Bus fleet is in good shape

Despite the excessive age of Plymouth-Canton school buses, only two of 105 buses were red-tagged during a month-long inspection by Michigan State Police.

"One bus had a problem with seats, another was an exhaust leak. We fixed them both before they went back on the road," said Kurt Miles, head fleet operations mechanic at the district's Mill Street bus yard. "This is our report card, and we wanted it to go well."

In his monthly department summary, Transportation Director Melvin Latnie said the results were "the best inspection since the 1994-95 school year."

It hasn't always been easy for mechanics to keep the units on the road. Unlike some districts, Plymouth-Canton doesn't have a bus replacement program from the general fund, which means many buses are kept on the road longer than they should be.

"We're just getting rid of buses purchased in 1988, some of which have close to 300,000 miles on them," said Miles. "We should be getting rid of them within 10 years."

Latnie proposed a bus replacement program to the Board of Education last year. However, because of the district's budget constraints, the recommendation has yet to produce results.

"I've got some additional ideas which could generate about $250,000 toward a replacement program," said Latnie, who noted he'll present his ideas to the school board in the near future.

The district will be getting rid of 10 buses, and will soon have 19 new units bought with previous bond money. The good news is half the fleet will then consist of buses that have been bought since 1999.

However, that still leaves the other

Judicial hopefuls head down stretch for new seat

Eight of the 10 candidates vying for the newly created third judgeship for Plymouth's 35th District Court put their best ideas forward Wednesday, participating in a forum sponsored by the Observer Newspapers and the League of Women Voters of Northwest

Wayne County. The candidates were quizzed about their opinions on a number of subjects during the 75-minute program at the Plymouth District Library, including the affects of substance abuse violations on the 35th District Court community.

"Substance abuse is a precursor to other kinds of criminal activity, and can escalate and become even worse," said David Esper of Northville Township. "Certainly punishment is important, but we need to be more proactive. We need to do more outreach."

In a challenging question, the lawyers were asked their opinions on the greatest obstacle to justice.

"We've had budget cuts right across all sorts of programs, especially mental health throughout the state," said Thomas Doetsch Sr. of Canton Township. "We're seeing a greater component of children and adults come through with serious mental health problems and there's nowhere to send these people to get help. It limits alternatives for judges to do the right thing, and to help."

Candidates set to face off in 20th House race

Stewart wants chance to finish work he started

BY TONY BRUSCATO

tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

State Representative John Stewart (R-Plymouth Township) said he wants a second, two-year term in the 20th House District he currently occupies to continue his support of local small businesses, education and the environment.

"I was involved in re-writing the unemployment compensation legislation, which led to my being named the Legislator of the Year for the Small Business Association of Michigan," he said. "I want to continue to support my involvement in legislation for academic excellence in education, which is over one-third of the state budget. Thirdly,

I want to be sensitive to the environmental issues that are involved with preserving what we have around here, as far as land use, zoning, planning and pollution."

Stewart, 53, is seeking the Republican nomination for the 20th House seat in the Aug. 6 primary. A freshman lawmaker, Stewart said he wants to remain a part of the House Appropriations Committee, and is hopeful of a chairmanship of the Judiciary Committee, if Republicans maintain the majority.

"We're going to have some budget problems," admitted Stewart. "We're at a crossroads. Gov. Engler said there's not going to be any money for new programs."

"Something has to turn around, and I hope it's in the fall, or else we'll have to look at cuts," said Stewart. "Engler has brilliantly cut in just about every place you can imagine."

Grant thinks House needs more conservative leader

BY TONY BRUSCATO

Jonathon Grant of Plymouth said if he's elected the 20th House District's next representative, he'll fight to put more money in his constituents' pockets.

Grant, 34, is seeking the Republican nomination for the House seat, in the Aug. 6 primary election.

"The single greatest threat to a strong economy, and to the taxpayers' wallets, is the size of our government," said Grant. "As the economy grows, the government grows with it. And, when the economy snaps back, the government is left inflated, and instead of cutting we add new taxes and layers."

"That's just absolutely irresponsible and unacceptable," he said. "My intent as the next state representative is to fight taxation and reduce the size of government where we can. It's irresponsible to keep returning to the taxpayers and the business people for more money when the economy suffers. That's when people suffer the most."

Grant, who is a smoker, said he would have voted against increasing the cigarette tax by 50 cents a pack to help balance the state budget.

"When the Speaker of the House stands up and says pass the cigarette tax or we'll start cutting expenses, I say cut them," said Grant. "If people have more money in their pockets, the more money they spend. That means they're buying goods and services. And the people who produce those goods and services have to produce more. That's the natural cycle."

Restaurant crawl

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce has come up with something new for this year's Old Village Restaurant Crawl Aug. 7.

According to Fran Toney, the chamber's executive director, a horse and carriage will transport ticket holders to and from the various restaurants participating in this year's crawl. The crawl, in its third year, is designed to expose ticket holders to the specialties of Old Village restaurants.

"Last year's response was overwhelming," said Toney. "We're encouraging folks to buy their tickets now while they last."

Seven restaurants have signed up to participate in the crawl including Bushel's Cafe, Grecian Cafe, Jack Dunleavy's Grill, Lower Town Grill, Plymouth Fish & Seafood, Shelly's Chicken Manor and Station 885.

Tickets are available at any of the participating restaurants or the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, 386 S. Main. Cost is $15 per person for adults, $5 for children 12 and under. Tickets can also be purchased by credit card from the chamber office.

For more information, call the chamber office, (734) 453-1540.

Road work

Grading and installation of curbs along Blanche in the city are set to start around Wednesday as improvements on the city's infrastructure continue.

According to city officials, water main installation on both Blanche and Sunset. Crews are continuing to flush the main in preparation for final bacteria tests. Officials said the new main along Blanche should be put into service Monday.

PLYMOUTH PIPELINE

To accomplish that, residents in the area of Irvin Blunk, Ann Harvey and Adams "should anticipate temporary water service interruptions," officials said, lasting up to four or five hours between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Crews are expected to grind the remaining surface of Sunset around July 22. Once that's done, officials said crews will remove any existing concrete before grading and paving the street.

Questions should be directed to the city's Department of Municipal Services, (734) 453-1234 Ext.

Bronco buster

Robbie Beechuk, the son of Dan and Lorraine Beechuk of Plymouth, was a member of the Sky Broncos precision flight team from Western Michigan University that recently soared to a first-place finish at the National Intercollegiate Flying Association championships at Ohio State University.

The team won the national title by beating 26 other teams from around the country.

Beechuk, a graduate of Detroit Catholic Central High School, is a freshman at Western pursuing a degree in engineering.

New building: A new aviation center is under construction at Mettetal Airport.

Volunteers work on new Mettetal center

STAFF WRITER
gmigliore@oe.homecomm.net

The Experimental Aviation Association of Canton is taking flight with its plans to build an aviation center at Mettetal Airport. Work started a month ago and EAA members are doing most of it themselves. The outside may be finished in about a month, but the interior could take up to a year. The new 5,000-square-foot building will replace a 35-year-old structure at the south end of Mettetal.

"It should be a real show piece for the community. This has been a dream for about 15 years," chapter President Don Ruff said. "What they've done is so far beyond what you have the right to expect," Ruff said. "I feel very fortunate to have this type of people that will put in this effort. It's very much appreciated."

The construction is being funded by private donations. Bosonetto said many members from the chapter had given about $1,000. Materials cost about $75,000. The chapter raised about half of the money before construction and also got a loan from the airport, which is owned by the state. "We've got a fair amount, but we're looking for more," he said. The EAA has been at Mettetal since 1961 and is for people interested in recreational aviation. It has monthly informational meetings, often with guest speakers on aviation-related topics. The group also wants to get local students interested in aviation and help them with their math and science skills. It funds a scholarship program as well. "That's the future of an organization like ours," Ruff said. "My goal is to get young people turned on to flying."

"We want to make it a place where people can come and learn things," chapter President Don Ruff said. "A group of about six volunteers from the EAA works during the week in the mornings. 'What they've done is so far beyond what you have the right to expect,' Ruff said. 'I feel very fortunate to have this type of people that will put in this effort. It's very much appreciated.'"

Terrorist warnings issued for smaller airports

gmigliore@oe.homecomm.net

The Transportation Security Administration issued a special vigilance alert Thursday for civil and general aviation pilots and airports. The alert warns that terrorists that cannot hijack commercial jets because of increased security might try general airports. However, the warning said the TSA has no credible information about specific targets, methods or times. Don Ruff, a pilot at Canton's Mettetal Airport, said aviators should be careful, but that a small aircraft is not a useful tool for terrorists. You could do more damage with a dump truck than you could a small airplane, he said. They're not really designed to penetrate. They're not really good weapons." A Cessna 172, a common plane at Mettetal, has a maximum weight of 2,400-2,600 pounds. Its top speed is about 180 knots, although at that speed the plane begins to come apart. "You're just not going to contain a lot of energy," Ruff said. He also said the runway at Mettetal is too short for a plane big enough to do major damage. General aviators are asked to secure unattended aircraft and verify passengers, crew, baggage and cargo before takeoff. The alert also asks airport officials to wear identification and investigate those who are not. The alert warns small airports to look out for aircraft with unusual modifications. Officials should also be wary of people who loiter near operations areas who seem to be under stress, controlled by others, or who have altered or inconsistent identification. Ruff also said a big concern for small airports is radio theft. Bob Evans, a pilot from Plymouth who flies out of Willow Run Airport, said he thinks the warnings are common sense. "That's just part of the security," he said. "You've got a few places that were restricted areas, but you look at your chart and you don't go there. I don't think it's inconvenience at all." Ruff, who is president of the Canton chapter of the Experimental Aviators Association, said airports should have positive effects on their surrounding areas and be tools for learning. "(They) should try to make it a place where people feel comfortable going."

Local cops happy with cars, but Ford forms safety panel

gmigliore@oe.homecomm.net

Ford Motor Company is going to take measures to increase the safety of its Crown Victoria police cruisers, which are the most common vehicles in departments in Plymouth, Canton and across the country. Ford will form a panel to help avoid accidents and improve officer safety. The panel will study car visibility, ways to use cars as barriers and procedures during traffic stops.

It will also form a technical task force that will look at ways police use the car. The task force will test fuel tank bladders, trunk packs and shielding to improve the crash worthiness of the cruisers. Arizona Attorney General Janet Napolitano had asked Ford for a recall of police and civilian cars in a March letter to Ford President and Chief Executive William Clay Ford Jr. after several Arizona police officers were killed or seriously injured in fiery crashes.

Ed Olson, fleet service foreman of Canton Township police, said he will send some of his cruisers, officially called Crown Victoria Police Interceptors, to Ford to replace a parking brake cable bolt problem in models from 1992-1997. He also said a tab from the rear stabilizer bar could be removed in 1992-2001 models. "I'm just doing this to be a little proactive," he said. Olson said three to four cars will go for the bolt replacement and about 40 will go for the tab. Canton has 21 Crown Victorias in police use. The fire department uses four and the building department uses 13. We have been made aware of the possible safety concern, Canton Director of Public Safety John Santomauro said. Olson said Canton has been using the model since 1993.

"I haven't heard anything negative," he said. Santomauro said the car handles the suburban and rural settings of the township. "That has always been our car of choice," he said. "Our service with them has always been exceptional." Plymouth Director of Public Safety Wayne Carroll said his officers do not have to deal with most of the high speeds Arizona officers face and have not had any problems with the Crown Victoria. "If they recall our cars, we'll send them in to have them fixed just like everyone else," he said. "They (officers) like the Crown Victoria. It's been a good car."

Carroll said Plymouth has about 10 cruisers, although some are not used actively. Sgt. Bob Antal of the Plymouth Township Police Department said its force has its 10 cars serviced by a dealership and has had no problems. He said the township uses the cars because of their acceleration. "We'd rather have something that's a little faster out of the hole," he said. Crown Victorias make up 80 percent of North American law enforcement vehicle sales. More than 60,000 new ones are put into service each year. Ford wants to increase communication with departments. "The CVPI (Crown Victoria) is a safe and effective vehicle for police work, but Ford accepts the challenge to look for additional opportunities to make the vehicle and the police-working environment safer even in very high risk situations," Ford Vice President Susan M. Cischke said in a statement.

Forum features House hopefuls

Local voters who want more information about candidates in the race for the 20th and 21st district seats in the Michigan State House of Representatives get their chance Thursday night.

The League of Women Voters of Northwest Wayne County and the Observer Newspapers will host a forum Thursday night that will feature candidates in both races. The forum runs from 7-8 30 p m and will be conducted in the city commission chambers at Plymouth City Hall, 201 S Main in downtown Plymouth.

All of the candidates in both races are expected to appear. They include Republicans John Stewart of Plymouth Township, the incumbent in the 20th House District, and Jonathon Grant of Plymouth.

Democrat Mark Blackwell of Wayne, who is unopposed in the primary, will also be there.

The players in the crowded field of 21st House District candidates are also expected to attend.

They include Phillip LaJoy and Herb Scott, both of Canton, on the Republican side, and Democrats Mark Slavens, also of Canton, and Eric LaCruze of Belleville. Republican Ruthann Bruce of Canton withdrew from the race.

Candidates will be allowed an opening statement, one minute to answer each question and then make a closing statement.

League members encourage — and prefer — members of the audience to ask the questions. AnneMarie Graham-Hudak of the League of Women Voters of Northwest Wayne County will moderate.

Residents face water restrictions

BY BRAD KADRICH
bkadrich@oe homecomm net

Residents in the city and in Plymouth Township are going to need to pay attention to their odds and evens for the foreseeable future.

Officials in both municipalities have imposed odd-even water restrictions on their residents, in accordance with their agreement to get water from the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department Supervisor Steve Mann and City Manager Paul Sincok have both invoked their respective water ordinances in the face of mandatory restrictions on outdoor water usage put in place by Detroit Water.

"This is an effort to avoid water distribution problems due to continued hot, dry weather and high water usage," Mann said. "Because water consumption is at its peak between the hours of 6-9 a.m. and 3-6 p.m. daily, we're also asking for a voluntary observance to avoid outdoor water usage during those hours."

In both municipalities, that means activities such as lawn watering, garden uses and car washing are to be done on odd days by residents with odd-numbered addresses, and even-numbered days by residents in homes whose address ends in even numbers. Residents with automated lawn watering systems are required to reprogram them to conform with the water restrictions.

"It will be unlawful for anyone to use water from the city water system for any type of outdoor use in violation of the terms of this declaration," Sincok said.

Sheila Crowley of Northville Township said time and money are major obstacles to justice in the district court.

"Justice delayed is justice denied," she said. "Time and money are obstacles because of the tremendous growth in our area, and that causes a delay in justice."

Alternative sentences for non-violent offenders is high on the list of the judge candidates.

"We have to look for efficiency. It costs money to put people in jail," said Mike Gerou of Plymouth Township. "I'm fully supportive of community service and work details, and referrals to Growth Works for their Youth Assistance Program."

Eric Colthurst of Northville Township said, "Alternative sentencing for non-violent criminals is a must because there's not enough space to house criminals."

Also attending the forum were Megan Dodson and James Malnowski of Northville Township, as well as Tim O'Connor of Plymouth Township.

Michael Fifer of Canton and Karen Woodside of Northville Township are also candidates for the six-year position, which pays $138,272 annually. Fifer and Woodside had both committed to the forum, but were forced to withdraw due to personal circumstances.

Voters will be able to cast ballots for one candidate, and the two candidates with the highest number of votes will face each other in the Nov. 5 general election.

Judge John MacDonald of Northville Township, who is completing his 18th year on the 35th District Court bench, is running unopposed for re-election.

This will be the last term for the 67-year-old MacDonald. State law prohibits judges from seeking office after age 70.

The 35th District Court in Plymouth services the communities of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Northville and Northville Township.

ANDY LEBLANC

Andy LeBlanc is the Plymouth Observer's carrier of the month for June.

Andy is an eighth-grader at Central Middle School whose favorite subject is math. He enjoys hockey and swimming in his spare time.

What he likes most about his route is meeting all the people. He feels he has developed organizational skills and has learned a great deal about economics.

He thinks one way the Observer can improve being a carrier is to make it easier for other people to get routes.

Stewart has a straight-forward answer for constituents who are looking for Proposal A to be revamped in an effort to increase the state foundation grant for Plymouth-Canton Schools

"I see no consensus to change Proposal A in the next four years," said Stewart "However, rewriting the formula challenges me, because that doesn't raise taxes at all

"I would like to influence fel low legislators to perhaps rewrite that formula for two areas that got left out in the cold," Stewart added "Those are for districts with declining enrollments, and for growing school districts like Plymouth-Canton and Northville

"Those who say you are evil for looking at Proposal A, that you are trying to tax people out of their homes, it's not true That's a scare tactic," he said

As for his accomplishments during the past two years, Stew art lists retaining a balanced state budget while maintaining the reductions in the single business tax and the personal income tax, securing 21 grants from the Michigan Economic Development Corporation for job training and businesses in Plymouth and Northville, more affordable drug prescriptions for seniors by funding the new senior citizen prescription drug program known as Elder Prescription Insurance Coverage, passed legislation which provided for oversight of land use and the environment that protects the Great Lakes

Stewart said the work he's done for his constituents is proof why he should be re-elected

"Service that I've given to them, 100 percent attendance, conscientiously and ruthlessly voted my district," he said "I've done a ton of homework on who my people are, and how I can best serve the people of my district"

half, which were purchased in 1992 and 1994 "We should be thinking about getting rid of them, they're rusting out" said Miles "If we buy 20 buses this year because we need them, they'll all wear out at the same time We need a replacement program with a rotation of about 10 buses a year"

While the district spends approximately $150,000 a year on maintenance, according to Miles the biggest obstacle in keeping older buses is winter weather "You can replace motors and transmissions, but it's the structural, like supports in the floor, that rust That's what gets them"

One of Latnie's first moves after being hired last year was hiring two full-time mechanics for the garage to bring it up to full staffing levels

"When you have as old a fleet as we have now, you need an excellent preventative maintenance program, and that includes having enough mechanics," he said

Miles concurred with his boss that having an eight-man crew has made a difference

"The secret is a good maintenance program," he said

"If you change the oil every 3,000 miles, the guys can visually inspect them and catch a worn out shock or tie rod end That's the key"

job service, said government should stick to those services taxpayers can't provide for themselves, such as security, mental health and welfare

When it comes to education, Grant said he wants to see more accountability from school districts instead of changes in Proposal A, which provides the per-pupil funding for schools in the state Grant said any changes would result in a tax hike

"Since voters approved Proposal A, school funding has increased 54 percent" he said "How much is enough? I challenge any school administrator to tell me how much it costs to educate a child in the State of Michigan

"The fact is, according to Standard & Poor's, only 35 cents of an educational dollar makes its way to a student's desk That's unacceptable," he said "I'd want accountability before I'm going to say you can have more money to waste"

Grant said his views on public education have no bearing on the fact that his 6-year-old daughter attends Plymouth Christian Academy, a private school

"We teach certain values in our home that we want reinforced during the school day, and that's not the place of a public school educator that uses public tax dollars to educate students," he said

Grant has been criticized for never voting in a public school board election, and for a spotty city election voting record, as well

"My daughter goes to a non-public school, and irresponsibly I never gave it a thought," said Grant "The more important issue to focus on here is 96 percent of people are either unaware or don't care I stand in that majority of folks who need to become more involved, stay aware, get involved in the community and the process

"I don't think people should use that against me," he added "The candidate who should go to Lansing should be the candidate who has the most compelling message and can best serve the folks here in the district"

Grant said if elected, he'll be "the conservative leader people can trust"

OBITUARIES

PATRICK ERRETT WELCH

Services for Patrick Welch, 77 of Canton will be held at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, July 14 at the Plymouth Community Arts Council, 774 Sheldon, Plymouth.

Retired professor Dr. Patrick Welch passed on Saturday, June 29 at his home in Canton. Born in Missouri in 1925, Patrick grew up in Sand Springs, Okla. After his tour of duty as a B-24 radio operator, flying 20 combat missions in the European Theater in World War II, he graduated from the University of Tulsa, earning a B.A. in 1949 and an M.A. in 1950.

