Builder asks to lower noise wall

By Doug Funke
staff writer

A Dearborn developer/builder wants to lower the concrete noise wall along the west side of I-275 from 11 to four feet from Ann Arbor Road to a point 400 feet north of the Bradbury Condominiums.

A public hearing on Norm Newman's request has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 24.

Newman owns about 16 acres of land — mostly vacant — along the freeway. He said he wants to lower the wall "for the exposure."

While the hearing will be held as part of a township board meeting, it's the federal highway department that will rule on Newman's request.

"I'm optimistic we'll receive all kinds of support. I can't see where we'd have any objection."

NEWMAN SAID he was unsuccessful in an effort to block erection of the wall in 1976. His feelings haven't changed since then.

"It is absolutely ridiculous. It serves no constructive purpose whatsoever. It's ugly. It's a horrible eyesore."

Other than that, Newman maintained, the wall really doesn't do much to buffer noise.

"We are working on plans," Newman said of his vacant land, declining to elaborate. A Bennigan's restaurant is under construction on part of his property at Ann Arbor Road.

Newman said he wants to lower the wall as soon as possible. "We're very anxious to get it done."

Newman would be responsible for all expenses associated with modifying the wall if he obtains permission to do so.

His plan is to remove individual horizontal concrete panels rather than to demolish and rebuild the entire wall.

"IT'S TOO damn expensive," Newman said, declining to reveal cost projections.

While Newman indicated that he would have preferred to lower the wall to four feet the entire length of his property, he's willing to keep it 11 feet from the Bradbury Condominiums 400 feet north toward Ann Arbor Road.

That would meet current federal highway administration guidelines, but those guidelines may be modified, a report by an agent for Newman indicated.

The land between the condos north to Ann Arbor Road is zoned commercial.

Newman said he's notified Bradbury residents of his plans and expects to meet with them to cover specifics prior to the public hearing.

James Anulewicz, planning director for Plymouth Township, said he has no objections to Newman's plan.

DDA expansion plan to get more discussion

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Plymouth residents won one Monday night but not before a succession of them gave impassioned speeches at the City Commission's regular meeting.

Prepared to vote on the second reading of an ordinance expanding the Downtown Development Authority District, commissioners ended up backing off.

By a 6-0 margin, the commission voted to table the proposal, which would add to the district parcels bordering the central business district.

Commissioners agreed to schedule a joint meeting with the DDA board to address residents' concerns. Commissioner James Jabara was absent.

EXPANSION of the DDA, which enables cities to capture property tax revenue realized from improvements to existing properties, has long been a sore subject in what residents have been quick to remind commissioners is "The City of Homes."

While acknowledging that DDA expansion does not involve rezoning, homeowners contend it "opens the door" to developers wishing to further commercialize Plymouth.

The city favors DDA expansion because it makes available funding for downtown improvements.

Before the meeting room emptied, 15 residents signed up to serve on a citizen committee to study DDA expansion. Most had spoken earlier.

McKinley resident Tony Anason quoted former Mayor David Pugh in calling for "DDA expansion after the real estate developments. To expand beforehand sends the wrong signals and endangers the stability of the city. I don't understand the big rush to do it."

John Moehle, who a week ago asked the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education to fight DDA expansion, pleaded with commissioners to defeat the plan in concert with the "desire of residents."

"You ask us to trust the commission," he said. "So far you haven't shown us a justified plan, one that's not changing from meeting to meeting."

Ann Arbor Trail resident Jerry Zimmer voiced concern about the "commercial march into the community."

... to have the downtown district gerrymandered so it takes in a lot of money for our purposes has me wondering about the general theme of where we're going. It appears to me we're not on balance," Zimmer said.

COMMISSIONER Robert Jones said he is "concerned about putting the total plan together."

"My concern is the lack of understanding. That could be cleared up."

Commissioner Donald Keller said he opposed the expansion because it represents a piecemeal approach.

"If the present DDA is not sufficient to support projects, then we should look at full expansion all at one time," Keller said.

In a change of heart, Commissioner Dennis Bila said he supports the DDA expansion now that residentially zoned Ann Arbor Trail parcels have been removed from the proposal.

Certification

Baptist school chief says he'll fight it

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Only one of the five church-affiliated schools in the Plymouth-Canton community currently operates with teachers who aren't certified by the Michigan Department of Education.

And the key administrator at Central Baptist School in Plymouth said he doesn't intend to come into compliance with state law any time soon.

"We're very serious about this," said the Rev. Stanley Jenkins, administrator of the church and school at Central Baptist.

He believes that the state oversteps legal bounds in requiring certification of teachers in Christian schools.

Jenkins was so willing to stand on principle that he cancelled school one day last week so the staff could attend a rally at the state capitol and lobby legislators for change in state law.

"WE DON'T want a bunch of deadheads at all," he said. "We want qualified teachers."

"I believe there should be some check on our schools. I think they should have a right to see our testing. We're willing to have our students tested to see we are doing quality work."

"I'd close up my school if it was just equivalent to secular," Jenkins said.

Three of the five teachers at Central Baptist have bachelor's degrees, but none of them have teaching certificates, he said.

Fewer than 60 students now are enrolled in the K-12 program that emphasizes individual study in learning center rooms, Jenkins said. The school was founded six years ago.

Certification requirements are proposed by the state board of education, subject to a public hearing, reviewed by the attorney general's office, the legislative services bureau and the joint administrative rules committee, then finally approved by the state board of education.

"THE PURPOSE of any certification or licensing program is to protect the public, especially kids," said Danford Austin, state director of teacher preparation and certification.

"You can have some assurance someone is not a convicted felon," he said. "Private and parochial schools are vulnerable."

To obtain certification, a teacher must earn a bachelor's degree and complete at least 40 semester hours of credit in liberal arts courses, 20 hours in a professional education sequence and at least six credit hours of supervised student teaching.

Additionally, a secondary teacher must complete three semester hours in the teaching of reading, 30 credit hours in a major field of study and 20 hours in a minor.

Elementary teachers must complete six hours in the teaching of reading, plus a major/minor sequence, or a group major/group minor sequence or three group minors.

A group major is 36 hours of study, a group minor 24 hours in a broad category such as science, math or English.

Museum director:

Her life is as diversified as exhibits she tends

By Susan Buck
special writer

Barb Saunders tends to her job as director of the Plymouth Historical Museum in the same way the grande belles of the South lovingly took care of their mansions.

Blessed with a good memory and the aid of 23 volunteers, she oversees the 14,000-square-foot museum that is owned and operated by the Plymouth Historical Society.

Special exhibits change five times a year, she said. Social history classes called, "Michigan Indians," "Pioneer Families," "Great-Grandma's Trunk," "Let's Go Shopping" and "What Did They Do For Fun" are presented to school groups at the museum on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.

THE MUSEUM'S offerings are as diversified as the life of the lady who leads the activities.

Saunders was born and raised in Detroit, the middle child in a family of five children.

As a child, she lived in a comfortable English Tudor near the once-gracious Palmer Park section of Detroit.

Saunders remembers attaining her physical height of 5-10, by the age of 12, a genetic gift of her father, a metallurgist, who towered at 6-foot-4-inches in the days when many people were comparatively shorter.

"I was the tallest kid in the class until the 10th grade when the boys decided to grow. I was even taller than the teacher."

After graduating from high school, Saunders attended Wayne State University for two years, with a strong interest in chemistry and strength in math.

"That's what I liked, I don't know what I would have been. In high school, I liked it when they gave me something that I didn't know and I had to try to find out. I liked puzzles."

AN ILLNESS forced Saunders to drop out of college and take it easy for a while.

She worked for her father before becoming a telephone operator in Ann Arbor. "That was the age when you had to come through the operator. The operator had to help you. I got bored with that job and went back to Detroit."

The final occupation held following her marriage to Norman was accountant for the Excello Corp.

Until Saunders attained her position as coordinator of the museum 10 years ago, she stayed home to raise her sons, Norman II and Mark.

She has lived in Plymouth Township for 27 years.

Her re-entry into the workplace followed her husband's death 10 years ago. "All of a sudden, you're home by yourself. I needed something to keep me busy. I didn't need it when I had someone coming home all the time. The kids were gone. I needed a reason to get up and do something."

PREVIOUSLY Saunders, a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, volunteered her time to do cataloging in the museum archives.

When the position of coordinator became available in 1977, she was encouraged to apply.

She got the job.

"I was only the coordinator when I first came in. I had a lot to learn. You can't say you're the director unless you have experience. I would go antiquing with different women who had antiques. I liked glass and I got every book in the library on the subject. I learned to look for patterns.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Arranging displays in the museum is one of Barbara Saunders main duties as director.

"When I took this job, I got books on how to run a museum and I read them at night. When it came to preserving, I didn't know how to preserve anything but I got a book and learned. "A lot of people don't know about history. I like history."

School is vandalized

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Kindergarten classes were cancelled Monday at Field Elementary School because the classroom was trashed by vandals Sunday.

Principal Larry Miller described the destruction as a terrible mess but said nothing major was stolen. He estimated there was less than $500 worth of damage at the school, on Haggerty south of Cherry Hill.

"It would be like taking everything in your household and putting it in a large Mixmaster and then dumping it all out," Miller said. "Everything was thrown all over."

SCHOOL DESKS were overturned, file cabinets emptied, teachers' desks ransacked, bookcases toppled and paint thrown on the floor during the episode, said Dave Boljesic, Canton Police public information officer.

Windows were broken, an overhead projector was damaged and a telephone was ripped off the wall. Maintenance crews, teachers, other staff and parents had the mess cleaned up by Monday afternoon.

"If there is a story, it's that people came forward to correct a vandalism and trashing that made no sense," Miller said. "They came together and corrected a bad scene. It's one of the worst trashings I've ever seen."

A janitor discovered the vandalism at 3:45 p.m. Sunday during a weekend building check.

It is believed the incident happened sometime between noon and 3:30 p.m. Sunday, because ice cubes that had been thrown on the floor were whole and spilled paint was wet when the janitor arrived.

The school has five buildings — the main building, Truesdale School and three modular units.

The Truesdale building used by kindergartners and one modular unit used by third graders were vandalized.

THE THIRD grade students were taken to another area of the school where classes were held.

By the end of the school day, teachers took students back to their classroom to show them the mess had been cleaned and they would return to their classrooms on Tuesday, Miller said. Kindergartners also returned to class Tuesday.

"Students cooperated and parents cooperated and offered to help," said Miller, adding that it was amazing that such a large mess could be cleaned within 24 hours.

Boljesic said police were without suspects. Anyone with information about the incident is asked to call Canton Police at 397-3000.

School will fight certification

A TEMPORARY one-year teaching certificate may be issued to an individual if requested by a school, Austin said.

Principals at the other four church-affiliated schools in the community said that their entire teaching staffs are state certified.

"This is our belief, our approach, our philosophy," said Roland DeRenzo, superintendent of the Plymouth Christian Academy in Canton.

"I endorse that and have no problem with it as the state said these are minimum requirements. We believe in trained, qualified people."

Plymouth Christian Academy, established in 1976, is affiliated with Calvary Baptist Church. Enrollment is approaching 500 in grades K-12, DeRenzo said. Twenty-eight full-time teachers are employed.

"Our denomination has always maintained the rule that certification requirements are for the good of teachers," said Y.J. Moses, principal of the Plymouth Adventist Jr. Academy in Canton.

"We don't see any conflict between a law of God and a law of certification of the state."

THE ACADEMY, affiliated with the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, employs three teachers for 39 students in grades one through nine. The school was established in 1976.

"Our philosophy . . . has been we are not bucking certification, but it is good for our faculty to maintain certification status," said Gerold Meier, principal of St. Peter Day School in Plymouth.

Two of the five teachers on staff have master's degrees and a third is expected to reach that plateau this summer, he said.

The school, kindergarten through grade eight, was established in 1947.

"I think there should be a common denominator," said Theodore Behn, principal at Our Lady of Good Catholic Council in Plymouth. "All of my teachers are certified and, I understand, all Archdiocese of Detroit teachers are certified."

"I don't see where certification would interfere with their programs," Behn said of the challenges of some fundamentalist ministers.

Good Counsel, opened in 1949, has 18 teachers for an enrollment of 581 in grades one through eight.

DDA plan due more talks

"The others are already zoned off-ice or commercial."

Commissioner Karl Gansler tried to allay fears, saying the "DDA must come to the city commission with plans, at which time we discuss what money is spent. I hope that people return to the commission chambers then, and that citizens would again respond as eloquently as they have the last few weeks."

Bill McAninch reminded the commission that "only one person has spoken in favor" of DDA expansion.

"The rest of us must have expressed the feelings of 10,000 people in this city."

McAninch said the DDA plan is badly flawed. "I have grave doubts that you've followed (legal guidelines). Our downtown is vital. It's not in need of renovation," he said.

AUDIENCE applause greeted Bila's motion to table.

After the meeting, city manager Henry Graper said he hopes that "if these people are really sincere, that they address their questions to me and to the mayor so we can come up with answers."

"But if someone is going to jump up with a new question every meeting, I'm not going to respond to them."

In response to the contention that his office is supplying inconsistent financial information, Graper said: "It seems that the misconceptions people have of financial data are based on the fact that . . . it's been (compiled) based on the hypothetical."

Nothing is final until the SEV is determined, monies become available and the commission votes, added Graper.

They're sympathetic

Two state lawmakers who represent Plymouth Township, Canton and the city of Plymouth said they're sympathetic to the cause of the Rev. Stanley Jenkins.

"I think they have to give a little, but to require that they can use only state certified teachers, I don't think that will stand long in the Michigan Supreme Court, let alone the legislature," said Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, whose district includes Canton.

The high court ruled 3-3 last year that the state could require the certification of teachers in private schools.

"Harmon Cropsey has introduced a bill which would say private schools do not have to use certified teachers as long as students pass an achievement test to prove they're learning," said Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville.

"I support that bill."

Geake speculated that the Senate would pass Cropsey's bill in the next few months. The legislation faces a much less certain future in the House of Representatives, he added.

"The MEA, teacher's union, is much stronger in the House. It might be able to bottle up the bill," Geake said.

Law suspects that compromise may be the order of the day.

"I don't think there's a problem about curriculum requirements and testing," he said.

Nursery has uncertain future

By Susan Buck
staff writer

The Plymouth Children's Nursery Inc. Co-op is planning its 25th anniversary with an uncertain future.

The ice cream social anniversary celebration scheduled for June 7 will be bittersweet if the school cannot find an affordable relocation if it is forced from its historic building (Hough School) with sesquicentennial roots.

The property and building, owned by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, is up for sale and a potential buyer has been found. Key nursery officials met yesterday with Superintendent John Hoben and Raymond Hoedel, associate superintendent for business, to "force the issue" and hopefully gain some commitment for the future, said Karen Valenti, relocation chairman.

"Relocation is very iffy," said Valenti. She said the school board is expected to vote on the purchase agreement at its March 23 meeting.

THE NURSERY school has maintained the building, leased from the school district for $1 annually.

The fact that Hough School is the oldest functioning clapboard structure makes it unique.

Valenti understands that a potential buyer, Southfield developer Melvin Belovicz, plans to put a midrise office building on the property. Valenti does not know if Belovicz plans to move the building.

"Initially, Hoedel said that the school district had a moral obligation to help us," said Valenti.

Valenti said the school was offered for sale at $152,000 which she feels is below comparable market value of other nearby properties.

The school opened its doors to the first group of preschoolers in March 1962. Its name belies its actual location in Canton Township, at the corner of Warren and Haggerty. It has been at its location since September 1963.

Annual nursery school membership totals more than 100; the number of graduates exceeds 2,500.

As a cooperative nursery, parents take turns being present at class sessions. The school's existence is dependent on the active volunteerism of all parent members.

ACCORDING TO Valenti, the nursery is considered one of the oldest and largest in the area.

Valenti has gathered information obtained from the Plymouth, Canton and Wayne historical societies, Wayne County records and "Hough School History," written by Debbie Chamulak, parent member of Plymouth Children's Nursery School.

As a cooperative nursery, the parent is present during class sessions. The school's ability to function is dependent upon the volunteerism of parent members.

In doing research in an attempt to save the school building, nursery parents learned it has an interesting history.

When the Erie Canal opened, a small one-room building stood on the southeast corner of Girdled Road and North-South Road. It's possible that the building may not have been a school because under territorial law, schools were not a necessity.

The school may have been used for other things, including church and community functions.

In 1838, one year after Michigan statehood, the building was registered as a school and a census was taken. Statehood made education an important matter and the pioneers of the area — the Houghs, Smiths, Kelloggs and Brittons — all sent their children.

If the parents wanted an outside teacher, someone would come out from the big city.

Leaving Detroit for Canton Township in 1838, meant taking the stagecoach on what is now Michigan Avenue. The first stop was Johnson's Tavern in the city of Wayne at the end of the day. From there, the teacher either walked the rest of the way the next day or a school member used his wagon to pick up the teacher.

On May 9, 1844, Ira M. Hough, on whose land the school stood, leased the land and building to the school board of School District No. 1 of Canton Township for $5.

Hough also was a member of the school board.

THROUGH THE years, improvements like indoor plumbing, a basement for storage, electric lights, windows and a coat alcove were added.

The fact that Hough School is the oldest functioning clapboard structure makes it unique. Clapboard is a board with one edge thicker than the other, overlapped to cover the outer walls of frame houses.

While other vintage buildings suffer from rot and carpenter ants, Hough school is relatively free.

The floor of the front room is of native timber as are the rafters which are tongue and groove, no nails.

Hough school also is unique because it has never been empty. It has always been used as a school, first as a local school, then as a public school and finally occupied by one of the oldest cooperative nursery schools in the state.

County board's lone Republican off to a fast start

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

"Economic development is an issue I feel very strongly about. And there seems to be a lot of movement in that direction."

Heintz' committee isn't the only one working toward economic growth. County executive Edward McNamara has already appointed his own blue-ribbon Task Force for Jobs and Economic Development.

True to the county's new cooperative spirit, Heintz sees the two groups as working hand-in-hand, rather than fist-to-fist.

"I'M A STRONG supporter of McNamara's approach," Heintz said. "I see this group mirroring what's being done at the county executive level. I think we're all out to prove Wayne County is on the way up."

Heintz said she's received a warm welcome from her fellow commissioners ("Everyone's been extremely cooperative.") — even though she's the 15-member body's lone Republican.

"Luckily, I've always had the ability to work with diverse groups. I have my father to thank for that, people will tell you he was a master at getting people together," Heintz said.

Her father remains her chief influence.

Some dads take their little girls to the circus. Heintz' father used to take her to planning commission meetings.

"People laugh when I tell them that," the Wayne County Commissioner said. "But it's true."

career which has seen her rise from Northville Township trustee, to township clerk, supervisor and, ultimately, Wayne County Commissioner in consecutive elections.

And the effervescent, energetic Heintz, is passing along her father's wisdom and love for politics to her daughter Julie, 14 and son, Jimmy, 11, both of whom have assisted on her campaigns.

Jimmy, she noted, is an especially active campaigner. "He loves to go door-to-door," she said.

Heintz and her husband Robert, a General Motors engineer, live in Northville Township.

ACKNOWLEDGING her suburban base is occasionally removed from the urban issues most other Wayne County communities face, Heintz immersed herself in countywide issues before running for the board of commissioners.

At various times, she has been director of the conference of Western Wayne, a member of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) Executive Committee, chairman of the Rouge River Watershed Council and a member of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA).

On the commission, she serves as vice chairman of the ways and means committee, which recently shaped more than $3 million in budget cuts, is a public services committee member and is also involved with jail overcrowding and indigent health care study groups.

Even though she's meshed with her Democratic peers, Heintz said she's a Republican through-and-through.

"I do have Republican principles. I expect there will be differences on taxation, for instance" she said.

Those principles are long-lived.

"I was a Romney girl," she said with a laugh, recounting early campaign experience. Later, during a stay in Indianapolis, she assisted then-Mayor Richard Lugar who's now a U.S. Senator.

But then dad wouldn't have it any other way.

Canton police begin working on fitness

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Clean those guns, polish those shoes, press those uniforms and tighten those belt buckles.

If you "look good, you'll feel good, too," said John Santomauro, Canton public safety director. That's the incentive for the voluntary physical fitness program for Canton officers to begin May 1.

Money in their pockets will be another reason for officers to stay physically fit, or — if their scales are registering embarrassing numbers — to whip their bodies into shape.

The program is a harbinger for possible cash rewards for officers who can "meet standards for condition," Santomauro predicted the issue will be included in future union negotiation contracts.

THE POLICE UNION previously bought workout equipment, located in the police department, that is available for officers.

"The collective bargaining units will provide input on what will be considered physical fitness for the program."

Santomauro declined to say how many Canton officers need to lose weight.

He cited a study where California inmates were in better physical condition than police officers and he would expect to see similar results in Michigan.

"This police department takes a great deal of pride in appearance and this is just a continuation of that," Santomauro said. "The idea is to promote physical health in the department. It's important for the officer and it's important for the officer's family."

You don't have to be thick around the middle to take advantage of the program.

"I think anyone in the department can use physical conditioning," Santomauro said. "For those who are in condition, it will be a maintenance program."

The odd hours officers must work can lead to poor eating habits, Santomauro said. Also, overeating can be a nervous reaction to stress, which is inherent in the job.

