Police quarters get a facelift

BY RENEE SKOGLUND STAFF WRITER

The Plymouth Police Department is making good use of the space once occupied by the city's fire department, which moved to its own quarters little more than a year ago.

The extra square footage, a little paint, some new carpeting and furniture are giving the department a much-needed facelift.

"I've had probation people begin painting the walls," said Chief Robert Scoggins, who hopes most of the redecorating is finished by the end of sum-

Once renovations are complete, the department will have a second side entrance in addition to the shared entrance into city hall. The current dispatch area will be opened up to make more room for the public.

The second entrance area, currently a lounge used by all city employees, will provide officers with an area in which to deal with sensitive situations. Currently, officers who begin interviews in the more public dispatch area often must search for more private quarters when the need arises

Scoggins said that in terms of servicing the public, having a more private interviewing area just for police use is "just being more respectful."

Additional changes will be made once the new library is finished. Scoggins said most likely police cars will be

Peace Corps worker finds love and life south of the border

icole Broccardo de Anez wants to go home to

She's homesick and misses her new husband, Douglass Anez, whom she met while she was a Peace Corps volunteer for two years in Padcaya, a small town in southern Bolivia

Broccardo de Anez, 27, has been staying at her parents' Livonia home since May 21. She came up for her sister's wedding at the end of July and to see family and friends. Her husband joined her for three weeks, but he flew back to Bolivia on Wednesday.

Sometimes, she visits her mother, Shirley, at her mother's store, Unique Accessories, in downtown Plymouth. But Livonia and Plymouth even this country - are no longer familiar territory. She said she knew after one month that Bolivia was her home

"I had traveled all over, and I can't say it was one thing. It was everything. I don't know if I reached a spiritual part of myself. I really knew when I was sick during my second month there. I was in the hospital for one week (for dehydration). At that point, you miss your family. I didn't have that urge to go home.

Her mother understands. "I just basically knew she would end up somewhere out of the country because she was destined to do something different. I feel she is in her environment, in a comfortable spot. And Douglass is a very caring person. She could live next door to me and not be happy," said Shirley Broccardo.

Peace Corps mission

Broccardo de Anez applied to the Peace Corps shortly after she returned from a trip to Europe just before she graduated from college. In February of 1995, one year after her interview and medical clearance, Broccardo de Anez left for a three-month training period in Cochabamba,

When you're in government, how do you determine if a possible action has public value?

That was a central question posed to 77 government officials from around the country at a Harvard University-Kennedy School executive program.

Invited participants included Plymouth Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy. She was the lone Michigan representative, selected by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments to receive a Taubman Fellowship to pay for her threeweek participation.

McCarthy returned from Cambridge, Mass., recently. "They're trying to encourage looking at the broader perspective," she

"It's really learning a way to approach problems. Rather than say 'This is the right answer,' they're different for every circumstance, they change with time," she said.

Classes and programs included subjects ranging from leadership to using statistical tools to evaluate programs.

McCarthy said it was astounding that several government representatives in attendance said they were struggling to win acceptance for privatizing some services. She said that's because privatizing services has been a tradition in Plymouth Township.

The government representatives ranged in age from 29 to 70, and only 11 were elected. They included the assistant director of water programs for California and the attorney gen-

The township court complaint further maintains that since the structure has been abandoned for eight years, the zoning allowing a restaurant operation "is by operation of law extinguished."

"The building is kept in disrepair and is an attractive nuisance to juveniles," the complaint continues, adding the property is also in violation of the township's noxious weed ordinance.

The complaint states police have been at the scene following complaints of vandalism, gunshots and vagrancy.

"Windows are broken, grass and weeds are overgrown and unkempt, and entrances have been left unsecured and the roof and supports are structurally unsound," the complaint contin-

Affidavits supporting the complaint were provided by James Anulewicz, township director of public services; Charlie McIlhargey, township chief building official; and Robert Smith, acting police chief.

The township government is asking the court to issue an order directing an engineering survey to determine the structural soundness of the building, and for the building to "be demolished and a maintenancesecurity program be instituted at the cost of the defendants," as stated in the complaint.

Further, the township government maintains the existing situation "creates an imminent threat of irreparable injury to the public."

McIlhargey said the property was abandoned because of problems with the septic field, adding a Wayne County directive for installation of a new sewer line hasn't been followed.

McIlhargey said township officials are seeking for the parcel to return to residential zoning, in keeping with adjacent proper-

PECIAL

Editor's note: Bette and Paul Bieritz of Lakepointe in Plymouth Township recently returned from a trip Kenya and Tanzania on the African continent. They also took the accompanying photos. If you want to tell us about your vacation, call us at the Plymouth Observer, 459-2700; fax us, 459-4224, or write us, 794 S. Main, Plymouth

We have taken a number of extensive trips, but consider this to be the most outstanding by

Kenya is on the equator, but the altitude is about the same as Denver in most of the areas where we visited, so the biggest surprise was that the weather was cool. Instead of shorts and T-shirts, we needed layerings of long pants, sweaters and jackets.

Every day we went on two game drives in the parks, hunting for animals to photograph. The early drives began at 6:30 a.m. before breakfast, when it was quite cool in the pop-up-top

The animals are used to seeing the vans from the time they are born so they don't pay any attention as long as you are quiet and don't get out. The vans could drive right up beside a sleeping lion and it wouldn't even open its

There are about 900 elephants in Amboseli Game Park and they are a problem because an adult can eat up to 500 pounds of grass, leaves and tree bark a day. They strip the bark off trees or uproot them, and it is changing the landscape from forest to savanna to semi-desert in

While there we visited a Masai native village. This tribe lives almost the same as they have for 1,500 years and are very proud and protective of their culture. They live in small huts made of grass, sticks and cow dung. The Masai diet is blood and milk mixed together. They are nomads who herd cattle and when the grass is gone they move on. The huts are built in a circle with brush piled up all around the outside to keep the animals out. The cattle are taken into the center of the village at night to protect them. There were over 500 people living in this village. The Masai are very tall and always wear red, and can jump straight up from a standing position.

We also traveled to Tanzania to the Serengetti and to Lake

Manyara Park. We visited the Ngorangoro Crater, which is a collapsed volcano and has many animal species inside where there is plenty of grass. At the lake are thousands of flamingos standing along the edge, so the lake looks surrounded in pink.

The highlight of the trip was the Masai Mara game park where we lived in a tented camp and went on a hot air balloon ride over the plains looking at animals and beautiful scenery. At the end of the ride we were served a champagne breakfast at a table which was set up out in the middle of the grasslands breakfast.

They were fortunate to see all the big five animals, lion, elephant, leopard, rhino, and Cape buffalo. In all they saw over 30 species, including giraffe, cheetah,

COP CALLS

Good Samaritan bitten

After she tried to rescue an injured dog Thursday from the median of M-14 west of North Territorial Road, a Plymouth woman, 53, was bitten on her hand and knee and called police to the scene.

Upon responding to the 11:17 a.m. call, Plymouth Township police found the dog was in her car and wouldn't leave.

Police took the dog to a shelter, and a Huron Valley Ambulance crew treated the woman's injuries, according to the police report on the incident.

House break-in Computer equipment, a fax machine and stereo equipment were taken Wednesday from a house on Ridge Road south of Ann Arbor Road after thieves pried open a window

According to the report filed with Plymouth Township police, the stolen items were valued at about $5,000.

There were no witnesses to the theft which happened between 1-5 p.m. and no suspects, said police, who are investigating the break-in.

Personal items missing

A Ferndale woman, 57, told Plymouth Township police she believes her passport and a bank card were stolen from her purse while she worked as a cook at Ernesto's Restaurant.

According to the report she filed with police, the theft happened sometime between April 30, the last time she saw the items, and July 18 when she noticed they were missing.

The woman said she didn't notice the items were missing until she applied for another job. She told police the items had been in her purse, which she kept on a shelf near her work

Passing checks

Plymouth Township police are investigating an incident July 29 in which a man tried to pass a check believed stolen, at Quick Pik, 9450 Lilley Road.

Police said the man presented a check made out to someone ther than himself to be cashed, for $188.09.

When the man presented an identification the clerk believed was forged, he kept the check, according to the report on the incident filed with police.

As the man was leaving, the owner got the license plate number of the 1986 Pontiac he was driving, the report continued. The man passing the suspected Hiding the bottle feet 3-5 inches, black, 185-195 pounds and wearing glasses.

"We would recommend not cashing checks for people with paper ID," said Detective David

Beware borrowing

According to police, at about 9 p.m. July 24, a man stole a folder off a desk in Colonial Collision on Ann Arbor Road and went across the street to Baskin Robbins, presenting himself as an employee of Colonial Collision.

The man said the owner of Colonial Collision needed to borrow $35 because a new cash register wouldn't open. He used the folder as "proof" of his employment, police said.

The owner of Baskin Robbins refused to lend the money, and the man left. Later, the Baskin Robbins owner went to Colonial Collision with the $35. It was then that the missing folder, which contained the names of customers whose cars were ready to be picked up, was dis-

Breath or blood

On July 25 at approximately 10:30 p.m. police responded to a call from an off-duty Livonia police officer who had followed a suspected drunken driver to a Plymouth party store. According to Plymouth police, the man, 44, left the party store and drove erratically until stopped. The man failed all field sobriety tests and was taken to the station.

Police said the man refused to take a breathalyzer test. The police obtained a search warrant and transported the man to Oakwood Hospital, where he was given a blood test. The man was returned to his cell. After reaching sobriety, he bailed himself

Police said they arrested a 23year-old man at Danny's on Main Street after a store employee saw the man hide a bottle of wine under his shirt. The man purchased a loaf of bread and some chips. He was confronted by the employee as he attempted to leave. A scuffle followed, but no one was hurt.

The police transported the man to the station, where he became belligerent and used foul language. While in his cell, the man took out his wallet. Police noticed a silver pipe in the man's billfold. According to police, the man told them he "used the pipe to smoke marijuana." The pipe was confiscated.

Handyman less handy

The owner of Handi-Man Service at 595 Forest reported to police on July 26 that several items were stolen, including two Motorola pagers valued at $100; magnetic car signs, a pole sander, a dry wall knife, valued at $115; and $255 in cash. Police were told the theft occurred on July 18 between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Three strikes and out

Police stopped a Romulus man going 43 mph down Main Street on July 27. Police said the man told them he was unfamiliar with the area and didn't know the speed limit. A license plate check revealed a Detroit warrant for a failure to appear in court and a Livonia warrant for a traf-

In Padcaya, she began the Peace Corps' mission of cultural exchange. "My project was to improve agriculture techniques and nutrition.

She lived in a home with a dirt floor and no hot water. However, she had electricity, a solar shower and a bathroom "across the way." She lived off a plaza where children played late into the night.

"I felt like I was living my childhood because everything was so simple. Kids were playing in the plaza until 10 p.m. at night on school nights and to midnight on holidays.

The dirt floor proved to be a convenience. "If I was eating an orange, I could spit the seed out, or light a match and toss it on the floor because I knew I would sweep it out later."

Broccardo de Anez said she is far from being a comfort creature. "When I got back here I realized how comfortably we live here and what a disposable society we are. How fast and efficient we can do things. Some people are more comfortable in comfort. I'm more comfortable with lack of comforts. Is that difficult to understand?"

She met Douglass when she attended a going away party for another Peace Corps volunteer in a nearby town. Actually, Douglass had noticed her during previous visits. At the party, they sat only tables apart.

"He sent over a girl with a basket of candy and told her to have me pick something out from there. When we were getting ready to leave he approached us and asked me if I wanted to go dancing. After a few 'no's' we danced all night. We danced and laughed a lot.

Shirley and Louis Broccardo flew to Bolivia in May 1996 to see their daughter and meet Douglass. Nicole and Douglass were married April 12, 1997.

Meeting family

During his recent visit, Douglass, who spoke through his wife, who is fluent in Spanish, said he came to the United States to get to know Nicole's parents, her family and her closest friends. He didn't come here to "experience the United States." That is why it hasn't surprised him as much as others from Bolivia.

When asked what did surprise him about this country, Douglass said it was his mother-in-law's kitchen, in particular her stove. It has no burners. "He thought it was like a UFO or a space kitchen," said Broccardo de Douglass also noticed the orderliness of communities like Livonia and Plymouth. "There's a lot of organization. It seems there are a lot of funds that allow cities to be cleaner. There must be a good administrator somewhere," she said.

However, he misses the closeness of the Bolivian people. He said in Bolivia people have the opportunity to have all three meals with their family. At lunch, they talk about what they have done in the morning. He also misses "aji," the hot pepper that spices up so many of the Bolivian potato and rice and meat dishes his mother makes.

Broccardo de Anez will leave for Bolivia on Sept. 16. She will return to the home she shares with Douglass, his mother, grandmother, two younger sisters and his nephew. "I'm looking forward to beginning my life with Douglass," she said.

"Bolivia is my home."

Simpler: Nicole Broccardo de Anez washes clothes by hand in her new hometown in Bolivia. She says she prefers the simpler life that is offered in her husband's country.

Commissioners OK plan to finance road projects

Wayne County commissioners have unanimously approved Partnership '98, county executive Ed McNamara's $60-million bond proposal to finance a massive 3-year restoration program for 720-miles of primary county

"By the time this program is completed in the year 2000, Wayne County will have the finest road system of any county in Michigan," proclaimed McNa-

"This is the biggest road improvement project in Wayne County in 40 years," said Mike Duggan, Wayne County's deputy executive.

"We have 141 miles of poor and gravel roads, and if all the communities buy into this program we will resurface every one of those roads in 3 years," added Duggan. "This program will reduce the number of potholes in the county by two-thirds by the year 2000." Local communities will be help supplement the projects. In many cases, communities have already earmarked future state and federal monies for road con-struction. If the municipalities can't or decide not to participate in local projects, others will be chosen by county commissioners. "The most important part of this package is the super maintenance program," said Duggan. "We're going to take 250 miles of roads that are in good shape and

LIBRARY WATCH

Youth Department YOUTH INTERNET CLASSES

The Aug. 13 class is from 7-9 p.m. for grades 3-5. A parent must accompany their child to this class.

SUMMER BRIDGE ACTIVITIES

The Parent-Teacher collection has added a set of books aimed at helping children maintain their reading and scholastic skills over the summer months.

Each title in the "Summer Bridge Activities" set by Julia Ann Hobbs covers the transition between grade levels: kindergarten to first grade, fifth to sixth grade, and includes activities for reading, writing, arithmetic and language skills.

If workbook activities feel too much like school assignments, though, studies have shown that children at all grade levels who simply read over the summer months return to school with a higher retention of skills than children who do not read. And reading to young people of any age is the very best way to develop a love of reading.

Adult Services

SUMMER READING PROGRAMS FOR YOUNG ADULTS AND ADULTS

The library is hosting its 3rd Adult Summer Reading Program, and this summer its theme is the Wild West.

Stop at the Adult Reference desk next time you're at the library to pick up your Wild West reading list and to eventually enter the Grand Prize draw-

"Totally Awesome Reads" is the title of the young adult program. This program is designed. for students grades 7-12. The last day to turn in the forms is Aug. 22.

The Writer's Club will meet Aug. 14, and Aug. 28 7-9 p.m. For additional information, please call, Brian Anderson at (313) 416-0418.

At 7;30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 8 and Aug.16, members of the Contemporary Books discussion group will discuss "The Eight a Novel," by Katherine Neville this month. For further information, please call Darlene Ursel at the library, (313) 453-0750.

If you wish to join the Great Books discussion group in the fall, call Karen Berrie, (313) 453-

INTERNET ACCESS NOW AVAILABLE AT YOUR PLYMOUTH DISTRICT LIBRARY

Four Internet computer workstations are available for public use. Three of these computers may be used for up to an hour at a time. Plymouth community residents may reserve time in person or by the phone at (313) 453-0750

The fourth Internet computer is used for brief searches (15 minute limit) on a walk-in basis only. Introductory Internet classes are being offered. Signup at the reference desk next time you're in the library.

Citizens who joined the effort turned on outside lights and met outdoors with police officers, neighbors and crime prevention coordinators. Block parties, bike parades and flashlight walks were also part of the event, along with cookouts at local schools including Allen Elementary. The goal was to heighten awareness of crime and drug prevention, spark support for anti-crime programs, strengthen neighborhood spirit, improve police-community relations and deter crime.

School aid vetoes give Democrats election

issues BY TIM RICHARD

STAFF WRITER

Twin results of Michigan's new school aid law:

- Public schools have $9.2 billion for operations - more than the entire general fund budget, Gov. John Engler points out. Per-pupil aid was raised 2.9 percent to $5,462 with every district receiving at least $5,124.
- House Democrats got the campaign issue they were looking for when Engler vetoed $304 million in line items, including $20 million for smaller class sizes in selected districts and $252 million for "at-risk" stu-

"Heavy-handed," said Rep. Bob Brown, D-Dearborn Heights, a vocal supporter of the class size reduction.

"Irresponsible," said Rep. James Agee, D-Muskegon, a former school superintendent who is running for governor.

Altogether Engler vetoed $304 million in line items. That will be enough to pay a court judgment against the state in favor 84 school districts who won a 17-year lawsuit for special education and other mandated ser-

The state Supreme Court decision in the so-called Durant case will cost the treasury $210 million. Engler's action came one day after the high court's deci-

"Robin Hood in reverse," said Rep. Lingg Brewer, D-Holt. "John Engler is robbing from the poor to give to the rich. Many of these school districts - including Birmingham, West Bloomfield, Farmington and Troy - are among the most well-off in Michigan."

Other parties in the lawsuit included Avondale, Rochester. Southfield, Novi, South Lyon, Walled Lake and Huron Valley Oakland South Redford, Northville and Plymouth-Canton in Wayne County; and Waverly in Eaton and Ingham counties.

No explanation was immediately available on when the state treasurer will mail the victors their Durant money - Pontiac is high with $12 million, Livonia second with more than $10 million. But Engler's message called on the Legislature to make a one-time appropriation from the savings in his vetoes. That would likely come in the fall session starting Sept. 23.

"My actions today ensure that schools can open their doors in the coming weeks and proceed immediately with basic programming by this budget's full funding of the foundation grant, special education and adult education," said Engler.

And so a pattern is developing in Lansing: House Democrats write pet projects for their constituents into education and health bills; Republicans go along, just to get the bill passed; Engler uses his line-item veto and wins the battle; Democrats use the issue for their continuing war to block his election to a third term.

There still was plenty left for Engler to boast about, including:

- Success of Proposal A, the 1994 referendum on school finance reform. The school aid bill "marks the first time that nearly 80 percent of all public school children in Michigan will have foundation allowances at or above the 'basic' foundation allowance of $5,462," he said. Prior to Proposal A, 437 of Michigan's 556 school districts received less than that.
- A career preparation initiative to enhance technical skills of high school graduates.
- $8.7 million for student sment and $50,000 to publish and distribute a "school report card" of data for parents.
- $500,000 to administer the Department of Education's charters schools office plus $150,000 for study of charter school performance. Engler noted 12,400 pupils (about one percent of the state's total) attend charter schools, and 8,000 attend schools of choice outside their do the kinds of things you do to maintain good roads. So, not only will the bad roads be resurfaced and gravel roads paved, the good roads will remain in good shape."

County commissioners approved the measure on a 15-0

"I'm not in favor of increasing the indebtedness of the county, but I think this will allow us to address the roads projects which I think are legitimate," said Bruce Patterson, R-Canton. "There are a lot of north-south be addressed, like Canton Center from Ford Road to Michigan: Other projects I think are impor-tant are Cherry Hill from I-275 west to Canton Center; and Warren from I-275 west to Canton Duggan noted Wayne County has done very little borrowing. According to Duggan, the county has $15-million in outstanding bonds for roads, and all of that will be paid off within the next two years.

"We're using existing road roads in Canton which need to fund revenues, unrelated to the gas tax, to give immediate relief to the motoring public," is how Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, whose district also includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township, views it. "That's what people said they wanted, and that's what we're giving them. I know my constituents in Livonia will be happy to get 7-Mile widened it's been a major problem."

> "I think it's a great opportunity to capitalize on the county's good bond ratings to repair roads, because the new gas tax wasn't nearly enough," said Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, who also represents parts of Redford Township and Livonia. "One reason I voted in favor of the proposal is the opportunity to eventually add Seven Mile Road improvements in Redford Township at a later

"I've seen some potential for areas that will be repaired, but I'd like to see more," said Kay Beard, D-Westland, who also represents Garden City and Inkster. "I'm especially pleased that we'll be taking care of the roads on an ongoing basis, instead of waiting until they're: destroyed. That will make a big. difference."

Duggan told the Observer a lot of the designing for the repairs has already been as a result of previous planning. He noted county designers will be accelerating timetables to complete the other projects this winter, to get early bids on next spring's construction season.

Woodward Dream Cruise Guide

Saturday, August 16,1997

L. BROOKS PATTERSON, OAKLAND COUNTY EXECUTIVE

Welcome to Highway Number One

Dear Woodward Dream Cruise Fans:

The Woodward Dream Cruise symbolizes the quintessential love affair between man and machine, which is only fitting for an event being held in the heart of the automotive industry. But the Dream Cruise also links the past with the present as thousands gather to pay nostalgic homage to those halcyon days of old when cruising was an integral part of everyday life along the Woodward Corridor of the 1950s and 1960s.

