Dear Readers:

Your hometown Plymouth Observer has a fresh new look and a new size. It's leaner - 15 inches narrower - easier to hold and updated with a fresh new typeface, headline style and graphics. We've changed the look but kept the hometown appeal and your favorite sections.

Our new narrow width necessitated some press retooling and some extra time. As a result, some papers were late on Thursday. This was not the fault of your newspaper carrier.

In addition to our new look, the O&E has installed a new classified ad computer system which will help us serve you better. The new system is up and running but we are continuing to work through some bugs. We apologize for any inconvenience and/or delays it has caused our classified customers.

As always, we welcome your comments. You can reach me at (734) 953-2100 (for Observer editions) or by e-mail at srosiek@oehomecomm.net. Sincerely,

Susan Rosiek, Executive Editor

Symphony grant

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra has received a $3,500 grant from Marshall Field's Project Imagine Fund to sponsor the orchestra's Instrumentorship Program. The program, part of the orchestra's schools outreach, is designed to involve Plymouth-Canton middle school students under the direction of Catherine Depentu and Erin Zurbuchen with musical performance practices through direct contact and a performance with orchestra musicians. Among the instrumentors are conductor Nan Washburn, PSO musicians and PSO string coaches.

We're so grateful for Marshall Field's gift to ensure this program sees its third year. Plymouth Symphony Society President Linda Alvarado said the children were so excited after the Side by Side experience they wouldn't let Nan (Washburn) leave the building without promising we would find a way for the program to continue.

The Instrumentorship program concludes this school year with a Feb. 8 performance 'Organ mania!' at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church. Call the symphony office (734) 451-2112.

Harmony House sings last sad note

Independents say finding a niche is key to filling void left by chain's demise

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM, STAFF WRITER

News of Harmony House's demise drew sympathy last week from independent retailers, who said they understand too well the struggle of competing against larger competitors. As part of ceasing operations by year's end, Harmony House will shut down all 21 of its Detroit area stores. The 55-year-old family-run chain was founded in Hazel Park.

Canton's Harmony House has been in a shopping center at the northwest corner of Sheldon and Ford for three years.

Harmony House President Bill Thom has said in published interviews that the company would not disclose an exact timeline for store closures until employees have been notified. He did not return telephone calls seeking comment.

A sales associate at the Canton store, who asked not to be named, said that not knowing when the store will close is difficult for employees.

"It's not fair to us, especially the full-time employees," said the associate, who will be among 200 chain-wide losing their job. Some employees have been

Prep band leader enjoys a solid debut

BY TONY BRUSCATO, STAFF WRITER

When he was first hired nearly a year ago, Clayton Wachholz admits he felt the pressure of being named director of the Plymouth-Canton Marching Band, one of the top programs in the country.

"I certainly felt it, but I had good people around me, giving me ideas," said Wachholz, reflecting on his first year. "I've tried to take every day in stride and not worry about what the perceptions of me were. Just try and do good work on a consistent basis, and let the chips fall where they may."

Wachholz said his biggest challenge in taking over a renowned band was keeping the traditions but at the same time adding some of his own trademarks to the program.

"I don't know how successful I was at that, but I really tried hard to make sure the seniors felt they had a rewarding experience," he said. Now that they have graduated and the younger kids are here, I can start to mold them into my idea of what a great band member should be. It's very difficult, one of the most difficult things a band director can do, because students are really devoted to their band teachers."

The former president of the Plymouth-Canton Music Boosters, Bob Boyko, said considering the cards Wachholz was dealt, he did a great job.

"I think he had an excellent first year," said Boyko. "He started just before band season, without the knowledge of the staff, students, and even the booster club, and fit in well. I think a state championship and third place nationally speaks for itself."

Before coming to Plymouth-Canton, Wachholz was a teaching assistant at the University of Wisconsin. Prior to that, at Whitnall High School in Greenfield, Wis., Wachholz not only taught marching band, but also had a hand in teaching concert bands, a jazz studies class and a chamber orchestra, all types of music he wanted to establish in Plymouth-Canton.

"We had very little chamber music happening, we have two jazz ensembles of about 20 pieces each, and the tap band has done a few festivals," said Wachholz. "It's going to take us some time to get the jazz ensembles

Patterson claims evidence clears him

BY TONY BRUSCATO, STAFF WRITER

State Rep. Bruce Patterson (R-Canton Township) said Friday he presented evidence to police on Monday which proves he did not attack Rep. John Stewart (R-Plymouth Township) during a 13th Republican meeting June 20 at the Maplewood Community Center in Garden City.

Stewart claimed Patterson followed him outside the Maplewood Center and said,

"You want a piece of me?" While attempting to get into his car, Stewart said he suffered bruises to his chest and hand when Patterson began pushing the door against him.

Patterson said he is innocent, that battery didn't occur and "I will prove it. I believe that all the witnesses will attest that nothing happened. I didn't go out into the parking lot. At some point it's clearly a planted story."

Stewart was not available for comment on these developments.

Patterson didn't deny the fact he goaded Stewart at the Republican meeting.

"As I'm finishing my remarks, John Stewart walks into the room and I said, 'Now, here, entering the room, is the least accomplished administrator in all of Lansing, John Stewart. He's not even a Republican and he's already admitted that to lobbyists,'" Patterson said. "I'm

20th challengers face off at forum

BY TONY BRUSCATO, STAFF WRITER

Regional public transportation, the recently passed increase in the cigarette tax and the environment were among the topics discussed by two Republicans and one Democrat vying for the 20th House District seat at the Plymouth Observer-League of Women Voters candidates forum Thursday night.

Two Republicans, incumbent Rep. John Stewart of Plymouth Township and challenger Jonathon Grant of Plymouth, will battle it out in the Aug. 6 primary. The winner will then take on Democrat Mark Blackwell of Wayne in the Nov. 5 general election.

Blackwell, 35, said he's in favor of the SMART bus millage to keep regional transportation running. "It gives people a way to get to their jobs, and people who don't have automobiles, especially seniors that don't drive," he said. "I will talk with local leaders and elected representatives to get their input, see how it can be improved, and expand it."

Grant questioned where the money would come from to support the idea.

"I'm not opposed to regional transportation, however, how are we

PLYMOUTH PIPELINE

ADDICTION, RECOVERY WORKSHOP

On Tuesday, more than 120 juvenile justice workers, police officers, juvenile justice administrators and Family Court employees will attend Growth Works' first workshop on adolescent addiction and recovery.

The workshop, to be held at the Summit in the Park in Canton Township, will address a variety of issues, focusing on methods and techniques to intervene and treat adolescent addiction and to assist young people in developing and sustaining a personal recovery from substance dependency.

The most pervasive influence on young people's well-being is their drug and alcohol usage," said Dale Yagiela, Growth Works executive director. "We tend to trivialize the role drug and alcohol use plays in school failure, juvenile crime and other at-risk events."

"We like to say young people are only experimenting or just using marijuana, when in fact they may be using and suffering severe consequences directly attributed to their drug use," Yagiela added. "Since kids are seldom open about their drug use, their problems are viewed as resulting from other causes by school counselors, therapists, police and juvenile justice workers."

The workshop will feature presentations by Ron Harrison, Dr. David Logan, Russell Goodwin, Michael Gillespie and Ed Spitsbergen. Gillespie is Growth Works' chemical dependence clinical director, and Spitsbergen is Growth Works' program director. Each presenter will discuss a different aspect of adolescent addiction, treatment and recovery.

For more information, call Yagiela or Judi Matouka at (734) 455-4095.

Road closure
The right two lanes of Haggerty at Ann Arbor Road will be closed to traffic for five days beginning Monday.

Traffic will be shifted to the east side of Haggerty, with one lane in each direction. The closure will allow reconstruction of the pavement in the area.

CRAFTERS WANTED

The organizers of the craft show at the Plymouth Fall Festival are looking for 20 more artists and craftsmen to take part in the show, Sept. 7 and 8. The show will be located at Veterans' Park in front of Central Middle School on Main Street. Spots 10-foot by 10-foot are $75 per day — two-day crafters will get priority spots.

For more information about the show and how to apply, call Colleen Brown at 734-455-1614 or log onto the Web at www.plymouth-fallfestival.com or contact Brown by e-mail at colleen.brown@plymouthfallfestival.com.

SIDEWALK SALE

The annual porch sale at Walker Buzenberg will be anything but ordinary this year. Held in conjunction with Plymouth's annual sidewalk sale, the furniture store this year will give away lemonade and balloons and entertain customers with a Barbershop Quartet.

The sale takes place July 26-28. The Barbershop Quartet will entertain Friday, July 26 from 7-8 p.m.

The store will offer special drawings for unique accent pieces from the PGA Tour Home Collection by Hooker Furniture.

No purchase will be necessary to win. Home furnishings will also be displayed at what store officials called significant savings outside on the porch and inside the store. For more information, call the store, (734) 459-1800.

RESTAURANT CRAWL

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce has come up with something new for this year's Old Village Restaurant Crawl Aug. 7.

According to Fran Toney, the chamber's executive director, a horse and carriage will transport ticket holders to and from the various restaurants participating in this year's crawl.

The crawl, in its third year, is designed to expose ticket-holders to the specialties of Old Village restaurants.

"Last year's response was overwhelming," said Toney. "We're encouraging folks to buy their tickets now while they last."

Seven restaurants have signed up to participate in the crawl, including Bushel's Cafe, Grecian Cafe, Jack Dunleavy's Grill, Lower Town Grill, Plymouth Fish & Seafood, Shelly's Chicken Manor and Station 885.

Tickets are available at any of the participating restaurants or the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, 386 S. Main. Cost is $15 per person for adults, $5 for children 12 and under. Tickets can also be purchased by credit card from the chamber office.

For more information, call the chamber office, (734) 453-1540.

TREE DEADLINE

With only a handful of months remaining until the lighting of the 2002 State Holiday Tree, the Department of Management and Budget will conclude its search for a tree Aug. 15.

The search is open to any individual or organization which would like to join in the holiday spirit by contributing a tree to decorate the front lawn of the State Capitol building.

In order to be considered, the tree must be a spruce, fir or Douglas fir, be at least 65 feet tall, have a maximum crown diameter of 30 feet and trunk diameter of no more than 30 inches, be reasonably close to roads so that trucks can transport it, and be available at no charge.

Anyone wishing to enter the holiday tree search should send information, including a contact person and telephone number, the location and specific information regarding the tree and, if possible, a photo, to Holiday Tree Selection, State of Michigan, Department of Management and Budget, P.O. Box 30026, Lansing, MI 48909.

Mark Mijnsbergen, a physical therapist at Hands On Center in Plymouth, works on the neck of patient Dorothy Petro of Livonia

Center counts on new location to help better serve patients' needs

BY SHAUN GARTH WALKER
CORRESPONDENT

For the first time in 14 years, patients at the Hands On Center for Physical Therapy had to check the address before entering

Since July 8, the Hands On Center for Physical Therapy has been treating patients at a new location in downtown Plymouth. The center, located on Forest for the past 14 years, is now operating out of the old Standard Federal building on Main St.

Mark Mijnsbergen, one of Hands On's three Dutch owners, said the new location will help to better serve patients. He said that while the square footage is about the same at the new location, there are some differences.

"This (old location) place is not ideal for what we do," Mijnsbergen said. "(The new location) will serve new patients better."

Improved parking, more visibility and the chance to actually own their own building were all factors that influenced the decision. Also, the new building is only one story, so everything will be 100 percent handicap-accessible. The building on Forest is two floors.

Hands On was started in 1988 by a local couple. Mijnsbergen was contracted out to help at the clinic in 1989. In 1996 he, along with Bob Schoemaker and Johan Comuth, took over the business. Things have been going strong ever since.

Mijnsbergen says the biggest reason Hands On has done so well is because of the style of therapy they use with patients.

"Manual therapy is our biggest thing," he said. "Our biggest function is to restore function."

Manual therapy differs from normal therapy. With normal therapy, a patient will be at an appointment for about an hour. During that time the patient will have a physical therapist or a massage therapist working with them for five to 10 minutes. After that, the patient is usually set to work on gym machines before receiving ultrasound treatment.

The biggest difference between normal therapy and the manual therapy practiced at Hands On is that of human involvement. At Hands On patients are always being worked with by one of the physical therapists or massage therapists.

This is the difference to which Anna Mae Canty, a 69-year-old Livonia resident, attributes her success therapy.

"It's the best therapy I've ever had," Canty said. "I just can't get over the difference in therapy."

Canty had surgery two years ago on her rotator cuff. After her surgery, she was sent to a local hospital to have physical therapy. But nothing seemed to help her regain mobility. Then she came to Hands On.

"I've been progressing so rapidly," she said. "I just can't brag enough about this place."

Mijnsbergen basks in such glowing endorsements.

"I think we've established a reputation," he said. "We're fairly proud of what we've done."

Forum gives House hopefuls platform

BY TEDD SCHNEIDER
STAFF WRITER

Four candidates seeking to represent most of Canton in the Michigan House of Representatives expressed some similar views but differed on key issues like education and balancing the state budget during a forum Thursday at Plymouth City Hall.

Democrats Eric LaCruze and Mark Slavens, and Republicans Phil LaJoy and Herb Scott face off in the Aug. 6 primary for the 21st District House seat, currently held by Bruce Patterson, R-Canton. The district includes Canton Township west of I-275, Van Buren Township and Belleville. Patterson is seeking a state Senate seat.

