Donations sought for school bond challenge

BY RENEE M. SKOGLUND STAFF WRITER

Waging war is costly.

Former state Rep. Jerry Vorva of Plymouth is asking for public donations in his legal battle with the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools over the March 22 bond election. Vorva filed a lawsuit in Wayne County Circuit Court May 14 seeking a new election.

"All I'm asking is that people who believe their fundamental right to vote is important - and I pray they do feel that way - that they will support us, who have taken the issue head-on, by sending in a contribution to pay for legal services," said Vorva.

Due to errors in the district's new touch-screen voting machines, 7 percent of the ballots cast were spoiled. The $79.7 million bond issue passed by 96 votes.

MSU president defends MEAP tests

BY KEVIN BROWN

Michigan State University President Peter McPherson told Plymouth Rotarians on Friday that MSU is unique among U.S. universities for its efforts to hold down costs to attend college.

McPherson defended the Michigan Educational Assessment Program and other efforts to raise standards in K-12 schools.

He also touted a MSU program seeking to have undergrads study overseas one His remarks came before about 100 Rotarians, at their weekly noon lunch meeting at the Mayflower Meeting House. It was nearly three years ago that MSU promised not to raise tuition faster than the rate of inflation, McPherson said. "This has been a very effective way to force us to look at our costs, it forced us to look at tradeoffs and doing things differently," he

While holding costs down, he said the university has been able to strengthen its educational system, partly by emphasizing the role of computers.

"You can't have a world-class education unless it is technologically quite rich," McPherson said. He said MSU is close to having computers in all residence hall

"When they're admitted, they're automatically given an E-mail number," he told the Plymouth Rotarians. "We're telling the student right off that's the way it is. Technology has to be a pervasive part of the undergrad experience."

Saying students must have an international perspective, McPherson spoke of a MSU program to have students study overseas for a semester. "They're not going over there to do social work, they're attending programs in strong universities," he explained. "They come back with a very different view of the world. This perspective makes you more employable, it makes you a richer, broader more adaptable person.' He said that soon, nearly 4,000 MSU students would be participating in the program each year.

In response to a question from the audience, McPherson said the MEAP testing program was valuable. "Ultimately I think it's just fine for students and schools to be accountable. I found my committee unanimously agreeing on that.'

McPherson said he backed reassigning administrators in K-12 schools when MEAP scores continually do not improve.

Scott Lurain said loyal customers "are just skydiving in here" if necessary to grab their steaming cups of Australian Skyberry or other coffees.

Red Bell director retires

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

he Cub Scouts were one thing. But never had Jack Lewis considered working with preschool children except maybe his own.

That was 25 years ago. This month Lewis will retire as director of the Red Bell Children's Nursery, 44661 Ann Arbor Trail.

"It's going to be so weird not having him here. He's here 24 hours a day," said Chris Keetle, program director.

He'll be the first to tell you that his 25-year career in preschool education is a far cry from his early stint as a field representative for Marathon

True, Lewis had a degree in secondary education and was interested in sports. During his 10 years in the oil business he thanks to his wife volunteering him - got involved with the Cub Scouts.

"While doing that I met the owner of Red Bell." He was Thomas Hackney, the founder, whose son, James, will take over the school with Lewis' retirement.

"He said, 'did you ever think of getting into this business?" Well, I never did think about getting involved with the little

But he did. And he wouldn't have it any other way. Instead of buying the business - the owner wanted to expand with franchises - Lewis just wanted to take it over.

The Plymouth Township resident who lives near the school is quick to tell you what he's learned from his small

"If I had been in this busi-ness before I had my own children, I would have been a better father. Not a day goes by I don't see a mistake I made with my kids," said Lewis, father of three grown children.

Red Bell actually was in business 10 years before Lewis took over. "It started in another location and moved out here," Lewis said.

The school serves preschoolers, as well as kids up to 10 years of age both before and after regular schoool. There's also a summer day camp for kids ages 6-10.

In his 25 years, Lewis says that his most satisfying moments are seeing his former students return for a quick

"It's great when they come back after they have grown up. It's amazing what can happen," he said.

Lewis recalled a man about 6 feet, 6 inches tall coming into the school one day. The man looked at Lewis and said, "You don't remember me. But can I come in and look around? I spent more time in your office than out of it."

Today that man is a graduate of an Ivy League college. "Some of the kids are attorneys, doctors. It's satisfying to know you had a part in it," Lewis said.

Today, Lewis is seeing a second generation of students coming through the school. His students have enrolled their children in the program. "It's funny but they say, 'I remember this place being so big. It's really not that big.'

In the past 25 years kids have changed. But Lewis holds true that he has yet to have a horrendous moment or incident with any of the students. "Yes. There are more problems. There are more children with problems. Kids are so much more sophisticated today. At 3 1/2 they know how to operate a computer."

So what exactly do kids do at Red Bell? Over the years the program has changed. "It's gotten more educational and this has come about because of parents. They want this kind of program.

Kids at Red Bell learn through play. This spring kids learned about the world through a program called Passports of the World." which showed how other people live, where countries are and the types of food people

We really feel you learn through play," Keetle said. "We work with the developmental needs of the child and we approach each child different-

Lewis and his staff also keep current with what the public schools are doing so kids are prepared when they leave Red

When Lewis leaves he and his wife, Mildred, will move into a house they bought in Irish Hills. "I will miss the kids and the customers. I've made some great friends here."

But Lewis said it's just time to move on. "I looked at myself and asked if I'm able to keep up the pace as I did 10 years ago. I don't think I can do justice to this any longer. I see a lot of my friends working themselves into their graves.

Newburgh Lake fish kill extends to Nankin Lake

housands of fish - ranging from carp to northern pike - were killed Wednesday on the Rouge River in an eradication designed to remove fish contaminated with polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs).

But the kill accidentally extended several miles downstream on Thursday – beyond what the contractor's permit allowed under the state's Department of Environmental Quality guidelines – at least to Nankin Lake, another Rouge River impoundment where 1,500 pounds of fish were pulled from the water Thursday.

A natural pesticide (rotenone) was sprayed onto the middle branch of the Rouge River downstream from Wilcox Dam, then onto Newburgh Lake to kill the fish. Potassium permanganate was applied as a neutralizer to detoxify the rotenone near Newburgh Dam.

"They didn't get it neutralized, at least not well enough," said Gary Towns, a fisheries biologist with the Department of Natural Resources.

About 12,000 pounds of fish were removed from Newburgh Lake as was planned under the fish kill. About 1,500 pounds were collected from Nankin Lake.

Towns suspects that all of the fish were killed in Nankin Lake and it may take at least a year to restore that fishery unless some restocking efforts take place there or fish migrate there.

Fish carcasses were removed using landing nets and pitchforks by work crews and volunteers on Wednesday and Thursday. The kill was part of the federally funded $10 million restoration of Newburgh Lake as part of efforts to restock the lake next year for recreational fishing.

Fatal to fish

Officials wanted to remind the public or people near the Rouge River that they do not face any danger from the rotenone, as it is only fatal to fish and other small amphibians at the concentration levels used on the river.

Wayne County officials also oversaw the cleanup efforts and worked with Environmental Consulting & Technology, the Newburgh Lake restoration project manager.

"We put some (rotenone) on near the dam, to drive (the fish) away from the dam," said Roger Van Omen, chief engineer with the Wayne County Division of Public Works.

Potassium permanganate was applied nearby to neutralize the rotenone, but it was an insufficient amount, so the fish kill extended downstream, Van Omen said.

"The fish kill went really well the first day, but then the second we started having problems," Van Omen said. The rotenone had been neutralized as of Friday and the fish cleanup should be finished by today (Sunday), Van Omen said.

Rotenone is a white, odorless, crystalline, natural substance derived from several tropical and subtropical plants. It inhibits on fish a biochemical process at the cellular level, making it impossible for fish to use oxygen in the release of energy needed for body process-

Although rotenone has some toxicity to all oxygen breathing animals, it is selective to fish at concentrations used by fishery biologists.

How fast rotenone breaks down is affected by temperature, light.

How fast rotenone breaks down is affected by temperature, light, oxygen and alkalinity. At 80 degrees, treated water will detoxify naturally in less than four days.

Towns speculated Newburgh Lake may have been "hot" with rotenone because it was so low, and the neutralizer ineffective with the amount used. Van Omen did not know how much rotenone was sprayed.

The cleanup appears to have accomplished its initial goal of eradicating the fish at Newburgh Lake, where 12,000 pounds were collected late last week.

Van Omen said carp, suckers and black bass were mainly pulled from Newburgh Lake. He did not have an accurate account of game fish, such as northern pike, smallmouthed bass or bluegills.

Fish contaminated

Many of the Newburgh Lake fish are believed to be contaminated with PCBs from soils and sediment at the lake's bottom. Those PCBs bioaccumulate in the fish.

Approximately 390,000 cubic yards of that PCB-contaminated sediment will be removed and transported to a Salem Township landfill, and about another 230,000 cubic yards of additional sediment will be excavated to increase the lake's depth.

Once the excavation is complete, a second fish kill will be conducted next year, and then, game fish will be stocked in July 1998.

Towns expected that state officials would complete a report on the fish kill. Despite the overkill of fish in the river, he was optimistic about the Newburgh Lake project.

"We really think it's a great project, and I think it will succeed," Towns said. "It will be a much better fishery as a result of the project."

State and county officials have spent most of this year reminding people of a fish consumption advisory that has existed for years on that branch of the Rouge, particularly on Newburgh Lake, which is an impoundment of the Rouge River on the border of cities of Livonia and Plymouth. In fact, most of the Rouge has advisories on fish consumption except in some upstream headwater areas.

That advisory and a caution from the Wayne County Environmental and public health officials were reissued last week. The Wayne County Health Department is working to prevent waterborne illnesses by extending its standing advisory against ingestion of contaminated water and playing, wading or swimming in the Rouge River because of bacterial levels.

"Construction of some combined sewer overflow controls has been completed on the Rouge River, and there will be even more progress later this year," said Stephen Tackitt, Wayne County environmental health director. "Wayne County is working to extend recreational boating options as water quality improves."

Big dip: Aquatic Control company worker, Casey Reed, dips a huge carp out of the water at the Newburgh Road dam.

that roads eligible for federal aid would fall under state jurisdic-

County road commissions, cities and villages would retain jurisdiction of all other roads. Michigan Department of Transportation could redesignate roads based on a set of criteria in the bill.

Senators passed two transportation bills, one for insurance changes, and a 35 percent increase in truck transportation

On Friday, Dan Gilmartin, Michigan Municipal League's manager in federal and local affairs, told members of the Conference of Western Wayne that there was "a lot of dissension" with jurisdictional and funding changes. The MML interprets proposed legislation and lobbies state and federal elected officials on behalf of Michigan cities and villages

The CWW consists of mayors, township supervisors and other city leaders from the cities of Belleville, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth, Romulus, Wayne and Westland, and the townships of Canton, Huron, Northville, Plymouth, Redford, Sumpter and Van Buren. The consortium meets once a month to discuss legislation and regional issues.

Gilmartin said the money fell

"We see a 7 percent increase for local government, and counties are a little higher. That's about $9 million statewide. That's simply not enough. We need more money in the fund."

Gilmartin wondered who would be responsible for signage and speed limit settings.

Gilmartin outlined changes the MML requested:

■ Directly involving local units in the jurisdictional change process through the Metropolitan Planning Organizations and Rural Task Forces;

Allowing local governments to retain jurisdiction on federal aid eligible roads over permitting, curb cuts, speed limits, signage, signalization and lighting; Providing complete protection for all outstanding transportation debt for which Act 51 revenue has been pledged; Providing for a more meaningful increase in road funding (approximately 30 percent) for cities and villages on the remaining network of local roads.

None of these changes has been included in Senate bills yet. The Senate is expected to resume discussions Tuesday on SB 582 and any other bills introduced as part of the transportation reform package.

Jim Ryan, deputy director of Gov. John Engler's southeast Michigan office in Detroit, said he was optimistic about the continued meetings and dialogue between Engler and the MML.

What the governor proposed is really an outline with a lot of things that need to be filled in," Rvan said

It predicted that open absentee voting "would clearly reduce traffic in the polls" - the long lines on election day.

State control

Although most Republicans and many Democrats favor "local control" of voting lists, Miller's panel felt otherwise:

'Michigan is the largest state, both in terms of its population and its geographical size, to do so (maintain local voter files).

"Involving 273 city clerks, 1,242 township clerks and 261 nor, U.S. senator, U.S. represen-

"In effect, Michigan maintains 25 percent of the nation's registration jurisdictions to serve less than 4 percent of the nation's

The panel proposed allowing all but top office candidates to file a non-refundable fee instead of petition signatures to get on the ballot. The exceptions: gover-

It proposed replacing the complex system of signature requirements with a simpler method based on a district's census. Thus, the requirement would change just once in 10 years.

Panel recommends limiting elections

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

No more special millage elec-

Michigan voters would go to Michigan voters would go to the polls no oftener than four times a year under a reform plan proposed by Secretary of State Candice Miller's special panel. Schools would be encouraged to hold elections in November of odd-numbered years. Villages would have to drop their late winter elections in favor of the August-November combination.

In time, elections could be conducted by mail, though Miller is cool toward going whole-hog until a state master computer list (called a Qualified Voter File) is operating in 1998.

"There are a lot of ideas that Democrats wanted," confessed state Rep. Bob Brackenridge, R-St. Joseph, a former Berrien County clerk and the panel's only legislator.

Applauding the plan was Sen. Alma Wheeler Smith, D-Salem, who has gone nowhere with her bill to allow voting by mail

chase

immediately. Many Republicans and some Democrats say Michi-gan isn't ready for full-scale mail elections because 20-30 percent of all registrations are "dead wood" – people who have died or moved. The new computer system is expected to cure that

The 10-member panel included Kathy Dornan, Farmington Hills city clerk; Joan McCotter, Livonia city clerk; Bernard Apol, retired state elections director; and other county, city and township clerks.

One proposal from Miller's panel would let local units experiment, under strict state supervision, with mail-in voting. But Smith saw problems:

"What happens in an evenyear election when state and federal offices are not on the mailin ballot? You can't use both vote-by-mail and the traditional ballot box. This places an unnecessary strain on voters."

Schools limited

a year (exception: recalls). It would crimp school districts, in particular, which schedule tax and bond elections on odd dates, allegedly so that only "school people" will turn out.

The panel called for four Tuesday dates in four months: February May August and November 19 of the control of

ary, May, August and Novem-

That would eliminate June school elections. The panel suggested the state "promote the use of odd-year November gener-al election for school elections." Brackenridge, who pushed similar ideas last year when he chaired the House Local Government Committee, made a strong pitch for reducing the number of elections. One community in his district held nine elections in a single year.

No bills have been introduced to implement the panel's report, and little or no action is expect-ed before September as the Legislature is entangled in budget,

Biggest change, however, road improvement and casino would be be limiting every governmental unit to four elections drawn virtually no comment from lawmakers or the Engler

Although the panel didn't rec-ommend it, Brackenridge sees "same-day registration" in the future. A person who moved into a community the day of a Nov. 5 election could register and vote immediately. His previous registration could be canceled in the Qualified Voter List in Lansing.

Currently, Michigan requires voters to register at least 30 days prior to an election. Brackenridge thinks that span of time is obsolete.

Michigan allows persons to vote absentee only for specific reasons: over age 60, out-of-town on election day, ailing, etc. Miller's panel proposed "open" absentee voting:

That is, extend the option to obtain an absentee ballot to every voter through the removal of the qualifications. . . applicants must meet to obtain a bal-

Road control still key to legislative discussion

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

Who will maintain control over federally funded roads remains the $570 million question in Gov. John Engler's plan to change the jurisdiction of cities and counties, and place them in the lap of the state.

