BY KEVIN BROWN

Eight candidates will vie for four seats on the Plymouth City Commission in the November 4 election

Among the candidates are two incumbents, Mayor Ron Loiselle and Commissioner Don Dismuke.

Commissioners John Vos and Doug Miller can't seek reelection, as they are prohibited from running by the city charter which limits commissioners to no more than two consecutive terms

One candidate, Plymouth attorney John E. Thomas, lives in Canton Township. By an interpretation of the city charter by City Attorney Donald Morgan, Thomas must prove city residency 20 days before the election.

While the revised 1951 city charter called for two years of residency before a person could run for city commission, that provision was thrown out following a court challenge.

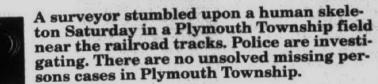

Those who turned in valid petitions by the Tuesday deadline have until Friday to withdraw from the ballot. Besides the two incumbents and Thomas, the commission candidates are former city finance director and former acting city manager William Graham, Zoning Board of Appeals member Dave McDonald, Fred Dilacovo of Ann Street, Colleen Pobur of North Harvey and Paul Schulz of South Main.

To be eligible to run for the city commission, citizens had to return forms with 25 petition signatures. Three who took out petitions did not return them. They were Downtown Development Authority member Sally Repeck, former commissioner and former state representative Jerry Vorva and William Corrigan of North Mill street.

The top three vote getters will win four-year terms. The fourth highest vote-getter will get a two-year commission term.

Loiselle said he's running to finish projects now underway, adding he's one of the few candidates with some history on the commission. Among accomplishments he listed "passing the millage and starting the street paving program, the two-year sidewalk upgrading program."

inside a rolled carpet. The human remains were spotted 40 feet north of railroad tracks west of Haggerty Road and south of Schoolcraft.

All that remained of the body was a skeleton and several items of clothes, said Detective David Hayes. "I believe he was probably dumped there," Hayes said.

A surveyor found the body, police said.

Police say the medical examiner's report should come back by early next week, and should provide the cause of death.

Hayes said the remains appear to be those of a man. He said there was no obvious sign of injury to suggest how the man died.

Hey kids, let's take a look at some proms from the past. Yes, kids, your parents went to the prom. We teased our hair, pulled on elbow-length gloves, adjusted our cummberbunds and shined up the whitewalls. We were hot stuff.

Today, the dresses are shorter and slinkier, and boys are likely to sport earrings. But what has-n't changed is the excitement, the ortunity to strut your stuff, the chance to be elegant for an evening.

Kim Chapman 1974

Kim, who lives in Plymouth Township with husband Max and their five children, went to her senior prom at William Henry Harrison High School in W. Lafayette, Indiana, with Craig Cunningham.

"He asked me. We were high school sweethearts," Kim said.

"Actually, it was my first prom. It was his first prom, too. We had to leave early. My parents were very strict. My curfew was 12 midnight."

Kim made her own dress. "Our finances were tight. I still have the dress in my closet upstairs. It was yellow with flowers." Craig's mother owned a beauty salon. Kim made an appointment to have her long, blonde tresses done up in curls. "It didn't work," Kim said. Kim hasn't seen Craig since

Dog Jog Canines raise money

BY KEVIN BROWN STAFF WRITER

The first Plymouth Dog Jog drew nearly 150 dogs and their owners Saturday to Kellogg Park, to raise money for area humane societies.

"There's a lot of good looking dogs here," said event organizer Eric Colthurst of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club, as people and their dogs drifted into the park to register for the 1:30 p.m. event. The Kiwanis Club shared event pro-ceeds with the Michigan Humane Society and the Humane Society of Huron Valley

The dogs - long and short haired, skinny and husky, big and tiny - donned stylish colored ban-dannas presented at registration. Some of their owners chose to don T-shirts with the event logo, also given to those paying the $15 registration fee.

Psychic won't be at senior prom and the second second and the second second

There won't be a psychic after all at the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park senior prom Friday night.

Students organizing the extravaganza at Livonia's Burton Manor made arrangements two months ago for Elizabeth DeSouza, owner of the Psychic Connection in Westland, to give readings at the prom.

After a number of parents learned of the plan and complained, DeSouza was told she would not be welcome at the dance.

Students initiated this with the idea that it was for entertainment purposes only," said Judy Evola, community relations director for the district. "There was no intention to have astrology or this astrologer's found out what her ideology was, administration and the class advisers decided it wasn't appropriate. We definitely do not want to legitimize astrology with our students.

DeSouza is flabbergasted. "I worked for them before on two different occasions. I worked their all-night senior parties,' said the six-year Westland Chamber of Commerce member who was a regular on the nowcancelled TV show, Kelly & Co.

"I feel bad for the kids. It's a shame. They put an awful lot of work and effort into this. They asked a lot of questions about me to make sure they even wanted me in the first place."

DeSouza says she's often hired for the birthday parties of 13-14year-olds. "I have a very good reputation. I feel blessed to be able to work. Parents trust me. I know there is that fine line as to what you can tell someone at that age. I'm not going to cross that line.

DeSouza bills herself as "the number-one source for psychic consultation in the metro-Detroit area." She offers private, phone and group readings, and does astrological chart reports. DeSouza has also authored an astrology column in a local newspaper. It bothers DeSouza that criticism of her is based on religion.

find that hard to believe." The psychic's absence shouldn't detract much from the prom, to host a record 1,200 students, said Evola. Featured will be the "most elaborate decoration display in school history; a 40-footlong display castle; dozens of ficus trees and fresh floral arrangements," she said. "The students are trying to create a magical atmosphere for this event. Students and parents adopted a non-tolerance drug and alcohol policy for the night.' That's not the point, as some faculty and students see it. "I think it's amazing that all it took was for two or three people to make a couple calls," said Canton English teacher Matt Watroba. "It always astonishes me that a couple of well-placed phone calls can change policy, mysteriously. I think it's dangerous. Salem High School senior Bill cancelled it because it was a dumb idea, I wouldn't have a problem with it. It's the fact that it kind of has to do with religion and forcing views on others and me personally.

"I'm a Christian. I like that just seemed like a rather silly thing to get upset about."

Diane Daskalakis of Citizens for Better Education - a grassroots group which in the past objected to the showing of Rrated movies in the schools - didn't call to complain, but is happy about the cancellation nonetheless

"Biblically, it is not accepted for people to go to psychics, fortune tellers and sorcerers. It is against the Christian faith," she said. "It's obvious that there are a lot of folks in town who agree."

Daskalakis opposes psychics for non-religious reasons as well. "If these youngsters go to psychics and they're told something wonderful is supposed to happen and it didn't, it might be an extreme let down. I think it would be poor direction for seniors who've spent many years educating themselves. Then a psychic comes inT to wrap up the whole thing in one encounter."

Diane Stamp, a former CBE school board candidate, was not one of the parents who called. "But if I had kids in school, I would have. I'm a Christian, and psychics are against the laws of God and are dangerous," said the Plymouth resident.

DeSouza says students are the losers.

"Senior prom is a very memorable time for anyone, and this is what they wanted as their theme. There were certain parents who pulled the plug on a whole part of that. People who know me know I'm not a bad person.

"It's disappointing," she said. "I really feel sorry for the kids, basically because it took them a long time to set up everything."

first. We went to Topinka's and Webers," Jo Ann said.

Jo Ann wore a mint green, empire-waist dress to the senior prom. "It had the chiffon with a train that came from the shoulders." John recalls the feeling "of being grown up, everything being all fancy and your parents trusting you."

The Wrobels had a 2 p.m. curfew.

Lynne and Antonio Lonigro 1965

Lynne, now an assistant principal at Plymouth-Canton High School, went to her first prom with Antonio in ninth grade, the end of junior high. Antonio was a new student from Italy and didn't speak much English. They lived in Flint.

Lynne watched Antonio for a year then had her girlfriends ask him for her. "I didn't speak to him until the night of the prom," she said.

Love bloomed, and Lynne and Antonio went to their senior prom at the new Northwestern High School. Lynne's mother made her dress, a long, blue satin gown with a matching lace coat. "I stood for hours while she pinned and pinned," Lynne said.

The prom was held in the gym. "The big thing at our senior prom was the used dry ice," Lynne said. "We had a big, gold buddha made of paper-mache for atmosphere."

This year, their daughter, Valerie, goes to her senior prom.

Davis and Esther Sanabria - 1964

Esther and David Sanabria 1964

Dave and Esther met in grade school in Detroit. They went to each other's senior proms, his at Chadsey High School and hers at St. Leo's.

"Dinner was at the Top of the Flame. The guy I worked for let me use his 1964 Cadillac El Dorado convertible, a $7,000 car," Dave said.

"Mine was at a nun's place, but I can't remember the name," Esther said, of her prom

The Sanabrias stayed out to 5 a.m. the night of Dave's prom. "We weren't at a motel or anything. We were at a party," Esther said.

Dave and Esther got engaged on her graduation. "She wore her ring on graduation. The nuns were spazzing. Here she was engaged to an older guy who already graduated from a public school. They had another beau for her," Dave said.

Esther's intended "beau" eventually entered the priesthood. The Sanabrias have two children and are expecting a grandchild in July.

Delite and Packy McAllister 1933

The MacAllister of Plymouth met as sophomores at the old Plymouth High School, now Central Middle School. They live in the same comfortable house they bought when they married 56 years ago. "I went to all the dances from 8th grade on, the jay-hops and the proms. Hated to miss one," Delite said.

Their senior prom was held in December. The stage in the school's auditorium was decorated like a large living room, with a huge tree, a painted staircase and fake windows. One hundred and twenty couples danced to the music of Happy Hatlem and his band. Packy remembers the corsage he gave Delite. "Yup, an orchid. I'll never forget that. It cost $2. That was a lot of money then."

Renee (Cartier) Skoglund 1963

Renee had no intention of going to her senior prom at Ladywood High School in Livonia. Her father had other plans.

"My dad was in the hospital at the time having his gallbladder out. He asked some orderly he befriended to take me."

In a moment of madness, Renee agreed. "The guy was six feet, eight-and-a-half inches tall. He had just worked a double shift and his tuxedo was a bad fit. He barely stayed awake during dinner and passed out at the prom.'

Her date came to on the way home and asked for a goodnight kiss. Renee said no. She never saw him again.

Renee lives in Canton with husband Gary and two of their three children. She can't recall her prom date's name.

Continental is renamed

BY KEVIN BROWN STAFF WRITER

Continental Cablevision subscribers got a surprise on Tuesday - the company had changed its name to MediaOne.

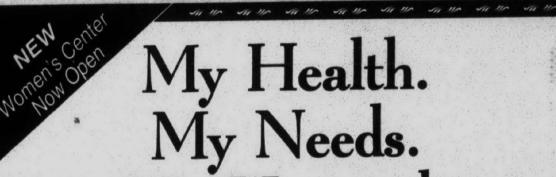

While the listing in the telephone book still reads "Contiago of fiber optic cable, consumers in some parts of Plymouth and Canton can use the system for Internet access. Ameritech also offers cable TV service in Plymouth-Canton. Black said MediaOne also plans to offer telephone service

Since the installation a year services - all goals that are addressed by MediaOne," according to a company news release on the name change.

MediaOne also offers cable TV services in Westland, Dearborn Heights, West Bloomfield, Southfield, Lansing, Jackson and Holland.

nental Cablevision," a call placed to that number is now answered with a cheery, "Welcome to MediaOne.'

"It's really more than a name change," said Bill Black, company public relations manager. Black said the company is trying to stress that it provides "a single source for entertainment communications in the home."

The company name change will result in no change in the number assigned to cable channels. But Black said the company will eventually offer more than 100 channels, up from the current 78, and interactive services

Black said that within the next year, trial digital video will also be offered, to boost picture quality.

The name change was the latest volley in the ongoing competition between the two cable TV companies. Since Ameritech announced it's intention to seek Plymouth and Canton customers more than a year ago, the two companies have boosted channel offerings, offered free premium channels and laid fiber optic cable - all to better compete.

The name change from Continental to MediaOne was initiated by research consultants Roper Starch. A poll of 1,000 Americans "showed consumer enthusiasm for more entertainment options, a growing receptivity to new media services like broadband access to the Internet and particularly strong sentiment for enabling children to have access to the latest communications

"The MediaOne name was chosen after months of market and consumer research and an examination of several hundred naming possibilities," said company CEO Amos Hostetter Jr.

"In the end, the company was impressed with the results earned by its Atlanta-based cable systems, which had created and adopted the MediaOne name in the autumn of 1995, shortly after coming under the ownership of U.S. West Media Group," he continued.

Omnicom, the Plymouth-Canton area's first cable TV supplier, was sold in fall 1995 to Continental. U.S. West purchased Continental last year, and announced the new company name on Tuesday.

Plymouth police arrested a 35year-old Garden City man at 2:09 a.m. May 11 for driving while drunk.

A police officer noticed a gray, 1994 Ford Escort speeding through a red light at Lilley and Ann Arbor Road and pulled over the driver.

The Ford Motor Company employee said his driver's license had been suspended for a drunken driving conviction. His eyes were "bulgy and glassy." He staggered and slurred his h, officers said.

The driver said he'd had "too

University of Phoenix expands to Livonia

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY STAFF WRITER

Riding high oh the waves of success, the University of Phoenix Michigan continues its mission of providing working adults with higher education.

"This is an expansion area by demand," explained Sarah Serra, director of the University of Phoenix Michigan. "In two months, we will have 10 classrooms in the AAA building (behind Laurel Park Mall.)"

They're currently running 18 classes throughout Livonia, Farmington and Novi in leased space.

"We have about 400 students from this area."

The University of Phoenix, a private, for-profit educational institution, is not new to Michigan. The group opened a site in Southfield in October 1995. They anticipated about 450 students after 1 1/2 years. They have about 1,600 students enrolled today.

"I knew it was going to be popular," said Serra, "but the growth and interests have been phenomenal."

The University of Phoenix Michigan "is a very, very targeted school," according to Serra. "We're not for everybody."

Classes are catered to working adults, aged 23 and above, who are looking for the opportunity to complete a bachelor of science degree or master of science degree. The majority of classes run from 6-10 p.m., Monday through Friday, for five weeks

- six weeks for the master's courses. Students only attend one class students only attend one class each week, and unlike the traditional schooling situations, students can begin a class at the beginning of each month.

"We enter students every month," said Serra, referring to other universities which begin classes according to semesters. "Another nice thing is that people don't have to wait in line to register, and you never have to worry that a class will be cancelled (due to lack of enrollment)."

A needs assessment was key in determining where to locate the second campus. According to Serra, The University of Phoenix started in Southfield, at I-696 and Evergreen, because residents in that area voiced the most interest. Livonia was second.

"Livonia is where we started getting the second most requests," she said, adding that anywhere along I-275 would have been a good location. She anticipates the new location will attract people from Ann Arbor, Canton Township and other neighboring communities.

The Laurel Manor is located at 39000 Schoolcraft Road. For more information, call 1-800-834-2438.

With campuses in 14 states, and two abroad, the University of Phoenix Michigan has graduated over 150,000 students since it's founding in 1976.

Magic Ride Plymouth folks join the fight against child abuse

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI SPECIAL WRITER

Imagining the tremendous energy and will it takes Carla Vollmer whose leg was amputated when she was 13 - to cycle a whopping 25-30 miles during the annual Magic Ride will make a lot of us wonder why we don't get involved.

Vollmer, 29, will participate in the eighth annual Southeast Michigan Warm-Up Magic Ride and Magic Walk. Event organizers hope to raise $10,000 for the Child Abuse Prevention Council of Out-Wayne County. Vollmer has cycled in every Magic Ride event with her mom, Geri, a CapCo volunteer. Her father, Bob, will walk this year for the cause.

"It's a lot of fun and you get to meet a lot of people," said Vollmer, a Plymouth resident. "People should be aware of the abuse and that they need STAFF PHOTOS BY

They help the volunteers, who help raise money to prevent child abuse and neglect.

Volunteer riders include Kathleen Keen McCarthy, Plymouth Township supervisor; Bruce Paterson, Wayne County commissioner; State Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton; State Rep. Deborah Whyman; Canton Supervisor Tom Yack and Northville Township Supervisor Karen Woodside.

Those volunteers will be helped for the sixth straight year by the Stu Rockafellow Amateur Radio Society. That's because radio contact is important to maintain safety for all Magic Ride participants, said Chuck Van Vleck.

Registration for the event is 7-10:30 a.m. Free lunch is served to participants from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Bike riders sign up for 5, 15,25 or 50-mile rides, while walkers can participate at the Canton recreation complex. Pledges toward walkers or

Road repair

Engler plan draws mixed reviews here

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

Gov. John Engler hopes $200 million of his $570 million road repair revenue can be generated by a 4-cent increase in the gas tax

But Engler won't back any increase in the gas tax unless road repair responsibility changes. Engler wants 90 percent of the roads in Michigan to fall under the state's jurisdictior

That represents a revolutionary change in the jurisdiction of county and state roads. What's at stake certainly affects county road departments and local departments of public works.

County Commissioner Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, expects the Wayne County Commission to debate road control. Patterson, who supports Engler's road reform proposal, expects the commission to review plans from both parties. "I think it will be a knock-down, drag-out fight to give up (county) control of roads," Patterson said. Legislative analysts want more information. "We simply can't tell what the funds' effects are on local government," said Scott Schrager, a senior legislative associate with the Michigan Municipal League, a legislative liaison in Lansing for Michigan cities and townships. Schrager met with mem-bers of the Conference of Western Wayne on Friday.

"We need to almost do a study jurisdiction by jurisdiction to unbundle it."

