GRADES COMING: High school students may pick up their report cards between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday, June 30. Plymouth Canton High students may pick up their report cards in the Canton general office and Plymouth Salem High students in the Salem general office. Seniors can expect to find a book deposit refund check attached to their report cards if they do not have any unpaid debts.

VISITING THE LADY:

Chad Peterson, age 8 of Plymouth, has been invited by General Foods to the special July 4th celebration in New York City to visit the refurbished Statue of Liberty. Chad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Petersen of Plymouth Township, will be on a barge in the New York harbor — on the New Jersey side — to view the celebration. The barge will carry a stage which will feature country music entertainers. Chad has taken a special interest in the Statue of Liberty for the past two years.

STREET DANCING:

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce announces the beginning of its street dances for this summer. The first featured Tony Russo this past Friday in the central business district. Bands performing at the free dances from 7:30-9:30 p.m. Fridays through Aug. 29 include: Jim Joseph, June 27; Dan Vience, July 11; Eric Rossenaw, July 18; Frank Vience, July 25; Phil Graham, Aug. 1; Joe Dunlap, Aug. 8; Bob DuRant, Aug. 15; Ron Jackson, Aug. 22.

FULL WEEKEND: The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps, always in demand, was busier than usual last weekend. Friday, the colonial-garbed musicians were scheduled to perform at a reception associated with the Grand Prix in Detroit, Saturday at the Sugar Festival Parade in Sebewaing and Sunday at the Bay Rama Fish Fry in New Baltimore.

Now that's a lot of tooting and tapping.

Financing found for fireworks

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Yes. No. Maybe. And finally, yes. The Fourth of July fireworks in Township Park are definitely on.

The annual event, coordinated by the Plymouth Jaycees has been saved by 11th-hour contributions from several auto dealers and a brewery.

"We're going to have the best fireworks show we've ever had out here," said Charles Lowe Jr., coordinator of the display for the Jaycees. "The Plymouth-area car dealers get the headline. They have come through. They're backing the show."

Sunshine Honda, Don Massey Cadillac, Fox Hills Chrysler Plymouth and Dick Scott Dodge and Buick dealerships have committed, Lowe said.

Also, the Adolph Coors Co., which previously indicated it wouldn't participate, has changed its mind, he added.

"THEY CAME in at the last minute. It was a shock to us," Lowe said. "It wasn't in the budget for them. They came up with money at the last minute. It shows how interested they are in supporting the community."

The dealers will exhibit cars in the park in return for their sponsorship, Lowe said.

An expanded fireworks show featuring the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra was announced with much fanfare earlier this spring. Some minor glitches developed over liability insurance and the availability of the orchestra. Then major money problems surfaced.

Fireworks will fill the skies of Plymouth on July 4 after all.

A last-gasp fund-raising effort finally met success.

"I approached some car dealers a couple of months ago but the idea didn't sell," Lowe said. "But that was a business decision. When we reached the point where we didn't have a show anymore, they came to our rescue."

Other sponsors identified by Lowe are McDonalds, K mart and Plymouth Construction Co.

The symphony could have been left in a lurch — or at least with a difficult decision — if the fireworks had been cancelled.

THE ORCHESTRA agreed to perform July 4 in conjunction with the fireworks in lieu of a concert next April.

Leon Gregorian, the symphony's new conductor and music director, is to make his local debut at the Independence Day concert.

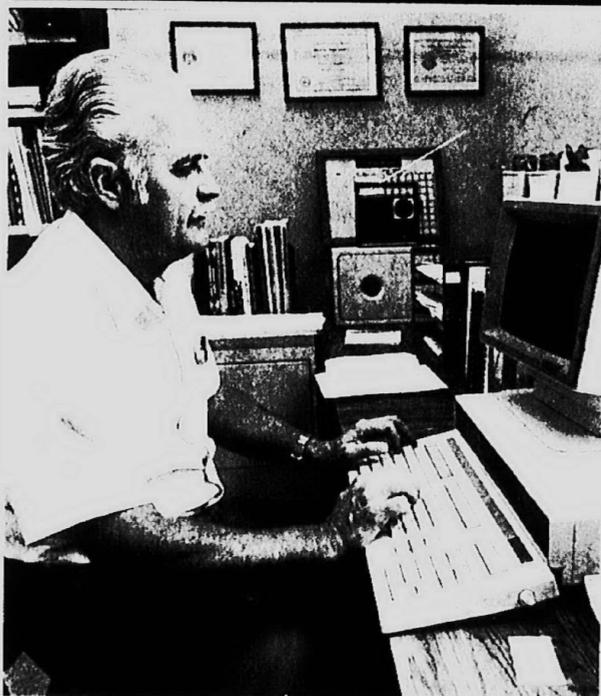

K.C. Mueller, immediate past president of the symphony, said she was hesitant to go ahead without the fireworks primarily due to concerns about the size of the crowd.

"I'm really grateful to the car dealers, I really am," Mueller said. "I really didn't want to go out there without the fireworks. Everything is in order as it should be. It's a community effort and I'm really pleased."

Mueller said Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, Plymouth Township, Air Tite Insulation, the Plymouth Community Arts Council and the Woman's Club of Plymouth have been instrumental in assisting the symphony prepare for the Fourth of July concert.

"Now, everything has fallen into place again," Lowe said. "This is a great opportunity. We have a live orchestra in a terrific setting. We're all set to go. It's going to be a terrific show."

"Now is the time for the Jaycees to go to work. We've got a lot of details to iron out in the last two weeks."

Plymouth police use a computer to keep track of contacts with trespassers and loiterers in the business district. Mike Richardson, administrative assistant, has all kinds of information available at his fingertips.

Youth control Police hope to curb loitering

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Plymouth's summer Main Street Program, designed to discourage young people from trespassing and loitering in the central business district, has succeeded so far based on at least one measurement, police say.

Between May 31 and June 19, officers issued written warnings to 105 young people for hanging out on private property after business hours. Only one has been ticketed as a repeat offender.

"The flaw is they might be going to businesses that aren't participating" in the program, said Police Chief Richard Myers.

The Main Street Program was started last year and fine-tuned this spring by the city attorney, city police and judges in the 35th District Court.

Businesses were required to post no trespassing and no loitering signs on the premises and agree to prosecute violators.

POLICE ISSUE warnings on first contacts and give violators a list of the more than 30 businesses that have agreed to crack down. Police also enter the names of first time violators into a computer for future reference.

District court judges have indicated they will sentence persons subsequently ticketed and found guilty to two days of community service work and fines totaling $90, the chief said.

Myers has no delusions that the Main Street Program has totally eradicated a problem. He suspects that 25-30 violators go free for every warning issued.

Only a few police officers are on duty at any given time, Myers said. They have other responsibilities.

From 3 p.m. Friday, June 13 through 7 a.m. Monday, June 16, police were dispatched on 65 runs and still managed to issue 25 trespassing warnings.

Cruisers, persons who drive up and down Main with no specific destination, compound the trespassing problem, Myers said. "We get 200-300 carloads per night. It's a lot when it's little, old Plymouth. They're leaning out windows, hooting and hollering, yelling out windows. It's boys and girls."

"They feed off each other. Trespassers go there to hang out and that's what brings the cruisers."

MYERS, sympathetic to both kids and other segments of the community, said he sometimes gets frustrated because officers are expected to wear many hats on the job.

"Why can't we find a place for them to gather without getting the police involved?" he said. "I'll tell you whose job everybody thinks it is to do that — the police department. Parents is where it's got to start."

"I have two answers. Number one, somebody ought to figure out something for these kids to do, somewhere to go without bothering anybody," Myers said.

"Number two, all of the adults who are fearful and intimidated, get together, walk downtown, get an ice cream and see that the kids are harmless."

Of the first 105 trespassing warnings issued by police, 34 went to Can-

State holds hearing here on home study

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

While an increasing number of parents are choosing to educate their children in the home rather than trust that task to the public schools, there are no state laws setting guidelines for home study.

A Michigan House of Representatives bill that would establish guidelines for home study was presented to about 150 interested parents and educators at a public hearing Friday at Plymouth Canton High School.

At the hearing, the first in a series to be presented this summer around the state, those supporting home study touted the benefits of teaching their children one on one, and of providing a Christian emphasis public schools do not provide.

But those against the house bill said it did not require a specified number of instruction hours or teacher certification, adding there are not sufficient checks on attendance and student progress in the proposed legislation.

BECAUSE THERE is no Michigan legislation governing home study, "There needs to be some degree of definition," said Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, a member of the Special Sub-Committee on Education, which presented the public hearing.

In its present form, the house bill allows a parent or guardian to teach children in a home study program if certain requirements are met. Under those guidelines, a parent can employ a tutor "who possesses a college degree or equivalent life experience." The program must provide at least 180 days of pupil instruction; pupils must take a standardized test during fourth, seventh and 10th grades; and yearly written progress reports must be made.

And while those seeking to operate such a program must notify the local school superintendent, reports or test results do not have to be submitted to the district for approval.

Speaking on behalf of the Michigan Public Association of School Administrators, Plymouth-Canton Superintendent of Schools John M. Hoben said that while he did not oppose the concept of home school, he objected to the lack of controls: "I feel there is a great deal of educational quackery going on."

Hoben said that of nine home study programs in this school district, seven are "not legitimate," claiming "there is a tendency to eliminate rules and regulations."

Julie Kuhar of Canton, a former Catholic school teacher who is teaching her children at home, said home study "cannot be an option only for those who can afford to hire a tutor or have certification."

Responding to comments from those opposed to home study on grounds that sufficient educational materials are not provided, Kuhar said "the diversity of learning modes is enormous" — libraries, museums and readily available written materials.

SEVERAL PROPONENTS of home study cited the Bible in making their case.

Eugene Newman, vice president of Christ United to Reclaim Education, quoted a biblical proverb: "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge."

By definition, he said, proper Christians are "opposed to an atheistic and secular perspective."

Arthur Allen of Temperance, who with his wife teaches their three children at home, told the legislators: "We take seriously that the Lord commands us to teach as parents. . . . Who has the opportunity to teach with that love at all times of the day?"

Allen said some noted past American leaders were taught at home, adding, "We don't want our children acting like part of the herd."

Pat Montgomery of Ann Arbor, who holds a doctor's degree and oversees several home study programs, said many of her students have gone on to college.

"There seems to be a pervasive el-itism on the part of educators . . . toward parents' abilities to teach their own children." Parents, Montgomery claimed, are perceived by educators as "stupid people only able to bring cookies to PTA meetings and vote yes on a millage."

In opposition to the bill, Edith Gonzales, president of the Michigan Association of School Boards, asked, "What standards, if any, would be observed?"

While public schools tolerate different pupil backgrounds and religions, Gonzales claimed home study can foster "narrow, provincial attitudes in these children."

Nancy White of Plymouth, president of the League of Women Voters of Michigan, said the organization opposed the bill, adding the league supports teacher certification.