Patrick Welch

He went on to receive his doctorate at Ohio State University in 1958 with a dissertation about TV Quiz Shows. It was approved only two months before the scandals about game fixing broke out. After 20 years at the University of Houston, including serving as chairman of the mass communications department, and a decade at the University of Illinois in telecommunication and speech, Dr. Welch came to Michigan in 1980 to teach at Wayne State University. He also taught at Eastern Michigan University for several years before his retirement.

During his 47 years in education, he participated in the establishment of the first educational FM radio station in the U.S. and the first educational television station in the world. He was listed in "Who's Who in America" from the mid-1970s to the mid-1980s. A life-long Christian Scientist, Pat was always actively involved in church work, including conducting church services and assisting others in reading more effectively, developing and presenting workshops to help others teach Sunday School better, and assisting state committee work in prisons and publications. At the time of his passing, he was a member of First Church of Christ-Scientist in Plymouth. Pat's family remembers him best for his love of the theater and artistic talent, for letting them win when they were little, telling remarkable war stories on long car drives, eating cookies in one bite, praying with them in the middle of the night and waking them and whistling in the morning, pretending to be a monster while grandchildren ran screaming, and adding joy to their lives with his sassy good humor and charm. He was a strong, quiet man who never had an unkind word to say.

Survivors include his wife of 54 years, Patricia, children, Michael (Dianne) Welch of San Diego, Calif., Catherine (Lee) Summers of Portland, Jennie (John) Eggers of Houston, Texas, and Margaret (Scott) Dendler of Troy, grandchildren, Jessica Bush, Patrick Welch II, Melissa and Amber Welch, Andrew Maneck, and Amanda and Calista Dendler, great-grandchild, Justin Bush.

Arrangements made by Schrader-Howell Funeral Home.

MARGARET CRONKHITE

Services for Margaret Cronkhite, 90, of Plymouth will be held at a later date. Burial was in Riverside Cemetery in Plymouth.

Mrs. Cronkhite was born Oct. 7, 1911 in Muskegon and died July 5 in Westland. She worked at the Burroughs Corporation in Plymouth. She was born and raised in the Holland/Muskegon area and came to the Plymouth community in 1935. She was a former member of St. Timothy Presbyterian Church in Livonia and Trinity Presbyterian Church in Plymouth. She enjoyed traveling with friends and family.

Mrs. Cronkhite was preceded in death by her husband, George at the age of 45 on July 5, 1957.

Survivors include son, George (Harnet) Cronkhite of Plymouth, daughters, Kay (Robert) Potter of Plymouth and Barbara (Dwight) Lawson of Plymouth, 10 grandchildren, 17 great-grandchildren, and three great-great-grandchildren.

Executive candidates find common ground at forum

BY ALEX LUNDBERG
alundberg@oe homecomm net

For the most part, the four candidates for Wayne County Executive who spoke at a forum Thursday night were of like minds on several subjects.

Wayne County Commission Chairman Ricardo Solomon, state Sen Joe Young Jr., Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano and Metro Airport Policeman Richard Frederick participated in a candidates' forum Thursday night at the Livonia Civic Center Library Auditorium to introduce themselves to the public and clarify their positions on the issues facing the county.

Former Detroit Police Chief Benny Napoleon and County Registrar of Deeds Bernard Youngblood were also invited to attend the meeting but did not attend.

To a man, each was in opposition to the Wayne County Airport Authority.

"I'm opposed to it, all of the contracts and jobs go to Lansing," Young said. "If I'm elected, the first thing I'll do is work with the governor to return the airport to Wayne County."

Frederick said the creation of the airport authority was one more step in the privatization of government services, a harbinger of private police and private fire departments.

Control must stay with Wayne County," he said.

Ficano said the creation of the authority sprang from a reaction to how business was being done in the county. Solomon said he, like most of the community leaders in Wayne county, disagreed with the creation of the authority.

Mass transit

Where they all agreed that the airport authority was a bad thing, they also agreed that the county needs some form of mass transportation system. Frederick said the county cannot be competitive without one.

Ficano agreed. "It's critical to economic development," he said. "We need to be able to get people to new jobs."

Solomon said that the county is far behind others in this respect. In order for any mass-transit system to work, Young said, the system has to offer residents solutions that work with their problems.

"Individuals have to be shareholders," Young said. "We need to have meetings and find out people's needs so we can make a system that serves more than just people going to their jobs."

Another point the candidates agreed upon was the importance of a cooperation between the county and its largest city, Detroit. Ficano said that a partnership, rather than an adversarial relationship, would benefit everyone involved.

"It's vitally important," Solomon said. "In addition, the executive needs to work with the Downriver Community Conference and the Conference of Western Wayne. We have to cooperate with one another."

Young talked about the partnerships between the communities in his senate district, he said the needs of those communities are the same as the needs of every other community in the county. Frederick agreed, saying that the county can work with Detroit to make it a world-class city.

Not all of the candidates were up to speed on all issues. Neither Solomon nor Frederick were particularly familiar with the upcoming special education ballot initiative, but said they supported education in Wayne County in general.

Young was supportive of the initiative, but said it should be finite. As written, the 1.5 mills will stay on tax rolls in perpetuity.

"Once the problem is fixed, we should remove the tax," he said.

Ficano also voiced support for the millage, and for lower taxes, saying that initiatives like "e-government" could lower the cost of doing the county's business by being more efficient.

Support high-tech

All of the candidates said that the key to bringing high-tech and biotech jobs to the county was having a well-educated workforce in place.

The candidates also fielded some questions from the audience. A discussion of health care, specifically mental health, centered around the possibility of new taxes. Frederick said he did not want to increase taxes, rather, he'd like to see some of the tobacco tax money used for expanded mental health services.

Ficano had more pointed views on the subject.

"I run the largest mental health facility in the state, The Wayne County Jail," he said. "The closing of state mental health facilities has criminalized mental health. It's more expensive to care for those people in jail."

Solomon said treatment of the mentally ill should be pursued the same way alcoholism and drug abuse are, aggressively with a powerful lobbying effort in Lansing for an increased federal funding.

Young said he'd wring the money out of the county without raising taxes.

"I'd demand that department heads give one percent of their budgets to fund it," he said. "I would reward people in the county for saving money."

Another question centered around Pinnacle Aeropark, the as-yet undeveloped commercial-industrial zone south of Metro Airport. Ficano said that whatever happens, the authority that controls development there needs to operate in accordance with the open meetings act.

Solomon said it will be important for the county to secure independent investment capitalists so that the costs of developing the site won't fall completely on the county's shoulders. Frederick said it will be vital to keep control of the development in Wayne County and avoid the loss of control that happened with the airport authority.

The candidates also agreed that the county needs to do more for the environment, roads need to be improved and cronyism is a bad thing.

The forum was a joint undertaking of the chambers of commerce of Livonia, Westland, Garden City and Dearborn Heights.

The forum will be rebroadcast in Livonia and Redford at 5 p.m. July 16, throughout the weekend of July 19, at 4 p.m. July 24, the weekend of July 26, July 30 at 7:30 p.m. and the weekend of Aug 2.

FOCUS ON WINE

RAY & ELEANOR HEALD

Hunter Valley wines bright and flavorful

OK We'll be upfront We have not been fans of Hunter Valley wines from Australia In general, they seem tired and lack youthful exuberance

No pizzazz No spark No great taste recommendations to pass on to our readers

That attitude modified when we recently tasted the wines from Hope Estate in Australia's Hunter Valley with owner Michael Hope Not only are the wines bright and flavorful, there are many values under $15

Former pharmacist Michael Hope decided in 1994 that he'd rather grow grapes and make wine than fill prescriptions He purchased 37 vineyard acres in Australia's Hunter Valley, ideal for white grapes A second acquisition of nearly 200 acres of famed red basalt soil was then purchased and planted to shiraz and merlot In 1996, he bought a winery that had been dormant for a number of years and modernized it for vintage 1997

He further expanded his wine domain by acquiring Virgin Hills Estate, a renowned property in Victoria, Australia, and its winery This is a challenging, high altitude site on which to grow Bordeaux varietals, shiraz, albec and pinot noir Spring frosts are common and the estate bears the moniker "marginal climate" for red varieties

When you taste the 1998 Virgin Hills Estate, Victoria $32, a blend of 85 percent cabernet 10 percent shiraz three percent merlot and two percent malbec you'll know why Michael Hope jumped at the chance to own this estate, first planted in 1968 Its low yields of a minimal 1.5 tons per acre, would be considered by most as economically untenable It is the vision of people like Michael Hope who bring the world atypical wines with amazing fruit depth At this price, this wine is not only outstanding but a world-class gem

Hope Estate wines

To understand why 2000 Verdelho $8 is in the Hope Estate portfolio, it is necessary to recall that the early wines of Australia were fortified and made from verdelho

"So, this grape has always been in the Hunter Valley," Michael Hope said Using modern winemaking techniques, this dry, still white has the aromas of wild flowers, d'Anjou pears, tropical and other lush fruits, yet crisp taste and finish A touch of spiciness from American oak adds a unique diversion It's perfect for Asian cuisine or seafood Try it if you're looking for new and different

"Balanced wines with complexity and length," Hope continued, "are my winemaking goals"

These are achieved in the 2000 Hope Estate Chardonnay $10 with its nice touch of pineapple and abundant tropical fruit Plump in the middle, it has a delicious fruit profile and a splendid finish with a tasty touch of oak Awesome at this price

WINE PICKS

Except for a few regions in Victoria, Australia is too hot to grow great pinot noir But the following California regions and wineries do it exceptionally well

- 1999 Cinnabar Santa Lucia Highlands Pinot Noir, $42
- 2000 DeLoach OFS Russian River Valley Pinot Noir $40
- 2000 Fetzer Bien Nacido Vineyard Santa Maria Valley Pinot Noir $40
- 1999 Cinnabar Santa Cruz Mountains Pinot Noir $38
- 2000 La Crema Sonoma Coast Pinot Noir $25

HALLOUMI KEBABS

1 package of G&L Keses Halloumi cheese
1 large red pepper cored de seeded
1 large courgette (zucchini)
1 small onion
8 bay leaves
Lemon wedges (to garnish)
150g (5oz) mixed salad leaves

For salad dressing
2 tablespoons olive oil
Juice of 1/2 lemon
1 tablespoon chopped fresh oregano or 1 teaspoon dried oregano
Salt and freshly ground black pepper

Cut Halloumi into one inch cubes Cut and de seed pepper into one inch cubes Cut courgette into one-inch slices Cut onion into 8 wedges

Thread the Halloumi, pepper, courgette, onion and bay leaves onto four skewers Make salad dressing by mixing all ingredients Preheat grill and cook the Halloumi Kebab, turning regularly for 4-8 minutes or until the cubes of Halloumi are well browned Garnish with lemon wedges and serve on a bed of salad leaves Drizzle salad dressing on top

found at gourmet markets or at www.halloumicheese.com through Mediterranean Ventures of Ann Arbor It's a cheese that's used in omelets or on top of pasta — or grilled Look for it at Whole Foods, Zingerman's in Ann Arbor, and Plymouth Market

We asked readers to share their favorite unique grilling recipes, and quickly learned they use their imagination to create palate pleasing dishes The recipes use quality ingredients such as nutrient-rich figs, unusual cheese, extra virgin olive oil and California white potatoes

Linda Stringer, of Livonia, grills a handmade cheese that originated in Cyprus and comes from goat and sheep It's called Halloumi. It comes from free-roaming animals

"It's wonderful," Stringer said "And it does not melt"

She makes the cheese with vegetables or stuffed in chicken breast Or she grills the Halloumi with pineapple and ham

"It also can be fried in a dry, non-stick pan until golden brown and it stays firm," she said

The cheese can be found at gourmet markets or at www.halloumicheese.com through Mediterranean Ventures of Ann Arbor It's a cheese that's used in omelets or on top of pasta — or grilled Look for it at Whole Foods, Zingerman's in Ann Arbor, and Plymouth Market

Wrap: Prosciutto can be thinly sliced and wrapped around figs on the grill. Serve with stone ground wheat bread as a side

Fresh figs

Luhana A Ciccodicola of Beverly Hills

wishes she could take credit for the stuffed grilled fig recipe she submitted to us Instead, she said, her treasured recipe comes from her friend Joe

Ahoto of Wisconsin Making grilled figs is a family affair in the Ciccodicola household with daughters Leah, 10 and Eliza, 6 forming a fun assembly line to help Ciccodicola's husband Joe then completes the process by grilling the figs

"It's fantastic," Ciccodicola said "Fresh figs have a short season so we make these appetizers whenever we can find fresh figs"

For those with the patience and skill to grow fig trees, they'll have to wait until August when the figs are ready to pick Fresh figs, either deep purple or white, are now available at specialty markets

"You can use dried figs, but they are more difficult to stuff," Ciccodicola said

JOE'S GRILLED FIGS STUFFED WITH GOAT CHEESE AND PROSCIUTTO

Fresh figs
Goat Cheese (about 1 table spoon for each fig)
Prosciutto (1/2 or 1 slice depending on how big the figs are and how adept you are at wrapping)
Wooden toothpicks

Make a small slit in the fig just below the stem and to the side Holding the fig in the palm of one hand put your index finger of the other hand in the slit and pack the "insides" of the fig against the skin so there is room to pack in the goat cheese

Then take a clump of goat cheese and pack it into the fig Next, take a piece of Prosciutto and wrap it around the fig and secure with a wooden toothpick

Try to cover the opening in the fig, so cheese does not ooze out Grill over a low heat for about 4 minutes and then turn and grill for another four minutes The Prosciutto will shrink wrap around the fig as it cooks Cooking time will vary depending upon grill heat and your personal preference just be sure not to burn the Prosciutto but cook well Enjoy

Family favorite The darker the olive oil the better the taste and reader Linda May uses it on California white potatoes for a grilled dish that her family adores

No peeling required

Linda May, of Farmington Hills, cooks the usual fare on the family grill all summer long, she said However her new family favorite is easy and hardy

"We grill white potatoes all the time," May said "Everyone loves them and they aren't complicated to make"

LINDA MAY'S CALIFORNIA POTATOES

California white potatoes, washed and dried (2-3 medium size potatoes for two people)
2 tablespoons olive oil garlic to taste
salt and fresh pepper to taste

1 teaspoon dry rosemary
Using thin skinned unpeeled, California white potatoes slice into 1/4-inch thick slices Do not make slices paper thin Toss the potato slices with olive oil, garlic salt and fresh ground pepper Place potato slices on hot grill for about 15 minutes, turning often until done Place potato slices in a bowl and toss with dried rosemary, if desired
Serve hot

May said basic ingredients like extra virgin olive oil, garlic, salt, rosemary and pepper spice up the California white potato And they don't even require peeling, she said

Cleaning's the pits, but picking cherries is fun

BY KEELY KALESKI

kkaleski@oe.homecomm.net

Perched on a ladder, surrounded by leaves and ripe fruit, I smiled when I heard a child say, "Mom, it's a beautiful day, a perfect day for picking cherries Come down, all the good cherries are here Where are you?"

Since my bucket was nearly full, I followed the sound of laughter and found Carla Beers of Livonia, her children Kevin, 9, Nicky, 4, Larissa, 13, and cousin Rochelle Lampe

Like me, they were having a grand time picking sour cherries on a sunny July morning at Wasem Fruit Farm in Milan

Cherry pie, crisp and jam are reasons Lampe enjoys picking cherries

"And homemade sour cherry jam is a nice gift too," said the Garden City resident

Larissa likes picking cherries more than strawberries and peas because you don't have to bend over

"It's fun to do with the kids because they love to be outside," said Carla "It's great, and I like making jam"

"Hey, get back to work," my boyfriend Thomas said teasingly He's the one who got me started picking cherries, and red and black currants, which you can also pick at Wasem's We picked 16 pounds of sour cherries on Sunday, July 7, and nearly 3 pounds of black currants

On Wednesday morning we picked another 16 pounds of cherries, 5 pounds of red currants and 6 pounds of black currants

Pitting cherries is easy compared to cleaning currants But Thomas told me that we will have the most wonderful stuff to eat, absolutely delicious

Beth and her sister Jan grew up on

U-pick updates

The u-pick sour cherry and currant season is nearly over. Call the farm at (734) 482-2342 for u-pick information and driving directions. Wasem's will also offer u-pick apples in the middle of September, and pumpkins later in the fall.

During apple season they operate a farm market stocked with homemade jellies and jams, doughnuts, cider, fruits, squash, corn stalks, honey, straw and other seasonal items.

The u-pick plum crop was messed up this year because of the weird weather. Other area farmers reported problems too. Coon Creek Orchard in Arma da usually has u-pick sweet and sour cherries, but frost ruined this year's crop. They just started picking red and black raspberries. Call (586) 784-5062 for crop availability.

Erwin Orchards in South Lyon will have u-pick raspberries the first week of August. Call (248) 437-0150 or visit www.erwinorchards.com for updates.

Long Family Orchard in Commerce Township will offer u-pick sweet corn and tomatoes the last week of July. Call (248) 360-3774 for updates. Beth Wasem predicts this year's apple crop will be late - middle of September - because of the weather.

Good experience

Despite the unpredictability of farming, Beth enjoys her work, and encourages people to visit her family's farm to pick fruit because of the experience of it.

"Getting out in nature is a totally different experience than going to the supermarket," she said. "While you're out picking you notice things around you - a soybean or corn field, wild flowers."

"Picking your own fruit and vegetables puts you in touch with nature, it's a different energy. It's peaceful and quiet. You can hear birds chirping and see butterflies. The sounds are different from the city."

I agree with her that picking fruit, especially currants, can be a lot of work, but it causes you to appreciate the hard work a farmer goes through.

Thomas put some currants and cherries in the freezer, and made jam, jelly and compote. As the jars began stacking up, I thought about winter and how nice it will be to have fresh cherry jam and the memory of a perfect day for picking cherries.

CHERRY BANANA BREAD

3/4 cup sugar
1/2 stick margarine
1 1/2 cups mashed bananas
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
2 cups flour
1 cup drained pitted and cut up sour cherries
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking soda

Cream sugar and margarine. Add eggs, cherries and bananas. Mix dry ingredients together and add to first mixture.

Bake in two 9 by 4 inch greased bread pans at 350°F for 45 minutes or until toothpick comes out clean.

CHERRY COBBLER

2/3 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch

1 cup water
3 cups pitted tart cherries
Mix sugar with cornstarch and water. Cook until slightly thickened. Remove from heat and add cherries. Pour into a greased 9 by 9 inch baking pan.

Topping

1 cup flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons margarine
1/2 cup milk

Mix flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut margarine into dry ingredients and add milk. Mix well and drop by teaspoons on top of the hot fruit mixture.

Bake at 375°F for 20-25 minutes. Serve warm.

Coffee gives catfish a jolt

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's always fun to find an unexpected combination of seasonings or ingredients that give a standard item a new twist. Here, in this easily prepared main dish of grilled or broiled catfish, the surprise is coffee. The coffee flavor, along with other staple ingredients including lemon juice and onion powder, balances the sweet, mild flavor of the catfish, which absorbs subtle marinades as successfully as assertive ones.

The coffee-mixture sauce penetrates the fish to give a buttery-bitter flavor to every bite, in addition to a lightly burnished look.

Farm-raised catfish has a firm texture that stands up well to grilling, a cooking style many of us are in the mood for right now - but if you wish, the fish can be broiled in the oven, just as quickly.

1 tablespoon instant coffee powder
1/4 cup melted butter or margarine
1/4 teaspoon onion powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 pounds catfish fillets

Combine lemon juice, instant coffee, butter, onion powder and salt. Brush mixture thickly onto fillets. Broil 3 to 4 inches from the outdoor grill for 10 minutes. Turn and brush fish again with sauce. Broil 10 minutes longer or until fish flakes easily. Brush the catfish again with the coffee butter and serve.

If you prefer to broil in the oven, have the rack about 6 inches from the broiler and cook for about 4 minutes per side.

Makes 6 servings.

Bright cherry aromas are mirrored as fruit tastes in the accessible and likeable 2000 Hope Estate Merlot $14.

