Exec candidates clash over political ads

The temperature's risin' in the "an act of desperation on Ficano's rivalry between county executive candidates Robert Ficano and Edward McNamara.

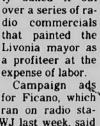

Last week, the two camps verbally duked it out that painted the Livonia mayor as expense of labor.

for Ficano, which ran on radio sta-

What we're saying is that he froze wages and then gave himself a pay raise," said Brian Amann, Ficano's campaign manager.

But McNamara called the ads "deceptive advertising" and called it McNamara

It was true that city employees took a one-year pay freeze between Nov. 30, 1982, and Nov. 30, 1983, after negotations to avert layoffs. It's also true McNamara and other top Livonia administrators were granted pay hikes from the local compensation commission.

A Ficano aide said research for the ads was provided by the Livonia Firefighters Association, which supports Ficano's candidacy and has been working on building grassroots support among other firefighters' locals, particularly in the downriver

McNamara have tangled over several issues in recent years.

Amann, who insisted the information was correct on Friday, said the real "joke" was that the ads were scheduled to stop that day anyways.

Carl Pursell backs Heintz

Northville Township Supervisor Susan Heintz, a Republican candidate for Wayne County Commission in the 10th District, has been endorsed by U.S. Rep. Carl D. Pursell, R-Plymouth.

Heintz is seeking the seat being vacated by incumbent Mary Dumas of Livonia. The Northville Township supervisor faces two other Repuplicans, Livonia treasurer Elaine Tuttle and Livonian Larry Schweiger, in the August primary. The winner will face Democrat John Kopka in No-

Pursell said Heintz' dedication as a public leader and her energetic approach to politics were the reasons for his endorsement.

Pursell added that Heintz ". has demonstrated the type of leadership which is needed on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Magazine spurs debate

Charges made by Robert Ficano's campaign manager that there was something "awful suspicious" about a mailing from the Livonia Heart Fund fell flat last week.

Campaign boss Brian Amann accussed Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara's campaign staff of orlitical gain - using the well-known Livonia charity

The complaint focused on a mailing received by residents outside Livonia. It was a 54-page magazine called "Livonia," describing the virtues and amenities of the entertainment, business and social life of the city of more than 100,000.

Both Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano and McNamara are running in the Democratic primary Aug 5. There are 11 candidates for Wayne county executive.

Amann questioned why the magazine was being sent to residents outside of Livonia, using a Livonia Heart Fund non-profit, tax-exempt mailing sticker.

He said it smacked of a political stunt by McNamara's people to reach voters in downriver communities and other cities outside of Livonia. Amann added it looked like an attempt by McNamara to continue his advertising pitch that "he can do for Wayne County what he did for Livonia." The mayor has used that theme in his paid-poltical television advertising.

BESIDES receiving one in his home in the city of Wayne, Amann said he knew of someone who got the magazine in River Rouge. Amann

Livonia Heart Fund chairman Ron Mardiros, who also serves as a McNamara fund-raiser, said that was nonsense. Mardiros said the magazine, a one-time publication, "has nothing to do with politics." He said it was mailed to three groups of people: city residents, business people listed on the Livonia Chamber of Commerce's mailing list, and those on the Livonia Heart Fund mailing list.

"There are 2,400 people on the Livonia Heart Fund mailing list and we sent them to people who live all over, including places like Farmington and Cincinnati."

Asked why copies would be mailed to Amann and someone in River Rouge, he said it was because they were on the heart fund's mailing list.

'It's anyone who's received mail from the heart fund in the past," he said. "No one who did not receive mail from the heart fund before got

He said the magazine, which also was included in copies of Metropolitan Detroit last month, included postcards inside asking for support for the heart fund

Lab finds ways to avoid car injuries

Over the past 20 years, Dr. Albert King of Wayne State University has put in thousands of hours studying ways to reduce the number of fatalities due to automobile accidents.

In that time, the Southfield resident has played a major part in setting the national safety standards for cars, and making more effective seat belts and other restraints.

King is director of the Bioengineering Center on Wayne State's campus in Detroit. He spends most of his research time studying injuries caused by automobile accidents, but is also heavily involved in the investigation of the causes and mechanisms of low back pain.

Medical statistics show that 80 percent of the American population have suffered low back pain at one time or another

And he has developed a technique for studying the gait patterns of individuals with walking disabilities. This technique can be used in any clinical setting.

TO STUDY the causes of these conditions, he mainly uses computer models, and in the case of automotive trauma, sophisticated "dummies" that are designed to measure the amount of damage inflicted.

His lab contains several sleds that reach speeds of up to 40 miles an hour before striking a barrier. These are used for the simulation of every imaginable automobile accident scenario.

The sleds and other test equipment allow Dr. King to control all the variables of the crash so he can analyze specific injuries.

KING'S YEARS have given him a keen respect for the road and a variety of very strong opinions on car

 Never hold a baby in your arms while riding in a car. "You're using your kid for an air bag. That's crazy (In the event of an accident) you're sure to squeeze it to death."

· Don't drive drunk, for your own sake. Although common belief is that intoxicated people sustain fewer injuries than sober people in an accident because they are more relaxed. the opposite seems to be true.

'Alcohol appears to have a bad effect on your ability to tolerate accidents." In a severe crash, the Wayne State professor said, the sober person is much more likely to survive because his physiological repsonses have not been slowed down by alco-

• In general, a seat belt offers more protection than an air bag. He explained that an air bag is only effective when the impact comes mostly from the front. Seat belts are effective from various directions.