Contra aid freeze

Congressmen 'send a message'

By Wayne Peel
staff writer

With debate under way in the Senate and the fate of $40 million in aid to Nicaraguan contra rebels hanging upon President Reagan's expected veto, two local congressmen are calling for a re-evaluation of U.S. policy toward the Central American nation.

Last week's U.S. House vote freezing the aid for six months was "a gesture with meaning" according to Rep. Sander Levin, D-Southfield, whose district includes Redford Township.

Acknowledging the president will probably veto the legislation — and that his veto probably couldn't be overridden — Levin said the 230-196 vote nonetheless indicates Congress isn't happy with U.S. policy in the region.

"I THINK the basic policy is flawed," said Levin.

"The basic goal is overthrow (of the country's leftist Sandinista government) and I don't think that's possible without the use of U.S. troops, which I oppose," he said.

Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, also called for a "re-thinking of U.S. policy toward Central America."

In a position paper issued after last week's vote Pursell said the resignation of contra leader Arturo Cruz dealt a blow to hopes for a diplomatic settlement of differences between the U.S. and the Sandinista government.

Praising Cruz as a moderate voice of reason, Pursell said it would be difficult for other contra leaders to maintain credibility.

"Without Cruz, the organization loses its moderate influence and ultimately its credibility," said Pursell, whose district includes northern Livonia. Pursell sponsored Cruz' appearance before an Ann Arbor church group last year.

'I think the basic policy is flawed. The goal is overthrow.'

— Sander Levin,
D-Southfield

'The best possible resolution can be achieved through diplomatic channels.'

— Carl Pursell,
R-Plymouth

Levin, Pursell and Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, who represents Westland, Garden City, Canton Township and southern Livonia, all voted against the aid package. Ford was unavailable for comment.

Levin and Pursell said the U.S. should continue pressing for human rights reform in Nicaragua, but use other military and non-military options.

Levin said he favors isolating Nicaragua by strengthening surrounding countries and blocking arms exports from the Sandinista government to other Latin American organizations.

"NICARAGUA IS a country of only a few million people," said Levin, who visited the country last year.

"It would be possible for us to isolate them."

Pursell also said he favors exerting economic and diplomatic pressure on the Sandinistas through a regional approach. He said previous Reagan Administration proposals were "all or nothing" in favor of a military solution.

"I remain convinced the ultimate goals of U.S. policy toward Nicaragua are correct — we cannot allow a communist regime to destabilize the entire region. Democracy and human rights must continue to be our goal in Nicaragua," Pursell said.

"I still believe the best possible resolution can be achieved through diplomatic channels," Pursell said.

STRESSING COOPERATION between the U.S. and Latin American allies, Pursell called for a "partnership" that would encourage "political and economic stabilization through development of a middle class."

In last week's resolution, House members gave the president six months to account for as much as $27 million in aid given the contras in 1985, while determining whether profits from Iranian arms sales were diverted to the contras.

Similar legislation is being debated in the Senate.

The $40 million being voted upon represents the final payment on a congressionally approved $100 million aid package enacted last year.

Pursell was one of two Michigan GOP House members approving the freeze. All Michigan Democratic House members approved the freeze.

House panel restores aid to big cities

AP — Legislators have reached a compromise on the distribution of state revenue sharing money to local governments, but the Senate Appropriations Committee chairman says he won't go along.

The House Appropriations Committee voted 14-9 last week to amend Sen. Harry Gast's bill to reimburse Detroit and Michigan's larger cities for up to $2.5 million they would lose when the revenue sharing formula is shifted in favor of the townships.

But Gast, R-St. Joseph, said the move negates the intent of his bill, and he will ask House members to strike the provision on the House floor.

THE ISSUE of how the state distributes its projected $883 million in revenue sharing money for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 is complex, but it boils down to a battle between large cities and townships.

Rather than penalize either group, the House panel sought to ensure that neither cities nor townships receive less than they do now.

The amendment, offered by Rep. Morris Hood, D-Detroit, would mean Detroit won't lose an estimated $1.4 million in revenue sharing money. The cities of Grand Rapids, Pontiac and Flint each would have lost more than $50,000 without the provision.

Gast's original bill would change the Treasury Department's method of calculating local property tax credits that determine revenue sharing levels.

The bill would prevent Shelby and Clinton townships in Macomb County and Canton Township in Wayne County from losing more than $500,000 in revenue sharing.

WITHOUT THE amendment, the bill would have taken more than $2 million away from cities and given it to townships.

But House Democrats, led by Reps. David Hollister, D-Lansing, and Hood, said Gast's proposed formula was unfair because it would have rewarded the townships for erroneously collecting more revenue under a bookkeeping error that wasn't discovered until 1983.

That's when the Treasury Department first noticed it had been counting as local revenues the specially voted taxes townships levy for such things as police and fire protection, said deputy treasurer Jay Rising.

By law, only permanent property taxes are supposed to be counted.

The Treasury Department has closed the loophole in the last few years, but Gast and others say the townships are now being punished.

THE COMPROMISE approved by the committee guarantees that townships are given credit for all locally generated taxes, while reimbursing more than 50 cities that would lose funds because of the shift.

A supplemental appropriation of up to $2.5 million also will have to be passed to finance the extra spending.

"The (cities) shouldn't be the ones to foot the bill," said Bill Davis, executive director of the Michigan Municipal League.

Life goes on Community of hundreds often overlooked

Staff photos
by Bill Bresler

LIFE GOES on each day in Plymouth-Canton with hardly any thought to life nearby in a community within a community.

But life goes on with its daily routine for the hundreds of inmates at the three state correctional facilities in the area of Five Mile and Beck roads.

Each morning the residents of Scott, Phoenix and Western Wayne correctional facilities wake up, get dressed, have breakfast and begin a day's work. For almost all there are jobs within the prison to be done, and for many there are classes and other educational opportunities.

Lunch time, recreation time, class time, mail time, reading time, dinner time, TV time. The routine, in many ways, is not much different than that of any other resident of the Plymouth-Canton community.

BUT within the prison population are individual differences. Some inmates are content with their lot — trying to make the most of the situation they find themselves in. Others hate to face each day and look forward only to the ultimate day of freedom.

Other inmates burn inside with anger at the perceived injustice that wrongly imprisoned them. Others squirm under what they feel is oppressive control and talk of rebellion. In each prison "there's all kinds" — just as there are in the community that surrounds the fenced-in community.

Thousands of motorists traverse Five Mile and Beck each day, almost all unaware of the existence of the subcommunity within reach.

YET THE hundreds within the fences are quite aware of the passing motorists, for the automobile remains a symbol of independence and freedom — the power to go when and where one wants.

The passing auto does represent major differences between the two communities — independence, freedom and mobility. For us, life goes on each day anywhere we go — for them, life goes on within the fence.

House withholds $40 million contra aid

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on roll call votes during the week ending March 13.

HOUSE

CONTRA AID FREEZE — The House voted, 230 for and 196 against, to withhold $40 million in U.S. aid to the American-backed contras in Nicaragua until the Administration accounts for appropriations and other money already made available to them.

In part, the legislation (HJ Res 175) gives President Reagan six months to account for up to $27 million on fiscal 1985 contra aid that reportedly vanished and to try to explain allegations that Iran arms sales profits were diverted to the anti-Communist guerillas.

The Senate is scheduled to vote on a similar attempt to freeze the $40 million, which is the final payment of a $100 million contra aid package approved last year by Congress.

Reagan has the House and Senate backing he needs to successfully veto these freeze attempts. But Democratic leaders say they can block any new contra aid requests by the president.

Supporter Thomas Foglietta, D-Pa., said the freeze "will force the administration to come clean with its contra activities."

Supporter Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, split with the administration over contra aid. Pursell pointed to the resignation of Arturo Cruz as leader of the contras, saying it should cause the U.S. to rethink its Central American policy.

"Cruz, as a civilian United Nicaraguan Opposition leader, provided moderation and credibility to the organization," Pursell said. "The loss of Arturo Cruz and the apparent failure of the contra forces to resolve their internal struggles and bring the Sandinista government closer to the negotiating table forces us to seek a moderate policy."

Opponent Robert Michel, R-Ill., called the aid embargo an "inexcusable retreat from a firm, workable U.S. policy toward Central America."

Members voting yes wanted to withhold the $40 million in contra aid.

Voting yes: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, and Sander Levin, D-Southfield.

Voting no: William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

CLOSED CONTRA RULE — By a vote of 227 for and 198 against, the House approved a closed parliamentary rule (H Res 116) for debating whether to freeze the $40 million in fiscal 1987 contra aid (above).

This was a victory for Democratic-led foes of the aid because the rule precluded Republican amendments that, after open debate and record votes, might have shaken free the $40 million.

For example, GOP backers of the contras wanted to force the House to stick with its previously approved position that the $40 million be automatically released unless Congress voted to disapprove it.

Adoption of the narrow rule enabled Democrats to try to embarrass President Reagan by linking the release of the $40 million to the Iran arms scandal.

Supporter Mel Levine, D-Calif.,

Roll Call Report

said that in periodic House debates on contra aid the Democratic leadership "has bent over backwards" to protect the minority rights of Republicans.

Opponent John Porter, R-Ill., said "this rule shuts off debate on one of the most important foreign policy decisions of the century."

SENATE

COSTA RICA'S PLAN — By a vote of 97 for and one against, the Senate approved a resolution (S Con Res 24) backing the latest Central American effort to end hostilities in Nicaragua and neighboring countries.

Offered by Costa Rican President Oscar Arias Sanchez to energize the Contadora peace process, the plan is being discussed by him and the presidents of El Salvador, Nicaragua, Guatemala and Honduras.

It seeks a Central American rather than a superpowers' solution to the region's problems. It calls in part for dismantling totalitarianism in Nicaragua, stopping American aid general, more democracy and less military activity throughout the region.

Supporter Terry Sanford, D-N.C., said "this might be our last, best hope" for Central American peace.

Opponent Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., said the plan failed to confront spreading Communism in the region and called it "a large portion of pa-blum."

Senators voting yes endorsed the Costa Rican peace plan.

All senators voted yes except for Humphrey, who voted no, and Thomas Daschle, D-S.D., who was absent. The seat of the late Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., was vacant.

Radioactive waste is her 'hottest' job yet

By Penny Wright
special writer

Beverly McAninch is seldom idle. Over the past 15 years, she has pursued an interest in governmental affairs in Plymouth city government, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), the Southeast Michigan Transportation Authority and a four-year stint as president of the League of Women Voters of Michigan.

The former mayor of Plymouth is devoting her energies (50 hours per week) to her "hottest" assignment yet — resolving the state's radioactive waste disposal dilemma.

"I want this disposal issue handled right. That is why I got involved," said McAninch, who chairs the Michigan Radioactive Waste Control Committee.

The seven-member panel was created by the Michigan Legislature in December 1985. It is comprised of four nuclear waste experts and three members of the general public and is charged with advising Gov. James Blanchard and the Legislature about the disposal of the state's low-level radioactive waste.

"MY GOAL is to open the decision-making process to all the people in Michigan," said McAninch, a mother of four and grandmother to two youngsters.

"My biggest concerns are the political and emotional problems surrounding the siting of a radioactive waste disposal facility. I'm not as concerned about the technical problems. This type of waste has been safely contained in the past," she said.

The disposal issue came to a head in 1980, when the federal government mandated the states to manage their own low-level radioactive waste by 1993. Low-level radioactive wastes are byproducts of nuclear power plants, hospitals, universities, research institutions and industry.

Michigan formed a regional compact with Iowa, Indiana, Missouri, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Ohio to address the problem. On Feb. 27, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio and Minnesota were named the four finalists in the "host state" site selection process.

"UNLESS ANOTHER state in the Midwest compact volunteers and has a viable site, the odds are high that Michigan will be selected," McAninch said. She noted that Michigan produces the most low-level radioactive waste in terms of volume and radioactivity of the compact states.

Two communities in Wisconsin have tentatively volunteered.

About 88 percent of Michigan's low-level radioactive waste volume is generated by nuclear power plant operation and maintenance. This waste is comprised of used filters, resins, clothing, tools and reactor components.

Spent fuel rods are not included. McAninch and her committee recently completed a series of public meetings around Michigan to explain the site selection process and solicit volunteer communities to host the waste facility. An incentive package of approximately $2 million yearly is available for the host community.

TWO UPPER Peninsula communities and six in Lower have request-committee chair ed more information.

"If I were living at a potential site, I would be concerned and would want more information," said McAninch. "There are tough political and economics issues such as property values and the potential loss of recreational business that need to be addressed."

She contends the emotional issues are harder to address. "The psychological fear of nuclear waste is as real as the physical safety considerations."

the federal government handle this type of waste."

A public hearing on Class C radioactive waste will start at 7 p.m. Monday, March 30, in the Law Building auditorium in the Government Complex in Lansing.

PEOPLE WHO tie the siting process to the electric power industry's use of nuclear energy are "barking up the wrong tree," she said. "Our committee can't put nuclear power plants out of business."

The longtime Plymouth resident admits her own thoughts about radioactive waste have changed since her appointment to the RWCC committee a year ago.

"I have demolished a whole lot of preconceived opinions about nuclear waste. There are a lot more dangerous situations we have to deal with in life," she said.

"Personally I would not have a problem with living near the nuclear waste site. Our goal for the allowable radiation at the boundary of the site is ZERO." State requirements will be tougher than the maximum allowable federal limit of .025 REM. (The average dental X-ray produces 40 REM.)

Cities, townships fight over revenue sharing

Legislators have reached a compromise on the distribution of state revenue sharing money affecting more than $500,000 coming to Canton.

But the Senate Appropriations Committee chairman says he won't go along.

Sen. Harry Gast's original bill would change the Treasury Department's method of calculating property tax credits, which determine revenue sharing levels.

The House Appropriations Committee voted 14-9 last Wednesday to amend Gast's bill to reimburse Detroit and Michigan's larger cities for up to $2.5 million they would lose when the revenue sharing formula is shifted in favor of the townships.

But Gast, R-St. Joseph, said the move negates the intent of his bill and he will ask House members to strike the provision on the House floor.

The bill would prevent Canton and Macomb County's Shelby and Clinton townships from losing more than $500,000 in revenue sharing.

"I feel the money we lost we should have coming to us," said John Spencer, Canton finance director.

Without the amendment, the bill would have taken more than $2 million away from cities and given it to townships.

THE ISSUE OF how the state distributes its projected $883 million in revenue sharing money for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 is complex, but it boils down to a battle between large cities and townships.

Rather than penalize either group, action by the House panel would ensure that neither cities nor townships receive less than they do now.

The amendment, offered by Rep. Morris Hood, D-Detroit, would mean Detroit won't lose an estimated $1.4 million in revenue sharing money. The cities of Grand Rapids, Pontiac and Flint each would have lost more than $50,000 without the provision.

But House Democrats, led by Rep. David Hollister, D-Lansing, and Hood, said Gast's proposed formula was unfair because it would have rewarded the townships for erroneously collecting more revenue under a bookkeeping error that wasn't discovered until 1983.

That's when the Treasury Department first noticed it had been counting as local revenues the specially voted taxes townships levy for such things as police and fire protection, said Deputy Treasurer Jay Rising.

BY LAW, only permanent property taxes are supposed to be counted. The Treasury Department has closed the loophole in the last few years, but Gast and others say the townships are now being punished.

"Cities get credit for police and fire — and then we weren't," Spencer said. "We'd be losing something that other people had."

The compromise approved by the committee guarantees that townships are given credit for all locally generated taxes, while reimbursing more than 50 cities that would lose money because of the shift.

A supplemental appropriation of up to $2.5 million also will have to be passed to finance the extra spending.

The cities shouldn't be the ones to foot the bill, said Bill Davis, executive director of the Michigan Municipal League.

State Treasurer Robert Bowman said he supported the compromise, even though he had hoped a permanent solution could have been worked out.

"I don't think this is the ideal way to solve it, but very little in government is ideal," Bowman told the panel.

Hollister chided Gast for attempting to take money from the cities.

Gast wants to change the formula forever, Hollister said. "He's not going to get that out of here."

Cigarettes are stolen

Thieves broke into a party store Tuesday and stole 400 cartons of cigarettes.

The assorted brands of cigarettes were valued at $4,000, said Dave Boljesic, Canton police information officer.

Sometime between 12:30 a.m. and 6 a.m. thieves broke a window at Village Party Store on Lilley north of Warren.

A business owner called police when he arrived at work and saw the party store window broken. When police arrived cigarettes were scattered in the parking lot and on the floor of the party store.

Police are without a suspect.

Pets of the week

Lady, a poodle/hasa apo mix, and Bon-Bon, a domestic short hair kitten, need homes. Lady (Control No. 185547) is 8 weeks old. She isn't housebroken but is good with children and other animals. Bon-Bon (Control No. 195482) is a 3 1/2-week-old female unclaimed stray. Each pet is available through the Westland Kindness Center of the Michigan Humane Society. To adopt these pets or others, or to check for lost pets, call 721-7300. The center is at 37255 Marquette, Westland.

Cobo has new name

Cobo Hall isn't Cobo Hall anymore. The name's been changed to Cobo Conference/Exhibition Center.

The name change was announced this week. It reflects the facility's expansion. Upon its projected December 1988 completion, the building will increase to 2.4 million square feet. The completed building will include four main halls. Eighty-one meeting rooms are also expected to be added.

Expansion costs have been estimated at $200 million.

Appointed

Warren Evans was sworn in last week as Wayne County Undersheriff. Evans had been department director of jail services and had previously served as executive assistant to former Sheriff William Lucas. He received his law degree from Detroit College of Law in January. He also holds a master's in criminal justice from the University of Detroit and a bachelor's in criminal justice from Madonna College.

Symphony concert challenges, delights

By Mary Jane Doerr
special writer

IN SOME WAYS, it might be said that the latest Plymouth Symphony Orchestra took the audience to the "valley of delight." The program was geared for children, but the music was not childish.

The Sunday afternoon family concert entitled "Close Encounters of a Musical Kind," in Plymouth Salem auditorium, included music that was delightful, and, while it appealed to children, was actually very challenging.

The children were attentive and fascinated by conductor David Mairs' expressive and entertaining explanation pointing out the music's familiar and popular melodies by having the principals perform them separately.

PARTICULARLY APPEALING and nicely performed was Morton Gould's "American Salute," the arrangement of the pre-Revolutionary War song "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," and more often associated with the Civil War.

Principal oboist Kristy Meretta and principal clarinetist John Mohler made a substantial contribution with a sensitive duet of the song, "Tis a Gift to be Simple," used by Aaron Copland in "Variations on a Shaker Melody." The work is part of a larger one, "Appalachian Spring," recently recorded by the Detroit Symphony.

The music from Copland's "Rodeo" has such appeal and familiarity that even if children had not heard the melodies, the rhythm and beat are attractive. While the "Saturday Night Waltz," with the harp accents (prominently placed to the left side of the orchestra) was wonderful, the difficult "Buckaroo Holiday" was more dissonant than it should have been.

From his choice of music, it was evident that Mairs was a hornist. Presently, he is assistant conductor of the Flint Symphony and music director of the Flint Youth Symphony. Formerly he was a hornist with the Pittsburgh Symphony.

HOWARD HANSON'S "Symphony No. 2" drew heavily upon the wind section and the horns. The melody, as Mairs so eloquently explained, is the theme song for the National Music Camp. Mairs demonstrated marvelously how it is woven into the structure of this three-movement symphony.

To help his young audience appreciate the complete symphony, Mairs stopped between movements to elaborate on the sections. For those unfamiliar with the symphonic form though, he did not explain the tradition of no clapping between movements.

The Hanson was definitely not as spontaneous as the rest of the program, not as dramatic, not as shaded, not as distinctively performed. At times it seemed to drag.

The background music from "Star Wars" is popular, but it's the kind of music that can be considered classical. The orchestra gave it the same exciting treatment they injected into the music before the intermission. Alas, at times, it was too loud even for the large hall.

review

Mairs is as much a public speaker as he is a musician, probably due in part to his training as an ordained Presbyterian minister.

Outstanding trumpeter Ramon Parcels is featured at the closing concert of the current year on Sunday, May 3. Parcels is pursuing a career as a soloist in addition to his position as a principal with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Woman is accosted

A Canton woman told Plymouth Township Police that a man tried to lift her dress while exposing himself last Sunday in the parking lot of St. John Episcopal Church on Sheldon Road.

The woman described her attacker as white, 25, 5-foot-6, 180 pounds with brown eyes, brown, shoulder-length hair and a mustache.

He was wearing a red jacket with "Air Jordan" in black letters across the back. He was driving a red car, possibly an Alliance or Escort.

The woman told police that she was approached from behind by the man while placing items in the back seat of the car. She had watched him arrive in the parking lot and stop several spaces away while walking to her vehicle.

He drove off when she screamed, police accounts indicated.

The incident happened at about noon.

Trustees miss point on movie

JUST ONE TRUSTEE, Marilyn Schwinn, was able to sort through the camouflage and get to the crux of the issue on showing of "The Breakfast Club" to high school students at Centennial Educational Park.

Other trustees got bogged down with First Amendment issues of freedom of speech, academic freedom, and Diane Daskalakis's version of Christianity. In so doing they missed the point on why "The Breakfast Club" is not suitable for use at the CEP.

The dominant issue involved is quite clear. Two brief illustrations can clearly establish why the board was wrong in its vote on March 9.

