Charlie McIlhargey cited personal reasons for his abrupt decision to retire as Plymouth Township's bui ing director after serving in the position for 14 years

McIlhargey, who turns 68 in Carber said he is going out with his head held high

This is a per onal accision but I eally don't want to get into the specifics The most important thing is that I ve always conducted myself in a professional manner, and I m going out as a professional," he said

McIlhargey's decision caught many by surprise, including trustees Abe Munfakh and Ron Griffith, who both asked him to reconsider at last week's board of trustees meeting Township Supervisor Steve Mann said he was also surprised when McIlhargey called him about his decision two weeks ago

"We wish him well in his retirement and in all his future endeavors," Mann

Developer thinking condos for Daisy factory

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Plymouth developer Jim McKeon sees the future of the old Daisy BB factory on Union Street as condominiums and lofts

Tomorrow, that vision could become more clear as the Plymouth city commission holds a public hearing on brownfield redevelopment for the more than 10 acres of property, one of the last remaining large parcels in the city begging for development

McKeon said he hopes to be a partner in the project, which could eventually put a combination of lofts and condos on property he's owned since 1967 However, the first step will be to determine what kind of contamination remains on the site from previous uses

"Our study says there is one spot of very low lead and another of some type of cleanser, which we haven't identified," said McKeon "We put in about 14 wells to check the water, and then we put in about nine soil samples for testing"

According to McKeon, the site not only housed the former Daisy BB factory, but at one time was a railroad depot and a foundry

Kevin Mason drives Plymouth-Canton school bus No 85, picking up and taking home Isbister students every day. The toughest part of his job comes when school lets out and he's driving a bus loaded with students which has to make a dreaded left turn from Canton Center Road onto Ann Arbor Road

"When I have to make the left turn onto Ann Arbor Road the traffic is going full speed and it's dangerous," he said "And, when the roads are bad, I've had to wait 10-15 minutes for a big enough hole because the tires may spin, and I don't know if the

Mason said unlike many schools in the Plymouth-Canton district, there is no school speed zone near Isbister

"If you go to Eriksson and Field they get a school zone and buses turn into traffic going 25 mph," said Mason "Here, traffic is going full speed on Ann Arbor Road They need a light here"

Mason's isn't the only complaint Plymouth-Canton bus drivers have complained to the Board of Education that transporting children home from Isbister is of "great safety concern"

Plymouth-Canton school buses, because of an agreement with residents who live along Canton Center Road between Ann Arbor and Joy roads, can't depart Isbister and travel south on the gravel portion of Canton Center Road Instead, buses must go north and make a left turn from Canton Center Road onto a heavily-traveled Ann Arbor Road

"The traffic on Ann Arbor Road has become nightmarish for school bus drivers It's an accident waiting to happen," said bus driver Del Templeton "Of the 10 buses that serve Isbister, only half would need to turn left to head towards Joy to travel safely I think the residents of the street would understand this"

Deputy Superintendent Jim Ryan has been working to alleviate the situation after a grievance was filed by bus drivers

"The bus drivers have a legitimate concern," said Ryan "Getting a light there is the best solution We'd like to continue to honor the agreement with the residents along Canton Center Road"

Ryan has been working with

Jim Anulewicz, director of public services for Plymouth Township, to determine the protocol for putting a light at the busy intersection, which would be operative during school hours

"Between the constant traffic and high speed it's very dangerous," said Shirley Czapla of Canton, who drives bus No 99 "To go through with a bus loaded with kids is very dangerous Nobody wants to help you, but if something happens"

Until a light can be erected at the intersection, drivers see driving south on Canton Center as the best solution

"It is not safe for the drivers to make a left hand turn onto Ann Arbor Road," said driver Jeannette Toth "We are asking to reconsider the use of Canton Center Road until a traffic light could be put in place By doing this the drivers would be able to safely take the children home"

Marching band tunes up in Toledo

BY DIANE HANSON SPECIAL WRITER

Twenty-five top high school marching bands from five states converged at the University of Toledo Glass Bowl Stadium in Ohio on Sept 22 for the Bands of America Regional Championships And the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park Band marched off with third place overall and Outstanding Music Performance in Class AAA

"I was very proud of the way they played," said Plymouth-Canton Marching Band director Clayton Wachholz "Realistically they have a long way to go, but the good news is that I think the students have that much poten-

The daylong preliminary performances culminated in the top 10 highest-scoring bands advancing on to a finals nighttime competition The Plymouth-Canton band was one of five from Michigan to make that cut

The P-CMB scored a 79 8 for a third-place finish, barely edged but of the second-place slot by the Centerville band from Centerville, Ohio, with an 800 The Prospect band from Mt Prospect, Ill, took first with a incredible marching band perfor-

The other Michigan bands in the finals show were Jenison, fifth with a score of 76 5, Reeths-Puffer from Muskegon, sixth with a score of 74 15, Milford, eighth with a score of 696, and Novi, 10th with a score of 647 The Durand Area band from Durand, Mich, although not among the top-10-scoring bands, played in exhibition as Class A champions

Wachholz pointed out that while most of the bands in Saturday's show had finished programs, the Plymouth-Canton band still has a considerable amount of drill and music to add to their production "There will be a couple more major effects added too." he said "That's part of the band's policy of gradually adding on and perfecting each portion of the show

"The band is starting to understand how the complexities of the show turn into communication with the audience," said Wachholz "That is a big step They are not only learning the counts, but knowing the music can be emotional?

Wachholz explained that there are three major steps to an mance physical demand, mental stages of understanding how the program works, the mechanics of the show and being able to concentrate through the entire production, and adding the emotion to the production

"Many bands jump to the last stage too quickly," noted Wach-holz "They really don't understand how things work Plymouth-Canton takes its time, but by the end will be performing at perhaps an unmatched

That's just what the performers are aiming for

"I think it is coming along very well," said Jeff McKelvey, a Canton senior trumpet player "I think the emotions were more adequately portrayed I like it, but it is surprisingly more diffi-

The show, "Programme One" with music by John Adams, starts with the band out of sight behind huge black rolling covers, representing the absence of everything As the nearly 9minute show progresses, the band unfolds a delightful musical production as the color guard weaves a tapestry of color with flags, banners, streamers and creative choreography

McKelvey said the show is more challenging to march without the drums in the backfield this year and Patrick Moran, Salem senior tenor saxophonist, agreed

"I really have to watch the drum majors closely now because we don't have that backfield," he said Even with the greater challenge, he thought the level of the band's Toledo performance was "phenomenal'

"It felt so good afterwards," said Moran "I know I put everything I had into that show and I could feel everyone else did too It was very, very powerful "

Wachholz felt the same way "The staff was amazed at the progress the band made just from Thursday to Saturday night," he said "It was a huge jump I think many of the students made it to the emotional level at the regional performance and this is early in the season for that

The Plymouth Canton March ing Band will be competing at the Flushing Invitational to be held at Eastern Michigan Uni versity's Rynearson Stadium on Sept 30

more buildings collapsing "I didn't want him to go by himself There wasn't a set plan, he was just going blindly It made me a little nervous," Cindy Karageanes said "It made me feel better knowing he was going to the Jersey side When he told me he was down at the site, it made me a little apprehensive'

He found himself at the Meadowlands Sports Complex rendezvous point around 6 a m, shortly before it was moved to Liberty State Park, on the Hud son River directly west of the World Trade Center

Karageanes struck up some quick friendships, particularly with police surgeon Morris Horowitz of Teaneck NJ The pair tiring of sitting and wait ing convinced officers aboard a police launch being used as a ferry to get them to Ground Zero

When he got there, Karageanes was stunned The site looked like a bomber had dropped a "huge bomb and made frustration as hour after hour country, more unity Part of me this huge crater," he recalled

"It's all gone," Karageanes said, rubbing his head, still somewhat in disbelief "Everything was just obliterated You know what it looked like? It looked like the ancient Romans had fought a battle and lost

Listening to radio coverage of the attacks during the eighthour drive, Karageanes was moved to tears several times But when he reached his destination, and saw the devastation and the work to be done, he and the other rescue workers and medical people did what they do best got down to business

The last survivor had been pulled from the wreckage shortly before Karageanes got there, so the doctor treated wounded rescue workers and victims fortu nate enough to survive Sprained ankles bone fractures

"The biggest problem was eyes,' he recalled "We did a lot of flushing of the eyes "

The medical teams battled passed with no new survivors Occasionally, work would stop because someone heard knocking or pinging come from the wreckage But moments later, when the noises stilled, work resumed

"It was frustrating because we didn't have anyone to work on who was a survivor," Karageanes said "We knew, since no one was coming out, that there were a lot of people burned to death or crushed?

Some 50 hours after the attacks, around noon Thursday, Sept 13, officials of the Federal Emergency Management Authority evacuated the site, moving the medical teams uptown a bit

At that point, after about 33 hours at Ground Zero, Karageanes realized it was time to go home Medical people from the local area were working their shifts, then going home to their families Karageanes suddenly felt the urge to hug Cindy and their son, 19-month-old

Miller "At that point, I'd been all the help I could be," Karageanes said "I went home to see my family'

Even now, nearly three weeks after the attacks, Karageanes has little comprehension of the ways this event has changed his life He has more of a sense of country now, and like most oth ers the little things mean less to him now

It may be awhile before he can assess the changes the attacks wrought in his life

It changes your perspective It's still too fresh to tell how it has changed me but it has,' Karageanes said "I just appreci ate what we have way more than I did I have feelings for my didn't want to leave "

He came home to the welcome arms of his wife and family Cindy Karageanes, at first worned for her husband's safety and fearful of further harm, now says she's proud of her husband

"I think ultimately he was disappointed there weren't more actual survivors, but knowing he was able to help to do something made him feel better, which made me feel better," Cindy said "It didn't surprise me he wanted to go He dropped everything and knew he had to go There wasn't even a waver, never even a question "

But to Karageanes, it was a simple decision

"I knew the people working out there were killing themselves, he said, "and I wanted to help '

Local man's 1st NY trip an eye-opener tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net Ed Moyer of Plymouth took his first trip to the New York City area a couple of weeks ago "It was a memorable trip, but I wish I could have seen it differently for my first time," said

Moyer, who is the maintenance director for the Plymouth Salvation Army, is also one of the few people in the Army's organization that has a CDL license to drive a semi So, he and Fred Benka, a Salvation Army volunteer from Wisconsin, were called upon to drive a 45-foot trailer from Chicago to Liberty Park, N J, which was converted into a command post across from Manhattan

We could look across the Hudson River and see smoke still coming up from the ground,' said Moyer 'We couldn't see ground zero but we saw debris on other buildings It was simply amazing " During his stay, Moyer said he was most impressed by the cooperation of everyone involved in the rescue and recovery efforts

"It was an amazing effort of people working together It didn't matter if you were security, from the Red Cross or the Salvation Army, everyone worked together for a common goal," he said, "I was glad to support the efforts with the other" organizations, to have helped in a small way '

Moyer said he received support for his efforts right from the very beginning of the trip

"As we were driving the command center across several states, truck drivers and those in cars would honk or give us thumbs up when they saw the Salvation Army shield," he said "Just from the direction we were going, they knew our destination '

McIlhargey has a long history as a public official When he was just 21 years old, he was elected as the treasurer of Nankin Township When the voters of that township decided to become the city of Westland, he was part of the charter commission and was then elected as the president of the first city council

Jason Barber stood in front of a packed Salem High School auditorium during first hour Monday morning, telling students about the dangers of drinking and driving, a message many had heard

Barber, 32 and a California native, had some good news, that drunk driving deaths have actually fallen in ■ 'I don't want to be the last five years However, he one of those people also noted that "it's mostly in the age group of 21 and older, with 18-year-olds and younger still over-represented in drunk driving deaths? He read a poem depicting the

-Plymouth Township last thoughts of a young girl who was hit by a drunk driver and dying alongside the road And, Barber showed a photo of two teenage girls, best friends, who died as the result of a drunk driver Then, Barber showed the last picture taken of him and his brother, Aaron, 15, who was killed in a drunk driving accident nearly 10 years ago This picture is important to me Barber said Not only because it's Aaron's last picture but because it s a picture of him sitting with the drunk driver that killed him me

At that point, as Barber paused, you could hear a pin drop, with many wiping away tears

"All I could do was scream 'I can't live with this," said Barber, breaking the silence. He then told students of drag racing his truck on a gravel road and colliding head-on with another vehicle as he attempted to pass Barber was eventually convicted of vehicular manslaughter and served nearly four years in prison

"I didn't think I was drunk I wasn't staggering, my speech wasn't slurred, I felt that I was OK, said Barber "Just the nature of being intoxicated makes you think you're doing better than you are "

Barber then explained it only takes two drinks in an hour to affect motor skills and hand-eye coordination And, only three drinks in an hour to put your blood alcohol limit at 08, which is close to Michigan's 1 standard for being legally drunk "Drunk driving is not an accident, it's a choice," he said "You need to make good choices in life " Barber's message hit close to home for a number of students, some of whom asked Barber for advice

"My older brother has a drinking problem and I'm concerned," said a Salem High School senior from Canton "I'd like to get him to stop drinking and driving I don't want him to not come home one night I want him to be there"

'My friend asked me to go with him to party when he was drunk, but I didn't go said Heidi Ohlinger 16 of Plymouth Township My broth er's girlfriend had her best friend killed in a drunk driving accident I don't want to be one of those people who die because a drunk driver hits me"

McNamara will form airport oversight committee

BY TIM SMITH STAFF WRITER tsmith@oe homecomm net

In a move criticized as a well timed political ploy, Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara Wednesday announced a committee that is intended to keep a sharp eye on construction contracts for Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport

The county commission agreed to the committee as part of a multi-faceted memo of understanding, with other elements including the go-ahead to approve $900 million in bonds for the second phase of airport expansion

But state Sen Glenn Steil, R Grand Rapids, was expected to introduce – as early as this week - a bill to establish a state-monitored airport oversight committee On Friday. Steil said the McNamara announcement was made to "cut off what we're trying to achieve with our commit tee,' namely to create an objec tive watchdog panel with teeth although still under Wayne County s jurisdiction

