

The holiday season is here and so is the Plymouth-Canton Observer Cheer Club. Opening the Cheer Club to new and returning "members" is one of our favorite holiday traditions. Please join us by bringing donations of new toys and canned or boxed food to our office at 794 S. Main in Plymouth during business hours. The items will be collected until Friday, Dec. 14, when we turn them over to the good folks at Salvation Army. They'll distribute the items to needy people in Plymouth, Canton and Northville. The idea is to make the holidays special for everybody, not just the lucky families where people have plenty to spend. So if you're out doing your Christmas shopping and have a few minutes to look for another toy or maybe a gift of warm clothing, your thoughtfulness will be appreciated. When you bring your donations by our office, we'll ask you to leave your name and city/township of residence. That's because we like to print donor names in the paper, while the Cheer Club drive is on. Of course, you may remain anonymous if you prefer. Each year, we've recorded around 200 donors to the Cheer Club from Plymouth and Canton. Happy Holidays! Please keep our Cheer Club in mind.

Plymouth Chamber of Commerce board president Dave Siegiust was on the stage in Kellogg Park Friday, leading Christmas carols along with other public officials. The crowd politely sang along, but it was clear the children in attendance were waiting for something more.

And, shortly after 6 p.m., they got it, when Santa Claus rode in on a Plymouth Community Fire Department engine to the delighted roars of the hundreds of children witnessing the annual downtown ritual.

And after a couple of songs and the presentation of the "key to the hearts of Plymouth and Canton children" by new Mayor Bill Graham, the holiday season officially began in Plymouth, much to the delight of those on hand. Plymouth resident Karen Anderson was witnessing the spectacle for the first time.

Detroit closes bids on property

The city of Detroit has closed the bidding on the 417 acres of undeveloped property it owns in Plymouth Township, and expects to have the land sold before Mayor Dennis Archer leaves office in January.

The land, which is located between Napier and Ridge and also includes more than 400 acres across Five Mile in Northville Township, is the former site of the Detroit House of Corrections. It is the last major piece of undeveloped land in Plymouth Township.

Detroit, which has owned the land since 1919, has reportedly received a handful of bids on the property. Although Archer spokesman Greg Bowers wouldn't comment on the number of bids or the identity of the bidders, a company called K/LB Fund-

Many downtown Plymouth merchants were pleased with the kickoff of the holiday shopping season Friday, including the live radio broadcast by Jim Harper and the Magic 105.1 Morning Crew (WMGC-FM) from 336 Main.

"I think it was a good promotion by the Downtown Development Authority. The piano bar was packed," said Larry Bird, owner of Gabriela's.

The 6 a.m. to 10 a.m. broadcast was part of a $30,000 ad campaign developed for downtown Plymouth, which will run this holiday season and continue through 2002.

Local suburbs still segregated, but increasingly diverse

BY JONI HUBRED
STAFF WRITER
jhubred@oe.homecomm.net

Detroit may be the most racially segregated city in the nation, according to the 2000 census, but local suburbs are experiencing - and struggling with - an increasing diversity.

In Redford, officials have established neighborhood meetings to get residents of diverse backgrounds talking to each other. In Canton Township, a controversy over the observance of Martin Luther King Jr. Day led to the founding of a human rights commission. The cities of Livonia, Farmington and Farmington Hills have established similar groups.

And the need for them has never been greater, because suburbs - although still primarily homogeneous - are dealing more and more with diversity.

Farmington Hills grew by 10 percent overall, but the city's ethnic diversity grew more dramatically. The city's African-American population shot from 129 to 5,699, and the number of residents claiming Asian ancestry nearly tripled, from 2,870 to 6,188.

Other Observer communities experienced an increasing diversity, even when their population remained the same.

The fastest-growing community, Canton, experienced a 32-percent increase in population, while African-American, Asian and Hispanic populations doubled.

Plymouth Township grew by 20 percent, its African-American population nearly tripled, from 286 to 822.

Livonia, dubbed one of the whitest cities in America, experienced a slight decrease in population, but slight increases in diversity. The same was true in Garden City, Plymouth and Westland.

Also, while percentage increases range into triple digits, they still don't translate into large numbers. All suburbs remained between 83- and 96-percent white.

Karen Bolsen, co-chairwoman of the Farmington Hills/Farmington Multiracial Multicultural Council, said the group has become more proactive. She believes cities benefit from building understanding before problems arise.

"You presume there are less issues because of that," she said, "but when issues do arise, you have a network of resources to help resolve them before they become volatile."

THE SUBURBAN DREAM

BY TONY BRUSCATO
tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

A quick look at the population figures of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools indicates it's a mostly white school district located in the affluent western suburbs of Wayne County. A place where there might be little thought to diversity, when you consider the 2000-01 Pupil Headcount Report from the Michigan Department of Education attests the district is nearly 86 percent white.

However, despite the overwhelming numbers, the community is growing, and the diverse population it's attracting is becoming significant. There are approximately 600 students, representing more than 30 languages, who are trying to learn English in the state's seventh-largest school district. And the numbers are constantly growing.

"The highest population of those students live in south Canton, where there is more affordable housing for people getting started," said Sue Shepard, the coordinator of the English as a Second Language-Bilingual department. "We live in an area many people want to be, where there is shopping, safe streets and employment. Many of those who come here know others who have moved here, people they can communicate with."

Shepard began the ESL program in 1981 with about 100 students. Now, that number is six times higher and climbs steadily by about 20 percent each school year.

"Language is everything, and everything depends on communication," she said.

The ESL program attempts to start the English-learning process early, working with elementary students a couple of hours a week.

"The younger kids learn faster because they make friends more quickly and the level of the English language is lower," said Shepard. Middle and high school students have ESL classes.

"The older the student, the harder it is to learn English," she said. "It's harder to jump into school and be successful because you need skills besides just English."

With the influx of a diverse population comes the need to understand others in order to live, work and play together.

Township's '02 calendar ready to go to residents

BY KURT KUBAN
STAFF WRITER
kkuban@oe.homecomm.net

Plymouth Township officials announced this week the township's 2002 calendar is nearly complete, and will be sent out to residents next month.

The calendar will celebrate the township's 175th anniversary, which will take place next year. Plymouth Township was founded in 1827, and the calendar will include historical information about its first governing body.

Plymouth Township Supervisor Steve Mann said the new calendar will also include images of the township's people and places.

"We have included photographs taken at places and events all throughout Plymouth Township," Mann said.

In addition, Mann said the new calendar will be improved over previous editions. The goal, he said, was to make it more functional and user-friendly.

Before going into production, officials sought input from residents and township employees, and solicited suggestions on how to improve it.

The result includes four extra pages, a flip-out map with street guide, larger date boxes and non-glossy paper to make it easier for people to make notations.

The calendar also includes helpful information, including a list of frequently asked questions, a list of voting precincts, facts about township departments, and a list of township, county, state, and federal government contacts and phone numbers. Individual pages will mark dates of township meetings and closings.

"We want our calendar to be the one that people choose to hang in their homes all year long so we tried to make it as useful as possible," Mann said.

The new calendars will be delivered to all township homes in mid to late December, according to Mann.

ing LLC has reportedly given the city a 10-percent down payment of $5 million on the property.

Bowens said the information would become public when Archer makes a recommendation to the Detroit City Council in the next week or so. He expects the council to vote on the recommendation before Christmas, and have the land sale finalized before Archer leaves office in January. Mayor-elect Kwame Kilpatrick takes office Jan. 1.

Earlier this year Archer decided to sell the land because of a budget deficit expected to be more than $60 million. The city asked for minimum bids on the property totaling $43.5 million.

"Come Jan. 1, we will have the property sold. Everything will be in the black and our budget will be balanced," Bowens said.

Sylvia Crawford, a spokesperson for the city's planning and development department, recently said the city was hoping to sell the property to a single bidder. Bowens said the city will sell each parcel to the highest bidder, which appears to be K/LB Funding LLC.

"We have a responsibility to the people of Detroit to make sure we can get as much as possible," Bowens said.

Some local groups have expressed concern development would harm the property's natural features. In addition to being home to a wide variety of wildlife, the land contains a portion of Johnson Creek, which is the only coldwater stream in southeast Michigan.

"We understand the local concern, but we have an asset and we are going to sell it to the highest bidder. If anyone has environmental concerns, or any other concerns, that is something they will have to take up with the new owners," Bowens said.

"Any developer who buys the land will have to conform to local ordinances. Whatever happens to the land is an affair between the developer and the people in the area."

Making their own magic

Brothers pin eatery's hopes on hard work

BY KURT KUBAN
STAFF WRITER
kkuban@oe.homecomm.net

Don't let the name fool you. Atlantis of Plymouth, which opened its doors to the public Oct. 9, is not a Greek restaurant.

Despite their Greek heritage, brothers Tasos, Kosta and Demetri Kyprianos, who manage the restaurant, have created a menu they say goes well beyond the typical Aegean or Coney fare.

No, the Kyprianos brothers chose to call the eatery Atlantis for another reason.

When they were looking to open a restaurant in the Plymouth community after spending several years at another eatery in Madison Heights, they were amazed when they found the building available at 39500 Ann Arbor Road. In fact they likened their discovery to finding the fabled ancient land under the sea.

"We were so lucky to find this building. This place is magic. That's why we named it Atlantis. It is just beautiful," said Kosta Kyprianos, who organizes the restaurant's wait staff and often personally welcomes patrons.

The restaurant, which has changed management several times and was most recently City Limits Grille, can comfortably seat more than 200 people in the main dining room. There are also two banquet rooms downstairs, which can both accommodate about 90 people, or be converted into a single room. And on the smoking side of the restaurant, there is a fully-stocked bar.

The Kyprianos brothers are also proud of their menu, which is loaded with variety. Diners can order everything from veal, pasta, seafood and chicken, to steaks, chops and barbecue favorites.

The meals also fall on the inexpensive side, with dinner entrees ranging from just under $7 for sandwiches to about $23 for surf and turf. In addition, the restaurant offers a children's menu, as well as daily lunch and dinner specials, including at least one seafood entree everyday.

"We want people to come in here not knowing what they want. At most restaurants, you have to settle on one kind of food, whether it be Greek, Italian or Mexican. When people come in here, they can have just about anything," said Tasos Kyprianos.

Demetri, who is just 22 years old and the youngest of the three brothers, oversees all operations in the kitchen. Despite his age and the fact he is a self-taught chef, he takes extreme care that his meals are first-rate. He does everything himself, from dicing the onions to making his own beef broth. While taste is important to him, it is not everything.

"Presentation is my pet peeve. When the meal is set down on the table, I want it to be a feast for the eyes," he said.

Since the opening, business has slowly begun to pick up as word of the restaurant gets out. But don't look for the name Atlantis to be pasted on a large billboard along I-275, or for the Kyprianos brothers to advertise on television as a way to drum up business.

"We're not targeting those people. We want to serve the local community. We love this place and look forward to getting more involved with our new neighbors. We want to be here forever," Kosta Kyprianos said.

Besides, the brothers know as much as anyone what it takes to get people through the doors. Hard work. They spent five months getting the restaurant in shape before its opening, and now spend much of their waking hours there making sure everything runs smoothly. It's all an effort to make sure patrons enjoy their dining experience enough to come back.

"We're here from day to night. We offer a personal touch, which is different than people will find at the chains. Once someone walks in the door, I will know them the next time. Our goal is to take care of one person at a time. That's how you establish a business," Kosta Kyprianos said.

His claim is no exaggeration according to Lori Herzog, who tends bar and is one of about two dozen Atlantis employees.

"They're going to make it, because they put everything they have into this place. They are such hard workers. They're here so much of the time, I don't know when they find the time to sleep," she said.

For more information about Atlantis of Plymouth call (734) 453-5047.

people realize how good things are in Plymouth," said Melanie Purcell DDA director "We're seeing partnerships from businesses like we've never seen before"

Despite the terrorist attacks of Sept 11 and the downturn in the national economy, some local business owners say they haven't been greatly affected

"At one point we had 125 people in line waiting to get in," said Bird of Friday morning's 8 a.m. store opening in which he gave away 500 night lights "I think we'll have record sales for the day after Thanksgiving"

Bird is confident his business will be 5-7 percent above last year's holiday season

We have an extra couple of days after Thanksgiving this year the weather has been great and the likelihood of having snow and bitter cold temperatures like last year are low Everything seems to be clicking," he said

At Plymouth Nursery, general manager Tim Parker is hopeful that less travel during the holiday season will translate into more business at home

Our Christmas business is up a lot," said Parker "I think it's a combination of the nice weather and people able to get out and hang lights"

"I'm excited about this holiday season I'm expecting our sales to be up," he said

Mike McCarty, owner of Georgia's Gift Gallery, said business since Labor Day, including the brisk sales of patriotic merchandise has been very good, leaving no hint of economic instability in his store

"Generally, we have a 3-8 percent increase in holiday sales This year I won't be unhappy with 2-5 percent," said McCarty

"I'm optimistic about the current economic climate" added McCarty "One way to forget the events (of Sept 11) is to get out and stimulate the economy"

Auction co-chairs Theresa Wherrett and Karen Sanford began working with the auction committee in the spring. HOW TO RESOLVE HEEL PAIN

It's usually a symptom of Plantar Fasciitis. That first step out of bed in the morning really catches your attention. It feels just like someone poked you in the heel with a knife. But after walking a few minutes the pain slowly disappears. Heel pain is very irritating but rarely serious. Poor biomechanics-A flat foot, high-arched foot or abnormalities in your gait stresses your plantar fascia. Custom orthotic devices if you have a foot deformity, a custom shoe insert from a podiatrist can compensate for the deformity and distribute pressure to your foot more evenly. Senate attempts to end use of public dollars for campaigning

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

State senators are toughening up rules that prohibit a public body from using public funds to advocate a position on a ballot question or attempting to influence the outcome of an election.

In other words, they don't think city councils or school boards should be able to use taxpayers' money to try to convince those same taxpayers to approve a millage increase, as an example.

