Balloons, parade, fireworks set for Fourth

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

If you live in or near Plymouth and Canton but will be paying to have fun elsewhere this Fourth of July, keep it a secret. People might think you've gone off the deep end.

A gaggle of eye-popping, ear-pleasing attractions are planned to help celebrate the nation's 211th birthday in the Plymouth-Canton community. And many of them are

If what makes the Fourth for you is a parade replete with the Fred Hill Haberdashers Briefcase Drill Team, you'll love Plymouth's "Michigan Memories" Sesquicentennial Parade. The Bill Murray-style squadron will be featured among 50 entrants strutting their stuff down Main Street beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Suited in pinstripes, the precision marchers will follow a cadence counted by haberdasher Hill. When the whim strikes, these otherwise normal people will break into song, and flip, twirl or toss their briefcases.

Led by Grand Marshal Ralph Lorenz of the Mayflower Hotel, floats, antique cars, marchers and bands including the Plymouth Fife and Drum corps will draw oohs and aahs from a crowd expected to number

The entourage will assemble at Main and Theodore, proceeding south past the reviewing stand at Kellogg Park to Hart-

THEN REST UP because the Plymouth Jaycees will host the bottom of their Michigan Memories double-header later the same day when the musical fireworks display gets under way at dusk at Plymouth Town-

As fireworks donated by Livonia's Wayne Distributing Co. and area car dealers illuminate the sky, the Plymouth Community Band will play two 45-minute sets, starting

We'll be playing patriotic selections including the music of George M. Cohan, marches by John Philip Sousa and Liberty Fanfare - tunes related to the Statute of Liberty dedication," said band director Carl

We also will be doing narrations from patriotic literature to music.

Percussionist John Monks said the 65member band is "looking forward to playing for the first time for an audience that

Adding to the holiday weekend fun will be the seventh annual Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival, slated for July 3-5 at Centennial Educational Park at Joy and Canton Center Roads in Canton.

THOSE WISHING to avoid traffic congestion - 50,000 people are expected to visit the area for July Fourth festivities may want to park at the balloon launch site at Canton Center and Joy and walk along McClumpha Road or take a shuttle bus to the park McClumpha will be closed to accommodate those wishing to hike the mile to Ann Arbor Trail. The University of Michigan M-Care will shuttle folks for free from the balloon site to the township park.

To speed traffic flow, police will:

 Close Main Street from the railroad tracks to Hartsough at 1 p.m. Saturday. Side streets abutting Main Street will be closed to traffic at 12:30 p.m. Parade-goers are encouraged to use the Central Parking Lot deck (meters won't be in operation).

· Make Ann Arbor Trail one way, westbound from Sheldon Road east beginning at 6 p.m. Saturday. All access streets to Ann Arbor Trail will be closed. Free parking will be available on both sides of Ann Arbor Trail, as well as on the grassy area at Beck and Ann Arbor Trail. Handicapped drivers only will be permitted to park in Plymouth Township Park

'We're encouraging people not to bring alcoholic beverages or to set off any type of fireworks in the park because of the size of the crowd," said Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry

'Come out and enjoy the evening but don't be in any big hurry to get in or get

CANTON POLICE advise that twice a day, for half an hour, they'll attempt to assist traffic exiting the balloon festival site · Diverting those eastbound on Joy at McClumpha (except for Saturday night).

· Diverting cars westbound on Joy at

• Diverting traffic northbound on Canton Center at Warren. Canton Center Road will be closed at Joy.

Firefighters and DPW employees OK new contracts

Firefighters and public works employees in Plymouth Township have ratified three-year labor contracts calling for pay increases of nearly over the life of the agreements. At ture will be implemented in both departments with substantially lower wages for new hires. Three additional firefighters will be hired within 30 days, according to a letter of understanding that accompanied that agreement. The hires would increase the ranks of permanent, full-time union positions to 16. Sixteen part-paid "volunteers" supplement the regulars. Annual base pay at the top of the scale rises from $28,603 to $32,172 over the life of the contract. The agreement is retroactive to April 1 Overtime and callback provisions weren't changed.

New firefighters not certified will start at $15,000 per year, certified

Previously, entry-level firefighters started working at $20,126 annually. "The two tier is what we were looking for," said Supervisor Mautownship $82,000 during its three-year life, Breen said. Of that amount, $22,000 will be spent to pay off accumulated sick time, he added James Haar, president of the firefighters union, said he was satisfied with the new contract. "I think both sides did give and take and negotiations went well."

Pay of DPW workers, depending on seniority and classification, will range from $.8,907 to $26,270 between Jan. 1, 1987 and Jan. 1, 1989.

Only four employees are in the New hires will start at $13,520.

Maybe cruising's becoming boring

Plymouth administrators hadn't finalized a strategy for dealing with cruisers this coming holiday weekend as of early Tuesday, according to Police Chief Richard Myers

Last weekend, for the first time in several weeks, barricades weren't placed in driveways of closed businesses along Main Street during evening hours. They had been set up to discourage people from congregating. Traffic was limited to one lane in each direction along Maln again, with the center two lanes open to emergency vehicles only "A few people did some backsliding and received trespassing tickets," Myers said.

TWENTY TRESPASSING tickets were issued. In all, about 95 tickets, not including parking violations, were handed out, the chief said.

Others included 15 for seatbelt violations, seven for excessive noise, six for expired plates and four for disorderly conduct.

Fewer people seemet to come to town, at least on Saturday, Myers sald. "Saturday night at about 9:30 both northbound and southbound traffic I would consider light to moderate, considering there was one lane of traffic in each direction," he said. Myers said he really couldn't pinpoint a reason for the recent decrease in the numbers of motorists and pedestrians downtown on weekend nights.

"You could make a list going anywhere from the emergency lane, more enforcement, more activites. It was cooler. Maybe they're just bored

HE ISN'T ready to say that he can see the light at the end of the proverbial tunnel and that the local cruising phenomenon soon will come to an

"It's a situational thing. We have to be prepared to deal with whatever crowd and volume of traffic is on the readway. You just never know from one weekend to another."

Large print grows

The collection of large print books is growing in Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth, thanks to the Lions Club of Plymouth. The books are especially helpful to handicapped individuals with vision problems and to older people with failing vision. Just recently more large print books were donated to the library by the Lions Club. Leon Piekarski, president of the Plymouth Lions Club, is shown here examin ing some of the large print books with Gerry Barlage, Outreach Librarian.

Achievers honored

Two local Junior Achievers this year have been named recipients of the Robert and Ross Roy Junior Achievement scholarships. The two are Robin Iler, left, who recently graduated from Plymouth Salem High School, and Jacqueline McGarry, a recent graduate of Plymouth Canton High School. The scholarships were granted on the basis of cumulative grade point average, on active participation in Junior Achievement, adviser's recommendation, extracurricular activity involvement and concise response to essay questions. The two were formally presented with their scholarships in June at the Detroit Athletic Club.

Members of the Canton Board of Trustees voted against lowering after the current term of office extheir salaries Tuesday

The action came during a meeting constantly stalled by feuding.

Following separate disagreements on issues with Clerk Linda Chuhran. trustees Bob Padget and Steve Larson stormed out before board business was complete at Tuesday's meeting

CHUHRAN'S RESOLUTION called for lowering the trustees' current $100 per meeting pay.

Currently, trustees are scheduled to meet the first, second and fourth Tuesday of each month. Trustees also may attend special meetings at the same pay.

Chuhran suggested lowering the trustees' salary not to exceed $135 per month or $45 per meeting. The change would have gone into effect pires in November 1988.

Criteria for meetings "will be identified for (the) purpose of conducting business, and not established as personal financial increase at the whims of four trustees," the resolution said. Padget tagged the proposal "inflammatory and inaccurate However, Padget said he supported lowering the pay. He changed Chuhran's proposal to reduce the pay from $100 to $45 per meeting, effective after the present term expires

Trustees voted 4-3 on the altered resolution. Larson, supervisor James Poole, treasurer Gerald Brown and from residents trustee John Preniczky voted against the proposal Chuhran. Padget and trustee Loren Bennett results voted in favor

Chuhran's resolution was in response to the board's recent decision asking for an advisory vote on whether Canton should hire a fulltime superintendent and cut to parttime the supervisor, clerk and treasurer posts. The compensation would be lowered as a result

September was targeted for the special election

FOLLOWING HER resolution. Chuhran said county officials said the advisory vote may be illegal. It could be construed "as misappropriation of funds just to get an opinion

Trustees may take whatever ac tion they want regardless of ballot

Chuhran said she wanted an opinion from the township attorney before she begins preparing for the Padget said the clerk was stalling to hinder the election. Chuhran maintains the trustees are asking for an advisory vote to take the "political heat off" themselves

After an exchange of remarks. Padget left the board room.

Later in the meeting action. ('huhran argued with board members about hiring temporary help.

At this point, after a brief confrontation with the clerk. Larson followed Padget's example and left the board room - again before board business was complete and economic development professionals served on the task force created six months ago. Task force members met in group study sessions and their recommendations were compiled into a report focusing on business retention, attraction and expansion.

McNamara credited the task force with sparking the creation of a county economic development office.

"It allows us to proceed with an economic development program which I believe will produce dramatic results," he said.

The department has set a goal of attracting $1 billion in new investment over the next year. Under the county's tax levy of 7.07 mills, this would bring $3.3 million of additional revenue into county coffers.

ARTHUR M. CARTER, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, pledged support for the task force plan.

"In order to move ahead, we must have a plan," Carter said. "The emphasis must be on working together, including western Wayne and downriver. We pledge our support. This is the way to go.

Susan Wolfram, of the state Department of Commerce, praised the Wayne County plan. This is something we hope every county in the state will do," she said. "With the downsizing of the auto industry, we must diversify our econo-

Westland Mayor Charles Griffin, chairman of the 17-community Conference of Western Wayne and a task force member, called the plan "a savior for the economic and fiscal problems we have."

"THE IMAGE of Wayne County has taken a dramatic turn for the better with the new executive officer." Griffin said. "That is vitally important when you are trying to bring business back here. Commisioner Susan J. Heintz, R. Northville Township, whose district includes Livonia and Plymouth, has been named chairman of a legislative economic development committee. She will propose a resolution to the full commission in conjunction with the county executive's office to set up the business ombudsman.

"I feel very strongly about it;" Heintz said. "I know the problems developers have with the county bureaucracy. (Creation of an ombudsman) will make development possibilities more feasible countywide."

Commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, whose district includes Canton Township, called the task force plan "well thought out and a practical program for economic develop-

The county has the resources, expertise and political clout to give development in local communities the extra push it needs to be successful,"

"The professionalism should help make the difference," added Mack.

The county economic development department also will work toward creating 5,000 new jobs over the next three years.

SEVERAL NEW programs will be implemented, coordinated or assisted by the department, McNamara said. They include · Establishment of the office of business ombudsman, someone in county government who will cut through the red tape in a one stop shopping service.

• Sale of taxable bonds - of extreme importance in generating new business.

• Economic development around Detroit Metropolitan and Willow Run airports and along major corridors of the county, including I-275, I-94 and Michigan Avenue. • The department will undertake a survey of all county land to identify parcels which are surplus. These parcels will be developed or sold. · Provide assistance to minority and small businesses, including incentives for expansion. "Wayne County has for too long suffered under a burden created by irresponsible government. But times are changing," McNamara said. "Our government is becoming more responsive to the needs of residents, Washington a letter from Half-King that warned that many French footstens had recently crossed the trail." Half-King was about six miles from Washington's projected Fort Necessity near Great Meadows

So began the fourth and final phase of the Anglo-French war for

Before it was over the tiny sparks lit by the fight at Fort Necessity would set battlefields blazing throughout the world

The first shot in the Seven Years War probably was the one that ended the life of the French leader, Jumonville de Villiers, a young man from Fort St. Joseph, Mich.

THIS OCCURRED May 28, 1754. when Washington and some of his men surprised a group of French concealed in a hedgerow some three miles from the British camp

The skirmish was over in about 15 minutes and Jumonville was slain in the first volley.

There were 10 French dead, one wounded, and 21 captured This was Washington's first fight and the result was "near perfect," as he wrote

Unfortunately, within a few days all of Canada and later France itself was enraged by the "murder" of Vilhers Jumonville's brother Coulon de Villiers, sought and was given permission to track down the "cruel rasington

Coulon was generously reinforced with nearly 900 able-bodied young French soldiers and Indians - many and they came from d'Etroit marching hotly and with fanatic determination to quickly destroy Washington's little fort on the meadow They succeeded only too well

A number of reinforcements came pouring into Washington's camp before the hostilities began, and among them was a most unusual young Scotchman whose story is worthy of a novel. It is difficult to paint this picture in three paragraphs but we will, for the sake of the humor involved, try to summarize or sketch the outline

ONE DAY Washington and the Shawnee runner, Silverheels, were west of the fort near the entrance to the trail discussing the urgent message Silverheels was to carry to Christpeher Gist It must arrive at

Suddenly a plethora of packages came tumbling down the cliff almost crowning Washington on the top of his head

What the devil was that? Washington exclaimed as Silverheels mouth made a standing leap of about seven feet backward

Its the coochman," the Shawnee said Perhaps there was no word for Scotchman in Shawnee. (Data about the Shawnee and Silverheeis was introduced to Tonquish Tales in the Observer on June 18 and May 11.)

It is known that the Shawnee d. lect was closely related to the Fox and Sauk, and could be understood by most Algonquin-speaking people These people could understand De troit's Chief Tonquish who spoke his native Chippewa, another Algonquin dialect.

"You mean Scotchman, don't you, Chief?" Washington asked.

Eyah Me pass him on the trail yesterday. He loaded I mean to here," and Silverheels pointed to his

'Let's help him unload. Maybe he brings good things," Washington added "But you better go. You must reach Gist before he leaves.

SILVERHEELS showed a reluctance to travel until the cart was emptied. He pointed to the cliff above where a coach-and-four was perilously perched on the brink of disaster

Who would bring a gilded coach into this wilderness 400 miles from nowhere? None other than Captain Robert Stobo, of course

Stobo was the son of a wealthy Glasgow merchant who had built up

ly with Virginia. Young Stobo fell in love- with the Old Dominion, returned home, sold some valuable Glasgow property and came back to live the life of a Virginia country squire. He was a welcome addition to the Fairfax circle of friends.

