Steve Mann and Bill Graham support Plymouth Community United Way

Campaign begins

The 2002 United Way Campaign officially kicks off locally Tuesday Aug 27 with the Plymouth Community United Way's golf outing Tee Off for a Friend

The outing takes place on the Golden Fox and Fox Classic courses at Fox Hills Golf and Banquet Center. It's the first of many fund raisers set for the local United Way the proceeds of which all remain in the local community

We take care of this area United Way director Marie Morrow said. Everything we raise stays right here

Other fund raisers include a dine out day Make A Difference Day a Teddy Bear Toss and a Hockey Night with the Plymouth Whalers

The Plymouth Community United Way has set a $12 million goal for the 2002 campaign

Money raised by the Plymouth Community United Way goes to human service agencies in the community for people who work or live in the community

United Way also hands out special grants like the one they gave the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township for senior transportation last year

A variety of sponsorships in the Aug 27 golf outing are still available. For more information call (734) 453 6879

New brick sidewalks were installed in Kellogg Park last week

Park maintenance

Contractors last week began tearing up the brick pathways in Kellogg Park. The project is part of a park improvement plan designed to improve the public space at Kellogg Park. Officials say the project could be finished as early as the end of this week.

The improvements to Kellogg Park are being jointly funded by the City of Plymouth and the city's Downtown Development Authority.

Help Source eyes old fire station

BY TONY BRUSCATO

A non-profit group is discussing with Plymouth city officials about putting a senior day care program in the old Fire Station #2 on Spring Street in Old Village.

Help Source, which was located at Our Lady of Providence in Northville

Township before the facility shut down, is looking to lease the building to keep a presence in Plymouth.

It's still up in the air," said Greg Perkins, site director for Help Source. "Even if we get approval, we still need money for renovations."

Plymouth businessman Jim Jabara, a member of the Help Source board of directors, is working with the agency to secure the fire station location.

"We feel confident we have enough support, but nothing is for sure," said Jabara.

At least two city officials are confident the senior day care program would be a good fit for the fire station, which at one time was considered for resurrection as a neighborhood community center.

"I think it's a win-win situation for seniors and Old Village," said Mayor Bill Graham. "The building would be renovated to accommodate the seniors, which the city doesn't have money to do. Plus, there would be a rental arrangement, which has been discussed at about $1,000 a month."

"The money would provide a revenue

Kids survive police academy

One of the goals of the Plymouth Township Police Department is to connect with its youth.

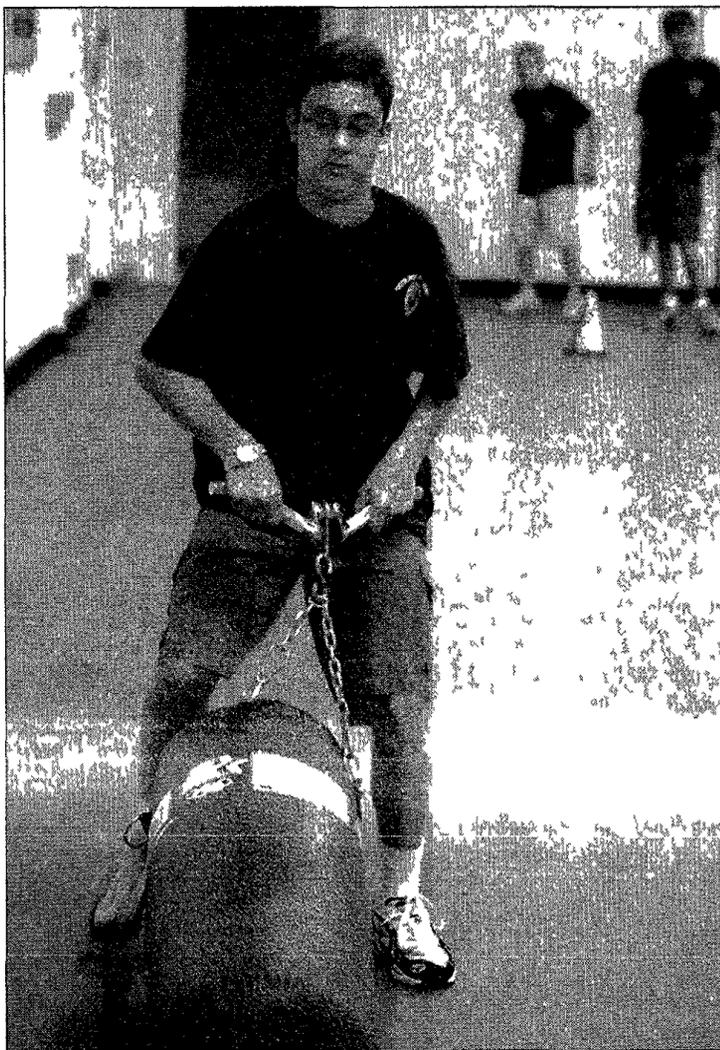

In a single, week-long seminar designed to teach youngsters what community policing is all about, township police officers did just that.

Nearly two dozen students completed the five-day Youth Police Academy training last week at Schoolcraft College's Radcliffe Center in Garden City. Their activities included a trip to 35th District Court to see the legal system at work, mock accident and crime scenes, a demonstration by the township's K-9 team and time in the firearms simulator at Radcliffe.

The main idea is to stay connected to the youth in the community during the summer months when they're not in school," said Det. Bill Groff, a 15-year veteran of the PTPD who orchestrated the academy. "We want to give them some type of structured activity during the summer."

