Water rates headed for hike

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER
tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

Residents in both the city and Plymouth Township can expect to be paying more for water come July 1

The Plymouth city administration is recommending commissioners approve a 14 8 percent water and sewer rate increase beginning July 1 Meanwhile, the township's Board of Trustees is expected to talk about a possible 15-percent or higher water rate hike at its June 11 meeting

In a memo to City Manager Paul Sincock, Finance Director Mark Christiansen said there is a total cost increase for all water and sewer service charges of more than $358,000

"Costs related to increases imposed on the city by Detroit for bulk water purchases and Wayne County for sewage disposal fees are expected to increase by $108,000," said Christiansen in the memo "The budget for the new fiscal year also includes a transfer of $150,000 to the street construction fund for continuation of the road improvement program The proposed rate increase does not accommodate any accumulation of additional reserves for future capital construction "

In the township, Supervisor Steve Mann says the township is still catching up on increases passed on over the last several years by the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department

"We have not always passed on the increases Mann said "To get to that level where we re charging customers what it costs us we d have to raise the rate 20 percent which is substantial The board was faced with the same problem last year, and we raised them slightly less than what would have gotten us on par "

According to Sincock, the average residential customer, who uses 18,000 gallons every three months, will see an increase of $5 34 per month, or $16 02 per quarter

"While the City Administration would like to establish a higher build up in our cash reserves, we have to temper this with the need to maintain reasonable rate increases," said Sincock in his recommendation to the city commission, which will discuss the rate

Teacher uses school to train leader dogs

BY TONY BRUSCATO

Every morning at Pioneer Middle School, counselor Patricia Butzin is greeted by students in the parking lot as she gets out of her car

"I don't ever kid myself, I know the kids are there to see Delilah, said Butzin of the golden retriever Leader Dog she s training

Delilah is Butzin s seventh Leader Dog puppy, all of which have been attention-getters at Pioneer

"I give most of the credit to the kids because they socialize her and get her used to all the noises," said Butzin "They take her for walks outside, and clean up any mess she makes, without question "

Budzin said she became interested in the Leader Dog program after losing two of her own dogs

"I saw one in a restaurant in Plymouth and knew that's what I wanted to do," she said "The kids love them, and all the principals I've worked for have been fine with the dogs "

That includes current Pioneer principal Philip Freeman

"I think it's wonderful for the kids, and wonderful for the staff," said Freeman "Delilah is the best therapy for a crying kid, no doubt about it They come in the office and ask to pet the dog for five minutes and it cures some of the worst problems you can have "

Some of the kids will talk to the dog, even if they won't talk to the adults

"Delilah can take care of tears and sick kids " said Budzin "She nudges them and gives them comfort

Franz Stoneking 13 of Canton Township is one of the students who waits every morning for the arrival of Delilah

She s a real affectionate dog and real friendly," said Stoneking "I walk her around the school and she always takes me to the janitor's office because they always give her a bone That's her favorite spot "

A close second is sitting next to the desk of counselor Bob Waters "I feed her all the time," he admitted "All the dogs have been brilliant They have the best temperament of any dogs I've seen "

Becka Birman is another of the student aides who help take care of Delilah at Pioneer

"She tells us when she wants water

New students could stave off some cuts

tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

At the same time Plymouth-Canton Schools administrators are attempting to identify nearly $1 5 million dollars in cuts for the 2002-2003 budget, Superintendent Kathleen Booher remains hopeful not all will be necessary before school opens next fall

After the Board of Education received a list totaling $950,000 in staff, program and equipment reductions May 14, trustees on Tuesday requested another $500,000 in cuts Board members are concerned that when contract negotiations are completed for four union groups, including the 1,000-member Plymouth-Canton Education Association, next year's budget will be written in red ink

However, there may be a glimmer of good news on the horizon While, the administration is predicting an increase of 130 students next year, the district has averaged 261 new students each August over the last seven years, according to figures given the board by Patricia Brand, executive director of business services

"We're very likely going to have twice as many students as we're predicting in the budget," said Booher "A district can often experience a higher enrollment the year they open a new school, and we're certainly seeing that

"We saw that with Dodson, and the high school is seeing a large registration from private and parochial schools that exceeds what they usually see, by far So, it could be the opening of the third high school is also going to be attracting people who are making a different choice, or may be ready to come back to the high school "

Booher indicated that for each 20

BY BRAD KADRICH

In case residents in Plymouth Township west of Sheldon don't want to fix their own sidewalks, contractors for Plymouth Township are now ready to do it for them

After that, Dietrich said, residents will be given a month to do the work themselves The township contractor is authorized to begin repairs after Aug 1

C&L's bid lowers the per-flag price for concrete to $72 Last year, with Audia Concrete Construction of Milford as the contractor, concrete cost $80 per flag Audia was the second-lowest bidder this time around Mat tioli Cement Company of Fenton, the contractor two years ago in the first year of the program, was the highest among the five bids received this time

Teachers want raise despite financial situation in schools

BY TONY BRUSCATO
tbruscato@oe homecomm net

Plymouth-Canton teachers union officials aren't backing off their demands for a pay raise, despite the financial plight of the school district

The biggest challenge to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education's efforts to balance the 2002-2003 budget is determining how much pay raises will cost the district

According to figures released by the administration, a 2-percent wage hike for the four employee groups currently negotiating contracts would leave the district with a $777,000 budget deficit, while a 3-percent pay increase would force the district $1 7 million into the red

The largest of the unions in contract talks is the Plymouth-Canton Education Association, with more than 1,000 members Both sides indicate a contract is near, and could be presented at the June 11 school board meeting

PCEA President Chuck Portelli isn't apologizing for going after a raise when the district is in financial straits

"We're sitting on $17 8 million in fund balance They need to spend some of it," Portelli said "How can we say Proposal A isn't working when we have that much money sitting in the fund balance? They're being very conservative "

Portelli said the teachers have already taken the biggest hit in the $950,000 in budget reduc tions recommended by Superintendent Kathleen Booher The Board of Education is still mulling over the cuts, which could include a reduction of four elementary teaching positions and a middle school teacher

"Yes, I deserve a raise And, yes, every teacher and every other employee in the district deserves a raise," he said "They just cut $950,000, and $350,000 of that was teachers How many more do we want to lay off? Teachers have given their fair share "

student increase in enrollment, the district receives about $150,000 in additional state funding If the district again reaches that average increase in enrollment, it could produce an extra $975,000 in state funding

"We would encourage the board to not overreact to what we explain as conservative budgeting," Booher said "We want to plan for a darker picture than we really think is going to happen so we're not caught off guard "

However, if it's proven that more cuts are needed to balance next year's budget, Booher's optimism begins to wane

"I think it's going to be very difficult to stay away from any areas that will illicit a lot of attention because it will affect more employees, and perhaps students in more ways that are more noticeable than the $950,000 (in cuts) we were able to generate," Booher said "When you start talking about another half million, you have to start looking at some pretty big areas "

Those areas brought up by the board at its last meeting included athletics, transportation and curriculum cuts

Booher didn't rule out the possibility of using some of the district's more than $17 million in fund balance

"We have a very healthy fund equity, considering the circumstances the district is in she said "We would not advocate continuous use of fund equity because it would have a time limit I think we might come back with some choices for the board and one of the choices could be perhaps using fund equity

Bird students tackle the Bard

To be or not to be wasn t the question at Bird Elementary School Wednesday afternoon

The only real question was how long the standing ovation would last

Third graders at Bird cracked a tough nut tackling Shakespeare s A Midsummer Night s Dream with the help of some high school students and a great deal of support from parents and friends

Students designed their own covers for the program handed to parents just before the curtain opened Working from a script adapted by Cindy Burnstein s high school Shakespeare class with sets hand painted on tarpaulins the third graders in Theresa McDonnell s class made it through the three storylines that make up the play in a nearly flawless 45 minute performance

"At first I was a little worried,' said McDonnell I wanted to expose the children to Shakespeare and to the theater It s truly amazing kids can enjoy love and even understand William Shakespeare

The project started back in January The high school 'Shakespeare buddies worked with the third graders adapting the script rehearsing lines — That was the hardest part McDonnell said — and teaching them about The Bard

"It was great said Shakespeare Buddy Carly Kaloustian a junior at Canton High School We got to show them Shakespeare on a different level

It proved worth the effort at Wednesday s performance which had parents on their feet applauding at play s end

Amanda Allan who starred as Hermia hasn t done a lot of acting in her young life But she had fun Wednesday

I liked being one of the main characters and I liked being up on stage Amanda said I haven t been in a lot of plays but I want to do more

Naturally, the Bird gym was full of proud parents, none moreso than Enza Lanava whose son Angelo played Oberon Lanava never doubted for a minute the kids could tackle something as tough as Shakespeare

"I thought they could pull it off," she said "Shakespeare is a little more advanced than third grade, but they did a great job '

Breakfast served with market

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER
bkadrich@oe.homecomm.net

Word is apparently out you can get a good breakfast with your visit to Farmer's Market

Last week, on the fourth weekend of a new fund-raising effort sponsored by the Plymouth Mason's Lodge, more than 100 people came out to eat breakfast at the lodge, located next to The Gathering

It was the best weekend yet for this fledgling effort, aimed at raising money and, perhaps more importantly, providing visibility for the Masons

"At one of our temple board meetings, we thought this would be a good way to have a fundraiser and also get the Masonic name out in the public a little more," said senior warden Bob Johns

Realizing it would be a large chore, Johns and the Masons enlisted the aid of other civic groups in the area, and four groups stepped up Now the Masons will share the rotation with the Plymouth Elks, the Civitans, the Knights of Columbus and the Plymouth A M Rotary

"We realized we couldn't do it alone," Johns admitted "There's no way any one group could do this alone every week "

The five groups will rotate Saturdays, with breakfast served from 7-11 a m Each group will have around a dozen people working the breakfast and answering questions about their particular group Johns said he hopes to spur memberships in civic organizations with the breakfasts

The breakfasts will be served every Saturday except two July 27, when the Masons are hosting a large wedding party, and Fall Festival, when the Kiwanis Club holds its annual pancake breakfast

"Each week, we'll have placemats featuring whichever group is hosting that day," Johns said "It makes people more familiar with the group, and hopefully somebody would be interested in a membership with the group "

The Rotary Club did the May 25 breakfast, which produced the biggest turnout thus far

"It was the best one so far," said Ron Loiselle of the Rotary "Kids from Youth Leadership Plymouth and Rotaract (a new high school rotary club) helped out as part of their community service commitment "

Beck, Sheldon roads construction projects getting closer to start

BY BRAD KADRICH
bkadrich@oe.homecomm.net

Drivers traveling Beck and Sheldon roads around M-14 should soak in the view as it now stands, uninterrupted by construction barrels and crews

It's only going to last a few months longer

Wayne County's Mike Darga told the industrial committee of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Thursday that work on two projects — improvements to Beck Road and the Sheldon Road underpass — would begin probably shortly after the first of the year Darga met with the committee at Fruedenberg, NOK, in Plymouth Township

The need to acquire land for a 33-foot right-of-way for the Beck Road project has slowed the timeline, Darga said A public hearing on that acquisition is scheduled for 6 30 p m Wednesday at Northville Township Hall

The part of the project that will most affect Plymouth drivers is between M-14 and Five Mile, which the county is turning into a five-lane road County officials want to get that part done before launching into the reconstruction of Beck from 5-6 Mile, which they're turning into a four-lane boulevard

"We're going to start at the south end to make sure we get widenings from M-14 to 5 Mile done," Darga said 'At least then that will be complete "

Beck will not be closed during that phase Darga said at least one lane in each direction will be open throughout the project

The underpass project, meanwhile, got a recent shot in the arm when CSX finally gave its input into the plans Now the biggest obstacle remains making sure residents in the City of Plymouth have water throughout the expected 23-month shutdown of Sheldon Road

A 36-inch water main, which services the entire city, has to be moved, and finding a temporary solution has been a problem for engineers They think they've got it licked, Darga said, with temporary connections to Plymouth Township systems, which has been the most obvious solution since the sides started talking about this project two years ago

"While we're moving (the water main), the city has to be fed (water)," Darga told the committee "If we don't make the cross-connections properly, there will be a problem "

Darga said bids for the project will likely go out this fall, with a January 2003 estimated start date County officials are still estimating a 23-month closure of Sheldon Road A truck detour will be posted that would send traffic south on Sheldon to Ann Arbor Road, east to I-275, then north to M-14 Although truck traffic will be required to use the detour, Darga said passenger car traffic would probably find alternate routes, likely through residential areas

"We fully understand passenger cars are going to do what they need to do to get around (construction)," Darga said

Commission sets its outdoor slate

BY TONY BRUSCATO
tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

The Plymouth city commission once again takes its show on the road, holding regular meetings the next three months at city parks

It's the second year city commissioners have held meetings in neighborhood parks, and it gets two thumbs up from city leaders

"I like getting out in the neighborhoods," said Commissioner Dan Dwyer "We got to see the parks and the neighbors, and parks are always an issue

"It's always fun seeing people who don't usually come to city commission meetings In fact, I'll bet last year we saw more people attend the meetings in the park than we saw come to commission meetings at City Hall," added Dwyer

Monday's summer meeting tour begins at Kellogg Park, with the Gathering Pavilion the location in case of rain

Other city commission meet ings are scheduled for June 17, Lions Park, July 1, Jaycee Park, July 15 Garden Club Park, Aug 5, Optimist Park, and Aug 19, Kiwanis Park All meetings begin at 7 p m increase at Monday's meeting in Kellogg Park "We are aware that our system is in need of substantial updating and we are attempting to address critical needs as our infrastructure repair program continues "

This summer the city is planning improvements to the water mains on a portion of Penniman, all of Sunset as well as on Blanche Street There are also planned improvements to the water supply for the entire New England subdivision, where a second connection will be added

Last year, the city commission approved a 9 5 percent water and sewer rate hike, of which five percent went towards increased costs, with the remaining 4 5 percent to build cash reserves in the water fund

In July 2000, the city increased rates by 8 8 percent And, in February 1999, city commissioners approved a 43 percent hike to offset a $500,000 deficit in the water fund

Christiansen said the water fund has improved since that time, and will have $900,000 in reserve by June 30, 2003

As for future water and sewer rate increases, Christiansen said the days of single-digit hikes appear to be over "The next two years, the pro jected increases in rates from Detroit and Wayne County will be even higher than they are this year," he said "They're talking 16 percent in water increases in two years " and wants to go for a walk," said Birman, 13, also of Canton 'She likes to stop and let everyone pet her

All of Butzin's dogs have been successful, meaning they graduate and are given to a blind person

We're really socializers, not trainers and to get them to be kind to people," said Butzin 'We teach them basic manners like sit, stay, lay, and to be calm in situations with lots of noise We can go to the gym and do pretty well with balls flying past us"

■ In fact, school is a good place to train a Leader Dog, according to Samantha Ziegenmeyer of Leader Dogs for the Blind in Rochester.

