BIKIN': A Denver bicyclist was scheduled to pedal through town on Labor Day as part of a fund-raiser for the Michigan chapter of the United Cerebral Palsy Association.

Tim Leonard began a crosscountry trek for Cerebral Palsy in Seattle on June 1 and arrived in Michigan Aug. 14. He plans to raise $2 to $? per mile and expects to be in Boston on Oct. 10. He hopes to raise $18,000 from his 6,000-mile journey In all, he will bicycle 1,075 miles across Michigan, including his Monday trip through Plymouth en route to Ann Arbor.

Contributions may be sent to UCP of Michigan, 202 East Boulevard Dr., Room 360, Flint, Mich. 48503.

PHYSICS DEMO:

Stephen Rea, a science teacher at Plymouth Canton High, was among 41 physics teachers nationwide who participated in a three-week honors workshop on physics demonstrations this summer at Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, Va.

The honors workshop, supported by the National Science Foundation, focuses on the effective use of lecture monstrations and experiments

Rea, who lives in Plymouth, is president of the Detroit chapter of the American Association of Physics Teachers. He also is a designated physics teacher resource agent and coach of the high school Science Olympiad

Developer seeks relief from costs

By Doug Funke staff writer

A development company has indicated a willingness to build houses on one-acre lots in western Plymouth Township as advocated by the planning commission.

However, before starting, Tri-Mount Development Co. wants relief from pre-construction payment of utility benefit fees, estimated at $750,000, said Raymond Cousineau, vice president of project develop-

The company has sought other concessions, including relief from landscaping and off-site road paving requirements, before committing to the project.

The planning commission and township board have yet to agree to

"IN THE LAST week, we've really become sensitive to this." Cousineau said of the benefit fees. "The dollar amount creates a very serious problem. Paying up front is probably something we couldn't live with."

The township raised its benefit fees for developers and builders earlier this year to raise money to improve local water and sewer systems. Those costs must be paid in advance and usually are passed on to purchasers of homes.

Tri-Mount wants special treatment on the benefit fees and other considerations because it is willing to go out on a limb and develop a subdivision with unusually large lots. Cousineau said.

Area emergency phone plan still on line

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

Livonia's decision to connect with Oakland County's enhanced 911 emergency phone system will not be detrimental to the 17-member Conference of Western Wayne Livonia decided to withdraw from the Wayne County plan and connect up with Oakland County because that system will reportedly be on line eight months ahead of the Wayne County system. "It's no problem. The paramount thing is citizen safety," said Joseph Benyo, a Westland consultant coordinating implementation of the system in western Wayne County.

The Conference of Western Wayne is designated as an emergency telephone service district to allow city governments to pass the costs of the new E-911 to telephone customers

The city of Plymouth has 9-1-1. Plymouth Township and Canton do not. All three are members of the Conference of Western Wayne.

THE SYSTEM automatically routes emergency police, fire or. ambulance calls to the appropriate department.

A computer developed by Michigan Bell matches telephone numbers from where a call is placed to a street address and city.

Installation of the basic system will cost each city $35,000 and an additional $6,000 annually for maintenance. Telephone customers will be billed about 16 cents a month for five years after the system is installed and about 12 cents a month after that.

Livonia's decision to pull out won't add a greater financial burden on the remaining communities, according to Benyo.

In fact, it's not even the first con-nity, Redford Township, is forming a committee to decide which plan to adopt.

Redford's options include hooking up to Livonia's system or connecting with the Detroit plan or buying its own system and operating independently.
"The western Wayne communities are trying to get on line as soon as possible," said Benyo who added he was not sure Oakland County will be on any sooner than Wayne County. "Michigan Bell says the date is negotiable. If a community requests, it may be expedited."

Currently Livonia, Plymouth and Wayne have emergency 911 systems but they are based on old technology. Callers in Westland, Redford and Canton still must dial a seven-digit number during an emergency.

In Westland, the call can be answered in Livonia, Garden City, Wayne or Plymouth depending on which area of the city the call originates from.

The new 911 will be capable of supplying information within seconds after a call for assistance is received. This feature is most advantageous in 911 districts with multiple jurisdictions, like Westland.

By providing a uniform number for all emergencies, 911 will shorten overall response time, reduce confusion and delays, and hopefully save more lives and property.

The automatic information a dispatcher will receive will be particularly beneficial in situations where the caller is too excited to provide accurate information, is hard of hearing or doesn't understand English, or is too sick to talk, according to Benyo.

'The important thing is we don't want further delays where it will cost lives," Benyo said.

School chief: thinking skills vital Teaching students to think about the Plymouth-Canton district next without changing the curriculum.

thinking is a main goal for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Dr. John M. Hoben, superintendent, noted that with the "knowledge explosion" it's "important for kids to know how to think. It's easy to remember facts but to use them is is a whole other thing."

He wants teachers to learn and teach the strategies. Hoben recently attended a seminar on thinking skills and hopes to hold similar sessions in

And he's not bound to forget the goal because Hoben has a diagram listing the skills hanging on a wall in his office.

"Teachers can grow intelligence when they help students to learn to behave and think intelligently," Hoben wrote in the district newsletter.

He said teaching thinking skills can be infused in the curriculum Also in the newsletter, Hoben listed 12 indicators of thinking abilities. They are: using persistence; thinking before blurting out first answers; listening to others; considering other points of view; understanding and reviewing the sequences used to solve a problem; checking for accuracy and precision; questioning and thinking about alternative ways to solve problems; drawing on past knowledge, precision of language and thought; using all senses; applying creativity, and being inquisitive.

The program is for people who have gotten in trouble with the law by committing a misdemeanor when the offense doesn't quite merit time in jail. It's a tougher penalty though than "just a slap on the hand," said Susan E. Ewing, 35th District Court chief probation officer.

"They are always supervised," Ewing said "These are responsible people who are not a high risk to the community. We don't want people to think we have hardened criminals

BEFORE THEY'RE sent out on a job they are screened for work experience and physical problems.

Washing police cars, light maintenance work in municipal buildings, cleaning debris along streets and highways, painting and gardening are among the jobs to be done in Canton. Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

"I get frustrated when people think the program is just picking up trash," Ewing said. "We use people in a lot of constructive ways, like special projects.

SINCE DECEMBER 1986 some 450 people have been ordered onto the work detail by the court.

A lot of young people who may come in here with an attitude about police have said you guys aren't as bad as I thought," said Chip Snider. Plymouth deputy police chief.

"When you talk about administration, you're also talking about principals," Livonia superintendent James Carli said. "And research tells us principals are key players in making schools effective.

Still another superintendent said local districts are often forced to hire administrators because of statemandated programs

You have to remember that schools are mandated to provide a variety of services and each of them involves administration," Redford Union superintendent Kenneth Erickson. In our district, for example, we're heavy into special education

The Plymouth Rotary Club's second chicken barbecue, or community picnic as we called it was again held at the Hamilton Street Playground

The event took place on Sunday June 9, 1957. As in the previous year Rotarians prepared and served 500 chickens Tickets were priced at $2 for adults and $1.25 for children The net profit of $505 was again used to buy playground equipment

By 1958, we were calling it Rotary's "Third Annual Plymouth Community Chicken Barbecue It was

We prepared newspaper advertisements for insertion in the Plymouth Mail, the Livonian and the Redford Observer. We printed 5,000 paper flyers that were distributed door-to-door and to neighboring Rotary Clubs. We sent letters to presidents of all Rotary Clubs in District 223 and to other service clubs and civic organizations in Plymouth Letters also went out to churches and industrial plants, asking them to call attention to the event.