Don't analyze it, simply enjoy the mellow, fruity and delicious 2000 Hope Estate Shiraz $14. The best shiraz from the Hunter Valley come across more earthy and less jammy than shiraz from other regions.

They are also lower in alcohol and more elegant. This wine fits perfectly into that description.

Really delicious and a great value, it has some peppery spice notes to add complexity to the finish. Try it with grilled meats.

Easy salads get you in and out of the kitchen quickly

BY J.M. HIRSCH
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

A great summer meal is one that gets you out of the kitchen, or at least minimizes your time in it. In warm weather, the ideal meal is quick to make, simple to throw together, and relies on a short list of ingredients that either pack plenty of flavor or carry it well.

Start with quick to make. Aim for dishes that take less than 30 minutes, thereby improving the chances you'll make them after work as well as on weekends. Pasta salad is a good example.

While the pasta boils (8 to 10 minutes), prepare a variety of diced vegetables, such as crisp red bell peppers, celery, carrots and cherry tomatoes. When the pasta is done, drain it but don't rinse it. Return it to the pot and add frozen corn kernels and peas (roughly 1/3 the volume of pasta). Toss, cover and let sit for 5 minutes.

After 5 minutes, the pasta will be about room temperature and the peas and corn thawed. Add remaining vegetables and your favorite salad dressing to taste.

Simple to throw together means more than easy assembly. It also reduces cleanup time, and can sometimes allow you the freedom to take the meal out, to assemble on the road.

For an easy picnic, fill plastic containers with a variety of sandwich fixings, such as tomato and avocado slices, shredded lettuce, cheese (soy or dairy), and slices of marinated, baked tofu. Add a jar of roasted red peppers, a squeeze bottle of Dijon mustard and a loaf of bread and you have an easy outdoor meal.

Top with parsley and serve immediately or when cool.

Makes 4 servings

Another simple summer dish that packs plenty of flavor is this cauliflower green bean salad with arame from Deborah Friedson Chud's The Gourmet Prescription for Low Carb Cooking (Bay Books, 1999, $19.95).

Arame is a flavorful sea vegetable (veg-speak for seaweed, but don't be scared) that imparts a rich, savory taste to this dish. Try it lightly stir-fried in sesame oil and tossed with pasta, too. Arame is available at most natural food stores.

CAULIFLOWER-GREEN BEAN SALAD WITH ARAME

- (Preparation 25 minutes)
- 1 cup dried arame (about 1 ounce)
 - 3 tablespoons umé (plum) vinegar or red wine vinegar
 - 4 1/2 cups cooked cauliflower cut into bite-sized pieces and chilled
 - 2 1/2 cups cooked green beans chilled
 - Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste
 - 2 teaspoons toasted sesame seed oil
 - 1 teaspoon spicy sesame oil
 - 1 large garlic clove minced
 - 1 tablespoon tahini (sesame seed paste)
 - 1 tablespoon water
 - 2 tablespoons minced scallions whites only

Place the arame in a small bowl and cover with warm water. Allow the arame to soak for 10 minutes. When tender, drain and rinse in a mesh strainer, then transfer to saucepan.

Add enough water to the pan to cover the arame. Add 1 tablespoon of the vinegar and simmer over a medium flame for 15 minutes. Add more water as needed to prevent drying. Drain and cool to room temperature.

To make the dressing, heat both sesame oils in a small skillet over a medium flame. Add the garlic and sauté 1 minute. Remove from the heat and stir in remaining vinegar. Cool to room temperature.

Combine the oil mixture, tahini and water in a blender and process until smooth. Stir in the scallions.

In a large bowl combine the cauliflower, green beans and arame. Add the dressing and toss well to coat. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Get a healthy boost with berries

BY CLIFFORD PUGH
FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Finally, there's something good for you that tastes good. Pass the berries, please.

Recent research suggests that strawberries, raspberries and blueberries may help prevent cancer, heart disease, diabetes related circulation problems and other diseases.

Of course, that's without the mound of whipped cream on top.

For a long time, nutritionists have recognized berries as a valuable source of vitamin C. Ten medium strawberries provide more than 100 percent of the daily requirement of vitamin C.

Now scientists are joining in the praise because berries are rich in antioxidants that vacuum up cell-damaging free radicals.

Berries held the top three slots in a Tufts University study measuring antioxidant levels of 50 fresh fruits and vegetables, according to a report in Newsweek magazine. The berries get much of their antioxidant strength from anthocyanin pigments that give the red, purple or blue tint.

Another Tufts study indicates that blueberries help fight age-related memory loss. A Clemson University study indicates that strawberries and raspberries can block two kinds of carcinogens that might lead to cancer.

No one has figured out yet how many berries are needed each day for such health benefits. The National Cancer Institute urges Americans to eat five to nine servings of fruits and vegetables from five color groups — orange, red, green, white and blue purple — a day.

The good news is that it's easier to get finicky eaters to sample berries than to try broccoli. One survey by a trade group found that fresh strawberries were consumed in nearly 94 percent of households.

One easy way to add berries to your diet is to sprinkle some on a bowl of cereal in the morning. A low fat and surprisingly tasty way to enjoy a bowl of strawberries is to drizzle a couple of tablespoons of good-quality balsamic vinegar over them.

In the Frugal Gourmet Whole Family Cookbook, Jeff Smith writes that "what (balsamic vinegar) does for a ripe strawberry can only be tasted, not described. I dare you to try this one on your household."

Another suggestion from Smith, in The Frugal Gourmet Cooks Three Ancient Cuisines, is to mix fresh strawberries with yogurt and drizzle with honey.

From a health standpoint, honey is better than sugar because it takes longer to digest, so it requires your pancreas to produce less insulin and prevents diabetes, according to Men's Health magazine.

Toss up a quick, easy pasta salad

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A one-dish preparation is ideal as the center of a summer meal, and pasta is a great base on which to create delightful — and delightfully streamlined — combinations.

The following seafood pasta can be assembled in little more than the time it takes to cook the pasta, about 20 minutes in all, and is served warm. The confetti pasta salad uses cooked and cooled pasta. Serve either for a light lunch with crusty bread and fruit, as part of a party buffet, or to go with cookout fare.

Both recipes use Jarlsberg, mild Norwegian cheese, similar in texture to Swiss cheese.

HERBED SEAFOOD PASTA

- (Preparation about 20 minutes)
- 2 tablespoons minced dill
 - 2 tablespoons minced parsley
 - 2 tablespoons minced chives
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons dry mustard
 - 1/4 cup extra virgin olive oil
 - 1/2 pound tricolor rotini or spiral pasta
 - 1 head fennel sliced into thin strips
 - 2 stalks celery chopped
 - 2 carrots peeled and chopped
 - 1 pound crabmeat or surimi cut in small chunks
 - 2 cups shredded Jarlsberg cheese

To make dressing, in a large bowl, mix dill, parsley, chives, mustard and oil. Cook pasta in boiling water according to package instructions, 3 minutes before cooked to al dente stage. Add fennel, celery and carrots. Drain, transfer pasta mixture to the bowl with the dressing, add crabmeat and toss again. Shred cheese and toss again. Serve immediately or re-warm in microwave, loosely covered. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

- 2 rounded tablespoons country style mustard
- 1/3 cup chopped sundried tomatoes
- 3 cups cooked tricolor pasta cooled
- 1 1/2 cups shredded Jarlsberg regular or the lighter version
- 1 1/2 cups celery root julienne cut (matchstick style)
- 1 1/2 cups chopped green or yellow bell pepper

CONFETTI PASTA SALAD

- (Preparation about 30 minutes)
- 6 1/2 ounce jar marinated artichoke hearts undrained
 - 1/2 cup red wine vinegar

In a large salad bowl, mix together artichoke hearts, vinegar, mustard and tomatoes. Add pasta, cheese and pepper, toss well and serve at room temperature. Makes 6 to 8 servings. (Recipes from Jarlsberg cheese)

SAUTEED ROSEMARY POTATOES WITH CHERRY TOMATOES AND BLACK OLIVES

- (Preparation 35 minutes)
- 8 medium red skinned potatoes
 - 2 to 3 tablespoons olive oil
 - 2 to 3 tablespoons chopped fresh rosemary
 - 4 large cloves garlic peeled
 - Pinch of salt
 - Peperoncino or freshly ground black pepper
 - 12 cherry tomatoes
 - 12 black olives
 - Fresh parsley chopped

Peel the potatoes and cut into 1/2 inch chunks. Parboil them for 10 minutes, then drain and blot to absorb excess moisture.

Heat the olive oil in a medium skillet over a medium flame. Add the potatoes, rosemary, garlic, salt and "a lot of peperoncino or black pepper, as much as you can take."

Toss the potatoes in the pan to coat with oil and herbs, then cook for 10 to 15 minutes or crisp and brown. Stir occasionally to prevent from sticking.

During the last few minutes of browning, add the tomatoes and olives and mix gently. Remove from the heat when tomato skins begin to wrinkle or brown.

SHREDDED PORK WRAPS WITH LEMON COLESLAW

- (Active time 1 1/2 hours start to finish 3 1/2 hours)
- 1 medium onion chopped
 - 1 garlic clove minced
 - 1 tablespoon olive oil
 - 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
 - 1/4 cup ketchup
 - 2 tablespoons ketchup style chili sauce
 - 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
 - 1 teaspoon Tabasco
 - 3/4 cup water
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
 - One 12 ounce pork tenderloin halved crosswise

Two 10 by 9 inch sheets Middle Eastern style soft flatbread such as lavash, halved crosswise, or four 8 to 9 inch flour tortillas.

Lemon coleslaw (recipe follows).

Cook onion and garlic in oil in a 3- to 4 quart heavy pot over moderate heat, stirring, until golden, about 8 minutes. Stir in remaining ingredients except pork, lavash and coleslaw, and simmer, covered 10 minutes. Add pork and simmer, covered turning occasionally until tender about 45 minutes.

Transfer pork with tongs to a cutting board. Puree cooking liquid in a blender until smooth (use caution when blending hot liquids) and return to pot. When pork is cool enough to handle, shred lengthwise with your fingers or 2 forks and add to sauce. Simmer stirring just until pork is heated through.

Divide shredded pork among pieces of lavash and top with some coleslaw. Then wrap lavash around to form a cone. Makes 4 servings.

LEMON COLESLAW

- (Active time 40 minutes start to finish 1 1/2 hours)
- 2 tablespoons low fat sour cream
 - 2 teaspoons low fat mayonnaise
 - 1/2 teaspoon finely grated fresh lemon zest
 - 4 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
 - 1 teaspoon sugar
 - 3 tablespoons water
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1/8 teaspoon black pepper
 - 1 pound green cabbage thinly sliced (4 cups)
 - 2 carrots cut into julienned strips or coarsely grated
 - 1 bunch scallions thinly sliced diagonally (1 cup)
 - 1/2 cup chopped fresh flat leaf parsley

Whisk together sour cream, mayonnaise, zest, lemon juice, sugar, water, salt and pepper in a large bowl until sugar is dissolved. Add cabbage, carrots, scallions and parsley, and toss well. Chill covered 1 hour to allow flavors to develop. Season with salt and pepper. Makes 4 servings.

CONCERT OF COLORS

Annual festival offers music from Ray Charles to steel drums

Performing: Ray Charles is the superstar at Concert of Colors

BY LANA MINI
STAFF WRITER
lmini@oe.homecomm.net

Ian Ferguson remembers his homeland Jamaica whenever he plays the steel drums with his band mates from the Uprizin' Steel Pan Band

Ferguson's mind drifts back the tropical island where he played barefoot in the fresh air whenever the band performs Calypso, Reggae, Jamaican Rap and even classic operatic pieces

The Southfield man loves Jamaica, steel drums, singing and performing with Uprizin'. Its music makes him happy. The band is playing July 19-21 at the 10th annual free Concert of Colors at Detroit's Chene Park. All sorts of world music from Arabic to Indian to R&B's Ray Charles can be heard there. Uprizin' embraces the festival.

"Our music encompasses all cultures. Everyone is really welcome to come together and have a good time," Ferguson said.

Arguably the hottest steel drum band in metro-Detroit, Uprizin' performs throughout metro-Detroit and the Concert of Colors is one of the highlights. It will play on the Rhythm Stage at 4:30 p.m. on Sunday.

The festival theme is to bring communities together through free music and cultural understanding — a philosophy that Uprizin' believes in. The friendly on-stage personalities of each band member seem to relax crowds and draw people to the dance floor. Ferguson proudly talks about his band members from throughout the world and their upcoming CD this summer.

Uprizin's musical director, leader, tenor and double tenor is Lyndon Sorzano who is from Trinidad and currently resides in Detroit. Sharon Gorden, also from Trinidad is the formally trained pianist who plays bass piano in the band. Detroit

Songwriter: Buffy Sainte-Marie, who wrote the Academy Award winning song "Up Where We Belong" from the movie Officer and a Gentleman will also perform

Concert of Colors Schedule

The Concert of Colors celebrates its 10 year anniversary this year of bringing communities and ethnic groups together through music and understanding. This year's festival is Friday July 19 through Sunday July 21 at Detroit's Chene Park on the river. The event is free.

The following is the schedule, subject to change.

Mainstage

Friday July 19

■ Buffy Sainte-Marie, 6-7 p.m.
From Canada, U.S. and Cree. Academy award winning songwriter and Sesame Street musician. She also works with Native American cultural program Cradleboard Teaching Project to raise the self-esteem of children living on reservations. Her music has been recorded by Elvis, Barbara Streisand and more.

■ Ozomoti, 7:30-8:30 p.m.
U.S. This band grew up hard on the tough neighborhoods of L.A., climbed its way through it and today has a Black-Chicano-Cuban-Jewish-Filipino crew committed to social change and community building. Their music is Afro-Latin occasionally mixed with dub, hip-hop and more.

■ Femi Kuti, 9-10:15 p.m.
From Nigeria. He performs Afro-beat music inspired by his famous father Fela Anikulapo Kuti. Femi will perform his 18-piece band known for funky, jazzy, heavily percussive sounds.

Saturday, July 20

■ Soul Rhythms & Special Guests, 2-3 p.m.

■ Susie Ibarra, 3:30-4:40
Philippines. Avant-garde drumming style blending a love of jazz, teenage interest in punk rock, traditional Philippine music and tablas

■ Hugh Masekela, 5-6 p.m.
Jazz trumpet. Afropop, R&B and disco. Also a pianist and singer. His music merges jazz, rock, funk and pop. Masekela was part of Paul Simon's Graceland tour.

■ TBA, 6:30-7:30 p.m.

■ Carl Craig & Kevin Saunderson, 8-10 p.m.
U.S., Detroit, New York, D.J. Musician. Saunderson is an originator of Detroit techno. Craig is globally respected for breaking musical barriers and selected by Rolling Stone as one of the Top 40 Influential Musicians of 2001. He was a creator of the DEMF — Detroit Electronic Music Fest.

Sunday, July 21

■ Amadou et Mariam, 2-3 p.m.
Mali. Amadou Bagayoko went blind at 15, he turned to music as an escape. Today he's married to Mariam Doumbia who went blind at the young age of 5. Together they perform '70s pop, electric blues, Cuban rhythm, reggae and have become a popular Ivory Coast duet. He on guitar, she on lead vocals.

■ Yerba Buena, 3:30-4:30 p.m.
Cuba, Venezuela, U.S. Afro-Cuban, hip-hop funk, Latin alternative with a firm Cuban foundation. A big 12-piece rhythm band including horns and percussion. Some compare them to War, or the Fugees.

Please see SCHEDULE, B7

Ready to play: Uprizin' is a steel drum band with members from Southfield, Detroit and Trinidad. They'll play Calypso, Reggae, Jamaican rap and more at the Concert of Colors next week at Detroit's Chene Park.

BOOKS

'Flashes and Lies' characters more like caricatures

BY VICTORIA DIAZ
SPECIAL WRITER

Flashes and Lies, by Claire Vedensky Korn (Creative Arts Book Company, $14.95 — paperback)

BOOK BEAT

VICTORIA DIAZ

Well, that's not exactly true. One day, she fits a little and, as so often happens in life, one thing leads to another

An odd thought struck me while reading this book. It has about it the flavor of a rather off beat, entertaining comic book. But, as a novel, it seems a little thin and underdeveloped at times.

In a sense, it's an adventure story, and the adventure begins when Teddie Olds foils the robbery of a Detroit bank one winter's day.

She does this by lunging at the would-be thief as he runs past, dropping "her whole self, full length, face down, onto (his) back."

This does the trick effectively, since Teddie is both (a) determined and (b) a plus-size ful, often seem more like caricature than characters alive on the page.

First, there's Teddie herself. Think of her as overweight and mousy in appearance (but nevertheless attractive to a collection of men), someone who "remembered every single moment of her life" (save one). This last is rather astonishing, to say the least, and doesn't do much toward making the leading lady a credible entity in the story.

Then, there's Teddie's mother, Thea, a famous and talented photographer who remains a dazzling femme fatale despite her advancing age. Sometimes madcap and appealing, sometimes monstrously imperious and cold — especially toward her daughters — we're never quite sure how we're supposed to view her or to feel about her. Perhaps even more bothersome. So extreme is her behavior that we never quite find her convincing, either.

Many readers may find the remainder of the players less than believable and rather two-dimensional as well. Teddie's cheating husband, Howie, is so helpless in the kitchen that he can't even order take-out without assistance from her (by the end of the book, though, he's progressed to a basic knowledge of the procedure). Her sister, Aurora, is a rather blurry amalgam of whimsy and high fashion sense.

One of Thea's lovers, Georgio, is an aging Greek god type, straight out of central casting, with his mellow voice and his

Teddie's son, Zach, is a sensitive schoolteacher who loves a dying AIDS patient. Her young daughter, Jesse, wears a nose ring and lives in an apartment that ought to be written up by the local health department, but she's a good sort, and provides a strong shoulder for her rather damp and dithery mom to cry on.

Though the story itself may seem a little hodgepodge and piecemeal, readers will discern a subtle theme or thread that runs throughout and, ultimately, ties everything together, however. This story of a woman going through "the change" is a story of a metamorphosis, of a woman making discoveries about herself, her past, and those around her. Sometimes the voyage is bumpy, sometimes it's awash in tears and knee-deep in sentiment, sometimes it seems to drift a little off-course, or to be following a map of never-never land.

But, ultimately, when Teddie finds herself at the equator and looking forward to a real "sea change," we realize that we wish her well, and even hope we might accompany her on another adventure — this time to the volcanic Galapagos Islands where the court reporter will join a university group to explore "the adaptations of the flora and fauna," and check out those leathery old turtles.

Jaws author helps make day at the beach go swimmingly

BY RON BERTHEL
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

Those beachgoers scared out of their wits and out of the water by Peter Benchley's 1974 shark-attack thriller Jaws might finally be able to go back in for a dip.

In Shark Trouble (Random House), Benchley's first nonfiction book, he offers advice on how to swim safely in the ocean and reduce the chance of a shark attack.

Benchley combines tales from his personal experience with practical tips about safe swimming and information about the many types of sharks, which sharks threaten humans, the odds of being attacked and how to survive.

Shark Trouble is among the latest hardcover books, which include fiction by Danielle Steel, Jude Deveraux and Richard Russo, and nonfiction by Daniel Pearl, Martin Amis and Peter Gay.

In Steel's 55th novel Sunset in St. Tropez (Delacorte) three New York couples go ahead with their vacation plans in the South of France after one of the women unexpectedly dies. But surprise! The luxurious St. Tropez villa described in the travel brochure turns out to be a mess, complete with cobwebs and an eccentric housekeeper, and the new widow finds grief relief in a much-younger film actress.

Another unexpected death and another ramshackle shack appear in Deveraux's The Mulberry Tree (Atria). When billionaire James Manville dies in a plane crash, he inexplicably leaves his fortune to siblings he has long despised. Lillian, his shy, devoted and unassuming widow, inherits only a dilapidated farmhouse in Virginia. Life on the farm becomes more exciting when Lillian learns about a scandal from James' childhood involving a group called The

Golden Six

The Whore's Child (Knopf) is the first volume of short stories by Russo, whose novel Empire Falls won a 2002 Pulitzer Prize. Among the seven stories is the title tale, in which a college writing workshop is interrupted by an elderly nun's incredible story about being the abandoned child of a prostitute. In Joy Ride, an adolescent describes "escaping" with his mother on a cross-country drive.