Eight miles from the center of Detroit is the city of Ferndale where an idea has grown into a multi-city, Oakland County and national event that stretches 13 miles on M-1. Over the last three years, Woodward Dream Cruise, Inc., comprised of representatives from the cities of Berkley, Birmingham, Ferndale, Huntington Woods, Pontiac, Royal Oak, Oakland County, the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Oldies 104.3 WOMC and the Daily Tribune have been building the foundation for what has become a nostalgic and exciting event for the Woodward corridor. I am personally excited that this million-spectator event is taking place in our

Today is a time to look to the future and recommit to providing the greatest family entertainment in Michigan. I would like to acknowledge and thank everyone who has joined forces in our effort, including the County, cities, business owners, corporate sponsors, individual sponsors, city police, Michigan Department of Transportation, Michigan State Police, Oakland County Sheriff's Department, firefighters, municipal departments of public services and recreation, Judson Center and The Woodward Avenue Action Association.

So start your motors and enjoy a safe and happy day reliving and remembering the Good Old Days along Michigan's historic highway, Number One.

AUGUST 15, 1963

Cruising Woodward: In August, 1963, this shot of young people driving up and down Woodward Avenue was recorded by staff photographer Art Emanuele, who worked for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers until his death in 1996.

This Is The Sport The Teenagers Call Woodwarding

In 1963, a series of articles about "Woodwarding" appeared in The Birmingham Eccentric. This is one of them, written by then-city editor Larry Evoe. Here is that story, in part:

A "sport" that has become a favorite pastime among area high school and young college students in recent years is the practice of "Woodwarding."

The rules of the game are quite simple. All you need is an automobile (without hubcaps, of course, money for gasoline and the desire to spend your evening driving up and down Wood-

The length of the playfield runs from 10 Mile Road in Royal Oak on the south to Square Lake Road on the north. The contestants are usually carloads of boys pitted against carloads of girls, but occasionally mixed groups are allowed

An important part of the game is the pit stops at the drive-in restaurants strung out along Woodward Avenue...

The largest number of drive-ins and

The four-mile strip of Woodward between 10 Mile and 14 Mile roads has 13 drive-in restaurants. This is more than any other single street in the United States, according to Royal Oak Police Chief Ray C. Hayward.

Hayward says the problem is not the drive-ins, themselves, but rather the traffic congestion created on Woodward by cars trying to get in.

In an effort to keep the traffic moving, parking has been taken off Woodward during the evening hours, signal ights have been installed at each of the half-mile roads and right turns off Woodward are prohibited at many

The elimination of right turns helps to keep the teen-age traffic out of the residential neighborhoods," Hayward

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, the Royal Oak police assign five cars to do nothing but patrol Wood-but also to cut down speeding and rac-ing. Hayward said traffic counts have shown that between 65,000 and 75,000 vehicles traveled along Woodward at 13 Mile and Coolidge in a single day during the middle of the week. Weekend totals could reach 100,000, he said.

He emphasized that his department had very few calls. He said the (drivein) owners hire private police to patrol the parking lots and things are usually kept running smoothly.

His department holds periodic meetings with the drive-in owners to work out mutual problems, he said. "When a drive-in is properly policed, it is a good place for the youngsters to be," he

He noted that if they didn't spend time in the drive-ins, they could be out racing on country roads and getting into other kinds of trouble

Within the Birmingham city limits there is only one drive-in. Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley said his department

Their duty is to keep traffic moving tion at the restaurant but has had a number of complaints from nearby resident son the noise caused by the youngsters. Drive-in managers concur with the police that they have very little trouble with the youngsters. On e manager, who has been in the business for about a year and a half, said he had no major incidents in all that time.

> He said most of the youngsters were not looking for trouble but merely seeking a place to gather and talk with

The guards at his drive-in have a policy of letting a car drive through the parking lot once or twice without stopping to purchase anything and then ask them to leave. Cars may be barred from entering a drive-in for up to 48

Traffic counts have showed between 700 and 800 automobiles pass through the bigger drive-ins in a single evening as compared to about only 200 during

"Ask Your Neighbors About Us"

Cruise was this Ferndale man's dream

BY MICHELLE FRANZEN SPECIAL WRITER

It's been a while since Nelson House gassed up his green and white '57 Chevy, gathered a few friends and hit the Woodward strip.

Thirty-plus years, actually.
"Everybody back then wanted to cruise," said House, who now lives in Ferndale. "They wanted to be where the action was.'

And as for action, there was no better place than Woodward.

Sure, there was the drag strip on Telegraph. And other teens, mostly east siders, cruised Gratiot.

But Woodward was the meeting place on this side of town. It was the spot for drive-in stops, scoping out the opposite sex, even pulling antics like "Chinese fire drills."

"Although everybody wanted to cruise, not everybody had a car," House said. "So we'd pull together 50 cents for gas, because in those days money was not as available as it is today.

Back then, anywhere there was a car was a good time.

And for one weekend each year, that's still true, thanks to an idea House envisioned three years ago.

That idea today has been credited as the world's largest one-day auto event:

It started here: Ferndale Classic Car and Truck Show organizers Donna Simpson, Gary Werner, Vic Simpson, Sean House, Roberta Werner, Jackie Charest and Nelson House stand beside a 1934 Ford pickup and a 1967 Chevrolet Camaro. The cars will also cruise Woodward during the Dream Cruise.

Cruise entertainment spans Woodward stretch from Pontiac to Ferndale

By LISA BUCZKO SPECIAL WRITER

From Pontiac to Ferndale, Woodward Avenue will be hoppin' with music and entertainment in celebration of Woodward Dream Cruise '97 on Saturday, Aug. 16.

"Make The Loop" in Pontiac is the city's debut as an official participant in the Dream Cruise. The entire week prior to the Dream Cruise will be packed with entertainment, said Pastor Douglas Jones, event chair for Pontiac.

On Aug. 15, Pontiac will hold a car parade and Mitch Ryder will perform at the Pontiac Phoenix Plaza. The Rhine-stone Rodeo Rockers and the Del Vikings will perform on Saturday.

"Every bit of the entertainment is free," said Jones, president of the Greater Pontiac Community Coalition, which is co-sponsoring the event with the city of Pontiac. "Except the food!

"We'll have a replica of Ted's Diner which everyone keeps calling about. We'll place that right on the corner of Saginaw and Pike. It's gonna be a great

Each of the seven participating cities along Woodward will feature its own entertainment. Among other performers, Birmingham (See related story) will have The Contours, Berkley will present the Sun Messengers and Ferndale will have a sock hop.

Huntington Woods will have Dan Dan the Choo Choo Man, Ferndale will feature Bo Diddley at The Magic Bag, and the Satin Dolls will perform in Pleasant

Royal Oak will present Steve King & The Dittlies and live broadcasts from WOMC deejays at Memorial Park.

"The whole event is exciting," said Steve Gillette, Royal Oak chairperson and treasurer for the Woodward Dream Cruise committee. "It's all based on '60s music and themed with the Dream Cruise. All good quality performers will keep the crowds entertained, I'm sure."

Gillette, Public Works superintendent for the city of Royal Oak, has been an active part of the Dream Cruise since its inception. "It's a lot of work, but it's a fun event," he said. "It draws a lot of people to the area."

Jack Johnson, spokesperson for oldies radio station WOMC-FM, was involved in organizing Royal Oak's entertain-

"We will be broadcasting live from Ferndale, Royal Oak Memorial Park, Pontiac at the Phoenix Centre and downtown Birmingham in Shain Park," said Johnson. "Plus, we will have cruisers out that day with reports from all the cities."

Amy Kessler, Parks & Recreation Director for Huntington Woods, was also very involved in coordinating entertainment for the Woodward Dream Cruise.

"I think it's going to be exciting," she said. "I think all the cities have great

The 1950s spirit will be on the big screen in Birmingham; the theater will be showcasing "Grease" with John Travolta all day Saturday, Aug. 16. Also, the Teen Angels will perform at Shain Park at 7:30 p.m.

Ferndale will sponsor a "Rockin' Ron-nie Oldies Dance" Saturday, Aug. 16 from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. The Magic Bag has lots of fun festivities planned for the Dream Cruise. "During the day, we're going to have vodka snow cones and we'll be showing '50s videos all day," said owner Jerry Haberman. "At night we're going to have Bo Diddley, one show at 8 p.m., one at 10:30 p.m. We had two sold out shows last year -I sure hope to sell out this year." Tickets for Bo Diddley are $22 at Ticket-Master and the Magic Bag Box Office.

Magic Bag publicity director Bethany Bain-Chamberlain has been busy planning events for the Dream Cruise week-

"We're featuring retro-beer prices," she said. "It'll be a surprise, but they'll be cheaper than anywhere else unless you graduated in 1955! "We'll have an open house all day, and we'll be raffling off concert tickets to upcoming

Three years ago, before the inaugural Woodward Dream Cruise, there were skeptics who didn't think the event would get off the ground.

Now the classic car cruise is burgeoning, in spectators, participants and

Rebirth of Ted's adds taste of nostalgia

Former cruisers who flocked to Ted's Drive-in during the 60s can relive their experience at the famed hangout - if they're quick about it.

But hungry cruisers and nostalgia seekers will have to drive a little farther north than Bloomfield Township to get in on the action. That's because the former "hot spot" is taking up temporary residence in Pontiac, just south of Wide Track Drive. It debuted during the city's Family Fun Fest on Aug. 1-3. but will vanish again with the close of the Woodward Dream Cruise on Aug.

During the two-week interim, customers can walk up to the site to purchase hot dogs, Cokes and chips.

The idea to resurrect the drive-in portion of Ted's for Dream Cruise enthusiasts is the brainstorm of the Rev. Douglas Jones of West Bloomfield, pastor of the 2,300-member Welcome Missionary Baptist Church in Pontiac. As president of the Greater Pontiac Community Coalition, Jones was instrumental in expanding a full slate of cruise activities to the north in an effort to attract residents of the south ern suburbs to rediscover the city.

"When we started talking about getting involved in the cruise here, we went out and talked to local residents.

On Saturday, Aug. 16, as many as a million nostalgia enthusiasts will converge on Woodward Avenue to goggle muscle cars, reminisce to the hit tunes of the '50s and '60s and take a memorial ride down the famous cruise strip that once held the enchantment of a simpler era.

For die-hard car fans and curiosityseekers alike, the Woodward Dream Cruise is a single, fun-filled day of family oriented activities. famed Woodward Avenue. "I cruised with a hot Dodge Charger," reports the Chicago native. "But I had kids in the back." The excitement over the famed strip is still in the air for Chamberlain. who spent the last two and a half years involved in a county study to update upgrade and revitalize the Woodward corridor. "We see this (event) as a promotional approach to Woodward Avenue," says the South Oakland Government liaison for Executive L. Brooks Patterson. Chamberlain represents Oakland County and serves as president of the WDC board of directors. She also commits her time to signing contracts, trouble-shooting and sitting on the marketing committee.

BONNIE COOK: Cruise enthusiasts who send letters and inquiries from all over the country share one thing in common. "They always tell me what kind of car they have," reports Bonnie Cook of Franklin, who operates the WDC mailbox. Since taking her place on the committee three years ago, the Huntington Woods City planner has become an advocate for the Woodward-centered day of nostalgia. In addition to representing Huntington Woods on the WDC invented. It fills a desire, a gap, and peo-ple love it," said the Royal Oak native who speaks from experience. "There are so many people in my era who lived through it and we have fond memories. It's a way to relive our past. And the cars are just so spectacular and wonder-

JIM ELLISON: Jim Ellison was serving on the Royal Oak City Commission when the buzz about a Woodward Dream Cruise sent his memories racing back in time. "The idea of the cruise intrigued me," recalls the Royal Oak resident, who used to make board and serving as vice president for the rounds in his 396 Chevelle. "I'm an membership, Cook also oversees the old car fanatic and it sounded like someselling of Dream Cruise membership thing I wanted to do. So I raised my souvenir packages, available by mail or hand." A construction cost estimator by at any participating city hall. "People day, Ellison spends his free time runhave cruised ever since the car was ning the twice-monthly meetings as

WDC liaison committee chairman. He also co-chairs the sub committee and helps organize the local events of his hometown. "There's a real old car culture out there," says Ellison. "Everybody has memories of cruising Woodward if they were around then."

GAIL GOTTHELF FISHER: By

the time Gail Gotthelf Fisher of Southfield reached cruising age, many of the drive-ins along Woodward had already disappeared. But that didn't stop the Oak Park native from parking her Mom's station wagon and climbing into a "cooler" Cadillac to ride the strip with her friends. Today, the director of the Birmingham Principal Shopping District relives her high school memo ries by representing the city of Birmingham on the WDC board. She also helped design the souvenir merchandise for this year's Dream Cruise, which kicks off the 100th anniversary celebration of the Oldsmobile. "A lot of people have moved away and this is a chance to come back," says Gotthelf Fisher. "There's only one Woodward. You have eight lanes of road that take you all the way from downtown Detroit to Pontiac. And it's also the Motor City. What better place to celebrate the auto-

STEVE GILLETTE: Steve Gillette was born and raised in Port Huron, but that didn't stop him from wandering down to Oakland County to do a little weekend cruising with his buddy in Royal Oak. "Everybody thought their car was cool," recalls Gillette, who also remembers checking out the real perfor mance cars at Big Boy's drive-in at Woodward and 10 Mile Road. "All us baby boomers have enough bucks now to afford the toys we pretended to have back then." As public works superinten-dent for the City of Royal Oak, Gillette represents the city on the WDC board and serves as the board's treasurer. He also recruits Dream Cruise sponsors and oversees the installation of the "Porta-Potties" dotting the landscape during the annual, day long event.

CARON HALL: The minute she spied an article in the newspaper about plans for the first Woodward Dream Cruise, Caron Hall of Clawson headed straight for the phone to volunteer. "I've lived in Royal Oak my whole life and I cruised Woodward," says Hall, an accountant. "It's just something I wanted to be involved with." Though she expected to be put to work licking stamps and envelopes, Hall has spent all three years shouldering a myriad of responsibilities as the WDC event coordinator on the liaison committee. "My higgest thing is trying to convince the Dream Cruise public that if they want the Dream Cruise to continue, they have to do everything they can to make this a Please see COMMITTEE, 19

REV. DOUGLAS JONES: When

mfield first heard about the odward Dream Cruise, his vision as to showcase the city of Pontiac and work to bridge the city with its southern neighbors. "Our community has a ong history of cruising Woodward," reports the pastor of Welcome Missionary Baptist Church in Pontiac.

"This was just a great tie-in to be olved." Once he took his concept to mayor, Jones found himself nomi-ted to see the plan to fruition. He currently represents the City of Pontiac as a member of the WDC board. Pontiac will make its debut on the Cruise route by playing host to on-going family entertainment and providing the natu-ral looping of Wide Track Drive for cruisers ready to head south again. "We pe it will draw more people and give ople the opportunity to really display their cars," says Jones, a Cincinnatinative who "cruised" Woodward for the first time during last year's event.

People are looking for something to do

that's family-oriented. It's a nice break-

STEFEE KIM: The cruising craze that took Woodward by storm may have occurred before Stefee Kim's time, but that hasn't stopped the Royal Oak resident from catching the excitement of

events. As secretary of the WDC board of directors, Kim sits right in the middle of the action. "It's a wonderful learning experience," says the promotion manager for the Observer & Eccentric

Newspapers, the event's official print raderie. We're not a shy bunch. We share what we feel and think." Kim focuses her time on handling promotional advertising, pursuing major corporate sponsorships, coordinating information from city to city and helping to launch the official web site. "This is a

City of Ferndale, Byron Photiades has been involved with the Dream Cruise

since the concept originated as a small, citywide event to raise money for a nuch-needed soccer field. But the "small event" never happened. Once the word spread, the Dream Cruise took on a life of its own, drawing five adjoining ties. "People want to go back and remember those days. It's like a reunion when people come down here," says the Royal Oak native who still lives in his hometown. "We're still the Motor City, and the auto industry has done well the last eight or nine years. Just like back in the 60s, it's a good economy and peo-ple are working and feeling good about it." Photiades supports the car-centered

safe event," she says. "I preach this to early 60s, Woodward Avenue was the place to be...the place to cruise up and down the strip, pull over and talk to people and have a good time," recalls Kevin Price of Berkley, who observed the scene during his youth. Though he came of age when the trend was already waning, the director of parks and recreation for the City of Berkley admits to logging his own share of miles on the famed stretch of highway. Now, decades later, Price coordinates cruise activities and represents his hometown as a voting member on the WDC board.

BILL STEDMAN: While car-crazy teenagers snacked, socialized, vied for attention and checked out the competition along Woodward, the hit tunes of the 50s and 60s blared across the radio waves, setting the mood and helping to cement the memories. That's why hooking up with the Dream Cruise committee was a harmonious opportunity for Bill Stedman of Troy, program director for Ferndale-based Oldies 104.3 WOMC Radio, which broadcasts live from Royal Oak during the annual event. "It's great being in the middle of this and being nected with the people listening to the radio," says the native East Sider and former Woodward cruiser. "The fact that people of all ages know the songs and sing along and make the connection makes it an emotional event." As WDC vice president of public relations, Stedman adds: "I like the idea of people paying attention to Woodward again. family oriented event, and we want to Detroit is growing again. People want to see this happen. It's a national event at this point, and it speaks well of this part of the country."

> SCOTT VANMETER: Woodward Avenue had already begun to lose its mystique by the time Scott VanMeter of Berkley hit the scene in the late 70s. Closed drive-in restaurants left no place to "hang-out" and climbing gasoine prices meant shorter jaunts. But the Hazel Park native didn't let fate rob him of the chance to cruise the congested artery in his buddy's blue Impala. These days, the director of recreation for the City of Pleasant Ridge serves on the WDC board, representing the smallest participating community on the 15mile route. He is also involved with the business sponsorships. "A lot of people spend a lot of money taking great care of the cars they bring out there. It's just like going home for a lot of those people," says VanMeter. "It's not a fast strip. It's a stop-and-go strip. What better place to show off your automobile than on Woodward?"

Thanks for the memories...

MARILYN HOWARD, ROYAL OAK:

"My brother had a '56 red Chevy. On Woodward it was well known a the "JANITOR" cuz he swept up after each drag race. Occasionally, it was a trip to General Auto Parts/Pontiac for a new trans. Within the hour he was back on Woodward.

"One night my mother made him babysit for my other two brothers and myself. She thought we were home safe, NOT! We were all out in the "JANITOR" drag racing. Of course it wasn't cool to have your little brothers and sister in the car. He told us to duck down if another hot car came up to race, because it was his reputation he had to retain. My mother never found "My brother died on Aug. 9, 1996, just before the Woodward Dream Cruise that he was looking forward to. On his tombstone is engraved a '56 Chevy."

[Marilyn Howard and her brother Marv Smith grew up on Clark Street in Birmingham, where their mom still resides. Smith used to be a dispatch driver for The Eccentric. Marilyn and her husband first met at Ted's.]

Fondly remembered: Marv Smith in his '56 Chevy, taken in front of the Pure Station located in Birmingham at Woodward, now Old Woodward, and Brown Street.

MAUREEN MCGINNIS, TROY:

"Being 19 years old and not lucky enough to have experienced growing up in the 1950s, the Woodward Dream Cruise is not only guaranteed fun but it's also an invaluable learning

"Aside from the thrill of cruising down the strip, surrounded by loud engines and wind whipping through my hair, it is one of the few times that I feel like I am getting a real taste of what life was like for my parents when they were kids.

"The excitement of the Woodward Dream Cruise many not bring back old memories of mine but the enthusiasm it instills in everyone who come is enough to conjure up a few wonderful new ones!"

"I grew up in Detroit near Mackenzie High, but attended an all-girls high school, Immaculata, in the early 60s. There were drive-ins in the area, but the ultimate night of "cruising" was a drive down Woodward to my favorites, Ted's and the Totem Pole.

"My excuse to get the car was a need to study at U of D's (University of Detroit) Library, with cruising the ultimate goal. After my father questioned the excess mileage on his odometer, I'd stop at gas stations and have it disconnected so my evening of "cruising" would

"A favorite memory was the night I went on a blind date and after the movie, stopping at Ted's. Imagine my surprise when my boyfriend came cruising through in his red Corvette convertible and I'm with someone else. I spent some anxious moments with my head down,

"How I craved a Big Chief Burger when I was pregnant with my first child and how great it is, almost 30 years later, still able to enjoy that great taste at Duggan's...also on Wood-

NELS T. LARSON, LATHRUP VILLAGE:

"My earliest memory, as a participant in the Wood-ward Scene, was the Summer of 1951. Maverick's was the really in place to look and to be seen. There was a pecking order: coupes, roadsters and customs (pure hot rods) parked in the first three or four rows.

"The very attractive car hops roamed the lot, on roller skates with World War II surplus walkie talkies, transmitting your order to Maverick's with still other equally attractive car hops bringing your order out on the metal trays that hung on your car door.

"An interesting fact is that there wasn't a speed limit in Michigan, outside of posted municipalities, until 1957. So the run from north of Birmingham to Ted's, at Square Lake Road, was often made at speeds well over 100 mph.
"The Totem Pole, in Royal Oak, the birthplace of the Big Chief Burger, served as anchor at the bottom of the Woodward Run. The Pole also had a pecking order. It was mandatory, to maintain face, that you backed-in on the north side of the parking circle.

"In 1956, I sold my Full-Race 49 red Olds convertible and took delivery of my first new car, a white Chevy convertible. Stick shift, of course, equipped with "Super Power Pack."

BILL WELLS, BLOOMFIELD HILLS:

"If you weren't at last year's Woodward Dream Cruise, you missed a big one! For me, it was a particularly enjoyable trip down memory lane to my high school and college days when I was cruising (and drag racing) on Woodward Avenue every night I could. That was the heart of the '60's muscle car era.

"As a graduate of Berkley High School and growing up near Woodward and Coolidge, it was just a short trip over to Woodward for the cruising from the Totem Pole Drive In to Ted's Drive In...with many stops and stoplights in between.