If Senate Bill 759, sponsored by Sen Beverly Hammerstrom, R-Temperance, is eventually passed the practice would be strictly banned. Senators have voted 20-15 on the bill and sent it to the House of Representatives for review.

Further, the law would ban non-profit corporations from trying to influence the outcome of an election with money they receive from public bodies through dues or fees.

An example of the practice cropped up in a recent election when the "Let Local Votes Count" proposal was on the ballot. The Michigan Municipal League campaigned vigorously on behalf of the proposal, which would have protected local control from state legislation.

But the MML was criticized for the campaign, noting that it was essentially using money paid to it in dues from city councils, which were drawing money from their general fund budgets.

The practice has been legal

Both this attorney general and the previous one reviewed it and found it acceptable under Michigan law.

Following the Let Local Votes Count campaign, the state Chamber of Commerce challenged the MML's use of the money in court as well, and the judges agreed it passed muster under state law.

Hammerstrom explained the purpose of the ban was to keep non-profits from using dues as a way to funnel money out of public coffers and into campaign funds.

Issue tested

Sen Dianne Byrum, D-Onondaga, noted that the issue of non-profits campaigning on ballot questions has been tested. She noted that the attorney general has ruled that funds stop being public funds as soon as they are paid out by cities or school districts.

Opponents of the bill argue it might be used to keep groups from campaigning just because they do business with a city or school district.

Hammerstrom added exemptions to the bill to allow those groups to use money made from goods and services on campaigns, just not dues or fees.

The accounts cannot be commingled if the money is to be used on a campaign.

Public bodies, such as schools or cities, are already prohibited from using public funds for campaigning, but the rules are not always clear. So when the Oakland County Intermediate School District attempted "informational" presentations about the recent school voucher ballot question, it got wrapped for crossing the line into advocating a position. Intermediate school officials said they didn't think they had crossed the line, but voucher proponents and the Secretary of State believed they had. The district was ordered to stop using the presentation.

To clarify the rules, the bill requires that public bodies "maintain strict neutrality in each election."

The bills specify that it would not prohibit individual expressions of views by elected or appointed positions, Officials and government employees would not be barred from taking positions, but they could not do it on work time.

Nothing in the bill would stop public officials from participating in interviews, forums or debates.

One amendment by Sen Gary

Peters, D-Bloomfield, to require that any advertisement mentioning a candidate for office be reported in a campaign finance statement. The intent was to crack down on so-called "soft money" or issue-oriented advertising for or against candidates.

But the amendment was rejected.

Another amendment by Sen John Cherry, D-Chocoma, to block public corporations from advocating a position on the ballot was also rejected.

Senators approved passage of the measure in a party line vote.

College hosts welfare expert

Ron Haskings of Brookings Institution will be speaking on welfare reform Monday at Schoolcraft College.

The session, which is open to the public, will be 9-10:30 a.m. in room 200 of the McDowell Center.

Haskings is the principal architect behind the 1996 federal welfare reform initiative, a senior fellow of economic studies at Brookings in Washington.

Bhavika Patel, 12, reacts to the bitter taste of a cranberry during her ESL class at East Middle School in Plymouth Monday.

there have been controversies in the high schools surrounding Gay Awareness Month, Black History Month and, most recently, those of Arabic or Indian descent since the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11.

"There didn't seem like there was a lot of interest in other ways of life before the Sept. 11 attacks," said Richard Wilson, a member of the high school's student Diversity Council. "There were people harassing Arabs and Indians, and anyone who looked like the same race as Osama bin Laden. Then, there was an outcry from students who said 'This isn't right, we shouldn't be treating people this way.'"

The Diversity Council is only one of many groups that help students learn about other cultures. There's an African-American Association, Middle Eastern European Association, the Asian-Pacific American Club, and others for Italian, Polish and Indian Americans. Plus, the Gay-Straight Alliance was formed to understand issues surrounding those who are homosexual.

"This is a very diverse school, and we learn to accept and cooperate with everyone and be friends," said Tanya Haddad, 17, of Plymouth Township. The Salem High School senior said coming from a mostly Arabic school in Dearborn made her uneasy with the diversity at the Plymouth-Canton high school complex. However, she admittedly learned to stop judging others with the help of the Diversity Council. "I learned to accept that this is how it is in life. This is America, the melting pot."

Salem High School senior Ebinehita Arhebamen, 16, of Plymouth, has participated in leadership conferences sponsored by the National Conference for Community and Justice, where diversity awareness, conflict resolution and racism challenges are part of the program. Growing up in Detroit, there was only one white person in her class, who was tall, had big feet and extremely long hair.

"I thought all white people looked like that. But, when we moved here in sixth grade I found out it wasn't true," she said. "Now it's funny. But, back then it was pretty dumb."

"All my best friends are different ethnicities," she said. "After a while, if they're your friends, you don't see color, you see personalities."

Becca Precht, 16, a Salem High School junior from Canton, said she likes the idea of being educated along with nearly 5,000 other students.

"There are 5,000 different perspectives," she said. "I think it's cool because you get to know about people and their backgrounds."

Diversity Council advisor Lynn Sandman said students come into the council without a lot of expectations.

"But after the experiences we offer them, their horizons are broadened, their awareness about themselves and other people, prejudices and biases have increased, and they become a more well-rounded person and better able to handle life experiences," she said.

Of course, not all students in Plymouth-Canton share the views of those who have participated in the Diversity Council or other ethnic groups. To those students, Wilson says, "If they don't understand, God bless them."

Sarnia swarms Whalers

For only the fourth time this season the Plymouth Whalers lost in regulation play as the Sarnia Sting came away with a 5-2 victory Wednesday night at Compuware Arena.

The loss dropped the Whalers to 17-4-3-1 in the Ontario Hockey League, while Sarnia is 14-11-1-1.

Sarnia scored three times in the opening period including a Kris Newbury goal just 15 seconds into the game from Juns Stals and Ryan Delmonte.

Stals scored against off a feed from Matt Bannan at 9:04 and Dusty Jamieson made it 3-0 at 13:40 from Newbury and Bannan.

The Whalers changed goaltenders shortly as the third Sting goal as Paul Drew replaced Jason Bacashihua.

In the second period, Damian Surma scored an unassisted, short-handed goal at 5:16, but the Sting returned the favor at 11:18 on a Eric Himelfarb goal from Jamieson and John Hecimovic.

Newbury scored again at 1:05 of the third on a power play with Himelfarb and Bannan on a power-play.

The Whalers got a goal at 3:55, Gregory Campbell short-handed from Brad Yeo and Canton's James Wisniewski.

King wears regional crown, 62-31

Ladywood finishes 14-9

BY BRAD EMONS
SPORTS WRITER
bemons@oe.homecomm.net

■ GIRLS BASKETBALL

Livonia Ladywood played the state's No. 1-ranked girls basketball team fairly even for one quarter.

But Detroit King dominated the final 24 minutes of action to win the Class A regional at Southfield going away, 62-31.

Ladywood bowed out with a 14-9 overall record, while King advances to Tuesday's quarterfinal at Eastpointe East Detroit with a 22-0 record against 22-3 Belleville.

The Blazers had the tempo going their way during the first eight minutes of play, trailing by only one, 12-11.

But King coach William Winfield, seeking his first state title since 1991, got out of his passive zone defense and began to apply the pressure against the Blazers.

"It was kind of a chess match," King coach William Winfield said. "We wanted to see our personnel in a different setting. We knew eventually we would need to go up-tempo and play man-to-man."

"But we're very comfortable against a zone. The main thing is you have to have patience against it."

Northern Illinois signee Keishondra Williamson nailed a pair of triples as King outscored Ladywood 13-2 in the second period to take a 25-13 halftime lead.

Meanwhile, the Blazers went 0-for-6 from the floor during the stretch and were held scoreless for almost eight minutes before Amber Willoughby nailed a pair of free throws with 1:49 left.

"The second quarter we missed some easy shots," Ladywood coach Andrea Gorski said. "Against a team like King you have to keep it close and we had to be patient. You just can't throw up shots versus King."

Ladywood, behind senior center Liz Obrecht's nine points, including a three-pointer, kept it relatively close through three quarters.

But 5-foot-11 senior guard Stephane Douglas, bound for the University of Michigan, nailed a three-pointer with just under a minute left to make it 37-22 for the Crusaders entering the final period.

King then blew it open in the final quarter, outscoring Ladywood 25-9.

Twelve different Crusaders scored as Douglas and the 5-11 Williamson each finished with 12 points.

"They're the best team we've played by far," Gorski said of King. "I thought tonight their second-team played better than their first-team."

"Against a team like King you have to hit shots. You can't chase them in a man-to-man because it's in King's favor. You have to stop them inside, but then they can go out and hit from outside, too."

Obrecht, a 6-2 senior headed to Missouri-Kansas City, finished with a game-high 13 points. Junior forward Ruth Sventickas added 10.

"We knew we had to stop number 50 (Obrecht)," said William Winfield, whose team was the Class A runner up to Lansing Everett a year ago. "We wanted to limit her touches. We knew we'd be in good shape if we contained her. But then (in the third quarter) she stepped out and hit a couple of shots. So I guess we contained her at times."

Ladywood didn't have the bench, either, to match up with King. Two reserves, Nejah Clark and Rhea Mays have signed with UNLV and Wright State, respectively.

"We like to think we have depth, we don't lose a lot when we go to the bench," Winfield said.

Meanwhile, the loss ended a four-game winning streak for the Blazers. "Playing three games in five days hurt us," Gorski said. "We had two physical games in a row against (Detroit) Cody and Southfield. We were tired. You could see it in our shots and on the boards."

Despite 22 straight wins this season, Winfield remains skeptical about his team's chances to win the state championship.

"We want to get there real bad," he said. "But right now I just don't have the confidence we're going to get it."

Maybe King needs to play more all four quarters.

State champ CC earns 5-3 victory

In an odd way, watching Redford Catholic Central's hockey game with Livonia Churchill on Wednesday night was just like watching the Detroit Lions-Green Bay Packers football game on Thanksgiving Day.

This is not for a second, saying the Chargers are anything like the hapless Lions.

But the games shared the bond in that the team that was expected to win ran out to a big lead. And the team that wasn't expected to win, came back to make it very close.

In Wednesday's case, CC ran out to a 5-1 lead through the mid-point of the third period before Churchill scored two late goals to cut the final margin to 5-3 at Eddie Edgar Arena.

"If you take away the first few minutes of the game, it was a 3-3 game," said CC coach Gordie St. John, as his team took its first win of the season in two starts. "We got off to a fast start, but I think both teams still need to work on their systems. It's early yet. You could tell that they wanted to slow the game down and that we wanted to take the play to them and go up-tempo. We wanted to pick up the pace. Our (defense) was open a lot."

The Shamrocks jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first two minutes taking the Chargers (0-1-1) out of the flow for the bulk of the period. With just 1:45 gone, Eric Reinhart got control of a rebound and flipped it over a prone Churchill goalie, Jake Archer, for the 1-0 lead. Andrew Eggert and Billy Burns got the assists.

Eleven seconds later, the same trio connected on CC's second goal as the

Shamrocks took a 2-0 lead.

Churchill cut that lead to 2-1 at the 4:34 mark as Matt Krug knocked a rebound past CC goalie Jimmy Blanchard with Aaron Ziem and Ryan Mayo assisting.

But less than three minutes later, CC retained its two-goal cushion as Eric Giosa flipped a rebound off Jeff Prough's shot past Archer for a 3-1 lead.

"They had those quick goals and that was a big difference," said Churchill coach Pete Mazzoni. "We wanted to slow the game down and try to stay close."

Perhaps the period of time that proved to be the most frustrating for the Chargers came in a two-minute stretch of the second period with Churchill on the power-play and Reinhart off for slashing.

The Chargers controlled the play during that time, keeping the puck for a good chunk of the time in CC's end and getting off several shots. But

Canton youth earns strikes

Everyone knows the story of David and Goliath, but now we can use that as a comparison to what the 8-year-old Ryan Clark of Canton has done, not with a slingshot, but his bowling ball.

AL HARRISON

Last Sunday, the 52-pound youth league bowler slung his 12-pound ball well enough to win the top spot in his division in the Community Bowling Centers Youth Scholarship Tournament.

Competing against bowlers up to twice his size, Clark conquered them all to win in the 169 & below division.

His dad, Glenn, who bowls in the Super Tuesday League, got him started in the right direction at the age of 5.

Ryan is now a third-grader at Dodson Elementary and is enthusiastic about bowling. He watches the pros on TV, practices two or three times a week.

He was the top qualifier for the state YABA All-Stars and last year had the highest average for the Bantam Division in Greater Detroit YABA with 137.

This year he hopes to set an new all-time record for average in this division.

At the other end of the age spectrum, Marty Mardeusz of Lavonia shot a set of 276-276-267 for a 3-game total of 819 in the Friday Seniors League, Nov 16, at Redford's Mayflower Lanes.

That is the highest series for a senior bowler in this house so far this year. Marty, 66, carries a 190 average. He will be receiving his ABC 800 ring soon.

The Mayflower Wednesday Senior Men's Classic started a "Last Man Standing" contest after completion of league bowling.

It involves throwing strikes until eliminated and anything less than a strike takes you out of the mix.

It is winner-take-all unless there is a two-player tie, in which the pair keeps bowling until one has the best ball, strike or not, and the pot is split two-thirds to one-third.

Bob Allen tied with Chuck Ruel for the top spot and Ruel won the roll-off in the inaugural week. Chuck Smith was an entrant who shot a 300 game only minutes earlier, but could only muster one strike in the contest.

Participants and spectators enjoyed this first try, and it looks like a winner for many weeks to come.

One of the most overlooked benefits of American Bowling Congress membership is the awards presentation program.

Most of the lesser awards are presented at the league bowling time by one of the league officers.

Honor awards for 300-299-298 games, or 800 series, include ring presentations (other options are available, watch or plaque) presented by officials of the local associations.

With proper decorum for the time-honored ultimate games, these association volunteers will come in to the bowling center when the league is in action and take a short timeout to do honors to the one who earned recognition.