The July 2 budget deal — which will increase the tax on cigarettes and delay a planned cut in the Single Business Tax — along with the idea of "tweaking" Proposal A to find additional money for schools drew some of the sharpest comments.

"The Single Business Tax should be phased out according to plan and on the existing timetable," said LaCruze. "Small business is the core of our business."

Slavens agreed, saying the budget deal "is another example of the current government breaking its promise to the people."

But the two Republicans had a different take. LaJoy said he would have reluctantly voted for the legislation rather than lowering the state's "rainy day" fund by $200 million and Scott said that although he's fundamentally against all tax increases, the choice was better than making "deep cuts" in health care and other vital programs to balance the budget.

Changing Proposal A also brought out differences in the candidates — and not just along party lines.

Democrat Slavens, who supports taking another look at the law, said legislators were disingenuous when a year after the school funding/property tax reform proposal was passed by voters a key element was removed. "In 1994, language in the law said achieving equity among schools was a fundamental purpose of the law."

"That was removed in 1995," he said, noting that there hasn't been much progress on closing the gap between high-spending districts and middle-of-the-pack districts including Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Fellow Democrat LaCruze said he wouldn't support any efforts to change the law. He said it had "significantly" lowered property taxes and was "fulfilling its obligation" to address equity in school funding.

Among the Republicans,

both LaJoy and Scott said they wouldn't make changes.

On the other major education issue, the Aug. 6 millage proposal for special education, LaCruze was the only candidate who said he was voting "No." He said he was unconvinced that local school districts wouldn't use the extra revenue to make up for general fund shortages.

LaJoy and Slavens said they supported Proposal K and Scott said he would vote "Yes," although he echoed LaCruze's concerns.

None were excited about the SMART millage proposal, although they declined to say how they would vote.

"I think mass transit is a good idea, but there are three things you have to look at," LaJoy said. "What's the cost, where is the funding coming from and who's impacted?"

"People who want to go to downtown Detroit are (already) able to get there," LaCruze said. "The buses I see are only one-quarter full — and that's at peak times," Scott added.

All four candidates said efforts to prevent siphoning Great Lakes water by other states was their greatest environmental concern. To a lesser extent, they were also worried about recent efforts to make Michigan landfills a dumping site for trash from other states or Canada.

tschneider@oe.homecomm.net (734) 459-2700

LaCruze: Remark not meant to deceive

Eric LaCruze said he didn't mean to mislead anyone Thursday when he said his bid for the 21st District State House seat was supported by teachers.

LaCruze — who is facing a Plymouth-Canton school board member for the Democratic nomination — has been endorsed by the Michigan Federation of Teachers & School Related Personnel, part of the American Federation of Teachers/AFL-CIO. But that union represents few teachers who actually work in the 21st District. LaCruze mentioned the endorsement near the end of a candidates forum hosted by the League of Women Voters of Northwest Wayne County, the Observer Newspapers and Comcast Cable.

"I can see where that could easily be misinterpreted and that would not be my intent," LaCruze said following the forum. "It was an honest mistake."

Mark Slavens, also seeking the nomination, has been endorsed by the Michigan Education Association, which represents teachers in the Plymouth-Canton and Van Buren school districts. Those school districts constitute the overwhelming majority of the House district. The Michigan Federation of Teachers represents employees at the Belleville campus of Wayne County Community College.

Many workers had a particular passion for their Harmony House jobs, the associate said. Many are aspiring musicians, working moonlighting musi-

‘It’s convenient to shop and the people are nice,’ said Tom Garrett of Canton, a first-time Harmony House shopper who bought a Tom Petty CD for his Longtime Harmony House shopper Juan McRay of Canton said he enjoys buying bargain CDs from the store and that larger music retailers turn him off.

‘This is more of a friendlier atmosphere here,’ McRay said.

The last independent record store standing in Canton after Harmony House closes is Dearborn Music, 42679 Ford. The store will be moving to new quarters in the Kroger shopping center at Canton Center and Ford in September.

Though the Plymouth Rock record store in Plymouth doesn’t compete directly with Harmony House, owner Bryan Caillouette said that as a small retailer, he sympathizes with their struggles to compete.

‘It’s doesn’t surprise me but it’s a shame,’ Caillouette said of the closure news.

At Plymouth Rock, Caillouette said, they try to emphasize what local listeners want, not so much what national publications say people are buying.

‘If we just carried stuff based on what (Nielsen SoundScan), Rolling Stone and Billboard say is selling, we’d go out of business,’ he said.

Rather than stock an abundance of Billboard favorites Eminem and Britney Spears, Plymouth Rock stocks plenty of albums by local artists, such as White Stripes and Von Bondies. Some more nationally known favorites among store patrons include blues songstress Thornetta Davis, the Dave Matthews Band and Red Hot Chili Peppers.

‘We sell a lot of blues,’ Caillouette said.

Plymouth Rock can’t compete with larger competitors’ prices and at only 1,600 square feet, can’t stock one of everything. But Caillouette said that having an experienced, knowledgeable staff and being able Canton’s Dearborn Music store opened in 1990 and the flagship Dearborn store has been open for more than 45 years.

Dearborn Music’s business strategy has been to emphasize new releases by putting them on sale, just like the larger competitors.

Father faces 2 charges in sexual assault of daughter

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

A 37-year-old father is being held in the Wayne County jail on a $100,000 cash bond after being arraigned on charges that former Plymouth man sexually assaulted his then 12-year-old daughter.

Clayton James Jones, Jr., was arraigned in front of 35th District Court Judge John MacDonald Wednesday on charges of first- and second-degree criminal sexual conduct after being arrested in Saline Tuesday night.

Plymouth Det. Lt. Ed Ochal said “there were four or five episodes over a period of months,” including penetration with a foreign object and fondling in 1997.

Ochal said the girl, now 16, had been in and out of foster homes, and most recently told her counselor at Vita Maria a home for girls in Detroit about the incident.

During the investigation it was revealed the girl and her father lived in a one-bedroom apartment on Mill Street when the attacks occurred. Police said the girl would sleep on a couch in the living area, and was assaulted while her father watched pornographic movies.

Jones will face a preliminary examination July 23 in 35th District Court. If convicted, Jones could be sentenced to life in prison.

Garden City Det Sgt Brian Aure said the material Patterson submitted 'is subjective evidence I would refer to it as information rather than evidence' Aure declined to reveal what Patterson told him

Garden City Police Chief David Harvey said he wants his detectives to interview McLaughlin, and then wrap up the investigation

"It's clear there was an argument, and if there was a door closed on Mr Stewart it would be assault and battery if there was intent," said Harvey "Is the case weak? I won't make that judgment"

Harvey said the evidence will go to the city attorney, who will decide if the incident will result in misdemeanor charges

Patterson also said he's planning a lawsuit against several parties, though he didn't name them specifically

"I do intend on filing a civil lawsuit It will include at least defamation and almost certainly libel," he said "I am going forward And, I'm going forward in vigorous fashion" Patterson has hired Detroit attorney Peter Macuga, who told the Observer the lawsuit was going to be filed last week

In an earlier interview, Stewart said he's willing to press charges against Patterson

"I said I would be willing to proceed," said Stewart "I'm begging for a polygraph The truth will come out"

Patterson also said he 'will be seeking a mental examination of John Stewart He's bipolar People who are bipolar can have great mental ability But, if you talk to anybody in the House about his erratic behavior "

Patterson claimed his fellow Republican has twice threatened him on the House floor, claiming Stewart said he "wanted a piece of me" Patterson said he believes he's being targeted by Democrats who want to see him lose his bid for the Michigan Senate

"I am the enemy I am relevant in Lansing I did chair redistricting," said Patterson "I've got to defend myself This is Wayne County politics It's rough and tumble"

35TH DISTRICT COURT JUDICIAL RACE

Biggest challenge facing 35th District Court

Is the docket too crowded to have one court serve the Northvilles, the Plymouths and Canton?

What kind of treatment can drug offenders and drunk drivers expect from you?

The increased limit in amounts sought in civil cases increased the caseload sharply. Should it be revisited?

Timothy O'Connor

Maintaining current high standards and expectations set by the court

I don't foresee the need for separate courts. Infrastructure is in place for one courthouse serving all five communities

Criminals have to understand there are consequences to their crimes. Punishment will depend on nature and extent of the violation

Raising jurisdictional limits allowed more people to seek legal relief quicker than in circuit court

Managing the overcrowded docket. Majority of civil cases could be resolved with alternative dispute mechanisms

If tri-communities continue to grow at current rate, creation of additional court may be warranted

Would integrate intervention and education for first-time offenders would impose fullest sanctions for repeat offenders

Jurisdictional limits were raised to alleviate circuit court dockets with effective docket management, it need not be re-addressed

Will treat each case individually and impartially in determining facts and applying the law

The issue shouldn't be re-addressed, but should be reviewed periodically. Failure to review the limit is what leads to the increase in cases

Rapid growth causing commensurate rise in caseload, court staff and resources will be stretched thin

Does not see the need for additional courts. thinks the third judgeship will solve the caseload problem

Bound to follow tough laws dealing with drunk drivers, recognizing that tough laws should be tempered with understanding that alcoholism is a disease

Third judgeship and other programs will alleviate potential problems due to increased caseload resulting from changes in jurisdictional limits

Thomas Doetsch

Thomas Doetsch
Wife Lisa children Lauren Christopher James Tommy and Andrew
BS in accounting U D U D Law School

Chief referee 3rd Circuit Court Family Division Juvenile deputy juvenile court administrator former assistant Wayne County prosecutor

Continued efficiency and adaptability. As caseloads increase the ability to hear and complete large dockets is imperative

Having 3 judges should address the court's caseload. continued use of magistrates should precede consideration of any additional courts

Fair but tough. In all cases regardless of record defendants will be sentenced to jail time. Substance abuse treatment and random screens would be automatic condition

It's rare for such issues to be revisited. Effective use of mediation tools and efficient judges should be able to control this portion of the docket going to pay for this? he questioned. The expanding Detroit Area Regional Transportation Authority is being proposed to fund that by raising the gas tax. When the economy is soft, and folks have less money in their own pocket, to go back to them for more money to fund an expanded bus system is irresponsible.

When questioned about the 50-cent-per-pack cigarette tax increase, Stewart said there was no choice but to vote in favor of it.

"The options were clear, either there's a cut in revenue sharing and the arts would be cut in half, or we support the cigarette tax," said Stewart.

"No, I would not have supported that bill," added Grant. "A cigarette tax is a tax on behavior, which is no different than taxing folks with poor math skills who participate in the lottery."

BYAN MITCHELL | OBSERVER

Blackwell said Democrats had a different plan that wasn't considered by the legislature.

"The tobacco tax is a quick fix," said Blackwell. "The Democrats offered $190 million in administrative cuts, but that was turned down by Republicans. We have to face it, folks, we're in some deep trouble, $1 billion in deficit and it's going to take a long time to get over it."

Concerning environmental issues, Stewart said he's in favor of adding "fines and more thorough inspections of trash being hauled from Canada to landfills on Six Mile in Northville Township."

At the end, Blackwell, a United Auto Workers member at the Ford truck plant in Wayne, held up his Blue Cross-Blue Shield card and made a pledge to his supporters.

"One thing I will not do as a state representative is to make Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Michigan, with the card that I so proudly carry, a for-profit organization," he said. "By making this a for-profit organization, it will take away the voices of the working men or retirees who carry this card. It will reduce the current 35-member board down to 13, and guaranteeing the governor a job after he's left office."

OUR VIEWS

McCotter merits GOP nod

Every 10 years, state legislatures are required to redraw district lines to reflect changes in population

McCotter

This year voters in western Wayne County will be electing a new member of Congress in the 11th District which stretches from Wixom in the north to Belleville in the south.

State Sen Thaddeus McCotter of Livonia faces Canton businessman David Hagerty for the Republican nomination in the Aug 6 primary Redford Township Supervisor Kevin Kelley is unopposed for the Democratic nomination

McCotter and Hagerty both describe themselves as conservative Republicans Both take similar positions on the major issues Hagerty argues that what distinguishes him is his experience in business as opposed to being a "career politician"

It is because McCotter is an experienced politician with a fine understanding of the legislative process and an appreciation for the hard work it takes to be a legislator that we endorse Thaddeus McCotter for the Republican nomination

While Hagerty wants to start his government service in Congress, McCotter has served his time - as a Schoolcraft College trustee, as a Wayne County commissioner and as a state senator As a senator one of his first initiatives was to clean up the law books of outdated and often ludicrous laws He has also played a key role in brokering a compromise toward establishing a regional transit authority

Residents of portions of Livonia, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Westland and Garden City will be losing Rep. Lynn Rivers as their representative.

