The depths of the Phase III pool at the starting end range from 4 feet, 0 inches to 4 feet, 11 inches. The Michigan Department of Public Health's requirements for diving from starting platforms in pools used for competition has been 5 feet since 1991. The Michigan High School Athletic Association adopted a similar depth requirement in 1993.

The school board did not vote Tuesday on any recommendations to reconfigure the Plymouth-Canton pool. Time must be given to solicit bids for the work.

2 new banks to open doors

Two banks plan on opening branches in greater Plymouth, and that suggests the financial climate here is healthy.

The banks are People's State Bank based in Hamtramck and Community Bank of Dearborn.

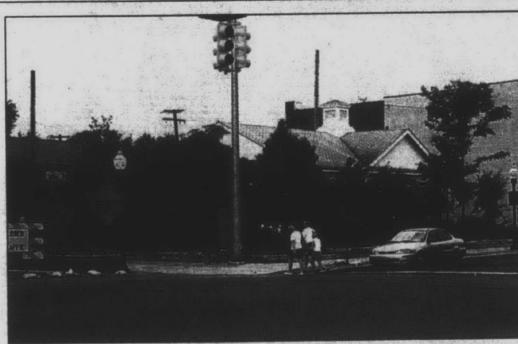

"If additional banks are coming to a city it's normally a forerunner of economic development," said Steve Guile, city downtown development director.

The reason they come here is obviously the ability to enhance their bottom line, it bodes well for the community. If banks were leaving it would be exactly the opposite," he said.

Mike Weaver, who formerly worked for Comerica Bank in Plymouth, is regional president of People's State Bank.

Weaver said the bank isn't just

To help auto supplier E&E Manufacturing stay in town, Plymouth city commissioners approved a $1.27 million, 12year tax break on the company's expansion plans.

While $1.27 million is the amount to be abated for all taxing authorities, as allowed under state tax abatement law, local taxing authorities including the city and schools will receive an additional $30,000 in tax money over the 12-year period.

throughout North America.

Predating television as a means of national entertainment and cultural enrichment, Chautauquas at once celebrated the local community and shared with it the knowledge of others. At the peak of popularity in 1921, 40 million people attended the various touring programs in nearly 10,000 communities in the U.S. and Canada.

The American Academy of Pediatrics has recommended the vaccine for infants and adolescents since 1992. Lawrenchuck said the safety of the Hepatitis B vaccine is "not even a theoretical issue." The vaccine is made from genetically engineered brewer's yeast, not from a live virus. "There is no human compound, no plasma, no blood."

According to information prepared by district nurses, the vaccine has been used world wide for more than 20 years. It is given by injection in the upper arm. After a series of three doses the student will have a greater than 95% chance of protection if exposed to the Hepatitis B virus.

Students at each of the five middle schools will receive a series of three doses of the vaccine, one each in October, November and April. Students who have initiated the series with their own health providers may finish the series with the district program.

opening a Plymouth branch. It plans to open a regional office in Plymouth, to serve future branches on the west side.

Based in Hamtramck, People's State Bank has five locations on the east side of metro Detroit.

At the Plymouth branch, "our loan decisions will be made locally, and we will be a locally managed bank," Weaver said.

The new bank branch will include some officers with longtime experience in local banking. They include Margaret Slezak, senior lender; Bill Graham, vice president of operations and branches; and Dick Bachman, consumer and residential loan

"We were all active in community banking," Weaver said. "A lot of the larger banks are mov-ing away from that. We kind of compliment each other with our skills and had the same philoso-phy of what a bank should be,"

"Between the four of us we have in excess of 60 years in banking in the Plymouth community," he said.

The bank is to open by Aug. 15 with 10 employees at Charlestown Square mall on Main Street. "It will be a temporary location. In a year to a yearand-a-half we expect to find a site to build a main office, I expect it to be in Plymouth or Plymouth Township," Weaver

"There's a niche for a small business community type bank in Plymouth, right now it's kind of an unfilled gap, the way larger banks are going," he added. Michael Ross of Community

Bank of Dearborn said the bank, started in 1994, plans to open its third branch Aug. 4, at 44623 Five Mile Road in the Sheldon Place Mall.

"The spot we hope to fill is that of a smaller bank," Ross said. Community Bank of Dearborn has about 500 shareholders, and the chairman is Jack Demmer of Jack Demmer Ford in Wayne.

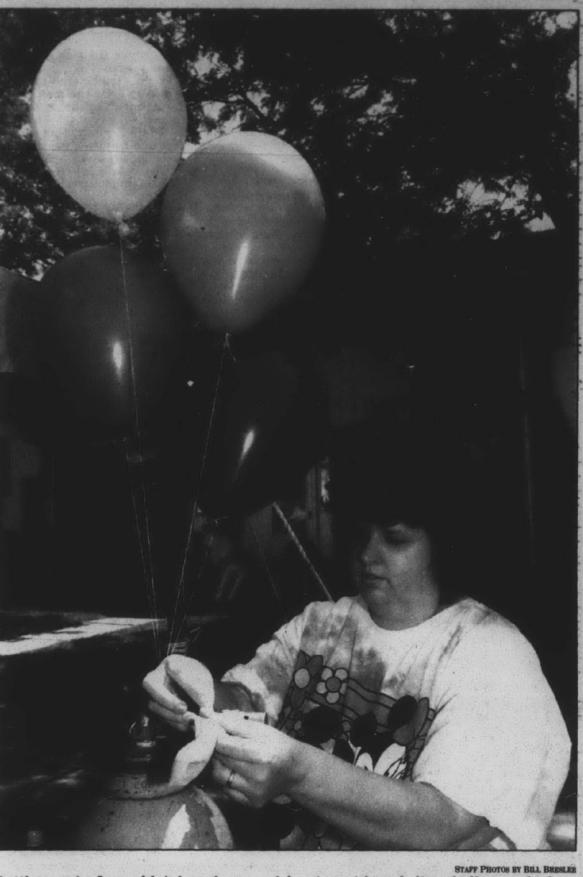

When we established the bank, we set the bank up in several areas. The first thing we're working real hard on is small business, we deal with the owner of the company," Ross said. The bank will also offer residential mortgages.

"Between myself and my senior lending officer we have 50 years of experience in the banking business we have excellent knowledge of the banking business," he said.

"One of the markets on the deposit side is our Community Club, if you're over age 50 all your products and services are free, and it includes a travel program and a whole bunch of things," he said.

"One of the things we stress knowing our customers well and providing an extremely high level of personal service. When you combine that with local management we believe it makes for an excellent combination,"

Getting ready: It wouldn't have been a celebration without helium balloons which Lynn Forbear agreed to fill for the cooperative's 30th anniversary.

No leads

The case of the human skeleton found May 10 near some railroad tracks in Plymouth Township remains open, but police have no leads on solving the mystery.

Police Det. David Hayes said an anthropologist's report after examining the human remains state the person was likely a white male, aged 35-45 or possibly as old as 50, 5 feet 6 inches to 5 feet 9 inches tall, of muscular build with fine, dark-brown hair that was not curly.

The victim had several healed fractures, to the right upper atm, right wrist and right hip.

"They're not able to give a positive cause of death," Hayes said. But he added some skull fragments are missing, which lead investigators to suspect a blunt object struck the victim's skull.

Hayes said police have received 5-10 calls from the publit with questions or possible information. Police followed one lead on a double homicide in Plymouth in 1980, but both bodies were accounted for.

Plymouth Township police at 4:29 a.m. got a call that a 1980 Pontiac Firebird had just been stolen from a driveway on Betty

The car was parked with another car behind it and a third parked to the side. Police said turf was torn up as the driver maneuvered the car into the yard to drive it away.

Responding to the scene, one township patrol officer saw the stolen car enter Ann Arbor Trail from Glenville. Officers in two separate cars followed the car. Police said the youths followed an accomplice, another 15-yearold from Plymouth Township driving a pickup truck.

After following for about two miles police eventually boxed in the stolen car while pulling the youths over, and the car struck one patrol car, causing the officer to seek treatment at McCauley Health Center for a stiff neck.

The two youths in the stolen car were charged with unlawful driving away of an automobile, felony charges, and await a date in juvenile court. Police also learned the identity of the accomplice, and are seeking to charge him in the incident, said Sgt. Steve Rapson.

All three youths were turned over to the custody of their parents, while awaiting court dates.

Northville Township plans for 1998 centennial

1998 will mark Northville Township's Centennial and preparations are well underway for the festivities.

One of the many projects planned by the Northville Township Centennial Foundation is a history book, which will take a look back at the township over the past 100 years.

Township residents have taken on the task of researching and writing about everything from population, economy, education, health and safety, humorous stories and more. Many township residents are involved in this undertaking, however, the committee is looking for even more people who have knowledge of township happenings.

If you have photos, facts or stories you would like to share, please contact Shari Peters, 248-374-0200.

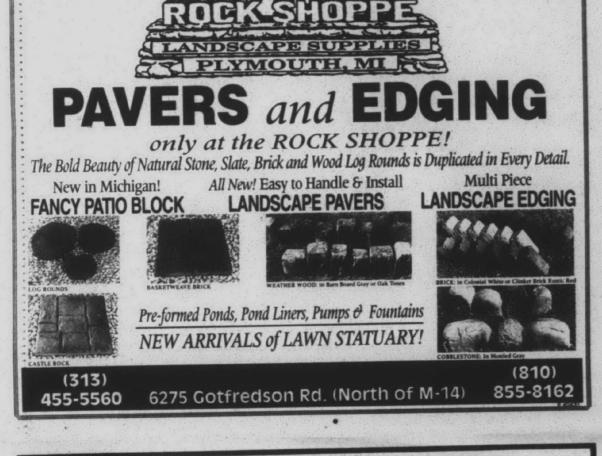

The book should be ready for distribution in late 1997 and will remain on sale throughout the Centennial year, 1998.

County to rename building in honor of Beard's service

It currently stands alone, as Building D. An old, five-story structure on the grounds of Wayne County's Eloise Complex on Michigan Avenue in West-

Soon, it will be a monument to one of the longest-serving members of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

On Friday, county officials will dedicate the building in honor of Kay Beard, D-Westland, who has been serving constituents in Garden City, Inkster and Westland for more than 19years...longer than any current member of the board.

'We haven't always agreed, but you can't deny her dedication," said Ed McNamara, Wayne County Executive. "She is a very dedicated public servant, and this was a way to remember her long after she quits politics.

"My jaw literally dropped when Ed told me in January," said Beard. "He wants to renovate the building and use it in a more productive way than it is

The building, constructed in 1931, mainly houses social service programs. However, Beard has designs for the building that will stand with her name on it.

"I'm hoping it might be possible to have branch offices of the county clerk, treasurer and register of deeds in the building, commented Beard. "It's hard for people in the out-county area to get downtown for those much needed services.'

Beard was appointed to serve an unexpired term in April, 1978, and has held the office since. She was elected to her 10th full term last November, and is currently serving her second term as vice chair of the

The District 12 commissioner has a number of honors to her credit. They include chair of the National Association of Counties' Employment Steering Com-mittee,' chairperson of the National Advisory Council for School-to-Work Opportunities, and the 1989 Michigan County Commissioner of the Year

At 76, Beard shows no signs of slowing down.

"I have a lot of time and energy for the job," said Beard. "I enjoy being a county commissioner serving my communities and the county, and as long as I do I'll continue.

"It's fun being a county commissioner these days because of the airport expansion, new stadiums downtown, and the pro-posed casinos," continued Beard. "There are a lot of good things happening throughout Wayne County.'

The naming of the building after Beard might just keep it from the wrecking ball.

We've torn down a number of buildings at Eloise, and there is strong sentiment from some to do the same with this one," said McNamara. "I think the old structure has a gracefulness which represents a past era.'

McNamara believes it will take a few million dollars in renovations to upgrade the structure, which then could be used

"It's an exceptional honor," noted Beard. "I'm overwhelmed and extremely pleased."

Roadwork

Haggerty project OK'd, work will begin in '98

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

Motorists can expect to see the resurfacing of Haggerty Road from Joy to Ann Arbor roads in Plymouth Township.

But it probably won't happen until next year.

Wayne County commissioners approved a $993,440 contract on July 17 between the county and the Michigan Department of Transportation for reconstruction of Haggerty. The road will be resurfaced and widened to five lanes, including the addition of a right-turn lane at Ann Arbor Federal funds will pay for $813,130 of the work, while the county will pay the remaining $180,310.

Canton Center Road also will be resurfaced with three lanes wide of concrete pavement for a half-mile between Michigan Avenue and Geddes Road in Canton Township.

"Canton Center will be realigned with how it connects with Belleville Road," said John Roach, public information manager of the Wayne County Department of Public Services. 'It is slightly out of alignment. (Construction workers) will add a short curve south of Ged-

That contract, also approved July 17 by commissioners, will cost $1.3 million with $1 million supplied through funds from MDOT, the rest from Wayne County.

Bids are expected to be solicited from firms in August, which will make it difficult for firms to respond and finish construction by the winter, Roach said.

The Haggerty work was 'questionable" for this year, while Canton Center may be worked on in September, Roach said.