Steil said the county's approval of "several extensions and contracts (have been) very inept business-type practices, and our idea, rather than have a (state) takeover of the airport, was to put together an oversight committee to review all contracts and bonding'

No matter what happens with the impending bill, Steil said his oversight committee will soon begin holding meetings which he said would be subject to the

Other details of the first session were being firmed up, but the senator is hopeful to hold one of sessions at Metro Airport According to McNamara on Thursday, the county's com mittee primarily was negotiated between airport director Lester Robinson and Metro's largest carrier Northwest Airlines

When this was proposed, by Northwest Airlines, they said If you (establish) this it will be a sufficient safeguard," said McNamara, bristling about Steil's opposition

"He's a publicity hound," McNamara added "This is nothing but a political battle between Republicans that control Lans ing and Democrats who control an airport in Wayne County For 12 years we've built this airport All of this is going to open in January, after we put it togeth-

Airport accountability

Moreover filtering airport con tracts through a state oversight committee would bog down deci sions and negatively impact airport expansion work, McNamara added 'Progress in the develop ment of that airport has been process, and that would slow it even more '

Wayne County Commissioner John Sullivan, who represents the 11th District, said the coun ty s review committee would have a keener sense about how airport issues impact area resi dents than the state's panel would

'I don't think there would be any more accountability by hav ing the state doing this," Sulli van said Friday "In my opinion, having local government doing this gives more accountability than the state government It's an important issue to us, to me and even the other commis sioners It's in our county, our people are affected by it daily " Steil disagreed that involve ment by the state would get in the way of timely, prudent decisions about the airport

That's not a real strong argument,' Steil said "If you're sell-

Freedom of Information Act slowed because of the democratic ing bonds and have a track record that's at least questionable our committee is going to help those people buying bonds" know their interests are being protected

McNamara said the county's committee will be an account able, responsible group com prised of various interests and that it would make its recommendations about contract bids to the Wayne County Commis

On the Wayne County committee will be representatives from Northwest as well as other airlines, an employees union, Detroit Regional Chamber of Commerce, airport concessions, and the state Senate's special committee on Metro

"It (committee) would have the right to hire auditors hire staff," McNamara said

McNamara added that committee members probably won't be selected for another 10 days

Steil said his oversight committee would have a similar lineup, although it would include a representative from Gov Engler's office

Originally, it was reported that the county review committee would meet privately, with comments from those sessions made public McNamara said nothing was finalized concerning that but added the committee absolutely' would be encouraged to meet publicly

In any event, Sullivan said, major decisions about airportcontracts would be made in pub-> lic because county commission. ers have the final say

Recent criticism of airport operations and finances, which 🗟 have been carefully scrutinized by state auditors, prompted McNamara to call for the heat to be turned down "If the state

Wayne County and its airport will be in lock-step with the rest of the country in adhering to a $500 million aviation security plan unveiled Thursday by President George W Bush

The plan, to feature air marshals on planes and a uniformed presence at airports, drew quick support from Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara

Wayne County is ready to work cooperatively with the President, the airlines and any and all federal or state agencies to implement additional security measures at Metro Airport said

McNamara in a statement Thursday "We welcome any measures that help instill confi dence in the flying public that airports and airlines are safe for travel"

Raczkowski plans run for U.S. Senate

By MIKE MALOTT HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE mmalott@homecomm.net

Some Republicans believe US Sen Carl Levin, D, to be unbeat-

Not Andrew Raczkowski "Levin is beatable Everyone is beatable," he said

Missing out on a chance to run for a congressional seat when boundary lines were redrawn, leaving his Farmington Hill home "just 8,000 feet" outside a new vacant district, the Republican state representative now has his eye on the US Senate seat for the November 2002 election

"With my military training and with my political training here in the state of Michigan, I have always felt that I have a federal mission," Raczkowski said "My generation needs to take up the baton of leadership If we do not, we fail ourselves and the older generations who made it possible for us to be

He began exploring the idea of running by hosting a reception on Mackinac Island during the Republican Leadership Conference this past weekend, Sept 21-

Raczkowski said he will decide whether to form an exploratory committee within the next two weeks Also a captain in the Army reserves, the decision depends in part on whether he gets called up for service If he gets called for service for a year or more, a senate run would not be possible Shorter service would still make a campaign a possibility

Since no one else has come forward to challenge for the senate seat, it appears Raczkowski has the field to himself

But taking on Levin won't be Asked what it would take for the representative to defeat Levin, Steve Mitchell, CEO of the polling firm Mitchell and Associates, suggested a "guerrilla campaign "He recommended Raczkowski launch a bus tour, visiting as a much of the state as he can over the next year

"It has to be a real grassroots

Other Republicans argue Levin is susceptible to a challenge, claiming he is "out of touch" with mainstream Michi-

Raczkowski said he is supportive of Levin's actions in the wake of the terrorist attacks Sept 11 in New York and Washington In fact, he said he believes it is inappropriate to be campaigning "until we have cleaned up the

Bennett faces 2 challengers in secretary of state race

BY MIKE MALOTT HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE mmalott@homecomm.net

The Republican party's Leadership Conference, held every two years to give candidates a launching point for their campaigns, was notably different from previous events, according to party regulars - the most hotly contested seat this time was for Secretary of State

Three are running - state Sen Loren Bennett, R-Canton, former Kent County Clerk Terri Land, and Calhoun County Clerk Anne Norlander

Campaign supporters for all three were visible and active on Mackinac Island Friday-Sunday, Sept 21-23, while the party faithful - from statewide party leaders to county and district committee chairmen and members - gathered there for the conference

The nomination of the party's candidate is to be made at the state convention following the primary next August

"So it would be as if they transported every voter in my district to the island where I could meet them one by one and shake their hands," said one state lawmaker, explaining the significance of the conference to that race

Attorney General nominees are also named at the convention, so Sen Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, who wants that job was campaigning hard on the ısland Sen Bill Schuette, R-Midland, just as visible and active, is also expected to seek that nomination But he didn't actually name the job he's after, position to be designated later

East-west conflict

Norlander is the most recent candidate to enter the race for Secretary of State She said she had several motivations for get ting in, including gender and geography She's concerned the party will produce an all-male ticket for November 2002, a con cern expressed by other Republi cans at the conference as well She also wants to provide an alternative to the east-west contest a Bennett-Land face off would present Bennett is from Canton, Land from the Grand Rapids area And there is a traditional rivalry for control of the party between the western shore and southeastern Michigan Cal houn is in the south central por tion of the state

Norlander said she has presid ed over an update of the county's elections equipment, now nearly complete Current Secretary of State Candace Miller (who will be term limited out of the office next year) has proposed all state polling places be switched to optical scan balloting, a move Norlander supports and said she knows how to implement

Land has been seeking the nomination for over a year now She was the clerk in Kent during the '90s and, in that time, she said she has made a priority of assuring 100 percent accuracy in record keeping there She said she has emphasized campaign finance enforcement, increasing accessibility to reports and improving the Qualified Voter

Land lists elections reform, customer service and campaign finance enforcement But she also adds two unusual issues to her list of top priorities for the contest - disposal of abandoned cars and concealed weapons per-

Since the Secretary of State's office has all the records on vehicle registration and ownership, Land contended, it could be given responsibility for hauling off cars abandoned on private property

Currently, that responsibility rests with police, who typically have other priorities, she said

Permit change

Since concealed weapons permits are now under the control of a new state law, which takes discretion away from county gun boards, Land believes the state should handle permit applications The Secretary of State's office is capable of handling the added paperwork, she said Further, she worries that lawsuits over the rejection of CCW applications could hurt smaller counties financially The state should take over the process, she said

Bennett was the first to get into the race The third term lawmaker is term limited out of office effective in 2002, so began seeking the office two years ago

Bennett puts as his top priority the computerization of the paperwork within the office

"The Secretary of State's office produces more than one million pieces of paper every day," he said "Then it all goes to a central office where it is stapled and sorted and microfilmed Even though some of that is already stored electronically, law requires that some paper records be retained for 99 years "

Current computer and scanner technology could easily handle that paperwork flow and storage, he said

Bennett is considered the fron trunner Bill Sullivan, aide and campaign worker, contended Bennett has raised nearly $250 000 to challenge the as yet unnamed Democratic contender for the job, more than 10 times the amounts raised by his oppo-

Defense, Kobus' 4 TDs carry Canton to triumph

By ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER

During the first five games of this football season, Plymouth Canton players played for their school, their coaches, their fans and them-

Friday night against Livonia Churchill, the Chiefs played for defensive line coach Homer Elias, who was stricken earlier in the week by an undisclosed brain ınjury

With their popular coach hospitalized in critical condition, the inspired Chiefs squashed Churchill 36-0 before a large and vocal homecoming crowd

Canton is now 5-1 (4-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association) while the Chargers dropped to "The team definitely rallied around Homer and wanted to win this one for him," Canton coach Tim Baechler stressed "When he finds out we shut them out and he reads about how well our defense played, he'll know how much the kids wanted it for him "

Canton's defense didn't just neutralize the Chargers' offense — it shifted Churchill into reverse The Chargers finished with minus-25 total yards and just one first down, which came following a Chiefs' personal foul penalty

Probably the most telling stat that summed up Canton's defensive dominance Churchill ran just one play all night in Canton territory

On offense, the Chiefs piled up 351 total yards and 14 first downs Senior running back Dane Kobus did most of the damage, rushing for 138 yards and four touchdowns

Chief quarterback Brendan Murphy had an up-and-down evening, completing four-of-six passes for 49 yards, but he also threw an interception deep in Churchill territory

"I was real happy with how we moved the ball offensively," Baechler said, "but we have to eliminate the turnovers A couple of times we made some poor decisions when we should have just ate the ball instead of throwing it, but overall, I was pleased

While most of Canton's drives were clock-devouring marathons, their opening one was a don't-blinkor-you'll-miss-it sprint Following a

$Salem\ boys\ win\ streak$ stopped by Stevenson

It was close, but Livonia Stevenson had just a bit more than Plymouth Salem in a showdown of Western Lakes Activities Association cross country unbeatens Thursday at Cass Benton

The Spartans got the win, 25-31, to remain perfect in the Lakes at 3-0 Salem slipped to 2-1 in the division, 4-1

"It wasn't too bad," said Salem coach Geoff Baker of his team's performance "I wish it had been a little closer, they're running tough right now

"They had a real tight pack that was hard to break up '

The top finisher was Salem's Justin Hajduk in 16 30 Stevenson's Matt Gillespie placed second (17 05), with the Rocks' Jim Leddy taking third

After that came the pack Baker alluded to three-straight Stevenson runners — Chris Furlong (17 11), Doug Novack (17 16) and Dan Gruszka (17 19) Salem's Chris Vraniak slipped into seventh place (1725), but Steven-

Canton, Salem get big wins

A round to remember: Ryan McKendry led Canton with an even-par round of 35 in a win over North Farmington.

It's been a busy week for Plymouth Canton's golfers

But after a bad start, with back-to-back losses to Western Lakes Activities Association rivals Livonia Stevenson Monday and Northville on Wednesday, the Chiefs rebounded with a pair of WLAA wins over Walled Lake Central on Thursday and North Farmington on Friday

The 2-2 week gave Canton a 5-2 record in the WLAA

On Wednesday, the Chiefs lost for the second-straight time, but they certainly gave Northville, the defending WLAA champion, a run for it

With scorecards that were nearly identical, the Mustangs managed to edge Canton 153-154 at Hilltop The win kept Northville's record perfect at 7-0

'This was a really good high school match," said Canton coach Tom Alles "The best team won, but not by much "

The Mustangs' Dave Oljace earned medalist honors with a 36 Next best for Northville was Tom Borda, 37, Ryan Gideon, 39, and Tom Gavin, 41

Canton's scores was just as impressive Top marks came from Andrew Wagner and Ryan McKendry, both at 37, Scott Oliver, 39, and Jason Brand, 41

Next best for the Chiefs were Ryan Van-Loozen, 45, and Michael Baracy, 46

On Thursday, Canton had a make-up match against Walled Lake Central at Hilltop This dual lacked the drama of the previous day's meet, but the results were better for the Chiefs, who won 158 166

Oliver earned medalist honors with a 38 Chris Slupek was next best for Canton with a 39, followed by Wagner at 40 and McKendry at 41 Brand and Tim Son Hing each had 42s

Steve Percha's 39 was best for Central, which fell to 3-4 Friday's match was much the same for Canton On a Glen Oaks course that wasn't in the best of shape, the Chiefs got a superb performance from McKendry in beating North 161-173

McKendry earned medalist honors with an even-par 35 Next best for Canton was Brand with a 41, Oliver with a 42 and Wagner with a 43 Slupek and Baracy each shot 46s

North, which dropped to 1-5-1, was led by Alex Yerkey with a 40

As busy as this week was for Canton; next week won't be any less crowded The Chiefs play Westland John Glenn Monday, Farmington Harrison Wednesday and Farmington Friday at Hilltop, and on; Thursday they go against Walled Lake Western at Bay Pointe

Salem climbs WLAA ladder

Plymouth Salem used a superb round by Bobby Jones - a medalist-earning 34 - to beat Livonia Churchill 152-158 in a WLAA match at St John's Friday

Jones was one of three Rocks to break 40 Andy Thackaberry and Jon Gordon followed with 39s, and Aaron Cheesman had a 40 Other Salem scores were Dan Stevens, 42, and Joe Pavoleski, 46

Kevin Kasten and Steve Robinson led_ the Chargers with 38 each

The Rocks improved their WLAA record to 5-2 Churchill slipped to 7-3

Poor performance costs SC at Young Harris; Madonna rolls

It didn't really matter at the time, that Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team started to lose its edge After all, it was midway through the second half of the Lady Ocelots' match last Friday (Sept 21) at Georgia Perimeter, located just outside Atlanta, and SC was up 5-0

Despite their lack of effort during the final minutes, there didn't seem to be any reason to worry The Ocelots won by that 5-0 margin But the next day they traveled two hours north to take on a very strong Young Harris CC side, the same team that eliminated SC from the NJCAA Tournament last season

