Friends seek aid for woman's family

■ Contributions are being accepted to help the family of Margaret Williams who was struck and killed Wednesday morning on Ann Arbor Road. She leaves a son who has cerebral palsy and a daughter, 25.

Friends and acquaintances are remembering Margaret Williams of Plymouth as a devoted mother and a person who would "give anything to anyone."

Williams was struck and killed by a Jeep Grand Cherokee at about 7 a.m.

Wednesday, Nov. 26, as she left Einstein Bros. Bagels and crossed Ann Arbor Road.

Community residents and friends were saddened when they heard the news of Williams' death. They are particularly concerned for her son, Brian, 20, who has cerebral palsy. She also has a daughter, Carrie, 25.

"Margaret was a mother of these two children and whose husband left just after Brian was born," said former Plymouth Mayor Ralph "Jack" Kenyon. "She was a woman who has worked with Brian throughout his life to help him be able to walk."

If you watched closely, you could see Williams walk everywhere throughout Santa is here!

BY KEVIN BROWN

The scream of sirens and flash of fire engine lights heralded Santa's arrival Friday in downtown Plymouth.

Santa, perched atop a red fire truck, waved to cheering boys and girls as city, township and chamber of commerce officials led about 200 in "Here Comes Santa Claus!" from the Kellogg Park stage.

"Hello Plymouth!" Santa shouted over the microphone after making his way on stage.

Joining him on stage were Plymouth Mayor Don Dismuke, wife Jennifer and new daughter Ashley; Plymouth Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy; Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Fran Toney and chamber officials.

"I just want to say how wonderful it is to be back in the city of Plymouth again to see all the good boys and girls!" Santa said.

McCarthy presented Santa with a key to the hearts of the boys and girls of greater Plymouth.

"I just wish those fellows up at the North Pole could be with me," Santa said. "And the one fellow with the nose, what's his name?"

"Rudolph! Rudolph!" answered kids clustered around the stage front. Kids then joined in an enthusiastic rendition of Rudolph's song, pronounced by some young singers as "Wudolph the Wed-Nosed Weindeer."

About 20 minutes before Santa's arrival, song books were passed out among the crowd. Officials on stage led them in renditions of "Deck The Halls," "Silent Night" and other Christmas favorites.

"It's our first year," said mom Chris Bailey of Plymouth with brother Greg and his children Taylor and Samantha, visiting from Texas.

"This is great weather," he said, as temperatures hovered around 40 degrees.

"We just moved into town and found out he was coming," said Dawn Rej, with husband Rich and son Alex, 2. Motions to her son, Rej said, "I don't think he gets the whole idea."

John Campos of Canton, with wife Pat, daughter Julie and grandson Thomas, 6, also said it was their first time greeting Santa's arrival.

What will Thomas ask Santa for? "A car wash," his grandpa answered. "I think he's been a good boy, Santa's been keeping an eye on him."

The event was topped off by Santa throwing the switch to light the big evergreen in the center of the park, decked out in blue, red, green, yellow and orange lights.

Kids can tell Santa what they want for Christmas at his special house off Main Street in the park.

Santa's hours at his house are 5-8 p.m. Fridays, noon to 5 p.m. Saturdays and 1-5 p.m. Sundays of Commerce.

How should the board spend $5.2 million?

BY RICHARD PEARL
STAFF WRITER

It's a pleasant-enough question at this time of year: what do you do with $5.2 million?

It's a question that's already prompted telephone calls to Dr. Charles Little, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools superintendent.

And it's a question with which the school board began grappling at its meeting Tuesday night - even though the money from the Durant case settlement won't be in its coffers until next April.

Little said he got four calls shortly after announcing the district's share in the long-awaited settlement of the special education lawsuit against the state.

Among the suggestions: buy computers, reduce class size, boost teachers' salaries.

Little himself recommended that the board "take a lofty position" by creating an endowment and using only the interest it earns.

But the board won't be rushing into any decisions. The trustees have their own questions and ideas and besides, state law requires the district host a public hearing on the money 90 days after it's received.

That will be sometime next summer, Little said. And while the board is "obligated to have the hearing," it does not have to act on what's said, he told its members.

However, he assured them, "we will get suggestions" on how to use the money and will also get "powerful reasons" for those suggestions.

And while "people have noble ideas about what we should do with the money," the board "should have the final say" in how it's used. He noted this is "one of the few times we will

Memories Toys from days gone by

Before home video games, dogs on wheels were high-tech toys in 1910.

Teddy bears, dolls and other toys going back to the Civil War are featured in the Plymouth Historical Museum's new exhibit "Childhood Memories: Beloved Toys."

The exhibit runs through Feb. 1. Many early toys were large and used outside. Then from 1860-90, companies that sold toys through mail-order catalogs, including Montgomery Wards and Sears Roebuck, offering a range of indoor toys.

Teddy bears became popular in the early 1900s after President Theodore Roosevelt, on a hunting expedition, refused to shoot a bear cub, explained Beth Stewart, museum director.

Stewart said a New York City toy shop cut out a newspaper cartoon depicting the event, with the caption "Teddy's Bear" underneath. That started a craze that precedes Beanie Babies by about 90 years.

Several turn-of-the-century teddy bears are in the exhibit, along with plenty of dolls.

Early dolls were miniature representations of adults. Stewart said clothes makers used the dolls as to display small replica clothing outfits, for presentation to royal clients.

Injunction paves way for trial

Women prisoners at Scott Regional Correctional Facility on Plymouth Township's boundary are penalized by restrictions on their freedom that needlessly boost costs to taxpayers, a lawsuit alleges.

While a trial on these charges has yet to open, Ingham County Circuit Judge James Giddings who is presiding over the case granted a preliminary injunction in October sought by attorneys for defendants.

The injunction paves the way for the matter to be resolved at trial.

Detroit attorney Charlene Snow represents the women prisoners contesting the imprisonment classifications.

The trial over imprisonment classifications is part of a larger court case in which Snow represents all 1,700 state prisoners, men and women.

That case originated over the claim that prisoners' belongings were wrongly being confiscated. Snow said this

BY DIANE HANSON
SPECIAL WRITER

For the 10th consecutive year, the Plymouth-Canton Marching Band finished among the top 10 high school marching bands in the country at the Bands of America Grand National Championships Nov. 15.

Eighty-one top bands from 17 states competed at the RCA Dome in Indianapolis during the three-day event Nov. 13-15.

The field was narrowed to 30 semifinal bands after two days of preliminary competition, with the top 10 scoring bands advancing to the Saturday night finals.

Plymouth-Canton captured fifth place with a score of 92.45. The band's performance drew appreciative cheers from the nearly 60,000 spectators.

Marian Catholic High School, Chicago Heights, Ill., took first with a score of 96.05.

"I've never been so proud of a group of students in my career," said David McGrath, Plymouth-Canton band director, of his 200-member Plymouth-Canton band.

"This group overachieved. This group surpassed expectations. We couldn't be happier."

Associate Director Pat Ruddy concurred. "We hope the kids are as happy as the staff is. The kids worked incredibly hard. The kids were great tonight. This rivals anything that I've ever been associated with in this band and I've been here since 1990. We're really fortunate to be here and then to be right up top is great. It was a great season."

The Plymouth-Canton Band's rendition of Maurice Sendak's "Where the Wild Things Are" gleaned every Flight I caption award and championship in all local competitions this year as well as at the State Championships in October.

McGrath said the band has been building up for the last few years, but they are still very young with nearly two-thirds of the members as freshmen and sophomores.

"To move back up into the top five is a great accomplishment," said McGrath. "The kids deserve it and they deserve all the credit," he added. "We've got a great staff and a great parent support group but I'll tell you, those kids are out there in the 30-degree weather, in the snow and the rain, two and a half hours every day and all day Saturday. Their hard work paid off. To break into the top five in a field that is this competitive is the icing on the cake. It's a wonderful recognition for their hard work."

McGrath said the competition is becoming much tougher. He said just a few years ago there were five or six powerhouse bands. That number has increased to about 17 or 18, according to McGrath, with another 20 or 30 bands that are not far behind.

He said there were bands that didn't even make it into the top 30 semifinals that were "just amazing bands." McGrath gave much credit for the band's accomplishments to the senior leadership this year. He said this year would have been much different without it.

"What a way to end four years," said senior baritone-player Julie Wolf. "That was so perfect. I am so proud of this band. This is the hardest-working band I have ever been in of all four years of being in band."

Christian Theis, a senior trumpet player and foreign exchange student from Luxembourg, found the whole marching band experience "incredible."

"We don't have marching bands in Luxembourg," he said. "When I came here I had no clue what it was and now I'm completely into it." Theis' parents made a special trip to the United States for the national championships. "They had to see what I was working for the last five months," he said.

McGrath said this year's band rose to the challenge of a very difficult piece of work both musically and in marching and maneuvering.

"They don't settle for less than their personal best," he said. "They're smart kids. They're nice kids. They're hard-working kids. They're a joy to be around. I feel lucky to be a part of it."

Shortage blamed for township house fire

There were no injuries but $280,000 in damage reported after a house fire Friday in Plymouth Township.

Plymouth Community Fire Department fire fighters were called at 5:38 a.m. Friday to a house on Hillcrest. Upon arriving, they spotted flames coming from a second floor bedroom window.

Fire Chief Larry Groth said a mother, father and 18-year-old son got out of the house before the fire spread. The cause was a recessed light fixture on the first floor which shorted out, Groth said.

Damage was estimated at $180,000 to the house and $100,000 to contents.

The fire department responded with 20 firefighters and nine vehicles, and it took about 30 minutes to knock down the upstairs fire, Groth said. Firefighters cleared the scene at 11:10 a.m.

real human hair. Included in this display is a table croquet game from the 1890s. It includes wickets with weighted ends, which allowed them to stand on a table top. The game also included miniature croquet balls and mallets. A colorful drawing on the front of the box shows elegantly turned-out gentlemen and ladies sitting down to a game.

Mannequins are used in another exhibit, depicting a popular game of the 1890s, blind man's buff. Imported from Europe, it involved blindfolding one player then that person was handed a stick, and then moved about the room, and tried to touch others.

Another exhibit depicts a turn of the century Christmas celebration. While children were given small presents, gift-giving was not viewed as an important part of Christmas.

Other toys on display include a hobby horse on springs from the 1920s, a red wood fire truck with a working green rubber hose from the 20s, and pedal cars.

Also on display are several American Flyer toy trains collected by Plymouth Canton schools Superintendent Charles Little. The Trailwood Garden Club has prepared holiday decorations at the museum this season.

The museum is at 155 S. Main Street just north of Plymouth City Hall. Hours are 1-4 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday and 2-5 p.m. Sunday.

The "Make Me A Blessing Christmas Tree" drive is on to collect gifts for children who must spend the holidays at Mott Childrens Hospital.

Dozens of stores, businesses and churches are participating in the effort. One of the stores, Little Professor, is also displaying a wreath in the front window that commemorates the non-profit Brandy Memorial Fundraiser, organizer of the Mott gift drive.

At each location a tree with cards on it is displayed. Each card represents a Mott Kid. Participants are encouraged to take a card to bring a little joy to a child in need.

The gift should be returned

'The gift should be returned unwrapped to the store, business or church or directly to Mott Hospital. Participants should include their name and address, so their generosity can be recognized.'

For questions on other ways to help Mott kids or for tax information, call Brandy Memorial Fundraiser founder Kathy Mount in Plymouth Township at 459-9780.

Mount got involved helping kids at Mott by bringing pet poodle Brandy to entertain them. After Brandy's passing, her poodle Bambi carries on.

Participating local businesses include Lee's Famous Recipe restaurants in Plymouth and Canton, American Speedy Printing, Roose Animal Hospital, Dr. Covington, Paper Parade, Christine's Hallmark, Ultimate Photo, Specialty Pet Supply, Kroger's, Colonial Card & Camera, Dr. Sturtz and Hewlett Packard Employees.

Others include Tyner's Furniture, Taylor Schools Transportation Department,

Buchanan School, City Transfer Co., Kay & Co. Mott Children's Hospital also needs used or new electronic games for five activity rooms, particularly Nintendo, Super Nintendo, Sega Saturn, Sega Genesis or Nintendo 64.

The new or used games can be dropped off at Little Professor's on Main Street.

AND RICHARD PEARL
STAFF WRITERS

Look for more speed trailers on roads in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district.

Plymouth Township and the schools jointly will buy the radar machine that posts the speed of passing motorists.

The total cost is $14,421. The school board approved paying its $7,210 share of the machine Nov. 11. The Plymouth Township board approved the expenditure Nov. 18.

"In the past few months we have been receiving numerous concerns of traffic speeds in our community, particularly those near the schools," according to police Lt. Robert Smith, Plymouth Township acting police chief.

"Parents are worried about their children who are walkers," he said. "This is a real good partnership that has been developed through the schools and the township police department, because we both win in educating the driver on safer speeds."

The machine will also provide police with a vast amount of information identifying problems. The speed trailer has a memory device tracking average speeds; the time of day when the most traffic occurs; traffic volumes and how many people are in violation.

SMART is towed to a site experiencing speed-related problems, is set up in about 10 minutes and left on the roadside to display the speed of approaching vehicles.

Made by Kustom Signals, Inc. of Lenexa, Kan., the machine uses radar to clock speeds, then shows them in an 18-inch-high digits on an LED (light-emitting diode) display.

It doesn't, however, have the capacity to record license plate numbers for the issuance of tickets, which is illegal in Michigan, Smith said.

"The police department has little means to educate the motorist public in and around the schools and we feel it is necessary that we take some action to provide safer roadways for our children — anything we can do to provide additional safety or prevention," he said.

Canton Township and the district jointly purchased a "smart" trailer last year to monitor speed limits near schools in that community.

"Canton police move it from site to site as need be," according to Judy Evola, school director of community relations.

"The one in Canton Township has benefited the students, parents and residents," she said. "It's another safety tool to give drivers an idea of how fast they're going near school zones and to become aware of how fast they're traveling."

"Very often on main roads, like Sheldon and Ann Arbor Trail, people often don't realize how fast they're traveling and if there's a school in the near vicinity, these smart trailers can make them aware," Evola said.

Smith said he also plans to use the machine in other problem spots, like Beck and North Territorial, residential areas.

Smith proposed the purchase in an Oct. 21 letter to Superintendent Charles Little, noting that he had received "numerous" expressions of concern about traffic speeds, "particularly those near the schools."

"I'm glad we can do something to bring traffic speed to the attention of motorists and we're also glad to do it with Plymouth Township," said Little.

The Plymouth-Canton area has "a growing high volume of traffic and in many cases we don't have sidewalks that would accommodate pedestrian traffic," he added.

COP CALLS

A power outage left about 50 customers in downtown Plymouth without electricity for about two hours Nov. 24, but the exact cause was unclear.

Detroit Edison attributed the outage, which downed some power lines on Wing Street, near Harvey, to a car hitting a pole on Harvey north of Maple in the business district, but Plymouth police said there didn't appear to be any direct correlation.

However, Mary Kay Bean, spokeswoman for Detroit Edison, said the exact site of power outages sometimes are not at the site of an accident.

The blackout lasted from 9:43 a.m. until 11:25 a.m. Fire department vehicles blocked Wing, between Forest and Harvey, to vehicular traffic during the outage.

The vehicle which struck the pole was not seriously damaged

Larceny From Vehicle

A 71-year-old Plymouth Township woman reported to Plymouth city police that her garage door opener was stolen from her car Saturday while she shopped in the Danny's market on North Main Street in Plymouth.

Phone Harassment

Plymouth police were investigating possible telephone harassment charges against a Chicago-area firm following an incident at a Plymouth business.

Police said after the owner of an Ann Arbor Road business attempted Nov. 18, via fax, to cancel both a contract signed that day and a Nov. 19 appointment with a Buffalo Grove, Ill., firm. The company's representatives showed up at the Plymouth business Nov. 19 a . left only after police threatened to charge them with trespassing.

On Nov. 20, the Plymouth company allegedly received about eight telephone calls in less than an hour from a caller purporting to be from the other company and demanding the contract be honored. The caller used profane and vulgar language, according to the complaint.

The contract was to permit the Illinois firm to evaluate the Plymouth business.

An investigating officer said the department was looking into whether a consumer law, which allows an individual to cancel a contract within 72 hours, would be applicable.

He suggested, too, that the Illinois company might be a new firm using hard-sell tactics whose personnel perhaps did not know how to properly handle a rejection.

"It was very much of a shock. She was loved a lot," said Marilyn Slack, office manager of Plymouth Orthodontic Lab, 9430 S. Main St., where Williams worked since July, 1995.

Slack described Williams as a "wonderful woman, reliable, dependable, very giving" who would "give anything to anyone."

The Jeep Grand Cherokee was driven by a Birmingham resident, whom Plymouth police declined to identify. Police said the driver stopped at the scene following the accident. She reportedly told police she did not see Williams.

It is believed Williams and the driver worked in adjoining dental offices on South Main about a block away from the fatal accident. But Plymouth police Sgt. Steve Huntersmark would not confirm that information.

According to Huntersmark, Williams was crossing Ann Arbor Road in the westbound left or passing lane when she was struck. It was "fairly busy rush-hour traffic," Huntersmark said. The weather was misty and the road wet at the time of the accident, he added.

Williams, who suffered "massive and multiple injuries," was transported to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia where she was pronounced dead, according to police.

The investigation is continuing with a team of Plymouth city and township police, led by officer Joseph Kahanec of the city police.

Police are asking for help in the investigation. Anyone who may have witnessed the accident is asked to call Kahanec at 453-8600.

"We do have witnesses but there's never enough information in things like this," said Huntersmark.

Jim Grutza, owner of Papa Romano's on Ann Arbor Road, got to work about 40 minutes after the accident and he went to Einstein's. "They were all crying in there. They said she walks in every day. One worker said she had just made up a bagel for Williams."

In the wake of Williams'

death, friends are concerned about Brian. "Margaret was the wind beneath his wings," said Kathy Mount of the Brandy Memorial Fundraiser.

When he was Plymouth mayor in 1991, Kenyon issued a proclamation declaring Brian Williams a "Plymouth Inspiration" not only for his own fortitude - including learning to ride a two-wheel bike - but for raising more than $1,000 for the Brandy Memorial Pet Walk.

"She was a beautiful lady," Mount said. "I have such respect. She was such a lady of dignity."

When Brian disposed of his crutches and got on a two-wheeler, Margaret Williams could be seen walking beside him.

"He had just learned to ride a bike and he was collecting money for the Pet Walk, Mount said. "She was always at his side. She would be wherever I was fundraising. Brian was born at Mott and he and Margaret always wanted to return favors to the children there. She had so little, but she gave so much."

Although Williams had been in charge of shipping and receiving at the dental office, she was the kind of person who "would lend a helping hand to anyone needing anything done at the office," Slack said, adding Williams also was the kind who always brought candy to the office - "she loved candy."

Many people got to know Williams because she was so visible walking or bicycling everywhere. She was known by everyone from the Clark Station on Main near where she lived to the Dunkin' Donuts on Ann Arbor which she often visited, Slack said.

Realtor Fred Hill also knew Williams. "Margaret approached me about two years ago and asked where she could get help with fixing up her house. She really didn't have much."

Hill enlisted his Briefcase Drill Team to make improvements. "We kind of semi-adopted them," Hill said. "Rain, shine or cold, you would see her on the corner at Ann Arbor Road on her way to work."

