SHAKESPEARE: Sean Budlong of Plymouth is among 21 cast members in the Alma Players fall-term production of Shakespeare's fantasy comedy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," at 8 p.m. Nov. 14, 15, 21, 22 in Alma College's Dow Auditorium. Budlong, son of Judith and Robert Budlong of Old Salem, Plymouth, is a 1985 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School. Budlong is cast as Lysander, a young, misguided lover and object of magical pranks pulled by forest fairies.

ON FITNESS: Peter Nielsen, better known as Mr. Universe, and sports publicist Jackie Callen will be speaking today in the gymnasium of Central Middle School to encourage students to pursue physical fitness, and avoid substance abuse. The two stopped in Plymouth as part of a national tour to spread the message of sound bodies, sound minds.

WALKERS: The Plymouth Community Family YMCA Walking Club after two weeks has walked a total of 254 1/2 miles. Bonnie Graham and Alice Jones received awards for the most miles walked. The club is open to everyone — the seasoned walker or the new walker, for people who want to walk in groups or alone. To walk, call 453-2904.

WHO'S MR. GRUMPY?: Gaye Swallow's first-grade class at Smith Elementary School on McKinley in Plymouth is having a special Halloween celebration. As part of her curriculum, Swallow has been incorporating the Little Miss and Mister books as her central theme. (There is an entire series, such as Mr. Noisy, Mr. Grumpy, Mr. Happy, Little Miss Sunshine, Miss Twins, etc.) Each child has chosen a special character from these books and, using a pillowcase, has created a Halloween costume of that character.

Budget, sewer highlight agenda

Two key issues, adoption of a 1987 budget and a proposal to participate in a massive sewer extension project, highlight the agenda for Tuesday's meeting of the Plymouth Township Board.

The session, open to the public, is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in township hall, 42350 Ann Arbor Road just east of Lilley.

Taxpayer dollars — big dollars — are at issue in each instance.

SUPERVISOR Maurice Breen has recommended an operating budget of $4.1 million.

Major projected expenses include $798,000 for both the police and fire departments, $244,000 for the planning/building department and $1.6 million for all other municipal departments except water and sewer, which has its own budget.

Another major anticipated expense is $315,000 for trash collection.

The township board has already adopted a tax rate of $4 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation (half of a property's market value) for general operations.

Breen said he anticipates few problems in getting board approval of the spending plan.

ON THE OTHER hand, controversy has dogged plans to expand the North Huron Valley Rouge River Valley Waste Water Control System, known variously as Supersewer and Son of Supersewer.

Plymouth Township has been notified its share of the cost would now amount to $6.2 million to $12.2 million depending on how much of the system is built and whether federal money is available to help defray costs, Breen said.

As of Friday afternoon Breen said he hadn't decided on a recommendation.

Key factors to consider, he said, are whether the project, as conceived, will take care of all future capacity, whether it will result in cleaner water and whether this will be the end of the line as far as any subsequent construction and financing needs are concerned.

Breen said he heard last week that the overall cost of the project may be reduced 10 percent due to design changes.

The sewer was proposed to deal with explosive growth in the western suburbs. Canton and Plymouth township officials have said they believe cost allocation has been unfair and have filed a lawsuit.

Canton refused to sign on for the project and, as a result of that refusal and existing sewer problems, has been hit with a building moratorium.

Large crowd expected to protest banning of film

The controversy last year centered on Gundella the Witch.

This year, it's the movie "The Breakfast Club."

Students and teachers are expected to pack a meeting of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education tonight (Monday) to protest Superintendent John M. Hoben's decision to ban the movie from classrooms.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the board offices at 454 Harvey. It could be moved, though, if large crowds necessitate a switch.

The board office can accommodate about 150 people, said Richard Egli, assistant to the superintendent for community relations. If the meeting site is changed, a notice to that effect would be placed on the door, he added.

Hoben determined earlier this month that "The Breakfast Club," which contains profane language and sexually explicit discussions, is inappropriate for showing in a school atmosphere.

It has been shown by high school English and psychology teachers. Hoben pulled the plug when Diane Daskalakis, a district resident, objected.

THAT DOESN'T sit well with some teachers and students at the Centennial Educational Park, including Dudley Barlow, an English teacher at Plymouth Canton High.

He says he intends to take up the issue directly with the school board.

"I'm going to request two things — that they rescind the ban on 'The Breakfast Club' and they instruct the administration to follow their written policy," Barlow said.

"There are two issues. There's a procedural issue — they simply ignored procedure in this case. And the academic freedom for my kids to see the film and my right to show it has been abridged."

Students at the CEP reportedly have started a petition drive to get the ban overturned and also may show up in force.

"I expect it to be very, very jammed," Barlow said.

Daskalakis said last week that she hadn't decided whether she would attend.

"That seems to be between them (protesters) and the school board. The situation doesn't really seem to call for me."

"The language is filthy," Daskalakis said of the movie. "It's just not regular swearing. It's perverted, unnatural talk. That's the obvious objection. Others are the violence in it."

Last year, a brouhaha resulted when school administrators and the school board allowed a professed witch to speak in spite of objections.

DNR orders halt to sewer taps in Canton

By Teri Banas and Diane Gale
staff writers

A ban on new sewer permits may threaten long-term economic development in Canton Township.

"There's all kinds of development that could be drastically affected if there's not a resolution," said Canton Community and Economic Development Director Dave Nicholson.

"If there's a resolution by next week, it will be minimal, or if it's next month it will be minimal. But if it goes to December it will be significant."

"Certainly there are some (development projects) that could be affected right now," Nicholson declined to cite project names.

Township Supervisor James Poole has indicated he would file a lawsuit against the state if the ban persists.

The ban on new sewer permits was issued last week by Department of Natural Resources Director Gordon Guyer.

Guyer gave the township until Nov. 30 to come up with a sewer improvement program that is "satisfactory to the department and insures adequate capacity," according to the action signed Thursday.

Frank Baldwin, head of DNR's surface water quality division, said the sewer ban was not levied in retaliation of Canton Township trustees' decision to opt out of the North Huron Rouge Valley sewer project, commonly known as "Son of Supersewer."

However, the notice said the action was prompted because Canton withdrew its participation "and has not identified to the department an alternative correction program."

SUPERVISOR POOLE said ongoing discussions for a resolution on Canton's involvement in the project were held last week with Wayne County, DNR and other state officials.

Paul D. Zuger, also of the DNR surface water quality division, indicated optimism Friday.

"We're still hopeful for a viable program that can be developed," Zuger said.

A five-page report of anti-pollution violations was delivered to Canton Township Hall on Friday outlining the sewer ban.

The first official indication that state officials were planning a showdown over Canton's sewer capacity problems came Oct. 17 when the state Water Resources Commission toured two Canton pump stations — one in the Winds condominium complex on Cherry Hill and another site nearby off Haggerty — where raw sewage is being pumped onto surface areas and flowing into the Rouge River.

AT THE URGING of Commission Chairman James Murray, the board voted 4-0 to back the DNR in any enforcement plans it would develop to force compliance against violating western Wayne County communities.

The notice, effective immediately, told township officials construction permits for new sewer lines would be unlawful.

The notice cited two state laws that empower the commission to act — the Water Resources Commission Act of 1929 and the state Sewage Systems Act of 1913, Baldwin said.

It also orders Canton to submit a plan by Nov. 30 outlining areas in its sewer system that contain "insufficient capacities," an interim program for reducing raw sewage discharge and a permanent program to provide "sufficient transportation" of sewage.

Originally estimated to cost $103 million, state and county officials had hoped to gain the cooperation of 16 western Wayne and south Oakland County communities for the construction of a sewer arm leading to the Detroit Wastewater Treatment Plant.

State and county officials still are working to meet the Nov. 1 deadline for picking up local support to apply for federal funding amounting to 55 percent of the first year of the three-phase project.

"If it's not that one, they better tell us which (remedy) they have," said Baldwin.

Baldwin added that Canton may not be the only community in the Rouge River basin subject to state action. However, he declined to name others.

STATE OFFICIALS have said that Canton is just one of a dozen communities where state and federal water standards are not being

Think safety on Halloween, police say

By Susan Buck
staff writer

Whether your child plans to be a pretty princess or a tough ninja karate warrior, safety is the key for role playing this Halloween.

Dennis Wilson, Plymouth Township police crime prevention officer, urges parents to accompany young children door-to-door and talk about safety before older children go out with friends. "We haven't had any problems in the past with Halloween. It's always better to be safe than sorry."

He recommends trick or treat hours 5-8 p.m.

Parents should draw up a pre-planned route, preferably within their own neighborhood.

There will be no surprises for motorists if children are urged to cross streets only at corners, never between parked cars, and cautioned never to accept rides from strangers.

If there are no sidewalks, trick or treaters should walk facing traffic. Light-colored clothes with reflective strips should be worn after dark and makeup is preferable to masks.

Toy weapons should be made of cardboard.

In Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township, additional patrol cars will be working Devil's Night and Halloween.

"They (vandals) will be charged as they would any time of the year if malicious destruction of property warrants it," Chip Snider, Plymouth Township deputy police chief, said. "We don't make exceptions for the holiday."

Canton police officer Dave Boljesic, who is the new public information officer, recommends that homeowners leave outside lights on both nights. This is particularly important to thwart vandals and disgruntled trick or treaters in subdivisions where there are no streetlights. "It's a good idea every day of the year."

Homeowners can assist by giving sensible, well-wrapped treats. Children should be greeted at the door and not asked to enter the house. Obstacles should be kept away from door, steps, sidewalks and lawn.

Free foreign object detection is offered at the McDonald's restaurant at 220 Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth (7-9 p.m.) and at locations at 44900 Ford Road and 40241 Michigan Ave., Canton Township (7-10 p.m.) Halloween night.

McDonald's of Canton is joining forces with the Canton Township Police and Canton Kiwanis to insure a safe Halloween. Kids can get an orange drink and goody bags with treats free Halloween night and partake in supervised games. A Mr. Pumpkin drawing will be held at 10 p.m.

"It's a sad state of affairs society is like that (i.e. necessitating metal detection), but as long as parents want to be comforted, we'll be there to assist them," said Plymouth police chief Richard Myers.

Boljesic said that parents should remember that chemical-laced treats are not readily detectable. "We don't want kids to eat any candy while they are out on the road prior to being checked by an adult."

Kassel takes on Ford for Congress in 15th

By Leonard Poger
staff writer

Glen Kassel campaigned for William Ford 22 years ago in the Democratic congressional primary.

Now Kassel is running against Ford and making his third run for the congressional seat — as a Republican.

Kassel, a Westland resident who owns a Wayne insurance and real estate business, said Rep. Ford is no longer effective.

Ford, a Taylor Democrat seeking his 12th two-year House term, is caught in a "catch-22" situation with unions and teachers leaning on him to continue running for office, said Kassel.

But the Republican said that Ford isn't sensitive to the people in the 15th Congressional District, and continues to receive campaign funds from people and groups outside the district and state.

The 15th District includes Garden

City, Westland, Canton Township and the south half of Livonia. The diverse district stretches from the western Wayne County suburbs to Ypsilanti in Washtenaw County.

Kassel, the party's nominee for the first time, said Ford consistently votes against President Ronald Reagan's legislative programs.

THE REPUBLICAN has been actively campaigning for the House seat since winning the party's nomination in an upset in the Aug. 5 primary.

"I'm getting good vibes" from the campaign, Kassel said. He has made about 12 personal appearances in the past month with another dozen scheduled in the next few weeks.

Kassel promises a low-budget campaign, planning to spend a maximum of $10,000, of which at least $3,000 is his own money.

He gained some help from the 15th Republican Party which donated $999 and the Belleville Republican Club which gave him $400.

election '86

But Kassel has no fantasies about winning the congressional seat in the predominantly Democratic district.