· Wear your seat belt. Some people who don't say they want to be able to get out of the car in case it catches fire or becomes submerged in water. These are poor excuses, King said.

First, these accidents occur very infrequently. Second, an accident of this type is usaually preceded by a severe impact with another vehicle or with the water surface.

"If they're knocked out because they didn't wear their seat belt, they couldn't get out (of the car) anyway.'

OVERALL, KING said, "Everybody should be belted, and the kids should use the legally mandated child restraints.'

King came to Wayne State University as a graduate student in 1958 and worked on his dissertation in the Bioengineering Center.

He became director of the lab in 1979. Through the years, he has received grants for research from many places. These include the National Highway Safety Administration, the National Institutes of Health, major automobile companies and other private industry.

King is preparing to move his lab into a larger building where he will continue his research. The architect has already begun drawing up the plans, and King expects the move to be completed this year.

WHEN YOU ACHE AND LITTLE SHOWS

You may have known a person who had years of aching in the hands, knees or other joints, yet doctors were not able to say what kind of arthritis the individual had. Why is that the case?

Rheumatoid arthritis results when the body, for unknown reasons makes antibodies that are directed against the individual's own joints This inappropriate activity may be mild and cause no joint swelling, or be intense and lead to changes that doctors recognize as rheumatoid

A mild response results in joint discomfort but otherwise has a good outlook: crippling is unlikely. Experience has shown that in mild cases, x-rays, blood tests, and repeated examinations rarely uncover information that clarifies the cause of the joint problem

Even if all questions concerning the arthritis aren't answered, the physician can wholeheartedly encourage the patient to undertake an active life. In the case of aching joints, doctor's knowledge of what is not the cause is almost as useful as arriving at a precise diagnosis.

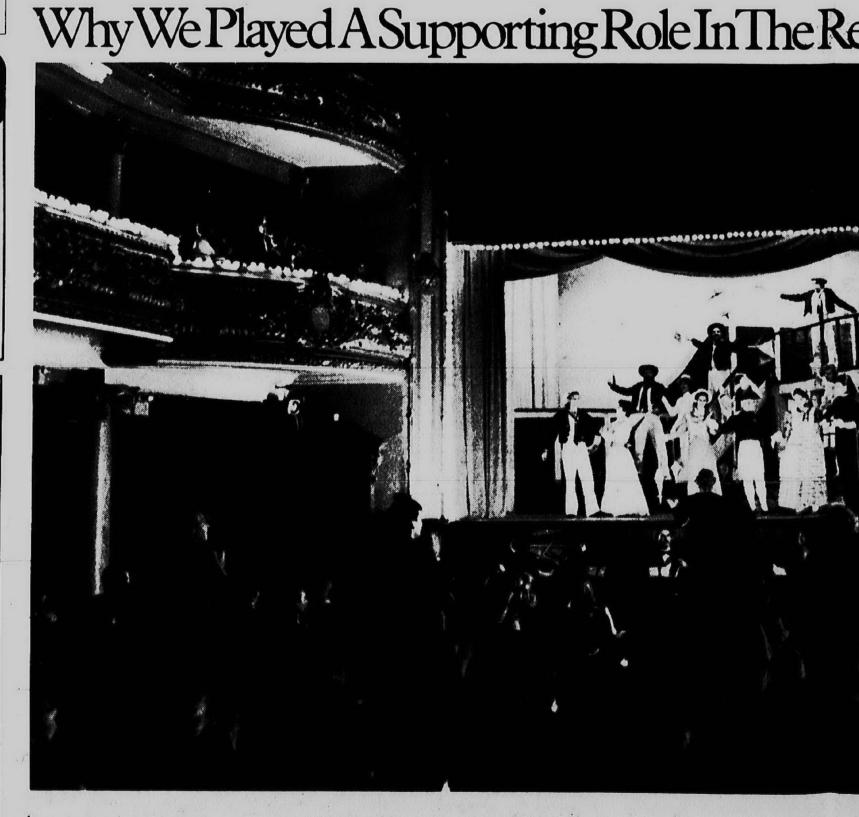

You are invited to attend the Michigan Eye Institute Cataract Focus Group

At the Cataract Focus Group, you will meet the doctors, staff and former patients of the Michigan Eye Institute, and learn about new techniques to restore cataract impaired vision. A complimentary light lunch will be served, and information will be provided for you to take home.

AN MURPHY has no slick You sit down with them. You explain it to them. You work with them," the Oakland County executive says time after time when he tells people outstate how he would govern Michigan.

It was like that last week in Alman, a small college town surrounded by the soybean farms of Gratiot County.

That's how Murphy distinguishes himself from Democratic Gov. James J. Blanchard and GOP rival William Lucas, the Wayne County executive. Murphy told them how he meets regularly with Oakland County Board of Commissioners' leaders to swap ideas.

So when a Kiwanis Club questioner asked about economic development, the gubernatorial hopeful told how he would have handled a problem with a marina on the Saginaw River at Bay City.

"I WOULD direct my economic development group to spend time with the local businessman who's in trouble," he began.

"We don't have 'em (Department of Natural Resources staff) working with you. We have 'em saying 'you can't do this or that.