The youth academy, in its second year, is similar to the citizens academy the department completed in June. In the adult academy, students met once a week for nine weeks. Training in the youth academy is concentrated into five, six-hour days.

Federal judge kicks lawsuit

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

A federal district court judge has affirmed his prior ruling dismissing all claims by Plymouth businessman Tom Prose in his $100 million civil rights lawsuit against the City of Plymouth and eight other defendants.

However, despite the ruling by U.S. District Court Judge John Corbett O'Meara on July 17, Prose's attorney is already moving ahead by seeking a reversal in the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati.

We think Judge O'Meara was wrong in how he applied the law to the case, said Juan Mateo Prose's attorney who filed an appeal Tuesday. "He ignored a great wealth of testimony which proved he (Prose) was the victim of a civil rights conspiracy."

In the lawsuit filed Sept. 18, 1999, Prose claimed his civil rights were violated when W. Edward Wendover, then publisher of the Community Crier newspaper, city officials and city police conspired to file charges of disorderly conduct against Prose during his bat-

Plymouth chamber honors top volunteer

BY BRAD KADRICH

Kimberly Tude Thuot remembers attending her first Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce mixer more than two years ago and not knowing anyone or anything.

At the mixer, at Sunrise Assisted Living on Haggerty, chamber executive director Fran Toney, as she's prone to do, immediately talked Tude Thuot into becoming an ambassador for the chamber.

Two years later, Tude Thuot has been honored by the chamber as its Volunteer of the Year for 2002.

"When Fran called (about the award) I was amazed," said Tude Thuot, 32, the office administrator at Comprehensive Modern Dentistry. "I was absolutely surprised. It's a big honor, because the people who vote are respected business

Tude Thuot serves on the chamber's membership committee, has worked for two years on the prize committee for the annual Chamber Auction, the chamber's largest fund-raiser, has taken on registration and greeting for all mixers, and raised more money herself at last year's golf outing 50-50 drawing than the entire drawing drew the previous year.

As an ambassador, it's Tude Thuot's responsibility to greet all comers, and make sure new members are connected with existing members for networking purposes.

"Kimberly puts her heart into everything she does," Toney said. "I still remember the first mixer she attended. She didn't know anyone, and now everyone knows and admires her."

Market investors wary over plunge

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM
STAFF WRITER

Both brokers and investors alike in Plymouth seem to share a 'wait it out' attitude amid news of plummeting stock prices and a nose-diving Dow late last week.

The Dow Jones industrial average dipped more than 1,360 points, or 14.5 percent, over the past two weeks. The Wall Street Journal reported that it was the worst two weeks for the Dow since October 1987, when the market crashed.

A nearly 500-point rally pushed the key market index back up over 8,100 on Wednesday. The NASDAQ closed up 60 points and the Standard and Poors index was up 45. The Wednesday rally seemed to give credence to the words of most investment analysts, who are preaching patience and cautioning against panic selling.

Fred Justice, a furniture store owner dining at Sean O'Callaghans, an Irish pub in downtown Plymouth on Pennman, said his 401K plan statements tell a dismal story.

'My 401K is approximately 40 percent the value of what it used to be,' said Justice, who owns the Furniture Studio, 1020 Cherry.

The furniture store is a post-retirement venture for the Canton resident. Because of his poor 401K standing a couple of years ago, he decided to delay retirement. His retirement plan originated with a previous employer.

The events of Sept. 11 caused Justice, like many others, to panic about their investments.

'Most of everything I had outside my 401K I pulled three or four days after Sept. 11, he said.

Investors aren't just fearful of jumbo-jet flying terrorists, either, he said.

'Nobody trusts the corporate CEOs, primarily because they've proven themselves to be inept or corrupt,' Justice said, referring to recent scandals involving executives at Enron, WorldCom and Kmart.

George Aho, another Sean O'Callaghans' diner, echoed Justice's sentiments about corporate crooks. He works for a Dearborn dental abrasive manufacturer. 'We need to put some guys in jail, Aho, a Plymouth resident, said. 'There's a lot of shredding going on behind closed doors.'

Broker Joe Koch of Ferris, Baker, Watts Inc., 711 W. Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth, said the ebbs and dips are a natural part of the cycle.

'I think people are concerned and rightly they should be,' he said. 'In the last 10 years, we've had 29 serious market declines of 10 percent or more. The market has always returned to newer highs.'

The key to smart investing is to not invest all money in one stock, or in one area, according to Koch.

'If investors are well diversified and have long-term goals, they should stay the course,' he said. 'Those that aren't diversified need to be concerned.'

The investment trend among his clients seems to be one of long-term stability being more important than short-term high yields.

'The average investor is realizing that they need to be diversified,' he said.

PLYMOUTH PIPELINE

CLARIFICATION

The listing for Karen Woodside, a candidate for the 35th District Court, that appeared in the Sunday, July 21 edition of the Plymouth Observer should have included her experience as Northville Township Supervisor (1996-2000), where she chaired the 35th District Court Advisory Committee, and her 13 years as an assistant Wayne County prosecutor.

FORUM ON CABLE

Residents who missed the July 18 forum featuring candidates for the 20th and 21st state House district seats have four more chances to see it. The forum, sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Western Wayne County and the Observer newspapers, featured Republican and Democrat candidates for both districts. It was taped for broadcast by Comcast and will air the forum on Channel 18 at 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. Tuesday, July 30, at 6 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 1, and at 9 p.m. Monday, Aug. 5. The primary election is Aug. 6.

