Mo never even got started, and when Bow did, it was far too little, too late. OCC's zone defense overwhelmed DCC to claim an 83-64 triumph.

The victory catapulted the Raiders (18-3) into the conference semifinals Friday at Kalamazoo Valley CC against an opponent to be determined.

The difference in the game was defense. When OCC pressured, the Pioneers panicked and coughed up the ball. They had 31 turnovers in the game to 18 for the Raiders.

'Defensively, we kind of matched up with them a bit," said OCC coach Fred Thomann. Thomann has assumed the head-coaching duties for Tom McPhillips, who has left the team for medical reasons.

THAT WAS a defensive surprise. Not that a Thomann-coached team was so extraordinary defensively - while coaching Plymouth Salem, his teams have always excelled at that end of the court. But OCC dominated with a zone. Thomann has always been a disciple of man-to-man defense.

"We played a zone because we had to do something to match up with their inside game," he explained. "We wanted to keep our big people in the game.

"(Delta) is so inside-oriented, they power you so much, we really wanted to take away their inside game and make them beat us from the perimeter."

In the final analysis, DCC couldn't. Not that they didn't make their shots - they hit 14 of 23 in the first half. OCC wasn't nearly as accurate, but the Raiders had more chances and baskets (16 of 37). The Pioneers' 18 first-half turnovers to six for OCC allowed the Raiders to take a 38-32 cushion at the break.

DCC managed to keep it close until the midway mark of the second half. The Pioneers trailed 47-45 with 10:40 left.

But OCC rattled off 16 unanswered points to end that threat and, for all purposes, the game. Pat Gardner was the catalyst, pumping in seven points in the streak. Willie Jones and Gary Holt added four each.

And Mo and Bow? The Raiders so effectively clogged the middle that Steward managed just five points. Bow had 17, but six of those came after OCC had its 18-point lead.

Jones fired in 23 for OCC, with Gardner adding 22. Holt had 14 and Rod Thompson finished with eight.

Horrors of the road derail Ocelot cagers

By Bred Emons staff writer

Schoolcraft College mens basketball coach Rocky Watkins may be sitting on his 100th career victory for quite some

After reaching the personal century mark last week with a 75-67 homecourt victory in the regular season finale against Delta College, Rocky watched in horror Monday night as his team pulled a Jekyl and Hyde act against the same Delta team in the opening round of the Michigan Community College Athletic Association (MCCAA) tourna- snapped. "It was a complete reversal ment, losing 80-58 in Bay City.

The loss, which left Schoolcraft with an 18-13 overall record, left Watkins mulling the possibility of pulling his team out of the eight-team Region 12 tournament which begins Wednesday at Vincennes Junior College (Indiana). The Region 12 champion advances to the NJCAA finals in Hutchinson, Kan.

"There may have been a distinct possibility that during the last stretch we may have been playing over our heads," said Watkins, whose team's three-game winning streak was the floor in the first half, suddenly of the last game.

"We didn't have the poise that is necessary in a critical game. We were repeatedly hurt by poor passing and we had a complete breakdown in rebounding."

SCHOOLCRAFT JUMPED out to an early 10-6 lead, but rapidly fell apart after making five consecutive turn-

With the rout on, Delta continued its assault, leading by as many as 33 points in the second half.

"In the first half it was the best team defensive performance of any team that I have ever coached," said Delta second-year coach Andy Piazza. "We started out in our No. 1 trap (pressing defense) and we decided to go after their good guards, (Harold) Martin and (Desmond) Steele, because they hurt us

the last game. "We wanted to pressure them and tire them out. And it also made Derrick Kearney (Schoolcraft's leading scorer) come up and help break the press." The 6-foot-5 Kearney tried to run the baseline, but was bottled up by Delta's collapsing zone defense. He was held two first-half points.

After moving to the point-guard spot late in the game, Kearney wound up with a team-high 17 points, but it was too little, too late. Martin and Steele, meanwhile, added 14 and 11.

Maurice Steward, a granite-like 6-5 center, led Delta and all scorers with 22 points.

"I'M REALLY disappointed in the team's performance," Watkins said. "It's the worst half of basketball that I've ever been associated with.

Kristine Bailey - her face emoting pain, frustration and fatigue, her right arm cradled into her left arm as if in a sling - had but one question following the first Western Lakes Athletic Association volleyball tournament Saturday at Farmington Harrison:

"Don't we get a medal or something?"

It seems cruel, but after nearly 14 hours of intense volleyball, Bailey and her Livonia Stevenson teammates would go home empty-handed.

To the victors go the spoils, and on this day, the victor was Walled Lake Western. To the Warriors went the league championship trophy and the Western Division trophy.

To the Stevenson Spartans, runners-up to Westland John Glenn in the Lakes Division and runnersup to Western in the tournament, went only heartache

THE SPARTANS had won nine consecutive league titles going into Saturday — the first six in the old Inter Lakes Conference and the last three in the Western Lakes. • "This is great," said Western coach Fritz Tallian.

"We've watched Stevenson win the last nine years. It's about time somebody else won."

Said Lee Cagle, Stevenson coach: "We had pretty much resigned ourselves to the fact that Western was league champs by virtue of regular season play. Today was just an obligation, not one that I wanted. As far as I'm concerned, Western was the champ regardless of what happened today."

Many coaches felt the same as Cagle and were opposed to a tournament deciding the league champion - although it was the coaches who voted for the tournament format prior to the season.

North Parinte Los

served the final eight points while Bailey and setter Kris Conn controlled the net.

"OUR INEXPERIENCE really showed at the end," Churchill coach Mike Hughes said. "They have to learn to play the game one point at a time. I had girls wanting to know the score after every point. That is not the way to play the game."

