Stewart faces primary challenge

BY TONY BRUSCATO

tbruscato@oe homecomm net

First-term State Rep John Stewart will definitely face opposition in the upcoming election, and it's coming from within his own party

Plymouth resident Jonathon Grant this week announced his intention to run for the 20th District House seat currently held by Stewart, (R Plymouth Township), by filing his candidate committee with the Michigan Secretary of State

Grant will make it official with a kickoff party at Compari's tonight (Thursday) at 6 p m

"I see a need for more effective representation in Lansing for people of the 20th District," said Grant "My committee and I have been exploring the potential of running for state representative for several weeks and have been pleasantly surprised by the tremendous groundswell of support and encouragement we have been receiving throughout the district"

Grant, 36, is a political newcomer who has not previously run for office, though he considered a run at the Plymouth City Commission this year He said he will run a traditional Republican campaign through the August primary, which in the mostly-Republican 20th District is when the race is won

"I want to take the campaign to the people' said Grant "We will be in every corner of the district, knocking on at least 50 000 doors I want to encourage people to get out and vote, vote Republican, and vote for me"

Grant said his primary issues include the local and state economies, small business taxes, the environment and improving public education

While Grant has thus far stayed away from attacking Stewart, he's openly critical of Stewart's role during the recently-created third judgeship for 35th District Court in Plymouth

"It was (Senator) Thad McCotter (R-Livonia) and (Representative) Bruce Patterson (R Canton Township) who pushed it through," said Grant "Stewart wasn't involved in the process If he wasn't invited to the table, the district wasn't represented, and that's ineffective representation"

Stewart said Grant should get his facts straight before challenging him on the 35th District court judgeship

"I testified at hearings in favor of a third judge, and I gave Bruce my unqualified support all the way," he said "Bruce began legislation for a third judge long before I was elected to

Ice Fest may have rebounded financially

BY BRAD KADRICH

It may have struggled financially, but the overwhelming consensus appears to be that the 2002 Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular was a public relations, if not necessarily a monetary, success

Official figures won't be available for weeks, but festival officials are hopeful the 20th-anniversary event did a little better than break even, an idea that seemed remote a few weeks ago

"Because of the good weather and the turnout, the fact our concessionaires did better and donations were up, I think we're going to do a little better than break even," said Mike Watts of Watts Up, Inc , who organized the event "We'll be solvent, and have a good step forward for next year If everything hadn't worked out, it might be different"

But the real cheers appear to be coming from retailers, many of whom were ecstatic about it

"Most of the retailers are extremely pleased," said Fran Toney, executive director of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce "Considering the financial situation in the community and in the country, I thought it was very good It wasn't as expansive as years past, but I thought the marketing and the crowds were excellent"

The streets were filled with visitors for most of the festival, particularly on Saturday and Sunday, and Watts called it "record" attendance Whether that's true is difficult to tell, but the festival certainly didn't seem to lose its hold on people

John Gary is vice-chair of the Plymouth Downtown Development Authority and is also a member of the festival's board of directors He said that, despite the loss of some sponsorship money, the festival still did what it's supposed to do Bring people to Plymouth

"Attendance was fine, the streets were crowded," said Gary, himself a culinary arts teacher at William D Ford Career Technical Center in Westland "The participants we had carving

Dinner-hour diners at the Max & Erma's on Canton Center Road Thursday could have used a scorecard to identify their servers A Plymouth Whalers scorecard

Members of the Ontario Hockey League Junior A team were guest waiters as part of a fund-raiser for the Karmanos Cancer Hospital for Children

"It was fun They had us pair up with (regular) waiters and waitresses," said Stephen Weiss, whose usual duties are playing center

The third-year player from Toronto said he likes being out in the community, especially when it benefits charity And he certainly doesn't mind the occasional recognition from Whalers fans

"It seems like there's more of that over the past couple of years, as people in this area learn more about Junior hockey," he said

The Junior leagues, based in Canada, are considered feeders for the National Hockey League Several prominent Whalers over the last few years, including Detroiter David Legwand, now a rookie center with the Nashville Predators, are starring in the NHL

Scott Kelly, Whalers director of public relations, said spending time away from Compuware Arena at local events is "a high priority"

"The community comes out and supports us and so we try to give back," he said

Whalers players or team representatives typically attend three or four events each week Everyone on the

the ice were world-class carvers, (local carver) Tajana (Raukar) won her events I think we put on a good show"

The show ran into potential financial problems early on when sponsors, including Johnson Controls,Inc of Plymouth pulled back on their contributions At one point, organizers considered scaling the show back dramatically but donations rebounded — including a critical $10,000 donation by Don Massey — and the show went on pretty much as usual

According to Gary, the cutbacks were minimal

"The number that were carved and on the street were about what we've had in the past" he said "Some of the major sculptures were cut back in the number of blocks that were used, for instance, the Japanese used 90 instead of 120, but they still did a spectacular job The sculptures in The Gathering were fabulous"

The weather certainly helped with temperatures lingering in the 20s and 30s It was cold enough for the ice to maintain its integrity yet not so cold it kept people away

That's the part retailers liked best

"It's helpful financially," said Scott Smith, owner of the Penniman Gallery "It's a major boost to my season Let's just say I wouldn't want a winter without the ice festival"

On Ice: Plymouth's own Tajana Raukar was one of the bright spots of the 2002 Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular

Sandy Marulis, owner of Michigan Made, said the five days of the ice festival produced double the business her store had done in the first 15 days of January

"We probably did about 10 percent higher than last year," Marulis said "It was just steady business The weather was perfect, we had a lot of traffic, and it's just a boost for our business"

There were some old stand-bys for the festival, with the Japanese carvers coming over and the Fantasyland sponsored by Farmer Jack in The Gathering There was also at least one new event, a special screening of the Wizard of Oz at the Penn Theater Friday night

Some 300 people showed up, many dressed the part, and helped earn more than $800 for Habitat for Humanity of Western Wayne County

"I've never seen so many red shoes in my life," laughed Sheila Friedrich, Habitat's executive director "It was a lot of fun"

The festival also provided another stage for local carvers, including Tajana Raukar of Plymouth Raukar, a perennial favorite and a double winner this year, is off to Utah for the Winter Olympics, where ice carving makes its Olympic debut

In fact, the Plymouth ice festival has provided a launching pad for several professional ice carving careers Local carvers Raukar, Ted Wakar and J R Lorentz all have gone on to ice carving as a vocation It's one of the impressive statistics about the ice festival, according to Gary

"All three are carving ice full-time, professionally," Gary said "To think that three of our local people are out there making a living carving ice, and that's directly a result of the ice festival, is just wonderful, and a testament to the festival"

Bizkit jam

Redford man, others say band's casting call strikes resonant chord

BY JACK GLADDEN
STAFF WRITER
jgladden@oe.homecomm net

With all of the security guards, sheriff's deputies and police officers working the crowd, it could have been the check-in area at Metro Airport the day before Thanksgiving

With all the radio and TV station remote units set up in the parking lot, you knew something special was going on

But it wasn't Metro Airport, it was the parking lot outside the Guitar Center on Ford Road in Canton Township

And something special was going on – special, at least, for the 400 or 500 people jamming the lot The "Put Your Guitar Where Your Mouth Is" Tour had come to Canton – looking for a wannabe rock star to join Limp Bizkit as a guitar player

Canton was the 10th stop on the 23-city tour, which started Jan 10 in Fresno, Calif , and will finish up on Feb 11 in Los Angeles

Mark Damian, store operations manager for the Canton Guitar Center, said people began lining up as early as 5 a m last Thursday to demonstrate their riffs before Limp Bizkit's managers, hoping to get a chance to jam with the band later in the day and – hope of hopes – to actually join the group

"We're giving them a number," he said "We've given out 316 numbers The max was supposed to be 300, but we let 16 more sign up "

There were plenty of disappointed wannabes in the crowd who got there too late to get a number And Damian may have been a little off with the time people started arriving

Jon Ameel and Cristina Przykucki, both of Redford Township, said they got to the store at 4 a m

Ameel, who has a band called Esion – "That's 'noise' spelled backward," he explained – said he found out from a friend when the original guitar player quit Limp Bizkit that the band was going to be doing auditions

"They announced about a month ago that they were going to be doing auditions at local Guitar Centers, so when I got the date for this one I decided to sign up "

He's 25, said he's had his band together for about two years, but has been playing for about 12 years

Ray Brewer and Jer Bubrowski of Warren said they left home about 5 30 Wednesday morning to drive to Canton for the tryouts Do they think they have a chance of making the cut?

"You never know if you don't try," Brewer said

Jeff Gaglio of Hazel Park said he got to the store about 6 30 a m He's been playing guitar for 15 years and thinks he has "a pretty good chance" to make it to the finals

"You've got nothing to lose," he said "But, you know, it's all about the instant fame and the instant money That's what it's all about "

But the earliest arrival was Josh Wesley of Allendale, about nine miles west of Grand Rapids He arrived outside the Guitar Center at 9 p m Wednesday

It paid off When the numbers were handed out, he got number one – the first audition And how did the audition go?

"It was kind of tough," he said "There was a lot of pressure in there "

And, oh yes, Josh is 15 years old Not old enough to have a driver's license So how did he get here?

"My mom brought me," he said "She didn't mind She just slept in the car last night "

Patterson may announce run for new senate spot

BY TONY BRUSCATO
tbruscato@oe.homecomm net

State Representative Bruce Patterson (R-Canton Township) insists he hasn't made a final decision on whether to run for a final term in his current position, or run for the newly-created 7th District Senate seat in the August primary

Bruce Patterson

However, an e-mail from the 13th Congressional District Republican Committee gives one of its endorsements for the Senate to Patterson

"Each candidate decides when and where they would like to make the official announcement," said Teresa Folino, of the 13th Congressional District Republican Committee

Patterson said he's just about made up his mind Don't be surprised to hear Patterson's official announcement to run for the Senate on Feb 7, which is also his birthday

The new Senate district includes Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Van Buren Township and a number of downriver communities

City gets hike in CDBG grant funds

tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

The City of Plymouth will receive $91,000 in federal Community Development Block Grant funding this year, which is an increase of $8,000 from last year

"The money will be used mostly for senior citizen programs and projects in Old Village because they qualify as our low- to moderate-income areas," said Mark Hammar, assistant Department of Municipal Services director

■ Mark Hammar said the money will be divided among several areas, including $57,000 for senior citizen services.

Hammar said the money will be divided among several areas, including $57,000 for senior citizen services

- Senior van driver and van dispatcher
- Snow removal and lawn care services for seniors on a fixed income
- Printing of the Senior Sentinel, a newsletter for seniors

Hammar said $17,000 will go towards improvements in Old Village

- Lighting and park bench improvements
- Tree planting
- Improvements at the Old Village community center

Another $12,000 will be spent on Americans with Disabilities Act improvements in the city, including upgrades for playground equipment at Rotary and Kiwanis parks

Hammar said of the $91,000 grant, about $5,000 will be spent on administrative costs He expects to have the money by July 1

Meanwhile, the city of Plymouth recreation soccer program is one of 59 youth soccer programs that was selected nationally to receive $1,100 in money and equipment from Uniroyal Tire and Discount Tire Company

"It's great to be working with the Plymouth recreation soccer league," said Keith Belt, manager of the Discount Tire store on Ford Road in Canton "They have a tremendous program that helps children learn the game and have fun, while developing important character traits such as teamwork and self-confidence "

It's the 10th grant award the city of Plymouth recreation department has received since the adoption of the Recreation Master Plan in July 2000

"Grants have added over one million dollars to our recreation programs, and the latest from Discount Tire and Uniroyal is just one more indication that our city recreation department is continuing to grow and expand while providing youth and adults the opportunity to discover the benefits of an active parks and recreation program," said Steve Anderson, city recreation athletics and programs supervisor

Engler pushes high-speed Internet access

BY PAUL R. PACE
ppace@oe homecomm net

The telephone revolutionized communication more than 100 years ago, and with it came government standards to promote reasonable user costs and accessibility to all

Gov John Engler believes high-speed Internet must have the same standards if the state is going to successfully compete in the technology market

Breakfast and broadband: The governor's appearance at Walsh College in Novi drew a crowd that filled the room with Detroit area people interested in hearing about expanding high-speed internet access

Speaking Tuesday at breakfast discussion on the subject at Walsh College's Novi campus the governor and a panel of business and technology experts spoke to about 300 people in attendance

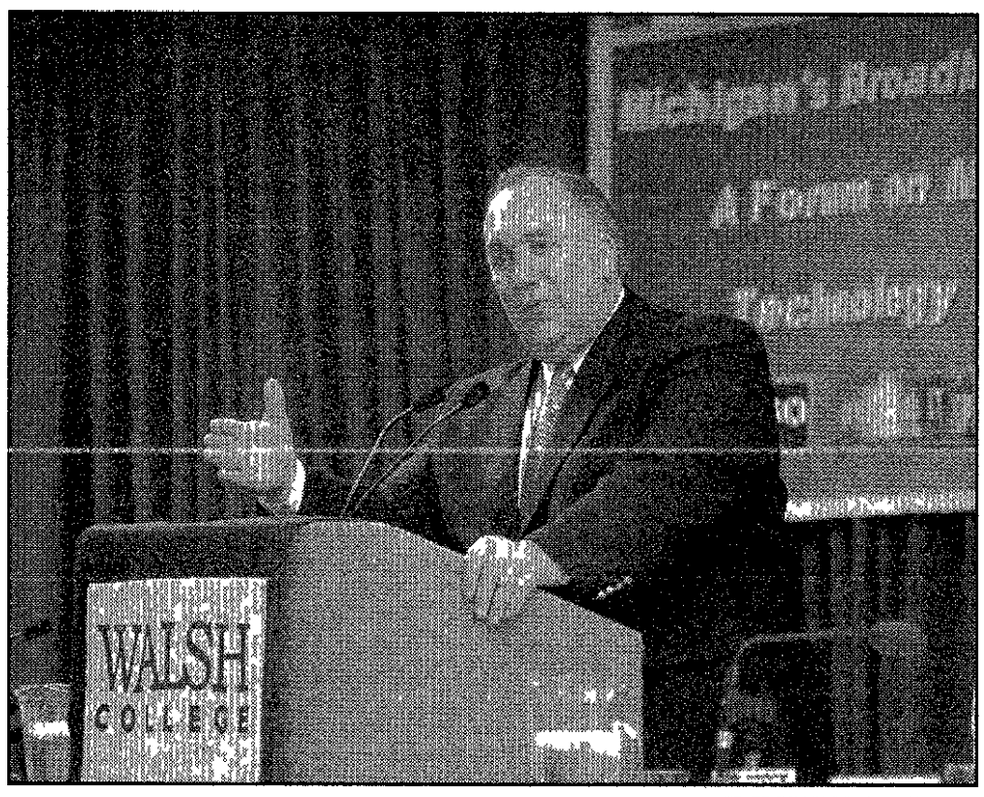
"We need to streamline the process for taxes and permits for broadband in Michigan," he said

Engler is encouraging legislators to make the process for expanding broadband easier by establishing a uniform permit and fee system for rights-of-way to lay lines that carry high-speed Internet to homes and businesses

He also proposes creating a financing authority to provide loans and grants and to work with private telecommunications vendors to make statewide investment more viable

His third bill would offer tax credits to companies that build out their broadband network

Engler said the need for this plan is evident by the fact that Michigan lags behind other states in developing broadband



STAFF PHOTOS BY BILL BRESLER

According to the governor

- Michigan has almost 4 percent of the nation's population, but only 1 3 percent of the high-speed broadband phone lines (ADSL)
- Michigan is 37th in the nation in the percentage of families and small businesses using high speed lines

Linda Jolicoeur, president of Target Equipment Leasing in Farmington Hills, can't get high speed cable Internet at the business located at 12 Mile and Orchard Lake through the local provider, Time-Warner Cable So long as it wasn't too expensive, she'd said she'd love to have Web sites come over faster than using a phone connection

"We do use the Internet quite a bit," she said of the company, which loans money to businesses to buy equipment

She attended the breakfast to learn more about the broadband proposal She left convinced

"Ultimately, we'll all be better off with this," Jolicoeur said, because of new business it will help promote

She considers high-speed service no different than any other utility Detroiters in the early days had to subsidize the expense of bringing utilities to rural parts of Michigan, she said This process is no different

"We're lagging," she said of making the state "high-tech"

Engler said helping businesses grow in this field will benefit companies and residents

Keeping costs down, he said, "will invite competition"

Engler's proposal is expected to be go before the House for review this week

Symphony concert features middle-schoolers

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, in collaboration with the Plymouth Community Arts Council and the Plymouth Historical Museum, will present a very special American Portraits and Places concert at 8 p m Saturday, Feb 16 at the new Our Lady of Good Counsel Church

This concert culminates a week long, community wide celebration honoring Abraham Lincoln, Plymouth, Michigan, and the USA OLGC is located on the northwest corner of Beck and North Territorial

The program showcases Plymouth Canton Middle School Orchestra musicians, State Rep John Stewart (R-Plymouth Township) and composer Michael Daugherty

Due to the "overwhelmingly positive response to the Side by Side experience last year and thanks to the efforts of PCEP Orchestra Directors Catherine DePentu and Erin Zurbuchen," said PSO executive director Darlene Dreyer, the middle school string players will perform a selection from Dvorak's New World Symphony side-by-side with PSO musicians as part of this year's Instrumentorship Program (sponsored by Visteon's See the Possibilities fund)

Concert performance: State Rep. John Stewart will narrate Copland's A Lincoln Portrait at the Feb. 16 concert featuring the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra and middle school musicians.

