NEW CHIEF: Dr. E.J. McClendon, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools trustee, was elected president of the Board of Education by other board members at an organizational meeting Monday.

Other trustees elected to serve as officers for the 1986-87 school year were: David Artley, vice president; Dean Swartzwelder, secretary; and Lester Walker, treasurer. For the 1985-86 school year, McClendon served as treasurer and Artley served as secretary.

NEW INDIAN: The same evening McClendon was being sworn in chief of the school board James Jabara was sworn in as one of the Indians down the street at City Hall. Jabara officially was made a City Commission Monday night to replace Mark Wehmeyer who resigned after being appointed to replace Bud Martin who had resigned. Jabara, a former mayor and commissioner, says he will be a caretaker commissioner — filling out Wehmeyer's term but not seeking re-election. After being sworn in before the meeting, he voted with the full commission Monday night.

ITALIAN FARE: While McNamara may be a well-known Irish name, the menu definitely was Italian last night as a spaghetti dinner was served at the Plymouth Cultural Center as a rally for Livonia Mayor Ed McNamara. The rally was an occasion to announce that the Plymouth City Commission (William Robinson, Dennis Bila, Mary Childs, Karl Gansler II, Don Keller, Jr., and Robert Jones) have endorsed the candidacy of McNamara for Wayne County Executive.

"In 16 years as mayor of Livonia," said Plymouth Mayor Robinson, "Ed McNamara has brought over 600 new businesses and 12,000 new jobs to his community. Livonia's six-square mile industrial park which was nearly vacant when Ed took office is now filled to capacity. I am very excited that Ed McNamara has announced his candidacy for Wayne County Executive."

Teen invasion sparks comment

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Plymouth's summer "teenager problem" sparked lively discussion among city officials and residents at the Plymouth City Commission meeting Monday, as city police said they would step up efforts to move crowds of loitering teens away from downtown businesses.

"We've tried every degree of soft-soil to solve the problem," said Police Chief Richard Meyers. "Maybe our softball approach is going to turn a little more hardball. They just don't seem to be getting the message."

"I think it's the No. 1 issue right now," said Commissioner Dennis Bila. "There's nothing I hear more about. My neighbors are complaining constantly about it."

PAUL SINCOCK, assistant to the city manager, said the Main Street Program — in which participating businesses post no trespassing-loitering signs allowing police to ticket offenders — is showing definite results.

"When the Farmer Jack's parking lot is empty at 9:30 p.m., it says something," Sincock commented. He added that city officials have some alternate plans "on the back burner" which he declined to publicize.

City Manager Henry Graper said he would discuss alternative ways to deal with the loitering problem with Meyers sometime this week.

The discussion was sparked by Greg Goodman, owner-operator of Cafe Bon Homme on Penniman. Goodman addressed commissioners during the citizen's comments portion of the meeting. He said his patrons may feel "a perceived danger when they exit their cars and there's 35 or 40 kids standing around."

Graper said that near midnight on a recent Friday, "I saw 600-700 kids on Main Street, and I'm not exaggerating."

CITY ATTORNEY Ronald Lowe said downtown Plymouth's reputation as a teen hangout has grown steadily, possibly sparked by the nighttime closing of Hines Park to teens in the mid-'70s.

"If you live in Plymouth, Plymouth Township or Canton, where else is there a main drag to cruise?" Lowe asked.

Goodman complained of teens drinking, littering and loitering near his restaurant.

"I'm not advocating anything harsh," he said, still urging officials or the public to come up with a creative solution.

"As long as Penniman is a public street," Lowe responded, "it's not against the law for them to park there." He added that anti-loitering laws mainly prohibit the blocking of driveways. "It is not against the law just to stand and hang out."

But Goodman countered that "there are indeed laws being broken. There is drinking, obscenities." He said some teens who drink publicly set down beer cans when police approach. Lowe suggested that witnesses come forward to identify law-breaking teens to police, who can then write complaints.

Drug assault outlined

By Diane Gale
staff writer

The effects of drugs — on the abuser and society — have been a growing national concern and the reason for a program launched by local police departments.

Police chiefs from Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton, Northville, Northville Township, Van Buren Township and Belleville have worked on establishing a narcotics team to handle drug cases in the communities.

One officer from Canton will be assigned to the team, according to Canton Police Chief John Santomauro. Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry said he has not yet decided how the department will contribute to the task force. Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers said his department "doesn't have spare people."

Myers said he supports the program, "because I know that they work," but the next hurdle will be determining what "resources will be called on from each department."

"I'm very supportive. My concern is where will the bucks come from," Myers said.

Berry also praises the program. "It will provide good cooperative coordination between all the agencies. If anyone thinks there isn't a drug problem locally they have their head in the sand."

THE WESTERN Wayne County narcotics enforcement team, expected to form in two to three months, resulted from monthly police chief meetings since the beginning of the year.

"I believe we have reached a point that we need a special program — particularly at the high school level," Santomauro said.

"As soon as we bust someone here it's relevant to the other communities. The people who operate in Canton operate in the other communities. They have no jurisdictional boundaries."

Santomauro predicts the program will be a good deal for everyone involved. When departments in the group have tips about drug crimes the team will be called in as opposed to pulling officers from individual forces.

"When I can give one body and get back X number of bodies I think that's a good rate of return," Santomauro said. "This type of group is not only cost effective but there's a level of expertise in enforcement that most communities don't have."

Working on arrests in the communities will be one goal but drug busts are only part of battling the problem. Another objective is substance abuse education, and the target locations in Canton will be in the schools.

"Talk to any parent with a child in high school and they know that controlled substances are out there," Santomauro said. "We'll try to convince people that drugs aren't good and incarceration is only one ramification of results that include anything up to death."

"We'll be working very closely with the schools on the substance abuse program. Drug education is built on the premise that young adults are responsible for what they do."

Elmer Daniels, owner of a drive-up photo processing kiosk, says working hours can be long and lonely.

It's sit and wait in this business

By Doug Funke
staff writer

He is one boss who doesn't mind if his employees watch TV, read or do homework on the job. In fact, he says he strongly encourages the homework.

Elmer Daniels, who spends most of his working hours as a fire inspector, also owns a drive-up photo processing and supply kiosk in Canton at Lilley and Warren just south of Plymouth.

Daniels owns a 5-by-7-foot air-conditioned shell and leases the ground on which it sits from owners of the Pilgrim Village Plaza.

"It's a convenience business. We're strictly a middle man. That's all we are — a middle man for a large company."

Guardian Photo of Novi supplies film and does the processing. Daniels makes his profit by marking up Guardian's wholesale prices.

"Money is made in processing pictures itself. Film brings people back."

IF EXCITEMENT is what you want in a job, working at a drive-up photo business probably won't be very satisfying.

"I tell everyone I hire you have to be able to fight boredom," Daniels said. "It's a long, lonely business. Some days, you have one or two customers all day. Other days, three cars are lined up on each side trying to get in. Those days are rare now."

Daniels originally got into the business in 1982 for investment purposes.

He said he was forced to include the more profitable Canton kiosk in a sales arrangement two years later to dump a less profitable hutch in Dearborn Heights.

Daniels said he re-acquired the Canton kiosk in March when the person who bought from him encountered financial difficulties.

"It was profitable when I had it before. Now it's a struggle and a half."

Daniels said he's tried to build up clientele by notifying previous customers by mail that he's back in charge and offering such personal touches as calling customers when their orders come in and free processing after a certain number of paid orders.

THE GREAT majority of customers who show up at the window are

FESTIVAL
SPECIAL SECTION
IN TODAY'S ISSUE

Floating free Hot air balloonists rise above insurance woes

About 50 balloons will fill the air this weekend for the sixth annual Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival.

Originally some 60 crews were expected to participate but hot air balloon pilots have experienced difficulty this year getting liability insurance.

In fact, a half dozen balloons didn't sign up until the last moment because of difficulties lining up insurance.

But many of the favorites will return, including E.F. Hutton, 1st of America, Pontiac Motor Division, Ford Motorcraft, New York Air, Eastern Airlines, Eastern Airlines, American Yazaki and Liberty State Bank. Some of the new crews include Budweiser, Slush Puppy and Pilot Air Freight out of Romulus.

The launches will begin at sunset Friday at the Centennial Educational Park site at Joy and Canton Center Roads in Canton. Competitive launches also will be held sunrise and sunset Saturday and Sunday.

The American Airlines competition will be 6 p.m. Friday. The Balloon Ball will feature Benny and the Jets with 50s and 60s music at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the Mayflower Meeting House for an admission of $6.

Saturday activities will begin early — very early. The Sunrise "Inflation Sale" will open at 5 a.m. with 50 percent off sales offered by participating downtown merchants, 40 percent off at 6 a.m., 30 percent at 7 a.m., etc. At the launch site the New York Air Continental Airlines Hare and Hound Race will begin at 6 a.m. with ascent from the grounds of Plymouth Canton High School at the CEP site.

Beginning at 7 a.m. Saturday will be the Fly-In Pancake Breakfast for $3 each at Mettetal Airport, Joy and Lilley Roads, sponsored by Experimental Aircraft Association Chapter 113. A number of antique airplanes, dating to the 1930s, will be on display at Mettetal during this time period.

Art in the Park will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday in Kellogg Park.

The Eastern Airlines Race will begin 6 p.m. Saturday.

Sunday's events will begin with the CNT Race at 6 a.m. at the Canton High grounds at the CEP. The Sunday Balloon Brunch will be served in the Meeting House from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. that day. The final launch will be the British Airways "Pick em up Key Contest" at 6 p.m. Sunday.

Up-to-the-minute launch information, weather and traffic-status reports will be given by the student radio station, WSDP (88.1 on the FMN dial).

MORE THAN 165 artists and craftsmen with original handcrafted work to be sold will participate in Art in the Park Saturday.

Some 61 Michigan cities, as well as out-of-state artists, are represented in the show. Some will be demonstrating their craft.

There will be country and folk art, paintings on canvas, wood, tin, shirts, many forms of needlework, handmade furniture, floral arrangements, stained, blasted, etched, fished and reverse glass, lamps and shades, woven baskets and rugs, hand-forged reproductions from Greenfield Village, music boxes, pottery, checkboards, chimes, calligraphy, bears, rabbits, sheep, ducks, cats, hearts, clowns, dolls, primitive to solar art.

Flags stolen during celebration

Patriots of dubious distinction stole more than a dozen American flags from Plymouth's downtown business district between 8:30 a.m. and 11:45 p.m. on the Fourth of July.

Seven flags were pilfered from Penniman Avenue between Main and Harvey, three from Wing, two from in front of city hall on Main, two from Fralick and one from Ann Arbor Trail, according to a report filed with police.

The flags, owned by the city, had a monetary value of $375.

The Jaycees had been putting the flags up at 6 a.m. and taking them down between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. daily since June 14 — Flag Day — at the request of the Chamber of Commerce.

Congress has declared 1986 as the Year of the Flag, said Charles Lowe, Jr., a spokesman for the Jaycees.

"For some reason, people seem to think these are collectible items or something," he said. "Occasionally throughout the year, we lose one or two. We've never been hit like this. We said they looked really good in town."

Lowe said he suspects kids were responsible — "the same ones that steal stop signs."

Tim Sullivan discovered the theft as he and a colleague made the rounds collecting flags the night of the Fourth.

"I suppose you could put chains on them but that kind of defeats the purpose, I guess," Sullivan said.

Former resident now farming in Guatemala

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

For most Americans, Guatemala is a place on the map or a word in the news. But it will be much more for Livonian David Wilamowski.

Wilamowski, 36, will spend two years in that Central American country as a member of the Peace Corps, serving in an agriculture extension program in a small village there.

He'll work with farmers, helping them improve food production through crop diversification and soil conservation.

"It's just something that I have thought about for years and years," said Wilamowski, who moved to Livonia from Plymouth with his family in 1960. "I tried to join about 10 years ago, but I was told I hadn't had enough experience or college."

SINCE HIS first application to the Peace Corps, Wilamowski studied horticulture at the University of Nebraska and Michigan State University. He never completed requirements for a degree, but worked for four years in his own pest-control business for an orchard in Traverse City.

"I always liked to grow things," the Bentley High School graduate said before leaving Michigan last month.

"I just really felt like I wanted to work more closely with people," he said. "This idea in the back of my mind was really what I wanted to do."

GUATEMALA IS the northernmost of the Central American countries. It is bordered by Mexico. The country is about the size of Tennessee and features highlands, a tropical area and a mountain range with volcanoes. Archeological sites of the ancient Mayan civilization are in a region in the north. Spanish and some Indian dialects are spoken in Guatemala.

Recent years have been turbulent politically for Guatemala. But Wilamowski isn't worried about that. The Peace Corps doesn't send its volunteers to places where they would be in danger, he said. And volunteers don't get involved in a country's politics.

"Any time you live with people and you work with people... certain things are a lot more important than politics," Wilamowski said.

Wilamowski was more concerned about his health. He bought a water filter and had complete dental and physical examinations. The Peace Corps has a medical office in every country it serves.

WILAMOWSKI LEFT last month for Miami to undergo "three days of vitamin shots" and orientation, he said. From there, he flew to Guatemala City, Guatemala's capital, about 1½ hours away "right across the Gulf of Mexico."

The volunteer will live with a family in Antigua, which was the capital city until an earthquake in the 1700s. He will attend classes and work with the people for three months.

Transportation in the area is basically by bus or on foot. Wilamowski was advised to bring a pair of sturdy walking shoes, he said.

About 50 other volunteers will be traveling with Wilamowski. Some of them may go on to Honduras.

WILAMOWSKI FILLED out an application form that he picked up from a college Peace Corps office. It is about 10 pages long, he said.

"They really want to know everything about you — your hobbies, any skills that you have at all," he said.

The Peace Corps also asked Wilamowski's preference regarding where he would like to serve. He preferred a Latin American country over one in Africa because he had traveled in Mexico and studied Spanish in high school as well as Latin America.

Wilamowski's parents, Henry and Wynna Wilamowski of Livonia, have been very supportive of his plans.

WHAT QUALITIES does a Peace Corps volunteer have?

"You have to be flexible with any kind of situation," Wilamowski said. "You have to be patient because you're going to be in a country where things aren't going to be available and things move slowly. You work hard and have high hopes but you're not going (to see results) quickly."

Wilamowski has friends who were Peace Corps volunteers in Africa.

"They thought it was a great experience," he said. "You're really on your own a lot more than people imagine."

Six thousand Americans are now Peace Corps volunteers in 61 developing nations. The Peace Corps accepts people with a lot of different skills, Wilamowski said. A college degree isn't required for many assignments, but a volunteer should have at least three to five years of full-time work experience.

Reminder

License dogs, township urges

The owners of about 1,000 unlicensed dogs in Plymouth Township can expect to receive mailed warnings — probably final warnings — in the next few weeks to obtain licenses for those pets.

If they don't come through, said Treasurer Mary Brooks, citations likely will be issued and procrastinators can look forward to explaining to a judge.

Letters will reinforce notice given by volunteer community service officers last spring when they took a townshipwide survey of dogs.

"We will follow it up because of complaints we've received about dogs running loose, barking, chasing children," Brooks said.

"The letter is going to tell people, by law, all dogs must be licensed. We need to see proof of valid rabies vaccination."

Licenses expire May 31 of next year and now cost $7.

Licenses will be mailed to residents who don't want to take the time to come to township hall on Ann Arbor Road. Proof of rabies vaccination, which can be returned, must accompany a check.

Only a couple hundred licenses had been bought before township officials took a house-by-house census last spring. A total of 2,360 dogs were identified. As of Monday morning, just over 1,350 licenses had been issued.

"I think we'll get a big majority coming in," Brooks said of the letters' effect.

Dog licenses serve a dual purpose. They provide identification if an animal gets loose and ensure proper vaccination.

Balloons to fly at festival at the launch site will be pilot Ron Centers with the First of America Balloon.

Owned by the parent corporation of First of America-Plymouth, the balloon travels statewide for county fairs and festivals. During 1986 it will attend more than 80 events.

The red and white Pontiac balloon is piloted by Phil Glebe of Brighton. He has flown 83 miles across Lake Michigan at 10,000 feet in winter weather and has logged nearly 500 hours of ballooning flight time. His Lake Michigan involved an average speed of 47 mph for 163 miles from West Bend, Wis., to Lansing in February 1982.

Glebe's current eighth-place national ranking has earned him the distinction of being one of 15 U.S. pilots to participate in the North American Challenge Cup this month in Barrie, Ontario.

Last year Glebe flew 86 times and entered nine competitive events. He placed first twice and in the top 10 six times. Last year he recorded a first-place finish in the Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival with 45 competitors and second out of 56 in the Michigan Challenge.

Almost as big an eye-catcher as the 70-foot balloon is Glebe's chase vehicle — "Chase Commander." Designed by Glebe and manufactured in Imlay City, the red and white motor home contains a six-foot storage area in the rear for the balloon's envelope, gondola, fuel tanks, inflation fans and other equipment. Loading and unloading is done by an electric/hydraulic wheelchair-type lift. The custom body work and painting was done by Special Projects of Livonia.

on their way in a matter of moments. "That's why we're in business."

Son Jim tends to day-to-day operations most of the time now. Daniels said, "He's sometimes found it difficult to keep employees."

He's had people last from two weeks to a year and a half. "It's not a big money maker. You can't talk big bucks. When you talk minimum wages, you're always finding people chasing around."

High school students, he's found, are the best bets. Their schedules are most accommodating.

One middle-aged woman became lonely and took to making many telephone calls during the day to fight boredom. She didn't last long.

While the job can be boring, Daniels said, none of his employees has ever been robbed.

"It's presumed — and true — there's very little money here. I've told people give them the money and ask if they need any pictures processed. There's nothing in here that can't be replaced."

The booth isn't all bad considering the small size. It's air-conditioned and contains a TV set and a telephone.

Employees have permission from the operator of a laundromat in the plaza to use toilet facilities there. Soft drinks can be purchased at a nearby deli.

"I wish there was something else we could market out of here," Daniels said wistfully. "I figured, what could be better than a LOTTO machine? Those machines only go to stores that had the instant game and had success."

