New House bill would eliminate SEMTA board

Calling it a doomed agency, a Detroit lawmaker is seeking to abolish the 15-member board governing the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority and turn its policy functions over to the State Transportation Commission.

State Rep. Curtis Hertel, a Democrat, said his bill would replace the SEMTA board with a "smaller, more responsive group of policy makers."

The State Transportation Commission is a bipartisan, statewide, six-member body appointed by the governor. STC devotes most of its time to highways, but also oversees state port and public transit fund disbursement. Until 1978 it was known as the Highway Commission.

Chairman of the House Transportation Committee, Hertel likens his proposed state takeover of the SEMTA board to the state's placing the superintendent of public instruction in charge of running Wayne County Community College.

HERTEL SAW no hope for a bill by Sen. Richard Fessler, R-West Bloomfield, to cut the seven-county SEMTA service area to four units: Detroit and the tricity area.

Fessler's bill would replace the SEMTA board with a four-member body that includes the mayor of Detroit and the three top leaders of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

"There have been five versions of Senate Bill 363 (Fessler's bill, which passed the Senate but is stalled in the House), and the various factions of interested parties are nowhere near a compromise," Hertel said.

"It is the board, not the seven-county authority concept, that is the problem," Hertel said.

While praising SEMTA's bus service, Hertel said the board is "paralyzed" along city-suburban lines, has failed to seek alternatives to federal funding cuts and has mishandled the cost overruns on the downtown Detroit People Mover project.

THE CURRENT SEMTA board is chosen by what Hertel branded a "convoluted" method.

Four are chosen by the mayor of Detroit; four by the Wayne County executive; three from Oakland County by a variety of methods — the county board, the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments and a caucus of local governments; two by the Macomb County board; and two by other means.

"Unable or unwilling to act independent of their appointing authorities on major issues, board members have consistently side-stepped critical policy decisions and have locked themselves into day-to-day administrative matters," he said.

State will widen Ford Rd. in '86, Michigan in 87

Nearly $9 million in construction has been scheduled along Michigan Ave. in western Wayne County as part of the Michigan Department of Transportation's summer work schedule.

The project will involve widening to eight lanes a 2.4-mile stretch running to I-275.

Transportation officials said the bulk of the project likely will be done some time next year.

Another nearby project announced by state Transportation Director James Pitz last week included work on Ford Road. A 1.5-mile segment will be widened to five lanes from Sheldon to Haggerty Road in Canton Township. Some $3.6 million has been targeted for this project. Work is expected to begin soon, officials said.

ELSEWHERE in Wayne County, the state will repair 10 bridges on I-75 within the city of Detroit including widening the structures over Outer Drive.

A total of $185 million in construction work is planned in the tri-county area including Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. The largest single project — and the most publicized one — is taking place along the Lodge Freeway. Workers will rebuild eight miles of the freeway over the next two years at an estimated cost of $39 million.

Across the state, M-DOT is planning to spend $500 million on highway and road repairs. Pitz said much of this summer's work is being done during off-peak hours.

"On the Lodge we're deliberately not doing heavy construction this year because we don't want motorists tied up," he said at a Southfield news conference.

ONCE THE Lodge project is completed, he said, MDOT officials will turn their attention to the Ford (I-94) Freeway and the Southfield (M-39) Freeway.

No determination has yet been made which project will be started first, though the leaning is toward making repairs along the Ford first, he said.

Pitz said total reconstruction is needed along the Ford Freeway within Detroit's city limits.

Permanent patching is also needed on the Southfield Freeway.

Spouse-abuse talks Friday

The Tri-County Coalition Against Domestic Violence will bring several noted speakers to a half-day conference Friday in the Oakland County Board of Commissioners auditorium.

Speakers will include Frank Kelley, state attorney general; state Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee; Judge Jessica Cooper of the Southfield District Court; James Bannon, Detroit police executive deputy chief; and Janet Findlater, Wayne State University associate professor of law.

Open to the public for fees of $5 for members and $10 for non-members, the event will run from 8:30 a.m. to noon. The auditorium is in the county service complex at 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac.

Conference sponsors say the speakers will focus on the options, problems and frustrations encountered by abused spouses and changes they seek in the legal system.

Local congressmen back attack on Libya

By Teri Banas
staff writer

The right response at the right time was the consensus among area congressmen to the U.S. bombing raid against Libya.

"I felt the action had to be taken. This was a very carefully designed hit on service centers, barricades and landing fields," said Congressman William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Broomfield, the top-ranking Republican on the House foreign affairs committee, said the evidence is "irrefutable" that Libya's Col. Moammar Khadafi is responsible for the recent terrorist bombing in a Berlin discotheque. U.S. Army Sgt. Kenneth Ford of Detroit was killed in that incident.

"That was the straw that broke the camel's back," he said.

"WE'VE GOT to take action against the people harboring and promoting terrorism."

Broomfield said he supported the president's decision because diplomatic responses and tries at economic sanctions, requiring full European support, were unsuccessful.

Broomfield was among a small gathering of national leaders Reagan briefed in a two-hour meeting on Monday. That meeting ended one hour before the strike was launched from U.S. air bases in England.

A bipartisan outpouring of support came from area congressmen.

"I hope that more countries will stand up to the effort to fight terrorism," said U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, whose district includes part of Livonia.

"It was a response that had to be made," said Pursell, adding that terrorism has to be addressed because, if not, "it spreads like a cancer."

U.S. REP. Sander Levin, D-Southfield, whose district includes Redford Township, agreed. In a prepared statement, Levin said he supported the president's action.

"We had no choice," he said, adding that between diplomatic and economic sanctions "neither worked."

Levin said he regretted the lack of public support among U.S. allies after the mission and called on them to wage economic sanctions against Libya.

U.S. Rep. Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit, whose district includes part of Troy, said although he is "all for taking action against terrorists and wants to support the president" he is concerned about what happens next.

"I have concerns about what our overall plan will be. We need to do more to beef up security in this country and to protect travelers abroad," said Hertel, adding he expects to receive answers to some of those concerns next week at a secret briefing.

U.S. SEN. Carl Levin, a Democrat, in an interview with a Detroit TV station Monday night, agreed the strike was justified based on intelligence reports he reviewed. He said it was "measured" and "appropriate."

Though disappointed with the lack of allied support, he said "we'll have to act with or without their support."

Salem's only principal is retiring for travel

By W.W. Edgar
Staff writer

Bill Brown, principal of Plymouth Salem High School, will be ending an interesting career when he retires at the close of the school year.

Leaving the school behind him, he and his wife plan to travel and see the places they always have wanted to see around the country.

Owners of a recreational vehicle, they plan to drive to Maine and then down the Atlantic coast. After that they'll be heading for the West.

"We have never seen California," Brown explained the other morning, "and now we won't have to be in a hurry and we can really enjoy that portion of the country."

BORN IN GOSHEN, Ind., in 1931, he married in 1950 and is the father of two daughters.

In high school he earned a football scholarship to the University of Florida. He entered as a fullback and wound up as a guard.

After that, he enrolled at Eastern Michigan University.

For Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, he had the honor of being named principal of Plymouth Salem High School when it opened, making Brown the only principal Salem High has had.

Being so close to the school, and its running track, he is now well known for being a runner. Until recently, he ran several miles each morning.

Several months ago, he was stricken with a heart attack which stopped his running. Now he walks three miles each morning.

"I got the signal with the heart attack. So I cut down running. I awaken each morning now at 4 o'clock and head for the track."

"It also struck me that the time has come to take things easy and enjoy the traveling we always had dreamed about."

AS A ROTARIAN in Plymouth, Brown took pleasure in bringing the leading students from both high schools to the meetings each week as student guests to get acquainted with community leaders.

"Now I am going to take things easy. I have enjoyed life up to now. But when I got the signal with the heart attack, I figured the time has come to do a few things I always longed for. We are going to travel and see the country and I will retire with a feeling that the enjoyment at Salem was a reward for hard work."

"It is now time for enjoyment, but I never will forget the satisfaction I had as head of a great school. And, when I can, I will keep on walking — just to answer the signal I got with the heart attack."

"But I never will forget my days at Salem High School and the friends I made in the education fraternities."

Catherine McAuley Health Center; A Trusted Friend for 75 Years

Choosing a physician and a hospital is one of the most important decisions we can make. As a unit of Catherine McAuley Health Center, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital has been this community's trusted choice for the past 75 years. St. Joe's began here in 1911 at the request of local residents. Over 400 private physicians in more than 30 specialties rely on St. Joseph Mercy Hospital to provide what is best for their patients. Last year alone, 23,581 patients trusted both our physicians and our facility to give them quality, compassionate care.

the birth of your child as natural as possible, our neonatologist and Special Care Nursery are always on call in the event of a complicated delivery.

Trusted by Surgeons and Their Patients

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital has experienced surgeons in all specialties. More than 16,000 surgeries were performed here last year—everything from minor outpatient surgery to the most demanding and complex inpatient procedures. St. Joseph Mercy Hospital started its Department of Surgery over 50 years ago. We believed then, and we believe now, that specialization leads to highest quality health care. These surgeons choose St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for their practice because of its tradition of providing excellent facilities and equipment along with professional and compassionate staff.

'Star Wars' debated on suburban campuses

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Debate over President Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative — alias "Star Wars" — has moved to suburban college campuses.

An opponent, speaking at the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College, ridiculed SDI as unworkable.

"It's like setting up a machine gun on the top of the Empire State Building in New York and shooting at tennis balls in Wimbledon, England," said retired Air Force Col. Robert M. Bowman, who once directed advanced space programs development.

An advocate, speaking at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, predicted SDI would have scientific spin-off benefits that would be an economic boon.

"People underestimate technological growth," said Dr. James A. Inson, one-time Troy resident who is director of the government's Innovative Science and Technology Office. Bowman's speech last week was made under sponsorship of the Nuclear Freeze Movement. Inson spoke Monday in a high-tech lecture series co-sponsored by UM-D and Ford Motor Co.

IONSON, WHO who has two degrees in math, physics and astronomy from the U-M and a doctorate from the University of Maryland, said that even if it's imperfect, SDI could be an effective deterrent to war.

"An aggressor's confidence level would be eroded below the threshold" of a desire to attack, Inson said. "SDI systems are not designed to destroy human life."

The government is in the second-year of a five-year program of research on SDI. A former NASA official, Inson is one of six top technical directors of research.

As visualized, SDI would use ground bases to shoot laser beams to space-station mirrors, which would reflect them to destroy Soviet attack missiles. If adopted by Congress and a future president, Inson said, SDI would destroy enemy weapons without destroying people or cities.

Among spin-off benefits could be use of laser technology in welding, signal processing and the medical operating, he said, likening a laser beam to a surgeon's scalpel.

BOWMAN, PUSHING his book op-

'The Soviets won't allow us that superiority (Star Wars). They will go to war before they allow us to deploy such weapons.'

— Air Force Col. Robert M. Bowman, Ret., who once directed advanced space programs development

Reagan and the 1980 Republican platform think in terms of "absolute military superiority," Bowman said, offering his opposing view: "In the nuclear age, there is no national security — just common security. The enemy is not the Soviet Union but nuclear war itself."

He urged Reagan to "cash in" his SDI chip at the Geneva bargaining table and "become the greatest peacemaker in history."

BOWMAN RIDICULED the idea that American-sent laser beams could destroy Soviet missiles launched against the U.S. Items:

• Heat-detection devices would have to warn the U.S. of the launching of Soviet missiles. American lasers would have to do their work during the brief "boost phase," when Soviet rockets are boosting their missiles. He put the accuracy rate at 0-10 percent.

Saturdays fun days on Hines

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Glory days are coming to Hines Park this summer.

This week Wayne County Parks officials won support for closing a six-mile portion of the park roadway to vehicle traffic on Saturdays.

Walkers, joggers and bicyclists will have uninterrupted fun during the warm-weather days, said Vic Chiasson, assistant parks director.

The decision is to close Hines Drive between Warrendale, located just west of Outer Drive, to Ann Arbor Trail in Westland. The closure will be between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. each Saturday May 3 until the end of September.

"Last year we closed the park on 12 days, but it was done on different dates," said Chiasson. "This way people will know in advance and can plan on it."

The decision made Tuesday by the Hines Park Task Force, a gathering of mostly police officials from western Wayne County communities along the parkway.

Chiasson said the new plan will enable parks staff to organize special events on those days. But he said the staff is most pleased with garnering a "safe" spot for bicycling, which has grown in popularity as a family activity.

According to Chiasson, the Wayne County Sheriff's Department will be cooperating with the road closure. One other police agency, the Dearborn Heights Police, already has pledged assistance.

Parking will be available at the various picnic sites, he said. For more information, parks staff can answer questions at 261-1990.

Learning disabled are learning 'enabled' at OCC

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Counselor Lawrence Gage looks at the bright side. He thinks of certain students, not as "learning disabled," but as learning "enabled" because of the help he can give them at Oakland Community College.

"An oasis in the desert for many capable learning disabled students" — that's how Gage sees OCC's role.

Federal law in 1975 mandated that all elementary and secondary schools have handicapped programs. Now more learning disabled are completing high school and aspiring to post-secondary dreams," Gage said, explaining the great growth in numbers of LD students.

Gage was the chief moving force behind OCC's efforts to help the learning disabled. He has the title of "counselor advocate" at the Orchard Ridge Campus in Farmington Hills. His counterparts at other campuses are Suzanne Pickering at Auburn Hills, James Rutkowski at Highland Lakes and Thomas Stone at Royal Oak.

NOT EVERY LD student can be helped by a college, and some are referred to vocational programs. But Gage is building up a string of success stories:

• A recent Michigan State University graduate, who had been helped by OCC for his reading impairment, landed a job as a cost accountant for a major corporation.

OCC worked with him in developmental reading and in providing taped textbooks. "We played off his strengths," Gage recalled. "Making them feel good about themselves — that's 50 percent of it. We build up success experiences."

• Another reading impaired student got help with his English and social studies at OCC, then went on to earn a bachelor's degree at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit. Today he works for a firm in office and industrial design.

OCC's help can take many forms: training willing faculty in how to help LD students, modifying testing procedures, tutoring in the campus learning laboratory, or arranging for note-takers, interpreters and textbook recordings. It's all done with existing resources, said Gage — no special LD budget.

• A math-impaired former OCC student received her bachelor's degree from Central Michigan University, teaches elementary grades and is determined to become a special education teacher. Gage thinks she'll be a better special ed teacher because of overcoming her impairment — not only because she has "a lot of compassion" but because "she knows how to approach it from several different directions."

"We got her through algebra. She's OK to teach the elementary curriculum. She can employ the concepts she used to learn numbers and the multiplication tables" in dealing with problems of her own students, Gage said.

• Another math-impaired student got help in pre-business math and eventually earned a degree in sales and marketing. "On a one-to-one basis, he's charming, articulate — a natural in dealing with people," Gage said.

A learning disability, says OCC counselor Lawrence Gage, is a permanent disorder that affects how individuals with normal intelligence take in, retain and express information.

He likens it to having a TV set where you get a good picture on channels 2, 7 and 9 but a fuzzy picture or poor sound on channel 4.

LD may be caused by perceptual handicaps, brain injury, minimal brain dysfunction or other problems.

LD does not include visual, hearing or motor handicaps, nor does it include mental retardation, emotional disturbance or handicaps due to cultural or economic disadvantages.

that LD students are now aspiring to college. Between the fall of '84 and last January, OCC's enrollment of LD students tripled from 54 to 180. They are at every campus — 98 at Orchard Ridge, 50 at Auburn Hills, 21 in the Southeast campus system (Royal Oak and Southfield), 11 at Highland Lakes.

To Gage's mind, that's as it should be. With its open enrollment policy and experience in helping older and non-traditional students, OCC is equipped to deal with students that other institutions would consider high academic risks.

"I did a statewide survey," Gage said, "and found that only four other community colleges (of 28) have learning disability programs. Some others assist, without a specially designated LD program."

His own interest started in 1962 when he was a student at Southern Illinois University. Studying the Strauss Syndrome, he found himself "fascinated by people's seeming abilities in some areas and severe deficits in others."

"FOUR PERCENT of Oakland County's school enrollment is diagnosed LD," Gage wrote in a 1984 report. That amounts to 7,600 students. "The learning disabled comprise the largest category (40 percent) of diagnosed special education students in Oakland County." The figures bear out his assertion

GiOP has doubts about guaranteed tuition plan

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Democratic Gov. James Blanchard is certain to get at least some Republican Senate opposition to his college tuition-guarantee plan.

One big sticking point will be whether Blanchard's trust fund proposal might need to be bailed out in 18 years if college tuitions rise too fast.

"No state tax dollars are required to run the program," the governor said at a news conference.

"The state would have to bail out (the fund) if tuitions rise faster than the returns on the investment," said a Senate Republican position paper.

Suburban lawmakers, even those who like the idea, still have many unanswered questions.

SOME BIPARTISAN support for Blanchard was assured.

Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, and House Minority Leader Michael Busch, R-Saginaw, announced they

'One thing that the private sector can't do is guarantee that costs of education will be covered.'

— Rep. James Kosteva
D-Canton

would co-sponsor the plan in the House.

"I expressed an interest to the governor early-on," said Kosteva.

"The governor felt we could work together. He was looking for a sponsor from a district which could have a major benefit for," added Kosteva, whose 37th District includes southwestern Wayne County.

"One thing that the private sector can't do," said Kosteva, answering some Republican criticisms, "is guarantee that costs of education will be covered."

STATE TREASURER Robert Bowman said parents could make a one-time investment of $3,100 to $4,600 to guarantee undergraduate tuition at a Michigan public college for their newborn child. Earlier estimates from the administration were that the lump sum would be $2,400.

The state would invest the money, building up the fund with interest earnings to supply as much as $20,000 for four years of college tuition when the child reaches that age.

Parents could make periodic contributions if they can't afford a lump sum, Bowman said.

Blanchard calls the plan BEST: Baccalaureate Education System Trust. He hoped for legislative approval by summer.

REP. MAT Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion, was enthused about "any system to help people cover the high cost of college education."

But he was uncertain whether the state could invest the funds more wisely than could a private firm.

That didn't bother Rep. John Ben-

'I've heard 5,000 different opinions. I'm leaving my opinion open to discussion.'

— Rep. Lynn Bankes
R-Livonia

nett, D-Redford, who quoted treasury officials as saying they earned 21 percent on investments last year.

"That was unusual," Bennett said. "They expect they can earn between 11 and 12 percent this year. That's still 4-5 percent better than you can do at the bank."

"I asked, what about room and board? Bowman said they're going to start out in a small way and see where it goes."

MANY QUESTIONS will come from freshman Republican Reps. Lynn Bankes of Livonia and Judith Miller of Birmingham.

"I've heard 5,000 different opinions," said Bankes. "I'm leaving my opinion open to discussion."

"I have some questions," said Miller. "Is this a proper function of state government? Doesn't the private sector have such investment programs?"

"What guarantee is there that they (children) will go to state universities? What additional staff will be needed to administer this fund? It should be self-supporting."

"And that's just for starters," said Miller, who is a member of the House Colleges and Universities, which will tackle the Kosteva-Busch bill.

A SENATE Republican position paper, released just prior to Blanchard's Tuesday morning news conference, raised a number of questions and objections. Among them:

- Some middle-income families will be unable to afford a lump-sum investment.
- "Some investors might feel cheated if their child goes to a college or university at which the tuition is lower than the tuition at another college or university for which the program is valid. All investors would pay the same amount up front, but not everyone would receive the same return."

• Parents can manage their own investments without "state expense or interference."

• There are still doubts whether the contributions and earnings would be exempt from income taxes.

Ford gives to Rouge fund

Ford Motor Co. has contributed $50,000 toward the clean-up of the Rouge River.

The announcement was made last week from Dearborn's Fairlane Ford Estate.

In a tence were corporate officials and members of the "Friends of the Rouge River," a largely citizens group working on a summer-long clean-up called "Rouge Rescue '86."

The clean-up is part of a 20-year restoration effort being done in the river basin which spans 36 communities and 500 square miles in Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw counties.

Visiting father swept up in world tension

IT WAS AFTER midnight in Malaga. The liberty launch was returning to the USS Coral Sea. The 80-plane aircraft carrier had been in this ancient Spanish seaport for several days.

I caught an occasional glimpse of the oscillating green beacon as the boat full of weary sailors and marines chopped through the dark Mediterranean waters.

The green beacon was one way to alert crew members on shore they were to return at once to the ship.

I was among the returning crew members, a guest of my son, Mark, an electrician stationed aboard the ship. A Navy tradition permits male relatives to join a crew member for the return ride to the United States after a long tour of sea duty.

(Each guest must pay for all travel and living expenses.)

We all now know, the Coral Sea didn't steam west when it weighed anchor. We watch it nightly now on television, a focal point of international tension.

AMONG AREA residents for whom activities of the Coral Sea pose special interest are Mr. and Mrs. William Breaugh of West Bloomfield.

Their son, Lt. Jim Breaugh, pilots an attack bomber assigned to the 39-year-old carrier, nicknamed "The Ageless Warrior." He was in the air over the Gulf of Sidra during the Holy Week confrontation with the Libyans.

Bill Breaugh also was planning to meet the ship and ride back with his son. But the trip was called off immediately after a bomb ripped apart a Berlin discotheque, killing Detroit Sgt. Kenneth Ford.

Bill Breaugh was notified in time of the cancellation. But I had left the night before and didn't learn of the call-off until arriving on the dock in Spain.

At that time we all thought the only change in the ship's planned departure for Norfolk was the cancellation of the family members participation.

The crew of nearly 4,000 still had its hearts set on home.

We fathers who arrived early held out hope we would be permitted to ride the ship home.

LT. BREAUUGH earlier had told his father by phone he suspected the ship's tour of duty might be extended.

That fear fueled rumors as the ship's crew watched what would happen to those fathers already aboard.

We would be bellweathers indicating which way the ship might go when leaving port. All was hope as long as we remained aboard.

We remained aboard four days. Rumors circulated in the ship's 2,500 various compartments as rapidly and freely as the forced-in fresh air.

Calendars taped to bunks and lockers had large "X" cross-outs.

In the tight passageways, conversation was punctuated with, "I heard we are supposed to..."

But that night, on the liberty launch, tone of the dialogue changed.

"I hope we don't get extended. I don't wanna stay."

"If we have to stay, damn it, I hope we hit 'em good."

"Listen to these guys. It's not that simple. What scares me is they represent a cross section of the country."

"I heard we gotta stay."

A HAND-WRITTEN sign at the quarterdeck said something was up: "All liberty is secured."

In the berthing area, seamen dressed amid the eerie shadows of night lights.

"You'll have to leave the ship first thing in the morning, Dad."

That fitful sleep was shattered: "Reveille, reveille, reveille! All hands, reveille!"

Still, the eerie night lights.

"The chief engineer said we got to be ready to be underway at 0800. We're to head southeast between 18 and 20 knots. Sorry, Dad."

We fathers waited on the incredibly vast hangar deck, that mammoth work area bathed in amber night lights we never see in television shots of the ship.

John Reddy hoped to return home with his son, Mark, aboard the USS Coral Sea, but instead the aircraft carrier headed for the Gulf of Sidra for a confrontation with Libya.

Somewhere Lt. Breaugh was stirring. Mark and I said goodby and he disappeared amid the sleek aircraft, bathed in the amber haze.

Morning cast its light on the waters as we cut toward shore, the USS Coral Sea a massive silhouette in the small boat's wake.

Is it to be true that always there will be wars, and rumors of war?

Does monopoly encourage competition?

TODAY THERE are "new" games that are "non-competitive and non-threatening." I always liked Monopoly because it was neither of those things. It was pretty darn competitive and just occasionally a little threatening.

I did OK as long as I was winning. I paid my luxury tax with a smile and could relax on Free Parking with true peace of mind. When the grim spectre of mortgaged railroads and bankruptcy faced me, however, even having to pay a poor tax of $15 would send me into a rage. My sister recalls that I could snap at any moment, and the board, hotels, houses, Chance and Community Chest cards, tokens and die all would go flying.

Some modern child psychologists might say it would have been better if we had played the game as a cooperative effort. We could have worked together to renovate the slums of Baltic Avenue, spent time counseling those who were in jail because either they did not have $50 or the connections to obtain a get-out-of-jail-free card, and organized users' protests against utility companies using too many die in determining rates. But that wouldn't have been any fun.

The game does give certain false impressions about life, though. It suggests that owning a railroad is a profitable venture and that all one must do to collect a living wage is move about and pass a certain spot regularly. Monopoly guidelines for using property are quite unrealistic. How many friends would I have left if, every time one stopped for a visit, I said, "Hey, what about that rent of $22?" And what would happen if I tried to develop my property according to Monopoly rules?

PLANNING COMMISSION CHAIRMAN — "It says here, Mr. Lech, that you own a home at 405 Ventnor Avenue. Do I understand your application correctly, or is this some sort of typographical error? It indicates that you would like permission to build three new homes on your lot. Can that possibly be correct?"

ME — "Yes, Mr. Chairman, that is what I am requesting. If you will check my application further, however, you will notice that I have followed all appropriate procedures and guidelines. I also will be putting houses on all my other properties at the same time, as required."

CHAIRMAN — "That request in and of itself is highly irregular. But the thing that really concerns all of us on the planning commission is that you state that sometime in the future you intend to tear down these homes and replace them with a hotel. In the middle of a residential neighborhood? Now really."

ME — That is what I intend to do. Assuming, of course, I am able to obtain the funds required and do not go bankrupt first."

CHAIRMAN — "You must take us for complete imbeciles. I'm sorry, but we cannot even begin to grant any of your requests. And I would suggest that the next time you attend any of our meetings you dress with the dignity the occasion calls for. That silver top hat you are wearing is highly inappropriate, sir, highly inappropriate."

Yet Monopoly also offered the vicarious opportunity to do things I might never get the chance to do otherwise. Where else, for instance, would I be able to win $10 in a beauty contest or be elected chairman of the board and collect $50 from everyone? Certainly not any of those non-sexist, non-elitist games. But those new games will come, and go. Monopoly will continue to have a monopoly on my affections.

Health programs pay off; smokers just keep paying

DID YOU KNOW THAT . . .

• According to a recent landmark study, daily energy expenditure increased 104 percent among employees at companies offering a health promotion program. Estimated physical fitness of the workers increased by more than 10 percent. Moreover, these beneficial changes persisted over a two-year period.

Barry Franklin

• At current cigarette prices, the two-pack-a-day smoker will spend almost $8,000 over the next decade supporting his/her habit.

• Bypass grafts for people with heart disease may be constructed from an "extra" vein that can be removed from the leg or from an artery that lies inside the chest wall. Recent research, however, indicates that the artery grafts have a better long-term patency rate (the percentage of grafts that remain open).

• Although many cardiac patients on low-fat diets have been told to avoid shellfish, newer analytic techniques have shown that the cholesterol levels of most shellfish are considerably lower than previously believed. Thus, complete prohibition of shellfish seems no longer warranted.

• A recent report concluded that static radio "white noise" was superior to either music or silence in helping subjects fall asleep. Next time you have insomnia, try tuning your radio to the end of the FM dial.

• It's widely known that many well-trained endurance athletes have low resting heart rates. Dr. Kenneth Cooper, father of "Aerobics", has reported examining one distance runner with a rate of 28 beats per minute!

Barry Franklin, Ph.D. is director of cardiac rehabilitation and exercise laboratories, William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak. He holds faculty appointments at Wayne State University, Oakland University and the University of Michigan.

Heart attack: balloon treatment better than drugs

Using a balloon to open restricted arteries for emergency treatment of heart attacks is more effective than a standard drug, says a cardiologist from the University of Michigan Medical Center.

The balloon technique is known as angioplasty, said Dr. William O'Neill, assistant professor of internal medicine. He called it superior to streptokinase, the standard drug used to treat heart attacks.

The reason: The balloon alleviates the buildup of plaque or cholesterol on the walls of heart arteries, the underlying cause of the heart attack.

THE STUDY was jointly conducted with William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak. Many of the patients treated at University of Michigan Hospital were referred by W.A. Foote Memorial Hospital in Jackson and McPherson Community Health Center in Howell.

"The drug is useful for dissolving blood clots that are often the immediate cause of a heart attack. But the underlying obstruction in the artery is still there," O'Neill reported in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The patient may still suffer from angina — chest pain caused by restricted blood flow to the heart — and may still be at risk for a future heart attack.

Heart attacks commonly occur when a blood clot develops at the point where an artery supplying the heart muscle is narrowed by plaque. The blood clot blocks the flow of blood to the heart muscle. If the blood flow is not restored quickly, permanent damage to the muscle may occur.

O'Neill believes that the most effective treatment for heart attacks is likely to be angioplasty in combination with clot-dissolving drugs.

O'NEILL AND his colleagues studied 56 patients who were treated within 12 hours of the onset of symptoms of a heart attack. These patients were randomly assigned treatment by either angioplasty or the drug streptokinase.

"Our study compared initial success of angioplasty and streptokinase with long-term results. We found that both techniques initially opened blocked arteries with the same frequency, about 85 percent of the time.

"HOWEVER, with angioplasty, the restriction in the artery remained after initial success with the technique in only 4 percent of the patients," O'Neill said.

Michigan tops nation in plant construction

State Commerce Director Doug Ross said that Michigan in 1985, for the second consecutive year, led the nation for both plans and actual bids for new manufacturing plants.

Statistics compiled by the magazine Engineering News Record show that for 1985, Michigan's new plans for manufacturing construction totaled more than $1.1 billion. That was nearly double the second-place state, Pennsylvania, Ross said. For the past two years, manufacturers have announced plans to invest more than $2.8 billion in Michigan.

Cardinal's song starts day off right

By Timothy Nowicki
special writer

Warm temperatures and extended daylight hours have prompted our winter resident birds to begin courtship activities.

Cardinals and titmice that come to feed at our feeder are now actively singing in the yard.

Male cardinals have a variety of songs — their purpose is to announce to other males where one is establishing his territory.

Singing also helps attract a female to the territory where a pair may mate, build a nest and raise young.

CARDINALS HAVE a strong whistle-like cheer cheer cheer song that can be heard from quite a distance. Tufted Titmice have a clear call that sounds like the words Peter Peter Peter.

Listening to these songs in the morning certainly helps start my day off right. To help us hear these songs inside the house, we installed an inexpensive intercom.

A local electronics store sold a simple intercom for less than $10. We installed one end under the overhang by our feeders, facing toward the backyard, and threaded the wire through the storm windows to the kitchen.

When we want to listen, we turn on the switch and hear bird songs. It's surprising the distance from which we can hear sounds.

The intercom also allows my wife and I to communicate from the house to the backyard.

Nature writer Timothy Nowicki will be teaching a bird study class at Schoolcraft College starting May 12.

"Blue eyes. Blond hair. And maybe bad hearts."

Sometimes there is more to family resemblance than meets the eye. In this family, Dad has high blood pressure and a serious heart problem.

His father had the same trouble. So the kids have a much greater than average risk of developing some form of cardiovascular impairment when they grow up.

Someday it may be possible to alter a family's inborn risk factors. Such dreams are the work of Harper Hospital. As a university-affiliated research hospital, Harper is able to sustain major commitments to serious, long-term cardiovascular research and treatment programs. Leading physicians and scientists from around the world are working here at Harper, contributing innovative treatment and prevention ideas for today's patients, even while they work on tomorrow's heart miracles. In genetics. Medication. Stress control. Non-invasive diagnostic techniques, and more.

Modern surgery is also important. Open-heart operations for bypass and reconstructive procedures are saving lives every day. And here at Harper, more of these operations are performed each year than at any other hospital in Michigan.

But today's miracles can do only a small part of the job. Most patients need more. Much more. That's why Harper's Cardiology Program goes beyond surgery. Beyond generations. Call for help today.

Special day offers fun for Scouts

By Julie Brown
staff writer

A LUCKY GROUP of Brownie Girl Scouts got to travel to the four corners of the United States over the weekend — all without leaving Plymouth.

The Brownies from Plymouth, Canton and Northville participated in a special Brownie "B" Day last Saturday. The "Ticket to Adventure" program was held at Central Middle School in Plymouth.

Activities held in different rooms throughout the school helped the young Girl Scouts learn about different regions of the country.

"It's another chance to be involved and learn more," said Sally Nitzel, field director for the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council. "And then to experience some new activities at their age level."

THE DAY'S PROGRAM also allows the Brownies and their troop leaders to participate in a larger-scale activity, Nitzel said, "to be a part of something bigger than their troop."

"And just to have fun." The special activities day for local Brownies has been held for a number of years, Nitzel said.

The travel theme included a "passenger information" booklet passed out to the Girl Scouts, complete with departure date, time and place. The girls checked their coats at different "baggage" points in the school's gymnasium, with their troop number serving as the baggage claim check.

The Girl Scouts visited with a storyteller, Anne Sullivan, as the "northern" activity, hearing the story of Paul Bunyan and Babe the Blue Ox. Junior Girl Scout Troop No. 234 from Northville's Amerman Elementary School, with Jill Anderson as its leader, taught stenciling to the Brownies as the Eastern United States activity.

THE SOUTHERN REGION of the country was represented by square dancing, taught in the school's gymnasium by Ann Fowler. The Western region activity was making Indian bead designs, with Mary Abts doing the teaching.

The girls, in grades one through three, came from 45 area troops. Some 600 girls participated in the day's activities, which were divided into separate morning and afternoon sessions.

Opening and closing ceremonies were a part of the fun for each session. The Brownies received a special "Ticket to Adventure" patch.

A number of hours of work went into planning the day's activities. Those involved in the planning were thankful to see things go smoothly Saturday.

