Hopefuls debate school funding

Salem hosts Proposal A Summit

■ Democratic and Green Party candidates for governor gave their take on changing Proposal A and other school finance issues to a packed house Monday in the Salem High School cafeteria.

Michigan Citizens for Fairness in Public School Funding held its first statewide summit three years ago to address the inequities of state foundation grants for Michigan school districts

At the time, state legislators said there was nothing they could do to help because the people spoke by voting in Proposal A In other words, live with it

Monday night, the summit at Salem High School attracted four gubernatorial candidates and a representative for another, all of whom put their best political feet forward by telling the thousand people in attendance what they've been waiting to hear

"It's time the state starts to work with local school districts to modernize Proposal A," said Democratic gubernatorial candidate, and former governor, James Blanchard

And, in some form or another, the bipartisan panel, which in this case consisted of the Democrat and Green parties with no Republican candidates represented, echoed Blanchard in stating local school districts desperately need help to survive financially However, not all would include changing Proposal A

"I would make sure we pause on the income tax reduction and the single business tax reduction I would go after federal dollars," said Congressman David Bonior, also a Democratic

Residents want gap in funding addressed

BY TONY BRUSCATO

tbruscato@oe homecomm.net

Michigan Citizens for Fairness in Public School Funding believes it s made some progress in getting gubernatorial candidates at least the Democrat and Green parties, to consider changes in Proposal A to make the state's per pupil funding more equitable

"Everyone is talking about tweaking Proposal A and working with it, and that's very encouraging to me," said Mark Slavens, president of the group, at its Summit on School Funding Monday night at Salem High School

However, while Michigan Citizens may be looking ahead to a new administration when Gov John Engler leaves office next year, local lawmakers are taking a less optimistic view their colleagues will increase school funding for those districts which lag behind

I don t see a consensus (in the legislature) to amend or tweak Proposal A for at least four years," said John Stewart R Plymouth Township) "Gov Engler has borrowed from next year and given districts $200 more per pupil For Plymouth-Canton that's a total of $7,025 and they can live with that, and should live with that "

State Rep Bruce Patterson (R-Canton Township) also said don't look for

Rite Aid will replace old drive-in soon

STAFF WRITER
tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

One of Plymouth's most unsightly gateway corners may finally be ready for redevelopment

Construction of a Rite Aid drug store on the northwest corner of Main Street and Ann Arbor Road, the site of the former Daly Drive-In, will begin in a few months

"We're in the process of finalizing plans, and should begin construction in late spring or early summer," said Arkan Jonna, the Bloomfield Hills-based developer hired by the drug store chain "It will be a very pretty building The city and planning commission did a fine job in designing the building It will bring a definite identity to that corner "

The 11,000-square-foot store will be red brick masonry, with limestone accent and oval-top windows There will be a red brick wall along Main Street and Ann Arbor Road, with a Welcome to Plymouth sign and a clock at the corner The store will also have a drive-thru pharmacy

Rite Aid signed a 50-year lease for the property in November 1998 from the former owners of Daly At the time, the drug store chain presented designs to the planning commission for a state-of-the-art store However, the company's economic problems forced a delay in the project

In November of last year, Rite Aid resubmitted building plans, indicating it was ready to begin construction

Jonna also put to rest rumors he's looking to redevelop property to the west of Rite Aid

"I spoke to one property owner, but we couldn't come up with an agreement," said Jonna "There is absolutely nothing going on (Any plan) is dead in it's footsteps "

Jonna admitted he made an inquiry to the owner of Colonial Collision about three months ago, but the two sides were too far apart to complete a deal Jonna said he then decided not to pursue the Bank One and Cornwell Pool & Patio properties, indicating that he needed all three holdings to make any venture worthwhile

Jonna said the three sites together would be less than three acres, and much too small for a Farmer Jack, which has been reported However, he declined to comment on what development he was considering for the property

Colonial Collision owner John Morano, said he had a discussion with Jonna in his office after being contacted by the developer

"As a business owner, you would always entertain an offer, and I have been approached," said Morano "But, there is no deal pending, and no counter offer on the table from Mr Jonna There is no deal in the works "

Detour part of Ann Arbor Road fixup

BY DOUG JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

The detour and the timing of construction work on Ann Arbor Road were concerns brought up at a meeting of Plymouth and Livonia businesses Tuesday morning before engineers and consultants for the Michigan Department of Transportation

The $11 million rebuilding of the road from Plymouth Township Hall to just before the Hines Park overpass in Livonia will begin in a few weeks

The meeting was held at the Quality Inn behind Bennigan's and was hosted by Fran Toney and the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce

Lt Robert Smith of the Plymouth Township police told state officials the proposed detour would produce traffic problems because of truck traffic on General Drive You will be able to drive eastbound on Ann Arbor Road but not westbound for the few weeks it takes to fix the road under the overpass

"I think this detour will be a problem because of all the trucks stopping, unloading, backing up," he said

Smith and several others spoke up at the meeting after a brief presentation by Jayson H Nault, from Tetra Tech, a Brighton consulting firm handling the project

Nault is familiar with the badly deteriorated road He lived in Livonia in the Hix Road area and attended Churchill High 20 years ago

He agreed "It's been bad for years "

Smith spent several minutes huddling

Alcohol sting finds zero culprits

The 2002 graduation season is approaching and with it comes a wish to celebrate the occasion

The Plymouth Township Police Department sent a letter out to all party/supermarket stores earlier this year, asking the businesses to join them in making this graduation season a safe and sober celebration for the community's kids

It is unlawful to sell or furnish alcoholic beverages to a person who is less than 21 years of age It is the department's recommendation that store clerks check the identification of all individuals that appear under the age of thirty

The police department conducted one of their alcohol stings for the year and would like to thank all the businesses visited for their cooperation There were zero violations issued on March 21

All clerks refused to sell the attempted purchase when the customer could not show proper identification

Plymouth Township Police Department also wants to ensure that tobacco compliance checks are conducted in the community

On March 21, the police department visited a list of tobacco retailers and issued five tickets to five different businesses for "Sale of tobacco to a minor"

The act states a person shall not sell, give, or furnish any cigarette, cigar, chewing tobac co, tobacco snuff, or tobacco in any form to a person under 18 years of age A person who violates this section is punishable by a fine of not more than $50 for each offense

Edwards reports on bonds

BY DOUG JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

So-called "site cleanup" bonds posted by builders and home repair contractors occupied much of the Plymouth Township board's time Tuesday night

A recent public complaint from a window installer prompted township treasurer Ron Edwards to produce for the board several past records of the bond accounts

"Cleanup" bonds are posted when building permits are pulled, then the money is typically given back to the contractor when the work is done satisfactorily Usually it involves final grading, picking up debris or such things as last minute tree plantings

Edwards told the board there is currently about $800,000 in unreturned funds, covering about 1,200 separate bonds

"Some builders never want the money back Some don't call in for final inspections" Sometimes checks aren't cashed and that adds time and expense to the refund process Edwards insists that if a "stop payment" order is made on a lost or uncashed check, the recipient must pay the fee, typically $30

Edward said currently they don't let contractors wait more than two months before processing refund requests Checks are printed nine or ten times a year, he said

Edwards also told the board their continued review of past accounting practices showed "bad internal control" of the refunds

The township recently settled a lawsuit with former finance director Rosemary Harvey Edwards did not mentioned her by name Tuesday night but did say they found unsigned (and unvoided) payroll and refund checks in the DPW building He circulated some of the checks among the board members to make his point

The board spent some time discussing what to do with the unreturned money but took no formal action

Trustee Charles Curmi and Clerk Marilyn Massengill pointed out that average homeowners may not know that these bonds are a hidden expense in home repairs

"These contractors should forfeit the money if we have had it for more than ten years," Massengill said

"A lot of this happened on the other building inspector's watch," Curmi said, looking at the new chief building inspector, Mark Lewis Lewis has only been on the job a few weeks gubernatorial candidate "I think we should have a construction bonding program in the state, where the state picks up the interest, to help in the $10 billion (school) infrastructure problem we have in Michigan '

Former legislator James Agee, representing Democratic guber natorial candidate Jennifer Granholm, said the attorney general "understands the need to raise funds for our schools and the equitable distribution of those funds She understands we should have a budget stabilization fund for the state educa tion fund And she understands our schools are in disastrous shape, and the state must assist local school districts in meeting their infrastructure needs "

But, it was Green Party candi date Douglas Campbell who was the first to speak bluntly to those who want a higher foundation grant for their districts

"We need to start making schools a priority We need to bite the bullet and break down and pay for it," said Campbell "There s no other way "

Campbell was referring to the five-percent cap on property tax increases mandated by Proposal A That theme was also picked up by Sen Alma Wheeler Smith of Salem Township, one of the four Democrats running for governor

Political: Green Party Candidate for governor, Doug Campbell (R) and Granholm representative, James Agee listen in.

"We're going to have to look hard at the property tax, and specifically the property tax cap of five percent," she said "We'll have to decide if we need to raise that cap

"I predicted that the tax cuts (Proposal A) the government cre ated at that time would devas tate public education Unfortunately, that forecast came true," she said

The Michigan Citizens group has been urging some type of change in Proposal A that would allow for school districts to hold enhancement millages to narrow the gap in the state foundation grant However, the group may have to look for another avenue if the candidates in attendance have their way

"I support a limitation on enhancement I don t want to take the cap off completely on enhancement millage for local districts " said Bonior

"The attorney general is adamant that the return to a property tax is an inequitable situation we don't want to return to," added Agee

STAFF PHOTOS BY ELIZABETH CARNEGIE

Emphasis: State Senator, Alma Wheeler Smith, makes a point during the Summit

"No I would not support local enhancement millages," said Smith "That sends up back to where we were great discrepan cies between wealthy districts and those that are less fortu nate "

After three years Michigan Citizens still questions why West Bloomfield receives $11,755 per pupil, while others received only $6,500 However, the group believes it's making inroads towards equity in funding for school districts

"Everyone is talking about tweaking Proposal A and working with it, and that's very encouraging to me," said Mark Slavens, president of the group "Once they make a promise we need to keep tract of that, and make sure they fulfill that promise "

any changes soon

"John Engler believes Pro posal A is the keystone to his legacy," said Patterson, who was also critical of the candidates who spoke at the Sum mit "If they want to be gov ernor, why didn't they state their ideas? They don't have a fix for this This isn't the time to be pandering "

Organizer: Mark Slavens addresses the crowd at the start of the Summit

Annette Klomparens of Canton, who has two students attending Plymouth-Canton Schools, wants to know why her district isn't getting as much funding as neighboring districts

"I m surprised we re get ting such a little amount in funding for each kid, especially since our district is so big she said What makes Bloomfield Hills ($11 755 per pupil) worth so much higher?

I m concerned about the gap in school funding added Karen Strob ing Canton I think there needs to be more funding for special education pro grams Where is all the casino money going? Why shouldn't it go towards education?"

Some legislators have already noted the $6,700 per pupil bottom line will carry through the 2003-2004 fiscal year That s not good enough for some

"If $10 000 per child per year is good enough for a zip code in Oakland County, then it's good enough for a zip code in Wayne County said Lu Battaglieri, president of the Michigan Education Associa tion 'That s full funding of education for kids, not the $6 700 that s being pushed on us "

Lots of listeners: Several hundred citizens listened to the forum on school finance Monday night

Quartet thrives on chamber music

Kimberly Kaloyanides Kennedy grew up with a fondness for garage sales The Plymouth violinist laughs when she thinks of tricking her mother into buying a Snoopy wind-up plastic guitar on sale for a dime Kennedy was five at the time Her passion to play violin began after watching the daughter of a family friend perform on the instrument Kennedy subsequently used the wind-up guitar as part of a scheme to take lessons

"I insisted my mother buy it then I put it under my chin and used a pencil and wound it up and she got the message I wanted to play violin," said Kennedy

Vivace Series
What: The Sonnet Quartet performs the music of Mozart, Hindemith and Brahms

Where: Birmingham Temple, 28611 West 12 Mile Road, between Inkster and Middlebelt, Farmington Hills

Now she's living her dream of becoming a professional musician After training at the University of Michigan School of Music and Harid Conservatory in Florida Kennedy joined the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in 1998 While she loves performing orchestral music, something was still lacking Five years ago she joined The Sonnet Quartet, which is performing as part of the Vivace Series on Sunday, April 7 at Birmingham Temple in Farmington Hills

'Being in the quartet is a great opportunity to play chamber music and to have a venue to perform," said Kennedy "Having an outlet to perform outside of an orchestra is important for the health of a musician It helps to keep the artistic and technical side fine-tuned "

Calling

Glenn Mellow's shared enthusiasm for chamber music is the reason he founded The Sonnet Quartet Like Kennedy, Mellow was fortunate to realize he wanted to play a string instrument at a young age and sees his chosen profession "almost like a calling " Even though he's played

Glass has come a long way since Ferdinand Hampson held the first national exhibition at Habatat Galleries 30 years ago Artists continue to experiment with technique and concept as the medium grows in popularity

Fortunately, former Gov William Milliken recognized glass's ability to enchant 22 years ago and proclaimed April as Michigan Glass Month Today, it is the fastest growing medium with galleries, art centers and museums who celebrate the magic of glass with dozens of exhibits and events

Hampson curates three separate shows including the 30th annual International Glass Invitational with 80 artists from nearly 20 countries at his new space in Royal Oak Six exhibition rooms, totaling 10,000 square feet, document the progression of the contemporary glass movement with 320 new works The show is dedicated to internationally acclaimed Czech artist Stanislav Libensky who died a few weeks ago Libensky first exhibited at Habatat in 1983

Challenge to experiment

"This year I challenged the artists to experiment," said Hampson, founder of the oldest and largest annual exhibition of contemporary studio glass in the U S , and president of Habatat Galleries in Boca Raton, Chicago, Royal Oak, and Birmingham as of June 1, 2002 "We're celebrating the diversity of the material Daniel Clayman's work is minimal but compelling Warren Langley from Australia uses lots of color – blue, yellow and red The reason for the different spaces is because glass can take on so many forms From it's infancy, glass has become versatile Artists make all sorts of objects and scales "

David Bennett welds bronze into an armature then blows glass inside the form to flesh out majestic horses Glass master Dale Chihuly creates a large-scale chandelier, wall piece, and Ikebana for the 30th International Shinichi and Kimiake Higuchi return with works incorporating an insect and plant motif Nature seems to be a favorite subject with Japanese artists including Hiroshi Yamano who continues the From East to West series with new vessels featuring fish as the theme

Light shines through the nooks and hollows of a tree trunk-like sculpture with an emerging face by Irene Frolic of Canada Steven Weinberg, known for creating interior worlds in crystal, adds facets to exterior surfaces Miriam DiFiore incorporates a glass forest scene into an old cast iron bucket Richard Ritter keeps his signature cane work imagery but positions it so the sphere appears to be emerging from an egg

From craft to fine art

If not for the foresight of Harvey Littleton and Dominick Labino who held hot glass workshops behind the Toledo Museum of Art 40 years ago, none of this work would have been possible Until 1962, American glass was created by teams at Steuban and Tiffany, and considered a craft Process and technology explored by Labino and Littleton led to artists producing fine art in private studios In time, artists began looking to Europe to learn more about the material which had a long history there By 1987, the national became an international

At Habatat's old space in Pontiac, Hampson showcases international glass curated for a 240-piece exhibit sponsored by the Cultural Ministry of China at museums in Shanghai and Beijing The Italian influence shines through a smaller show at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Center where Hampson serves on the board A panel discussion with Hampson, artists Richard Ritter and Stephen Powell, and critic William Warmus opens the exhibit Friday, April 6 Earlier in the day, Daniel Clayman will give a slide presentation and talk about what inspires glass art

"Italian techniques have been used for hundreds of years, they were tremendous secrets for years," said Hampson "Glass artists were not allowed to leave Venice and Murano We're

DANCE

No doubt dance lovers anticipate the American Ballet Theatre's annual visits to the Detroit Opera House

This year, the company's production of Le Corsaire, Thursday-Sunday, April 4-7, will be accompanied by an exhibit of photographs by ABT corps dancer Rosalie O'Connor

Carol Halsted, a dance photography collector, and partner at the Halsted Gallery in downtown Birmingham, arranged the exhibit entitled Through the Eye of the Dancer

■ 'And one thing led to another, and I said wouldn't it be great to do a tie-in with your photography and ABT's visit.'

Carol Halsted
Dance photography collector

Last year, O'Connor viewed an exhibit of Halsted's photography collection at the Detroit Institute of the Arts while in town performing with ABT O'Connor later contacted Halsted about her own work

"And one thing led to another, and I said wouldn't it be great to do a tie-in with your photography and ABT's visit," recalls Halsted, who founded Oakland University's dance department and served as chair of the music, theater and dance department for six years Halsted also recently showing Americans influenced by Italian technique and Italians who brought these techniques to more of a high art."