McCotter approaches legislating as an intellectual pursuit, with a strong base of conservative ideology But he understands political reality

In an interview with Observer editors, McCotter said that his brand of conservatism does include protecting the "social safety net" He favors some investment option for Social Security He also favors making the Bush tax cuts of last year permanent

We believe that a race between McCotter and Kelley will give voters of the new 11th District a good choice between two experienced political figures with strong ties to the area We urge the two candidates to engage in spirited debates on the issues

The creation of the new district means that residents of Redford Township and portions of Livonia will be losing Rep Joe Knollenberg as their representative Residents of portions of Livonia, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Westland and Garden City will be losing Rep Lynn Rivers as their representative

15TH DISTRICT

One of the most contested and contentious primary races in Michigan pits longtime Congressman John Dingell against Congresswoman Lynn Rivers in the new 15th District

Republicans who redrew the district maps this year chortled at the idea of putting two incumbent Democrats into the same district Although this newspaper does not circulate widely in the new district, we covered Rep Rivers' during her three terms in Washington

For voters who read this newspaper and cast their ballots in the new district, we recommend a vote for John Dingell

He has compiled a vast legislative record ranging from environmental measures to support for the auto industry A centrist, he works across party lines, and prides himself on his effectiveness in fashioning effective legislative compromises that attract enough votes to pass

While we recognize Rivers' service, we believe Dingell deserves to be returned to the House

Stewart best choice in 20th

When John Stewart ran for the seat in the 20th House district two years ago, we felt he was the right man for the job

Now that he's running for re-election, we see no reason to change that opinion

Stewart

Stewart has worked hard in his first two-year term He has worked diligently with the Michigan Economic Development Corporation to bring 21 small-business and job training grants into the community His tireless efforts in this area earned him the Legislator of the Year award from the Small Business Association of Michigan

He has continued to support public education, fighting to make sure the state budget included a $200 increase in per-pupil funding, a move that raised funding to nearly $7,000 per pupil in the Plymouth-Canton School District He voted no on the legislation that would have raised the cap on the number of charter schools in the state, only after consulting with the officials of the school districts he was elected to represent

Although whispers do exist that his vote was up for grabs, no evidence of that has been made public and Stewart insists he cast his vote on the issue early and never wavered He has earned the support of the Michigan Association of School Administrators, the Michigan Federation of Teachers, the Michigan Association of School Boards and the Michigan Education Association

His representation on health care issues has been solid He co-sponsored a bill establishing a scholarship program for student nurses in the state, along with supporting the Elder Prescription Insurance Coverage program which makes prescriptions more affordable for senior citizens His work on behalf of health care earned him the endorsement of the Michigan Doctors PAC

He's worked with local officials to get grants to help with roads and other local issues, earning him the support of Plymouth Township officials and the Michigan Township Association

When the lame-duck legislature of two years ago voted itself a huge pay raise, Stewart stood up and announced he wouldn't take it, instead deciding to donate it to various causes around his district He drew criticism for choosing, among other institutions, the Plymouth Historical Museum, because his wife, Beth, is the director But he has also spread the wealth in both Plymouth and Canton, and refusing a pay cut he didn't think legislators deserved was a stand-up act that benefitted his district If that warrants criticism, we believe more legislators should open themselves up for it

Stewart's voting record is strong, both in Lansing, where he has missed only a handful of votes, and locally His opponent in the Aug 6 Republican primary, Jonathon Grant, has never voted in a school board election in 12 years, and his voting record in city elections is nearly as spotty

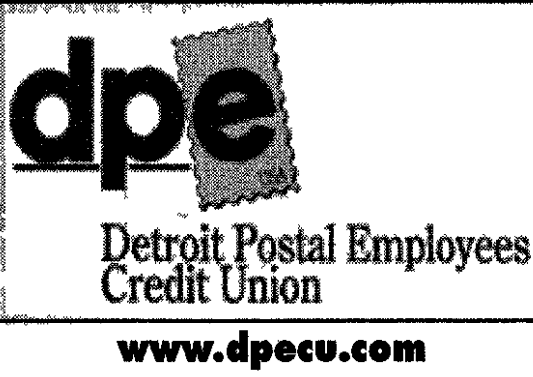

Of the two candidates in the primary, Stewart is also the most experienced While Grant has neither held elective office nor served on any boards or commissions, Stewart had also served a four-year term, ending in 1992, on the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees

Mostly, though, Stewart has earned the right to continue because of his devotion and dedication to his community Unlike his predecessor, Stewart is highly visible within the community

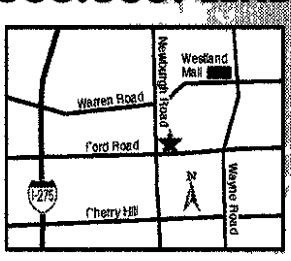

He commutes to Lansing and maintains his office on Main Street You see him everywhere, and not just during the political season His accessibility is one of his key virtues

For these reasons, we encourage voters in the Republican primary on Aug 6 to return John Stewart as the 20th House District representative

established, and some of the chamber music

"I think having better facilities next year will help a lot because we'll have more space," he said, referring to the new Plymouth High School band amenities. "There are more individual practice rooms, the technology will be better, and there will be a music theory lab with 10 computer stations"

Evan Reissenweber, a senior tuba and trombone player who lives in Plymouth, said the jazz band was able to give performances at such places as the Penn Theatre in Plymouth, as well as in Ann Arbor

"The jazz band was a nice addition to the program," he said. "It put forth a different style of music for us to play. It's fun type music"

Zach Shemon of Plymouth Township, who played saxophone for seven years before graduating this year, said "Mr Wachholz has taught us a lot about jazz and playing in a big band. I've never had a chance to play in a jazz band"

Wachholz said it's important

'I think it's not only important the community feels a part of what we do, but that they can also access the musicians.'

Clayton Wachholz

for students to have an opportunity to play in the community

"I think it's not only important the community feels a part of what we do, but that they can also access the musicians," he said. "It's a valuable experience for the kids to go out and do live performances"

Speaking like a football coach, Wachholz said the marching band this coming year will be younger with a lot of really talented people," despite the graduation of 60 students. The marching band will have 175-190 members

"We'll have a marching drum line on the field next year and the drummers are really tired up," said Wachholz. The winds, I think we'll have good instrumentation, though we'll be younger and a bit smaller. The color guard will be slightly smaller, but really experienced because we had a winter guard this past season."

Fundraising will provide new uniforms, which will transform from light gray on the top to dark gray on the bottom. The color guard will wear bright red

And, Wachholz is trying to finalize a band trip to China for 2004

"We've been invited, so we'll see if the school board and superintendent will be willing to support us in that," he said. "It will be quite expensive"

Wachholz, 34, used the summer months to marry Raquel Queros, 36, who is from Brazil and works for General Motors. And, if all goes well, this will be home for a while

"Well, I survived the first year," said Wachholz, with a sigh of relief. "It was a risky move because I was looking at going toward the college level to teach. But, when I think of all the neat things that are happening and the potential it was a good move to me. I'm looking at staying for a long time"

No sweat

Grilling transforms asparagus from the kind of vegetable you hated as a kid to a sweet meaty lip smackin' treat

Trim off the tough bottoms of the spears by grap-ing each end and bending it gently until it snaps at its natural point of tenderness - usually two thirds of the way down the spear

If the spear is less than 6 inches long chances are it has already been trimmed for you Peel the remaining stalk with a vegetable peeler and arrange on a plate

Drizzle 1 pound fresh asparagus with 4 tablespoons olive oil and turn until spears are coated Sprinkle with salt and turn again Grill 5 minutes on medium hot grill Give each spear a one quarter turn every minute or so

Asparagus should begin to brown in spots indicating its natural sugars are caramelizing but should not be allowed to char

Remove asparagus from grill and serve immediately Wrap grilled spears with slices of prosciutto for an appetizer Spears can be trimmed and peeled earlier in the day but if you're storing them for more than a day trim the bottoms and stand upright in an inch of water

Middle Eastern touch

Foods with an Arabic flair can help keep summer meals cool

BY LANA MINI
AND BRENDA DOMINICK
STAFF WRITERS

One of Detroit's most popular ethnic festivals wraps up tonight and there's still a few hours left to enjoy the sultry music and refreshing foods

The Arabic festival in downtown Detroit's Hart Plaza runs until 9 p.m. tonight (Sunday) and vendors are featuring Arabic staples that can cool your temperature like cold chick pea hummus, icy fruit smoothies, green salad with toasted pita chips (called Fatoosh), deep fried chick pea falafel sandwiches with fresh vegetables, chicken shwarma sandwiches and the wonderfully charred, but chilled eggplant dip called baba ganoosh

"Arabic food has soared in popularity," said Leila Chahine at her family's Farmington location of La Shish restaurant "Mainly because it's so high in flavor and it's healthy

Fifteen years ago most Michiganders weren't familiar with Middle Eastern food as the majority of restaurants featuring the cuisine were clustered in Dearborn La Shish now owns 15 restaurants outside of Dearborn and scattered throughout Wayne, Oakland and Macomb Counties Middle Eastern food can be found easily in nearly every area city

If the Arabic Festival wasn't on your summer schedule, try making some of the dishes at home The next few months are good times to create the recipes since Michigan gardens grow the basic ingredients used in Middle Eastern dishes cucumbers, tomatoes, zucchini and eggplant

"The most popular dishes that people who are new to Middle Eastern cuisine try are hummus dips, lamp chops and Fatoosh and tabooleh salad," Chahine said The folks at Al-Ameer restaurant in Dearborn agrees about what's popular

Pack a wand (or a baguette) to make your picnic magical

This is the time of year when a picnic can be a lot of fun, especially if you pack a wand! That's the meaning of the word baguette in French

A golden, crisp baguette or two, some great cheese (try a perfectly ripened Brie or a nutty flavored Emmenthal), fresh fruit (such as pears, apples or grapes), and a bottle Chardonnay will set the stage for happy memories in the years ahead Most picnic items are fairly easy to find An excellent baguette is not It's the simplest of breads

(just flour, water, yeast and salt) yet it's the hardest to make really well

Possibly, the best baguettes are made using an old Polish method of raising the dough slowly - with a naturally fermented starter or leaven called "poolish"

It has the consistency of a pancake mix made with flour, a lot of water and only a minute amount of yeast Like most good things, it takes a lot of time to make baguettes this way At The Give Thanks Bakery, we take the best part of three days

Now, what are the characteristics you can look for to ensure that you are getting a great baguette? First, a caramelized crust that is beautifully golden and crisp Also, the cuts on the surface are a telling feature - there should be raised ridges, evenly spaced The inside is as important as the outer appearance Look for healthy signs - a creamy whiteness to the crumb (this tells you that the flour wasn't bleached or overmixed), and plenty of irregular-sized holes and a shininess where the dough has been stretched thin

Lastly, aroma and taste are very important

You should be able to smell the wholesomeness of wheat and experience an apple/nutty flavor

Certainly, the flavor should be complex Never bland

So, when you pack your picnic basket, hopefully the baker has done his job well Then your 'wand' will give you a magical time indeed

PICNIC PASTA WITH PESTO (SAY THAT QUICKLY 10 TIMES!)

A delightful dish you can make quite easily and transport without too much trouble is a pasta dish Simply prepare and chill your favorite pasta and grill some tender chicken breasts Cut these into strips and slice some sun-dried tomatoes Add these ingredients together, with some pine nuts

Then, make a classic basil pesto from fresh basil, a clove or two of minced garlic, extra virgin olive oil and some finely chopped walnuts

Combine the pasta, chicken and sun-dried tomatoes with your pesto Then, all that's needed is a sprinkling of grated Parmesan cheese on top Bella Cucina Artful Food makes a pesto that's sold in 6 oz jars It's excellent!

Buon Appetito!

"Hummus is like a dip, everybody can relate to it," said Mike Hashem, employee of Al-Ameer Restaurant. "You can eat it with pita bread." The same is true at the Small World Cafe inside the International Institute of Detroit across from the DIA. There diners are introduced to Middle Eastern foods, (and also Indian food) with falafel, hummus and tabooleh. If it's too hot to heat the stove, have a backyard picnic. Get some Middle Eastern pop music such as Turkish sensation Tarkan and all you need is a cutting board and blender to create a meal of hummus, baba ganoosh and Fatoosh. The blender will mix the chick peas, lemon, oil, and tahini sauce for the hummus — or the charred eggplant, and same ingredients for the baba ganoosh. Chop some veggies and toasted pita for a cool salad and enjoy the ethnic flair.

After the festival try these easy recipes

A HEARTY SUMMER SALAD

- 6 pieces of stale bread or 2 small loaves of white Arabic (pita) bread
- 4 fully ripened Michigan grown tomatoes diced
- 3 small cucumbers diced
- 3 4 green onions chopped
- 4 radishes diced half a green pepper diced (optional)
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 4 teaspoon chopped fresh mint or 2 tablespoons crumbled dry mint
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 12 cloves garlic (optional only if you absolutely dislike garlic)
- 2 tablespoons cider vinegar or lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- red hot pepper flakes to taste (optional)

Toast bread on both sides, in toaster or in the oven until golden brown. Cool and break into tiny pieces (the size of large grapes) and place in a big salad bowl. If the tomatoes you are using have little juice place the bread under a bit of running water to moisten before breaking. Be careful not to oversoak. If tomatoes are well ripened and juicy enough the water is unnecessary, the tomatoes will lend their juices to the bread and moisten it.

Add vegetables and herbs. Using a mortar and pestle, combine salt and garlic and crush until fine. Add vinegar (or lemon juice) and oil and mix well. Pour over bread and vegetable mixture. Stir well. Add red hot pepper flakes if desired. Adjust seasonings and refrigerate until mealtime.