So what does it really take to succeed in the drive-in photo business? Patience — and the ability to sit for extended periods, Daniels said.

Teens prompt talk need somebody to tell the judge," Lowe said, adding that previously, "some of our biggest complainers did not show up in court."

COMMISSIONER Donald Keller asked, "Do we have anything to offer these kids?" He suggested setting up regular weekend dances, adding, "I don't know if they go in for that anymore. There's something we might try before we get too hard on the issue."

Grafer said, "We have met with these kids. They want nothing that's structured by society. The only thing to do is move them off the streets."

Commissioner Karl Gansler estimated that "98 percent of these kids are great kids," wrongly linked to a rowdy minority.

Dorothy Frid of Adams, a former commission candidate, suggested that Plymouth follow the example of several European cities and establish a promenade where teens walk a prescribed downtown area, and therefore don't loiter. "It's a traditional thing and they've done it for years," Mayor William Robinson responded. "That's a good suggestion."

Peggy Tomlinson of Williams suggested moving the teens to the city's Central Parking Lot. "Why couldn't the kids be corralled there?" Lowe responded that if the city were to suggest this to teens, "if anybody's injured, we'd assume the liability."

Office equipment stolen

A copying machine valued at $1,300 and an adding machine worth at least $100 were reported stolen during a break-in last weekend at Plymouth Plating on Joy Road.

The owner of the business told police that he heard a noise shortly after arriving on the scene at about noon Sunday. He discovered the burglary at that time but didn't see anyone.

A window had been broken. File cabinets and a wooden desk sustained prying damage estimated at nearly $2,000.

A gym bag containing jewelry with an aggregate value in excess of $500 was reported stolen from Silver's Gym on Irvin. The items included gold necklaces, a gold watch and a ring.

McNamara sets sights on executive post

This is another in a series of profiles on Wayne County executive candidates in the Aug. 5 Democratic primary.

By Teri Banas
staff writer

Edward Howard McNamara emerged from a crushing defeat in the summer of 1982 with no desire left to seek higher office.

Four year ago pollsters and his closest advisers told him early on that he could not beat William Lucas, then a popular Democratic county sheriff, but he stubbornly plowed forward, eventually losing by more than 2-1 in the first county executive campaign.

This time, McNamara's campaign is in high gear.

The 60-year-old mayor of Livonia is considered the leading candidate in an 11-man field and by July's end will likely raise and spend an estimated $400,000, at least $100,000 more than the amount figured by the other top contenders.

HIS ADVERTISING budget alone — what some political observers say is the key to a low-interest race like county executive — is $250,000 and two television ads have begun appearing in the Detroit area. Besides that, his campaign has attracted the fund-raising support of western Wayne and downriver public officials, as well as pizza magnates Mike Illitch and Tom Monaghan, Livonia construction company owner Angelo DiPonio and downriver industrialist Heinz Prechter.

In a recent interview, the affable mayor said his decision to try again was made in October when the results of a poll his supporters took were complete.

This time, the polls were on his side, giving his candidacy an edge over other potentially county-known figures.

McNamara talks publicly of his campaign's financial successes and his polls' recent developments, sometimes to the consternation of other candidates within earshot.

McNamara said he wants the job of county executive for "the challenge," the opportunity to unravel county problems.

"It's a spaghetti factory down there with all that's going on," he said.

"It's certainly not the money because the salary's about the same. And I don't look forward to the trip downtown every day and I don't look forward to paying Coleman Young 1 1/2 percent income tax which applies to non-residents working downtown."

IF ELECTED McNamara has pledged to turn Wayne County, currently facing what officials identify as a $30 million deficit, into a "very sound business operation, just like the city here has run."

Three themes he uses in his campaign focus not just on improved government efficiency but on creating industrial development and on road development.

"I think the salvation of the county of Wayne is in improving its industrial development, its economic development, creating jobs. I think you can do that," McNamara said.

He also said the county's fiscal problems are one of mismanagement, rather than fund shortages.

"(In total) Wayne County probably spends a half billion dollars a year. Now, you know, if you can't build a decent park system, add golf courses that ultimately pay for themselves, if you can't do industrial development by widening roads, taking care of drainage, water and sewer with that kind of money, if you can't find it, than I'll be amazed. Once it's started, than it can mushroom."

McNAMARA TALKS a lot of Livonia's growth in his campaign advertising, citing the addition of 600 new businesses and 12,000 new jobs in his 16-year tenure as mayor. He makes the comparison between a city of 100,000 and $25 million budget to Wayne County's 1.3 million population and $201 million general budget.

City hall sources said that while that claim may be somewhat exaggenerated, McNamara still deserves credit for drawing together city interests and business ones.

"We were talking about that the other day," said Councilman Robert Bennett. "A lot of the planning for Livonia's industrial base was done before he was mayor and I was on

He aims to solve county's fiscal woes

the council. There was a role played by the previous administration but Ed played a large part in bringing it to fruition."

Bennett said McNamara's biggest contribution came in "setting the stage for a give-and-take between the city and developers." He was particularly useful in opening communication lines between government and industry.

BUT BESIDES the industrial park, city planner John Nagy said

McNamara's "legacy" will likely be in bringing improvements in Livonia's civic center. During his administration, they developed and built a new city hall with mostly federal funding, renovated the senior citizen center and district court, developed a second golf course at Whispering Willows and drafted plans for a new library.

As an administrator, McNamara meets weekly with department heads, expects to be kept informed without "having to read it in the newspapers," said one city hall source, expects his staff to be well organized and prepared, and hates "sloppy work." The mayor, himself, starts his workday at 7 a.m. and likes to have major projects completed early in the day.

He is generally good natured, though expresses irritation easily.

McNamara's management training was through Michigan Bell, where he was employed for 22 years. As a result of that training, his meetings rarely last over an hour.

Of his leadership style, McNamara said: "I recognize their (department head's) abilities, and I recognize their shortcomings, and I exploit both. I give them every chance and I replace them when they're not able to do it."

In dealing with the legislative arm of city government, McNamara has enjoyed a certain level of compatibility, and boasts of only five council vetoes in the last dozen years.

"When the council reviews my budget, it only takes them about an hour. It used to take them a couple of days," he said.

ON DEALING with legislative bodies in general, he added: "You recognize them when they do something good, and I do that. And when the votes over, and it's 5-2, I send five of them a nice note saying I appreciate you for having the courage to stick with me."

As for his plans for Wayne County, McNamara said he won't draft a game plan until after the August primary.

"On Aug. 6 the number one priority will be a talent search. We'll have five months to plan that before moving in. (Anyone who stays) will be based on accountability."

"There are departments I feel are above (accountability)," he added. "I think the sheriff's department, the register of deeds, the county clerk, the court system. . . We just have a rule here in Livonia. When you get a budget, you live within your budget. If you can't get back in line, then maybe you shouldn't be a department head."

McNamara's campaign strategy in the last stretch has involved a series of 25 community rallies, particularly in the downriver, heavily Democratic-voting communities. As a non-partisan mayor, the McNamara has relied on Republican voters to win city elections.

McNAMARA GREW up in north-west Detroit. The son of Canadian-American parents, he attended Detroit's Redford High School. He recalled "the greatest toboggan runs" in Rouge Park where he played and ice skated until his feet froze.

He later attended the University of Detroit and entered the U.S. Navy during World War II. He attended law school, as well, but did not complete it.

Salem history group thankful

The Salem Area Historical Society would like to express its gratitude to all who supported or participated in its second annual public auction on June 7. The proceeds from this event will go towards the restoration of the historic Salem Stone Schoolhouse.

The auction was made possible not only by the efforts of society members, but most importantly by a broad base of enthusiastic support from the public. Private citizens generously responded with items to auction including many donated ones. Donations from local merchants ranged from food and gift items to free advertisements.

And the Whalen Auction Service, whose donated efforts made it all possible, extended themselves above and beyond the call of duty.

A hearty thank you to each and every one of you!

Amongst blooms are few thorns

THE SURVEY recently completed by Project Key had some interesting findings about manufacturers in the Plymouth community.

Project Key involved the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Michigan Bell. Simply put, business retention was the goal of the task force.

While expanding industry is important, it is just as vital to retain existing businesses as it is to lure new ones. With that in mind, the survey was conducted to identify concerns of manufacturers in an effort to protect the community's industrial taxbase.

What was discovered is that there is a significant potential for increased tax-base and new jobs deriving from plans of Plymouth manufacturers to expand existing facilities.

About 80 percent of the 100-plus manufacturers in the city and township responded to the survey and so the results offer a solid representation of the manufacturing sector here. One important finding was that almost 60 percent were planning modernization, 27 percent were planning expansion and almost 30 percent were planning on constructing a building elsewhere within the community. Some 52 percent reported having sufficient space to expand. Of those planning to expand, only 28 percent were considering building outside the community.

AN INTERESTING footnote to the study dealt with union membership. A reason often given for businesses leaving the state or deciding against locating here has been the high cost of labor because of Detroit being a highly unionized area. For the city and township, though, 78 percent of the firms do not have union shops. The reason, often overlooked, is that most small manufacturers are not unionized.

Another interesting part of the survey was that most manufacturers do not take advantage of and are not that well informed about Small Business Administration financing, the Private Industry Council or the target jobs tax credit program. Schoolcraft College already is making efforts with the Plymouth Chamber to help in this area as well as to provide information on getting more government contracts, an area of interest to local manufacturers.

The Township Board and City Commission can feel good that local manufacturers hold a high opinion of local government. Some 26 percent felt local government was excellent, and almost 49 percent "good." Some 90 percent felt the Plymouth community was an excellent or good place to do business compared to 41 percent for the state.

There were some local concerns expressed about vandalism, lighting, road conditions (pot holes) and traffic conditions. The task force has made some recommendations which the governmental units are considering. Plymouth Township is forming a committee to evaluate its format in response to some of the comments made.

While there are steps that can, and should, be taken to encourage businesses to remain here and expand here, the community has done many things right. But Project Key does not intend to pat the community on the back and let things rest there. While the Plymouth community scored high and can take pride in the survey results, there were problems identified and concerns expressed. There is work to be done.

Drunk audit shows MADD was wrong

REP. W.V. (Sandy) Brotherton, R-Farmington, is a cerebral guy who actually reads audits.

There is food for uncomfortable thought in Brotherton's latest missive, on the subject of drunk drivers — why so few are being convicted.

Now keep in mind that a few years ago, Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD), parents who had lost children to drunk drivers, bludgeoned the Legislature into passing tough new laws against drunk driving.

Tough? Let's just say there are stiffer penalties. That's not the same as tough.

BROTHERTON DIPPED into the State Police Traffic Services Division's audit and discovered:

- In Oakland County, DD convictions dropped by half — from 6,709 in 1984 to 2,922 last year.
- In Wayne County, despite Sheriff Bob Ficano's showman-like crackdown, convictions dropped more than half — from 14,954 in 1984 to 6,946 last year.
- A similar trend can be found in Macomb and other counties.

Meanwhile, arrest figures either held steady or declined only 10 percent, leading the cerebral Sandy to wonder:

"What good does it do to spend additional time and money stepping up efforts to arrest drunk drivers if the conviction rate is so poor? The courts have either gone soft on drunk drivers again, or defense attorneys have found new loopholes in the tougher drunk-driving laws."

WE TOLD you so — "we" being Sen. Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, who is more famous, unfortunately, for his arrest record than for his considerable legal knowledge, and yours truly.

While MADD intimidated legislators from the balcony, Brown looked right back, told them flat-out it wouldn't work, and said why.

The mere fact that one is arrested for (say) second-offense drunk-driving doesn't mean one will be tried on that charge. Prosecutors have the right to reduce the charge to first offense or "impaired" driving. Brown told them — or tried to, because people who are MADD don't listen so good.

Moreover, when you raise the penalty, you lower the comparative cost of hiring a good lawyer to fight the case.

And when a prosecutor sees your lawyer will fight, he quickly decides he doesn't want to go to trial because he has all sorts of heinous crimes to prosecute, so he agrees to reduce the charge.

That's what Brown said in 1982, I agreed, and our reward was ridicule from MADD letter writers.

SO WHAT did Brotherton find in '86 when poring through the audit?

The majority of individuals arrested for drunken driving who are convicted, are not convicted for the more serious offense of driving under the influence of liquor, but for the lesser offense of "impaired" driving.

If you want to fight drunk driving, (1) don't allow prosecutors to plea-bargain, (2) close the bars at midnight instead of 2:30 a.m., (3) reduce the "tough" penalties to where they were and (4) license more neighborhood bars so drinkers can either walk or not drive so far.

Pandering to MADD is no solution. Read the audit.

LOOKING FOR information about state government? The League of Women Voters has a toll-free telephone service (1-800-292-5823) that may be helpful.

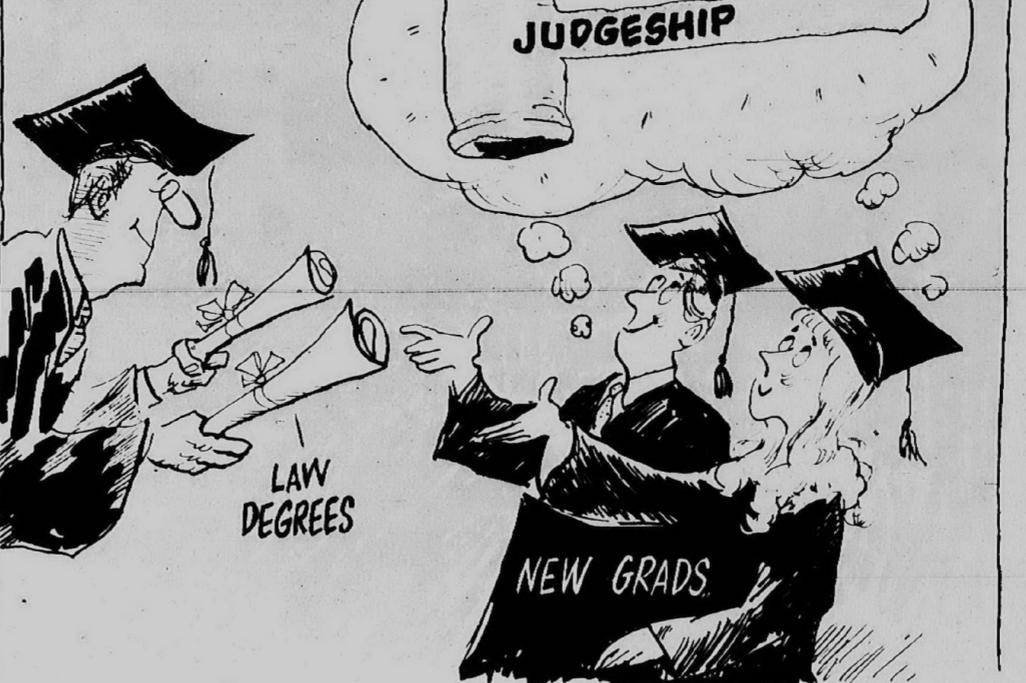

The league's Citizen Information Center in Lansing offers to help people find out about such things as pending legislation, the state constitution, election laws, voting regulations or tax information.

The telephone is answered from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. weekdays.

The telephone service is paid for by the league's education fund. The League of Women Voters is a non-profit organization that works to keep voters interested and informed about governmental issues.

No experience necessary

AS ELECTIONS draw near, I think of more and more questions to ask my friend Joe Schwartz, the political pro who is always ready to provide illumination about electoral matters.

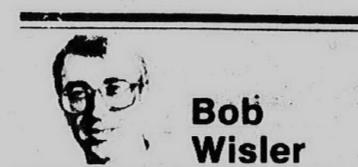

I was perplexed by the number of candidates for judge whose names are Irish or whose names are the same or similar to the names of people who are already judges.

I also wondered why lawyers who have not tried a case in circuit court or who have only been practicing law for a few years decide to run for judge.

SURVEYING the field in Wayne County, we find such candidates as James Ryan (not the Supreme Court judge of the same name), Sean Kavanagh (who with three years in as an attorney is no relation to the present Supreme Court judge or the former Supreme Court judge), James Rashid (the son of the late Circuit Court judge Joseph Rashid), David Szymanski (three years in as a lawyer but the son of Probate Court Judge Frank Szymanski), Stephen Foley (no relation to Circuit Judge Thomas Foley).

There are also two Murphys, Ada Kerwin (wife of Recorder's Court judge David Kerwin), and Greg Stempien (brother of circuit judge Marvin Stempien).

In Oakland County, there are five candidates fighting for the one seat available, that of retiring judge Frederick Ziem. The field includes none other than Judge Ziem's son, William E.

Bob Wisler

Young Ziem is probably trying to follow a trail already blazed in Wayne Circuit Court by several sons who followed their fathers and uncles to the bench — Judges Richard Hathaway, Richard Kaufman, Robert Colombo — and Recorder's court — Joseph Gillis.

"JOE," I SAID to Schwartz, "what does it take to get elected? I have a friend who has years of experience and is extremely well qualified and he..."

"Stop," says Joe. "Please do not bring into discussions about elections anything that has to do with qualifications."

"Listen up. This is how judges get elected. First off, all incumbent judges are re-elected no matter what. This is because the Legislature has been kind enough to ensure that an incumbent always has the word "judge" under his name.

"Voters vote for people with the word judge under their name, no matter what. So, attorneys don't run against judges, they run against other attorneys when there is a vacancy and no incumbent.

"SECONDLY, even the best attorney has little chance of being elected if he doesn't have a good name," Joe continued.

"Do you mean a good reputation?" I asked hopefully.

"No," Joe said, "I mean name. Like Sullivan, O'Brien, Ryan, Murphy. Now those are good names. Kaufman is a good name. Gillis is a good name. Szymanski is a good name. Names like Albright, Henderson, Cartwright, Pepitone, these are not good names."

"Wait a minute," I said. "What makes a good name?"

"Listen further," Joe said. "Voters invariably do not have time nor inclination to learn anything about judicial candidates before they vote. So they go into the voting booth and vote for the person whose name sounds good, or at least familiar.

"Voters like Irish names generally, but sometimes they like a Jewish name, like Kaufman, or Polish names, like Szymanski. They vote for a name they have heard before in connection with a judgeship. Consequently a good name is a name that is the same as or sounds the same as the name of a judge who has been elected and re-elected over the years."

