Two teens arrested in motorcycle and ATV theft

BY TONY BRUSCATO

Two Livonia men are being charged in connection with the theft of more than $43,000 in motorcycles and all terrain vehicles from Pilgrim Motor Sports in Plymouth.

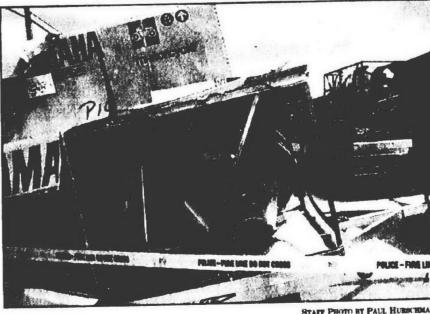

The pair was caught when the snowmobile trailer they were using to transport the stolen goods sustained a flat tire on I-275 near Six Mile Road. As they were attempting to load the three motorcycles and four ATV's onto a second trailer, they were questioned by Livonia police before being arrested.

Robert Hendrick, 18, an employee of Pilgrim Motor Sports, 340 W. Ann Arbor Road, is charged with receiving and concealing stolen property. His friend, Robert Polesky, 18, is charged with larceny over $2,000. He is also charged with resisting arrest after he ran across eight lanes of I-275 in trying to escape. He was chased down and captured by a Livonia police officer.

According to the Plymouth police report, Livonia police became suspicious of the pair as they were trying to load the stolen goods onto a second trailer. After hearing two different stories concerning their possession of the goods, including one in which the two were reportedly transferring the vehicles to another dealership, Livonia police investigated further. Steve Mann, who is challenging Plymouth Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy in the Aug. 8 primary, says the township may not have complied with a state statute requiring that quarterly financial reports be prepared and presented to the board of trustees.

He wasn't satisfied with the response he received to a Freedom of Information Act request, and last week took his concerns to the board.

Law, Edwards spar over sewer billing

The political wars have heated up in the race for Plymouth Township treasurer between incumbent Ron Edwards and challenger Gerry Law.

It seems Edwards hasn't paid a sewer charge for his Lakepointe Subdivision home the entire 15 years he's lived there. Township records show he is billed for water but not for sewer. And, because of that, Law filed a Freedom of Information Act request with the township in an out why. Edwards admits he's never paid a sewer charge but also notes neither did the previous owner of the home for the 17 years prior to his purchasing the property on Schoolcraft Road.

"We are researching why the house was built and charged for water services only," said Edwards. "We can't find any permits for water and sewer. In the days when the home was built (in 1965), it wasn't unusual to have easement agreements. However, there aren't any township records that show that.'

Edwards figures there must be some kind of "property rights we inherited" which call for him not to be billed a sewer charge.

"Nobody can tell me there isn't an agreement," said Edwards.

Tests are currently being conducted by the township's Department of Public Services to determine if Edwards is connected to the sewer, or if he has a septic system. And, if there was an agreement, it's possible it may never be found.

"There were less formal agreements in the initial stages of a township," said Jim Anulewicz, director of public services. "Our records don't show an agreement, but that's not to say it couldn't have been the case."

Anulewicz noted there are no records prior to 1966, which could make it more difficult to find an answer.

However, Law isn't satisfied that Edwards isn't paying "his fair share."

"A citizen told me he'd been bragging for seven or eight years about not having to pay a sewer charge," said Law. "He's a public official and should pay all his fees and taxes properly. This isn't a sleight-of-hand issue. He knows he isn't paying. It's a real prob-

"For a guy who is the treasurer and collects the water and sewer bills, he knows he isn't paying the full charge," he said.

Edwards counters that he's only known for a couple of weeks about the issue, saying "my wife, who owns the house, pays all the bills. She really didn't notice there wasn't a sewer charge. She just looked at the bottom line and paid it.

"The water bills come from the supervisor's office, so there's no way I could tamper with it," said Edwards. "My office only collects the money.

"I've asked for an independent investigation into the issue," he said. "It's two weeks before the election and Mr. Law is trying to come up with an issue."

Richard Reaume, who is also running for the treasurer's race in the Aug. 8 primary, said he'll reserve judgment.

"I don't have any personal knowledge regarding Mr. Edwards' unpaid taxes," he said. "That the other two candidates continue to bicker only reinforces the point that I'm the best candidate to move the township forward in a professional manner."

Plymouth-Canton knew it would need to hire an unusually high number of teachers for the second year in a row because of the buy-out given union members. And, because of that, Goldman said the district started earlier than usual in looking for replacements.

"This year we started job postings in April, which is a bit earlier than usual," said Goldman. "We wanted to attack the job market early on because of the number of vacancies we had, and as an effort to beat out other districts looking for teachers in a limited pool of applicants."

Plymouth Township resident John Stewart comes from a family where his two sisters taught in public schools for more than 25 years each, and seven of his aunts and uncles taught at least 40 years apiece. So, it's no wonder that education is a top priority in Stewart's Republican primary campaign for the 20th House District.

"Michigan has a long and rich history of public schools," said Stewart, a key organizer of the statewide education summit held last October at Plymouth Salem High School. "I think I have a good understanding of the issues.

The education issues, as Stewart sees them, are Proposal A, charter schools and vouchers.

"I would like to see some amendments to Proposal A," he said. "The Plymouth-Canton school district was hurt the most with Proposal A's level of foundation grants. I would like to change the foundation grant to raise the lower districts up.

Charter schools

"I do support the current level of charter schools; however they need more oversight," added Stewart. "They should have the same accountability as public schools. I want to know their MEAP scores, what they are offering academically, and whether they are espousing one particular religious denomina-vouchers. "I get concerned when I see that a $3,100 stipend would be given to parents to spend anywhere. I think that would result

"I think we need to reform the public school system from within," said Stewart. "We've got to work harder to be involved in the public school system. I strongly believe in the State Department of Education sending out assistance teams. We've got to be more accountable to excellence in education.

Stewart, a small business man with his own law practice for 23 years, believes there needs to be relief for small business owners.

"I'm tired of paying worker's compensation, unemployment comp, single business taxes and personal property taxes," Stewart said. "I would like to see the elimination or reduction of the personal property tax. But, to be fiscally responsible that would have to be replaced as a funding source. I wouldn't mind accelerating the elimination of the single business tax."

Stewart, also an environmentalist, wants to see more of a balance between the business world and the environment.

"I don't want the environmental issues to sacrifice jobs, but on the other hand I don't want Michigan, which is a gorgeous state, to become polluted," he said. "There's already been some neglect ... look at the pollution in Lake St. Clair. The beaches there don't compare to other parts of the state.

"The cost to clean up real estate is greater than the value of the land. The state should have to come in and help out "No thank you," is Stewart's with underground storage response to the question of tanks," said Stewart.

Mayor hopes voters consider his involvement and experience

Dave McDonald said he's spent his entire adult life serving his country in one form or another. That includes 29 years in the Army, being elected Plymouth city commissioner and currently serving as the city's mayor. "Wanting to become the 20th House District representative is an extension of my desire to give back to my community," said McDonald, who is one of four Republican candidates in the Aug. 8 primary.

McDonald, who has taught ROTC at Redford Union High School the past seven years, said education issues are at the forefront of why he's in the race.

Flat wrong

"I'm a Republican by philosophy, but I have been very vocal with my Republican colleagues that some of the initiatives dealing with public education are just flat wrong and need to be fixed," said McDon-ald. "I think I can add a dimension for that debate from I'm not for vouchers. If you're being in the class- talking tax incentives, I might be room every day, by understanding the issues that not only face teachers, but parents.

Those initiatives include vouchers and charter schools. "I don't support vouchers, and I think they will eventually be found unconstitutional," said McDonald. "I don't know how, if you believe in the separation of church and state, the Supreme Court can rule that you can use tax dollars for parochial and private education.'

That comes from a man who teaches in public school, but has children who attend private school.

"I have a perspective that's unique," said McDonald. "As a taxpayer I have to pay the costs for private education, but I'm not for vouchers. If you're talking tax incentives, I might be willing to listen to that."

Charter role

McDonald believes there's a role for charter schools, but not in direct competition with traditional public schools.

"Charter schools could assist districts that don't have the financial dollars or opportunities in their curriculum to address talented and gifted students," he added. "Maybe they could be the place for those students who are expelled, such as those students who are found with weapons in school, and have no place to go.

McDonald said he wouldn't be quick to change Proposal A to help a school district like Plymouth-Canton, which is lobbying for more equity in school aid funding. "How do you take a Birmingham, which spends $12,000 per II 'As a taxpayer I have to pay the student, and tell them we want to have a medium of $10,000? willing to listen to that.'

"I don't want to get away from Proposal A. I think the foundation of it is pretty good."

McDonald said he wouldn't be adverse to returning surplus tax money to the taxpay-

"I think there's room to rebate more taxes," he said. "But, history tells you that while the economy is great now, it comes and goes. If we can give tax dollars back, I support that. But, at the same time, I want to make sure we have money so if something catastrophic comes up, we have enough

McDonald believes his military experience, combined with his role as a city commissioner and mayor, are leadership opportunities that will be valuable in Lansing.

"I was a comptroller in the Infantry Division and handled a $70 million budget. That's more than all the communities in the 20th House District combined," he said. "When I get to Lansing, I'll be the new kid on the block. But, I'm an elected official who knows the ropes.

BY SUE BUCK STAFF WR'TER sbuck@oe.homecomm.net

Plymouth Township Trustee Chuck Curmi remembers the township administration that served before he was elected in 1992, a time when Curmi was still a board watcher.

Others don't, however. So, when Curmi referred to an engineering contract between the Western Townships Utilities Authority (WTUA) and Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May Inc. during a July 12 trustee candidate forum, it confused some people in the audience and led to their asking for more explanation.

Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May Inc. is the employer of Abe Munfakh who, along with Curmi, is among a field a nine candidates running for Plymouth Township trustee.

Munfakh was a Plymouth Township trustee 1984-92. He is a civil engineer and chairman of the board of directors of the engineering, planning and surveying firm of Ayres, Lewis. His Ann Arbor-based company, founded in 1923, has 120 employees. It has offices in Detroit, Canton, Muskegon and Fenton.

Curmi clarified his remarks on the contract between WTUA and Ayres, Lewis after the

"There wasn't anything illegal about it, but there wasn't enough 'arm's length," Curmi said. "I misspoke. It wasn't a direct contract with the township but a contract with WTUA. There was no law that required you to bid, but it looks pretty bad. This is well-known. I'm surprised this hasn't come up yet."

Munfakh's firm continues to do work for WTUA, which was created by Plymouth Township, Canton Township, and Northville Township to help reduce sewer fees. The supervisors of each township board have one vote on the WTUA board of directors and 25 percent of the bills come to Plymouth Township, Curmi said.

"I want to clarify something - the trustee said that my company benefited from Plymouth Township," Munfakh responded at the forum.

Last week, Munfakh, who is one of eight owners of the company, called Curmi's criticism at the forum a personal attack.

"My company bids on projects all the time," Munfakh said. "Projects are bid on a case-by-case basis." If the firm is the low bidder, they are awarded the project, he added.

WTUA implemented a bid procedure after intense scrutiny of the sewer project during its early years, according to a September 1992 article in the Northville Record.

"Ayres, Lewis earned the lion's share of WTUA's $10-million engineering tab after it was awarded that contract on a no-bid basis in 1987," said the article.

Munfakh addressed his critics in a March 19, 1992, guest column in the Plymouth Observer. "I find it unacceptable to be accused of a conflict of interest if my employer receives a contract which I had no role in awarding," Munfakh said. "It is a fact that when WTUA selected my employer as the consultant for this project I disclosed that selection in public and I have abstained from any votes on the Plymouth Township board that had any relationship to WTUA. Minutes of the township board meetings will verify this fact."

During his recent candidate interview with the Plymouth Observer Munfakh said his company has done work for WTUA for the last eight years. He said he has never done work directly for Plymouth Township.

"If anything about WTUA comes up on the board, I will disclose my position on it and I will not vote on the issues," he said. "I want everything up-front."

A 1992 Plymouth Observer article said that Munfakh abstained from voting on the WTUA project once his firm became involved.

WTUA's board of directors selects who works for them, Munfakh said. The only WTUA issue that comes before the board of trustees is to approve the budget, he said.

Quality of life, sound money management, and a chance for more recreation are continuing concerns shared by Plymouth Township candidates running for office during a July 19 candidate forum at the Plymouth District library. The forum was sponsored by the League of Women Voters and the Plymouth Observer.

The Republican candidates are running for seven open seats on the township board. There are no Democratic candidates, so the Aug. 8 primary determines the Vying for supervisor are incumbent Kathleen Keen McCarthy and challenger Steve Mann. Incumbent Clerk Marilyn Massengill is challenged by former township Supervisor Maurice Breen, and incumbent Treasurer Ron Edwards is challenged by state Rep. Gerald Law, who was unable to attend the forum, and Richard Reaume.

The board and I have accomplished many projects for the taxpayers while improving the quality of life," Keen McCarthy said. "We can accomplish miracles if we don't care who gets the credit.'

Mann criticized Keen McCarthy's performance. "She did not support advanced life support," Mann said. "Reduced staffing in dispatch puts residents at risk. Several dispatchers have left. We have sergeants and police officers sitting in there on overtime nearly everyday. She does not have good relations with the union.'

The township is getting close to full development, Keen McCarthy said. "We have a surplus of about $4.5 million; $2 million is committed in projects, like the Sheldon Road underpass.

Since 1992, the township has developed a recreation plan, reconfigured the sled hill to make it safer, installed a fishing dock and walking paths, Keen McCarthy said. Recreation sat dormant for eight years, Mann countered, and only grant money was used to get anything done, Mann said.

Breen criticized the 1998 millage requests, which influenced ■ The Republican candidates are running for seven open seats on the township board. There are no Democratic candidates, so the Aug. 8 primary determines the outcome.

his decision to run. Massengill cited new election equipment and advanced life support as among her accomplishments.

A new town hall where all employees are consolidated under one roof at the Ann Arbor Road and Lilley locations is Massengill's goal. Breen shares Massengill's position.

Breen supports additional recreation but says programs don't need to be duplicated in every community. Massengill supports more use of the Friendship Station, a senior center and isn't opposed to pay for play.

Memories linger and Breen was asked why he didn't keep his promise to hire three new firefighters immediately after the 1987 election. "There may be some people who think I made a

Clerk and treasurer candidates were asked: "Should elected officials request any campaign funds from builders and developers and should there be any limitation on amount?"

"You have to disclose whatever you accept," Breen said. "This particular campaign I'm running I am paying for everything myself. People who are living and working in the community all have an interest in who the elected officials are. As long as they stay within the rules, they have the same rights."

Massengill said candidates should receive no campaign funds from anyone doing work in the township. "I recently received a check from a contractor who works in the township. I have not and will not cash it," she said. "I don't believe in doing it because they may accept favors. I'm paying for my own campaign."

Reaume pointed out there are state statutes governing campaign contributions. "In this particular case if you would receive contributions from people with interests in the community, it could look like cronyism was involved," he said. "I'm financing my campaign from my dining room table and my checkbook."

Edwards said he hasn't received any contributions from businesses and developers but has received contributions from individuals and some business

"Campaigns are costly to run," Edwards said. "I have a family of four and a wife and I'm on salary. This campaign will cost me $5,000 to $10,000. I don't see anything wrong with accepting these funds as long as you hold at arms -length transactions down the road.

Edwards supports partnering with the school district and city of Plymouth for recreation programs. Reaume wants an assessment of funds along with citizen input and citizen surveys.

It's a Summer Open House!

Resume would look at the possibility of dual water meters while Edwards sees no need. The township is providing a 25-percent credit to residents on their sewage rate for the first time during the summer, Edwards

Citizen reaction was mixed from Plymouth Township residents following the forum.

Their performance was fine," Tom Bing said. "The responses could have been a little longer in length." He also wanted a time limit to get question cards turned in.

This was the first forum I've been to and I thought it was very informative," said Edythe Gaberson. "You could find out who you wanted to vote for."

"I think it was very well done and it afforded anyone the opportunity to ask questions of the candidates," said Diane

"I attended all three forums the union one (AFSCME), the trustee one last week, and this one," said Geri Dial. "I think they are very beneficial and wish more residents would come out."

Metro seeks passenger advice on remodeling older terminals

Metro Airport officials are asking both passengers and airlines what they'd like done with the L.C. Smith and Davey terminals after Northwest Airlines moves to its new midfield facility. Northwest is to leave Davey and the adjoining International Terminal to the other carriers and move into the new 99-gate midfield terminal when it is completed by December 2001.

BY RICHARD PRABL STAFF WRITER

The airport already has nine different designs under consideration for redeveloping the existing 103 gates as part of the $1.2 billion airport expansion, said Wayne County Airports spokesman Michael Conway.

Ideas range from tearing down only every other concourse to entirely demolishing the two terminals and building a new, long one with protruding fingers instead of long concourses, Conway said.

But, he noted, "Wayne County is very interested in renovating the existing complex beyond what the plans call for."

Cost depends on how far the airlines want to go, he said. "There's no price tag" now, "but it certainly would be more than the current plan.

"We have to talk with the airlines and see," he said.

For now, he said, the only concrete fact is that Airports Director Lester Robinson "wants this (final plan) nailed down by the end of the year.

"We want one design that is the most convenient," Conway

To solicit public input, Metro this month opened the Idea Room in the Smith Terminal. The unmanned area, located across from the Jose Cuervo Tequileria Restaurant near the A and B Concourse entrance, features a six-minute video which shows ideas for Metro now under consideration.

The video animation shows the Northwest logo moving from its present gates to the midfield terminal, with the other airlines' logos then moving from the A and B concourses to the vacated gates. It also shows several options to that shift, Conway

Metro customers then are invited to write down their ideas in a special Metro brochure that's available in the Idea Room, he said.

the $39 million" estimated under been open little over a week, the Idea Room has already been "getting a lot of interest" from travelers.

"We're basically asking customers what they like at other airports such as Orlando and Tampa that they'd like to see at Metro," he said. "Of course, we can't do all the things, but we will do our best to incorporate their ideas.'

People also can give their ideas via the Internet by logging onto the Wayne County Airports Web site at www. metroairport.com and looking under Contact Us" for the e-mail address. Or, Conway said, people can simply enter their home or office address and the airport will send them a form.

"Some of the best ideas for improving the airport came from our customers," Conway said.

One idea became the electronic variable message sign that greets travelers at the airport entrance on Rogell Drive with parking information, he said.

Another is the luggage carts, which domestic passengers rent, but which are free to arriving international passengers to save them the hassle of trying to exchange currency while getting Conway said even though it's their luggage, Conway said.

Observers win 6 NNA awards

The Observer Newspapers received six awards in the National Newspaper Association's Best Newspaper Contest-2000. The NNA is an association of community and daily newspapers.

Observer Newspapers received four second-place awards, one third-place and an honorable mention.

The Observer Newspapers won second place for best coverage of the performing arts. The arts section is edited by Assistant Managing Editor Keely Wygonik. The judges cited the writing of arts writer Linda Ann Chomin. Judges commented: "Lots of energy in the design. Reader friendly with graphics,

County clerk candidates emphasize need for computers

BY RICHARD PRARL STAFF WRITER

Two candidates with over 50 years combined experience in the operation of the Wayne County Clerk's office are among the three seeking the Democratic Party nomination in the Aug. 8 primary election.

They are Deputy Clerk Veronica Massey, who has been with the department 18 years, and Gerald F. Dziedzic, who retired four years ago after 36 years with the department.

The third Democrat is Cathy Garrett who, though a political newcomer, is endorsed by County Executive Edward H. McNamara and several unions, including the American Federation of rett is president of AFSCME Local 2449, based in Westland.

The winner will face another first-time candidate, William A. Heimiller of Livonia of the Reform Party in the November general election. The Republican Party has no candidate.

