QUITE A SPELL: Holly Quick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Quick of Provincetown Lane, Plymouth, and sixth grader at Central Middle School, is the 1986 spelling bee champion of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. Sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth graders competed throughout the district and then the building winners vied to determine the eight semi-finalists.

Holly received her award recently from Richard Egli, administrative assistant for community relations, during a live telecast of the final contest at the Omnicon studios.

IN INFANTRY: Jeffrey E. Kleinsmith of Plymouth is one of a group of 23 ROTC cadets at Eastern Michigan University to be commissioned a first lieutenant in the U.S. Army. Kleinsmith is being commissioned into the infantry. He is the son of the late Edgar Kleinsmith who served as a principal of Fiegle Elementary for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

HONORED: The Financial Executives Institute, an international association of financial executives, has selected two residents among the group it is honoring this year as being among the nation's top students in the field of accounting and finance. Honored for demonstrating high standards of academic excellence at the baccalaureate level were Teresa Farnum of Plymouth, a student at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti, and Martha A. Keck of Canton, a student at University of Michigan-Dearborn.

SERVED ST. MARY: Two residents were honored recently for years of volunteer service to St. Mary Hospital. Among the lay people honored for 25 years or more of volunteer service was Lois Fortune of Canton. Betty Lou Baker, Bronislava Oztelnais and Zofia Sordyl, both of Plymouth, were honored for 20 years service.

Bond issue, incumbents win OK

By Doug Funke

Voters Monday gave the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education permission to borrow $13 million for construction and to buy equipment.

The bond issue was approved by a margin of more than 350 votes — 2,666 "yes" to 2,209 "no."

Elected trustees were incumbent E.J. McClendon for a two-year term, and incumbent Marilyn Schwinn and Jeanette Wines for four years.

McClendon, of Plymouth Township, led all trustee candidates with 2,546 votes. In the two-year race, Diane Daskalakis, of Plymouth, (an "anti-witch" candidate) finished second with 769 votes followed by Patricia Zagorski, of Canton, with 595 and John Voymas, of Plymouth, with 345 votes.

In the four-year race, challenger Elaine Kirchgatter, of Canton, was the leader with 2,272 votes followed by Schwinn, of Plymouth Township, with 2,023 votes.

The strongest runner-up was Richard Sumpter, of Canton, with 1,156 votes followed by Judith Lore, of Plymouth Township, with 962 votes.

Jerry Raymor, of Plymouth, another "anti-witch" candidate, finished fifth with 892 votes followed by Joan Kotcher, of Canton, at 702.

Elaine Kirchgatter, of Canton, had decided against seeking re-election, a decision which assured at least one newcomer would be elected to the board.

IN THE BOND issue voting, Plymouth residents generally voted against the proposal while Cantonites generally favored the loan package — a consistent pattern for money questions in recent years.

Of the seven precincts which voted against the bond issue, six were in the city of Plymouth or Plymouth Township.

The precincts opposing the bond issue were: Central Middle, 162-179; Starkweather, 105-112; Allen, 138-220; West Middle, 342-353; Farrand, 145-209; Bird, 116-148; and the absentee ballot counting board, 71-129. At Isbister, the vote was tied at 171.

Of the seven precincts voting in favor of the bond issue, the largest margins were at Gallimore (327-130), Hulsing (246-101), Eriksson (159-69), Field (122-59) and Canton High (310-156).

City residents in the Central voting precinct went against the bond issue even though Central Middle will be renovated at a cost in excess of $1 million. Gallimore in Canton, which is getting a six-room addition, heavily favored the proposal.

"I'm extremely grateful for the district supporting the bond issue. It certainly, I think, was needed," said Superintendent John M. Hoben. "There is a process for qualifying bonds that takes some time. The earliest would be July 28."

Auto dealer offers to enclose creek

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Dick Scott, owner of Dodge and Buick dealerships on Ann Arbor Road, has offered to pay to enclose about 600 feet of Tonquish Creek behind his Dodge agency even though he says he has no specific plans for the parcel now.

"The motivation is twofold — threefold," Scott said. "Number one, the city wants it done, I want it done for sanitary and safety reasons and, number three, it enhances the property I own."

Engineering, construction and financing costs have been estimated at $325,000. City officials and Scott propose issuing tax-free public improvement bonds to raise cash for the project.

A special assessment district consisting of Scott's property would be established for 20 years to pay the interest and principal on the bonds.

IT'S EXPECTED that a drainage pipe 10-feet in diameter will be placed in the creekbed, then covered to allow Scott direct access to a parcel he owns on the other side of the creek fronting on Byron.

Scott, at times, parks cars on that vacant parcel now.

"The plan for the land is up in the air," he said. "We don't know whether we'll use it for storage, buildings, apartments or what."

A public hearing on the necessity of the public improvement project has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. next Monday (June 16) at City Hall.

Scott's property is zoned for both commercial and multiple residential use.

City Manager Henry Graper speaks highly of the improvement.

"I would like to see the entire drain covered, if possible," he said. "It will certainly enhance their property and that entrance into the community I own."

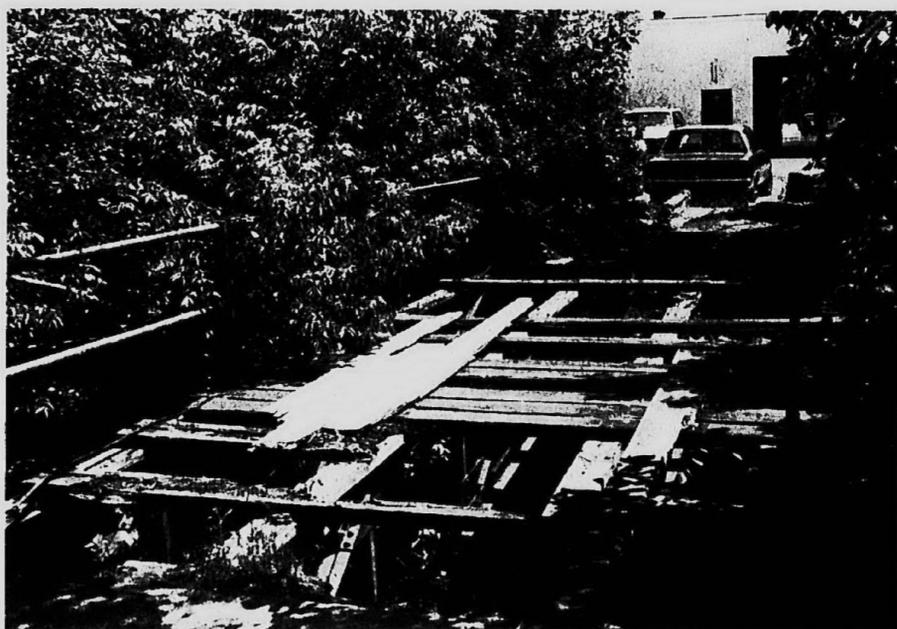

Graper and City Engineer Ken West said they believe enclosing the creek won't cause future flooding or back-up problems. The county drain commissioner has previously approved the enclosure.

CITY COMMISSIONER Mary Childs, active on the city beautification committee, said she isn't sure that covering the creek is such a good idea.

"I will support the hearing," she said. "At this point, I'm not in favor of the project. Mr. Scott has done a lot for the community, but I'm concerned about the habitat."

CREATIVE LIVING REAL ESTATE GUIDE IN EVERY THURSDAY EDITION

Berry good Farmer enjoys fruits of labor

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

In a World War II-era Jeep on a rutty farm road, Bob Blessed takes you down to his strawberry fields, where the berries are real and already blooming.

In fact, strawberries don't get any more real than they do in June. This is when the short growing season for the berries winds down. Growing out from under those deep-green leaves with upturned edges, young strawberries change from pale white to bright red — so bright they almost glow under the mid-day sun.

Blessed has been growing strawberries — those stars of shortcake, sundae, and daiquiri fame — since he moved to his Plymouth Township farm in 1961. Since 1963, he's allowed folks who crave the berries to pick their own for a fee, currently 65 cents per quart.

AN ENGINEER with Ford Motor Co. until his retirement in 1978, Blessed recalls his first experience with strawberry farming:

"When we lived in Livonia, we had a little garden. We just liked strawberries. When we moved out here, we just got carried away," he said, laughing.

As Blessed's weatherbeaten Jeep rambles up to his Powell Road home, he greets a visitor playing with a friendly shepherd near a "Beware of Dog" sign. It's a winding ride to the fields below; past areas no longer cultivated, past hives kept on a hilltop, and down to the rows of strawberries the bees pollenate and people pick.

Certain regulars have come from as far as Birmingham and the east side of Detroit, says Blessed, adding they also come from Dearborn and the western suburbs. "I'm sure some of them are second generation; the kids have grown up and they bring their kids."

On a recent weekday afternoon, five people are bent over plant rows. They're filling quart baskets Blessed and his wife, June, provide from a small red supply shack trimmed in white. The couple also has three or four part-time employees who help out on weekends. That's when the most cars line the grass parking lot near the supply shack as berry-pickers roam 11 acres of strawberry plants.

When Blessed's grown son was still living at home, the family had as much as 18-20 acres turning out strawberries.

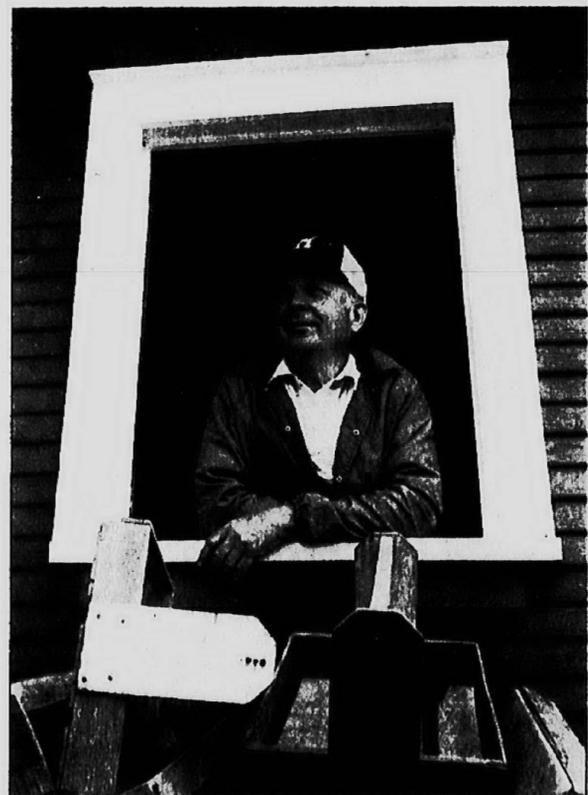

Surveying the scene from his Jeep ("Why walk when you can ride," he said), Blessed wears a yellow golf shirt and matching maize and blue Wolverine "M" cap.

He touches on some basics of strawberry farming. "You need a good water supply for frost protection." Foot-high sprinklers are spaced 60 feet apart throughout the strawberry fields. Water covers the blossoms if the early spring temperatures dip as low as 27 or 28 degrees, thereby protecting them from killing frost.

"If it gets any colder than that, you're in trouble," said Blessed.

Normally, strawberries are planted April 9-11. When it comes to growing conditions, Blessed said, "What we like is just pure sunshine.

Bond, incumbents win

New buses probably will be purchased late this summer and computers at some time during the 1986-87 school year, Hoben said.

He speculated that the new elementary school in Canton would open in the fall of 1988, the addition at Gallimore completed by the fall of 1987 and heating elements at Pioneer replaced next spring or summer.

Improvements at Central will likely occur on an on-going basis while students attend class, Hoben said.

FOR TRUSTEE. McClendon placed first in all 14 of the district's voting precincts.

In the four-year race, Wines was the front-runner in 10 precincts evenly drawing from Plymouth and Canton. Schwinn carried the absentee voters precinct, West Middle, Fiegl, and Bird.

There was no apparent relationship between the voting pattern for board candidates and for the bond issue.

McClendon attributed his landslide re-election to name recognition and public confidence after years of community service.

"That means I'm old and everybody knows me," he said with a chuckle.

"The community looked at the issue of religion and school and took what I think was a very thoughtful and rational position," he said. "People in the Plymouth-Canton community can't be stampeded into taking non-rational positions. I find that comforting."

Wines and Schwinn also attributed their election to community involvement.

"I've been around a long time, paid my dues," Wines said. "People know me. I had a lot of people working for me."

"BOTH Jeanette and I have been very active in the school district and probably that's the kind of representation people want," Schwinn said.

Daskalakis said she doesn't view her showing at the polls as a repudiation of her philosophy.

"I do not personally know 769 people in this town on a real chummy basis," she said. "That showed me some voted for me based on my beliefs."

"I plan on running again next year. I am a serious candidate. I believe there is a great need for Christian leadership in this community."

Raymor also said chances are good he'll run again.

"Evidently, we didn't make our issue (bring Christianity and morals back into the school system) clear enough and well-known enough," he said.

Strawberries forever

and we'll add water out of our sprinklers." By hand, they can weed up to five acres of strawberries per day.

While strawberry farming keeps Blessed and his wife busy, he said the berries are pretty easy to grow. Asked what problems might come up, Blessed shrugs his shoulders and offers, "If the plants look yellow, you fertilize them." He uses a fertilizer with nitrogen, phosphate and potash mixed in equal 16-percent portions.

So how does a strawberry farmer take his strawberries? "I like it sliced on shortcake," says Blessed, adding his wife makes the biscuits. "I'll take strawberries and ice cream and put it in the blender."

Blessed's Strawberry Farm on the south side of Powell Road west of Ridge — just follow the signs.

Blessed. "Then depending on how they look, we'll fertilize again the first of September."

WHILE BIRDS might eat a few strawberries on occasion, Blessed said they pose no threat. "The animals got to eat too."

Every two or three years, berry output begins to dwindle and the berries get smaller. That means it's time to turn a section of the strawberry fields into the ground, and practice a little crop rotation.

businesses along Ann Arbor Road by trees and bushes growing along the creek bank, Childs said.

Graper and West said they expect Scott to landscape his business in consideration of the neighbors.

If the enclosure wins approval from the city commission and all financing arrangements are completed, work is expected to start in September and finish in mid-October.

Abortion battle

Legislature, governor to collide

By Tim Richard
staff writer

It's a giant game of "chicken." Gov. James Blanchard and the state Legislature are on a colliding course over Medicaid funding of abortions. The question: Which side will flinch?

"It's unfortunate things have deteriorated to the point where we have to go through this exercise," said Rep. W.V. (Sandy) Brotherton, R-Farmington.

Nevertheless, he voted for the so-called Dillingham amendment to cut off Medicaid abortions for women on welfare.

'I don't want to look a senior citizen or a child in the eye and say I voted to deny this (Medicaid).'

— Rep. Lyn Banks
R-Livonia

BUT REP. LYN Banks, R-Livonia, says anti-abortion people aren't being given all the facts about what's at stake. Banks voted against the Dillingham amendment.

The amendment deeply split both political parties as the House passed it 58-47 Tuesday.

Men backed it 56-36. Women opposed it 11-2.

Here's how western Wayne County lawmakers voted:

Yes — John Bennett, D-Redford, and Gerald Law, R-Plymouth.

No — Banks, Justine Barns, D-Westland, and William Keith, D-Garden City. Absent was James Kosteva, D-Canton, who in the past has opposed such measures.

Rep. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, employed a rarely-used device to get anti-abortion language into the law.

He sought to amend the Department of Social Services (DSS) appropriations bill to prohibit payments for "abortions not performed to save the life of the mother."

IF BLANCHARD vetoes the measure, the entire $1.4 billion Medicaid budget is lost — and that's what concerned Banks.

"I don't want to look a senior citizen or a child in the eye and say I voted to deny this (Medicaid)," she said.

Banks said calls from ten or so Right to Life (anti-abortion) constituents revealed they didn't realize the massive ramifications of the Dillingham amendment.

"The Michigan Catholic Conference opposes this amendment. Rep. Mike Griffin (D-Jackson), who normally introduces anti-abortion legislation, also opposes this," she tells them in a reply letter.

Brotherton said anti-abortion people "have gotten tired of playing the game one way and getting beaten."

In the past, Griffin's anti-abortion language was contained in a special line-item in the DSS budget bill. Governors could — and 13 times did — veto the line item but signed the rest of the bill.

ANTI-ABORTION forces needed a two-thirds vote to override the veto — 74 in the House. The best they ever did was 72.

With the Dillingham amendment, anti-abortion forces need a simple majority of 56 votes.

"This tactic was used once before, about 10 years ago," Brotherton recalled. At that time, budget bills were passed just before the fiscal year started. Now, he said, there is a period of more than three months before the new fiscal year starts.

"There's time for negotiation," he said.

"The governor is in a position to decide if he'll play chicken and see if somebody will back off. He can decide if he'll accept what other states have done and what Congress has done (prohibit use of public funds for abortions)," Brotherton said.

MOST LAWMAKERS were unaware of remarks by a Catholic nun that Catholic legislators voting to fund Medicaid abortions would be excommunicated.

Sister Rose Michael of El Paso, Texas, apparently made the remark to Catholic lawmakers while visiting their offices.

Her statements were reported by House Minority Leader Michael Busch, R-Saginaw, a Catholic. Busch said he was offended by the nun's remark and that it hurt rather than helped the Right to Life cause.

Senators want to cut taxes on inheritance to keep senior here

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Michigan is competing for senior citizens. The state Senate last week passed a bill cutting inheritance taxes to Florida levels, hoping aloud that retirees will choose to stay here.

"People who wish to avoid the Michigan inheritance tax have removed themselves to Florida," said Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills.

"We can keep people in Michigan by cutting tax rates," added Sen. Richard Posthumus, R-Lowell.

THE IDEA came from the Hudson Institute, an Indianapolis-based think tank hired by Senate Majority Leader John Engler of Mount Pleasant to suggest ways to revive the economy. The idea is to reduce "retiree flight."

It passed on a 31-6 vote last week, supported by all Observer & Eccentric area senators except Richard Fessler, R-West Bloomfield, who was absent. One Republican and five Democrats opposed it, mostly on the grounds that it would reduce state revenue by $50 million a year from the current $60 million.

Sen. Gary Corbin, D-Clio, accused the majority of pandering to the public by voting for appropriations and tax cuts. Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, ridiculed it as "Reaganomics," arguing it would lead to budget deficits.

But Sen. Patrick McCollough, D-Dearborn, countered that "cutting tax rates to raise revenue is not Reagan's idea. It was done by John F. Kennedy," said McCollough, whose district includes Garden City.

"THE PEOPLE who suffer from the inheritance tax are the middle class," said the bill's sponsor, Nick Smith, R-Hillsdale County. "The rich go to financial counselors and find legal loopholes."

The bill, which goes now to the House, would repeal much of Michigan's 1899 inheritance tax law. It would base the state tax on federal estate taxes. The Senate staff analysis says:

"If the estate of a decedent, who died after Jan. 1, 1987, were subject to the federal estate tax . . . the tax due to the state would be an amount equal to the maximum tax credit allowed against federal estate taxes."

For example, if the federal estate tax were $1,000 and the maximum credit against the tax were $600, then the Michigan tax would be $600.

Currently 16 states have adopted similar laws. Florida and Arizona are considered the leading "tax havens."