County concerns

Mike Duggan, assistant county executive, said Engler was proposing $500 million to construct new roads outstate without repairing county roads.

Duggan called the plan "outrageous." "Currently roads are funded based on a formula using popu-lation and miles of road," Duggan said. "Under his proposal he can spend money where he wants, which is outstate where his political base is. He can take the money that could be spent here to repair Seven Mile Road, and build new freeways outstate." Duggan believed state lawmakers representing Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties would fight any plan to remove county jurisdiction over countycontrolled roads.

"I don't believe he has any chance. I think people will be outraged when they realize what the details are in this plan, and that it won't pass." Duggan said Wayne County officials would put together a bipartisan coalition of state lawmakers.

"It's very convoluted, as far as" the funding goes," said John Roach, public information manager for the Wayne County Department of Public Services. "We're concerned about losing local control over the roads. This restructuring would put deci" sions for roads everywhere in Michigan and put it in the hands of one person — the governor. "We don't think that's a good idea." Roach realized the county had a new opportunity to maintain more roads through competitive

Vollmer, who works at Oakland Community College as a sign language interpreter, comes to her volunteer work with empathy nurtured by years of personal struggles that began when she was 13.

Terrible pains in her leg and a swollen knee were the first signs of bone cancer. At the time, Vollmer was dancing ballet, tap and jazz; played on baseball and basketball teams, and was involved in a number of other sports. But, the pain was so intense she could barely walk.

"After that I was of course very limited, everything changed and that was traumatic for me," she said. "My world basically crashed in front of me. Everything I was able to do I couldn't do anymore.'

As she worked past her emotional and physical pain, Vollmer learned to master everyday tasks and slowly take on some sports, like swimming and cycling. She also discovered ways to help others. This time CapCo will benefit.

"I'm working on trying to get the Main Street upgrade moving, sidewalks and street lighting on South and North Main, the brownfield redevelopment board was passed and established, the principal shopping district, we made some progress on the parking problem downtown, I'd like to see more progress on the Ann Arbor Road project, shared (with Plymouth Township) dispatch and police, those are all programs I've started since I've been mayor," he said. Dismuke, elected to the city commission two years ago, said, "I want to continue to be part of maintaining Plymouth's charms. I think we really worked well as a commission the last two years, think we accomplished a lot, focusing on downtown development, the Box Bar, the Mayflower and hopefully Tom's Oyster Bar. We made big steps in resolving the parking issue, I still want to be involved in accomplishing recreation improvements.'

McDonald said his experience on the zoning board of appeals since 1993 "has probably taught me a little bit more about the inner workings of the city."

"I want to continue to move Plymouth in the right direction, I think the commission in the past couple of years has been pro-active. We have to continue to seek ways to combine services with the township," he said, to save money. McDonald said he is also concerned with upgrading Old Village and maintaining streets and sidewalks.

Thomas said he was running because, "I just don't think the city's getting a lot of direction from the existing commission and the current administration."

'I'm a little concerned about how they assess property and how accurate their tax bills are," Thomas said. "I question if they understand the whole issue of developing a downtown...My impression is the whole salary structure people is a little bit heavy for people at the top, I think they've avoided making decisions.

Voters not currently registered can do so up to 30 days before the election to vote.

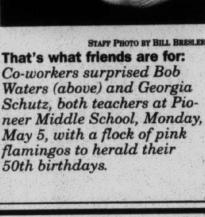

Had one more candidate been certified to run for city commission, a primary elec-tion would have been required in August, to narrow the field to eight in November.

Some candidates could not be reached for comment Tuesday and early Wednesday.

bidding, but he believed it was counterproductive because the state was adding "new layers of roads," adding more overhead to a bureaucratic process.

"I think the bottom line of the proposal is one we'd like to see," Roach said. "The question is, is it realistic. The governor is the only one who is confident that we will get $200 million more from the federal government. The folks in Congress are not optimistic that we will get that."

Roach said that concern was compounded by an increase in federal money to states that already receive more money than they contribute in tax dollars. Michigan remains a "donor" state for federal tax dollars.

But Commissioner Patterson doesn't believe Wayne County government is "as efficient as it should be." Patterson supports Engler's push to reform road money and jurisdictions over them.

Patterson also wants to see townships on "equal footing" with cities for Act 51 transportation funds. "Townships are the poor stepchild and are the last to get money, less the 20 percent off the top to administer these programs."

Without any reforms, Patterson points out, the governor will veto any tax hike, hence fewer revenue will be available for roads.

"We will be entering some serious negotiations," Patterson said about Engler's and Democratic proposals.

Mayors react

Most community leaders in western Wayne County want to wait before passing judgment on Engler's plan.

Westland Mayor Bob Thomas, who chairs the Conference of Western Wayne, asked Jim DeSana, Engler's newly appointed director of the Michigan Department of Transportation, what the plan does for communities who staff Department of Public Works employees using state transportation money.

Thomas was concerned about the possible layoffs of employees or budget cutbacks in personnel. DeSana said these communities may be responsible for fewer roads, but still may be eligible for federal monies.

land could bid for road maintenance contracts, he said.

DeSana cited Wayne County's maintenance contract on I-94

"You can look at this two ways, the county will not want to give up jurisdiction, or take a position altogether different, and be willing to compete for jobs," DeSana said.

Engler wants legislative approval of the plan by July 1 and the plan in place by Oct. 1.

Thomas wondered why it took this long for a plan. "We have six weeks to find the answers to 200 questions," Thomas said.

Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack wondered if local counties would be required to provide "full disclosure" of how funds are spent and how they can "underbid" to receive maintenance contracts for state freeways, implying that funds are shifted from one department to another.

State auditors are examining Wayne County's road funds.

"If Wayne County agreed to this, they would have more money," DeSana said.

While Wayne County was "not always perfect" in road maintenance, Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey believed the new plan "created instant insomnia."

"I'm not going to sleep well at night, knowing another layer of bureaucracy is out there," Kirksey said. The distance between Livonia and Lansing is greater than Detroit and Livonia, he added.

Kirksey was concerned about the state inaction to revise dangerous ramps, particularly on I-96.

"We have basically lost this construction season. There are projects that could have been started. By the time we start the projects, and shift from the county to the state, we will lose much in the construction season.

Kirksey hoped lawmakers would recognize that there are projects in progress and that changing the rules in the middle of them could be "devastating."

DeSana responded that the state would set up 31 service centers to respond to repair needs.

But Kirksey countered that Livonia already had a "service mechanism" from Wayne County. "It doesn't seem the same at the state level," Kirksey said. Schrager later wondered how it would affect outstanding bonds for communities and who will decide what gets repaired. Still, Schrager called Engler's plan an "innovative proposal." MML officials needed more time to study the issue, he said.

EPA to hold local meetings on soil sample plan

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Region 5 will hold two meetings to describe and answer questions about a draft plan for soil sampling near the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority municipal waste combustor at Inkster and Van Born roads in Dearborn Heights.

The meetings will be held 7-9 p.m. Monday in the Richard Dearborn Heights, and 7-9 p.m. Thursday, May 22 in the Inkster Recreation Center, 2025 Middlebelt, Inkster.

The purpose of the sampling is to determine whether soils in the community were contaminated with lead and/or mercury as a result of combustor operations. The plan was developed as a joint effort between the comment of Environmental Quality and Wayne County Department of Environment.

Written comments on the plan may be submitted at the session. Written, fax or e-mail comments will be accepted through June 5. They should be sent to Paul Ruesch, DRP-8J, U.S. EPA Region 5, 77 West Jackson Blvd., Chicago, IL 60604. The fax num-address is ruesch.paul@epamail.epa.gov.

Copies of the draft soil sam-pling plan and other site-related documents are available for review at public libraries in Dearborn Heights, Inkster, Garden City, Taylor, Wayne and Westland.

Thomas wondered about the state's response for pothole complaints. Thomas said Wayne County "may not come out until tomorrow," but Thomas was uncertain about the response he would get from the state.

Ameritch VP promises 911 revenue figures by June

Leaders of western Wayne County communities can expect to receive a count of billable access lines from Ameritech in June

Henry Semerjian, vice president of Ameritech, told members of the Conference of Western Wayne on Friday that he will have a final count of the lines and money coming to the CWW for E-911 surcharges.

The CWW is a consortium of elected officials from the cities of Belleville, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth, Romulus, Wayne and Westland and the townships of Canton, Huron, Northville, Plymouth, Redford, Sumpter and Van Buren

The CWW first requested a count of the lines in January. Ameritech submitted a letter in February and Ameritech officials met with the CWW in March to notify them that Ameritech did not have the staff to handle the request, which frustrated CWW members.

Bianconi sent a registered letter to Ameritech's president, Robert Cooper, that expressed the CWW disappointment at the delay. The letter outlined the timetable of meetings and communication Ameritech had with the CWW. Bianconi had not received a written response as of Friday.

"For a company that is supposed to be a leader in communication and technology, such a delay is ludicrous," Bianconi's letter states. "For a company that is supposed to focus on customer service and satisfaction. such a delay is unacceptable."

Plymouth Theater Guild finds itself in 'Brigadoon'

BY M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

There's a touch of Plymouth the Plymouth Theater Guild that is - in the Farmington Players' presentation of "Brigadoon," sold out before it opened last month at "the Barn" in Farmington Hills.

PTG fans will recognize Ralph Rosati - director, choreographer and sword dancer - and Otto Canis - widower Archie Beaton in "Brigadoon," a musical memorable for its mind-teasing fantasy and beautiful Lerner and Loewe score.

Another familiar PTG face is that of chorus member Marje King, who at the Barn has directed, produced and assisted behind the scenes with everything from coffee to playreading.

For Rosati, a hairdresser by day, directing and choreographing "Brigadoon" is a dream come true

"It's one of the most beloved musicals of all time," said Rosati, who's wanted to do "Brigadoon" ever since 1954 when he saw the movie starring Gene Kelly, Van Johnson and Cyd Charisse while ushering at the old Fisher movie theater.

This is the last weekend for the musical - packed with humor, pathos, good dialogue and nuggets of wisdom - at the Barn on 12 Mile Road west of Orchard Lake.

"I think everyone is familiar with the music from it, (in particular the signature song, "Almost Like Being in Love,") Rosati said.

'Brigadoon' is set in 1954. While grouse hunting in the highlands of Scotland, two young men happen upon an ancient vilhunters. "Why isn't it on the map? Because it only appears for a single day once every 100 years. The two men pass the day with the townspeople, eventually learning the secret of Brigadoon. They experience a ritualistic wedding, romance, love, and even tragedy before leaving for their own time and place back in the U.S.," added Rosati, whose daughter Evelyn Schaublin the in sings "Brigadoon" chorus.

"Their lives, however, have been so touched by the simple Celtic ways of Brigadoon that they find readjustment difficult or impossible."

Canis plays the father of lovestruck Harry (George Monticello). "It's always an interesting challenge to be playing a character with an accent. And I'm enjoying the singing part of it," he said

Agnes High School and the University of Detroit, Rosati didn't get involved with music and theater until exiting the Army in 1958. "My training as an actor came from going to the movies on Saturdays; growing up and watching some of the great ones," said Rosati, who studied at the Detroit Conservatory of Music and the Detroit Institute of Musical Arts.

A graduate of Ohio Northern University, Canis began acting while in school. His passion for theater hasn't diminished.

"I find that when I go to the theater, I really am able to forget all the headaches of the day," said Canis, a manager at Parke-Davis Pharmaceutical Research in Ann Arbor where he's responsible for dispensing trial drugs worldwide. "You walk in there and you're totally consumed about what a rotten day you had. But your adrenalin starts pumping, and you're ready to go. You get totally engrossed in the process and forget about the outside world. It's a release."

Working with Rosati has been "a pleasure," says Canis. "I've always enjoyed working with him in any capacity, whether it be acting with him or being directed. He is very conscientious. He's willing to work with you as an actor and to help with development of the character."

Plymouth man faces felony charges in Westland case

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A rifle-wielding Plymouth man who barricaded himself in a Westland apartment before leading police on a car chase that ended in an accident has been arraigned on criminal charges. Police said 20-year-old Michael Gustafson was despondent over losing a girlfriend during an incident that began at 3:10 p.m. April 23 at Yalewood Apartments on Yale, south of Warren. Visiting District Judge

Michael Ciungan arraigned Gustafson May 6 in Westland 18th District Court after the suspect was released from a psychiatric hospital.

Gustafson faces felony charges of discharging a gun from a vehicle, felony firearms, and fourthdegree fleeing and eluding police. He also faces a misdemeanor of carrying a loaded firearm in a vehicle

Gustafson could face a fouryear prison term if convicted of firing the rifle from his car. All other charges carry maximum

two-year terms

this year.

On May 6, Ciungan ordered Gustafson to be jailed in lieu of a $50,000 cash bond.

The suspect is charged in an April 23 incident that began when a suicidal man - alone at the time - barricaded himself inside of a friend's apartment, Westland police Sgt. Scott Fetner has said.

The suspect made death threats against an ex-girlfriend, her friend and police, Fetner said. A police negotiator tried without success to end the inci-

Officers in patrol cars began driving to the apartment, but the suspect got into his late-model Mustang and drove west on Hunter to Central City Parkway, Fetner said. It was believed that the Westland Police Department was his destination.

Instead, he led police on an erratic chase north on Central City Parkway and east on Warren, making a U-turn as he approached Wayne Road, Fetner said. The suspect then returned to the parkway and drove south to Ford Road, where he crashed into two other cars, Fetner said.

Police surrounded his car as he fired a round from his rifle, Fetner said. Police indicated that the suspect may have been trying to harm himself, but he missed as police closed in and captured him without further incident.

The suspect had escaped police one night earlier after fleeing from a Cherry Hill/Newburgh gas station where a suicidal man was reported.

County awards contract for demolition

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

The redevelopment of a 926 acres of surplus land in Northville Township moved wother step forward on May 1 when Wayne County commissphers awarded a contract to a Wayne County firm for asbestos removal and demolition.

The Adamo Demolition Co. in Detroit will demolish more than a bandoned buildings and ructures between Five and Six Mile roads and Hines and Beck mads, and remove more than 18,000 feet of tunnel.

"The buildings and tunnels have been a nuisance for some Ome," said County Executive Edward McNamara. "Their removal will facilitate our process to bring a new, superior mixed-use development to the site."

Adamo was the lowest bidder among 12 demolition companies. The contract costs $1.4 million.

The buildings formerly housed the Plymouth State Training School, which closed in the mid-1980s, and the Wayne County Child Development Center, which closed in the late 1970s.

The demolition process will begin in about two weeks and be completed within 180 days.

County Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, who also represents Northville Township, said he was "overjoyed that the property was getting cleaned up."

"It was my number one priority in 1992," McCotter said. "I am grateful to the administration. It was a real team effort between the administration, township and county commissioners."

Last month, the county and Northville Township entered into an agreement which changed zoning designations on the site. The property was previously zoned all residential.

The new agreement calls for a mixed-use development that will include single-family housing, a championship golf course, apartments, condominiums, senior housing, research and development and commercial.

Lucky ticket: Don Massey and Sister Mary Francilene, president of Madonna University, were on hand recently when Colleen Pellerito and her husband, Frank, (not pictured) of Beverly Hills, picked up a new Cadillac Catera, donated by Don Massey Cadil-lac and raffled off at Madonna University's ninth scholarship auction last month! This year's scholarship auction was the most successful ever. More than 400 Madonna supporters attended the event and when the final figures were tallied, more than $285,000 was raised for the Madonna University Scholarship Fund. Of this amount, $117,400 was raised from the Cadillac ticket sales. Don Massey's Plymouth dealership has donated a Cadillac for the past eight years to Madonna University's auction. Through his generosity, a total of $757,600 has been realized through the Cadillac car raffle over this eight-year span, providing approximately 50 student scholarships.

is about to change your life, we thought you might like to know what it is. Perhaps we should begin with what Broadband isn't. It's not another bit of techno-hype about some brave new world that will arrive sometime in the next millennium. The fact is Broadband is here. Today. And its power is already changing the lives of those who are connected to it. Much like water, gas and electricity, Broadband is about to become one of your home's most vital connections. When these utilities first came to our homes, they fundamentally changed the way we lived. Our lives were made easier. We had more time to pursue our dreams. We believe Broadband will have that kind of impact. • So what is Broadband? Simply put, it's a wire with enormous capacity, a wire with two-way capabilities. A wire that can do more than we can conceive of today. The wire you now think of as bringing you cable TV is being transformed into something that can literally bring you the future. Broadband will give your computer the power to be as entertaining as your TV. Your TV will become as smart as your computer. And you will be able to communicate in ways you never imagined.

• How is this being done? By building new fiber-optic networks,

we are enabling Broadband to reach its full potential. What that means is some pretty amazing changes in the way people are doing things. In communities around Boston, Detroit and Jacksonville, where our networks are already in place, Broadband is allowing people to download from the Internet up to 50 times faster, providing the fastest Internet connection to the home. This supersonic speed is radically changing the way people use the Net. Now instead of racing to get to the library before it closes, your kids can hang out at home and race from the Louvre to the Smithsonian, downloading masterpieces in a matter of milliseconds. • Who is leading the way? Clearly t's no wonder youths want to rebel against the adults who direct their lives.

In the latest scenario, the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools administration and student advisers canceled the appearance of Elizabeth DeSouza of the Psychic Connection, Westland, who was scheduled to give readings at the PCEP Senior Prom Friday.

Clearly, DeSouza was scheduled as part of the entertainment for the prom, not as a guest lecturer on metaphysics and astrology.