Besides being clerk to the circuit court, the county commission and several county boards, the county clerk keeps birth and death records, issues marriage licenses and records and indexes all business assumed names, copartnership certificates, notary public appointments and military discharges.

All three Democrats support computerizing the county clerk's

State, County and Municipal record-keeping and creation of a satellite office in the Kay Beard Building in Westland.

Massey, who has been chief deputy since 1993 and is endorsed by her boss, retiring County Clerk Teola P. Hunter, said "A lot of records are being processed" now into computer files.

The aim is to eventually make records available via computer to the public and even to judges via terminals during court. "We're looking to make (the office) userfriendly. That's the bottom line," she said.

Massey, a Detroiter who began her county career 37 years ago with the now-defunct drain commission, said other goals include computerized election results and possibly computerized service kiosks in shopping centers.

She said the move into the Beard Building has been "held up by the county exec" for renovations.

"I'm not a politician who makes promises and can't keep them, but people need to realize we need adequate funding" to carry out the ideas, she said.

Dziedzic of Allen Park said he developed "a lot of ideas" - such as the out-county satellite office, kiosks and online election results - while in the clerk's office that "for one reason or another" weren't implemented.

He even suggested deputizing municipal clerks to speed up retrieving county clerk records for residents.

"Bring the county clerk's office into the 21st century' - that's a statement I started with and the other two candidates are using," said Dsiedzic. "That's the way politics are."

Dziedzic, who helped implement the county's new charter and who was Massey's supervisor at one point, is "a career civil servant" whose reason for getting "back into the melee" is "to establish new procedures where their dollar." But he, too, cautioned that is "contingent on getting money from McNamara and the county commissioners. Otherwise, I taxpayers get more bang for have." Garrett of Detroit, a former precinct delegate who is communications manager for the Detroit Youth Opportunity Program for the city, said she has "always wanted to make a difference in the type of service people received."

A veteran of 18 years as a respiratory therapist at Harper Hospital and two years as customer service coordinator for Moore Business Forms, Garrett said, "It's extremely surprising the technology (in the clerk's office) is truly dated, the little that they do have." She said she would implement not only new technology, but cross-training of employees to provide efficiency and improved customer service.

Madonna dietetic program wins accreditation

Madonna University's dietetic program is the first in the country to be accredited. The Commission on Accreditation for Dietetics Education (CADE) of The American Dietetic Association has granted initial accreditation to Madonna University didactic program in dietetics. The accreditation period is for 10 programs to be accredited and chose Madonna's program to serve as a pilot program for review. Since Madonna University first established a dietetics program in 1989 it has had approval by the American Dietetic Association.

Last November two site visitors Dr. Sandra Witte, a registered dietitian from California

Dr. Jeffrey Harris, a registered dietitian from West Chester University, West Chester, Pa., came to Madonna University to thoroughly review the program. They visited classes, spoke with administrators, faculty, students and graduates and then filed a report with CADE.

Dr. Karen Schmitz (the director of Madonna University's dietetics program) has created a (734)432-5534.

espite the rich farming tradition in Plymouth and Canton, few children these days have any real experience with riding or caring for horses.

or caring for horses.

Enter Nature's Last Stand Pony Camp.

Here, kids get the opportunity to ride horses

(or ponies), learn about their care and upkeep, and have fun with crafts related to horses – such as horseshoe picture frames.

"Riding horses isn't something that most kids get to do all the time," said Julie Blaylock who, along with husband Randy, owns the Central City returned to the camp for the second time this summer.

"(They) couldn't wait to get back," she said.
"They can play soccer at school, swim anytime.
This is something unique for the kids."

In fact, Randy Blaylock himself attended the camp as a kid, and had many

It's a good fit

Store takes 25th year in stride

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM STAFF WRITER

he best measure of success for Don and Barbara Kobeck, owners of Kobeck's Stride Rite in Plymouth Township, is whether or not children's shoes fit.

That is their specialty, said Don Kobeck, as he measured a 1-year-old girl's feet to see if her mother, Lori Morningstar of Canton, needed to buy her another size. It turned out she didn't.

"I like shopping here because it's easy," Morningstar said. "I can come in and fit my kids right away, I don't have to go into a big mall. I get a good fit

The Kobecks are celebrating their 25th anniversary for their thusiness, which is at 44427 W. Ann Arbor Road, at the southwest corner of Sheldon. Up until 10 years ago, Kobeck's was in the center where CVS is now, the center where CVS is now, the center where the center was a center where the center where the center where the center was a center where the center where the center was a center where the center where the center was a center was a center where the center was a center was a center where the center was a center where the center was a center where the center was a cente The Kobecks are celebrating letic shoes, leather dress shoes, ballet and tap shoes, boots and baby shoes.

We measure our success by fitting shoes property and by advising (parents) about what type of shoes they should buy," Don Kobeck said. "If people come in just to see if the shoes are still fitting the child, we tell them honestly whether they do."

They say they're most proud of their customer service skills. Sizing a child's feet in a parent's car and opening up shop for a customer after hours are just a couple examples of ways they have trekked the extra mile.

The in-car sizing calmed a wary mother who didn't want to bring her measles-stricken child into the store, Barbara Kobeck

In the second scenario, a customer had called the Kobecks at their Plymouth Township home - after hours - and said they needed children's shoes right away for an out-of-town funeral. They opened the store and sold some dress shoes.

If a customer can't find what they want in stock, they can special order from a Stride Rite

In 1975, standard leather school shoes" made up 85 percent of sales. Today, those same shoes - including oxfords, Mary Janes and loafers - make up just 15 percent of sales.

Athletic or tennis shoes have become standard shoes for most children, according to the Kobecks.

One thing about the store hasn't changed - the wooden park-style benches that have seated countless grandparents, parents, children and grandchil-

"They've just had many, many coats of paint," Barbara Kobeck said, adding that they kept the benches at the urging of customers - who said they had sentimental value.

"We have people saying they want one of our benches if we ever close," she said. Retirement isn't something either of them -Don, 66 and Barbara, 59 - is seriously considering.

"(This business) is something that we created ourselves - it's our own thing we've created and done well. It's self-rewarding," Barbara said

State says anti-voucher efforts violated campaign law

BY MIKE MALOTT HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE

The Oakland County Intermediate School District has violated state elections law prohibiting the use of public resources to campaign for or against a ballot proposal, Michigan's Secretary of State ruled Monday.

of State concluded that a Power Point presentation used by Oakland Schools officials to explain the Kids First!Yes! voucher plan, appearing on the November ballot as a constitutional amendment, was "slanted" in opposition to the proposal. Informational campaigns by public officials are allowed, but they must be factual and balanced. Using taxpayer dollars to advocate a position on a ballot question or a candidate is strictly prohibited, Elizabeth Boyd, spokesperson for the department, said.

"The presentation included statements that were argumentative and speculative," Boyd explained. "At one point, the presenter said, 'It will hurt many kids.' They crossed the line when they got into opinion. The presentation was not strictly factual. It has a slant."

Although Oakland Schools was cited for violating the law along with two school districts. Kearsley and Grand Haven they will not be fined. She said the ruling was "precedent setting, our most definitive statement vet under a 1997 revision of the law on what you can do and cannot do in an informational campaign." Because it is new, she said, the districts were being put on notice to stop the violations. If they don't, fines may be assessed, she said.

"This is a question of freedom of speech. I think we have a responsibility to inform the public about this proposal. And I'm very disappointed in the ruling of the Secretary of State," said Brian Whiston, director of Legislative Affairs at Oakland Schools.

He is the one who prepared the Power Point presentation. He believes it is factual and balanced, in that it includes arguments used on both sides of the issue for and against the proposal. Whiston said he believes the statements that the Secretary of State objected to were side comments made by a particular presenter, not statements actually included in the presentation itself.

"Before I put together the presentation, I met with people in the Secretary of State's office to find out what I could do and what I couldn't. I went farther than they said I had to. I included arguments on both sides. They said I didn't have to include the pro side arguments. This is two different people in the Secretary of State's office

UM-D cuts graduate tuition by 23%

The University of Michigan-Dearborn will reduce tuition for graduate programs in the School of Education by 23.1 percent this Tuition for full-time graduate students who are Michigan residents will be $1.756.50 this fall, down from $2,284.15 last year.

The tuition rates for UM-Dearborn were approved by the U-M Regents at their July 14 meeting in Ann Arbor. For other programs at the Dearborn campus will rise an average of 3 percent this fall, approximately the rate of inflation in Michigan.

This reduction in tuition for graduate education courses reflects on our commitment to K-12 education and our determination to contribute to educational excellence among the teachers and students in this region," said John Poster, dean of the UM-

Dearborn School of Education. In most school districts, teachers are encouraged to earn master's degrees and can increase their salaries by completing certain graduate programs. At UM-Dearborn, graduate programs in education include the master of arts in education degree, with "endorsements" in specific disciplines, as well as a master of education in special education degree for teachers working with students with emotional impairments or learning III 'This is a question of freedom of speech. I think we have a responsibility to inform the pub-He about this proposal."

The voucher campaign is on the ballot by initiative petition, sponsored by Kids First! Yes! If approved by voters, it will create a voucher system in school districts that have a graduation rate under two thirds

In opposition to that plan is a coalition of groups known as All Kids First, and Whiston often speaks on its behalf.

In the past, the State Department has cracked down on public officials for using taxpayer resources in a campaign only when they have gone so far as to advocate a position on a ballot question, urging a yes or no vote. But Boyd said under the 1997 state law, such presentations must be factual and balanced. Oakland Schools was also cited for sending an anti-voucher email message.

Whiston said it had been written outside Oakland Schools and merely forwarded from an Oakland Schools computer.

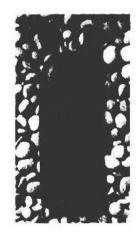

Kids First! Yes! filed a complaint also regarding a resolution adopted in opposition to the ballot plan, but Secretary of State has yet to rule on that issue, Whiston said.

Laura Wotruba, of All Kids First, said she, too, was disappointed in the ruling. She believed the districts were honestly attempting to inform voters about the issues involved in the ballot question.

Supervisor Kathleen Keen McCarthy, who is seeking a third term in office, claims to have supported Advanced Life Support training. She also claims that the recent dispatch merger is effective in savings $50,000 per year. As well as claiming to have had a good working relationship with the unions for the past seven years and negotiating all contracts without the need for outside arbitration. We cannot allow these claims to go without correction.

Ms. Keen McCarthy claims to have supported Advanced Life Support training for the firefighters. This is not true; the truth is that the firefighters proposed ALS training in December 1997 and the issue was dismissed. It wasn't until three board members pushed the issue obtaining close to 200 signatures from residents that Ms. Keen McCarthy agreed to listen to ALS training proposals. Plymouth Township is one of the last communities in western Wayne County to implement this ALS training. Others saw the need years ago and have been providing this lifesaving service to their residents. Plymouth Township on the other hand sat dormant, failing to plan to the

Ms. Keen McCarthy also claims that the joint dispatch merger is going smoothly and saving $50,000 per year. We find it hard to believe any savings will be seen for some time. We are still suffering with a communications center that is in crisis. We have police officers and sergeants being paid overtime to fill vacancies almost daily. Vacancies created by the nine dispatchers who felt the need to leave, due to their treatment during the merger. These are times when these officers are removed from their normal patrol duties to fill those vacancies. Ms. Keen McCarthy was asked by police union to delay the implementation of the merger until it could be better planned and employees be reassured of their roles and expectations. Again, failing to plan for the future.

Ms. Keen McCarthy's claim of having a good working relationship with the unions could not be further from the truth. The police officers contract is currently scheduled for arbitration, after 17 months of failed negotiations. The firefighter contract expired in march and Ms. Keen McCarthy has not yet met to negotiate. The township clerical staff felt so unfairly treated under Ms. Keen McCarthy's administration that they felt the need to form a union.

We are writing this to educate our residents of the facts. Thank you for letting us set the record

Since the dreaded discovery of our son Kenny's terminal illness in February, the support that our family has received from many people in the community has been overwhelming and deeply appreciated.

Soon after Kenny became a patient of Angela Hospice, a framed Certificate of Retirement from his nurses was presented to him to make official his first big wish, retirement from school. Since then Kenny has received cards, letters, stuffed animals, Pokemon cards and many other items from many different people to enjoy during his retirePlease see more letters on A16 ment. A large banner and a large pillow both signed by the sixth-grade class at Central Middle School were given to Kenny to express their concern and to share their message that he is missed at school. Several video games, and other items were purchased for Kenny with donations collected from fund-raisers also held by the wonderful kids, teachers and parents at Central.

While we were busy spending precious time with Kenny, many of the same thoughtful teachers and parents brought prepared dinners to our home when they came to visit Kenny and us. On his birthday in May, several of his friends from school and their parents arranged a birthday party for Kenny and his sister, Jeanette. Friends at West Middle School gave Kenny a signed poster with a small evergreen tree that was ultimately planted in our yard. To express their concern players of his former baseball team and some of the caring kids at Trinity Presbyterian Church also made posters.

Recently we were presented proceeds from a fund-raiser organized by Mark Caples and others from the Plymouth Canton Junior Baseball League. All the league teams participated. Special thanks go to John Kalisieski, Jim Leddy, Joe Maltese and Jo Winters, who cooked hot dogs all day. Businesses donating food included Kroger, Farmer Jack, Kmart and Absopure. Signs were made by the Donaldson family and additional help came from too many others to mention here.

As we look back over the last several weeks we have come to realize that while every effort has been made to give Kenny an enjoyable retirement, he has found the most comfort in the fact that he is loved by his family and friends. Although his last few weeks at Central were filled with anxiety and some struggles, often during his retirement he very proudly remarked, "All the kids at Central like me and miss

Despite the fact that Kenny can no longer see, hear, or recognize any of us, he always appears comfortable and sleeps much of the day. Over the past few days his appetite has diminished and he essentially eats no food but still enjoys the first sips of a cold cup of pop. After he takes his first sip he often remarks, "This is good stuff!" After those few cool refreshing sips, he blindly holds the cup out at arms length and loudly proclaims, "The rest is for you." When we think about his short but mostly very wonderful lifetime, we now and then think of it like that cold glass of pop. He has already taken the first few very cool, enjoyable sips but the rest is for us.

All of your concern, prayers and generosity have made coping with the dreaded and often heart wrenching decline of Kenny more bearable. Please accept our sincere gratitude for all that you have done for Kenny and for us. Your continued support was and still remains truly appreciated.

Family helps rescue abused pugs

BY TIM SMITH STAPY WRITER tsmith@oe.homecomm.net

Andrew Johnston stretched out on the carpet, in the Farmington home of Larry and Kathy Nathan. And right there was Chilly, a perky pug lovingly perched atop one of Andrew's legs.

Andrew and his mom, Karen, happily returned to the Nathan home with Chilly one evening last week for a reunion. Chilly had just been adopted a couple days earlier from the residence, also headquarters for nonprofit organization Michigan Pug Res-

While one could not help but smile when seeing Chilly peeking between his paws over Andrew's thigh, it isn't too difficult to envision that very dog glaring unhappily through a wire cage. He easily could have been held hostage at one of the thousands of deplorable puppy mills in the United States.

That possibility isn't lost on Andrew, a student at O.E. Dunckel Middle School in the Farmington district.

"If you're going to adopt a dog," Andrew explained, "why not adopt one that's been mistreated so you can rescue it and give it the life it was meant to have?"

The place for pugs

The Nathan home swirled with activity, with Chilly and many other pugs - both adults and pups - making the rounds.

In a bedroom, several threeweek-old pug puppies were being nursed by Jezebel, who took the job over after the pups' mom, Pugsy, died during labor on July 3. Another fostered adult female, Ivory, rescued out of a Missouri puppy mill this spring, was keeping some of the young pugs warm and clean.

The canines needed some human help with the big job. Some of Pugsy's other babies were being bottle-fed by Heather Secco, one of Larry and Kathy's

"The mom (Pugsy) died during delivery and we lost six of them while they were still in her," Larry Nathan said. "And so we've been tube-feeding them. As far as we know, they are doing OK."

Nathan, posing as a breeder, spent $3,200 at a Pennsylvania auction last month to rescue Pugsy, Blaine, Josephine and 10 other puppies. They were among the first pugs brought home by Michigan Pug Rescue since it began in April.

We can't go in as rescue groups," he emphasized.

Meanwhile, Blaine - the father of the rescued pups - and Josephine were since taken in by Heather Wigodski, of Berkley.

Giving them a voice

"These dogs don't have a voice and there are so many who are abused around the country,' Wigodski said. "I'll do anything I can to help them.

Also on hand this particular evening was Saddie, a "permanent" foster pug and Missy, who both live with Heather. Missy was destined to be put to sleep in 1998 before she was rescued.

Of course, Sarah is always there, being the Nathan's family dog. She also was rescued, in

"I've had pugs all my life, since I was a boy," said Larry Nathan. who several years ago took up the mission of rescuing pugs (for another organization) as a

The hobby now is as much their lifeblood as it is new life for the compact breed, which has Asian origins.

"We act like the middle person," said Kathy Nathan, who like Larry has a professional day job, too. "A person will call us if they can't contain the dog, have no use for the dog or are re-locating. And we have a list of people who want to adopt."

The adoption process, obviously, is stringent and replete with checks and balances. That's because Michigan Pug Rescue wants to make sure adopted pugs join loving families such as Affection: Larry Nathan can't help but love the pugs he and his wife, Kathy, rescue.

Andrew Johnston's - and never be returned to hostile living con-

Kathy recalled a recent situation where a Farmington senior citizen contacted Michigan Pug Rescue. She had to give up her pug because she was moving to an assisted living center that did not permit pets.

"If not for rescue (organizations) what would happen to that dog?" wondered Lathy.

That is a question also on the minds of those connected with other rescue groups (probably every breed has one in every state) and animal protection organizations such as the Doris Day Animal League, DDAL.

Television, of all things, led Andrew Johnston and his mom, Karen, to adopt Chilly. The Johnstons were looking to adopt a canine friend, but were thinking more about going in the direction of a short-haired dachshund. But then, they saw a TV news report about Michigan Pug Rescue.

They learned that conditions at puppy mills are so unsavory that the DDAL, other animal protection agencies and concerned citizens recently filed suit against the United States Department of Agriculture in U.S. District Court.

The lawsuit maintains that the USDA has "failed to halt cruel and inhumane conditions" in the mills, and has not com-

Authorities seek lone suspect in D&N bank robbery, bomb threat

BY SCOTT DANIEL STAFF WRITER

Friday's D&N Bank robbery in Canton could be connected with a second holdup in metropolitan Detroit earlier this

Dearborn Federal Savings

The suspect handed a teller a note saying a bag contained a bomb.

Bank in Dearborn Heights was robbed on July 13. The FBI, which is handling both cases, thinks the robberies were committed by the same suspect, Special Agent Hank Glaspie said. "We have leads and are continuing in our investigation," he added. The suspect in both incidents is described as a white male, 40-50-years-old, 5-feet 7-inches to 5feet 9-inches tall and 240-250 pounds. The man has graying hair, wears a dark-colored baseball cap, a dark green pullover shirt with no collar and gray polyester pants.

Canton's D&N Bank was hit late Friday afternoon.

After placing a bag on the counter, the suspect handed a teller a note saying the bag contained a bomb and that he would detonate it unless she filled a separate bag full of money.

"It was a fake device," Glaspie

The suspect indicated he had a gun in the Dearborn Heights incident.

The Canton bank teller complied with the suspect's demand. He then fled the scene.

Canton police arrived shortly after the man made his getaway. The bank and surrounding buildings were secured and evacuat-

Michigan State Police were called to the scene to dispose of the bag. No injuries were reported as a result of the incident.

Anyone with information about the robbery is asked to contact Canton Police at (734) 397-3000, Dearborn Heights Police at (313) 277-6770 or the FBI at (313) 965-2323.

A reward is being offered for information leading to an arrest and prosecution of the suspect.