Rep. Lynn Owen, D-Maybee, committee chairman, said that following public hearings, the bill would be studied for possible revision and could be acted on later this year.

House rejects change in school days

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Teachers' unions flexed their political muscle as the state House of Representatives beat down plans to require 180 days of classroom time a year.

The issue was whether to eliminate four specifically allowed snow days from the $558 million school aid bill.

State aid is based on 180 days, but schools are not penalized for days lost due to boiler breakdowns, "snow days," teacher training and part-day parent-teacher conferences.

"The school year has been reduced 20 days in 20 years — from 192 days when I was on the local school board to 172," charged Rep. William Keith,

D-Garden City, author of one of the defeated amendments.

"Our youngsters have to compete (when they graduate) on a global level with those in foreign countries who have had 220 to 240 school days a year."

SCHOOL BOARD lobbyist Gerald Dunn, whose clients are 10 suburban districts, said the Michigan Education Association and American Federation of Teachers "made four snow days their number one priority."

Dunn represents Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth-Canton, Redford Union and Wayne-Westland. He had favored the amendment.

"They're calling in their chips," Dunn said of the unions. "They want to demonstrate to their membership they do have certain powers."

Keith agreed after the vote. "The teachers did a helluva job," he said. "Too bad nobody was lobbying for the kids."

THE HOUSE spent more than an hour last week rejecting the 180-day amendments, branded "hogwash" by Rep. Robert DeMars, D-Lincoln Park.

That was all the rebuttal anyone offered to Keith and Rep. James O'Neill, D-Saginaw, author of similar amendments.

The Keith amendment failed 39-66 with five absent. Those voting yes wanted to require 180 classroom days. Those voting no favored specifically allowing four snow days. The local vote:

Yes — Democrats Keith, John Bennett of Redford and James Koteva of Canton; and Republicans Wilbur Brotherton of Farmington, Gregory Gruse of Madison Heights, David Honigman of West Bloomfield, Gerald Law of Plymouth, Judith Miller of Birmingham and Gordon Sparks of Troy.

No — Democrats Justine Barnes of Westland and Maxine Berman of Southfield; and Republicans Lyn Bankes of Livonia and Mat Dunaskiss of Lake Orion.

The House version is different from the Senate bill and will be sent to a joint conference committee for compromise. Final passage is due this week.

KEITH TRACED how the school year was whittled from 192 days in the 1960s.

"We found it was 187 days, then 184 days. Rep. E.D. O'Brien feared it was being bargained away (in union negotiations) so he put in an amendment to make it 180 days.

"Someone in the Department of Education decided it wasn't necessary to make up snow days. Then we found the average was 172 days. Now it's time to reverse that trend."

Keith said an education commission on which he served recently recommended after 18 months work that the school year be 200 days. But the state Department of Education advised the panel that every day's extension would cost the state $36 million, so Keith settled for starting with a demand for 180 classroom days.

He said the loss of 20 days from the school year meant "kids lose 1 1/2 years of class in their 12-year experience."

NO ONE defended the union point of view during debate, but O'Neill of Saginaw said union leaders made those arguments, which he deplored:

- "The anticipation of snow days is a morale booster."

- "Snow days are not days of rest and rehabilitation but shoveling days."

- Requiring snow days to be made up would mean Saturday sessions that would cause "stress" among teachers.

Smaller class sizes key to school budget

By Emory Daniels
staff writer

Smaller class sizes probably is the highlight of the proposed operating budget of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools for 1986-87.

The $50-million-plus document is expected to be approved tonight by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education when it meets in regular session at 7:30 at board offices, 454 S. Harvey.

Class sizes were an issue in the last round of contract talks with the teachers union, and also were a key to this month's $13 million bond issue, which included a new elementary and classroom additions aimed at reducing class sizes districtwide.

The budget proposes certified staff ratios as follows: elementary, 23.0; middle school, 22.0; and high school, 21.0. During the school year just ended (the ratios were 23.5 for elementary, 22 middle school, and 21.5 high school.

Because of the attempt to lower the ratio, plus a project enrollment increase, the proposed budget will add 1 1/2 certified positions plus another seven "contingency" certified staff positions.

IN A NUTSHELL, the proposed budget includes income of $52.6 million, an increase of 4.7 per cent or almost $2.4 million. Expenses are expected to increase by 7.7 percent or $3.8 million for a total of almost $53.5 million.

The difference between income and expenses, if it holds, will result in the ending fund balance dropping from $3.7 million to about $2.9 million.

However, the operating budget will be adjusted sometime in February to take into account changes because of the passage of the bond issue. These changes could amount to $1 million so the adjusted budget could end up $200,000 in the black.

Items now in the operating budget which will be removed, once the bond sale is formally sanctioned by the state, include: capital outlay, $400,000; bus purchase, $400,000; Allen roof, $155,000; instructional computers, $17,850; library references, $26,000; and flooring, $71,150.

Of the $52 million in expenses, $36 million is for salaries, $5 million for fringe benefits, almost $3 million for energy costs, and $1 million in major maintenance. Most of the income, $39 million, will come from local property taxes.

SOME OF THE highlights of the proposed budget are:

- The tax base is expected to exceed $1 billion ($1,055,945,036), which is an increase of some $51 million or five percent.

- The Fourth Friday enrollment count is expected to increase by 100 pupils to 15,820.

- Utility costs may increase by 7 percent.

- This year it will not be necessary for the school district to borrow to meet operating expenses. The current school year was the first time in 34 years that the district did not have to borrow to meet its cash-flow needs. "This is due, almost totally, to the collection of one-half of our taxes in the summer," explains Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business.

- The budget includes $801,000 for buses — $401,000 for the final payment on 26 large-capacity buses and eight special education vans; $400,000 to buy eight additional buses and four special education vans.

- Some $325,000 is budgeted for textbook purchases, an increase of 40 percent or $92,000.

- Some $70,000 is budgeted to provide half-time curriculum coordinators for math, science, social studies, and language arts.

- Liability insurance is expected to increase by $12,000 or 83 percent.

FBI investigates racial link to arson

By Diane Gale
staff writer

The FBI is investigating whether a deliberately set fire in an apartment hallway at Honeytree Apartments in Canton was racially motivated.

The tenants are a black family, Clyde and Regina Edmonds, both 31, and daughter, Mondicia, 5.

Edmonds told police her car tires have been slashed twice in the two months they have lived in the complex. On occasion they have also heard banging on the windows "in the middle of the night."

The arson occurred June 8 in Building 25 on Honeycomb Circle. No one was seriously injured.

"I got a message from Honeytree management that someone contacted them and said if we moved back in there would be trouble," Regina Edmonds said. "I'm the only one of this color over there and there's just no other reason. Someone is constantly picking on us for no reason."

CANTON POLICE DETECTIVE Ernie Sayre said: "She said it was racially motivated, and I believe it was racially motivated."

He declined to comment about Canton's investigation and suspects.

Before Edmonds moved to Building 25 she lived at Honeytree Apartments in Building 33 from 1984 through 1985. She said she had no problems during that time.

"I just felt they didn't want me there," she said about living in Building 25. "It's a lot of little things... You just get a feeling that things just aren't right. You say, 'Hello,' and no one says, 'Hello,' so you just mind your own business. I pretty much stay to myself anyway."

Both Canton police and FBI agents said they did not believe an organized group, like the Ku Klux Klan, was involved.

It is unknown whether the door or the carpeting outside the apartment unit was set on fire. Due to the excessive smoke many tenants were evacuated at 4:30 a.m.

Edmonds said she and her daughter were asleep in the apartment. She awakened her daughter to go to the bathroom about 3:30 a.m. and heard a scratching at the door.

"But eventually I found out it was a crackling noise because it was on fire," Edmonds said. "When I looked around the window I saw the fire. I got my daughter out, and then I ran back in to try to find her something to wear. All we were wearing were our pajamas. Then I ran back in and tried to put it out with a fire extinguisher."

Sayre turned the case over to the FBI for an investigation of whether Edmonds' civil rights were violated. If the FBI decides it was racial, it motivated the case will be turned over to the Department of Justice, according to John Anthony, FBI special agent. He also declined to comment on possible suspects.

The justice department will verify whether a violation exists and if a suspect will be charged, Anthony said. The FBI preliminary investigation is expected to be complete within 20 days.

 ton residents, 27 to Plymouth Township youths, 13 to persons who live in Livonia and nine to city residents. More than half were issued at Farmer Jack, 7-Eleven and Cobbler Shoes. Those figures were provided by Mike Richardson, administrative assistant in the police department.

MOST YOUNG people who come into town don't want to get into hassles with anyone, Myers believes. However, thoughtlessness can arise in the form of loud radios, squealing tires and littering. "It's escalating," he said. More police writing more tickets may take care of cruisers who get out of hand, Myers suggests. He also suggests tolerance and consideration for others. "Squids (punks) tell us the reason they go down to Penniman is they want to get noticed," the chief said. "It's easier to sit on a corner and get noticed than just about anything, I guess. "Peoples' expectations and what reality is are far different. They expect we can put a lid on it. We can reduce it. We're not going to eliminate it. "None of this should let people get paranoid about Plymouth and stay away," Myers said. "People haven't been mugged, beat up. Vandalism has been minimal. Instead of staying away, everybody just go downtown."

AN IDEAer: Barbara M Church, science coordinator of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, has been accepted to a 1986 Institute for Development of Educational Activities (IDEA). The program, entitled "Science for all students," is co-sponsored by the National Science Teachers Association. The institute will be held June 24-26 at Smugglers' Notch, Vermont.

Each year IDEA selects outstanding educators to participate in one or more programs to expose them to the latest ideas relevant to elementary and secondary schools. At the Smugglers' North Institute, participants will come from more than 30 states. The emphasis of discussions will be on science programs for students who will not be entering science as a vocation.

SILLER SUPERIOR: Manfred N. Siller of Plymouth, a compliance officer with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food Safety and Inspection Service, has received the department's superior service award at an awards ceremony in Washington, D.C.

He received the award for outstanding performance in taking action against a chronic problem plant. Siller was part of a team which shut down an Ohio meat firm which repeatedly and clandestinely attempted to circumvent inspection requirements. The case required extensive documentation of complicated legal evidence in a highly charged atmosphere, reported Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng. Born in Sartscha, Yugoslavia, Siller had been with Food Safety and Inspection Service for 16 years. He attended Kishwaukee and Black Hawk East Colleges in Illinois and Goddard College in Vermont.

SMOKE ATTACK: Last week the attack on smoking in public mounted. While the state House passed a bill banning smoking in public buildings, except in designated areas, late Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, (whose district includes Canton and Plymouth) has introduced Senate Bill 792, which prohibits smoking on school property except for instructional use and would set fines between $25 and $100 for each offense.