THE NEW TAX law would be simpler, eliminating current provisions of imposing higher rates on heirs who are more distant relatives, unrelated or organizations.

Supporters like Posthumus and Faxon argued that Michigan would actually gain revenue because retirees would stay here and pay sales, income, gasoline and other taxes as long as they lived.

The bill was opposed by the state Treasury Department but supported by the State Bar Association.

Brush cleared from Hulsing assault site

By Diane Gale
staff writer

A wooded pathway where a Hulsing Elementary student was recently attacked will be cleared of some vegetation to avoid further incidents.

The decision to remove the trees was the result of a meeting Monday, June 9, which about 80 parents attended to discuss their concerns about the safety of the pathway.

"Our plan is to reduce the lower shorter brush so one can see completely through the wooded area from one end to the other," said Dale Goby, director of school transportation. "But there's no reason to cut the larger trees."

Workers already have started clearing away brush from 15 to 20 feet along the pathway. The path is the easiest route from Mayfair Village subdivision to the school.

"There's nothing inherently unsafe about the woods in and of itself but when you have concerns like that you need to address them," Goby said. "We believe this is a reasonable approach."

The meeting was prompted by an attack of an 11-year-old girl who was walking with two friends east on the path on their way to school at about 9 a.m. Tuesday, June 3. A man, in his late teens or early 20s, ran toward the girls. He held out his arms blocking the path, grabbed the girl from behind and fondled her. The victim and her friends screamed and ran to school.

A 7-year-old student told police he was also walking on the footpath that morning when a man tried to grab him. He said he dodged the man's grasp and ran to school.

The victims gave the following description of the man: 6 feet tall with a slim build, 165 pounds, short curly brown hair and a brown slightly curly mustache.

He was wearing a green sweatshirt, blue jeans, white tennis shoes and a class ring.

Police are following leads on a suspect, Canton Police Chief John Santomauro said.

"We've been following numerous tips," Santomauro said.

Anyone with information about the case is asked to call police at 397-3000.

Santomauro and Public Information Officer Eddie Tanner attended the meeting to "dispel myths about what happened," and to listen to parents' concerns.

Officers always have been directed to pay special attention to schools within their patrol areas, Santomauro said. But extra patrol will be added at Hulsing until the last day of classes June 12.

Santomauro advised parents to try to keep close track of where their children are, and to walk the path at the start and close of the school day.

Ice carving grant sought by city

Plymouth's Ice Sculpture Spectacular could be even more spectacular next winter if the city receives a grant designed to help stage local celebrations in honor of Michigan's 150th anniversary of admission to the union.

Plymouth proposes the commissioning of a 40-ton "Symphony of Ice" which would be accentuated by a sound and light display.

"I assume it would be in Kellogg Park or the point over there," said Paul Sincock, assistant to the city manager. "Obviously, it would have to be tied in with the whole main event."

Sincock said he believes the city's application has a better than 50-50 chance of gaining acceptance. The state department of commerce has $500,000 to give away in maximum increments of $10,000. No local matching funds are required.

Sincock said he expects to get word on the application next month.

"We feel the ice sculpture spectacular would naturally lend itself to the sesquicentennial celebration," Sincock said. Projects funded by the state must be unique, he added.

Preliminary plans call for using water from each of the four Great Lakes that border Michigan for the ice blocks, Sincock said. It's expected that 200, 400-pound blocks would be used in the Symphony of Ice.

Sincock said he doubts that the city or sponsors of the extravaganza could afford to commission such a project without the grant.

"Just to pull off the ice sculpture spectacular takes an awful lot of dollars," he said.

Several hundred thousand spectators flock to Plymouth in January to look at the works of art that line major streets and the park, organizers estimate. The show, launched in 1983, is beginning to attract national and international attention.

Plan aims at drug pushers' pockets

By Teri Banas
staff writer

A Wayne County commissioner has introduced an ordinance that would require drug pushers to pay for rehabilitation treatment for the youngsters they turn on to illegal drugs.

In the proposal introduced last week by commissioner Richard Manning, D-Redford Township, Wayne County would establish "civil liability" in the sale of illegal substances, thereby assisting the parents of underage drug users with help in any court suit they bring.

No immediate response was evident from the commission last week, though the matter has been turned over to the commission's Public Safety and Judiciary Committee for further study.

Manning, himself a practicing attorney, could not say if state law preceded such an ordinance, but said he was examining the county's "home rule powers" on that question.

"THE ULTIMATE goal is to get at the income of the pusher. The best way to solve the problem (of illegal drug use) is to get at their pocketbooks," Manning said.

By establishing civil liability, he said that parents could then sue drug pushers to collect on punitive and real damages "including any costs associated with treatment or rehabilitation of the minor for drug dependency" as well as the pain and suffering of the parent or guardian.

"In criminal actions that's instituted by the state and doesn't give relief to the family or person harmed," he said.

Ron MacGillis, an assistant attorney general specializing in municipal affairs, said he could not answer off-hand whether there was a pre-emption by state law over such a proposed ordinance.

He did say a comparison could be made between this proposal and the state's dram shop liquor legislation, however. Dram shop legislation makes the owner of a tavern responsible for damages when a customer is injured because of drunkenness.

If approved by Wayne County, MacGillis said the ordinance would be sent to the governor's office for approval with a review from his division.

Manning said he decided to introduce the ordinance after reading a state bar journal article, which made a case for reaching the root of the county's drug problems and suggested this course of action.

"A significant amount of our county expense in the care of indigent people, for example, is used for drug rehabilitation. It seems to be growing each year and that's just for indigent people," he said.

Manning said he would contact representatives of the Michigan and Detroit state bar associations for input into the proposed ordinance.

17 are in race for 3 circuit judgeships

By Teri Banas
staff writer

A private practice attorney from Canton Township has joined the race for the Wayne County Circuit Court this Aug. 5.

Stephen B. Foley becomes one of 17 candidates seeking three vacancies on the bench. The terms run for six years and pay $74,888 a year.

Foley

Foley, 35, a resident of Canton's Brookside Village Subdivision, is employed by the law firm of Alan R. Miller of Birmingham. His concentration is in trial work, most of which is done in the Wayne County Circuit Court. He worked briefly as an assistant prosecutor and juvenile court officer.

"My background in trial work is one reason I believe I could be a good judge," Foley said.

There are now 17 candidates vying for the three Wayne Circuit judicial positions. Voters in the August primary will pick six nominees to run in the November general election.

Other western Wayne County candidates in the race are: Shawn P. Kavanagh, Livonia; Patrick McDonald, Livonia; James P. Ryan, Canton Township; Gregory J. Stempien, Northville; and Harry Tatigian, Livonia.

In other areas: Joseph Baltimore, Detroit; Paul L. Bricker, Grosse Pointe Farms; Robert K. Costello, Grosse Pointe Farms; Ada S. Kerwin, Detroit; Kathleen Macdonald, Grosse Pointe Park; William J. Monaghan, Grosse Pointe Farms; Michael Murphy, Taylor; James J. Rashid, Dearborn; Timothy C. Scallen, Grosse Pointe; and David J. Szymanski, Harper Woods.

FOLEY SAID he is seeking the position for "an opportunity to be effective by rendering fair decrees. As a judge you need a broad background and a good feeling for people."

Foley, a practicing attorney for nine years, earned his law degree from the Detroit College of Law in 1976.

Before joining the Birmingham firm two years ago, he worked for the Livonia firm of Cummings, McClorey, Davis and Aho and was assigned an assistant Redford Township trial attorney.

Foley also spent two years in the Wayne County Prosecutor's office as an assistant prosecutor and one year in the Wayne County Juvenile Court as a court officer.

FOLEY IS a past director and member of the Canton Jaycees and a past president of the Brookside Village Homeowners Association. He also is a member of the Canton Township Democratic Club and the 15th Congressional District Democratic Party.

He has run unsuccessfully for two other elected offices — a bench seat with the 35th District and a trusteeship with the Plymouth-Canton School Board.

Plymouth couple arrested in stocks, bonds scam

By Alice Collins
staff writer

A Plymouth couple, who allegedly bilked relatives and friends out of thousands of dollars in scams involving bogus stocks and bonds, is expected to be in Birmingham police custody this morning.

The couple, identified as Marianne and Paul Rubnowski and also as Paul Montgomery and Marianne Dally, were arrested in Las Vegas last week on warrants issued through the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office.

Since that time, arrest warrants also have been issued against the pair in Macomb County stemming from an alleged incident in Warren, according to Detective Don Clark of the Warren Police Department.

Birmingham police went to Las Vegas this week to bring the pair back to Michigan to face the charges.

In the Birmingham case, the two are accused of bilking Marianne Rubnowski's sister and husband, who live in Birmingham, of $4,000.

TWO-COUNT warrants issued for the arrest of Marianne Rubnowski, 30, and Paul Rubnowski, 31, charge each with obtaining money under false pretenses and violating the state uniform securities act.

In Warren where they're known as Montgomery and Dally, each is charged with conspiring to and obtaining money under false pretenses. The amount involved in the Warren case is $10,000, according to police.

Birmingham Cpl. John VanGorder gave the following account of the alleged scam in the Birmingham case.

After being introduced by Marianne Rubnowski to his in-laws in Birmingham, Paul told them he had fourteen $1-million U.S. Treasury bonds that he would sell to them for $10,000 apiece.

"In order to explain this," said VanGorder, "he claimed he had been a Securities and Exchange Commission broker who'd been charged, convicted and sentenced for an SEC violation. He told them that a provision of his sentencing was that he divest himself of all of his investments."

THE BIRMINGHAM relatives gave the pair a $4,000 downpayment for one of the bogus treasury bonds April 10, VanGorder said.

The victims called police when the Rubnowskis sent them each an $85,000 check supposedly representing six months of interest on the $1 million bond. The checks bounced.

VanGorder said the victims learned the couple had just $15 in the National Bank of Detroit account on which the checks were written.

"The victims called us, we followed up and investigated and the warrants were issued," VanGorder said.

In Warren, Det. Clark said the pair "approached friends of the family, one of them Marianne had known since birth and her mother had known for 50 years. These were people they socialized with."

RUBNOWSKI, also known as Montgomery, allegedly told the victims that he had a corporation registered with the state of Michigan as Rub-One. "And he talked them into buying 30,000 shares of stock for $10,000.

It turned out to be a bogus company and bogus stock. There was no company registered under any of their names, added Clark.

Clark said Warren is continuing to investigate the two in connection with other possible, similar incidents in that community.

Birmingham police said the two have waived extradition from Nevada and face arraignments in both cases on their return to Michigan.

All of the charges against the two are felonies.

"St. Joe's lets me give a little back."
Bob Lyons

Bob Lyons has long been a dedicated supporter of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

The support of business leaders like Bob Lyons has played an important role in the history of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. As volunteers, their talents, energy, and enthusiasm have helped shape today's Catherine McAuley Health Center.

"I like to remind people in the community that Catherine McAuley Health Center offers a wide spectrum of health care services. The Health Center works with businesses and the community at large to identify and meet health care needs.

"I especially like the Health Center's sensitivity to the community with projects like the neighborhood health clinic in Ypsilanti," adds Lyons, who serves on the clinic's Community Advisory Committee.

"I'm inspired by the spirit created by these giving people. As a volunteer, I am glad to have a chance to give a little back."

Since 1911, when the Sisters of Mercy were invited to this community, Catherine McAuley Health Center has evolved into a comprehensive health care center touching the lives of tens of thousands of families each year. Stepping down

Dumas says the 'legislative challenge' is gone

By Teri Banas
staff writer

County commissioner Mary Dumas said the decision she finally reached last week to end a 26-year political career was one of the most "painful" of her life.

But, she said, it was necessary for her.

"I felt I needed a change of scene, pace and what I was doing," said Dumas, a county commissioner representing the 10th District of Livonia, Plymouth and Northville for nearly 14 years.

Dumas, 63, surprised constituents and political observers alike Friday when she withdrew from the commission race three days after filing an intent to seek a ninth term.

She said political "burnout" prompted her decision to withdraw.

THE SOLE Republican on the 15-member county commission, Dumas said she realized recently that the reorganization and reform in county government that she tried to accomplish ironically led to her decision to step down.

Voters, four years ago, approved a new county charter calling for a strong county executive form of government. Dumas said the changes led to a diminishing role for county commissioners and less opportunity to effect programs that help people.

She said there was constant, frustrating battles with the county executive's office.

"In spite of the fact that we (the commission) worked so hard for reform, the commission did not end up with the same legislative functions as a city council or the state Legislature — to plan and create programs."

"And with the declining economy, there were no dollars to provide the kind of services we wanted to provide to constituents."

DUMAS SAID that during many of her years on the commission, she was immersed in programs she thought were helping people and government.

"For the first 11 years I was very involved with the Detroit-Wayne County Criminal Justice Coordinating Council, which was dissolved three years ago.

"We brought very important programs to the prosecutor's office and sheriff's department like the mounted patrols in the park, the one-day, one-trial program in the courts and the victim assistance programs of the 1970s in the prosecutor's office.

"These were programs written up by commissioners and other committee people."

Dumas said she was active in initiating a county rape-crisis hotline in the 1970s and a Jackson Prison program called JOLT.

"Now, all the program planning originates in the county executive's office but I guess that's to be expected."

IN THE END, Dumas said, "I think we gave away more legislative prerogative than we intended to."

Dumas concluded that the lesser role played by the county commission was one of the factors that led to her decision to retire. "I guess it has not been the legislative challenge that it had been previously," she said.

Dumas also had the threat before her of a primary battle to retain her job. Northville Township Supervisor Susan Heintz and Livonia City Treasurer Elaine Tuttle had already announced plans to campaign for the Republican nomination.

Heintz has strong Republican ties while Tuttle is well-known in Livonia, which constitutes 70 percent of the 10th commission district.

Now that she has bowed out, Dumas won't have to campaign. And she won't miss it.

COMMISSIONERS face re-election every two years.

"For the past two elections it was like eight months of steady campaigning. No one realizes the time and energy. That drains you."

Dumas said she decided last week that she would seek re-election after being urged to do so by fellow commissioner Kay Beard, D-Inkster, and friends, including some senior citizen and Rotary Club leaders.

She said she and Beard worked closely together on projects including the Wayne County General Hospital, indigent care and victim assistance programs, and outside interests such as the United Community Services Fund.

They even "roomed together" at out-of-town conferences.

When she finally withdraw — at 11:50 a.m. Friday — Dumas described it as "a systematic shock — like having your arm cut off. It was a very wrenching experience although I did sleep for the first time in three nights."

"I feel I needed more time for myself and family. You find you spend your time at functions on Sundays, birthdays and even holidays."

DUMAS STARTED her political career as a Republican precinct delegate and was active in George Romney's campaigns for governor in the early 1960s.

She was elected a Schoolcraft College trustee and served on the college board in 1971 and 1973. She was elected to the first of eight terms as county commissioner in 1973.

Her original plan, she said, was to County Commissioner Mary Dumas said her decision to bow out was the most painful of her political career.

run for the state Legislature but she decided to postpone that until her daughter, Julie, now serving as her part-time commission aide, was out of high school.

Today, she said, she plans to "do other things." She is seeking a teaching post, possibly at the community college level, or may return to one of her first passions, writing. At one time she wrote radio copy.

Dumas also is planning to undertake a write-in campaign for GOP precinct delegate from her neighborhood. No one had filed for that position by the deadline last month.

Blanchard signs law on 'chop shops'

Gov. James J. Blanchard has signed into law a bill requiring that vehicle parts dealers make available to police their purchase records of used parts. The bill was sponsored by state Sen. Doug Cruce, R-Troy.

The law is intended to control operation of "chop shops" where stolen vehicles are dismantled and their parts sold to repair shops and used parts stores.

Blanchard also signed into law a bill prohibiting teaching, demonstration and construction of a firearm, explosive or incendiary device for use in a civil disorder. The sponsor, Rep. David Honigman, R-

West Bloomfield, said it should deter groups from setting up paramilitary camps in Michigan.

The governor recently signed a bill designed to offer an improved, more competitive horse racing industry.

The law reduces the state tax from 6.6 to 4.5 percent on each dollar wagered to increase money for purses, promotion and track improvements.

The law requires intensified alcohol and drug testing of racing participants and officials, providing safeguards against race tampering.

Bill would curb police chases

By Tim Richard
staff writer

State Sen. Rudy Nichols thinks there may be a way out of the dilemma caused by high-speed police pursuits.

"Police officers have a Catch-22 situation," he said. "When an officer is in a high-speed chase, society says, 'Catch this person — but if you cause any harm you can be prosecuted.'"

Two bills passed last week by the Senate provide tougher penalties both for reckless police pursuers and for drivers who try to elude them.

But they also require prosecutors to produce a higher standard of proof that the officer was reckless.

The 35-3 vote was along racial lines, with the Senate's three black members opposed.

In the last year, seven people have been killed and others injured in Detroit, Birmingham and Southfield during police chases, leading officials to wonder if high-speed chases aren't more dangerous than they're worth.

THE TWIN bills — by Nichols, R-Waterford, and Richard Fessler, R-West Bloomfield — provide:

- It would be a felony, not a misdemeanor, for a uniformed officer in an identified police vehicle during a chase to cause a death by driving "in willful or wanton disregard for the safety of persons or property." Top penalties: five years in prison or $5,000 fine.
- A driver who attempts to elude police either by speeding or turning out lights can be jailed up to two years and charged the costs of prosecution. Previous top sentence was one year.
- It would be a felony, not a misdemeanor, to assault or injure a police officer.
- A driver who repeats the offense within 10 years faces up to three years in prison and a fine of $10,000 plus prosecution costs.
- A fleeing driver who causes

'Police officers have a Catch-22 situation. When an officer is in a high-speed chase, society says, 'Catch this person — but if you cause any harm you can be prosecuted.'

after studying 424 pursuits by 75 agencies that:

"No pursuit speed . . . is particularly safe.

"Pursuits with high speeds, long distances and intoxicated drivers occur primarily at night . . .

"A fleeing driver is usually not a dangerous felon . . .

"The ratio of property damage accidents to pursuits is one per approximately five pursuits.

"Injuries, one per approximately seven pursuits.

"Deaths, one per approximately 35 pursuits."

WHILE POLICE usually had had some pursuit training, "the effects of training or policy on the pursuits were not detected," Beckman concluded.

Beckman's report, made last October, recommended written pursuit policies and training with restrictions placed on pursuits and "special attention to possible use of ramming and roadblocks."

Roadblocks and ramming had been considered hazardous, but Beckman's study said they "increase capture rates while reducing overall injury rates."

bodily injury can be convicted of a felony, faces a mandatory year in prison, can be sentenced for up to three years, can be fined $10,000 and costs, and lose his driver's license for 1-3 years. For a second offense within 10 years, the loss of license can be permanent.

• The State Police director is required to report in two years with recommendations on new techniques to alert drivers to emergency vehicles.

The bill now goes to the House.

Michigan Bell employee Rick Zakalowski of Garden City is dwarfed by the size of the huge rope that will be used in the upcoming Freedom Festival rope-pull contest. Zakalowski was photographed at the parks' Nankin Mills Center in Westland.

Giant rope pull will span Detroit River

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Wayne County's assistant parks director Vic Chiasson has been, well, all tied up lately in his newest, mad-cap scheme to drum up off-beat entertainment.