DISCUSSION OF MARTIN LUTHER KING'S BIRTHDAY OBSERVATION

Reverend Bryan Smith, Geneva Presbyterian Church, stated that by not making a decision in this matter, Canton Township opens the door for the community to be seen in an unflattering way It allows people to see the community as resistant, unconcerned and unresponsive to issues facing people of color. A decision on this matter can either reinforce racial distrust and separation or it can help build bridges with the larger community. Reverend Smith's hope is that Canton Township wants to be known as a community committed to racial harmony and will express that commitment in a concrete way by making Dr. King's birthday a township holiday

Pastor Joseph Stevenson, Liberty Baptist Church (located in the city of Detroit on the city's east side), explained that he is a four (4) year resident of Canton Township. As a leader of people, Paster Stevenson realized that the people that who are lead tend to foster their leaders and to develop the same attitude and personality as those leaders have. Pastor Stevenson's premise to establish a day of township recognition that has already been recognized nationally by the federal and state government, as well as most of the local governments in the area. Afford-ability is not the issue, it is acceptability. Acceptability without accessibility is saying in essence that there is not a full understanding of the sensitivity of the issues. The petition to honor this day is based solely and soulfully in the interest of racial balance, community excellence in the interests of the children of this community and in the interest of the aging seniors. It is not about the principle of too many holidays, it is about an investment of interest into the dream of Dr. King.

Earl Truss, President of Western Wayne County NAACP, explained that approximately three (3) years ago, discussion with Westland Mayor Thomas began with the result that one year later, Dr. King's birthday was observed Westland has a march on that day with various speakers. It is a complete celebration on that day

Duke Marrow, 7060 Pittsford, stated that on August 28, 1963, approximately one and one-half million people went to Washington D.C. to listen to an Atlanta Preacher with a dream of children walking together. regardless of their color It was a very momentous occasion where at the conclusion, everyone held hands and sang. Everyone that was there vowed to see this dream to completion, but after 35 years, it is still not completed Looking back, that was one of the most defining moments of conscience for this country Canton Township has the opportunity to say that the township believes in that dream by supporting Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday as

It is believed that the reason that governments have endorsed and close on Dr. King's birthday is to endorse the civil rights struggle that began in the 1950's and its peak moments in the 1960's until Dr King's death in 1968 For this reason, it is appropriate that government give this day the sanction of symbolism

Supervisor Yack explained that Study Sessions are for discussions regarding issues that are not immediately before the Board of Trustees. The Township Administration and staff will further discuss this issue and will move quickly to make a decision on this matter

John Stewart's education policy makes him top choice

With the legislative career of Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, coming to an end, at least temporarily, via term limits, four candidates have been scrambling for votes to fill the void in the 20th District State House race.

We believe the best candidate to emerge from that scramble is attorney John Stewart, R-Plymouth.

Stewart has long been a visible, vocal and important part of the local community. He was one of the driving forces behind the statewide summit on education held at Plymouth Salem High School last fall. His group, Michigan Citizens for Fairness in Public School Funding, brought 15 legislators and more than 350 participants together for the second-annual forum to discuss education issues ranging from MEAP tests to funding.

Despite his lack of experience as an educator, Stewart has demonstrated enough of a grip on the issues to win the endorsement of the Michigan Education Association.

Stewart's local involvement is strong. He's a member of the Plymouth Colonial Kiwanis, he's a local businessman and both of his children are public school products. He's lived in Plymouth for 16 years, he's been a member of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce for 14 years and is a member of First Presbyterian Church.

Stewart also has the most experience in local government, although his only four-year term on the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees ended in 1992. Dave McDonald is the current mayor of the City of Plymouth, but his service on the city commission has lasted just three years, his time on the Zoning Board of Appeals notwithstanding.

Trivialities? Maybe. But in a field this crowded, it's the little things that make the difference.

There are things to like about all four of the candidates:

■ Matt Cowles. The 23-year-old former legislative aide to House members Bob Geake and Dan DeGrow, obviously has a working knowledge of the way things go in Lansing. His stances on vouchers and charter schools are opinions we could

His learning curve about procedural matters would be shorter than most. We think he has a bright future in politics. But it's in the future. Not now. We

My name is Larry Donahee - everyone calls me "Duke" - and I, my wife, Renee, and our three children run Donahee Farms produce stand.

We work many long hours, up before dawn and not in bed until long after sundown. But I'm not complaining about that; we're not doing it just "for the money" but because we enjoy our life and our customers. We are proud of the fresh produce we can offer

Every opportunity we have to contribute to the community, we do. One of the things we've always done is allow fliers and notices to be posted at our produce stand for community events, fund-raisers charity events whatever material anyone has asked us to put out we have. We feel that we are almost a community "billboard" where Salem residents can find out what's going on.

However, just this week, a Salem Township board member harassed my wife about "political material" at our stand. She (my wife) pointed out to him that any and all candidates were welcome to leave their material at our stand, but that just one had. She also told him that no political signs were at our produce stand or our home, mostly because we are concerned about the current Salem Board's harassment of our right to be in business.

In fact, this board member told my wife that she should "seriously reconsider" having this material displayed, or the township would have to look into it. Since the Township has used its position to threaten our livelihood several times over the past four years, she took this threat of abuse of power seriously.

Today I am setting the record straight. Anyone can place their material at our business. If the township decides to "look into it" they can look at it in court. This is still a free country, and I am sick and tired of being harassed and intimidated while trying to make a living.

You board members claim you want open space and are for the farmer, but you seem hell-bent in getting rid of a family that contributes to the community and helps to keep open space in

■ Art, politics bad mix

juried summer art fair?

If you ask the organizers of Plymouth's always successful Art in the Park, the most likely answer would be, it doesn't belong.

No campaign materials, no campaign signs, no campaigning whatsoever, since organizers did want to politicize this community event. Apparently Plymouth Mayor Dave McDonald didn't get the message, or else chose to pull a fast one on the DDA, the organizers of Art in the Park and the other three candidates. Instead of promoting Art in the Park, the mayor of Plymouth was there to promote his run for state representative. The Plymouth mayor set up his campaign booth at the site of a former gas station on the corner of Ann Arbor

Trail and Main Street, right in the heart of Art in the Park. From this You, Maurice Breen, jeopardized "the health, safety and welfare" of not location, his workers approached peoonly the citizens of Plymouth Townple on the street, passed out balloons

I hear friends in neighboring communities speak of the activities their children are able to participate in because of the facilities they have and I wonder why we don't.

After reading about Steve Mann's accomplishments as a decorated Plymouth Township police officer and his long time leadership in the police union, I think it's time to make a change. We need someone who wants to work with the township board to move our community forward. Wayne County voters will decide on two tax issues in the Aug. 8 primary. Taxpayers in Wayne County often feel overburdened by the county tax, which is considerably higher than that paid in nearby Oakland and Macomb counties. In addition the county has had serious deficits over the last two years, raising questions about how county money is managed. Residents of Western Wayne County, also, complain, with some justification, that many county services often do not benefit them directly.

Still the two tax renewal issues deserve voter consideration.

The larger of the two renewal issues is a 1-mill general fund operating millage up for a 10-year renewal. The actual millage is 0.9627 under the Headlee rollback. This is a supplement to the county's 5.7225 mill general levy.

Proposition O on the ballot is expected to raise $35.9 million for such programs as arrest, detention and prosecution of criminals; juvenile court and related services; public health services; recreation programs and county parks operations; job training; and senior citizen services and medical programs for the poor, the disabled and the aged. Dropping this supplement now would be detrimental to needed county services.

Given the county's current needs, we recommend approval of Proposition O while continuing to urge more fiduciary responsibility from the county.

Proposition P is controversial in Western Wayne. When the park millage was first approved in 1996, it received strong opposition in this area. Local officials argued that too many projects were going to the city of Detroit, while the suburbs paid the largest share of the bill. We believe that the quarter mill tax has been a benefit for the whole county. The parks in general are in better condition and several area parks have benefited from new projects, including a $182,000 shelter at Plymouth Riverside and $390,000 in capital improvements at Redford's Bell Creek.

The parks department has made a good case for continuing the work that has been started. Many proposed projects will benefit the parks along Hines Drive. The parks millage has been a good investment, and we urge renewal of the quarter mill tax for another five years.

"I think it would allow people to see our community as being (in touch) with the concerns of people of color," said the Rev. Bryan Smith of Geneva Presbyterian Church. "It's an opportunity for the people of Canton to make a statement." The Rev. Joe Stevenson of New Liberty Missionary Baptist Church in Detroit agrees. Stevenson, a Canton resident, said a local holiday that mirrors the national one would be "an investment in the dream of Dr. King."

It's easy to see where township officials don't feel a great deal of pressure to act. The African-American population in Canton, though growing slightly, is still tiny. But people representing other ethnicities are making the township home in increasing numbers and you'd think allowing the King holiday - with all it entails - would be seen as embracing that diversity.

Board members should also recognize that the momentum is already in place here. Holding out to be one of the last communities to declare a King holiday makes little sense.

Of course there is a cost to shutting down the township to honor King. And residents do have a right to expect the municipal services they pay taxes to support will be available to them. But I think most would agree that a one-day holiday for King isn't too much to ask.

The cost in human terms for not honoring King is far greater. King's letter from jail, a 10,000word missive put together on scraps of paper discroetly passed along to King by a trusty, was actually a response to published remarks by eight area ministers following his arrest in Birmingham, Ala. The confrontation between the freedom marchers and legendary racist Birmingham pub-lic safety commissioner "Bull" Connor was particularly harsh.

The echoes of King's letter are abundantly clear in the fight to recognize what he stood for in communities across the land: We are all in this

The school voucher proposal will be on the statewide ballot in the Nov. 7 general election. Placed on the ballot by a petition drive sponsored by a well-funded outfit called Kids First! Yes!, the proposal, if approved by voters, would create a voucher program for students in schools where the graduation rate is less than two-thirds what it was during the 1998-99 school year. Students in these districts would get a publicly funded voucher worth $3,150 to help pay tuition at any public, private or religious school.

To my mind, there are three big problems with the voucher plan.

First, the proposal won't affect just poor, badly managed districts with low graduation rates, such as Detroit. A section of the ballot proposal would amend the state Constitution to let voters in any school district decide whether to adopt the plan. To get the voucher plan on the ballot in any given school district in Michigan would require only a petition signed by 10 percent of district voters who voted in the school election the previ-

Most local school elections have pretty low turnouts, sometimes as low as 50 votes cast in an uncontested school board election. And 10 percent of this small number is a very small number, indeed. For example, all it would take to get the voucher proposal on the ballot is 291 signatures in Plymouth-Canton district.

Skeptics of the voucher plan have been quick to charge this provision in the proposal is nothing more than a device to open the door to wholesale privatization of the public school system in Michigan. Advocates say that's OK, because all it does is give local voters a choice.

I think it's a dangerous proposal because it provides a way for an organized minority to dabble with serious issues: separation of church and state and the future of our public schools. Serious matters should require seriously large public participation.

Second, the voucher proposal would authorize $3,150 in public tax dollars for each voucher to fund private and religious schools. However, these schools are not subject to a variety of accountability and public disclosure statutes that public schools are, despite the fact that they would be receiving public money.

Private school boards are not subject to the Open Meetings Act, for example. So a private school getting public voucher money would not have to hold its board meetings and transact business in public. And religious schools are not subject to the Freedom of Information Act. So a parochial school receiving public tax funds would not be subject to scrutiny about how the money is being spent.

The plan provides a way for an organized minority to dabble with serious issues; lacks provisions that scrutinize how state money is being spent; and subsidizes religious schools whose doctrines some may oppose.

This is not an abstract concern. One of the biggest problems with charter schools, which also receive state per-pupil support, is that many object to public scrutiny of their activities. An investigation two years ago turned up well-documented cases of abuse - the principal of a charter school renting a building owned by his brother, for example.

If we are serious about supporting private and parochial schools with public tax dollars, at a minimum we ought to make sure these schools are required to be subject to the same protections of public accountability and open decision making that public schools are.

Third, the voucher proposal in effect overturns the long-standing principle that public funds should not be used to pay for religious or private

If parents wish their children to attend a parochial or private school, that certainly is their choice, which they pay for with their own dollars. But it's hard for me to see why my tax dollars should be used to subsidize another family in sending their child to a religious school whose doctrines I oppose.

You need to keep your eye on the bouncing ball in Plymouth politics

Watch carefully this election season, and you're bound to see just about every method of campaigning known to man.

What does this mean to the average voter? Just that you'll have to sift through what everyone's doing in order to make your pick when you shuffle into the voting booth Aug. 8.

Let's start in the trustees race, where Jerry Trumpka is trying to get elected for the first time, and Abe Munfakh is seeking another term nearly 10 years after the last one ended.

out. Voters around the township started getting calls last week pointing out absentee ballots had gone out.

"Don't forget to return the ballot," the message implied, "and while you're at it, please consider Jerry Trumpka and Abe Munfakh." That's a pretty interesting tactic for a local race. It's been used for years nationally and even statewide, but it's uncommon for local elections. But Trumpka, who is confined to a wheelchair, needed to find unique ways to get his name before the voters, since door-to-door would be virtually impossible. This is the same guy who had a campaign CD made, with a song put to the tune of "Mambo No. 5." The thing that bugged some people, including was that, since the telemarketers mentioned the township in their message, voters were being hornswoggled into thinking the message itself was being sent by the township.

Then you have the supervisor's race. We covered a political race out in Oxford eight years ago where the incumbent (in this case the treasurer) was being challenged by a newcomer no one had ever heard of. The newcomer was all over the map - signs, mailings, door-to-door - while the incumbent sat back, apparently content to depend on name recognition and accomplishments.

Unfortunately for the incumbent, the name didn't do much good because enough vociferous people were unhappy with her. And her lack of zeal in campaigning let her opponent get the Sound familiar? Steve Mann has been on the streets since Day One. He's got yard signs everywhere. He's picked up a couple of important endorsements, particularly from the AFSCME. union folks (at least some of whom, presumably, work for the incumbent, Kathleen Keen Keen McCarthy, meanwhile, has waited until recently to do much of anything visible in terms of campaigning. She may have gotten some sympathy out of last week's public forum at the library, where Mann attacked at every turn, but will it translate into votes?

Then there's the treasurer's race, where Ron Edwards, who is finishing his first term in office, is trying to fend off an experienced politician in Law, naturally, knows how to campaign. He's never lost a race and he knows how to say what people want to hear. He's also perfected the art of taking half of what is actually said and repeating it like it's the whole story.

Law, the term-limited state representative and former township supervisor, put out a mailing recently that quoted several sources with things about Edwards.

The piece included parts of stories from The Community Crier, the Plymouth Observer and minutes of Plymouth Township board meetings. Here're a couple of examples:

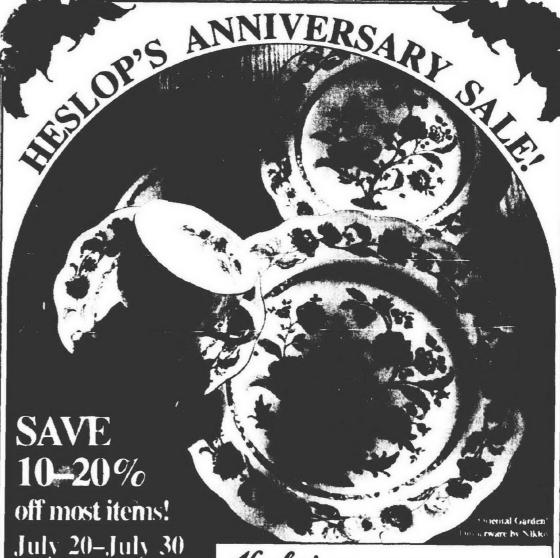

Edwards voted in favor of tax increases when millage requests were put on the ballot in 1998. Edwards, naturally, claims he was simply putting the issue before voters. (Voters turned the requests down, by the way.).

■ Edwards voted himself a 10 percent pay raise after less than a month in office. What actually happened was the board voted pay raises for a number of people, including the treasurer, whose pay still lags behind comparable salaries

It's a time-honored political ploy, one Law obviously hopes will resonate with voters. It's tough for us to believe voters can't see through such a trick, but you never know.

After all, this is politics. Brad Kadrich is the community editor of the Plymouth Observer. He can be reached at 459-2700 or by e-mail by bkadrich@oe.

plied with humane treatment standards mandated under the Animal Welfare Act, passed by the U.S. Congress during the mid-1970s.

"The USDA is violating the law by allowing irresponsible dog breeders to cause suffering to thousands of puppies," said Holly Hazard, executive director of the DDAL. "The agency's negligent actions not only take a tragic toll on animals but also fail to protect those buying pets. This suit will force USDA to ... shut down cruel and inhumane puppy mills, and other unscrupulous pet outlets."

Larry Nathan would welcome such developments, primarily to put an end to those who breed and sell with no other motivation than "the almighty dollar." That goes for puppy mills and pet shops.

According to Nathan, puppy mills "will never be like a loving home. And if pet stores didn't buy them we wouldn't have puppy mills."

Pet stores rely on puppy mills for the dogs they sell.

The problem with puppy mills, as documented in numerous reports and articles, is that conditions are plain unhealthy. Wire cages filled with puppies, of all breeds, often are stacked one on top of another. Animal waste drips down on poor, unsuspecting animals in lower cages.

And, said Heather Secco, the dogs "could be locked up for five or 10 days in a cage, and they never get to run, be out and socialize (with other dogs and humans). They'll start going

Not what it seems

Customers at mall pet stores also might not get the "perfect breeder dog" they think they're purchasing, and for top dollar, too, she continued.

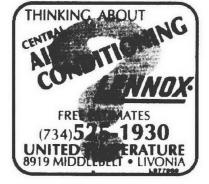

Secco and others suggested trying to not get emotionally hooked to a pet store puppy that's placed into their hands by an employee, simply because the lives of their moms and dads back in the puppy mills are abysmal.

Nathan's organization, through donations, pays for medical bills of the animals it rescues. That includes having Farmington veterinarian David Carron agreed that dogs endure terrible conditions in puppy mills.

"I've seen the same things on TV that you have," said Carron, on staff at Plaza Veterinary Hospital. "They just don't get the socialization they need. But that's not to say you can't find a nice puppy" that took the puppy mill-pet store route.

The problem is, those dogs often have health problems that go undetected for several years.

First test a life altering lesson indergarten and grade school were a breeze, for the most part. Aside from the humiliation of spilling a box of crayons all over the floor on my first day of school, I enjoyed the whole concept of learning. It was exciting!

Each day, I went home imbued with new discoveries. I was particularly enthusiastic about visuals like drawing, coloring and writing on the chalkboard. My natural penchant for art gave me confidence, thus helping me with the social aspect of school.

Art was the only subject that seemed as easy as writing my name. Arithmetic was my most challenging subject. Never will I forget staying up far past my bedtime, trying desperately to learn the multiplication tables. It made no sense to me as my father grilled me repeatedly.

His patience grew slim and I felt like an imbecile, tears rolled down my chubby cheeks. Finally, he remembered my visual forte and began tearing pieces of paper into squares, then created what may have been the first flash cards. Suddenly, it came together like putting the final piece in a puzzle. Something ignited! Answers spewed from my mouth faster than my father could hold up the numbers. The combination of repetition and actually seeing the numbers was the cure for my block.

One Friday at the end of the school day, our teacher announced that my class would be given a test on the following Monday. A test! What was a test? Terror swelled and rolled around inside me like angry pythons. Doomsday had come. The bus ride home was a blur. On my mind was only one thing — the dreaded test, whatever that was.

Leaping on the bill was unaware of gushy and and deep rits in the dirt road from hours of heavy rain. As the yellow bus pulled sluggishly away, its tires splattered me with sludge. I started to take a step toward the farmhouse when I realized something was terribly wrong. The trough in which I stood had become the Grand Canyon.