For this match, the Ocelots would need to be ready to go Unfortunately, they weren't

In perhaps their worst performance of the season SC fell behind 20 by half time and never truly got on track even tually losing 5 1 The split over the weekend left the Ocelots at 8 2, Young Harris was 7-1

I Women's Soccer

"They made a good team — us — look bad," said SC coach Bill Tolstedt "They deserved to win "

The Ocelots never got in gear until Tolstedt shifted Toni Perry from defense to offense She eventually scored a goal, with assists from Rachel Berezak (Plymouth Salem) and Krystn Freeman But there wasn't enough left to catch Young Harris, which dominated the play, outshooting SC 19-9

On Friday at Georgia Perimeter, it was SC making its opponent look bad The Ocelots led 3 0 by halftime they ended up with a 23 1 shot advantage

Freeman led SC with three goals with Erin Matson and Maria Wissman getting one apiece Sarah McMasters picked up three assists, with Berezak, Jenny Hewlett and Aubrey Karavas getting two apiece

Madonna wins first 2

Perhaps the Madonna University Crusaders got things on track just in time The next few weeks, during which Madonna plays mostly Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference games, will

On Friday, the Madonna men's team made it two-straight in WHAC play with a 2-1 victory over Tri-State University in Angola, Ind Madonna improved to 6-5 overall, 2-0 in the conference, the Thunder are 0-11, 0-2 Tri-State scored first, getting a goal from Randy Hunt 10 52 into the match The Fighting Crusaders knotted it with a goal by Nick Szczechowski (Plymouth Salem) off a throw in by Mike Healy 17 49 into the second half

The game-winner was scored by Justin Fishaw (Plymouth Canton) with 18 42 remaining, with an assist from Jonathon Johnson (Canton)

Doug Koontz (Canton) started in goal for Madonna, but was replaced by Matt Strabbing (Canton) The Crusaders out shot the Thunder, 21-10

Last Wednesday, Madonna got a goal in each half while its defense limited Cornerstone College to a total of five shots on goal in posting a 2-0 win at Farmington's Founder's Park

Cornerstone fell to 5-3-2 overall, 0-1 in the WHAC

Healy and Zach Wilkes did the offensive work for Madonna, Healy scoring the Crusaders' first goal at 15 28, with Wilkes assisting and Wilkes getting the clincher, 19 32 into the second half, with Healy assisting

Strabbing made two saves in goal

Madonna women win

Talk about domination Sticking to a strategy that's difficult to argue with, Madonna's women blasted Tri-State 6-0 Friday in Angola, Ind The win evened the Lady Crusaders' record at 4-4, they are 2-0 in the WHAC The Thunder fell to 4 6-1 over all, 1-1 in the WHAC

The strategy They can't score if they can't shoot And Tri-State didn't, Madonna held an incredible 41-2 shot advantage, Crusader keeper Jennifer Barker (Livonia Stevenson) did not have to make a save

Emily Jackson (Farmington Harrison) accounted for two Crusader goals Madonna led 3 0 at the half, getting goals from Sarah Pack (Canton/Westland John Glenn), Kelly Delaney and Christen Shull (Plymouth Salem)

Becky Guibord scored in the second half as well Jamie Scott (Livonia Churchill) had three assists

Canton's third drive was halted by a Derek Dodd interception at the Churchill 5 with 9 18 to go in the first half

However, the next time the Chiefs possessed the ball, they constructed a 13-play, 73-yard scoring drive that was capped by a 7-yard TD sweep around right end by Kobus to make it 21-0 The drive was highlighted by two fourth-down conversions the first a fourth-and-three at Churchill's 34 — and a 20-yard scramble by Murphy

The Chiefs cemented the win

CC 1, Livonia Franklin 1: Don't think records can be deceiving?

After Wednesday, you might not have been able to spin that to Redford Catholic Central soccer coach Dana Orsucci Even though his team moved to 0-5-4 overall after a 1-1 tie with Livonıa Franklın, he felt hıs team wass playing as well as anyone

"It's almost as if the soccer powers above don't want us to score," said Orsucci "We played well again It's not like we're getting blown out in games We lost to Brother Rice 2-0, and every other game has been 1-1, 1-0 or 0-0 We've only let up eight goals, but we've scored three,

Franklın (6-7-1) scored first ın the contest, as Jake Horgan scored with 18 minutes to play CC had several good chances to score and finally got on the board with 12 minutes to play with John Show curling in a free

With regular goalie Ryan Koet moved from goal to the field to shake things up, CC backup goalie Todd Tindall made eight saves Franklin's Chris Austin made 11 saves

"Goaltending is solid, our midfielders are playing well and I think our forwards are finally coming around," said Orsucci "We're not getting blown out or humiliated If we could score two goals in most of the games, we'd be winning "

Orsucci changed his tune a bit on Friday, as the Shamrocks dropped a 3-0 loss to University of Detroit-Jesuit

"We just didn't show up to play," said Orsucci as CC fell to 0-6-4 overall and 0-3-1 in the Central Division "We got hammered all over the field The last couple of games were promising, but (Friday) we just didn't show up We were outshot 9-1 at half, and the second half got ugly It was our most disappointing loss of the year - not so much that we lost, but how we lost "

Ryan Alexander and Barry Brown scored in the first half for the only goals that the Cubs (4-1 Central) would need The Cubs and Tindall combined for 14

Stevenson 8, Harrison 0: Livonia Stevenson steamrolled Farmington Harrison Thursday night in a match that was rescheduled from Wednesday when officials failed to show for the game at North Farmington

T J Djokic scored two goals and had an assist for Stevenson while Ben White scored twice and Jon Spray scored once

Nick Djokic, Jamie Miller and Dan Salzano each had a goal plus an assist and JT Katikos had two assists The shutout went to John Magoulick

NATURE NOTES

Tim Nowicki

Fall season brings food to the table

Fall is a time of plenty in the natural world There are plenty of animals because young of the year are now part of the population

Plenty of plants are visible because they have had all summer to grow and mature Plenty of plants also produce plenty of seeds and fruits

Animals rely on the fall production of food to fatten up for winter when food supplies dwindle and conditions are harsh Those that do not, or can not fatten up in fall are more likely to die during winter

While standing in the forest the other day I experienced an animal in the process of getting ready for winter

I first became aware of the animal when a dime-sized piece of something hit my shoulder My first impression was a leaf had fallen But it was too heavy to be a leaf Then a second piece hit me That time I recovered the piece and discovered it was a portion of a nut shell

Now I knew it was a squirrel in the trees overhead In fact, based on the chips of shell raining from above, I guessed it was a fox squirrel

Unfortunately, I could not see it because of all the leaves on the trees But it was not long before it came down to the ground looking for more nuts Sure enough it was a fox squir

In between watching it search for more nuts, I noticed that the ground was littered with small pieces of shell and large pieces of hickory nut husk The pulpy covering is easy to separate from the hard shelled nut Chewing through the protective coating is the hard part

It may be hard for me to break open a hickory nut shell, but fox squirrels have such strong laws that they are able to break the shell into pieces Smaller squirrels gnaw holes through the shell in particular patterns Red squirrels enter from the side of the nut, while flying squirrels and chipmunks enter through the top, like someone took the top off a pumpkin

Meat inside a nut is the source of food for a sprouting seedling to use before it can produce a green leaf, which then produces food for the developing plant

Extracting that nutritious material is often essential for the animal's survival Even though it takes energy to extract the nut meat, more energy is gained from each nut

Small rodents are unable to enter large, hard shelled nuts so they must eat soft fruits, or small nuts While rearranging my wood pile the other day, I came upon a refuse dump from mice There were some acorn shell fragments, but I was more impressed with the tiny round holes in the black cherry pits

Black cherry tree berries are mostly seed or pit, there is very little pulp to the fruit Birds eat the berry for the little pulp that is available, then excrete the seed because it is too hard to digest Mice collect seeds that fall from the tree and those deposited by birds

I never thought much about the food value of a tiny cherry pit until I saw the berry skeletons Small mice find enough food inside to justify the energy to gnaw through the shell

Then, they must extend their tongue inside to gradually extract the meat It must take a lot of licking to keep the heart of a mouse ticking Maybe its tongue is very rough like a cat's Next time I find a mouse I'll have to remember to check its tongue

Keep an eve open for food debris on the ground and chances are you will find a feeding furry friend

Grouse enclaves close to home

By JEFF COUNTS STAFF WRITER
jcounts@oe homecomm.net

The scent of fall is in the air and it's time to get the dog ready for the fall upland bird season in Michigan

The grouse season kicked off Sept 15 and runs through Nov 14 and the woodcock season starts Sept 22 and runs through Nov 5

For many heading to northern Michigan or the Upper Peninsula is the ticket, but there are also grouse and woodcock within an hour or so from western Wayne County

Last year, a group of hunters and I discovered a woodcock haven about 45 minutes from Livonia It was a low, wet area near a river, with plenty of thickets, which are loved by woodcock

The small game birds were thicker in this spot near Wayne County than I had seen them in the Upper Peninsu-

One possible reason given by hunt ing friends was that there's less habi tat for them in the southern Lower Peninsula than in the Upper Peninsula For that reason, they bunch up during the annual fall migration

But for what ever reason, it certain ly was a hot little spot for a Saturday afternoon hunt

Nope I'm not going to give away my little spot It took a hunting compan ion many days of scouting to find the Game birds: Hunters Chris Counts and Scott Cataline and a birdog look over a grouse and woodcock place The state Department of Natu ral Resources office in Livonia has a list of state game areas

Hunting near urban areas is a fine diversion when you can get "up north" for the weekend, but it's certainly no replacement for a week in the Upper Peninsula, where the abundance of and is mostly done on lovely fall days state land allows hunters to roam to their heart's content

For non hunters interested in taking up the sport grouse and woodcock hunting is a good place to start First of all, unlike deer hunting, bird hunting takes place in warmer weather

when the leaves are changing

It can also be done at pretty much any pace you want While the hard core birders use hunting dogs such as English setters, springer spaniels and German short haired pointers, it can also be done without dogs

Also, you don't need heavy artillery for bird hunting A 20 gauge shotgun

The clothing isn't expensive either A pair of jeans will work, but if you get serious, a pair of briar-proof pants make crashing through the brush much more enjoyable Grouse and woodcock like the cover given by thickets, and to do any serious hunting, you'll be crashing through the thick stuff If you're going to invest in anything, make sure it's your boots There's a lot of walking involved in bird hunting, and it's usually in rough country, not on trails Just a note Waterproof boots are valuable Much of the walking is in wet areas

But perhaps the best thing about bird hunting is that you don't even have to be successful to enjoy a day in the field

Sure, it's fun to hit a couple of birds, but there is also the reward of a good walk in the woods on a crisp fall day with companions you enjoy

Recent events make hunters reflect

The first couple of weeks of October have been a special time of year. There's usually been a frost, turning the leaves orange and gold and killing game of the killing some of the brush.

 This enables the ouse hunter to see his prey, and maybe

JEFF COUNTS even make a few shots that hit the mark Even dogs seem to sense that spe cial time of year They get eager to get out in the brush after the hot summer months October is also a time to renew old friendships with other hunters you haven't seen in a year. The talk over a few beverages is sometimes as interesting as the hunting

For years, I've celebrated the fall season in a grouse camp of sorts in the Upper Peninsula There's a large cabin rented and sons and their friends show up

But that's all changed this year The attack on America has put a damper on all sorts of activities

Oh, we'll still go, but there will just be a different spirit to the whole affair

The foliage just won t look the same and the sound of a shotgun going off will bring up visions not of a mce bird for dinner but of something that may be happening on the other side of the world

I suspect this year, there will be fewer friends flying in for the season

And if my sons and their friends show up, I'll be wondering where they'll be next year if our war on ter-rorism continues. Will they be wear-ing camouflage and carrying a rifle next fall instead of a 20 gauge shotgun and an orange hunting vest? Only time will tell,

Earlier this summer I read a poignant essay by nature writer Sig Olson about a long canoe/fishing trip he took with his son prior to his son leaving for battle in World War II

It was an intriguing piece because Olson was able to strike a balance between concern for his son and the knowledge that they were both caught up in something larger than themselves.