Janet Torno visited the studio of one of those artists, Lucio Bubbaco, on a trip to Italy and never forgot the magic of his lampworked sculptures. If possible, she'd show glass annually at the art center where she's executive director. This year's exhibition holds special meaning.

"I'm very interested in Italy and my husband blows glass," said Torno. "I spent several hours at Lucio Bubacco's studio and saw his elaborate lampwork created over a torch. He was an altar boy so that influence comes out in his work.

"The show is very exciting. We approached the Italian consulate to work with us. It's something special to kick off glass month. It's a big thing in this area. People come from everywhere to see the glass."

It's everywhere

Glass is everywhere in Michigan in April including the Janice Charach Epstein Gallery at the Jewish Community Center in West Bloomfield. Curator Sylvia Nelson presents a spectacular show by five Michigan artists. Beautiful is the only word to describe Janet Kelman's Violet Anemone large scale bowl. Stan Megdall fashions blown glass into vases that look like whimsical figures. Andrew Madvin titles his sculptures of hands, reaching, grabbing at some unseen terror as memories. Madvin shows work on the same theme along with large-scale glass flowers at Orchard Lake Framing and Gallery. Since graduating from College for Creative Studies two years ago, he's exhibited work at the Birmingham Temple juried art show in Farmington Hills as well as Art & Apples in Rochester. Even though he took jewelry classes at Groves High School in Birmingham, it wasn't until studying with CCS craft department chairman Herb Babcock that Madvin fell in love with glass. Babcock shows work in Habatat's Invitational.

"My work takes two different directions," said Madvin, a Birmingham resident. 'My mixed media sculpture addresses serious issues by using metaphors that create a personal dialogue while the large-scale flowers are more playful and uplifting, and celebrate life."

"I work in glass for two reasons – its physical properties, the process of working with glass is amazing, the way it heats up, moves and cools down, how it looks – its transparency quality, how it reflects light."

April Wagner couldn't agree more about the excitement of working with glass. She and partner Jason Ruff throw open their epiphany studio in Pontiac for glass blowing demonstrations Saturday, April 6. Their vessels and sculpture will be on exhibit with 200 other glass works at Orchard Lake Framing and Gallery in Orchard Lake. Call (248) 681 7447 for more information.

Glass is the most amazing medium in that you're always being taught by it. It's hot and fast. You think you know it all but then you discover something new," said Wagner, a graduate of College for Creative Studies.

After 28 years, Don Schneider is still discovering new things about the molten material at York Street Glassworks studio and gallery in Plymouth. It's there he produces vessels, paperweights and the lampworked millefiori beads which he exhibits internationally. Schneider worked as a glass blower at Greenfield Village in the mid 1970s and knows how important it is to educate the public about the medium.

"We have to teach people what glass is. When they come in I try to ascertain their level of knowledge about glass. They get pretty excited when they look around and see glass being made," said Schneider.

"Glass has gone from its craft days to high end art and back. Now it's everywhere in between. Artists are fusing and slumping. Now there's a greater awareness of the material. There's much more competition but that's good because there's more creativity."

Behind the mask: Clinic suits up for a rock event

Musicians aren't always born Some are made

Thinking back to my first guitar lesson at age 11, I remember one thing – holding the instrument wrong It was a big, bumbling, borrowed acoustic When my teacher asked if I was left-handed, my cheeks flushed cherry red

STREET SCENE

STEPHANIE CASOLA

I think Ade Blackburn could sympathize

"Although my parents didn't actually play any instruments, we always listened to music around the house," said Blackburn, naming American pop icons Buddy Holley and Elvis Presley as family favorites

It must've left a mark on the singer-guitarist for Liverpool's latest art-rock export, Clinic "I started when I was 13, just trying to play guitar It took me a long time to be able to learn I'm definitely not a natural "

But that didn't stop him

In 1997, Blackburn and keyboardist-guitarist Hartley connected with bassist Brian Campbell and drummer Carl Turney, grabbed some medical garb and

'I think with this album its probably more melodic. We used several different instruments this time around. It's still stylistically sounds like the same band I think.'

Ade Blackburn
Singer, Clinic

took on the name Clinic

It's now early in the band's U S and U K tour in support of its latest Domino release, Walking With Thee Thanks to this record, an experimental hodgepodge of electronics, rock and pop, critics tried to pin labels onto the band, calling their sound anything from Brit pop to garage rock

But Clinic defies most definitions

"We didn't sort of have one particular style in mind," said Blackburn, calling from tour in San Francisco What evolved was an unmistakable blend of '60s pop, '70s punk and early '80s new wave, topped off with drum machines

"It's driven out of all kinds of different influences," said Blackburn "I think with this album its probably more melodic We used several different instruments this time around It's still stylistically sounds like the same band I think "

While working on Walking With Thee, the band listened to everything from Donna Summer to Captain Beefheart, Leonard Cohen to Soft Cell "I really like Soft Cell," he admitted "A lot of things from that time period are overlooked What I really like is to go back to different eras where people haven't plundered quite as much "

Clinic might hail from England, but an opening slot on tour with Radiohead last year offered notoriety all around "I felt because we had a sort of sound of our own, I don't think it influenced us musically," said Blackburn "Where it did influence us, I saw the way – considering how big the band is – they are really sort of down to Earth Being in a band at that level, you can still be sort of nice people And the music fares as well "

Touring with Radiohead didn't change their stage show antics either Clinic tours to put on a show They wear surgical masks and matching outfits It's never a boring entrance

"I think with gigs if there is a visual side it does feel like more of an event," Blackburn said

Listen carefully: Liverpool's foursome Clinic comes to Detroit Saturday. The band performs dressed like doctors but don't let the garb fool you. Singer Ade Blackburn assures his mask has a small hole cut in it so he can sing.

"We don't do loads and loads of songs We keep it special and selective It stops it from becoming routine "

Expect the unexpected when Clinic opens for Fila Brazillia, 8 p m Saturday, March 30, St Andrews Hall, 431 E Congress, Detroit Call (313) 961-8961

viola with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra for 22 years, the Huntington Woods resident "always wanted to play quartet music" such as the Mozart, Hindemith and Brahms on the Vivace program

Mellow's wife Edith Diggory teaches voice at Oakland University and helped land a position on the artistic series there In addition to performing two concerts a season, the quartet plays whenever and wherever they can including at the Ambassador's residence in Madrid during the DSO's Tour in October

"I'm getting to play music I don't get to play in the DSO," said Mellow, a Birmingham Temple member "There are great string quartets by Beethoven I haven't played The quartet gives me the opportunity to work directly with other musicians to decide what we'd like to play

Just for fun

"I'm doing this for fun not money The Hindemith I played in college It's music that I love There's not a note I would change While Mozart is standard with classical music lovers, they usually don't have even a passing acquaintance with his chamber music The Brahms – most know he wrote quartet but haven't heard it before It's gorgeous Written in 1923, the Hindemith has dissonance and rhythms unfamiliar to people but very accessible I don't know anyone who has heard it who hasn't been taken with it "

'The Sonnet Quartet is a chance to play with very good players.'

Hai Xin Wu
Ann Arbor resident

Hai Xin Wu is looking forward to the concert with quartet members Mellow, Kennedy, and Sarah Cleveland who was principal cellist with the Toledo Symphony for 13 years Wu immigrated to the U S from China specifically to study violin at the Manhattan School of Music in New York A member of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra since 1995, Wu, in his spare time, coaches the string sectional for the Detroit Symphony Civic Orchestra, the DSO's youth training ensemble

"The Sonnet Quartet is a chance to play with very good players," said Wu, an Ann Arbor resident who recently performed in New York with the Jupiter Chamber Players "Chamber is give and take You have to talk about it and reach a consensus about what you're going to do Some of the best work is chamber music It's a joy "

Go soul-searching with Eels

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA
scasola@oe.homecomm.net

Mark Oliver Everett, known simply as the artist E of Los Angeles-based Eels, might look a bit foreboding sporting that unruly fit-for-ZZ Top beard, but never fear He's not out to steal your soul or anything

Eels latest record Souljacker toys with a rather heady concept In modern society, where souls are lost every day, how can you hold onto what you don't know you have?

That question signaled E's inspiration for the songs that would be Souljacker I and II From there, he spun a whole cast of characters that reflect both the beauty and beast in the world

Here's the breakdown of selected tracks from Souljacker

Fresh Feeling

"It's a plain old love song We're actually doing a new version of it I wish we'd recorded it the way we're doing it now It's sort of (as) if Velvet Underground had recorded it"

Woman Driving, Man Sleeping

"That song is a song about being in-between They've left something behind and they're heading for something else It's up to you to decide I've heard wildly different interpretations of it"

What is this note?

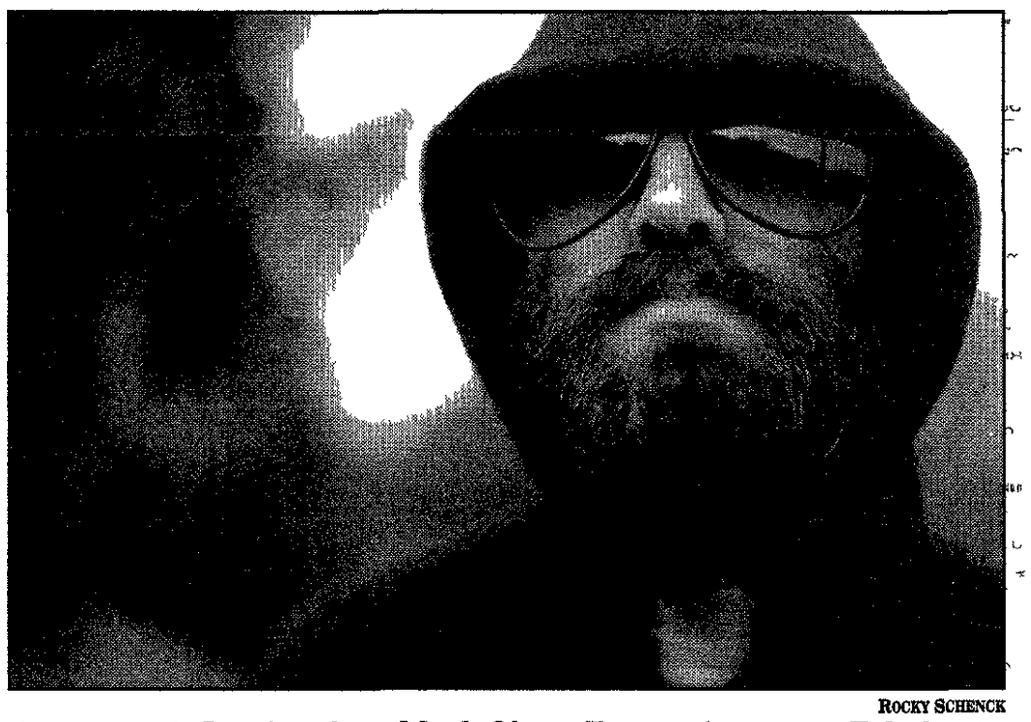
"If you read the lyrics it's the worst school boy love song That's what I love about pop music Any music If you hear the words, you can actually change the meaning of the words with music The school boy love part will become quite an explosion and celebration of love"

Dog-faced Boy

"That one I really took to heart I stopped shaving for a year It's a very different life, particularly after Sept 11 Even before, mothers would hide their babies Children would hide behind their mom's leg I'd go to the bank and the security guard flips off the safety on his gun After Sept 11, I got way too much attention at the airport"

Though he won't be flying on this tour, the beard suits the feeling of Souljacker And like the title songs, he's on his second one E went in for a haircut and trim and "came home looking like George Michael" He assured that his whiskers are almost back to their original glory

See Eels for yourself, 8 p m Friday, March 29, The Magic Bag, Ferndale 18 and older welcome $15 Call (248) 544-3030



ROCKY SCHENCK

Spooked out: Los Angeleno Mark Oliver Everett, known as Eels frontman who sticks to one letter, E, will take over Ferndale's Magic Bag tomorrow night.

Artist moves viewers with monumental sculpture

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
lchomin@oe.homecomm.net

Heather McGill admonishes her Cranbrook Academy of Art students for removing pieces of her sculpture from the trash Even though she's cut it into small pieces, they're still drawn to the remnants of discarded work behind her studio in Bloomfield Hills

It really should come as no surprise to the head of the sculpture department though McGill's imposing creations remind viewers of bits of popular culture on a large scale

As Claes Oldenburg simplified objects from everyday modern life in his sculpture, McGill plays off cushioning designs used by Nike in its sneakers similar to the way New York Pop artists like Andy Warhol created works inspired by commercial design, mass production and mass media McGill slightly restructures the "air bladder" shapes then manually routs them out of Styrofoam then stacks them to create floor sculpture topped with a sheet of laser cut steel painted in white or powder blue Wall pieces take on striking colors such as bright yellow or lavender All of the recent sculpture and works on paper can be seen through Saturday, April 20 at Revolution Gallery in Ferndale

Mass production

"I'm very interested in finding a shape that's mass produced, anything mass production It's manufactured That's different from art, different rules," said McGill a native of California where she earned a master of fine art degree from San Francisco Art Institute in 1984 "Art puts it through creativity which has a different set of rules I wanted to make a collision occur between those two

"I'm also interested in materials I looked at design the last 5-6 years to show how manufacturers are using these materials The work is very similar in the way they're built"

Building or constructing objects is something McGill's done since she was a kid Her playfulness comes out in both the sculpture and works on paper The laser-cut drawings of vintage autos mirror each other and form patterns that look like flowers or snowflakes from afar

"As a child I was always building forts and other things," said McGill "I want to make things physical in the world I want to create three-dimensional sculpture and things It's very closely tied with the idea that when you see it you have a relationship with an object, not necessarily do you know what it means

"I use colors that are hard to ignore The white floor sculpture is very specific, very general I want the viewer to slow down and look at the thing itself"

It's hard to walk by the 45-inch by 37-inch untitled lavender wall piece constructed from urethane, epoxy and aluminum A grid pattern of circles begs a closer look into the intertwined designs inside For McGill, evolution seems to be key to creating new work

"Each piece I learn something from and progress it into another piece," said McGill "I'm very interested in structure and how it references out in the world

Fan

Revolution Gallery director Paul Kotula first became a fan of McGill's after seeing a show of her work at Hill Gallery in Birmingham in the early 1990s

"It's incredible," said Kotula "I like the clarity of forms and use of design as an element within the sculpture The work is very, very current because the imagery comes from sneakers There's something about the images that are so much a part of our life"

The concept behind McGill's work reflects the mission of the gallery founded nearly 10 years ago

"The goal is to show contemporary art in all media that can change perceptions about body, mind and heart," said Kotula "Heather's work is wonderful All of these images are from things that help us move"

took the post of dance coordinator at the opera house

The exhibit opens 6-8 p m Wednesday, April 3 at the Halsted Gallery (with a reception for O'Connor) and then travels to the opera house for display during ABT's performances of Le Corsaire

Half the proceeds from the sale of the photographs, which offer a behind-the-scenes look into the world of the preeminent ballet company, will benefit special dance projects at the opera house, adds Halsted

Portraits of work and rest

"Dancers resting between numbers, in rehearsal, dancers sitting with their feet up," Halsted describes O'Connor's photographs, most of which are black-and-white

"She (O'Connor) has done a lot of performance shots too And many dance photos are done in a studio Hers are mostly backstage and in performance," says Halsted

The key to O'Connor's perspective as a photographer of dance – beyond being an insider at ABT – is her ability to anticipate

"She has better insight," says Halsted "She knows when a leap is going to come or when a pas de deux is going to end"

Leave it to the guys

Critics have raved about the male dancing in ABT's staging of Le Corsaire choreographed by Konstantin Sergeyev after Marius Petipa, characterizing performances as some of the best male dancing in ballet Music is by five composers

Le Corsaire has an entangled plot along with swashbuckling pirates, evil slave traders and beautiful slave girls in flowing, Arabian costumes

The story, which is based on Lord Byron's 1814 work The Corsair, revolves around Medora, a young slave girl that is sold to a slave dealer named Pasha Medora is abducted by Conrad, a pirate who has fallen in love with her Although Medora also falls in love with Conrad, she is returned to the slave trader who purchased her

Exciting male dancing comes in the form of comic leering by Pasha, ensemble pirate numbers and powerful showcases of manhood in pas de deux

Sets include a pirate ship and a Middle Eastern bazaar

Like most of ABT s classical productions, Le Corsaire appeals to both dance aficionados and entertainment seekers Says Halsted, "I think it has something for everyone"

What: American Ballet Theatre performs Le Corsaire

When: 8 p.m Thursday-Saturday, April 4 6 and 2 p.m. Sunday, April 7

Where: Detroit Opera House, 1526 Broadway, Detroit.