And The Mysteries of Linwood Hart is a novella about a curious boy whose interest in playing baseball builds while his parents' marriage crumbles.

Evan Hunter, author of 70 plus novels — including about 50 as Ed McBain — adds another to his list with The Moment She Was Gone (Simon & Schuster). When Annie disappears for the umpteenth time, her twin brother, their mother and other family members meet to discuss what to do.

As they review Annie's long history of eccentric behavior, paranoia and brushes with danger, each family member begins to accept the reality of Annie's mental illness and blame for having ignored it so long.

One might say Barbara Delinsky's An Accidental Woman (Simon & Schuster) is a "sappy" novel since it's set during maple syrup harvesting season in Lake Henry, N.H. Main players include Heather, a respected longtime resident who is arrested by the FBI, Poppy, her best friend, a paraplegic who dreams of marriage and family, and Grif, a visiting writer interested in Heather's story and in Poppy's charms.

At Home in the World (Wall Street Journal-Simon & Schuster) is a collection of 50 articles by Pearl, The Wall Street Journal reporter who was kidnapped and murdered this year by

Islamic extremists in Pakistan. Datelines range from Beirut to Bombay, London and Los Angeles. Topics include child beauty pageants in the South, the Taliban's lucrative business of smuggling TV sets and other consumer goods, the creation of the world's largest Persian rug, and rock 'n' roll, Iran-style.

Amis blends history and memoir in Koba the Dread, Laughter and the Twenty Million (Talk Miramax). The history covers Russian rule from 1917-1953, under Lenin and Stalin. Amis scrutinizes their motives and actions, and examines the suffering they caused millions. Meanwhile, he reminisces about his father, poet and author Kingsley Amis, who had been a staunch communist before becoming an equally rabid anti-communist by the time Martin was in college.

Is realist fiction realistic? Not always, claims Gay in Savage Reprisals (Norton). He focuses on three masterpieces of literary realism — Bleak House (1853) by Charles Dickens.

Madame Bovary (1857) by Gustav Flaubert and Buddenbrooks (1901) by Thomas Mann — to show how fiction is not always a reliable mirror of the political and social climate of its era because novelists have some times manipulated facts for cultural, literary or personal reasons.

Other fiction

Isolde Queen of the Western Isle (Crown) by Rosalind Miles is the first in a planned series about lovers Tristan and Isolde, the princess and knight of Celtic legend, and in modern-day Ireland, a middle-aged Dubliner trapped in a dull marriage finds a lover and becomes the archivist of the works of a famous filmmaker in A Wild People (St. Martin's) by Hugh Leonard.

The Trolley (The New Press) is Nobel Prize-winner Claude Simon's novella about an old man recalling his childhood and trips to school on the trolley. A different sort of journey Lewis and Clark's exploration of the American West, is the subject of Eclipse (Forge) by Richard S. Wheeler.

Tales of Southern California are told in Pasadena (Random House), David Ebershoff's saga of the life and loves of a woman during the first half of the 20th century and in Wayfaring in Waverly in Silver Lake (Knopf). James McCourt's seven short stories featuring an aging but still employed, Hollywood film star. Also for short story fans

The Hermit's Story (Houghton Mifflin) by Rick Bass has 10 stories including the title tale about a couple who walk on the floor of a lake frozen over with ice.

Green Calder Grass (Kensington), Janet Dailey's latest Calder family installment, features the disruptive return of the former wife of Ty Calder, who has remarried. Inflating a Dog (Picador USA) is Eric Kraft's comic tale about a bored 1950s housewife who dreams of owning and operating a tour boat.

Other nonfiction

Tragic tales are told in Sailors to the End (Morrow) by Gregory A. Freeman about the 1967 fire that killed 134 men aboard the carrier USS Forrester, and in A World Turned Over (Simon & Schuster), Lorian Hemingway's chronicle of a 1966 tornado that killed 14 and demolished a shopping center in her hometown of Jackson, Miss.

Inventions change the world in A Thread Across the Ocean (Walker) John Steele Gordon's telling of the laying of the first trans Atlantic cable in 1866 and in Barbed Wire (The New Press) Oliver Razac's analysis of the stuff's important contributions since an Illinois farmer invented it in 1874.

In American Road (Henry

Holt), Pete Davies chronicles a 62-day coast-to-coast excursion by a caravan of military vehicles in 1919 to emphasize the need for good roads. Another kind of trip is on tap in Cocaine (St. Martin's), Dominic Streetfield's unauthorized biography of the drug, since its discovery by European explorers in the New World 500 years ago.

Life stories in The Summer of My Greek Taverna (Simon & Schuster), American Tom Stone recalls living in Greece, including a stint as chef at a seaside taverna on the island of Patmos, in Bronx Boy (St. Martin's), novelist Jerome Charyn offers the third and final volume in his memoir trilogy, and in Trains of Thought (Norton) Victor Brombert, Princeton University literature professor, relates tales of his 1930s Paris childhood, escape to America, and his return to Paris as a US soldier to celebrate its liberation.

Slander (Crown) is the subject as Ann Coulter continues her attack on liberal politics. And Joseph Epstein documents debutante balls, prep schools, the Social Register, designer food and fashion, and other uppity entities in Snobbery (The American Version) (Houghton Mifflin).

Improve your camera work by 'reading' other photographs

Did you know that one of the best ways to improve your photography is by closely looking at the photographs of others?

Whether it's browsing through a gallery or leisurely thumbing through a good photography book, many benefits can be yours by a good hard, critical look and analysis of the photographs. It doesn't matter if you prefer landscapes, street scenes, abstracts, people pictures color or black and white. The important thing is to start looking at pictures and to begin to understand not only what the photographer is trying to communicate but, more importantly, how he or she is doing it and what the picture is doing to you.

By tuning into your own emotions and asking yourself some important questions as you "read" a photograph, you'll gain insight and technical skills that will certainly help you in making your own photographs.

Begin by asking what the subject or main theme of the photograph is. Does it move you and how do you respond to it? How do you suppose the photographer felt about it?

Study the lighting. Is it harsh or soft? What direction is it coming from and what time of day do you think it was? Ask yourself what might happen to the picture if the lighting were different.

What camera position was used — near or far, low angle or high? Why do you think the photographer used a particular camera position and what does it do for the picture? How might another camera location affect the photograph?

What lens do you think was

used and why? Was it a wide angle, normal or perhaps a telephoto?

As you know, a lens' focal length and aperture greatly affect depth of field. Is there a lot of depth of field or little in the picture? How would a change in depth of field alter the final image?

What about shutter speed — slow or fast? Is the subject blurred in motion or caught at the peak of the action? Look for use of filters or any other special effects, too.

Of course, you should study the composition carefully. How are the elements of the picture arranged and does it all make sense to you?

Is the photograph telling a story? If so, tune into your feelings of it. Try to interpret what the photographer is trying to say and what your responses are.

TRAVEL

Love jazz? Head to Traverse City area for music festival

SPECIAL WRITER

Traverse City and her sister communities are hosting a musical extravaganza and you're invited!

Beginning Thursday, July 25 through Tuesday, July 30, the region will feature performances by national, regional and local jazz musicians at the first Traverse JAZZ Festival.

"We built the festival around the tenth anniversary of the Suttons Bay Jazzfest," said Jeff Haas, a spokesperson for the Traverse City Convention & Visitors Bureau and the Traverse JAZZ Festival Haas, a former Oakland County resident, is also a jazz musician and will perform at the celebration.

The Ramsey Lewis Trio, Dave Brubeck Quartet, Alexander Zonjic and a potpourri of other artists will delight audiences at the six-day fest.

"It is an incredible opportunity for this community to book Ramsey Lewis," Haas said. He described Lewis as a wonderful, high-quality musician and very accessible.

Bring the kids, as many of the events are family-friendly. Some performances require admission, others are free.

Here's the scoop on who's playing where and when during the fest:

Music amid sculpture: Marvin Kahn will play with the Keith Vreeland Trio at Michigan Legacy Art Park Friday, July 26. The amphitheater is on the grounds of Crystal Mountain Resort in Thompsonville.

Get away to Sedona, Arizona

It's hot in Sedona, Arizona during August, but beautiful in March. It's not too early to begin planning a winter getaway, and Sedona might just be the ticket you've been looking for.

Sedona is a two-hour drive north of Phoenix. It offers hiking, biking, golf, four-wheel-drive and Jeep tours, hot-air balloon rides, scenic drives.

Sedona is an artist's colony with 40 galleries, many featuring Western works that can run well into five figures.

Tlaquepaque (pronounced "T-laca-pocky") is an upscale arts and crafts center filled with boutiques, galleries and restaurants.

Many longtime residents have yet to feel the natural energy that some believe emanates from vortexes located deep beneath the red rocks.

But others insist they can sense its healing power. Regardless, a flourishing industry has sprung up around the mystical in Sedona, from commercial backcountry tours of the vortexes to shops hawking crystals and psychic consultations.

Fact or fiction? Judge for yourself. The chamber of commerce provides free maps of the vortexes. Sedona experiences the four seasons in mild to moderate fashion. August is the hottest month, with an average high of 95 degrees, March highs average 63. Nights are often cool, and snow is infrequent.

Call or write the Sedona-Oak Creek Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 478, Sedona, Ariz 86339. Phone (800) 288-7336.

The Canton Community Junior Baseball and Softball Association all star games, played June 22 at McClumpha Park, both provided something the Major League game could not — a winner

In the BB League (10-and-under boys) game, the American League topped the National League, 7-2. The American Leaguers were coached by Jim Keppen and Alan Thompson, the National League was coached by Ralph Lardi and Nelson Mann

Stars from the BB League were Cody Adams and Angelo Lardi, Athletics, Joey Galantry and Jacob Tropano, Braves, Kody Laho and Justin Morrison, Cardinals, Damon Willett and John Stallings, Mariners, Blake Hayes and Mark Mann, Marlins, Eric Lorber and Zachary Conrad, Pirates, Sam Waxer and Spencer Hicks, Yankees, Charlie Barylski and Michael Nadratowski, Orioles, Jake Burnstein and Shane Anderson, Indians, Kyle Korte and Ryan Barrera, Blue Jays, Andrew Yoder and Drew Thompson, Red Sox, Connor Kennedy and Zachary Carroll, Diamondbacks, Eric Lee and Tyler Grosh, Tigers, and Jamie Emminger and David Brouillette, Cubs

In the nightcap of the all star doubleheader, the AA League winner was Division 1 by a 13-10 margin over Division 2. Division 1 was coached by John Nadratowski, Mike Distel, Chris Gearns and Rick Tom Benson, Division 2 was coached by Larry Butterfield, Bob Geracz, Mike Brennan and Todd Williams

Division 1 all-stars were Dan Nadratowski, Jake Hager, Imran Sheriff and Jen Shaw, Tigers, Brad Smith, Brendan Murray, Corey Brown and Jeremy Epley, Blue Jays, Casey McKnight, Jack Distel, David Harvey and Dan Boileau, Braves and Justin Batter, Kohei Endo, Clark Albers and Pete Staniak, Rangers

Division 2 all stars were Ryan Williams, Stephen Ostrowski, Mike Flis and Chris Fry, Cardinals, Dan Butterfield, Riche Rich, Matt Barylski and Chris Roy, Red Sox, Steven Else, Mitchel Geracz, Kevin Bachart and Andrew Johnson, Diamondbacks and Shingo Tani, Andrew Justus, Chris Jahoda and Scott Wisniewski, Reds

Alleycats win title

The Alleycats emerged unbeaten and as champions in the girls under-eight division during the spring season of the Canton Soccer Club

The Alleycats finished 7-0-1, outscoring their opponents 26-6

Team members are Melanie Baker, Erica Bingham, Stevie Brown, Christina Ceci, Rhianna Fleisher, Nicole Ineich, Kara Kitze, Kristin Klavon, Melissa Kulczycki, Megan McCormack, Megan Peplinski, Tricia Pniewski, Stephanie Sheridan and Haley Wright. The effort was there, but the results did not necessarily reflect it for many of the Observerland golfers competing on the assorted tours

At the Meijer Junior Players Tour stop at Tree Tops Resort in Gaylord Monday, the best Observerland finisher in the boys 15-and-over division was Matt Norscia of Livonia, who shot an 81 on the 6,313-yard, par-72 course to finish ninth

Next best was Matt Kruczynski of Westland, whose 87 placed him 27th in a field of 65. Bryce Tomas of Livonia was 35th with an 89

In the girls 15-and-over division, Liz

GOLF

Lulek of Canton was ninth with a 104 on the 5,533 yard, par-72 course. Danielle Bickle of Canton was 11th with a 109 and Colleen Forte of Farmington Hills was 12th with a 141

In the boys 13-14 division, Brian King of Livonia shot an 80 to finish eighth on a par-72 course measuring 5,820 yards. Adam Dubois of Farmington Hills was 11th with an 82, Tom Lucko of Livonia was 16th with an 85 and Matt Malloure of Farmington Hills was 19th with an 86

In the boys 10-12 division, Austin Stillman of Livonia shot 100 to finish 12th on the par-72, 5,368-yard course. Ross Gerulis of Canton shot 102, finishing 13th, and Matthew Charnley of Livonia shot 124 and took 18th

At the two-day Power-Bilt Junior Tour event at Shanty Creek Resort in Bellare Monday and Tuesday, Phillip Marsh of Canton was the best Observerland finisher in the 16-and-over division with a 77-85/162 on the 6,625-yard, par-72 course. Lee Bibicoff of Farmington Hills shot a 90-87/177

On Wednesday in the Midwest Colle gate Amateur Series at Warren Golf Course at Notre Dame University in South Bend, Ind., Lindsey Densmore of Farmington Hills shot 90-86/176 on the 6,054 yard, par-71 course to place 16th in the women's division

In the men's division, Nikos Markellos of Redford shot 75-77/152 on the 6,744-yard, par-71 course to finish 13th

And at the Meijer Junior Players Tour event Wednesday at the L.E. Kaufman in Wyoming, Ross Gerulis of Canton finished seventh in the boys 10-12 division with a 98 on a par-72 course measuring 5,149 yards

Lakers end Warriors' streak

Unbeaten no more

The Lakers saw to that, ending the Warriors' seven-game unbeaten streak by scoring the game's first four goals en route to a 9-4 Metro Summer Hockey League victory Thursday at the Farmington Training Center

MSHL HOCKEY

The win pushed the Lakers' record to 5-2-1 (11 points). The first-place Warriors slipped to 7-1-0 (14 points)

The Lakers were paced by Bryan Marshall (Livonia) with three goals and assist. John Vigilante contributed a goal and three assists. Nicholas Jardine and Mike Vigilante each scored two goals. Sean Smith (Livonia) had a goal and two assists and Joe Pomaran ski (Plymouth) totaled three assists

The Warriors were led by Dave Moss (Livonia) with two goals and an assist. Brandon Kalemiecki (Livonia) and Joe Hillebrand each had a goal and an assist

The Lakers built an 8-1 lead with less than four minutes left in the second period. Goaltending by Lanny Jardine and Brian Whetstone (Plymouth) made certain they maintained their advantage. Chris Elliot was in goal for the Warriors

Spartans 9, Bulldogs 8 The Spartans trailed by two late in the second period but battled back with four consecutive goals to best the Bulldogs Thursday at the FTC

The win improved the Spartans' record to 6-2-1 (13 points), elevating them into second place by themselves. The Bulldogs slipped to 2-5-1 (five points)

Keith Townsend scored four goals for the Spartans, two of them coming in their four goal surge. Alex Foster (Canton) had two goals and an assist. Nick Smyth chipped in with a goal and three assists. Brian Sommariva scored twice, and both Mike Crowley (Canton) and Derek Schlonsky got two assists

The Dogs were led by Mark Nagel (Canton) and Ian Smith with two goals and an assist apiece. Chris Conner (Westland) had a goal and two assists. Todd Kesler (Livonia) had two assists and David Gill (Canton). Rick Merlo and Steve Jacobs (Plymouth) each scored goals

All fun and games at Redford Jr. Olympics

BY CHRISTINE BRODA

While four-year-olds lobbed softballs on the football field and 10-year-olds long-jumped in the sand pit, two solitary figures could be seen bolting up and down a stretch of Hilbert Middle School's Track

"We're just practicing," said Jacob White, a 6-year-old Redford resident

"Practicing for what?"

"For the running," answered 7-year-old Kyle Ray, also of Redford

The two friends were getting in a few last training runs in preparation for the racing portion of Redford Township's 44th annual Junior Olympics. Wednesday's event attracted more than 150 kids ages 12 and younger from Redford and surrounding communities such as Livonia, Canton, Northville, Taylor and Detroit

Aspiring athletes like White and Ray competed in track events ranging from high jump, long jump and softball throw to a variety of running events

And although the day was full of athletic fun for all ages, not every activity in which kids participated was associated with a real Olympic sport. In fact, White and Ray managed to become involved with an intense game of "duck-duck-geese" before they took to the track for warm-ups. "But that wasn't an event," Ray explained

White, meanwhile, ticked off on his fingers the real events in which he competed

"The softball throw, the sand pit thingie"

"Long jump," Ray said, supplying the name his friend was searching for

"Yeah, long jump," White agreed, before expounding upon how he and Ray have been friends from the first day of first grade

"He's coming over today," he added

New fishing regs on tap for Johnson Creek

Trout anglers fishing the waters of Johnson Creek will see some regulation changes in the not too distant future

Gov. John Engler recently signed Public Act 434, which allows the Department of Natural Resources to implement quality regulations for trout fishing on 112 additional miles of Michigan trout streams. Twelve miles of that designation is set specifically for Johnson Creek. Currently, 100 miles of Michigan's 38,000 miles of rivers and streams are designated as "quality" trout fishing waters. A tributary of the Rouge River, Johnson Creek, or the Johnson Draw as the locals refer to it, originates in northeastern Washtenaw County and flows northeasterly through the northwest corner of Wayne County and into the town of Northville. It is one of just four trout streams in southeastern Michigan - the others being Paint Creek near Lake Orion, Kearsley Creek near Ortonville, and the Huron River in southern Wayne and northern Monroe counties.

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

The trout population in Johnson Creek is made up mostly of planted fish. The DNR stocks the stream with approximately 4,500 brown trout each spring. There is limited survival from one year to the next, but not enough to support a fishery. The annual supplemental planting allows Johnson Creek to provide metro-Detroit anglers with a decent trout fishery close to home.

Designation as a "quality trout stream" by the DNR allows the agency to set any of a number of special fishing regulations on that water. Quality regulations listed in the state's Inland Trout & Salmon Guide include reduced creek limits, no-kill zones, artificial lures only areas, flies-only areas and extended seasons including fishing year-around.

The new designation does not mean Johnson Creek will automatically become a flies-only, no-kill stream, although it could. Current regs on Johnson Creek are 8-inch minimum size limit for brookies and brown trout and a 10-inch minimum for rainbows, a daily possession limit of five fish but no more than three can be 15 inches or longer, all tackle is legal including live bait, the season runs from the last Saturday in April through Sept. 30.

The DNR will develop criteria for determining which regulations they wish to impose on Johnson Creek and other state trout streams. That criteria will be reviewed by a cold-water fishing steering committee before being presented to the Natural Resource Commission for implementation. New regulations could be in effect for next year, but more likely for 2004.

The state feels that since Johnson Creek is located in the middle of Michigan's most populated region, implementing quality fishing regulations will ensure the protection of the resource. Surprisingly, no mention has been made of the real threat to the creek, that of sprawling development in the watershed. Unfiltered runoff sewage overflow and lawn fertilizers pose a much bigger threat to Johnson Creek than the anglers who fish for trout on the stream. Hopefully, but not likely, that threat will also be addressed in the near future.

The history of Johnson Creek is deeper than its water. Not only is it the only tributary of the Rouge River that supports a trout fishery, but the state's first fish hatchery was built on Johnson Creek in the late 1800s.

Heavy rain in the late 1890s flooded out the hatchery and allowed brown trout to escape into Johnson Creek, which initiated the original fishery.