I suspect as the hunting season in Michigan unfolds, wildfowl, upland jcounts@ce.homecomm.net.)

bird and deer hunters will be having similar experiences. Where will their friends, sons and daughters be next

Or sure, the hunting camps will be full of trucks; beer and guns. And there will be stories shared around campfires and at the small town taverns about the game we hit or

But will they be told with the same enthusiasm as in past years? Will the normal antics of hunting friends seem as funny this year It's doubt-

The new ownership of the PBA has added a lot of prize money and other incentives to the men's tour, while the ladies will also have added prizes through their fund rais ing activities

There is one major differ ence this year - Sport Condition will be standard on both tour venues This is a differ ent way of handling the lane surfaces, putting the empha sis on precision shooting rather than just throwing to an area where there are dry boards, which will steer the ball to the pocket There will be some unusual ly lower scores, but it is a fair condition for all and usually the best bowler on that day is the one who will win

certs with Morris he enjoys most The musical duo perform at least 20 dates a year and as many as 60 They're especially looking forward to a return engagement with the Vivace series Saturday, Oct 6, at Birmingham Temple in Farmington Hills

"I met Joan in 1972 but didn't want to work together because what if I didn't like what she did and she didn't like what I did?" said Bolcom

Despite his feelings the duo seemed destined to work together Before long they were performing songs at par ties That led to a concert at the American Musicological Society in Brooklyn in 1973 Since marrying in 1975 they have recorded music together more than 20 times But writing for Morris was another story

At first it was difficult writing for her because I fell in love with her It was hard but I was finally able to do it," said Bolcom, who began compos ing music as a boy in Seattle

By age 11 he was studying compo sition and piano at the University of Washington He eventually went on to earn a doctorate from Stanford Uni versity and write the 1999 opera A View from the Bridge, a collaborative production with playwright Arthur Miller and librettist Arnold Weinstein, and the 1992 opera McTeague, which was directed by Robert Altman

In October 2000 the Detroit Symphony Orchestra premiered his Con certo Grosso for Saxophone Quartet and Orchestra Those are just a few of the compositions he's written and per formed in concerts in the United States and Europe

Fortunately, for the Vivace series audience several originals will be on the Oct 6 program along with music by Gershwin, Porter and Berlin It should be a real treat as Bolcom and Grammy-nominated Morris have per formed these songs in some of the most prestigious venues including New York's Carnegie Hall, Boston's Jordan Hall, London's Wigmore Hall, and summer festivals at Tanglewood ts no coincidence the annual Canton Project Arts exhibition is gaining a reputation for displaying professional painting sculpture photography, and clay. For an entire year preceding the fine arts show, co chair Linda Shapona and members of Canton Township's official arts organization, travel to area art fairs to pass out brochures and urge artists to enter The volunteers tireless effort is just one of the reasons the exhibit continues to grow and suc ceed according to Andrea Tama of Farmington Hills Tama is one of 66 artists selected to exhibit in the ninth annual fine arts exhibition opening Saturday, Oct 6, at Summit on the Park Community Center in Canton A day earlier juror Kenneth Gross, director of the Art Museum Project at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, will award $1,800 in prizes, giving artists one more reason to

"I like the venue," said Tama, a teacher and board member at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Center "It's a small show I think the quality is very high because they hire jurors like Ken Gross who was director of the BBAC for many years I don't select shows that won't be hung professionally or feature

Author offers strategies for reclaiming your life

Inner Peace for Busy People 52 was someone I needed to talk to Simple Strategies for Transform We connected while she was in ing Your Life

By Joan Borysenko, Ph D, Hay House Inc Carlsbad, Calif, 2001, $17 95

BY KEELY KALESKI-WYGONIK STAFF WRITER kwygonik@oe.homecomm.net

Life is over very fast, and why is it that we have to constantly stop in our tracks before we get the message? We're all so crazy busy that we don't have time to smell the roses

My wake-up call came in December when David, my husband of over 18 years, died from complications of leukemia It's been a blessed year, one filled with happy coincidences including meeting Joan Borysenko, author of Inner Peace for Busy People 52 Simple Strategies for Transforming Your Life

Borysenko, who has a doctorate in medical sciences from Harvard Medical School, is a licensed clinical psychologist and author of 10 books

We have a lot in common Like me, personal tragedy has been a catalyst for growth in her life When I read that Borysenko's father suffered from leukemia, I tracked her down, knowing she

We connected while she was in Detroit taping a special for WTVS Channel 56 Her book - a collection of 52 essays - is a recipe for living a full, joyful life It's written from the heart and meant to be revisited like a favorite recipe

"I don't believe we make shift overnight," she said "You don't master it all at once Do what you can, not what you won't One little change opens lots of possibilities 3

Instead of trying to go to yoga class three times a week, she tells me that I should aim for once, and, if I go more, that's

Americans, she writes, are anxious and worried Twelve percent are depressed, another 10 percent have chronic "low mood "Seventy to 90 percent of primary-care physicians' visits are attributed to stress

Being well begins with a decision to be well Borysenko, an expert on stress, spirituality and the mind-body connection, will help you take steps to improve your health and quality of life

She offers strategies for learning how to take care of yourself from learning how to being a better juggler, asking for help, to say no, and shedding bad habits

H e r book will help you change your relationship to time, be more compasand kind, and put purpose in your life Life could be so simple if we just remembered the basics breathe, take time for a walk, take care of yourself, be a good listener, practice gratitude, forgive, search for meaning, learn to manage your mind, keep things simple, and practice a few random acts of kindness'

Together, Borysenko believes, we can change the world

"One little change opens up lots of possibilities If we are to create a new future, the power to do so is magnified exponentially wherever two of us gather for a good purpose'

Put some peace into your life

Here are some excerpts from Inner Peace for Busy People 52 Simple Strategies for Transforming Your Life by Joan Borysenko, Ph D

■ Be a better juggler - without boundaries, work will expand to take up as much time as you have It's up to you to choose those things that keep you centered - even when they appear to make life busier This week, review your priorities If selfcare is not one of them, think of an activity that you would really enjoy and add it to your to-do list Taking time to enjoy life is one of the most important secrets of busy people with inner peace

■ Just do it and shed those bad habits - this week make a list of the habits that you know get in the way of your inner peace Bite the bullet and take a step to change one of the them, even though you know it will be uncomfortable

■ Do what you can, not what you won't — Whatever your goal may be, try being more than realistic Set your sights lower rather than higher By doing so, you increase your chance for success, which motivates you to take the next step when you're ready

■ Be a source of kindness - this week pay attention to kindness given and received Let your loved ones know that they're wonderful - not because of anything they did, but just because they are You might also pull off a few random acts of kindness

every year "

One thing that never changes from year to year is the need for volunteers to sit with art works during the exhibit Shapona is looking for anyone interested in helping with the show or with Canton Project Arts activities throughout the year It takes dozens of volunteers to put on the annual storytelling festival, Peter Sparling Dance Company and Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan performances, and an ethnic and cultural event at Liberty Fest And those are just a few of the projects hosted by arts organization

"We have a larger committee now but still need volunteers,' said Shapona "If anybody wants to get involved with Canton Project Arts If they have an interest in the visual and performing arts, it's a lot of fun

latest project involves producing a benefit concert of classical and Broadway music Thursday, Oct 4 at St Mary Catholic Church in Wayne Half of the proceeds will go to GEM for medical care for the dogs the other half to St Mary s music ministry

A concert to raise funds for a western Michigan based greyhound adoption group had to be canceled in January of 2000 after Missie, a flutist, fell on her way to the concert She was rushed to an emergency room where she required 54 stitches in her leg But that didn't dampen her enthusiasm even though she's still having medical problems as a result of the fall Currently, she's on intravenous antibiotics at home and might have to go back into the hospital But even if she does, the show will go on It must Missie's put her heart and soul into getting GEM off the ground She and a group of fellow dog lovers formed the nonprofit greyhound adoption group for eastern Michigan in October 2000 to make it easier to place the retired greyhounds on this side of the state "There's enough people performing that they can go on without me," said Missie Harhold who will perform Doppler's Hungarian Pastorale Fantasy Also on the program are St Mary's Liturgical Band, of which Harhold is a member, tenor Gordon Finlay, a graduate of University of Michigan School of Music and an adjunct voice professor at Wayne State University, soprano Vanessa Feriole, Benjamin Hayes (French horn), and bass baritone Mark Gardner, a Wayne State University student who's performed in Madame X and several other productions

"There's going to be something reserved. They really don't need a lot of exercise. Just letting them run in the backyard is enough, and maybe just a walk for a change of pace.'

■ 'There's a misconception about them being high-energy. Greyhounds are a little more

Missie Harhold flautist

for everyone We'll be playing some familiar things that includes Mark Gardner singing Beauty and the Beast "

Barely taking a breath, Harhold continues to talk about her first love - the dogs The second is her flute Harhold studies the instrument with Philip Dike man, assistant principal flute for the Detroit Symphony Orches-

"There are about 18 greyhounds currently available, some are cat safe, some are not

The average age of adoptable greyhounds is 2 1/2 to 4-yearsold but some, like Sweet Magnolia, are a little older and less likely to get adopted Each dog has a story Missie and Mike adopted Jeanie at around 15 months-old because she was so shy the breeder knew she wouldn't race Zantz pulled a shoulder muscle, and Hope broke her rear leg as a puppy so their breeder/owners decided to find them new homes

"Sweet Magnolia was living with an elderly woman who died She's sort of an orphan in a foster home She's 7 1/2 but acts like 2 The lifespan is 13 to 14years," said Harhold

"Smitty needs a home without small children We're having a hard time finding a home for him because he needs a home with older children (age 8 and up) He gets along with other dogs but I don't believe he's cat

safe, another strike against

Redford, named after film star Robert Redford because of his pretty face, is not cat safe but Harhold said, "we do have dogs without issues "

"There's a misconception about them being high-energy," continued Harhold "Greyhounds are a little more reserved They really don't need a lot of exercise Just letting them run in the backyard is enough, and maybe just a walk for a change of pace

"They're not high strung, don't shed or bark much They're low maintenance dogs

Harhold's love for the dogs rubbed off on her brother Benjamin Hayes Kiddingly, he says she talked him into performing but Hayes enjoys playing French horn regardless of who it's for, even the dogs Hayes started playing French horn in fifth grade and was in the orchestra and band at John Glenn High School He studied music performance at Eastern Michigan University before deciding to become a police officer He'll be attending the police academy at Schoolcraft College next fall

"I want to help raise money for the dogs," said Hayes

For more information about adopting a greyhound visit the Web sites at www gemgrey hounds org or www greyt hounds org

Fall welcomes return of the power girl girl be gone Fall 2001 ushers in a strong fashion season, with the return of the power girl reigning supreme In true Madonna fashion,

Fall fashion hints of decades past, with the power 80s and mod 60s fusing with the ultra-feminine Victorian era and 90s Lolita femme fatale

Boardroom chic

With a glorious flashback, the power 80s have made their triumphant return with bold shoulders. The new season puts a modern twist on the look with cleaner shapes and styles that don't sacrifice the luxe of 80s decadence Sleek suits, jackets and coats are tailored to flaunt the strong shoulder and whittled waist

Skirt lengths take a rise and hover at the knee, banishing last season's midcalf craze

Pants have a cleaner shape, with a flat front and side or front zip And last season's cropped pant leg gives way to a full length leg The look is a dramatically clean-lined suit or pant and sweater set that emanates sheer boardroom chic

Ensembles get an extra kick in another nod to the luxe look with fur trimmings and light accent embroidery on rich fabrics of cashmere, leather, suede

Belts expand (in fashion only) to offset the sleek power suit The skinny belt phenomenon bades a final farewell in favor of leather, grommets and suede waist cinches that start at 2 1/2 inches and widen to a low-slung hip-hugger

Victor Victoria

From the yang of masculine power suits to the yin of graceful feminine styles, fall celebrates the balance in fashion harmony

If you're a hard working fashionista' by day the new season promises a lady like sophistication for night Feminine baby doll dresses are soft versus sexy, with ruffles, sheer fabrics and soft

With a nod to the 60s, jaunty skirts are paired with textured leggings and patent leather Mary Jane pumps

Victorian style takes another plunge with puffed sleeves and tucks on leather tops, tweed blazers and fine cashmere shirts Lace and brocade return with slim lace overlay skirts to fitted brocade tops Paying homage to a Victorian fashion classic, corsets are worked into dresses and shirts for a more whittled waist The look is romantic with a mod-

Black is back

Never truly out of style, black has surged once again as a hot fall fashion

Soft black skirts are offset by feminine tops in rich colors of camel, wine and burgundy

For the truly modern dresser, it's head-to-toe black A ruffled black dress, textured black stocking and black kneehigh leather boot with slim heel is a complete look

Gray remains a strong fall hue from light heather to charcoal for those in favor of a more subtle approach

Cold shoulder

Last season's clutch has given way to the power purse with shoulder strap

Always on-the-go, today's woman needs to keep her hands free for the cell phone, Palm Pilot and her fall fashion

Handbags are less structured and come in soft shapes in rich hues of camel brown, amethyst and butter

Hope and fear

Gas masks have sold out locally, but shoppers are buying Bibles, flag T-shirts, other spirit soothers, too

Selling hope: Keith Abentrod, owner of Speedy Tees in Birmingham, wears the American flag T shirt he created to sell to shoppers who stop in his store Behind him, rows of red and white T-shirts and a grouping of blue T-shirts with white stars form an American flag in Speedy Tees' front window

Shoppers inside Dickson's Bible Bookstore in Royal Oak are there for one of two reasons they plan to buy a Bible or they want a book on religious prophesies

In a way both types of customers are looking for answers in the aftermath of the terrorist attacks on Sept 11, says Bob Oliver, the store's assistant manager "They're looking for ways to help themselves"

The Bible buyers - many of whom are first-time purchasers seek spiritual guidance, help in mending damaged optimism

The second type are hungry for Apocalypse stories and confirmation of their worst fears "A lot of people are coming in and saying 'this is it, this is the prophesy, this is the end," says Oliver

Differences in outlook - diverse responses to the national tragedy - distinguish the two types of customers

Then again, there's a fine line between a positive outlook and a chases reflect a teetering between about the same fear and hope, helplessness and

The dynamic is much the same at other metropolitan Detroit

At Borders Books & Music in Farmington Hills, staff have been constantly replenishing shelves holding patriotic special editions of magazines like Time and Newsweek since the day of the attacks, says Jordan Crick, an employee who oversees incoming special orders and periodicals

In contrast, the store's supply of books on the gloom-and-doom prophecies of Nostradamus sold out Sept 11

This week, with talk about the threat of chemical and biological warfare in the forefront, the store's entire biology section "has been completely picked over," says

Nowhere is the tension between optimism and pessimism more apparent than at local Army surplus stores where inquiries about the availability of gas masks number close to 100 per day, and

"it's constant if they're not coming in, they're calling on the phone," says Michelle Avakian, manager at Joe's Army Navy Surplus in Royal Oak

The store sold their entire stock of non-working gas masks and American flags within days of the tragedy Customers purchased the gas masks despite clerks' warnings they did not work, says Avakıan "People don't believe you They think you're lying There's a bit of an overreaction '

Shortly after shoppers depleted the store's supply of American flags, Joe's Army Navy Surplus ran out of American flag pins, leaving only patriotic bumper stickers and T-shirts

Janet Hatman of Royal Oak came to the store to buy a pin and her third patriotic T-shirt The terrorist attacks strongly affected her, but she hasn't considered buying a gas mask, says Hatman, as she waits in the cashier's line at Joe's Army Navy Surplus "You wonder if something else is going to happen But I'm not panicked owner, Harold Grombelski Some purchase spirit-lifting items like an angel pin with redwhite-and-blue ribbons, serenity mug or "Worry Angel" to put inside a jacket pocket Others come by simply to watch the six doves that live in the store

Still, there's a stark difference in behavior in the store, says Grombelski "A lot of people are coming in and pouring their hearts out Others are coming in to see the doves and enjoy the serenity and peace of the store