Ah, now I understand how judges are elected.

State death squad is bad form

TALK ABOUT HEAT. A colleague of mine says there should be a law against such a heat wave in Michigan.

You'll wait 'til November. That's when you'll see a heat wave like Michigan hasn't experienced in many a year. Now we're talking about a political heat of major proportions.

Finally Oakland County's own rendition of Don Quixote, Prosecutor Brooks Patterson, is going to see one of his very own windmills, capital punishment, be put on the November ballot.

Brooks and his kill-the-criminal colleagues have been working for many years to give Michigan voters a chance to pull the lever on this life-threatening issue.

Gathering enough signatures always has been a problem. But political climates do change and this year it looks as if enough registered voters were convinced to sign a petition.

So be it.

AFTER ALL there is something to be said for persistence. Unfortunately even persistence can be misguided. And a quest to fry, hang, strangle or otherwise decimate another individual is certainly misguided.

But that's my opinion — admittedly not one shared by a whole lot of other folks. Just how many will be determined on Nov. 4.

crackerbarrel debate
Steve Barnaby

But before the debate gets much louder, and it certainly will, I thought I just might drop a point or two into the hopper for voters to think about.

Much of how Michigan looks upon itself for the next couple of generations will be determined by that vote. After all once something, no matter how socially repugnant, is passed into law, it inherits a cloak of legitimacy and certainly moral acceptance.

That could be the case with capital punishment. In other words, children for the next couple of generations will learn through a general acceptance of society, that it's perfectly all right to kill somebody. After all, the law says it is so.

That makes me mighty uncomfortable.

You hear folks say that about a lot of issues. "Well, the Supreme Court has determined..."

As you know, the Supreme Court generally has upheld a state's right to kill a criminal in recent years.

BUT THROUGHOUT history, the high court has determined that lots of things are just okey-dokey. Remember the Dred Scott decision. That's the one where the judicial fathers gave the cloak of legitimacy to slavery, of all things.

And just as you might expect slavery was just fine for a whole lot of folks. Oh the slaves weren't mad about the idea, for sure. But a whole range of thinking grew up around the idea that it was both economically necessary and socially acceptable to own another person.

Rest assured you'll hear the same kind of logic used in the capital punishment debate. Everything from "it will save us money" to "God says it's all right," will be echoed throughout the state.

But like the arguments used in defense of slavery, those used in the selling of a governmental death squad will just be excuses to cover up our failure to deal with the root causes of our troubled society.

You really can't vote crime out of existence — at the ballot box or on the guillotine.

This Detroit Tiger fan can top all others

SO YOU THINK you're a dyed-in-the-wool baseball fan, particularly dedicated to the day-in, day-out, year-in, year-out fate of the Detroit Tigers, do you?

Well, just listen to Gerald Marcis, a 37-year-old salesman who was taken to his first Tiger game at the age of 18 months and who never tires talking of what some call the national pastime.

Gerry was born in the Delray district of southwest Detroit ("My parents had their engagement dinner at Joey's Stables."), graduated from Kennedy High School in Taylor and Eastern Michigan University at Ypsilanti, covers Michigan from a Birmingham office for the Milwaukee-based W.H. Brady Co. as a senior sales representative, and lives in Canton with wife, Linda, a registered nurse, and their children, Nicole, 13, and Justin, 9.

He was raised in a family of baseball nuts.

"WE WERE an eastern European through bifocals

family from Czechoslovakia and all lived in the same house — great-grandmother, great-grandfather, aunts, uncles, grandparents, mother and father, and then I was the first grandchild.

"Sometimes around dinner time they'd be looking for my great-grandfather, who lived until he was 90 and was a baseball fan until the day he died. Grandma used to be hollering for him and if they couldn't find him they'd send my uncle on a streetcar down to the ball park because he'd be in the bleachers. He'd pay a quarter to go in and drag him home for dinner. He'd be down there every day."

It was an atmosphere that rubbed off on the whole clan, the men heading for the game whenever the Tigers were home as soon as they got off work at Ford's, those being the days when baseball was strictly an afternoon sport.

"MY UNCLAS had me throwing baseballs by the time I was a year old," claims Marcis, "and I could recite most major league batting averages when I was 5. My favorite Tiger was Harvey Kuenn and my mother had a seamstress make me a baseball uniform with the number 7, just like Harvey. I cried when Detroit traded him to Cleveland."

How does a new bride who previously had not really cared that much about baseball fit into such a setting? Gerry tells it this way:

"When we got married, my wife and I drove east to visit New York City and some other places. After a couple of days around West Point, I said, 'Let's take a ride.'

"When we pulled into Cooperstown I told her we were at the Hall of Fame. That started her baseball education. Now we take the kids and go to a dozen or more Tiger games a season and she considers herself a backdoor manager for Sparky Anderson."

Gerry was a better than average ball player himself as a pitcher through the progressive levels of Little League, high school, Detroit Amateur Federation and for a season at EMU. Then the arm went dead and even today he can't throw a ball across the infield without pain. To stay close to a sport he loves, he helps coach Little Leaguers.

AND WHAT about that son, Justin, only 9?

Just naturally, he caught the baseball disease, too, and his Dad said the kid's fast ball "Really hops." Gerry added that on a return trip to Cooperstown two years ago, with the whole family in tow, "Justin was just like me; he was in his glory."

But this is one father who knows there are two sides to a coin.

"I'll encourage him, but I won't push him and my wife agrees," said Marcis. "He's an excellent student and must broaden his interests. Linda has laid down the law and this fall Justin will even start piano lessons."

Kid, you may not like it for the time being, but finding your own niche in life is the way it should be. Pushy pops can do more harm than good and it sounds as though the Marcis family know that full well. Good for them.

'Country' doesn't disappoint many years later

FIRST SAW Enos Slaughter play baseball at Milwaukee County Stadium on a sunny Tuesday afternoon in September of 1959.

It was an afternoon when I should have been conjugating irregular verbs in Sally Gentile's Spanish class at Brookfield High School.

Me skip school? Well, but this was my favorite ballplayer, the guy who spat tobacco juice on people's shoes and never stopped running on a baseball field.

And he'd just been sold from the Yankees to the Braves and was debuting in town that day. I had to be there.

I'd hand Sally a line about a doctor's appointment or something. Hey, didn't I have old Sal twirling around my little finger? Or was it the other way around?

Anyway, I saw Enos (Country) Slaughter, still hustling (or at least hobbling in a hustling sort of way) at the age of 43, play ball that day. And the country boy didn't disappoint. In his first at bat, he rapped a single off Cincinnati's Bob Purkey.

I haven't thought about Enos Slaughter much over the years, although I remember being happy last summer when they finally voted him into the Baseball Hall of Fame.

Well, I met Country Slaughter, who turned 70 last April, up close and personal recently. He was signing autographs at four bucks a scrawl at one of Jim Hawkins' baseball shows at the Dearborn Civic Center.

ON THE WAY to the show I asked myself: What's this guy going to be like? Probably lives in Sherman Oaks, California, and has his hair styled. He won't want to talk about baseball in the 1940s.

But once again Country Slaughter didn't disappoint.

He was balding, bulging and jowley (probably not all that different from when I saw him play almost 27 years ago) and his ham hands did not fit easily into his trouser pockets.

And he was chock full of baseball stories.

"Yeah, they called me pear-shaped; they called me barrel-assed; they called me skin head," said Slaughter in the soft Carolina drawl, sounding a bit like preacher Billy Graham, another well-known North Carolinian. "But I didn't care."

They also called him Marryin' Sam (after the character in the "Li'l Abner" comic strip) for his success — or lack of it — with the ladies. He's been married five times. Divorced from No. 5 in 1980, he lives alone on his tobacco farm near Roxboro, N.C.

These days, if you see a big chunk of gold on the third finger of his left hand, you can be sure it's his Hall of Fame ring.

"Beats wearing a wedding ring, don't it?" kidded an in-the-know fan in Dearborn.

"Well, I had so many of them that I threw them away," Slaughter answered with a laugh.

Tom Baer

SLAUGHTER SAT in a folding chair for four hours that day, signing his name on everything that was placed in front of him. When he wasn't writing, he was answering questions.

There was the question about the quality of players today:

"I don't take anything away from today's ballplayers," said Slaughter, who never made big money in baseball, not even when he played for the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals of the 1940s or the New York Yankees a decade later.

"But with the money they make, I think they could be a little more aggressive and do a little better job. Guy hits his weight now, he's making $400,000. It's out of proportion. If he hits .240, he's a superstar."

"When I come up, he'd be back in the minor leagues trying to learn how to play."

And there was the question on players using drugs today:

"I told (Baseball Commissioner Peter) Ueberroth when I first met him, 'If these ballplayers think they can make this kind of money outside of sports, let em try it.'

"I'll tell you, I don't care if it's the biggest superstar in it, if he's got to go on drugs with the money he's getting paid today, I'd throw him out of it and never let him come back."

And on spit-ball pitchers:

"Hell, I didn't know a spitter from nothin' else when I was hittin'. I don't know what a spitter is today. Shoot, they said, 'He throws a spitter.' I say give they guy credit."

AND TOUGH pitchers he's faced:

"Long as the guy threw one at a time, I thought I could hit him. When I started seeing two (balls), I backed out."

And fans on the road:

"Philadelphia was a lousy place. Lousy place to play, lousy fans. But I'd say the Dodgers, Ebbets Field, had the best fans. They never did boo (Stan) Musial and me, and we hit the Dodgers like we owned 'em."

And on brush-back pitches:

"I knew everybody who hit me or knocked me down. If they hit me or roughed me up, boy, they'd better not cover first base when I was going down that line, 'cause I'd be after 'em."

On some player actions today:

"They get up there (to bat) and they back out and they do this and do that and they look like a goll-darn bunch of damn worms in hot ashes. Hell, walk up there and be ready."

On chewing tobacco:

"I was superstitious. If I was having a good day with the chew I had in my mouth, I wouldn't add to it. But if I didn't get a base hit, I'd add some. Then I'd really be chewing."

On growing up on a North Carolina tobacco farm 60 years ago:

"It weren't nothing to wear triple-patch overalls. We grew our own wheat for bread. We raised our own hogs for country hams. I didn't play baseball to get off the farm. I played because I loved baseball."

ON BEING traded to the Yankees after 13 seasons with the Cardinals:

"My contract was one of the first Busch signed as owner (of the Cardinals). On Dec. 28, 1953, (he said), 'You're a credit to the game and you'll always be with me.'"

"Two months later I'm in New York and I'm finding out what a cold-hearted game this is. I said to myself, 'You can't believe nothin'.'"

On himself:

"I went to bat 7,946 times; I played in 2,380 games; (I had) 2,383 hits; missed three prime years in the service; I had 413 doubles; 148 triples; 169 home runs; a lifetime average of .300; I scored 1,247 runs and drove in 1,304..."

And he hustled. He always hustled. He should have mentioned that. Old Busch was right about one thing: Enos Slaughter was one of the game's credits.

There just aren't many like him today... not many I'd be willing to miss a Sally Gentile Spanish class to see play.

Regional school tax in talk stage

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Don't look for fast action in the Michigan Legislature on bills to "regionalize" industrial tax base to the benefit of poorer school districts.

But do expect lawmakers to start work this year on major reforms in the property tax — the biggest source of revenue for suburban school districts, but one which homeowners consider the most onerous tax.

"It (the regional tax bill) is part of an overall goal we have as Senate Republicans to do something about high property taxes in this state," said Senate Majority Leader John Engler, R-Mt. Pleasant.

"I'm not sure there's sufficient support at this point," said Engler in an interview Sunday on the "Spotlight on News" program (WXYZ-TV).

THE IDEA is contained in bills sponsored by Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, in the upper chamber, and Reps. William Keith, D-Garden City, and James O'Neill, D-Saginaw, in the lower.

Industrial and commercial properties worth $20 million or more would be assessed by the state and placed in a "regional impact" category, according to DeGrow.

After 10 years, half the property tax revenues from this class would go into the state school aid fund and be distributed to all local districts under the school aid formula. It would be a form of statewide property tax collection.

The idea of sharing industrial property taxes across a large area is at least 25 years old. It pops up at outstate Farm Bureau meetings, usually with the suggestion that industrial taxes be allocated county-wide.

"In Michigan," said DeGrow, "huge disparities can exist between schools like Birmingham, levying 30 mills and providing $5,562 per pupil, and Martin, levying 30 mills and providing $2,394 per pupil" in 1985-6.

LIVONIA SCHOOL officials, in particular, are upset at the bill, declaring one-fifth of the district's tax base would have to be shared. Livonia has seen a building boom, led by hotels and high-tech firms, along the I-275 corridor.

DeGrow said only 15 of the state's 569 school districts would lose any funding. "Most" districts would be helped, he said.

Engler said DeGrow "has put it in, with himself as the only sponsor, simply to generate some discussion. Not all suburban school districts probably would be harmed by this legislation.

"DeGrow would like it to be part of the debate.

"It will take some time to calculate what he's talking about," the Senate GOP leader said. "Let's let the Senate talk about it and then face the constituents."

WHILE LEGISLATORS campaign for re-election, Engler said, consultants and non-politicians appointed by the Senate will make a new study of the property tax, schools' dependence on it, assessing practices and senior citizens' burdens.

Engler said Senate Republicans won't consider Democratic Gov. James J. Blanchard's "tax fairness" plan, which the Republican called more of a tax increase plan since it would raise taxes on insurance premiums and bank services.

"It (Blanchard's) wasn't a property tax program at all. It was a tax hike. The Senate will continue to be vigilant on tax hikes. The tax issue is a Republican issue," Engler said.

He called it "extremely unlikely" the House and Senate would compromise on their rival property tax rebate plans in time for Dec. 1 bills to be reduced.

"The House hasn't even given our senior citizens property tax cut proposal a hearing," he said.

In earlier announcements, Engler suggested that in 1987 lawmakers consider placing a "tax shift" proposal on the ballot. Property taxes for schools would be cut in return for an increase in the sales tax rate, currently 4 percent.

State tax rate to fall — Headlee

There's no need for Gov. James J. Blanchard or any legislator to promise a state income tax cut when the federal tax-cut bill becomes law, according to Richard Headlee, Farmington Hills insurance executive.

"There is no promise necessary from Gov. Blanchard, or vote required in the State Legislature," Headlee said, citing the 1978 "Headlee amendment" to the Michigan Constitution.

The 1982 Republican gubernatorial nominee, Headlee, president of Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co., said, "I am a little amused by news media reports that Gov. Blanchard is promising to lower the state's income tax if Congress finally approved President Reagan's tax-reform bill.

"EVERYBODY from the governor to Sen. Donald Riegle to State Treasurer Robert A. Bowman to leaders of the State Legislature are suggesting that they have a role in cutting taxes if President Reagan's current cut results in an additional $150 million plus of state taxes being raised in Michigan."

The Headlee amendment, named for him, says, "For any fiscal year in the event that total state revenues exceed the revenue limit... by 1 percent or more, the excess revenues shall be refunded pro-rata."

If a federal income tax cut raises Michigan's income tax revenues by the estimated $150 million, this would allow a 0.2 percentage point reduction in the income tax rate, Headlee said. Each 0.1 percent raises $80 million to $85 million.

IF IT IS NOT reduced, revenues will once again exceed the constitutional limit, and the money will have to be refunded as required by the Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment.

The tax limitation amendment was passed by Michigan voters as a ballot issue in 1978. Headlee led a citizens' organization which drafted the language and obtained more than 500,000 petition signatures to put it on the ballot.

"What is further amusing," Headlee said, "is that then-Congressman James Blanchard opposed the 1978 tax limitation amendment, and then-state Rep. John Engler supported the ballot issue."

Miniature Coca-Cola trucks are among the items on display at the Plymouth Historical Museum. The museum at 155 S. Main St. is open to the public 1-4 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sunday.

An exhibit just for the fun of it

By Julie Brown
staff writer

THE REAL thing can be found these days at the Plymouth Historical Museum.

An exhibit of Coca-Cola items is on display at the museum, 155 S. Main, in Plymouth. "Summer Fun" is the theme for the current exhibits at the museum, including the Coca-Cola collection.

Coca-Cola was first used 100 years ago, according to Barbara Saunders, museum director.

"It originally started as medication, then they added the carbonated water to it."

The items on display are from the collection of Andy and Carole Anderson. The collection includes items from the late 19th and the 20th centuries.

The exhibit includes a number of Coca-Cola trays, each showing the styles of hair and clothing that were popular at the time.

"The trays were always the fashion, whatever the fashion was of the day," Saunders said. One tray from the mid-1920s features a flapper enjoying a Coke.

AN URN from the 1890s for soda fountain use is among the items on display. Books — such as Cecil Munsey's "The Illustrated Guide to the Collectibles of Coca-Cola" — advertisements, bottles, toys and games are included.

Small cars and trucks with a Coca-Cola design are also featured.

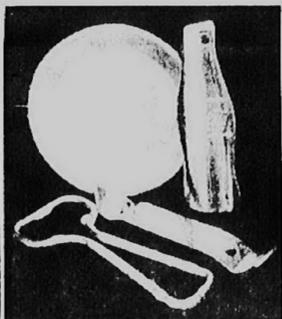

"The kids love the little cars and the trucks," the museum director said.

Santa Claus memorabilia — all with a Coca-Cola design — can also be found at the exhibit.

The Santa Claus items include trays, Christmas tree ornaments, cards, bells, coasters and tins. The Coca-Cola name and design are displayed prominently on each item.

"They really keep their name before you all the time," Saunders said of the cola maker.

Other small items include a thimble, an ashtray, matches, bottle openers, a sewing kit and a cigarette lighter in the shape of a Coca-Cola bottle.

The Coca-Cola name is prominently featured on the items displayed at the museum in Plymouth. "Summer Fun" is the theme for the current exhibits at the museum, including the Coca-Cola collection.

This 1925 tray features a flapper enjoying a Coke. A number of trays featuring the Coca-Cola name and design are on display at the museum.

The Coca-Cola trays at the museum show the styles of hair and clothing that were popular during different eras.