Stevenson kept it going in the finals against Western, rolling to a 15-9 win in game one. The keys were the same for Stevenson: terrific backrow passing (Zatorski, Mary Pelloni and Cheryl Sullivan), well-placed sets (Conn) and to-the-floor spikes and tips (Bailey).

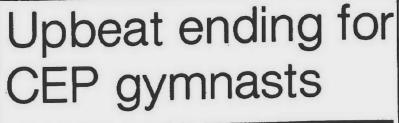

Western turned the tables in game two. With Roselle and Andrews doing most of the work, using sets from Wendy Spencer, Western took control of the net and won 15-11. Andrews scored four points off blocks of Bailey spikes. She also had four kills of Plymouth Canton registered its fourth straight gymnastics victory Tuesday night, beating Farmington 123.75-107.05. It was Canton's highest team score of the year.

Mary Jo Charron won a pair of events for the Chiefs. She took the balance beam with an 8.05 and the floor exercise with an 8.4. She was third in both vault (8.05) and uneven bars (7.45).

Brenda Perry won vault for the Chiefs with an 8.15. Maureen McLean took a second on vault (8.1) and a second on floor (8.2). Lisa DeJong placed second on bars (7.55). Carol Horvath was second on beam (7.9) and Sharon Moran took thirds on both the beam (7.8) and floor (8.1).

Farmington, competing without its No. 1 all-arounder Jackie Daly, got a first on bars from Debbie Ford (7.8).

Canton closed out its regular season with a 6-8 mark.

The team placed eighth out of 20 teams at the Freeland Invitational Saturday scoring 120.7.

PLYMOUTH SALEM ended its regular season with its seventh consecutive win - 127.35-114.6 Monday against Walled Lake Western.

Beth Rafail won all four events for the Rocks. She scored 8.6 on vault, 7.95 on bars, 8.75 on beam and 8.65 on floor.

Becky Talbot was second on vault (8.25), second on bars (7.85), fourth on beam (7.7) and second on floor (8.5). Sharon Way placed third on beam with a 7.85.

NORTH FARMINGTON saved its best for last.

The team amassed the highest team score in Observerland in its final dual meet Monday beating Birmingham Seaholm, 135.0-109.5.

Leading the scoring was the talented trio of Eileen Murtaugh, Lucine Toroyan and Kara Karhu.

Murtaugh and Karhu tied for first on vault, each posting a 9.0. Murtaugh won on balance beam (8.9), placed second on floor exercise (8.8) and third on uneven bars (8.2).

Toroyan won both bars (8.7) and floor (8.9). She placed third on vault (8.55) and second on beam (8.55).

Karhu placed in a tie for fourth with teammate Marilyn Dunn on bars (8.05) and third on beam (8.5).

Kim Straitor also had a strong meet for North. She placed second on bars (8.3) and fourth on vault (8.15).

Lisa Brundle took a third on floor (8.05) and Cindy Tijan a fourth on beam. Laura DiCicco placed fifth on floor (7.65).

The Raiders finish the regular season with a 12-1 record.

OLSM eyes NLCAA prize Rockets, Hawks

By C.J. Risek staff writer

For three of four teams at Orchard Lake St. Mary's Dombrowski Fieldhouse Monday, it was tuneup time. For the fourth, it was time to tune out.

The basketball double-header served as a preview of this weekend's National Little College Athletic Association (NLCAA) district tournament at Flint Jordan College. In Monday's opening game, Michigan Christian met Grand Rapids Jordan College, and in the nightcap host OLSM battled Oakland University.

All but OU are destined for the NLCAA district. For the Pioneers, Monday meant a bright end to an otherwise dismal season, as they decimated OLSM 98-76.

The opener was equally one-sided, with Michigan Christian galloping past Jordan College 114-95.

Both games were decided by halftime. MCC had a commanding 59-37 lead at the intermission, and JC never got closer than 15 afterwards. OU built a 55-29 bulge at the break and the best OLSM could do was to narrow it to 20 in the second half.

AT FRIDAY'S NLCAA opening round, MCC will play Nazareth College at 6 p.m. MCC, ranked No. 1 in the NI.CAA, defeated Nazareth 93-57 Jan. 14. OLSM will meet JC at 8 p.m. The winners will play at 3 p.m. Saturday for the championship and a berth in the NLCAA 16-team tournament in Bristol, Tenn. March 8.

The MCC-JC game was over after the 15-minute mark of the first half. The Warriors, 22-1 and guaranteed a spot in the NLCAA tournament regardless of the district outcome because of their No. 1 ranking, broke from a 10-6 lead to an 18-6 advantage in a 54-sec-ond span. Anthony Strickland had four of MCC's eight points in the streak.

That burst was a signal of what was to come. The Warriors took off at every opportunity, fast-breaking after turn-overs, missed shots and baskets. JC was outmanned and simply could not keep pace. Another 15-2 run put MCC ahead 40-18 with 6:55 remaining in the first half. Dave Lyerla had seven of those points. The second half was all offense, no defense for both teams, as the game degenerated into a track meet.

"WE GOT into a race," said MCC coach Garth Pleasant. "We had kids playing who normally don't play, and they just wanted to put the ball into the basket.

"In the first half, we ran the break well, but we were shooting quicker than we usually do. (JC) just didn't get back on transition. Unfortunately, we didn't either. Our object is not to give up an uncontested basket.

"But it was the nature of the game. It was the last one of the season, the crowd was screaming . . . we just lost all concentration defensively."

in the first half after a three-point play by Chris Howze and a basket from Johnny Johnson. A Steve Kopicki threepoint effort pulled OLSM to within six (24-18), but that only briefly stalled the Pioneer express. OU rattled off the next 10 points, Pete Schihl scoring four, to open up a 34-18 gap with eight minutes left. A 10-2 run followed a minute later, and the Pioneers closed the half by scoring ceven of the last eight points.