DINING OUT

Griffin's Grille & Spirits has international flair

BY MARY QUINLEY
SPECIAL WRITER

At the end of a long, stressful workday, Dale and Marilyn Cabauatan of Westland are in the mood to sit back, unwind and be waited on

So, three to four times a week the couple heads to Griffin's Grille & Spirits "The food and service is good and the staff knows us pretty well," said Dale, who feels more comfortable in the restaurant each time he visits He and his wife always sit at the same table near the service station

Griffin's is nestled near the southwest corner of the Westland Shopping Center It sits on the former site of Jonathan B Pub The eatery attracts families (there are highchairs) couples and singles. Griffin's stays open every night after the stores have closed in the mall The restaurant's menu selection is vast

For starters, patrons can choose Maryland crab cakes, buffalo wings, nachos or an artichoke dip served in a bread bowl Customers with a light appetite might want to order soup, chili, salad or pizza More than a dozen sandwiches, including rollups, and a multiple of burger options are available

Dale usually orders the Teriyaki Chicken as a main course The portion is a good size, the entree is flavorful and, he likes the bed of rice pilaf that is served with the meal Another of his favorites is the Pecan Crusted White Fish seasoned with a bit of garlic and a touch of sherry

Griffin's Grille & Spirits

Where: Westland Shopping Center northwest corner of Warren and Wayne roads, Westland (734) 513 0080

Open: 11 a m to 10 p m , Monday Wednesday, 11 a m to mid night, Thursday Saturday, noon to 7 p m Sunday

Cost: Range from $5 95 for appetizers to $16 95 for a sixteen ounce porterhouse steak Full bar available Daily specials Movie goers special for $29 50 (two entrees two soft drinks and two movie tickets)

Entertainment: 8 10 p m on Wednesday Rob Bugar plays acoustic guitar and keyboard in the bar area

Reservations: Not necessary

Credit cards: All major cards accepted

Marilyn prefers to try a variety of items on the menu "The last time I was there, I had the salmon special and really enjoyed it," she said The salmon steak is served with Dijon-cracked pepper sauce, roasted potatoes, steamed vegetables, salad and a roll

Favorites

The Griffin Salad is one of her favorites It's prepared with strips of chargrilled chicken breast, salad greens, tomatoes, dried cherries, red onion, walnuts and Gorgonzola cheese Top it with a drizzle of raspberry walnut dressing for a yummy, heart-healthy meal

Or try the chicken noodle soup It "tastes like the soup mama made," said Marilyn Pastas, fajitas and steaks are other entree choices All of the steaks and burgers are certified Angus beef

What about a house specialty? It's the hearty Shepherd's Pie "The pie, filled with seasoned beef, then layered with garlic mashed potatoes, is baked in a puff pastry crust and topped with melted cheddar cheese," said co-owner Paul Hess The result of this three-day process is a full meal, he says, and customers really love it

Hess, who shares ownership with his wife, Sue, describes the eatery's ambiance as a little bit of international flavor combined with American hospitality

"We try to highlight flavor, texture and freshness," said the Livonia resident, who has worked in the restaurant business approximately 25 years

Modern day customers have many options when it comes to dining "If you take a little extra time, patrons will recognize (that we have) an out-of-the-ordinary and not a run-of-the-mill restaurant," Hess said He believes that people appreciate an independent establishment rather than a chain

Hess credits his staff for the restaurant's cohesiveness Employee turnover is low

Denise Ruohonen from Garden City is the eatery's general manager, and, assistant manager Donna Fargo lives in Livonia

"These ladies do a fabulous job of adding to customer service and hospitality," said Hess Hospitality training is essential "When we train our new employees, we teach them to be attentive to the customer s needs without being overbearing," Hess explained

Employees who serve alcohol are required to attend an alcohol-awareness class

In the kitchen is chef Greg Fargo of Garden City Customer feedback is important to him "Greg takes a lot of pride in his work," said Hess "He likes to come out and talk to the customers "

Hess and his wife have worked diligently to imitate a United Kingdom pub with an American flare Dark oak walls, light music and warm lighting are reminiscent of a welcoming, neighborhood gathering stop

Folklore

Why the name Griffin's? Blame it on folklore

When Hess decided to research pubs, he discovered that many of the public houses in the United Kingdom were adorned with figurines called "griffins " A lion's body with long ears and an eagle's head and claws portrays these sculptures that represent strength and vigilance The creatures were legendary in ancient and medieval times

As you relax and savor your meal, be sure to check out the decorative griffins that are scattered throughout the eatery

Too Chez Bistro – has made yet another change to reflect its casual bistro-style atmosphere The restaurant has pared down its extensive wine list to offer a one-page list of Bistro Wines, which range in price from $15-$35 The new list offers vintages from producers in France Italy, California, New Zealand and Australia, just to name a few

"The purpose of Too Chez Bistro's recent transition was to become more casual and approachable," said John Baumgartner, general manager "We want picking a bottle of wine to be fun and easy, it shouldn't be intimidating or seem like rocket science "

If the simplified list of vintages still seems overwhelming guests can take advantage of Baumgartner's knowledge of wines, as he has received recognition as a Certified Sommelier by the Court of Master Sommeliers Connoisseurs and patrons celebrating a special occasion can still view the more exclusive reserve list that features more rare vintages Too Chez features a fresh and flavorful menu served in a casually warm bistro style atmosphere Lunch and dinner are served Monday-Saturday, and brunch is served Sunday, with seating in the bi-level dining room, in the private chef's room and in the screened patio during summer months

Store sponsors trip to France

The front window at Frame Works in downtown Plymouth contains a display about the area of France known as Aquitaine For the second year in a row the store is sponsoring an "art experience" trip to art-rich France, this time to a region along the Atlantic coast north and south of Bordeaux

Designed to appeal to the typical customers of the store, the tour is being directed by veteran French expert, Dave Groen Groen, a retired Livonia teacher who lives in Northville, will be hosting the trip to the famous wine-producing area

"This is Three Musketeers country," Groen said "It's really an unknown corner France containing tremendous beauty, history, and art There is, of course, wonderful cuisine, in an area generally unseen by the American traveler"

The trip includes a flight to Paris, the fast train to the coast city of LaRochelle, trips to Cognac to taste that city's famous product, then to Medoc area to see the chateaus and vineyards

The group will also see Bordeaux, then Arcachon, a French seaport/resort (for a bit of boating and oystering), then it's up the beautiful Dordogne Valley Included is a stop to see cave paintings and the nearby cliffs where Cro-Magnon Man was discovered One day will be spent on a boat ride through the Padirac Chasm and its underground river/lake A visit to the "vertical" city of Rocamadour built into the cliffs of the Alzou Canyon is planned, one of "the most extraordinary cities of France," according to Groen

Art and architectural heritage including the Romanesque influences will be seen everywhere

The tour is booked by calling Groen at Carlson/Wagonlit Travel in Plymouth, 455-5810 There were openings as of Monday

The three Frame Works stores are owned by Al Larson of Plymouth They are

- In downtown Plymouth, 833 Penniman across from the old post office
- In Canton at 44730 Ford Road in Kohl's Plaza
- In Livonia at 34983 Ann Arbor Trail at Wayne Road

DDA board returns after huddling with mayor

tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

Two members of the Plymouth Downtown Development Authority, who resigned because of a disagreement with Mayor Bill Graham, are back on the downtown board

"Let's just say that I refused to accept their resignations," said Graham, who noted chairman Tim McKercher and vice-chairman John Gary decided to stay after meeting last Friday "These guys have worked hard, and are important facets of the DDA I didn't want them to leave I'm glad they're back"

Graham admitted he "didn't understand we weren't on the same page" when the DDA and city officials seemingly agreed earlier this month the new director will become an at-will employee of the city, under the direction of the city manager

"There was concern about how much control the city administration would have over the DDA director," said Graham "They were afraid the person would become another city employee, and their (the DDA) control would wane"

DDA board member Bob Mundt brought the two sides together Friday And, after some discussion, McKercher and Gary agreed to return to the board

"I was disappointed all along that the city commission wasn't listening to our point of view," said McKercher "They finally acknowledged that we had some good points"

As it now stands, the city will hire the new director, who will be contracted to the DDA The director will report to the DDA board for job responsibilities, and will formulate the DDA budget And, the city will have to consult the DDA board before firing the director

Graham said a contract to be signed by the city and the DDA will outline duties so there won't be any misunderstandings concerning the duties of the director

"We just want to make the DDA director part of a large team, accountable within the city administration," added Graham "That person should help be involved in the planning process for larger festivals, like Art in the Park and the Fall Festival, events which have a definite impact on downtown"

Gary said having the DDA director attend city department head meetings "hopefully will improve communications with the city The director will become more visible and work with the city administrative team"

The controversy over the DDA director began after Melanie Purcell left the position March 17 to become budget director in Flint The city is currently writing a job description before placing an ad to hire a new director with the state officials after the meeting He said later Tuesday that he does not want to be in an adversarial role

"I want safety on the roadway and I want safety for the construction workers I'm hoping the state will work with the industries along General Drive We will cooperate" with whatever plan is devised Smith said Smith expects drivers will grow weary of the detour and find other routes

Colony Car Wash owner Robert F Townsley told the MDOT representatives that their one-year delay could hurt his business which is fin ishing a major overhaul The state fixed the M-14/I-275/I-96 interchange last summer instead of tackling Ann Arbor Road

"We made our decision to build on what we were told was the schedule," Townsley said

Many questions and comments were neutral Mike Kolb from Hines Park Lincoln Mercury said he felt the work done two years ago was handled very well "You guys (from the state) were fantastic on the first part," he said

There were several comments about the heavy truck traffic at Haggerty and Ann Arbor Road, and how easily asphalt can be rutted State officials said there will be a five year war ranty from the contractor on the job

Among the Plymouth business people at the meeting were Phil Haddad (Dunkin Donuts), Curt Schultz (Vico Products), Chuck Quinn (Plymouth Elks) and Fred Smith (S/W Hardware)

Among the Livonia business people were Mike Albus (Mike's Marketplace, Ann Arbor Road and Ann Arbor Trail), Rhonda Niner (Pinkerton Security), Scott Wilson (Livonia Trophy) and Diane Kallay (Family Practice Center)

Some of the other key details as revealed Tuesday

■ A temporary light at General Drive will help with traffic The road bed will be dug down as deep as three feet in some places That and the narrowness of the road at the tracks made the detour necessary

■ The contractor for the project is Lanzo Con struction Co of Roseville A spokesman for the company said late Tuesday that the road

■ 'I want safety on the roadway and I want safety for the construction workers. I'm hoping the state will work with the industries along General Drive.'

—Plymouth Township police department

rebuild would be on a "fast track " Work in some instances will go on around the clock Look for the first lane closures the last week in April

■ There will be short periods between now and the end of the construction season when ramps from and to I-275 will be closed No details on exactly which ones will close when are available yet

■ The badly damaged concrete deck of the bridge over I-275 will be replaced with new concrete

■ The work will be done in three phases or segments The second phase from Haggerty to Hix will take most of the summer The third phase from Hix to just past the Newburgh intersection could take into the fall The job is supposed to be done by mid- to late November

■ The Chesapeake and Ohio overpass bridge will not receive any repairs The railroad has told the state it is not in their capital budget at this time

■ Businesses will be updated by the Township and by Livonia when driveway closings will be necessary

■ Businesses can set up makeshift signs to direct customers to their property Those businesses with sprinkler systems and other landscaping near the road will have to bear the cost of bypassing the interrupted lines and replacing them when the work is done

■ Jim Anulewicz the township's director of public services said the Haggerty Road bridge at the Rouge River in Hines Park was several weeks away from completion The project has been delayed by a conflict over bridge beams

Canton theater's new board includes duo from Plymouth

BY JACK GLADDEN
jgladden@oe.homecomm.net

Canton's performing arts center moved closer to reality this week with the formation of the Partnership for the Arts and Humanities

The township board of trustees on Tuesday approved the 14 member board to oversee the operation of the theater and to conduct fund-raising activities

Among the board members are two Plymouth men, Ken Kuna and Paul Hillegonds

That same day the project received its first major contribution – a $100,000 check from Singh Development Corporation

Supervisor Tom Yack said the newly formed partnership will have expenses and needed some seed money

"This (the Singh contribution) will allow them to write checks and get things done," he said

And getting things done is going to be the focus of the partnership, according to Bryan Amann, Canton attorney, who will serve as chairman of the organization Ten of the members are Canton residents, two are from Plymouth, one is from West Bloomfield and one from Grosse Pointe

"Everybody on this board is there because they can produce results for this theater," Amann said "They're going to be role-playing all stars"

Perhaps the best known "name" on the board is Chuck Forbes of West Bloomfield, head of Forbes Investments and owner of the Gem and State theaters in Detroit

"Chuck has offered his assistance in this project," Amann said "He's a long time lover of theaters We're absolutely fortunate to have a big time name like this on the board"

And Yack echoed that sentiment

"Chuck and I share a lot of interests when it comes to culture," he said "We've talked to him a lot about the size of the venue he thought appropriate for this project"

'They're all doers'

But, like Amann, Yack said all of the partnership members can get things accomplished

"Some are business people, some are passionate about the arts," he said "They're all doers"

Susan Harvey of Grosse Pointe, vice president of Ashley Capital, is the other member from outside the area

"She's a real dynamo," Amann said "Last summer she was listed in Crain's as one of the most influential women in the Detroit area She has many regional connections"

Members of the partnership include

- Dick Dionne of Canton, president of Canton Project Arts
- Greg Greene of Canton, a community activist who works for AAA
- Hillegonds of Plymouth, president of New Detroit and a former Speaker of the House in Lansing
- Elaine Kirchgatter of Canton, township treasurer and member of the board of trustees
- Kuna of Plymouth, representing the Theater Guild of Plymouth
- Susan Kopinski of Canton, a community activist who works for Wayne County
- Ron Lowe of Canton, judge at 35th District Court
- Greg Schupra of Canton, vice president of the Comerica Foundation
- Judy Stone of Canton, who's long been active with local schools, arts and theater groups
- Mark Wolnowski of Canton, businessman who has been active in working with youth symphony and music activities
- Bob Zulker of Canton, executive with Gilmar Manufacturing and a longtime board member with the Canton Community Foundation

"The board represents an attempt to provide balance and representation of all groups and people in the community who have an interest in the theater," Amann said

Initial meeting

He said the first meeting of the board will probably take place late in April In addition to officers and directors and various subcommittees, Amann said there probably will be an executive director to run the theater

He said he expects some potential candidates for that position to emerge in the coming months

No-shows hurt credibility of school finance summit

There were lots of "plans" offered, few truly workable solutions presented and more than a little politicking during Monday's Third Statewide Summit on School Funding at Salem High School What was missing – and what might have changed the dynamics – was balance

Until candidates for statewide office – the gubernatorial race in this case and, Republicans in particular – give the issue more than lip service, it's going to be difficult to take the annual forum sponsored by Citizens for Fairness in Public School Funding seriously

The summit is supposed to be a nonpartisan discussion of Proposal A and its ramifications on Plymouth-Canton and other under-funded school districts in southeastern Michigan It says so right there in the program and was reiterated in opening remarks by Superintendent Kathleen Booher But more often than not, it turns into a two-and-a-half hour rant against the policies of Gov John Engler's administration and its unstated but apparently obvious (to everyone but us) mission to destroy all that is good about public education

Monday's forum was no exception When he wasn't busy offering sound bites from his stump speech or waving his campaign literature in the air, former Gov James Blanchard reminded the 1,000 or so people in the Salem cafeteria how great things were when he was in charge U S Rep David Bonior joined a chorus of wailing about crumbling school buildings and disappearing general fund money to address education We'll give him some credit on that last point It's a valid question that deserves an honest answer

Of course, other than Green Party candidate Douglas Campbell, the podium had a decidedly Democratic look In addition to Blanchard and Bonior, it included state Sen Alma Wheeler Smith and James Agee sitting in for Michigan Attorney General Jennifer Granholm

Mark Slavens, who chairs the non-profit citizens group, said both Lt Gov Dick Posthumus, the front-runner for the Republican nomination, and Republican state Sen Joe Schwarz were invited as early as last fall but begged off citing various obligations Granholm too had another commitment

To those who are uninitiated in the ways of big-time politics, that means Posthumus, Schwarz and Granholm (along with their advisors) simply didn't rate the event, issue, locale and/or audience a priority when making out their schedules Which is too bad

While the education establishment typically endorses Democratic candidates and policies, voters in Plymouth and Canton have strongly backed Republicans in statewide races going back to the 1980s Had the MIA gubernatorial hopefuls been at the table Monday, the audience would likely have been served a reminder that there have been gains – both local and statewide – in education during the Engler years Rising test scores, more accountability on the part of school officials, greater choice for parents and a lessening of the gap between wealthy and poor districts, to name a few (To be fair, that last item was mentioned several times during the question-and-answer session)

After wading through the rhetoric, there were some substantive issues on the table Monday, including a little-publicized proposal for a state bond fund to help rebuild school facilities. It's almost useless, though, to discuss that kind of thing in a partisan vacuum.