"There's a tenderness with people right now In one breath. they're saying that things are going to get better and we're going to come together in the country but they're also saying we're going to live in the moment'

Nomads travel club continues adventures after the tragedy

By Judith Doner Berne Special Writer

n the wake of the horrific events of Sept 11, I wasn't surprised to hear that Nomads, Inc. a metro-Detroit-based private travel club, initially fielded as many as 200 inquiries a day for alternatives to commercial air travel

Four Nomads groups were out of the country when terrorists changed our world Their Boeing Super 727, nicknamed "the Flying Clubhouse," was among the first planes allowed to fly back to the United States

"They told us 'You guys are lucky You are the only plane leaving for the US today (Sept 15 from Vienna)," relayed Dr Ralph Bauer, a Beverly Hills resident and a 12-year Nomads member

"Everyone was anxious to get back," added John Wilson, a Livonia resident who was trip director in Vienna He put in several hours each night alternately watching CNN and communicating with the Nomads team back in the United States The group had to change hotels and more sightseeing tours were added Nomads' policy is to pick up the hotel charges for up to two additional nights, if for any reason "the Flying Clubhouse" is Still, if you have to be stranded, "to be caught in a city like Vienna isn't so bad," Bauer said "The people in Vienna were extremely compassionate and concerned They'd come up to you on the street and say, 'We are so sorry

"It was kind of eerie" to see the thousands of Americans lined up at the ticket counters, and see their planes to New York and Chicago, canceled one by one, Bauer said Then, they called their "private aircraft from Detroit," and we all went through "I couldn't have been more proud to be a Nomad and to be an American

Nomads has been in business since 1965, reports Jim Hechman, a Troy resident who is club president By 1975, there were more than 209 air travel clubs in the country "Then came deregulation, hub cities, mega mergers, charter companies, and the Internet," he explained "One by and the plane locked and guard ed at other airports We check all the food coming on board It may be the wave of the future in terms of security

I took my only Nomads trip this past August-10 days to Berlin, Dresden and Pragueand was impressed by its professionalism and ease Now, the safety and security aspects assume added relevance

Consider this You drop your bags in front of the Nomads pri vate terminal, located on Mid dlebelt within the grounds of Detroit Metro Airport You then park your car for free within a few hundred feet of the entrance

You wait in a lounge area, where coffee and soft drinks are available until your flight Those who are traveling alonereferred to as "Solos"-can sit in a marked area to have a head start in getting to meet one

When seats are assigned, by luck of the draw, you show any necessary passports and/or visas for identification

You don't have to pay extra for the seats with business class footroom Besides being smoke free, no alcohol is allowed on any flight And, Bauer was one of many people who told me that a Federal Aviation Administration official recently told Nomads 'There's only one other aircraft that's taken care of as well as yours-and that's Air Force One'

My husband and I were happy to take the well-guided half day overview of each city scheduled as part of the trip Although many people signed up for the optional tours, we were then free to explore and have most meals on our own

I particularly appreciated that if a tour was to leave at 9 a m it left No waiting for late comers It was assumed that if you weren't there, you had decided

Who's traveling?

I would have to say that most of our fellow travelers were spry but definitely on the older side Trips are designated as to how arduous they are Members have been asked not to take a particu lar trip, if there is a question as to whether they would slow down the group

That's why having the Charles Hubbard family from Commerce Township on our trip was so much fun

We belonged to Nomads when were first married, Cindy told me "We just renewed in Decem ber and have already taken two trips" with their children, Calla 12 and Charlie 14 The previ ous one was to Paris

You can be as much a part of the group as you want to be," she said You have the convenience of having the whole trip mapped out for you

I asked Charlie a Walled Lake Central student how it was to enough to be his grandparents 'Sometimes it's good to get away from friends and be with people you don't really know," he said Nomads resumed their regular schedule this weekend with a jaunt to the Shaw Festival at Niagara on the-Lake On Monday Wilson and his wife Katie will head back to Europe-to Munich and Innsbruck for the German Oktoberfest Of 91, scheduled travelers, just seven canceled, Wilson said Two trips to Australia, Fiji and New Zealand will take off Thursday and Saturday using commercial carriers as planned About 15 percent of the Nomads 50 or so trips a year are booked on regular airlines

Although security has been beefed up at all airports across the United States, as of Wednesday the FAA had not advised Nomads to adopt any new procedures, Peixote said "Whatever we do already is more than sufficient Whenever new guidelines come out, we will of course com-

Cider mills will sweeten autumn across Michigan nce the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon, we've spent hours glued to the television set It's been a tense, sad time for Americans

As serious and critical to our nation stopping the terrorists is to our national security and to our lives, we need an escape from this tension and marathon newscasts for a few moments to return to a little quiet relaxation. We need a break

There is an local "escape" you can enjoy this fall that you may have forgotten about in recent weeks - the cider mills

Ablaze in glory

Every fall the mills stand in the middle of a panorama of oranges, reds and yellows of autumn melding with the tastes of the donuts and cider on a weekend afternoon You can enjoy fall's splendor here along with Michigan produce and spend a little quality time with family members, friends and loved ones Some mills and orchards even offer apple pickıng, baked goods, kielbasa and hay rides (See inside Taste for cider mill list)

Barry Palmer, son of the owner of Franklin Cider Mill in Franklin, said business was slow in Septem ber but began to show an ıncrease last Sunday after noon "They pre dicted rain, but we turned out to have a nice day, and business really picked up," Palmer said (He also joked that business may have increased because football fans watching the Lions game may have wanted to leave their homes)

The Franklin mill was built between 1831 and 1834 and is a registered National Historic Site

Palmer said buying a sweeter cider is all in the timing

"Early cider is tart, and now, it is becoming more sweet," Palmer said Apples sweeten as the weather gets colder, but apples used there for cider are harvested before the first

"Everytime you get cider, the taste is a little different depending on how sweet the blend is," Palmer said

Apples are pressed at Franklin by a German press installed at the mill in the early 1900s (Like most cider mills, Franklin originally was a grist

Palmer said cider mill visits there are a tradition for Detroit area families "We've got people who visit who came here with their parents who in turn were once brought here by their parents," Palmer said

It's cider time

Another area mill is Parmenter's Northville Cider Mill, 714 Baseline Road, in Northville Originally built in 1873, the mill burned down in 1978, then the facility was rebuilt in time for the 1979 cider season

Cheryl Nelson, co-owner of Parmenter's, said visits to the cider mill are "magical" "You talk to anyone who has lived here, then moved to another state, and they always remember the cider mills

"It's fall, it's Michigan and the cider season is such a short season

It's only made for 79 days " Parmenter's is located along two branches of the Rouge River, so children can enjoy viewing ducks and the water flowing through the mill area Craft shows also are featured

th fall's brisk and blustery days come the thoughts of stews, soups and chili

Ahh, chili That meat-and-tomato bowl of heat and heart The dish's substance will fill you up and warm you down to your toes

Chili cooks and chili lovers will gather once again in Plymouth, this time for the Plymouth Great Lakes Regional Chili Cookoff and Motorcycle Show, Sunday, Oct 7, at Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth (Salsa lovers and cooks can enjoy salsa, too, as there will be a competition for that spicy Mexican accompaniment)

The winner in the chili competition receives a $1,000 prize and a trophy Second through fifth places win trophies, as does the best booth The

All fired up

Annette Horn chili cookoff chairperson expects about 80 chil competitors - 60 in the red chili cate gory and 20 in the green verde category. Another 20 or 30 may compete in the salsa competition

Contestants like this competition because for the winner, it is 'early enough to plan for next year's competition, Horn said (The winner advances to the 2002 World Championship next September)

"This event has been real successful because of the bikes and music, and the chili cookoff is a great fall activity," Horn said

'Everybody seems to like chili When you talk to them, it seems that they have the best pot of chili in the world The competition gives them a chance to show that, and it's just a lot of fun '

Contestants really get into the mix Last year's event featured five women at one booth dressed up in cow suits to promote "Mad Cow" Chili, while

You'll say 'cheese' to this comfort food in these fall recipes

AMERICAN DAIRY ASSOCIATION

Cheesy: Yankee Noodle Dandy Cheese Bake is a scrumptious blend of bacon, herbs and egg noodles, laced with zesty Monterey Jack, tangy farmer and mild Cheddar cheeses.

increasing, Americans are looking for simple and comforting meals Home cooks and chefs know that everyone loves a freshly baked casserole bubbling with cheese straight from the

Trendy restaurants are now catering to Mideasterners' desire to cozy up with comfort foods by adding a twist to traditional staples - like Mac & Cheese, hot pots and casseroles — with rich cheeses and indigenous ingredi-

To help Americans come up with easy fall meal solutions, the American Dairy Association has teamed up with chef John Kinsella and four other renowned chefs from different restaurants across the country who embrace the richness and diversity of regional cuisine Each has created an unforgettable easy to make one-dish recipe with local emphasis and three of their favorite cheeses

When highlighting ingredients of the Mideast, Cincinnati State Community College instructor and chef Kinsella explains, "Foods from this region are hearty and keep you warm on a cold night"

His Mideastern Settlers Cheesy Beef Hotpot, featuring

sausage, delights the palate When topped with fruity Fontina, nutty Swiss and mild mozzarella cheeses, this indigenous dish is decadent

Chef Jim Coleman of Philadelphia's famed Rittenhouse Hotel cooks up a hearty dinner perfectly capturing the cuisine of the Pennsylvania Dutch

"It's a combination of traditional chowders and casseroles found in this region," says Cole-

Yankee Noodle Dandy Cheese Bake is a scrumptious blend of bacon, herbs and egg noodles, laced with zesty Monterey Jack, tangy farmer and mild Cheddar cheeses This Northeastern sensation will be an instant family favorite

One look at chef Elizabeth Terry's menu at Elizabeth on 37th in Savannah, Ga, and it's obvious she's devoted to classic Southern cooking

"I feature local seafood, vegetables and fruits, highlighted with herbs from our own gardens," explains Terry

Simply Southern Cheese Soufflé Crusted Chicken calls for vine-ripened tomatoes, blackeyed peas, cayenne pepper and cheese Milk Muenof course ster, slightly tart provolone and tender beef tips and Italian Swiss cheeses create a delightful soufilé' crust that's pure downhome perfection

In the Windy City, chef Susan Goss is the talk of the town for her regional cuisine at Zinfandel in Chicago "We showcase the country's foods by adding a regional menu of ethnic American specialties each month," says

Her Three Cheese Filled Squash with Heartland Stuffing features locally grown acorn squash cut into halves and stuffed with a flavorful mixture of sautéed mushrooms, wild rice, dried cranberries, toasted walnuts, Parmesan, mellow Colby and Muenster Celebrate the Midwest's heartland heritage with this vegetarian victory

Expand these chefs' twists on tradition at home by experimenting with new cheeses and adding regional ingredients to tried and true family recipes Cheese is versatile, easy and delicious and improves the taste of meals In fact, 63 percent of Americans agree that adding cheese to a dish gives it more flavor While in the Mideast American, mozzarella and Cheddar top the list of favorite cheeses used in baked dishes, there are more than 300 varieties of domestic cow's milk cheese to choose from

Regional ingredients are another way to make family favorites fresh From the Great Lakes to the Ohio River Valley, a bounty of seasonal treasures such as succulent barbecued ribs or locally grown cherries can be incorporated into simple suppers Farmer's markets stocked with seasonal vegetables, fruits, cheeses and herbs are great places to shop to extend the family's food hori-

By 1991, Newton built an all gravity-flow winery for his red wines All grapes are handpicked into 34-pound boxes, fermented and pressed the artisan way in basket presses

In addition to insisting that grape grower sources keep yields low, Di Stefano has transitioned from using 100 percent American oak to a steady diet of French oak, which, Newton believes, results in more elegant

Breast cancer

The American Institute for Cancer Research offers a free brochure, Reduc ing Your Risk of Breast Cancer that provides guidelines and tips on how to control dietary and other lifestyle factors that affect a woman's risk for breast cancer

Health experts agree that the incidence of breast cancer can be reduced through changes in diet. Many believe that high intakes of total and saturated animal fat, for example, as well as red meat, are linked to cancers of the breast. Olive oil consumption, on the other hand has been linked to reduced risk of certain cancers, including breast cancer.

A preponderance of research results also links reduced risk of breast cancer to a high consumption of fruits and vegetables AICR recommends that women eat at least five servings of fruits and vegetables each day, plus seven servings of whole grains and beans Because fats and excess weight have been linked to the incidence of breast cancer, AICR recommends a low fat diet

pproximately two out of five college students are binge drinkers, according to statistics gathered by the American Medical Associa tion Fifty one percent of male students drink five or more drinks in a row Forty percent of female students drink four or more drinks in a row Sobering statistics indeed

Unfortunately while the proportion of students who binge drink has remained stable the frequency of binge drinking has risen since 1993 says the AMA Frequent bingers – those students who binge three or more times in a two week period has risen from 20 to 23 percent

'In terms of binge drinking being statistically an epidemic, think of it as one out of 10 people in your office getting the flu 'said Dr Robert Zucker, director, University of Michigan Health System Division of Substance Abuse Psychiatry Department

"When something like that happens, you think this is a major issue that every one needs to deal with and yet the figures for binge drinking are substantially greater"

Misperception

The University of Michigan's 1999 Student Life Survey indicated that 45 percent of undergraduates reported an incident of binge drinking in the past two weeks with the percent ages rising significantly for students residing in fraternity or sorority houses and residence

However, campus health officials at the University of Michigan as well as Eastern Michigan University say students may wrongly perceive the amount drinking on campus Also, that perception may be skewed to their own behavior

"It's not like all students drink It's 'maybe that my own group drinks," said Marcia Benz, Alcohol and Other Drug Education Coordinator at the Uni versity of Michigan Health Services

Joe Novak, 22, of Livonia is editor in-chief of The Echo, Eastern Michigan University's student paper He doesn't see binge drinking as a problem on cam pus "You just don't see the typical keg parties I don't know if the kids simply don't have the money for a keg or it's just not the culture'

At Eastern Michigan University, the facts dispel the myth of masses of student binge drinkers, said Mary Jo Desprez, Health Education Coordinator for ■ 'In terms of binge drinking being statistically an epidemic, think of it as one out of 10 people in your office getting the flu.'