It was an impressive performance for a team closing out a poor season. OU lost its last six Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC) games and finished 5-11 in the GLIAC and 13-15 overall. Could this final game have any incentive for the players?

"Yes and no," was how OU coach Greg Kampe answered. "For the seniors, it was the last game they'll play. For the underclassmen, it was a chance to show me what they could do.

"I wanted us to play some good defense and I wanted us to play hard. We did both." ON THE OTHER bench, OLSM

coach Tim Domke tried to sound optimistic

'Quite honestly, if you want to evaluate it, they have five seniors and go 11 deep. We don't have that. "Still, we should have been winning in the first few minutes. We missed a couple of layups and charged right into a guy. That's a 12-point swing - six we should have had and six they got. We didn't show any patience or poise. We try to make them practice that, but that's hard to do.

"We can't overpower people. We have to execute."

Johnny Johnson and Dave Hintz got 14 points each to lead OU's scorers. Scott Bittinger added 13, Schihl had 12 and Rob Skinner and Walter Dixon had 10 apiece. Skinner also had nine assists and eight rebounds.

He provides both the tangible and intangible ingredients to Harrison's success

WILL LUND and Rod Sarcevich, two aggressive and muscular 6-3 seniors, have been pleasant surprises inside for the Hawks. The team may get outsized but rarely outrebounded. The two also have shown the ability to score. Scott Bisseli has ruined many a zone defense with his outside shooting ability. He and George have a simple but special chemistry between them: George gets Bissell the ball where Bissell can score.

The Hawks play a scrappy, hellbent-for-leather style of game. They play an unrelenting, untiring pressure defense. They deploy a variety of presses and do not ease up when they fall back into their zone.

The reason they are able to apply pressure for 32 minutes is a bench that goes 11 men deep. Teachman uses virtually everybody on his bench. Players like Jeff Hoskow, Bill Otto, J.T. Quarles, Sam Shanborn, Jon Weisberg, Mark Rosen will shuttle in and out of the lineup.

PERHAPS THE Hawks' biggest weapon Friday night, though, will be its home court and its rowdy fans.

"Our team gets charged up by our fans," Teachman has said throughout the season.

Westiand John Glenn and Farmington Harrison play basketball at only one pace: uptempo.

"John Glenn has so many weapons," Harrison coach Mike Teachman said.

"When they run the break, it doesn't COACHES: Glenn: Gordie Davis, H matter who gets the ball."

So, will the Hawks attempt to run with the Rockets?

"Oh, you bet we will. We will run with anybody," Teachman said.

And what about Glenn's strategy? "We will have to try and slow down Ha: rison's break," Glenn coach Gordie Davis said. "But it could very well be a track meet.

BOTH TEAMS wrapped up their division titles early and have been anxiously biding time waiting for Friday's showdown. The wait has taken its toll on both.

Harrison stormed through its first 14 games without a loss and had the Western Division wrapped up after 12 league games. Then the Hawks lost back-to-back games to Livonia Churchill and Plymouth Canton before defeating Walled Lake Central and Walled Lake Western.

Glenn began the season slowly, losing four of its first seven games including a 64-59 loss to Harrison Dec. 17. But, with four games left in the Western Lakes regular season, the Rockets had clinched the Lakes Divi-

Recently, the Rockets have struggled. They won squeakers against North Farmington and Churchill, then lost to Plymouth Salem Friday. Now it's time to get serious.

"This is what we've been working for all season long," Davis said.

WHERE THE Hawks, with the exception of one bad week, have been quite consistent this season, the Rockets were one team before Christmas and another since.

"We're playing better as a team," Davis said. "We were inexperienced coming in, and we were making a lot of mistakes that we aren't making now. Where we were really having now. where we were really having trouble was protecting leads. When we lost to Harrison, we led by eight points going into the last quarter. We lacked poise to hang on - we're bet-ter in that department now."

Davis also made a monumental coaching move that has bolstered the Rocket attack. He switched his guards, putting Greg Bates on the point and Steve Hawley on the wing.

He made the switch after a disappointing loss to Canton. Since then, Glenn has gone 11-1, and Hawley has averaged 25 points a game. He is averaging 22 on the season.

AVE YOU EVER heard a song called "Bob's Golashes"? Sounds intriguing, doesn't it? Well, don't expect to find it played on a Top 40 station between the latest products from Lionel Richie and Melissa Manchester.

However, if you spend any time at the few Detroit-area clubs that feature original local music, you may have heard it sung by Chris McGorey with his band, Dog Latin.

McGorey, a 27-year-old resident of Redford Township, sings, plays guitar and writes all the songs for Dog Latin. For these musical endeavors, he uses a barely cloaked pseudonym, Christopher Gorey.

"I've been writing since I was real young, since before high school," McGorey said. "But I didn't start actually playing until after high school. I was too lazy to ever take guitar lessons. I always had a guitar, though."

MCGOREY STARTED out writing lyrics and made "head arrangements" of his tunes - a technique used by composers unfamiliar with standard musical notation, which allows them to sketch a basic framework for their songs, in order to communicate their ideas to other musicians. After playing with several long-forgotten groups, McGorey took a position as bass player with Mr. Unique and the Leisure Class, an eclectic and experimental ensemble that released a 10inch record in 1983. The liner notes list the bassist as Christopher James, another McGorey ghost name.

"It was like an apprenticeship," McGorey recalled. "I learned a lot about writing."

Unfortunately, Mr. Unique's singer and drummer had a sort of songwriting dictatorship, so the lessons McGorey learned were applied to songs he couldn't hear a band play until he formed his own. Eventually, McGorey left for just that reason.