We note that Posthumus hasn't been a stranger when it comes to appearances at Plymouth and Canton Chamber of Commerce events or other, more Republican friendly settings around town

We're not here to cheer for Engler s education policies or the Republican approach to the issue But it would be nice to hear from that side of the aisle After wading through the rhetoric, there were some substantive issues on the table Monday, including a little-publicized proposal for a state bond fund to help rebuild school facilities It's almost useless though to discuss that kind of thing in a partisan vacuum

Having both major parties at the forum would also likely cut down on the amount of time devoted to political baloney while boosting the discussion of issues that really matter to students, parents, teachers and taxpayers in the Plymouth-Canton community

The Observer understands full-bodied discussion of the issues – from a variety of viewpoints – is a lot to ask for these days But we remain stubbornly optimistic, or maybe foolish enough, to believe that's still possible

Park Players can be proud of their spring musical

The students and staff who took part in the P-CEP Park Players presentation of Pippin this past weekend can be justifiably proud of their achievements

The Park's tradition of strong theater arts program continues under the leadership of drama teacher Geoffrey Kopp

It's always hard to follow a legend – Gloria Logan retired two years ago and the theater now bears her name The current director and other staff and students have maintained the standards she set

Pippin is a tough musical for high school students to stage It has its naughty and seamy parts if staged the way the original was conceived It brings the early 1970s sensibilities and culture to bear, and it has the legendary Bob Fosse stamp on its music and dance numbers

Many schools stick to the standards such has Oklahoma, which just opened in New York this past week as a revival That show is 59 years old and is fine for students Choosing Pippin instead, however, provides a different and unusual challenge for aspiring actors and actresses

The story is not about Charlemagne, his son Pippin and France in 800 A D It is about today and about being young and coming of age, there is no happy ending and, in some of the darker interpretations, Pippin becomes surreal In the end the lead character rejects suicide (self immolation).

The students seemed to get the subtext Their handling of the young boy and his duck sequences seems just right, for example There was plenty of stage business with fireworks and magically appearing characters

There is obviously great participation with a large number of students involved in the cast, chorus, orchestra, and back stage crew

Many schools stick to the standards such has Oklahoma, which just opened in New York this past week as a revival. That show is 59 years old and is fine for students. Choosing Pippin instead, however, provides a different and unusual challenge for aspiring actors and actresses.

The Plymouth-Canton school district wisely built a large facility for the drama program and is continuing the tradition with new digs for the marching band in the new high school building

The performing arts are vital to the artistic and intellectual life of the school and the community

What P-CEP does for these students ought to be the model for the nation

Here's a tip of the Observer's top hat to the Park Players and the adults who helped them bring Pippin to the stage this weekend well done

Trustee says thanks

An open letter to the residents of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district

Thank you for the opportunity and for being elected four years ago to serve the school district as a member of the Board of Education I have served in the capacities of Trustee, Secretary, Treasurer and President while continuing to grow in knowledge and pride around the commitment that it takes to educate our children

This four-year term has confirmed my belief that school board service is an honorable form of community service and involvement I have met many fine people and gained a lifetime of valuable friendships I am proud of our excellent educators who are responsible for maintaining the high results and ratings in education by any measure Together, the board and superintendent also worked to achieve the highest financial audit rating possible, a true budget that balances, and sound, state-accepted accounting practices that accurately reflect our position

The active participation by the many people who choose to keep the focus about kids continues to be the shining light that make our communities and school district great During my term I had the once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to be involved with the process of building three schools and opening two of them These truly are exciting times in our district I appreciate the confidence and trust that you placed in me to help guide our school system and very much want to say "Thank You "

As my term nears its end this June, I will be focused on my family, business and other personal goals, including continued activity in community and school-related matters as a father and community member

Speak up on TAG

The March 14 editorial entitled Board hired Booher, who's doing her job, states

"The claim has been made Booher's idea of mainstreaming the Talented and Gifted Program would ruin the program, despite the fact it would allow 50 percent more participation than the current magnet program, a fact generally ignored in published criticisms " Then goes on, "Is it a good idea? It's tough to argue with an idea that allows more participation "

I chose this district specifically because the TAG program utilizes a magnet model I don't have to wait to make a "judgment" on the issue " until all the discussion is in " – nor do many of the other parents who have children in the program Research shows that the magnet model is a superior method for meeting the needs of these children It doesn't matter how large the program is expanded if it is altered to be less effective

I am sure many would be surprised at how little the program costs per child This fact is withheld by the school administration, they will not even address that question A magnet program is actually the most cost-effective way to provide the proper education these children need Expanding the program is a great idea, it should be expanded to kindergarten or first grade and should include all students who show the need and wish to participate in this type of program

Booher has gone on record as being against a magnet model for TAG while at the same time exploring a magnet model for a new program in the district (International Baccalaureate Organization) This would lead one to believe that her educational philosophy supports "mainstreaming" the TAG kids into the general education population rather than eliminating "magnet" costs Studies have shown, and I'm sure most parents of TAG students believe, that the current model for TAG (magnet) is the most effective and economical model Therefore I don't have to wait until the "jury is in" before I speak out on the issue it will be too late the decision will be made Speaking out while the decision is being discussed is not adversarial or confrontational, it's imperative to express opinions during the decision-making process, not after a decision has been made

Questions for Granholm

Recently, Novi was graced with the second appearance of Michigan Attorney General Jennifer Granholm, who addressed metro-Detroit educrats (Novi News, March 14) The open forum was sponsored by the Novi Education Association, a division of the Michigan Education Association, the powerful teachers' union

Don't let Granholm's pretty face, golden tongue, and rhetoric fool you! In the recent past both of her school-age daughters attended a local private school in Plymouth (OLGC) As the run for governor drew near, she moved one from the private school and placed her in the local Plymouth public school

One foot in each camp? If she thinks public education is so superior, why aren't all her kids in government schools? Did she tell this to her MEA/NEA pals? Talk about sacrificing your kids for your career

Of course, this is no different than her "pro-choice" rhetoric She is beholden to the pro-abort Democrats as demonstrated by the recent endorsement from the infamous "Emily's List " Check out www.rtl.org/granholmgarble "Garble" is a good way to describe Granholm, she seeks to distort and confuse She likes the euphemism of "pro-choice " Oh, yes, she is personal ly opposed, she wouldn't kill her baby, but you are free to do so if you wish What a mom and what a leader!!

Next time, have your reporter ask Granholm about her so-called avid support of public schools, while her own daughters have attended (and one of whom may still be at the Plymouth private school) Maybe this is more of the "pro-choice" verbal gymnastics game we have already seen Jenny, put your money where your mouth is!

Supports millage

As a Canton resident who looks to the public schools to educate my severely disabled son, as well as my regular education daughter, I am concerned that our community be sufficiently informed regarding the August Act 18 millage vote

Act 18 exists to provide an education for severely impaired students All severely disabled children have a legal guarantee from the federal and state governments to be appropriately educated The Plymouth-Canton school district joins with the rest of Wayne County to provide special education centers for our students who are in need of this type of education delivery My son attends the program for students with autism in Garden City, and I can attest to the excellence of this particular program based on years of personal experience

Although the State of Michigan mandates these special education pro grams it doesn t even come close to providing adequate funding to cover their costs, and here is where the problem comes in for the school districts The burden falls to them to assure that the program costs are met For Plymouth-Canton, it means paying a yearly "charge back" to the county to cover those costs – $1 4 million this past year

This has been going on since 1992, and it is a real drain on the finances of our district If the proposed millage were to pass, Wayne County would have sufficient funds to pay for the mandated programs We would no longer need to pay a charge back to the county each year, which would free up at least $1 4 million annually to use in our own district If it doesn't pass, Plymouth-Canton must continue to pay charge backs to the county from our regular education fund

The Act 18 millage is currently the only way allowed under Michigan law for our district to increase available funds Proposal A does not allow us a local enhancement millage

Excellence in education is important to each of our children, the typical as well as the disabled, and it is important to the health of our community The Act 18 millage is a way to support them all

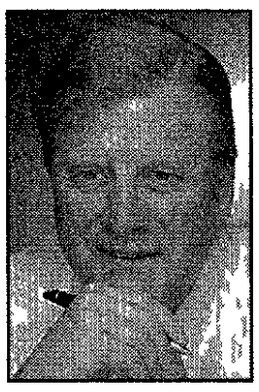
A status report on the race to be Michigan's governor

With the August primary election just four months off, now's a pretty good time to take a look at what's happened so far in the race for the governorship

Politically attuned readers with long memories will recall this contest is the first in a decade without a sitting governor on the ballot Congressman Jim Blanchard was first elected gover nor in 1982, winning again in 1986 Gov John Engler won an upset victory over Blanchard in 1990 and went on to win two more elections before being term limited out of office this year



Phil Power

In notable lock step, the institutional Republican Party has anointed Lt Gov Dick Posthumus as Engler's designated successor, notwithstanding the fact that his campaign has so far obtained so little traction that he's far behind both Blanchard and Attorney General Jennifer Granholm in head-to-head polls and only runs even with U S Rep David Bonior

Posthumus is a nice guy and, as Engler's understudy, he certainly knows his way around Lansing But he pales in the shadow of his giant patron without so far having had much success in carving out any singularity of appeal Several months ago he spoke for a couple of hours with a group of editors from these newspapers, most were unimpressed, some were bored

Running against Posthumus in the primary is John H ("Joe") Schwarz, also a term limited state senator from Battle Creek Schwarz's problem is hardly singularity of appeal A straight-talking, full-blown moderate in a party that has moved steadily to the right ever since the days of Bill Milliken, Schwarz's strategy is to keep hanging around until even dyed-in-the-wool GOP functionaries realize that Posthumus has no chance of beating any of the possible Democratic nominees

Most of the sound and fury has been confined to the Democratic primary, where Blanchard, Bonior and Granholm are so far running far ahead of state Sen Alma Smith, who is able, experienced and so far has not succeeded in attracting the attention of a jaded Lansing press corps

With high name ID stemming from his years as governor (especially among Democratic women in Detroit, who make up a big bloc among primary voters), Blanchard jumped into the race with a big lead in the early polls But Granholm has used her office to get her name into the headlines and raised a ton of money, notably with the help of Emily's List, a national organization that contributes to woman candidates

Most Democratic insiders have been torn between their loyalty to Blanchard (who befriended many and appointed some while governor) and their conviction that Granholm would be by far the stronger candidate in November (Even Blanchard is worried about what Republican attack ads on TV would do with his decision to raise the state income tax during a budget crisis in his first term)

A couple of polls last month put Granholm ahead of Blanchard, but a new one published last week in Inside Michigan Politics put the two essentially neck and neck

The same poll put Bonior far behind, but neither Blanchard nor Granholm should dismiss the former minority whip in Congress Bonior is smart, tough and a good campaigner Whether he can find a way to break out of his limited base in Macomb County and his embrace by the UAW leadership remains to be seen

Over the past month, I've been reading with steadily growing admiration two biographies of former President Theodore Roosevelt by Edmund Morris, The Rise of Theodore Roosevelt and Theodore Rex Roosevelt was an extraordinary figure in American politics smart, very widely read, with an amazingly varied background for a politician — rancher, hunter, soldier, ornithologist, conservationist Most important, to me at least, was his ability to cut to the heart of problems and respond with far-reaching and creative solutions that broke the molds of conventional thinking

If these are the standards by which the current crop of candidates should be rated, provisional evidence in the campaign so far suggests Granholm and Schwarz deserve close attention

Undeniably charismatic, Granholm has so far on the campaign trail been relatively opaque in her approach to public policy But those who know her well say that she's like Teddy Roosevelt in her ability to get quickly to the heart of a problem and to find unconventional solutions Schwarz, on the other hand, reminds me of T R in his courage and straight talk to a party rigidly locked in an ideological strait jacket

What political season needs is a real good donnybrook

Now it's getting interesting

The lineup to replace a legend is getting longer every day

Officially or unofficially former Detroit Police Chief Benny Napoleon, Wayne County Commission Chair Ricardo Solomon, Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano and Detroit City Council Member Sharon McPhail all want to fill Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara's very big shoes

McNamara protege and Wayne County Prosecutor Michael Duggan has given his endorsement to Solomon, despite Solomon's strong criticism of his mentor and Solomon's opposition to the new airport authority deal No doubt, Duggan figures it's better to back Solomon than Ficano, who has never been a favorite of the McNamara crowd

Duggan's endorsement goes a small way toward denting the clear racial divide that has marked recent contests for the county executive's office But it's not enough Even casual political observers would have to give Ficano the front-runner status as the lone white suburbanite against three black city residents Assuming each of the city candidates expects to draw most of their support from the city, they'll be dividing that crucial part of the vote

Of course, Ficano has black supporters and the black candidates have white supporters, but, unfortunately, many voters never get beyond race

Duggan joked that he was ready to jump into the race until a better candidate, Solomon, came along Considering his success in winning county wide to become prosecutor, Duggan's decision not to run might be surprising some people But perhaps his ties to McNamara as his longtime deputy executive would have raised too many questions that are better left for another day

Besides, I have a more interesting proposition for Mike Duggan

In the recent reapportionment, the Republican Legislature gerrymandered a Congressional district, the new 11th, for state Sen Thaddeus McCotter So far no Democrat has come forward to challenge McCotter after he breezes through the August primary

Wouldn't it be a fine donnybrook if the two Livonia Irishmen, who like Jimmy Cagney and Pat O'Brien in those old movies went their separate ways, were to engage in a lively contest

Sure it s a nominally Republican district But some suggest that moderate Democrat Duggan is closer to the thinking of many residents than the conservative McCotter (who brought in House Majority Leader Dick Armey to help launch his campaign)

And what a fine contrast it would be for voters McCotter has the demeanor and look of a Jesuit He has a quick wit and a good eye for the absurd His aloof manner has been known to put some people off, though others find his intelligence and his willingness to engage in debate refreshing

Sure it's a nominally Republican district. But some suggest that moderate Democrat Duggan us closer to the thinking of many residents than the conservative McCotter.

Duggan has the look of a good pub keeper He's a slap 'em on the back politician who never, ever backs away from a good fight His sense of humor is more raucous, his style is more outgoing He's the kind of guy that everyone calls a "charmer " But he's also something of a blunderbuss and a bully in pursuit of his goals

Politics is about ideas, of course, and Duggan and McCotter would offer voters in the new district a "clear choice " But politics is also about style It's a form of entertainment that the American Irish have helped transform into an art

And both have come of age watching and admiring a master Irish politician of the old school, Ed McNamara Duggan was McNamara's point man and McCotter has often conceded that McNamara is the best politician he's even known

How wonderful if two Irishmen could show voters in the new 11th District how the game is really played

McNamara may be leaving his position as county executive, but his influence will be everywhere in the years ahead He will be appointing four members to the new airport board to oversee his pet project The candidates for county executive may not pay homage to the current executive, but if they've been paying attention, they should have learned a lot about how to use political power Former McNamara protege Jennifer Granholm wants to carry his lessons in effective government to the governor's position And many other young political figures will be carrying on his legacy

Senate kills judge's retirement plan

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

The issue of early retirement incentives for judges — alleged by Democrats to be a "court packing scheme" by Gov John Engler — is dead and will not come back before the legislature

Engler spokesperson Sue Shafer confirmed there will be no effort by the governor to revive a plan of offering increased pension payments to judges, who would have been able to get as much as $28,000 more per year had lawmakers approved

"It was a second tier issue, really," Shafer contended "More important was the proposal to realign the boundaries for family court and give the judges affected some options of what they were going to do Gov Engler really had not anticipated that a lot of judges would take advantage of early retirement anyway"

State lawmakers approved a proposal to revise probate court boundaries in several northern counties without retirement incentives, a bill Engler is expected to sign this week They also adopted a plan to offer early retirement to state employees this year, a budget trimming move the governor proposed to cut the budget an estimated $50 million The early retirement incentives for state workers apply to an estimated 8,100 employees, about half of which are expected to take advantage of the program Engler is expected to sign that bill this week as well, Shafer said

Democrats, on the other hand, had another view of the judicial retirement proposal, and were eager to claim victory when a tie-bar between incentives for state workers and the judicial package was broken

"The state employee retirement plan should never have been tied to the judicial early retirement," said Sen Dianne Byrum (D-Onondaga) "I am pleased we have been able to stop judicial early retirement and move forward with allowing state employees to plan for their future"

Democrats believed the proposal was a scheme to get perhaps as many as 100 judges across the state to retire before Engler leaves office, giving him the ability to appoint their successors before he himself leaves office at the end of the year

They said Engler was attempting to pack the court with judges whose philosophy matches his