We mailed complimentary tickets to Bud Guest, Marshall Wells and other radio and TV personalities and asked them to mention the picnic on their broadcasts. Store window cards were printed, and Walt Rensel saw that they were distributed in Plymouth and in neighboring communities. Merchants were asked to mention the picnic in their ads. Just prior to the event, we mounted a telephone campaign reminding residents of the declared that the club could be justifiably proud of the outing, that it was very successful in terms of numbers who attended, and that "the youth of our community will reap whatever profits have resulted," have been unable to find a financial report for that year to determine what we netted.

The newsletter also contained this item "At the close of the barbecue Thursday night, Chuck Finlan came up with a shortage of 5 chef's aprons which cost us $2 each. If you went home with an apron after the rush clean-up, please contact Chuck to spare this $10 chip off the profits."

It will come as a surprise to many readers to learn that the chicken barbecue was not held in 1959. The club reserved barbecue racks from Michigan State University, and asked school Superintendent Russell Isbister to reserve the high school athletic field for Sept. 10. But on Aug. 10, a letter from the club to MSU indicated that a conflict in dates made it necessary to cancel the barbecue for 1959.

I had been a member of the Rotary Club's board of directors since 1956, and had the honor of being elected president of the club in June 1960. Other board members that year were Harold Guenther, Earl West, Perry Richwine, Bob Maurer. Carl Caplin and Bob Beyer.

I wanted to make sure the 1960 barbecue was chaired by a man who had the ability to organize and administer what appeared to be developing into a major happening. Now that it was to be more than just a barbecue, we had to be sure that all of the elements were coordinated.

I asked around and was told that Frank Arlen, a local industrialist, was the man for the job if he would take it. Frank had been a member of the club since 1946, and its president able as a prize.

Early in July. I had lunch with Frank and asked him to be the general chairman He said he would consider the responsibility only if he had a strong committee to back him up I assured him that I would appoint the club's entire board of direc ... tors as his committee. He agreed to take the job on those terms.

With Arlen as general chairman the committee heads for what was to be Plymouth's first Fall Festival were board members Earl West who was in charge of site preparation and facilities. Harold Guenther host committee. Bob Beyer, serving committee: Perry Richwine, soft drinks, dessert and coffee, Bob Maurer, ticket sales, and Carl Caplin, chef's committee. I headed the publicity campaign.

We had heard that Manchester Mich. had been staging a large and successful barbecue for many years Leaving no stone unturned, Frank and I drove to Manchester one sunny afternoon, while their barbecue was in progress, to see what we could learn from their experience (To be continued.).

Plymouth Inn

The Gracious Alternative

Someone you love is growing older and needs just a bit more support than he or she can get in their current living situation. A nursing home isn't the answer. Normal activities like eating and dressing aren't a problem. But you would be happier knowing someone was there to provide gentle encouragement and firm support when needed, in a non-institutional atmosphere.

The answer is The Plymouth Inn, a magnificent residence for seniors who want their independence but need some supervision as well. Consider some of the many advantages:

- · Spacious mini-suites for those who desire extra comfort and privacy
- · Deluxe semi-private accommodations, richly appointed, with private lavatories and showers.

- · Conveniently located near Plymouth, Northville, and Livonia, with easy access to major highways.
- Tranquil landscaped grounds and lovely common areas.
- · Three delicious meals served in our central dining room by a friendly, attentive staff of professionals.
- programs and recreational opportunities. · Game room, chapel, beauty

Extensive, varied social parlor and lounges, all designed with the special needs of our residents in

The Plymouth Inn welcomes your inspection visit. When you see what we have to offer we think you will agree that The Plymouth Inn is a very special place where your loved one can feel secure, yet independent. We invite you to call today for an appointment

Dick Allen: an ombudsman, not a lobbyist

By Tim Richard staff writer

Dick Allen's favorite war story is about the metropolitan Detroit bar owner who bought a supply of liquor from the state on a Sept. 29, just before prices were to go up Oct 1.

"He got the invoice and found he'd been charged October prices," said Allen, who is state government's business ombudsman

Someone at the state Liquor Control Commission gave what Allen calls a common response "I don't think that happened And if it did. I don't think it's my fault

After some checking, Allen's office found the problem, and the bar owner's bill was corrected

"YOU DON'T necessarily come to us first. You come to us when you haven't made your way" through the state bureaucracy, said Allen, a former legislator and one of the few Republicans in Gov. James Blanchard's administration

Blanchard created the office by executive order during his first year, 1983. It replaced the Office of Business Permits created in 1980 by Republican Gov. William G. Milliken.

Allen is the second person to direct

We do the work of the Office of Business Permits, but we've taken on a whole new range of activities in terms of working with individual businesses." Allen said in an interview on WXYZ-TV's "Spotlight on News program

He's not a lobbyist for a business point of view within the administration Rather. Allen and a staff of professionals help businesses deal with the maze of regulations and regulatory bodies for which Michigan is well known.

"I'd love to be able to do this job for about three years and then say I've eliminated all the (regulatory) problems - there's no longer a need for a Michigan ombudsman," Allen said with a laugh.

That isn't likely, however, and he knows it "Many regulations are there with strong public support," he said, citing clean air and water

HIS KNOTTIEST problems are with Gordon Guyer's Department of Natural Resources, which regulates not only air and water but groundwater discharges and wetlands.

The greatest volume of work

'I'd love to be able to do this job for about three years and then say I've eliminated all the (regulatory) problems - there's no longer a need for a Michigan ombudsman.'

- Dick Allen business ombudsman comes from Elizabeth Howe's Department of Labor, under which come the Michigan Employment Security Commission (jobless benefits), workers compensation (for injuries), construction regulations and other occupational and safety regulations. Local governments, too, sometimes give business problems, though Allen shys away from such dealings. "The last thing you want to do is call local government and say. 'This is Dick Allen, the Michigan ombudsman, and I'm hoping.

"Right away you have a lit a fire if you're suggesting state government should tell local government what to do."

SOME 85 PERCENT of the 50 calls he gets each day at 517-373-6241 are from people who don't know where to start in dealing with the state. Experienced businesses such as oil drillers - know exactly where in the DNR they have to go for permits

Sometimes Allen's staff guides businesses toward benefits - such as how to bid on a prison food contract or a National Guard base painting job.

Consumer problems he refers to other agencies, such as Attorney General Frank Kelley's consumer fraud division.

Gov. Blanchard, he says, is "great." The chief executive keeps tabs on which departments have the most problems in terms of dealing with business. Blanchard, who has a master of business administration degree, is frowned at by many Democrats who think he is too solicitous of business

ALLEN, 54, IS from two vanishing breeds - moderate Republicans and farmers.

A state representative (1969-72) and senator (1975-82), he was defeated for the Republican nomination in 1982 by then-Rep. Alan Cropsey, a graduate of Bob Jones University and advocate of teaching creationism in public schools.

"I'm really concerned." he said about the Republican Party's shift from emphasis on free enterprise and the least possible regulation to religious and moral programs of fundamentalists. "It takes away from our Abraham Lincoln heritage," said the veterinarian and one-time Alma College professor

ALLEN'S CHILDREN are the sixth generation of a family to operate a farm in Gratiot County, in the agricultural area north of Lansing.

Michigan farms have the unhappy distinction of providing a bumper crop of business failures, according to a Dun & Bradstreet report last

And as most business and homeowner assessments rise, farm assessments are fallig - nowhere harder than in Allen's Gratiot County, where they plummeted 35t percent in a single year.

"It really is a dramatic change in a rural community." said Allen, citing farmers who bought land at $3,000 an acre, borrowing $2,000 an acre to do it, and finding the land worth only$1,000 an acre after last summer's droughts and dry spells

He learns secrets of milking

born and raised in su-

I never had an "Uncle Ernie" who lived on a farm.

Matter of fact, the only time we kids ever saw something more exotic than a dog, cat or fish was when we went to the zoo.