In other business, members of the Committee on Roads, Airports and Public Services expect to review a bond proposal today (Thursday) for county roads. Wayne County officials

Crack may account for PCB leak

A possible crack in the retention basin lining at the General Motors Delphi Chassis Plant in Livonia is the main reason Wayne County environmental officials believe the giant automaker may be responsible for dumping contaminated PCBs into Newburgh Lake.

We've been smelling oil for the past year-and-a-half at Newburgh Lake but haven't been able to come up with the smoking gun," said Jim Murray, Director of the Wayne County Department of Environment. "We couldn't find signs of illegal dumping, but the leak at the basin appears to be one of the sources of PCBs."

Murray says the leak through the crack in the retention basin lining allowed some oil to spill into the storm sewer.

"It appears to be a small amount of leakage into Newburgh Lake over a period of time," Murray said.

Murray called the leaking, plus the inadequate size of the basin which allowed for it to overflow, "unacceptable circumstances," and says he is "concerned about the storm water management and how General Motors handles the separation of oil and the basin."

Currently, the oil is mixed with the water in the retention basin and filtered through facilities at General Motors. However, because of recent heavy rains the basin overflowed into the storm sewer and into Newburgh Lake...carrying with it oil the state says is contaminated.

General Motors has admitted it accidentally dumped at least 1,000 gallons into the storm sewer July 9 during maintenance and cleaning when the plant was closed for summer shutdown. While county officials have said tests showed dangerous PCBs in the oil, a spokeswoman for the automaker denies the car company is using oil with PCBs.

General Motors claims its spilled oil mixed with PCBs that have already been found in the lake. Murray says additional tests are being conducted to con-

"We believe the contaminated oil is saturated in the storm sewer pipes and groundwater," noted Murray. "Everytime water passes through the pipes it picks up and transports the PCBs to the lake. General Motors needs to clean the storm sewer and contaminated soil around the Delphi plant."

County officials have all along said GM has been responsive to the spill and has agreed to pay any clean-up costs. Both sides are meeting to discuss ways to make certain this type of spill doesn't occur again.

Murray says the site is ecured, meaning the size of the basin and the storage storage issues are being addressed.

"General Motors has been responsible, but at the same time we need to look at the faults and deal with it," said Murray. "We will talk about fines and penalties, which could reach tens of thousands of dol-

Inland Waters of Detroit responded to the clean-up, working from July 9 through July 18, much of that time 24-hours a day. Murray says it will be at least a week before final costs are determined and a bill sent to

For the long-term PCB problem which forced the closing and clean-up of Newburgh Lake, Murray says $2.5-million of the $10-million project cost was used for clean-up of toxic waste. He notes General Motors could be liable for costs associated with their portion of the PCB removal.

Currently, federal funds are being used for the clean-up because the only known illegal dumping came from Evans Products, which went bankrupt.

That committee also may discuss a resolution proposed by Commissioner Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, to require signs be displayed along roads and highways in Wayne County. Patterson also sits on the committee.

The signs would identify who to contact and hold responsible for particular conditions, Patter-

"There are many reasons being put forth by the experts as to why the roads are in the con-dition we find them," Patterson said. "However, as a member of the monitoring public, I want to know who is responsible for spe-cific stretches of roadway which seem to be crumbling long before

"The way the system is currently designed, with federal highways, private roads, local roads, city streets, county primary roads and state trunk lines, most of us can't tell who is responsible. The question of road jurisdiction is mind-boggling and I want some additional clarity so that we can attach responsibility and accountability.'

Commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, who represents Redford Township and part of Livonia and chairs the Committee on Roads, Airports and Public Services, said she had questions about Patterson's request, particularly about the cost of installing such signs and county liability.

Under the recent road package, Michigan counties and local communities will maintain control of 23,000 miles of roads. Gov. John Engler wanted the state Department of Transportation to take over these roads, but Engler scaled back that request to less than 9,000 miles.

'Bible Court' clerk apologizes and plans to resign

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Brown was defeated in her bid for re-election to office in June.

"I'm very sorry I personalized an issue with a fine and upstanding member of my community," James said. "By doing that, I've disgraced this organization and my religion."

James said he never intended for an anti-Brown letter to be circulated publicly when he sent it to local minister Neil Cowling, who has spoken critically of the so-called religious court.

Even so, James admitted that the flier contained language saying that its contents could be placed on the Internet. On Friday, he said the Bible court has no Web site.

Lash chaired a committee to assess conditions and make recommendations for the Phase III

The committee, which consisted of school athletic directors. swim coaches, parents and a school board representative, made their presentation at the school board meeting on July 22.

The committee proposed four options, but endorsed only the first:

■ Install a moveable bulkhead

the direction of the racing lanes from an east-west to a northsouth orientation. The bulkhead would adjust the pool length to the required 75 feet, 1 inch.

■ Deepen the existing pool configuration to comply with the depth requirements dictated by the Michigan Department of Public Health and maintain the existing diving well and racing pool orientation.

■ Do nothing and move all the meets to another pool.

The budget estimate for the first option, installing a bulkhead and starting platforms, was $61,000. According to the committee's written report, their recommended manufacturer, Recreation Supply Co., Inc. of Colorado, could install the bulkhead within six to 10 weeks after receiving the order.

Preliminary budget estimates for the second option, deepening the pool, were between $250,000 and $300,000.

The fourth option, building a new natatorium complex (which is currently being done in Ann Arbor), would cost $2-$4 million. However, an outdoor facility could be used by the public during the summer months and rented to other swim clubs for weekend meets.

Dan Hansen, a committee member and an engineer, presented the schematics of both the existing pool and the modified pool. He said the 5-foot diving depth requirement is not a nationally sanctioned rule; rather, it has been implemented by the Michigan Department of Community Health.

Board treasurer Carrie Blamer expressed some safety concerns for the five-year-old members of the Cruisers swim team. "I'm concerned about sending our kids into 12 feet of water. Is the cure worse than the disease?"

The swimming coaches said the Cruisers would practice in shallow water.

Hansen also assured board members that the bulkhead, which would project four feet into the water, had a smooth underside with no edges on which swimmers could get Board vice president Sue Davis asked Hansen about the state's health department verifying the proposed Phase III pool changes and implementing new changes that might affect Salem's pool.

Hansen said he would "recommend spending $10,000 in legal fees getting the requirement cleared up" rather than possibly spending $60,000 on Salem's pool.

Financing for the bulkhead and pool reconfiguration has vet to be determined. Board member Roland Thomas suggested taking the $61,000 bid amount out of the Capital Fund, which finance director John Birchler estimated to be "around $800,000."

"This is a necessary improvement. It's exclusively for athletics. There ought to be some consideration for using athletic funds," said Superintendent Chuck Little.

Little also said he will get the required bids and come back to the board, which will "debate the

Students welcome Golf outing to benefit scholarship program challenges of summer institute

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Mention summer school to many teenagers and the reaction is most likely the same as taking away the car keys.

However, for a group of 120 Wayne County high school students, spending two weeks at Madonna University's Summer Institute for the Arts and Sciences is both a learning experience and summer vacation.

Students get intensive studies in class sessions like Chemistry and Biology of the Rouge River; World Wide Web; Molecular Genetics and Genetic Engineering: Sign Language and Artistic Expression for the Deaf; and Music Video Production.

The program is sponsored by the Michigan Department of Education for gifted and talented students," said Sister Nancy Marie Jamroz, vice-president for student life at Madonna, and organizer of the Summer Institute at the university.

"We believe in the philosophy that many students have talents, and want to increase their knowledge and learn new techniques. It's a chance for the students to get immersed in subjects they don't have in high school.

It's that last part that entices many students to Madonna for two weeks out of the summer.

"I picked the session on genetics because I want to get into the medical field someday," said Mary Crofts, 17, from Westland John Glenn High School. "It's been great getting hands-on experience in subjects that would just be too expensive for the high school to do.'

That was echoed by classmate Christopher Tatman, 17, of Westland.

We've done a water analysis of the Rouge River and are doing preliminary tests to determine the water quality," noted Tat-

"I've been working on the Rouge River project for several years, and it's rewarding to find out if it's actually working to clean-up the river. We also visited a waste water treatment facility."

All work and no play makes for a very dull student. And the Experience: Christopher Tatman, 17, of Westland, says the program provides hands-on experience.

Summer Institute knows an allaround college experience also includes some fun.

After morning sessions which deal mainly with intensive studies, the afternoon's exploratory sessions include such topics as Creativity of Self Discovery, Surfing the World Wide Web, and field trips to the Detroit Institute of Arts and the Holocaust Memorial Center.

Evenings are filled with activities such as movies, sports, a talent show, ice cream socials and

This is great preparation for college," said Crofts, who plans on attending Brigham Young University. "There's competition among your peers because everyone here is a top student. We also get the experience of living in a dorm and eating dorm food.

'This definitely helps with learning a bit about college life, so when the time comes you won't be as apprehensive," notes Tatman, who after graduation is headed to either Northern Michigan University or Michigan Tech to study conservation.

The students are put into groups of no more than 13 students, with a counselor to help with daily problems and discussion groups.

'It's been a privilege to work with these gifted and talented students," said Amy Kleusch of Harper Woods, a senior at Madonna.

"They are motivated and filled with ideas, and very outgoing. Our nightly discussions center of various topics such as life's circumstances and poli-

The cost for the two-week stay at Madonna is approximately $200, however Sister Nancy says many students get scholarships through the Wayne County Regional Educational Service

Other local students attending the Summer Institute include twins Julie and Leslie Ann Reichert of Westland. Both are studying the Rouge River.

Canton resident Josephina Chang of Plymouth-Canton High School is focusing on Creative Writing during her two weeks at the Summer Institute.

Motion by Bennett, supported by LaJoy, to delete this item from the agenda.

ITEM 2 DDA ORDINANCE AMENDMENTS

Discussion occurred regarding specific uniformity of lighting, planting materials, brick landscaping, sidewalk width and basic design scheme. The Board directed Ms. Wolosiewicz to proceed with Zoning Ordinance amendments to require all new developments fronting Ford Road to incorporate specific elements of the DDA Streetscape in road frontage landscape design.

ITEM 3 CANTON INTERNET STUDY

Ken Voyles gave a review of Canton's home page. He explained the differences in information only web sites and interactive web sites.

A semi interactive site allows residents to access limited parts of our data base ( such as voting or tax records) and allows residents to fill out simple forms to fax or mail us. A fully interactive web server allows residents to not only access parts of our data base but also make transactions through the Internet such as paying taxes, signing up for Summit classes, reserving tee times at municipal golf courses, pay a water bill, etc. An interactive home page would require Canton to become a "web server," eliminating the need for commercial E-mail accounts.

Brad Thompson, MIS Manager, explained the present basic computer connections for the Internet and the proposed computer connections needed for an interactive web site and their expenses. Canton's home page would be hosted on our own file server. To attain either interactive approach, the township would need to wire that file server directly to the Internet using a "T-1 link" to the phone system. He said the T-1 link would give the Township more direct control over the web site, including guarding against viruses with the use of "firewall" software. The recommendation by the Internet Feasibility Review Group was reviewed. Discussion occurred regarding costs, savings and the value to the Township, start up and maintenance costs of an interactive home page. The Board discussed two options available to the Township. This item will go before the Board at the next meeting of July 22, 1997

ITEM 4 BOARD ROOM RENOVATION PROJECT Mike Ager, Resource Development Manager, reviewed the changes to be made to the Board Room. The changes center around cable cameras. The new control room will be located in old vending room. He said improvements were to be made on the sound system, speakers and lighting and a number of other audio visual items. The Board reviewed the plans for the renovations. It was noted that the microphones and jacks would improve the quality of the audio recordings. The audio controls will stay at their

ITEM 5 MID-DECADE CENSUS Clerk Bennett updated the Board on the final report of the Mid-Decade Census project. The report showed that the total population for Canton Township was 67,809. Of the total population, the report showed 4,699 preschool children in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, 475 preschoolers in the Wayne-Westland Schools, and 137 preschoolers in the Van Buren School District. The Mid-Decade Census report was forwarded to the local school districts. school districts. OTHER

Debbie Zevalkink announced that the National Archery Tournament scheduled at Heritage Park is in need of volunteers for the information tent (August 4 - 8). Volunteer cooks and servers were also needed for the barbecue

Ken Voyles informed the Board that the Welcoming Ceremonies will be held Sunday, August 3, 1997 at 6:00 P.M. and Opening Ceremonies on Monday at 8:45 A.M. He said that there were over 130 foreign entries and 530 competitors to date. Treasurer Kirchgatter noted that they were looking for host families for foreign archery competitors.

Director Durack said that the Stanley Cup may be at the Pheasant Run Golf Club on Tuesday, July 22, 1997, but the times were not available. Ms. Zevalkink said that the 35th District Court was still looking for alternated sites including the lower level of the Administration Building. She said that parking would be the major problem at our site.

pervisor Yack adjourned the meeting 8:55 P.M.

The above is a synopsis of discussion taken at the Regular Board meeting held on July 15, 1997. The full text of the approved minutes will be available following the next regular meeting of the Board on August 12, 1997. Terry G. Bennett, Clerk

Institute organizers hope to foster quality in the automotive industry at the suppliers level. The institute will be operated by the University's School of Business and funded by the Angileris who will also serve in an advisory capacity.