Seniors lauded before Tigers' game

If you are planning to attend Senior Day at Comerica Park this Tuesday, there will be pregame recognition of area seniors who are committed to physical fitness and staying active.

Some of our more noteworthy senior bowlers names have been submitted to the Detroit Tigers, and if you want to take advantage of the special seat discounts (ages 60 and over), it will be more interesting to come on down and see some of our fellow bowlers honored at this special occasion.

It is a day game vs. the Boston Red Sox with a starting time of 2:05 p.m.

For more information and tickets call 313-777-BALL. The highly successful Michigan Junior Masters Association (MJMA) has just completed its 16th year of youth bowling competition in which they travel to various bowling centers in Michigan.

The branch of Dan Ottman of Troy, this series has drawn the top youth bowlers from the entire mitten in addition to some who come in from New York, Ohio, Wisconsin and other nearby states.

What is the big drawing card? Scholarship money.

And plenty of it has been awarded over the years. Jen Petrick of North Canton, Ohio and Chris Damon of Port Huron were the big winners in the championship tournament held at Monroe Sport Center in Monroe.

Petrick captured her 13th title and fifth this season by defeating Lindsay Baker (Amherst, N.Y.), 203-156, to pick up the $1,000 scholarship award that goes with it.

On the boys side Damon garnered his third title in a tight match against Jason Rasmski of Lansing. He took home a $2,500 scholarship award.

Over $16,000 in scholarship monies were awarded during the season's finale.

Over $39,000 in scholarships were awarded this season bringing the all-time total to $345,000.

There were twelve 300 games in this year's events led by Pat Barter of Westland at Novi Bowl.

Ryan Wilson of Garden City, owner of Pro-Am Bowling and Trophy Sales in Livonia, contributed $400 in scholarship money for the Bowler of the Year Award, which went to Lindsay Baker and Chris Damon.

The MJMA begins its 17th season Friday-Saturday, Aug. 9-10 at Lodge Lanes in Belleville.

For more information, call Ottman at (248) 689-8696 or check out their website at michiganjrmasters.com.

Bowling Magazine recently named its selection of the 20 greatest men's bowlers of all time.

This type of friendly mentality went hand-in hand with the competitive atmosphere of the day as parents, toting coolers and lawn chairs, gathered together while their little ones participated in sports events and just plain had fun.

On a different stretch of track, another pair of athletes exemplified the supportive and light hearted nature of the Olympics while they prepared for the upcoming running events.

"We only compete in the running," Redford resident Sara Howard, 9, said.

"She once ran 150 laps," brother Zachary, 8, added as he stretched his legs and rubbed Sara's shoulders.

"No, I didn't," replied his modest sister.

But Sara had no need to be completely humble about her athletic achievements - after five years of participating in the Redford Olympics, she had accumulated quite a collection of accolades.

"I've won like first place ribbons and stuff," she said.

"The blue ones are first place," Zachary explained. "I've got a lot of blues."

"I've got a lot of blues, too," Sara added.

Winning isn't everything, however, at the Redford Olympics. According to Sara and Zachary's mom, Susan Howard, the kids have fun just competing and try ing their hands at the different events.

"It's a blast," she said of the Olympics. "They (Sara and Zachary) have a lot of fun. It's (event) nice for mid summer - it's a nice little event to look forward to."

"This is just the nicest day," mom added about the mild, 80-degree temperatures. "It's always been so hot."

Heather Miller would agree, about both the lure of the Olympics and Wednesday's pleasant weather.

"It's just beautiful outside," said Miller, now in her 13th year of directing the Olympics for the Redford Parks and Recreation Department. "We're a little behind schedule, but with the number kids that usually happens."

Miller said she enjoys her job, particularly watching the kids who are 6-years-old and younger participate in events.

"I think they're just excited to be here," she said. "It's nice that they're not competitive - they're just out here to win some ribbons and they don't care what color."

Coordinating the event is a big task for Miller, who says she couldn't do it without the dozens of volunteers who help organize the children, run the events and take participant's times.

"My staff has been really great this year - they're really helpful," she said.

Spartans 12, Falcons 9: The Spartans had a 10-4 lead early in the second period, but had to withstand a furious comeback attempt by the last place Falcons to get the victory Wednesday at the FTC. The Falcons slipped to 1-7-0 (two points).

Alex Foster (Canton), Nick Smyth and Keith Townsend collected two goals and two assists apiece to boost the Spartans effort. Brent Bortman (Farmington Hills) had a goal and three assists. Scott Marlinga scored two goals. Brad Zarem had a goal and two assists. Mike Crowley (Canton) had a goal and an assist. Derek Schlonsky assisted on two and Brian Bortman (Farmington Hills) scored one.

Nearly all the Falcons scoring came from three players. Nick Lang (Livonia) totaled three goals and four assists. Brent Cooper had two goals and five assists and Jason Bloom finished with three goals and two assists. Alex Spezia (Farmington Hills) added a goal and an assist.

With Foster, Townsend and Marlinga each scoring twice the Spartans were able to build their 10-4 lead with 10:56 left in the second period. The Falcons rallied, narrowing the gap to 10-8 before the third period was half over but Spartan goals by Zarem and Smyth secured the Spartan win. Lang scored the last three Falcon goals.

Peter Foster (Canton) and Brian Markowicz split time in goal for the Spartans. Joe Rutherford was in the net for the Falcons.

Huskies 12, Broncos 2: The Huskies kept pace with the Spartans thanks to hat tricks by Dwight Helminen and Kurt Kivisto in an MSHL game Wednesday at the Farmington Training Center.

The second place Huskies improved to 4-1-3 (11 points).

Broncos were within a goal of the Huskies. But they didn't score again while the Huskies put nine more goals on the board.

Helminen added two assists to his three goal performance. John Pietila had two goals and an assist. Tim Kastamo collected a goal and two assists. Mark Pietila and Rich Storm each had a goal and an assist. Trent Daavetila had three assists. Lars Helminen and Ted Sturos each had two assists and Aaron Kiviluoma scored a goal.

Adam Krug (Livonia) also scored a goal for the Broncos.

Art Baker (Canton) was in goal for the Huskies. David Herrick (Westland) and Justin Bolla (Livonia) divided time in goal for the Broncos.

Whalers 7, Wolverines 4: A five goal second period gave the Whalers a four goal lead and enabled them to defeat the Wolverines Wednesday at FTC.

Ryan Anderson's two goals and an assist and four assists from Doug Stromback paced the Whalers who improved to 3-5-0 (six points). The Wolverines fell to 4-4-0 (eight points).

John May (Livonia) added a goal and an assist for the Whalers. Chris Fairbanks had two assists and Brian Richards, Matt Guilbault (Livonia), Nick Duff and Jeremy Majszak (Canton) each scored goals.

The Wolves got a goal and two assists from Justin Mininni, a goal and an assist from both Rob Ryan and Brent Bessey (Livonia) and a goal from Chris Powroznik (Redford).

Both teams' goalies were solid in this game. Stephen Yu (Garden City) backstopped the Whalers' effort while Bobbv Pruchnik (Livonia) was in the net for the Wolverines, stopping a penalty shot.

Prostate cancer study

Beaumont Hospital is recruiting volunteers for SELECT or the "Selenium and Vitamin E Chemoprevention Trial." The research study, funded by the National Cancer Institute, will include more than 32,000 healthy men in North America and Puerto Rico to evaluate selenium (a micronutrient present in food and in supplements) and vitamin E (alpha-tocopherol), to determine their effectiveness in preventing prostate cancer.

Needed are African-American men at least 50 years of age and other men at least 55 years old. Participants must have no prior history of prostate cancer and must be in generally good health. Call Beaumont's Cancer Clinical Trials Office at (248) 551-7695 for more information.

Hospice workshops

Madonna University's hospice education department will offer its second annual Grief and Loss Summer Institute 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday-Saturday, Aug. 22-24. The institute will feature three workshops:

- Thursday: Supporting Individuals Who Have Experienced Violent and Traumatic Loss will assist counselors and bereavement support staff in understanding the dynamics and symptoms of trauma and Post-Traumatic Stress Syndrome Disorder.

- Friday: Assisting Families in Grief will examine gender and developmental differences in response to the different aspects of family intervention.

- Saturday: Compassion Fatigue, Emotional and Spiritual Self-Care for Professionals will help mental health professionals to reaffirm the value of self-care in order to care for others.

The workshops will be conducted by Jack LoCicero, Ph.D., a nationally certified grief therapist and death educator and associate professor of hospice education at Madonna University. Cost: $85 per workshop. Participants can earn up to 5.5 Continuing Education credits.

Space is limited. Room and board is available at Madonna's Residence Hall for $50 per night. For room accommodations, call Sr. Nancy Jamroz at (734) 432-5429. For more information about the institute, contact Dr. LoCicero at (734) 432-5471 or e-mail: jlocicero@madonna.edu

Beat the heat

With temperatures continuing to climb into the nineties, the Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross urges people to take precautions in order to avoid heat-related illness. Here are some tips to stay safe while having fun in the sun:

- Wear lightweight, light-colored clothing. Light colors will reflect away some of the sun's energy. Wear a hat or use an umbrella if in direct sunlight.

- Avoid strenuous activity. If you must do strenuous activity, do it during the coolest part of the day, which is usually in the morning between 4 a.m. and 7 a.m.

- Drink plenty of water regularly and often. Avoid alcohol and caffeine, which dehydrate the body.

- Eat small meals and eat more often. Avoid foods that are high in protein, which increase metabolic heat.

- Avoid using salt tablets unless directed to do so by a physician.

Americans are losing their hearing from too much noise

Noisemakers in our environment

The louder the noise, the less time required before hearing damage occurs. Listed below are the decibel levels of some of common noisemakers. Remember, noise levels above 85 dBA will harm hearing over time; noise levels above 140 dBA can cause damage after just one exposure.

Home

- Refrigerator, 50
- Washing machine, 50-75
- Dishwasher, 55-70
- Air conditioner, 50-75
- Electric shaver, 50-80
- Vacuum cleaner, 60-85
- Hair dryer, 60-95
- Ringing telephone, 80
- Garbage disposal, 80-95
- Baby crying, 110
- Noisy squeeze toys

Work

- Quiet office, library, 40
- Handsaw, 85
- Electric drill, 95
- Snow blower, 105
- Power saw, 110
- Leaf blower, 110
- Pneumatic drill, 120
- Jackhammer, power drill, 130
- Percussion section at symphony, 130

If you haven't noticed how NOISY your neighborhood has become this summer, perhaps you've already lost some hearing. Barking dogs, late night pool parties, blasting radios, weed wackers and firecrackers rattle our nerves and assault our eardrums. Throw in routine construction and traffic noise and some of us are ready to put up the For Sale sign and head for the hills.

It's understandable Noise - defined as unwanted sound - is more than a nuisance. It's a health hazard causing serious physical and psychological stress.

Loud noises increase the level of stress hormones: the cortisol and epinephrine. It causes basal constriction and it can affect the heart and brain. It reduces blood supply to many areas, said Dr. Michael Seidmann, director, Division of Otolitic/Neurologic Surgery, Henry Ford Health System.

According to studies cited by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, steel workers and machine shop operators working in environments of high noise levels have a higher incidence of circulatory problems than do workers in quiet industries.

Fortunately most of us do not work in steel mills. However, we do work in noisy offices and come home to noisy neighborhoods. Noise-induced hearing loss is becoming "epidemic" in the United States, said Seidmann. "And people don't even realize it's an epidemic."

Some brains may be hard-wired for sensitivity to a certain sound, said Seidmann. The more susceptible people are to that sound - clinking silverware, for instance - the more intense their reaction. For Karin Keim of Canton, it's the continual high-pitched sounds that set her stress hormones in motion.

"A table saw is the most annoying," she said. But when it comes to noise, decibels are decibels, and the louder and more continuous the sound, the greater the potential health hazard. "What is pleasant to you might be poison to someone else. However, even if it's pleasant, it's still damaging," said Seidmann.

In other words, Mozart or Metallica could both pack a punch to our eardrums.

Decibels

Sound results from pressure changes in the air, caused by vibration or turbulence. Sound level, which is measured in decibels (dBA), refers to the amplitude of these changes, frequency, the number of repetitive vibrations per second, is measured in "hertz" (Hz). Because sound level in decibels is a logarithmic rather than linear measure of pressure change, even a small increase in decibels can represent a large increase in sound energy.

In her report Noise and Its Effects to the Administrative Conference of the United States in November 1991, Dr. Alice H. Suter, an audiologist at the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, writes "The ear perceives a 10-dBA increase as a doubling of loudness."

A fact sheet on noise published by Ohio State University Extension adds more impact to the message: "The difference between 100 dBA of a garbage truck and 110 dBA of a race car presents an increase of more than 300 percent."

To understand decibel levels, consider that normal conversation measures 45-60 dBA and normal city or freeway traffic measures 70 dBA. In the workplace, sounds above 85 dBA (the level at which you must raise your voice in order to be heard) require monitoring by the Occupational Safety and Health Act if workers are exposed to them eight hours a day.

So what about your neighbor's screaming baby? The little tike will subject his or her parents to a whopping 115 dBA. Firecrackers? Get the earplugs. If you're in range, you'll be subjected to 150 dBA. The Noise Center of the League for the Hard of Hearing warns that noise levels above 85 dBA will harm your hearing over time. Noise levels above 140 dBA can cause damage to hearing after just one exposure.

Damage

Suter writes in Noise and Its Effects "Although the incidence of noise-induced hearing loss from industrial populations is more extensively documented, there is growing evidence of hearing loss

Organ donations prevent the good from dying young

BY TINA REID
SPECIAL WRITER

Mortality, our own or that of someone we love, is both frightening and unthinkable. Yet we all know it is inevitable. I'm writing about organ donation, a topic very close to my heart.

I lost my husband, Scott, less than two years ago because he had a liver disease called cirrhosis. He was 43 years old. Doctors told us that Scott was in the 20 percent of people with liver disease where the cirrhosis was not caused by heavy drinking. Often, people automatically assume that if you have cirrhosis, heavy drinking caused it. There are other reasons for liver disease, including Hepatitis B, Hepatitis and Autoimmune Hepatitis.

Scott had just 20 percent liver function. For a while, he did OK. But we were told he was not sick enough to be placed on the waiting list for a donated liver. Just think, if Scott could have had a liver transplant at that time, he might still be alive today.

In a time frame of less than four years, Scott was diagnosed with cirrhosis and eventually with liver cancer. We were informed that liver cancer was normal if you had cirrhosis. Once the liver cancer started, the oncology team of doctors reviewed Scott's records. Sadly, I was instructed simply to take Scott home.

Lost organs

When an individual takes their organs with them after death, it is a lost opportunity for someone else to continue living. We don't use our organs after we die. If everyone would donate all their healthy organs, our organ donor registries would be nil. Just knowing that a loved one is keeping someone else alive is a very precious gift.

If Scott had had the opportunity to have a Gift of Life transplant statistics

The Transplantation Society of Michigan-Gift of Life provides the following statistics on those people awaiting an organ transplant as of July 1, 2002:

- Kidney, 1,769
- Heart, 75
- Lung, 84
- Liver, 394
- Pancreas, 97
- TOTAL, 2,419

Patients who received an organ transplant, 281
Patients who died waiting for a transplant, 86

In addition, every day hundreds of people in Michigan are in need of other tissues, such as heart valves, veins, tendons, bone, skin and corneas in order to survive or maintain their quality of life. To become a donor, you can:

- Talk to your family about your decision.

- Sign the Michigan Donor Registry. Registration cards are available at your Secretary of State Branch Office or by calling the Gift of Life Agency at (800) 482-4381.

- Sign the back of your driver's license.

Annapolis Hospital breaks ground on $24 million project

Oakwood Healthcare System leaders welded sparkling silver shovels earlier this month to break ground at Oakwood Annapolis Hospital in Wayne marking the official start of a $24 million expansion of the health care facility.

Taking place over the next two years the expansion project will increase the size of the current hospital, bringing updated technology, expanded surgery and state of the art diagnostic techniques to serve the western Wayne County community.

"We expect Oakwood Annapolis to be a primary source for comprehensive healthcare for our service area."

"Our patients can expect excellent care outstanding service and care that is designed for their individual needs," said Gerald Fitzgerald, Oakwood Healthcare System president and CEO.

The expansion will include the addition of a 36,500 square foot surgery center that includes seven operating suites with most equipment supported by ceiling-mounted booms which frees floor space and makes the rooms multi-functional.

The center also will include a new pre-anesthesia testing area, pre-operation and post-operation areas, visitor waiting area and its own entrance.

The current surgery space will be renovated into volunteer space and an emergency room observation room.

In addition, a new CT scanner will have a newly built space, including visitor and patient waiting area.

The radiology department also will receive extensive renovations to improve and upgrade the hospital's diagnostic technology.

This new addition clearly prepares us to provide outstanding service well into the future and to anticipate the growing healthcare needs of our community.

The staff is delighted with the program, and we look forward to working in this brand new facility," said Tom Kochis, chief administrative officer for Oakwood Annapolis Hospital.

U-M researchers to develop nanosensors

Along with space suits, freeze-dried food and barf bags, tomorrow's astronauts may travel with nanomolecular devices inside their white blood cells to detect early signs of damage from dangerous radiation or infection. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) is investing $2 million to develop this "Star Trek" technology at the University of Michigan Medical School's Center for Biologic Nanotechnology. The three-year research grant is the largest the Medical School has ever received from NASA, according to Dr. James R. Baker, Jr., who will direct the project.

"Our goal is to develop a non-invasive system that, when placed inside the blood cells of astronauts, will monitor continuously for radiation exposure or infectious agents," says Baker, the Ruth Dow Doan Professor of Nanotechnology, a U-M professor of internal medicine and the center's director.

"Radiation-induced illness is a serious concern in space travel," says Baker. "Radiation changes the flow of calcium ions within white blood cells and eventually triggers irreversible cell death. Even if individual incidences of exposure are within acceptable limits, the cumulative effect of radiation can be toxic to cells. So, it's important to monitor continuously for early signs of damage."

U-M scientists will use expertise and technology acquired during an ongoing nanotechnology research study funded by the National Cancer Institute. In this project, U-M researchers are developing intra-cellular devices to sense pre-malignant and cancerous changes inside living cells.

Created from synthetic polymers called dendrimers, the devices are fabricated layer-by-layer into spheres with a diameter of less than five nanometers. A nanometer is one-billionth of a meter. One million nanometers are equal to the diameter of a pinhead.

Because the nanosensors are so small, Baker says they pass easily through membranes into white blood cells called lymphocytes, where they are in a perfect position to detect the first signs of biochemical changes from radiation.

Nanosensors will avoid problems associated with current much larger implantable sensors, which can cause inflammation, and eliminate the need to draw and test blood samples. U-M scientists hope the devices can be administered transdermally — or through the skin — every few weeks, avoiding the need for injections or IVs during space missions.

"We can attach fluorescent tags to dendrimers, which glow in the presence of proteins associated with cell death," Baker explains. "Our plan is to develop a retinal-scanning device with a laser capable of detecting fluorescence from lymphocytes as they pass one-by-one through narrow capillaries in the back of the eye. If we can incorporate the tagged sensors into enough lymphocytes, a 15-second scan should be sufficient to detect radiation-induced cell damage."

If the first phase of research with lymphocytes is successful, Baker plans to develop nanosensors targeted at other immune system cells to monitor protein markers of infection. U-M scientists will work initially with cell cultures, but plan later testing of the nanosensor technology in research animals.

The NASA-funded research project will require the combined efforts of U-M scientists from many different disciplines and academic units within the university. In addition to Baker, senior members of the research team are Theodore B. Norris, professor of electrical engineering and computer science in the U-M College of Engineering, Bradford G. Orr, professor of physics in the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts, and Dr. Felix de la Iglesia, adjunct professor of pathology in the Medical School and an adjunct professor of environmental health sciences in the School of Public Health.

Red Cross is looking for heroes

A man on his way to a wedding risked his own life by pulling a high school student out of a burning car. Neighbors rescued two people after they were thrown overboard in a boating accident. An elementary school teacher saved a student from choking.