"I've introduced this bill several times in the past but it has not had much success," said Geake. "But with the recent passage of SB 196 banning smoking in public work places, and passage of legislation setting aside a certain number of tables for non-smokers in restaurants, there is movement toward more equitable rights for non-smokers." Geake said he introduced similar measures in 1981 and 1983 with the support of the Department of Public Health. Noting students are at an impressionable age, Geake added: "If they don't see their instructors, school administrators — and, most importantly, their peers — smoking, they may avoid smoking for life."

County names citizens group for parks study

By Teri Ban
staff writer

The Wayne County park system will be the subject of a special citizens' task force to determine how it should be maintained and funded in the future.

County officials plan to announce the starting date of the special probe, delayed for almost two months now, sometime this week.

No one is leaving out the possibility that a request for earmarked millage could be coming up and an examination of that will be one of the charges before the now 19-member body. Some say a ballot issue could be prepared for next November's general ballot if that aspect of the study gains political acceptance in this election year.

"It's become increasingly more difficult to get money out of the general fund (for parks funding)," said county commissioner Curt Boller, D-Brownstown, the task force's commission proponent. "I personally think that the system won't be funded another year and it's a matter of survival because of reductions in revenues."

AS A NON-MANDATED government service, parks funding has been the topic of numerous budget battles, particularly between Detroit commissioners and representatives of out-county areas, where the bulk of the system's services are located. Among the system's seven parks, the county operates a golf course in Dearborn Heights and a boat marina in Trenton.

As of late last week, 17 members had been selected from across the county, though primarily from western Wayne and downriver areas, with Northville Township supervisor Susan Heintz the likely candidate to chair the board. Heintz, a Republican candidate for county commission from the Livonia-Plymouth-Northville communities, is the choice of Wayne County Executive William Lucas, another Republican party member.

Besides a millage hike, Boller said the task force will be asked to look at a wide-range of options, and draft suggestions for the "total operation" of the parks. Possibilities range from increasing user fees including new fees at the golf course to an arrangement with the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Parks Authority.

Michael Legg appointee

Susan Heintz appointee

The task force members will not receive any direct reimbursement for their work.

THE TASK FORCE has had strong backing from county parks director Eric Reickel who argued a year ago that developing a parks program and even simple maintenance would become increasingly difficult without dedicated funding.

Currently, the park system receives $2.5 million from the county's general fund. But funding battles between out-county commissioners and Detroit representatives for park support have become routine and are certain to heighten as revenue reductions are made. Earlier this year Detroit commissioners attempted to remove $500,000 from the park system, though eventually the money was restored. Already this year, Lucas has declared a hiring freeze to curb costs in light of anticipated budget shortfalls and last week made plans for nearly $3 million in select departments.

COMMISSION appointments to the task force include: Ronald Reinke, Livonia parks director; Robert Beeny of Wayne; Ralph Tack, assistant to the mayor in Westland; Gloria Schermesser, an aide to downriver commissioner William Suzore; William Kreger Sr., former chairman of the Huron-Clinton Parks Authority; Tom Hill of Trenton; and Leonard T. Halas.

Alternates include: Ted Anders; Harold Popp Sr., manager of the Wyandotte Ice Rink; Tom Anderson, former state representative and chairman of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources; William Davis, a Trenton banker and active in maintaining Elizabeth Park there.

Lucas' appointments, still incomplete by late last week, include:

trict GOP chairman; Hines Proctor, chairman of American Sun Corp. in the downriver area; Alan Swormsted, a partner with the Detroit accounting firm of Deloitte Haskins & Sells; Nancy White, a representative of the League of Women Voters; and Boller.

The group will work closely with research staff from the executive's office and also Reickel's office in forming a recommendation to Lucas and the commission.

ORIGINALLY planned to begin last April 15, the task force was delayed when disagreements arose between Lucas' office and commissioners over appointments to it. Last March the commission drafted an ordinance that called for 15 members with each side appointing seven and Lucas naming the chairman.

But the numbers were forced up when commissioners named nine members, causing Lucas' administrative aide Ron Chapman to demand his office get an equal share of appointments plus naming the chairman. The task force size now stands at 19.

Boller had charged that Lucas' appointments were politically motivated, particularly because of candidate Heintz' inclusion, and Lucas' selection of a GOP party boss as another member. In contrast, he said, the commissioners had selected "highly interested, not politically motivated people."

Chapman countered that Heintz, for instance, has a "very strong interest and involvement in Edward Hines Drive and the whole area" besides politics. Lucas had also named as one of his appointments Boller himself, as proof of his good will, said Chapman.

Boller said he was undecided on whether he would serve on it. Facing a re-election campaign at this time, he maintained it would be best to keep the task force as apolitical as possible.

Abortion issue not over yet

By Tim Richard
staff writer

State legislators probably aren't finished battling over the Medicaid abortion issue, even though both houses voted emphatically to prohibit them.

Gov. James J. Blanchard this week is likely to use a gubernatorial veto for the 14th time to strike down such a rule.

"The debate has been over tactical procedures," Senate Majority Leader John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant, said matter-of-factly as the upper chamber added its 25-12 stamp of approval to the social services budget with anti-abortion language.

IF BLANCHARD vetoes the entire $1.9 billion measure because it lacks the $6 million abortion item, lawmakers have these options:

- They can repass the measure minus the section under which 18,500 low-income women get Medicaid-funded abortions annually.

- They can try for a two-thirds majority to override the veto. That will be easy in the 38-member Senate, where there are as many as 30 anti-abortion votes. But the 110-member House this session has fallen in two votes shy of the 74 votes needed to override.

- They can follow the advice of House Speaker Gary Owen, D-Ypsilanti, and pass a "continuation" budget (with abortion money in it). They can let the gubernatorial candidates debate it until Nov. 4 and afterwards pass the version requested by the winner.

SUBURBAN SENATORS last week showed they were overwhelmingly against Medicaid-funded abortions.

The test vote came when the Senate rejected, 12 in favor and 20 against, a move to strike the so-called "Dillingham amendment" language out of the budget bill.

Opposed — and thus opposed to Medicaid abortions — were Doug Cruce, R-Troy, Richard Feasler, R-West Bloomfield, Robert Geake, R-Northville, Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, and Patrick McCollough, D-Dearborn.

Absent was William Faust, D-Westland.

ABORTION MONEY wasn't the only loser in the Senate's debate over tactics.

Geake, who heads the social services appropriations subcommittee, saw his major effort shot down. He had prepared a social services budget with "Dillingham" anti-abortion language in it, but with a half-dozen major changes compared to the House budget.

Debra Winger and Robert Redford play attorneys who work together to try to help clear her client in "Legal Eagles."

the movies
Dan Greenberg

'Legal Eagles' are quite a pair

The style and charm with which Debra Winger and Robert Redford perform as "Legal Eagles" (PG) far outweighs occasional plot discrepancies in this romantic comedy-thriller.

In the high fashion of Tracy and Hepburn or Cary Grant and Grace Kelly, Winger and Redford team up as an unlikely couple with a major romantic and legal problem: Chelsea Deardon (Daryl Hannah).

A third problem is Hannah's acting, which consists of pouts interspersed with sullen, deadpan expressions framed by her long, straight blonde hair. Apparently this passes for sexy performance in some quarters but I find it annoying. Good acting involves a great deal more than appearances.

Hannah's pouting, however, does work well in her role as Chelsea Deardon, daughter of noted artist Sebastian Deardon (James Hurdle), who young Chelsea (Mary Alison Griffin) had seen die during a fire at her 8th birthday party in 1969. As a child of such trauma, Chelsea is entitled to her sullen, withdrawn visage, quite fitting of Hannah's "acting" ability.

AFTER THE FIRE, we move quickly to the present where Chelsea, now a noted performance artist, has been arrested for trying to steal the painting her father had given her as a birthday present.

Its present owner, Forrester (John McMartin), it turns out, is a partner of art gallery owner Victor Taft (Terrence Stamp) and Joe Brock in defrauding Sebastian Deardon. Brock was jailed for tax evasion when his partners turned on him, and he died shortly after serving his sentence.

Chelsea's attorney, Laura Kelly (Winger), approaches Assistant District Attorney Tom Logan (Robert Redford) with the presumption that there's more to the case than attempted theft of a painting. Kelly becomes romantically attracted to Logan while convincing him to help.

Kelly and Logan had faced off in court earlier as the handsome assistant D.A., currently in line as the next D.A., defended the public interest against Kelly's imaginative and unorthodox defense of various social malefactors.

While Logan is generally suspicious of Kelly's tactics, in the Chelsea Deardon case those tactics get his attention, and he begins a joint, but unofficial, cooperation in Chelsea's defense. That defense is strengthened when Detective Kavanaugh (Brian Dennehy) brings Kelly an insurance file on the Deardon paintings for which $2.5 million was paid after the fire.

ALL THIS IS quite involved — and there's much more — but its resolution is the adventuresome backdrop for the Winger-Redford romance. That romance and their slick repartee is the stylish centerpiece of "Legal Eagles."

Winger and Redford work well together. Redford's debonair manner and bright, blonde handsomeness are set off by Winger's somber dress, which subdues her physical appeal in favor of an efficient, legal exterior. But sobriety is only apparent in her clothing, and her outrageous courtroom tactics counterpoint Redford's more conventional legal demeanor. She, in turn, is physically graceful while Redford is rather klutzy.

The dialogue is swift and suave but the greatest attraction is Winger and Redford's delivery. Their acting, and interacting, set against a Manhattan backdrop, are "Legal Eagles' greatest asset.

One element of that Manhattan setting, Victor Taft's Art Gallery, bears special mention. While the exteriors were shot on 57th Street in New York, the interiors were done at Universal Studios with more than $12 million of art work lent by private collectors, museums and numerous New York galleries.

Although Hollywood has long been noted for its maniacal pursuit of surface realism, one has to ask what purpose is served by such authenticity. Is there one person in a million who can distinguish between a filmed original and a filmed reproduction?

ASSOCIATE PRODUCER/Art Consultant Arnold Glimcher, who is also director of the Pace Gallery, felt otherwise: "We went to a lot of trouble to have originals in the film because the difference between the impact and the power of real art and that of reproductions is the difference between a real event and a fictional event."

Which doesn't make a lot of sense — because the film is a fictional event whose appeal is how it looks and what it says, rather than whether or not it is true. The status game, what's really involved, is flawed, and they wasted a lot of money, which could have been better spent — polishing the script, for example.

Several highly improbable situations ought to have been made more plausible. It is highly unlikely that Logan, portrayed by Redford as pleasantly clumsy, could have cranked up a forklift and driven it through a metal door in under five seconds, nor it is reasonable to assume that the multi-million-dollar Taft Galleries were such a tinderbox that they became a roaring inferno in seconds. No sprinkler system? No alarms? Please...

The viewers' patience is tried by such discrepancies, particularly in face of extraordinary efforts to photograph authentic paintings. However, in spite of such incredible events, "Legal Eagles" is an entertaining two hours filled with a lot of Winger-Redford style and grace.