BAKED BBQ'D LENTILS

- 3 cups water
- 2 cups dried brown lentils
- 1/2 teaspoon salt divided
- 1 cup diced onion
- 2/3 cup ketchup
- 1/3 cup maple syrup
- 1/4 cup prepared mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1/4 teaspoon ground allspice
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine water, lentils, and 1/4 teaspoon salt in a large saucepan. Bring to a boil, cover, reduce heat to medium-low, and simmer 20 minutes. Drain lentils in a colander over a bowl, reserving 1 cup cooking liquid. Combine lentils and diced onion in an 11x7-inch baking dish. Combine 1/4 tea spoon salt, reserved cooking liquid, ketchup, and the remaining ingredients. Pour the ketchup mixture over the lentil mixture, stirring to combine. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour.

HUMMUS BI-TAHINA

- 1 cup chickpeas
- 1 cup tahini sauce
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- olive oil
- parsley leaves
- chili powder
- slices of lemon

Soak the dried chickpeas overnight. Drain, add fresh water, and simmer until tender, about one hour. Drain. Set aside a spoonful of whole chickpeas for decoration and mash or pound the rest. Add tahini sauce* and lemon juice to chickpeas and blend to a smooth paste. Sprinkle top with olive oil and garnish with whole chickpeas, finely chopped parsley, chili powder and slices of lemon (optional). Variations: Canned chickpeas may be used and therefore omitting the soaking and simmering step. You may use a food processor or blender to make the puree.

TAHINI SAUCE

- 1 cup tahini (sesame seed puree available in specialty food stores or the international section of large groceries)
- 2 cups of water
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 teaspoon cumin
- 1 small onion chopped
- 3 5 crushed garlic cloves (optional)
- finely chopped parsley (optional)
- salt

To tahini, add water, lemon juice, salt, cumin and vinegar then stir thoroughly until well blended and a smooth paste will result. Or, dissolve salt in water, then add cumin, lemon, juice and vinegar. Stir then gradually add Tahini stirring constantly. Add any or all of the optional ingredients, according to taste. You may also use a blender or food processor at a slow speed.

Try some summer food with a French style

When guests are arriving to celebrate a graduation, the last thing you want to worry about is cooking for a crowd. Festive, made-ahead dishes are the order of the day. An elegant, composed salad is easy to assemble, light, healthful and an impressive addition to the buffet table.

In a composed salad, the ingredients are artfully arranged on a platter rather than tossed together in a bowl. One classic version is the French-style Niçoise Salad. Despite its elegance, it uses modest ingredients like canned tuna, lettuce, potatoes, tomatoes, green beans and hard-boiled eggs.

Niçoise Salad - meaning 'as prepared in Nice,' is typical of the food along the French Riviera. Restaurants often serve this salad with grilled fresh tuna rather than canned fish. It's good either way. If you use canned tuna, choose the chunk light variety. The solid light and solid white versions are too hard and dry. Canned tuna is packed in either water or oil - the former more healthful, with far less fat and calories.

Reports indicate that high concentrations of omega-3 fatty acids are found in fatty fish, particularly tuna and salmon. These compounds have been shown to slow or prevent the growth of cancerous tumors and are thought to have a role in lowering cholesterol and blood pressure.

You can start preparing Niçoise Salad a day before serving, but don't dress the salad until you're ready to serve it, or the ingredients will wilt and discolor. Multiply the ingredients in the following recipe according to the size of your group.

Salad Niçoise

- 12 Romaine lettuce leaves washed and dried
- 2 cans (6 1/2 oz.) chunk light tuna in water drained or 1 lb fresh tuna, grilled and flaked
- 3/4 lb new potatoes cooked and halved
- 1 bag (9 10 oz.) frozen string beans cooked until crisp tender
- 1 Tbsp capers rinsed and dried
- 2 hard-boiled egg whites quartered
- 1 medium ripe tomato cut in 8 wedges
- 8 anchovy filets rinsed and dried (optional)
- 1/4 cup Niçoise olives

- 4 very thin slices small red onion
- 1/4 cup red wine vinegar
- 1 garlic clove finely minced
- 2 Tbsp plus 1 tsp extra virgin olive oil
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste

Assemble the salad by tearing lettuce into large pieces. Arrange leaves to cover a serving platter. Mound tuna in center of platter. Arrange potatoes in a ring around tuna. Arrange beans around potatoes. Sprinkle capers over potatoes. Place hard-boiled egg whites, tomato wedges and anchovies (if using) around beans, in alternating fashion. Sprinkle olives and arrange onion rings over top of salad.

In a small bowl, combine vinegar and garlic. Whisk in oil. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Pour dressing over salad, making sure to moisten fish well.

Place salad on buffet table to allow diners to serve themselves or divide salad among four large plates to serve at a seated meal. Makes 4 servings.

A great summer salad

A new version of the Vietnamese spring roll

A cool but still impressive summer treat for the family Vietnamese summer rolls.

The vegetarian version of this popular but simple snack omits both the customary shrimp and the bland, rubbery rice paper wrappers that home cooks hesitate to tackle. Set out the colorful ingredients for this light yet filling finger-food any time, letting the kids assemble them to their tastes.

Summer rolls are a cool, seductive way of getting teens to devour a bunch of healthful raw vegetables. Virtually fat-free and low-calorie, they are great for figure-conscious girls and popular with all. Served as a do-it-yourself dish, they make it easy to skip any parts of the filling they don't like. You can include a small amount of shredded chicken breast for those who are not vegetarian.

Instead of the traditional thin rice wrappers, this version uses a lettuce leaf. You then add herbs like basil, cilantro and mint, plus an assortment of vegetables like very thinly sliced carrot, white daikon radish and cucumber. The lettuce leaf is then folded to encase everything. Everyone has a small bowl of intensely-flavored dipping sauce to dunk this packet into before each generous bite.

Thin rice noodles, at the heart of summer rolls, are sold in the Asian section of most supermarkets. The other ingredients, including the sauce, can be made ahead, but the noodles should be prepared just before serving. Put them out in a bowl, along with the platters of vegetables and individual bowls of sauce. To make your own roll, take a lettuce leaf, heap on a few tablespoons of noodles, then a few strips of each vegetable, top with a few sprigs of each herb and roll or fold the lettuce into a packet. Dip the roll into the sauce and enjoy. Repeat as desired.

Impress guests with Vietnamese spring rolls that you can roll at home

VIETNAMESE LETTUCE ROLLS

- 3 4 oz. thin rice noodles
- 4 large leaves green leaf lettuce
- 2 scallions green part only cut in 3 inch pieces
- 1 medium peeled carrot cut in 3 inch pieces
- 3 inch piece seedless cucumber peeled
- 1/2 cup (loosely packed) large basil leaves
- 1/2 red bell pepper cut in thin strips
- 24 fresh cilantro leaves washed and dried

- 1/2 cup (loosely packed) mint leaves cut into very thin strips
- 1 shallot very finely minced
- 1/8 tsp red pepper flakes
- 2 Tbsp fish sauce* or reduced sodium soy sauce
- 2 Tbsp rice vinegar
- 1 Tbsp sugar
- 1/4 cup cold water

Prepare rice noodles according to package directions. Rinse under running water and drain well. Use scissors to cut noodles into 3-inch lengths. Place in serving bowl and set aside.

Tear lettuce leaves into pieces roughly 6 inches long and 3 inches wide. Arrange lettuce on a serving platter.

Cut scallions, carrot, cucumber and basil leaves lengthwise into very thin julienne strips. Arrange in separate mounds on a second platter. Add red pepper, cilantro and mint leaves, mounded into separate piles.

In medium bowl mix together shallot, pepper flakes, fish or soy sauce, rice vinegar, sugar and water. Divide among 4 individual small bowls like custard cups and place one bowl at each place setting. Place bowl of noodles and platters of vegetables in center of table.

*Fish sauce, which is stocked in the Asian section of markets, has a pungent, anchovy-like taste. Soy sauce is an acceptable substitute. Makes 4 servings of 3 rolls per person.

Water Works troupe performs Taming of the Shrew

Strategically-placed electric fans push muggy heat around a church basement in Royal Oak

Director Mary Locker, dressed in a tee-shirt and shorts, watches intently as her actors walk through a scene from Taming of the Shrew

"It's all coming along beautifully," she says when the action stops. "And I know it's hot in here"

Hot or not, members of Water Works Theatre Company are grateful for the temporary lodging. And they're committed to the two-year-old company and its summer production of Shakespeare in the park, which opens for a two-week run Thursday, July 25 in Starr Jaycee Park, on 13 Mile, east of Crooks

"Water Works Theatre Company is comprised of people who share a common vision," says founder Ed Nahhat. "They're committing their talent and time to enhance our community life. That's what's gratifying to me — you can walk a few blocks or drive a few miles and enjoy professional quality entertainment"

Angela Armstrong drives in from Imlay City to play a servant, a relatively small part in the play, because she heard "great things" about the new Royal Oak company

Roy Sexton (Hortensio) of Ferndale, saw last year's production and "loved it," compelling him to audition this year

Dax Anderson (Tranio) of Detroit returned to the company this year because of the "incredible experience" he had performing in A Midsummer Night's Dream, the company's first show

And Shoib Myint of Novi, a professional actor with television, film and theater on his resume, enjoys the "spirit of a new theater" company. He plays Petruchio, the intended husband for Kate, played by Barb Coven of Whitmore Lake

Locker's direction gives the comedy its contemporary spin, telling the story of sisters Kate and Bianca against a conservative, post-Eisenhower era backdrop. By updating the setting to the early 1960s — when June Cleaver and Margaret Anderson (Father Knows Best) served as role models for femininity — the actors find the attitude and motivation that help modern audiences make sense of Shakespeare's work

Bianca, a "lady" in her 1960s pearls and heels, and her suitor, Lucentio, can't wed until older sister, Kate, marries. Kate, a tomboy in blue jeans and ponytail, is disinclined to become the Donna Reed version of a "perfect wife" or even consider a spouse

"Kate isn't just a cranky woman. She is someone who can hold her own. She's just fed up with the whole lot of men," Locker explains. "To say that Kate is just bad-tempered and needs to be brought to heel — I don't think that would work for most people. We tried to find a time and place where Kate's crankiness would be understandable"

The girls' father arranges a marriage between Kate and Petruchio. Viewers might cringe at Kate's treatment by her husband-to-be, but under

Locker's direction, it becomes a lesson to help her recognize love as a basic need

"Shrew is a difficult piece for this day and age. So often it's done without looking into those possibilities with psychological underpinnings. Locker notes "We're building choices that underpin the text. That's the glory of Shakespeare, his words are so malleable. You can say the words but then use double meanings to augment it with a set of circumstances or attitude"

Locker finds satisfaction in re-telling the traditional tale from a women's point of view. Under her direction, Kate's final speech acknowledges partnership — not submission as it would in a traditional staging

"Everyone needs to come to it with their own take and justify the telling of the story. I can't live with the standard Taming of the Shrew"

Locker, a free-lance casting director and a Detroit resident, played Titania, the Queen of Faeries, in Water Works Theatre Company's production, A Midsummer Night's Dream, last year

Nahhat, an attorney with a passion for theater, asked Locker to direct Shew this year

"He's an artistic soul with a producer's mind, a rare entity," Locker described the Water Works' founder

Nahhat is taking slow, methodical steps toward developing Water Works into a year-round theater that's known for its summer Shakespeare-in-the-park productions

"I founded Water Works to build a professional theater company for this community, to complement other cultural offerings we have," Nahhat says. "I thought the best way was to have Shakespeare in the park as our signature series. We're Stratford on a budget and closer to home"

The company expanded its performance schedule this year, added two more professional Equity actors to its cast and created a children's Shakespeare workshop. KidShakespeare, for children age 6-18, runs from Monday-Wednesday, July 29-31. The Boys and Girls Club of South Oakland County is accepting registration at (248) 544-4166. A temporary, low-impact fence will separate the performance area from the rest of the park and nearby houses

One person came over last year. She was worried about what we were doing but after she saw what it was, she invited all her neighbors (to the play). It was neat to have that," Nahhat says

Tickets for Taming of the Shrew are $20 for adults and $10 for children

Workshop will help actors hone skills

Need to sharpen your acting skills?

Biba Sheikh, an actor with training at the Marcel Marceau school of mime and drama, will offer two workshops, beginning next month, at Walk & Squawk Theatre, 4126 Third, between Willis and Alexandrine, Detroit

During the workshops, participants will engage in a physical training that uses certain motions to "liberate impulses in the pelvis," which Sheikh says are the sources of a performer's stage actions

She'll lead spatial group and energy work. The workshop fuses the physical, vocal and textual elements individually and collectively making the performer's presence the driving force towards creating a collective ceremony

In addition to attending the Marcel Marceau school, Sheikh trained with lead actor of the Tomasevski theatre company, Stephan Niedlakowski. She was part of an ongoing vocal and theater research program and formation with founding members of the Polish Laboratory theatre of Jerzy Grotowski with director/writer Ludwik Flaszen and main actor, Sigmund Molik. Her resume includes workshops with Grotowski, Ariane Mnouchkine, Actor's Studio, Philippe Gaulier, and Royal Academy of Dramatic Art and others

She has directed the Egyptian Book of the Dead (Beirut 1998), Forbidden Zones (Tunisia 1998), The Shadow by Edgar Allan Poe (Beirut 1997), Man on the Highway's Edge (Berlin 1996), the Overview (Paris Berlin 1994)

Musical concerts with the Beirut Contemporary Orchestra include the poems of Langsten Hughes, Rilke, Goethe, and Novalis. She has initiated a few international theatre projects with groups such as the New World Performance Laboratory, and the Living Theatre, and has taught at universities, and given workshops in the US, Europe and the Middle East

Workshop 1 is scheduled from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. on Aug. 24. Admission is free. Workshop 2 is planned for Sept. 7-28. Participants of this workshop are urged to attend the Aug. 24 program

This workshop will result in a final presentation inspired from the Ballad of Reading Gaol, by Oscar Wilde. Cost is $200

Session times are 11 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday, 2-5 p.m. Sunday and 7-10 p.m. Monday. Register by calling (248) 647-5433

New book explores how hate pervades American culture

BY GRETCHEN PARKER
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

FREDERICK, Md (AP) — A new book by two Hood College professors takes on Snoop Doggy Dogg, Eminem, Limp Bizkit and President Bush. Law, Media and Culture: The Landscape of Hate explores the language of rap music, the Internet sites of hate groups and speeches by politicians. Authors Janis Judson and Dopna Bertazzoni argue visceral emotions once seen on the fringe of society — expressed by groups such as the KKK and skinheads — are bleeding into mainstream society. They say Americans may not even realize how pervasive hate has become in their lives.