The gossips said that Stobo was suffering from a broken love affair and suddenly decided to join Washington's campaign against the French. Whatever the reason, his goods and his support were most welcome. A young, energetic 27year-old with some military experience abroad, he was warmly welcomed by the 22-year-old Washing-

While pushing the coach back from its perilous perch Washington noticed that it was much the worse for wear. The four horses were almost dead on their feet but the jovial Stobo was jubilant at seeing his "friend George" again.

Washington noted that the old coach bore the battered escutcheon of the royal house of Stewart. What an unbelievable sight in this mountain wilderness!

Stobo had with him 10 servants (some in frayed liveries) and a small army of about a hundred men he had managed to hire to serve as foot soldiers. They were well-equipped with all the necessary clothing, food, guns and ammunition.

And, best of all in the eyes of most of the men camped on Great Meadows. Stobo bought a full pipe of Maderia. That adds up to about 126 gallons. This largesse truly enhanced Stobo's popularity.

TO ADD TO the festive occasion he also brought along a Scotch bagpiper in full Highland regalia. This somewhat dowdy Celt had iron lungs, which produced a shrill bellow from his unmusical instrument. After enduring this for a while with a kind stoical resignation, Washington tactfully suggested that he "refrain from further concertizing because the French were just over the next hill and might be encouraged to quicken their march."

The so-called Fort Necessity was trench, only about knee deep, which was used as a field pit. The Virginians had little ammunition, and no wine in any quantity until Stobo arrived. They lived on fresh beef and any wild fruits they could find by foraging in the neighborhood.

The area was wild and unsettled, and there were no farmers or others to help. The inexperienced Washington drew up his men in front of the frail fort. Not a very brilliant deci-

Coulon Villiers wrote: "We approached the English as near as possible without uselessly exposing the lives of our men." They stationed themselves on two densely-wooded hills and fired down upon the hopeless fort from from the advantage of much higher ground. Rain had fallen all day on July 3, 1754. The raw earth Washington and his men were standing on turned to mud. They are half-starved, their powder nearly spent, their guns are fouled, and they have no hope of ever coming out alive.

THE FRENCH sensed their plight and were worried about their own so they asked for a parley.

Vanbrasm acted as the translator and managed to get the articles signed about midnight.

The fight was over. Captian Stobo and VanBraan were taken as hostages for the safe return of the French to Fort Duquesne.

This July 4 in 1754 probably was the darkest day in the life of young Colonel Washington. They abandoned the fort.

All of the horses and cattle were killed. They were forced to carry their own sick and wounded on their backs as they began the wretched march back to Wills Creek, 52 mountainous miles away.

This was a Fourth of July Washington would never forget. He could not foresee that there would be another Fourth when his country would celebrate him as its father, and the world would celebrate the United States of America as the citadel of democracy.

The next edition of Tonquish Tales will tell of the incredible adventures a simple log enclosure surrounding a of the eccentric Major Robert Stobo.

Bus schedule will be altered for holiday

The Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) will operate a Sunday schedule on Saturday, July 4 because of the Independence Day holiday.

However, extra trips will be operated in the morning on routes 125, 200, 510, 560 and 610.

On Sunday, July 5, SEMTA will operate a regular Sunday schedule without the additional trips. Weekend fares will be in effect from 3 a.m. Saturday until 3 a.m. Monday. Fares are a flat 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for seniors, handicapped and youth (ages 6 to 18).

For more information, passengers should call SEMTA's customer information office at 962-5515.

Bus service to DRC will be earlier July 3

On Friday, July 3, the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) will operate service to the Detroit Race Course an hour and a half earlier than usual due to an earlier post time at the race course.

On Friday, July 3, the bus to DRC will leave Woodward and Monroe at 12:05 p.m. instead of 1:30 p.m. (Run 689) The bus from DRC will leave the racetrack at the usual time of 7 p.m. (Run 699).

On Saturday, July 4, SEMTA will operate one round trip serving Ladbroke DRC. The bus to DRC will leave Woodward and Monroe at 12:05 p.m. The bus from DRC will leave the racetrack at 6:50 p.m.

The Saturday DRC trip which normally leaves Woodward and Monroe at 11:45 p.m. will not be operated on July 4. This trip will again operate as usual on the following Saturday, Service on Sunday, July 5, will be operated according to the usual Sunday schedule.

Holocaust center sets summer hours

The Holocaust Memorial Center

has set summer hours. The center will be open from noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday and, noon to, 8 p.m. Wednesday through the end of August. Tours will be held 1 p.m. Sunday and 6:30 p.m. Wednesday. Group tours may be scheduled by calling Pat Bircoll at 661-0840.

The 90-minute tour is followed by a brief discussion with a Holocaust survivor. The center, 6602 W. Maple, West Bloomfield, honors the memory of those who perished under persecution in Nazi Germany. Because of the intense nature of the presentation, it is suggested that children 10 or under not attend. Admission is free.

Some critics aim at the "frills" or "fun and game" offerings of community education centers. Other critics feel the public schools should not be competing with private business for the fun and

Some critics also feel there is a great deal of duplication among offerings of community education departments, city and township recreation departments; YMCA and YWCAs, community colleges, and similar institutions.

Some criticisms are well-founded; others are based on a lack of understanding of how the public schools operate in this arena beyond grades K-12.

IN THEORY, all programs other than the traditional K-12 are considered to be community education. The major difference between community education and adult education is the way in which the programs are funded.

Community education includes enrichment, academic and recreational programs for adults. It usually is supported by user fees. No academic credit is awarded, and teachers need not be

> THE ROLE OF adult education is important because in Michigan, according to the 1980 Census, almost 1.7 million residents age 25 and older have not completed 12 years of school. Currently more than 120,000 adults are enrolled in adult education programming.

In 1985-86 10,450 adults in Michigan earned a high school diploma and another 11,412 earned GED certificates through adult education departments.

Since July 1985, community education has played a major role with the state Board of Education in operating the Michigan Adult Literacy Initiative to teach reading skills to illiterate adults. Plymouth-Canton Community Education operates an aggressive program to combat illiteracy in the com-

Adult Education programs also have a role to play in educating developmentally disabled adults and nursing home ness of educating and re-educating

Adult education is funded by state adult education make the following points:

· Public schools have been providing basic instruction to adults for at least a century. The state began funding adult education in 1943.

 Public school adult education is the largest "dropout retrieval" program in existence today.

 Through the process of economic change, adult vocational education provides needed job training and retraining as well as job placement services.

 Public schools are a major foundation for the state's literacy movement.

• There is a significant relationship between low educational attainment and poverty, and so the state has a financial interest in raising education levels of adults.

 Research indicates that many nursing home residents lack sufficient reading, writing and math skills to use effectively to maintain their quality of

Adapting adults to change Slaying of moose reminds us all of a battle won

LIKE MOST FOLKS, I've got a lot of I-shirts that usually herald some exotic spot in the world or boost the name of one product or another.

My favorite is the one with Metric Moose. You remember metrics. That's the unit of measure that just about everybody else in the world uses except for us - that's us like in U.S. of Ameri-

You know metrics, 10 millimeters equals one centimeter and 10 centimeters equals one decimeter. We've done it differently since breaking with those nasty Brits more than 200 years ago.

FRANKLY WE base our measurements on a system that makes no sense at all — like in 12 inches equal one foot and three feet equal one yard.

This all came to mind the other day when I was reading Time magazine. It was dedicated to the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution. For some reason, right smack dab in the middle of the coverage was an article on America's attempt to go metric.

Strange. Metric conversion has nothing to do with the signing of the Constitution.

But then I thought about Metric

You see just about 14 years ago some wise guys in Washington decided that we ought to convert, join the rest of the world, and go metric.

THE WORD went out that in X number of years we would be baptized into the ways of 10s, 20s and 100s. Forget that 16 cubic feet equals one cord or that 16.5 feet equals one rod and that 40 rods equals a furlong.

A metric commission was established

The Wayne-Westland School district dared to take the challenge.

Metric Moose was ordained the national symbol. I was suspicious. He did look a lot like Bullwinkle of Rocky and Bullwinkle fame.

But what the heck, for the nation's math illiterates anything was worth a try - even learning to count by 10s. I wore Moose with pride.

AMERICA HATED it.

Despite all the efforts of the federal bureaucracy, the masses rebelled. The metric movement and the Moose just disappeared.

Well, almost anyway. We are left with the one liter pop bottle that we know to really be the standard 1.0567 quart in hiding.

But the Time article did make sense. We didn't want to be like the rest of the world so we wrote a Constitution. So what if the rest of the world knows it's easier to remember that 10 hectometers is one kilometer rather than 5,280 feet equals one mile.

Our Constitution is better.

Two-chamber legislature wastes time, stalls reform

 Property taxes — the Senate works on the plan of Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, to cut school property rates and make up lost revenue by earmarking income tax growth. The House plays with the plan of Jim Kosteva, D-Canton, to cut school property taxes a different amount and make up the lost revenue by asking voters to raise the sales tax. Result: no property tax re-

 Income taxes — The Senate voted for Gov. James J. Blanchard's plan to cut the personal income tax rate from 4.6 to 4.4 percent. The House bill hiked exemptions and tie-barred its bill to homestead tax rebates. The Senate bought the House income tax plan but balked at tying in rebates. Result: no

 Surrogate parent contracts — the Senate twice passes bills by Connie Binsfeld, R-Maple City, to prohibit such contracts. The House once passes a bill to allow but regulate such contracts and bottles up the Binsfeld bill. Result: Surrogate contracts are in legal limbo.

nam veterans possibly injured by a chemical defoliant. In 1986 a state representative wanted his name on the bill. The Senate passed its own version. Both chambers declined to take up the other's bill. Result: Veterans are denied help for a full year until the ego dispute is resolved in '87.

 Roads — Senators are actively looking at bills to allow local option taxes and fees. House members need study time to catch up. Result: bumpy, two-lane roads where workers and shoppers need smooth five-lane roads.

igan Legislature. It squanders valuable. time before settling simple issues such as rural speed limits. It becomes totally constipated on major bills.

We're denied social repairs not because one group makes a wrong decision, but because two groups make no decision at all.

THERE OUGHTA be a one-chamber legislature.

There's no need for two chambers. This isn't Congress, where you have the big vs. little state argument. By a U.S. Supreme Court decision of 20 years ago, population is the only criterion for apportionment - not acreage or tree stumps or property valuation. The argument for a two-chamber body is legally obsolete.

Can you imagine an industrial corporation, a union or a major church prospering - or even surviving - with a two-house board of directors?

One wrong notion is that a second chamber can catch mistakes made by the first. In truth, mistakes more often are made because the attention of the public, lobbyists and press is divided. We watchdogs can't keep our eyes on two circuses at once.

Payment stopped for poor, but state still funds abortions

WHEN ABORTION is the topic, it is not unusual to hear words such as "horrifying" bandied about. Usually, though, the speaker is an anti-abortion advocate describing what he or she sees as the murder of countless unborn babies.

Last week, the speaker was Maxine Berman, a Democratic state representative from Southfield. She was addressing her colleagues on the House floor.

Stressing that she was not voting for abortion, Berman nonetheless spoke against a ban on Medicaid-funded abortions. She said the inevitable vote was 'horrifying news" to thousands of people across the state.

She was referring mostly to poor people who will no longer get Medicaid funding for a medical procedure that has been approved by the United States Supreme Court.

READILY CONCEDING that there are many sincere opponents to abortions, Berman railed against those who use the issue to single out poor people.

Even though abortions are legal, foes of Medicaid funding argue that taxpayers who oppose abortions should not have to pay for them with their tax dol-

Hogwash, says Berman, in so many words.

"I have only the greatest repect for those who religiously believe that abortion is wrong, but who also understand that not everyone shares their religion, or the intensity of their religion, and, thank God, in this country, we don't have to," Berman said in her floor remarks.

Part of Berman's point is that the very state legislators who piously vote against Medicaid-funded abortions have apparently no problem with taxpayerfunded abortions if the potential recipients are themselves, their families, or

Rich

"The truth is that thousands of state employees have paid insurance, paid abortion coverage," she said. "Statepaid abortions are available to legislators, judges, department heads and thousands of staff people and their families. But they were not singled out for discrimination. Why is that?

WHY, INDEED? Berman fears that the answer lies in "welfare-baiting" and "racism." She may be right. Sometimes, lawmakers seem all too eager to pander to these traits.

Fact is, hypocrisy has always been part of the abortion issue. Lawmakers on either side of the issue will tell you that well-publicized votes were often posturing for selected constituents. It' was no accident, they say, that the veto overrides always fell one or two votes shy. That way, most legislators could boast that they voted against abortions, some could bargain their vote with the governor and ultimately Medicaid abortions would continue.

A. petition drive has ended that part of the chicanery. The governor by law cannot veto last week's vote, so now the battle heads to the courts. Still, the hypocrisy continues. Berman said several legislators told her privately that they agreed with her remarks. They didn't vote that way. It seems they don't get votes or contributions from welfare mothers. They are, however, covered by a stateinsurance plan. And that plan coversabortions.

Our birthday parade will be special this year

WILL YOU STAND, doff your hat, or place a hand over your heart as the Stars and Stripes go by Saturday? Or are you among those who scoff at the emblem of their country and whose snickering infuriates patriots?

There's a touch of something extra to the Fourth of July this year because 1987 is the 200th anniversary of the United States Constitution, thus adding to the significance of Independence Day.

From coast to coast, there will be parades, climactic after-dark fireworks (except in communities where the insurance premium has been judged too exorbitant to pay) and family outings by the ton as we celebrate the nation's birthday.

I am pleased to belong to a parade-happy family and personally have tooted a horn in 'em, organized 'em, or merely watched 'em by the score.