"It's been fun, it really has," said Patty Neu, who headed the committee that planned the special day for Brownies. "It's an experience. I'm kind of on the clouds right now."

Brownies Andrea Morrow (left) and Margot Wilcox promenade across the dance floor to the tune of "Oh, Susanna." Square dancing was just one of the fun activities the Brownies from Plymouth, Canton and Northville enjoyed last Saturday at Central Middle School in Plymouth.

Class-roots effort

Little reunion snowballs into a big bash

By Richard Lech
staff writer

AL TULLER'S little class reunion just grew and grew.

Last December, the Livonia businessman and his friend Gerald Ratkewicz of Canton decided it would be nice to reunite their 1956 graduating class from St. Luke Grade School in Detroit.

Several of their old grade school friends had died recently, and those tragedies made them think that maybe it was time to get everyone together again for old time's sake.

Their modest plans skyrocketed from there.

"Once you start this, it's like a plague," Tuller said. "You can't stop it."

AS TULLER and Ratkewicz start talking to other friends and fellow graduates the reunion expanded to other classes. The next thing they knew Garden City funeral director John Santieu was calling in with the names of 51 members of his graduating class, 1952. Soon, a full-fledged reunion committee was formed, and the hunt was on to find as many St. Luke graduates as possible.

The end result is the St. Luke's Grand Reunion, planned for Saturday, Oct. 11, at the Dearborn Hyatt Regency Hotel. Tuller expects 900 people to attend the bash, representing graduating classes from 1933 to the school's last graduating class in 1971.

St. Luke was a first-grade-through-eighth-grade school on the Detroit-Dearborn border. Although St. Luke Catholic Church still exists, the school itself was closed in 1971 and the building sold to St. John Lutheran Church.

The reunion headquarters is the Livonia office of Tuller's Tuller & Associates marketing representative firm. There he and his band of crack detectives/St. Luke grads have been sniffing out former students at the rate of 35 to 40 names per weekend.

"That's the exciting part," Tuller said. "Once you get a name, it blossoms. That name brings another."

THE AMATEUR sleuths have left no stone unturned in their quest.

"We had a wrong number here the other day, and I said, 'By the way, did you go to St. Luke's?'" said reunion worker Larry Mosier of Westland, a member of the Class of 1953. Mosier, a bread deliveryman, said the research has been a lot of fun — and a lot of work, even when he's home watching television.

"It seems you can't sit down during commercials because you're up calling someone. I've got a stack of phone books at home."

The committee also placed a classified ad in one of the daily Detroit newspapers, had the reunion mentioned on cable television, and have gotten plugs from WJR radio host J.P. McCarthy, WOMC personality Tom Ryan and stations WNIC and CKLW.

"J.P. liked it so much he asked us to call back every month and give him the responses we've gotten," Tuller said.

ACCORDING TO Tuller, St. Luke grads turn up in the most unexpected places.

"I run into people whom I see all the time who, it turns out, went to St. Luke at a different time than I did, and I didn't even know it."

His secretary's mother and his foot doctor, for instance, turned out to be alumni. The most unusual case was a St. Luke grad who was selling her home in California and found out that the buyer was originally from Detroit, too.

"This person went to the same grade school, too, so she said, 'Did you hear about the grand reunion?'" Tuller said.

As the names come in, alumnus Don Belanger of Northville logs them in on a computer set up by grad Jim La Bond of Ann Arbor. The log recently showed 583 people had been contacted so far, and 105 had already sent in their checks for the affair, although reservation forms had just been sent out the week before.

The list of grads takes in 12 states and includes a Yale professor and psychologist, several retired military officers, architects, and attorneys.

"We don't care what they do today, as long as they come," Tuller said.

THE SCHOOL'S former staff will be represented by 11 nuns, five priests and one lay teacher. Tuller also promises a 94-year-old "surprise guest."

The affair is scheduled for Saturday night, but Tuller expects there'll be a weekend-long party at the Hyatt, where many of the out-of-town visitors are staying.

Tuller stresses that the reunion is being conducted independently of St. Luke Church and is a non-profit venture.

"We're here for one reason," Tuller said. "To see old friends and party."

For more information on the St. Luke Reunion, call 476-1110, or write St. Luke Grade School Alumni Reunion, P.O. Box 9444, Livonia 48151.

Stamp event comes to town

More than 3,000 stamp collectors from around the country will gather in Plymouth April 26-27 for the annual Stamp Exhibition and Bourse sponsored by the West Suburban Stamp Club.

Show hours will be 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, April 26, and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, April 27, at Central Middle School, 650 Church St., Plymouth. Admission and parking will be free.

The show is designed to be of interest both to the avid collector (known as a "philatelist") and to the casual collector or beginner. More than 2,000 pages from the collections of veteran collectors will be on display.

THOSE COLLECTIONS will be in the competition for many different awards to be given to the best exhibitors.

Post office substations of the United States, Canada, and the United Nations will sell their stamps at original post office cost (face value).

The more elusive items will be available from 45 professional stamp dealers at the show. These dealers, representing seven different states and Canada, will offer a wide range of material for sale, from the inexpensive to the rare and valuable items.

Those younger than age 18 will be given a free packet of stamps at the show. In addition, the first 100 youngsters will receive a free stamp catalog to help them identify their new-found treasures.

Those attending will be eligible to win a free door prize and to participate in a special donation drawing. That drawing will feature a rare stamp as first prize.

THOSE WHO may have given up stamp collecting, or who simply have extra stamps, will be able to put them to good use. These will be collected at the show and sent to the Shriners' Crippled Children's Hospital Rehabilitation Program. All donations, by mail or in person, will be acknowledged with a special souvenir of the show.

A set of special envelopes commemorating the 100th anniversary of the first four-wheel car will be issued at the show. These can be ordered by mail for $2 per set plus a self-addressed stamped envelope (P.O. Box 643, Plymouth 48170).

The Plymouth Stamp Show is sponsored by the West Suburban Stamp Club, P.O. Box 643, Plymouth 48170. The Plymouth event coincides with Michigan Stamp Week, to be held April 21-27, as declared by Gov. James J. Blanchard.

Public TV needs support

As the year 1986 progresses, and spring is beginning to become a reality, we are lining up our plans for this year's "got to gets."

For instance, I've "got to get" the house painted, you've "got to get" new eaves put up, and we've "got to get" our gardens planted. But within each community, there is another group of people with their own list. They are an unusual sort of "beggar," in that they are out there "begging" for us.

Yes, it is the season to decide what we are going to do for the "us" population, rather than the "me group." In that spirit, I have reminders from some area groups.

Turn on Channel 56, or if you have cable, 27 — today. Now is the time for all good citizens to "pay the piper," and in this case, the piper is "Sesame Street." Or, for the older set, "Nova."

I know many of you may not watch Channel 56 that often, and therefore feel you don't owe them a pledge. Surely someone in your family watches once in a while — so we all owe them something.

WELL, NOW it's auction time. Instead of an outright pledge, you'll get a little something extra for your donation. That means fun and noise and excitement!

Within all that fun and excitement, you'll be doing something good for all of us.

Here are some tips on bidding, if you are an occasional viewer, bid on a dinner package. You can do your bit and enjoy an additional immediate reward for having done so.

If you are a more regular viewer, why not bid on an art piece or some furniture, something you can enjoy along with your regular viewing? If you are a super-loyal Channel 56 viewer, why not bid on a vacation, a car, or a cruise? Better yet, why not donate something?

All donations must have a value of $50 or more and, naturally, clothing must be new. If you bought it and aren't going to use it, why not donate it? Remember, all donations are tax deductible, and they need your help.

LET'S PUT IT in perspective; you buy the toothpaste, the beer, the shampoo, the detergent, the cars. You even take the vacations advertised on commercial television, thus supporting commercial television. All the while, you complain about the constant interruptions of commercials and about the programming on commercial television. Do you, however, support the programming you enjoy? Do you donate to public television? Ah, there's the rub!

So get up, get out, give them a call or donation, and sit back and watch. You'll know that you have done your part.

If you own a business and you haven't donated your own product or service, shame on you. But it's not too late.

We have today, tomorrow, and even Saturday. Shame on me for not mentioning this to you sooner.

Now for something completely different, a couple of reminders. From 6:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Saturday, April 26, what's happening? That's right! The Founders Day Ball. Cocktails will be served from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. with hot and cold hors d'oeuvres. Dinner will be at 7:30 p.m., followed by an evening of dancing and loads of door prizes.

THE EVENING PROMISES to be well worth the $17.50 per person price tag. Tickets are still available through Canton Township Hall at 397-1000, the Canton Historical Society at 397-0088, or Arlene Woods from the Canton Beautification Committee at 455-5915. This is a joint effort of these two fine Canton groups for the betterment of Canton.

We should support these groups that are in on the ground floor of Canton's tomorrow. For additional information call Pam Swiderek at 453-1122 or Geri Wojcik at 459-4132.

However, before you get all dressed up for your night on the town, drive to Canton Township Hall before noon that day and pick up your free seedlings.

You'll receive both trees and shrubs. Planting instructions are available; the plants are just small seedlings, so I'm sure that even your winter-rested back can handle the job.

Actually, the seedlings themselves aren't going to be the problem — digging the hole is the problem. Let me give you a little tip.

AS MANY of you know, I am the procrastinator for all time; this is something I have perfected. On occasion, I have devised methods to aid my procrastination, allowing me more time before I must take action. This is one of those times.

If, for any strange reason, you find April 26 is not the perfect day to plant your seedlings — it's raining, it might rain, it's foggy, it could be foggy, there's the game on television — you can just plant the seedlings in a big pail of water.

They'll just take root and grow beautifully for a long time. Eventually, you'll have to refill the pail with water or plant them, whatever your schedule allows.

Believe me, however, they are sturdy little things and you'll have time to plan for the perfect spot. Don't forget which is which, or you could have a huge tree growing where you meant to plant a tidy little shrub.

Until next week, or whenever I can put it off to, take care. Give me a call!

Ward honors pastor on 50th anniversary

Friends in the community as well as members of Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church of Livonia will honor senior pastor, Dr. Bartlett L. Hess, at 7 p.m. Sunday on his 50th anniversary in the ministry.

Dr. Bartlett Hess 50 years in the ministry

Hess began preaching at the age of 19, ministering at churches in Missouri and Kansas while in school. He served the Trinity Presbyterian Church of Chicago and Warren Park Presbyterian of Cicero, Ill., prior to being called to Ward Memorial Presbyterian Church in Detroit in 1956, which he served until November 1968.

Under Hess' leadership, two branch churches have been started: Trinity Presbyterian Church of Plymouth and Grace Chapel of Farmington Hills, with a third church, Cornerstone Presbyterian, starting in the Brighton area. The congregation recently purchased 140 acres at the corner of Six Mile and Haggerty roads for future development.

Along with his wife, Margaret, Hess has co-authored four books.

Mercyaires mark 25th anniversary

The Mercyaires will be celebrating their 25th anniversary with a reunion Saturday, May 17, at Mercy High School.

Any Mercyaire not yet contacted may call Larry Teevens at the school's music department at 476-8020.

TEMPLE BAPTIST

The Gospel Music Association's "Male Vocalist of the Year," Steve Green, will appear in concert at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 22, at Temple Baptist Church, 23800 W. Chicago, Redford. His latest Sparrow Records release is "He Holds the Keys." The concert is sponsored by the Temple Christian School and the Music Ministries of Temple Baptist Church. For more information, call 855-3333 or 255-5910.

UNITY OF LIVONIA

"Co-creation: Theology of Transformation" will be the topic of a seminar featuring futurist Barbara Marx Hubbard and sponsored by Unity of Livonia. The seminar will be 2-5 p.m. Sunday, April 20, in the auditorium of Clarenceville High School, on Middlebelt north of Seven Mile. Heartsong will provide music. The cost is $10 per person. Tickets are available at Unity of Livonia, 25660 Five Mile. For more information, call Lucille Sorensen at the church at 421-1760.

A candidate for the Democratic vice-presidential ticket in 1984, Hubbard is the founder of the Committee for the Future and author of such books as "The Evolutionary Journey" and "A Personal Guide to a Positive Future." She once called by the late Buckminster Fuller as "the best informed human now alive regarding futurism."

PILGRIM'S MISSION

The Rev. Orlow Webb and Family, singers and musicians from Bedford, Ind., will appear in revival services at Pilgrim's Mission Church, 5737 Middlebelt, one block north of Ford Road, Garden City. The evangelist and his family will appear at 7:30 p.m. Friday, April 18, through Sunday, April 27. For more information, call the church's pastor, the Rev. E. Lucas, at 422-2082.

MT. HOPE CONGREGATIONAL

The Rev. Simion Motz, a member of Evangelism to Communist Lands, will speak at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, April 20, at Mt. Hope Congregational Church, 30330 Schoolcraft, Livonia. Motz was a preacher and author in Romania whose work drew the ire of the secret police and earned him a 17-year sentence in prison based upon fabricated evidence. He emigrated to the United States after his release from prison and is now a resident of Glendale, Calif.

MEMORIAL CHURCH OF CHRIST

Memorial Church of Christ, 35475 Five Mile, Livonia, will have its seventh annual Junior High Statewide Youth Rally on Friday and Saturday, April 25 and 26. This year's theme is "In His Image." The program will begin at 7 p.m. Friday and 9:30 a.m. Saturday. Evangelist David Lucas and the Watchmen singing group from Chesapeake, Ohio, will be the main program.

Saturday activities will include service activities throughout Livonia. Saturday-afternoon recreation offers the option of the Detroit Tiger baseball game against the Chicago White Sox. Registration is $12 for anyone in grades seven through nine attending Friday and all-day Saturday. There is no charge to the general public for admittance to the Friday- or Saturday-evening programs only. For more information, call 464-6722.

ST. TIMOTHY PRESBYTERIAN

Bob Herriman Ministries of West-

land will appear at 7 p.m. Saturday, April 19, at St. Timothy Presbyterian Church, 16700 Newburgh, south of Six Mile, Livonia. The ministries group will minister in music and worship. The appearance is sponsored by the church's board of deacons. For more information, call the church at 464-8844.

TRI-CITY ASSEMBLY

The Wings of Faith Singers will put on an old-fashioned gospel sing at 6 p.m. Sunday, April 27, at Tri-City Assembly of God, 2100 Hannan, one mile north of Michigan Avenue, between Hix and I-275, Canton. For more information, call the church at 721-6832.

TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN

The Reach Out Singers will present a 60-minute concert of contemporary Christian music at 7 p.m. Sunday, April 20, at Trinity Presbyterian Church, 10100 W. Ann Arbor Road, at Gottfredson, Plymouth. The Reach Out Singers is a ministry of Outreach for Christ International, based in Sioux Falls, S.D. Outreach is an international witness ministry that seeks to be an arm of local churches at home and abroad.

OUR LADY OF GOOD COUNSEL

The music ministry of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, 1160 Penniman, will present a spring concert featuring the parish choir, organists and three handbell choirs. The concert will be at 4 p.m. Sunday, April 20, in the church sanctuary. The concert will feature music by Bach, Liszt, Dupre and Schubert.

WARRENWOODS WESLEYAN

Sparkles the Clown will visit the children of King's Korner on Sunday at Warrenwoods Wesleyan Church, 6615 Venoy, Westland. Sparkles (Cheryle Tucker of Applegate, Mich.) is part of an interdenominational clown ministry that visits hospitals and nursing homes.

The King's Korner ministry takes place each Sunday at 11 a.m. at Warrenwoods Wesleyan. The ministry features all the usual parts of the regular worship service, but takes place in the children's chapel, which is decorated like a town park. Sunday school starts at 9:45 a.m., where this week Sparkles will perform a special skit for a combined opening land will appear at 7 p.m. Saturday, April 19, at St. Timothy Presbyterian Church, 16700 Newburgh, south of Six Mile, Livonia. The ministries group will minister in music and worship. The appearance is sponsored by the church's board of deacons. For more information, call the church at 464-8844.

FIRST METHODIST

First United Methodist Church of Garden City, 6443 Merriman, will have a Lay Witness Mission, Friday through Sunday, April 25-27. Thirty laypersons, both youth and adults, will be coming from other churches to lead in this weekend of small-group sharing, large-group sessions and workshops.

An all-church potluck dinner will begin activities at 6:30 p.m. Friday. A general session and small-group meetings will follow the dinner. Coffee groups will meet in homes at 10 a.m. Saturday. There will be a luncheon at noon for everyone of the church, followed by group sessions. There will be a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, followed by more sessions. The lay witnesses will meet with the church school classes at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, then lead in the 10:45 a.m. worship service. Coordinators for the lay witnesses are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Oakley, and the local church chairwoman is Margaret Nash.