"Now, Bay County has lost 19 industries (in recent years). And here's a company that wants to put in 1,000 more slips for (pleasure) boats," he went on, making two points:

• The Blanchard administration "puts too much emphasis on big manufacturing" and not enough on small business, which provides 80 percent of the new jobs.

· Any environmental problem on the Saginaw River can probably be worked out with the attitude of being helpful rather than by officiously enforcing regulations on riverbank

MURPHY, 62, has headed the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, but he is little known outstate. He finds, nevertheless, that people know about Oakland County, its phenomenal office and high-tech growth. He senses they have "good vibes" about Oakland.

'My responsibility is to work with the county board," said Murphy, who in 1974 was elected the first county

Second of four articles on the executive in Michigan after two deccandidates for the Republican gu- ades as register of deeds, clerk and chairman of the budget-writing Board of Auditors.

"I go to every board meeting. You have to sit down and talk with them. Some executives don't. They're making a big mistake," he said in a jibe at Lucas, who in four years has delivered only a few formal addresses to the Wayne County board and openly says "most of them shouldn't

"The executive can't sit there and say 'this is the way it's going to be,' Murphy went on.

'We" - Murphy, the board and other administrators - have cut Oakland's property tax rate three times for a total of 22 percent, from 5.8 mills to 4.6. And if anyone wants to say it's because Oakland has high incomes, Murphy replies that his government lives off the property tax, like the other 82 counties in Michigan - not off soaring income

A SHY MAN who finds it difficult to grab hands and impossible to make small talk, Murphy begins to glow when he talks about delivering government services for less.

"I used to walk into the building at night and see what they were doing,' he said, recalling how he got the idea of eliminating the county's janitorial staff and hiring a private contractor.

He calls the concept "privatizing."
It means that although a governmental monopoly must provide a service, it doesn't have to do so itself it can hire the low bidder among businesses to do the work under contract. Businesses have a profit motive to hold down the cost to government and thus to taxpayers.

Private lawyers handle federal cases . . . a private laundry saves the county $350,000 a year doing work for Oakland's jail, Children's Village, the Medical Care Facility private architects and engineers now design county buildings. "Would you contract jails and prisons?" a Kiwanian asked.

'Would I ever! You bet!" Murphy replied, citing how Tennessee has done so and prophesying "in the next 20 years you're going to have the private sector operating jails."

TO MURPHY, such an exchange is more fun than shaking hands on (A television commentator, however, reports that Murphy has no staff with him and fails to ask folks for their votes. The TV man asks about campaign budget and scoffs that the local political leader wastes Murphy's time with a tour of a descrted college campus.)

"They (reporters) are not asking about issues," Murphy complained aloud to the Kiwanians. "I'm the only Republican candidate that has an economic program - 10 issues."

Murphy would cut unemployment comp and workers comp costs, modify usury laws to keep credit-card companies in Michigan, easethe single-business tax on unprofitable firms and give tax credits for research and development.

"They're not very sexy," he admit-

AT LUNCH, one Kiwanian, the local banker, tells a newsman the farm economy is so bad that bankers will have to write off 30 percent of their farm loans as losses. The banker blames it on 1) inconsistent soybean policies in the U.S. Department of Agriculture resulting in loss of the Japanese market, 2) bad advice to farmers from Michigan State University's Extension Service and 3) bad management by farmers.

The banker has no questions for Murphy. The banker's chief interest is re-electing freshman GOP Congressman Bill Schuette. He isn't convinced Murphy is the gubernatorial candidate who can lead the ticket and save Schuette.

Elsewhere outstate, Murphy says he's "hammered" for a position on abortion. Murphy is against statefunded Medicaid abortions but doesn't favor outlawing abortions entirely through a constitutional

OTHER AREAS ask about tourism and local highway problems.

"The governor has to have a look," he replies. "I can't promise you I'll do something. The problem is, the governor never comes up there to

That's vintage Dan Murphy. He's shooting for raising a $1 million campaign war chest to buy TV commercials because that's what his advisers tell him, but in his own mind something else is more important:

'It doesn't matter if you get elected again. The idea is to accomplish something - to make some things

Group seeks cap on lawyers' fees

A group seeking a ballot proposal to limit lawyers' contingency fees is continuing to collect signatures in hopes of getting on the 1988 ballot.

The Citizens Liability Action Committee collected 221,000 by the July 7 deadline, some 80,000 short of the number needed to win a spot on the Nov. 4 ballot.

Instead, the group will try for the legal minimum of 304,000 signatures by Nov. 3 in hopes of being on the ballot in two years. Toll-free phone number in Grand Rapids is 1-800-

"THE PETITION'S proposal is to limit the contingent fee to one-third of the first $200,000 of an award and then drop the fee back to 5 percent of an amount over $200,000," said Mary Grace Robb, West Bloomfield resident who is active in the drive.

"There were limits on contingency fees in Michigan from 1975-81," she added. "At that time, the State Bar of Michigan petitioned the Supreme Court to relax those restrictions, and the fees went to the present one-third plus costs of the total award.

(P,C,R,W,G-5A)+7A

'It is interesting to note that the number of cases filed in Michigan also increased tremendously after this date."

THE DRIVE began as part of business and professional groups of forts at winning tort reform are reduction of liability insurance costs.