While the state Senate approved two transportationrelated bills on Thursday, it did not act on a third bill that would revise road jurisdictions. Senate Bill 582 would amend Act 51, the state's transportation act,

FOR THE LOVE OF FOOD

RICK HALBERG

Food inspires simple pleasures

t has been asked before. Do we eat to live - or live to eat? Sadly, not enough of the latter, is my gut response. Food is so much more than sustenance. A ripe peach, pristinely fresh fish, a simply dressed, perfect green salad. The complete harmony of food and wine. Or what about the family meal? Whatever happened to time spent together at the dinner table? Are we always too busy to take the time for these simple pleasures?

Far too few of us realize the wonder that food can inspire. It's the difference between just eating and dining. A friend returned from a Buddhist retreat and told me about his experience. One of the exercises was to place a single raisin in one's mouth and hold it there until it softened. Then, the raisin was chewed slowly while the person meditated on the single raisin. This made me think of how wonderful food can be. A simple raisin, a grape, wine, filled grape leaves all flooded into my mind. I could have meditated for hours on that one raisin.

I've been lucky and have done a lot of traveling around the world. In my journeys, I've tried to search out local places and people in order to source the best regional foods. I found these people - whether peasants, restaurateurs or foragers - to be among those few who share my passion for food. These are people whose eyes light up when describing their particular specialty. Some won't let you go without trying their mother's version of the town's special dish. In one of my visits to Italy, I visited with the Crespi family, which produces incredible Italian imported products and had one of the most memorable meals of my life. They live in the small town of Ceriana outside the Riviera town of San Remo.

Memorable meal

After a sunny morning with them at their basil-growing farm sharing talk of our mutual love of food we were ready for a mid-day meal. The youngest son, who was just recovering from major surgery, was given the task of escorting us to a local restaurant. Off we went, up the mountain for what seemed like an eternity. Finally we pulled over in front of what appeared to be a large wooden cabin in the mountains. A stream flowed by, the breeze was refreshing and I was hungry. Inside the cabin we sat down at a small table and before I knew it, food was appearing in front of me. There was no menu, no discussion of what I might like, just course after course, served in a most enjoyable, friendly manner.

Fresh cheeses, raw and roasted vegetables, wild mushrooms, fresh trout, rabbit with mountain herbs, simple ripe fruits and local wine and to finish, grappa. By the time we had finished, our host had joined us, and I asked him to bring out the "chef," he laughed and went to the kitchen. He returned with his 85-year-old mother and sister, and, with my limited Italian and lots of help, they shared with me their secrets. They weren't really secrets after all. Everything I had eaten was directly grown, raised or foraged for by these people. I've eaten in some of the fanciest and most expensive restaurants in the world. In terms of passion and love for what was served, this rustic inn rates at the top of my list.

In our country, as great as it is, we have pushed our farmers to only produce more, bigger and faster. Quality is no longer the goal. Some of us in my business are attempting to support our local people in their efforts to grow organic and sensible foodstuffs, but these farmers are hard to find. Unless people begin to better appreciate what they are doing, these farmers will go out of

As I get older, my food preparations are becoming simpler and purer. As with all things, certain traditions evolve. The products I source have a naturalness and must stand on their own. Without good ingredients, my work as a chef becomes difficult. Therefore, I continue to search out the freshest ingredients.

Fresh ingredients

Farmer's markets are cropping up in many towns this summer. These are great places to source out organic growers, and they inevitable will lead me to more of their kind. Vic's Fruit market has a new organic section also. We also have our wonderful Eastern Market, with lots of great places to search. While down at the market, check out R. Hirt for some wonderful cheeses and specialty foods. They carry the products by the Crespi family, like their pesto and Even now, I spell comfort - b-u-r-g-er. For lunch, dinner in a hurry, or backyard barbecues, burgers are hard to beat.

Merchant German sailors crossing the Baltic Sea saw Latvians, Estonians and Finns eating an early version of steak tartare, and wanted some too. They tried it, and liked it so much that they brought it back to Hamburg, Germany. Chefs cooked the meat lightly with chopped onions - Hamburg Steak.

In the 19th century, German immigrants shared this broiled chopped steak with friends and neighbors. Soon it started appearing on restaurant menus. The first documented was 1834 at New York's Delmonico's restaurant.

According to research by the National Cattlemen's Beef Association, Hamburg Steak made its first cookbook appearance in "Fannie Farmer's Boston Cooking-School Cookbook" in Short order cook J. Walter Anderson, later owner and creator of White Castle, created the first hamburger bun in 1916. Prior to that, hamburgers were generally served between two slices of bread.

Burgers are still one of our favorite foods. Steak and burgers are the two most popular beef choices for the grill, and when people eat out, they order burgers more often in the summer - June, July and August.

If you're health conscious, there are plenty of other "burger" choices.

The American Institute for Cancer Research

Check out "Vegetarian Burgers: The Healthy, Delicious Way to Eat America's Favorite Food," by Bharti Kirchner (Harper-Perennial, copyright 1996, $12.50.)

Kirchner serves up recipes for grain and bean burgers, vegetable burgers, nut and seed burgers, tofu and other soy burgers, and stuffed burgers. "Most of the recipes are simple, and the majority of the ingredients are now available in supermarkets," she writes. "Leftover cooked grains, beans, and vegetables can cleverly be turned into burgers, and many of the steps can be done ahead of time. What's more these low-fat patties can be frozen.'

Turkey and chicken burgers are other alternatives to beef. A three-ounce serving of ground turkey breast contains three grams of fat, and ground chicken on two grams.

Melanie Polk a registered dietitian and director of Nutrition Education for the American Institute of Cancer, recommends consumers ask their butcher to grind turkey and chicken for burgers. "Most pre-prepared ground turkey and chicken includes both white and fattier dark meat," she said. "With so much less fat, chicken and turkey burgers should be cooked differently than ground beef. Because ground chicken and turkey breast are so lean, they can clump together and dry out on the grill. It's essential to mix in ingredients such as egg or yogurt to keep the meat moist and tender.

For turkey burgers, beat together 1/3 cup plain, low-fat yogurt and 1 egg. Add 3/4 cup herb seasoned stuffing mix and let stand five minutes, or until moistened. Then stir in 1/2 cup finely chopped onion, 1/2 cup finely chopped parsley, 1/2 teaspoon salt, and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Add this to 1 pound of ground turkey and gently mix. Wendy Biegas of Livonia grills hamburgers for her family once a week, even in the winter. Her Italiano Burger recipe was selected as one of five finalists in the 1997 Michigan Beef Cook Off. "These burgers are really good on the grill," she said.

The recipe was inspired by her four children, ranging in rage from two to 15 who "love Italian food." Biegas said she thought of what her kids liked and combined the ingredients to make an Italiano Burger.

She recommends experimenting with what you have on hand to make flavorful burgers such as onion soup mix, chopped onions, and

Home economist offers solutions to cooking jams

Michigan State University Extension Oakland County maintains a food and nutrition telephone hotline to answer consumer questions. The questions are interesting, varied and sometimes very complicated. The following are a few that are asked

frequently. Maybe the answers will help you too.

Q. What can I do about soup or stew that is too salty?

A. Cut up a peeled raw potato, tie in cheesecloth, and simmer in the soup or stew. Discard the potato, taste the product, depending on how salty it is, you may have to try again. You can also add a teaspoon of cider vinegar and sugar, or just sugar. None of these methods are guaranteed, but are worth a try before throwing the food out.

Q. What can I do about brown sugar that is hard as a rock? A. If possible, try to grate it with a hand grater or place a slice of soft bread or a cut-up apple in the package and close tightly. You can try to soften it in the oven or the microwave. Put the brown sugar in an oven-proof container, set a cup of water in the same container and heat in a low oven or the microwave for a short time. Watch it carefully so the brown sugar does not start melting.

Q. There is a strong odor in my refrigerator. How can I get rid of it? A. Wash the interior walls with a solution of two tablespoons baking soda to a quart of warm water. Activated charcoal can be spread on a cookie sheet and placed on the refrigerator shelves. Coffee grounds can be put in shallow pans and placed in the refrigerator, but then you may have to wash the inside again to get rid of the coffee smell. Plain baking soda on a cookie sheet put in the refrigerator will also help remove smells and odors. If the smell has gotten into the insulation, you may have to contact the appliance company for help. Q. What can I use to tenderize

A. Kiwi fruit is a great natural tenderizer for tough cuts of beef, pork and poultry. The enzyme in kiwi makes the meat tender without the salt that is in many commercial tenderizers. Cut the kiwi in half and rub on the meat about 30 to 45 minutes before cooking. Vinegar is another tenderizer, but may give the meat a different taste later. Of types of tenderizers on your grocer's shelf. course, there are many commercial

Q. What foods are high in beta carotene?

A. Sweet potatoes, winter squash, carrots, pumpkin, kale, cantaloupe, apricots, spinach, broccoli and collard greens all contain beta carotene. Replace up to three-quarters of the fat in muffins, quick breads or cake with canned pumpkin or cooked squash puree to add beta carotene to them. You may want to add some additional cinnamon, nutmeg, ginger or allspice when reducing the fat. These are just a few of the consumer questions from the hotline, (810) 858-0904. If we are not available, please leave a message, and we will get back to you as soon as possi-

As we move toward leaner diets, onions play an increasingly important role in providing the flavor we need to stick with our healthy eating plans. But there's more to onions than low-fat flavor.

Scientists believe that onions and other members of the allium family, such as garlic, leeks, chives and shallots, may be a significant dietary factor by protecting us from certain forms of cancer.

Onions have never been known as an exceptionally vitamin-rich food, but they do contain a large number of phytochemicals, as many as 150 of these natural, non-nutritive substances. Scientists funded by the American Institute for Cancer Research have been studying some of the most intriguing onion phytochemicals, including sulfur compounds, and have found them to be antioxidants. In the body, these compounds appear to neutralize and reverse some of the cell damage caused by the rampaging oxygen molecules known as free radicals, which are implicated in the cancer

Stylish swings in new golf wear

BY DONNA MULCAHY SPECIAL WRITER

When Karen McCarty, 26, of Birmingham took up golfing three years ago, she liked everything about the game except the clothes

The golf clothes she saw at pro-shops and department stores were either too ornate (with matching embroidery on the collars and sleeves and pockets) or they looked like a female version of men's apparel.

Either way, they were too mature-looking for her and not all what she wanted to wear.

She tried to find some regular, summer street-wear to fit the bill, but couldn't find any shorts that were long enough to meet the dress code of the golf course she used.

"I just wanted something simple and youthful looking, that was also appropriate, but I couldn't find anything like that," she said. "And it wasn't just me. Other female golfers I knew were having the same problem.'

McCarty, who studied fashion in college after graduating from Seaholm High School in 1988, saw a market ready to be tapped. She decided to open her own company, Sugar Mag Designs, Inc. The company, named after a Grateful Dead song, specializes in women's

The clothes are designed by McCarty in her home and are made on the east coast. McCarty markets them through a catalog and trunk shows. She began working on Sugar Mag's Summer 1997 line of clothing last year, and it was unveiled at the PGA tour stop in Orlando,

Fla. in January. Among other things, the line includes casual shorts, flirty A-line skirts, "Tomboy" shorts, and, as McCarty describes them, "hip hanging man-tailored trousers."

Fabrics include sporty seersuckers, stripes, plaids, fresh florals, bold opalescent nylons and "soft sea kiss micro-twills," McCarty said. All of the fabrics are wrinkle-free, she added. Originally, her target market was women in their 20s and 30s. But she's found that women of all ages like her clothes, which come in sizes

22-23 from 2-6 p.m. Beverly Rice, senior vice president of fashion merchandising strategy for Jacobson's department stores, said that women's golf apparel has gradually become more fashionable over the last five years.

"It doesn't just look like play-wear anymore," she said. "It looks more sophisticated."

For proof of that, she said, just look at the offerings from such major designers as Tour de Femme, Adrienne Vittandini, Liz Claiborne and Lauren. They all make women's golf-wear that looks equally well on the golf course, in the club house, or about town.

Rice said she thinks the trend toward more fashionable golf apparel is due to market demand, the examples set by pro-golfers, and the development of stronger breathable, colorfast fabrics that not only look good, but feel comfortable, too.

Speaking of colors, Rice said that lime green is "in" this year, as are Caribbean prints and floral patterns. White and pink are also popular colors for golf apparel, because they show off a golfer's tan well, she said.

Trendy styles for female golfers this year include crocheted, short-sleeve sweaters and tops with zippers, she added.

Rice said that women should expect to pay $200 to $300 for a basic golf wardrobe, consisting of a shirt, vest or sweater and a pair of

"You can do things for less," she said, "but I think you should look at it as an investment. I really don't believe in throw-away clothes. When you buy a piece of clothing, it ought to look smart and be well-made and last."

Rice said she expects the assortments from golf apparel designers to keep getting better and better, as more young women take up the

Disney Magic Tour stops by Somerset

Mickey Mouse came to Troy, June 14-15, with a stage show extravaganza featuring a 68-foot tall Cinderella Castle Cake to celebrate the 25th anniversary of Walt Disney World in Orlando, Fla.

The weather was perfect for the outdoor program held in the parking lot in front of Hudson's at Somerset Collection North. Hundreds of guests enjoyed live, musical shows plus related programs throughout the shopping center. Belle from the animated film "Beauty and The Beast," provided story hours across the skywalk in the Somerset Collection South rotunda.

Special visitors included (right) Meagan Whitney, 2, of Livonia, and her aunt Karen Zaidan of Troy.

Toddlers will also enjoy two events at the mall on June 28 - a story hour at the Great Train Store beginning at 9 a.m. and Thomas the Tank Shining Time Playtime from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the WTVS Store of Knowledge.

Employee toasts 50 years at Hudson's

BY DONNA MULCAHY SPECIAL WRITER

The staff and management of Hudson's in Westland went all out recently to help Lillian Fotiu celebrate her 50th year as a sales associate with the company.

She was greeted with a surprise party when she arrived for work on June 16, her anniversary date. The people in Fotiu's department gave her a big cake and a dozen roses. The "A friend and I went out and people in personnel gave her an Downtown store soon after graduating from Detroit's Mackenzie High "I heard it was a good place to work," she said, "and they had at the time two openings. One was at a juice stand and one was in children's shoes. I picked children's shoes." She was a sales associate in that department, in the store's bargain moved to the Westland store, where she held the same position. In 1987 the bargain basement closed and Fotiu thought it was time for a change. She asked to be transferred to women's clothes and has

Indeed it does.

She's seen lots of changes over the years. For example, when she started, four cashiers shared the same cash register and they each had their own cash drawer in the bottom of the machine. They had to figure out in their heads how much change a customer was owed, because the cash register wouldn't' do that.

Now, she said, she works on a computerized cash register that keeps track of more things than she ever could have dreamed of back then. One of her favorite memories of the downtown store, was how on Flag Day, workers would unfurl the largest flag in the world.

"It covered the entire length of the building," she recalled. Has she plans to retire, soon?

"I don't know," she said, laughing.
"Right now I'm just taking it one day at a time."

LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Singers hot for a song

nne Russell is a pediatric nurse who loves to sing. From September through May, the Plymouth resident has no problem finding any number of choirs with whom to share her talents. But come June, the long, hot summer brings a drought.

According to Thomas Sheets, director of the University Musical Society Choral Union, summer finds most singers, like Russell, without song. That's why he is inviting them to take part in the fourth season of Ann Arbor Summer Sings 7-9:30 p.m. Mondays July 7, 14, and 21 in the University of Michigan Modern Language Building Auditorium, north of Hill Auditorium on Thayer between Washington and North University in Ann Arbor.

Admission to each session is $5. For more information, call the UMS Choral Union at (313) 763-8997.