"My wife and I chose Madonna University for this institute because of its quality programs and excellent faculty," said Frank Angileri.

"We feel that Madonna's School of Business, which already offers a master's degree in quality and operations management, has the capability to develop this institute into a nationally recognized entity since it is the only one of its kind established by an independent liberal arts university."

A symposium will be held annually with the first slated for Monday, Jan. 26, 1998. This initial symposium will explore and discuss problems related to quality issues, especially among small- and medium-sized companies in the automotive industry.

As the institute continues to develop, it will incorporate training of company personnel, primarily automotive, in costeffective programs to improve organizational performance which will include quality improvements.

"Madonna University will appoint an executive director and two co-directors to develop and run the institute, and the Angileris will select two co-directors from the local business community," said Stuart Arends, dean of the School of Business.

"This unique quality institute will be a tremendous opportunity for suppliers in the automotive industry," said Frank Angileri. "They will not have to pay travel expenses and exorbitant prices to obtain practical knowledge and assistance which will improve performance in the workplace. There is a need for this type of program as you can always strengthen the quality component of an organization."

Frank Angileri worked as a quality assurance engineer at the Ford Motor Co. for 34 years. After retiring in 1988, he started his own quality management consulting business, Quality Concepts and Strategies, Inc. in

In 1996, Angileri established the Angileri Quality Award at Madonna University. It is available to a student pursuing a master's degree in Quality and Operations Management.

The recipient must have contributed significantly to quality improvements in the American automotive industry.

Commitment School trustee will be missed

ome people are just synonymous with their avocations.

Longtime Plymouth-Canton Board of Education member David Artley is one of those people.

Whenever you thought about the school board, Artley was just one of those people who came to mind.

Without much ado, after 14 years on the school board, Artley resigned saying it was just time for someone else to do the job. Nothing complicated there.

It will be difficult to imagine the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools or the school board without Artley. Over the years, the Canton resident and community activist has come to represent education and the school

Certainly, Artley has been known for his quick wit and his concern for students and

On a lighter note, Artley became well used to others telling him he had to be brief with his comments. Definitely, he has the gift of gab. And he's good natured about it; at times using it to quell what could otherwise have been an uncomfortable situation.

In his 14 years in the district, Artley witnessed many changes, namely the growth of a once-small and somewhat rural district to what exists today with an ever-increasing population and increased mandates and rules.

Increased community involvement, such as with the Class Size Action Partnership, is one of the major changes Artley witnessed in his tenure. We agree with his assessment that the school district indeed is owned by the commu-

He admits that some of the moments on the board were frustrating, others spectacular. When asked about his years on the school board, more often than not he speaks about the kids and their parents. That's certainly what the school district and the board of education is all about.

There can be no doubt that throughout the years, Artley's heart has been in the right place. He certainly was visible in the community and the school district. Whenever an Extra Miler award was given at the board meetings, you could bet good money that Artley knew the person - and likely their family and friends.

If anything, Artley stood for commitment to the job and a job well done. Consider just how many others have given 14 years of their life to the community and its future.

His decision to leave the school board by no means should imply Artley will disappear. He's simply onto new experiences, such as a board membership on the Educational Excellence Foundation. He also has been named interim director of community health for Kalamazoo County, where he serves as director of development.

Truly, Artley will be missed on the school board. But we have no doubt, the community minded resident will not be far away.

Toss out the vote

When I was younger and went to public schools, I was taught that voting was important and a right and each vote counted and even caused wars in many countries. It seems in the Plymouth-Canton School District that none of this is true.

It would be interesting to know what the school system is teaching in government and history classes. I would not expect, in this country, to have an election and have over 6 percent of the vote not even counted. I would think that Dr. Little would want to set an example for the thousands of kids in the Plymouth-Canton school system and have the bond vote done over. I would bet everything I own or ever will own that if the bond lost by 96 votes that there would definitely be another election with Dr. Little leading the charge.

For Bev Bonning to say that asking for a re-election without proof of machine malfunction "would send a chilling effect throughout this country" is absolutely ludicrous. A more chilling effect shall be ringing through this country if our government can allow over 6 percent of voters have their vote not count.

Several amendments to the Constitution of the United States say the right of citizens to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of race, color, previous condition of servitude, sex, failure to pay any tax, or age of 18 or older.

If tossing out over 6 percent of a popular vote is not denying or abridging the right to vote, this country and its people are in terrible trouble. Judge James Rashid should toss out the bond as it stands now and demand a re-election be held if we are to truly remain a free country where every citizen has a right to

Willie Schroeder

Wasting money

The recent article about fund raising efforts for the group seeking to overturn the recent bond approval, and the letters supporting that group, have me very perplexed. Where is the community outrage that a few people are not trying to stop a project desperately needed by the school district, but are causing the school district to spend taxpayer dollars defending a frivolous lawsuit?

The comment made in June 22 article that the school board is "using our money against us" is equally offensive. The bond challengers are wasting everyone's money!

Do people really think that defending the democratic process is the goal of these people, or that they would be bringing this action if the bond had failed? Hopefully no one is that naive: the goals are only to try to overturn the result of the election, not to ensure equal protection or represent the community.

That the district needs this project is clear, and no one who cares about quality education in our schools should doubt that. Our tax dollars are being wasted by every minute of delay, and I hope that the school district will seek sanctions against those causing this waste.

Understand other cultures an important way to share history with others

t's about time we all took a lesson in histo-

During the past year, the Native American ommunity has stepped up to educate the general public about Indian history and culture.

One attitude that needs changing is the misnomer that Native Americans are an ethnic group, like being Irish or German.

There were originally more than 500 tribes in the United States, each with its own language and culture. These tribes negotiated with the U.S. government and were accorded treaty rights.

nations, not ethnic groups. This fact has been conveniently forgotten by some. Republican State. Rep. David Jaye of Macomb County has issued press releases in recent months, calling into question how many rights Michigan tribes can have. These gambling and fishing rights were part of the negotiated treaty rights.

Jaye's actions show his ignorance of Native American history. Attitudes like this make it even more important for Native Americans to share their rich culture and history with the remainder of us.

Groups like the North American Indian Association of Detroit and Indian World have helped by sponsoring Native American exhibitions and promoting larger events like pow wows and encouraging the general public to attend.

These events are certainly colorful and interesting. But more than that, they offer an element of American history of which many people are not aware.

This recent push to educate and inform is and forge a new link between cultures which can only serve to strengthen us as a country.

According to local statistics, more than half of all Native Americans live off of reservations, which means that "many of us are your neighbors and co-workers," said Thurman W. Bear, an Ojibwe who often serves as Master of Ceremonies for regional pow-wows.

So not only can we learn about our neighbors, but change our thinking about things we often take for granted. For example, ironically, many things thought of as European were really introduced by native peoples.

Before the discovery of America, there were no tomatoes in Europe. Some early settlers wouldn't even eat them, thinking they were poisonous.

The starting of a Native American charter school called the Turtle Island Learning Circle of Wayne County could help to bridge the gap as part of this education process.

A public school operated under the auspices of the new state law on public school academies, the Oakland University-affiliated school is designed to teach Native American youngsters about their own history and how to weave it into a modern American society. The "turtle island" name reflects a native name for North America and the Indian cultural view that life is a sacred circle in which all learning and teaching take place.

"Learning is a lifelong process that is best achieved through an effort involving the entire community," says a mission statement from Turtle Island. We can all learn to respect each other more if we have a better understanding of other cultures — that includes the Native Americans.

Hopefully, such an approach to the Central Wayne Air Quality and Energy Recovery Project will be more productive than simply responding to the claims of those who oppose it.

Economic benefits of the project include:

Addition of about 300 construction jobs, preservation of existing operating jobs, and training for new positions.

■ Sale of electricity to Detroit Edison under a 35-year contract, creating new revenues.

■ Waste-to-energy offers longterm waste disposal at stable and affordable rates.

Significant tax revenues plus the pumping of millions of dollars into the local economy.

Environmental benefits include:

The incinerator will be equipped with state-of-the-art pollution control equipment including an acid-gas scrubber and a fabric filter baghouse to remove particulates. A mercury removal system will be added along with a nitrogen oxide reduction system. This meets stringent Environmental Protection Agency standards.

week more than 2,000 tons of municipal solid waste is generated. Even after recycling, the only viable disposal alternatives for that kind of volume are waste-to-energy and landfilling. Until recently, landfilling was an acceptable option; fortunately, we now know better. The potential damage to our environment from uncontrolled dumping of garbage is enormous — a conclusion consistent with the position taken by both Wayne County and the State of Michigan.

Clean electricity generation —

STEVEN R. AYNES

Generating electricity by burning municipal solid waste, with proper air pollution control equipment, is cleaner than the fossil fuel alternatives.

Compatibility with recycling — Many recyclable materials, including metal and glass, are not combustible so their removal improves combustion.

Now let's look at the anticipated costs of this joint public/private effort. Funding is entirely privately arranged with the partnership paying for development, financing and construction of the new pollution control system at no cost to the authority. The partnership will place more than $20 million in equity directly into the plant while the bulk of the remainder of the cost will be financed through bonds supported by the project's revenues. Less than 5 percent will come from a grant from the state. No public credit support is involved.

Of greater importance to the authority is the environmental impact of the project on not only our own citizens, but those of neighboring communities as well.

Authority board members and staff have spent thousands of hours over several years studying and discussing environmental issues.

We have held the partnership to the highest standard not only in terms of information provided, but also its capability and experience in ensuring the project's success. Can we guarantee that there will be no emissions from the plant? No, that isn't possible. I can say, however, that with the new control equipment, emissions will be so low that only the most sensitive monitoring instruments will be able to measure them.

The incinerator has served the authority's communities well, performing cleanly and reliably. With the installation of the most effective pollution control technology available, the facility will be one of the cleanest in the country. These benefits, when combined with the expected economic results, enable the project to pass the test of a cost/benefit analysis with high marks.

Guest columnist Steven R. Aynes is the Executive Director Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority which is a partner in the Central Wayne Air Quality and Energy Recovery Project.

Today's kindergarten isn't for babies anymore

move's afoot in the Michigan Legislature to make kids more grown-up when they attend kindergarten. Currently, children who turn age 5 by Dec. 1 start public school in the fall of that year. The bill, introduced by a group of state representatives, would move the eligibility up over three years, until children entering kindergarten are 5 years old by Sept. 1.

That's probably a good thing, considering that kindergarten has become more academic and that some school districts are offering optional extended day kindergarten.

Now schools incorporate social skills into academic exercises, such as working with a partner on an art project or science experiment. Curriculum stresses specific academic objectives, including counting, graphing and writing short sentences; students also learn social studies; and there is an emphasis on learning centers or

A recent news story quoted some local educators who say the increased emphasis on academics in kindergarten is to prepare students to achieve higher scores when they take the fourth grade statewide assessment test.

That would be too bad. A more solid rationale is that many children are ready to learn more than was previously taught. They enter kindergarten with more knowledge via television, computers and maybe even big book stores. And with both mothers and fathers working, children at all socio-economic levels have extensive pre-kindergarten experiences such as day care, preschool nursery and/or camp and Head Start.

"There probably are a number of reasons (for introducing more skills into kindergarten)," says Marlynn Levin, a Birmingham resident who is work and family program director for Merrill-Palmer Institute of Wayne State University.

Levin oversees Merrill-Palmerdirected child care both in suburb and inner city. "For many years we have underestimated the potential of young children," she says. "Now that we're working with 6-week-old infants, we find that the curriculum can be more sophisticated because the children have more capabilities than we knew."

West Bloomfield kindergarten teacher Kay Gilmer maintains that kindergarten is still play-centered, but likes the curriculum changes that have occurred since she first began teaching in the early '60s.

"It is more directed," said Gilmer, a Farmington Hills resident. "We might have more goals for the children to reach through their play than there used to be." But, she emphasized, "play is still very important. Play teaches children to get along, respect and care about one another. It is still utmost in our minds."

Both educators endorse the proposal to move kindergarten eligibility up to Sept. 1 to increase the numbers of youngsters who are developmentally ready. The legislative bill does allow parents to petition a school district if they think their almost 5-year-old is kindergarten material. They also consider the move of some school districts to optional all-day kindergarten appropriate.

"It's almost impossible for a working parent to cope with a half-day," Levin said. In fact some children start with a latchkey program, attend half-day kindergarten, then are shuttled to another program for the afternoon until they can be picked up.

"I'm very excited about it," seconds Gilmer. "For the kids who stay all day, it's one less caregiver, one less set of rules." And probably even more opportunities for play.

Judith Doner Berne, a West Bloomfield resident, is former managing editor of the Eccentric Newspapers.

Don't bet on fair play at Indian-run casinos

t has long been apparent that casinos are for suckers. The lone gambler can't beat the house's odds. Some casinos pump in extra oxygen so that the gambler won't feel fatigue and will gamble longer. If the sucker runs short of eash, there are automatic teller machines, or the house will accept your credit card and mount your debt.

Now we learn that the situation is worse than we thought it was. State Rep. David Jaye, the maverick Republican from northern Macomb County, tried to curb some of the wrongs of Indian-run casinos with an amendment to the casino bill that sailed 107-4 through the House of Representatives July 1. Speaker Curtis Hertel, D-Detroit, ruled Jaye's amendment was "not germane" to the bill, so no vote was taken.