The group is concentrating on solicting chambers of commerce, day care and nursery schools, bars, restaurants, car dealerships, insurance agents, bowling alleys and local government officials.

e Restoration Of A Community

Near the turn of the century, two-bits and a little bit of luck put you near the front of the standing room only crowds that were the hallmark of this opera house.

Mary Pickford, at the time just a blossoming star, graced its stage. As did Annie Oakley's traveling show of six-guns and other assorted shootin' irons.

In fact, over the years, what with all the stars of vaudeville and theatre who performed here, you would have thought it was Broadway in New York.
Not a small midwest town's main street opera house.

Even talking movies couldn't do to the grand old place what a major fire, many years of neglect and then a condemnation notice would finally do. Close its doors.

But to the townspeople, the show just had to go on.

So when private citizens and business people got together to restore this priceless landmark, a lot of our people asked what part they could play. You see, we're not just bankers.

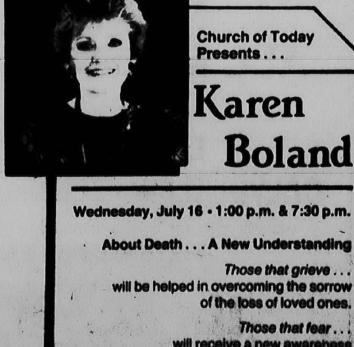

We're part of the community. So we believe that sometimes it's just as important to lend a hand as it is to lend someone money.
At First of America Bank, we're proud we were part of the impressive community cast of characters that raised the money it took to bring the opera house back to life.

And we applaud the entire town's contribution to the performing arts.

The year the Lord Mayor came to Plymouth

(Part 5)
Civic leaders, including the late Eddie Edgar, met at City Hall in Plymouth early in 1967. Mayor James Houk explained why he had .called them together.

"July will mark the 100th anniversary of the year our village was incorporated. My question to you is do we do anything special to observe the occasion? And if so, what?"

The consensus was that the community should do something unusual. "We should beautify Kellogg

"Someone should write a history of our city."

"We could put up a cultural center with an ice rink for the kids."

"Let's invite the mayors of all of the other Plymouths in the United States.

But the idea that caused the most comment - and not a little laughter came from Eddie Edgar, then editor of the Plymouth Mail and Ob-

"Why not try for the jackpot," re-marked Eddie. "Let's invite the Lord vited, showed up.

Mayor of Plymouth, England, to visit us. He can help us celebrate our anniversary. Maybe, he'll help us celebrate the Fourth of July, too."

'Aw, come on, Eddie," one of the conferees said. "We couldn't ask a man to come 4,000 miles because a little town like ours has an anniversary. He won't come."

'Maybe," Eddie responded, "but we won't know if we don't try. When you're planning something like this, you've got to think big."

The Mayor intervened. "Okay, Eddie," he decided. "You write to him." Eddie did. And Frank Chapman, Lord Mayor of Plymouth, England (population in excess of 200,000), travelled more than 4,000 miles to help Plymouth, Mich., (population not more than 10,000) observe its Centennial. Not only did the Lord Mayor make the trip, he brought with him three other city officials - a Conservative and a Labor member of his council, plus the City Clerk. Ironically, none of the other Plymouths in the United States, who were also in-past and present Sam Hudson

Thanks to Eddie's idea, and persistence, Plymouth celebrated its Centennial in style. The entire town got behind the event.

LORD MAYOR CHAPMAN and his colleagues stayed a full week. They were the star attractions at a series of local activities.

At a civic banquet held at the Mayflower Hotel, Eddie, as Master of Ceremonies, introduced the featured speaker - the late U.S. Sen. Philip A. Hart.

The English notables attended lawn parties, went to Detroit to see the Tigers play baseball, and were honored at a special meeting of the Plymouth Rotary Club. On several of the occasions, the Lord Mayor wore his ceremonial robes, and his shining emblem of office — a priceless gold chain that dates back to the days when Sir Francis Drake was Lord Mayor of Plymouth, England.

On the Fourth of July, the Lord Mayor and the other English officials, including the British Consul stationed in Detroit, rode in the Plymouth parade. Riding down Main Street in open-top cars, they waved and beamed at onlookers, and seemed to enjoy it as much as if Britain had won the Revolutionary

As part of the festivities while they were here, the Lord Mayor and his group presented the City of Plymouth with a good-sized chunk of the rock from which the Pilgrims Hall, Eddie Edgar was among those embarked in his city when they sailed on the Mayflower to the New World. The rock now rests, with an identifying plaque, on the lawn in front of City Hall.

"As far as I know," Eddie said, "it is the only place in America that has a piece of the rock the Pilgrims trod just before they sailed."

EDDIE EDGAR'S idea was a big success but that was only the beginning of a strong relationship between the two cities, which has continued up to the present.

In 1970, when the English city observed the 350th anniversary of the sailing of the Mayflower, Eddie was one of a group of 55 Michigan residents, including many Plymouth Ro-tarians, who flew to England where they participated in the event.

Lord Mayor Chapman died a short time later. When the city fathers in Plymouth, Mich., honored Chapman by planting two trees in his memory tride the rock in front of our City who participated in the ceremonies.

When the group visited England, Eddie and the Rotary members of the party attended the local Rotary Club. Eddie had written of their coming, and had offered to provide the program, including the speaker. The English Rotarians were delighted with the idea. The speaker of the meeting that day, a member of Eddie's group was Hugh Archer of Dearborn. Mr. Archer was later Governor of Rotary District 640, and is a Past retired International Director of Rotary.