"Choirs usually rehearse and perform from fall to spring so by July these singers are usually antsy for something to sing," explained Sheets. "We started the Summer Sings in 1994 as an opportunity for singers of all types to come on a no-audition, noperformance basis to sing through a large work. It's enormously fun and an opportunity to meet other singers and compare notes as it were."

Leo Najar, Saginaw Bay Orchestra usic director opens the Summe Sings season with Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess" July 7. Soloists Carl Clendenning and Kimberly Haynes join Najar for the Gershwin evening.

On July 14, Jerry Blackstone, codirector of choirs and coordinator of the University of Michigan conducting department leads a reading of Francis Poulenc's "Gloria." Woolly beauties: Kay Rowe's pet llamas have inspired Yolanda Menchaca to paint more than one work.

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

ver time, artists have been inspired by everything from water lilies to llamas. Yes, llamas. Last week in Canton, a group of artists assembled to paint and sketch the South American animals at Kay Rowe's home

Rowe, a watercolor instructor and owner of the Village Artists Studio in Plymouth, invited friends, fellow artists and students from her studio to bring their easels for a day of painting. The four-acre country setting provides a variety of subject matter from llamas to roosters and scenic landscapes.

The creative session gave artists a chance to work in the fresh air. Famous painters like van Gogh and Monet loved to paint out of doors. They would capture the light and the way it plays at different hours from dawn to dusk.

"What we have is a natural area which is becoming less and less in Canton," said Rowe. "It's kind of a vanishing area and an opportunity for people to paint without going up north. Painting outdoors is great. You couldn't ask for better light, and you're painting from life not a photograph."

Rowe's floral paintings will be on exhibit at the Plymouth Community Arts Council along with Donna Vogelheim, Marjorie Chellstorp, Johnnie Crosby, Joanne Porter, and Mary Stephenson through Sept. 5. Besides llamas and flowers, what inspires Rowe to create?

"Mostly it's nature, natural beauty," said Rowe. "Beyond that, it's anything that speaks to me emotionally."

Llama getaway

As soon as Rowe opened the corral gate, three of the llamas came running. Rowe put down a bale of hay to calm the woolly beauties and settle them in one place so artists could catch the llamas on canvas. Yolanda Menchaca set up her easel and began working on a second llama painting. The Canton artist had painted a portrait of Precious and Bandit on a previous visit. Her goal this time was to create a complementary painting that would capture them from afar. Within 20 minutes, Menchaca had laid down the landscape and three shapes which looked like lla-

"I'm a firm believer, the colors and subject matter that surrounds you affects your psyche," said Menchaca, whose work is on display at Creative Framing & Gallery in Plymouth; Atrium Gallery, Northville, and Trillium Treasures, Dixboro. "The life force in things inspires me to paint. Nature is exhilarating. It's so green.

Kay Fill of Plymouth; Joyce Tinkham, Ann Arbor, and Norine Berryman, Brighton were not as inspired as Menchaca to paint llamas. Nancy Walls Smith of Plymouth chose, instead, to focus on a scarecrow which Rowe had assembled to scare pests away from a vegetable garden.

"I'm not painting the llamas because they won't stand still," said Smith.

Anna Mary Vollick considers herself an occasional painter. The Redford Township resident relies on trips to Mexico, Switzerland, the island of Saba, and Northport, Mich., to provide inspiration for her watercolors, so painting the llamas on location was perfect. Vollick's work will be on exhibit with students of Farmington Hills artist Edee Joppich July 1-30 at Livonia City

"Something will just appeal to me when I look at it," said Vollick, president of the Palette Guild art club. "When I was in Germany, I just opened up the window and painted.

Jim Isakson did not attend the painting session at Rowe's but the scenic inspires him as well. The Canton artist, painting in the Pointillism style, deals with subjects ranging from campfire scenes to the cosmos. Look for Isakson's work in a one-man show July 23 through Sept. 17 at the Espresso Royale Cafe on Main Street in Ann Arbor.

"The inspiration comes from the great outdoors, just nature itself," said Isakson. "I camp a lot and as an artist, it's an inner drive, an instinct, that will to want to create what I see."

Vintage posters: snapshots of pop culture over past 100 years

BY FRANK PROVENZANO STAFF WRITER

Even a solemn cynic like Andy Warhol might be impressed with the widespread popularity of poster art. In influence, appeal and collectibility, poster art has come the ultimate democratic means to spread aesthetic bliss to the masses.

For Diane Shipley-DeCillis, owner of The Print Gallery in Southfield, art printed on a poster is the equivalent of a public visual library whereby people can choose and buy art without worrying about what is "important art" or mortgage their homes to purchase an origi-

Poster Exhibit represents the finest advertising placards from their permanent collection. In style and intent, the posters' power of suggestion precedes the more sophisticated modern-day commercial persuasion pill.

In the spirit of entertaining commercialism, The Print Gallery's Vintage colorful graphic images of coquettish The Vintage Poster Exhibit includes

French ladies, robust Italian maidens and dreamy oceanic landscapes. While the posters reflect a distinctive historical flavor and graphic style, they remain true to the capitalistic zeal in hocking products - champagne, olive oil, pleasure cruises, cigars, breath mints, biscuits and movies. Advertising as art? Commercial expression worthy of aesthetic virtue? What could be more American?

Poster appeal

Besides its vintage poster collection, The Print Gallery carries a range of art posters from masters like Caravaggio and Rembrandt to American artists Winslow Homer and Andrew Wyeth. In the boutique atmosphere "art" also can be found on Picassoesque dinner plates, Monet-colored scarfs and van Goghinspired note cards

Advertising art: Diane Shipley-DeCillis, owner of The Print Gallery, has gathered an impressive collection of vintage posters dating from the late 19th century through today. The demand - and value – for vintage poster art is increasing rapidly.

to be reprinted to meet demand, nance. So, it's hardly coincidenand probably won't increase in value.

Since opening in 1979, revenue at the arts store along Northwestern has grown steadily from $75,000 to $700,000. In response to the demand for vintage posters, Shipley-DeCillis plans an expanded section devoted exclusively to venerable advertising print art.

"In many of these vintage posters, the artists didn't fall back on cliches like today, but created personalities for the products on their own," she said. The vintage posters run from $300-$1,000 with a few as high as $10.000.

With the Cold War melted into history, the current ideological battle is for marketplace domital that vintage advertising posters are attracting a high demand. Their market value is largely dictated by the size of the limited edition and the personality of the artist or product.

Last August, to mark the bicentennial of the invention of lithography, the Metropolitan Museum in New York showed more than 100 poster works by Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec, many created in the decade before his death in 1900. At a recent auction, a Toulouse-Lautrec poster advertising a cabaret sold for $220,000.

Posters of pioneer-artist Jules Cheret have increased rapidly to $2,500. Meanwhile, posters of lithe young women promoting beer and cookies by turn-of-thecentury Art Nouveau master Alphonse Mucha sell for at least $10,000.

"In the last ten years, there's been a growing sophistication as people become more aware of deign," said Louis Bixenman, who produces international poster fairs annually in Chicago, San Francisco and south Florida.

Bixenman estimates that $10,000 spent wisely on posters 10 years ago might return $100,000 today.

The zenith of poster art in the United States dates to the late 19th and early 20th century, prior to mass media and during the great population influx to American cities. Posters communicated a cross-cultural personality as a primary means to advertise a product. During time of war, propaganda posters demonized the enemy while rallying support for the cause.

A blurred line

The growing market for poster art is hardly based on works created before television commer-

Psychedelic pop art-style posters of 1960s rock music concerts are widely sought. And a poster made for the Supremes performance at the New York Philharmonic Hall sells for $150. Original movie posters also draw big bucks. The promo for "Casablanca" is valued at $10,000.

Today many rock concert posters are distinguished by an edgy, angry style produced on computer. With typical 1990s marketing savvy, established poster artists such as Frank Kozik, Derek Hess and Livonia's Glenn Barr are produced in small numbers to drive up

In the last 25 years, the work of several artists are sure to graduate into the vintage category, including Villemot's posters for Bally's, Razzia's work for Haute Couture and Romero Britto's ads for Absolut. Bixenman also lists Pentagram, subway artist David Carson and Japanese artists Koichi Sato. Many of the posters created in Communist Poland have also become collectibles.

Some American artists, such as Jasper Johns and Robert Rauschenberg, worked in commercial art to make a living while they refined their fine art. Yet few other American artists had more lasting influence than Warhol, whose silkscreen designs of mundane commodities and over-exposed celebrities ushered in mainstream acceptance? of graphic art as fine art.

"I don't draw the line between advertising and fine art," said Steven Gale, director of Art Leaders in West Bloomfield,... which has a large inventory of posters and art gifts. "Before most buyers would trust critics. But today, it's simply if you like it, then it's art."

Sheets currently conducts the Toledo Symphony Chorale.

"We're trying to present a balanced set of pieces, something for everybody from the American musical 'Porgy and Bess' to a 20th century work by Poulenc," said Sheets. "The 'Requiem' is not only a favorite of singers but also honors the fact that 1997 is the centennial of the death of Brahms.

Russell is excited about this season's lineup. She has attended at least a couple of the sessions every year since the Summer Sings began.

"When you enjoy singing, summer is a down time and the sessions give you the opportunity to continue to improve your sight reading skills," said Russell. "It's a casual atmosphere and a nice way to meet people who share your interest, and work with a conductor you might not normally work with. If you're looking to be a part of a choir, the sessions are a nice introduction to the Choral Union.

Calling all singers

The 180-voice UMS Choral Union, sponsors of the Summer Sings, was founded in 1879 when a group of local church choir members and other interested singers joined together to sing choruses from Handel's "Messiah." Throughout its history, the Choral Union has performed with many distinguished orchestras and conductors including Neeme Jarvi, Eugene Ormandy, Igor Stravinsky, and Andre Previn.

Based in Ann Arbor with members throughout southeastern Michigan, the Choral Union is best known for its moving "Messiah" performances each December. Three years ago, the chorus was appointed the resident large chorus of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, and in 1995 began an artistic association with the Toledo Symphony. Participation in the Choral Union is open to all by audition. Call (313) 763-8996.

Russell sang in the UMS Choral Union while a graduate student at the University of Michigan and for many years afterwards. But even before that, she was involved in theater and choirs while growing up in Bloomfield Hills and attending Marian High School in Birming-

"For me, singing is something l need to do, a way to express yourself that you can't do any other way," said Russell, "and it's a love for classical music."

FINAL DAYS

Nancy Suzor's Southwestern and contemporary pottery continues on exhibit through June 26 in the second floor showcases at the Livonia Civic Center Library. The show is sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission.

Suzor is one of three women ceramists operating "Desert Graffiti." The pottery cooperative represents the artistic talent and endeavors of Suzor, Janine Bognar and Kristi de Salsa. The women were drawn together by their mutual interests in ceramics, clay, pottery of Mexico, the Navajo, Zuni. It is evident the three potters are inspired by the imagery of Indian cliff dwellers.

The pottery is glazed in desert jewel colors of cranberry, teal, hunter green, amber with purple, and burgundy, and accented with metallic designs.

STEPPING OUT

Wayne State University is offering Saturday Dance Lab Workshops for young children, teens and adults in the dance studio (room 3317) on the third floor of Old Main, corner of Cass and Warren Avenues in Detroit.

Cost is $30 for five weeks.

Classes stress the creative development of individuals and focus on movement skills, artistic self expression, self and group awareness, and aesthetic sensitivity. Through movement children can express ideas and emotions which they may not yet be prepared to express orally or cursively. Props, music and poetry are used to stimulate movement and the ideas of space, time and energy are used in creative dance experiences. Children develop and learn social skills by working in groups or with partners and further develop their coordination and problem solving skills

"The dance labs expose children to the elements of dance without confining it to a specific structure," said dance lab coordinator Michelle Orow of Garden City. "It lays down a foundation before putting them in ballet or tap classes. They learn how to move their bodies and learn to relate to the other people who dance with them.'

JAPANESE ART

The Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association is hosting an Ikebana demonstration 2 p.m. Saturday, June 28 at 1516 South Cranbrook Road in Birmingham.

Toskiko Shimoura, a member of Ikebana International Detroit Chapter 85, will show the techniques involved in the art of Japanese flower arranging.

Ikebana, established as an art form in the Muromachi Period in the mid 15th century, is an art conceived by the inspiration and desire of humanity to capture, interpret and enhance, with creative imagination and artistry, the beauty of living flowers. Ikebana is closely connected to man's daily life and reflects the way of living in each period of Japan. While retaining the traditional ways of arranging, Ikebana has adopted itself to styles suiting the needs of the time. It is a creative effort to keep pace with an ever changing environ-

In more recent times, Ikebana has captured the interest of people all over the world. Unlike Western flower arranging, which relies on visual impact for decorative purposes, Ikebana is an artistic statement of oriental philosophy linking the three concepts of spiritual truth, material substance and human creativity.

Bullock shines as uneasy heroine in 'Speed' sequel

By Bob Thomas Associated Press Writer

The opening sequence of "Speed 2: Cruise Control" is an homage, probably unintended, to the James Bond series, the granddaddy of the high-tech action movies. Jason Patric, a fearless L.A. cop, careens his motorcycle over hill roads as he chases a hijacked truck.

Patric's pursuit, though filled with stunts, lacks the invention of the Bond prologues. But it does prepare the audience for the two-hour roller-coaster ride that follows.

Counterpoint to the chase, Sandra Bullock takes a driver's test, barely avoiding a few crashes to the horror of her inspector (a hilarious Tim Conway). When she encounters her boyfriend, Patric, at the end of his adventure, she is appalled to learn he isn't the sedate street cop he claims to be.

Bullock has had enough of danger (remember the bus ride?). She wants to break off their romance, but he surprises her with tickets for a Caribbean cruise, and she agrees to go.

Big mistake.

A fellow passenger on the voyage turns out to be Willem Dafoe, a brilliant scientist who plotted all the computer controls on the ship. After he is discovered to have a terminal ailment (he thinks leeches will prolong his life), the cruise line dumps monds on board. Ah, how could today's villains function without the computer?

The cruise begins with the usual merriment, the camera establishing the bores and the lovable passengers, as well as the competent crew. Bullock and Patric become entranced by the Caribbean ambiance and each other. As they dance cheek-tocheek, he decides to take the big step and propose.

Before he can get the words out, Dafoe commences his diabolical business. What follows is continuous chaos and quick cuts, explosions and flying glass, panic and mayhem while Dafoe and Patric play a deadly cat-andmouse game.

After the two "Speeds" and Twister," Jan De Bont wears the crown as king of the actionthriller directors. He also originated the story with Randall McCormick, who wrote the script with Jeff Nathanson.

THEATER

Guild Theatre reaches out with open house

Nestled among the businesses on Beech-Daly Road, one block south of Five Mile Road, in Redford, is an unusual building. From the outside there is little to distinguish it from other structures in the area.

Upon entering, however, one finds something quite special - a storefront or studio theater atmosphere, in the style of a New York off-Broadway facility. It is home to the Livonia-Redford Theatre Guild, one of the state's oldest and most successful community theaters.

For example they have received best production awards for "Lion in Winter" and "Equus" in state competitions. The Guild was also the first Michigan theater, amateur or professional, to present "The Dresser."

New members and supporters have provided the basic strength and vitality for the Guild over the years. In preparation for their 44th season (1997-98) the Guild is holding an open house at the theater, 15138 Beech-Daly 7 p.m. Saturday, June 28.

"We welcome all people inter-ested in theater," said Guild president Thom Hinks. "We will be discussing our upcoming play season, our renewed involvement and commitment to local communities, physical improvements to the building, staffing of various committees and future social

Hinks points out that you don't have to be an actor or director to enjoy participating in theater. "A great variety of backstage roles exist, such as constructing and painting scenery, making costumes, locating furniture and stage properties, operating the lighting and sound equipment, writing programs, creating publicity, selling tickets, being an usher and a variety of administrative functions required to manage the whole operation."