In sum, Jaye argued the Indian tribes have the best of two worlds. They are Michigan residents in terms of benefits but a separate nation if a non-Indian wants the same rights on an Indian reservation.

Jaye gives me credit for pointing out certain abuses about Indian courts to him. I take the cub's share and give him the lion's share of the credit for following up with more research.

"The Michigan and U.S. constitutions which protect our civil liberties are tossed aside as soon as you walk through the door of an Indian casino," he said.

Items:

Judges – "Indians can vote to elect Michigan local, county and state judges and all other Michigan politicians, but Michigan citizens cannot vote to elect Indian tribal judges."

Trial – The gambler who is hurt, has his civil rights violated, is sexually harassed or gets into a dispute on Indian grounds, including casinos, has his case tried by an Indian tribal council – with no appeal.

Attorney – If you are charged in a Michigan court and can't afford an attorney, the court will appoint one. You have no such right in an Indian court.

Secrecy - Michigan government is subject to the "sunshine" laws - the Open Meetings and Freedom of Information acts. "All Indian trials, Indian political meetings, Indian bureaucrat rule-making and all other Indian government operations are exempt" from state sunshine

Journalists in Mount Pleasant told me they have tried to learn how much the Indian casino there pays in taxes. Big secret. The press had to find out from the state Treasury Department in Lansing.

The operation of the same state taxes or only sell to members of the Indian tribes and their dependents, like the military PX stores."

Scholarships – Indians get preference for $12 million in free college scholarships, regardless of wealth. Most Michiganians can get scholarships based only on need. "Indians don't have to maintain attendance, passing grade point averages nor progress toward a degree like everyone else," Jaye found.

To his credit, Gov. John Engler has tried to end this boundoggle. His attitude, quite correctly, is that the needy and able should get student aid regardless of whether their ancestors arrived via Ellis Island or the Bering Strait.

Meanwhile, a non-Indian couple is trying to sue the Chippewa Tribe over a 1996 crash in which tribal officer Chad Smith ran a red light en route to a non-emergency situation and piled into their car. Smith wasn't operating his siren or emergency lights. The injured folks charge negligence. The tribe contends that as a sovereign nation, it is immune from the lawsuit, and state courts have no jurisdiction over matters involving the tribe.

The matter is pending in Isabella Circuit Court. The plaintiffs haven't lost yet, but one should be stunned by the tribe's arrogance.

Keep that in mind when you watch Ted Turner's dishonest, bleeding heart movies about Tecumseh on the TNT channel.

JM-D program responds to business

"Re-tooling" is the word industry uses to describe the changes industry makes in its plants and processes to meet new chal-

Just like industry, many working engineers need to "re-tool" to help them tackle global competition and changes in industry. An innovative "certificate" program at the University of Michigan-Dearborn School of Engineering has been designed with these people in mind.

The School's Engineering Professional Development office has developed certificate programs in most of the currently "hot" fields in the engineering profession, including software engineering, CAD/CAM, quality engineering, vehicle electronics and intelligent control.

The programs were developed in response to clearly identified needs of people and industries in southeastern Michigan, according to Subrata Sengupta, dean of the UM-Dearborn School of Engineering.

said Sengupta. "It's pretty clear that people will need to develop new skills throughout their careers to keep pace with changes in industry. And it will be cheaper for industry to 're-tool' their human capital than to hire a new work force."

The certificate programs are ideally suited for engineers and managers who want to develop greater knowledge in specialized areas because of job or career changes, according to M. Jeanne Girard, director of the Engineering Professional Development program at UM-Dearborn.

"Almost every industry person that I have come into contact with has given the school very high marks for our emphasis on soliciting industrial input in designing educational programs," Girard said.

In addition to the certificate programs, UM-Dearborn's Engineering Professional Development office coordinates a variety of non-credit and credit programs to help practicing engineers develop skills and meet career goals.

"This is one of the missions of our campus and the School of Engineering," Sengupta said. "We are contributing to the technical vitality of the profession by supporting lifelong learning opportunities through our Engineering Professional Development program."

"Those who already have a graduate degree can diversify or eepen their expertise without having to acquire an additional degree, and those with undergraduate degrees can apply the credits they earn in a certificate program if they decide to go into one of our graduate programs," Girard said

Spare the rod, spare the child: which is right?

lo spank or not to spank ... the age-old question. Spare the rod or spare the child? If this question hasn't come up between parents, we'd be surprised because people's opinions about spanking are usually firm.

Some parents say that they could never justify spanking because they remember so vividly how it was to be spanked as a child. "I'll never put my child through that humiliation.'

Others remember their spankings a little differently and fell strongly that spankings WERE justified because "I really wasn't a very good kid and deserved them.'

A recent piece of research put some meat behind the controversy. This research from the University of New Hampshire studied 6-to 9year-olds and found a strong correlation between anti-social behaviors and three or more spankings per week. In fact, they conclude that "the more spankings kids endure, the more often they lie, bully, destroy and disobey."

If you are the spanking type, this research business is probably hogwash to you, and further, research psychologists are not the "experts." No matter what the studies show, you are going to continue to spank as you always have. Just know this: Hitting, in any fashion, is the cheap narcotic of the discipline continuum. It works as a quick fix because it intimidates, but cannot sustain itself over time.

Is spanking effective in changing behavior? No, and further, client after client has reported to me that they feared spankings in the beginning, but later came to hate the person who spanked them and retaliated by showing no emotion, but rebelled in many ways.

When should you do it

So, if you are going to spank anyway, when should you do it? Spankings have to come from your most mature and calm side. In other words, from your most disciplined side comes your spanking. If you nit out of your o point you are trying to make will be lost when the child only remembers that "mommy sure can act like a mad woman.'

Johnny runs out into the street in front of a car ... some would justify a spanking because the child was putting himself in danger. But certainly, a child doesn't put himself or herself in extreme danger more than a handful of times in their lives. So a handful of spankings would be all it takes for Johnny to understand the severity of what he did.

One Monday morning, Joe arrived at the therapist's office looking rather depressed and remorseful. It seems that Joe and his 4-year-old daughter, Amanda, had a large altercation over the weekend. Apparently, Amanda had come down to the kitchen early Saturday morning to get herself a bowl of cereal. Although she did a spectacular job of pouring the cereal into her bowl, she wasn't so skillful with the milk

A large jug of milk can be fairly overwhelming for a preschooler, so you can imagine how she felt as she saw the milk splashing over the bowl and onto the floor, making its way under the dishwasher and refrigerator. But the little one didn't cry over spilled milk (!), she found hot pads to sop all it up.

Joe admitted that when he arrived on the scene, he went ballistic, paddling her over and over and sending her to her room for the rest of the morning. And who was stuck with the problem of the spilled milk? Yes, Joe was stuck mopping and swearing.

What did Amanda learn? Dads go crazy when you mess up, so watch out!

Window of opportunity

The therapist explained to him that there was still a window of opportunity to redeem himself and teach a lesson in responsibility and resourcefulness. She gave him a few tips and he

That afternoon, he sat Amanda down on his knee and told her he wanted to talk about what had happened on Saturday. He felt her freeze up as he began, but soften when she explained her reason for why she was pouring milk. "Daddy," she said, "I just wanted to be able to get my own cereal so you and mom could sleep longer.

It was then that he taught her the best lesson of all ... how to problem-solve the dilemma.

"Honey, I appreciate your thinking about us and we'd like it if you could come down and get your cereal before we get up. So I've been wondering and wondering how we could make it easy for you to get your own milk."

And with that, she popped out of his lap, ran

Group collects signatures for ballot proposal

Carol Poenisch and a few friends are looking for a few more friends to help gather signatures for a physician assistance in dying proposal on the statewide ballot in 1998.

BY RICHARD PEARL

Carol Poenisch says it's simply about having the right to choose.

I want the right, I want to decide at the time" whether to use a physician's aid in dying - should the need ever arise, she says.

Toward that end, the marathonrunning Northville homemaker and mother of two youngsters is working as a full-time volunteer to help Merian's Friends put its "right to physician aid in dying" proposal on the ballot for Michigan's citizens to

It is an uphill battle. Besides the basic assisted suicide controversy, the group is far short of both the funds and the required signatures. But Poenisch, who is the co-founder and treasurer, has a special interest: the group's namesake was her moth-

In 1992 at age 71, Merian Frederick, a lively, socially conscious and politically active Ann Arbor mother of five and grandmother of 10, was diagnosed with amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, or Lou Gehrig's disease. There was no hope; the disease would make her bedridden, unable to breathe normally or swallow or even communicate and it would kill

"She knew it was a political move to do that," said her daughter. "She could have gotten a gun and blown her brains out, but that wouldn't have made the papers.

"This was the kind of thing she lived for. She really believed in both peace and human rights."

Speechless much of her final year, Merian spent a day with each of her children and then, with the aid of Royal Oak pathologist Dr. Jack Kevorkian, she died. She had gone to Kevorkian because, under Michigan law, her own doctor risked prosecution, if he assisted her.

A different way

Kevorkian and Merian's Friends aren't connected. In fact, its proposal would ban his methods.

Basically, it offers physician aid in dying only to terminally ill, mentally competent adults. The patient must request it, two physicians must certify the illness is terminal and that the patient likely will die in six months - and the patient must be examined by a psychiatrist to rule out reversible mental conditions.

The patient must be fully informed of other available care, such as hospices, and the patient

Getting started: Merian's Friends used a picnic in the park to kick off their campaign to collect some 350,000 signatures to get a "right to physician aid in dying" proposal on the November 1998 state ballot. The group takes its name from Merian Frederick who ended her life with the help of Dr. Jack Kevorkian after being diagnosed with amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, or Lou Gehrig's disease.

Project Life provides alternatives

Cardinal Adam Maida of the Archdiocese of Detroit has taken the wraps off a new program, Project Life, designed to provide alternatives to abortion and must wait seven days between the initial request and dispensation of the lethal prescription. Physicians who violate the regulations will be disciplined. "A lot of people are confused" by the recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling upholding state bans on physician-assisted suicide, said Poenisch. What the court did was leave the door open to constitutional claims by dying patients in the future.

In support of her position, Poenisch notes some physicians have acknowledged hastening death at some time in their careers. And she adds that even Michigan Gov. John Engler's 1992 ban on assisted suicide acknowledged that hastening death was lawful when the intent is to relieve pain and suffer-

Merian's Friends hopes to begin gathering 350,000 signatures this month. Some 247,127 - 8 percent of the 3,089,077 votes cast in the last gubernatorial election - must be valid to put the issue on the November 1998 ballot.

Roz Fink, a retired Novi grade school teacher, says those who sign petitions to put physician aid in dying on Michigan's ballot aren't voting on the issue. They are merely saying "Yes, I believe in the democ-

"I believe it's a basic fundamental right on how you want to die," said Fink, a volunteer for Merian's Friends, which is seeking to put the issue before Michigan's voters. "It's tied in with how we each perceive our end. You never know how it's going to happen and you should have choices.

She recalls how her mother, Sally Radner, died of cancer - "For three weeks, she was hallucinating and screaming from pain." By contrast, her father and her first husband went peacefully - she and her husband even sang songs.

Exhibit looks at woman's life in 1880s

Cleaning aides': As the Industrial Age progressed, women in the 19th century had different ways to clean carpets. The forerunners of today's vacuum cleaner required a lot of arm action either pumping or pushing to collect dirt.

Women of the 19th century were expected to be many things, yet as a gender, they received very little legal, economical or political recognition in a world dominated by men.

Their realm of existence remained "in the home" and by contrast to the cut-throat environment of trade and commerce, their residence was a model of culture and education for the family.

The Plymouth Historical Museum has created a unique representation of a century when women could not vote, work, own property or gain the respect they deserved. Displays illustrate an existence they fashioned for themselves using strength, ingenuity, creativity, imagination

Appropriately titled, "From Her Heart to Her Hands: The daily work and contributions of women in the 19th century," museum director Beth Stewart said the exhibit speaks to the notion that a woman's duty was to herself, her heart and nothing else, and that good housekeep-ing was fundamental to the contentment of one's

BE A SMART MOVE-UP BUYER

Have your housing needs changed along with your income to the point where you are starting to look for a change in your housing situation?

It is usually easier to find your second home than to find buyers for your first one. As part of your selling strategy, it is a good idea to have your present home under contract before you begin a serious search for a new home. This will make you attractive to sellers in two ways. You won't have to include a contingency in your offer to cover the sale of your present home. And you will look more qualified financially, which will improve your bargaining position if you negotiate on the price or terms. In a situation where there are multiple offers, the chances of your offer being accepted are increased if your offer isn't dependent on selling another house before you can make a move.

how things go on.

"But we don't want to encourage suicide," he said. "The patient should get everything they want from patient care. They should have the best in comfort care, usually hospicetype care, counseling, spiritual counseling, pain control, family support."

Dr. Edward C. Pierce, chairman of Merian's Friends and a retired Ann Arbor general practitioner, said the group is supporting a bill on assisted suicide, introduced on July 2 by State Sen. Gary Peters (D-Bloomfield Township).