Standing in a torrent of rain, I began shricking like a siren while sinking deeper into the muck. With the teacher's grisly announcement and Beelzebub sucking me down into the depths of hell, I decided it was time to solicit help from the heavens. Just as I began praying, my mother emerged from the house with an umbrella.

Struggling frantically, I managed to squeeze out of the boots that were

Friends share stories on the stoop

he only thing better than a beautiful front porch is one filled with lots of good friends. Rainy Kirchhoff recently hosted a luncheon for 12 women, most lifelong friends from Howell, Mich., in her spacious Greek Revival-style home in Plymouth. Some of the women have since moved, but many still live in Howell. None of them would miss the annual get-together, which they take turns hosting.

"It's just nice to keep in contact," said Kirchhoff, 60, about the tradition that began after her mother died 30 years ago. Most of the women were her mother's friends.

As in years past, after the last slice of cake was cut and the punch glasses refilled, talk turned to the "remember when's." The women reminisced about friends, family ... and summertime on the front porch.

Memories

"It was just an old-fashioned porch with a swing, a railing and ivy vines," said Vivian Erwin, 88, of Howell. "It was my job to paint the furniture. One year, I painted it black. My parents didn't like it. After that, it was always dusty looking."

As a young woman, Erwin, who grew up on a farm, lived in town since there were no buses to take her back and forth to work. However, come the weekend, she'd always manage to get a ride home. She confessed to "smoothing" a few boyfriends on her parents' porch, but "that happened mostly in the summertime."

Erwin's daughter, Joan Moore, 58, of Howell remembers the smaller, enclosed side porch of her parent's home on Clinton Street. "We'd eat out there, and on rainy days it was Marguerite Baldwin, 90, of Howell recalled her grandfather's long, narrow front porch in Tecumseh, Mich. "He made all the little spindles himself. The porch had an upper deck. I just remember that porch more than any other." she said.

Phyllis Main, 78, of Howell was lucky. She grew up on a twoswing porch, which she had to sweep every day. "All the kids came over, and the boys always sat on the railing. All the time if it rained, the kids would be on our porch."

Thelma Garland, 93, of Howell can close her eyes and see her great grandmother's double deck porch in Byron, Mich., with the trumpet vine that grew up its side. She can place herself back on that porch during a time when Memorial Day was celebrated with reverence. Her great-grandfather had served in the Civil War.

"It meant a lot to someone who had someone in the war," she said. "We kids always marched to the cemetery and to the Shiawassee Bridge to throw flowers into the

Learning to love your neighbor takes mutual respect

By Diane Gale Andreassi Special Writer

The faces over our fences and alongside our houses are often more familiar to us than family members. Learning to get along makes good sense for living harmoniously and goes a long way in being dubbed – neighborly.

Jill Gregory of Garden City has simple expectations from her neighbors: No thongs or inappropriately worn Speedos.

Gregory also tries to be considerate of the people who live near her. In fact, following the Golden Rule was key to most of the people we talked to in an informal survey about what it takes to be a good neighbor.

Many of the suggestions included silencing your barking dog by bringing him in the house; telling your neighbors ahead of time about planned garage sales and making sure your teenagers' radios aren't rattling your neighbors windows and nerves.

Grand entrance: The four-column Greek

Revival-style home attracts attention.

Practicing some simple backyard etiquette might make the difference between growling every time you step outside to having wonderful lifetime friends with whom you share garden produce, recipes and a little neighborhood news.

We called Canton, Plymouth, Livonia, Plymouth Township and Garden City residents randomly chosen from the telephone book and asked for their neighborly advice.

"Our neighbors don't dress this way, but I've always thought it would be awful to look out my window and see someone in a thong or a man who's wearing a Speedo who shouldn't be, or you can't tell if he is or not," Gregory

She also tries not to make noise with the lawn mower or other garden tools after 9 p.m. "even though it's still light out during the summer."

side," she explained.

In general, Gregory said, "we try to be considerate of our neighbors."

Carol Guerriero of Livonia also tries to think of her neighbors' needs and makes every effort to make sure that whatever she's doing in her backyard doesn't disturb them, especially if they're having a party.

"And my neighbors take the same considerations in mind," she added.

William Harrison, of Garden City, suggests taking a "look at the clock and consider if that was you trying to get some sleep."

He also suggests using a simple rule: "The key ought to be that in the summer if it's dark, quiet down."

"These things that people try to do after 11 p.m. at night is incredible," Harrison said. "I get up at 4 o'clock in the morning. Parties are fine during the weekend."

Aside from good manners, many communities have ordinances that dictate how we behave.

the bathroom. Whatever that test was, I was not going to be any part of it. Calling through the bathroom door, Mother told me the bus was waiting. All my fears gushed out in uncontrollable sobs. Clinging to the pipes beneath the sink and bracing my legs mulishly against the bathtub, I screamed hysterically that I was not getting on that bus.

The bus departed without me. Convinced that the tests were over, I was eager to go to school overcame me and I sprinted for the next day. Unbeknownst to me, Mother had alerted the teacher about my profound fear of the test.

After we had pledged allegiance to our flag and country, the teacher called me up to her desk. Reeking of guilt, I dolefully listened as she expressed sympathy for my illness the previous day. She then handed me a couple of sheets of paper, requesting that I return the assignment to her when finished. Promptly and effortlessly, I completed the work that was a series of questions on material we had already covered, then placed them on her desk.

The teacher studied the papers for a few minutes and subsequently called me to her desk a second time. She told me I had just taken yesterday's test and praised me for achieving the highest score possible. In that mitigating moment, my panic about tests evaporated.

noise, according to John Weyer, building official.

Livonia has a quiet time ordinance from 11 p.m. until 7 a.m. when construction activities and the use of lawn equipment is prohibited.

And as far as those unsightly trash receptacles, they can't be placed at the curb before 6 p.m. the day before collection and they must be taken in at least 12 hours after pickup in Canton.

How about the neighbor who seems to have the energy to do everything but cut his grass? Ordinances throughout Wayne and Oakland counties address property standards that require grass be kept trim. In Canton, the law says grass must not reach more than six inches high.

Ordinances abound on loose gutters and shingles, peeling paint and other general housekeeping issues that are also on the books in an effort to keep neighborhoods looking their best.

Canton's mechanical ordinance addresses that whirring noise from your neighbor's air conditioner. It says that air conditioner condensers have to be kept within 12-feet of the adjoining property.

Fences can be a wonderful shield from unsightly backyards and neighbors from Hades. They can also buffer the constantly barking dog and screaming kids.

While they can be used as a tool for reconciliation, they can also lead to many neighborhood disagreements, according to area building officials.

"Fence installations can either help or deteriorate some of the harmony or conditions between properties," Weyer said. "Some-

"INDUSTRIAL" District. Containing 7.2 acres, more or less times fences help to make better neighbors."

Canton recently amended its fence ordinance to reflect that both sides of the fence have to be finished or have the same appearances.

Still, the neighbor getting the unsolicited fence may not like the new scenery and that can cause problems, too.

Like in the case of a 15-yearold Canton resident, who said his parents weren't home when the Observer called. He explained that he "was peeved" about his neighbor not staining their side of a newly installed shared fence.

A woman named Sydney in Canton said she lived in a corner house, but doesn't like people seeing every side" of her home. She also advises putting up fences.

"Where I am, very few people have fences, because it's seen as anti-social," Sydney said. "In Canada people very firmly believe in having fences in backyards. Here people say keep it open and let everything be free."

But not everyone we called had a gripe. Some people seem to get along with everyone, like George Andrews, who lives in downtown Plymouth.

"I must be very fortunate, because I think I have some good backyard neighbors and I really can't think of any problems for von to consider "We use our backyard an awful lot. We eat in our yard a lot and sit out there a lot. It's a very pleasant situation with the neighbors and all."

And Marci Baker of Plymouth Township said she doesn't have to deal with a lot of noise from her neighbors or their pets. But she does have some friendly advice to offer.

"I would think if you're having a party you'd let your neighbors know so they can tolerate you for an evening or at least let them know how long it will last," Baker said.

"Better, yet, invite your neighbor over," she said.

Muriel Greenleaf of Plymouth Township also tries to pay attention to her neighbors' needs.

"My husband didn't cut the lawn the other day because our neighbors had company in their backyard," she said.

A Livonia resident, who asked to remain anonymous, advises keeping radios set on low volume. Try to keep the racket down from laughter and talking, too, he added.

"Keep (your backyard) neat, clean and danger free," she said.

A Livonia man, who also asked us not to use his name, offered this: "A lot of things come to mind. I think, basically, you should be courteous to your neighbors. If you wouldn't appreciate it, then you wouldn't do it to your neighbors. It's a matter of respecting other people."

The problem with ordinances, he said, is enforcement.

"Society has changed everyhe said. school and in public. It's the way the people bring their children up. People don't respect their elders and it goes from generation to generation."

water."

Ice cream

It wasn't the porch, but rather what was served on her grandmother's big front porch in Fort Thomas, Ky. that brings tears to the eyes of Dixie Cannon, 88, of Howell. "I remember eating homemade ice cream and cake on the porch. That was a ritual every Sunday for the Kentucky people." Vola Hutson, 88, of Ferndale, Kirchhoff's aunt, lived in a house with two big porches, one of which was cement. "It had cracks in it perfect for hopscotch." she said. "That's where I spent a lot of time." When Hutson was 16, her father built a long, wooden porch on the side of the house. "That's where my husband and I would swing before we were married."

"What else did you do on the swing, Aunt Vo?" teased Kirchhoff.

"It's private," snapped Hutson. The memories of her parents' screened porch in Howell just tumbled out for Nancy Harrison, 61, of Plymouth. "We'd have lots of parties out there, from graduations to prom parties. It was a nice place to gather. We'd sit and watch the neighbors go by. We ate lots of suppers out there. We had a mock orange and it was so fragrant."

Mothers and daughters

Kirchhoff added her own memories to the reverie. "We had a glider. When you sit in a glider you just kind of watch the world go by. It lulls you into serenity. I remember sitting out there and just talking. There was something secure about that, just sitting out and hearing the birds chirping. "My family talked a lot, especially my mom, sister and me. When we came home from college, we'd get up and have coffee and sit on the porch."

Her sister, Rosemary Earl, 62, of Howell, had more humorous memories. "Remember the two white rabbits I raised on the porch?" she asked. Kirchhoff wasn't sure. Earl laughed. "There were little pellets all over the place," she said.

After lunch, Kirchhoff's daughter, Krista Jewett, 34, and Harrison's daughter, Michelle Harrison, 33, both of whom live in Plymouth, joined the group. They talked about walking home from kindergarten together and eating peanut butter and cherry jam sandwiches on Krista's

"We didn't get cherry jam at my house," said Michelle.

When Krista and her husband built their new house, they designed it around a big front porch. Krista wanted to start her own porch memories.

"I want everything these ladies have," she said. "I want an icecream social. Life seems less complicated when you're on the porch. When I'm on the porch, everything changes. People say hello.'

Dr. Jekyll teaches important lesson about the power of choice

HARDIN

Teen Convention stealing a few moments with my family. My wife and our girls were sitting by a pond feeding some ducks what little bits of our sandwiches they didn't want while I read a book — this time one of the classics — Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

Those of you who read this column regularly know by now that I look for Biblical truth in just about everything I do. (It's sort of a side effect of conversion; you see the universe differently. More on that in another column.) And not very far into the pages of Robert Louis Stevenson's masterpiece I noticed something which again reminded me of spiritual principles clearly stated in the Scriptures.

Most of you know the story. Dr. Henry Jekyll makes a living as a scientist by day, but at night explores the dark side of his evil nature as the notorious Edward Hyde. Very early in this macabre tale (chapter 3, to be exact) the lawyer and friend of Henry Jekyll, Mr. Utterson, urges Dr. Jekyll to send Edward sat in Ripley, Hyde away from his home, based West Virginia, on the abominable reports given in May of to him about Sir Hyde. Henry at the Jekyll responds with clarity of West Virginia thought and sincerest intention. His words: "I will tell you one thing: The moment I choose I can be rid of Mr. Hyde.

The reference only makes sense if you understand the context of the book: Henry Jekyll and Edward Hyde are one and the same. There are not two separate individuals here. Jekyll's administrative staff knows no different. They feel secure in Jekyll's presence, yet horrified at the mention of Hyde. And yet, Henry Jekyll is the very man perpetrating murder in the streets under the name of Edward Hyde. And yet Jekyll is coherent and responsible enough to know that the cessation of this evil is his personal choice.

It reminded me of the struggle that Paul had in his attempt to put off evil and do what was morally and Biblically right. Paul penned these words in reference to his struggle: "I know that nothing good lives in me, that is, in my sinful nature. For I have the desire to do what is good, but I cannot carry it out. For what I do is not the good I want to do; no, the evil I do not want to do - this I keep on doing." (Romans 7:18-19).

Paul's words confess the struggle of a man caught between and doing what his flesh wants. Does this have any application flesh cried out, "Pleasure!" for today? Absolutely. The Spirit of Holiness continually calls us to do what God wants, in spite of what our flesh wants. He calls me to be faithful to my wife when my flesh cries, "Adultery!" He calls me to be honest in my financial dealings when my flesh cries, "Cheat!" He calls me to be forgiving when my flesh cries doing what he knows God wants out, "Revenge!" He called Paul to a life of holiness when his

How did Paul win this battle? He didn't. He allowed Jesus Christ to fight the battle for him. Paul concludes by saying, "Who will rescue me from this body of death? Thanks be to God through Jesus Christ our Lord!" (Romans 7:24-25).

It all still comes down to choice. No excuses. No "orientations." No pre-dispositions. The moment you CHOOSE, you can be rid of Mr. Hyde!

OBSERVER SPORTS SCENE

ODP qualifiers

The United States Youth Soccer Association has selected the players for its Olympic Development Program Region II pool team, and a pair of Canton girls have been selected in their age divisions.

Marissa Sarkesian and Rachel Rudzis were both chosen by regional and national coaches at the regional camp in DeKalb, Ill. At this camp, the top 18 players from each of the 14 midwestern states competed for selection to the pool team; a total of 30 were picked in each age group.

Sarkesian and Rudzis both play for the Michigan Hawks, which recently captured the Region II club championship.

Sarkesian will be a freshman this fall at Plymouth Salem. Rudzis will be a freshman at Plymouth Christian

According to Bonnie Skover, regional administrator for the ODP, "being selected to the regional pool is a major accomplishment. (They) will be observed now and in the future for possible selection to a United States National Team.

"Some of these players have gone on to win Olympic gold medals in 1996 and are represented in the women's World Cup Team."

Softball clinic

Any girls entering fourth through eighth grade who are parish members or attending school at Our Lady of Good Counsel are invited to attend a girls fastpitch softball clinic from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Aug. 19 at McClumpha Cost is $10, which includes lunch. For further information, call Kim Del-Col at (734) 454-3403.

Hockey beginners

The Canton Amateur Hockey Association will begin registration for a limited number of 5-8 year-old children who are interested in learning how to play hockey. The program will focus on learning to skate and basic hockey skills.

This Mini-Mite program will be limited to 50 players. The program will be from 7-8:30 a.m. on Sundays from July 30 to March 25, all at the Arctic Pond Ice Arena, located at 40475 Plymouth Road in Plymouth.

Registration forms are available at the Canton Parks and Recreation office at the Summit in Canton.

Baseball tryouts

The Michigan Indians travel baseball team will hold trycuts for the 2001 team at 4 p.m. on Sunday, August 27, at Massey Field in Plymouth.

This will be a 12-year-old team (must be 12 or younger after August 1, 2000) for the 2001 season. This is a very competitive level of play.

For more information, call Mark Glover at (248) 349-3392.

Hockey conditioning

Plymouth Canton's and Plymouth Salem's hockey teams will have three summer conditioning sessions at the Plymouth Cultural Center beginning July 21.

All Canton and Salem students interested in playing hockey in the upcoming school year are invited to participate. Cost is $15 per session or $40 for all three, payable by July 21. Checks should be made payable to the Plymouth-Canton Hockey Booster

Salem players will have their sessions from 5-6:30 p.m. July 21-23; Canton players will have their sessions from 6:30-8 p.m. July 21-23.

For more information, call Sandy Bida (for Salem) at (734) 455-939 or Chris Wolfe (Canton) at (734) 453-

Football skills camp

The Plymouth Salem Linebackers will host a Headstart Football Skills Camp for ninth and 10th graders from 1-4 p.m. July 24-26 behind Salem HS.

Cost is $10 for advance registrants (by July 21) and $15 afterwards. Make checks payable to the Plymouth Salem Linebackers and send them to Plymouth Salem Linebackers, P.O.

Box 87843-0843, Canton, MI, 48187. Campers are requested to bring water, football cleats and running shoes. For more information, call (734) 455-3291 or (734) 416-7768.

Small track dreams

Flat Rock draws the die-hard race fans

BY PAUL BRAUDRY STAFF WRITER pheaudry@oe.h

It's not Michigan International Speedway, but it doesn't claim to be.

It's not a two-mile superspeedway, but a 1/4-mile of banked asphalt. It doesn't hold 150,000 fans for a NASCAR Winston Cup race, but has been known to bulge at the seams to hold 3,500 on a great night for the ARCA series.

And that's the beauty of Flat Rock Speedway, located on Telegraph Road just about halfway between Redford and Monroe.

In a land of million-dollar purses and multi-million dollar sponsorships, Flat Rock is a place where hot dogs are a buck, burgers are two, parking is free, a lucky program might win you a door prize, and you can buy a souvenir without feeling a dent in the wal-

Just about every summer Saturday night, the speedway draws fans and racers from all over southeast Michigan - with Observerland getting more than its fair share. And the same goes for its 1/2-mile sister track in Toledo on Fridays.

Those who come down here to work - drivers, owners and others - don't do it for the money. They do it because they love the sport.

Watching Ken Ahlgren run around the track takes some getting used to.

It's not because he's unsuccessful or unpopular. It's that his division - the Figure 8 - is a little unorthodox. The race is exactly what the name implies - racers use two turns of the track and cut through the middle of the infield in a figure 8 pattern.

"It can get a little hairy," Ahlgren said. "There's Spartans reign over Wolverines

Ah, that Spartans-vs.-Wolverines rivalry. It always seems to bring out the best.

Certainly the names alone proved something in the opening round of the Metro Summer Hockey League playoffs. When the two teams bearing theses monikers met Tuesday at the Plymouth Cultural Center. it proved to be the best match of that round.

A wild third period saw the Wolverines trim a threegoal deficit to one, but the Spartans - thanks to a pair of empty-net goals in the game's final minute - held on for an 11-7 triumph, which was good for a trip to the MSHL semifinals.

The Spartans will play the Bulldogs at 8 p.m. tonight. The winner of that semifinal will advance to Sunday's championship game.

Ryan Thompson sparked the Spartans with three goals, two of them coming in the third period after the Wolverines had made it a one-goal game. Chad Husza contributed two goals and Joshua Moyses, Tony Keshishian (Plymouth), Scott Marlinga, Mike Schultz (Canton), Jason Weber (Livonia) and Brian Sutherland got one apiece.

Keshishian also had three assists, while Weber, Moyses, Sutherland and Schultz got two each.

Thomas Monnier and Kevin Brady (Livonia) were in goal for the Spartans.

The Wolverines got three goals from Jason Lawmaster (Westland) and single goals from Bryan Moore (Redford), Joe Jones (Farmington Hills), Chris Powroznik (Redford) and Kyle McNeilance (Livonia). McNeilance also had two assists.

Mark Lavender (Farmington Hills) and Rick Marnon (Canton) were in goal for the Wolves.

Lakers 13, Wildcats 5: Chris Libett, Nick Jardine and Bryan Marshall (Livonia) each scored two goals in the first two periods to help the Lakers build an insurmountable 9-3 lead after two periods, a deficit the Wildcats could not overcome in Tuesday's first-round MSHL playoff game played at the Cultural Center.