The Plymouth Historical Museum exhibit features an assortment of Coca-Cola items, including some that were suitable for use by schoolchildren of an earlier decade.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

No, Barbara Saunders isn't rounding up volunteers for the Plymouth Historical Museum. Saunders is the director of the museum, which recently received a Model 25 classic air gun from the Daisy Manufacturing Co. Daisy had its beginnings in Plymouth and moved to Rogers, Ark., in 1958. The company is celebrating its centennial this year and gave the air gun to the museum in Plymouth for the occasion.

Daisy keeps in touch

THE DAISY Manufacturing Co. left Plymouth in 1958 for Rogers, Ark. Even so, Daisy's former presence isn't too hard to spot in Plymouth.

Daisy rifles can no doubt be found stored away in Plymouth-Canton area basements and garages. The Model 25, a classic Daisy air gun, can also be found these days at the Plymouth Historical Museum.

"They were very important to Plymouth," said Barbara Saunders, museum director. "Plymouth was known as the BB gun capital of the world."

The Model 25 was reproduced for the centennial of the Daisy Manufacturing Co. Inc., which still has its headquarters in Rogers. The air gun was given to the Plymouth Historical Museum by the company for the 100th anniversary celebration.

"They sent it to us because they thought that if anyone should have it, Plymouth should," the museum director said.

The Model 25 is on display at the museum, along with a number of other Daisy products.

"We collect as many Daisys as we can," she said.

SAUNDERS HAS found that many newcomers to the area who visit the museum aren't aware of Daisy's longtime presence in Plymouth. The company was a major employer of local people while it was operating here.

The Plymouth Historical Museum, 155 S. Main, is open to the public from 1 to 4 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sunday.

Admission is $1 for adults, 50 cents for those ages 11 to 17 and 25 cents for those ages 5 to 10. For additional information, call the museum, 455-8940.

Arrival was on the road

WHEN YOUNG Callan Marie Krieg was ready to come into the world, she decided not to waste any time.

Callan Marie, the daughter of Larry and Gretchen Krieg of Plymouth, was born at approximately 7:40 p.m. Friday, June 13 — while her parents were in their Ford Escort on their way to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The couple continued their drive to the hospital rather than stopping along the way.

"I was kind of panicking," Gretchen said. "But Larry was calm. He kept me calm, kind of talked me through it."

The Krieges were driving on M-14 approaching U.S. 23 south when Callan Marie was born.

"Somewhere. I wasn't looking," Gretchen said. "We just kept on going. She started crying right away, so we knew she was all right."

LARRY IS a staff sergeant with the U.S. Army, working with a reserve unit, the 300th Military Police Command. He had had some emergency medical training and decided it would be best to continue the drive to the hospital without stopping.

"And get them to the hospital."

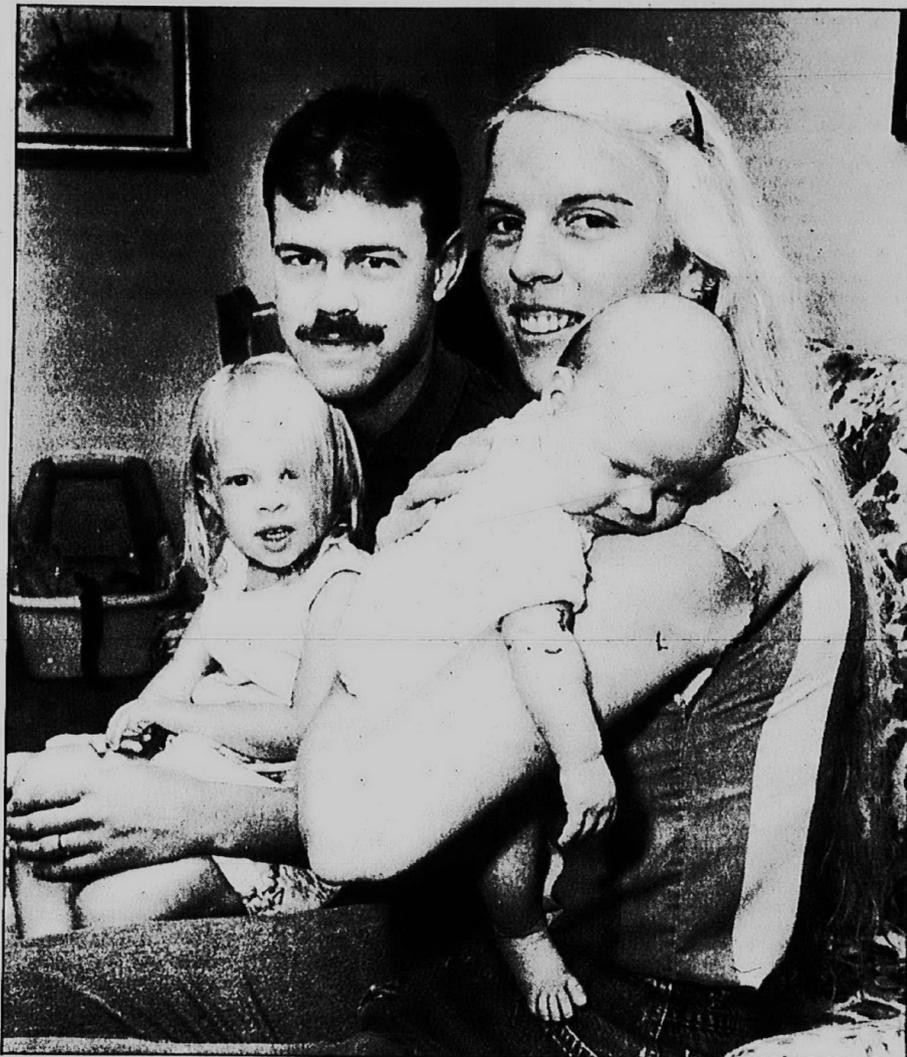

When they arrived, Larry went inside to get help. The unusual circumstances surrounding Callan Marie's birth didn't go unnoticed by the hospital staffers on duty at the time.

"They didn't say anything to me," he recalled. "They just looked at me like I was crazy."

Hospital personnel cut the umbilical cord while the mother and daughter were still in the car.

While Gretchen was in the hospital, staff members there joked that they would check her in a week early for baby number 3. Her due date for Callan Marie was June 12.

THE KRIEGS are also the parents of another daughter, Jocelyn Ann, who will be 2 next week. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Snyder of Plymouth and Mr. and

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer.

Things are a bit calmer these days for Larry and Gretchen Krieg of Plymouth. The Krieges were on their way to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor Friday, June 13, when their daughter, Callan Marie, was born in their car. The Krieges are also the parents of Jocelyn Ann, who will be 2 next week.

Mrs. Glen Krieg of Cape Coral, Fla. Unlike her younger sister, the circumstances surrounding Jocelyn Ann's birth were more routine. "She was born in St. Joe's," Larry Krieg said.

Singers travel to music school

Several members of the Midwest Harmony chapter of Sweet Adelines Inc. attended a weekend music school held in July in Sarnia, Ontario. Chapter members attended the music school to learn more about singing four-part harmony, barbershop style.

Dixie Dahlke of Royal Oak, director of the Midwest Harmony chapter, was one of the weekend music school's faculty members.

The Midwest Harmony chapter was also represented by the Crystal Classics, the 1986 champion women's quartet of the area. Canton Township's Linda Lupo sang bass.

Other Crystal Classics performers were: Shirley Heatlie of Westland, lead; Carol Cox of Brighton, baritone; and Claudia Swisher of Canton Township, tenor.

Others who attended the weekend music school in Sarnia were: Claudette Moyski of Woodhaven, Midwest Harmony president; Margaret Gardner of Trenton; and Barbara Mecklenburg of Westland.

For additional information about the Midwest Harmony chapter of Sweet Adelines Inc., call Marge Griep, 425-0017, or Claudette Moyski, 675-4413.

Church history patched together

The parishioners at St. Priscilla Church in Livonia decided to piece together the church's 25-year history.

The end result is a 7-by-7-foot quilted wall hanging. The needle work project, which took about 20 people only six months to complete, features various images depicting the history of St. Priscilla, which is celebrating its silver anniversary this year.

Several types of needle work, including stencil work, crewel and applique, were used to complete the quilt.

Donna Hendricks of Livonia, who coordinated the project, asked parishioners to contribute a square piece of needle work that featured a bit of the church's history to the wall hanging. The finished product wasn't what she originally had envisioned, but she's more than happy with the quilt.

"Everybody was cooperative," said Hendricks. "Everything just fell into place."

The people who worked on the quilt found it to be a rewarding experience also.

"We had such a feeling of accomplishment," said Lenore Curtis, who's been a volunteer at the church for 11 years. "In all my years I've been a volunteer, I've never felt the pride that we all felt when it was finished."

The quilt will hang on the back wall of St. Priscilla.

By now the shouting is over. Except for the memories and whatever bits of bunting or fire cracker wrappers may be in the waters of New York harbor the lady's 100th birthday party is history. As the celebration was aired on television I watched with pride and with gratitude. I was also moved to reflect on what it means when we say that we love America.

My pride comes from an awareness of the many great things this country has done for the people within its borders and for countless others in places whose names we cannot even pronounce correctly. People the world over have been fed due to our generosity. Nations have been helped to develop by our technology and instruction. We have fed the hungry and we have welcomed the stranger. We have reason to be proud, not vain, but proud.

As I watched the festivities and listened to the music my sense of gratitude was also alive and well. I had nothing to do with the fact that I was born in America. It was not a choice. It was a gift. I could have been born in Afghanistan, Guatemala, Nicaragua or El Salvador. South Africa, Ethiopia, Iran or Siberia — and all that goes with living in those places could have been my heritage. As it is, I live here and call America my home. This is where I am free to move about as I wish. This is the home in which I am free to worship as I choose. This is where I can vote and even dissent. Yes, I am grateful that America is my country, my home and my heritage.

But as I watched the Lady's party my reflections went beyond the pride and the gratitude. What does it mean to be American. Aside from the material advantages and the political possibilities what goes with this gift of freedom that comes with being American?

AMONG OTHER things it occurred to me that if my pride is not open enough to recognize the flaws which exist even in America then it is little more than arrogance. There is a fine line between those two — pride and arrogance — but oh, what a difference!

Those who think they are always right are not terribly pleasant to be around. Maybe that is what some in the world mean by the ugly American. We are responsible for a number of good things. But we also make mistakes. Pride does not deny mistakes. It seeks to change the course that leads to such mistakes because it cares enough to want to improve. One can be American and not endorse a national weapons market. Being a proud American does not rule out the admission of national mistakes at home or abroad.

People living in dictatorships are not allowed to dissent. They must go along with the program and even act as though they like it. People living in freedom have not only the right to dissent but the responsibility to do so when the course of action is not in keeping with human dignity for all. We cringe at the plight of political prisoners in lands beyond our borders.

But we need to know and admit that all is not clean here either. Those in the sanctuary movement or various peace projects know that all too well. Real Americans do not just go along for the ride. They live responsibly by using their freedom to help their country toward the realization of its highest ideals.

We may be quick to judge those who take this citizenship seriously by using their right to dissent. We may suggest that law is more important than right. But that is not what the American Revolution was all about. It is not what the Lady in New York harbor represents. The Revolution either continues or it dies. And the torch. It is a torch about a liberty begun but one that is still in the making. It is not a torch to be carried by the arrogant. It belongs to the proud and the grateful.

Theology professor to discuss spirituality

John Powell, author, television lecturer and professor of theology at Loyola University, will be the featured speaker 2:30-4 p.m. today at Madonna College's Spirituality Institute which runs through Friday, July 15.

Powell will speak on "Spirituality: The Wellsprings of Life." He will discuss the 10 steps that lead to the discovery of peace and inner happiness.

His 14 books have sold 13 million copies, making him one of the best selling Christian authors in the country. His television show, "American Catholic with Father John Powell, S.J.," reaches an estimated nine million homes each week. Despite his success, Powell has not given up teaching theology at Loyola University. A graduate of the Loyola Academy, he entered the Society of Jesus at 17 and taught at the Jesuit Seminary in West Baden, Ind.

OTHER NOTED lecturers at the Institute include Dr. Phillip O'Dwyer, president and clinical director of Brookfield Clinic. O'Dwyer will address the issue of substance abuse. The Rev. John Quinn, associate director of Detroit Justice and Peace Commission, will speak on "Scripture and Sacrament."

June Hallagan Shays, former Madonna College instructor, will discuss the topics of anxiety, grief and spiritual growth.

The Rev. John Powell

Director of the Duns Scotus School of Evangelization will speak on "St. Francis, One Small Man."

Institute courses can be taken for college credit. Housing and meals are available on campus, 36600 Schoolcraft, at the intersection of I-96 and Levon Road, for out-of-city participants. For more information, call 591-5178.

Catholic schools to accept credit cards

Starting in the fall, Catholic grade and high schools in the Archdiocese of Detroit will accept tuition and other payments on either MasterCard or Visa credit cards.

The decision whether to participate in the program, sponsored by the National Bank of Detroit, will be left up to the individual schools.

"By utilizing the credit-card program, tuition payments could be made in periodic increments rather than in two lump sums, as is now usually the case," said the Rev. Francis Reiss, director of education for the Archdiocese of Detroit.

In most Catholic schools, 65 to 75 percent of the operating budget comes from tuition, which creates cash-flow problems, according to Reiss.

Blueprint for success?

Hilton renovation aimed at boosting occupancy

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

In an effort to boost business, the new managers of the Plymouth Hilton Inn have begun a $2.5 million renovation.

"I think it is a beautiful property with great potential," said general manager Adel Abdo of the 195-room hotel-restaurant on Northville Road south of Five Mile in Plymouth. Work began nearly a month ago on the hotel's long-established restaurant. Renovation of conference rooms, lobby, hallways and private rooms is expected to be finished Sept. 18, Abdo said.

Columbia Sussex Corp. of Fort Mitchell, Ky., owners of the property, took over management in February and began planning the remodeling. Abdo, a former manager in the Sheraton chain, said purchasing and renovating hotel properties is the corporation's specialty.

Abdo stresses that good management hinges on attention to small but important detail to make the hotel more attractive to business customers. For example, Abdo said that upon his arrival he noticed that burned-out lights outside the main door gave the impression the inn was closed. Those lights have been replaced, and the grounds are improved.

CURRENTLY CALLED the Jolly Miller restaurant, the original Thunderbird Restaurant preceded the hotel complex by several years. That restaurant, remembered locally for its Sunday brunches and live music, failed in the early '70s. Then, anticipating that a Northville Road exit would be built off the M-14 extension, previous owners began construction of an adjoining hotel complex. But state highway department plans for the exit were scrapped, and the owners went bankrupt. As a result, the restaurant failed, and the hotel complex was left unfinished.

An investment group bought the property and completed construction of the hotel in the late '70s. It is now owned by Columbia Sussex.

The general theme of the renovation is to make the hotel "more contemporary, more modern," said Abdo. In the lobby, worn red carpeting, which Abdo describes as "tacky," will be removed and replaced by marble floors. A small gift shop near the hotel desk will be extended down a hallway, where merchandise will be visible from outside the shop when a wall section is removed and replaced with clear glass.

Soundproof glass will surround a dance-floor area in the remodeled restaurant, "so people won't be interrupted when they're enjoying dinner," Abdo said. Following the contemporary theme, the restaurant will feature nouvelle cuisine — French cooking relying less on heavy sauces and butter than traditional French cuisine. Abdo said the tradition of offering three different dinner specials will remain.

ARNIE SHORT, project superintendent overseeing the renovation, said the restaurant will have "a lot lighter, brighter atmosphere to it." Work crews have already removed the dark wood paneling that set the restaurant's previous theme. "What I call the dungeon style," Short said. In place of darker carpeting and wood paneling will be light ceramic tile, blondish oak, planters, and glass.

Short said new, lighter colored carpeting and wallpaper will brighten guest rooms, also to be stocked with new beds and more modern furniture. Abdo said room rates will range $68-$80 per night.

"We're expecting about a 10 percent increase in our room occupancy," Abdo says, adding that the current number of hotel employees, about 175, should rise to 200 following renovation.

Chamber chairman bullish on regional problem-solving

By Carolyn Smith
special writer

Jack (John J.) Avignone offers a warm smile and a friendly handshake before inviting his visitor to settle into a cozy chair in his modest, tastefully appointed Dearborn office.

A Birmingham resident, Avignone is president and chief executive officer of the 1.3 million member Automobile Club of Michigan. As the new board chairman of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, he's about to share some personal opinions on how to link Detroit with its suburbs.

Avignone serves on the state Governor's Commission on China and the Michigan Sesquicentennial Commission. Among his Detroit board memberships are the Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Visitors Bureau, New Detroit, the Economic Club of Detroit, Detroit Renaissance, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and the United Foundation. He is also a board member of First of America

Bank-Oakland & Macomb and a trustee of the Academy of the Sacred Heart in Bloomfield Hills. He served as general chairman of the 1986 Detroit-Windsor International Freedom Festival.

Avignone's community involvement is especially noteworthy because he is a New York City native who didn't move to Michigan until 1979 when he joined AAA as executive vice president.

In rapid-fire comments, he exudes enthusiasm for the future of Detroit and its suburbs.

"DETROIT REALLY has done a great job of rebuilding itself," he said, citing riverfront development from Belle Isle to the Ambassador Bridge, Greektown, Bricktown, the Warehouse District. And although he agrees the city has some major problems to solve, he claims his pet projects just may provide some of the answers.

For instance, there's the transportation problem. Light rail transit, with connector lines along the downtown People Mover, is Avignone's top priority. "The key to linking the hub of Detroit to the large business centers in Troy, Southfield, Rochester and Ann Arbor is appropriate transportation," he said.

With Detroit's clogged parking lots and jammed expressways, Avignone thinks the light rail systems will encourage more mobility of people between Detroit and the suburbs.

First, he would like to see a line go up Woodward to Birmingham and Pontiac, and another up Gratiot to Mount Clemens and beyond. Later, a line should extend to western Wayne County and Ann Arbor, and another to the Grosse Pointes.