In fact, school is a good place to train a Leader Dog, according to Samantha Ziegenmeyer of Leader Dogs for the Blind in Rochester

"In school, the dogs see more people on a day-to-day basis," said Ziegenmeyer "It makes it easier on the trainer because you'd have to go to a lot of malls and parks to get the same experience"

Butzin said Delilah goes everywhere — shopping, restaurants, and even to church on Sunday

"During one service the minister was about to say 'Amen' and she barked He said 'I'll take that as an Amen," said Butzin "There isn't a restaurant in town that hasn't welcomed the dogs I can't go anyplace without making new friends"

Luke Cadeau of Canton knows the special meaning of training the Leader Dogs "My uncle is blind and has a dog," the 13-year-old said "I feel good because I'm helping people who need help by training the dog"

At the end of the day, again Butzin is surrounded by students looking for Delilah

"Everyone stops by to say good-bye,' said Butzin "If you listen to the kids, she's everyone's dog"

Global grocery

Market caters to all tastes

BY JACK GLADDEN
jgladden@oe.homecomm.net

Finding a niche: The market on the northeast corner of Haggerty and Palmer roads has been open for two years

It's a typical suburban strip mall Palmer Crossing, on the northeast corner of Haggerty and Palmer, houses a CVS Pharmacy, a Jet's Pizza and, facing Haggerty, a small store called Haggerty Fruit Market

It's the kind of place, so it seems, that you'd visit to pick up some bananas and oranges or maybe some apples for a pie And you could do that

But the name belies what awaits customers who enter the store through the automatic opening doors

The bananas and oranges are there, but so are coconuts, cactus pears, eddoes, and, in season, green almonds and fresh green olives, along with trays and boxes of even more exotic items

Beyond the fruit and vegetable aisles shelves are stocked with bulk spices, coffees, lentils and beans, varieties of rice and flours and pasta and shelves of canned goods with labels in a multitude of languages A meat counter at the back of the store offers halal meat – beef, lamb and chicken Trays of baklava sit on the counter by the cash register and credit card reader

A customer quickly realizes that this suburban "fruit market" is more like an international bazaar And that's exactly what three Lebanese immigrants had in mind when they opened the store two years ago

Marwan Saati, one of the three partners in the business, said the growing ethnic diversity of the area, particularly in Canton itself, made them decide that this was the perfect spot for such a multicultural food store

"We are not specific to one community or country," he said "We have customers from four or five communities who shop here "

Around the world

Saati said the business stocks food products from the Middle East, India, Pakistan, Poland, Iran, Mexico, Greece and other countries

"Two years ago there was no store like this in the area," he said "But people started moving to Canton from places likes Westland and Dearborn "

According to the 2000 census figures, more than 6,000 Asians are living in Canton, 8 7 percent of the township's total population That's the third highest percentage in Metro Detroit, behind Troy and Hamtramck

Symbolically, perhaps, the multicultural food store in a typical strip mall is just half a mile from the Canton Mosque at Palmer and Lotz and just under three miles from the Hindu Temple on Cherry Hill east of Canton Center

Mohamad Miri, another partner, said he thinks of their target customers as "First Immigrants "

"People come here," he said, "and they're still attached to their customs and their style of cooking We will get what people ask for "

How-to guide

For those not familiar with some of the items the store sells, Miri said they have a book that explains how to prepare and eat some of the products

"The book will show you how to eat hummus," he said

But Miri is knowledgeable about what he sells, also The store buys flat bread from an Iraqi baker – "made just the way it's been made since Noah's day "

They have feta cheese from Greece and Bulgaria

"The Bulgarian has a little more lamb's milk," Miri said "It's a little bit sharper "

Miri also follows changing eating patterns among various groups

"Yogurt – it's basically an American product," he said "But it's starting to become popular in Indian and Turkish cooking "

For those who are simply looking for the basics – vinegar, mustard, tomato paste – the Haggerty Fruit Market stocks those items also And if you're hungry for a Good Humor Ice Cream bar or a frozen pizza, the market has them

While both Miri and Saati live in Dearborn Heights at the moment, both are planning to move to Canton in the near future

Saati, who has a 17-month-old son and another on the way, says he, like other immigrants, has "discovered Canton "

"I like the Canton school system for my children," he said "And I like the community " He learned the grocery business from his father who, he says, was in the produce business in Lebanon

Miri, who has a 15-year-old son, said he, too, wants to get his son into the Plymouth-Canton school system

Cuts in mental health funding alarm caregivers

BY CHRISTINE BRODA
cbroda@oe.homecomm.net

Gregory Skonieczny, 36, works in a Canton workshop delivering handbills Two weeks ago his workweek was reduced from five to three days because of county budget cuts, and his mother, Diane Lomack, is concerned

"I don't know what they're going to do with him," she said "He can't be left alone at all"

Gregory is "trainable retarded" and needs constant 24-hour monitoring He lives in the Cardinal group home in Westland and participates in a day program that offers him work along with a chance to integrate into the community

Now Gregory's care, along with the welfare and livelihood of many other developmentally disabled persons in Wayne county, is being jeopardized by a series of health care funding reductions that originated at the state level and have trickled down to local mental health service providers

"They always attack mental health," said Lomack, who joins a growing number of caregivers alarmed and concerned that the impact of these reductions will severely affect the safety, welfare and health of people like her son

Wayne County hit hard

Many counties in the state are facing increased costs and reduced funds due to the managed care problem that is part of the larger health care crisis in Michigan

But Wayne County's situation is not typical, says Robert McLuckie, executive director of Alternative Services, a nonprofit company that provides community residential services to mentally disabled persons

"Wayne County is home to 40 percent of the people with disabilities living in Michigan," he said "That alone sets us apart"

In April the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Agency – a multipurpose agency that contracts with 104 community-based organizations to give direct care to persons with mental disabilities – instituted a 15 percent budget cut across the board

This translated into a $6 5 million reduction in funds to Community Living Services, one of many nonprofit mental health agencies under contract with the county mental health board to provide mental health services to Wayne County

Due to budget cuts, CLS was forced to decrease funding to residential providers that are directly responsible for the care of mentally disabled persons within the community Day programs, such as the one that provides Gregory Skonieczny with employment, have been hit hard

Staff cuts

Lomack said her primary concern is the decreased number and availability of staff that is necessary to take care of her son on a daily basis

"They (CLS) are making so many cuts that aren't fair," she said "There's no staffing and no money to pay for staff for when he's not at the workshop Someone has to be there and so far I haven't been told what the plan is"

Jan Myers, community relations coordinator for CLS, said her agency is also contending with the negative consequences of budget reductions implemented by the county

"We had to look at what we could do," Myers said "We didn't want to cut safety, housing or food"

According to Myers, CLS laid off 23 people on May 1 to compensate for the decrease in funds All employees also took a 20 percent cut in pay and are now working 4-day workweeks

Alice Saules, former president of Parents and Advocates for Wayne Community Living Services, said she is extremely concerned for mentally disabled persons whose safety will be affected by staff reductions

"The effect of this reduction in funds is going to be horrendous," she said "They (service providers) are already starting cuts – it's very frightening"

Parents and Advocates has organized a campaign to write letters and make phone calls to government representatives, lobbying for action

Parents meet

In a further effort to stop or reduce funding cuts to providers, advocates for the mentally disabled have planned a series of informational meetings for parents and guardians One such meeting took place on May 23 and was hosted by McLuckie, who is also vice-chairman of the Wayne Affiliation for Advocacy Supports and Services, an organization that includes many of the providers contracted with CLS

"The purpose of this meeting is to inform parents and guardians," McLuckie said "We want to make sure people are aware of the issues facing service providers and how this will affect the quality and options of service available to those in need"

During the meeting McLuckie addressed the audience of concerned parents and guardians with a list of issues they must now contend with that include consumer safety, personal rights violations, increased behavior problems due to limited supervision, violation of person-centered plans and overall quality of life of the developmentally disabled

"I believe the providers' voice is somewhat weakened because we are a business," he said "Clearly it's the parents' and guardians' voices that are most important – they're the ones with a fundamental stake in everything"

According to McLuckie the main issue regarding reduced funding for mental health programs is the potential service loss that will affect such areas as day programs, staff availability and community activities His focus, however, remained on action – making the parents' and guardians' concerns known to the legislators and representatives who have the power to change policy

Wayne County Commissioner Jewel Ware, who also chairs the Commission's Committee on Health and Human services, is working to counteract the effects of reduced mental health funds She sponsored a resolution, adopted by the Commission at its May 16 meeting, for Gov John Engler and James Haverman, Jr, director of the Michigan Department of Community Health, to review and reverse their decisions impacting mental health Ware has also planned a May 29 public hearing on mental health issues affecting the county

"We will continue to voice our opinion and let the state know that Wayne County needs more dollars to provide quality services for clients and consumers," she said

In the meantime, Ware said the county is asking agencies such as CLS to review their budgets and see where adjustments can be made so direct services are not affected by budget cuts

FOCUS ON WINE

RAY & ELEANOR HEALD

1st DIWE awards 32 gold medals

In advance of today's Garden Party to benefit the St Vincent & Sarah Fisher Center in Farmington Hills, the first Detroit International Wine Experience (DIWE) commercial wine competition was held on May 4 Attendees at the Garden Party will be the first to taste the medal-winning wines If you d still like to attend, tickets at $150 per person are available at the entrance to the Center, 27400 West 12 Mile Road Festivities begin at 1 p m

We were privileged to be among the judges at the DIWE, joining area restaurateurs, retailers and the corps of certified sommeliers, including Master Sommelier Madeline Triffon, who have impressively upgraded wine lists at the area s top restaurants

DIWE winning wines represent not only top wines in various categories but unlike some national competitions, these wines are available in the Detroit metro area Frequently wines that win West Coast competitions are in such limited supply that only those attending the awards celebration can taste them and be among the privileged few to purchase them

Of 390 wines entered in the competition, 130 won a medal with only 32 winning gold medals That s 8 percent About the right number of golds for a fairly-judged event

We generally dislike phrases such as "there s something here for everyone because it smacks of dilution and mediocrity Not in the case of the DIWE gold-medal winning wines They range in price from $6 to $65 per bottle What we also find interesting is that more than half of the gold medal winners have already appeared in this space on previous Sundays, over the last few months, as part of the column or given particular mention in Wine Picks

To make things easier for you to find your price-comfort range, gold medal winning wines are listed by price

Healthy muffins are mighty fine!

BY SANDRA DALKA-PRYSBY
SPECIAL WRITER

So what do you do when your last child goes away to college, you have time on your hands and you have a strong interest in healthy cooking and baking?

For Joan Forgach a Beverly Hills mother of four the answer was to create the 'perfect" healthy muffin This was no small deed considering that it took months of experimenting with a number of all natural ingredients to get the right mix of great taste and healthy benefits "But all my hard work paid off and 'Mighty Muffs' were born," says Forgach

The high fiber (3 6 grams per muffin) creation has everything that its originator had set out to achieve Its ingredients include whole wheat flour, oat bran, fortified vegetable protein, and wheat germ Two of the most important additions, according to Forgach, are flaxseed oil and soy milk

"Flaxseed is a healthy source of fiber and aids regularity Soy milk is a vegetable based product that is lactose and cholesterol free and its health benefits are extensive," Forgach says "It contains protein, dietary fiber vitamins minerals iron and the much touted Omega 3 It also has isoflavones to fight cancer "

The muffin creator adds that the "great taste' – her assessment, as well as family and others – is the result of the recipe's brown sugar, carrots, nuts, apples, pears, bananas and vanilla flavoring "All this for only 220 calories per muffin!"