So when the phone rang last week and a representative from the Michigan State Fair asked me to participate in the "celebrity cow milking contest," I explained, almost apologetically, that I had never even "petted a cow, let alone grabbed one 'down

I was assured that this would all be in fun and that the winner of the contest would have $1,000 donated in his her name to the Friends of the Fair, a non-profit group dedicated to keeping what is the oldest State Fair in the country rolling.

How could I resist? Her name was Mandy. She was a registered Holstein (whatever that is in cow lingo), and her owner assured me that of Mandy was full and ready to

I STROKED her fur (I guess real farmers call it hide) and assured her that I was not out to physically assault her but asked her to just relax, stand there and let me do all

I sat down on a four-legged plastic (Rubbermaid) milking stool. (Give me a break. I was expecting a sturdy threelegged wooden one like the one I saw at Greenfield Village.) Even the bucket was plastic. I can assure you no one on the "Waltons" ever used Rubbermaid.

I grabbed a teat (that's what you call 'em) and after working away for two minutes, looked into my bucket and could still see the bottom. Not one drop. What was I doing

I guess of Mandy's owner felt a little sorry for this city slicker, so she bent down, grabbed on, and proceeded to pull what seemed to be blenderfuls of milk from the same cow that had just dropped a wad of what farmers call "cow chips" about one inch from my beloved $150 Dingo boots. Thank God for clowns and their big shovels. Of Mandy better have thanked God for missing my boots.

Ah, the secret in progressive cow milking is to grab the teat as close to the udder sac (yep. that's what they call it) and pull down, exercising one finger at a time. This way, the milk can't "sneak back" up the teat.

OK, watch out cowpoke.

IT WAS like somebody had just unkegged a barrel of beer and left the tap open. Ah ha! The secret was discovered.

I'm ready to go up against the likes of Bob Talbert, Gary Cubberly (Channel 2) and Jimmy Barret (WJR disc jockey). Ready, set, GO' Once again, the floodgates opened, and I found myself not only covering a brown plastic bucket with fresh white milk but actually perfecting my "aim" making sure that every last white drip made it into the plastic pail. Expertise had set in.

Until Mandy, noticing my ability to now use BOTH hands, began to act like a real cow. I mean this lady started to strut and all of a sudden, my plastic Rubbermaid bucket was kicked out from under the udder

When I tried to retrieve the bucket, she again exploited her size (a real cow at more than 800 pounds), this time stomping on the bucket with a hoof that transformed this bucket into a heap of tangled plastic and

I wasn't about to touch it, let alone touch her, for all I know, she felt the same about plastic as I did.

I even warmed my hands before I grabbed her so the shock wouldn't be so notice-

ANOTHER BUCKET was quickly brought under, and I resumed. It was like pulling teeth. (I couldn't resist)

In the end, I beat out about eight other celebrities, coming in fourth with 11/2 pounds of milk in three minutes. Terry Selik from WDTX edged me out with 134 pounds of milk, and Gary Cubberly (Channel 2) coaxed 17s pounds (And Cubberly looks more like a city slicker than I do.)

The winner of the event was a cow-pokin' dude named Walt Wosje, the executive director of the Michigan Milk Producers Associaton. (Rumor had it he had a lot of previous practice).

Watch out Walt, Fred Krohn from London Farm Dairy (who makes what I think is the best ice cream called Mackinaw Island Fudge) has assured me I'll be invited back next year

Sandwiches make a comeback

Greg Goodman of the Cafe Bon Homme in Plymouth shows off two of his sandwich specialties. Many area restaurants have rejuvenated this old stand-by menu item into gourmet delights.

Fillings range from simple to gourmet

Ideas for your kids' school lunches, 2B

By Philip Sherman staff writer

The sandwich, not long ago banished to the bleacher seats of restaurant menus by hungry hordes of power lunchers, has made a come-

You'll remember it when you see it - the basic design has stayed the same. A filling upholstered by two pieces of bread, a split roll or croissant comprises the standard model. That's why it was vulnerable to attack by the 16-ounce steak set; it had no charisma. It was dull. Just something else to pick up with your hands and eat.

That's no longer true. Today's sandwich has regained the creative foreground and often is a showcase item in several area restaurants. Mainstays still wait under heat lamps for passage to tables and booths, but they're in the company of counterparts stuffed with previously unheard-of sandwich ingredients.

CAFE BON Homme in Plymouth leads a random sampling of area restaurants in the new and unusual sandwich category. Greg Goodman, owner and menu planner, said the club sandwich - originally made with turkey, bacon, cole slaw, lettuce, tomato and Russian dressing is his most requested sandwich. However, Goodman tinkered with the club's formula and has a new best-seller on the menu.

"We do it with whole wheat toast, egg salad, lettuce and Canadian bacon. I guess you could call it a country club," Goodman said. "We do a lot of different sandwiches open-faced crab meat sandwich with white wine sauce, cheese, Alaskan sing crab, a sliced tomato and prociutto ham baked on Russian bread. Or how about this: Goodman takes a day-old loaf of bread, cuts out the inside ("which is always fresh") and slices it lengthwise into three layers. He then fills the bottom layer with a mousse of shrimp, asparagus, almonds, dill, heavy cream and seasonings, blended in a food processor.

'We do it (the club sandwich) with whole wheat toast, egg salad, lettuce and Canadian bacon. I guess you could call it a country club.'

> - Greg Goodman Cafe Bon Homme

THE MIDDLE layer is made up wild mushrooms, topped by a crowning layer of salmon salad. Once completed, Goodman slices the loaf into finger sandwiches "with presentation in mind." Although elaborate, Goodman doesn't go to such lengths for himself. His favorite: "A good fresh croissant with a grilled chicken breast, purple onions, lettuce, tomato, mayo and a little pepper.

Across town, at Embers Deli of Rochester, cook Kevin Wessell said that of 27 sandwich combinations on the menu, number 18 is the crowd pleaser

Delicatessens are noted for building sandwiches almost too big to bite into, and number 18 - a corned beef, Swiss cheese, cole slaw and Russian dressing combo - is no exception at Embers, Wessell said.

'There's got to be a third of a pound of beef alone on there. That one's my favorite, but I usually dress it up with a little Muenster and American cheese and pastrami to give it a peppery, spicy taste."

He said regular sandwiches still sell well, and added, as did everyone in the survey, that the club has retained its lead in the most-prepared

AT THE Fox and Hounds in "Different" to Goodman means an Bloomfield Hills, executive chef Terry Shuster thinks the club sandwich is popular because turkey is a known low-cholesterol item.

"More and more people are health conscious, and they're looking at things like that," he said.

Knowing that, Shuster said "a popular item with the guys at the bar is our Lake Erie perch sandwich,

Pate, chocolates are new specialties

By Carolyn Carman staff writer

From a gourmet pate so new it hasn't been named yet to delectable chocolates cast to resemble Walt Disney characters, the International Fancy Foods and Confection Show

Pam Kosteva, owner of the Cheese and Wine Barn in Plymouth, attended the show held in New York City last month to look for items to sell in her speciality food shop.

"The show is ranked as one of the top five shows of any kind of trade show in the country," Kosteva said. "The whole focus of the show is that it is only speciality foods."

The four-day event is a major attraction in the speciality food business. It hosted 25,000 retailers and occupied 250,000 square feet in the Jacob Javits Convention Center.

KOSTEVA SAID when she attends the show, she is looking for three different categories of items.

"I do a huge business in speciality food and wine gift baskets," she said. "I average about 300 a month and last year, during the Christmas season, I did about 2,500 baskets. I go there looking for unusual products for basket packing."

The second category are items to stock in her shop that people will buy for their own use, items not available in the average gro-

"For instance, there is a new line of chips called pita chips that I will carry in my store," she said. "It is an unusual food, but it is still an every-day food that people will buy for themselves.