This time, the man who brought western Wayne County the Easter-time "marshmallow drop" is pulling together a project of mammoth proportions for the upcoming Detroit-Windsor Freedom Festival.

And all that's required is 2,000 pounds of rope, 80 well-conditioned men, a couple of tugboats, assistance from the county sheriff's Marine Patrol and clearance from Canadian Customs.

"I wanted to do this for 10 years," said Chiasson of the giant rope-pull he has planned for across the Detroit River. "And it fit right in with the theme of the Freedom Festival."

ONE DAY this week, Chiasson and other festival planners had the rope they plan to use strung out on the grounds of the county parks department at Nankin Mills in Westland. Rolling up 6,000 feet of rope onto giant spools borrowed from Michigan Bell, the men were preparing to take it over to a practice session Friday night.

The two competing teams will be made up of Detroit and Windsor police officers and members of a local Windsor Italian club.

On the day of the event, scheduled between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. July 2, two 3,000-foot long pieces of rope will be joined together at a boat offshore from Hart Plaza. A Canadian flag and an American flag will be positioned on each piece of rope.

The object of the competition, described by Chiasson as a rope-pull rather than tug-of-war, will be to pull in the nation's flag. The first team to reach its flag is proclaimed the winner.

Planning for the event has taken some five months and has involved dealings with numerous agencies.

"IT'S BEEN an interesting education," Chiasson said. "We even had to contact the customs bureau because we're taking rope made in the United States across to Canada."

Chiasson said the event itself is not scheduled to run more than about five minutes. Crews will be stationed down the river to communicate via radio whether a commercial ship is approaching. The river will be closed to small boats during that hour.

Recognition

Academic letters stress the value of scholarship

WHEN THE honor students at Clarenceville High School graduate next year, they will walk across the stage with an academic badge that will be an overdue but well-deserved first-of-its-kind.

Each honor student will be awarded a letter to banner their academic achievement. For years in this country it has been tradition to laud athletic feats with letters emblazoned on sweaters and jackets.

Unfortunately, the glory was left for the bodies, rather than the brains. And that's a shame.

The Observer & Eccentric applauds the Clarenceville initiative. And we urge that other school districts adopt the same program.

Clarenceville Superintendent Michael Shibley said it best:

"It's just as important to recognize academics as well as athletics. We want students to feel proud (about their grades)."

And so does the Observer & Eccentric.

ALTHOUGH ATHLETIC prowess is to be admired and encouraged, intellectual achievement will be the cornerstone of American strength in this coming century.

It needs to be nurtured. Recognition is a significant key to that nurturing process. We must stop ridiculing children who academically excel. The stereotypes serve only to harm us and the future of our children.

"The power and salvation of a people lie in its intelligentsia, in the intellectuals who think honestly, who feel, and can work," said playwright Anton Chekov.

For two years now the Observer & Eccentric has worked with high school principals in selecting those students who are tops in their class. The commitment to this initiative was taken after years of observation by our reporters and editors that academics were being neglected.

With the dawn of television, role models shifted away from the Chaucers and Melvilles to the Gretzkys, Gibsons and Paytons. We need to reassess our priorities.

As adults we should take the initiative to develop programs that will foster lasting societal benefits. Age will prevent our children from being stars on the playing field. But they will need their minds for a lifetime.

Let's give those minds a running start. Let's give them a letter.

Monkees' comeback stirs fond memories

Hey, hey, it's the Monkees — they're back again.

Who could have guessed it? Those madcap, mod, mid-'60s, manufactured mop-tops — TV network execs' answer to the Beatles — are again the rage.

Until recently, their long out-of-production albums could be found only in dusty basements or used record stores, the cardboard jackets taped and frayed and scratches crackling through songs like "Last Train to Clarksville," "Your Auntie Grezelda," and "Daydream Believer."

But shiny-new plastic-wrapped copies of "More of the Monkees," "Head," and other Monkees albums are back in the stores — and selling. So hand me those Beatle boots and gas up the fast-back Mustang — and where's my wide belt and purple pants?

Recently, MTV presented a "Pleasant Valley Sunday Weekend." The station pre-empted its usual video hit-parade with almost two days' worth of the old NBC-TV show "The Monkees." Picking up on the trend, local stations are also airing reruns of the show, loosely based on the style of the 1964 Beatles movie "A Hard Days Night."

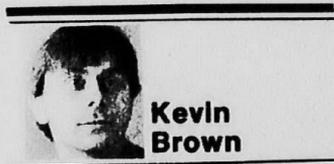

And this summer, the Monkees are touring again. Hey, hey — this ain't 1966 — what's going on around here anyway?

DIANE WALL, assistant manager of Harmony House in Troy, says the store sells 25-30 Monkees albums and tapes per week, mostly to high school kids. "We can't keep their singles in stock," she adds.

"Because it's 20 years since 'The Monkees' first aired, one wonders why the group is popular again. 'You know, I have no idea,' says Wall. 'The kids that are buying it are too young to remember them. The radio stations I don't think are playing them that much, but MTV reruns all the old Monkees shows.'"

Wall, 26, remembers the show: "It was kind of stupid, but I used to watch it."

One might link the Monkees revival to the general resurgence of '60s music and fashion in this decade. "Paisley Park" was the title of a recent Prince album. And popular new groups like the Bangles lean heavily on the sound of the Byrds, another '60s group. "All that psychedelic stuff is coming back, like little granny glasses and paisley clothes," Wall said. Stores are also restocking hoop earrings, ankle boots, stirrup pants, and other groovy '60s fashion items.

JIM HARPER, WDTX-FM station manager and Bloomfield Hills resident, says that shortly after MTV began airing old Monkees shows "the kids started calling. We checked it out, and the response seemed to be more and more. The funny thing is they really didn't know any of the songs by name." WDTX currently rotates "The Monkees' Theme," "I'm a Believer," "Last Train to Clarksville," "Pleasant Valley Sunday" and "Daydream Believer."

When tickets went on sale for a WDTX-sponsored Monkees concert scheduled for this summer, kids camped out in line as they would for a big act like Van Halen, Harper recalled.

Harper paused thoughtfully when asked to offer his opinion of the Monkees. "I can honestly say — and I'm the biggest Beatle fan around — for a while, I liked the Monkees more."

So why are the Monkees big again? Harper says the wacky comedy of the group's '60s TV show fits in with MTV's campy humor. Musically, "I think the carefree style, the acoustic, short song-length style is really appealing," Harper said.

I'll, uh, second that emotion.

Property tax: '87 issue

THERE ARE two kinds of hot issues — those which are discussed during a campaign, and those which are acted on once the campaign is over.

In the latter category, I give you property taxes. They are high — $4 billion in Michigan. They are something like 133 percent of the national average.

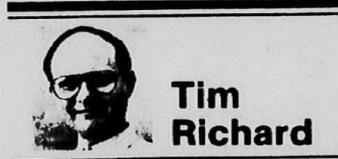

Democratic Gov. James Blanchard and state Senate Republicans are touting rival plans.

BLANCHARD'S PLAN, passed by the Democratic-controlled House, would increase income tax rebates for folks who pay high property taxes (more than 3.5 percent of household income). He would lower the income threshold to make more households eligible.

There's a hooker. Blanchard wants to "close loopholes" — his phrase.

In chamber of commerce language, however, it's spelled "business tax increases." There would be a 2 percent tax on insurance premiums and a doubling of the tax on deposits in banks and savings-and-loans.

The proposals are surprising from Blanchard, who previously lifted almost all of his "comeback" ideas from his Republican predecessor, Bill Milliken.

Tim Richard

SENATE REPUBLICAN Leader John Engler of Mount Pleasant is masterminding his group's strategy.

To begin, there are big cuts in school-operating taxes for senior citizens with homes assessed below $65,000. Clearly, Engler has been listening to the table talk of retirees.

That would cost $138 million. On top of that, 30,000 to 40,000 small businesses would get a $40 million property tax cut. The whole package would have been financed out of the current state surplus.

A second step will be to cut property taxes by half if voters approve an increase in the 4 percent state sales tax to at least 5 percent.

Note well: There would be no tax increase on insurance premiums and bank deposits.

Moreover, Engler is wa-a-a-ay ahead of the governor in figuring out that municipal officials are tired of being "greenmailed" by large companies into giving them 12-year, 50-percent property tax abatements.

The Senate GOP plan won't be firmed up for some months, but give Engler's troops a medal at least for starting to think and talk about it.

DIFFERENT ECONOMIC philosophies are at work here.

Blanchard won't buy the sales tax increase, which hits consumers. Engler will counter that 10 percent of consumption taxes are paid by non-residents touring here. Lots of tourist spots finance themselves by taxing tourists.

Engler's troops won't buy business taxes — not with Michigan's business climate being so shaky and its recovery so incomplete. It's classical supply-side economics in the pure form.

Engler's troops recently came up with a new retiree plan that even some Senate Democrats supported — whacking Michigan inheritance taxes from $60 million a year down to $10 million. The idea is to make Michigan financially competitive with Florida, where temperatures last week were in the muggy 90s.

This debate, I say, won't unfold until after the election. You read it here first.

Why have $100 candidates?

IT HAS OFTEN been noted that there is something exemplary about this being a land where anyone can aspire to be president. By extension there should be something uplifting about the thought that anyone can run for governor, or mayor, or commissioner.

For myself, I've had enough of this being a place where anyone can run for any office he or she decides to covet.

The latest case in point is that of Henry Wilson, the self-avowed follower of Lyndon LaRouche whose name will be on the August primary ballot as a Democratic candidate opposing incumbent Gov. James Blanchard.

There may be more angels who can dance on the head of a pin than will vote for Wilson in the August primary.

NEVERTHELESS, Wilson will be on the ballot appearing to be a legitimate challenger.

How did he get there? He managed to obtain the required number of signatures on nominating petitions. In his case the minimum number was 19,963 and he turned in an estimated 40,000.

We subsequently learn that Wilson is a scofflaw who has had his driver's license lifted 19 times, mostly for non-payment of traffic tickets, and has been convicted twice of carrying a concealed weapon.

Wilson told reporters he is an auto worker not now working but living on

Bob Wisler

$200 a week disability insurance.

Although we sometimes might have higher expectations of gubernatorial candidates than the candidates do themselves, this kind of record is ludicrous.

THE BIG problem is that this is a state where anyone, anyone, can run for office. In many cases, the candidates don't even need signatures. All they have to do is come up with a $100 filing fee. As it is now, fee-payers can file for the offices of state senator, state representative, county executive, county clerk, county treasurer and county commissioner.

Candidates for the supreme court, lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general have to be nominated by political party gatherings.

Candidates for governor and U.S. Representative need signatures, but not enough. To run against U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, for example, a Republican candidate needs only 531 signatures.

In many of the races where $100 buys in, we have several legitimate candidates and several flakes who have no ability to run a meaningful campaign and no public appeal and who only clutter up the ballot.

As a means of limiting candidates to only those who are serious and who seriously have some kind of chance, the government ought to require that each candidate get a meaningful number of signatures on nominating petitions.

WHY NOT? Candidates for judge have to come up with 5,000 signatures to get on a county-wide ballot. They don't have the option of paying a fee.

It certainly is more convenient to pay a fee than go about securing signatures explaining why a person should be on the ballot. But anyone serious about being a responsible officeholder shouldn't object to having to explain to voters why he or she should be on the ballot.

It would give the candidate practice in explaining why he or she should be elected.

Of course, this won't absolutely stop people like Henry Wilson from becoming a candidate, but it would make it tougher.

Hunt club show attracts cream of the crop

THE FIRST and last time I ever was on any representative of the horse family came a few years after the end of World War I.

This short-lived experience in the saddle was occasioned by an itinerant photographer when he led a black and white Shetland pony through our small town neighborhood, seeking gullible mothers who would pay for such a picture of their little monsters.

How much he collected from my own mother I know not. As album pictures go, I much prefer one taken about 40 years later in which I am seen talking nose to nose with the great Citation over a fence at Calumet Farm.

IN SHARP contrast to an equestrian career that ended with the click of a camera, the parental decision in Carla Potters' case was to plunk down for the whole horse, not just a snapshot.

Seven years ago, at the age of 8, Carla learned to ride at a summer farm school. In many ways, she typifies hundreds and hundreds of youngsters in southeastern Michigan.

Carla this week completed her sophomore year in high school and an immediate vacation highlight awaits her when she goes with her folks to the Motor City and Detroit Horse shows at the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club, even though it will be as a spectator and not as a contestant.

She has thrilled to the Olympic-level jumpers and nationally ranked hunters several times previously at the hunt club, declaring, "That's where I'd eventually like to compete. I've dreamed many times of being on the United States Equestrian Team, but that involves getting the right horse, too."

IT'S A DREAM no doubt shared by all the youngsters who care for their mounts at the dozens of riding academies and board farms in the area. For one brief period each June these kids and their elders get to see the best of horses and riders at the Bloomfield Hills events, evidence that for some, dreams do come true.

The current Potter steed, My Buddy, is a 17-year-old dappled bay gelding, standing a fraction over 16 hands. Carla is being trained in dressage, cross country and show jumping, riding an average of five days a week in a schedule crowded with numerous other interests as befits a teen-ager. For that purpose, My Buddy is adequate. For high grade competition, no.

through bifocals

Good horses aren't cheap. In fact, Harry Nederlander, honorary chairman of the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club shows, was quoted three years ago as saying, "People are paying $600,000 and $700,000 for a good Grand Prix horse. It wasn't very long ago that if you paid $50,000, everyone across the country knew about it."

But sometimes, somehow they do come along and the crop of brilliant saddlesmiths developed in Michigan has matched the horseflesh. A few who come quickly to mind, spawned in large part at the Bloomfield Open Hunt, include Katie Monahan, Scott Nederlander, Cindy Carlson, Paula Inman, Polly Howard, Darcy Shelley, Julie Bacon and the Cross pair, Amy and Andrew, just in recent years.

ACTION AT the hunt club in the numerous classifications is almost continuous in three rings each day from early morning until late afternoon. On Friday and Saturday nights this week and next, the open jumpers become the stars. Therein lies the major box office appeal.

The headliner this Saturday will be the $20,000 Chrysler Motor City Grand Prix and on Saturday, June 21, it will be the $35,000 Mercedes North American Grand Prix.

As one who has become a real fan of these daring but highly skilled riders in the last dozen years, let me tell you a tale which demonstrates what quality you will be seeing if you get to the Blommfield Open Hunt.

By the way, it's at East Long Lake and Kensington roads.

It was the night of the 1983 renewal of the North American, which that year carried a purse of $25,000. Thirty-six of the best jumpers on this continent were entered. Only six completed the testing course without a fault, thus qualifying for a jump off against the clock.

Ian Millar of the Canadian Olympic team, aboard Foresight, negotiated the tightened series of fences in 47.606 seconds to take the victory from Joe Fargis who hails from Petersburg, Va., and who was in the saddle on Touch of Class, the only mare in the field. The Fargis/Touch of Class duo were clocked in 47.835 seconds.

Now switch to the Olympic Games of 1984 at Los Angeles. Spearheading an American equestrian team which made its most successful showing ever was this same Joe Fargis and the same mare, Touch of Class.

Taking the gold medal in show jumping, Fargis cleared 90 of 91 fences perfectly in both the individual and team jumping competitions. Millar? Yes, he was there, too, and placed 14th.

That's Bloomfield Open Hunt quality. If you find something better, buy it.

Use censorship rights with great caution

IT'S A SURE sign that a community is declining when adult bookstores, peepshows and wet T-shirt bars begin to litter the business district. It's a sign that people have lost pride in themselves and where they live.

It is understandable that people want to prevent this from happening. They want to protect their children and themselves from being assaulted by a demeaning view of human beings and sexuality.

Recent efforts by groups concerned about the proliferation of sexually explicit material have resulted in a decision by 7-Eleven and other retailers to pull Playboy, Penthouse and other such publications. Other efforts by groups in Canton and Garden City have had similar success in getting magazines either removed or placed in covered and out-of-the-way places in local stores.

Naturally, the publishers of Playboy and Penthouse are calling foul and citing the protections of the First Amendment. It's a tricky subject, any kind of censorship presents dangers to our liberty and to our understanding of the world. While we may be protecting ourselves from unpleasant points of view, we may also be denying ourselves and others different insights into the world and encouraging government or minority control of ideas.

LET'S TAKE these issues one at a time. The Southland Corp., which operates the 7-Eleven stores, has no obligation to carry Playboy and similar magazines. It has made a good decision to not carry these magazines. The 7-Elevens are convenience stores for late night, last minute, easy in-easy out buying. Many of their customers are teenagers and older children who come in to buy a pop and snack. It is offensive and a disservice to have sexually explicit material on display in a store of that sort.

In bookstores that offer a variety of publications, sexually explicit magazines should be placed in a covered area away from other publications but they should be available.

Now we get to the tricky part. Government should not be in the business of censoring or forcing censorship. A recent government report on pornography has been given the full publicity treatment by the Reagan administration, despite the fact that several of the experts who provided the research for the report have disclaimed the conclusions of the report. It smacks of political posturing and tampered research.

Not all sexual material is the same. Playboy prides itself on being literate, polished, witty, sophisticated. Well, it is all those things sometimes wrapped around an adolescent sexual fantasy of goofy sex jokes and pictures of nude women in a variety of outlandish poses. It is tame compared to its competitors and does not link sex with violence though some may rightly object that it reduces women to mere objects. Playboy also handles material that is erotic and sexually titillating but not exploitative or brutal.

But there are a number of magazines on the stands that are not as responsive to criticism as Playboy has been. They are exploitative, they do link sex and violence, they not only make women objects but willing victims and they do present a vicious, demeaning and, for the susceptible, a dangerous view of human sexuality. The effects of such literature or the effects of non-sexual violence in some magazines and movies have not been researched as thoroughly as they should be.

CLEARLY THIS material must be kept from children. And society has a right to stop distribution of material that has been produced by the illegal exploitation of others. Explicit sexual material featuring children, for instance, has no Constitutional protection as it violates the rights of those used as models.