The bond between Plymouth, Mich., and Plymouth, England, separated by an ocean and part of a continent, came about because a news-paperman in a small suburban city settled by pioneers less than 200 years ago "thought big," and the Lord Mayor of a large metropolitan city whose history goes back 900 years, responded in kind.

"Vertebral Subluxations cause changes in normal body function."

A Vertebral Subluxation is a spinal vertebrae that is twisted out of alignment. This then pinches spinal nerve bundles which exit between the vertebrae (see picture below). Because of this, nerve signals from the brain are blocked; this blockage causes abnormal function of cells, tissues and organs. Abnormal function eventually leads to disease, sickness and many other symptoms.

Vertebral Subluxations are eliminated by chiropractic adjustments. Modern diagnosis, instrumentation & light adjusting methods are always used to eliminate the cause (the vertebral subluxation) of the problem as quickly as possible.

It's important to take care of cause not symptom. Treatment of symptoms mask disease & sickness, allowing them to continue undetected until surgery is required or death ensues.

Chiropractic uses no drugs, when our people are well, there has been a true correction and a return to natural health. Everyday the world is realizing the negative impact of chemical pollution. On our planet, the environment is in a delicate balance. We must follow the laws of nature if we are to survive. Don't be another victim of pollution, if medications really cured, instead of covering pain and sickness, no one would die of any disease because there is a medication for almost everything known to man.

The correction of vertebral subluxations has given millions just like you the chance to live a normal, healthy long life.

Do you really think after 91 years Chiropractic would still be around if it didn't work?

Keeping youngsters spellbound

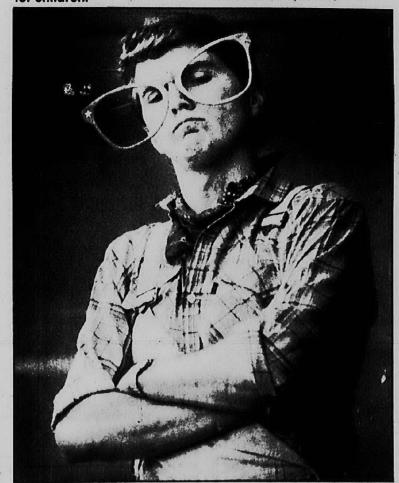

"Lazy Lou" (Tracy Gibson) gets ready to climb into the branches of the apple tree, played by John Puchalski. "Goll-Gollee-Gee" was one of several tall tales presented by the Crossroads Productions actors during the Thursday afternoon program

HE STORY of "The Knee-High Man" was told with gusto Thursday afternoon at the Canton Township Municipal Building.

When he was born, he was no bigger than a kidney bean," actor John Puchalski told his audience of Summer Reading Club youngsters from the Canton Public Library. The children met Thursday for "Golliwhoppers! Tall Tales in the American Tradition," a dramatic performance presented by Crossroads Productions actors.

According to Puchalski, when the Knee-High Man grew up, he was only knee-high to a regular man. His height was a source of great unhappiness for the Knee-High Man.

Having decided to do something about his height, the Knee-High Man asked for help from Brother Wild Boar. In order to grow to great heights, according to the boar, it's necessary to eat such things as corn cobs and slop, to snort, and to wallow around in the swamp mud.

Brother Hoot Owl (Terry Hunt) asks the Knee-High Man why he wants to be sizable rather than short.

THE ANSWER from the children gathered in the first floor meeting room of the township's Municipal Building was a resounding "no." The poor Knee-High Man then sought advice from Sister Alligator.

Eating snakes, turtles and frogs, bellowing, and then thrashing one's tail is what it takes to grow, according to Sister Alligator. After that, it's necessary to bury oneself deep in the swamp mud.

Following that advice, however, was a bit difficult for the Knee-High

The story of "The Knee-High Man" was one of three tall tales told to the youngsters Thursday, along with "Big Jesse Febold Ebeneezer Chopalong" and "Goll-Gollee-Gee." The performance combined song. dance and storytelling.

Summer skin care: Caution's the key

By Julie Brown staff writer

HE PROSPECT of sunbathing on a warm summer day can be tempting. The sun's warmth feels good. The golden tan that can follow is considered attractive by many. Sunbathing, however, also has its drawbacks. Overexposure to the sun can lead to premature aging of the skin, increased risk of skin cancer and even death.

Those risks can be reduced through some common-sense measures, such as minimizing sun exposure during the hours when the sun's rays are the strongest. The time period of 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. (11 a.m. to 3 p.m. daylight savings time) presents the greatest danger. A group of area residents gathered Thursday night at the Arbor Health Building in Plymouth to learn more about protecting their skin. The Catherine McAuley Health Center program, "Sense in the Sun," was presented by Dr. Craig Cattell. Cattell is a St. Joseph Mercy Hospital dermatologist who has offices in the Arbor Health Building. During the Thursday program, he offered a number of suggestions for taking good care of the skin.

USING A good sunscreen — with a sun protection factor (SPF) of 15 or more - is important.

Labels should be checked for the sun protection factor and to see if the product is water-soluble. A number of sunscreens are available these days, Cattell said, so it shouldn't be too difficult to find one that's satis-

The sunscreen awareness in the industry has increased over the last 10 years," the dermatologist told those at the Arbor Health Building program. "So many people are buying them now, so the companies are trying to sell them." Pharmacists can be a big help in finding satisfactory sunscreens and moisturizers, he said.