IN OUR TOWN Saturday, it will be close to an hour from the parade's starting point before it reaches the residential corner where we'll be picnicking on a friend's front lawn, but no one in the crowd will complain at the wait. It's part of the

Lobby fears costlier campaigns

By Warren Hoyt special writer

Partial public financing of legislative elections similar to the system now used in gubernatorial races, and a continued low threshold of contributions that must be reported, have been proposed by Commmon Cause of Michigan.

Cele Friedstater, acting executive director of the public interest group, said proposals in the House Oversight Committee to increase the reporting threshold to end reporting of loans that are repaid during a reporting period are invitations to concealment.

"In light of the present crisis of confidence in the relationships between legislators and lobbyists, any effort to reduce reporting of contributions of financial transactions could be regarded by the voters of Michigan as an attempt at a partial cover-up," she said.

Friestater said she hopes the "crisis" — stemming from an alleged bribe attempt of a legislator by a lobbyist - makes people more aware of problems in various campaign financing and lobby laws.

LEGISLATION IN House committee would increase the $20.01 floor for candidates to report contributions to $25, which a committee aide said would make the amount consistent with itemizing requirements in other sections of the law.

However, some legislators favor a higher threshold of $30-$35, more in line with common prices for fundraising tickets.

Friestater said partial public fi-nancing, in which a candidate receives matching funds for private contributions, would help reverse the trend toward increasing reliance on political action committee (PAC) money by legislative candidates.

A Common Cause study showed the percentage for all legislative candidates increased from 42 percent in 1978 to 54 percent in 1982. And among members elected to the House in 1984, the percentage was 57 percent, while 27 of the 100 members received at least 70 percent of their campaign funds from PACs.

HOUSE OVERSIGHT Committee Chair Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, said there may be too much PAC money, but even then, she believes

"You're looking at a system that clearly has its flaws, but it's difficult to figure out how to change it. The disclosure laws are very adequate. The bottom line is if somebody wants to break the law, they will find a way to do it," she said.

Berman defended increasing the individual contribution limits and tying future increases to inflation, saying the trend to increased PAC money is, in part, due to limits onindividual contributions that were never raised after 1978.

Her package of bills would not change the PAC contribution, limits, but would raise individual limits to $2,150 from $1,700 for a governor's race, $600 from $450 for a Senate race and $350 from $250 for a House

She said public financing would be a great idea for legislators to reduce PAC influences, but does not believe it to be realistic because of the potentially tremendous cost for the 148

Contributions between PACs are not necessarily reported, and she and other critics say that makes it harder to trace movement of money.

Part of the package before the House Oversight Committee would require quarterly reporting of all activity by PACs. Berman said the 30bill package will probably be taken up this fall.

Even Albert Einstein and Marie Curle weren't born knowing all there is to know about science. Just like anyone else, they had to start out by asking questions and seeking answers.

"If you've ever asked a question, you're a scientist," said Terri Brewer, program director for the Novi-based Living Science Foundation. Even a child's classic query of "But why?" qualifies that youngster as a scientist.

For a group of 24 area children, last week was a good time to ask questions and learn all they could about the world around them.

The children participated in a science and nature day camp, sponsored by the Living Science Foundation and Plymouth-Canton Community Education. The day camp included a variety of activities designed to help the children learn all about the world of science.

DAY CAMP sessions were held Monday through Friday at Hulsing Elementary School in Canton.

For 7-year-old Carol Muller, learning all about dinosaurs and other animals made the week a fun one.

"I like seeing all the animals and learning about them," said Carol, a third grader from Dearborn Heights. She'd like to be an archaeologist when she grows up and would search for dinosaur bones and fossils.

The animals the children saw during the day camp weren't the most typical of house pets. Big Red, a green-winged macaw, and Boa Diddley, a boa constrictor, were among the visitors during the week.

Plymouth's Daniel Steinhelper, 8, was among those children who had their picture taken with Boa Diddley. A third grader at St. Paul's School in Northville, Daniel wasn't particularly nervous about holding the snake.

"It feels weird, because it's slithery on your neck," he said. "It feels neat when you're holding him."

neat when you're holding him."

Daniel agreed with Carol that the day camp made for a fun week.

"It's about science and a lot of fun things," he said. "It's fun to come here. We learned about all the animals."

Last week's program, for children ages 5 to 11, included plenty of fun-time activities. Children spent a part of each day playing on the playground at Hulsing.

OTHER ACTIVITIES included learning about the kingdom of life,

Staff photos by Bill Bresler classifying animals and plants. The children made "fossils" out of plaster and designed clay sculptures of animals, using live animal models. They also discussed the five senses and how each provides us with information about our surroundings.

"It's a lot of fun when you work with the kids," said the Living Science Foundation's Brewer.
"They're fascinated with all the kinds of things they can do."

kinds of things they can do."

The boys aren't the only ones learning about science; girls were well-represented at last week's day camp and at other Living Science Foundation programs.

A number of the foundation staff members are women, said Brewer, who received a bachelor's degree in biology from Central Michigan University.

"Now they see that it doesn't have to be a man who's a scientist." Some of the girls are braver when holding the animals than the boys are, she said.

A NUMBER of boys and girls participating in the programs are interested in science-related sareers, said Bonnie Neff, camp director for the Living Science Foundation

"You need to tell them the kinds of things they come across," Some youngsters are interested in becoming physicians or veterinarians; they're often not aware that such professionals work with sick or injured people and animals and that the job takes its emotional toll,

Foundation staff members conduct science programs in schools throughout Michigan and provide classroom materials and programs for science teachers. Programs for senior citizen groups and for college students majoring in education are also included.

"Science is a fun thing, because It's doing," said Neff, who has a bachelor's degree in biology and education from Central Michigan University. Studying science allows children to work on their skills in math, reading and other subjects; they learn to follow a thinking pro-

"It's a way of solving problems and it's a way of finding out information," Neff said. Studying science can include examining your own fingerprints or designing a model airplane.

Working on science projects allows children to learn about teamwork; they also learn to concentrate on the task at hand. "It's basically a detective job. If you learn the method, it all falls together."

Foundation staff members aren't afraid to tell the children they don't know an answer, Neff said.

"And being wrong is what 99 percent of science is. But that's part of the process.'

Throughout its 106-year history, the American Association of University Women has been an organization exclusively for women.

That changed last week when delegates to the AAUW's 34th biennial convention voted overwhelmingly to admit men as members. The vote was taken June 22 at the convention in Houston, Texas.

The Plymouth branch of the AAUW was represented at the convention by delegates Barbara Greanya and Susan Silletti.

Both local women supported the move to admit men as members, "as did, I think, probably the whole Michigan delegation," Greanya said. Michigan's delegation included some 40 people.

"It doesn't change any of our basic goals or what we work for or believe in," said Greanya, president of the Plymouth branch of the

The AAUW's membership had included some women from California's judiciary. Greanya said, those women were not allowed to continue to participate in AAUW's activities, due to the organization's women-only membership.

PCAC search is under way

staff writer

The Plymouth Community Arts Council has been looking for a few good men and women - and they've found them. Some 45 to 50 people have applied for the PCAC director's position.

'Some are fantastic," said Pat McCombs, president of the PCAC. Very diverse, extremely qualified. Some have run arts councils

Some of them have very, very extensive backgrounds.

The local arts organization, founded in 1969, is seeking its first director Tuesday, June 30, was the deadline to apply for the director's posi-

Applications were received from throughout Michigan and from such other states as Florida, Ohio, Wisconsin. Kansas and Nebraska, McCombs said

The director's responsibilities would include programing, public relations, staff and volunteer supervision and day-to-day operations. He or she would also be responsible for writing grant proposals and for developing and managing artistic and financial growth.

"We've done a lot of legwork on this," McCombs said.

PCAC MEMBERS will probably start interviewing applicants in mid-July and will continue interviewing through August, she said.

"Some of them are just probably going to be out of our league. There's no way we could afford $50,000 or anything like that."

Some 10 to 15 applicants have already been eliminated from consideration, she said. Five PCAC members, including McCombs, are looking at the applicants' qualifications. The other members are Dorothy Magee, Pam Mincher, Doris Chatterley and Carol Davis

Those reviewing applicants' qualifications will look at each person's background. The director would need to have a good personality. McCombs said, he or she would need a good business background and would need to be able to work effectively with about 200 volunteers, which isn't always easy."

A second interview will probably be done for a smaller number of the applicants. Such an interviewing process will help the PCAC members learn more about each applicant; it will also help the applicants learn more about the PCAC.

"And our organization is so different from a lot of other organiza-

FILLING THE PCAC director's position will depend on whether the local arts organization receives a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts. The decision on the grant application won't be known until late August or early September, according to McCombs.

Last year, the PCAC received a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts. Part of that grant stipulated that the organization find a consultant to help prepare a long-range

PCAC members worked with consultants Phil Jenkins and Judith Sheldon of Bryn Mawr Associates; one recommendation included in the resulting long-range plan-was the hiring of a full-time director

. While interviewing applicants for the director's position, PCAC members will be straightforward about the status of the Michigan Council for the Arts grant, McCombs said. Most applicants with an arts-related background will understand that kind of thing.

"Certainly, we've had men help us all the time. We've had lots of

The convention in Houston closed last week with a ceremony at the NASA Johnson Space Center honoring Dr. Judith Resnik, who was killed in the explosion of the Challenger space shuttle. Resnik was an AAUW member and a recipient of a fellowship from the AAUW's educational foundation.

More than 1,300 AAUW branches joined forces to raise some $320,000 for an endowed fellowship in Resnik's name. The fellowship will support women in science and engineering. The AAUW's educational foundation awards more than $1 million each year to advance education, research and self-development for women. In 1988, the organization will celebrate the 100th anniversary of its first fellowship award.

That first fellowship was awarded at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, Greanya said. The AAUW's Michigan division annual meeting will be held in Ann Arbor, in honor of that anniversary.

Pray ball

eague focuses on fellowship

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Games in the Livonia Christian Fellowship Softball League don't start with the traditional cry of 'play ball."

The call of "let's pray" is always the first order of business to be answered.

And pray is something that both teams do together. Members of the 18-team league, which plays its games on Fridays in Edward Hines Park, meet in the center of the diamond to share in Christian fellowship both before and after games.

With heads bowed, players quietly form in a circle. "You're up there and you ask the Lord to keep you from injury and to keep our tempers in check," said Rob McGuire of Livonia, who manages the Livonia Baptist Church entry in the league.

PRAYER IS NOT the only thing which differentiates the Livonia Fellowship circuit from other, recreational softball leagues.

"The main difference is the practice of basic fundamentals of Christian fellowship," said Bill Textor, president of the Livonia Fellowship League. "This is not do or die to win."

Win or lose, players have to adhere to the rules. To go along with three strikes and you're out, players must always display good sportsmanship.

For example, there is no swearing allowed on the field (Earl Weaver and Billy Martin would have a hard time sticking around in this league). Also, smoking or drinking are forbidden on or near the diamond.

Players are removed from the game for any infringement of the rules.

Aside from legislative differences, the action is the same as in any average softball get-together. Players show just as much jubilation when smacking home runs and as much frustration (without swearing of course) booting ground balls.

A wide assortment of denominations are represented in the league. Baptists, United and Free Methodists, Presbyterians and Church of Christ are some of churches which field teams in the circuit.

Area churches with teams in the league include Memorial Church of Christ in Livonia, Covenant Community Church in Redford, Kenwood Church of Christ, Dunning Park Chapel, Alpha Baptist in Livonia, Bethel Baptist in Livonia, Merriman Road Baptist in Garden City, Westland Free Methodist, Forest Park Baptist in Farmington Hills, First United Methodist of Garden City, Garden City Free Methodist and St. Timothy Presbyterian in Livonia.

BUT WITH all the different churches, people involved in the Livonia Fellowship league say the competition doesn't become too heated amongst teams.

"There's probably not the same type of rivalries as in secular leagues," McGuire said. "The guys are out there with the understanding you're out there to have

"We're all Christians first and denominations second," added Tom Kropp of Garden City, who plays with Westland Free Methodist.

Interdenominational play can bring out some emo-

"When we played Westland Free Methodist last week, I felt a little pressure," said Kevin Dolin of Livonia, who manages the Garden City First United Methodist team.

In addition to providing good, clean competition, the league helps church members get to know one another. A player must attend two church services a week in order to play.

"It helps bring people out to church," said Ray Roberts of Westland, who plays on a team the Covenant Community/St. Timothy Presbyterian team.

"It does bring people in," McGuire added. "They see we have a good time without the roughhousing, the swearing and drinking beer. It's a good witness."

The big city should be our city as well

Rev. David Strong

I traveled into Detroit several times during this last week. I showed the People Mover and the Grand Prix sites to an out-of-state visitor. I explained the goal of the city to rebuild the corridor from Grand Circus Park to Wayne State University. These and other signs are evidence of hope for Detroit.

In contrast, my son drove down to Detroit several evenings and I was relieved when he returned home safely. This contradiction of hope and fear is symbolic of our experiences with Detroit. It is the dilemma of many American cities. We read the disquieting results of the Goetz trial in New York. Goetz shot four teenagers in a New York subway. The results of the trial seem to say that American cities are more and more like the western frontier. Safety lies in providing your own deadly force. We all need to take seriously the predicament of the city. This Fourth of July celebration can well be a time to ask ourselves whether we have the will to remake the cities into places of freedom and opportu-

I AM sad that the church that I am a part of has decided to leave the city of Detroit. We need to call Detroit our city. I cannot imagine any rebuilding of the life qualities of Detroit until those within and those without identify with the city as a place that must be saved. I would have hoped that the leadership of the United Methodist Church would decide to help this renewal.

We need to face the nature of the options. Will we allow the cities of America to become simply the depository of the poor, the criminals and the disadvantaged? There was a spirit of high resolve that led to the founding of this nation. We need just such a resolve to renew the most important resource, our cities.

Renewing the cities of our nation is as much an uphill battle as was the freeing of our nation from British rule. In both instances the goal is freedom from oppression. The freeI cannot imagine any . rebuilding of the life qualities of Detroit until those within and those without identify with the city as a place that must be saved.

dom from an external force such as Great Britain is much easier to bat tle than the oppression of racism. poverty, crime, indifference. People who grew up in Detroit remember . when it was a great city. Now there is contradiction. No one is clear which way the forces will push us: decay or renewal.