Bill Graham, vice president of Peoples State Bank in Plymouth, said he was always amazed at Williams. "When I look at how much she gave to maintain some kind of lifestyle for her children, it's amazing. She was good-hearted. She was a dedicated mother. It's just a shame something like this has to happen."

But community members are rallying around Williams' family for funeral arrangements and to care for Brian. Contributions may be made to the Margaret Williams Fund, care of Peoples State Bank, 245 N. Main, Plymouth, 48170.

"There's a lot of people who want to do something," Graham said. "This is loosely coming together. We will come up with a structure where money can be put aside for Brian and the funeral expenses."

Visitation for Williams will be 3-9 p.m. Sunday at the Schrader-Howell Funeral Home, Plymouth. Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. Monday at the funeral home with Pastor Lance Rubringer of Temple Baptist officiating. Burial will be in Rural Hill Cemetery, Northville.

In addition to her children,

issue has been ongoing since 1988, adding the women prisoner classification matter has yet to come up at trial.

"There are Michigan women prisoners sitting in maximum security who ought to be in minimum security," Snow alleged.

Snow said the state wrongly classifies women prisoners by the same approach used in classifying male prisoners. Women prisoners' rankings, she said, are "based on the male prisoner profile and assumptions of risk based on men prisoner statistics. It's never been set up or designed for women."

ever get an infusion of unencumbered money" which is not earmarked for special education or anything else and he is pretty sure "we will never get $5.2 million" in such funds again.

She maintained the classifications are excessive, saying women are nowhere near as assaultive as men prisoners.

Snow said that by these state Department of Corrections rules, "You automatically over categorize a woman when she steps in the door."

Attorneys representing the women prisoners maintain that at Scott prisoners are placed in administrative segregation - which prisoners call "the hole" - even for minor infractions including stealing a stick of butter.

In administrative segregation,

Snow said, "you don't have visits, you don't have access to the law library, you don't mix with the rest of the population. They take meals in their cell."

She said prisoners in administrative segregation also lose their prison jobs as they can't show up for work, and are thrown out of college classes for non-attendance.

Snow maintains prison officials should follow corrections system rules for punishing infractions, which include lesser grounding of prisoners.

"What was happening is the warden was overriding the hearing officer's decisions," Snow maintained.

Scott Warden Joan Yukins could not be reached for comment Thursday or Friday to respond to the lawsuit.

Snow said that rather than put prisoners in administrative segregation for more minor infractions, "They can be managed at much lower security and much lower cost."

The prison is at the northwest corner of Beck and Five Mile roads.

He urged the board to "position ourselves in the wisest way."

Board member Roland Thomas Jr. said he anticipates suggestions such as "pay down the school bonds, buy property, improve the infrastructure" and said he didn't want to close his mind to any options.

He also wondered if there were legal limitations on endowments by school districts.

Susan E. Davis, board vice president, questioned how much an endowment would earn yearly because "$5 million is not all that great." Nevertheless, she noted, it "might allow us to do things in the district that people in the district feel there is a need for."

An endowment "might provide a pool of money to do something with each year," she said.

Trustee Elizabeth Givens said she believes the money might "keep us from spending to the hilt every penny we've got" but felt a need for both "flexibility" and guidelines in spending it.

Term limits

Some fear higher education will suffer under new system

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

It's not unanimous, but the majority view is that Michigan's public universities will be hurt when legislative term limits take effect in 1999.

"Term limits will be a bad deal. You'll see some absolutely gonzo appropriations bills in the next few years," predicted Sen. John J.H. Schwarz, R-Battle Creek, who chairs the Senate's Appropriations subcommittee on higher education.

Reason: While many new legislators know local government, farming or natural resources, few bring a background in Michigan's 15 public universities and 28 community colleges. Higher ed takes time to learn; state representatives now are limited to six years and senators to eight, under a constitutional amendment approved by voters in 1992.

"State universities have been fortunate that higher ed appropriations subcommittees have been supportive of them," Schwarz told a meeting of the Michigan Association of Governing Boards of State Universities (MAGB) in East Lansing Nov. 19.

"But the money is falling off (as a percentage of the state general fund). The trend will continue. Tuition and fees will make up the difference. If I could, I would flatten that (downward) curve," Schwarz said.

Some 65 of the 110 state representatives will be unable to run again in 1998. For senators, the turnover will come in 2002.

Schwarz predicted these effects:
■ Legislative committees will be "trivialized and marginalized."
■ If you have a governor who knows as much as (John) Engler, it's going to be curtains; the Legislature will be like a complacent Tribby to his Svengali (submissive and dominant characters in an 1894 British novel).

■ "Lobbyists will be empowered far more, though I do not know any lobbyists that like this."

■ "Legislative staffs will have an inordinate amount of power."
■ Bureaucrats will have "extraordinary, arbitrary power."

Strong governor OK

Disagreeing was Ferris State University President William Sederburg, a former three-term Republican state senator, one-time State Board of Education member and pollster.

"The governor will be more significant in setting the agenda," said Sederburg, who has a doctorate in political science. Lawmakers are good at responding intuitively to public mood swings but not at long-range policy setting.

"The percentage of the state budget going to higher ed has shrunk steadily, but there's no proof term limits will affect higher ed. I think it depends on executive leadership - on who sets the agenda."

"Legislators represent districts. It's impossible (for a legislator) to be a statesman," said Sederburg, whose Senate district included the Michigan State University campus. "It makes sense to shift power to the governor."

Agreeing with Sederburg from the audience was Carl Pursell, an Eastern Michigan University regent who represented western Wayne County in both the state Senate and U.S. House.

"The Presidents Council (the 15 state university presidents) has an opportunity to develop an equitable (funding) formula," said the Plymouth Republican. "Rather than debating term limits and spinning our wheels, we should take the opportunity to do a professional effort."

Judge Duggan to hear lawsuit on term limits

STAFF WRITER

Patrick Duggan may have been taking notes when a federal court on C-SPAN quizzed lawyers in the California legislative term-limits case.

Duggan, a Livonia resident and Reagan appointee, is a U.S. district judge in Detroit. He will hear the lawsuit against the Michigan Constitution's term limits section passed by voters in 1992.

All 11 judges in the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in California heard the case en banc (sitting together) Nov. 20. Several judges practically leaped down the throat of Joseph Remcho, the attorney for Assemblyman Tom Bates, who was attacking California's legislative term limits.

"This is an unseemly confrontation," said Judge Pamela Rymer. "I have some question whether we (federal courts) even have jurisdiction to entertain this kind of case."

A day earlier, Bill Ballenger, proprietor of the Inside Michigan Politics newsletter, predicted Duggan may be in no hurry to decide the Michigan case. Ballenger sees the case going to the U.S. Supreme Court in October of 1998 for a decision in 1999.

Ballenger predicted a 5-4 decision, with Justice Anthony Kennedy casting the swing vote. He didn't predict the outcome.

2 Harsh rules

California's and Michigan's term limit rules rank Nos. 1 and 2, respectively, in harshness, said Ballenger.

■ California allows an eligible to serve three Assembly terms of two years (total six years) or two Senate terms of four years each.

■ Michigan's rule is three House terms and two Senate terms, a total of 14 years.

Bill would end party nod for university boards

The Big Three university boards should be nominated in primaries by voters rather than at state party conventions, said Sen. John J.H. Schwarz, who's angry about his own Republican Party's behavior.

Schwarz told a meeting of state university board members he will sponsor a bill to end party nominations of candidates for the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University boards.

Schwarz recalled the case of Judy Frey, an experienced Grand Rapids civic worker who was recruited in 1996 by Gov. John Engler to run for the U-M board. Engler even made her nominating speech.

"Judy Frey was treated shabbily, shamefully, by my party," said Schwarz. Frey lost the nomination to Mike Bishop, a Rochester Hills attorney whose chief claim to fame was serving as president of his fraternity while on the U-M campus.

The issue was abortion. Frey was pro-choice; Bishop, who put together his campaign in three days, was pro-life and was backed by Right to Life and the religious right.

Schwarz said it was "not only wrong but absolutely wrong" for GOP delegates to make their choices for university trustees on the basis of the abortion issue. He said parties tend to pick candidates for "ideological reasons or services rendered."

There are two methods of changing the way U-M, MSU and WSU trustees are selected:

■ A constitutional amendment giving the governor the right to appoint them, as he appoints trustees to 12 other university boards. Though the constitutional amendment procedure is slow, Schwarz credited Engler with "doing quite a good job" with appointments.

■ A legislative statute using primaries rather than conventions to select two candidate from each party. This could be enacted more quickly.

Few in the audience liked Schwarz's bill idea.

"His bill won't fly," predicted Carl Pursell, veteran Republican legislator and congressman now serving on the Eastern Michigan University board.

"Who would have enough money to run for a non-paying job?" asked a skeptical Annetta Miller, Democratic member of the WSU board and former member of the State Board of Education.

LEARNING PROBLEMS OFTEN RELATED TO VISION PROBLEMS

Eight year old Michael was struggling to the point of tears. "It was a struggle to get him to read. It took hours to do homework and he still didn't comprehend. His self-esteem," describes his mother, "was so low."

This story is typical of many families. In fact, 25-40% of children in an average classroom have vision-related learning problems. Vision is needed for 80% of what we learn. Testing has shown that in many cases of learning problems the child's focus is not clear and is often double.

Dr. John P. Jacobi, has been working with these children with learning difficulties, and with tremendous success. "These are little boys who are acting out in frustration, third graders who have run into a brick wall academically, even college students who can't study without getting terrible headaches," explains Jacobi.

Extensive testing for attention and learning problems is often given, without a single test for vision and eyesight. In most cases, vision has a great deal to do with the child's problems.

"I'm finding many kids who have 20/20 vision, but see double at reading distances or lose focus after only a few minutes of reading. They often experience headaches and eyestrain," Dr. Jacobi continues. "They struggle so hard, and sometimes give up."

Basic school screenings or basic eye health exams will not specifically probe these areas, so it may go undiagnosed. But once the vision dysfunction is detected, these kids have a whole new outlook.

One parent shares her "feeling of helplessness when you know you have a bright child and she can't read," and adds that "finding the missing piece to the puzzle allows us to move ahead."

It's worth a simple phone call to find out. You may schedule an appointment or reach Dr. Jacobi at (313) 525-8170.

Symptoms parents should be alert to:

- Headaches, especially after school
- Easily distracted, can't sit still and complete a task
- Avoids reading and paperwork
- Poor memory and poor spelling
- Loses place while reading
- Poor handwriting but may be a detailed artist
- Squirms and tilts head while studying

MADD vigil will remember victims

The Wayne County chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) will hold a candlelight vigil to remember victims of drunk driving crashes at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 2, at the St. Paul of the Cross Monastery, 23300 W. Davison, in Detroit.

"We would like to invite all people who have lost loved ones in drunk driving crashes to attend this beautiful night of remembrance," said Carol Nalepka, a spokesperson for MADD's Wayne County chapter. The monastery is located south off the I-96 service drive (Schoolcraft) between Telegraph and Outer Drive.

MADD will also conduct a Victim Support Group Meeting on Dec. 11 at 7 p.m. These support group meetings are held on the second Thursday of every month at the Gabriel Richard Center on the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus.

Liferide Program also needs volunteers to take phone calls from drinking drivers on New Year's Eve. The calls are taken from a central location with volunteers calling taxi companies to provide rides.

For more information, call the MADD Wayne County office at (313) 721-8181.

Both states have lifetime bans on further service in the Legislature.

Michigan's term limits amendment already has been modified by the courts. Originally, Michigan voters set term limits for U.S. senators and representatives. Unconstitutional, said the U.S. Supreme Court; the U.S. Constitution alone sets rules for Congress.

It's possible that, if a court doesn't strike down Michigan's term limits entirely, it could modify them by lifting the lifetime ban on further service in the Legislature.

Interruptions

Back to the California arguments:

Judge Andrew Kleinfeld interrupted attorney Remcho immediately to say, "I can't find the provision of the U.S. Constitution that's supposed to be violated" by California's term limits.

Remcho: "States may not violate basic constitutional rights," for example, by barring a minister from attending a political convention.

There followed a debate over whether Assemblyman Bates had a "basic" constitutional right to run for legislative office.

Remcho: "The U.S. Supreme Court said term limits are fundamentally undemocratic..."

Kleinfeld, interrupting: "That's not what it said. It said the states lack power to impose qualifications for Congress" (as in Michigan's original ban).

Remcho, continuing: "Term limits put a severe limit on the right of voters to elect whom they want... a severe burden."

Judge Diarmuid O'Scannlain: "Your brief says the evil is lifetime term limits. But we also have term limits for the governor and attorney general."

Remcho: "Term limits are inherently unconstitutional. There are less restrictive means to accomplish the goal of keeping lawmakers from becoming entrenched."

Burden on voters?

Chief Judge Proctor Hug: "Is the right to vote for a particular candidate a state interest?"

That question had already been answered by attorney Deborah LaPetra, of the Pacific Legal Foundation, the group which advocated term limits.

LaPetra said Bates' Assembly district has 370,000 residents of whom 100,000 are barred from running because they are underage, felons, aliens, etc. California's term limits rule raised that number "infinitesimally," to 100,001. "The voters didn't have their votes diluted or debased in any way. There is no burden on the right to vote," she said.

Remcho replied the term limits rule is unfair because it tilts the choice of candidates to voters who prefer inexperience. Power belongs "only people who don't believe in experience."

Arguing for the state, and in favor of term limits, was Harvard law professor Einer Elhauge. He quoted the Declaration of Independence on the right of the people to institute government for their own ends and organize it as they wish.

Foes of term limits, Elhauge said, say in effect that the U.S. Constitution, which limits the president to two terms, "somehow denies the same right to people in limiting the terms of their legislator."

Term limits don't work any hardship in the civil rights area, Elhauge said. Since California passed term limits, "the number of women (in the Legislature) is up 25 percent, the number of Hispanics is up 250 percent, Asians went from zero to two."

One of the lower court opinions against California's term limits said the people weren't adequately informed about the lifetime ban on further service in the Legislature.

Not so, said Elhauge. "Access to the text cure any problem." There was nothing ambiguous about Proposal 130. "The lifetime ban was intended."

'Stop revolving door'

LaPetra, for the Pacific Legal Foundation, said voters didn't have their votes "debased or diluted in any way" by term limits. The state has a right to determine qualifications of its own officers.

"Incumbents are an entrenched, dynastic bureaucracy" able to raise money to perpetuate themselves in office, LaPetra said. Since there is no burden on the voters, there is no need to narrowly tailor the term limits rule to lift the lifetime ban on running for the Legislature.

"The purpose of a lifetime ban is to stop the revolving door," LaPetra said. "These are policy judgments, your honor, that the people of California made."

"Carl Pursell is right," added Craig Ruff, panel moderator, president of Public Sector Consultants and once a top aide to Gov. Bill Milliken (1969-82). "We should expand the pie (chunk of appropriations going to colleges) rather than fight over carving it up."

'A terrible thing'

Sen. Alma Wheeler Smith, D-Salem, joined Schwarz in deploring the effect of term limits - "a terrible thing. It will be a shift of power to the executive and lobbyists. Newcomers to the Legislature will rely on that flow of information."

Programs like the Indian tuition waiver and the University of Michigan's Douglas Lake project will become vulnerable in the budgeting process, said Smith, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Smith and Ruff agreed that higher ed would be challenged for state general fund appropriations by the Corrections Department (prisons), Family Independence Agency (welfare), and Community Health.

Bill Ballenger, former Republican legislator and now proprietor of the Inside Michigan Politics newsletter, predicted the constitutionality of California's term limits law will go to the U.S. Supreme Court for oral arguments in 1998 and be decided in 1999 by a 5-4, with Reagan appointee Anthony Kennedy casting the swing vote.

Ballenger said term limits will bring legislators who are "less professional" and increase the chances that a popular governor can sweep in a score of new lawmakers from his own party.

LOIS THIELEKE

Modify your recipes to cut sugar and fat

This is the season for cooking and baking. But what happens if you run out of an ingredient for that special tasty delight? Your choices are to go to the store or substitute one ingredient for another. There are many substitutions you can make when baking, however you may end up with a somewhat different product. The taste, moisture content, texture and weight of a product can be affected by changing ingredients.

A frequent question is, "What can I substitute for cream of tartar?" The answer is, there is not a good substitution. If cream of tartar is used along with baking soda in a cake or cookie recipe, omit both and use baking powder instead. One teaspoon baking powder is equivalent to 1/4 teaspoon baking soda plus 5/8 teaspoon cream of tartar. It may just be better to make that trip to the store for cream of tartar.

Sugar modifications

Sugar substitutions are a little easier. Granulated white sugar can be substituted for brown sugar, however, this changes the color of the product. To get the brown color, use a cup of granulated sugar plus 1/4 cup unsulfured molasses.

One cup of corn syrup can be used for regular syrup, but you'll need to reduce other liquids by 1/4 cup. Sugar can be reduced by 1/4 to 1/3 in quick breads, cookies, pie filling, custards, puddings and fruit crisps. Do not reduce sugar in yeast breads as it acts as food for the yeast.

Here are some rules to remember when making sugar modifications to a recipe:

- Do not over bake, bake until firm on the outside and soft in the middle.
- Products with less sugar are less brown.
- Add applesauce, additional cinnamon or vanilla to enhance the sweetness. Non-fat dry milk can replace up to 1/4 of the sugar.
- If you want to use a non-sugar sweetener, substitute, find and use a recipe designed especially for them. Some of the non-sugar sweeteners do not react very well to baking or cooking.
- Many cookie recipes do not take too well to sugar and fat reduction.

Reducing fat

Fat provides flavor, richness, improves texture, tenderness and flakiness in baked goods. You can try to substitute oil for shortening in a recipe to reduce the fat by 1/4 to 1/3. For example, if the recipe calls for 1 cup hydrogenated shortening, try 2/3 cup oil. Drop cookies may be more successfully adapted to less fat than rolled cookies.

As a general rule, for minimal fat content in cakes and cookies, use no

SUBSTITUTIONS

- Instead of 1 teaspoon baking powder try 1/4 teaspoon baking soda and 5/8 teaspoon cream of tartar
- Instead of 1 tablespoon cornstarch try 2 tablespoons all purpose flour
- Instead of 1 cup buttermilk try 1 cup low-fat yogurt
- Instead of 1 teaspoon lemon juice try 1/2 teaspoon white wine vinegar or cider vinegar
- Instead of Sweetened condensed milk try Low-fat/non-fat sweetened condensed milk
- Instead of 1 egg try 2 egg whites or 1/4 cup liquid egg substitute
- Instead of 6 ounces semi-sweet chocolate chips (melted) try 2 ounces unsweetened chocolate and 2 tablespoons shortening plus 1/2 cup sugar
- Instead of 1 cup yogurt try 1 cup buttermilk or 1 cup cottage cheese blended until smooth, or 1 cup sour cream.

Too many chefs don't spoil the broth!

BY ELEANOR HEALD • SPECIAL WRITER

Three brothers, all executive chefs at high-profile restaurants in the Detroit metropolitan area — this is a one-of-a-kind phenomenon. It may be duplicated, but diligent research has failed to find it in another U.S. metro area.

Thirty-four-year-old Louai Sharkas is executive chef/owner of Oakland Grill in Royal Oak. His 30-year-old brother Bassam "Sam" is executive chef/partner at Colangelo's in Pontiac. Lee, 29, is executive chef at Andiamo West in Bloomfield Hills.