"The golden parachute has collapsed under the scrutiny of public opinion," said Sen John Cherry (D-Clio) "A plan that would allow the Governor to appoint numerous judges not only robs voters of the right to choose who serves in their courts, but places an unnecessary burden on the taxpayers of the state"

Sen Gary Peters (D-Bloomfield Township) argued that early retirement for judges would not have saved the state any money

"They're elected officials, so they all draw the same salary," he explained "It would have been inappropriate to give incentives to elected officials to leave early, only so he could replace them with younger judges, so he could pack the court with judges of his own philosophical bent for the next 20 years"

The tie-bar between the two bills was broken when lawmakers realized there were not enough votes in the senate to give the judicial retirement package immediate effect With that, the incentives would not have gone into effect until next year, leaving the appointment of replacements to Engler's successor

To get immediate effect, a two-thirds majority vote is needed and no Democrats in the senate were willing to give 'yes' votes for that One Republican also disagreed with the plan

"Initially, I supported the early retirement plan to allow some judges to leave office early and enable many state employees to retire," said Sen Valde Garcia (R-St Johns) "But after hearing from many at home, I realized that offering early retirement incentives for judges is not acceptable So, we have restored language protecting judges' pensions without offering them more money to retire early

Plan would ban deceptive e-mail 'spam'

BY MIKE MALOTT
mmalott@homecomm.net

Commercial e-mail — often referred to as "spam" — that is deceptive or misleading would be outlawed under legislation recently introduced by Rep Marc Shulman (R-West Bloomfield)

House Bill 5777, referred to the House Commerce Committee for initial review, would add "deceptive unsolicited e-mail" among the list of business practices banned in the Michigan Consumer Protection Act

Deceptive e-mails are defined as those that contain "false or misleading information in the subject line," use of an Internet domain name without the owner's permission, or that obscure or otherwise misrepresent information identifying the point of origin of the e-mail message

The bill would eliminate liability for Internet service providers that block e-mails they believe to be in violation of the act

As an addition to the Consumer Protection Act, the bill would make a failure to deliver goods or services sold through e-mail a violation as well, according to staff aide Gabe Basso Violations of the act carry a potential penalty of up to $25,000

The proposal is based on a law passed in the state of Washington and recently upheld as constitutional in court

E-mail selling pornography is not directly addressed in the bill, Basso said, but it is expected the bill would have an affect on pornographic solicitations

"That's one industry that particularly would feel the brunt of this legislation," he said "You know, you'll receive a message saying it's from your best friend and when you open it, it is a huge piece of pornography What could be more deceptive than that?" he said

Shulman has received a position response from other lawmakers and the public to the introduction of the bill It is expected to be taken up by the House in April when state lawmakers return from their spring break

Engler signs bill creating Metro Airport authority

Gov John Engler Tuesday signed SB 690 to create a new, seven-member authority to run Detroit Metropolitan Airport

Joining the governor at the event was Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara

In signing the bill, Engler said that a well-run airport sends a signal across the world that Michigan is the right place to travel and do business

"The airport is the first impression business travelers and tourists have of Detroit and of Michigan," said Engler "That first impression must be a great one"

Ed McNamara

"Detroit Metro Airport is the most important economic generator for all of Southeastern Michigan," said Wayne County Executive Edward H McNamara "Metro Airport serves as this area's primary transportation gateway, linking this region to the rest of the world With a more efficient operation, Metro and Willow Run airports will continue to create new jobs and economic prosperity for Wayne County and the State of Michigan well into the future"

The new authority will have full control over all airport facilities and operations, including maintenance and security as well as construction or expansion projects Members of the authority will be held to the same ethics standards as other public officials and will have an independent audit committee

The bill, sponsored by State Senator Glenn Steil (R - Grand Rapids), passed with large bipartisan majorities in both the Michigan House and Senate It stipulates that the authority will include four members appointed by the Wayne County Executive, two members appointed by the governor and one member appointed by the Wayne County Commission

The Wayne County Commission has hired a law firm to try to stop implementation of the authority

Building permits serve good purpose

The topic of building permits came up in my class the other day The students had questions about how to obtain them and why we even need them As we move into the building season I thought it might be a good subject to share in this column

What a Building Permit Is

A building permit can be thought of as a license to start a construction project These permits allow enforcement of the State Construction Code Act The intent of the Act is to ensure public safety and welfare Permits allow building officials to inspect construction projects for proper construction techniques and the use of appropriate materials They also are used to verify that the project fits within community standards and zoning Several years ago news stories ran about an improperly constructed deck used for a party Several people were severely injured when it collapsed This deck was built without a permit and therefore no inspections were made on it

Zoning (part of the permit process) helps maintain quality of life high by verifying the intended structures fits the area it's to be constructed

What Construction Projects Require a Permit?

The types of projects requiring permits vary by community It s best to call the building department for your community and ask

Just about every community will require permits for new buildings, additions, decks, demolition, swimming pools and any mechanical (electric, plumbing, heating and air conditioning) work

How Do I Get One?

How to get the permit, again, varies by community How much you'll have to pay for them is also determined by the local government

For most projects, in most areas, you will need

At least two sets of plans Unless the project is large, or used commercially, the plans need not necessarily be drawn by an architect

A plot plan showing the location of the project on the lot In most communities, for most alteration work, this plot plan can be drawn on a copy of a mortgage survey Be sure to include the legal description of the property

The anticipated cost of the project

An application available from the city or township hall, which usually spells out what other information is needed and the fees for the permit

You need not be a licensed builder to pull a permit if you are the homeowner and you will be doing the work You must however hire a licensed contractor for any subcontracted work

Inspections

Inspections usually will include foundation (posthole for a deck) rough framing, rough and finish mechanical, and a final Other necessary inspections will be explained at the time the permit is granted Ask if you are not sure

Don't be afraid of the permit process Building departments and officials are by and large very helpful to homeowners I usually find them willing to answer homeowners questions about their project

Becoming a master gardener is a lot more than learning about plants

It's about sharing that knowledge and changing neighborhoods with volunteer beautification projects Like the seeds of a wild flower the joys gardeners reap keep spreading

Children in first- through fifth-grades are learning to become junior master gardeners in classrooms throughout the state under the tutelage of adult master gardeners

Like, Laura Riegal's fourth- grade students at Isbister Elementary in Plymouth, who are in the midst of a six- week program headed by Patti DeBono, a master gardener in Northville

"I didn't think learning could be fun, but this lets me interact with things," explained student, Amanda Batt

Kelsey Stamm, 10, said she never knew that plants have male and female parts "I would encourage other students to do the junior master gardening program," she added

These children are leaving the program with information they can use to grow and keep plants for the rest of their lives

"I learned that seeds don't need a lot of water to grow and that it can cause mold," explained Ben Staley, 9

The class recently took earthworms home in boxes, which showed them, on a smaller scale, how compost containers work

Molly Tessier will always remember that different plants need to be placed in the ground at different times of the growing season

Wildlife lessons too

During one session, the children made "toad villas," which were made of inverted clay flower pots and they learned how important wildlife was to the natural cycle of the garden

This is completely hands-on and they're learning while they're doing," Riegal said

Worms and bats don't have a good reputation, unless you know they have important jobs in the gardening world, explained Alexa Hoffman and Jillian Black

Nicolas Galli, 10, is excited to start applying his new- found gardening expertise this summer in the garden bed his parents have designated his own

Planting seeds is fun spring project

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI
SPECIAL WRITER

Parents who make gardens with their children are planting lasting memories and a tradition that's often carried from generation to generation

"One of the things parents should do if they are going to plant a vegetable and flower garden is to get the kids involved right now," explained Mary McLellan, Michigan State University Master Gardener Coordinator, during the second week of March when temperatures often hinted of spring and dropped quickly enough to remind us it was still winter and dangerously cold for small plants

"Tell them, 'This is yours and you decide what you want to put into it,'" McLellan said

Start with plants that are simple to grow, like marigolds and annuals March is a good time to start planting seeds indoors

Smooth cooktops aren't for everyone

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

JOE GAGNON

There is no doubt in anyone's mind that a smooth, glass-top range is the most beautiful modern kitchen appliance But at the same time, it's also a cause of complaints For those of you who are happy with the product, I must say I know a little about you

You take care of the smooth top or else you would be complaining Homeowners unhappy with the cooktop are the ones who should tear this column out of the paper and tape it above the range

A manufacturer recently checked out several hundred cooktops which had been returned under terms of their warranty Almost 100 percent of these returned products had problems created by the homeowner Call it a lack of customer education if you will, I point the finger at the person using the stove If you don't sit down and read the instruction book, and follow the cleaning instructions, you won't be happy with the product

Let me go back to the cooktops that were returned to the manufacturer One-third could be cleaned with a scraper, and cooktop cleaning cream Some cooktops were permanently stained or damaged due to spillage or residue that had been left on the cooktop through repeated heatings The rest of the cooktops were permanently damaged due to the use of improper cleaning products or improper utensils We can conclude that these several hundred returned cooktops resulted in some very unhappy customers, but I point out that it was not the fault of the product, but the person using it

Do your homework

Before you select a smoothtop for your kitchen, visit the appliance store and read or make a copy of the instruction book Do not buy this product unless you get all the facts There are other things to know besides cleanability, such as taking a ruler and placing it on the bottom of your cookware Turn it in a circle, and if your pots and pans don't fit inside the circle, it's time to buy new

watch things grow," Chelsea Rice explained

Students in Riegal's two fourth- grade science classes must complete the program and work 10 hours in community volunteer work before being certified as junior master gardeners by Michigan State University Extension They will receive a certificate from the extension office along with a name badge and T-shirt

"It's not just learning about gardening," DeBono said "It's learning about giving, sharing, teaching, loving and giving back to their communities"

DeBono is assisted in the weekly classroom program by master gardeners Arlene Sudia, of Plymouth, Gerry Johnson, of Livonia, Sharon Obler, of Redford, Ruth Barnett, of Belleville, Karen Hyland, of Plymouth and Joan Barber of Farmington Hills

Giving back

The women also take turns preparing snacks that match the theme for the week When the children learned about soil, for instance, the treat was crushed Oreo cookies with chocolate pud ding that looked exactly like dirt The women have been volunteering their time at Isbister for three years

"We do it mainly because we love it," DeBono said "Since 9-11, it's even more important to give back to your community"

Otherwise bleak, dull places are being revamped by master gardeners, volunteering their time around the state, according to Mary McLellan, Michigan State University Master Gardener Coordinator

More than 20,000 people have been trained in the master gardener program since 1978 when it was initiated, McLellan said Currently, there are more than 5,000 active master gardeners in Michigan and 2,000 more are being trained every year

Since Sept 11, McLellan said, more people seem drawn to the craft of making things grow

"People are seeming to want to get back to basics," she said "A lot of people are more interested in beautifying the spaces around them Growing their own vegetables is something they find calming There's a therapeutic value in gardening It's a real stress reliever You dig in the dirt when you're little and when you're an adult it's that much more fun"

Master gardeners need 40 hours of training and 40 hours volunteering in a horticultural related activity, like teaching a master gardener program and any other community activity that involves teaching other people about horticulture

These green thumb experts are leaving their imprint on projects throughout the state For instance, the Michigan Department of Transportation recently enlisted the help of master gardeners to beautify rest areas During the Labor Day weekend last year, master gardeners answered questions from budding gardeners at the rest stops

The junior master gardening program was developed in 1994 when a master gardener in Ann Arbor suggested getting children interested in gardening

'I said to her, 'What a great idea,'" McLellan said "Why don't you write the curriculum for your 40- hour volunteer work' The impact master gardeners make in their communities is unbelievable Things get done that city and county governments can never get paid to get done"

In Muskegon, for instance, master gardeners recently took over the gardens at a run- down historic house They patterned the design after a Monet garden complete with a bridge

"They've taken neighborhoods that wouldn't normally have a garden in it," McLellan said

"In Battle Creek they've done a wonderful job going into urban areas with a lot of low income houses and building community gardens They've gotten the adults as well as the kids involved"

Planting the seeds: Isbister fourth-grader Molly Fessler, 9, reads a package of pea seeds before planting them during a junior master gardner program

Adult students preparing to become master gardeners often complain when they first hear about the volunteer work they are required to do

"Then it's an addiction and they can't stop,' McLellan said "It's amazing"

There are 10 junior master gardening classes, serving 250 children, currently held in Wayne County, according to Michele Telerski, junior master gardener coordinator for the Master Gardener Association of Wayne County

The program is $20 for each child, however, Riegal defrayed the costs with grant money and school support Parents were asked to contribute $5 for each child

'Lifetime learning'

"It reinforces everything that we've done in science so far" Riegal said "They are so enthusiastic by the end of the class It's a fun way to learn about plant science and get a little dirty I think it's a wonderful program for kids, because it's a lifetime learning opportunity and in many cases you find kids who are able to teach their parents"

The junior master gardening program at Isbister has made a lasting impression on each group of students, Riegal added

At the end of the six- week program last year, DeBono said, one student gave her a hug and said "I'll never forget you"

"That's what it's all about," DeBono added

For more information about the master gardener program and the junior master gardener program go to, http //www msue msu edu/mastergardener For seed catalogue information call, http //www mastergardenershoppingmall com If you want more information about local master gardener classes call, Oakland County Extension, Dept 416, Pontiac 48341-1032 (248)858-0885 and or the Wayne County Extension, 640 Temple Street, Detroit 48201-2558 (313)-833-3412

where each variety will go The blueprint can also be used to identify what was planted and where when shoots are small

"Once the weather gets better they can go out and work the soil," McLellan added "Or, if they're too young, bring them in on doing things, like the watering and explain what the watering does"

Having children plant vegetables can also be a good way to get kids to eat the vegetables that they usually refuse

Thumbelina carrots are smaller than the miniature types sold in most grocery stores and are often a big hit among kids

Seeds for these carrots are available at specialty stores and seed catalogues

Make sure all planted seeds get enough light and don't over- water causing mold

Making seed tapes is also a good project this time of year indoors The tapes make planting small seeds evenly a lot easier

A gardening tip sheet from Michigan State University Extension quotes from Garden Crafts for Kids by Rhoades

"What you need newspapers, flour, water, a mixing bowl, a stirring spoon, seeds and planting directions, a roll of plain white, unscented toilet paper, a ruler or tape measure, a waterproof marker, cotton swabs and a friend

1 Cover your work surface with newspaper

2 In your bowl, mix flour with just enough water to make a thick mush When it feels and looks like soupy mashed potatoes, it's perfect

3 Choose a packet of seeds and decide how long you want the row of that vegetable to be

4 On top of your work surface, unroll a strip of toilet paper the length of your planned garden row

5 Consult your seed packet to find out how far apart your seeds should be planted With your ruler and marker, measure down the center of the strip, and make a mark at the place each seed should go

6 Dip a cotton swab in the paste and dab a drop on every mark on the tape

7 Place the seeds onto the paste, one at each mark Let the paste dry

8 When it's time to plant, make a trench in your garden soil as deep as the planting depth for your seed

9 Have a friend help you set the tape into the trench

10 Cover the seed tape with fine soil Water lightly

Compare how you grow with what books show

MARTY FIGLEY

Books contain so much information that we need to set aside some times to study them Take one or two to the garden and you may find inspiration from them By comparing what we grow with those plants in a book, we may learn a new way to care for our garden treasures

The Big Book of Herbs A Comprehensive Illustrated Reference to Herbs of Flavor and Fragrance, Arthur O Tucker Ph D and Thomas DeBaggio ($39 95 Interweave Press), is a good example

These authors have years of experience in growing and studying herbs, and it shows They have updated gardening practices of the past and replaced them with current horticultural practices from around the world, presented so it is clear for the inexperienced gardener They share information about growing herbs in the best possible manner, how to get the best flavor, harvesting and much more

Most of the book is devoted to herbs that are most often grown in home gardens Plant names are given in several languages, a plant's chemistry and landscape, craft, and culinary uses are detailed I recommend this book to all herb gardeners

Stone Style, Linda Lee Purvis ($26 95, Storey Books), contains many decorative ideas and projects for the home (and garden)

Purvis, an artist, encourages you to really look at stones found in nature to see the beauty and artistic possibilities in them Instructions for creating each piece are very clear – from a bench, jewelry or to simply drawing on stones This may become a new hobby

Sakuteiki Visions of the Japanese Garden, Jiro Takei and Marc P Keane ($27 95, Tuttle) is the first complete English translation of this classic work Entitled Ishi wo taten koto ("The art of setting stones") this is probably the oldest garden making treatise in Japan (and probably the world)

In the first section the authors explain the principles of Japanese gardening and how people lived in the Heian period The actual translation presents the concepts of Japanese gardens while using religious tradition nature and spirituality in the arrangement of water, stones and plants Annotations by the authors provide insight

Congratulations

Timber Press publishes the following books

We congratulate this fine publisher for being awarded the Wilfred Jung Award by the Garden Writers Association of America That award is given to a company that has demonstrated its support over time for the garden writing profession and dedication to the promotion of gardening and horticulture in North America

The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Clematis, Mary Toomey and Everett Leeds ($59 95, in association with the British Clematis Society), has left no stone unturned The history of clematis from the Greek word klema, meaning a "vine branch,' has been traced back to about the 16th century The book explains the history and botany of the plants, as well as how to classify them

Color photographs show them in garden settings, information about proper care, insects, diseases and propagation techniques is included Line drawings are most helpful A good three-fourths of the book contains photos, descriptions, origin, parentage, habit, size, pruning group, flowering period, cultivation and recommended use Charles Chesshire is the photography editor

Armitage's Manual of Annuals, Biennials and Half Hardy Perennials ($39 95) is a reader-friendly book that all gardeners will understand

Armitage holds a Ph D in horticulture from Michigan State University and now lives in Georgia, where he is a professor of horticulture and is also in charge of the University of Georgia Test Gardens For this book he has gathered a formidable number of plants – in fact, 245 genera of them from Abelmoshus to Zinnia – and details their habits and needs

The most up to date information on the subject can be found here The line drawings, color photos and personal observances ensure that this will become a standard textbook on the subject

Insects and Gardens, Eric Grissell, photographs by Carll Good pasture ($29 95), is most interesting When you study this you will come to understand the relationship of these critters in the garden and the reason for their being

Grissell has made this subject into a fascinating account He dedicates the book to Rachel Carson, who wrote, "The balance of nature is a complex precise, and highly integrated system of relationships between living things which can not safely be ignored any more than the law of gravity can be defied with impunity by a man perched on the edges of a cliff" That says it all Share this with your children

Enlist help of family when planning meals

DOMESTIC PLANNER

DIANA KOENIG

Q: Every day I face the same dilemma, what to fix for dinner. It is hard to cook creatively seven days a week. I need help.