Another item Kosteva purchased is Heidi's Original Cottage Cheese pancake mix, which she said is delicious. She recommends Maplegrove Farms Vermont syrup, which comes in blueberry, strawberry or raspberry, for the Gift food items are the third category Kosteva will be trying to fill from the show's said. "It's in a real snazzy package and is best as a gift."

To sell as stocking stuffers at Christmas, she purchased chocolate from a California company, Confections by Sandra, which has permission to use Walt Disney characters to cast in chocolate. There was also a life-size figure of Mozart made of chocolate on display by a chocolate company from Germany," she said.

Kosteva purchased a line of liqueur cakes and also gourmet Ukranian garlic sausage. Gloria Vanderbilt has a new line of salad dressings and Kosteva said the packaging was visually beautiful with an eye-catching label, but she found the taste to be disappointing and did not buy any.

Aside from tasting a great variety of gourmet foods, Kosteva said she looks at the packaging and determines whether there is a need in the market for the product. She then looks at the price of the item, the minimum order required, and the availability of the product (if she can get it delivered). She then tries to determine if she can use the item.

THIS YEAR'S trip was a success, she said, because she bought more than 50 items for the shop, including speciality holiday items and another 30 to 40 items for basket making.

She said the best food she tasted this year was an as yet unnamed turkey pate that will be marketed by Les Trois Petits Conchons, a French pate company out of New York.

For the first time this year, the Michigan Department of Commerce bought a space at the show and filled it with representatives from Michigan food manufacturers, said Kos-

Lunch for kids can be different

staff writer

Sandwich building for children's lunches doesn't have to be boring There should be more to a child's life, although it's an admitted favorite, than peanut butter and jelly on

He's also the certified dietetic assistant charged with making a new lunch menu, every day, for about 23 children and their supervisors in the hospital's day care center.

"WE DON'T serve bologna here," Henry said flatly. "We serve a balanced lunch meal from the four food groups protein, most often from meat, vegetables, fruit, and carbohydrates such as bread or pasta salad All that goes with milk or juice."

Henry admits peanut butter and jelly would be the regular sandwichdu-jour for most children if they could get away with it, but he works to make the choices more interest-

'Try hard-boiled eggs and deviled eggs in lunches - kids love those If they're really young, you can paint smile faces on the eggshells Either way, eggs are an excellent proteir substitute for meats.

OTHER SUCCESSFUL substitutes for boring sandwiches include tuna fish, according to Henry He mixes tuna with tomato slices and ranch dressing, and tops the meal with ar apple spiced muffin and milk Tuna's such a popular item we car send it to the day care and know they'll love it.

CARAMEL CUSTARD (Mandy's favorite dessert)

13 cup sugar dash cream of tartar (optional) 1 tbsp. vanilla

2 cups whipping cream La cup sugar 5 egg yolks 1 tbsp. rum

Place 8 4-oz. custard cups in an oven. Preheat oven to 325°. Grease a baking sheet. Combine 15 cup sugar and cream of tartar in a small saucepan. Pour in water to cover. Cook over low heat until the sugar melts, shaking pan occasionally. Inc. ease heat and cook, without stirring until sugar carmelizes and turns bread, crusts removed a golden mahogany brown. Quickly pour into heated custard cups and swirl until bottom and sides of cups are coated. Turn upside down on greased baking sheet. In another saucepan, add vanilla, cream and add remaining sugar. Cook over low heat until cream is scalded (180-185°). In a mixing bowl, combine egg yolks with rum. Whisking gently, pour in scalded cream and pour into carmelized cups. Let stand several minutes and skim off any foam. Set cups in a baking pan of hot water to come 25 up the sides of cups. Bake 25 minutes or until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Place a piece of plastic wrap directly on surface of custard to prevent a skin from forming. Cool to room temperature. Refrigerate at least 6 hours, then enjoy.

BEER AND CHEESE SOUFFLE (too delicate for Mandy, but Mandy's owner loved it!)

14 cup butter or margarine, room temperature

2 tbsp. Dijon styled mustard 10 slices of day-old firm white

4 eggs, separated 34 cup milk

Salt and pepper to taste 1/2 lb. sharp cheddar cheese, grated 1/2 cup chopped green onion

Generously butter a 2-quart souffle dish. Cream butter with mustard and spread each slice of bread with the mixture. Cut bread into 1-inch cubes. Beat egg yolks with the milk, salt and pepper. Add bread cubes, cheese and onion and toss lightly. Stir in beer. Meanwhile, beat egg whites till stiff. Fold about half the whites into the bread mixture and mix well. Gently fold in remainder. Turn into the souffle dish and bake in a preheated 350° oven for 35 minutes or till golden.

ONION AND BACON CUSTARD A Janes family city tradition

3 tbsp. butter 2 large Spanish onions (1 lb.) 1 lb. slab bacon, rind removed, sliced 6 eggs

14 cup cream or milk Dash salt (optional) Freshly grated nutmeg and pepper

Generously butter a shallow ovenproof dish. Preheat the oven to 300°

Melt buter in a small saucepan, add onion and cook 10 minutes. Lower heat and cook for 10 more minutes. Meanwhile, sautee bacon until cooked throughout, preferably crisp. Drain well on paper towels. Beat eggs in a large bowl. Add onion, bacon and remaining ingredients and mix well. Ladle mixture into the prepared dish and bake till browned and puffy, about 60 minutes. Let stand for 5 minutes before cutting.

Salem's team play overcomes Chiefs

staff writer

If the first half made anyone think Plymouth Salem was a one-player girls basketball team, the second surge by the scrappy Chiefs. half of Thursday's season opener proved differently

"I thought that was very true," said Salem coach Fred Thomann after the Rocks, without any scoring fought off a second-half rally by break the game open. Plymouth Canton to post a 60-50 vic-

Krug had 10 of her 12 points in the second half, and Keri McBride and Jill Estev finished with 10 apiece.

"I expect (Krug) to play like that," Thomann said. "She still hasn't had much game experience, and every minute she gets is going to be good

WITH HEAD putting her many talents on display in the first half, she scored 10 of Salem's first 12 points, and the Rocks threatened at times to blow the Chiefs out of their scoring opportunities."

But the second half was much different as Canton, also expected to have a strong ballclub this year, refused to fold.

Amanda Bell, who took advantage of the new three-point rule on two occasions, hit from the corner, and Karen Boluch made back-to-back baskets to pull the Chiefs within eight, 39-31

Canton got as close as seven when

Bell canned another outside shot, and it stayed there, 46-39, when Candi Jones dropped in a reverse layup to end the third period.

"I THINK we did a better job in the second half of challenging them defensively," Canton coach Rob Neu said. "We got better ball pressure and better rotation to help out on

"When we finally came at her and challenged her, we forced the ball out of her hands. You have to force her to give it up.

Offensively, it was the same story as the Chiefs confronted the Salem defense, he added.

While Head attempted only a handful of second-half shots, she was on the giving end of some big assists Besides Krug's play inside, Estey sank a couple layups, and McBride showed she can shoot from the perimeter as Salem got enough offense

CANTON STAYED within eight. 48-40, on a Boluch free throw early in the finale. But McBride scored from the wing, and Krug got the next two buckets as Salem made a decisive move. McBride and Estey had 13 of their combined 20 points in the second half.

Bowie piles up yardage as Rocks trim Trenton

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

There's no longer any doubt as to who the fullback is in Plymouth Salem's wishbone offense. Not after Garrett Bowie's performance Friday

The 5-foot-9, 170-pound senior rushed for a school-record 292 yards and scored all three touchdowns as in one game. the Rocks edged Trenton 22-21 in the season opener.