Mitzi Gaynor's show dazzles

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

Mitzi Gaynor opened the Meadow Brook Music Festival on Wednesday night, with an electric performance of musical numbers featuring sensational costumes by Bob Mackie, and nine guys for backup.

The weather cooperated beautifully for the outdoor setting at Baldwin Pavilion on the Oakland University campus in Rochester Hills. Gaynor was a sizzling, eye-filling star from her first number with the guys — she in a spangled red and gold costume, singing "I'm So Excited" — through to the last of the many high-voltage numbers, with the guys in zoot suits and Gaynor dancing to "Sing, Sing, Sing."

For most of the show Gaynor was moving fast, her curvaceous figure accented by the dresses, many slit up to the top of her shapely legs. Choreography was lively and the costume changes frequent.

Besides the song-and-dance numbers, Gaynor did a couple of skits.

For the first one, early in the show, she talked about what it was like being a Beverly Hills matron. This was only so-so, but the skit she did later in the show, as Dr. Ruth, was hilarious. She imitated the sex therapist's walk, accent and giggle. She read and gave zany answers to listeners' typical questions about their sex lives.

GAYNOR ALSO told the audience a little about herself. "One year and six days ago, I quit smoking!" she shouted out. She said, "I've been married 31 years and I'm still a Virgin." She called Detroit "De-twa," with the accent on the latter syllable, and said, "I went to grammar school here."

The first half of the show included a big production number based on hometowns. Guys in the chorus were dressed like conductors, and some of the stops everybody made were to the tunes of "Chicago," "Nashville" and "Everything's Up to Date in Kansas City."

Dressed as a hobo, she did, "Back

review

in Your Own Backyard" and "Saturday Night in Toledo, Ohio, Is Like Being Nowhere at All."

In another number, "One Step," Gaynor was in a short red sequined dress and the guys in red tuxes. For "The Heat Is On," she wore a glittering white dress and the chorus included three guys on stilts singing "Dancing with a Big Boy."

The second half of the program was dedicated to "The King of Swing, Benny Goodman." She wiggled when she walked, dressed in a '40s purple dress with peplum, as "Mellow Mitzi Marlowe" singing a medley of tunes from that era, with the "Mellowaires." The number ended with a swinging rendition of "Mr. Five by Five."

She wore a strapless gown and long white gloves to do "Blues in the Night," and then three guys nearly stole the show, getting thunderous applause, after they did a rhythmic medley of tunes, dressed as the Andrews Sisters.

A brief bit followed as Carmen Miranda, with Gaynor in towering headdress, singing "Chick-a-Boom Chick," and then doing some comic aspects whisking off her hat and trudging off the stage.

She stood still for a while only when she did a medley of songs as a nightclub singer accompanied by a pianist. In a black and white gown, she sang, "I Thought About You," "The Very Thought of You," "I'm Beginning to See the Light," "Everything Happens to Me" and "For All We Know."

Her closing number was in a long white gown with winged sleeves ("I look like Imelda Marcos"), singing "I Can't Smile Without You."

Sunday brunch atmosphere is relaxed

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

If you like Sunday brunch to be unhurried and unhassled, the newly revived offering at the Hotel Pontchartrain's Top of the Pontch may be what you seek.

The just-renovated restaurant is the attractive setting for a brunch that features not only some 30 dishes on the menu but one of Detroit's most spectacular skyline views, along with the cool strains of Larry Nozero's jazz.

Cornell Mohoreanu, new food and beverage director at the Pontch, re-established the Sunday brunch because he believes the room and view deserve to be admired. The soft, pink-toned decor, with touches of blue, provides a pleasant backdrop for relaxing.

Saxophone star Nozero, who is from Farmington, is on the bandstand during the hours of 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. (brunch runs until 4). The performers are called Larry Nozero and Friends because the musicians accompanying him are a changing group of jazz artists.

table talk

MOHOREANU SAID the Top of the Pontch seats 120 diners at once and will accommodate up to 400-450 brunchgoers during the entire day. But the director doesn't want the room to get overcrowded; the serene atmosphere is part of the ambience.

Brunch specials change weekly, which is one way of encouraging diners to return regularly. "This week everyone is raving about the pate. Last week it was the shrimp," Mohoreanu said. Hot dishes may include prime rib one week, roast beef another.

On the cold buffet, one recent week, were stuffed pears and peaches, herring in sour cream, marinated mushrooms, and pasta and bay shrimp salad, to name just a few.

Gleaming copper chafing dishes held such hot-buffet specialties as eggs benedict, smoked tarragon chicken, cheese blintzes with blueberry sauce, broiled fish with creole sauce, broccoli polonaise and little parsley-boiled redskin potatoes.

Deserts included traditional favorites: cheesecake, apple pie, cherry pie, fresh strawberries and romanoff sauce, and chocolate and vanilla mousse.

EVERYTHING TRIED on the brunch was very tasty. In addition to the good food, mention must be made of the impeccable service by the waiters (in this instance Leon) that is a consistent pleasure at the Top of the Pontch.

Rumanian-born Mohoreanu, who arrived at the hotel six weeks ago from Washington's Ritz-Carlton, also hopes to bring back evening dining to the Top of the Pontch.

The brunch with jazz is $14.95 for adults (including a complimentary glass of champagne), half-price for children under 8. Three hours of free valet parking is available, too.

For reservations call 965-0200, Ext. 3767 or 3768.

Eddie talked himself out of Pulitzer Prize

(Part 2)

When Eddie Edgar joined the Free Press as sportswriter in 1924, he had trouble getting his first story past sports editor Harry Bullion. After Bullion had blue-penciled the article several times, Eddie asked him what was wrong.

"We don't allow colloquialisms at the Free Press," Bullion told him.

"Unfortunately," Eddie told me, "I didn't know what a colloquialism was. I saw one of the older writers by the water jug. He seemed to have a sympathetic face so I told him my problem."

"Go back and take out all of the slang words, kid. He'll take it then." Eddie did, and had no trouble with Bullion from then on.

Eddie spent almost 25 years at the Free Press, part of them as sports editor.

He came to meet and interview most of the great sports figures of the 20s and 30s. He had almost total recall of his experiences with Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio, Mickey Cochrane, Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Joe Louis, Gar Wood, Wilbur Shaw, Gus Dorais and many others.

out any hesitation: "Being with Joe throughout his career."

He remembered that it was 1932 when a tall black youth walked into his office and asked where he could sign up for the Golden Gloves. Eddie virtually was Joe's amateur manager until 1934, when John Roxborough became his professional manager. Eddie told me the most exciting moment he ever had in sports was on June 22, 1937, in Comiskey Park in Chicago, when the referee raised Louis' hand as heavyweight champion of the world.

"You can't compare generations," said Eddie, "but Joe had the fastest hands I ever saw. He was the smoothest fighter and the hardest puncher I ever saw."

EDDIE LOVED the newspaper business but conceded that he had a few bad breaks in the 67 years since he wrote his first story. There was, for example, the time when he

past and present

talked himself out of a share of the Pulitzer Prize. That happened in 1931, and it was of his own doing.

Malcom Bingay, managing editor of the Free Press, had assembled a group of reporters to cover an American Legion parade in Detroit. Eddie was drafted from the sports department to be a member of the team that Bingay sent in various directions to cover the story. Eddie wrote two columns of the composite article.

On the day the story was to appear, Eddie heard Bingay and some of his assistants discussing the matter was writing of the world record-breaking feats of motorboat racer Gar Wood.

ONE DAY in 1933 when Wood had just set a world's water speed record at Algonac, Eddie was dismayed because the timing of the event was wrong for the Free Press.

"What can I write about at 4 p.m.," he complained to Wood. "Harry La Duc of the 'News' has me beat already. I know — tell me about your emotions just as you broke the record."

Gar Wood found a helmet and goggles, put them on Eddie and told him to jump into the boat, Miss America. As they skimmed the water, Eddie told me he kept watching the needle go up and up until it hit 124.58 m.p.h., the speed that broke the record.

"Now," said Gar Wood, "write about your own emotions. Whatever you felt, I felt."

Two years later, Eddie rode at 130 m.p.h. with Wilbur Shaw at the Indianapolis Speedway, "just to get the feel of it." He said he always tried to get involved in the action of whatever sport he was covering. "I had the gloves on with Dempsey and with Joe Louis," he said.

One day, Eddie was on the golf practice green at Oakland Hills with Walter Hagen and Al Watrous. Although he often wrote about golf, Eddie rarely played the game and admitted he was no good at it.

On this day, however, while the two were watching, he sank a long, curling putt. Eddie turned to Hagen and Watrous, who stared in disbelief, and said: "Don't tell me you get paid for doing this?"

Sheldon, Lilley eyesores grow

To the editor:

Have you driven down Sheldon Road or Lilley Road lately? I realize that privacy is needed to houses bordering the main thoroughfares, but something should and must be done to unify these privacy fences.

In Ordinance 103, effective 11-6-80, Sec. 6.0, Item g, it is stated that all fences must be maintained in good structural condition at all times. All fences shall be kept neatly painted, stained, sealed or preserved and such treatments shall be of a same contiguous color, stain or treatment.

A definition in the dictionary of contiguous means adjoining, or next to.

The building department failed to include what this same contiguous color is. They also have failed to follow up to see that the fencing ordinances are enforced. One new comment that they should add to their ordinance is to stipulate that all smooth "outsides" of fences should be installed to face the street.

Now I know why many other communities have a "no-fence" ordinance. They must have driven down one of Canton's main roads.

To improve the situation, which has completely gotten out of hand, I propose that we speak up as a community and have these ordinances enforced. That would mean all fences are to be repaired and that a uniform paint or stain be used throughout the whole area. Paints and stains are available in the same color. This would eliminate our checkerboard effect of multicolored fences.

If you agree with my views, please call the building department at 397-1005 and express that you want them to enforce the ordinance.

Maybe it's not too late to "Help Beautify Canton" and make our community one to be proud of.

M.L. Kokoszka,
Canton

River rescue huge success

To the editor:

Rouge Rescue '86 was an outstanding success. On Saturday, June 7, 15 sites along the 126 mile Rouge River were cleaned. The cleanup and the days' activities were coordinated through individual towns, the governments of Wayne, Oakland, and Washtenaw County, SEMCOG, the River Rouge Watershed Council, Friends of The Rouge, Ford Division, WJBK-TV Channel 2, The Detroit News, Gannett Outdoor, and WRIF-Radio.

Local DPW's hauled trash and debris from the river the week prior to June 7. Then more than 2,300 volunteers hauled truckloads of trash and debris from the river banks and surrounding areas to trucks and dumpsters.

George Palmiter, a nationally recognized river-restoration expert, removed a large logjam along the river in the city of Wayne, enabling the water to once again run freely.

We were pleasantly surprised with such a large turn-out; getting dirty and wet did not deter the volunteers. Rouge Rescue '86 was a huge success and we would like to thank everyone who came out and all the ambitious people who helped rescue a river.