These are just a few of the dozens of "Everyday Heroes" the Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross has honored over the last six years — people who in some cases have risked their lives to save another life.

The Red Cross is accepting nominations for "2002 Celebration of Every Day Heroes," which will be held in November. The event recognizes those who have acted courageously — often at great personal risk — to reach out and help others in their times of greatest need.

Anyone can nominate an Every Day Hero. Nominees must live in or have performed the heroic act in Wayne, Oakland or Macomb counties. Acts of heroism must have taken place between Aug. 1, 2001 and July 31, 2002.

Nominations must be accompanied by official reports, news articles or names, addresses and phone numbers of at least two people who can verify the heroic act. If chosen as an Everyday Hero, an awardee must be available for video/photography in advance of the ceremony.

Nomination forms can be accessed and submitted online at www.semredcross.org or printed out and sent to American Red Cross Southeastern Michigan Chapter, Fundraising Dept., P.O. Box 33351, Detroit, MI 48232-5351. Nominations should be received no later than Friday, Aug. 31, 2002. For more information, call (313) 833-2630.

The American Red Cross led by volunteers is the largest humanitarian organization in the United States. It provides relief to victims of disaster and helps people prevent, prepare for and recover from emergencies both domestic and international. To donate to the Local Disaster Relief Fund, call (313) 833-2664 or log on to www.semredcross.org.

from leisure time activities, especially from sport shooting, but also from loud music, noisy toys, and other manifestations of our "civilized" society.

Normal hearing depends upon the health of the ear's three components: the inner, the middle and the outer ear. There are three kinds of hearing loss: conductive, neural and sensory. Conductive hearing loss occurs in the outer and middle ear and is most often caused by excessive wax, a damaged ear drum or fluid in the middle ear. Neural hearing loss is caused by damage to the auditory nerve. Sensory hearing loss occurs in the inner ear, or cochlea, and is most often caused by noise damage.

The cochlea contains thousands of tiny hair cells that transmit sound impulses to the auditory nerve. Extended exposure to excessive noise can damage these cells and reduce their ability to transmit sound. Sensory hearing loss is most often permanent.

According to the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (1998), the maximum exposure time to a sound level of 110 dBA before damage can occur is one minute and 29 seconds. An average band concert measures 120 dBA, lawn equipment and power tools measure up to 130 dBA, and fire works at three feet measure 162 dBA. These sounds — including outdoor bands — occur in many neighborhoods, especially around the Fourth of July and other summer holidays.

The League for the Hard of Hearing issues the following early warning signs of noise-induced hearing damage:

- A ringing or buzzing (tinnitus) in the ears immediately after exposure to noise.

- A slight muffling of sounds after exposure, making it difficult to understand people when leave a noisy area.

- Difficulty understanding speech, that is, you can hear all the words, but you can't understand all of them.

"Ringing, fullness or fuzziness is a sign of real damage from which you may or may not recover," said Seidmann. Fifty million Americans suffer from tinnitus, he added. "Of those, 12 million seek an opinion, and 2 million are severely impaired. The average tinnitus decibel range is 3-15."

Noise complaints

Although neighborhood fireworks don't bother Keim, she does have her pet peeves when it comes to noise. "I'm bothered by late-night parties and any kind of power equipment early in the morning. Then there's the neighbor's bug zapper right outside your window and their pool filter that runs continuously."

It's often an emotional issue, said Keim.

"For me, the most annoying sound is when neighbors are arguing with their windows open and it's very, very loud. It's disturbing because you wonder if you should be doing something Noises that involve safety issues bother me more because I have to make a decision on whether to call the police, like if there's a dog barking in the middle of the night and it's winter."

In "Intrusive Community Noises Yield More Complaints," an article that appeared two years ago in Hearing Rehabilitation Quarterly, the authors state that the majority of people affected by noise do not complain. They also cite a community noise survey conducted by the League for the Hard of Hearing that identified six reported emotional responses to noise: Annoyance, anger, helplessness, and feeling upset, overwhelmed and physically ill. Other respondents reported feeling extremely agitated, overall stressed and tired.

So what can you do when you're assaulted by noise in your neighborhood?

The League for the Hard of Hearing suggests that you approach the noise-maker, providing literature on the impact of noise. Bring along others who share your concerns. If that fails, document the problem and contact the authorities. In most communities that would be an ordinance officer or your local police.

Or, you could organize your own anti-noise group. Hopefully, as a group you'll have more power in resolving a neighborhood noise problem. After all, it's about your home sweet home. It's about your hearing.

SWOLLEN LEGS IN THE SUMMER
You may experience leg swelling in the summer, particularly if you are a woman. If you bring this to the attention of your doctor, he will usually make light of it. What is the reason?

Summer time brings hot weather. This causes a slight increase in body temperature, made worse when cooling of the skin is hampered in days of high humidity. The increased heat causes your blood vessels — both arteries and veins — to expand.

The effect of this expansion is to make it easier for blood to go from the heart to the feet but makes it more difficult for the blood to return via the veins back to the heart. The problem of enlarged veins often is worse for women who earlier experienced childbirth. In the latter stages of pregnancy the enlarged uterus presses against the veins in the pelvis which causes the veins in the legs to dilate.

From that time onward those veins are not quite as competent as they were and are susceptible to expanding when faced with an increased flow of blood back to the heart.

To minimize summer swelling of the legs, you can keep your legs slightly elevated when sitting by using a footstool. If the leg swelling is more severe, support hose provide a solution through using them in summer may make you too uncomfortable. One way not to solve the problem is to take a water pill. Remember these medications also cause you to lose sodium and potassium — a loss you want to avoid in the heat.

Senior living: All kinds of amenities are available for tenants at Lockwood of Waterford

Senior apartments offer choices on lifestyle

Lockwood of Waterford, a brand new midrise apartment complex of 126 units, offers a basic rental package and all kinds of a la carte upgrades.

First off, tenants must be at least 55 years of age to live in the community on Skipper Drive off Crescent Lake Road just south of M-59.

Second, one-bedroom, one bath units of 600 square feet are available for $960, $739 if annual income is $29,320 or less for one person, $83,540 for two.

Two-bedroom, one-bath units of 800 square feet are available for $1,065, $870 with income qualification.

Third, a dinner meal option is available on a sliding plan starting at $7.75 per meal and decreasing in cost with volume to $210 for 30 meals.

Fourth, a housekeeping option is available on a weekly ($30/$35) or monthly ($115/$135) basis.

Fifth, a laundry option is available for $30 per person per week or $115 monthly.

Sixth and seventh, a carport option ($20 per month) and additional storage ($10-$25 monthly) also are available.

"We offer affordable housing with options, some amenities, luxury buildings have," said Laura McLaughlin, senior housing portfolio manager for Lockwood.

"They can continue to stay independent without relying on family," McLaughlin said. "I think location is our other calling card," added Penny Jones, community manager. "We're near everything, but kind of tucked in back here secluded." Even if they're not able to drive they could walk to the store if they'd like to she said of tenants. We have a (Clinton) River walk right here which lends real well for our walking club. Entrances are locked all the times for security at Lockwood of Waterford, which also employs an activities director.

The main floor contains a mini clinic which periodically will offer free blood pressure screenings, a craft workroom, fitness center, media lounge, sundry shop, and a salon/barber shop.

The main first-floor lounge contains books periodically recycled by the Waterford Library, a computer and a fireplace.

A billiards room is on the third floor, a solarium/sitting room on the fourth. Corridors are wide, well lit and painted in different color per floor to aid in identification.

Laundry rooms are on every floor with sitting areas including TVs near by.

"A lot of fun being here — getting together and socializing," McLaughlin said.

The typical tenant so far is relocating within five miles of a previous home or within five miles of another relative," McLaughlin said.

All units come equipped with range, refrigerator and microwave, the two-bedrooms with dishwashers. All are air conditioned and virtually all have a balcony or patio.

Bathrooms and bedrooms contain emergency notification pull cords. Lever handles are on most doors.

The kitchen sink and counter are oriented to the dining area and living rooms to provide a more open look.

Water is included in the rent, with all other utilities individually metered. Pets are allowed. Leases are for one year and the security deposit is one month rent.

The different choices of services were the big attraction for Don and Ivy Green, the first tenants to move in.

"We liked the freedom of it," Don said. "It has almost every amenity you could want. It's convenient. Everything has worked out real good for us. We're well pleased."

The leasing office/models at Lockwood of Waterford, (248) 618-0777, is open 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturdays.

This home offers a dramatic two story foyer with sweeping staircase, first floor library with French doors and bay window, a formal living room, and a formal dining room with bay window. The spacious two story family room offers a two way fireplace and beautiful views from its many windows. The huge gourmet kitchen with state of the art appliances, cherry cabinets, Corian countertops, and a two way fireplace would please any one. Hardwood floors can be found on the entire first floor of this magnificent home. The luxurious second floor master suite has a sitting area and fashion bath. This home also offers a guest suite with private bath room and bedrooms 3 and 4 have a Jack and Jill bathroom. There is a lovely deck that overlooks the gorgeous backyard and the four car garage.

Boasting a long list of costly upgrades, pleasing views, and on nearly an acre with side walks leading to a nearby neighborhood pool, tennis courts clubhouse, and tot lot, every amenity is present in this supremely livable family home. It is rare you will find a "new" home of this caliber with all the work done, tastefully "decorator perfect" with soft neutrals, in such a spectacular setting at this price. This home is priced well below reproduction cost. YOU'LL LOVE COMING HOME TO THIS FABULOUS HOME! Please call for more information and private showing.

Gallery in upstairs hallway can show off trophies

A traditional farmhouse of 2,695 square feet, the Bridgeport (D2460), contains a covered front porch with several dormers as accents.

With four bedrooms and a three-car garage the home is ideal for a large acreage setting.

The entry faces the staircase with the dining room on the right and the living room on the left. Large windows face the porch in the dining room, which also has a built-in hutch. The living room contains built-in bookshelves.

The master suite on the main floor has a cathedral ceiling with a door opening to the porch. The bath has a spa tub, separate shower and his-and-her sinks.

The great room has 10-foot ceilings and a fireplace that's surrounded by bookshelves. Three windows here face the back yard.

A bayed nook lined with windows for natural light is adjacent to the great room. A door here also opens to the rear yard.

The kitchen features an island and pantry. A window is over the sink. Off the kitchen is a half bath. Just beyond the kitchen is the utility room with a door that opens to the garage.

Three bedrooms and two baths are upstairs. Bedrooms 2 and 3 have dormers that bring in natural light. Bedrooms 3 and 4 share a Jack-and-Jill bath with combination tub/shower, while bedroom 2 has a shower.

The upstairs hallway contains a linen closet and a gallery for showing off sports trophies.

The unfinished basement of 1,881 square feet has potential to become a recreation room, a family room, exercise room, another bedroom or storage.

For a study plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, sections and an artist rendering, send $24.95 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Road E, Cottage Grove, OR 97424. Specify plan name (Bridgeport) and number (D2460).

Books help shape new home

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Books make splendid building blocks for the house of your dreams. Here are a few to consider.

■ Patterns of Home: Ten Essentials of Enduring Design (The Taunton Press, $34.95 hardcover, September), by architects Max Jacobson, Murray Silverstein, and Barbara Winslow, is an updated, distilled version of the groundbreaking A Pattern Language, written in 1977 by Jacobson and Silverstein.

The authors delineate classic considerations — site light, proportion flow, privacy and commonality, refuge and outlook, transitional spaces, and materials — that can make your house a home, not just a place to hang out.

The original version of this work which delineated about 250 patterns that relate to the way people use their homes was one of the inspirations for architect Sarah Susanka, author of The Not So Big House, one of the most popular shelter books of recent years.

"As you'll see from the pages that follow, none of this is particularly complicated," Susanka writes in the foreword to the new edition. "It simply results from careful observation of what our senses tell us about the places we inhabit."

■ And Susanka, herself, debuts the third title of her series with Not So Big Solutions for Your Home (The Taunton Press, $22.95 paperback, September), a collection of practical design ideas, large and small. It's a compilation of her columns originally appearing in Fine Homebuilding magazine.

■ Also coming from Taunton is a new series Updating Classic America, with the first title, Bungalows ($29.95 hardcover), scheduled for October publication.

Authors M. Caren Connolly and Louis Wasserman assess the revival of these simple one-story houses and suggest ways of renewing and updating them.

■ The success of New York designer Vicente Wolf owes much to his ability to subtract elements and remove clutter from the home's visual landscape. His first book, Learning to See (Artisan, $40 hardcover, October), he explains how to apply this philosophy for rooms with a unified look.

He offers practical advice about such matters as creating floor plans, arranging furniture, hanging pictures and mirrors.

■ The Inner Harmony of the Japanese House (Kodansha, $25 paperback), by Atsushi Ueda, is the English version of his best-selling Japanese edition, which first appeared in 1974.

Ueda doesn't romanticize the traditional Japanese house. He says that in the name of aesthetics it has sacrificed comfort, variety and structural development.

But readers interested in this type of housing will learn about the historic and central reasons behind pillars, walls, windows, tatami mats, earthen floors and many other elements.

■ Yoshihiro Takishita has a very narrow specialty: saving old Japanese farmhouses. It all started in 1967, when he learned that a venerable 250-year-old farmhouse (minka) would be submerged in a reservoir project.

He had the house moved, log by log, to a site in Kamakura, Japan, where it was resurrected as a home for his American foster father, the veteran foreign correspondent John Roderick.

Takishita tells about this and subsequent salvage projects in Japanese Country Style: Putting New Life into Old Houses (Kodansha, $45 hardcover, August).

■ Also from Kodansha are titles of interest to connoisseurs of oriental art and furnishings, Japanese Accents in Western Interiors (Shufunotomo/Japan Publications, $26 paperback), by Peggy Landers and Jean Mahoney, and Traditional Korean Furniture ($65 hardcover), by Edward Reynolds Wright and Man Sill Pa.

■ The ubiquitous Martha Stewart presides over Good Things from Tag Sales and Flea Markets (Clarkson Potter, $22 paperback), the latest in The Best of Martha Stewart Living series.

The book illustrates some of the interesting ways to use those unappreciated, seemingly ragtag bargains you will run across at the sales, such as old baking pans and molds shined up and doing duty as wall sconces, or china platters used as frames for vanity mirrors.

■ If you've never painted, you probably think it's something simple between the brush and the paint can.

But getting a good, enduring and interesting paint job is more complicated, and the techniques are laid out in The Home Depot Decorative Painting 1-2-3 (Meredith Books, $24.95 hardcover), edited by John P. Holms.

Universal design good for all ages

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Several simple universal design measures can make life easier for everyone, not just older or disabled people.

The book The New City Home (The Taunton Press, $34.95 hardcover) suggests several ways a builder constructing new or a homeowner remodeling can add universal design.

■ Put lever-style handles on doors and faucets.

■ Install adjustable-height or handheld shower fixtures.

■ Use rocker-panel light switches.

■ Attach loop or D-shaped pulls to cabinet doors and drawers.

■ Lay textured, non-slip flooring in the bath.

■ Raise electrical outlets to at least 27 inches off the floor.

Thomas Ervin Let's Talk About Real Estate

"THE RIGHT TIME TO MOVE"

Is this the right time for you to move on to another home? It may or may not be depending on a number of the more important things you may want to consider: YOUR PERSONAL FUTURE

Only you can determine your future needs and the probable course of your career When you read this, you may say to yourself that you don't know what the future holds in terms of the stability of your job and earnings potential Ironically, this is true for most people today The rapid changes in our economy bring a degree of uncertainty to many businesses

YOUR FAMILY'S NEEDS

Your family may be growing or shrinking and need a house that better suits its present and future requirements Because a home and its local school system are an important factor, you children's educational needs may dictate a move Or, you or your spouse may have a job opportunity that would necessitate a relocation

LOCAL MARKET CONDITIONS

Is there strong demand for your area and style of house? If you are an existing homeowner, you will probably want to buy in a strong market when you know the odds are that you will be successful in selling your house in a reasonable period of time and able to purchase the next property. If you are now renting, you may consider buying in a weaker market when the selection of homes is greater and the sellers are more motivated to negotiate

MORTGAGE INTEREST RATES

Interest rates have a huge impact on your buying power This is a vital factor that cannot be overlooked.

ADVICE: Ask your Realtor to help you make the right decision

FRACASSA

Beautiful styling, comfort, convenience and power: 2002 Audi S4 quattro. Vehicle class Compact luxury car Power 2.7-liter V6 Mileage 17 city / 24 highway Where built: Ingolstadt, Germany Price as tested $41,325

I would love to have the chance to take this 2002 Audi S4 quattro on the Autobahn or the Autostrada or even to Montana - where speed limits don't exist. At least the last I heard.

With its 250-horsepower 2.7-liter engine equipped with remarkably responsive twin turbochargers and electric turbo boost regulators, direct ignition and five valves per cylinder, this baby can move when you want it to. Its flawless acceleration properties make it seem it's got a mind of its own - if you let it have one. Just a tap of the accelerator - and I mean a little tap - makes passing that moron going 45 on the freeway a blip in your rearview mirror fast.

Tell you what - you better watch that rearview mirror too. This pretty little number can get you in trouble in a hurry. If I owned it, it WOULD get me in trouble.

I was a little annoyed by the 6-speed manual transmission, however. Although once you got it going it performed well, I constantly had problems putting it in reverse. It was almost five days before I got it right the first time. But I didn't have a choice. You do. Both the S4 sedan and S4 Avant offer an optional 5-speed automatic transmission with Trip Tonic. What's that you ask? Well, it's a "smart" transmission that can actually record and match an individual's needs and driving styles - which give you an optimum driving experience.

We're still talking power here. How does zero to 60 in 5.9 seconds grab you? With the manual transmission. The automatic will net you the same results in 6.5 seconds. Top speed is electronically capped at 143 mph. They're trying to spoil our fun, doggone it.

The S4 has a permanent all-wheel drive system that doesn't let you sacrifice nimble handling at any speed. A specially designed sport suspension system makes your driving around town or up hills and down valleys a joy. Cast alloy wheels and 17-inch performance tires add even more.

All the safety issues are addressed as well, with driver and passenger next-generation dual-stage airbags, seat-mounted side airbags and anti-lock brakes. Also up front are 3-point safety belts with pre-tensioners, load limiter and height adjusters.

Rear passengers also have 3-point belts outboard and a lap belt in the center. The Avant model has 3-point belts in all seating positions. There's also a head protection curtain air bag system in place. If any air bag is deployed, all doors unlock and interior lights are turned on.

Of course, there are three child seat tether anchors. And there's a first-aid kit in the rear center armrest.

Let's step to the outside. This automobile sure is pretty. With its sleek lines, powerful stance and downright beautiful styling, the A4 is a head-turner. The one I drove was black. It shouldn't be in any other color, as far as I'm concerned.

Technology is at its finest in the S4 as well. How about headlight washer, heatable windshield washer nozzles, high-intensity low beam headlights, one rear and two front fog lights?

Slip behind the leather-wrapped, 3-spoke steering wheel and sink yourself into the silky Nappa leather upholstery. Warm and cozy. Beautiful wood trim adorns and wraps around the instrument panel. Even the transmission shift knob is covered in leather.

Between the front passengers is a full-length center console. Instrumentation is easy and simple to understand - all except the climate controls. I finally had to reach in the glove box and read the manual to get it to do what I wanted it to do. Things really shouldn't be that complicated, for Pete's sake.

There's a Bose premium sound system featuring a six-speaker sound system that can blow your eardrums if you're not careful. Some joker had it at full zip when I hopped in. I think my ears are still ringing.

Attention to details is what Audi is all about, making every owner feel that much more special. I'm talking about the presence of aluminum door sill trim adorned with the S4 logo, dimmed lighting, trunk power outlet, a safety triangle mounted in the trunk deck lid, cool backlit instrument cluster and an activated charcoal filter in the climate controls.

Outside mirrors have a defog feature, the driver's door lock is heated and there's a folding ignition key with remote controls. The front seats are adjustable - 10 different ways.

All in all, the Audi S4 was great to drive and would be more than a joy to own. If beautiful styling, comfort and convenience and power are what you're shopping for, this is your vehicle.