"These guys know exactly where they are and they're usually quite helpful."

Once a satisfactory product has been found, it's important to keep on

"If it's cosmetically acceptable, you're going to use it. If it's not, you won't.

Sunscreens need to be reapplied liberally and frequently, at least every two hours, for those who are out in the sun. Those who are swimming or perspiring heavily need to be particularly careful to reapply the sunscreen regularly.
PROTECTIVE CLOTHING can also help reduce the risks associated with sun exposure. Wearing a hat, a long-sleeved shirt and long pants when out in the sun is a good idea. Tightly woven fabrics provide greater protection from the sun's rays. Suntanning booths are also a source of concern for dermatolo-

"That's a personal thing," Cattell said, explaining that consumers must make their own decisions about using the suntanning booths. They should, however, be aware of the risks involved.

"It could produce problems down ing south on vacations may choose to visit a suntanning parlor. They may do so to avoid painful sunburns while on vacation.

"I don't think that's particularly terrible," Cattell said of brief exposure in a suntaining booth. "I'm a practical person, too."

Certain medications, such as those used to treat epilepsy and high blood pressure, can also lead to increased sensitivity to sun exposure. Those in-dividuals may need to take extra precautions.

The overwhelming majority of skin cancers occur on areas of the body that aren't usually covered by clothing. Cancers can, however, de-velop anywhere.
"It doesn't have a whole lot of re-

"It doesn't have a whole lot of respect for those things," Cattell said. "They grow when they want and where they want."

Any unusual growth or color change in the skin should be checked by a doctor. Moles that change size, tions by doing a biopsy, examining tissues removed from the site.

"Biopsies aren't really anything to be tremendously worried about," the dermatologist told those at the Arbor Health Building program. "It gives us a lot of information."

The three major types of skin can-cer are basal cell carcinoma, squamous cell carcinoma and malignant melanoma:

Basal cell carcinoma is the most common type. It is a slow-growing cancer that generally begins with a small, shiny, pearly bump or nodule on the head, neck or hand. Prompt treatment is essential.

If left untreated, the nodule can bleed, crust over, and then open up again. Basal cell carcinoma generally does not become life-threatening but it can keep growing, reaching but it can keep growing, reaching

The squamous cell skin cancars can spread to the other parts of the body. As with basal cell carcinoma, they can become quite large if left untreated.

New director, new direction for MHSAA?

MAND is at hand. And if first impressions are worth anything at all, it seems the change will be consider-

First, an introduction is in order. Meet Jack Roberts, who will officially take charge of the Michigan High School Athletic Association Sept. 1. Roberts will begin Aug. 4 and will spend the first month learning just what the job entails from retiring executive director Vern Norris.

I had the opportunity to speak with the new boss of the MHSAA last week in a telephone interview from his present place of employment, the national headquarters of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes in Kansas City, where he serves as executive vice president.

With the formality of introductions properly dispensed with, let's get on with some meaningful interrogations. Like, what can we expect from this guy?

HOW ABOUT something differ-

That alone would be more than most people even remotely aware of the MHSAA and its workings would expect. But my feeling - premature it as it might be - is that the new guy represents a change in thinking in Such a bold prediction is based on more than just a brief conversation with Roberts. Consider, first of all,

If the • MHSAA Representative Council was totally satisfied with the direction the association was taking in recent years under Norris, they probably would have selected Fred Sible as the next executive director. Sible, one of the three finalists for the post, was an assistant director under Norris.

INSTEAD THEY chose Roberts, a surprise pick for several reasons. First, he's never had any previous connection with our state. He was born and raised in Stevens Point, Wis., where his father was employed as head of the state's interscholastic athletic association for 29 years.

And, despite a formidable list of impressive credentials that includes seven years as assistant director of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations,

Roberts is just 37 years old. My opinion is nobody should be disqualified from a job because of age, but considering the scope of the MHSAA's executive directorship, it seems Roberts' lack of years which is often mistakenly translated as a lack of experience - would have stifled his chances for the job.

Yet here he is, the executive-director-to-be. Roberts seemed to be the longshot when the field was narrowed to three; the others, Sible and William Pappas, a principal at Grand Rapids Northview high school, both have closer ties to athletics within the state.

Roberts' selection alone should clearly signal that a change in how the MHSAA operates is not only probable, it's needed. Or so the Representative Council believes.

BUT IF THAT isn't convincing enough, listening to Roberts as he outlines his basic philosophy cinches

For example: "When there is litigation, when there are enforcement problems, people are misunder-standing (the MHSAA's) purpose. Communication is a major responsi-