Every theological impulse should drive us toward a redemption of the city. Yet this is not the pattern we "Who is my neighbor?" the Master asked. The gross waste of neighborhoods, lives, institutions should disturb the churches. By and large it is

WE USE every excuse. The truth is that our heart is not in it. Essentially there is no church cooperation in Livonia, much less concern for the city, our neighbor.

Religious and political leaders who are concerned about the city will only arise when we have changed our perspective. Only when we truly want a new Detroit will there be a commitment to make it

It may take generations to reverse the attitudes. Wouldn't it be wonderful to have a great and glorious city again! Wouldn't it be great to throw off the oppression of the fear and decay that haunts our town? How will we see this challenge? How will we

America adopts a French dish

Q. Can you settle our family's an-nual spring debate: Did ice cream originate in the U.S.?

A. With estimates that Americans ate more than 800 million gallons of ice cream in 1982, you'd probably think it was invented here.

However, it was the creation of a 17th Century French chef, DeMarco. He was commissioned to create a state banquet in honor of England's King Charles I. The iced concoction was so popular that Paris cafes soon began serving what was then called

Ice cream did not really gain widespread popularity in the U.S. un-til 1846 with Nancy Johnson's (no relation to Howard) development of the first hand-cranked freezer for

In 1904 ice cream insured its continued popularity with the invention

INDUSTRY EXECUTIVES claim that "no one eats more ice cream than Americans." That is both good news and bad.

The good news is that most ice cream contains protein, amino acids, calcium, Vitamin A, phosphorus, ri-boflavin, thiamine and other vitamin and minerals in small amounts

The bad news is that usually the richer and more exotic the ice cream, the higher in calories it is. On the average, ice cream contains between 130 and 150 calories per fourounce serving. (Since ice creams vary, check the label on your favorite flavor to get the specific figures.)

One rule of thumb: Expensive brands are usually heavy and dense, with more butterfat than the less expensive varieties. Expensive brands usually contain 15-16 percent butterfat and weight approximately 16 ounces per pint.

Less expensive brands will contain
10-11 percent butterfat and weigh nine ounces per pint.

A TREND in the ice cream industry is toward "natural" Ice cream no artificial flavors, no chemical stabilizers, emulsifiers or neutralizers. They are usually sold only in pint sizes for home consumption and are higher priced than other brands.

Many exotically named ice creams - including Haagen-Dazs, Alpen Zauben and Frusen Gladje originated and are manufactured in the U.S., specifically New York

Whether you scoop it, shake it or cover it up with sauce, ice cream is one of the most popular foods of the 20th century. Not only does it taste good and refreshing, it gives the eater an immeasurable amount of pleasure. And you can thank the French chef, DeMarco, for it all!

Sons have long followed their father's footsteps in the business world. Now it looks like more and more daughters are beginning to capitalize on business relationships with their mothers.

Mother and daughter business owners say there are many advantages to such partnerships. Jone Antenucci, of the state Office of Women Business Owners Services, expects the problems "would be no more than any family-owned business where you have the struggle for decision-making authority and-defining areas of expertise and areas of respon-

A division of the Michigan Department of Commerce, the office of Women Business Owners Services was created in 1982 by Gov. Blanchard to accommodate the growing demand from women for services and counseling directed toward the specific problems faced by female business owners.

Although no statistics are available on the number of mother-daughter businesses, the sheer number of women starting businesses would seem to reflect that mother-daughter business operations may become as commonplace as father-son operations have been in the past.

There are an estimated 156,000 women business owners in the state. By the year 2000, it is projected that 50 percent of all businesses in Michigan will be owned by women. Eighty percent of new business starts are by women, five times the rate of men going into business.

Brava Women's Boutique

Lee Duke was a fashion coordinator for Hudsons. Her daughter Michelle was a registered nurse at St. Joseph's Hospital in Pontiac when they abandoned their careers and launched their own business last year, Brava Women's Boutique in Birmingham.

"One advantage to being in business together is the two of us tend to think alike and have the same tastes," Lee Duke said. "It is also easier to get away from the store when you are leaving the business with someone you trust implicitly."

Lee Duke credits the determination of the two with getting the business off the ground.

"It is very difficult with two women, especially in retail which is the second-highest risk business, with restaurants being the first.

The Small Business Administration denied their loan guarantee on the first request, but the two women were successful upon appeal.

ONE OF THE DISADVANTAGES of a motherdaughter business operation for Lee is crossing the line from business partner to mother. Michelle added another:

'If you disagree, you have to be more diplomatic. If it were just an employee, you could just speak your mind."

But the two women would advise others trying to get started in their own business not to give up. 'If you believe in yourself and believe in what you are doing, go for it," Lee advised.

Chambers Unicorn's

Joan Chambers started Chambers Unicorn's Gardens in Southfield four years ago while her daughter Kathleen was working on a degree in industrial engineering at Lawrence In-sititute of Technology. She started the business without previous experience, and Kathleen credits her mother's design flair with keeping the flower shop afloat.

"Mom's talent carried us through," she said. "It's not been easy, but I love and enjoy it, and I can't imagine working for someone else. The hours are long and the pay is low, but I love it."

Kathleen began in the business doing bookkeeping while still in college. Now, as partner, has begun to help with some of the designing.

One advantage is Mom and I are friends, so it is like working with your best friend. We complement each other. We have the same tastes and differences and that seems to enhance the business. It is a lot of fun working with Mom."

Aim your sales promotion toward the right people

common?

· A podiatrist offers free foot examinations to high school students involved in team sports at school.

 A software manufacturer introduces a new product for retail florists by running a price deal among local wholesalers working directly within the industry.

· A CPA firm sends staff members to a three-day sales conference in Las Vegas

All three are examples of sales promotion. By definition, sales promotion refers to any activities that complement the personal selling, publicity or advertising efforts of a new or existing business

Sales promotion activities may be aimed at any one of three distinct groups. These include: (1) the final consumer or end user of a firm's product or service. (2) middlemen, and (3) the company's own sales force or employee staff When directing sales promotion to the final consumer, the objective is to try to increase demand or speed up the time of purchase

SALES PROMOTION directed at middlemen stresses price-related matters because the objective may focus: small business Mary DiPaolo

be to encourage stocking new items, buying in larger quantity or buying early. When appealing to the company's sales force or employee staff, sales promotion objectives may range from recognizing staff for outstanding achievement, encourage getting new accounts, selling a new product or stimulating sales for the business in general.

Creative sales promotion can be very effective; but sales promotion - like publicity - currently represents a weak spot in marketing. This is especially true within the small s community where sales promotion is carried out only when any promotion money is "left over"

ALTHOUGH NEGLECTED to a large degree, sales promotion expenditures among firms nationwide are estimated to be much larger than the total amounts spent for advertising. Coupled with the fact that sales promotion spending is experiencing significant growth, it represents an area of promotion deserving more attention.

As small business owners and managers, it is foolish to ignore sales promotion for what it is - a powerful tool that can have a major effect on the successful promotion of your business. For additional information on sales promotion and sources of assistance, entrepreneurs may call me at 474-1149

No-load mutual funds have built-in expenses

and

eries,

Envi-

"I like to buy only no-load funds" is a comment I frequently hear And yet, national statistics show that, in addition to no-load funds, investors continue to buy in droves load, lowload, and back-load funds

Even more surprising is the fact that there are frequent crossovers between different types of funds. This suggests that no-load fund investors are not necessarily happy with the results they obtain, and investors don't mind investing in front-load funds if there are real expectations of obtaining satisfactory results from these investments

Confusion abounds

Part of the reason for the currently existing confusion is the variety of ways in which mutual funds levy charges on their investors.

Let's begin by putting you in the driver's seat. Try picking from the no-load/low-load/back-end load/ front-load sequence.

challenge, choose from the management/maintenance/redemption/distribution smorgasbord

Oh - and don't forget the sales commissions/transaction charges.

Regardless of which fund you choose, you will need a Ph.D. in finance to accurately figure out which fund nets you most after all the fees and commissions have been factored in No-load funds do not necessarily top the list, and the front-end load funds are not necessarily pushed to the bottom.

So you may have a healthy appreciation for the multitude of fees and charges, I will divide these charges into five major categories · Front-end load or sales charge or commission. This is the highest single expense and is levied by about half of all (1,700) mutual funds existing today. This generally costs you 8.5 percent of your total investment and is deducted before you money is invested in mutual fund shares.

Note that "break-points" are an important feature of these funds. Or if that doesn't give you the For instance, if you invest more all funds in existence today.

finances and you Sid Mittra than, say, $25,000 in a load fund, your load may go down to 6 percent. Invest $40,000 and the load might be as low as 4 percent.

· Low-load funds. These funds are similar to the load funds except that the loads are typically as low as 3 percent or 4 percent. An interesting feature is that some funds deduct loads from dividend reinvestments whereas others do not. This does create confusion when you try to calculate the total load charges

• Back-end load funds. An extremely popular group, these funds hit the market in 1982, and in this short time they account for a third of

The main source of confusion is a little known - and thoroughly misunderstood - 12b1 charges commonly referred to as "hidden fees." In October 1980, the SEC adopted rule 12b1, which sanctioned the use of fund assets to cover distribution

Prior to this rule, funds could not bear any expenses relating to distribution (expenses relating to marketing, brokerage commissions and advertising). The intent was to enable funds to remain competitive, thereby yielding higher net returns to the

Funds in this category don't charge a front load. Instead, typically the back load is around 4 percent, you redeem your shares within one figure an average expense ratio year. Gradually the percentage decreases to zero over a period of four

• Advisory (management) fee. This category represents manage-ment fees and expenses billed to accounting, printing, mailing and marketing. Management fees can add up to 5 percent of your total invest-

. • Exit or redemption fee. This fee is deducted from the money you take out of a fund and can range from a flat fee of $2.50 per withdrawal to as much as 1 percent of the amount withdrawn.

The lure of expense ratio

It would be wonderful if some regulatory agency sponsored a legislation requiring all funds to publish an uncomplicated, single number reflecting the total fees and charges collected per $1,000 of investment. While funds are not required to publicize this number, it is possible to

Today, an average expense ratio on a stock fund is 1.09 percent whereas on a bond fund it is less than 1 percent. Also a 12b1 fee of up to 2 5 percent is considered reasonable

All this sounds great, but there is a catch The total fees you will ulti mately pay will depend upon what type of fund you choose and how long

you remain invested in it In our next article we will discuss the various types of commissions and fees charged by mutual funds

Prospective employers look for motivated teens

Teens seeking a part-time job to earn money for college, a savings account or a new bicycle or car should communicate their goal to perspective employers who are looking for motivated young workers.

That's the advice of Denise Ilitch and friends about the employer's Lites, vice president of Little Caesar Enterprises.

'There are many eager young people searching for part-time jobs, and the students with the best chances of getting hired are those who express their motivation in interviews.

'We have found that teens with direction — teens who have a purpose in obtaining a job - are the best. most productive young employees. When people work toward a goal, they work with more care and dedi-

She also recommends teens be ready to tell their perspective employer why they want to work for the company.

"If a teenager tells me what he or she has learned about our company it indicates extra preparation for the interview. I have found that a youngster is more likely to learn well and be prepared on the job.

Chewing gum company looks like a steady stock

fore, I spent quite a bit of time with a broker telling him that I was just starting out and asking for suggestions. I told him I wanted a good steady stock that would pay a good dividend and was likely to be worth a little more each year as time went by

He suggested I buy Wm. Wrigley Jr. Would you say that was a good

If you told your broker just what you have said in your letter, then it looks to me like your broker made an excellent choice for you. Wrigley is a company that has been growing steadily for more than 60 years. and it looks like it will continue to

Wrigley is the largest producer of chewing gum in the world Through the years the company has been able to increase its sales regularly. has translated that sales growth into earnings per share growth and has about 46 percent of the chewing gum market in the United States

Along with that growth, it has today's investor Thomas E. O'Hara of the National Association of Investors Corp. had earnings on equity that have averaged better than 16 percent for the last 10 years. Also it has had an after-tax profit on sales of better than 6 percent for the same time

TO HAVE such consistent growth in a mature industry, with such consistent profit margins, requires excellent management. The price of Wrigley's stock is $47.75 as I answer your letter. Standard and Poor's estimates earnings this year will be $2.80 per share. a. That means the stock is selling at 1712 times this year's earnings. That is not bad for a stock of its quality in the kind of market we currently have. The current price is higher than business to be profitable

Wrigley has sold for in the past but I would guess that there is still room for the stock to grow It is likely to sell at a higher price in the future, although I would not expect a it to double in price for another sev product, its management has shown marketing skill in developing new brands, in developing sugar-free gum and in adding bubble gum to Wrigley does about 30 percent of its business in foreign countries This means there is room for a lot of growth overseas.

WHILE WRIGLEY has a single

Also, the change in the dollar's value should make it easier for that

Bottle rocket most danger to children

What would the Fourth of July be without fireworks?

A lot safer, according to Dr. Henry J. Spiro, director of an eye care institute in Berkley.

Bottle rockets pose the greatest danger. They are responsible for 75 percent of severe eye injuries. A common accident occurs when a child leans over the rocket to light it and fails to get out of the way in time," said Spiro.

"The only safe way to enjoy fireworks is at a professionally pro-duced display," said Spiro.

The American Academy of Onhthalmology reported 14,000 fireworks injuries. More than 3,000 of these injuries affected eyes. About 1,000 result in permanent blindness,

The most common injury is a corneal abrasion, scraping of the cornea. In most cases this heals naturally but can cause some vision problems.

Also common, but more serious, is hyphema - the rupture of small blood vessels inside the front of the eye. It can result in blindness.

Purchasers say economy inching up

During May, business conditions in metro Detroit stabilized, according to the latest survey of the Purchasing Management Association of Detroit (PMAD).

A composite index of business conditions inched upward slightly from 44.5 in April to 45.0 in May.

"Survey respondents generally noted an even balance of stronger and weaker activity last month, said David L. Littmann, vice president and senior economist with Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit.