ON THAT NIGHT the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education voted 5-2 to deny five appeals on instructional materials made by Daskalakis.

What would have happened if a member of the audience, unhappy with the vote, stood up and yelled the common vulgarity at the board.

Without question, the board chairman would hammer the gavel and exclaim, "You, sir, are out of order!"

Which is exactly right.

The language used in "The Breakfast Club" is also clearly out of order at the CEP and should have been gavelled down by the board.

Another illustration is this newspaper itself. If the objectionable words were printed in this editorial, the copy editors would remove language or insert ellipses to soften the vulgarity.

That's because the people working for this newspaper (professionals in the use of language) clearly understand that such vulgarities would offend the sensibilities of many of our readers. It would be a clear violation of standards for all 12 communities in which we publish. It also is a violation of community standards in Plymouth-Canton.

YET THE BOARD votes to allow language this newspaper won't print — and trustees wouldn't tolerate at a public meeting — to enter the classroom.

Students may, if they choose, use vulgar speech while talking among themselves. But words spoken and behavior exhibited in a classroom is subject to limits. The schools are correct in not allowing students to use gross, vulgar language in the classroom.

News items reflect a diverse suburbia

THE NEWSPAPER YOU are reading is one of 12 Observer and Eccentric newspapers. Twice a week, the papers tell you what is happening in your community. But what about the events occurring in communities served by the other 11 papers?

Some very interesting stories are happening there. What's most interesting is that any of these stories could have happened in your community. Here are some examples from the last week or so:

• A new trial was ordered for a Farmington Hills man who has spent 20 years in prison after he was convicted of murdering his wife. The man, John Merlo, was convicted of shooting to death his 18-year-old estranged wife with four shots from a .32-caliber revolver. The shooting took place at the beauty shop where the woman worked.

The issue is not so much if Merlo killed his wife. Instead, a U.S. district judge has ruled that the trial judge erred in his instructions to the jury about whether the verdict should be first-degree murder, which carries no parole, or the lesser crimes of second-degree murder or manslaughter.

• Six sophomores from Livonia high schools were hurt when a car crashed into a tree. Four sustained serious injuries. Of the six occupants of the car, only one was 16. Police do not believe he was the driver. The suspected driver, 15, had alcohol on his breath, according to police.

• When fires broke out at the same time on both sides of Southfield, fire

The language used in 'The Breakfast Club' also is clearly out of order at the CEP and should have been gavelled down by the board.

The issue is not that students somehow will learn to speak vulgar if they hear obscenities in a film. The argument is not being made that the film should not be shown because students will parrot the words or ape behavior. High school students today are too bright to be so easily influenced.

Neither is the concern that student behavior will change if they are exposed to undesirable behavior.

The argument is simple and unencumbered.

We simply should not allow objectionable language to be broadcast, via a movie, to a class.

If a specific word or string of words cannot be spoken by a student in the classroom, by what stretch of the imagination is it suitable for the exact same word(s) to be spoken via film in the same classroom?

The media of film does not have a miracle power to "cleanse" vulgarities and make them acceptable.

For that reason, and that reason alone, "The Breakfast Club" should be banned from any classroom in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Yes, the movie has an excellent story line with a compelling message. Yes, all high schoolers probably would benefit from watching the movie and thinking about how stereotyping is a damaging crutch for those too lazy to think.

All that is true.

Students can watch the movie, at home, on cable, any time they wish. The message will not be forever lost if it is not "delivered" at the CEP.

We can only agree with Schwinn that "the school board is charged with setting standards in the district, and I decided 'The Breakfast Club' does not represent the caliber of material we should be showing."

Howe joins pizza war

SOME MIND-browsing on a sunny March day.

Thrill of thrills. Got to eat lunch with Gordie Howe recently as he visited Farmington Hills to promote a new pizza chain — Oliver's Pizza.

Nice to see the best Red Wing ever involved with metro Detroit once again. He plans on having a golf outing come spring for some benefit or other. Word has it, that one of the O&E suburbs is being eyed for the tourney.

Although never much of a sports fan, I always have had a special place in my heart for hockey. And for me Gordie Howe will always mean hockey. Some other pretty hard-core journalists in attendance at that lunch felt the same way that I did.

We just all sat around and grinned like a bunch of little kids. One guest brought a brick from the old red barn, Olympia, to be autographed. Jeez, I forgot mine and settled for an autographed picture instead.

By the way, despite all the incredible records he still holds in hockey, his biggest thrill was playing professional hockey with his two sons, Mark and Marty.

Anybody entering the pizza wars in this town is going to need reinforcements with the clout of a Gordie Howe. The two newest entrepreneurs are Bill Eadie of West Bloomfield and Dominick Oliver of Utica.

Attending the same high school in Utica, the pair teamed up after nearly two decades to challenge the pizza kings Tom Monaghan and Mike Illitch. Already with 10 stores open, they plan to have 20 new stores opened this year in metro Detroit and another 50 opened outstate by 1988.

Somehow it seems appropriate that it's Gordie Howe who is taking on both the Red Wing and Tiger owners at their own game.

Watch the elbows, Tom and Mike.

IN THE SMALL WORLD category, it's interesting to see that Seaholm High School is renting space to a Japanese school. Sure hope some of the Birmingham kids get to meet the Japanese students. Always have figured we need more cultural exchange. This generation of students must learn how to compete in a world market. Remember how not too many years ago we laughed at the label "Made in Japan?"

SPEAKING OF INTERNATIONAL. In last Monday's edition of the Livonia Observer was an article about Mike Maher who pulled up stakes and moved permanently to the Emerald Isle — Ireland. The Franklin High and Schoolcraft College alumnus lives in a town called Bray with wife June and son Brendan.

Everybody's got a favorite dream spot. Mine's Mission Peninsula up on Traverse Bay. Every year I spend a good deal of time just hanging out in the Traverse area. In recent years I've found it's equally as beautiful in the winter as the summer — and fewer people, too.

Till next week, think spring.

fighters from neighboring Farmington Hills responded to one to give mutual aid. They were turned back by the paid, full-time Southfield firefighters who said volunteers from Farmington Hills "aren't capable of providing the professional level of services" that Southfield can.

• A cat burglar who claimed he committed 800 to 1,000 break-ins in Oakland County said he once almost left a note in a Birmingham home to let the sleeping family "know how easy it was to get into their house." He said he hit between 10 and 20 homes a night, making off with $800 to $1,400 nightly. He also claimed to have $43,000 buried up north as a nestegg.

• By a 5-2 vote, the Plymouth-Canton school board voted not to censor the R-rated movies "The Breakfast Club" and "Excalibur" and other controversial teaching materials such as the book "Rules for Radicals" and information about Ouija boards and palmistry. The movies are shown to psychology and English literature classes. "Rules for Radicals" is not required reading but is on a resource list for Plymouth Salem High School English students studying Zen and Emerson.

ONE IS FULL state funding of all courts. The other is statewide collection of school property taxes — either on industrial property worth more than $10 million, or on all property.

Both ideas are based on the fallacious notion that Michigan has one statewide economy and one price index.

State government embarked on the plan for full funding of courts prior to the 1979-83 recession in the worst possible way — by beginning with Detroit and Wayne County courts.

Since then, no other counties or communities have been added to the list. Today we have a dual system of court payments — one for Detroit/Wayne, one for the rest of the state.

THE MICHIGAN system has been that the state pays about two-thirds of a judge's salary and a "local control unit" the rest. For circuit and probate courts, the local unit is the county. For district courts, the local unit is one or more cities and townships, or the county.

Thus, in 1986 circuit judges were paid as low as $57,200; others get the maximum $74,888. District court salaries range from $52,656 to $71,632.

The Michigan Judges Association and retired Chief Justice G. Mennen Williams say all judges should get the same.

One gets the impression these folks have been reading only law books the last 211 years and haven't heard about Adam Smith and "The Wealth of Nations." Smith distinguished between "real" income and monetary prices.

And the judges haven't been reading the papers lately and apparently don't know that Michigan is a whole series of local economies.

IN THE AUTO insurance business, it's like two different worlds — one in metro Detroit, another outstate.

Read the classified ads for houses in our suburban papers and then in the Saginaw News and Kalamazoo Gazette. There's at least a 25-percent difference — more, when you reach the Iron Mountain Daily Globe.

Feed a parking meter in Escanaba and one around the Renaissance Center.

Price levels differ considerably between local economies.

Judges' titles are equal, but the jobs aren't. Judges in Menominee and Kalkaska counties don't handle the kinds of product liability cases that Wayne and Oakland judges field.

Well, the state Legislature and Gov. James Blanchard haven't yet got around to finding the bucks to pay for all courts. Meanwhile, the outstate natives are getting restless: Either take back that Detroit/Wayne money, they say, or give us ours.

The dual system — state payment of a basic salary supplemented by the local control unit — is ideally suited to our economies.

THE DAMN FOOL notion of statewide collection of school property taxes — particularly on big industry — has been around several decades.

Farm districts concocted it to get a bite of the city slickers' tax base without giving up local political control.

Besides being economically unrealistic by Smithian standards, it would be politically unfair. Some cities and counties have made enormous efforts to recruit and serve industry, not only for the jobs but for the school tax base those industries would provide.

State government needs to plunk more money into education, but this isn't the way. Read Adam Smith. Read the papers.

Good travelers hardly ever lose their way

THE NEXT TIME I am in downtown Detroit admiring the scenic splendor of the waterfront, I must remind myself to pause at the City-County Building and pay respects to a former colleague of these pages, Bob Wisler, who now slaves at the public trough as an image builder for Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara.

A second reason for entering this dual seat of governments will be to seek out a woman I've never met, Marie Farrell-Donaldson, Detroit ombudsman, a title that means she investigates complaints private citizens may have against government departments or officials.

I should think a person in that job, even in Mayor Coleman Young's reign, would be blessed with a sense of objectivity. A statement attributed to the hyphenated Marie F-D in the Detroit Free through bifocals

Fred DeLano

Press of March 8 makes me wonder if she's qualified, for it reeks of ill-informed, opinionated prejudice.

Maybe you've never noticed sort of a cute little feature that runs every Sunday in the magazine section of the Morning Friendly. It's called "Q&A" and poses a different question each week, answers coming from three or four persons of supposed prominence.

ON THE DATE in question, the rather insipid query was: "What do you like least about the opposite sex?" and this was Marie F-D's answer:

"I don't like the fact that when they're lost on a trip they will never, ever stop and ask directions. They will drive for hours and hours and refuse to acknowledge the fact that they're lost."

If you're looking for a lack of imagination, this woman's attitude takes first prize. I wish she had taken a few trips with Mother Goose, the kids and me over the years. She would have learned early on that we never, ever were "lost." Temporarily misplaced occasionally, it's true, but that only adds to the sense of adventure.

I'm reminded of my friend George. George and Alice, who is a cousin of my wife's, lived in these parts for years and then in retirement moved to North Carolina where they share the side of a mountain at Hendersonville with other retirees who get their kicks out of watching the rhododendron run wild.

Never had I suspected, until we visited them and went sight-seeing day after day with George at the wheel, that Alice was a world class back-seat driver.

"Turn left, George" . . . "Yes, Alice" . . . "Turn right, George" . . . "Yes, Alice" . . . "The light is turning red, George" . . . "I see it, Alice" . . . etc., etc.

THEN MIRACLE of miracles! "No, George, No. This is not the way. George, why are turning?" . . . "Because we've never taken this road, and I want to see where it goes."

It led to the other side of the mountain, of course, but we never would have known had we not gone exploring. That's the adventurous way we've seen state after state, off the beaten path.

Pack up and leave home early. Stop for breakfast in Kentucky.

Sure, maps are helpful and are meant to be studied in advance, not after the journey has started. But the second time around, I'll remember that there's a difference in markings for Kansas City, Missouri, and Kansas City, Kansas, just across the river.

Few other possibly have crossed the Potomac River into Virginia three-times in driving from the historic Georgetown section of Washington, D.C. to the Watergate complex for lunch; but we did and we weren't lost. That's just crazy Washington.

As long as the earth is round, the North Star remains in the north, and the sun rises in the east and sets in the west, there's no need to ask directions. But tell me, Marie F-D; when I get to Woodward and the river, where do you suggest I go?

Rock away those blahs

WHEN THE winter blahs seem to have reached their grey, bleak blaiest, I find there's no better cure than to put on your dancin' shoes and bop 'til you drop!

That's why hubby and I get a kick out of getting dressed up in oldies garb to attend the annual '50s Dance held at Divine Savior Church.

Actually, we don't get as elaborate with our costumes as we probably should. Hubby borrows a black leather jacket and I wear a big white men's shirt with jeans. It just occurred to me that these ensembles don't make us look that much different than we do on any other day. I've worn similar outfits to the grocery store.

THIS YEAR I decided to go really heavy on the black eye make-up. (I recall a friend in high school telling me that my heavy-handed make-up made me look rather like a chubby raccoon — high school friends are like no other!) To prepare for the dance I covered my eyelids with velvet black eyebrow pencil, drew long points out extending halfway to my ears and underlined my eyes five or six times.

After I applied several coats of mas-

Nancy Walls Smith

cara, I decided that I still like this look — kind of like Liz Taylor in "Cleopatra." Or maybe a chubby raccoon in "Cleopatra."

All I needed was a tube of white lipstick, but since I seriously doubt that said lipstick has been manufactured since 1969, I decided to go with bright red instead. I also painted my nails bright red, donned a pair of ridiculous earrings with dangling red hearts and a bracelet composed of multicolored plastic hearts.

I danced into the living room, did a '50ish pirouette and asked my date for the evening (hubby), "How do I look?"

"Ridiculous," was his reply. Somehow I wasn't surprised.

"What's with the red polish and lipstick?" he inquired. "Isn't that supposed to be from the '40s?"

"Yeah, I know, but I figured no one would notice if I overlapped my eras a tad. Besides, they'll be too busy noticing how badly I dance."

He didn't disagree.

I LOVE to dance. Unfortunately, I never learned how. So I fake it. I can do steps you've never see on "Bandstand" — nor would you care to.

But the dance is always great fun because not only do we get to make fools of ourselves, but everyone else looks rather ridiculous, too (I don't remember so many pot bellies in high school!)

So we're all a little thicker around the waist (some a little thinner on top), but once we hear that good old-fashioned Rock 'n' Roll blasting from the past, our fingers start snapping, our feet start moving and our juices start flowing again.

When you're feeling that good, you just know that spring's gonna come after all.

"One o'clock, two o'clock, three o'clock — Rock!!"

Throw out the rascals in Canton

To the editor: Although I appreciate your continuing stories on political life in Canton, I am growing increasingly irritated (and downright embarrassed) by the antics of the politicians depicted in these articles. What an image is displayed (and publicized) to bordering communities and western Wayne County!

That my hard-earned money is being siphoned off in high taxes to pay the salaries of these people is an outrage. Their election to office was intended to precipitate competent and judicious stewardship of the township, not to set the stage for the bickering, bullying, lawsuit mania and outright incompetence they have heretofore demonstrated. (Rejecting a proposed Canton Hilton in favor of a Budgetel, indeed! Turning commission meetings into childish shouting sessions, of all things!)

I wonder if the prosperous and rapidly developing cities of Novi, Northville and Livonia conduct their meetings in the same manner. Evidently not, as you can see by the construction in their cities of high class projects that governing decisions (of all things!) are actually made and that prestigious developments are attracted to those communities.

As for the current state of politics in Canton, this nonsense must cease. During the next election, let the motto of Canton voters be: "Run the rascals out of office!" Surely, between now and the next election, the sensible Canton electorate can raise up competent candidates to make a run at the offices held by the current sorry crop of commissioners and a would-be cowboy.

Incidentally, it was encouraging to read a few weeks back that former Plymouth mayor Joe Bida has moved to Canton. Wouldn't that be something if he ran for township supervisor, won and ran the half-baked cowboy and his incompetent cronies (in addition to the whining clerk) out of office and into some sort of honest work?

If your assessments went up, as mine certainly did, aren't you other Cantonites pleased you are spending your hard-earned money to further the antics taking place in the administration at Township Hall? Think about it . . . especially when election time rolls around again.

GOP unveils incentives to end welfare

By Warren M. Hoyt
special writer

A Senate Republican proposal would penalize welfare families whose children drop out of school and to provide $5.3 million in education and work incentives. It was outlined recently as an alternative to Gov. James Blanchard's proposal for a 3 percent increase in grants.

Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, said his proposal would offer an opportunity for persons to break out of the welfare cycle, while the $19 million proposed for a grant increase would only improve life marginally.

The program would require federal officials to waive welfare eligibility requirements, which do not permit applying a school dropout factor.

DEGROW AND Senate Majority Leader John Engler, R-Mt. Pleasant, said they are optimistic a waiver would be granted. They pointed to the Reagan administration's policies to encourage welfare experiments at state levels, and the drive by the National Governors' Association for welfare reform which emphasizes job training.

"We feel this is a way out of the welfare system. It addresses fundamental reforms," Engler said. "I think this can be sold in the Legislature."

"It will take a major redirection in Michigan welfare policy to break the cycle of dependency created by years of neglect. This is an incentive to stay in school and have a future," DeGrow said.

He added statistics show a clear correlation between education levels and both poverty and unemployment rates.

ALTHOUGH THE program would cost $5.3 million the first year, it would rise to an estimated annual cost of over $24 million in 1990-91, DeGrow said. The long-term payoff would be fewer people in the welfare cycle, he said.

DeGrow said Social Services Director C. Patrick Babcock did not reject the proposal, but wants the welfare grant increase in any case.

Rep. David Hollister, D-Lansing, chairman of the Appropriations Subcommittee on Social Services, said he welcomes DeGrow's proposal, calling it "a contrast to what the Senate has done in the past. The approach offers some positive incentives."

However, Hollister opposed killing the proposed 3 percent increase in benefits because the grants are inadequate and have not kept up with inflation.

Other professions are granted raises in keeping with inflation, and the amount of money given to the poor should follow the same guidelines, he said.

THE PLAN'S major elements include:

- AFDC households would lose grant amounts for children ages 6-19 who do not have attendance records each semester of at least 80 percent, unless ill. DeGrow said the policy would give welfare parents an incentive to take a greater interest in the children's education, and set an early pattern of regular attendance.

- A voucher for two years' tuition at a community college (average in-district rates are about $700 a year) for low-income persons under 20 who complete high school without getting pregnant or fathering a child.

A $2,000 voucher for tuition at a four-year college would be provided to those who then complete the community college program. Persons in the program would continue to receive Medicaid coverage.

DeGrow said the incentives would give welfare children a reason not to become a parent and to attend college. The program would be inapplicable in 1987-88, but would cost $1.5 million in 1988-89 before leveling off at about $2 million in 1990-91.

- A $1,000 cash payment for AFDC persons under age 20 who complete high school, find employment in one year and remain working for two years. Medicaid benefits would continue to be provided. The estimated cost in 1987-88 is $1.2 million, leveling off at about $9 million in 1990-91.

• A bonus of up to $100 to Department of Social Services employees for each welfare recipient they help place in unsubsidized jobs. Annual costs are estimated at $750,000, beginning in 1989-90.

The writer is executive director of the Michigan Press Association.

Sleuths Librarians track down elusive information

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Librarians, it seems, have heard it all.

During the course of a typical working day, librarians handle plenty of reference questions. Some of those questions are, to say the least, a bit unusual, other queries are more down-to-earth.

Carol Kuchta, an adult services librarian at the Canton Public Library, has heard her share of offbeat questions. Her colleagues at the library have also handled their share of unusual queries.

"We do have a lot of interesting questions. Most of them we can find."

The things that inquiring minds want to know run the gamut. There was, for example, the library patron who wanted to know what sound a rhinoceros makes. The librarians weren't able to answer that one.

"We've answered a lot of these, but not all of them." The librarians also weren't able to find out how to determine the age of a turtle.

ANOTHER CANTON Public Library patron asked if any nudist camps were located in Michigan.

"I think we answered that one," Kuchta said with a chuckle.

The librarians in Canton were able to answer the question about what a group of hippos is known as. The answer? A "school."

Yet another patron wanted to know where dragonfly nymphs could be purchased.

"That's baby dragonflies, I think."

The librarians also didn't have information readily available on how to build a dogsled. They didn't have an address on file for Kermit the Frog — although they were able to give the address of Jim Henson, creator of the Muppets.

A query about the dimensions of the Alaskan pipeline was one the librarians did find the answer for. The question of "How to you build a model bridge out of toothpicks?" is yet another of the slightly more unusual ones.

"We've had that a couple of times," Kuchta said.

The librarians at the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth also get their share of unusual questions. There was, for example, the young patron who wanted to know about "brian shrimp."

The librarians thought the youngster was referring to a person with the first name of Brian; it turned out to be "brine shrimp" instead.

"The child had heard Brian," said Pam Rawlinson, deputy director of the Dunning-Hough Library.

"Once we realized the error of our ways, we thought it was a little humorous."

ANOTHER TIME, a student at the library in Plymouth had a school project to do on "medieval manure." It turned out the actual assignment was on a "medieval manor."

One child at the library in Plymouth was looking for a book for her mom. The subject of that elusive book was "how to get rich before the age of 35."

Sometimes, the librarians feel a bit like sleuths as they go searching for that needed piece of information.

"There are so many sources to look for things," Rawlinson said.