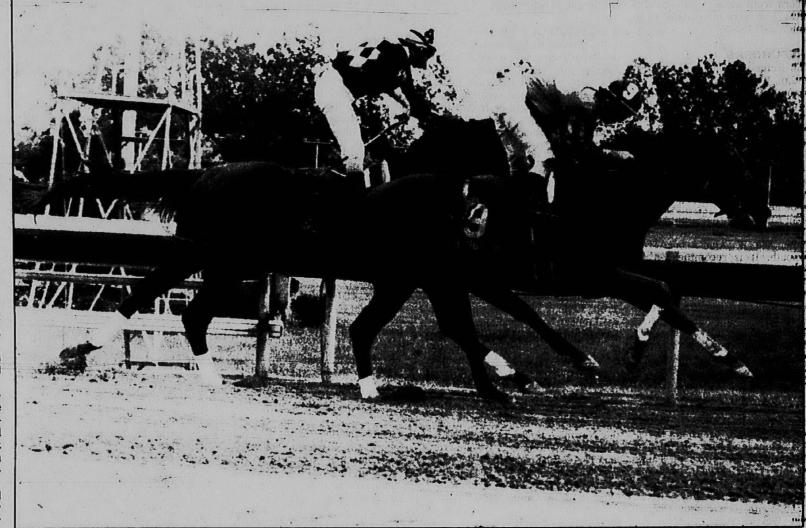

That probably doesn't sound so insightful, but do you think Norris would admit a communication problem even existed? Roberts made his intentions clear: to make people aware of the MHSAA's operations and avenues of appeal. "An early and persistent goal of mine," he said, "will be to point out to the public that the purpose of high school sports is unique and special compared to collegiate or other sports. When we forget that purpose, we lose our distinction."

But all 'Ends Well' at Michigan Mile

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

All Ends Well needed was a leader to catch Saturday in the Michigan Mile at Ladbroke DRC.

Ends Well, jockeyed by Randy Romero, picked up $164,700 winners' ROBERTS PLANS to battle the share of the $250,000-added purse.

Gate Dancer, who won the 1984 Preakness, was scratched from the Michigan Mile because of a heal infection. Gate Dancer was favored 8to-5 in the morning odds.

DEJEAU, THE 1985 Michigan Derby winner, was also scratched due to injuries.

Gate Dancer suffered burned heals after working out Wednesday at Ladbroke DRC. It was thought, though, that he would be ready for Saturday's race.

But Saturday morning Gate Dancer was withdrawn from the race after the injuries were considered too severe.

Gate Dancer's absence didn't alter any plans Ends Well's trainer Robert Reinacher Jr. had for the race.

"From a tactical standpoint, it didn't change anything," Reinacher said. "The controling horse in my opinion was the one that finished second (Purple Mountain)."

Purple Mountain set an excellent pace for Ends Well to follow, posting a 47.1 time at the half mile. Purple Mountain held the first position until the eighth post before Ends All made

At the half-mile mark, Purple Mountain was followed by Quibble and Land Of The Believe. Purple Mountain, ridden by Nick Santagata, still had the lead at the mile mark with a time of 1:36.2.

"I knew he was the horse to beat (Purple Mountain)," said Romero, who has recovered from an accident which left burns over 65 percent of his body. "I came in with the determination to win.'

ROMERO, A CAJUN from Louisiover $5 million. He added another $164.700.

Reinacher said, after some recent hard luck, he'd hoped to get win to get Ends Well's confidence back. Gate Dancer's absence made that more possible.

The fast track was a help also

"All the races were running really quick," said Romero. "I thought I would be leading by three or four horses, but I could see I was going to be a lot more faster than I expect-

Ten Gold Pets, a 2-to-1 favorite, finished fourth. Last year's Michigan Mile winner, Bandwagon Harry, fin-Quibble, which ran in second for the first half mile, faded to ninth. Land Of The Believe, after a strong start, finished seventh.

The win for Romero came in his ana, finished second in the nation in first race in Michigan. Recently he's wins in 1985 with 466 and earnings moved eastward from Louisiana, Arkansas and Illinois to Florida and New York.

In the east Romero's raced well, winning 41 races this year and the riding title at Gulfstream Park.

He was also one of the leaders at Belmont Park before a back injury sidelined him again.

Smith's pro career at crossroads

staff writer

Dennis Smith is at the crossroads of his hockey career. He calls the upcoming season

"My make or break year." All the 22-year-old Westland native really wants is a break from some National Hockey League team. With the help of Toronto agent Harry Francis, the 5-foot-11, 192-pound defenseman is hoping to get a tryout with somebody.

"Dennis has incredible skills, but the situation can be political some-times," said A.J. Baker, director of the Midwest Summer Hockey League. "It depends on who knows him and who he knows."

Smith, who now resides in Livo-nia, played last season with the St. Louis Blues farm club, the Peoria (III.) Rivermen of the rough-and-tumble International Hockey Sporting a plus-13 rating, second highest among defenseman on the team, Smith was named the River-men's Rockie of the Year.

"The bus rides are terrible," he said. "That's the worst part of it." Growing up in Westland, Smith played midget hockey in Taylor for big fether and also were a member. his father and also was a member of Little Caesars Bantam championship team.

AS A 17-YEAR-OLD, Smith was drafted in the seventh round by Kingston of the Ontario Hockey, League. He was also drafted second by the Redford Royals of the local North American Junior Hock-ov League.

Livonia Adray moved into a tie for first place in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League with a 5-3 victory over co-leader Redford Little Caesars in a game played Wednesday at Ford Field.

The two teams, who met yesterday in a key LCBL double-header, are both 13-6-1.

Winning pitcher Don Vesling ran his record to 5-0 with the victory. The Eastern Michigan University standout scattered eight hits to go along with 10 strikeouts.

John Stoitsiadis singled in a run for Walter's. The other run was unearned.

Let me bore you for a moment with a brief synopsis so you'll know, "Who is Jack Burton?" Then you won't have to waste your time

Jack Burton is a carefree truck driver and soldier-of-fortune whose idealized heroine, attorney Grace Law, joins him and an endless stream of Chinese friends and foes. All these people are either out to destroy Loi-pan, a cursed Chinese ghost, or they are trying to destroy Jack and his crowd.