In 1977, all three emigrated from Baghdad with their parents Amelda and Saib Sharkas. Because they had relatives there, the family settled in Southfield and call this city "home" today.

Louai's father wanted him to have a "respected" career, so Louai attended Walsh College and studied business and finance. But his love of cooking, a passion that began with his first kitchen job at the former Bijou 20 years ago, won out. There he met Bobby Komoto, now maitre d'hotel at Oakland Grill, and Marty Jenkins, an Oakland Grill head waiter.

After a few positions in area restaurant kitchens, Louai was hired at Birmingham's Townsend Hotel where he became executive chef upon the retirement of chef Carolyn Haskins (now special projects chef at Birmingham's Big Rock Chop and Brew House), whom he cites as his culinary mentor.

"Carolyn insisted on classic cooking techniques," Louai remarked. "But Douglass Grech (former owner of Douglass Douglass in Southfield, now a personal chef and New York food designer) taught me the meaning of flair."

Louai thoroughly enjoys being owner, managing Oakland Grill and directing the kitchen. "I love doing my own thing and controlling my own destiny," he added.

Louai's brother Sam needed a part-time job when he was a high school senior. "I was hired as a busboy," he said. "A chef didn't show up for work, but I did. Opportunity knocked and I had a kitchen job after a few weeks."

Sam credits Picano's (Troy) executive chef Bill Hall as his mentor. After nearly two years at Colangelo's, Sam says he enjoys his work because "I can be creative without limitations."

When Lee Sharkas needed his first job, he applied at Larco's (now in Troy). From there he went to the kitchen at Andiamo Italia Ristorante in Warren to work under Master Chef Aldo Ottaviani, Andiamo's corporate executive chef. Lee says he loves the rush of running a kitchen in a very busy restaurant, cooking for people and still being guided by Chef Aldo.

Believing that the apple does not fall far from the tree, I talked to the Sharkas brothers about holiday dining experiences in their home.

"My mom makes literally hundreds of time-consuming kibbe, a cracked wheat dumpling stuffed with beef and onions," Louai responded. "Only a mother has the love and would take the time to do this. We have 30 people for Christmas Eve and Christmas Day and we each eat six or seven kibbe per person per seating."

Lee and Sam like Christmas Eve because restaurants close early and remain closed Christmas Day. "When we were growing up, we helped cook for the family get-together on Christmas Eve," Sam said. "That's when we open presents and have a big meal at midnight."

Lee added, "We still help, once we get to my parents' home. My father is a great helper, also."

Could the three brothers work together professionally? "Never," came the unhesitating chorus answer. "That's too many chiefs and not enough Indians," said Sam. "It's like three artists trying to paint one picture together," Louai added. "Each of us is too opinionated; it would not work," Lee concluded.

Lee says he loves the rush of running a kitchen in a very busy restaurant, cooking for people and still being guided by Chef Aldo.

Brothers share holiday recipes

Because their food memory bank is brimming with Christmas nostalgia, all three brothers offer Observer & Eccentric readers original recipes they like to cook for the holidays. All are exceptionally colorful on the plate. For example, to enhance presentation of his Marinated Calamari with Roasted Peppers, Sam Sharkas reserved some red and green peppers to use as a sprinkled garnish around the outside of a plain white plate.

Louai Sharkas chose a lobster entrée that reads long, but is very easy to prepare once all ingredients are gathered. The versatile chutney that accompanies is also a low-fat condiment for ham, pork or grilled chicken. For a new spin on left-over turkey, use unleavened flat bread, substitute the chutney for mayonnaise, then roll a sandwich.

Lee Sharkas remarked that although he heads up an Italian-style kitchen, there are daily specials that are not regionally focused. He offers two in his Roasted Corn and Pepper Soup and Honey-Glazed Salmon.

If you don't want to tackle the recipes yourself, just drool a little as you read them, then visit one of the brothers' restaurants and order up.

Amelda Sharkas thinks Louai serves portions that are too large. "She says the same thing about me," Sam added. "But she loves my lamb chops and lasagna."

"Hey, Lee, I'm looking at your salmon recipe," Louai chided. "It's simple and I'm going to steal it for New Year's Eve at my restaurant!"

RECIPES

LOBSTER EGG ROLLS WITH PAPAYA & MANGO CHUTNEY & CURRY OIL

Ingredients for Lobster Egg Roll:

- 2 pounds cooked Main Lobster meat, roughly chopped
- 2 tablespoons olive oil plus more for deep frying
- 3 cups julienne leeks
- 1 cup chopped cilantro
- 1/2 head Napa cabbage
- 1 teaspoon minced garlic
- 1 small Thai pepper
- 1 large onion
- 24 Lumpia circle wrappers (available at Oriental food stores)
- 6 egg yolks, lightly whipped

In olive oil, sauté all vegetables until soft. For each egg roll, form a triangle with 3 of the circle wrappers. Brush with egg yolk. Place some of the vegetable mixture on the two circles forming the base of the triangle; top with four ounces of cooked lobster; fold in sides and roll. Once rolled, brush egg yolk on edges and outside of egg roll. Using a heavy skillet, sauté in shallow oil until golden brown, then place in a 350°F oven for 6 minutes.

INGREDIENTS FOR PAPAYA AND MANGO CHUTNEY

- 4 ripe mangoes, peeled and diced in 1/2-inch cubes
- 4 ripe papayas, peeled and diced in 1/2-inch cubes
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon toasted mustard seed
- 1 teaspoon ground clove
- 2 ounces shaved ginger
- 3 ounces lemon juice
- 2 ounces rice wine vinegar
- 1 pound dark brown sugar
- 2 ounces chopped cilantro

In a heavy skillet, heat brown sugar, lemon juice, vinegar and spices until sugar is caramelized. Add papaya, mango and ginger until soft. Chill, then add chopped cilantro.

FOR CURRY OIL

- 1 cup pure olive oil
 - 1 tablespoon curry
- In a small pan, heat olive oil until warm. Add curry; simmer for 3 minutes on low heat. Strain through cheese cloth.

To assemble:
Place chutney in middle of plate. Cut cooked lobster roll in half and place on each side of chutney. Spoon curry oil on plate. Serves 8 adults.

Recipe compliments of Executive Chef Louai Sharkas, Oakland Grill.

Cookie swaps make sweet connections

When friends and family get busy with their separate lives, it's hard to stay connected, even around holidays. A cookie swap is a special way to get together with the people you'd always like to see but seldom do. It's also the perfect excuse to both indulge in some delicious seasonal confections and lighten your holiday workload.

In a cookie swap, people bring a tin filled with one kind of cookie and leave with it refilled with a variety of the treats everyone else brought. Not only do the wide assortment of goodies serve as refreshments for the cookie swap participants themselves, but they are the perfect treat to serve when guests stop by during the holiday season.

Schedule the cookie swap for a late afternoon two or three weeks before Christmas. That's when all the plans and pressures of the season feel overwhelming, making it a good time to pause briefly and do something emotionally satisfying for yourself.

A cookie swap works best when each guest brings five dozen cookies. Homemade sweets are nice, but since this is a gathering meant to relieve holiday stress, they are not mandatory. Start your cookie swap by relaxing for an hour or two, visiting with one another while enjoying a cup of hot tea, mulled cider, or a glass of chilled wine. Guests munch on the various cookies, so there's minimal work for the hostess.

The real swap occurs when empty tins are filled with an assortment of the cookies which are left.

Cookies for a swap should be easy to make. Spice cookies, fig bars, jumbles, and biscotti are idea. They all will stay fresh for a couple of weeks when sealed in an air-tight tin.

- CORNMEAL BISCOCCI
- 1 1/2 cups yellow cornmeal
 - 1 1/2 cups flour
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1 teaspoon baking powder
 - 9 tablespoons butter
 - 3/4 cup currants or dried blueberries
 - 2 eggs, lightly beaten
 - Grated zest of 1 lemon, optional
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
 - 2 tablespoons water

In a food processor, pulse together the flour and cornmeal to blend. Cut the butter into 9 pieces and add to the food processor. Pulse until the butter is blended into the dry ingredients. Transfer the mixture to a bowl and mix in the currants.

Beat the eggs, lemon zest (if using), vanilla and 2 tablespoons water into the dry ingredients. Divide the dough into 3 parts.

Place the pieces of dough on a non-stick baking sheet. Shape each piece into a long rounded-top, flattened log, 2 1/2-inches by 8-inches by 1-inch.

Bake at 350°F. for about 20 minutes, until the dough is a light gold. Let cool 5 minutes. Cut each log diagonally into 3/4-inch slices. Place the slices, cut side down on the baking sheet.

Bake the biscotti 5 minutes. Turn them over, and bake 5 minutes longer, until they are firm. Transfer the cookies to a rack and cool completely. Store the biscotti in a tightly covered tin. They will keep 1-2 weeks.

Entertain with classic dinner for 4

The holiday season is synonymous with entertaining. When a small intimate gathering of good friends is on the calendar, you'll want to serve something extra special.

Beef Wellington has always been a special-occasion dish, often reserved for restaurant dining. You can easily prepare the '90s version of this classic for elegant at-home holiday entertaining.

Mini Beef Wellingtons are every bit as delicious as the original. The time-consuming puff pastry and pate are gone, replaced by a seasoned mushroom filling and paper-thin phyllo sheets which make this version leaner and easier to prepare.

The phyllo sheets (available in the freezer case at your grocery store) are gathered up around the lean beef tenderloin steaks and mushroom filling then twisted closed to give the appearance of small packages.

The cooking process is accelerated by partially panbroiling the steaks in a skillet before assembly. Even with the panbroiling, the entire dish can be prepared and served in less than an hour making Mini Beef Wellingtons the perfect holiday entertaining choice for hosts with busy lives.

A vegetable medley such as green beans, carrots and red potatoes makes a colorful accompaniment, and for dessert, serve lemon cake with raspberry sauce.

MINI BEEF WELLINGTONS

Total preparation and cooking time: 40 minutes

- 4 small beef tenderloin steaks, cut 1-inch thick (4 ounces each)
- 2 teaspoons olive oil
- 1/2 pound mushrooms, finely chopped
- 3 tablespoons dry red wine
- 3 tablespoons finely chopped green onions
- 1/4 teaspoon dried thyme leaves
- Salt and pepper to taste

NATIONAL LIVE STOCK & MEAT BOARD

Elegant dish: Updated for today's tastes and time constraints, Mini Beef Wellingtons can be prepared and served in under an hour.

- 6 phyllo dough sheets, defrosted
- Vegetable cooking spray

Heat oven to 425° F. In large nonstick skillet, heat oil over medium-high heat until hot. Add mushrooms; cook and stir until tender. Add wine; cook 2 to 3 minutes or until liquid is evaporated. Stir in green onions, thyme, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Remove from skillet; cool thoroughly.

Heat same skillet over medium-high heat until hot. Place steaks in skillet; cook 3 minutes, turning once. (Steaks will be partially cooked. Do not overcook.) Season with salt and pepper, as desired.

On flat surface, layer phyllo dough, spraying each sheet thoroughly with cooking spray. Cut stacked layers lengthwise in half and then crosswise to make 4 equal portions. Place about 2 tablespoons mushroom mixture in center of each portion; spread mixture to diameter of each steak. Place steaks on mushroom mixture. Bring together all 4 corners of phyllo dough; twist tightly to close. Lightly spray each with cooking spray; place on greased baking sheet.

Immediately bake in 425° F. oven 9 to 10 minutes or until golden brown. Let stand 5 minutes. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings (serving size: 1/4 of recipe).

Holiday cookies omit wheat and dairy

HOLIDAY COOKIES

(Makes 24)

- 1/4 cup butter, canola oil spread, shortening or margarine
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 1/2 cup sugar

- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 1-1/4 cups white or brown rice flour
- 3 tablespoons potato starch
- 2 tablespoons tapioca flour
- 1/2 teaspoon xanthan gum
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind (optional)
- 1 large egg white

Have all ingredients at room temperature. Combine in food processor and blend thoroughly until mixture forms large clumps. Shape into ball, cover, and refrigerate for one hour. You may also freeze the dough in log shape at this point and bake cookies later.

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Divide dough in half; keep remaining half covered. Roll to 1/4-inch thickness between sheets of waxed paper or plastic wrap that are sprinkled with rice flour. Use metal cookie cutters to cut into holiday shapes and transfer to ungreased, nonstick baking sheet. Or, line standard cookie sheet with parchment paper or non-stick baking liner.

Repeat with remaining dough. Bake for 10-12 minutes or until edges are set. Cool for two minutes before removing from pan. Decorate with frosting or sprinkle with sugar.

Fern Bratten

Big ideas for looking great at any size

Turn on the nightly news, and you'll probably hear at least one sound-bite about Americans being overweight.

So what? says Fern Bratten, a former comedian-turned fashion-consultant. "There's nothing wrong with being a size 20," said Bratten, a plus-size woman herself. "In our business, we believe that a size 20 is twice as good as a size 10."

SHOPPING CENTERED

DONNA MULCAHY

Her motto is, "If you can't hide it, decorate it."

She imparted those messages plus some fashion tips to a crowd of noon-time shoppers, at a fashion show she emceed at Crowley's New Center One store in Detroit, Nov. 10. The show featured casual, career and social occasion clothing for plus-size women, sizes 16 to 26, from a variety of manufacturers, including Elizabeth (by Liz Claiborne), Koret, and Baxter & Wells, to name a few.

Some of the clothes were from Bratten's own line, Fern Bratten for Melrose. Crowley's sponsored the show to highlight the extensive selection of merchandise in its Women's World departments. Crowley's has nine locations in southeast Michigan, including Farmington, Livonia Mall, New Center Place in Detroit, Tel-Twelve Mall, Macomb Mall, Westborn Shopping Center, Universal Mall, Lakeside.

For 19 years, Bratten traveled across the country, emceeding fashion shows and conducting fashion workshops, as a representative of Koret. She and Koret parted ways in 1995, and last year, Melrose, a Los Angeles-based clothing manufacturer, asked her to represent its line of plus-size women's sportswear. That's how Fern Bratten for Melrose was born.

She said that the clothes in her line are comfortable, moderately priced (most items are between $48 and $60), and have a youthful spirit, yet are meant for women of all ages.

"And of course, they look good," she said. Her line features a lot of animal prints (such designs will be popular for the next two years, so don't be afraid to invest in them, she insisted); the color black (because it's slenderizing); and a lot of slinky knits. "That's what the fabric is called - slinky knit. It's a 100-percent poly with a soft, slinky feel, and it's wash and dry."

One of the highlights of the show was an evening, tank dress with a matching swing coat ($120 to $150), by Onyx Nites. The dress and coat were made out of iridescent purple and lime "shimmer" material. The fabric appeared to change color - from purple to lime and back again - as the model moved.

"I just love these shimmer dresses," Bratten told the audience. "Aren't they yummy? They're so pretty."

Here are some of her fashion tips for plus-size women:

- Make sure that your clothes fit properly, even if it means having them altered. Pants with adjustable tabs at the waist are great, because they let you adjust the fit.

- You may be petite and not know it. Petite, in the fashion world, refers to a woman's height, not her width. Petite clothing is designed for women 5-foot-4 and under. Many stores carry petite sizes up to a size 16; some go even higher.

- Wear shoulder pads, to create a balanced look. Also, wear long necklaces and scarves, and make sure that your hair and makeup look good, to draw people's attention north and south, "never east and west."

- It's O.K. to wear pants. But make sure that you pair them with a long top that covers your hips.

- Wear black hose and black suede pumps at night, and during the daytime, wear opaque hose and a chunky loafer.

Artists celebrate with their own shops

Traditionally, artists create, leaving the marketing and selling of their work to others. But these days, several savvy crafters have opened their own stores, eliminating the middleman.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
EDITOR

It was once the dream of an artist to exhibit work in a gallery of renown.

Today, many artists open galleries of their own, stocking their stores with items they've made themselves.

Folk artist Barbara Bourgeau-Richards of Romeo just opened her namesake gallery at 154 West Maple in Birmingham, down the street from the gallery/store impressionist painter Pierre Bittar opened last year.

Paige Stanton of Bloomfield Hills also just opened her store in downtown Franklin, lining the carefully-papered walls with her custom pillows, beaded bags and vintage-looking necklaces.

Groups of area artists take turns supplying the shelves of two co-op galleries at Summit Place Mall in Waterford and Great Oaks Mall in Rochester Hills.

"Having your own store allows you to work with your own work," said Bourgeau-Richards. "I also sell country antiques in the shop which blend very well with my watercolors and prints."

Collectors have been seeking out her cherubic, pear-shaped characters in European-styled frocks, since she began painting in 1986 after one watercolor class at the local education center. Though she suffers from rheumatoid arthritis, she transfers a positive outlook to her "characters," drawing them enjoying the simple pleasures of life - fishing, gardening, sipping tea.

With help from her family, Bourgeau-Richards turned her artwork into a profitable career, adding wool rugs, cross stitch patterns and limited edition prints to her repertoire. She has customers around the globe.

Stanton used craft fairs as her proving ground, networking with other artisans to learn the trade and collect names of reliable crafters who could supplement her work.

"I specialize in taking old photographs and transferring them onto quilts, and pillows to create heirlooms suitable for brides and new mothers," she said. "These are absolutely custom gifts, personalized with lace, satin, beads and embroidered flowers."

"I also make little bags on beaded straps that double as a necklace, and jewelry. The shop is complete with folk art dolls, fabric-covered boxes and lamp shades, hand-knit sweaters, and hand-painted frames, candlesticks and dishes by other very talented artists."

Bittar who has had his gallery/store on West Maple in Birmingham for three years, said promoting business in his own store, as well as the rest of the city, has become an important part of his life.

"If you own a gallery, you must become involved in promoting the town as a cultural center," he said. "It's difficult, you have many hats to wear. I've started painting in the area schools and teaching an art class or two. Children are so eager and hungry to know about art."

For this kind of business to succeed you must be in an area that draws people who desire beautiful things."

Designer breaks new ground in glass

BY JUDITH HARRIS SOLOMON
SPECIAL WRITER

Ann Morhauser, owner and designer of Annieglass, always had an artistic bent. She started taking private art lessons when she was only nine years old and by the time she turned 19, she was studying printmaking and dance at college in California.

Ann Morhauser

But, as Morhauser explained last week during a personal appearance at Neiman Marcus, her epiphany came one night on a beach in Santa Cruz. There, under a full moon, Annie saw a man blowing glass.

"Glass making was very fluid... like dance," she said.

"And you got immediate gratification. You blew it and the piece was finished the next day. I was hooked, obsessed. It's been my passion ever since."

Annie got a scholarship to the College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland, where she studied under Marvyn Lipofsky, the leader of the American Studio Glass Movement. "He was a real taskmaster," she said. "He pushed me to do new techniques... like bending flat glass (technically called slumping). He pushed me to do sculptures. It made me look at things differently."

After graduating in 1979, Annie went to work in a glass gallery in Santa Cruz to learn the retail end of the business. By 1983, she had opened Annieglass, her own glass studio. And, as the pundits say, the rest is history.

Annie first marketed her one-of-a-kind pieces at juried national craft fairs. One of her very first customers was Neiman Marcus. "But the store that really put me on the map was Zona in New York," she said. "In the mid '80s many individual retailers went to Zona to see what they were selling, then those retailers would try to find me."

Today, Annieglass offers more than 17 different designs and is sold worldwide. President and Mrs. Clinton own Annieglass. It's also in the personal collections of such celebrities as Oprah, Barbra Streisand and Bette Midler and in the permanent collections of the Corning Museum of Glass and the Renwick Gallery of the Smithsonian.