As in previous elections, Kassel plans to retire at about 10 p.m. on election night, telling his wife not to wake him — unless he wins.

The only time she had to do that was the night of the Aug. 5 primary when Kassel upset favored Peter Bundarin to win the nomination.

On campaign issues, Kassel said the current budget deficit isn't the creation of President Reagan.

THE HOUSE "has mastered the technique of adding unrelated pork-barrel spending programs to nearly every piece of legislation it passes," Kassel said.

"The House gets away with it because the president doesn't have line-item veto powers."

Kassel said he will support higher tariffs on Japanese auto imports to help save American jobs and boost revenues into the federal treasury.

Kassel praised President Reagan's effort to increase employment, but added that the country needs a welfare policy that encourages people to work and learn, and "enterprise" zones to create jobs for older downtown sections.

The nominee termed the recently-adopted tax reform bill a step in the right direction, but the key is to reduce or control spending, he said.

On defense spending, Kassel supports Reagan's efforts to maintain "peace through strength," but said the Pentagon must eliminate wasteful spending through better management, closing of obsolete military facilities and stiffer penalties for contractors found guilty of abuses.

KASSEL wants local communities to have more controls on adult bookstores, massage parlors, and X-rated theaters.

"Unfortunately, the U.S. Supreme Court has tied the hands of state and local government to deal with pornography," said the candidate. "President Reagan is addressing that problem by appointing judges who will allow citizens to keep pornography out of their communities."

"One of the worst mistakes of the (House Speaker) Tip O'Neill Congress has been election laws that led to the creation of political action committees."

"My opponent has taken thousands of dollars from PACs in his political career as well as speaking fees to appear before special interest groups all over the country."

Kassel, 61, is a longtime Westland resident who was active PTAs and is still active in the Knights of Columbus, Toastmasters International, Scouting and the American Legion.

Cost of delayed drain project increases rapidly

By Tori Banas
staff writer

The estimated cost of a Redford Township drainage project has increased from $300,000 to $2-million in the last three years with no construction work yet begun to relieve flooding and sewer backup problems plaguing the township's Telegraph-West Chicago area.

According to the county drain commissioner's last annual report, only $1.4 million is on hand in two accounts designed for the Redford Consolidated Drain, which is a system that begins as an enclosed sewer at Inkster Road and continues east to become an open drainage ditch at the township's eastern limit.

Township officials are concerned that the drain commissioner's office may ask residents to pick up the extra cost of the improvements.

County Drain Commissioner Charles Youngblood did return

phone calls to his office to answer questions about the project's long delays or the sidelining of maintenance improvements to the 25-year-old sewer system.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS were uncertain of where the project stands and were attempting to get answer from the drain commissioner's office.

Department of Public Services director Leo Snage, said he was not sure if he would be able to get any answers immediately. "In the 12 years I've been here, I've never gotten through (by telephone) to Youngblood," Snage said. Residents most affected by the delays are represented by the township's Telegraph-Hazelton Neighborhood Association.

The association president said residents have been complaining for years about foul odors coming from standing drain water and periodic flooding of neighborhood basements as well as flooding across Telegraph and West Chicago roads.

"We've been waiting for it, we've been waiting so long for this," said association president Elda Kremkow. "The smell is there and the water isn't moving. When the warm weather comes, you can smell it. We're concerned about our children going down there."

ACCORDING TO Kremkow, local residents were told by county and township officials in the spring of 1983 that the project would cost $300,000 and would be completed by the fall of 1983 with "surplus" drainage district funds amounting to $400,000-$500,000.

The officials said there would be no need for special assessments on local property owners, she said.

But today, that project cost is listed by Youngblood's office at $2 million with a surplus of only $1.4 million as of June 1985.

The only noticeable attention paid to the project has been by an engineering firm contracted to provide engineering services and acquisition of right-of-ways, local officials said.

"The people were told all along, for the last five years, that they're going to start work on the drain without any burden (additional cost) to the taxpayers because the money is there," Kremkow said.

THE REDFORD Consolidated Drain was formed in a merger between two systems built with taxpayer support in 1961 — the Ashcroft-Sherwood and the Livonia drains at a combined cost of $1.67 million, according to public drain office reports.

But by 1982, presumably after the project was paid off, "surplus" funds and interest earnings reached $1.9 million, according to those statements.

According to published reports in the Redford Observer on April 11, 1983 and April 28, 1983, Snage, then as now, director of Department of Public Services, told homeowners at a public hearing called before an appointed three-man drain panel that project costs, including engineering work, were estimated at $300,000 and would be paid with surplus funds.

"Man, the people are going to go crazy," said Snage with a whistle this week. "It was my understanding the people aren't going to be assessed anything. They told me $300,000. But I've been unable to get accurate figures from these people (drain office)."

TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR James Kelly said Tuesday he had placed a call to county Commission Chairman Richard Manning, D-Redford, and was waiting for answers.

"I don't know what the hold-up is," he said. "I did hear that there was some hold-up on (acquiring) the right-of-ways."

"I understood that it (the project) was moving ahead, but that it was moving ahead rather slowly."

Asked to comment on the latest cost projections of $2 million, Kelly said: "I'd be quite upset if it comes out that way."

Over the years, Snage said his office did not force the issue of the project start because of assurances that local residents would not be taxed.

ADDED SNAGE this week: "If it's going to cost some money, there's going to be some hollering."

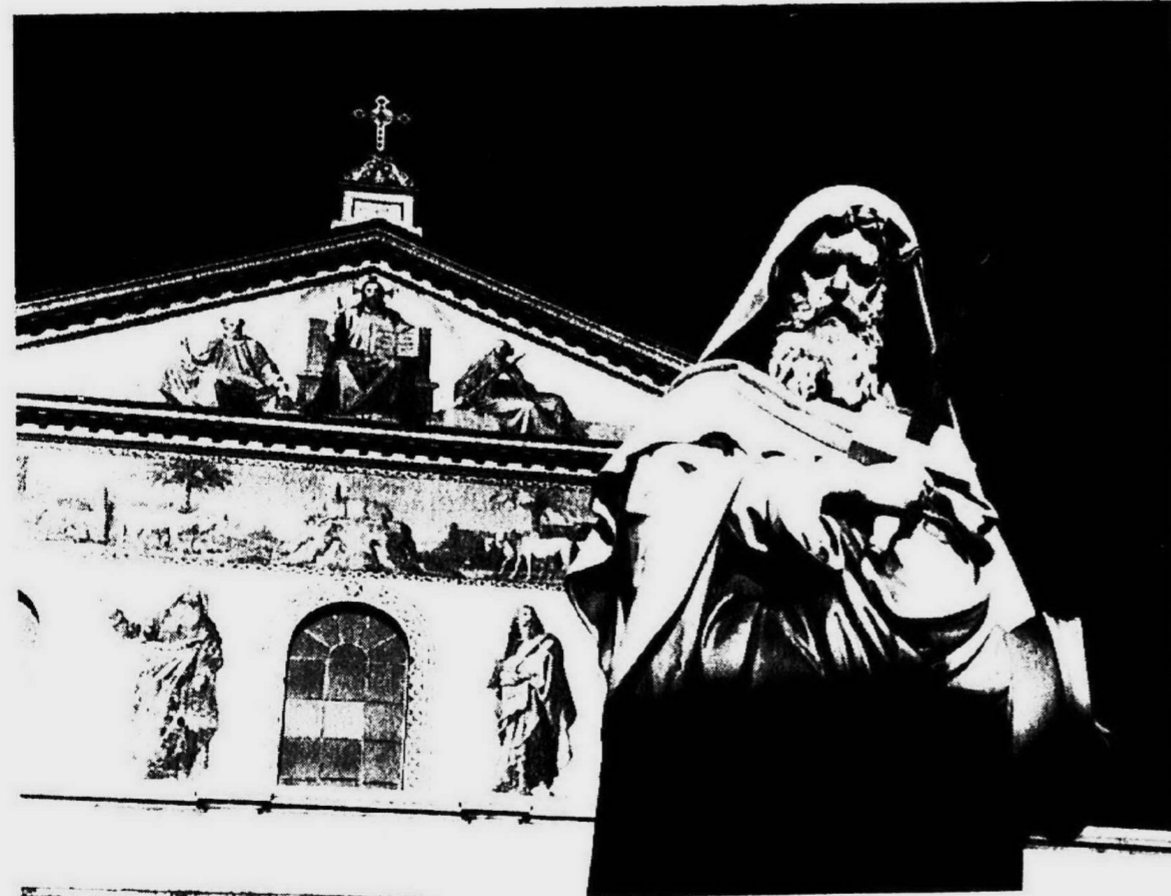

County commissioner Milton Mack, whose district includes Canton Township, said he's probed drain commission district funds in the past two years and found "that millions of dollars have been overcharged (in building sewer systems), not just by Youngblood but by his predecessors."

Overcharging has led to a "surplus" in many county drain accounts as well as the Redford system, Mack said.

"It just keeps building and building. He's overcharged by millions of dollars, money that would be a lot more useful back in the taxpayers' pockets."

"He charges too much and he pays contractors too much for the work that he does," Mack added. "In this particular case the drain commission represented a project at $300,000 and now he says it will cost $2 million and it could possibly cost the citizens another $600,000."

Manning, meanwhile, could not be reached for comment by deadline yesterday.

Journeys of St. Paul is topic of travelogue

The "Journey of St. Paul" is the topic of this month's travelogue series presented by the Plymouth Kiwanis Foundation.

The showing will begin at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High on Joy just west of Canton Center Road. Individual tickets are $3.50, while season tickets for six shows are $14. The series is sponsored by the Plymouth Kiwanis Club and the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth.

ROBIN WILLIAMS, whose father wrote the best seller "The World Is My Oyster," is narrator of the film.

Born in London, England, Williams was raised in California, attending public and private schools. During his college years he became interested in acting and while studying at Orange Coast College played the leading role in Ibsen's "Peer Gynt."

He began his travels while a student at Valley Verde School in Sedona, Ariz., and began organizing tours while attending University of Arizona. He began his career by chartering a yacht in Poole, England, and for two years escorted students across the English Channel.

Departing the travel-tour field, he studied cinematography at the Brooks Institute of Photography in Santa Barbara. Today he is well established as a film lecturer, having received recognition from the National Geographic Society and the Carnegie Institute of Pittsburgh.

THE FILM covers the Greek and Roman world of St. Paul.

The first part of the program begins in Asia Minor with looks at Tarsus, Paul's birthplace, Antioch, Lystra and Derbe and then to Greece for stops in Kavalla, Thessalonica, Veria, Mount Athos and to Athens to see Mount Olympus, Acropolis, Parthenon, the Olympic Stadium, the Agora and the port of Corinth.

The second part of the show, in addition to Athens, includes sites in Turkey and then the journey to Rome for a look at the cave where Paul spent two weeks on Crete, the Appian Way to Rome, the Capitoline Hill, the Mamertine Prison where Paul was imprisoned, Pauline Basilica and to the Tre Fontane where he was executed.

IN THE MARKET: Two local schools are among 43 Michigan schools competing in the fifth annual Stock Market Game promoted by the Michigan Economic Education Council. The game was started to involve individuals in "real life" simulation of investment in the financial markets. The object of the game is to take an initial $100,000, trade against the real market, and try to make as much money as possible during a 10-week period. Local classes involved include Scott Beaman's civic classes at Plymouth Salem High School and Pam Oberti's classes at West Middle School. Nationally more than 100,000 students in 28 states are competing. The reward to the winner will be a trip to Chicago or New York to visit the stock exchange.