ANTIQUE CARS

Habitat for Humanity of Western Wayne County and the City of Plymouth co-sponsor an Antique Car Show from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday, July 27 in the Old Village in Plymouth. Liberty and Starkweather Streets will be completely blocked off for the occasion.

Outstanding awards for each vehicle category will be given, as well as a single "Best In Show" recognition. In addition to the cars, there will be food and entertainment. Contact Dean Tomei (Sachs Automotive) (248) 458-3637 or Heather Abreu (Habitat for Humanity) (734) 634-0136. Registration is $15 per vehicle. All proceeds will go to Habitat for Humanity.

SIDEWALK SALES

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce sponsors its annual Sidewalk Sales Friday and Saturday.

'Plymouth has a wide variety of unique shops and galleries that will be offering special discounts and bargains,' said Fran Toney, the chamber's executive director. The sales take place from 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Friday, and 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday.

In conjunction, the weekly Farmer's Market takes place Saturday from 7:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. The Farmer's Market is in The Gathering, across from Kellogg Park.

DOG WASH

Specialty Pet Supplies in Plymouth sponsors a 'Dog Wash' from noon-3 p.m. Saturday, July 27. Proceeds from the event go to Guardian Angel Animal Rescue, a no-kill organization. The cost is $8 per dog, a tax-deductible donation. Specialty Pet Supplies is located at 1449 Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth. For more information on the "Dog Wash," call (734) 453-6930. Children Andrew and Audrey
Education Law degree Washburn Law School 1980 Michigan State University BA economics 1970

Magistrate in the 35th District Court for 16 years attorney general private practice for 21 years

Dispensing justice according to the law in a consistent efficient and courteous manner Would constantly monitor types of cases applicable law and the outcome to ensure fair and consistent decisions

There is a very heavy caseload which the third judge will help alleviate I do not foresee the need for more courts because experience has demonstrated dividing courts is less efficient and more expensive

A judge should always be mindful of the possibility of rehabilitation for substance abuse violators Rehabilitation is secondary however to the first priority which is public safety

The increase to $25 000 for general civil and $3 000 for small claims was necessary and the right amount Allowing the district court to hear these cases is more convenient and less expensive for the parties

7 years at insurance defense firm doing civil defense litigation 15 years at Denise L Mitcham & Associates, house counsel to Citizens Insurance Company of America 18 months as State Farm Claim litigation counsel

Maintaining the excellent level of service in light of growing diversity of increasing population Drug/alcohol abuse is a reality I will address this by making sure people know this kind of behavior will not be tolerated here

The addition of the third judge will solve the caseload problem in the 35th District Court A state report said that in spite of increasing population and diversity the court was well managed and met its guidelines

I will enthusiastically support the court's Drug Court program I will be firm but fair Local police and prosecutors have shown a remarkable level of understanding of the first time offender I will support that.

The addition of the third judge will resolve any increase in civil cases due to the change in the jurisdictional limit

Children: Matthew and Allison
Education: Law degree University of Detroit BS in police administration criminal justice Michigan State University

US Army veteran former police officer former major felony prosecutor Wayne County Organized Task Force trial attorney 25 years in both criminal and civil cases

The growing number of juvenile criminal offenses the increase in civil cases due to the increase in jurisdictional limits and the persistence occurrence of drunk driving and domestic violence cases

The election of a well qualified attorney with significant experience in civil and criminal cases will greatly enhance the ability of the court to deal with the growing docket I don't believe the duplication of service and expense of creating more than one court would be necessary

I fully recognize the need to impose appropriate punishment including jail time on drunk driving offenses We must act to break the cycle of continued substance abuse I support long term closely monitored treatment programs

The increasing caseload is a major problem facing the court My extensive experience will enable me to contribute immediately to the elimination of the civil case backlog

Fifer

Michael Fifer
 Married for 10 years two children
Education: Law degree University of Detroit Mercy School of Law 1994 BS degree in business administration Central Michigan University 1989

Private practice for the last eight years currently has general litigation practice in Southfield practice involves civil litigation misdemeanor criminal defense and ordinance violation defense

The biggest problem has been and will continue to be the population growth and avoiding another overburdened court The addition of a third judge as well as programs in place now should reduce the chances of another overburdened court

The addition of the third judge brings the court more in line with the statewide average caseload for district court judges The programs put in place by the 35th District Court should solve the caseload problem I do not foresee the need for more than one court

Each case must be addressed on a case by case basis The new diversion program will be successful in reducing repeat offenders by treating their addictions First time offenders can expect probation community service and fines Repeat offenders can expect all of the above plus jail time

Even though the number of cases has increased sharply in the district court civil cases are still a small percentage of the docket Civil cases tend to resolve faster and are less time consuming to the district court bench

Malinowski

James Malinowski
Wife: Susan
Children: Andrea and Janelle (Christopher) Minghine grand daughter Brianna
Education: Law degree Detroit College of Law 1973 bachelor's in mechanical engineering General Motors Institute 1968

Private practice for 29 years has handled felony misdemeanor and traffic matters along with variety of civil actions rated well qualified by the Detroit Metropolitan Bar Association

As the communities continue to grow the volume of cases will continue to grow The court will be challenged to handle each case with the dignity and respect our legal system owes to its citizens and have a positive impact on the people who come in contact with the legal system