Annieglass is now created at Morhauser's new 16,000 square foot production-office complex in Watsonville, California, just south of Santa Cruz. With 25 full-time employees, the company produces over 100,000 handmade glass plates, bowls, serving dishes and decorative accessories per year.

Yet, Annie related, "It's practically medieval the way we do things. It's a lot of hand work. We only use machines to sand and ovens to melt the glass." Each piece of Annieglass is still crafted and signed by hand and the decorative edges are hand-printed.

Morhauser is probably best known for her highly textured, Roman Antique glass dinnerware which is banded in either 24-karat gold or platinum and can mix or match with practically anything ranging from heirloom china to the funkier contemporary pottery.

But she doesn't rest on her laurels! Annie continues to introduce new products twice a year. Last January it was Flora, a white-glazed pattern designed to look like a "sculptural dogwood flower." In August it was Diva. Inspired by a gold bracelet, Diva is highly-textured with a matte gold finish.

"My newest 1950s linoleum, retro-look black and white pattern called Santa Cruz Modern will be introduced in New York in February," she said. The serving pieces will have a black and white drizzle pattern, dinnerware will be solid beige or black. Annieglass is sold at Neiman Marcus, Hudson's (Somerset store only), Jacobson's, Art Loft Gallery, Magnolias, Studio 330 and Slades.

MALLS OFFERS FIELD TRIPS
Attention teachers! Both Lakeside (Sterling Heights) and Twelve Oaks (Novi) debut interactive holiday decor programs created by Technomasters of Birmingham. Each event lasts about two hours and costs $5 per student.

At Lakeside, children visiting the exhibit can design programs (grade level appropriate, PreK through Grade 8) that focus on computer literacy skills, view the Peanuts classic A Charlie Brown Christmas; design their own wrapping paper using Peanuts cartoons to take home; explore Internet sites where Peanuts animation comes to life; and work with computer quick cams to learn how movies are created. At Twelve Oaks similar projects have the Exploration Station theme. Reservations can be made by calling Technomasters (248) 258-9075.

LOCKER ROOM STUFF ON SALE
The Palace Locker Room retail stores opened two new locations - The Somers Collection North in Troy and Macomb Mall in Roseville. Both stores will offer a selection of team merchandise and wearables featuring Detroit Pistons, Vipers, and other sports teams. The new stores will put shoppers "in-the-action" with color television monitors showing continuous sports highlights and live action among the colorful displays of merchandise.

The Somers Locker Room will also provide a Ticketmaster center so shoppers can pick up tickets to their favorite events. The shops are operated by Palace Sports and Entertainment's Merchandising Department, which also runs the two Locker Room locations in The Palace Atrium and the souvenir stands at the organization's three venues: The Palace, Pine Knob and Meadow Brook Music Festival.

CELEBRITY NECK WEAR benefits kids in need Save the Children, one of the world's largest and oldest non-profit organizations assisting children abroad and in the U.S., launched a creative neck wear line featuring artwork designed by popular personalities. The new collection, "CelebTie for Save the Children," includes original art contributions from Whoopi Goldberg, Jerry Seinfeld, Larry King, Tom Chapin, and the cast of hit NBC television show Friends. Most ties are available in three-color variations for $25 at Lord & Taylor and other department stores. Each celebrity donated a drawing to Save the Children, which was incorporated into silk neck wear bearing the celebrity's name and a Save the Children authentication label. The neck wear is produced by Salant Menswear Co. in New York City. Approximately three percent of the price of CelebTies will benefit children. For nearly five years, the neck wear collection, featuring the original artwork of young children, has raised awareness and funds, for Save the Children and its work with children.

Dentistry in the 90s

CHALLENGING CONVENTIONAL WISDOM

Conventional wisdom holds that wisdom teeth should be extracted because they are likely to cause trouble as people get older. And, it is true that impacted (stuck beneath the gums) wisdom teeth can develop infections or cause damage to neighboring teeth. A recent review, however, found that no more than 12 percent of impacted wisdom teeth ever cause problems after age 30. In these cases dentists can usually detect a problem early enough to remove the tooth before damage occurs. The wisdom-tooth review also calculated that only one percent of those with impacted wisdom teeth would benefit from a preventive extraction. As for normal wisdom teeth, there is no proof that they tend to push neighboring teeth out of alignment.

Do you have questions about your wisdom teeth? At LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES, we want to provide you with the best dental care possible. Our goal is to be known as dentists who are gentle, caring, and friendly. We're located at 19171 Merriman Road, where we use the most modern techniques and equipment. We want you to look and feel your very best. Call us at 478-2110 today for the professional attention and home care guidance that will make a difference in your oral health care regimen. MEDICAL BRIEFS

Rational Recovery

Rational Recovery is an international non-profit, self-help organization for men and women who are experiencing problems as a result of alcohol/and or substance abuse or other self-defeating behaviors. Rational Recovery meets every Thursday at 12:30 p.m. at Harrison School in Garden City in classroom #5 and every Friday at 7 p.m. at Garden City Hospital in the lower level of the Medical Office Building.

RR has its roots in Cognitive Behavioral psychology. The distinguishing features from other prevailing abstinence programs are its rejection of the "disease" concept and the belief that individuals who engage in self-defeating behaviors have the power to overcome their problems by replacing their irrational thought processes with a rational belief system thus eliminating the previous outcome of self defeating behavior. For additional information call (248) 476-2657.

Providence to open Canton facility

The new Saint Joseph Mercy Canton Health Building, which will include an urgent care, pharmacy, physician offices and other services is scheduled to open in February 1998. The facility is located at 1600 S. Canton Center Road at Summit Parkway, between Ford Road and Michigan Ave.

The building will have a focus on women's health, including specialists, service and educational programs for women of all ages. The facility also will be home to Michigan's first Interactive Health Education Center, set to open in Jan. 1999. The interactive center will draw visitors from across the state. For more information, please call the Saint Joseph Mercy HealthLine at 800-231-2211.

HEALTHSOUTH Corporation has acquired I.H.S. Therapy, P.C. located at 42801 Schoolcraft Road in Plymouth. The location will operate under the name HEALTHSOUTH Sports Medicine & Rehabilitation Center and will specialize in sports medicine, spine rehabilitation and aquatic therapy.

"HEALTHSOUTH is pleased to expand its health care services in Plymouth," said P. Daryl Brown, president of HEALTHSOUTH outpatients centers. "With every addition to our network, we are able to further enhance HEALTHSOUTH's reputation for high-quality, cost-effective care."

World AIDS Day - 1997

Oakwood Healthcare System will be holding its fourth annual free conference in support of World AIDS Day. This year's theme is Children Living in a World with AIDS, beginning at 8 a.m. Wednesday, Dec. 3, at Oakwood Hospital & Medical Center in Dearborn.

Key parts of the program include a play about people with AIDS; a panel of teens affected and infected with the virus; the epidemiology of HIV and the display of a panel of the AIDS quilt. "This conference will give families more information to help protect their children from HIV and will also address coping issues," explained Nicholas Lekas, M.D., conference director and chief of infectious disease at Oakwood Hospital/Medical Center.

To register or for more information on the symposium, call (313) 593-7195.

LEGISLATION TO ENCOURAGE ORGAN DONATIONS

WAITING IS THE HARDEST PART

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON
STAFF WRITER

There are approximately 2,200 Michigan residents currently waiting for an organ transplant to save their lives. What's more discouraging is that they live in a state that ranks 45th of 50 in the nation for organ and tissue donors — one of the worst in the country.

Proposed legislation pending in the Senate has the potential to position Michigan among 19 states, including Florida, Illinois and Pennsylvania, that have aggressively sought to increase tissue and organ donations, saving thousands of lives annually.

One of the most ironic tragedies that arises out of a death is that countless people could go on living healthy and complete lives from the organs of a single donor. A donor whose wish often goes unfulfilled because it was never shared with the family.

"The single most frequent response we hear when families are asked about donating organs and tissues from a loved one is, 'We never talked about it, we'd better say no,'" said Tom Beyersdorf, executive director, Gift of Life Agency of Michigan.

A set of bills that already passed in the House will require the Michigan Secretary of State to:

- Provide every driver's license applicant with information about organ and tissue donation.

- Allow every applicant the opportunity to register as a future donor and have that donation status affixed permanently to the license.

- Transmit the list of donor registrants to the Michigan Donor Registry maintained by the Gift of Life Agency. The registry will be for future use in communicating with families at hospitals following the death of a loved one.

Supporters believe the current system of affixing stickers to the back of licenses "falls short" of the potential in the state. Public education and increased awareness are two of the keys, say backers, that will shed light on a problem that often goes unaddressed.

"When the wishes of the deceased are known,

Transplant waiting list: Currently waiting for a transplant as of 9/01/97

Kidney	1587
Heart	70
Heart/Lung	1
Lung	120
Liver	243
Pancreas	96
Cornea	258

273 patients received an organ transplant year-to-date
95 patients died waiting.

family members invariably honor those wishes. The registry is a vital tool in communicating those wishes," said Beyersdorf.

The computerized donor registry, maintained by the Gift of Life Agency, is an efficient method of maintaining donor wishes from which health care professionals have access, that automatically checks the pool of potential donors to match with recipients.

Families at the hospital can be made aware of their loved ones' wishes and make a decision about donating. The registry presently has a list of 12,000 future donors. With the successful passage of legislation, the donor list could grow dramatically, resulting in the reduction of recipients waiting on a transplant list.

In Arizona where a revised anatomical gift act was enacted in May 1996, tissue donation increased by 62 percent in an eight-month period.

The state of Illinois has seen dramatic percentage increases since a "Live and Learn" law was signed in 1993. Today, there are 3.7 million people on the state's donor registry, the largest in the nation; organ donation has increased by 52 percent in only four years; and registry participation at driver license facilities serving mostly minority customers has increased by more than 100 percent.

Michigan legislators are optimistic about furthering legislation that can bring about positive change — turning tragedies into charitable acts of heroism.

• Three proposed bills currently remain idle in committee. Legislators are not expected to make a decision in the Senate until the first of the year. If you would like more information about The Gift of Life Agency of Michigan (Transplantation Society of Michigan), call 1-800-482-4881.

Tragedy eased by mom's heroic decision

Hero: 18-year-old Phillip Lewis lost his life in 1994 but thanks to organ donations - five transplant recipients were saved.

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON
STAFF WRITER

Cynthe Lewis made a decision Oct. 15, 1994, that saved the lives of five people. Her heroic act was born out of a tragic accident that left her son, Phillip Lewis, brain dead. He was just 18 years old.

Lewis consented unselfishly to have her young son's organs donated to transplant patients whose chances of living, rather than dying, were made greater by her generosity.

"I was told there was no hope," said Lewis, "and I was given the chance to help someone else. I didn't have to think twice about saying yes."

The Redford teen's heart went to a 65-year-old retired teacher from Kentucky. She has since returned to enjoying normal activities with her children and grandchildren.

Phillip's liver restored life to a 64-year-old widow from North Carolina.

Both of his kidneys went to men from Tennessee. The youngest of the two recipients was a diabetic for more than 30 years who had been on a waiting list since November 1992.

The second man, a 53-year-old father, no longer endures hours of dialysis he would undergo each week as a result of cysts that formed in his kidneys.

A 47-year-old wife and mother from Kentucky, suffering from a chronic disease, became the recipient of his lungs. The second day following the transplant, she was removed from a machine that breathed for her and had normal blood oxygen levels. Previously-simple tasks were impossible as a result of her advanced illness.

Greatest gift

Their only hope was a transplant. Cynthe Lewis's only wish was that something good come out of a bad situation.

Phillip, a spirited teen who loved music and playing guitar with his band, was in Kentucky staying with a friend at the time of the accident. Cynthe remembers receiving the call from Kentucky authorities who notified her that Phillip had been transported to a local hospital after falling out of a four story window to the cement pavement.

"I knew something wasn't right when they asked me if I had a child named Phillip Lewis," said Cynthe Lewis. "The news can't be good when they start out with a question like that."

She and her sister drove to the University of Kentucky in Lexington where Phillip had been airlifted because of the severity of his injuries. He was unconscious with broken arms and legs, a fractured skull, extensive facial damage

Gift puts new heart in minister's life

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON
STAFF WRITER

In September, the Rev. Jack Spitzza of Westland celebrated his second anniversary. Not a marital milestone or an observance of his dedication to the church but a celebration of the gift of life. In 1995, his failing heart was replaced with that of a 20-year-old accident victim.

"I'm living, breathing proof that organ donations work," said Spitzza. "Someone saw the chance to give or extended the life of a stranger who couldn't live without the donation and they gave the greatest gift any of us can — life."

The Westland grandfather's health began to decline in 1988. He was experiencing chest pressure, water retention, extreme fatigue and an overall lack of strength.

"I was getting so weak it took all of me to get to the altar every Sunday for service," remembered Spitzza, "but I never missed a sermon."

After being diagnosed with congestive heart failure and undergoing a battery of tests, Spitzza was placed on a transplant list in March of 1995 at the age of 66 and began a costly waiting game. Despite his age, he was a candidate thanks to his general good health. "I never drank or smoked and I was in pretty good shape except for my heart," said Spitzza.

Labor Day weekend of the same year, Spitzza was contacted by the transplant team at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit. A young male accident victim's family agreed to donate their son's organs and Spitzza was a match for his heart.

"I remember waking up after the surgery on Tuesday staring at the beige ICU wall and thinking, 'I don't have congestive heart failure any more.'"

Just nine days after the transplant, he was released from the hospital and returned to the pulpit at New Hope Baptist Church like he had every Sunday for the last 36 years.

"Families faced with a tragedy need to know their loved ones organs won't do them any good," Spitzza said frankly, "but they can help save the lives of countless others."

In the last two years, Spitzza has resumed all normal activities with no limitations holding him back. Last summer, he and his 9-year-old grandson traveled to Florida and enjoyed riding "all the roller coasters" they could during a vacation to Disney World. "I've been given a chance to watch my grandson grow and be a part of his life — for that I am grateful."

In addition to sharing his story with his congregation, Spitzza speaks to ser-

Winter itch indicates dry, chapped skin

As we say goodbye to November we find days are getting shorter while temperatures take an uncomfortable downward spiral. That crackling sound you may hear, however, isn't chestnuts roasting on an open fire, but the dry touch of your chapped skin.

Skin dryness is not uncommon, particularly in the winter months when wind exposure and freezing temperatures take a toll on all parts of your body, including those you think you've kept under wraps. Dermatologists warn that even short stints outside require a complete coverup to help avoid serious skin damage (frostbite) or windburn.

"Skin needs hydration to stay healthy, and usually it protects itself from drying out by producing a layer of oil," said Dr. Michael Mahon, D.O., Botsford dermatologist. "Unfortunately, as we grow older, our skin generates less oil naturally. Although all skin 'soaks up' moisture from the air when it's humid, low humidity can really cause damage."

Dry skin is a natural component of the aging process - it can be accelerated by a lack of moisture or slowed if proper care is taken to keep skin supple, moist and well-hydrated.

Another source of dehydration is the tendency to "turn up the heat" in the winter that leads to a serious lack of moisture in your home where you spend a good portion of time from November through March. Moisture needs to be returned to the air to keep yourself properly hydrated. One solution may be the installation of a mobile room humidifier that redirects moisture back into the air.

"I tell patients to cut down on those long, hot bubble baths and beware of harsh detergent soaps," said Mahon. "To combat chapped, dry skin, you should consistently use moisturizing lotions or creams - Eucerin, Lubriderm, Vaseline or the like several times a day, especially after washing your hands or bathing. Any of these over-the-counter products can help soothe and prevent moisture from evaporating."

Mahon strongly cautions outdoor enthusiasts and those not so fond of winter to wear gloves and hats, "even if out only for a short time."

If dry skin becomes severely cracked or inflamed, you may want to seek treatment from a dermatologist. Prescription medications can be very effective in preventing infection and further damage to chapped, cracked and scaled skin.

Just because it's winter, it doesn't mean you shouldn't be using sunscreen. "In addition to moisturizing, sunscreen is the best sure-fire way of protecting your skin and your health - as well as reducing the signs of aging," said Mahon.

vice organizations and students about the need for aggressive legislation to further organ and tissue donations.

"I stand before them as living proof they can help save a life," said Spitz. "If you've never talked about your wishes, let your family know what they are or become a registered donor."

"Organ recipients should be an inspiration to everyone."

scious with broken arms and legs, a fractured skull, extensive facial damage and head trauma.

"I believe Phillip waited for me to get there knowing this was an opportunity to help someone. He knew I would consent and he hung on."

The chief neurological surgeon at the University of Kentucky consulted with Lewis following two days of treatment in the Intensive Care Unit where Phillip was being kept alive by a respirator. The physician explained that Phillip had no brain activity and little chance to survive.

"I agreed to donate his organs because it was the right thing for me to do," she said. "I give blood so it seemed only natural to feel that way about organ donations."

Three years have passed since Phillip died. His mother's face lights up when she talks about her son but it's easy to see her pain lies just below the surface. On her sweater lapel she wears a green ribbon that symbolizes support of the Gift of Life organization and their crusade to increase awareness of organ/tissue donations. She says it's a good conversation piece to get people talking about organ donations.

"It reminds me of Phillip, too."

Speaking out

Besides wearing the green ribbon, Lewis has become a public speaker for the Gift of Life Agency of Michigan. She tells Phillip's story in formal presentations or to anyone who will listen in an effort to "promote organ and tissue donations" as much as she can. "That's where the pin comes in handy. Someone will ask me about it and that gives me another opportunity to talk about donating. I always say yes when they ask me to speak. Whatever it takes to make people more aware."

"It helps me heal and gives me a sense that I'm still taking care of Phillip."

Lewis is also in full support of proposed legislation to provide every license applicant with information about donating and have donation status permanently affixed to driver's licenses. "Whatever it takes to make more people aware of the need and importance of making their wishes known to their family."

While the final decision remains with the family, Tom Beyersdorf, executive director of Gift of Life Agency of Michigan, says families will usually honor those wishes if they were made known or are made aware the potential donor was listed on a donor registry.

Many lives were changed forever in October 1994. Lewis has the option to call the Kentucky Organ Donor Affiliates to find out how each of the recipients are doing since the transplants. Sadly, the man whose kidney's failed from diabetes died - not as a result of organ rejection but from colon cancer.

The other kidney recipient and transplant patients are doing great. In fact, Lewis received what she called "a very touching letter" from one of the recipients' daughters last June. The young woman expressed her sympathy for the loss of Lewis' son and explained how grateful she was for having her father back thanks to the kidney transplant.

"She wrote that her dad no longer had to drive three hours one way, sometimes four times a week, for dialysis treatments," said Lewis. "It was a hard letter for me to read."

Prior to joining Stout Risius Ross, he was a vice president, corporate finance at First of Michigan in Detroit. Stout Risius Ross is the largest full service valuation and financial advisory firm based in Michigan.

Advertising director

Dawn M. Herren of Farmington has been appointed the director of advertising for Sibley's Shoes, Inc. She has been with Sibley's for seven years and most recently assistant director of advertising. Herren is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University with a bachelor of science degree.

O'Connor promoted

Thomas F. O'Connor of Livonia, senior associate, has been promoted to the position of manager in Arthur Andersen's International Executive Services practice where he specializes in human resources. O'Connor joined the firm in March 1996.