DeSouza's cancellation is yet another example of the school administration's refusal to stand behind its students and to bend to the will of a minority - likely a parent or two who have wild imaginings of what DeSouza is going to tell the students

A senior prom is sort of a goodbye bash. It's a time when kids, many who have spent their academic careers with each other, are bidding each other goodbye as they are about to embark on their new adult paths.

Come on, it's time parents and school administrators in Plymouth-Canton developed a sense of humor. All these graduating seniors want to do at their prom is have a good time. But once again the school administration has backed down and caved in out of fear of people being mad at them.

At proms, youths are too busy having fun to be interested in changing their lives by taking on yet another philosophy, such as astrology and metaphysics. Besides, no one is forcing students to have a reading done at the prom. It was all for pure fun and it is a common form of entertainment at parties in the 1990s.

It is time that parents and the school administration extended support to students and remained confident that the values given to these youths will hold true even on one of the biggest nights of students' senior year.

Let's remember whose prom'it is. These graduating seniors are about to go out into the world, either to college, to work, and some even into marriage. Surely, they can decide without interference - if they want to have a psychic entertain at a party.

Lighten up.

Tuition hikes must be limited

State legislators have no power over univer-sity trustees. Legislators can only vote on budgets and tax policy. Rarely do legislators participate in the state conventions that nominate university candidates, though probably they should.

And so we applaud any legislative efforts, deft or clumsy, to make universities realize it's not nice to jack up tuition faster than working students' and their parents' ability to pay.

The House in April thumped its collective chest after voting a 5.5 percent hike in state appropriations for 15 public universities, 2 bercent more than recommended by Gov. John Engler. That's fine, except we all know the money isn't there, and the sum will have to be negotiated downward.

world of HEPI, the higher education price index. HEPI measures health care, pension costs, computers and the wooing of top faculty. HEPI is different from CPI. In University of Michigan President Lee Bollinger's words, HEPI has "skyrocketed much higher than the CPI.'

Unfortunately, if we follow Bollinger's line of reasoning to its geometric conclusion, allowing universities and colleges to dwell indefinitely in the realm of HEPI will mean that, in some future year, they will soak up not just $1.5 billion in state aid, not just the $8 billion general fund budget, not just all $30 billion in state revenue but the entire gross state prod-

Merit scholarships needed

would like to extend my thanks to the Observer & Eccentric Newspaper for recognizing my scholastic achievement and nominating me as a member of the All-Star Academic Team.

I am currently a finalist in the Honored Scholar Program of the National Alliance for Excellence. This is one of the few organizations offering scholarships based on merit.

I have noticed a lack in funding for academic excellence and believe more effort should be extended to financially reward students. I currently have a 4.5 GPA and rank third in my senior class at Catholic Central High School. I have spent numerous hours investigating the availability of merit scholarships in order to assist my parents with tuition payments. Unfortunately I am excluded from the majority of scholarships because they are based on "need" not "merit."

With need-based scholarships, a student is judged not by his academic potential but by parental income. Merit scholarships should serve as a reward for students. Using this competitive measure would improve the level of education in public, as well as private schools in Michigan. In closing, I believe the state should support merit-based scholarships and I have written to my senator and representative. The future is in America's youth.

Robert DeMattia and the R.A. DeMattia Company. They are the ones who planted the seeds in the high-tech area north of M-14 which grew to this highly regarded development.

I have heard the argument from the four trustees who voted against it as, "why should we offer tax breaks to industry while the homeowners do not get any tax breaks." This is a false argument, and truly demonstrates ignorance of the facts on the part of these trustees. Because when you offer tax abatement to industry, especially high-tech, lowservice industries, you essentially are providing tax reduction to homeowners. Because these industries pay taxes and require very few services, it keeps the taxes on the homeowners lower than otherwise would have to be to provide the municipal services that our citizens have grown accustomed to.

In essence, offering tax abatement to industry is offering tax reduction and abatement to every homeowner in the township. To look at it any differently is short-sighted, unacceptable, and costly to the community and the homeowners.

If this attitude continues at township hall, the citizens' voice will be heard in the year 2000, and these uneducated, shallow-thinkingtrustees will be removed by the voters of our community.

Suburban lawmakers are key players in the tuition drama.

Earlier the House amended the $250 tuition tax credit law sponsored by Sen. Loren Bennett of Canton. The House amendment increased the give-back to those who pay college tuitions, but removed the requirement that colleges hold their tuition hikes to the rate of inflation of the consumer price index (CPI) in order for students' families to be eligible.

The House amendment, if it becomes law, will backfire. Universities and colleges will lose their incentive to restrain tuition hikes to the CPI. Parents will think they're getting a $500 income tax rebate but instead are likely to get socked more than that for college tuition hikes.

Rep. Nancy Cassis of Novi won an amendment to give universities just a 3 percent hike unless they show tuition restraint. Those that do get 2.5 percent more. That's a fair incentive.

Middle-class people in western Wayne County, with neither great wealth nor eligibility for poverty aid, are extremely sensitive to tuition hikes.

Universities and community colleges are in a difficult, though not impossible, spot. They don't operate under the CPI, which measures things a family buys such as apples, autos, housing, clothing, diapers and detergents.

Instead, universities and colleges live in the uct of $260 billion. Obviously, that can't continue.

Michigan State University has set a goal of holding the tuition line at the CPI rate. President M. Peter McPherson says that by this fall virtually every MSU undergraduate will be brought under that promise. Nearer to home,

Schoolcraft College has limited next fall's tuition hike to the CPI rate. Universities and colleges have tapped two other sources: private donations and student loans.

At some point, private donations will peak, especially since even K-12 school districts and parks authorities are setting up foundations that compete with the United Fund and arts groups. If there's an economic downturn, look for profits and donations to shrivel.

Student loans? We deplore the way graduates are forced to start their working lives saddled with a burden of debt. It used to be you went into debt to buy a house; then to buy a car: now to get through college. Americans' slide into the murky valley of debt should stop

No, the answers aren't super-CPI chunks of state aid, infinite doses of private donations, Pac-man tuition increases and gulfs of debt. Universities and colleges must recognize that there are limits, and they must learn to operate within those limits.

It's not nice to jack up tuition faster than working students' and their parents' ability to pay.

Board is short-sighted am writing concerning what I have read about the Plymouth Township Board denying a request from the R.A. DeMattia Company.

I find the action of the Plymouth Township Board, especially the four members who voted against it, to be short-sighted and penny wise and dollar foolish.

The boards on which I served were visionary in their outlook into the future, and as a result of this vision Plymouth Township is presently highly regarded and has received high-quality, high-tech development in the area north of M-14, south of Five Mile Road, and west of Sheldon Road. That high-tech development did not occur by being shortsighted and not seeing beyond the tip of your nose

That area developed because of futuristic vision and visionary leaders that served on the board at that time. During the period that I served on the board, this township became the envy of Wayne County and southeastern Michigan.

The major player in the development of the high-tech area in Plymouth Township is Mr.

Abe A. Munfakh Plymouth

Don't disregard votes

am appalled at the Plymouth/Canton Community School Board of Canvassers' decision in not calling for a special election on the school bond issue.

To disregard the errors in the voting count is both cavalier and incredible. This is especially unbelievable because it is a school bond issue - don't educators of civic and government classes stress the importance of voting and teaching students that each and every vote counts?

After each election the media points out how apathetic the voting public is - now we can understand why. According to this board only SOME votes count and disregarding a person's vote is effectively shutting them up. ...

hugs. Make them feel secure and true, Remember, we're the adults, me and you.

Adaptation of Beanie Baby poem t was a simple question and she didn't expect to get her head bitten off. My sister's coming to visit and she wants to bring a gift for her 2year-old great-niece, who incidentally happens to be my granddaughter. How about a Beanie Baby? she innocently asked. "No," I said emphatically. And this from someone who for Valentine's Day wrote a positive column on the Beanie Baby fad.

Clearly, I was seduced by the phenomenon, including watching hordes of parents, grandparents, children and adult collectors stalk the newlystocked shelves of local stores from card shops to Nordstrom when new shipments arrived. What I saw seemed to be done with a sense of fun. But more recent signs indicate that it is getting out of line. Because the lure of those soft, cuddly Beanie Babies, whose heart-shaped messages speak of love, are touching off something else in adults. We all read about the huge traffic jams that occurred at McDonald's franchises in some of our communities when they introduced miniature Beanie Babies as a feature of their kids' Happy Meals.

Not only did some grown-ups pay for uneaten food, but risked their children's lives by leaving their cars and darting across traffic when police sealed off entry to McDonald's parking lots. In Troy, police had their hands full. "The situation became very serious," said Sgt. Mike Kerr, "as parents were parking on the other side of the road and herding their little children across five lanes of Rochester Road traffic. The potential was there for a serious accident. It was just crazy."

Last week, a mom wrote with humor of her experience, of persuading a Hallmark shop owner to open up his stock of Beanie Babies just to her. To his credit, he was holding a new shipment hostage until children were out of school, because he wanted to make sure they weren't all bought up by adults in the meantime.

We all want to do for our kids. But aren't they also watching how we do it? And, somehow the quest for Beanie Babies has altered judgments. "As sad as it may seem, a good deal of parenting is more about the parents' needs than about their children's," says Mary Rattner Nave, a psychologist with Counseling Associates of Southfield.

Unlike the proprietor of the abovementioned Hallmark store, a Farmington Hills gift and card store owner took advantage of the mania. A store flier offered that if customers bought $5 to $9.99 worth of merchandise, they could purchase one Beanie Baby at the regular price. If they spent $10 more, they could buy two Beanie Babies and so on. Enter Judy Davids of Royal Oak who bought cards and wrapping paper for $16 to purchase two Beanie Babies to add to her collection of 70. She later had second thoughts about being forced to pay for merchandise she really didn't need to buy the Beanie Babies at the regular price.

The State Attorney General's Office says it is a violation of state and federal antitrust laws. Spokesman Chris DeWitt said that a store could offer the item free or at a discount, but not contingent on buying another product. "When I left there (the store), I realized I finally crossed the line in my Beanie Baby mania," Davids said, to her credit. Clearly, a number of the rest of us needs to get our priorities in order, me and you.

Potent legislator eyes attorney general's office

Data there are coy about their 1998 plans – Gov. John Engler about a third term, Don Riegle and Mayor Dennis Archer about challenging him, Republicans about what they'll do if Engler drops out.

Frank Fitzgerald is explicit. The 41-year-old state representative from Grand Ledge wants to be state attorney general. "I haven't stood with a banner behind a podium to say I'm running, but this is a much different situation from a primary. I've been working at it since the first of this year, and I've been thinking about it long before that," he said in an interview during a lull on the House floor. . The Cooley Law School graduate has been in private practice, an assistant Eaton County prosecutor, a local library board member and six-term legislator.

"The attorney general has two principal roles. One is to be the chief law enforcement officer. The other is to be the lawyer for the state and oversee one of the biggest law firms in Michigan.

"One of the failings of the current attorney general is that he has not acted as an advocate for better laws," Fitzgerald says of incumbent "eternal general" Frank Kelley, 72, who has held the job since 1961 when he was 37 and Fitzgerald was 6.

Fitzgerald is potent inside legislative circles. He was No. 2 Republican in the House behind Speaker Paul Hillegonds in 1995-96, presided over most House sessions as speaker pro tem, chaired the Oversight and Ethics Committee, and led GOP task forces that produced crime legislation.

"The current attorney general has made his career on consumer issues. Those are important. But (pause) those are not the single most important issue. Most important, under a refocused attorney general's office, is the crime issue," Fitzgerald said.

He said Kelley's attacks on utilities are "not helpful" to Michigan's business climate.

He points to the aggressively prounion stance Kelley took in arguing that Western Michigan University must pay "prevailing wage" rates (translation: union rates) on a construction project. A circuit judge and Court of Appeals panel upheld WMU's view. Kelley has taken the case to the Supreme Court.

Campaign finance reform is a recurring interest. While Michigan put together "a good set of laws" on contribution limits, Fitzgerald sees the state as "falling behind" in failing to look at the proliferation of "independent" committees that help parties – so-called "soft money."

Fitzgerald comes from a political family. Grandfather Frank had been secretary of state and was in his second term as governor when he died suddenly in 1939. His portrait is in the Capitol rotunda.

Father John was a mover and shaker as a state senator in the early 1960s, when he joined Sen. Bill Milliken and four moderates to sign a "Traverse City pact" at Milliken's home. They overthrew the so-called Neanderthal wing in the Senate, paving the way for a new state constitution and 20 years of George Romney and Milliken as governors. John Fitzgerald served nine years on the Supreme Court by a Milliken appointment and his own re-election. His portrait is in the top courtroom.

Fellow Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, complains about the way the news media treat Fitzgerald, constantly pointing out that he is prochoice on the abortion issue. Others predict Fitzgerald will certainly be opposed by a Right to Life candidate, though no one knows who.

As a candidate Fitzgerald would have three jobs: legislator, campaigner and family man. "I coached my daughter's basketball team this winter and have been involved with my son's basketball team. I just try to keep a balance."

You've really got to hand it to Gov. "Pothole" John Engler. After months and months of getting pounded on the state of Michigan's roads, the governor

A savings account that brings out the animal in you.

finally came up with a package of tax increases and structural reforms coherent enough to be called "bold" and "creative" by his apologists and a betrayal of his tax-cutting record by his critics. The governor's plan would:

■ Raise $700 million in new money for road repair and construction, including a four-cents a gallon increase in the fuel tax and continued pressure on Washington to jigger the formula for distributing federal road money in Michigan's favor.

■ Change the system of governance for Michigan road work by putting some 23,000 miles of major local roads under state governance rather than counties and cities. The idea is to create economies of scale and to force county road commissions to let road repair contracts by competitive bids.

■ Introduce choice into the Michigan auto insurance market. Insurance would still pay for actual damages and medical costs from accidents, but drivers could choose whether to buy additional coverage for intangible costs such as "pain and suffering." Best estimates are that such skinnied back insurance coverage would save an average of $110 a year per policy hold-

That Engler would have to come up with something on roads became inevitable the day Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson infuriated the governor by posing for news photographers standing in a manhole and holding a sign taunting his fellow Republican: "Governor ... How about this pothole?"

It's an axiom that politicians have plenty of freedom to maneuver when the issues at hand are complicated and abstract enough to glaze the eyes of an average voter. But the corollary is that when the issues get simple and concrete + hitting a big pothole every time you drive home from work being the instant example any politician worth his salt had better start bearing down.

The governor knows this at the very core of his being. And whether or not he decides to run for a third term, he most certainly does not want to go down in Michigan history as "Pothole John," the governor who wouldn't do anything about the roads.

I'd guess now that the very thing that has terrorized the political class in this state for months - a tax increase! - will likely be overshadowed by the fights over the other components of the governor's proposal. After all, gasoline prices will be manipulated more by the oil companies over the Memorial Day weekend than the four-cents a gallon that the governor is talking about.

Two fights are obvious, and a third one should be.

Counties and cities are going to scream bloody murder about the prospect of losing local control over roads and repairs. Oakland County's Patterson, for one, believes the governor wants to abolish county road commissions and leave control of all road spending in the hands of Lansing bureaucrats. As of now, I'm inclined to agree with him.

"Auto choice" insurance will, of course, be hated by the trial lawyers, who benefit primarily from the present system, which virtually invites expensive litigation. There is now a fair amount of evidence that as much as half of pain-and-suffering awards go to lawyers on both sides. Taking away some incentives to sue and saving on insurance bills ought to make any red-blooded Lansing lawmaker drool, but we shall see.

The fight that ought to take place has to do with the shamefully high load limits on trucks operating on Michigan roads. Most engineers testify it is the pounding administered by the heavily laden 18-wheelers that really has done in our roads.

The governor finessed this topic last week with a one-liner about preferring not to talk about weight limits, but if he really wants to do something (ahem) concrete to keep our roads in good repair he ought to (ahem) scale this public policy issue.

Mistakes provide valuable lessons t's graduation season. And if you've just graduated or you're about to graduate, I'd like to say, congratulations! Job well-done. You've learned so much! And you know what? All of it is valuable, all of it! Each lesson you've learned will serve you well, you will use it. In some capacity, at some time, you will use it, you'll see.

You've learned not only the what and how of things, but you've also learned the what not and how not of them, too. You've learned from your successes and from your failures. That's the beauty of school, it's OK for trial and error there, for messing up. The teachers, the good ones, insist that that's what learning is all about. They say, "Don't be afraid of making mistakes. You learn from those too." They are right. They are absolutely right.

I know this from firsthand experience. And even though it's been nearly two decades since graduating with my bachelor's degree from college, my old mistakes continue to prove valuable.

You see, I was an "extreme student." I did extreme things – all in the name of collegiate success. For instance, I eliminated "sleep" from the things-to-do list. Sleeping, my "educated," wise, college-trained brain figured, was such a dumb thing. Sleeping wastes so much time, time that could be put to so much better use. Who invented sleeping anyway? Someone with a lot of time to waste, obviously. The way I figured it, it took just a little willpower and a little coffee to get around that dumb and wasteful sleeping thing.

So "pulling all-nighters" became part of my life as an extreme student. It didn't matter what I was facing midterms, term papers, big tests, little quizzes, final exams – they all required an "all-nighter." Coffee and willpower made it all

Giving back Scout Council honors her community work

■ Words like loyal, courteous, kind and giving are used to describe Karen Wilson, who is being recognized for her dedication to the community by the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

Ask Dan Johns why he nominated Karen Wilson for the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council's "Women of Distinction" award and he'll rattle off an endless list of compliments about the Plymouth resident.

Loyal, courteous, kind, obedient, thrifty and giving are words that immediately come to Johns' mind about Wilson, owner/president of Central Distributors of Beer in Romulus.