Stewart will narrate Copland's A Lincoln Portrait The other works on the program include Copland's Fanfare for the Common Man, Daugherty's Red Cape Tango from the Metropolis Symphony (based on the Superman comics), and Carpenter's Skyscrapers A Ballet of Modern American Life (complete with a factory air whistle and traffic signals)

Audience members are encouraged to arrive at 7 p m to enjoy the pre-concert activities, including a special on stage pre-concert presentation featuring Music Director and Conductor Nan Washburn and University of Michigan Professor of Composition Michael Daugherty, a chance to meet Civil War era characters, and the "Images of Lincoln Art Contest" winning entries exhibit

Concert tickets are $15 for adults and $12 50 for seniors and college students School-age children (K-12) are admitted free to all subscription concerts This concert is an eligible Passport to the Arts & Culture and Service Club Challenge event Groups of 10 or more receive a 10-percent discount

For tickets or more information, please contact the Symphony Office at 734 451 2112 or at plymouthsymphony@aol com

Plymouth students benefit from Walsh programs

ppace@oe homecomm.net

Thirty-five Plymouth area residents are currently enrolled in classes at Walsh College, which offers the communities it serves more than just an educational facility

The college's Novi campus sits on 11 acres off of Meadowbrook Road, just north of Grand River Opened in leased facilities in the fall of 1993 to serve the residents of the western metro area, Walsh College moved into the 35,000-square foot, technology enriched facility in 1998

The campus has 14 classrooms, a library, a computer lab, two computer classrooms, a conference center and a bookstore Admissions, academic counseling, student financial resources, career services, registration and other student services are available at the Novi Campus

Holly Diamond, director of the Novi campus, said the facility has also become a popular resource for local businesses

The school offers professional services to companies interested in using meeting rooms or computer labs, and there are also more than 30 specialized education consultants and instructors who offer employee training, classes and seminars

The building's classrooms and even hallways are wired for people to connect laptops to the Internet Special equipment is also available for instructors and business people conducting seminars

Some of the rooms are equipped with specially designed boards which can project videos, computer displays, transparencies, paper and objects in three-dimension form The boards can also be touched to conduct actions on a computer, the same way a person would use a mouse

"People can do a wonderful multi-media presentation with this," said Diamond

She added the school provides technical support and training with the high-tech equipment

The Troy and Novi campuses have video conference capabilities, so instructors can teach two classes at two different locations

"We have flexibility in our offices that can be changed to meet demand," she said

Besides classrooms, the school offers classes through the Internet noted John Young, vice president of external affairs It's become a popular way to learn without having to face the hazards of driving in the winter, he said For more information, call Walsh College's Novi Campus at (248) 349-5454

"I think Mr Grant is trying to create issues where there aren't any," added Stewart "Credibility will be an issue in this campaign, and mine will rise to the surface "

Bill Ballenger, editor of the political newsletter Inside Michigan Politics, said it will be tough for Grant to unseat an incumbent

"It's always difficult to knock off an incumbent in a primary, and in this era of term limits it's even more difficult," said Ballenger "However, Stewart presents some interesting possibilities

"As a Republican, he's more liberal on cultural issues than most of his party," Ballenger said "If Grant can consolidate the conservative vote in his district that Teresa Folino and Dave McDonald split in the last election, it could cause a problem It may not be a cakewalk for Stewart "

The 20th District has been redistricted by the state legislature It includes Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville, Northville Township, Canton Township east of I-275 and the city of Wayne

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers nurture the hometowns we serve and contribute to the business success of our customers

To tweak or not to tweak is ice festival's question

The Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular provides an annual chance for the Plymouth Community to shine, and this year's event was no different

The crowds, at least on Saturday and Sunday, were large and happy The carvings were, as usual, brilliantly done and provided a spectacular show for the tens of thousands of people who visited Plymouth

Streets were packed, restaurants were jammed, many downtown businesses were brimming, and it was another successful event all around

True, the event didn't do as well financially as it has in the past Indications seem to be the festival will actually be lucky to break even, after figuring in the costs of doing business with the city and all the other expenses of running a large-scale event like this

There were some efforts to help the visitors get around The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce was open 10 hours a day every day, despite what you may have read elsewhere And there was a warming center in the old NBD building It was nice to see the long-empty building occupied for a change

Just about everything — with the possible exception of the bottom line — showed this year's festival was as successful as usual

Still, there are undercurrents around town that changes need to be made, that the ice festival needs a little more zest, more energy after 20 years

To which we say If it ain't broke, don't fix it You can tweak it a little — and it probably could use some minor adjustments — but wholesale changes? It doesn't need them

Some retailers complained that the festival didn't bring them much new business We wonder Did those businesses expand their hours to take advantage of the extra traffic, or buy an individual sculpture to display outside their doors in a show of support for the festival? Are they sponsors of any part of the festival?

Sometimes to make things better, you have to take ownership of them Perhaps more local sponsorship would be one answer

We agree the festival could use a little tweaking With the understanding that everything these days depends on money, here are a couple of possibilities

■ Shorten the festival Does it really have to go five days? If this year is an indication, the first couple of days aren't very well attended anyway

■ Make more out of the celebrity carving competition The biggest "celebrity" this year was a television sportscaster Media personalities aren't necessarily celebrities With more planning and early notification, perhaps some of Detroit's sports stars would be interested Lions coach Marty Mornhinweg and Tiger general manager Randy Smith are Plymouth residents Invite them

■ Have more for children to do The city and township are putting together a youth commission Surely there would be some suggestions for making the festival more kid-friendly

Even if you leave the festival the way it is, it still is one of the premier events of its kind But it's not the only one of its kind, and Plymouth must be sure to keep pace with the others when competing for people's entertainment time

Still, the festival is a great time — and a great event — for Plymouth Doubt it? Ask business people who were around 21 years ago, when there was no festival, to compare the two eras

So tweak it, if need be But keep it, for sure

Devil's in the details of State of State ideas

It was House minority leader Buzz Thomas (D-Detroit) who said it best, summarizing the reaction of the majority of state lawmakers on both sides of the political aisle to Gov John Engler's State of the State address

"The devil's in the details"

Gov Engler's speech did not include a lot of them Despite the fact he unveiled a long list of proposals that sound good in principle, Republican and Democrat alike said they would have to see more of the fine print before they could tell for sure what position they would eventually take on each proposition

In general, the themes sounded by Engler were great For example, he said the state must support the auto industry as it makes its way through a transition from gasoline-powered engines to hydrogen-powered fuel cells To make the change, car makers will need a "new generation of engineers," a new generation of plants, a new generation of workers That means Michigan's auto industry has to undergo almost a complete "transformation"

Among the issues that need to be addressed, Engler said, would be taxes, regulations, new infrastructure, intellectual property, and research and development

No one at the state level has expressed a disagreement with these points overall Autos are critical to Michigan And there is no guarantee that a fuel cell-based industry will end up centered here in this state, so it makes sense for the state government to do everything it can to keep Michigan on the cutting edge of the auto world

Given that, there remains a lot of room for disagreement about exactly how the transformation should be made and what kind of state support should be included What we can guarantee is that when Engler unveils his plan 60 days from now, there will be a lot of debate to be had How much support should we give? What should it include? What is the industry willing to promise in return? If we are willing to do all this for autos, what are we willing to do for other industries important to Michigan?

Engler also called for a "down payment in next year's budget" to attract the construction of a Rare Isotope Accelerator at Michigan State University Sen Thaddeus McCotter (R-Livonia) had the best answer to that proposal "We cannot forsake the future for the immediate budget cuts," he said "Ten years later we don't want to be saying that we tossed that out because of one year of tight budgets"

But there are lots of questions here too How much of a down payment? What exactly would that money be used to pay for in order to make the feds more likely to place that nuclear research facility here?

And how do we get that out of a budget already $900 million in the red? What else has to fall by the wayside?

Engler proposed getting a waiver from the federal government on Medicaid so the state can create a Mi-Family health insurance program He said it would spread benefits to another 200,000 Michigan resident Again, the idea is great How?

The governor proposed bringing Michigan into compliance with the "No Child Left Behind Act" recently signed by President George W Bush Again, that's great We can all support better education and a commitment to give each student our best effort

But the new federal act duplicates much of what is already in place here in Michigan, achievement testing in grades 3 to 8, for instance So again the question is, how will it be done?

Engler called for a restructuring of Blue Cross, saying the company has to be kept solvent Yes, indeed, it does But how remains the looming issue

Of course, Engler deserves credit Another lame duck governor, scheduled to leave after 12 years in office due to term limits, might have been tempted to tout his legacy and leave it at that Engler did indeed talk about what he believes he's accomplished in that time

But he did not rest on his laurels Engler made it clear he believes there is work yet to be done And much of what he outlined can't possibly come to fruition until well after he is gone

At best, the governor's final State of the State laid out for Michigan lawmakers and residents what the issues will be this year, and for several years to come

There is a lot to be said for identifying what the agenda should be, even if specific solutions are in short supply

Finding the answers will have to be left to the rest of us

■ Chamber thanks

Please allow me to take this opportunity to thank the many Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce members who volunteered their time during the Ice Festival to help staff the chamber office, which was open for 10 hours every day during the festival

These wonderful volunteers handled hundreds of telephone calls, many from out of state and Canada In addition, thousands of visitors stopped by the chamber office for information or just to say how much they enjoyed Plymouth

Our chamber volunteers came early, stayed late and did so not for any recognition, but just to help These folks truly are a vital part of what makes Plymouth the wonderful community it is

Thanks to Robert Burger, Community of Christ, Fred Eagle, Mutual of Detroit, Nancy Jowsey and Don McDurmon, Plymouth Community Fire Department, Toni Knechtges, Leadership Plymouth graduate, Gerry and Toni (and Alexis) Lee, Scott McGlone, Cincinnati Time Systems, and Allen Odell, Plymouth's master gardener

■ Why not smokers?

In regards to Mr Chiumento's letter, "Answering Questions," in the Jan 24 Observer It would appear that Mr Chiumento cares very strongly for status as self-proclaimed (and arbitrator-vindicated) martyr on behalf of those students "perceived to be gay and lesbian," in our middle schools

And since the latest statistics indicate that a typical male who lives the so-called homosexual lifestyle can expect a rather more short lifespan than that of the typical heterosexual smoker (for example), one wonders what sort of counseling or advocating Mr Chiumento expects to perform in 30 years (or so) when these kids are living out and dying from the consequences of their "lifestyle" choice

Perhaps they will wish that their teachers had emphasized the possible health risks associated with such behavior as opposed to merely offering uncompromising acceptance for it (though such a discussion may be moot why any public school teacher should be so concerned with the sexuality — real or perceived — of our 11- and 12-year olds is perhaps something which should strike us as more than just a little creepy)

Even so, while we're on the subject, one wonders why no one is busily "advocating" on behalf of the preteenage smoker — a group certainly no less marginalized in today's society for their behavior (again, behavior with less-drastic health consequences when contrasted with homosexual behavior) than those kids "perceived to be gay and lesbian" — by erecting displays in our middle schools glorifying the achievements of our nation's smokers For the inclination to indulge in tobacco may not be so much a choice as it is something genetically preordained

■ Question unanswered

Ms Tassanyi's original Letter to the Editor asked a very specific question that is yet unanswered "What were these two teacher's thinking?"

Mr Chiumento (one of the two teachers) responds with what it sounds like he was "feeling" I believe Ms Tassanyi's question was a little more rhetorical than literal Keeping in mind the ages of these children (sixth and seventh graders and up), the question begs to be answered — what in the world were they thinking?

I would hope that teachers would have enough sense to eliminate ANY displays commemorating ANY type of sexuality (ESPECIALLY TO 6th and 7th graders) I believe this is more the issue I would hope that Mr Chiumento could see the absurdity in this He seems to rally around the whole freedom of speech thing but only when it s his freedom That same freedom has been given to us all — not just "special interest" groups

Equal rights does not equate to "special rights" He is the same teacher that led the attack on banning Boy Scouts from our schools, which (and many are thankful) didn't happen Why is his freedom to make displays or speak out any different, or more special, than theirs? Seems to me Mr Chiumento likes to practice "viewpoint discrimination" He'll honor anyone's Freedom of Speech, as long as he agrees with it

Mr Chiumento states, "I was thinking about those students who must periodically endure ridicule or listen to disparaging comments about gays" Has he ever heard a child called a Jesus freak? What is he doing for those Christian students? How about fat, ugly, trailer trash, four-eyes, metal mouth, the list goes on and on

What is he doing for those students? We ALL "periodically" endured some sort of ridicule by which we had no control — but that's not the issue here The real issue here is personal agendas!

Our schools are not here for Mr Chiumento and Mr Salbenblatt to have a forum for their personal agendas, nor for the agendas of the NEA One doesn't have to look too far at Mr Chiumento's involvement with the NEA to see where this all stems from Keep the politics out of my child's classroom

Mr Chiumento, and all other teachers pushing ANY personal agendas through our schools, need to stop Pick your fights with people your own size but leave the children out of it Remember the capacity in which you were hired, not as a counselor, not as a gay advocate for gay students You were hired as a teacher

The only "education that needs to take place in our community," sir, is the education you were hired to give If I desire education for any other subjects not offered in our schools, I'll seek it out for my child

■ Is ignorance bliss?

In reference to the arbitration of the gay and lesbian tolerance display, how many people actually saw the displays at West Middle School and Salem High School? I would bet most, if not all, of the people expressing such ignorance about these displays didn't even see them

The display at West was up for three days and I did get to see it It promoted homosexuality no more than the wall on the Bird Elementary playground (yes, Keith Haring was gay and he is the artist whose artwork was copied in order to paint the wall)

The West display was so passive that people had to be told it was to promote tolerance for gays and lesbians If people had not been told, this issue probably wouldn't be with us

The wall on Bird's playground doesn't seem to be bothering anyone, but now the question is this Will it be painted over before spring arrives?

■ Stop vendetta

Our country was founded on the principle of a right to LIFE, liberty and property (Phil Power's column, "Right to Life's bill aims to pressure politicians, Jan 17) Without life you cannot have anything else so we need to protect life first and hold life as precious

When will Planned Parenthood stop its vendetta of killing innocent babies? Also, since when has murder been a respected way to earn a living? Murder should never ever be allowed for any reason It never has been a respectable way to earn a living It stops a beating heart

Coalition to develop fuel cell offers opportunity for state

In his State of the State speech last week, Gov John Engler talked glowingly about making Michigan the center for research and development of clean-burning hydrogen fuel cells to power cars

He was responding to a growing consensus in the auto industry that fuel cell powertrains really are the wave of the future A major development was U S Energy Secretary Spencer Abraham's announcement three weeks ago of the Freedom Cooperative Automotive Research (Freedom CAR), a public-private group linking the government, the auto companies and the U S Council on Automotive Research to work in developing affordable hydrogen-based fuel cell technology

Phil Power

"Michigan's stake in the transformation of the auto industry cannot be overstated," said Engler "The coming transformation means a new generation of vehicles The new vehicles will require a new generation of engineers to design them, a new generation of plants to assemble them, and a new generation of workers to build them "

Engler's right The stakes for Michigan are very, very big, especially when you realize that there are 10 engine plants and five transmission plants in Michigan employing some 27,000 people — all based on gasoline-fueled internal combustion engine powertrains that might well become obsolete in a decade

"You can't just assume that Michigan will become a leader in fuel cell technology," says Michigan Economic Development Cooperation CEO Doug Rothwell "Although Michigan is plainly the center of the American auto industry, we don't necessarily have inherent strengths in fuel cell technology This means we've got to be proactive "

Engler is expected to propose a detailed plan in the next couple of months to make detailed proposals about how to make Michigan the center for fuel cell research and development

A look at Michigan's economic history provides some context for all this In the 19th century, the first two waves of economic development centered on extracting natural resources, first exploiting the copper and iron ore deposits in the Upper Peninsula and next cutting the vast forests of the northern part of the state The capital created by these two early industries formed the economic underpinnings for the development of our auto industry in the early part of the 20th century

Since then, economic policy makers have been searching for the next big industry to power the state's economic progress

The stakes for Michigan are very, very big, especially when you realize that there are 10 engine plants and five transmission plants employing some 27,000 people – all based on ... powertrains that might well become obsolete in a decade.