Fiscal affairs are also an important consideration for the Guild. They are among the few community theaters in Michigan who operate their own theater building. Most must perform in school auditoriums. In the beginning (1954), the Guild performed at Livonia Bentley High School. The current building was purchased in 1967.

Vice president Ed Howell said "we plan to emphasize the community facts of the theater more than perhaps we have in the past. We want people to enjoy the social aspects of coming to the theater building. The playbill will feature fewer avantgarde plays and less cutting edge material. Our new direction is toward more classic theater

For example, the new season pens in September with Agatha Christie's spine-tingling thriller "The Mousetrap." Open auditions for the production will be held at the theater on July 20-21. "Mousetrap" will be followed in December with Robert Anderson's comedy, "Silent Night, Lonely Night," which starred Henry Fonda and Barbara Bel Geddes on Broadway.

A one-act play festival, featuring original works by playwrights, is scheduled for March of 1998. The season will close with an old-fashioned melodrama "Pure As The Driven Snow in April. This is the annual production by Livonia high school students from the CAPA program (Creative and Performing Executive secretary and treasurer Blanche Graham noted that the Guild is currently offering theater classes for children, June 14 to July 19 on Saturdays. For additional information, contact Ed Howell at 313 422-8206 or leave a message at the theater at 313 531-0554.

Award Winner: Marjorie Chellstorp won the Grumbacher Art Award at a recent Farmington Artists Club Show. Titled "Meadow Sunlight," the landscape features a flow of dark and light passages that keep the eye moving around the composition.

Artist takes home gold

Marjorie Chellstorp of Farmington Hills won the Grumbacher Art Award at the Farmington Artists Club Show. Chellstorp is an assistant professor of art and humanities at Madonna University in Livonia and has also taught at the Belian Art Center in Troy.

Chellstorp received the Grum-bacher Gold Medallion and a selection of Grumbacher art supplies for the watercolor and pastel painting, titled "Meadow Sunlight." The landscape features a flow of dark and light passages, blended in rich colors, that help carry the viewer's eye around the composition.

Chellstorp began exhibiting her art more than 25 years ago. She has won several awards in competitions held by the Michigan Watercolor Society and anniversary show at the Detroit Institute of Arts. She frequently

Meadow Brook Theatre's 1997-Meadow Brook Sea-

98 season will feature Pulitzer Prize-winning plays by Neil Simon and Edward Albee as well as the return of Charles Nolte's adaption of a "A Christmas

Ticket information for the season is available through the Meadow Brook Theatre box office at 810-377-3300. The theatre is on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester Hills.

"I feel like St Nick in the springtime," said Meadow Brook Theatre's artistic director Geoffrey Sherman. "The response to bringing back "A Christmas Carol" has already been overwhelming."

You can be sure that the rest of the season will be just as festive, as touching, as thrilling."

Meadow Brook opens its 32nd season with the Michigan premiere of Tom Dudzick's nostalgic comedy "Over the Tavern," from Sept. 17-Oct. 12.

The play, which takes place in 1959, involves a Catholic boy's comical battles with his knucklecrunching catechism teacher, and the lad's often touching dialogues with God.

In a review of "Tavern," In Pittsburgh said: "There's merry mix-ups, wacky complications, a little tear, and a lesson learned at the end."

Edward Albee's play, "Three Tall Women" runs Oct. 22 to Nov. 16. In this drama, a 92year-old woman reminisces with two younger associates about her life, loves and feelings toward an impending reunion with her estranged son. The Wall Street Journal had once called the play "a dazzler."

From Nov. 28 to Dec. 28 the theatre returns to the original script, set and staging of "A Christmas Carol." Charles Nolte's adaption ran from 1982Over the Tavern by Tom

Keith Glover's music-filled fantasy "Thunder Knocking on the Door: A Bluesical Tale of Rhythm and the Blues" makes its Midwest premiere Jan. 7-Feb.1. In this tale, the supernatural Marvell Thunder challenges two talented mortals to a guitar playing duel. But like most bets with those from the "other side," what is lost or gained is extraordinary. Variety has called "Thunder" a "fresh and imaginative piece."

try to hide their secrets from each other. The New York times said "Butler" was "Hilarious ... Outrageous ... It dazzles." The comedy runs from Feb. 11-March 8.

The hair-raising thriller "Murder by Misadventure" by Edward Taylor runs March 18 to April 12. In this fast moving adventure of cat and mouse two mystery writing partners become involved in a feud from which a murder seems the only escape. Press notices have described 'Murder" as a "whodunit that should out-run 'The Mousetrap.'

The season concludes with Neil Simon's "Lost in Yonkers," from April 15 to May 10. When two teenage boys are left in the care of their tyrannical grandmother, they observe as Grandma forces her ways on her adult children. When Aunt Bella announces plans to get married, Grandma withholds her approval, setting the stage for a battle of wills.

The little village of Pickax ("400 miles north of everyowhere") is abuzz with rumors and rumors of rumors. Before vou know it, other murderous happenings occur. Time for semiretired, filthy-rich bachelor Jim Qwilleran, and his feline sidekicks. Koko and Yum Yum, to spring into action and cleverly resolve all questions - as they have in 18 previous "Cat" tales. This one's spiced with bake-offs, cheese-tasting events and even a recipe of sorts for authentic Cornish pasties. If books were food, this one would be among the lightest of souffles; nevertheless, it's delicious fun, especially if you're a mystery fan or "a congenital foodie," like the slightly ridiculous Qwill. If you've never sampled this Michigan native's best-selling work, now's the time to dig in.

"In the Presence of the Enemy," by Elizabeth George (Bantam, $6.99, 623 pp.). To say Elizabeth George is a mystery writer is like saying the Pope is a priest. This Californian who sets her psychologically incisive stories in Britain is one of the most gifted writers working today, and any reader who has not yet done so should make it a point to experience an Elizabeth George novel ASAP. This one begins with the kidnapping of Charlotte Bowen, the small daughter of London celebrities Dennis Luxford and Eve Bowen. He is the editor of a popular, leftist scandal sheet; she is an ambitious, Conservative politico. After a one-night tryst years earlier that resulted in the child's birth, the two sent their separate, ambitious ways and he has never acknowledged the child as his own. Now come mysterious messages threatening the child's life if he does not make this acknowledgment on the front page of his own newspaper. Scotland Yard Inspector Thomas Lynley and his cohorts enter the picture and, in a tale that is both wide and deep, send all manner of skeletons rattling their way out of various, shadowy closets. All of George's characters glow with life, but her depiction of the frightened child at the center of this contemporary drama is simply unforgettable.

'High Tide in Tucson," by Barbara Kinsolver (HarperPerennial, $12.50, 270 pp.). This group of essays by the author of "Pigs in Heaven" is the perfect book for languorous summer reading. You can start in the middle. You can read the last essay first. You can begin at the beginning. No matter where you turn, you'll discover a marvelous bouquet of lyrical prose and arresting insight on these pages. In the title essay, Kinsolver likens her o w n transplantation go r o m Kentucky to Tucson (in "the shell of a tiny yellow Renault"), to that of the hermit crab now residing in her Tucson home. The crab, accidentally transplanted via luggage brought home from a trek to the Bahamas, seems hell-bent on setting up housekeeping in its new desert abode. Perhaps, she concludes from the crab's behavior, we all respond to high tides, even if we live in deserts. How odd we are, she notes, "pitched and wrecked and absurdly resolute, driven in spite of everything to make good on a new shore." Other eloquent essays (often leavened with humor) look at the Terrible Twos, a crosscountry book tour, a visit to an atomic missile museum and what happens when a "weakling" joins a health club.

Other summer pleasure-treasures: "Dreaming in Cuban," by Cristina Garcia (Ballantine, $11, 245 pp.), a luscious novel about how a family is/was touched by the Cuban revolution; "Independence Day," by Richard Ford (Vintage, $13, 251 pp.), not the movie in book form, but a finely wrought novel about the aftermath of a divorce and the challenges of parenthood; "Running in the family," by Michael Ondaatje (Vintage, $10, 206 pp.) a memoir set mostly in exotic Śri Lanka, and written by the extraordinary author of the extraordinary novel, "The English Patient."

Newseum honors journalism's exciting history BY HUGH GALLAGHER STAFF WRITER The Story of news begins with

I've been a newspaper reporter and editor for more than 25 years and can't think of anything else I'd rather do. News gathering is more interesting, more exciting and often more important than most other lines of

I always wondered why the news profession didn't have a place like baseball's hallowed Hall of Fame to celebrate the romance and significance of news.

Now it does.

On a recent trip to Washington, D.C., I put three places on my list of must-see sites: the recently opened Newseum, the elegantly simple and dignified F.D.R. memorial and the stunning Picasso exhibit at the National Gallery.

The Newseum in Arlington, Va., just across the Potomac from Washington, D.C., was opened in April and has already established itself as a major attraction in a city that is overflowing with cultural and historical treasures. But the Newseum is the first to draw full attention to the importance of newsgathering and its pivotal role in keeping freedom alive.

The Newseum

Where: 1101 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va., easily accessible on the Washington Metro subway line from Washington and National Airport.

Hours: 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday-Sunday; closed Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day.

Admission: FREE. Timed-entry passes for same-day admission are distributed at no charge beginning at 9:45 a.m. Usually only needed on weekends.

The Newseum, a project of the Gannett-funded Freedom Forum, begins with a large-screen motion picture asking an appropriately theme-setting question "What Is News?" and ends with a memorial to those journalists who are known to have died covering the news. In between is a state-of-the-art interactive museum that was especially exciting for an old newshound like me but has much to offer anyone who cares about history.

The story of news begins with storytellers and drum signals, and the first section of the museum has artifacts from Asia and Africa showing these first means of communication. Storytellers gave way to scribes, hired by kings to record their deeds. The invention of printing in China and its adoption in Europe with the publication of the Gutenberg Bible in 1455 (the museum has on display one of just 40 existing) led to the newspapers and magazines we know today.

Here begins the heart and soul of this outstanding museum. The News History Wall is a superbly designed, if slightly intimidating, walk through the history of newsgathering from explorer's letters made into "instant books" to the ongoing computer and satellite revolution. In between, the wall includes hundreds of original newspapers, magazines and artifacts showing the rise of modern newsgathering. It also frames each historical period around a question (What makes news? Should journalists take sides? Do tabloids go too far? Is TV superficial?). These questions give a context for the unfolding

The artifacts include historic presses, television cameras, an electric chair captured in a particularly startling tabloid picture, a reporter's typewriter and the original newspapers, magazines, newsreel films and television reports (remember when Frank Reynolds screamed for accuracy when Reagan was shot?) Small movie theaters show short films on different aspects of the news and news personalities including a look at how Hollywood portrays reporters and editors and a look at Casey At the Bat narrated by

The wall features pictures of major figures in the history of newsgathering and a short synopsis of what they did. Who are these figures? Well, to name a few of the many: John Peter Zenger, Mark Twain, Matthew Brady, Frederick Douglass, Winslow Homer, Richard Harding Davis, Walter Lippman, Joseph Pulitzer, Heywood Broun, William Randolph Hearst, Ida Tarbell, Nellie Bly, Ernie Pyle, Red Barber, Edward R. Murrow, Walter Cronkite, Eddie Adams and, yes, even Bill

This is one of those museums you could visit dozens of times and see something new every time. The artifacts are so numerous that many of them are in pull-out drawers. The many names and their contributions are also numerous.

The newspapers and magazines show the changing sizes and styles of printing and the innovations of more readable type, drawings, engravings and finally photography.

An overhead screen shows a continuing series of famous news photos.

My quibbles are few. The emphasis in on the media in the United States with only a cursory nod to the rest of the world. Perhaps a separate section devoted to newsgathering in other countries would be helpful, including an exhibit on how totalitarian states use newspapers and radio to their advantage. Second, the emphasis is heavily on East Coast and "national" journalism (a similar bias distorted Ken Burns' "Baseball"). There are a few Midwestern and Southern journalists highlighted, and newspapers from around the country are exhibited, but not anywhere to the degree that New York and Washington are. There is also little on community newspapers where most journalists work and where the real work of gathering news and preserving freedom goes on every day of the year. Without taking anything away from the James Restons and Walter Cronkites, they are a small part of the story.

The News History Gallery moves into a Video News Wall where giant screens project news reports from around the world. Special audio centers allow visitors to listen to the news as it happens, from the television images projected or from area radio broadcasts. This area overlooks the state-of-the art television studio where guests are interviewed for closed-circuit broadcast; local and national TV and radio news programs will originate from here. When I was there Ken Auletta was interviewed on his new book on the media moguls, "The Highwaymen.

The last section of the Newseum is interactive. In a room lined with the day's newspaper front pages (e-mailed from around the world) you can be a television reporter (and buy a tape of yourself announcing news from the White House or anchoring the local newscast), do a radio sports call, or play an interactive video game where you can be a newspaper reporter or an editor and make the tough decisions on how to cover the news. There is also an interactive section on news ethics.

Along the outside of the Newseum is Freedom Park where various artifacts commemorate; the civil rights movement, women's suffrage, the Warsaw ghetto resistance, the fall of-Communism and the end of. apartheid in South Africa. At the end of the walk is a glass-andsteel spiral that glistens like a rainbow. Here on this spiral that overlooks the Washington and Jefferson memorials are inscribed the names of journalists who have died while trying to report the news. It's location and simplicity are a fine and fitting tribute.

WATER SAFETY

Michigan AAA is offering some tips on water safety.

"No matter what type or size of watercraft you're on, all boaters must use proper safety equip-ment, know the body of water they are boating on and have total control of the watercraft they are using to safely enjoy Michigan's lakes," said Jerry Basch, AAA Michigan community safety services manager.

State figures show that in 1996, there were 945,847 registered watercraft, up almost 60,000 - nearly 7 percent from just last the year before. Most of the increase can be attributed to smaller boats like personal watercraft.

"They can be great fun, but in the hands of untrained, inexperienced drivers, boats such as PWCs can be a problem waiting to happen," Basch said. In 1995-96 there were 637 boating accidents in Michigan, resulting in 20 fatalities. Fifty percent of the fatalities involved alcohol.

This summer the state Department of Natural Resources will step up its enforcement campaign with 30 officers in boats and on PWCs who will target problem areas to enforce boating

"If you're new to the water, attend a safe boating class. Contact your local DNR district office, sheriff's department marine safety division or the Coast Guard Auxiliary for times and dates," Basch said.

Here are some other "rules of the water."

■ All persons 12 to 16 must complete a safe boating class to operate a motorized boat or be accompanied by someone at least

16 years old.

■ All boats, canoes and kayaks less than 16 feet must have either a wearable life jacket or throwable personal flotation device for each person aboard on Michigan inland waters only. If boating on the Great Lakes or connecting waters, Coast Guard rules require a wearable PFD for each person aboard regardless of the size of the boat.

Children less than 6 years old must wear PFDs at all times while aboard.

Rumberger excels in loss

BY MARTY BUDNER STAFF WRITER

Tiger Stadium is an historical ball park scheduled for demolition in a couple of years. And Ryan Rumberger, a senior from Plymouth Salem, carved out his own little piece of history inside the storied Stadium on Thursday.

Rumberger was a member of the East squad which lost, 2-1, to the West squad in the annual East/West All-Star Baseball Classic sponsored by the Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association. Rumberger, however, excelled in defeat.

Rumberger did not start, but entered the all-star clash in the fourth inning. He caught for three innings and batted three times without making an out. He blooped a base hit in his first at-bat, then stroked a pair of doubles to left center field in his next two trips.

Rumberger finished with three of the East squad's eight hits and was an easy choice for team MVP.