DRUG FILMS: In an effort to make Plymouth a safer place to live, the Plymouth Police Department has bought five audiovisual films developed for the department's fight against drug abuse and crime. The program may be obtained for showing, free, to schools, civic clubs, churches and parent groups. The films are "Under the Influence," "Every Eight Seconds," "Cocaine" and "The Anonymous Thief." GOLDEN BULLDOG: U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, has been awarded his third "Golden Bulldog" by the Watchdogs of the Treasury. According to the Watchdogs, the award is presented to those congressmen who vote to contain unnecessary government spending at least 75 percent of the time based on selected votes. HONORED: Jeanne Knopf DeRoche of Plymouth, president of The Knopf Co. of Plymouth, was awarded a certificate of achievement at the Downriver Community Conference's annual meeting recently. She was honored for her substance abuse prevention work in Wayne County. For the past two years she has been working with children of chemically dependent parents, along with training parents, teachers and school administrators in the area of substance abuse prevention and intervention.

LEADERS: Gene England of Plymouth has been installed as the president of the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth by Lt. Gov. Harry Bator of Division 9. ## She relates robbery try

An off-duty security guard told Plymouth Township police that a man attempted to rob her late Tuesday night as she sat in her car waiting for a friend in a parking lot at Ann Arbor and Sheldon roads.

An unknown man approached from behind, reached in the open window, grabbed her around the neck, held a knife to her throat and demanded money, the 21-year-old woman reported.

The man, described as white, in his early 20s, about 6-foot-tall, medium build, with medium-length blond hair, ran off without getting any money when another car entered the lot, the woman said.

The incident happened at about 10 p.m.

met. Before the ban was delivered Friday, Poole said: "Some people feel if they put a ban on Canton and not on other communities that are more offensive and cover a more serious pollution problem than Canton it would be discriminatory."

Baldwin said he anticipated "there will probably be others as our Rouge River Strategy (a 20-year clean-up campaign) unfolds," he said.

"There's a whole range of things the department can do. This is just one," Baldwin said. "There are many problems out there from combined sewer lines to raw sewage discharge."

Under state law, the state water commission can call for civil action against Canton through state Attorney General Frank Kelley and it can impose penalties of $10,000 a day.

The fine, however, requires court action before it is imposed, said Baldwin. He said "at this point there is no action" to seek the court's intercession.

There are additional, smaller fines that can be levied under a misdemeanor section of those acts, he said.

Local officials show support for Blanchard

GOP gubernatorial candidate William Lucas ranked a gathering of suburban Wayne County mayors and supervisors in Livonia last week with his suggestion that a state of emergency be declared in Detroit with state troopers pulled off suburban freeway patrols and put under control of the Detroit Police Department.

Lucas' widely publicized suggestion, made earlier in the week at a debate before the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, was repeated for the 27 top municipal officials Thursday at a campaign stop for Democratic incumbent Gov. James Blanchard at Roma's of Livonia.

"This is very appalling to us that this would ever be thought of," said Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, Blanchard's host and the Democratic nominee for Wayne County executive.

Since Michigan troopers regularly began patrolling the freeway system in the Detroit area in 1977, "we've had very few incidents (along freeways in Livonia)," said McNamara.

REMOVING STATE police from area freeways would put an added burden on strained local police departments, some noted.

Westland Mayor Charles "Trav" Griffin spoke of his community's upcoming 2 mill increase for police and fire services.

Blanchard also attacked the proposal, adding that he had plans to expand state trooper patrols by 25 troopers on Detroit area freeways and another 25 in a special auto theft unit.

'The troopers will remain on the freeways and I hope to continue and expand that.'
— Gov. Blanchard

"The troopers will remain on the freeways and I hope to continue and expand that," he told the local group, describing them as "on the front line" of delivering government services.

He called Lucas' suggestion "irresponsible," serving to "water down law enforcement in the neighborhoods."

Others attending Thursday's luncheon and press conference were Redford Township Supervisor James Kelly, Garden City Mayor Vincent Fordell, Plymouth Mayor William Robinson, Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen and James Poole, supervisor of Canton Township.

WHEN ATTENTION was drawn to the local Republicans attending, McNamara quipped: "About 60 percent (of those present) are Democrats and the rest of them are non-partisan."

Blanchard quickly noted that local elections are run on non-partisan ballots and party affiliation therefore "is not relevant."

SHOULDER WEAR AND TEAR

Wear and tear arthritis can occur in the shoulder. When an individual, because of pain in the legs, uses a cane or walker, body weight shifts from the leg to the arm and shoulder.

The impaired lower limb carries a lesser load. But the shoulder joint, not inherently built to take heavy loads for a prolonged time, undergoes an accelerated aging process. Shoulder cartilage wears down; pain and swelling develop in the shoulder joint.

In the elderly individual the ability of the upper limb to adjust to an added work load is limited, yet this person is the one most likely to have need for a cane or walker. As a result, shoulder arthritis can appear with unusual speed in this age group.

In such circumstances, joint aspiration has proved to be the best approach. This procedure relieves pain from the fluid build-up which occurs in the shoulder in response to the continuing strain of weight bearing. How often the individual will require aspiration therapy depends on the individual's need for pain relief and the rapidly with which shoulder fluid re-accumulates.

Suit filed against drain boss

By Teri Banas
staff writer

A lawsuit filed by 11 communities including Redford Township and Westland alleges that Wayne County Drain Commissioner Charles Youngblood illegally levied special assessments on drain projects since 1982.

Attorney for the communities Harry Ellman of Southfield said the plaintiffs have been able to identify over $300,000 in illegal assessments in these downriver and western Wayne County communities but that they suspect impropriety in millions of dollars of annual assessments.

At a press conference that included a number of municipal treasurers named as plaintiffs in the suit, Ellman said the lawsuit asks that the court issue an order requiring the disclosure of all accounts and financial records held by Youngblood's office.

He indicated that such a "discovery" procedure could lead to a settlement that includes a true handle on the full amount entitled to the communities.

ACCORDING TO Ellman's calculations, Westland asks to recoup

'This is probably only the tip of the iceberg.'

— Curt Boller
county commissioner

more than $47,700 while Redford Township seeks over $7,400.

Commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, whose district includes Canton and other townships in southwestern Wayne County, said records on the Chapter 8 drains disclose assessments amounting to $1 million annually.

Mack said the assessments are suspect because "the evidence we have so far" shows that for at least three years no bids were taken on maintenance and construction projects, a requirement of the state Drain Code, as well as other violations.

The suit also alleges that the drain office billed residents for certain personnel and equipment costs that are legal responsibilities of the general government.

It also cites examples of numerous overcharges, including one bill of $11,000 for the replacement of a driveway culvert later estimated to cost $2,400.

"This is probably only the tip of the iceberg," added downriver commissioner Curt Boller.

THE SUIT CITES attempted probes into drain records by the accounting firm of Ernst and Whinney that found that combined drain fund and interest accounts exceeded $7 million "to repay drain debt of $50,000."

The accountants found examples of co-mingled funds with "significant unreconciled differences."

In addition, it noted the drain office's investment of $23 million in Eurodollar certificates listed at a Michigan National Bank office in the Bahamas.

Besides Westland and Redford Township, other communities included in the suit are Southgate, Flat Rock, Riverview, Inkster, Trenton, Lincoln Park, Huron Township, Van Buren Township and Brownstown Township.

According to Ellman, Youngblood has 21 days to respond to the lawsuit before the court establishes a date for a show-cause hearing on the matter.

The lawsuit is patterned after a previous suit filed in 1976 by seven communities, including Canton Township in this area.

That suit was resolved six years later after a determination the state Supreme Court.

Boller, who was the Brownstown Township supervisor during that time, said the suit was filed because residents were being assessed for work that was never started or completed. His community recovered $80,000, as a result.

Ellman said the drain commissioner's office has 21 days to respond to the suit before a show-cause hearing is established in the matter.

City moves on S'craft project

The Livonia Planning Commission last week voted to rezone 16.5 acres of Schoolcraft College property for the construction of a hotel-office building complex.

The commission split 6-2 with members Herman Kliver and Michael Soranno dissenting, said city planner John Nagy. Nagy said detractors were concerned the area would not be well "served" by the development of another hotel.

Located off Seven Mile and I-275, the project site borders the "Golden Corridor," so named because of the number of development projects that have sprung up there in recent years.

The Livonia City Council will consider the rezoning, but probably won't hold public hearing on the issue until sometime in December, said Nagy.

The property previously was zoned public land.

The project is being developed by P.R. Duke and Associates of Indiana. Company representatives told city officials recently that they plan to develop up to eight-story hotel with two, four-story office buildings as well as a one-story restaurant. If they decide against a hotel, which is still optional, said Nagy, company officials will submit plans replacing it with a third office building.

No hotel firm has been named yet to the project.

Schoolcraft College has decided to lease the land for development so as to recoup additional college operating revenues.

State delinquent tax haul rises

State Treasurer Robert A. Bowman announced that the new Michigan Automated Collection System (MACS) has collected more than $30 million since the high-tech computer system began operating earlier this year.

The MACS system features state-of-the-art telephone and computer technology that enables telephone operators to contact as many as 3,000 individuals per day who owe the state delinquent taxes.

"The state paid $7.5 million for the computer system, so MACS has recovered four times its cost in just nine months," Bowman said.

"The Michigan Automated Collection System has been a tremendous success. MACS has increased state revenue, thus easing the tax burden on the honest taxpayer who pays on time and in full."

The success of MACS, along with increased enforcement efforts by the Treasury Department, has increased total delinquent tax collections by $43.5 million from last year.

G.C. Services Corp., the nation's largest collection agency, operates the MACS system. The state Treasury Department supervises on-site activities and authorizes all enforcement actions such as liens and levies.

G.C. Services also contracts a similar collection system with the federal Internal Revenue Service at 31 sites nationwide and has increased federal delinquent tax collections by 35 percent.

"Michigan is the first state in the nation to establish a completely automated collection facility staffed and operated by a private collection agency," Revenue Commissioner Susan Work Martin said. "This unique partnership between the public and private sector is increasing state revenue without adding state employees."

Sentencing set for businessman

By Rich Perleberg
staff writer

Businessman John Gnaou's travels with the politically influential, which took him from Bloomfield Township to Washington, D.C., were derailed last week in federal district court.

Gnaou, 56, pleaded guilty recently in a Washington federal court to two charges related to an influence-peddling plan designed "to defraud the Postal Service and the American people," according to a statement from the U.S. Attorney's office in Washington.

Gnaou could face a sentence of up to seven years in prison and a $500,000 fine. Sentencing is set for Dec. 19.

Gnaou, described by federal official as a public relations executive with several firms bearing his name, has offices in Bloomfield Hills and Washington.

A spokesperson at the Bloomfield Hills office of Gnaou and Associates Inc., said Tuesday that Gnaou was in Washington and was unavailable for comment.

IN A RELATED development, Gnaou resigned from the Oakland County Road Commission where he has served for nearly a dozen years. He was chairman of the three-man board this year.

In his resignation letter to Richard Wilcox, chairman of the county board of commissioners, Gnaou said he was settling his case with the federal government but added, "In no way have these activities involved the road commission."

GNUAU PLEADED guilty Friday to charges of conspiracy and payment of illegal gratuities to Peter Voss, former vice chairman of the Postal Services Board of Governors. The government has charged that Gnaou made the payments in order to influence the awarding of a major postal equipment contract to one of Gnaou's clients.

Voss has already pleaded guilty to charges stemming from the investigation and is to be sentenced this week.

IN HIS LETTER to Wilcox, Gnaou said he was going through a "painful time." He said he had spent a lifetime of service but had allowed an instance of "poor judgment" to "let down friends and family."

Gnaou, a Bloomfield Township trustee from 1978-74, was appointed to the road commission in 1975 after serving as finance chairman for Daniel Murphy's first campaign for county executive.

Gnaou's political ties led to 1980 positions as Michigan campaign chairman for Reagan-Bush and a position on the finance committee of the Michigan Reagan for President Committee.

Calls to Michigan Republican Party Chairman Spencer Abraham and the Michigan Republican Party in Lansing were not returned.