"I believe she exemplifies those characteristics that are the goals of the Girl Scout movement," said Johns, vice president/general manager of Central Distributors. "She's very caring and very progressive in her thoughts. She's very peopleoriented."

Wilson is modest when asked about being one of five recipients of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council's "Women of Distinction" award.

"It's always nice to be recognized," she said.

Joining Wilson as winners are New Boston resident Laurie Berry, vice chairwoman of the Monroe Chapter of the Karmanos Cancer Institute; Mary Ann Fogle, a Saline resident who has served as vice president and branch officer of the Saline office of Comerica Bank; Alice Roelofs of Ann Arbor, the founder and president of Adult Learning Systems, which serves developmentally disabled and mentally ill adults and children; and Ann Arbor resident Patti Schebil, an active member of the board of directors of SAFE House/Domestic Violence Project. The honorees will be feted at a luncheon with master of ceremonies Ann Arbor Mayor Ingrid Sheldon at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, May 21, at the Ypsilanti Marriott, 1275 S. Huron St. The five women were given the award because their commitment to community life exemplifies the highest ideals of Girl Scouting. All proceeds from the luncheon will support Girl Scout programs. Wilson's resume includes being the past president of the Schoolcraft College Foundation Board of Directors and a member of the Northwestern Community Services Board of Directors, the Plymouth Community Arts Council and the administrative board of Plymouth United Methodist Schools from 1971 through 1981 when her mother persuaded her to leave her post to work at Central Distributors.

"It was hard at first (to leave teaching); I really enjoyed it," she said. "The children were so eager to learn and so excited about school. They were like sponges absorbing everything. It was wonderful to see the process but it was a good time for me to move into something else."

Wilson started on a part-time basis to see if working for Central Distributors was for her. After a stint as full-time office manager supervising six employees, she was promoted as secretary to the board of directors and part owner of CB&H trucking operation. To further her education, she took IBM computer courses and enrolled in 23 business seminars and studied with executive consulting services.

In 1984, she became vice president and part owner of Central Distributors. She oversaw the administrative, financial, data processing and long-range planning of the company, and by 1991 Wilson became the company's president.

"It's not something I actually thought I'd be involved in," she said. "I had been teaching for 10 years but I had a great deal of sentimental attachment being a family business."

Wilson has since become the first woman to serve on the Anheuser-Busch Wholesaler Advisory Panel and has made Central Distributors the largest Anheuser-Busch distributorship in the United States.

"I'm tremendously satisfied to be a part of this business because it's a family business and I get to continue it for another generation," she said.

Climbing a mountain

I'd stay up and super-memorize, super-study, super-over-the-top-way-overboard prepare, not because I hadn't kept up and prepared on a daily basis, I had. And not because I'd fail the class because of that one paper or quiz or whatever, I never even came close to that. It was because I had a mountain of time standing in front of me. I had to climb it. It was there.

So there I'd be, in my dorm room amid papers, notes, books. The clock's soft second hand tick noise keeping me company and I'd study. I'd sit in the old wooden desk chair poring over my notes and books. Around 2 a.m. I'd stop, rub my eyes, shake that weird fuzzy feeling out of my head, take another sip of coffee and give myself a talking-to, a kick in the pants lecture:

"Have you taken the test yet, Karen?" "No."

"No? Then keep studying. There's time, six more hours, do it. Just do it."

My roommates were so lucky, they knew they knew the stuff. They'd called it a night. But I was still where I always was, on my desk chair, on the edge. Really on the edge. Teetering between an A and flunking out. Extreme.

But what if a professor would pull stuff from some obscure part of the book or lecture notes and make that the biggie question worth 65 out of the 100 possible points on the test? Professors could be so unpredictable and tricky, I'd heard stories. So, Prepare and Overprepare – my motto. Do and overdo – I did. And it seemed to work. I wound up with a 3.76 GPA and graduated magna cum laude. Now I've often wondered what would've happened had I not done that. Would the As I got be Bs or Cs or worse? Or would they still have been As? I couldn't even think about that back then; it was too dangerous, too risky to even consider. So I was extreme throughout my undergrad days.

Skipping the 'extremes'

Years later, as I worked on my master's degree, I'd sometimes lapse back to my old ways. But since I was married and had a couple of children by then, being an extreme student didn't work so well and actually caused big ruckuses every now and then. My husband would say, "Look at me. I did it without being extreme." And he's right, he did. He had a very high grade point average throughout his college career AND his study habits had always been methodical and finite.

Common sense and Ron and old undergraduate lessons meant my master's degree was NOT built on a mountain of all-nighters, a couple, but nothing like my undergrad days. And I graduated with a 3.90 GPA that time. I think back on those extreme days, it was probably sleep deprivation that made me think such things. Teetering between an A and flunking out? Honest to pete. Studying till the ends of the earth, or night, whichever came first, even when I knew the stuff

Church.

Dedicated to community

Her dedication to the community is something she's learned through her work with the family business. In 1933, her grandfather, Jack Gorsuch, founded Central Distributors of Beer, which distributes Anheuser-Busch products. Her father, Richard Colina, took over the business and ran it until he died at age 62.

Wilson's mother, Rose Ella Burkhardt, whom she calls a "great volunteer person," had not worked outside of the home until her husband's death when, at age 44, she joined Central Distributors. Becoming part of a male-dominated industry was tough at first for Burkhardt, according to Wilson.

"In 1962, there weren't a lot of women in business at all," Wilson said. "She had interesting stories to tell about how people make assumptions. She told me about the truck vendors who used to come in and ask for the man in charge. She would say, 'I'm the person in charge.'"

After she retired, Wilson's brother, John Colina, took over until he retired in 1991.

Wilson – who earned a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University in 1967, and a master's degree from then-Saginaw Valley State College, both in elementary education – had been a preschool teacher in Utica Community ago. "She was not just a wonderful mother, grandmother and friend to me; she was also a wonderful business person," she said. "There's a lot of new people here now but the people who worked with her still talk about her and love and respect her. She was a person who was fair and also was tough at the same time."

Like her mother, Wilson said she feels very strongly about giving back to the community. Wilson is a member of the Romulus Drug Task Force Committee and has organized alcohol awareness programs in junior and senior high schools.

"Feeling our responsibility for selling alcoholic beverages, I feel so strongly about our programs," she said.

Part of the program includes bringing in speaker Barbara Babb,

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' Kiddie Kampus will have more than one reason to celebrate at its 25th anniversary party Wednesday, June 4.

Kiddie Kampus, a preschool program that serves as a job training program for high school students, was honored by teachers, administrators, and board members from throughout the area with a "Michigan's Best: Education Excellence Award" Wednesday, April 16.

The preschool program is unique in that it's a joint venture between the school district and the Community Education department, according to teacher Betty DuBois. The Community Education department hires the preschool staff and recruits the preschool children. The high schools provide student assistants.

"That's where our award came in. We're the only one in the state that's like that. We've been like that for 25 years," DuBois said.

The award is the first of its kind for Kiddie Kampus.

"We've been frustrated over the years," DuBois said. "Because we were community ed, we didn't get recognized; because we were vocational ed, we didn't always get recognized. We were able to do this as one. It's very much of an honor."

The statewide competitive program, sponsored by the Michigan Association of School Boards, current students and teachers will be able to sign a mural, commemorating the event.

Besides alumni, Kiddie Kampus team members are looking for artifacts to display during the reunion party. Those who would like to attend the party should call (313) 416-4937 and leave a message by Friday, May 23. Those who are willing to loan artifacts are asked to contact the Community Education office by visiting room 130 at Canton High School or by calling (313) 416-2937.

"We will invite all of the former staff back, so people can talk to their former teachers," DuBois explained. "It's mostly a social get-together with everyone reminiscing with each other.

"At around 7:30, we're planning a small program recognizing (some of the first students). We figured we've serviced more than 5,000 preschoolers and about 1.200 high schoolers. At 7:45 p.m. we're hopefully going to have a balloon launch. Kiddie Kampus was started in 1972 by three elementary school teachers who wanted to run a summer academy for preschoolers. A year later, it was developed into a school-year program. A child care class ran independently of the program.

The high school class and the preschool program were united in 1977. High school students assist certified personnel in red center class's programs. The white center preschool program offers the same curriculum for the preschool children with adult teacher assistants working with certified early childhood teacher. Kiddie Kampus is designed for high school students to learn about child care and human relationships. Students gain skills by working and interacting with children to help them understand child development.

They do that through in-class workshops and planning, student teaching in the preschool, and observation work, which includes a visit to the home of a preschooler. The students are in the program two hours a day for one year.

"Many of them come through because they want to become teachers," DuBois said. "I've had them want to go into dental hygiene or children's photography. It's only limited by their imagination.

"Some of them just want to be better parents and they're tak-ing a class for those reasons."

Amy Bartalucci, a Salem High School senior, is planning to study elementary education at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti. A Kiddie Kampus alumna, Bartalucci has learned about children's personalities during her work with the program

"It's fun. There's two different classes that I'm in and they're totally different," she said. "The first class is totally calm and the next one is awake and wild."

"As soon as she starts speaking there's an absolute hush in the room; it's quite effective," Wilson said. "She shows slides of accident scenes. It's of great importance that they see what really does happen (after an accident.). She's had cases where the patients died in her arms on the way to the hospital.

Wilson is the mother of two children - Rich, 31, and Kristi, 26 - and the grandmother of three. Photographs of her children and their families are sprinkled throughout her office. Her love of Oriental art is evident in the sculptures and prints that decorate her office. A signed lithograph of the Detroit Red Wings' "Russian Five," a recent purchase from the New Morning School auction, sits in the corner waiting to be hung.

In between juggling her company and volunteer work Wilson enjoys crafts, interior decorating and golfing.

But the most pertinent piece of Wilson's history is, yes, she did participate in the Girl Scout organization as a Brownie growing up in Trenton.

The one-day seminar, "Women in the Whirlpool," will address such topics as aging parents, teen-aged children, menopause, time management and appearance

The seminar will be 8:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Friday, May 30, in the McDowell Center on the college campus at 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia.

"We are looking at a day devoted to the things always nagging in the back of our mind as we drive home from work parents, friends, nutrition - a day focused on reconnecting with all the different things we try to balance in our lives," said Cheryl M. Hagen, who with Donna Franklin will co-present session on finding time for friends.

Hagen and Franklin are senior administrators at Cleary College and partners in Results Training Associates. Hagen's session will help people under-stand they must make friends a priority because they are a great source of support.

"Make sure you schedule time for your friends," she said. "Persons who would never think of canceling a business luncheon don't think twice about canceling with a friend.

Golf outing to benefit Hospice Home

Seminar is for women in 'whirlpool'

The Community Hospice Foundation, in its continuing effort to support the work of Community Hospice Services Inc., will hosts its fourth annual "Living Every Day" Golf Outing Monday, June 30, at the Dearborn Country Club.

Proceeds from this year's event will be earmarked for the future Hospice Home Project, according to Virginia Vreeland, chairperson of the event.

The day will start with a buffet luncheon followed by a shotgun start to the four-person scrambles event. Several contest holes and a putting green competition will be included in the activities.

Refreshments will be available throughout the day, with a New York sirloin dinner and awards presentation slated for 7:30 p.m. Sponsorship opportunities are available for any individual or company that would like to support the event. Corporate sponsorships are at $1,200, putting green $600 and individual hole $500. All sponsorships include golfing and recognition on the course and in the dining room.

Individual tickets are $195 and dinner only tickets are $65. Community Hospice Services was established in 1981 to offer compassionate, skilled home care to those individuals who face an incurable illness. Hospice offers supportive care, promotes quality of life, and provides comfort and emotional healing for the patient and family members.

"We provide services to patients and their families regardless of financial situation," said Maureen Butrico, executive director of Community Hospice Services.

Services are available to patients and families in western Wayne, southern Oakland and eastern Washtenaw counties

The Community Hospice Services Foundation was formed in 1992 to fill the ongoing need to procure money to cover uninsured patients, enhance and promote public awareness of CHS services, and, as of this year, help provide financial resources for the new Hospice Home Project.

Tickets are available at the CHS offices at 32932 West Warren, Suite 100, Westland, and 127 S. Main St., Plymouth. For information, call CHS at (313) 522-4242 or (313) 459-0548.

About five years ago, things were looking pretty dark at Mount Hope Lutheran Church in Allen Park. Financial woes were weighing heavily on the hearts of members.

There was a possibility of foreclosure, the school furnaces were breathing their last breath and the roof was literally caving in.

But just when it seemed that all was lost, a miracle occurred. God sent a rainbow, the kind seen on a rainy day, and a woman, a complete stranger, who stopped her car to photograph the rainbow that was gracefully arching over the church.

The woman, a Livonia resident, had the film developed and delivered her photograph to the church secretary.

After seeing the rainbow photograph, the church board saw it as a sign from God that he was not finished with Mount Hope.

Church searches for 'special angel'

In search of: Members of Mount Hope Lutheran Church are looking for the Livonia resident who took a photograph of rainbow that appeared over their church five years ago.

A special committee was matter of about four years,

Five new furnaces were added, air conditioning was installed in the fellowship hall, a new roof now keeps the rain out and the $250,000 mortgage was paid in full.

On Sunday, May 25, the church will have a mortgage burning ceremony. A Rainbow of Hope Dinner will follow the 11 a.m. service.

According to the Rev. Albert I Prouty, pastor of Mount Hope, the woman who took the photograph probably never realized what an impact the "Rainbow of Hope" had on the congregation.

"Mount Hope is grateful to God and the messenger He chose to take this picture," Prouty said. "In some special ways, the congregation would like to honor this 'special angel.' "

That is why the congregation is asking that "special angel" to call the church at (313) 565-9445

Day of Prayer focuses on the issue of poverty

On Sunday, May 18, people from throughout the state will meet on the east steps of the State Capitol Building in Lansing as part of a nationwide public witness on the issue of pover-

"Groundwork for a Just World" is coordinating Michigan's witness. Congregations across the U.S. are holding special services that day to remem ber poor people and to reaffirm that people as a whole are responsible for how society's most vulnerable are treated.

A national effort, it is sponsored by Call to Renewal: Chris-

Pentecost is the time after Easter when Christians believe the Spirit of God descended on the early believers and they began speaking of God's power. Acts 2:42 describes how early Christians prayed, taught and shared their bread with the poor on that occasion. That day also marks the creation of the church.

Those elements - praying, teaching and sharing - will mark services across the country as well as in Lansing.

Those participating in the Lansing will learn about the issues critical to welfare and poverty, ask God to focus people's attention on the crisis of the poor, and share a community

The activities will reaffirm the faith community's commitment to serve those in need, and hold public policy makers accountable for the role they must play.

To participate in the rally or for more information, call Groundwork for a Just World at (313) 822-2055.

Unbeatable JV

That can be accomplished today, when they play Livonia Stevenson in a Western Lakes Activities Association crossover playoff match.

The Chiefs improved to 13-0 when they beat Walled Lake Western Monday. "They played as a team, which is why we've been so successful," said Canton JV coach Bev Pritchard.

Elise Thornell, a sophomore, led Canton's scorers with 13 goals and five assists. Allison Morency, also a sophomore, added nine goals and three assists, sophomore Vicki Palis had five goals and 10 assists, and Jessica Palis, a freshman, totaled eight goals and six assists.

But it was defense that led the Chiefs; they allowed just two goals all season. Sophomore Sarah Debien and freshmen Amy Dorogi, Aimee Jachyn and Natasha Raddatz all saw playing time in goal.

Defensive stalwarts were stopper Emily Neiiendam, sweeper Sarah Anderson and outside midfielder Christine Broda.

Other team members are sophomores Theresia Radtke, Karen Reeves, Erin Babich, Alana McGraw, Kristin Lyman, Jessica Kirila, Emily Kaatz and Heidi Buchanan, and freshmen Nicole Miller, Erin O'Rourke, Lindsay Heimeri, Courtney Elledge and Darcy Crain.

Canton grad heads to U-M

Billy Trainer, a 21-year-old graduate of Plymouth Canton HS, has been signed by the University of Michigan to play hockey.

A 6-foot, 180-pound left winger, Trainer scored 20 goals and had 24 assists in 52 games for the Des Moines (Iowa) Buccaneers in the U.S. Hockey League. Trainer is the third player U-M has signed out of that league for next season.

Trainer, the ninth player overall signed by the Wolverines, is expected to add depth up front.

The stuff dreams are made of? No, no, don't think so. The subconscious is far too unreliable; it's as prone to nightmare as fantasy.

And the season Kelly Holmes is in the midst of is nothing short of fantasy. In fact, if some enterprising writer were to compile all the information and put it into an unembellished film script, it's doubtful any self-respecting Holly-wood producer would give it much consideration.

Just too far-fetched. And yet here she is, the living-and-breathing proof that realism can indeed outreach fiction.

"I don't see how it could be," Holmes answered when asked how her current season could be any better.

Perhaps extending it, far into the post-season, would accomplish that - nothing else. Who can believe this stuff?

Her final season of collegiate softball and she's No. 2 on a pitching staff with an All-American ahead of her. Then there's an accident, and Holmes is promoted.

Six weeks later she's a star, guiding U-M to the Big Ten title, winning 21 games in a row and earning conference Pitcher of the Year accolades.

"If I sat down at the beginning of the season and mapped out how I would have liked it to go, this is pretty much how it would have been," she said.