Dir UM Health System Div of Substance Abuse

EMUs Health Services Most students drink zero to four drinks at a given time and setting and most EMU students fall into the low risk category. How ever all it takes is for two students at a party of 80 to binge drink and the myth is enforced, she said

'The two people who have caused the conse quences have reshaped the perception of what's actually occurring'

Yet Desprez realizes that not all excessive drink ing incidences are reported "We are not as alerted as much as we should be because kids are afraid of getting in trouble And most have been drinking too so their judgment is impaired."

A matter of definition

The term "binge drinking" is currently being subjected to a semantic debate on campus. The University of Michigan refers to the problem as "risky drinking" and Eastern Michigan University substitutes "high risk alcohol use. The latter terms denote outcomes and signal that any alcohol use can result in negative consequences—social, inter personal and legal say campus health counselors

"Somehow people can drink less than what it is considered bingeing and still have problems" said Benz Yet the term binge drinking" has value and is used by her office, she added "It gives a person a concrete number to use in comparison with their own alcohol consumption

Desprez said the term 'can demonize students 'It concentrates on the amount of alcohol consumed rather than the consequences

Dr Phil O'Dwyer director of the Garden City Hospital Center for Counseling and a specialist in addiction, agrees Campus officials and counselors should stay away from words like "dependence" 'addiction," and 'alcoholic" These labels dismiss the problem and the student too quickly

"College kids don't perceive themselves as alco holics," he said "Those words are too neat and too severe for young people to swallow They can takes effectiveness away from preventive tactics"

Did you know?

Frequent binge drinkers are eight times more likely than non-binge drinkers to miss a class, fall behind in schoolwork, get hurt or injured, and damage property.

■ Nearly one out of every five teenagers (16 percent) has experienced "black out" spells where they could not remember what happened the previous evening because of binge drinking

More than 60 percent of college men and almost 50 percent of college women who are frequent binge drinkers report that they drink and drive

■ Binge drinking during high school, especially among males, is strongly predictive of binge drinking in college

Binge drinking during college may be associated with mental health disorders such as compulsiveness, depression or anxiety, or early deviant behavior

In a national study, 91 percent of women and 78 percent of the men who were frequent binge drinkers considered themselves to be moderate or light drinkers.

Source The National Clearingho Alcohol and Brug Information

The University of Michigan of Michigan and Eastern Michigan University have made alcohol-abuse awareness an integral part of freshman orientation, say campus officials Each student receives an alcohol impairment chart, illustrating blood-alcohol levels based on gender, weight and amount of drinks. The universities work with communities both on and off campus to curtail excessive drinking, and their student health services offer counseling and make referrals.

'There's nothing worse for a business than for a kid to get in an accident after he has left the bar," said Desprez

Alcohol poisoning

National statistics and campus officials' claims mean little to the parents and concerned friends of students who binge drink. It's the consequences that count

Once consumed, alcohol is absorbed directly through the stomach lining into the blood stream and carried to the brain. It can impair a person's judgment moods, motor-skills, reaction skills and lands when he died of alcohol poisoning just hours before dawn Nov 5, 1998 It was his 21st birthday

At midnight Nov 4, 1998, Brad and a group of friends went to Rick's American Cafe in East Lansing to celebrate his birthday in a way that is custom ary on many college campuses, said Cindy McCue "To drink your age in shots" Brad exceeded his goal

"He drank 24, not because it was his age, but because 23 shots was the record," said Cindy Brad and his friends were asked to leave the bar at 1 40 a m They had a designated driver 'They (his friends) put him to bed to sleep it off, not under standing that just because he wasn't throwing up he wasn't OK,' said Cindy

While Brad slept, his body battled to process the huge amount of alcohol he had consumed within such a short time. His blood alcohol level rose to 0.44 grams/ 100 millihters. At 4.30 a m, he stopped breathing.

The autopsy report's concluding statement was chilling "This 21 year old man died of ethanol poisoning, as a consequence of consuming a large amount of alcoholic beverage within a short period of time"

Brad might have had a chance to live if his friends had recognized the signs of alcohol poisoning said Cindy Taking someone to the hospital is not a guarantee because it takes a while for that alcohol depth perception Driving can be nate amount and variety of alco-

According to the National Clearing House for Drug and Alcohol Information, a 160pound man's driving skills will be significantly affected after drinking three beers in one sitting, while a 140-pound woman who drinks the same amount will be legally intoxicated, with a blood alcohol content of 10 percent That same man will be legally intoxicated after consuming five beers in one setting

"People in this situation get into accidents that lead to major physical trauma or even death," said Zucker

The most extreme risk of binge drinking is alcohol poisoning, a severe physical reaction to an alcohol overdose that can result in death When a person consumes a great amount of alcohol in a short amount of time, the brain can become deprived of oxygen As a result, the brain can shut down the body's voluntary functions that regulate breathing and heart rate

Signs of alcohol poisoning include vomiting, unconsciousness, cold, clammy, pale or bluish skin, and slow or irregular breathing (less than eight breaths a a minute or 10 or more seconds between breaths)

"It's not uncommon, even today with all the publicity, for students on their 21st birthdays to go into a local bar and drink 21 shots in short order," said Zucker "Every year, there's something in the newspaper about someone doing this who becomes unconscious and dies "

Novak said EMU sororities and fraternities have outlawed "common source" keg parties, during which students fill a garbage can with fruit punch and spike it with an indiscrimi-

"You never know what's in there," he said "It's very, very dangerous"

Other effects

Extreme alcohol consumption can lead to other dangerous activities due to impaired judgment, including aggressive sexual behavior

"Sometimes a person (in an intoxicated state) may agree to have sex with a partner they would otherwise not have any interest in being with," said Zucker "The increased risk for unprotected sex is also higher, which brings with it the increased risk of HIV and unwanted pregnancies

A study on campus rape published in the Journal of Ameri can College Health found that 73 percent of the assailants and 55 percent of rape victims used alcohol or other drugs prior to the assault

You can't say you care about sexual assault issues if you don't see the role alcohol plays We can't pretend alcohol abuse is a separate issue," said Desprez

In addition, binge drinking or excessive alcohol consumption can affect a student's performance in class and increase the risk of damage to the brain and heart It also can leave a person feeling dehydrated and nau-

"If you're hung over, you're not primed to study or be alert for exams," said Zucker

Within the approximate 40 percent of college students who are binge drinkers, there is a sub-set of drinkers who may have an even more serious alcohol addiction "The statistics on problematic drinking nationally show that 5 percent of college

Dangers for Women

Women are at higher risk than men for serious medi cal conditions associated with alcohol use, according to the American Medical Association

Women absorb and metabolize alcohol differently than men Because they have less body water and achieve higher concentra tions of alcohol in their blood after drinking the same amount as men, women are more likely to develop liver damage and to die from cirrhosis They are more vulnerable to alcoholinduced brain damage and heart damage

In addition, research studies show that moderate to heavy alcohol consumption increases the risk for breast cancer students are drinking daily, said Zucker "Just because you're 18 to 20 years old does not protect you from being alcohol dependent It can happen then just as it can happen later in

If a student believes they may have an alcohol-related problem or knows another student who does, consult with a physician or contact the university for a referral to a substance abuse treatment center, said Zucker

"College is a time of great opportunities and excitement, and a time to meet new people To have something like alcohol come into that time and ruin it forever among people who have such promise is the greatest

nerve that supplies the hand is trapped at the wrist causing muscles in th thumb to weaken and creating tingling and numbriess in the hand However carpal tunnel syndrome cannot explain all instances of hand weakness and numbness Among other conditions that cause the same result is ulnar nerve entrapment

In our September 30 insert we advertised two CD titles Choices by Three 6

October 2 Due to circumstances beyond our control these two titles will not be available until a later date Currently we anticipate that they will be available

Mafia and Instructions by Jermaine Dupri as being available on Tuesday on October 30. We will issue rainchecks for these titles through October 6.

We apologize for any confusion or inconvenience this may cause

The ulnar nerve starts in the inside of the arm makes its way under the med all epicondy e of the elbow (known as the funny bone) and enters the hand at the palm in line with the 4th and 5th fingers. The ulna nerve acts as the montor of sensation for the 4th and 5th fingers and supplies the muscles of these d gits and other small muscles that control hand funct on The ulnar nerve is vulnerable to impingement at the elbow. Most of you have experienced that a blow at that point giving you a momentary tingle on the inside of your hand. That occurs because of temporary If you are unlucky you can develop what is called a double crush. That means you have compress on that involves carpal tunnel syndrome and ulnar nerve entrapment at the same time. Then all five digits are numb and your whole hand is weak Early in their training doctors earn about the features of ulnar nerve entrapment. Since the treatment s distinct from that of carpat tunnel syndrome it is important to recognize the difference and undertake esting to confirm that ulnar nerve entrapment is the correct diagnosis

Don't make significant changes in your portfolio; be calm

BY ERIC ZIMMERMAN SPECIAL WRITER

The multiple attacks carried out against the United States of America on September 11, 2001, comprise one of the greatest tragedies ever to befall our Our nation thoughts and prayers are with everyone who was affected by these devastating events

These attacks struck at the heart of our country's financial center America's stock exchanges closed for several days, and world financial markets continue to show the effects of the instability brought about by these events

Understandably, many American Express clients may be dealing with very strong emotions and may be fearful about We are counseling the security of their financial investments, both with Ameri-Express and other providers

We are counseling our investment clients to remain calm and avoid making significant changes to their financial and investing plans at this time

Long-term investors should keep in mind that while the events of Sept 11 may have significant short-term impacts on the financial markets, they are not likely to have a lasting effect

Whether the market climbs, remains steady or heads downward in the near future, the following tips can help you stay on course for your long-term finan-

Tip #1: Avoid trying to time the market.

Changing your investment strategy because you think stock prices may retreat is essentially market timing And our investment clients to remain calm and avoid making significant changes to their financial and investing plans at this time.

that's a guessing game that even experts can't rely on consistently

The danger in market timing, of course, is that you'll guess wrong For example, many market timers believed the "overvalued" US stock market would weaken two or three years ago Consequently, they may have missed out on some of the most spectacular gains in history

Tip #2: Maintain a longterm perspective.

Focusing on your long-term goals will help you resist the urge to time the market If you are building funds for your children's college education in 10 build wealth over time is easier years or for your retirement in 30 years, the market's next moves mean little to you Your only concern should be where prices are when you begin to withdraw the money

You can actually put market volatility to work for you by investing equal amounts regularly year after year This strategy, called dollar-cost averaging, helps you buy more shares when prices are lower and fewer when they're higher - thus lowering your average price per share

Of course, dollar-cost averaging does not assure profits nor protect against loss in declining markets Since this strategy provides for continuous investment, regardless of fluctuating prices, consider your financial ability to continue to invest during low price levels

Tip #3: Keep your expectations realistic.

Sticking with your plan to market's performance over the last three years has been far above average, you won't be discouraged when returns revert to their norm (US stocks have provided an average annual return of 11 percent over the last 72 years, according to Ibbotson Associates Past performance is no guarantee of future results)

when you have realistic expectations for investment returns

If you know that the US stock

Tip #4: Diversify your portfolio.

Keeping your portfolio diversified across stocks, bonds and cash - and different investments within each type - helps reduce your exposure to a downturn in any one asset class may be at "fully valued" levels, another may be rebounding

Tip #5: Take advantage of professional advice.

A trusted financial advisor can do more than help you create an investment plan and choose suitable investments. Such a professional also should be available to address your concerns during hair-raising market events and help you stick to your plan while others are giving in to fear I urge you to talk to your advisor before making any significant changes to your investing strategy That is the best way to ensure that you remain on track to achieving your financial goals Again, speaking for all of American Express around the world, our thoughts and prayers are with everyone touched by this great tragedy

Study: Kids are more active than people may think

By IRA DREYFUSS ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

WASHINGTON (AP) - Young people are more active than adults probably suspected, but that's still not active enough, researchers say

. A report looked at 26 studies in which 1,883 young people, ages 3 to 17, wore heart rate monitors to determine how active they were The young people accumulated at least 30 minutes of moderate activity daily, and at least 60 minutes of at least low-intensity activity, the study found

"It was a surprise to us, too," said researcher Leonard H Epstein of the University at Buffalo, NY "But these studies are quite consistent '

Epstein and his colleagues reviewed the reports and statistically combined the data into a single type of heart rate calculation The findings were reported in the online September issue of the American Academy of Pedi atrıcs journal, Pediatrıcs policies, admissions policies, and other school administered programs

Agapé Christian Academy admits students regardless of any race, color, or of moderate activity most days of the week, Epstein said

"They seem to get a lot of accumulated activity during the day, walking back and forth to classes, playing at recess, going out with their friends," Epstein said

That doesn't mean kids get enough activity consistently to improve their fitness Scientists consider the fitness benefits to require 20 to 60 minutes of vigorous activity three to five days a week "They still don't meet the standards of aerobic activity," Epstein said

Meeting the standards

Clearly, some young people do meet the standards - teen athletes, for instance But the summary article in the Pediatrics report looked only at minutes accumulated during the day, not whether those minutes were strung together into blocks of

It might be that accumulated minutes even scattered through the day, will make kids healthier and possibly even more physical ly fit, but research has not yet for exercise, which is 30 minutes shown this, Epstein said So it's also possible that the time kids spend running around, although it might be fun, doesn't produce health or fitness benefits, he

> Just the same, those scattered minutes are worth encouraging, especially among preteens, said Russell R Pate, associate dean for research, at the University of South Carolina's school of public

"The normal pattern of physical activity in young kids is to be active in sports," said Pate, who was not connected with the study But that's not kids' style, he said

"Sustained continuous bouts of relatively intense exercise is really an adult form of exercise," Pate said "You don't see much of it until they are at least into the adolescent age range

Pate doesn't suggest giving kids a free ride onto the couch and away from the gym Judging from the way kids are growing fat, many don't exercise at intensities high enough to burn fat. and encouraging accumulations of exercise may result in kids burning more calories, he said

Young people certainly are capable of, and could benefit from, much more than they are doing, said Judith Young, executive director of the National Association for Sport and Physical Education, a professional

Her organization encourages elementary schoolchildren to be physically active from at least 60 minutes to several hours per day, and Young said that's not beyond them "Kids naturally do accumulation They are into mad dashing and flopping down and resting like a puppy dog," she

Attached condominiums: Tadian Homes seeks to provide privacy and security at The Enclave of Troy.