Discounts bolster autos, economy

In September, the Detroit Area Business Activity Index spurted upward by seven points reaching a level of 144, from 137 in August.

"The sharp gain in September definitely reflects the impact of deep discount financing programs offered by the automakers in both August and September," said David Littman, economist of Manufacturers Bank, which produces the index.

"Interestingly enough, the July to September increase in the Detroit Area Business Activity Index this year was practically a mirror image of what transpired last year," he said.

"This year's round of finance incentives helped lift the index 13 points, or 10 percent during the third quarter. In 1985, the same type program lifted the index 16 points, or 12 percent from the comparable period."

Year-to-date through the third quarter of 1986, the Detroit economy is up only 0.7 percent from 1985, as measured by the index.

Ford says quality up 50 percent

Ford Motor Co. has achieved a 50-percent quality improvement since 1980, according to John A. Manoogian, general manager for advanced manufacturing and engineering.

The auto executive told the Automotive Division of the American Society of Quality Control that Ford committed to a clear statement of operating philosophy, a broad definition of quality and the development of plans to achieve quality goals.

"Most problems are not caused by individuals," Manoogian said. "They are caused by factors inherent in the basic way we do business through our management and operating systems."

"This is why we must take a careful look at all processes and systems related to quality and customer satisfaction. Then we must address the fundamental inhibitors to ongoing improvements."

MANOOGIAN, WHO directs Ford's Alpha Project, added that his company's definition of quality is not limited to the product but is a concept of striving for excellence in all areas of business.

The objective is to eliminate waste and error, thereby reducing costs and improving its competitive position by investing the savings in new and existing products.

"Just because Ford made a big improvement in the 1980s doesn't mean we can rest on our laurels," he added.

Discussing the future, Manoogian said that, for the rest of this century, quality will take on a new and critical dimension in both meaning and implementation.

"THE VOICE of the customer will decide the direction that we take and the manner in which we take it," he added.

"Quality will be recognized universally as the answer to meeting foreign competition."

Manoogian said that Ford's implementation strategy requires that management work to better understand the value of people, the company's most important resource.

He added that the research and development community will increase functional integration of manufacturing and quality during concept and design stages.

TECHNOLOGY also will play a key role.

"The introduction on the factory floor of technology such as robots and other automation devices will continue to improve quality by reducing the incidence of human error and enhancing the work environment through elimination of undesirable and difficult tasks."

Finally, he identified trends outside the business world that will improve industrial quality. Colleges, he predicted, will offer degrees in quality within engineering and science schools, and graduate business schools will require core courses that relate quality to management.

City center had 3 hardware stores in the 1930s

(Part 4)

Aside from the Mayflower Hotel and one of the eight beer gardens located in Plymouth in 1939, if you wanted to eat out you had a choice of those listed in the Red Book under restaurants or lunch rooms.

Listed were six restaurants including Bert's Place at 333 N. Main, Marie's Grill at 272 S. Main, William Reed's at 950 Starkweather, Pen-Mar Cafe at 31735 Plymouth Road, Roy Wheeler's on Penniman Avenue opposite Kellogg Park, and an establishment with a fancy name (Chateau Rousseau) at Plymouth and Golden Roads. Golden Road is today's Ann Arbor Road.

One of two lunch rooms was Jack and Ork Hamburgers at 794 Penniman, facing the park. When I arrived here in the early 1950s, it was called Ken and Ork's and it operated on the honor system. No checks — you just told what you had to eat and were charged accordingly.

The other choice was Smitty's, at 294 S. Main. Smitty's was situated between Charlie McConnell's barbershop and Draper's Jewelry Store about where the Medical Self Help Store now is located. Operated by Glenn Smith, who owned it from 1915 to 1950, Smitty's originally was just a "hole in the wall" where you stood up to drink coffee and munch doughnuts. There was barely four feet between the counter and the wall.

The first improvement was in 1936 when Smitty installed counter stools. That was the situation in 1939 when the Red Book appeared. Two years later, when McConnell vacated his barbershop, Smitty leased the space, installed tables and chairs and removed the wall between. Until 1950 when Smitty retired, the place was a favorite of those who worked in the business district.

OTHER PLYMOUTH businesses that have disappeared since 1939 were the Perfection Laundry and Dry Cleaning Co. in the building at 875 Wing Street, corner of Forest Avenue, and three hardware stores.

The Plymouth Hardware Store, operated by Bill Rose, was at Liberty and Starkweather, Conner's Hardware was at 298 S. Main at the corner of Penniman, and Huston's Hardware was at 819 Penniman Avenue, not far from Main. Conner's Hardware Store had been

past and present

a Plymouth landmark since 1857 when Michael Conner took it over. Local politics were discussed around its pot-bellied stove on winter evenings, and the Plymouth Brass Band, in which Conner played, used to practice amidst the store's pots and pans.

Conner was a man of some note, having been village president numerous times prior to 1890. After he died, the store was run by his son, William T. Conner, who died at about the time Caroline Dayton was publishing her Red Book in 1939. The Conner Hardware Store space later was occupied by Norma Cassidy's dress shop, and now is the site of the Willow Tree store.

Huston Hardware Store was founded by Edson Huston who also was president of the Plymouth United Savings Bank. He was the father of Ruth Huston Whipple, mayor-pro-tem of the city in 1939 when the Red Book was published. In the following year, she became Plymouth's first woman mayor. Her husband, Austin Whipple, still a Plymouth resident, was running the hardware store when I arrived here in 1952. It had a cool, pleasant, old-fashioned interior not seen in modern make-every-inch-of-space-count stores.

THE PLYMOUTH POST Office, which occupied a new building in 1936, was headed by Postmaster Frank Learned.

He was to be followed in the position by a man listed on page 35 of the Red Book under the heading of chiropractors. Dr. George Timpona, whose practice was in Rosedale Gardens in Livonia, was the postmaster here until 1965 when he was succeeded by a teacher, John A. Mulligan, who had taught in the Plymouth school system. Other chiropractors listed in the book were Drs. E.A. and A.A. Rice whose offices were at 747 W. Ann Arbor Trail.

Among the nine florists and greenhouses listed were a number from Livonia. In Plymouth was the Sutherland Greenhouse at 1000 W. Ann Arbor Road. Founded by William Sutherland, who later developed all of his property from Ann Arbor Road to just south of Linden, the greenhouse was near the corner of Harvey Street.

Sutherland was the father of Donald Sutherland of the Sutherland and Yoe CPA firm. Both father and son served on the Plymouth School Board. William was a school trustee in 1922 when the board opposed Kate Penniman Allen's plan to show movies at her theater on the Sabbath. Don served as board president in 1948-49.

Chief of Police of Plymouth in 1939 was Vaughan Smith. In that year, Smith was elected president of the Southeastern Michigan Chief of Police Association. Earlier, he had attended the National Police Academy School at Washington, D.C., at the invitation of the FBI's J. Edgar Hoover.

Chief Smith devoted space in his report in the city's 1938-39 annual report to a discourse on curbing youth from crime. It reflects the modern tendency to blame forces outside of the child for his anti-social behavior.

"The guidance of youth from undesirable cesspools of crime to wholesome surroundings," Smith declared, "is one of the greatest opportunities that peace officers have to render."

"Criminals are not born into this world as criminals, neither are they made over night, nor suddenly tossed into the surging flood of crime from respectability. On the contrary, they are developed step by step from childhood." Chief Smith noted that over-indulgent or neglectful parents are partly responsible for juvenile delinquency.

For a view of child behavior contrasting with that of Vaughan Smith's read William Goldings' "The Lord of the Flies."

Neil Hubert (No. 12) eludes Farmington's Rob Woodbeck during Canton's 15-7 loss Friday night.

Falcon run dooms Canton

Plymouth Canton's defenders spent most of their football game Friday chasing Farmington quarterbacks all over the field. Unfortunately, in their frenzied pursuit, the Chiefs forgot something — watching Eric Green.

Green broke open a tight game by racing 51 yards for a third-quarter touchdown that proved to be the clincher in a 15-7 Falcon victory at Canton.

Farmington (3-5) scored twice in the second quarter, as Steele Perrett fired a 17-yard scoring pass to Bill Lindbert. But the two-point conversion failed, leaving the Falcons ahead by just 6-0.

Andrew Boden increased that to 9-0 with a 39-yard field goal for Farmington. Canton (3-5) sliced into the Falcon lead by driving for a touchdown, scored by Joel Goebel on a 2-yard plunge, making it 9-7 at the half.

Green paced Farmington's rushers with 62 yards on 14 carries. But Canton's defense pressured throughout the game, dumping Falcon quarterbacks eight times for 57 yards in losses. Perrett, who completed six of 11 passes for 85 yards, also was intercepted once. Farmington's total offense was just 108 yards passing and 25 rushing.

The Falcon defense, however, was just as intense as its counterparts. Farmington punished Canton starting quarterback Neil Hubert, forcing him to throw two interceptions and fumble twice. Hubert completed three of 11 for 70 yards. Steve Genyk replaced him and hit one of three passes for 12 yards.

Tony Boucher topped the Chief runners with 66 yards on nine carries. Canton gained 93 yards on the ground and 82 in the air, outgaining the Falcons but not outscoring them.

SALEM 35, NORTHVILLE 8: Has the dam been broken? Has the real Plymouth Salem team finally emerged from the wreckage of a season gone awry?

Consider that the Rocks — now 2-6 after Friday's rout at Northville — have outscored their opponents 77-14 in their two victories. And, after getting blasted 49-0 in its season-opener by Trenton, Salem has lost by scores of 3-0, 22-14, 6-0, 16-15 and 7-6.

What does that convey? That the Rocks are better than 2-6. They certainly were better than the 2-6 team they met Friday.

They outgained Northville 377-183. They never trailed in the game, scoring in the first quarter on Joe Jouppli's 1-yard dive; in the second on Garrett Bowie's 13-yard run and Chris Hill's 41-yard pass to Andy Gee; and in the third on another Bowie run (12 yards) and Leonard Bowe's 30-yard dash.

Brian Storm capped each TD with a perfect placement.

"We controlled the game," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "Once we get our offense going . . . I just think we can move the ball."

It should be no surprise how Moshimer feels about his team. "I think we're a lot better than our record. We're pretty young, most of our kids are juniors. A lot of them came off an 0-9 junior varsity team. Instead of playing to win, they were playing not to lose."

That wasn't the case against Northville. Five Rock runners finished with more than 30 yards rushing: Jerry Sumner, six for 59; Bowe, seven for 51; Jouppli, eight for 48; Bowie, five for 38; and Brian Neuhardt, six for 32.

Hill's TD toss was the Rocks' only completion of the game, but they threw just three passes. The game was Hill's first since suffering a broken leg before the season started. He shared the quarterback duties with Steve Holt.

The Mustangs were limited to 110 yards rushing on 33 carries and three pass completions in 11 tries for 73 yards. Their only touchdown came on a second-quarter, Jack Sylvestre-to-Mike Yard 24-yard pass. Salem's Doug Prater intercepted Sylvestre once.

Engineers tumble, 6-4

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

The Hennessey Engineers Junior A hockey team learned a painful lesson Friday night. Once you have a good team down, don't ever let it up. Not even for a moment.

The Engineers had North American Junior Hockey League leader Compuware down 3-1 after a period Friday before 200-plus fans at the Plymouth Cultural Center Ice Arena.

But before you could say Dave Szymanski and Todd English, Compuware scored twice in the second period to tie the game and then added three more in the third en route to a 6-4 win.

The victory was Compuware's sixth straight in the league and puts it two games ahead of second-place Hennessey (3-2).

"We didn't really make any adjustments after the first period," said Compuware assistant coach Gord Young, who was running the show in head coach Andy Weidenbach's absence. "I just told the guys, look I'm behind the bench but let's just go out there and do what we do when Andy's here. We just had to start playing our game."