It was my assignment to pinch-hit for fellow director Ron Lancaster and present two rings last Thursday to David Kröll at Oak Lanes in Westland.

Kröll bowls in the Board of Education League and recorded a 300 game with an 825 series. Both occurred on the same night and his series was the highest ever at Oak Lanes in its entire history.

It was then another short trip over to Cloverlanes in Livonia to pinch-hit for Greater Detroit Bowling Association Director Warren Teubert and present another pair of rings — this time to Mike Makowicz of Livonia for a 300 game and 816 series in September in the Cloverlanes Thursday Junior House League.

For Mike it was his fifth 300 game and fifth 800 series.

There was one more ring to be awarded to that league, but the bowler was away hunting on that date and he will have to wait a couple weeks to get his ring.

Larry Franz of Redford took top honors and a nice payout of $800 in the Great Lakes Senior Top bowler: Canton's Ryan Clark won his division recently at a youth scholarship tournament.

Bowling Association Tournament at Flint.

Dan Mayer of Waterford finished eighth, good for $175.

Upcoming tournaments include Saturday, Dec 8, invitational at Sunnybrook Lanes in Sterling Heights, Jan. 12, at Westland's Vision Lanes.

For more information, call (734) 522-9315.

Tim Wiczorek, owner and operator of the Rack Attack pro shop in Troy Lanes, has done it again.

He is conducting another full-course bowling seminar for bowlers of all ability levels.

Dr. Jeff Briggs, a noted bowling authority, along with Mark Robey, will be the principal tutors.

They will cover all aspects of the game, equipment, ball surfaces and weights, lane conditions, proper ball fit, variety of deliveries, spare-shooting and much more.

The seminar will be from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Dec 8, at Thunderbowl Lanes in Allen Park.

The cost for the session is $60 per person. For more information, call (248) 765-9489.

Daylight alters habits

After the change from daylight savings time to standard time, and the normal lengthening of the dark period in our daily cycle, the change between daylight and darkness becomes very noticeable.

Animals and plants are very sensitive to this change also.

In addition to an internal clock demonstrated in animals, daylight length is a very important stimulus to release specific behaviors.

For example, animals start preparing for hibernation when the temperatures are warm because the daylight length period is getting shorter.

Trees are also sensitive to this stimulus. The abscission layer that forms between the stem and the leaf's point of attachment starts to form before the cold temperatures of fall.

Internal fluids start to move down into the roots for winter storage and protection before cold temperatures.

It is important for plants and animals to be prepared before the onset of consistently cold weather.

The influence of light on trees came to mind when my son pointed out that the leaves of trees directly beneath freeway lights were still attached to the branches.

Leaves on the other parts of the same tree had fallen, but those close to the bulb were slightly green.

I'm not sure what the correct explanation for this phenomenon is, but the fact that it happens when the leaves are close to the lights must correlate with either the light, or the heat produced from the lights, or both.

Most of these freeway lights are either sodium or tungsten/mercury vapor lights. Both of these lights produce a lot of heat. Leaves close to the lamps will not be affected by frost like leaves more distant from the lamp.

NATURE NOTES

Those leaves close to the lamp are in constant light. They do not have a light-dark cycle like other leaves in the area.

Leaves closest to the lamp also get the most intense light, probably enough to "fool" the branches into reacting like it was summer.

People who care for Christmas cactus plants know that they need to be put in a dark room for a period of time in order to stimulate them to bloom at the proper time.

Hot house growers also take advantage of the light cycle when they induce plants to flower by duplicating the natural daylight cycle for blooming.

At the nature center live cold blooded animals on display normally enter a state of hibernation during winter.

Since it's not very exciting for patrons to watch a "sleeping" animal, caretakers change their light cycle to duplicate summer conditions. This stimulus is enough to keep them active in winter.

Not too long ago when we had 60-degree temperatures, I was hearing frogs calling in the woods. Both spring peepers and chorus frogs were singing.

Warm temperatures kept them active enough, but the daylight length was similar enough to spring time that they thought it was time to sing.

If they stayed active long enough they would realize that the daylight length period was not getting longer, it was getting shorter.

That is the stimulus that indicates it's not time to court and mate, its time to hibernate.

Man produces a lot of light during darkness but it does not seem to have had much of a negative affect on plants and animals. It is a very important factor that plants and animals have relied upon for thousands of years.

Let me know if you have seen any other impacts on wildlife from artificial lights.

none of the shots went on net — and a couple might have beaten Blanchard — and Churchill came up empty

"We had chances on the power play," said Mazzoni, whose team was outshot in the game 19-17 "But I looked up at the scoreboard during that time and the shots on goal hadn't moved. We got plenty of shots, but nothing was on net and nothing was quality."

And in the third period, CC took advantage of its ability to put shots on net. Reinhart converted a 2-on-1 breakaway with Burns, tucking the puck in the net for a 4-1 lead, with John Perkovich getting the other assist at the 2:39 mark. And with 8:50 left, Bryan Genrich tapped the puck into the net with Jake Norwood and Perkovich assisting for a 5-1 lead.

But when they seemed totally out of it, the Chargers rallied. First, Aaron Jakubowski flicked the puck past Blanchard for a power-play goal, with Ryan Wischmeyer and Krug getting the assists.

Then with 5:12 seconds left, John Maley cut the lead to 5-3 with a blind backhand shot directly in front of the net, as Wischmeyer and Jakubowski assisted.

That was as close as the Chargers could get. Archer — who made 14 saves as did Blanchard — was pulled with 35 seconds left, but Churchill couldn't take advantage of the extra attacker and CC rebounded from its first loss since the 2000 season.

GROSSE ILE 3, FRANKLIN 3 For the first game of the season, Franklin coach Terry Jobbitt felt his team didn't play too bad after the tie with the Red Devils.

"I was totally disappointed in what we did," said Jobbitt. "We're a young team and the players we have aren't used to playing as a team. They're used to playing a system. But that will come in time. I'm happy with our goaltending and our defense and forwards played well."

After Joe Cowles gave Grosse Ile an early lead, Franklin snapped back to take a 2-1 lead in the first period. Keith Robert got the first goal with assists from Scott Sparks and Dave McCall, while Dave Manzo gave the Patriots the lead with Adam Bierley and Ross Robert assisting.

The Devils tied the score 3-3 seconds into the third period on Cowles' second goal, while Franklin regained the lead with 7:58 left as Bierley scored with Robert getting the assist. But Grosse Ile tied the score with 3:37 left as John Watson converted. Kyle Susewitz made 29 saves for Franklin and John Kernan had 21 saves for the Red Devils.

CHURCHILL 3, SALEM 3 Plymouth Salem stormed back in the final five minutes Tuesday to earn a Western Lakes Activities Association tie with Livonia Churchill at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Salem is 1-0-1 overall and 1-0-1 in the WLAAC. Churchill is 0-0-1.

Kevin Young's power play goal from Steve Jacobs and Shane Brest with 1:41 remaining forced the deadlock.

Mark Nagel's goal at 11:38 from John Schultz and Dave Gill pulled the Rocks to within one.

It was 1-1 after one period. Salem's Bryan Young scored from Aaron Cheesman and Kevin Wilson at 13:28, but Churchill's Adam Jakubowski tied it with 57 seconds to go from Matt Krug.

In the second period, Churchill scored twice — Brian Grant from Ryan Wischmeyer and John Maley at 11:46, followed by Adam Staber from John Clancy and Brandon Mishowski at 7:27.

Salem took seven penalties to Churchill's four.

Churchill was 0-for-5 on the power play, including a 5-on-3 situation.

We shot ourselves in the foot, Churchill coach Pete Mazzoni said. "But Salem is much improved. (Kevin) Young came out of the Little Caesars Midget AA program. He's a smart player."

Last Friday, the Rocks broke a 1-1 tie with Walled Lake Central by scoring four straight goals — two of them by Nagel — and proceeded to an easy 6-3 victory in their season opener at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Nagel also had two assists in the game. Wilson added a goal and two assists, and Schultz contributed two assists. Cheesman, Mike Crowley and Bryan Young scored goals for Salem.

Brest was in goal for the Rocks.

Excellence continues at Catholic Central High School with 31 seniors achieving National Merit Honors for their performance on the Preliminary SAT test. The PSAT test is administered to all students during their junior year to prepare them for college entrance exams. Twenty-one students at Catholic Central scored in the top one percent in the state, qualifying them as National Merit Semifinalists. Ten more students qualified as National Merit Commended Students by scoring in the top five percent.

Students who achieved National Merit Scholar status at Catholic Central High School all agree that their success is primarily due to CC's faculty. "It's definitely about the the education I've received since I was a freshman," said Adam Ralko of Livonia. "The faculty gave us a strong foundation. It made the test even easier." Ralko's high remarks for the faculty continued: "They are top-notch. Every teacher is always available, willing to help us with whatever we need to succeed. They're good about going beyond what's required." Fellow senior Nicholas Hnatiuk of Dearborn agreed, "The teaching here is of a higher caliber than what you would expect to find in high schools."

Another National Merit Scholar, Paul Hagan of Livonia, knows there is something special about Catholic Central. What does he think of being one of 31 Scholars? "Since there are so many of us, then they (CC faculty) must be doing something right," he said. "The faculty prepares us very well. It seems normal for us to perform at this level on tests."

Fr. Richard Ranalletti, CSB, principal, is proud of the students' success. "It's part of the tradition of this place," he said. "There is pride in this school.

This is the place to come to make things happen, where the kids can excel."

ARTISTIC EXPRESSIONS

LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Singers bear the message of hope, joy

Michael Gross is counting on the holiday season's message to draw a crowd for the 29th annual Plymouth Community Chorus concerts at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Nov. 30-Dec. 1 and 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2, at Northville High School.

Since the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, much of life has changed forever, but a few of our most treasured beliefs remain the same. All you have to do is listen as hundreds of singers proclaim the uplifting news throughout the land.

"As a world, I'm curious to see what the holiday season is going to be like this year," said Gross, a Canton resident and director of the 135-voice chorus. "I'm not sure how people are going to celebrate the season this year. It's important to remember the hope that came with Christmas. That's what I'm hoping the concert will instill in an audience."

The "Christmas Tapestry" program reminds us of all we hold dear.

"The concert opens with The Star Spangled Banner sung by a male quartet," said Scott Yamazaki, a chorus member since 1977. "It's called a tapestry because we're weaving together selections that are traditional holiday songs with pieces composed during the 1950s like Silver Bells, Merry Christmas Darling, and I'll Be Home for Christmas with more recent songs like Somewhere in My Memory from the film Home Alone, Jesus, Oh What a Wonderful Child and a calypso piece The Light Come Down. It's like the music you'd hear in Jamaica."

And part of the $10 ticket price goes to a scholarship fund for elementary, middle and high school students to encourage a career in the vocal arts.

Jazzy concerts

Ginny Lundquist is doing her part to bring cheer to audiences this holiday season by singing up a storm with three vocal groups - the Farmington Community Chorus and PRime vocal jazz, under director Steve SeGraves, and the Vocal Arts Ensemble of Michigan led by Charles Whitmore.

Lundquist and 84 other members of the Farmington Community Chorus perform at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Dec. 14-15, at Mercy High School, Farmington Hills. Guests on the program are the Motor City Brass. The chorus join the brass band for its holiday concert 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 16, at the Southfield Centre for the Arts.

"There's a variety of music we sing - traditional Christmas carols," said Lundquist of Commerce Township. "There's small acts and solos. Out in front of the chorus we have people dancing or acting with numbers. There's a comedy number but also classical, popular and jazz with Perfect Blend" of which Lundquist is also a member.

In the mood for something a little different? Past and present come together when PRime vocal jazz and the Vocal Arts Ensemble of Michigan present "An Olde Jazzy Christmas" 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2, at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Livonia.

PRime vocal jazz lets loose of traditional carols to sing everything from Cool Yule by Steve Allen to classical music such as the overture to the opera The Marriage of Figaro, while the Vocal Arts Ensemble of Michigan, composed of six male and six female singers dressed in Renaissance costume, perform madrigals, medieval carols and 14th- to 16th-century songs.

Community Choir

Shari Clason is especially excited about the setting for the first of two concerts by the Schoolcraft College Community Choir, under the direction of Gerald Custer. The concert begins at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 1, at Cathedral Church of St. Paul in Detroit. A part of the Noel Night celebration, which runs 6-9:30 p.m. in the University Cultural Center, the concert is free.

Holiday art gifts

Spend a little, spend a lot

Ruth Price knows exactly what she's buying her family and friends this year. On Friday morning Nov. 30, she'll join dozens of thoughtful gift givers in search of one-of-a-kind artworks in the annual two-day holiday show at the Village Potters Guild in Plymouth. A potter herself, Price and 15 members of the guild will sell a variety of wares they've made throughout the year.

Running out of ideas for holiday gifts? Price and guild potters Donna Williams and Carol Long offer plenty of suggestions. How about filling a plate with cookies and giving it to the hostess at the next party or dinner this holiday season? Carol Ashworth's platters, decked with sprigs of clay holly, are perfect. Or how about her canoe ornament for your favorite outdoorsman or woman? Ornaments make an inexpensive gift or stocking stuffer, which can be tailored to an individual's interests. How about one of Tom Holleman's cat or dog ornaments for a pet lover, or a couple of his fish-shaped tiles to hang up in the bathroom, or a starfish, sea horse, deer or outdoor scenes including tall ships? Designed to look like a piglet, a covered jar by Leshe Greenesen, makes a whimsical gift fit to hold treats, for human or beast.

Prices in the show range from $4 to $300, but most cost between $5 and $20.

"Children buy for their teachers," said Price, show chairwoman. "Because it's really from your heart, it's a special gift."

Put some thought into whatever you give and it will be treasured for a lifetime. Ask yourself, what makes that person special, what does he or she cherish? Long's wheel-thrown bowls and vases reign supreme with Christians and Jews. Known for her carving into clay style, Long creates Seder and Blessings cups, Rosary cups with Mary and Baby Jesus, crosses, and a framed tile of Mary and Jesus surrounded by angels.