"Not that I was spoiled, but I was! My father was a G.M. engineering executive who also raced sports cars and always had the hottest G.M. had to offer as a personal car each year, in addition to his racing-modified Porsche.

"I was dating Sue then (high school and college sweetheart) and her father was a Ford engineering executive. Company 'test cars' were aplenty and we enjoyed the best for Woodward 'testing'...Chev 409's, 427's, Pontiac GTO tri-powers, Olds 442's...Ford Cobra roadsters, Mustang 289 HiPo's, Big Blocks, GT 350s. etc. (I wish I had those cars today!)

"We had access to them all and were out there all the time."

Police offer tips to insure a safe cruise for all

BY RENA FULKA SPECIAL WRITER

Safety is the key word to keep in mind when joining the expected one million visitors at the third annual Woodward Dream Cruise on Saturday,

"We want everybody to have a good time, but we want it to be a safe time," said Royal Oak police Chief Mel Johnson, law enforcement liaison to the Woodward Dream Cruise Committee.

From traffic-monitoring helicopters to motorcycle troopers and heavy foot patrol, law enforcement agents from the State Police, Sheriff's Department, seven participating cities and Bloomfield Hills and Bloomfield Township will join forces in a sophisticated system of communication to ensure that the day long event occurs without inci-

"Part of my job, and the other chiefs' jobs, is to have contingency plans for everything," said Johnson, who will also have a police dog on hand. "The cities will share officers when need be and all will have the same jurisdic-

Cruisers are warned that open alcohol containers, reckless conduct, speeding, drag racing and squealing tires are violations that will not be tolerated. Tickets will also be issued for "burn out" - spinning tires in a combination of bleach and water on the road to create a smoking effect.

"What we've realized is that with bleach water, there is always the potential for a car to jump out into the crowd," said Johnson.

Spectators eying the hottest cars of the century are asked to stay out of the grassy medians on Woodward Avenue and to use curbside caution, especially with small children underfoot. Tailgate parties are prohibited. Alcoholic beverages can only be consumed at restaurants or outdoor eateries licensed to

"We intend to have a strong presence for the weekend and expect them to obey the speed laws," said Bloomfield Hills Public Safety Director David Piche. "Our first responsibility is to the welfare of our residents. I truly hope this event goes off without a problem."

Because of the wooded residential areas and the lack of "pit stops" along this stretch of Woodward, cruisers are asked to keep moving with the flow of traffic. "It really brings up some conBoozin'& Cruizin

Woodward Dream Cruise hours will enforcement agents, however, have vary slightly from city to city, with some activities beginning on Friday night. The event will wind down with the systematic closing of north-south traffic on Woodward Avenue beginning at 9 p.m. on Saturday. Flashing police cars will announce their presence at the intersections before closing the famed strip to cruisers. Smart buses will continue to operate, but loiterers will be asked to vacate.

Is the nostalgia created by the Woodward Dream Cruise based on the reality of what actually happened on the Woodward strip between the 1950s and 1970s?

Or is it just a lot of hype caused by countless old stories which became embellished each time they were told?

Two south Oakland police officers who cruised Woodward as youngsters and later chased the muscle car cruisers as young cops say the stories are

"I remember Woodward well," said Berkley Sgt. Richard Penn, 54. "It was part of my life not only as a teen-ager, but also as a young police officer."

Birmingham Deputy Police Chief Richard Patterson, 52, agrees. "The stories vou hear today about Woodward were true," he said. "But other than drag racing, most of the kids were wellbehaved. I don't remember ever having problems with kids. There were no gangs. Most were well-behaved."

Penn and Patterson have their own stories to tell about cruising and patrolling Woodward. "They were wonderful times," said Penn, who joined the "Gas cost 30 cents a gallon. One dollar would get you through the night. Many of the cars dragged.

"I loved those times. Police vehicles were Chevrolets and Plymouths. None would keep up to what the kids had. "The cruising went on every night. We hit all the drive-ins, socialized and showed off our cars. We would open the hoods just like they do on cruise night."

Patterson grew up on the northwest side of Detroit and attended Redford High School. But he and his friends often came into Oakland County and cruised Woodward.

"We would go to the Totem Pole at Woodward and 10 Mile and drive to Ted's at Square Lake," Patterson said. "We would come out on Friday and They kept saying, 'I remember cruising down Woodward to Ted's," said the Cincinnati native. "The more people I spoke with, the more I realized that Ted's was the focal point. It held such a nostalgic focus."

But the Pontiac-version of Ted's will be a far cry from the brick and mortar establishment that was anchored for four decades at Woodward and Square

"It's going to be a Hollywood-style replica housed on the corner of Pike and Saginaw," Jones said.

The durable plywood storefront, erected by pole barn construction, will measure 64 feet in length and reach a height of 24 feet. Pontiac-based Smith plus Smith Associates Architects designed the structure. Lawrence Carter of Waterford, a General Motors supervisor, volunteered to build the framework.

During its heyday in the 60s, the eatery was touted as the world's largest electronic drive-in, serving one million customers a year from 100 parking stalls. When drag racing became a growing problem on Woodward in 1969, Ted's ended its curbside service and converted to a sit-down family restaurant with a coffee shop and dining room.

The third generation of the Little family expanded the business to include a Pub and Parlor, with nightly entertainment by big names like Bobby name after attending the Dream Laurel and his trio, Roberta Flack, Guido Bono, show and dance duo Sve and Fred, jazz songstress Ursala Walker, the Dan Hill Trio and Tony and Carolyn. ### Cooking lesson in enchanting city adds spice to life am a world traveler of sorts. Competing in the past with the Schoolcraft College and the Michigan Culinary Team has afforded me the opportunity to see many cultures and sights, as well as, sample cuisine from all over the world including Singapore, Germany, and Australia.

Not surprisingly, I have always discovered food, and in many cases, the people who prepare it, to be the highlight of my traveling adventures.

My traveling as of late has been virtually confined to one small corner of the Earth called Queretaro (K-retro) Mexico. The city is two hours north of Mexico City, south of the famous leather city of Leone, resting at the foothills of San Migal. My twin sister, Karen, her husband, Xico, along with my beautiful niece, Ana, and twin nephews, Max and Sam, relocated to Queretaro last August from Birmingham for an overseas assignment with D.S.A., a Farmington Hills based Queretaro is an enchanting city with a population of 600,000. This historical city is beautiful, clean, and the people are friendly and inviting to strangers. The eternal spring weather lends itself nicely to doing a vast majority of your shopping in the traditional open air mercado (market). At the mercado there is an amazing array of interesting food, supplies, meats, exotic fruits and vegetables. I would say it could be compared to our farmers markets in Royal Oak and Detroit. The Mexican mercados are a seven day a week operation, where you can find anything from a spool of thread to a side of beef.

Mexicans have a rich tradition, and the dinner table is one of the most valued places in the home. Shopping at the mercado for fresh foods is done daily. Dinner is served between 2 and 3 p.m., followed by a short rest, and then return to work.

Authentic Mexican cooking is different than much of the "South of the Border" cooking we experience here. Resort style communities and restaurants cater to their American clien-

Cooking lessons

I was very fortunate on my most recent trip to meet and work with Maria do la Pueblito Bautista, a fabulous cook and chef. She was from the Pueblo (small village) outside of Queretaro. She, as her mother, grandmother, and great grandmother before her, would travel into the city every day to cook a vast array of dishes for many Mexican families. My sister arranged for a day of private instruction for me.

We made Sopas, a small soft corn flour shell lined with refried beans and many different toppings including beef and chilies, and my favorite, spiced potatoes and carrots. We made real tacos, that kind that is void of lettuce and sour cream. In our cooking that day, we played with different chilies such as Onza Raja (bright reddish orange in color) whole Chilies de Arbol, Smoked Chipotles and Ancho

We used them to flavor our salsa, and even dropped some into a pot of soup we had brewing on the back of the stove. We simmered, stirred, flipped, tossed, shaked and baked throughout the day. At the conclusion of our day in the kitchen, I was the accomplished sous chef of Maria, and our Mexican feast was ready for my sister's friends and neighbors. We ate and ate.

adies and gentlemen! Look what we've got! A miracle formula guaranteed to make you feel better. It tastes great, and protects your health. This amazing product aids digestion, helps prevent colds, flu and urinary tract infection, and unlocks nutrients in foods.

It cools your body in the summer, and helps control your appetite. It is a miracle tonic that is absolutely calorie free, has no artificial flavors or colors, and best of all, it is inexpensive and readily available. This magic elixir is - water.

Water is called the medium of life since virtually every body process occurs in it. Water seems to be the "forgotten" nutrient because we focus so much on the other five: protein, carbohydrate, fat, vitamins, and minerals. Water is the most abundant component in the body, and accounts for 55 to 70 percent of body weight. The reason we don't go sloshing about when we walk is because water is efficiently compartmentalized in every cell. Water concentration is highest in active tissue such as muscle and lowest in inactive tissues such as fat and bone. We feed our body the water it needs through beverages and food. Then water is lost through elimination, skin (perspiration) and vapor in expired air. Total body water decreases with age; about 2 1/2 pounds per decade of life after age 50. We literally dry up as we age. One way fluid intake is controlled is by thirst. The body tells the brain that the cells are dry, and the brain tells you to take a drink. But don't count on thirst to be your only guide to meet your water needs; you'll quench your thirst long before you replenish your body's supply.

As we age, the thirst sensation is blunted, and we may forget to drink. Or, we may deny our thirst in order to avoid going to the bathroom in the middle of the night. The body cannot "store water. It must be replaced daily. We can survive several weeks without food - but only a few days without water.

Water loss increases in hot weather, during exercise (especially outdoors on a hot day), when you have a fever, and during certain illnesses such as when you are vomiting or have diarrhea. Symptoms of under hydration include dry mouth, a scant amount of urine and urine that is very concentrated, constipation, light headedness and rapid

If you have experienced any of these symptoms, you may be at risk for dehydration, a dangerous condition for adults and a potentially life-threatening condition for children and the elderly.

Drink even more in hot weather or when you're exercising. It's difficult sometimes to remember to drink enough water. But remind yourself of all the healthful benefits this magic elixir possesses and drink up!

Meeting your fluid needs

There are a number of ways to calculate your fluid needs. One simple way is based on your age and weight. For example, if you are 40 years old, weigh 150 pounds, multiply 150 by .066, which equals 9.9 (10 cups). Therefore you need 10 cups of water per day. For children under age 16, ask your pediatrician for guidelines.

Age	Fluid needs of water per pound of body weight per day
16-30	.075 cups per pound per day
25-55	.066 cups per pound per day
55-65	.057 cups per pound per day
Over 65	.047 cups per pound per day

"EATING YOUNGER" TACO SALAD

Meat Mixture

- 12 ounces top round of beef, trimmed and ground once
- 15 ounce can black beans, rinsed and drained or (1 - 15 ounce can nonfat refried beans)
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 cup salsa (mild, chunky)
- 1 tablespoon chili powder
- 1 teaspoon ground cumin 1 jalapeno pepper, seeded and minced

fine (optional)

- 2 1/2 cups torn leaf lettuce
- 2 1/2 cups tom Romaine lettuce 4 plum tomatoes, seeded and diced
- 1 green pepper, diced 1/2 cup chopped cilantro or flat leaf Ital-
- ian parsley 4 tablespoons green onlons, slivered
- (include some of the greens)
- 1 cup grated fat-free, Sharp Cheddar Cheese
- 4 ounces tortilla chips, baked (fat free) 1/3 cup sliced black olives

Brown the ground beef and garlic in a large nonstick skillet over medium heat about 5 minutes (or microwave). Drain. Add black beans, salsa, chili powder and cumin. Bring to a boil, then lower temperature. Simmer, covered, 10 minutes. Chill in refrigerator for one hour. In large bowl, combine lettuces, tomatoes, green pepper, cheese, green onions, olives and cilantro. Add cooled meat mixture. Garnish with tortilla chips and more salsa if you wish. Serves 6.

Taco salad fires up heat, but not the kitchen

DIETITION

Tacos are a convenient popular onedish meal that have a well-earned reputation for being high in fat. But with a little nutrition know-how, and sensitive taste buds, I've created a reduce fat, low calorie version without sacrificing the taste and ease of preparation of this south-of-the-border treat. But when the humidity matches the 90 degree F. temperature, my thoughts turn to salads. They have more appeal for my wilted taste buds and cool weather temperament.

During one particularly long lasting hot spell, my usual one-dish salad meals had lost their appeal, and friends were on the dinner schedule. I thought about tacos for dinner. That would be easy to manage, but a big salad seemed more appealing in the heat. So I combined my thoughts and this taco salad emerged.

Like the tacos, I modified ingredients to meet my nutrition goal of low fat, low saturated fat and high fiber, yet the salad retained the zestiness of the heated version.

For the meat, I bought a piece of beef top round and had it trimmed and ground once. This ground beef has the lowest fat content of most of the ground beef on the market - even that labeled "extra lean."

Meat is usually ground twice to mix in the fat. I could have used ground turkey breast, but I wanted the salad full of flavor, and ground turkey breast doesn't do it for me. Besides, the protein of the meat was going to be extended with beans, a high fiber, high protein food. A good nutrition axiom to remember is that there are no food taboos unless you are trying to treat a disease condition by changing your diet. What counts for health is the portion size, and how often you eat

I used black beans because I like the flavor, but canned fat-free refried beans can be substituted. The chili powder and ground cumin come from my freezer. I find that when I keep spices and herbs on the pantry shelf or spice rack after opening, the flavors rapidly deteriorate.

The plum tomatoes are easily seeded by halving and squeezing out the seeds. I used a mild salsa because I'm not fond of heat in my food or the weather, but adjust this to your taste. You also may want to add a jalapeno pepper, seeded and diced.

If you need to reduce the sodium content, a low sodium salsa is available. Pritkin makes a good tasting one. Also, omit the olives. Do try to get the cilantro though, it really adds a south-of the-border accent.

To increase the fiber, I used a combination of leaf lettuce and romaine. Head lettuce is mostly water. It's a low fiber choice, and has practically none of the cancer-preventing carotenoids present in the darker green lettuces. If you can't find fat-free tortilla chips, or want a less expensive version, cut about six corn tortillas into strips and arrange on a cookie sheet sprayed with nonstick spray. Spray the strips and bake in a 400 degree F. oven until brown (about 10 minutes). Cool on a rack to preserve

To keep my kitchen cool, I usually microwave the beef and garlic for about six minutes on high (stirring once) rather than using the stove. I then set the microwave to the lowest power, cover and heat for about six minutes. Finish the meal with a circle of honeydew melon sprinkled with lime juice and a few frozen cubes of diet ginger ale. Ole!

Grilling expert and author of the three cookbooks on the subject, including the newly released "Marinades" (Harper-Perennial), Melanie Barnard's single favorite food group for grilling is vegetables. Whether the vegetables are grilled whole, sliced, or par-boiled, what makes grilling them so easy all year round is that they only need to be brushed with a seasoned marinade, such as Italian dressing, to turn them into a grilled masterpiece.

Most vegetables are essentially fat-free, and so they need a bit of oil to keep them from sticking to the grill rack. But they are also full of natural starches

Some people refer to these long which, when grilled, run to sugars, giving a depth of flavor that cannot be equaled. This sweet caramelization, accompanied by a bit of tangy vinegar and the addition of a few herbs and spices, complements the natural flavors of each vegetable.

> It's fun to grill a variety of seasonal vegetables, such as bell peppers, onion, zucchini, eggplant, vellow squash and mushrooms. And these tender vegetables of late summer don't need any indoor precooking. Once sliced, brush the vegetables with Italian salad dressing. When they are done grilling, arrange them atop a bed of greens, drizzle with a bit more dressing, and sprinkle with a few croutons or accompany with grilled bread.

For a change of pace, cut the vegetables into chunks and skewer them along with chunks of chicken, beef or lamb. Chicken pairs especially well with delicate summer vegetables, and when the Italian salad marinade is mixed with basil, the essential herb of the season, the result is truly terrific etable Kabobs, the choice of vegetable is up to you, and you could substitute beef or lamb for the chicken. Whatever way you prepare your kabobs, they can be presented in several interesting and easy ways. For example, remove the chicken and vegetables from the skewers and arrange them on a mix of lettuce leaves and other greens that have been tossed with Italian dressing. Or, leave them on the skewers and lav across a bed of herbs or rice or orzo. However you serve the kabobs, finish the meal with an easy all-American dessert, vanilla ice cream topped with sliced summer fruit.

ITALIAN VEGETABLE KABOBS

4 servings

- 1-3/4 cups Italian dressing 1/4 cup chopped fresh basil
- 2 Tablespoons chopped fresh
- 2 Tablespoons lemon juice 2 Tablespoons grated lemon

1 pound boneless, skinless

chicken breasts, cut into 1-inch cubes

4 cups of your favorite vegetables, cut into 1-inch pieces (red bell pepper. onion, zucchini, eggplant, yellow squash and mushrooms)

6 cups assorted greens

For marinade: in medium bowl, combine Italian, dressing, basil, parsley, lemon juice and lemon peel; set aside.

On 4 skewers, alternately thread chicken and vegetables; place in large, shallow non-aluminum baking dish or plastic bag. Pour 1-1/4 cups prepared marinade over kabobs, refrigerate remaining marinade. Cover, or close bag, and marinate in refrigerator, turning skewers occasionally, about one hour. Remove kabobs from marinade, discarding marinade

Grill or broil kabobs, turning and basting with 1/4 cup refrigerated marinade, 15 minutes or until vegetables are tender and chicken is no longer pink

Grill: Marinate fresh vegetables and chicken in Italian salad dressing seasoned with lemon juice and fresh herbs. Grill 15 minutes for a nofuss summer meal.

Heart-healthy chicken enriched by vitamin E

(NAPS) - You knew Vitamin E could be beneficial for hot flashes and arthritis, but did you know it has also shown promise in preventing heart disease?

The New England Journal of Medicine recently concluded that women with a high Vitamin E intake had fewer heart attacks.

Researchers speculate that Vitamin E's antioxidant properties might play a role in repairing plaque-damaged arteries, so low doses of Vitamin E are now prescribed as preventative therapy for heart disease.

Since the body cannot manufacture Vitamin E, we must get it from our food or supplements. One of the best sources is polyunsaturated oil such as safflower and canola, also rich in fat-soluble vitamins, A, D, and

Already a better choice than saturated fat, which causes heart disease, polyunsaturated oil can actually reduce arteryclogging LDL cholesterol, leaving HDL artery-cleansing cholesterol to do its job.

A healthy choice in cooking oils and an excellent source of Vitamin E is Hollywood Canola, Safflower and Peanut oils, the only oils on supermarket shelves fortified with extra vitamin E. These oils also contains the lowest amount of saturated fat.

Here's a heart-healthy recipe using vitamin E-enriched oil:

Veteran O&E business manager ready for new challenges

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

For 34 years, the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Jeanne Beck of Farmington Hills had been synonymous.

Beck sold classified ads for Philip Power when he bought the Farmington Enterprise which was part of the growth of what eventually became the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 15 publications. During that period, Beck climbed the corporate ladder to become business service manager in charge of billing, collections and cus-fered a heart attack that sidelined her. A month later she was ready to go back to work, but her doctor said it was time to take a breather.

On Wednesday, Beck visited the Livonia office of the O&E to say goodbye.

"You can't work 34-years at a place and not make any friends, said Beck. "There are a lot of good people working here."

As you might expect, Beck has seen many changes in the newspaper business during her more than three decades at the O&E.

"I remember the days of the letterbed press, where you put the type in by hand," said Beck. "Phil brought in computers and technology, and it was fabulous."

"Newspapers have changed because the competition has changed," noted Beck. It's become more than just a newspaper business. With Online and web services, it's really become the development of all types of communication."

Beck doesn't plan on sitting back and taking it easy.

"I bought a piano and will brush up on my music skills," said Beck. "I will be taking courses at Oakland Community College (pre-med she said, tongue-in-cheek), do volunteering, anything that stimulates the brain.

In reality, Beck admits that much of her time will be spent with her granddaughters.

"I love the boys (Justin, 22; Graham, 18), however, the girls are the love of my life," Beck

She is referring to Kristie, 8, and Casey, 7.

"They live only live 5 minutes away," Beck says with a twinkle in her eye as she is surrounded by the pair at her farewell gathering. "We'll be spending a lot of time together.'

Beck will certainly be missed by the staff.

"Jeanne was one of the first people I met when I came here

Please see READY, B5

Looking ahead: Jeanne Beck of Farmington Hills, business service manager at the O&E, plans to spend time with family and friends. Her career at the O&E spanned more than 30 years.

Youngsters who emulate the big league habit of chewing smokeless (spit) tobacco are at increased risk for gum disease and oral cancer, according to a recent study by the American Medical Association. About 35%-40% of major league players use spit tobacco, and 20% of high school students have followed in their footsteps. What they may not know is that one-third of major league users have gum disease and 46% have lesions. The risk of developing oral cancer is 50 times greater for long-term users than non-users. And, about 76% of oral cancers are attributable to tobacco and alcohol use. This sobering statistic is

High court ruling

Public employee unions win big victory

On a party-line vote, the Michigan Supreme Court hand-ed public employees unions a big victory by allowing members to use official leaves for political

The court's 4-3 Democratic majority on July 31 struck down a Civil Service Commission rule that added "not including partisan political activity" to a section covering union business leaves and "buy-back" leaves.

Justices Michael Cavanagh, Patricia Boyle, Marilyn Kelly and Chief Justice Conrad Mallett Jr. said the Civil Service rule violated the 1976 Political Freedom Act. It did not rule on the constitutionality of the rule.