THE ENGINEERS owned the first period, despite getting outshot 17-10. Two goals by Leif Gustafson and one by Chris Belhart offset a Compuware goal from Jim Ballantine giving the Engineers the 3-1 lead.

But 22 seconds into the second period, Szymanski breathed life into Compuware with a sudden goal. Six minutes later, he set up Todd English for the game-tying goal.

Compuware scored the first two goals of the third period to take command. English notched the tie-breaker 2½ minutes into the period. He skated the puck around the back of the net and snuck it inside the corner post before goalie Doug Brown could get over. Five minutes later, Mike Boback tipped in a shot from Mike Jorgensen to make it a 5-3 game.

The Engineers, to their credit, did not lie down. Gustafson and Larry Pilut, the most productive players on the ice for Hennessey, set up a power play goal by J. Jewett with 9:21 left.

Hennessey continued to apply pressure on Compuware goalie Mike Gilmore. But the rhythm of the game was disrupted badly by penalties in the final 2½ minutes. In fact, the Engineers played a man short for more than a minute.

WITH 21 seconds left, Compuware's Szymanski was called for hooking. The Engineers pulled their goalie and played the final seconds with a two-man advantage. But a superb individual effort by Ballantine sewed up the win for Compuware.

hockey

He tipped the puck away from two Engineers at the blue line, caught up with the puck at center ice, and slammed it into the empty net.

"We wanted to try and slow them down and we were successful to a degree," said Hennessey coach A.J. Baker. "But the number of shots that they got, and the number of quality shots, really took its toll."

Compuware outshot Hennessey 40-31 in the game, 29-16 after the first two periods.

"But if you drew a circle on the ice, out say 10 to 15 feet from the goalie, I'd bet 60 or 70 percent of their shots came from within that range," Baker said.

Indeed, Compuware showed terrific skill handling the puck in the attacking zone. But, Young felt his team was overpassing.

"We definitely can sing the puck, but I thought we over-controlled it tonight," he said. "We made too many passes when we should have been shooting it."

BALLANTINE AND English each had two goals for Compuware. Gustafson had two goals and an assist for the Engineers. Pilut added three assists.

"I have to believe we can play with this team," Baker said. "We had every bit as many chances to score as they did. We just aren't finishing the plays right now."

The Engineers are 9-4 overall this season. They will be home again next Friday for a rematch with Compuware. Game time is 8:20 p.m.

ENGINEER'S NOTES: Friday night's clash with Compuware held special meaning for Chris Belhart. The Plymouth resident was released by Compuware at the beginning of the season. He scored the Engineer's first goal.

Baker also made some lineup adjustments. Ryan Proudlock replaced Chris Kaske, Scott Graham replaced Scott Markiewicz, and Keith Nickrand replaced goalie Dave Church. Church severed a tendon in his finger and is expected to be out two weeks.

Friday's game was a good/bad one for goalie Doug Brown. He let a weak shot trickle through his pads to start the scoring, then reacted late on the tie-breaking goal in the third period. But, in between, Brown made numerous sensational saves. He almost single-handedly kept the Engineers in contention in the second period.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Vicki Ferko (pictured in a game earlier this season) had seven key points Thursday in Canton's 39-36 win at Livonia Churchill.

Chiefs grab division lead

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

For want of a better description, it was the type of game that would make even the most objective spectator sweat.

Two evenly matched girls basketball teams were playing for the lead in the Western Lakes Western Division. Both teams played hard and both teams played well. No more than three points separated the two teams the entire game.

When it was all said and done Plymouth Canton emerged as the division leader, escaping Livonia Churchill's cavernous gymnasium with a 39-36 victory Thursday night.

Canton assistant coach Bob Blohm called it "one of the biggest wins we've had here at Canton."

But that win was nearly stolen away by Churchill coach Tom Lang.

CANTON LED 37-36 with 11 seconds left in the game. Churchill's Julie Scruggs fouled Canton's Michelle Fortier. Canton was not in the bonus and should have been awarded the ball out of bounds. Lang knew this but sat quietly as the officials lined the teams up for a free throw. Fortier made the free throw and Lang came storming off the bench.

"They weren't in the bonus!" he screamed. The referees agreed, took the point away and gave Canton the ball out of bounds.

So why didn't Lang speak up before the free throw was shot? Because if Fortier missed, Churchill would have possession of the ball and a shot to win the game.

Shrewd move by the veteran coach. Alas, it was to no avail. Fortier eventually got back to the line, with five seconds left, and sank two free throws to ice the game.

"It was a pivotal game," Lang said. "It would be much nicer to be up one than down one."

Lang was, by no means, dissatisfied with his team. After all, Canton won the last meeting with Churchill 63-19.

"This was completely different than the last time," Lang said. "Our defense caused Canton's offense a lot of problems. I'm proud of our kids. Everyone played hard. We got a heckuva lot of mileage out of six kids."

THE KEY WORD for Canton was perseverance. The Chiefs withstood everything Churchill threw at them, including a ball-hawking 2-3 zone defense.

"They really extended their defense," said Canton coach Rob Neu. "Their quickness forced us to play beyond 25 feet (from the basket). But

girls basketball

later, we were able to get some opportunities at the glass."

And senior center Penny Piggott made the most of those. She scored four of her eight points in the fourth quarter. Her second basket of the quarter was crucial. Churchill's Tracy Greenwald, held in check throughout the game by Karen Boluch, hit four straight free throws to give the Chargers a 35-33 lead with 4:31 left. Piggott's hoop answered those free throws and gave the Chiefs a much-needed boost.

"It's been a characteristic of this team all season," Neu said. "They really know how to hang in there."

Scruggs hit one of two free throws with 2:11 left to put the Chargers back up 36-35. Fortier hit a short jumper to give Canton the lead back with 1:50 left.

Churchill missed three consecutive shots before Fortier finally put the game away.

TORY BARGER, whose outside shooting has worn Churchill out this season, scored a team-high 10 points. She scored 18 against the Chargers last time. Vicki Ferko added seven points and Fortier six.

Scruggs scored 11 to lead Churchill and Greenwood 10. Liz Monroe added seven points, including a three-point play to close the third quarter. That erased a three-point Canton lead at the time.

Canton is 8-4 in the league, 9-6 overall. Churchill falls to 7-5 in the league, 8-5 overall.

Both teams went home feeling good.

SALEM 85, STEVENSON 22: With ESPN's cameras rolling, Plymouth Salem put on quite a show Thursday.

ESPN, the total sports cable network, is featuring Salem's team in an upcoming prep sports program. Special focus will be on Dena Head. The all-state junior responded with a 20-point, 11-assist performance.

Jessica Handley topped that with 21 points. Kristen Hostynski scored 14. Jill Estey tallied 10 points and five assists. Keri McBride helped out with eight points and 10 rebounds.

The score was 31-4 after a quarter and 51-6 at the half.

Salem improves its overall record to 14-1, 12-0 in the Western Lakes. Stevenson is 4-11 overall and 2-10 in the league.

Churchill unseats Chiefs atop division

Livonia Churchill clinched at least a tie for the Western Division title in the Western Lakes Activities Association with a thrilling 88-84 girls swim triumph over host Plymouth Canton, which suffered its first dual meet defeat of the season.

Kendra James and Audra Martin paced the winning effort, each figuring in three first place finishes.

James, battling back from summer knee surgery, captured the 100-yard butterfly (1:06.78) and 100 breaststroke (1:09.26), while Martin took the 500 freestyle (5:19.01) and 100 breaststroke (1:09.26). The two also combined with Angie Neville and Ann Vandeloare to win the 200 medley relay in 1:59.58.

Carol Baker added firsts in the 50 and 100 freestyles with times of 26.92 and 59.13, respectively.

But it was the Chargers' 400 freestyle relay team of Amy Mittelstet, Kim Patrais, Amy Brown and Beth Marcy who clinched the meeting, taking third place in the final event.

"Kendra has been swimming on a bad leg, but she was very determined tonight," said Churchill coach Manse Tian, whose team is 6-2-1 overall. "I thought everyone swam great."

Canton won the race, as Sarah Schmitz, Danielle Dickinson, Kelly Riese and Cassie Cummins posted a time of 3:57.63.

Cummins set a school record in the 200 freestyle with a time of 2:02.1, breaking Margaret Gilligan's mark held since 1982.

Other Canton winners included Julie Cox in the 200 individual medley (2:17.10) and Kellie Daily in diving (208.15 points).

LIVONIA STEVENSON nearly took Plymouth Salem too lightly

Thursday but rallied to take an 88-84 win in a Western Lakes clash.

Salem maintained a slim lead entering the final event Stevenson's 400 freestyle relay team of Sheila Taormina, Maurine Sudek, Carolyn Schwedt and Lisa Compos came to the rescue winning the event, and the meet, in 4:01.1, six seconds faster than the Rocks' team.

Stevenson took to the water without frontliners Ann Bollinger and Amy Harrison.

The Spartans did have the services of Taormina, Sudek and Michele McKenzie and each captured two events Taormina won the 200 free (2:00.3) and the 500 freestyle (5:39.6). Sudek took both the 50 free (27.3) and 100 free (59.0). McKenzie won the 200 IM (2:17.9) and the 100 breaststroke (1:13.8).

Lisa Compos won the 100 butterfly for the Spartans in 1:06.0.

For Salem (2-4 in the Western Lakes, 4-5 overall), Heather Bunch won the 100 backstroke (1:10.2) and Tina Aquino captured the diving (163.4 points). Bunch, Erin Olson, Shannon Murphy and Sue Bonnett won the 200 medley relay in 2:04.9.

Stevenson is 6-0 in the league.

GILLES QUALIFIES FOR NATIONAL TOURNEY

Chris Gilles of Plymouth, the No. 1 singles player on the University of Wisconsin women's tennis team, is one of two players to qualify for the 1987 ITCA National Indoor Intercollegiate Tennis Championships Feb. 5-8 in Richmond, Va.

Gilles lost to Northwestern's Katrina Adams in the finals of the ITCA Regional last weekend in Wisconsin, 6-4, 6-3. Both Adams and Gilles move on to the finals.

Gilles was seeded No. 4 in the regional. She got into the finals by knocking off Tammy Schmidt of Notre Dame, Jane Filus of Miami of Ohio, Michele Conlon of Iowa, Lynn Nabors of Northwestern and Candy Kopetski of Indiana. Kopetski hails from Sterling Heights and was the state's No. 1 prep singles player in 1984. Gilles beat her in a grueling three-setter, 4-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Wendy Gilles and Badger doubles partner Charlene Kaya just missed qualifying for the national tournament. Gilles and Kaya lost in the finals to Northwestern's Adams and Dianne Donnelly, 6-0, 6-0.

Wendy Gilles was knocked out of the singles competition in the fourth round by Reka Monoki of Indiana.

One would think, with the recent turn of events in the major league baseball playoffs, athletes would be particularly aware of that oft-proven adage: "It ain't over 'til it's over."

Aware of it or not, Schoolcraft College's volleyball team became one more example when it wasted its lead and failed to put away Oakland University when it had the chance. The result was a come-from-behind win for the Lady Pioneers, 14-16, 15-5, 12-15, 15-13, 15-6, Thursday at SC.

The win did not come easily for the NCAA Division II school, which seemingly should have been heavily favored against a two-year community college team.

BUT SC WAS no patsy, the Lady Ocelots had proven that with wins over Lake Superior State, Hillsdale College and Saginaw Valley State—all members of the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, to which OU also belongs.

Both teams played with intensity throughout the 2½-hour duel. SC broke on top, winning the opening game after overcoming OU leads of 6-2 and 7-4 to forge ahead 8-7 on Patti Kozicki's serving ace. It was a mark held since 1982.

Other Canton winners included Julie Cox in the 200 individual medley (2:17.10) and Kellie Daily in diving (208.15 points).