THEN, THERE'S the matter of hotel space Avignone supports expanded hotel accommodations to attract more and bigger shows and conventions to the Detroit area. "The (1980) Republican National Convention here taught us a few things. Among them, every hotel and motel for miles around was filled."

More rooms also would help support the projected surge in tourism, Avignone said. "Tourism is Michigan's second largest industry. In a report I read recently, Michigan State University predicts a 10 percent annual increase in tourism. We must have more hotels. In fact, the day the Novi Hilton opened, it already had begun putting on an addition."

Avignone believes providing jobs is another important factor. He stressed that matching jobs with the right people will be difficult unless the quality of education in Detroit Public Schools improves.

The (school) system has real problems. It has high dropout and teen pregnancy rates. I really believe good role models and the promise of jobs can help convince kids it's worthwhile to stay in school."

Avignone helped develop the Detroit Public Education Fund, which is supported by businesses and matching grants from the Ford Foundation.

One part of the fund gives mini-grants of $100 to $200 to teachers with special education projects or needs. Another part offers various company volunteers who tell their business stories to students who may not see a good job in their future. A third part supports an "Adopt-a-school" program in which company employees teach special skills to students at a chosen school.

"All three of these programs are designed to help kids get some insights into the outside world," Avignone said. "And that's very important."

HE AGREES with business associates who say changing times have created a vast disparity between needed skills and workers able to offer them. "The economic downturn in the area has left us with a well-trained work force for the wrong jobs. We need to emphasize retraining."

Avignone and his wife, Patricia, a clinical psychologist, have a son, 28, and a daughter, 17. With little leisure time, he still reads two to four books per week. "Most of them are about history, especially the Civil War. I love history."

Days are always too short for busy men like Avignone. So he looks for ways to increase efficiency.

He believes long, ponderous memos are a waste of everyone's time.

"The first thing I did when I came here (to AAA) was to write a memo on memos. It said that any memo longer than 1 1/2 pages had to be accompanied by a half-page memo telling me what the thing's about. That memo has worked wonders," he said with a smile of satisfaction.

Avignone claimed his bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Pennsylvania in 1954 has served him well. "Anybody reasonably intelligent can learn about a business. But if that person can communicate well, all the better."

'The key to linking the hub of Detroit to the large business centers in Troy, Southfield, Rochester and Ann Arbor is appropriate transportation.'

— Jack Avignone

Do-it-yourself will debuts in state

Michigan residents now have the opportunity to write a will without hiring a lawyer.

Legislation that went into effect July 1 allows people to use a fill-in-the-blanks will, allowing them to leave up to two cash gifts and a list of personal items designating who is to receive each item. The balance of the property goes to one's spouse, or children, if the spouse is deceased. Through the use of the form, a person can choose a personal representative (formerly called an executor) to administer the estate and to choose a guardian for any minor children.

The statutory will becomes valid by completing the form, signing it and having a witness sign it. The form, including instructions, is now available at no charge through state legislators and will be available later at legal supplies stores.

Without a will, property may be divided according to a formula set by state law.

Sponsor of the legislation, state Rep. Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor) called the law "a giant step toward making the law accessible to all Michigan residents." But he cautioned that the form will is not appropriate for everyone.

"People with large estates or with complicated estate plans still need to seek competent legal advice and have a will drafted to their specific needs," he said.

Below are questions on the form will.

practically speaking

What happens if I die without a will?

With certain exceptions, your possessions are divided according to state law among your closest relatives.

What can I accomplish by making out a will?

You can choose who is to receive your property, select someone to serve as personal representative (formerly known as executor), and appoint a guardian for your children under age 18.

If I have a will, do I avoid probate?

No. Whether you die with a will, your property will usually go through probate, which is a process through which the probate court oversees distribution of your assets. If there is a will, the initial purpose of probate is to prove that the will is valid.

Does all property go through probate?

No. For example, money held in a joint bank account automatically belongs to the other owner. If your spouse's or child's name is on the deed to your house, the house automatically belongs to him or her. Life insurance benefits go directly to the beneficiary named in the policy. A will has no effect on these types of property, which are known collectively as the non-probate estate.

If property is specified in my will, can I give it away or sell it during my life?

Yes, there are handwritten wills, typewritten wills and statutory wills. Each is equally valid if done precisely in accordance with the law. It is recommended you see a lawyer if you do not use the statutory will in this brochure.

What can I accomplish through using a statutory will?

• You can leave up to two cash gifts of any amount to people or charities.

• You can write a list of personal and household items and name who is to receive each item.

• The rest of your property goes to your husband or wife. If he or she dies before you, this property would be divided equally among your children.

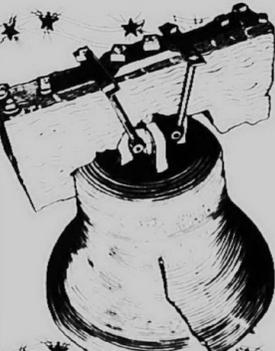

• You can select a personal representative to administer your property.

• You can appoint a guardian and conservator in case you and your spouse both die before your children reach age 18.

Are there reasons for me not to use the statutory will provided in this brochure?

There may be. If you have sub-

Take advantage of last-time tax shelters

Now that the stage is set for the most sweeping revision of the nation's income-tax laws in nearly half a century, the question is: What can you do now to take advantage of the situation? Here are a few strategies that might help:

• Since tax shelters would lose much of their lure next year, expect a rush of last-minute offerings designed to provide big deductions against this year's tax rates and then to generate income in future years that would be subject to lower tax rates.

Cattle feeding, equipment leasing, and oil and gas ventures would be among the most creative shelters. But before you jump into any shelter, consult your financial planner and insist on a full explanation on how the shelter selected for you will help your finances now and in the future.

• Make your 1986 IRA investments today. Waiting until April 15, 1987, to make the 1986 investment may be very costly, if the bill eliminates IRAs next year. By contributing now, rather than in 1987, you earn more than six months of income that is tax deferred.

• Make a serious effort to shift some of this year's income into 1987. This might be easier for self-employed people or those who own their businesses.

But even salaried employees may request their employers to pay their bonuses in 1987. If you do any con-finances and you

sulting, speech making or research work, hold back your bills so you get paid in 1987.

• If you have large profits in your stocks, bonds or mutual fund holdings, and you think that their upside potential is rather limited, then it pays to dispose of them this year and take advantage of the low capital gains tax rate. Of course, if you think your investments have a lot of room to rise, you may want to hold on to them despite the modestly big tax bite (from a maximum 20 percent capital gains rate proposed maximum of 27 percent rate).

• Since the bill does away with state and local sales taxes, this is the year for buying big ticket items — a car, a boat or an airplane.

• If you are contemplating selling your house and thinking of buying another house considerably less expensive than the one you sell, then it might pay to complete the transaction this year.

That way your profits will get the preferential capital gains treatment. Of course, if the house has considerable upside potential, you may wish to postpone the sale until you are able to get the best value for your house.

The proposed tax bill is complicated. I urge you to select a competent financial planner you can trust and ask him or her to carefully analyze your financial situation against the backdrop of the new tax environment.

Educational seminar: Main Topic "Impact of proposed tax legislation on your 1986 investment, tax and retirement planning." The seminar, sponsored by Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Coordinated Financial Planning Inc., will be held 7-9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 5, at the Kingsley Inn, 1475 N. Woodward, Bloomfield Hills.

Sid Mittra is director of certificate program in personal finance at Oakland University and president of Coordinated Financial Planning Inc.

stantial wealth and need tax planning for your estate, you should consult a lawyer who handles estate planning and probate. If you think you might have such problems, speak with a lawyer to see if more complex planning is indicated. Consultation with a lawyer is strongly recommended if you want to establish a trust fund for your children, if you have assets outside of Michigan or if you have a significant interest in a business partnership.

What should I do if a statutory will doesn't meet my needs?

Contact a lawyer with knowledge of estate planning.

May I use a statutory will form and yet leave no cash gifts?

Yes. But if you do leave a cash gift, give a complete address for the person or charity to receive the money.

How do I go about preparing a list of personal items?

If you wish, you may make a list on a separate piece of paper of possessions such as jewelry, books, automobiles, furniture and other personal and household items. On the list your name who is to receive each item.

The list can be as short or as long as your choose. Make sure you describe each item sufficiently to avoid confusion. Include the full name and address for each person who is to get an item.

The list must be in your handwriting or signed by you. It is a good idea to include the date. You can change the list as often as you wish. It is a good idea to staple or firmly attach the newest list to your will.

What is the purpose of Article 2.3 (all other assets)?

This provision sets out the division of your property (other than cash gifts and the list of items) if your spouse, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren all die before you.

You have a choice: You may leave all the property to your other blood relatives who survive you, or leave one-half to those relatives and one-half to your spouse's blood relatives.

Who may be a witness to my will?

Any adult who will not receive any possessions or money under your will may be a witness. A person who may receive money or property under your will should never be a witness to your will. You need not tell witnesses about the contents of your will.

After the will is completed, where should I keep it?

One option is to file it in probate court at the cost of $5. Wherever you keep the will, attach the list of personal items to it. You may want to give a copy to the person you have selected as your personal representative.

Can I make changes to my statutory will?

Yes, but do not write on the will. You can either have a codicil (amendment) drafted, complete a new statutory will, or have an entire new will drafted by a lawyer. If you sign a new will, destroy copies of the old one. You can change the list of personal property items at any time. It is probably best to write a whole new list if you decide to make changes.

If I move from Michigan would my statutory will still be valid?

Probably yes, but it would be a good idea to check with a lawyer who practices in the state of your new residence.

Refunds for Consumers customers

Electric and natural gas customers of Consumers Power Co. will see refunds in their July and August bills.

In July, a typical residential electric customer who used service in 1985 will receive a bill credit of $3.48, based on usage of 500 kilowatt-hours per month. The credit is due to a refund order by the Michigan Public Service Commission in June which reconciles the 1985 power supply cost recovery plan.

natural gas space-heating customer who used service in 1984 will receive a bill credit of approximately $4. The credit is due to a June 26 refund order by the MPSC, completing reconciliation of the 1984 gas cost recovery plan.

Former customers of Consumers Power during 1984 and 1985 will receive a check for the refund amounts at their new addresses.

In August, a typical residential

Gate Dancer, racing here in the 1984 Breeders' Cup Classic at Hollywood Park, is one of the nation's premier horses. The 1984 record-setting Preakness winner will be on display Saturday in the $250,000-added Michigan Mile, the state's richest race.

Ladbrooke catch Gate Dancer spices up Michigan Mile

THIS HORSE has been described as a "rogue." Others have called him "eccentric."

The arrival last week of Gate Dancer at Ladbrooke's Detroit Race Course has caused quite a stir. The 1984 Preakness Winner with over $2.5 million in career earnings, the Florida-bred 5-year-old is the first Triple Crown winner scheduled to ride in the Michigan Mile since Damascus, who finished second in 1968.

Never since 1966, when Tom Rolfe rode into Livonia, has a horse been treated so royally.

Gate Dancer obviously has a split personality, but he's charming as well, especially when he's around the media.

This couldn't be the same horse who we are told rides "erratically." This debonair fellow couldn't be the same guy who was disqualified for running "rodeo style" at the '84 Kentucky Derby and the $3 million Breeders' Cup.

Arriving at sunrise Thursday morning for Gate Dancer's weekly workout, I soon discovered that the old railbirds didn't know what they were talking about.

GATE DANCER may be pampered a bit, but he's deserved it, winning seven of 28 starts (he's also hit the board 15 times).

Gate Dancer gets round-the-clock, 24-hour security at his stall. His hay goes for $14 per bale, compared to $3 per bale for his neighbors.

He gets the best hay, best stall and best everything," said DRC public relations man Bob Raymond. "You can do that when you make $2.5 million."

Gate Dancer is certainly well-mannered and groomed. I watched in amazement as he stood at attention for nearly 25 minutes while assistant trainer Mark Wallerstedt (to Jack Van Berg) administered a wrap to protect his four precious legs.

Brad Emons

The parade of horses around the barn came to a halt when Wallerstedt slipped a bonnet, equipped with earmuffs, over Gate Dancer.

"He looks like the Easter Bunny," cracked one onlooker.

Gate Dancer could also start his own stock company. When he goes out on his morning walk, everybody else in the barn area falls in line behind him.

When Gate Dancer stops, everybody stops.

"CAN I GET BY?" politely pleads a woman riding another would-be star as they enter the track. "Oh, maybe I better not That's a $2 million horse. If it was anybody else I would."

And when Gate Dancer goes out for exercise, he just doesn't get any old Jack LaLaine. Jerry Santage, DRC's leading jockey in 1983, was saddled up for this training run.

The workout was short and brisk with Gate Dancer gliding around a mile in 1:41.2.

"I'm real happy with him," said Wallerstedt after the workout. "He's not a real speed-workout horse anyway. He's deceiving. A lot of times he starts looking around."

Gate Dancer hasn't run since April, when he finished second in the Oaklawn Handicap. He suffered a bruised heel in a race over the winter in Santa Anita and has been given time to heal.

"This horse is like a big kid," said the assistant trainer. "I've been with him since he was a baby. He's just a big clown who'll eat candy, carrots and donuts."

Gate Dancer attacks DRC, Michigan Mile

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Will Gate Dancer be facing any competition Saturday when the 38th renewal of the $250,000-added Michigan Mile gets under way at approximately 5:30 p.m. at Ladbrooke DRC?

Other horses will be quartered into the starting gate, but do any have a chance against the 1984 Preakness Stakes winner and two-time runner-up in the '84 and '85 $2 million Breeders Cup Classic?

The only thing preventing Gate Dancer from being the prohibitive favorite is the crowd noise, which sometimes causes the talented 5-year-old to run erratically.

Others point to the fact that Gate Dancer hasn't raced since April and hasn't won in over a year.

But Gate Dancer, with career earnings of over $2.5 million and trained by Jack Van Berg (DRC's leading trainer seven times), is the first triple crown winner to visit the Livonia track since 1968 (Damascus finished second) and is clearly the class of field.

ASSIGNED A WEIGHT of 123 pounds, Gate Dancer should win easily, but Michigan Mile history reveals that the favorite doesn't always win.

Two Michigan horses, defending champion Badwagon Harry, along with DeJeu, could make things interesting.

But Badwagon Harry needs to turn things around after losing by nine lengths to DeJeu last Friday in the $53,000 Michigan Breeders' Cup.

Another starter worth watching is Ends Well, a New York horse that recently won the Neshaminy Handicap at Philadelphia Park, his eighth victory in 29 starts. He has $420,000 in career earnings.

Ends Well, assigned the second highest weight to Gate Dancer, also finished second in two previous starts.

Other horses committed to run include Canadian 5-year-old Key

Former Hawk gridder Cianferra files lawsuit against coach, school

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

Anthony Cianferra, 19, a former Farmington Harrison football player, has filed a lawsuit against coaches and Harrison school officials seeking to recover damages in excess of $10,000.

Cianferra, a second-team lineman on the 1983 Harrison team, broke his jaw during pre-season conditioning drills that year. He returned to the team's active roster four weeks later and finished the season with the team.

"We are looking to recover damages for the medical expenses, the pain and suffering Anthony is entitled to recover under the law," said Cianferra's attorney David Lawson, who has offices in Southfield and Detroit.

football

According to Lawson, the practice in which Cianferra was injured was "not properly supervised" and that the injury "came about during contact drills at a time of the season when contact is prohibited by the Michigan High School Athletic Association."

As of Tuesday afternoon, Harrison head football coach John Herrington had not been served the legal papers regarding the case, nor had he been contacted by the school administration.

"I think it would be best if I withhold comment until I've talked to someone (from the school administration)," he said.

CIANFERRA'S INJURY came about during a drill that Harrison has used at the end of its conditioning practices for 15 years. The drill resembles the sport of rugby in that players are divided into two teams and advance a ball (a volleyball) up and down the field. Ball carriers are "stopped" by either a fumble, interception or by getting the ball stripped away by the opposition. Pads are not worn and contact is minimal. Cianferra is the only player ever to be injured during the drill.

Cianferra, apparently, was involved in a collision with another player during the drill and broke his jaw. His mouth, according to Lawson, was wired shut and required extensive dental work. "It was not our intention to make this into a high-profile case," said Lawson. "All we want to do is recover the damages. I am aware that Farmington (Harrison) has a well-known football program and has been very successful. This is not a wholesale attack on the coach, the program or the boosters."

"On the other hand, we do have a serious injury with somewhat lingering consequences. That's why the action was filed."

Lawson said he was brought on the case by Cianferra's father in 1983. He said that he spent the last three years researching the case.

United gets sweet revenge

By Brad Emone
staff writer

United '82, which fought its way through as a wildcard, trumped the Under-19 boys field Sunday to win a championship at the prestigious Wolverine VII tourney at Schoolcraft College.

The Livonia-based team was one of nine from the Observer-Eclectic Newspapers' coverage area which captured age-group titles during the three days of play. The event drew some 186 teams and nearly 3,800 players from Michigan and the Midwest.

After losing 2-1 to the Queen City (Ohio) Musketeers in a first-round match, United, made up primarily of ex-Livonia Stevenson High and Schoolcraft College players, went on to win four straight (including a forfeit win), capped by a 3-1 victory over the same Cincinnati team in the finals.

"The second time we hustled and took more shots," said United coach Steve Vakratsis. "We were more aggressive the second time around."

Two United team members in particular deserved credit for the win.

Schoolcraft sophomore Jeff Vakratsis, a slimmer and much quicker goalie, came up with three key diving stops in the championship final.

THE UNITED COACH also praised team trainer Dr. Allen Mehler, who kept his squad taped and patched up under scorching and often brutal conditions.

"He (Mehler) was just a great help to the kids," Vakratsis said. "He got up at 6 (Sunday morning) and taped six or seven of our kids. And he didn't even take a dime anything. I give him credit for giving us good team spirit."

In the final, Brian McCafferty's goal gave United a 1-0 halftime lead on a pass from John Gelmisi.

After Queen City tied it up early in the second half, United charged back on Rich Phillips' goal from Joe Novak, followed by Dave Hart's insurance goal from Gelmisi, who dug a loose ball from under the Cincinnati goalkeeper.