A leading candidate — biotechnology — emerged over the past decade Stimulated by the MEDC, supported by Gov Engler and financed by money from the national tobacco settlement, the state has poured some $50 million per year into the "Life Sciences Corridor," running from Detroit through Ann Arbor and East Lansing to Grand Rapids The University of Michigan, for example, is in the middle of building a $200 million Life Sciences Center on the central campus, while the city of Ann Arbor just granted a tax abatement to encourage pharmaceutical giant Pfizer to expand greatly its research labs

Skeptics question whether trying to graft an entire biotech industry onto a relatively limited existing base of company and infrastructure support will really work

That's one of the great advantages of an economic strategy based on fuel cells for automobiles We're not starting from scratch Michigan already has a whale of a lot of automotive skill, experience and institutional momentum in the industry, and extending all that into a new kind of powertrain technology seems a logical thing to do

This suggests a two-pronged fuel cell strategy for Michigan Offensively, the idea is to build — promptly, firmly, immediately — on our technological and manufacturing strengths in the auto industry Defensively, the goal is to get so far ahead that nobody else can catch up

It's an exciting prospect I'm looking forward to seeing the Governor's proposals as a centerpiece for building a big coalition — auto companies, the supply chain, organized labor, the universities — to help Michigan's future

Kenya trip shows similarities between natives, visitors

The beginning of 2002 marked a significantly new start for many people in my Nairobi, Kenya home On Monday, my 3-year-old niece (the daughter of my host sister) carefully dressed in a schoolgirl's uniform a neatly pressed red-and-white-striped dress, new red socks, and shiny black loafers Her face was carefully washed, her hair crafted in tiny twists delicately secured against her head

My family and I snapped photos from the time she first stood in her uniform to the moment she took the first step into her classroom As I tried to keep my emotions in check (you would have thought it was MY daughter's first day!) I marveled at the way my niece, a little 3-year-old girl, boldly took each step out the door At 3, she has little to no sense of what the next 10 years of school will bring, but something about her easy willingness to leave the house on Monday morning makes me think she's going to be just fine

All day Monday as I thought of my little girl in school, I was reminded of myself and my beginnings — not necessarily my first day of school but my beginnings in Kenya, seeming especially noteworthy now because I'm nearing the end

Every so often the six of us Kalamazoo College students talk about our arrival in the Kenya airport and our first night here The flights spanned more than 30 hours and exhaustion, nerves and anticipation had made us more than mildly delirious

Upon arrival we waited for our luggage and meandered, single file, to the group of strangers waiting for us with undoubtedly equally as expectant nerves As we eventually found our new "parents" and met a few of our siblings we realized we were soon to be separated from the only five other people we knew in the whole country to go "home" with complete strangers And that first night did any of us sleep? Later we swapped stories of the ceiling patterns in our rooms

But as days turned into weeks, and weeks into months, this beautiful, albeit troubled, African country became our home On Christmas day when I spoke to both of my parents on the phone, I realized I was at the turning point where Kenya was no longer a "trip" I was taking but a new home I was going to miss

How did this happen to me, and when did this experience change from being simply a dimension of my education at Kalamazoo College to a place I lovingly thought of as home?

It was there, sitting in a young couple's home the size of most American kitchens where I laughed with island boys my age about love, marriage, girlfriends, boyfriends and the future.

During the week preceding Christmas my friend and I traveled to the coast of Kenya and to a tiny, remote island called Wasini The only lodging on the island is a series of small but well-cared-for cottages built and run by an aging but charismatic man named Masood

When my friend and I clamored out of the car at the end of the coast, Masood's nephew greeted us and encouraged us to take a short dhow (small boat) ride to Wasini As we crossed the channel to Wasini, the Indian Ocean lapping at the sides of our boat, we could see the white sand beaches of the island, the abandoned coral mounds spotting its coast, and the enormous patio of the lodge watching the ocean's ebb and flow and the tides of incoming visitors

The tiny paradise of Wasini was our home for several days and I believe it was there when I began to perceive this country as home It was there, sitting in a young couple's home the size of most American kitchens where I laughed with island boys my age about love, marriage, girlfriends, boyfriends and the future

It was there and at that time when I realized that no matter how different our lives have been — regardless of nationality, race, or age — we are more alike in our humanity than we are different

This was my beginning — December in Africa — and it came four months into my program

Sara Wiener is a Plymouth resident, Salem High graduate and student at Kalamazoo College taking part in a study-abroad program in Kenya. She will provide an occasional glimpse into the program.

Work progressing on schedule for Schoolcraft's VisTaTech

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
hgallagher@oe.homecomm.net

Progress is on schedule for the $20 million VisTaTech expansion of the Waterman Center at Schoolcraft College

Adelard Raby, Schoolcraft's retired vice president for business services, is working part time as project manager for VisTaTech working with contractor Barton Malow

"Construction is about 25 percent done," Raby said

The 87,000-square-foot addition will provide a new home for the school's popular culinary arts program with new restaurant space, a business and industry information technology center with state-of-the-art computer labs and a multi-purpose room for community activities The addition is scheduled to be completed in December and open in January 2003

Raby said the foundation is almost complete Walls are up in the culinary arts area, the roof has been put on the multipurpose room Masonry is in place and wing walls are up in computer lab section In addition underground plumbing is being installed

"By the end of April, we'll have enclosed the building The roof system and curtain walls will be up Then the public view will go into hibernation and the work will be all interior," Raby said

The biggest inconvenience for those using the Waterman Center is that the primary sidewalk from the parking lot has been closed Also a short term parking lot for customers of the American Harvest Restaurant has been closed

Raby comes in twice a week on a consulting basis He said that every Wednesday he has a meeting with Barton Malow and subcontractors On Thursday Raby meets with his replacement as vice president for business services Jill O'Sullivan to update her on progress and to nail down questions about building details

Hot work: A welder at work on the roof of what will be the Culinary Arts instructional department

"Our object is to keep the cost down, the contractor, of course, wants to make a profit," Raby said "Under construction management, we hire the general contractor, Barton Malow They issue a series of bid packages for subcontracting but we hold the subcontracts Barton Malow manages them for us"

Ghafari Associates Inc is the architect for the project

Once work in finished on the expansion, the college will close off sections of the current Waterman Center to remodel them for new applications and to conform with the design of the addition That work is expected to be completed by September 2003

Gala evening to brighten spirits, fund orchestra

Like the rest of us Rose Kachnowski still feels down after the Sept 11 terrorist attacks on America even though she's coordinating a gala evening to benefit the Livonia Symphony Orchestra Friday, Feb 8, at Laurel Manor in Livonia Kachnowski thinks that will change once she and the audience sit down to listen to the program of light classical and popular tunes

ARTISTIC EXPRESSIONS

LINDA ANN CHOMIN

No, the disturbing images won't suddenly vanish from memory but once lost in the music they'll forget about the tragic events for awhile Besides, guests will leave feeling good because they've helped the nonprofit orchestra continue to present its six concert season

Kachnowski believes "music should be a part of life" All six of her children learned to play an instrument Son John still plays trombone with the LSO, daughter Leslie, violin

"After Sept 11 people are looking for music," said Kachnowski "What better way to listen to lighthearted music than at a Mardi Gras celebration We'll have two quartets – brass playing Mardi Gras and Dixieland music beforehand and a string quartet during dinner As dinner winds down the orchestra will begin playing The orchestra performance is open to everyone for a lower ticket price

"We re taking a two tier approach for tickets with a sit down dinner, concert and auction or they can just attend the concert and auction We're trying to appeal to wider range of people, make it affordable for everyone'

Mardi Gras

What: Dinner, concert and silent auction to benefit Livonia Symphony Orchestra

When: Friday, Feb 8, 6 p m dinner, 8 p m concert

Where: Laurel Manor, 39000 Schoolcraft, Livonia

Tickets: $50, dinner concert and auction, $20 concert and auction Call (734) 425-4855

A silent auction is sure to attract everyone from golfers to music lovers Looking for a Valentine's Day gift for your special someone How about a piece of jewelry, music box, golf clubs, a bottle of wine, or a string, woodwind or brass quartet to serenade your sweetie?

Kachnowski's gone all out in planning the event Survivor contestant Michael Skupin will sign autographs and talk during dinner Vocalist Rebekah Walker joins the orchestra on stage afterwards Walker performed with the LSO at its annual Music Under the Stars concert last summer

"We're going to have decorations, beads on the tables and masks, balloons everywhere, lots of Dixieland music," said Kachnowski "It will be fun, colorful and exciting from the time they walk in the door until the time they go home"

ART THERAPY HELPS CHILDREN RELAY TRAUMATIC FEELINGS

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
lchomin@oe homecomm.net

A black heart Hearts with holes in them There's a sense of urgency when Judith Barr talks about troubled children and the drawings they create in therapy sessions at First Step The domestic violence agency helps victims escape verbal and physical abuse in the home Over the last 15 years, Barr's seen terrifying images of families come to life on paper at the main office in Plymouth and a shelter the agency prefers to keep secret for safety reasons It is there advocates or counselors frequently use art to reach the smallest victims

While the memories are vivid, children have trouble telling their stories

"Art is a wonderful way to get them talking," said Barr, director of the children's program at First Step "It's sort of going in the back door, It enables a child to express feelings in a non-threatening way and it's fun We get them talking about scary things While you're talking you're working with Play doh I make a spider A child might make a fist

"You'll often see children's drawings with huge crocodile tears One little boy told a counselor I have a black heart It hurts so much it's black A lot of children draw a hole in the heart"

All of the art isn't always so dark though The staff at First Step work with children to change the hurt into hope for the future, not only in the agency's facilities but third grade classes in Wayne County schools The Keeping Kids Safe program identifies children and the problems they're experiencing at home by presenting materials and a video on domestic violence Afterwards about 10 percent of students come forward with serious concerns

"It's quite powerful to listen to what kids have to say," said Barr "Why are people mean to teach other? Yelling scares me Why do mom and dad scream at each other? We teach them about kind or soft words We tell them if adults in your family are fighting it's not your fault and to talk to someone

First Step Fundraisers

- Twelfth annual charity dance with Steve King & the Dittilies 7:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Friday, Feb. 1, at Burton Manor, 27777 Schoolcraft, west of Inkster Road, Livonia. $30, $27 in advance. Call (248) 645-6666.
- "Healing the Hearts of Children presents a gala featuring Alexander Zonjic & Friends and an amateur show 6:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 8, at the State Theatre, 2115 Woodward, Detroit. $50, includes concert only and dessert. Call (313) 567-1640.

"Shelter kids are very traumatized They're either very aggressive or very quiet Sometimes the most quiet are the troubled children We use kick ball and puppet play to reach them We'll see preschoolers use the lion to show someone being mean and eating all the smaller animals With the art we see a progression from closed and guarded where they use one color, a lot of black and red, then gradually begin using softer colors and lines that flow smoothly"

One of the latest projects at First Step allows children to paint their wishes for a happy family on stars The ornaments will be sold for $10 a piece at a fundraiser, Healing the Hearts of Children, Friday, Feb 8 at the State Theatre in Detroit Proceeds go to three Wayne County domestic violence agencies including First Step, Interim House and My Sister's Place

A charity dance is scheduled Feb 1, at Laurel Manor in Livonia to raise money for First Step's general fund including a 24-hour helpline The agency receives between 400 and 500 calls monthly from people needing help For information about First Step, call (734) 416-1111 For immediate assistance, call the 24-hour helpline at (734) 459-5900 or toll free at (888) 453-5900

"It's a major fundraiser for us," said Barr "We want to create an awareness in community We'll have gaming tables and entertainment It was originally the idea of Brian Duggan 12 years ago

Bill Knowles can't think of a better way to celebrate Mardi Gras than with Dixieland music Since Knowles won't be able to attend this year's festivities in New Orleans, he's booked Paul Keller and his Swinging' Fellars to play 3 p m Sunday, Feb 10, at the Monaghan Knights of Columbus Hall in Livonia

One of five concerts in the Windsor/Detroit Jazz Club series, the program includes swing music and Dixieland for dancing Knowles encourages revelers to wear costumes as their tickets will be discounted at the door

"In New Orleans they'll be parading through the streets for Mardi Gras on Feb 12," said Knowles, a Farmington resident "We're asking them to dress as cakewalkers and bring their parasols Cakewalking began in New Orleans For the funerals in old New Orleans they played dirge like music On the way back they played happy music and those ladies parading in the procession would be called cakewalkers The family usually hired a band to play strutting music because they believed once you die you really start to live"

Paul Keller intends to do a lot of living before he dies Keller brings 8-members of his Bird of Paradise Orchestra to the Mardi Gras Party/Concert Feb 10 in Livonia In the front line are Paul Finkbeiner on trumpet, Paul Klinger, coronet and soprano saxophone, Chuck Moss, trombone, and Cary Kocher, vibraphone Chuck Shermatero, piano and Pete Siers, drums, make up the rhythm section Firefly Club owner Susan Chastain provides vocals

Costume Carnaval Ball celebrates Brazilian spirit

Put on your gowns your Island-inspired shorts or a wild costume and get ready to dance to the beat of Brazilian drums

The Brazilian Cultural Club of Detroit hosts its annual Carnaval Ball 8 p m 1 p m , Saturday, Feb 2 at the American Polish Cultural Center, 2975 E Maple at Dequindre in Troy

Hundreds of party-goers are expected at the 18th annual event

It's an evening to discover Brazilian music, its dance and exotic culture The Carnaval is an authentic Brazilian-style ball fashioned after the parties in Rio at Carnaval

Christina Peixoto of Nomads Travel Club said the Troy event is features live Brazilian entertainment including musicians, appetizers, samba dancers and extravagant costumes

"It all creates a wild atmosphere and everyone is welcome," Peixoto said "Wear shorts, tuxedos or gowns — just be ready for a wild time '

'It all creates a wild atmosphere and everyone is welcome. Wear shorts, tuxedos or gowns — just be ready for a wild time.'