Through the Internet, film, television and radio, the authors argue, hate is becoming acceptable and at the same time, invisible.

It is now mainstream. "It's so pervasive that we almost don't see anything wrong with it anymore," Judson said. "That's why we called it the landscape of hate."

Hate speech on the Internet and in popular culture is a manifestation of a widespread problem. It is directed mostly at minorities, gays and pro-choice activists. Because it's largely non-sexual, it is less alarming to most Americans, say Judson and Bertazzoni.

While pornography is widely regarded as taboo and unacceptable for children, violent movies and the Web sites of hate groups sound fewer alarms, Judson said. The result is movies that promote hate garner less restrictive ratings than sexually explicit movies.

But Judson and Bertazzoni maintain they're just as dangerous. "Parents worry about pornography, but this is the area that's really frightening," especially on the Internet, Judson said.

Several skinhead groups use crossword puzzles and other games on their Web sites to attract young people, Bertazzoni said.

"One of the valuable contributions of this book is it takes an explicit look at the way Internet technologies are providing a new platform, a new public space for the expression of hate," said Dianne Lynch, who heads the department of journalism and mass communication at St. Michael's College in Burlington, Vt.

The new expression of hate is

dangerous because it is anonymous, said Lynch, who reviewed the book before it was published. A person sitting in a home isn't held responsible for the Web sites or e-mails they post.

"The Internet desensitizes us to the expression of hate in a way I think is new," said Lynch. "It gives us permission to be as ugly, viscous and public as we've ever been — in some ways that have been socially taboo in the past."

While most Americans don't log onto sites run by the World Church of the Creator or bookmark the address of Godhatesfags.com, they listen to President Bush, Bertazzoni said.

Bush "inadvertently pressed the hate button," by praising the Southern Baptist Convention last month at its annual meeting, Judson said.

The president praised Southern Baptists for being "among the earliest champions of religious tolerance." The White House qualified the statement after reports that a former convention president had called the founder of Islam "a dem on-possessed pedophile who had 12 wives" and said many of America's problems can be blamed on religious pluralism.

Hate speech doesn't necessarily take a form Americans might expect — of outright violence, Bertazzoni said.

It can be as subtle as condemning affirmative action, and it happens when you try to impose your moral code on other people and begin to see those other people who don't fit that mold as somehow wrong," she said.

Hudson's and Bertazzoni's book was written before Sept. 11, but the authors added a postscript after the terrorist attacks.

It details how hate speech subsequently has contributed to attacks on Muslims and immigrants.

The book notes that Arab-Americans received ominous e-mails from "ordinary people," not just hatemongers or fringe groups. It finds "the response by some Americans to the Sept. 11 attacks demonstrates how close to the surface mainstream hatred really is."

But the mainstreaming of hate began before the terrorist attacks, the book argues. Aside from political speech, children and teen-agers are gobbling up recordings and videos by musicians the authors call "hate promulgators."

They said female students of all races at Hood College tell them they listen to Snoop Doggy Dogg, Tupac Shakur and Eminem, even though some consider the lyrics hateful toward women.

"They say, 'We don't listen to lyrics, we just listen to the beat,'" Judson said.

But she believes the music is harmful because it damages the psyche of the listeners, desensitizing them in a subtle way, she said.

Judson and Bertazzoni question whether mainstream hate can be solved by public education.

Messages children get in the classroom can be drowned out by what children hear from their parents at home, they say.

Because hatred has become a "normal" aspect of our society, mainstream establishments must show hate crimes and hate speech are not acceptable, they suggest.

Police and government leaders must "stand up and say, Hate crime is totally unacceptable in this community," the authors wrote.

Ride upside down, splash, be dazzled at Ohio fun parks

BY MARY QUINLEY
CORRESPONDENT

OHIO AMUSEMENT PARKS

Are the kids bored? If so, perhaps a trek south of the Michigan border to check out the Buckeye States amusement parks will help to ease the summertime blues.

There's something for everyone. Whether you're a coaster-crazed enthusiast, a water-park lover or a wildlife fan, Ohio's three parks offer families a host of fun-packed adventures.

Here's a rundown on what's new at our neighbors' theme parks as well as a peek at some of the familiar rides and attractions.

Cedar Point
Liz Psaula of Livonia admits that she used to be wary of amusement park rides that went upside down. Not anymore.

"I like to go on all of the rides," said Psaula, who visited Cedar Point last month with three of her friends.

She described the park's new scream machine, Wicked Twister, as fun.

"I was a little scared because I didn't know what to expect, but the ride turned out pretty good."

The Wicked Twister is the park's 15th roller coaster. The 215-foot tall steel thriller reaches a speed of 72 mph.

It is the tallest and fastest double twisting impulse roller coaster in the world," said Bryan Edwards, public relations representative.

The focus of Cedar Point, said Edwards, is on thrill seekers and families. The park is home to more coasters than any place else

But if dives, spins and twists are not on your agenda, no problem.

Check out a live stage show, high dive act or the boardwalk. Take the kids to the water park, the area with pint-sized rides or the go-kart raceway.

Also new for the 2002 season is Snoopy Rocks! On Ice.

In the show, the skating beagle and his pals re-create some favorite Peanuts classics. The dazzling ice display, explained Edwards, is geared "to appeal to the wide range of ages of our guests."

tate when family members invited her to spend the day at Six Flags Worlds of Adventure in Aurora.

"I enjoyed the park very much," said Bernadette of Westland, who preferred the easy-paced, low-key attractions at the park.

Six Flags is a mix of scream machines, a wild-and-wet water park, thrill rides, and an educational wildlife park.

The complex, separated by a small lake, is comprised of two areas — Wild Rides (formerly Geauga Lake) and Wildlife (formerly Sea World). Guests have three options to get from one side of the park to the other: Ferry boats, a floating walkway and a walking path.

One of Bernadette's favorite attractions was the Pirates movie.

"I was shocked when I felt water hit me!" she said, laughing. Twice during the hilarious, 4-D multi-sensory/dimensional show, the audience is sprinkled with a spray of water. Young children may find that some of the scenes in the movie are too intense.

trainers.

"The tigers did cool stuff," said ten-year-old Danny Duroff of New Hudson, Bernadette's grandson.

Danny and Nicole like sharks, so a visit to the Shark Experience was a must-do.

As the two siblings and their buddy, Andrew Mapley, gazed into a 340,000-gallon habitat, four species of sharks and two sawfishes slowly cruised before the kids' eyes. The youngsters also enjoyed the sea lion show, the dolphin tank and the mid-way games of skill.

Paramount's Kings Island

As you ramble along Interstate 71 between Dayton and Cincinnati, be on the lookout for the largest theme and water park in the Midwest, Paramount's Kings Island.

Packed with a variety of entertainment for all ages, the park features more than 40 rides, a 15-acre water park, two kids areas, musical productions and lots more.

New this year, said Jeff Siebert, spokesperson, is Tomb Raider: The Ride.

"It's our most ambitious attraction ever in 30 years," Siebert said.

The adventure ride was inspired by the film Lara Croft Tomb Raider.

The riveting experience begins with a walking journey into a foreboding ancient temple decorated with mysterious chambers, stone walls and runic symbols. The only possible escape is via a vehicle that flips over several times in total darkness.

And, just for kids (and their parents), there are four thrilling, but low-key, coasters.

As you stroll around the park, watch for the new Nickelodeon characters Dora the Explorer and Jimmy Neutron. Boy Genius love to have their picture taken with the young guests.

Suggestion to park goers: For discount tickets, check with AAA, a city parks and recreation department, grocery stores, or

The Metro Summer Hockey League returned to its wild, high-scoring play Thursday night when the Falcons hung on for a 13-11 win over the Whalers at Farmington Hills' Suburban Training Center.

After jumping out to a 9-5 lead, the Falcons were able to hang on by counter-attacking any comeback attempt the Whalers made in the second half of the game. The Whalers held a 6-4 scoring edge in the third period.

Westland's Tony Guzzo put together a natural hat trick in the second period of the game, finishing with three goals and two assists to spark the Falcons. Livonia's Nick Lang led his team with seven points in the contest, including three tallies.

John May (Livonia) led the Whalers with four goals and an assist. Jeff Paison (Livonia) contributed two goals and one assist.

PLAYOFF SCHEDULE

With the regular season wrapping up this weekend, the matchups for the MSHL playoffs are set.

In Monday's doubleheader, the first place Lakers will battle the 10th place Broncos at 7 p.m. with the 2-9 matchup of Huskies vs. Bulldogs taking place at 8:30 p.m. The winner of the early games moves on to take on the 11th place Spartans at 8 p.m. The Wolverines await the winner of Monday's nightcap for the late game Wednesday.

Tuesday, the third-place Spartans face off with the sixth-place team, the Wildcats at 7 p.m. In the second game of that evening, the 4-5 matchup features the Warriors, who held first place for much of the season, taking on the Whalers.

an eight-goal explosion in the third period, the Warriors stayed on the winning track with a 13-6 win over the Wolverines Thursday night.

It's even too hot for golf. See here we are in the must of the dog days of summer and it's already time to start planning for the new bowling season.

Saturday night, Aug. 3 is the annual Country Lanes League Officers Party. Proprietor Jim Hamlin will be there to greet the various league officers, the guys and gals who are responsible for making everything run right with his bowling leagues.

Among the league officers who have been around awhile is Mildred Weed, secretary of the Greenfield Mixed Friday Night League, a position she has held since 1975 when I joined the league, and is still going strong.

OFFICER'S SCHOOL

The Greater Detroit Bowling Association will serve its members well with the Summer Officer's School. Here are the locations and dates:

- Merril Bowl (Livonia), 6:15 p.m. Tuesday, Country Lanes

This event usually sells out, so get your entries in now. If you are a returning participant, you should have received an entry in the mail. IMPROVE YOUR GAME

Is bowling fun? It sure is, and at all levels, whether it's serious competition or open bowling. One way to have more fun is to bowl better. Self-improvement is often overlooked, and some folks do not know how much fun they are missing by not striving to improve. The only coaching many bowlers get is from someone else in the house who knows less than they do. Don't they know it's a lot more fun to win than lose? And even more fun to score in the 200s than 117?

The answer is available to one and all at the upcoming Fall Tune-up Clinics. Professionals Aleta Sill and Michelle Mullin have scheduled a series of these clinics (four hours spread over two days) for the next two Wednesdays (July 24 and 31) and the next two Fridays (July 26 and Aug. 2) at Skore Lanes on Ecorse Road in Taylor.

They use the latest hi-tech digital computer/video system called Digital Coach, which enables them to help you in many aspects of your game, especially the timing part of your delivery.

Now's the time to fix your timing and kick-start your season. If you get started right, results are higher scores and more fun.

They will hold half-day clinics Aug. 24 at Troy Lanes at affordable rates, made better since all attendees receive a $35 rebate certificate on their next Ebonite ball (offer expires Sept. 15 and is good at any pro shop). Additionally, they will hold full-day clinics Aug. 10-11 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. featuring help from 2001 U.S. Open and current Queens champion Kim Terrell. Now known as "Your Bowling Coach," these pro tour veterans are using their knowledge of the sport to help others improve and have fun along the way.

They will use the following sites: Skore Lanes, Super Bowl, Sterling Lanes, Merril-Bowl, Classic Lanes, Van Dyke Bowl, Universal Lanes, Kingswood Lanes and Shelby Lanes. Enrollment is strictly limited on a first-come, first-serve basis, so call them at (313) 274-1227 or visit www.yourbowlingcoach.com.

'Having a cancer diagnosis is intimidating enough, so you do all in your power to make the environment less intimidating....'

When you have cancer you feel like your life is out of control. Here patients gain encouragement and confidence.'

Kathleen Hardy
Senior Social Worker

Cancer center offers comfort, care, compassion

When you walk into the Weisberg Cancer Treatment Center on Northwestern Highway in Farmington Hills, you know it is a different kind of medical facility.

Pinewood walls stretch to the rafters of the lobby's elevated ceiling. Light pours in from dozens of windows, illuminating the artwork. Water cascades down a mosaic tile wall. Here, where mind meets body and spirit mixes with science, the journey to healing begins for many cancer patients and their families.