United, a member of the Maxwell Division of the Bonanza League, will move into regional play next month owning a 15-3-3 record.

Jill Estey (with ball), a Plymouth Salem sophomore, helped the WSSL Stingers capture the under-16 girl's title at the Wolverine tournament at Schoolcraft College last weekend.

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Meanwhile, in the Under-19 Girls final, a local team, the Crusaders, were beaten by Lakota (Ohio) Strikers, 1-0.

"We just didn't have anybody that could finish a play," said Crusaders coach Dave Lussier, whose team will get a chance to redeem themselves this weekend at the regional in Cincinnati.

IN THE UNDER-16 Boys final, the Kicks, a team from western Wayne County, blanked the London, Ontario, Concordes for the championship, 2-0.

Rubin Martinez and Kirk Danielson scored for the winners, who finished second this season behind Maxwell Division nemesis the Birmingham Blazers, a team which was ousted in round-robin play.

"We have good talent on this team," said coach Tom Russell. "In the first half (against London) we were a lot sharper, but I think in the second half we were worn out. We didn't have many subs."

The Kicks went 5-0 in the Wolverine, outscoring the opposition 17-4.

Leading the Kicks' defense in the final were fullback Devin DeRoock and goalie Ted Lukiewski.

In the Under-16 Girls final, the Stingers of the Western Suburban Soccer League downed the Westside Bombers of Cincinnati, 3-2, in overtime.

IN OTHER AGE-DIVISION boys finals, the Troy Michigan Metros (Under-17) downed the Ann Arbor Tyrants, 2-1. Queen City Arsenal (Under-15) defeated the Action Kickers 7-1 of Whitefish Bay, Wis., 4-0. Vardar III '72 (Under-14) edged the Queen City Rebels, 1-0; Lakota Tigers (Under-13) beat Troy Dynasty, 4-3; Troy Alliance (Under-12) trimmed Windsor (Ont.) Chemfil, and the Livonia Wolves (Under-10) drilled the Sterling Heights Silvertreaks, 3-0.

Gate Dancer rides tall in $250,000 Michigan Mile

"He was a real colt as a 2-year-old, but he settled down and he loves to train now. He's not a big horse, but he's matured into a strong horse."

"PEOPLE LOVE this horse. He's just fun to be around."

Gate Dancer, however, becomes a different horse when the crowd roars. That's why he wears the earmuffs.

Noise bothers him and I don't know why," said Wallerstedt. "He runs better on turf where he's away from the crowd. He likes the big, wide tracks.

The star horse has also been described as "erratic," sometimes falling slightly out the gate, only to come back and win a race zig-zagging through the field.

But despite his Jekyll and Hyde habits, Gate Dancer always gets the best jockeys — Cordero, Pincay, McCarron and Pat Day, who will ride him Saturday in the $250,000-added Mile, the state's richest race.

History dictates that the favorite for the Michigan Mile doesn't always win. It's been particularly true the past few years.

But after watching Gate Dancer run through his routine, I got the feeling he was holding back a bit.

Other racing experts say that when Gate Dancer retires at the end of the year, that he will be declared one of the great race horses of the '80s.

It appears he already belongs in that category. Just ask the people at DRG.

Gaddey makes resort pay off

By Brad Emons
staff writer

ROY GADDEY'S approach to sports marketing is like the Life Cereal commercial. His sales pitch is simple: "Try it, you'll like it."

With an office in Bloomfield Hills, the 32-year-old Plymouth native works primarily for Paul Nine, the chief developer of the Grand Traverse Resort Village in Traverse City, a beautiful tract of land where Ernest Hemingway whiled away his time as a youth.

Gaddey drew a tough assignment when he was named to head up the Grand Traverse Resort's sports marketing team — make the Michigan Open Golf Tournament a more attractive and statewide event.

"I remember playing the Open in the mid-1970's," Gaddey said. "When I played it was nothing. But this year we've sold 6,000 tickets, which may not seem like a lot, but for an event like this I'm very pleased. In the past we haven't had any spectators."

Through the efforts of the Michigan Professional Golfers Association, major sponsors like AAA, along with Gaddey, the Open has grown immensely the past few years.

TOTAL PRIZE money has grown to a record $55,000, with this year's winner, Tim Matthews, pocketing $10,000.

Gaddey estimates the cost of running this year's event was $250,000.

people in sports

The pre-weekend tournament was filled with activities such as the Pro-Am banquet, featuring Washington Redskins quarterback Joe Theismann as the guest speaker. Evan "Big Cat" Williams, a two-time national long-drive champion, also put on a clinic for the Pro-Am participants.

"It takes four or five weeks to set up, but I've really worked on it since last October," said Gaddey. "I've been hired to set up the packages, create a marketing plan and sell the program advertising."

"We work on a year-to-year basis with AAA. They've been very happy with the tourney here. It's really known under their name — their main line is travel."

Gaddey's sales pitch took plenty of legwork, but golf enthusiasts quickly warmed to the idea of "Michigan's Best vs. the Bear," a course designed by Jack Nicklaus.

"It's just a great golf course," Gaddey said. "It's designed for tourney play."

USING HIS MARKETING degree from Central Michigan University and a master's in sports management from Western Illinois, Gaddey first worked for Executive Sports Marketing of Columbus, Ohio.

He gained experience marketing and promoting such national events as the Buick Open and Heritage PGA events, along with the Lipton Tennis Tournament in Florida.

"I do a lot of work for medium-sized events," Gaddey said. "But the question is, how do you market it?"

"It's a matter of packaging and gaining momentum. For $2,300 you can get a limited sponsorship. I feel it's a great place for a corporation to advertise. It's a place where you can take your business clients for a great weekend."

Gaddey admits that an improved economy hasn't hurt his efforts.

"It helps, but we are getting the sponsors that don't want to spend an enormous amount for some of the major events," he said.

Gaddey has some other special events in the works for Grand Traverse, including the $18,000 Michigan Golf Showdown in September at the Bear, a skins-game format featuring the state's four major PGA tourney winners.

GADDEY'S LONG-RANGE plans include bringing a national golf event to Grand Traverse, something along the lines of the PGA or U.S. Amateur.

"We want a major event right now," Gaddey said.

With the construction in the fall of nine new tennis courts, including a stadium facility at the Village, Gaddey also hopes to attract a major women's tennis tournament next year, the week after Wimbledon.

"The potential in this job is unlimited," said Gaddey. "It's unlimited because I believe we offer a good dollar value."

There was a time when Gaddey wondered if he would ever put his marketing degree to use.

For seven years he taught school and coached. Three years ago he was the head basketball coach at South Lyon High School.

"I taught for seven years and coached for nine," Gaddey said. "I love kids and I miss it much, but it was time to do something else."

The Grand Traverse sports marketing manager has no regrets, especially when another sponsor joins him for breakfast.

"For three days here (during the tournament) it gets very hectic," he said. "I'll get about six hours sleep."

But as somebody else at the breakfast table would say: "Hey Mikey, he likes it."

Roy Gaddey (right), director of the Michigan Open, hands a gold watch to newly crowned champion Tim Matthews.

King and his Court invade Canton

Eddie Feigner, the King of the famed King and his Court, will bring his four-man softball team to the Canton Softball Center Saturday, July 19, to take on last year's ASA Metro Detroit Modified Champion FGS Radiators of Westland.

Ticket prices are $3 for adults, $4 at the gate. Youngsters 9-15 pay $2 in advance, $3 at the gate. No charge for children under 8.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. The Canton Softball Center is on Michigan Avenue, west of Canton Center have thrilled audiences all over the world for the better part of 40 years.

Feigner, in his prime, could throw the ball some 105 mph and had command of 50 different pitches. He pitches behind his back, between his legs, blindfolded, from second base, you name it.

After 40 years, Feigner still draws big crowds.

All-Stars

Slavin among 12 Kings in star game

Twelve players from the first-place Adray Kings squad will represent the Adray Class A baseball circuit in the second annual all-star sandlot game, Monday at Livonia's Ford Field.

The 7 p.m. battle pits the best from the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League against the best from the Dearborn-based league. (Last year's game ended in a 4-4 tie.)

Four Kings pitchers have been named to the all-star lineup by Class A manager Larry Haddock, the skipper of the league leaders. Slated to pitch are Greg Reinhold, Scott Combs, Tim Komorous and Hugh Pobur.

Other Kings players named include catcher Dave Slavin, first baseman Clint Scollard, second baseman Dean Fracassi, shortstop Randy Baringer, third baseman Steve Raymond, and outfielders Jim Rousseau, Mike Williamson and Tim Pobuda.

Rounding out the Class A all-stars are pitchers Jeff Pinkowski of Staff Builders and Don Smith of Detroit Center Tool; first baseman Tom Miner, Deluxe Cab; second baseman Vince Colorassi, Deluxe Cab; outfielders Mike Poupard and Greg Wasik, Detroit Center Tool, and Dave Sutherland, Staff Builders. Keith Guwca of Tool is the designated hitter.

HADDOCK ALSO expects to name one more pitcher, a catcher and two infielders to the squad.

The Kings raised their overall season record to 21-2 (5-0 in the second half schedule) with a come-from-behind 5-4 victory last week over Deluxe Cab in game played at Henry Ford Community College.

Down 4-0, the Kings rallied in the fourth, scoring four times, capped by Kevin Schwanz's bases-loaded single.

The Kings then tallied the game-winner in the ninth on Doug Alard's single, scoring George Clark.

Jeff Varga, who came on in relief, was the winning pitcher.

The Kings return to Class A action at 1 p.m. Sunday at Henry Ford CC to face Detroit Center Tool, the Class A league's second-place finisher to Adray during the 15-game first-half schedule.

Brother-sister act takes Westland race by storm

By Larry O'Connor

The Westland 10K Challenge turned out to be just another re-run of "All in the Family" Saturday.

But instead of the Bunkers, it was the Schmidts of Ann Arbor in the spotlight of the Westland race which featured over 240 entrants. Jim Schmidt was the overall winner of the race with a time of 31:55. His sister Cathy Schmidt was the top woman finisher with a time of 36:31, placing 24th overall.

Jim Schmidt, 24, turned it on toward the end of the 10 kilometer (6.2 miles) race to claim the win. Tim Kerr of Dearborn was runner-up with a time of 33:02.

"I thought it was going to be a fast course," said Jim Schmidt, who works with Ford Motor Co., "but when I got into the middle I could see it wasn't. When I got to the four-mile mark, I just cruised. It was hot and I just wanted to get it over."

THE HEAT and humidity was a factor, according to some runners. Jim Schmidt said his time of 31:55 was two minutes off his regular 10K clocking.

running

The diversified course was another challenge. It featured a multitude of surfaces and turns, including a hair pin turn halfway through the course.

"It had a lot of variety," said Cathy Schmidt, 22, a member of the University of Michigan track team. "You went from road to sand to subdivision."

Cathy Schmidt went to the finish line in a hurry, beating Ella Willis of Detroit (37:57) for the top woman finisher trophy.

It was the first time that both Schmidts won a race together, or just ran together. She runs with U-M and he runs road races. They do train together on occasion.

But while the Schmidts mastered the brother-sister category, it was Melba Hatch of Canton and Randy Presson taking firsts in the Masters competition. Hatch was the women's Masters with a time of 46:08.

PRESSON WON the men's title in 34:19.

For Hatch, selected Michigan Runner of the Year for 1985, the performance was a few seconds off her usual mark. The heat and running a 10K Friday could've affected her time.

"Considering the heat, I'm pleased," said Hatch.

The individual women age-group winners included Chris Mekloiche of Romeo (43:12), 19-and-under; Willis (37:57); 20-29; Cathy Paklalian of Troy (38:04), 30-39; Elizabeth Widejman (50:31), 40-49; and Mary Hunt (69:29), 50-59.

The individual men age-group winners included Dave Homann of Garden City (33:23), 19-and-under; Kerr (33:02), 20-29; E Del Pur of Windsor, Ont. (34:24); 30-39; Bill Boyd of Canton (34:52), 40-49; Len Riberty of Windsor (38:51); and Fred Gurol of Farmington (44:53), 60-and-over.

Andra Carter (38:56) and Dave Crowley (49:57) were the top wheelchair finishers.

Wanna see a rock star?

Ticket World holds key to those desired ducats

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

IF YOU WANT TO SEE Madonna, Bruce Springsteen, the Tigers or Twisted Sister, you're going to need a ticket.

And that's where Southfield-based Ticket World comes in. It was born as the Convenient Ticket Co. in 1979, when the company established its ticket-sales-by-computer system in metro Detroit.

With offices in a high-rise location kept secret to head off overzealous ticket-seekers, the company has grown from one to four office suites; from an original 10 ticket outlets to 51, reaching as far north as Bay City.

"The purpose of our system is, you get the next best available seat, whether you go to the box office or the ticket outlet," explains Linda Lappek, general manager of Ticket World since 1984. It doesn't matter which of those outlets you go to — information on unsold concert seats, held in a central computer bank, can be called up at any outlet. When a customer identifies the seat wanted, the information is transmitted to a printer at the ticket outlet and the customer gets the ticket on the spot.

"IF YOU RECALL previous to CTC, there were hard tickets," Lappek says. "If you went to one Hudson's store, there was one allocation there. At another store, there would be a totally different set of tickets."

It may seem odd now, but Lappek explains that the late-'70s energy crisis helped spark creation of the ticket service. "With the gas shortage, gas rationing and everything else, they (customers) could pay a small service fee and avoid driving to the box office," she says. "It was also a fairer distribution of tickets."

Lappek, 33, a Redford native, started as an accountant with the company. Besides overseeing the traditional sales of tickets for rock, pop and theater shows, she's seen audiences grow for newer events, like the truck pulls and "Wrestlemania." The company has had its share of changes, too. In 1983, CTC became Michigan Ticket World, expanded into the New York City ticket market, then last year joined the larger, Chicago-based Ticketmaster Co.

Joining Ticketmaster, Lappek says, gives Ticket World "the means of having national ticket distribution. From a (performers') management standpoint, it's a lot easier to have one company distributing all of the tickets instead of going into each city separately." For example, tickets for "Hands Across America" and many of Springsteen's concert appearances last year were handled through Ticketmaster for various cities.

Still more changes are planned to make buying tickets more convenient for Ticket World customers. The company has begun accepting Mastercard and Visa holders' ticket orders by phone and is planning to place ticket printers at arena box offices so those tickets will be ready for pick-up before showtime. Lappek said the main computer will be replaced in October, allowing for even faster ticket processing.

THE CURRENT COMPUTER in use since the company sold its first tickets for "Ain't Misbehavin'" in December 1979, has processed about two million ticket sales per year, Lappek says. Built-in safeguards make the ticket-selling system virtually error-free. "Every mistake we've ever had was caused by human error," she explains, the worst being a programmer-caused computer shutdown which prevented ticket sales for eight hours.

There have been other problems to overcome.

"We had a couple of outlets that have tried to take their tickets (pull tickets for themselves) before the public. We've pulled outlets for that; it frustrates other outlets and people get raked over," Lappek says. To discourage ticket scalping, "Every hot show that goes on sale, the maximum limit per person is 12 tickets."

To illustrate the speed of selling tickets through the computer system, tickets for the recent Prince concert at Cobo Hall sold out "in less than 45 minutes." Lappek says that a third Prince show at Masonic Auditorium sold out "in a little less than 10 minutes."

When radio stations announced that Springsteen tickets were going on sale last year, the deluge of calls to Ticket World's information number, 423-6666, blew a Michigan Bell circuit, forcing several Southfield customers to lose service.

When an artist like Prince or Springsteen sets up a tour, "They deal directly with the promoters," Lappek says. "We have contracts with some of the more major venues. They work out the arrangements with the acts' management. Then we are asked by the box office to coordinate an event in our sales system."

TICKET OUTLETS, often located in record or video stores, keep roughly 25 percent of the Ticket World service charge added to the price of each ticket, Lappek explains. Service charges range from 75 cents per Detroit Tigers ticket to $1.50 for major rock shows.

Asked if Ticket World has considered promoting a concert or show on its own, Lappek says, "We've got some pretty good promoters in this town. All we want to do is be a distribution center for tickets."

"Brannigan" (1975). 1 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 50. Originally 150 minutes. TV time slot: 111 minutes.

John Wayne takes his tough guy show on the road in this story of a Chicago cop who goes to London to catch a mobster. This is one of several lesser Wayne efforts made in his later years. But this has some redeeming features, especially the London setting and Wayne's fish out of water attempts to deal with British law.

"Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" (1975). 1 a.m. Sunday on Ch. 7. Originally 113 minutes. TV time slot: 135 minutes.

This was hailed as some sort of feminist film when it was released, but that view hardly holds up. Alice is widowed with a young son and dreams of being a singer. She gets as far as Phoenix and a job in a diner. But Alice doesn't really find happiness until she meets a strong gentle man in the person of Kris Kristofferson. In other words, this movie is a sop but a darn good one. Ellen Burstyn, for whom this film was made, gives a bravura performance as Alice and won an Oscar for it. Diane Ladd (the original Flo) and Kristofferson are also first-rate. Martin Scorsese directed and does well with a subject so foreign to his usual work. As everyone knows, this was the inspiration for an insipid situation comedy notable only for wasting the considerable talents of Linda Lavin in the Alice part.

Buddy Hackett, Jonathan Winters, Phil Silvers, Jimmy Durante and Mickey Rooney not be funny? Well, here it is, a movie with all those people that isn't funny. Director Stanley Kramer, who was noted for producing and directing socially concerned films, had no sense of style or humor. He was the wrong person to bring this much comic talent together. Even the presence of the great Spencer Tracy doesn't help. The film was originally shot for Cinerama, so small screen owners beware.

"Let's Do It Again" (1975). 8 p.m. Wednesday on Ch. 50. Originally 112 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

Sidney Poitier is another serious man who has tried his hand at comedy with mixed results. In the mid-70s he teamed with Bill Cosby to do three very successful comedies that had Poitier and Cosby falling into the kind of trouble that used to plague Amos and Andy but handling it with more intelligence and warmth. The result is likeable comedies that amuse and don't offend. Cosby handles the funnier parts, showing that Poitier is both a wise and generous director. This film also features a tart and sexy title song performed by the Staples Singers.