"We are very pleased, of course that Sen. Peters is proposing a law that meets the objectives of Merian's Friends," said Pierce, "However, we think the chances of this bill ever getting out of committee are zilch, since Right to Life of Michigan has the Michigan State Senate in its hip pocket.

"We admire Sen. Peters' courage in standing up for the 66 percent of Michigan voters who are in favor having physician aid in dying."

To get the proposal on the ballot, Merian's Friends needs 5,000 volunteers to raise $500,000 for professional pollsters, who have six months to work.

As of June, however, Merian's Friends had only 2,700 volunteers and $140,000 in donations, most of it in small gifts, plus a 1,000 members volunteering as pollsters.

Poenisch is proud of what's been done, but "there's no money to be gained by giving you the right to vote on how you want to die." In contrast, the Detroit casino question got on the ballot "really fast, there was so much money" involved, she said.

"That's tough on a campaign like ours; we're grassroots - 'of the people, by the people," "Poenisch said. "We rely on contributions from people who feel they should have the right to vote on this."

To compound things, one national retail chain (Home Depot) has denied the group access to its properties for signature gathering, apparently due to the controversy, she said.

But Poenisch, a dedicated distance runner who's competed in 10 marathons - she owns a 28thplace, 2:51 finish in the 1993 Boston Marathon - is equally dedicated to the proposal.

"I'm just a mom and a housewife," she said, "and I want this one thing to pass, and I'll work my whole life on it."

She's already battled for patients' rights - her own. When she tried to have her second child by natural birth after doing it with her first in Denmark, she had to fight Henry Ford Hospital over its restrictions.

"I think hospitals have too much control; I couldn't believe I didn't have any rights over my child," she said. "All I want is to expose the problems.

"Certainly, legalizing physician aid in dying is a small solution for a general problem we're having in this country of patients not being heard, of patients' rights.

"We can cure diseases better than any country in the world, but we can't give nurturing support people need. We're too big, too cold, too sterile."

But she frankly says that if she had been her mother, "I may or may not have wanted to die. I might have wanted to live."

According to Godey's Lady's

Book and Magazine,"A woman may love her husband devotedly but melancholy fact ... if, with these, she fails to make his home comfortable, his heart will inevitably escape her; and women live so entirely in the affections that, without love. their existence is a void."

While housekeeping occupied a great majority of a woman's day, solace and enjoyment was found in crafts of the hand and heart. Quilting, needlepoint, dressmaking and china painting were among several time-honored traditions that evolved into art forms. Examples that in the very least were created out of the necessity to be frugal, were masterpieces of function and aesthetics.

"Women in the 19th century never wasted a single piece of fabric," said Stewart, "as we see by the use of the smallest scraps of material to the incorporation of buttons and painted cloths." Stewart said quilts, in particular, are evidence of the authentic talent women possessed from the most challenging stitch to the bold combinations of silk, velvet, cotton and wool. Quilting as well as canning, sewing and dressmaking served as hands-on methods for in-home teaching of mathematics and geometry.

'Typically boys went to school and girls stayed home to learn from their mothers," said Stewart. "Measuring, canning and designing patterns served as good teaching material for multiplying and dividing."

Another profession that served to be a source of steady income for women was china painting. The museum features several pieces of authentic handpainted china, thanks to donations from local owners and collectors.

Primarily adorned with water colors, Stewart said local merchants would supply women with fired porcelain and china from which they would work at their own pace. "It was a good profession to do at home," she said.

Women's activities are also featured in the exhibit, including women's organizations and the suffrage and temperance movements. Stewart said Plymouth, in particular, had a strong congregation of some 100 Women's Christian Temperance Union members in 1897, and the community prohibited the sale and consumption of alcohol until the 1950s.

Plymouth also boasts several historical firsts" for women, including Michigan's first female Justice of the Peace - Phoebe Patterson (elected 1919) and one of the first mayors in the state -Plymouth resident Ruth Huston Whipple (served 1940-1950). "This exhibit is a testimonial to women's creativity and resourcefulness," said Stewart, "and a celebration of their determination and spirit."

The women's exhibit is on display through Sept. 14 and includes several "kid friendly" learning opportunities, including a scavenger hunt, muslin patterns for children to make their own quilt square and looms for weaving.

The museum is at 155 S. Main Street, Plymouth. Hours are 1-4 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday and 2-5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $2 for adults, 50 cents for students ages 5-17, and free for children under age 5 free and $5 for families. For more information, call (313) 455-

Holmes honored again

It's as if the dam busted, and there's no stopping the torrent now. The honors just keep flowing to Canton's Kelly Holmes.

When the softball season started for University of Michigan, Holmes, a senior, was expected to be the No. 2 starter on a pretty good team. But an injury to starter Sara Griffin elevated Holmes to No. 1, and she responded in magnificent style.

The numbers are astounding. Holmes became U-M's career leader in victories with 76 by going 33-8 in her senior season with a 1.18 earned run average, numbers that led the Wolverines into the NCAA World Series and earned her second team All-American hon-

Kelly Holmes state's best amateur

Now, Holmes - who also earned GTE Academic All-America honors — has gone risen above U-M and the NCAA; she's been named the state of Michigan's female amateur athlete of the year by Gov. Engler's Council on Physical Fitness, Health and Sports.

Did it catch Holmes by surprise? "It did," she said. "One of my neighbors (in Canton) said, 'I'm going to stop saying congratulations to you. I'm just going to give you a tape. "Even to be considered for something at this level, it's something I never even dreamed of.

And then to win it, with all the outstanding amateur athletes in this state." Holmes has graduated and is currently working for Plante Moran in Southfield. She'll accept her latest award at a special ceremony Sept. 10. And will it be her last? "I think it's safe to say yes," Holmes answered. "I can't imagine anything else that I could win.'

an 86; with his 17 handicap, that gave him a 69. Brocious fired an 82; with his 12 handicap, that put his score at 70. The winning net score was 65 (85 gross with a 20 handicap) by Troy's Jeff Duncan.

Despite problems, Briggs is optimistic

A variety of methods have been tried to rejuvenate the men's basketball program at Schoolcraft College.

Nothing's worked.

The closest the administration came to turning around a program that has become a perennial loser was two years ago, when longtime coaching veteran Glen Donahue was brought in.

It seemed Donahue had a handle on the situation, although the team struggled through its first season under his direction. But then, just before the start of his second year on the job, he resigned to become an assistant coach at CenSCHOOLCRAFT SPORTS

And it was back to square one.

Perhaps that's why SC athletic director Ed Kavanaugh opted to explore his avenues more completely this time. He didn't want short-term filler for the job.

It took a while to meet that requirement - so long that the 1997-98 season could almost be considered a wash. It wasn't until last week that the decision was made:

Bring back Carlos Briggs. All sorts of hopes ride with that name. And with good reason — the last time SC was any good at all at men's hoop, Briggs was the reason why. He led the NJCAA in scoring and was an NJCAA All-American.

After earning his associate's degree at SC in 1984, Briggs got a scholarship to Baylor. He ledthe Southwest Conference in scoring as a junior, and was eventually drafted in the fourth, round by the San Antonio Spurs.

For the past two years, Briggs has been teaching and coaching in a Dallas high school. As an assistant coach two years ago at Waxahachie HS, the team reached the No. 1 ranking in Class 4A, the state's second-biggest division,

Mold mangle Lancers twice

The pitching was good enough Tuesday to carry the Motor City Mold to a double-header sweep of the Livonia Lancers, 7-0 and 7-4 at Livonia Ladywood HS.

The two wins boosted the Mold's record in the Girls Incredible Fast-Pitch Softball League to 10-5.

In the opener, Jenny Fisher stopped the Lancers - composed of mostly Ladywood players - on two hits and one walk through seven innings. She struck out six.

Melissa Brown wreaked havoc offensively for the Mold (from Plymouth Canton), getting on base four times on two hits (one a double) and two walks. Brown stole five bases and scored two runs.

Liz Elsner added a hit, a run batted in and scored two runs, and both Shelly Priebe and Angie Adkins contributed a hit and an RBI.

In the second game, Patty Snook overcame seven hits and four wild pitches to subdue the Lancers. She struck out seven.

Carrie Kovachevich had two hits and an RBI for the Mold, with Becky Mize getting three walks and scoring twice, and both Freels and Amy Seale adding a hit and an RBI.

Last season, OSU wasn't quite as good (finishing fourth at the NCAA Final), but Stibel was much improved. In fact, he showed improvement in every event.

MER CH

One of Observerland's longest and most successful coaching tenures ended with the sudden resignation of Larry Baker as Mercy High School's girls bas-ketball coach.

BY DAN O'MEARA STAFF WRITER

Baker, who compiled a 381-143 record in 22 seasons, opted for retirement to spend more time with his family while his children are still in school.

"I've asked my family to make sacrifices along the way, but it really struck me that I was really making a mistake," Baker said. "I wanted to fulfill my role as a parent as much as I could in such critical years."

The 43-year-old Baker and his wife, Barb, have a son, Chris, who will be a sophomore at Farmington High School, and a daughter, Andrea, who will be a freshman at Mercy.

"I've never attended an open house, because it always conflicted with a basketball game," Baker said. "We've never gone away on Labor Day weekend, because basketball season was always starting then.

"(His children) won't be here forever to enjoy those things as a family. I just started being resentful of some of the conflicts, and it's not fair to a great group basketball players (currently at Mercy) to give them less than my best

Baker, who had already begun preparing the Marlins for the upcoming season, said he regretted the timing of his resignation, which comes less than a month before the start of preseason practices.

He called Mercy Athletic Director Nancy Malinowski on Saturday to inform her of his decision, and he met with the team Sunday to tell his players.

"I felt as though I was being cruel, because I was coming out of the blue with this," Baker said. "And I wasn't able to offer (the players) an idea of what the next step would be, because I had only told the athletic director. But I think they under-divert his time and commitment from his family, Baker said he no longer had the same enthusiasm to coach.

"Ordinarily, at the end of the season, I'm tired and want some distance from the sport," he said. "I had been slower to recover the passion one needs to coach, and this year it wasn't coming back. "It was gnawing at me. Instead of looking forward to the season, I was looking at it more as something that would have to be dealt with, scheduled properly

"I tended to be looking at the negatives instead of the positives. The pendulum had swung and I felt like I needed to step away. I was growing a little tired of it, and I wanted to be available to do other things with my own kids."

Baker said that point was brought home to him last week when he left a basketball scrimmage briefly to drive his daughter to her softball game.

"I came back to the scrimmage there supporting them," he said. "It was a striking illustration that I'm not performing the right role.

Baker said he wanted to emphasize his decision was not a reflection on the current group of Mercy players or done in response to any individual play-

"The advent of the season is really what it took for me to realize how deeply I feel about this," he said.

"I talked about it with my wife, and we felt I owed it to Nancy to tell her at once. It wasn't right to go through the season less than wholeheartedly.

"The program is on sound footing. All the preparations have been made for the coming season, and a fresh burst of enthusiasm might better serve the Malinowski said she was shocked by Baker's decision but, after listening to him explain, understood his reasons behind it. "He's built a great tradition here; it's going to very hard to replace him," she said. "His record and success speak for themselves.

"Anywhere you go, everybody knows who Larry Baker is. I had a gentleman tell me 'Basketball and Mercy go hand-in-hand, don't they?' I said, 'Well, that's Larry; he's built this program."

While the timing might be inconvenient, Malinowski said she wasn't upset by it.

"After all his contributions and all he's done, when he says he just can't do this again, what can you say?" she said. "At least we have a few weeks. It's not like it's the last day (before practice starts).

"I told Larry I'll do everything I can to see the Mercy tradition continues."

Baker's teams won two Class and saw the players' parents A championships (1977 and 1982) and were runners-up on three occasions - the last time in 1991. The Marlins also won 19 district and 11 regional titles.

The come-from-behind victory over four-time defending state champion Flint Northern in the '82 finals ranks as one of Mercy's greatest accomplishments during Baker's tenure.

That was an unbelievable experience — the very epitome of achievement," Baker said, adding the Marlins overcame a 19-point deficit in that game. "It's a wonderful, wonderful

"I'm just as proud I didn't miss a practice; I was at every game. I had a lot of great association's with great individual athletes and coaches, and I've really cherished those, too."

Rick Berryman played three times in the All-American Amateur Baseball Association tournament in Johnstown, Pa.

That was 30 years ago.

This time he's headed back to the Keystone state as a manager as his Michigan Rams clinched the Livonia Collegiate Division of the Adray Metro Baseball Association over the weekend.

The Rams, who split a doubleheader Sunday at Ford Field with Decision Consultants, Inc.

of Livonia, will head Aug. 2 to Altoona, Pa. for the AAABA regional. Berryman's 20-andunder squad must beat out four regional qualifiers to advance to the prestigious 16-team national field the following week in John-

"I can't remember the team I was on, it was either Dependable Hardchrome or one of the citysponsored Redford teams, Berryman recalled. "I was playing for Bob Atkins. It was 1967. I was 18. I remember I got the start the opening game. I walked the bases loaded, then I got an easy double-play ball back to the mound and I threw it over the catcher's head. I must have been nervous. They booed me, all 17,000 of them.