WARD PRESBYTERIAN

"Renewal on the Run" is the theme for the annual spring retreat sponsored by Ward Church Women's Ministries from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, April 19, at Ward Presbyterian Church, Six Mile and Farmington roads. The keynote speaker will be Margaret Hess, author of "Unconventional Women" and the wife of Ward pastor Dr. Bartlett Hess. There will be workshops for women of all ages on such topics as positive parenting, "The Superwoman Syndrome," and creative methods for dealing with change. Baby-sitting is available with advance reservations. The cost of the catered luncheon is $4.50. Morning and afternoon sessions may be attended without cost. For more information, call the church office at 422-1150.

ST. PAUL PRESBYTERIAN

St. Paul Presbyterian Church, 27475 Five Mile, Livonia, is conducting a series of historical services at the 6:30 and 11 a.m. worship services on Sundays. Each week the church will look at a different era of history, and the services will be conducted in a manner similar to that time, with appropriate music. The theme for Sunday, April 20, will be "The Age of Reformation."

Passover to begin next Wednesday

The Jewish festival of Passover will be observed from sundown on Wednesday through sundown on Thursday, May 1.

Passover commemorates the liberation of the Jewish people from Egyptian slavery circa 1280 B.C. It marks the exodus of the Jews from Egypt under the leadership of Moses. The first two nights of Passover are celebrated in Jewish homes with a feast called the seder.

No leavened bread is eaten during Passover. Matza, unleavened bread, is eaten throughout the seder.

Toys glamorize evil of violence

As I pulled around the corner, a young man with a machine gun stepped out in front of my car. The paint on the gun matched his camouflage fatigues. This was not a street in Nicaragua or Afghanistan. It was not even a military training base. This was my neighborhood right here in southeast Michigan. The young man was no more than 10 years of age and his gun was a "toy." But the reaction in my adrenal system was no more comfortable than had the "soldier" been older and the weapon real. It occurred to me that my neighborhood is a training ground. Most of us would recoil at the idea of putting porno magazines into the hands of youngsters lest we mold them into exploiters of women with forever juvenile attitudes toward sexuality. At the same time, we are willing to mold them into violence. We do it in the name of fun. Or perhaps we tell ourselves that children need to learn the concept of national pride. Note the tens of toys of violence glorify the ways of violence especially if it is the good guys. And these guys are always the citizens of the nation which builds the toys.

But at the same time we seem incapable of reading the obvious. Violence as a means of ending violence simply does not work. But history plays to an often deaf audience. Many of us grew up in the years of World War II and the toys of our childhood were often of violence toward our common enemies. I remember cardboard statues of the enemy leaders that came complete with cork guns to shoot them down. It was fun stuff and apparently our generation learned well. But does that give us the right to continue to pass on a legacy of violence. IT IS EASY TO point the finger at the perpetrators of evil. There are nations in which none of us would want to live. There are regimes of evil in many places on the globe. But all of this evil put together does not absolve us from our own part in the process of the desecration of the world and the diminishment of life. As long as we continue to make weapons into toys, we can be guaranteed that the children who glory in the toys of today will grow to be the weapons of tomorrow. And as long as religious leaders speak about the pleasure of fighting other human beings we will continue to live the myth that ours is a God who delights in violence as the violence is done by the good guys and the good guys live us.

To change all of this world, of course, demand that we first see the wrong in it all. That, however, is not one of our best skills. It may be that we need to take more seriously the biblical dictum concerning the image in our own eyes. The possibility of change from the eyes of violence will continue to be shaped in the gutter of hope and religious leaders will stamp in man's inhumanity of man.

There can be no argument that evil exists around us. Terrorism leaves its mark on an almost weekly basis. Violence touches more and more lives and many lives in fear.

The perfect flowers for throw-away bouquets

Doesn't it seem strange that the bride tosses away her bouquet? She spends hours, weeks — perhaps even months — thinking of flowers with just the right symbolism.

She may want to use daisies because those are the blooms her fiance first gave her. Or she may want to include roses because of their romance, or carnations because they symbolize pure, deep love. Then the bride must choose a style of bouquet that complements her dress and wedding style and find the florist best capable of making all her floral dreams a reality. Given all the planning involved, why does she just toss the bouquet away?

It's a custom started as a form of self-defense. In times past, a belief in the mystical value of a bride's adornments prompted friends and strangers to try to grab a piece of her outfit.

Eventually some clever bride found that by flinging her flowers away, the crowd would have something to fight over — and she could escape intact. Passed down through the years, this custom now comes to signify that the young lady who catches the bouquet will be the next to marry.

THERE ARE several styles of bouquets most popular for brides, depending on the formality of the wedding and the size of the bride.

Cascade — Flowing groups of blossoms reaching to the knee or thigh are appropriate for formal attire and larger brides. A short bride might be overwhelmed with too large a bouquet.

Puff or clutch — Small, hand held group of flowers tied with ribbon. This is a less formal look that also is popular for bridesmaids.

Wreath — A woven circle of blossoms and greens held in the hand.

Single flower or arm bouquet — A single bloom or a group of long stemmed flowers cradled in the arm. This bouquet works well with any style of wedding and for bridesmaids as well.

The bouquet, however, is only the first floral decision a bride must make. Many brides have floral headpieces made to match their bouquets. They also may have floral hat decorations made for attendants or mothers. And, of course, there are the traditional corsages for mothers and boutonnières for groom, fathers and attendants.

Before making a final floral decision, talk with several florists and get written estimates. Find out if the florist delivers and, if he does, if there is an extra charge for this service. Florists suggest that a bride make her final choice and place the order about two to three months in advance of the wedding.

Pearls are traditional in wedding attire

A joyous time of celebration, the wedding day is preceded by months of planning and happy anticipation. Every detail, every contingency is carefully considered as decisions are being made about the "big day."

From planning the ceremony itself to choosing the ideal setting for the reception, to finding the perfect gown for the bride, attention is given to every aspect of the wedding, right down to the flowers for the centerpieces and the bride's accessories.

A natural complement to her special glow, the radiant lustre of cultured pearl jewelry enhances and reflects the bride's beauty as no other type of jewelry can.

FOR CENTURIES, the pearl has woven its mystical spell as a symbol of love, beauty and romance and, even in early civilizations, pearls were part of the bridal attire.

The first written mention of a bride wearing pearls occurs in ancient Hindu legend, which credits the great god Vishnu with the discovery of the first pearl, which he drew from the sea as a gift for his daughter on her wedding day.

The early Egyptian Queen Nephretete was resplendent in pearls: Mounted on her crown, worked into her collar, draped from her arms, and sewn to the gilded leather of her sandals, they held a special meaning of feminine perfection for the Egyptians.

The early Greeks and Romans also considered pearls to be royal jewels, at time prohibiting their ownership by commoners. However, for the wealthy, pearls were often a large part of the bride's dowry.

There is evidence that Pocahontas, with a "royal diadem" of three strands of pearls decorating her hat, and large oval pearls hanging from her ears, was the first American bride to wear pearls.

BY THE 1900S pearl jewelry for the bride was common, and Mary Lincoln was one of many women to be presented with an engagement ring of a single pearl, followed by the gift of a pearl necklace to be worn on her wedding day. Both gifts were considered to be symbols of the groom's love for his bride.

With the discovery that pearls could be cultured in live oysters, the custom of brides wearing pearls came into even greater prominence and, today, with a return to the romantic and the traditional in wedding styles, cultured pearls are a favorite bridal accessory.

When selecting a strand of cultured pearls to be worn on the wedding day, consideration should be given to matching an appropriate style with the neckline of the bride's gown.

With high, round necklines, a multiple strand "dog collar" or a classic single strand choker is the most flattering. For a high standing collar or a scooped neckline, a matinee or opera length necklace is preferable.

With a deeper scooped neckline, a luxurious bib of several strands of cultured pearls falling from the base of the throat is alluring and regal.

Tips and recipes for cooking couples

Not too long ago the kitchen was considered the private domain of the female of a household — and woe to the family member who crossed territorial boundaries.

That now has changed. With more women working outside the home and more activities and obligations for everyone, meal preparation has become a team effort. That's especially true for newlyweds, who often are inclined to do everything together. But cooking together can be a source of contention rather than closeness if a kitchen isn't designed to accommodate a cooking couple.

Once a couple has solved the problem of how two can cook together, they'll need to tackle the problem of what to cook for only two people. Using traditional recipes, a newlywed faces the prospect of eating the same leftovers for a week or performing harrowing calculations to reduce a recipe so it serves only two.

There are, however, cookbooks that contain recipes specifically designed to serve one or two people. For example, "Two's Company" by Bev Bennett (Barron's, Woodbury, N.Y.), includes recipes that range from simple to sophisticated and are arranged seasonally to take advantage of fresh ingredients at their peak.

Bennett prefers fresh produce not only because it is more nutritious, but also because it's more economical and easier to obtain in small quantities than commercially prepared foods.

Following are two recipes from "Two's Company."

CHICKEN WITH ORANGE AND BRANDY

2 chicken breast halves
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
Salt and freshly ground white pepper to taste
2 tbsp. butter

2 tbsp. vegetable oil
1/4 cup brandy
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 tsp. ground ginger
1 tsp. grated orange rind

Pat chicken dry if damp. Combine flour, salt and pepper on dinner plate. Roll breasts in flour mixture to coat. Heat butter and oil in heavy-bottomed skillet. Add chicken and brown well on both sides, about 10 minutes total.

Remove chicken and set aside. Pour off fat. Add brandy to skillet and stir bottom of skillet over low heat to get up any browned bits. Stir in juice and ginger. Add chicken. Cover and simmer 15 minutes or until chicken is cooked through. Stir in orange rind. Season with salt and pepper. Serve over Fragrant Brown Rice.

FRAGRANT BROWN RICE

1 tbsp. vegetable oil
2 shallots, minced
1/4 tsp. black caraway seeds
1 small cinnamon stick
2 whole cloves
2 allspice berries
1 bay leaf
1/2 cup brown rice
1 cup chicken broth
Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste

Heat oil in small saucepan. Add shallots and saute 2 to 3 minutes. Add caraway, cinnamon, cloves, allspice and bay leaf and saute 2 minutes, stirring constantly.

Add rice and stir 1 to 2 minutes until grains are shiny. Add chicken broth and bring to boil. Reduce heat to low, cover pan and cook rice 45 to 50 minutes. Then, set aside 5 minutes, covered. Remove cinnamon stick and bay leaf. If possible also remove cloves and allspice. Season with salt and pepper.

Spring — when a person's fancy turns to a new RV

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Lower prices at the gas pump and lower interest rates at the bank have people riding high in recreational vehicles.

A recent survey projects 13 million families are likely to buy or rent a recreational vehicle soon. The study, done by the University of Michigan and the RV industry, is music to dealers' ears.

The RV industry, like a lot of businesses in Michigan, is coming out of the darkness of the recession.

The resurgence of the economy, along with improvements in RV fuel efficiency, are credited in part for the boost in sales.

"It's a zoo," said Jerry Oster, general manager of Feister Sales Inc. in Westland. "Saturdays, a lot of people are not working, so we're open. We can't take care of everybody." "Sales have been excellent," said Dick Budas, owner of Midwest General Trailer and Manufacturer in Southfield. "We're up about 35 percent from a year ago."

LAST YEAR, in Michigan, 6,666 new recreational vehicles were sold. At the height of the RV sales drought in 1980, a total of less than 200,000 were sold in the state.

Sales figures for January in the state show that 173 folding camping trailers were bought along with 89 motorhomes, an 11.2 percent increase from January of 1985.

Buyers and renters of RVs come in all age groups from young families to retirees. The young urban professionals, though, seem to be at the head of the line.

"We're going into the yuppie generation — those just entering the earning potential to buy their first RV," said Jim Weber, director of public relations for the Michigan Association of Recreational Vehicles and Campgrounds in Livonia.

RVs are as diverse as the backgrounds of people who buy them. Motorhomes, truck campers, folding camping trailers, travel trailers or van conversions all fall into the RV category. And the prices are just as diverse. A folding camping trailer runs under $5,000, a motorhome under 23 feet for about $27,400 and a Holland Motor Coach Bluebird bus conversion for $250,000.

"THOSE ARE the Cadillacs of motorhomes," Weber said of the Holland Bluebird.

The comparison drawn between mobile homes and Cadillacs is an accurate one. As in the automotive industry the recession caused the RV industry to revamp its designs to be more fuel-conscious.

RVs today are made with lighter weight materials and curved windshields to make them more aerodynamic for less wind resistance. Gas savings is the result.

In addition to the price of gas and lower financing, fear of terrorism is keeping more vacationers at home instead of going abroad for vacations this summer, industry analysts said.

Some parks, like Addison Oaks County Park in Groveland Oaks in Oakland County, will open parks ahead of schedule (the weekend of April 25) to get ready for what's expected to be a boom year for camping.

A STUDY done by Pannell Kerr Forster of Washington, D.C., rates camping, using the different types of RVs, as one of the most cost efficient ways to vacation.

For example, a two-night vacation with a car/folding camping trailer would cost $130, the study estimates. The same vacation using airline and hotel would average $808 for two nights.

But while most are familiar with camping, a lot of people have not been accustomed to RVs. Renting them has also become popular.

"A lot of people want to rent one before they buy one to see how they like it," said Len Lalone, sales manager at U-Haul in Southfield. "For some, it's a one-time deal to get one to rough it out with."

A PERSON can rent a motorhome from U-Haul for $79 a day and 19 cents per mile.

According to the survey done by the U-M and the RV industry, once people purchase RVs, they're likely to become repeat buyers.

Tourism subject of chamber lunch

Tourism, Michigan's other industry, and its effect on the business climate will be addressed by Beverly Payne Draper at the noon Livonia Chamber of Commerce membership luncheon Wednesday at the Novi Hilton 21111 Haggerty Road.

Draper, spokeswoman for the Michigan Department of Commerce, promotes the state's economic development programs and programs managed by the department's Division of Minority Business Enterprise. She is the former Channel 2 news anchor who left the station in 1982.

She began her communications career in 1968, working for the Japanese government in Tokyo dealing with Japanese business people and officials. She was the first woman and first black to anchor a prime time television newscast in Detroit. Draper is a frequent keynote speaker at conventions and conductor of seminars on the role of communications in America.

Tourism is the state's second-largest industry. Last year the state had its best travel year ever. The industry directly and indirectly employs 281,000, an increase of 18,000 new jobs since 1984. It pumped $12.6 billion into the state economy last year.

Beverly Payne Draper addressing Livonia chamber

AND THE STATE is confident that those numbers will swell. Last year the state hosted the Society of American Travel Writers for the first time. A Michigan Travel Bureau spokeswoman said tourism increased by about 40 percent in Israel and Hungary following the SATW's visits there. And Kentucky, the last state to be visited by the SATW, has seen effects of the travel articles written by members of the organization last well over 10 years.

Reservations can be made by calling Mike Cooney at the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, 427-2122. A cash bar begins at 11:45 a.m. with lunch at noon. Tickets are available for $11 to the general public.

Seeger headlines UM-D conference

Martha Seeger, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, will discuss "The Reindustrialization of America" at the "Management and Technology: Exploring Critical Issues" conference Friday, May 2, at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Dennis A. Swyt, deputy director of the National Bureau of Standards, and Stan Ovshinsky, president of Energy Conversion Devices of Troy, will join engineering leaders and managers at the day-long conference.

Issues that are important for growth companies will be studied including the standardization of technology.

"It is currently difficult to set up more than an island of automation given non-standardization of computer hardware and software, and proliferation of computer languages," said William Spurgeon, director of UM-D's manufacturing engineering program.

Venture capital, 1990s technology, excellence in product design and manufacturing, trends in technology management, trade with the Pacific basin, and directions in automated manufacturing are scheduled topics at individual sessions. The seminar will feature small group discussions, contact with the presenters and UM-D engineering and management faculty.

Registration deadline is Tuesday, April 29. A $25 fee covers all sessions, lunch and a cocktail reception. Charlotte Whitney, intern coordinator for the School of Management, will chair the conference which is also sponsored by the School of Engineering in cooperation with the Office of Sponsored Research and Development.

Data were collected by the Washington, D.C., office of Pannell Kerr Forster, a certified public accountant firm. The study was based on a hypothetical travel party of two adults and two children, one under 12 years of age and one over 13 years.

Major cash or credit that would be required from the time a vacation began to the time it ended was analyzed. This included costs for fuel, round-trip fares, restaurant meals, groceries, rental cars, campsites and hotels or motels. Travel for a two-night vacation was estimated at 404 miles; for 21 nights, 2,546 miles.

Purchase of automobiles, recreational vehicles, cottages, condominiums or timesharing and membership arrangements were not taken into account.

Camping vacations assumed travel in personal car or truck, towing recreation vehicle, staying at campgrounds and preparing the majority of meals at the campsite.

Non-camping vacations included either travel in personal automobile or renting a car at the destination, staying in motels or hotels and eating the majority of meals in restaurants.

A very small investor has several options

I have read about the advantages of investing regularly in stocks over a long period of time. I have also heard that it is a good idea to invest every month.