Cooks will love Price's sushi dish with curlicues for holding serving utensils. Know someone who feeds the birds? How about Price's bird bath, or tiles in the shape of stars that deliver a message of joy. That's a gift anyone would appreciate.

"People come and buy for all year-round for wedding gifts, casserole dishes for everyday, not just for the holidays," said Long.

"People can always use a plate to hold fruit on the counter, or a dish to put a vegetable in the oven then serve it," said Williams who brings sculptural and functional work to the show including covered jars. Williams will be in a four-woman clay show in the Livonia Civic Center Library Fine Arts Gallery in December.

"All of the glazes we use are food safe, no lead."

Buy American

Annette Horn says since the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, she's seen an increase in purchases that bring comfort and joy. At Native West she sells both all year long. Looking for a gift with a history, her Native American jewelry, home accessories, art (including black-and-white vintage photographs of chiefs and children), tell a story of the original people of the land. Their storyteller dolls, jewelry, ornaments in the shape of horses, moose and chili peppers, are all available here.

A dreamcatcher will trap all those bad dreams in its web. Carved from stone, a fetish in the shape of the bear will bring strength to the owner. Another of a lizard helps one persevere through the toughest of times. A wall mask made from a gourd and feathers adds vibrancy to a room.

"What I'm seeing is that people are looking for bright, colorful things," said Horn, co-owner with her husband, Ken. "Color makes you happy. With what has been going on in everyone's life since Sept. 11, they want to bring that happiness back. People want to be good to themselves. That's the case every year but more so this year."

"People are getting back to their roots. They want to buy things that are made in America - Pendleton blankets and throws, things that will help keep you warm and cozy. These were originally trade blankets made to trade with Native Americans. Natives loved to wear them during ceremonies."

In the background, Alice Gomez's compact disc, While the Eagle Sleeps Night Songs and Lullabies of the Native American Flute, sends out a soothing stream of sound. Music is one of Horn's favorite gift ideas, especially CDs by Gomez, who was in town recently for a performance of one of her compositions by the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, and a drumming workshop at Native West.

While the audience won't have any problem listening, Chinn and Brings will be put through their paces. Even though they've played together since college - he as a graduate student at Columbia University, she as an undergrad - four-hand piano requires timing and talent.

Pianists prove 4 hands are better than 2

Genevieve Chinn won't say exactly when she first played Allen Brings' Passacaglia, Interlude and Fugue for four-hands, but it's a day she will treasure for the rest of her life. The composition eventually brought the two pianists together as husband and wife.

They will perform the piece, along with music by Schubert and Dvorak, at 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 1, as part of the Vivace Series at Birmingham Temple in Farmington Hills.

"It was written for organ and rearranged for piano," said Chinn in a phone interview from the couple's Conn home. "It's a marvelously inventive piece, easy for the audience to follow."

While the audience won't have any problem listening, Chinn and Brings will be put through their paces. Even though they've played together since college - he as a graduate student at Columbia University, she as an undergrad - four-hand piano requires timing and talent.

"Her music is very relaxing. It puts you in a different frame of mind," said Horn. "And studies have shown drumming is healthy. I'm getting a drum this year for Christmas. It's a great tension reliever. You're concentrating on the beat, deviating from the world, you're focused on the drumming, not on how bad of a day you've had."

While a hand-painted drum is not a traditional gift, "jewelry is always a safe and well-received one." During Native West's annual Art & Jewelry Festival Nov. 29-Dec. 2 there will be plenty to choose from. Albuquerque trader Jonathon Cox brings enough jewelry, bracelets and rings to fill tables and tables. Price ranges fit everyone's budget, from $4 for a pair of earrings to hundreds of dollars for gold jewelry inlaid with turquoise or any number of stones.

Guild Art Fair

Still need to buy for a few people on your list who have everything? Plymouth painter Tom LeGault has the solution. In addition to 127 artists showing a variety of items at the 31st annual Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans Holiday Art Fair Dec. 8-9 at Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills, he's offering downsized paintings, 2-feet by 2-feet square, at reduced prices ($150 to $250). His northern Michigan scenes, everything from impressionistic sailboats to realistic light houses, recently sold well at a Chicago show, much to his surprise.

"It's easier for people to place them," said LeGault, who's exhibited in the other guild show - the Ann Arbor Summer Art Fair - since the early 1970s. "It's unrealistic to give a large painting as a gift. Where do they place it? These are small enough so it's not overpowering. Customers like the idea they can find accent pieces or team up a couple of paintings on a wall."

"Older people already have everything," so these are perfect. I find people are buying for grandma and grandpa. They know grandpa likes his light-

Luke Price, LeGault is buying a lot of gifts for his family and friends at the show he's exhibiting in

"I bought a lot of Christmas gifts last time," said LeGault. "It's a very-high-caliber show, a nice mix of art, a well-balanced show."

Both hold doctorates, he in theory and composition from Boston University, she in musicology from Columbia University. She made her debut as a pianist at age 8 with Leopold Stokowski and the NBC Symphony Orchestra. He's noted as a composer as well as a pianist. Both teach music, he at Aaron Copeland School of Music at Queens College in New York, she at C.W. Post campus of Long Island University. And both give concerts, as soloists and as a duo, here and abroad. Last summer they performed in Switzerland then went on to the Czech Republic to hear the Moravian Symphony perform and record Brnigs' Scherzi Musicale.

"It takes a lifetime of practice, years to get as where you really think as one," said Chinn. "It's always interesting to see the give and take between musicians - and at one piano it's even more important. The repertoire is not too often performed. Much of what we play is original or transcribed for four hands.

"Schubert's Fantasy in F minor - we've been playing it a long time. It's one of the masterpieces by Schubert and requires long-standing practice. It's extremely dramatic with subtle transformations. Dvorak's Slavonic Dances is the benchmark of piano four-hand, tremendously popular in the 19th century and continues to be so."

Chinn won't say how long they've been playing the Schubert or performing together. But it must be a long time. They share a daughter, Keira Brings, who is a television producer in Calif.

"I never tire of performing four hand," said Chinn. "It's always interesting and fun. I equate it to figure skating. Both have to be one, and both have to catch."

ing the streets. Horse-drawn carriage rides, food and family activities, including making ornaments, dipping candles and decorating cookies, add to the festivities. Reindeer, stabled at the Detroit Science Center, make it seem as if Santa is just about ready to hook up his sleigh.

"It's most special because it's an absolute glamorous building to sing in. The organ is fabulous, and Noel Night is an exciting experience," said Clason, president of the choir. "This is our third year in Noel Night. It's nice to be part of the whole cultural center with people walking around down there at night."

Besides carol and Hallelujah Chorus sing-alongs, the program tells the Christmas story from beginning to end. If you miss Noel Night, there's still an opportunity to hear the Schoolcraft Community College Choir at 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 9, at St. Matthew's United Methodist Church in Livonia. Donations will be accepted during intermission.

Composed of college students and community members, the choir focuses on classical music. The 50-voice group will sing seasonal selections including music by Bach, Britten, and, of course, Handel's Messiah.

one's spirit when the choir presents a winter concert at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 1, at Faith Lutheran Church in Livonia.

Graham's 13-year-old daughter, Jaclyn, has been singing with the 48-member choir several years and he never tires of the sound. This year the young singers perform traditional and winter songs as well as a Hebrew selection.

"It's light fare, upbeat with traditional Christmas carols," said Graham, a Livonia resident. "They sing with so much energy."

And hope for a brighter future.

Christmas opera: Trevor Roberts and Connie Randall star in "Amahl and the Night Visitors"

Author will sign Christmas book

Borders Books and Music in Novi Town Center will welcome author Donna VanLiere for a discussion and signing of The Christmas Shoes and the band NewSong for an in-store performance of their hit single The Christmas Shoes. The program will begin at 2 p.m. Dec. 1.

When the song The Christmas Shoes was released last Thanksgiving by NewSong, the store instantly brought a flood of listener responses to radio stations that played it across the country, and it quickly shot to number one on the Billboard charts.

The Christmas Shoes is a novella based on the story of a man who rediscovers the true meaning of Christmas, and his family, with the help of a child. Author Donna VanLiere, whose previous books include Sheltering Trees, The Power Promise and Refuge of Friendship, says she wrote the book as a tale of our shared humanity, of the deeper meaning of serendipity, and how a power greater than ourselves can shape, and even save, our lives. She is also, coincidentally, married to the manager of NewSong, Troy VanLiere.

Donna and NewSong will share with the audience the story of the song, how it came to be included at the last minute on NewSong's 2000 release Sheltering Trees, and how Donna came to write the novella based on it. In the same vein as It's a Wonderful Life, and Miracle on 34th Street, The Christmas Shoes is truly an example of the power of human connection, as Donna will explain.

This event is free and open to the public. Borders Novi is located in the Novi Town Center, 43075 Crescent Boulevard, Novi.

"White Gold" found in them thar Michigan ski hills!

Michigan Ski Industries Association makes it possible to ski at 24 areas for $149

For the eighth winter the Michigan Ski Industries Association (MSIA) has produced a card that allows you to ski at 24 different ski areas for $149. Called the MSIA White Gold Card, purchasers are entitled to ski one time at each of the participating ski areas across the state during the 2001/2002 ski season. Purchasers are also entitled to one free ski tune up (edge sharpen and wax) at participating MSIA ski retailers.

The White Gold Card is an exceptional value," says Steve Kershner, president of the MSIA and director of skiing for Shanty Creek in Bellare. "If you paid for a lift ticket at each of these ski areas and brought your skis in for a tune up, you would be spending about $720.

The card looks like a credit card divided into 25 squares. Each ski area is assigned to a square and one square is designated for the ski tune up. The purchaser takes the White Gold Card to the ski area's lift ticket window where the square corresponding to that ski area is punched out. White Gold Card skiers are allowed to ski one time at each ski area midweek or weekend. The card is valid for the entire ski season, except for December 25, 2001 through January 2, 2002. The cards are non-refundable and non-transferable. To get the tune up, White Gold Card purchasers take their skis to one of 40 participating ski shops across the state.

MSIA developed the White Gold Card as a fundraising endeavor and limits its production to 400 cards. "We've found from past years sales that they go quickly," says Kershner. He suggests that anyone interested in purchasing a card should do so as soon as possible.

To add a little excitement, MSIA has also created a challenge for White Gold Card participants. The first person to use the White Gold Card at all 24 Michigan ski areas will win a card for the 2002/2003 ski season," Kershner announced. He added that MSIA is hosting the challenge to encourage skiers to try all the great slopes in Michigan. To win White Gold Card holders must ski at all the ski areas then send MSIA their punched out White Gold Card accompanied by a used lift ticket from each of the ski areas.

Participating ski areas include: Alpine Valley in White Lake; Apple Mountain in Freeland; Bittersweet in Oshtemo; Blackjack Ski Resort in Essesmer; Boyne Highlands in Harbor Springs; Boyne Mountain in Boyne Falls; Cannonsburg Ski Area in Cannonsburg; Cross Country Ski Headquarters in Roscommon; Crystal Mountain in Thompsonville; The Homestead in Glen Arbor; Indianhead in Wakefield; Mt. Bohemia in Lac La Pells; Mt. Brighton in Brighton; Mt. White Gold Cards will be sold at participating MSIA ski shops in November and December while supplies last. Metro Detroit area MSIA shops offering the cards are: Boyne Country Sports locations in Bloomfield Hills; Nov. Mt. Clemens; Grosse Pointe Woods and Dearborn Heights; Don Thomas Sporthaus in Bloomfield Hills; Nichols Ski & Patio in Dearborn; Waterford and Schummer's Ski Shop in Grosse Pointe Woods. They will also be available through the MSIA offices with a printable order form available on the internet at www.goskimichigan.com. For more information call MSIA at (248) 620-4443.

Holiday shopping guide

Malls make it easier

Unfortunately, holiday shopping can be an unpleasant experience, so local malls do what they can do to ease discomfort and make the process more enjoyable.

Special services include designated relaxation areas, valet parking, gift-wrapping, bag check, complimentary snacks and gifts.

"It's an acknowledgment that the whole season can kind of be stressful, but it doesn't have to be or it can be lessened," said Somerset Collection Spokesman Ed Nakfoor of the trend.

At Somerset, for instance, tired shoppers are offered coffee, cookies and hot cider in the center's South Rotunda during the holiday season. Shoppers can also sit back in leather chairs there while waiting for packages to be wrapped.

New this year at the Troy mall is Holiday Indulgence, a hotel-and-shopping program set up with the Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn.

The program enables shoppers to approach holiday gift-buying as a sort of vacation. Patrons check in to the Ritz-Carlton and are shuttled to the Somerset Collection for a day of shopping. When they return, they can relax in their room, have dinner and kick back.

"What a great way to have a reunion with a sibling or your best girlfriend or your mom or aunt," said Nakfoor. "It builds on the theme of pampering during the holidays. And, it reaches out to a larger part of the metro area."

Newlyweds fall for romance of British Virgin Islands

The Arnolds weren't the first newlyweds to run their toes through the sun-warmed sand on the private beach at the Fort Recovery Estates on the British Virgin Island of Tortola, and they won't be the last.

In two short days Jamie Hegwood's life had changed forever. She left the steps of the Garden City home where she grew up one Saturday, and by Monday she was Mrs. Nate Arnold, and found herself bumping along one of the "good" roads winding its way around the hilly coastline with her new husband.

The Arnolds enjoyed the relaxed atmosphere and the slow pace of this Caribbean paradise. They also appreciated the chance to explore the island on their own.

Even before landing on Beef Island (connected to Tortola, and the only place flat enough to land) they got a taste of Caribbean hospitality.

"The pilot flew us all around the island, giving us a look at it," said Jamie.

Once their plane landed, they were greeted by a hot, humid breeze, and lots of chickens

"There were chickens running around everywhere," said Nate "and you could really smell the salty sea air."

The first thing the Arnolds did was to settle into their villa "It was very romantic," said Jamie. "There were beautiful sunsets every night. Our resort was secluded and we had our own private beach. The islands are very green and lush, surrounded by blue waters and palm trees. It's a tropical place, with little lizards running everywhere. There was one in our room when we got there," she laughed.