"We found one," announced Salem coach Tom Moshimer, who made the need to settle on a fullback the No. 1 priority entering the preseason. "I guess you could say we found one.

"He was the answer to our football

Bowie broke Kevin Riley's singlegame rushing record of 211 yards against Redford Union in November 1984. He also tied the mark for TDs Moshimer said Bowie begged him to play him at fullback when the team came together in August. Eventually, he told Bowie he would start at fullback, but was going to use him sparingly in last week's four-way scrimmage.

Moshimer didn't want Trenton to get too good a look at Bowie in that position, and it was as if the Rocks WITH HIS outstanding effort, unveiled a secret weapon against the Trojans when the teams met. Bowie carried the ball 29 times and gained 104 of his yards on a pair of lengthy scoring runs.

'The triple option is based on stopping the fullback," Moshimer said, and, if you can't stop the fullback, then you're in trouble.

"IN THIS offense - and I think it's the greatest offense in the world you have to be patient. You have to keep hammering away; you can't lose your confidence.

"And, sooner or later, something breaks down, and you've got a big

THE ROCKS sustained an 11-play, 67-yard drive with the second-half kickoff, and Bowie capped the effort with a one-yard dive that helped Salem to a 15-8 lead with 7:13 remaining in the third period.

Jeff Neckel's 40-yard run with less than six minutes left in the game and a successful point-after kick knotted the score again at 15-all, but Bowie and his Salem teammates responded eluded a defensive back and sprinted 44 yards for his third TD, putting the Rocks on top 22-15 after Brian

"Hey, I'll tell you, this team has a ball games," Moshimer said.

"YOU CAN be big and mean and all that, but you're not going to do it when the chips are down if you don't

Salem, however, needed a big play by Gee to foil Trenton's conversion pass that could have snatched the Trenton played for the PAT kick and the tie, but holder Terry Teifer bobbled the snap again and was forced to throw. But Gee knocked the pass down in the end zone and assured Salem of the win.

That moment came midway in the second quarter when Bowie, on the first play from scrimmage following a Trenton score, broke to the outside and raced 60 yards along the sideline to put the Rocks on the board. Steve Holt's conversion pass to Andy Gee

After going in front with 4:50 to play, Salem failed to halt a 12-play, 69-yard drive on the Trojans' next possession, and Eric Behm's 9-yard run made it 22-21 with :52 on the clock.

a 6-0 lead in the second quarter, but Teifer found Jerry Hoppes in the end zone after he also mishandled that PAT snap.

The Rocks faced adversity in the first quarter, also. Aided by three face mask penalties that resulted in first downs, they appeared headed for a score on their opening possession, but the drive stalled at the Tro-

Then the field goal snap went awry, and Trenton's Jeff Boler intercepted the ensuing pass. Bowie made a TD-saving tackle in Salem territory, and the defense held.

"THAT SHOWS a lot of character to come back from something like that against a great team," Moshimer said, "especially against a team that beat us 49-0 a year ago."

The victory was definitely a shot in the arm for the Rocks, who are trying to rebound from three straight 3-6 seasons, Moshimer said. Salem had 304 yards on the ground, the Trojans 283. Trenton quarterback Dean Heavrin was 3-of-11 passing for 19 yards.

defense did its part too. Led by the hard hitting of first stringers Shawn Koteles (six solo tackles and three assists) and Ed Bardelli (five solos and four assists) along with second stringer Bruce Hermanson (three solo's and four assists) the Chiefs forced Willowrun to punt five times and turn the ball over on downs four times. They forced two fumbles and an interception, by Brian Detrich, while limiting the Bulldogs to just 12 points.

BUT IN THE end it was the offense.

Senior halfback Roger Trice scored four times. He returned a punt 65-yards to paydirt and scored on runs from scrimage of two, four and 12-yards each.

Junior halfback Kevin Stackpoole scored on runs of one and four-yards each. Senior halfback Joel Riggs returned a punt 60-

The ball floated over the dimunitive Moore's head to tie the game, seven minutes after McCaul started the scoring on a header that beat Rocks goalie Dave O'Malley.

After Salem's goal - credited to Salem's Tim Stahl - the Rocks put the heat on Moore, but couldn't Shamrocks coach Paul Scicluna had plenty of praise for the play of McCaul, Thiel and McDonald. But he said the play of his team's midfielders and defenders were the key to

You have to play the middle well to win," Scicluna said. "And you saw how well the defenders gave them the ball at midfield."

The coach said he didn't make any halftime speech to lift his team. "I just told them to play their game, pass the ball and we'll get them."

McCAUL'S SECOND was a piece of work by Thiel, who sprinted down the right side before sending a pass across the goal mouth. Salem's Johnson agreed.

"(Thiel) drew everybody over to him and he just sent it across. It was a beautiful goal." Johnson praised second half, the Chiefs got on the senior defender Mike Ulaszek and O'Malley in defeat.

board when senior Joe Pelle directed a loose ball into the goal. Rick Menary assisted.

THE CHIEFS lost the services of co-captain Todd Nichols, who was ejected in the first half for dissent. He will miss Wednesday's 7 p.m. Western Lakes Activities Association opener against Salem.

Canton coach Mike Morgan however, blamed the loss on fatigue. 'We just had a real physical, emotionally-charged game with Catholic Central in the morning. I don't think we had any fore left."

Canton rallies but can't catch Salem

Thomann said it was a combination of Canton tightening its defense on Head and the Rocks resorting to a balanced attack when the situation necessitated it.

"They did a little more to get to Dena, and Dena recognized that very well and was able to get the ball to the next player," he said.

"She's really a good player," said Thomann of Head's first-half exhibition, which included taking the ball the length of the court to capitalize on turnovers.

"SOMETIMES she fights herself to stay on top of it. Instead of maintaining that high concentration and intensity, she flows up and down the court and is content to make the good pass."

Despite the loss, which won't count in the league standings, Neu was pleased with the opening-game experience after seeing his team

"I feel good because we're going to be a good basketball team. We're going to continue to get better, and that's what it's all about."

Susan Ferko, who made seven of 10 free throws, paced the Chiefs with 11 points, Bell and Heather Miller tallied 10 apiece, Michelle Fortier and Boluch eight each.

Canton and Salem meet again Sept. 17 at Salem. In the meantime, the Chiefs compete in the Mercy Hoops Classic and the Rocks in the Great Lakes Tournament. Both are two-day events, with games scheduled for Thursday and Saturday.

Improved Falcons off to a flying start

What winning can do for a pro-

Farmington girls basketball coach Diana Fair summed it up perfectly: "This year's already better than last year

Fair's comment was, well, fair enough In '86, the Falcons won twice in 21 games, and both those came against Farmington Harrison, loser of 82 straight contests.

On Thursday, Farmington opened the season by bettering that mark. The Falcons led from start to finish in whipping Redford Union 45-38 at Farmington.

The Falcons opened up an 11-6 lead after one quarter and expanded it to 25-16 at the half. It grew to 38-27 after three quarters before Rt made a late run, closing to within seven in the final period.

Seven, though, was as close as the Panthers could come. Or maybe it would be more accurate to say as close as Caryn Shannon could come. Shannon was RU's offense, pouring in 27 of her team's 38 points

It wasn't enough to overtake the more-balanced Falcons, who were paced by Stacy Swanderski's 11 points and Melissa Tisdale's 10. Kelli Koss added nine and Marisa Ferrari collected seven points and seven rebounds.

MERCY 53, AQUINAS 40: The foursome of Jennifer Slosar, Jan Heberholz, Adrienne Clark and Patty Chapp combined for 47 of Farmington Hills Mercy's points in Thursday's thrashing of Southgate Aquinas at Aquinas.