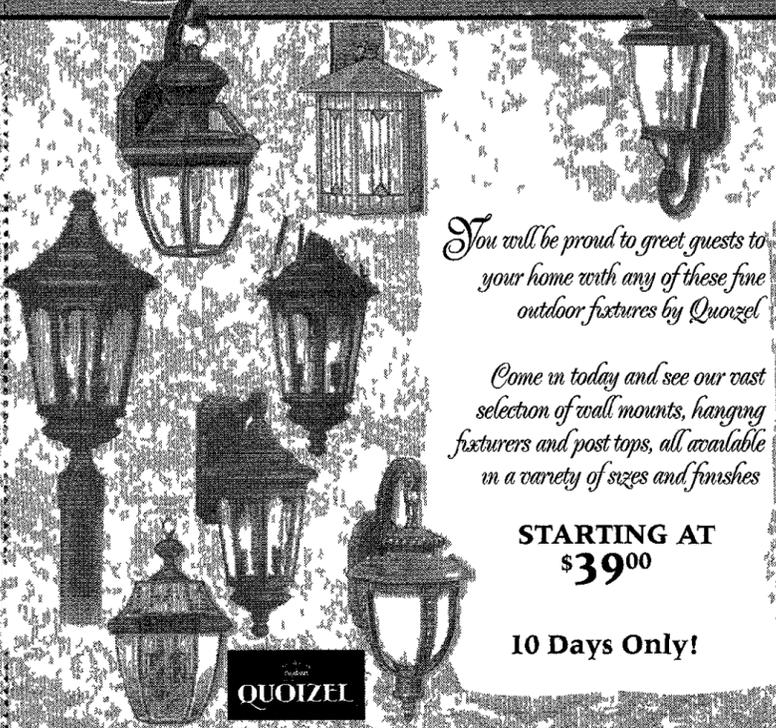

Adding the third judge will reduce the annual volume to levels that would be recognized as average throughout the state With three judges the average caseload per judge will be slightly over 15 000 per year which is well within manageable limits

A combination of fines drivers license suspensions probation inpatient and outpatient programs and education will get the attention of the first time offender Offenders can expect a substance abuse program harsh fines extended probation and jail time if necessary

Trials will cause docket congestion Many of the cases that are filed will never go to trial They will be resolved by motion default or settlement Volume will always be a problem and should be addressed only if cases are not disposed of within a reasonable period of time

It's tougher to spread it out for the kids, because families take vacations," Groff said. Concentrating their attention for a shorter period of time is better for them.

The academy is becoming increasingly popular. The department ran a pilot program last year and attracted a dozen participants. The number nearly doubled this year.

According to Groff, not only is the youth academy gaining popularity among youngsters, but their parents are taking a big interest, as well.

 ties with Wendover over a Fleet Street easement
 In his March ruling, O'Meara ruled that Plymouth police officers acted properly when they arrested Prose. However, Prose asked for a reconsideration of the ruling, and more than four months later O'Meara affirmed his decision to grant all the defendants summary judgment, which cleared them of any charges.
 Along with the city, defendants included Wendover, his wife Sally Repeck, former police chief Bob Scoggins, Lt Ed Ochal, former Crier employee Mike Carne, former mayors Don Dismuke and Joe Koch and former city manager Steve Walters.
 'I'm not surprised,' said attorney Gus Morris of Cox, Hodgman & Giarmarco in Troy, who is representing the city. "From a statistical standpoint, judges rarely decide to reverse their own decisions. The officers had probable cause to do what they did.

 Mateo said he doesn't expect the three-panel federal appeals court to hear the case for at least a year. Prose said, 'We'll just continue with the state case.'
 The state portion of the lawsuit, which is pending, also asks for $100 million in damages. However, a May 9 Michigan Court of Appeals ruling left only Ochal, Scoggins, Wendover and Repeck as defendants. Judge William Giovan earlier issued a stay of proceedings order, pending O'Meara's ruling.
 'With the Court of Appeals dismissing most of the defendants the case is hanging by a thread in Wayne County Circuit Court,' said Morris. 'We believe Judge Giovan will lift the stay, put the case back on the docket, and we'll ask for it to be dismissed. We're hopeful he'll rule the judgment in federal court, that all the defendants can't be held responsible, will also be upheld under the state claim.'

 stream back to the city, which I would propose be set aside for further development in the Old Village area," he said. Graham also noted the renovated building could possibly be used by city residents during evenings and weekends. "I see it as a positive."
 Help Source would use the building five days a week, from approximately 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. as care-givers drop off and pick up seniors for day-long activities. "They would be people afflicted with dementia, depression and those who need supervision and socialization rather than just sitting at home," said Perkins. He also noted there would be a director, two assistants, two coordinators, four senior aids and several volunteers working at the facility.

 Commissioner Stella Greene visited the Help Source facility in Livonia, where the seniors program at Our Lady of Providence is temporarily being housed.
 "I was favorably impressed," said Greene, who spent several hours talking to seniors and staff. "I can see where it could have real merit. Anytime we can work cooperatively to enhance services for our constituents.

 "If we can utilize this source to improve that property, it might discourage unacceptable behavior in the neighborhood and keep kids from hanging out."
 There have been recent complaints by residents about teens causing problems in the neighborhood. Some residents also don't like students from Starkweather hanging out at the park, located next to the old fire station.
 Perkins said among the renovations needed at the firehouse are handicapped accessible ramps, and two additional restrooms. The 2,000-square-foot building might also need to be expanded to about 2,500 or 3,000 square feet, according to Perkins, to accommodate 25 seniors.