"Where the union reimburses the state not only for the wages of the employee, but also the fringe benefits, the state may not prohibit those employees from participating in partisan political activities pursuant to the Political Freedom Act," the leave is antagonistic to an employer's interest and because an employee on union leave is not doing the duty he was employed to perform, the state may not prohibit employees from participating in partisan political activities while on union leave pursuant to the Political Freedom Act unless such activities are shown to adversely affect job performance," the court said, adding a footnote:

"We note that the defendant (Civil Service Commission) has made no showing that union leave adversely affected the employees' job performance."

Cavanagh's opinion called the Political Freedom Act "an uncommon exercise of the Legislature's power to protect and insure the personal freedom of all citizens.

The suit was brought by the AFL-CIO federation, UAW Local 6000, AFSCME, Michigan Corrections Union, Service Employees International, and others representing 44,600 workers - 72 percent of the state classified work force. The American Civil Liberties Union filed an amicus (friendly) brief.

Two lawmakers complained to the Civil Service Commission after a December 1987 meeting in Southfield sponsored by the UAW-Community Action Program and the Michigan Democratic Party. It was attended by 56 state employees who were members of UAW Local 6000.

The complaint was made by state Rep. Frank Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, and former Sen. William Sederburg, R-Lansing. The CSC responded by rewriting the rule to exclude political activity. The Michigan Chamber of Commerce strongly backed their cause, arguing in essence that the state was financing Democratic politicking.

Dissenting, Justices James Brickley, Dorothy Comstock Riley and Elizabeth Weaver charged the ruling "allows classified state employees to engage in partisan political activities during the performance of their official duties as public employees.

Brickley said the majority wrongly interpreted the rule by adding words not in the rule. The source of the compensation is irrelevant. This court should not be so quick to read additional language into a clear statute," he wrote.

"The majority also concludes that activities done while on union leave are not part of the duties of public employees. I disagree with this conclusion," said Brickley, citing cases showing that the Civil Service Commission had to release the employees and assign them work as "employees of the union." Brickley summed it up: "The civil service in this state has a 'tortured' history as a result of the intrusion of political activity into the duties of its employees. The people of this state have clearly expressed a desire to remove politics from the civil

The ruling, Brickley said, "upsets the balance the citizens of this state have so carefully established."

Sheriff steps up efforts to solve crimes

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano is deputizing criminals in an effort to solve crimes.

Well, almost.

Ficano is expanding his Crime Stoppers Program by giving criminals who leave the three county detention facilities Crime Stoppers business cards, in hopes of securing more information leading to the arrests of elusive criminals.

"Many times people who have been involved in the criminal justice system have information we need and want," said Ficano. "Criminals we are seeking are eluding and hiding, and the people who leave our jails often times know where they are and can help us."

"Informants are a big part of police work," continued Ficano. We need them, especially in cases where people don't want to cooperate."

The Crime Stoppers card has toll free number to the sheriff's department. It gives tipsters anonymity and offers rewards up to $1,000.

"We've had several donations to help with reward money, including a $5,000 donation from General Motors," said

Ficano has also put up Crime Stoppers posters in the detention facilities to coax information from visitors and inmates.

The Crime Stoppers program has been used for about a year in Wayne County, and Ficano considers it successful. "Over the past year we've received 55 tips and closed on 13 cases, including armed robbery and rape," stated Ficano.

The Crime Stoppers program is also using web sites, flyers

Pack away your blues

While summer is waning, backpack buying season is just beginning.

There are some things you should consider when selecting a backpack. First of all, is it roomy enough to hold everything you need it to, but still manageable enough for you (or your child) to carry?

Is the material especially that on the bottom - strong enough to withstand all the punishment book bags receive, being thrown on the ground, on the floor and into lockers all the time? Inspect the seams.

Are they double stitched? Is the stitching reinforced on the bottom and where the straps attach to the book bag? Is the material pulling away from the seams?

Do the zippers glide easily? Do they look durable or cheap? Does the main pocket have two zipper pulls? That's a good feature to have for convenience sake and in case one of them should

What about comfort features? Are the straps padded and adjustable? Is the back side padded? Is the backpack lightweight in addition to being strong? Does it have a strap that allows it to be converted into a sling backpack?

What about special features? Are there special pockets for calculators, pens, schedule cards, coins, food, etc.? (Northwest Blue, for example, makes a backpack that features an insulated "cool pack" lunch compartment. It comes with a Rubbermaid juice bottle and sandwich box. It also features a separate compartment for school supplies and a roomy main pocket. I found it at Montgomery Ward for $19.99.)

Kids worry more about what cartoon character is on their backpack. But, if the pack that they have their heart set on doesn't look durable enough to you, shop around to find a similar one that looks like it will hold up better. If you can't find a similar one, then try to compromise.

For example, find a good quality, plain backpack in their favorite color, and then let them personalize it with patches, fabric markers, sequins, etc. Or, find a key chain featuring their favorite cartoon or movie character, and attach it to one of the backpack's straps or pulls.

I found juvenile backpacks featuring characters from Disney's "Hercules," Winnie-the-Pooh, Batman, and "Jurassic Park: The Lost World," at Payless Shoe Source for $9.99, on sale from $12.99.

At Target, I found juvenile backpacks featuring characters from the PBS children's show, "The Big Comfy Couch," and adult and juvenile backpacks featuring Winnie-the-Pooh and Warner Brothers characters. The juvenile backpacks were about $9.99 and the adult ones started at about $19.

Gloria Woolman, owner of the Baggit shop in Southfield's Applegate Square shopping center, and Lisa Young, assistant manager of Bentley's Luggage and Gifts at Somerset South in Troy, both said that Kipling backpacks are very popular with people of all ages.

The backpacks come in a variety of sizes and colors, and are made of Ballictic arrives which is lightweight.

listic nylon, which is lightweight, water repellent and very durable

Each backpack comes with a matching monkey key chain. Bentley's sells extra key chains for about 66 each. Full-size Kipling backpacks start at about $35.

Somerset North marks its 1st year of business

Last Aug. 16, Michigan shoppers by the thousands came to the grand opening of the tri-level, service-oriented, complete-with-skywalk, exclusively-retailed Somerset Collection North in Troy.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO, EDITOR JERRY ZOLYNSKY, PHOTOGRAPHER

David Althouse, 50, of Hazel Park, paused on the third level of Somerset North, rested his elbows on the guard rail, and surveyed the sky-lit grand court below. He wanted to explain how the Troy shopping center was helping him through a difficult mid-life crisis.

"I just got my hair cropped and the top dyed blond at one of the mall salons. What do you think?" he asked, removing his shades and running his hands through his new do. "The girl did a great job. I'm ready for a film career in Hollywood."

He explained that he's been fighting depression due to an early retirement, divorce, and tough case of emphysema.

"But I got a big lift from this haircut, and also whenever I come to this mall. It's like Ren and Stimpy say - "Happy, Happy! Joy, Joy! - when you walk through the doors.

"Whoever the architect was, was a genius. He knew what he was doing and he knew when to quit. This place is my sanctuary. I come once a week to people watch. The cleanliness here is so refreshing. It represents order, suc-

It's success alright, according to the walkers who arrive as early as 6 a.m. to take their brisk paces around the interior parameters while very regalsounding classical music, complete with trumpets, is played over the inter-

It's success alright, according to Nate Forbes of Forbes-Cohen properties, owner/managers of the center.

"A year after the grand opening, I have to say we met our goals. We met the challenges of building the only tri-level shopping mall in Michigan," he said. "We set such high standards, such a high retail water mark, that it wasn't easy. But from the remarks of customers and peers in the industry who have visited from all over the world, it's lots of accolades, many positive testimonies to support our convictions."

Forbes said providing three levels of covered parking, building a 700-foot moving skywalk, and introducing dozens of new restaurants and retailers to the Midwest, provided the company with a tried and tested formula.

"Our biggest success stories? We've seen Restoration Hardware and Golf America do very, very well. Our restaurants, especially Capital Grille with its only mall location, are doing phenome-

To critics who moan that Somerset North has killed business and traffic in Somerset South, Forbes offered this

"At the same time the North opened, the South was hit with a series of retail bankruptcies - Nancy Heller, Lillie Rubin, Barney's New York, Hear Music, Joan Vass. But these vacancies have allowed room for the more successful stores to expand. Williams & Sonoma and Coach have doubled their space. Crate and Barrel is tripling theirs, and adding a furniture department. Though we have not found a new lease for Barney's space, we're aggressively working on it.'

Nordstrom opened last Aug. 16 with a grand gala and much publicity about its "service" and "shoes." Manager Chris Younker said the West Coast retailer was also very pleased with first-year earnings.

"Coats sold very well," she said. "And our buyers were happy to learn we have a higher percentage of trendy shopper here. The basics are naturally our best-sellers. If we could change one thing, it would be to expand our children's department."

By noon, The Peacock Cafe on the third level, is filled with nearby office workers, moms and tots, and mall employees grabbing a quick bite of

"I eat here three times a week," said one Standard Federal employee. "Then I usually spend the next 20 minutes at Hudson's running errands. That store is so elegant. The whole center is such a beautiful place to be."

Editor's note: James Ryan of JPRA Architects/Peterhansrea Designs, Farmington Hills, was the architect behind the Somerset Collection, both

Receipts program begins again

Be True to Your School kicked to clothing, electronics or jewelry off its third year on Aug. 1.

This mall program allows shoppers to credit receipts from four Taubman Company shopping centers: Lakeside in Sterling Heights, Twelve-Oaks in Novi, Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn and Briarwood in Ann Arbor - to any Michigan public or private school, grades

The venture has put more than $500,000 into Michigan school coffers in its first two years. Be True To Your School runs through January 31, 1998.

To participate, shoppers bring their receipts from anything they buy in the center - from a cup of coffee or a theater ticket

Symphony plays under the stars

ivonia Symphony Orchestra conductor Volodymyr Schesiuk would like to wake up classical music lovers to community orchestras so he and 60 members of the orchestra will give a free concert under the stars with guest baritone Dino Valle of the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 14, at Civic Center Park in Livonia.

Orchestras regularly perform in parks in Schesiuk's native Ukraine. So the maestro thinks the Music Under the Stars concert, sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission and Livonia Parks and Recreation, is a viable vehicle for delivering his message.

"In Western Europe and Ukraine, park concerts by orchestras are very popular," said Schesiuk. "We had a special summer season for people to listen to really good symphony music. You have fun. The music is not too serious. We're asking people to bring their lawn chairs, food and for the whole family to come to the concert."

Tickets will be on sale for the orchestra's 1997-98 season and a special Sept. 28 performance at Orchestra Hall with the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan. Among the highlights of the new season are the debut of a concerto for harpsichord, a program featuring Ukrainian composers and music of the Steppes, and a perfor-

for the Orchestra Hall concert will be Dino Valle; Huraman Kasimova, winner of the European Maria Callas Voice Competition in Greece; Fidan Kasimova, winner of the European Viotti Competition in Italy, and acclaimed pianist Chingiz

Sadykhov. For more information about season or Orchestra Hall tickets, call the LSO's 24-hour hot line at (313) 421-1111 or Lee Alanskas at (313) 464-2741.

"Music Under the Stars will be a nice evening," said Jack Vanassche, a member of the Livonia Symphony Society board of directors. "We're going to give them a little taste of what's going to happen this season. In November, we'll be doing 'Carousel of Animals' and are asking teachers in Livonia Public Schools to help us in acquiring drawings of animals by the students for exhibition during the concert."

Vanassche, a certified public accountant, formed his love for classical music while playing French horn in high school. He hopes the community will take advantage of this special opportunity to learn more about the orchestra soon to begin its 25th season.

"The concert in the park is one of the lightest programs," said Vanassche. "It should please just about every body in the audience with everything from marches to show tunes."

Valle will perform an aria by Mozart, which concert goers will also hear at Orchestra Hall, plus "Some Enchanted Evening" from "South
Pacific" and "Granada" by Augustin

Although Valle's first professional performance was in 1972, the baritone sang his first song as an altar boy in Rome, Italy. He began the long road of vocal training at the Detroit Institute of Musical Art and Madonna and Indiana Universities shortly after iber art touches the spirit in more ways than one in an exhibition by members of Michigan Surface Design at the Livonia Civic Center Library Fine Arts Gallery. Art quilts, coats, wall hangings, pillows, sculpture, and scarves beckon viewers to grab or stroke them. A sign says "please do not touch," but visitors will find these pieces hard to resist.

Fiber is sensual, and the colors may lure viewers into wanting to handle the art works. Resist the temptation to touch because oils from your hands not only stain, but lead to deterioration of the fabric.

"The minute you're born, you're touched by fiber," said Urban Jupena, an art professor and crafts department chairman at Wayne State University. "You need to touch it from then on and fiber is a wonderful means of creating. The flexibility it gives is astounding."

Many of the artists in the show formerly studied weaving and fiber painting with Jupena, who reorganized Michigan Surface Design eight years ago to provide networking and exhibiting opportunities for fiber artists. The 150 members create color, pattern, line, and texture on surfaces of materials for the purpose of decoration. Surface design originally was the term used by textile artists primarily interested in printed and dyed fabrics. As artists experimented, the definition expanded beyond textiles to include work with an emphasis on enhancement and embellishment. National Surface Design celebrates its 25th anniversary this year, attesting to the popularity of fiber art, nationwide.

"Michigan Surface Design is a way of keeping people together because artists need to stay together, to help each other because your education keeps going," said Jupena, a Pinckney resident. "The exhibition shows what's happening in the fiber area right here in Michigan and it isn't about one media."

"Privileged Pet." Jupena made this humorous commentary for a friend whose Yorkie was named Best Dressed Dog in Detroit by a monthly publication several years ago.

"I chose to make a statement about dog fashion, using this pampered pets old denim and wool coats," said Jupena. "This dog is so special, it leaves gold paw prints."

Most of the fiber art is for sale except for Jupena's pet piece and Mary York Gentry's satin L.A. quilt that shouts the theme "fun under the sun." Plymouth quilt artist Nancy Meyer's "Seduced by the Waves" would be perfect for decorating a den or adult play room as would Gayle Glenn's "On Eagle's Wing," a dramatic gold and black abstract wall hanging. Loose weaving in the contemporary work was inspired by Jupena's art.

"Fiber artists don't get a lot of attention," said Glenn, an art teacher at Detroit High School for the Arts. "Many people look at fiber as crafts and the artists won't be included in fine arts shows. That's why we appreciate the exhibiting opportunity given us by the library and arts commission."

Quilt exhibit 'sew'-cases opposites

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

If it's true opposites attract, then Nancy Meyer and Saundra Weed were meant to become mentors. Each approaches quilting from a different perspective. That's the reason for titling their two-person show "Viewpoints" at Livonia City Hall.

In a few of the quilts, Weed and Meyer begin with identical fabric, proving that two people may not "see" in the same way but in the end create works capable of togetherness. The quilts, hung side by side, look as if they were meant for each other.

Meyer, a quilting teacher at Quilt Works in Plymouth, learned traditional techniques before quilting works of art. Weed was an artist and painting instructor at Schoolcraft College for more than 30 years before stitching her first quilt.

"Quilters use their fabrics the way artists use their paint," said Weed, a Westland resident who's listed in

The partnership came about when Meyer generously offered Weed the use of her studio to create a 14-foot fabric wall hanging commissioned for the conference room of Schoolcraft College's Radcliff Center. Before Meyer left for Hawaii, the Plymouth quilt artist left Weed, who is also a clothing and wedding gown designer, a garbage bag filled with fabric scraps.

"I told Nancy I couldn't bring myself to cut up fabric to make quilts as she does," said Weed. "I see a bolt of material as a blouse, a dress, jacket or vest.

Silk painters search for members

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Never painted a brush stroke in your life? No matter. The Michigan Silk Painters Guild is looking for you.

Many members of the newly founded Michigan Silk Painters Guild belong to Michigan Surface Design. It seems when fellow fabric artists take different directions, a group forms to support those working in a similar style.

Experimenting with styles forced Celia Block and Chrystyna Nykorak into uncharted territory. Now, the two silk painters are inviting painters interested in the technique to join them at the next Guild meeting 7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 13, at the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, 15401 Farmington Road, north of Five Mile.

The video "Bleach or Dye" by Janet Pray will be viewed and discussed.

"There are people in the group who have never painted on silk and others wholesaling their work to national galleries, and we welcome all of them," said Block, a Farmington Hills resident with a studio in downtown Farmington.

"The group is meant for networking, problem-solving, sharing with one another, and trying to create a public awareness about painting on silk. We also hope to have a fashion show of work by our members next spring."

Block began painting on silk seven years ago after attending a class on the subject at an art supplies convention in Chicago.

"You can change the color but not the design," said Horning.
"I'm trying to get away from the typical tapestry which is flat to the wall. People generally like to hang these over two-story fireplaces or in stairways.

Chrystyna Nykorak, a Farmington Hills resident and Livonia Chamber of Commerce membership director, tells stories in her batik art works. "Metamorphosis," a batik on silk wall hanging, shows a woman emerging from a butterfly. Another batik, "Enigma," mixes mediums by incorporating a Japanese dyeing technique called shibori in the background. The silk painted scarf "Enchantment" features Nykorak's fantasy people, in this case a man and woman, very much in love. "It's two people as birds, flying away to freedom," said Nykorak. These are my fantasy people. They come out of my imagination.

Toss one or several of Virginia and Doreen Garza's silk pillows on a love seat or chaise lounge to add color and comfort to a monochromatic room. The mother and daughter artists use silk as canvas to create paintings of flowers and cafe ladies. They have exhibited work at the Birmingham Temple Invitational Art Show in Farmington Hills.

"The pillow paintings are fun and quick, and in demand as bridal and shower gifts because they're not another frying pan," said Virginia Garza of West Bloomfield. "People treat it as an art piece and it's all washable."

The fact that Donna Hamilton, show room manager for John Glick's Plum Tree Pottery in Farmington Hills, loves clay and fiber shows in her work. Hamilton manipulates fabric into abstract art quilts even though she learned traditional quilting from an aunt at a young age.

"Fiber and clay are both wonderful to work with," said Hamilton of Wixom. "I love texture and color and to take the fiber or clay and manipulate it into what I

Estelle Nelson skips the fancy dyes for Rit when coloring her framed fiber art. The 83-year-old Southfield artist then embellishes the fabric with embroidered butterflies, hearts and flowers, buttons and beads.

"I have it down to a science," said Nelson, who holds dual degrees in law and library science from the University of Detroit and Wayne State University. "I just love the feel of fabric and it has so many possibilities. You can combine it with paper, ribbon, velvet, just about everything imaginable.

Wearable art

Visitors might want to hang Cynthia Wayne Gaffield's "Kimono" as a work of art, but the dyed silk ankle-length coat by the Livonia artist should be enjoyed for the luxurious feeling it gives the wearer.

Sue Argiroff's marbled coat moves with the wearer and is completely reversible. A framed Chinese brush painting by the Livonia artist was inspired by a recent trip to China.

'What's nice about Michigan Surface Design is the diversification of the media, backgrounds and depth of each person," said Argiroff.

Swirls of rich burgundies and blues color the velvet jacket, scarf, hat and purse by Joan Bellet of West Bloomfield. Bellet, a fabric manipulation and surface design instructor at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association, is a former psychologist who currently teaches in Troy Public Schools. She has exhibited the wearable works at art fairs in Birmingham, Petoskey, Royal Oak, and the Holiday Art Sale Show at the BBAA. Bellet also creates yardage for designers "because clothing is hard to mar-

Block has exhibited hand-painted silk jackets, denim jackets with silk appliques, vests, and scarves at the Janice Charach-Epstein Museum Gallery in West Bloomfield, Art in the Park in Plymouth, Birmingham Temple Invitational Art Show, Farmington Hills, Greektown Art Fair, and Ypsilanti Heritage Fair. Two of her art works were published in "The Best of Silk Painting" by Diane Tuckman and Jan Janas this spring.

"Part of the attraction of silk painting is the surprise," said Block. "I use a watercolor technique where the colors flow into one another, and I end up with a third color. Because I'm coming from an oil painting background, I also like to thicken my dye with a type of seaweed. This gives me more control."

Nykorak, a Farmington Hills artist and membership director of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, took up silk painting one year ago after working in batik for nearly 30 years. After completing classes in the basics of the medium at Center for Creative Studies, Nykorak found she was on her own with no one to share experiences or tips about technique. The Michigan Silk Painters Guild helps by passing information about methods such as immersion baths and dye removal among members. Nykorak felt she learned a lot about fiber when touring the Farmington Hills studio of Livonia fiber artist Cynthia Wayne Gaffield in July with other members of the Guild. Visiting artists' studios is another benefit

Nykorak's scarves are currently for sale in the Detroit Institute of Arts Museum Shops as part of the merchandise being sold in conjunction with the "Splendors of Ancient Egypt" exhibition continuing through Jan. 4 at the museum. The DIA merchandising manager commissioned Nykorak to create dozens of silk scarves featuring Egyptian symbols such as Bastet the Cat, and the jackal-headed god Anubis for the museum shops.

Virginia Garza, whose silk painted pillows are on display in the Michigan Surface Design exhibition at the Livonia Civic Center Library Fine Arts Gallery, also joined the Guild as a way to network with other artists working in the medium. Garza painted clothing for 12 years previous to taking silk painting classes at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association and Oakland Community College. Today, she and daughter Doreen paint flowers and ladies

"Painting on silk is exciting, the way the paints blend and move to the edges," said Garza. "The silk dances on the fabric."

Purchasing silk painting supplies is no easy task for an artist in a hurry as most materials are available only by mail order, yet another problem the Guild hopes to resolve. Block is presently approaching art and sewing supply stores in the area to encourage them to stock the dyes and other necessities.