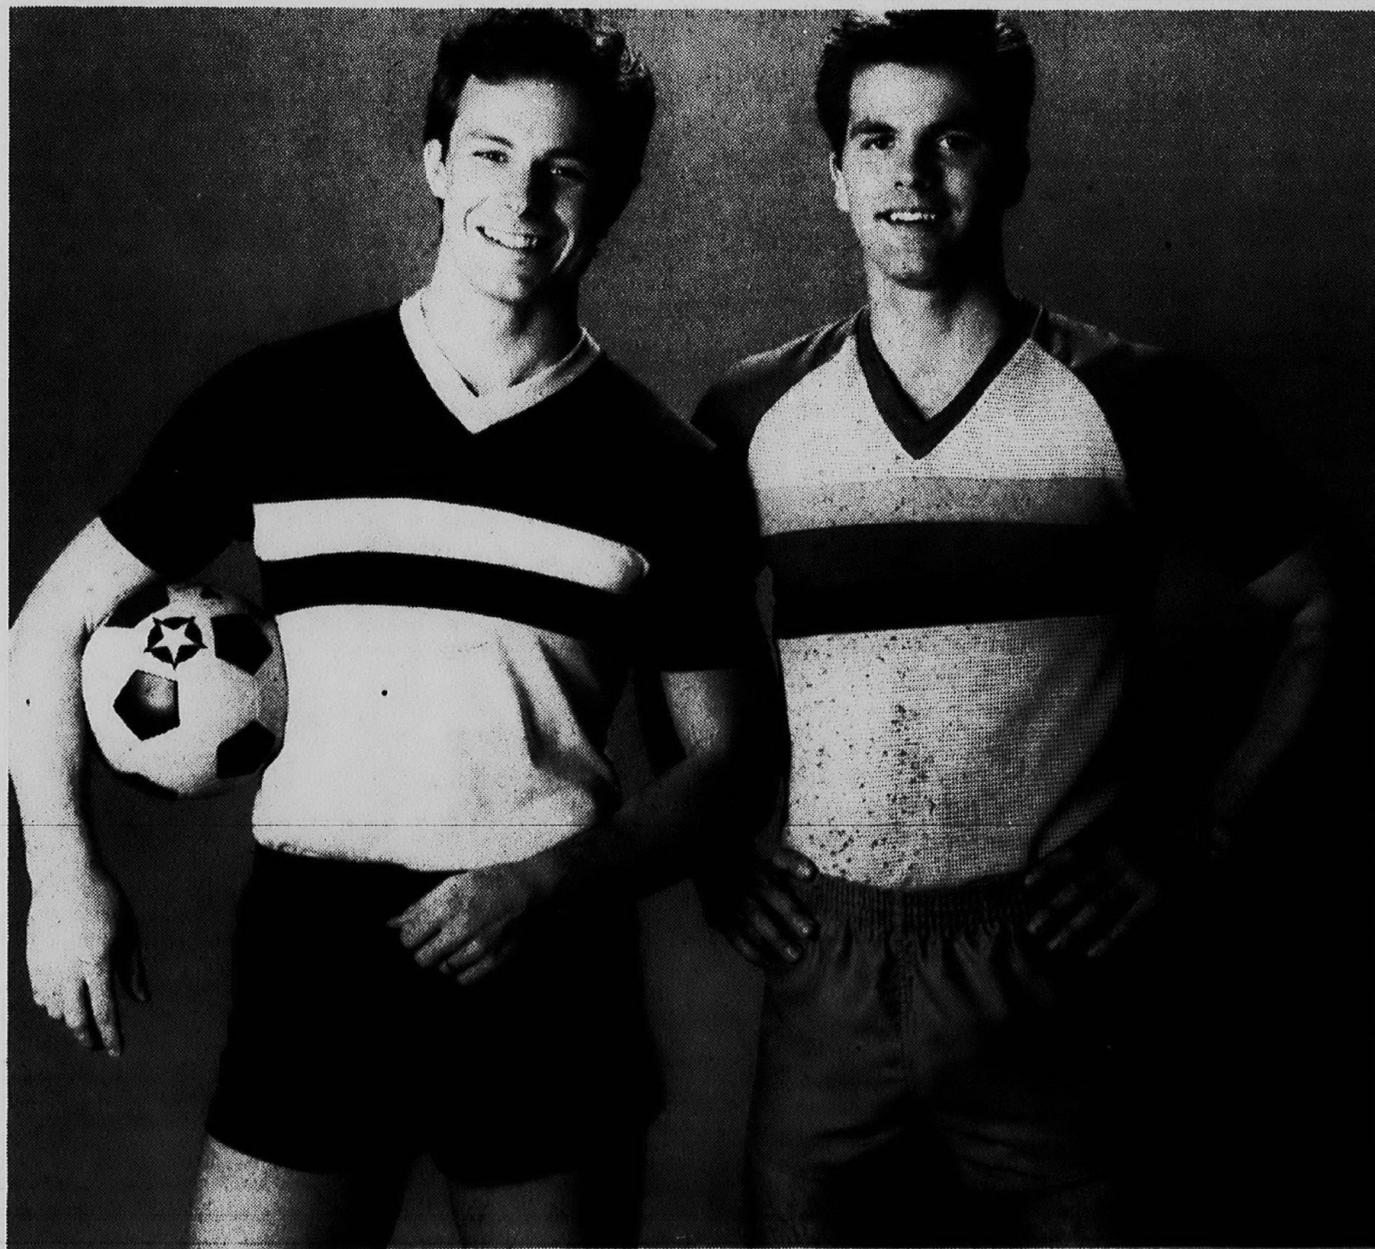

But, and here we get into the tangle, how do we weigh what is and is not dangerous pornography? We know that in the past such books as "Huckleberry Finn," "Ulysses," "Lady Chatterly's Lover" and "Tropic of Capricorn" have been banned. Some of these books might offend delicate sensitivities but each offers rich insights into human nature, sexual and otherwise. Even the Bible makes frequent note of human sexuality and not always to condemn. There are also numerous sex manuals such as "The Joy of Sex" that are sexually explicit and sometimes advocate a more liberal view of sexuality but are positive, non-exploitative and humanistic in approach.

Society has a right to demand that sexually explicit and violent material be kept out of public view. Society through local government has a right to tell retailers not to promote such material in the open. Society has a right through government action to protect children and women from being exploited as models for sexual material and to close down such publications.

Private groups have a right to protest the sale of such material. Retailers have an obligation as business owners in a community to carry material that is appropriate to the customers they have and to exclude material that is destructive.

But we, as citizens of a free country, have to tread lightly and protect our right to read, see and discuss all subjects, including that most perplexing, interesting, confusing and involving subject, human sexual relationships.

Dedication

Ceremony honors hard work

By Julie Brown
staff writer

THE DEDICATION ceremony held Saturday afternoon in Plymouth Township Park was by no means a solemn occasion.

At one point during the ceremony, sculptor Peter Rockwell received a rather colorful tie to replace the equally colorful one he was wearing. The sculptor graciously removed his tie and put on the new one, as the watching crowd applauded.

The ceremony was held Saturday afternoon to dedicate the play sculpture created by Rockwell and his assistant, Gilham Erickson, in Plymouth Township Park.

Rockwell, who arrived in Plymouth in mid-March, thanked all of those who have made the play sculpture project possible.

"I have enjoyed myself immensely. I really have had a wonderful time," he said. "The whole community has been wonderful to me."

Work on the play sculpture ended a few days before the Saturday dedication ceremony. The sculpture has a gargyle theme and is designed to be climbed on and played on.

THE SCULPTURE in Plymouth Township Park includes a fountain. It also has a board where park visitors can play chess or checkers. The $60,000 project has been financed through donations and pledges from area businesses, organizations and individuals.

During Saturday's ceremony, three benefactors — the Ford Motor Co., the R.A. DeMattia Co. and the Plymouth Community Arts Council — received presentations honoring their contributions to the project. James Anulewicz, Plymouth Township's planning and building director, made the presentations.

Three students also spoke during the ceremony. The three — Geoff

Ward, a Hulsing Elementary School first grader, Steve Laurette, a West Middle School ninth grader, and Gale Tang, a Plymouth Canton High School senior — spoke of their experiences with the sculpture project.

Others who spoke during the ceremony were Maurice Breen, Plymouth Township supervisor; Joanne Hulce, chairwoman of the project; Janet Campbell, project co-chairwoman; Lynne Lonigro, an art teacher with the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools; and David Campbell, community representative.

Judge James Garber of the 35th District Court was the master of ceremonies. Musical entertainment was provided by the Centennial Educational Park Singers and by Andrew Dahlke, saxophonist.

ROCKWELL, ERICKSON and the benefactors weren't the only ones getting thanks during the Saturday ceremony. Hulce, the chairwoman, said that support for the project throughout the Plymouth-Canton community, combined with lots of hard work, made it all possible.

"You are the ones that provided the opportunity for Peter Rockwell to be our sculptor in residence for three months."

Sculptor Peter Rockwell is all smiles as he admires his new tie.

Daniel Pilon, 4, enjoys the fountain at Plymouth Township Park.

Michelle Efros gives the play sculpture a thorough examination.

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen gives Joanne Hulce a helping hand with the microphone.

Crafts event draws the crowds

Although the crowds weren't quite as large as they are at Christmas, the turnout at the Summer Arts and Crafts Show this past weekend was pretty good.

"It went real well for a first-time show," said Tom Willette, show director. "We were happy with it for a first-time show."

"The crowds at Christmas tend to be larger, he said, with a number of local residents searching for gift items.

The Summer Arts and Crafts Show, held Friday through Sunday at the Plymouth Cultural Center, was offered by the city of Plymouth's Parks and Recreation Department. It was the first such show held during the summer months.

More than 50 crafters displayed their work in the ice rink area at the Plymouth Cultural Center during the three-day event.

THE CRAFTERS were pleased with the success of the show, said Willette, who is Plymouth's assistant recreation director.

"All of them did fairly well. We even had some compliments from the public on the roominess out there."

The crowds at the Summer Arts and Crafts Show were larger on Saturday and Sunday, Willette said, although Friday also was a good day for the show.

The success of the summer event means that another such show will most likely be held next year.

"We plan on running another one next year," Willette said.

"To make the right decision, you have to know about Harper."

For yourself or for someone you love, take the time now to learn what's going on at Harper Hospital and the Comprehensive Cancer Center.

This is where major cancer research is headquartered and where cancer treatment and clinical knowledge are concentrated. The federal government organized the Comprehensive Cancer Center Program to funnel research funds into a few strong centers like this with advanced research and treatment capabilities. Many of the other centers, such as Memorial Sloan-Kettering in New York and the M. D. Anderson Tumor Institute in Houston, refer midwest patients to Harper for treatment. The idea is to keep cancer patients close to the leading edge of medical science and discovery, up front where breakthroughs in research are translated quickly into treatment. Breakthroughs like the cancer-fighting superconducting cyclotron, which Harper helped develop. This amazing machine, the first of its kind anywhere in the world, will bombard cancer tumors that are resistant to conventional radiation therapy. And Harper patients will be there. At the beginning.

There is new hope every day. So ask your physician or general hospital about a consultation at Harper Hospital. Every cancer patient deserves this opportunity.

weddings and engagements

Sykes-McNamara

Bridget Diane McNamara of Carrboro, N.C., and Jonathan Peter Sykes of Chapel Hill, N.C., were married April 12 at the Mercy Center Chapel in Farmington Hills. The Rev. Timothy Hogan performed the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Eugene and Justina McNamara of Plymouth and Dr. W. Stuart and Elizabeth Sykes of Madison, Wis.

The bride is an occupational therapy graduate of Eastern Michigan University. She is employed as an occupational therapist in North Carolina.

The bridegroom, a physician, is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin School of Medicine. He is employed at the North Carolina Memorial Hospital.

Nancy Kafila was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Michelle Owen, Kim Young and Martha Kehoe. Joelen Kersten was the flower girl.

Joel Fait was the best man. The groomsmen were Barry McNamara, Keith Anderson and Scott Plummer. Kirk Hofer was the ring bearer.

For her wedding, the bride wore a gown of white lace over a pastel-colored tea length dress.

A reception was held at the Sheraton Oaks in Novi. A fall honeymoon is planned.

Winners

Area photographers honored

Winners have been named in the photo contest held in conjunction with the Peter Rockwell sculpture project. The photo contest was co-sponsored by The Community Crier and the Plymouth and Canton Observer.

Winners were named during the Saturday afternoon dedication ceremony for the sculpture. The ceremony was held in Plymouth Township Park.

Lynn Gregg of Canton was the first-place winner. Gregg won a piece of original artwork by Rockwell.

The second-place winner, Jerry Carson of Canton, received $50 from the Observer.

The third-place winner, Betty Nanney of Plymouth, received dinner for four at Riffle's in Northville from The Community Crier.

Steve Fournier of Canton received an honorable mention.

Contest judges were Chris Boyd of The Community Crier and Bill Bresler of the Observer. The contest

theme was "They Shoot Monsters, Don't They?"

More than 100 photos were entered in the contest, Bresler said.

"It was difficult to reject a lot of good pictures that we saw. But in the end, the winners were very clear."

Ground broken for addition

Ground was broken for an addition to New Morning School in Plymouth Township on June 4.

For the groundbreaking, each student was asked to bring a shovel of any size to help out with the activity. Sand shovels were considered OK.

The 2,500-square-foot addition will double the size of the facility. It will include two additional classrooms and a multipurpose area. There will also be major renovations to the current facility.

During the summer months, New Morning parents will work on painting and helping with the renovations and finishing touches.

First of America Bank-Plymouth will finance the project. Bob Butler, vice president-loans, has helped work out the details with the parent cooperative.

"Their support for this community project is to be commended," said

Bill Baughman, New Morning board president.

New Morning School is a state-certified school for students in preschool through the eighth grade. It is at 14501 Haggerty Road, just north of Schoolcraft Road in Plymouth Township.

For additional information about the programs at New Morning School, call 420-3331. Brochures will be mailed upon request.

Life trials inspire musician's songwriting

By Shirlee Rose Iden
staff writer

Long ago, it seemed as though everything beloved was taken from her.

Patty Lombardini's mother died giving her life. Devastated, the young father was unable to cope. The infant girl was adopted by a Polish family living near Hamtramck.

"I'm Irish," said Lombardini, "but I really learned a lot growing up in that really ethnic home. I gained 10 siblings, most older than I and already out of the house."

The little girl attended schools in what is now called Poletown and was graduated from St. Stanislaus just outside of Hamtramck.

She learned Polish and in high school was in plays and musicals. She had the lead in the school play for two years.

IN THAT ETHNIC home, her musical talent came forward. "They had a piano and all of the 10 children had lessons, but they weren't very musical," Lombardini said.

"Without lessons, I found I could play by ear, but my Polish mother said 'You don't need any lessons' and refused to pay for them."

Despite a sense of loss, she sang, accompanying herself. And she began to understand that her talent for music was a gift uniquely hers, a precious part of her innermost self. And she valued it.

After high school, she left her adopted home. Just 17 and determined to be a nun, she went to Madonna College in Livonia.

Sister Paulette, director of music studies, heard her sing and play one day and asked, "Are you one of my students?"

DEMURRING, Lombardini said no, but the nun persisted, insisting that the young woman perform for her. "She urged me to study music, and I said that would be a miracle," Lombardini said.

"Sister said she would take a chance on me if I would take a chance as well. She told me that Tchaikovsky had a very late start in music and I would have to work hard.

"The first year I cried every day," she said.

But she persisted. "I was a nun for 10 years with the Felician Sisters working in music. I made plenty of mistakes. My first year as a teacher of music I had 53 students in the first grade," she said.

Lombardini's studies for a master's degree were interrupted when she left the community. "I was a good sister," she said, "but my own physical and emotional needs were not being met. So at 27, I came out."

SHE WAS a career woman, teaching mostly in private schools. After 10 years, she earned her master's degree.

In her pursuit of higher education, she found more than another degree, she found a new life.

"During my studies, I took an elective course in film. My instructor was a priest and a fine teacher, Tony Lombardini.

"I really liked him and later when I learned he had left the priesthood, I decided to go after him," she said, smiling.

"So I called him up and we had dinner. It didn't take me long to catch him."

Her husband has been a reporter for the Michigan Catholic, serving as drama critic, where another former priest, William Keinzle was his boss.

Lombardini is quite supportive of her husband's aspirations to publish one of his three already written novels and he likewise supports her career ambitions.

THE COUPLE live in Walled Lake in a double-wide mobile home. Her husband teaches at Mercy College and she is employed full time as organist and music director at St. Ives Church in Southfield.

Lombardini can often be found at the organ practicing for services, programs, weddings, parties and funerals.

"Shalom, God be with You," she sings clearly. It is a hymn of her own composing, part of her repertoire.

"For funerals, I find out about the person and will write a hymn for the service," she said. "That's how my hymn writing started.

"Today, I composed something for the funeral of an Irishman. You can hardly find music like that."

BY POPULAR demand of parishioners and others who know her work, Lombardini has self-published a singing cassette of her hymns. It contains an hour of original songs written and sung by her, through the company Cross Tones.

She has written more than 50 songs based on the Sunday gospels, hymns designed for quiet listening and meditation.

Lombardini has allowed her songs to be used in the community. Many of the services she performs are done at no charge. Her cassette is priced at $6.76 (including tax and handling) and can be ordered from Cross Tones, PO Box 884002, Walled Lake, 48088.

church bulletin

● EVANGELICAL PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY

The Sixth General Assembly of the Evangelical Presbyterian Church will take place at Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia from Sunday, June 15, through Thursday, June 19. Trinity Presbyterian and Grace Chapel will co-host the five-day assembly at Ward Presbyterian (on Six Mile and Farmington roads).

Dr. Luder Whitlock, president of the Reformed-Theological Seminary, will preach at the public service at 7:30 p.m. Monday. Dr. Bartlett Hess will be preaching on "What is the Mission of the Church?" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Also, Margaret Hess will address the Women's Luncheon at noon Wednesday at Botsford Inn (28000 Grand River, near Eight Mile). Cost is $8.50 a person and reservations can be made by calling Trinity Church at 459-9550. Al Kuhnle, president of Detroit Metropolitan Youth for Christ, will be the guest speaker at the Men's Luncheon at noon Wednesday at the Ward Church Fellowship Hall. Cost is $4 a person.

For more information, call 422-1150.

● FILM SERIES

Dr. James and Shirley Dobson's newest film series, "Turn Your Heart Toward Home," and the children's film "Sunshine Factory" will both be shown Sunday, June 22, through Friday, June 27, at Covenant Community Church in Redford (25800 Student, near Five Mile and Beech Daly). Show time Sunday is 6 p.m. The time is 7 p.m. Monday through Friday.

For more information, call 535-3100 or 261-4229.

● FULL GOSPEL DINNER

For more information, call (616) 651-2234.

Poster Braun, Detroit radio personality, will be the featured speaker at the Northville, Plymouth and Livonia Chapter of Full Gospel Businessmen International's June Dinner Meeting at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, June 19, at Stoyan's in Livonia (36071 Plymouth). Cost is $10.50 per person, and reservations can be made by calling 453-9236 or 348-4105.

● PRAYER BREAKFAST

The Livonia Teacher's Christian Fellowship will have its end-of-the-year prayer breakfast meeting at 6:30 a.m. Thursday, June 19, at Denny's Restaurant in Wayne (corner of Wayne and Cowan roads).

The Rev. Hal Edmonds, minister of educational ministries at Ward Presbyterian Church, is the guest speaker. For more information, call 523-9353.

● FLEA MARKET

Rice Memorial United Methodist Church will have a flea market from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, June 14, and Saturday, Aug. 16, on church grounds. Rice Memorial is at 20601 Beech Daly, near Eight Mile.

For table space, call John Frith at 537-7865 or the church office, 534-4907.

● SPIRITUAL SEMINARS

The Highlight Center, a spiritual and philosophical organization, is offering weekly classes at 8 p.m. the first and third Tuesdays of every month at the Northwest YWCA in Redford (25940 Grand River). Some topics include care of the physical body, the understanding and proper use of the mind and the teaching of Christ.

● SUMMER WORSHIP SCHEDULE

The First United Methodist Church's summer worship schedule has been set. Sunday worship is 9:30 a.m. There will be a nursery, toddler room and class for children in grades kindergarten to third grade. This schedule is effective until Labor Day.