Questions about stock reports and other financial information are common ones at the Dunning-Hough Library. A number of patrons also ask if certain books are available at the library.

"Our computers really help us with that now." The computers help keep track of what materials the library in Plymouth has and if those items are on the shelves or checked out.

The computers can also be used to track down books or other items not in the Plymouth library; those items may be available through the Wayne-Oakland Library Federation.

IN SOME cases, the patron has a bit of trouble explaining just what it is he or she is after.

"A lot of people have trouble asking you what they really want," the Canton Public Library's Kuchta said. In those cases, the librarians end up playing "20 questions," trying to ascertain just what it is the patron's after.

"You have to make sure that you have it clear in your mind," the librarian said. "A lot of people just need some direction."

Some library patrons will describe an unfamiliar item over the telephone and ask the librarians just what it is.

"It's kind of hard," Kuchta said. "You can't see it."

Librarians get some questions from people doing crossword puzzles; trivia questions are also common ones.

"So you can get some really off-the-wall things."

Library science students take courses in general reference work and in more specialized subject areas, Kuchta said. That, however, is a far cry from having the day-to-day responsibility of answering reference questions, often, time constraints exist particularly when the library is busy.

THE QUESTIONS librarians respond to vary from season to season. School assignments have a lot to do with the questions librarians get from the younger patrons.

"Right now, we have a lot of questions on Michigan history," Kuchta said. Some of the questions asked about Michigan history in this sesquicentennial year are a bit obscure.

Questions about Indians are common in the fall when students do class assignments on Indians. Some class assignments are related to specific holidays, such as Columbus Day.

This time of year, the librarians also get tax questions. Although they can't answer those specific questions, librarians can refer the patrons to sources of help. Tax forms are also available in the libraries.

The Canton Public Library staff answers some 3,300 questions in a month.

"That's an average for the last couple of months," Kuchta said. "We record every question that we're asked."

For questions they can't answer, librarians at both facilities can refer patrons to more specialized libraries or to other sources of information. One time, Kuchta called the Department of Interior in Colorado to find out how may buffalo existed in the U.S. at that time.

"We finally got the answer on that one."

At the Dunning-Hough Library, librarians get approximately 75 to 100 questions per week. The librarians don't keep track of general questions such as "Do you have any

Cataract surgery has benefits, risks

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Cataract surgery isn't for every one.

To begin with, it's important to make sure the patient actually has a cataract.

"You should always be sure of that," said Dr. William Myers, an ophthalmologist and director of the Michigan Eye Institute in Southfield.

A second and even a third opinion is a good idea if you're not sure a cataract exists. Myers told those at Monday night's meeting of the Plymouth Business and Professional Women.

Number two, it should bother the patient.

Not all patients are bothered by deteriorating eyesight. Some patients have jobs where they need improved eyesight, a pilot for example, will need better vision than a nursing home resident would.

If they don't have a problem, I don't have a problem.

Myers, who has a branch office on Canton Center Road in Canton, discussed cataract surgery during a Monday night Plymouth BPW program. He showed slides on cataract surgery and answered questions at the meeting held at the Hillside Inn in Plymouth.

THE DOCTOR, who received a medical degree from the University of Michigan, completed his internship and ophthalmology residency at the Detroit Medical Center. He is a diplomate, American Board of Ophthalmology, and a fellow of the American Academy of Ophthalmology.

Often, people first consider having cataract surgery when they find they can no longer pass their driver's test, Myers said.

"Many people come in because they couldn't pass the test."

It's also important to be sure that removing the cataract will improve things. Myers said. A number of tests can be done to determine if surgery will improve things, and if the eye is healthy enough to tolerate surgery.

A cataract exists when the lens in the eye becomes cloudy. A number of things can cause cataracts, according to Myers.

A blow to the eye area can lead to cataracts; boxers, for example, have a disproportionate number of cataracts. Some drugs, such as steroids, can also lead to cataracts.

But usually it's just a matter of living long enough.

Eyesight deteriorates to a certain extent with age, an ophthalmologist can generally tell the approximate age of a patient simply by checking the patient's eyesight.

It's also to decide how or when to change the lens.

TREATMENT OF cataracts has undergone many changes over the years. Myers told those at the Plymouth BPW meeting. In years gone by, surgeons would poke the lens back into place.

That procedure I understand had limited appeal, even in those days.

The thick glasses given at one time to cataract patients weren't much help.

They were horrible devices. The glasses didn't do much to improve the eyesight of patients wearing them.

Lens implants have been around for more than 40 years, although they've seen many improvements in recent years. The lens, most often, is implanted behind the iris, where God told us we should put it.

The lens goes out behind the iris, removes the natural eye, Myers said.

A membrane is left behind the lens to help hold it in place. The membrane can become cloudy and thus impair vision.

Laser equipment can be used to make a hole in the membrane and thus improve the patient's vision. The use of such equipment can, however, damage the lens.

Improvements in the design of the curved lens have allowed doctors to make such an opening in the membrane without damaging the lens.

RESEARCH IS being done into the use of different materials for the implants, Myers said. Use of silicone has been suggested as a possible improvement.

There are many other things that can be done to improve vision, Myers said. Some of these include contact lenses, bifocals, and glasses.

There are also many things that can be done to prevent cataracts, Myers said. Some of these include wearing sunglasses, avoiding smoking, and avoiding alcohol.

WE MAKE HOUSE CALLS!

Sound old fashioned? Maybe so . . . but that's the way we feel about helping you solve your decorating problems. Here at our Gallery, we think your ideas should have the same kind of warm professional and personal attention folks expected from their family doctor in the good old days.

We're ready to see the problem through your eyes, right in your own home, whether you're looking for a single chair, new draperies or a decorating plan for an entire room or home. If you're uncertain about your choice of a lamp, an area rug, a picture or any other decorative accessory, we'll be glad to make a "house call" . . . happy to come to your home by appointment. We'll not only bring along some ideas . . . we'll bring some things with us in our "buggy" so you see how they look right there in your home.

Most old fashioned of all . . . our "house calls" are complimentary. Just ask one of our design experts for the story.

Council plans a celebration

The Detroit Area Council, Camp Fire Girls and Boys, is celebrating its 75th anniversary with a variety of activities.

The celebration activities will include a balloon lift-off beginning at noon Saturday, March 21, at Ford Field in Livonia. Approximately 100 Camp Fire youngsters will participate.

A birthday celebration is also planned for 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, March 28, at Brighton Mall. Some 75 Camp Fire Girls and Boys will participate in a tent display with a knot-tying exhibition from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, March 29, at Macomb Mall.

"We're inviting the whole community to have fun with Camp Fire and celebrate this special time with us in a big way," said Rick Monroe, the council's public information director.

THE DETROIT Area Council of Camp Fire was founded in 1922. Each year, it serves approximately 4,000 members. It is a Torch Drive agency, receiving a portion of its funding from the United Foundation.

Across the U.S., Camp Fire youngsters are celebrating the agency's birthday with a week of activities and community events. The theme of the March celebration is "Camp Fire Is Big Fun!"

Camp Fire Inc. is a national not-for-profit youth organization serving some 400,000 girls and boys of all ages. Its headquarters are in Kansas City, Mo.

Early signs of anorexia

AP — As many as one in 100 young women suffers from a serious eating disorder called anorexia nervosa, according to the University of Rochester.

Though early detection and treatment would lessen its harm, researchers say that has been difficult because early-stage symptoms mimic those of other physical or emotional problems.

Two researchers at the university have studied anorexics and their families, however, and have found anorexics tend to come from families that are more conflict-ridden, yet less emotionally expressive, than normal.

"Parents often put high expectations on children, explicitly or implicitly," say psychologists Jaime Strauss and Richard Ryan.

PCAC offers scholarships

The Plymouth Community Arts Council is offering three scholarships for outstanding local students.

A total of $1,000 is available through the Jeanet M. Allison Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp Scholarship. The money is available to Plymouth-Canton students who will attend Blue Lake this summer.

The awards are given in art, dance, music and theater; applicants will be judged on performance. Applications are available at the schools and at the Plymouth Community Arts Council office. The deadline is Friday, April 3. Auditions will be held Saturday, April 11.

The Jeanette Winkler Hulce Award has $750 available. The money is for any graduating senior with exceptional ability in the arts who plans to pursue advanced education in that chosen field.

THE DEADLINE for applying is Friday, April 3. Auditions will be held Saturday, April 11. Applications are available from counseling offices at the high schools and at the PCAC office.

The Margaret E. Wilson Scholarship has $500 available for those in the performing arts. The scholarship is available each year for a student who plans to pursue a career in the performing arts. Applicants will be judged on talent rather than on financial need.

Graduating seniors living in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district who have been accepted into an appropriate professional program may apply. The applicant may be a graduate of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, regardless of year of graduation, or a resident of the school district interested in pursuing a performing arts career.

That can include acceptance into a course of private study with an accredited teacher/coach. The deadline to apply is Tuesday, March 31.

Applications for the Plymouth Community Arts Council scholarships are available at area schools and at the PCAC office, 332 S. Main, Plymouth.

For additional information, call 455-5260. Hours are 9 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday and from 3 to 5 p.m. on Friday, April 3.

moral perspectives

Rev. Robert Schaden

Main question forgotten in surrogate parenting

ANY CHILD who has attempted to run full-speed downhill knows how easily we can overrun ourselves. If you ever did that you know how it goes. At first it is thrilling. The power, the speed, the rush of the air all combine for an unmatched exhilaration.

But then something happens. The wind waters our eyes making it difficult to see where we are going. Our legs outrun our sense of direction and even our desire to stop. We lose control of what we began. What started out as a thrill ends up as a skinned knee.

This downhill run of a child provides an apt metaphor for at least some of our scientific breakthroughs. This is certainly not intended to cast aspersions on science or on discovery but we have been known to overrun ourselves.

The latest skinned knee to come to light is in the area of genetic engineering. Surrogate parenthood is on its way to becoming as common as day-care centers. Of course there are some benefits to be gained from what we have learned to do. Genetic engineering has surely opened doors to the possibility of healthier babies and help for couples wishing to be parents.

RECENT EVENTS DO, however, suggest that we may again have overrun ourselves. We have learned to preserve sperm. We have learned how to fertilize a human ovum in test tube or in the womb, bypassing human intercourse in either case. And now we are asking the questions.

Whose baby is it anyway? Does it belong to the surrogate or to the contracting parents? What if one or both of the contracting couple dies before the birth — then who is responsible for the child? And if the child is defective? Can the contracting couple refuse delivery or order an abortion? In the case of a premature birth, at what point is the child delivered over to the contracting parents? And if such child does not make it, whose funeral is it?

These are just some of the questions that have been raised in discussions prompted by recent developments.

But we seem to have overrun ourselves as much in the questioning as we have in the technology. The most basic question of all has seemingly been left. Who is a child?

IN ALL the legal talk of whose rights are whose, and in much of the talk-show discussion, the child has seemingly been relegated to a possession of sorts, a piece of property. We hear about the "right" to have a child as if the child were a toy, a new car or a vegetable garden. We hear about contracts and contingencies as if we were dealing in a commodity.

Amid the emotion we are told that men and women have a right to have a child as a means of fulfilling themselves. "Without a child I am no one!" one woman was heard to say. A would-be father hailed the process of surrogate parenting as a means to alleviate the agony of men who otherwise feel incomplete.

One can at least wonder about the suitability for parenthood for those who come to it out of such emptiness. Such attempts at fulfillment bear a frightening similarity to those who enter marriage "to become complete." The divorce courts are scattered with the debris of such thinking because the fulfillment didn't happen. How does one divorce a child?

Child and teenage suicide is alarmingly on the rise. If the message is going out that children are commodities, it isn't any wonder that they feel the pain of inadequacy.

If infants to be are seen primarily as sources of fulfillment can we hope to see them any differently as they grow to maturity? One is left to wonder what will be taking place in tomorrow's psychotherapy offices if we cannot face the most challenging question of the whole genetic engineering business: Who is a child?

The Rev. Robert Schaden is the head of campus ministry at the Newman House at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

JOB 1?

With the push on for quality in the automobile industry, marketing firms are tracking owner satisfaction levels based on such factors as style, fit and finish, engine performance, fuel economy, comfort, luggage room, acceleration and brake response.

By Pat Walsh
special writer

Computers have taken market research a long way from the days when the Pietrowski boys sat around the kitchen table with stamps and sponges stuffing auto survey questionnaires into envelopes for their dad's business.

These days Research Data Analysis (RDA) has a room of high-speed mailing machines, computer and data processing equipment and rows of employees conducting telephone surveys or coding survey responses into computer banks in their Bloomfield Hills offices.

RDA is one of the local market research firms whose surveys confirm what internal warranty data is telling auto manufacturers — American car quality has improved. Dave Pietrowski is now director of computer operations for RDA. Brother Don is project director. Along with project director Tom Rose, they spent some time explaining the art and science of automotive quality surveys.

"THE SPEED and memory capabilities of computers, along with the demand for data, make the car the most researched product in history," Rose said.

The standard measurements of quality used in the market research studies are the consumer satisfaction index (scaled 1-10) and "thing gone wrong" per 100 vehicles. Current research surveys show an increase in satisfaction levels for American cars with a corresponding decrease in the number of "things gone wrong."

Satisfaction levels are tracked on numerous performance attributes of car quality. These include style, fit and finish, engine performance, fuel economy, comfort, luggage room, acceleration and brake response. Questions are designed to help locate squeaks and rattles, and differentiate between wind noise and road rush.

Questions are designed to encourage response. In order to dispel reservations about answering the survey, they are generally anonymous and ask for income information in a range rather than exact salary.

"Some people are cynical," Don Piotrowski said. "They think you're looking for a good house to rob."

SURVEYS SEEM to show quality expectations differ between buyers.

"Sometimes the idea of the car as well as the physical characteristics affect an owner's perception of quality. This is true particularly of Japanese cars where the owner's perception of quality exceeds what the data Don Pietrowski, brother Dave, and Tom Rose of Research Data Analysis check the results of their latest automotive survey. "The speed and memory capabilities of computers, along with the demand for data, make the car the most researched product in history," Rose said.

actually shows."

Generally a manufacturer contracts for a study of an entire class of similar cars — for example, all economy cars. Surveys do not cross lines so that Lincolns are not compared with Escorts. In this way, human elements are filtered out in the structure of the survey. While buyer qualities are important, their analysis is left to demographic and psychogenic studies.

In order to achieve statistical validity, there must be sufficient sampling. Surveys typically generate slightly better than a 50 percent response rate. That's considered sufficient, and analysts don't concern themselves overly with non-respondents.

"Some studies have looked at the satisfaction level and characteristics of non-respondents," Rose said. "The studies show that their overall satisfaction level highly corresponds with survey respondents."

WHILE SOME individuals require coaxing to encourage participation, others respond with interest and enthusiasm, eager to recount the details of such a major purchase. Responses range from the highly satisfied to the highly dissatisfied. RDA sometimes receives "checks and $10 bills accompanying the returned survey, expressing an owner's satisfaction with the product," Don Piotrowski said. They are returned.

In contrast, Dave tells the story of one respondent who wrote that her husband was in prison for shooting the dealership service manager.

Established as a combined community college/PIC venture, the cooperative will provide free training, placement and employment services to business from centers at the William D. Ford Vocational Technical Center, 36455 Marquette in Westland, and the western campus of Wayne County Community College, 9555 Haggerty in Belleville.

"This is basically an expansion of the program at Schoolcraft," PIC executive director Barry Hawthorne said. "The concept has worked so well that we're expanding to other colleges and universities in our area."

"The community colleges do excellent training so it was just natural for PIC to bring in the resources to supplement what they're doing."

With one of its biggest successes coming in the airline field, PIC is looking to the WCCC facility adjacent to Detroit Metropolitan Airport to continue that success. PIC, through Schoolcraft College, helped Republic Airlines (now Northwest) staff and train employees when it opened a reservation and sales center in Livonia in 1985.

Hawthorne said "major emphasis will be placed on the airline industry to encourage its development and expansion." PIC has trained more than 1,300 airline employees. Most recently, Northwest Airlines hired 280 persons through PIC. Many had been left jobless when General Motors' Leaseway Warehouse in Westland closed.

PIC has provided airline industry training in such areas as customer relations, sales, employee attitude, team management, image-building, lifting techniques, defensive driving and handling of hazardous materials.

HAWTHORNE SEES PIC as forming a "partnership between education and the private sector in delivering job training services to business."

By opening a center at WCCC's western campus near Detroit Metropolitan Airport, PIC is emphasizing its ability to offer recruitment and training services to the airline industry.

"If a business is expanding or considering moving here, we would customize our training around the employer's needs," Hawthorne calls PIC's offerings a "one-stop approach" in aiding the employer.

"We can customize the screening of employees, customize recruitment of employees or perform an assessment of present employer's skills."

Once a new employer has his workforce in place, PIC will design on-the-job training and assist in finding funding to pay for the training. Classroom or on-site training is provided to existing employers through the educational facilities.

PIC will open another center at University of Michigan-Dearborn this spring. Long-term plans call for UM-D to offer a master's degree in airline administration. Present training programs can lead to a certificate of completion and may be applied as college credits.

But not all of PIC's successes are airline-related. Hawthorne said PIC had just completed a program for a steel coating company in Dearborn and is looking to set up programs in area auto plants.

PIC administers money from the Job Training and Placement Act of 1982 designed to retrain low-income and unemployed workers to industry standards.

Hawthorne can be reached at 261-3420.

Allison-Deere merger on hold

The merger of Detroit Diesel Allison and John Deere & Co., once announced for April 1, is now beset by uncertainty.

Negotiations between the UAW and Detroit Deere Corp. (DEDEC) — the proposed merger of Redford Township-based Diesel Allison and Deere — have been suspended.

But a Diesel Allison spokeswoman said merger plans continue.

Rumors have spread that Diesel Allison, a division of General Motors, wouldn't be merging with Deere.

"The joint venture isn't off,"

DEDEC, he said, would be a management company only. The caller also said that both companies would have to prove the merger would be profitable.

"GM didn't like what they saw," he said.

Originally announced for Jan. 1, the merger date had been pushed back until April 1. Kangas said a new date hasn't been announced.

Two weeks ago, Diesel Allison and Deere officials jointly unveiled the Series 60 truck engine, the proposed company's first product. No UAW representatives were present at the unveiling.

agencies are not involved in the merger.

A caller identifying himself as a Diesel Allison employee said he was informed Tuesday that the merger wouldn't occur as planned.

The man, who refused to give his name, said that he was told hourly workers would remain GM employees while salaried workers would serve as consultants to Deere.

DEDEC, he said, would be a man-

Commute to UM-Dearborn and save thousands of dollars

A quality education doesn't have to be expensive

At nationally prominent private institutions, the cost of earning a four-year degree, including room and board, can exceed $12,000 a year.

At comparable public residential campuses in Michigan, the cost for one year of college averages $6,000.

The University of Michigan-Dearborn's total costs, including tuition, fees, transportation, and books, are $3,500 a year.

Students can commute to UM-D, take advantage of high academic standards, and still participate in the numerous cultural, intellectual, athletic, and recreational opportunities on campus, in the metropolitan area, and at U-M Ann Arbor.

Money saved by living at home can provide the resources to pay for these enriching opportunities. These savings can also make the next step to graduate or professional study a lot easier.

To learn more about UM-D, call for a prospectus and an appointment for a confidential admissions evaluation.

A good name means a lot to a new business

The number of management decisions facing the new small business owner can be staggering. This is especially true for companies starting out at zero momentum.

But there are some basic decisions that demand careful thought and consideration as they may have significant effect on a company's future success or lack of it.

One of these decision areas relates to deciding on or developing the right name for the organization.

What's in a name? In a word — plenty.

ACCORDING TO Ira Buchrach, president of NAMELAB (developers of the Acura divisional name for Honda Motors), there are a number of dos and don'ts the entrepreneur should be made aware of before choosing a name for his or her enterprise.

First, the name you select should provide information. Many entrepreneurs use their own first or last name when naming their business.

This practice, known as eponymy, does nothing to inform current or potential customers about what the business is or does. Further, customers may resent not being able to do business directly with the owner if focus: small business

the company provides professional services and the owner is not actively involved.

A NAME should get attention, arouse interest and be easy to remember among current and potential customers. Which children's clothing store sticks in your mind — "Mary's Fashions" or "Kidz Kloz?"

Of course, there are entrepreneurs that have gone to new heights in their attempt to come up with a business name that gets attention.

"Revival of the Fittest" isn't an aerobics studio but rather a kitchenware store (if you can figure that one out!).

This leads to the next guideline in business name development — try to select a name that doesn't work against you by confusing prospective customers as to what you do.

The potential customers that never walk into your store may far outnumber those who remember your name but forgot what it is that you do.

ADDITIONAL GUIDELINES include avoiding names that tie your business to a particular geographic location. What will "Fourth Street Florist" do when it comes time to move?

Also, avoid trendy names that may become out of date. "Totally Awesome" is one business name (in California, of course) that illustrates this point.

Last, but not least, be sure that the name you select isn't already being used by another business within your area of operation.

Next week's column will discuss the facts and fallacies associated with protecting a company's business name.

IRA rules are understandable in spite of tax reform

By Sid Mittra
special writer

Thanks to the Tax Reform Act of 1986, the IRA market is thoroughly confused. Just at the time we were beginning to feel comfortable about making our IRA contributions routinely, the new law threw a monkey wrench into the IRA tax deductibility rules.