Libett finished with three goals two assists, while Brad Wolfe (Canton) added two goals. Jim Wheaton

Family finds that winning isn't the only thing of value in sport of target shooting

SPORTS EDITOR cjrisak@oe.hom

The best of the best will be there, trying to hone their already sharpened skills to something even more precise. A lot of other folks will be there, too, when the 116th National Target Championships get under way Sunday in Canton's Heritage Park. They can't match the Butch Johnsons and Vic Wunderles and Janet Dvkmans and Denise Parkers, the U.S. Olympians who figure to be the uncatchable carrots that others will chase anyway.

But they have their goals. Jim and Jane Nickell, of Canton, are among those who don't kid themselves. Finishing first in their respective divisions isn't out of the question, but it isn't likely,

He said this just a couple of days after injuring his wrist while working in his backyard. Others would have gone to the doctor, had x-rays taken, allowed the area to be immobilized with a cast.

Not Jim Nickell. Putting a cast on his wrist would prevent him from competing.

And target shooting is what he does. A construction worker by trade, he and his wife, Jane, spend their "off" hours shooting arrows, often at their Lincoln-Bowman Club in Brownstown Township. Their two daughters, Sara and Angela, have also taken up the sport.

The two youngest Nickells won't be competing this week. "I'd love to have them do it," said Jim, who with Jane Jane, married to Jim for 18 years next month, decided to join him as a competitive shooter three years ago. Jane shoots in the amateur ranks; Jim became a professional a year ago.

"It's been a real learning year." he said. "It's a lot harder than I thought. But I put a lot of pressure on myself. My expectations were high.

Among Jim's greatest successes was the team gold medal he won at the 1997 National Target Championships, the first year Canton hosted the event. He has since competed in national tournaments in Las Vegas a couple of times.

Jane's first year competing in the Nationals was in '98. "I have my scores from that year," she said. "I learned a lot of lessons in that shoot."

One adage both adhere to closely is to just do your best and not worry about anyone else.

"If I can just go out and shoot good arrows all day, I'll be happy," Jim said. "You can't control what everyone "I'd like to finish in the top 20 per-

She, too, knows how frustrating the sport can be. "My best score," she recalled, "was a 297 out of 300. I was so happy - and I still finished sixth."

aerodynamic benefits," Ahlgren daid. "But it's like any other racing car. You race, the beginning of the week you survey the damage, work on Tuesday and Wednesday to wrap it up, take a day off and it's back to racing."

Ahlgren, of Garden City, has had one of the most successful rons among area drivers over the past couple of years. He won the Figure 8 title at Toledo last year by 35 points, finished secand to Randy Cronenwitt at Flat Rock by 25 points and won the combined title by 10 points.

"Last year was a little nervewracking," Ahlgren said. "The aeries was winding down and it was close as far as points. We won in Toledo, but lost here and finished first overall. It got a little tight.'

This year, Ahlgren's won five races at Flat Rock, holding down third place in the overall standings, and three more at Toledo where he has the points lead .

"We wanted to move up and put together a late model car, but between the timing and finances, we can't get to it this year," said Ahlgren. "Maybe next year.

When Gary Lindhal was four, his dad took him to his first auto race at Jackson Motor Speed-

Some 44 years later, Lindhal is still bitten by the bug, although it hasn't put him behind the wheel.

Lindhal has been the track announcer at Flat Rock since 1987 and before that, did the track chores at Spartan Speedway near Lansing.

"And I still love it," said the Plymouth resident. "I love racing, I love the action and I love the crowd. It's like a rock and roll audience - just absolute excitement. You meet a lot of good people here . . . the drivers, the families and the fans."

Like any good public address announcer, Lindhal knows there's a fine line between announcing the action and screaming to the crowd.

"You want to be constant," Lindhal said. "It's like good background music. You want to be there so people listen, but you don't want to overwhelm them.'

In all his races over the years there is one race that stands out.

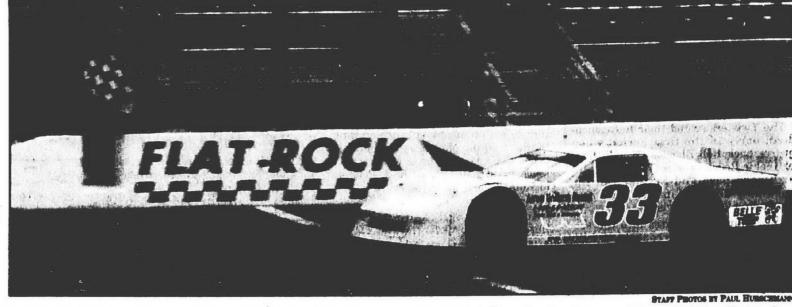

"We had a school bus Figure 8 competition here once," said Lindhal. "The crowd was pumped . . . it was standing room only and it was like a rock concert atmosphere. The competition was nuts . . . I mean school busses running a Figure 8 race? But the people here loved it.

Everyone walked out on a high." His passion isn't shared by his wife, Rita - the manager of the Box Bar in downtown Plymouth.

"She doesn't relate to it, but I guess it's a good relationship," said Lindhal. She lets me do my thing. She says, 'You're going to do it anyway."

A crew member is sent to look for Mike Jaynes. Meanwhile, team owner, Bill Barr, is expressing how valuable Jaynes is to the team.

'We threw him out of here,' said Barr, tongue firmly planted in cheek and unable to hide an ear-to-ear grin. "He gets in the way. We do that at the shop, too.

The team - JayBar Motorsports (www.mikejaynes.com) ran street stocks for the last three years and has struggled a bit this year, running 17th in points heading into the weekend

"We came out of the box this year pretty good," said Jaynes. The car was running good, but we lost it somewhere. I hit the wall and had a piece of the car break. It was the mount for the trailing arm. There are two on the bottom and one on the upper and the upper one was gone. Now that we've fixed it, we're doing a lot better."

The team even flirted with a "supercar" - running ARCA's major league, the Bondo-MarHyde series in 1998.

"It wasn't running in the quarter-mile bull ring like this, it was a superspeedway at Charlotte (N.C.)," said Jaynes. "We were running pretty well and even finished 13th of 55. We did pretty well, right up until I hit the wall head on at about 180 mph. It destroyed the car and it was a pretty bad one. We'd dumped all we had into the car. But if you're into racing, you do what you can to stay in it.'

Around these parts, you can't go to an event at a short track without running into one name -Cronenwett. There's Fred and Randy and Tom and Steve. This isn't a blood line, it's an oil and Tve been doing this for about 24 years now," said Westland's Steve. "I've been doing late model for the past six years or so. It's always been a family thing. We've all run it and my family helps me out with these races. There's 12 people or so who are important to helping out - they do everything from holding the nuts and bolts to cleaning the car."

Steve - who runs for Livonia's Butch Giles - tried to quit a few years ago, but no such luck.

All units contain household items

Publish: July 27 and August 3, 2000

"I did try, I really did," said Steve. "My Uncle Fred said, 'You're NOT sitting on the bench, so go find yourself a car and I'll pay for it.' I found one and it was about $40,000. He came back to me and said, 'Glad you found one, but couldn't you find one a little cheaper?"

The team has gotten smarter over the years, running two cars on weekend races. One is set up for the 1/4-mile track at Flat Rock, the other is set up for the 1/2-mile oval at Toledo.

"It gets too tough to get up Saturday morning and convert the set-up for the different track," Steve said. "We got smc-t and run two cars now.'

Race day is the easy day for the team - at least for its driver. "Behind the wheel is the easy part," Steve said. "Sunday through Thursday is the tough part because you always have to work on the car. I get a break when I get to go behind the wheel and drive."

Racers always thank the fans for their support. Redford's Tom Selmi is one of the few who talks the talk and walks the walk.

At one race later this season probably the Fourth Annual Fall Classic on Sept. 16 - Selmi is going to give something back to the fans who come out to support the drivers and the track. One lucky fan will win a vacation in a condo near St. Petersburg, Fla., and airfare - courtesy of Selmi and Maaco Auto Body in Red-

"Why not? The fans support us," said Selmi, who owns the condo. "People all say they appreciate the fans. Let's see them kick in."

It's a major step for a minor track. None of these drivers are in it for the money. Winning a race at Flat Rock pays about $150 - throw in another $25 if they win a dash and $25 more if they have the fastest time. Now subtract $340 a weekend per set

Twisters cruise to victory over Cougars

The Michigan Twisters, a semi-professional football team, defeated cross-city rival Motor City Cougars, 37-6, last weekend at River Rouge High School's Panther Stadium.

The Twisters scored their first touchdown early in the first period when quarterback Rob Elswick (Woodhaven) hit rookie Roger Frazier (Ypsilanti) with a 20-yard pass and Frazier ran the remaining 17 yards into the end zone for his first TD as a Twister.

Less than two minutes into the second quarter, Elswick connected with Reggie Brandon (Romulus) on a 20-yard toss that Brandon ran in for a touchdown.

Before the half closed, rookie running back Jason Gibson (Whitmore Lake) electrified the crowd with a 65-yard jaunt to within one foot of the end zone. On the following play, Elswick launched across the goal line on a quarterback sneak. Field-goal kicker Chuck Petitpas (Livonia) booted all three PATs to help the Twisters to a 21-0 halftime lead.

Midway through the third period, Gibson ran 36 yards for his first TD as a Twister. The PAT was added by Petitpas to give the Twisters a 28-0 advantage.

The Twisters' Steve Rokowski (Redford) blocked an attempted Cougars' punt from their own eight-yard line, resulting in a safety and a 30-0 lead.

With six minutes left in the fourth quarter, the Cougars finally got on the scoreboard with a seven-yard TD pass. Their PAT attempt failed to keep the score 30-6 in favor of the Twisters.

The Cougars attempted an on-side kick-off, but the Twisters covered the ball on the Cougars' 46. Nine plays later, the Twisters added their final touchdown when rookie quarterback Lavelle VanHorn (Ypsilanti) ran 12 yards for the score. VanHorn got great blocking from running back Aaron Williams (Detroit) and rookies Keith Curtis (Ypsilanti) and John Gadja (Garden City). The PAT by Petitpas was good and gave the Twisters a 37-6 lead.

The Twisters' offense produced 146 yards passing and 268 yards rushing for 414 total yards. Gibson lead all rushers with 133 yards on 11 attempts. Rookie wide receiver Frank Niscoromni (Farmington) led the receiving corps with three catches for 54 yards.

The defense shutdown the Cougars, allowing just 22 yards rushing on 23 attempts and 81 yards passing on 12 of 29 for 103 total yards. The Twisters' defense was lead by their AFA All-American linebackers, Aaron Brothers (Canton) and Eric Thompson (Ypsilanti), each with five tackles. Damon Frendo (Garden City) added four tackles and broke up five passes.

"Frendo is our 'go to man," stated Twisters G.M. Glenn Brothers. "He's an all-league running back, but we were three defensive backs short due to injuries and work schedules, and we were forced to use him as a DB. He turned in an outstanding game."

The Twisters' next game is scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday, July 29, against the Tri-County Mustang at Willow Run High School's Devlin Stadium. The stadium is located on Holmes Rd., one block north of Michigan Ave., at Spencer Lane in Ypsilanti.

Proceeds in excess of expenses will be used to support the Willow Run Community Schools sports programs. Admission is $5 for adults and $2 for students. Seniors 60-and-older are free, as well as children 10-and-under who are accompanied by an adult.

Schoolcraft College women's basketball coach Karen Lafata will conduct a pair of girls basketball camp at SC.

From 9 a.m.-3 p.m. on July 31-Aug. 3, there will be a camp for grades 7-12. Cost is $110 and includes a T-shirt and basket-ball.

For further information, call Lafata at (734) 462-4400, ext. 5249.

Autumn baseball

Space is limited as the Great Lake Autumn Baseball League is forming 12-and-under, 13-andunder and 14-and-under leagues.

Saturday double-headers will be from Aug. 26 through Oct. 7 at the Canton Softball Center and Heritage Park in Canton.

The cost is $1,100 per team (includes 10 games and playoffs, game balls, umpires and awards). The first six teams in each age group to register with full payment will be confirmed.

For more information, call (313) 724-1980.

Macker tourney

The Gus Macker 3-on-3 Basketball Tournament is scheduled for Aug. 19-20 at Heritage Park in Taylor.

Gus Macker Tournaments are held to benefit local non-profit agencies. Money raised from this tournament will benefit Community Care Services (CCS), a community mental health and substance abuse agency located in Lincoln Park, Belleville and Taylor.

Volunteers are needed to work as scorekeepers, "Gus Busters" (referees and court managers), as well as setup and cleanup.

Activities for the non-playing family members, such as a swimming pool, petting zoo, fishing pond and playground, are available for the families of those who come to participate.

Players must register by July 28. Brochures can be picked up at the Taylor Recreation Department or Sheridan Center. Teams can also register online at www.macker.com

For more information, call Gloria at 734-671-1515 or visit the web.

Redford runner rolls to Roadrunner title

BY MONICA PUGNO STAFF WRITER

Beep beep.

Paul Aufdemberge of Redford weaved and darted his way through Hines Park on Saturday like the Roadrunner in search of bird seed. The rest of the pack was like Wyle E. Coyote trying to catch him.

Aufdemberge won the Roadrunner Classic 8K Run in Northville in a time of 23 minutes and 52 seconds. Adam Wheeler of Westland was Aufdemberge's closest competitor, as he clocked 24:13 to finish second.

"It felt great to win," Aufdemberge said. "I've run this race quite a few times and won it quite a few times. But I missed it last year. It was nice to come back and win, especially after finishing second two years ago."

Mari Chandler of Ann Arbor was the fastest female runner. She clocked 27:38 to finish nearly two minutes ahead of Catherine Herne (29:25), also of Ann Gerald Donakowski (Rochester) and Robin Sarris-Hallop (Ann Arbor) won the men's and women's masters titles, respectively. Other age-group winners included Adam Wheeler (Westland), Keke Chonacas (Livonia), Lee Shaw (Westland), Herman Smith (Farmington Hills), Tracy Farouni (Westland). Catherine Belcher (Plymouth) and Sid Bedrosian (Canton).

Aufdemberge said this year's race was faster than previous races.

"This was my fastest time," he said. "I or oler weather." ran it (the course) in 24 minutes when w was held in Livonia.

"This was a new course. The clier courses were on the streets in residential areas. I think the reason it (the race) was faster this year is because there weren't as many turns. There was one big hill. Other than that it was pretty flat."

running. It was partly cloudy with highs in the mid to low 70s.

"I whink it's the coolest weather they ever had for this event," Aufdemberge said. One year, it was in the 90s. That's mor typical. As a runner, I liked the

In preparation for the fall marathon season, Aufdemberge has been averaging 80 to 100 miles a week. In June he ran the Green Bay Marathon. Right now, he is getting ready for the Bobby Crim 10-mile race, scheduled for Saturday Aug. 26 in Flint.

The race is a benefit for the Special Olympics," he said. "It's the biggest race in Michigan. It draws an international Saturiday's weather was perfect for crowd. I have no chance of winning with such good competition. Top 20 would be very good for this race."

Aufdemberge's best finish at the Bobby Crim event was third in 1987. Since then, he has placed between 10th and 21st. He plans to run a marathon this fall, but is unsure which one.

"There's a good chance I'll run the Detroit Free Press Marathon in October," he said. "I've done it the last five years. My best finish was fourth.

"Marathons, for me, are the toughest distance. I'd like to improve on my fourth-place finish. I think it's do-able. My training is going well. Top three would be great."

Buildogs 14, Broncos 4: Separate seasons - that's how the teams view the regular campaign and the playoffs in the Metro Summer Hockey League, which is why upsets in the playoffs are so prevalent.

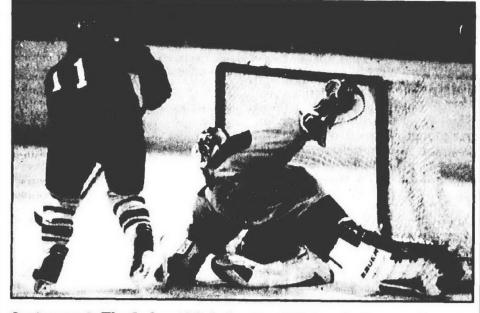

That, however, didn't happen in the first game of the playoff round, with the second-place

Bulldogs meeting last-place the Broncos. The 'Dogs made certain there would be no mistakes, scoring eight unanswered goals in the first period en route to an easy triumph Monday at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Corey Swider (Livonia) scored three times in the first period alone, and Matt Grant (Livonia) and Ian Smith had two apiece in that period. Swider finished with five goals, while Grant and Smith notched three apiece. Grant also had five assists, while Swider and Smith recorded two each.

Matt Gossett, Brian Grant (Livonia) and Brent Wishart (Canton) got one goal each.

Goal scored: The Lakers' Nick Jardine (11) knocks in a goal past Wildcats' goalie Will Hamele in the first period. Jardine scored two goals in the game and assisted on two others.

Jason Basile contributed five Arman also had two assists. assists and Wishart had three.

The Broncos got goals from Nick Anselm (Canton), Varujan Arman, Ryan Gauthier (Canton) and Chris Morelli (Livonia); Brenden McMahon and Brandon Hothem split time in goal for the Broncos. John Picklo and Phil Osaer (Plymouth) were in the net for the Bulldogs.

of tires and a few bucks more for

"It's tough to afford to race," said Selmi. "Maaco paints the car, but that's the only local sponsor. Royal Truck and Trailer is on the hood, too. But it's difficult to kick in money when you're not going to get much in return. What are you going to do? I love to drive and I have to have that need for speed."

So Selmi - who bears an uncanny resemblance in looks, age and demeanor to NASCAR mainstay Dick Trickle - does what he can to race. In Toledo on Friday night, Selmi ran his street stock car in a sportsman race - the equivalent of the Toledo Mud Hens competing in the American League - and finished fifth. They pay better too. A sportsman win at Toledo is worth $450, enough to pay for a weekend's worth of tires, gas and maybe enough to get something to eat.

"Those cars have a bire r motor, have a three-inch exhaust instead of two, can run headers way at (419) 727-1100.

and aftermarket heads," said Selmi. "And I qualified 10th an finished fifth. Sometimes it's not about the car. Sometimes it's the person behind the wheel."

The Fusion, who were supposed to win this Lamar Hunt U.S. Open Cup Round of 16 match, certainly were counting their lucky stars afterwards.

The Bucks, however, deserved most of the accolades despite the

"They're gutsy, they have a lot of courage and heart, they play with a lot of confidence," said Cassar, who has been an MLS keeper since 1996. "They (the Bucks) really didn't look up to us even though we're in a higher division. They were not in awe. They played with skill and poise, and my hats off to them."

The Bucks amazingly played the entire second half a man short - and still managed to score three goals.

A strange call by the lead official (of a four-man crew) sent a key Buck forward (Ousmane Coulibaly) off for the night with a red-card after he was whistled for a dangerous tackle.

Actually, Coulibaly's high kick that never landed, although the Fusion casualty certainly deserved an Oscar for his perfor-

Despite the man disadvantage, Bucks player-coach Joe Malachino's direct free kick averted a wall of Fusion defenders, throwing off a helpless Cassar, who could only watch helplessly as the wicked hook shot was placed perfectly into the upper lefthand corner of the goal.

In an irony off all ironies, the scoreboard early in the second half read: Bucks 1, Fusion 0.

The Fusion then got serious, scoring twice in rapid succession to take a 2-1 lead, only to have Madonna University's Sam Piraine, who hadn't been in the game for less than a minute, snapping up a rebound off Cassar's hands and burying his shot into the net to knot the count at

That goal, with 17 minutes remaining, had the Bucks' faithful going ballastic.

And remember, the Bucks were doing all this with a man down.

That's akin to the Lakeland Tigers trying to play the New York Yankees with one less out-

The Fusion, however, scored again to take a 3-2 advantage in the final 10 minutes, but Maruti quickly responded with the equalizer, putting the outcome in doubt once again. Pogue, who was equal to his Fusion counterpart all night, then stopped a penalty kick by Miami's Martin Machon in the final minute of regulation to send the game into OT.