Whole Foods Market offers customized tours for individuals or groups including youth groups, to focus on such topics as natural foods, how to add soy and soy products to your diet, food allergies, and vegetarian diets. The tours must be pre-arranged and can be made by calling the marketing/community relations specialist at the specific market you are interested in touring The three area markets are

- Rochester Hills – 1404 Walton Blvd , west of Livernois (248) 652-2100
- Troy – 2880 West Maple at Coolidge (248) 649-9600.
- West Bloomfield – 7350 Orchard Lake Road at 14 Mile (248) 538-4600

An interest in healthy eating

Forgach's healthy muffin is the culmination of years of cooking classes and an interest in providing herself and family with healthy and natural food choices Her family includes husband Matthew, and children Jen-

Grandma's book shares recipes of old Detroit

Dishes serve many tastes

BY LANA MINI
lmini@oe homecomm.net

Grace Henry Williams was such a great cook that late at night her neighbors snuck into the house and ate her leftovers

They really weren't too quiet as the bowls and pans banged on the tables and they talked in a normal tone of voice

In bed Williams smiled with the satisfaction of another well- cooked meal accomplishment

Those were the days, back in the early 1900s, when Detroiters on 14th Street near the train station still left their doors unlocked

Williams collected recipes from friends and co-workers of her husband Harvey Williams who worked with the Michigan Central Railroad, and then with Ford Motor Co

Many she used and others she just stored away

In the 1970s, Grace Williams passed away, but her recipes aren't forgotten Her granddaughter, Connie Hitch, of Westland, published them in a book titled Grandma's Recipe Box, Real recipes from the 1930s 1950s

"Her favorite foods were cookies and sweet icing," Hitch remembers "My grandfather loved the barbecue sauces "

Hitch said the cookbook is her way to honor her grandmother and thought it would be a nice keepsake for Grace's fourteen children and grandchildren

"As a member of the workforce in the city of Detroit for most of my career, I understood the importance of keeping the history alive in this great city," Hitch said "The recipes are either family recipes or ones that my Grandmother collected from the new defunct Detroit Mirror or from the wives of the men that were employed at the railroad and Ford Rouge Plant "

Some of the recipes are common and some aren't such as Cucumber Relish with celery seed and hot red peppers, Corn and Summer Squash, Turnip-Potato Puff, Casserole of Oxtail, Whole-wheat Nut Loaf, Pineapple Coconut Pie Shell, Home Made Noodles, Armenian Lamb, Stuffed Eggplants and Two-tier Raspberry Pie

nifer, 32, Greg, 30, Sarah, 27 and Leslie, 19 "Besides, I had already created a healthy doggie cookie for the family pet I figured I could create a healthy muffin for the rest of the family!"

"I collect, read and use various cookbooks, I alter recipes to accommodate my family's tastes and my interest in healthy eating

"For my 'Mighty Muffs', I took a simple muffin recipe and enhanced it with ingredients that I believed to not only be beneficial and filling, but tasty enough to look forward to eating every morning"

She adds that breakfast is the most important meal of the day and yet she didn't always have time to prepare fresh fruit and something nutritious for herself or family "I felt frustrated and started looking for something that I and my family members could take with us on the run – something that would be filling and keep us satisfied until lunch A bowl of cereal doesn't do this and bagels are too heavy and often dull Breakfast bars are too expensive and processed Also, I discovered that the most muffins that are readily available have too many preservatives and are sweet and cupcake-like"

She is proud that most of the sweetness in her muffins comes from the fruits "Everything I use is fresh" The fruits also help to make the muffins moist

"The fruit and other ingredients in the muffins provide me with a good combination of fiber, vitamins and the bonus of something tasty, filling and mobile, which is an added plus When we're in a rush, we can shove a muffin into our purses, briefcases or gym bags If I'm at home, I'll heat one in the microwave for about 30 seconds and put on a little butter or fruit spread, if I feel like a little more flavor" She stresses, however, that her muffins are full of flavor without any toppings

"Mighty Muffs" got their name from the healthy ingredients and the fact that they are filling and satisfying "My son, Greg, and I collaborated on the name, and he, a graduate in illustration from the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, came up with the trademark"

A name and trademark was needed when friends, neighbors and co-workers of family members asked to purchase the muffins

"I never planned for these muffins to be anything more than a breakfast treat for my family Now I'm in the muffin business I've been selling them through word-of-mouth for $15 a dozen" For another dollar, she packages the muffins in brown bags with handles with tissue and raffia, making them suitable for hostess gifts (For information and orders, call (248) 642-0419)

Whole Foods muffins

Forgach doesn't have the market on healthy muffins In fact, an area market chain, Whole Foods Market, has a wide selection of muffins, all of which are made with natural (no artificial) ingredients, including whole wheat and unbleached flours and organically grown fruits and vegetables

The markets bake muffins each day "Fresh and natural is our goal for the muffins, as well as our other offerings," says Susan Bellinson, marketing director for Michigan She says the market's most popular muffins are blueberry, lemon poppy seed, vegetarian chocolate chip, vegetarian blueberry and its light morning muffin

The store also carries prepackaged varieties provided by such suppliers as Vitalicious and Natural Ovens

Whole Foods Market grew out of a food co-op that was founded in 1980 in Austin, Texas There are now markets in 23 states and Canada The four Michigan stores are in Ann Arbor, Rochester Hills, Troy and West Bloomfield The goal of this nation's top retailer of natural and organic products is to provide the highest quality, least processed, most flavorful and naturally preserved foods "Our products must meet the highest of standards and contain no artificial additives, sweeteners, colorings or preservatives," says Bellinson

Aaron McKee, who handles marketing and community relations for the Troy market, invites customers to come in for not only the wide assortment of muffins available, but for healthy ingredients so they can make their own at home "We carry a wide variety of foods sold in bulk This allows customers to buy only the amount needed for a recipe"

Southern cornbread style

Lois McCurry of Canton doesn't worry about buying too much of a rarely used ingredient when it comes to making her muffins "I make just your basic cornbread muffin," she says

According to the Tennessee native, cornbread muffins are a Southern staple "I've been making them since I was a small child, for more than 50 years All Southern girls are taught to make these muffins

"After all this time, I just throw the ingredients together without even using a measuring cup"

McCurry says that health concerns (she has diabetes, her husband, Don, has high blood pressure) has required her to alter her muffins somewhat

"Basically, all Southern cooking and baking has as its foundation fats, especially animal fats Now I use healthier ingredients, such as canola oil and whole wheat flour in my cooking and baking (Although she continues to use white flour in her muffins)

The mother of five and grandmother of 10 says she's been able to control her diabetes without medication through exercise – she and her husband go for walks and ride bikes – and diet, including her fairly low-calorie cornbread muffins "There's no sugar in my recipe," she says

Unique flavors spice up muffins

Mixing foods creates 5th taste – or "umami"

BY DANA JACOBI
FOR THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE FOR CANCER RESEARCH

The four basic tastes – salty, sweet, sour and bitter – are familiar to us, but so is umami, the Japanese name for "the fifth taste" that doesn't have a name in the West

Often described as rich and meaty, umami ("oo-MOM-eh") is the full-flavored taste that helps make soy sauce, balsamic vinegar, Parmigiano-Reggiano cheese and sautéed mushrooms so appealing, both on their own and as flavor enhancers

Although physiologists have long known the chemical compounds that provide its taste, only recently have they discovered the human tongue's receptors for umame Particular amino acids and nucleotides, produced in foods when enzymes break down their proteins, stimulate these receptors, which then message our brain to register the deliciously savory taste of umami

Fermented foods like soy sauce are particularly rich in umami A dash of reduced-sodium soy sauce enhances all kinds of dishes, from stir-frys to mashed potatoes If you must avoid sodium, use balsamic vinegar, especially in soups, tomato sauces and salad dressings

Umami is particularly useful in meatless dishes, where it supplies the flavorful element that usually comes from meat or poultry

See for yourself when making vegetarian lentil soup by sautéing onions a deep brown The caramelizing effect that occurs adds the umami taste that beef or chicken broth would otherwise provide

This mostly egg white omelet is ultimate proof of umami s power As Shirley Corriher, author of Cookwise (Morrow, 1997) says, "Ain't nothin' blander than an egg white But a host of umami-rich ingredients make this one profoundly delicious

MUSHROOM, GREEN PEPPER AND ONION OMELET

3/4 cup good quality marinara sauce
1/2 tsp balsamic vinegar
1/4 tsp reduced sodium soy sauce
Freshly ground black pepper to taste
canola cooking oil spray
1 small onion cut in crescents
6 medium white mushrooms thinly sliced
1 medium green bell pepper seeded cut in thin strips
Salt as desired
3 large egg whites
1 large egg
1 teaspoon grated Parmegiano-Reggiano cheese

In a small saucepan, heat marinara sauce, vinegar and soy sauce, just until hot Season with pepper to taste and set aside

Coat medium non stick pan lib erally with cooking oil spray Set pan over medium high heat Sauté onion until lightly colored, about 3 minutes Add mushrooms, pepper and a pinch of salt Cook, stirring often, until mushrooms are soft, about 4 minutes Transfer to a plate Wipe out pan

Whisk egg whites and egg with cheese, a pinch of salt and a few grinds of pepper Coat pan with oil spray and heat over medium-high heat until hot Add egg mixture, tilting pan to coat bottom evenly

Reduce heat to medium Cook until eggs are well-set, about 4 minutes Slip spatula gently around edges, then underneath to loosen omelet Slide it onto a serving plate

Spoon filling to cover half of omelet and fold omelet, covering filling With a spoon, drizzle sauce in a ribbon effect across omelet Serve immediately

'Evita' comes to Cranbrook's Greek Theatre

BY STACY JENKINS
STAFF WRITER

She was loved by the masses and despised by the elite The essence of Eva Peron remains a mystery and the story of the leg endary first lady of Argentina is timeless

For Troy actress Nicole Stacey, playing the role of Eva Peron in the St Dunstan's Theatre Guild of Cranbrook's production of "Evita" is especially rewarding

"This is the role for me, playing the title role in an opera," said Stacey, 32 "I would qualify this as the role of my lifetime "

Stacey can identify with the life of Eva Peron, who rose from poverty to infamy

"The role means a lot to me, personally," Stacey said "She had nothing and worked her way up I came from a very simple, single parent home and I worked hard to become successful I can relate to her, she's a very passionate woman I enjoy the range of emotions she goes through It's very fulfilling "

A member of St Dunstan's The atre Guild of Cranbrook for eight years, Stacey's previous roles include Sister Amnesia in "Nunsense," and the baker's wife in "Into the Woods " She is married, has two children and is a professional social worker for Roseville schools Cast just four weeks prior to the May 31 premier, Stacey said it was a scramble to learn the show

"I already knew all of the music," she said "But, I had to dive in and learn all of the choreography It's been quite an adventure "

With 60 cast members "Evita" is perhaps the largest-cast production to be held at Cranbrook's outdoor Greek Theatre Nestled in a wooded area, the 1916 stone and concrete amphitheater is a dramatic setting for the production

"It's a wonderful show,' said Southfield resident Roberta Campion, choreographer "Just being outdoors in that Greek Theatre is just stupendous "

Campion, who has a master's degree in dance, said the production spans an array of dance styles, including Spanish dancing, jazz, various sambas, tangos and an authentic Argentinean tango The marriage of beautiful dancing, strong vocals and acting creates an unforgettable performance Music director Matt Horn, of Lathrup Village, leads an 11 piece orchestra through this Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice classic

"We have a great local cast ' said Jamie Richards of Birmingham who plays the role of Che It s all music there s no talking It sounds amazing

Richards, 31, has performed in 45 productions over the past 10 years A few of Richards' previous roles include Alban in 'La Cage Aux Folles," Tony in "West Side Story" and the baker in "Into the Woods "

"This show is interesting to me," he said "I gravitate toward roles that are going to be challenging for me "

Che is a young Argentinean student who is driven, defiant and angry This character is used as a narrator and observer and provides a voice for the anti-Peronist regime

Directed by Mark Nathanson, of Royal Oak, the production at Cranbrook is close to the original, but the outdoor setting forced some minor changes Movie clips, for example, that are used in other productions of "Evita" cannot be used at the Greek Theatre, because it's not dark outside during that portion of the performance, noted Nathanson That's the only variation from the original musical he added

A member of St Dunstan's Theatre Guild of Cranbrook for 10 years, Nathanson studied theater at the University of Michigan This production is his first outdoor musical and the fourth show he's directed for St Dunstan's

"Evita" made its American premier on May 8, 1979 at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion in Los Angeles and moved to Broadway shortly thereafter The musical saw instant success, taking almost every major award on Broadway and kept a packed house at the theater for years Since that time many touring companies have performed Evita all over the world

Livonia couple says 'si, si' to Oaxaca, Mexico

BY MARY QUINLEY

Near the bustling crossroads of 20 de Noviembre and Mina streets in Oaxaca, Mexico, wafts of a warm tantalizing aroma teased unsuspecting passersby

A sniff of the air easily revealed the culprit – it was chocolate So when Jack and Joan Olds of Livonia followed the intoxicating scent, they ended up in the Chocolate Mayordamo shop

Once inside, customers are invited to sample a morsel, sip a cool chocolate drink or watch as toasted cacao is blended with splashes of sugar, cinnamon, vanilla and/or almonds

The taste of the chocolate, said Joan, is "so different from ours and very interesting'

In the southern Mexican city of Oaxaca (say wah-HA-ka), chocolate accounted for a sliver of the pleasantries enjoyed by the Olds, who were visiting with other members of Elderhostel

Some other Oaxacan favorites included food and libations 'We love tortillas and enchiladas, and, we like to eat spicy foods," Joan said Oaxaca obliged Many of their meals, said Jack, involved chicken prepared in a multitude of tasty ways, and accompanied by crisp and tangy sauces

The mole (say MO-lay) sauces, spicy concoctions mixed with unsweetened chocolate and a variety of chilies and spices, are particularly appealing when served with chicken and poultry dishes Fruits are vibrant and succulent Mango, kiwi, strawberries, papaya and pineapple appear on breakfast buffets, as appetizers and with desserts Lush thick, fruit-filled drinks, with or without alcohol, satisfy thirsty palates

Do the Olds recommend the Mexican beer? Si!