Christina Peixoto
Nomads Travel Club

The creativity and eclectic crowd is what makes the Carnaval Ball such a hit, she said Costumes are encouraged but not required — a gown or tuxedo with a pretty mask can be worn A pair of shorts and fun shirt is okay too

The point is that anything goes, Piexoto said

There's a costume contest and the grand prize winner receives a five-day cruise along the Willamette and Columbia rivers Categories include Best Couple, Best Group, Most Luxurious, Most Creative, Most Brazilian and Funniest

Entertainment includes the Chicago Samba, a midwest based ensemble, playing old and new Brazilian music such as Samba, Bossa-nova Olodum, Forro, Chorinho and Pagode Also see the dance-style, Capoeira, a ritualized and elaborate combat dance of whirling handstands and cartwheels in front of live music It's based in the city of Salvador and is an intricate expression of dance and marital arts using legs, feet and hands

Member tickets are $35, non members $45 Cash bar Ticket price includes entrance to the event and appetizers For more information visit BCCD20@hotmail com or call 248-545 8450 or 313-862-7824

— Complied by Lana Mini

Don your costumes: A costume contest is part of the fun at the Brazilian Ball on Saturday This group of friends attends yearly, wearing different themed hats Last year they were the "Pineapple Heads"

'We know we can break the cycle of abuse but it's our fear because of the faltering economy and the military and war effort, dollars are being cut Corporations aren't as willing to give when they're laying off employees We're concerned about the political and funding climate since economics shifted and the terrorist attacks of Sept 11 We're looking forward to new year with cautious optimism But that's not easy when there's been 11 domestic violence-related homicides in out-Wayne County since Sept 11 We fear women will stay (in a domestic violence situation) because of unemployment and the emphasis on family since the attacks '

And when the women stay so do the children

EATING OUT

7TH Annual Food & Wine Extravaganza

Gala benefits area chefs

As athletes gear up for the Winter Olympics in Salt Lake City, chefs across Metro Detroit are honing their skills for a competition of their own on Feb 12

As part of the seventh annual Michigan Culinary Food & Wine Extravaganza a Mardi Gras benefit for the Michigan Culinary Team and Scholarship Fund, 20 area restaurants will present an artful display and tasting of their delicacies specially paired with an accompanying wine

Guests at the 'Fat Tuesday" celebration, hosted by Mac & Ray's Banquet & Conference Center, 30675 North River Road in Harrison Township, will cast their vote for the event's best restaurant, with the winner receiving a cash prize and trophy A panel of food and wine writers, including the Observer & Eccentric's wine columnists Eleanor and Ray Heald, also will judge the restaurants to determine the best food and wine pairing and award a monetary prize to the winning restaurant

You can read about the winners in an upcoming column by the Healds

The theme of the event is "Celebrating Mardi Gras," which will be immediately evident when guests arrive at a New Orleans street facade at the entrance Decorative masks and colorful beads complete the official 'N'awlins" atmosphere

Adding to the festivities will be live music by Mel Ball and Colours, along with silent and live auctions, and a raffle, all in support of education for local chefs and aspiring culinary students

"The event was founded as a way to generate funds that would help the Michigan Culinary Team compete in Germany every four years at the World Culinary Salon," said Roger Petri, chairperson of Michigan Culinary Food & Wine Extravaganza and director of operations at Mac & Ray's 'We also have added a scholarship component which awards $10,000 to local students who are pursuing their dream of becoming one of the great chefs of tomorrow

■ 'We have received tremendous support each year from the hospitality community as well as our corporate sponsors such as Petitpren and US Foodservice. We are pleased to host this event once again and look forward to another successful year as the community as a whole comes together in support of culinary education.'

Chairperson, Michigan Culinary Food & Wine Extravaganza

"We have received tremendous support each year from the hospitality community as well as our corporate sponsors such as Petitpren and US Foodservice," added Petri "We are pleased to host this event once again and look forward to another successful year as the community as a whole comes together in support of culinary education "

Participating restaurants include Beverly Hills Grill, Big Rock Chop House, Beans & Cornbread, Golden Mushroom, McCormick & Schmick and Andiamo restaurants

The extravaganza runs from 6-10 p m , on Tuesday, Feb 12th Tickets are $75 for general admission and $125 for Gold Salon and are available by calling (586) 463-9660 ext 429 or 437

Kachnowski hopes enough people will want to join in the fun so the orchestra can raise $15,000 After more than 20 years on the board she knows how important money is when it comes to producing their season of classical concerts at Churchill High School

A shortfall in the $135,000 budget could mean they might have to cancel a concert, according to Bob Bennett, LSO president Bennett joined the board 28 years ago when he was a Livonia councilman and stayed on through his terms as Mayor

"We weren't able to produce our fall fundraiser because we didn't have a location," said Bennett "A June golf outing is up in the air We have a date but not a chairperson Volunteers are needed to organize "Chip in for the Arts "

If more people would chip in their time and money, Bennett and the orchestra wouldn't have to worry about finishing out their 29th season Volunteers can allot as little or as many hours as they like Usher a concert or sit on the board The LSO needs talent of all kinds

All under one roof

Home improvement show exhibits latest ideas

BY LANA MINI
lmini@oe homecomm net

If your bathroom is grotesque, embarrassing and outdated there's a contest for a completely free remodel that includes new faucets, cabinetry, tiles and even an air masseur massage tub

To be considered, however, you need to show the public a photo of your ugly lavatory

It's just one highlight at the Novi Home Improvement Show, organized by the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan, Jan 31 to Feb 3 at the Novi Expo at I-96 and Novi Road Homeowners can submit bathroom photos in the contest sponsored by The Observer & Eccentric, the BIA and WJR, each day at the show

"This show is not only the place to find everything you need for your home, but also the venue to find the people who can do everything for you," Dan MacLeish, president of the Troy-based BIA, said

The latest in technology, products and services for interior and exterior design is the theme for the show's more than 300 exhibitors Visitors should also expect the unique Tom Woodruff, of Raubar Granite in Detroit, is introducing etched tiles

"If you can picture it, you can create it with our system," Woodruff said "It's a permanent picture that will not fade over time"

The laser system is the tool used to engrave virtually any image, logo or photo into granite, marble, ceramic, glass, mirror or slate

The chicest ideas in every area of home improvement can be seen

Ruth Dillard co-owns J & R Flooring with her husband Jerry It's located on Schoolcraft in Livonia and carries traditional and trendy flooring ideas Hardwood floors are still hot, hot, hot but the newest twist is wooden inlays of intricate shapes and images that are installed in the center of the floor Information on the inlays will be available at the show's J & R Flooring exhibit

"It's a newer idea that is quite costly," Ruth Dillard said "The floors are beautiful with lots of wood inlays, pieces of wood that are cut out and set into natural wood flooring"

Popular floorings will be on exhibit too, Dillard said Sales of laminates, like Pergobrand, have soared because it can be installed by the homeowner and is very durable

Stylish ideas: From ovens to wine storage, Trevarrow Inc. will display its most interesting ideas at the show — including the gas cooktop pictured here and warming drawers

Don't forget about food

Chef Raymond Wong will give cooking demonstrations Wong, of the now-closed four-star Wong's Eatery in Windsor, showcases pan-Pacific meals at WOW (which stands for Wong's on Woodward) on Woodward just south of 14 Mile Road

Low-fat, healthy cooking and creative ways to use leftovers is his theme

"I want to show that cooking is fun and can be quick," Wong said "I'll show how to make healthy, low-fat dishes using vegetables and interesting spices – and how to cut down on salt"

Thai-Chi, a former Woodward Avenue restaurant, is where Wong introduced his trademark sesame shrimp toasts, vegetable pot stickers, and cold spicy sesame noodles His other specialties are from Malaysia, Indonesia, Singapore, Cambodia and other Asian countries

WXYT's Ask the Handyman host Glenn Haege, and WJR's Garden Show host Dean Krauskopf and Appliance Doctor Joe Gagnon will broadcast live and offer advice

In addition to The Ugliest Bathroom contest, there is The Funniest Home Improvement Stories Contest, with the chance to win an insulated patio room by Four Seasons

If you miss it

If the Novi Home Improvement show passes you by, there's another one — also sponsored by the BIA The show will be at the Palace of Auburn Hills Feb 8-10 Enter the same contests and visit the same radio personalities

Some of the 150 vendors

- Brink's Home Security, featuring home security systems
- Mathison Supply, exhibiting bathroom features
- All Seasons Spas, featuring spas, fireplaces and patio furniture
- Empire Doors, featuring doors and windows
- Eclipse Window Tinting, featuring window tinting

Tickets for the Palace Show are $7 for adults, $6 for seniors and free to kids 12 and under Show hours are 5-10 p m on Friday, 10 a m to 10 p m on Saturday and 10 a m to 6 p m on Sunday The Palace is located at I-75 and Lapeer road (M-24)

Unique: Patriotic images are popular in home decor this year. At Raubar Granite in Detroit, customers can engrave any image on granite, stone, marble, limestone, slate, glass and more with a laser etching system. See the display at the Home Improvement Show at the Novi Expo.

Where did January go? It seems like New Year's Eve was just yesterday Nevertheless the book selection gets better and better – take your pick of these winners

The Himalayan Garden Growing Plants from the Roof of the World Jim Jermyn (Timber Press $34 95) takes us on a breathtaking journey to that part of the world Jermyn begins with an overview of this vast range of mountains the Himalaya and each ecological zone It seems impossible that many plants such as primulas trollius and corydalis, all very familiar in our gardens, originated from this seemingly barren area

GARDEN SPOT

He has grown and propagated these plants and shares his expertise, including the correct way to place them in the appropriate setting in our own gardens Alpine woody and climbing plants and bulbous species are also included Straight forward information makes the book easy to understand by both professionals and novices A list of several U S plant nurseries will help you find those that aren t available locally

Also by Timber Press, Urban Sanctuaries Peaceful Havens for the City Gardener, Stephen Anderton ($29 95) gives many examples of urban gardens with a wealth of design ideas The photographs show how innovative urban gardens can be, from very simple to complex creations Each caption is a lesson in itself The text flows beautifully with more ideas than one can imagine To begin with he advises that the most important place to start is to look at space and scale, then he explains just what he means and follows this format throughout the book If you have, or wish to have a garden in the city study this book so that you will achieve your desire and get it right the first time

The Art of the Kitchen Garden Jan & Michael Gertley (Taunton Press, $29 95) is a delight and really proves that vegetables can be beautiful, as well as tasty The authors present a guide for a garden design that is both practical and very pleasing, with instruction from start to finish They follow three rules used by European gardeners years ago Attention to detail, artistic interpretation, and color Ideas for design, plant selection, growing basics and actual architectural drawings will inspire many gardeners Their practical advice in a beautiful format shows why the book was chosen the Book of the Year in 1999 by Foreword Magazine

If you have any questions about landscaping your property, the book Anyone can Landscape!!, Joel M Lerner (Ball Publishing $35 95, soft) will answer those you may have It's very well organized into four parts with specific instructions in each The beginning landscape, practicalities, construction, and plants This 458-page book is filled with ideas for every type of garden or problem you may encounter I like the way the book is laid out with a no nonsense approach, bold type and short paragraphs Photographs are few, but well done, and the line drawings are clear and simple The subject is thoroughly covered If not at your booksellers, contact Ball Publishing, 335 N River St , Batavia, Ill , 60510 Phone (630)208-9080, ext 126 or Fax (630)208-9350 - Web Rblanch@ballpublishing com

I thoroughly enjoyed reading about 18 gardeners in Earth on her Hands, Starr Ogkenga (Potter, $55) an American Horticultural award winning book What a treat and especially so when I realized I had visited two of them These dedicated gardeners share their gardens and expertise willingly as they relay stories of their experiences as each family found the perfect spot for their garden in the United States The personal stories each tells helps to understand the pull of the land for each We meet Joanna McQuail Reed in Pennsylvania who began her extensive natural and herb gardens in 1939, Jane P Oversesch, of Kansas City Miss , who tends her walled English-style garden, Marion Prince Hosmer and her almost 50 year old garden in York, Maine, and Michigander, Betty H Blake of Onsted, who has an extensive alpine garden Each lady is an inspiration

Another book in the Taylor's Guides series, Bulbs, How to Select and Grow 400 Species of Spring and Summer Bulbs, Barbara W Ellis (Houghton/Mifflin $23) contains all the information you may need to be successful, from the earliest spring bulbs to the summer beauties and the fall-blooming ones There are lists of bloom times so the garden can contain bulbs for a whole season, forcing instructions, propagating and storage tips Specific information about each plant is shown in the color gallery

Special notice: There is still limited space on my trip on the waterways of Holland and Belgium and a visit to the Floride (plus many other exciting spots) Dates April 8-18, 2002 This is an excellent trip at the unbelievable price of just $2599 Call Jean, at The World of Travel, (248)203-0022 for a brochure and to register

Colors bring a room to life

BY SAMANTHA CRITCHELL
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

Color creates a mood and a rhythm for a room Yellow is cheerful, green is calming, and red is bold

But just like everything else in life, color can be adapted to meet most every taste and lifestyle, says Anna Kasabian, author of The New Home Color Book (Rockport)

Red, for instance, is one of the boldest colors, leading many people to shy away from it, Kasabian says, but "red" could be a deep, dark and comforting rust or an ultra-feminine pale pink

If you like red but can't imagine a red room, Kasabian advises choosing a wallpaper featuring red or a sofa covered in a red fabric

Purple is another 'big color' but it doesn t have to be

Violet can be introduced into a room in the form of a pillow or drapes as punctuation points, Kasabian suggests in her book

Try fighting the cold bug with tender loving care

Don't let the mild winter fool you and your family Colds are running rampant When one of the nasty little bugs zaps someone in your household, get right down to the ABC's of nursing more than a sneeze Fight back with a lot of tender loving care

Stock up on cold remedies You keep first aid supplies in stock in the event of such incidents as cuts, scrapes and burns So why not keep cold remedies in stock in the event someone in your family comes down with a cold or the flu? It's far more reassuring to treat a fever, aches, a cough or a stuffy nose at the first sign of symptoms than it is to wait until you can drive to a store or pharmacy to purchase items such as pain relievers, decongestants, a thermometer or a vaporizer

LISA LUCKOW-HEALY

Put a welcome smile in your kitchen Keep a few comfort items in your cupboard, pantry and refrigerator to help put a smile on someone's face when you think he or she really needs it Consider favorite juices, ice cream, Popsicles, crackers, candy, and chicken soup as starting points

You might also want to consider replenishing some stay-at-home favorites Think about what simple, yet comforting, forms of entertainment you can keep within arms reach for the time when a cold medicine just isn't enough to help cure a nasty cold or virus Is your deck of playing cards complete? Will your young child take comfort in the touch of a small, plush, stuffed animal? Does your spouse enjoy working on a puzzle, a crossword puzzle or a word search to take his or her mind off ails? Slip a little something in for yourself – a book or a new journal — while you are stocking up in the event you catch a cold or flu bug Your cold care nurturing might be all your responsibility if everyone else in your family is too busy with work and school

"Is the doctor in?" A trip to the doctor's office is a good first line of defense when you question the nature or severity of oncoming cold symptoms No good doctor should question your concern for yourself or your child, even if the diagnosis is a common cold It's better to be safe than sorry by having symptoms checked out Peace of mind is good medicine

Cure the cold blues with creature comforts Make your child or spouse feel as comfortable as possible under the circumstances Assuming your cold remedy cupboards are fully stocked and you and your "patient" are heeding your doctor's advice, go beyond the limits of basic comfort with special touches to help get through the rough spots

Read a good book to your child or spouse, or listen to an audio book Listening to the plot of an exciting story will help transport your sick loved one into another world away from the discomforts on his or her mind

Have fun with simple games like Tic Tac Toe, Hangman, and connect the dots The more energetic "patient" might enjoy some of his or her favorite board games that require a little more effort and strategizing

Watch family movies Transport yourselves back in time to nostalgia, laughter and good cheer Your child might find it intriguing to watch your wedding video and comment on the way things were "back then"

Open up family albums and wade through pictures that find themselves generating stories your child has never heard, or likes to hear over and over again

Steer your recovering patient toward a favorite hobby you've both been meaning to start Assemble a model car Make a beaded bracelet Work on an upcoming holiday project (i e make Valentine's Day cards)

Pull out toys your child may have forgotten about because they were hidden in the back of a closet Sort through toy cars or action figures, dress Barbie dolls, or build with Legos

If your patient is up to it, give him or her a back or foot massage Treat your daughter to a manicure

Cuddle up together under a blanket and enjoy a roaring fire

Fluff up the pillows Have your patient sit back, relax and enjoy the sounds of his or her favorite music

Open mail together Talk about interesting stories in the newspaper or a new magazine Provide your loved one with some writing tools and encourage him or her to write a letter to a long distance friend or relative

Remember yourself when the cold bug bites Keep this list in a place where you can hand it off to your spouse when you need tender loving care Add a few of your own favorites to it In doing so, you will avoid the frustrations that set in when you are under the weather and assume everybody knows your wants and needs but they don't because you haven't told them, which makes you feel even worse

To leave Lisa Luckow Healy a message from a touch tone phone about how you celebrate family, call (734) 953 2047, or e mail your suggestions for future family topics to LiHealy@mediaone net

Don't throw your money out the 'window' this winter

If the windows in your home are worn-out run-down and drafty, you're throwing money, well, out the window

With winter here, and utility rate increases driving home-heating costs higher than ever, windows that have deteriorated—or worse yet, been improperly installed—can be costing homeowners thousands of dollars per year With natural gas prices predicted to increase as much as 30 percent this winter, now is a perfect time to inspect your windows

It is time to replace your windows when they no longer serve their purpose—keeping the heat in during winter and the cold in during summer

Consider this if condensation forms on the inside of your window and freezes in the winter time, your home is losing as much heat through that window as it would if the wall had a hole in it the size of a brick

And if you think that drafty windows are only costing you a few dollars a month on your heating bills, think again According to a study conducted by the US Department of Energy, by converting from single-pane to double pane clear glass windows, an average homeowner can cut his or her heating bill by as much as 25 percent By converting to argon filled, double-pane windows with a low E coating, the heating bill could be cut as much as 35 per cent