'It's really great that I was able to do this today," said Rumberger moments after accepting his MVP trophy in front of the visiting team's dugout inside Tiger Stadium. "It was fun playing at Tiger Stadium. This is a great place and I'm going to be disappointed when they tear it down.

"I was just happy to be here with all of these great players. I mean, anyone of us could have done it at this game," he said. "It was just the luck of the draw."

Rumberger credited the collegiate league he plays in at Hines Park for his strong performance against some of the state's top

"I play in a collegiate league where I play against all college pitchers and I think that helped me a lot coming back and playing against players my age," said Rumberger. "I think that helped a lot. My first hit was kind of a bleeder and my second hit fell in, but my last one I was really happy about.

Hustling: Plymouth Salem grad Ryan Rumberger didn't start Thursday's state all-star game, but he made the most of his time in the game. In his three at-bats, Rumberger got hits, including a pair of doubles.

"The coaches picked me to be on game up." the team and I just came out here trying to play as hard as I can and doing what I can to help the team the West squad erupted for its only win," he said. "We just couldn't get two runs in the bottom of the

EMU signs soccer stars from Canton, Salem

BY C.J. RISAK SPORTS EDITOR

The next step towards respectability for Eastern Michigan University's women's soccer team may have already been taken - and, when considering the long distances often involved in recruiting, this step was a comparatively short one.

Paul Scicluna, in his second full season as EMU's coach, released the names of 11 players he has commitments from for next fall. Four of them are from the Observer coverage

"I think we're on the way to respectability," said Scicluna, who guided the Eagles' secondyear program to a 10-9 record last season.

Two of his recruits are from Plymouth Canton HS: Emile Meier, a defender, and Jenny Parviainen, a forward. He has also signed Plymouth Salem's Jodi Coyle and Redford Thurston midfielder Kristah Manteuffel.

Will they be on the field come fall? "Absolutely," answered Scicluna. His past record backs that promise: He has just one player remaining from the group initially recruited by Chris Corteg just two years ago.

The two Observerland players expected to see the most playing time as freshmen are Manteuffel and Meier.

Manteuffel is "a complete soccer player," said Scicluna. "She's good in the air and good on the ground, and she distributes the ball

Manteuffel has been in the Olympic Development Program for six years, playing for the ODP regional team for the past year.

Meier is an outside defender who could be in the starting lineup. "I was thrilled when she picked me," said Scicluna. "She's got good speed and she's very quick, and her touch is good. I think she could step in and help us right away.' Meier is also an ODP player and an all-

Championship mold Spartan standouts lead team

Jim Kimble is no stranger to state championship games.

As a player at Livonia Stevenson, Kimble reached four finals (1982 through 1985), winning twice.

And after a four-year varsity career at Central Michigan University where he was a senior captain, Kimble returned to his alma mater to coach the boys and the girls teams.

He tasted the sweet victory last fall as an assistant with the Stevenson boys, and earlier this month he led the Stevenson girls to their fourth state championship in school history with a 1-0 victory over Brighton.

In just three years with the Lady Spartans,

Kimble is 51-5-4.

And for his efforts this season, with only three seniors, Kimble has been named Observerland Coach of the Year, his second honor in three years.

according to Scicluna.

Both Coyle and Parviainen are good enough players to see plenty of immediate action.

Coyle's versatility makes her a precious commodity. "She's played back, she's played midfield, and she played forward for my club team (Michigan Hawks)," said Scicluna.

"She's a coach's dream - she can plug any hole.

Coyle proved that this season, switching from midfield to help shore up a depleted defense. The move didn't hurt her status much: She still scored seven goals and had 15 assists, and was renamed to the all-WLAA team as a defender after making it in '96 as a midfielder.

"She's a good-sized athlete and she's very quick," said Scicluna. "She'll fill an outside spot for us. She won't play an hour-and-ahalf, but she'll help.

Parviainen, too, was an all-WLAA choice.

OUTDOOR NOTES

Return of the falcon

The only falcons hatched in the Detroit area in ecent history were in an auto plant when Ford Motor Co. built a car of that name in the 1960s.

But that's changing. The state Department of Natural Resources reports that nine peregrine falcons have successfully hatched in southeast

The DNR has banded eight of the falcon chicks in recent weeks. Three chicks hatched in late April at the Fisher Building and were banded on Four chicks hatched around May 15 at the Ameritech Building and were banded on June One chick hatched in mid-May at a private apartment at the Whittier and was banded on Biologists believe there's a fourth nesting site in Monroe that holds one or more chicks. The access to the site is obstructed. Ameritech named one of the chicks at the building "Lord Stanley Red Wings" in honor of the Detroit hockey team's Stanley Cup victory. "Southeast Michigan and Detroit in particular far exceed any expectations we ever had in reaching our peregrine recovery goal of 10 nesting pairs in Michigan by the year 2000," said Ray Rustem, supervisor of the DNR Wildlife Division Natural Heritage Program. "We are grateful for the support we have received to help hold successful." Peregrine falcons are an endangered species. They nest on cliffs and feed on other birds.

make these nests and the endangered birds they

"They've adapted well to the city," Rustem said. "It's easier living. The weather is better and there's a ready food source."

One source is pigeons. Peregrine falcons swoop down at speeds up to 200 miles and hour and pluck other birds from the air with their talons. This includes pigeons, which are seen by many as pests. However, the falcons won't kill enough to affect their numbers, said Rustem.

Another benefit to the reintroduction is that wildlife biologists can monitor what birds are migrating through the metro Detroit area by checking to see what the falcons are feeding on,

"The program is really a regional one," said Rustem. "Peregrine falcons travel around a lot."

A good number of birds have been released in the Detroit area, but they tend to wander, he said. Detroit birds have migrated to Canada, Pittsburgh and Milwaukee.

"Right now, we only have one native born bird and he lives at the Fisher Building," he said. The Natural Heritage Program, which funded the peregrine restoration program, gets its money from the state's Nongame Fish and Wildlife Fund.

That money comes from Michigan taxpayers who check off a box on their state tax return and donate to the program. The program is called "Look for the Loon," which is located next to the checkoff box.

Taxpayers annually donate about $600,000 to the program.

HARRISON

Last Sunday was Father's Day, and for the first time in necktie

What I did get were a couple of nice shirts which will be just fine for bowling and a book from my daughter, Debbie, who spends a lot of time browsing the bookstores. This book is titled "How to Talk Bowling" by Dawson

Taylor, published by Galahad

Books. Foreward is by Earl Anthony, and it is a rare combination of fact and humor, sprinkled here and there with some caricatures of many famous bowlers including our own Aleta Sill and Bob

The unique language of bowling is pretty wellexplained in the glossary of terms such as: "mother-in-law, messenger, reading the lanes, pull the rug, quick eight, etc." The explanations are pure and accurate, the accompanying caricatures are hilarious. There are many short capsule stories, about many of the famous bowlers past and present such as Don Carter, Earl Anthony, Andy Varipapa, Marion Ladewig, Mark Roth, Carmen Salvi-

I really enjoyed this book, thanks, Debbie. If you want to borrow it, the answer is "no," it will stay on top of my coffee table. The 94th American Bowling Congress National championships were recently competed at the Von Braun Civic Center in Huntsville, Ala., and the Dan Ottman Enterprises team with a 3379 score on March 14 held on to take first place, the 'Eagle" and $15,000 in prize money.

The 3,379 was the top score of 9,400 teams that participated.

The scorers were led by Chris Jones (722), Jay Lang (690), Tom Reaume (666), Kurt Pilon (658) and captain Dan Ottman (643).

Their 1,236 game was the high team game of the tournament and the fourth highest in the history of the event which dates back to 1901. Ottman, who lives in Troy, and co-founded the MJMA, was quite joyous when he heard the

"To say I am overwhelmed would be an understatement," he said. "To win an ABC Eagle is a career goal for anyone worth their salt. And to win it with people who I have bowled with and have coached along the way makes the feeling that much more special.

Ottman also enjoyed the distinction of being named to the GDBA All-City first team along with Vernon Peterson, Kevin Trumbull, Fred McClain and Mika Kolvunlemi.

Riding high on this wave is the sport of kayaking. Kayaking offers two variations that are equally popular and athletically rewarding.

Kayaking has existed for years and was developed by Eskimos for fishing and hunting, but in 1865 it emerged as a sport.

That's when John MacGregor built the first "kayak" and toured European rivers.

The modern kayak evolved in the 1950 with the invention of plastic. That material replaced the traditional boats made from wood and animal skin. Today, kayaks are usually made from roto-molded plastic.

The two variations of kayaking are referred to as sea kayaking and whitewater kayaking.

As their names suggest, sea kayaking is done the open water of lakes and oceans and white-

The combination of the breathtaking beauty of the outdoors kayaking offers is unparalleled. Kayaking, like other paddling sports, offers an intense cardiovascular workout and works the muscles of the back, shoulders. abdomen, and arms.

In particular the tricep muscles, in the arms, benefit from constant paddling.

Athletically speaking, the mind also receives an intense workout. It remains relatively free of sporting strategies and is available to relax.

Three items that run a close second are the helmet, PFD, and paddle.

The helmet is used to protect the head while kayaking rivers and doing rolls. It can also keep the head warm and protect you from the sun and insects

The PFD, or personal flotation device, is essential. It is illegal to be in a kayak without it.

Like the helmet, it can keep you warm and it also will protect you from the wind.

Thirdly, the paddle is important because it propels the boat able. and it can be used to flip over the boat should you capsize. It's and the intense workout that important the paddle be the right size for you.

ON THE RUN

Collegians rule in Plymouth Y

Area road races suddenly are going to get a lot more competitive this summer with the influx of college runners returning home from school.

The 18th annual Plymouth YMCA on Sunday was proof in the pudding.

A total of 947 registered for a series of races including 10-kilometer, 5K, one mile run/walk and children's races

Former Redford Catholic Central High standout Joe Leo, who was red-shirted this past year at Michigan State University, won the 5K with a time of 15 minues, 44 seconds. The former state Class A cross country champ averaged 5:04 per mile.

Leo was also sixth in the 10K (34:21). Livonia Stevenson High School senior-to-be Rob Block finished second in 16:02, an impressive time after spending the previous day mountain biking and running.

The women's 5K winner was Livonian Pat Bagley, 26, who clocked an 18:58 (averaging 6:06 er mile). Bagley, who ran collegiately at Eastern Michigan, spent the past two years coaching cross country and track at the University of Detroit Mercy. Westland's Lynn Boven was third in

In the women's 10K run, Stevenson High product Bridget MacKinnon, who just completed her junior season at DePaul University in Chicago, Ill., won the race in 38:34, bettering any 10,000-

The top three men's 10K finishers and overall winners finishers included Adam Unsworth of Bloomfield Hills (33:07), Terry Elsey (33:14) of Farmington Hills and Don Demetriades (33:38) of Ann Arbor.

The second place finisher in the Female 19-23 age-group was Canton's Kelly Holmes (47:27), who pitched Michigan to a Big Ten women's soft-ball title and a berth in the NCAA College World Series. She was also the school's top scholar-athlete award winner. Not a bad 10K time for first time out.

Area age-group winners in the 5K included Mary Maloney (Canton), Female 8-11 (25:23); Craig Little (Plymouth), Male 12-14 (19:57); Rachael Moraitis (Plymouth), Female 12-14 (22:22); Vanessa Bodnar (Plymouth), Female 15-18 (20:22); Chris Zimmer (Plymouth), Male 31-36 (19:40); Art Kitze (Garden City), Male 37-42 (16:27 and fourth overall); Larry Mishler (Plymouth), Male 56-60 (22:52); and John Paton (Ply-

Paul Aufdemberge of Novi took the overall title in 24:14, averaging 4:52 per mile. Keith Stopen (Farmington Hills) and Rich Stark (Ann Arbor) were second and third, respectively, in 24:38 and

Research grants

The American Cancer Society, custodian of the nation's largest privately funded cancer research program, has awarded $3,802,971 in research grants to Michigan research facilities. Twice a year, the ACS conducts a peer-to-peer grant process that awards research dollars to the most deserving projects, as determined by a non-biased panel of volunteer experts.

The organization annually grants more than $90 million, or roughly one-quarter of its budget, to cancer research. Nationally, there are nearly 700 grants in effect in 1997.

A total of 27 grants are in effect in Michigan in 1997 at the following institutions: the University of Michigan, $1,368,471; Michigan State University, $644,000; Wayne State University, $1,075,500; Henry Ford Hospital, $465,000; and the Karmanos Cancer Institute, $250,000. Some of these grants are in their second or third year of funding while others are new.

The ACS research program grants dollars to individual investigators at universities, research institutes, and hospitals throughout the country, not to internal staff researchers. Through a grant application process, projects are evaluated, ranked and funded based on merit as determined by a panel of experts.

"This is the beauty of the ACS research program – dollars are allocated to the projects that have the most potential for discovery and are most likely to contribute to solving the cancer problem," said Cal Morgan, vice president for the Southeast Region of the ACS.

According to Morgan, the ACS is able to fund only 8 to 10 percent of grants submitted for funding due to lack of dollars. The research program focuses on beginning researchers in the first eight years of their careers, earmarking 10 percent of its funding to high priority areas, and increasing its commitment to epidemiological research, psychological, behavioral, health care policy research and cancer prevention – areas not currently being emphasized by other cancer research funding

Cancer help

The local cancerdirectory recently launched a new online discussion and support group called Inspiration Point where visitors will be able to communicate with each other from around the world. The discussion group provides an excellent opportunity for people with similar experiences to talk with others and explore the many ways of dealing with the effects of living with cancer.

"Unless your life has been touched by cancer, it's very hard to understand the life-changing impact the disease can have on you and your loved ones," said Susan Thomas, president of cancerdirectory. "Inspiration Point provides a single gathering place for the global community of cancer patients, families and friends to share important information to help and encourage each other while living with cancer."

Visitors are able to respond to existing discussion categories or can easily begin a new topic of interest to them. The intent of the cancerdirectory discussion group is to be free form to allow visitors to structure their own questions.

Susan Thomas created cancerdirectory out of her own experiences with breast cancer. The information provided is divided into several sections, including products and services, hospitals and cancer care centers, community resources, Prayer Quilt, and Inspiration Point.

The E-mail address is info@cancerdirectory.com, the Web site address http://www.cancerdirectory.com, and the phone numbers (313) 259-7832 or 1-800-497-7005.

Knit caps

Florence Bushey, 86, has been knitting since she was a teen-ager and has made everything from afghans to sweaters, stocking caps and even women's suits. One day, her sister-in-law gave her a pattern for a cap for a newborn and a community service project was born.

Bushey spoke with a nun at her parish in New Boston, and the sister agreed to deliver the finished products to newborns in the Miracle of Life Maternity Hospital at St. Mary Hospital in Livo-

Bushey has knitted more than 200 caps to warm infants' heads in the new 20-bed maternity center that opened in March. She recently presented one of her creations to Brian and Trina McAllister of Superior Township for their son, Roarke William, born April 24.

"I always wondered if they fit," Bushey said.
"I'm so glad to see that they do!"

Hospital volunteers lend a hand

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI

hey can't take it to the bank, but volunteers at area hospitals say their reward provides different riches – an overwhelming feeling of satisfaction. It used to be a woman's role, but more men are taking on the challenge of going to work on a regular basis without a paycheck dangling in front of their noses.

Volunteers add the heart and soul to the brick and mortar and antiseptic hospital halls, according to the employees who work side-by-side with these selfless people. They pick up the slack in various capacities, sometimes holding a hand, retrieving a prescription, working in a gift shop, completing paperwork, transporting equipment and patients, among countless other tasks.

And how the patients love these smiling faces. An 85-year-old volunteer at Garden City Hospital works an average of six hours a day five days a week and is adamant about keeping her anonymity. Countless letters pour in from patients she works with recommending that she receive an award for her boundless energy and compassion.