They preferred the dark varieties, but were pleased with many of the lighter colored brands

"The whole feeling of Oaxaca is nice," said Joan, who liked the ease of checking out the city on foot The pair meandered through art museums (Jack is an artist) studied Spanish and participated in sightseeing excursions From their hotel, the couple would venture out for a leisurely short stroll to the zocalo, or town square, to eat at sidewalk cafe, listen to the street musicians, shop, and people watch

The zocalo represents the heart of activity in many Mexican cities In Oaxaca's square, shade trees stretch heavenward, a gazebo lures couples and kids Street vendors peddle handmade wares, balloons and food Saturday shopping at the zocalo is a highlight for novice travelers as well as local families When the Olds visited Mexico, a 20 piece orchestra set up their instruments in a corner of the square to entertain the afternoon crowd Pedestrian traffic only is allowed on the main street that encircles the square

Mitla

In the small village of Mitla (say MEE-tlah), a trek approximately 26 miles southeast of Oaxaca, adventure seekers will discover a harmonious blend of modern influences, an intriguing outdoor market and ancient ruins

Mitla is a special place where we will find a 1 000 year old palace – and – signs for Coke and Pepsi,' said Saul Lopez, a tour guide who was speaking earlier this year to a group of American travelers

At the archaeological site in Mitla, visitors are free to meander around the grounds, admire the limestone columns, climb a set of geometrically precise steps and explore an underground tomb The massive layout is mind-boggling Stone was transported from a distance 80 miles from the structure Construction spanned 600 years

We are looking at original paintings that are about 1,000 years old," explained Lopez, as he pointed above an archway to patches of faded hand-painted designs Within years, or maybe months, he said, some of the color will be lost because the walls are not protected

Control of the complex changed hands throughout the decades During one stage, said Lopez, the political classes from neighboring villages journeyed to Mitla to worship the gods The Zapotecs, Mystics, Aztecs and Spaniards influenced what was once a thriving community

Kids who live in Santa Maria el Tule, home to a cypress tree estimated to be more than 2,000 years old, are offered a unique incentive to excel in school They can apply for the position of volunteer tourist guide

'The children, ages seven to ten years, are chosen by the teachers,' said Lopez, as he led a group to the neatly manicured grounds of the widest tree in the world The coveted title is very competitive If a child s grades decline, the youngster is no longer eligible to participate, and, someone else is appointed as a replacement The tours, which basically consist of an easy walk around the perimeter of the tree, are available in Spanish, Italian, German and English

With a little imagination on the part of the audience, coupled with brief descriptive phrases by a guide, "silhouettes' of a turkey, a fish s mouth, an elephant and other figures are visible on the mammoth tree The town, situated a few miles east of the outskirts of Oaxaca also supplies limited shopping opportunities

Rocks battle back, but lose on late Mustang goal

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisak@oe.homecomm.net

■ 'I was happy with our whole game. A month ago, we wouldn't have been able to come back from two goals down. We made a couple of mistakes, we missed a couple of chances, but that's going to happen to any team in a game. We stuck to our game plan.'

Joe Nora
Salem coach

It may indeed be the most-used sports cliche of our time — "a game of inches" — but it also qualifies as the best way to describe Thursday's Division I district soccer semifinal between Plymouth Salem and Northville

After overcoming a two-goal deficit in the first half, the Rocks missed taking the lead in the second half by the narrowest of margins the width of the crossbar above the Mustang's goal

Four minutes later, Maggie Ossola slipped between a pair of Salem defenders, dribbled around Salem keeper Heather Jones and deposited the ball into the net to score what would prove to be the game-winning goal in a 3-2 Northville win at Northville

The Mustangs, who improved to 17-1-1, moved into the district final opposite the Ann Arbor Huron-Novi winner Salem bows out at 7-6-4

"I was happy with our whole game," said Salem coach Joe Nora "A month ago, we wouldn't have been able to come back from two goals down

"We made a couple of mistakes, we missed a couple of chances, but that's going to happen to any team in a game We stuck to our game plan"

And it nearly pulled the Rocks through

A match that could have turned what had been an injury-plagued season around for Salem got off to a miserable start First came the thunderstorms that swept through the area Then, once the match got underway, lightning struck disguised as the Mustangs' Larisa Fill, who two nights earlier had ended Plymouth Canton's season by scoring the game-winning goal with 2 41 left in the match

Against Salem, Fill put two in the net beyond Jones before the match was 12 minutes old Giving a team like Northville — ranked second in the state — a two-goal lead is suicidal

Ossola assisted on Fill's first score Giving up an early goal is bad enough, giving up another on a mistake — Fill's second came off a shot that slipped through Jones' hands, with Nicole Cauzillo assisting — can ruin a team

But the Rocks did not collapse In what Nora called "our most complete game all year," they battled back to knot it at 2-all by halftime

"They're making me turn gray," said Mustangs' coach Ron Meteyer, only half in jest "But you know, you get two quick goals like that and the kids tend to play back a bit And (Salem) pushed a player up — why wouldn't they, being down two goals? — and our players had trouble adjusting to it"

Getting superior play in the midfield, the Rocks sliced the deficit in half when Nikki Anderson fielded a pass from Marissa Sarkesian and sent a looping shot from 20 yards out over Northville keeper Katie Kneisel, making it 2-1 with 22 06 still left in the half

Less than 10 minutes later, Salem got the equalizer, and again it was Sarkesian in the midfield that put the scoring play in motion Taking possession near the center of the field, the sophomore carried the ball toward the left wing, then slipped a pass through to Jordan Falcusan Falcusan's shot was similar to Anderson's, it looped over Kneisel and dropped into the net, making it 2-2 with 12 29 left in the half

"Tonight just wasn't her night," said Meteyer of Kneisel "The high balls were giving her trouble and she wasn't getting to her line"

Still, the Northville coach thought it was more determination than tactics that got Salem back into the game "You have to give them credit ' he said "It was the caliber of players they had out there

"We had to tighten up on defense

Which — as it had been against Canton two days earlier — was the main

■ DISTRICT SOCCER

At halftime of its Division 4 state soccer semifinal Thursday at Clinton, Plymouth Christian Academy's chances didn't look too good

Goals by Marci Martinez and Jennifer Swieader had staked the Redskins to a 2-0 lead by the intermission But if they were already making reservations for the final, they sold the Eagles short

Two second-half goals by Christine Cleary and another by Sarah Roberts made a winner out of PCA, 3-2

The Eagles advanced to Saturday's district final at Clinton against Ann Arbor Greenhills, which earlier this season defeated PCA 2-0

"It was exciting," said Frank Roberts, coach of the second-year PCA program "The girls got a very good speech from the captains at halftime And, to be honest, I thought our team was really better than theirs"

The win gave PCA a 7-3-3 overall record, the Eagles finished second in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference with a 7-2-1 mark Clinton bows out at 14-3

There were several reasons for the Eagles' win, including the play of sophomore Rachel Rudzis in goal An Olympic Development Program talent, Rudzis stopped 18 shots, one of them on a first-half penalty kick that would have given the Redskins a 3-0 lead

At halftime, Roberts "did a little bit of line switching and it worked to perfection

"And I think the girls just really got psyched up The amazing thing was we had just one sub We never had more than three subs, and we had some injuries"

But Roberts and his staff made certain his team received plenty of water, which worked out well

The winner of the Greenhills-PCA match advances to the Division 4 regional hosted by Riverview Gabriel Richard against the Gabriel Richard district winner That match will be at 7 p m Wednesday, the regional final is scheduled for 7 p m Friday

Canton native 1 of 3 Big Ten players of year

Bob Malek's high school baseball career ended on just about the sweetest note possible It looks like history, to an extent, might be repeating itself

Malek, a 1999 graduate of Catholic Central High School, was recently named tri-Big Ten Player of the Year for the 2002 season, and could be a high-round draft pick in Tuesday's baseball amateur draft

Indiana's Kennard Jones and Minnesota's Luke Appert shared honors with Malek, marking the first time three players have shared the award Malek was also named to the All Big Ten First Team for the second year in a row, making him just the second player from MSU to be named in back-to-back years, after Mark Mulder was named in 1997 and 1998

Malek, who scored the game-winning run for the Shamrocks when they won the 1999 Division 1 state championship, has put together one of the best offensive careers of any player in Spartan history He said he didn't expect to put up the gaudy numbers he has, but knew he was capable

Last season ended with disappointment for the Plymouth Whalers, to be sure After posting the best regular-season record, they figured to go deep into the Ontario Hockey League playoffs — again, like they had the previous two seasons, when they reached the OHL Finals

■ HOCKEY

It was not to be The Whalers were upset in the first round by the London Knights

That was then Now the Whalers must rebuild, with such stalwarts as Stephen Weiss, Damian Surma, Brad Yeo, Kris Vernarsky and Jared Newman all figuring to move on to the pro leagues

Ladywood 9, Redford Union 0: Katie Rozum's hat trick was more than enough Thursday as host Livonia Ladywood (8-4-5) cruised in a Division II district semifinal against the visiting Panthers

Other goal scorers for the Blazers, who met North Farmington in Saturday's district final, included Sandy Swish, goalkeeper Stefani Szczechowski, Megan Szczypka, Mallory Brake, Christine Williams and Sue Christenson

Stevenson 3, Franklin 0: Livonia Stevenson had tradition on its side Thursday in a Division I semifinal

The Spartans, perennial state championship contenders, advanced in state tournament play Thursday with a victory over upstart Livonia Franklin

Franklin, enjoying its first winning season in over a decade, bowed out at 11-6-2 overall

State-ranked Stevenson, the Western Lakes Activities Association champion, moved into Saturday's district final at home against Farmington Hills Mercy with a 12-5-1 overall record (Results of that match will appear in Thursday's Observer)

Stevenson scored a pair of first-half goals — Jamie Radley from Liz DiPonio and Danielle Lewis (unassisted)

Dina Allie added a second half goal from Lewis

Stevenson goalkeeper Katherine Koch posted the shutout

"I thought we controlled play and had several other opportunities, but were unable to convert," said Stevenson coach Chris Pinta, whose team beat Franklin on May 1 by an identical 3 0 score

Franklin second-year coach Jenny Barker wsa proud of her team's effort

"I was really impressed the way the girls played the entire game," said the former Stevenson All-State goalkeeper "Never once did they let down or look rattled The girls finished the season with a very well-played game against a good opponent

"It's great to see the entire team work so hard and finish as well as they did"

Mercy 3, Churchill 2 (2 OTs): In a Division I district semifinal Thursday, host Farmington Hills Mercy (5-12-1) pulled out the victory on Jessica Greaney's goal with four minutes remaining in the second overtime to oust Livonia Churchill (6-8-6)

Christine Herzog's goal gave the Marlins a 1-0 halftime lead, but Churchill's Meaghan Trainor tied it on an assist from Kyle LaPorte five minutes into the second half

Mercy's Angie Trudeau made it 2 1 midway through second half, but LaPorte sent the game into overtime with an unassisted goal with only 10 minutes left in regulation

LaPorte finished the year with 15 goals and seven assists

The game was then stopped for nearly 50 minutes because of lightning at the 77 minute mark

"I thought we dominated the first half, but we couldn't finish like we have all year," Churchill coach Dave Hebestreit said "Sarah Phillips hit the crossbar at the end of regulation and Jacqui Gatt had a header in overtime

"Our goalie (Laura Jetke) made a couple of nice saves and I thought Meghan Parnell played well again like she had all year

Wayne 5, Taylor Truman 2. Ashley Britton had a pair of goals, including what proved to be the game winner with just over nine minutes left in the first half Thursday to give host Wayne Memorial (8 12) the Division I district semifinal victory over Taylor Truman