Heidelberg

Famed town of 'Student Prince' has rich history

By Iris Jones

HEIDELBERG, West Germany — Mind doesn't always win over matter. Some days, like this one, a flu bug or some other bodily ailment attacks and you can't travel with your usual vigor. Such strokes of bad luck don't happen in convenient places, so I am walking very slowly through the city of Heidelberg, immortalized in song by "The Student Prince."

I am seeing the city in slow motion, each scene a snapshot of the city on the Neckar River. Heidelberg has about the same population as Ann Arbor, and it too is dominated by university students, so the snapshots I carry in my mind have a lot of students in them.

Students leaning against the fountain and sitting in sidewalk cafes around the great cathedral that dominates the center of the old town. Students walking in and out of McDonalds, with its antique-looking wrought-gold sign. Younger students eating ice cream as they giggle their way through the school tours at the ruined castle on the hill.

FROM THE terrace of Heidelberg Castle, high on a hill above the town, these school groups look down to the Neckar River flowing out of the hills and under the many historic bridges that are Heidelberg's postcard signature. The red rooftops of the city tilt and cant below in the sunlight, the cathedral a crown in the middle and other spires piercing the sky in both directions.

There are great open marketplace spaces between the buildings where people gather at certain times: the Kornmarkt, the Fischmarkt, the Marktplatz. On the hills, across the river, vineyards make bright green patches between the darker forest trees that climb above the square houses with their carved windows and rooftops.

What you can't see from up here are the "pedestrians only" signs around the historic old city and the cars trying to find a place to park. Most European cities have converted their main shopping streets into pedestrian malls, and the Hauptstrasse or main street of Heidelberg is one of the longest pedestrian malls of them all.

MEDIEVAL CITIES were not designed to cope with automotive traffic jams, so the malls are much appreciated when you are on foot.

We are staying at the Hotel Zum Ritter, an historic inner city inn directly across the Hauptstrasse from the cathedral. The Ritter (which means knight) is one of the oldest and most historic buildings in town, built in 1592 and the only Renaissance building to survive the War of Succession. It is one of the numbered highlights on a walking tour of the city.

Medieval cities were not designed to cope with automotive traffic jams, so the malls are much appreciated when you are on foot.

Nobody thought of a small red car rented from Autohansa when they designed the old city, so we circled many times before we found the narrow street that leads to the cathedral and got instructions from the hotel desk on how to find our way to public parking structure number 12.

Everything in the old city is a medieval stone's throw from anywhere else, so the funicular railway that runs uphill to Heidelberg Castle leaves from the lower level of Parking Structure No. 12. It is a small blue train climbing steep tracks through a tunnel to the schloss and on to the hilltop beyond.

This hillside has been important as long as man has been in Europe. The 550,000-year-old bones of Homo Heidelbergensis, or Heidelberg Man, were found here. The Romans built the first bridges across the Neckar at the foot of the hill. Important political events have taken place here for 1,000 years, with the castle ruling everything the eye could see until the French destroyed much of it in 1689.

Several generations have tried to rebuild the castle and failed. Its main function today is as a museum where tourists walk the cobblestone courtyard, pointing with wonder at carved figures that remain in stone on the walls that still stand.

It would be nice if every day we travel could be a good day, energy intact, but even when it doesn't happen you can sit in the sun like this or collect memories as you walk down the steep curved street back into town.

Maybe tomorrow I can take advantage of the 300 pubs and restaurants in this fascinating town, but for now the only thing that interests me is a hot cup of tea at a cosy sidewalk cafe and enjoying snapshot scenes of one of the most interesting small cities in Germany.

THE SIXTH annual Hot Air Balloon Festival, sponsored by the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth, will take place Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 11, 12 and 13. The festival begins at 6 p.m. Friday with a mass ascent from the grounds of Plymouth Canton High School at Canton Center Road and Joy Road in Canton Township.

The Balloon Ball will follow at 8 p.m. under the stars on the deck of the Mayflower. Tickets are $6 at the door.

Saturday starts with a sunrise inflation sale 5 a.m. to 10 a.m. Things are 50 percent off at 5 a.m. and the discounts are reduced hour by hour for slugabeds. A 6 a.m. ascent, also from Plymouth Canton High School, is followed by a 7 a.m. fly-in pancake breakfast at Mettetal Airport, Joy Road and Lilley.

Art in the Park is on from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday. More than 150 artists and craftsmen from 57 Michigan cities will exhibit and sell their crafts. There is another balloon race at 6 p.m. and the Balloon Ball is on again at 8 p.m.

Sunday's race starts at 6 a.m., and the day will culminate when balloonists attempt to "pick keys" from atop a pole at their launch site at 6 p.m. Tune in to WSDP 88.1 FM for launch information, traffic status, etc., during the weekend. For balloon information, call 445-1777 or 624-5137.

The Hauptstrasse, Heidelberg's main shopping street, is one of the longest of the European pedestrian malls.

Student artists are honored

TWO LIVONIA Churchill high school art students were honored for high achievements. One of them was photographer Sal DeSanto, whose photo of two senior citizens won a gold medallion from Kodak Film Co. The photograph has now been entered in national competition. It is the first time that a Churchill student has won the Kodak honor. DeSanto's entire portfolio won a gold medal in the National Scholastic art competition. The 18-year-old photographer used a 35mm Pentax for the prize-winning photo.

Also honored was artist Tony Truchan who won a four-year art scholarship to Wayne State University. In addition to being a gold medal Scholastic art competition winner, Truchan also placed first in a graphics logo contest by Tubby Subs and received a $1,000 for his idea.

Truchan plans to major in graphics and become an illustrator. He is employed by the Art Store and More and has been taking art lessons "since I was 4." His favorite subjects are people and wildlife.

Ray and Wells interpret a tender scene between Faust and Marguerite in the opera by Faust.

Added dialogue They set the stage for deaf audiences

By Barbara Ziemba
special writer

IMAGINE STAGING any theatrical production with a major challenge to be faced all or part of your audience is deaf.

Then imagine your production is a musical or an opera, and the complexities of such a project seem overwhelming.

For two Madonna College instructors who have taken on such an effort, the challenge has also proven enjoyable and stimulating.

JOHN RAY OF Troy and Mary Wells of Rochester have been involved with interpreting plays for the deaf since 1978, when Oakland University decided to stage a production of "Romeo and Juliet" and incorporate sign language to benefit the hearing impaired.

The Michigan Council for the Arts came forward with the money for two performances, and the play was so popular another performance was added to the schedule.

In staging any production for the deaf, defining the theme is vital to its success in reaching the audience. In "Romeo and Juliet," the theme was that of warring families, the Montagues and the Capulets, and the love that flourished between the Montagues' Romeo and the Capulets' Juliet.

INTERPRETING THIS Shakespearean drama demanded that Wells learn not only Juliet's role but all the Capulet dialogue as well, while Ray tackled Romeo and the Montagues.

The production also utilized the technique known as "zoning" — directly involving the interpreters with the actors on a multi-level stage, allowing them to exit and have access to the stage at different points in the play and keeping them in vicinity of the action.

Deprived of the sense of sound, the deaf are particularly dependent on visual images to perceive mood and music. In a musical or operatic work targeted toward hearing-impaired audiences, special emphasis is placed on costumes, lighting, makeup and movement to simulate the music and dialogue, Wells and Ray point out.

Choreographers must analyze and adapt movement to evoke a certain response in the audience. For instance, prior to the lovers' first meeting in "Romeo and Juliet," the cast waltzed off stage to set the tone for the gentle dialogue between the star-crossed lovers.

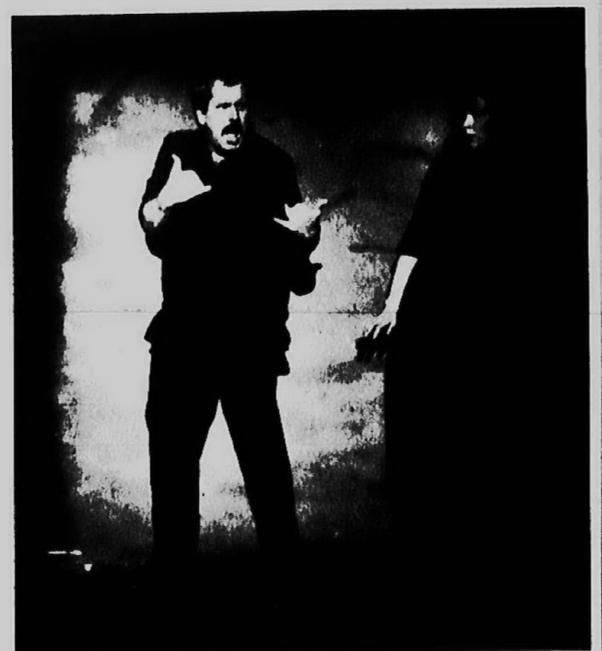

THE SUBTLE DRAPE of a costume can also allow the interpreters to shed and assume characters effectively. In the opera "Faust," the theme was the eternal struggle between good and evil. Interpreting the roles of the devil and Faust, Ray relied on the positioning of his cape to assume the personas of the two characters.

Since producing a musical or an opera for the hearing-impaired requires long preparation and technical support, only two are staged per year.

Six months in advance of the opening, Wells and Ray receive their script and begin to immerse themselves in the play, even listening to tapes in their cars to completely familiarize themselves with the work.

As mind-boggling as this sounds, it's not the most difficult aspect of the project, they said.

The subtle drape of a costume can also allow the interpreters to shed and assume characters effectively. In the opera "Faust" . . . Ray relied on the positioning of his cape to assume the personas of the two characters.

John Ray as Mephistopheles, in a scene from "The Magic Flute" by Faust, threatens to put away Mary Wells portraying Pamina.

With hand gestures, the two fully costumed interpreters describe the action on stage, appearing to be part of the regular cast. The scene is from the opera "The Magic Flute" by Faust.

Operas get special treatment

"THE HARDEST part is getting the technical people — artistic directors, producers, directors — to accept us," said Ray. He and Wells also work with linguists to ensure that the essence of the story is kept intact as it moves from its native language to English and finally to American sign language.

The world of the stage is an alien one for many deaf people.

"Often, most hearing-impaired people have never been on or in back of a stage at all," explained Ray. It's necessary to acquaint them with the mechanics of the production to deepen their appreciation for it.

The Attic Theater in Detroit has established orientation sessions to explain the stage area and will walk through the play's theme one to two hours before the start of the performance. The Dayton opera devotes at least three pages of its programs for the deaf to familiarize them with the signs the interpreters will use during the performance.

THESE SPECIAL productions aren't exclusively intended for deaf audiences. Hearing patrons are always welcome and very often have commented to Ray and Wells on how much their signing has enhanced the production for them, many times bringing tears to their eyes.

In the Detroit area, there are only 26 nationally certified interpreters, in the state of Michigan, only 36. Yet Michigan has the seventh largest deaf population in the United States, due largely to the auto industry.

Of 14 interpreters in the country who are able to interpret opera, Wells and Ray are the only ones in Michigan.

Ironically, they met at Wells' father's funeral.

"Her mother and dad were both deaf," explained Ray. "At the time, I was a Catholic brother in the Capuchin Order and brought the sacraments to her father before his death. We met at his funeral. She was a theater student at Oakland University and was interested in Shakespeare. It just took off from there."

CURRENTLY, THEY have two interns training with them under the auspices of the Attic Theater.

Locating and getting funding for the productions also poses problems. In spite of the manpower and funding issues, the work is continuing, they noted. Next spring, they will participate in a production of "My Fair Lady," starring Richard Chamberlain, and in the fall will travel or Orange County, Calif., for the musical, "West Side Story."

Recently, there were flown to Washington, D. C., for a special performance at Constitution Hall that featured selections from several operas and attended by many foreign dignitaries. Guest soloist was John Alexander of the New York Metropolitan Opera.

Their performance won them a invitation for a return engagement next year to interpret an entire opera at the Kennedy Center. They were also approached by the commanding officer of the Belgian armed forces and his wife about the possibility of coming to Brussels to interpret an opera.

A sign language instructor at Madonna College in Livonia, Wells has a masters degree in theater arts from Eastern Michigan. Ray holds a degree in psychology from Michigan State University. At Madonna, he is counselor.

Wells and Ray will be performing in "Playboy of the Western World," at the University of Michigan-Flint at 8 p.m. tonight.

Use low energy productively

IT WAS THE first week of our summer schedule at the art store. Monday alone we taught over 100 art students, so by Wednesday night I was pretty "zoned out" (that means tired, in case there are no teen-agers in your home), but there was something different when I arrived home Wednesday night.

Was someone missing? No, I counted the boys, one was drawing, one was reading and one was teasing the other two. But what was it? Why was my home so peaceful? Then it dawned on me — the TV was off.

Quickly, I asked my wife if we had forgotten to pay Metrovision again. She replied, "No, the boys actually turned the TV off."

WITH ALL THE boys quietly but busily engaged in their own pursuits of tone painting, reading and Lego building, I wasn't about to sit in front of the TV. Rather, I decided to do a pastel. But as I reported earlier, I was really tired and didn't have the energy to start a picture.

But, I reasoned, I could draw something simple even if I was tired. So I found a photo I took of an orangutan, with all those wrinkles, folds and locks of hair. "How could I go wrong?" I asked. Warily, I started a simple layout on vellor. Hoping for a rush of energy, I began "blocking in" the main colors.

Here is where I broke my own rule.

artifacts
David Messing

Never begin coloring a picture, regardless of the medium until the structure is perfected. No amount of detail, color or shading can hide poor structure. But I was tired (remember?) and I can break my own rules if I want to. So with squinted eyes, I pressed on to some nice details.

Then holding my picture in front of a mirror, I soon realized that I had goofed. The orangutan was colorful and detailed, but structured poorly.

SO THE APE went into the basket, my pastels went into the art bin and I went to bed.

What should you do when the "spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak?"

When your energy is low, it is best to just do some detail work on an ongoing painting. Never try to start or finish a picture when you are tired.

Here's an example. Shirley is a talented student who is doing a very detailed rendering of two ducks in the water. To lay out her picture, proportion the ducks, and structure their anatomy took a tremendous amount of energy. Of course, I don't mean Shirley was out of breath, but there is so much to look for. Emotionally, you are on a rollercoaster. One minute you're rising with the thought that this may be your single best work of art. Seconds later, you're headed downwards with the fear that this may be an artistic catastrophe.

AFTER SHIRLEY was well into her picture, it was obvious that it was going to be a success. But she will have to clock in some hours detailing all those multicolored feathers. Those detail hours usually require little of you and are what I call "low energy" hours.

Those hours can be boring if you are eager to finish a picture. I imagine you could compare detail hours to the middle two feet of hooking a four-foot rug.

It is for this reason that I encourage my students to have several pictures in the works at the same time. This way you can do some major work when you are eager and energetic and some detailed work when you are tired but yet inspired.

So don't be afraid to have several pieces going at the same time in various stages of development. After all, you never know, maybe some evening when you least expect it, the TV will be off at your house too.

Horticulture part of rehabilitation

Through the years, I've been interested in horticulture's uses in the rehabilitation of mentally and physically impaired people.

This April, while in Texas, my hosts Dr. Jane and Dr. Joseph Hawkins, formerly of the University of Michigan, arranged for me to visit Tangram Rehabilitation Network in San Marcos. Horticulture is an integral part of the network's therapy program.

The tangram is an ancient Chinese puzzle whose pieces can be arranged to become many different shapes or forms. It's an appropriate symbol for the Tangram Rehabilitation Network, which enables people with head injuries to rearrange their lives after physical trauma. Many of the clients are in this facility as the result of automobile accidents.

In 1978, Dr. Stanley Seaton of Dallas began his rural camp to treat those who needed rehabilitation so they could rejoin society and lead lives that are as independent as possible. The program is set up to help people learn to take care of themselves and prepare to live on their own again.

THE STAFF and clients live on a farm where they share the feeling of being team members. There are four separate yet interrelated facilities: therapeutic, camping, ranch, nursery and townhouse.

In the camp area, on the ranch property, each task is performed through a group process approach that allows personal and physical achievement, develops appropriate behaviour and builds relationships and self-esteem for the client. Activities include construction of campsite areas, planning and preparing meals and cutting firewood.

In the ranch facility, the client learns through daily living experiences and work programs. One of the most popular programs involves taking care of the ranch animals. Each client also assumes responsibility for growing vegetables on their own 12-by-12-foot garden plot.

The latest equipment was observed in the nursery where plants are grown for the commercial market. Clients are involved each day in the nursery business. They take care of the plants, landscape or help make deliveries.

The nursery business is another stepping stone to independent living. Here clients apply for jobs, work regular hours and are involved in all aspects of the business. The program prepares clients to seek competitive employment within the community.

The townhouses provide clients with a chance to live independently with minimal supervision and direction. Townhouse residents, employed in the nursery or by local businesses, pay rent, utility bills and buy their own food and personal items.

Most residents progress through the ranch or nursery program before coming to the townhouse. The TANGRAM program's continued contact with clients moving into the community minimizes the possibility of regression or reinstitutionalization.

Seeing and visiting this facility was like a dream come true for me.

On her way

Jessie Bernard of Birmingham is spending her summer studying with Robert Joffrey's American Ballet Center. She was invited to study with the center by school director Edith D'Addario. Jessie, a student at Cranbrook Kingswood School, was told she would be taking classes with the American Ballet Center's trainees as well as regular school classes. During the year, Jessie studies with Debra Grimm of Birmingham, at the Dance Theatre of Royal Oak.

Traditional arts gain support

The Michigan Council for the Arts and the Michigan State University Museum have forged a working partnership aimed at supporting and recognizing the state's traditional arts projects.

Through the proposed Traditional Arts Program, folklorists at the MSU Museum will work with Council for the Arts staff in making grant money and programs more available to traditional artists, setting up a state folk arts advisory committee and providing folk arts information and assistance to individuals and organizations.

One of the most significant events planned is a two-week Michigan on the Mall, a presentation of Michigan life and traditions that will take place on the Mall in Washington, D.C.