"We want to support the local supply stores and we hope they will support us by joining the Guild," said Block. "After all, we all need each other.

The public is welcome to visit a Guild meeting for $5, applicable to the $25 annual membership dues. For more information about the Michigan Silk Painters Guild, call Block, (248) 477-2766.

Each credits the other for being an inspiration to their work.

"Why am I doing this show, because Saundra made me do it, said Meyer. "She says artists should exhibit their work regularly. I am much more content creating pieces than standing up in public. Until someone drags me kicking and screaming out the door, I am primarily a closet quilt artist."

Meyer is far too modest. In the past, she has exhibited in juried shows such as Celebrate Life in Birmingham; Art Maui '96 and '97, Hawaii, and Sharing the Gift Within, Northville. Both she and Weed also have work in the Michigan Surface Design exhibition at the Livonia Civic Center Library Fine Arts Gallery.

'All Souls' Day' offers unusual view of Viet war

All Souls' Day By Bill Morris (Avon, $23, 325 pp.)

I have not yet read Detroit native Bill Morris' first novel, 'Motor City.' But if this, his second, is anything like it, I look forward to doing so as soon

as possible. Set mostly in Bangkok and Saigon during the days of the Vietnamese War, "All Souls' Day" centers around Sam Malloy, the co-owner of a busy Bangkok hotel called the White Elephant. It is 1963, and he has already "served his time" in the war as a U.S. Navy frogman. However, we will eventually learn, he may never put that experience behind him, no matter how determined he is to get on with the rest of his life. This off-the-beaten-path drama contains a kind of central, recurrent emblem you'll not encounter in just every story you come across. As the action begins in "All Souls' Day," Sam is standing on the dock in Bangkok, awaiting the delivery of a 1954 Buick Century onto those docks. The pink-and-black "chromemobile" was the 500,000 Buick to have rolled off the line at Flint that year, and it will complete Sam's rather oddball collection of cars. He now will own one Buick Century in seven screaming colors: Condor Yellow, Galway Green, Apricot, Malibu Blue, Dover White, Cherokee Red and the "boiled shrimp" pink presently making its first appearance in Thailand. The kicker is that, when these seven Buicks were new, they each belonged to neighbors on Sam's old street in Levittown, Long Island. Now, he's decided, they will get a second chance at life. He can see it all now: He'll use them as a kind of hotel limo service. There will be nothing quite like them in all of Bangkok. They will be a nicely profitable, highly colorful talk of the town, his dream-come-true, you might say.

Dreams sometimes have a way of turning into nightmares, though, and Sam soon finds himself - together with Anne Sinclair, a beautiful U.S. Information Service official based in Saigon - still very much embroiled in the worsening conditions of a near-at-hand war.

Though it has its flaws (including several rather confusing flashbacks), "All Souls' Day" is not just another wartime novel aimed at armchair adventurers.

So richly evoked are most of these characters and all of this landscape, you will feel as if you can smell - and taste - Southeast Asia by the time you have closed these covers. Morris truly has a magic touch, whether placing us on the neon-washed streets of the cities, or in the lush countryside of these exotic lands where beauty and filth, nature and burgeoning commerce often seem to vie for the same territory ( "a nearly full moon wiggled on the oil-black water ... garbage and hyacinth blossoms floated past"). In the heavy air, among the red hibiscus and the gecko lizards and the dark bars and the "carnival streets" that reek or fish, pork, coconut, duck, chile peppers, garlic, ginger, diesel fumes, lotus blossom and other riotous scents, Morris' many characters move the drama forward, always at a smart pace.

Oddly, supporting players are sometimes more compelling than those in major roles. Leading lady, Anne Sinclair, is a special disappointment. She's so flawless that a reader can't help but wonder if Morris didn't fall in love with his own fictional creation at the outset, making her not nearly do interesting as she might have been. She's young, she's beautiful, she's intelligent, she's brave, she's idealistic, she's practically perfect in every way. And when Sam Malloy starts to entertain thoughts like "the dew was still very much on her," a reader may start to entertain thoughts like "oh, puh-leeze, give me a break."

Much of the rest of the cast just shimmers with life, though, from Sam's "thick-skulled ... redneck" brother, Ed, to brother Charlie, a booze-soaked foreign correspondent, to the Chinese lotus grower, Shwe Winn, to a host of others. Marlon Brando does a convincing walk-on at Marlon Brando, come to Bangkok for the opening of "The Ugly American." So do famed journalists, David Halberstam and Joseph Alsop, plus JFK and brother Robert, along with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. The powerful "dragon lady," Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu, figures prominently, even though she actually appears in only a few scenes (one, in which she seduces Charlie Malloy, is one of the most memorable in this book, however).

Morris' picture of political intrigue, war and its consequences are what this novel is all about, though, and "All Souls' Day" is a worthwhile and fascinating read for this reason alone. His interweaving of fact and fiction, and his look behind-thescenes at this monstrous event that touched all our lives, are especially winning.

Former runaway shares ideas

Runaway Me By Evan Karl Cutler (A Blooming Press, $14.95) By Hugh Gallagher

Evan Cutler was 15 when he decided he couldn't take his home situation any longer. He felt distant and estranged from his divorced parents. He had been abused, though he won't go into details.

Running away sent him on a three-month journey into hell which he chronicles in his selfpublished book "Runaway Me," available at the Self Esteem Book store on North Woodward in Birmingham. He became involved with drugs, unwanted homosexual advances and prosti-

Cutler, 28, who recently moved to Birmingham, said he had never seen a book by a runaway. He was encouraged by friends at Colorado State University to tell his story.

"After a year I sent it out to 48 big presses and none of them would publish it," he said. "Many said, 'You write well, but I don't know what the market is.' So I published it myself."

Cutler has been passing the book out to young people in Colorado, Seattle and other places he's been and trying to sell what's left of his initial 4,000 copy printing. He realizes it won't be easy because the book is explicit about his drug and sexual activities. But he considers the plight of runaway children a major problem that hasn't been addressed. "I had the idealistic notion that I'd help people. I see kids on the streets and nothings been done about it. I hoped to help other people avoid the pain I went through," Cutler said

Cutler said writing the book helped him heal some wounds and deal with his problems in ways that even counseling at Colorado State hadn't helped.

The most interesting part of "Runaway Me" is Cutler's impassioned account of his experiences as a runaway in central Florida and the people he met along the way. Cutler's biggest problem was irresponsible and dangerous adults. He describes being essentially raped and then seduced into activities he says he wouldn't have freely chosen. And although these are the cautionary tales that would have the most impact on a potential runaway, these are also the stories that make the book unpalatable for some parents.

"I think some parents might not want it in their schools.

There is a difference between explicitness and pornography. This isn't about stimulating anyone, this is a serious problem,' Cutler said.

The book moves from Cutler's story to self-analysis, general observations and recommendations for dealing with teen problems. Here Cutler, who would like to be a counselor for the young, is on less solid ground. Some of his suggestions might also be upsetting to some parents, including legalization of

"I think society is hypocritical. We legalize most drugs and just decide some aren't going to be legal," he said. "Drugs are harmful but people are doing them anyway. It's the responsibility of people to take care of themselves."

The book also includes a list of source material that is helpful in dealing with the runaway prob-

Cutler believes many children who run away are either abused or have no communication with their parents. The book is nicely illustrated by young artists from Fort Collins, Colo., most of whom had also run away at one point in their teen years. Cutler is currently doing landscaping work and hoping to do some substitute teaching.

CALL FOR ARTISTS

Canton Project Arts is looking for artists for their annual fine arts exhibition taking place Oct. 18-24 at Summit on the Park in Canton Township.

Deadline for entries to be received at Canton Project Arts is Aug. 27.

All media will be accepted. A total of $1,500 in cash will be awarded for Best of Show, Second and Third Place, and four Merit Awards

Juror for the show is Jean Marie McKnight, who has exhibited work in invitationals at the Cranbrook Academy of Art, Marygrove College, and Stocker Gallery in Ohio.

For more information about entering, call Kathleen Salla at (313) 397-6450.

FROM CHOPIN TO BRAHMS

National award winning pianist and composer Anthony Bonamici will present a recital 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 14 at Hammell Music, 15630 Middlebelt in Livonia.

Bonamici, a Livonia Stevenson High School graduate, studied for eight years with Donald Morelock in the Schoolcraft College Prepatory Program for young pianists. Bonamici has a long list of accomplishments such as being the first student pianist to perform on the prestigious Cranbrook Guild Recital Series in Bloomfield Hills and being invited three times to play concerti with the Michigan Youth Festival Orchestra.

Bonamici won national awards in two competitions sponsored by the Music Teachers National Association including one of the top three junior high school winners in 1990 and first place high school student in 1991. In 1992, as a 16-year-old composer, Bonamici wrote a piano concerto that won first place in the BMI student competition as the top student composition by any student up to age 26 in the Western hemisphere. He received the William Schuman Award at the Plaza Hotel in New York City with composers Milton Babbitt and George Crumb in attendance. Later that year at the Aspen School of Music, Bonamici wrote and participated in a premiere performance of his first piano quartet. In 1994, after completing an intensive three-week performance tour in Russia sponsored by the International Fine Arts Institute, Bonamici was accepted as a full-time piano student at the Moscow Conservatory. He completed his freshman year at the Shephard School of Music at Rice University in Texas with John Perry.

ART FAIR

The Ypsilanti Heritage Festival boasts everything from a juried arts and crafts fair to a parade with marching bands and the pounding hoofs of polo from noon to 1 a.m. Friday, Aug. 15, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 16 and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 17. Most events are free. Don't miss the exotic petting zoo, lumberjack competition, motorcycle high-wire act, hot air balloons, big band concert, and Living History Encampment. Take I-94 to Huron Street (Exit (183), 10 minutes from Ann Arbor, Call (313) 483-4444.

CONCERT CHANGED

Due to construction delays dates for the final concerts by the Summer Symphony under the direction of Jon Krueger at Ann Arbor's Pioneer High School have been changed from Aug. 14 to 8 p.m. Friday, Aug. 15 in the Brighton Performing Arts Center at Brighton High School, and 4 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 17 at Ypsilanti Pease Auditorium on the Eastern Michigan University campus.

A $5 donation is suggested but not mandatory. All seating is unreserved. For more information, call Jon Krueger at (313) 677-4831.

The featured work on the allorchestral program will be the Sibelius "Symphony No. 2 in D major." This ultimately trimphant work thematically travels the road from despair to victory. Also featured are Dvorak's "Carnival Overture" and Rimsky-Korsakov's "Le Coq d' Or Suite" from the opera.

ARTIST OF THE MONTH

The Livonia Arts Commission takes a look at contemporary crafts for its August Artist of the Month shows.

"Viewpoints," an exhibition of art quilts by artists Saundra Weed of Westland and Nancy Meyer, Plymouth, continues through Aug. 28 in the lobby of the Livonia City Hall, 33000 Civic Center Drive. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Michigan Surface Design takes over the Livonia Civic Center Library Fine Arts Gallery through Aug. 30. This show of wall hangings, quilts, sculptures, scarves, pillows, and wearable art is one viewers don't want to Joe Slezak of Plymouth dislays stained glass in the second floor showcases at the library until Aug. 27. After retiring as a fire sergeant from Wayne County in 1983, Slezak took a class in tained glass at Schoolcraft College. After several years of pursuing his interest as a hobby, Slezak decided in 1990 to professionally pursue a career in stained glass. He won a blue ribbon from the Livonia Arts Commission at its Arts and Craft Festival at Greenmead Historical Commission his first year. Slezak specializes in creating stained glass Coats of Arms.

Livonia Civic Center Library hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, until 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday.

ART CLASSES

The Garden City Fine Art Association is sponsoring art classes at its new art gallery location at 29948 Ford Road in Sheridan Square in Garden City. The Art Gallery now has a large studio with a skylight that's just perfect for holding art classes.

Canton artist Kay Rowe con-tinues to teach watercolor and collage 1-4 p.m. Thursdays, Aug. 14, 21 and 28.

ART BEAT

Motion Picture Institute raises hope and scepticism

BY FRANK PROVENZANO STAFF WRITER

The theme of recovery and reconciliation that inspired the recent films of Doug Schulze and Kurt Mayry has spilled over into their non-cinematic lives. Unlike life in the movies, real-world redemption hasn't come quite as easily or quickly.

The "thru-line" of their three films, according to writer/direcfor Schulze, is a quest for spiritual faith amid an apocalyptic wasteland. Sort of a "Mad Max" meets "Wings of Desire." A horrific, futuristic landscape where characters long for deeper belief. A fitting metaphor for Schulze and Mayry as they make their way in the dog-eat-dog film industry.

Ironically, the downtown Birmingham filmmakers' latest quest is more mundane. They've et out to persuade eager film students to have faith in their off-screen project, the Motion Picture Institute of Michigan.

The venture, which has caused a local industry buzz, isn't aimed directly at the silver screen, but at the people behind-the-scenes of movie-making magic: lighting and sound technicians, camera people, directors and producers.

Within the next several months, Schulze and Mayry expect to be granted a license to operate MPI from their Birmingham offices

If the license is granted, Schulze claims MPI will be on its way to becoming the only school in the Midwest offering film students a hands-on experience on their movie sets along with an opportunity to work with a 35 mm camera and side-by-side established industry profession-

MPI's proposed curriculum will offer students an overview of the independent filmmaking process - from writing a script to raising capital, producing, editing and distributing the film. In addition, workshops will be taught by established professionals in special effects, acting and screen writing. "We're the medical school of film," said Schulze. "We let our students get first-hand experiences. We're training them to enter the commercial industrial field while giving them the tools to produce their own films."

Reel dreams

Already calling itself a "school or institute," however, is somewhat presumptuous. Because MPI has yet to meet licensing and accreditation requirements, it can't claim trade school status nor offer federal financial aid. according to Margaret Beahan, supervisor of the proprietary school unit of the Michigan Department of Education.

Seminars and workshops offered at MPI over the last several years, said Beahan, do not meet state requirements. Specifically, MPI does not have a stateapproved refund policy, on-site teaching conditions or a regular curriculum directory like other trade schools, she said.

But that hasn't deterred fledgling filmmakers to attend MPI's workshops.

Julie Meir of West Bloomfield articulates a common student perspective: MPI offers a realistic picture of filmmaking while providing a chance to learn practical filmmaking skills. And, above all, it's a place to network.

Working part time at Oak Park Cable and Producer's Color Service, Meir was mostly "curious about filmmaking." She graduated from Michigan State University last year with a degree in television broadcast-

"A lot of people have the attitude, 'Yeah, I want to make a film. What do I do first?'," she

After taking their production workshop last February, Schulze and Mayry pointed Meir to a job opening at Producer's Color, a top post-production house in the

"I got a good overview (from the workshop)," said Meir, who plans to keep up on new course offerings at MPI.

Meanwhile, Angella Mistretta, an aspiring film student, found working on the set of Schulze and Mayry's latest film, "The Omegan," an inspiration to continue to pursue a career in special effects.

"Colleges offer limited film education," she said. "You might get film studies classes, but not the realistic, hands-on experi-

Smitten early in their lives with the contagious creative bug to make motion pictures, Schulze and Mayry have been on a 10year odyssey that began during their days as college film students at Eastern Michigan and the University of Michigan, respectively.

Soon thereafter, they translated their practical experience working on production crews for feature films ("Moon Trap," "Carrier," "Collision Course") into becoming a director/producer duo for their own feature-

"Hellmaster," their first effort, was produced with a $400,000 budget. It aired on HBO in the early 1990s, and is available on video. To date, according to Schulze, nearly 80 percent of the investment has been returned. The horror film featured John Saxon, who starred in the genre classic, "Nightmare on Elm Street."

Their last two films, "Archangel," and "The Omegan," however, have been hung up by a messy legal dispute with the actors' union, and typical scheduling delays of a film shot on a bare-bones budget. "The Omegan," shot in Detroit, is expected to premier this fall. Schulze and Mayry are living the independent filmmakers dream. Like other fledgling filmmakers, all it takes is a hope, script and a camera to become the next John Sayles, Spike Lee, Quinten Tarrentino or Edward Burns.

And Schulze and Mayry believe MPI could be the practical and relatively inexpensive means for many local film stu-

Mayry recalled being accepted into the undergraduate film school at the University of Southern California. The graduate program, however, had a long waiting list of candidates prepared to pay $20,000 a year tuition. That's about the same amount for tuition at other top film schools like New York University, UCLA and the American Film Institute of California.

Tuition at MPI has been set at $7,500. But that may change. Recently, they were approached by a major local production company to explore a possible partnership in MPI. If the deal gets worked out, tuition and the MPI's administrative structure will also change.

But until they receive their license and accreditation, there are still open questions about starting a proprietary school, said Dick Kernan, vice president of Specs Howard School of Broadcasting Arts in Southfield. Last year, according to Kernan, half of all for-profit schools

"When they look at being accredited, they'll have to think about placement," said Kernan. 'Are they well connected? Can they keep up with the regulatory paper work?"

One source, who's worked in the local production industry for 20 years, pointed out the inevitable paradox.

"It strikes many people as too ambitious," said the source, who chose to remain anonymous. "They don't have much of a track record.

But perhaps the journey to the movie-making big-time wouldn't be complete without, a. few struggles, We get calls from students wanting to know about our 'firm," said Mayry. "We're just two guys in an office with a

"An overheating car on a hot summer day in a traffic tie up is not fun not only for you, but drivers behind you, says Jerry Basch, AAA Michigan Communitv Safety Services manager. But you need not have to face that situation if you prepare before-

Basch offered tips to help motorists beat the heat:

■ Make sure your battery is in good condition. "An old or weak battery will fail, maybe even more than during winter, with -oil. By the time lights come on,

Maintain your car's cooling system. Mechanics recommend draining of flushing your system and replacing coolant if it is dirty of rusty or more than two years old. This is especially important on cars with aluminum engine parts and radiators. Check your owner's manu-

2 Up North restaurants satisfy suburban tastes

BY PHILIP SHERMAN STAFF WRITER

I grew up in Detroit, but I moved to northern Michigan -Cadillac, to be specific - to take a job. I was there for three years.

I hated it (the town, not the job). Way too small. Bad water. Population unfriendly to outlanders. Everyone looked and acted the same, which made me wonder if their collective family tree looked like a telephone pole. At the time, not one good restau-

The day I left Cadillac, I swore I would never again venture north of Lansing.

That was better than a decade ago. Some things have changed. I now travel northern Michigan frequently. I have not been back to Cadillac and I do not go near small towns that remind me of the movie "Deliverance." But I have found two outstanding restaurants in northern Michigan that rival anything we have

Heading north, the first of the two you will encounter is Charly's in downtown Charlevoix. This is the splashy one. The second, Scalawag's in Mackinaw City, lives by its pledge that the fish you're served was swimming that same morning. The thing both restaurants have in common is that they are run by people who grew up and worked here

Paul Carter, who with co-executive chef Helen Coon runs Charly's, grew up in Livonia and is a product of Schoolcraft College. Coon, a native of Malaysia, came to this country by way of Australia and met Carter while working at The Palate Pleaser in Bloomfield Hills

And does anyone remember Brian Parker? A little under 6 feet tall, went to North Farmington High in the early '70s, used to live in West Bloomfield? He's the owner and operator of Scalawag's.

Charly's is a place for the persnickety among us. It is open year-round, but only for dinner (5:30-9:30 p.m.). Chefs Carter and Coon espouse perfection and will not be rushed - Coon says dinner guests should plan on at least an hour and a half from amusee to dessert. "You can't cook chicken twice, you can't cook duck twice. If you want consistent excellent quality, that's what it's all about.'

Everything is cooked from scratch at Charly's, and the fare sampled accurately reflected the intentions of Coon and Carter.

Our dinner started with the amusee, a homemade mango salsa. Sweet and light. The appetizers were chicken and shrimp won tons with a chili soy sauce (mild but very flavorful) and white fish cakes, which probably would have been notable by themselves, but do not mix well with won tons. Just say no.

The house salad is dressed, not drenched, in a three-mustard vinaigrette. Even those who dislike salads will be sorry to see this one cleared away.

Our entrees were the whitefish and shrimp ravioli ($15.95) and the President's Pasta ($13.95). The choices also included a Malaysian linguini, a curry of the day, BBQ duck with veg-etable crepes, fresh salmon and herb crusted whitefish

The ravioli had a homemade sauce that fairly leaped up and wolf-whistled, it was so fresh. The presentation was presidential, although that name was supposed to go with the pasta. Speaking of, the pasta was far-falle (bow tie pasta) tossed with shiitake mushrooms, Greek black olives, tomatoes and arugula in a light garlic olive oil, topped with fresh Parmesan.

Both dishes were outstanding. Try the house cabernet as an accompaniment. Tim Coon, Helen's husband, said it's a Chilean '92. He found it while shopping for wine on the Internet. "I'm not a wine expert except for drinking around the world for 40 years or so," Coon said. Can't argue with experience. His wine cellar sports nine wines by the glass, and stocks 16 reds and 12 whites available by the bottle.

Charly's seats 70, is smoke free. and is located right at the drawbridge in the Edgewater hotel/condo complex, although the hotel does not own the restaurant. Dress is casual. Entrees range from $13.95-$19.95. Major credit cards accepted. (616) 547-

Scalawag's

If you hop on US-31 north from Charlevoix, it will take just under an hour to get to Mackinaw City. Do not be scared. Someone should tell you that before your final approach. Mackinaw City, to the urban eye, looks like nothing if not blocks and blocks of souvenir shops and fudge places. Your instinctive reaction will be to nudge that stick shift back into fourth and bypass the whole

Don't. You truly would be missing something special. Brian Parker thought of the name for his fresh fish and chips restaurant while he was lying on his back at 1 a.m., smoking and watching an old Kirk Douglas movie. "Douglas stood up on deck and put his hands on his hips and yelled, 'all right, you scalawags.' It hit. Pow. And I figured that's what I'll call it."