The cleaning of the river will be continued throughout the summer by paid part-time personnel, providing summer jobs for the area's youth. And Rouge Rescue will be an annual event.

For a clean river, thanks.

Great Summer Desserts - EXCITING New Flavors

Chocolate, vanilla and strawberry move over, you're being upstaged by more exotic flavors. Here's a fresh repertoire of ice cream recipes based on the tangy flavor of cranberries and grapefruit, to eat in a cone or serve as desserts. Enjoy a touch of the Caribbean with pina colada or banana daiquiri ice cream. Buy vanilla ice cream to give you a head start on cranberry orange ice cream. Prepare cranberry pear ice, a version of the sorbets featured in the finest restaurants, as an elegant finale to a company dinner.

Cranberry Orange Ice Cream

(Makes 1-1/2 pints)

- 2 navel oranges
- 1 (16 ounce) can Whole Berry Cranberry Sauce
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream, softened

With a vegetable peeler, remove outer rind. Observe carefully to avoid white pithy parts. Cut flesh from remaining rind and remove seeds. In an electric blender container or food processor, place rind, orange pulp and whole berry cranberry sauce, cover. Whirl until coarsely chopped.

Transfer mixture to large bowl. Stir in sugar and lemon juice. Fold softened ice cream into cranberry mixture until well blended. Spoon ice cream into freezer container, cover and freeze until firm.

Cranberry Orange; Pina Colada;
Cranberry Pear; Grapefruit Banana Daiquiri

Pina Colada Ice Cream

(Makes 1-1/2 quarts)

- 2 tablespoons light rum
- 1 quart vanilla ice cream, softened
- 1 cup Whole Berry Cranberry Sauce
- 2/3 cup cream of coconut
- 1 (3-1/2 oz.) can flaked coconut

To toast coconut, spread on cookie sheet in 100° oven for about 5 minutes or until lightly browned. Whirl cream of coconut, softened ice cream and rum in blender. Transfer to large bowl and fold in whole berry cranberry sauce and toasted coconut until thoroughly combined. Spoon ice cream into freezer container, cover and freeze until firm (4 or more hours).

Cranberry Pear Ice

(Makes 1-1/2 quarts)

- 2 (1 pound) cans pear halves in light syrup, drained
- 1 quart Cranberry Juice Cocktail
- Juice of one orange
- 1 cup white wine
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 2 cups granulated sugar

In a blender, puree the pears and set aside. In a saucepan, bring cranberry juice cocktail, orange juice, wine, cinnamon and sugar to a boil over medium heat, stirring to dissolve the sugar. Remove from heat and stir in pear puree. Cool.

Process in an ice cream maker, according to manufacturer's directions. Freeze until serving time. The ice will stay an excellent, soft texture.

Grapefruit Banana Daiquiri Ice Cream

(Makes 1-1/2 pints)

- 1 teaspoon grated lime rind
- 2 small ripe bananas, peeled and pureed
- 1 tablespoon lime juice
- 1/2 cup Grapefruit Juice
- 1/4 cup light rum
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream, softened

In a large bowl, combine lime rind, bananas, lime juice, grapefruit juice, rum and softened ice cream; stir until well blended. Spoon ice cream into freezer container, cover and freeze until firm.

Some 'blues' you won't mind getting

BLUEBERRIES. How good they taste, and how nice they look in the myriad of dishes and pastries that will find their way to our tables during this very short season.

Oh, happy day when we get the blues! Beautiful fresh blueberries, that is. The produce counters all over town are turning blue. The fresh blueberry season is almost upon us.

That means that for the next few months we can really savor these all American berries. It seems we're enjoying them more and more each year. Last summer, we ate up more than 62,500,000 pounds of fresh blueberries during the season!

BLUEBERRY PANCAKES for breakfast. Blueberry muffins for the coffee break, and blueberries in low-calorie light summer salads at lunchtime. Blueberry milkshakes as a beautiful afternoon pick-up, and blueberry desserts — beautiful blueberry desserts — for dinner. Whose mouth doesn't water over the thought of blueberry cheesecake, blueberry pie, blueberry shortcake?

All the blueberries didn't go into pancakes and muffins and cakes, either. Gaining in popularity all the time is blueberry soup and, of all things, blueberry vinegar. Old-fashioned blueberry cobbles have made a big comeback with a new generation. Blueberry cookies are devoured by the thousands, and homemade blueberry sauces by the gallons.

DON'T FORGET the fresh blueberry drinks and frozen desserts. The Blueberry Yogurt Shake here is made in a blender and combines two healthful foods in a single glass. Nourishing and different, it's a delicious summer refresher.

If you haven't tried homemade Blueberry Ice yet, you're missing something. You might not buy a package of any other flavor sherbet from the freezer cabinet of the supermarket the whole time that fresh blueberries are in season. You'll make your own Blueberry Ice.

Throughout the time they are available, just make sure there are enough boxes of fresh blueberries in the refrigerator to make up into favorite blueberry dishes. While the berries themselves last in the refrigerator for two weeks, they never seem to "last." Somebody is always dipping into them for a handful or two.

BLUEBERRY YOGURT SHAKE

- 1 cup fresh blueberries, washed and drained
- 1 cup plain yogurt
- 1 Tbsp. sugar
- 1/2 tsp. vanilla

In a blender, mix together blueberries, yogurt, sugar and vanilla until smooth. Makes 2 cups.

BLUEBERRY ICE

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 tsp. unflavored gelatin
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1 1/2 cups fresh blueberries, washed and drained
- 3 Tbsp. lemon juice

In medium saucepan, combine sugar, gelatin and 1 cup of water. Heat and stir over medium heat until dissolved. Remove from heat, add remaining water, berries and lemon juice. Freeze in refrigerator tray until firm. Break apart into chunks and beat until smooth. Return to tray and freeze until firm. Makes 8 servings.

BUT LOVE of blueberries is only one side of the berry. Roll that berry over and you'll see good nutrition.

Blueberries are the perfect snack food for children. They are high in food energy, contain only 41 calories per half cup and rank first of all berries in vitamin A. They are nature's convenience food, requiring no peeling, pitting or hulling.

Because everybody wants more and more and more recipes for preparing blueberries, here's a brand new effortless idea. Blueberry Almond Froth. There's the original version and a low-calorie one for people who are watching their weight or sugar intake. Celebrate the beginning of the blueberry season with this new and special blueberry dessert.

BLUEBERRY ALMOND FROTH

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 3 3/4 cups cold water
- 1 can (13 oz.) evaporated milk
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 Tbsp. almond extract
- 3 cups fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained

Soak gelatin in 1/2 cup cold water, set aside. Heat evaporated milk and remaining water until scalding. Stir in sugar. Pour milk mixture into gelatin mixture. Add almond extract. Stir well. Chill until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Stir in blueberries. Spoon into dessert mold or cups. Chill until firm. Unmold onto serving plate to serve. Decorate with additional blueberries and almonds. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

LOW CALORIE VERSION: Substitute skimmed evaporated milk (same 13 oz. can) and 6 tablespoons of sugar substitute for the sugar. If served to eight: 70 calories per serving.

Fresh blueberries are best in Blueberry Ice and Blueberry Yogurt Shake.

Take simmer out of summer

Main dish salads keep cooks cool

Summer's the time to replace steamy meals with cooler culinary creations.

Refreshing main dish salads are ideal. Quick and easy to prepare, these artful entrees perk up wilting appetites and keep the cook and kitchen cool.

With lighter, fitness-conscious eating a way of life for so many people, main dish salads have reached new pinnacles of popularity and panache. Today's entree salads are creative combos of interesting ingredients that star on at-home menus and steal the show at picnics and al fresco meals, as well.

When the mercury soars, try one of the following main dish salad recipes. Served indoors or out, they're sure to become warm-weather favorites.

Tortellini Pesto Salad is a hearty combination of meat or cheese-filled pasta, summer's finest garden vegetables and herbs in a creamy, savory dressing. When you need a grillside go-along instead of an entree salad, substitute rotini (spiral pasta) for tortellini.

JAMBALAYA SALAD teams rice with ham, shrimp, bacon and Cajun-inspired vegetables and herbs for a spicy special entree with just the right touch of red pepper "heat."

Arranged on a bright bed of pea pods, Far East Chicken Salad features bean sprouts, soy sauce, ginger and mandarin oranges.

With the great popularity of Tex-Mex foods, Fiesta Taco Salad is sure to rate reviews. In north-of-the-border fashion it layers lettuce, tomatoes, olives, a spicy ground beef mixture and cheese. The colorful creation is topped with a tangy dressing and tortilla chips before serving.

TORTELLINI PESTO SALAD

1 cup mayonnaise-type salad dressing
 1/2 cup finely chopped fresh basil leaves
 1/4 cup chopped parsley
 1/4 cup (1 oz.) grated parmesan cheese

2 Tbsp. milk
 2 garlic cloves, minced
 2 cups cheese or meat tortellini, cooked, drained
 1 cup 2-inch julienne-cut zucchini
 1 cup 2-inch julienne-cut carrots
 1 cup cherry tomato halves
 1/4 cup chopped walnuts, toasted

Combine salad dressing, basil, parsley, parmesan cheese, milk and garlic; mix well. Add all remaining ingredients except walnuts; mix lightly. Chill. Stir in walnuts just before serving. Makes 4 servings.

JAMBALAYA SALAD

1 cup mayonnaise-type salad dressing
 1/2 cup celery slices
 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
 1/4 cup chopped onion
 1 tsp. dried thyme leaves, crushed
 1/4 tsp. ground red pepper
 1/4 tsp. salt
 1 garlic clove, minced
 3 cups cooked rice
 1 cup cubed cooked ham
 1 6-oz. pkg. frozen cooked tiny shrimp, thawed
 1 cup chopped seeded tomato
 6 crisply cooked bacon slices, crumbled

Combine salad dressing, celery, green peppers, onions, seasonings and garlic; mix well. Add rice, ham, shrimp and tomatoes; mix lightly. Chill. Stir in bacon just before serving. 6 servings.

FAR EAST CHICKEN SALAD

1/2 cup mayonnaise-type salad dressing
 1 Tbsp. soy sauce
 1/4 tsp. ground ginger
 2 cups cubed cooked chicken
 1 cup fresh bean sprouts
 1/4 cup thin red pepper strips
 1/4 cup sliced green onions
 1 11-oz. can mandarin orange segments, drained
 3 cups pea pods, halved diagonally, blanched, cooled

Ideal for sultry summer nights or toting to a picnic site, colorful main dish Tortellini Pesto Salad teams cheese- or meat-filled pasta with summer's finest garden vegetables and herbs.

1/4 cup cashews, toasted

Combine salad dressing, soy sauce and ginger; mix well. Add chicken, sprouts, peppers and onions; mix lightly. Chill. Stir in oranges just before serving. Arrange pea pods on serving platter; cover with chicken mixture. Sprinkle with cashews. Makes 4 servings.