He soon hooked up with bassist Ken Hottmann and drummer Tom Riss to form Dog Latin, switching to guitar and a frontman role.

THE LINEUP rehearsed McGorey's songs until he felt the music was ready for the public ear. The band has performed for the last two years at some of the metro area's more noted showcases, including Paycheck's, Traxx, Todd's and Reruns.

Consort leaves message of hope

The one program in the Images Festival dedicated to contemporary music took place last Sunday at the Recital Hall of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

The performing group, the 20th Cen-tury Consort, was established in 1975 and is in residence at the Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden in the Smithsonian Institute.

In its effort to make contemporary music accessible as well as entertaining, the group features primarily works by living American composers.

Most of the composers on the program fell into this category and, with the exception of George Crumb, aren't widely known. The one non-American on the program, England's Ralph Vaughan Williams (1872-1958), was represented with songs from the cycle 'Along the Field."

Following on the heels of the Juilliard String Quartet program earlier in the day, this one was inevitably anticlimatic. Switching it with another on a different day - and thus making it the only one on that day - would have given it the opportunity to stand on its own terms, instead of becoming an appendix.

HOWEVER, since the two programs attracted different audiences, this was the only program of the day for most of those present.

Along with the Vaughan Williams work, the program included: "The Snow" by Stephen Dembski (b. 1949); "Greetings from 1984" by Jon Deak (b. 1943); "A Little Suite for Christmas" by George Crumb (b. 1929); and Spring Songs by William Doppmann (b. 1949). This list with the dates affirms the correlation between the degree of establishment of a composer and his age. To evaluate new works by unknown composers objectively is a difficult task at best, and moreover, the contemporary composer has to compete with more established composers past and present.

The work on the program I found most appealing was the one by Vaughan Williams. Soprano Carmen Pelton sang the lyric, tonal melodies to the tuneful accompaniment of violinist Elizabeth Adkins.

Second choice goes to "Greetings from 1984" by Deak. This work for violin and piano demands considerable acting skill and narration from the players. It is based on three paragraphs from Orwell's famous novel, and the title implies a response to Orwell from those who reached that fateful year.

Adkins was joined by pianist Lambert Orkis for this performance, which featured comic gestures and the use of an assortment of percussions, gadgets and party whistles.

You work hard all your life and what do you get? Well, depending on where you work, you could get cancer. Asbestos has been proven to cause cancer. Certain toxic chemicals like formaldehyde and freon are being investi-gated. If you've worked with radioactive particles or even worked near them, your risk is greater. And even if you've worked nowhere hazardous, it wouldn't hurt to get a checkup. Because the incidence of cancer after the age of 45 to 50 increases rapidly. Over the next several years the American Cancer Society will be conducting more research into certain lifestyles and exposures which could increase cancer mortality. So know the risks. Don't smoke. Watch what you cat and drink. Look for the warning signs of cancer. And retire not only with a gold ticker. But a healthy one, also.

Floating hotel

Cruising on the Thames: a relaxing way to travel

This is the first of a two-part series on a hotel barge trip down the Thames River in England aboard the ACTIEF.

CTIEF WAS docked when I first saw it in the dark of evening. The lights of the city of Windsor reflected gold and white in long glistening bands from Elizabeth Bridge.

As I stepped aboard, I heard the sound of distant traffic, sharp bursts of laughter from two young people out of sight on the grassy embankment and a murmur of ducks. I met my shipmates over a simple, elegant dinner: perfectly cooked lamb chops, cheese, pavlova, wine and coffee.

The following morning we followed the low stone wall along the Thames into town, where the royal castle rose in crenellated profile uphill beyond a cricket field.

The royal family was not in residence at Windsor Castle that day, but a statue of Queen Victoria, imperiously dressed in bronze, gazed down Peascod Street near the castle gate, where people in suits and jeans and skirts and scruffies moved past the Elizabethan storefronts.

THE CHANGING of the guard took place on the castle green. We followed the red coats through the Henry the Eighth Gate for a quick tour of the castle before we ambled downhill again to the ACTIEF.

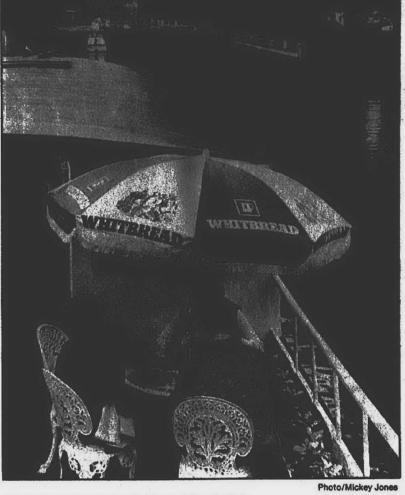

That was Monday, the day when the ACTIEF pulls silently away from its Windsor mooring on its one-week trip upriver. In one gliding moment, we were between grass-and-tree banks; with only the roar of a plane overhead to remind us of the 20th century. We headed for the first three locks on the River, and beyond to Clivedon Reach, an Italianate Mansion built on the top of a grand hill by Sir Charles Barry, architect of the Houses of Parliament, and owned after 1893 by William Waldorf Astor.

The famous American woman Nancy Astor lived there. The mansion was willed to the National Trust to further Anglo-American relationships, and is used now by Stanford University as an overseas campus.

It was a 10-minute walk up a steep hill from our landing site to the house, where we toured the gardens before setting down to our first real night 'at sea.

the spires of Oxford and the Goring Gap to Mapledurham and on past 1,000 years of English history to the royal castle at Windsor. (One week the AC-TIEF cruises upriver, from Windsor to Oxford, next week it does the return run.)

It is only 50 miles in one direction.