The new buzz words are: "Covered by Pension Plan," "Income Lower than the Maximum Amount" and "Co-mingling Rules."

First thing first: 1986 IRA

For 1986, my advice is simple: Go For It!

The tax law has in no way affected the deductibility of 1986 IRA contributions, and the old law still applies. You can still make a fully deductible contribution of $2,000 apiece, or up to $2,250 for a one-income couple.

Remember, though, that you must make your contributions by April 15, even if you are granted an extension for filing your tax return.

1987 IRA: no pension plan

If you are not covered by any company retirement plan, the old rules still hold and you need not worry about the new IRA rules.

One important caveat: Even if your spouse participates in a company retirement plan and you do not, the law assumes that you are covered by a pension plan and the new rules apply to you.

1987 IRA: income tax

If you are covered by a company plan, then the following rules apply to you.

If you are single and earn less than $25,000, your IRA contribution is fully deductible. If you make $25,000-$35,000, it is partially deductible. If you make more than $35,000, your contribution is not deductible against your current income.

If you are married filing jointly and earn less than $40,000, your IRA contribution is fully deductible. If you make $40,000-$50,000, it is partially deductible. If you make more than $50,000, your contribution is not deductible against your current income.

Clearly, if you are single/married and have an income of more than $35,000/$50,000 you are not allowed to deduct your IRA contributions from your taxable income.

If your adjusted gross income is $25,000-$35,000 ($40,000-$50,000 on a joint return), you still get some deduction, but you lose $1 worth of deduction for every extra $5 you earn.

For instance, a single taxpayer with $37,619 in adjusted gross income is entitled to a $680 ($676 rounded off to $680) deduction. If he contributes $2,000, the remaining $1,320 will not be deductible.

Next week: More on IRAs.

tions to Old Financial Problems Under the New Tax Law." The seminar, sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Coordinated Financial Planning Inc., will be held 7-

"Obviously she was not completely satisfied."

Rose explains that respondents can gain a more subtle, if less satisfying, sense of satisfaction by knowing that the survey can serve as a report card for the manufacturers.

"PEOPLE CAN affect quality by answering the survey. You can get back at the manager of the plant that built your lemon by mailing in the survey."

Surveys can affect worker compensation and plant manager bonuses when they demonstrate that defects are directly related to the quality of work at one plant of origin over another.

Questions on how dealerships handle the warranty can affect the likelihood that a particular dealer will get corporate funding for future dealerships. This is why some dealerships, wishing to be remembered fondly, send the new car owner off with a full tank of gas.

TIMING IS A critical element of survey design. Most new car buyers are surveyed three months after they've taken delivery of the vehicle. The aim is for the owner to have some experience with the car but for the delivery experience and immediate problems to be fresh in the owner's memory.

Another market research company, Product and Consumer Evaluation, PACE, of Farmington Hills, is just getting off the ground studies for the 1987 model year. According to Doc Druckenmiller, PACE vice president of analytical research, the January to March buyer is favored by market researchers.

"There's something different about early buyers," Druckenmiller said. "People who buy immediately are somewhat different in terms of demographics. More affluent. Middle model year sees mainstream buyers. Bargain-hunters come at the end of the year."

IN ADDITION to surveys, market research companies conduct focus groups and clinics for the auto industry, assisting in the development of new car programs and sometimes the resolution of old problems by bringing together diverse factions of the industry, such as engineers and dealers. Other focus groups augment existing data, test advertising themes, or simply look for direction going into an advertising or survey program.

Focus groups usually take place in a conference room with one mirrored wall behind which there is a tiered viewing room to permit monitoring or videotaping of the sessions. Moderators direct conversation between participants toward the "focus" of the interest company.

Clinics usually take place in larger arenas where 10 or 20 cars are "graded" by perhaps 100 participants in the course of a week-end.

BUT HERE in the Detroit area, residents seldom have the opportunity to participate in these kinds of studies. "Detroit is too closely connected to the auto industry," RDA's Rose said. "There is too much inside information for unbiased participation."

Valery Utley, a PACE vice president, explained that screening focus group participants is expensive. "You have to screen through 100 or more people just to find one qualified respondent that doesn't have anything to do with the auto industry. In addition you have to screen out for advertising, publications, television and auto suppliers."

Florence Lacey has become familiar with the life and character of Evita Peron, from playing the charismatic First Lady of Argentina in many productions and from reading books about Evita's rise from poverty to politics as the wife of Juan Peron. This is Lacey's third visit to the metropolitan area in the musical "Evita." Previously, she appeared in two touring companies that played Detroit's Masonic Temple. The show runs through Sunday, April 12, at the Birmingham Theatre.

choreographer Kenneth W. Urmston: While Lacey's voice is not as operatic as that of earlier Evitas, she has great emotional range and brings a high degree of credibility to the role. As Eva's health declines, Lacey does a remarkable job of visibly shrinking and withering.

By Barbara Michals
special writer

Featuring Webber and Rice's most melodious, hummable songs, "Evita" at the Birmingham Theatre remains a dynamic musical well worth a first visit or a repeat viewing. It's a serious show, far different from the composers' other hits.

"Evita" chronicles the rise and fall of Eva Peron, wife of Argentina dictator Juan Peron, from an impoverished teenager to the most powerful woman in Latin American history. The play's dramatic strength is that it manages to humanize Eva Peron without ever glorifying or even whitewashing her.

Florence Lacey in the title role and Philip Hernandez as Che, the caustic narrator, deliver strong, passionate performances. They are backed by a polished company under the direction of John H. Lowe III and OFTEN DESCRIBED as a woman who seduced an entire nation, Eva hypnotized the impoverished masses into venerating her as a near-saint while she lived like royalty and socked away public funds in private Swiss bank accounts.

Having slept her way to the top, she never understood why the upper classes rejected her. Nor could she understand why her body failed her when she was so near the peak of her political ambition.

As Che, the rebellious voice of reason, Hernandez's expressive face serves him equally well whether he is doing some engaging clowning or denouncing the Perons with fiery rhetoric.

"She didn't say much, but she said it loud," sings Che, summing up Eva as a consummate actress merging

'Evita's' star Florence Lacey plays stellar role

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

MEETING FLORENCE Lacey for the first time, backstage at the Birmingham Theatre, you notice there's not much resemblance to the dynamic character she plays onstage — Evita Peron. Perhaps the only thing they have in common is the platinum-blond hair.

A pretty, composed actress, with a slender face, Lacey has starred as Evita on Broadway and in three national companies of the international musical hit. She went from red hair — which she tucked under a blonde wig in the second act during an earlier tour visiting Detroit — to her present, flowing blonde tresses.

"I got tired of wearing the second-act wig," she said. She went blonde and "my agent liked it, and my husband liked it."

Lacey is married to Timothy Stella, whom she met on tour when they first did the show in Detroit. That's one reason she has fond memories of the city where "Evita" played the Masonic Temple twice, in 1982 and 1984.

"WE GOT wonderful reviews," she said. "We were very full of ourselves. We had champagne parties in my dressing room for three months. I don't think we missed a night."

Lacey is relaxed and earnest. Instead of being tired of talking about Argentina's famous, controversial First Lady, who was the wife of dictator Juan Peron, she's full of information regarding Evita.

The Broadway musical star has read seven biographies about Evita, seen two documentaries and carries Evita's autobiography on the road with her, constantly rereading it.

Lacey is strongly sympathetic to the character of Evita. She tries onstage to let the naive and vulnerable show, along with the powerful drive that propelled Evita from the slums of Argentina to the "Big Apple," Buenos Aires, where she met Peron and rose with him to dominate the country.

ASKED WHAT she thought of Faye Dunaway's interpretation of Evita (as a cruel and vengeful leader) in the 1981 television movie "Evita Peron," she hesitated before replying. "I think that was pretty one-dimensional. I don't think this was a one-dimensional woman."

"I think she was a woman ahead of her time."

But she doesn't believe her portrait of Evita overemphasizes good qualities.

"You see a great deal of her hard and cold, calculating edge. She was hard because she was a vulnerable girl trying to compete in this man's society. She felt she was the only one speaking out for the poor."

In the play, Philip Hernandez as Che Guevara, the narrator, is the voice with a touch of irony that tells the opposite side of the story.

Said Lacey, "There is always the pro and con, which is what makes this such an interesting play, whether you want to be seduced by her. Was she good or evil?"

Although always happy to answer questions about Evita, Lacey doesn't remember all the details about the actress-mistress turned First Lady. "I just remember the emotions of her a lot," she said.

AMONG THE details she does remember is that Evita, who broadcast over the radio, began speaking about Peron before they ever met. "One account said he used to listen to these radio reports and cry."

Peron lost his first wife to cancer, then Evita developed leukemia. After her death, Peron gave her jewelry to young girls.

"Her body was perfectly preserved. The new president had it shipped out of the country and buried. After he was assassinated, the body was shipped to Spain, then brought to Argentina. When Peron died, they were laid in state together, she in a crystal coffin. Now, she's buried in the Duarte plot (the family plot of the middle-class father who rejected her)."

Lacey has appeared in "Evita" in nearly 200 cities. She has played Los Angeles twice on national tours and received the 1984 Hollywood Dramalogue Award on the second tour there. She also has done two Canadian tours with the show.

'Each time a new company is put together I like to do it full out. I see myself as a leader — like Evita — this is serious.'

— Florence Lacey

LACEY WAS born in McKeesport, Pa., and studied acting in Pittsburgh. She started studying voice privately when she was 16. Because she wanted to concentrate on acting, "in college, I kept my singing a secret," she said. "When it was discovered, I've only done musicals."

Lacey has a strikingly dramatic voice (whose quality she ascribes to her ability as an actress). After college, she sang in nightclubs, did an off-Broadway play "Sweet Feet" that lasted nine days, moved to Los Angeles where she lived three years and then toured with Rock Hudson in "John Brown's Body."

"Rock and I became good friends," she said. "He introduced me to Jerry Herman, composer of 'Hello, Dolly!' Six months later, I got my big break in the revival of 'Hello, Dolly!'"

Lacey also got a Theatre World Award for her Broadway debut as Irene Malloy, in the musical starring Carol Channing.

Remembering Hudson, she said, "He saw me do 'Evita' about six times in Los Angeles. He always brought famous people. The last time I saw him was at the opening of 'Evita' in Los Angeles. He looked wonderful. Almost a year later, I found out he had AIDS."

LACEY AND husband Timothy were married in November and live in Redding, Conn.

Stella has been with Lacey as musical director on most of her playdates for "Evita." Currently, he's in New York, working on a new show, "Legs Diamond."

At the beginning of "Evita," Lacey appears as the dark-haired, 15-year-old, hot-blooded Eva Duarte. Then she becomes a blonde and an actress and meets Peron.

The song that Lacey believes is most crucial to her characterization of Evita is "I'd Be Surprisingly Good for You" ("when she seduces Peron"), which she and Peron sing when they meet at a charity concert.

"We see the political and sexual manipulation," she said. "It shows her calculating quality and also the girl side of her."

Although she has played the part many times before, "Each time a new company is put together I like to do it full out," she said. "I see myself as a leader — like Evita. I need to show people how serious this is."

politics and show business (and long before such a merger was fashionable).

Similarly, Peron understands and capitalizes on Eva's appeal to the poor. "She is a diamond in their dull, gray lives," he sings, and her glamor "takes us away from the squalor of the real world."

JOHN LESLIE Wolfe is a smooth, self-possessed Peron. In the rhythmic duet "I'd Be Surprisingly Good for You," Juan and Eva seize upon the potential use each can make of the other.

Kenneth McMullen as Magaldi has a pleasing voice in "Oh This Night of a Thousand Stars," but looks too wholesome to be the oily pop singer who forms the first rung on Eva's ladder to success.

As Peron's previous mistress, petite Lyn Vaux is a delicate wail who evokes sympathy with "Another Suitcase in Another Hall."

The glorious songs in "Evita" make strong statements. "The Art of the Possible" reduces politics to a game of musical chairs as Peron jostles for power. The spirited "A New Argentina" fairly bursts with irony as the masses hope they will finally get a fair deal from the new regime. And of course there's the plaintive "Don't Cry for Me Argentina," rendered by Lacey with rich layers of meaning.

Revival retains play's strength

By Cathie Breidenbach special writer

Cockroaches and domestic violence suffer from the same mistaken prejudice: People think that only poor, uncivilized folk are plagued by them.

Four years ago when the Actors Alliance Theatre Company of Southfield first produced Nancy Beckett's unsettling play, "The Women Here Are No Different," "nice" people had just begun to face the reality that all kinds of women — rich as well as poor, college grads as well as dropouts — can fall victim to violence at the hands of men.

In "The Women Here Are No Different," seven women weave together the stories of what drove each of them to find sanctuary in a shelter for battered women. The current revival of the play brings the same probing honesty and sensitivity to the problem of domestic violence as the first production did in 1983.

The original "Women" was staged at the theater/gym of the Lycee International where the audience sat just a few feet from the actresses. The revival takes place at the Smith Theatre at Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills. The traditional stage keeps the audience separated from the players.

THE NEW STAGING gains the relief of perspective but loses some of the original's emotional impact. Minor rewrites in the script cut one non-essential character and improve the structure of the play, which struggles to bring a unified focus to the lives of seven battered women precariously united while they try to launch new lives.

The 1987 cast returns four of the fine original players to their former roles. Divina Cook brings a stoic pain to the role of Ruth, a frumpy farm woman on the run. Dakunah DeLaney recreates her role as the sassy, vital Dorothy, a survivor with four kids, and Annette DePetris returns as affluent Theresa from the suburbs, a wishful thinker and self-deceiver. Finally, Laurie Logan recreates her role as the compassionate Jeanette, a middle-aged wife suddenly on her own.

Three top-notch new cast members include Mirim Yezbick as the footloose Claire, who's only 19 and already a victim; Liz Zweifler, who brings a touching vulnerability to the role of Laurie, a woman locked in a cycle of love and hate, and Jan Radcliffe as Pat, the advocate running the center who knows better than to dole out platitudes or simplistic solutions.

Cathie Breidenbach of West Bloomfield has always loved theater. A former high-school English teacher, she works in public relations, advertising and as a freelance writer.

Lippizanners, opera and the Danube

It was a beautiful summer afternoon in Vienna. We had started the day with the Lippizaner horses at the Spanish Riding School and we would end it with "Carmen" at the State Opera House. In between those two memorable experiences, we rode a bus out of the city to lunch at a castle overlooking the Danube.

We missed the Vienna Boys Choir, but you can't do everything in a day.

The Lippizanners, opera house and castle are all survivors of the Austro-Hungarian empire, which included parts of modern-day Spain, Germany, Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Italy. The empire of the Hapsburg family ended abruptly with World War I, reducing it overnight to the small alpine republic of Austria.

To appreciate such a colorful Sunday visit to one of the world's most beautiful cities, you must picture the Inner Stadt or Inner City, where stylish 20th century Viennese stroll past the historic buildings encircled by the Ringstrasse, a circular road built on the site of the old city walls.

The heartbeat of the old city is the complex of palace buildings called the Hofburg; at the back of it, facing one another across a courtyard, are the royal stables and the imperial riding hall, home of the Spanish Riding School, and the Burgkapelle or castle chapel, home of the Vienna Boys Choir.

If you are farsighted enough to order tickets in advance for these events, you may someday join the eager Sunday crowds pressing through the doors.

THE SPANISH RIDING SCHOOL, home of Vienna's famous Lippizaner horses, has been tradition since the 16th century when Spanish horses were first trained at Lippizza, in what is now Yugoslavia. Only horses of Spanish origin were used because of their strength, intelligence and nobility.

There is no fanfare when the Lippizaner horses, with their uniformed riders, come silently into the riding hall, no recognition of the hundreds of spectators leaning over the two red-rimmed balconies that run around the 180-foot-long hall with its white pillars and carved ceiling.

They ride in between two flags, hats raised towards the emperor's box as they move in slow motion under three great crystal chandeliers. The spectators do not sit in fixed seats, as they would do in a theater; a few sit on loose wooden chairs but most stand at the balcony rails as noblemen stood for this equestrian presentation for centuries.

Only the noble families could enter the hall in the days of the empire, but now the Sunday morning spectators are families and tourists, some in Sunday shirts and ties, others in summer skirts and slacks.

There are seven scenes played out on the great raked rectangle of earth, in a setting that looks more like an opera house than a stable. The young grey stallions come first and the four white mature Lippizanners follow with the steps and movements of the classical school.

Chief Rider Kottas and Rider Riegler lead Favory Alea I and Pluto Capriola in a Pas de Deux, a dance for two, and then the short and long rein demonstrations begin. If you are familiar with equestrian shows, you will understand the quadrilles and the "short hand rein between the pillars." The rest of us are simply mesmerized by horses that stand on their hind legs, or make controlled leaps, but most of all by the simple beauty of the event.

The scene before us is exactly like that on the front of the program, a painting which reads "Morning training at the Winter Riding Hall 1890."

While we enjoy the horses, the Weiner Sangerknaben, or Vienna Boys Choir, sing Sunday mass across the courtyard in the chapel of the winter palace. To put that in perspective, remember that the young Joseph Hayden once sang in the Vienna Boys Choir.

Tourists are not the only ones who enjoy these Sunday pleasures. According to the Viennese people I spoke to, Sunday has traditionally included the choir, the riding school, lunch or coffee at the famous Konditorei Demel, an afternoon snooze and then the opera.

It is very difficult to get tickets to these events, although there are always some available through your hotel concierge or at the ticket stalls along the streets. Locals take a chance on a cancellation and sometimes buy tickets near the door at black market prices, but most of them write to their overseas friends and ask them to write to Vienna for tickets!

Don't miss these wonderful of tried-and-true attractions even if you must pay more on the spot, but try to write ahead for tickets if you can. Vienna Boys Choir, Verwaltung der Hofmischkapelle, Hofburg, Schweizerhof, 1010 Vienna. Spanish Riding School, Spanische Reitschule, Hofburg, Michaelerplatz 1, 1010, Vienna.

WHAT ELSE DO YOU do on a Sunday? Drive out of town, like General George Patton did when he saved the Lippizaner horses by piling them in trucks and driving them across the border to Czechoslovakia.

You can drive across the Danube (In Austria, Vienna is called Wien and the Danube is called the Donau) and look back to the Wienerwald, or Vienna Woods. You can go uphill to the wonderful vineyards and wine cafes of Grinzling on the lower slopes of the Wienerwald.

On weekends the Wieners (or Viennese) hike and picnic in these woods and play in the island of the Danube. There is a like 40 kilometers away in the province of Burgenland, near the Hungarian border. There are also sightseeing tours to the Wachau, the nicest part of the Danube in Austria.

The Viennese say that Prague, in nearby Czechoslovakia, is the most beautiful city in Europe. They are also very fond of Budapest, in nearby Hungary, where they may go to get their teeth fixed or to buy goose livers! You can take tour boats up the Danube from Budapest to Vienna.

Horsemen at Vienna's Spanish Riding School put the famed Lippizaner horses through their paces.

We spent our Sunday afternoon driving along the Danube to the castle hotel at Durnstein. Durnstein is a busy little town in summer, steep streets leading up through vineyards that rise above Danube, crowds of summer shoppers in the narrow winding streets.

Signs point uphill to Schloss Durnstein where King Richard the Lion Hearted was imprisoned 800 years ago; legend says a minstrel found him by going from castle to castle singing the king's favorite song.

Half-way up the hill, we stopped at the Hotel Schloss Durnstein for a wonderful lunch eaten in the garden on a cliff high above the river.

Tourists meander through the steep, narrow streets of Durnstein, a busy little town above the Danube.

Next week: "Vienna and the opera."

Rocks exterminate Monroe in regional

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

The final score was 76-57, but Plymouth Salem's victory against Monroe Wednesday in the semifinals of the Class A regional basketball tournament at Eastern Michigan University's Bowen Field House was no cakewalk.

It was more like a test for extra-strength pesticide: Monroe provided the pests and forced Salem to come up with a bug killer that worked. And Salem didn't come up with it until the fourth quarter.

The Rocks (22-2) will take on Ann Arbor Pioneer at 8:30 p.m. Friday. Salem will be bidding for its first regional championship since 1974. Pioneer upended Romulus 62-60 in the other semifinal game. Donald Vann hit a 15-foot jumper from the corner to decide it.

MONROE, A small-quick team, chased and hounded the taller Rocks up and down the court with an unremitting fury throughout the game. And the pressure bothered Salem, particularly in the first half. The Rocks committed 17 first-half turnovers.

"I think the jitters may have played a role in that," said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "I know we have been here before and this is a senior team, but when you face this kind of pressure at this stage of the season, it's tough. You try to simulate this type of pressure in practice, but it's far different when you face it on the court."

Fortunately for the Rocks, when they did manage to advance the ball into the offensive zone they scored easily. Rick Taylor and Mike Hale combined for 50 points, and most came from inside 10 feet. Hale scored 26 points to lead all scorers.

'I know these guys. When things get tight they just buckle their chin straps and get ready for the next run. There isn't much panic with this group.'

— Bob Brodie
Salem coach

He also had 15 rebounds. Taylor, who scored 24 points, was a perfect 11-for-11 shooting from the floor.