TASTE

RAY & ELEANOR HEALD

Hunter Valley wines bright and flavorful

OK We'll be upfront We have not been fans of Hunter Valley wines from Australia In general, they seem tired and lack youthful exuberance No pizzazz No spark No great taste recommendations to pass on to our readers

That attitude modified when we recently tasted the wines from Hope Estate in Australia's Hunter Valley with owner Michael Hope Not only are the wines bright and flavorful, there are many values under $15

Former pharmacist Michael Hope decided in 1994 that he'd rather grow grapes and make wine than fill prescriptions He purchased 37 vineyard acres in Australia's Hunter Valley, ideal for white grapes A second acquisition of nearly 200 acres of famed red basalt soil was then purchased and planted to shiraz and merlot In 1996, he bought a winery that had been dormant for a number of years and modernized it for vintage 1997

He further expanded his wine domain by acquiring Virgin Hills Estate, a renowned property in Victoria, Australia, and its winery This is a challenging, high altitude site on which to grow Bordeaux varietals, shiraz, albec and pinot noir Spring frosts are common and the estate bears the moniker "marginal climate" for red varieties

When you taste the 1998 Virgin Hills Estate Victoria $32 a blend of 85 percent cabernet 10 percent shiraz three percent merlot and two percent malbec you'll know why Michael Hope jumped at the chance to own this estate first planted in 1968 Its low yields of a minimal 1.5 tons per acre, would be considered by most as economically untenable It is the vision of people like Michael Hope who bring the world atypical wines with amazing fruit depth At this price, this wine is not only outstanding but a world class gem

To understand why 2000 Verdelho $8 is in the Hope Estate portfolio, it's necessary to recall that the early wines of Australia were fortified and made from verdelho

"So, this grape has always been in the Hunter Valley," Michael Hope said Using modern winemaking techniques, this dry, still white has the aromas of wild flowers, d'Anjou pears, tropical and other lush fruits, yet crisp taste and finish A touch of spiciness from American oak adds a unique diversion It's perfect for Asian cuisine or seafood Try it if you're looking for new and different

These are achieved in the 2000 Hope Estate Chardonnay $10 with its nice touch of pineapple and abundant tropical fruit Plump in the middle, it has a delicious fruit profile and a splendid finish with a tasty touch of oak Awesome at this price

Except for a few regions in Victoria, Australia is too hot to grow great pinot noir But the following California regions and wineries do it exceptionally well

- 2000 DeLoach OFS Russian River Valley Pinot Noir $40
- 2000 Fetzer Bien Nacido Vineyard Santa Maria Valley Pinot Noir $40

Steaks and hamburgers will always be popular on the grill, but there are many ways to spice up summer meals

HALLOUMI KEBABS

- 1 package of G&L Keses Halloumi cheese
- 1 large red pepper cored de-seeded
- 1 large courgette (zucchini)
- 1 small onion
- 8 bay leaves
- Lemon wedges (to garnish)
- 150g (5oz) mixed salad leaves

- For salad dressing
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- Juice of 1/2 lemon
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh oregano or 1 teaspoon dried oregano
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper

Cut Halloumi into one inch cubes Cut and de-seed pepper into one-inch cubes Cut courgette into one inch slices Cut onion into 8 wedges

Thread the Halloumi pepper, courgette onion and bay leaves onto four skewers Make salad dressing by mixing all ingredients Preheat grill and cook the Halloumi Kebab turning regularly for 4-8 minutes or until the cubes of Halloumi are well browned Garnish with lemon wedges, and serve on a bed of salad leaves Drizzle salad dressing on top

found at gourmet markets or at www.halloumicheese.com through Mediterranean Ventures of Ann Arbor It's a cheese that's used in omelets or on top of pasta — or grilled Look for it at Whole Foods, Zingerman's in Ann Arbor and Plymouth Market

We asked readers to share their favorite unique grilling recipes, and quickly learned they use their imagination to create palate pleasing dishes The recipes use quality ingredients such as nutrient-rich figs, unusual cheese, extra virgin olive oil and California white potatoes

Linda Stringer, of Livonia, grills a handmade cheese that originated in Cyprus and comes from goat and sheep It's called Halloumi It comes from free-roaming animals

"It's wonderful," Stringer said "And it does not melt"

She makes the cheese with vegetables or stuffed in chicken breast Or she grills the Halloumi with pineapple and ham

"It also can be fried in a dry, non-stick pan until golden brown and it stays firm," she said

The cheese can be found at gourmet markets or at www.halloumicheese.com through Mediterranean Ventures of Ann Arbor It's a cheese that's used in omelets or on top of pasta — or grilled Look for it at Whole Foods, Zingerman's in Ann Arbor and Plymouth Market

Wrap: Prosciutto can be thinly sliced and wrapped around figs on the grill. Serve with stone ground wheat bread as a side

Fresh figs

Liliana A Ciccodicola of Beverly Hills wishes she could take credit for the stuffed grilled fig recipe she submitted to us Instead, she said, her treasured recipe comes from her friend Joe Alroto of Wisconsin Making grilled figs is a family affair in the Ciccodicola household with daughters Leah, 10 and Eliza, 6 forming a fun assembly line to help Ciccodicola's husband Joe then completes the process by grilling the figs

"It's fantastic," Ciccodicola said "Fresh figs have a short season so we make these appetizers whenever we can find fresh figs"

For those with the patience and skill to grow fig trees, they'll have to wait until August when the figs are ready to pick Fresh figs, either deep purple or white, are now available at specialty markets

"You can use dried figs, but they are more difficult to stuff," Ciccodicola said

JOE'S GRILLED FIGS STUFFED WITH GOAT CHEESE AND PROSCIUTTO

- Fresh figs
- Goat Cheese (about 1 table spoon for each fig)
- Prosciutto (1/2 or 1 slice depending on how big the figs are and how adept you are at wrapping)
- Wooden toothpicks

Make a small slit in the fig just below the stem and to the side Holding the fig with the palm of one hand put your index finger on the other hand in the slit and pack the insides of the fig against the skin so there is room to pack in the goat cheese

Then take a clump of goat cheese and pack it into the fig Next, take a piece of Prosciutto and wrap it around the fig and secure with a wooden toothpick

Try to cover the opening in the fig so cheese does not ooze out Grill over a low heat for about 4 minutes and then turn and grill for another four minutes The Prosciutto will shrink wrap around the fig as it cooks (cooking time will vary depending upon grill heat and your personal preference just be sure not to burn the Prosciutto but cook well Enjoy

Family favorite The darker the olive oil the better the taste and reader Linda May uses it on California white potatoes for a grilled dish that her family adores

No peeling required

Linda May, of Farmington Hills, cooks the usual fare on the family grill all summer long, she said However her new family favorite is easy and hardy "We grill white potatoes all the time," May said "Everyone loves them and they aren't complicated to make"

LINDA MAY'S CALIFORNIA POTATOES

- California white potatoes washed and dried (2-3 medium size potatoes for two people)
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- garlic to taste
- salt and fresh pepper to taste
- 1 teaspoon dry rosemary

Using thin skinned unpeeled, California white potatoes slice into 1/4 inch thick slices Do not make slices paper thin Toss the potato slices with olive oil, garlic salt and fresh ground pepper Place potato slices on hot grill for about 15 minutes, turning often until done Place potato slices in a bowl and toss with dried rosemary, if desired Serve hot

May said basic ingredients like extra virgin olive oil, garlic, salt, rosemary and pepper spice up the California white potato And they don't even require peeling, she said

Cleaning's the pits, but picking cherries is fun

BY KEELY KALESKI
STAFF WRITER
kkaleski@oe.homecomm.net

Perched on a ladder, surrounded by leaves and ripe fruit, I smiled when I heard a child say, "Mom, it's a beautiful day, a perfect day for picking cherries Come down, all the good cherries are here Where are you?"

Since my bucket was nearly full, I followed the sound of laughter and found Carla Beers of Livonia, her children Kevin, 9, Nicky, 4, Larissa, 13, and cousin Rochelle Lampe

Like me, they were having a grand time picking sour cherries on a sunny July morning at Wasem Fruit Farm in Milan

Cherry pie, crisp and jam are reasons Lampe enjoys picking cherries

"And homemade sour cherry jam is a nice gift too," said the Garden City resident

Larissa likes picking cherries more than strawberries and peas because you don't have to bend over

"It's fun to do with the kids because they love to be outside," said Carla "It's great, and I like making jam"

"Hey, get back to work," my boyfriend Thomas said teasingly He's the one who got me started picking cherries, and red and black currants, which you can also pick at Wasem's We picked 16 pounds of sour cherries on Sunday, July 7, and nearly 3 pounds of black currants

On Wednesday morning we picked another 16 pounds of cherries, 5 pounds of red currants and 6 pounds of black currants

Pitting cherries is easy compared to cleaning currants But Thomas told me that we will have the most wonderful stuff to eat, absolutely delicious

Beth and her sister Jan grew up on the 80-acre Wasem farm, which was founded by their parents in 1942

U-pick updates

The u-pick sour cherry and currant season is nearly over. Call the farm at (734) 482-2342 for u-pick information and driving directions. Wasem's will also offer u-pick apples in the middle of September, and pumpkins later in the fall.

During apple season they operate a farm market stocked with homemade jellies and jams, doughnuts, cider, fruits, squash, corn stalks, honey, straw and other seasonal items.

The u-pick plum crop was messed up this year because of the weird weather. Other area farmers reported problems too. Coon Creek Orchard in Armada usually has u-pick sweet and sour cherries, but frost ruined this year's crop. They just started picking red and black raspberries. Call (586) 784-5062 for crop availability.

Erwin Orchards in South Lyon will have u-pick raspberries the first week of August. Call (248) 437-0150 or visit www.erwinorchards.com for updates.

Long Family Orchard in Commerce Township will offer u-pick sweet corn and tomatoes the last week of July. Call (248) 360-3774 for updates. Beth Wasem predicts this year's apple crop will be late - middle of September - because of the weather.

Good experience

Despite the unpredictability of farming, Beth enjoys her work, and encourages people to visit her family's farm to pick fruit because of the experience of it.

"Getting out in nature is a totally different experience than going to the supermarket," she said. "While you're out picking you notice things around you - a soybean or corn field, wild flowers."

"Picking your own fruit and vegetables puts you in touch with nature, it's a different energy. It's peaceful and quiet. You can hear birds chirping and see butterflies. The sounds are different from the city."

I agree with her that picking fruit, especially currants, can be a lot of work, but it causes you to appreciate the hard work a farmer goes through.

Thomas put some currants and cherries in the freezer, and made jam, jelly and compote. As the jars began stacking up, I thought about winter and how nice it will be to have fresh cherry jam and the memory of a perfect day for picking cherries.

Use tart cherries to make sweet desserts

See related story on Taste front

CHERRY BANANA BREAD

3/4 cup sugar
 1/2 stick margarine
 1 1/2 cups mashed bananas
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 2 eggs
 2 cups flour
 1 cup drained pitted and cut up sour cherries
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 2 teaspoons baking soda

Cream sugar and margarine. Add eggs, cherries and bananas. Mix dry ingredients together and add to first mixture.

Bake in two 9 by 4 inch greased bread pans at 350°F for 45 minutes or until toothpick comes out clean.

CHERRY COBBLER

2/3 cup sugar
 1 tablespoon cornstarch

1 cup water
 3 cups pitted tart cherries
 Mix sugar with cornstarch and water. Cook until slightly thickened. Remove from heat and add cherries. Pour into a greased 9 by 9-inch baking pan.

Topping
 1 cup flour
 2 tablespoons sugar
 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 3 tablespoons margarine
 1/2 cup milk

Mix flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut margarine into dry ingredients and add milk. Mix well and drop by teaspoons on top of the hot fruit mixture. Bake at 375°F for 20-25 minutes. Serve warm.

Coffee gives catfish a jolt

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 It's always fun to find an unexpected combination of seasonings or ingredients that give a standard item a new twist.

Here, in this easily prepared main dish of grilled or broiled catfish, the surprise is coffee. The coffee flavor, along with other staple ingredients including lemon juice and onion powder, balances the sweet, mild flavor of the catfish, which absorbs subtle marinades as successfully as assertive ones.

The coffee mixture sauce penetrates the fish to give a buttery-bitter flavor to every bite, in addition to a lightly burnished look.

Farm-raised catfish has a firm texture that stands up well to grilling, a cooking style many of us are in the mood for right now - but if you wish, the fish can be broiled in the oven, just as quickly.

GRILLED CATFISH WITH COFFEE BUTTER

(Preparation and cooking time about 25 minutes)
 1 tablespoon lemon juice

1 tablespoon instant coffee powder
 1/4 cup melted butter or margarine
 1/4 teaspoon onion powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 2 pounds catfish fillets

Combine lemon juice, instant coffee, butter, onion powder and salt. Brush mixture thickly onto fillets. Broil 3 to 4 inches from the outdoor grill for 10 minutes. Turn and brush fish again with sauce. Broil 10 minutes longer or until fish flakes easily. Brush the catfish again with the coffee butter and serve.

If you prefer to broil in the oven, have the rack about 6 inches from the broiler and cook for about 4 minutes per side.

Makes 6 servings

Bright cherry aromas are mirrored as fruit tastes in the accessible and likeable 2000 Hope Estate Merlot $14.

Don't analyze it, simply enjoy the mellow, fruity and delicious 2000 Hope Estate Shiraz $14. The best shiraz from the Hunter Valley come across more earthy and less jammy than shiraz from other regions.

They are also lower in alcohol and more elegant. This wine fits perfectly into that description. Really delicious and a great value, it has some peppery spice notes to add complexity to the finish. Try it with grilled meats.

Easy salads get you in and out of the kitchen quickly

BY J.M. HIRSCH
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

A great summer meal is one that gets you out of the kitchen, or at least minimizes your time in it. In warm weather, the ideal meal is quick to make, simple to throw together, and relies on a short list of ingredients that either pack plenty of flavor or carry it well. Start with quick to make. Aim for dishes that take less than 30 minutes, thereby improving the chances you'll make them after work as well as on weekends. Pasta salad is a good example. While the pasta boils (8 to 10 minutes), prepare a variety of diced vegetables, such as crisp red bell peppers, celery, carrots and cherry tomatoes. When the pasta is done, drain it but don't rinse it. Return it to the pot and add frozen corn kernels and peas (roughly 1/3 the volume of pasta). Toss, cover and let sit for 5 minutes. After 5 minutes, the pasta will be about room temperature and the peas and corn thawed. Add remaining vegetables and your favorite salad dressing to taste. Simple to throw together means more than easy assembly. It also reduces cleanup time, and can sometimes allow you the freedom to take the meal out, to assemble on the road. For an easy picnic, fill plastic containers with a variety of sandwich fixings, such as tomato and avocado slices, shredded lettuce, cheese (soy or dairy), and slices of marinated, baked tofu. Add a jar of roasted red peppers, a squeeze bottle of Dijon mustard and a loaf of bread and you have an easy outdoor meal.

Top with parsley and serve immediately or when cool.

Makes 4 servings
(Recipe for sauteed rosemary potatoes with cherry tomatoes and black olives is from Clarissa Hyman's "Cucina Siciliana, Interlink, 2002, $26.95)

Another simple summer dish that packs plenty of flavor is this cauliflower-green bean salad with arame from Deborah Friedson Chud's The Gourmet Prescription for Low Carb Cooking (Bay Books, 1999, $19.95).

Arame is a flavorful sea vegetable (veg-speak for seaweed, but don't be scared) that imparts a rich, savory taste to this dish. Try it lightly stir-fried in sesame oil and tossed with pasta, too. Arame is available at most natural food stores.

CAULIFLOWER-GREEN BEAN SALAD WITH ARAME

- (Preparation 25 minutes)
- 1 cup dried arame (about 1 ounce)
 - 3 tablespoons olive (plum) vinegar or red wine vinegar
 - 4 1/2 cups cooked cauliflower cut into bite sized pieces and chilled
 - 2 1/2 cups cooked green beans chilled
 - Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste
 - 2 teaspoons toasted sesame seed oil
 - 1 teaspoon spicy sesame oil
 - 1 large garlic clove minced
 - 1 tablespoon tahini (sesame seed paste)
 - 1 tablespoon water
 - 2 tablespoons minced scallions whites only

Place the arame in a small bowl and cover with warm water. Allow the arame to soak for 10 minutes. When tender, drain and rinse in a mesh strainer, then transfer to saucepan.

Add enough water to the pan to cover the arame. Add 1 tablespoon of the vinegar and simmer over a medium flame for 15 minutes. Add more water as needed to prevent drying. Drain and cool to room temperature.

To make the dressing, heat both sesame oils in a small skillet over a medium flame. Add the garlic and saute 1 minute. Remove from the heat and stir in remaining vinegar. Cool to room temperature.

Combine the oil mixture, tahini and water in a blender and process until smooth. Stir in the scallions.

In a large bowl combine the cauliflower, green beans and arame. Add the dressing and toss well to coat. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Get a healthy boost with berries

BY CLIFFORD PUGH
FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Finally, there's something good for you that tastes good.

Pass the berries, please. Recent research suggests that strawberries, raspberries and blueberries may help prevent cancer, heart disease, diabetes related circulation problems and other diseases.

Of course, that's without the mound of whipped cream on top.

For a long time, nutritionists have recognized berries as a valuable source of vitamin C. Ten medium strawberries provide more than 100 percent of the daily requirement of vitamin C.

Now scientists are joining in the praise because berries are rich in antioxidants that vacuum up cell damaging free radicals.

Berries held the top three slots in a Tufts

University study measuring antioxidant levels of 50 fresh fruits and vegetables, according to a report in Newsweek magazine. The berries get much of their antioxidant strength from anthocyanin pigments that give the red, purple or blue tint.

Another Tufts study indicates that blueberries help fight age-related memory loss. A Clemson University study indicates that strawberries and raspberries can block two kinds of carcinogens that might lead to cancer.

No one has figured out yet how many berries are needed each day for such health benefits.

The National Cancer Institute urges Americans to eat five to nine servings of fruits and vegetables from five color groups - orange, red, green, white and blue-purple - a day.

The good news is that it's easier to get finicky eaters to sample berries than to try broccoli. One survey by a trade group found that fresh strawberries were consumed in nearly 94 percent of households.

One easy way to add berries to your diet is to sprinkle some on a bowl of cereal in the morning.

A low-fat and surprisingly tasty way to enjoy a bowl of strawberries is to drizzle a couple of tablespoons of good quality balsamic vinegar over them.

In the Frugal Gourmet Whole Family Cookbook, Jeff Smith writes that "what (balsamic vinegar) does for a ripe strawberry can only be tasted, not described. I dare you to try this one on your household."

Another suggestion from Smith, in The Frugal Gourmet Cooks Three Ancient Cusines, is to mix fresh strawberries with yogurt and drizzle with honey.

From a health standpoint, honey is better than sugar because it takes longer to digest, so it requires your pancreas to produce less insulin and prevents diabetes, according to Men's Health magazine.

Toss up a quick, easy pasta salad

HERBED SEAFOOD PASTA

- (Preparation about 20 minutes)
- 2 tablespoons minced dill
 - 2 tablespoons minced parsley
 - 2 tablespoons minced chives
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons dry mustard
 - 1/4 cup extra virgin olive oil
 - 1/2 pound tricolor rotini or spiral pasta
 - 1 head fennel sliced into thin strips
 - 2 stalks celery chopped
 - 2 carrots peeled and chopped
 - 1 pound crabmeat or surimi cut in small chunks
 - 2 cups shredded Jarlsberg cheese

To make dressing, in a large bowl, mix dill, parsley, chives, mustard and oil. Cook pasta in boiling water according to package instructions, 3 minutes before cooked to al dente stage. Add fennel, celery and carrots.