You can drive it by road in an hour, but here on the Thames they do it the way the Romans, Saxons, Vikings and Normans did centuries ago, slowly, stopping to walk through kissing gates to ancient churches and time-stopped villages, most of them built at fording places on the Thames.

DUCKS CLUSTER like a garden of flowers around the boat, totally unthreatened by it. They move casually out of the way as the boat moves through them.

One is entranced by the sound of water rushing over weirs, small dams built centuries ago to provide deep wa-ter for fishing and flour mills. In those days, boats were either pulled up-stream over the weir or launched downstream in a jet of water.

There is the smell of flowers in the gardens around the lock master's house at each of the many locks we pass. through on our journey, and historic homes and castles appearing around the bend of a river or high on a hill.

The accomodations on the ACTIEF are slightly larger than those on a sailboat, with room for a bed and a chest of drawers, an adjoining toilet and shower. Upstairs, the two main centers of activity are the dining room and the small sundeck.

THE BAR in the dining room is just like the one you have at home, except you sign for your drink and pay the bill at the end of the week; drinks and a typical cruise ship tip for the crew are the only additional costs aboard.

You must stand on deck and poke your head through the galley to believe that the gourmet meals are actually cooked by the same three-person crew that opens the locks and ties us up to trees woke to find ourselves floating or a river Tuesday morning, tied to a tree but the setting soon reminded us that we were in England, heading for the ancient village of Cookham bypasses a natural bend in the river, where an old weir still dams the water. We tied up and took the red rowboat under the bridge and past a grey elapboard builder and twan Master to the Queen.' Swans and Swan Master to the Queen.' Swans were once treasured food, so all the were once treasured tood, so all the swans in England belong to the queen. CRUISERS were parked on the riv-er beside a swath of green grass, with the squared stone tower of the town church rising as background. A few beautiful houses faced the river on the opposite bank. Water gazers sat on folding chairs. A golf course was visi-ble on a nearby hill.

Cookham looks like a stage set de signed for an "olde Englishe" play. The traffic moves on the road now so it is hard to remember that the Normans came through this kissing gate and through the churchyard when they came here with their Domesday Book

Nowadays, Cookham cottages are owned by wealthy Londoners, but no-body would blink an eye if Robin Hood stepped out of the footpath with his merry men.

Next week: Upriver to Henley-on-Thames.

Natural wonders help make Banff top tourist spot

By Joy Ashenbach National Geographic Society

BANFF, Alberta - Frank McCabe and the McCardell brothers climbed down a tree-trunk ladder through a hole in the roof of a cave in the Canadian Rockies in 1883 and discovered something as good as gold.

"Like some fantastic dream from a tale of the Arabian Nights," William McCardell described it: a mist-filled wonderland of dripping stalactites and bubbling warm waters, similar to the strange basin of hot springs the trio had found nearby.

Railroad workers turned prospectors, they smelled a fortune in the "healing" sulfur springs. Rough bathhouses were soon constructed. The Canadian Pacific Railway was pushing west through the snowcapped mountains to the coast.

BUT THE men had not staked a clear claim to

'Banff is as much a symbol of Canada as the RCMP (Mounties) in scarlet," says park official Rob Harding. "It is the spearhead of the balancing act between development of recreation facilities and preservation of the natural' environment in our parks."

The demands on Banff have swelled beyond the sulfur springs, once bottled as a cure-all for every-thing from gout to gunshot wounds. Keeping up with recreation trends has led to 2,500 campsites, 800 miles of back-country trails, ski slopes on three mountaines, the buildup of Banff town, upgrading service facilities at Lake Louise, and "twinning" the Trans-Canada Highway through the park to a fourlane, dual roadway.

FIVE TO seven-million people, sometimes at a bumper-to-bumper crawl, pass through Banff each year.

"It used to be, years ago, that Banff would close down in the winter. Now, not only skiling, but winter camping is popular," Harding says. The 1988 Winter Olympics are to be held at the park's doorstep, sprawling over the open country between Calgary and Banff's east side.

Having a town in a national park may not con-form to current concepts of ideal planning, but Banff's western town of 4,000 "has grown hand in hand with the park," Harding points out. "It was the base camp of the Rockies. It has a historical role." Park headquarters looks straight down the one main street - gold and white centennial banners flying - into the craggy face of Cascade Mountain. Future construction is to be confined to "filling-in," on vacant sites within the existing town limits.

The park itself is protected on the north and west by three other national parks, Jasper, Yoho, and Kootenay.

After 100 years, Banff still posse range of natural wonders, from a dozen waterfalls tumbling down a "weeping" mountain wall to ghost-ly "hoodoos," strangely shaped pillars of sand, soil, rock, and gravel left along the river bank by ero

Grizzly bears, bighorn sheep, elk, and mountain goats still roam free, but when bears bother tourists, they are helicoptered back to the wild by park war-

SPLASHING THROUGH a stony mountain stream on horseback, one can still hear the past sounding through the valley in the moaning horn of the Canadian Pacific as it speeds along the main line through the Rockies.

Although the original hot springs are no longer the lure of today's Banff, they are the focus of this year's centennial celebration. Parks Canada spent $9 million creating a centennial center around them their springs near CPR Siding 29. The railroad and the Canadian government stepped in. In 1885 the hot springs and 10 square miles of land around them became the birthplace of Canada's first national park. The park would help pay for completing a Canadian dream, a transcontinental railroad.

Siding 29 would become Banff town, named for the Scottish birthplace of the railroad's first president. The park legislation noted that the springs "promise to be of great sanitary advantage to the public."

But Banff in the beginning was an international spa for the well-to-do, advertised as "an enclave of refined civilization, deep within the Canadian wilderness.'