As the two teams headed to the benches before the first OT, Cassar made it a point to acknowledge Pogue's fine work.

Just before the end of regulation, Miami's Kyle Beckerman was sent off with his second yellow card as the sides played even again, this time at 10.

After one scoreless 15-minute OT, the Bucks entered the second OT by working brilliant a three-on-two play to perfection.

Bucks fans and players stormed the field when Maruti scored what appeared to be the game-winner in sudden death. But wait a minute - Mr.

Head Ref waved it off. Instead, Maruti was yellow carded for guiding the ball into the goal with his hand. Opportunity lost, the Fusion and Bucks finally went to a shootout. After watching his teammates go 5-for-5, Pogue, the sixth shooter, missed. Cassar, meanwhile, let out a big sigh of relief as he was embraced afterwards by his family and friends. "I wanted to come home and come up big, I've had better per-formances," said Cassar, who has temporarily lost his starting job to newcomer Nick Rimando. "I just did not perform like I'm capable, but it's tough when you don't stay active. Tonight I got a no-win situation. "Games like this are tough because we're in the hunt for a playoff spot (in the MLS), and every game is so important. Every game is draining and tonight was no different. It was a chance, but it was almost like a

Bucks halfback Tino Scicluna of Redford took solace in his team's performance despite the way it ended.

Scicluna was one of the most steady players on the field and proved he could hang with the big boys of the MLS.

The 23-year-old Butler (Ind.) but there's still room to short says enough. I can't say University product retains aspirations of playing someday in the MLS.

"The dream never goes away," he said. "But I'm happy where I'm at. What happened here tonight doesn't surprise me. This team has done it all season. It's tough to lose on penalty kicks, but I think I can take this game home and be happy.

"I got a lot of compliments and I think I played a solid game, improve."

The Bucks got this round by upsetting the MLS New England Revolution last month, 1-0, in Foxboro, Mass.

Last year the Bucks gave the MLS Tampa Bay Mutiny fits in Saginaw before losing, 2-1.

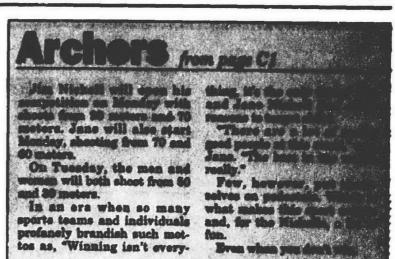

"This was the most unbelievable game of soccer I've seen at any level," Jim Duggan said. "To score three goals against an MLS team and being a man enough about the effort of our

Duggan wonders if the Bucks will ever get another chance to play an MLS team.

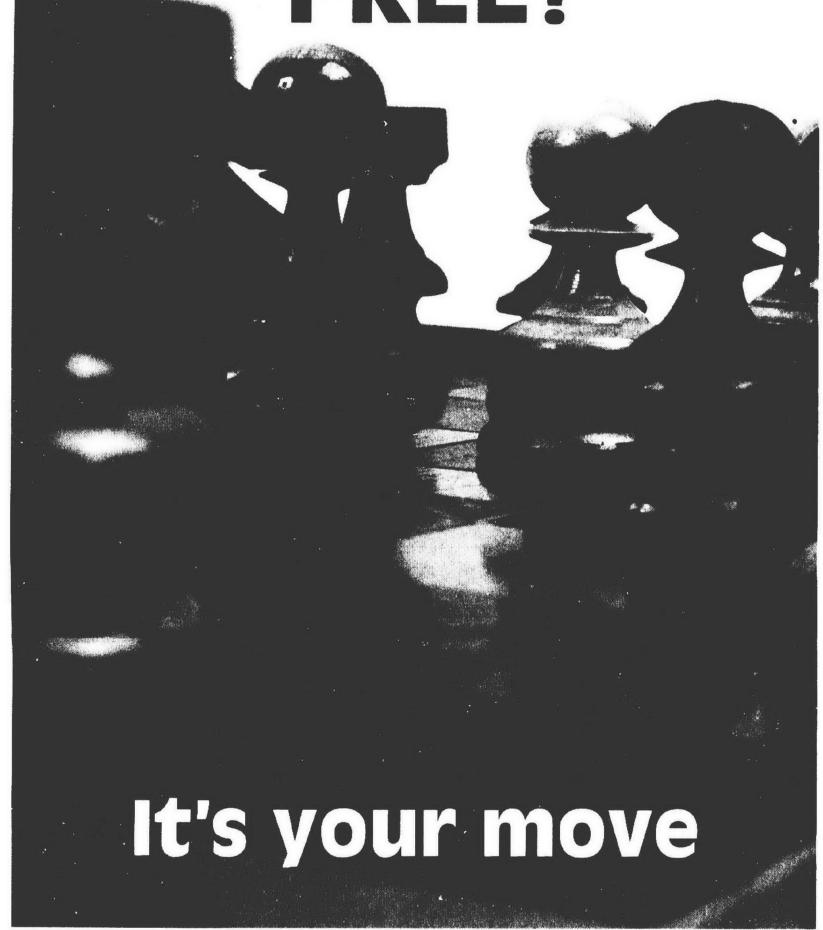

"It's just so hard for an amateur team to even qualify for an Open Cup, let alone beat them and advance," he said. "It's once in a lifetime thing, now twice in a lifetime thing."

Old-fashion welcome: Ellen hat better place to entertain friends or while away the lazy, hazy days of summer than on a beautiful front porch. All you need is a few chairs, a pot of flowers and a pitcher of lemonade.

Norma Gould raised 11 children in the big, white house on the corner of Castor and Holbrook in Plymouth's historic Old Village where she has lived for 40 years. "I'm very proud of every one of them," she boasted. Her daughter, Ellen Duka, lives just down the street.

Gould's home, built in 1903 by a Methodist preacher named Castor, still has its original wood porch. Gould sits out there every chance she gets. "All the kids come home and say there's always a breeze out there.

Sometimes family members will have a picnic lunch on the porch, and Gould will make her famous potato salad. Sometimes she'll just sit and watch her children tend the lawn or plant flowers. Keeping up the old homestead - it's won several beautification awards - is a lot of work.

Gould believes times have changed and people aren't as friendly as they used to be. However, she still she waves and offers a friendly hello to those who pass by. "We're real porch people."

Love at first sight

It was love at first sight when Suzanne Deal saw the big, square lavender house with the fieldstone porch on Penniman Avenue in Plymouth for sale three years ago. It brought back memories of her grandparents' home in Whiting, Indiana. It, too, had a hig stone porch.
"I can remember walking up those concrete steps and having all those stones surround me," she said. "I always wanted an older home with a big porch.'

Deal's home, built in 1915, has its original floors, windows and staircase. The porch, except for the brick walkway and recently replaced steps, also is original. Cement lasts forever. Deal has held meetings on the porch, and three boys consider it an extension of their

"My kids would probably eat breakfast, lunch and dinner out there," she

Her porch is also a memory maker. Deal recalled sitting out there two years ago with her middle son, John, now 6. They watched as a group of 60 or 70 children, First Communicants, filed out of Our Lady of Good Counsel across the street. The boys were dressed in suits and the girls in white dresses and veils.

"John said to me, 'Did all those little girls just marry all those little boys?" said Deal.

e the breeze: Norma Gould and her daughter, Ellen Duka, sit with a dressed-up goose on Norma's porch on Castor Street in Plymouth under a sign that reads, "Mrs.

Gould's Place."

The Sneath's porch is not just for looks. Debbie sits out there in the evening to watch the world go by. She prefers her porch to her anonymity of her backyard deck. "It goes back to when I was a kid. We'd sit on my grandmother's porch after dinner," she said. "I just like sitting out there and watching people go by. I feel more relaxed."

Flowers, flowers: A profusion of flowers and greenery encloses the porch of Debbie and Harold Sneath's home on Bartlett Street in Canton.

This was during World War II. Every night I'd sit on my mother's front porch at 10 p.m. and light a cigarette. "My favorite porch memories would have to be those summer evenings spent on my grandmother's front porch on Howard Street in southwest Detroit back in 1950s. It was like a block party each evening. People would be out walking and stop by to say hello.

"Thè very best was listening to the rustling of leaves on the huge trees that lined the block and waiting to hear the whistle from the Boblo boat on the

Maintaining a wood porch can be costly

BY RENÉE SKOGLUND STAFF WRITER

rekoglund@oe.

Doris Paulin, a Garden City senior, doesn't need any more wood to maintain.

The 20-by-80-foot wrap-around porch her friend and landlord, known as "Mr. Morgan," had added to her 800-square-foot home five years ago is enough.

That's why when the energetic Mr. Morgan suggested adding a gazebo "with a nice wicker swing," Paulin refused. "I said I don't want any more wood, not an ounce more of wood. I'm older, and it's harder for me. I like riding my bike. I don't like sitting here painting and sanding."

That's understandable. Her porch, built by Eco Construction of Brighton (formerly located in Garden City) cost $22,000 to build (it's patterned after a Thomas Edison porch in Greenfield Village) and $6,000 to paint. The wood fence and brick pavers added another $10,000. She's repainted the porch once and has laid down outdoor carpeting to preserve the flooring.

Ed Rowell, the owner of Eco Construction, recommends using the best products to minimize porch care. While ordinary wolmanized wood is good for decks, it's not his choice for finished porches.

"All the joints shrink up," Rowell said. "It doesn't make for quality of that type of a job where there are a lot of joints and detail.

To seal the wood, Rowell uses KILZ, an alcohol-based oil primer paint that retails for approximately $10.47 a gallon. "Its fumes can be annoying, but it does a good job." After priming, he suggests applying two coats of any high-quality paint.

Home Depot Pro Desk representative Brett Foreman recommends KILZ II, a water-based version that sells for $15.47 a gallon. "You can seal wood with latex and get the same quality as you would with oil. KILZ II accommodates the changes in temperature and maintains its elasticity. Sometimes KILZ dries too brittle and tends to peel."

No matter what products are used, vigilance is the key to maintaining a wood porch, said Rowell. Quickly remove any standing snow or water and make sure all joints are caulked to prevent water from seeping behind the paint. Otherwise, a routine cleaning with soap and water is all the porch needs.

'Killer' decks

Steve Scholl, the owner of Scholl Carpentry-Killer Decks in Westland, uses wolmanized wood for a deck or porch's undercarriage, joists, beams and poles. For the flooring, he highly recommends a fiberwood product called Trex. "At about $1.40 a lineal foot, it's the best value for the dollar today," he said.

Home Depot carries a comparable wood-composite product called Choice Deck, retailing for $1.75 a lineal foot. Unlike wolmanized wood, Trex and Choice Deck require no extra coating at any time.

For the railing and trim, Scholl prefers cedar, which is soft and durable. "God made cedar and man made wolmanized. Which one do think is best?"

Scholl recommends a solid-color penetrating oil stain to maintain the wood's moisture. Restaining is required about every five years. However, that doesn't mean the porch is maintenance-free. Water may shed off of railings, but it lays on floors.

"If you have a small crack and it gets cold at night, the water will freeze and expand the crack. That's an accumulative effect," said Scholl.

Brick paver porches

According to Mark Baldwin, the owner of Mark G. Baldwin & Associates, a Plymouth-based landscaping firm, many people are using brick pavers for porch construction. The pavers, which sit on top of several inches of crushed gravel and a 1-inch bedding layer of sand, have a definite advantage over wood, said Baldwin. "You don't have to seal

A brick paver porch costs about $12 to $15 a square foot, depending on its height, which averages six to 30 inches. It's worth the cost, said Laurie Phelps of Livonia. Since she and her husband, Kurt, built their Victorian-style Colonial three years ago, they've had to add sand to the brick paver porch just after the first year.

Pavers also allow for corrections, said Laurie. "You can make adjustments without ripping everything out."

An older concrete porch can undergo a facelift with brick pavers, said Baldwin. As long as the concrete is fairly level, a "veneer" of pavers can be glued over the concrete, covering any cracks. Pavers can be cut to a thickness of 1 inch. And the veneer is permanent.

How Grand: Monte Nagler waited for the right weather conditions to photograph Michigan's Grand Haven Lighthouse. Notice how the use of a red filter added important contrast to his shot.

Photographed with thought and care, lighthouses can reward you with strong and satisfying

Good lighthouse photographs begin by carefully studying the lighthouse and its surroundings.

Is there a photogenic cove you can place in the foreground or perhaps a piece of driftwood or pile of rocks nearby you can use as a foundation in your composition? Can you get into a camera position to include whitecaps in the picture to add a dramatic touch? Or is there a tree or two that can serve to "frame" the lighthouse?

E Photographed with thought and care, lighthouses can reward you with strong and satisfying pictures.

In other words, spend some time thinking and planning out your picture so that you can produce a photograph with strength and stopping power, rather than just taking a snapshot.

Decide what time of day might be best for your shot — a sunrise, a sunset or even a night picture. What kind of weather would work best — a blue sky day with white, puffy clouds, or a stormy day that will add drama and mood to your photographs?

I waited for a dramatic, early morning sky to take this photograph of Michigan's Grand Haven Lighthouse. A wide angle lens helped me obtain this unusual composition and a red filter helped contrast the white lighthouse against the sky.

As in all good photography, pay close attention to depth-of-field. It was important in this shot to get everything sharp and in focus from front to back. Most often, all it takes is a small aperture to do the trick.

Lighthouses, over the years, have guided mariners to warmth and safety. Now let them be your guide to making strong additions to your photographic portfolio.

Time to renovate your tub and wall?

INSTALLED AND READY TO USE IN ONE DAY

BATH FITTER® Tub Liners are an affordable alternative to the high cost of bathroom remodeling.

- Q. Why install a tub liner instead of removing my old tub?
- A. Removing a bathtub is a difficult, disruptive, messy job. The process can damage the wall, flooring and plumbing and can put your bathroom out of use for days. A custom-molded acrylic Bath Fitter* tub liner is installed right over an old tub in a matter of hours and it can be used the same day.
- Q. Why shouldn't I just have my tub refinished?
- A. Refinishing may look fine for awhile, but such finishes tend to chip and craze within a year or two. You may want to ask someone who has used refinishing what they thought about the results.
- Q. How long will a Bath Fitter* tub last?
- A. Acrylic has a life expectancy of 25-30 years. It is the same material used by leading manufacturers for their high-end whirlpool baths and spas
- Q. Will a liner make my tub smaller?
- A Putting a Bath Fitter* liner into place is like fitting one paper cup into another
- Q. How will you make a liner that fits my tub?
- A. Bath Fitter* has an inventory of hundreds of molds so we can make a liner that is an exact copy of your tub. We'll simply take some measurements, then order the proper liner for your tub.
- Q Is the wall installed right over the tiles?
- A Yes! Our unique one-piece seamless wall is installed right over existing tiles, there's no need to remove them. If necessary, we will repair any bad spots in your wall first to ensure a solid and secure base for the new wall. We don't just cover up problems!

The Perfect Solution

- Q f like the look of tile, but I hate cleaning grout. Do I have an option?
- A Bath Fitter* can install a beautiful tile-patterned wall that looks exactly like ceramic tile ...except that there is no more grout to clean and no more grout to dry out, crumble and allow water to penetrate Your wall will be sealed dry to stay dry.
- Q is acrylic easy to clean?
- A There is nothing easier to clean! Acrylic features a highly polished, non-porous surface. Soil rinses right off! Bath Fitter* customers love their new, easy-to-care-for acrylic units. You will, too!

Digging up dirt: To stop your dog from digging up your yard, you should exercise it regularly, according to Petopia.com

Is your canine a dog-gone good digger? Exercise it more often, says Web site

Has your garden gone to the dogs? Does your dog have a digging problem that drives you crazy? Don't despair - Petopia.com (www.petopia.com) offers several last "ditch" behavior solutions that will help reduce your dog's desire to dig - before he ends up in the doghouse. Dogs dig for different reasons. Some dogs are escape artists and dig near fences. Lonely pups may dig close to a door of a home. Holes all over the garden can represent a dog's anxiety, a need for exercise or love for the feeling of the dirt between their toes.

Whatever the reason, there's a way to stop it - or at least confine it to a spot you designate as your dog's personal digging pit.

The following are steps to curb digging by your dog:

Only garden alone. Dogs learn to mimic. If you have a digger, whatever you do, don't dig in front of him. Put your dog inside when you garden.

Create a digging pit. For dogs who are determined to dig. give him a designated digging pit. Set the pit apart from other parts of your yard, so the dog knows where it begins and ends. Then bury treats, chew toys, bones and other surprises in it. Get your dog started by digging in it yourself and praise your pooch for showing interest in the

■ Block the bad holes. Deny your dog access to bad areas by blocking them with chicken wire

NATIVE ANDSCAPE

ASSESS YOUR YARD

Homeowners, planners, community leaders and landscape contractors may want to attend a conference on the principles of landscaping in Ann Arbor Saturday, Aug. 12. "Celebrating Our Native Landscape: Bringing it All Home" is scheduled between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the University of Michigan School of Public Health and Nichols Arboretum. Morning speakers include Craig Tufts, chief naturalist of the National Wildlife Federation and author of several books including "The Backyard Naturalist;" Joan Nassauer, author and landscape architecture professor at University of Michigan; and Bob Grese, director of Nichols Arboretum and professor of landscape architecture at the University of Michigan. The afternoon program includes workshop sessions led by landscape experts, government officials. community leaders and naturalists on introducing native plants to a traditional garden; native grasses and sedges; attracting birds, butterflies and other backyard wildlife; growing native plants; water quality issues and native landscapes; and working with local governments to create and protect natural landscapes.

Workshops at Nichols Arboretum include assessing your landscape, plant identification, identifying and controlling invasive exotic plants, prairie wildflowers and grasses, and woodland ground covers. Preregistration through Aug. 1 is $35 for Wild Ones members and Friends of Nichols Arboretum and $40 for non-members, and includes a box lunch. Walk-in registration, space permitting is $50 (lunch not guaranteed). Books on related topics and a selection of native plants will be offered for sale. For information, visit the Wild Ones web site www.for-wild.org.annmtg00.htm; send an e-mail to wildonesconference@ic.net; or call Maryann Whitman at (248) 652-4004.

pepper lovers who want to know just which pepper you are eating, the small book The Pepper Lady's Pocket Pepper Primer. Jean Andrews ($17.95, paperback, University of Texas Press), will help tremendously. Andrews shows how to identify 42 peppers, both fresh and dried, with succinct descriptions and excellent photographs, beginning with size, then color, shape, flesh, pungency, correct substitute in cooking, other names, sources, uses and her personal remarks.

This isn't a cookbook; her Red Hot Peppers (Macmillan) contains 200 recipes.

Garden guides

Taylor's Guides, Annuals, Barbara Ellis ($23, Houghton Mifflin), will guide you into the world of annuals from the tried and true favorites to new plants from around the world.

For instance, look up Foxglove in the index and you'll find several plants with the name Foxglove, such as Ceratotheca triloba (South African Foxglove) as well as the common Digitalis pur-

Not only does the book contain luscious, full-color photos, it shows how to select and grow more than 400 annuals, biennials and tender perennials in the correct conditions. A most helpful aspect is the page number for growing information that accompanies each encyclopedic description. You can't go wrong with this excellent information.

Three new books in the Taylor's Weekend Gardening Guides, also published by Houghton Mifflin ($14 each), are: Cooking from the Garden, Margaret Leibenstein; The Cutting Garden, Rob Proctor; and Cold Climate Gardening, Rebecca Atwater Bric-

Cooking from the Garden - A few interesting facts precede each of the vegetables; recipes follow. The book is very well organized and contains mouthwatering, innovative ways to prepare the dishes.

The Cutting Garden - This contains a plethora of plants that bloom throughout the season that are suitable for bouquets. Proctor shares his growing techniques for plants from bulbs to vegetables to vines and encourages us to look for beauty at every season.