He is currently a member of the Michigan State Bar, the Society of Human Resources Management and the Institute of International Human Resources. O'Connor also serves as a consultant to Junior Achievement and a volunteer for Renaissance Home Health Care.

Planning conference attendee

Russell Navarre, District Manager of Money Concepts International Inc. Centres in Livonia recently attended the company's annual Planning Conference in Juniper, Fla. Money Concepts Int'l, is a worldwide network of Financial Planning Centres. This event was attended by MCI advisory board members, Financial Centres owners like Navarre, and associates from all across the United States.

The Internet: News and information on demand

The biggest problem with the Internet is its size. It is too big and the information it offers is overwhelming. What's needed is a Gatekeeper. What we have are Personal Agents - Geek Speak for Internet applications that allow us to customize the news and information we receive on our Web start-up pages. There are dozens available, with more being released every day.

I am always amazed at how many people never set up their Internet browser to reflect their personal tastes and interests.

This week, we're going to get personal with our browser.

Let's start with Netscape's Communicator and Microsoft's Internet Explorer, the two browsers used by close to 95% of the 56 million adults in the U.S. who currently have access the Internet.

By default, when you open up either one of these browsers, it goes to the home page of either Netscape Communications or Microsoft. All that is fine. Both companies offer very complete and useful home pages. But with so many users opening up the same start page on the same site at the same time, it often takes a long time to draw on your screen. Besides, they're pretty boring.

The solution is setup another start page. You do not have to settle for what they provide. You can choose to begin your web sessions with any site you want.

Here's how to change the start-up page:

In Communicator, you go to Options, then General Preferences. Click on the Navigation tab. See where it says Startup? In that box is a place for a URL. That stands for Universal Resource Locator, or the Internet address of a Web site. Just type in the URL of whatever page you want to begin with, say... my page, for example, www.pcmike.com, or the Observer & Eccentric site, www.oconline.com. Click OK and, next time you start Communicator, it will open with your new selection instead of Netscape's or Microsoft's boring home page.

You can do the same thing with Microsoft's Internet Explorer. Go to View, then Options and then click the Navigation tab. Type in the URL under the space for the Start Page, click OK and, that simple, you've got your own

But maybe you don't have a page you like that much but you would like something a bit more useful than the standard offerings served up by Communicator and Explorer. That's where these Personal Agents come into the picture.

Personal Agents allow you to customize your own start page with specific, personally-selected material. Once again, Communicator and Explorer are head-to-head in competing for you to choose their Personal Agent.

In Netscape, go to the home page (www.netscape.com) and look for a hyperlink to something called Powerstart. Click on it and you'll be led to a template. You fill in the things you want to see on your own start page. You can have a localized weather report, movie listings and start times for the theaters in your neighborhood, a stock ticker that scrolls across your screen listing only the companies you're interested in, and headline news and sports. You can even have your own to-do list pop up, as well as current information about your favorite stock.

Microsoft Explorer will let you do the same thing from the Microsoft Network Home Page (www.msn.com). Explorer uses your zip code to call up the movie schedule for what's playing in your neighborhood theater. It also has local TV listings and, my favorite, a direct link to the daily Dilbert comic strip.

You don't have to stick with just the so-called "Browser Big Two."

Just about every major presence on the Net these days is offering users the opportunity to customize their Web start-up pages.

My current favorite is from Excite, which is known for its very fast and reliable search engine. But it also has a custom start page, called Excite Live! (live.excite.com), and I think it is the slickest on the Net. It opens with a very easy to follow look at the top news headlines of the hour. The headlines are all hyperlinked. Click on the one, and you get the full story. And while Excite Live! has its share of ads and self-promoting features, it is the most straightforward in giving the user just what's wanted.

Excite Live! really shines when it comes to displaying business news and information, especially stock prices. Most of the other custom start pages limit you to only a few stocks and funds to monitor. Excite lets you fill in a virtual portfolio.

Another neat site that concentrates on business news and a personalized portfolio that updates your holdings each day is from Intuit (www.intuit.com), the company that makes the popular Quicken financial software.

One suggestion: Because this is obviously highly personal information, I would not suggest entering too much detail on the computer you access from work. You can still have it report how your holdings are doing, but just don't enter in the number of shares you own...unless you want anyone wandering past your screen to know your intimate financial details.

For general news, entertainment, business and sports information, take your pick. Every major online news presence these days is on the Personal Agent bandwagon. My favorites include CNN (www.cnn.com), MSNBC (www.msnbc.com) ABC (www.abcnews.com) and Wired Magazine's Newsbot (www.newsbot.com).

Concerts conjure up holiday spirit

If Thanksgiving left you feeling full of everything but the holiday spirit, "Come All Ye, Faithful," "Rudolph the Red Nose Reindeer" and "Frosty the Snowman" are alive and well, and in concert. "Have a Merry Little Christmas" by joining the fun as local choirs and performing artists sing and dance their way to the holidays. Before long, you'll be humming "Jingle Bells."

Here's where sleigh bells will be ringing, and people singing:

Plymouth Community Chorus

The 120-voice chorus, under the direction of Michael Gross, perform Christmas favorites and inspirational carols 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 5-Saturday, Dec. 6, and 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 7, at Plymouth-Salem High School, 46181 Joy Road, Canton. Tickets are $8 and available by calling (313) 455-4080.

Rehearsals for the 25th Christmas concert began the week after Labor Day. Members range in age from 21 to 70 and live in 26 metro Detroit communities.

"It's a fantastic chorus," said Steve Kovacheff, who joined the chorus six years ago. "It's really an eclectic mix, a lot of professional people - doctors, lawyers, engineers. The director goes out of his way to get fresh arrangements, and singers have to audition so we have excellent voices."

The chorus has appeared with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, at the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C., and at Tiger Stadium singing the National Anthem.

Whistle Stop Players

"Babes in Toyland," the Victor Herbert Musical, comes to the Plymouth Community Arts Council 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 5-Saturday, Dec. 6, and 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 6-Sunday, Dec. 7, at the Joanne Winkelman Hulce Center for the Arts, 774 North Sheldon at Junction, Plymouth. $5. (313) 416-4278.

Cynthia Zeitz directs two casts of 35 kids each, ranging in age from 5 to 15. Jennifer Tobin, former director and now the new arts council executive director, wears a different hat choreographing and coordinating the production.

"It's singing, dancing, acting, the march of toys," said Tobin. "They'll also see Santa who saves the day. It's very Mother Goose with Little Bo Peep and her Sheep. She's a modern Bo Peep with 14 kids and a single mom."

Janice Derian accompanies the production on piano. A community and family effort, mom Kathy Zaumseil coordinated other moms to costume all of the performers.

"There is all kinds of wonderful color and sparkle," said Tobin. "It's just stunning when all of the toys in the shop come to life - the tin soldiers, dogs and cats."

Livonia Civic Chorus

Plan on "Making Spirits Bright!" 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 21, at Clarenceville High School auditorium in Livonia. And for an added treat, admission is free.

Guest artists are the Tinderbox Show Choir, a chorus of children from the Livonia and Redford area directed by Ray Schmidt. Christine Gach accompanies the singers.

"It's standard holiday fare - Christmas, Hanukkah and seasonal songs," said chorus director Jim Whitten of Farmington Hills. "We like to have a

Handel's 'Messiah' a triumph of the soul

BY FRANK PROVENZANO

Even with the spreading superstitions about imminent Armageddon, and what lies beyond the edge of the millennium, it's not an easy task to persuade audiences to come see the messiah.

In a busy shopping season, time and place are paramount concerns.

So naturally, in the age of instant replay and digital recordings, there'll be more than one playing of the Second Coming from now until the end of the year.

In a diverse range of performances and venues, several local choirs will conduct George Friedrich Handel's "Messiah," considered by many as much of an annual rite of the holiday season as a Christmas tree, crowded malls and mistletoe.

Unlike many operas or other oratorios sung in a foreign language, and dealing with obscure mythic tales, the power of the "Messiah" comes from being immediately accessible, said Dave Wagner, program director at WQRS-FM, prior to the station's recent format change from classical to hard rock.

"It's sung in English, and it's based on a story that most people know quite well," he said. "There are few more powerful texts than the Bible, and there's few other as inspiring works as Handel's."

Unfortunately, the sudden format change at WQRS has left many choirs without an effective means to advertise their holiday concerts.

The Detroit Concert Choir with 110 members from southeastern Michigan, for instance, estimates that more than one-third of its audience could be tracked to promotional spots that aired on the station.

Meanwhile, the Detroit Oratorio Society of Rochester Hills has been forced to re-evaluate how it stays in touch with prospective ticket buyers.

"We're heart-broken about WQRS," said Jeanne Bourget of Bloomfield Hills, a DOS board member. "A crucial part of sustaining ourselves was based on finding patrons through the station's listeners."

Ironically, DOS has lost its main advertising medium at a time when audiences for its rendition of the "Messiah" have been growing, said

Sugar plums dance in artistic director Dawn Greene's eyes as she talks about the Plymouth Canton Ballet Company's production of the "Nutcracker." It's turned into a real family affair.

Greene's 12-year-old granddaughter Hilari Smith of Canton performs Clara in three performances with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra. Daughter June Smith serves as ballet mistress, rehearsing the troupe. Greene's younger daughter Dawnell Dryja, a member of the Cincinnati Ballet plays the Sugar Plum Fairy. Dryja's husband Mark Nash, also a member of the Cincinnati Ballet, dances the role of Cavalier.

"I'm excited about having my granddaughter and daughter in the lead roles," said Greene. "Hilari's been working up to do this for so long. She danced her first Nutcracker as a mouse at age three."

Last September, 100 dancers auditioned for 50 parts. The company held a separate audition for the 12 mice roles for which three times as many dancers turned out. "It was so hard to tell them they couldn't be mice," said June Smith.

Added Greene, "some of them were too small to fit into the costume."

'Mummy' needs help at the DIA

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

While most people are looking forward to the holidays, the Detroit Institute of Arts Volunteer Services is hoping to keep its galleries open by asking people to give a few hours of their time.

The mummies, in particular, would appreciate it since they are the stars of the "Splendors of Ancient Egypt" exhibit, which is drawing record crowds.

This exhibit features more than 200 masterpieces from the Roemer-Pelizaeus Museum in Hildesheim, Germany. Mummy cases, jewelry, statues, wall relief and ceramics, from the predynastic period to seventh century A.D., create a panoramic view of the pharaohs, technical achievements, political unrest, and fascination with afterlife.

"We are desperate for volunteers on Dec. 24, 27 and 29, 30 and 31, and Jan. 2 and 4," said Eileen Kozloff of Farmington Hills.

Since the July 16 opening, Kozloff has scheduled 2,200 volunteers who greet visitors. Some volunteers have come back as many as five times so that others may enjoy the "Splendors of Ancient Egypt."

Volunteering for the exhibition promises to be enriching in more ways than one. Where else could you experience up close the largest collection of ancient Egyptian treasures to visit the United States in decades?

"It's a wonderful, rewarding experience because of the education they receive," said Kozloff, a volunteer since 1950 for organizations such as the Alzheimer's Association and the Detroit Opera House. "I cannot express enough the pleasure of working in this beauty from thousands of years ago and knowing that future generations will be able to appreciate this, and that's the point of my helping."

I'm giving back. I feel God sends us angels to help us through hard times, and I want to be an angel for others." Kozloff tells prospective volunteers they should wear sensible shoes because shifts range from 3-1/2 to 4-1/2 hours. All shifts include a 30 minute orientation and training session. In return for their help, volunteers will receive a two for tra, under the direction of Russell Reed, and the Plymouth Canton Ballet Company come together to tell Peter Illyich Tchaikovsky's classic story of "The Nutcracker" 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Dec. 12-13, and 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 14, at the Plymouth Salem High School Auditorium, 46181 Joy Road at Canton Center Road in Canton.

Tickets are $15 adults and senior citizens, $8 for children K-12, and available by calling the symphony office at (313) 451-2112.

A Sugar Plum Fairy Tea, where children will have a tea party with the Sugar Plum Fairy, the King and other performers, will be held after the Saturday, Dec. 13, and Sunday, Dec. 14, concerts. Tickets are $5 in advance, $6 at the door.

Livonia Civic Ballet Company
The official ballet of the city of Livonia, presents "The Nutcracker Ballet" 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 13, and 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 14, at Clarenceville High School auditorium, 20155 Middlebelt Road, Livonia.

Tickets are $12 adults, $9 seniors/students, $6 children ages 5-9, $6 each for groups of 12 persons or more. (313) 427-9103/(248) 477-0520.

"We're excited because we received a $500 grant from the Livonia Arts Commission bought new props and a few new costumes for this year's production," said Jean Newell, Livonia Civic Ballet artistic director. "We have a new Mother Ginger dress that's worn by the father of one of the dancers. He's on stilts and the children dance out from underneath the skirt."

Jill Rees' daughter Amanda dances with the company for the first time. The 7-year-old is in the first scene as a child and later in the production as a mouse.

"It's very exciting for her to be a part of the Nutcracker," said Jill Rees. "What's nice is the kids start out in smaller parts then grow into roles like Clara."

Newell founded the company more than 30 years ago to provide performing opportunities for dancers like Amanda Rees.

"We want to give the young people the chance to perform, to rehearse and rehearse and find out what it's like to be a professional dancer," said Newell.

Livonia Symphony Orchestra

This year's holiday concert marks the return of the Nutcracker Ballet 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 6, at Churchill High School Auditorium, 8900 Newburgh north of Joy, Livonia. All tickets are $12.50 and available by calling (313) 421-1111/(248) 645-6666.

Conductor Volodymyr Scheisnik will perform the work utilizing the full orchestra of 65 members and the Dearborn Ballet Theatre, under the direction of Loni Lane, for the first time in two years. Guest artists from the National Ballet of Canada are Rebecca Rimsay as the Sugar Plum Fairy and Johann Perrson as the Cavalier. Don Mazzola and Stephen Hadala of Dance Detroit will play the parts of Herr Drosselmeyer and the Snow King. Elizabeth Riga of the University of Michigan performs as the Snow Queen. The Churchill High School Choir provides the background sure to make this traditional holiday ballet a truly enchanting program.

"We're really excited about the performance," said Robert Bennett, board president. "Target Stores donated $6,000 towards the $15,000 it will take to produce this year's Nutcracker."

Detroit Symphony Orchestra

With principal dancers Evelyn Cisneros and Anthony Randazzo from the San Francisco Ballet, and Kimberly Glasco and Aleksandar Antonijevic from the National Ballet of Canada, and members of Jacob Lasco's Dance Detroit perform "The Nutcracker" ballet, 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 12, 1 p.m., 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 13, 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 14, 1 p.m. and 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 19, 1 p.m., 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 20, and 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 21, at the Detroit Opera House, 1526 Broadway, Detroit. Tickets are $14-$53 adults, $10-$24 children and seniors, and available by calling (313) 833-3700.

For a second year, Hillary Bracht is excited about taking the stage as one of the acrobats in the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's "Nutcracker." A student at Bird Elementary in Plymouth, Bracht stands on her hands for 16 seconds during each of 10 performances. In addition to competing as a level five gymnast, Bracht studies ballet at Canton Dance and Performing Arts.

"It was kind of scary last year because I was only 7 years old and was the first one out on the stage," said Bracht, a student at All Star Gymnastics in Northville.

This is the second year, Laura Hamilton, a level five gymnast, will do cartwheels and flips alongside Bracht. The 10-year-old is a student at Farrand Elementary in Plymouth Township. "I'm very excited," said Hamilton. "Usually on opening night I'm a little nervous but after that I'm OK."

Bourget. Apparently, providing musical salvation didn't translate into higher ratings.

Spreading the word
For more than two centuries, professional and community choirs - with as few as two dozen and as many as thousands of singers - have performed the "Messiah" in cathedrals, churches and auditoriums.

But few other choirs have performed the ethereal masterpiece for as many consecutive years as the University Musical Society Choral Union of Ann Arbor.

This weekend's performance at Hill Auditorium will be the 119th consecutive year for the 175-member choir. And based on recent ticket sales, audiences aren't tiring of the annual concert.

Last year, 40 percent of the audience for the "Messiah" were first-time attendees, according to UMS spokesperson Sara Billmann. Nearly three-quarters of the tickets for the two upcoming concerts have been sold at the 6,000-seat auditorium.

One member of the choir has been singing the "Messiah" for the last 50 years, said Billmann. In February, UMS will also perform another oratorio classic, Mendelssohn's "Elijah."

Often overlooked by most contemporary choirs is that the original "Messiah" composition was written in a baroque pitch, a half-step down from modern performances.

To capture the original sound, a 24-member DOS choir will perform the "Messiah" accompanied by Apollo's Fire from Cleveland, a 20-member baroque orchestra using period instruments, including harpsichord, contra bass and elongated trumpets without valves. The string instruments are played with shorter bows and have a softer resonance.

In contrast to the heavy modern orchestral sound, the DOS presents a scaled-down version without the resounding chorale waves and vibrato.

"It's more of an intimate experience," said Christine Bonner, DOS executive director and co-founder.

"The 'Messiah' has so many different styles within it," she said. "We're one of the few choirs to perform the entire piece in the original way it was written."

But there are mainstream audiences who might not have the patience to sit through two-and-a-half hours of Handel's most famous oratorio.

To offer its audiences a range of holiday classics, the Detroit Concert Choir will perform several pieces from the "Messiah" along with seasonal music in their upcoming December concerts.

lot of fun with our audiences. The music is light-hearted and fun. Santa Claus has been known to drop by and there'll be an audience sing-a-long."

Celebrate the holy season with a Christmas Chorale Concert 7 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 7, in the Felician Sisters' Motherhouse Chapel at Madonna University, I-96 and Levan Road, Livonia.

The Madonna Chorale, which consists of Madonna University students and local community members, will be conducted by Kim L. Renas, adjunct assistant professor at the university.

Admission is by donation to the music scholarship fund. For information, call the music department at (313) 432-5713.

The concert will include a "Ceremony of Carols" by Benjamin Britten, accompanied by harp, and "The Infant Savior" by Dietrich Buxtehude performed with strings and organ. The program will also include traditional Christmas carols with some audience sing-a-longs.

Now in its 33rd season, the 50-member choir, under the direction of Donald Stromberg, is presenting two holiday concerts in December.

4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 7, at First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, 701 West Church at Main Street. Tickets are $4 and available at the door.

8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 13, at St. Matthew's United Methodist Church of Livonia, 30900 Six Mile Road between Merriman and Middlebelt. Donations will be accepted during intermission.

"Alleluia Rejoice!" spotlights the "Christmas Cantata" by Daniel Pinkham, and a variety of seasonal compositions by Brahms, Rutter and Britten. The audience is encouraged to participate in the Christmas carol sing-a-long during intermission.

For more information, call choir president Shari Clason at (248) 349-8175 or Schoolcraft College's liberal arts department at (313) 462-4435.

Three of the four levels of orchestra, present a selection of music from Mozart to Bizet plus a few holiday tunes 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 7 at Churchill High School auditorium, 8900 Newburgh, (north of Joy Road) in Livonia.

Tickets are $6 adults, $3 for seniors and children through eighth grade, and available at the door. For more information, call Theresa Cavanaugh at (313) 421-5824. Tickets will also be available during the orchestra's rehearsal 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, Dec. 6 at Churchill.

SPECIAL WRITER

With all of the new age theatrical musicals such as "Rent," "The Life," and "Bring in da Noise, Bring in da Funk," classics, such as, "West Side Story," "Hello, Dolly!" and "Guys and Dolls," still remain in the hearts of many longtime theatergoers. Eastern Michigan Theatre is presenting one of these classics — "Guys and Dolls."