Berryman came back the next two years and fared a little bet-

"It's one of the most unique tournaments I've ever played in," he said. "We're excited about going to Altoona. Since I was a guy who played there, it's always Jason Hoorn, who pitched 6 2/3 innings, allowing 10 hits and three earned runs, earned the victory. Reliever John Rogers faced three batters and Brian Berryman, Rick's son and sophomore hurler at Michigan, got the final out.

Greg Rogers and Bob Hamp each went 4-for-5 in the victory, while Schuyler Doakes contributed three hits, two stolen bases and three runs. Tom Biljan added two hits, while Rick Miller and Brian Issitt each scored twice.

DCI's Bob Mason, who held the Rams to one run over five innings, took the loss. He gave up seven runs. Reliever Art Hoffmeyer was charged with three runs in the sixth and four in the seventh.

Andrew Maki led DCI with three hits, while Jason Carano, Pete Quinn and Delano Voletti added two apiece. Mike Brusseau added a 2-run single.

DCI, which is battling Hines Park for second place and a trip to Rome, Ga. for the National Amateur Baseball Federation 22-and-under tourney (Aug. 7), bounced back to win the nightcap, 10-6.

THE ART OF PROPER PLACEMENT

Just as many medical practitioners in the West have grown to appreciate the value of acupuncture, many designers are learning the benefits of "feng shui". Translated to mean 'the wind and the water', feng shui is the Chinese art of proper placement.
Practitioners of the philosophy believe that simply by arranging our decor so that it is in keeping with the natural order, we can bring health and harmony to our lives. According to the principles of feng shui. the careful placement of everything from our front door to our favorite plant assures us a life of good fortune and prosperity. As an ancient Chinese proverb points out, when there is harmony in the house, there is harmony in the universe. A harmonious life begins at home.

The interior designers of SCOTT SHUPTRINE can review your personal tastes and objectives in order to advise you on furniture selection, space planning, and accessorization. # What you can do during brownout returned from a five day vacation in California and had sat down to read my collected newspapers when the headlines jumped out and caught my attention

Detroit Edison does not have enough energy to pass out to every home and is therefore cutting back on the amount of voltage they're sending across the wires.

This is an old problem going back to the 1970s, which now resurfaces with some brand new admissions.

Back in the old days it was very hard for Edison to admit that any home was not being supplied with the correct amount of voltage. It was also a very common occurrence that a refrigbecause of a low voltage condition and be darned if anyone would accept responsibility.

The consumer usually had to foot the bill and it wasn't cheap to have a npressor replaced.

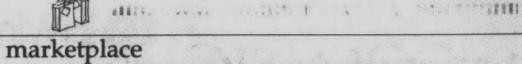

I have read the stories and the many numerous comments made about deregulation and new energy sources becoming available, and quite honestly I don't give a darn.

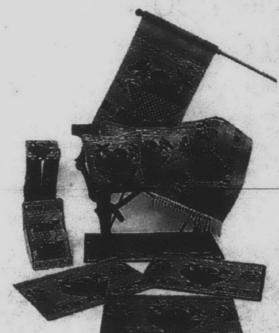

I am interested only in the fact that the proper voltage be supplied to my home and I don't care where it comes

I admire Edison for being up front with their information and for admitting their shortcomings. I would rather see them shut off the power completely to any given neighborhood in order to maintain enough voltage to most homes.

Better still, I would ask that every homeowner where no one is home during the day, shut off the air conditioning until someone gets home at the end of the day.

As you well know, that figure could amount to several hundred thousand

It only takes a short while before the comfort of air conditioning is realized by the homeowner.

Low voltage conditions to a home can cause some serious and costly problems.

When you see light bulbs which are suddenly not bright enough and television pictures which are changed from the norm, it is time for you to shut off these products.

Motors, compressors and electronics are designed to operate on 110 volts and even a simple drop of 10 volts can damage these products beyond reasonable repairs.

Thursday, July 24, 1997

I would even bet you that the compressors of the 1970s could better take the brunt of a brownout compared to the compressors being made today.

If your compressor failed today, will you be able to prove that it was a low voltage condition that caused it, or was it just a plain part failure that occurred naturally? Will Detroit Edison participate in the cost of replacement?

Detroit Edison admits in front page headlines that they are having a problem. It is now up to you to respond in such a fashion as to prevent damage to your appliances.

Shut off these appliances until voltage conditions to your home have returned to normal.

And let every person who reads this column shut off their central air conditioning while they are at work, and, guess what?

Edison won't have a problem and neither will we.

Help put bite on dogwood dangers

MARTY FIGLEY

It won't be very long before trees begin to change color, then we will know that another season has come and gone, all too soon. One of the prettiest trees in the landscapes is the flowering dogwood (Cornus florida). You might say, "Why is she writing about this subject at this time of year?"

I recently received a letter from Dr. Gerard Adams of the Department of Botany and Plant Pathology at Michigan State University about his concern of possible dogwood anthracnose and severe powdery mildew problems that threaten these trees

Dogwood anthracnose (Discula destructiva) is very destructive, as is powdery mildew, which entered Michigan last year in Berrien County and "is causing damage on dogwood in both woodlands and ornamental plantings,"

Accordingly, nurserymen and landscapers, as well as people like you and me, are concerned.

Dr. Adams is conducting a survey to provide information to monitor where these diseases may be in our state and what damage has or hasn't been done.

A minimum of four locations will be surveyed per county, and surveys will be conducted in commercial nurseries growing or importing these trees and in urban settings where groups of at least 10 dogwoods occur together. Dr. Adams

If you know of a location in any county of natural stands or plantings of flowering dogwoods in Michigan, please contact Dr. Adams with the following information: the nearest crossroads, property descriptions, highway mile or exit numbers, or even longitude and latitude of known quantities of the trees.

His address is 166 Plant Biology Building, Department of Botany and Plant Biology, Michigan State University. East Lansing 48824-1312. His telephone number is (517) 355-0202.

You can also call my number at the end of this column and I will pass the information on to him.

Landscape lighting - less is better

O: We would like to install land scape lighting around our property and wondered if you had any suggestions on how to design the layout.

A: Landscape lighting has become very popular, but I always tell my customers that less is better when it comes to outdoor lighting. Here are a few ideas to consider in designing a pleasing

1. Silhouetting: The silhouette of a dramatically shaped tree or object can be created by reflecting light off a surface behind it. The light should be concealed, usually behind and below the object to be silhouetted. In silhouetting, an object is seen standing out from a lighted background.

2. Spotlighting - is an effective technique for getting an object of architectural interest noticed. A statue, a dramatically shaped tree or entranceway can all be focal points through the use of spotlighting. Smaller fixtures can also be use to call attention to individual plants or garden elements. Be selective in how often you use spotlighting.

3. Grazing - Light is placed to shine across a textured surface such as brick or stucco walls or a natural surface like tree bark. The light catches the high points of the surface while creating shadows in the low points.

4. Cross lighting - This lighting variation uses two or more light sources from above or below to illuminate an object from different directions. The result is a tree, large plant, or art object that is more three-dimensionally revealed than when lit from only one direction.

5. Downlighting/Moonlighting - the effect of moonlight. Several fixtures are placed high in trees or on buildings to create a soft downlight and cast attractive patterns through branches and leaves.

6. Shadowing - Shining a light directly on an object can create interesting shadows on the vertical surface behind it. The light fixture is placed in front of and below the object. By changing the intensity of the light and the distance from the object, the size and shape of the shadows can be varied.

7. Uplighting - Although this light doesn't normally appear in nature, it can provide dramatic effect when used sparingly. The light source is surface mounted or recessed in the ground and angled up to display a tree, artwork or struc

8. Background lighting - Background lighting provides a visual backdrop for the garden, or a small part of it. You can do this perspective lighting or you light a stone wall, other structures, or tall dense planting at the back of the garden.

Both background lighting and perspective lighting provide effective vistas for viewing from indoors.

9. Perspective - this gives a subtle sense of drama and dimension to the garden by emphasizing a line of sight (called an axis). A garden axis may be a natural view through a group of trees, the open corridor through plantings formed by a path for a long narrow patio. Frequently, perspective lighting is used to make a garden feel larger than it actually is by suggesting to the viewer's eye that the other end of the visual axis is at some distance

Keep in mind the surfaces which are black or dark-colored, have a dull finish and are heavily textured will absorb the most light. Good luck!

Past perfect: Rosemary LaBorde put antique elements and accents to elegant effect in designing and building her Plymouth house.

At Home Editor

From out of the past, Rosemary LaBorde has made a modern classic

Designing and building her Plymouth house, which she completed this year, she used antique elements and accents to elegant and inviting effect.

The antique pieces came from a variety of sources, including old mansions; contemporary workmanship from skilled crafters continued the style inside and "I wanted it to be like 1910," said LaBorde, a licensed builder.

LaBorde wanted design elements to fit with the Tudor style she likes. "I really put a lot of pieces together."

An air of graciousness fills the house, which is large (including 4-1/2 baths and four bedrooms). Every part of the residence catches your eye and suggests it can tell or inspire a story.

This begins at first sight of the house from outside. The chimney is shaped like giant chess pieces, which regally look out over the neighborhood. The chimney is from England and is approximately 120 vears old.

Cedar shingles cover the roof. Copper features adorn the structure, among them the frieze board, fascia board and overhang. The limestone baluster is from the

Around the side are broad garage doors, which came from an old carriage house in Grosse Pointe Park.

Inside the front door, the fover sings with sophistication, conjuring images of flowing gowns and black tails.

A chandelier hangs from the high ceiling. Recessed lighting softly glows from behind molding. The newel post at the bottom of the curved staircase is topped with glass that contains a gentle light.

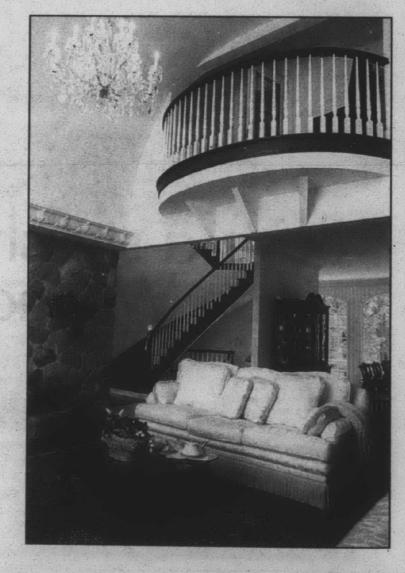

"It's great for a night light."

The staircase is made of rich cherry wood, as are the wood floors throughout the house. The floor in the foyer is Italian view of the sloping, sweeping grounds that surround the house. Along one wall are clear "storage bin" areas above the counter level.

An antique table with a marble top, marble countertops and a cozy table set are among other features. The decor includes a grape motif, and narrow yellow stripes on the wall.

The exquisite dining room is like a luscious dessert. Its walls are adorned with a yellow stripe pattern broader than that in the kitchen.

White French doors lead to another room. By coincidence, the room depicted in an old painting on one wall features doors resembling these; this is like a voice from the past telling her she was on the right track, LaBorde says with a smile.

A fireplace is nestled in a stone wall in the refined great room, which also contains a soaring ceiling and large leaded glass window. A bird's-eye view of the room is offered from a circular balcony

The upstairs is full of treasures, including bathtubs with slipper feet, and doors of different sizes that offer an Alice in Wonderland-type excitement.

As an example of how LaBorde makes extra space in the house, an upstairs room features drawers that extend into the wall.

Brick work and stone work were by David Gibons and Don Goodfellow respectively. Ralph Toreson was the roughing-in carpenter who did the actual skeleton. LaBorde's father, Charles LaBorde, and uncle, Jess Elkins, and Phil Brooks did much of

Skeptic Tank no joke to quartet

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO

The hard rock band Skeptic Tank vows to make rock 'n' roll fun again.

"Other bands try their hardest to act like they're (so miserable) and the worst thing they ever did to themselves in their life was to pick up a guitar," singer Rob Schaeffer said.

"We'll take endorsements and free stuff - anything. It's gonna be fun again to trash the backstage area, get free drinks, and have chicks hol-lering at us. We're not going to pretend like we hate it because we don't hate it. We love it."

Injecting fun into rock 'n' roll is a logical goal for Skeptic Tank which was founded by Schaeffer, the producer of Drew Lane and Mike Clark's morning show on WRIF. The Ferndale resident also writes and performs some of the "Looney Tunes" parody songs on the show. Schaeffer explained that Skeptic Tank's first incarnation took place between 1992 and 1993.

"They were just a few losers who are all in prison now or selling used cars or something like that. This was a band that never made it out of the basement or the garage," Schaefer

Earlier this year, Lane insisted that Schaefer get all the original members back together for a "Drew and Mike party in November 1996 at The Palladium in Roseville. About week later, Schaefer met former Ted Nugent drummer Gunner Ross of Southfield at an Ozzy Osbourne

"Gunner asked me how serious I was about it. I didn't know how I was until he started calling me."

As Schaefer talked about Skeptic Tank on the air, "every musician in Detroit was calling me wanting to be a part of Skeptic Tank. I had guys from some of the best bands in Detroit calling me, and others who thought they were in the best band in Detroit."