"We made some adjustments at halftime," Brodie said. "We wanted to get the ball upcourt to our big guys against their pressure. Then if they went after our big guys, we could work a give-and-go with Bryan Kearis (Salem's point guard). The key was that Bryan really took charge in the second half."

YET MONROE never gave in to the physically superior Rocks. The Trojans had a two-point lead at three different times in the second quarter and appeared to have the Rocks completely flustered.

"You probably looked for us to call timeouts a couple of times there," Brodie said. "But I know these guys. When things get tight, they just buckle their chin straps and get ready for the next run. There isn't much panic with this group."

The Rocks took a 33-29 lead at halftime thanks to a gritty individual play by Ted Hanosh. The reserve guard drove the length of the court, weaving through Monroe defenders as time was running out, sank the layup and was fouled. Three-point "That really picked us up," Brodie said. "We had the exact opposite thing happen to us here last year against Romulus. They scored right at the end of the half and that hurt us."

BUT THOSE pesky Trojans got within two in the third quarter. Then, with Hale scoring three straight baskets, Salem pulled ahead by 10. Monroe closed the gap to four. Salem could not shake them.

"That's what can happen when you play a team with that kind of pressure," Brodie said. "They can just explode on you. What you have to do is weather the storm and we did that well tonight."

The Rocks applied the lethal pesticide three minutes into the fourth quarter. It should come as no surprise that Hale and Taylor, with a huge assist from Kearis, provided the knock-out punch. In a 12-3 run, both Hale and Taylor scored six points. Kearis dished out three assists (five for the game).

"When the pressure is on, Mike Hale comes to play," Brodie said. "He gets so intense. With him it's win, win, win at all costs. He just wants to win."

As evidence of that, Hale scored 10 points in the final quarter.

"I THOUGHT we played well defensively, especially in the first half," Monroe coach Joe Keifer said. "Probably our biggest problem was that we fired up four, five, six bad shots toward the end that killed us."

Sophomore Willie Jones scored 16 points to pace Monroe. Daron Hoskins added 10. The Trojans finish with a 17-8 record.

The last time Salem played for a regional championship was 1984. The Rocks lost to Detroit Southwestern at EMU that year.

Rick Taylor pitched a perfect game for Plymouth Salem Wednesday night: he connected on all 11 of his shots and scored 24 points against Monroe. His performance helped the Rocks to a 76-57 win in the Class A regional semifinals.

All-Area matmen State champions pace '87 elite team

By Brad Emons

OSERVERLAND, rich in wrestling tradition, produced a pair of state champions this season who headline this year's All-Area team.

Both Toby Heaton (heavyweight) and Mitch Quint (138) of Redford Catholic Central won their respective weight classes in Class A and lead a strong group of 14 All-Area matmen selected by the coaches.

Heaton and Quint led CC to a No. 1 ranking and third place finish in this year's state meet. The Shamrocks won several tournaments this season including the districts and regionals, along with their own CC Invitational and the Catholic League.

Seven Shamrocks made the first team this year. CC's Quint, Chris Lemanski (155) and Lee Krueger are all repeaters.

Western Lakes Conference champion Plymouth Salem landed two on the first team as did Livonia Churchill, known for producing great individuals. Garden City, the Northwest Suburban League champs, put one on the first team.

Salem qualifies for state finals

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

Kathi Kinsella and her Plymouth Salem gymnastics team were drained of all emotion Saturday after qualifying for the state meet for the first time in the team's history.

"The whole day was one big roller-coaster ride," Kinsella said.

The Rocks placed second at the regional tournament at Adrian, scoring 127.25 points. Jackson County Western won the region with 134.70 points. Ann Arbor Pioneer was third with 127.05. Only the top two teams from regional competition advance to the state meet, which will take place Friday and Saturday at Grand Rapids Creston.

Kinsella, moments before the final results were announced, gave the obligatory concession speech to her team.

"The way I had it figured, we were going to get beat out by Pioneer. I was sure of it," she said. "I told the girls that I had never been more proud of anyone in my life. I told them that Pioneer didn't beat them, the judges did. I thought the judging was low. I thought we got ripped. I thought Canton got ripped. I was so mad I had to go out to my car and cry. I didn't want the kids to see me cry, but I really thought we got robbed."

THEN THE results were announced. "In second place, Plymouth Salem."

From sadness to euphoria.

"I just couldn't believe it," Kinsella said. "But you know, I want this community to realize something: Five years ago this team couldn't win a meet. Now we're going to the state meet. I'm very proud of that."

It was a team effort that vaulted the Rocks into the state meet. The top guns performed well as always: Jackie Huff placed 10th all-around with a 32.75 score. Becky Talbot placed 13th with a 32.0 all-around score. Amy Pastori was 28th with a 30.45.

But, as Kinsella said, "My backup people are responsible for us getting out of here. They made the difference."

Debbie Popp, Dana Holda, Debbie Drabek, Jennie Syria and Sharon Way all earned crucial points for the Rocks.

Kinsella rewarded their efforts by keeping them in the lineup for the state meet. Here's the Rocks' lineup for Friday night: on vault — Popp, Holda, Talbot and Huff; on uneven parallel bars — Drabek, Holda, Huff and Talbot; on balance beam — Huff, Syria, Way and Pastori; on floor exercise — Talbot, Huff, Pastori and Way.

"It's possible that we could get blown away Friday," Kinsella said. "There are going to be some fantastic teams there. But we're just happy to be there. We are among the top eight teams in the state. I'm looking at this as a nice way for our older kids like Jackie and Becky to end their career, and it's good experience for our younger people."

PLYMOUTH CANTON, coached by John Cunningham, placed eighth at the regional with 120.25 points. The Chiefs had one individual state qualifier — Sharon Moran grabbed eighth place on balance beam with an 8.3.

Maureen McLean just missed qualifying on vault. She placed ninth with an 8.55. An 8.6 score took the eighth and final qualifying spot.

"The scores were pretty humorous," Cunningham said. "They were all pretty low. Salem had a really good day, and they only ended up with 127."

Brenda Perry placed 14th on vault (8.25) and 17th on floor (7.9) for the Chiefs.

Salem will be the first Centennial Educational Park team to compete in the state meet since 1981 when Canton went. The team competition will begin at 6 p.m. Friday. The individual competition will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday.

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographer

Jennie Syria was one of several Plymouth Salem "backup people" who came through strong to push the Rocks into second place at Saturday's regional meet at Adrian. By gaining second place, the Rocks qualified for the state team finals for the first time in the school's history.

Raider gymnasts survive regional

By Jim Toth
staff writer

Troy Athens High School hosted two gymnastics regionals Saturday afternoon — one for state qualifiers and one for the rest of the pack.

The host Red Hawks and state-ranked North Farmington ran away from the field as they finished first and second, respectively, to qualify for this weekend's state meet. Athens finished with a score of 138.20 while North Farmington tallied 137.25.

Athens, ranked No. 1 in Class A, and North Farmington, ranked in the top five, will join other state qualifiers Jackson County Western, Plymouth Salem, Freeland, Midland Dow, Rockford and defending state champion Holland in team competition Friday at Grand Rapids Creston High School at 6 p.m. Individual competition will take place Saturday at 1 p.m.

"This is going to be the first time in a long time that an Athens team is going to the state meet and the girls are ready," beamed an enthusiastic Athens coach Frank DiVito. "We want to erase last year from our minds and do the best job we can."

"THIS GAVE us a lot of momentum even though we came in second," North Farmington coach Jeff Dwyer said. "The girls are really pumped up. We have as good a shot as anybody. At least the girls know if they hit, they have a shot at it, and that is important."

Both the Red Hawks and Raiders did a lot of hitting in regionals as they finished comfortably ahead of their competitors. Troy earned third place with a score of 131.35. Fraser was fourth at 128.90 and Grose Pointe North rounded out the top five with 126.40. The remaining order of finish was Royal Oak Dondero (125.30), Dearborn High (125.20), Bloomfield Hills Lahser (124.05), Royal Oak Kimball (122.75), Edsel Ford (121.45), Rochester Adams (120.25), Birmingham Seaholm (119.80) and Farmington (118.75). Four of the top five all-around scores belonged to Athens and North Farmington gymnasts. The only non-Red Hawk or non-Raider was Jennifer Dube of Grose Pointe North.

Dube won the all-around competition with a score of 36.75. Her totals included a 9.25 to win on bars, an 8.85 to win on beam, a 9.30 to win on floor and a 9.35 to finish second on vault.

Finishing second in all-around was Athens freshman Melissa Miller with a score of 36.55. Miller finished .05 behind Dube in every event.

NORTH FARMINGTON'S Lucine Toroyan posted the third-best all-around score with a 35.50. Toroyan tied Dube for first on floor, finished third on bars with an 8.8, tied for fourth on beam with an 8.4 and came in seventh on vault with a 9.0.

Athens sophomore Natalie Leich won the vault competition with a 9.4, finished fifth on floor with a 9.15, seventh on bars with an 8.5 and 18th on beam with 8.0. She finished fourth in all-around with a 35.05.

Kim Heller of North Farmington finished fifth in all-around with a 34.95. Heller's total included a fourth on vault (9.2), sixth on bars (8.6), sixth on floor (9.10) and tied for 14th on beam (8.05).

Rounding out the top 10 in all-around competition were Kim Trever of Lahser, Jill Boardman of North, Sharon Counts of Fraser, Heather McGaughey of Dondero and Janice Greff of Athens.

"I was really pleased with our effort on beam," DiVito said. "That's what hurt us last year. I think Saturday's effort will shoot their confidence."

"We're not going to be underdogs going into the state meet because we're No. 1," DiVito continued. "But we don't have the experience some of the other teams have. I just told the girls, if they want to win the state meet, not to fall off the beam."

"We were up before the meet," began Dwyer. "We were first on beam and really shaky. We were two points below our average. But we came back strong on vault with our best score ever."

Stevenson gains berth in final 4

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Guess who's coming to the state Class A volleyball finals again?

None other than Livonia Stevenson, making its third trip in four years.

Coach Lee Cagle's team did it again Saturday, winning the four-team regional at Wayne Memorial with a 15-10, 15-7 victory over Temperance-Bedford in the finals.

The Spartans, now 45-4 on the season, will take on two-time defending state champion and No. 1 ranked Portage Northern in one semifinal, beginning at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at Flint Carman-Ainsworth High School. The other semifinal, beginning at 1 p.m., pits Birmingham Marian (49-1) against Sterling Heights Stevenson. The finals are scheduled for 5:30 p.m.

What is different about this edition of the Spartans?

"The one thing that sticks out is that we're not as overpowering," said Cagle. "But we're much stronger in experience and skill. We're quicker defensively and we have a better scheme of attacking an opponent."

AT THE REGIONAL the Spartans attacked and the opposition retreated.

Cagle called it an "excellent day."

volleyball

"Kristine (Bailey) just pounded away at the net and Sue Zatorski was excellent in her middle-back row play," said the Stevenson coach. "And people don't realize that both Jenny Slawdewski and Laura Brown were very steady all day."

The Spartans also got strong contributions from Amy Anderson, who complements Bailey and Zatorski well on the front line, along with setter Rocky Cibor and reserve Misy Cutlip.

"We kept enough pressure on offensively that they couldn't get things going to Susie Williams (of Bedford) because she's a strong blocker," Cagle said.

The Spartans were never in serious trouble, although Bedford tied the game at 6-6 in the second game.

In the semifinal, Stevenson fought off a challenge from Dearborn Edsel Ford (15-6, 15-4), while Bedford ousted Westland John Glenn (15-7, 15-9).

GLENN FINISHED the season at 18-15.

"We were up and down," said Glenn coach Wendy Bostwick. "We were inconsistent. We never knew how well we'd play, but the one thing you've got to have is improvement and I think we did."

Reynolds said her team was "nervous" against Bedford.

"We just weren't ourselves like we were in the district," she said. "We've been here three years in a row and it always seems to end here (at the regional)."

"Our service receiving and passes were not good today. And this is something we worked on all week. But they (Bedford) had tough serves."

Reynolds loses six seniors, including 6-foot-3 Stacy Graham, who plans to attend Eastern Michigan University on a volleyball scholarship.

"I think we'll be competitive again next year," Reynolds said. "I played everybody this year and that should help."

BUT FOR CAGLE and his Stevenson club, there is no tomorrow, even though the Spartans will be heavy underdogs against Portage once again.

"We can do a lot more different hits than we have in the past," he said. "And I think we can do more things offensively. We don't give up as many free balls."

Cagle knows his team must play its best volleyball of the season to earn a crack at the state championship.

Dameron, May represent CEP on dream squad

He also took firsts at Battle Creek, Salem, Grand Rapids, CC and Mount Clemens.

His greatest feat was beating two unbeaten wrestlers at the state meet en route to the title.

Chris Rodriguez, Catholic Central, 145: A sophomore, Rodriguez is already a veteran on the mats. He went 37-15 this season, qualifying for the state meet. He is 66-33-1 over two years.

This season, Rodriguez won his district and finished second at the regionals. He is also a two-time Catholic League champion.

Klaes gets scholarship

Jane Klaes, a senior at Plymouth Salem, is one of two local winners of the 1987 National Basketball Association Scholarship Program. The program awards a total of $50,000 in college scholarships to high school seniors based on academic and extracurricular achievements regardless of athletic ability.

Klaes and Matthew Spence of Saginaw were selected from more than 400 applicants.

Klaes has accumulated a 4.0 grade point average and is ranked No. 1 in her class of 625 students at Salem. She is a member of the National Honor Society, the French Club and does volunteer work at the Ann Arbor Health Center in Plymouth. She also played varsity volleyball and track.

The NBA Scholarship Program was initiated seven years ago to foster the NBA's commitment to higher education. Since its inception in 1980, nearly 400 students have received scholarship aid from the NBA.

Tumey earns state title

By Chris McCosky staff writer

The line is thin between he who qualifies for the state swim meet and he who takes home the state championship.

Nobody knows that subtle distinction better than North Farmington senior Mike Tumey.

Tumey has qualified for the state Class A swim meet the past three years. This year, he crossed the line and became a state champion. He claimed the prize last Saturday at East Lansing winning the 100-yard butterfly in 51.11. He was second in the 200 freestyle (1:42.87).

Monday night, Tumey reflected on what pushed him across that thin line.

"Desire. That's the difference," he said. "You really have to want it bad. And you have to have a good coach who's behind you all the way. If it wasn't for Louie Balogh (North coach), I would never have been able to do it. He was always there to push you and keep your mind on it. When I wasn't feeling good or not into it, he could always get me going."

BALOGH, IN his first season at North, also knows what it takes to become a champion. And he saw it in Tumey from day one.

"The first week of practice I knew he could win the butterfly," said Balogh. "The race was closer than I thought it would be, but I felt all along he had the capability to be a champion."

"He just kills himself in practice. He is easily the hardest working swimmer I've ever coached. He's a self-motivator and he really loves the sport. He's a real competitor, that's probably his greatest asset. In a close race, he's awfully hard to beat."

A lesser competitor might have been beaten before ever getting into the water, given the circumstances that preceded Tumey's butterfly swim. Four events prior to the butterfly, Tumey lost a tough race in the 200 freestyle to Bloomfield Hills Andover swimmer Steve Pancratz. Pancratz finished in 1:41.50, Tumey in 1:42.87. It would have been easy for Tumey to let that loss affect his performance in the butterfly.

"It's very difficult for a swimmer to compete in two very different strokes like that," Balogh said. "It would have been different if Mike swam the 200 and 500 freestyle. That's a lot of swimming but it's the same stroke. But with two different strokes you taper differently."

IF TUMEY was shaken by the second-place finish in the 200 free, it never showed.

"I wasn't real disappointed," Tumey said. "Steve swam a real good race. But I was mostly concentrating on the fly. I was seeded No. 2 going into it, so I wasn't under any great pressure. Actually, I felt confident. Sometimes you get a feeling and I felt real good. I felt good in the water, too. I wanted to go 50.7 and break the state record, but that didn't happen."

Several area coaches who witnessed Tumey's swim — namely Livonia Stevenson coach Doug Buckler and Plymouth Salem coach Chuck Olson — said that Tumey would have broken the record had he swam at a larger pool.

Tumey just laughed. "A lot of people told me that," he said. "What can I do?"

What he has done is set his sights on the U.S.S. Junior National Swim Meet, which takes place in two weeks in Orlando, Fla. He'll be gunning for both a national title and all-America honors.

"My coaches don't think I've tapered out fully yet," Tumey said. "I think my best times are still to come."

That should make the folks at Auburn University, Eastern Michigan University and Oakland University happy. One of those three schools will likely house Tumey and his swim skills for the next four years.

CC, Kovach score big at the state meet

Observerland produced two individual state champions at Saturday's state Class A swim meet at East Lansing.

North Farmington's Mike Tumey won the 100-yard butterfly in 51.11 and Redford Catholic Central's John Kovach won the 100 freestyle in 46.91.

Tumey also posted a second-place finish in the 200 freestyle (1:42.87). Kovach was fourth in the 200 free (1:43.43). Kovach also anchored CC's fourth-place 400 freestyle relay, teaming with Jon Teal, Matt Hepburn and Dan Cetnar on a 3:14.46.

CC earned the area's highest team ranking: sixth with 49 points.

North Farmington and Livonia Stevenson placed in a tie for 12th place. Westland John Glenn placed in a tie for 29th place and Plymouth Salem placed 33rd.

Joe Saunders from Livonia Stevenson grabbed a third place in the 100 butterfly (51.80).

For complete results, see the Observer statistics page.

IN THE CLASS B state meet at Eastern Michigan University, Redford Thurston's Dan Hayse turned a superb performance in the 100 butterfly. He swam a 52.88 and took third.

Farmington Harrison's Scott Farabee swam a 54.12 in the butterfly and took sixth. Farabee was eighth in the 500 freestyle (4:53.8).

Engineers take command of series

By Bill Parker
staff writer

The Hennessey Engineers were wearing the green (stripes and numbers on their jerseys) on St. Patrick's Day, and they must have had the luck of the Irish with them.

Larry (Mc)Pilot scored a goal 58 seconds into the second overtime period to break a 1-1 tie and give the Engineers a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series with the Detroit Falcons.

The winner of the series will meet Detroit Compuware in the best-of-five state finals beginning March 24. The winner will also receive an automatic berth to the National Junior A tournament beginning April 3 at the Oak Park Compuware Arena.

"Incredible, incredible," said Hennessey coach A.J. (O)Baker. "If we played playoff hockey in overtime all season long, I think we'd be contending for the national championship. This is the second time we've gone into overtime in the playoffs and we've won both games. (The Engineers beat the Falcons 5-4 in overtime on March 14 at Fraser Arena in the third game of the series.) It's just incredible."

THE WINNING goal must have been a heartbreaker for Falcon goalie Bill Pye, a Plymouth resident, who had swatted away 36 Engineers' shots over the course of the game.

With heavy traffic in front of the Falcon net, Pilot flicked the puck toward the goal and it dribbled into the net. It wasn't much of a power shot, but the results were the same.

"Pye was fired up playing in his home town," said Baker. "We kept firing shots at him all night, and he was blocking everything. I can't believe a little dinker like that got through. I'll never forget watching that shot dribble in."

The game was Junior A hockey at its finest. The referees only had to stop the clock three times to assess penalties. Although it was obvious there was no love lost between the teams, players from both clubs were on the ice to play the game rather than prove their toughness.

THE FALCONS' lone goal came at the 4:53 mark of the second period. Chris Hathaway put the Falcons on the scoreboard when he broke free, went one-on-one with Engineer goalie Dave Church, and flicked a wrist shot into the net. Sean Worden was credited with the assist.

Hennessey tied the game at 1-1 at 15:02 of the third period after Mark Harmes fired in a shot from the faceoff circle to the right of the Falcon goal. Matt Wiljanen and Chris Kaske got the assists.

The two teams squared off on Wednesday night at Fraser Arena for game five of the series. Baker felt that the fact the teams will meet immediately after the win would be an advantage for his team.

"It's even better that we play again tomorrow," said Baker. "I think we have some momentum now. We had two days off before this game, and it was kind of tough getting started. I think it would have been a psychological down for us if we had lost this one, but I still think the kid would have come back. They really want it bad. But as it is, this victory is as key as key can be."

During the regular season the two teams met seven times in Fraser and the Falcons won six of those games. But this doesn't seem like the same Hennessey team that took the ice in the regular season.

"It's been really strange that we didn't play them that well over at their place during the regular season," said Baker. "We only beat them once over there before the playoffs but we've beaten them both times in (post season) play."

As Baker said, if every game was an overtime playoff game the Engineers may be contending for the national championship. Then again, if every game was played on St. Patrick's Day, that might help a wee bit too.

Sattler hat trick lifts Engineers

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

If the Plymouth-based Hennessey Engineers keep this up, officials of the North American Junior Hockey League may have to conduct an investigation.

The Junior A Engineers pulled out the double 5-4, double-overtime victory against the Detroit Falcons Saturday to take a 2-1 edge in the best-of-seven semifinal series in the state Junior A playoffs.

The scary part is, both of the Engineer victories came at Fraser, the Falcons' home ice. Understand, the Fraser ice has not been kind to the Engineers. They've won just once in Fraser prior to the playoffs.

"It's just incredible, really," said Engineers' coach A.J. Baker. "After such a poor showing at home the other night (a 7-1 loss Thursday in Plymouth), I was very concerned about this one."