Drain, transfer pasta mixture to the bowl with the dressing, add crabmeat and toss. Add shredded cheese and toss again. Serve immediately or re-warm in microwave, loosely covered. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

CONFETTI PASTA SALAD

- (Preparation about 30 minutes)
- 6 1/2 ounce jar marinated artichoke hearts undrained
 - 1/2 cup red wine vinegar

- 2 rounded tablespoons country style mustard
- 1/3 cup chopped sundried tomatoes
- 3 cups cooked tricolor pasta cooled
- 1 1/2 cups shredded Jarlsberg regular or the lighter version
- 1 1/2 cups celery root julienne cut (matchstick style)
- 1 1/2 cups chopped green or yellow bell pepper

In a large salad bowl, mix together artichoke hearts, vinegar, mustard and tomatoes. Add pasta, cheese and pepper, toss well and serve at room temperature. Makes 6 to 8 servings. (Recipes from Jarlsberg cheese)

SAUTEED ROSEMARY POTATOES WITH CHERRY TOMATOES AND BLACK OLIVES

- (Preparation 35 minutes)
- 8 medium red skinned potatoes
 - 2 to 3 tablespoons olive oil
 - 2 to 3 tablespoons chopped fresh rosemary
 - 4 large cloves garlic peeled
 - Pinch of salt
 - Peperoncino or freshly ground black pepper
 - 12 cherry tomatoes
 - 12 black olives
 - Fresh parsley chopped

Peel the potatoes and cut into 1/2 inch chunks. Parboil them for 10 minutes, then drain and blot to absorb excess moisture.

Heat the olive oil in a medium skillet over a medium flame. Add the potatoes, rosemary, garlic salt and "a lot of peperoncino or black pepper, as much as you can take."

Toss the potatoes in the pan to coat with oil and herbs, then cook for 10 to 15 minutes, or crisp and brown. Stir occasionally to prevent from sticking.

During the last few minutes of browning, add the tomatoes and olives and mix gently. Remove from the heat when tomato skins begin to wrinkle or brown.

SHREDDED PORK WRAPS WITH LEMON COLESLAW

- (Active time 1 1/2 hours start to finish 3 1/2 hours)
- 1 medium onion chopped
 - 1 garlic clove minced
 - 1 tablespoon olive oil
 - 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
 - 1/4 cup ketchup
 - 2 tablespoons ketchup style chili sauce
 - 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
 - 1 teaspoon Tabasco
 - 3/4 cup water
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
 - One 12 ounce pork tenderloin halved crosswise

Two 10 by 9 inch sheets Middle Eastern style soft flatbread such as lavash, halved crosswise or four 8 to 9 inch flour tortillas.

Lemon coleslaw (recipe follows).

Cook onion and garlic in oil in a 3 to 4-quart heavy pot over moderate heat, stirring, until golden about 8 minutes. Stir in remaining ingredients except pork, lavash and coleslaw, and simmer, covered, 10 minutes. Add pork and simmer, covered, turning occasionally until tender about 45 minutes.

Transfer pork with tongs to a cutting board. Puree cooking liquid in a blender until smooth (use caution when blending hot liquids) and return to pot. When pork is cool enough to handle, shred lengthwise with your fingers or 2 forks and add to sauce. Simmer stirring just until pork is heated through.

Divide shredded pork among pieces of lavash and top with some coleslaw. Then wrap lavash around to form a cone. Makes 4 servings.

LEMON COLESLAW

- (Active time 40 minutes start to finish 1 1/2 hours)
- 2 tablespoons low fat sour cream
 - 2 teaspoons low fat mayonnaise
 - 1/2 teaspoon fine y gratec fresh lemon zest
 - 4 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
 - 1 teaspoon sugar
 - 3 tablespoons water
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1/8 teaspoon black pepper
 - 1 pound green cabbage thinly sliced (4 cups)
 - 2 carrots cut into julienned strips or coarsely grated
 - 1 bunch scallions thinly sliced diagonally (1 cup)
 - 1/2 cup chopped fresh flat leaf parsley

Whisk together sour cream, mayonnaise, zest, lemon juice, sugar, water, salt and pepper in a large bowl until sugar is dissolved. Add cabbage, carrots, scallions and parsley and toss well. Chill, covered, 1 hour to allow flavors to develop. Season with salt and pepper. Makes 4 servings.

CONCERT OF COLORS

Annual festival offers music from Ray Charles to steel drums

Performing: Ray Charles is the superstar at Concert of Colors

STAFF WRITER
lmini@oe homecomm net

Ian Ferguson remembers his homeland Jamaica whenever he plays the steel drums with his band mates from the Uprizin' Steel Pan Band

Ferguson's mind drifts back the tropical island where he played barefoot in the fresh air whenever the band performs Calypso, Reggae, Jamaican Rap and even classic operatic pieces

The Southfield man loves Jamaica, steel drums, singing and performing with Uprizin' Its music makes him happy The band is playing July 19-21 at the 10th annual free Concert of Colors at Detroit's Chene Park All sorts of world music from Arabic to Indian to R&B's Ray Charles can be heard there Uprizin' embraces the festival

"Our music encompasses all cultures Everyone is really welcome to come together and have a good time," Ferguson said

Arguably the hottest steel drum band in metro-Detroit, Uprizin' performs throughout metro-Detroit and the Concert of Colors is one of the highlights It will play on the Rhythm Stage at 4:30 p.m. on Sunday

The festival theme is to bring communities together through free music and cultural understanding — a philosophy that Uprizin' believes in The friendly on-stage personalities of each band member seem to relax crowds and draw people to the dance floor Ferguson proudly talks about his band members from throughout the world and their upcoming CD this summer

Uprizin's musical director, leader, tenor and double tenor is Lyndon Sorzano who is from Trinidad and currently resides in Detroit Sharon Gorden, also from Trinidad is the formally trained pianist who plays bass pann in the band Detroiter

'Flashes and Lies' characters more like caricatures

BY VICTORIA DIAZ
SPECIAL WRITER
Flashes and Lies, by Claire Vedensky Korn (Creative Arts Book Company, $14.95 - paperback)

BOOK BEAT

VICTORIA DIAZ

Well, that's not exactly true. One day, she fibs a little and, as so often happens in life, one thing leads to another

An odd thought struck me while reading this book. It has about it the flavor of a rather off beat, entertaining comic book. But, as a novel, it seems a little thin and underdeveloped at times.

In a sense, it's an adventure story, and the adventure begins when Teddie Olds foils the robbery of a Detroit bank one winter's day.

She does this by lunging at the would-be thief as he runs past, dropping "her whole self, full length, face down, onto (his) back."

This does the trick effectively, since Teddie is both (a) determined and (b) a plus-size

Eventually, in the course of Flashes and Lies, we meet a cast that, though occasionally colorful, often seem more like caricature than characters alive on the page.

First, there's Teddie herself. Think of her as overweight and mousy in appearance (but nevertheless attractive to a collection of men), someone who "remembered every single moment of her life" (save one). This last is rather astonishing, to say the least, and doesn't do much toward making the leading lady a credible entity in the story.

Then, there's Teddie's mother, Thea, a famous and talented photographer who remains a dazzling femme fatale despite her advancing age. Sometimes madcap and appealing, sometimes monstrously imperious and cold - especially toward her daughters - we're never quite sure how we're supposed to view her or to feel about her. Perhaps even more bothersome. So extreme is her behavior that we never quite find her convincing, either.

Many readers may find the remainder of the players less than believable and rather two-dimensional as well. Teddie's cheating husband, Howie, is so helpless in the kitchen that he can't even order take-out without assistance from her (by the end of the book, though, he's progressed to a basic knowledge of the procedure). Her sister, Aurora, is a rather blurry amalgam of whimsy and high fashion sense.

Teddie's son, Zach, is a sensitive schoolteacher who loves a dying AIDS patient. Her young daughter, Jesse, wears a nose ring and lives in an apartment that ought to be written up by the local health department, but she's a good sort, and provides a strong shoulder for her rather damp and dithering mom to cry on.

Though the story itself may seem a little hodgepodge and piecemeal, readers will discern a subtle theme or thread that runs throughout and, ultimately, ties everything together, however. This story of a woman going through "the change" is a story of a metamorphosis, of a woman making discoveries about herself, her past, and those around her. Sometimes the voyage is bumpy, sometimes it's awash in tears and knee-deep in sentiment, sometimes it seems to drift a little off-course, or to be following a map of never-never land.

But, ultimately, when Teddie finds herself at the equator and looking forward to a real "sea change," we realize that we wish her well, and even hope we might accompany her on another adventure - this time to the volcanic Galapagos Islands where the court reporter will join a university group to explore "the adaptations of the flora and fauna," and check out those leathery old turtles.

Jaws author helps make day at the beach go swimmingly

ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

Those beachgoers scared out of their wits and out of the water by Peter Benchley's 1974 shark-attack thriller Jaws might finally be able to go back in for a dip.

In Shark Trouble (Random House), Benchley's first nonfiction book, he offers advice on how to swim safely in the ocean and reduce the chance of a shark attack.

Benchley combines tales from his personal experience with practical tips about safe swimming and information about the many types of sharks, which sharks threaten humans, the odds of being attacked and how to survive.

Shark Trouble is among the latest hardcover books, which include fiction by Danielle Steel, Jude Deveraux and Richard Russo, and nonfiction by Daniel Pearl, Martin Amis and Peter Gay.

In Steel's 55th novel, Sunset in St. Tropez (Delacorte) three New York couples go ahead with their vacation plans in the South of France after one of the women unexpectedly dies. But surprise! The luxurious St. Tropez villa described in the travel brochure turns out to be a mess, complete with cobwebs and an eccentric housekeeper, and the new widower finds grief relief in a much-younger film actress.

Another unexpected death and another ramshackle shack appear in Deveraux's The Mulberry Tree (Atria). When billionaire James Manville dies in a plane crash, he inexplicably leaves his fortune to siblings he has long despised. Lillian, his shy, devoted and unassuming widow, inherits only a dilapidated farmhouse in Virginia. Life on the farm becomes more exciting when Lillian learns about a scandal from James' childhood involving a group called The

Golden Six

The Whore's Child (Knopf) is the first volume of short stories by Russo, whose novel Empire Falls won a 2002 Pulitzer Prize. Among the seven stories is the title tale, in which a college writing workshop is interrupted by an elderly nun's incredible story about being the abandoned child of a prostitute. In Joy Ride, an adolescent describes "escaping" with his mother on a cross-country drive.

And The Mysteries of Linwood Hart is a novella about a curious boy whose interest in playing baseball builds while his parents' marriage crumbles.

Evan Hunter, author of 70 plus novels - including about 50 as Ed McBain - adds another to his list with The Moment She Was Gone (Simon & Schuster). When Annie disappears for the umpteenth time, her twin brother, their mother and other family members meet to discuss what to do.

As they review Annie's long history of eccentric behavior, paranoia and brushes with danger, each family member begins to accept the reality of Annie's mental illness and blame for having ignored it so long.

One might say Barbara Delinsky's An Accidental Woman (Simon & Schuster) is a "sappy" novel since it's set during maple syrup harvesting season in Lake Henry, N.H. Main players include Heather, a respected, longtime resident who is arrested by the FBI; Poppy, her best friend, a paraplegic who dreams of marriage and family; and Griffin, a visiting writer interested in Heather's story and in Poppy's charms.

At Home in the World (Wall Street Journal-Simon & Schuster) is a collection of 50 articles by Pearl, The Wall Street Journal reporter who was kidnapped and murdered this year by

Islamic extremists in Pakistan. Datelines range from Beirut to Bombay, London and Los Angeles. Topics include child beauty pageants in the South, the Taliban's lucrative business of smuggling TV sets and other consumer goods, the creation of the world's largest Persian rug, and rock 'n' roll, Iran style.

Amis blends history and memoir in Koba the Dread, Laughter and the Twenty Million (Talk Miramax). The history covers Russian rule from 1917-1953, under Lenin and Stalin. Amis scrutinizes their motives and actions, and examines the suffering they caused millions. Meanwhile, he reminisces about his father, poet and author Kingsley Amis, who had been a staunch communist before becoming an equally rabid anti-communist by the time Martin was in college.

Is realist fiction realistic? Not always, claims Gay in Savage Reprisals (Norton). He focuses on three masterpieces of literary realism - Bleak House (1853) by Charles Dickens,

Madame Bovary (1857) by Gustav Flaubert and Buddenbrooks (1901) by Thomas Mann - to show how fiction is not always a reliable mirror of the political and social climate of its era because novelists have sometimes manipulated facts for cultural, literary or personal reasons.

Other fiction

Isolde: Queen of the Western Isle (Crown) by Rosalind Miles is the first in a planned series about lovers Tristan and Isolde, the princess and knight of Celtic legend, and in modern-day Ireland, a middle-aged Dubliner trapped in a dull marriage finds a lover and becomes the archivist of the works of a famous filmmaker in A Wild People (St. Martin's) by Hugh Leonard.

The Trolley (The New Press) is Nobel Prize winner Claude Simon's novella about an old man recalling his childhood and trips to school on the trolley. A different sort of journey, Lewis and Clark's exploration of the American West, is the subject of Eclipse (Forge) by Richard S. Wheeler.

Tales of Southern California are told in Pasadena (Random House) David Ebershoff's saga of the life and loves of a woman during the first half of the 20th century and in Waffaring at Wauwaly in Silver Lake (Knopf) James McCourt's seven short stories featuring an aging but still employed, Hollywood film star. Also for short story fans,

The Hermit's Story (Houghton Mifflin) by Rick Bass has 10 stories including the title tale about a couple who walk on the floor of a lake frozen over with ice.

Green Calder Grass (Kensington), Janet Daley's latest Calder family installment, features the disruptive return of the former wife of Ty Calder, who has remarried Inflating a Dog (Picador USA) is Eric Kraft's comic tale about a bored 1950s housewife who dreams of owning and operating a tour boat.

Other nonfiction

Tragic tales are told in Sailors to the End (Morrow) by Gregory A. Freeman, about the 1967 fire that killed 134 men aboard the carrier USS Forrester, and in A World Turned Over (Simon & Schuster), Lorian Hemingway's chronicle of a 1966 tornado that killed 14 and demolished a shopping center in her hometown of Jackson, Miss.

Inventions change the world in A Thread Across the Ocean (Walker) John Steele Gordon's telling of the laying of the first trans Atlantic cable in 1866 and in Barbed Wire (The New Press) Oliver Razac's analysis of the stuff's important contributions since an Illinois farmer invented it in 1874.

In American Road (Henry

Holt), Pete Davies chronicles a 62-day coast-to-coast excursion by a caravan of military vehicles in 1919 to emphasize the need for good roads. Another kind of trip is on tap in Cocaine (St. Martin's), Dominic Streatfield's unauthorized biography of the drug, since its discovery by European explorers in the New World 500 years ago.

Life stories in The Summer of My Greek Taverna (Simon & Schuster), American Tom Stone recalls living in Greece, including a stint as chef at a seaside taverna on the island of Patmos, in Bronx Boy (St. Martin's), novelist Jerome Charyn offers the third and final volume in his memoir trilogy, and in Trains of Thought (Norton) Victor Brombert, Princeton University literature professor, relates tales of his 1930s Paris childhood, escape to America, and his return to Paris as a US soldier to celebrate its liberation.

Slander (Crown) is the subject as Ann Coulter continues her attack on liberal politics. And Joseph Epstein documents debutante balls, prep schools, the Social Register, designer food and fashion, and other uppity entities in Snobbery: The American Version (Houghton Mifflin).

Improve your camera work by 'reading' other photographs

Did you know that one of the best ways to improve your photography is by closely looking at the photographs of others?

Whether it's browsing through a gallery or leisurely thumbing through a good photography book, many benefits can be yours by a good, hard, critical look and analysis of the photographs. It doesn't matter if you prefer landscapes, street scenes, abstracts, people pictures, color or black and white. The important thing is to start looking at pictures and to begin to understand not only what the photographer is trying to communicate but, more importantly, how he or she is doing it and what the picture is doing to you.

By tuning into your own emotions and asking yourself some important questions as you "read" a photograph, you'll gain insight and technical skills that will certainly help you in making your own photographs.

Begin by asking what the subject or main theme of the photograph is. Does it move you and how do you respond to it? How do you suppose the photographer felt about it?

Study the lighting. Is it harsh or soft? What direction is it coming from and what time of day do you think it was? Ask yourself what might happen to the picture if the lighting were different.

What camera position was used — near or far, low angle or high? Why do you think the photographer used a particular camera position and what does it do for the picture? How might another camera location affect the photograph?

What lens do you think was

used and why? Was it a wide angle, normal or perhaps a telephoto?

As you know, a lens' focal length and aperture greatly affect depth-of-field. Is there a lot of depth-of-field or little in the picture? How would a change in depth-of-field alter the final image?

What about shutter speed — slow or fast? Is the subject blurred in motion or caught at the peak of the action? Look for use of filters or any other special effects, too.

Of course, you should study the composition carefully. How are the elements of the picture arranged and does it all make sense to you?

Is the photograph telling a story? If so, tune into your feelings of it. Try to interpret what the photographer is trying to say and what your responses are.

Matthew Earl Lemons is a self-taught drummer who is also skilled in blues, salsa and jazz. Also from Detroit is Maxwell, the band's percussionist who also creates solo music.

R&B legend Ray Charles will perform Saturday night.

Native American Folk singer Buffy Sainte-Marie writer of (Love lift us up) Where We Belong will be there too. Other bands include African jazz trumpet player and freedom fighter Hugh Masekela, the Latin band Ozomoti, Middle Eastern Rocker Rachid Taha, Barbados Caribbean band Square One, Afro-Cuban/hip-hop/funk musician Yerba Buena and Indian artist Trichy Sankaran of Delhi and more.

Besides the main stage, there will be a rhythm stage and children's arts and crafts activity area that celebrates diversity. On Saturday a Samba Clinic will be held by Eric Paton for adults.

If you miss Uprizin' at Concert of Colors you can see them perform during the evenings at the Belleville Grill on July 20, August 1, 25, 28 and 29th. They also will perform in the evening at St. Clair Shores Beach Grill on Aug. 1. On July 18, 25 and August 8, 15 and 22 the band will perform at Detroit's Omni River Place and at the Greektown Casino on August 7.

TRAVEL

SPECIAL WRITER

Traverse City and her sister communities are hosting a musical extravaganza and you're invited!

Beginning Thursday, July 25 through Tuesday, July 30, the region will feature performances by national, regional and local jazz musicians at the first Traverse JAZZ Festival

"We built the festival around the tenth anniversary of the Suttons Bay Jazzfest," said Jeff Haas, a spokesperson for the Traverse City Convention & Visitors Bureau and the Traverse JAZZ Festival Haas, a former Oakland County resident, is also a jazz musician and will perform at the celebration

The Ramsey Lewis Trio, Dave Brubeck Quartet, Alexander Zonjic and a potpourri of other artists will delight audiences at the six-day fest

"It is an incredible opportunity for this community to book Ramsey Lewis," Haas said. He described Lewis as a wonderful, high-quality musician and very accessible

Bring the kids, as many of the events are family-friendly. Some performances require admission, others are free

Here's the scoop on who's playing where and when during the fest

Music amid sculpture: Marvin Kahn will play with the Keith Vreeland Trio at Michigan Legacy Art Park Friday, July 26. The amphitheater is on the grounds of Crystal Mountain Resort in Thompsonville

Get away to Sedona, Arizona

It's hot in Sedona, Arizona during August, but beautiful in March. It's not too early to begin planning a winter getaway, and Sedona might just be the ticket you've been looking for

Sedona is a two-hour drive north of Phoenix. It offers hiking, biking, golf, four-wheel-drive and Jeep tours, hot-air balloon rides, scenic drives

Sedona is an artist's colony with 40 galleries, many featuring Western works that can run well into five figures

Tlaquepaque (pronounced "T-laca-pocky") is an upscale arts and crafts center filled with boutiques, galleries and restaurants

NO PARKING IN THESE AREAS

ATA is making it easier than ever to get to the Art Area. Art Fair. Simply park your car at Woodward Mall or Pioneer High School for free and take a shuttle to show one of the Art Fair sites (South University and State on Main and William). And with shuttles running from 9 am to 6 pm Wed-Fri and 9 am to 7 pm Sat, we'll be ready to go when you are. Cost is just $1.50 each way, but we think you'll find it much more valuable than that. For more information, call 734-996-8448 or visit www.theRide.org. Only service shuttle is shown at ATA FRUIT SHOW.