She's the oldest of 256 volunteers; the youngest is 14 and collectively they've worked 31,069 hours. Consider that the national standard for volunteer work is about $12.50 hourly and that their contribution to area hospitals is worth millions of dollars. And then think about their contagious smiles and gifts of compassion that are priceless.

Volunteers vital

"Volunteers are an integral member of the department where they work," according to Sue Methner, Garden City Hospital director of volunteer services. "They're the extra set of helping hands when the departments are too busy. They allow us to guarantee that patients have the best care."

The number of male volunteers, about 20, has increased over the years. In fact, the volun■ Volunteers add the heart and soul to the brick and mortar and antiseptic hospital halls, according to the employees who work side-by-side with these selfless people.

teer with the most hours accumulated is Bob Fitzgerald, 70, of Westland, who works in the emergency room doing various jobs that he quietly refers as "gofer work" like, transporting patients, stocking shelves and delivering specimens. Fitzgerald has given the hospital 8,000 hours of his time and energy.

"I enjoy doing this," said Fitzgerald, who is retired from Blue Cross and Blue Shield. "A lot of people have a lot less hours, but in my judgment contribute a lot more. They work in areas like rehab and oncology where I wouldn't feel comfortable and those are the ones who really deserve the credit and recognition. I have no medical training so everyday is a new experience. It's interesting. They treat you very well down here from the doctors on down. They recognize the contribution that volunteers

Every volunteer comes to the job for personal reasons including some who earn high school and college credits. "Many times after the hours are satisfied they stay on because they see a need and they enjoy it," Methner said, adding that it's rewarding to watch a young person volunteer at the hospital and go onto become a nurse, doctor or other medical professional.

"It's incredible how good you feel to be a little bit a part of it."

At Botsford General Hospital, volunteers worked 101,757 hours in 90 different jobs last year, which was up from 96,070 hours in 1995. Of the 480 volunteers from 14 to 88 years old, 85 are men. There are 24 couples.

Hamrick, a 17 Canton High got volunteeri recovery room doctor one da hired to work room this summer.

"It's traditionally a woman's job to do volunteer work," said Adele Emmer, Botsford director of volunteer services. "Many more men come in now.

"Botsford General Hospital is known for providing tender loving care and you're looking at the people who help make that true," Emmer said, extending her arms toward a small group of volunteers including Jack Stein, a Novi resident, who was retired when he decided to return to the work force at Botsford.

"I figured I better get off my back and get out," said Stein, who works six-hour shifts two days a week. He has accumulated 3,645 hours in four years.

The volunteers in the hospital gift shop not only give of their time, but the proceeds from their sales go back to the hospital. In fact, the Botsford Hospital Guild has pledged a whopping $1 million to the hospital and has already paid $600,000.

Shop manager, Evelyn Campbell has worked an incredible 14,815 hours in 19 years as a volunteer. Retired from General Motors, Campbell sums up the motivation of many volunteers: "What do these hours do for me? They make me tired."

She winked and continued: "It's fulfilling. There's a satisfaction that you're helping."

Making a difference

Doris Gaiser, an American Red Cross volunteer at Botsford, has been donating her energies to the hospital for 20 years. Most of us don't stay at a paying job that long. Her motivation is a sense of fulfillment knowing that she's making a difference in someone else's life.

"And you're making new friends and keeping old friends," she said. "It's a good feeling."

It's the same feeling Julie

Hamrick, a 17-year-old Plymouth Canton High School graduate, got volunteering in the hospital recovery room. Planning to be a doctor one day, Hamrick was hired to work in the recovery room this summer.

"I plan to go into medicine and this is a great experience," she said, adding that volunteer work gave her a behind-the-scenes view of what goes on and opportunities to talk to the professionals in the field.

"Every time I come in I learn something."

Many college students also volunteer at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, according to Sherri Fletcher, director of volunteer services and fund-raising.

"One of the greatest changes we've seen is more men are volunteering and there's a nice mix of retired and young people," she said. "Men are realizing that they are important to the comfort and support of patients. People are feeling more community-spirited and are more concerned for their fellow man than we've seen in the past. Another reason men seem to volunteer more is that I think they are retiring younger and they want to remain in the working mode."

St. Mary has 10 husband-andwife teams included in the 260 some volunteers from area communities who range in age from 18 to their mid-80s. Of that total, 27 are men. A decade ago, Fletcher said, there were two male volunteers.

One man comes to St. Mary eight hours a day five days a week. Another man has accumulated 9,400 service hours.

"Volunteers offer not only support to the patients, but to staff in that they don't have time constraints and that allows staff to provide even greater quality of care," Fletcher said. "St. Mary Hospital is a very customer service-oriented hospital and volunteers are an extension of our awareness of how important customer service is. All volunteers have such a wealth of experience behind them."

Safety essential for kids on summer vacation

With summer here, more children will be playing outdoors, on playgrounds and around the neighborhood. But are they safe?

Maybe not. Unintentional injuries are the leading killer of kids. More children ages 1-14 die from unintentional injuries each year than from all childhood diseases combined.

Each year, approximately 7,200 children age

14 and younger are killed and 50,000 are permanently disabled. This year alone, one child in four – nearly 13 million kids – will be injured seriously enough to require medical attention.

"Keeping kids safe for summer can be achieved by following some simple guidelines and just being an aware parent," said Dr. Jay E. Berkelhamer, M.D., chairman of the Department of Pédiatrics at Henry Ford Health System.

"As a physician, I've seen, more times than I can count, children coming in with injuries that could have easily been prevented," he added.

Berkelhamer offers the following advice for keeping children safe this summer:

Car safety – Make sure your kids are safe inside and outside of cars. Buckle all children up to age 4 in a properly installed child safety seat. Children age 4 and older should always wear a seat belt. Children age 12 and younger should ride in the back seat.

■ Bicycle riding – All children should wear protective gear while riding a bike, including helmets and elbow and knee pads. Make sure proper reflective devices are installed on bikes and teach your children always to use crosswalks and to look both ways when crossing the street. Never let your children ride bikes at night.

■ Inline skating – Because kids are traveling at high rates of speed while skating, one slip can lead to serious injuries. All children should wear helmets and elbow and knee pads every time they put on their skates. Never allow kids to skate in the street or after dark.

Swimming – Drowning is the third leading cause of accidental death among children. Be sure to watch your children while they swim or secure adult supervision before your child goes swimming. Insist on life preservers for all children if you plan to go besting.

dren if you plan to go boating.

Sunburn – Children's skin can burn quickly if it's not protected by sunscreen. Kids also can dehydrate from too much sun. Use at least SPF 30 on your children and reapply it throughout the day, especially after swimming. Never expose infants to direct sunlight and protect them even in the shade with sunscreen and proper clothing.

■ Gun safety – Unfortunately, too many children are exposed to guns and gun violence. If you have a gun in your home, make sure it is kept unloaded and locked away. Lock and store bullets in a separate location. Also, make sure your kids know the danger surrounding guns.

Parents and kids can work together, Berkelhamer said, to serve as reminders to each other about summer safety.

"If parents educate other parents and neighborhoods get together to look out for our kids, our summers will be safer and our children will be safer," he said.

attending auctions; sometimes to bid, often just to watch.

Increasingly, silent auctions and loud auctions are popular attractions at fund-raising events for charities.

So onliners may be interested in Hobby Markets Online, a forum for Internet collectibles trading, auctions and news that does an average of four auctions a day. The company has closed more than 500 auctions in the last year and regularly receives bids from more than 40 coun-

Hobby Markets Online at http://hubbardhobbymarkets.com/ manages independent sites catering to collectors of coins, stamps and sports memorabilia.

"Internet auctions appeal to collectors because they exist in real time, are easy to participate in and are completely non-threatening for non-techies," said Jonathan Hubbard, president of Hobby Markets Online and a long-time avid coin collector. "Dealers love the service because the Internet offers them immediate global distribution with extremely low overhead and high cash flow."

Dealers register their products with

A lot of people enjoy Hobby Markets Online which displays them in its online catalogs. Prospective buyers browse the auctions and place bids via E-mail. Each time a new high bid is received the catalog is updated and the previous high bidder is notified > via E-mail. Hobby Markets Online's SmartBid system reduces winning bids to 5 percent over the previous high bid, thereby preventing collectors from unnecessarioverbidding.

Combining print with pixel and expanding content with E-mail, a new book format extends the power of the book beyond the boundaries of the printed page according to co-author Robin Lind.

The WebPointers Internet Guide is now out with a 278-page printed edition, an identical electronic edition with more than 4,000 links, and an E-mail edition delivering three new "narrative excursions" weekly

I have not read the book but interested persons can find out more by pointing to www.webpointers.com.

"If you are bright, educated, interested in the World Wide Web and value your time, this book is for you," says Lind. "Our guide is written for new users. We've invested our time so you don't have to waste yours.'

Lind says the electronic edition has the largest number of active hyperlinks yet assembled in a single book. It is published in Adobe Systems' Portable Document Format (PDF) which is compatible with both Macintosh and PCs.

The WebPointers Internet Guide is written by award-winning journalists Kitty Williams and Lind under the byline catbirdwebpointers.com. Hope Springs Press also syndicates the Web-Pointers columns to newspapers throughout the United States.

WebPointers excursions focus on specific themes and explore multiple Web sites. The narratives are jargonstripped and designed to make complex subjects easy to understand.

"The Internet increasingly suffers from data-smog," says Williams. "The challenge is to find not just what's new, but what's useful.'

The interactive edition also addresses one of the recurring complaints about broken or abandoned links to Web sites. Everyone who has tried the Web knows firsthand the frustrations of link-rot," says Williams.

■ Hobby Markets Online . . . manages independent sites catering to collectors of coins, stamps and sports memora-

"Both print and CD-ROM are fixed media," says Lind. "As soon as a page is printed or a disk is pressed the data ecomes stationary. The value of the information begins to deteriorate. Offering a PDF edition on the Web allows us to monitor Web sites and update changes on a monthly basis.

The decision to publish an electronic edition in PDF format as a companion to print, rather than a replacement, strengthens the book, Lind says.

"Add the immediacy of E-mail updates on a weekly basis," Lind says, and the sum is immeasurably more powerful than its parts."

While Pyrkosz's drive and determination were the impetus for his higher education, his scholarship paved the road, allowing him to focus on the tasks at hand and clear the obstacles typical college students face, as well as those brought about by his disability.

"Communication is one of the most difficult tasks I face," Pyrkosz said. "Convincing my teachers and my parents that I could handle the task of social work was a major obstacle because of my speech. But I have proven to them, and myself, that I can handle it.

Procedure helps in breast cancer fight

cal Center-Dearborn has announced a new procedure for the early detection of breast cancer. The Department of Radiology in collaboration with the Breast Cancer Multidisciplinary Program of the Cancer Center of Excellence now offers the mammographic stereotactic biopsy system.

The mammographic stereotactic biopsy system is used to help determine if an abnormal mammogram finding is a benign or malignant process. It is an alternative to the surgical method of an excisional open

"We are so pleased to be able to offer our patients and physicians the option of mammographic stereotactic biopsy system," said Dr. Sharon Helmer, M.D., Radiology Residency Program and Ultrasound Subspecialty director. "We have learned through our experience that these procedures are amazingly well-tolerated by patients. They appreciate the quickness and ease of the procedure and the absence of unsightly scars."

The sophisticated procedure allows Oakwood's radiologists to locate and obtain a small sample of tissue in a less invasive manner. The procedure is performed when a lesion is found on a mammogram in which further investigation is warranted. After the consultation by the radiologist and surgeons, a state-of-the-art digital imaging system is used to locate the lesion when indicattissue sample is obtained. Stereotactic biopsies require only local anesthetics, are done on an outpatient basis, and take approximately one hour.

"Most biopsies are benign. But if cancer is diagnosed, consultation with the Breast Cancer Multidisciplinary Team may occur. And stereotactic biopsy at Oakwood Hospital and Medical Center will maintain our leadership position in the community for the detection and treatment of breast cancer," said Dr. Thomas Siegel, M.D., physician leader of the Breast Cancer Multidisciplinary Team.

The biopsy system has been funded partially with generous contributions from the Oakwood Healthcare System's Women's Healthcare Classic, Drs. Harris, Birkhill, Wang, Songe and Associates, Imation Medical Imaging, Oakwood Hospital Medical Center-Dear-

NEW HOMES SUNDAY, JUNE 22, 1997 Scenic Woods offers solitude, easy access

Just four detached condominiums are available at Scenic Woods in Bloomfield Hills, but what a place if you happen to be one of the four purchasers. Trees tower upwards of 60 feet. Calling birds break the stillness during a recent visit. The soft earth yields fresh deer tracks.

"It's a gorgeous site," said Martin George, the builder. "You get back here, it's just quiet and peaceful.'

This is sort of an isolated property, one of the last leftover pieces in Bloomfield Hills that can take a cluster development," said Victor Saroki, AIA. whose Birmingham architectural firm designed the condos.

Lois Casey, a Realtor with Hall & Hunter and sales rep for Scenic Woods, described the major attractions of the property as "seclusion, peace and tranquility."

As you might expect, a Bloomfield Hills address just west of Woodward north of Long Lake Road with beautiful surroundings commands a hefty price. Figure on paying at least $1.3 million.

But, then, again, these aren't your typical 2,500-square-foot colonials.

The basic plan calls for three individual bedroom suites one on the main floor, two upstairs; a side-entry, three-car garage; covered front and rear porches; first-floor laundry; three fireplaces; air conditioning; and basement.

The main living area features a library, living room, dining room and kitchen/ nook with island. Appliances include refrigerator, microwave, cooktop, oven and dishwasher.

There's a lot of axes (lines) to go through," Saroki said. "There's a lot of balance and symmetry." "Modifications can be made internally," he added. "If someone wants to move some walls, change details, we can do that." These are spacious condominiums with about 4,500 square feet of living space. But the real beauty is in the

The roof is cedar shake, the exterior cedar siding and brick. The porches and steps can be pavers or stone. Unique space formation in upstairs bedrooms results from creative design utilizing the roof line.

We do a lot of higher-end houses," Saroki said. "We know the amenity level we try to accomplish."

"There's a lot of detail crown molding, custom closets, built-in cabinetry, fireplace surrounds," said Amanda Stephens, project architect. There's wood paneling in the library specific to this house, but that's the kind of detail available to all homes.

Eight-foot-high mahogany doors are standard.

One of the four units has sold. The buyer requested

"The site, itself, is beautiful," he said. "We live out here. It's convenient to shopping, restaurants, work. I've got 10 minutes to my office in Troy.

The initial buyer in Scenic Woods has opted for nearly $450,000 worth of upgrades including a wine cellar and an exercise room/spa in the lower

> "The idea of condo living appeals to a lot of people," Saroki said. "They don't want, want to travel. They want to be more free."

Scenic Woods is serviced by city water and city sewers. Because it's so small, there won't be sidewalks. The condos are within the Bloomfield Hills school district boundaries.

The property tax rate currently is $32.70 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $1.3 million condo there would pay about $21,500 the first year. An association fee of $350 per month is projected.

If you're looking for real estate tied in with all the amenities of a golf club without traveling up north, then explore nearby Prestwick Village, located five miles east of the U.S. 23/M-59 interchange in Oakland County.

Prestwick Village, designed by award-winning architect Ron Garl, includes an 18-hole championship golf course, a 360-degree driving range, a nine-hole putting course and a one-acre putting green.

The 18-hole championship course was designed to give golfers a flavor of three different areas of the country.

"Seven holes resemble what you'd find up in northern Michigan, lined with mature trees," Prestwick developer Roy Gaddey said. "Six holes are Florida style, with lots of water. And the remaining five holes are like North Carolina holes, dotted with waste bunkers, including one 500 yards long."