A Plymouth Canton HS graduate, she has actually already completed her senior year at the University of Michigan. In less than two months she'll be part of the working world; she'll receive her degree in business administration, already has a job lined up with Plante and Moran's account-ing services, in Southfield, be good, but of the six starters returning from last year's 51-14 squad, only two are seniors. The pre-season prediction: Let's make a run at another Big Ten make a run at another Big Ten title (they'd won four of the previ-ous five) and get back into the Col-lege Softball World Series. Holmes, mind you, was never expected to be a pivotal role-player in any of this.

Since her graduation from Canton in '93, where she was an all-state pitcher (and class valedictorian), Holmes has performed well, both on the field and in the classroom (she was an academic All-American last year, and will be this year, too).

Her career totals at U-M: 43-19 record with eight shutouts and a 1.81 earned run average.

And yet, Holmes was never No. 1 on the staff. "Just playing at Michi-gan is an honor in itself," she said. "I pitched well, I just never pitched enough.

"I think that in my own mind, I knew I could do it — I could handle the No. 1 spot."

But as the season got underway, it seemed that opportunity would never arrive. Holmes, as dominating as she had been in high school; was just another cog on a U-M pitching staff that included two All-Americans during her four-year career: Kelly Kovach, who graduat ed two years ago and is currently a Wolverine assistant coach, and Sara Griffin, now a junior. Holmes still figured she had a job to do. She would assume a leadership role, even if I was considered the second pitcher. I thought (the coaches) always felt I was a good leader."

The turning point in her career - and in Michigan's season came April 5, on a trip to Iowa. The Hawkeyes were expected to be the main challengers to U-M's Big Ten dominance.

Against Jackson County in the championship game, the Cannon fell behind 9-2 going into the bottom of the third inning. They rallied to score six times in the third, then got some solid relief pitching from Kyle Hennessy (three innings, one hit, three strikeouts).

Another Cannon rally in the sixth, with hits from Brian Richards, Geoff Miller, Marshall Tucker and Hennessy, put the Cannon ahead for good in the 11-10 victory.

Other Cannon players are Brad Borsos, Brian Germain, Jim Horton, Andrew Pieknik, Derek Vermeulen, Seth White, Chris Trott and Travis Yonkman. The team is coached by Jim Horton, Bill Boyd and Vic Hennessy.

Baseball recruit signs

Kevin Bilbia has signed a letter of intent to attend Madonna University in the fall and play baseball.

A 6-foot-1, 210-pound righthanded pitcher, Bilbia will graduate from Orchard Lake St. Mary's HS, where he was named the team's most valuable player this season.

Father's Day Scrambles

The 16th-annual Father's Day three-person golf scrambles tournament is scheduled for Sunday, June 15 at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton.

Sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Services, the tournament costs $96 per three-person team, which includes greens fees, awards and a snack lunch. Golf carts are extra.

Prizes will be awarded for longest drive, closest to the pin, and to the top three teams. Registration deadline is June 12; there are no residency requirements.

Call (313) 397-5110 for further details.

Motorsports inductees

The Motorsports Hall of Fame, located in Novi, will induct nine new members Wednesday, June 4 at the State Theater in Detroit.

Included are stock car driver Ned Jarrett, powerboat racer Bob Nordskog, sports car builder Briggs Cunningham, air racer Darryl Greenamyer, drag racing pioneer Art Chrisman, Indy car champion Tony Bettenhausen, motorcycle racing pioneer Jim Davis, and legendary car builders, Fred Duesenberg and Colin Chapman.

Jimmy Vasser, PPG Indy Car World Series champion and ESPY award-winner as auto racing's performer of the year in 1996, will serve as honorary chairman for the induction banquet.

Tickets for the ceremony and banquet are $150; for the ceremony only, tickets are $75. For further information, call the Hall of Fame at (810) 250-RACE.

But before she relegates herself to a dreary life as another nondescript member of the everyday work force, Holmes has some other business to take care of.

She must see how far she can carry Michigan's team as it searches for its first-ever NCAA championship. The journey begins Friday when U-M faces Cleveland State in an NCAA regional opener, which the Wolverines will host.

This was not a trip that was ever truly expected, not after mid-season. The Wolverines were going to Unbeatable: Canton grad Kelly Holmes became Michigan's top pitcher after an injury sidelined the starter. She responded by winning 21-straight games.

In the series opener, it seemed the Wolverines' hopes for another title were over. Griffin, who played in the field when not pitching and was the team's top hitter (she was twice named the conference's player of the year), collided with a teammate while chasing a pop-fly. She suffered a broken left (nonthrowing) arm; her season was over

Salem wrecks Central Canton's skid halted

Plymouth Salem concluded its regular season in soccer Monday with a 6-0 trouncing of Walled Lake Central at Central.

That win, combined with Saturday's 3-1 non-league loss to Troy, left the Rocks with a 7-4-3 overall record; they finished 4-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association's Lakes Division, in second place behind Livonia Stevenson.

Although the final outcome

Rocks drop Canton, finish 2nd

Plymouth Salem wrapped up second place in the Western Lakes Activities Association's regular season with a convincing 202-240 golf victory over Farmington Tuesday at Hilltop.

The win improved the Rocks' WLAA dual-meet record to 7-1. Farmington fell to 3-5.

Salem goes into next week's league tournament, at Hudson Mills in Dexter, a single point behind Livonia Stevenson. Should the Rocks finish more than one place ahead of Stevenson, they would claim the league crown.

"We're improving, no doubt about it," said Salem coach Rick Wilson. "I didn't expect our team scores to be quite like this. I knew Katie Collins and Katie Murinas would do well, but I didn't really expect to challenge for the (WLAA) title.

"It makes it interesting."

In the win over Farmington, Collins led Salem with a 42. Murinas shot 46, Jessica Hedges had a 52 and Chrystal Kopacz carded a 57.

On Monday at Hilltop, the Rocks prevailed in its showdown against rival Plymouth Canton, outshooting the Chiefs 192-234.

Collins turned in her best dual-meet score of the season - a 39, to earn medalist honors. Murinas shot 45, Hedges had a 48 (her best this season) and Kopacz finished with a 60.

Canton was paced by Sandra Pavlo with a 56. Alvson Young was next (57), followed by Lindsay Miller (60) and Jessica Dumas (61).

Last week, Salem beat Livonia Churchill 196-211 Friday at Hilltop and Walled Lake Central 185-203 Wednesday (May 7) at Bogie Lake.

Murinas and Collins each had 42s in the win over Churchill. Kopacz had a 53 and Angie Jones shot a 59. The score against Central was Salem's lowest of the Jeff Page got the pitching win, allowing four earned runs on five hits and five walks, striking out eight in seven innings.

It was quite a change from Monday's game, when the Chiefs faced the division's unbeaten team - Walled Lake Western. The Warriors' Kevin Thomas stopped Canton with a one-hitter, leading them to an 11-1 triumph.

The Chiefs' only run was scored by Wildfong, who walked in the first inning, stole second, moved to third on a wild pitch and scored on a second wild pitch.

Joe Cortellini's single in the second was Canton's only hit. Rvan Dahlman suffered the loss; he worked 4 2/3 innings, surrendering seven earned runs on 12 hits and two walks, striking out three Stevenson 4, Salem 3: Mike Allison's two-run home run highlighted a three-run fifth inning for Livonia Stevenson, pushing the Spartans past visiting Plymouth Salem Tuesday.

The loss left Salem with a 9-12 overall record and a 1-8 mark in the WLAA's Lakes Division.

Jason Lakosic started and took the loss for the Rocks, working the first four innings. Scott Hay relieved and pitched the final two frames.

Salem led 2-1 going into the fifth. The Rocks managed to close to within a run in the sixth, scoring on a suicide squeeze bunt Kevin Niemiec, which bv brought home Brett Burleson.

But Salem managed just three hits off of Stevenson's Jon Ritzler, a sophomore righthander who walked two and struck out 10.

On Monday, the Rocks suffered a 10-0 mercy loss at Lakes Division rival North Farmington. Tom DeMetsenare was tagged for eight runs in five innings, absorbing the defeat.

Salem managed just one hit off North's Jeff Trzos, a single by Ryan Rumberger in the sixth inning. It was the second time this season Rumberger has ruined a Trzos no-hitter

Garry Penta, Andrew Weitz and Evan Feldman each had three hits for the Raiders, Penta driving in three runs, and Kirk Taylor had four hits with two RBI.

The win boosted North's record to 11-6 overall, 6-3 in the Lakes.

loss), then got the start against Iowa the following day. The pressure was on, no doubting that - if U-M was going to do anything in the conference, Holmes would have to come through.

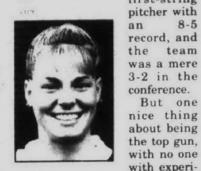

Her start was less than memorable. "It was ugly," she recalled. "I went in thinking 'Here's my chance,' and then I gave up four runs in the first inning."

Iowa won the second game 15-4. The Wolverines now had a first-string wings, ready to pounce on any opportunity: There's no time to dwell.

"I had no time to get down," said Holmes.

And she didn't. Her chance to make a major impact in U-M's season had come.

"This is my senior year," she said. "All the practices, all the games I've been in were to get ready for this.

"I took it as a challenge. I wanted to show everyone I could do it."

Her response to the adversity was to win 21-straight games, 17 of those coming in Big Ten play.

The last three were, to this point anyway, the most satisfying.

U-M opened the Big Ten Tournament last weekend at Iowa with a 4-0 win over Michigan State, Holmes' eighth shutout of the season. After that, the Wolverines defeated Iowa twice, 3-2 and 4-2; Holmes won both.

They were Iowa's first conference losses this season.

That improved Michigan's record to 52-13-1. Holmes is 29-5 with a 1.07 ERA; she has struck out 127 in 223 1/3 innings while allowing just 63 walks.

And her last win over Iowa tied her with Kovach for the most career pitching victories at U-M (72)

All of which is why she was the conference's pitcher of the year and a first-team all-Big Ten selection.

There is no diminishing what Holmes has accomplished. It's not just becoming the top pitcher; it's assuming that role with the knowledge there's no one with experience to back you up (Jamie Gilles, a freshman, has moved up to No. 2 on the staff).

It's taking over that spot with the team's best hitter, Griffin, lost for the year.

And it's succeeding, beyond all expectations, against all odds.

The final act has not yet been written in this screenplay. And if Holmes can influence it - and she can - the final rewrite won't

The Rocks also won three of four relays. Shull, Chris Mason, Dave Clemons and Hawley took the 400 (45.8); Kevin Conte, Mark Sheehan, Searcy and Nick Allen won the 1,600 (3:48.0); and Allen, Charlie Schmidt, Fair and Conte prevailed in the 3,200 (9:29.7).

the kids played their better games against the better teams."

They certainly overcame all sorts of obstacles at last week's regional. They opened last Wednesday (May 7) with an 8-7 win over St. Xavier (from Chicago).

Melissa McGue, Shawna Greene and Dawn Shaffer each had two hits in the victory, with Greene and Shaffer knocking in two runs apiece. Greene also slugged a home run. Shanna Price allowed five earned runs in seven innings to get the win. That put Madonna up against top-seeded Shawnee State (Portsmouth, OH) last Thursday. The Crusaders kept it close, using a four-run fourth inning to close to within 5-4.

But Shawnee pushed across seven runs in a three-inning span to end the game after six innings (eight-run mercy rule) with a 12-4 outcome.

Christy Riopelle triggered the fourrun rally with a three-run double. Marissa Mittleman added two hits. Angie VanDoorn took the loss, giving up six earned runs.

that same day. Price was the winner; she stopped Wesleyan with a four-hitter, not walking any and striking out Jeanie Baxter (Redford St. Agatha) drove in two of the Crusader runs with a single and a double. Greene scored two of the runs, getting two hits.

Madonna's season ended last Friday in a rematch with St. Xavier. Again, it went down to the wire; it was 1-0 after six innings, but Xavier scored five times in the sixth to pull away to a 6-0 triumph.

earned runs in seven innings. She fin-ished her season at 17-9. Madonna managed just four singles in the game.

Abraham will lose some major con-tributors to graduation in Shaffer (.376, six homers, 52 RBI), Jamie Vickers (.275, 21 RBI), Baxter (.325, 29 RBI) and McGue (.340, 14 RBI).

But he's confident this team will be even better in '98: "We're just a player or two away from the World Series."

A defense that committed 101 errors this season, including 13 in the fourgame regional, that led to 88 unearned runs will have to be improved if Abra-Price took the loss, allowing two ham's hopes are to be realized.

Canton angler shows promise in Ozark tourney

Spring is finally in full swing and area outdoor enthusiasts are reporting success as fishing and turkey hunting heats up. The morels are popping, fish are biting and the Toms are gob-

Days of summer arrive. · Canton's Mary Ashteneau had a fantastic outing in a recent national Bass'n Gal tournament on Lake of the Ozarks in Missouri. After the first day of the two-day event, Ashteneau found herself in the enviable spot of first place on the leader board. She weighed a five-fish limit that totaled 16.09 pounds.

"It was good to win that first day. No one from Michigan has ever held the lead," said Ashteneau, who is a regular on both the state and national Bass'n Gals tours. "But I was so ner-vous when I learned I was winning it."

Ashteneau fished a Carolinarigged Berkley spider grub. "The trick was to fish it real slow," she said. "It was really cold the night before.

Unfortunately, Ashteneau's luck didn't carry over to the second day of the tournament. "I must have caught 20 fish the second day, but not one keeper," she said.

On the strength of the first day's catch Ashteneau still managed to finish 16th overall.

Linda Bennett, also of Canton, placed 29th in the tournament with 12.94-pounds and Canton police officer Debra Newsome placed 39th with a catch of 11.98-pounds.

• Tom Lange, of Livonia, reports he took a 19-pound Tom turkey with an 8-inch beard while hunting in Area V on May 5.

• Jeffrey Weisswasser didn't waste any time filling his spring turkey tag.

The Beverly Hills hunter had a permit for the first hunt period and on the fourth day of that hunt, April 24, he bagged a boisterous Tom near Big Rapids in Area K. It was Weisswasser's second spring turkey.

"We were walking and calling and got a gobbler to answer our calls," said Weisswasser, who wa's hunting with his friend Ralph Cagle. "We set up in some planted pines. When he was out about 80 yards he started strutting and double-gobbling and I knew we had him. The bird came into within 40yards before Weisswasser squeezed off a shot from his Remington 12 ga.

"On the first morning I had my decoys set up and a hen came in and beat up the decoys," explained Arthurs. "She really tore into them."

The next day, Arthurs again had his decoys set when he heard some gobbling in a nearby field. He saw some birds out in the field so the crafty hunter snuck along a creek bed and cut off the flock. He dropped a Tom sporting a 7 1/2-inch beard with an 18-yard shot.

It was Arthur's first turkey and his second year of hunting them. He was hunting on state land near Cross Village · Rudy Vican, of Orion Twp., took his first turkey this year and didn't stray far from home to do it. The first-year turkey hunter drew a permit for Area QB and proved that persistence pays when bagged a Jake at mid-day right down here in Oakland County.

"On the first day I called in three different gobblers, but I couldn't get a shot at any of them," said Vican. "The second day they shut down early and were pretty quiet. At about 11:30 (a.m.) I caught a flock of six Jakes sneaking through the woods and I got my shot." • Bryant Wade, of Rochester Hills, had a surprise visitor Friday evening during dinner. "I was just sitting down for dinner with my mother-in-law and my sister-in-law and a hen turkey walked right through the yard," said Wade. "I couldn't believe it. And I still don't know where it came from or where it was going.

Wade lives in the Brookdale Woods subdivision on the northeast corner of Adams and Walton roads

• Clarkston's Lyle Davis recently placed 94th in a field of 130 anglers who were competing in the amateur division of the In-Fisherman Professional Walleye

Trail. The tournament was held in Dubuque, Iowa on the Missis-sippi River. Davis landed two walleye with a combined weight of 4.07-pounds.

Anglers and hunters are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to 805 E. Maple, Birm-ingham, MI. 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker evenings at (810) 901-2573.

Borowiec lifts Mercy to title

Farmington Hills Mercy, led by medalist Jenny Borowiec, won the Catholic League girls golf championship Tuesday at St. John's in Plymouth Township. The Marlins finished with a team-low 362, the tourney's best score ever as Borowiec shot an 85 to lead the way. Other Mercy finishers included Angela Harbar, second (89); Kristen Smith, fifth, (92); Sarah Cahill, seventh (96); and Heidi Wegmueller, 11th (101).

All five Mercy players made All-Catholic.

Harper Woods Regina and Birmingham Marian took sec-ond and third, respectively, with totals of 383 and 397. Livonia Ladywood, led by Sarah Townsend's 102, shot a team total of 424. Other Ladywood scorers included Katy Zimmerman (106), Jackie Korreck (107) and Becca Andersen (109). Dearborn Divine Child was fifth overall with a 450.

Answers to roofing questions

Due to the number of questions we have received recently in regards to roofing and venting, this column will address short answers to several of your questions

O: Why do I always find granules in my gutters?

A: Normal wear of a roof will allow for some granules to come off, however, if the roof is older, and you see excessive amounts falling off, you may want to have your roof inspected by a professional, once the asphalt content in the shingle begins to wear the shingle will shrink or crack. This happens typically in 15-20 years time; then it is time to replace the roof.

Q: What would cause an animal to make a home in my roof and/or vent?

A: Attics are a warm place (safe and dry) for any kind of animal. If you have any small holes in your siding or roofing, you are inviting critters to "camp out" in your attic. Rotted wood can invite raccoons and squirrels to chew through and enter your home as well.

O: Why am I getting blistering and peeling on my ceiling?

A: Blistering and peeling is most likely caused from a very small roof leak or improper attic ventilation. When soffits are plugged with insulation and there is inadequate roof ventilation, the attic will sweat, causing blistering and peeling. If all areas of ventilation check out, then you may have incompatible primer or paint over your existing paint.