DARRELL SATTLER eased Baker's worries. He scored three goals including the game-tying goal with 10 seconds left in regulation and the game-winning goal 2:14 into the second 10-minute overtime period.

A third-period goal by Don Stone gave the Falcons a 4-3 lead. With 13 seconds left, Fraser coach Ken Knight called a timeout. Baker couldn't believe his luck.

"We made the same mistake against Compuware earlier this season," he said. "We had a one-goal lead with 16 seconds left at home and I called time out. Compuware set up a play and scored."

That's exactly what the Engineers did Saturday. Matt Wiljanen, a Livonia Stevenson product, won the face off. Tom Madden controlled the puck and got off a backhand shot that was blocked in front of Falcon goalie Brandon Reed. Sattler got hold of the puck with his back to the net. He spun around and fired the puck past Reed.

The sequence took three seconds. "Wiljanen was phenomenal," Baker said. "I don't think he lost a faceoff all day."

ENGINEER GOALIE Dave Church, pressed into a starting role after Doug Brown was injured in game two Thursday, kept the pressing Falcons off the board in the first overtime period.

"Darrell was not that offensive-minded in the early part of the season, but he got on a real nice streak in the last five or six games," said Baker. "He gets a ton of garbage goals. He is always around the net."

Bryan Krygier scored two goals for the Engineers Saturday. Madden and Chris Kaske each had two assists.

Against all odds

OCC's odyssey is movie material

ALL'S WELL that ends well. That's true, isn't it? Kind of like, "The ends justify the means." Or "Whatever it takes." When a team reaches its ultimate goal, all sins manifested along the way are forgiven. That's only right, right?

But then some of the roads traveled toward that ultimate goal are a bit rougher than others. That's why we have movies and TV, to document such against-all-odds feats.

Well, start the camera. I've got a full-length feature film for you. The subject: Oakland Community College's mens basketball team.

This season's edition of the Raiders would be better suited for photoplay than that 1951 ragtag outfit of "Hoosiers." For the dramatic impact, anyway. Certainly not because the '87 Raiders' story would be more believable.

THE BARE-BONED facts are: OCC, rebuilt (one returnee) and under new coach Lynn Reed, survives the Michigan Community College Athletic Association (MCCAA) Eastern Conference season with a 12-4 record, good for second place.

In the MCCAA playoffs, the Raiders wallop Delta CC, then jolt arch-rival Highland Park CC for the Eastern Conference title in a tension-filled contest. But in the state final the next night, emotionally drained OCC falls to Kalamazoo Valley CC.

The Raiders' season isn't over yet, however. They advance to the NJCAA Division II regional tournament — which, put bluntly, is for the financial have-nots of the NJCAA — hosted, fittingly, by Kalamazoo Valley CC. OCC meets its host and vanquishes in the regional final, in which the Raiders avenge themselves and advance to the NJCAA Division II tournament of eight.

Gez. Forget the multitude of climaxes. The titles from this sports soap opera alone would be enough to confuse — and thereby enthrall — the most avid TV addict.

Anyway, back to the plot. OCC wins its first tournament game and qualifies for the Division II semifinals, where it meets Shawnee (Ill.) CC. In a blockbuster of a game, the Raiders outlast their challengers in a 131-129 double-overtime scorefest.

"That," said OCC coach Reed, "was the game. The athletic ability displayed by both teams was incredible."

But that still isn't the end of it. The Raiders had one more challenge to meet, one more obstacle to clear: Allegheny (of Pittsburgh, Pa.) CC, in the Division II finals.

THEY SUCCEEDED. It took overtime and more dramatics than could fit into a season-ending, three-hour episode of "Dynasty," but OCC bested Allegheny 91-90 Saturday on, of all things, a missed free throw with a second left.

"Before this," said Reed Monday, after two days to reflect on the importance of his accomplishment, "I always expected the season to end with a loss. It always did, either in the high school state tournament, or here in the national tournament. I never really thought I would end it with a win."

"I never experienced that before." Now he has that experience to savor in his first year back — oh, did I forget to mention? Reed coached at OCC 10 years ago, before departing for Milford-Lakeland (I include this for character development). A championship. Happiness reigns as Reed is hoisted onto his joyous players' shoulders. End of story. Roll the credits.

Or is it the end? "Any of those kids is a story in themselves," said Reed, defying Hollywood know-how. "Those kids ... I've got to give them credit. Keeping them together as a team is the greatest thing I've ever accomplished in basketball."

Now wait just a minute, coach. There's more to this story than just dramatic, come-from-behind finishes to basketball games? You mean these players have lives off the court, too?

"COACH (BOB) WHITFLOW had to break up a number of fights on the team during the year," Reed recalled. "Not arguments. Actual fist-fights."

Whoa, there. Who pulled in the reins on this wild bunch? "That's the way it is with any basketball team," was Reed's explanation. "If you're going to win, you've got to learn to cooperate with each other."

That was Reed's — and his assistant coaches' — job. It probably helped that Whitlow used to play center in the pros. Not in basketball — he was a center on the Detroit Lions' offensive line. Big man, Whitlow.

Getting a team to play together is rule No. 1. Reed did this by convincing his players they could not win without each other. "Make friends with your accuser quickly." A quote from Matthew 5:25. Reed read that in church one day, copied it and passed it out to his team. That helped get them fighting for the same goal.

"None of them hit me, but I'm sure all of them wanted to," said Reed.

But if the team is talentless, it won't matter much. The Raiders had talent. Reed had to bring it to the surface with some sort of cohesive system. One that would work.

His varying styles of pressing defenses supplied OCC with its identity. As Reed explained, "You can score an awful lot of points with the press in a short time."

SO A SUFFOCATING pressure defense keyed his team's success? No, said Reed. "This is not a good pressing team" was his evaluation, although it was the press that was the difference against Allegheny — and many others.

"We didn't have the right person in the center of our press all the time," he said. "(Carson) Butler and (Gary) Holt and (Sam) Smith all filled in well, but at times we were weak in the center."

"The key element to this team," Reed said, "was its versatility. We could beat teams in so many different ways. The press was always a factor, but more importantly we could hurt teams in so many ways that they couldn't defend us easily."

Banquet lauds over-40 cagers

Mark Miller, an assistant hockey coach at the University of Michigan, was the keynote speaker Monday at the seventh annual Over 40 Halfcourt Basketball League banquet, held at the Box Bar in Plymouth.

Miller filled in for U-M head coach Red Berenson. Berenson was in Montreal to attend a reunion of the 1972 Canada-Soviet hockey series.

Former U-M hockey coach and U-M ticket manager Al Renfrew was also in attendance.

Miller follows a long list of prestigious Over 40 banquet speakers including Michigan State University athletic director Doug Weaver, U-M associate AD Don Lund, Plymouth native Tim Van Wagoner, a member of the Miller Brewing Sports Promotion team and former U-M assistant football coach and Plymouth native Bob Thornbladh.

Fifty to 70 players compete in the three-on-three league, ranging in age from 40 to 63. Nine players remain from the inaugural year. The league, featuring numerous high school and college players, was born over a candlelight dinner when Plymouthites Bill Moore and Dick DeBear came up with the idea. The league was ultimately cultivated under the auspices of Larry Masteller (league director), Don Massey (past president), Dave McBride, Ed Perpich and Norm Kee.

Three-on-Three basketball has become popular around the country, especially each summer in Lowell, Mich., where the Gus Macker Tournament is staged.

On Monday, the Over 40 League honored these individuals for their support: Scott Lorenz of the Mayflower Hotel, Bob Szilagyi of the Godwin Glen and Salem Hills golf course, George Lawton of the Community Federal Credit Union and Dave Cook and Bill Kiefer of the Plymouth Trading Post.

HEY CHRIS, I hear you're leaving.

"You hear correctly."

"Where you going?"

"Muskegon."

"Excuse me?"

"Muskegon."

In case you are wondering what this is all about, this is something like a farewell column.

"What's Muskegon?"

"Muskegon is a city three hours west of here. That's what they tell me, anyway. Why are you asking me all these questions?"

"Never mind that. What is in Muskegon?"

"The Muskegon Chronicle, for one thing. And the Muskegon Lumberjacks for another."

"I think I can figure out what the Chronicle is, but what are the Lumberjacks?"

"A professional hockey team, you dolt. They play in the International Hockey League."

"I get it. You are leaving because Muskegon has an IHL franchise and all Observerland has is the Hennessey Engineers Junior A team, right?"

"Not hardly. I love the Engineers. Don't ask me why I'm leaving. It's too complicated. Just say it's a good career move."

YOU SEE, writing a farewell-type column isn't as easy as it might appear. Especially for me. I'm not sure what all should go in one. I'm not even sure someone like me should write one in the first place. I mean, it's a little conceited, isn't it? Who really cares if your friendly community sports editor is bolting for another community?

Well, my mom cares. So what the heck, this one's for you mom.

"Chris, what will you miss most about us?"

"Us? Who's us?"

"You know, Observerland."

"Oh, I'll miss just about everything in Observerland. I've met some special people — athletes, coaches and parents — and made some very special friends. I wish I had the time to list them all."

"Well, list a couple. Who will you miss the most?"

"Geez. Who are you anyway? All right. I will mostly miss the guys I've worked with in the sports department over the years. Dennis O'Connor, Jim Hughes, Brad Emons, C.J. Risak, Marty Budner, Jim Toth, Larry O'Connor and Bill Parker. These guys are first-rate, both at and out of work."

"Who else? Come on, bleed a little for us. Don't give us this sissy, la-la stuff about missing your fellow sports writers. Pour your heart out for crissakes."

THE JERK is right, though. A farewell column should pay a debt of gratitude to the people who made my four years fun. But there's too many special people. There's Fred Thomann, Tom Negoshian, Ron Holland, Larry Baker, Lee Cagle, Fred Crissey, A.J. Baker, Kathi Kinsella, Mary Glitz, Tom Moshimer, John Herrington, George Pryzgodski, Chuck Olson, Ron Krueger, Irv Horwitz, Denny Mikel, Jim O'Leary, Jerry Young . . . I'm telling you, I could go on and on and on. And that's just coaches.

If we want to talk about the athletes, then we have to mention the likes of John Miller, Craig Morton, Donna Konjarevich, Liz Bonello, Stephanie John, Erich Hartnett, Craig Alcantara, Missy Duczynski, Mary Rosowski, Dawn Johnson, Rick Anderson, Ken George, Katie MacIntosh, and so on and so on.

See, if I start mentioning names I'm bound to leave someone out. And that would be tragic.

"Chris, what do you think people will remember about you, if they remember you at all?"

Chris McCosky

"Oh, that's a nice way to phrase the question."

"Sorry."

"I would like to be remembered for some of the extra things I tried to do for the community. Like, I initiated an All-Area gymnastics team. I thought the Athlete of the Year presentation at the close of the school year was a nice touch. I sponsored a softball game between the best men's rec league team from Plymouth and the best from Canton. I sponsored, with a lot of help from Ron Holland, a city volleyball tournament in Farmington. And basically, I tried to give balanced coverage to all sports, not just the big three (baseball, basketball and football)."

"You think people are going to remember all that?"

"No. I said that's what I'd like them to remember."

"Fat chance."

"I DON'T know. This is pretty lousy. Who is asking these questions? And why? I better quit this."

This is all I really wanted to say: I'm leaving. I had a great time. I appreciate all the help and cooperation and I'll miss you all a lot. Come visit me at my lake — you know, Lake Michigan.

"Hey, Chris. Chris, wait. There's a note here for you. Open it. What does it say?"

"It says, 'Dear Chris, sorry to hear that you are leaving. Will miss you very much. Love Mom.'"

"That's sweet."

"There's more. P.S. Whatever you do, don't write a farewell column. Nobody cares."

Bye.

It shall be the purpose of this ordinance to regulate on street parking and to restrict this parking privilege to only residents of the designated residential only area.

THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH ORDAINS:

Section 1
Chapter 126 of Title X, Traffic, of the Code of the City of Plymouth is hereby amended to add sections 8.32 to section 8.40 as indicated.

Section 8.32 Definitions:
Resident is a person who is the owner, holder, lessee, agent, occupant, or trustee of a property in a Residential Only Parking Area.
City Commission is the duly elected City Commission of the City of Plymouth, Michigan.

On Street Parking is such parking of a licensed motorized vehicle on the street next to the curb in areas in which it is not otherwise prohibited.
Entrance of each street shall mean an area where two public streets intersect and a vehicle can gain access to another street other than the one they were traveling on.

Section 8.33 RESIDENTIAL ONLY PARKING DESIGNATION:
Upon receipt of petition signed by the residents representing at least 60% of the properties on a given city block requesting that parking on their street should be limited to residents of the designated street only, the City Administration shall designate said street as a residential only parking area. The parking prohibition shall be between the hours of 7:00 PM and 3:00 AM local time.

Section 8.34 Posting:
The Department of Public Works shall install and maintain at a minimum of one official sign at the entrance of each street. Said sign shall state "RESIDENTIAL PARKING ONLY BETWEEN 7:00 PM and 3:00 AM. ALL OTHERS SUBJECT TO TICKETING AND/OR TOWING".

Section 8.35 Violations (Issuance of ticket and/or impounding)
Vehicles found to be in violation of said posted sign shall be subject to the issuance of a traffic ticket or notice of violation by a Police Officer of the City. In addition, any motor vehicle parked in violation of this ordinance may be removed by the City and impounded. Any vehicle so impounded by the City shall not be released to the owner until all storing and towing charges shall have been paid by the owner.

Section 8.36 Presumption from ownership:
In any proceeding for violation of the provisions of this ordinance relating to parking, proof that the particular vehicle described in the complaint was parking in violation of the ordinance, together with proof that the defendant named in the complaint was at the time of such parking the registered owner of such vehicle, shall constitute in evidence a presumption that the registered owner of such vehicle was the person who parked or placed such vehicle at the point where, and for the time during which, such violation occurred.

Section 8.38 Supervisor
As supervisor of the Automobile Parking System of the City the City Manager and or his designee is authorized to establish procedures for the issuance of permits for the parking of resident's vehicles on the street during the parking regulation period. In addition, the City Manager and or his designee shall design and furnish a form to the residents who express an interest in having their street or block become a part or be dropped from the residential parking program.

Section 8.39 Termination of designation:
This parking regulation may be removed by City Commission resolution and or by the City receiving a form showing the signatures of 60% of the residents of a street or block requesting that the regulation be removed.

REDUCE YOUR CHANCES OF GETTING HEART DISEASE, KIDNEY DISEASE OR GOING BLIND.

Obesity can start a chain reaction to poor health that can be devastating.

To begin with, most physicians and researchers consider obesity to be the major cause of diabetes in adults. Up to 90% of adults diagnosed as having diabetes, in fact, are overweight.

Of course, once you have diabetes your chances of developing heart disease, kidney disease, or going blind increase dramatically.

As a person with diabetes you'll be twice as prone to heart disease. 17 times as prone to kidney disease. And 25 times as prone to blindness, if you are insulin-dependent.

Diabetes, in fact, can shorten your life expectancy by one-third.

Fortunately, diabetes in adults, in most cases, can be prevented with careful weight control, healthy eating habits, and regular exercise.

So if you're overweight, doesn't it make sense to take off the extra weight? Instead of years off your life?

Hydrogenated oils pose no risk

Q. What is hydrogenated oil? Why is it in almost everything?

A. Manufacturers of food products use hydrogenated or partially hydrogenated oil in their products to prevent rancidity during frying or to lengthen shelf life.

In hydrogenation, the oil (soybean, corn or cottonseed are the most frequently used) is combined with hydrogen gas in the presence of a catalyst. A catalyst is a substance that causes a chemical reaction without itself being changed.

By altering the temperature, pressure, catalyst and how much the hydrogen gas is agitated, the manufacturer can control the result to obtain the desired mix of poly- or monounsaturated, saturated and "trans" fats.

Light hydrogenation of an oil does not change the appearance or texture of the product. The oil remains in liquid form. Salad oil is good example of a lightly hydrogenated oil.

TO CHANGE an oil into a semi-solid fat, such as shortening, heavy hydrogenation is required to insure that the fat does not melt at room temperature.

During hydrogenation, some of the polyunsaturated fatty acids in the oil become monounsaturated, and some monounsaturated fatty acids are converted to saturated fats. An entirely new fatty acid, called "trans," is formed as well.

The debate arises as to which of these fatty acids causes what in humans.

RESEARCHERS AGREE on only a few points:

- 1) Saturated fats are bad
- 2) Hydrogenated oils do not seem to pose any great health risk, because most of the chemical change during hydrogenation is from polyunsaturated to monounsaturated fatty acids, which are gaining esteem in researchers' eyes.

It's a good thing hydrogenated oils are not considered harmful, because, as you mentioned, they appear to be everywhere — from crackers to powdered artificial cream to bread-mixes.

INTERESTINGLY, the first hyconsumer mailbag

Terry Gibb

drogenation of oil was in England around 1906. The oil hydrogenated was not one of those frequently used today — but whale oil.

Hydrogenation really exploded in 1911 in the United States when Proctor and Gamble introduced a new product, Crisco. The next major event in hydrogenation's history came during the 1930s with the creation of oleomargarine.

Today, the average American consumes about 10 pounds of margarine and about 20 pounds each of shortening and salad oil annually. The estimates indicate about half of these totals are consumed in the form of hydrogenated fats.

THE CONFUSION about hydrogenated and partially hydrogenated oils is. The oil used is usually not specified.

Instead the label says "One or more of the following..." and the percentage of polyunsaturated, monounsaturated, and saturated fats is not given (the exception being salad oil and margarine.)

In fact, many food labels do not even list the amount of fat in the product. It is up to the consumer to unravel this mystery by writing the manufacturer, comparing similar products or analyzing the product ingredients.

The Consumer Mailbag answers your questions. Address mail to The Consumer Mailbag, Concern Detroit, 1025 Shelby, Detroit 48226.

Micro-sculpture

Ancient Chinese art finds new home

By Arlene Funke
special writer

DR JIAN Chen of Westland has a collection of carvings so tiny they must be viewed with a magnifying glass.

Chen, 46, a native of Shanghai, a major city in China, possesses pieces of ivory scarcely larger than a grain of rice. These pieces are inscribed with Chinese poems, proverbs and Bible verses.

"The carvings are (done by) my brother in Shanghai," Chen said. "This is called micro-sculpture."

His artist-brother is 45-year-old Fuh Chen, employed as an engineer at an automotive company in Shanghai.

"IT IS A HOBBY," Chen said. "He is self-taught. As a boy he liked to carve on a stone."

The pieces are unusual because they are "tiny, but abundant in content," according to Chen.

The technique calls for prolonged concentration, followed by a very rapid carving with a tiny surgical scalpel.

Dr. Jian Chen was a physician and surgeon in China. He came to the United States in 1982, and for the past five years has been employed as a research associate in the surgical department at Westland Medical Center. Chen has passed the necessary tests and hopes to be certified soon to practice medicine here.