When considering the long-term return on your investment (homeowners can expect to recoup 60 to 70 percent of the cost of replacement windows), you could easily be looking at thousands of dollars saved in less than five years

How do you tell if your windows no longer work and need to be replaced? According to Stanford Blanck, co owner of Taylor based Wallside Windows, a manufacturer and installer of vinyl replacement windows, energy efficiency in windows is a result of two factors—the window frame and the window glass Blanck, who has more than 30 years of window replacement experience, said the following areas are what to look for

The condition of the window frames

If your windows are loose and rattling, it means the sash and channels have deteriorated, and the window is no longer sealed properly A loose sash means that the window's life is over—it needs to be replaced Also, if you can actually feel air drafts around the window, whether in winter or summer, the window is not doing what it's supposed to do— it is time to replace it Rotting wood and peeling paint are results of condensation—a sign that the windows no longer work properly

If the frames are aluminum, you might consider replacing them with wood or vinyl According to Blanck, aluminum is a conductive metal, and does a poor job of keeping heat in the house Aluminum frames are found mainly on older houses, and are rarely installed anymore

The window glass

Windows today are far superior to the single-pane windows of years past

"Simply put, if you have single-pane windows—even if the frames are in perfect condition—you should replace the glass," Blanck said "Single-pane windows are costing you money"

Why? "Energy efficiency," Blanck noted

How well windows keep heat in and cold out is measured by something known as the U-Factor—the lower the U Factor, the more energy efficient the glass

The U-Factor for a single pane of glass is 1 30 Adding another pane of glass by installing a double pane window reduces the U-Factor to 49, meaning heat loss is cut by more than half If the double pane window has a low emissions coating, the U-Factor drops to 34 And if the space between the windows is filled with an inert gas, such as argon, the U-Factor is reduced even further

"The best window is the one that is installed properly"

But the single most important factor in window efficiency, according to Blanck, is installation "No matter how well a window is made," he said, "if it is not installed correctly, you bought a problem, not a solution"

If windows are not fitted correctly or properly installed, an excessive amount of the home's heat can be lost through even the slightest breach or opening

To ensure proper installation, hire a professional A good rule of thumb is to seek out window companies that have been in business at least as long their guarantee (see accompanying box for tips on selecting a window replacement contractor)

Remember, no matter how expensive your windows or how great they look in the showroom, you're wasting your money if they're not installed properly in your home

Choosing a Contractor

Stanford Blanck, co-owner of Taylor-based Wallside Windows offers the following advice for choosing a reputable contractor

1 Call the Michigan State Department of Commerce builder hotline, (900) 555-8374, and ask the following

- Does the company have a builders' license?

- Does either the company or the licensed contractor have any violations? If so, what were they?

2 Call the Better Business Bureau in your area to see if any consumer complaints have been lodged against the contractor

3 Visit the company's showroom If they don't have one, find another company

4 Get references Ask for name, address, and phone number of previous customers Get to those houses and decide if you like how the job looks Then call the customer and ask them if they've had any problems with either the windows or the company's service

5 Once you've selected a contractor, get in writing a start and completion date, and an itemized list of all material and labor costs Set up a payment plan, being sure not to pay in full until the job is completed

Computer is handy, but it has its limits

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

JOE GAGNON

I made a little note on this day and tucked it away for the children to open long after I am gone It says, 'Jan 24 2002, Joe gets into the computer" What it doesn't say is how interesting all of this is Here it is, 1 30 in the morning and I've been fooling around with this thing since 10 in the evening

All I can say at this point is that this is one heck of an appliance Valorie taught me how to get into it and how to do searches on the subject of major appliances While getting to that point I notice a caption that says something about men looking for women I wouldn't open that in a million years for fear of someone out there recognizing who I am

Can you imagine the embarrassment of talking about sex on a computer and getting caught at it Anyways folks I finally get to the appliance section, and I'm amazed at how much there is on the subject of appliances There is some really good information that can teach a lot to even a novice

Another important thing that jumped out at me are the phone numbers given out by some expert technicians, or so they say they are These phone numbers will allow you to ask a question about a product and spend a certain amount of time talking and getting the solution to your problem It tells you to get out your charge card because this time they spend with you on the phone will be billed to your account

An example is something like $13 for 15 minutes or something like that I guess I can't blame anybody for trying to make a buck but now I'm feeling sorry for myself I spent 20 years in business giving out do-it-yourself information for free and even went through a Harry Truman experience

I'm thinking that if I spent the next 10 years on this computer doing what they do at $13 per 15 minutes, I could come out with a nice little pile That's 40 hours per week times 50 weeks times $2080 per week equals $104,000 per year, WOW, that's big bucks

Now I know what people mean when they tell me to get with the program, Joe, these computers are the way of the future To be honest, I'm learning, but it doesn't mean I have to fall in love with it It doesn't have the sound of a human voice when I ask a question about why my refrigerator doesn't cool It doesn't give me a street address where I can visit a business owner to either complain or compliment his or her business It gives me a sense of impersonality

When I'm talking to someone and in the real business world, I don't do business with someone who is not warm to me I'm so touchy that I even throw out those envelopes I get in the mail with a bunch of discount coupons inside The reason is simple half of them don't have a street address on them and a whole bunch of toll free numbers Who are those guys?

Yes, I'm learning to use my computer and I have enjoyed what I do with it I write this column and a few books and prepare for the radio show and if I didn't have it, I'd use a typewriter Now for business reasons, I have no choice but to expand my horizon of communications, but I must assure you that I won't be charging you $13 for a phone call Stay tuned

Joe Gagnon can be heard Saturday and Sunday on 760 WJR He is a member and past president of the society of Consumer Affairs Professionals His phone number is (313) 873 9789

"A lighter hue (of purple) on the wall with darker purple accents can look beautiful and is not so overwhelming You'd be surprised," she says

Green, according to Kasabian, is calming, earthy and very versatile Shades of green with more blue in them tend to be cooler, richer and a little more formal Green with yellowish tints are warmer and more outdoorsy "Green can help the outside come in'

Blue is a more ubiquitous color than you think

If you look for it, you'll probably find it in most homes, Kasabian says When it's deep and dark it makes a big statement, a paler blue lends itself to florals or a "space that sings spring

As for yellow _ How can any one not like yellow? Kasabian asks

It's a color that almost always positive with a greenish yellow often used to complement an ultra modern look while a purer yellow conjures up images of buttercups daisies and rays of morning sun

STEPHANIE CASOLA

Non-sport fans say Super Bowl crosses line

Go ahead, ask any of my close friends and they'll all say the same

"She doesn't know a thing about sports"

I can hear those words echoing through the halls of my old school, Rochester Adams High, my college apartment, just about anywhere And I really don't mind

Sunday is the biggest annual football event of the year, yes, that's right, it's time for Super Bowl XXXVI And I couldn't care less

My sports impediment doesn't make me antisocial or awkward Like all of you superfans and sportos out there, I'll be at a great party with a group of friends, and the television – or more likely televisions – will be tuned into the big event

But judging by every Super Bowl game I can remember, I'll likely spend the evening chatting with other non-fans, dodging the Super Bowl freaks who constantly want me to "buy a square" — whatever that means — and turning my head only to check out the occasional outrageous commercial

I'm just not cut out to watch sports on TV How many times can you dart your eyes from one end of the screen to the other while the ball falls short of its net or goal? Five minutes into any game when the drone of the crowd has elevated above the announcer's commentary, and my eyes glaze over

It's not that I don't appreciate the hard work and athleticism demonstrated at that level of achievement, I do And if I were related to a single person with sports ability, I might feel different But when I'm in for a couch-potato-kind of-night, I don't want to share it with the Lions, Tigers or Pistons – oh my

I can live without the hype, the cheerleaders and worst of all, the abhorrent theme music

Reflecting on Super Bowls passed, I tend to remember the food, more often than the teams In 1995, I "watched" the game in my friend's dorm room at Michigan State where we spent more time eating pizza than keeping score I'll never forget the hilarity that ensued for Super Bowl XXXIV when one of our party hosts made an eager attempt at baking brownies for his guests He accidentally coated the pan with garlic-flavored cooking spray It's been our goal never to let him forget it

The party reaches its peak during halftime – the time when half of the visitors return to socializing, or at least dare to leave the lounge chairs to get another beer

A word of advice to my fellow Super Bowl simpletons, halftime is the only time to talk to the avid sports fans in the room It's the only time you might not end up on the wide-receiving end of the intimidating and collective "shush" from a crowd that's inching closer to the television with every scoring point That's probably the most important rule of etiquette to follow Sunday night

According to Superbowl com, last year's game was the fifth most-watched program in television history It drew 131,200,000 viewers I have to wonder how many of them were really paying attention

Area seniors win trips to see loved ones

BY RENÉE SKOGLUND
rskoglund@oe.homecomm.net

Thanks to Wayne County and Southwest Airline's recent "Home for the Holidays" program, two area seniors are back home and basking in memories of a visit with loved ones

Vera Wolnosky, 72, of Westland and Doris Patterson, 72, of Livonia are two of several senior citizens who filled out Home for the Holidays applications weeks before Christmas Winners received complimentary round-trip tickets to visit family or friends between Dec 3, 2001 and Jan 26 20002 in any city served by the Southwest Airlines

Both women flew to Florida, Wolnosky to visit her brother and Patterson to visit her daughter and granddaughter

Wolnosky spent a week in Tampa with her beloved baby brother, Jerry Even though he's 59, Wolnosky considers him just a kid After all, it was she who used to cart him to his doctor's visits in the Penobscot Building in Detroit by street car when she was in her early teens and he was just a toddler

"I always wanted a baby brother," she said "When I would take him to the doctor, everyone thought I was just a young mother"

The visit went perfectly, said Wolnosky Even the gray skies and cool weather that prevailed during her entire stay didn't dampen her and Jerry's spirits

"We went out to eat, went shopping and visited the flea markets We also rented movies because he only has one good channel and two lousy ones"

Wolnosky was at first reluctant to fill out an application But her co-workers in the Kay Beard Building in Westland, where she works as a caller in the Senior Alliance "Friendly Reassurance" program, urged her to do so Brotherly love: Vera Wolnosky of Westland enjoyed visiting with her brother, Jerry Zula, in Tampa, Fla. She won the trip by filling out an application for "Home for the Holidays," a program sponsored by Wayne County and Southwest Airlines.

"I knew I wasn't going to get it, but they said, 'Fill it out!,' and I got it"

Wolnosky is now back a work calling homebound seniors and entertaining her co-workers with anecdotes from her trip Everybody has seen her pictures She says she had no fear of flying and is grateful to Southwest Airlines for sponsoring the Home for the Holidays program

"Flying doesn't bother me, but they took my nail file away from me! My daughter-in-law warned me not to bring it"

Patterson returned home from Daytona Beach last Saturday after a week-long with her daughter, Donna The two women did a little shopping, but mostly they just enjoyed each other's company

"I can't do much because of health," said Patterson

Patterson received an application for Home for the Holidays with one of her Meals on Wheels deliveries She decided to fill it out

"That day I didn't have much to do I filled out applications for other things, and this was the only one that came through"

Like Wolnosky, Patterson was surprised when she found out she had won a ticket In spite of turbulence on the way down, she enjoyed the flight

"They were excellent," she said of the staff at Southwest "They couldn't have been better They were just wonderful, wonderful The captain even pushed me onto the plane in my wheelchair"

Successful program

Although Southwest Airlines has sponsored Home for the Holidays for over 20 years, Wayne County Executive Edward MacNamara introduced it to Wayne County 16 years ago

"Recent events have made it clear that it's more important than ever to stay in touch with family and friends, and Southwest Airlines has again generously offered a way for seniors to make the trip," he said during the program's award luncheon Dec 5 at the Airport Marriott Hotel

Jan Ford, department executive for Wayne County's Health Community Services, said applications were sent to 43 sites served by her department as well as every identifiable gathering place for seniors in Wayne County Once received the applications were turned over to Southwest Airlines, which made selections based on motivation for making the trip, length of time since applicant visited his or her loved one, and economic need Twenty-six trips were awarded to Wayne County residents, 1,015 trips were awarded nationally

"Southwest has always wanted to give back to the communities they serve," said Dan Jorgensen, Detroit-area marketing manager for Southwest Airlines "This is one way to do that"

Westland resident Marquerite Wojewski, 79, also won a Home for the Holidays trip Besides a $5 bingo pot, the trip was the first thing she ever won She looked forward to seeing her brother, David, in El Paso, Texas However, fate intervened While waiting to board her plane, Wojewski got sick

"I didn't get to go," she said "I guess it's just one of those things There's nothing you can do about it I'll try again next year"

Ford said the events of Sept 11 influenced some winners to decline their tickets "For those who chickened out we had to go back to the drawing board We certainly weren't going to give any trips back," she said

Comedian finds niche in corporate humor

ppace@oe.homecomm.net

The saying when a door closes, a window of opportunity usually opens has worked pretty much to par for one area man

Working out of a cubicle in his early 20s, Bill Thomas of Novi knew his job was not making him happy

"I just thought this is not what I want to do with my life," he said

When the company faced lay-offs, he saw his chance to perform stand up comedy full-time and he left without ever looking back Since then, Thomas has opened for such famous acts as Chuck Berry, Engelbert Humperdink, Gladys Knight & the Pips, Jay Leno and Ray Charles

While many comedians use vulgarities to get a quick laugh, Thomas said with pride that he always worked "clean" The "40-something" Thomas always admired comedians who didn't have to resort to dirty jokes for a cheap chuckle

With his deep, smooth voice, it's not surprising Thomas has worked in front of the microphone He hosted "The Bill Thomas Show" for Detroit radio station WXYT for five years and enjoyed poking fun at the news of the day

"I'd make fun of everything," he said

That job ended when the station turned to a sports radio format in recent years, but he still does some fill-in talk show host work here and on the east coast where he grew up

When WXYT changed formats, a window of opportunity opened again, he said Thomas decided to go back to stand up, but along a different avenue

Today, he bills himself as a corporate humorist, meaning he performs at corporate functions, association meetings and even church gatherings Thomas typically does most of his work in the metro area

"One thing I like about churches is they don't think they are allowed to laugh sometime," he said

While he had a great time touring the country doing stand up, he said the road can be exhausting

"When you're flying three or four times a week Now it's a quality of life issue," he said

Doing corporate gigs is a challenge, considering he sometimes is ordered to provide a routine even during a business restructuring conference, one that could

Act Happy!

If you want to have a good day and who doesn't it helps to start with a positive affirmation such as "Today is going to be a great day" or "It's great to be alive Thank you Lord for this day!" Whether you actually feel this way or not saying it will help put you in a positive frame of mind The act of smiling seems to activate some sort of "happy switch" in our brains just as frowning and moping around seem to turn off that switch Jumping out of bed in the morning with a big smile on your face may not always be easy but it will help you feel happy and energetic, whereas moping around and grumbling about how lousy you feel will understandably make you feel more depressed and lousy We must act first, and then the appropriate feelings will come not the other way around If you want to be energetic then start moving and acting energetically If you sit around waiting for that feeling to come you will probably be disappointed So start acting like you are cheerful and peppy and you'll soon discover that you are

To thee, O Lord, I lift up my soul.
R.S.V. - Psalm 25:1

Peace on earth, peace in the home

PAUL J. MELROSE

In the Jewish Bible the theme of "peace on earth" abounds The meanings of this phrase are several Peace describes a state of living in which rest and well being abound Peace may be applied to a state of existence between persons and communities in which concord rules Moving into a more specific Christian context peace comes as a gift of salvation from God, where peace is one at rest in God or in reconciliation with God In Creation God brought forth order from chaos and blessed humankind with the gifts of creation This relationship of God to Creation where peace and harmony ruled is the state that God intends for all of humanity, person to person, community to community, humanity to God

The New Testament writer, Paul, the founder of so many Christian churches around the Mediterranean world, challenged the churches to exhibit such a harmony of relationship in each community so that not only the absence of conflict, but the quality of relatedness which embodies the will of God and the mind of Christ would exist in each place

With all of the events of last fall, with the resurgence of conflict in parts of the world where it looked like the road to peace was being traveled, persons of faith and persons of no particular faith are challenged to think about peace in the world and in their own lives There is a relationship between the kind of peace one feels in one's heart and the kind of peace, which one lives in one's life Some might say that with so many homes in turmoil, where there is not anything like the quality of relatedness hinted at above, it is no wonder that people speak and behave in ways which seems to make a home of peace, much less a world of peace, a pipe dream, or a goal that is impossible to strive for

Yet, expressions of peaceful acts and relationships abound Look at the prayers of peace offered by so many people's and faiths Prayer services for peace continue, taking on even more significance in the wake of efforts to heal the deep wounds of September 11 People in my office, and those of my colleagues, are angry and hurt by their behaviors and those of others they love and wish to see if they can change it in some way to make it better They wonder if they can be a family that can live at least within tolerable limits of the pain that comes from love and intimacy

Peaceful gestures such as community meetings are set for people of different faiths and national backgrounds to come together to learn about each other An interfaith service and the open house at the Tawheed Center, the Islamic House of worship here in Farmington Hills are two examples of this Giving of money and time and items of need to the various charities with renewed emphasis are ways to create peace

In the home there are some things which we can do Be thankful for those around you who you love If there is one in your circle of family or friends who you do not feel at peace with, this may be the time to reach out with an olive branch Help your children to learn safe and constructive ways of disagreement and conflict resolution Let them watch you and your partner as you practice such behaviors Actions do speak louder than words and behaviors geared toward peace are examples of the possibilities as well as results of different motives

What do you value most, the satisfaction of your own needs exclusively or the gift of life itself?