A It is difficult to face the daily challenge of what to fix for dinner Enlist the help of your family so you do not have to be the daily creative meal planner After all they are the ones you are feeding and trying to please

Plan ahead and you will not dread the daily chore of deciding what to fix for dinner Create a monthly sign up chart to hang in the kitchen Assign specific days each week for your children and husband to plan the meal This has a two fold purpose Each family member can enjoy their favorite meals and it saves you time deciding what to fix

You may need to give a short lesson, teaching the basic food groups that are necessary to have a nutritious meal Use a book with pictures illustrating the food groups Keep a food chart in the kitchen accessible to everyone When my children were young, I asked them to help me plan dinner one night Our menu consisted of the following Ice cream, French fries, candy, and spaghetti without sauce I realized then just how important it is that everyone understands the ingredients to a well-balanced meal

Let your family browse through your cookbooks This will give them ideas for the meals that they plan As your family plans meals, allow them to prepare some of the meals that they plan This will also give you a break from cooking Make sure you have cook books with easy recipes You can also buy your kids their own kid's cookbook

Make sure you coordinate sports practice meetings and social engagements with your meal schedule You would not want your teenage son to miss the meal he planned because he was at football practice On the nights when your family is going in several directions, plan a simple stovetop meal, like sloppy Joe's, macaroni and cheese, canned veggies, and fruit salad

Choose four to six nights a month where you do not cook or plan meals Look for coupons in the newspaper to help cover cost

1 Schedule a once a month family night out to a nice restaurant for dinner

2 Go to a fast food restaurant

3 Dine-in, but have food delivered, such as pizza

4 Purchase prepared food at your supermarket You can buy an entire meal ready to serve

Exchange menu ideas with family, friends and neighbors This will also be a way to try some new recipes You will not feel like you are preparing the same meals all the time

Serving daily meals to your family not only requires creativity but also time It involves several time consuming steps Planning the meals, buying the food, preparing the meals, and clean up Your family can help you in each of these areas Washing dishes, loading and unloading the dishwasher could be included on your meal planning chart

ones Stainless steel is highly recommended, but others are not Certain materials can cause scratches, and will leave residue stains That's why you need to read the instruction book

Dishwasher detergent should never be used to clean the cook top surface as it will remove the protective coating Anything with sugar content that spills over must be cleaned immediately, and that means while the cooktop is hot You will need to use extreme care

Glass cleaner will leave a film on the cooktop Most cleaners contain ammonia, chemicals, and abrasives that damage the surface Use the cleaners and polish that are sold with the product

As you can see, there are a lot of factors to know about smooth cooktops This column just scratches the surface Some people love their smoothtops but many are sorry they ever bought it

Please read all the instructions, every one of them Stay tuned

'Read it again, Mom, Dad-I-Am'

I love children's books From the timeless Goodnight Moon picture book to the now classic Harry Pot ter and the Sorcerer s Stone

It all begins with sing-song repetition and bright, colorful illustrations to inspire awestruck toddlers to develop a lifelong love of reading

"Brown Bear, brown bear, what do you see? I see a red bird looking at me "

My 2-year-old daughter is not old enough to read, but every night after story time she lays in bed turning the pages of books in the quiet shadows of the night light

While I tell her she can look at one book before she goes to sleep, it s not unusual to find a dozen picture books piled on top of her when I check on her 30 minutes later

"In an old house in Paris that was covered with vines lived 12 little girls in two straight lines "

I remember being so addicted to books in grade school that I would have reading "races" with my neighbor Jimmy

We'd bet on who could read a book from cover to cover the fastest, or how many books we could read in a week I read books at night under the cov ers, and for a long time, I walked home from school with my nose in a book

Read to your kids

A passion for reading – and for learning – begins when parents read to their kids even as they grow older And so in honor of National Reading Month, and with apologies to Dr Seuss

Books are a bother, books are a bore
I don t want to look at them any more
I do not like them, Mom and Dad-I Am
I do not like books, I m in a real jam

What? You do not like to read, you say?
Sit next to me, I'll read to you anyway
You might be surprised, your love for books may grow

When I take the time to show you what I know
Books can take you anywhere you want to go
Give them a chance, just don't say no
Fairy tales, mysteries, biographies too
Anything you want, it s up to you

I can read books to you in a chair
I can read to you with bad hair
I can read to you when you re in bed
I can read to you, or you can read to me instead

We can read books together in a tree
We can read them together quietly
We can read them in a library
We can read them – just turn off the TV

Let s read them by taking turns
Then we can talk about what we've learned
You choose the books you like, you ll see How reading is the key to all that you can dream or be

We can read them in a car
We can read them near or far
We can read books night or day
Yes, we will read them until I hear you say

Let s read that book again, Mom and Dad-I-Am!
By the way, can we read about green eggs and ham?

Call it the "bunny hop "

That last minute trot to the candy store for chocolate bunnies, chicks and eggs brings in hundreds of customers a day to Kemnitz Fine Candies in downtown Plymouth the week before Easter And judging by customer preference, it's a milk chocolate world out there

"My favorite is the milk, but they have the best dark chocolate-covered cherries, said Lynn Arbruster of Plymouth, who's been buying Easter candy at Kemnitz for 14 years "My husband is the biggest kid when it comes to dark chocolate "

Carol Kennedy of Plymouth was shopping for place-setting decorations, something special for each guest at her Easter dinner She chose several "bunny pulling a chick in a cart" molds in milk chocolate, of course When asked how long it would take her to devour one of the 8-pound bunnies sitting on the back shelf, Kennedy laughed at the impossibility of such a task

"One time I was in here and a young man came in and bought one of the large rabbits for his girlfriend I thought the girl would probably die of sugar shock," she said

Ocelots win big, end season 35-1

COLLEGE HOOPS

Their dreams shattered by foul trouble in Friday's NJCAA Division I semifinals, the Schoolcraft College men's basketball team was determined not to let their glorious season end on a sour note

In Saturday's consolation final, Schoolcraft finished its banner year 35-1 with a convincing 111-86 victory over defending champion Wabash Valley (Ill) at the Hutchinson (Kan) Sports Arena

Dixie (Utah), which ousted Schoolcraft from the winner's bracket Friday, 72-69, rallied late in the second half to win the national title against Coffeyville (Kan), 82-81, before 7,000 fans in Hutchinson

"Our goal was to finish as high as possible," said Schoolcraft coach Carlos Briggs, whose team settled for third place "We didn't achieve our ultimate goal of winning a national championship, but I thought we came out tonight with same intensity, both offensively and defensively, that we've shown all season "

The Ocelots also had some incentive against Wabash, led by Kentucky signee and last year's tournament MVP Antwain Barbour

The Warriors ousted Schoolcraft in overtime during last year's quarterfinals and went on to win the coveted crown

Schoolcraft shot 67 percent in the first half (19 of 28) to take a 48-39 halftime lead as 6-foot-8 center Yaku Moton-Spruill (Westland John Glenn) and 6-foot guard Javon Clark (Detroit Cass Tech) each scored 12 points

The Ocelots maintained their lead throughout the second half, but Wabash pulled to within six, 76-70, on a three-pointer by Barbour with 10 19 to go

Schoolcraft then went on a 41-16 run to end the game in grand fashion

All five Ocelot starters scored on double figures as Clark finished with a team-high 21, hitting five of 11 from three-point range

Moton-Spruill added 18 points and seven rebounds, while Mike Williams, a 6-7 forward from Detroit City High, added his third double-double of the tourney with 17 points and 11 rebounds

Emir Medujanin (North Farmington) contributed 15 points and five assists, while point-guard Rulon Harris (Detroit Mumford) added 12 points, including four of seven shots beyond the arc Harris also dished out five assists

Reserves Delvar Barrett (Detroit Cooley) and Ronald Dorsey (Detroit Pershing) added nine and seven points, respectively

Tony Allen, a 6-4 guard from Chicago, led Wabash with 26 points Herman Davis finished with 17, while Barbour and C J Hill each contributed 16

The Warriors were missing starter Quinnel Brown, a 6-5 freshman forward who suffered 34 stitches to his leg after kicking a glass window in disgust following Friday night's 71-70 semifinal loss to Coffeyville

"Schoolcraft has depth and size, it's tough to play them with a six player rotation when you normally go with seven," Wabash coach Mark Nelson said "Quinnel is a big player for us and a big rebounder for us We had some mistakes we made inside, but I was pleased with the effort considering who

Schoolcraft hoop season memorable

It was a season to remember for the Schoolcraft College men's basketball team, one which may be hard to duplicate

When a team wins 35 of 36 games, takes on all challengers and wins tough games on the road, you have to sit back in amazement

BRAD EMONS

Only one bad seven-minute stretch separated the Ocelots from a National Junior College Athletic Association Division I title last week in Hutchinson, Kan

After building a 13-point second-half lead in the semifinals Friday night against eventual national champion Dixie (Utah), the Ocelots found themselves in jail — all five starters on the bench in foul trouble

Schoolcraft's top player, Mike Williams, picked up his fourth on a dubious call with 13 07 to go And the team's heart-and-soul, point-guard Rulon Harris, fouled out with 3 17 left Still, the Ocelots had a chance to tie, but tournament MVP Jaime Lloreda, a 6-foot-9 center headed to LSU, blocked Javon Clark's three-point attempt from the dead corner as time expired

Dixie escaped with a 72-69 win and went on to rally in the second half to beat homestate favorite Coffeyville (Kan) for the national championship the next night before 7,000 in the Hutchinson Sports Arena, 82-81

Schoolcraft and defending champion Wabash Valley (Ill) were left to play for third place And to the Ocelots' credit, they bounced back from their only blemish on the year with a resounding 111-86 win

The NJCAA Tournament is like no other It brings 16 high caliber teams from across the country into one venue

And it's quite an extravaganza

First it draws a slew of coaches scouring for talent

Big name coaches seen last week included Roy Williams (Kansas) Steve Alford (Iowa), Jim O'Brien (Ohio State), Steve McClain (Wyoming), Rod Barnes (Mississippi) and Gary Waters (Rutgers)

The list of current and former NBA players who have played in "Hutch" is impressive as well

The community of Hutchinson gets totally behind the event with a network of volunteers, many of whom are war veterans associated with the local VFW and American Legion

So what were coaches and fans saying this year about Schoolcraft?

There may have been more athletic teams, but not many were smarter, more disciplined or better defensively

All five Ocelot starters averaged in double figures for the tournament, as well as a key reserve

This team brought their 'A' game to the table most nights

Who could forget the three tournament wins at Southern Idaho, the ripping of Flint Mott, followed by the impressive run through the conference, state and region tourneys?

Not to be forgotten was the 13-hour odyssey to Wahpeton, N D and a 92-82 victory before 4,000 fans at North Dakota State College of Science

The opening round NJCAA Tournament overtime victory over Allegany (Md) was another highlight followed by a lopsided win in the quarterfinals over Itawamba (Miss)

The 12 Schoolcraft players who traveled to Hutchinson all brought something unique different to the table

Ironically, only two players returned from last year's 32-4 team which qualified for Hutchinson — guard Javon Clark and North Farmington's Emir Medunjanin

Here's a brief look at the pieces of the puzzle, which resulted in a remarkable fit and the most successful basketball season in school history

The Starters

Mike Williams, 6-7 forward: Made the All-Tournament squad while averaging a double-double Despite weighing about 190, Williams an uncanny rebounder who can score and pass High majors are looking at him, but he may be suited better for a good mid-major We haven't heard the last of him Had he not sat out last year because of grades, Schoolcraft might have won the national title in 2001

Whalers find selves in OHL playoff hole

OHL HOCKEY

The Plymouth Whalers burned through the Ontario Hockey League regular season, finishing with the best overall record

Apparently, the London Knights aren't impressed

The Knights took a 2-1 series lead on the Whalers with a 3 2 comeback victory Tuesday night at Plymouth's Compuware Arena in first round playoff action

Game No 4 is scheduled for tonight in London For the second straight game, the Knights used a big third period to rebound and win the game only this time it was on Plymouth s home ice

The Whalers held a 2 1 lead after one period, but a pair of third period goals gave the Knights the series lead London's Kyle Piwowarczyk and Rick Nash scored 69 seconds apart midway through the third period to provide the difference Nash scored a pair of goals in the game to lead London

The Knights made the most of their chances in the third period, scoring on two of their three shots At the other end, London goaltender Chris Houle came up huge, stopping all 10 Plymouth shots in the third period to help secure the win

Nash's first goal at the 8 04 mark of the first period gave the Knights a 1-0 lead, but the Whalers struck back later in the period with a pair of power-play goals, by Kris Vernarsky and Chad LaRose, to give them a 2-1 lead at the first intermission They each had a goal and an assist for the Whalers The game featured 19 penalties, 10 committed by Plymouth, showing that the Knights are dictating the style of play through the first three games The Whalers outshot London 23-22 in the contest

•LONDON 4, PLYMOUTH 1: The Knights busted open a 1-1 game with three third-period goals in Sunday's Game 2 at London knotting the series 1 1

Nash was again the offensive catalyst for the Knights notching two goals and one assist, including two of the team's three third period goals London picked up a pair of goals less than a minute apart halfway through the third period to break open a 1-1 game Nash's second goal was an empty netter

Plymouth's Damian Surma scored the lone goal for his team, at the 1 57 mark of the second period

That period featured both teams wearing paths to the penalty box, with a total of 72 minutes in penalties called in that period alone

Houle again came through for the Knights, making 25 saves in the game He's stopped 46 of Plymouth's 49 shots in Games 2 and 3

Pairs skater Danielle Hartsell calls it quits

BY BRAD EMONS

bemons@oe.homecomm.net

One half of the famous Westland brother-sister pairs team is retiring her blades

Danielle Hartsell, 21, is leaving the world of competitive skating, while brother Steve, 24, plans to continue with a new partner, according to their mother

"Danielle is quitting the business," Georgia Hartsell said. "She's moving to Virginia and will be attending the University of Richmond She'll be moving there by the end of May, but first she'll finish up the teaching her basic skills classes (at the Detroit Skating Club) "

The Hartsells have endured nothing but hard luck since winning the U S Pairs Championship in 1999

Danielle suffered a broken kneecap during a practice fall in December of 1999, which resulted in the pair missing the entire 2000 season

The former Junior World and Junior U S Champions, however, bounced back to win a bronze at the 2001 U S Senior Championships, but Steve missed six weeks late last summer with a toe injury

Father Lawrence Hartsell then suffered a heart attack in December just prior to the U S Trials (Georgia now happily reports that her husband is recovering and has not smoked a cigarette in three months)

Their Olympic dream and a trip to Salt Lake City for the Winter Games was then shattered in January at the 2002 U S Nationals

Steve pulled out with a torn groin muscle just prior to the long program at the Staples Center in Los Angeles after the pair were positioned in fourth place following the short program

"It's been hard for Danielle ever since she broke her kneecap," Georgia said. "She was not happy the last couple of years when she couldn't skate

"She's ready to get on with rest of her life "

Professional offers never came their way either following the Nationals in California

"They had an agent, Michael Rosenberg, of SFX, but he retired," Georgia said "Once he left, they just didn't feel the support "