'Having a cancer diagnosis is intimidating enough, so you do all in your power to make the environment less intimidating,' said Kathleen Hardy, a senior social worker and cancer counselor at the Center. (The Center) is open to any family touched by cancer in the community. When you have cancer you feel like your life is out of control, so here they (patients) gain encouragement and confidence.

The Center, which opened in September, was developed to enhance the services of the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute, one of the leading cancer research, treatment and education centers in the country. It combines state-of-the-art medical technology with unique complementary therapy offered in a non-clinical, comfortable environment. Patients have access to the most modern treatment protocols in radiation therapy and chemotherapy, in addition to an array of alternative therapies such as counseling services, support groups and activity workshops.

MORE THAN MEDICINE

The philosophy behind the Center is that fighting cancer involves more than just doctors and nurses. Cancer is a disease that attacks the human spirit as well as the body, and therefore mind and emotions must be involved if cancer treatment is to have its greatest impact.

'We're not convinced that it (complementary therapy) makes cancer go away, but there's no question it helps with the quality of the patient's life during and after treatment,' said Dr. Jeffrey D. Forman, the Center's medical director.

The Center offers a variety of alternative therapy options to patients and their loved ones: yoga and art workshops, therapeutic massage and aromatherapy, and stress management with guided imagery and meditation. Monthly lunch and supper lectures on cancer topics such as treatment advancements, nutrition, fatigue, pain and managing side-effects educate patients, while networking and support groups are also available.

Hardy, who facilitates many of the Center's support groups, says special programs can restore energy, build the immune system and help patients relax their body as well as their mind. Counseling services provide camaraderie and collective wisdom.

'It's really nice because the (patients) learn all the practical things so one takes the time to tell you,' he said, explaining that through support groups patients gain perspective and learn to accept changes in their priorities.

How much you eat is as important as what you eat

In a world of value meals and super sizes, Americans' perception of food portions is not consistent with what is actually needed for daily sustenance.

Once driven by a response to our body's hunger and satiety, eating today is more likely influenced by cues such as social setting and the appealing look, taste and abundance of food.

Portion sizes began to grow in the 1970s and rose sharply in the 1980s, along with our waistlines. Comparing recipes in old and new classic cookbooks such as Joy of Cooking shows that the same recipe from the 1970s serves fewer people in the most recent edition, meaning that the portion sizes are indeed larger.

According to a survey commissioned by the American Institute for Cancer Research (AICR), most Americans feel that the amount of food they are served in today's restaurants is "just right" and routinely clean their plates. However, most marketplace food portions now exceed federal standards for serving sizes.

The same is true when eating at home. When the average person sits down to the dinner table, he or she dishes up double, triple and quadruple the recommended serving size of such staples as potatoes, pasta, bread and rice.

And adults aren't the only ones eating more. Researchers observed children's eating habits and found that children under age 4 will eat until they are satisfied, regardless of the amount of food served to them. However, by 5 years of age, children will eat more food when presented with larger portions.

While larger portions may be appropriate for growing children and active individuals, most Americans should look at decreasing their portion sizes rather than super-sizing them.

The United States Department of Agriculture estimates that the average American is eating 148 calories more per day than we did 20 years ago. This, theoretically, adds up to an extra 15 pounds each year. In the last two decades the prevalence of overweight in adults has tripled, and has doubled in children.

CITY OF PLYMOUTH
ORDINANCE NO. 02-05

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH BY DELETING SECTION 78 393 NON CONFORMING SIGNS, AMENDING SECTION 78 387 DEFINITIONS AND ADDING A NEW SECTION 78 393 NON CONFORMING SIGNS FOR THE PURPOSE OF REGULATING NON CONFORMING SIGNS IN THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH

Section 1 The City of Plymouth ordains.

Section 78 Zoning in the Code of Ordinances of the City of Plymouth is hereby amended by adding the following described text revisions

Section 2 Delete Section 78-393 Non-Conforming Signs

Section 78-393 Nonconforming Signs

All legal nonconforming signs except those granted exceptions by the zoning board of appeals as being deemed to have historical significance will lose their legal nonconforming status and therefore must be removed upon the occurrence of any of the following:

- (1) The structure of the sign is altered in any way which tends to make the sign less in compliance with the requirements of this article than it was before the alteration
- (2) The sign is relocated
- (3) The sign is replaced or modified in any way except as follows:
 - a. The sign may have electrical or structural repairs made, which are required for safety or normal operation of the existing sign and do not alter the size, shape or other nature of the sign provided that if the sign has deteriorated to an extent greater than 50 percent of its market value excluding the foundation then it shall be removed rather than repaired
 - b. The sign base or framework may be painted for maintenance purposes provided that such painting shall not add to or change the design, messages or patterns on the sign in any way
 - c. A sign with a multi-tenant directory may have changeable name plates replaced or repainted for the current tenant provided that such painting shall not add to or change the design, messages, patterns, shape or size of the sign in any way and provided that such name plates are less than three square feet each
 - d. The sign may have a plastic insert replaced for a new tenant or owner/occupant provided that no other alterations are made to the sign in the process
- (4) The sign is abandoned
- (5) After December 31 2001

Section 3 Modify Section 78-387

Section 78 387 Definitions.

Abandoned sign means a sign which for 90 days fails to direct a person to advertise a bona fide business, tenant, owner or activity conducted or product available on the premises where such sign is displayed Change of Copy. A sign or portion thereof with characters, letters, or illustrations that can be changed or rearranged without altering the structural integrity of the sign. A sign on which the message changes more than eight (8) times per day shall be considered an animated sign and not a changeable sign for purposes of this ordinance. A sign on which the only copy that changes in an electronic or mechanical indication of time or temperature shall be considered a time and temperature portion of the sign and not a changeable copy sign for the purposes of this ordinance.

Section 4 Add Modified Section 78-393

Section 78 393 Non Conforming Signs.

Non conforming signs are those that do not comply with the size, placement, construction or other standards or regulations of this chapter, but were lawfully established prior to its adoption. Signs for which the Boards of Appeals has granted a variance are exempt and shall not be defined as non conforming. It is the intent of this ordinance to encourage eventual elimination of non conforming signs in a timely manner. This objective is considered as much a subject of public health, safety, and welfare as the prohibition of new signs in violation of this chapter. Therefore, the purpose of administering this chapter is to remove illegal non conforming signs while avoiding any unreasonable invasion of established private property rights.

A non conforming sign may be continued and shall be maintained in good condition as described elsewhere in this section, however, the following alterations are regulated.

- (1) A non conforming sign shall not be structurally altered so as to change its shape, size, type or design unless such change shall make the sign conforming
- (2) A non conforming sign may undergo a change of copy or the replacement of names, logos, symbols, numbers or other graphic items of information as long as the structural characteristics including size, shape or frame is not modified
- (3) A non conforming sign shall not be replaced by another non conforming sign
- (4) A non conforming sign shall not be re established after the activity, business, or use to which it related has been discontinued for ninety (90) days or longer
- (5) A non conforming sign may undergo normal maintenance and repair such as painting, replacement of lights, and replacement of letters. Normal maintenance shall not exceed sixty percent (60%) of the appraised replacement cost.
- (6) A non conforming sign shall not be re established after damage or destruction if the estimated expense of reconstruction exceeds sixty percent (60%) of the appraised replacement cost as determined by the Building Official.

Section 5 Rights and Duties.

Rights and Duties which have matured penalties which have incurred proceedings which have begun and prosecution for violations of law occurring before the effective date of this ordinance are not affected or abated by this ordinance

Section 6 Validity

Should any section, clause or paragraph of this ordinance be declared by a Court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid the same will not affect the validity of the ordinance as a whole or part thereof other than the part declared invalid

Section 7 Ordinances Repealed.

All other ordinances inconsistent with the provisions of this ordinance are to the extent of such inconsistencies hereby repealed

Section 8 Effective Date

This ordinance shall become effective one day after publication

NOTICE OF ADOPTION
PLYMOUTH CHARTER TOWNSHIP
ORDINANCE NO. 83.116

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH ORDAINS that the Zoning Ordinance No. 83 of the Charter Township of Plymouth is hereby amended by amending Article XIX PLANNED UNIT DEVELOPMENT OPTION and Article XXXII Definitions as follows

ARTICLE XIX

Part I PLANNED UNIT DEVELOPMENT OPTION

A The Purpose section hereby amended to add the ARC Ann Arbor Road Corridor OS ARC Office Service Ann Arbor Road Corridor OR Office Research and TAR Technology and Research Districts as follows

PURPOSE:

It is intended by the Community that uses high intensity shall be located in areas which will not adversely impact the orderly development of existing or future residential areas. Commercial office, research, testing and residential uses in structures beyond two (2) and two and one half (2 1/2) stories in height are more urban in nature and therefore could be in conflict with a specific development area and the general character of the Township of Plymouth if not properly regulated in regard to location, relationship to adjacent land uses and development requirements. The Community has provided a MR Mid Rise District to provide for locations for these higher intensity uses separately or in combination in areas which will not impact the existing or future land uses of adjacent properties and the Community as a whole. The Community however recognizes that within the C 2 District IND Industrial District OS Office Service District OR Office Research District and TAR Technology and Research Districts there may be sites which because of certain existing and specific factors could be developed as a Planned Unit Development (PUD) beyond the 2 to 2 1/2 stories without negatively impacting adjacent properties and the community as a whole.

It is understood that said developments may be consistent with the planning goals of the community only in specific locations under specific conditions related to height, bulk and location of buildings in accordance with sound planning and site plan principles. It is further the intent that any uses permitted by this option be compatible and consistent with the availability of utilities both existing and planned for the area in which the PUD is proposed. It is therefore intended that the PUD option permit flexibility in the regulation of land development, encourage innovation in land use and variety in design, layout and type of structures constructed, achieve economy and efficiency in the use of land, natural resources, energy and the provisions of public services and utilities, encourage useful open space and provide better housing, employment and shopping opportunities particularly suited to the needs of the residents of the Township of Plymouth in the C 2 Commercial District, IND, Industrial District, OS Office Service District, OR Office Research District and TAR Technology and Research Districts on parcels of five (5) acres or greater where the basic principles set forth in this article are met.

Further the PUD option shall also be available in the ARC Ann Arbor Road Corridor District and OS ARC Office Service Ann Arbor Road Corridor District, subject to certain conditions applicable only to properties located within those districts. The purpose of allowing this flexibility within the Ann Arbor Road Corridor is to

- A. Achieve a higher quality of development than would otherwise be achieved
- B. Encourage assembly of lots and redevelopment of outdated commercial properties
- C. Encourage in fill developments on sites that would be difficult to develop according to conventional standards because of lot shape or size abutting development, accessibility or other site features
- D. Ensure compatibility of design and function between neighboring properties
- E. Encourage developments in the ARC and OS ARC Districts on parcels of one (1) acre or greater that are consistent with the Township's Master Plan, the Ann Arbor Road Corridor Plan, the basic principles set forth in this Article and the conditions of Section 19 12B General Conditions for Sites in the ARC and OS ARC Districts

However, it is not intended that the use of the PUD option in the ARC and OS ARC Districts should detract from the primary function and use of the Ann Arbor Road Corridor as a commercial area, but rather it is intended only to provide some flexibility for limited uses within the Corridor

B. SECTION 19 1, STATEMENT OF PRINCIPLES, is hereby amended to add the TAR ARC and OS ARC Districts and OR Districts

C. SECTION 19 12, GENERAL CONDITIONS, is hereby amended to incorporate the existing language of this section under a new sub section A entitled SITES IN THE C 2 IND OS OR and TAR ZONING DISTRICTS and amend Section 19 12 A 1 b 4 to add

4) Facilities such as a licensed restaurant or bar may be permitted in an IND C 2, OR TAR and OS District when said facilities are attached to or occupy an integral part of a main structure within the Planned Unit Development. In reviewing this aspect, the Commission and the Board shall find that the proposed restaurant or bar is consistent with the Purpose and Statement of Principles Sections of this Article

The condominium documents shall provide limits on use of common areas or open space for accessory structures such as swimming pools, decks, playground equipment and buildings. A plan shall be provided indicating the limits of such accessory structures within a defined envelope.

Prior to approval of the Final Development Plan, the applicant shall submit the necessary documents to the Township Attorney for review and approval by the Board of Trustees. The Association documentation shall include provisions for the following at a minimum:

- 1 The conditions upon which the approval is based with reference to the approved Final Development Plan
- 2 When open space or common areas are indicated in the development plan for use by the residents, the open space or common areas shall be conveyed in fee or otherwise committed by dedication to an association of the residents and the use shall be irrevocably dedicated for the useful life of the residences and retained as open space for park, recreation or other common uses
- 3 A program and financing for maintaining common areas and features such as walkways, signs, lighting and landscaping
- 4 Assure that trees, waterways and woodlands will be preserved as shown on the Final Development Plan
- 5 Assure the construction and maintenance of all streets and necessary utilities (including public water, wastewater collection and treatment) through bonds or other satisfactory means, for any and all phases of the PUD. In the case of a phased PUD, this requirement shall be reviewed at the time of any final development plan approval
- 6 Address any other concerns of the Township regarding construction and maintenance

ing to the Center since December to participate in one of the breast cancer support groups. The experience has been both uplifting and comforting.