Three of the world's religions pray to a God of Peace All of our prayers are for peace this year Peace in the World and Peace in the Home

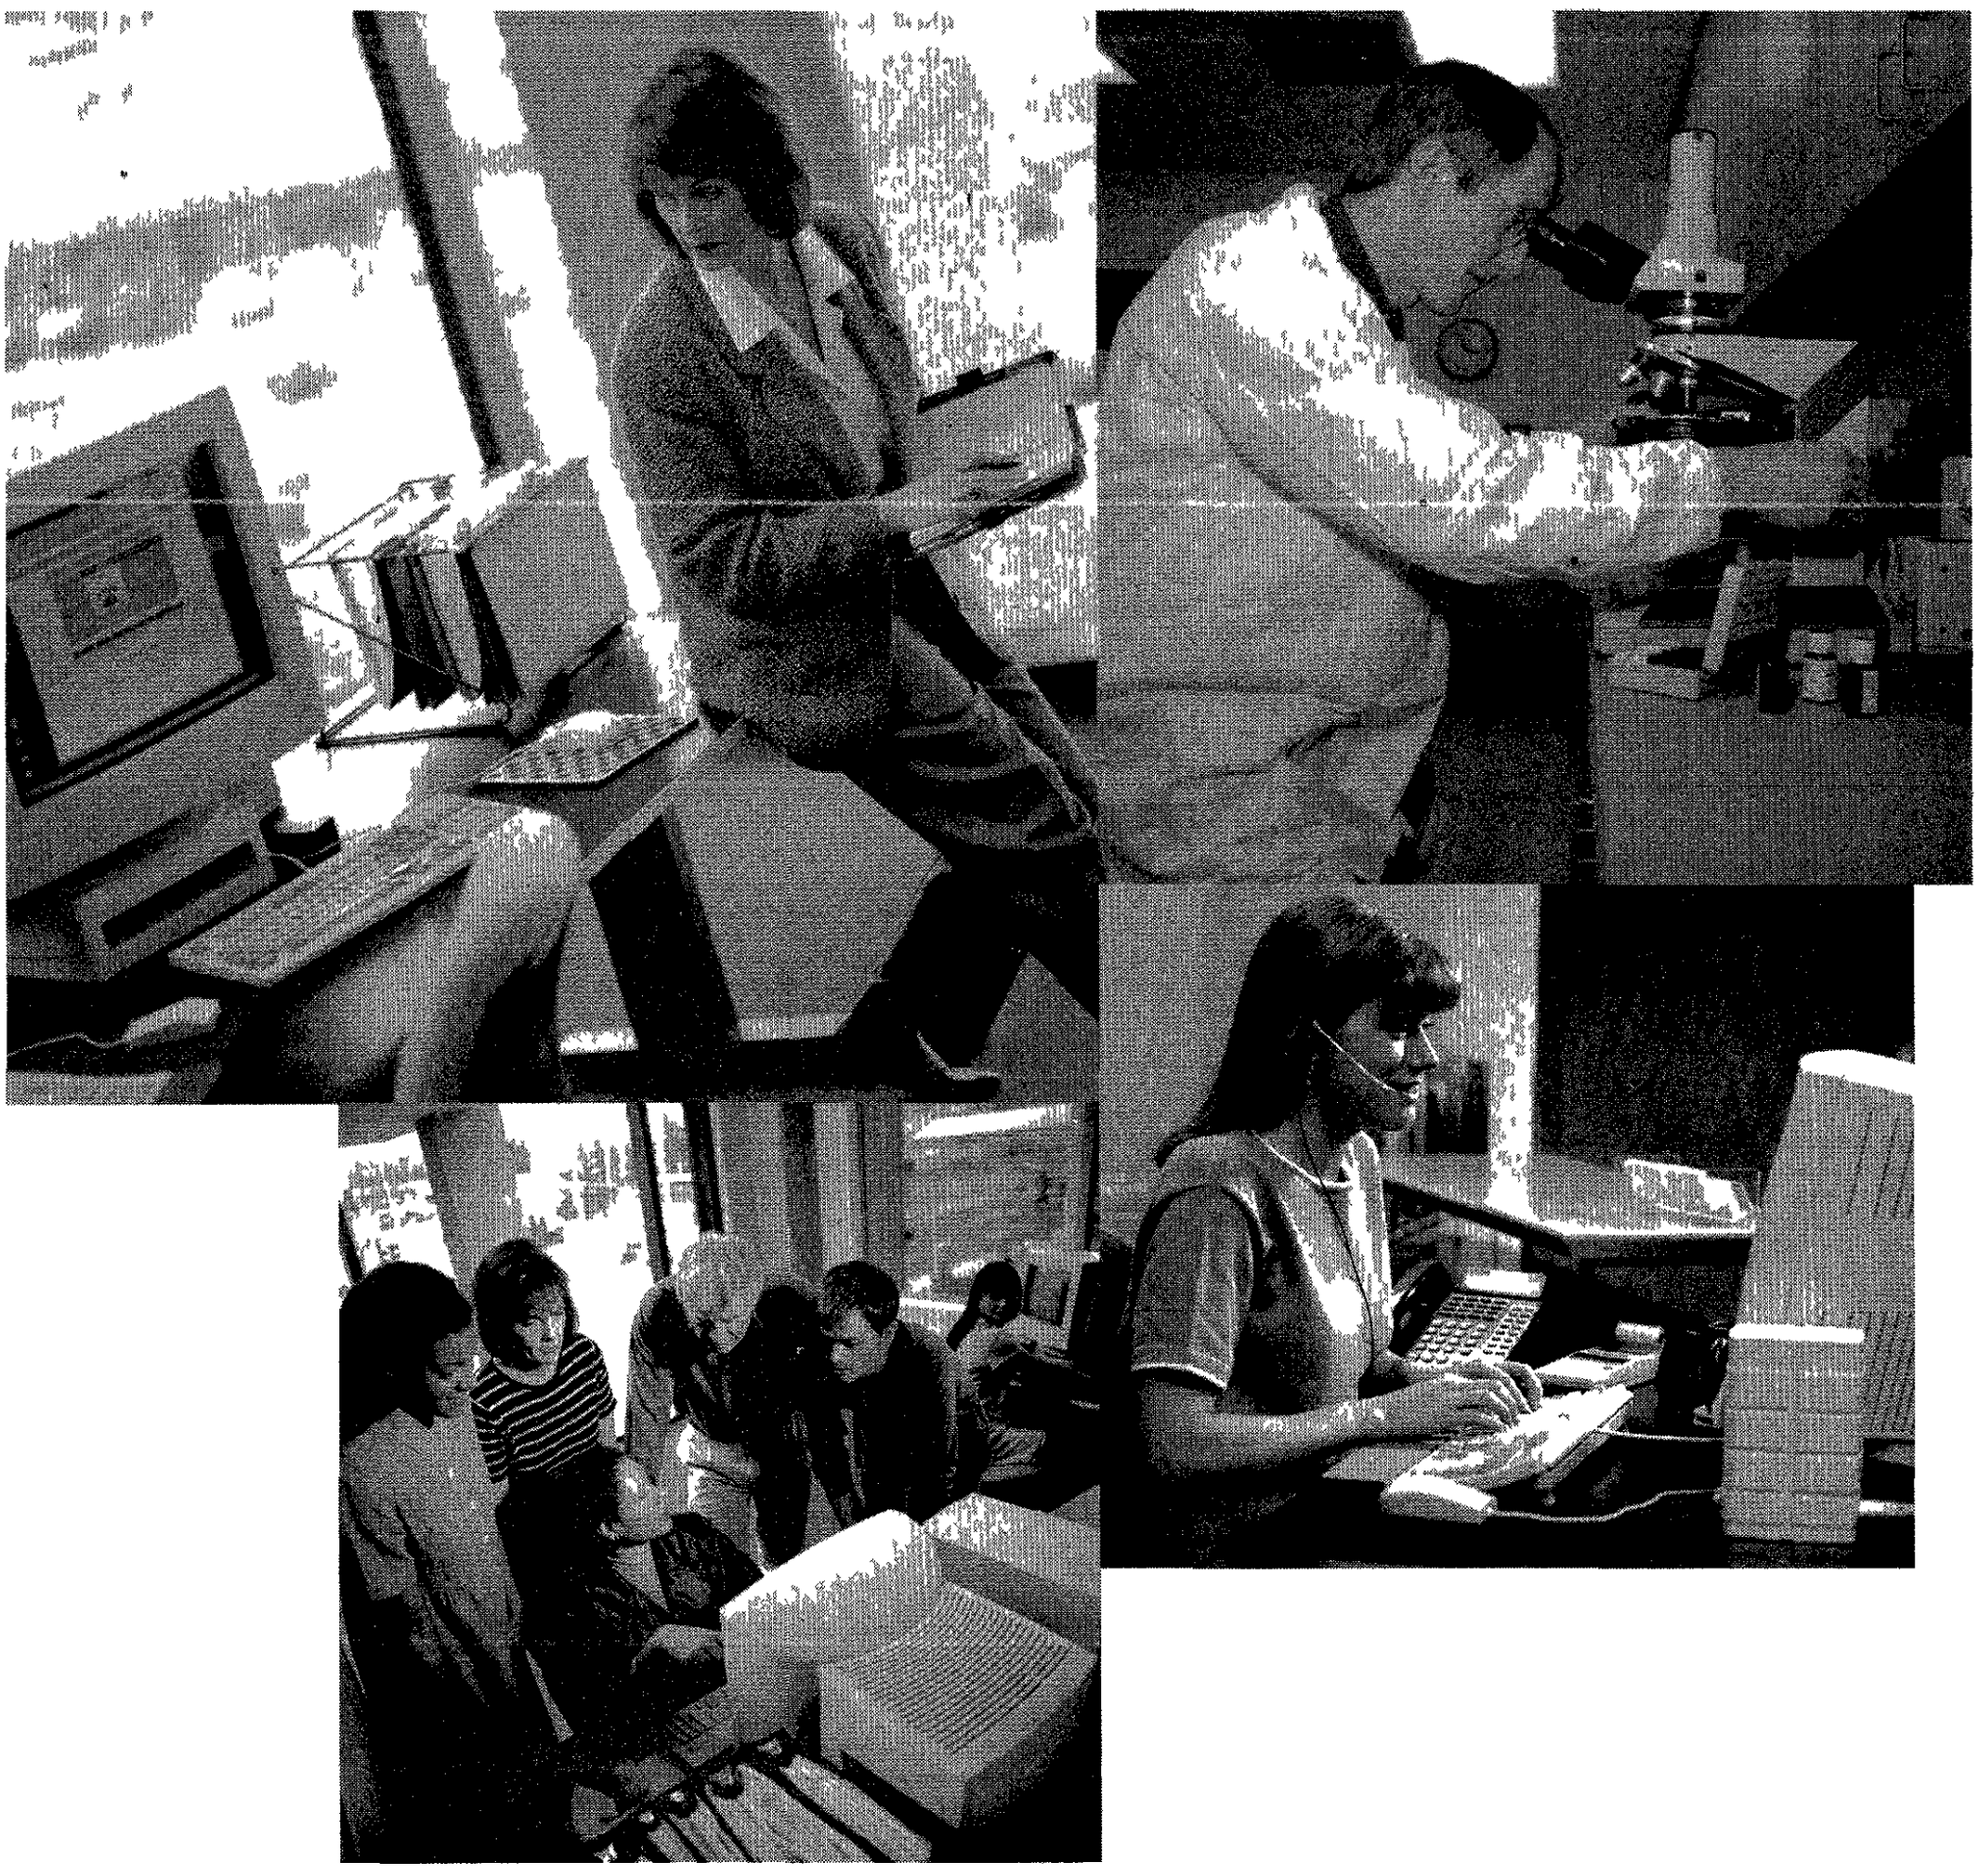
Look for the Flower Directory after Valentine's Day with information on the Easter dates and deadlines!



We're a whole lot closer to home.

Whether you're looking for a job or looking for someone to help you get the job done, your hometown newspaper's Classifieds are the place to look.

Let's face it, if you're hiring these days you know how hard it is to find just the right person. You don't want someone from three counties away who has to spend hours battling traffic that's seems to keep getting worse instead of better.

You want to look for people right here, maybe not in the neighborhood, but close enough to arrive fresh and ready to work.

It's the same when you are making a job change. You want something close enough to keep you out of the frustrating gridlock that's going on out there.

You want enough time in the morning to get a calm start and you don't want to spend half your paycheck on gas. You, too, would probably like something close to home.

Well, we have the answer for you.

The Observer & Eccentric Employment section.

You'll find hundreds of jobs; many of them are right in your own backyard!

We've put them online, too, so you can access them anytime at observerandeccentric.com

It's a wonderful thing!—thousands of employers and employees getting together through our classifieds.

You could be one of them!

It's a touchy subject, but Thomas said he learns from event organizers what issues to avoid

"I like to see people at their best," he said of his current job "I like to ease their pain"

The performances are a way to build up a positive, light-hearted mood in a typically tense or boring situation

"I come out of a business background, so I got a lot of material I got my own stories about customer service," he said with a laugh

He also has a wide range of topics in his routine

"If you make it broad enough, you can do all types of businesses," he said

"The good thing about working at companies and associations is nobody acts like a jerk," he said referring to his old stand-up days

Michele Ryckebusch, manager of local communications for the Chrysler Group in Auburn Hills, said she booked Thomas at a recent corporate conference

Depth of talent carries Whalers

BY C.J. RISAK

OHL HOCKEY

Balance — that's what separates this season's Plymouth Whalers' team from its predecessors At least that's what coach/general manager Mike Vellucci hopes to achieve, or improve upon, in the last 20 games of the regular season

On Saturday, they took a major step down that road when they defeated one of the top teams in the Ontario Hockey League, the Belleville Bulls, 4-3 in front of a capacity crowd of 3,869 at Plymouth s Compuware Arena

Winning is nothing new to the Whalers Not hardly They own the OHL's best record at 31-7-8-2 (72 points), Belleville, which lost at Windsor Sunday, is second in the East Division with a 26-20-2-1 record (55 points)

The question now is, how do the Whalers survive the OHL playoffs and reach the Memorial Cup, a prize that has eluded them?