 Unless the city would allow us to build, that could be a problem,' he said. "But, then, money would become an issue."
 Perkins said Help Source has about $29,000 for renovations. Jabara, also a member of the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth, which helped renovate kitchen facilities at the Plymouth Historical Museum, said he would propose to the service club to help with some of the work to keep the costs down. He estimates the $40,000 cost could be cut in half with the help of Kiwanis members.

 Perkins said Help Source is also looking elsewhere in the Plymouth, Canton, Northville and even Garden City, for a new building.
 In order to keep its $114,000 in Plymouth Community United Way funding, Help Source must serve people who live or work in the Plymouth area, according to Marie Morrow, president of the United Way. Help Source also has a family counseling program located on Deer Street in Plymouth, and a home support program that provides services to Plymouth clients.

OUR VIEWS

3 judicial hopefuls worthy of support

In the race for the new judicial seat in the 35th District Court, voters are going to have to choose one name from a crowded field of qualified candidates.

We believe one name rises quickly to the top, and a couple of others deserve serious consideration from voters.

Eric Colthurst has been a magistrate for 16 years in the 35th District Court, which serves the cities of Plymouth and Northville and the townships of Plymouth, Northville and Canton. In that capacity, Colthurst has just about seen it all from the bench, the only one of the 10 candidates with judicial experience in the district. He has conducted arraignments on criminal charges and presided over civil cases ranging from traffic violations to small claims cases.

His experience in the district gives him a much shorter learning curve, because he's already familiar with the way the system works and the people who work the system.

Colthurst

Colthurst also practiced law for 21 years in the area. In his general practice, Colthurst has run the gamut from helping people buy or sell homes, planning estates, suing drunk drivers and probating wills. Colthurst estimates he has represented thousands of people within the 35th District.

With drug offenses and drunk drivers making up a solid block of the caseload in this district, Colthurst understands the need to balance rehabilitation with the public safety. He's already familiar with the program to reduce recidivism for drug and alcohol offenders, for which the 35th District Court just received a grant.

As a bonus, Colthurst is quite involved in the community. As Boss Dog, he's the co-founder of the Plymouth Dog Jog. He's a five-time past chairman of the Kiwanis Pancake Breakfast, one of Fall Festival's most popular events. He volunteers at Liberty Fest in Canton and has been a director for both the Northville Chamber of Commerce and the Northville Community Foundation.

Candidates who also merit consideration are David Esper and James Malnowski.

Esper is a former police officer and major felony prosecutor with the Wayne County Organized Crime Task Force. He has extensive experience with criminal cases, having tried felony cases including murder, rape, robbery, commercial theft and conspiracy. In addition, he has also tried every type of civil case a judge at the 35th District Court can expect to see.

Esper

The Army veteran was an honors graduate from the University of Detroit School of Law and serves as chairman of the Attorney Discipline Hearing Panel. He was also one of the few candidates in the race rated "well qualified" by the Detroit Metropolitan Bar Association.

As a former police officer, Esper has dealt with the consequences of drunk driving, one of the more common offenses heard at the 35th District Court. He understands the need for appropriate punishment, but also hopes to help break the cycle of continued substance abuse. He supports treatment programs that are long-term and closely monitored.

Esper understands the challenges facing the 35th District Court, including a crowded docket and a huge number of drunk driving and domestic violence cases. Esper offers a background varied enough to give him an edge over most of the other candidates.

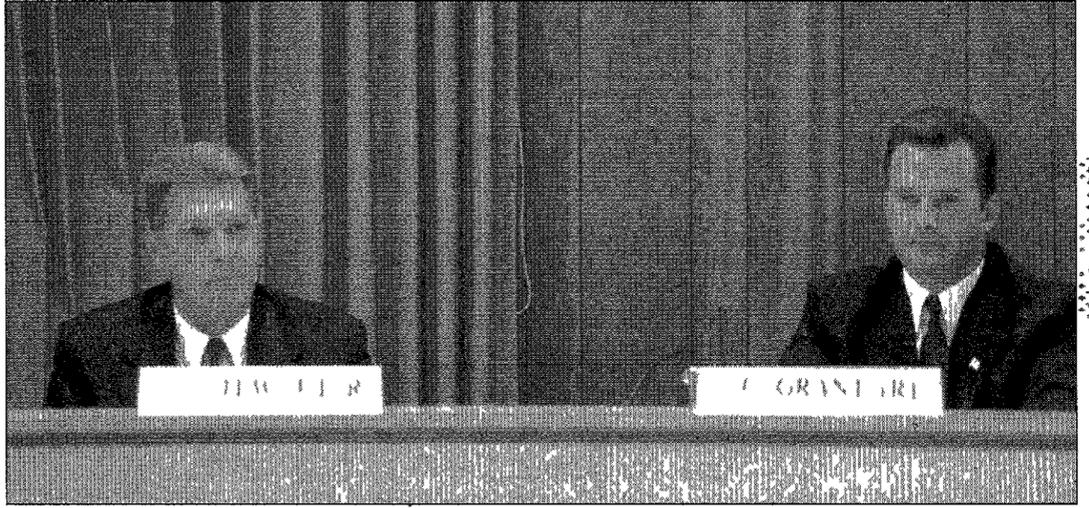

Malnowski

James Malnowski has practiced law for 29 years, and he is the only other candidate in the race rated "well qualified" by the Detroit Metropolitan Bar Association. Malnowski's practice has run the gamut of law — civil cases, misdemeanors, felonies.