This musical fairy-tale deals with the love acquired between Sky Masterson and Sarah Brown. What is the problem you ask? Well, Sky is the sinner of all sinners, a gambler. Sarah however, is the Virgin Mary reincarnate, a mission's sergeant and inspired to rid all of Broadway of its devilish attitudes. They do not meet until a bet is set by Nathan Detroit for Sky to win over the heart of Miss Sarah.

Mister Detroit has his own problems though. Not only does he need Sky to lose this bet so he may conduct his crap game, but hide these illegal activities from the law and his fiancée of 14 years Miss Adelaide.

Adelaide and Detroit are not quite the star crossed lovers that Sky and Sarah are but more in it for the longevity. Poor Adelaide suffers with her constantly breaking heart in such a way that she has become "sick" over it.

In many ways this production of the musical theater phenomenon is different than any other. In a well directed way, it is sexy and less cartoony. Sadly though, it is also less funny. This however, is not a reflection of the directing, but obviously a misinterpretation by the actors.

Not all is lost though. The four leads obviously are on a different professional level than the rest of the company. They plainly seem natural whereas many of the other characters have created a contradicting way of portraying themselves or are just too stiff on stage.

Michael Jaworski, despite his less than perfect singing, has incredible comedic timing as Nathan Detroit. Erik Schark, working through his feminine hand movements, makes for a very realistic Sky and developed the perfect characterization for this particular production.

Tricia Smith, as the pure and naive Sarah Brown, was utterly wonderful in every way — a beautiful soothing voice matched with a beautiful and soothing face and a character that seemed part of herself.

Careful not to totally steal the show from her counterparts is Laura Dysarczyk as Miss Adelaide. She portrays Adelaide as a stronger character than most productions let on but none the less she is what the audience is hoping to see following every blackout. A strong voice and immense stage presence make this Adelaide one Nathan should succumb to quickly.

The music of course is timeless but one thing Frank Loesser was careful to do was to put the show's best number in the latter portion of the second act. As in most musicals that showstopper comes either at the end of the first act or in the beginning of the second. Not true for "Guys and Dolls." The biggest crowd pleaser falls well into the two and one-half hour mark and is beautifully put together by director Pirooz Aghsa and choreographer Kerry Graves. Just when the theater patrons think the show is coming to an end, "Marry the Man Today" takes off as the high point of the evening. A duet by the two dolls Sarah and Adelaide is no more than a cute and fun song about the girls solving their romantic problems in interesting ways. This is the one moment in the show where the audience's grin got perpetually bigger and bigger as the song went on.

One other interesting concept is the more realistic costumes for the period. If any guys are looking for some dolls to brighten up their holidays, make a trip to Quirk Theatre and let Sarah and Adelaide entertain you.

Classic:

ART BEAT

Art Beat features various happenings in the suburban art world. Send news leads to Linda Ann Chomin, Arts & Leisure reporter, Observer Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150, or fax them to (313) 591-7279.

FIRE UP YOUR HOLIDAY SPIRIT

The Friends of Nankin Mills are inviting everyone to their ninth annual Christmas Tree Lighting 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 3, at the historic Nankin Mills, 33175 Ann Arbor Trail, east of Edward Hines Drive in Westland. The event is free. Call Wayne County Parks Naturalist Carol Clements (313) 261-1850 or Pat White at (313) 261-0874 for more information.

The Friends will gather outside the mill to sing Christmas carols, light the mill for the holidays, and welcome Santa. The new naturalist for Wayne County Parks will be there as well. Nankin Mills Christmas cards and note cards will be available for a donation of $5 per package.

There is free parking behind the mill. Take Hines Drive south from Ann Arbor Trail. Those attending will be permitted to drive past the barricades as Hines Drive is closed to through traffic due to the Festival of Lights.

SPECIAL SHOW

Rivers Edge Gallery owners Jim and Patt Slack are hosting a one-day portfolio showing of Edna Hibel's work 5-7 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 4, 44934 Ford Road, between Canton Center and Sheldon roads in Canton. A representative of Hibel's will bring 2-300 stone lithographs to the gallery. For information, call the gallery at (313) 254-9880.

Born in Boston in 1917, Hibel has been painting for more than 65 years. In 1939, she was awarded the Ruth B. Sturtevant Traveling Fellowship for study and painting in Mexico from the Boston Museum School of Fine Arts. Afterwards, she returned to the Boston Museum School to study the Renaissance masters.

Hibel has displayed work in exhibitions at major museums and galleries in 20 countries on four continents. Her awards include a Medal of Honor and Citation from Pope John Paul II and the Presidential Award from the John F. Kennedy Foundation's Very Special Arts in Washington, D.C.

GIFT IDEAS

Clay art is one-of-a-kind gift for that special someone. From tiles to vases and ornaments, the Village Potters Guild offers a variety of ceramics which are pit-fired, raku, porcelain and stoneware at its second annual show Thursday to Saturday, Dec. 4-6, at 340 North Main, Building G-4 in Plymouth. Call (313) 207-8807.

Hours are 6-9 p.m. Thursday Dec. 4, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 5, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 6. Harpist Diane Kimball will perform noon to 2 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 6.

Prices range from $4 for jewelry to $100 for a bird bath.

EGYPTIAN TOMBS LECTURE

In 1995, Dr. Kent Weeks discovered the largest tomb ever found in Egypt, the burial place of many of the 50 sons of the pharaoh Ramesses II. Weeks will discuss his recent work in the tomb, designated KV5, and his other work at Thebes in "Recent Discoveries in the Valley of Kings: Theban Mapping Project and KV5" 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4 in the theater at the Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward Avenue.

Weeks, a professor of Egyptology at the American University in Cairo, is director of the Theban Mapping Project.

JAZZ CONCERT

European jazz piano masters Burton Green and Fred Van Hove perform 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 5, in Room F-113 of the Mackenzie Fine Arts Center at Henry Ford Community College, 5101 Evergreen, Dearborn.

Tickets are $10 and available by calling (313) 845-9676.

OPENING RECEPTION

The public is invited to a reception for the 84th Annual Gold Medal Exhibition 5-9 p.m. Dec. 6 (Noel Night) at the Scarab Club, 217 Farnsworth, behind the Detroit Institute of Arts. Norman Brow, owner of the Ashley-Chris Gallery in Grosse Pointe, juried the club members' all media show featuring painting, photography, drawing and sculpture.

Start your holiday shopping at the club. The annual Holiday Sales Show of art works selected and priced for gift giving continues through Jan. 4 as does the Gold Medal show. Hours are noon to 5 p.m. Wednesday to Sunday. Call (313) 831-1250.

CLARA MEETS HER PRINCE

"On Stage," a division of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's education committee, presents renowned storyteller Ruth Burr, telling Tchaikovsky's tale of the "Nutcracker," "Clara Meets Her Prince" 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 12, in the Hard Rock Cafe at Plymouth Salem High School.

Tickets for the "On Stage" presentation are $2, and available by calling the Plymouth Symphony office at (313) 451-2112.

one voucher to purchase timed-tickets to see the exhibition.

"We'd like to have 10 volunteers each shift or a total of 20 a day," said auxiliary coordinator Karen Carey of Milford. "Week-day afternoon volunteers are desperately needed, but we're facing a critical need during the holiday week from Dec. 26 to Jan. 4 including New Year's Eve day. If they love to be around people we'd love to have them volunteer. We call them our DIA ambassadors. They don't need to know about art. They just need to be a smiling presence and help in the galleries."

Kozloff suggests volunteering as a couple as she and husband, Sol, did. They began volunteering at the museum six years ago. "It's nice because we spend time together and we have something we like to share," said Kozloff.

This was the first time Martin and Geraldine Free volunteered at the museum although they frequently donate their time at the Detroit Opera House and Fox Theatre.

"It's an enjoyable experience," said Martin Free, a Westland resident. "We usually volunteer as a couple. We enjoy working together. We volunteered for the Egyptian exhibit because you get a sense of being a part of things, and if you're interested, you have the opportunity at the museum to be involved on a deeper level."

This was also Carol and Harve Massey's first time volunteering at the museum. A Plymouth resident, Carol Massey thought it would be fun.

"We got to spend the day together and have lunch together er plus we got to see the exhibit," said Carol Massey.

EXPLORE ANCIENT EGYPTIAN TOMBS WITHOUT ALL THOSE UNPLEASANT CURSES.

Nothing ruins the majesty of an ancient Egyptian tomb faster than an annoying death curse left behind by some vengeful pharaoh. Fortunately, that's about the only bit of ancient Egypt you won't experience firsthand at the Splendors of Ancient Egypt exhibit. As the sole Midwest site for this collection, the Detroit Institute of Arts is the only place you'll be able to discover ancient Egyptian artifacts that span over 1,300 years. Including many wall carvings, mummy cases, jewelry and statues. So don't miss this once-in-a-lifetime exhibit. Otherwise, you'll be the one doing the cursing. The Detroit Institute of Arts is located at 5200 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48202. For ticket information, call the DIA at (313) 833-1000. Or Ticketmaster at 248-645-6666. Hours: Wednesdays through Fridays 11 am to 4 pm, weekends 11 am to 3 pm. The museum is closed Mondays and Tuesdays.

Grand Rapids museums celebrate history, art

STAFF WRITER

The streets of downtown Grand Rapids were being excavated and traffic patterns were a bit turned around in Michigan's second city. But the city, and especially Pearl Street, AKA Museum Row, have been celebrating a yearlong Grand Renaissance.

The emphasis on renewal and things Italian has been in anticipation of the Grand Rapids Art Museum's exhibition of works by Italian Renaissance painter Perugino, which opened Nov. 16 and runs through Feb. 1.

Perugino was a colleague of Michelangelo, Leonardo and Botticelli and the teacher of Raphael. This is the first exhibit of his work internationally in 50 years. To commemorate the occasion, Grand Rapids' other museums and art organizations are providing support. The Gerald R. Ford Presidential Museum will exhibit a collection of Italian gifts presented to America's presidents; the Kendall College of Art and Design is holding conferences on Italian art; and the Grand Rapids Community College is holding a Renaissance Musical Feast Dec. 11 and 12. Other events have been held throughout the past year.

But Grand Rapids was already a city with interesting museums celebrating its own history and its place in the history of the country.

This past spring, the Ford Museum introduced a new interactive presentation that gives viewers a richer understanding of the presidency in general and Gerald Ford's career in particular.

The Ford Museum is an informative walk through history. Of course, the museum offers a positive view of Michigan's president, but not without some historical perspective and a nod to other points of view. That essential fairness makes the museum worthwhile even for those who don't share President Ford's moderate conservative views.

The museum begins with a flashback to the '70s, a decade that almost screamed bad taste. This opening, also, shows the carry over from the turbulent, historically decisive '60s, to which the '70s was a reaction.

The museum then moves in to the heart of the matter with a multi-media exhibit on the Watergate scandal that, ultimately, brought Gerald Ford to power.

The burglar tools used to break into the Democratic Party headquarters are displayed under pictures of burglars Liddy and Hunt. The sounds of the unfolding investigations and the hearings and television film bring it all back.

Then we step back into time. Paint barrels and rough granite walls lead us into the life story of Gerald Ford. Ford's stepfather, whose name he took, owned a Grand Rapids paint and varnish company. The exhibit presents Ford as something of a Midwest ideal — blond, handsome, a football hero in high school and All Big-Ten at the University of Michigan, lawyer, naval officer during World War II and congressman.

It was in Congress that Ford made his mark. He was conservative on fiscal matters but an internationalist in foreign affairs and a moderate on social issues. He challenged the isolationist leadership of his own party and rose to become a highly respected minority leader who understood the fine art of compromise.

It was these qualities and the near universal personal admiration of others that led the troubled Richard Nixon to appoint Ford vice president in the wake of Spiro Agnew's personal scandal.

This "wonderful life" walk through is never sappy and often quite informative.

The new museum presentation uses state-of-the-art exhibiting to give a detailed look at being president. The oval office is recreated just as it was in Ford's time and an eerie, sound-only presentation takes us through a day with the president (using actors' voices, of course, since Ford learned the hazards of taping). A room devoted to diplomacy has a real Huey helicopter and a room size interactive film presentation that lets visitors join Ford and Henry Kissinger on their shuttle diplomacy. A hologram presentation of the White House lets visitors take their own personal tours, right up the President's bedroom. Another presentation takes visitors right into the Republican convention where Ford faced a challenge from Ronald Reagan.

Presidential artifacts, thoughtful considerations of controversies in Ford's administration (the pardon and his WIN economic policies) and a respectful exhibit on First Lady Betty Ford and her work before and after leaving the White House are all nicely presented.

Across the street at the Van Andel Museum Center, Grand Rapids history is celebrated. Here is an excellent recreation of a Grand Rapids street of the 1890s, a planetarium honoring local astronaut Roger B. Chaffee with changing programs, a presentation on the native Anishinabek tribes of western Michigan, a classic carousel and, the center piece, a multi-media presentation on "Furniture City," Grand Rapids' once and future claim to fame. The Furniture City exhibit has presentations on how furniture was and is made, shows outstanding examples of the work, traces the history of the industry and its marketing and shows the movement toward being an office furniture center.

The Grand Rapids Art Museum Perugino exhibit features nine works loaned from the Galleria Nazionale dell' Umbria in Perugia, Italy, which have never been seen outside of Italy. It also includes Perugino works from the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the National Gallery of Art, the Art Institute of Chicago and the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Admission: $3 adults, $1.50 seniors and children 5 and older, free for children under 5.

Perugino (real name Pietro Vannucci) was an important master painter, highly regarded in his early career, but he began to lose favor in his own life time and has never been as well known as other Renaissance painters. This exhibit and the accompanying lecture presentations put Perugino's work into perspective and allow visitors a chance to explore the impact of Italian art in general.

The exhibit has already had an impact on Grand Rapids, leading a New York Times writer to proclaim in typically haughty style, "...it may be true that never has a more important show been held in a less important place."

PRNewswire - With many Michigan ski areas scheduled to open for the Thanksgiving holiday, skiers will want to get the new 1997-98 "Michigan Great Lakes Skiing" downhill and cross-country ski guide available now from Travel Michigan by calling toll-free 888-78-GREAT.

The 15-page ski brochure lists 42 downhill ski areas and 174 cross-country ski facilities throughout Michigan. Each listing offers useful information, such as the number and length of longest runs and/or trails; availability of rental equipment, instruction, lodging and dining, and other facility amenities. The free brochure also provides details about the 1998 "Discover Michigan Skiing" program and contains a discount coupon for a 2 for 1 midweek lift ticket or trail pass at participating ski areas — worth up to $33!

Snowmobilers will want to have a copy of the new "Michigan Snowmobile Trail System" map produced cooperatively by Travel Michigan and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, also available by calling toll-free 888-78-GREAT. Michigan's 5,700-mile groomed snowmobile trail system is featured on the free map, as are snowmobiling safety tips and a listing of additional sources for detailed snowmobile trail maps.

Travelers may also call toll-free 888-78-GREAT, to speak to travel counselors about planning their Michigan winter vacations and getaways, 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. (EST), Monday through Friday, and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, and to ask for a free copy of the "Michigan 1997-98 Winter Calendar of Events & Travel Guide."

For the latest snow conditions, call 800-MI4-SNOW. This line is updated weekly and provides callers with the latest snow conditions at downhill and cross-country ski resorts, snow depth on snowmobile trails, and information about ice conditions on Michigan lakes for ice anglers.

Travel Michigan's web site at <http://www.michigan.org>, also has information.

OBSERVER SPORTS SCENE

Madonna falls

Madonna University's men's basketball team continued its slow start Nov. 25 with a disappointing 72-46 loss to Oakland University on the road.

A non-conference matchup, the Crusaders fell behind 42-29 at halftime and couldn't mount a second half rally. John-Mark Branch led Madonna with 15 points while Mark Hayes added 11.

Plymouth Whalers

In an effort bolster their defense, the Plymouth Whalers of the Ontario Hockey League resigned defenseman Sergei Fedotov.

A 1995 second-round draft pick of the Carolina Hurricanes, Fedotov rejoins Plymouth after playing five games for the New Haven Beast of the American Hockey League. The 20-year-old, 6-foot 1-inch, 190-pound native of Moscow, Russia, recorded 10 goals and 27 assists for the Whalers last season.

In other Whalers' news, two Plymouth players have been named to the United States national junior team. Forward Jesse Boulerice and goalkeeper Robert Esche return to the squad, which claimed the silver medal in last year's International Ice Hockey Federation Junior Championship.

This year's tournament will be held Dec. 25-Jan. 3 in Helsinki and Hameenlinna, Finland. In all, 16 National Hockey League draft picks will play for the American team.

Junior Basketball

The Bulls continue to lead the girls' A League in the Plymouth Canton Junior Basketball Association. The Bulls (4-1) remain on top with an eight-point victory over the Magic, which fell into a second place tie with the Pistons and Lakers at 3-2.

In the boys' A League, the Bulls (7-0) lead the National Division. They're a game ahead of the Pacers and four up on the Celtics and Hawks. In the American Division, the Nets lead with a 7-0 record while the Rockets are in second at 6-1.

Soccer

The University of Michigan club soccer team has qualified of the NCAA national championship tournament. Led by Plymouth Canton graduate Jeff Cohen and Plymouth Salem graduate Matt Sarkesian, the Wolverines recently won the Round Robin Games in Phoenix to clinch the bid.

College Notes

Plymouth Salem graduate and current Siena Heights hoopster Dan McKian recently made the all-tournament team for the 15th annual National Catholic Basketball Tournament. Siena Heights took the championship by beating St. Norbert 84-75. McKian is a junior forward with the squad.

Used sports stuff

Canton's Parks and Recreation Services will sponsor its annual used sports equipment sale from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 6 at the Pheasant-Run Golf Club's clubhouse.

The public is invited to sell their sports or recreational equipment at prices they set (minus 15 percent which goes to the Parks and Recreation department). Items can be dropped off 6-9 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 4 at Pheasant Run; volunteers will be on hand to do the selling the following Saturday.

Money or unsold items can be picked up from 1-2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 6.

Anyone interested in submitting items to Sports Scene or Sports Roundup may send them to sports editor C.J. Risak, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI, 48150, or may FAX them to (313) 591-7279.

Something was going to give. A test of wills? This was more like a war, and for 3½ quarters, Plymouth Canton's girls basketball team was winning it. Birmingham Marian, the defending Class A state champions, had been unable to get its high-pressure, fast-tempo game into gear.

The result: a low-scoring game with plenty of fouls, a game in which a six-point lead seemed insurmountable.

And that's just what the Chiefs had with under three minutes left to play in a game in which their slow, deliberate style was prevailing.

But it was then, in those final three minutes, that the Mustangs showed their mettle, refusing to surrender their championship banner, battling back with a 16-4 run in the final 2:40 to post a 42-36 triumph Wednesday in a regional final at Plymouth Salem.

Marian, now 20-4, advances to the state quarterfinals at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Waterford Mott. Canton ends its season at 19-5.

When Janell Twietmeyer's two free throws put Canton in front 32-26 with 2:55 left, Marian coach Mary Lillie-Cicerone had a sinking feeling. "I thought, if we don't score this time down, it's over," she recalled.

Cicerone had taken steps to get her team on track offensively. The Mustangs had been unable to get much of anything to drop early on — they were a miserable 2-of-14 from the floor in the first quarter (14.3 percent) — due largely to Canton's "tremendous, in-your-shorts defense" as described by the Marian coach.