Although there are not crowds of people on Tortola, there is plenty to do. "There are beaches, of course, hiking, parasailing, swimming, sailing, scuba diving and snorkeling too," said Jamie.

Smuggler's Cove was the couple's favorite attraction. "It's a secluded beach on the other side of the island," said Jamie. "There are lots of great restaurants on Tortola and on the smaller islands too," said Jamie, who included trips to the island's quaint shops as definite "to-do" activities. The "Sunny Carb" was one she liked, she said. "It's a spice shop where they mix up their own spices for meat rubs and other things."

The couple made a point to recommend a snorkeling trip to anyone visiting the Islands, particularly at a popular spot called "the Indians," which are tall rock formations that jut out of the warm Caribbean water.

The Honeymooners extended their seven-day vacation package to take a three day cruise to surrounding islands including Virgin Gorda and Norman Island. "It was a lot of fun, but really hot," said Jamie. On Virgin Gorda the Arnolds enjoyed the "Baths," which are huge boulders deposited by a volcano, making mammoth caves and easy-to-access trails. "The boulders were so big, you felt miniature," said Nate.

Jamie's favorite dining spot was on Virgin Gorda, at a place called Mad Dog's. It sits on top of a hill and overlooks the island. "It was all open air, with a nice breeze blowing—I loved it," she said.

Here are a few traveling tips. Bring your birth certificate and photo identification. It's about a six hour flight from Michigan and the busy season is from December to April. It's hot, humid and windy, so take plenty of sun block. Plan on renting a vehicle, and "you can't be afraid to drive on little teeny, one-lane-looking roads," said Nate. "And, you'll have to watch for the cows, goats, chickens and speed bumps."

The water is safe to drink and the food is similar to what we eat in the states, with one big exception: no fast food. The local women wear dresses, and the men wear shirts and casual pants or shorts.

A DIFFERENT REASON EVERY SEASON

FOCUS ON WINE

RAY & ELEANOR HEALD

Innovation marks Ceretto wines from Piedmont region of Italy

Mention of Italy's Piedmont region conjures up tastes of robust red wines such as Barbaresco and Barolo, both made from the nebbiolo grape. Mention also brings to mind Ceretto, the region's innovative producer.

Why Ceretto? To answer this, let's step back in time about 30 years when the Ceretto brothers Bruno and Marcello became the source of Piedmont winemaking innovations. Back then they were the first to introduce stainless steel tanks for fermentation of red wines. They pioneered what is now considered the modern style of Barbaresco and Barolo featuring shorter maceration time and less wood aging.

WINE PICKS

Italian wines are experiencing a hey day. Yes, some are expensive, but you'll find terrific values among the following:

- Red wines
- 1998 Monte Verme Riserva $67,
- 1995 La Gerta Brunello di Montalcino $50,
- 1996 Speri Amaroni $47,
- 1998 Biondi Santi Sassoaloro $37, 1997 Montosanto Chianti Classico Riserva $25, 1997 Capezzana Carmignano $22, 1997 Montaribal di Barbera d'Alba $19, and 2000 Capezzana Barco Reale $15 (a real deal)
- White wines
- 2000 Jermann Pinot Grigio $30 and 1999 Santa Anastasia Zuffica (from Sicily) $11 (very dry and crisp)

Long macerations exaggerated naturally high acidity and made tannic wines that took 10 to 20 years to achieve optimal drinking. Shorter macerations created wines with better balance that age well and are more enjoyable at an earlier age.

Additionally the Cerettos introduced the first single vineyard Barolo and planted the Piedmont's first multi-French variety vineyard. Along with the French grape varieties, Ceretto developed a French chateau style of winemaking establishing a different winery for each style of wine made from 250 acres of estate vineyards.

As expected from a top quality producer, Ceretto's single vineyard wines are produced only in the best years. In the decade of the 1990s, the best vintages are 1996, 1997, and 1999. If you wish to cellar some Ceretto red wines, it's good to remember this:

New generation

Ceretto continues as a family operation. At age 24, Federico Ceretto is now following his father Bruno's footsteps in worldwide sales and marketing.

His 25-year-old cousin Alessandro Marcello's son has assumed the role of his father as winemaker. At age 29, Federico's sister Roberta is in charge of public relations and Alessandro's sister Lisa serves as company administrator.

Sampling Ceretto wines recently with Federico during dinner at Fonte d'Amore in Livonia, we experienced the vibrant energy of young wines and the enthusiasm of a new generation settling comfortably into roles within a family business.

"With the 1998 vintage," said Federico, "my generation has launched a new Ceretto wine called Monsordo Rosso ($39). It is our first blend of cabernet sauvignon, syrah, pinot noir, nebbiolo, and merlot. As a blend of French varieties and nebbiolo, all vinified separately, it is a new age concept for the Piedmont, making the statement that the Cerettos are continuing their innovations with the new generation."

Served with meat ravioli with roasted demi-glace prepared by Fonte d'Amore's chef/owner Luciano del Sig.

THE MAGIC OF OLIVE OIL

By Renée Skoglund • Staff Writer

From the sun-drenched orchards of the Mediterranean comes one of nature's perfect foods, the olive. And from the olive comes one of man's greatest culinary creations, olive oil.

"Besides being polyunsaturated and good for you, it's one of the best foods in the world," said Chef Bob Gascogne of Ernesto's restaurant in Plymouth. "It is amazing the flavor you get out of olive oil. There is no substitute in my book."

Olive oil is one of the world's oldest foods. According to A Guide to Good Olive Oil, written by Ari Weinzwieg, owner of Zingerman's in Ann Arbor, a carrier of select oils, olive oil was first cultivated in the Eastern Mediterranean about 6,000 years ago.

Leave it to the industrious Greeks to have raised the oil to new commercial and culinary heights, followed by the Romans whose cooking culture—at least for Americans—remains most associated with the golden-green liquid.

Today, olive trees are grown in many places where sun and soil marry in harmony—from South America to Mexico to the California Coast. Zingerman's even carries an olive oil from New Zealand.

"Unless you are in New Zealand, there is no other place to get this olive oil," said Todd Wickstrom, a managing partner at Zingerman's. "We got some in last year and loved it. It sold so well we bought the entire harvest."

Taste

The taste of olive oil is influenced by many factors: soil, climate, variety of olive, vintage, harvest time and method of process, such as "cold pressing," which uses stone wheels and generates no heat. In addition, each growing region—Tuscany in Italy, Catalonia in Spain and Provence in France, to name three—imparts its own flavor characteristics.

Choosing a good olive oil is simple. Taste a few, and pick the one you like. But taste often, said Weinzwieg. "Anybody who is interested in learning about olive oils can taste the difference. If you don't taste regularly, you don't have enough taste memory."

If you're an olive oil neophyte, keep in mind that the traditional Mediterranean oils have a stronger flavor than seed oils, such as corn and soy. Newly pressed oils especially have a more peppery or bitter finish, a good trait in moderation but bad if overpowering. These oils are sometimes referred to as "one or two cough oils." After the oil has slipped past your palate and hits the back of your throat, you cough.

As olive oils mature, they soften. Chef Marco Conte, owner of Marco's Restaurant in downtown Farmington, prefers the mellow, buttery taste of a mature olive oil that enhances rather than overwhelms a dish like grilled eggplant, roasted peppers or a delicate tomato basil salad. The newer, more peppery oils are best left for heartier fare, such as grilled lamb chops.

Conte has his favorites, San Giuliano and Olio d'Gaeta, both extra-virgin, cold-pressed and Italian, of course. About the San Giuliano, he said, "It's absolutely wonderful." The Gaeta is named after his father's birthplace near Rome. "It's a classic olive oil, not too bitter, not too buttery. It's right in the middle. It doesn't overpower. It just adds flavor."

While color is not always the prime indicator of taste, the greener oils do tend to be fruitier and full-flavored, said Weinzwieg. He warns that there are ways for processors to make low-grade, flavorless oil greener in color. Just throw in some olive leaves during pressing and the chlorophyll in the leaves imparts color but not flavor.

Grade

The term "extra virgin" has nothing to do with an olive's behavior, nor is it a redundant term. "Extra virgin" refers to a grade of olive oil, usually indicating the highest quality. Extra virgin olive oils are naturally low in levels of free oleic acid, less than 1 percent.

The higher the free acid level, the lower the grade of olive oil, writes Weinzwieg. "Virgin" olive oil has two to three times the free acid of an extra virgin oil. "Pure" olive oil—the chemically refined stuff they sell at the supermarket—is the lowest grade, with the most free acid and by far the least flavor.

Once again, Weinzwieg issues a warning. In today's high-tech world, it is possible to chemically remove or reduce free acidity from low-grade oils to get an "extra virgin" classification. The antidote is simple, he said: "Buy from a reputable olive oil seller and taste before you buy."

Chefs agree you don't have to use a $57 bottle of Moulin de Bedarrides from Provence (available at Zingerman's) for sauteing onions and garlic. Chef Gascogne uses Colavita and Chef Conte prefers Filipe Barro, both extra virgin oils, but quite affordable. The higher-priced oils are used for imparting flavor and for dipping breads.