The only thing he needed was a restaurant to name. Parker has been around. He worked for Chuck Muer's, the Western International Hotel Chain, The Camel Back Inn, a five-star restaurant in Arizona where he was managing chef, and for The Marriott. To get Scalawag's going, he took a job in Harbor Springs, worked days, built his restaurant on nights and weekends, and opened five years ago. How good is it? Bon Appetit wrote a letter inquiring after one of Parker's recipes. The letter is framed just inside the door. Dozens of business cards spackle part of one wall, many with comments such as:

"Best Fish outside of Alaska."

Daryl Darnell, sales director,
Iditarod Trail Dog Sled Race,

"Now, that was fresh whitefish!X!! Nice Goin'!"

The Los Angeles News Service "The fish chowder is wonder-

Dr. Daniel J. Rierson, Cornerstone Chiropractic, Keego Har-"Best fish by far."

Anthony Greene, staff attorney, Wayne County Neighborhood Legal Services.

"The product is consistent that's what I strive for," Parker said. He's more concerned with serving it fresh and getting it right than anything else. It is extremely tasty, and, of all things, healthy - Parker uses premium vegetable oils to lower fat and cancel out cholesterol.

Education in archery hits target

That's the first thing you hear when you arrive at an archery tournament.

But this was not any ordinary archery tournament, it was the 113th National Target Championships, which brought out the best in the U.S. and 19 other countries.

There were 525 competitors on site, all shapes, all sizes, all ages

A lot of quiet conversations going on. No cheering, yelling or screaming. Just an occasional whistle to signal the competitors toward their respective targets to check their scores.

And don't forget to bring your cooler. Also, include a canopy and some chairs, so you can relax and stay out the sun because it's a long day.

I'll be the first to admit I know nothing about the sport, but thanks to Sam Miller of Middletown, Conn., I received a crash course on just how everything works.

Miller, a machinist by trade, was there supporting his daughter Sarah, a 15-year-old who was competing in the Intermediate Recurve (Girls 14-18) division.

It was a 12-hour drive from Middletown, but Miller was willing to take vacation time in order to make it all happen. He takes most of his vacation time to attend tournaments. "My daughter started shooting in 4-H camp about 10 years ago," Miller explained. "She tried it and loved it. Now we travel all over the country for tournaments. We've been as far as San Diego.

Like Miller, archery tournaments are of the laid back variety. Quiet conversations, an odd laugh or two breaks out.

And just think, no controversy. No contract holdouts and no cheating.

"I've never seen any trouble," Miller said. "It's just a good bunch of people. People have thousands of dollars of equipment laying around, and you can leave it, go to lunch, and not worry about it.'

Yes, you have to pay somewhat of a steep price to play this game.

A dozen arrows, just the bare shafts (made of an aluminum and carbon compound) cost around $175 (not including the tips).

Bows can range upwards of $800, not including the accessories. String, made of 14 to 16 strands of dacron, will run around $15. And don't forget to add the stabilizer for the bow (another $100).

And probably the most important item is a spotting scope, mounted on a tripod to see just where those arrows fall in the target. Competitors are allowed to use it as an aid on the shooting line. Binoculars are also a must for the spectator. It's hard enough to witness how somebody is doing from 30 meters away, let alone 90. The U.S. Target Championships are a four-day affair, usually divided into morning and afternoon sessions (normally about two hours) with a break in between. You're allowed 45 minutes of practice prior to the start.

"It's a pretty rigid schedule," Miller said. "I make sure she gets her sleep because if you're tired, that's just one more thing against you. It's a demanding sport. Mentally you've got to have your head on straight to shoot

You also have to be consistent because you're scored on a four-day cumulative total.

On Tuesday, the wind was a huge

"Sometimes the wind in your face is harder than a crosswind," Miller said. "It's been a tough day." The beauty of competing in the nationals is that the big shots, such as Olympic gold medalist Justin Huish, can be paired with a novice. Just submit in an entry and you're in. No qualifying.

Of course, you have to practice. You don't want to embarrass yourself. "You just send in your application

Please see EMONS COLUMN, D2

Top woman: Janet Dykman of El Monte, Calif. repeated as women's recurve division winner at the 113th U.S. Target Championships held last week at Heritage Park in Canton Township.

Repeat winners

Johnson, Dykman rule U.S. archery

Janet Dykman of El Monte, Calif. and 1996 Olympic gold medalist Butch Johnson of Woodstock, Conn. each claimed their second consecutive titles Thursday at the 113th U.S. National Target Championships held at Heritage Park in Canton Township.

The week-long tournament, sponsored by Gander Mountain L.L.C., attracted a total of 525 competitors. Johnson sprinted to a 19-point lead during Monday's opening round of the men's recurve and never let up.

The field narrowed the gap to 11 points after Tuesday's round, but the two-time Olympian responded with strong performances over the final two days to finish with a 2,631

Justin Huish (Simi Valley, Calif.), a double gold medal winner last summer in Atlanta, was second with a score of

Jay Barrs (Salt Lake City, Utah), a 1988 Olympic gold medalist, finished third with 2,596, beating out Rod White (Hermitage, Pa.), the third member of the 1996 Olympic gold medal medal men's team, who ended the tournament with a Scoping things out: Susan McGrath of Great Britain and Fuzzie Davis of Mansfield, Ohio zero in on their respective targets.

"It feels great," Johnson said of his back-to-back national titles. "I've practiced more for this tournament format. I knew the 90-meter distance could make or break you, and I had a real good 90 both days."

This year's tournament format consisted of two rounds in which the archer shot 36 arrows at each of the four distances for a total of 288 arrows.

Last year's format added an elimination round on the final day.

Dykman was equally pleased with her second national championship in women's recurve.

"There was more pressure this year with the new for-mat," she said. "After Wednesday's round I felt I had lost Dykman's lead after Wednesday had dwindled to a scant six points. "I practiced a lot Wednesday night and felt more confident this morning," Dykman said. Here final score of 2,606 bested runner-up Khatouna Lorig of Flanders, N.J., who finished with 2,591. Kathie Loesch of Houston, Tex., an alternate on the 1988 Olympic team, placed third with a total of 2,536. In the men's compound division, Kevin Eldredge (Roosevelt, Utah) claimed his first-ever outdoor target title, edging out current World Indoor champion Dee Wilde

Eldredge finished the week with a score of 2,637 to Wilde's 2,632. Matt Cleland (Swanton, Ohio) placed third with a total of 2,616. "The key to my victory was the way I shot in the wind on Tuesday," said Eldredge, who took over first place

Tuesday and held it the remainder of the week Meanwhile, in the women's compound, Diane Hooper (Lockport, Ill.) vaulted from third place in the final day to captured the hotly contested title.

Captured the hotty contested title.

Only three points separated the top three finishers.

Hooper scored 1,294, nudging out Becky Pearson of Vail, Ariz. and Tara Swanney of Haverhill, Mass.

The tourney concluded Friday with the U.S. Open Round, pitting the top 64 men and women among all participating countries in a head-to-head elimination format, the same format used in the Olympic Games.

Wampler latest Miller recruit for U-D Mercy baseball squad

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

University of Detroit Mercy baseball coach Bob Miller likes to keep his recruiting base right in his own backyard of Redford Township.

And the comforts of home apparently were too hard to resist, too, for Livonia Franklin pitcher Dave Wampler, who recently signed a NCAA letter-of-intent with the Titans.

Wampler, a 6-foot-1, 175-pound righthander, will join Plymouth Salem catcher Ryan Rumberger, who signed earlier this spring, as one of two Observerland recruits for Miller.

"I'm very excited about those two lads," said Miller, who will be entering his 33rd season as head coach of the Titans. "Wampler is one of the best looking pitchers I saw this spring and summer. He amazed me with his good stuff. He can throw it upwards up 88 to 89 (MPH) with a good curve."

During the school year on a Franklin team that struggled, Wampler was only 2-4-1 on the mound, but had 90 strikeouts with only 24 walks in 54 innings. His earned run average was a respectable 1.43.

Wampler made first-team All-Observer based on his batting performance. He hit .431 with five homers and 28 RBI.

Playing for the 21-8 Michigan Lake Area Rams, a Connie Mack team which captured the American Amateur Baseball Congress district at Madonna Park, the 6-foot-1, 175-pound Wampler finished with a 7-2 record. He started the opening game for the Rams in the AABC regional in Battle Creek

Using an effective slider with the Rams, Wampler began to attract the attention of Division I schools. He also drew the interest of Detroit Tigers scout Mark Monaghan, who talked contract.

"I was all set to go to Siena Heights and then I started playing better in the summer," Wampler said. "The weather was a lot better in the summer and I threw the ball a lot harder. I played the first half of the year in the outfield, but I sat more the second half. I had a disappointing summer hitting.'

Wampler also visited Western Michigan University.

"Western's about two hours away and being close to home was a factor," said Wampler, who plans to study computer

"We went right down to the wire to get him," Miller said. "I think he has a great future. We'll get him on weights and I think he'll be a great college pitcher."

Miller also signed two other players, Justin Davenport, a shortstop who hit 10 homers for Saginaw Nouvel, and left-hander Matt White, a pitcher from Willow

The Titan coach is also taking three preferred walk-ons - second baseman R.J. Casey of Garden City, a first-team All-Observer pick who batted .397; Joe Delisle, a pitcher/third baseman from Royal Oak Shrine; and Colin Quinn, a outfielder from Royal Oak Kimball.

Rumberger, who played this summer for Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury in the Collegiate Division of the Adray Metro Association, is another first-team All-Observer choice. Rumberger also was picked up by the Rams Connie Mack squad for post-season play.

On a mediocre Salem team this spring, Rumberger hit .446 for the Rocks with seven homers and 25 RBI. In June, he was named MVP at the Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association All-Star Game at Tiger Stadium.

"He'll be a hitter for sure," Miller said of his incoming catcher. "He has a good arm. he's a big kid who likes to play baseball and catch.

"He's got to start for us next year. And he could play some first base, too.'

Bow hunter's rendezvous comes to Oakland County

Bowhunters take notice.

If you've passed on the opportunity to attend the annual Michigan Bow Hunter's Rendezvous because you didn't want to make that long trek up north you won't have that problem this

For the first time in the 17year history of the event the Rendezvous will be held in southern Michigan this year. Sponsored by Michigan Bow Hunters, the event was originally held at Houghton Lake High School and stayed there for three years. For the past 13 years the Clair County Fairgrounds has been the home of the Ren-

This year's event, the 17th annual, is slated for Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 16-17, and will be held at Oakland County Park's Springfield Oaks in Davisburg. "Basically we moved it because we wanted to hold the rendezvous closer to a more populated area of the state,' said Bruce Levey, a member of MBH's executive board: "We've had a little bit of a drop off and we hope to improve our attendance numbers down here."

Many options

If you've never attended a Bow Hunter Rendezvous you've been missing a good time. Expert speakers, demonstrations, 3D and novelty shoots are all on tap as well as numerous vendors with bows, hunting equipment and much Headlining this year's list of guest speakers is Bob Garner, of Michigan-Out-of-Doors. Senator Diane Byrum will also be on hand as will renowned outdoor writer Denny Guerink, the first American to hunt in Russia; Kyle Randall, executive director of the Michigan Sportsmens Congress; camouflage specialist John Sloan and former DNR big game specialist Ed Langenau.

There will also be demonstrations by longbow trick shooter Ron LaClair, MUCC's birds of prey show as well as the Michigan Bow Hunter Museum.

A family affair

"It's a good time for the entire family," added Levey. "It's a great opportunity to expose your whole family to the ambiance of bow hunting. It's much more than just hunting. It's camaraderie. It's a way

There will be an expanded 3D course along with novelty shoots and special shoots for the kids. National Archery Association's Bob and Rachel Fenton will offer hands-on archery instruction and representatives from Commemorative Bucks of Michigan will provide free trophy scoring.

Food and camping are available on the grounds and there will be a buffet dinner Satur-

Parking is free, admission is $5 for both days and children under 15 will be admitted free. Dinner tickets will be sold on Springfield Oaks is located one mile south of Davisburg on Andersonville Road.

Reminder

Don't forget the Ted Nugent United Sportsmen of America Sporting Clays Shoot for Charity will take place Friday, Aug. 15, at the Bald Mountain Shooting Range in Lake Orion.

The purpose of this non-competitive charity shoot, which features sporting clays, trap and skeet shooting, balloon shooting for the kids, the TNUSA Race Car and much more, is to raise money for TNUSA's Kamp for Kids and the Society of Concerned People Interested in Educating, Protecting and Preserving Children under 12 will be admitted free and can eat free.

Anglers and hunters are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI. 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker evenings at (810) 901-2573.

Crim Festival of Races set for Aug. 23 in City of Flint

While many runners are already starting to gear up for fall marathons, a good barometer is Saturday, Aug. 23 in downtown Flint for the Crim Festival of Races

The featured event is the 10miler, which winds through the heart of the city filled with diverse neighborhoods, challenging hills and a famous brick street finish

and timing clocks are provided at each mile.

BRAD EMONS

The 10-miler attracts some of the nation's elite road racers, along with the usually strong international contingent, led by the Kenyans. Nearly $50,000 in total prize dollars will be awarded.

To be seeded, runners must break 1 hour, 10 minutes, or run a previous 10K during the past year at a 7-minute or under

This is the state's premier event and shouldn't be missed. It is truly a festival with medals awarded to all 10-mile finishers with free pizza, food and assorted beverages served afterwards.

The wheelers take off at 7:30 a.m. followed by the 10 mile at 8 a.m.; 8-kilometer at 9:30 a.m.; 8K race walk and walk at 9:45 a.m.; the 5K run and 5K walk at 10 and 10:30 a.m. respectively; the 1-miler at 11:45 a.m.; and the Teddy Bear Trot at 12:30

• The fifth anniversary of the Falcon 5K and free 1-mile fun run will be Saturday, Aug. 16 at Levagood Park, located on the corner of Silvery Lane and Wilson in Dearborn.

The 1-miler starts at 8:45 a.m. followed by the 5K at 9:10 a.m.

•Prior to the Crim is the 17th annual Great Train Race, an open 10K run which starts at 8:10 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 17 at the Farmers Market in Depot Town in Ypsilanti.

There is also a 5K run and 5K race walk, along with a 5K fitEntry fees (postmarked by Aug. 12) are $15 for those 13 and up and $10 for 12 and under. The Great Train Race is part of the Ypsilanti Heritage Festival, one of the largest music and craft fairs in southeastern Michigan. The event is put on by the Ann Arbor Track Club and the Depot Town Association.

For more information, call the Ann Arbor Track Club hotline at (313) 663-9740.

On Saturday, Sept. 6, the University of Detroit Mercy will stage its eighth annual Tommy Titan 5K cross country race, beginning at 9:45 a.m. at Cass Benton Park in Northville.

Winners in each group will receive two UDM men's basketball tickets. Participants can register in advance, or at the Following the 5K open race, there will be men's and women's intercollegiate race, featuring such schools at UDM, Eastern Michigan and St. Francis (Pa.).

Aroma puts you closer to animals

In order to fully under-stand animals we must be able to determine what they can sense in the world around them.

mals have the same five senses that you and I have, but there are senses mals have that you and I do not have. 0 instance

detect the

magnetic field like butterflies, some sea turtles and some birds. We cannot detect the heat trail left by passersby like a pit viper can. One of the senses that allows honeybees to find food sources is the polarized sun-

Not only is it amazing that animals have these senses, but the sensitivity of these senses is incredible. We know dogs have a very keen sense of smell. Some dogs can smell better than others. But there are scientists that feel some dogs have a sense of smell that is a million times better than ours.

An eagle is reported to be able to detect a rabbit a mile away. Mosquitoes that land on your arm can detect such a minute difference in heat that they will stick you in a capillary, which is hotter that the tissue surrounding

Male moths are said to be able to "smell" the sex attractant of the female moth up to seven miles

Can you imagine a molicule of the attractant hitting the antennae of a moth seven miles away?

Think how many other kinds of molecules there are floating around in the air that could interfere with detection. Then once it has been "smelled," the moth zig zags back and forth until it detects another molecule and eventually follows the increasing concentration to the sataionary female emitting the sex attractant.

This incredible sensitivity was demonstrated the other day when I placed a gypsy moth lure in a moth trap. The lure is the sex attractant emitted by the female moth.

Males are attracted to this specific scent. Though I only touched the sealed lure with my fingers long enough to stick it in the trap, I became an attractant.

My clothes must have absorbed enough of the attractant to emit a very faint concentration that was still strong enough for the male moths to detect and locate. As soon as I walked in the woods, male gypsy moths came to my pant legs, my shirt, my face and finally to my hand. They tickled as their wings fluttered on my arm. Even after washing my hands several times, the moths still came to my hands. We are still learning about the sensitivity of animals, but even what we know now is pretty sense-sa-tional!

Blue Ribbon promotion bargain for all

I hope everybody is having a fun time this summer. But now it will be even more fun during much of August with the advent of Summer Strikefest, a promotion put on by the

The promotion runs through Aug. 23, and the Strikefest package consists of three games of bowling, hot dog and pop, and instead of the hot dog and pop, hot dogs can be purchased separately for 50 cents apiece. Cost of entry is $5.75 per person.

The added feature will be the "Red Pin Strike," in which one red pin will be included among the pinsetter supply for each lane, and if a bowler rolls a strike when the red pin is in the No. 1 position, the bowler wins a prize or chance at a prize draw-

All children (ages 17 and under) may register for an inhouse drawing for a Schwinn Mountain Bike.

Between 2-5 p.m. daily, if a red pin strike is made, he or she will receive one free game of bowling (employees will need to verify the red pin strike).

From 7-9 p.m., adults may register to win a large screen TV after making a red pin strike. There will be one final drawing for the TV.

1997 Oldsmobile Silhouette impresses

BY ANNE FRACASSA AVANTI NEWSFEATURES

Even my cousin, Dino, was impressed with the 1997 Oldsmobile Silhouette.

You see, he's a loyal Ford owner (an F-150 extended cab and an Aerostar). Most of my family are Ford owners, mostly because everyone works for Ford Motor Co. And when I drive up with whatever I'm driving that week, nobody takes much notice -unless it is a Ford.

So I was surprised when Dino took notice of this General Motors product. His take on it: "Looks solid. I like the sliding door. Has a lot of luxury. Didn't think GM could make a solid van like this.'

Dino was right. All the way around. The new Silhouette is a solid vehicle.

And it does have a lot of luxury. The standard equipment list is as long as a felon's arrest record. And the price isn't too bad, either: $26,235 to start; $27,675 with leather seats and destination charges. That's about what the competition charges.

But the Silhouette has more Cadillac in it than anything. The ride is about standard for a minivan, but there's a lot of luxury thrown in.

Standard features include power programmable door locks, 15-inch aluminum wheels, power driver and passenger seats, overhead console with map lights, compass and driver info center, cruise control, keyless remote locks, power outside mirrors, power windows and power quarter vent win-

Love that power sliding door. Now all GM has to do is make the fourth door on the driver's side power sliding as

The Silhouette GLS tested had front bucket seats, captain's chairs for the second row and a bench seat for the third row of seats. That's seating for seven. And unlike most minivans, there was a substantial amount of room in back of the third row to stow more than a week's worth of groceries or anything else your heart desires.

On a long trip across town, my girls fell asleep in the captain's chairs. That should tell you just how comfy the chairs really are -- they rarely fall asleep because they anxiously await for the "orange" lights under the Clawson and Southfield bridge-tunnels of I-696 yelling "OOOORRRRAAANNGGEEE" as we pass beneath them. Silly kids.

The Silhouette is front-engine and front-wheel drive, of course. The 3400 (3.4-liter) V6 is just right for a van of this size. Not too much, not too little. The powertrain is also very quiet, leaving you wondering if it even turned

I should mention that the fourth driver's side door is optional on the base Silhouette. Another great feature is that that door slides open wider than Chrysler's products and you can actually move the second row seat out of the way to gain access to the third row of

It's actually an added convenience. but it was much easier to just go around the second seat aisle to access the third row of seats.

And, like most of the minivans on the market, the Silhouette can handle a 4foot by 8-foot sheet of plywood. The difference is that you can fold down the seats and load it over the seats. That means you don't have to remove the seats to carry a large load. That also means that if you're not careful, you run the risk of tearing up the seats as you load them in.

The Silhouette has a tight turning circle, which means better maneuverability on city streets. The rear gate opens efficiently and without much

I liked this minivan. It was comfy, had a lot of places to stuff my goodies into and drove more like a luxury car than any other minivan out there. And the price ain't half bad, either.

It seems selling a Saturn is as rewarding as buying one.

Saturns come with a bunch of neat things that help them maintain their value. For one, the polymer bodyside panels resist dents, dings and corrosion. It probably explains why so many Saturns stay looking new five or maybe even ten years down the road and have some of the highest resale values in their classes.* Of course, keeping the inside looking as good is up to you. not to complete the home. Unfortunately we did not get a lawyer when we signed the building contract and did not check the builder out. What can we do at this point?

A. The axiom that it is better late than never applies in this case to retaining a competent real estate attorney who can review your rights and advise you accordingly.

Your builder may have committed a fraud on you, which could jeopardize his license. Moreover, it appears that he has breached the contract and may be in conspiracy with the title company, to the extent that the title company intentionally, or, at the least negligently, allowed money to be released without your consent, if that was a precondition to such release.