FIESTA TACO SALAD

1 1/2-oz. pkg. taco seasoning mix
 3/4 cup mayonnaise-type salad dressing
 1 lb. ground beef

3/4 cup water
 3 cups shredded lettuce
 2 cups chopped tomatoes
 1/2 cup pitted ripe olive halves
 1/2 cup (2 oz.) shredded sharp natural cheddar cheese
 Tortilla chips

Combine 2 teaspoons seasoning mix and salad dressing; chill. Brown meat; drain. Add remaining seasoning mix and water; simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cover serving platter with lettuce. Top with tomatoes, olives, meat mixture, cheese, salad dressing mixture and chips. 4 servings.

Curry gives entree flavor

Warm Curried Shrimp and Wild Rice Salad is simple, straightforward and quick, with dazzling results. A light touch of curry and chutney complements the subtly seasoned blend of premium wild and long grain rices. And it takes just minutes to prepare this elegant-enough-for-company dish.

Warm Chicken Dijon Salad combines strips of cooked chicken, capers and red bell pepper with fast-cooking long grain and wild rice. A light tarragon vinaigrette completes the salad.

WARM CURRIED SHRIMP AND WILD RICE SALAD

2 cups water
 2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
 2 garlic cloves, minced
 1 pkg. (6 1/4 oz.) fast-cooking long grain and wild rice
 2 Tbsp. lemon juice
 1/4 tsp. curry powder
 Dash red pepper flakes
 3 Tbsp. chutney, finely chopped
 1/4 cup vegetable oil
 3/4 lb. cooked shrimp
 1 green onion, finely chopped
 2 Tbsp. coarsely chopped toasted almonds

Combine water, butter, garlic and contents of rice and seasoning packets in medium saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Cover tightly and simmer until all water is absorbed, about 5 minutes. Meanwhile, combine vinegar, garlic, mustards and sugar. Whisk in oil. Stir into warm rice along with chicken, capers and red pepper. Heat through. Serve warm. Makes 8 servings.

is absorbed, about 5 minutes. Meanwhile combine lemon juice, curry powder, red pepper flakes and chutney. Whisk in oil. Stir into warm rice along with shrimp, onion and almonds. Heat through. Makes 4 servings.

WARM CHICKEN DIJON SALAD

2 cups water
 2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
 1 pkg. (6 1/4 oz.) fast-cooking long grain & wild rice
 2 Tbsp. tarragon vinegar
 1 garlic clove, minced
 2 to 3 tsp. Dijon-style mustard
 1/4 to 1/2 tsp. dry mustard
 1 tsp. sugar
 1/4 cup vegetable oil
 2 cups cooked chicken strips (about 1 x 1/4-inches)
 1 Tbsp. capers, drained well
 1 small red bell pepper, chopped, or 1 jar (2 oz.) diced pimiento, drained

Combine water, butter and contents of rice and seasoning packets in medium saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Cover tightly and simmer until all water is absorbed, about 5 minutes. Meanwhile, combine vinegar, garlic, mustards and sugar. Whisk in oil. Stir into warm rice along with chicken, capers and red pepper. Heat through. Serve warm. Makes 8 servings.

Pie is chilly delight

CHOCOLATE CRUMB ICE CREAM PIE

1 1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
 1/4 cup butter, melted
 1/4 cup sugar
 3/4 cup mini semi-sweet chocolate bits
 1 qt. ice cream, softened

In large bowl, combine graham cracker crumbs, butter and sugar; stir in chocolate bits. Press 2 cups crumb mixture evenly on bottom and sides of 9-inch pie pan. Chill until firm (about 30 minutes.) Fill with ice cream. Top with remaining crumb mixture. Freeze until firm.

Packing snack foods and making regular stops help to keep youngsters happy during trips by car. Canton Township's Erin Kurtz follows that advice with her niece, Kristin Moran (left), and sons Christopher (center) and Nicholas Kurtz.

Keeping kids busy on the road

By Julie Brown
staff writer

TRAVELING BY car with children can try the patience of even the most understanding parent.

Summertime outings need not be disasters, however. Planning ahead can help make vacation trips by car more comfortable for youngsters and adults alike.

Keeping children occupied during travel time is a big help.

"That's the key to the whole thing," said Jerry Cheske, spokesman for AAA-Michigan. "Find something to keep them occupied."

Roadside games — such as who can count the most cars of one particular model and color — can be used to help keep kids occupied, he said.

A list of items, such as a maple tree, a cow, a drugstore, can also be made ahead of time. The players then search for the different items, with the one who finds them all first winning the game.

Simple board games, with relatively few playing pieces, and card games can also be used to keep youngsters busy during trips by car, Cheske said.

Parents don't have to spend large sums of money to keep children occupied during summertime travels. "Just use your imagination. You don't have to go out and buy things."

PARENTS MAY want to take along small items to give as awards to game winners, Cheske said. Games can vary in their complexity, according to the length of the trip and the ages of the children.

Parents should plan ahead by providing snacks for youngsters.

"Take little snacks along," Cheske said. "Kids get hungry or they get thirsty."

Certain food and beverage items are more practical than others for vacation travelers. Juice boxes, with attached straws, are less likely to create a mess than other beverage containers.

It's also important to stop every few hours when traveling by car, Cheske said.

"Certainly not longer than three hours."

Stopping allows all travelers to get out and stretch their legs — and to use the restrooms. Stops should be made at places that allow youngsters to move about freely and safely, Cheske said.

BRINGING ALONG pillows and blankets also helps make trips more comfortable for young travelers.

"You try to make it as comfortable as you can for them," Cheske said.

Those who are traveling in station wagons or vans shouldn't let youngsters play in the vehicle's back area, he said. A sudden stop while children are in that area could lead to serious injury or death.

"That's probably the hardest thing to do, but it's the one thing you must do." Children should be in their seats, with seat belts on, at all times when the car is moving, Cheske said.

Sgt. David Ford, of the Michigan State Police Traffic Services Unit at the Northville post, agreed. Allowing youngsters to move about in a car or van while on the road can lead to tragedy, he said.

"Every once in a while you see it, and you just shudder."

Michigan law requires the use of child restraint seats. Up to age 1, infants traveling in cars must be in an approved infant seat, according to Ford.

After that, up to the age of 4, children must ride in a child restraint seat while sitting in a car's front seat. In the back seat, children ages 1 to 4 must use the car's seat belts.

THE STATE law requiring motorists to use child restraint seats is designed to be educational rather than punitive, Ford said.

"That's the key to the whole thing. Find something to keep them occupied."

— Jerry Cheske
AAA-Michigan

"If they do receive a ticket, they can get the fine and costs waived." The law allows for that, provided motorists prove they have bought or rented an approved car seat.

Proper use of the child restraint seat is also important, according to the Michigan State Police sergeant.

"It's got to be installed properly and used properly." The directions with the child restraint seat will indicate how it should be used.

Use of child restraint seats — and of seat belts — is a good safety measure for all motorists, Ford said. "It's just a common sense thing."

Timely tips

This advice is worth remembering

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

THE TERMS "sir" and "madam" are taboo in Jeremy Haworth's opinion.

According to Haworth, a training coordinator with Memory Master Institute Inc., there is no reason in the world to forget a name. Worse, he says, using generic terms such as sir or madam are dead giveaways that a name has been forgotten.

On a personal level it is embarrassing to forget a name. But when it comes to business, it can cost money. Forgetting can be avoided.

This was Haworth's message earlier this month to 50 women at the Livonia Hollidays who were breakfast guests of management from Kelly Services in Livonia and Farmington Hills.

Most of the women are personnel directors or employed in related fields for companies such as Delco Products-Livonia or Adistra Corp. They all use Kelly Services. The breakfast is one in a continuing series message using a memory demonstration. Fifteen items, each randomly suggested by different members in the audience, were listed in the order they were named. When the women were asked to recall the list in the same order just minutes later, most were unable to go beyond five.

Still later, Haworth accurately rattled off the list at lightning speed. He repeated the process a second time in perfect order — backwards.

Haworth, a former engineer and race car driver, said the first time he participated in the demonstration, he managed to name three. Since taking the Memory Master course last August, he said, remembering 15 is easy. In fact, remembering 20 isn't all that hard.

Haworth maintains that most of us are born with similar faculties. Memory is not a reflection of I.Q. It is a matter of determination and skill. It takes practice and training.

Memory Master is the new kid on the block in the memory business. It was founded nearly three years ago by Mark DeFoor, 38, an attorney who president, Tim Olson, the course differs from others on the market because Memory Master is based on "doing." We teach techniques that are applied and practiced on the spot, Olson said. "Our course is a genuine workshop, not a seminar."

THE COURSE consists of three separate sessions, each three hours long. It is taught only in a group environment.

"Group dynamics is an important factor in the course," Olson said.

The course is a continuing process, and one principle builds upon the next, Olson said. Many of the principles are "good common sense that we all know but don't consciously register."

The course concludes with a mock social event where trainees meet as many new people as possible, utilizing new memory skills to remember names.

Haworth said 1,500 people in the greater Detroit area completed the

MILWAUKEE SHOULDER

Milwaukee shoulder takes its name from the doctors at the Medical College in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, who first brought this condition to the attention of the medical community.

Milwaukee shoulder is a form of osteoarthritis that has several special characteristics: it occurs only in women over age 65, and is associated with large amounts of fluid in the shoulder joint, which keeps accumulating. In addition, women with this condition tend to have arthritis in their knees and hips which is severe and often needs surgical joint replacement.

Milwaukee shoulder is caused by a bone crystal: hydroxy-apatite. The crystal acts like a poison and causes the joint lining cells to disintegrate, releasing enzymes into the joint cavity. The enzymes act on the surrounding bone to release more hydroxy-apatite crystals, and so perpetuate the cycle of cell disintegration and bone loss.

Treatment consists of shoulder joint aspiration and injection to remove the fluid and prevent the enzymes from acting on bone. Surgery is a last resort because of the hazards of operation on an elderly individual, and the difficulty of repair in a shoulder joint plagued with thin bone.

"St. Joe's lets me give a little back."
Bob Lyons

The support of business leaders like Bob Lyons has played an important role in the history of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. As volunteers, their talents, energy, and enthusiasm have helped shape today's Catherine McAuley Health Center.

"I like to remind people in the community that Catherine McAuley Health Center offers a wide spectrum of health care services. The Health Center works with businesses and the community at large to identify and meet health care needs.

"I especially like the Health Center's sensitivity to the community with projects like the neighborhood health clinic in Ypsilanti," adds Lyons, who serves on the clinic's Community Advisory Committee.

"I'm inspired by the spirit created by these giving people. As a volunteer, I am glad to have a chance to give a little back."

Since 1911, when the Sisters of Mercy were invited to this community, Catherine McAuley Health Center has evolved into a comprehensive health care center touching the lives of tens of thousands of families each year. ## Like a dream '86 Observer baseball team is a coach's ultimate fantasy

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

ALL-AREA teams, like any other type of all-star collection, send coaches into dreamland: "What I would give to coach such a group just once." "Give me just three players off that team and see where we would finish."