● MARRIAGE ENCOUNTER

A marriage encounter weekend will be Friday-Sunday, June 20-22, at the Holiday Inn in Livonia. Designed for couples of all ages and faiths, the encounter will encourage couples to "rediscover" each other by focusing on their relationship and their marriage. The encounter is sponsored by the United Methodist Church. For more information, call 459-7814.

● TRINITY HOUSE

Trinity House will present a musical comedy, "The Paradise," at 8 p.m. Friday, June 13, and Saturday, June 14, and at 3 p.m. Sunday, June 15 (tentative). Death sentence no deterrent

THERE IS a part of me that is prone to violent thoughts when I see violence done to another. The murder of an innocent senior citizen in her home is one such example.

When that kind of news story is told, something in me calls for at least equal violence to the murderer. I do not particularly like this darker side of myself, but I also know that I am not alone in such thoughts. This penchant for evening the score is alive and well in the human condition. One need look no further than the popularity of Rambo for evidence of such feeling.

Very few will argue against doing something to lessen the violence that threatens, frightens and reviles any decent person. The question, however, is whether we are able to step aside from our fear long enough to look at the issue with something other than the eyes of fear.

THE ONLY thing we can say with certainty about the deterrence value of the death penalty is that the executed person will not commit another crime. To pretend that it goes further than that or that capital punishment would make Michigan a safer place to live is whistling in the dark.

Our neighboring states of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois are just three cases in point. All three have death penalty statutes, but murders per capita in those states remain on a par with our own. Just a cursory look at violent crime in the state of Florida, where execution is on the books, would cause one to at least wonder as to the effectiveness of such punishment in diminishing violence.

Florida is, however, an example of moral perspectives

Rev. Robert Schaden

How do we teach non-violence to children when we are willing to institutionalize violence?

at least one problem with this ultimate punishment. Seven years ago, this state put John Spenklink to death for murder. His conviction was due in part to his partner in the crime, Frank Brum, "turning state's evidence."

FOR THAT, Frank went free, hardly adding to the credibility of his testimony. So instead of two alleged murders in prison, one is dead and the other is on the streets.

Add to this process the fact that most, if not all, of those receiving the death penalty are of the poorer class and the even-handedness with which this punishment is applied also falls into question.

However, there is another dimension we cannot afford to ignore. How do we teach non-violence to children when we are willing to institutionalize violence as a way to deal with a social problem?

On the one hand, such a double message confuses children. On the other hand, the louder message of violence as a solution is the one that takes hold.

IT WOULD SEEM that the real issue is not so much the death penalty as it is the fear that has understandably taken hold of people like you and me who are sick of crime.

If all we are willing to bring to the problem is our fear and perhaps a penchant for vengeance, we may end up in a more dangerous position than we are now in. Having our societal gut temporarily satisfied when the switch is pulled or an injection given will not, in the long run, give us safer neighborhoods.

While the news commentator echoes our sentiments in declaring that enough is enough, his many previous arguments against capital punishment do not just go away unless we are willing to let our fears or our penchant for vengeance determine our course.

Can you spot your Michigan National teller in the crowd? The master of ceremonies is former newsman Lowell James. Professional actors play the money-winning couple and bank employees play the crowd roles.

Bank tellers star Staffers volunteer for TV ad

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The Michigan National Bank automatic teller in the Livonia branch at Five Mile and Farmington roads was a star.

So were several human employees who volunteered to take part in the bank's Michigan Money Sweepstakes commercial filmed at the Livonia location. The spot is currently aired on television.

The Five Mile-Farmington Road branch was picked from 30 sites to film the spot — mainly because of its location. Headquartered in Bloomfield Hills, the holding company has offices all over the state.

FINDING VOLUNTEERS — actually, they were paid $1 — was easier. After a corporate memo was sent to all Michigan National Bank corporation offices requesting volunteers, 75 turned up. They came from as far as Port Huron and Flint.

But few saw their likenesses on TV.

"We're all really in it," said Pat Sharp of Canton. "You just can't see us."

Margaret Schneider, who works at the branch at Six Mile and Newburgh roads, said she can be seen in the commercial.

"It's kind of neat," said Schneider, who lives in Livonia. "A couple of customers said they thought they saw me. Now they're going to check to make sure it's me."

THE LEAD two people in the commercial, shown using the teller and winning the jackpot in a game-show setting, are professional actors. The announcer is Lowell James, a former television news anchorman.

Some 60 actors auditioned for the parts of the couple. No auditions were required for the Michigan National Bank employees.

"They (the volunteers) were very cooperative," said director Ron Castorri of Castorri and Co. of Southfield. "Toward evening it got cooler, and we lost some people. Some weren't educated on how a commercial is shot. They just thought they'd show up, we'd shoot the commercial and be done in an hour."

Filming started at 4 p.m. and lasted until 3:30 a.m. It was shot late in the evening to give a dusk effect.

THE FIVE MILE-Farmington site was chosen for a number of reasons, according to Jim Berline, president of the Berline Group, which wrote the script for the spot.

"It wasn't adjacent to any busy roads, so noise wasn't a problem," said Berline. "Plus the machine there is state of the art."

And there was plenty of parking space to handle the overflow of people and equipment.

According to those involved, filming went without a hitch. A couple of days of production meetings were needed to film the 30-second spot.

"It went very smoothly," said Castorri, whose company filmed the now nationally syndicated Detroit Zoo commercial. "There were no complications at all."

THE COMMERCIAL touts the bank company's $250,000 sweepstakes. Every time customers type in a transaction at any of the Michigan Money 24-hour auto-teller machines, they receive a scratch-off game card with the receipt.

People can become instant $5,000 winners. Also by matching letters to spell "smart money," they become eligible to win a 1986 automobile, a power boat or a trip for two to anywhere in the United States.

Anyone who has a Magic Line card can use a Michigan Money teller machine.

Drexel 'bullish' on Michigan, 'junk bonds'

By Tim Richard
staff writer

The king of "junk bonds" has come to Michigan — but don't call them "junk" around Robert E. Linton.

"I'm consistently bullish on the bond market," said the chairman and CEO of Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc., the Wall Street brokerage firm that pioneered the use of high-yield bonds to finance the growth of medium-sized corporations.

The Drexel firm, which he has headed since 1977, also is known for financing hostile corporate takeovers — "raids," critics call them. Linton said that's only 10 percent of his firm's business.

Linton addressed a friendly crowd in the Orchard Lake Country Club Tuesday as his firm officially celebrated the opening of its first Michigan office at 1400 N. Woodward, Bloomfield Hills.

LINTON IS bullish on the bond market because "inflation is not about to take off. Raw materials are in excess supply. Labor rates tend to be moderate, the union movement is under attack."

"Interest rates are gonna trend lower," said Linton, predicting one more round of rediscount rate reductions by the Federal Reserve Board.

But he doesn't share the view of government officials and economists that the second half of 1986 will see a continued "solid upturn" in the economy, adding, "I hope I'm wrong."

As for the stock market, which others say will continue its rise above the 1,800 Dow Jones level, Linton smiled. "I cop a plea. My belief is it's gonna fluctuate." (Laughter.) "There will be very wide swings. In a year, it will be about the same as it is now."

Two opposing forces are battering stocks, he said: disappointing business conditions and earnings on one side, lower interest rates on the other.

Senate tax reform bill more generous after 1987

Here's an analysis of the Senate Finance Committee's tax proposal by Seidman & Seidman/BDO, a Troy CPA firm.

• Individual tax rates: The proposal will eliminate tax deductions at the beginning of 1987 but will not cut tax rates until mid-1987. Consequently, the 1987 individual tax rate will exceed the quoted 27 percent tax rate without corresponding deductions. The plan would be considerably less generous to individuals in 1987 than in subsequent years.

• Pensions, IRAs: Many Americans, with the loss of the IRA deduction and the cutbacks in 401K (to $7,000) allowable contributions, may find it much more difficult to fund their retirement. If the IRA deduction is eliminated, savings that have previously been poured into IRAs could end up in short-term stock holdings.

• Interest and sales tax deduc- tions: Consumer goods industries could be hurt with the elimination of the consumer interest deduction (to the extent that it exceeds investment income) and the elimination of the sales tax deduction. The purchase of a car, boat or appliance becomes much more expensive particularly if the purchase must be financed with borrowed money.

It may be best to consider making major purchases now because people who are highly leveraged may find they can no longer afford to service their debt without the benefit of their interest deduction.

• Capital gains: Long-term capital gains will be taxed 7 percent higher than currently; taxpayers may want to re-evaluate their holdings and consider recognizing long-term capital gains in 1986.

• Tax shelters: Shelters may be hard hit if tax benefits are eliminated. On the other hand, those holding older shelter investments who received large tax benefits in prior years — at a 50 percent rate or even a 70 percent rate — may now find those shelters burning out (producing taxable income). This income would only be taxed at a 27 percent maximum individual rate, which could work to their advantage.

• State tax code: Many states will have to drastically alter their taxing systems since many states' tax laws piggyback the federal rules.

• Banking impact: Elimination of IRAs will eliminate large pools of money that flow into banks and is then used for lending purposes. Eliminating this deduction could result in a loss of capital for the economy.

People will pay off bank credit card debt much faster if the interest deduction is not available.

Loss of value in municipal bond portfolios as banks have large municipal bond portfolios that will be worth less as municipal bonds are required to yield more to achieve the same after-tax rate of return.

"MICHIGAN IS the most misunderstood area in the U.S.," added Kurt Karmin, central regional manager for Drexel who takes credit for selecting this area for the firm's 39th American office.

"It's marvelous for our corporate finance department," Karmin said in an interview, looking beyond southeastern Michigan's image as an auto maker and toward robotics, medical technology, chemicals, gray iron, hardware, pharmaceuticals, paints and office machinery.

"Everyone talks of the South," he said, emphasizing "talks." "But people who move to Phoenix still do their investment business in the Detroit area. It's not like buying groceries."

Karmin said Drexel handled Highland Park's waste disposal bonds. He sees this region as good for municipal bonds.

On top of that is the prospect that congressional tax reform will hike tax rates on capital gains. He's dead set against higher capital gains taxes but finds senators aren't listening to lobbyists these days.

NEVERTHELESS, Paul Jingoian, Drexel vice president and resident manager of the local office, sees Michigan as a "terrific market," despite political debate over whether the state has shed its image as nasty toward business.

"We opened the new office in January. We have 17 brokers, mostly vice presidents of their former firms. Eventually we'll have a 35-man operation," he said.

"Each will concentrate in an area of specialty — mergers and acquisitions, buying and selling small companies, municipal bonds, corporate bonds."

"This area has a high net worth of individuals. There is a small corporation market. There is a large corporation market. There is an institutional market — life insurance companies."

"E.F. Hutton and Merrill Lynch's most successful offices are in Michigan. The productivity per account executive (measured by the number of assets under his control) is the highest in the country."

Repeatedly Jingoian used the word "creative" in describing what Drexel tries to do for companies and investors. Staff members are working on "a creative real estate trust." And despite depressed oil and gas production, they are picking up such assets.

MAYBE DREXEL isn't biggest, Karmin said, but it's "probably the most profitable firm on Wall Street." In seven years its capital has risen from $200 million or less to $1½ billion, he said.

Its own stock is privately held — 74 percent of it in the hands of corporate officers, Linton said.

Chairman Linton was Institutional Investor magazine's 1985 man of the year. It wasn't so much for his own 40-year career, the magazine said, but because he's a "hands-on" boss who knows when to keep "hands off" — and he has kept hands off senior vice president Michael Milken.

Milken gets credit for sensing there was an untapped market for tens of thousands of companies whose debt couldn't be rated at investment quality — BBB or better. Scoffers coined the term "junk bonds."

"THERE ARE roughly 25,000 corporations," Linton told the Orchard Lake audience. "Only 600 would qualify for that (BBB or better) rating."

"The rest used to raise funds through banks and insurance companies. Now they can issue bonds without the types of covenants they used to have."

Baxter Travenol was – and is – a good stock

I bought Baxter Travenol in 1983 at $28 a share. My broker told me it was an outstanding growth company and would do great things for me.

The price of the stock went down steadily from the time I bought it until it was under $12. It's been better recently and is now above $20.

Would you advise me to sell it at this price?

Basically your broker gave you good advice. The company he recommended to you had an excellent record and gave every evidence of being well managed.

About the time you bought the stock, the government tightened up its reimbursement policy on medical expenses, and this caused most health-related companies to have lower earnings and reduced stock prices.

At the same time that these companies became unpopular, there was a general weakness in stock prices, and this resulted in Baxter's sharp fall in market price.

BAXTER BASICALLY has been a company with good growth and could be expected to recover and move ahead. However, in 1985 it took the major step of acquiring American Hospital Supply Corp.

This was a huge acquisition, more than doubling the size of the company. It also burdened the company with a great deal of debt and increased the amount of stock outstanding.

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara

of the National Association of Investors Corp.

This is not necessarily bad news, but it does mean that it will take time for the company to assimilate the new business and get it operating smoothly. Most security analysts believe the merger will be a good one.

Baxter paid nearly $4 billion for American Hospital Supply. It had to borrow $2 billion and issued 63 million shares of common stock and $900 million in preferred.

THE NEW company, however, will be able to supply more than 70 percent of a hospital's every day supplies. The company should be very efficient, since one sales and distribution staff should be able to handle the products of the two former companies.

Working out these efficiencies and the elimination of duplicate facilities will take time, and the translation of these actions into higher earnings is likely to take one to two years.

IN TIME Baxter Travenol should benefit from being a low-cost competitor, and it also should be able to spend more on research and development and thus gain more competitive advantages.

My guess is that the recovery of Baxter's price to 20 is just the beginning of a process that could carry it to twice that figure or more in the next two to four years.

I can't guarantee that, of course, but it seems to me the opportunities are excellent for sizeable earnings growth and the consequent transfer of those earnings into a higher stock price.

Record tourism season predicted for state

AAA MICHIGAN predicts that we will have a record tourism season in the state this summer, because of reduced gasoline prices, increases in out-of-state visitors and a healthy consumer outlook.

The cash register could ring up as much as $8.2 billion, compared to $7.6 billion last year.

The travel season is already off to a strong start, with AAA Michigan travel routings up 10 percent for the first four months of 1986, with 19 percent more out-of-state visitors serviced this year than last.

A recent USA Today poll of travelers listed Michigan as one of the nation's top 11 vacation destinations.

If you are one of the thousands of state residents who plan to enjoy your own backyard this summer, here are some useful pieces of information to speed you on your way:

• BOBLO Island opened with its new 314-foot-high Sky Tower offering an aerial view of two states and one Canadian province. There is a new Haunted Theater and a new boat, which doubles the passenger capacity from Gibraltar.

This 272-acre island in the Detroit River has been under the renewing hand of AAA Michigan since 1983, so if you haven't been there in a while you will be pleasantly surprised.

• The Frankenmuth Bavarian Festival, which fills everybody's favorite small town with frivolity every year, is June 14-21.

• The 28th International Freedom Festival is June 20 through July 6 so that the U.S. and Canada can celebrate their birthdays together along the longest friendly border in the world.

• Henry Ford Estate - Fair Lane - is offering several programs for children June 1 through the end of August. There is a free open house June 15 and July 6, otherwise it costs $5 a child, with a $10 group deposit, for the 90-minute programs. There will be an 1890s party with 19th century games, historic toys and food, for groups only on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

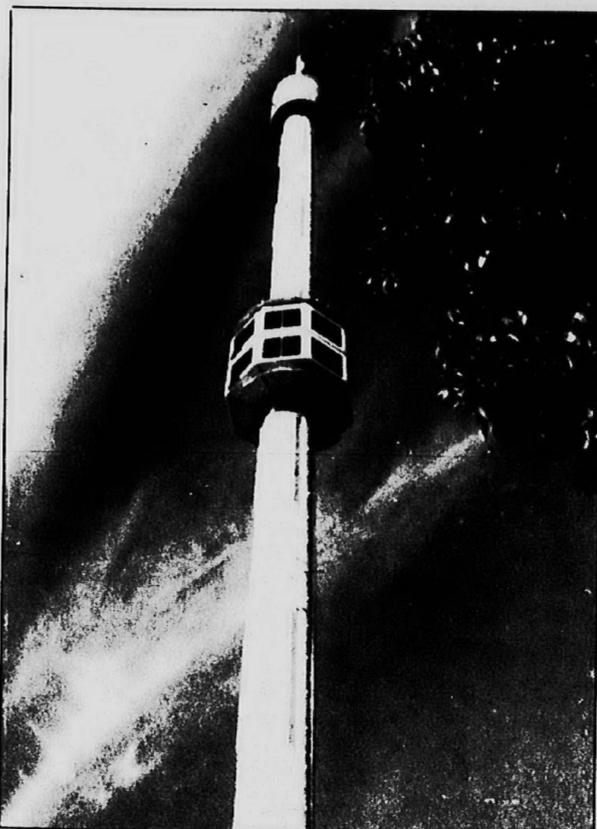

Rural Roots, focusing on a miniature farm house built by Henry Ford for the 1924 Michigan State Fair, is open to everybody Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 11:30 a.m.

Everybody also may attend Henry Ford's Grand Experience, recreating the activities that Ford shared with his grandchildren; they are at 11:30 a.m. Fridays, and 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Sundays.

For more information, call 593-5590.

• The Birmingham Community House has a lot of things going on this summer. One example: the Chesaning Showboat evening leaving at 3 p.m. July 14 and returning at 1 a.m. after browsing the Chesaning Old Home Shoppes, having dinner at Heritage House and watching the 1986 star attraction, Marie Osmond. The cost is $40 a person. Call 644-5832.

I WENT TO an interesting dinner in a foreign country last week. Those of you who don't want to travel to an overseas destination this year might want to follow my footsteps on this one. It's not far, just across the Detroit River, where the Hilton International Hotel has launched a series of what they call United States Presidents Dinners.

A new 314-foot-high Sky Tower offering an aerial view of two states and one Canadian province now graces Boblo island.

It's a promotion of course, designed to Canada, but I must admit they've done a first-class job. And there is more to come.

The Windsor Hilton surprised and pleased local diners by serving authentically researched and cooked early Canadian food dishes when it first opened its doors on Riverside Drive West, two blocks west of Ouellette. This is an extension of the same idea.

EVERY TUESDAY through May and June the restaurant will serve a special dinner honoring U.S. President George Washington on the Park Terrace. No ordinary dinner, but an eight-course dinner that's as close as they can make it to what would have been served in Martha Washington's kitchen.

Take a gander at this menu: Tiny Smithfield hams with watercress and celery seeds;

An artichoke pie called Marthy Choak Pie with marjoram sauce; Martha Washington's fresh crab soup.

Mincemeat stuffed onions on a winter sauce; Dressed greens with Mount Vernon vinaigrette.

That all leads up to the main course - Scotch dollops (thin slices of braised lamb with capers, anchovies, oysters and lemon sauce), stoved potatoes, glazed onions and asparagus "a la petit poi."

This is followed by George Washington's cherry bread-and-butter pudding and Martha Washington's bonbons, served in a tiny paper bag with the recipe attached. Wines are extra, but the $50 price tag includes tax and tip. That's $50 Canadian, about $35 U.S. The food is interesting and well prepared and the setting fine.