Each hole has four sets of tees to accommodate that each golfer is challenged sufficiently.

(NAPS) - A green, healthy that little white pests - grubs lawn can be the envy of every homeowner who takes time to care for it.

The number one problem plaguing healthy lawns is pests. Perhaps the number one culprit is white grubs. In the spring, the lawn appears to be healthy, but later in the season sections may turn brown and die. A peek under the afflicted turf reveals

To prevent the problem, try a new product for consumers, Merit Insecticide, developed and manufactured by the Bayer Corporation. It is not only effective and easy to use, but also has low use rates and requires only one application during the season.

Make the summer heat a breeze

Don't get left out in the heat during the dog days of summer. There are dozens of ways to keep rising temperatures at bay now, without creating a strain on your checkbook.

Options include either cooling a particular area or the whole house. For homes that already have air conditioning, fans can make cooling systems more efficient and less costly to run.

"This is the time of year when customers want to know the most economical way to cool off their home and keep their electric bills down at the same time," said Home Depot Store Manager Randall Calvin. "There are a number of products that the doit-yourselfer can install that will make a noticeable difference in both house temperature and air conditioning costs.

Following are ways to help you beat the heat this summer.

Ceiling fans

Good for individual rooms and small homes, ceiling fans efficiently circulate air by keeping a constant stream of cold air blowing toward the floor. They are simple to install and are useful during both the summer and winter months.

Most models have switches to reverse the direction of the fan blades so air can be blown up or down. As a general rule, the blades should turn clockwise during the summer and counterclockwise during the winter. The counterclockwise tum pitches the blades up so the fan will suck the colder air toward the ceiling.

Ceiling fans may be used alone or can be added to enhance a home's existing cooling system. When used with an air conditioner, the breeze circulates the cold air more evenly about a house, making the air conditioner more efficient. Moving air is also easier to cool, making the existing cooling system less costly to use

"Ceiling fans blend in with the decor in any room," Calvin said, adding that they are known to increase a home's marketability.

Circulating fans

Also known as high-velocity fans, circulating fans work well in smaller homes. These fans come in different sizes and have stands so they can be placed anywhere and pitched at any angle for a variety of functions. Versatility makes circulating fans a popular option.

The fan can be placed in front of a basement door, for example, to remove hot air. Or, if located strategically in a hallway, it can move air throughout an entire

Since the fan can be pitched at different angles on its stand, it can be used as a whole house fan. It can be placed in a window, facing out, to blow hot air out of a house. On cool nights, if all other house windows are cracked, it can cool the entire house, creating a comfortable breeze in any room

Another bonus is that a highvelocity fan keeps the air conditioner from working overtime on very hot days.

Whole-house fans

Whole-house fans are installed in the ceiling with the motor concealed in the attic. A permanent fixture, these fans generally are not used with air conditioners since they pull cool air into a house through windows and push hot air out through attic

These fans will effectively cool an entire home, large or small, creating a nice draft throughout the house when the windows are opened slightly.

Attic fans

These fans suck hot air out of the attic, which often has a cushion of hot air built up, insulating the house. The fans eliminate that cushion, allowing a house to be insulated instead by a layer of cooler air, which helps air conditioners keep the house cool.

Dozens of attic fans are available to suit any home, including fans with electric and manual thermostats, and fans for mount-ing on attic gables or on the roof. Roof ventilators generally perform the same function as attic fans. A thermostatically controlled, electrically powered roof ventilator can make a big difference in the temperature of a home as well as in air conditioning costs.

Air conditioners

A broad range of windowmounted air conditioners can be bought for small and large

The smallest unit, 5,000 Btu, is generally used to cool individual rooms and can adequately cool up to 150 square feet, an average-size bedroom. The largest unit, 24,000 Btu, can cool homes of up to 1,600 square feet.

The most important factor in deciding what size air conditioner to buy depends on how many square feet it has to cool.

Calvin also suggests air conditioners be paired with ceiling or circulating fans, since they will make any window unit cool a

Seal your deck to keep it looking great

This is the time of year when you want to invite friends over, fire up the grill and spend the day lounging on the deck. But if you want to keep it looking good and safe to walk on, it's important to treat your deck annually with a sealer-preservative.

Year-around alternating rain and baking sun can wreak havoc on decks, drying out the wood and making it susceptible to water retention and rot. In damp climates, it can develop a mossy patina, which can be removed by scrubbing the deck surface with a mild bleach solution,

A weathered deck can be restored to its original wood color with a deck-brightening solution, which is available at home improvement stores. Before applying a preservative, take time to replace nails and smooth splintered boards, cautions Bob Leidberg of The Home

ditions suggests modi-

Poor growth often is a clue to fertilizer problems. Experts can look at a struggling plant and suggest what is probably wrong. Experience and careful record-keeping help gardeners do the same.

In general, the faster a plant grows the more fertilizer you can apply. But there are exceptions. Take nitrogen. It stimulates leafy growth. While that's desirable for lettuce, it can delay fruiting, not so desirable for tomatoes. Micronutrients can have toxic effects; soil salts are another possibility from too much fertilizer.

Since computers are second nature in writing, I moved my plant records into a database years ago. Now on the first of each month I print out a scratch-paper list of things to fertilize, how much of what type fertilizer was applied last time and possible changes. After the routine is followed and changes noted in the computer, the paper is discarded.

This may sound odd where killing frost is possible, but February is the prime month for most fertilizing in the subtropical, desert Southwest.

So my February list includes nearly every landscape plant. It says, for example, scatter five pounds of ammonium sulfate (which contains 21 percent nitrogen) under all mature citrus trees except grapefruit, which get half that.

In May, the printout will say to apply half the February amount. August's amount, the final one of the year, also is half of February's Roses in February get two ounces of a systemic fertilizer; the bird of paradise (Strelitza) two cups of bonemeal, and desert shrubs and trees two ounces of ammonium sulfate.

Bags of the various fertilizers are loaded into a wheelbarrow and rolled to each plant in the landscape for the recommended application. If a plant is not on the list, it gets none. But if this raises a doubt, the database is rechecked. While such a system may seem too elaborate, it insures that each month each plant gets considered for fertilization.

Certain basics ease the learning curve on how much fertilizer to apply. Of the more than 100 chemical elements, only 16 are known to be essential to plants. Plants take oxygen, hydrogen and carbon primarily from air or water. The remainder are absorbed mainly by plant roots.

The so-called primary nutrients are nitrogen, potassium and phosphorus, often referred to as N-P-K and by law the first three numbers on a package of fertilizer. In a 10-6-4 formulation, for example, the first number indicates the percentage of nitrogen (N); the second, percentage of phosphorus (P), and the third, percentage of potassium (K).

The secondary nutrients are sulfur, magnesium and calcium. The micronutrients – iron, zinc, copper, manganese, molybdenum, boron and chlorine – often are referred to as trace elements since they are needed in small amounts.

While future research may show other elements are required, concentrate on the known 16 and understand that, regardless of the amount needed, all are critical to plant growth. Also remember that too much may be toxic.

Another basic is not to fertilize a struggling plant, since it is having enough trouble without the added pressure of new growth.

It also is important to know as much as possible about your soil and the fertilization needs of your plants. The Cooperative Extension Service or university agricultural schools will have specific recommendations for your area or state.

In Arizona's desert, nitrogen is usually the only deficient element. However, annuals (vegetables and flowers) often benefit from some phosphorus. Some potassium may be worthwhile in sandy soils. Sulfur often is applied to improve the physical and fertility condition of the soil by lowering the pH; just the opposite of much of the United States, where lime is needed to raise the pH.

States, where lime is needed to raise the pH.

And there is never enough organic matter in the local soil. So it is added whenever possible, such as when spading a garden or planting a tree or shrub.

While the question of organic versus chemical fertilizer is complex, excellent results are possible with either, although many advocates will disagree. Soil scientists say the nutrient form absorbed by roots is identical and plants can't tell the difference.

Convenience in handling is the major advantage of chemical fertilizers. In most cases, slow-release types multiply this advantage. But organics improve the soil's tilth and water- and nutrient-holding capacity; they have been the method of choice through much of horticulture history.

James Walters worked for the AP as a reporter and editor from 1947 until he retired in 1984.

Tips and facts on hydroponic plants

Hydroponics is a system of growing plants in porous clay pebbles, fertilizer and water, instead of soil. House plants grown in this manner should only be placed indoors and out of direct sunlight.

Hydroponic plant cultivation dates back to the Hanging Gardens of Babylon and most of the world's rice crops have always been grown this way In Germany, 50 percent of the house plants are rooted in hydroponics.

There are six components to a hydroponic system:

• Exterior water pot

Water gaugeClay pebbles

• Fertilizer

• Plants

Hydroponic plants

Hydroponic plants are perfect for travelers, according to Burnie Hughes, a gardening expert with The Home Depot. By filling the water gauge to the maximum level, the water supply will last up to four weeks, eliminating the guesswork of watering too much or too little.

Many commercial growers use hydroponic systems for vegetable and herb growing, and commercial interior professionals have found hydroponics to be an efficient and time-saving way of maintaining plants. Hydroponics is an attractive option since the time between watering is lengthened and replacement plants are rarely needed because soil-borne diseases should not afflict the plants.

Fertilizing is an essential part of the hydroponic system. Most hydroponicsraised plants require fertilizer every three to four months, with normal watering every two to four weeks.

Benefits of hydroponics

• Elimination of soil-borne pests, disease and weeds.

 The reduction of toxic chemicals and pesticide control.

Less root growth and increased top growth.

• Different species of plants may be grown together in one container.

 A refreshed growing system touched only by water and fertilizer.

Thinning is not losing weight in your garden

Plant lovers have something in com- mon with computer lovers; each group has its specialized jargon, not readily understandable to those outside the field. Just as "bytes" and "booting a disc" have nothing to do about using your mouth or kicking a record in the world of computing, "thinning" has nothing to do with losing weight in the world of gardening.

So, an explanation of gardening terms is in order.
"Thinning" is the removal of

"Thinning" is the removal of excess plants. When you sprinkle carrot seeds along a furrow in the garden, or press three cucumber seeds into the soil in one pot, you are taking out insurance. You really want only one carrot every inch and one cucumber plant in each pot. So once your insurance policy has paid off and many more seedlings come up than should mature, you have to start thinning. Ideally, thin late in the day and just before a rainfall or watering, so that the remaining plants have time to recover from any root damage that occurred as their neighbors were wrenched from the soil.

Juxury is Attainable

When you are directed to plant cucumbers in "hills," no mounding of soil is implied.

A hill is a grouping of plants, a cluster. Certain vegetables, such as cucumbers and squash, are easier to manage if planted in hills from which the trailing vines can radiate.

A "stand" of plants is a

A "stand" of plants is a group of plants, which might be a row or a hill. If all your seeds sprouted, and the seedlings look sturdy, brag about your "good stand"

about your "good stand."

At this time of year, most plants have been removed from their "flats" and planted out in the garden. A flat is a shallow box, with holes for drainage, in which seedlings are started before they are planted outdoors. In contrast to "hill," "flat" seems like a reasonable term, since a flat is flatter than it is tall.

"Pinching" means just that, almost. The dictionary says that to pinch is "to squeeze between the finger and thumb," but we pinch in the garden to remove the tips of plant shoots, so "nipping" might be a more accurate term. Fingernails come in handy here. Pinching makes plants bushier.

Seedlings raised in flats in sunny windows and greenhouses are too coddled to face the world outdoors without being "hardened off." Harden off seedlings by gradually exposing them to increasing sun, wind, cool temperatures and even a little drying. After a week or two of treatment, the oncetender seedlings are tough enough for a permanent home out in the garden, exposed to the whims of nature.

"To cultivate" has two meanings. Cultivate means to care for plants. However, when the directions on a seed packet tell you to cultivate weekly, you are being in and rough up the top inch or so of soil. English gardening books use the phrase "stir the soil." The purpose is to uproot small weeds and loosen the surface so rain seeps in more readily.

By now, seedlings in "flats" were "hardened off" and planted in the garden, in "hills," perhaps. As delicate seedlings from seeds sown directly in the garden prove themselves sturdy, "thin" the "stand" to correct spacing. Good times to "stir the soil" are mernings and following rains.

Herbs are a great way to spice up your annual flower beds and at the same time add a little zing to your cooking this summer. They also can serve as a wonderful lesson for children who to want to help in the garden.

How to begin

For herb transplants, Home Depot gardening expert Phillip Zealy recommends you dig a hole twice the size of the root ball for each plant. If the soil is compact, add Nature's Helper to loosen the dirt and improve drainage. Explain to the children how to gently squeeze the tray to remove the transplants and to carefully squeeze the roots to

After they're planted, fertilize once with composted manure, explaining that organic matter is natural: it comes from plants and animals. Herbs won't need more than one fertilization in the summer because they are light feeders" and require little maintenance.

Explain that plants need three important nutrients: nitrogen, phosphorous and potassium. Nitrogen is what makes the plant green and helps it grow. Phosphorus is for strong roots. Potassium works to resist disease and strengthen the plant.

It will be necessary to mulch, thin and weed from time to time. He recommends these herbs:

Spicy globe basil is a cute green mounded basil with tiny leaves. It grows naturally into a mound and makes a great border plant. This popular annual should be pinched back. Used fresh or dried, it has a spicy, mild pepper flavor and works well with tomato sauce, fish, pasta and rice. It also blends with zucchini, squash, potatoes and car-

Chives need a dormant period to send out leaves in the spring. It has a sweet, mild onion taste and blends well with onions, potatoes, artichokes, asparagus, cauliflower, corn, tomatoes, peas, carrots, spinach, poultry, fish, veal, creamy sauces, cheeses and

Coriander is a rapidly-grow-ing annual with a strong sage and sharp citrus flavor. The leaves, also known as cilantro, have a sharp flavor and serve well with onions, sausage, clams, oysters and potatoes. The seeds can be added to dressings, cheese, chili sauce and is a great addition to guacamole and salsa. Dill should be protected from wind because of its feathery foliage. It has beautiful clusters of yellow flowers and flavorful leaves and grows to about three feet in height. Its sharp, slightly bitter taste makes it an excellent addition to fish, pork, poultry and just about any vegetable.

Oregano should be pinched back to promote bushy leaves. It has a hot peppery flavor and enhances cheese and egg dishes and blends well with marinated vegetables, roasted bell peppers, mushrooms, beef, poultry, black beans, zucchini and potatoes.

Parsley has been used by chefs for years to spice up foods and add green to platters. It can serve as an excellent boarder for your garden. Its unique flavor blends well with other foods, except sweets, and can be added at the last moment of cooking in sauces, grilled meats and poultry. It also is the prime ingredient of salsa verde Pennyroyal mint is a hardy and fast-growing perennial. It has a strong peppermint flavor and scent and can be used in moderation to flavor teas, jelly, desserts, ice cream, chocolate and cheese cake.

Rosemary is slow-growing but is very hardy and will come back year after year. It has a mint-like, sweet and slight ginger flavor and is great with just about anything. It also combines well with herbs like chives; thyme and parsley.

Sage also is hardy and will return every year. Its fresh leaves are used in salads, omelets, soups and breads, rolls, sausages and poultry stuffings. It cooks well with most meats and vegetables.

Thyme has a faint clover flavor and blends well with most meats and vegetables.

Behind every car's sticker price, there's an even stickier price.

Just as important as a car's sticker price is the price you pay for things like gas, insurance, repairs and maintenance. Each year IntelliChoice analyzes virtually every car out there and totals just that - the real cost of owning a car. After comparing Saturns with other cars in their classes, we're happy to report, they named each model a "Best Overall Value of the Year." SATURN

[$11,925] That's the ALS.R.P. of this 1997 Saturn SL. including AC, retailer prep and transportation. Of course, total cost will vary seeing bow other options and state-required equipment are extra, as are things like tax and license. Fach retailer sets its own price, which may differ from the price above. @1997 Saturn Corporation.