"New order activity fell, but was offset by somewhat better production activity, perhaps in anticipation of late summer work stoppages in the auto industry," said Littmann.

Weakest areas highlighted in the May survey were employment and inventories. The employment outlook was at its lowest level since last August, and materials inventories registered their lowest level since the PMAD surveys were introduced in October 1985.

Also noteworthy, local purchasing managers cited a continuing upward bias to prices. In several instances, it was directly attributed to the dollar's weakness against foreign currencies, especially the Japanese yen.

Items cited as in short supply during May included some electrical supplies, steel and glass products, plastic resins and onions (Texas flooding).

The PMAD survey report is compiled from monthly responses of local purchasing managers belonging to the 370-member PMAD.

Edison is praised as ambassador

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) presented Detroit Edison Co. its "regional ambassador" award, recognizing leadership in attracting new business to the seven-county region.

Edison officials received the award just hours after participating in a groundbreaking ceremony for a new production facility for V-Tech, Inc., a medical products firm locating in Dexter, west of Ann Arbor.

"V-Tech eventually will mean about 500 new jobs for southeastern Michigan," said Malcolm G. Dade Jr., Edison's vice president for community and governmental affairs, who accepted the SEMCOG award.

INFORMATION SYSTEMS AUDITOR

The Audit Department of Manufacturers Bank is extending a depth of its technical expertise in the Information Systems Audit Group. Individuals with strong computer related skills will be added to the existing staff to assist in the development and performance of computer-related audits.

This is an excellent opportunity for professional development and advancement in the field of EDP audit. These positions involve audits of automated services, data processing operations and systems support functions plus audits of large mainframe and personal computer applications. Activities also include research. development and execution of audit tests in combination with the tutoring of less experienced staff examiners. Audit findings and recommendations are presented to senior bank officers

Automated resources are used extensively for the purpose of data gathering, record validation, control testing and investigation. Cobol,  $\rm FL/1$  and a fourth generation interactive language (Ramis) are used in these activities.

The qualifications for this position are as follows:

Bachelor's degree in Computer Science, preferably with accounting and similar business-related studies

 Minimum of 3 years programming experience in the development and maintenance of IMS DB/DC applications on IBM-370 MVS/XA systems.

 Proficiency in the use of Cobol or PL/1, JCL, TSO and ISPF Effective oral and written communication skills.

Audit and banking experience are preferred but these can be supplemented by a well-developed aptitude for business and communication skills.

The Information Systems Audit Group will be relocated to the new operations center being constructed in Livonia. We offer a competitive salary and a comprehensive, cafeteria-style benefits package. For consideration, please send salary history and cover

North to Nanisivik:

Monumental challenge awaits marathoner in Arctic Circle

Gluskin picks unusual race for annual trip

staff writer

As a dedicated runner with a desire to travel. Ron Gluskin selects one marathon a year to enter, preferably in a place he's never visited

This year he outdid himself. This time he picked the most unique race he could find, not to mention challenging

The 55-year-old Bloomfield Township man will endure possible freezing temperatures, tackle high elevation levels and pound the permafrost instead of the pavement Sunday in the Nanisivik Midnight Sun Marathon. An encounter with wild animals in their natural habitat is even possible, though hopefully not during the race

The event, which bears the name of a small mining town in the upper reaches of Canada's Northwest Territory, will take place 480 miles inside the Arctic Circle and just 600 miles from the North Pole.

"I ALWAYS wanted to get up to that part of the world." said Gluskin, an optometrist with offices in Farmington Hills, and Livonia. "This meets two of my interests: one of my dreams was to visit the Arctic area and, secondly, I wanted to do a marathon

"I'm going to a place where only a handful of people have been in the history of the world," he added.

Gluskin, who competed in marathons in Boulder, Colo., last year and San Francisco the year before, read about the Nanisivik event in a running magazine and returned the entry coupon.

The run is sponsored by the company that owns the mine on the outskirts of Nanisivik, and the competitors will be housed by miners and their families. Consequently, Gluskin is one of only 85 who will compete since that is the maximum the miners can accommodate.

Running conditions will be much different than they were earlier this week for Ron Gluskin when he competes Sunday in the Nanisivik Midnight Sun Marathon. The 55-year-old Gluskin trains for the event, which will take place in extreme northern Canada, on an area road and in warm temperatures and summer clothing. However, he'll have to dress for the possibility of freezing temperatures and be ready to run 26-plus miles on permafrost and tundra in the marathon.

And I'm interested in only a rudimentary form of airport. "I'm as eager to go up there and seeing some of the art.

"It should be a total experience," he added. "I hope to take in everything I can. Running is what is tak-

THE RUN itself promises to be a grueling experience. First of all, there's the weather. THERE SHOULDN'T be any humidity, and the temperature should be just fine," Gluskin said. "Of course, that makes up for all the

Besides running 26-plus miles on a course made up of nothing but tundra, Gluskin will have to deal with dramatic increases and declines in

The race begins at a point barely above sea level (25 meters) and rises to a peak of approximately 3,000 feet (530 meters) three-quarters of the way into the race and drops quickly to sea level again (two meters) at its conclusion in Nanisivik.

'They say you can almost add an hour to your regular time," said Gluskin, who hopes to finish the marathon in four hours.

"IT SHOULD be interesting, because we're completely above the treeline. You have no trees to serve as visual guide to help you judge dis-

"You might see something that looks like a hill in the distance, and it could be 20 miles away," he added. 'It's just wide-open space.

Gluskin, who has trained for the marathon by running plenty of hills and doing so at 5:30 a.m. when the temperatures are still cool, expects to realize a great difference between the surfaces on which he regularly runs and the gravel road leading into Nanisivik, beneath which lies approximately two feet of permafrost.

"You're just not going to get the firmness you get from running on blacktop here," he said. "It will make a lot of difference, because your muscles are more tense.

"YOU HAVE TO pay more attention to keeping your balance and stride. And you have to have more concentration than you would if you were running on a blacktop road."

Runners from around the world. including one from Hong Kong, have entered the race. But, with so many other factors to consider, it's easy to overlook the competitive aspect of the marathon.

"I don't think you enter a run like this and worry about the competition," Gluskin said. "You don't enter

The Midwest Summer Hockey League begins another season of competition Sunday, but with a younger look than in past years.

A number of league veterans didn't return this year, and that opened the door for some new talent to step in and fill the rosters of the eight-team circuit. Injuries, fatigue and perhaps orders from their regular-season clubs to reduce out-of-season activity have kept some of the older players away, said A.J. Baker, commissioner of the

"Some guys from the area played a long time this year because of the playoffs and need a rest," he said For them, summer is getting to be a time to take off, no ifs, ands or buts about it.

"BUT THERE'S still a lot of tal ented players out there.

The league will once again feature some of the older, more skilled players who performed in previous dack Wings, John Doehr, Mike Stahley, Bill Trisch and Troy Thrun.

Doehr had a tryout with a Finnish team, and Thrun, who played for Western Michigan, spent last winter playing professionally in Germany. Stahley has experience with the Sarnia Junior B team, and Livonia's Trisch gained a year's experience at the college level before spending last season with the Livonia Senior team.

WHILE THE league has remained popular with players looking to stay active during the summer months, the number of new players makes it difficult for Baker to assess the overall quality in the league at the present time.

Elks tournament champions

Chris Kennedy's pitching in the final assured the Canton Elks they would win the championship of the Jackson Rebels Baseball Invitational last weekend in Jackson. But it was the Elks' booming bats that carried the team to the title

The Elks claimed the title Sunday with a 10-1 trouncing of the hostteam Rebels. Kennedy silenced the Rebeis on seven hits and no walks, striking out four.

The Canton team got all the runs it would need in the opening inning, scoring twice The Elks added three more in the third and iced their triumph with a five-run seventh three scoring on Steve Johnson's sixth

Ed Bardelli - who was five-forseven in the three games - had two hits in three trips, driving in three runs for Canton. Scott Browne collected three hits in four at-bats, scoring twice and driving in a run, and Johnson contributed two hits and three RBI.

THE ELKS advanced to the final by beating Jackson FOP 6-4 and Pennfield Merchants 7-5 Saturday.

In the victory over FOP, Canton trailed 4-2 entering the bottom of the fifth inning, but Chris Sisler unloaded a three-run homer to put the Elks on top 5-4. A run-scoring single by Tim Dowd in the sixth provided them with an insurance run

Steve Waite delivered Canton's first two runs with a single in the third, pulling his team to within 3-2. Derek Darkowski was the beneficiary of the late rally; Darkowski pitched all seven innings, allowing

While the league was loaded with more experienced players and, therefore, boasted more known ability two years ago, that shouldn't detract from the talent level now in the league

'There's still a lot of players who didn't make it through tryouts," Baker said. "I've got a waiting list as long as my arm. I could spend the rest of the day on the phone, putting together teams if need be."

BAKER IS hopeful of building a foundation with the young players that will be mutually beneficial for the next several years.

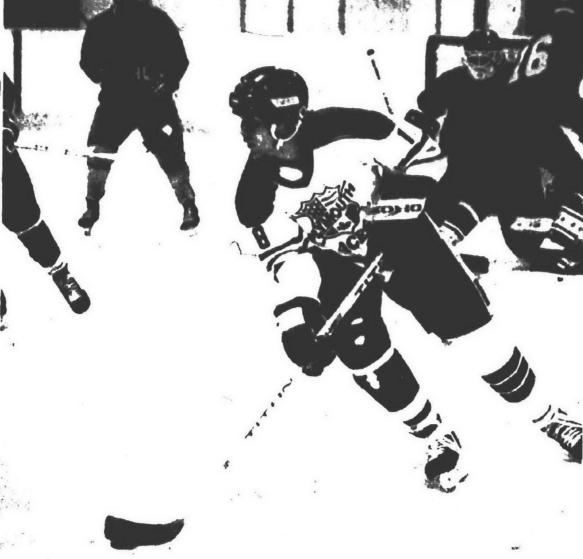

The new influx is at the 16- and 17-year-old age level, kids coming out of bantam and going into midgets or trying to get themselves ready for junior level," he said. "It's incredible the amount of interest at that level.

"If we can give them some good competition and show them this is a worthwhile league, they're going to come back. If they want to play summer hockey the next couple years, they're going to think of us first.

Some of the top young players include members of the Little Caesar's Rantam Major team that won a national championship earlier this year such as Canton's J.P. LaRoche and Livonia's Frank Mariani

ONCE AGAIN, Baker plans to run a clean league, one that is free of fights and bears no resemblance to others in which "they drop the puck. score a few goals and then drop the gloves," Baker said.

Podrasky, Tancill on same side again

Pete Podrasky and Chris Tancill will be teammates again, at least for a week, maybe longer.

The two played together three years ago on the powerful Compuware midget hockey team, but then went their separate ways, Podrasky to Northern Michigan University and Tancill to the University of Wiscon-

Both were recently invited by the Amateur Hockey Association of the U.S. to participate in the 1988 U.S. National Junior Team Training and Selection Camp, which will be July 23 through Aug. 1 in Fussen, West Podrasky and Tancill will each try to earn a berth on the U.S. National Junior Team, which is scheduled to compete in December for the World Junior Championships in Moscow The camp will also give U.S.

Olympic coach Dave Peterson a glimpse at this country's top young hockey prospects, possibly for 1988 Games in Calgary or the 1992

Podrasky, a defenseman from Canton and 1986 graduate of Catholic Central Central High School, is delighted about the opportunity to travel abroad for the first time.

"I KNEW THERE was a possibility, but when I got it (the invitation) I was surprised," he said. "I'm really looking forward to it and I hope to play well."

The 5-foot-10, 170-pound Podrasky said he is well suited for the international style of play.

The surface area around their rinks are so much bigger," Podrasky said. "I feel my biggest asset is speed and the way I handle the puck. I'm more of a finesse player than a physical player." Podrasky saw plenty of playing

SC forced to limit tournament entries

staff writer

Forget it. It's over.

No more will Schoolcraft College athletic director Mary Gans try to see just how many soccer games can be played in a three-day span.

That seemed to be the objective in years past when SC co-sponsored the annual Wolverine Soccer Tournament. As the tournament grew in popularity, attracting teams from surrounding states and Canada, Gans was only too happy to accommodate any additional entries.

No longer. Gans admitted Monday, "We cut back about 10 teams

Not an easy admission for a selfstyled soccer aficionado like Gans. But it was a decision that had to be handle it better," explained Gans. "If we have too many teams in one age group, it makes it unwieldy.

MIND YOU, Gans did not want to turn teams away But it's a testament to the sport's increasing popularity that he had to.

The eighth annual Wolverine tournament, hosted once again by SC in conjunction with the Michigan State Youth Soccer Association, will feature 170 age-group teams for both boys and girls. It is estimated that more than 3,000 youths from 10 to 19 years old will compete in games during the tournament.

Play starts at 7:45 a.m. Friday at three sites: SC (on Haggerty between Six and Seven Mile roads), Livonia's Bicentennial Park (on Seven Mile between Farmington and Newburgh roads) and Dickinson Junior High School (on Newburgh between Six 'We're trying to make it so we can and Seven Mile roads).

sites Saturday, starting at 8 a.m. Championship matches are slated to begin at 9 a.m. Sunday at SC only.

By Sunday evening more than 300 matches will have been played, making the Wolverine tournament one of the largest age-group soccer events in the Midwest.

A SPECIAL attraction of this year's Wolverine will be an all-star exhibition between the Michigan Arsenal and Livonia Marauders, two men's teams, which consist mostly of local soccer stars. The exhibition will be at 7:25 p.m. Saturday on field No. 1 at SC.

The tournament will cap off a week full of soccer at SC. A camp run by former Detroit Express star Trevor Francis concludes today.

Local teams will vie for honors in almost every age division of the Wolverine Among the girls teams entered are

• Under 12 - Livonia Hawks. Troy TNT. • Under 14 - Livonia Cosmos

 Under 16 — Livonia Lasers,
 Under 19 — Livonia Strikers, Troy Rockies, Livonia Hawks, Livonia Crusaders

Among the boys teams entered • Under 10 - Livonia Wolves.