Easy living attracts buyers to Troy condominiums

Brand new construction, lots of amenities, maintenance-free living and a desirable location describe The Enclave of Troy

Thirty-six condominiums, attached four or five to a building, are under construction at the northeast corner of Wattles and John R in Troy

The perimeter of the community is surrounded by an attractive brick wall and mature evergreen trees

"The reason we spend so much time and effort on landscaping and positioning the buildings is to offer people a sense of security and privacy," said Gary Tadian of Tadian Homes

"We've been in Troy 15 years-plus," he said "One thing there's not a lot of in Troy is condos Very few

'This community (The Enclave of Troy) is really targeted to the empty nester, still very active, who wants to be in Troy and wants something new It has enough space, it's not drastically downsized, and gives them maintenance-free living and the first-floor bedroom they want

Two basic floor plans are available each with three bedrooms and 2 1/2 baths Interior units are 2,626 square feet, end units 2,402 square feet Prices start at $383 900 for each

Both floor plans offer private entrances said Cindy Mastin sales assistant 'We offer a full pasement We feature silent floors on both levels

"Screw and glue," said Dennis Rollinger, director of sales operations for Tadian

Location, location ...

"Location is an important factor," Mastin added "We're close to shopping, malls, restaurants"

"Troy speaks for itself with shopping, hospital, schools," Tadian said

"Visitors basically like natural materials on the home - brick, stone, Hardiplank (cement siding)," Rollinger said "It's a very rich look, very warm

"A first impression is there's lots of windows in the homes Floor plans are laid out very well, very effective"

Standard features in both plans at base price include two-car garage, fireplace, first-floor master with separate tub and shower, first-floor laundry and A deck with privacy fence, dishwasher and range, hardwood flooring in the foyer and complete landscaping also are included at base price Nice touches like addresses in limestone block and garage lights on photo cells also are standard Air conditioning, starting at $3,200, is an option

End units contain a two-story foyer living room with two story ceiling din ing area and a kitchen nook and fami ly room all aligned together with 12 foot ceiling

A pass-through wall separates the family room from the living room

The master with step ceiling also contains a two-sink vanity, compartmentalized commode and walk in clos-

A loft, two bedrooms, full bath and a storage room are upstairs

Interior features

Interior units feature a two story foyer library dining area with sloped ceiling family room with 12 foot high ceiling and a kitchen with the sink and dishwasher built into an island

The master with tray ceiling contains the same basic features as end units

A loft and storage room are upstairs but, at the buyer's option, the storage room can be eliminated and the loft extended Two bedrooms also are up and a full bath

In both plans, the stairs leading to the second level are positioned well away from the front door and foyer

The Enclave of Troy is served by city water and sewers It has sidewalks and is within the Troy school bound-

The property tax rate is $34 99 per $1,000 of state taxable value, half of sales price for new construction That means the owners of a $384,000 home there would pay about $6,700 the first

The monthly association fee is pegged at $125

Chuck and Norma Foura bought an interior unit

"We looked at homes Tadian had built, and we liked the quality," Norma said "We liked the square footage A plus is the laundry is off the kitchen I come out of the garage into the laundry room and right into the kitchen"

The sales office/models at The Enclave of Troy (248) 680 9505 are open 11 a m to 6 p m daily

Large suite recommends vacation, retirement home

Retiring is one of life's great joys and having a vacation home that is spacious and elegant is a great bonus The Brent (408-19) would be ideal to take advantage of the view of the mountains as well as at the ocean

It has large windows in the front and rear, as well as a wrap around deck for enjoying the sunsets The Brent has a total living area of 1,594 square feet and a detached two-car garage with an optional attic overhead

The entry into the Brent is on the right side across the deck The stairs to the second level are on the right with the open vaulted liv ing/dining room spread out ın front

There are three large win dows surrounding the living/dining room while two sets of sliding glass doors are located in the front, one on each side of the large win

Separated from the open living/dining room is a well organized kitchen It has a corner pantry as well as the washer and dryer behind folding doors A door opens off this area onto a small porch for access to the yard beyond to the master suite

It has a large suite area with big windows In the right corner is a huge walkin closet with a shoe rack

The master bath is uniquely designed for use by the suite as well as guests It has the tub and sink on the suite side, with a door leading into the stool and sink

Another door opens into the hall for guests Two linen closets are also located here, one inside the suite and one outside

The second floor contains two large bedrooms with a full bath Each bedroom has a wall closet with a door going into long narrow attic

The bath contains a tub, single sink and a large linen closet

For convenience in doing the laundry, a chute is located in the hall that drops the dirty laundry directly into the washer/dryer area below

There is an open area beyond the bathroom that would be ideal as a computer room or a play area for kids or grandkids

Cost of regulations may put ownership out of reach lions American families, adequate and affordable housing is a dream that become a reality The facts paint a distressing picture The home ownership rate among young households over the past decade continues to decline each year

A full 14 percent of American families today - 13 7 million households – spend more than half of their income on housing or live in seriously substandard conditions While millions of working families need afford-

mil- able housing to buy or rent, the number of low-income rental units is declining by almost half a million per year

A key contributor to the cost of this housing is over-regulation at all levels of government federal, state and local will never Because of excessive and unnecessary government regulation, housing costs are often higher than they should be

According to a 1998 survey by the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB), which represents more than 203,000 building professionals, development costs and fees in major metropolitan areas add an average of $21,000 to the cost of a $200,000 home in highly regulated markets That means that about 10 percent of the cost of building a typical new home can be attributed to excessive regulation, needless red tape and regulatory delays

The Southeastern Michigan area is no exception Builders and developers in southeastern Michigan are just as frustrated with over-regulation and red tape as those in other parts of the country

We willingly support fair laws and requirements that protect both the homeowner and the developer/builder However, there are many instances where individual communities have imposed unnecessary, redundant or unfair rules and regulations on the building industry or have required long waits for approvals

For example, the processing of building permits varies greatly from community to community within southeast

Michigan In some areas it may take 5 days, in others, processing of permits can take anywhere from 5 to 10 weeks

Most builders/developers have also encountered situations where local municipalities have duplicated, and sometimes contradicted or more strictly enforced, state regulations, in order to serve local political interests This unnecessarv bureaucratic redundancy costs builders and developers money, which ultimately is passed on to the housing con-

Zoning laws also affect housing affordability in southeastern Michigan When municipalities only zone one house to every acre, or every five acres, the increased cost for the land makes the property unaffordable for many people, especially young people

It's sad that in some communities in southeast Michigan, young people can't afford to move into the neighborhood where they grew up Instead, they must move to outlying areas where homes are more affordable, but where their commute to work is increased dramatically

In addition to affecting affordability and fueling urban sprawl, this type of zoning also systematically excludes certain economic classes of people, making communities less diverse

Our association actively works at the state and local levels to make sure that new legislation fairly balances the interests of communities, homeowners, developers and builders, keeping the cost of ham Farms

regulation in check

We also sponsor regular task force meetings in many communities These meetings provide a forum where builders and developers can work cooperatively with local planners and building code enforcement officials

With diligence by consumers and the Building Industry Association, the dream of home ownership will become a reality for more Southeastern Michigan-area residents within the next decade

Stephen J Taglione is presi dent of the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan and of Westminster & Abbey Homes, LLC in Bing-

"INTEREST RATES AFFECT MARKET"

Selling your home may be easier or more difficult depending upon the status of mortgage interest rates in your local market There are other factors such as the local economy, the desirability of your location and present buyer demand. Interest rates do, however, have an impact. Here are some specifics

A Falling Interest Rate Market

This is the worst time to have your house for sale As rates decline, buyers begin to withdraw from the market They postpone house buying while waiting for rates to hit rock bottom One of the ironies of this decision is the fact that buyers won't really know when rates have hit bottom until they stop falling and begin climbing once again

A Steady Interest Rate Market

Steady interest rates are usually very desirable for the home seller. Because rates are not rising or falling, they actually become a "non event" in the minds of most buyers This permits your home to be dependent upon the degree of buyer demand at any given time regardless of current interest rates.

A Rising Interest Rate Market

This the best of all worlds for the seller providing that rates don't reach too high a level that many buyers are driven from the market because of their inability to qualify for adequate financing A rising rate market is good for sellers because buyers feel that they must buy a house quickly so they can get a mortgage commitment at today's rate rather than buying later on and being subject to an even high interest rate in the future

ADVICE: Your Realtor is aware of the influence rates have on home sales as well as many other factors Enlist the advice and experience of a professional by listing your property with a Realtor

Check manual or read this to keep garage door tuned

BY MORRIS AND JAMES CAREY FOR AP WEEKLY FEATURES

As the largest moving object in the home, a garage door is a force to be reckoned with An improperly adjusted garage door or automatic opener can exert tremendous force when the door

Proper installation, operation, maintenance and testing can provide safe, trouble free opera tion One of the best resources for garage door maintenance is the installation and care guide for the door or the automatic opener (if one exists)

If you don't have either, contact the manufacturer or an ınstallıng dealer ın your area for maintenance and operation tips Replacement manuals often can be ordered if make and model numbers are available

A visual inspection of the garage door springs, cables, rollers, and other door hardware is a place to begin Look for signs of wear, and frayed or broken parts Most minor repairs, such door service technician should handle more complicated tasks The springs and related hardware are under high tension and can cause severe injury when handled improperly

Rollers, springs, hinges and tracks require periodic cleaning and lubrication The mistake that most people make when it comes to cleaning and lubrica tion is forgetting to do the clean ing Existing oil and-grease buildup should be cleaned from the tracks and rollers with auto motive grease-cutting solvent Re-lubricate the track and rollers using spray silicone, lightweight household oil or white lithium grease to prevent squeaking and sticking Be sure to oil all the hinge pins and retighten all nuts and bolts

Paint all exposed wood or metal, make sure weather stripping is in good condition and keep water from collecting at the base of the door

If your door still doesn't move

For example, a south-facing metal door will expand in the heat of the day which might require adjusting the track away from the inside face of the garage The track might also need to be adjusted outward slightly to accommodate a door

might need seasonal adjustment widened by expansion In cold weather, a door will contract and require adjustment in the opposite direction Wood doors react quite differ ently from metal ones In cold, damp weather the door will expand In hot, dry weather the adjustments to the track Most garage door tracks are anchored to the wall with an Lshaped bracket Both faces of the L bracket have slots through which bolts are inserted The slots are designed to allow the track to be adjusted side to side wood will shrink Keep this in mind when making seasonal Simply loosen the bracket screws, adjust the track (this might require tapping with a

and in and out rubber mallet or small hammer) and retighten the screws Close and open the door to determine if operation is improved Repeat the process as necessary

Many garage doors are equipped with a lock bar This consists of a small metal bar that moves horizontally through a guide bracket and into a strike opening in the metal track When the lock bar is properly inserted into the strike opening, the door should be locked If the lock bar doesn't slide into the guide bracket, loosen the screws that attach the bracket to the door, adjust the bracket and retighten the screws

Periodically test the balance of the door Start with the door closed Disconnect the automatic opener release mechanism so that the door can be operated by hand The door should lift smoothly with little resistance

It should stay open around three-to four feet above the floor If it doesn't, it is out of balance and should be adjusted by a pro fessional

If you have an automatic opener. make sure it has a reversing feature If not it should be replaced Garage door openers manufactured after Jan 1, 1993, are required by federal law to be equipped with a monitored non contact safety reversing device or safety edge that stops and reverses a closing garage door

An example of such a safety device is an electronic beam sen sor that is installed at either side of the door opening, which, when broken, causes the door to stop and reverse itself Always be sure that this system is operating properly

Being flexible helps when you change your career

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI SPECIAL WRITER

retchen Russell spent three years going to school part time working toward a graphic design degree at Henry Ford Community College before she realized she didn't want to spend the rest of her life in that career

It dawned on her that she was a natural teacher and that everyone she knew assumed she would become a teacher

"Every job I've ever been at I've taught people how to do things and I explain things to people," Russell said "Even at school, I'm the one that people, who are having trouble, come to Combine that teaching knack with a real appreciation and love for chil dren and Russell decided to change her education focus to becoming an early elementary teacher

Her family wasn't surprised when she told them she was changing careers

But, making the career switch, was n't easy, especially because Russell had to start her college studies over

She felt that she wasted her time all those years studying graphic design "I kind of kick myself, because when I started in the graphic design pro gram, I didn't do the general courses first," Russell said

Instead, she thought it would be a good idea to get the tougher discipline courses out of the way and leave, the

easier, basic requirements, to last as an incentive to keep going to school The graphic design classes didn't transfer to her education studies

When I switched majors none of it went with it, and I basically had to start all over again," the 23-year-old Redford resident added

Even though Russell works full time as a graphics designer and actually likes the work she does, she knows that it's not something she wants to do for the rest of her life

"Before I got the job I'm currently in the places I interviewed at seemed almost to be like warehouse type places." Russell said "The environment wasn't the type I wanted to stay She plans to receive an associate's degree in December and will likely spend two more years earning her bachelor's degree in early elementary education

"The associates degree doesn't actually mean anything, it's just a piece of paper that tells me that I finally accomplished it," Russell said

Take action for positive adjustments

How do you plan a career? Most of us just wind up in a job or discipline through a series of unscheduled twists and turns If we ever articulate life or career objectives, they are usually set aside or forgotten as our interests change or as family-considerations rearrange our priorities Mostly, we just dated as we learn more about the time, energy, risk and self-discipline required to achieve our dreams. We work within a context of resignation and compromise That is, we mature