"When Gunner and I met, although it's kind of a rock 'n' roll cliche, we just knew.'

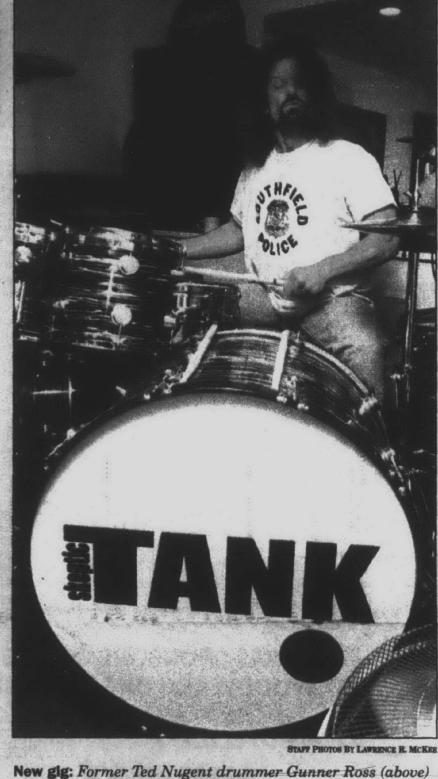

To round out the group, Ross recruited bassist Paul Anthony of Flint, and guitarist Scott Anderson of West Bloomfield.

The Skeptic Tank reunion was only supposed to be one show but things quickly changed.

"We were going to be as funny as possible but still try to sound halfway decent so we were respected as musicians. Once (Gunner) got in here and started playing, it wasn't funny anymore."

"I truly think we're doing some-thing different. We're '80s influenced but it's funny. You can only play what you know. Your influences are going to be basically what you're used to listening to or playing. We're not ashamed to admit that we come from that ''80s glam big hair Cinderella, Poison' (era). We're part of all that.

The band is working on a CD that should be out by the fall. Fans can Schaeffer admitted that there's "nothing pretty or profound about what we're doing. Half the songs we write we write in about three min-

"As far as the lyrics go I write most of the lyrics," Schaeffer said. "Most of the songs are kind of dark, kind of mean, kind of angry. But I'm not a dark, mean angry person. We write a lot about the end of the world, the end of relationships, and the end of life as we know. We write about the end of everything. It's mean crunchy stuff that isn't meant to be taken seriously. I can't help anybody through life with my lyrics. They're just there. If I see (the fans) heads going up and down, that's enough for me.'

Once, the band was described as a Spinal Tap-come-Chili Peppers joke fest." Schaefer agreed somewhat with that comparison.

"I think we're more Spinal Tap than the Chili Peppers. Paul and I tend to be very animated on stage.

"I think we take ourselves lightly. It's part of our charm. We look funny, but you walk away crying."

Beneficial laughs: Comedian Elliott Branch is encouraging people to "Laugh & Make A Difference," July 28 at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle. Branch has assembled a cast of local comic characters to present a benefit for Caring Together.

Local comedians 'Laugh, Make a Difference'

BY KEELY WYGONIK STAFF WRITER

When he "gets older, starts losing his hair, many years from now..." comedian Elliott Branch would like to think there will be someone there to help him, and others. That's why this funny man from Royal Oak is hosting a July 28 benefit at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle for Caring Together, a network of volunteers serving the elderly in Detroit.

"These are volunteer caregivers who assist senior citizens," explained Branch. "A lot of people would be in nursing homes if it wasn't for this help."

Over the past four years Branch has hosted benefits for Caring Together at Porter Street Station in Detroit, but he needed a bigger venue, and Mark Ridley was glad to oblige. "Elliott's great to work with," said Ridley.

"Jerry Seinfeld, Jay Leno, and Bill Cosby, won't be able to be there this year," teased Branch, "but we've put together a show with the top comics of the Midwest."

Romantic show tunes are real stars of Guild's summer revue

The Players Guild of Dearborn presents "Lovers, Liars & Loonies," a musical revue featuring familiar and not so familiar romantic Broadway show tunes; 8 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 25-27 at the airconditioned theater, Madison and Outer Drive, Dearborn; (313) 561-TKTS; general seating

BY TAMI TABACCHI

The cast and crew of the Players Guild of Dearborn have been bitten by the love bug, and boy do they have it bad!

For those not feeling too romantic these hot and sweaty days of summer, a sure-fire remedy requires attending the Guild's summer musical review,

"Lover, Liars & Loonies."

After doing it all with last summer's "Let Freedom Ring (And Dance)," the team of Valerie Mangrum and Brian Townsend have returned to the Guild. They have put together a compilation of love songs that chronicles the five phases of love: "First Impressions," "Significant Otherhood," "The Break Up," "Significant "Love and Marriage," and "And Valerie and Brian pool their assets, serving as directors, writers, choreographers, as well as performing a great many of the songs themselves.

Valerie and Brian have also managed to snag many of the same talented singers that consistently grace the Guild's stage. One major difference between nicely by Karen Groves, I still this show and last year's is the song selection. While "Freedom" contained mostly familiar songs, many will only recognize a fraction of the 42 songs in "Lovers, Liars & Loonies."

Even for those who frequent musicals, you will be surprised at the many touching and humorous love songs that have never delighted your ears. The show also presents a variety of difference musical styles. You'll hear vaudeville to calypso style, from classic to contemporarysounding songs.

If you like a quintessential toetapping show tune, listen for : 'You've Got Possibilities" and "I'll Never Be Jealous Again." Sung can't get "I'm Not At All In Love" out of my head.

For humor, I don't believe I ever stopped laughing at the suggestive humor of "Everybody Ought to Have a Maid."

Lend your eyes and ears to Brian Townsend's Groucho impersonation in "Natasha," and Diana Reynolds as the master of sarcasm in "The Little Things You Do Together."

If you prefer something to sing along with, then there's "There Is Nothing Like a Dame" and "Just in Time."

And Keith Lamarre sings "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes." Who knew it was a show tune?

By far, my favorite tear-jerking ballad was "Moon in My Window," sung beautifully by Anna Gleichauf, Diana Reynolds, and Saundrea Sanborn. Also listen for "Too Much In Love To Care," "With Every Breath I Take," and "What More Can I Say."

The show's finale, "The Human Heart," adds contemporary flair. Annette Hissong of Westland flawlessly leads the company through this uplifting song, accompanied by Tim Meade playing an electric guitar, and demonstrated in sign language by Keith Lamarre.

The show also includes Michael Falzon of Westland, Tony Lawry of Garden City, Megan Meade-Higgins of Southfield, Joanne Duckman of Birmingham and Leonard Poma of Plymouth

This show requires no fancy sets or costumes. The set is merely a series of platforms with only a few hand props. The singers are all dressed in black and white, with a splash of red in act two. All that's required is an appreciation for the trials and tribulations of love, as well as a fondness for music.

THEATER

So why not make a date for romance? Grab your best guy or gal, relish a candlelight dinner and then head to the Player's Guild for "Lovers, Liars & Loonies.

This is a date that could thaw even the most unromantic of hearts.

Or as the cast might say, it's simply a "s'wonderful" evening

A professional comedian for eight years, Branch, who will be headlining at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle, Aug. 6-10, and tours all over the country, is serious about helping others. Porter Street Station holds about 100 people, but the Comedy Castle holds 400. He hasn't sold out yet, but Branch wants to, and has been busy working the phone calling people, passing out flyers, and praying.

"Laughter is like medicine," he said. "I want to Laugh and Make a Difference," he said. "I will also be doing the Motor City Women of Comedy benefit on Aug. 24."

Jim McLean of Westland, who grew up in Livonia, is looking forward to the benefit on July 28. "I do a lot of benefits," he said. 'Last year I did 45-46. I don't think people realize comedians have a good heart, and will pitch in. They're big hearted, as well as very talented, and we have a lot of them here."

A lot of people don't realize how many comedians are working in our midst, in local clubs such as the Comedy Castle and Joey's, and on the road. "I'm billed as the funniest guy you never heard of," said McLean who has been practicing his craft for the last nine years, and is Jim McLean headlining at the Comedy Castle

July 24-27.
"I have something in the works with Comedy Central."

What makes audiences laugh? "Just odd occurrences," said McLean. "I talk about growing up in Hines Park. They're true life stories, 'Dumb and Dumber stories.' I talk about near death experiences when you're tubing. My father was a great story-teller, and can recall events from the 30s and 40s and people never tire of hearing his stories."

Now that a year has passed since singer/songwriter Jamie Walters appeared as the guitarrocking abusive Ray Pruitt on "Beverly Hills 90210," Walters is hoping that that association remains in the farthest reaches of fans minds.

"I feel that that show was one thing out of a group of things that I've done. Unfortunately it's the thing that gave me the most exposure," Walters said via telephone from his Sherman Oaks, Calif., home.

He said that people still walk up to him once or twice a day and ask him to "stop beating up Donna," his "90210" girlfriend played by Tori Spelling.

Some people are cool. Some aren't," he said with a laugh.

Walters is one of a variety of acts playing the "Q Summer Concert" sponsored by radio station WKQI 95.5, 1-8 p.m. Sunday, July 27, at the Phoenix Plaza

Amphitheatre in Pontiac. Kyle Vincent, 10,000 Maniacs with new singer Mary Ramsey, Blessid Union of Souls, Billy Mann, Night Ranger, The Civilians, the reggae band Immunity and rockabilly cats Twistin' Tarantulas are also scheduled to play the all-ages

Walters has spent most of his time since leaving "90210" on the road promoting his music career. He recently celebrated the release of his sophomore effort "Ride" (Atlantic). The album, which hit stores Tuesday, June 24, is less slick and carries a much more raw and straightahead feeling than his self-titled

"After having done that first record, I learned so much about how I wanted to do things the next time. It went a lot smoother. It was a lot easier to sort of translate to my producer and the people I worked with how I wanted it to sound. I think this album is a better reflection of me," Walters explained.

For example, the songs on the album, like "Reckless" and "The Other Side" are more personal.

"(The songs) are coming more from me than from being in the studio and working with other people. Even vocally, the range that I wrote them in is really comfortable for me to sing," Walters said.

"I don't mind singing about that kind of stuff. I write about things that are really personal. I put them in a way that people can definitely identify with and not make it so out there or too deep and so personal that fans

Ironically, however, one of Walters favorite songs on his record is his rendition of pop singer Matthew Sweet's "Winona."

"I've been a huge Matthew Sweet fan for years and years. The album 'Girlfriend' was my favorite Matthew Sweet album and 'Winona' was one of my favorite tracks off of that," he

"When I first started going out and doing acoustic shows, I would play 'Winona' acoustically and I would say, 'Here's a song written by my favorite artist.' Well, more for myself than anyone else, I wanted to record this and see how it turned out."

He recorded it with his band . bassist Leland Sklar, guitarist Michael Landau, and drummer Gary Mallaber and Russ Kunkel and he wasn't the only one pleased with the results.

"I had met Matthew Sweet a couple times before that and I don't know what I'm talking said, 'Is it cool if I cover the about." song?' He was all for it. Then when he heard the recorded version he thought it was great and that made me think, 'Yeah. I gotta put this on the record.'

Right now Walters is so busy promoting "Ride" that he won't have time to think about his acting career until fall.

"I'm hoping that by the end of the summer I have a clearer idea of how I can organize my time. I would like to audition for some movies and see what's out there."

Backstage listens in on 2 bands

ue our summer with first season highlights and never-beforeaired material. Tonight's show, airing at 9:30 on Channel 56, demonstrates the flip side of a couple of perforsellers versus exciting up-andonce you get them, you never have to think about again, like aluminum siding, dental fillings and world-class improvisational comedy theater. Since opening its doors in 1993, Second City's consistent hilarity and social satire have become constants in Four years or continuous, original comedy revues have us taking this venerable institution for granted, an odd but undeniable compliment: it's old reliable, always a great night out, always new and funny. So, for the first segment of the first show of the first season, we decided to explore the process of putting together a Second City revue. Confirming a hunch, we found out that improv involves a lot more than just making it up as you go along. Watching the process of some very talented comedians gave us a glimpse of how seriously they approach the craft marketing manager (and one of the first two guests we hosted in the Detroit Public Television studio, along with Second City Detroit's head honcho, Lynn Okkerse) gave me an update on the current show. "' Send in the Clones' is our 10th revue in Detroit. We've had some cast changes since you sent your cameras - some departures, and we've moved some people up, which is always interesting. For instance, Eric Black is on the mainstage now. He's lived in the area for about the last 10 years, but he's originally from London, England. So he adds a British slant to things, which is a good thing." Second City is already developing material for the 11th There are certain things that, revue, which George tells me is due in October.

George Bournias, Second City's

Shifting to the dramatic side of acting, our intrepid theater correspondent, Wayne State University's Blair Anderson, caught up to actor John Glover for an interview we're airing for the first time tonight. Glover was coming through Detroit to promote not one but two very successful (and very different) summer films in which he appears: "Love! Valor! Compassion!" and "Batman and

Stage actors rarely get a chance to recreate their characters on film. Fortunately, this wasn't true here. In the movie version of "Love! Valor! Compassion!" Glover gets anothcompassion! Glover gets another chance to portray twin brothers – James "the good" and John "the bad" – parts for which he won the 1995 Tony Award for best performance by an actor. His characters go from "bad" to "worse" as he also plays the mad scientist in "Batman and Robin."