Grand hotels were built overlooking the Bow River Valley and at Lake Louise, jewel among the mountains' emerald lakes. Swiss mountaineering guides were brought in to escort socialites and outdoorsmen to the glaciers and back-country.

AT AGE 100, Banff is Canada's most visited national park, attracting more than 3 million people each year, more than the Grand Canyon, Yosemite, or 113-year-old Yellowstone, the oldest U.S. national park. More than half of Banff's visitors are from the United States.

The 2,564 square miles or 1.6 million acres that now make the park one of Canada's largest are renowned for perhaps the most magnificent mountain vistas in North America.

African art

Madonna exhibit highlights black history month

Photography, art forms, artifacts and histories of black culture were all part of an exhibit at Madonna College in Livonia February 13-18.

In celebration of February as Black History Month, the school hosted the private collection of African and Afro-American art of Bishop Moses Anderson, auxiliary bishop of Detroit. The bishop, a member of Madonna's board of trustees, received much of the art as gifts over the past two decades.

"My personality is that I have always been interested in art," said Bishop Anderson. "It happens that all artifacts in Africa are religious, except those being made for tourists."

The bishop's knowledge of African art was also greatly expanded during a six-week visit to Ghana in 1973 on a cultural grant.

"This is the royal cloth of Ghana," explained the bishop, pointing out lengths of brightly patterned fabrics arrayed in a showcase at Madonna's library gallery. "It's made on hand looms. You wear it by wrapping it under one arm and then drawing it across the body. I have about six vestments made out of this cloth."

BISHOP Anderson commented on another display of cloth, this one featuring a set of fabric markers used to produce the design. The markers, he said, speak a language, sending a message such as good luck, God be with you or carrying the symbols of justice and service.

Like the Adinkira cloth stamps, the wood carvings at the exhibit also carry messages.

"I fell in with the philosophy of art and have found it to be a way to demythologize the statements of prophets. The redefinition by the artists helps our understanding of what we're being told," he added.

Frank Hayden's "Tower of Babel" woodcarving was not closed in a case at the exhibit, but open to the close-up views and touch of those visiting the display. The warmth of the wood and smoothness of the carving draws one's attention to it: one need only look at the nently displayed in Louisiana churches, businesses and university buildings. Other commissions have been executed in Pennsylvania, Virginia, Illinois and at Notre Dame University in Indiana, where he was once a student of Ivan Mestrovic, a Yugoslavian sculptor of international reputation.

BISHOP Anderson, acting as host at the reception, spoke glowingly of the talents of this black sculptor and his ability to express his feelings and arouse ours as well through his art. In his works, Hayden expresses a "fundamental belief in humanism.".

The bishon remembers a time when it was said that "black people cannot be Christians." In tracing his roots back to Africa and in appreciation of the African heritage, Bishop Anderson shows in his art collection the faith that has been put in God over the centuries.

Many of the fine paintings in the art exhibit show the caring for one another and respect for family and country.

BATIKS displayed at Madonna centered on life in African villages, portraits of black history.

In the bishop's collection are several Charleston Gullah baskets. This low country coil basketry is one of the oldest crafts of African origin in America, dating from the 18th century.

There are assorted masks, drums, gold dust boxes and statues that give a depth to daily life in Africa. Many of the paintings that depict biblical events are portrayed in a basic format that easily relates God's will to his people, noted Bishop Anderson.

"You must understand that I do not have the resources to personally purchase this fine art," explained the bishop, who has acquired many of the items through his relationship as a "father figure" to the artists, such as Frank Hayden and John Scott.

This particular display was held at the college at the request of Sister M. Francilene, Madonna College president. The college has held numerous multicultural workshops over the years aturized, and reduced in price so that everyone with a 35mm camera should consider having one.

Electronic flash unit is almost a necessity

Today, I'll discuss how flash units work. Later, I'll tell how you can use flash to improve your photography.

Basically, a flash unit (or strobe) consists of a covered reflector fitted around a gas filled tube which is ignited by an electronic charge. Electricity comes from self-contained batteries (or AC) and is stored in a capacitor.

When you depress the shutter release, triggering devices in the camera fire the flash at the precise moment the shutter is open.

Instantaneously, the capacitor begins to restore more electricity in preparation for your next shot. This process is called recycling. Depending on the flash unit, recycling time will vary from a fraction of a second to as much as 15 seconds. When recycling time takes more than 15 seconds, it's time to replace (or recharge) the batteries.

Over the past few years, electronic new Besure to use the flash synchroniza-flash units have been redesigned, mini- tion speed on your shutter speed dial, usually 1/60 second and indicated in red or orange.

> THIS IS the speed you must set when using your flash because it synchronizes with the burst of strobe light. At faster shutter speeds, the focal plane shutter curtain would not have completely cycled and you'll only get a par-tial picture. It would be like looking at a movie screen with the curtains partially opened.

> Since electronic flash units fire at an average of 1/1000 second or faster, the indicated shutter speed on your camera isn't a factor in correct exposure. Adjustments are made only by changing the lens opening.

> Thus, in a room where ambient light is weaker than the electronic flash (and this is almost always the case), slow shutter speeds don't result in over exposure or ghost images because aperture alone determines proper exposure. In fact, the speed of flash is so quick that pictures taken with flash are often sharper because camera movement is negated.

Other advantages are convenience and economy. A small flash unit is easily stored in a pocket or camera bag where at one time bulky packages of flashcubes or bulbs had to be stowed. And once you have purchased an electronic flash, the only extra cost is buying batteries.

The cost per flash is negligible, however, because modern units can give you hundreds of flashes with one set of batteries.

The light output of a strobe is measured by a "guide number." The higher the guide number, the more powerful the flash unit. I recommend a guide number of at least 40 with 100 ASA film. This way, you'll be sure to have a strong enough flash.