Vellucci, who replaced Pete DeBoer as the team's GM/coach (DeBoer is now coaching the Kitchener Rangers, whom the Whalers visit Sunday), believes a reliance on just a couple of players is not the secret to a team's success

And a reliance on offense is usually a recipe for disaster

These tenets are nothing new for the Whalers But with so many key players lost to the NHL in the last couple of years — David Legwand, Justin Williams, Robert Esche Paul Mara and Harold Druken are current NHLers who played for Plymouth in the past four years — reloading is not always easy

But the Whalers have done it, and they've done it by making their defense the most imposing in the OHL, which was clearly evident in Saturday's win over the league s most potent offense

"Our defense is the best in the league," said Vellucci "(Jason) Bacashihua has done all we asked of him (in goal)

I told the guys before the game, 'Defense is going to win this ' We're trying to teach them that good defense leads to good offense "

Many of the Whalers also needed to know they

Chiefs hold off Raiders, 57-55

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

BASKETBALL

Seems clear to me The next Western Lakes Activities Association basketball game Plymouth Canton's team is involved in, the Chiefs better bring some shovels They'll need 'em to keep digging out of the holes they find themselves in

On Tuesday at home against North Farmington, it seemed Canton would allow the Raiders to escape with the victory, spotting them a 10-point lead in the first quarter and again in the third quarter, and an eight-point cushion with less than three minutes left in the game

The Chiefs managed to overcome them all, however, and escape with a 57-55 triumph

The win evened their record at 6-6 overall, 3-3 in the WLAA North is 5-7 overall, 2-4 in the conference

"We needed to win one of these tight ones," said Canton coach Jeremy Rheault "It was our turn, and now, we're just getting started We lost in overtime to Salem and we lost to (Walled Lake) Western after coming all the way back "

This was hardly a game of blemish free basketball Both teams made enough mistakes to warrant a loss

"Am I super happy with the way we handled their zone?" Rheault asked rhetorically "Not really Am I happy with the way we handled their pressure? Not really

"But we fought back We showed a lot of character "

Certainly there was a good deal of never-say-die attitude circulating Canton trailed 30-25 at the half and immediately dug its hole deeper, allowing the Raiders to put together a 7-2 run to start the third quarter

Down 37-27 with 5 25 left, the Chiefs started one of their comebacks Over the next five minutes, they outscored North 14-0 before the Raiders' Jason Neal nailed a three-pointer with 28 seconds left in the third to narrow Canton's lead to 41-40 entering the final period

Again the Chiefs dug themselves a hole, North outscoring them 13-4 in a span of 5 15 to build a 53-45 advantage with 2 40 to play But the Raiders were in a giving mood as well, they allowed Canton to score seven points in a 40-second span, fueling it with an offensive foul and two turnovers

Brendan Murphy's basket with 1 29 left pulled the Chiefs to within 53 52 with 1 29 left Mike Leach made 1-of-2 free throws with 1 13 to go — North had trouble in the fourth quarter at the line, making just 5-of-9 — to make it a two-point game, but Canton's Kyle Lasko eliminated that with a layup with 44 remaining

The Raiders regained the lead when Neal made 1-of-2 free throws with 35 left, but it wasn't enough Andrew Meagrow took a pass against the North pressure and put it in, getting fouled in the act He nailed the free throw and, with 23 1 seconds left, Canton led 57-55

The Raiders still had a chance, working the clock for one final good shot, but Billy Gazsi ruined that, intercepting a pass for the Chiefs to insure the victory

"Our pressure created a lot of things for us," said Rheault It certainly helped get some points on the board for the Chiefs, who were led by Jason Priebe and Meagrow with 17 points apiece Priebe nailed five three-point ers in the game

The Raiders were paced by Leach with 14 points and Neal with 12

Salem 59, Churchill 47: Last Friday's overtime loss to an underwhelm ing Walled Lake Central team was as much as Plymouth Salem cared to experience in the WLAA

On Tuesday at Livonia Churchill, the Rocks led wire-to-wire, never allowing the Chargers to get closer than five points in the second half in improving their record to 5-1 in the conference, 7-5 overall Churchill slipped to 4-8 overall, 1-5 in the WLAA

"We shared the ball real well," said Salem coach Bob Brodie "I'm happy with the way we shared it I'm happy with the way we played as a team "

Salem led 25-19 at halftime, improving that to 46-35 after three quarters Four Rocks did the bulk of the scoring Pat Abraham netted 15 points, David Hoskins scored 14, Stevland Davis had 10 and Brady Pastalaniec finished with nine

Shaun Foster topped Churchill with 19 points and 11 rebounds Kevin Zielinski added eight points

On Friday, the Rocks visit Westland John Glenn in a battle between two of the league's frontrunners

Redford CC 50, U-D Jesuit 48: Redford Catholic Central hung on for the victory Tuesday, overcoming a 31-point, 14-rebound performance by University of Detroit Jesuit's 6-foot-4 senior forward Joel Wood

CC is 9-3 overall and 4-2 in the Catholic League's Central Division The Cubs fall to 9-4 and 3-3

Senior forward Ryan Clark paced the Shamrocks with 14 points, while senior forward Tom Jakacki added 13 and made a key block with just over four seconds remaining in regulation

U D Jesuit, inbounding the ball underneath its own basket, failed to convert a last-second attempt

CC outscored the Cubs 33-27 in the second half

WRESTLING

The 11th Annual Observerland Wrestling Tournament featured one of the closest team competitions in the history of the event Saturday

And it was pre-meet favorite Redford Catholic Central that emerged victorious, winning the title for a record fifth time at Livonia Churchill High School

The Shamrocks, who have won it three of the last four years, reclaimed the championship from Plymouth Canton with 220 1/2 points

Westland John Glenn had its best-ever finish and was the runner-up with 210, Plymouth Salem, which also received a trophy, was a close third at 206

"It was a lot harder (to win) than in past years," CC coach Mike Rodriguez said "That goes to show the competition is getting tougher

"Teams aren't staying in their own backyard, they're going out of the area to find tougher competition The young men in our area will do well at state because of it "

A good many of those wrestlers are Shamrocks, who had four individual champions and three other finalists Saturday

CC winners included Matt Steintrager (103), Nate Rodriguez (140), Trevor Stewart (145) and Ryan Rogowski (189) while Matt Koziara (112), Chris Cracchiolo (171) and Blair Naysmith (215) finished second

"We've got young men who like to work hard and, in this day and age that's difficult to find," Mike Rodriguez said "They know when they (go to CC) they have to work They can't just put on a suit and be on the team "

Salem had the tournament's two most valuable wrestlers, however Mike Goethe was named MVW for the lower weights (103-140) and Tony Kennard the upper weights (145-275)

Goethe won the 125-pound title while Kennard lost a controversial, 5-4 decision to Stewart in the championship bout at 145 The awards are determined by a vote of the coaches

Big 2nd half lifts Madonna

■ WOMEN'S HOOP

It was a game for a half Then Madonna University's women's basketball team got angry

Trailing Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference foe Siena Heights 37-34 at the half did not sit well with the Lady Crusaders, and they showed it in the second half, blistering the Saints for 50 points in rolling to an 84-61 triumph in Adrian

Madonna improved to 17-6 overall, 8-1 (first place) in the WHAC Siena Heights is 5-19 overall, 2-7 in the conference

With 7 02 left in the first half, the Saints had a 10-point lead (30-20), but the Crusaders rebounded, thanks to a pair of three-pointers by Kathy Panganis and four points from Tera Morrill (from Westland/Livonia Franklin)

The Saints still had a 51-47 advantage with 14 27 remaining in the game before Madonna rebounded, outscoring them by 20 points the rest of the way with Mahogany Fletcher (from Farmington Harrison) accounting for 11 points in the stretch run

Five players reached double figures in scoring for the Crusaders, led by Nikki Blaszak with 18 points She also had seven rebounds and four steals

Panganis contributed 16 points, six assists and four steals, Fletcher finished with 13 points, five assists and two steals, Carissa Gizicki totaled 10 points, five assists, seven rebounds and two steals and Morrill had 10 points

Amanda Lafontaine's 21 points paced Siena Heights Kim Gullekson added 18

Last Saturday, Madonna's superior firepower wreaked havoc at Spring Arbor Four Crusaders reached double figures in scoring as they posted a 72-65 triumph

Spring Arbor fell to 11 10 over all 5-3 in the conference

Fletcher led the Crusaders with 19 points, she also had seven rebounds and three steals Three others, however, reached double-figures in scoring Courtney Rehbine with 12 points (and eight boards, three steals and two blocks), and Blaszak and Panganis with 11 points apiece

The Lady Cougars got 21 points from Shanna DeBose and 18 from Portia Reilly

Madonna, which outrebounded Spring Arbor 49-40, led 38 33 at the half

Ocelots win easily

Schoolcraft College outscored host Alpena CC 41-16 in the first half, which was more than enough to decide this game — a 73-40 victory for the Lady Ocelots, who improved to 7-0 in the Michigan Community College Athletic Association's Eastern Conference (14-4 overall)

Alpena CC is 2-15 overall, 0-6 in the conference

Five Ocelots reached double figures in scoring, led by Devin Francois with 12 points 11 rebounds, six assists and three steals Rachel Eley had 10 points, four assists and seven steals, Keysa Hamilton had 10 points, and Kera Hill totaled 10 points, seven assists and five steals

Jennifer Tapio and Marissa Fenner each scored nine for the Lumberjacks

Plymouth Canton gymnasts get a split

■ GYMNASTICS

Plymouth Canton's gymnasts got in some good competitive work last week, beating Napolean 129 3 121 1 on Thursday and then losing to WLAA rival Northville/Novi 139 90-129 25 Monday at Canton

Despite the loss to the defending state champs Monday, the Chiefs posted some solid scores Audra Ahern placed fourth in the all around with a 32 6, finishing fifth in both the floor exercise (8 55) and balance beam (8 3) Jessi Bates was fifth in the all-around with a 32 10, she was fourth in the uneven parallel bars (8 1) and tied for sixth in the balance beam (8 1)

The Chiefs other exceptional performance came from Jill Rakovitis, who scored 31 10 in the all-around and was fifth in the vault (8 3) and tied for sixth in the beam (8 3)

Last Thursday, Canton had the top two all-arounders in earning the win over Napolean

Rakovitis scored a 32 6 in the all-around, winning the bars (8 25), placing fifth on both the beam and floor (7 9) and taking sixth in the vault (7 85) Brigid Fitzgerald had an all-around mark of 32 10, taking second in beam (8 5) and fourth in both floor (8 15) and vault (8 05)

Other solid performances came from Laura Hamilton, second in the vault (8 25) and bars (8 0), Bates, first in beam (8 65) and third in vault (8 1), and Lauren Foley, second in floor (8 55)

Finding water in winter not so easy

NATURE NOTES

TIM NOWICKI

As the temperatures decline, the inability of animals to find open water for drinking increases

Water is an absolute essential for living things at all times of the year Animals must obtain water no matter what form it is in

Liquid water is at least warmer than 32 degrees Fahrenheit Snow is frozen water so it must be colder than freezing

Ice takes a lot of energy to melt into a liquid, plus, once swallowed it cools the inside of an animal's body Extreme cooling from the inside can cause hypothermia

Animals in far northern climates, where all water is frozen, are able to obtain water from melting ice, or from eating snow These animals must be adapted to tolerate such internal cooling It was either adapt or die because of a lack of water

In southeastern Michigan animals avoid water freezing in their body cells by concentrating more salts and compounds inside By concentrating more compounds in the water, the freezing point drops We do the same thing with anti-freeze in the radiator of our car

Sugar is often one of those compounds added to water to reduce the freezing point

That explains why my injured red maple in the backyard was seeping sap the other day Sugar maple sap is about 3-5 percent sugar, red maple sap concentration is probably just a little less It's still enough to keep the sap from freezing

Fortunately for the squirrels in my back yard, this seep also serves as a source of high energy water

I have watched both fox and red squirrels clinging upside down next to the seep and licking the sweet liquid Not only are they getting the needed water, they are also getting energy from the sugar

Licking sap from a natural seep is not unusual activity for squirrels, but creating seeps intentionally is not unheard of either

Observers in the northeast have watched red squirrels develop a sap line Something like trappers developing a trap line

Red squirrels were observed gnawing an opening in branches of maple trees to induce sap to flow They did not lick the sap immediately, instead, they waited a couple days to allow the wind and sun to evaporate the water causing sugar to concentrate in the remaining ice

Then, they would follow the same route and enjoy the sugar from the sap wells they created

I feel this is the way native Americans learned about the sweetness of sap and that concentrating it made it even sweeter and more appealing

There is something about sugar and sweets that is appealing to most humans and to many animals

Think about the animals that rely almost exclusively on sugar water, or nectar The development of sweet nectar has attracted many animals to its source

Hummingbirds eat some insects for protein, but the bulk of their diet is nectar from flowers Honey bees do eat some pollen, but nectar is the mainstay of their diet

Butterflies, moths, sunbirds, some beetles, and many other animals rely on the energy of sugar from the nectar

If you don t have a source of water for birds at your feeding station, you can purchase a safe heater that runs on a thermostat to keep water available for them

Do not put sugar in the water Warm sugar water can allow bad things to grow in the water Let the birds get their sugar water from the sap of trees where they have been getting it for thousands of years

Chiefs stop Spartans; Salem rolls over Glenn

■ VOLLEYBALL

Plymouth Canton came away with a 15-8, 15-12 road win at host Livonia Stevenson Monday in a Western Lakes Activities Association volleyball match

"Serve reception beat us," said Stevenson coach Kelly Graham, whose team is 9-12-2 overall and 1-4 in the WLAA 'We couldn't get our offense running"

Sophomore Lisa Montgomery had six kills to lead the Spartans, while Ami Perreault and Ashley Janaulis added three each Clarissa Schick had two kills

Setters Laura Flaugher and Mindy Magoulick combined for 21 assists Alicia Davis and Ashley Aja each had five digs

Jenny Crudele led Canton (10-12-4 overall, 3-3 in the WLAA) with eight kills and 12 digs Kelly Baker added six kills and nine digs

Salem topples Glenn

Setter Kelly Jaskot had 24 assists and served two aces Monday to lead host Plymouth Salem to a 15-6, 15-8 WLAA victory over visiting Westland John Glenn

Salem is 26-3 overall and 6-0 in the Western Lakes Glenn falls to 3-2 in the WLAA

Katie Good was Salem's top attacker with 12 kills, while MaryLou Liebau added nine kills with a team-best 409 hitting percentage Nicole Genrich had 12 digs

Last Thursday, the Rocks had no trouble disposing of WLAA foe Northville, 15-4, 15-2 at Northville

Jaskot had six aces and 11 digs for Salem, while Good contributed nine kills and a 429 kill percentage Maggie Jones had a 545 kill average, Jordan Falcusan finished with 23 set assists, and Genrich had three blocks

"You never know what's going through their heads," Rodriguez said "Whether it's (Salem coach Greg Woochuk's) kid or my kid, it's kinda degrading You have to win to be the MVP"

Kennard rallied in the third period to gain a one-point lead over Stewart with a nearfall

With little time remaining, Kennard was in the up position for a restart The referee assessed a penalty point when he cautioned Kennard a third time for assuming an illegal stance

That created a tie score, and Stewart escaped moments later to win the bout by a point, which brought a cascade of boos from the spectators in protest of the referee's decision to award the penalty point

"That's all part of the sport, everybody paid their money and are entitled to an opinion," Rodriguez said

'It's not helping Kennard It doesn't soothe (the pain of losing) He'll have a pain in his heart til he meets him again, and I'm sure we'll have that opportunity"

Kennard did handle the defeat and disappointment in a mature manner, according to Woochuk

"Those things happen in life, and Tony handled it way beyond his years," he said "He's a class act That was pretty evident when he came off the mat

"Most kids would have been throwing their head gear and had their heads down He had his head up and walked off the mat

"(The officials) have control out there Sometimes they wield their power in unreasonable ways It's his right to caution the kid out, I guess

"That's all part of growing up, too Tony is able to take that and understand, 'It doesn't make me any less of a person or a wrestler'"

As did Stewart at 145, Goethe upheld his No 1 ranking in the area, winning by pin and major decision before defeating Livonia Churchill's Brian Clement in the final, 8-4

"He's right on course on what he's been doing all year long," Woochuk said "Tony, too Tony has been the MVP in four tournaments They're working up to their potential"

Glenn figured to be CC's closest competition and was in the overall tally The Rockets had a pair of champions – Kefentse Mandisa (119) and Phil Perry (135) – and three runners-up

"I think we did a pretty nice job," Glenn coach Bill Polk said "I think we had a legitimate chance at winning the tournament, but we had a couple letdowns throughout the day that kinda put a damper on our plans But we finished off pretty strong

"We expected (Mandisa and Perry) to win it, not easily, but both did their jobs A couple of the runners-ups, we feel, should have won the tournament

"But they had some pretty tough competition, and those (other) guys showed they're not going to sit back and let them win it It's good to see competition like that, it keeps you working hard"

CC's Steintrager won the 103 title by decision over Glenn's Nick Naber, avenging an earlier loss while handing Naber only his second defeat in 27 bouts Naber was rated No 1 in the area, Steintrager No 2

"He kinda sparkplugged us," Rodriguez said of Steintrager "He started off winning and set the tone for the rest of the guys"

"(Nate Rodriguez) is starting to show his takedown ability When he gets on the mats, you know things are going to happen'