The presentation will highlight the state's folk artists, art forms, occupations and traditions and will be part of the annual Smithsonian Folklife on the Mall, a national festival drawing hundreds of thousands of visitors each summer.

This major event will be sponsored by the Smithsonian and Michigan Sesquicentennial Commission and made possible with the expertise of the museum folk art staff.

Key personnel in the partnership program from the Museum include Marsha MacDowell, curator of folk arts, and Yvonne Lockwood, Michigan folklife specialist. More than 40 other states have similar programs supporting the traditional expressive arts.

A great flight signals a toast. Ken Zawisa shares a warm toast with his crew after a flight in last year's festival.

Bit of bubbly

Freixenet to add some sparkle

Officials of the Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival have named Freixenet Champagne as the official champagne for the event.

"Champagne and ballooning go hand-in-hand," said Scott Lorenz, general manager of the Mayflower Hotel and pilot of the Mayflower Hotel hot air balloon.

America's consumption of the bubbly is booming and Freixenet has become the leading supplier of sparkling wine. Last year 12 million cases of sparkling wine were imported into the country.

FREIXENET PRODUCES Carben Negro, Pinot Noir, Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Chardonnay, and continues to produce a wide range of Spanish wine for export to the U.S. and in-now holds the number one position among all imported sparkling wines.

Gordon Boring, co-chairman of the sixth annual Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival, added, "All pilots and sponsors will receive a bottle of Freixenet champagne on their free sponsor trip Saturday morning, July 12." Spectators also can view the six-story black and gold Freixenet hot air balloon floating out the weekend.

Up, up and away!

Balloon fest flaring up for takeoff

MICHIGAN'S LARGEST annual hot air balloon festival will rise in numbers and quality when the first launch is held Friday, July 11, in Canton.

Some 60 hot air balloons will be competing in the sixth annual Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 11-13.

About a quarter of a million spectators are expected to watch five separate races at the Centennial Educational Park, a 305-acre site at Joy Road and Canton Center Road.

Signed up so far are some top-notch balloonists who participated in the World's Hot Air Balloon Competition last summer in Battle Creek, says Scott Lorenz, general manager of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth, and co-sponsor of the festival with Gordon Boring of the Wicker Basket Balloon Center.

Top crews from throughout the U.S. and world are drawn, in part, by the attractive prizes offered as well as the natural beauty of the Plymouth-Canton community, the large crowds, and accommodations made by the sponsors.

THIS YEAR A PRIZE of a trip for two to Paris, France, via American Airlines has been added to the prizes such as a new automobile and trips offered by Eastern Airlines and British Airways.

Last year spectators traveled to Plymouth from as far away as South Carolina, Kentucky, Maryland and Cincinnati to view such annual favorite entries as First of America, Ford Motorcraft, New York Air, Eastern Airlines, America Yazaki and E.F. Hutton to name a few.

New balloonists signed up for 1986 include Pilot Air Freight of Romulus, and favorites at balloon festivals throughout the U.S. such as Budweiser and Slush Puppy.

A popular feature of last year's festival to be repeated this summer will be the Experimental Aircraft Association Fly-In from 7 a.m. to noon on Saturday, July 12. A number of antique airplanes, dating back to the 1930s, will be on display at Mettetal Airport, on Joy Road about one mile east of the launch site.

ALSO RETURNING BY popular demand is one of the most popular events of the three-day summer spectacular — The Early Riser Inflation Sale. Literally thousands of shoppers line the streets of downtown Plymouth at 5 a.m. Saturday to be there when the shops' doors open. The shops will be offering discounts of 50 percent for the first hour beginning 5 a.m., 40 percent off from 6 to 7 a.m., etc., to 10 percent to those who don't show up until 9 a.m.

The launches are scheduled for 6 p.m. Friday, and 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday (launch times are approximate and depend on weather conditions). In between the launches on Saturday and Sunday there will be an Art In The Park show in Kellogg Park, a New England-type Commons in the heart of the downtown area.

For those who are smitten by the sport and want to take up ballooning, a Hot Air Balloon School is scheduled at 8 a.m. Aug. 9, 10 in the Mayflower Hotel to offer all the training needed to become a licensed pilot.

The launch site, which has plenty of parking, is easily accessible from I-275 freeway and M-14. From I-275 exit at Ann Arbor Road (Plymouth) and proceed west to fourth traffic light (Sheldon Road), turn south on Sheldon to first traffic light (Joy) and turn west to the Launch Site. From the south, exit I-275 at Ford Road (Canton) and proceed west about three miles to Canton Center Road, turn north and proceed two miles to Launch Site. From M-14 exit at Sheldon Road and travel south on Sheldon to sixth traffic light (Joy) and turn west to the Launch Site.

For information about hot air balloon rides, call the Wicker Basket Balloon Center at (313) 669-4230. For festival information, call the Canton Chamber of Commerce at (313) 453-1540.

Waiting game

Waiting for the balloons to inflate was the least fun of the balloon festival last year for Cheryl Johnson of Redford and daughter Amy.

Casting off

Five-year-old Robert Lykins of Utica got tired of waiting for the big balloons to inflate so he launched a couple of his own — secured to his fishing rod.

WSDP is festival's 'voice'

WSDP (88.1 on the FM dial) will be broadcasting traffic information, weather conditions, balloon departures and interviews with festival organizers during the weekend of the Hot Air Balloon Festival. Plymouth-Canton's "community radio station," based at Plymouth Salem High School, will broadcast in stereo from 5 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, July 12-13. "Our station philosophy is not only to provide a realistic learning environment for our student staff but to serve our community as well," said Andrew Melin, station manager. "The Mayflower Balloon Festival is a significant community event and WSDP looks forward to a mutually beneficial relationship." Scott Lorenz, an organizer of the event, said one of the important services will be WSDP's broadcasting of weather conditions as balloons cannot be launched when it's too windy and so spectators will want to keep track of the weather as part of making plans to attend. WSDP is owned and operated by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools with broadcast facilities at the Centennial Educational Park, which also is the site of the festival.

Balloons away! The Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival July 11-13 in Canton is one of the largest balloon events in North America. Here is a group ready to ascend.

Balloon festival has its ups...

One of last year's participants was Ken Zawisa. He is shown preparing to inflate his balloon, Visions Too. To do so, he holds the bottom of the balloon open. The fan in the foreground fills the envelope with air.

...and downs

After a safe landing at Mettetal airport last year, Zawisa packs his balloon.

Staff photos by Bill Bresler

Downside

Eventually the fun side of ballooning — the drifting and floating — has to come to an end. Once on the ground, there's the job of packing it in. One of the many tasks is securing the vent as balloonist Jan Zawisa demonstrates.

McAuley center to offer first aid, balloons for kids

Catherine McAuley Health Center will provide first aid for balloonists during the hot air balloon festival. The first aid station will be at the McAuley Health Promotion van, which will be parked in Centennial Park. Health professionals from McAuley Urgent Care at the Arbor Health Building in Plymouth will staff the van.

Visitors are invited to stop by the van even if they don't need health care. They'll be passing out balloons to the children.

Prizes add to excitement

A week's vacation in Florida is the top prize in the Canton Chamber of Commerce's Mayflower Hot Air Balloon festival Contest.

The grand prize is a week's vacation for two at a condominium on the waterfront near Fort Myers, Fla. The stay in the condo, on Charlotte Harbor, has been donated by Suncoast Travel in Plymouth. Air fare is provided by participating Chamber members.

Second prize is a crystal chandelier from Master Lighting in Canton, third prize a weekend for two at the Mayflower Hotel, fourth prize a hot air balloon ride for two compliments of the Mayflower Hotel.

Entry forms for the contest are available at the Canton Chamber office on Canton Center Road south of Joy and at participating locations.

Grounded

The festival is more than colorful balloons floating through the air. It's fun on the ground, too, as families and friends gather to chat and enjoy the event at the liftoff sites.

Focal point

Shutterbugs to compete at fest

A new twist has been added to the Observer Newspapers' photo contest held in conjunction with the 1986 Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival.

The standard feature of the contest will be a color print contest for photographs taken during the three-day festival.

An optional category to enter this year is a special black and white promotional division that will feature as a prize a free hot air balloon ride for two.

As in past years, the winning color entry will be published in full color on Page 1A of the Canton Observer and Plymouth Observer this fall.

The contest is sponsored by the Canton and Plymouth Observer Newspapers with cosponsors being Quicksilver One Hour Photo, 1313 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, and the Mayflower Hotel.

1986 IS THE second year in a row that the Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival Photo Contest has been a color-print-only competition. In earlier years slides were the medium.

Prints entered will become the property of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and will not be returned. Anyone wanting to retain a personal copy should have an extra print made before submitting their entry for the contest.

All entries should have the name, address and phone number of the photographer placed on the back of the print. Entrants are asked to keep the negative of their entry on file so it can be submitted to the Observer if necessary if they are chosen a winner.

Photographs entered must be taken in the Plymouth-Canton community during the three-day festival, Friday through Sunday, July 11-13.

The deadline to submit entries is 5 p.m. Friday, July 25.

Entries may be mailed or delivered in person to the Observer Newspapers at 489 S. Main. Questions may be asked by calling 459-2700.

THE SPECIAL black and white category involves taking photos of the Mayflower Hotel hot air balloon to be used in promoting the 1987 festival.

In return for allowing the winning photo to be used for promotion, the winner will be awarded a free hot air balloon ride for two as scheduled with Scott Lorenz, general manager of the Mayflower Hotel. The same rules and deadlines also apply to this special category.

In the black and white category, second-place winner will receive free Norwegian scrod dinners for four in the newly renovated Steakhouse of the Mayflower Hotel and third place will receive Sunday dinner for four in the Mayflower Hotel.

The first-place winner in the color print contest, in addition to having his/her photo printed on Page 1A of the Canton and Plymouth Observers, will receive a 16-by-20-inch framed copy of their entry, $50 cash, two rolls of film with free processing from Quicksilver.

The second-place winner will receive a framed 11-by-14-inch enlargement of their entry, $25 cash, a roll of film with free processing from Quicksilver, and free Norwegian scrod dinners for four in the Steakhouse.

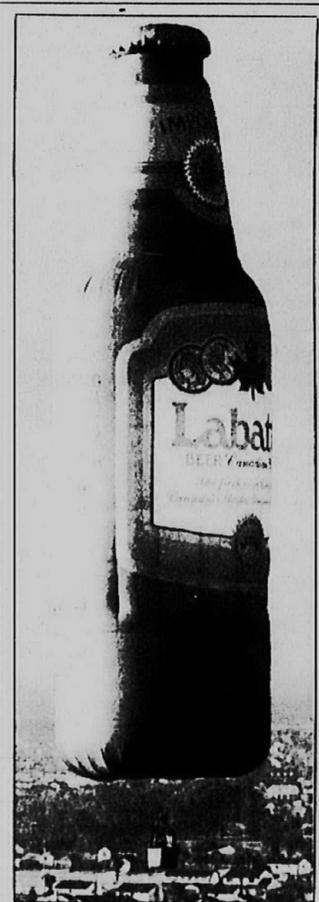

The third-place winner will receive an 8-by-10-inch framed enlargement of their entry, Sunday brunch for four in the Mayflower Meeting House, and a roll of film with free processing from Quicksilver.

Honorable mentions will receive free processing for one roll of film from Quicksilver and a meal pass for two from the Mayflower.

Only three entries per person will be accepted.

Employees or family members of employees of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers or Suburban Communications Corp. are ineligible.

Judging will be directed by staff photographer Bill Bresler, assisted by members of the Observer news staff. Criteria will include composition, color, ability to reproduce on newsprint, and degree of difficulty in taking the shot.

Warm beer

Talk about unusual shots. Here's one. A unique feature of this balloon is that there is no vent hole at the top, unlike conventional designs. To descend, the pilot must wait for the balloon to cool instead of releasing hot air through the vent.

Where Shopping Means Friendly Home Town Service

By dawn's early light . . . bargains

Whoever said inflation is fun isn't kidding.

Not when the inflation occurs in Plymouth and is tied to the Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival. What it adds up to is that many businesses will be offering specially priced merchandise to give a further lift to the event.

More than 50 merchants will be involved in the special selling spree that will see bargains ranging from 50 percent off down to 10 percent off, depending on the hour.

To really take advantage of the sale though, you'll have to be in Plymouth at the crack of dawn.

STARTING AT 5 A.M., participating stores will offer merchandise at 50 percent off. After that, everything is downhill — 6-7 a.m. will bring 40 percent discounts; 7-8 a.m., 30 percent off; 8-9 a.m., 20 percent; and 9-10 a.m. 10 percent.

By 10 a.m., most of the prices will be back to normal. Many of the stores offer over half their regular merchandise in this sale.

"The sale is unique to Plymouth," said a Plymouth Chamber of Commerce spokesman. "And it's been tremendously successful."

Many customers queue up in front of their favorite store long before 5 a.m. in order to be the first in the store, store owners report. A lot of folks "check out" the store on Friday to see what's going on sale in order to save time on Saturday morning.

For those people who can't make it that early, many stores sales will be conducting special sales all day long, "but you won't find anything to compare with the prices those first magic hours," the chamber spokesman said.

Land craft

Art in the Park has 150 exhibitors

MORE THAN 150 artists and craftsmen from 57 Michigan cities will be participating in the Art in the Park, held annually in Plymouth in conjunction with the Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival.

The exhibits will be in Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, July 12, 13.

Art in the Park is scheduled to give balloon festival spectators something to do between the dawn and dusk lift-offs at the launch site.

Show Director Diane Quinn says there will be a wide assortment of country and folk art.

THERE WILL BE paintings on traditional canvass as well as on wood, tin, shirts, and sawblades in oils, watercolors, and acrylics.

Also shown will be every imaginable form of needlework, quilting, applique, knitting, crocheting, Swiss embroidery, cross stitch, and needle punch.

Also featured will be: handmade furniture for the home, patio, for children, dolls and birds; flower arrangements from silk and dried flowers, potpourri, wreaths of herbs, pieces, grapevines and muslin; glass — stained, blasted, etched, fused and reverse glass painting; lamps and lamp shades; woven baskets and rugs.

There will be hand-forged reproductions from Greenfield Village, whirligigs, music boxes, pottery; checkerboards, chimes, claycandle houses, calligraphy, bears, geese, rabbits, sheep, ducks, cats, hearts, clowns and dolls; primitive art to solar-powered arts.

Balloon pilot school set

A Hot Air Balloon Seminar will be held in Plymouth the beginning of August.

The seminar will be conducted by Van Stifler, who is associated with Fort Wayne Ground Schools.

The session will begin at 8 a.m. Aug. 9-10 at the Mayflower Hotel.

Individuals completing the two-day course will be eligible to take a written exam to become a licensed hot air balloon pilot by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA).

THE SEMINAR WILL cover such topics as federal regulation, density, altitude, lifting force, landing, ballooning weather, equipment, vocabulary, aeronautical charts, weather reports, good operating practice, and mountain flying.

The seminar cover the information required for both private and commercial hot air balloons, and free balloon pilot licenses.

The tuition of $125 (additional family members at $30 each) includes all classroom presentations, hand-out materials and loan of an aeronautical chart, circular protractor, and test guides.

Stifler also is a designated written test examiner appointed by the FAA and will administer the written test upon course completion.

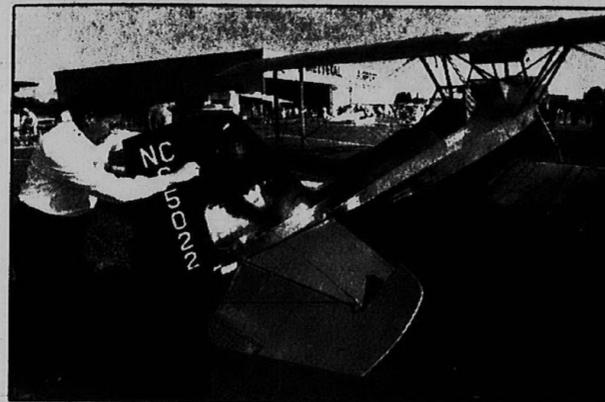

STIFLER GUARANTEES that persons attending the seminar will pass the FAA written examination or tuition will be refunded.

The classes begin 8 a.m. Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 9-10, with a lunch break at 11:45 a.m. Afternoon sessions run from 1-4 p.m. On Sunday, the written exams will be given at 1 p.m. and will last about 90 minutes.

Reservations are necessary and may be made by calling the Wicker Basket Balloon Center at (313) 669-4230 or by calling Stifler at (219) 747-5533. Payment is due on the morning on Aug. 3.

One of the home-designed and built biplanes at the show last year was Stan Wallis' "Red-Winged Blackbird," powered by 351-cubic-inch Ford V-8.

'Backyard Eagles' rev engines for flapjack fly-in

MEMBERS OF THE local E.A.A. Chapter 113 will be hosting a Fly-in Pancake Breakfast at Mettetal Airport, in Canton, on Saturday morning, July 12, as part of the balloon festival.

Breakfast will be served 7-11 a.m. at $3 for adults and $2 for children under 12.

What is the E.A.A. — or Experimental Aircraft Association?

It is an international organization dedicated to promoting general aviation and to encourage those who want to design and/or build their own aircraft.

E.A.A. Chapter 113 is comprised of a group of local pilots who have built, are now building, or who dream of building and flying their own aircraft. They call themselves the "Backyard Eagles" and they are ordinary people with extraordinary dreams.

WHAT IS A FLY-IN Pancake Breakfast? It's a tradition among pilot groups to host and attend weekend early morning breakfasts served at airports, generally inside a large aircraft hangar. It could best be described as an "ice cream social" but with the pancakes the main fare and flying the topic of conversation.

The pilots come to socialize, admire each other's airplanes, to "fly-in" and usually the breakfast part is the incidental catalyst to make it happen at a certain time and place.

For the non-flying general public, this event provides an opportunity to visit the airport, meet the pilots, have breakfast, and admire a variety of aircraft on display. It's a chance to see just about everything from a factory-built aircraft right on down to a single-seat "homebuilt" aircraft. And with the E.A.A. group, the emphasis is definitely on the "homebuilt."

One of the most unusual planes from a design standpoint at last year's show was this Rutan VariEze piloted by LaVerne Dinatale.