Mrs Hartsell said Danielle plans to teach skating in Virginia while working toward a degree in Elementary Education

"She wants to be near her boyfriend (Chris Minnis), who lives there," Georgia said "He doesn't have anything to do with skating Danielle met Chris when she and Steve were on a vacation Jamaica "

Steve, meanwhile, had to take a month off of skating following the groin injury, but is ready to resume training once he finds a new partner during a scheduled camp next month in Colorado Springs

He will continue to teach lessons and

Pinta taking Stevenson reins

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK

■ SOCCER

The orchestra's the same, only the conductor is different

Livonia Stevenson will field its typically powerful girls soccer team this spring

The difference is the coach will be Chris Pinta instead of Jim Kimble

"It's not the easiest task filling his shoes," said Pinta, elevated to the head job from being Kimble's assistant "He had a really good record in seven years here The past two years I learned a whole lot assisting him

Melissa Dobbyn Stevenson

"I'm very confident taking over this program I know the core of players already, they know me That makes for a pretty comfortable transition "

Kimble was 113-17-8 in seven seasons, including state titles in 1997 and 1998 along with one runner-up finish

The Spartans graduated a superstar four-year player, Lindsay Gusick (now at the University of Virginia), but return a stellar first-team All-Observer forward, Melissa Dobbyn, who scored 14 goals and added 17 assists despite missing six games

And since reloading, not rebuilding, is the watchword for soccer at Stevenson, Pinta realizes what a bear trap looks like

"I'm aware of the tradition, the pressure," Pinta said "I was a Stevenson player myself I know the expectations I know the pressure these girls and the program are under

"The expectations are pretty much the same — maybe higher in some areas It's pretty much unchanged "

Pinta, being not the same person as Kimble, has his own ideas of how to run a program But he doesn't want to change the command structure with the boat already away from the docks

"We have eight seniors returning," he said "I don't want to rock the boat too much As I become more comfortable and our newer players become more comfortable, we can make changes down the line

Pinta sees the same powers in the Western Lakes Activities Association, which means Plymouth Canton, Northville and Plymouth Salem

Good chance Pinta s team will be one of the favorites then, too

"I don't think we're ever looked at as underrated by teams," he said "We definitely have a good returning core of players And we ve added some real good young talent "

Inheriting a strong team has its problems, but Pinta agrees it sure beats taking over an 0-for-the-season squad

Meanwhile, at Livonia Churchill, hopes are high as 15 players return Dave Hebestreit takes the job permanently after replacing Chad Campau last year on a interim basis

The Chargers lost first-team All-Observer forward Michelle Esparza, but just about everyone else returns from last year's 10-9-1 squad, including senior defender Meghan Parnell

"With our speed we should be a more dangerous offensive team," Hebestreit said "With our returning goalkeeper (Sarah Hartsell) and four defenders, we'll try and focus on being more offensive-minded '"

Hebestreit also has varsity boys coach Reid Friedrichs, a former Michigan State standout, tutoring the goalkeepers

"It's a blessing to have him with us as a trainer," Hebestreit said "It's a pleasure to coach these girls Their the scholar-athlete types and they're itching to play "

Meanwhile, Jenny Barker, a former Stevenson goalkeeper and NAIA All-America at Madonna University, is trying to upgrade Livonia Franklin's program in her second season as coach

At Westland John Glenn, coach Jerry Poniatowski will find his team on the football field this season, which could make for some interesting matches because there's a tremendous difference in width The football field is only 52 yards wide while the soccer pitch is 78 yards across

"The district is finally going to redo our (soccer) field," Poniatowski said "They're going to regrade, hydro seed, put good soil in, and do all the things that needed to be done

"When they're done there's only going to be one field larger than ours, the Plymouth Canton field '

The Rockets continue to grow the program, with more and more youngsters coming out for the team each year This year 64 tried out

Rival Wayne Memorial had 107 girls out for its teams as the Zebras will play in the Michigan Mega Conference for the final time before taking their program to the WLAA next season

Wayne moves up to the top of the line this spring, the Mega Red Division, before switching to one of the toughest conferences in the state for soccer

Defender Nicole Quinn, forwards Alana Green, Amy Veres and sophomore Ashley Britton will lead Wayne into its final Mega season

The Zebras were undefeated in the Mega Blue two years ago and didn't lose a Mega White game last season

Now it's on to the Mega Red

"Trenton and Woodhaven should be up at the top," Wayne coach Larry Brenner said "And Dearborn Edsel Ford and Garden City are always good "

Over at Livonia Ladywood fourth-year coach Jill Logsdon sees Birmingham Marian and Madison Heights Bishop Foley as the teams to beat in the Catholic League

Somehow, that's like tabbing Stevenson and Canton as favorites in the WLAA

The Blazers should be improved if only because they had no star players gone to graduation And one of their top three returnees is a junior as Logsdon tries to push Ladywood into a challenging position

Lutheran High Westland hopes to move up in the Metro Conference this season The program is gaining stability with coach Mark Brenner in his fourth season and assistant Adam Danielczyk in his second

Rulon Harris, 6-1 guard: The transfer from Flint Mott was overlooked for the Small Man Award in Hutchinson He was simply outstanding in the tournament opener against Allegany, scoring a game-high 29 points His play reminds you of Maurice Cheeks, the prototype point-guard University of Detroit Mercy is getting a steal A very efficient player

Javon Clark, 6-0 guard: The team's top 3-point marksman and second-leading scorer was hounded defensively by taller guards throughout the post-season tourney, but he acquitted himself quite well He's a team player who doesn't make mistakes and plays solid defense His shooting alone will garner him serious Division I looks

Yaku Moton-Spruill, 6-8 center: The Westland John Glenn grad, who also doubles as the team comedian, found a home on Haggerty Road after stints at Paris JC (Tex) and Mount Zion Christian Academy (N C) He has the size, bulk (260 pounds), footwork and touch around the basket to contribute to a mid-major or low mid-major school If he improves his rebounding skills, watch out

Emir Medunjanin, 6-6 forward: A solid role player who got tougher as the season wore on He often guarded the opposing team's top player He scored 19 and 15 in his final two games as an Ocelot and proved he could grab rebounds and loose balls He should find a home at a low major and will not disappoint

The Reserves

Delvar Barrett, 6-7 center: Great hands, good passer and great touch around the hoop for a man who tips the scales close to 290 His play in "Hutch" drew plenty of interest from Division I schools The Detroit Cooley graduate was taught well by coach Ben Kelso

Ronald Dorsey, 6-5 forward: By far the team's most athletic player, the freshman from Detroit Pershing is already on the list of Division I coaches He could throw down dunks with the best and his outside shooting this season improved by leaps and bounds

Julius Austin, 6-4 guard: An interesting story The Baldwin native went three semesters to the University of Michigan majoring in engineering before dropping out to undergo back surgery He landed at Schoolcraft where he gave the Ocelots valuable minutes both as a shooter and defender Very athletic, Austin should make some Division II school happy

Gary Johnson, 6-1 guard: The freshman Could be following in the footsteps of fellow Wayne and Schoolcraft grad Brian Williams, who started for two years at Division I Western Illinois Johnson learned a lot playing behind Harris He has all the skills — ball-handling, quickness and shooting What he needs to do is get in the weight room and take the point-guard spot next year by the throat He handled himself beautifully late in the game against Dixie State

Carl Muhammad, 6-6 forward: When you're from Detroit Redford, you're tough Muhammad was never afraid to mix it up on the boards The sophomore would have played more minutes on most other teams, but he'll land somewhere in the Division II ranks

Ryan Celeskey, 6-1 guard: The former All-Observer guard from Redford Catholic Central got limited minutes this season, but he showed patience The coaching staff saw marked improvement in the freshman's game He brings toughness to the table and now understands what it takes to get to the Division II level, and perhaps even Division I level if he can work on his footwork defensively and create his shot off the dribble Always plays hard

Nick Cabauatan, 5-9 guard: The freshman from Plymouth Canton accepted his role as 12th man and you could tell he enjoyed the ride He's a guy who just loves to play and is not hung up on going Division I, II or even II He'll do whatever is asked

The Staff

Carlos Briggs, head coach: His five-year record of 141-24 speaks at Schoolcraft speaks for itself He learned a lot from his first experience in Hutchinson He put this team together virtually from scratch You wonder how much longer he'll be in Livonia because Division I assistant jobs will be offered The former Schoolcraft All-America relates well to his players and gets them to buy into his system He is also a relentless recruiter

Steve Norgrove, assistant coach: Nobody prepares harder or pays attention to detail like this guy He's and X-and-O guy who juggles an elementary school teaching job, not to men tion a wife and two children He has an eye for talent and has the respect of the players

Carol Derr, academic assistance: Wears a variety of hats She runs the study table, serves as travel coordinator and works behind the scenes, while keeping the coaches on an even keel She takes a lot of good natured kidding and needling from the players and coaches, but they respect the job she does for the program

Ed Kavanaugh, Athletic Director: Made the trip to "Hutch" for the first time He's the guy who hired Briggs and women's coach Karen Lafata when the programs were way down He knows basketball He won a pair of state championships at Livonia Ladywood

No. 1 Fan

Richard DeVries, school trustee: There's no more loyal or bigger backer of the men's basketball program He supports the team home and away The retired school teacher and coach often travels to see former Schoolcraft players He made a trip this year to Alabama to see Auburn's Derrick Bird and UNLV's Lamar Bigby He also caught ex-SC players Brian Williams and Quentin Mitchell at the Mid-Continent Tourney this year in Fort Wayne, Ind

My perspective

It was thrill to cover this team throughout the year They played the game of basketball the way it should be played I was able to spend some time with this group and my only wish is that they finish school, earn their associate degrees and go on to be successful at a four-year school It was a ride I never expected It was a season I'll fondly remember to remember

CC icers set high standard

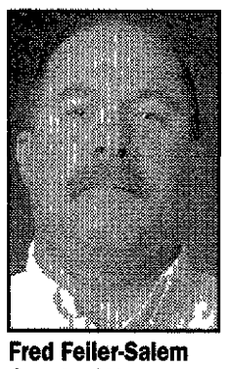
Building a program is never easy

Fred Feiler's first two seasons as Plymouth Salem's hockey coach were a testament to that

The Rocks won a combined 11 games in those campaigns But hopes were high that the third season would be much better



Fred Feiler-Salem Coach of Year

It was But no one would have believed Salem would be this good prior to the season

The Rocks nearly doubled their win total from their previous two seasons, tying for the Western Lakes Activities Association championship en route Their 21-2-3 record marked an incredible turnaround, and it earned Feiler, a Livonia Franklin graduate, the Observer's Coach of the Year honors

There was plenty of competition for that honor, to be sure

Redford Catholic Central, coached by Gordie St John and Todd Johnson, captured its fourth-straight state title, the first Division 1 (or Class A) hockey team to manage that

And don't underestimate the efforts of Livonia Churchill's Pete Mazzoni or Farmington Unified's Mike Harris

"We were hoping to come out of our first four games of the season 2-2," said Feiler, recalling contests against Walled Lake Central, Churchill, Farmington Unified and Plymouth Canton "When we came out 3-0 1, we thought we would be able to go places

"We realized our team speed was better than we thought We thought we could take advantage of that, and we did"

Now for the rest of the team

FIRST TEAM

Jim Blanchard, Soph G, Redford CC Any championship caliber hockey team needs a reliable goaltender and sopho more Jim Blanchard more than lived up to that label

Blanchard led the Shamrocks to their fourth straight state championship with clutch goaltending all season and through the playoffs He went 19 3 3 with a minuscule 1 69 goals against average He rang up a 92 3 percent save percentage and drew high praise from co-coach Todd Johnson

"Jim is our best player" Johnson said "He played his best when we needed him the most"

Adam Jakubowski, Sr Def, Liv Churchill: A four year player Jakubowski enjoyed a banner senior year as the Chargers won the Western Division and tied for the best overall record in the WLAA

The Division I All Stater and All WLAA pick finished with seven goals and 16 assists for 23 points with a plus rating of 24

The guy plays in every situation Churchill coach Pete Mazzoni said "He played his best in the big games for us

"Over the last two years he was defi nitely on the ice for more goals than against He played as a penalty killer and on the power play He logged a lot of ice time

Jeff Davis Sr Def, Redford CC The last place one should look to determine Jeff Davis effectiveness for CC is the scoresheet

One goal and four assists don t even begin to tell the story of how Davis a senior co captain helped to backstop the Shamrocks to a fourth straight state championship Excellent positional play and leadership aren t measured in statistics but play just as important a part in a team s success and Davis was as good as anyone on both counts Davis was named Honorable Mention All State this season

Our defensive zone coverage was outstanding in the second half of the season Johnson said after the state finals

Brad Heraghty, Sr F, Farm. Unified. Heraghty was his team s leading scorer for the second year in a row with 28 goals and 26 assists for 54 points an average of two per game

The left wing forward was an all WLAA choice and all state honorable mention Heraghty who has been invited to the Team Michigan Camp might play for a Junior A team in Lansing next season or at Division III Northland College in Ash land Wis

He really led by example coach Mike Harris said He only had eight penalties for 16 minutes (in 27 games) For a kid who logs as much ice time as he does his stats are exemplary

He s just an outstanding young man with outstanding hockey skills He was a leader on and off the ice for us

John Perkovich, Sr F, Redford CC On a team full of talented players someone had to step up and be the leader not just on the ice but in the locker room That player for CC was senior captain John Perkovich

A three year starter and three time state champion Perkovich was clearly a difference maker during CC s fourth state championship run He wasn t shy about encouraging teammates when they were down and led the way when they were on top He was the team s second leading scorer with 10 goals and 20 assists on the season

"We have players with a lot of heart and John is one of them Johnson said during the playoffs These guys became warriors

Mark Nagel, Jr F, Ply Salem This junior completed his third season with the Rocks by leading the WLAA in scor ing A pesky forward adept at forecheck ing Nagel finished with an astounding 37 goals and 40 assists compiling a plus-45 in the plus/minus category He played on the power play and penalty kill getting nine power play goals and eight shorthanded His season earned him a spot on the all WLAA first team

He doesn t get tired said Feiler of Nagel named the team s MVP He comes to the bench after an extended shift and I ask him when he ll be ready to go not expecting anything too soon After 15 seconds he says I m ready"

Feiler added that perhaps his best natural ability is his speed

SECOND TEAM

Jake Archer, Sr G, Liv Churchill In 16 games Archer posted a 9 5 4 record with a goals against average of 2 77 and a save percentage of 883 He post ed one shutout

Jake coming from Junior B hockey was a big pickup for us Mazzoni said He was the MVP of our tam Played all the big games and led the league (WLAA) in goals against (2 18)

He was a butterfly style goalie The best compliment I can give is that he absorbs the puck and doesn t give up rebounds

Archer also made All Western Division in the WLAA

Josh Latzman, Sr Def, Liv Stevenson The first team All WLAA selection played his best hockey at the end of the season for the Spartans

Josh was a leader on the team Stevenson interim assistant coach Kevin Ahern said He s a finesse player but he knows how to use the size he has

He has good puckhandling skills coming out of his own end

The honorable mention All State pick also earned an invite for a tryout and will play next week for Team Michigan

Adam Miller, Jr F, Liv Stevenson Miller ranked sixth in the WLAA in scor ing with 16 goals and 11 assists

The Al Lakes D vision p ck was br l ant n a 6 5 double overt me reg onal sem f nal loss to D vis on I state champi we had out of the rotation "

The Ocelots were superior in all phases of the game against the 32-6 Warriors

Schoolcraft shot 65 percent from the floor (42 of 65) and 71 percent from the free throw line (15 of 21) They also outrebounded Wabash, 39 24

"We wanted to finish well, go out and have some fun," said Clark, the Ocelots' top three-point marksman

"It was the last time many of us would wear Schoolcraft on our chest, and I thought we showed some character "

Williams, selected to the 12-man All-Tournament team, averaged 17 2 points and 14 rebounds in Schoolcraft's four games

One college scout likened his game to former NBA All-Star Alex English

"Mike is a special player, not many players can do the things he does," Briggs said "He also understands the game of basketball "

Harris, a University of Detroit Mercy signee, had an outstanding tourney as well, highlighted by a season and game-high 29 points in the tournament opener against Allegany

But second-half foul problems in Friday's semifinal vs Dixie may have cost Schoolcraft the title

Williams picked up his fourth with 13 07 to play and the Ocelots up by nine

Harris then fouled out with 3 17 left During one stage of the second half all five Ocelot starters were on the bench in foul trouble

Schoolcraft had 26 fouls to Dixie's 16

Tournament MVP Jaime Lloreda, a 6-9 center from Panama headed to LSU, riddled Schoolcraft for a game-high 30 points

"That game is behind us," Briggs said "Refs don't win or lose games We tell our guys they always control their own destiny

"They (Dixie) executed better down the stretch and there was a minute stretch for us where we didn't execute and we may have lost our composure