MANY YEARS ago, the photographic industry introduced automatic electronic flash. Added to the flash unit is a sensor which measures light being reflected from the subject. This information is then relayed to a tiny computer which senses when enough light has been bounced back, and, by means of a quenching circuit, cuts off all remaining light.

The main advantage of automatic flash is that you can photograph subjects at varying distances from shot to shot and get perfect exposure each time

Dedicated flash units are becoming tures of your camera to give you a win-

Artists of tomorrow

By Mary Jane Doerr special writer

If talent is fostered by environment, then it is no wonder that twin sisters Margaret and Sara Parkins display such musical ability.

Last weekend, cellist Margaret Parkins won a $600 prize in the instrumental division of the Oakway Symphony Orchestra's "Artist of Tomorrow" Competition. In 1980, her twin, Sara, a vio-" linist, also won the competition.

Margaret, a master's degree student in music at the State University of New York, received her award from the Arts Foundation of Michigan for her mature and expressive performance of a very difficult and intense piece, "Schelomo, Hebrew Rhapsody for Cello and Orchestra," by Ernest Bloch.

The work is symbolic of King Solomon and the Jewish soul as it vibrates throughout the Bible. Much of the inspiration for the music comes from the book of Ecclesiastes.

In view of the nature of the subject, a mature understanding of the music is needed for any performance. Parkins brought that understanding to the unmistakable Hebrew melodies, giving a strong musicality to her technical ability as a cellist.

ANDREE AZAR, violinist, captured second place and $400 from the Arts Foundation of Michigan. She holds a . bachelor's degree and performer's certificate at the University of Indiana. Her interpretation of Mozart's "Concert No. 5 in A Major" was forceful and directed with a clear sense of purpose. She has a strikingly sweet tone in her playing and a technique that leaves no doubt of her precision. Each note is clear, no matter how fast her runs are.

Third place and $200 went to University of Michigan master's degree student, clarinetist Jane M. Carl, a graduate of the Music Academy of the West. Her "Concerto for Clarinet" by Carl Nielsen was a display of acrobatics and technical feats for any virtuoso performer.

also loses its musicality in the rapid notes and unusual sounds required of the performer from the instrument. Nielsen was composer ahead of his time but was not a proponent of jazz motifs. In the vocal division, soprano Marie Radcliffe won the $300 Nelda DiBlasi Vocal Award for her very stylistic performance of Bach's "Cantata No. 51."

THE ORCHESTRA was cut in number to a small chamber size using a Bach trumpet to play the high notes of the score. Radcliffe, who has done graduate work at the L'Ecole Hindemuth in Switzerland, is currently studying with Carolyn Grimes at Wayne State University. Her voice, though not large in its volume, was flexible and took each of the trills easily and in rhythm.

Perhaps the best overall stage performer of the day was April McNeely, winner of the Edward Bielaczyc Vocal stage, McNeely has won concerto competitions at Oakland University where she currently is a music education student.

She had an almost mezzo-soprano sound in her middle voice in her first solo, the famous aria from Rossini's Barber of Seville "Non piu mesta." (According to the program "Non piu mesta" is from "Barber of Seville" but this aria is from "La Cenerentola" and "Una voce poco fa" is from "Barber of Seville.") MCNEELY'S SECOND solo was Gershwin's "Summertime" sung with a very lyric soprano voice.

The orchestra rose to the occasion in delivering the accompaniment for five very different concertos and musical styles under Conductor Francesco Di Blasi's direction. The concert opened with a fitting tribute to Ann Howlett and Esther Weyer with Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring."

Monte Nagier's electronic dash froze the action en at a recent Fairlane Town Center fashion of this shot at its peak. The picture of Debbie show. Palleschi in the arms of Matt DeShantz was takto your financial life, consider organizing a monthly maintenance file to gain better control over your money. The Michigan Association of CPAs suggests the following sched-

BY NOW: The sooner you contribute to a 1986 Individual Retirement Account, the more tax-free earnings you'll accumulate. If self-employed, open a Keogh account. Both will lower your current tax llability and build a retirement nest egg. If you have not already contributed to a 1985 IRA, vou have until April 15 to do so. There are no extensions for Keogh deadlines: the account must have been started by Dec. 31.

April 15 is also the deadline for a 1985 income tax return. The sooner you file, the guicker you'll get back a refund if any is due.

investing in a 1986 tax shelter should be considered now to ensure getting the safest and fullest tax benofite

Draw up a new budget. Figure your fixed expenses for each month including rent or mortgage payments, utilities and any other expenses which you do not control. Then calculate the monthly sum of all expenses over which you have some

If you need to add some discipline control: transportation, taxes, medical care, entertainment, clothing, insurance and food. Then total your Income from wages and investments for each month. Subtract the difference to determine your "discretionary" Income - If any. Set aside a reasonable cash fund each week for out-of-pocket expenses.

MARCH: Plan to reduce your taxes this year. Estimate your 1986 taxable income. Make sure you're not having too much withheld from your weekly paycheck. If in need of shelter from taxes, review investments now. Check your capital gains position. Consider establishing a trust or making a gift to shift income to a lowerbracket family member.

APRIL: Deal with debt. If you are in debt because of credit cards, consider consolidating credit card loans Credit card debts frequently carry annual interest rates that are higher than other loan rates. By taking a personal loan to pay back credit card companies, you can cut the interest dollars you pay back.

MAY: Tune up your savings. If you are maintaining a savings account, be sure to leave no more than a three- to six-month "emergency

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

No doubt you've heard the aggressive sales pitch; radio and newspaper ads vigorously vying for your re-tirement savings. Why all the interest this year?