So Cicerone called over the team's captain, point guard Breean Walas. "I told Breean she was going to have to take over this game. And she did."

Indeed she did. Fifteen seconds after Twietmeyer's free throws, Walas hit a short jumper. What followed after that was something Canton had dealt with the entire game.

The difference was, the Chiefs couldn't cope with it down the stretch — Marian's trademark pressure defense.

"The bottom line is, we just didn't handle their pressure very well (at the end)," said Canton coach Bob Blohm. "The rest of the game we did, except for a three-minute time span in the fourth quarter."

The Chiefs committed 11 turnovers in the first 3½ quarters; in the game's last three minutes, they had seven — four of them in their own backcourt.

An offensive foul by Melissa Marzolf led to another Walas basket with 2:25 left, and when Kristin Lukasik was pressured into a third-consecutive turnover, Markeisha Thompson followed with a free throw to pull Marian within a point, 32-31, with 2:04 to go.

Marzolf stopped the Mustang run briefly with two free throws, but Kellie Byers drained a three-pointer on Marian's next possession and the game was tied at 34 with 1:49 left.

The Chiefs could never regain the momentum. Four more turnovers fueled Marian's fire; the Mustangs scored six-straight points before Marzolf got a basket — Canton's only field goal of the fourth quarter — with 12 seconds left.

Walas finished with a game-high 15 points, eight in the fourth period. Byers scored 10, seven coming in the fourth. The Chiefs got 10 from Marzolf and eight from Nkechi Okwumabua, all scored at the free-throw line.

"We just got a fire under our heinies," said Cicerone. "We stepped up our defense and said we were not going to lose this game."

Blohm had to agree. "Rehash it all you want, but they made some plays," the Canton coach summarized. "We did what we wanted. I thought if we could keep the game around 40 (points), we had a chance.

"And we made some plays, too." That the Chiefs did. They led 7-4 after one quarter and 16-15 at the half, despite making just 4-of-17 of their first-half floor shots (23.5 percent).

Fouls were mounting, particularly against Marian; early in the fourth quarter, the Mustangs — who trailed 26-22 after three periods — had two starters with four fouls and another with three.

It all added up to Canton's kind of game. The Chiefs were 17-of-23 from the line (73.9 percent); Marian was accurate as well, converting 9-of-11

"I thought we'd be gassed," said Cicerone. "We played defense 80 percent of the game."

In the end, shooting was the difference: Marian was 15-of-41 from the floor (36.6 percent) to Canton's 9-of-36 (25 percent). But the Mustangs made 6-of-9 (67 percent) in the fourth quarter.

"I couldn't be prouder of this team," Blohm said. "They always give a championship effort."

And so did Marian.

Harrison claims eighth grid title 21-6 over Dow

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

It seems a fitting coincidence Farmington Harrison senior quarterback Jared Hopkins wears the same No. 7 on his football jersey as does John Elway of the Denver Broncos.

Just as Elway is noted for orchestrating long scoring drives, Hopkins did the same Friday as the Hawks captured the Class A championship with a 21-6 victory over Midland Dow at the Silverdome.

It was the eighth state title overall for Harrison, which has won four in this decade and three of the last five in Class A.

A 99-yard drive in the second quarter, during which Hopkins completed all four pass attempts, gave Harrison a 14-0 halftime lead and an advantage the Chargers couldn't overcome.

"That was the turning point of the whole game," Dow coach Frank Altimore said. "If we stop them there, we have a chance to come back. But they turn around and mix the pass with the run beautifully."

It wasn't his best game as a passer, nor an easy day for Hopkins, who was pressured early by Dow's defensive ends and was sacked twice in the game.

Hopkins was 6-of-13 passing for a modest 67 net yards, but he threw for 68 yards on that drive, including a 26-yarder to junior wideout Ricky Bryant for the touchdown.

"When we saw how their ends were playing, we went to a quicky passing game," Hopkins said. "We could get off the ball quicker and let guys like Ricky create.

"That made us feel like we were in control of the game. We knew our hearts were in this, and nothing was going to stop us."

Bryant, who had four catches for 56 yards, caught the ball in the right flat. He dodged one tackler and tightroped the sideline to the end zone with 6:10 remaining in the half.

"It was a quick screen," Hopkins said. "I didn't think it would be a touchdown, but that's what I get for doubting Ricky's talent."

Holding a two-TD lead, the Hawks (13-0) looked to be in good shape. Harrison's defense played well all afternoon, containing Dow's run-oriented offense, and the Chargers (11-2) didn't have the passing attack to mount a comeback.

"For the first time, somebody stopped our offense and put us in a situation where we were down 14," Altimore said. "It was very uncomfortable having to pass when we haven't been forced to do it all year."

Dow quarterback Mike Johnson was 3-of-9 passing for just 32 yards. The rushing stats were virtually even, but the Chargers were never inside the Harrison 15 except for scoring their only touchdown late in the game.

"They had more heart the whole game," Johnson said. "They were ready for us and everything we threw at them. We just got outplayed."

Tailback Matt Samocki rushed for a game-high but rather-quiet 130 yards on 28 carries and scored Dow's only touchdown at 5:47 in the fourth quarter.

"(Coach Bob) Sutter's defense did an outstanding job and held them," Herrington said. "Defense was the key to the game, and we did just enough on offense to get ahead."

The Hawks sandwiched a pair of short touchdown drives around the 99-yarder by taking advantage of Dow turnovers in the process.

Dow's first possession stalled at its own 48. The ball rolled through the legs of punter Phil Brabbs, and Harrison senior tackle Mike Fisher recovered at the Dow 26.

After being three-and-out on its first possession due to the pressure coming from the outside, Harrison ran the ball up the middle seven straight plays with senior tailback Chris Ghannam scoring from the 2.

"All my assistants said 'Run the ball,' so I figured I'd better," Herrington said. "Dow's ends were tough to stop, so we weren't able to throw the ball like we wanted, but we were able to get some nice turnovers and capitalize on them."

The Hawks might've had a couple more scores before halftime except for a great play by Dow defensive end Doug Church and an unsportsmanlike penalty on Harrison.

Borgess rips Dominican in regional final 65-26

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Detroit Dominican senior forward Rayna Goodlow is a strong candidate to win the state's Miss Basketball award, but Redford Bishop Borgess senior center Ayisha Smith made a strong case for herself in Wednesday's Class C regional final between the two schools.

Smith made a pair of three-point shots and scored eight points in the first quarter of the Spartans' 65-26 victory.

That's all coach Dave Mann needed to see to secure his vote.

Smith added only two points the rest of the game as Mann was content to use her as a decoy with as many weapons as the Spartans have.

Goodlow, ranked the No. 1 player in the state according to one pre-season poll, finished with 14 points, including all nine of the Ravens' points in the second quarter.

"I think she's the best player in the state," Mann said of Smith. "She didn't need to prove it to me.

When they went man (man to man defense) I was quite happy to put Isha in the corner. I told her to stand there and the rest will play four on four. I felt we could win that game."

The win sends the Spartans, No. 1 ranked in Class C, to the state quarterfinal to face Sandusky at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Troy Athens.

The Spartans took control early, going on an 11-1 run to end the first quarter with a 15-8 lead. Smith sparked a 9-0 run during that spurt with a three-point shot from right of the key and a 15-foot jumper, both in the half-court set.

Smith is surprised people still let her shoot those.

"They say 'Oh she's a tall girl, she's not going to shoot that,'" Smith said. "Coach Mann gives me the green light. He gave me the green light last year."

If Smith isn't scoring from inside or out, senior point guard Christina Anderson is penetrating and scoring or dishing off, senior forward Koren Merchant is driving for baseline baskets (when she's not called for traveling) and junior forward Tiffany Simon is scoring points on the fast break.

Merchant led the Spartans with 21 points and seven rebounds, Simon contributed 12 points and Anderson 10.

The Spartans forced Dominican into 30 turnovers, including 11 in the fourth quarter when the Ravens went scoreless for the first 4:25.

Borgess outscored Dominican, 26-2 in the fourth quarter, which didn't leave as much of a bad taste in Ravens' coach Diane Jones' mouth as the way the Spartans played at times.

Jones wasn't happy when Mann chose to have his team stall in the half-court offense in order to get Dominican out of a zone defense.

"He does that passing around, stalling stuff and their athleticism is tough to stop in the open floor," she said. "It's not like they're executing, they're just taking advantage of their athleticism. Once they got it started, there's no stopping them."

Mann said it's tough to teach his players to enjoy the stall tactics as well.

"I don't want them to settle for jump shots because there is no one in rebounding position," Mann said. "Merchant and Simon are still settling, but they've gotten better. We want them to wait, wait, wait, then be aggressive."

The two teams each had 20 rebounds but the Spartans had their fair share of offensive caroms that led to second shots in the paint.

"We couldn't keep them off the boards, that was our biggest problem," Jones said.

Jacuzie Purifoy, a 5-10 sophomore forward, had the Ravens' first four points before finishing with six.

Point guard Latisha Martin, who makes the Ravens' offense go, made several turnovers and had only one point.

"We more or less worried about Tish and Rayna," Merchant said. "We had a plan from the start to lock Tish and Rayna up, and make the other three players decision makers. They don't want to be."

Detroit King dominates Ladywood

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Detroit King had Thanksgiving dinner a day early.

The Lady Crusaders, the Public School League champions, carved up Livonia Ladywood and left few leftovers Wednesday evening on the Southfield High table en route to a 66-28 victory.

It was coach William Winfield's 10th regional title in 13 years. He has guided King to three state titles and three runner-up finishes.

King, now 23-2 overall, advances to the Class A quarterfinals 7 p.m. Tuesday at Roseville.

Ladywood finished its season 12-12.

"It's rare you see a team with quickness and skill, but they're a combination of both," Ladywood second-year coach Andrea Gorski said of King.

Nine King players scored, led by 5-3 senior guard Shalondra Booker, who had a game-high 16 points.

Ovlin Lewis, a 6-foot sophomore center, and 5-8 junior forward Marnina Sullivan each added 14 points.

King simply just had too much speed, strength and depth for the Blazers.

"We like to play all of them because it makes for good spirit on the team and it makes for good practices when they all know they're going to play," said Winfield, who uses all 12 girls.

Winfield, who missed four minutes of the opening quarter, had to make an emergency stop at his nearby Southfield home to pick up a jersey for senior Alisa Holley.

His assistant, Curtis Green, capably manned the sidelines as the Lady Crusaders nailed three triples to gain a 17-10 first quarter lead.

"I told him to take over until I got back," Winfield said. "We've been together quite a long time. He likes the same thing I do — press and play defense."

Ladywood's 6-foot senior center Sarah Poglits, playing her

Poglits, who finished with a team-high 14, could get off one shot during the second quarter as King opened up a 36-15 half-time advantage.

"I thought we play a 2-3 zone (defense) to start to keep some of our people inside because I was worried about their inside game," Gorski said. "But they (King) shot well from the outside, so we went to a 3-2 to combat that, so we could matchup with their guards out-front. Then, they just killed us on the boards and we would have had a real problem matching up with them in a man-to-man."

King hit seven shots beyond the three-point arc.

"I knew they'd pack it in," Winfield said. "But we hit some shots early and it opened things up. We've shot the ball from the perimeter pretty well this year. And if teams are going to pack it in, then we're more than happy to shoot from outside."

The Lady Crusaders finished the night hitting 37.8 percent (25 of 66), but took 30 more shots than their counterpart from the Catholic League's Central Division.

"We like to run to run, but we're patient enough when the fast-break is not there to set it up," said Winfield, who last won a title in 1991.

Meanwhile, Ladywood was 10 of 36 from the floor (27.7 percent).

Rich is about to join the 3-2-1-SOLD! club.

Rich was up in the attic the other day and saw his old bowling gear. He'd like to sell it along with his wife's Vaughn Monroe record collection and a couple of other things, but doesn't want to spend a lot on an ad. Who does?

Our 3-2-1—SOLD! offer is just what you need when you have things to sell for under $200.

Here's how it works:

1. You get 3 lines to describe your item (remember, you have to be asking less than $200)
2. You get to run your ad for 2 days (one week)
3. You get 1 low price—just $19.26. That's only $3.21 per line!

You could say our 3-2-1 plan is as easy as 1-2-3!

Rich did.

Detroit Country Day aims for Class B basketball title

BY MARTY BUDNER
STAFF WRITER

Detroit Country Day girls basketball coach Frank Orlando does not have a senior on his team. Yet, the Yellow Jackets, ranked number one most of the season, are just three games away from their third state championship.

Youthful DCD (23-1) is one of eight teams remaining in the Class B state playoffs. The Yellow Jackets meet Dexter (23-1) in a quarterfinal game scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday at Carleton-Airport High School.

The winner of that game qualifies for the state semifinals scheduled for 2:50 p.m. Friday at Central Michigan University's Rose Arena. The Class B state title game is scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday at the same site.

"Dexter is obviously a good basketball team," said Country Day coach Frank Orlando. "But, I feel good for our kids that we're in this position. We have two players - Jennifer Thomas and Katie Blazewski - who were on our 95 state championship team.

"The rest of our players are pretty young," he said. "It's a neat experience for them and it's a thrill for us to be involved at this level of the state playoffs again."

If the Yellow Jackets play with as much determination and intensity that they showed in winning the regional championship earlier this week at St.

Clair Shores Lakeview High School, they have a good shot at earning another trip to the state championship game. Country Day earned a tough 50-47 victory over Madison Heights Bishop Foley for its second regional title in the past three years.

In a game where the lead was no larger than five points and featured 10 lead changes, DCD did not have a lock on the game until the buzzer sounded.

Country Day took a 38-27 lead into the final quarter.

The Yellow Jackets surged to a 44-39 lead with just under five minutes to play. The Ventures then scored the next seven points to take a 46-44 lead.

Katherine Hanks then hit a pair of short jumpers in the paint to give DCD a 48-46 lead. After Foley's Kathie Green hit one of two free throws to pull her team within a point, 48-47, with eight seconds remaining, Hanks calmly sank two free throws in a one-and-one situation to ice the victory.

Foley attempted a last second three-point shot that, for DCD's sake, harmlessly banged off the backboard.

Hanks, a junior forward, proved to be the difference as she registered 10 of her team's 12 fourth-quarter points. The other two points were awarded to All-Star center Jennifer Thomas. Hanks (18) and Thomas (25) combined to score 43 of DCD's 50 points.

Cheering champs: Plymouth Canton's junior varsity and varsity cheerleading squads took first place in their divisions at regional competition held in Indiana on Nov. 8. This victory gets both squads a bid to national competition held in Orlando in February of next year. Any and all donations will be greatly appreciated to help offset cost for the cheerleaders. Stevenson whips Panthers 8-0

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK
STAFF WRITER

Livonia Stevenson may be young but the Spartans' hockey team plays old.

Redford Union's extremely young team found that out Wednesday night when it went to Eddie Edgar Arena and lost to Stevenson, 8-0.

Like jam on toast, the Spartans spread their scoring around. Junior Ryan Sinks scored twice, opening and closing the game, while junior Dan Cieslak had a goal and two assists to help the Spartans improve to 4-0 while handing the Panthers their third loss in four tries.

"We were thoroughly outplayed," said Panthers' assistant Rusty Lynch, behind the bench in place of ailing RU Coach Kirk Hunter. "They're a well-coached team with a lot of speed and a lot of talent."

"I can't say enough about their speed, the way they moved the puck."

Stevenson totally dominated the first period, piling up a 16-1 shot margin and scoring three times. But Redford Union came out hitting in the second and by game's end the shot margin stood at 37-15.

"It was a great team effort," Spartans' coach Mike Harris said. "This was our third shutout in a row. We have a lot of pride in our defense. We play sound defense."

Sophomore Chris McComb played the first two periods in goal for the Spartans with Matt McLeod working the final 15 minutes.

The game deteriorated a little at the end with pushing, punching and shoving. Some Redford Union partisans also felt Stevenson might have played some key players too much in the final minute.

WINTER DRIVING SAFETY TIPS

The last few articles we featured were informative referencing the importance of automotive repairs and preventive maintenance. Since winter is here, and a little earlier than typical, I feel the need to stress the issues of emergency breakdown.

According to the Federal Emergency Management Agency, the leading cause of death during winter is transportation related accidents. Knowing how to react if stranded or lost on the roads are the keys to safe winter driving.

Everyone driving a vehicle should carry some basic equipment. At a very minimum, an emergency kit should be in your vehicle. This should include a flashlight, flares, reflective triangles, blanket, distress sign, jumper cables and some basic tools. If you and your vehicle should become disabled, please follow these very simple procedures.

- Pull off to the far right lane or shoulder and turn on your hazard lights

- Light flares and/or put the reflective triangles behind your vehicle to warn oncoming traffic.

If you decide to stay with your vehicle, roll up all the windows and lock the doors. If someone approaches your vehicle to offer assistance, talk through the closed window. Simply ask the good Samaritan to call the local police or towing facility for you. Do not get out of your car!

I am sure, all that are reading this have already taken the needed preventive measures in order to make sure your vehicle is road worthy. If not, please consult your local repair facility for more information and guidance to vehicle maintenance schedules. Now is not too late!

Solid Rocks

Plymouth Salem cast dominates All-Area

BY NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

If there is such a thing as a "sophomore jinx," Ed McCarthy was never infected by it.

The second-year coach nearly guided Plymouth Salem to a perfect record this season. After going 19-0-3 in their first 22 games, the Rocks season came to an end with a 2-1 loss to Troy Athens in the Class A title game.

But the significant strides by Salem helped earn McCarthy the 1997 All-Area Coach of the Year honor. In his rookie season, McCarthy led the Rocks to a 13-4-2 mark.

McCarthy will be the first person to admit that the play of senior forward Brett Konley made his job much easier. Konley, who scored a league-high 26 goals last season, scored a remarkable 38 goals this season, along with collecting 29 assists (both school records).

Konley, along with Livonia Churchill defender Dave George, were the only repeat members of this year's All-Area first team. The impressive group of performers consists of 10 seniors, and a pair of juniors, as well as a rare sophomore selection (Livonia Stevenson's Tom Eller).

The Rocks weren't the only local team to enjoy success this season as the Observerland and Western Lakes Activities Association were again filled with perhaps the state's best talent.

Stevenson's only blemish in the Lakes Division was a tie to Salem as the Spartans finished 4-1. Livonia Churchill had a perfect 5-0 mark in the Western Division, while North Farmington enjoyed an above .500 record thanks to junior forward Craig Hearn (26 goals).

And you can't omit Lutheran Westland, as the Warriors finished third in the Metro Conference — their best finish ever — and compiled a 15-5-2 mark.

Here is the 1997 All-Area first team selections.

FIRST-TEAM PICKS

Brett Konley, forward, Ply. Salem: The runner-up for the state's Mr. Soccer honor was again the best player in Observerland. After scoring 26 goals last season, the senior dominated the WLA as notching 38 goals and 29 assists this year. His 38 goals broke Salem's record of 30 goals, set by Jeff Gold.

Konley, who was named to the State's Dream Team, scored the winning goal in Salem's regional final victory which sent the Rocks on to the state championships.

"I certainly didn't expect him to have that kind of terrific year," McCarthy said. "There weren't many games he didn't score. He has a terrific shot and is very creative. You won't find anyone who will be able to replace a 38-goal scorer."