Cold Climate Gardening -This teaches which vegetables and ornamental plants, including shrubs and trees, will perform at their peak in the North - the 800 species that thrive in Zones 2-5. Ways to extend the season, tips about frost, and vegetables that have a short growing season will keep our gardens produc-

Philosophy

Penstemons, Robert Nold ($29.95, Timber Press), focuses on the descriptions of the species and shares the distribution, habitat, hardiness, gardenworthiness, probable flowering time as well as the characteristics of each.

These diverse plants thrive in the dry West but will grow well in other regions of the country. The author explains how Penstemons can be successfully grown in the Midwest.

Especially interesting is the fact that a minimum amount of supplemental moisture is necessary. The drawings and photos will convince you to try these plants.

The Vegetable Gardener's Bible, Edward Smith ($24.95. soft, Storey), teaches that WORD is an important aspect of Smith's philosophy: Wide rows, Organic methods, Raised beds, and Deep soil.

Each of these important techniques is thoroughly discussed. The numerous illustrations, show just how to proceed, from constructing a raised bed to harvesting each vegetable when in its prime. Seed sowing, crop rotation, fertilizing, composting, natural pest control - it's all here.

Specific directions and descriptions to grow many plants comprise part three of the book. Excellent information for a novice or seasoned gardener.

Fortify your garden by composting now

BY JIM NEIDNER

Homeowners plant and tend gardens to beautify their homes, and for the spiritual satisfaction it gives them. Experienced gardeners know that compost added to a garden makes flowers fuller and vegetables bigger.

But what is compost, and how do you make it?

Compost is a substance result-organic matter such as leaves, shredded wood, old roots, grass clippings, fruit peels, coffee grinds and other materials that are vegetable in origin.

Composting creates humus, which adds essential nutrients to the soil; you can buy it by the bag at a garden-supply center or make your own.

Gardens thrive with the help

Besides the joy it provides gardeners who see their plants bloom and grow to their fullest with composted material, composting is good for the environment. It reduces the high volume of organic materials dumped into landfills and keeps organic waste from flowing into streams and

Nurse plants all summer long

FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

A plant nursery is where young plants can be carefully tended until they are ready to go out into the "real world." Even if you've already planted out purchased transplants, you might still make good use of a nursery bed. Here is where you could, for instance, raise cabbage, endive and lettuce transplants for harvest in the fall

Rows in a nursery bed need not be far apart. Six inches is adequate. After seedlings emerge, thin them to a few inches apart within each row. A few weeks later, seedlings will need more elbow room. Dig up and move them to their permanent homes out in the garden.

A nursery bed is useful for flowers as well as for vegetables.

these plants for planting later this summer or early next spring. Annual flowers such as marigolds, zinnias and calendula can be sown in a nursery bed and the small plants transplanted to fill in gaps in the flower garden through the season.

A nursery area also is useful for growing trees and shrubs. Many commercial nurseries sell good quality, small plants at discount prices. Nurtered for a year or two in a nursery bed, these plants become fine specimens for transplanting to their permanent locations. If cheesecloth or wooden lathe strips are held up with a simple frame over the nursery bed to cast dappled shade, then the nursery bed could also be used to propagate could hold a hundred seedlings. Because of the close attention needed by plants in a nursery bed, locate it near your house, preferably right near the back door so you can at least glance at the plants each time you go out or come in Also have water handy so there's no excuse for letting a plant go a little longer without water to save the trouble of dragging out the hose or watering can.

Nursery soil needs special attention. Mix in plenty of peat moss, compost, leaf mold or rotted sawdust so the surface does not crust and aeration is good. Don't fertilize heavily, though, or the resulting, sappy plants will be ill-adapted to the rigors of life

LIVING WELL

Everything tastes better on the porch

BY RENEE SECGLUND STAFF WRITER rakoglund@oe.homecomm.net

itting on the porch and shooting the breeze with friends works up quite an appetite. We asked some of the people featured in "The Poetry of the Porch" (see related story on page D1) to share their favorite porch-food recipes. All you need to do is supply is the porch ... and the hospitality.

NORMA'S "PORCH

POTATO SALAD"

Gould's children swear this is the best potato salad. However, it's a "little bit of this, a little bit of that" kind of recipe. Adjust ingredients to your own liking. The pickle juice "spikes up the potato salad a bit and gives it a different taste," says Gould. 6 medium potatoes

- 4 hard-cooked eggs (2
- chopped, 2 sliced)
- 1 stalk celery, chopped 1/2 medium-sized onion,
- chopped very fine 1 carrot, chopped fine Salt and pepper to taste Garlic salt and celery salt to
- taste, not too much 1 Tablespoon vinegar
- 1 Tablespoon pickle juice
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise 1/2 cup sour cream
- Paprika

Boil potatoes about 20 minutes. They should be a little bit on the firm side so they don't break up. Drain and cool. Skin potatoes, cut in quarters and slice. Add eggs, celery, onion, carrot, salt and pepper, garlic salt, and celery salt. Toss. Mix together vinegar, pickle juice, mayonnaise and sour cream. (Add a bit more if you like your potato salad creamier.) Chill, sprinkle with paprika and serve on the front porch.

"I usually make it the day before so the ingredients have a chance to get married," say Gould.

BILL'S FRONT PORCH FUDGE BROWNIES

- 1/2 pound Land O' Lakes butter, softened
- 4 squares (1 oz. each) unsweetened chocolate
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 eggs
- 1 cup all purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 cup coarsely chopped wal-

Melt one stick butter with chocolate over very low heat - or in microwave one minute on high. Let cool. Place remaining butter, sugar and vanilla in mixer bowl. Mix on low for 30 seconds then increase speed and beat for two minutes. Reduce speed to medium and add eggs one at a time, beating 15 seconds after each addition.

Add cooled butter and chocolate and mix on low speed 30 seconds. Add flour, salt and nuts. Mix well until blended, about 30 seconds.

Stop and scrape bowl.

Pour into greased and floured 13 x 9 x 2 baking pan (or use nonstick pan with Pam). Bake at 350 degrees for 25-30 minutes. Cool in pan and cut into two-inch squares. Yield: two dozen.

Recipe compliments of Bill Bassarus of Redford Township.

PERFECT PORCH PUNCH

1 large bottle (64 oz.) white grape juice

1 2-liter bottle Canada Dry Gingerale (regular or diet) Frozen ice ring made from gingerale and Maraschino cherries

In a large punch bowl, mix white grape juice and gingerale. Just before serving, add ice ring.

Recipe compliments of Rainy Kirchhoff of Plymouth. "It's so easy I'm embarrassed," she said about this one-two-you're-done punch recipe that she's been serving for years. "It's not overly sweet and people love the white grape taste."

RAINY'S CHICKEN SQUARES

- 1 3-oz. package of cream cheese, softened
- 3 Tablespoons margarine,
- 2-3 Tablespoons milk
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper 2 cups chicken, cooked and
- cubed 1/2 cup celery, chopped fine
- 1/4 cup green peppers, chopped fine
- 1+ Tablespoon onion, chopped fine
- 1/4 cup slivered almonds
- 18 oz. can refrigerated crescent dinner rolls
- 3/4 cup crushed seasoned croutons (Pepperidge Farms Farms)

Blend cream cheese and 2 tablespoons margarine with milk, salt and pepper. Add next five ingredients. Mix well.

Separate crescent dough into four rectangles; firmly press perfo-

Batch of brownles: Brownies make a delectable porch dessert, especially when they're served on a Haviland china plate.

Spoon 1/2 cup mixture into center of each rectangle. Pull four corners of dough to top center, and seal tightly. Flatten a bit with hand. Brush tops with remaining margarine and dip in crumbs.

Bake on an ungreased cookie sheet 20-25 minutes at 350 degrees until golden brown. Makes four sandwiches.

Recipe compliments of Rainy Kirchhoff. She serves these delicious sandwiches with a marinated vegetable salad (follows) and a peach half, dotted with butter, sprinkled with a dash of curry powder and a little sugar then baked in oven.

ENGLISH TOFFEE PUDDING

- Serves: 6 to 8 1 cup plus 1 tablespoon allpurpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder 3/4 cup (about 4 ounces) finely chopped, dried pitted
- 7 tablespoons unsalted butter, softened
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 large egg, lightly beaten
- 1 teaspoon baking soda 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- 1 1/4 cups boiling water 1/4 cup plus 1 tablespoon
- packed light brown sugar 2 tablespoons heavy cream Whipped cream, for serving
- 1. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees F, with a rack in the center. Butter a 9- to 10-inch pie pan

2. Sift the 1 cup flour and the baking powder onto a sheet of wax paper or into a bowl; set aside. In a small heatproof bowl, toss the dates with the remaining 1 tablespoon flour.

3. In a large bowl with an electric mixer at medium-high speed, beat together 4 tablespoons of the butter and the white sugar until light and fluffy. Lower the speed to medium-low; beat in the egg and until smooth. Add the remaining flour mixture and mix just until incorporated.

4. Sprinkle the baking soda and vanilla over the dates; add the boiling water and stir to combine. Add the date mixture to the batter, beating until well blended. Pour the mixture into the prepared baking dish.

5. Bake until set and wellbrowned on top, 30 to 40 minutes. Remove the pudding from the oven; preheat the broiler, with a rack about 4 inches from the heat

6. In a small saucepan over medium heat, bring the remaining 3 tablespoons butter, the brown sugar and the cream to a simmer. Simmer until thickened, about 3 minutes. Pour the topping over the hot pudding.

7. Broil the pudding until the topping bubbles, watching carefully to prevent burning, about 1 minute. Cool the pudding briefly on a wire rack. Serve warm, with whipped cream.

lthough Scotland's Highland Games, known as the world's most difficult tests of strength and accuracy between Scottish clans, began nearly a thousand years ago, 8year old Anna Salkowski of Plymouth is still enticed by the competitive nature of Highland dancing, much like her ancestors were.

"It's interesting and it's fun, but most of all I like to do the competitions," said Salkowski, who began Highland dancing when she was only four years old at her Scottish grandmother's request.

Salkowski, who has won more than 50 medals for her dancing, will be competing along with 200 other Highland dancers as the Scottish tradition continues at St. Andrew's Society of Detroit's "Give Us a Day and We'll Give You Scotland" 151st Annual Highland Games, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 5, at the Greenmead Historical Park in Livonia.

BY KURT ANTHONY KRUG SPECIAL WRITER

Comic book fans and movie buffs alike have been waiting to see the X-Men make it to the big screen. On Friday, July 14, they got their wish as 20th Century Fox's X-Men premiered.

The X-Men, a monthly comic book series created by the writer-artist team of Stan Lee and the late Jack Kirby that debuted in 1963, is Marvel Comics' top seller. It has been published in 75 countries and translated into 22 different languages. Each month, 30 million copies of X-Men comic books are sold, according to Jeffrey Klein, a spokesman for Marvel Comics.

"The comic itself has usually had good writing and artwork," said Kerry Brodsky, a part-time manager at Kryptons, a comic and collectibles store in Farmington Hills. "It depends on the writing. When it comes to comic books being writers and if the actors are capable of being convincing."

directed the movie, which features an all-star cast - Patrick Stewart (Star Trek: The Next Generation) as Professor Xavier, James Marsden (Disturbing Behavior) as Cyclops, Framke Janssen (GoldenEye) as Jean Greye, Halle Berry (Executive Decision) as turned into movies, it's always a question of the Discussion: Xavier (Patrick Stewart, left) and Magneto (Ian McKellen) discuss their opposing viewpoints on the nor did they come from another planet, they Bryan Singer (Apt Pupil, The Usual Suspects) future of mankind ... and mutantkind in "X-Men."

Storm, Anna Paquin (The Piano) as Rogue, newcomer Hugh Jackman as Wolverine, Ian McKellen (Apt Pupil) as Magneto, Ray Park (Star Wars Episode I: The Phantom Menace) as the Toad, professional wrestler Tyler Mane as Sabertooth and model Rebecca Romjin-Stamos as Mystique.

"It was the best comic book adaptation of a movie I've ever seen," said Michael Lester, the owner of Kryptons and Time Travelers, a similar store in Berkley. He noted that unlike past adaptations, X-Men was meant for mature audiences. "The concentration camp scene was the best part of the movie because it set the tone that it was a serious movie," he said. "It's not some Ninja Turtles stupid thing.

"It was the first time I've ever seen where the villain is the most important character. They introduced the villain before the hero."

Unlike other comic book heroes such as DC Comics' Superman, who is adored by the public, the X-Men are a team of unsung heroes sworn to protect a world that fears and hates them. The X-Men are mutants; they did not receive their powers by accident. were born with them. Their powers raise them above humanity, but also alienate them from it at the same time. Due to that, they are outcasts and the world is split between humans and mutants.

Professor Charles Xavier founded the X-Men who are mostly young adults and icenagers, teaching them how to fentrol their powers and use them for the greater good. Kavier, a wheelchair-bound visionary with extraordinary mental powers, dreams of a world where mutants and humans can peacefully co-exist. However, there are other mutants like Maneto who do not agree with Xavier's dream, and would rather dominate normal humans rather than live with them!

The X-Men was retitled The Uncanny X-Men as of No. 142 (February 1980). By 1991, the X-Men cast had gotten so large that another X-Men comic book titled X-Men joined its sister title in chronicling the adventures of the mutants.

In addition to The Uncanny X-Men and X-Men there are eight other monthly comic books in the X-family of titles - X-Force, Generation-X, X-Man, Gambit, Wolverine, Cable, Bishop: The Last X-Man, and Mutant X.

The ages of readers vary, said Brodsky. People who buy X-Men comics range from the late teens to the late 30s. Since X-Men has been around for 37 years, some of Brodsky's customers are in their 40s.

Taking advantage of the 2000 election year, a Web site www. mutant watch. com for Senator Robert Kelly has been designed to look authentic. Just who is Senator Kelly? He's a character in the X-Men movie portrayed by Bruce Davison who uses his political position (and thinlyveiled propaganda) to turn public opinion against mutants.

On May 1, www. toysrus. com launched "Marvel's X-Men Official Online Store" offering X-Men action figures, toys and other related merchandise. The online store also links to other Web sites, X-Men character bios, movie trailers, and cyber comics.

"Toy lines based on comic book characters help sales of the comic," said Brodsky. "If there's toys, people will get into comics to some degree."

In addition to the monthly Xtitles and a comic book adaptation of the movie itself. Marvel published special X-Men comic prequels tying directly into the plot of the movie - X-Men The Movie: Magneto, X-Men The Movie: Rogue, X-Men The Movie: Wolverine. Lester said his stores have completely sold out of the prequels. "They just flew right off the shelves," he said.

On the heels of the movie, a new X-Men cartoon series is scheduled to debut this fall.

Whether the X-Men become household names like Superman or Spider Man depends on the movie's success. According to Brodsky, they aren't there yet.

Kryptons is located at 29001 Orchard Lake Road in Farmington Hills. Call (248) 538-8123 for more information.

High energy musical has a '50s flair

The Players Guild of Dearborn Northville and Courtney McKenpresents "Little Red - A Rollickin' Frolickin' '50s Phenom" 7:30 p.m. Thursday-Sunday, July 27-30. All seats are $5, with open seating. The theater is at 21730 Madison, south of the intersection of Monroe and Outer Drive in Dearborn. Tickets are available at the door, or by calling (313) 561-TKTS.

BY SUE SUCHYTA SPECIAL WRITER

Forget the Little Red Riding Hood you remember from your youth. Add a '50s flavor and an enthusiastic, high energy cast, and you've got "Little Red - A Rollicking, Frolicking '50s Phenom" - another creative and fast-paced musical comedy by talented Livonia resident Lisa

In Little Red our heroine still strays from the straight and narrow, but her heart and mind are distracted by a rock star who has come to town. She's also delivering Avon instead of baked goods to Grandma. The woodcutter has a blind date with Little Red's mom, and the ravenous wolf has a brother, a mother and a penchant for Hawaiian shirts. Add a fast pace, upbeat song and dance numbers, and plenty of humorous asides, and you have jokes that both kids and adults will appreciate.

The show is performed by the Guildlings, the Players Guild of Dearborn's Youth Theatre, with the veteran adult narrating team of Joe Donovan and Don Andres to tie together the scenes with clever one-liners and quick skits. In addition, a musical trio of three ladies, the Rocketeers, provide an upbeat echo to the play's action. Quick on their feet and in three part harmony, they are played with energy and enthusiasm by Courtney Cagnon na of Farmington Hills.

Parker Plague of Canton plays Riley the ravenous wolf with a droll sense of humor. He is constantly hounded by his suspicious and proper brother Niles, played by Bill Beumel of Livonia. Niles has to know why Riley has lost his appetite and is leaving hair ribbons and saddle shoes around the house. They are the wolf equivalent of the brothers on TV's "Fraser" as they verbally spar and try to outwit each other. Each keep up a good pace and tight sense of timing.

LaWanda, Little Red's grandmother, played by Leslie Drielts of Dearborn, brings energy and enthusiasm to a role long associated with an invalid. LaWanda sets in motion a plan to hook up the widowed Woody Cutter, played by Scott Gizicki of Canton, and his brood of motherless urchins with her daughter June, to stem the tide of June's Avon obsession. Gizicki's yuk yuk humor is a good natured and silly, and his pack of "problems" hams it up for the appreciative

Dylan Preston, the Elvis-like rock star fueling Little Red's dreams, is played with clever parody by Paul Luoma, of Farmington Hills. He is surrounded by a colorful entourage: a hippy cameraman played Jeff Ostrowsof Wayne, Allison Barsamian of ki of Dearborn, an uptight busi-

Anchoring the cast are veteran Guildlings Caitlin Donovan of Farmington Hills as Little Red and Brooke Andres as June, her mother. Both are talented singers and actresses, and their facial expressions and body language add to the campy comedy. Imagine "Leave It To Beaver" rewritten by a team of "Saturday Night Live" pranksters and you have a family friendly comedy that will catch you off guard with chuckles and laughs at every turn.

> ness manager played by Nick Graham of Redford, his glam-Khaki, played by Molly Donovan of Farmington Hills, and his diminutive sidekick, Dinky Dylan, played by Austin Andres of Livonia. They work well as a team and cleverly pull off many of the jokes and parodies.

The company, rocking and ready to sing and dance at the hint of a '50s beat, captures the feel of the era in Kim Donovan's delightful costumes, which really echo the look and feel of the time period. Corinne Fine's character make-up gives the wolves a remarkable blend of canine and human features, and the cast hairstyles are a crowning touch to the '50s flavor. The set is simple and colorful, with a series of flats that change to reflect the woods or indoors, with a minimum of set pieces to facilitate the rapid scene changes. And while the jokes and props stray from the '50s genre, they are still funny and add to the lighthearted humor of the show.

Mena Suvari (American Pie and American Beauty), and Greg Kinnear (As Good As It Gets).

The film, directed and produced by Amy Heckerling, takes a look at college life and the struggle for money from the people who don't have it. Those who don't have to try harder to fit in.

Paul (Biggs) is a funny and good-natured guy who just graduated high school in a small town. He heads off to college at New York University on an academic scholarship, unaware of how much his life is about to change. He's about to find out that he is no longer the funniest guy in class and that he doesn't fit in no matter how hard he

Paul's obnoxious roommates, Chris (Thomas Sadoski), Noah (Jimmi Simpson), and Adam (Zak Orth), make things worse, constantly making fun of his clothes and mannerisms. They take advantage of his kindness. But the last straw comes when they vote him out of the dorm. Paul is forced to find off-campus housing and soon finds himself living in a veterinary hospital. Now that Paul has a place to live his roommates have a place to party without worrying about getting caught.

For Paul it seems like the only good thing he has going for him is Dora (Mena Suvari), a girl he be-friends in his English literature class. Dora seems to relate to Paul and understands his struggle to fit in. Dora has an even greater problem. She is having trouble getting financial Paul falls in love with Dora and would do anything for her. He even provides her with an address that will allow her to access financial aid. She seems perfect for Paul, but there is yet another problem. Dora is having an affair with their English Literature professor, Edward Alcott (Kinnear).