O: Which is better, a ridge vent or a can vent?

A: A ridge vent works best on a cathedral ceiling situation only. Most people think because a ridge vent is coninuous it gives you more ventilation. Not true.

Canned vents allow 144 square inches of exhaust for each opening, while ridge vents only allow 36 square inches per running feet. A lot of people choose ridge venting because it is more visibly appealing to the eye, but keep in mind, neither roof venting system will work without proper insulation and adequate soffit ventilation.

Young designers put creativity to work

BY MARY KLEMIC At Home Editor

This gives a different twist - and curve and shape - to "student homework."

The annual student exhibit of the Center for Creative Studies-College of Art and Design features fun and fantastic furniture by the CCS Interior Design Department. This work for the home celebrates creativity and encourages you to furnish your spaces with imagination.

You can visit now to Sunday, May 25, to see samples of young designers' talent - and maybe select one or more pieces for voursel

Models of houses and studios, a variety of furnishings and items for the home including doors and boxes, as well as art works are also among the more than 2,500 items on display.

Department chair Bill House waxed ecstatic over the work in this year's show, calling it "tremendous."

"The pieces are very adventurous, not traditional," House

Jak Wonderly of Indiana created "The Indigo Chair." This chair and matching footstool, in gemlike blue shades, were made by hand of paper twine and recycled clothes. Both items' shapes curve and twist gently, cradling and supporting the body

"The concept was to build a frame and use the weave as the structure of the piece," said Wonderly, whose two-tier serving cart of steel and Ponderosa blue pine is also displayed. "The material becomes the structure."

The fun of the project was in the experimentation, he said. "That was the idea, to get away from the usual ... techniques of the chair."

Experimentation led Kevin Grawey of Royal Oak to his bench or coffee table, which he may name "Surf Bench."

"I was working vertically to begin with," Grawey said. The piece is made of plywood and bent maple. It is a harmony of flowing forms, including a slender arm on one end that extends as if beckoning a visitor.

Jesús Piney of Farmington Hills was looking to design something for the outdoors. His "Oasis" is a unit with a shower on one side and a sink on the other that can serve as outdoor sculpture when not in use.

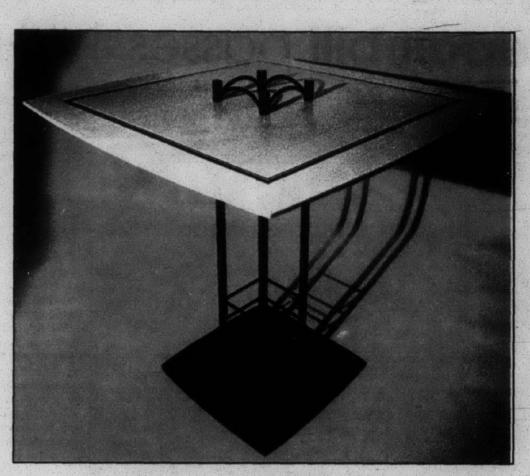

The graceful, narrow unit suggests a fluid motion in many areas - such as the pitcher-like "lip" at the top of one side, and the tapering shelves that resemble waves reaching out of the surface

Brian Clemens of Bay City fashioned a dining room table that has a sleek, sophisticated, Art Deco look.

"I was trying to design something that was timeless and classic," Clemens said.

Slender black painted metal rods extend up through the center of the maple table top from a flat metal base, and could house condiments or napkins. The table top is accented with a black square. The table could fit especially well in a small studio or a restaurant, Clemens said.

"Scooter Table" is what James Cronin of Dallas called each of his three dynamic pieces, which are made of maple plywood and steel; one has a walnut drawer. They give a sense of motion, each with an iron shape, a small, angled steel rod rising out of the top, and a thin, elongated handle.

The iron form is also in the drawer and a low shelf underneath. The tables could go in an entryway or by the bedside, Cronin said.

"(They're for) younger people who move a lot; a place to throw your keys," he said.

Cronin also fashioned an entryway cart, a combination table/umbrella stand, of maple, aluminum and canvas. Drawers are on one side, bearing metal curls for handles. The other side curves to hold umbrellas or canes, and features a large Oriental design, a laser image by CCS photography stu-

Repair bill passes 1st House hurdle

When the Appliance Repair Act was first written some 10 years ago, it went in front of a consumer committee for discussion at our State Capitol. The room allocated for this meeting was to us to accommodate the more than 100 people who showed up.

There were many service technicians from around the state who did not feel that any kind of regulation was neces-"much too small, and another was given sary in their industry. There were associations who were there to oppose any form of government involvement for reasons which didn't make sense to me. There were others who were concerned that the Appliance Repair Act might hinder their industry even though it was separate from the appliance industry.

Just three weeks ago, this bill sponsored by Rep. Lyn Bankes made its way back up in front of a consumer committee chaired by Rep. Liz Brater. This time the bill passed unanimously and is being sent to the House in the next few weeks. At this time I'm keeping my fingers crossed, and yet I feel very excited hat finally after 10 years the bill has passed through committee.

The Appliance Repair Act says that a service company must list the amount of a service call, the labor charged for the job, the parts used and described with a part number and a prescribed warranty on the work done.

Testifying in front of the committee were two service company owners who can't understand why it's taken 10 years to get this bill out of committee. Phil, from Phil's appliance, and Jim from Berkley Appliance both made known to our government that they have always written this information on a service invoice before presenting it to their customers. JOE GAGNON They also made known that good, honest repair companies have been doing this for years and that anyone not doing so are obviously trying to hide something from the con-

It is imperative that this bill pass through the House and become a law. I ask you to all or write your state representative and lend your support to HB 4290, the Appliance Repair Act. Thank

Design center marks 20th year

Michigan Design Center is celebrating 20 years of serving the interior design professional in its 210,000-square foot building in Troy.

A regional marketplace for interior designers, architects and builders, MDC offers the finest in fabrics, furniture, floor and wall coverings, kitchens, lighting, original art and accessories.

The design center is the dream of Marvin Danto, chairman of the board, and his son, James, president, who envisioned the building as a "design campus" to provide the design industry with exceptional products as well as educational opportunities.

MDC was built in three phases with the first 44,000 square feet opening in

Growers' Choice offers garden pick

The Michigan Nursery and Landscape Association in Okemos, on behalf of the Michigan Certified Nurservman program, has introduced the Growers' Choice Award. The award protered by the Plant Promotion Committee, comprised of seven green industry professionals from all over our state. The affiliate chapter in our area is the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association in Bingham Farms.

This award is designed to promote quality plant materials. Each winner must meet strict guidelines and must have good ornamental quality, hardiness, pest resistance, multiple season interest, landscape adaptability and propagation ease.

The three 1997 Growers' Choice Award winners are: a tree, Cornus kousa var. chinensis - Chinese Kousa Dogwood; a perennial, Scabiosa columbaria "Pink Mist" / "Butterfly Blue" - Pincushion Flower; and a shrub, Fothergilla gardenii "Mount Airy," - Mount Airy Dwarf Bottlebrush.

The Chinese Kousa Dogwood is hardy in zones 5-8 and performs well in full sun to partial shade, although flowering is best in full sun. It thrives in moist, well-drained soils with additional organic matter, but is adaptable to a wide range of soils.

The white bracts (not flowers) mature after the native flowering dogwoods and are large pointed, lasting from late June until early August. The patchwork mosaic of gray, tan and brown as the bark exfoliates adds to its beauty.

The silhouette is handsome because of its strong horizontal branching pattern, which arches as the tree matures. The leaves turn a rich reddish purple in the fall and the fruits resemble a large pinkish red raspberry and appear as the bracts fade

Suitable as a small specimen tree or integrated with other landscape plants, it works especially well with foundation plantings at the corner of a house. The tree grows to 20 to 30 feet high with a 15- to 20-foot spread and is deciduous. There are a number of cultivars.

The Pincushion Flower is reliably hardy in zones 4-8. Site it in full sun to partial shade, although it flowers best in full sun. It prefers moist, well-drained soils with supplemental organic matter, but can adapt to a wide range of soils.

Both cultivars, "Butterfly Blue" and "Pink Mist," bloom for a long time, commencing in mid-spring until frost.

Two nice things about these plants are: because of their dwarf form (12 to 18 inches), they will never require staking, and they attract butterflies to the garden. The flowers are one to 1-1/2 inches wide and are fully double.

Buy these perennials based on the size and health, not the number of flowers; they will produce bloom once established. They make excellent drifts of color and blend beautifully with other perennials or low-growing flowering chruhe

The outstanding flowering shrub. Mount Airy Fothergilla, is reliably hardy in zones 4-8 and, as with the other winners, performs best in full sun. Its soil requirements are also the same as the others.

This easy-to-grow plant forms a dense suckering four- to five-foot shrub. and because of its white flowers and dark green foliage combines well with other colors. It makes an excellent hedge, foundation or specimen plant. Appropriate companion plants are Rhododendron, Taxus, Kalmia and most dwarf conifers.

Be prepared to work from home

So, let's walk through the home office

Home offices present a true design challenge. It's a clear case of the old

Every office is connected to the world in a variety of ways and this means equipment - a computer, printer, other peripherals, telephone, fax and maybe a copier. You must recognize these and incorporate them in a functional and

Or very little time in the office at all? Each situation, in addition to the nature of the business itself, influences the

A computer needs its own separate space from the desktop. It's not only practical, but psychologically important as well. Two different technologies are employed, and it's better to separate them than muddle them together.

Will you need meeting space? This may be extremely important or not required at all. Space is always a constraint in a home office, so you'll want to plan wisely.

Filing and storage are other considerations. Although the computer can reduce the amount of paperwork, we're far from a paperless office. Keeping a stock of supplies on hand means storage

Lighting is such an important element in any design, but in an office it must be appropriate for the work that is being done. Durability of furnishings is a need, while style varies widely.

One of the real challenges is finding furnishings that will mesh the technolo gy and your preferences and taste.

Some contract furniture manufacturers have recognized the size of the home office market and have begun to produce for this market. I think we will see a lot of innovation and attention being given to furniture design as home offices continue to grow.

Now that you've determined your needs, how do we put it all together?

You can do it yourself, but my advice is to consult with an interior designer. Not only do designers have access to an abundance of resources, they also have, the knowledge to incorporate all the elements for the best productivity.

Working at home isn't a hobby! Sharing your needs and taste with your designer will allow you to create the ideal work situation for function equipment, storage, task lighting - as well as the look and style that's singularly you.

Indeed, a well-designed office may be one of the most important investments you make in your business and career.

Motown gets ready for big Hoedown BY CHRISTINA FUOCO

he Downtown Hoedown has a whole new meaning to country star and WWWW morning show host Holly Dunn. She will not only perform during her fourth visit to the Hoedown, but she will sen jockey as well. "I'll be there introducing my friends to the stage. That'll be strange to be there all three days instead of being 'Holly Dunn the singer' who sets up, performs, and leaves." Dunn said. This year's Hoedown takes place Friday, May 16-Sunday, May 18, at Hart Plaza in Detroit. Besides Dunn, the lineup includes performances by Burning Daylight, Diamond Rio, Buffalo Club, Mark Wills, David Lee Murphy, Mark Chestnutt, Patty Loveless, David Kersh, Jeff Wood, Kevin Sharp and John Berry. The free show runs noon-11 p.m. each day. W4 general manager Peter Connolly said this year's Hoedown is the biggest in its 15-year history. We have more acts and bigger acts. We have a lot more sponsors in the event. The city has taken a very active role to make sure it's a very safe, family-oriented event," Connolly said. He added that it is the largest event held outside in Detroit. Citing figures from the Detroit Recreation Department, Connolly said that last year's estimated attendance for the Hoedown was 980,000 people. The Freedom Festival Fireworks brings in 750,000 people. This year he said he hopes to top the one million mark. Once again the Hoedown remains a free event. During his spoken-word perfor-mances, Henry Rollins makes it very clear that he doesn't like to be late. He hits the stage on time. He does his interviews on time. So Rollins is quick to apologize when an interview begins late because of an overzealous reporter went over his 30-minute limit.

"I'm sorry my phone was busy for so long. The last reporter kept talking. I couldn't get him off the phone," he explained.

The usually jovial Rollins is not a happy man but he feels better after the interview is cut short to put him back on schedule.

Many people would be surprised that the former Black Flag singer's spokenword performances are more like stand-up comedy. Sharing stories of the road, the studio and life, Rollins is demurely dressed in black pants and Tshirt

His usual concert stage garb is Spandex shorts covered with ripped work-out shorts. His multiple tattoos are distorted by bulging muscles and protruding veins. Lunging forward he shakes his head to rid his face of sweat. Rollins doesn't exactly look like the next Carrot Top.

He likes to demean artists he's not particularly fond of during spokenword performances. Take, for instance, his story about a show in Brazil.

"It was at that gig that I committed my greatest-ever move onstage. We went out in front of an outdoor festival crowd, first show of the year, first time in Brazil - I was very excited. The band

Pyramids of the two books sit side by side at several local bookstores.

Each book promises a "can't-put-itdown" reading experience, a roller coaster of excitement and high-stakes danger right here in southeast Michigan.

Tom Grace, author of "Spyder Web" (Seanachaoi Press, $24.95), and Robert Davis, author of "Plutonium Murders" (Horizon Press, $24.95), hope to find the same kind of enthusiastic audiences that took Tom Clancy from the obscurity of a small Navy publisher to best sellerdom and mega-movie success.

If things work out for these two authors, Nolan Kilkenny and Alex Seacourt may become as well known as James Bond and Jack Ryan.

Spyder Web

Livonia-native Grace, 34, is a professional architect with an interest in martial arts, scuba diving and computer technology. He put all these things together to create Nolan Kilkenny.

"He's my Walter Mitty," Grace admits.

Kilkenny is a red headed Irish-American graduate student recently completing a tour in Naval intelligence. Grace is also a red-haired Irish-American.

"Spyder Web" is about industrial espionage, Chinese spy operations and a computer center at the University of Michigan. A computer security system has been developed that can also be turned around and used as a highly sophisticated computer spy.

Grace adds to this basic material the machinations of two polished industrial spies, a sinister Chinese agent, several American and British government agents and Kilkenny, his computer expert colleague and his physicist girl friend. The climax is high speed excitement on the Thames

"When I decided to give this a shot, to carry a story line to novel-length form, I branched into a variety of areas and then remembered the adage, write about what you know," Grace said. "I pared it down to technology and industrial espionage."

As an architect Grace designed the Human Applications Lab for Gene Therapy at UM. He had to develop security systems for the building and began imagining how someone could subvert those systems. He said 90 percent of what he has written is plausible. It's the university's computer system that is used as a conduit for industrial spies.

Grace writes easily about complex computer stratagems.

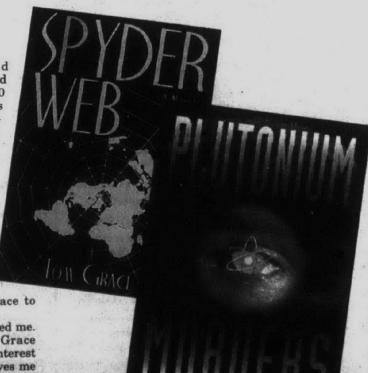

"I got into computers before architecture," he said. "Blame that on high school. I was a computer consultant for an insurance company in Southfield.'

At 18, while attending Redford Catholic Central, Grace was hired to test out personal computers for the company.

Architecture was a way for Grace to combine his interests.

"Architecture has always interested me. It's essentially a technical art," Grace said. "It allows me to exploit my interest in technology and be creative. It gives me a chance to do both, blend art and engineering.

hit the opening notes of the first I'm up there alone. It's worth song, my head went down at the same time my knee was traveling upward. Knee and head connected and I saw stars. I spent a few seconds trying to figure out who hit me. Soon I figured out what was going on. It was then that I put my hand to my head and felt a gash that started above my right eyebrow and ended at my eyelid. We played the rest of the set without further injuries and left (Lemonhead) Evan Dando to play in my blood."

Actually the spoken-word performances - which came to the Michigan Theatre in Ann Arbor in mid-January - take more out of Rollins than his live shows.

"It's kind of fun, those shows. But they're very draining. They beat the hell out of me. If I do four of those in week I'm not good for much. There's no script. There's no beat. I travel alone.

doing. I like it, but it pushes you pretty hard."

Rollins is all about being challenged. His live show, which comes to Clutch Cargo's in Pontiac on Tuesday, May 20, is a like a military-style training episode

"I have no problem getting psyched for a show. I relax. I stretch and I get my body totally loose. I'm slowly upping my heart rate by doing calisthenics and running. My the time I'm hitting the stage the propellers are turning so fast that they're standing still," explained Rollins, 36

The Rollins Band is coming to Pontiac to promote his latest record "Come In and Burn" (DreamWorks). The Rollins band which includes drummer Sim Cain, bassist Melvin Gibbs, guitarist Chris Haskett and sound engineer Theo Van Rock - worked throughout 1996 writing and revising material for the album. In October the 10-yearold Rollins Band went into Bearsville Studios in Woodstock, N.Y., and laid down 19 tracks within a couple weeks. For the pile-driving rock album "Come in and Burn" the band shunned digital equipment and retreated to "good old two inch analog tape."

"I think it gives the record a way more warmer and rip-roaring sound. It's different than (1994's) 'Weight.' I was never the biggest fan of the 'Weight' record sonically because there's something about the digital (equipment) that I'm not a big fan of. It was something in the drums."

"When you put on (Rolling Stones') 'Exile on Main Street' you go 'great.' 'Some Girls' 'oh yeah, not so great' but still it's a good record. I like the sound of the 'Come In and Burn Record' a lot more. We used a lot more dynamics, a lot more coloration in the guitars.'