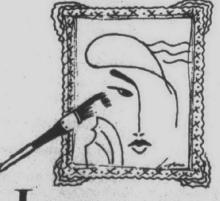

Also tonight, we're airing new performances form two local bands, one that's already "arrived," and another that looks to be on its way: Sponge and The Articles. Sponge's first album, "Rotting Pinata," went platinum. Their current release, "Waxed Ecstatic," is still in heavy radio

Currently, Sponge is wrapping up the coast-to-coast ROAR tour with Michigander Iggy Pop and others. They've been on "The Late Show with David Letterman." They've been on "Late Night with Conan O'Brien." And they've been on Backstage Pass! They were the first huge rock and roll set we did, with a towering wall of amplifiers that really moved some air. Vinnie and the boys were great to us and gave killer performances. That show was a great boost because it gave us confidence that our production could showcase any act with aplomb. Tonight we air a live version we capture in the Channel 56 studio of the biggest single off their first album, "Sixteen Candles."

We counterpoint the success of Sponge with an emerging local band, The Articles, whose CD is due out in August. A reviewer for Flipside said The Articles' music was "seriously beautiful ska ... makes me homesick for Miles Davis and Dizzy Gillespie."

Check out their performance on Backstage Pass, tonight at 9:30 on Detroit Public Television, with a rebroadcast at 1:30 a.m. The great thing about discovering up-and-coming artists is that you frequently catch them performing at great local venues. Which is exactly what we want you to do. Now get out there!

Disney's cornball approach helps 'George' swing

Let's get one thing straight: "George of the Jungle" was never a classic television series. was attempt by animator Jay Ward in the late 1960s to come up with a concept half as funny as his earlier "Rocky and Bullwinkle." Even cartoon cultists are more likely to remember its dopey theme song ("Watch out for that tree!") than any of the ape man's antics over three long seasons.

Which means that I entered Disney's live-action version of "George" with no expectations whatsoever, no nostalgia to tread on. Surprisingly, what originally ran as a one-joke Tarzan spoof has at least a dozen laughs in the movie version, and a new Mickey Mouse cartoon to boot.

The plot sticks pretty close to the old Tarzan saga. When urban sophisticate Ursula (Leslie Mann) embarks on a jungle safari, she hears the legend of a strange "white ape." He lords over the beasts and strikes fear in the hearts of those who enter his jungle domain.

Meeting him proves a bit different. The white ape is actually a hunky guy (Brendan Fraser) and though he does talk to the animals, he's more or less a lovable dunce. For one thing, he smacks into trees all the time when he swings from vine to Fraser, pumped up considerably since "Encino Man," has the right attitude for the movie, which does its best to create a live-action cartoon with exaggerated situations and sound effects. It even has the same pun-filled narration that were a staple of the Jay Ward cartoons.

The rest of the cast seems game as well. Richard "Shaft" Roundtree plays the sage safari leader, who doesn't lower himself to his men's snide comments about Ursula's fiancee (Thomas Haden Church), whose attempts to control his environment usually place him face first in elephant dung.

Disney has created a whole jungle-full of creatures for George to play with. Unlike the 1995 summer hit "Congo," where millions were spent to make a talking ape appear genuine, there's never any doubt that we're looking at guys in flea-bitten monkey suits.

John Cleese provides the voice for Tarzan's buddy, simply named "Ape," and the fact that the lips barely move with the words makes his lines all the more funny.

Considerably more effort was spent on Shep, the elephant that thinks he's a dog. In a marvel of computer animation, the pachydermic pooch chews contentedly on Dino-sized Milk Bones and runs in spastic circles when George shows him attention.

I still have a bad taste in my mouth from Disney's mawkish "Jungle 2 Jungle," so when George made the trek to the big city I grew a little worried. No

The big guy's climb up the Golden Gate Bridge is not only a clever spoof of "Tarzan's New York Adventure," but also of Streisand's "Funny Girl" when Ursula comes after him on the bow of a tugboat.

Overall, its approach to tryanything humor, no matter how corny or obtuse, should give "George of the Jungle" an edge with both kids and their parents. The movie, like its main character (and like most of the Ward cartoons), is much smarter than

BY JOHN MONAGHAN SPECIAL WRITER

When "The Designated ourner" opens the new season it the Detroit Film Theatre on Friday, Aug. 1, it will likely do what every good film should: pro-voke heated discussion about its

The debate is hardly a new one Wallace Shawn, the actor/playwright/director still st known as the quieter half of "My Dinner with Andre." Viewers were divided on whether the 1981 film was a cinematic inspiration or the dullest two hours they ever spent in a movie

"The Designated Mourner," based on Shawn's play, stars Mike Nichols and Miranda Richardson. Nichols, a comic force since his teaming with Elaine May in the 1960s, makes his screen acting debut as more or less the title character, who finds his privileged world turned upside down.

"I hesitate to call it science fiction," says DFT curator Elliot Wilhelm, "but it's about a couple in an unnamed time and place in a country not exactly defined in which the country begins to go Errol Morris ("The Thin Blue fascist. It's about some intellectine"); and "In the Company of tual, very cultured, and very Men" a controversial new film well-educated characters and how they respond to this in varying ways."

The rest of the season promis es to be no less challenging. Among the highlights are: "4 Little Girls," Spike Lee's documentary examination of the racially motivated bombing of a Birmingham, Ala. church in which four school children .were killed in 1963.

"Fast, Cheap, and Out of Control," the latest from director

Perhaps the biggest event for vintage movie fans is the return of The Alloy Orchestra, the Boston-based ensemble who perform live music to accompany silent classics.

Where an institution like the DFT might be threatened by competition from the Main Art Theatre and Star Southfield, increased interest in alternative films has only enabled curator Wilhelm to book more unique and offbeat titles.

"There are so many movies of value that need to be shown," he said. "I extended the current ! schedule three weeks longer because there are so many good titles out there. The more people who can screen more films, the higher the standards will be

Laid-back Bogey's succeeds former Key Largo

BY JUDITH DONER BERNE

It's been more than two years since we headlined "Key Largo gets serious about food." Now, the same ownership and management has revved down the menu, lowered the prices, and enlarged the bar. This spring they renamed the lakeside restaurant Bogey's Bar & Grille. So today's headline could read "Bogey's gets serious about fun."

"We're not trying to make a gourmet statement here," said co-owner Bob Kazanowski about the revised menu, and atmosphere now devoted to food "designed for noshing. We're trying to have them (clientele) have Kazanowski is frank that Key Largo's bill of fare was just too expensive to draw people in, unless it was a gorgeous sum-, mer day or weekend night.

"We were doing fabulous weekends, but it was too pricey for · weekdays. And people would tell . us 'See you next summer.' It really didn't fit the market."

The market, he describes is "lake people' - from the Orchard Lake people down to the other end of Walled Lake." But although the restaurant is known for its lake vistas, a deck usable only a few months of the year can't be the main attrac-

"Basically we took Key Largo and made it a family, friendly, sports-oriented, popularly-priced dining experience," Kazanowski. So what are the "hot" items on a menu that is both colorful and fun to read?

General manager Tony Amann calls them off: burgers - from the $4.95 half-pound "Bogey Boyz" to the $6.95 "Big Ed;" seasoned fries ($2.35 in a red basket); pizza (starting at $7.95 for eight slices) and the whitefish Reuben ($5.95). The name "Bogey's," says Kazanowski, refers both to Bogart and to the golf theme that now pervades. In fact, "Bogey's" was born during a brainstorming session following a round of golf at nearby Links of Pinewood.

Marilyn Chicorel Megdell, an associate broker with Century 21 Today in Bingham Farms, once fell for a client in a big way during the showing of an unfamiliar house.

"In the sump pump," she recalled. "It was about three years ago. There was no light, no power. It was a vacant house. It was dark and I didn't see where I was going.

Then there was the time Knight sold the house of a couple going through a divorce to another young couple, who, themselves, divorced four or five years later. The "new" buyers - the original couple that had broken up. They subsequently remarried.

the choice between moving up to a larger home or remodeling your home, the first and probably most decisive issue is financing. Since you have more options today than ever, it can be an imposing process and a daunting challenge to reach a satisfactory decision.

When considering

Before settling on a plan of action, take a moment to assess your current situation. Begin by looking at your neighborhood. Observe whether other homeowners are making improvements. If so, they probably are planning to stay in their homes for at least a few more years. What this may mean to you is that a stable neighborhood is an excellent environment in which to raise a family.

"If remodeling is the direction you are leaning, determine if making improvements will satisfy your immediate requirements," says Glen Miller, president of Southfield-based Mortgage Institute of Michigan. Will the improvements even meet your longrange needs?

Consider these other questions when factoring your decision to remodel: · Do you like the neighborhood and your neighbors? · How much equity do you have in your home?

· What is the interest rate for your mortgage?

· What is your home improvement budget?

Naturally, some will have the preference to move up, and if conditions permit, use the equity in their current house to find a larger home. This would be the case when residents have outgrown their "starter home."

Consider these other questions when factoring your decision to move up:

· How much can you afford for a down payment and mortgage pay-

· Is your family growing, stable, or will you soon become "empty nesters"?

· Will you be able to afford the taxes and how good is the school system?

"There are advantages to both situations, but perhaps your decision will be more greatly influenced by your borrowing needs," Miller says. "In some instances, a home equity loan requires zero down, some provide you with the ability to borrow up to 100 percent of your equity and often the interest may be tax-deductible."

Miller adds, "A home equity loan allows you to make all your improve-ments at the same time." If you should decide to move, chances are you will probably want to upgrade various elements in the new house (fixtures, furniture, tile, carpeting; etc.). These will likely have to be spread over time, maybe over the course of a few years.

Whether you choose to remodel or move up, you should comparison shop to locate the best possible financial arrangements. More than ever, lending institutions offer a wide variety of flexible plans to meet the needs of specific borrowers.

So why should there be any question about remodeling instead of moving

Obviously, to the extent that you could have observed or otherwise determined the condition of the carpeting prior to the time of your purchase, you would probably be precluded from pursuing the owner if your purchase agreement provided that you were buying "as is" which is usually the case.

Recent studies indicate that more people are injured during the cleanup after a storm than from the actual storms. SIHL Incorporated, the manufacturer of the world's largest-selling brand of chain saws and other outdoor power equipment, offers these tips on the use of chain saws in your cleanup

Before you begin to clean up, analyze your surroundings. If there are downed power lines, you must call in professional utility workers. Do not go near such lines until you have verified that power is cut off.

Do not operate a chain saw when you are overtired. Take frequent breaks. Fatigue may result in loss of control of the saw.

Always use protective apparel such as sturdy footwear, snug-fitting clothing, protective gloves, and eye, ear, and head protection. Make sure the area in which you planned retreat path.

■ Use extreme caution when cutting small-size brush and saplings because slender material may catch the saw chain and be whipped toward you or pull you off balance.

When cutting a limb that is under tension, be alert for spring back so that you will not be struck when the tension in the wood fibers is released. Cut in small increments in several places to release such tension slowly.

■ When sawing, be sure that the saw chain does not touch any foreign materials such as rocks, fences, or nails. Such objects can be flung off, damage the saw chain, or cause the saw to kick

■ Never "drop start" a chain saw. Try to untangle and drag logs into a clear area before cutting.

Always thoroughly read and understand your owners manual prior to operating your saw.

Let's Talk About Real Estate

WHAT DOES A REALTOR OFFER?

Consider the following facts when deciding on the feasibility of using a Realtor in the sale of your home.

OBJECTIVITY - You the homeowner, are emotionally involved in your home. The financial outcome of an upcoming sale is crucial to your security and peace of mind. The decor, furnishings, and care given to your home are all an intimate extension of your own personality. The Realtors can view your home with the experienced eye of a marketing professional. Without your emotional feelings about the home, he or she can weigh its pluses and minuses more objectively. A Realtor® can also serve as a valuable negotiator who can communicate effectively with both buyer and seller.

PRICING - The proper pricing of your home is essential to maximizing your proceeds from the sale. It should be as high as the market will allow, yet not out of touch with reality. It should be reasonable enough to encourage buyers to see your home, yet high enough to leave some room for negotiation. Realtors know how to price your home because they know the marketplace in terms of today's values.

EXPERIENCE - The art of showing, negotiation, and selling a home is learned over a period of time. Selling a home, as in every other aspect of life, is best accomplished by those who do it often.

MARKET EXPOSURE - Most Realtors belong to multiple listing organizations. These groups use computer systems to keep member companies informed computer systems to keep member companies informed of all homes coming into and leaving the market every day. Much like the stock exchange ticker, this computer provides up-to-date information on current listings and also past sales. When your home is listed with one of these companies, the information is broadcast over telephone lines to all cooperating firms. Newspaper advertising and national referral groups also provide the Realtor® with additional promotional tools.

FINANCIAL KNOWLEDGE - Most buyers need financing help to buy your home. Many forms of financing are available today. The great variety of mortgages can be confusing to an inexperienced buyer. The Realtor can give needed advice to both the seller and the buyer regarding the most appropriate financing method to use in each situation.