As if things couldn't get any worse, Paul's roommates find out about the affair and use it to their advantage. It seems as though nothing is going right for Paul and Dora.

Jason Biggs, whose feature film debut was American Pie, has once again shown he has what it takes to play the leading man and become a star. Biggs also gets to team up again with fellow American Pie star Mena Suvari, who also starred in the Academy Award winning American Beauty, has quickly become one of the busiest actresses in Hollywood. She proves she has a wide range of talent.

Greg Kinnear, best known for his Oscar nominated performance in As Good As It Gets, has come a long way from E! Entertainment Television's Emmy Award winning Talk Soup. Kinnear has an impressive list of credits to his name and his Oscar nomination proves he's a talent to be reckoned with.

Heckerling re-establishes her status as the reigning queen of pop culture. It's almost as if she were still a young adult herself.

Loser is not a total loser, but it's definitely the "anti-Clueless."

Detroit on the local club circuit. Bill Keith of WSDP Radio in Plymouth has been known to spin a few Corndaddy tracks lately. "I like Corndaddy because you can hear influences of the Jayhawks and the Byrds," he said. "There's this idea that Detroit has to be 'rap/rock city' and its nice to hear something unique and creative coming from the area.'

In April 1999, Corndaddy entered 40 OZ. Sound in Ann Arbor and set its songs to CD. Working with sound engineer Drew Peters (Six Clips), the band completed a collection of 13 tracks that meld rock, country, folk and Americana into something digestible for any avid music listener. Whether Brown's Beatlesque harmonies draw attention or its Branam's quirkyyet-introspective view of the world that gets listeners hooked, Corndaddy's got accessible appeal to spare.

Brown, a Dearborn resident who works in Plymouth Township, said his inspiration to write music comes from the world around him.

Drawing from past experience and using a story-telling tone, he created songs like Sleeping Outside Omaha, which opens the debut album. "It's about hitchhiking to California when I was 18," he admitted. "It just talks about one episode of the doing that whole Jack Kerousc hitchhiking (thing). It's kind of romantic and cool.

If Brown's writing is romantic, Branam's flows from a traditional rock ethic. He compares songwriting to keeping a journal experiences begin in truth and can be twisted into obscurity. The urge to write can come to him from out of nowhere. Together. Brown and Branam collaborate on the words, music and voices that set the band apart. The music is made memorable by the signature twang and chime of Pagliere's pedal steel and the solid rhythm of Stewart and Hancock. And its always progressing.

"I think the new material we're writing now has got a little harder edge to it," said Branam. We learned an awful lot going into the studio...It's a little bit more evolved."

Whatever you classify it, Corndaddy's earned a following. "It's a type of music that everyone likes on some level," said Branam. "I think everyone has room for it. It crosses over so many lines."

To keep moving ahead, the band will be performing more often around the area, stretching their borders to outside the state and constantly writing new material. Look for them at a hotspot near you.

Counting Crows and Live co-headline shows at Pine Knob

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA STAFF WRITER

scasola@oe.homecomm.net

Counting Crows burst onto radio and MTV with Mr. Jones more than six years ago. Since then the band has released a total of three studio albums and one live to rave reviews. The band has earned more fans than it can, well count. On the heels of their second single Mrs. Potter's Lullaby on This Desert Life, the Counting Crows is gearing up for an extended U.S. tour coheadline with friends and fellow modern rock giants, Live. Counting Crows guitarist Dan Vickrey called on Thursday, July 20 to talk a little about the upcoming Observer & Eccentric: Hi Dan. Where are you calling from?

Dan Vickrey: "L.A., I'm home for a little while. We were in Europe doing some festivals and some of our own shows. It went well. We'd been in Europe for a while "

O&E: How did this show with Live come about?

DV: "We kinda knew (Live frontman) Ed (Kowaczyk) for a leng time. When we were thinking about bands to take out, they came to mind."

Counting Crows have in common as far as their fans are concerned?

DV: "It's pretty emotional music. It's good for both of us.'

O&E: What's in store for this

DV: "Nothing that I know of vet. I've been so focused on Europe. Both bands will play for an hour and a half. Galactic will (open the show). They're friends of ours. All the bands on the tour are ones we both agreed on."

O&E: Will their be any crossover? Will we see some members of Live onstage with Counting Crows or vice versa?

DV: "Quite Possibly. It's in the works."

O&E: What do you do to prepare for the tour?

DV: "We're on break. It's the calm before the storm. I do absolutely nothing and I love it."

O&E: Do you miss anything about home when you're on tour? DV: "Being home. Sleeping in the same place. And friends. You kinda lose touch on tour. Other people's lives go on and yours stays still, it seems." O&E: What's going on with the band? Will we see another single off of This Desert Life?

DV: "Potter is out now. I don't know if there will be another sin-

O&E: Are you looking forward to this tour?

Comfortable, cozy E.G. Nick's welcomes customers

BY KRELY WYGONIE

Plymouth's owntown newest restaurant, E.G. Nick's on Forest Avenue, opened Wednesday, July 19.

"The town is so charming," said Tony Belli who owns the restaurant along with his cousins Elia and Greg Nicholas. It has a sense of community. Our restaurant had to fit the town."

For general manager Tony Stroh, who has a performing arts background, opening the restaufant, the first E.G. Nick's built from scratch, was a lot like opening a new show.

He knew his cast was ready, and a steady stream of potential customers knocked on the door as we talked, wanting to know when the restaurant was opening, and what's on the menu.

"We tried to pay attention to details," said Stroh explaining what makes E.G. Nick's special and, it is hoped, part of the community. An example is the children's menu, it's attached to a Magic Etch A Sketch Screen.

"I wanted something that would keep kids occupied, yet let them be creative and strengthen their reading skills," said Stroh. "It's a little detail that might make a difference.

. Jamie Young painted the original artworks which feature Plymouth scenes. She copied historic Plymouth photographs and colorized them.

In describing the interior of the comfortable restaurant/tavern decorated with muted earthtones, Stroh explains "it allows moments to happen."

Customers can sit at comfortable tables or booths spaced far enough apart to allow what Stroh calls "a safe zone for conversation." Three tables face a window looking out on Forest Avenue. "There's not a bad seat in the house," said Stroh.

Force sale of home for your sake

Several years ago, I bought a home with my boyfriend, and my name was included on the mortgage because he couldn't qualify alone. Since then, we have split up and he has married.

He still can't qualify by himself for a mortgage, and I would like to remove my name from the mortgage. I can't buy my own home as long as my name is on that mortgage.

Short of the mortgage company giving you a discharge on the mortgage, you can't remove your name from the mortgage upless you satisfy the terms and conditions of the mortgage regarding its payoff.

I presume you have some equity in the house. You may wish to consult with an attorney about forcing the sale of your interest in the house. This might result in your being removed from the mortgage, depending upon the results of those negotiations..

Can our association and our neighbor be sued because of the potential problems associated with his smoking in his condominium unit?

The association doesn't normally have any control over what goes on in a unit internally and shouldn't, therefore, have any liability.

In a California case, a condominium was sued because of secondhand smoke by a co-owner. The jury found the association not liable.

Jury members weren't prepared to find the association and the co-owner liable simply because a co-owner was smoking cigarettes in his own unit.

And good advice it was

BY DOUG FUNKE STAPF WRITER

No one accomplishes much when sleeping on or off the job.

Take care of the little things and the big things will take care of themselves. Finish what you start.

Most of us have received and given advice. It can be like well-cultivated seeds and result in a bountiful harvest. Or it can be ignored and yield nothing.

Realtors, too, have been encouraged and guided by words of wisdom from family, friends, colleagues, classes and books.

Here's some what they've been able to use on the job.

Believe it or not, it was be nice on the telephone," said Rick Andrez, a Realtor with Real Estate One in Westland. "I get 90 percent of my business answering the phone and being polite.

"Everybody's got to call a real estate office at some time in their life, either to list a house for sale or buy a house or wanting mortgage information," Andrez said.

He credited Gloria Huffman of his office for the tip.

"It was my first day on the job and the office manager introduced me and asked if anyone had any advice." Andrez recalled. "We were eating muffins.

Something said in a training class sustained Linda Daly through the early days of her real estate career, especially when she became discouraged by disloyal clients.

The instructor said you must be persistent, you must continue to stay in it, you can't give up," said Daly, a Realtor with Remerica Country Place in Can-

"If I hadn't listened to her - she made us write it down, underline it - I probably would have left real estate," Daly added.

Nancy Howell, her first manager, and her father, Bruce McAfee, have been big influencers in Deborah Louzecky's real estate career. "Nancy's advice was to get involved in the industry through the Michigan

Association of Realtors and the National Association of Realtors. You go for education and get (professional) designations," said Louzecky, associate broker with RE/MAX Professional in

"It's kept me attuned to ever-changing tax laws, zoning (land use regulations), the climate of people coming into a high-tech center," she said. "It's been very beneficial to me.

"The other biggest advice came when I was a little girl from my dad," Louzecky added. "He said, 'Work hard, stay sincere, always put your best foot forward and you will always succeed."

The seminar, itself, and the name of the presenter have long since been forgotten, said Lu Anne Timlin, a Realtor with Coldwell Banker Schweitzer in Troy.

But the advice and the peg used to get folks to the class are embedded in her memory

The best advice a Realtor could get is you listen to what your client has to say," Timlin said. "Sometimes, we get so involved in knowing the market and showing the best we have that we forget to listen to what a client is telling

The hook to learning that?

"A gal came into our business and said the best tool you have is to listen. Then she told us a story. She said, 'You're driving a school bus. At the first stop, three girls and two buys got on. She went on and on. We're counting boys and girls, keeping track of stops. She threw in umbrellas, rain."

The ultimate question was the birth date of the bus driver. No one knew, Timlin said, because everyone was tracking what turned out to be superfluous information.

But the key was in the very first sentence - you are driving a school bus. Everyone knows his birthday. And that's what tuned Timlin to really listening hard.

Ken Kimble, affiliated with Jack Christenson-Orion in Lake Orion, has been a Realtor for 10 years. He said he developed a work philosophy through personal experience rather than any specific advice. I guess it goes back to my corporate days. I was 33 years old with a major corporation, director of technical ser-

"I found when business really tries to provide service, people really responded and were willing to work with you." Kimble said.

"There's nothing better than an honest approach ... just the service aspect, being up-front ... going that extra step. It's something that really proved out over time. It's paid off. I keep getting referrals from past customers."

■ Karen L. Bright, a Realtor with ERA Country Ridge in Livonia, was taught by her broker, Barbara Walkowicz, how to avoid letting clients get carried away with unrealistic expectations then transferring the blame to her.

One of the biggest pieces of advice I've gotten is to be sure buyers are preapproved for a mortgage before showing them houses," Bright said. "It saves a lot of work."

And potential aggravation, too.

■ Genie Redinger, an associate broker with Century 21 Country Hills in Bloomfield Township, said she received her best advice in a classroom

"I believe your first step is to know your client, know what their lifestyles are ... by observing them, talking to them, asking them to talk about themselves, what their interests are, preferences are, not necessarily how much they want to spend," Redinger said.

The second step - "make sure they're pre-approved for a mortgage."

Ratio tells whether you qualify

Part 1 of 2

Most lenders use a two-part qualification ratio to determine how much money you can safely spend on living expenses and mortgage costs: 28/36.

What this means is that lenders will generally allow you to spend up to 28 percent of your gross monthly income . on housing expenses - principal, interest, homeowner's insurance and taxes. If the down payment that you scrape together amounts to less than 20 percent of the purchase price, your 28-pericent allowance also needs to include the cost of buying private mortgage insurance, which protects the lender in case you default.

The 36 percent is the amount lenders will allow you for a mortgage plus monthly recurring debt, such as your car loans and credit card bills. Normally, only debts that will take more than 10 months to pay off will

The 28/36 qualification ratio established the maximum amount you are eligible to be loaned, and lenders will happily lock you into as high a level of debt as you want, using these criteria.

However this number may not be within your comfort zone. Take a look at the past year's income and expenses. If you commit the maximum amount to a mortgage, will you have enough money left over to meet exposes for hobbies and activities you enjoy are you willing to forego such activities in order to meet your mortgage commitment? And, after making your down payment, will you have a large-enough savings buffer to enable you to sleep soundly at night?

In order to qualify for a mortgage, you must have a clean credit record for two to three years. Even if you think your borrowing history is without blemish, ask to inspect your credit reports; they could contain discrepan-

While you are entitled to request correction, this can be time consuming. To be safe, contact the credit agencies at least six months before you plan to apply for a mortgage, to save yourself the headache of possible closing delays.

Get yourself preapproved. This means the lender has checked your credit and verified your incomes. You'll get a document that says the lender will give you a mortgage up to a specific amount, as long as the home appraisal justified the price. This help you to beat out a slightly higher bid from someone who does not have a preapproval.

Realtors: Existing home sales hold strong in June In the Midwest, homes were reselling at an Sales of existing single-family homes rose in June even as high-adjusted annual rate of 5.23 million units from a level of 5.09 million units in May. However, last month's sales activity was 6.4 percent below the 5.59-mill'ion unit pace in June 1999. NAR President Dennis R.

Gronk attributes the current strength to market momentum. *Even with the higher level of interest rates we've been experiencing this year, affordability remains pretty good, especially for trade-up buyers. After inventory shortages earlier this year, we're seeing more sales as more homes are placed on the market," he said.
"Our biggest concern is for first-time buyers, who are more sensitive to higher interest rates. With a sustained level of higher mortgage rates, fewer first-time homes later this year," he added. Housing inventory levels were unchanged at the end of June with 1.56 million existing homes available for sale, which represents a 3.6-month supply at the current sales pace. This is 66.0 percent above the record low inventory of 940,000 homes on the market at the end of January but remains 24.3 percent below the 2.06 million homes available in June 1999.

buyers will be able to afford

Home sales are expected to trend downward, said David Lereah, NAR's senior vice president and chief economist. "Although we may see some month-to-month fluctuations in both interest rates and home sales, we expect the overall level of sales to gradually decline. Existing-home sales should be down more than 9 percent from last year's record, but we'll still end the year at fairly high levels in historic terms," he said.

According to Freddie Mac, the national average commitment rate for a 30-year, conventional, fixed-rate mortgage was 8.29 percent in June, down from 8.52 percent in May; it was 7.55 percent in June 1999.

The national median existinghome price was $139,800 in June, up 2.1 percent from June 1999 when the median price was $136,900. The median is the midpoint - half the homes sell for less, while half sell for more.

Regionally, in the Midwest, homes were reselling at an annual rate of 1.13 million units in June, down 1.7 percent from May. The pace was 7.4 percent below June 1999. The median price in the Midwest was $125,700, up 2.0 percent from a year ago. The strongest increase was in the northeast, where existinghome sales rose 9.8 percent from May to a pace of 670,000 units in June; the rate was 6.9 percent below June 1999. The median existing-home price in the Northeast was $143,700 jup 2.5 percent from a year ago.

Home resales in the west rose 6.0 percent from May to June with sales at an annual rate of 1.42 million units, but were 5.3 percent below June 1999. The median existing-home price in the West was $183,000, up 4.2 percent from the same month a year earlier.

The existing-home sales pace in the South rose 1.0 percent in June to an annual rate of 2.01 million units; they were 6.9 percent below June 1999. The median price of an existing home in the South was $129,400, which was 1.9 percent higher than June 1999.

New home could depend on parade

Pulte Corp. will give away $250,000 toward the purchase of one of the company's new home. The key will be where the wolf is standing on the company's entry in Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade.

"We couldn't ask for a better event than Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade to celebrate Pulte Homes 50th anniversary," said Robert K. Burgess, chairman and chief executive officer of Pulte Corp., which is based in Bloomfield Hills.

A national audience of 60 million is expected to tune into NBC-TV's broadcast of the annual parade on Nov. 23. The company's parade entry will show its version of the classic children's story, "Three Little Pigs."

"The exact location of the Big Bad Wolf on the float is the key to determining which of the contestants will become finalists in the Dream Home Sweepstakes," said James Lesinski, vice president of marketing. "In addition, the Three Little Pigs story is a natural platform for communicating the company's commitment to quality construction.'

Contestants in the sweepstakes first must complete an entry form available either at the company's Web site (www. pulte. com) or at any Pulte community. Contestants can double their chances of winning by entering both ways.

For each valid form of entry, contestants will receive a game card that qualifies them for a chance to win the grand prize. Contestants will also have a chance to win one of 50 $1,000 shopping sprees at Macy's or one of 500 $50 Macy's gift certificates.

The contest runs now through Sept. 30. To be one of the 50 finalists who will have the chance to win the grand prize, a contestant must hold a game card that describes the exact location of the wolf on Pulte's float," Lesinski said. The 50 finalists won't know they're finalists until the Three Little Pigs float appears on screen.

After the parade, a drawing will determine which of the finalists will win the $250,000 credit toward a new home.

The number 250,000 was selected because the company has sold 250,000 homes in its 50-year history. The company operates in 42 major metropolitan markets in 25 states across the nation.

Pulte Corp. is the parent of the Pulte group of companies. Pulte Home Corp. has operations in 42 markets across the United States and Puerto Rico.

PAM RICHARDS

Pam has been in Real Estate for 11 years and was a top producer with another RE/MAX company until she recently joined Keller Williams Realty.

She joined RE/MAX Classic because she experienced a reduction in business as a result of not being with a strong international franchise like RE/ MAX and she was attracted by the systems available at RE/MAX Classic.

"I love the productivity tools here at RE/MAX Classic. Bvery company I interviewed talked about having the best in Technology. They don't come close to what I have here. The "Tool Time" sessions and the "Technology Training" are conducted by Lee Bittinger. He makes a personal effort to teach us how to use what he gives us. I have never experienced that from any other Broker. I love it here" says Pam.

3M receives new home in Livonia

3M's new Customer Innovation Center in Livonia's Victor Park has been completed. The 60,000-squarefoot building, at Seven Mile and I-275, replaces an existing structure for 3M's automotive division.

HarleyEllis of Southfield was the architect/ engineer, Etkin Skanska of Farmington Hills, the general contractor/ construction man-

The two-story, $6.5-million center consists of product presentation spaces on the first floor and office functions on the second.

The southwest corner is identified with a circular. limestone-clad, brick drum. Serving as a customer presentation room, the drum Urbanek said.

area defines the main entrance, while providing an identifiable architectural element.

"Centrally located ... the building reflects 3M's market focus and ongoing determination to provide automakers and their suppliers with world-class. affordable solutions," said Paul Urbanek, AIA, project designer for HarleyEllis.

"Designed to accommodate future expansion of up to 30,000 square feet, the building will house approximately 100 program management, design and technical support staff who represent 17 of the corporation's product divisions," 36800 Woodward: Two massive spheres add elegance to a completely redesigned entry and lobby at an office building in Bloomfield Hills.

Renovated office building ready to go

Renovations are complete at a Co. of Troy. 54,000-square-foot, Class A office building at 36800 Woodward at Big Beaver in Bloomfield Hills.

"We've had very favorable comments from people who have viewed the building and expect to be leased out shortly," said Brian Burgin, vice president of operations for Danto Investment

Danto Investment has owned the building since its construc-

The structure was closed and evacuated in June 1999 for major exterior and interior renovations including asbestos abatement. Tenants started coming back in April, and the building is about a third occupied now.

Neumann Smith and Associates of Southfield was the architect, Pontiac Construction Services of Pontiac the construction manager.

Unique to the building is a stunning new entry and lobby featuring African mahogany interior paneling, slate and granite flooring and a series of photographs of the nearby Cranbrook Institutions by renowned photographer Balthazar Korab.

Colliers International will handle leasing arrangements for the three-story building, which was designed to attract higherend lessees such as banking and legal clientele.