Producer Steven Thompson (Metallica, Guns N' Roses, Tesla, Madonna) encouraged the band to play less notes and concentrate on the groove more, according to Billboard magazine. The groove-laden bass, hypnotic swirl of guitars once again surround Rollins' melodic angst-ridden lyrics.

"Call me Frustration and Anger, Inc.," Rollins told Entertainment Weekly.

He's inspired by "women in, women out. The city and the isolation one feels inside the city. What I go through on a day-today basis."

"I don't really write songs like 'my friend bought me a cat.' I don't do stuff like that. I don't like to write throw away music or throw away lyrics. It has to mean a lot to me.

A musical Renaissance man,

Rollins is a noted writer, publisher and proprietor of his own label and publishing house 2.13.61. He has also appeared in a handful of films including "Heat," "Lost Highway," and "Johnny Mnemonic." Never one to sit still, in 1993 alone he put out the book "Now Watch Him Die," a spoken-word double CD "The Boxed Life," and live spo-ken-word video "Talking From The Box." He worked in the film "The Chase" with Charlie Sheen and released a live album in Japan "Electro Convulsive Therapy." He also started a reissue label with American Recordings head Rick Rubin called Infinite Zero which recently folded into Warner Bros.

In September Random House will publish an anthology of Rollins' writing. It will be the first time that his work has been published outside of his own 2.13.61.

But for Rollins, touring incities like Detroit is where it's at.

"They (Detroiters) know what it means to get down with the heavy rock. Some of the greatest hard rock bands that the hard rock scene has ever seen have come from Detroit - Detroit Wheels, Bob Seger, the Nuge, Alice Cooper, Iggy Pop, MC5. It's just ridiculous. (Plus) all the indie bands - the Necros, Negative Approach," Rollins said.

"There's just a great tradition of unrelenting heavy (music). When you go out there and lay the heavy deal on people (in another city) they say 'Glad you showed up. We're too busy getting pierced to be into this.' It's way more fun to play Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota. Everyone's just like 'We see you every year. We'd love to see you back out here again.' So would I."

latest album "Leave One Bridge Standing" (River North).

"Touring's a full-time job and so is radio. There was no way I could do both. I wondered if with the new album coming out if this would be detrimental not to be on the road this year. But you know I've toured for the last 10 or 11 years. I've toured and had a hit record and toured and not had a hit record. I don't know if it makes a difference if I'm on the road or not."

"It's a good chance to get off the road and do something a little bit different and explore some new things," explained Dunn who has homes here and in Nashville.

on sale at a commercial venue. We keep it free because of our sponsors, like Anheuser Busch. We also pay in and W4 Country is supplying about five of the acts because of the size of the radio station.

Other sponsors such as Faygo and Farmer Jack also help underwrite the bands.

Rising star

Success has been a new thing for freshman country singer Kevin Sharp, who performs at the Hoedown on Sunday, May 18. Late last year he scored a hit with his remake of the Tony Rich Project song "Nobody Knows." Sharp's debut album "Measure of a Man" (Asylum) has been in the top 10 on the country charts. All of this was something that Sharp didn't expect as a high school senior in 1989. Born in 1970 Sharp began experiencing bouts of debilitating fatigue and severe spasms in his left leg and lower back. Doctors told him he was suffering from an old sports injury.

The doctors changed their diagnosis a few months later when he was admitted to the hospital after lost 20 pounds and he stopped breathing. He was diagnosed with Ewing's sarcoma, a rare bone cancer which had by then spread to his lungs.

Hearing about his case, the Foundation asked him if there was anything it could do for him. He asked to meet producer/composer/performer David Foster. Two months later Sharp learned that the aggressive chemotherapy and radiation had failed. He wasn't expected to live. He had a series of operations to treat his aged bones and then underwent a second dose of radiation with an experimental drug. In 1991 Sharp went into remission. As soon as his strength was renewed he began work on "Measure of a Man.

"I have no problem sharing my story over and over again. That's what life is all about. I hope I Phoenix-based Make-A-Wish can offer a little help and inspiration. A lot of people surely gave me inspiration by sharing their stories. I'm grateful for the opportunity to share it with as many people as I can."

"There is life after cancer. It's not a death sentence."

A spokesman for the Make-A-Wish Foundation, Sharp heard Detroiter Rich's song "Nobody Knows" and thought it would be the perfect way to express the feelings he kept pent up inside during his battle with cancer.

"I had felt that way for a long time and hadn't been able to write it myself. I couldn't put it into words. I take pride in trying to write songs that come from a place that I've been or can feel. It gave me goose bumps the first time I heard it. All of us in our lives have felt that nobody knows how I feel."

Sole performance

Dunn's performance will probably be her only one this year because of the rigorous schedule of working at W4. Working at a radio station, she admits, was something that she never expect-

W4 Management at approached her with their idea to "bring an artist up and put them on the air full time," she explained. She accepted the offer but had to turn down the oppor-tunity to tour in support of her a diehard fan of music from the Eisenhower era.

The Taffetas are a "girl group"four sugary sisters from Muncie, Indiana who combine their considerable talents singing the top tunes of the day. As this revue begins, they are about to make you thoroughly, even if you aren't their big-time television debut. Lucky us, we get to sit back and atch as they sing, chat with the audience, giggle a lot, read fan mail, even shoot photos of the event for Mom and Dad, who had to stay home. The girls have come far since their first professional engagement, the grand opening of the IGA Supermarket in Muncie. We can see why they've made it big. Wearing jukebox-colored silky (taffeta?) dresses created by Mom and inspired by that 50s standby The Ladies Home Journal, the sisters make an eye-catching team, lively as the Laura Jerrell ("shy" sister, liveliest sock hop, and warmfuzzy as the finest angora sweater. Best of all, though, their singing voices are as smooth as that silk taffeta.

Starting with a really cool rendition of "Sh-Boom," the sparkly of songs with golden oldies like Peggy) is a real treat. On the other hand, Peggy Lee's uptempo, "Ricochet," is great fun, too (playing the Chevy-loving Donna, she has those Mamie Eisenhower bangs aced). The staging of the quirky "Istanbul (Was Constantinople)" is a small sisters round out an opening set laugh riot, as is a goofy tune called "Achoo Cha Cl features choreography right out of the funny pages.

Plutonium Murders

Farmington Hills' Robert Davis began writing thrillers while confined to the "hole" of a federal prison for three weeks.

Davis was a medical doctor who had developed a successful practice and in 1984 founded the Family Medical Center in Utah where he had 49 employees and was treating 100 patients a day.

Davis became and alcoholic and drug addict and in 1993 was sentenced to 2-1/2 years in federal prison for mail fraud. He spent 500 hours in a drug and alcohol program to overcome his problem.

"I've been sobering up and coming to terms with my shame," he said.

"Like a lot of alcoholics my drill in life was to sabotage myself. I was either a workaholic or an alcoholic. My friends were police chiefs, judges, lawyers and company executives, we'd get drunk every night. I wasn't in touch with my feelings or my spirituality."

He said prison was the worst and best thing that happened to him since it saved him from his addictions and got him into writ-

"I went to a typing room for three weeks with those institutional green walls and that's where I started my journey," he said.

"Plutonium Murders" is the third book Davis wrote but the first to be published. In the book, a pharmaceutical magnate, horribly disfigured in an explosion that destroyed his family when he was a child, is taking revenge on the world by polluting the water system with plutonium. Internist Alex Seacourt is innocently drawn into this plot when he sees something he shouldn't. The University of Michigan Hospital water system is one of two targets ("I went to school at Michigan, I had to nuke them."). He is poisoned and must rush to save himself and the world. Some scenes are also in Farmington Hills.

The novel reaches fever pitch in a showdown at the Hoover Dam.

"I've always liked those kind of movies - Arnold Swarzenegger, Bruce Willis, 'Die Hard' stuff. And my novels are really movies," Davis said.

"I'm a very visual person. When I write I see books, I see a journey. What I'm really doing is writing a journey that I'm actually in.

He admits that Seacourt is actually "my alter ego, but he has more hair."

Davis said the books he's written contain the main ingredients for successful commercial novels: high concept, dramatic questions raised, high stakes, two or three points of view and several main characters.

Davis plans to publish "The Doomsday Kiss" for Thanksgiving of this year and "A Time to Die" and "Ghosts of the Dead" for 1998. "I do a tremendous amount of research. I try to stay as close to him to several states. "It's grueling, a lot of hard work. I lose track of the days, but the truth as possible, try to stay within realms of possibility," I love the people." He said he especially loves it Davis said.

He draws on his medical education and other interests.

He said Manifest Pictures (producers of "Donnie Brasco" and the latest Jean Claude Van Damm-Dennis Rodman movie)

New York City, circa 2259, is a traffic jam ten stories high. It's opus about the here that the superwoman, eludbattle between ing police, dives off a building and onto the top of Bruce Willis' taxi cab. Since he moonlights as Fifth a secret agent, their paths cross again when both are assigned to retrieve the stolen element have stones

"The Fifth Element" offers nods to the past decades' most influential science fiction films, "Star Wars" and "Blade Runner." But it doesn't have the captivating story of the former or the latter's unified vision of the city of the future.

Besson is still best-known for the hyperkinetic "La Femme Nikita." He has a similarly willing heroine in the stunning Jovovich, but aside from a few stone. It's "un belle femme," the martial arts moves in one scene, she's a passive part of the action and must be saved by a male hero.

The entire movie is like that: a series of good ideas that go absolutely nowhere. Why spend all this time demonstrating the bells and whistles of a futuristic shoulder cannon if you're not going to use it in some action scene? And why introduce a voice of evil that makes even bad guy Gary Oldman shudder if he's not going to appear in the film's climax?

memorable There are moments in "The Fifth Element," most involving costuming and the computer-generated special effects. Both are responsible for the sky blue, tube-ventillated Diva, one of the film's fascinating creations.

Gary Oldman adds to his freak show resume with a high-stakes villain who threatens all life in the universe. He plays it to the hilt, recognizing even when Besson doesn't that the movie is basically a big budget giggle.

Too bad nobody let Bruce Willis in on the joke. He's horribly miscast, an uneven cross between the regular guy turned badass in "Die Hard" and a larger-than-life comic book hero who has supposedly been in situations like this before.

Besson serves up five shots for most directors' one, but his sequences are all flash with little tension. And while this is the most flamboyant, unique Euroscience fiction film since "Barbarella," it's similarly destined (with its rapper-voiced president) to look dated less than a year from now.

"The Fifth Element" provided a glitzy Hollywood-style opening for the Cannes Film Festival. Instead of winning any awards here, however, it will mostly be compared to that other Bruce Willis bomb, "Hudson Hawk," both critically and at the box office

Canadian singer deals with her self-esteem worries

gle "God Made Me," Canadian singer/pianist Chantal Kreviazuk exudes self confidence declaring "This is the way God CHRISTINA made me." In FUOCO between choruses of "God Made Me," Kreviazuk lists her shortcomings - and accepts them while commenting on what she considers other people's fortunes. t she's the first to admit that she's a hypocrite.

"Sometimes I'm very self conscious about my weight, my hair, everything. I think, 'Man it's so stupid.' When I was writing songs and dreaming of having a record deal, I didn't think about any of that. I just wanted my music to be great," said Kreviazuk (pronounced kre-veea-zuk).

U.S. audiences can get a sneak listen of her debut album "Under These Rocks and Stones" (Columbia) on Tuesday, May 20, when she opens for Amanda Marshall at the Chrysler Theatre in Windsor. Her album "Under These Rocks and Stones" has been out in Canada for some time but won't reach U.S. record stores until Tuesday, June 3. Detroit, however, has already encountered the first single through its massive airplay on radio station CIMX (88.7).

Calling from her Winnipeg home, Kreviazuk explained why she's so surprised that "God Made Me" was such a hit.

"Canadians tend to need a lot of positive reinforcement in order to embrace a new artist - especially one from their own country. Without international acclaim it seems really hard to break here," she said. "When 'God Made Me' was released and did as well as it did, I was really, really shocked. I think I just kind of got lucky."

"Under These Rocks and Stones" was co-produced by Peter Asher (Linda Ronstadt. James Taylor, 10,000 Maniacs) and Matt Wallace (Screaming Trees, Faith No More, The Replacements) and recorded in Los Angeles. The album features Kreviazuk - who wrote all but two songs on her debut - on piano and vocals. At one moment her voice can be sweet and innocent sounding, others it's raspy and confident

"Surrounded" is one of the most poignant songs on the album. Kreviazuk explained that it's the story of her first boyfriend whom she had "been crazy about" since junior high.

"We liked each other by university. But he took a bad turn and ended up taking his life just four years ago. When he died I was very, very sad. When I would go out, I would feel reminded of him by different people - someone wearing something similar, driving a similar car, wearing the same hair cut, or having the same height and stature." explained Kreviazuk, who is rumored to be dating Raine Maida, the lead singer of Our Lady Peace.

"I felt like I was continuously surrounded by him. One day I was having a shower and I wrote it. I went over and over it in my head. It was very therapeutic." Kreviazuk began playing piano at 2 years of age and was a competition-winning classical pianist by her early teens. At 15 she started concentrating on her own music. When a motorbike accident in Italy left her with a shattered jaw and broken leg in 1994, an enforced period of bed rest and recuperation found her writing songs about the myster-

that affects relationships - par-ticularly intimate relations." "That's something I like to write about a lot - How I view myself and how other people. view themselves." Chantal Kreviazuk opens for Amanda Marshall at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 20, at the Chrysler Theatre at Cleary International Centre, 201 Riverside Dr. West.

Detroit Public Television. The idea was to promote the visual DELISI and performing arts

Southeastern Michigan and to highlight the local cultural scene, primarily with in-studio performances - sort of an "Ed Sullivan in Detroit" vibe. The show was to be called Backstage Pass, and since Ed has gone to the "really big shoe in the sky," would I be interested? What? A chance to introduce Channel 56 viewers to talented local, national and international artists every Thursday night? You bet I would. Now, with the debut of this weekly column to complement our broadcasts, we're making it easier than ever to share the excitement generated by Detroit-area cultural activities and artists.

Since its premiere in February. the producers have made it clear to me why Backstage Pass was picked as the name of the show (and now this column). We've truly created a "backstage" atmo-

Several months green room and studio. And this setting has yielded plenty of was inside information. In fact, if I 56 had to choose one word to about hosting a describe Backstage Pass new weekly which, for argument's sake, let's show to be prosay I do - it would be "revealing." duced and aired Sure, we've had big name, big label bands in the studio. Like Detroit-based, platinum-selling rock quintet Sponge. And RCA recording artists Robert Bradley's Blackwater Surprise. And The Braxtons, the sister act that spawned Toni and routinely inhabits the upper reaches of the R&B charts. What's so revealing about that?

Well, did you know that the Braxton sisters' first performance was a tune they call "The Charmin Song," an a cappella call for toilet paper sung from their bathtub railing? Or that blind street musician and Eastern Market fixture Robert Bradley hooked up with his group Blackwater Surprise when he was working a new corner and the sound of his voice carried to them through an open window during a hot summer afternoon's rehearsal? Or that Sponge lead singer Vinnie Dombrowski is touring in late May with one of his favorite musical influences, Iggy Pop, in the Roar Tour?

In contrast to the big-name acts, we also have many guests who don't have the benefit of the word. Like Naomi Long Madgett, a Detroit jewel about whom not enough Detroiters are aware.

Then there are the visual artists. I gather that the artist's role in society is to force us to look at the reality in which we're constantly immersed from a new perspective. Apparently, the most effective way for them to routinely access this skewed take on the world is to be - and I mean this in the most flattering possible way - a little bit nuts. Now, I know a lot of artists balk at the supposedly cliched view of artists as crazy people, but, being nuts themselves, they cannot possibly have a clear perspective on the issue.

I frame this discussion of our visual arts coverage with the artists-are-nuts caveat for this reason: often, when you first hear what these people are doing, your immediate, kneejerk, unblinking response is, That's the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard." But then, you see it, and you're blown away.

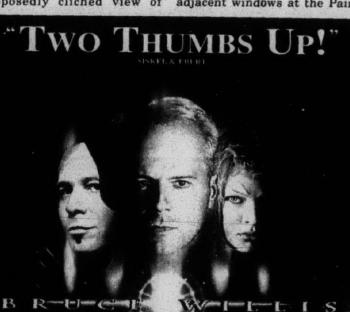

Like artist Lance Wynn who duplicated the view outside four adjacent windows at the Paint Creek Center for the Arts in Friday at 11:30 p.m. on Channel Rochester using nothing but four stamps - each stamp a different color - that increased in size by 25 percent as you went from left to right, thereby creating increasingly abstracted images of the exterior view. (I know what you're thinking.) But when we broadcast a slow camera dissolve between two images - the actual exterior view and his most abstracted interpretation everyone's jaws dropped. For now, let's close with a preview of the program you'll see Thursday at 7:30 p.m. and shows.

56: Eight-time Detroit Music Award-winners The Forbes Brothers join us in studio to talk about the annual Downtown Hoedown. They just swept all the major Country & Western music categories at the Music Awards this year. We'll also get previews of "The Flying Dutchman" from the folks at the Michigan Opera Theatre and the Music Hall production of "Having Our Say." Plus, we give an overview of the spring season's many art school grad sphere - musicians, artists, major label promotional apparaactors and other creative talent tus behind them. They have been are all thrown into the same true revelations in every sense of

Al-Petra offers Mid-Eastern, American food to please

BY KEELY WYGONIK STAFF WRITER

"Yvonne's American Dream," would be an appropriate name for the newly opened Al-Petra Restaurant in Livonia.