Maybe that's OK But what could you do to make some positive career adjustments? Let's consider some pleasant little actions you might take to enhance your situation

- Put pencil to paper By spelling out an objective, you create a sort of tension between you and your stated destination You are pulled in that direction A goal that is not written down is just a wish
- strength is a skill that is supported by an interest It's not just a question of what you are good at doing Most people are pretty good at what they do What skills do you have that you enjoy using?
- Become intense Identify at least one aspect of your profession at which you will become very, very good By becoming an absolute expert in one thing, you will have more upward and outward pathways open to you
- Become diverse Even while you

CABINET MAKER

While it will take her a few extra years in school, Russell did exactly what Donna Nordman, Schoolcraft College coordinator of placement services, tells students who are wondering if their career choices are right

"Maybe they need to look at the world of work again with more career exploration and to determine what they need in terms of academics to go from point A to point B," Nordman said "They need to rethink solutions and build on what they've already done'

Students need to identify their values, interests and personalities and try to find a job that accentuates those traits, Nordman said A lot of time and effort can be saved if students do this before they start college

She finds that the students who change their minds often didn't do a lot of research to learn about the career they considered or even about themselves

A lot of times, she said, those students were influenced by someone telling them that they should go into a particular field or by assuming that they would be suited to a certain job But, once they decide to make the transition, Nordman said, they should "sit down with a career counselor and do some career development " "Very often it would be building on strengths rather than starting over from scratch Many skills that are learned from one curriculum can be transferrable to another curriculum area We would sit down with that person and see where they are now They need to sort out their interests and skills'

Nordman said she worked with a student in her "Human Development Services Strategies for Living and Life Planning" class who had begun a career as a technical writer, but decided she wanted more interaction with people than the job offered

She discovered that she loved to learn and tell other people about nutrition

wrong thing, I try to go with their strengths and not weaknesses." she added "I say "You've learned from doing this and now how are we going to change things to make it different?" The student researched the various subcategories of the job, the

classes she needs to take and the best schools for her to attend While career changes, made by people like Russell and this student, can be discouraging, it can also be a step toward realizing future job fulfillment, Russell said There's a certain amount of satisfaction and confidence that comes with knowing you're finally on the right track

Russell's advice to other students is to avoid taking semesters off for extended breaks

"At the end of every semester you're completely exhausted and you don't want to take classes the next semester," Russell said "Do it anyway You get that little break between semesters and it's enough to refresh you And if you don't you're kicking yourself, because you could have gotten so much done'

are become intense in one area, learn as much as possible about related disciplines Understand the big picture in your field or industry Improve your credibility - and marketability - by becoming comfortable with the whole system

Fantasize about your objectives People often don't get whatthey want because they don't really believe that their goals are attainable In truth, almost anything is possible if you visualize having it and enjoying

■ Change in small increments Maybe it is unrealistic to make a million bucks by Christmas It might be unlikely that you will land a job as Sales Manager when you have no sales experience But it might be possible to increase your income by 10 percent. It might be doable to get five interviews for sales jobs by Christmas You are more likely to take action and less likely to become frustrated when objectives are bite-sized

Focus on process The best career objectives define what you will be doing, not what you will "be" For goal-setting purposes, titles don't matter No one glows very long about being promoted to President or passing the bar exam In the end, satisfaction or disappointment comes from every day activities You might be closer to your dream job than you think if you consider goals from a tasks standpoint

Move over Mercedes, BMW and Jaguar...here comes Audi!

BY BILL SIURU © AutoWire.Net

udi's flagship models show that big, ultraluxury sedans can be fun to drive Even though they weigh in at over two tons and are longer than a Chevrolet Tahoe, they feel as nimble as the best of today's smaller sports sedans

As expected from vehicles in the lofty class, they are filled with the latest in electronic and safety technology

There are the three members of Audi's top series — the A8 introduced in the US for 1997 with rave reviews, the A8 L introduced in 2000 and the even better performing S8 that was new for 2001 The L is for long wheelbase with five inches added to give the rear passengers more leg room and a bit more head room The longer rear doors recognize the A8 L Audi rightly believed that a long wheelbase model was needed to compete with long-wheel base models offered by Mercedes

Benz, BMW and Jaguar

These Audis are unique with an all-aluminum body and subframe While this makes the Audis the lightest car in their class, most body shops cannot remove dents or dings let alone do major crash repairs

A nimble giant

Therefore, Audi has set up dedicated facilities around the country to make proper repairs, which will not be inexpensive

Both the A8 and A8 L are powered by a sophisti cated and very capable 4 2 liter V8 featuring dualoverhead-camshafts and five valves per cylinder The engine produces 310 horsepower at 6200 rpm and 302 lb-ft of torque at 3000 While these numbers mean breathtaking performance, 0-60 mph in 6 8 seconds, those who want even more output can order the S8 with 360 horsepower at 7,000 rpm and 317 lb-ft at 3400 rpm Modifications for the S8 include revised camshafts and a two-stage variable ıntake manıfold

Now all versions use Audi's outstanding Quattro all-wheel-drive system that is in its fourth iteration. The five-speed Tiptronic automatic transmission lets you shift gears without a clutch to eke out maximum performance Shifting can be done with controls located on the steering wheel along with buttons for audio system and hands-free cell phone

The EPA numbers for the A8 are 17 mph city and 25 mph high way, good enough that the A8s do not carry a gas-guzzler tax, but the S8 comes with a $1,700 surcharge The 24-gallon fuel tank means greater long distance cruising

The Audis have no less than eight air bags – regular dual air bags up front, four side airbags for occupants of both the front and rear seats and new Sideguard head airbags along the full length of the interior on both sides The Sideguard airbags deploy from the headliner over the side window area

Since the best safety feature is to avoid an accident in the first place, like others in its class, the Audis have Electronic Stabilization Program, or ESP This system senses the vehicle behavior in response to driver inputs, and then uses this information to control the antilock brakes and the Quattro AWD to prevent loss of control the maneuver four-piston aluminum Brembo calipers on vented discs, a stiffer and lowered sports suspension, and 18-inch alloy wheels shod with 245/45 ZR high performance tires

As expected these top-line Audis have a very long list of standard equipment with even more luxury, convenience and electronic items available as options These include 14-way power front seats, dual zone air conditioning, driver information system, 200-watt Bose stereo system with both single-play and six-disc CD changer, and keyless remote entry that includes control of seat positioning A moon roof is standard on all models, but you can get an optional sunroof with solar panels on the A8 L powering a fan to ventilate while parked

An $850 option package includes heated front and rear seats, power rear window shade and manual side shades, heated steering wheel, and the brightest Xenon headlights I have ever used Standard tires on the A8 are P225/60HR16 with P225/55HR17 and P245/45ZR18 available

An on-board navigation system is standard on the A8 L, but is part of a $1980 option package on the A8 and S8 that includes a front and rear acoustic parking system The later feature sonar transponders in the bumpers to warn you when getting to close to obstacles

I was a bit disappointed with the navigation system that does not include a map display, just a small display located between the tachometer and speedometer, plus audio instructions I also found the controls located between in the center console a bit hard to use

All this adds up to an outstanding package that does everything well including very precise steering and competent brakes

The ride is extremely quiet and smooth, but not quite as taut as other German cars In other words, it's just right Power comes on so smoothly you don't notice how rapidly you are accelerating or your terminal speed Capable of exceeding most speed limits in the US by over 100 percent, the Audi A8 L I tested was powerful and extremely stable

Naturally, the interior is elegant, if a bit understated with appropriate amounts of fine leather, rich walnut and brushed aluminum As might be expected with all the electronic gadgetry on-board, the controls are a bit overwhelming initially

I had to pull out the instruction book a couple of times After a few trips, they become familiar and easy to use

The A8 is priced at $62,775, the A8 L at $68,475 and the S8 at $73,075 A new four year basic warranty will help a bit for those that trade-in their cars at the three-year point

These three flagship models represent the best of what Audi offers

After 7pm

We're a whole lot closer to home.

Families have found some of the best things in our hometown classifieds. Like this really great canoe in the Birmingham Eccentric or that great big, loveable old dog, in the Canton Observer

Folks take time to look for that special item advertised by a neighbor who sold his cottage or the woman who can't have a dog in her new apartment. They spend time shopping our friendly classified marketplace

So, if you have something you're not using, or if you're looking for an item and want to buy it close to home, pick up your Observer & Eccentric Classifieds

Oh and by the way, you can access our classifieds online any time at

GREAT OFFER!

Attention Movers, Shakers, and Rumblers-You're gonna love this!

Run a transportation ad in your hometown classified section - sell your van, boat, go-cart, RV, motorcycle, ATV, jet ski - whatever moves - and we'll run your classified ad until it does move right on out of your garage!

Is this a great deal or what? We'll keep running your classified transportation ad until it sells. Limited time offer two time minimum private parties only other restrictions may apply

So if you have a mover, shaker, floater, or rumbler, park it with us until it's sold.

Being flexible helps when you change your career

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI

retchen Russell spent three years going to school part time working toward a graphic design degree at Henry Ford Community College before she realized she didn't want to spend the rest of her life in that career

It dawned on her that she was a natural teacher and that everyone she knew assumed she would become a teacher

"Every job I've ever been at I've taught people how to do things and I explain things to people," Russell said "Even at school, I'm the one that people, who are having trouble, come to

Combine that teaching knack with a real appreciation and love for children and Russell decided to change her education focus to becoming an early elementary teacher

Her family wasn't surprised when she told them she was changing

But, making the career switch, was n't easy, especially, because Russell had to start her college studies over

She felt that she wasted her time all those years studying graphic design

"I kind of kick myself, because when I started in the graphic design pro gram, I didn't do the general courses first," Russell said

Instead, she thought it would be a good idea to get the tougher discipline courses out of the way and leave, the

New road: Gretchen Russell thought she wanted to be a graphic designer but she found her real vocation in teaching

easier, basic requirements, to last as an incentive to keep going to school The graphic design classes didn't transfer to her education studies

"When I switched majors none of it went with it, and I basically had to start all over again," the 23-year-old Redford resident added

Even though Russell works full time as a graphics designer and actually likes the work she does, she knows that it's not something she wants to do for the rest of her life

"Before I got the job I'm currently in the places I interviewed at seemed almost to be like warehouse type places," Russell said "The environment wasn't the type I wanted to stay

She plans to receive an associate's degree in December and will likely spend two more years earning her bachelor's degree in early elementary education

"The associates degree doesn't actually mean anything, it's just a piece of paper that tells me that I finally accomplished it "Russell said

Take action for positive adjustments

How do you plan a career? Most of us just wind up in a job or discipline through a series of unscheduled twists and turns If we ever articulate life or career objectives, they are usually set aside or forgotten as our interests change or as family-considerations rearrange our priorities Mostly, we just become lazy or intimidated as we learn more about the time, energy, risk and self discipline required to achieve our dreams. We work within a context of resignation and compromise That is, we mature

Maybe that's OK But what could you do to make some positive career adjustments? Let's consider some pleasant little actions you might take to enhance your situation

- out an objective, you create a sort of tension between you and your stated destination You are pulled in that direction A goal that is not written down is just a wish
- strength is a skill that is supported by an interest It's not just a question of what you are good at doing Most people are pretty good at what they do What skills do you have that you enjoy using?
- Become intense Identify at least one aspect of your profession at which you will become very, very good By becoming an absolute expert in one thing, you will have more upward and outward pathways open to you

■ Become diverse Even while you

While it will take her a few extra years in school, Russell did exactly what Donna Nordman, Schoolcraft College coordinator of placement services, tells students who are wondering if their career choices are right

"Maybe they need to look at the world of work again with more career exploration and to determine what they need in terms of academics to go from point A to point B," Nordman said "They need to rethink solutions and build on what they've already done Students need to identify their values, interests and personalities and try to find a job that accentuates those traits, Nordman said A lot of time and effort can be saved if students do this before they start college

She finds that the students who change their minds often didn't do a lot of research to learn about the career they considered or even about themselves

A lot of times, she said, those students were influenced by someone telling them that they should go into a particular field or by assuming that they would be suited to a certain job

But, once they decide to make the transition, Nordman said, they should "sit down with a career counselor and do some career development"

"Very often it would be building on strengths rather than starting over from scratch Many skills that are learned from one curriculum can be transferrable to another curriculum area We would sit down with that person and see where they are now They need to sort out their interests and skills

Nordman said she worked with a student in her "Human Development Services Strategies for Living and Life Planning" class who had begun a career as a technical writer, but decided she wanted more interaction with people than the job offered

wrong thing, I try to go with their strengths and not weaknesses," she added "I say "You've learned from doing this and now how are we going to change things to make it different?" The student researched the various subcategories of the job, the

classes she needs to take and the best schools for her to attend While career changes, made by people like Russell and this student, can be discouraging, it can also be a step toward realizing future job fulfillment, Russell said There's a certain amount of satisfaction and confidence that comes with knowing you're finally on the right track

Russell's advice to other students is to avoid taking semesters off for extended breaks

"At the end of every semester you're completely exhausted and you don't want to take classes the next semester," Russell said "Do it anyway You get that little break between semesters and it's enough to refresh you And if you don't you're kicking yourself, because you could have gotten so much done'

are become intense in one area, learn as much as possible about related disciplines Understand the big picture in your field or industry Improve your credibility – and marketability – by becoming comfortable with the whole system

- Fantasize about your objectives People often don't get whatthey want because they don't really believe that their goals are attainable In truth, almost anything is possible if you visualize having it and enjoying
- Change in small increments Maybe it is unrealistic to make a million bucks by Christmas It might be unlikely that you will land a job as Sales Manager when you have no sales experience But it might be possible to increase your income by 10 percent. It might be doable to get five interviews for sales jobs by Christmas You are more likely to take action and less likely to become frustrated when objectives are bite-sized
- Focus on process The best career objectives define what you will be doing, not what you will "be" For goal-setting purposes, titles don't matter No one glows very long about being promoted to President or passing the bar exam In the end, satisfaction or disappointment comes from every day activities You might be closer to your dream job than you think if you consider goals from a tasks standpoint