There may also be criminal ramifications depending upon the nature of the circumstances. You should explore all of these avenues with your attor-

Ravines phase open at Stony Creek Ridge

Three builders present a variety of product, mostly colonial and story-and-a-half with first-floor master suite, in the Ravines at Stony Creek Ridge, an upscale platted subdivision in Rochester.

DiMaria Homes, Stewart Building and MJC Builders of Troy all offer five floor plans with prices starting in the mid $300,000s.

The Ravines is a step up in price from the Meadows community at Stony Creek Ridge that was profiled here last spring.

Both are off Parkdale with easy access to the charms of a quaint downtown and a large 4,000-acre park featuring swimming, boating, fishing, golf and hiking.

"I don't think there's anything (new) closer to downtown Rochester," said Margie Chirco, sales representative for MJC. "In 15 minutes, you can be at Lakeside (Mall) and Stony Creek (Metropark) is a five minute

The site, itself, also is attractive.
"It not only has a big and beautiful entrance, but offers nice wooded lots," said Salvatore P. Munaco Jr. of DiMaria Homes. "We also have a community center that's a greet meeting place for kids and parents to meet their neighbors."

"It's really rolling land," said Pat

"Most premium lots back up to 80 acres that will never be developed," said Simon Miners, sales rep for Stewart.

"Rochester schools, I think, is important," added Andy Montalbano, construction manager for MJC.

A large outdoor pool, clubhouse with a half dozen pieces of exercise equipment, tot play lot, decorative watercourse and a tennis court under construction probably will serve as the social center of Stony Creek

The typical buyers at the Ravines likely will have children and will have built new previously.

All of the builders have the same basic amenities in all their plans at base price. Those include three-car garage, fireplace, first-floor laundry, basement and oven, cooktop and dishwasher.

Exterior materials are brick, stone and wood siding.

DiMaria's offerings range in price from $349,900 for a four-bedroom, story-and-a-half of 3,000 square feet with first-floor master, or a four-bedroom colonial of 3,500 square feet, to $414,900 for a four-bedroom colonial of 4,050 square feet.

All have 3-1/2 baths.

Buyer's choice: Stony Creek Ridge in Rochester offers new homes at a couple of different starting price points with the Ravines and the Meadows phases.

The model, 3,700 square feet, features a library with cathedral ceiling, dining room, great room with peaked ceiling, family room, kitchen/nook

"We sit down with people if they want to make changes," Munaco said.

"You've got to sell value and quality."
Stewart's plans range in price from $355,000 for a story-and-a-half of 3,062 square feet with three bedrooms including first-floor master and 2-1/2 baths to $397,000 for a story-and-a-half of 3,505 square feet with four bedrooms including firstfloor master and 3-1/2 baths. The model, 3,823 square feet, includes living room, dining room, library, family room with two-story ceiling, kitchen/nook and butler's pantry on the main floor.

All four bedrooms are upstairs.

The master, with pan ceiling, has two vanities, separate tub and shower, walk-in closet and compartmentalized toilet. A second bedroom has a full bath, while bedrooms three and four share a jack-and-jill bath.

Base price of the model is $392,000, as presented about $475,000.

MJC's plans start at $371,900 for a colonial of 3,400 square feet with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths to $454,900 for a 4,300-square-foot colonial with four bedrooms, three full baths and two half baths.

The model, a 3,650-square-foot colonial, includes a living room, dining room, library, family room, kitchen/nook, a half bath off the main foyer and a half bath off the laundry and garage.

The master with cathedral ceiling has a siting area, separate tub and shower, dual-sink vanity and walk in closet. A second bedroom has its own bath while a third full bath services bedrooms three and four.

$384,900, as is with upgrades about $490,000. "People like the two-way fireplace

"BRINGING NEIGHBORHOODS TO LIFE"

By BARBARA MAYER

The shore is a favorite vacation spot, but at holiday's end snapshots, seashells and sandy sneakers are often the only reminders of summer pleasures.

Now, there are rafts of decorative accessories with nautical motifs so summer salts may enjoy the sea year-round at home

"Any number of companies are bringing out new home furnishings products that make use of nautical motifs and symbols," said Katherine Pearson, editor of Coastal Living Magazine in Birmingham, Ala

With an emphasis on comfortable furniture and easy-care fabrics, coastal decorating is a variant of the country look

"The biggest difference between the two is that coastal decorating is pared down and spare," Pearson said.

Accessories and ornaments establish the mood. In addition to wallpaper, borders and fabric in nautical motifs, there are model ships and miniature lighthouses, seascapes suitable for framing and even furniture.

"Seashells are popular in almost all of our collections, particularly those targeted for use in the kitchen and bath," said Terri Feld. Feld is a marketing manager for GenCorp Wallcovering in Hackensack, N.J., the corporate parent of Sanitas.

An appealing recent release in the genre, from the Sanitas Cross Country Collection for Village, is the Cape Cod scenic border. Between the ropes that edge it are white picket fences, lighthouses, the ocean and seagulls.

"Lighthouses and boats are both big," said Ron Soeder, an executive at Imperial Wall Coverings in Cleveland. "A lot of people are into boating, and even those who aren't often like the symbols of boats and the sea.

Several Imperial patterns feature sailboats. One pattern, white line drawings of boats on a blue ground, is from the For Men Only Collection. Another, from the J.G. Hook Collection, has gold anchors on crests and pennants in rope-edged squares.

For children, a pattern from the Marimekko Kids book features white life buoys with red lines on a marine blue ground. Another is a border of colorful tugboats.

The J.C. Penney summer catalog hit the high seas with numerous nautical accessories. A dinnerware pattern features lighthouses ringed with rope. There are tabletop models of sailboats and lighthouses, decorative pillows in a semaphore flag design, and framed artworks of sea

"Materials like seersucker, cotton ticking and duck cloth, all associated with the seaside, really define this season's bedding and window treatments," Pattie Shaw said. Shaw is home furnishings style director for Penney's catalog in Dallas, where prices range from $15 for a small ship model to $300 for a bedding

For a more extensive selection, look for mailorder companies such as Lighthouse Depot of Wells, Maine, and Preston's of Ships & Sea of Greenport, N.Y. Each has a 48page catalog with a wide range of home decorating items - from switch plates, coasters and shower curtains to plant stands and coffee tables

When I first started with home furnishings about 20 years ago, there was not nearly the variety. Now, I have a hard time choosing between items because there are so many," said Andrea Rowsom, a principal of S.P. Preston's & Son, Inc.

Rowsom said anything related to the Titanic is popular with customers. So are lamps and nautical-motif coffee tables. One table is a ship's wheel under glass with a brass lantern base. Another is a rectangular glass top with a bronze color resin base shaped like a mermaid.

Shaw has a few ideas for nautical decor without going over-

■ Display starfish and sea shells in shadow boxes, curio cabinets or large glass bowls.

■ Create a marina with model boats and miniature lighthouses on a mantel or shelf.

■ Use nautical motifs in table settings or on throw pillows.

Decorative inlays will add luxury to a room

A foyer floor welcomes guests with a sunburst medallion in an array of multi-hued hardwoods. A branch with leaves the colors of fall foliage dresses up the floor of a kitchen, drawing the eye to the center of the room. An intricate walnut border frames the oak floor in a grand dining room.

These are but a few of the design possibilities with an inlaid hardwood floor. And, according to the Hardwood Manufacturers Association (HMA), a national trade group, this luxurious home accouterment is becoming more affordable thanks to advances in technology. Once the domain of the hammer and chisel, inlaid floors now can be designed with computers, and the wood pieces cut with lasers. The result is an affordable custom feature that combines a work of art with the > beauty of a solid hardwood "I think it makes a room look a lot more expensive, with very little extra expense," says interior designer Mary Beth Hughes, ASID, whose clients choose inlaid solid hardwood floors because they remind them of the grand houses of a century ago.

"Many of the old homes had beautifully inlaid floors and it kind of recalls people's memories of those houses. Thomas Osborn, an inlaid floor designer/ installer in Holyoke, Mass., says decorative inlays are becoming more popular because they are a unique way to reinforce a design theme.

"A good inlaid floor really adds to the room and makes the entire space work," says Osborn, who creates his original designs from such hardwoods as ash, maple, red and white oak, and birch.

An inlay will fall into one of three categories:

A field, in which the inlay is the entire floor and serves as the dominant feature of the room. One of Osborn's projects was a giant compass which dominated a hallway in a seaside home.

A border, which outlines a floor.

A set piece, which is an inset design covering a smaller area than a field. A set piece might be used for a dramatic effect in an area such as an entryway.

Classic surpasses goal

Oakwood's fifth annual Women's Healthcare Classic, held recently at the Grosse Ile Golf & Country Club, proved to be a success again this year. The event, sponsored by Don Massey Cadillac, raised more than $177,000 which will be used for women's health care programs, specifically women's cancer education, prevention and treatment.

"We are very proud to be the title sponsor of the Women's Healthcare Classic," said Brenda Massey, of Don Massey Cadillac.

Chiropractors tune up

The cars at the Detroit Grand Prix weren't the only ones who received a tune-up the weekend of June 6-9. So did the world's best drivers and support staff thanks to some on-site chiropractic care.

Dr. James Kravis of Redford was among a team of three Michigan Chiropractic Council doctors who provided a voluntary chiropractic sports clinic at the Belle Isle race.

The MCC doctors were requested to attend and were credentialed through Detroit Receiving Hospital, because of the great demand for chiropractic

Dr. David Mason, Dr. Richard Bend and Kravis adjusted many of the volunteers, firemen, pit crew and several of the race care drivers including the overall winner, Greg Moore.

Moore experienced back pain from the bumpy course and sought care from the MCC clinic. Kravis adjusted Greg who then went on to win the

The clinic is made up of more than 50 Michigan chiropractors who provide free chiropractic care at more than 50 events across the state.

Melanoma warnings

When should you make a mountain out of a mole? Dermatologists at Henry Ford Hospital say, follow your

According to Mark Balle, M.D., a dermatologist at Henry Ford Hospital, you may be at risk for malignant melanoma if the moles on your body

■ Border irregularity - scalloped or non-circular edges.

Diameter - larger than 6 mm, or the size of a pencil eraser.

"Melanomas may appear suddenly and without warning," said Balle. "They appear most frequently on the upper backs of men and women and the legs of women, but can occur any where on the body.'

The number of reported melanoma cases is increasing at a faster rate than that of any other cancer. The American Academy of Dermatologists estimates the risk of developing melanoma during a lifetime will be 1 in 75 by the year 2000.

People who have a fair complexion, blond or red hair, blue, green or gray eyes, an above average number of moles, or a family history of melanoma are at the highest risk for developing the disease. Also, if a person has burned or blistered in the sun during childhood and the teen years, the risk increases.

Sun-bathers should take extra precautions against malignant melanoma, which is characterized by the uncontrolled growth of pigmentproducing tanning cells.

"If you're gong outside for a prolonged period of time, always use a sunscreen with a Sun Protection Factor (SPF) of at least 15. Apply it directly to all exposed skin 20 minutes before going outside and reapply it at least every two hours," said Balle. "Avoid the strongest sunlight, which occurs between 10 a.m. and 3

He also recommends those at risk should use a mirror and conduct self examinations following the A-B-C-D guidelines. "Pay close attention to the shoulders, back, arms and legs. Don't forget the spaces between toes and the soles of feet. "The best chances for curing melanoma come when the disease is discovered early. So monthly exams and annual physical examinations, especially for those at high risk, are extremely important. If a person discovers a suspicious mole, they should see a dermatologist immediately."

VACCINES ARE WEAPONS IN FIGHT FOR HE

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI SPECIAL WRITER

Every parent who takes a child in for immunization shots dreads the flood of tears that follow the needle, but the thought of what could happen otherwise is usually enough incentive to tough it out.

Vaccines have pretty much eliminated devastating illnesses, like polio, whooping cough and diphtheria. In fact, before the pertussis vaccine was introduced in the 1950s, whooping cough killed thousands of American children every year. In the early 1950s, there was a polio epidemic in the United States that killed and crippled tens of thousands of people.

Ask teen-agers today about polio and they probably don't know anyone who has had the disease. Other common illnesses may be nearly eradicated, too. For instance, one of the newest vaccines, varicella, fights chicken pox and was first available about one year ago. Health officials are also excited about some 20 other new vaccines for children and adults that are expected to be available in the next few years. These shots will fight illnesses, like Lyme disease and pediatric childhood infectious diseases, like respiratory problems and diarrhea.

"It's exciting that we're entering a new era for vaccines," according to Dr. Greg Gilmet, Blue Care Network of Southeast Michigan associate medical director for quality management. "Parents can be reassured that these vaccines have been carefully scrutinized by groups, like the FDA (Federal Drug Administration) and looked at every angle so that they do what they're supposed to do and that any side affects are mini-

"They are getting products that have gone through every safety check possible before they are released for general use," added Gilmet, who also serves as a liaison for the advisory committee on immunization practices at the Center for Disease Control.

By the age of 2, if a child's immunization record is up to date a series of shots have been administered to fight Hepatitis B; H. influenza type b; polio and varicella. One shot is administered to fight diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis and another shot is given to combat polio; measles, mumps and rubella. Booster shots are also recommended between ages 4 and 6 and during pre-teen and early teen years.

Hepatitis B is an inflammation of the liver and about 5,000 new cases are reported annually. "It can be deadly," according to Nancy Fasano, immunization program manager Michigan Department of Community Health.

H. Influenza type b was once the most common cause of meningitis among young children and reports of the disease continue to be at or near record low levels. Some parents, however, decide for philosophical or religious reasons not to immunize their children. They point to concerns tussis vaccine. In the past, as many as 40 percent of infants who received the vaccine each year suffered from fevers of 100 degrees or more, some 10 percent had local soreness and swelling and in rare cases, the vaccine was believed to cause brain damage.

But a new shot, acellular pertussis vaccine, is now available and is considered safer. It also has fewer side effects. "With anything that is done in medicine there are always benefits and risks, said Gilmet, who had a private pediatric practice for nine years.

"Without exception the benefits of immuniza-tions vastly exceed minimal risks, which are typ-ically issues of discomfort, soreness and mild fever. The benefits are absolutely tremendous. We have all but eliminated these dreaded dis-

School requirements

Michigan school districts require that children receive recommended shots, however, parents may sign a waiver stating that they refuse the treatment. Less than 10 percent of parents in the state use this option, Fasano said. If there is a disease outbreak at a particular school, children who did not receive the required immunizations are asked to leave the building until the threat of infection has passed.

"Having the school requirement has been a tremendous enhancement for heightening awareness and to create uniformity to make sure

Parents need to remind their health provider about vaccines and not assume their doctor or nurse will keep a child's immunization record current. "Everyone is responsible," Fasano said. "It would help if providers would remember to check the child's immunization status every time they see the child and give the shots unless there is a medical reason not to."

It only takes five visits in the first year of life for children to receive the recommended immunizations. In 1994 only 61 percent of 2-year-olds in Michigan received all the recommended vaccines, which ranked Michigan dead last among the other states. Last year, the state climbed to 37th place with 76 percent of 2-year- olds up to date on recommended shots.

Fasano attributes a lot of the improvement to more awareness about the need to immunize children and educational programs that have recently gone into effect to help train health providers. The figures are considerably better for kindergarten-age children. About 95 percent of school kids have received all the recommended immunizations. Nationwide, the figures are improving too. A record percentage of toddlers in the U.S. received their recommended baby shots on schedule, according to a recent report from

As a result, childhood diseases that can be prevented through vaccines are now at a record low. Meanwhile, more vaccines to fight other illnesses are on the horizon. Ask your doctor about what vaccines are available at each office visit.

"It's exciting that we can protect against ill-nesses that are common," said Gilmet, adding that new vaccines have fewer side effects and are often combined with one another so that a minimal number of shots are required. "We're getting more and more to the point that we can literally stamp-out very common and troublesome diseases that we were virtually unable to even think about doing just a few years ago," he

Daughters to learn about mothers at conference

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI SPECIAL WRITER

Connected by an umbilical cord at birth, once it's cut daughters spend the rest of their lives idolizing or blaming their mothers. Learning about who their mothers are reconnects that link between generations and helps us understand ourselves better.

Julie Kettle Gundlach, author of these mother-daughter issues during a daylong conference hosted by Garden City Hospital starting at 9 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 27, at New Hawthorne Valley Country Club in Westland.

Gundlach has traveled around the country for more than a decade speaking at workshops, celebrating what it means to be a woman, mother and daughter. Her book involved interviewing more than 80 females from teens

"I realized it's the daughter's respon-sibility to try to understand their mothers," Gundlach said, explaining that she understood the proverb of putting yourself aside and receiving gifts in return. A lot of times, there's an unspoken stalemate between mothers and daughters.
The daughters say: "She never tells me anything," and the mothers say: "Oh, they never asked me."

The conference is lightly structured to help daughters get to know their mothers, like reporters getting to know people they interview. "People think:

"My Mother Before Me - When Daughters Discover Mothers," will unravel these mother-daughter issues during a putting all their mothering aside. Daughters can discover all the positive traits and the legacy. It's just so thrilling to learn what was good about her as a person and very freeing to come to accept your mother for what she is even if she wasn't the best person in the world."

Gundlach's book was the outcome of an unhappy event in her life. While her mother was dying of cancer in 1983, she began telling Gundlach about her own childhood. She was amazed how little she knew about her mother as a

Since her mother's death, Gundlach said her life and personality has been transformed. "It opened up my spirituality and it brought me to God," she said, stressing, however, that this was a personal revelation and the conference doesn't delve into religion or mysgreater and I realized my mother was not a goddess. What happened to me can happen to anybody. I have seen people transform themselves at this seminar in the way that I did through the whole process."

The conference will present special games and exercises provided for peo-ple whose mothers have died and for others who don't have a daughter. "People go back and remember their mothers and honor their memories, Gundlach said. "They realize that your mother was a daughter, too."

After every conference, Gundlach said, people tell her, I thought I really knew about my mother and I didn't."

"It's really the participants together who discover all these things themselves." The seminar includes lunch and an opportunity to browse tables of vendors selling items "most appealing to our lady participants," according to Shirley Breil, Garden City Hospital seminar committee member. Dulcimer music by musician Jane Chevalier will add to the ambiance.

Community discussion

Teen pregnancy, immunizations, family issues, drug abuse, crime and pollution are among many important topics of concern for people living in the communities served by Oakwood Healthcare System, according to a discussion at a recent community assessment summit.

The summit was the kick-off for an ambitious undertaking aimed at gaining an understanding of the health status, concerns and resources in the communities that Oakwood serves. In the coming months, Oakwood will conduct a survey of 6,000 homes throughout the Wayne County area and will personally interview local leaders and community members to completely assess

A primary objective of the summit was to discuss the development of a process that will shape the scope of health promotion services, which Oakwood will deliver in collaboration with its community partners.

"This summit is another way for us to connect with those interested in helping to improve health and quality of life in a diverse array of communities," said Carla O'Malley, executive director of Oakwood Foundations and Community Development.

Just a short distance from both Ann Arbor and Plymouth is this picture perfect home, custom built by Durbin. This contemporary Cape Cod is nestled away in its own private 6 acre estate. Brick pavers lead to the stately entrance of this 1992 quality through-out home.

Extensive hardwood flooring, recessed lighting and a neutral decor flow through both the great room and master suite. His and Her walk-in closets, bay window and master bath with Jacuzzi tub add to the master suite.

The staircase takes you to two more bedrooms and a bridge that leads to a sizeable loft overlooking the great room with wall-to-wall windows and 18 foot

Country Elegance

with City Conveniences

The upstairs bath includes a skylight and double sinks. An unfinished walk-out, plumbed for a bath, has unlimited possibilities with 1800 sq. ft. of potential expandable space.

The cozy kitchen features a convenient island, full pantry, and breakfast nock. Just off the kitchen, a sun room opens to a deck where many spectacular sunrises can be enjoyed. Surrounding professional landscaping completes this magnificent country scene.

Let's Talk About Real Estate

"VALUES ALWAYS CHANGE"

Did you know that the value of your house changes throughout the year? Yes, it is worth a different amount in May than September. So, when you ask what your home is worth, your Realtor can only tell you its approximate value at the present time under the present circumstances. Here are some of the factors that affect value at any given time:

Condition of local economy

Financially secure buyers are more inclined to make a major investment than those concerned about the future of their company and or their own job. Strong economic times in your local community drive more buyers into the marketplace which increases the demand as well as the value of your home. Bad local economic news, on the other hand, will cause doubts about the nture and lower resale prices.

Size of the competition

A home competing against twenty five similar homes for sale will ell for less than the same house competing against five other properties. This is just the basic law of supply and demand. The deal market for a seller is one in which there are very few other operties which would compete for your buyer. Working with ur Realtor, you could decide to put your house on the market a time most conducive to you. This competitive factor has a ajor impact upon current value.

ocal mortgage interest rates

ecause most buyers borrow the majority of the purchase amount, ortgage interest rates affect affordability and the offering price r homes for sale at any one time.

DVICE: As you can see, many factors affect value. In order to ximize the resale value of your home, work with an expert. Work with a Realtor.

Writing a classified ad that gets results-whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise-is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifleds. What would you like to know about the Item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading Information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in-kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your mon-

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

How well are you presenting yourself?

By Sheryl Silver, Career Source Are you shooting yourself in the foot or putting your best foot forward in the job mar-ket?

Even in a strong job market like the one we're currently enjoying, qualified candidates can still find themselves producing less in the way of results than their experience or skills merit. Usually, say recruiters, the problem lies in the "art of self-presentation".