Amy Veres contributed a goal and assist for the victorious Zebras, who led 3-2 at halftime Sara LaBrie and Jenny Wroblewski also scored for Wayne

Adrienn Willmuth had a pair of first-half goals for the Cougars, who finished third this season in the Mega Conference's Blue Division with a 9 3 record

NOTES The MIAC selected its all-conference team last week and four PCA players were selected to the first team with two others chosen to the second squad

Senior midfielder Christine Cleary junior forward Sarah Roberts (who led the team in scoring with 13 goals) sophomore keeper Rachel Rudzis and sophomore sweeper Jessica Cleary were named to the first team

Sarah Moriarty a senior forward and Katie Polera a freshman midfielder were named to the second team

topic of conversation at halftime "We tried to emphasize to them that they were playing too flat, they weren't getting a jump on the ball," Meteyer said of their halftime chat

With less than 28 minutes left, the Salem defense got caught pushing forward as Ossola fielded a pass from Kelly Anderson and split between the Rocks defenders Jones tried to confront her, but Ossola evaded her and slipped the ball into the goal with 27 12 left

Northville dropped back another player on defense after that, making the situation even more difficult for Salem In fact, in the last 12 minutes of the match, the Rocks forced Taylor to make just one true save, and that came in the final 10 seconds

It was a frustrating end to a frustrating season for Salem but as Nora told his team 'Hold your heads high You played a great game

■ Malek has etched his name into MSU's record book after two more terrific seasons.

of great things

"When I went in my freshman year, my goal was just to play in half the games, and I ended up playing in 55 of the 56 games we had," he said "I was confident I could go in there and contribute, but I didn't expect to do well right away"

Getting named to the Freshman All American Team after the 2000 season was just the beginning Malek has etched his name into MSU's record book after two more terrific seasons In 2002, he batted 394 and slammed a conference-leading 19 doubles He set new career records at the school with 239 hits and 162 RBI, in just three seasons

He ranked second in the Big Ten this season with 144 total bases, 60 runs scored and 62 RBI, while ranking third with 80 hits and fourth with 13 home runs His offense played a big part in State's third-place league finish, its best in several seasons

Malek said an improved mental approach to the game, as well as the natural maturation process any 21 year old goes through helped him to adjust to the college level of play, and eventually to excel at that level

"In high school I got worked up more over things," he said "You have to learn that you can't get too frustrated, because the game of baseball is tough I learned to look at the big picture more and take things as they came"

Malek has a baseball player's memory That means, he can recall sequences in games that make you want to sit back and take yourself back to that sunny day with the green grass and sunshine beaming down from the sky He recalls just such a day when talking about the pinnacle of his pre-college career, when CC edged Troy 6 5 in one of the most thrilling state championship games in recent memory

"I hit a double off the wall, but there was a little controversy, because it could have been a home run, but was ruled a ground-rule double," Malek recalled "We loaded the bases and I ended up coming home on a wild pitch It was real exciting and just a great way to finish off my career

That was a great team we had Almost everyone went on to play college somewhere with some sport Casey Rogowski is now in the White Sox system, and we're all still good friends"

Malek pitched a four hit shutout in the 1999 state semifinals to get the Shamrocks to the championship game That game alone was sweet redemption for him, after taking a tough loss in the 1998 semifinals

Malek even made it back to watch his younger sister Liz, a player for Livonia Ladywood's softball team play on a weekend doubleheader

"I don't get a chance to see her play too often, but I try to be there for her as much as I can and give back a little bit," he said

The player known to his friends as "Bobby Baseball" has shown he has the ability to play at a higher level and is able to adjust on the fly He spent last summer at the Cape Cod wood bat league, a common stop for top college players in their offseasons He struggled at the start of the season batting just 150 through the first half, but picked it up and hit at a 350 clip the second half of the season

As he was a highly sought-after player coming out of high school, the process is similar for players who are draft eligible and have the kind of careers Malek had He said the process of being recruited by colleges offered him more control than the one going from college to possibly pro baseball

"Teams are calling all the time, but you never know what happens, so we'll wait and see," Malek said "You just never know what team will draft you, where I got to pick what college I wanted to go to"

Malek points to his parents, coaches and Jeff Kaiser, who runs the Downriver Baseball Center, as main inspirations for him reaching the level he has CC coach John Salter called Malek not only one of the best players he's ever coached, but one of the best people

'He's a great kid, more than just a talented baseball player," Salter said "He's a team player all the way, and a hard worker"

Malek played the 2002 season in right field after playing his first two years at State in center field He was also a pitcher in high school

MSU coach Ted Mahan said in a statement that Malek adjusted his skills to fit the team concept, one of the highest compliments he could give a player

"This year we asked him to be more selective and look for more hitting counts in hopes he could hit for more power," he stated "We are very excited that he is the first Michigan State player to earn Player of the Year honors He has become a better hitter every year"

Although this season ended at the Big Ten Tournament with a loss to Minnesota, the future couldn't be much brighter for a player who does just about everything well on the baseball field Just like the player the team improved each of the past three seasons, with potential for more in the future

"My first two years there, we finished eighth in the Big Ten, and it was frustrating because I had never dealt with losing before," he said "But this year, we were mostly juniors and seniors and really grew together as a team, and improved to third place"

The door is still open for Malek to return to MSU for his senior season, since he hasn't signed with an agent yet

Regardless if "Bobby Baseball" signs with an agent, a major league franchise, or returns to be a college student for a fourth season, he's written his name into history, something not many people can claim Then again, making history for Bob Malek is just part of the story

Junior Masters eliminate luck

TEN PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

The Michigan Junior Masters Association, under the guidance of Dan Ottman, has changed its format to the "Sport Condition Bowling"

This is the same type of condition now being used by both the men's and women's professional tours

It brings about lower scores simply by making the lanes more difficult to run up big scores

Essentially, it removes much of the luck factor, for when you get a strike, you earned it with accuracy and a good live ball

The first tournament held under these conditions occurred last weekend at Bowl One Lanes in Troy

In the boys division, Pat Barter of Westland and Amanda O'Malley of Sterling Heights "ran the ladder" to win their respective titles

Barter picked up his second win of the season and his first singles title by winning all four matches

He defeated in order Matt Roberts of Hudsonville, 190-177, Terry Syring of Bay City, 215-196, Jason Gibson of Kalamazoo, 215-177, and Brad Kellam of Clarksville, Ind , 199-188

Barter won a $300 scholarship and has another trophy for his wall

Meanwhile, Bryan King of Troy was the tournament high qualifier with a 1,729 total

The MJMA is the pinnacle of youth bowling, having a statewide scratch tournament on a monthly schedule

some of the finest adult bowlers in our area came up through the MJMA ranks, including many who have gone on to the professional tour

Alro Steel, headquartered in Jackson is the MJMA's present ing sponsor, adding $1,000 in scholarship money for each tour nament

For more information, call Ottman at (248) 689-8696 or email him at dan ottman@pba com

•Tim Wieczorek has moved He operated the pro shop at Thunderbird Lanes on Maple Road in Troy for a few years, but now he has relocated to Roseville, in with Kevin Wojcik at 10 1/2 Mile and Gratiot roads

It may seen like a long trek for us westsiders, but Tim is the same ex pro bowler who devel oped an alternative way of drilling up a bowling ball

He calls it the "Freestyle Grip," which allows for a more relaxed grip and results in a stronger roll

Wieczorek feels strongly that he has something special, and has drilled balls this way for var ious customers in 47 states

For more information, call Wieczorek at (586) 778 2272

•The awards list has been completed for the 2000-01 sea son

Three-hundred games rolled by American Bowling Congress (41,303), Women's International Bowling Congress (915) and YABA (1,213)

299 games — ABC (17,858), WIBC (455) and YABA (437),

298s — ABC (6,907), WIBC (213) and YABA (183)

800 series —ABC (11,519), WIBC (141) and YABA (268)

The largest award category was for 700 series was recorded by the ABC (248,209) followed by the WIBC (6,293) and YABA (495* girls only for honor score recognition)

Have you ever had a 7 10 split and wondered if anyone could ever convert it?

The answer is ABC bowlers made 4,835 of them, WIBC suc ceeded on 659 and YABA registered 377 conversions in that year

A triplicate score is a rarity Or is it?

There were 13,297 in the ABC, 9,078 by WIBC bowlers and 3,104 by the YABA kids

Another fearsome foursome is the double pinochle or big four split

Yes, they can be made, as the ABC converted 4,733, the WIBC had 1 027 and YABA 370 successful conversions

There is a nice award for 100 pins over average for one game, that happened 52,242 times that year in the ABC, 12,757 in the WIBC and 301 in the YABA competition

Those are national awards, while the local associations also offer many other honors such as the tepladder award, which I won myself this season, along with other awards for lower average bowlers

Watch out for the Hammer as Ebonite International is now introducing its first ball produced under the Hammer name since the recent acquisition

The new Hammer Vicious is a solid reactive ball, which has been engineered to "clear the fronts quickly and provide a vicious in you-face reaction at the breakpoint," according to Ed Gallagher, product manager for Hammer

"It will allow players to open up the lane on a variety of environments," Gallagher said

It comes in a combined navy/purple color with a finish of 800 grit, then polished It's available in 12, 13, 14, 15 or 16 pounds, coming to pro shops this month

Last weekend, the Whalers brought their draftees in for an orientation camp to show them and their parents the arena and the area

"They haven't seen the facility," said team general manager/coach Mike Vellucci "This gives them the chance to see it, and they get to meet the staff, to see the area and the billets

"They find out what to expect They'll go through some physical testing, see what they need to improve"

Only those eligible to be selected in the first two rounds of the 2002 draft are eligible to play next season The Whalers will have three players — first-round pick Taylor Raszka, a right wing, second-round selection Trevor Waddell, a defenseman, and fourth-round choice Mike Letizia, a defenseman — who could step in

Vellucci is confident all three could contribute immediately

Raszka is a 6-foot-1, 175-pounder who, Vellucci said, "is a phenomenal shooter with great hands He showed great skill — we expect big things from him"

Vellucci called Raszka "more of a power forward" than Stephen Weiss, the Whalers' leading scorer last year and a first-round draft choice of the Florida Panthers "Without a doubt, we expect him to contribute right away"

Raszka played for the Detroit Jr Wings Midgets last season, scoring 34 goals and assisting on 29 others (63 points) in 67 games He also had 130 minutes in penalties

Waddell, the Whalers first pick in the second round (40th overall), stands 5-10 and weighs a solid 175 pounds "He's not real tall, but he's thick," said Vellucci "He competes he knows how to win And he has a great shot — he can score"

He did last season for the Toronto Red Wings Bantam team In 33 games, Waddell had 14 goals, 22 assists (36 points) and 89 penalty minutes

Letizia, a fourth-round choice for the Whalers, was eligible to be drafted after the 2001 season but wasn't due to a broken wrist suffered during the season He recovered nicely enough to col lect 13 goals, 22 assists (35 points) and 60 penalty minutes in 55 games this past season He was selected 80th overall

Other Whaler draft choices

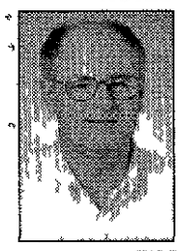
Eddie Wheeler a 5 11 175 pound goalie who played for the Leaming ton (Ont) Junior B squad last sea son (2 77 goals against average four shutouts in 23 games played) in the fifth round Danny Lefort a 6 foot 185 pound defenseman for the Toronto Red Wings Bantam selected in the sixth round Gino Pisellini a 6 1 175 pound right wing from Team Illinois Bantam taken in the sixth round (27 goals 17 assists 44 points in 60 games) Kevin Swallow a 6 foot 170 pound right wing taken in the seventh round from the Ply mouth Compuware Midgets (15 goals 24 assists 39 points in 47 games) Craig Cescon a 6 1 190 pound left wing from taken the Markham Islanders Bantam team in the eighth round (22 goals 17 assists 39 points in 36 games) Greg Geurtjens a 6 1 180 pound center who scored 11 goals and assisted on 14 others (25 points) in 24 games for Guelph Bantam Storm Luke Lucyk a 6 foot 185 pound defenseman taken in the ninth round by Team Wisconsin Bantam Jon Marshall a 6 3 190 pound center from Perington Blades Bantam who totaled 10 goals 20 assists (30 points) in 27 games Nik Sellers a 5 10 162 pound right wing who scored 34 goals and 67 assists (101 points) in 57 games for the Compuware 86 s Matthew Cleve land a 6-foot 185 pound goalie who stands 6 foot 185 pounds and and was selected in the 13th round Tay lor Stone a 6 3 183-pound defense man who had five goals and 13 assists (18 points) in 28 games for the Kitchener (Ont) Rangers Bantam squad and Steve Bandurski a 6 1 170 pound right wing who totaled 26 goals and 28 assists (54 points) in 67 hgames for the Plymouth Com puware 86 s

The new Whalers also toured Ply mouth Christian Academy on Friday, where those who will be billeted with local families will go to school They scrimmaged on Friday evening then had two more on Saturday

The hope is many of them will graduate to the Whalers within a year or two

Fight on against foreign invaders

NATURE NOTES



TIM NOWICKI

■ Experts agree that invasive alien species will never be eliminated, but it is important to minimize their impact.