The Marlins displayed firstgame jitters both at the free throw line, where they made just 15 of 30, and in the open court, where they missed several layups. It hardly mattered, they still led 15-8 after one quarter, 26-18 at the half and 39-28 after three periods.

girls basketball

"In many ways, it was a classic opener," Mercy coach Larry Baker said. "We seemed bent at times to expedite the ball to the team in the wrong jersey. I'm not angry or concerned. If we're doing this Oct. 3, then I'll get a little anxious.

"We played hard, we played smart enough in the second half to Slosar knocked down 14 points and nabbed 12 rebounds to top Mercy Heberholz added 13 points and Clark and Chapp scored 10 apiece. Sandi Sassack netted 13 points for Aquinas.

NOVI 54, N. FARMINGTON 38: North Farmington is halfway to respectability If the Raiders can play four quarters like they played the second and fourth Thursday against visiting Novi, their season will be a success.

North outpointed Novi 24-18 in the second and fourth quarters of both teams' opener. Unfortunately. the Wildcats blasted the Raiders 19-6 in the first period and 17-8 in the third - a 36-14 advantage in those quarters.

Lisa McCarthy did most of the damage for Novi, pouring in 31

'She was all over the floor,' North coach Greg Capling said of McCarthy. "They were much quicker than us. Their press hurt us. We're a young team that makes a lot of mistakes. It was not a good

Kim Gurecki was the only Raider to reach double figures in scoring with 10 points. Vikki Seamons, Debbie Weintraub and Jenny Basford each contributed six.

Chiefs outrun Salem

Youth paid dividends for Plymouth Canton in its season-opening girls cross country dual meet with rival Plymouth Salem Thursday at Cass Benton. Salem's Jenny Sample proved fastest, but five of the next six places belonged to the Chiefs in Canton's 22-39 triumph. Of Canton's top five finishers, four were underclassmen. Sample crossed the line first for Salem, completing the 5,000-meter course in 21.17. The next three places belonged to Chiefs: Linda Schendel, a junior (21:35); Lori Penland, a sophomore (21:45); and Cindy Spessard, a junior (21:51).

Salem's Kim Mishler broke the Canton string by finishing fifth overall (22:11). Two more Chiefs followed, however — senior Sherry Figurski (22:43) and sophomore Missy Jasnowski (22:55). Shannon Donnelly took eighth (22:59) for the Rocks.

Canton hosts Ypsilanti Tuesday at Cass Benton.

Trivial pursuit

Many of us have wondered what it would be like to be a contest ant on a TV game show such as "Wheel of Fortune" or "Jeopardy" One trivia buff decided it was time to stop wondering and start finding out. His efforts to get himself in "Jeopardy" are detailed

The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers

When a car owner defaults or stops paying on his or her loan, the repo man springs into action to repossess the car for the creditor. It's all legal, but a repo man's life is not without its hours are the dead of night. His tools are the slim jim and lock puncher. And he could be coming for your car tonight!

By Brian Lysaght

ehold the repo man: He walks toward the 1983 Toyota Tercel carrying a briefcase and duffel bag stuffed full with the tools of his trade.

It is 2 a.m., and the Tercel is parked in the driveway of a darkened house on a dead-end street. The car's owner, whom the repo man says works as a topless dancer, has fallen behind on her car payments. The repo man curses. The Tercel is blocked in against the garage door by a second car. He and his partner decide they will lift the Tercel's rear end so it can be driven out of the driveway. They do this quickly and quietly, then shine a flashlight at the car's steering column.

The repo man chuckles. Keys are dangling from the ignition. He jumps in the car, quickly drives it onto the street and out of the

THEY DRIVE to a gas station nearby. The repo man dials the police on the Plymouth's phone.

"I just did a repo" He smiles and says to his partner: "Awful righteous of her to leave the keys." It isn't usually that His name is John Franklin. His partner's name is Geoff Jones.

But not really. "You don't tell people your last name. Some people hold grudges," Franklin said. Repo, as in repo man, is short for repossession. Franklin and Jones work for J&D Recovery & Auto Auction in Detroit. J&D is one of about 15 repossession, or recovery, firms in the Detroit

Banks, credit unions, leasing companies and auto-credit companies hire these firms to repossess cars when their clients stop paying or default on loans. The credit companies supply house with name, address and telephone number of the client and the make, model, color and identification number of the car. Auto-finance companies such as General Motors Acceptance Corp. (GMAC) or Ford Motor Credit usually supply the keys or key numbers if their cars are new. "Anybody that will finance will use a repo," said Franklin.

GMAC SPOKESMAN Charles Newcomer said just 1.4 percent of its nine million-plus accounts faced repossession in 1986

"We get absolutely nothing — as a matter of fact, we lose money — when faced with the unfortunate event of repossessing a car," Newcomer said. The Tercel that Franklin and Jones repossessed was taken to a storage yard. It would be held for the credit company or cleaned and auctioned.

Franklin said the owner of the car usually has 15 days to settle his or her debt before the car is put up for auction. If that happens, the price will be applied against the loan balance.

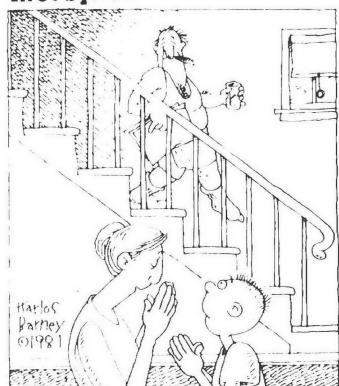

Franklin said the Tercel's owner will probably call police to report her car stolen in the morning. The police will have a record of the repossession, and will give her the phone number of J&D

If she calls J&D, she will be told to pick up the items left in her car - such as the house keys.

Survival is still the name of the game in college, particularly for freshmen.

"It's a high-risk period" when about 25 percent of college students nationwide drop out, said Jane Steinger, whose job it is to help incoming freshmen survive at least the first semester at Wayne State University. "The (national dropout) average is terrible," said Steinger, who as director of the university advising center is involved in WSU's student orientation program for incoming freshmen. "Wayne's (first-semester fatality) average is a little below the national average, but that's

"I think that the freedom of choice suddenly experienced by freshmen represents the biggest adjustment facing incoming freshmen, she said. "So in our orientation programs for incoming freshmen, we stress time management, self-responsibility and involvement in academics and the campus life."

THE STRUCTURED class day of the high school experience no longer exists in college, Steingel said.

'We pray a lot for college freshmen.'

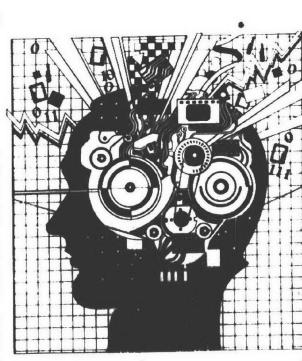

— Carole Crum assistant orientation director Oakland University

"You don't have to be here at 8:30 a.m., and you don't have to stay all day," she said. Freedom of choice becomes an important adjustment. No one is standing over college students to see they get to class and study outside the classroom.

We stress self-responsibility, but I worry that advice often falls on deaf ears. In our freshmen orientation programs, we advise students that it's their responsibility to ask the questions and seek the information and assistance they need to say in school. We stress concentration on academics, and we encourage students to ask questions in class so they understand what their professors expect of them. We also stress involvement in extracurricular activities in school organiza-

"Summer School" (C) (PG-13) 90

Clever idea, as Mark Harmon is forced to teach summer school to a bunch of losers and a sexy exchange student. Unfortunately, the script, acting, pacing, and directing kill the idea and leave viewers sinking in a sea of mediocrity.