Rogowski competed in only his second tournament and won his first title after a late start following football and minor surgery

"Ryan is just starting to come around," Rodriguez said "He's just starting to get his legs He works very hard and it's just a matter of time"

Canton's Phil Rothwell defended his 215 crown Rogowski and Livonia Churchill's Jay Abshire were the only other repeat winners among eight hopefuls

Abshire, who won the 145 championship while wrestling for CC last year, transferred to Churchill and just became eligible last week

He defeated former CC teammate Chris Cracchiolo in the 171 final, scoring a takedown with 26 seconds left in overtime and gaining control just as the two were going off the mat

Salem also had three runners-up but was missing a couple wrestlers due to injury Woochuk was still pleased to see the Rocks finish as well as they did

"You can always whine and complain that you should've had a couple more kids in there," Woochuk said, "but that's woulda, coulda, shoulda It doesn't get you any place The same thing happened at Wyandotte, we were second there

"The kids are pretty happy with what they've been doing We pretty happy as coaches, also"

The other champions were Redford Union's Jason LeDuc (275), North Farmington's Ramis Bajrami (112), Livonia Stevenson's Jason Fischer (130) and Wayne Memorial's Bryan Marsh (152) and Steve Wallace (160)

Crusaders playing tough

MEN'S HOOP

Three players expected to be mainstays in Madonna University's backcourt are gone Still, the Crusaders remain in the hunt, they lost twice in a three-day span by a total of five points

In a non-league game against St Mary's College Monday, Madonna lost its shooting touch in the second half and was edged by the Eagles 84-81 at Madonna The Crusaders led 46-45 at the half but converted just 12-of-37 floor shots in the second half (32 4 percent), while St Mary's made 13-of-30 (43 3 percent)

The Eagles also had a 52-45 advantage in rebounding

Noel Emenhiser led Madonna with 21 points, 13 rebounds and three blocks Tony Jancevski (from Plymouth Salem) had 19 points, eight boards, three steals and two blocks, and John Bennett (Livonia Churchill) finished with 13 points

St Mary's got 35 points and 15 rebounds from Mike Davis, 21 points and nine boards from Lamon Mathison and 18 points and eight rebounds from Mike Matthews

Madonna fell to 6-18 overall St Mary's is 13-13

On Saturday at Spring Arbor the Crusaders allowed a 13 point halftime lead get away from them, and again it was poor second half shooting that cost them After making 16 of 28 in the first half (57 1 percent) they shot 9-of-26 in the second (34 6 percent)

Emenhiser again paced Madonna with 22 points and

were good enough to win the games, even with some of their best teammates out of the lineup Stephen Weiss, regarded as one of the OHL's best forwards, was suspended during Friday's win over Peterborough for an alleged spearing incident (if, and how long, his suspension will be has yet to be determined by OHL officials)

Then midway through Saturday's game, Cole Jarrett — Plymouth's top defenseman — received a match penalty for an altercation, which could lead to a suspension, too

Even with two of their top players out of the lineup, the Whalers prevailed "Last year, they thought that with Weiss out they didn't have a chance," said Vellucci "This year they believe"

It didn't take long for the offense to emerge against Belleville The Whalers' Jonas Fiedler reached the puck as it sat just outside the reach of Bulls' goalie Michael Mole and, on their first rush into Belleville's end, Fiedler stuffed the puck in for 1-0 lead 55 into the game Karl Stewart and John Mitchell assisted

The Bulls retaliated, however Nathan Robinson was allowed to circle from behind Plymouth's net back in front, from where he slammed a shot past Bacashihua to tie it at 1-all with 7 38 left in the first period Jason Spezza, one of the top picks in the NHL Entry Draft last year who was acquired in a trade with Windsor, gave the Bulls a 2-1 lead with a power-play goal with 1 17 left in the first

At one point, the Whalers were outshooting Belleville 14-5 in the first period, but they couldn't outscore them

In the second period, Plymouth drew even with a power-play goal by Chad LaRose 3 41 into the period (assisted by Stewart and Jarrett), fell behind 3-2 51 seconds later on a goal by Belleville's Adam Paiement, then tied it again on LaRose's short-handed goal with 6 51 left in the period

The game-winner came from Damian Surma with 6 56 remaining in the final period on a play Vellucci couldn t have designed any better The Whalers forced a turnover at center ice, with LaRose getting the puck to Greg Campbell and Campbell sending it back to Surma, who steadied it before firing a shot from the slot past Mole

The Whalers' defense continued to reign supreme after that limiting the Bulls to four shots on goal in the third period

As good as they looked however, Vellucci wasn't entirely satisfied with his team We're winning games, but we're not staying in focus for the whole game ' he noted 'Of course, it seems we haven't had our whole lineup in yet And our power play isn t where I'd like it to be (ranked 12th out of 20 teams)"

So there are things to work on And if the Whalers do improve even more, then the OHL playoffs could reap what has eluded them the past two years — a title

AL HARRISON

There's a hot time in old Plymouth town on Wednesday nights at Plaza Lanes

Each week after the regular scheduled league finishes, they set up for a two-game "Sweeper"

This is individual scratch play competition which pays out around $700 or more for first place The top finishers in the two games then go on to single match play eliminations to decide the order of finish

Last week there were over 60 entrants And with added prize money, first place paid $1,000

This is just the place to go after you have had some of Aleta and Michelle's digital coach program

•The Greater Detroit Bowling Association announces the senior five-man team handicap tournament coming soon for bowlers 55 and up

This year's 36th annual Karl Schmuck Memorial senior division tournament is dedicated to bowling's elder statesman, Jarvis Woehlke

First place is $1,000, with $500 for second, and on down

Prize fee is returned 100 percent, while the entry is only $15 per person

The event will be Saturdays, Feb 9 and 1 Squad action starts at 9 30 a m and 1 p m at Shorecrest Lanes, located on Harper at Nine Mile Road in St Clair Shores

Entry forms are on the counters at most bowling centers, or call (586) 773-6350 for more information

•The latest figures from Greater Detroit Bowling Association revealed there were at total of 1,518 perfect (300) games in the last year (2000-2001) And based on the current data, there is a slight drop-off so far this season

So far, there have been at total of 339 800 series in the GDBA this season

These figures were among those passed along during the association's semi-annual meeting held recently at Renaissance Bowl in Detroit

Hats off to GDBA president Marvin Dooley for the great job he is doing in his term in office

•A new local TV bowling show will kick-off Saturday Feb 2 and run through April 20 with WJR's Tom Mazawey narrating

The Greater Detroit Bowling Bonanza and will be aired by WPXD (PAX Network), which is on all cable systems

The format for the show is a two-ball match with prizes awarded for strikes or spares

The producers of the show include Mazawey, Mark Martin and Jerry Harris of Novi Bowl, and Drakeshire Lanes plan to promote more bowling in the Detroit area by involving other bowling centers

Watch the TV guide for exact times coming up on Saturdays

•Tom Shively of Redford captured every jackpot across the board last week in the Wonderland Classic League at Wonderland Lanes in Livonia

He also scored the highest three-game series ever in this highly regarded league

Rolling games of 299-277-290, Shively amassed an amazing 866 for the three games

This is also the highest series by anyone at Wonderland Lanes in its 45-year existence, according to proprietor Ken Bashara

Tom also had a 300 game earlier this season, but has never yet bowled a perfect game in any of the 800 series which he has recorded

League secretary Bob Mertz describes Tom's delivery as very smooth and precise, similar to the late great Ears Anthony

Shively, a tool and die maker by trade, rolled 32 strikes out of a possible 36 in achieving his 866 score

eight rebounds Jancevski had 15 points and eight boards Spring Arbor, which improved to 16-8 overall and 5-3 in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference, was led by Rob Salisbury with 20 points, Jesse Whintly with 13 (and 10 rebounds), and Ryan Carroll and Ryan Walter with 10 apiece

The loss left Madonna at 3-5 in the WHAC

Ocelots at 20-0

Five players reached double-figures in scoring Five others got on the scoreboard Which added up to one thing — far too much for host Alpena CC to handle

Which is why Schoolcraft College ran its record to 20-0 with a 110-52 victory over their Eastern Conference foe Saturday in Alpena

Mike Williams did most of the damage for SC, collecting 26 points, 10 rebounds, six steals, four assists and three blocks in 27 minutes Ronald Dorsey contributed 18 points, including four three-pointers, and Javon Clark, Yaku Morton-Spruill (from Westland John Glenn) and Delvar Barrett netted 14 points apiece all

The Ocelots improved to 7-0 in the Michigan Community College Athletic Association's Eastern Conference Alpena CC is 2-4 in the conference, 10-10 over-

Boat dock rights limited to abutting lake property owners

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

I have an easement which permits me to cross an adjacent owner's property to get to the lake for recreational purposes – swimming, boating. My property isn't on the lake.

Am I entitled to also moor or dock my boat in the lake or on the shore or, for that matter, to erect a pier or dock?

While each of these questions must be determined on their own facts, including the language found in any document that established your easement, it isn't likely that the easement reasonably could be interpreted to provide you the additional rights to moor or dock boats in the lake or to erect a pier or dock

These are rights which typically are enjoyed only by riparian owners, that is, persons who own property abutting a lake

I would expect a court to conclude that these activities would go beyond the original intent of your easement and improperly burden all riparian properties on that lake

There's no big mystery to what kind of house sells for top dollar quickly – clean, uncluttered and well presented

Forget about new windows or updating the kitchen if you want to put your home on the market now Think, instead, of a thorough cleaning from attic to basement And don't forget the garage while you're at it

Scrub ceilings, walls and floors Paint in neutral colors, if necessary Eliminate clutter from closets, drawers, counters and cabinets Clean or replace carpeting

Dust and vacuum Polish windows and mirrors

Get rid of stacks of magazines and papers that have accumulated over time Put some furniture in storage to open up rooms

No dirty dishes in the kitchen sink, please Make the beds every day Put toys away each night Straighten the bathroom, thank-you

Be sure that none of the faucets go drippity-drippity, that all light bulbs illuminate when you flick the switch Tighten handrails Do doors open and close properly?

If you have neither the desire nor skill to do these things yourself, consider hiring a cleaning service and a handyman for a thorough going-over

This is the big show And a lot of little things need to fall into place to make a big impression

Make a good impression

"Presentation does make a difference for time on the market and money in the pocket," said Marilyn Handloser, associate broker with Real Estate One in Livonia

"If every room is, 'We have to do this' or 'We have to do that,' it's overwhelming," she said "Neutralize a house so nothing stands out that a buyer can't get past"

> 'Fifty dollars spent on paint can be worth $4,000 or $5,000. That can be your best investment.'
> Eric Glossop
> —Realtor, Wilhelm & Associates

Karen Remy, an associate broker and manager at Prudential Chamberlain Stiehl in Birmingham, makes a similar point

"The market has slowed down," she said "People need to realize they need the house to compete well Nothing sells better than clean"

Cleanliness can be next to godliness for prospective buyers It's one giant indicator of level of care and pride of ownership

"That's the number one thing make certain the house is clean," said Edward Lavanway, a Realtor with Coldwell Banker Schweitzer in Farmington Hills, "and keep it that way for all showings"

Little things can have a big impact, even in homes listed at the upper end of the price spectrum Lavanway recalled a house in Bloomfield that had older, dark, frayed carpeting

The couple, who had raised their family there, declined to replace the carpeting even at Lavanway's gentle suggesting They were used to it and didn't see the point of spending money on something they wouldn't be around to enjoy

"It did sell with the old carpeting, but the price was reduced," Lavanway said "And the (selling) time frame was longer than I would have cared for"

Clients who pay a sales commission should follow the friendly suggestions of their agents, said Eric Glossop, a Realtor with Wilhelm & Associates in Clarkston

"As a general rule, Realtors are used to looking at houses with an educated eye or a little higher level of scrutiny," he said

"I can think of an example where folks had a house that had some pets," Glossop said "Actually, when you came into the house, you could smell that animals were there The people lived there every day They didn't have any scent of it

"We had all the carpeting cleaned, shampooed There was a marked difference in what was and what turned out to be," Glossop said

"Fifty dollars spent on paint can be worth $4,000 or $5,000," Remy said "That can be your best investment That's $50 if you do the work yourself"

Remy concedes that life can be difficult while a house is on the market

"No matter how you live normally, this is the time to live like in a model home," she said "Mirrors are clean, faucets are sparkling Clean the light fixtures You know how many fixtures I see with cobwebs? People who live in a house don't look up Buyers look up"

Clean or paint the front door, Remy added, because first impressions set the tone And at this time of year, make sure sidewalks and porch steps are snow free

Handloser is a big advocate of painting and new carpeting Move clutter to a storage unit if you can't sort through it now, she suggested

"New light fixtures can update a home," Landloser said

Glossop adds "Sometimes less is more Clean out old stuff in the garage and basement It's better to get rid of it before you market the house You're going to get rid of it anyway"

Lavanway gets the last word "You want it to look new, inviting, even if it's not new"

Spring clean your credit report now

MORTGAGE BITS

TIM 'TIMBO' PHILLIPS

Longer days and above average temperatures are causing many cases of Spring Fever While it's premature to pull out the lawn mower, there are some things you can do to make your springtime plans more pleasurable

That is especially true if you are planning to purchase a home in the coming months

With the spring home buying market almost upon us, now is the time for potential purchasers to do their "financial house cleaning" With a little elbow grease, even a battered and torn credit report can look much better in 90 days

This cleaning job is important because an incremental improvement on your credit report could make a monumental difference in your ability to get a favorable interest rate and terms on your next mortgage

Avoid unpleasant surprises

If you are contemplating a home purchase soon, you should contact a lender right away for a credit analysis It is common for unsuspecting buyers to find unpleasant surprises on their credit report within weeks of purchasing a new home Dealing with credit issues a couple months in advance of shopping for your home is more manageable and much less stressful

If you discover that you have credit problems – or if you already know you have some – now is the time to fix them Even tiny unpaid collections or a single neglected bill can significantly alter your buying posture Making credit accounts current, and putting a few months of good credit history behind you, can make a profound difference

Last month, I helped a couple acquire 100 percent financing on their $431,000 home despite a recent bankruptcy They qualified for a decent mortgage because they started the process nine months earlier

That amount of "lead time" allowed us to clean up their few remaining credit issues to get them into a much more favorable buying position

You can do it, too Clean up credit problems now, then plant several months of "good" credit Your efforts could blossom into the beautiful mortgage deal you have always wanted

Consumers Energy customers can now sign up for green power pilot program

Electric customers of Consumers Energy have an easy and effective way to pay for the development of green power in Michigan Customers can now sign up for the utility's new Green Power Pilot Program

"If you want to see wind, solar and other types of renewable energy developed in Michigan, this is an excellent way to show your support and help fund its growth," said Dennis DaPra, senior vice president of accounting and regulatory affairs

Electric customers who sign up for the program can choose to buy 10 percent, 50 percent or 100 percent of their energy from certified green power generators Participating customers will pay a Green Surcharge of 0 32 cents, 1 6 cents or 3 2 cents per kilowatt-hour respectively for their service Almost all of the surcharge will be passed directly to certified generators for power delivered to the Consumers Energy electric system, the remainder will cover the utility's cost of administering the program

An electric customer using 600 kilowatt hours of electricity a month will pay an additional $19 20 monthly for 100-percent green power, $9 60 for 50-percent green power, and $1 92 for 10-percent green power

"Green power producers need this revenue because the cost of their power is significantly higher than conventional power sources," said Scott Brockett, Consumers Energy's Green Power Program project manager "We are not including any existing hydro dams, waste-to-energy plants or other generators now serving our customers All of the generators in this program are new Participation by our customers is very important to their success"

Enrollment is on a first-come, first-served basis The pilot program is limited to a maximum generating capacity sufficient to meet the needs of 18,000 homes

There are two ways to sign up Customers may use the utility's Web site, consumersenergy com , or they may call the utility's toll-free number (800) 477-5050 Customers enrolling on-line should select the "Green Power Program" option under the "Energy Information" menu

Customers who participate must stay in the program for a minimum of one year to give green energy providers a reliable and measurable revenue stream However, customers can contract to pay the Green Surcharge for up to 17 years The pilot program has a term of three years At the end of the three-year period, a determination will be made whether to extend the program or make it permanent

Consumers Energy, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy, is Michigans largest utility providing natural gas and electricity to more than six million of the state's nearly 10 million residents in all 68 lower peninsula counties

For more information about Consumers Energy, visit the Web site at www consumersenergy com