THE PARK TERRACE is one of the best places in the area to watch the nightly spectacle of sundown, as daylight fades from the river and the artificial lights go on across the water in Detroit.

If you read this page regularly, you know that I don't usually talk about restaurants or promote dining situations - we've got dining 1918 steam train hauled by the Cuyahoga Valley Line through Cuyahoga Valley National Park near Cleveland, with stops at Hale Farm and Western Reserve Village.

The bad news is that the Cuyahoga Valley Line was notified May 6 that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co. would not be able to renew its lease to run the excursion train over B&O tracks because the railway company is negotiating the sale of part of those tracks.

The CVL train will still run, but its season is now limited to Aug. 2 through Oct. 19.

CHASE CHIROPRACTIC CELEBRATES 17 YEARS OF SERVICE

As a community service, we are donating a free spinal examination and nerve test for all new patients to determine if their health problems may be helped by Chiropractic. We have found over the last 17 years of being a Chiropractor in this community, that the number 1 reason people fail to seek help is a lack of understanding of how their body works and how to obtain better health.

1. CONSULTATION
Your testing begins with a consultation consisting of questions concerning past and present health history.

2. PHYSICAL EXAMINATION
Examination continues with a general overall system evaluation.

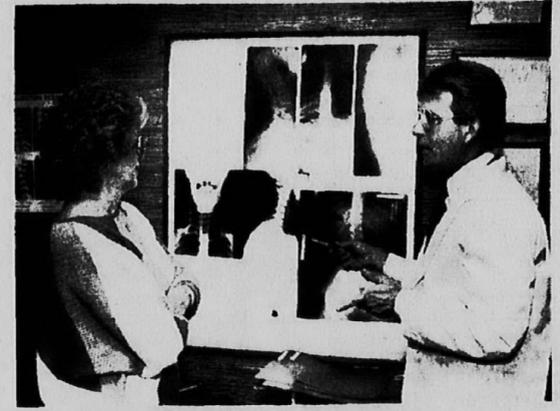

3. ORTHOPEDIC AND NEUROLOGIC EVALUATION
A full evaluation of the nervous and musculo skeletal systems will be conducted.

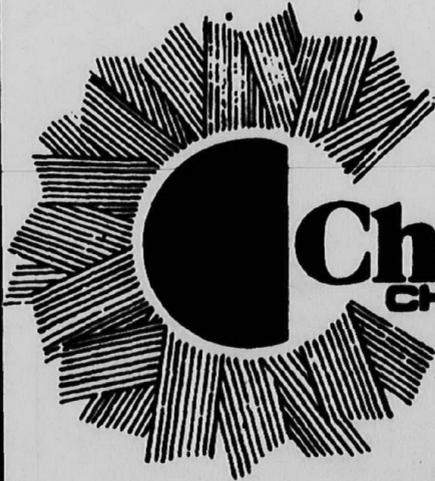

4. STATIC AND MOTION PALPATION
Static and motion palpation will be conducted to determine possible sights of neurologic interference.

5. REPORT OF FINDINGS
Based on the consultation and test results, the Doctor will make the appropriate recommendations regarding X-rays, additional examination, Chiropractic care or referral to another Doctor.

6. EXTENDED HEALTH CONSULTATION
The extended health consultations are held every Wednesday evening to further your knowledge of Chiropractic care and to answer your specific health questions.

Can World Cup ignite apathetic U.S. fans?

PEOPLE AROUND this globe of ours are riveted. They are transfixed. They are hypnotized. They are — well, you get the idea. The most stupendous of sports events has them hooked. It occurs only once every four years — mercifully so, since on more than one occasion fans of the losers have leapt from tall buildings with a single despair-filled bound because the humiliation of defeat was too great a burden to bear.

Everywhere, people will tune in to follow the exploits of their favorite team, absorbing every detail regarding their favorite performers.

Everywhere, that is, but in the greatest television-watching nation in the world — the U.S. of A.

IF YOU HAVEN'T guessed, the sport I speak of is soccer. And just south of our country's border is where the World Cup soccer tournament is being contested.

Any sports-loving American would never — never — dream of not tuning into the Super Bowl. Even if he did sleep through everything after the four-hour pre-game show, he'd leave the game blaring on his TV.

And yet, few of our countrymen will raise an eyebrow over such a worldwide sports spectacular as the World Cup. We boast that 100 million televisions tune in the Super Bowl, but as many as one billion people will watch the World Cup.

THERE'S A QUESTION here begging for an answer. How come?

How can soccer command such an audience everywhere else, and yet fail so miserably here?

I'd swallow all the standard reasons — no national team to cheer for, a long list of other sports diverting our attention, even that soccer is just plain boring — except that the evidence refutes them.

For instance: The most popular event at the 1984 Summer Olympics — the games held in Los Angeles — wasn't basketball or volleyball. It was soccer.

Here's another shocker for you. What's the No. 1 participatory sport among U.S. youth?

No, not bowling. It used to be baseball, but a couple of years ago soccer forged to the forefront.

Seems to me that would indicate an interest exists. And at the moment, the only major sport now playing at stadiums everywhere is baseball (although I know more than a few Detroiters who insist pro baseball left this town more than a month ago).

What we've got here is a paradox. Interest in the world's most popular game but no audience for the world's biggest sports attraction.

Tim Storch, the Troy Athens soccer coach, has some reasonable reasons for this dilemma.

"They play a different brand of soccer," said Storch. "When they lose possession of the ball, they all come back and play a low-pressure style of defense. The problem with American fans is that they like to see an upbeat style. That's why indoor soccer does so well."

INDOOR SOCCER must seem like an abortion to purists of the game. Six on a side, playing on a carpeted hockey rink? Other than the ball, it isn't even remotely similar to the World Cup variety.

The conservative style of international soccer certainly bores U.S. fans, who like their action fast and furious.

Dwayne Bennett, along with his former Canton battery mate Mark Coburn, helped Livonia Adray to a victory last Friday night. Both play college ball at Kansas City Junior College.

Coburn, Bennett provide spark to Livonia Adray 9

The mastery continues. Doug Doyle, the Hillsdale College left-hander who pitches summer ball for Walter's Appliance in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League, simply owns Redford Little Caesars' hitters.

Doyle, for the sixth straight time over the last two seasons, beat Little Caesars. On Sunday, he fired a two-hitter winning 2-1. Doyle faced 24 batters in the seven-inning game. He fanned six and didn't walk a batter.

Doyle got some defensive help from catcher Scott Papich. The Livonia Churchill graduate gunned down three would-be base stealers.

Both of Walter's runs were unearned in the third inning. Steve Frelick singled home the first run, then he scored the game-winner on Dave DeMay's base hit.

The win salvaged a split of a double-header. Caesars, behind the strong pitching of Plymouth Canton grad Mark Coburn, won game one 4-3.

Coburn, who twirls for Kansas City Community College, allowed three hits, fanned three and walked three. Coburn, with runners on first and third and one out in the bottom of the seventh, got a key double play to preserve the one-run victory.

Don Taylor's double in the fifth provided the game-winner. Tyrone Gaines and Bob Czaplak had two hits apiece for Caesars.

Last Friday, Walters knocked off Caesars 3-1. Left-hander Gary Zwolinski scattered five hits and struck out five to pick up the win. Zwolinski, a Brother Rice grad, played for Valencia Junior College in Orlando, Fla.

Eddie Shepler rapped two hits for Walters' (4-3). Czaplak had two more hits for Caesars.

As of Sunday, Livonia Adray, Caesars and Tom Holzer of Northville were atop the LCBL standings with 5-2 records.

LIVONIA ADRAY won three straight from West Bloomfield over the weekend. It won a 4-3 thriller on Friday, then swept a double-header Sunday, 10-0 and 11-1.

On Friday, Michigan State-Livonia Stevenson product Rick Rozman shut down West Bloomfield Catcher Dwayne Bennett, Plymouth Canton-Kansas City CC, led the offense with three hits.

Don Vesling, the Eastern Michigan football-baseball star, shut down West Bloomfield in the first game Sunday, John Pozwyak got the win in the second game.

Vesling and Dennis Bushart (Redford Union) led the offense.

TOM HOLZER stayed with the front-runners by sweeping three from Wendys of Ann Arbor.

On Friday, Holzer got a pair of three-run homers from Martin Eddy en route to a 12-1 win. Pitcher Dave Kopitzke allowed just one hit — a lead off home run in the first. He fanned nine in a five-inning game.

North Farmington grad Scott Draper hit a solo home run and Eric Engel, also from North, had a two-run single.

On Sunday, Holzer won 7-0 and 15-11.

Chris Stout and Chris Dominique combined to hurl a three-hit shutout. Stout allowed the three hits in five innings to get the win. Holzer was the beneficiary of 11 walks from Wendy hurlers.

Wendys (0-7) gave up 16 more walks in a wild (and ugly) second game.

A two-run, two-out double by Eddy provided the game-winning runs for Holzer.

Coach of the Year: Paul Heston, Stevenson.

Girls squad is Ford-powered

By Chris McCosky staff writer

BOB KIRKLAND has coached many outstanding individual track and field performers at Farmington Hills Mercy over the years, but it's doubtful he has coached any better than Terri Ford.

Ford has been the premier sprinter in Observerland the past two years and was among the state's elite this year.

"Time after time in the last two years, she has brought the sprint relay team from incredible deficits to first-place finishes in dramatic fashion," Kirkland said. "Terri's true track talents have just begun to mature and if she pursues a running career, the results will be overwhelming."

Ford is a two-time regional champion in the 200-meter dash and a three-time Catholic League champ. She was runner-up in the state meet this year, missing out by .01. She is also a two-time regional and Catholic League champ in the 100 and this is her third All-Area selection.

Terri Ford, without question, is the 1986 Observerland Track Woman of the Year. She headlines the 1986 All-Area Girls Track and Field Team as selected recently by area coaches.

Sue Naster, Bishop Borgess, shot put; This senior, a two-time All-Area choice, had the area's top tosses in both the shot put (37-3/4) and the discus (121-10). She was a regional and Observerland champion in both events. She qualified for state three straight years. And she maintained a 3.46 grade point average.

Karen Marciniak, Plymouth Salem, discus: Her toss of 117-11 this year established a Salem record and was the second best toss in Observerland. She was a Western Lakes champ both last year and this year. She never lost in a dual meet and was a state finalist this year.

Cheri Johnson, Bishop Borgess, high jump: A junior, Johnson was the Class A state champion in this event with a 5-8 leap. She has been a state finalist for three straight years. She won individual titles this year at the Observerland, Spartan and West Bloomfield relays. She maintains a 3.5 in the classroom.

Stacey Gamblin, Redford Thurston, long jump: Her leap of 17-1/4 was easily the area's best this season. It also won her a Class B regional title. She was a Northwest Suburban League champion and a four-event standout for the Eagles.

TRACK EVENTS

Lisa Dominato, Livonia Franklin, 100-meter hurdles: "She is a true example that champions are made and not born. She made hurdling a 365-day commitment," says her coach Steve Dolloway. Her 15.6 time ties her for the area's best. She was a Western Lakes champ in both the high hurdles and long jump. And in

Is South Lyon tough? Just ask Salem.

By Brad Emons
staff writer

How good is Livonia Franklin's next softball opponent?

Coach Joe Epstein has to wonder about South Lyon, especially after the way the Lions pounded Plymouth Salem, 20-4, in district play. During the regular season, Franklin had three close games with Salem, winning two of three.

"I feel confident that if we beat South Lyon, we can go all the way," said the Franklin coach, whose team is 29-5 overall. "And I don't go on a limb very often. You never know about that game with Salem. I understand there were a bunch of walks and errors. I've seen some good teams have bad days."

South Lyon (30-10) is coming off a 2-1 win over Lansing Eastern in the regional final. The Lions also knocked off state-ranked East Kentwood in the regional semifinals.

South Lyon pitcher Andrea Nelson, a 5-foot-9 junior, is 23-7 this season. The Lions also rely on the hitting of Tina Weiss, Cindy Dickson, Barb Duggan and Kim Shanks.

If Franklin has any edge against South Lyon heading into Friday's Class A state semifinal at Michigan State University (game time is 5:30 p.m.), it's experience.

THE PATRIOTS went all the way to the state championship game last year before losing to L'Anse Creuse North, 5-0.

South Lyon, meanwhile, is coming off its first district and regional titles in 10 years.

Epstein is confident because the Patriots are playing near flawless softball defensively.

The Franklin coach juggled his lineup several times during the season, but has settled on a starting nine during tournament play.

Junior shortstop Maria Vasselou, who had some defensive problems earlier in the season, has solidified the infield with some strong play during the state tournament.

Junior Kris Roman, the Patriots' starting left fielder last year, is making all the plays at first. At third base, junior Gayle Cheadle has filled in admirably for the injured Patty Wixson. Second base belongs to Karen Schoeninger, one of the team's most aggressive hitters.

BUT THE KEY to the Patriots' success rests behind the plate where sophomore Kim Godfrey has claimed the starting catching job.

Epstein tried three different catchers, including starting sophomore right fielder Rose Obey, before settling on Godfrey.

The outfield lineup consists of Bentley transfer Shelly Lankford in left, Cherie Mascarello in center and Obey in right.

But everybody knows the Patriots revolve around pitcher Tracy Lectka, a senior with pinpoint control.

Last week at the Southfield Regional, Lectka allowed only six hits and walked one in 14 innings.

Her value as a fielder is also unmatched.

"If you're going to get on base against Tracy, you better get a hit," Epstein said.

The Franklin coach is convinced his team can hit any of the state's best pitchers. The big question this season has been defense.

"THIS IS A BETTER hitting team than last year," says the Franklin coach. "And I've got some other kids who can swing the bat."

"I love to get Terry Obey (a senior) in the lineup for batting, but this is the best defensive lineup. I experimented a lot and this is the best lineup I feel.

"The kids really felt comfortable Saturday and they proved it with some solid, solid defense."

In shutout wins over Westland John Glenn and Belleville, the Patriots committed only one error.

The other semifinal, beginning at 3:30 p.m. at MSU, Waterford Kettering faces upstart Grosse Pointe South, which upset East Detroit in regional play.

During the regular season, Franklin beat Waterford Kettering in an invitational tournament, 10-5.

MHSAA close to naming new boss

The field is narrowing.

The search committee charged with sorting through the field of candidates for the position of executive director for the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) has submitted its list of three finalists.

They are:

- Fredrick Sible, an assistant director with the MHSAA since 1978, has experience as a teacher and coach and prior to joining the MHSAA was assistant superintendent ent of the Cheyboygan-Otsego-Presque Isle intermediate school district.

- Jack Roberts, executive vice president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes in Kansas City, Mo., and former assistant director with the National Federation of State High School Associations;

- William Pappas, principal of Northview High School in Grand Rapids, formerly president of the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals and assistant principal and coach at Mount Clemens High School.

All three were screened by the MHSAA's search committee and executive committee. They will each be interviewed by the association's representative council Wednesday.

The council is expected to announce its decision by the end of this month. The man selected for the position will be replacing Vern Norris, who announced earlier this year he was resigning. Norris will remain through the summer to help with the transition.

Kings hot in Class A

The Adray Kings are off and running in the Dearborn Class A baseball league with a 10-2 mark.

Unfortunately for the Kings, Detroit Center Tool has lost only once in seven games. That one loss was administered by the Kings Sunday, 10-2 at Henry Ford Community College.

Clint Scollard led the way with a home run, double and three RBI. Steve Raymond had a single, double and two RBI. Two Aquinas College products teamed up to pitch the win. Starter Greg Reinhold started and got the win, Tim Komorous got the save.

Last Friday the Kings beat Deluxe Cab 7-2 behind the combined pitching efforts of Scott Combs and Hugh Pobur. Pobur was recently released by the Chicago Cubs. CMU's George Clark rapped a two-run single and Jim Rousseau had a pair of doubles.

The Kings also posted a 11-2 win against Bonczak's and a 6-1 win against Laird Brothers last week.

Rice vs. Glenn in 'A' semis

By Brad Emons
Staff writer

Norm Hoenes has become a believer, but there was a time when he had his doubts about his Westland John Glenn baseball team.

The Glenn coach was very pessimistic even before the season started.

But with a team on the threshold of a state Class A championship, Hoenes has become a convert.

Glenn, sporting a 26-2 overall record, is only two steps away from the coveted title. Its next test is 5:30 p.m. Friday against Birmingham Brother Rice (22-14) in a state semifinal game at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

"I thought we had a better team last year," admitted Hoenes, the 20-year veteran coach. "We went 18-8 last year, which isn't bad, but we got knocked out of the (pre) district by (Farmington) Harrison."

Glenn watched last year from the sidelines as Harrison advanced to the state semifinals.

Even though Glenn had a top-notch pitcher returning in Steve Irwin, the Rockets' coach had little hope for his 1986 team.

"I THOUGHT with Irwin we'd win about half of the time he pitched," Hoenes said. "We also had lost a couple of people, Tony Boles and Billy Barber, before the season even started. We had only 38 try out for the varsity and JV teams."

Boles, the All-State football player, left the team during pre-season drills, while Barber, figured to be the Rockets' No. 2 pitcher behind Irwin, was declared ineligible for academic reasons.

Hoenes admitted "we're using a couple of players that were on our original cut list."

"I can't explain it," said the Glenn coach. "They just jelled."

"Maybe they realized we didn't have a lot of talent and they just pulled together."

This Glenn team, however, is not without talent. About half of Glenn's current roster play for the Westland Mantle team that beat Puerto Rico last summer for the national title.

Irwin, the 6-foot, 210-pound right-hander, has been nothing short of devastating this season. The hard-throwing Glenn ace, bound for Eastern Michigan University, throws an effective curveball and slider. He is 10-0 with an 0.86 earned run average and has 122 strikeouts in 65 innings.

BUT THE BIG surprise for the Rockets is Clint Straub, a confident sophomore with a 6-0 record (including four saves) and a .327 batting average. When he doesn't pitch, Straub can play second, third or catch.

"I really didn't know much about him," Hoenes said. "He comes across cocky. The other players weren't sure about him, but now they're sure because he can back it up."

Straub is one of six Glenn players hitting over .300. The others include shortstop Rick Tavormina (.390), catcher Mike Hammontree (.389), center fielder Chuck Hammontree (.361), Irwin (.342) and designated hitter Shawn Wilson (.306).

"The difference this year from last year is that we're making runs," Hoenes said.

Wilson bats for Pat Pettit, who plays second base. Senior Mike Wells, ticketed for bench play before the season started, has emerged as a steady glove at first. Seniors Jim Kenyon, the right fielder, and Tom Ragala, the left fielder, round out the starting lineup.