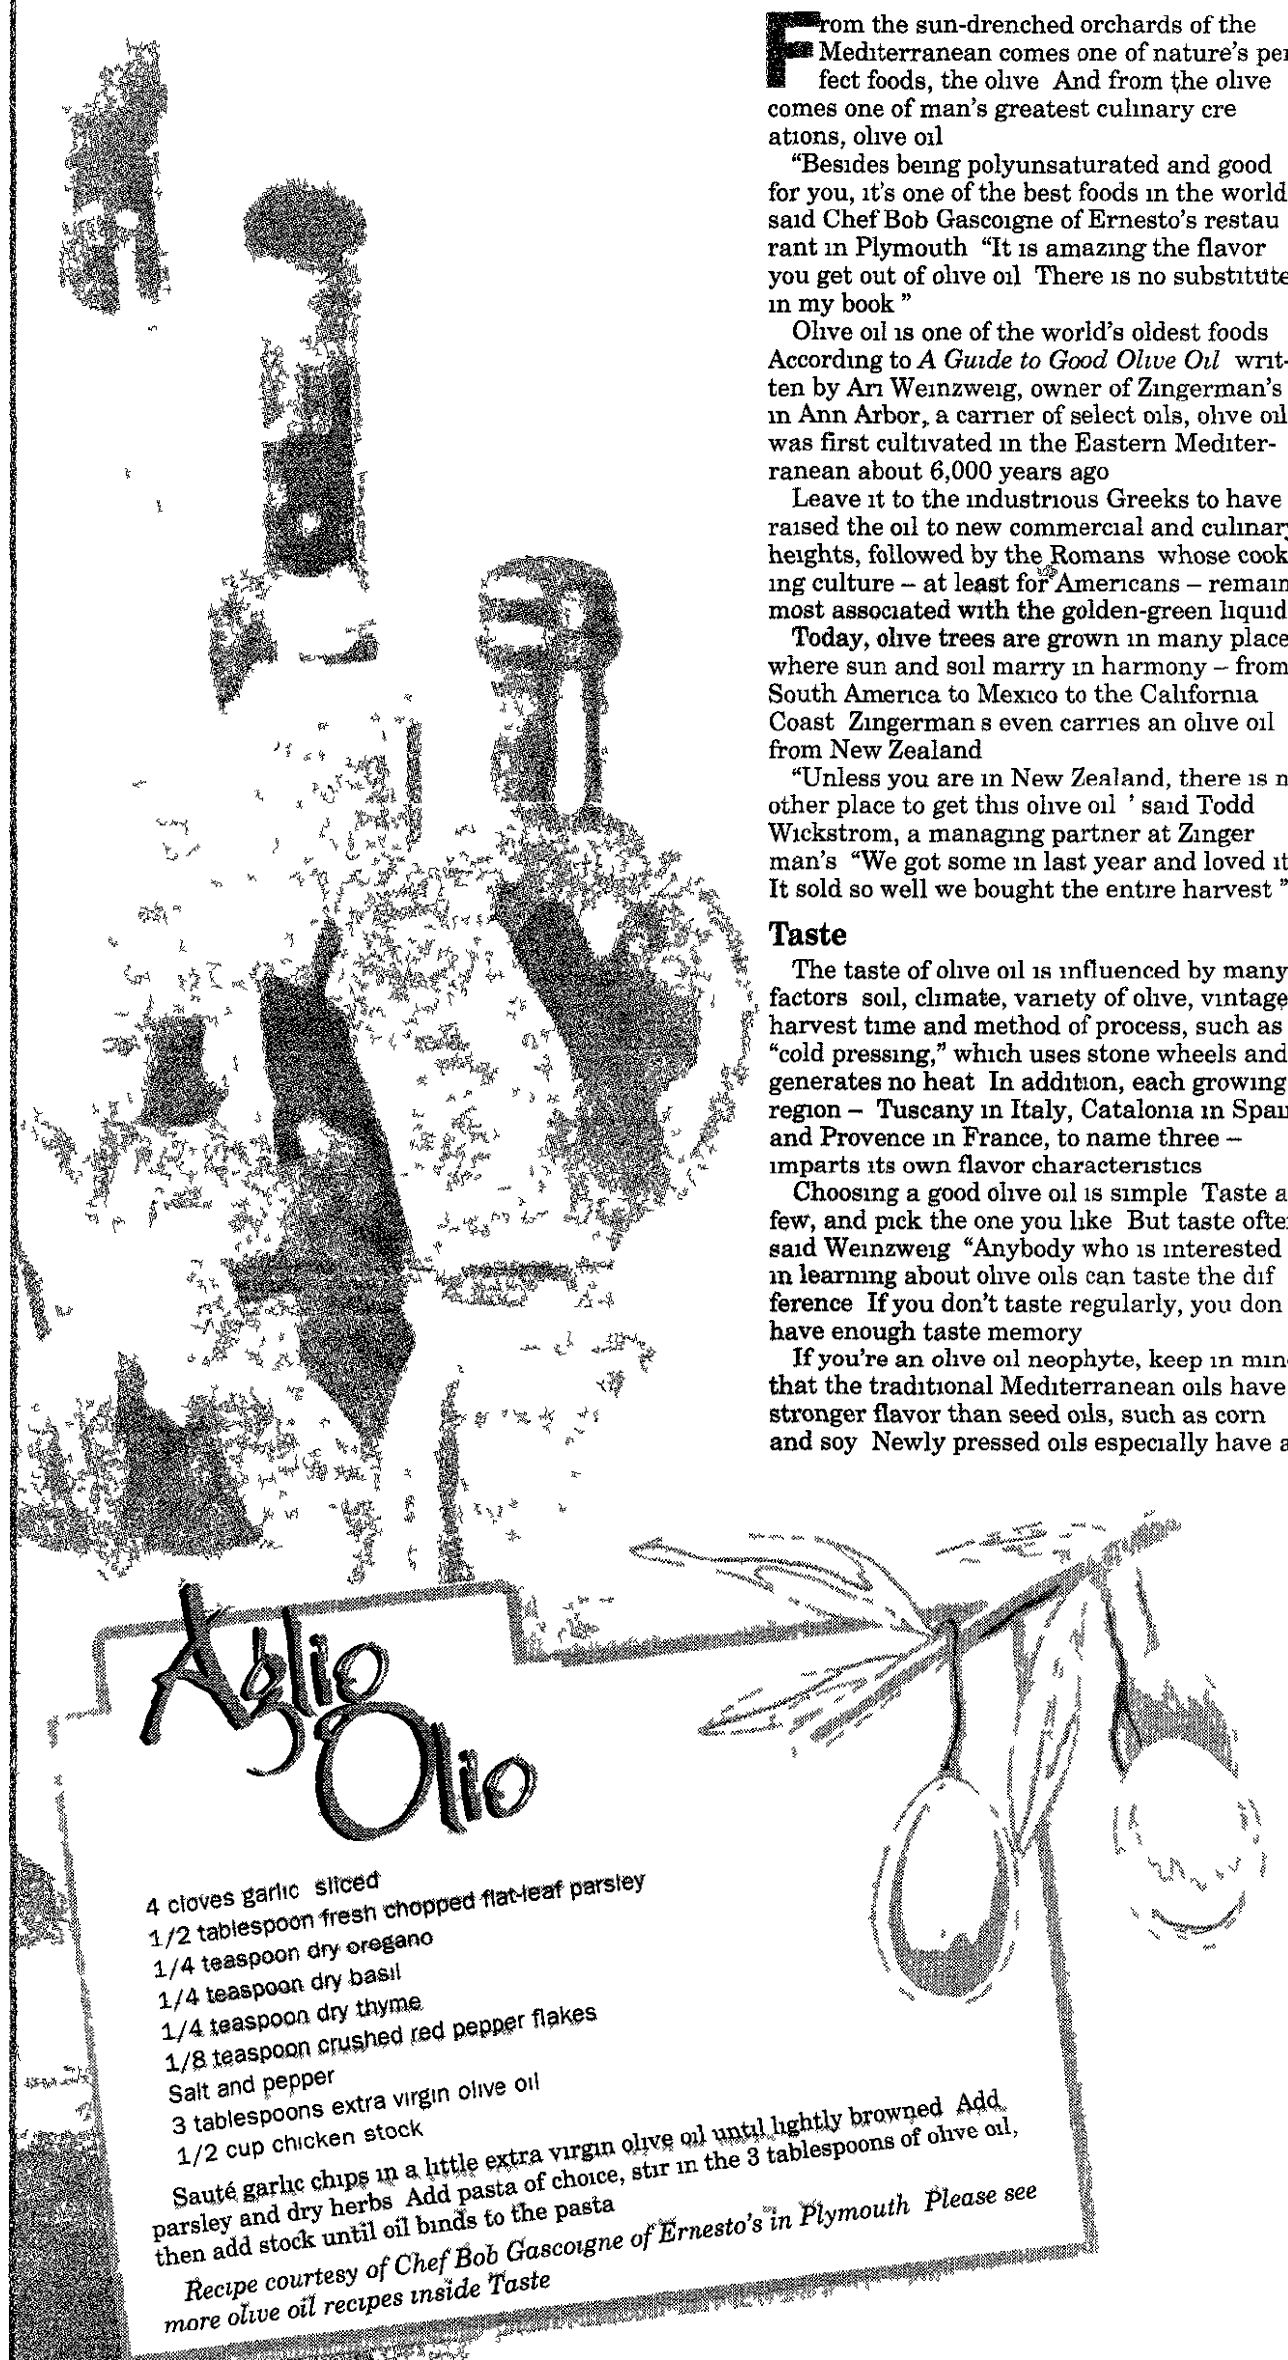

Storing

Unlike wine, olive oil does not age well. A peppery oil might mellow a bit after a few months, but olive oil goes bad after a few years even under the best storage conditions. Extra virgin oil can be stored in a cool, dark place for up to a year after opening, said Weinzwieg. Just keep it away from window sills and stove sides.

Storage in the refrigerator is fine, but the oil will turn solid and opaque and must be warmed up before using.

Because it's so low in free acidity, extra virgin olive oil is less likely to go rancid than lower-grade oils. But, as your knowledge and appreciation of olive oil grows, it is unlikely a bottle of luxurious extra-virgin, cold-pressed olive oil will last a year.

And price? Forget about it, said Weinzwieg. "You can easily spend that on a good bottle of wine, and then it's gone."

Take a taste tour of olive oil at Zingerman's

The olive oils at Zingerman's in Ann Arbor represent a continuum of taste, from light and buttery to spicy and peppery and everything in between.

"The ones we really like taste like olives," said Todd Wickstrom, managing partner.

Zingerman's specializes in oils from smaller growers, who harvest, crush and bottle the oil at the same location. Such oils are known as "single estate" oils and are invested with human passion. Zingerman's also carries a few flavor-infused oils, such as Limonato from Italy, which owner Ari Weinzwieg describes as the "oil of angels."

However, most of their olive oils are of such a high quality they can stand alone. Staff member Allison Schraf provides this taste tour.

I Lecci – This light golden oil comes from the Lake Garda region near the Alps in northern Italy, which is not generally known for its olive oil. The harvest is small, and Zingerman's buys one half of it, a few thousand liters. The taste is buttery, with some interesting fruity flavors. Priced at $44.99.

This is what we would call a light and elegant oil. It has plenty of flavor, but is not aggressive," said Schraf.

Nicolas Alziari – Fewer than 10 percent of the world's olive oil production comes from France. The golden-green Nicolas Alziari is one of the finest. It has a more olivety, heavier mouth feel. Priced $29.99.

"It took us 10 years to get this in the store," said Schraf. "We had to convince them that we will respect the food. Almost everybody will like this olive oil."

Maussane – Another fine olive oil from Provence, France, Maussane has a serious cult following. It is greener than other oils, with a long flavor profile, more enduring mouth feel, and a very complex, longer finish, said Schraf. Maussane starts with a grassy taste followed by a fruitiness or nuttiness, then ends with a peppery finish. Priced at $50.99 for a liter, $28.99 for a half liter.

"If you love olives, this is your olive oil. It's all about sun-drenched olives," said Schraf.

Mariano's – This unfiltered olive oil comes from central western Spain, where its producer is very involved in the traditional food movement. It has a grassy apple taste that personifies spring. Zingerman's buys the entire harvest. Priced at $29.99.

"The cloudy sediment on the bottom is a good thing. This oil is not overly processed," said Schraf.

Castello della Paneretta – Produced near Florence, Italy, this single grove produced soil has been described as "assertive but smooth, followed by a peppery kick." It is full-flavored and deep green with golden highlights. Priced at $24.99 for 500 ml.

"It can grab you," said Schraf.

San Vito – A deep gold oil, San Vito is produced in the Marche region. It has a stronger, more peppery finish that could stand up to strong greens, such as arugula, radicchio and escarole, or sit nicely on top of a hearty bowl of minestrone. Priced at $29.99 for 750 ml.

"This is a stop and take notice oil," said Schraf. Zingerman's is located at 422 Detroit Street, Ann Arbor (734) 663-9304.

Wine from D1

more, Monsordo with its modern, international flair showcased juicy, plump, exuberant red fruits, topped with vanilla oak touches in a lengthy finish

The 1998 Ceretto Asy Barbaresco ($44) has a bright concentration of cherries, plums, and red currants. While the vintage does not rank at the top in the 1990s, it's drinking superbly now and will age well.

For Barolo, the Piedmont's renowned and expensive wine, Ceretto offers several choices. The 1996 Zonchera Barolo ($44) has blackberry fruit with nuances of anise and mushrooms. With good grip, this more affordable Barolo is excellent with long-cooked meat dishes. At $68, both the 1995 Bracco Rocche Brunate Barolo and Bracco Rocche Prapo Barolo illustrate the differences created by vineyard site. Prapo is a blockbuster while Brunate is about elegance and less power. Brunate from 1997 at $83 is a rich, generous, warm and welcoming wine from an outstanding vintage.

Although Ceretto is known for its red wines, the full, yet crisp 2000 Arneis Blange ($22) proved to be a rich and delightful white wine to accompany veal with tuna sauce. A dazzling finish to any meal is the low-alcohol, off-dry 2000 Ceretto Moscato d'Asti "Santo Stefano."

SPAGHETTI WITH ARUGULA, OLIVE OIL AND HOT PEPPERS

- 1 pound fresh young arugula leaves washed large stems removed then cut in half
- 1 pound top quality spaghetti such as Martelli
- 1/4 cup full flavored extra virgin olive oil
- 4 cloves garlic cut in half
- 1 small onion coarsely chopped
- Red pepper flakes to taste
- 1 tablespoon sea salt
- 1 tablespoon pine nuts light

- ly toasted
- Grated Pecorino Romano cheese
- Salt and pepper to taste

Bring a large pot of water to a boil. Add the salt and spaghetti, stir well and cook until the pasta is almost al dente. Meanwhile, slowly sauté garlic in oil, taking care not to burn the oil. Add the onion and saute until golden brown. Add the hot pepper flakes and cook for a minute or two. Remove the garlic.

When the pasta is almost al dente, drain it. Add the arugula leaves and pine nuts to the sauté pan and toss quickly so that the arugula wilts slightly. Add the pasta. Add some grated cheese and toss well.

Serve in heated bowls, finished with an added ribbon of olive oil on top. Pass extra red pepper flakes for those who like the added heat.

Recipe from Zangerman's A Guide to Good Olive Oil, by Ari Weinzwieg

FETTUCINE WITH FRESH TUNA, LEMONS, CAPERS AND OLIVES

- 1 pound top quality fettuccine or other pasta
- 1/4 cup extra virgin olive oil
- 2 cloves fresh garlic peeled and chopped fine
- 1 fresh lemon quartered and thinly sliced (Use a Meyer lemon if you can. It's very thin skinned, juicy and delicious.)
- 24 black olives (not the canned California kind), pitted and coarsely chopped
- 2 tablespoons capers
- 2 anchovy filets an optional addition that brings extra depth of flavor to the dish
- 1 pound fresh tuna cut into 1 inch cubes
- 3 tablespoons Italian parsley, coarsely chopped

- Sea salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste

Bring a large pot of water to a boil. Add a tablespoon of salt and then the pasta. Stir gently and continue cooking until the pasta is al dente.

For the sauce: Heat the olive oil in a large sauté pan. Add the garlic and cook gently for a few minutes. Add the lemon, capers and olives and anchovy and cook for a minute or two. Add the tuna and cook for another two to three minutes. Don't overcook the fish. It should be rare to medium-rare in the center.

When the pasta is nearly al dente, drain and add it to the sauce. Add the parsley, toss well and served in heated bowls. If you like, add an extra blessing of olive oil at the table. Italians normally wouldn't serve this dish with grated Parmigiano-Reggiano, but you can if you like.

Keeping fit with some fabulous fall soups

When the weather turns brisk, there's nothing cozier than a big bowl of hot soup

Autumn is the perfect time to warm the kitchen with stove-cooked soups made with the season's harvest of squashes, pumpkin, cabbage and root vegetables. Hearty, homemade soups need little monitoring while they slowly simmer, leaving the cook free for other activities. The payoff comes at serving time, when the taste of homemade beats out commercial soups every time.

One benefit of soups comes to light when they are used as starters to meals. They are filling as well as nutritious, so they help to cut down portion sizes, and calories, of most entrées.

Want a marvelous-tasting soup that's simple yet elegant? While baking butternut squash or steaming it in the microwave, sauté a mixture of onions and celery. Place cooked squash and sautéed vegetables in a blender with low-fat milk and purée, in small batches if necessary. Season with lemon juice and a pinch each of allspice, cumin, salt and pepper.

When you don't have time to cook from scratch, jump-start your soup by using canned soup for a base. To a can of condensed tomato soup and a can of chicken broth, add a package of frozen spinach, a pinch each of basil, oregano and thyme. Simmer until spinach is tender and add salt and pepper to taste. Top with grated low-fat cheese and serve. For a heartier version, toss in chopped cabbage, green pepper, zucchini, carrots, or potatoes along with the spinach.

Stir up some pumpkin soup. In a blender, combine a 15-ounce can of unsweetened pumpkin puree with one-third cup of peanut butter and two cups of chicken stock. Puree until smooth, transfer to a saucepan and simmer over medium heat about 15 minutes, until hot and creamy. Stir in one-fourth cup of green onions, reheat until bubbly, then serve.

This hearty soup makes use of many vegetables, with a handful of whole-grain oats for extra nutrition as well as heartiness.

- 1/2 tsp sugar
- 1 bay leaf
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste

CABBAGE AND TOMATO SOUP

- 1 Tbsp canola oil
- 2 medium onions chopped
- 1 medium carrot grated
- 1 medium leek white part only chopped
- 1 head cabbage quartered and sliced crosswise into 1/2 inch strips about 6 cups
- 1 can (15 oz) diced tomatoes with liquid
- 4 cups vegetable stock or canned broth
- 1/2 cup old-fashioned rolled oats or steel cut type
- 1/2 1 tsp dried thyme as desired

In a large Dutch oven or saucepan, heat oil over medium high heat. Add onion, carrot and leek and stir to coat with the oil. Cover pot tightly, reduce heat to medium low and cook 10 minutes. Mix in cabbage, cover pot and cook another 10 minutes, until cabbage is wilted.