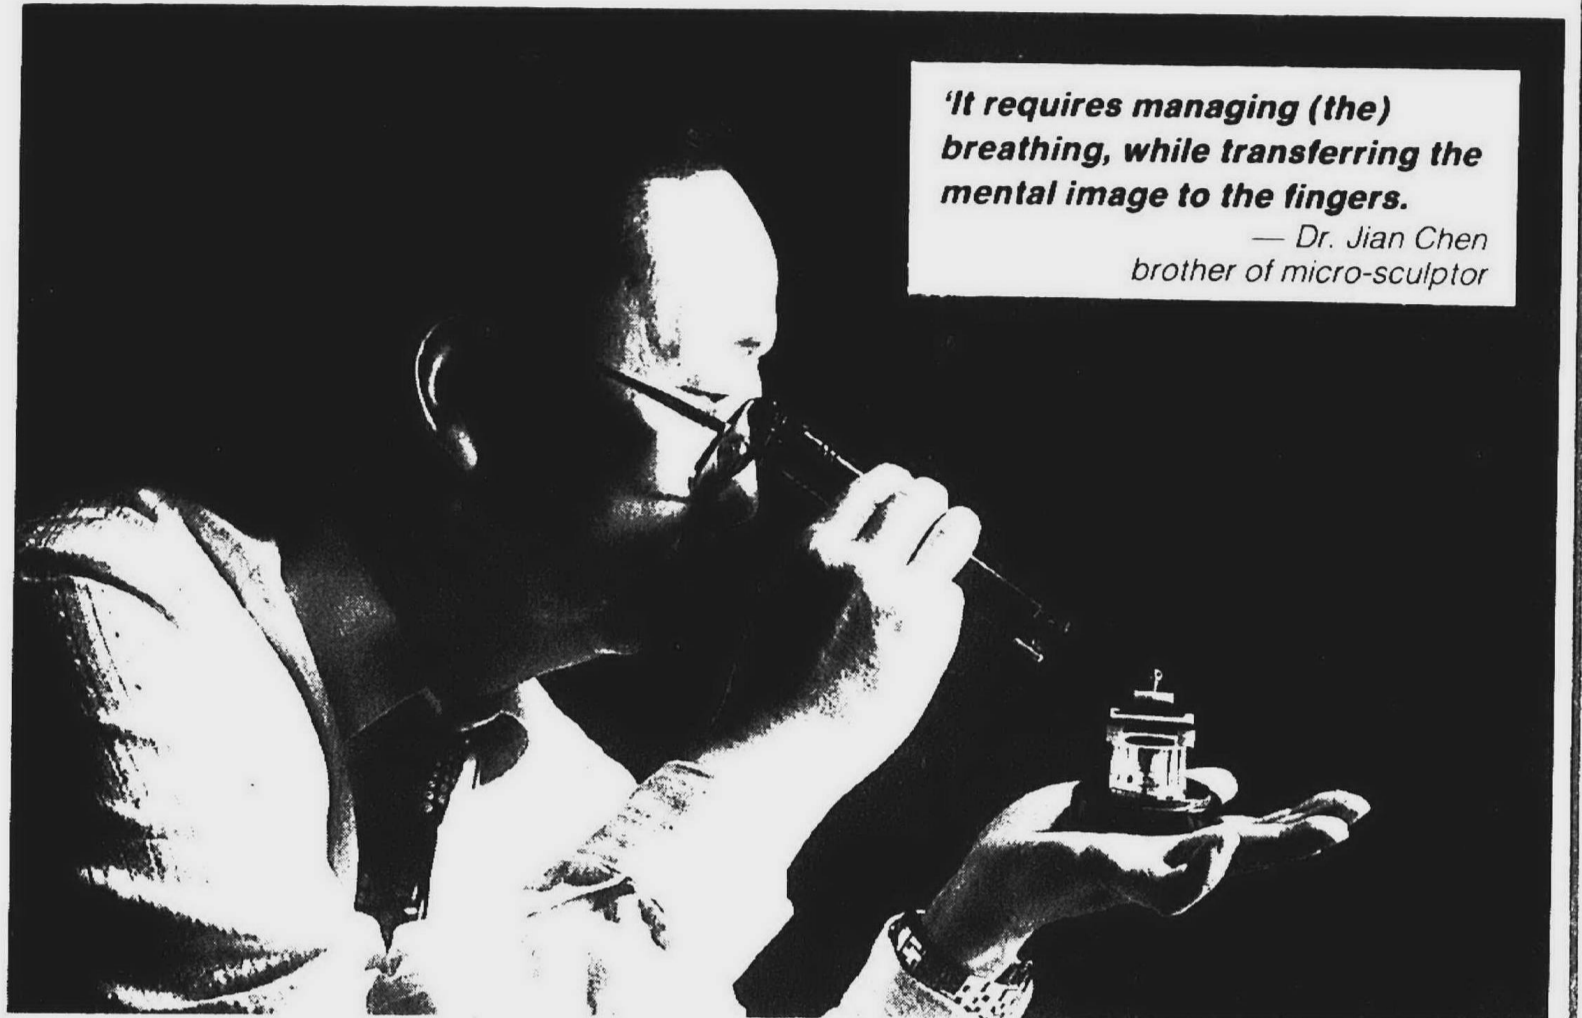

His wife, a surgical oncologist (cancer specialist) remains in China, but Chen hopes she will be able to join him in the United States. Their 24-year-old son also is in China.

According to Chen, micro-sculpture is an art form that was popular around 600 A.D., during the Tang Dynasty, and continued to the Sung Dynasty (960-1280 A.D.).

"IT REQUIRES managing (the) breathing, while transferring the mental image to the fingers," explained Chen. "He remains still and calm for a long period, until he feels the pulsation of his own fingers."

During this period of intense concentration, the artist "puts a picture in his mind," Chen explained. Then — using a delicate, micro-surgical scalpel — he quickly carves the Chinese characters onto the very small pieces of ivory.

"Once he is ready — once he does it — he can't stop," Chen added. "He has to finish immediately, in one to five minutes. If he stops, he can't continue on the same piece of ivory." Later, the characters are filled in with black ink, and the artist signs his piece in red ink.

Chen's brother prefers ivory, which is easy to preserve and doesn't crack easily. The poems and proverbs express universal themes such as love, tranquility, loyalty and friendship.

One carving is a tiny crucifix. Another contains a 103-word poem carved on an ivory chip roughly the size of two rice grains.

CHEN HAS AROUND 30 of his brother's 100-piece set of carvings. He has mounted them on earrings, gold charms and laboratory slides. They must be viewed with the assistance of a strong magnifying glass.

According to Chen, only a handful of people in China — which has a population of one billion —

Micro-sculpture of a vase. Beside the outward view of the vase itself, a sculpture of a panda is shown on it. Its size is that of a grain of rice.

Thinking small on a grand scale

Livonia artist Muriel Linton and art in the palm of her hand.

By Marie McGee
staff writer

MURIEL LINTON all five feet-one of her thinks big on a small scale.

Linton has been an artist for some 35 years, but only recently began to have grand illusions on a small scale in relation to her work in oils.

She calls it "Art in the Palm of Your Hand."

It fits. For the past three years, Linton — more or less self-taught — has been experimenting with mini paintings measuring somewhere around 1 by 1 1/2 inches.

"You have to think small, that's for sure," she said, her blue eyes twinkling. "And you have to have a special skill for detail."

HER INTEREST HAS led her to joining a fledgling national group called Miniature Artist of America, organized two years ago to enhance the appreciation and stature of American miniature art.

Linton is doing her part. Often working from photographs, she then mentally reduces what she sees to accomplish her mini canvases masterpieces. They are complete in every detail.

Interest in the art is growing, she said. A lot of it stems from the growing number of miniature hobbyists. In fact, she got started when one of her student's needed a painting for a relative's doll house.

The hobby of miniatures is "second only to stamp collecting," according to Shirley Pollock, whose specialty is original handcrafted miniatures. Pollock is involved in annual miniatures show at the Northwest YWCA from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, April 5.

ASIDE FROM HER new hobby, Linton also teaches painting classes in both her Livonia home and at Faith Covenant Church in Farmington Hills. She hasn't attempted to teach miniature painting classes as yet. She's almost too busy with her regular teaching schedule.

But she has come up with a booklet to help "full size" painters. She calls it "200 Tips for Oil Painters."

Potpourri of tips on drawing people

IM 39 YEARS old, 6 foot 3 1/2 inches tall, I weigh 200 and none-of-your-business and I'm on my 137th diet. But I found that in the first 136 diets I was emphasizing the wrong things.

Like I would tell my boys to save their Reese's Peanut Butter Cup wrappers for me. No, I didn't eat the wrappers (well, maybe one). I just wanted to smell them. I also have found that a rice cake is the exact same texture and flavor as a styrofoam cup.

Well, anyway, my goal is to lose 15 pounds before I turn 40 years old. So in the next nine months, I'm workin' out, readin' health magazines, eatin' lots of rice cakes and missin' Reese's Peanut Butter Cups (slightly chilled, you can't beat them). Oops! there I go again. But with my vast dieting experience I now know the danger signs and what to look for in a good diet.

IN DRAWING PEOPLE, there are many things, like in my diet, to emphasize and to avoid. All last week as I made comments to my students about drawing humans, I would run to the blackboard and jot them down. So here is a rather jumbled potpourri of last week's tips on how to draw people.

Generally try to show shapes and features without the use of lines. Outlined lips, for example, seem too harsh. Show features with shades of gray or color. Even in a linear technique, such as pen and ink, you could render the lips with a variety of strokes and still never need an outline.

Ear structure is often ignored by many artists. Under render but accurately present the ear's proper structure.

Artists tend to over-render eyes. Let's imagine you are drawing a little girl with beautiful blue eyes. First, you must be careful not to make them too blue or too big. Also watch that you not make the eyes too white. Gray-up a blue eye and it appears more natural (if the model has black sparkly eyes, then you should lighten them slightly with browns or blue-grays). Remember that the whites of the eye can be gray, warm colors or cool colors but never, never white.

I often tell my students to compare the whites of the eyes to the whiteness of the teeth or highlights on the cheek. Also, be sure the upper eyelid always touches and partially covers the iris, depending on where the eye is looking.

REMEMBER TO SHOW the thickness of the lower eyelid at the outer corners of each eye. Always shade under the eyebrows and show some type of wrinkle, crease, or depression under the eyes. This will set the eyes into the head. Catch lights (white spots) in the eyes always help the eyeballs appear wet. I recommend that you under render the darkness of the nostrils. Never let the darkness of the nostrils equal the darkness of the eyes. Noses take on just about every size and shape imaginable. Study the nose but never let it fight the eyes or mouth for attention.

By the way, remember that little children rarely have a bridge to their nose. Also the highlight on a child's cheek often runs up over the nose and back down to the other cheek. Tots have more of a square nose at least until a bridge begins to grow. Before I forget I must mention that the most common fault in rendering children is that artists tend to make the face too big on the head.

The whole face of a little child is at, or slightly above the half line of the head. And the younger the child the bigger their head is in relation to their body height. A newborn's head equals a quarter of its body height, 2-years old, 4 1/2 heads, 3-years old, 5 heads, 6-years old, 6 heads, 10-years old, 6 1/2 heads, 16-years old, 7 heads, adults, 7 1/2 to 8 heads.

HERE ARE a few tips on the mouth. The corners of the mouth usually line up with the pupils, inside or outside of the iris. The lips most often appear to be different colors or shades. Depending on the light, the upper or lower catches more light leaving the other one shadowed. Most new artists do quite well rendering the mouth — it's the teeth that seems to be the problem.

Teeth (as are the whites of the eye) are not white. They should have some white highlights so that they appear wet but should be about as white as the whites of the eyes.

Try to understate the lines between the teeth. You can emphasize each tooth by showing their curved surfaces against the darkness inside the mouth. Speaking of mouths... I'm hungry for a...ugh! Rice cake. I wonder if Reese's makes a rice cake?

Build your still life

A still life can be defined as an inanimate object, or group of objects, arranged as the subjects of a picture. Accomplished effectively, a still life can be a dramatic expression of taste and mood.

Still lifes painted by the great artists throughout history prove a point: it's not so much what you have, but how you do it. Like the painter, the photographer of still lifes has all the ingredients to express texture, tones, balance, style and harmony. And because the subject is inanimate, the photographer is able to concentrate more than usual on composition and lighting.

Setting up your own still life can be very exciting because you have complete control over subject choice and arrangement. Give your potential still life some thought before you begin.

When you're ready to start, begin with one object as a focal point and then gradually build up a composition in which various elements relate to each other. Choose a theme and work things together to fit that theme.

For example, in photographing "The Last Rose" shown here, I felt that the antique bottles would work perfectly as complementary elements to the wilting rose. A couple trips to local antique shops yielded the perfect bottles. Before you begin to arrange your still life, think about a suitable surface and background.

Monte Nagler

Begin by setting up your still life with the most important subject (here, it was the rose), always viewing it through your viewfinder until you are satisfied. Add the second object, adjusting its position until once again you are satisfied.

In this manner, you can build up your still life one piece at a time. Balance is important as, of course, is lighting. Shadows and highlights are most important in a still life, so pay particular attention to them.

Make sure the various elements in your still complement each other and are organized to enhance rather than distract.

Notice here how the bottle laying on its side adds to the mood of the dying rose and see how the fallen petals add that special touch of melancholy.

Monte Nagler's careful arrangement of complementary elements along with choice of wood surface and black background add up to an impact filled still life, rich in mood and drama.

While she now has a degree in communications art from Madonna College, Linton began her art career after a few basic lessons from her brother, who was also artistically inclined.

Nor is Linton talking out of both sides of her mouth in promoting the new art form.

But she could. She's also a ventriloquist and often performs on weekends before clubs and churches dispensing her own brand of sunshine via a Cabbage Patch type mannikin called Andy.

"200 Tips for Oil Painters" is available by contacting Linton at 261-0269.

Micro-sculpture is 'abundant in content'

are skilled in the art of micro-sculpture. Marshall Wu, curator of Oriental art at the University of Michigan's Museum of Art, agrees that micro sculpture is "relatively rare because it isn't an easy job to do."

"You are born with a certain eye so you can do that small carving," said Wu, who was born in China. "You do need to concentrate."

In Wu's opinion, carvings in general can be enjoyed for their beauty and intricate detailing. However, they are "not extremely valuable" nor are they a serious enough art form to be exhibited in a museum.

"Carving is considered very close to pop art," Wu said.

Chen's pieces are not for sale. He has prepared a slide presentation of his brother's carvings, and he attends meetings of the Livonia Carving Club and the Metropolitan Carving Club. Chen hopes to bring his brother to the United States to show more pieces of his work.

"THIS (CARVING) makes me closer to my culture," Chen said. "I represent my brother in a carving show. That is the way I have to show this art to America. The (local) carvers had never seen those tiny things. They are used to working with large pieces."

Chen recently has been spending time with his other brother, Ding Chen, 44, who has been visiting from China. Ding Chen, an orthopedic surgeon, will soon be taking part in a yearlong research fellowship at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

SPRING FANCY

Morton Myles

The American spring
a whole new graceful era in fashion

We see you in the delight of the unexpected, a tiny-waisted tattersall coquette —bare, beautifully bouffant

Wait till you see it whirling over its crimson crinoline. Our dreamy, bare-shouldered taffeta dancedress has the endless charm of a beautifully shaped little bodice, an extravagance of skirt—all in the surprise now of black-white tattersall checks. By Morton Myles, acetate,

SPRING FANCY

NOTHING goes out of fashion faster than fashion itself. Every six months designers call on women to abandon the styles of the past season and fill their wardrobes with new and tantalizing clothes.

If winter is somber and classical, spring is sure to burst with bright colors and romantic styles. Slacks so fashionable one season are out-dated by the next, and hemlines go up and down faster than a roller coaster.

One season the fashionable woman strolls in masculine flats only to totter the next in sexy spikes. And if you haven't pulled all your hair out trying to keep up with the fashion marathon, your hairstyle will change, too.

SO NOW ARE YOU ready for the fashion word for spring '87? Well, here it is — plain and simple: Romantic with a capital R — with a lot of ruffles and flourishes.

The ruffles are the Carmen Miranda-type (remember her?) and the flourishes come by way of lingerie bustiers and romantic empire waistlines.

It's all part of a major departure from the easygoing, man-tailored styles we've been seeing. Taking over are fashions that float effortlessly into a soft spring evening. Even sportswear takes on a softer, more feminine look. And the familiar classics have shed some of their menswear look and have surfaced with a softer profile all their own.

Colors flow from pastels and neutrals in face powder tints to khakis, navy, black and white, desert tones and a palette of brilliant colors. Textures, patterns, stripes and dots create a new interest and a new harmony.

THE FASHION WORD ON HEMLINES is that they will not be a problem this spring with most designers going the full range from many inches above the knee to midi and maxi lengths. The conservative set can find many models that hover discreetly at the knee.

Daytime footwear is casually low, but by night the spike heel makes a bold comeback, soaring to a good four inches for the sexier fashions.

Jewelry spells good news for the pocketbook. Precious metals, for the most part, are out, replaced by plastic and natural materials such as wood, bone and seashells.

Fewer accessories are the rule but those you wear must have impact — substantial bracelets, an important belt, a dramatic pin, a neutral leg and a quiet shoe with short skirts and fanciful pumps reserved for evening.

But we'd be kidding you if we didn't acknowledge gold as an important element in today's fashions. Industry sources say that when it comes to gold fashion jewelry, there is a trend toward larger, more dramatic pieces and the bigger the design the better. Designs such as cuffs and collars are in vogue, with cuffs often worn in twos and threes.

WHILE GOLD-DECORATED FABRICS and accessories have always been acceptably chic for evening attire, the metallic accent now is very fashionable for daytime wear.

Jewel-tone colors in woven knits sparkle to a brilliance with the addition of gold-tone threads, while gold appliques, sequins and beading also are coming into the mainstream look.

Colored gemstones in combination with precious metals are another prevalent fashion note, and jewelry set with more reasonably priced stones often use one or more diamonds to further accent the colors.

That romance has a leg up on fashion is even more evident in the new, lingerie-style legwear that may make ordinary pantyhose a fashion dinosaur.

Men who mourned the coming of the all-in-one hose and women who have learned to live with the functional but unappealing look for the last 25 years can rejoice — the sizzling new look is selling well.

"MEN ARE EVEN STOPPING TO buy it for women," says Evan-Picone vice president Sunny Miller, whose firm makes Teddy Hose and Teddy Hose II. "That's not entirely surprising because men never perceived pantyhose as being provocative."

That's a complaint not likely to be heard about the new look.

The ugly waist-to-thigh panty — which one spokeswoman says makes "you feel like you're wearing grandma's drawers," — is gone. In its place are sexy, French-cut legs, lacy V-bikini fronts, scalloped edges and flower-embossed panels.

Thigh-highs are back too, with improved elastic tops to help them stay in place. Trimmed in delicate lace, many are sold with matching bikinis.

"Pretty is in," says Pennaco vice president Barbara Guzy, whose firm manufactures Round the Clock, Givenchy and many private labels. "A woman can go to work in an executive suit, but when she's wearing these that pretty feeling is always with her."

Regular, sheer pantyhose sells for $1-$7. Though it may cost more than ordinary pantyhose and run just as quickly, it's believed that women will buy it because "it's fun. It's pretty. It's not $100 and most women figure, 'I'm worth it.'"

IN A SEASON of variables, there are bound to be a great many "ins" and a few "outs." As women and men evolve from fashion dictatorship into a personal style all their own, a few little "ins" can add a lot. On the other hand, "outs" can detract from their image, putting them on the "whisper list" designating fashions no-nos. So, for your edification and future fashion reputation, here are this season's mostly "ins" and a few "outs."

FOR HER: "ins" include crinolines, headbands, denim, leather and reptile accessories, tortoise-shell anything, less jewelry, the neutral leg, cashmere, long coats, bare shoulders, short skirts, long soft skirts, petticoats and lace, short and long jackets, lace pocket squares, sweater sets, bows in the hair, no blouse under the suit jacket, jumpsuits (again), stripes and polka dots, flat shoes, pearls.

"Outs" for her include wearing his clothes, frizzed hair glitz, tight, narrow pants, over-accessorizing, drop earrings with ear wires, suntan hose, tight silhouettes, too much makeup, strappy dress sandals, tight mini skirts, dark lip liner, short skirts with high heels, jogging shorts, lots of long beads.

FOR HIM: "ins" include white and light suits, tie bars, braces (suspenders), patterned, over-the-calf hosiery, pleated trousers, pocket squares, no socks at all with casual wear.

"Outs" for him: short-socks patent leather shoes, colored shirts after 6 p.m.

FOR BOTH: "ins" include walking, non-impact aerobics, long coats, quality, walking shorts and knee socks, wrinkles in clothing only, caviar, broccoli.

"Outs" heavy aerobics, short coats, quantity, Vuarnet sunglasses. Contributing to our "ins and outs" list were Elaine Seitzer, owner of Madelaine, mens store owner Thom Leffler, Candace Barker, Hudson's manager of communications, and Alan Teitel of Bloomfield Hills, a nationally recognized trends expert.

Teitel, incidentally, commented that "Detroit is on a par with New York when it comes to setting trends. For example," he said, "hair bows, which are 'in,' got started here as did banana combs, which are now 'out.'"

Other "ins and outs" contributors were Crowleys, Claymore Lioness, Saks Fifth Avenue, Ray and Ida and Claire Pearone.

AS A SOFTER, MORE romantic mood emerges for spring dressing, man-tailoring and hard edges are confined in the men's department from whence they came.

The woman's mood has turned to soft, feminine dressing in fabrics that float or cling a little in strategic places. And spring evenings encourage dressing up with endless possibilities for fantasy and romance.

ROMANTIC

Romantic
...for spring*

That first breath of spring

It's almost here

When jackets come off and frills catch on.

*And a look
takes form*

Season to season.

consistency

SPRING CLASSICS also herald a prettier turn to dressing. Neutrals are the base, lifted with color but still maintaining a classic consistency that depends heavily on the jacket.

The right jacket this season may be elongated and slightly shaped, shorter and boxy, swingy, bomber, blazer or $\frac{3}{4}$ length or in the form of a full-length duster.

Whichever look you choose, nothing can compare with the pivotal spring wardrobe necessity — a jacket.

The short, cropped jacket and the new spring pattern mixes blend interestingly in this black and white Prince of Wales plaid suit and gold polka dot blouse by Ungaro. Jacket, $685; skirt, $370; shell, $212. Hattie, Birmingham.

The simplicity of a timeless silhouette is welcomed in this white wool crepe suit with swing jacket and full circle skirt with matching silk blouse by Jennifer George. Skirt, $330; blouse, $288; fedora hat, $70. Madelaine, Bloomfield Plaza.

Genny's spring navy features a $\frac{3}{4}$ jacket over a silk polka dot tunic blouse and knee-length slim skirt. Suit, \$745; blouse, \$370. Claire Pearone, Somerset Mall, Troy.

Reptile skins are definitely in this spring. Shown are black-printed snakeskin on white leather pump by Stuart Weitzman, $135 at Sandilar, Applegate Square, Southfield.

Manufacturing Makes The Big Difference

"We can save you a lot of money and you may select from one of Canada's largest collections of quality furs including Fisher, Sable, Mink & Stone Martin."

YEAR AFTER YEAR, collections of easy-to-wear separates define the comfort and versatility of sportswear that is America's distinct contribution to the world of fashion.

Spring '87 offerings are easy additions to active or spectator weekends, combining khakis or whites with brights or pastels; using linens and knits; and adding the luxury of lighter weight cashmere.

It all adds up to easy, comfortable lifestyle dressing.