Although Malnowski, who got his law degree from the Detroit College of Law in 1973, has no judicial perspective, we feel he has a breadth of experience not only with civil cases, but with the same kinds of criminal cases that routinely come before judges in the 35th District.

This election will finally provide the long-awaited relief a crowded 35th District Court docket demands. Judges John MacDonald and Ron Lowe eagerly anticipate the arrival of a third judge, and we believe that judge should be one of the trio of Eric Colthurst, David Esper and James Malnowski.

Gerou is qualified

Myself and most of my friends who have known Mike Gerou, his family and parents, know he is more than amply qualified to fill the available judgeship position for the 35th District Court.

Mike has devoted many hours of his personal time toward making our community a better place to live. Myself and my friends would appreciate any possible support you might provide toward helping Michael achieve this important goal.

John McAllister
Plymouth Township

Impressed by Gerou

I have been a resident of Plymouth for 15 years. I graduated from Plymouth Salem, as have my younger sister and brother. I have since completed an undergraduate degree at Eastern Michigan University and am currently completing master's degrees in science (environmental geology) and industrial operations through the University of Toledo and Lawrence Technological University, Plymouth, respectively.

I have worked at E&E Manufacturing Co., Inc. in Plymouth over the past five years. It was through the Leadership Plymouth through the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce that I had the pleasure to come to know Mr. Gerou.

Over the past two years I have worked with Mr. Gerou as a Leadership Plymouth alumni and as members of the Leadership Plymouth Steering Team. Through my work with Mr. Gerou I have grown to know him as a man of great integrity and moral fiber. He has shown this not only with his words of wisdom but in his actions as well.

In Mr. Gerou I see a good and honest man who has a great love for his friends, family, and community. I see great things for Mr. Gerou and for the men and women that he will touch through his continued work in community services and as a representative of our community as a district judge.

Trust Grant

Talk about irony! I attended the forum for House candidates running for office July 18 and heard a very agitated John Stewart complain about a question being "planted."

He out of all the candidates should've been able to answer the question the best. Everyone in the audience snickered like, "what is this guy talking about" as his voice got louder and more assertive. I thought we were about to witness the character of John Stewart that we've heard so much about from the House floor and appears to be consistent with my personal experience with him, as well.

The facts are: At this forum Stewart said he was against changing Proposal A. I was dumbfounded. Isn't he a board member with Mark Slavens of Michigan Citizens for Fairness in Public School Funding? Proposal A is a voter-mandated proposal. Mr. Grant vows to preserve this proposal approved by the voters of Michigan.

Stewart said he was 90 percent (or 95 percent) Pro-Life? Is that like me saying I'm 90-percent pregnant? It can't be both ways. This is the obvious reason Michigan Right-To-Life has endorsed Jonathon Grant. Stewart and his political hacks/colleagues need to stop the slanderous campaigning toward Jonathon Grant and his family. This is absolutely despicable. I was a frequent visitor/contributor at AllPlymouth.com and I absolutely challenge the charges Stewart and his friends make. It simply isn't the truth. If Stewart can't win on the issues then why do we want him in office? It's time they realize the fine citizens of the Plymouth/Canton community aren't into lies and libel. Ask Jerry Vorva, Dennis Shrewsbury and Dave Byers how well this sort of campaigning worked for them.

Please, John, take Jonathon Grant up on his offer and have a public debate — what do you have to lose, except the election? Stewart wouldn't shake the hands of his opponents (Republican and Democrat) in the 20th District after the forum? He immediately turned his back to both of them. That can be viewed by everyone on the cable replay.

We need to restore dignity, integrity and honor to the 20th District seat. Vote for Jonathon Grant Aug. 6th. He's a man the people can trust.

Robin Wilson
Plymouth

Fair and honest

I am supporting Michael Gerou for 35th District judge because Mike is fair, honest and sincere.

I have known Mike professionally and personally for more than six years. Mike's integrity and professionalism were obvious the first time I met him as opposing counsel. Mike Gerou's personal and professional contributions have enriched this community and have contributed to making it a greater place to live. I hope you will join me in supporting Mike on Aug. 6.

Rita E. Lowenstein, attorney
Canton

Vouching for Patterson

State Rep. Bruce Patterson seems to be getting a bad rap here (for an alleged parking lot confrontation with state Rep. John Stewart).

Patterson has not yet presented his case to the public or been questioned by the police. I'm positive, when all is said and done, Patterson will still stand tall and all allegations will be dismissed. He has come up within the community as a believer in human rights, equality, making smart decisive tax decisions and just plain treating your neighbor as a part of your family.

I can remember when Patterson was president of the Canton Community Foundation and started a drive to help the needy in Hurricane Andrew during 1992. That was a first in our community. Rep. Patterson since then has grown in the ranks and deservedly so. We demand our politicians to become stronger and wiser. This to me has become the case.

Patterson has become the best at what he does and now is getting challenged within his ranks. To bad the challenger is seeking the low road. You might say he is an ear biter, nibbling away to get attention.