In addition to leaving with Salem's season records for goals and assists, Konley will be remembered as scoring the game-winning goal as a sophomore in Salem's state championship game.

Rob Bartoletti, forward, Liv. Churchill: The senior led the Chargers in goals with 24 and led Churchill to a perfect 5-0 record in the WLA Western Division. It was his best year scoring of his three years as a varsity player.

"He has improved each year he's been here," Churchill coach Chad Campeau said. "He was out go-to guy up front and was a threat to score at all times. He could make the most out of the smallest holes and be able to create something."

Craig Hearn, forward, N. Farmington: This junior recorded a school record 26 goals this season, breaking his own mark of 19 he set last season. Hearn was named to the all-state third team and is only one of three underclassmen on this year's all-area first team.

"He made a big improvement this year and not just in goal scoring," coach Ron Meteyer said. "He was able to bring the other players along with him. Last year he had no assists and this year he had 14. That's a huge improvement."

"He became a playmaker. I told him 'if a good player doesn't bring his teammates along with him, the team doesn't get any recognition and, consequently, you as an individual don't get the proper recognition. If we can highlight the team, you'll be seen in a better light,' and he understood that. He was a much better player overall."

Tim Rais, junior, Farmington: What a career Rais has had — and he still has a year remaining. The forward scored 26 goals this season, bringing his three-year total to 54 goals. He also recorded three assists this season.

Andy Power, midfielder, Ply. Salem: Power used the same speed and agility he utilizes as Salem's point guard to score 14 goals and collect nine assists. The 5-foot-8 midfielder knows how to use his size to his advantage, according to McCarthy.

Power also helped Salem forget about the graduation of Matt Sarkesian, a two-time All-Area first teamer.

"He lives on his quickness," the Salem coach said. "He's as quick as they come and he did a terrific job running our transition game."

Tom Eller, midfielder, Liv. Stevenson: Eller is the first sophomore to make the All-Area first team in two years. He proved he deserved to be on the squad by tallying six goals and recording four assists.

The Spartans, who were forced to play without injured defender Steve Roy for most of the season, still finished 4-0-1 in the WLA Lakes Division, thanks in big part to Eller.

Scott Rich, senior, Garden City: If someone told Scott Rich to "Break a leg" before his freshman year, he took the words to heart as a broken leg sidelined him most of that year.

Rich excelled when healthy the last three years, finishing his career with 17 goals and 31 assists. Primarily a playmaker his first two seasons, Rich scored 12 goals with 14 assists as a senior, making first team Mega Conference Red Division the last two years.

"He is highly skilled with a great touch on the ball," coach Bill Tori said. "I can't even think about replacing him. He was a playmaker, setting up goals his first three years. We needed him to score this year and he finished for us."

Rich has also excelled on the club level, playing for the Livonia Wings and Northville Sting organizations.

Brad Woehike, midfielder, Luth. Westland: The senior not only led Lutheran Westland to its best finish ever in the Metro Conference (third place with a 6-2-2 mark), but was also named the league tri-MVP. Woehike became the first Warrior in seven years to claim the league's MVP honor, and was later named to the all district and all region teams, as well as being the fourth rated player in the region.

Woehike netted 18 goals and collected eight assists while playing superior defense.

"He helped us control the midfield area and anchored that whole section of the field for us," Westland coach Rich Block said. "He will very tough to replace."

Dave George, defender, Liv. Churchill: Other than Konley, this senior was the only repeat member to the All-Area first team. The four-year starter was the leader in the backfield for the Chargers and has played sweeper for the past two years.

"He takes over in the back for us and things run smoothly for us when he's out there," Campeau said. "He's very skilled with the ball and he's excellent in the air. He will be a tough guy for us to replace in the back."

Rob Zdrodowski, defender, Ply. Salem: The senior was the best defender on perhaps the best defensive team in the state.

Zdrodowski led a stingy Salem defense which surrendered only 13 goals in 23 games this season. The Rocks allowed only three goals to be scored in 12 WLA contests.

"There wasn't a better defender in the league," McCarthy said.

Jared Page, defender, Ply. Canton: It was the first year Page played on defense, but no one could tell. The senior did a fantastic job filling in for Matt Ammons, a first-team defender from Canton in 1996.

"He brought a lot of hustle and determination," Plymouth Canton coach Don Smith said. "He was a real scrapper. He's not real big or strong or a superstar, but he did a heckuva job for us this season."

Mike Skolnik, goalkeeper, Liv. Churchill: It wasn't the fact that Skolnik recorded five shutouts this season. What was impressive was who he blanked: Stevenson, Troy Athens, Ann Arbor Pioneer and in Churchill's first two district games (Wayne Memorial and Westland John Glenn).

"He had a great year as he only gave up a total of 14 goals, compared to 20 last year," Campeau said. "He made some huge saves in big games for us and allowed us to stay in some games. In several of those games, we were able to win."

"He's strong on one-on-one breaks and is very acrobatic. He's very tough to score on."

Matt Kessler, goalkeeper, Catholic Central: The senior saved his best season for his last as he posted 11 shutouts. This three-year starter used his big 6-foot-3, 180-pound frame to make incredible saves for the Shamrocks.

"I think he was one of the best two goalkeepers in the state," CC coach Dana Orsucci said. "He makes smart decisions and knows every inch of his net. He's solid and has all the tools a good goalkeeper needs."

"He has unbelievable potential and single-handedly won some games for us this season."

Herrington reaches top of state coaching ranks

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

GRID FINALS

John Herrington has reached the summit among Michigan high school football coaches.

The Farmington Hills Harrison head coach now shares most state titles won (8) with the late Ron Thompson of Detroit St. Martin DePorres, but he's not about to quit now.

"That's terrific, but I really wanted it so bad for the kids because they're the ones who really deserved it," said Herrington, who has compiled an astounding overall record of 248-54-1 in 28 seasons (all with Harrison), including a 21-6 victory over Midland Dow in the state Class A championship game play Friday before 15,320 fans at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Herrington has taken 16 teams to the playoffs and is now 8-3 in state championship games.

Two years ago, the Hawks were demolished in the first-round of the playoffs by South Lyon and last year Harrison lost to Grandville, 24-17, in the state championship.

"As a coaching staff, we thought we could get back here with this group," he said. "Our job was don't mess it up."

Herrington remembers his first state final like it was only yesterday. Back in 1976, the Hawks fell to 36-27 to Dow.

"Sometimes I pinch myself because in '76 I didn't know if I'd ever come back and get another chance," he said. "Now it kind of hits you."

Herrington is also a big hit with his players.

"He's the most dedicated and the greatest coach I'll ever play for," Harrison senior quarterback Jared Hopkins said. "As an individual, he's very caring of people. It's his love for the game and his players."

Herrington's students in Civil War classes where discussions about military maneuvers often lead into football strategy.

"Personally for me, he always emphasized the two golden rules of passing — first, don't ever throw a fade out of bounds, and number two, don't ever throw the slant behind him," the Hawk QB said.

"He's extremely, extremely talented at getting the most out of his players," said Ghannam. "Actually, all four coaches — coach Herrington, coach (Bob) Sutter, coach (Steve) Dollaway and coach (Jon) Witkowski — break things down so well in their areas."

"And the coaches are like brothers. They eat together on Sundays and watch film together. They probably see each other more than their own families."

"But that's the beauty of the Hawk family. They're watching over each other."

At least 40 to 50 former Hawks were in attendance Friday afternoon including former All-Staters Mike Bowden, who played in the first state championship; John Miller, who later starred at Michigan State; and Mill Coleman, the state's all-time passing leader now playing for the Montreal Alouettes.

"We had a few leftovers from the Turkey Bowl yesterday," Herrington said. "They get together each Thanksgiving to play (touch football). And we had quite a few of the Hawk family come over to the school this morning to wish us well."

What may separate this state championship team from the

During the victory press conference, Herrington got a little choked up.

"I'm happy, but I'm sad, too, because these guys have been like sons, every last one," the Harrison coach said. "We've had not had off-the-field problems. I wanted them to win this as bad as any team I've had. They're so close, even with the many different ethnic groups. They love each other and they're academically sound. It's just a joy to coach because I don't have teachers coming down to my room asking me to take care of a problem."

So how high can Herrington climb?

And, of course, Herrington would feel naked without his assistants.

"As long as Sutter, Dollaway and Witkowski stay on, I wouldn't coach without them," Herrington said. "I orchestrate, but they do all the work. We're a team. Right now football is my hobby, I really don't do anything else."

"But I suppose there will be a day when I wake up and won't want to coach anymore, I guess, but right now that's not on my mind," he said.

After a much-deserved day off, Herrington and his staff will get together today review the season.

"Monday we'll watch film and then we'll do individual player interviews Tuesday with the returning varsity kids Tuesday and bring in the JV players who want to play next year on Wednesday," said Sutter, Herrington's longtime sidekick and expert line coach. "And we'll probably have some kids coming into the weight room with coach (Bill) Slobin to start working out for next year."

And even though the winter sports season has officially started at Harrison, football will also be on the back of Herrington's mind.

And it doesn't seem the Hawks or their head coach are settling for any kind of plateau. Herrington's number nine is well within sight.

extra points, had the ball stripped from behind by Church after he made nearly a 50-yard run.

Senior linebacker Matt Walker's interception gave Harrison the ball at the Dow 37, but the Hawks were unable to get the first down after the penalty pushed them back.

Harrison increased its lead to 21-0 in the third quarter when senior tackle Brian Lewis stole the ball from Dow fullback Jason Spiece at the Dow 13. The Hawks needed just five plays to score again on Cornwell's 1-yard run.

"We had too many mistakes — the punt, the fumble," Altimore said. "Their defense stymied our offense."

GRID FINALS

"I told our coaches we had to score three touchdowns today to beat them, and we just weren't able to do that."

Samocki scored on a 12-yard run. Harrison senior Jason Sharp blocked the extra point, and Dow's last two possession ended with turnovers — an interception by Cornwell and another fumble recovery by Lewis.

"Coach (Sutter) said that was the first time all year I was running through my tackles," Lewis said. "We worked real hard on our reads. We did a real good job and shut down their threat, which was the running game."

Junior linebacker Mike Hoad and Walker led the Hawks with 10 tackles apiece; Lewis and Fisher made eight stops each, senior outside linebacker Matt Struble seven. Junior noseguard Bryan McGhee also forced a fumble.

"Their defense was outstanding and their offense was more dominating than I would have liked," Altimore said. "Their down guys and linebackers played great. Their quickness to the ball on defense hurt us."

"I wasn't surprised their wideouts were so quick, but they had great quickness from their running backs. They were able to make the quick cut and get an extra 3 or 4 yards."

The Chargers had 187 total rushing yards, the Hawks 186. Harrison outgained Dow 167-139 in net rushing. Both teams had nine rushing first downs.

Cornwell gained 103 yards on 14 carries, Ghannam 73 on 22. Spiece added 25 on seven attempts for the Chargers.

Harrison had a 234-171 advantage in total yards and the edge in total first downs, 12-11.

Deer season success rate high

Firearms deer season ends today, but already it appears the season has been a good one. With snow cover and mild winter temperatures throughout most of the state on opening weekend hunters were greeted with near perfect hunting conditions for the first week.

If you haven't bagged your buck yet, don't give up. There's still time, and for muzzleloader hunters the season hasn't even started yet. Successful hunters are reminded to report that success. Call or write to me at the number and address listed at the end of this column.

Good luck for the remainder of the season and remember to think safety first.

• Joe Thumal, of Rochester Hills, shot a doe with his bow and arrow and took a 5-point buck on Nov. 16 with his 12 ga. shotgun. Thumal took both deer while hunting private land in Oakland County.

• Seventy-year-old Virgil Thill traveled "north of the Big Mac" for the start of the firearms deer season as he has for most of his life. The trip to St. Ignace paid dividends this year as the Farmington Hills resident tagged a buck around 9 a.m. on opening day.

"I saw a huge buck and a doe but I couldn't get them in my scope because it was so thick," explained Thill, who grew up around Fayette at the west end of the Upper Peninsula. "Then I noticed a smaller buck behind them and he stepped out and I got him."

That "smaller buck" turned out to be a 9-point with a 16-inch spread and nine-inch brow tines. The buck dressed out at 160 pounds.

"I like to hunt the old fashioned way," explained Thill. "I don't use bait and I don't use a blind and it has worked pretty well. I've got three deer in the last three years."

• Redford's Kevin Veith enjoyed a fantastic hunting season and was able to tag a pair of bucks. On Oct. 13 Veith shot a spike with his bow and arrow. On opening day of the firearms season Veith dropped a 3-point buck. Both were taken in Crawford County.

• On Nov. 15th Mike Kafila broke a 13-year drought. The Canton resident shot his first buck since 1985. Hunting state land in Hillsdale County, Kafila watched as a group of hunters jumped two big bucks out of a marsh area.

Kafila's 7-point was a dandy buck. The antlers featured a 15-inch spread and the buck dressed out at 180 pounds.

• Last month a group of Oxford Lions went on a pheasant hunt at the Harsen's Island Hunt Club. Bob Collins, Ed Spinazzola, Carl Szoff, Jim Klauza, Stan Sala and Mike Sauer combined to drop 29 birds.

Clay target champs

Wings & Clays hosted the 1997 A 1-Around Clay Target Championships earlier this month at the Bald Mountain Gun Range in Lake Orion.

Clarkston's Gerald Perzyk won the Top Gun Trap, Jim Siudara of Metamora won Top Gun Five Stand, Jim Beckman of Owosso won Top Gun All-Around and Sporting Clays, and Hank Jensen of Naples, Florida won the Top Gun Skeet.

Volunteers honored

A number of area residents were recently honored for their volunteer work at Kensington Metropark near Milford.

• Dave and Kathy Renwick and their nine-year-old daughter Bridgett made volunteering a family affair. The Walled Lake family helped the park naturalist conduct a number of programs throughout the year.

• Southfield's Georgia Reid, an avid birder, has been a leader in the park's three annual bird counts since 1978. This year Reid and others helped spot 97 bird species in the park for the spring count and 89 species in the fall count.

• Canton's Roland Brege donated pictures he took at the Farm Center, providing a valuable pictorial history of the facility.

"In 1996, more than 1,640 volunteers gave 16,700 hours of their time throughout the Metroparks system," said Tom Smith, chief of interpretive services and head of the volunteer program. "These volunteers have really helped improve the Metroparks system."

Anyone interested in volunteering at their favorite Metropark may call the park directly or call the METROPARKS administrative office at 1-800-47-PARKS.

Anglers and hunters are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI. 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker evenings at (810) 901-2573.

Garden City's Walker prevails in playoff

For the past 30 years the Michigan Majors Bowling Association has been running a monthly tournament for better scratch competition bowlers.

This level of competition always brings out the best in the game to vie for the dollars and the honors that go with the victories.

Last weekend proved to be the biggest of the year for the organization. It was the championship tourney at Cherry Hill Lanes in Dearborn Heights, but it also featured the 25th annual championship banquet and hall of fame Awards held at the Hawthorne Valley Country Club in Westland.

Now that the association is sponsored by Budweiser "King of Beers," the prize money is greater and the level of competition is at an all-time high as there are now 535 members consisting of the best bowlers in the state of Michigan.

The leadership of executive secretary and tournament director Ken Charrette has a lot to do with the success of this organization.

The Qualifying Rounds took place on Nov. 22 to determine the 12 finalists.

Among the top six: 1. Lee Snow of Farmington Hills who set a new nine game qualifying record for this event with 2,232 and that is averaging 248; 2. Lonnie Jones of Detroit, 2,218; 3. Val Sherlock of Flint, 2,187; 4. Rick Eiermann of Garden City, 2,170; 5. Jon Putti of Roseville, 2,166; 6. Todd Subka of Grand Haven, 2,158.

The next six included: 7. Larry Walker of Garden City, 2,154; 8. Chris Sand of Roseville, 2,149; 9. Mark Applegate of Dorr, 2,145; 10. Bill Froberg of Baroda, 2,143; 11. Arnie Goldman of Plymouth, 2,126.

There were two 300 games in the qualifying round rolled by Bob Wiszowaty and Chuck Morris.

Eiermann posted a 299 game and celebrated his 44th birthday during the finals on Sunday by qualifying for the 5th spot in the TV finals.

However, we must backtrack a few hours to the evening of the banquet at Hawthorne Valley.

For it was there that he received the ultimate honor, being inducted into the Michigan Majors Bowling Association

Hall of Fame.

The two other inductees were Ted Bakatselos and Ken Wyatt of Southfield.

This group is truly elite and consists of names that have become legendary in our area. The MMBA Hall of Fame is on display permanently at Cherry Hill Lanes.

The day of the finals was a cold and cloudy day, but the sun must have been shining on Walker, who prevailed over the rest of the best for a first-place trophy and $4,000 prize money.

He defeated the top-seeded Chris Sand in an exciting match 244-215. The game was decided in the 10th frame after both lefties were stopped by a stubborn 7-pin.

If Sand had carried the seven, he might have won.

Walker started with the first four strikes, then left the door wide open with a split in the fifth frame. Sand was unable to take advantage of the break, and Walker ran up the next four strikes in a row which proved to be decisive.

Eiermann was eliminated in the first match by Jones 238-208, then Walker defeated Jones, 238-225, and crushed Goldman 254-187.

This was the second championship win for Walker.

Lee Snow of Farmington Hills, president of MMBA, finished 8th in this event. The finals will be shown on some local access TV stations in December. Look for it on your TV schedule.

• While the MMBA has celebrated 30 years, the Metro Bowling Tour has just begun.

The November event was held at Cherry Hill North Lanes in Clarkston on Nov. 16.

The big difference in the two tournament organizations, the Metro Tour is an 80 percent handicap event.

Shawn Furman of Waterford took first by defeating Michael Rose of Pontiac 204-180, his second victory on the MBT.

In the opening match, Bruce MacDonald of Clarkston defeated James Robertson of Waterford, 223-155.

The second match featured MacDonald disposing of Brett Tieman of Waterford. Tieman then was defeated by Rose in a low scoring match 165-140.

For information or entry forms for the next event is Saturday, Dec. 27 at Lakewood Lanes in Waterford. For more information, call Roy Akers at (248) 673-7407.

Honor roll to appear Dec. 7.

Canadian Geese keep close family ties

Holidays are the time when families get together.

Aunts, uncles, cousins, nieces and nephews all get together at the holidays.

It's a time when everyone gets to renew old acquaintances and see how each person is doing.

Many, but not all, animals disband after the young leave the nest or mature to adolescence and never associate with each other again.

can be a family that was together this past summer.

Adults allow their young to stay with them during the winter. This can be very important for geese that are migratory.

Older adults are those individuals that guide the young birds to their over wintering site. Not only do they show the young birds where to go and how to get there, they are also strong flyers.

Generally, an older bird is the first bird in the traditional V formation of geese flying during migration. Their strength allows them to cut through the air and provide uplifting currents to make it easier for those flying behind them.

Black-capped chickadees that frequent your feeders are also members of an extended family. There may be young of the year and young from the previous year in the same group. Since chickadees do not live very long, there aren't too many generations.

This is in sharp contrast to the white-tailed deer.

Though the adult female will allow her young of last May to join her all winter, when spring arrives she will force them off on their own.

She establishes her own little territory and will exclude other females from her area. Her fawns from last year, if not pregnant, will grow and mature in their own areas until they are pregnant next spring and can establish their own territory.

Social animals like bees and ants that remain relatively inactive during the holiday season are still together and remain with their relatives all their lives.