With banks offering single-digit interest rates, investors are turning to brokerage houses and Investment firms in greater numbers than ever before to get the best return on their Individual Retirement Accounts. "(Investors) are missing the bandwagon if they stay with a bank and get 7 or 8 percent (Interest) on their IRA. They can earn twice that," said Mark Kierzkowski, a stockbroker at Prudential-Bache's Birmingham office. "It's really snowballing. We're getting lots of bank money." IRA funds historically have gone into interest-rate investments like insured certificates of deposit at banks and savings and loans. But now for the first time since the IRA program started in 1982, average longer term CD rates have dropped below 10 percent.

That has sent many IRA investors shopping. But the vast range of choices can be confusing, and some argue on the side of safety when advising on IRA investments. "The prime investment goal of an

IRA is to preserve capital," said Jim Dorsey, financial editor of the IRA Reporter, a Cleveland-based turn, take a few minutes to make sure you've wrung every deduction and credit to which you're entitled. After all, a dollar is a dollar and better in your pocket than Uncle Sam's or the state legislature's. Robert Czapiewski, a certified public accountant with Swad and Co. of Livonia, offers several tips that may help you come out further ahead or at least avoid the long arm of the Internal Revenue Service.

First, a point of order. A tax credit is a dollar-for-dollar reduction of tax due. A tax deduction is an offset to income, which generally results in a lower tax liability. Now, for some of the finer points.

· A new diesel-powered car, light truck or van bought in 1985 is eligible for a tax credit of up to $198 (based on type of vehicle). Consult Form 4136.

 A state or local refund received in 1984 must be included as income on Line 10 of Form 1040 this year if the taxpayer itemized in tax year 1984. But the refund may be subtracted from Income on Line 49B of this year's Michigan state return.

Low interest rates changing IRA picture

"Investments offering higher yields won't be insured, and they'll have market risks."

But that hasn't stopped the flood. Investors are choosing programs ranging from moderate risk options like mutual funds (investing in AAA securities to net a 12 or 13 percent return) with a small risk to principle to more aggressive alternatives like the stock market, which means greater risk but also the possibility of greater return.

"Interest rates are low this year and should remain stable, providing a good opportunity to go beyond reliance on bank CDs," said Michael Hillman, director of retirement plan services for First of Michigan Corp.

"Investors should do their homework," he advised. "The bottom line is what you do today with your IRA will impact 30 or 40 years down the line.

"It's important to have an investment adviser you really trust. You can't see a bank teller for advice. Sit down with an investment professional and create a long-term structure for your IRA."

Options range from investing In stocks, bonds, mutual funds, limited partnerships and real estate deals. One of the primary factors in how much risk an investor should be willing to take is age.

Younger people with IRAs can afford to be more aggressive," broker Kierzkowski said. "They can invest in stocks and mutual funds that may fluctuate through several business cycles. They have enough years ahead to find a good average."

Those closer to retirement age can't afford the gamble. Popular with older IRA investors are government Insured bonds because they offer high yield and preservation of capi-

"Government security bonds are 100 percent insured, and interest rates are stable at around 11 percent." Kierzkowski sald. "Older Investors have less time to make up for loss, so they choose more secure investments."

Another popular option this year is zero coupon bonds.

"(Investor) buys a very discounted bond, say a $1,000 bond for $250." Kierzkowski said. "It won't earn interest, but it will mature in 10 or 15 years. And like with government bonds, you've locked yourself into a fixed rate. You know exactly what you're going to have."

Some 60 percent of the national $202 billion IRA market is deposited in banks and savings and loans. Investors are expected to put $44 billion in IRA accounts during the 1985 tax year.

The banking community, which could stand to be the big loser, is taking steps to preserve and encourage IRA accounts.

Banks like Michigan National, National Bank of Detroit and Comerica are offering investment plans through brokerage houses.

Bob Saoud, a telemarketing representative with Michigan National, explained how his bank can offer IRA customers options from the Dreyfus investment firm.

"The customer sets up a settlement account with Michigan National and then can choose from four Dreyfus funds, including a variety of bonds and mutual funds," he said.

There are other ways to keep IRA money safe and get extra yield out of banks and savings and loans:

· • Open a long distance IRA with one of the banks paying especially high yields. At the end of January, two insured institutions offered annual yields of around 11 percent on five-year CDs, according to the publication "100 Highest Yields:" Continental Savings in Angelton, Texas, and Gill Savings in San Antonio.

· Many banks now offer variablerate CDs for 18-month terms.

· Watch for banks that offer bonuses in order to bring their current advertised yields back into double-digit range.

For those who choose to take their IRA money out of the banks, the best advice experts offer is to diversify.

"It's not the time to be completely invested in the stock market," said James Schabacker, editor of the Switch Fund Advisory in Gaithersburg, Md.

His service recommends that onethird of IRA funds go into money market funds, one-third into bonds and one third into equities.

"When in doubt, diversity," he said.

Before mailing that income tax re-company-sponsored pension plan may be subject to special tax treatment called 10-year forward averaging. Use Form 4972.

"A little-known fact is the state doesn't tax a company pension distribution if it is forward-averaged," Czapiewski said.

Tax may be deferred on the lumpsum pension distribution by placing it into an individual retirement account.

• The Internal Revenue Service allows a deduction of 21 cents per mile - up from 201/2 cents - for business use of an automobile. Mileage isn't allowed between home and the workplace. Detailed records must be kept. Consult Form 2106.

· A federal tax credit ranging from 20 to 30 percent of child care expenses is available through Form 2441. Maximum credit is $720 for one child, $1,440 for two or more.

· A federal tax credit may be taken for contributions to a political party or campaign. The credit, onehalf of the amount given, is limited to $50 on single returns, $100 on joint.

· Individuals who sold their houses last year must report the sale on Form 2119 even though they may