Supporting Gerou

I am writing this letter to express my support for Mike Gerou in his candidacy for the 35th District judicial seat. Mike is my son's new baseball coach, and my family and I have only recently come to know him. However, from our first phone conversation, it was clear to me that Mike Gerou is a very warm and caring person. At the first practice, Mike understood that my son was the new kid on the team, and he was very supportive, taking time to introduce him to each of the coaches and every player on the team and spending extra time with my son in the beginning. In all of those practices, I'm sure the kids have tested his patience, yet he's had nothing but encouraging words for the boys.

During these practices, I've noticed that Mike displays an excellent work ethic. He also exemplifies the type of sportsmanship he expects from his players; he practices what he preaches. Moreover, Mike realizes the importance of allowing the kids to be kids while still working hard to improve their game. He's achieved that perfect balance. And every kid on the team is treated equally, including his own.

When the regular season rolled around, the games became pretty competitive at least for us parents. Often times during a crucial play the intensity hangs thick in the bleachers and dugout. Of course it's natural to cheer on our team when they make the great plays. But on those occasions when our players strikeout or miss a play in the field, Mike defies human nature for disappointment and can always be heard clapping his hands, building that confidence right back up with his familiar phrase, "No harm, buddy!"

Moreover, on those occasional bad calls, Mike is patient with the umpires, as well.

If he demonstrates such fairness, balance, and high standards for America's favorite pastime, how much more so will he deliver in a small district of America's justice system!

Linda L. Ciciotti
Canton

Gerou is involved

Our district is very fortunate in having many qualified candidates for the 35th District Court. The best one, in my opinion, is Mike Gerou.

I have had an opportunity to talk to him extensively. His accomplishment in community and church groups is impressive. He is very involved in the life of the communities served by the district court.

I have been a lawyer for over 24 years. What impresses me is that Mike has a broad range of experience in both criminal and civil cases. In addition, he has bipartisan support from political organizations.

Discovering the truth is key in dealing with sex abuse

As a parent with children attending St Michael School in Livonia, I am deeply troubled by the reactions of many parents and parishioners regarding the suspension of Father (Edmund) Borycz. I am troubled by the responses on "both sides" I see many ready to hang Borycz before the full truth is known. I also see many blindly supporting him, without giving much thought to the seriousness of the allegations against him. The situation affecting our church and school community is a mirror of what is happening in Catholic parishes nationally, and as such, deserves our careful and conscientious consideration.

At St. Mike's, many parents did not like the policies Borycz initiated when he came to our parish a year ago. In many ways he was a "my way or the highway" kind of pastor. He could be abrasive and demanding. His views on women seemed outdated. His outspokenness regarding finances and church attendance angered many. Still, I spent much of the year defending him, telling people to adopt a "wait and see" approach. I liked much of what he said in his homilies and disregarded the rest. What concerns me now is that some individuals who disliked Borycz are feeling vindicated since his dismissal, as if this is a contest they have won. If he is innocent of the allegations, then they are hanging him based upon personality clashes and not the truth.

If he is guilty, they are disrespectfully taking the "heat" off the real issues here - the incredible damage that sexual abuse has on victims and their families, and, the distorted sense of entitlement and power that allowed Catholic authorities to hide and trivialize the abuse for decades. Whether or not you "like" someone should not be (and in a democracy is not) the criteria for assigning guilt or innocence.

Yet, church officials and the prosecutor's office believe the allegations credible enough to warrant removal pending investigation. The allegations come from two different parishes and two different time periods. An investigation seems reasonable and appropriate.

I am troubled by parishioners who insist Borycz is innocent simply because they "like" him, and do not think he could "ever do something like that." I do not know whether Borycz is innocent or guilty, but I do know that abusers often lead double lives and are very adept at earning the trust of those around them. Often when victims courageously come forward it is (to the stunned disbelief of family and friends) the beloved uncle, coach, neighbor or even priest who was the perpetrator.

All of us have heard brokenhearted parents in the news saying the person who sexually abused their child was "the last person on earth" they would have suspected. Many of us (1 out of 5 women and 1 out of 10 men) know first hand the devastating and lasting effects of sexual abuse. The fact that Borycz is a priest, has helped troubled youth, or is "likeable" does not mean he is automatically given the status of innocence either. In a democracy, no one is above the law.

Further troubling are comments by Catholics who acknowledge that abuses could have occurred in the past by their priests, but dismiss the abuse as not relevant to who the priest is today, a "let bygones be bygones" mentality. In a recently published letter in the Observer, Laura Pollaccia-Scanlan indicates that since the statute of limitations is up regarding prosecution that Mike Duggan should let the matter drop regarding Borycz.

I respectfully remind Ms. Scanlan that for individuals who were sexually abused, one time, 10 times, or 100 times, the statute of living with the effects of the abuse is NEVER up. I may not know the guilt or innocence of Borycz at this time, but I do know that the sexual molestation of a child by a person in authority destroys lives, divides families, and damages faith.

Jesus valued truth and did not tolerate hypocrites lightly. I am all for forgiveness, but there is a huge difference between forgiving and condoning. As more cases come forward nationwide involving pedophile priests, I will keep them in my prayers. They are obviously sick individuals. But keep them away from my kids, and from performing the sacraments that make up the foundation of my faith. When possible, they should be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law, just as ANYONE ELSE would be who committed similar crimes.

As a mother, a Catholic, and a member of this community, I have a strong interest in getting at the truth of this matter. I support the efforts of those who also seek the truth regardless of how complex, time-consuming, or confusing that search can be. There are no easy answers here or easy solutions. I know I am not alone in saying that while my faith in God can never be shaken, my faith in the institution of the church has been, especially my faith in the church hierarchy.