"I love cooking. Everyone says I'm a good cook, and that I should open a restaurant," said Yvonne Khazouz of Livonia who owns Al-Petra with her husband Adnan a forklift operator at Ford's Glass Plant in Dearborn. "Tabbouleh is my wife's specialty.'

After raising three boys, she was ready to work on her dream. Salim Khouzouz, her brother, offered to help in the kitchen.

"He's a good cook," said Yvonne. "I couldn't find anyone better.'

"We want to serve everything to please our customers," said Salim who worked at Leon's, and managed Big Boy restaurants in Livonia and Westland Mall.

The restaurant was named after a famous historic site in Jordan, the Khazouz's homeland. Al-Petra is the site of magnificent ruins, once the center of a great civilization, which is carved out of a mountain.

A day before their VIP grand opening on May 2, Yvonne and Salim were busy getting ready. What used to be a baseball card shop is now a charming restaurant where the focus is on good food, presented in an appetizing

Al-Petra aims to please. Customers will find their favorite Middle Eastern dishes hummus, baba ghannouj, falafel, Shish Tawook (chicken kabab), Mujadra (lentils cooked with rice), and some surprises.

Beef or lamb shish kabab -"very lean meat, specially marinated and charbroiled to your taste, served with vegetables," is a specialty. "I check and double check the meat," said Adnan. "It's got to be filet, and tender to be enjoyable. If the taste is not there, it's not shish kabab."

Turkish coffee, homemade lemonade, and Musakhan chicken with onion, and special seasonings, rolled in thin bread and baked - are other surprises.

If Middle Eastern cuisine is not for you, do not despair. You'll also find lamb chops, fish and chips, hamburger and fries, spaghetti, chicken salad and tuna salad, on this menu. American breakfasts – eggs with ham, bacon and sausage, steak and eggs, biscuits and gravy, strawberry pancakes, strawberry French toast, and omelettes, are also available. "We will try to please the customers any way we can," said Salim. "If it's not on the menu, and customers want it, we will try to provide it if it's within our range

The kitchen and plumbing are all new, and although the restaurant currently seats only 24, the Khazouz's would like to expand.

"I worked hard on getting my dream," said Yvonne. "And hopefully I will get my dream, and the restaurant will be a success. You know, America is the land of the American dream. The kids came first. This is my American dream."

Merchants once lived above the shops they owned on major commercial thoroughfares. Extended families lived in houses on small lots close to the street in the big city.

Then came freeways and the suburbanization of America large families, larger houses, much larger yards far away from urban roots.

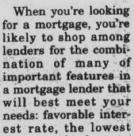

But in recent years, developers/builders Bryan Timlin, Bernie Glieberman and others have brought an urban mestyle urbs with well-defined downtowns like Birmingham and Royal Oak. And even back to Detroit, in Glieberman's case. The pair have found that not everyone covets a huge house and a long commute. Some folks willingly pay more for less living space and neighbors on the doorstep. "I call it a pedestrian lifestyle .. mixed use with retail, entertainment, restaurants, commercial, office," Timlin said. "You need a true downtown to make it happen, large enough to offer all amenities. Glieberman sold out more than 200 new-from-the-ground-up condominiums at Main Street Square and Maryland Club in Royal Oak during the mid 1990s much quicker than he expected.

Consumer's guide to mortgage lock-ins

Title firm can help find mortgagees

MEISNER

Q. We have just approved our condominium documents. What should we do to find out who the mortgagees are and how long should it take?

A. With the help of your attorney, you should obtain a list of the mortgagees. However, many times the co-owners do not provide this information or the information provided is not current. You will need to obtain a list of the mortgagees, which is sometimes expensive, since it requires a title search.

Often times, our firm has worked out an arrangement with a title company to assist the association in obtaining a list of mortgagees at a reasonable cost.

Once the list is obtained, the association's attorney should notify the mortgagees of the approved amendment and request their approval. Generally, mortgagees are cooperative. However, I have experienced a few instances where the mortgagee has been both dilatory and unwilling to cooperate with the association requiring, in one instance, the attorney for the association had to "redline the changes" for the mortgagee since the mortgage company did not want to have to spend the time to review the documents.

The mortgage company, in my view, should, as a cost of doing business, be prepared to assist its mortgagors and the association in approving these documents without additional cost to the association. When mortgagees become uncooperative, notify the mortgagor as well as the chief executive officer of the mortgage company regarding any unreasonable lack of cooper ation.

The demand was there," he said. "I didn't create demand. Planners created demand by making downtowns viable."

Prices started at $79,900 and $89,900, respectively, for 1,000 square feet including two bedrooms and bathand-a-half.

"They're doing incredibly on resale," said Joanne Williams, Glieberman sales rep.

She recalled that one original purchaser at Main Street who put $5,000 to $10,000 of upgrades in a $79,900 condo recently sold for $137,000.

Condos, townhouses and lofts in an urban setting are easy sells, said Mary Savoie-Huff, a Realtor with Snyder, Kinney, Bennett and Keating, who also represents some of Timlin's builds.

They move very quickly," Savoie-Huff said. "It's amazing. I wouldn't have believed it. But what can you buy in downtown Birmingham?"

K.C. Mueller, a Realtor with Remerica Hometown, recently sold the last two available units at the Meadows, attached condominiums in downtown Plymouth.

They were full-price offers and people were lined up in case they didn't go through," Mueller said.

"There's a segment of the population now that really wants an urban lifestyle," Glieberman said. "It's basically young people and empty nesters, not people with kids."

more than $1 million.

His buyers reflect Glieberman's. "It's both male and female, people 21 to 85. It's single people and married people," Timlin said.

John and Cheryl Davison, soonto-be empty nesters, are moving from a condo in Royal Oak to a condo in Birmingham built by Timlin.

"We purchased this home to be close to town, close to work, actually so we could walk to places," John said. "It's close to restaurants, close to shopping for the wife.

'We don't want the big, major upkeep of a house, either," John Davison said. "If I'm going out of town, I don't want it to be totally vacant. People are living around it."

Timlin suspects that urban, condo living will expand in suburban communities like Rochester and Plymouth as the population shifts and more-traveled roads touch those downtowns - if land is available. Mueller, who also serves as a Plymouth Township Trustee, concurs. From the desire of developing a site,

I think it's a very realistic possibility," she said.

"Will it be approved by politicians, the zoning? There probably will be a little reluctance, but they will eventually give in. They resist change, resist high rises, resist what they didn't have before," Mueller said.

Timlin, who's building 19 condos and four lofts in Birmingham at 662 Purdy, thoroughly enjoys his niche. "Everywhere there's an urban market, there's an opportunity," he said.

points and other upfront charges, someone who can communicate with you and answer all your questions, etc. When you find the most favorable terms and the lender that you want, you'll apply to that lender.

But when you get to settlement, will you actually receive the terms you applied or bargained for? Lock-ins on rates and points might offer you a way to ensure that what you shop for is what you get.

In most cases, the terms you are quoted when you shop among lenders only represent the terms available to borrowers settling their loan agreement at the time of the quote. The quoted terms may not be the terms available to you at settlement weeks or even months later. Therefore, you should not rely on the terms quoted to you when shopping for a loan unless a lender is willing to offer a lock-in.

What is a lock-in? A lock-in, also called a rate-lock or rate commitment, is a lender's promise to hold a certain interest rate and a certain number of points for you, usually for a specified period of time, while your loan application is processed. Depending on the lender, you may be able to lock in the interest rate and number of points that you will be charged when you file your application during processing of the loan, when the loan is approved, or later.

A lock-in that is given when you apply for a loan may be useful because it's likely to take your lender several weeks or longer to prepare, document, and evaluate your loan application. During that time, the cost of mortgages may change. But if your interest rate and points are locked in, you would be protected against increases while your application is processed. This protection could affect whether you can afford the mortgage. However, a locked-in rate could also prevent you from taking advantage of price decreases, unless your lender is willing to lock in a lower rate that becomes available during this period.

What is a commitment? It is important to recognize that a lock-in is not the same as a loan commitment. although some loan commitments may contain a lock-in. A loan commitment is the lender's promise to make you # loan in a specific amount at some future time. Generally, you will receive the lender's commitment only/after your loan application has/ been approved. This commitment usually will state the loan terms that have

Home Buyers Fair planned Saturday

A lot of questions can cloud the process of buying a house. Answers will be available during a free, no-obligation Detroit Metro Home Buyers Fair 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday at the University of Detroit Mercy, McNichols (Six Mile) at Livernois.

Upwards of 60 exhibitors, mostly financial institutions, have signed on to participate in the fourth annual fair ponsored by the Michigan Mortgage

Bankers Association. Additionally, hour-long classes will be presented throughout the day on a variety of real estate topics.

"The purpose is to provide a forum for people in the metro area to gather information on how to purchase a home, qualify for a mortgage," said David A. Trott, a Bingham Farms lawyer and president of the Michigan Mortgage Bankers Association.

"There's so many mortgage products out there now," Trott said. "Someone who's renting for $300 to $400 per month and has $3,000 to $5,000 for a down payment probably can get a mortgage. Even if they have marginal cred-

t, they can probably get a mortgage Information can make the home-buying process less intimidating.

"It can be a great experience or, if you get involved with the wrong people, can e a disaster," Trott said.

Exhibitors include Standard Federal Bank, First Federal of Michigan, Comerica Mortgage, Republic Bancorp Mortgage, Flagstar Bank, Sterling Bank & Trust and Fannie Mae. Also, Real Estate One, Gannon Real Estate, Michigan State Housing Development Authority, Allstate Insurance, Professional Real Estate Appraisals, Detroit Board of Realtors and Michigan Department of Civil Rights. Dozens of others have registered.

Five classes - Your Credit and You, Preparing and Qualifying for a Mort-gage, Fair Housing and Fair Lending, Affordable Home Mortgages and What to Look for When Buying a Home - will run concurrently at 9:45 a.m., 11 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 1:45 p.m. Free hot dogs and soft drinks will be served 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

"The fair will bring on and promote home ownership," said Sam Kreis, construction loan manager with Sterling Bank. "If you can afford to rent, you can afford to buy. That's the key."

Hardwood floors add beauty and charm to a home. Cleaner than carpet, which can harbor dust mites and dirt, as well as emit toxic fumes, hardwood floors with proper maintenance will outlast many floor coverings. Probably the only deterrent to having hardwood floors installed or refinished in a home in the past has been the nightmare of dust that permeates the house when the floors are sanded, and the lingering smell of solvent-based finishes.

A new dustless sanding system, the ProSand DCS - Dust Containment System, from BonaKemi USA, Inc. has allows for minimal interruption eliminated the problem and revolutionized the hardwood floor finishing industry. The system involves efficiently attaching the buffer and edger, the main generators of dust in the process, to a powerful vacuum system. The floor sander already has its own self-contained vacuum/bag system

"It's not uncommon for home owners to be still cleaning dust from their homes 3-5 years later," acknowledged Mark Jenkins of Masterpiece Hardwood Floors in Salt Lake City, Utah. Now with the ProSand DCS, the dust is contained and removed as it is generated, alleviating cleaning headaches for the home owner.

been approved (including loan amount), how long the commitment is valid, and the lender's conditions for making the loan such as receipt of a satisfactory title insurance policy protecting the lender.

What will be in writing? Some lenders have preprinted forms that set out the exact terms of the lock-in agreement. Others may only make an oral lock-in promise on the telephone or at the time of application. Oral agreements can be very difficult to prove in the event of a dispute.

Some lenders' lock-in forms may contain crucial information that is difficult to understand or that is in fine print. For example, some lock-in agreements may become void through some unrelated actions such as a change in the maximum rate for Veterans Administration guaranteed loans. Thus, it is wise to obtain a blank copy of a lender's lock-in form to read carefully before you apply for a loan. If possible, show the lock-in form to a lawyer or real estate professional

It is wise to obtain written, rather than oral, lock-in agreements to make sure that you fully understand how your lender's lock-ins and loan commitments work and to have a tangible record of your arrangements with the lender. This record may be useful in the event of a dispute.

Fixed mortgage rates

What will a lock-in cost? Lenders may charge you a fee for locking in the interest rate and number of points for your mortgage. Some lenders may charge you a fee up-front, and may not refund it if you withdraw your application if your credit is denied, or if you do not close the percentage point added to the rate you lock in. The amount of the fee and how it is charged will vary among lenders and may depend on the length of the lockin period.

Because practices vary, you may want to ask your lender whether there are other options available to you. In next week's column, I'll continue this discussion of lock-ins including how long they are valid and what happens when they expire.

IRVINE

Building Luxurious Quality... From Generation To Generation!

The Irvine Group of Companies, one of the most renowned developers in Southeast Michigan, has become a monumental success in the building community due largely to longevity, credibility, design excellence and unique sophistication.

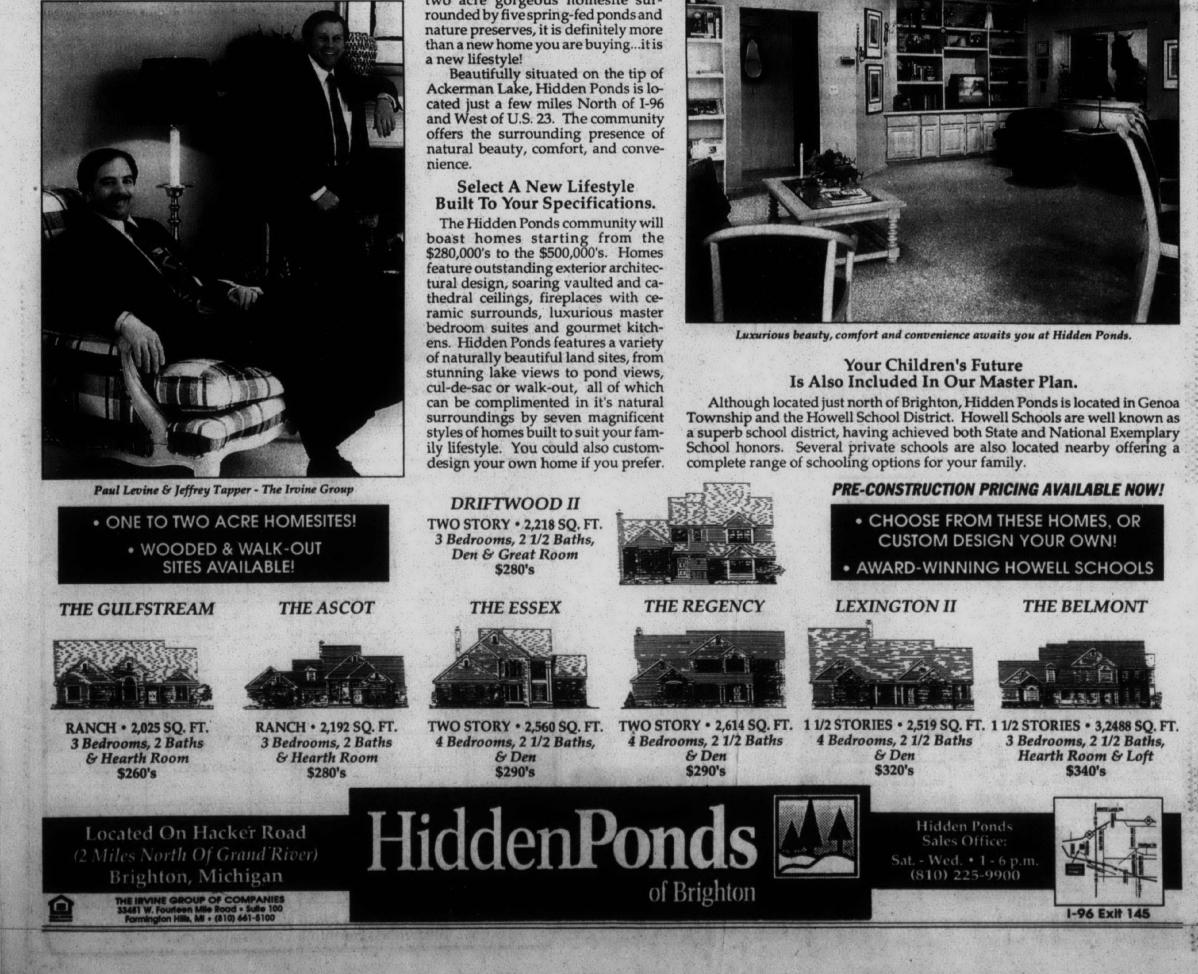

Award winning partners, Paul Levine and Jeffrey Tapper, developers of the uniquely sophisticated Hidden Ponds Of Brighton, have an uncanny ability to appeal equally to the discriminating buyer interested in top quality homes in prices ranging from $150,000 to $1 million.

The brilliant strategy of capturing today's personal preferences within some of the most astounding home layouts, and in a variety of appealing price ranges, began over 75 years ago with Sam Levine, grandfather of Irvine's current President, Paul Levine.

"The concept of family is the key!", states Paul Levine and Jeffrey Tapper. "We build for others what we would build for ourselves or our families". The personalized attention both partners give to detail and perfection is the true foundation of each and every Irvine masterpiece.

This philosophy began with Sam Levine in 1917, when soon after coming to America, he passed on to his children and grand-children a tremendous work ethic and a diligence to teamwork in order to achieve the success the Irvine name has come to symbolize. Today, the Irvine Group has developed over 35 magnificent residential sub-divisions of more than 5,500 homes. Through quality business leadership, sound business ethics, and exemplary home design, The Irvine Group of Companies is now known as one of the areas leading community developers.

The ultimate satisfaction has been the fact that Irvine