Livonia Wolves '77, • Under 11 - Livonia Vardar III.

Under 19 — Canton Armada

That's 42 Observer & Eccentricarea teams shooting for championships. Among their opponents will be squads from four other states and Canada Such a field should make for an impressive weekend.

But that's a common trait of the Wolverine Tournament.

Could arena football prosper in area?

terest in sports, another new product has caught my fancy -Arena Football

As I was watching the game on ESPN-TV last Saturday night between the Denver Dynamite and the Washington Commandos, I kept dreaming up ways to bring a franchise here and make this Green Bay's version of "Titletown USA."

What an exciting thought, Arena Football, live from the Eddie Edgar in Livonia! It's a natural, of course, but first we'd have to raise the roof a few inches and erect some luxury boxes at Edgar, which has been mecca for such memorable events as the U.S. Weightlifting Championships, Over 30 Hockey and Bruiser Bedlam Wres-

How about a suggestion for a nickname? Please write me and convey your innermost and creative thoughts. How about Livonia Larks? No, that sounds too passive for Arena Football.

lot of local ties.

Here is list of candidates reportedly ready to step in:

Principal owner: Ed McNamara. Does not own a pizza franchise, but a good politician who seems to have his hand in many things in western Wayne County.

President: Monte Clark. Looking to get back into football, not necessarily as a coach. Currently owns a chain of Burger King restaurants. Without Russ Thomas hanging over his head, he could have it his

General manager: Mary Gans. Soccer background, but a go-getter who can work well with the players. His talents aren't fully appreciated at Schoolcraft College. Director of player personnel: George Allen. The Over the Hill Gang rides again. 'Eight players together can't lose." Director of marketing: Mike Adray.

He's done well in hockey and baseball, why not Arena Football? Could provide a sound stereo system. Players could study game films with their own personal VCRs and wash their own team uniforms.

Public relations director: Barry Bremen. America's best known imposter of athletes could do a great job of impersonating a PR man. He wouldn't have to worry about being arrested.

Security: The Catholic Central Dad's

Head coach: John Herrington. It would be a big jump going from high school to the pros. He's secure at Farmington Harrison, but could be lured away. Not as crazy as Gerry Faust,"but has demanded that line coach Bob Sutter be part of a package deal.

Offensive coordinator: Dan Henry. Another high school coach (Bishop Borgess) who can put points on the board in a hurry. His offensive game plans are sweeter than the famous candy bar.

Defensive coordinator: Chuck Gordon. His "Junkyard Dog" defenses at Glenn High School are legendary. The fans would be howling over his 150-pound nose guards.

Quarterback: Rich Hewlett. Never got a real chance at Michigan. An aspiring lawyer who could negotiate his own contract. He's a guy who can run the option and play defense as well.

Kicker: Tom Birney. Could be lured out of retirement. He used to be a straight-on kicker for the Packers. Just needs practice, but must fend off competition from Wayne Walker and Dale Livingston.

Center: Tom Piette. An All-Stater at Redford Union High and quality player at Michigan State. He played for Allen back in the old USFL days.

Tackle: Jeff Wiska. Another ex-MSU and USFL player.

Running back: Aaron Roberts. Quessomewhat disappointing career at MSU. Still keeps himself in tremendous shape.

Defensive back: Mike Skiver. Good credentials. Hometown boy and All-Mid-American Conference pick from Eastern Michigan. Overlooked by the NFL.

Tight end: Dave Hall. Livonian who played three sports at Michigan, including football where he was out of position as a backup quarterback. He's big enough to make the transition to tight end and could also play linebacker.

Territorial draft picks: Bob Wasczenski. A future who could fill the gap at wide receiver. He's been to four different schools in six years, but there's no place like home. Also, John Miller, a Michigan Stater who is two years away, but a versatile guy who can punt and carry the ball.

Cheerleading coach: Gary Hart. This is no monkey business. He has already lined up one All-American performer from the University of South Carolina. Dallas Cowgirls, watch out!

Craiger gets 3 victories in Pee Wee Reese play

Solid hitting propelled the Craiger travel baseball team to threestraight Pee Wee Reese League victories last weekend. Craiger knocked off both Southgate and Dearborn Crestwood by 6-4 scores and defeated Plymouth Universal 8-3.

Craiger trailed Southgate 4-1 Saturday before rallying to score five runs in the last two innings for the victory. Mike Setlock's double drove in pinch-runner Eric Marcotte with the game-winning run.

Scott Kapla's four-for-four performance paced a 13-hit attack while pitcher Mike Johnson surrendered just five hits in Saturday's win over Plymouth Universal. On Sunday, Vince Turri and Chris Moore each collected two hits to support

O&E accepting entries for annual golf tourneys

Sure, sure, you'd like to get out and play a few more rounds of golf now that summer is in full bloom. but there's so much else to do. There's lawn to cut, cars to wash, gardens to tend. Which leaves little time for golf.

But what about tournament golf? That's right, duffers, the 1987 Observer & Eccentric golf tournaments are fast approaching.

There'll be prizes for the top players in both the women's 18-hole tourney scheduled for Aug. 15 and in the men's 36-hole event, slated for Sept. 19-20. In addition, each entrant will receive a golf gift.

For excitement, it's hard to top the O&E tournaments. In last year's women's championship, Erica Zonder of Farmington Hills had a fourstroke lead with three holes left. But three bogies followed, giving Ann Lauer of Birmingham her chance.

Lauer took advantage of Zonder's lapse, finishing birdie, par, birdie on the last three holes to slip into the winner's circle with a 76 - one stroke ahead of Zonder.

THE MEN'S tournament was even more dramatic. Doug Cumming of Farmington Hills caught Mike Stegputt to save par on his last hole. But Cumming couldn't keep the magic going; on the first playoff hole, Steggles sank an 18-inch birdie putt to win the title

Both Cumming and Steggles finished the 36-hole tourney tied at 143 (one-over par). The top two prizes a $150 gift certificate for first and a $100 certificate for second - were divided between them

Both champions are expected to return to defend their titles. So are other past winners, like John Van Vleck and Nunzio Marino in the men's tourney and Kathy Heriford in the women's.

The entry fee is $20 for the women and $35 for the men. Women's entries close at 6 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 8, men's entries close at 6 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 12. Should rain force a postponement, the respective tourney will be rescheduled one week later (Aug. 22 for the women, Sept. 26-27 for the men).

To enter, simply fill out the form accompanying this story and return it, with your entry fee, to Whispering

The only operation support that will remain after July 1, 1987 will be Michigan State Funding from the Comprehensive Transportation Fund (gas and weight taxes). Therefore, Nankin Transit Commission finds itself in need to increase local financial participation. The Nankin Transit Commission has but one local source of income, that is the farebox. This will provide funding for the first 8 month period of operation in the 1988 budget, July 1, 1987 through February 29, 1988. During this 8 month period the Nankin Transit Commission will study and review all possible alternative measures of funding, to continue the small bus services in its communities (Canton, Garden City, Inkster,

Trapping program helps property owners, geese

ITH THEIR long black necks, white collars and large brown bodies, Canada geese are truly beautiful birds. They look almost as if dressed for a formal occasion.

Geese swim slowly and gracefully through the water, and unlike any other wild bird which visits or resides in Michigan, geese fly in groups in a nearly perfect V-forma-

They provide hundreds of hours of recreation for photographers, bird watchers and hunters.

Despite all these positive traits many land owners become irritated when large numbers of geese invade their lakefront property. Lets face it, too many geese can cause some pret-ty foul problems, and that's where the nuisance goose trapping program comes into play.

"For certain home owners the goose problem has become too much to tolerate," said Department of Natural Resources district wildlife biologist Tim Payne. "It's mostly the (goose) droppings in their yard or on their beach. The problem is that when the geese move into areas which are protected from hunting it's really hard to move them out."

THROUGH A COOPERATIVE effort with land and lakefront owners the DNR has organized a nuisance Canada goose trapping program for the past seven years. Through the program, more than 6,500 geese

"It's a highly public involvement effort," said Payne. "If a lake has a problem the land owners petition us. They must have a 70 percent majoritv agreement. Then we tell the people how to round up the geese and we come by and pick them up.

The majority of birds relocated through the program are the giant Canada geese that usually grow up to 10-12 pounds. Unlike the migrating Canada geese, which are three to five pounds smaller and travel great distances to find warm weather in the winter, the giant Canadas stay pretty close to home. If the winter weather gets too severe they may move as far south as Ohio or Kentucky, but they usually stay right here in Michigan.

THIS YEAR the roundup took place during the week of June 22-26. The DNR picked this week for a rea-

Goslings hatch in May and don't begin flying until the the middle of July, which renders the entire flock flightless through the end of the month. At this time geese can be herded, like sheep, into a pen where DNR officials later pick them up.

There are some areas in the state that we are trying to boost the goose population and this program helps us achieve that goal," said Payne. "It works relatively well, especially with the new birds. When geese begin to fly they relate with the area. When they reach their sexual maturity (at three years of age) they key back to that area they learned to fly and that's usually where they nest.'

Geese captured this year were relocated to the Upper Peninsula, Oklahoma and Missouri. They were all fitted with leg bands and the ones taken to the UP were also fitted with a green neck collar.

noon last week, theatergoers gathered to watch KAPO, the Nigerian troupe, perform a show of shimmering, bursting, exuberant vitality.

Split in two components, the Olympiad Festival took place June 19-20 on Wayne State University's campus in Detroit and again in Royal Oak Thursday through Saturday, June 25-27. Hosted by Stagecrafters theater company, the Royal Oak performances featured artistss from as far away as Japan and the USSR and as close as Detroit.

And Nigeria. The Nigerian compav. Kunle Akpor Performing Organization, came to present a show it invented for the festival. Called "Kalamambo," the six-act or "movement" performance combines traditional African culture with a very modern concern: nuclear pow-

. It's a swirling, gorgeous feast of song, dance and mime. Sixteen actors and actresses take turns at performance and music, appearing in a dazzling array of costumes, drumming and piping and singing.

The storyline concerns a magician whose bride dies of fallout poisoning. He journeys to the spirit world to bring her back, enlisting the aid of traditional holy men and fighting demons along the way. The result is a blend of modern concerns and traditional themes that carries the audience away with its naivete, freshness

BIRMINGHAM FILMMAKER chose the Livonia City Hall as the setting for a documentary starring Leonard B. Smith and the band he has led for 42 years, the Detroit Concert Band.

But Philip Handleman, who produced the film, anticipates that viewers from all over metropolitan Detroit will be looking in when "Star-Spangled Music" is shown at 7 p.m. Saturday, the Fourth of July, on WTVS-TV, Channel 56. All of Michigan's seven public TV stations are broadcasting the show during the holiday period.

'There's something electric about the music of the Detroit Concert Band under Leonard Smith's direction that charges up everyone in the audience," Handleman said. "I wanted to make a permanent record of one of his outdoor concerts."

Filming was done at a concert last September at the Livonia City Hall, a contemporary, gleaming edifice that makes a stunning backdrop for the performance.

The Livonia City Hall has a concave shape. It seems an ideal bandshell," said Handleman, in an interview Friday at his high-rise apartment at 555 Woodward

"STAR-SPANGLED MUSIC" was taped outdoors using four TV cameras. The 56-minute documentary includes band numbers, interspersed with Smith's comments on the band and his career. The original concert lasted two hours.

The single most monumental hurdle was the weather," Handleman said. In the show, the skies look sunny, but before filming got under way, "there were some clouds rolling in. We were sweating it out."

We spent countless hours determining camera positions (distance, height and angle), to show as many of the 50-odd band members as possible and feature Leonard Smith," he said. "We decided to record in ster-

Smith, a Detroit resident, is moving the band's offices to Vernier near Mack, on the city's east side, "four blocks from where we were. We needed more space, and an opportunity presented itself."

The office houses office equipment, a big mailing list, records and Smith's band library, "which is enormous. You need 50 sheets of music for each player. I have over 4,000 compositions. Some require two or three sheets. Multiply that by 100. . . . ."

BAND MEMBERS keep their own musical instruments, although some specialty instruments are stored at the office, such as a pair of 22-inch cymbals, and also all the uniforms.

The Detroit Concert Band serves other bands all over the world. Smith said. His catalogue contains 500 pieces of music, available to other bands. "I sell those in the public domain or those I write myself:" As a composer, he has had more than 400 of his works published and has written more than 500 pieces.

The band has a worldwide appeal to the record-buying public. "We're selling more records now in Japan than we are in this country Smith said.

Recently, the bandleader has been devoting time to raising funds for recording. "We've played too many free concerts," he said. He has raised $68,000 so far, which covers the cost of musicians and rehearsal for a recording session this week.

Smith and the Detroit Concert Band are recording three albums in a series called "Gerns of the Concert Band."

"We have 14 in the series, plus a soloist album," he said "We're doing three more, and will do 36 in all."

THEY HAVE recorded 25 albums, which also includes the Sousa Bicentennial Collection. "We've recorded all the known, published marches for band by Sousa — 116."

Smith came to Detroit before the war as first trumpet with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. He played with the orchestra on the "Ford Sunday Evening Hour."

"It had the widest coverage of a good music program in the country," he said.

He started the Detroit Concert Band when he came out of the Navy. Smith's claim to fame also includes doing the "Lone Ranger" trumpet call on the air for 17 years with the popular radio show.

That's entertainment 5 plus 2 equals exciting Fourth

By Corinne Abatt special writer

Meadow Brook Music Festival's July 4 concert with the Canadian Brass and William Bolcom and Joan Morris promises to have an appealing mixture of patriotic razzle-dazzle, pop favorites and classics.

Each of the two groups combines internationally recognized musical know-how with exceptional entertainment awareness. Both have many successful recordings to their credit and thrive on an original approach to their work.

"Our program will be heavily laced with American music and include a Sousa medley and new Gershwin material," said David Ohanian. French horn with the Canadian Brass, who returned from a tour of Japan just last week.