KIM CATTRALL and Kurt Russell, as Grace and Jack, have neither the repartee, good looks and style nor acting ability of Kathleen Turner and Michael Douglas, whom they are imitating - and

Who is Jack Burton?" scream the nearly-full-page movie ads.

Who cares' I've already spilled the beans. It's Kurt Russell, in what might have been a stylish spoof that turns out to be leaden and wooden, with endless kung-fu/karate battles fought in half-lit cellars. However Carpenter bills this, it's a poor excuse for a motion picture. Little Value in Kung-fu Land" is Among the film's many deficiencies, relatively limited musical performance by Prince. At least Purple Rain" had that for his fans.

"Under the Cherry Moon" stands as a monument to Prince's ego. Only by an incredible stretch of the

If you can believe "Under the Cherry Moon," Prince is a successful gigolo, Christopher, working in Nice on the French Cote d'Azur. The Riveria setting is an excuse for a week stab at the slick black-andwhite look of high-style 1940s movies, complete with Lear jets. It turns out looking like early Fred and Ginger that spent too much time in the developing solution.

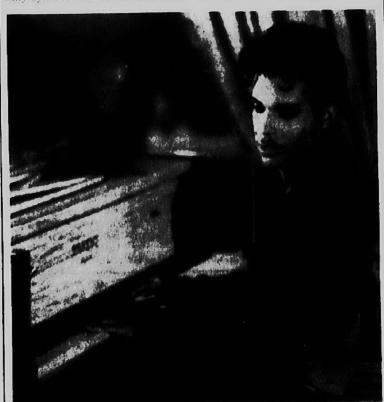

Christopher's partner and best friend, Tricky (Jerome Benton), works the club with him. One of Christopher's best customers, wealthy Mrs. Wellington (Francesca Annis), is also having an affair (or being kept) by Isaac Sharon (Steven Berkoff), the billionaire bastard who dominates his daughter, Mary (Kristin Scott-Thomas). Naturally, Mary falls for Christopher who is willing to give up his dazzling life as a male prostitute. She's going to make an honest man of him! Not if Daddy and his goons have their way.

Under the Cherry Moon" is a childish imitation of the adult world by a successful rock star who can do whatever he wants because he sells a lot of records.

The acting is limited to Scott-Thomas caricaturing a wealthy Briton scolding servants and to Prince grimacing, although Jerome Benton as friend Tricky manages to seem like a real human being from time to time. One cannot imagine a more one-dimensional character than Steven Berkoff's Daddy Sharon.

Add the simple-minded plot and relatively limited music by Prince, and there you have it. "Under the Cherry Moon." It's the pits.

Prince is Christopher, a plano player and gigolo on the French Cote d'Azur in "Under the Cherry Moon."

Your traveling taster visits area eateries and rates them on a 100point scale. Up to 30 points are awarded for ambiance, which includes general atmosphere and service; 55 points for food, and 15 points for price/value rating. A total count of 59 points or less indicates a restaurant is not recommended; 60-74 points signify from passing to good: 75-89 points' designate very good with some extraordinary features. and 90-100 points show that a very special dining experience awaits

Since its change of ownership and some much-needed refurbishing, the dining area provides an attractive opportunity to enjoy good cuisine. The classical music is appealing, there are candles on the tables and the feeling here is comfortable and relaxing. Some additional investment in new flatwear, china and furnishings is needed, however, before a word like "elegant" would be appropriate. Generally, men were dressed in suits or sport jackets and women in dresses or skirts. Our reservations were promptly and very pleasantly honored. Dinner took about two hours. General Atmosphere — 15 points maximum. Points awarded - 13.

The pace of service is so important in a restaurant that is attempting to attain a "gourmet" reputation. Our waiter was extremely knowledgeable about the menu items. prepared well. The sauce contained an ample quantity of seafood, but the taste was overly fishy and the sauce too runny. The assorted appetizer plate ($6.95) had a delicious range of (primarily) seafood items. In particular, the oyster Rockefeller, the clam casino and the scallops and shrimp were noteworthy. Warm bread is served, and drinks were fine. Drinks, Appetizers and Bread = 10 points_maximum. Points awarded - 8.

Our waiter promoted the "international-award-winning Caesar salad" ($4.95 per person). The lettuce was served European style, in large pieces, to "involve" the eater. It was professionally prepared at our table, but we were disappointed that there was no anchovy taste and no ground pepper served over it and that there was too heavy a taste of mustard in the dressing. It was good, but not supurb as we had hoped. Salad - 5 points maximum. Points awarded -3.

We ordered three daily specials as entrees. The prawns Cajun-style ($21.95) was served with a greenand-red pepper sauce and fresh peppercorns. Our waiter offered to bring the sauce on the side, but we took it served over the prawns. It did prove too spicy for one person's taste but was well received by others. The grilled Norwegian salmon ($17.95) was only average, as the fish was nearly tasteless. More interesting was the barracuda, which was served with a lime hollandaise sauce ($16.95). This fish, though mild, had a pleasing flavor and consistency. Asparagus with hollandise was served with each entree. It was nicely presented with the two fish dishes, but came all alone on a separate plate with the prawns. Entree, Vegetables and Garnishes - 30 points