Villa Amantea glows with Italian charm

Your traveling taster visits area eateries and rates them on a 100-point scale. Up to 30 points are awarded for ambiance, which includes general atmosphere and service; 55 points for food; and 15 points for price/value rating. A total count of 59 points or less indicates a restaurant is not recommended; 60-74 points signify from passing to good; 75-89 points designate very good with some extraordinary features; and 90-100 points show that a very special dining experience awaits

VILLA AMANTEA, 32777 W. Warren, Garden City (421-1510) bustles with activity and casually dressed customers. The Italian country setting, with wall murals and beamed ceilings, makes for a warm, happy atmosphere. People feel good here, and that includes diners and servers

There are vinyl tablecloths and informal flatware and glasses. Tables are close together, and occasional conversation between tables - even among people who are not acquainted - is possible and part of the friendly scene.

Reservations are not accepted for fewer than 10 people. When we arrived on a busy Friday night we were told to expect a 20-minute wait, and that was just what it was. There is a bar, without stools or chairs, and we had a drink there. Dinner, including the 20-minute wait at the bar, took an hour and a quarter. The restaurant opens at 4 p.m. every day, except Sunday, when it opens at 2 p.m. GENERAL ATMOS-PHERE - 15 points maximum. Points awarded - 13.

Our waitress was delightfully friendly. She cheerfully made helpful comments about the menu items. Service was prompt, even speedy, but she waited until we had finished one course before bringing the next. Except for one time we did not have to ask for refills of water, but the dirty silverware was removed from our plates and returned to the table. Busing also was very quick and

The choice of appetizers is very limited. We ordered the onion rings ($1.50), which came quickly and were hot and fresh. They were not at all greasy and had a delicious flavor. The bread basket included garlic

The salad, which comes with dinner entrees, was fresh but came room temperature. Worse, instead of being tossed with the vegetables, the 11. Italian dressing sat at the bottom of the dish, about half an inch thick, in a very large portion, covered with cheese. The veal was tender, but there was not much imagination in the preparation or presentation of the dish. It tasted like veal covered with a tomato sauce and cheese. The chicken cacciatori ($6.95) featured the same tomato sauce, with green peppers and processed mushrooms.

The Italian country setting, with wall murals and beamed ceilings, makes for a warm, happy atmosphere.

Like the veal, it was lacking distinction. The side dish of spaghetti also was served with the tomato sauce; however, it seemed more appropriate with this dish. The green beans were canned and badly overcooked, but the french fries were fine. EN-TREE, VEGETABLES AND GARN-ISHES - 30 points maximum. Points awarded - 20.

The homemade cannoli ($1.50) was very good. It was not as creamy as some but had a hint of lemon, which was refreshing. The spumoni ice cream ($1.50) was rich and full-flavored. DESSERT - 10 points maxi-

Our meal cost $30 per couple with tip, and we could not finish everything. Although the food was adequate, not great, the friendly atmosphere made this a good value. PRICE/VALUE 15 points maximum. Points awarded - 13.

A COUNTING FOR TASTE - 100 points maximum. Total points awarded — 78. Villa Amantea is ideal for a family night out or for other happy occasions. It is relaxing and fun, and you won't go home hungry.

The lure of Fly fishing

By Bill Parker staff writer.

The reasons vary, depending on which longtime fisherman you talk to.

But they pretty much all agree there has been an enormous increase in the popularity of fly fishing in the past

Some anglers feel it's just part of a cycle which comes around "every so many years."

Others feel it has to do with the increase in our population, while still others think it may be due to the increase in the popularity of catch-'n'-release fishing.

Whatever the reason the popularity of fly fishing is rising faster than a loaf of homemade bread.

"I'd guess the increase is because the mystique of fly fishing isn't as strong as it used to be," said Ron Angove, president of the Livonia-based Michigan Fly Fishing

'Fly fishing originated in England, and at that time it was only for the rich. It use to be that only a select few people did it. Today many people put fly fishing at the pinnacle of fishing so everyone wants to give it a try. Once they try it they learn it isn't as hard as expected, and they enjoy it.

Whatever the reason, the popularity has risen. Our membership has grown twofold in the past five years."

FLY FISHERMEN CATCH everything from bluegill to salmon but the most sought after catch is trout. And since trout are so wary and easily disturbed there's an exciting challenge involved in catching one. This challenge is what keeps the anglers coming back.

With many types of fishing, such as trolling, still fishing and using crank bait, a certain amount of luck is involved since you don't actually see the fish before catching it. With fly fishing, however, the angler often sees the fish first and then attempts to attract its attention with the properly played fly.

"I feel fly fishing is the most natural approach to fooling a fish," said John Mount-Campbell of Redford Township, a member of the Michigan Fly Fishing Club.

"Fish, especially trout, feed on aquatic insects, and you have to decide which insects are hatching at the particular time you're fishing and use a fly similar to what flies are naturally present. You usually see the fish, see what they're feeding on and watch it strike your bait. It's much more visual than say, trolling."

SOME PEOPLE refer to fly fishing as an art, and they're not just talking about time spent angling.

Fly fishermen commonly manufacture their own equipment. Many fly fishermen tie their own flies, and some, such as Jim Mimnaugh of Livonia, Bill Waara of Redford Township and Leon Hanson of Plymouth even make their own rods.

"A big part of the excitement is the sense of accomplishment you get from catching a fish on a fly you've tied yourself," said Mimnaugh, an avid fly fisherman for

"I also enjoy the opportunity to relax and work on a fly or a rod. You don't actually have to go fishing to reap the rewards. There's relaxing enjoyment in tying a fly or attaching a leader.

Mount-Campbell agrees. "Fly tying is a good winter activity. It adds to the thrill of it all when you catch a fish on something you've CATCH-'N'-RELEASE fishing is also a popular form of fly fishing. With lures and live bait fish often swallow the entire hook, which inevitably leads to the death of the fish. But when with fly fishing the fish usually is hooked in the lip, reducing the mortality rate and enabling the fish to be easily returned to the water.

There seems to be a growing concern among sportsmen to conserve what natural resources we have left," said Mount-Campbell. "Catch-n-release fishing helps accomplish this goal, and fly fishermen seem to be more in tune with this concept."

Although there are no natural trout streams in the southern part of the state - trout are cold water fish and the water in the southern streams gets too warm in the summer - trout are stocked each year in the Huron

'A big part of the excitement is the sense of accomplishment you get from catching a fish on a fly you've tied yourself.'

- Jim Mimnaugh

John Mount-Campbell of Redford Township says fly fishing is "the most natural approach" to tricking a fish. "You usually see the fish, see what they're feeding on and watch it strike your bait," he said.

River near Proud Lake, the Clinton River near Rochester, and Paint Creek from Rochester to Lake Orion. Practically any lake in the area offers the fly fisherman an opportunity to catch bluegill, perch, crappie and bass. Numerous books and videotapes are available at local libraries and video stores for both beginner and advanced fly fishermen. Many community education programs also offer fly fishing classes. There are also several clubs such as the Michigan Fly Fishing Club (P.O. Box 113. Livonia 48152; and Trout Unlimited on Birmingham) which cater to fly fishermen

The only requirement (for membership in the Michigan Fly Fishing Club its interest," said Angove We welcome beginners and people who have never been the fishing. In my opinion the best way to really learn is to go out with someone and let them show you.

The only requirement for fly fishing is a rod and rea tew flies and a Michigan fishing license. It trout a preferred a trout stamp also will be necessary

I should know, because I was one of them. We were waiting outside a studio gate just off Sunset Bouleraid.

In a few minutes we would go inside for the first in a series of grueling tests to determine whether we had what it takes to be a contestant on the syndicated TV game show, in which the answers are supplied and the contestants have to supply the

No one spoke. It was as though we teared that in the course of a casual conversation we might let slip some vital piece of trivia that would give another competitor the edge.