Ohanian, who is the newest member of the quintet and was with the Boston Symphony Orchestra for 11 years and Empire Brass after that, said playing with Canadian Brass "is exactly what I want to be doing and it's something very few others are

And that according to a Washington Post reviewer Roy Guenther is "Blending virtuosity, musicality, comedy and wit . . . they inspired equal measures of laughter and admiration from the packed house."

Ohanian said that while the programs are rehearsed and planned, they often "tour behind the album," meaning they play music from their new records - the interaction with the audience developed through experience rather than a script.

Although they may be playing while lying flat on the stage, wearing tutus (for ballet music) or after some take their music seriously and themselves less so.

Ohanian said each member has a strong identity both on stage and off. The approach was perfected in the mid 1970s, when Canadian Brass began as an adjunct of the Hamilton (Ontario) Symphony and played about 300 concerts a year for school

Eugene Watts, trombone, credited with the original concept, and cohorts found the students listened lively verbal exchanges, the Brass better and learned more when the music was amplified with humor and illustration.

They modified it for adults and were soon booked for concerts in Russia and China and have been on the go around the globe ever since.

'We're really a socialist organization," said Ohanian explaining that each is responsible for some special area. For instance, Watts does all the programing and Ohanian makes all the travel arrangements.

BOLCOM AND MORRIS are just now returning to their teaching positions on the University of Michigan music faculty in Ann Arbor after a year's sabbatical in New York City. He is a pianist and composer and she is a mezzo-soprano with a background in drama.

She said, "He had several large premieres at Weill Recital Hall (formerly Carnegie Hall)."

They were in Europe in April and May giving concerts and visiting friends, including the widow of his teacher, Darius Milhaud.

"We'll probably do two or three sing-alongs, 'You're a Grand Old Flag,' and things like 'Yankee Doodle Blues' . . . in our average concerts, we start with earlier songs from the '90s, then songs from the teens and Gershwin. Bill will play a set of his own compositions and rags," Morris said.

For the rags she mentioned composers such as Nazareth, Scott Joplin and Johnson, adding that they do songs from the '30s, but not much from the '40s and '50s.

Bolcom accepted a position at U-M in 1973 and the couple were married in 1975, she for the first time, and he for the third. Their careers as a duo, his as a composer and hers as a singer/actress, have flourished. They have recorded 14 albums, the most recent is "Lime Jello." His compositions have won many awards and he has several operas to his credit. He wrote the music for a libretto by Arnold Weinstein for "Dynamite Tonight," and the newest opera in collaboration with Weinstein, "Casino Paradise," will be previewed Oct. 10, 11 at the American Theater Festival in Phildelphia and produced as a total piece there in

Their album, "After the Ball: A Treasury of Turn of the Century Popular Songs" was nominated for a Grammy and the title song has become an integral part of their performances.

Bolcom's setting of William Blake's "Songs of Innocence and of Experience," a full-evening work with soloists, choruses and orchestra was premiered in Ann Arbor in 1984, had its world premiere at Stuttgart Opera and was performed by the Brooklyn Philharmonic last year.

Morris said they are returning to Ann Arbor refreshed and ready to continue the schedule of teaching, composing and performing, adding that recently "the whole pace is accelerated."

Expect the unexpected when Canadian Brass take over the stage at Meadow Brook on July 4. The quintet of highly trained classical musicians puts more than a little fun into their work.

Grand Hotel-better, brighter than ever

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

"Grand Hotel," by John McCabe, 1987, Unicorn Press, distributed through Wayne State University Press, $29.95

The Grand Hotel's story in the year of its 100th birthday is like that of a family which has survived four generations of good and bad leadership, with an interesting mix of strong and weak personalities, wimps and braggarts.

Through it all, the hotel had a mystique and a charisma that carried it along and helped it survive as a rich resource and a respected entity. It wasn't easy, but this grand dame of Midwest hostelries, now solid and mature, came through as the beauty of the Straits, the place all Michiganders hope to visit, at least for one weekend of their lives.

At first, the imposing structure on Mackinac Island was only a gleam in the eye of Senator Ferry and businessmen Gordon Saltonstall Hubbard and Francis B. Stockridge.

To his credit, builder, Charles Caskey, made wise architectural decisions, going with an uncluttered line. an inordinately long front porch and Michigan white pine. The site high above the Straits was nature's gift.

The obviously entrepreneural, no and 1,500,000 feet of lumber and finished it in about three months.

Leadership, however, wasn't any smoother than Lake Superior on a windy day. A hotel, maybe more that any other business, reflects the personality of the person in charge. And the Grand had a motley collection. The first, forgettable, John Oliver Plank, ran what was then called the Plank Grand Hotel. He was replaced by the colorful, public relations minded, James Reddington "The Comet" Hayes. Finally, after several more, along came W. Steward Woodfill, the manager/owner who poured his energy, his life and his heart into the hotel, giving it stability and organization and eventually its current owner, his nephew Dan Musser.

Dan and Amelia Musser brought vision, excitement and a determination to make the interior a functional, beautiful work of art. Woodfill had favored modern, what McCabe describes as "shlock modern." Woodfill liked plastic, vinyl, laminate and the furniture bolted to the floor, a practice that didn't exactly create an ambiance of gracious living.

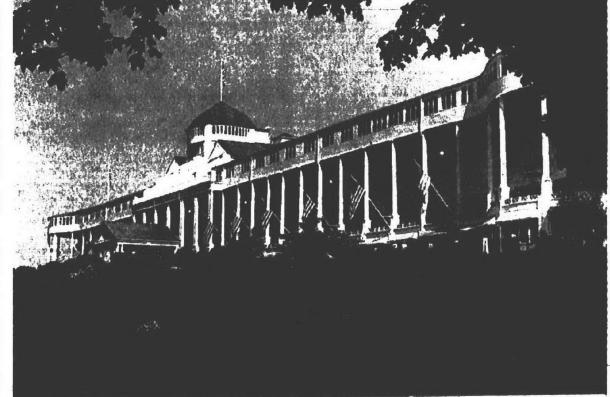

In 1977, the Mussers went to interior designer Carleton Varney for a new wardrobe for their grand dame, and this continues as an ongoing project. The burgundies, grays, faux Art Deco look and the stationary, plastic covered furniture have been replaced by the colors of high sumnonsense Caskey, used 300 workers mer, greens, whites, reds, salmon and marigold. The masses of geraniums outside inspired the decor of the Geranium Bar inside. The Mussers and Varney brought some wonderful antiques up from the basement where Woodfill had banished them, collected many more to turn the Grand Hotel into a expanded version of a lovely private home, complete with period breakfronts containing collections choice Oriental porcelains, fine oil paintings (Michigan artists included), silver candelabra, charming examples of early American primitive furniture and art and the refurbished original wicker.

Instead of a hotel, it has become Michigan's most beautiful example of a summer island home.

Woodfill may have been short sighted when it came to decor, but his vision of what the Island should be and how it should be run was 20-20. He fought, threatened and finagled to maintain the Island's integrity, from decorum and dress for the tour drivers to the running of the Mackinac Island State Park. He was a strong advocate for the construction of the Mackinac Bridge and wielded a fair amount of clout on its behalf when its future was in doubt. He kept the Grand alive when it could very easily have died.

MaCabe writes in a lively, bright, unobtrusive style that never interferes with a good story. He is the author of a number of show business biographies, among them "Mr. Laurel and Mr. Hardy;"

and is moving into its second century with

Grigg EFORE I even start this, let me just say that, for the most part, librarians are wonderful, helpful, considerate and knowledgeable Some of my best acquaintances are librarians. Librarians are the unsung heroes of writers, researchers and students - and even the casual book-seeker.

So, saying all that, I'll go on to ask Why, oh why, are so many librarians so insensitive to children? I spend a lot of time in libraries and I see this scenario over and over again:

A small child stands, hands behind her back or twisted in her hair), waiting to ask a question. When someone finally notices her, she stammers out her question in a voice barely augible (She is, after all, in the library.) The librarian sighs. "What? What? You'll have to speak louder than that."

The child clears her throat and asks again. She's looking for a book and she thinks the title is (fill in the blank), but no, she doesn't know who the author is

Now, that's asking for trouble right there not having the proper information, and the girl knows it - still, she really wants to read that

Or it may be she knows the title - even knows the author - but doesn't know how to use the card catalogue or locate the shelf. The librarian moves quickly and noisily to the shelves, the hapless child in tow, and woe betide if the book is there in plain sight, where it's supposed to be. By this time the child is sorry the book had ever been written.

The outcome may change, but the scenario stays the same - it is the child who looks the fool. I know that child. That child is me - and every other adult in that library watching that same sad scene and remembering.

There are still librarians the child in me will not approach.. They are just too loud, too overbearing, too rude. If I can't find what I'm looking for without their particular brand of "help," it's not so terrible to have to do without. And, yes. I know the rude ones are the exceptions, but which are the ones who stick in our minds? And in the minds of children, who should be - could be - thrilled about going to the library as to a movie.

CAROL MCGINNIS, freelance writer and part-time genealogical researcher from Mount Pleasant, saw a need a few years back for a comprehensive book outlining the state's family history research locations and resources. The outcome, after sending questionnaires to virtually every genealogical records source in Michigan, is "Michigan Genealogy - Sources and Resources." The 110-page book was published this spring by Genealogical Publishing Co. Inc., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore 21202 (Hardbound, $15, plus $1.25 postage and handling).

McGinnis describes locations of vital, land and census records throughout the state and lists libraries, historical societies, county courthouses and other records sources in easyto-follow alphabetical and county-by-county list-

The book tells which sources have the facilities or manpower for individual searches, how much they might charge, and whether there are restrictions on the use of their records. A valuable book, considering the interest in pioneer families during this, our 150th anniversary year.

Shuttle rides to fireworks available

A free shuttle bus service is being offered to transport spectators from the Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival to the Fireworks Display on July 4.

University of Michigan M-CARE
Health Centers will have four buses run continuously 7:30-11 p.m. Saturday.

Parking will be available for $2 a vehicle at Plymouth Salem High for both the balloon festival and fireworks.

The display is at Ann Arbor Trail and McClumpha. Salem High is on Joy just west of McClumpha Road, which intersects near Canton Center Road.

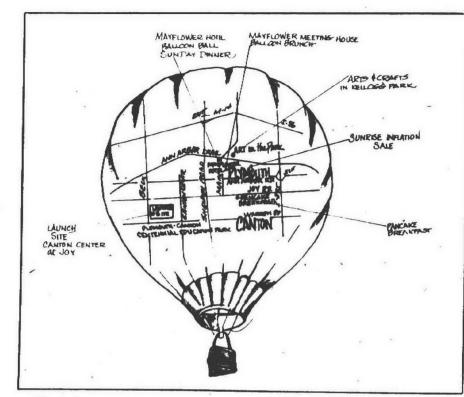

McClumpha Road will be closed to regular traffic during the festivities. There will be no parking inside Plymouth Township Park.

Shuttle bus pickups will be at the corner of McClumpha and Joy Road.

"The health centers' staff thought a shuttle bus service between the school and fireworks display would be a helpful addition to the festivities," said Peg Campbell, director of community and public relations for the health centers.

"We understand many people will come in for the balloon festival and, with their picnic lunch, go directly to Plymouth Township Park to enjoy the live music and await the fireworks display."
The M-CARE center in Plymouth is at 9830 Lilley just south of Ann Arbor

Raod. Another center is on Griswold in Northville and at two sites in Ann Arbor.

There is easy access from the launch site in Canton to activities in downtown Plymouth. The community can be reached from the east via I-275 to Ann Arbor Road or from the north via M-14 to Sheldon.

A Michigan landmark operated by the Lorenz family since 1939, the Mayflower is located in the heart of beautiful Plymouth, within walking distance of 150 charming shops. An authentic Bed and Breakfast Hotel, overnight guests receive a full complimentary breakfast or Sunday brunch.

Festivities celebrate independence

Residents this year will enjoy a colorful Independence Day — colorful hot air balloons at dusk, fireworks at

The seventh annual Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival is being staged on Fourth of July Weekend this year, which will result in double festivities on Saturday.

The festival will open at 6 p.m. Friday with the American Airlines Race at the Centennial Educational Park, Joy and Canton Center Roads in Canton Township. In the opening competition, pilots will be competing for a round trip for two to either Zurich or Geneva, Switzerland.

SATURDAY'S activities will begin with the Hare and Hound Race at 6 a.m. with ascent from Plymouth Canton High School at the CEP.

A Fly-In Pancake Breakfast will begin at 7 a.m. at Mettetal Airport, Joy Road at Lilley in Canton, sponsored by Experimental Aircraft Association Chapter 113. The breakfast is $3 each.

Mid-day Saturday will feature the 26th annual Plymouth Jaycees Fourth of July Parade beginning at 1 p.m. along Main Street in the heart of downtown Plymouth.

Saturday evening, at about 6 p.m., the British Airways Race will be held at Canton High on Canton Center south of Joy. Pilots will be competing for a round trip for two to London, England.

Then at dusk Saturday the Plymouth Jaycees Fireworks Display will be held at Plymouth Township Park at Ann Arbor Trail and McClumpha, just west of Sheldon Road. The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will provide a musical backdrop to the July Fourth fireworks.

The fireworks site is only about one mile north of the balloon launching site at the CEP. Spectators can easily walk along McClumpha from Joy Road to Ann Arbor Trail.

But for spectators who don't want to walk, a free shuttle bus service will be offered by University of Michigan M-Care Health Centers from the launch site to the fireworks site. Four buses will run continuously from 7:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday. Plenty of parking will be available at Plymouth Salem High on Joy just west of Canton Center Road.

SUNDAY'S activities will begin at 6 a.m. at Canton High with the C.N.T. Race.

The Sunday Balloon Brunch will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the May-flower Meeting House.

The competition will end Sunday at 6 p.m. with the British Airways Pickem Up Key Contest when balloonists will attempt to "pick" keys from the top of a sailboat mast from Bloomfield Beach & Marine at the CEP launch site.

On Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. the Balloon Ball will be held under the stars of the deck of the Mayflower II. There will be a live band, hot dogs, cocktails and dancing. Tickets are $6 each.