Mistakes made when juggling multiple job offers

By Sheryl Silver, Career Source

There's no denying it. In the world of information technology (IT), it's an applicant's market. Ask employers who are using every possible resource to recruit the IT talent they need. Ask recruiters, who although thrilled with the strength of their businesses, are frustrated at the shortage of qualified candidates available to fill their clients' openings. IT professionals with in-demand technical skills are in high demand and short supply, a circumstance which has made multiple job

Although an enviable situation, choosing from multiple job offers can also be challenging. And today, say employers and recruiters, many job hunters are being blinded by the money they're being offered, and making less than optimal job choices as a result.

Faster Isn't Always Better

"Frenetic" is the word many recruiters and employers use to characterize the pace of IT hiring today. Aware that qualified candidates can easily command multiple job offers from a handful of interviews, employers have accelerated their normal interview and assessment process to avoid losing top IT candidates to other organizations. "It's the 'Tickle me Elmo' syndrome," says Carlos Echalar, employment manager for Booz, Allen & Hamilton, Inc. in move quickly or they'll be left without top tal-

Caught up in the momentum and eager to take advantage of the lucrative offers coming their way, many candidates are making quick decisions, then finding themselves disappointed when the jobs they've accepted haven't measured up to their expectations, say

According to Peter Kennedy, president of the Kensington, MD IT recruiting firm BetaTech, Inc., candidates "get excited about the leading edge project or development work that was mentioned during an interview and forget the fact that they were told they might initially be doing several months of maintenance on an existing system." This "selective listening phenomenon," notes Kennedy, is particularly common when candidates are offered more money then they've ever earned before.

To avoid being disappointed with their choices, Kennedy suggests, "Before accepting a job, candidates should ask for a review of what they'll be doing in the first three to six

Paul Siker, a principal with The Guild Corporation, an IT recruiting firm in Northern Virginia, agrees and even recommends getting the details in writing. "I had one individual get it in writing," he recalls.

McLean, VA. "Employers feel they have to "He was going into a transition situation that the candidate's decision. involved maintenance for a period of time and then he was to move into new development

Highest Offer Not Always Best

Related to this "rush to judgement" phenomenon has been a tendency by many IT professionals to choose the offer with the highest salary, simply because it has the highest salary. Although recruiters and employers say they understand the desire of candidates to get the most money they can, they advise against focusing too exclusively on money. "I'm not going to say people shouldn't take the money being offered," says Scott Albrecht, manager of recruiting and staffing for the Integrated Engineering Division of TRW, in Fairfax, VA. "However, they need to look at the total offer: base pay, bonuses, time off, benefits, work environment, work location and future opportunities."

Albrecht, who says TRW "pays competitive to the market," cautions that the highest offer may not be the best one. "By focusing solely on money, candidates are forgetting a large piece of the total job," he says. "They need to look carefully at what the position or the organization will do for them. Job satisfaction, work environment and professional development should all play a major role in

To achieve optimal career benefits, Albrecht suggests candidates ask several questions when comparing offers. What is the total compensation being offered? Are you being hired for just one contract or are you looking at an organization that has a track record of providing career development opportunities for IT professionals? Where will you be in five years? How will you have added to your skill set? How marketable will you be?

"Too many candidates today are forgetting to ask these key questions," asserts Albrecht. "They're not looking at expanding their professional tool box. They're only looking at expanding their wallets."

Besides being shortsighted when it comes to future marketability, Albrecht says making money your top priority can have a high cost when it comes to job satisfaction. "Candidates aren't asking that fundamental question, Will I be happy when I wake up each morning?" he contends. "They have to ask themselves, What really motivates me? Is it the work? Is it the money?" ... No matter how many nice things a big paycheck can buy, it can't buy them job satisfaction."

A Swedish Sojourn of Saunas, Salmon and a Summer Cruise

By Jane Lasky, Chronicle Features

Last year, business took me to Stockholm. It turns out negotiations only lasted two short days - long ones, actually, as I was visiting during the height of summer when the sun barely sets. Still, I was there so briefly that it was not nearly enough time to adjust to a new time zone, let alone get to know the lay of Generally, when visiting major cities, if I can make the time, I like to plan an enticing side trip. Other times, I prefer to just kick back and regroup.

On this particular Swedish journey, I made a great discovery: a cruise that offered both a great adventure and a way to relax.

This unconventional excursion was on the Swedish Islander, a small (49-passenger) sea vessel. Since I generally worry about cabin fever only on overnight sea travel, I happily boarded this ship where the only sleeping going on, if any, was below deck during the day in one of the two on-board nap-

Instead of staying the night, passengers were sent ashore to try out a different historical hotel every night. We stayed at the waterfront Grand Hotel in Saltsjobaden and the intimate Gripsholm Inn and Hotel, the latter a 300-year old former monastery. This "Impressions of a Swedish Summer" excursion, offered by the New York-based Special Expeditions takes passengers through sections of an archipelago of more than 24,000 islands for seven days.

My most memorable experience took place on an island reserve. On this day some of us hiked, others took a smaller, motorized boat to a nearby island, a few biked and a pair went kayaking. The caretaker of this islet offered his personal sauna to anyone interested. I was the only one who took him up on his

The small wooden structure was perched at the rocky water's edge. I settled in next to a fire burning in a potbellied stove. Periodically, I spooned cool water over some hot rocks with a large wooden ladle. Soon, the tiny outhouse-sized building filled with steam. The heat was so intense that after about 10 minutes I escaped into a swan-filled cove off the chilly

All this jumping around from sauna to sea made me hungry. Thankfully, my next stop was a deserted island where a delicious barbecue was waiting. Fresh salmon and salad made for a great lunch of regional cuisine. A cheerful crew supplied blankets so we could picnic on a rock beneath the warm sun. The playful deckhands even supplied a bit of entertainment by cheerfully throwing a screaming workmate into the freezing water.

If you are considering joining this cruise, be prepared to pack and unpack each night. Some business travelers may consider this an extra hassle, but I found the ritual definitely worth the experience of staying in so many different Swedish inns.

Meanwhile, if business does take you to Sweden, here are some cultural barriers to be aware.

 Don't presume to call a prospective colleague by his or her first name. Formality rules in Sweden, where you will be introduced to Mr. Sven Olaf or Mrs. Kari Engebretsen.

· When sitting down to a toast, wait to take a drink until after your host shouts "skol." He or she is wishing you "good health" before imbibing what will probably be a very strong drink, usually vodka.

. If you are fortunate enough to be invited to a Swedish home during your visit, when the meal is finished, be sure to wait until you've reached the door before putting on your coat. If you can, don't put on the garment until after you get outside. In Sweden, doing otherwise signifies that you are anxious to leave - not a very gracious exit from an honored guest who wishes to impress.

Preparing for vacation is hard work

By Alice Bredin Tribune Media

I am preparing for a vacation, two weeks of bliss away from the dáy-to-day pressure of running my business, making decisions and juggling my personal and professional life under one roof. Part of me can't wait, the other part doesn't think I will make it because the preparation for it is killing me.

Vacation preparation is not simple when you run a home-based business. Film for the camera and suntan lotion are minor concerns compared with letting clients know you won't be available, arranging for your phone calls and e-mail messages to be handled, planning for bill payment and invoicing while you are away, and taking care of security of your home and your office. It is much simpler to plan for vacation when you work in a traditional office because you don't have to worry about who will turn on the alarm system or accept packages for you. You also don't have to think to remind your assistant to run the dishwasher every few days so the coffee and tea cups employees use in the office don't turn moldy.

If you are planning a trip this summer, my advice to you is to start preparing well ahead of time. A few weeks before you leave, write down all of the tasks you take care of without thinking about it, like pulling down shades in your office to make sure your equipment doesn't get too much sun, emptying the trash can in the bathroom employees use, and locking windows and doors at the end of the day.

To help you make your list, I will share with you some of the items on my home office preparation list. If you think of anything I have forgotten, please e-mail me ASAP!

Security is a big issue for home-based business owners who go on vacation. You have to let people know you are out of the office for an extended period and will probably need to publicize this on your answering machine. By doing this, you create a security risk for your home and your office. We are solving the problem by having a house sitter. Another option is to have friends or family come to your house periodically and bring in mail, turn lights on and generally create an aura of habitation in

· In addition to having someone watch your house, it is a good idea to have someone check your home office, take messages off of your machine so it doesn't fill up, add paper to your fax machine, collect packages before they are sent back to the sender because they cannot be delivered and handle other office maintenance items. You can do this for a colleague; they reciprocate when you go away. · Arrange to have an automatic response go out from your e-mail whenever someone sends you a message. The response tells people you are out of town and will return their message when you are back in the office. This is a courtesy that lets people know why you have not responded. If your e-mail provider doesn't offer this service, give your password to a friend, assistant or associate, and ask them to cut and paste a message to this effect in replies to e-mails you receive while you are away.

 To minimize the upheaval you will experience upon your return, ask a trusted associate to scan your mail for bills, checks, letters from the Internal Revenue Service and other important documents that arrive while you are away. Pay this person for their time, and have them get rid of junk mail, write checks and organize your mail so you do not come back to a huge mess.

· If you have employees in your home office, designate someone to keep the kitchen clean, get milk for coffee, empty trash cans and run the dishwasher periodically so the kitchen stays clean while you

. If employees need to get in to work while you are away, don't forget to give them keys. It is easy to overlook this item if you are used to being in the office whenever they arrive.

Of course, notify key clients that you will be out of town. When appropriate, identify a colleague who they can call in an emergency to answer questions on projects you have already completed.

Q: This is my first year working after graduating college. What is the most important thing I should do in the workplace if I really care about advancing and succeeding, no matter where I work?

A: There are three crucial requirements and, depending on your company's culture, not necessarily in this order:

· Be smart (stay abreast in your field).

• Give 100 percent of yourself (this does not mean to be a workaholic, but rather, take your work seriously).

· Schmooze with the "right" people. This does not mean be a snob or a superficial brown- for my previous employer. On the apply to any type of termination. give me skeptical looks.

noser, but be smart about those with whom you associate. Employees are often "pegged" in the beginning according to how they dress, whom they befriend and how they present themselves. Once management decides what type you are, it's very hard to break out of that image, especially if it affects moving up on the ladder.

DON'T ANSWER QUESTIONS THAT ARE NOT ASKED

Q: I was recently hired for a great job after being fired at my previous job for a misunderstanding. When I interviewed, no one asked me why I left my other job, though it was clear on my resume that I no longer worked

Job anxiety creates a cycle of failure job now, people have asked me questions about how I felt about saying good-bye to co-workers, which leads me to believe they never noticed I was unemployed when they hired me. I have never lied about the past, but what am I obligated to say?

> A: If your resume showed the correct employment dates for your prior job, and you have never lied about anything, there's no reason to announce what happened there without being asked. They may have overlooked that you were let go, but fortunately, your past employer acted professionally and did nothing to destroy your reputation. Questions like, "How did it feel to say good-bye?" could

If, at a later date, they realize they had overlooked that fact increased sales by 500 percent and ask you why you didn't say anything, point to the employment dates on your resume to show them you never did anything to hide it.

LONER WILL HAVE TO DEAL WITH CO-WORKERS' OSTRACISM

Q: I have been in my job for only a few months and do not get along well with my co-workers. From the first week, they openly displayed their hostility and I have had to defend every action I make - not taking lunch, not attending social functions, etc. They even criticize me at meetings, which causes supervisors to

My performance record has and I have received excellent client evaluations. I'd like to get out of attending an out-of-town business function because there will be recreational exchanges as well. What can I say to not go?

A: A certain amount of socializing in the workplace is important, even if your performance is outstanding. Review your introductions and beginning conversations with co-workers to see why they are so antagonistic. If only one employee reacts negatively to a new co-worker, the problem generally lies with that employee. If an entire group responds negatively, the problem may be in your ability to assimilate to the group.

Loners are often mistaken as arrogant, which could cause instant dislike among co-workers. More people are fired due to personality clashes than incompetence, so you may have to change your attitude about socializing if you want to suctivi ceed. If you have previously experienced difficulty socializing in a work setting, consider seek-iling counseling, group therapy or 7 joining a group such as Toastmaster's to overcome this problem.

Acura 3.5RL takes a bite out of luxury market

By Anne Fracassa Avanti NewsFeatures

It'll catch your attention. Bob, our neighborhood insurance agent, stopped by the other day, popped out of his car and asked, "Is that the new Acura RL?" and started gushing about how he'd just about give his teeth to have one. I thought he'd look pretty funny without teeth, Seriously, the RL isn't really "new." It quietly took its proper place as Acura's new flagship luxury sedan more than 18 months ago.

Me? I personally love the ride and handling. Even my dear friend Kathy - who's been driving a Cadillac Fleetwood for about nine years now - commented on how quiet and comfortable it was and how it took the horrible bumps Michigan's roads dish out so well.

And the best thing about the Acura RL is that it's priced lower than some of its competition almost $10,000 less the the Lexus LS 400, for example. The base price of the RL is $41,000; the premium package adds about $3,000 to that.

Let's get the technical stuff out of the way first. The Acura RL is powered by an all-aluminum single-overhead-cam 3.5-liter V6 that outputs 210 horsepower. This is a strong engine with excellent and immediate response from the second you press down on the pedal. No hesitation that it wants to go, go, go, faster, faster, faster. I suspect it would feel more at home on European roads than than comfortable.

The Acura RL is truly a wonderful 4-door sedan that takes to the road well, gets you where you've got to go in a hurry and does it all in a quiet manner.

on stifling U.S. highways.

Acura says the engine has the power typical of a V8, but has a lower weight, better packaging efficiency and the fuel economy of a V6. I'll buy that.

The styling is so ... smart. From its aggressive front grille (it looks like it could bite you) to its unique rear treatment, it just spells out Acura and

The inside of the RL is roomy for five, and that's not pushing it. Pushing it was putting four in the back - but everyone fit. There's no seat belt for the fourth passenger, so not a good idea. But for three in the back, no one had a complaint.

Did I mention that the RL is quiet? Almost deafening, that's how quiet it is. The soundproofing technology Acura strived for was achieved. There are even state-of-the-art vibration- and bumpabsorbing seats. And the leather seating is more

The Acura RL has an advanced automatic climate-control system that filters particles that are 3 microns or larger. That means it can filter out most pollen and dust and other road junk like diesel exhaust. Perfect for anyone with allergies or asthma.

The climate control system is fully automatic," which I don't prefer. I like to set my own controls. But it worked well, efficiently and kept us comfyduring a particularly long trek across town.

Standard, of course, is a 4-speed electronically controlled automatic transmission with sophisticated software that allows this Acura improved acceleration and minimal gear hunting while dri-

The transmission also has a gated shifter. Can't stand it. Don't want it. Uh-uh. It's supposed to give the driver a more intuitive sense of shifter position, according to Acura documents. It doesn't. More of a hassle than anything else.

Ride quality is due to 4-wheel independent double-wishbone suspension and front and rear stabilizer bars. There's surperb ride quality, not to mention a total absence of road noise.

The standard equipment list is long, of course: Power-assisted disc brakes, speed-sensitive power-assisted steering, leather all-around driver's 8-way power seat, passenger's 4way power seat, front heated seats, cruise control, tile and telescopic steering wheel, AM/FM stereo/cassette/anti-theft/6 CD changer, burled walnut trim, driver's seat/steering wheel, door mirror memory system, ski boot, sunglass holder, power moonroof with tilt feature and shade and integrated fog lights.

Safety is all there, too, including dual side impact door beams with shoulder and hip pads, dual air bags, anti-lock brakes, keyless entry, theft deterrent system, automatic headlamps on/off system and traction con-