LIVONIA STEVENSON nearly took Plymouth Salem too lightly

OU overhauls S'craft spikers

Schoolcraft sports

battle for every point after that, with neither team up by more than two. A misfired OU spike into the net gave the game to SC.

That set the tempo for the match. Neither team was perfect; indeed, SC coach Tom Teeters said, "Our passing was bad," adding that his team "missed 15 serves against Oakland. That's three misses a game, which is more than we can afford for us to win."

IN THE END, however, it was the adjustments the Lady Pioneers made that was the difference. First, coach Bob Hurdle brought his back-row defenders in tighter to take away SC's soft hits over the blockers at the net, which had dropped for points in the early going.

Then Hurdle "changed our whole defense" to disguise the blocking patterns. His major concern was SC's Kim Relyea, who hurt OU with her kills.

"Relyea is a great player," conceded Hurdle. "To beat Schoolcraft you have to stop her."

The net blocking finally took its toll in the pivotal fifth game. SC had trouble getting it past OU's Anne Harrison (6-foot), Bridget Bohnet (6-2) and Tracey Jones (5-8). SC scored the game's first two points, but OU got the next 10. The closest SC got was 11-6.

"Anne Harrison sets the block," explained Hurdle. "They all executed it very well."

BUT THE TIDE may have turned against the Lady Ocelots before the fifth game. In Game No. 4, they built a 12-7 lead behind the play of Sue Cyrus, who sparkled both at the net and in back-row defense.

But those defensive abilities were being tested too often. Kills by Jones and Harrison and a serving ace from Missy Ward pulled OU to within 12-10. The game again became a struggle for points. The Lady Pioneers gave up just one more and won when SC failed to return a serve.

How much momentum the Lady

Ocelots had lost was evident in the early moments of the final game. Three of OU's first four serves were out of play, but SC failed to capitalize.

"Definitely, it was a missed opportunity," said Teeters. "No question about it. But our serving and our passing hurt us. We couldn't run off any long streaks."

Relyea finished with 13 kills in 49 attacks with three errors. Cyrus had nine kills in 26 attacks (two errors) and Jill Ehlert collected 13 kills in 34 attacks, but committed seven errors. SC was hurt by a minor injury to outside hitter Diana Dietz, who saw limited action.

ALSO ON THURSDAY, SC hosted Delta CC in an Eastern Conference match. The Lady Ocelots remained unbeaten in the league (6-0) with a 9-15, 15-12, 15-3, 16-14 victory, which clinched at least a tie for the conference title. They are now 25-5 overall and 16-2 against JC competition.

Cyrus again sparkled with 19 kills in 36 attacks (two errors). Relyea had 12 kills in 40 attacks (no errors), Dietz had 12 kills in 26 attacks (three errors) and Ehlert totaled eight kills in 24 attacks (three errors).

U.S. double taxing exports — Sperlich

The U.S. tax system is "a boon to imports and a bane for much-needed exports," said Harold K. Sperlich, president of Chrysler Motors.

The auto executive warned that "America will never be able to compete globally until we make our tax system competitive worldwide."

In a speech to the Detroit Section of the Society of Automotive Engineers, Sperlich said, "One piece of the competitive foundation that needs to be put in place is a tax system overhaul that would allow us to tax imports their fair share, while not over-taxing our own exports."

CARS BUILT in the U.S. contribute about $2,300 each in U.S. taxes, Sperlich said, while imported cars sold in the U.S. pay only about $1,000 each.

"We can't keep giving foreign competition that much of a free ride in our own market," he said. "If they want to continue to sell here, they should have to pay to pave the roads just like everybody else."

Sperlich said the recent, long-awaited strengthening of the yen has made competition more fair, but "that in no way means we are on equal footing with the Japanese."

Nor, he added, would the problem be completely solved if Japan opened its market to American goods.

"THERE'S NO way a nation collecting taxes almost solely on income, as we do, can really penetrate the market of a nation that imposes consumption taxes on most of its high-value manufactured goods," Sperlich said. "In such a case, our exported products are, in effect, double-taxed."

Sperlich said by 1991, "domestic share of the North American market could very well decline to an anemic 55 percent, and excess capacity could soar to almost 7 million units."

"The trade deficit continues to rise like water in the hold of a sinking ship, Washington continues to exercise its incredible ability to focus on the wrong issues, and nobody seems to care," Sperlich said.

LEGO tests creative skills

Students can see how inventive they are in the 1986 Great Inventions LEGO Contest being sponsored by the Detroit Science Center, Westland Center and LEGO Systems Inc. for most of November.

Schools are being sought for the contest with students being asked to build an exhibit in one of two categories — an invention created in the past 100 years and an invention of the future.

Participating schools will receive a complimentary box of LEGO bricks to develop their projects, with the prizes to include individual certificates of achievement and on-the-road science demonstrations by the Detroit Science Center.

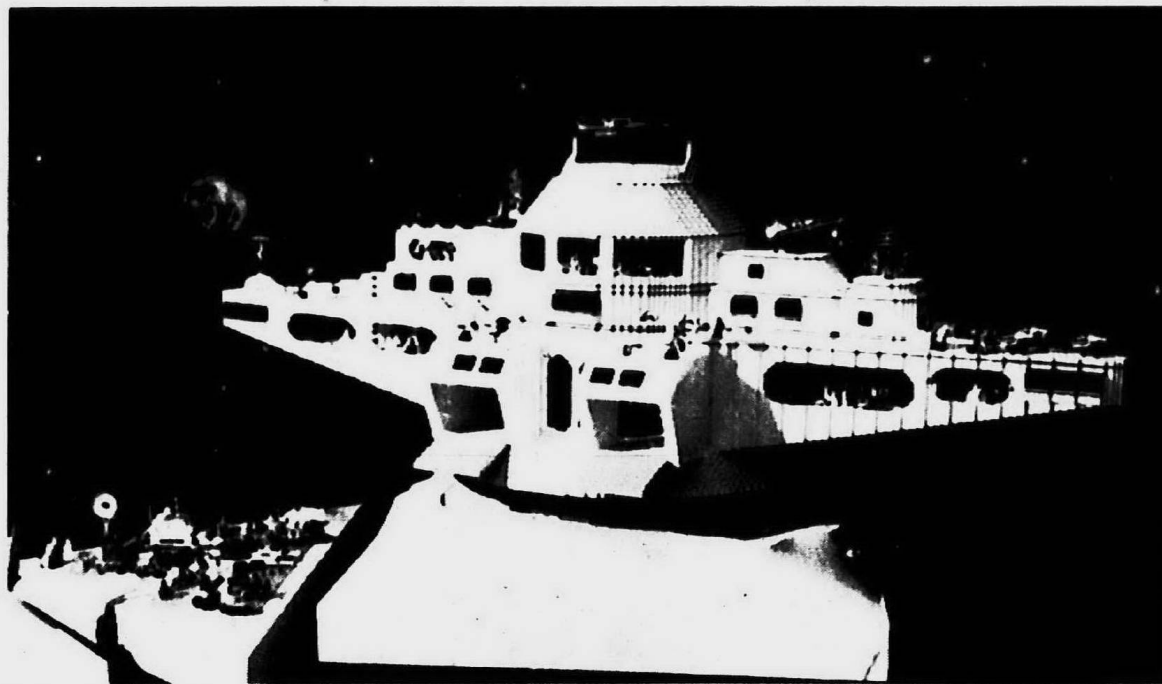

The entries will be judged on their originality and creativity, with the judging to be done at the science center.

The contest is being held in conjunction with the Great Invention LEGO World Show, which will be at Westland Center, Wayne Road at Warren Road, Nov. 4-24.

Contestants will have an opportunity to preview the exhibition, which will feature the great inventions of the past 100 years as depicted with LEGO bricks.

Contest entries must be delivered to the LEGO exhibit at the shopping center by 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 14. All entries will remain on exhibit at the center through Nov. 24.

Schools interested in participating in the contest can contact Larry Christiansen of the science center at 577-8400.

A futuristic battle station will be among the exhibits at the Great Invention LEGO World Show that will be held at Westland Center

Nov. 4-24. The show will include an exhibition of great inventions of the past 100 years as depicted with LEGO bricks.

"Deliciously Exciting Halloween with Candies & Cake"

What does Halloween bring to mind for you? Is it ghosts and goblins? Jack o'lanterns and bobbing for apples? Or is it feasting on candy and lots of other delicious treats?

It may surprise you that history points to a more serious beginning to the holiday that we enjoy today. In the olden days of Europe, spirits of those departed were believed to visit their relatives in search of warmth and good cheer as winter approached. Halloween was also a time of year for harvesting and food preparation for the coming winter. When spirits approached the villages of these citizens of olde, they would be welcomed with a banquet including all of the foods recently harvested.

This year you can make a Halloween banquet for your family with the highlight of your table being the "Wickedly Delicious Witch Cake." Parents can follow the easy recipe for a tasty yellow cake. Icing is a sweet concoction of sugar, milk and a touch of food coloring. The fun begins when the kids help to bring the "Wickedly Delicious Witch" to life. Jelly beans, licorice and candy corn can help to shape the body of the witch, while confectioners' sugar, milk and some imagination bring form to the witch's face. Enjoy this cake with just the lights of your jack o'lantern flickering, tell a spooky ghost story or two and the kids will think friendly spirits have come to visit.

A goodie-laden banquet table is but one of the customs that you can share with your family this Halloween. Many traditional holiday symbols and practices appeared in the United States in the late 1800s—witches, black cats, jack o'lanterns and "trick or treat" masks. Have the kids create scary faces on one another using make-up rather than stiff, formed plastic. Bob for apples and make the winning prize an extra special treat.

Halloween should also mean safety for you and your kids.

Wickedly Delicious Witch Cake

The National Confectioners Association recommends that everyone observe the following Halloween safety tips:

- * Wear light-colored clothing short enough to prevent tripping, and add reflectors
- * Make sure your children can see well through face masks
- * Accompany young children
- * Go out in daylight and carry a flashlight in case of delay
- * Stay within the neighborhood and only visit homes you know
- * Watch for traffic
- * Only give or accept wrapped or packaged candy
- * Examine candy before allowing children to eat it

- 1 package (18-1/2 ounces) any flavor cake mix
- 1 can (16 ounces) vanilla frosting
- Red and yellow food coloring

Decorations:

- Black licorice (shoestring and wide)
- Yellow corn candies
- Pumpkin candies
- Orange fruit slices
- Black and orange jelly beans
- Black licorice squares
- Black and white twisted stick candy
- Large and small candy corn
- 1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon water

Prepare cake mix according to package directions; bake in a 13 x 9-inch pan. Remove from pan; cool completely on wire rack. Set cake on tray or board; brush away excess crumbs.

Tint frosting with 1 drop red and 2 drops yellow food coloring. Frost top and sides of cake. Cut wide black licorice into strips; use to make a fence along bottom of cake, pressing licorice gently into frosting. Decorate fence with yellow corn candy and pumpkins that have been cut in half. Make moon shape in top left corner with orange fruit slices and orange jelly beans. Make witch's dress with licorice squares. Cut peppermint stick into 2-inch pieces and one 3/4-inch piece. Use to make broom stick. Use small candy corn for hands holding broom stick, and for bottom of stick to resemble a broom. Mix confectioners' sugar with water to form a smooth ball. Pat out onto a smooth surface; cut out witch's face with sharp knife. Carefully lift with metal spatula and place on cake. Use black shoestring licorice for hair. Make brim of hat with black jelly beans; make a band on top of brim with black candies. Make peak of hat with jelly beans. Arrange pumpkins and large candy corn around bottom of cake.

Yield: One 9 x 13-inch cake; 12 to 15 servings.

Heart-warming roast draws family to kitchen

When there's a nip in the air and the leaves start to turn it's time to pull a pan out of the kitchen cupboard and prepare a heart-warming pot roast. Add the tantalizing aroma as it slowly simmers on the range is sure to draw the family into the kitchen on a crisp fall week-end.