One of the most prevalent problems for land managers today is invasive species

These are mostly plants that have been introduced from foreign coun tries, either accidentally or intentionally Once in a new area, they often proliferate pro fusely because competition from disease and insect pests is mini mal or non existent

Purple loosestrife buckthorn and garlic mustard are just three plants on the invasive species hit list

Experts agree that invasive alien species will never be elimi nated, but it is important to min imize their impact Chemical control is often unrealistic so bio logical control is a viable alternative in some cases

In Europe, purple loosestrife is a native plant which is not invasive in wetlands like it is here Scientists discovered that a small beetle actively feeds on the plant and controls its growth and ultimate reproductive capa bilities These beetles were brought to the United States for controlled tests to see if they would cause a problem when released in a non native environ ment

Introducing an alien species to control an alien species sounds like adding gasoline to a fire That is why controlled tests were conducted before these beetles were ever released into the wild

Many treated areas have seen remarkable reductions in purple loosestrife and no recognizable consequences from the beetles

Finding a suitable biological control is not easy

Scientists also know that ani mals can adapt to new condi tions There is always a chance that they missed something in the complicated maze of biologi cal interactions

Another purple flower that was introduced into the U S from Europe is spotted knap weed Like many invasive species, knapweed does very well in disturbed areas A monocul ture of knapweed can develop rapidly

After its introduction in the 1890s along the west coast, it spread rapidly to the east coast

To combat this alien species agricultural agents introduced a gall fly The fly s larvae build a gall in the flower buds

Though it does not stop the flower from developing it does take some energy away from the plant Less energy translates into fewer seeds Fewer seeds means fewer new plants and ultimately a reduction in knap weed

Researchers have recently dis covered that deer mice like to eat the fly larvae While entering the flowerhead to extract the lar vae deer mice eat some knap weed seeds

These seeds can survive their passage through the digestive system of the mouse As the mouse travels around its territo ry, it deposits knapweed seeds where ever it defecates

But here is where the complex ity of nature is demonstrated

When owls eat the mice that have eaten the knapweed seeds, while foraging for the fly larvae, they cough up the fur and bones of the mouse in the form of a pel let

In four owl pellets from a great horned owl researchers found 102 knapweed seeds Only one germinated, but it demonstrated that knapweed can be transport ed to distant locations via the pellet because the mouse ate the larvae of the gall fly which was introduced to help control the spread of knapweed

Nature can be ironic and very frustrating at times

Scientists have learned a great deal about introducing alien species for any reason, but the adaptability of nature can be very powerful

Carefully researched introduc tions should continue because they will do more good than harm, but caution is still an operative word

WEST NILE VIRUS

Take precautions, don't panic

What you can do...

- Try to avoid exposure to mosquitos, and take measures to prevent getting bit by mosquitos when outdoors.
- Apply an insect repellent containing DEET.
- Wear protective clothing, including long pants and long-sleeved shirts.
- Keep in mind that mosquitos are commonly found near tall grass weeds and bushes and that they breed in standing or slowly moving water
- Safeguard your house by making sure all doors and windows have screens that fit tightly.
- Replace old and damaged screens.
- Remove standing water from gutters, boat covers, flower pots, bird baths and other containers in your yard.
- Remind neighbors to take precautions.
- Report areas with heavy mosquito activity to your county health agency.
- Do not handle a dead bird with bare hands. Use either gloves or a plastic bag and then wrap in two plastic bags before disposing.
- To report dead birds to health officials or obtain additional information, call:

Concern about West Nile virus mounted last week after discovery of an infected dead bird in Livonia

Infected birds particularly crows are the most sensitive indicator of the virus presence in a region according to the Michigan Department of Community Health

But the state agency and county health officials urge residents to focus on preventive measures, rather than panic, particularly since risk of infection is very low

"Less than one percent of the mosquito population is infected, and the chances of getting the virus are very slim," said Sandra Collins, public health information manager, Wayne County Department of Public Health "We want people to maintain their regular summer activities, but just exercise a little extra precaution and avoid mosquito expo sure "

The virus, which was identified in 1999 in the United States and in August 2001 in Michigan, is transmitted to humans and other animals through mosquito bites Mosquitos become infected with West Nile virus when they feed on birds carrying it The virus is not transmitted from person to person

Most humans infected with the virus either have no symptoms or suffer only mild illness, Collins said, adding the chances of becoming severely ill, if infected, are "less than one percent "

Symptoms and illness

In fact, Centers for Disease Control studies show one in four infected persons have only mild illness characterized by fever, headache and body aches In some cases, symptoms include skin rash and swollen lymph glands

Symptoms would likely occur three to 15 days after an infected mosquito bite, according to the Michigan Department of Community Health

If infected, the elderly and those with compromised immune systems, are at a higher risk of serious illness

West Nile virus can cause encephalitis, an inflammation of the brain, and meningitis, an inflammation of the brain and spinal cord

Symptoms associated with encephalitis include headache high fever, a stiff neck, stupor, disorientation, coma tremors convulsions and muscle weakness Those who experience severe or unusual headaches or signs of encephalitis should seek med ical care immediately

Treatment is non specific for the virus In severe cases hospitalization intravenous fluids, airway management respiratory support and prevention of secondary infections may be required There is no vaccine for West Nile virus In a few cases, mostly among the elderly, death may occur

West Nile virus outbreaks have occurred in Africa, Egypt, Israel, Asia, Romania, Russia and France

Avoid mosquitos, other precautions

"The message that really needs to get out to the general public is the same as last year – you need to avoid areas with mosquitos," said Ron Grimes, administrator for environmental health services, Oakland County Health Division

Mosquitos populate areas with heavy concentrations of weeds, tall grass and bushes They lay eggs in standing or slow moving water

"You should also try to avoid the outdoors when mosquito activity is high, which is dawn, dusk and the early evening hours," Collins said, adding, "It's better to be safe than sorry "

When going outdoors, wear protective clothing, such as long pants and long sleeved shirts, and use of an insect repellent containing 35 percent DEET

Special care should be taken when applying insect repellent to children because of their hand and mouth habits, so be sure to follow manufacturer's guidelines The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends insect repellent with 10 percent DEET for children, said Collins

To safeguard your house, make sure all windows and doors have tight-fitting screens and replace those with tears, holes or damage

Memory impairment

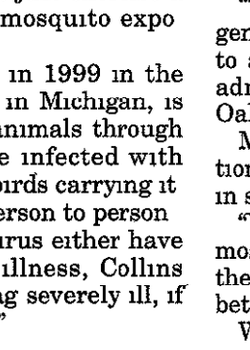
U-M study shows estrogen can help menopausal women

For each woman, the physical and emotional signs of menopause, a stage in a woman's life when her periods end, vary While going through this natural aging process, women may experience many common symptoms including hot flashes, skin and hair changes, bone loss, mood swings, anxiety, insomnia and even minor impaired memory due to a reduction of the female hormone, estrogen, in the body

A pilot study completed by the University of Michigan Health System demonstrated that with long term estrogen replacement therapy there may be the potential to change one of the common symp toms that occurs during aging The study has shown that long-term and consistent use of hormone replacement therapy (HRT) can help improve certain cognitive areas, particularly non-verbal or spatial memory and attention

Because estrogen receptors are located throughout the brain, the hormone can affect the brain's functions in multiple ways, one of which is memory

■ The study has shown that long-term and consistent use of hormone replacement therapy (HRT) can help improve certain cognitive areas, particularly non-verbal or spatial memory and attention.



According to Dr Yolanda R Smith, assistant pro fessor and research investigator in the U-M Division of Reproductive Endocrinology, other studies also have suggested that estrogen does affect memory, especially in post-menopausal women Most of these studies, however, have been based on short-term use of estrogen replacement and measured a woman's memory during treatment

"When women go through peri-menopause, estrogen levels will vary in their brain and then eventually become much lower than what they were during the reproductive years, " she says "The lower levels affect different neurotransmitter systems in the brain and they can potentially affect cognition and mood "

Unlike other studies of its kind, the U-M study focused on the affects of long term estrogen replacement therapy It looked at women, all 60 years of age or older, who had been using estrogen since menopause This group was then compared to another group of women who had never used estrogen anytime during or after menopause

The women in the study were tested with a comprehensive neuropsychological testing battery, which measured different memory functions including verbal and non verbal memory The researchers also

Please see ESTROGEN, C8

examined the women's attention and concentration during the tests

The study revealed that women who had been on estrogen since the time of menopause (long-term users) had improved scores in non-verbal memory (spatial memory) and attention when compared to the women who had never taken estrogen

Personal decision

In spite of the study's results, Smith says that taking estrogen during menopause is a very individual decision that women need to make with their physicians

"It's important for women to review their concerns and what their risk factors are for heart disease, breast cancer and osteoporosis before taking estrogen," she says. "Estrogen replacement may be something that can help temporize some of the mild symptoms that occur during menopause, too, and is something to consider for long-term use."

In addition to memory, HRT may also help prevent and treat bone loss caused by osteoporosis, which increases the risk of bone fractures HRT also treats symptoms of low estrogen, including hot flashes and vaginal dryness

A future U-M study focusing again on long-term estrogen use is already in the works It will further compare long-term estrogen users to non-estrogen users to investigate their cognitive function The study will also look at the brain areas used when women are performing certain cognitive tests and will image different neurotransmitter systems in the brain The study is presently recruiting participants

Facts about HRT and menopause

- While the physical and emotional signs of menopause may vary within women, most will experience common symptoms, one of which is mild memory impairment.
- A pilot study conducted at U-M Health System demonstrated that long-term estrogen replacement therapy can help improve certain types of cognitive areas, particularly non-verbal or spatial memory and attention.
- The study revealed that women 60 years or older who had been on estrogen since the time of menopause (long-term users) had improved scores in non-verbal memory and attention when compared to the women who had never taken estrogen.
- HRT may also help prevent and treat bone loss caused by osteoporosis and other common menopausal symptoms such as hot flashes and vaginal dryness.

Bladder problems

Botsford physician offers advanced treatment

Millions of people suffer from frustrating and embarrassing bladder control problems They may have tried treatments such as diet changes, exercises, medications and biofeedback – to no avail

For patients whose symptoms do not respond well to these more conservative treatments, Botsford General Hospital board-certified urologist Dr Lisa J Finkelstein offers potential relief The treatment is Medtronic s InterStim Therapy for Urinary Control Dr Finkelstein is the only specialist in the Farmington Farmington Hills area offering InterStim Therapy

Before a decision can be made about recommending an InterStim implantation, Dr Finkelstein performs a test to see what effect electrical stimulation has on the patient s nerve that controls the bladder and surrounding muscles that manage urinary function If symptoms improve or disappear during the test period, long-term use of InterStim Therapy may be appropriate for the patient

The InterStim device sends mild electrical pulses to a nerve located in the lower back, which may eliminate or reduce certain bladder control symptoms Similar to a smaller version of a pacemaker the device has helped people with urge incontinence, urgency-frequency and retention problems

'People of any age can suffer from bladder control problems InterStim Therapy is a significant advancement for some of them Patients who have not found relief through conservative therapies, including the newer medications, may regain bladder function and improve the quality of their lives," comments Dr Finkelstein

Her practice, Suburban Urology Network, is located on the Botsford General Hospital campus Patients interested in learning more about InterStim Therapy may contact Dr Finkelstein at (248) 471 0580

Poor penmanship

Doctors' sloppy handwriting is no joke

OMAHA, Neb (AP) – Jokes about the penmanship of doctors are as old as the healing profession itself, but officials at one hospital aren't laughing

Doctors at Children's Hospital in Omaha who receive complaints about illegible writing or whose sloppy prescriptions lead to medication errors will be required to take a refresher course in handwriting

Sloppy handwriting can affect patient care, said Dr Steven Lazoritz, Children's vice president of medical affairs

"You can complain and make jokes all you want," Lazoritz told the Omaha World-Herald "The bottom line is you've got to do something about it '

Clear writing is most important in pediatrics because children are more vulnerable to medications and dosage, said Chris Shaffer, the hospital s pharmacy director A decimal point in the wrong place on a child's prescription can result in a fatal error, he said

In 1999, a Texas jury awarded $450,000 to the wife of a man who died after his doctor's handwritten prescription for Isordil was misread by a pharmacist as Plendil One drug treats high blood pressure, and the other relieves chest pain

The man suffered a heart attack and died a few days after the error

Such mistakes due to illegible prescription orders are more common that most people will admit, Shaffer said One national study, he added, estimates that 12 percent of prescriptions are transcribed improperly

The Institute for Safe Medication Practices estimated that 150 million calls are made between pharmacists and physicians each year over unclear prescriptions The institute called for more research to see if penmanship classes have a lasting effect

It also called for continued progress toward computerized prescriptions Children's Hospital is a year or two away from implementing a system that allows doctors to enter prescription orders via computer, officials said