You know, "Wow, the sun sure is hot today. That's amazing when you consider it's 148 million kilometers away, but then again it does have a temperature of 6,000 degrees Celsius on its gaseous surface. Anyway, it's not the heat, it's the humidity -(Yikes! What have I done?)'

I HAD TRAVELED several thousand miles to fulfill a New Year's respittion. For years I had been dazaing and antagonizing Trivial Pursuit opponents with my knowledge of bizarre and little-known facts.

I thought it would be a shame if I didn't put this talent to use. So I made it my resolution this year to get on "Jeopardy!"

In response to my post card, "Jeopardy!" sent me a letter indicating I should call them and arrange to attend one of their contestant testings in Hollywood. So there I was.

came out of the studio and ushered us in. We entered the soundstage where the show is videotaped. There, dark for the moment, were the big board where the answers are flashed and the podiums where host Alex Trebek and the contestants stand. Yeah, I could see myself up there: "I'll take 'Lichtensteinian Composers' for $100, Alex."

First we would take a written test. We would have 13 minutes (I think, memory fails me on this) to answer 50 questions, each labeled as belonging to a certain category "And no. your answer doesn't have to be in the form of a question," she said, to a big

If we got a certain number of questions right - she wouldn't say how many - then we would go on play a mock version of the game up on stage.

SO WE furiously pushed pencils to paper. To reveal any of the questions would, I feel, be grossly unfair to the "Jeopardy!" production company. Plus, if you think I'm going to help any of you who might take the test some day, you've got another thing

When time was up, the "Jeopardy!" staff collected our tests. We were to sit back, relax and watch an while the tests were scored The crowd got into the spirit of things by shouting out answers and making insulting remarks about the intelligence of the on-tape contestants.

1 THOUGHT I had done pretty well on the test. Oh, there were a few questions I had to guess at. But otherwise, I felt good I looked around at my fellow contestants.

"Poor kids," I thought. "Some of them probably have come thousands of miles just for this. And now they're going to go home disappointed. It's a darn shame. But that's life. I can't afford to dwell on it any-

The "Jeopardy" staffer continued. "To the rest of you, thank you for coming. Now get the heck out of here, she might have added.

AS WE LOSERS filed out of the building I was stunned by the bright sun and by the realization that I had failed. I figured I had gotten 90 percent of the questions right, a passing score in school. But this wasn't school. This was real life. This was 'Jeopardy'

For me, there would be no Daily Doubles, no Final Jeopardy, no passing on intriguing snippets of my life to Alex Trebek

As I slunk through the parking lot I saw a parking curb with a name on it "Alex Trebe." The "k" had rubbed off. I took out my Instamatic camera and snapped a photo. Apparently this was the closest I would come to the most famous game-show host ever to come out of Canada (or is that Monty they sometimes do - I'll try again. What is perseverance, Alex?

It's billed as the most prominent exhibition of Michigan sculpture in the history of the state, a part of the Michigan sesquicentennial celebration Michigan Outdoor Sculpture will feature 18 large - some as tall as 15 feet - contemporary sculptures by 18 Michigan sculptors

The exhibit will be on display starting Tuesday in the outdoor sculpture park of the Southfield Civic Center. The artists represent such different schools as constructivist, minimalist and "the Detroit school." The featured sculptors will include Marshall Fredericks of Birmingham and Michael Hall and Hanna Stiebel, both of Bloomfield Hills.

The exhibition is being hosted by

The fitness benefits of the exercise everyone can do will be the focus of a Walk America seminar sponsored by the American Heart Association of Michigan and the Rockport Co., which manufactures walking shoes. The program will be from 8 a.m. to ! p m. Saturday at the Fairlane Manor in Dearborn.

The program will feature Robert Sweetgall, who has walked more than 22,000 miles on two major journeys across the United States, Dr. James M. Rippe, a nationally known authority on the cardiovascular benefits of walking, and Ann Ward, physical fitness researcher. The cost of the seminar is $7.

FRANKLIN, WHO is 26, entered the business six years ago as a towtruck driver for a repo firm.

"I like my job. I'd die if I had to sit in a factory." He said he works seven days a week. His workday usually begins at midnight and runs until about 5 a.m.

He said he repossesses 10 cars on a slow week. Call him what you wish, he claims repo is young man's work, not a woman's or old man's.

Franklin, who is talkative in the keep-your-mouth-shut repo business. claims to have repossessed 10,000-15,000 vehicles last year.

'This may sound cold-blooded, but I got six cars last Christmas Eve," he said. A good repo man has no sympathy, he added. He grabbed two more cars on Christmas Day.

Pre-party appeals to champagne tastes

A sparkling talk was given by Irving Smith Kogan, director of the Champagne News & Information Bureau, last week at the home of Millie and Robert Pastor of Bloom-

Smitty Kogan offered expert advice on how to open and serve champagne. He also commented on five French champagnes that were served during the tasting, which was a benefactors' preview of the "Champagne Gala" to be held Wednesday, Sept. 16, at Somerset Mall in Troy.

Champagne by Tattinger, Roger, Dom Ruinart, Montaudon Rose and Moet et Chandon was sampled by the guests, who were seated at tables filled with wine glasses and French bread to nibble between ing the cork in place with your thumb, you turn the bottle until the cork pops out - gently

"THE SOUND of the cork being pulled should be the sound of the sigh of a contented woman," he declared, to an appreciative and amused audience

To pour wine like a French waiter, you grasp the bottle with your fingers near the bottom and your thumb underneath He demonstrated, then let some of the guests have a try at opening and serving, in the manner he had shown

"Pour a little and let it settle. Fill it up a half or two-thirds." to prevent overflow, he said.

Kogan noted that holding the glass by the stem is not an affectation but prevents warming up the Ah, what a long, hot summer it's been.

But now it's time for the leaves to fall, the frost to form and the chill winds of autumn to blow strong — in other words, it's time for the usual baloney we get every year here in Michigan with the change of seasons.

Before counting the shopping days to Christmas, though, we thought we'd take one last look at our summer of fun, as seen in snapshots taken by Street Scene readers.

FIREWORKS were a big part of the summer's delight, of course. Roy Brown of Westland was in a supermarket parking lot when he shot this aerial display in Garden City.

For those of you who might like to try the same thing next year, Brown photographed the fireworks with a Canon 28/85 zoom lens on a Canon F1 body, with the aperture at f8 and a shutter speed of B and the camera mounted on a tripod.

Summer also was a good time to stalk the animals with camera in hand. Diane Majka of Garden City snapped this mare and colt sharing a moment of affection on Chincoteague Island in Virginia, known for its wild ponies.

"I have always wanted to see the islands where the wild ponies are located," Majka writes. "I had read 'Misty,' a story about one pony of the island, about 35 years ago, so this vacation was a wish come true."

And when you can get an animal showing up a human being, it can be a lot of fun too. Maryanne Monson of Redford Township was vacationing in Deerfield Beach, Fla., when she photographed a pelican in action.

"My girlfriend and I were standing on the pier when this pelican landed in front of us with his fresh catch," Monson writes, "while the man standing behind the pelican was having no luck."

OUR SWELTERING summer also was a great time to take part in just about any outdoor activity under the sun. Edith Resnick of Bloomfield Hills caught these hot-air balloons on the fly during a race in Snowmass, Colo. Snowmass? Brrr, we can't get away from these omens of things to film in a Yashika TAF with a Zeiss Tessar F3.5 lens.

Sometimes, though, it was nice to just sit back and take in the scenery. Rita Allerding of Lathrup Village trekked up to Mackinac Island to take the view from fabled Picture Rock.

Meanwhile, Dorothy Sewell of Birmingham stayed in her own back yard to get this mirror image on the shores of Wing Lake.

So there you have it, the last of Wish You Were Here for 1987.

By the way: There are exactly 108 shopping days left until Christmas. Happy holidays.