I've come a long way in accepting everything since I've been coming, she said. "I talk to people who have been through what I'm going through. It's a family kind of thing."

THERAPY AT WORK

Ann Bogrow of Southfield, who is undergoing treatment for breast cancer, has been coming to the Center for six months. She finds enrichment in the weekly art workshops.

"I find it very relaxing. I didn't know how to do anything like this before I came here, she said, holding up her colored pencil drawing of a kitten. "I'm so proud of it. I'm going to hang it up. I'm amazed. I can't believe that I could do anything."

Bogrow, who found out about the Center through an article in a newspaper, also attends one of the breast cancer support groups.

"I look forward to coming because it's such a nice group of women. The majority of women are younger than me, but age doesn't seem to make a difference. We talk about everything, not just our cancer. It's very relaxing," she said.

Joel Fenkell, 16, of Bloomfield Hills, a junior at Detroit Country Day this fall, is interested in cancer and helping kids. He is volunteering at the Center for the first time this summer. Taking part in the art workshop gives him a chance to see "how they (children) cope with their parents going through tough situations."

Certain programs at the Center, like the one Fenkell assists with, are geared specifically towards the children of cancer patients. Special counseling sessions educate children on what parents with cancer are going through, while other activities, like the art workshop, entertain young ones while their parents go through therapy.

Davya Cohen, an art teacher who just retired after 35 years of teaching, volunteers to facilitate the art workshop. Bogrow enjoys.

"People who go through cancer have a lot of fatigue. Art is energizing. Doing anything creative creates energy," she said. "I think art is a real positive healing activity. It works for everybody. It takes their mind off their problems. Art is an escape."

Drawing creates a healthy diversion so patients are not always focused on the negative, she added. You can see how easy it is for people to talk about their cancer. You learn to smile and move on. That's what it's all about."

Medical employees involved with the clinical aspect of the Center also recognize the importance of treating the whole patient and not just the cancer. "The important thing is we really treat people here as not just a disease," said Physician Assistant Suzanne Lowry Levin. "We also deal with the psychological ramifications."

The Center also provides the opportunity to participate in clinical trials. Trials offer chance for patients to get treatment that is as good as and possibly better than the standard, said Research Nurse Nancy Lefkowitz.

WITH DOORS WIDE OPEN

The Center is available to anyone who wants to come. Patients need only to schedule an appointment for an evaluation to start participating in complimentary therapies. All complimentary programs at the Center are free, with the exception of massage therapy. It is offered at half the cost patrons would pay in a business setting.

Funding for the Center is entirely through donations. The primary gift was from Lawrence and Idell Weisberg, for whom the Center is named. The Sinai Guild, a volunteer organization headquartered at the Center, also helps raise funds.

The Weisberg Cancer Treatment Center is located at 31995 Northwestern between Middlebelt and Orchard Lake, Farmington Hills. Call (248) 538-6505.

NOTICE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH

Consistent with the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department's mandatory water use restriction notice to limit water usage, Plymouth Township is instituting our emergency water use reduction ordinance. This is an effort to avoid water distribution problems due to continued hot, dry weather and high water usage. Effective immediately all Plymouth Township customers shall institute an odd/even mandatory water use restriction to limit water use. (Individuals with odd numbered addresses are asked to do outdoor watering only on odd numbered days. Likewise those having even numbered addresses should water lawns, fill swimming pools, wash cars, etc. on even numbered days.)

Your cooperation in maintaining the odd/even water use requirement will enable water customers to continue an even distribution of water with minimal low pressure problems and the possibility of a boil water situation.

Because water consumption is at its peak between certain hours the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department has expanded the mandatory restrictions on outdoor water usage by restricting all water use between the hours of 6:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. daily. The restriction is precautionary to avoid emergency water distribution problems and will remain in effect until further notice.

If you have any questions concerning the mandatory restrictions please call the Plymouth Township Water Department at (734) 453-8131.

One of the attractions to consuming larger portions is the concept of getting more food for your money. Large portions often seem like a bargain. 7-Eleven's 16-ounce Gulp costs just under 5 cents/ounce, but a 32-ounce Big Gulp is 2.7 cents/ounce. The problem is that larger portions also provide more calories. The 7-ounce Double Gulp, a 64-ounce soda, contains nearly 800 calories - an amount 10 times the size of a Coca-Cola when it was introduced. It is also about one-third to one-half of the total calories the average American should be taking in for the whole day.

These observations suggest Americans need to pay closer attention to their portion sizes to prevent obesity. What we eat is important. We should be eating more fruits and vegetables and less fried foods and desserts. However, how much we eat, regardless of the type of food, has a great impact on our weight. You can get fat on fruits and vegetables if you eat more calories than you burn in a day.

To see if your portion sizes are too large, spend a few minutes with a measuring cup. Dish up your usual portion and then use measuring cups and spoons to dish out the serving size that is on the nutrition label.

When this isn't practical, try the "eyeball" method. Use these household items to help you compare serving sizes:

- One tablespoon = two dice
- 1/2 cup = hockey puck
- 1 cup = baseball
- 1 medium potato = computer mouse

- 1 ounce meat = golf ball
- 3 ounces meat = deck of cards
- 3 ounces of most fish = full checkbook

If you have trouble determining what portion size you should dish up for yourself, make an appointment with a registered dietitian. Registered dietitians are a great resource for helping you determine the amounts of food that are right for your individual lifestyle. You can find a registered dietitian close to you by calling your local hospital or calling the American Dietetic Association at 1-800-366-1655.

The funds would be restricted to supporting these mandated programs in Wayne County school districts and reduce the reliance on the districts' general funds for this purpose.

Shall the limitation on the annual property tax rate previously approved by the electors of Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency, Michigan, for the education of persons with disabilities be increased by 1.50 mills ($150 on each $1,000 of taxable valuation)? 2002 WAYNE SIDEWALK SALE

Eye drops delay the onset of glaucoma for high-risk individuals

Elevated eye pressure is a risk factor, but not an absolute predictor, for glaucoma, a disease that affects some 2.2 million Americans. Now, a new study shows that eye drops used to treat elevated pressure inside the eye can be effective in delaying the onset of glaucoma.

The findings appear in the June 2002 issue of Archives of Ophthalmology and are from a study performed at the University of Michigan and other prominent eye centers.

Scientists found that pressure-lowering eye drops reduced by more than 50 percent the development of primary open-angle glaucoma, the most common form of glaucoma and one of the nation's leading causes of vision loss. Researchers noted that 4.4 percent of the study participants who received the eye drops developed glaucoma within five years.

By comparison, 9.5 percent of those who did not receive the eye drops developed glaucoma. In addition, several significant risk factors were found to be associated with the development of glaucoma in study participants. These included personal risk factors, such as older age and African descent, as well as ocular risk factors, such as higher eye pressure, certain characteristics in the anatomy of the optic nerve, and thinness of the cornea.

The U-M Kellogg Eye Center was one of 22 eye centers participating in the study, which was sponsored by the National Eye Institute and the National Center on Minority Health and Health Disparities.

U-M ophthalmologist Dr. Terry J. Bergstrom, principal investigator of the study for Kellogg, says that doctors have long faced the question of whether they could prevent or delay the onset of glaucoma by treating patients with elevated eye pressure.

While the study shows that some can benefit from early treatment, we still have to weigh many factors before deciding upon treatment," he said. "It's important to note that 90 percent of the participants did not develop glaucoma during the five-year study. If a patient does not show other risk factors for glaucoma, it would be reasonable to follow that patient without treatment.

Bergstrom explains that physicians do not always prescribe medication for elevated eye pressure. "We have to consider that for some patients daily treatment has disadvantages, such as cost, inconvenience, and possible side effects," he says.

AT RISK

People at greatest risk for glaucoma include African Americans over age 40, everyone over age 60, and anyone with a family history of the disease. Elevated eye pressure is also a risk factor. Dr. Bergstrom recommends that people with any of these factors see an ophthalmologist for a dilated eye examination.

Elevated eye pressure results when the fluid that flows in and out of the eye drains too slowly and gradually increases the pressure inside the eye. It is estimated that between three and six million people in the U.S. have elevated eye pressure and are at increased risk for developing open-angle glaucoma.

Glaucoma occurs when the optic nerve is damaged, leading to a loss of peripheral (side) vision. In many cases, increased pressure in the eye plays an important role in the damage. As the disease worsens, the field of vision gradually narrows and blindness can result. If detected early enough, through a comprehensive eye exam, glaucoma can usually be controlled and serious vision loss prevented.

One of the distressing aspects of glaucoma is that a person who has open angle glaucoma may not have symptoms until considerable damage to vision has occurred. As many as two million people have the disease and don't know it.

The study, called the Ocular Hypertension Treatment study, examined 1,636 people from 40 to 80 years of age who had elevated eye pressure but no signs of glaucoma. Half were assigned daily eye drops, and the other half were assigned to observation (no medication). In the medication group, treatment reduced eye pressure by approximately 20 percent.

ADVOCACY
 If you are ill enough to be hospitalized, you likely are not at your best mentally. Doctors and nurses may give you reasons as to why tests are needed and provide you the results of procedures already done. However, you are in pain, given sedation during the day and not sleeping well because your rest is interrupted by hospital noise. These distractions make it more difficult for you to understand the hospital staff's explanations or their answers to your questions.

What you need is an advocate. This should be someone who is family or a close friend who can come to the hospital daily. This person would confirm the information given you about what will happen during your hospitalization. The advocate would follow up on procedures done and the results of tests. This person would speak with the nurses to assure that you are receiving the medications and treatments you were told to expect or informed that you need. Also, at time of discharge, the advocate would check that you received the medications and out-patient appointments needed for your care.

The advocate should have experience with hospitals and be tactful. That person might need to use persistence to obtain information or move on your care and must be diplomatic in the doing.

If you are seeing a doctor in his office and feel unsure about your ability to understand what he may do or say, bring an advocate with you. That person can assist in the same way as he or she would in a hospital setting.

Just because something is old doesn't mean it isn't valuable.

I can relate to that. Maybe that's why I'm never in a rush with these guys. Sanding out a dent here and there, restoring the gears... soon I'll have all the time in the world for them, just like they have for me. That's the beauty of retirement. And now that it's almost here, I'm grateful that I started planning early — with U.S. Savings bonds. I started buying Savings Bonds when I got my first real job, through a Payroll Savings plan. I put aside something every payday. And little by little, it really added up. Bonds are guaranteed safe, too, and earn interest up to 30 years.

In a few more years, you'll find me out here in the workshop more and more, fixing a hinge or polishing a case. I know that there's a lot of life left in these old guys. I can relate to that.

Ask your employer or banker about saving with U.S. Savings Bonds. For all the right reasons.

The Orchard Creek Village Condominiums have evolved from an apartment complex in Farmington Hills

Condominiums offer 'charm, location, value'

Buyers can acquire an apartment-to-condominium conversion at Orchard Creek Village in Farmington Hills for less than $150,000.

The purchase price includes two bedrooms and two baths with 1,220 square feet of living space off Orchard Lake Road just south of 14 Mile Road.

Fifty-two residences, uppers and lowers all with private entrances, are scattered within six buildings on the site. New appliances - refrigerator, range, dishwasher, clothes washer and dryer - are included at base price, as is air conditioning, gas fireplace, patio, deck and one space in a carport.

We wanted to combine charm, location and value," said Stephen J. Carson, the developer.

We've done a lot. The parking lot is new, landscaping has been re-done, updated. We painted exterior trim, all doors. We added new knockers and kick-plates. We added coach lights, address plaques, shutters. 30-year dimensional shingles, Carson said.

The former Orchard Creek Apartments were built in 1986, said Jim Morse, sales agent.

People come in and think it's brand new construction, he said. It's secluded kind of set back. There's a lot of privacy here.

People want private entries and sound conditioning," Morse said. "These are very quiet - cement floors upstairs, double walls in between."

The community is buffered by trees, a creek and a naturally-landscaped detention pond add to the atmosphere. A paved walkway leads to a nearby shopping center.

Orchard Creek Village has easy access to both Northwestern and I-696.

All residences have the same floor plan.

The kitchen/nook has room for a table for two. A large pantry, laundry and utility room between the kitchen and dining room/living room. The master has a shower, the second full bath a combination tub/shower.

All residences include a storage closet, coat closet and linen closet. Upper units have a sloped ceiling.

All units contain new carpeting, new vinyl floor in the kitchen, new light fixtures and a fresh coat of paint. Tubs have been reglazed, shower doors replaced.

Base price is $147,990. An upgraded plan which also includes new cabinets, counters, sinks and faucets in the kitchen and baths goes for $154,990.

Units are available as is without renovations for a $4,000 discount.

There is no price premium for uppers.

Ranch features in-law suite with private entrance

This ranch of 1,890 square feet has the look of a country home with pillars surrounding the front entrance

But it has one unique feature. It's a home that includes an in-law suite on the rear of the residence with a private entrance.

The foyer to the Tri Harder (409 26) opens to a large area that includes the dining room to the right front, the kitchen/nook to the rear right and the living room straight back. This entire area has a vaulted ceiling.

A door opens off the living room onto a concrete stoop with a patio beyond.

The kitchen runs along the outside wall on the right with a walk-in pantry in the corner. There's an island with an eating bar in the middle of the kitchen.

The second bedroom is to the left of the front door with a wall closet on one end and a window facing the front of the home.