"It was kind of hard to come back (against Wabash), but we play hard every game we step on the court We might not play well every night, but we play hard "

"He hurt it the week before (the Nationals) He felt a twinge and it just kept coming on He skated in the short program, but he knew he just couldn't continue and was afraid for Danielle if he tried do a lift

on Catholic Central scoring two goals and adding one assist

Adam was probably the best forward on our team Ahern said He s good at carrying the puck to the outside He has great outside speed which is hard for a defenseman to play

He has a very good shot and a nice reach for a tall kid

Miller also made honorable mention All State Division I

Sean O'Malley, Sr F, Redford CC Senior forward Sean O Malley made sure his first and only season with the Shamrocks was a memorable one

Coming from Triple A competition he was named a co captain despite not having played for CC prior to this season He scored just two goals on the season but contributed 17 assists and was so good defensively he was named First Team All State

We have three guys who are unbelievable leaders in Sean John and Jeff " Johnson said They will never ever quit "

Kevin Wilson, Sr F, Salem In his first and only season playing for Salem Wilson — who played in the Little Caesars AAA Midget level last year — finished second in the WLAA and second among the Rocks in scoring finishing behind the same guy in both Mark Nagel

Wilson s numbers cannot be diluted however nor can the difference he made on the team He totaled a team best 39 goals to go with 36 assists for 75 points with a plus 29 rating Wilson was selected to the conference s all Lakes Division team scoring nine power play goals and five short handed

He has the speed and ability to make long pin point passes said Feiler His speed was deceptive He was one of those players once he got the puck he could go where he wanted to go He lulled the defense to sleep "

Jeff Prough, Soph F, Redford CC CC s hockey team featured a mix of younger players and steady senior leadership Part of the former was sophomore sharpshooter Jeff Prough

Prough tied for the team lead in goals scored with 14 and delivered key tallies in playoff wins over Trenton and Port Huron Northern two of CC s toughest competitors He is a superior skater and is very quick with a hard and accurate wrist shot

is the Friday before Easter It is remembered for the day that Jesus Christ paid the ultimate price and died for the sins of the whole world On this day Christians throughout the world reflect upon the great love that our Lord had for all mankind He gave up His life for our sins so that we may obtain everlasting life "For our sake He made Him to be sin who knew no sin so that in Him we might become the righteousness of God" (2 Cor 5 21) I sometimes think about the appropriateness of the term "Good Friday" being used to remember a day when Christ suffered was crucified and died on the cross However I realize that Christ's perfect sacrifice was our Heavenly Father's will It was for the good of the world that this ultimate sac rife was made and we will rejoice on Easter Sunday when we celebrate our Lord s resurrection It is said in the Bible that Jesus tells His followers "And when I go and prepare a place for you I will come again and will take you to myself that where I am you may be also" (John 14 3)

For God so loved the world that He gave His only Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have eternal life

mega-bunnies, which go for $79 55 "I've sold two of this guy," she said, pointing to mega-bunny's little brother, who weighs in at a hefty 4-5 pounds and costs $58 55

A dark chocolate lover, Karen Craig of Northville has been a Kemnitz customer for 20 years She usually spends $50-$60 on Easter candy "And every year it's a little bit more I always by a bunny or duck for everybody's baskets, and I buy the eggs They make the best chocolate here"

George Kunzat of Novi and his wife, Amy, are first-time customers He is a chocolate lover of the first degree "Oooh, loo, loo, loo, " he said, trying to articulate his love of chocolate If the glass counters were higher, George's nose would be pressed against them

"These are from my childhood," he said, pointing to the row of plump, decorated eggs on the countertop that come in maple nut, cream, coconut, fruit and nut, and chocolate "They don't make them in every shop anymore"

The Kunzats left the store with a large maple cream milk-chocolate egg and a smaller chocolate one They plan to share the eggs, which George said were "TV snacks"

Joanne Gorman, who has lived in Plymouth for 37 years and has been a Kemnitz customer almost that long, is buying bunnies for her six grandchildren, who were born with dark and milk chocolate taste buds "It turns out no one likes the white chocolate," she said

Alas, Kemnitz does have a few white chocolate fans Sharon Rucinski of Plymouth is one of them "Oh, I love the white, but my family is all milk That's nice because no one eats mine"

The store's big rush will come on Thursday and Friday, said Smith She's prepared In preparation for Easter, her staff has made 22 batches of milk chocolate and two-and-a-half batches each of dark and white Hmmm, think that isn't much chocolate? Well, think again One batch of chocolate, made in those huge professional-size vats, takes one day to make That's a lot of bunnies and chicks

"And then you fit the chocolate pops in between," said Smith

Kemnitz should install a revolving door, especially during the week before Easter Most customers, like Joanne Gorman, leave with a shopping bag full of chocolate "I feel just like Peter Rabbit," she said

Kemnitz Fine Candies is located at 896 West Ann Arbor Trail, off Main Street, in Plymouth Contact them at (734) 453 0480

Livonia resident helps keep diners healthy

There's a plastic roach taped to Maureen Franklin's office cubicle door The phony bug represents Franklin s enemy, along with rats, fruit flies, salmonella, mildew, mold and anything microbial that can make diners sick

Franklin is one of 20 Wayne County restaurant inspectors, or more formally known as environmentalists, assigned to check out every restaurant in the county twice a year to ensure that owners follow strict guidelines covering everything from how food is handled to how many sinks are needed in the kitchen

Wayne County's Department of Environmental Health, a division of Public Health, is charged with inspecting 4,000 licensed restaurants, mobile and temporary facilities (Detroit has its own department) annually If inspectors find a severe violation such as rats, they can shut down a facility If less critical violations are discovered, the restaurant owner is given time to correct the problems Last year, more than 9,800 inspections were conducted in the food safety program

A Garden City native, Franklin got interested in becoming an inspector when she worked as a manager at a pizza chain in the mid-'80s

"I was just so impressed with the inspector who reviewed my restaurant, how thorough and knowledgeable she was," said Franklin who went back to school and graduated in 1996 with a concentration in microbiology She recently completed more training and has become a registered sanitarian

Employee of the year

She began working at WCEH in 1999 The Livonia resident is assigned to Dearborn (Wayne County took over inspections July 1999) There are more than 400 restaurants in the city, and Franklin works with another inspector, Anthony Matlock Franklin loves what she does, calling it "a blast, and it shows In 2001, her coworkers named her employee of the year in Environmental Health, an honor that brings her a parking spot right next to her building s staff entry door

She enjoys the diverse cultural atmosphere she encounters in Dearborn, even seeking out information about the cultural practices of Arab and Islamic people so she could be more comfortable She notes, 'I ve learned a lot so much and the job has enriched me personally

Inspection: Maureen Franklin checks a restaurant kitchen sink during an inspection

Ninety percent of Franklin's work involves conducting food service inspections This includes mobile units and public facilities like schools that serve food The 35-year-old mother of two also takes complaints about problems such as backed-up sewers

Inspections are unannounced A routine inspection can take from 40 minutes up to five hours In an average month she'll do 30 routine visits with 25 additional follow-up inspections and complaint reviews

To cut down on paper, she uses a small data recording device about the size of a hardcover book to record her findings The information can then be printed out on the spot for the restaurant owner and later, back at the office, the data downloaded into a computer

While Franklin stresses the majority of her inspections involve minor violations, she has learned that places with a wide variety of menu items can be a concern "In places like that, the staff is trying to do a lot of things at once," she explains, "and the potential for cross-contamination is there For example, a cook may be cracking an egg and touching a sandwich with the same hands Their controls have to be tighter "

Worst situation

The worst situation she ever encountered happened when she was employed at a chain restaurant, now closed "We had a terrible cockroach infestation They were falling out of the lights, into our hair We had to leave our clothes outside at night so the roaches wouldn t come into our homes

New problems are emerging for owners, Franklin explains Like fruit flies "They hide in places, and they are becoming more resilient to pesticides Rats, too, she said are a growing problem She blames mild winter weather for not helping decimate the population

Rodents represent one of four reasons requiring immediate shutdown of a restaurant The other three include no water, no hot water and no electricity

In 2000, the number of violations in the Michigan Food Law of 200, P A 92 of 2000, changed from 41 to more than 371 The most common violation involves training employees about their own health reporting requirements Another one is the new requirement of marking "use by' dates on ready-to-eat food held under refrigeration

On a recent follow-up visit to a busy Dearborn restaurant, Franklin walked in and was cheerfully greeted by the owners She washed her hands and, inspection form in hand, she reviewed two items – the temperature of cooked rice and how stored food was being dated, problems she had encountered on an earlier inspection

After looking at food stored in the refrigerator, she stopped to talk with the owner "The food in the refrigerator still doesn't have a date marked on them Please have this fixed ' The owner assured her he would have this taken care of by her next visit within a week Both Franklin and the owner signed an inspection form

Back in her mini-van, she confides that she finds job so rewarding

"It s knowing you have made a difference in what you do I work to find a balance I assure owners that we're there to help them, to make them better operators, and ultimately to protect them from legal action

We really try to make it safe for people Remember I eat here in this county My family eats here

Amendment to documents may prohibit leasing units

I was leasing my condominium unit until the condominium association, through a two-thirds vote, amended the bylaws to prohibit leasing in its entirety.

I am wondering if I have any claim against the association for denying me what I would consider to be a vested right.

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

It would more than likely depend on your condominium documents

There is a great deal of case law around the country that suggests that when a person purchases a condominium, they take it subject to the existing documents which provisions may, more than likely, contain the right of the association to amend the condominium documents

Many courts around the country have taken the view that one who purchases a condominium takes subject to the risk that certain rights to lease, for example, may be eliminated by way of amendment to the condominium documents

That isn't to say you cannot attempt to seek legal redress in regard to this issue, but you may have an uphill battle You may have better recourse through the political process in terms of changing the minds of co-owners who may some day wish to lease their units

Robert M Meisner, a lawyer, concentrates his practice in the areas of condominiums, real estate, corporate law and litigation

This column provides general information and shouldn t be construed as legal advice

Here we go ... again

Realtors take center stage with unusual tales

BY DOUG FUNKE
dfunke@oe homecomm net

It's time again for another edition of real estate follies

Step right up, yes, step right up and read about the bizarre, the hilarious and the dangerous

These are personal accounts of actual events – unusual in scope – that happened in the field right from the mouths of the participants

So step right up Hurry, hurry, hurry Truth is stranger than fiction You truly will be amazed And maybe even learn a thing or two

■ Roy Wilson, associate broker, Remerica Heritage, Farmington Hills

"This was many years ago, back in the '70s Nothing tops it A guy had a house for sale in Birmingham His wife was an invalid, ill, in a bedroom and you couldn't get in to show it"

Both were quite elderly, Wilson said

"She died, but he couldn't part with her It must have been a couple of weeks before the smell got so bad, we alerted the police

"I had a couple who were interested in it (house) and visited a couple of times, but then they didn't want anything to do with it"

Lesson learned – "Any time anyone tells you you can't show a room, at least get your nose in it and find out why," Wilson said

■ Tina McNeal-O'Brien, Real Estate One, Lathrup

"I was brand new in the business, just weeks I got a buyer on a floor call (walk-in) and we went to preview a property in Southfield It was vacant

"I can handle anything, but I can't do mice," McNeal-O'Brien said "When we opened the door and walked into the living room, about eight mice scattered everywhere

"I jumped on the client and wrapped my legs around his waist I was screaming at the top of my lungs He has to physically carry me off the property He locks up

"He doesn t call for a week and I m in angst she said He eventually calls back – said he was in a seminar – and I finally placed him in a home"

McNeal-O Brien puts the experience into perspective "We're in a human business and frailty comes with the job, sometimes You have people (clients) who understand that"

■ Tony Seagraves, associate broker, RE/MAX 100, Commerce

"I walked in on a lady nude in the bathroom She wasn't answering the door and I was showing She didn't hear me and I didn't hear her

"She was more embarrassed than I was We scampered out of there We breezed through the rest of the house It distracted us, sort of"

What did Seagraves take away other than an eyeful? "I guess you knock on every door before you open it," he said

■ Patti Balint, Realtor, Quality Properties GMAC, Plymouth

"The clients called me and asked me to look up a multi-listing number I told them it was right across from a graveyard They said, 'That's OK, we want peace and quiet and not have to worry about neighbors'

"They didn't like that one (house) I showed at least four or five across the street from a cemetery, next to, down the street," Balint said "I kept sending them things and finally they bought one not near a graveyard I didn't ask why"

But she did learn from the experience "Never underestimate the power of the human spirit," Balint said "That's a pun"

■ Cathy Wade, Realtor, Coldwell Banker Shooltz, Oxford

"I spoke with a gentleman probably twice by phone He had called me on some houses, said he was basically in and out of town He said he was in the area and asked if he could stop by the office

"We met at the office to go visit a house He was well dressed, nothing abnormal He asked if he could drive because he had all his papers and a phone in the car Wade said

"I said OK and after we got into the car, I noticed there was no handle on the passenger door I thought, 'Oh my God' I didn't ask many questions about anything," she said.

Especially the missing door handle

"Actually, it turned out fine Nothing happened," Wade added. "I made an excuse and called my husband to pick me up"

Wade never heard from the would-be buyer again. "Strange? Absolutely," she said.

A good lesson accompanied the scare

"I always drive in my car I don't take customers who aren't referred or preapproved by a lending officer so someone knows who they are," Wade said

■ Henry Hogan, Realtor, Max Broock, Clarkston

"I was showing an old farmhouse, 100-years-old, and the owner wanted to escort my client, a woman He took her into the Michigan basement (dirt floor) where a salamander ran across her foot

"She yelped, was up the stairs, out of the house and back in the car in seconds," Hogan recalled "She was fast We were supposed to see two other homes that day, but she decided she had seen enough

"I never saw her again," he added "I tried to reach her several times, but she never returned my calls"

And what did Hogan learn from the encounter?

"Always make sure the seller is out of the house and not the tour guide When they're around, tours always take longer"

■ Barb Carreon, Realtor, Century 21 , Garden City

"I was showing a house after an ice storm As we were going to an upstairs bedroom, some branches came through the window We were scared We looked, then left We were basically finished"

No injuries, and no sale, either

Consider an FHA mortgage

Purchasing a $165,000 home with less than $5,000 out of pocket? That's what the FHA has in mind for you Homebuyers previously fearful of rejection because of "bruised credit"or because they have only a meager down payment may find the FHA is the tool they need to fulfill their dream of home ownership

MORTGAGE BITS

TIM 'TIMBO' PHILLIPS

It's a real tragedy, though, that many elderly readers and some second- or third-time homeowners did not even read past my first paragraph because they have the faulty paradigm that the FHA is only for young, first-time buyers In fact, more and more homebuyers of all ages are choosing FHA loans for their first and subsequent home purchase, and for refinances

Qualifications

You may qualify for an FHA mortgage if you have satisfactory (not "perfect") credit, have enough cash to close the loan, and sufficiently steady income to make monthly mortgage payments The FHA's minimal 3 percent down payment requirement means that some borrowers are an income tax refund check away from home ownership

The FHA's 203b program includes a 1 5 percent Up-Front Mortgage Insurance Premium on each mortgage (except for condos) to help keep the buyers monthly payments low However, the FHA also allows borrowers to finance that Up Front Mortgage Insurance Premium back into the mortgage The net impact of doing so increases the monthly payment about $10 depending on the loan size and interest rate If the borrowers refinance out of their FHA loan or sell their property after only a couple years, they get a prorated refund from HUD of the unused Up-Front Mortgage Insurance Premium

Let's see now, pay $10 a month for a year or two, then receive many hundreds of dollars from Uncle Sam when you are done with the loan Not bad After 5 years, you get nothing back, but your FHA loan remains assumable for qualified buyers

For free e-newsletters, credit assessments or mortgage pre-qualifications, go to www. vlender. com /p /phillipshq or call (734) 797-5522 [24 hours] Tim Phillips is a mortgage loan officer serving all of Michigan Homebuyers should always consult a professional for guidance specific to their situation.

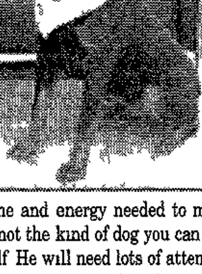
Michigan Humane Society ADOPT-A-PET

This Week's Featured Pet



Samson is an eleven month old Rottweiler male with plenty of energy and strength Due to breed and size he is recommended for a home with children at least twelve years old Although he is good and friendly dog it is important to know that time will be needed in order to get him adapted to your home He will need some obedience training and he will also need regular exercise and playtime to stay in good health Please be aware of the time and energy needed to make Samson a part of your home He s not the kind of dog you can just put in the yard to entertain himself He will need lots of attention & love and in return he will be a pet that you will cherish

To bring Samson into your life, visit the Michigan Humane Society Westland Shelter, (734) 721-7300