Children's won't be the only hospital to offer a penmanship program Cedars-Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles encourages doctors to use a block-letter style of writing that is fast, but more legible

Study looks at newly approved drugs

BY LAURAN NEERGAARD
AP MEDICAL WRITER

WASHINGTON (AP) – Only 15 percent of new drugs approved in the last decade were novel chemicals that the U S Food and Drug Administration deemed a significant improvement over older drugs, a study says

The vast majority instead were similar to existing medicines Yet during the same time, consumer spending on prescription drugs more than doubled to $132 billion – and most of the increase was spent not on the most innovative drugs, says the study by the National Institute for Health Care Management

The FDA and other groups have long cautioned that major pharmaceutical breakthroughs are rare But the study to be released Wednesday – by an institute partly funded by managed care – is among the first to rank spending according to drugs relative importance to health care

The findings show patients must be smart consumers, said institute president Nancy Chockley "We are all under the impression that 'new and improved is always much better, yet that s not always true," she said But the study drew immediate fire from the drug industry

It "appears to be little more than a political and financially motivated cheap shot masquerading as science in the public interest," said Richard Smith of the Pharmaceutical Research and Manufacturers of America

The FDA ranks drugs according to different criteria, such as whether they contain a never-before-used chemical In addition, FDA-dubbed "priority drugs" promise a significant health improvement over existing treatments

FDA deems "standard" drugs that don't promise a significant improvement – although having options is important, as patients unhelped by one drug may respond to another, and small differences between competitors can prove important to individuals

The institute reviewed 1,035 drugs that FDA approved between 1989 and 2000, and found that only 153 were both FDA-designated priority drugs and made of novel chemicals – in other words, a highly innovative drug

Many other drugs that won FDA approval were modified versions of an existing medicine, a trend that increased as the decade wore on Between 1995 and 2000, the FDA approved 304 such drugs, compared with 168 in the previous six years

New drugs are often more expensive than their older competitors But when the study examined the $132 billion Americans spent on prescription drugs in 2000, it found $44 billion went for drugs approved since 1995 – and only one-third of the spending was for the most innovative medicines

The industry's Smith attacked the study's premise that a "standard" drug isn't very important He said up to half of depression patients try two or three antidepressants before finding the one that works for them, and that many patients would deem very important a new weekly version of a pill they must take daily

Hospitals get ready for baby boom

BY MARTHA IRVINE
AP NATIONAL WRITER

■ 'This was kind of a wake-up call for people. They saw the towers burning. And when they got home they said, 'You know, it's never going to be the right time. We should start now."

Dr. Paul Kastell
Obstetrician, professor
Long Island College Hospital, New York City

Obstetricians and staffs at some hospital delivery rooms nationwide are gearing up for a summer baby boom that many say was sparked by the Sept 11 terrorist attacks

"This was kind of a wake-up call for people," says Dr Paul Kastell, an obstetrician and professor at Long Island College Hospital in New York City "They saw the towers burning And when they got home they said, 'You know, it's never going to be the right time We should start now'"

New York, which took the biggest hit in the terrorist attacks, is expected to be the boom's epicenter

Kastell says that, beginning in mid-June, deliveries in his own Brooklyn practice will increase 20 to 25 percent compared with last summer Dr Jacques Moritz at St Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital in Manhattan anticipates a 15 percent increase And St Vincent's Hospital, not far from ground zero, is also preparing for a summer boom, though it hasn't attached a percentage to it

Elsewhere, some delivery room staffs around the country are also bracing themselves

That includes Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas, where summer deliveries will include some of the hospital's own staff Five nurses in Baylor's labor-and-delivery department are pregnant and due in July and August Spokeswoman Kathryn Goldstein jokingly suggested the department adopt a new motto "Don't drink the water"

And at least one celebrity will be among the proud parents During a recent interview with Oprah Winfrey, comedian Chris Rock said Sept 11 prompted him and his wife to conceive

Elsewhere, Julia Beck Bromberg, husband Neil Bromberg and 3-year-old daughter Lila are preparing for an addition to their Bethesda, Md , home in July

"If we had begun to take each other and our child for granted, this ended on that day," says Beck Bromberg, who is expecting a son

She says the attacks hit home largely because her husband, an attorney, works two blocks from the White House New information suggests that might have been the intended target of the hijacked plane that crashed in Pennsylvania

At this point, evidence of an overall jump in post-Sept 11 pregnancies – even for the New York metropolitan area – is anecdotal That's because it takes demographers weeks or even months to collect and tally official birth data

There are, however, signs that a boom is coming, says Beck Bromberg, who runs a business called Forty Weeks, a wholesaler for products for babies and new mothers Her company's sales to such retailers as Babiesrus com are up more than 75 percent

And in Miami, the Stork Avenue birth announcement company has added staff because catalog requests indicate that business could quadruple this summer

When asked why they want to have a child in such turbulent times, many new parents cite a need for togetherness, healing and even patriotism

"Maybe our child can help in some small way to make the world a better place," says Missy Acosta, who is due in July and lives in Mt Juliet, Tenn , just outside Nashville

Christopher Coyne, of Houston, says he and wife Trish conceived a daughter while on a brief honeymoon in Manhattan, one month after planes hit the World Trade Center

They've decided to name her Nicole Yvette Coyne – initials "NYC"

But some experts say Sept 11 isn't the only reason more couples are expecting

While they're planning for an increase this summer compared with last, births were already up 6 percent in April at Women & Infants Hospital of Rhode Island in Providence And Bassett Healthcare in upstate New York says a mini baby boom happened at its hospitals in the first quarter of this year

Some suspect that means couples decided to place parenthood above fears about a shaky job market and faltering economy, not terrorism

Even New Yorker Lisa Detwiler says the terrorist attacks she could see from her Brooklyn home did not prompt her to get pregnant, though they did have an effect

She and husband Bill had been trying to conceive a third child for almost a year – and were finally successful after being cooped up in their home for days after Sept 11 (they were unable to work in Manhattan)

"You're so happy that you're safe in bed and your husband is alive," she says

Detwiler hopes the peaceful sound of the name they've chosen – Grace – will be a good omen, even as terrorist threats persist

Of the name, she says "Hopefully, that'll be an indication of the year to come"

To stop mosquitos from breeding in your yard drain standing water from bird baths, gutters flower pots, boat covers and other containers, said Grimes "In terms of people policing their yards, I think that's an important part of it"

Dead birds

While there is no evidence West Nile virus can be transmitted from bird to person, residents should approach dead birds with caution

Use gloves and carefully place birds in double plastic bags for disposal

Residents can report dead birds – as well as areas of high mosquito activity – to respective county health departments

Since the virus has been identified in Oakland and Wayne counties, local health departments are no longer recovering and testing dead birds

However, both county agencies encourage residents to report findings to them Residents can also report dead birds to the state health department by calling its toll-free Michigan West Nile Virus Hotline

DON'T WAIT - THE LOSS IS TOO GREAT
If you develop a swollen knee do not talk yourself into a wait-and-see attitude You can convince yourself that the discomfort is not much that you are able to get where you want to go and that waiting until the swelling ends is the best way to carry on You are wrong
What you don't take into account is the activity lost You may not think you are changing to accommodate your swollen knee but you are You may begin by making fewer trips to the basement You may find that you are spending more time in your most comfortable chair and declining opportunities to go for a walk or meet others for lunch You may attribute the change to just not feeling up to it
The better reason is that your body senses the need to rest the knee and is imposing that need on you
A similar pattern occurs with shoulder pain The effect comes from the discomfort and the strain imposed on your body by not reaching holding or using objects in a natural way You cannot help but become fatigued and irritable which leads to restricting what you will do and how willingly you go into the world
The alternative to waiting to see what will happen to your knee or shoulder is to get help See your doctor Take your physician's advice and follow his treatment In my experience patients who come out of their self imposed waiting are both amazed and shocked when they realize how much they gave up of their lives in exchange for a wait-and-see attitude.

Generic drugs.

Safe. Effective. FDA approved.

According to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration

"A generic drug is identical, or bioequivalent, to a brand name drug in dosage form, safety, strength, route of administration, quality, performance characteristics and intended use. Although generic drugs are chemically identical to their branded counterparts, they are typically sold at substantial discounts from the branded price. According to the Congressional Budget Office, generic drugs save consumers an estimated $8 to $10 billion a year at retail pharmacies. Even more billions are saved when hospitals use generics.

Health professionals and consumers can be assured that FDA approved generic drugs have met the same rigid standards as the innovator (brand-name) drug. To gain FDA approval, a generic must:

- contain the same active ingredients as the innovator (brand-name) drug (inactive ingredients may vary)
- be identical in strength, dosage form and route of administration
- have the same use indications
- be bioequivalent
- meet the same batch requirements for identity, strength, purity, and quality
- be manufactured under the same strict standards of FDA's good manufacturing practice regulations required for innovator (brand-name) products.

New drugs, like other new products, are developed under patent protection. The patent protects the investment in the drug's development by giving the company the sole right to sell the drug while the patent is in effect. When patents or other periods of exclusivity expire, manufacturers can apply to the FDA to sell generic versions. Brand-name firms account for an estimated 50 percent of generic drug production. They frequently make copies of their own or other brand-name drugs but sell them without the brand name."

In a letter sent to health practitioners by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration about the therapeutic equivalence of generic drugs they write, "For both brand-name and generic drugs, the FDA works with pharmaceutical companies to assure that all drugs marketed in the U.S. meet specifications for identity, strength, quality, purity and potency. In approving a generic drug product, the FDA requires many rigorous tests and procedures to assure that the generic drug is interchangeable with the brand-name drug under all approved indications and conditions of use. For these reasons, the FDA-approved product labeling does not recommend that any additional tests need to be performed by the health care provider when a switch occurs from a brand-name drug product to a generic equivalent drug product."

Price, location attract buyers to Park Place

Buyers looking for attached condominium living can choose from two styles of townhomes, a lower ranch and an upper ranch in Park Place at Town Center

Construction is under way in the community's final phase, 103 units, in the heart of Southfield off Evergreen between 10 and 11 Mile roads

Price is a big draw

A lower ranch of 1,165 square feet with two bedrooms, two baths and a one-car garage carries a base price of $154,900

An upper ranch of 1,390 square feet with two bedrooms, two baths, a tandem, two-car garage and fireplace goes for $167,400

The smaller townhome, 1,493 square feet, includes two bedrooms, 2-1/2 baths, den and a two-car, side-by-side garage for $192,900

The larger townhome, 1,545 square feet, comes with two bedrooms, 2-1/2 baths, den, fireplace and two-car, side-by-side garage for $199,900

Ranches are generally grouped 14 to a building – seven down and seven up Individual townhomes, built in three levels with lots of steps, come eight to a building

"I think the biggest selling feature is when you see the price on the sheet, that's the move-in price," said Stanley Kaufman, sales director

"There's a lot of selection people in this price range don't usually get – carpeting, kitchen cabinets, two paint colors," he added

"I call it urban/suburban product," said Larry Cohen, managing partner of Park Center Development, the builder

"Affordability is not to be overlooked It's rarer and rarer to find new construction in the $160,000-$190,000 range," he said

"We're filling a need where people can move into a home (instead of rent) and build equity," Cohen said

"Then we're filling a need for people who have had a home for 30 or 40 years and may not want to deal with a lawn or worry about removing snow Here, all that's taken care of," he said

"We have gone to great lengths to ensure safety Each home is 100 percent fire suppressed and in the garage It's a big deal" Cohen said

Southfield address: Townhome and ranch condominiums present an attractive picture at Park Place

"The location is phenomenal," Kaufman said "It's part of the Town Center (office) community Across the street is the Southfield municipality – recreational facility, golf course, library that will be completed in a year

"They have jazz festivals, fireworks So many different activities and services are mind boggling," he said

"People can pull out of their garage and in three minutes head north or south," Cohen said of Park Place's location right off the Lodge Freeway

"It's a nice atmosphere he added Once in the community here it's really conducive to walking and meeting your neighbors"

All four floor plans at Park Place include at base price air conditioning, all new kitchen appliances – refrigerator, range, microwave and dishwasher – ceramic flooring in the foyer, vinyl in the kitchen and laundry, and carpeting throughout

The laundry in both townhomes is on the third level with the bedrooms, at the main level in the upper ranch and at garage level in the lower ranch

The kitchen sinks are oriented toward the living room and dining area in most of the plans so that the cook and clean up crew can be included in the social aspects of gatherings

Park Place is serviced by city water, sewers and sidewalks It's within the Southfield school boundaries

The property tax rate is $57 69 per $1 000 of state taxable value half of sales price for new construction That means the owners of a $155,000 home there would pay about $4,500 the first year

The monthly association fee of $115 includes lawn service, snow plowing, exterior maintenance, insurance and water

Everett Farmer purchased a lower ranch

"I'm retired and I'm single," he said "I didn't want the obligations of a house, cleaning up and getting on a ladder It's easier going on vacation

"I like the unit," he added "It's easier taken care of You've got two master baths"

Farmer said he also enjoys the civic center amenities across the street and the convenience of expressways

The sales office/models at Park Place, (248) 213 4700 are open noon to 6 p m weekdays noon to 5 p m Saturdays and Sundays

Design creates cozy, airy spaces

FOR AP WEEKLY FEATURES

In the last decade or two, soaring ceilings increasingly have appeared atop the living spaces of new homes They open up stuffy old designs that inhibit light and confine living space

Though these new, open spaces give some homeowners a sense of freedom, they paralyze others who believe the extra height lends a disturbing vacancy to the space

How can designers cater to our innate desire for light and airiness, while providing the comfort and security most people crave?