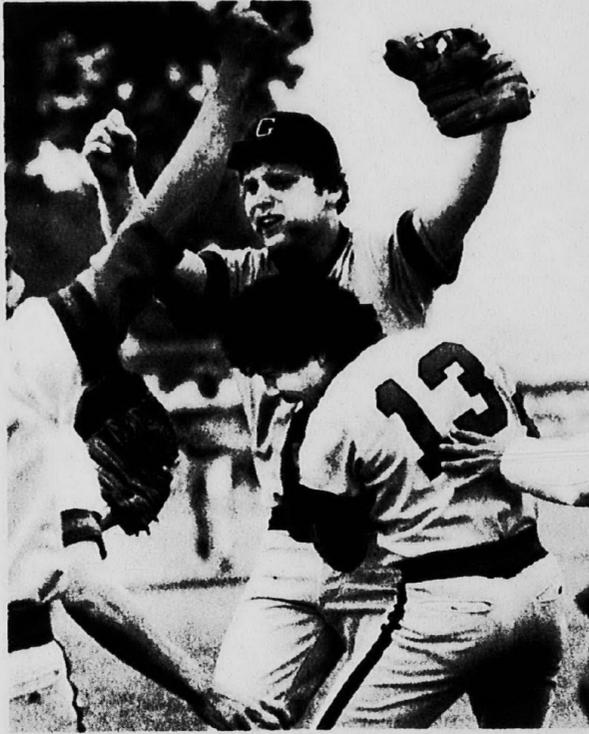

THE GLENN OUTFIELD has been sharp defensively, particularly Kenyon in right.

"He's batting around .250, but he's worth .800," Hoenes said. "He's our spiritual leader. We couldn't replace him."

Even though Glenn got off to a 5-0 start, Hoenes wasn't completely sold on his club.

"We won, but we had some breaks in those games," Hoenes said. "But then we had five tough games right in a row and I said to myself, 'This is where we're really going to find out how good we are.'"

Glenn won all five, including a double-header sweep of Wolverine A Conference co-champion Wayne Memorial. The Rockets went on to win the grueling 12-school Western Lakes Activities Division (WLA), and then beat Redford Bishop Borgess (8-1), Wayne (10-1), Garden City (6-2), Plymouth Canton (2-1) and Monroe (17-1) in state tourney play.

"We could have folded, but we didn't," Hoenes said. "When they get behind, they don't panic. That's why I'm really proud of them."

HOENES SAID that whatever happens from here "is all gravy."

"Nobody paid attention to us all year," he said. "We weren't ranked until the last week of the season."

Glenn's Rice play at 5:30 p.m. The other semifinal game pits Ypsilanti against Flint Central at 3:30 p.m.

The winners will face off at 5:30 p.m. Saturday at WMU.

WINNERS CIRCLE

BY LAURIE KIPP

M&L

The Michigan Lottery annually provides players with millions of cash prizes, but it is these prizes of a million dollars or more that most intrigue people.

We surveyed nearly 100 Michigan Lottery millionaires to see what it is like to win such a large prize. The results were interesting.

Q: Do the big winners usually go on spending sprees?

A: Few winners of any reported going on spending luges. In fact, most sought professional financial counseling to make plans for their newfound wealth.

Q: What type of plans did most make?

A: Most said the best part about winning was the financial security it provided. The majority got involved in investment programs. Others established trust funds for children or began savings programs.

Q: What did most of the millionaires do with their first annual payment?

A: Purchasing a new car was the most frequent response. Paying bills, sharing the prize with family members and making charitable donations followed.

Q: Is it true that most of the winners quit their jobs?

A: No. Most planned to continue working, though a significant portion planned early retirement. Some were retired at the time of their win. The smallest portion retired after winning.

Q: Do lottery millionaires usually relocate after winning?

A: Nearly a third reported buying a new home in the same community or a nearby city. Most others remained in the same dwelling. Only three percent moved out of state.

Q: How did winners feel about their contact with news media?

A: About two-thirds of the respondents reported their experience to be enjoyable.

Q: If that is so, then why don't we see or hear more about local winners?

A: The Lottery releases at least the name, home city and prize amount for winners of $5,000 or more in the instant, Lotto and Super Lotto games. It is up to individual media whether they use this information. If you want to read or hear more about winners in your area, let your local media know.

Q: Is there an average lottery millionaire?

A: No. They are young, old, men and women. They're single, married, retired and employed in almost every job field. In other words, they are just like YOU.

Because his question led to this column, Paul Bedient of Alton will receive $50 Michigan Payday instant game tickets.

If you have a Lottery question you'd like answered, send it to: Winners Circle, Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 80077, Lansing, MI 48909.

Donnelly's NHL future with Chicago or Detroit?

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The teams fall as the weeks go by, and Mike Donnelly still waits.

The Vancouver Canucks, the Washington Capitals, the Chicago Black Hawks and the Detroit Red Wings were all bidding for the Michigan State left winger's services up until last week. Then it was only Washington, Detroit and Chicago.

Now, according to Donnelly, it's probably between Chicago and Detroit.

And yet he waits like a player does in the crease for that pass to bang in the net. As his agent Bob Goodenough deals with the respective front offices, Donnelly considers his options.

Such is life for a free agent, who scored 59 goals for the national-championship Spartans this season.

"It's been very long and slow," said Donnelly, who believes he'll be signed in three to four weeks. "People think it's easy... but you have to weigh a lot of things and look at all the options."

THE MAIN thing Donnelly is considering is a chance to play. He doesn't want a guarantee, just an opening. The left-wing situation for both the Red Wings and the Black Hawks looks deep.

Donnelly has met with Red Wing front office personnel Jim Develiano, Jim Lites and Nick Polano. He also met with Black Hawks general manager Bob Pulford.

"It was basically getting to know each other," said Donnelly, a Livonia Franklin product. "They seemed like very nice people."

Donnelly is careful not to tip the balance when talking about either hockey

club. The Red Wings' history of turmoil doesn't bother him.

"It enters my mind," said Donnelly. "Mike Ilitch is a winner. They just ran into a string of bad luck this year, but I'm sure they're going to turn it around."

RED WING interest in Donnelly could heighten, especially if they draft MSU teammate Joe Murphy in the first round of the upcoming National Hockey League draft. Murphy, a center, is considered the top-rated prospect in the draft.

"We played together last season," said Donnelly, "and played well together. But I have to do what's best for myself. It's not going to be a factor whether I go there or not."

The actual dollar figures and length of the contract Donnelly and his agent are asking for are not being disclosed. Goodenough is tight-lipped about the negotiations.

"We're considering the organization and how they perceive Michael as a player," said Goodenough.

Donnelly said he really doesn't know what's being bandied about in terms of the money and length of the offers.

"I really don't know," he said. "My job is to play hockey. His (Goodenough's) job is to do that."

AND IN FOUR years at MSU, Donnelly did his job well. A walk-on, the 5-foot-11 winger improved as he went along.

His freshman year he scored seven goals. His sophomore year he had 18 and his junior year, 26. This season's goal-scoring exploits (59 goals in 44 games) set an MSU all-time scoring record.

He received first team all-American and all-Central Collegiate honors. Also Donnelly was a finalist for the Hobey Baker Award (college hockey's equivalent to college football's Heisman Trophy).

Perhaps one of the most noted honors, though, was Donnelly's selection as Spartan Male Athlete of the Year along with Scott Skiles and Lorenzo White.

The trio of Spartans all had outstanding years and received all-American honors. Some considered it a cop out selecting all three instead of one.

"I'M GLAD they didn't pick one person," said Donnelly. "All of us had good seasons and all of us deserved the honor."

Personal awards aside, Donnelly is most proud of MSU's NCAA championship this season. Last season the Spartans fell in regional play to Providence College, despite entering the tournament as the No. 1 seed.

This season, MSU avenged that by beating Harvard in the NCAA finals in Providence, R.I. Donnelly scored the game-winning goal and was selected the tournament most valuable player.

Donnelly credits Ron Mason's program for his continual improvement.

"If you were willing to give a 100 percent, he'd go out of his way to work with you," he said.

Donnelly, judging by his previous credentials, had no problem with such agreements. He led the Detroit Junior A Hockey League with 48 goals and 64 assists for 112 points as a member of the Waterford Lakers.

AT FRANKLIN, he earned all-state honors.

The final proving ground, the NHL, awaits.

"I'm really going in there with an open mind," said Donnelly. "I just have to forget about the success I had in college and go out and win a job."

DAN DEAN/staff photographer

Mike Donnelly's future in the National Hockey League apparently rests in either Chicago or Detroit. The MSU standout and Livonia native is a free agent.

GOLF LINKS QUALIFIERS

Kathy Heriford of Farmington Hills is one of 15 golfers who will represent Michigan at the 1986 U.S. Women's Public Links Championship to be held Wednesday through Sunday, June 18-22, at Stevens Point, Wis.

Heriford qualified for the national meet by placing second at a recent qualifying tournament at the Faulkwood Shores Golf Club in Howell. Heriford shot an 80 to advance to the national tournament for the first time after five attempts.

Lynne Thompson of Farmington Hills was another area qualifier. She shot a 93 at the Hidden Valley Golf Club in Gaylord.

four years at Franklin, she lost only one high hurdles race to an area runner.

Missey Ward, Garden City, 300 hurdles: This senior, the only area runner to beat Dominato in the highs, was at her best in the 300 lows. Her 47.6 paced the area. She won individual honors in the Northwest Suburban League meet, at the Wayne Invitational and at the CMU Relays. She placed fifth in the regionals.

Diane Buckhalter, Wayne Memorial, 100 dash: This senior owns Zebra records in the 100, 200 and 400 dashes and in 400 and 800 relays. She won the Wolverine A 100 title and her 12.2 time ranks second in Observerland.

Terri Ford, Mercy, 200 dash: Her best time of 25.0 is both the area's fastest and a school record. At the state meet she was second in the 200 and third in the 100. She will attend the University of Detroit on a basketball scholarship.

Karen Opp, John Glenn, 400 dash: Her 59.5 ranks No. 2 in the 400 and her 2:15.1 is second-best in the 800. Opp has been one of the most, if not the most, dominant runners in Observerland the past four years. Opp placed third in the state in the 800 this year.

Joan Arndt, Ladywood, 800 run: Speaking of dominant performers...

Ladywood coach Bob Zimmerman described Arndt's prowess the best. "After being around track all my life, Joan is the only runner who makes my jaw drop in wonder whenever she is on the track." She was a Class B state champ in the 800 this year and has been a state finalist the last three years. She was also a regional and a Catholic League champ and owns the meet record in the 800 at the Spartan Relays. She is a junior.

Jenny Anderson, Farmington Harrison, 1,600 run: A junior, Anderson was a Class B regional champion in both the 1,600 and 3,200. She won the Western Lakes in the 1,600 and her 5:19.3 is easily the area's best. She owns four school records at Harrison.

Michele Economou, Livonia Stevenson, 3,200 run: If you drive down 6 Mile Road in the vicinity of Stevenson High School, chances are you'll see this senior out running. She runs virtually every day of the year. And her dedication paid off. Her 11:50.5 was second only to Anderson in this event, and she beat Anderson at the Western Lakes meet.

RELAYS

Mercy (Adanna Amanze, Adrienne Clark, Michelle Smith, Terri Ford), 400 meter: This quartet is a two-time Catholic League champion, two-time state qualifier and a two-time All-Area choice. Its 50.2 time was the area's fastest.

Garden City (Debbie Babb, Nikki Stubbs, Marcia McKenzie, Missey Ward), 800 meter: With a 1:47.7, this group led the area all season. It took firsts at Wayne, Observerland and the NSL. It was third in the regional and 12th at state.

Garden City (Debbie Babb, Anjanette Lankford, Nikki Stubbs, Marcia McKenzie), 1,600 meter: In a very competitive event in this area, this group earned the best time (4:03.4). It placed third at regionals and sixth at the state meet.

Livonia Stevenson (Sheila Taormina, Michele Economou, Amy Kasmarick, Suzanne Moore), 3,200 meter: This group placed first at both the Observerland and Western Lakes meets. It set conference and school records in the process. This team was third in the regionals and had the area's best time (9:45.5). Three of the four runners will be back next year.

Coach of the Year: Paul Holmberg placed only one individual on this year's All-Area team and one relay. Yet, his Livonia Stevenson Spartans won the Western Lakes, won the Observerland and were ranked No. 1 all season. Strength in numbers was the key to the Spartans' success. And the only way to have a deep team is to get people out on the track and keep them there. Holmberg makes running track an enjoyable experience at Stevenson and his athletes responded in kind.

Campbell serves ace

Redford Catholic sophomore Steve Campbell captured the No. 3 singles title at the state Class A boys tennis championships May 30-31 at the Midland Community Center.

A serve and volley specialist, Campbell defeated Chris Madison of East Lansing for the individual crown, 6-4, 6-1. He finished the year with an overall record of 33-1, tops on the CC team.

Campbell also helped Catholic Central garner its second straight Class A team title. He also captured regional and Catholic League titles at No. 3 singles this season.

tennis

CC lost only three matches this season — once to Catholic League champ Birmingham Brother Rice, once to state Class B champion Okemos and another to 'B' runner-up Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook.

Ex-All-Area hurler Wenson pens contract with Tigers

By Tom Henderson staff writer

The Detroit Tigers, whose pitching staff has been battered often this season, have convinced Paul Wenson of Farmington to give up his senior season of college ball at the University of Michigan and immediately join their rookie-league team in Bristol, Va.

Wenson, who was bypassed in the recent baseball draft of amateur players, convinced the Tigers Saturday night that he deserved to play for pay when he pitched four shutout innings in a Class A summer league in Pontiac. They, in turn, convinced him to accept their offer, which Wenson said included a big enough bonus to pay for his last year at U-M.

Wenson signed on Sunday, cleaned out his locker at U-M on Monday, left for Bristol on Tuesday and began a two-week training session on Wednesday. The league, comprised of free agents and players who were recently drafted either out of high school or after their junior or senior years of college, begins play following training camp.

Though the life of a rookie-league player means subsistence wages, bus rides, few fans, meager meal money — and the fact that 98 percent of them never make the big leagues — Wenson was ecstatic.

"It was something I never thought I'd get. It's a once-in-a-lifetime chance," Wenson said. "You play baseball all of your life for a chance like this and I wasn't going to pass it up."

THE SIGNING and the events preceding it were a family affair. The Tiger scout, Ken Madeja, sat with Wenson's father, Frederick, during the game. Not only was Paul pitching, but his older brother, Tony, who played two years in the New York Yankees' farm system, was catching. In fact, it was Tony's first organized baseball game in eight years.

After the game, Madeja approached Paul. "He asked me to think about signing with the Tigers and to contact him," said Wenson Monday after fetching his things from Ann Arbor. "I thought about it and contacted him."

Like, almost immediately. By the next night, Madeja was in the Wenson's parents' home and Wenson, a 1983 graduate of Farmington High and a former all-Observer baseball selection, was a Tiger.

"I'm in shock. It really hasn't hit me, yet. It's not something I ever expected to happen. I guess you can say I'm on cloud 9."

Wenson, 20, a 6-foot, 185-pound righthander whose strength is the movement on his fastball, was 4-0 with two saves and a 2.56 earned-run average for the Wolverines this year, who won the Big Ten title and made it to the first round of the NCAA playoffs before closing out the season at 47-12.

Despite his record and U-M's success, Wenson wasn't thrilled with his relief role.

WHEN ASKED if he had mixed feelings about leaving the Michigan baseball team, Wenson said tactfully: "I have no regrets at all. I wish I could have pitched more, but the opportunity didn't present itself."

Can World Cup ignite complacent U.S. fans?

There are good reasons for the sluggish tempo. International games are played on larger surfaces — 130 yards long, 80 yards wide — than in the U.S., where fields are roughly 120 x 65. Only one substitution is allowed per game, too, and when that player is substituted for he cannot return.

"If a star player gets hurt, a lot of teams will play shorthanded until he can return," Storch explained.

No team can afford to play a high-pressure, aggressive style for an entire game on such a large field without substituting players. That's why, as Storch said, "Until they get into the last 35 yards of the field, the (defensive team) will let them do whatever they want to do."

IT TAKES a great deal of patience, for player and fan alike. Teams mount endless attacks, searching and waiting for a defensive lapse, then pouncing.

Defenses have reigned thus far. There have been few games with more than two goals scored, total, by both teams.

Storch figures interest in the World Cup will zoom when the U.S. finally puts a team into the field of 24.

Concerts fill outdoor scene

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

Another summer concert season is upon us. Outdoor series with pop, rock, jazz, folk, country and comedy stars at Meadow Brook, Pine Knob, the Troy Hilton ("Summer Nights") and the Hotel Pontchartrain ("P'Jazz") are among traditional favorites.

Free outdoor concerts are presented each season at "New Center Swings" and "Wednesdays in the Park" in Detroit's New Center, and in other communities.

For its 23rd season, Meadow Brook Music Festival at Baldwin Pavilion on the Oakland University campus in Rochester Hills is offering the usual Friday and Saturday night series, with lots of big names. There will also be a nostalgic "Summer Solid Gold Series" and a separate "Star Series," with Mitzi Gaynor, Roger Whittaker, Pia Zadora (with Norm Crosby as the opener), and Lou Rawls and Maynard Ferguson.

MORE THAN 7,000 concertgoers may be seated in the pavilion and on the lawn.

Friday and Saturday concerts accent Liberace, Debbie Reynolds and Donald O'Connor, Engelbert Humperdinck, the Lettermen and Tom Paxton, Ferrante and Teicher, Jean-Pierre Rampal, Johnny Mathis (with Jeannine Burnier as the opener), a "Salute to Broadway" (Detroit Symphony Pops, Skitch Henderson, Margaret Whiting and Robert Carroll), a "Salute to the Big Bands" (Tex Beneke, Helen Forrest, Paula Kelly Jr. and the Modernaires), Peter, Paul and Mary, Tony Bennett and Rosemary Clooney, "The Golden Boys of Bandstand" (Frankie Avalon, Fabian and Bobby Rydell), "An Evening in Old Vienna," "Music from the Great Motion Pictures," Manhattan Transfer, Jack Wagner, and Lou Rawls and Maynard Ferguson.

The "Summer Solid Gold Series" will spotlight "Motor City Magic" (Mary Wilson, Junior Walker and the All Stars, the Marvelettes, Mary Wells and the Contours) in the first concert; "A Salute to the Great Male Singers" (Johnny Rivers, Del Shannon, Lou Christie and Freddie Cannon), in the second concert; Frankie Vallie and the Four Seasons and Three Dog Night, in the third concert, and Fats Domino and Jerry Lee Lewis, in the final concert.

Rock and pop stars are the main attractions in concerts presented by Brass Ring at Meadow Brook. Performers include Michael Franks and George Howard, Tangerine Dream, B.B. King and James Cotton, Spyro Gyra, Joan Baez and Don McLean and Livingstone Taylor, Emmylou Harris, Jean-Luc Ponty, David Sanborn, Manhattan Transfer, Jack Wagner, Petra and Kenny Loggins.

PINE KNOB Music Theatre in Clarkston, celebrating its 15th anniversary season, puts the beat on rock stars but also presents other music and comedy entertainment. Steppewolf and John Kay, and Montrose opened the season Saturday at the 16,000-seat outdoor theater. Alabama and the Bellamy Brothers, headlining Series Eight, appeared Sunday, as the first attraction on one of nine separate subscription series for the season.

New attractions and single tickets sales followed announcement of the subscription series, which is now sold out.

Upcoming Pine Knob concerts feature Eric Burdon, Dave Mason and Spencer Davis on Friday, Joe Jackson on Saturday and ZZ Top on Sunday. Lawn seats only are available for comedian Eddie Murphy's concert for mature audiences, on his "Pieces of My Mind Tour," Thursday, June 26, and for Neil Diamond, Tuesday-Friday, July 15-18.