The traditional way to cook a pot roast is by a moist heat cooking method called braising. It is used to soften the connective tissue in less tender and economical beef cuts like a boneless beef chuck shoulder pot roast. This provides a moist cooking medium to help reduce surface drying. The end result is a tender, juicy and flavorful meat entree.

Braising is also an easy, hassle-free cooking method. The first step to prepare an entree like Lemon-Basil Beef Pot Roast is to brown the beef in a small amount of oil. For added flavor pat a garlic-basil paste onto the meat before browning. The next step is to remove any excess drippings before adding additional seasonings and a small amount of liquid to keep the meat moist.

Let the meat cook slowly for about two and a half hours either on top of the range or in the oven. Be sure to cover the pot roast tightly to hold in the moisture. If cooking on top of the range simmer the beef slowly; in the oven use a slow, 300 to 325 oven setting. In season vegetables like carrots and zucchini may be added to the pot roast during the last half hour and cooked until tender-crisp.

LEMON-BASIL BEEF POT ROAST

Preparation time: 15 minutes
Cooking time: 2 hours 40 minutes
3 to 3 1/2 lb. boneless chuck shoulder pot roast
2 cloves garlic
1 1/2 tsp. dried basil leaves, divided
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. cracked black pepper
1 tbsp. oil
1 cup water
2 onions, quartered
1 lemon peel strip (1/2 x 1 1/2 inches)
5 medium carrots, cut into 1-inch pieces
2 medium zucchini

1 tbsp. each cornstarch and lemon juice

Mash garlic with French knife; combine with 1 teaspoon basil, salt and pepper to form paste. Rub surface of beef chuck shoulder pot roast with garlic mixture. Brown pot roast in oil in Dutch oven over medium-high heat. Pour off drippings. Add water, onions and lemon peel; cover tightly and cook slowly 2 hours. Add carrots, cover and continue cooking 30 minutes. Meanwhile cut zucchini in half lengthwise and cut each half into 1-inch pieces. Add zucchini and cook, covered, 7 to 10 minutes. Remove roast, carrots and zucchini to warm platter. Strain cooking liquid; skim and discard fat. Combine cornstarch, lemon juice and remaining basil; stir into 2 cups cooking liquid and bring to a boil. Boil 1 minute stirring constantly. Serve pot roast and vegetables with gravy.

Note: A boneless beef chuck shoulder pot roast will yield three 3-ounce cooked servings per pound.

Pot roast with all the fixings is just right for autumn.

Pumpkins and Halloween are a perfect combination

Halloween means pumpkins. Many of us have enjoyed carving jack-o-lanterns and eating pumpkin pie, but pumpkins are a versatile vegetable as well.

When selecting pumpkins, choose those that are heavy for their size and have a rind that is smooth and free from spots. Pumpkins will keep two to three months if stored at 50 to 55 degrees.

If you're having a Halloween party and looking for something a little different, here's a recipe to try:

AMBROSIA PUDDING IN A PUMPKIN

14 to 6 lb. pumpkin
1 1/2 lbs. fresh pumpkin (or 1 30-oz. can pumpkin pie filling)
1/4 lb. melted butter
4 eggs, separated
3/4 cup light cream

3/4 cup light brown sugar (packed)
8 oz. walnuts, chopped
6 oz. dark raisins
1/2 tsp. ground ginger
1/2 tsp. ground cloves
1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg
1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
1/2 tsp. salt
Optional: 3 tbsp. dark rum
4 oz. currants

To prepare the pumpkin, first clean the outside, then cut a lid and remove and discard the seeds and membrane. Scoop out pumpkin meat from the sides, being careful not to puncture the wall. Leave approximately one-half of the pumpkin wall for flavor and support. Baste the inside of the pumpkin with melted butter and sprinkle with brown sugar. Place in baking pan with one inch of water. Bake in preheated oven for one (1) hour at 250 degrees. While pumpkin is cooking, prepare filling.

After pumpkin has been par-cooked, preheat oven to 375 degrees. If using fresh pumpkin meat, remove and discard any seeds and cook in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain and mash; cool. Beat egg whites until stiff. Beat egg yolks until they are thick and pale yellow, about five minutes. Combine pumpkin puree and remaining ingredients. Mix until well blended. Mix egg yolks into pumpkin shell. Bake at 375 degrees for 1 to 1 1/2 hours. Pudding is done when it forms a medium brown crust and toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

For additional information on pumpkins, call the Cooperative Extension Service at 858-0904.

John Young works on a class assignment at the Starkweather Center in Plymouth. Young is glad he decided to learn to read as an adult. He would like to become a tutor and help other adults learn to read.

Non-readers face number of challenges

By Julie Brown
staff writer

For those who can read, being able to decipher the printed word is something taken for granted. For those who can't read, however, the printed word is a source of endless frustration.

"That's something that people who can't read run into every day," said Mary Kay Frey, adult basic education coordinator for Plymouth-Canton Community Education.

Frey shared her knowledge with those at a program last Wednesday of the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College. She spoke along with John Young, an adult education student and Canton resident.

Tracking down statistics on the extent of illiteracy can be difficult, Frey said. One such source is U.S. Census data.

The 1980 U.S. Census included a question on the last year of school completed. It was determined that among those 18 and older, those with less than an eighth grade education "may be reading disabled," she said. By that standard, an estimated 20 percent of U.S. adults have difficulty reading, with the severity of that difficulty varying widely.

"You're just left out of a certain part of the world," Frey said.

Finding and then keeping a job is difficult for a non-reader. The printed word — in the form of classified ads and "help wanted" signs — is used by those looking for employees. Job application forms are another obstacle.

Once they've found a job, non-readers may find that their lack of reading skills makes keeping that job or advancing to another one difficult.

EVEN SUCH a common thing as purchasing generic products at the grocery store — and thus saving some money — is virtually impossible for non-readers. Unlike brand-name products, generic items don't have label pictures of the contents.

It's not all doom and gloom, however, Frey said. Increased public awareness of the problems of illiteracy has been helpful.

Locally, Plymouth-Canton Community Education has adult education classes to help non-readers and those with limited reading skills. There are also Community Education programs in place at the Howmet Corp. in Plymouth and at the Ford Motor Co. plant on Sheldon Road in Plymouth.

A number of Plymouth-Canton area residents also volunteer their time as tutors, working with the Community Literacy Council.

It's ideal for the students to take classes and also to work one-on-one with a tutor, Frey told those at the Schoolcraft College program. That's what John Young, the Canton resident, did; he made learning to read essentially a fulltime job.

"So there is help," she said. "It's not a hopeless situation at all."

It's gratifying for the tutors "to watch somebody's whole person change," Frey said. By learning to read, the students become more self-confident.

Frey and the others involved in the local literacy efforts have been pleased with the progress and hope to continue to help non-readers.

"We are hoping to be able to put ourselves out of business."

Books expand horizons

By Julie Brown
staff writer

When John Young goes to the polls this November, he'll be a first-time voter.

Voting for the first time isn't the only new experience Young has had in recent months. Learning to read has opened up new worlds for the Canton resident, who turned 57 on Sunday.

Before Young learned to read, he'd get by in restaurants by asking the waitress what menu item she would suggest for a meal.

"So that's the way I got through going to the restaurant. At least now I know what I'm ordering." Road signs are also no longer a mystery to Young.

Young was a non-reader up until the summer of 1985. He shared his story with those attending a Wednesday night program of the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. The program was one session of a four-part series on "Discovering Yourself," which will continue with a session 7-9 p.m. Wednesday, in the Upper Waterman Campus Center at the college, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

At last Wednesday's session, Young and Mary Kay Frey discussed the problems of illiteracy and the benefits of learning to read. Frey is adult basic education coordinator for Plymouth-Canton Community Education.

YOUNG LIVED on a farm when he was growing up and attended a one-room school. The school had one teacher for the first through eighth grades.

"With my name being Young, I was always at the end of the line." The one teacher didn't have much time to spend with each pupil.

Young attended the school up to the sixth grade. At that point, his father became ill and needed Young's help on the farm. Later on, Young went to work on the railroad, doing jobs he described as requiring "a strong back and a weak mind."

"I worked for them for 18 years. Over the years, I tried to better myself."

Through the years, Young would get help from co-workers who knew how to read. He was able to get by on the job.

Young married and he and his wife had six children. He worked at a maintenance job for the Livonia Public Schools. To get the job, he took home the application form and got help from his son in filling it out.

When Young's supervisor found out he couldn't read, Young didn't lose his job. Instead, his supervisor helped him.

"He was real kind about it, but I always felt backward."

Young hurt his back while on the job. Later on, his wife died. Young found himself at home, watching too much television and feeling depressed.

"I was quite despondent."

THE CANTON resident got a flier one day in the mail with information on local adult education classes. Young's daughter explained the flier's message to her father; he decided to give reading a try.

Young began taking adult education classes to learn how to read. He also began working with a tutor, Irene Truesdell.

"What a patient person she was, God bless her," he said of Truesdell, one of a number of local tutors working through the Community Literacy Council.

These days, Young is able to read the newspaper and other printed material. He's going for his high school diploma and has an ultimate goal of becoming a tutor.

"Life is much brighter," he told those at the Schoolcraft College program. "Getting an education I think is the most important thing."

Faith

Overcoming hurdles is her way of life

By Faye Kuzma
special writer

THERE'S AN old saying "Hills can be obstacles or glorious delight."

Every day of her life, Joni Eareckson Tada encounters great obstacles. But she manages, with the help of her religious faith, to make something positive of every hurdle she has to overcome.

At age 17, Joni was voted "Most Athletic Girl" in her high school graduating class.

Soon after, she severed her spinal cord in a diving accident in Chesapeake Bay. The accident left her paralyzed from the shoulders down.

Since then, she has become an accomplished mouth artist, recording artist and best-selling author. Now 37, Joni has formed a national ministry to the disabled called Joni & Friends.

JONI RECENTLY visited the Detroit area, including a stop at Waldenbooks at the Westland Shopping Center. Her appearance was in conjunction with the release of her third book, "Choices...Changes."

The book explores how a particular approach to life can influence the quality and character of that life.

"A wheelchair like this could have made me an angry young girl," Joni said.

"When obstacles arise, we tend to think of them only as barriers to something we need to get done in the future — when sometimes the obstacle is the end in and of itself. In a society where we're pushed forward so quickly, we forget that it's the moment that counts."

Joni said learning to pay attention to the present requires taking our eyes off the future.

"It's truly a moment-by-moment faith. It's a step of faith. I love that Bible language about taking a step of faith because it's right now. You're not taking a mile's worth of faith, you're taking a step of faith."

"I think that would solve a lot of our depression and a lot of our frustration and a lot of our anxiety, because we do tend to be creatures who are forward thinking."

A CHRISTIAN, Tada said her faith was never meant to be a quick fix.

"God's purpose in redeeming us is not to make our lives happy or healthy or free from trouble — although many people approach God with that expectation," she said with a laugh.

"His purpose is to conform us to the image of Christ, and that's going to involve suffering, affliction, disability."

Yet suffering can become a lever of change, she said.

"Suffering has a way of pressing us up against ourselves and showing up our own need of God and our own need of a character of change."

"A marriage will teach you to do that," said Joni, who married Ken Tada in 1982. "A wheelchair will speed you on toward that."

Joni mentioned the experience of Corrie Ten Boom, a survivor of a Nazi death camp.

"Whether it's a concentration camp, whether it's a disability, suffering has incredible potential for good. But it also has incredible potential for bad."

"It can either make a person a bitter, calloused, angry, poisoned individual or it could be the very thing that softens their character."

GLANCING DOWN at her wheelchair, Joni said, "A wheelchair is a difficult employer, a tough supervisor, a bossy co-worker, an irate husband, limited abilities, singleness."