This year the Inflation Sale will be Saturday, July 11, and Art in the Park will be July 11, 12 in Kellogg Park. The Inflation Sale features 50 percent discounts at selected stores in downtown Plymouth beginning at 5 a.m., 40 percent off at 6 a.m., 30 percent at 7 a.m., etc.

The festival is sponsored by the Mayflower Hotel in cooperation with Canton Township, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and the city of Plymouth. Co-chairmen are R. Scott Lorenz, general manager of the Mayflower Hotel, and Gorden Boring, president of the Wicker Basket Balloon Center in Plymouth.

SEVERAL ACTIVITIES have been added this year to the above returning favorites.

One new attraction will involve AT&T giving away $30,000 worth of long-distance' three-minute telephone calls to festival goers on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights.

To keep children occupied before the lift-offs on Saturday and Sunday, Canton Parks and Recreation will be conducting special activities beginning 6 p.m. each day at the launch site.

Children may participate in helium balloon giveaways, parachute games, gigantic bubble making, water balloon contests and drawings for prizes from local businesses. An area will be marked off for these activities behind Salem High.

Another new attraction this year will be the sale of balloon mail cover sheets at the launch sheet. The mail will be "delivered" by pilots participating in a gas balloon race from Plymouth, Mich., to Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 9-11.

For $10 anyone can buy a stamped balloon mail cover at the launch site July 3-5 and enter his name and address on it. Some 2,500 pieces of balloon mail will be carried aboard five gas balloons in October to Plymouth. Mass., and upon landing be taken to the U.S. Post Office to be postmarked and mailed to the purchaser. Proceeds will benefit Straight, Inc., a substance abuse treatment center for young people.

There will be ample parking available at the CEP at $2 per vehicle. The Salem and Canton Athletic Booster Clubs and the CEP Band Booster's will handle parking and collect all proceeds. Funds are used totally to benefit the band and athletic teams.

In past years, balloon festival parking proceeds have been used to buy extra equipment, to go toward the purchase of uniforms, and pay some tournament entry fees.

This year the Mayflower Hotel will be sporting a new balloon, with the envelope featuring the Mayflower ship at sea.

race when he came closest to the center target but threw his marker, a powder-filled baggie, wide of the mark.

"I vowed that would never happen to me again," said the 33-year-old pi-

So Gauthier, a professional balloon pilot and a paramedic-firefighter, now practices throwing his baggie by running across the roof of the Your Attic self-storage facilities and launching it at an X chalked on the driveway.

"I'm serious about my ballooning." said Gauthier, owner of the Balloon Depot in Pontiac and pilot for Your Attic, which operates a facility on Haggerty just south of Ford in Canballoonist in the world and I have no reason to believe I can't achieve that in the next couple of years if I keep trying. I don't give up."

Indeed he does not. A balloon's direction can only be controled by catching the winds going the way a pilot wishes. That is accomplished by changing altitudes because winds blow different directions at each level.

Directing a balloon over a target is a very difficult task, but Gauthier also practices his skill by launching from a field several miles from his home and then attempting to fly over a Your Attic facility.

"My crew chief follows in our recovery vehicle and reports by radio as he watches me try to drop my baggie in the driveway.

Gauthier's diligence has been rewarded by the Federal Aviation Administration, which has selected him as the certified examiner for the Detroit area. That means he administers tests to aspiring balloonists to see if they are qualified for a pilot's license.

Nearly 13 years ago Gauthier earned his own license. His brother Guy, now manufacturer of Adams Hot Air Balloons in Atlanta, Ga., had mentioned he was interested in ballooning. and Ted became curious about the

"I was trying to decide between hang gliding, sky diving or ballooning when my older brother Joey (also a balloonist), who works at the post office, ran across a place that was receivaing balloon literature on his mail route. "I knocked on every door on that street until I found the place. I couldn't afford lessons but I kept on pestering the company to let me chase balloons as crew

"Finally I discovered that if you paid for a ride in a balloon it counted as your first lesson. I did it and I was hooked. I bought an old ragged balloon that had been used to train dozens of people and began training, since training in your own balloon was half price.

That first balloon was called Beachball, his second dubbed Temptation. Gauthier and his brothers now own five balloons.

To have enough free time to spend ballooning, Gauther became a paramedic-firefighter. He knew he could work two days of 24-hour shifts each week and have five off for flying.

Gauthier also has a college degree in emergency medicine and helps wife Lynn and brother Dan operate his franchise called Mail Boxes Etc., USA. a private postal business and communication service.

When the winds aren't right for ballooning, he flies airplanes. Gauthier once traded balloon lessons for flying lessons with an airplane pilot.

Sale and art is 2nd weekend

In past years the Plymouth Inflation Sale has been held the same weekend as the Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival.

This year the fifth annual Inflation Sale will be one week later.

Beginning at 5 a.m. Saturday, July 11, more than 30 Plymouth merchants will offer much of their merchandise at 50 percent off. ***********

At 6 a.m. merchandise will "inflate" to 40 percent off and at 7 a.m. to 30 percent savings, 8 a.m. to 20 percent, and 9 a.m. to 10 perecent off. Many stores will offer more than half their regular merchandise in the sale.

Because of the change in the Inflation Sale, the popular Art in the Park show also has been moved to the second weekend, Saturday and Sunday, July 11, 12.

Little known facts on hot air ballooning

Following are general balloon facts, some bordering on trivia, on hot air

Ballooning is the oldest form of air transportation.

An aeronaut is a balloonist, an aerostat a balloon, the basket a gondola, and the fabric portion an envelope.

Because balloons have less rapid maneuverability than other aircraft, balloons have the right of way.

Balloons fall under the jurisdiction of the Federal Aviation Administration in the United States and the Federatino Aeronautique Internationale all over the world.

Balloonists have their own organization (Balloon Federation of America. Indianolo, Iowa) and their own monthly magazines, Ballooning and Balloon

Student pilots, who must be at least supervision of a qualified instructor. and cannot take passengers. A balloonist is eligible for a pilot's license after he has reached age 16, passed a written exam and spent 10 hours in the air, including six flights under the supervision of an instructor.

There are now more than 2,000 licensed pilots and balloons in America.

One of the longest balloon flights was a transatlantic crossing made in 1978 by Maxie Anderson, Ben Abruzzo and Larry Newman in the gas-filled Double Eagle II. The duration was 137

Farmers' balloon help appreciated

staff writer

Michigan is one up on the rest of the United States, thanks to its new bal-

First of its kind in the country. Meadows Balloonport in the Island Lake Recreation Area will give hot air balloonists and enthusiasts a place to

Just south of I-96 at Kensington Road, the balloonport is a "real nice area sheltered in a bowl type setting that's good for half a dozen balloons to take off at a time," said Scott Lorenz, balloon pilot and Mayflower Hotel general manager.

The four-acre balloonport, replete with pavilion and picnic tables, was dedicated June 7, the day of the "Great Balloon Lift for Farmers."

Twenty hot air balloons were to be launched simultaneously to dedicate the state park facility - the first designated primarily for balloonists.

While it was too windy to christen the balloonport, spirits were high.

THE EVENT - sponsored by the Southeast Michigan Balloon Association as part of a national fund-raising project - raised close to $10,000 for local farmers, in whose fields balloon-

"The weather was not cooperative that day, and we didn't get to fly. But the flight was more symbolic than anything. We were there to donate a sum of money to a cause, and to that end we were successful," said Phil Glebe. corporate balloon pilot for the Pontiac division of General Motors.

"Nationwide, I think the amount of money being aimed for is $250,000 to $500,000." A lottery was to determine which needy farmers would receive proceeds.

Glebe, ranked No. 1 in the U.S. among hot air balloon racers, travels the country competing and staging Balloonists always have been appreciative of hospitable farmers.

"Farmers are a big part of our sport, specifically in a landing situation because we travel with the wind and can't always land where we want to," said Glebe.

"We're dependent upon cooperative people to let us land.

"The only time farmers aren't cooperative is when we land among the cattle and scare them, or in their crops."

"Without farmers, ballooning couldn't exist. We co-exist with farmers. We use their property to land on, in most cases, so we need to foster good relations and help publicize the plight of farmers," said Lorenz.

"I became well aware of the farming crisis long before it became public knowledge because I talked with farmers who had their houses foreclosed and lost everything they made during the recession. It's really a sad deal, seeing farmers whose families perhaps had a farm for a couple generations

FOR YEARS, balloonists have greeted farmers after landing in their fields with a peace offering of cham-

In France, where ballooning was born, the early pilots "had less control of their craft than we do," said Lorenz.

"When they landed, farmers would come up with pitchforks and puncture the balloons. Something evil was associated with it. They thought it was alive or something. The tradition of sharing champagne began to stop them from doing it. With champagne being a product of France, it was a natural thing, and the tradition has traveled around the world," said Lorenz.

Those interested in seeing hot air balloonists in action a little closer to home may visit the Meadows site through September. About 25 flights a week are expected to be launched from

Mail delivery takes on lofty approach

A two-century-old tradition of delivering mail by hot air balloons will be introduced to Michigan for it Sesquicentennial Year this fall in a balloon race with many other historic ties.

Balloon mail will be carried by pilots of five gas balloons competing in a race from Plymouth, Mich., to Plymouth, Mass., in Oct. 9-11.

The balloons will carry 2,500 pieces of mail, which upon landing in Plymouth, Mass., will be taken to a post office to be postmarked and delivered via the mail to purchasers.

The race itself, expected to last one day and a night, will be historic as it will be the first gas balloon race over the Great Lakes. Pilots will be floating over such sights as Niagara Falls. Lake Ontario or Lake Erie.

One of the five gas balloon pilots participating will be Gorden Boring, co-sponsor of the Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival.

THE FIRST delivery of mail by air balloon was in the U.S. in 1793 but it was an accidental occurrence.

The concept of balloon mail actually began during the siege of Paris in the Franco-Prussian War when 67 balloon flights were made in 1870-71.

When the Germans had surrounded Paris, the only way to communicate with the outside world was to send messages with pilots flying out of Paris in gas balloons. Of the 67 flights some 55 actually carried mail during the siege.

The first flight, powered by coal gas, carried 275 pounds of mail some 75 miles in less than four hours.

It is with this spirit of flying high to escape a siege that the Mayflower Hotel has undertaken the balloon mail project and race to raise money for the rehabilitation of youthful drug offenders besieged by the death-threatening habit of getting high by destructive means.

The air mail carried aboard the five gas balloons will be cover sheets stamped from Plymouth, Mich., and the final landing point of Plymouth, Mass. Each envelope will carry the postage stamp commemorating the 30th anniversary of the sailing of the Mayflower II - replica of the ship that carried the Pilgrims to America in 1620, from Plymouth, England, to Plymouth, Mass.

The four-color envelopes will be sold for $10 each prior to the October race with all proceeds going to Straight Inc., a non-profit organization that helps youth recover from substance abuse. Straight operates an office on Ann Arbor Road just west of I-275.

THE FIRST SALE will be at the launch site of the seventh annual Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival July 3-5.

Purchasers need only enter their names and address on the cover sheets. The 2,500 pieces, each expected to become a collector's item, will then be flown to Plymouth, Mass., in the October race, and sent via mail to the purchaser. (Some air mail covers of limited numbers sell for $150 to $200 each, such as the Voyager cover and the piece commemorating the first trans-Atlantic balloon flight.)

The idea of the gas balloon race originated with Carl J. Faukner, president of the Governors Motor Inns on the east coast, who has arranged for the governor of Massachusetts to greet the winning pilot at the race's end.

Faukner shared his idea with R. Scott Lorenz, general manager of the Mayflower Hotel and co-chairman of the July Hot Air Balloon Festival. The two came up with this means of linking the 30th anniversary of the 1957 sailing of the Mayflower II with the Michigan Sesquicentennial.

In mid-June Lorens and Boring travelled to Massachusetts to meet with Faukner to discuss plans for the race. Faukner is now making plans for festivities and award ceremonies in Plym-

Father & Son balloon hard to miss

Pather and Son is one of the logos which has become a familiar scene at the Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival.

John M. Raya, a construction expeditor for Father and Son Construction Co. of Troy, is a pilot for the company's hot air balloon entry.

The first Father and Son hot air balloon made its maiden voyage in the 1984 Nationals in Iowa.

Eight stories high, the balloon is adorned with the company's trademark - two smiling construction workers with clouds, a winking sunshine, and birds gliding across a bright blue sky. Different colored pieces of fabric, hand-cut and sewn together, form the famous Father and Son logo on the balloon.

The particular balloon now used is a 90,000 cubic foot Barnes AX-8b made in Stateville, N.C. Its maiden flight was April 25, 1986, in Macomb County. The wicker basket is large enough to carry four adults, the pilot, and four fuel tanks.

Father and Son also owns a rooftop balloon, a cold-air balloon which sits on top of a roof for display purposes. The rooftop balloon stands 45 feet high and can remain inflated day and night. For night use, a 1,000-watt bulb is suspended inside for illumination.

For Raya, ballooning has become a year-round avocation. 'T'm up in the air whenever the weather will allow it year-round. I put in more than 100 hours a year as a pilot, and that includes attending six to eight festivals every year.

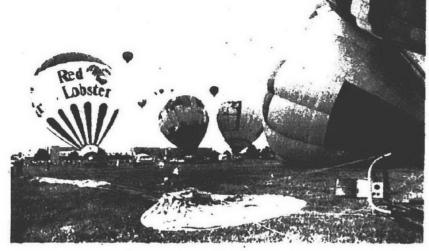

There are a lot of hidden pressures to hot air ballooning, says Raya. "It takes about four or five hours of your time for the average one-hour flight.

You have to be continually watching the weather, you have to get your crew and the people you're taking up together. You must check conditions at the field.

"And then, after the flight, you have to pack up the balloon and refuel.'

So one hour of floating through the air can be taxing, but Raya finds great pleasure and satisfaction in hot air ballooning. For him, like many other balloonists, it's a family sport. Even his three children, ages 9, 12 and 14, are part of his crew.

In fact, the 14-year-old is a student pilot, making this a true father and son combination.

Hot air balloons inflate and lift-off at sunset last year at the Centennial Educational Park.