There's a half-bath across the hall that's attached to the master suite bath, both sharing a tub between. The master has two windows for light. Both the half bath and master bath contain a single sink.

Access to the single-car garage is through a door off the living room. The utility room with washer and dryer is to the rear of the living room.

A door opens in back of the utility room that goes into the in-law suite bathroom. This bath has a sink and tub.

The main suite of the in-law suite is open with a kitchen that runs along one wall. It has all the features of the regular kitchen only in a smaller version. A closet at the suite's entry door will act as a wall closet for clothes and coats.

This home has plenty of room for everyone to have quiet, priprivate space and still be near enough in an emergency.

For a study plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, sections and an artist rendering, send $24.95 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Road E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424. Please or specific location within the community.

Vinyl siding and brick are primary exterior materials.

Orchard Creek Village is within the Farmington school boundaries.

The property tax rate is $39.63 per $1,000 of state taxable value, half of sales price for new construction. That means the owners of a $148,000 home there would pay about $2,950 the first year.

The monthly association fee, which includes water, grass mowing, snow removal, exterior maintenance and insurance is $125. Pets are allowed.

Mike Carbone, a former tenant there, enjoyed the community so much that he decided to buy.

"First of all, I liked the location, the central location, in terms of access of freeways and all major shops in town," he said. "The setting is really nice, environmentally friendly. There's plenty of trees."

I liked the layout, Carbone added. The master bedroom is very large and the other bedroom is at the end of the hall. There's plenty of cupboards and kitchen space. The living room has a cathedral ceiling which makes it neat, roomy.

They (sales, mortgage reps) were always prepared to respond in a positive way," Carbone said.

The sales office/models at Orchard Creek Village (248) 538-7300 is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, closed Thursday.

Mold usually results from problem with moisture

The stories about mold posing as a silent health threat in homes can be alarming, even though stories are relatively rare at this time.

As residential builders, we take seriously any issue that could have an impact on consumer satisfaction with new homes.

So the building industry's leading association, the National Association of Home Builders, set about researching the mold issue to determine why mold develops in homes, what can be done to eliminate it when it's present, and how building processes and products might be improved to eliminate mold.

This column provides information on the NAHB's ongoing research. Mold spores are everywhere, both inside and outside homes. People are exposed to airborne mold spores all the time.

Donald Pratt

Environmental Protection Agency and Centers for Disease Control, there is very little scientific evidence linking mold with serious human illness, particularly considering low levels of exposure in most homes.

Even though mold may not pose a serious health threat to most people, homeowners should still periodically survey their homes for the presence of mold.

Keep in mind that mold needs three favorable conditions to grow. First, it needs a temperature range between 40 and 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

Second, mold needs a food source such as wood, paper or other organic material. Third, and perhaps most important, mold needs moisture.

So when checking for mold, make sure to investigate places where moisture usually is present such as around windows where condensation can trigger mold build-up.

Today's new homes are very energy efficient, using 50 percent less energy than homes built in the early 1970s. Energy-efficient construction usually includes air sealing the building envelope to reduce outdoor air infiltration.

To maintain a safe level of moisture, homeowners may need to remove, reduce or ventilate moisture sources, especially in areas such as attics and basements.

The most practical approach to limit mold growth is early detection and prompt resolution of excessive moisture.

If you can see mold or detect an earthy or musty odor, you can assume you have a moisture problem that must be resolved to arrest mold growth. Removal of mold can be successful only when the moisture source is resolved.

The NAHB Research Center has published a tip sheet that provides guidelines for preventing mold and advice on mold removal. The tip sheet is available on the Web at www.nahbrc.org or by calling the NAHB Toolbase Hotline toll free at (800) 898-2842.

Donald Pratt, president of Wake Pratt Construction in Auburn Hills, is a past president of the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan. He's been a residential builder for 36 years and presently is constructing energy efficient homes in the Flint area.

Choose lighting for outdoors to maximize efficiency, value

(HIT) - A well-illuminated homesite adds value to your property in three ways.

It enhances personal safety and may help prevent injury. It deters vandalism and theft. It extends productive work hours and outdoor recreation time beyond sundown.

But do you know how to match the right type of light source to the need and location?

Knowing the best light source and fixture style can make all the difference in how you spend outdoor lighting dollars around your new home.

Often, consumers purchase whatever light fixture happens to be on sale at the local home center without a thought about wattage, mounting height, energy efficiency or ease of maintenance.

To illuminate large areas around the home, use high intensity discharge lights. This family of light sources is characterized by intense, bright light and must be mounted high to spread the light and avoid glare.

Low pressure sodium is a common high intensity discharge light source. In suburban or urban areas, be sure you're not sending light into your neighbors' windows or other areas where it's not wanted.

Look for fixtures with a reflector or head assembly that directs light downward. A well designed fixture may cost a little more, but you gain in the long run because all the light you pay for goes directly where you can use it.

A typical 90 watt, high pressure sodium lamp (120 watt with ballast) burning from dusk to dawn (about 4,100 hours per year) costs $49.20 to operate annually at 10 cents per kilowatt hour.

Use motion sensor lights around entrance doors, gates or other locked areas.

These infrared activated spotlights have two advantages. They're only on when needed and their focused beams help get keys in locks or maneuver things through gates or doors.

The automatic off feature also saves energy since lights are only on a short time.

Use a decorative yard light on a six-foot lamp to illuminate pathways near the front walkway of your home.

In addition to enhancing your home's appearance, yard lights can lower your liability for personal injury and help visitors find their way safely.

If the light will be on from dusk to dawn, use a compact fluorescent bulb, rather than a standard incandescent, to save energy and reduce the number of bulb changes. Make sure it's rated for outdoor use, or it won't come on during cold temperatures.

The best overall lighting scheme combines HID area lighting mounted high with motion-sensor fixtures near doors, plus a decorative yard light to illuminate walkways.

Additional information can be found in the publication Outdoor Lighting for Safety and Productivity from the National Food and Energy Council.

The cost, which includes postage is $4.50. To order, call (573) 875-7155 or visit www.nfec.org.

Operate gas grill optimally

The American Gas Association recommends several tips to save energy when using an outdoor grill at your new home.

- Limit pre-heat time
- Thaw frozen foods before grilling
- Use only one burner on a dual-burner grill unless both burners are needed
- Cook with the grill cover closed to shorten cooking time and to enhance the smoke flavor.

- Cook several foods or an entire meal at one time
- Reduce burn-off cleaning time
- Keep the grill clean and properly maintained following instruction in the owner's manual

High-tech vinyl flooring stylish, kid-friendly

(NAPS) - High-tech materials now give today's homeowners more options than ever before. That's good news for parents who want a home that's stylish and kid-friendly.

For example, spills, scratches and tracked-in dirt, hallmarks of childhood but not of beautiful flooring, are no longer a problem for a number of floors made with a new luxury vinyl.

Many of the vinyls were designed to be tough enough for daily living, yet stylish enough to fit into most decorating schemes. Even in-line skates won't rip, tear or gouge many of them.

The flooring is available in ceramic, slate and stone looks that are realistic and textured, making them difficult to distinguish from the real thing.

And they can be cleaned with soap and water.

Holdridge says floors such as Nafco are designed to be less noisy when walked on, moisture resistant and even to hold less allergens.

For more information on luxury vinyl flooring, visit www.nafco.com or call (800) 248-5574.

Mom needs her own office, too

For AP Weekly Features: Over the past decade, architects and home designers have learned that a home isn't complete without a special room for mom. And what might it include? Perhaps a large 4 by 6 foot cork board for messages plus large storage spaces for equipment, supplies and possessions. A computer helps the woman of the house keep track of bills, grocery needs and family members schedules. And perhaps a place for a sewing machine should the need arise. Accommodate hobbies as well as day-to-day needs. Bills to-pay cubbyholes are good, but so are drawers that store gardening journals. A bin for watercolor materials could include too. Recipe files are handy as are shelves for favorite books.

Let's Talk About
Real Estate

"SHOULD YOU BUY OR WAIT?"

Timing is important in most decisions that we make This can be especially true when making big decisions such as the purchase of real estate The right time to buy is different for everyone Here are some factors to consider when evaluating the best time for you to act

YOUR PERSONAL FINANCIAL SITUATION

Only you know your present and future financial requirements and capabilities Although you know about your current and foreseeable earnings, you may not know the present value of your existing home if you are a homeowner You should not guess about the equity in your existing home Ask a Realtor to help you ascertain your property's present worth

AVAILABILITY OF DESIRED PROPERTIES

Are there homes available in the price range and area that you want? A scarcity of desirable homes may cause you to pay a higher price than during a slower market Some areas, however, always have a scarcity because the location is in great demand and any purchase there may be a good investment.

INTEREST RATES

Although lower interest rate times are more desirable than during times with higher rates, interest rates should not prevent you from buying if you find the right house for you Remember, you can always refinance the loan sometime in the future, but you can never renegotiate the purchase price of the house itself

OTHER PERSONAL CONSIDERATIONS

You may have other reasons to buy or sell real estate other than those factors listed above Of course, your personal motives should prevail,
Regardless of your motives, don't go it alone Hire a Realtor to help you carry out your decision with the greatest chance for success

Ford Focus remains a great value

CAReport

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

ANNE
FRACASSA

Prince William, the eldest son of Princess Diana and Prince Charles, was one of the first to purchase the Ford Focus when it was first introduced in 2000.

That should tell you something right there. Here's a guy who could've picked any car out there, anywhere in the world, and he chose the Ford Focus.

Smart kid. Ford should always be able to sell a million of them. I predict that the Wayne Assembly plant and the plant in Mexico that makes them won't be able to produce enough of them for the demand of this Focus.

Do you know why? There's more in this compact car in the way of features, standard equipment, comfort, performance and handling characteristics than in any other car of its kind in the world.

"All our research showed us that the customer expects more and more in creature comforts in this segment, which is 20 percent of the North American market," said Al Kammerer, vehicle line director for the Focus. "In the history of the Escort, more than 20 million were sold. Focus is our future."

This car has been designed from the inside out around the customer, rather than the outside in. Just a few rambling thoughts: Spacious interior, lowest noise, vibration and harshness in its segment, steering reacts without delay, short stopping distance, a truly distinctive appearance, standard passive anti-theft system and real cupholders.

Only minor tweaks have been done to the Focus since it was introduced in 2000. There are new colors, like Egg Yolk Yellow, Arizona Beige and Twilight Blue, and power windows are now standard on the SE sedan and wagon.

Current available models include the base three-door sedan and wagon, ZX3, LX, SE and ZTS sedans and the SE wagon. New for 2002 is the ZX5-door. I like the wagon's styling the best. It looks sporty and has nicer looks.

Here's an innovative idea. The remote release for the trunk is at the top of the instrument panel. No more bending, stretching in the glovebox or searching at the side of your seat. It's right there, up top. Smart.

The front seats are a bit higher for you and

Smart design, comfortable: 2002 Ford Focus ZX3 Hatchback; Vehicle class: Compact, Power 2.0-liter engine. Where built: Mexico. Mileage: 25 city/34 highway. Price: $13,195

there's a rotating adjustment to lower or heighten the seat for better visibility. The steering wheel adjusts and tilts as well for your comfort. This also allows smaller people to have a safe distance away from the air bag.

I mentioned the smart design of the Focus. It certainly is attractive and sporty looking with its distinctive front headlamps and rear taillamps and treatments. The car's lines flow effortlessly and with fluidity.

There are two 2.0-liter engines and you can outfit it with the standard 5-speed manual or an electronically controlled automatic transmission, the first choice in the 2.0-liter 16-valve dual overhead cam Zetec inline 4 cylinder engine that outputs 130 horsepower. The other, a 2.0-liter single overhead inline 4 split-port induction engine, gives you 110 horsepower. I'd opt for the Zetec for spirited driving pleasure.

There's room in the Focus for five adults comfortably and all seating positions have three-point safety belts which have pre-tensioners and load-limiting retractors. There are side door beams and head-and-chest side airbags are optional.

One thing you'll see more and more is the child-safety seat attachment in the rear. Ford calls them ISOFIX child anchors. It's located on the top of all three rear seats and allows you to hook the child seat in more securely. It's actually a metal hook that tethers the seat more effectively.

Ford Focus also has a battery saver that automatically switches off the lights if you leave them on for more than 10 minutes. Power door locks are standard equipment. The rear seats are a 60/40 split bench that can fold down for extra storage.

The trunk is lighted (how about that blast from the past) and there's a glow-in-the-dark release pin, just in case you find yourself locked in the trunk someday. (Seriously, folks, I know it's for the safety of our children.)

The instrumentation is easy to read and understand. In the center of the IP the audio control is located above the temperature controls because of the many changes you make on audio selections as opposed to temperature settings. On the very top of the center stack is the hazard flasher button. All of the dials and buttons are large, making it so easy to operate.

In the center, between the passenger and the driver is an arm rest and a center console storage compartment. Comes in handy for the car phone and charger. There are large map pockets in the doors.

Remote mirrors are standard. The Focus is equipped with a center antenna.

Things you will find in Focus that may surprise you: theater dimming, flip-up rear seat cushions that fold flat for easier storage and very large side-view mirrors.

And just so you know the Focus is built in suburban Detroit and in Mexico. I don't care where it's built.

Let's review. Focus has great styling. Great comfort features. Great value for the money. Enough said. Write Anne Fracassa at avanti1054@aol.com