Stir in tomatoes, stock, oatmeal, thyme, sugar and bay leaf. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Bring to boil, reduce heat to simmer and cook, uncovered, until oatmeal is cooked and cabbage is tender, about 20 minutes if using rolled oats (30 minutes for steel cut oats).

Serve immediately. Store unused soup in refrigerator. Chilled soup will absorb liquid, so add more broth as needed when reheating. Makes 6 servings.

Paella proves rich dishes are good for soul

BY J.M. HIRSCH
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Miyoko Nishimoto Schinner started dabbling with vegetarianism when she was 12, but it wasn't long before she grew weary of what she calls "stale" animal-free fare.

"It was the late '60s, so I made a lot of the 'organic type' food for which vegetarianism got a bad name — carob brownies, soy burgers and lentil casseroles," she writes in "The New Now and Zen Epicure" (Book Publishing Company, 2001, $19.95).

That didn't last. Schinner loves food, and she loves it to taste good. Before long, her food philosophy, and the roots of her cookbook, took form — healthy food need not taste "healthy."

"A little rich food will occasionally do wonders for a person's soul," she wrote. "The Greeks had a god of wine named Dionysus who punished those who were too strict with themselves and would not join in the revelry. So don't be afraid."

Schinner certainly isn't. Her book is full of rich dishes that range from an eggplant pate she says will be mistaken for its liver counterpart, to a chocolate raspberry torte that contains no eggs, dairy products or even flour.

For a tasty treat, try Schinner's paella, which combines the delicate flavor of olive oil with more assertive saffron, red wine and garlic.

Traditional paella is a feisty Spanish rice dish named for the pan in which it is cooked. It usually includes a wide variety of meats, from seafood to frog legs to fowl.

Schinner's version is a perfect fall dish, as it welcomes just about any vegetable, from crisp peppers to supple eggplant. She does advise avoiding cabbage, broccoli and bok choy, which don't work well.

For a meal with even more body, add a can of chickpeas or red kidney beans during the final 15 minutes of cooking.

PAELLA

- (Preparation 30 minutes)
- 1/4 cup extra virgin olive oil
- 2 onions sliced
- 2 cups medium or short grain rice
- 2 to 3 large pinches saffron
- 6 cloves garlic minced
- 2 and 2/3 cups vegetable stock
- 2 cups crushed tomatoes
- 1 and 1/3 cups red wine
- 2 teaspoons dried basil
- Roughly 4 cups sliced vegetables (select whatever is in season such as red bell peppers, shiitake mushrooms, snap peas, summer squash, zucchini and asparagus).

Salt and pepper to taste.

Heat the olive oil in a large sauté pan (cast iron works well for this dish) over a medium flame. Cook the onions in the oil until tender, about 5 minutes. Add the rice and saffron and cook until slightly nutty, about 5 to 10 minutes. Add remaining ingredients except the sliced vegetables and bring to a simmer.

After 5 minutes add the vegetables. Cover loosely, reduce flame to low and cook for about 15 minutes stirring every few minutes until the rice is tender. Add more broth if the liquid in the pan dries out. Serve hot.

Makes up to 8 large servings. Paella recipe from "The New Now and Zen Epicure" by Miyoko Nishimoto Schinner. Book Publishing Company 2001 $19.95.

MEDICAL BRIEFS

Relax!

Are you weary and in need of a little relaxation and time out from the day-to-day stresses? Are your muscles aching from too much exercise, lifting or yard work? Well, here comes St. Mary Mercy Hospital's Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation Department to the rescue with massage therapy.

Massage therapy has many benefits, including

■ Increased circulation - Chronic tension produces chronic tightness, which results in a build-up of waste and toxic byproducts within the muscle

■ Relaxation - Manipulation of stressed areas of the body react by releasing endorphins, calming the nervous system and allowing the muscles to relax

Appointments are available 8 7 p.m. Mondays and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Fridays. Massages are $60 for one hour, $35 or half-hour, and $15 for a 15-minute chair massage. Payments can be made by cash, check or credit card. St. Mary Mercy Hospital is located at 36475 Five Mile at Levan, Livonia. Call the physical medicine and Rehabilitation Department at (734) 655-2955 for an appointment.

Team up with MADD

Alcohol is involved in nearly 40 percent of all traffic fatalities in Michigan, according to the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning. In 2000, 10,444 people in his state were injured because of alcohol related crashes and 515 were killed. All of these deaths and injuries were preventable - if people had abstained from alcohol before driving.

American Speedy Printing Centers in southeast Michigan are once again teaming up with Mothers Against Drunk Driving to sponsor the 15th Annual Tie One On For Safety - Red Ribbon Campaign. The campaign officially runs from Thanksgiving to New Year's Day.

Neighborhood associations, community organizations, businesses, schools and individuals can pick up red ribbons at one of the 40 participating metro Detroit American Speedy Centers. There are 16 locations in Wayne County.

For more information about MADD, call Jenny Lozano at (734) 721-8181.

Macular Degeneration

Research conducted in part at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak reveals that a dietary supplement of high levels of antioxidants and zinc significantly reduces the risk of vision loss associated with advanced age related macular degeneration (AMD). These findings from a nationwide clinical trial - the Age Related Eye Disease Study - are reported in the October issue of Archives of Ophthalmology.

Researchers found that people at high risk of developing advanced stages of AMD lowered their risk by about 25 percent when treated with a high-dose combination of vitamin C, vitamin E, beta-carotene, and zinc. In the same high-risk group - which includes people with intermediate AMD or advanced AMD in one eye but not the other eye - the supplements reduced the risk of vision loss caused by advanced AMD by about 19 percent.

For those study participants without AMD or early AMD, the supplements did not provide an apparent benefit.

"For people at high risk for developing advanced AMD, these dietary supplements are the first effective treatment to slow the progression of their disease," said ophthalmologist Dr. Alan Ruby, who led the research at Beaumont. "It's important to note that the supplements are not a cure for AMD, nor will they restore vision already lost from the disease."

BED WETTING

Treatment offers hope for chronic bed-wetters

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
SPECIAL WRITER

Enuresis is a difficult word for some to pronounce, but for many it is also a difficult condition to discuss. However, a local woman is encouraging the discussion because talking is one step toward curing enuresis, or involuntary urination.

Barbara Moore, director and founder of the Enuresis Treatment Center in Farmington Hills, claims to have helped a variety of people stay dry since opening the facility 25 years ago. With the help of ever-improving technology, she has even reached people who live outside the United States via the Internet.

"We treat children and adults all over the world - Russia, Japan, Germany and England," she said. "These are very bright people. I have treated one teenager in Russia who speaks five languages, but she just couldn't get any help with the bed-wetting."

Defining enuresis

Enuresis afflicts people in two ways: nocturnal enuresis, or primary enuresis, which accounts for 75 percent of enuretics and occurs in people over 5 years of age who were never toilet trained at night, or secondary enuresis, which describes enuretics who were completely toilet trained for more than six months.

The cause of enuresis is debatable. Moore, who admits her theories are steeped in research, trial and error, insists that bed-wetting is not a psychological disorder. She attributes the wetting to "an inherited sleep disorder which can be triggered by intense stress."

Dr. Bassam Bashour, a Henry Ford Hospital pediatric nephrologist for 23 years, disagrees. He argues there are a number of reasons someone becomes enuretic, including a troubled psychosis. First, he looks at an enuretic's medical condition. If tests do not point to infection or kidney disease, then he looks at an enuretic's behavioral, emotional and psychological well-being, as well as the family tree.

"Only 50 percent (of the primary patients) have the gene in the family," he said.

Identified as the 12 and 13 Q-chromosome, the sleep disorder gene strikes males harder than females, a ratio of 60-to-40. The genetic disorder causes people to fall into such a deep sleep that they cannot wake up. Moore said it is the same disorder that leads to sleep apnea, sleep walking and night terrors.

"Without the disorder, you could not sleep that deeply even if you tried," she explained.

Moore and Bashour also disagree over the role maturity plays in enuresis. Moore tells clients from the beginning that the disorder does not go away as people grow older, unless they adjust their sleep pattern. Her team of teachers, certified nurses and psychologists focuses on teaching people how to manipulate the sleep pattern to stay dry.

Bashour, on the other hand, believes people naturally change their sleep pattern as they mature, often self-correcting the problem. He admits, however, that if they are not dry by age 5, it is prudent to look at sleep patterns as well as diet.

Talking about primary enuresis, Bashour said "up to 20 percent of children will continue (to wet the bed past the age 5). But 50 percent of the 20 will be dry by age 7. Less than 1 percent will continue with the problem as an adult."

Fixing a problem

Denise (last names have been omitted for privacy) refused to let her son be part of the uncured class of patients. She had Benjamin, 9, tested at Children's Hospital in Detroit, but came up empty-handed. Desperate for a cure, Denise, a nurse, and her husband, a minister, allowed Benjamin to take DDAVP (Desmopressin Acetate), a nasal spray touted to stop bed-wetting.

"It's supposed to stop it, but it didn't. It only slowed it down and we were concerned about the side effects. It can cause nose ulcers," said the Detroit mother.

For years, they restricted Benjamin's fluids and woke him up three times a night to use the bathroom, but nothing worked for the 4.0 honor student who continued to wet the bed three or four times a night.

"We were at our wits' end," said Denise.

Her husband turned to the Internet for help. He found www.drybed.com, the Enuresis Treatment Center's Web site page.

"We figured what did we have to lose. I was keeping the laundry folks in business and no one was getting any sleep except for Benjamin," she said.

After two months of treatment, Benjamin had fewer accidents. After five months, Benjamin went one week without any accidents. He graduated from the program last July after 13 months of treatment.

Moore boasts that her program maintains a 95 percent success rate without intrusive physicals or medication.

"We work with muscle control and bladder development," she said. "We go to the core of the problem."

Medication not an answer

Bashour agrees that medication, which only cures the symptoms, should be avoided. Aside from the fact that medication only masks a problem, he is concerned that medication can jeopardize an enuretic's health. DDAVP has killed at least two people.

Other commonly prescribed treatments are Imipramine, an antidepressant that only works for 50 percent of the people as long as they take it (60 percent experienced a recurrence when they stopped taking the medication), alarm therapy and shock therapy, which are designed to wake enuretic

Bed wetting is a common problem, says the NKF

Bed-wetting, also called enuresis, is a common problem in children, especially in boys. An estimated 5 to 7 million children in the United States wet their beds on a regular basis, according to the National Kidney Foundation. Unfortunately, shame and embarrassment is a frequent by-product of the problem.

The NSF takes the stance that bed-wetting is usually not an emotional, learning or behavioral problem. Children do not wet the bed on purpose. However, children who do not get help for the problem or who are punished for bed-wetting are at risk to emotional or behavioral problems.

The NSF answers the following questions:

1 When is bed wetting a problem?

Most children stop wetting the bed at night by the time they are 4 or 5. Children who continue to wet should be assessed by a pediatrician or family doctor. In some cases bed-wetting occurs with daytime wetting and/or bowel problems. This may be a sign of more serious problems. Since infection of the urine can cause wetting in a few cases, every child with wetting needs to be checked.

2 What causes bed wetting?

In most cases, bed-wetting may be due to one or more of the following reasons:

- The child does not awaken when the bladder is full
- Some children produce more urine during sleep than others

■ Other children have bladders that do not hold as much urine

Physical problems are uncommon causes of bed-wetting but should be considered in every child. A good history, thorough physical examination and a urine test are usually all that is necessary to determine if a physical problem is likely.

3 Are there treatments for bed wetting? (See above article for more details)

There are many different approaches to treating bed-wetting, including

■ Limiting a child's fluid intake before bedtime

■ Waking the child periodically during the night to go to the bathroom. This may help keep the bed dry, but it does not cure the problem.

■ Use a moisture alarm. Eventually the child will awaken to urinate before wetting or stay dry all night. Relapses occur, but 50 to 70 percent of children respond if treated four to six months.

■ Sticker charts and rewards can be useful. This can be combined with the moisture alarm to help motivate the child.

■ Medications may help. The two most commonly used are desmopressin and imipramine. Both may have some side effects.

■ Hypnotherapy also may help. Children who can benefit from this treating usually show improvement within four to six sessions. More studies so that they can use the bathroom.

"Alarm therapy does not work well because it wakes up everyone in the house except the enuretic, and shock therapy is a little drastic," said Bashour.

If the wetting is not attributed to a medical condition or genetics, Bashour opts for behavior modification, or changing the situation that causes children to wet the bed, and implementing a rewards system.

"For instance, if there has been a family crisis and the child is being neglected emotionally, we modify the behavior of the parents," he said.

Behavior modification may also include changing diet. Bashour recommends that enuretics avoid high-salt and caffeinated items four to six hours before bed since they cause people to drink more fluids.

While treatment at the Enuresis Center averages six months for children 8-9 years old, longer for those who are older, Dr. Bashour is happy if his patients are dry for two months. "I'd prefer three, but I'll take two."

Financially fit survive when faced with being laid off

Layoffs are something many of us don't want to think about, but with the recent economic downturn and company mergers, many employees are realizing job security can be fleeting.

ERIC ZIMMERMAN

Whether or not you are currently faced with losing your job, now is a good time to assess your financial needs and create a financial survival plan. How well you adjust financially to any interruption in your income is crucial to your finances, as well as to your personal well-being.

Here are some considerations when creating your financial survival plan.

Severance pay - Check if your employer offers severance pay in the event of certain terminations, such as a layoff. Severance pay varies widely from none at all to six months or more of your current salary. Some companies may even reimburse you for unused vacation or sick pay. In fact, some states mandate that unused vacation be paid as wages. You should check your own company's policies.

Depending on the arrangement, your employer may offer severance pay in a lump sum or in regularly scheduled paychecks. Taking it in a lump sum will provide you with the cash you may need until you land a new job. If the money is not needed immediately, you may consider investing it where it will earn interest.