Series opening next is Series Seven, with Jackson, on Saturday. The Beach Boys kick off both Series Four on Thursday, June 19, and Series Five on Friday, June 20. Other series are scheduled to begin in July, with Kool and the Gang opening Series Nine on Friday, July 4;

Sizzling star Mitzi Gaynor has got 'paprika'

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

SHE'S MITZI, she's glitzy and she's bringing her dazzling Las Vegas-style revue to Meadow Brook Theatre, to open the 23rd season at Baldwin Pavilion.

Glamorous singing and dancing star Mitzi Gaynor, who has sent many a male's temperature soaring with her sexy, high-energy production numbers in clubs and on television specials, is practical and straightforward about her professional career.

No prima donna, she telephoned this interviewer as prearranged, from her Beverly Hills home, introducing herself simply: "Hi, this is Mitzi."

The star of 10 TV variety specials, 1969-79, hasn't been performing on television for years, but she's going into production now with another show for the small-screen viewers.

GAYNOR DECLARED, in an even-toned voice, "They killed everybody in every possible way they can. They've been funny in every way they can. It's time we got back to singing and dancing."

Her career on the big screen, as a Hollywood movie star, ran from the '50s to the early '60s, and in that period Gaynor made nearly 20 movies, but she's not remembered as a really major screen personality.

She was Nellie Forbush, however, in the movie version of the Broadway musical hit, "South Pacific," a part that many an actress would have died for.

Asked what she thought of those years spent being a movie actress, Gaynor responded frankly, "I didn't like it at all. I don't think I was very good in movies."

"South Pacific" was my best work," she said.

"I came into the film business at a funny time," she continued, pointing out that men's roles dominated the movies then.

BUT SHE ADMITS her part in not being a strong presence onscreen. "I always felt like the camera was intruding on me. TV and live performance, I think that's the best thing I do."

While she once played the nightclub circuit, the only club she performs in now is in Atlantic City.

"I've done theaters for 10 years," she said. Among her theater dates are concerts at such outdoor venues as Meadow Brook.

"I've had many a fly go down the front of my dress," she began, and recited a list of typical minor disasters for a star performing out-of-doors, concluding with, "I've been rained on."

Appearing in the Detroit area is nothing new for Gaynor, although this is her first time at Meadow Brook. Just a few months ago she performed at the Premier Center in Sterling Heights.

IN THE TWO-hour show, she appears as everybody from Dr. Ruth to Carmen Miranda. She has 17 costume changes, and works with 10 male dancers.

The sizzling first half opens with Gaynor's version of the Pointer Sisters' "I'm So Excited" and closes with their "Neutron Dance." She also appears as a hobo and does a number, "Saturday Night in Toledo, Ohio, Is Like Being Nowhere at All."

Second half of the show is "like watching a 1940s musical." The spotlight falls on the Mellowaires, a "Gilda" number, three guys doing the Andrew Sisters, a boogie-woogie to "Sing Sing Sing," and a love song from that period. "We close with a great big tap dance," Gaynor said.

The sensational costumes Gaynor is known for, which show off her curvaceous figure, are done by designer Bob Mackie.

"He has been doing my costumes since 1966," she said. "I introduced him to Cher and Carol Burnett."

A onetime Detroit resident, Gaynor was born in Chicago and moved to the Motor City with her family when she was 3. They moved from Detroit when she was 11.

BOTH HER PARENTS were in the performing arts, her father as a conductor and cellist and her mother as a dancer.

"I've studied all my life," Gaynor said. She's still on a schedule of activity to keep her show-business career moving ahead.

Having the stamina to perform demands constant vigilance. It was 28 years ago that Gaynor starred in "South Pacific," but she's still obviously an entertainer in top form.

"You got to have the get up and go. I'm Hungarian (she was born Francesca Mitzi von Gerber) and I've got a lot of paprika on my tail," she said. Gaynor does aerobics and follows a weight training program. She knows you can't stay young forever but, "I don't want to find it all on the floor."

She also works with a coach every day, on her singing. "I'd rather stay in shape," she said.

This zippy artist works about 40 weeks out of the year and is booked for half of 1987. She will be performing this summer, Saturday-Sunday, July 5-6, at Expo '87 in Vancouver, B.C.

DURING HER Hollywood years, Gaynor made only four films that were not musicals. These include "The Joker Is Wild" with Frank Sinatra, "For Love or Money," "Happy Anniversary" with David Niven, and "We're Not Married" ("They used all the Fox stars. They all discovered

Mitzi Gaynor will change her costume 17 times and perform as everyone from Dr. Ruth to Carmen Miranda during her high-energy show opening the Meadow Brook Music Festival season.

they aren't married. I was married to Donald O'Connor."

Her dancing partners, in movie musicals, over the years have included Gene Kelly, O'Connor and Daley. "These are the three guys I danced with," she said, "with three of the best."

In real life, Gaynor is married to Jack Bean, who manages her career. One of the keys to their mutual success: "He thinks he's the boss."

Staying alive in the world of show business is pleasure for this star.

"The Producers" (1967), 1 Friday night on Ch. 50. Originally 88 minutes. TV time slot 106 minutes.

Mel Brooks hit his stride with this daffily comedy about two men who try to produce a Broadway flop as a scam and end up with a hit. Zero Mostel and a giddy, young Gene Wilder make a great comedy team and Dick Shawn is a hoot singing "Springtime for Hitler" and German. Prattfalls, verbal games and a sense of the absurd are all here with-out the free for all style that Brooks later used in "Blazing Saddles."

"Harvey" (1951), 9 p.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 104 minutes. TV time slot 120 minutes.
As a movie "Harvey" is a filmed play, but its wistful, gentle humor is in good hands with James Stewart giving a knock-out performance as Elwood P. Dowd, a sometimes drinker who sees a pooka in the shape of a rabbit. A fine supporting cast of comic veterans make this worth seeing. Stewart has since revived the play a couple of times to rousing success.

"Breaking Away" (1979), 1 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 50. Originally 100 minutes. TV time slot 120 minutes.

A surprise hit that offers an original perspective on growing up. The "cutters," working-class kids in Bloomington, Ind., are in competition with the preppy students at the state university. Writer Steve Tesich turned his own experiences into a film that offers insight into class differences, reaching adulthood and the pangs of first love. An annual bicycle race gives the film a visually stunning climax. Excellent performances throughout, including Dennis Christopher as a bicycle fanatic, Dennis Quaid as a jock whose days on the field are over, Daniel Stern as a young man who never pleases his father and Barbara Barrie and Paul Dooley as Christopher's understanding parents.

who talks about her "polka-dotted career."

"It's something that's fun for me. It's very hard work. You have to give up certain kinds of things, but the rewards are so wonderful."

One of the things Gaynor gave up was smoking, two years ago. "I always came down with colds, allergies and sinusitis in the spring. I decided to quit. I just quit one day. I feel all the better for it," she said.

AWAY FROM the bright lights of the theater, her hobby is cooking. "I'm a good cook," she acknowledges. Hungarian, Italian, French and Chinese dishes are in her repertoire.

How does she manage to keep a trim figure with all this cooking?

"The things that I cook are not breads or sweets," she said. "Last night I made orange roughly with a very light tomato sauce."

A number of Gaynor and Bean's friends are not entertainers, although one who is, is another Hungarian, Eva Gabor. Many of the stars aren't around for a lot of socializing. "Everybody works out of town," she said.

Outdoor concerts brighten summer

Neil Diamond, Series One, Two and Three, Tuesday-Thursday, July 15-17, and 38 Special, Series Six, Sunday, July 20.

COMBINING OUTDOOR concerts with food and cocktails are the summer series at two metropolitan-Detroit hotels. "Summer Nights" at the Troy Hilton's Outdoor Courtyard started its fifth season Friday with Hugh Borde's Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band.

Krosswinds and Domino are featured in the second concert of the Friday night series, which opens for the cocktail crowd at 5:30 p.m. The party with dancing continues until 12:30 a.m.

Calypso and '50s groups are the kinds of music favored, but the schedule also includes Top 40, rock and jazz. Hugh Borde's band has seven dates at Summer Nights, the Teen Angels come up five times, Coconut Groove plays twice. Appearing for single dates are Rumpelstiltskin and a new attraction on the series this year, Windsor flutist Alexander Zonjic.

Anywhere between 1,000 and 1,600 people attend each Summer Night.

P.Jazz, the outdoor concert series at Detroit's Hotel Pontchartrain, is celebrating its 15th anniversary. This year the series will be held Friday nights, with doors opening at 5 p.m. and the concert at 7, on the outdoor Terrace.

Brazilian jazz star Flora Purim will be the first attraction, and the season's final concert will be with Norma Jean Bell and the All Stars, Aug. 22. In between will be music by the Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band, Ramsey Lewis, the Yellow Jackets, Lionel Hampton, Paquito D'Rivera, Alexander Zonjic and another attraction to be announced.

FREE OUTDOOR concerts include the series "New Center Swings" from 5:30-8:30 p.m. Thursdays and "Wednesdays in the Park" from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Detroit's New Center Park.

The ubiquitous Alexander Zonjic opened "New Center Swings" along with Steve King and the Ditties, and the Sun Messengers, Thursday (June 5). Zonjic returns Thursday 19 and Aug. 7; Steve King, July 31; and the Sun Messengers, July 24 and Aug. 28. The J.C. Heard Orchestra, with Heard on the drums, will perform tonight (Thursday, June 12).

Other artists in the series are Orange Lake Drive, the Lunar Glee Club, trumpeter Maynard Ferguson and His Band (the one ticketed concert in the series; ticket information at 872-0188), Domino, the Urbations, Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band, and two final attractions to be announced for Sept. 4 and 11.

Wednesdays in the Park opened June 4 with Steve King and the Ditties.

briefly speaking

THE ROMANTIC coverup—the story of quilts—is the focus of several weekend events at the Detroit Historical Museum. Folklorist Dr. Gladys Marie Frye is scheduled to lecture Saturday during an event that will also give quilters and quilt owners the opportunity to register with the museum folk art division and learn more about their family heirlooms. The Saturday event is from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. On Sunday, a movie "Quilting Women" will be shown. There is no charge for either event and all ages are welcome. The two programs are part of a special exhibit, "The Thrifty Art: A Social History of Quilting," that continues through Aug. 18.

SPEAKING of quilting, the Ladies Guild of Lutheran High School North in Mt. Clemens is sponsoring the Fifth Great Lakes Biennial Quilt Contest and Exhibit to be held June 25-28. The event is open to the public. The award is $1,000 for best of show along with ribbon awards and honorable mention awards. Workshops will also be conducted and quilting supplies will be available. Admission is $5. Luncheon and snacks will be available. For further information, contact Marilyn Albrecht, 221 Lonesome Oak, Rochester 48064.

AWARD-winning artist John Sutton is scheduled to make an appearance at the Jacobson's store in Dearborn from 2-4:30 p.m. and again from 7 to 9 p.m. tomorrow. Sutton is recognized internationally as one of the best brushstroke artists in the world. He resides in Garden City.

VOLUNTEERS are needed to help preserve and restore Michigan's only national historic landmark open to the public, namely the Henry Ford Estate-Fair Lane. Anyone interested in gardening in the footsteps of the masters or sharing in the maintenance challenges of the 70-year-old house can get involved. For more information, call 593-5599.

AS A KICKOFF celebration of Michigan's sesquicentennial year, the Community House in Birmingham is hosting a theme art exhibition and sale Oct. 23-26 sponsored by Carson Business Interiors Inc. of Southfield. The theme of the exhibition is "Our Town." Michigan artists are invited to submit their interpretation of their hometown and its meaning to them. Prizes totaling $10,000 and other potential art opportunities will be awarded to the artists. Entries will be juried by 35mm slides. A maximum of four works may be submitted per artist. Slides are due July 31 along with entry forms. To receive an entry form, write to Director of Development, the Community House, 380 S. Bates, Birmingham 45009 or call 644-5832 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

PALETTE and Brush Club awarded scholarships to two Madonna College art students, Lauri Watson and Jennifer Rhein. For the past six years, the 100-year-old club has awarded a scholarship to an active art student. The club raises money through donations, annual silent auction of art supplies, and subscriptions to American Artists magazine.

DETROIT Dance Collective announces an "Evening of Dance," with guest artists at 8 p.m. Friday, June 20, at Oakland Community College in Royal Oak. (Washington and Lincoln, five blocks east of Woodward). Featured will be the original works by performer/choreographer Barbara Sellinger, co-director, Detroit Dance Collective, Alana Barter, dance faculty, Eastern Michigan University, and Linda Simmons and Anita Surma, Wayne State University dance faculty. The public will be introduced to the company's new studio performance space and is invited to a meet-the-artist afterglow immediately following the performance. Tickets are $6. Reservations may be made by calling 548-9664.

Maestro Carl Karapetian conducts with intensity and sensitivity.

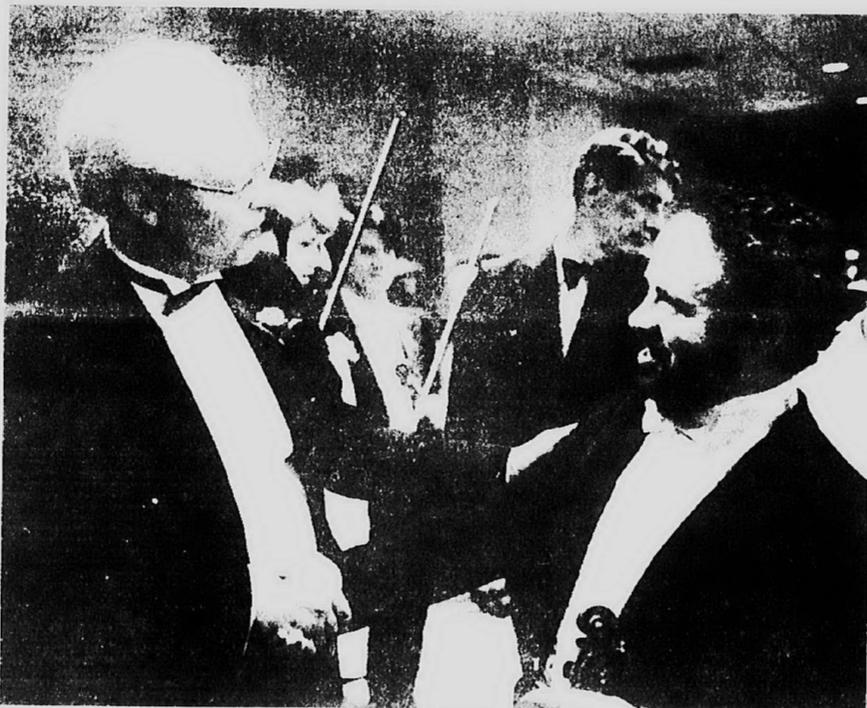

Bravo! for symphony debut

THE NEW Greater Michigan Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of the Arts Alliance Group's Carl Karapetian, got off to an auspicious start with its debut concert at the TAAAG concert hall.

At round tables enhanced with flowers and candles in the ballroom, guests sipped wine as the orchestra played during the first half of the concert.

review

FOR THOSE who like to spend their spare time attending musical events, there is no lack of opportunities. Among symphony orchestras, there are numerous community orchestras, besides the top-ranking Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Now, another musical entity has come into being. The Greater Michigan Orchestra is being inaugurated by TAAAG, which stands for The Arts Alliance Group.

"Given the number of existing orchestras, would another one satisfy a need that hasn't been met? That depends on the type and scope of the new orchestra. There is nothing new under the sun," said the Biblical preacher. This, however, doesn't preclude the old and familiar from being innovative.

The Greater Michigan Orchestra seems to have embodied the old and the new in an optimal combination. The old and familiar represents years of highly qualified professional experience. There are many Detroit Symphony Orchestra members on the list of participating musicians. The rest of the performers are also professional musicians.

THIS GROUP is under music director Carl Karapetian. It is strongly felt that there is a demand in the northwestern suburbs for such an orchestra and a sufficiently large audience could be attracted to justify such a new organization and the large financial outlay that such an undertaking inevitably implies.

The presence of the many enthusiastic sponsors that evening tended to bear this out.

Karapetian is a highly trained Detroit-born conductor. His studies took him to Vienna, where he worked with Herbert von Karajan. His latest position as music director was with the Greater Palm Beach Orchestra in Florida.

Karapetian is evidently a serious, highly qualified conductor, who should prove an asset to this highly professional organization. Another familiar face was that of Misha Rachlevsky, known to many for his extensive chamber music activities and in particular as the founder and director of Renaissance City Chamber Players.

On this occasion he was the soloist in Mozart's Violin Concerto No. 5 ("Turkish").

OTHER WORKS on the program were Weber's Overture to "Der Freischutz," Pavane by Faure, Four Slavonic Dances by Dvorak.

Strong positives connect in VAAL art group show

A mixed-media painting that combined "strong positive and negative space relationships" was awarded best of show at the Visual Arts Association of Livonia annual spring show.

Taking the top honor was "Fire-brand" by Judy Gresser.

In his comments, judge Donald Gheen Jr. noted that the painting excelled in cool color usage and in the imaginative layering of forms and inventive form and shapes.

An oil, titled "Red Glow" by Eleanore Nief, was chosen for a first-place in the oils category. Gheen's comments pointed out "strong compositional building of four simple warm and cool colors and soft and hard edge combinations." Nief also took a third place in graphics as well as an honorable mention.

"Jazzman" by Pat Cronyn was chosen for top honors in the watercolor category. The judge's critique noted that a "good subdued color, interpretative mood, subtle buildup of washes." She also won a third place in the same division as well as an honorable mention in oils.

WINNING TOP honors was a repeat performance for Livonia photo hobbyist Norbert Davert who took first place in the photography division with "Snow Wire Rolls." The photo, according to Gheen, contained "strong design in lost and found line of wire and snow" successfully captured with indirect lighting. Davert also took second place with a photo he called "Patio Chair."

Another familiar name in the winner's circle was that of Shirley Caesar, who took honors in the graphics category with "Value Study." "Good buildup, strong compositional considerations in use of foreground, middle and background planes," commented Gheen.

Other winners were: Yoriko Cronin, second place, oils; Jean Herr, second place, watercolors; Judy Gresser, second place, graphics; Diane Lee, third place, oils; Dean Wegener, third place, photography.

Audience's response is 'warm, enthusiastic'

Strauss' Emperor Waltz and segments from Smetana's music from "The Bartered Bride."

To be sure, the Hilton banquet hall wasn't designed with classical concerts in mind.

This was particularly noticeable in the Faure and the Mozart works, in which the sound of cool air rushing through the air conditioning ducts added a dimension to the harmony that didn't exist when the composers were alive.

But this didn't prove to be enough to halt the magic of the musical sounds.

The audience's response was extremely warm and enthusiastic. This was especially true with those selections most familiar to them and those that seemed to blend with the cabaret concert atmosphere — tables decked with wine and champagne. The "Champagne Polka" would have been a suitable encore choice, but it didn't come to pass.

While it would be extremely difficult to add yet another series to

'Karpelian is evidently a serious, highly qualified conductor who should prove an asset to this highly professional organization . . . it is comforting to know that the Greater Michigan Orchestra concerts won't clash with those of the DSO.'

an already heavy concert schedule, it is comforting to know that the Greater Michigan Orchestra concerts won't clash with those of the DSO.