Imagine, then, the wealth of fantasy the 1986 Observer All-Area Baseball Team conjures up.

The pitching staff combined for a 16-0 record. In 103 total innings, it yielded 12 earned runs, just 54 hits, posted 174 strikeouts and walked only 51.

The catcher has a strong arm and batted .450. The first baseman hit .408 and made just three errors all season. The rest of the infielders' averages were .483, .390 and .351. The five combined for 15 home runs and batted in 91 runs.

The outfielders had a combined batting average of .371 with 53 more RBI. The designated hitter contributed a .429 average, four homers and 20 RBI.

You can understand why they call such collections dream teams.

The desirable task of coaching this team goes to Westland John Glenn coach Norm Hoenes — Observerland's Baseball Coach of the Year.

The 20-year veteran coach took his team to the final four this season, winning the grueling Western Lakes as well as district and regional championships in Class A. His Rockets were 26-3 this year.

Let's take a look at the Observerland coaches' first-team selections.

Steve Irwin, Westland John Glenn, pitcher: Simply put, this senior was the most dominant pitcher in the area this season. Hoenes calls him the best pitcher he has ever coached. High praise, but statistics bear him out: Irwin was 16-4 over two years (10-0 this year) with a 1.86 ERA. In

65 innings this season, he fanned 122 batters and allowed but eight earned runs.

Irwin, who has accepted a full-ride scholarship to Eastern Michigan University, has a fastball clocked in the mid-80 mph range, but his out pitches are a paralyzing slider and a curve ball.

Joe Mukavetz, Garden City, pitcher: A good live fastball made this senior a consistent outmaker on the mound, a knuckleball made him outstanding. He was 15-2 in three years for the Cougars (6-0 this year) with a 1.13 ERA. He posted six career shutouts. In 38 innings this year, he fanned 52 and yielded but four earned runs.

Like Irwin, Mukavetz is a threat offensively. He batted .373 this season with 17 RBI.

Mike Rudin, North Farmington, catcher: If you wanted to design the perfect body for a catcher (and Lance Parrish was unavailable), you might want to use this guy. Strong and sturdy, Rudin caught full time for North for three years. In that time he batted .342 with 11 homers and 65 RBI. This year he hit .450 with three homers and 21 RBI.

Rudin, with an accurate arm and a quick release, was very tough to steal on.

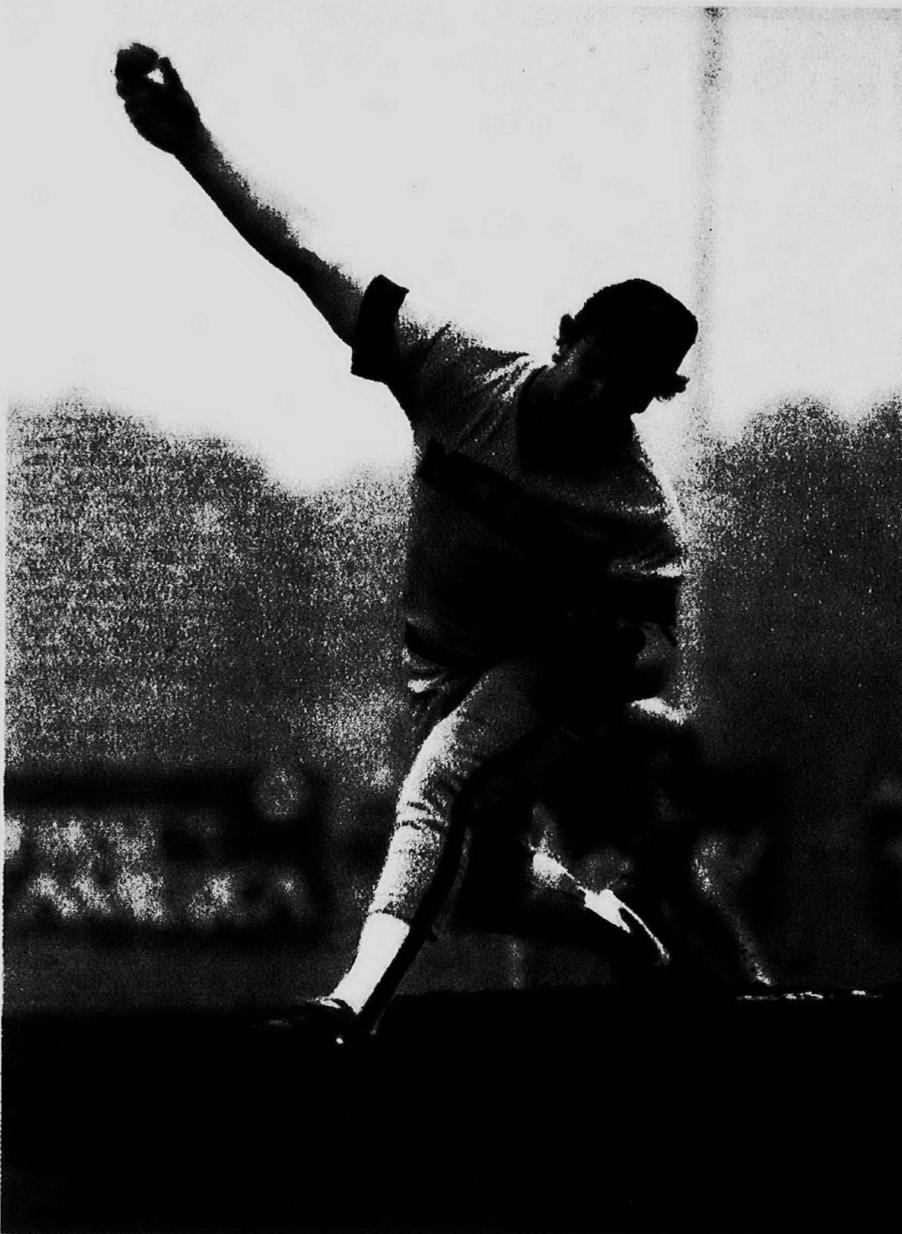

Chris Sisler, Plymouth Canton, first base: The fact that he hit .370 over three years for the Chiefs is no surprise. His short, fluid stroke got his name in more than a few baseball scouting notebooks as early as his sophomore year. But the fact that he played virtually every game at first base this year and made but three errors is eye-opening. He was nicknamed Stone-paws in his junior year for his inability to catch the baseball.

To his credit, Sisler worked hard to become a complete player and is one of the best. He will play at Kansas City Community College next year.

Chris Tancill, Livonia Stevenson, infielder: A .483 batting average, four home runs, 18 RBI, a .900 slugging percentage (13 of his 29 hits went for extra bases) and an 18-game hitting streak to close out his career. Not bad for a hockey player.

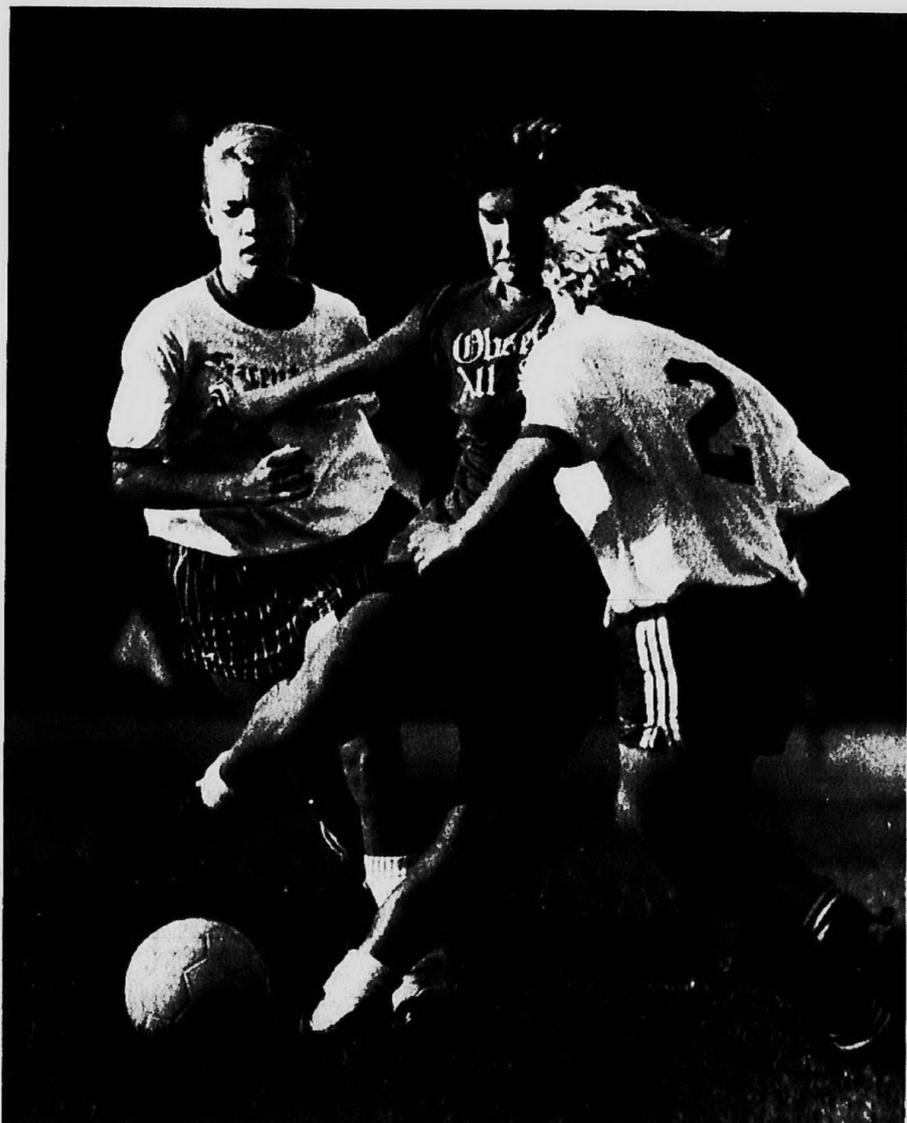

Tancill, a superb athlete, has accepted a hockey scholarship from the University of Wisconsin. In three years at Stevenson, he batted .370 with seven home runs. He played catcher for two years, shortstop this year.

The talent gap is gone. Or maybe it's shifted locations. In Wednesday's fourth annual Observer & Eccentric girls All-Star Soccer Classic, the Oakland County Eccentrics ended three years of frustration and folly by dumping their Observer counterparts 4-2 at West Bloomfield High School.

When the first O&E Classic was staged four years ago, the talent gap was readily apparent in the Observers' 7-1 win. It remained visible in 1984 in Classic II, when the Observers again thumped their Eccentric foes 5-2.

Last year, the Eccentrics bolted to an early 3-0 lead against a flat Observer squad. The Observers proved their mettle by storming back from a 4-1 deficit to forge a 4-4 tie.