My problem is that I have about $50 a month to invest, and I don't know how to invest that small a sum. I went to a broker, and he told me to put my money in the bank until I have a couple thousand dollars, and then he'd have a few good suggestions for me.

Is there anything else I can do besides wait?

There are at least five ways that I can think of that would allow you to invest a sum of $50 or less a month in stocks. You'll have to do a few things yourself to get a program in action.

One place is in mutual funds. You will have to make a little larger investment to begin with, but there are funds that will allow you to build with no minimum investment. I would suggest you write the No-Load Mutual Fund Association, 11 Penn Plaza, Suite 2204, New York, N.Y. 10001 and ask for its catalogue of member funds.

The minimum initial investment as well as the minimum for additional payments is shown for each fund. You might also find this information in your public library under other references.

THERE ARE about 1,300 corporations that have dividend reinvestment plans. If you go to your public library and look in Standard and Poor's Stock Reports, you will find reports on several thousand of the nation's most popular stocks that are regularly traded.

Most of the stocks in the section on New York Stock Exchange listed companies have dividend reinvest-

today's investor
Thomas E. O'Hara of the National Association of Investors Corp.

ment plans, and that fact is shown in the report in the paragraph where dividend information is given.

You can pick out one of those companies, buy one share through a broker, have the stock put in your name and then join the company's dividend reinvestment plan. Through it, you can send in money regularly in amounts as small as $10 for some companies. Some will require $25 or more.

THE NATIONAL Association of Investors, P.O. Box 220, Royal Oak has a low-cost investment plan in which 27 corporations currently participate. You can invest in any of those companies on a periodic basis, and in most cases, the corporations pay the commissions on stock purchases.

There are several hundred thousand people across the country that have organized and joined investment clubs. The National Association of Investors supplies information on how to start and operate an investment club.

The clubs have a number of advantages. You start with a small monthly deposit in an amount determined by you and the rest of the members. In most cases the beginners have little or no experience in buying stocks.

But because the amount of money involved is so small, that is not important. The members study a different stock every month, and in a few months members are familiar with a number of companies.

AS THE CLUB continues over the years, the member's knowledge grows steadily and so does the money on hand. Many people have become very knowledgeable investors through such clubs and have amassed accounts of tens of thousands of dollars.

With a little maneuvering, you can set up a self-directed IRA with your broker or bank. In this situation you would deposit your cash monthly in the IRA account and buy a stock for the account when you had an accumulation of perhaps $1,000 or more.

Starting small business requires wide expertise

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The aspects of starting a small business certainly are many. Any aspiring entrepreneurs would have been quick to pick up on that at Saturday's Small Business Forum at Oakland University's Meadow Brook Hall.

The obvious topics included getting the money for a small business, the single business tax and the role of the Department of Commerce.

But other issues like unemployment insurance, labor training and local procurement of federal contracts also were included.

AND WHILE the aim of the forum was information sharing, some news was startling.

Statistics on insuring a small business presented by Dick Francis, president of the Small Business Association of Michigan weren't too encouraging.

One statistic showed that 92 percent of small business had experienced rate increases. Some 40 percent saw its premiums doubled while another 20 percent tripled, according to Francis. He's also concerned with proposals in Washington, D.C. to do away with the Small Business Association.

Still he's happy with the current trends of small business in Michigan and the nation.

"It's the era of small business," he said. "It's the darling of the people in Washington D.C. and in Lansing."

One of the main purposes of the forum was to bridge a gap between the government and small business. Francis explained the attitude of small business towards government.

"BUSINESS VIEWS government (as doing) this, 'If it moves, tax it. If it keeps moving, you regulate it. If it stops moving, you subsidize it,'" said Francis.

John Chichester, of Schoolcraft College, offered tips on how local business procures government contracts. Chichester estimated the federal government buys $150 billion worth of goods from private industry and there's over 15,000 Federal offices which have authority to make purchases.

"THE FEDERAL government buys anything it wants, and it buys it in large quantities," said Chichester.

But before government contracts start rolling in, financing a small business is top priority. Jack Schell, vice president of Pontiac State Bank's commercial loan department, offered some advice.

"I suggest when you come to a bank with a balance sheet, you should be able to understand what's on it," said Schell. "If you don't know, you should bring along someone who does, like an accountant. This broadens the comfort zone between the banker and the customer."

Some other suggestions Schell makes to loan applicants include bringing a brief history of the business, a specific purpose of the loan, year-end fiscal statements, projections reviewed by an accountant or CPA, and a personal financial statements.

REGARDING STAFFING, Bill O'Mahoney of Oakland Community College discussed training workers, and Neil Zechman, of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, talked about unemployment liabilities.

O'Mahoney cited several programs, Michigan Job Bank and Quick Start, which can help small business find and train workers, including some which pay a share of the trainees wages.

For laid-off workers, Zechman stressed the importance of employers returning information on employees who are making unemployment claims as soon as possible.

Seafoods

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

More and more restaurants devoted especially to seafood are finding eager customers in Oakland County.

Opened in 1985 were Norm's Oyster Bar & Grill of Southfield and Scallops of Rochester. One of the mainstays of the seafood scene with a 10-year history is Charley's Crab in Troy, which is the leading light of the many local restaurants in Chuck Moore's operation. Also new since last year for fish lovers is Benisushi, Japanese restaurant and sushi bar in Troy.

All offer interesting dining experiences with deliciously prepared dishes. Because of the variety each features, you'll find them places to visit again and again while ordering different specialties each time.

NORM'S OYSTER BAR, housed on the site of the old Vineyard restaurant, has the kind of food and service one has come to expect at other eateries owned by Norm LePage. Norm's Erie Street Station in Birmingham and Nifty Norm's in Walled Lake. The food is simply prepared, generally quite pleasant and served in an inviting, casual atmosphere.

What makes Norm's Oyster Bar so special is its extensive menu.

On a recent afternoon, I settled into a booth in the main dining room, which is attractively decorated in blue, marve and grey with a pink-wooded ceiling. I faced the oyster bar where you can be seated to order oysters, clams or shrimps.

These appetizers also can be ordered off the menu at your table along with such other preludes to a meal as steamed mussels or baked stuffed shellfish. I decided to go directly to the entree. For lunch, and had a choice of ordering from menu categories of steaks and pizzas, seafood, shrimp and sauce, not to mention the daily specials.

Six different kinds of fish were listed with prices on a menu card listing 34 different kinds of fish as "Today's Available Catch." The six available that day were Boston scrod, whitefish, rainbow trout, Mack snark, Mahi Mahi and swordfish. The card also detailed methods of preparation — char-grilled, poached or blackened, one two or all three ways might be suggested.

I opted for the Mahi Mahi at $1.25. The tell-all menu card also gave some facts about a few of the fish including the Mahi Mahi. It never tried Mahi Mahi, which is popular in Hawaii. It's also known as Blue Dolphin but is not a member of the dolphin family.

Recommended, char-grilled the fish arrived in a good-sized portion, beautifully topped and spiced with paprika. The fish had an appealing flavor and was very tender. It was served with sturdy vegetables, a nice accompaniment. The tartar sauce served with the fish was flavorful. One saw with cold and tender.

An entire small loaf of pumpkin bread with cranberry seeds came with the meal, and certainly was more than one or even two people could eat.

Entrees at lunch that day ranged in price from $4.95 to $9.50 for the fresh catches. The day's soup, a la carte, was clam chowder and other daily specials included still another fish — orange roughy — at $7.95. Desserts, not on the menu include homemade ice cream. I tried vanilla ice cream with white chocolate chips $1.25. Delicious.

NORM'S OYSTER BAR & GRILL, 28100 Woodward Road, Southfield, Phone 57-4442. Licensed.

BENISUSHI restaurant and sushi bar at the Kyoto Japanese steak house in Troy is a striking room of light wood and colorful accents. Formal, the sushi bar where more than a dozen customers may sit and be served orders of raw fish prepared by the chef working out in the open.

One recent noon hour, I arrived at the unwooded bar and told the friendly chef Hiro I wanted to order sushi. He gave me the separate sushi menu which lists more than 30 items. Each bit of raw fish in some cases the fish is broiled. I learned that it can be ordered individually and is priced separately, from $1-$1.25. Each is served over a mound of closely packed rice.

Mahi with the fish layered in rice and seaweed then rolled up like a tiny jelly roll and sliced, is priced from $1.75 to $4 for various kinds of punkish pickled ginger. A touch of the horseradish is also added to some of the rice in individual sushi items.

Instead of a really full feeling afterward, it was more like a cool sensation in the pit of my stomach.

Benisushi Japanese Restaurant and Sushi Bar, 1985 W. Big Beaver Road, Troy, Phone 644-6242. Licensed.

SCALLOPS OF ROCHESTER, on Main Street in the heart of Rochester serves scallops and a whole lot more. The restaurant doesn't open until 4 p.m., so lunch isn't an option, but I stopped in for an early dinner around 6 p.m. on a recent evening.

From the outside, the restaurant looks like a warehouse or a barn, but when you enter it's a delightful surprise. The dimly lit interior has a nautical decor and dark wood furnishings. I was seated at a small table with Windsor chairs. Burton-tufted tan leather booths also are available.

More seating is provided on the other side of a barwood room divider with panels of leaded glass, also featuring nautical scenes. Many points of steps above the walls carrying out the theme appropriate to a seafood restaurant.

The menu offers numerous choices. One category is devoted to Scallops, Shrimp, Lobster and Crab ranging from scallops primavera at $1.95 to crab legs, shrimps, scallops and lobster tail at $14.95; another features seafood favorites of Scallops restaurant customers such as Icelandic cod at $4.95 and char-broiled swordfish with chili butter at $12.95.

There's a wide selection of seafood appetizers, including fresh water smelt, steamed shrimp, fried clams, oysters on the half shell, baked oysters Rockefeller, steamed mussels and scallops sevice.

The separate list of the day's specials offered six different seafood catches of the day. Among these were blackened red snapper, fresh Boston scrod, Idaho rainbow trout, Fabulous Fish!

Tempt your seafood tastebuds at area restaurants

From Charley's Crab to Benisushi, you can enjoy a great variety of fare the raw bar and dozens of other seafood selections.

The restaurant's spectacular decor is carried out in the more formal main dining room, casual dining areas upstairs and down, and the main floor cocktail lounge. A carved King Neptune and cornucopia, pictures of sailing ships, and boating paraphernalia are some of the decorative touches.

In the main dining room, where I asked to be seated, carved wood paneling from a Grosse Pointe mansion enhances the walls and the cathedral ceiling. Mirrors, a large expanse of bay window and leaded glass are other accents.

The high-backed chairs have a floral pattern in soft pink and green. Pink napkins contrast with a white tablecloth.

Before being seated, I tasted spicy gazpacho, chockful of vegetables, offered as a sample of the season's new specialties at the raw bar.

At the table, dinner began with smoked bluefish pate on matzo crackers, at no additional charge. I ordered shrimp fettuccine verde ($13.50) and selected the Martha's Vineyard Salad instead of the cole slaw. The salad contained a nice mix of lettuce and was distinctive with its house dressing, a vinaigrette of bleu cheese, nuts and onions.

A choice of potato, vegetable, stewed tomatoes or rice pilaf was another accompaniment. The yellow pilaf combined with zucchini and broccoli was pleasant but more than I could eat along with the main course.

The enormous serving of shrimp, with green spinach fettuccine, was more than I could eat at one meal. The plump, fresh shrimp were ample. I ate them all but took a carryout for some of the flavorful noodles.

At Charley's Crab, your glass of water always comes with a lemon slice in it — a nice addition. And it's hard to beat the taste of the hot rolls.

"Superman III" (1983). 8 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 7. Originally 123 minutes. TV time slot: 180 minutes.

This is the weakest of the three Superman films. Director Richard Lester opts for slapstick comedy over modern epic. The opening sequence keys the tone for the rest of the film. It is a breakneck series of visual jokes and comes off quite well. The rest of the film is a downhill attempt to keep a similar pace. Richard Pryor is, once again, wasted in a part that takes only a fleeting advantage of his considerable talent. This film almost killed the series, though now there is talk that it will be revived.

Rating: $1.75
"Coming Home" (1977). 8 p.m. Wednesday on Ch. 50. Originally 127 minutes. TV time slot: 150 minutes.

A calculated and slightly dishonest film about the effects of the war in Vietnam on the home front. Jon Voight gives a powerful performance as a paraplegic veteran who comes to despise the war. But his performance can't make up for the film's flaws. Bruce Dern brings humanity to the thankless role of the cuckold war-mongering husband. As written, the part is pure evil melodrama, but Dern almost turns it around so that the audience roots for him. This is especially true when considering the performance of Jane Fonda, whose vehicle this really is. She overacts to a fare-thee-well and sacrifices dramatic honesty for political propaganda. As one who shared her concerns about that confusing war, I could not share her cheap rhetoric. The film does have a fantastic soundtrack featuring the Rolling Stones at top form and a good professional look.

"Dragnet" (1969). 8 p.m. Wednesday on Ch. 9. Originally 97 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

This film was the pilot for the revival of the classic 1950s police show. Jack Webb created a new kind of American drama with "Dragnet." Though he pretended to present realism, what he actually created was highly stylized melodrama. The dead-pan, clipped dialogue and the carefully planned action shots were a rich source for comic parody. But Webb had something to say, something very unpleasant to anyone who cared about civil liberties and the rights of the accused. Webb was the spokesman for the right-wing, hard-core police view of the world. The cases may have been based on Los Angeles police records, but they were twisted to fit Webb's narrow viewpoint. Everything was made to make the cops look good and the rest of the public look either stupid or evil. When originally done in the 1950s, it was the kind of show that warmed the cockles of every McCarthyite heart in America. By 1969, it had become a disturbing throwback. Today, well... The film and revival lacked the fresh audacity and drive of the original.

Your traveling taster visits area eateries and rates them on a 100-point scale. Up to 30 points are awarded for ambiance, which includes general atmosphere and service. 55 points for food, and 15 points for price-value rating. A total count of 59 points or less indicates a restaurant is not recommended; 60-74 points signify from passing to good; 75-89 points designate very good with some extraordinary features, and 90-100 points show that a very special dining experience awaits you.

DOUBLE EAGLE RESTAURANT, 5725 Rochester Road, Troy (879-1555), offers a stylish and attractive setting, with crisp linen tablecloths and fresh flowers. The dining room has a pleasant view, overlooking the Sylvan Glen golf course. The waiters are dressed in tuxedos, but most of the diners are casually dressed, many in sport shirts. On Tuesday through Saturday evenings, there is a piano player in the lounge whose music is piped into the dining room. On Sunday, a strolling guitarist plays. However, in spite of the nice touches, the restaurant has a sterile and unloved feeling, lacking in real cheer. Our reservations were honored promptly, and dinner took about an hour and a half. General Atmosphere — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 11.

If anything, the service was overly attentive, with waiters and busboys ready to clear our plates before we had quite finished. The waiter was helpful in making suggestions, but he rattled off the daily specials so quickly that we had to have them repeated twice. Most unexpected was having the tuxedoed waiter remove our dirty silver from the appetizer plates and put it back on the table. Service — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 11.

The assorted hot hors d'oeuvres for two ($9.25) had both good and fair items. The artichoke fritters with bearnaise sauce were tasty, even though the sauce was a little heavy. The shrimp with almonds were flavorful, juicy and very good. The mushrooms, stuffed with ham and sour cream, were a pleasant change from the more common hamburger-filled type. However, the crab was dry, and the eggplant was so deep-fried that we couldn't taste the eggplant itself. Drinks were average strength and price (at $3-$3.25 each). The fresh corn bread and French bread were both unusually good. Drinks, Appetizers and Bread — 10 points maximum. Points awarded — 7.

A house salad is included with the meal, and it was fresh, with tomatoes and onion. Both the blue cheese and ranch dressings were better than average, and the waiter offered fresh ground pepper. Salad — 5 points maximum. Points awarded — 4.

The veal outlet California-style ($13.50) was recommended by our waiter. The veal, served with tomatoes and green pepper, was tender and quite a nice taste combination. The fettucini Alfredo, served with the veal, was poor. The pasta was pasty, and the sauce was neither cheesy nor creamy. The fruits of the bayou ($13.25 and described on the menu as shrimp, scallops, crabmeat and mushrooms in a whiskied veloute sauce) was a bit bland for such an elaborate-sounding dish. Although there was a good-sized portion of seafood, even the rice pilaf tasted only like steamed rice. The chicken roast San Francisco-style ($9.95) was a hodge-podge of chicken, fruit and vegetables with a sweet and sour sauce. Most decent Chinese restaurants do a better job with this dish. Entree, Vegetables and Garnishes — 30 points maximum. Points awarded — 20.

The apple crisp ($2.75) was a hit, full of apples and cinnamon, and served warm. The chocolate cheesecake ($2.75) was also rich and appealing. The only disappointment was the raspberry soufflé ($2.75) which tasted more like pudding than anything else. Dessert and Coffee — 10 points maximum. Points awarded — 8.