Remember, though, severance pay will be treated as taxable income. If you take a lump sum, you could be taxed at a higher rate. To find out more about the tax implications, you should consult your tax specialist or attorney.

Unemployment benefits - If you are eligible, applying for unemployment immediately may allow you the cash flow needed for a short-term financial cushion. Don't wait! It could take two weeks or longer to process all the necessary paperwork.

There is no need to feel bashful, you and your employer have been contributing to this throughout your years of employment.

Loan deferrals - Some loans, such as student loans, offer payment deferral during periods of unemployment, which keeps more cash in your pocket. Applying for unemployment may be required for certain loan deferrals.

Health insurance - In 1985 the federal government passed the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act, known as COBRA. Employers with 20 or more employees are generally required to offer the opportunity for employees to continue coverage for a specified period of time, ranging from 18-36 months.

COBRA is not cheap, you will generally end up paying the entire premium amount - that is the premium you paid as an active employee plus the monthly contributions that were paid by your employer (or more in some cases). In addition, there may be a 2 percent administration fee. However, setting aside some money for maintaining COBRA benefits enables you to guard against possible medical bills that could have a major negative impact on your financial situation.

To learn more about how COBRA can work for you, talk to your company's benefits department or check out the US Department of Labor website at <http://www.dol.gov/dol/pwba>.

Additionally, your spouse or partner can check with his/her employer to determine if health care coverage is available for you.

Your 401(k) plan - In the event of a layoff, what happens to your 401(k) account? If the fund offerings and service match your investment needs, you can choose to keep your 401(k) account where it is (your plan may, however, provide for involuntary "cash-outs" if your account does not have more than $5,000).

You can also choose to take a distribution or roll your account balance over to an IRA. A rollover might give your investment flexibility and can be converted to a Roth IRA, if you so choose. A distribution following a layoff may seem the easiest way to get needed cash, but the IRS requires the payer to automatically withhold 20 percent tax, and you may be subject to a ten percent IRS penalty fee.

There are many pros and cons to both the IRA rollover and early distribution options, so consulting a tax advisor and a qualified financial advisor would be wise when considering your overall financial goals.

Act now - During any period of unemployment, cash flow is crucial. You can start preparing now by putting away three to six months of expenses in an accessible account. Take note of any liquid investments. It could be just what you need to stay afloat until you find that next career opportunity.

You may also need to re-examine your budget to determine which expenses, such as cable service or health club membership, you might do without, allowing your cash savings to go furthest for necessities, such as housing, utilities and food.

Although the thought of planning for a layoff may seem gloomy, these simple financial planning tips can help to keep a challenging situation from becoming difficult. It's a good idea to work with a qualified financial advisor to develop a comprehensive financial plan. Doing so could help ensure you are better financially prepared for almost anything life has in store for you.

Study: depressed employees take more sick days

A just-released longitudinal study, adding to the growing body of scientific evidence on employee productivity, confirms that depression is common in the workplace and detrimental to employee performance. These findings are reported in the May issue of The American Journal of Psychiatry, the monthly scientific journal of the American Psychiatric Association.

The study found that absenteeism due to health problems was twice as high for employees with depressive symptoms compared to those without depressive symptoms. The study also revealed that the likelihood of decreased performance on the job is seven times higher for depressed employees.

The Yale University research investigators termed decreased productivity on the job as "presenteeism" and was a likely result of employee reluctance to report an illness or to consider depression a "legitimate reason" for taking sick leave.

"The perceived stigma associated with depressive disorders may thus result in a high proportion of hidden costs to employers that are not readily evident from health or disability claims data," they said.

The longitudinal study of more than 6,000 employees at three corporations took a close look at the relationship between depression, satisfaction with health care and employee productivity.

The study also found that employees who complained about their health care of care were also more likely to be depressed.

While treatment at the Enuresis Center averages six months for children 8-9 years old, longer for those who are older, Dr. Bashour is happy if his patients are dry for two months. "I'd prefer three, but I'll take two."

Appointments with Moore and Bashour are done every couple weeks after the initial visit or two. Patients at the Enuresis Treatment Center can expect to pay $75 for the first appointment, but fees after that range in price depending on the extent of treatment. Treatment is not covered by insurance. On the flip side, treatment with Bashour is often covered through insurance.

How it began

Moore was inspired to open the center by her daughter, who began wetting the bed at age 6.

"I was just so frustrated because I couldn't find anyone to help her. The pediatrician just kept saying she will outgrow it," she said. In the meantime, her daughter's self-esteem was decreasing and it began to affect her schooling.

According to Moore, people who wet the bed "feel a lot of shame. They feel different and think they are the only one who wets the bed."

In reality, Moore estimates that bed-wetting affects millions of Americans, both children and adults. With few treatment options and the continued inheritance of the sleep disorder gene, she expects the number will continue to rise.

For her part however, Moore offers hope to another generation of victims.

"We are now seeing parents who were treated here bringing their children here," she said.

UPDATE ON FIBROMYALGIA
 Investigations continue into the cause of fibromyalgia. One feature of the condition that is clear is that individuals with fibromyalgia possess a heightened sensitivity to pain, noise and touch. This high degree of reactivity reflects the activity of brain centers which are set to respond at levels lower than for individuals without fibromyalgia.

Such responses are governed by receptors in brain nuclei and by the action of the brain to recycle chemicals like epinephrine, acetylcholine, serotonin and dopamine. Physicians know from experience that medications like paxil and prozac can change the chemical activities of these neurotransmitters, but the same experience indicates that these medications are not helpful in controlling the high sensitivity exhibited by patient with fibromyalgia. Trials are underway using medications of the paxil/prozac type but modified sufficiently to treat not depression but the threshold of reactivity of patients with fibromyalgia.

However, individuals with fibromyalgia while awaiting new medications can take advantage of the observations about reactions to stimuli. One way is to limit exposure to noise, whether it is people yelling or Saturday night disco sound. Avoiding excess in heat and cold is important. Bundling up for winter is not only a way to prevent a chill but will aid in preventing a flare of fibromyalgia related pain.

Controlling anger, argument and upset are of particular importance. Keeping even tempered will avoid shocks that send brain centers into an overactive response. Working to modify where you live, work and rest will always be important no matter what drugs come forward.

Homes moving fast in Cobblestone Ridge

The Selective Group, a division of Centex, which enjoyed success with Cobblestone Ridge in Canton, has started work in Cobblestone Ridge South

Forty-eight detached condominium homes are under construction off Saltz between Beck and Canton Center roads in that community

Nearly a quarter of the building sites there already have been snapped up

"I think we have the best value in Canton now as far as price per square foot on floor plans we offer," said Brenda Globke, sales manager at Cobblestone Ridge South

"These are innovative designs we were very successful with in Cobblestone Ridge," said Heather Buchanan Smith, sales manager for Selective/Centex

"We took our success and decided to come up with alternative layouts in terms of volume ceilings and just a little different layout," she said

"It's a nice cozy neighborhood," Globke added "You don't have 400 houses You have a lot of nice ponds and woods in there"

Cobblestone Ridge South is close to municipal buildings like the library, Summit on the Park recreation center and township hall

Surrounding roads

Freeway access is available at the I-275/ Ford interchange Plenty of shopping and restaurants are available along the Ford corridor

"This is a good location," Smith added "The schools have an excellent reputation"

"It's a great area, really booming," said Billy Taylor, field manager for Selective/Centex at Cobblestone Ridge South

Taylor also cited his company's "quality and dedication to the product and customer"

Selective/Centex offer four floor plans at Cobblestone Ridge South All are colonials with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths Base price ranges from $312,900 for 2,550 square feet to $360,900 for 3,100 square feet

All plans include at base price two-car garage, basement, fireplace, first-floor laundry and separate tub and shower in the master suite

Hardwood flooring is standard in the foyer, hallway, half bath and

Colonial: The sales model for Cobblestone Ridge South, 3,100 square feet, features four bedrooms and lots of hardwood flooring in main living areas.

kitchen/ nook, ceramic in the other baths, vinyl in the laundry, and carpeting throughout the rest of the home

A range, microwave and dishwasher are included in the kitchen

Brick, vinyl siding and wood trim are exterior materials

Almost all of the remaining building sites there carry a premium ranging from $1,500 to $8,500

Model home

The model/ sales office for Cobblestone Ridge South is at Cobblestone Ridge, on the south side of Ford between Canton Center Road and Beck

The largest home at 3,100 square feet, it features a living room with cathedral ceiling, dining room with butler's pantry, kitchen/ nook with island and built-in desk, a den oriented toward the back of the home and a family room

The master upstairs contains two walk-in closets, a dual-sink vanity and enclosed toilet The other three bedrooms upstairs all have a walk-in closet

Base price is $360,900 The model as is, including upgrades and landscaping, carries a price of $412,000

"This model is fantastic," Globke said "People say they're not seeing what they usually see The den is not in front of the house, bedrooms are all huge There's lots of angles and character in this home"

"It's very turnkey," Smith said "There's not a lot to do when you get in They can move in and sleep that night"

Smith cited another advantage of buying through Selective/Centex - "you get the undivided attention of our design staff" Customers select materials and fixtures at a design center in Farmington Hills

Cobblestone Ridge South is served by city water, sewers and sidewalks It's within the Plymouth-Canton school boundaries

The property tax rate is $31.79 per $1,000 of taxable value, half of sales price for new construction That means the owners of a $338,000 home there would pay about $5,400 the first year

The annual association fee is $435

Spaces, pool set tone

Handsome stone veneer columns and wainscoting give a comforting sense of permanence to the Meridian, a rambling two-story contemporary home with a pool and more than 4,000 square foot of indoor living space

Raised stone trim overarches the vaulted porch, extending an elegant welcome

Once inside the vaulted foyer, columns flank arched openings that lead into the living room on the left, dining room straight ahead, and hallways to the left and right. This home offers a wealth of generously sized gathering spaces, inside and out

Family living, in particular, is well-provided for. The vaulted family room is large and naturally bright, with wide expanses of glass on two sides. A gas fireplace nestles into a rear corner by one of the windows

Standing at the kitchen sink, you can stay totally engaged in goings-on inside and out. You can even keep an eye on the pool. Storage and counter space are in abundant supply, boosted by a triangular step-in pantry in the nook

A powder room is convenient to all of the gathering spaces, and a full bathroom is nearby, right next to the guest suite. Utilities and yet another bathroom line a hallway that links the kitchen to the patio and pool

The Meridian's master suite is well away from the bustle of family life but has direct access to the pool and covered patio

Amenities include a large spa tub, walk-in closet, double vanity and enclosed toilet. The nearby den could be used as a home office

Two bedrooms, recreation room, bathroom and loft are on the second floor

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $25 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, OR 97402. Specify the Meridian 30-312 and include a return address when ordering.

Check holiday lighting carefully to prevent hazardous situations

LARRY KAUFMAN

There is at least one certainty during winter in Michigan - homes, streets and shopping malls will be decorated with the colorful lights of the holiday season

It is crucial for home decorators to make sure lights are used as the manufacturers intended them to be - for example, indoor lights for indoor use only because they can be affected by moisture, outdoor lights should be used only outdoors because they burn hotter

I tell family and friends that lights should be thrown away if they have frayed wires, damaged sockets and cracked or missing insulation. To reduce the possibility of electrical shock or fires, check for an Underwriters Laboratory (UL) label before stringing lights and installing decorations

Never assume that just because your lights worked effectively last year they will do so this year. A few minutes spent checking cords for potential hazards can possibly prevent a fire or worse. I suggest the following tips so everyone can enjoy safer holidays

Indoor lighting

- Do not overload electrical circuits
- Use not more than three sets of standard lights on each extension cord
- Do not insert new bulbs or change fuses when light sets are plugged in
- Keep lights away from carpeting, furniture and drapes
- Turn off decorative lights before you go to bed or leave home

Outdoor lighting

- Use only outdoor extension cords with molded plugs and sockets

- Keep all electrical connections off the ground and hang sockets downward to prevent water from seeping into them
- Do not run lighting cords through door or window openings where they can be damaged

Meanwhile, if you are decorating your home with holiday lights, we'll have all the electricity you'll need

During winter months the demand for electricity generally is less. As a result, during off peak evening hours there is more than enough electrical power for everyone's holiday light display

Let's Talk About Real Estate

"INCREASING NET WORTH"

Most people today find it very difficult to save money. Regardless of the amount of a person's annual income, it is still hard to set money aside for the future.

After raising a family of six children and financing all their many needs including college tuition, I know from personal experience that some expense will always arise that takes priority over any contribution to a savings account.

I have also learned, however, that if you own a home, you can still build a savings account while making your monthly mortgage payment. This "forced method" of increasing net worth is still one of the greatest things the average person can do. Here are some of the reasons why it works so well.

Monthly Reduction of Debt

Every mortgage payment reduces the amount you owe the lender each month. This reduction in the principal balance of your loan also reduces the amount of interest that is paid each month. As the amount going to interest decreases, more of your monthly payment is diverted from paying interest to paying down the loan balance at an ever-increasing rate. This reduction in the amount you owe increases your house. (Example: House is worth $100,000 and you owe $75,000, your equity is $25,000.)

Increase In Value

Hopefully, your house is increasing in value each year. This combination of reduction in loan balance and increase in value will increase your equity. (Example: Home value now $110,000, mortgage balance $73,000, equity now $37,000.)

ADVICE: If you do not own a home, contact a Realtor to find out what you have to do to buy a home of your own.

Michigan Humane Society ADOPT-A-PET

This Week's Featured Pet

This adorable pooch is Jude. He is a two-year-old Pointer Mix male who was brought to the shelter as a stray. He is very gentle and sweet and will be a great dog for any type of home. Although he is a stray he must have had a home at one time because he is housebroken, has terrific manners and listens extremely well for just coming off the streets. In addition he has the cutest looks with a black and white speckled coat and large ears that perk right up when he is spoken to.

To give this pooch a place to call home, visit the Michigan Humane Society Westland Shelter (734) 721-7300