She commented on the recent arrest of a group of wheelchair-bound people in Detroit. The group was blocking the access to a downtown building because of a lack of accessible public transportation for the disabled.

"It's a tough thing when you want to demonstrate, let's say, in front of city hall, yet bus transportation isn't even equipped to meet your needs to get to city hall," Joni said.

"I think part of the frustration for people with disabilities making certain that access is guaranteed is that they need to be visible. Yet in order to be visible they need to have access."

She recalled someone saying once, "Why should we have curb cuts and ramps here. I never see anybody in a wheelchair around here."

"Well, the argument is rather circular," Joni said. "The reason you never see anybody in a wheelchair around here is because there are curbs and no ramps."

Instead of letting curbs obstruct her progress as a creative individual, Joni has used her wheelchair as a bridge to reach out to others in a unique way.

ONE WAY she has done that is through Joni & Friends. The organization has been working to help churches more fully meet the needs of the disabled in their communities.

Citing 1981 International Year of the Disabled figures, Joni pointed out there are 35 million people with disabilities in America. But few churches in this country have more than token designated parking for the disabled, she said.

According to those same figures, 5 percent of the churches have all-embracing outreach programs to the disabled community.

"We see our major thrust with the church as in developing transportation opportunities for those with disabilities, in developing barrier-free design in worship centers, sanctuaries and church buildings, in developing curriculum for the mentally retarded, and in developing — not just a deaf interpreter — but a deaf ministry to the hearing impaired."

Joni tells about her motivation to form Joni & Friends in "Choices... Changes."

"I am a handicapped person who has experienced the overwhelming love and grace of God. They (disabled people) need not only comfort from God's word, but practical caring from his people."

Joni & Friends does provide practical assistance. The group has a financial-aid budget of $60,000 to purchase adaptive equipment for people with disabilities, on a matching-basis with churches.

"Individuals then are linked with churches who provide ongoing assistance, care and fellowship," Joni said.

JONI'S ORGANIZATION assists in all phases of setting up an outreach program to the disabled: from developing a philosophy of outreach and ministry to organizing a budget, from training teachers to securing materials and forming a curriculum.

Something for everybody

"The Color of Money" (R) has to be one of the best film merchandising concepts in a long time. Young women will rush to see Tom Cruise while their more mature counterparts are hurrying to catch Paul Newman.

For the gentleman in the crowd, Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio is terrific. The fact that she gives a fine performance is an added plus.

At the risk of exposing my male chauvinism, the film's subject, shooting pool, is more appealing to men than to women. So the score's tied: Pool and Mastrantonio for the guys, Cruise and Newman for the girls. Why else do you think "Color" is challenging "Crocodile Dundee" at the top of the charts?

"The Color of Money" uses Newman's character in the 1961 film, "The Hustler." Fast Eddie Felson, but that's where the resemblance ends. Eddie (Paul Newman) has retired from shooting pool, runs a bar, makes good money from liquor and the movies

Dan Greenberg

has a girlfriend, Janelle (Helen Shaver)

EDDIE AND Janelle are trying to work out a permanent relationship when Vincent Lauria (Tom Cruise) and his girl, Carmen (Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio), come into Eddie's place. Eddie is very impressed with Vince's pool game and gets the old fever.

Eddie offers to stake Vince on the road and teach him the finer points of hustling — when to dump a game and sucker a bettor, all that nice stuff.

As Eddie tells Vince, "It ain't about pool... it's about money." Carmen understands that very well. She is a survivor. Eddie is correct when he tells her, "You are a hard broad."

Vince, on the other hand is just a hot-shot kid, a character who shoots a terrific game of pool and works in a toy store. He wants to win straight out, with a little grandstanding but no finesse and no tricky side-bets.

As it turns out, Carmen is the only one in the crowd who understands her priorities. She's going for the money. In spite of what Eddie says, it's not pool or money. Winning and being the best is all that matters. While discovering that, Eddie corrupts Vince and teaches him how to hustle for the money. Vince learns his lessons well and winds up enjoying it.

DIRECTOR MARTIN Scorsese has devised some pretty nifty pool-shooting settings with swooping, moving cameras super-impositions and fast-motion sequences.

But they may have been hitting the eight balls too rapidly because character motivation gets a little murky from time to time. It may have been the rapid cutting or the low-level sound (whether print or projection is hard to say) but I had to work hard to understand the motivation at several points.

It certainly wasn't because of acting. Paul Newman is an accomplished professional and this polished performance as a middle-age man trying to decide what he wants to be will only add to his reputation.

Mastrantonio's Carmen is, indeed, a "hard broad" but there's a nice, warm girl inside, if only she could trust people. Her performance is appealing. Tom Cruise is a little too much Cruise, the broadfaced and innocent young boy who just wants to have a good time. It was difficult to recognize a character different from his earlier roles. Most significantly, he seemed unchanged at the end, merely mouthing words of a new personality.

As stars of "The Color of Money," Tom Cruise, Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio and Paul Newman are personalities with appeal to moviegoers.

Another fine movie, with some disquieting elements, is Sean Connery's latest, "The Name of the Rose" (R), which is beautifully photographed, well-acted and directed, and imbued with the essence of 14th-century medieval Europe.

AS THE CATHOLIC Church debated the issues of poverty and pagan learning, the Reformation began, and William of Baskerville (Connery) arrives at a Northern Italian Monastery, which is to be the site of a disputation between his order and the Papal Legates. With him is his novice, Adso of Melk (Christian Slater).

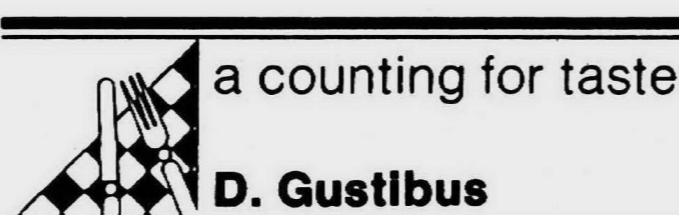

One of the movie's greatest attractions is the medieval vistas filmed at Kloster Eberbach, an abbey in Frankfurt, West Germany, which has remained unchanged for more than 800 years. Director Jean-Jacques Annaud spent three years searching for this setting for Umberto Eco's international best-selling novel.

Dining doesn't meet expectation

Your traveling taster visits area eateries and rates them on a 100-point scale. Up to 30 points are awarded for ambiance, which includes general atmosphere and service, 55 points for food, and 15 points for price/value rating. A total count of 59 points or less indicates a restaurant is not recommended; 60-70 points signify from passing to good; 75-89 points designate very good with some extraordinary features, and 90-100 points show that a very special dining experience awaits you.

FOX AND HOUNDS, 1560 N. Woodward, Bloomfield Hills (644-4800), has a dark, wood-beamed interior, which simulates an English hunt club and is casual but substantial. The solid and intimate feeling is appealing, and the restaurant is suitable for either a business meal or a romantic evening. Not quite so appealing are the slightly smokey atmosphere caused by poor ventilation at some tables and, worse, a dirty men's room on the night we were there. Diners of all ages, men in jackets and women in skirts or dresses frequent both the bar and dining room. Our reservations were promptly honored, and dinner took almost 2 1/2 hours. General Atmosphere — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 11.

Our waitress was quite pleasant, and we experienced excellent service when we first sat down and while the restaurant was not too busy. However, as the evening wore on — and on, our waitress appeared at longer and longer intervals. To his credit, the busman did return regularly to refill our water, clean our table and get our waitress when we needed her. When she recited the daily specials, our waitress did not tell us the prices for the items, and when we asked if we could order a mixed hors d'oeuvres plate, she suggested a cold seafood selection which, we discovered when our check arrived, cost $9.50 per person.

a counting for taste
D. Gustibus

Perhaps we were partly to blame for not asking, but... Service — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 11.

The seafood appetizer, although expensive, was delicious. There were shrimp and oysters, crab and herring, mussels and clams. Our order for three people was quite adequate to feed all four of us amply. The individual items were all fresh and tasty. Each was nicely prepared, and the platter attractively presented. The bread was also tasty, and — if you ask for it — garlic bread is very good. Our drinks were strong. Drinks, Appetizers and Bread — 10 points maximum. Points awarded — 10.

The traveling salad bar that is served with entrees is excellent. A generous bowl of fresh lettuce is served with a chilled fork, and you select vegetables and garnishes to add from a large tray brought to the table. Choices of tomatoes, cucumber, bacon bits, egg, cheeses and other offerings, along with five salad dressings, make it easy and fun to create your own salad without leaving the table. While this is fine when included as part of your meal, it is overpriced at $6.50 when ordered separately. If you just want soup and salad, you'll pay for it here. Salad — 5 points maximum. Points awarded — 5.

Two of our group did order soup and salad, and the soups were excellent. The bouillabaisse ($3.95) was really more a fish soup than a true bouillabaisse. It had plenty of every kind of seafood but lacked the traditional saffron and garlic taste. Still it was delicious. The cream of mushroom and mushroom soup ($2.75) was thick and rich, with a very appealing flavor. Of the entrees, the veal piccata ($16.25) was nicely prepared, tender and tasty. The dish was a bit sloppy, however, as too much stock was on the veal. A major disappointment was the daily special, Cajun-style Norwegian salmon ($16.50). The fish came very dry, and when we asked about the accompanying sauce, we were told that the chef was new and had forgotten to include it on the plate. Even with the addition of the sauce, which was brought separately on the side, this was not an appealing entree. Entree, Vegetables and Garnishes — 30 points maximum. Points awarded — 20.

Dessert was excellent and helped make up for some of the other shortcomings. Our fruit flan, with a nutty crust (3.95), was lovely to look at and just as lovely to taste. The raspberry mousse, served in a chocolate shell, was also outstanding. These delights are not prepared in the restaurant's own kitchen, but they are a fine conclusion to the meal. Dessert — 10 points maximum. Points awarded — 10.

We thought that almost $70 per couple with tip was too much for these meals. Although the appetizer was (more or less) worth the cost, the soup and salad entrees should have lowered the total price to a more reasonable figure. Price/Value — 15 points maximum. Points awarded — 10.

A Counting for Taste — 100 points maximum. Total points awarded: 77. We were disappointed in the dining experience at Fox and Hounds, perhaps partly because we had enjoyed it for lunches on previous occasions. Whether the "new chef" was to blame or not, we had expected far more than we found.

A Special Place

Concerned sons and daughters know there comes a time when an elderly parent is getting a little slower in step and needs a little more support and supervision. A nursing home is out of the question. Too expensive. Too much care and confinement. Now there is a gracious alternative — the luxurious Plymouth Inn, an assisted-living facility.

Opening in December of 1986, this magnificent 50 room facility will be the first of its kind in the community. Designed for those elderly who are basically independent who can bathe, dress and feed themselves yet need some encouragement and motivation. The Plymouth Inn meets their needs, budget and lifestyle. It's a special place.

Holiday fashions

A Holiday Fashion and Craft Show was held last week in the Plymouth Cultural Center to benefit the Old Village Association in Plymouth. Fashions were from That's My Color, Mountain Rags, Beginnings and Willow tree with crafts from more than six craft shops in the village. Laura Hiebert is shown above making a last check in the mirror before it's her turn to return to the stage with a new outfit. In the photo below, Alison Rosen, age 6, and mother Leslie model new fall fashions. Jacqui Burkowski was producer and coordinator of the show.

Please Help A Neighbor's Child In Need!

In Third World countries, hundreds of thousands of children are in desperate need of food, clothing, medical care - the basics of life. These girls and boys are even denied the opportunity to attend school. They are our neighbors in a world that grows smaller every day.
Through CCF, you can sponsor a neighbor's child. The cost is $18 a month - just 60¢ a day - to help a poor child in Asia, Africa or Latin America - a child who has virtually nothing.
Please pick up your phone now and dial the toll-free number below. Be a good neighbor by helping an innocent child.