One element of that presentation is the resume. It is, after all, the first contact an employer generally has with a potential applicant and tends to determine who gets invited to interview with a company and who doesn't. "A resume still carries weight," confirms Denise Altemus-Barden, training and recruiting management for the high tech company Aerojet in Azusa, California.

To make sure your resume gets read rather than tossed. Altemus-Barden recommends keeping it to a maximum of two pages. "We still get resumes that are too long," she says.

As to content and format, the chronological format is still preferred by employers who say they want to know the specifics of a candidate's employment history. They also tend to like to see the progression in responsibilities someone has had, and say it comes across administrative assistants are disrupted by travel, most are not. Of 425 administrative assistants surveyed, 5 percent travel regularly, 15 percent do occasionally, while 80 percent don't at all.

These statistics suggest that the greatest extent of work disruption occurs in a defined area

more clearly in a chronological rather than functional format.

Accomplishments are also important and should be highlighted."Those hiring say qualified candidates often end up underselling themselves by omitting their accomplishments or burying them within lengthy job descriptions. To draw attention to achievements, recruiters commonly recommend creating brief achievement summaries, then listing them either in a separate "Selected Accomplishments" section or directly beneath the job descriptions where they occurred. With the latter approach, the statements are usually indented and / or bulleted. Hiring managers agree the more quantifiable the accomplishments, the better.

For the candidate who makes it over the resume hurdle and gets invited to interview, plenty of pitfalls are still lurking. Among the most common: showing up late for the interview. Tardiness is considered unprofessional and inconsiderate and definitely makes the wrong first impression. Do whatever it takes, say employers, to arrive on time.

Be sure as well, to learn about an employer before an interview. Devette Lahcon, director of employment for SAIC, a $2.4 billion high tech company with 350 offices worldwide, says with so many companies having external Web sites these days, she considers it almost inexcusable for candidates to submit resumes and cover letters, or show up for interviews without doing some homework on the company

SUNDAY, AUGUST 10, 1997

Whether research is done via the Internet or written resources, Altemus-Borden agrees that it definitely enhances an applicant's impact. "If candidates have done some research, that's impressive," she says. "And it generally enables them to ask better ques-

Candidates should also arrive prepared to summarize specific accomplishments, say those hiring. "When interviewing, we're looking for a results orientation," says Lancon. "That means first we want someone to describe their expertise. Then we want them to give us specific examples of accomplishments using that expertise." Acknowledging that it's typically hard for people to "toot their own horns," Lancon recommends candidates prepare examples of their achievements before each interview. "They can also bring work samples to document their work," she professionals in particular, need to practice discussing their accomplishments in non-technical terms. "Engineers are often more comfortable talking about specific projects and accomplishments with technical managers. They often aren't as effective communicating with the HR staff," she says. "They need to learn, however, to talk about projects or outcomes they're responsible for and explain how they benefited the company."

With so much riding on interview performance, Altemus-Barden recommends interview rehearsals as part of the preparation process. This is particularly wise, she says, prior to interviews with preferred employers. "If I were a candidate seriously in the job market. I would definitely do some practice interviews first," she says. "You don't want to identify one or two key positions you want, then go out and make those the first interviews you do, particularly if you haven't interviewed in a long time. You're better to have practice whether it's in the form of role playing or actual interviews for positions that may be your second tier choices."

Work Wise®: Administrative Assistants Manage Interruptions If you're an administrative assistant, or any-By Mildred L. Culp, Passage Media one else feeling overwhelmed, you deserve to get Many of the nation's administrative assistants feel overwhelmed at the office. They should probyour workflow corralled. Start by standing outside your office area and looking in. Who sits at ably be included in a group of 4.7 million adminthat desk? Who answers the telephone on it? istrative support workers, such as secretaries, Who responds to other people who come to see personnel clerks and general office clerks, the the person there? Who handles the mail? In

Bureau of Labor Statistics says. According to other words, who owns the job performed there? "Administrative Assistant Adviser," a Progressive If you came up through the clerical ranks, you Business Publication newsletter, they clock probably developed a passive approach to your almost 80 interruptions each day, or one every six work. Someone gave you something to do: you did to eight minutes. These workers can regain conit. When you had competing demands, you lined trol. Such breaks in workflow don't have to take the projects up and raced to get them finished by The "Adviser" also found that while some the time they were due.

Now, however, the situation has changed, because you may have multiple supervisors and very different kinds of projects to complete.

So what can you do? Imagine the options. You may be tempted to put your telephone into voice mail all day long. You may consider calling facilities management to build an impenetrable wall between you and the outside world. You may think of delegating your entire job to other people in the company, including your supervisor. Further, you may consider relocating your office area to a desert island, where you could sit under palm trees and answer the telephone, and read your faxes and e-mail.

What pleasant thoughts! But you'd be sabotaged by the very technology that enables you to relocate and carry on with your work.

"Administrative Assistant Adviser" offers helpful tips for controlling the interruptions in a job with multiple demands: Get the best payoff by managing the recurring problems in your work. For example, if you have multiple deadlines on the same day, week after week or month after month, notify your supervisor(s) of the need to change schedules. Establish specific times that coworkers will not interrupt you. Manage personal interruptions. Alert friends and family to your busiest times and ask them not to contact you then, except in emergencies. If they call when you're swamped, tell them, and specify a day and time that you'll call back. If your top priorities don't leave room for optional assignments, such as serving on committees or attending seminars, just say, "NO." However, don't follow this strategy indefinitely, or your company will conclude that you're not interested in professional development. Maintain perspective. Save time on material you process internally by focusing more on content and less on appearance. Invest your time in projects that provide greater potential to your company. When you do get interrupted, get back to your other work as quickly as possible. When people come up to you, stand to greet them and then walk with them away from your office area. Watch for sidetracks in your conversations; put them back on track. If you absolutely can't speak with a person when he approaches you, set a time to speak later. By following these tactics, you won't have to relocate to a desert island. You might even start enjoying your work again.

At Work: Dealing with a dysfunctional boss

By Lindsey Novak Tribune Media

Complaints about bosses never end. Some are commonplace and easy to fix, but others are indicative of serious emotional disorders.

A reader writes: "My boss uses lies, humiliation and threats, it seems, as a sport. He once threatened to demote me and promote my subordinate as my supervisor."

Another reader lost both her parents within six weeks of each other, requiring her to take two separate funeral leaves. When she returned, her boss said. "Well. do you think this is it?" She replied that she didn't have another mother or father to bury.

Yet another reader said that her boss made overt as well as veiled insults to her and got angry when others complimented her. She dealt with her boss's anger by responding assertively, remaining calm, totally ignoring the insults, answering humorously and by directly asking what she was doing wrong. None of her attempts changed the situation.

"There are many forms of serious emotional disorders that could allow bosses to succeed in business, but causes them to be dysfunctional when managing employees," says Dr. John Stutesman, director of Crisis Intervention and Evaluation Services at Northwestern Memorial Hospital's Stone Institute of Psychiatry in Chicago.

"Bosses who are overly authoritarian, controlling, explosive, selfcentered, rigid or abusive can be suffering from any number of different types of serious personality disorders. They may be able to perform well enough so upper management thinks they are doing well, but their subordinates experience every work day as a living hell. Working for them often, means employees constantly feel emotionally abused. They may not even be aware they are filled with emotional pain and rage," he said.

Does your boss act arrogant, even grandiose? Does he feel that he is better than everybody else? Does he demand and need adulation from others? Is he unable to tolerate any type of criticism? According to Dr. Stutesman, your boss may suffer from a narcissistic personality disorder. Some types of narcissists need to berate others to renew their feeling of selfimportance and to continually reestablish that they are powerful. In short, they need to make you

Or is he rigid, preoccupied with detail, highly critical of others who are not doing it exactly right, driven to perform perfectly and critical of himself if he does something wrong? Does he unreasonably insist that you do it his way and restricts any show of affection or passion about anything? If so,

Stutesman says you may be working for someone with an obsessivecompulsive personality disorder. He feels he is not good enough, so to protect himself, he is driven to do things right.

"Rarely is anyone a textbook case," says Stutesman, "but someone with a personality disorder can have a variety of traits from a number of categories. Generally, they can be moody one minute, warm and supportive the next. Or suspicious of your behavior and waiting to pounce to catch you, thinking you're cheating them. Ultimately, their personality is based on maladaptively maintaining some fragile sense of selfesteem, and nothing you can do or say is going to change them."

Is there a way out of these emotional abusive work environments? Yes. Quit your job, unless you can convince upper management that your boss is mentally ill and that keeping him or her is harming the company. And even if they are convinced, they may choose not to act. When you look for a new job. ask questions. If your gut tells you something is wrong, listen and keep looking.

Why risk it? Entrepreneurs must take measured steps

By Alice Bredin, Tribune Media

Ask most entrepreneurs if they avoid taking risks and they will probably answer Entrepreneurs like to say they carefully consider major decisions such as purchases, hiring and expenditures.

But small business owners are deluding themselves, according to a study that compared the decision-making processes of entrepreneurs and managers of large companies. The study of 124 entrepreneurs who started their own firms and 95 managers at big companies found that business owners are simply more confident in their decisions and therefore feel free to take more risks in making them.

Researchers from the University of Houston and Ohio the early 1990's when layoffs

tions as part of the study. They also asked respondents to rate their level of confidence about their answers.

Although both groups scored about the same on the test, the entrepreneurs were much more confident in their answers than their corporate counterparts. The researchers say that confidence in your beliefs and a willingness to take risks helps people get businesses successfully off the ground, but can cause problems when it comes to business management.

This research caught my attention because this fly-by-theseat-of-the-pants management is something I have seen among the large crop of home-based business owners who started in

State University posed five ques- were widespread. These businesses have now matured in size but not necessarily in sophistication of business practices.

The good news is that the economy is so robust that being mediocre at running your homebased business may be OK for the next year or so, but if we hit a recession or a downturn, your business may flounder.

For this reason, now is a good time to look at your business practices to see if you can clean up a few of your habits before they cause you problems. To help you in the process, here are a few of the areas in which I have seen home-based business owners stumble.

If you think you are weak in any of these areas, there are many ways to improve your skills. Bookstores carry informative audio tapes and books, and the market is bursting with programs, seminars and consultants that can teach you valuable business building skills. The Internet also has plenty of free information on a variety of small business disciplines.

Do you plunge or test? A good idea from a friend can be a great jumping off point for a product or service, but research the market before investing time and money into development. You do not have to do a formal focus group. Instead call competitors, talk to industry analysts, read trade magazines and talk to potential customers.

Do you wear cash-flow blinders? Is your idea of monitoring cash flow, looking at your bank account now and again to make sure you have a decent balance? You may be able to get by using this method when times are good, but it is not a solid business practice. Establishing a means of tracking revenues and expenses will not only enable you to pay bills and keep your doors open, it also lets you monitor where you are spending your money and how you can afford to expand.

Do you hire by gut? A successful business I recently read about interviews more than 20 people for each position before hiring, even if it finds a suitable candidate early in the process. Unfortunately, this is an uncommon story. When most homebased entrepreneurs hire, they bring in the wrong people because they rush through the process.

· Do you push for sales only when you need money? Savvy home-based business owners know they must devote part of their schedule each week to marketing their company, even if they are busy. If you only do marketing when you finish work or are feeling a financial pinch, your business will stagnate.

Assistant Branch Lending Manager

If you see challenge as exciting adventure and flourish in an environment where imaginative solutions and new ideas abound, join us in this proactive, integral role. We will look to you to utilize strong sales and communication abilities as you achieve loan volume goals. Your responsibilities will require a working knowledge of lending practices, regulations, and all bank products, as you successfully solicit business from telemarketing and direct mail follow-up. Must be familiar with the loan application and closing process.

Success demands proven sales and analytical abilities, as well as a high degree of self motivation and a strong orientation to detail. Excellent telephone skills are also musts. Previous marketing, consumer lending or sales experience and/or health insurance licensure are all helpful to this position. The successful candidate will be expected to satisfy a life/health insurance examination.

Our forecast for the future is bright, as we seize advantages offered by TCF Financial Corporation — our parent organization and an NYSE financial service holding company with $7.4 billion in assets and a century of achievement. For consideration, please submit resume to: Great Lakes National Bank, Attn: Chris Level, 33230 West 12 Mile Rd., Farmington Fills, MI 48334. Phone: 810-489-7010, Fax: 810-489-7188.

How to make money in three easy steps.

Step 1

Sell a solution! Your old rattle trap is a teen's dream machine. That old set of golf clubs is sure to be a big hit with a beginner. Here's the point: Your former treasure can bring another pleasure. And if you've got a skill to market or service you'd like to provide—there's someone looking for you in classified.

Step 2.

Aim for an audience. After you've selected a solution for another to seize, bring that person to life. Think about your product or service and its original value to you, then detail its features and benefits to another individual. When you put those benefits into words, other like you will find value too. And that's of value to you!

Step 3.

Contact classified. Give us a call. You'll cash in on the speed and effectiveness of the dynamic classified marketplace. Each day, highly motivated readers are seeking services and solutions for a variety of needs. Turn to the classified pages, and you'll turn your item to be sold into money! It's as easy as 1-2-3!

Q: What are they going to do with New York Undercover? Two of the main characters were killed in the season finale. Will the show be canceled, or is it returning with different characters? -Christine P. in St. Petersburg, Fla.

A: The show will return on Fox next year as a midseason replacement. "Surviving" star Malik Yoba, who saw costar Michael DeLorenzo written out in last season's finale, is so upset about the changes to come that, at this writing, he was trying to end or alter his contract

Producer Dick Wolf, who has a history of treating his actors like props (he's Buckbee, Burton, Ohio. also the guy who fired Chris Noth from Law & Order), has issued a statement Hutton. reading. Q: In the middle to late '70s, I saw a TV movie starring Alan Arkin as a recently committed mental patient who eventually escaped from the institution with damaging video evidence showing the cruel treatment of patients. I think it was called Escape From Hell, but I've never seen it listed. My friends are beginning to consider having me committed. -Thomas Garcia in Florida.

A: Actually, Thomas, Escape From Hell was one of the titles being considered for the NBC movie that eventually aired on Jan. 17, 1978, as The Other Side of Hell. Besides Arkin, the large cast also included Morgan Woodward and Roger E. Mosley, and the plot was just as you described. So loosen those straitjackets, guys, and back off!

Tiger Woods continues to drive TV ratings

By Jim Baker TVData Features Syndicate

The fourth and final stop in professional golf's first Grand Slam tour starring phenom Tiger Woods hits airwayes this week with the PGA Championship from Winged Foot Country Club in Mamaroneck, N.Y.

TBS airs the first and second rounds on Thursday, Aug. 14, and Friday, Aug. 15; CBS airs the final two rounds on Saturday, Aug. 16, and Sunday, Aug. 17.

CBS officials are ecstatic over the Tiger roar could affect the TV

In fact, the network is so upbeat about its golf coverage that it recently extended its deal to televise the PGA Championship for seven years through 2005 and agreed to pay twice the previous price, raising its tab to more than $70 million - with Woods very much

Jim Nantz, host of CBS' coverage of the PGA Championship, leaves no doubt as to why the network was so willing to double its payout.

If Tiger wins the Grand Slam's first three legs (the Masters, U.S. Open and British Open) any one of those years, that $70 million will be paid off three-fold in one week," he says. "And I feel he'll have at least one shot at that between now and 2005. He's just getting to know these (course) layouts and look at what he's done already."

Woods had CBS officials salivating when he destroyed the rest of the field at the Masters by a tournament-record 12 strokes, winning the event in his first attempt as a professional. His amazing performance swelled CBS' final-round audience to 44 million, the largest ever for a golf tournament, and ratings soared 53 percent from a year ago to a 14.1 share.

The significance of these numbers hit home a week later when the MCI Classic, a tournament in which Woods did not play, incurred a 6 percent ratings drop

The Tiger express then picked up right where it left off. When he played in - and won - the Byron Nelson Classic, ABC garnered that tournament's highest final-round cameras to capture most everyrating (4.9) in 10 years, and his fictory at the Western Open drew a 6.3, best in that event since 1985.

The contrast in ratings between Championship, which CBS has Woods is remarkable With him, the work an insurance policy of sorts. Western Open audience surged 124 percent from the previous year, but seven events in which he did not play or did not contend all had final-round ratings declines from believes the golfing boom extends tail end of Tiger's potential sweep. beyond Woods' appeal, but the timing of the network's seven-year PGA Championship extension possiblity of how another loud could not be more obvious It came the day after Woods won the Western, more than doubling its ratings in the process.

McManus makes a point of emphasizing Woods' tie to the long-

"His popularity carries over to all of golf, and to be able to lock up your relationship with a tourney for seven years, knowing Tiger will be in it, makes it much more valuable," he says. "There are only four events each year we know he'll play: the four major championships. We have two of them: the Masters and PGA."

In other PGS Tour tournaments, Woods maintains a policy of not commiting until the deadline of the Friday before an event. That keeps McManus and his counterparts in an expensive guessing game over whether he'll enter.

Even when he commits to playing, producer's must avoid going overboard with Tiger in their tank.

"My plans weren't to turn our telecast into the 'Tiger British Open' even with every single London newspaper starting pre-tourney stories with him," ABC producer Jack Graham says, "So you're heavy on him at first, but if he plays poorly, you don't hang your hat on him. Yet if he leads on Saturday and Sunday, he becomes a huge

Graham acknowledges just how huge Woods' participation in a tour-

"A year ago, I said he might be food for another rating point," Graham says. "Now it's two to four points. He's changed our philosophy of early-round coverage in that you go out with the portable thing he does.

While McManus didn't say it, the extended deal with the PGA tournaments with and without carried since 1991, gives his net-

CBS has aired the Masters for 42 years through a series of one-year contracts at the tournament's insistence. Now, even if it is outbid for the Masters, the most-watched of the Grand Slam events, CBS still CBS Sports chief Sean McManus has in the PGA Championship the

Walters brings fresh perspective to The View

By Teresa Ortega OTVData Features Syndicate

Barbara Walters, whose groundbreak ing career in television began years ago on NBC's Today, returns to daytime TV this week with the new, hourlong, female-oriented The View Airing weekdays on ABC, the entertainment, talk and informational program is hosted by Walters and four other women

The View combines celebrity interviews, reports from experts and lively discussions of personal issues, news and events of the day. "I want this to be informative, but I want it to be fun," says Walters, who also serves as co-executive producer of the show

The broadcast attempts to capture the intimate manner in which women relate to each other and addresses, in Walters' own words, "the kind of things that women would talk about" if they gathered in their own homes for a lunchtime chat.

The mood is expected to range from light to serious, with topics covering the worlds of fashion, health, entertainment, family and "all the different things that are happening that affect people." Walters says.

To bring an atmosphere of ease and spontaneity to The View, Walters has assembled a group of professionally accomplished women, all previously known to television audiences. Besides being knowledgeable and amusing conversationalists, the panelists also have compelling personal lives.

The multigenerational group is made up of Meredith Vieira, chief correspondent of Turning Point, who serves as an informal moderator; legal analyst Star Jones, Debbie Matenopoulos, guest host of MTV's The Week in Rock; and comic Joy Behar, who is taking turns with Walters as the fourth panelist.

Walters believes the varied life experiences of the show's panelists - such as Matenopoulos' struggle to pay off a $46,000 student loan, and Vieira's attempt to balance a career and motherhood - will connect with viewers.

"I think the audience will begin to feel that they know these four women, Walters says. "Most viewers don't know very much about my personal life; they'll know a little bit more when they see this program.

Days of Our Lives needs to pick up pace

By Candace Havens oTVData Features Syndicate

Dear Candace: I've been a faithful Days of Our Lives fan for more years than I can remember, but lately I have become disgusted with the show. The story lines have slowed to a crawl.

I believe new writers would breathe new life into the stories and hold our interest better

I have other friends who were faithful Days watchers, but they have given up on the show

Maybe if enough people stop watching, the producers will do something about it -J.E. New Bern, N.C.

Dear Reader: Your wish has come true Days has new writers. Many of the current story lines are in the process of being tied up

Dear Candace: Will Ryan and Nina (Scott Reeves, Tricia Cast) ever get back together on The Young and the Restless? Ryan is throwing away his marriage so he can chase after Tricia (Sabryn Genet) her back to the farm; she's too smug where Kurt (Leigh J McCloskev) is concerned. - M. Brown, Roswell.

Dear Reader: Ryan is haltheartedly trying to work things out

The good news is that Nina and Ryan's marriage will generate a very moving story line in which Nina hopefully will find the inner strength and security she needs

Fans' feelings about pairing Hope with Kurt are mixed. Some fans think it is a great idea; others think he belongs with Ashley (Shari Shattuck)

Dear Candace: I would like to know what happened to John Beradino, who played Dr. Steve Hardy on General Hospital.

I used to correspond with him, and he even sent me pictures of his family Also, I haven't seen Jessie Brewer (Emily McLaughlin) in a long time

Could you please tell me what hap pened to these wonderful actors." M Messelling, Hamilton, Ohio

Dear Reader: Sadly, both are dead Beradino died last year, McLaughlin DOWN passed away several years ago

Note to Mr. Dennis Rodman, If summer, it's I rail of Hope. The Story of the Mormon Trail, airing Sunday, Aug. 10, on PBS (check local listings).

Besides explaining that the Mormons or Latter day Saints, are indeed a religious group. Trul of Hope offers an inspiring look at the courageous pilgrimare of a people both forced and called to settle a new land

Established in 1830 in New York. Mormonism moved west to Nauvoo. III. a few years later. There, in 1844, tounder Joseph Smith was murdered by a vigilante crowd, and church elder Brigham Young decreed the Saints. would interate another 1,300 miles to the valley of the Great Salt Lake, callmg it his people's New Zion