At $50 per couple with tip, the meal was not an unusual value. Food

Record concerns Gaddafi

Adam Right, a former Southfield resident, recently released a new 45 RPM single, "Don't Let Gaddafi Murder Me."

The 19-year-old wrote and arranged it. I performed everything on it and produced it," Right said. It is a song "about contradiction. I'm telling Ronald Reagan, 'Don't start

World War III but don't let Gaddafi murder me.'

The song has been played on Doug Podell's "Homegrown" radio show on WLLZ. The single is available at most record outlets in Detroit including Harmony House, Sam's Jams and Off the Record.

Comic love tale being staged

William Congreve's "Love for Love" continues at 8 p.m. Thursday-Saturday, April 17-19, at the Quirk Theatre at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

In the comic love tale, Congreve presents a portrait gallery of typical English restoration society types including gallants, fools, scandal-mongers and flirtatious women.

Hollywood director to discuss career

Hollywood Director Stanley Donen will make a personal appearance at the Detroit Film Theatre at 7 p.m. Sunday, April 20, at the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium.

The evening will open with Donen discussing his lengthy career and will include the showing of his 1967 comedy "Bedazzled."

With Gene Kelly, Donen co-directed "Singing in the Rain" and "On the Town." Donen's repertoire includes such musical box-office hits as "Royal Wedding," "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," "The Pajama Game," "Charade," "Damn Yankees" and "Arabesque."

"Bedazzled" was released late in Donen's near-30-year Hollywood tenure. The film traces the comic antics of a short-order cook (Dudley Moore) desperately in love with a waitress. Generally a flop throughout his life, the cook makes a pact with the devil (Peter Cook) to triumph over the seven deadly sins and win the love of the waitress.

Women golfers seek new avenue

THE PROBLEM: No place to play. The solution: Find one. Sounds simple enough. The women who comprise the Michigan sectional committee of the U.S. Women's Public Links Association enjoy golfing in the qualifier for the national tournament. They like it even more now that play in the three state sectionals is divided into age divisions, which means everyone stands a better chance of winning something.

Problem is, it's not enough. As Kathy Heriford explained: "Women golfers in Michigan have had zip." What the Farmington resident meant was there aren't enough places for the female public links player to compete. In fact, other than the USWPLA qualifier, there wasn't anything.

WHICH IS WHY Heriford and the 19 other women on the USWPLA Michigan Sectional Committee decided to form the MWPGA. It's more than just another group of letters. This combination could take women's golf in this state to a higher level.

MWPGA stands for Michigan Women's Public Links Golf Association. The names of the organization's inaugural members are familiar because they're the same ones dotting the membership role of the state's USWPLA sectional committee.

As confusing as this may appear, it really isn't. The MWPGA is merely an extension of the USWPLA sectional committee. The MWPGA's purpose is to promote public links tournaments statewide, just like the men have.

"I started playing golf like a lot of women," said Heriford, who serves as the MWPGA publicity chairwoman. "I wanted to go out and play with my husband. When I got a little better, I started looking for other avenues where I could compete, and there weren't any."

"I got very frustrated. My husband was gone every weekend playing in a tournament, and there was no where for me to play."

HERIFORD DISCOVERED she wasn't alone. Oh sure, there were women's golf leagues to play in, like the Women's Metro Golf Association and the Suburban Golf League. But they were closed groups with limited memberships.

"A lot of women go out and join a league at a Lincoln Hills and only play that one course," Heriford said. The aim of the MWPGA is to give the public links women player "an opportunity to play other courses."

There it was, the problem and how to attack it. The USWPLA sectional committee already existed, providing a perfect organizational starting point. The tasks that remained were readily defined:

- Authoritative recognition;
- Relaying information;
- Expansion and improvement.

The first obstacle was overcome when the U.S. Golf Association authorized the MWPGA to formulate handicaps and to rule over other responsibilities regarding women's public links play. It supplied the MWPGA with the recognition it needed as the official women's standard-bearer for the USGA in the state.

HERIFORD, AS MWPGA publicity chairperson, is currently tackling the second objective. A week ago, she was touring public golf courses around Midland, Saginaw and Bay City to inform operators of their existence.

Other MWPGA members have different portions of the state to canvass. Their goal is to stir up interest, to let women golfers know who and what they are. For the $10 USGA fee, members receive the MWPGA's newsletter, which includes upcoming public links tournaments. Members also receive a discount when registering for sponsored tournaments.

As Heriford explained, "We have to let them know we're in existence, we have to let them know we have a calendar."

What the MWPGA doesn't have is much of a calendar. The committee's late formation, according to Heriford, made it virtually impossible to put together a proper schedule.

But once again, the plan is clear. "Hopefully next year we'll be able to expand," said Heriford. "We'd like to have at least one tournament a month, from April through September or October."

THE MWPGA has four events scheduled: a scramble tournament at Maple Lanes Golf Course in Sterling Heights May 3; an age group tournament at an undetermined location July 12; a state tournament at Bedford Valley in Battle Creek Aug. 9; and another scramble tournament at an undetermined location Sept. 13.

All MWPGA tournaments are scheduled for Saturdays so they don't interfere with leagues like the Women's Metro Golf Association that compete during the week.

"We want to augment them, not take anything away from them," said Heriford. "The more avenues available to play, the better."

Although such a grand plan seems foolproof, there's no way to be certain the interest does indeed exist.

Heriford claimed the evidence was plainly evident: more than 100 entries for Michigan's USWPLA qualifying rounds, the largest of any state; 10 players sent to the USWPLA tournament, almost double the number sent the previous year; and Michigan's ranking as the state with the most public courses.

The interest is there, Heriford and her MWPGA cohorts insist. Cultivating it, nurturing that interest so that it blossoms and grows in recognition and prestige — so that it's more than just another string of meaningless letters representing an obscure organization — is the trick.

Canton graduate Kinnel finds his niche at Eastern

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

There are probably a million different secrets to success — maybe more. The problem is matching the right formula with the individual.

Kreg Kinnel, a senior tennis player at Eastern Michigan University and a Plymouth Canton graduate, figures he's found his.

"I'm having a lot of fun this year," said Kinnel, who also works at the Huron Valley Racquet Club in Ann Arbor. "I'm relaxed, and I'm enjoying my last year."

That is Kinnel's "secret" — relax and enjoy.

IT WASN'T always so easy. "I'm keeping control of myself on the court better this year," admitted Kinnel, who describes himself as a "baseliner. My consistency is my strength."

"A few years ago, if I made a mistake I really let it bother me. I was real hard on myself."

EMU coach Dan Ryan agreed. "The easiest way to describe his improvement is to say it's been on three levels: physical, emotional and mental. The biggest problem he's had is management of mistakes," said Ryan.

"I've told him that he can't let that first mistake get to him. He can't let that first negative thought get into his head. He's a baseliner, which is all right if you can outlast your opponent. But you have to keep your patience at a very high level."

Kinnel has done that. His better self control has helped him enjoy his sport more. So has the stark realization that his collegiate tennis career is nearing an end.

KINNEL DIDN'T play last year after a disagreement with Ryan. "He broke training rules and I booted him," Ryan said bluntly. The Huron coach added that Kinnel worked hard to make amends and return this season, hard enough to be voted one of the team's tri-captains.

Ryan added he's witnessed Kinnel's growth as a person. "In a word, he's matured," said Ryan. "Seeing him grow like that is what coaching's all about."

Kinnel has grown in other ways. Work with weights has developed his

Rock kickers find the mark vs. Central

One team found the net, the other is still searching. Plymouth Salem, after opening the season with a frustrating 0-0 tie with Northville, scored 18 times in victories over North Farmington (5-1 Saturday) and Walled Lake Central (13-0 Monday).

North Farmington, meanwhile, is doing everything right — except putting the ball in the net.

"It's kind of our lore," said North coach Cathy Cole. After losing to Salem Saturday, the team lost a grating 1-0 match to West Bloomfield Monday night. North outshot West Bloomfield 22-3.

"We dominated the whole game," Cole said. "I think West Bloomfield crossed the 50-yard line one time in the second half. Their goalkeeper (Marci Miller) was excellent. She kept them in the game. We missed a penalty kick and hit the crossbar like six times."

West Bloomfield's lone goal was scored midway through the first half.

Cole lauded the play of midfielder Lisa Nordini, Donna O'Brien and Chris Diebold.

It was a little different story against Salem. The Rocks were the dominating team, outshooting North 22-11.

"We more or less let them play their game," Cole said. "We didn't move to the ball and they ran around us."

Jill Estey and Terri King scored twice for Salem and captain Julie Tortora added the fifth goal. Beth Chrisco scored the lone Raider goal.

Salem coach Ken Johnson was almost apologetic about his team's 13-goal outburst against Central.

"We played our first team in the first half and the second team in the second half," he said. "The first team won 7-6. I didn't think the second team would score that many goals."

Estey scored three more goals for Salem and King added a pair. Tracy Krajewski and Lisa Hysko rounded out the first half scoring. Second teamers Jo Wiklund, Missy Smith and Pam Mayer each scored twice in the second half.

Goalkeeper Ellen Schnackel handled five shots for the shutout. Salem blasted the Central goal 43 times.

NORTHVILLE 3, CANTON 1: The Mustangs broke open a 1-1 tie with two quick goals in the final 20 minutes of the match Monday for their first win of the season.

"Northville is a good team," said Canton coach Mike Morgan. "They played Salem 0-0 and Churchill 0-0. We had some defensive confusion late in the second half and it cost us the game."

Freshman Trish Greenhalge scored the lone goal for Canton.

"They play a different type of game than we do," Morgan said. "They like to play long ball: kick and run. Our game is more control. We just didn't control the ball very well."

Canton carried a 13-5 advantage in shots on goal in the first half, but Northville turned it around with a 14-3 shot advantage in the second half.

Last Friday, Canton defeated Walled Lake Western 7-1. Beth Frigge and Renee Rice each scored three goals for the Chiefs.

Kocik, Canton KO Falcons, 2-0

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

Tough to tell which was most chilling, the wind or the pitching, as Plymouth Canton opened its 1986 baseball season with a 2-0 victory at Farmington Monday.

The game was ruled by a pair of short-arming left-handers (aided perhaps by a wintery wind that swept across the field and got colder each inning).

Canton's Adam Kocik allowed four hits in his seven innings of work. He struck out five and walked one. Only two Falcon runners advanced beyond second base.

"So we don't have any pitching, huh?" Canton coach Fred Crissey said afterward in response to those critical of his team's No. 4 ranking in the state coaches' poll.

"We knew Adam was capable of this type of game. We don't have an NCAA Division I pitcher or a prospect on our team, but we've got some kids that can do the job."

FARMINGTON'S BILL Tulpa was equally effective. He gave up four hits, walked six and struck out four. He gave up just one earned run.

Tulpa was most effective with Canton runners on base; he kept 10 runners stranded, including three at third base.

"There were two things I was looking for today," said Farmington coach Kevin Kamsman. "One, how well we hit the ball, and two, how well Bill pitched. We were one out of two, and that's not too bad."

Canton scored both of its runs in the first two innings. Tony Aiken led off the first with a walk. With one out, Mark Stevens slammed a one-hopper to the left of second baseman Chris Boyce. What looked to be a double-play ball wound up in right field, and Canton had runners on first and third.

A walk to Jeff Lyle loaded the bases, but Tulpa struck out Steve Waite to relieve some of the pressure. Canton's Chris Sisler finally scored Aiken with an infield single.

Canton's second run was no cheapie. With two outs, and Steve Rudelic on second base, Tom Kenyon blasted a low fastball to the fence in left-center for a run-scoring double.

CANTON APPEARED on the verge of blowing out Farmington in the third. The Chiefs put two runners aboard with nobody out.

"Normally, we have Sisler bunting," Crissey said. "But it's early in the year. I let him hit away."

Sisler drove center fielder Eric Green deep into left center with a fly ball. Green made the catch with his back to the infield, and Crissey had Lyle tagging at second. Green made a strong throw to nail Lyle at third, ending the threat.

Canton put a runner on third with one out in the sixth (a single by Rudelic that got past left fielder Chris Norman. Rudelic went to third). Tulpa struck out Aiken and got Kenyon on a fly out.

Again in the seventh, Canton had a man on third with one out. Again Tulpa closed the doors.

"WE MISSED six signs today and several bunts," Crissey said. "We are normally a good hunting team. But we played good defense, and this club will hit. For day one, I can't be displeased."

Canton's defense, in fact, was the difference in the game. Canton didn't make a mistake, while Farmington committed five errors.

Farmington's only scoring threat was averted by the rifle arm of third baseman Steve Waite. After a nice play by Kenyon retired the Falcons' first hitter, J.T. Thomas blasted a double to right-center (center fielder Aiken just missed making an over-the-shoulder grab). Boyce then laid down a perfect bunt. Waite charged and gunned down Boyce by half a step.

"Waite is the only one who could have made that play," Crissey said.

If Waite hadn't made the play, Farmington would have had runners on first and third with one out. But Waite made the play, and Kocik was able to get the final out.

FARMINGTON'S JOE Wenson rocketed a Kocik fastball to the fence in left-center with one out in the sixth, but that's as far as he got.

"I'm not worried about the hitting," said Kamsman, whose team had only three hits in a victory against Redford Union last week. "If they weren't getting good swings, I'd be worried, but they're taking their cuts."

Monday's game was the Western Lakes opener for both teams.

Rocky 1st inning ruins Salem bid

Chris Davis has had many good days pitching for Plymouth Salem Monday wasn't one of them.

The senior right-hander was tagged for seven runs in one-third inning, as Livonia Churchill routed the Rocks 10-4.

"Davis got in trouble early," said Salem coach John Gravin. "Nothing went right for him."

Churchill's Mickey Katschor led off the game with a home run. He finished the game with three hits and three RBI. Mike Weiss had a single and a double. The Chargers had eight hits on the day.

Andy Oliver was the winner for Churchill, pitching the first four innings. He gave up three runs (two earned) on six hits. Lance Sullivan pitched the final three innings to get the save.

Shane Smith pitched the final six for Salem. He gave up three runs (all in the third) on five hits.

Rob Adams had a pair of hits for Salem.

Both teams are 1-1 on the season. It was the first Western Lakes game for both teams.

N. FARMINGTON 8, FRANKLIN 5: Jerry Haight blasted a three-run home run to cap a seven-run sixth-inning uprising by North Farmington Monday.

The Raiders trailed Livonia Franklin 5-1 entering the bottom of the sixth.

It was by no means a pretty win for North. Pitchers Rob Knapp and Rick Karcher yielded nine walks between them, and North committed three errors.

"They had us," said North coach Irv Horwitz. "Their pitcher (Tom Kramer) went all the way and I think he got tired. We were lucky."

Knapp, the starter, gave up two runs in four innings. He gave up just one hit. Karcher was tagged with three unearned runs but got credit for the win. He walked five and allowed two hits.

Haight led North with two hits.

On Saturday, North split a non-league double-header with Southfield, winning the first game 8-4, dropping the second 10-1. Todd Shepard had three hits and Brian McDanel knocked in three runs with two hits to help Knapp post the win in game one.

North is 2-1.

PLYM. CHRISTIAN 8, TEMPLE 3: A six run second inning was all the support Jeff Leach needed Monday as the Eagles routed old nemesis Redford Temple Christian.

Rod Windle's two-run double was the key blow in the inning. Windle also ripped a home run in the fourth inning. Steve Windle had a single and two RBIs and Dave Cadaret was 2-for-2.

Leach yielded just four hits in seven innings. He walked three and fanned six.

Plymouth Christian is 3-0.

Chiefs, Rocks roll in opener

Diana Knickerbocker has never been one to shy away from a challenge. The Plymouth Canton senior was asked to fill a crucial role on the Chiefs' softball team this year: be its pitcher. Although her experience on the mound is limited, Knickerbocker responded by whipping Farmington Monday. The final score was 10-8, but the Falcons scored six times in the seventh inning after Canton had emptied its bench. Four of the eight Falcon runs were unearned. Knickerbocker allowed seven hits, four walks and fanned three. Knickerbocker also led Canton's hit parade. She knocked out two doubles and a single. Becky Philp, plagued by 10 walks and five errors by her teammates, took the loss for Farmington (1-1). Kelli Koss played a strong defensive game at shortstop and had a pair of hits. SALEM 13, CHURCHILL 3: The Plymouth Salem bats didn't waste much time getting started. The team rapped out 14 hits Monday in its eason opener, scoring five times in the first two innings, then burying the Chargers with six in the top of the seventh. Freshman Ann Mundinger led the attack with four hits and three RBI. Leslie Plichta knocked in two runs with a double and a single. Sheryll Gildo had a pair of hits and Sandy Oberliesen knocked in two runs with a triple. Maggie Meissner was the winning pitcher. She allowed three hits. She walked 10 and struck out 10. "It didn't seem like she walked that many," said Salem coach Rob Willette. "Probably because they only had three hits. She'll have to cut down on the walks against better teams, though." Katie Dressler had two hits and scored twice for Churchill, while Kristi Young knocked in two runs with a single. Leighanne Zaharia was the loser for the Chargers.