Don't think those past records didn't figure prominently while the Eccentrics prepared for Classic IV. Seniors like Katy Andreae of Birmingham Seaholm remembered the lopsided losses. And still vivid in many memories was last year's tie and the Eccentrics' inability to protect two three-goal leads.

More than once during Wednesday's game, Eccentrics coach Terry Dilworth (of Birmingham Marian) pointed to the scoreboard, which disclosed a 4-1 lead, and reminded his players, "This was the score when they came back last year, wasn't it?"

DILWORTH'S PRODDING wasn't necessary. As someone somewhere once said, that was then and this is now. By the midpoint of the second half, there was little doubt which was the better team. "I felt if we could apply a lot of pressure on the outside, it would open it up in the center," said Dil-(Livonia Churchill), and with 27 minutes to play it was 3-1.

Six minutes later, the Eccentrics capitalized on the Observers pressuring offense to spring Wass. A long clearing pass from Kate Ferguson reached Wass behind the Observer defense, and her third goal put the game out of reach.

In the final minute of play, the Observers finally did beat Lynn Eckhout (Troy Athens), who was spectacular in the Eccentric nets, when Amy Stock (Farmington Hills Mercy) put a pass from wing Pelloni into the corner of the net.

IT DIDN'T make any difference. The Eccentrics victory was already assured.

"We had some chances," said Observer coach Ed Dudek (Livonia Churchill). "If we had put them in ..."

"Both teams were a bit nervous at the start. That's why the first goal made such a difference. They scored first and then could relax and play. We didn't capitalize on our offensive chances."

But to say the Eccentrics just scored first would be doing Wass and her teammates an injustice. The play, from its midfield start to Wass' high-kick finish, was superb. Andreae began it at midfield, clearing a pass into the right corner that stopped short of the end line.

Riemer beat Observer defender Marci Jamrog (Stevenson) to the ball and curled a perfect centering pass to Wass, who wheeled around to boot the ball at shoulder level into the net.

"That was a super play by Cindy," acknowledged Dudek.

Wass' second goal was more conventional, but on the same type of play as her first. Again, Riemer beat Jamrog to the ball in the corner and

Rick Tavormina, Westland John Glenn, infielder: The only junior on this senior-laden squad, Tavormina was the trigger to Glenn's offense. He batted .390, knocked in 25 runs and scored 15.

He was also valuable from a defensive point of view. He demonstrated excellent range and a strong arm from his shortstop position.

Brian Smolinski, Farmington Harrison, infielder: If you doubt that this was the most dangerous hitter in the area, check out this stat: he was walked 19 times this year, 44 times in his career. That's getting pitched around an awful lot.

He hit .375 in his career, with 15 homers. He also stole 40 bases. This year he batted .351 with five homers. He has hit some tape-measure blasts in his time. He once drove one high off the house that hits a good ways beyond the right field fence at North Farmington.

Brian Song, Livonia Stevenson, outfielder: Probably the best defensive outfielder in Observerland (although the next two men on this list are no slouches.) He has taken away many an extra base hit with his rabbit-like quickness.

He hits well, too. He batted .395 this year with 16 RBI from his lead-off position. He scored 24 runs and was 13-for-13 stealing bases.

Tony Aiken, Plymouth Canton, outfielder: Another well-schooled defensive player, with an intangible — he is a team leader. He played center field and batted leadoff for the Chiefs. When he was on, so were the Chiefs.

He owns a .320 career average at Canton. This year, he batted .362, knocked in 18 runs and scored 23.

Chuck Hammontree, Westland John Glenn, outfielder: It is doubtful that a ball would ever drop against this All-Area outfield. Hammontree didn't make an error all season.

He also made very few mistakes at the plate. He batted .361 with 19 RBI and 14 stolen bases.

Trent Hiner, North Farmington, designated hitter: This senior might have the worst-looking swing of anyone — but who can argue with the results. He batted .429 with four home runs and 20 RBI. He gets an awful lot of power out of his 5-9, 165-pound frame.

His on-base percentage this year was .552. Who cares what the swing looks like?

Wendt, Briggs to get pro shot

By Brad Emons staff writer

The glitter of New York's bright TV lights focused in on some of the nation's top collegiate players Tuesday as the National Basketball Association (NBA) held its annual draft.

The expected first-round picks were flown in, wine and dined, and put on display for a national TV audience. Going on parade were such notables as North Carolina's Brad Daugherty, Maryland's Len Bias and North Carolina State's Chris Washburn, the top three picks in this year's draft.

Far away from the hoopla and not part of the Madison Square Garden proceedings were two area products, Greg Wendt of the University of Detroit and former Schoolcraft College scoring ace Carlos Briggs.

Both, however, were pleased to be included in the NBA selection process.

Briggs, a 6-foot guard who played only eight games this season at Baylor after being suspended by the NCAA and ultimately being dumped from the squad by first-year coach Gene Iba, was pleasantly surprised to learn that he had been taken in the fourth round, the 79th pick overall, by the San Antonio Spurs.

WENDT, who prepped at Redford Catholic Central High and played for two seasons at Duke before finishing his career at U-D, was taken by the world champion Boston Celtics in the sixth round.

The 6-foot-6 Wendt, currently playing for the Gold Coast (Fla.) Stingrays of the U.S. Basketball League, got the news Tuesday evening via phone from his parents in Livonia.

"I was confident I'd go somewhere in the draft," said Wendt from his motel room in West Palm Beach. "I'm happy. I'm looking at it this way — they're giving me an opportunity to play and I'm going to give it my best shot and see what happens. I'm looking at it positively."

Wendt's stock may have risen during the past few weeks after he impressed Gold Coast coaches in training camp. Earning a starting job on a team which includes LSU's Don Redden, Wendt scored 27 and 28 points in his first two games. The U.S.B.L., a seven-team east coast summer basketball circuit, helped spawn a pair of NBA prospects last summer — 5-foot-6 guard Spud Webb of the Atlanta Hawks and 7-6 center Manute Bol of the Washington Bullets.

"I've started out real well and that may be a factor," said Wendt. "Maybe it's given me more exposure."

"I'M MAKING decent money, but you won't get rich. But it's a stepping stone to the NBA. I'm playing basketball, getting a tan, having a good time and working hard. I'm playing the game that I've always enjoyed."

"I can't complain." Briggs, meanwhile, was also elated when he heard the news late Tuesday afternoon from a Waco, Texas, sportswriter.

"I'm really excited," Briggs said. "It's a good accomplishment since I only played eight games this year. I was worried about the fact that I might not go at all because of all what happened down here."

As a junior, Briggs finished second in the Southwest Conference in scoring averaging 20.4 points per game.

But near the end of his first season at Baylor, coach Jim Haller resigned in the wake of NCAA recruiting violations.

Iba then took over in the midst of NCAA sanctions in which Briggs and six other Baylor players were slapped with a series suspensions in early January, ranging from three to nine games.

Briggs and fellow senior co-captain B.J. Mitchell, were both told by the NCAA to sit out nine games. While both players were serving NCAA suspensions, the new Baylor coach dismissed the two for reasons he chose not to disclose to the press.

Kick classic had a talent balance

NOTES, QUOTES, ANECDOTES from Wednesday's O&E girls soccer All-Star Classic:

• There's little doubt the level of soccer talent in all areas has risen. In Wednesday's Classic IV, no single player truly dominated, unlike past games in which players like Mary Kay Hussey of Livonia Stevenson and Annette Ruggiero of Farmington Hills Mercy were far superior to many of the other stars.

The reason isn't so much a lack of players of that caliber. Rather, the depth of talent has swelled. There are more good players than ever.

Those in attendance at Classic IV need no further convincing. Much of the audience marveled when, during the first half, a half-dozen stars touched the ball in succession without it ever touching the ground.

• The game was a resounding success in many respects. A new O&E Classic record for attendance was established: 343, breaking the 1984 mark of 336. The record crowd saw the Eccentrics end the Observers' domination of the series with a 4-2 victory.

But there is doubt regarding the Classic's future. The Michigan High School Athletic Association currently has a rule forbidding high school athletes from competing in all-star contests. Those that do cannot compete in high school athletics their next semester.

So far, that rule applies only to football, basketball and hockey players. But the MHSAA is considering expanding it to cover all high school sports, which would doom the O&E Classic.

• Dilworth insists he has a nomination for MVP: Most Valuable Supporter. It's the guy who suffered the most in the early years of the Classic, according to Dilworth, when the Observers were dominating: former Troy-Rochester sports editor Jim Hughes. "You should change the name to the Jim Hughes Classic," Dilworth suggested after the Eccentrics' victory.

• Our thanks to Roger Faulkner and Gordon Preston, former owners of the Detroit Express pro soccer team, who graciously presented the awards to the O&E stars after Classic IV.

Also, our thanks to the West Bloomfield Community Education Department and West Bloomfield High School athletic director Jim Feldkamp for use of the field, to referees Norm Parsons and Tom Montroy, to athletic trainer Bill Watson, and to announcer Rich Lech, the "Classic voice."

And last but not hardly least, many thanks to Eugene and Bryce, who volunteered their legs and hustle in chasing down balls that rolled out of bounds. Word has it each received MVP consideration.

centered it perfectly. Wass' task was easy.

THE ATHENS junior's hat trick matched the O&E Classic record for goals in a game, set by Mary Kay Hussey (Stevenson) in 1983. It also magnified her importance to the team. In Classic III, Wass was hurt early and played sparingly. Her absence was sorely felt in the 4-4 tie.

Not that the Eccentrics couldn't have won without her Wednesday.

They were faster than their Observer counterparts and far more determined.

"This game really means something to these players," said Dilworth. "They really want to win it. Most all-star games are showcases for individual talents, but these girls submerged their individual abilities. They all had that common goal, to win the game."

Dilworth remembered all too well the superior talent the Observer team displayed early in the series. He figures it's evened up now.

Caesars edge Adray

Little Caesars remains in a virtual tie with Tom Holzer Ford atop the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League thanks to some extra-inning heroics from Rob McCamant.

McCamant, a Livonia Clarenceville-Aquinas College product, lashed a Rick Rozman pitch over the left field fence at Capitol Park in the bottom of the eighth inning Wednesday to give Caesars a 4-3 win against Livonia Adray.

The win pushed Caesars record to 7-3-1; Adray falls to 7-4. John Poszywak's two-run double keyed a three-run fourth inning to give Adray a 3-2 lead.

Caesars tied the game in the bottom of the seventh. Tyrone Gaines singled and stole second. He scored on Bob Czapl's base hit. Tom Liss, who pitches for Walters State Community College in Tennessee, scattered four hits over the eight innings to record the victory. He struck out 10 Adray hitters.

baseball

Liss was aided by several sterling defensive plays by shortstop Mike Kocinski.

Rozman, the Michigan State-via-Livonia Stevenson right-hander, yielded seven hits and fanned five. He was victimized by four Adray errors.