One solution is to add more built-ins to wide open living areas, whether this involves shelves, niches and other storage space or furniture

Built ins add character and mystery to new homes in a way that is reminiscent of the places we loved as kids

Window seats are becoming popular especially if they sit atop storage drawers nestled amid floor-to ceiling bookshelves

Built-in furniture tucked into a neat little nook offers a haven of comfort even in the midst of voluminous spaces, plus, it solves the problem of what kind of furniture to buy for your new home

Half-walls create a subtle barrier between rooms without cutting off the natural flow of space or conversation They also provide a way of concealing bookshelves or other storage Used in a home's entry, they act as a functional base for setting down purses, mail or other bundles

Lower ceiling heights, at least in some parts of an open floor plan, can lend a cozy dimension to a home, as well Dropping ceilings down from a cathedral height to 10 feet creates visual interest and comfort, yet still maintains a sense of spaciousness

Transom windows and innovative lighting are cost effective substitutes for say an elaborate two story Palladian style window

Library offers many options

An in-home library is a sort of status symbol, proof that one no longer lives simply to survive, but also to thrive and to enjoy leisure

Many of today's homeowners have a desire for a library where they can retreat in peace to read, write or gaze happily at endless shelves of books

Unlike libraries of the past, these new reading retreats are more appropriately sized and equipped to meet the needs of modern homeowners

Some libraries function as places to work quietly on homework, professional projects or household affairs

Others offer a variety of provisions, such as a closet and an adjoining bath for accommodating overnight guests

Still others take advantage of low lighting and book-lined walls to create an ideal environment for media presentations

Still, many function as true libraries – small storehouses for the finer things in life, including books, paintings and leather seating

Smart homeowners can turn any room into a library using simple interior design elements, such as richly painted walls, custom-wood bookshelves and intimate lighting

For those who build their dream home, a consideration of how a library fits into the overall design can optimize the room's performance

Tucked within the master suite, a library won't be a desirable spot to receive clients or guests, and therefore might see little use

Small plumbing adjustments might allow for a wet bar in a library that doubles as a den or office A lower ceiling might help the room feel more cozy And, of course, ample bookshelves are a must

Forget rules; use personal style

BY CAROL MCGARVEY

Television decorating guru Lynette Jennings is a strong advocate of personal style

From her program on the Discovery Channel Lynette Jennings Design, to her own diverse two homes, she lives it

"Design isn't absolute Its beauty is in the eye of the beholder," she says

"We need to own up to who we are and what we like and then have the courage to live the way we want, with what we want Now that's design Taste is personal Period"

With direct encouragement, Jennings tells homeowners to shed perceived "shoulds" and "musts" around them "It's about saying no to stuff you don't like"

Jennings suggests that families take a good look at their space If time is spent mostly with the kids, then why do so many family rooms wind up in the basement with no view or natural light?

Do you "save" the living room for guests? Realisti cally just how often do guests come to see it?

It's time to make homes conform to your needs The American house plan hasn't kept up with our varying cultural lifestyles," she says

It's all about freedom, Jennings explains It's time to get rid of the so-called rules that guide home decorating

Kitchens don't have to be yellow, a 1940s throwback Little girls' rooms don't have to be pink And if you want a pool table in the middle of the living room, go for it

If that's a scary thought, Jennings understands In a blended family of seven members, all with different tastes, her group had different ideas, and she knew she was trapped by "rules" herself

"Remember, design is about life," she said "With five kids, we soon learned that a sandwich making corner in our kitchen was a must '

Jennings has learned, too, that she appreciates many styles and looks Her home is an eclectic mix of antiques, reproductions and lots of color

She also knows she's lucky "In Atlanta, where we produce the TV program, we're lucky to have a second home, so I can try out a whole different look"

There, she lets the home, in the Bauhaus style of the 1950s and '60s, speak to the wooded hills outside huge windows

The interior is a blend of neutrals and sparse furnishings Texture is important to the total look

Non-rule ideas from Lynette Jennings

- There are no right and wrong answers Color is simply personal
- Decorating with color means wearing your taste on your sleeve
- Show emotion It's better to have a gorgeous, comfortable room full of colorful personality than a white box
- Define a color with a white trim White trim can brighten or sharpen a color
- Paint adjacent rooms the same color, and walls seem to disappear, enhancing visual flow from one space to another to create spaciousness
- If you love beige, that's fine Just deepen the color on your walls to at least a mid-tone for confidence and drama
- To pick your favorite colors, look at your closet, your car, your favorite coffee mug

Forget about trend colors Look outside and study a patch of zinnias You'll see that every color is timeless and always in style

Decks expand living spaces outdoors

(HIT) – The deck has become a favorite inclusion on new homes and a popular add-on to existing houses

Architecturally, it adds importance and, of course, it extends indoor living spaces and increases the usefulness of outdoor areas

It's a great place for kids to play and grown-ups to relax or party

It can be a simple platform or a multi-tiered extravaganza, and it associates easily with steps and fences in landscaping plans

But building professionals warn that for a deck to be perfect for your home and lifestyle, you need to start out with a good plan

"A well-planned deck should complement the house and provide a smooth transition to the yard," said Cole Martin of BeaverHome com, on-line marketers of home remodeling and design products

"There are so many things to consider," he said "A deck can be designed for privacy or exposure It can be located to catch a cool breeze or protect against harsh waterfront winds

"It can be an elegant setting for parties, an informal outdoor room for family meals or a secluded spot for a hot tub or sunbathing

"The possibilities are infinite, so the whole family needs to sit down and make a wish list," Martin said "Then you can begin to do away with excesses and zero in on a design that fulfills as many of your dreams as possible

"Then you will have to select materials and patterns for the decking, railings and stairs If you get stuck, seek help from professionals"

Being too stingy with the size of your deck is one of the most common planning errors

According to the design team at BeaverHome com, you should plan on about 20 square feet of space per person who will be using the deck

That makes it easy to compute if you're merely building a family deck, but it becomes a bit more complicated if you're going to use it for entertaining

The BeaverHome planners say you should plan on a minimum of 64 square feet for a dining table and chairs But remember you also need space for people to move around There should be at least three feet of space between activity areas

On a large lot, you have to balance the size of the deck with other yard features such as pool, lawn and flower garden

But on a small lot, the worst thing you can do is skimp on the deck size, experts say It will just emphasize how small your yard is Better to let the deck take up virtually all the space, BeaverHome specialists maintain

Macaranduba is becoming the wood of choice when it comes to construction

"It's three times harder than oak, and it's as close to termite-proof as any wood on the planet," Martin said "In Atlantic City, it's used for boardwalk decking and it has stood up to salt winters for 25 years"

Macarunduba's rich color is reminiscent of mahogany, Martin said And it's affordable, with his company selling at $2 99 per square foot

Like all woods imported by BeaverHome from Brazil, macaranduba is harvested according to environmental rules strictly enforced by the Forest Stewardship Council

Let's Talk About Real Estate

"THE COMPETITIVE EDGE"

When you decide to sell your home, will it be competitive with other homes on the market? Your eventual success in selling will depend on some basic factors These factors, if properly planned, can give you the competitive edge you need to maximize your results Use the following ideas as a checklist when preparing your home for sale

EXTERIOR APPEARANCE

Stand across the street from your house and study its features as if you were a potential buyer Does it look sharp? What can be done to improve its appearance?

INTERIOR APPEARANCE

Is your home as clean as possible? Is it too crowded with furniture? Are the closets or storage places filled with too many belongings? Will the decor and colors appeal to most buyers? Are the garage and basement presentable?

PRICING

Is the asking price for your home based on actual market information? Some people price their home based upon hearsay or just an arbitrary number that will give them a certain amount of money Does the price allow for some negotiation with a potential buyer?

TERMS

Are you willing to provide financing terms that may attract additional people to consider your home? Will you offer a reasonable occupancy period for the buyers?

SHOWINGS

Is your home ready to show when buyers are available to see it? Do you take the advice of your REALTOR® regarding how to show your home at its best? 2002 Ford Thunderbird destined to be a classic

CAReport

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

ANNE FRACASSA

Great car, great fun. 2002 Ford Thunderbird Vehicle class Two-door convertible Power 3 9-liter V8 engine Fuel economy 17 city/23 highway Where built Wixom, Mich Base price $35,945, Premium trim, $39,445 Top option The hardtop is $1,000 extra

For a week, I felt so very, very cool Not to mention it was a gorgeous week to enjoy topless driving in the new addition to Ford's great roster

Top off the Thunderbird, not me, silly

I got looks, stares, thumbs up one guy asked me if he could drive it around the Wal-Mart parking lot, for Pete's sake

When I saw it at last year's North American Auto Show here in Detroit, a colleague of mine stared at it for a good half hour When I got to drive it, he had to see it, touch it, feel it, even wanted his two motorhead sons to take a look-see

The only disappointment I really had was that you need two strapping men to pull the hard top off and place it in its protective cover I tried it with another guy and by the time we were done, I needed a shower It definitely is hard, heavy work

But that's just a minor thing Me, I'd probably take it off and store it, winter and summer, and deal with the soft top only and freeze Heck, why would you want to take it out in the winter anyway?

This new Thunderbird resurrects the classic car some of you remember from 1955-57 Was, and still is, a king of the classics Saw a rusted, broken down one sitting on someone's property in Houghton Lake last weekend with a "for sale" sign proclaiming he didn't want less than $1,500 for it Looked really bad

But the new Thunderbird takes subtle classic features to a new dimension with all the bells and whistles of the 21st century Look at the classic egg-crate grill, the short front overhang, the non-functioning scoop that looks so much like the '61 Thunderbird Both the headlights are round, too It has all the character and foundation of the classic model, just with an updated and very cool look And in beautiful Torch Red, it's truly a head-turner

The 17-inch, 21 spoke cast aluminum wheel have a center-mounted cap that sports the Thunderbird emblem There are curves on the exterior of the vehicle just about everywhere and all those curves are really appealing And the 6 7 cubic foot trunk - fully lined, of course is large enough for golf clubs for both you and your significant other, or your buddy I was really surprised with the comfort level of the new Thunderbird It's not too low to the ground, so getting in, you don't fall in and when getting out, you don't need a hand

Instrumentation is easy to read and understand It's simple stuff, too Switches for the power mirrors, headlamps, traction control, stereo and heating and cooling are right where you need them No stretching - they're right there

The six-way power driver's seat is very, very cozy The Thunderbird has a whopping 43 7 inches of leg room Now that's comfy There's a carpeted shelf behind the seats that can hold anything from the local Observer & Eccentric to a purse to a small bag of groceries Standard interior color is black leather

Everything on the inside and the outside of the Thunderbird screams "sports car" Yet, this is a perfect car for a delicate and stately lady Seems like an oxymoron, but it's the truth

A couple of other things available on the 21st century Thunderbird include fine tuned four-wheel independent transmission, variable-assist rack-and-pinion steering, all-season tires, four-wheel anti-lock brakes, anti-theft system and all-speed traction control

All the safety issues are addressed, as well There are driver and passenger second-generation air bags that can be deactivated with the ignition key if you need to place your baby or child in front There's even a small light alerting you that the air bag is off

Thunderbird also has combination head and chest side air bags These bags, when deployed, explode from the seat bolster, heads toward the door and then upward to the chest and head areas Guess how fast that happens? Within 7 milliseconds of impact and fully deployed within 20 milliseconds Fast

Although many automakers have them, this is the first time a Ford convertible is equipped with the advanced child seat anchor system called LATCH (lower anchors and tethers for children) That means you can hook the seat at the top and bottom for better stability and safety

The Beltminder system is also in the Thunderbird That's a flashing indicator and chime to remind you to buckle up Hard to believe that some people still don't buckle up

The belts also have pretensioners, which can sometime strangle you - but it didn't happen in the Thunderbird once It's something that tightens your seatbelt to prevent you from bouncing around the cabin in the event of a crash

Ford's also installed a glow-in-the-dark trunk release handle, which allows you to open the trunk from the inside - in case your wife stuffs you in there No, seriously, it's a really great feature It doesn't happen with regularity, but you do hear of people being stuffed in trunks during hostage and kidnapping situations, or a kid playing around and accidentally closing the trunk on themselves By the way, all cars have similar features, as mandated by the government last September

Almost forgot The Thunderbird is powered by a 3 9-liter V 8 engine that provides 252 horsepower The reason I mention this so late is that it's an afterthought The car is so incredible in so many ways that the engine hardly matters It's powerful enough to get you where you have to go in a hurry

Remember, however, this convertible is a head-turner, so you'll be under plenty of scrutiny from your local traffic officers

Great car great fun Now go get you one