UHEREK STATE CHAMP
Remember Amanda Uherek? The former Canton Township resident, one of the most-promising gymnasts in the country, is the Texas state champion on uneven bars. She won the event at the United States Gymnastics Federation-sanctioned state meet last week. Uherek, 9, placed fourth on balance beam and sixth all-around. She has qualified for the USGF regional meet April 24-25.

COED SOFTBALL
The Canton and Plymouth parks and recreation departments are sponsoring a coed softball league beginning June 1. Registration for all returning teams will take place April 21-25 at either parks and rec office. New teams can register from April 28-May 16. The fee is $80 per team. Each team must supply a restricted-flight game ball and $6 umpire fee prior to each game. Games will be played Sunday and Monday evenings.

sports roundup

GIRLS BASKETBALL: A team representing Plymouth-Canton (composed primarily of players from Plymouth Salem and Farmington Hills Mercy high school teams) captured the Michigan Parks and Recreation girls 18-under state basketball tournament. The team knocked off host Inkster in the championship 74-46. In earlier rounds, Plymouth-Canton defeated Livonia Ladywood and Inkster No. 2 (a team composed of Detroit Public School League players). Dean Head, a sophomore at Salem, led the victors in the title game with 22 points. Jessica Handley (Salem) scored 17 and Yvette Maison (Mercy) added 15. Other members of the team were: Kristin Hostynski (Salem), Missy Duczynski (Mercy), Terri Paul (Garden City) and Diana Knickerbocker (Canton). The team was coached by Hank Handley.

GYMNASTICS: Doug Stibel of Canton was the top scorer for the Farmington Gymnastics Center team recently in the USGF National Boys Invitational meet in Allentown, Pa. Stibel placed fourth all-around in the 10-under division. He was fourth on floor exercise, third on parallel bars and third on horizontal bars. Also competing in the meet from the Farmington club were Chris Jeannotte (Plymouth), Todd Olsen (Plymouth), Robbie and David Thomas (West Bloomfield) and Mark Taube (Garden City).

Senioritis eludes Kinnel at Eastern strength and aided greatly to his improvement. "This has been my best year," Kinnel said. "I've been working hard because it's my senior year, and I want to go out with a strong season." Kinnel's well on his way to accomplishing that. Through EMU's 5-4 win over Toledo April 9, Kinnel had compiled an overall record of 10-2 in singles and 12-3 in doubles. He normally fills the No. 3 singles slot, where he's 9-1 thus far this season. KINNEL SAID his singles play is the strongest part of his game — "When I first got here, I didn't even play doubles" — but his doubles has improved immensely. "My coach (Ryan) has worked a lot with me," he explained, "and I just play really well with my partner."

That's Greg Kennett, the No. 4 singles player. The Kinnel-Kennett combination is 11-3 at second doubles. The Hurons have enjoyed Kinnel's success. They are 11-3 overall and 1-0 in Mid-American Conference (MAC) dual meets. "This is the best team we've had since I've been here," said Kinnel. "We're usually at the bottom of the MAC, but we have a real good chance of finishing in the top five this year." Both the team's and his own start have caught Kinnel a bit by surprise. "I did set goals for myself," he said, "and I think I've lived up to just about all of them. In fact, I've done better than I thought I would." Not that he's about to let up any. As Ryan pointed out, "His biggest challenges are yet to come. Every match is a challenge, and as the competition gets tougher, he has to get tougher. You're only as good as your next match." And, after all, it is Kinnel's senior season. "That," said Kinnel, "is my motivator."

LIONS SIGNUP

Deja vu?

Thomann rejects OCC post; Lynn Reed to begin 2nd term

By C.J. Risk staff writer

In the past 21 years, Lynn Reed has faced just about every situation possible as a basketball coach. Now Reed is about to do it a second time.

Oakland Community College athletic director Pin Ryan introduced Reed as OCC's new basketball coach Monday. Reed takes over for Tom McPhillips, who held the position until he was sidelined by illness at mid-season and assistant coach Fred Thomann assumed command.

Thomann guided OCC to the state championship and a third-place finish in the first-ever NJCAA Division II national tournament. The team was 26-4 overall. But his commitment as Plymouth Salem's girls track and basketball coach made it impossible for him to take the OCC position full time.

"Fred did a great job for us," said Ryan. "But he decided he could not handle college coaching in his present situation."

RYAN HAD someone ready to step in — Reed. "We're just delighted," admitted the AD. "Coaching at the junior college level is a unique situation. It takes an ability to coach, recruit, watch the players' grades and placement with other schools. Lynn has those talents."

Reed brings a wealth of experience to the job. He is also a physical education instructor at OCC's Highland Lakes campus.

Reed coached at OCC previously. Until 1974, the school had sports teams at each of its three campuses. Reed coached the first Highland Lakes team in 1965.

But when a money crunch and Title IX struck in 1974, OCC was forced to consolidate, much to the dismay of the coaches.

"I was a bit disgruntled," admitted Reed, "because I felt we lost everything we fought for. I started the program here (at Highland Lakes) in 1965, without uniforms and without any facilities."

OCC sports

Smarting from the decision to consolidate, Reed accepted a coaching position at Milford-Lakeland high school in 1974 — that school's first year. In his inaugural season, Lakeland went 0-21.

BUT REED turned that around. In one five-year stretch, the Eagles were 81-29. In the last eight seasons, Lakeland was 108-66.

"Needless to say, my moments at Lakeland were among the most pleasurable for me," said Reed. "Lakeland gave me the same opportunity to build a program from the beginning that I had here."

"Quitting there to come here was a very emotional experience for me and very difficult to do, but I felt I have accomplished as much as I can in that setting. This will be a new challenge for me."

Two immediate needs Ryan hopes Reed will fill for OCC are stability and the recruitment of local talent.

"We want to put an emphasis on getting more Oakland County kids," said Ryan. "I think that's very important. We ought to be able to put a very competitive team on the court with kids from the communities we service."

REED AGREED with Ryan. "I want to service the local kids," he said. "I think that's important. When I coached here before, we won with players predominantly from Pontiac Northern, Pontiac Central and Waterford."

But just as important to Reed was to "stabilize the (coaching) situation." Reed's hiring marks the fifth coaching change since the 1974 consolidation, including two stints by McPhillips.

Ryan said he approached Reed every time a change was necessary, trying to lure him back. But Reed was committed to Lakeland, where he coached his son, Darren.

Another factor in Reed's earlier refusals was the OCC cross country team, which he coached for the last 20 years and has now decided to give up in favor of basketball. Bernie Little, the OCC women's cross country coach, takes over.

Reed will not be stepping into an ideal situation. The stars of last season's squad, notably Pat Gardner and Willie Jones, will be gone. But rebuilding is a constant chore at the junior college level, and recruiting is nothing new to Reed, who gained experience in it in both basketball and cross country.

IN FACT, REED thinks his recruiting efforts will be far easier than they were when he was the Highland Lakes coach and OCC's recruiting area was divided between the three campuses.

As far as coaching style is concerned, Reed said: "I'm a disciple of John Wooden. At Milford-Lakeland, we ran and we pressed. Ninety percent of the time we were a man-to-man defensive team."

"I like to make it a 94-foot game, but you've got to do what you've got to do to win."

Reed does not think his relatively late hiring — the national signing date for high school seniors was April 9 — will hurt his recruiting efforts.

"In junior college, the majority of the recruiting isn't done until just about now," Reed estimated. "I've got a list of about 30 people I'm interested in."

Still, Reed will be getting in late on several prospects, which could be a problem for a new coach faced with a major rebuilding job.

"You can't be involved in basketball without having problems," said Reed. "That's one of the challenges and thrills of the job."

State OKs handguns for lower region deer hunters

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

For area hunters who've bragged about shooting a deer with one arm tied behind their back, now they'll have a chance to back up that claim in lower Michigan.

Recently, the state Legislature and Gov. James Blanchard passed into law a bill allowing sportsmen to use handguns in zone three, the lower third of the state, during deer hunting season (Nov. 15-30). The law takes effect with the start of this year's deer season.

But it's not without some stipulations.

- A person can only use a repeating handgun of .35 caliber or larger with straight-walled ammunition, nine shot maximum in magazine and barrel.

- Muzzel loaders have to be of .44 caliber or larger round ball.

- Repeating black powder must be of .44 caliber or larger.

- Any hunter, born after Jan. 1, 1960, using a handgun during the deer season in zone three, must have a valid hunters safety certificate from Michigan or another state.

ANY PERSON between the ages of 12 and 16 must have the certificate to obtain their hunting license. But even with the restraints, sportsmen like the new law.

"What happens, if anything, is it gets more hunters from Michigan and Ohio into the woods," said Ed Simon, a hunter and an employee at Northwest Gun Shop in Redford. "As far as what this means . . . people will look for longer barrels for the handguns already out there.

"It's a good thing if it gets people out into the woods."

A spokesman for the Department of Natural Resources in Pontiac said the law was finally passed after continued pressure from hunters. The results of the law remains to be seen.

Safety, obviously, is a concern.

"That's one of the reasons we didn't allow it in the past because of the heavier population in the area," said Barbara Rockwell, wildlife secretary for the DNR. "I think that's why they tacked on the safety certificate requirement. We'll have to see how it goes."

SAFETY CERTIFICATES are obtained after taking a hunter's safety course from someone certified by the DNR. Most classes are not offered until the fall.

Pointe Mouille Shooting Range, in Rockwood, offers free courses on the second and fourth weekends of each month. There is a $2 fee to cover the range time needed to complete the course.

The use of a handgun, though, doesn't make it any easier to hunt. If anything, it's a hindrance. But the challenge of nabbing a deer with a handgun is the main feature of the law, according to Simon.

"(It's) 20 times as hard to hit something with a handgun than it is with a rifle," said Simon. "With a rifle, you use two hands and its anchored to the shoulder. What it (handgun) is, is a handicap."

The use of handguns for hunting in the state is certainly not new. They're allowed all over the state for small game and have been used for deer hunting in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula and all of the Upper Peninsula.

ONLY THEIR use in the southern part of Michigan during the Nov. 15-30 deer hunting season had not been allowed.

In other outdoors news:

- The ninth-annual Wildflower Walk on the nature trails of Livonia's Bicentennial Park takes place 1-3 p.m. on Sundays, May 4 and May 18.

The tours, sponsored by the Schoolcraft Biology Department, are free. Park nature trails feature more than 35 species of wildflowers. Schoolcraft faculty members and persons who've completed a wildflower class will conduct the tours.

Groups may schedule alternate tour dates by calling Schoolcraft biology professor Roger Sutherland at 591-6400, Ext. 521.

Kronk fighters bow out of Gloves tourney

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Paul Soucy, the director of the Livonia Boxing Club and franchise operator for the Detroit-area Golden Gloves Tournament, would just as soon put politics aside for the time being.

But on the eve of Saturday night's Golden Gloves finals at Schoolcraft College in Livonia, a longstanding feud continues to plague the tourney. (See attached box).

Amateur fighters from the famed Kronk Center in Detroit, which spawned the likes of Tommy Hearn and Milton McCrory, are boycotting the tournament again.

Problems stem from the 1982 tournament when Lonnie Bates, executive administrator for the Detroit Recreation Department, complained about the way the tournament was handled by Soucy and his associates.

Bates charged that the fighters were never treated to a banquet, failed to receive trophies or were never awarded customary gifts such as warm-up suits.

SOUCY ADMITTED the 1982 tournament was poorly run only because of low attendance, which cut severely into gate receipts.

"We didn't have enough money to buy trophies or hold a banquet," Soucy said. "I never took a penny from anybody. We didn't make a profit."

"The (Kronk) people have done everything in their power to kill the show. Emmanuel Steward (Kronk's director) has played the power game, and Mayor (Coleman) Young wants to stop the show."

"In 1982 we sent our best team ever from Detroit to the nationals. We had five winners (including Livonia's Craig Payne), and we won the team trophy."

Despite the continued Kronk boycott, Soucy is pleased that a number of other Detroit-area clubs are participating.

"There should be some good bouts," said Soucy. "We had 13 good bouts last weekend."

The Livonia Boxing Club director said he broke even on preliminary shows April 5 at Inkster and April 12 at the Michigan State Fairgrounds.

TO HELP DEFRAY costs, Central Distributing of Romulus is adding financial support to Saturday's show.

"I'm hoping for a capacity crowd Saturday night," Soucy said. "We've drawn 3,000 fans before at Schoolcraft and we hope to do it again."

Saturday's card features five Open Class bouts, including Todd Vickers, a 22-year-old truck driver from the Livonia Boxing Club.

Vickers will be seeking his second straight berth to the nationals in the

U.S.A. Professional Golden Gloves Boxing Finals
WHITMAN COLLEGE
 165-pound class. Sporting a 19-7 record, Vickers will take on Detroit's Willie Smith.
 Last week in the semifinals, Vickers defeated Duan McKissic of Johnson Recreation Center in Detroit.
 In other Open Class bouts, Detroit's Aaron Pulliam of the Spiritual Israel Center will take on Arnold Bell of Johnson in the 119 final. Pulliam is 14-3 as an amateur, while Bell is 10-6.

TICKETS: Available at the Livonia Recreation Department, Showman's Party Store and Video Center in Livonia 157 Ingalls and $5 general admission.
FOR MORE INFORMATION: Call 476-7875 or 525-1587.

In the 132 final, unbeaten Jerry Henderson (8-0) of Detroit Club Strive takes on Chris Stewart (16-6) from Detroit's Butzel Center.

AT 139, Tim Young (18-9) of the Crowell Center in Detroit, meets Wallace Fort (40-13) of Detroit PAL.

The 178-pound final features Ann Arbor's Kevin Van Riper (0-0) against Andre Nelson (34-12) of Butzel.

Going unopposed Saturday night and gaining a berth in the nationals are Junior National champ Boyd Gardner Jr. of Butzel, 125; Ike Hogan of Detroit Considine, 147; Michael Brown of Detroit Wheeler, 156; Kevin Banks of Butzel, 200; and Kermit Fitzpatrick of Detroit (unattached), super-heavyweight.

A number of Novice and Senior Novice bouts have also been scheduled to complement the Open Class fight. Wayne native Rodney Hudson of the Livonia Boxing Club will take on Jimmy Felder in a 125-pound Novice matchup.

Hudson was beaten last week by Jimmy Parton of the Eighth Street Gym in an exhibition bout.

"He (Hudson) gave a good account of himself and I thought he had won," said Soucy. "But the decision went the other way."

Paul Dillon of the Livonia Boxing Club is scheduled to face Kady King of Detroit PAL in a 165 Novice final.

Last weekend, the 19-year-old Dillon knocked out Shote Carter of Crowell.

"He's an up-and-coming fighter," Soucy said. "He has lots of potential."

A third Livonia member, Chris Curren, will take on John Bray in a 139-pound Senior Novice bout.

Garden City wrestler lands state title shot

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

There's not a Ricky Cortez doll on the market, nor is there a cartoon series about him on Saturday morning television.

And the only time the Garden City native gets to see Mr. T is on television. But when it comes to overall experience on the mat circuit, Cortez has Mr. Hulk Hogan and all of his cohorts pinned.

Cortez, who's been wrestling professionally for 20 years, gained most of his experience in 2,000-seat arenas instead of 20,000-seat palaces like Madison Square Garden and the Los Angeles Forum. Then, television was just beginning to make its impact on the sport, and Gorgeous George had just started tossing hair pins.

It was also a less-than-glamorous indoctrination for Cortez to the sport that is currently at the height of its popularity in this country.

"WHEN I BROKE in Montreal, they put me in the ring with a gorilla who weighed about 350 pounds," recalled Cortez, who's lived in Garden City for 25 years. "He beat me up bad, and after it was over they threw me out outside in a garbage can and put three bucks in my pocket."

"I just kept coming back and coming back. And I've never been beaten since."

Cortez backs that statement up with news clippings on how he destroyed such notables as the Sheikh and how he almost beat then world champion Buddy Rogers (the referee called it a draw). Without request, he leans forward and traces the scars that the sport has left in 20 years.

The stories are as endless as the miles Cortez has traveled. Wrestling has taken him to England, France, Japan, Mexico and Spain. He wrestled to draws with most of those countries' champions.

The question of pro wrestling's genuineness is brought up by him, surprisingly.

"The state athletic commission sends the referee," said Cortez, who's in the main event Saturday, April 26, on a card at Garden City Junior High. "Everyone is appointed by the state. There's no way you can choreograph wrestling."

BUT THERE'S certainly drama in the way he describes his experiences on the pro wrestling beat.

Like a wrestler who continually got away with writing bad checks wherever he went. And there are countless recounts of bouts with Lou Thesz, Argentina Rocca, Killer Kowalski, Gorgeous George, Dick the Bruiser and Lucky Lou.

"He wasn't so lucky," quipped Cortez. "I beat him in under a minute."

There have been a number of wrestlers who also haven't been lucky over the years. Except for main-eventers like Hulk Hogan, Roddy Piper and Sargeant Slaughter, the normal day-in-and-day-out of a professional wrestler isn't going to make "Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous."

The pay can be low and the time spent on the road is very long. Promoters have some areas completely monopolized, which can keep wrestlers on the lower rung.

ONLY RECENTLY, with the re-emergence of the sport on cable television, have things gotten better. More wrestling promotions are springing up.

Cortez doesn't think the current expansion will do wrestling any good in the long run. He believes the over-exposure on television, like it did for boxing, will eventually take its toll.

He's also not pleased with the extremes that wrestling has gone to, to promote itself. The overuse of nationalism (Iran/USSR vs. United States bouts) and psychosis (wrestlers who bark or eat turnbuckles) are turnoffs to him.

"This is what wrestling's degenerated to," said Cortez. "It all started with Gorgeous George."

Michigan Championship Wrestling, which is putting on the Garden

City card, appears to be exempt from that. The main event features Cortez going against "Iron" Mike Anthony for the Michigan heavyweight championship.

ALSO ON THE card, the Fabulous Kangaroos will battle the Flying Tigers for the International tag-team championship.

The Michigan Championship Wrestling outfit usually puts on shows at local high schools in conjunction with civic organizations. The Garden City Kiwanis is sponsoring the April 26 card.

And that's not to say it's without a little pre-bout hype, though.

Said the champion Mike Anthony: "I am coming to Garden City to give that Cortez a good, hard beating and prove to those farmers in that little horse-hick town that I am the truly great unbeatable champion."

Ricky Cortez
title contender

Cortez replied, "When 'Iron Mike' leaves town, that championship is staying here in Garden City."

One name in central air conditioning is a household word.

Whirlpool

In the central air conditioning business, the Whirlpool name has become a household word — a name you know, a name you can trust — for quality, dependability, and service. Chances are, the Whirlpool name is already an important part of your household. Maybe it helps you cook, wash dishes, or do the laundry.

Millions of American families also depend on Whirlpool to keep their homes cool and comfortable — even on the hottest days of summer. And when you think about it, it makes a lot of sense to trust your family's comfort to the name you've depended on so many times before — Whirlpool.

The Cathedral Palma in Mallorca and its inspiring spires.

An example of modern hotel architecture, Palma's Nova hotel.

The city retains examples of its historical architecture. This is part of a fortress.

Mallorca

Mediterranean island offers visitors history, charm

PALMA, Mallorca: There are tiny restaurants like this all over Europe, 15 white-clad tables where good food is served to an eager crowd of local diners.

The Restaurante Penelope is in Palma, Mallorca, in an area of town that is accessible enough once you find it the first time.

We got lost and followed the bay around the perimeter of the city twice before we lucked out, turned up from the waterfront and found the Plaza Progreso.

Restaurants open at 8 p.m. on the island, as they do everywhere else in Spain, so the Señora had just opened the door when we arrived. She led us between the bar and a glass case of fresh shellfish to a cozy table in the small, crowded room.

Juan Bonet was carving a leg of meat at a tiny table in the center of the room, while three well-trained waiters expertly worked the tables around him with salad, paella and the varied seafoods found in the adjacent waters.

The leg of meat was either a lamb or a goat, we couldn't tell which. We had been up for 24 hours and wouldn't know a goat from a lamb if we saw one walking at that point.

We had flown all night from Detroit and New York City, and spent the first two hours on the island trying to find our way uphill through ancient streets and traffic jams to the Sheraton Son Vida, our castle hotel high on a hill above the city. They don't tell you about the traffic when they sing about castles in Spain.

WE KNEW that we could not stay awake for the Spanish Night advertised at the Hotel Son Vida, so we asked the desk manager for a recommendation. He drew us a map to Penelope's, only a mile away, but we still got lost, driving and cursing around the bay several times before we found it.

Restaurante Penelope is a modest restaurant, but there are no college students here saying, "Hello, I'm John, I'm your waitperson today!" This kind of restaurant is quite different from the slick "continental" restaurants found in North America, where the waiters take up more space than they deserve and the prices are based on the menu instead of the food.

This is good food at moderate prices in a wonderful small setting, where the owner takes full responsibility for the quality of the kitchen and the waiters make a career out of serving food well.

A paella of rice and seafood, and a cold bottle of dry white wine from the Rioja district of Spain, was just what we needed to ease ourselves past jet lag and into a good night's sleep.

By noon the next day we had been lost often enough to finally find our way downhill into the old part of the city sitting gaily beside the sea. People ate their lunch from paper bags, sitting under stone portals, in grape arbors and around the splashing fountains that surround the Almudaina Palace in Palma.

Palma is the main city of Mallorca, which English-speaking people spell Majorca (it is pronounced "mayor-ca" either way) and the capital city of the province of Baleares, which includes Mallorca, Ibiza, Formentera, Cabrera and Menorca. A tidbit for you to drop at your next dinner party: mayonnaise comes from the city of Mahon on Menorca.

THERE ARE half a million people on Mallorca, the largest island, which the local people affectionately call the Little Rock; half of those people live (and drive) in the ancient streets of Palma.

The downtown plaza of any Mediterranean city is a people place by day and night, and Palma is no exception. They sit on the plaza in front of the cathedral, watch the swans in the palace pond and lean on the garden walls to watch horse-drawn carriages go up and down the Avenida Antonio Maura from the Plaza de la Reina to the busy maritime highway and the sea.

I always like to have an overview of a new city, a sense of its past and present life, before I settle down to the important task of people watching from local sidewalk cafes. The best way to do that in Palma is to take a walking tour with a map in your hand and tape from Walking Culture Tours over your shoulder.

A clear British voice walks you through 4,000 years of island history from the days of the Romans, the Vandals and the Byzantine empire to 500 years of Arab rule and on to the kinds who eventually brought the island under Spanish rule.

These Mediterranean islands were as valuable to ancient military leaders as island like Cuba and the Philippines are to such leaders today. After being invaded a hundred times, the Mallorcans learned to build their ports on the sea and their towns on high hills surrounded by walls a few miles away.

IN A two-hour ramble through the old city you walk through sites of ancient tournaments, between the active stalls of the old esplanade, down winding streets where beautiful old houses share space with historic churches, up the busy marketplace stairs into plazas full of sidewalk cafes.

The sun beats down on your head while the clear taped voice tells it all: "We have passed under a Roman gate, we have dreamed in the remains of an Arab house, we have spoken of Germans, Phoenicians, Greeks, and Etruscan people. If before now we have not spoken of Vikings it is only because . . ."

I confess that I skipped the old Arab baths because my energy was running out and I was eager to get to the cathedral and on to a sidewalk cafe for lunch. History is only a background to 20th-century life, even in the most historic city.

The foreground activity includes getting lost again and again climbing the ancient streets and exploring the wonderful little eating places in town and on the more modern tourist strip where the discos and modern high rises are found on the west end of town.

The real tourist areas, where the Europeans fly in on weekly charter flights, stretch east and west along the southern coast of Mallorca. Along that 20-mile stretch from Palma to Andrai you hear a lot of working-class English voices on the beach and in the shopping bazaars. There are gaily colored canopies and balconies hung with hats, sunsuits and beach balloons.

In one of these towns an English traveler can spend two weeks with family or friend in a basic hotel like the high rise Magalluf Park Sol, which costs less than $100 a week for one person sharing a room, $200 for two. Basic but clean. The only casino in Mallorca is two kilometers west of Magalluf in a new housing development.

ON A typical beach along this coast, many of the women sun topless on the beach. These are not necessarily young women. Mallorca is not necessarily a young island, and there is nothing self-conscious about topless sunbathers.

We met Gladys and Teddy Mitchell in a new cliff-top town called Cala Fornell. What they said about the coastal beaches was: "That's what Spanish people think English people like, chips with everything." The Mitchells are both 77 years old, bronzed and healthy and swimming every day in the deep water below. "We don't like beaches."

Is it reasonably priced to live here? Gladys says "We can afford a smoke and a drink here, which we couldn't afford on a pension in England."

Puerta de Andraix (pronounce that "and-ratch" with a hrr on the r) is at the western end of the stretch of resort towns. It is the port for Andraix, a pleasant harbor full of fishing and pleasure boats, with restaurant tables on terraces overlooking the sea and five of them tucked neatly into the tiny town square.

This village is aware of tourists but it does not have the busy tourist atmosphere of the other places we have visited on this southwest coast, no supermarket balconies full of beach balloons, no English "fish and chips" signs.

What it does have is glorious shrimp fresh out of the sea and tiny cafes with waiters eager to serve them.

Next week: Day trips through the mountains of Mallorca.

Cook at the Restaurante Penelope in Mallorca takes pride in his work. The restaurant offers good food at moderate prices in a small setting.

A shopper at a street stand in Palma, the main city of Mallorca, takes a look at the variety of goods offered.

Miniaturist carves out big career

By Carmina Brooks
Special Writer

It's summertime in Judy Shellhaas' life, but the living hasn't always been easy.

In a dozen years, Shellhaas of Plymouth, an extraordinary wood carver for miniature collectors, has become well-known both here and abroad.

She is in demand as a miniature maker, teacher, lecturer and writer of how-to-carve articles. With a magic touch and her Xacto knife, she can transform a block of basswood into a work of art.

Life wasn't always so sunny for Shellhaas. When she was a teenager, she wanted to become a cabinet maker. She went to the finest furniture builder she knew, a friend and neighbor, Steve Turk, and asked if she could join the union and apprentice herself to him to learn the trade.

Turk said, "They will never allow it." Shellhaas was crushed. She decided to go to school and become an architect and attended Schoolcraft

College for two years. While there, a counselor told her, "You can get your degree, but all you will ever do is draw blueprints."

RECALLING THOSE years, Shellhaas said, "I thought to hell with this. I have talent." She spent the next six years in the Plymouth Observer newspaper, composing room with an Xacto knife in her hands. That knife became the tool for her art.

One day an editor at the paper told her, "We can never promote you to an executive level because you do not have a degree." She quit.

In 1972, she married John Shellhaas, who planned to enter teaching.

The day I delivered our son was the first day my husband was on the job as an elementary school teacher. Our income dropped from $40,000 to $1,000. I was alone at home with my son. I wanted that baby, but I wanted to have it all—to be a terrific wife, mother, homemaker and have an income. We were living at the poverty level. That was when I went to a toy store and saw the dollhouse. I thought, "I can do better than that. Now, I absolutely love what I do," she said.

Shellhaas has many loves.

"I love toys. We didn't have a lot of money when I was growing up. My brother and I made things to play with."

"All my life I have loved wood. My younger brother, Steve, and I used to go garbage-picking. We'd pick up crates and lumber left by the road and bring it home. I would build puppet stages and I built him a crib house."

Shellhaas claims there isn't anything she can't do as a woodworker. She designed and built the bookcase wall in her living room. The fireplace mantle is a work in progress with carved paneling to be added later. She built the vanity with drawers and cupboards in her master bathroom. She is converting a former garage into a work studio.

"I love to write," she said while describing the series of three articles she is doing for Scenic Cabinet maker, a national magazine for miniature makers. The first article will appear in a spring issue. Husband John is photographing her work to illustrate the series.

"I love to teach," she said, remembering her first class as an instructor.

"I started teaching in a local crafts shop 39 days after I started to carve wood. I walked into that classroom and faced 16 people who thought I knew something. When they asked something I didn't know, I said, 'I'll check on that and get back to you next week.' By next week I'd have a solution to the problem. I have learned by trial and error. Now, after 11 years, I know what I'm doing."

SHELLHAAS TEACHES beginning and advanced classes in miniature wood carving at Greenfield Village. She has taught hobbyists how to make Abe Lincoln's rocking chair, a rocking horse and a cradle.

She has been traveling to Toledo, Ohio, for five years to teach advanced students for the Greenhouse Miniature Shop.

She teaches several classes at the Miniature Makers' Workshop in Royal Oak. Her spring classes include how to carve a Shenandoah rocking cradle, a Tidewater Virginia fire-place circa mid 1700, which she designed, and a Queen Anne service table.

"With advanced students I have a totally free hand," she said. "I have never taught the same subject twice. This keeps my interest up."

"I love to lecture," Shellhaas said, and does, whenever asked, frequently traveling out of state. When her work is featured in miniature magazines, she gets requests from all over the country.

For miniature carving she works only with basswood. "It is predictable and has a soft grain, is very tight, unlike pine. The knife doesn't catch and chip."

"I make all my own patterns, using a heavy tack board, then I transfer the pattern onto wood. I do best with intricate carving applied to the general outline of the piece."

"My favorite piece is whatever I am doing at the moment. I have built more than 4,000 pieces," she said.

She held an exquisite tiny horse standing on a wheeled platform in the palm of her hand. The horse wears a plume of pigeon feathers and has a tail of mohair.

She showed a tiny standing globe, a prototype from her first year of building miniatures. The earth is painted on a ping pong ball. "I don't want to alter the world too much," she said wistfully.

IN ORDER to make changes and corrections, she makes a prototype first. She hasn't kept the prototypes for all her pieces, which may some day be worth a fortune as a collection.

"When the shops sell my pieces and are begging for more, the prototypes go out the door," she said. "I wish I had some of them back."

Shellhaas' work is never produced in quantities larger than 25. By limiting the number, the value increases. She would like commissions to build her pieces in lower numbers, she said.

She has orders from England and Australia and recently got her wish for a one-of-a-kind piece when she was commissioned by Kristen Kunekel of Juneau, Alaska, to work with her by letter.

"The assignment was hair-raising," Shellhaas said. "The woman was hiring me to do architectural modifications to her dollhouse. I had to build library shelves for her octagon tower room. It was frightening. Could I build it, ship it, and make it fit all those eight sides? It was exciting to deal with somebody so far away and have it work."

Recently, John and Judy Shellhaas took their first vacation together. He completed his master's degree, so, after a dozen years, the pressure is off her to earn an income.

Their home reflects their shared efforts. She showed tiny metal figurines that her husband makes out of lead, a collection of music boxes, painted wooden clock faces, Norwegian folk paintings, oils on wood.

"My daughter will be the one to teach to carve," she said. "She had the dexterity and listening skills. But at 8 years old, she is still too young to give a knife. It is as sharp as a surgeon's scalpel. I have cut tendons and whole ends of my fingers off."

"Now I find myself in the position that I don't have to work 60 hours a week anymore. I would like one month just to be a housewife."

BILL BRENNER/STAMP PHOTOGRAPHER

Judy Shellhaas of Plymouth has gained both national and international acceptance as a miniature maker and is in great demand as a teacher, lecturer and writer of how-to-carve articles.

Twelve years of experience is behind the talented hands of miniaturist Judy Shellhaas. Hours and hours of fine detail go into every item she creates.

Showing miniatures

The Wee Wee spring miniature show will be held Friday-Sunday, May 2-4, at Miniature Makers' Workshop, 1725 W. 14 Mile, Royal Oak.

Displays include needlepoint by Jean Clark of Birmingham, holiday room boxes by Hiroko Onba of Farmington Hills, needlepoint baskets by Lesley Davis of Rochester and the Flint homestead dollhouse belonging to Sue Welcome of Birmingham.

Highlighted will be three furnished and electrified room boxes and collectibles from the miniature collection of the late Geraldine Chadwick of Detroit. She was a native Detroitier who collected miniatures from 1919 until her death in 1983 and left a well-documented history of the development of miniatures in America over 50 years.

On a national scale, miniatures are a $300-million-a-year industry involving a quarter of a million people of all ages.

The earth is painted on a ping-pong ball for this prototype of a tiny globe Shellhaas did in her early carving years.

A basswood fireplace setting is of Shellhaas' own design. She teaches beginning and advanced classes in miniature wood carving at many area locations including Greenfield Village.

A lifelong love of wood and an appreciation for toys she didn't have as a child is one reason why Judy Shellhaas enjoys carving these finely detailed horses.

A National Celebration of Homes for People, Business and Industry.

APRIL 13-19

We salute our local Realtors as they join in national observance of American Home Week April 13-19. This special week is designed to help remind all Americans of our constitutional right to own property. Perhaps more than any other, this freedom which includes the rights to use, enjoy, sell or transfer private property, drew the waves of emigrants to our shores from other nations around the world.

For most it was the first opportunity to hold title to their own land, business, or importantly their homes for this was proof that our nation was indeed a true democracy.

Home ownership adds a stability to our society and gives us all the incentive to work for better neighborhoods and communities. For most of us, our homes are the center of our involvement in the affairs of our city, state and nation.

While aiding us in the buying and selling of property, local Realtors also continue to work to protect our precious rights of ownership and assure that no new laws shall seek to abridge them.

With so much civil unrest in other nations, we urge all readers to take a moment during this special week to reflect on the importance of these rights to you and your families.