Like thousands of other Catholics, I am carefully watching the leadership of our church to determine if their actions will match their words. While I know that there are many good priests and perhaps some who have been wrongly accused, I also know that the era of covering up or brushing off the behavior of abusive priests as simply a sin or a fluke should rightly and thankfully be over.

Conventional wisdom might give Detroit edge for Dems

The Democrats are in town. Not the candidates for governor or county executive, they won't go away. Democratic National Convention committee members are visiting to evaluate Motown as a possible site for the 2004 convention.

Detroit Mayor Kwame Kilpatrick is making a pitch during a three-day visit, trying to convince the committee that Detroit is a better site than Boston, Miami or New York.

A national political convention could bring as much as $150 million to the local economy, much of it spent in the suburbs. Any convention in Detroit will rely heavily on suburban accommodations.

The last time a national political convention came to Detroit I was working in public relations at Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village. The 1980 Republican convention that gave us Ronald Reagan was a relatively tame affair as conventions go.

There was a brief flurry about the possibility of former President Gerald Ford joining the ticket as the vice presidential candidate. As all nutty ideas eventually do, it died long before it ever reached the convention floor.

The resistance of moderate Republicans (known as Milliken Republicans in Michigan) was finally beaten down by the rush of conservative fervor.

But the conflict was mild compared to the GOP's 1964 convention that pitted the Goldwater faction against the Rockefeller faction. By 1980, the moderates had become, and remain today, a minority in the party.

The museum played host to several convention parties. The Dearborn Inn, at the time owned by the museum, was the headquarters for the Wisconsin delegation (one of those moderate groups).

They were a cheerful bunch and, in time, were won over with everyone else by Reagan's movie star charms.

The side conventions that went on at suburban sites were often more interesting than the main floor event down at Cobo.

I was witness to Jack Kemp snubbing Michigan's favorite son Gerald Ford. At the time Kemp was a rising star, the prototype compassionate conservative with his enterprise zones idea.

He had arrived at a party function at the museum and was told the former president was about to arrive.

Apparently, Kemp didn't want to associate with the older moderate wing of the party even if the representative was a former president. He abruptly got his handlers to hustle him out just in the nick of time.

As an admirer of President Ford, I came away thinking that the former Buffalo quarterback was way too slick for his own good.

Another of my assignments was to play escort for the national press (the other big contingent at every convention). Reporters love Henry Ford Museum and were delighted to get the grand tour (especially for free, another thing reporters love).

The conservative GOP brought their convention to a troubled city with a Democratic mayor (who would later call their nominee "Old Prune Face") in a state with a moderate governor (the original Milliken Republican, Bill Milliken). The Democrats will be coming to a city with a Democratic mayor, county executive and, if the polls hold true, governor.

Such warmth and congeniality won't be present at the other three sites.

Unfortunately, conventions aren't what they used to be. C-Span will offer the only gavel-to-gavel coverage. The broadcast networks are threatening to go down to an hour a night or less. The decision on the candidate is usually made in primaries months before.

The platforms are so meaningless most candidates don't know what's in them.

So the convention won't draw as many eyes to the city as they did when the 1968 Democratic Convention had them fighting in the Chicago streets (and good thing).

Still, the convention would bring a lot of people with deep pockets to our area.

If the city and state work together to put a fresh face forward, convention delegates could have a great experience and take back the word that Detroit and its suburbs are a fine place to live, visit and nominate presidents.

tunities had dwindled, around Thanksgiving 1999. She began working at Comprehensive Modern Dentistry, for Dr. George Atsahs, in January 2000.

Although she's moved to a more bustling area than the slower-paced atmosphere where she grew up, Tude Thuot still maintains touch with her Alpena roots.

"My family is still up there," she said. "It's just that I was looking for career advancement opportunities, and the social atmosphere is better down here."

She feels lucky to have gotten a job where her boss supports her desire to give to the community, along with having the business acumen to understand it's also good for the practice.

"I'm fortunate enough to be in a position where (Atsahs) supports me volunteering," Tude Thuot said. "It's a positive for the office, too. We've gained some great patients from my volunteering."

For Tude Thuot, it also continues a pattern she's established wherever she's gone.

"I've always been involved in things," she said. "I enjoy it. I like the opportunity to be up on events in the community. It gives you a feeling of satisfaction."

Colorful pageantry of Highland Games appeals to families

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

For Malcolm Milne the Highland Games bring back memories of his father. As a child in the 1950s and 60s he and his dad watched the colorful pageantry of the bagpipe bands marching in their kilts on Bob-Lo Island as part of the St. Andrew's Society of Detroit festivities.

Over the years the games have grown but the colorful sights and sounds remain a part of the day. On Sunday, Aug. 3, clans from all over the U.S. celebrate their Scottish heritage with drumming, piping, dance and heavy athletics competitions in the 153rd annual Highland Games at Greenmead Historical Village in Livonia. A Ceilidh or outdoor party precedes the games on Friday night.

"It's hard to pick just one part of the games as my favorite but if I had to it would be when the mass bands march at noon and 5 p.m.," said Milne. St. Andrew's Society treasurer and a Farmington Hills resident, I often picture my dad standing with me. There's not a dry eye in the crowd as they march over the hill.

Back then there weren't as many bands and dancers but it was still a lot of fun. It's a Celtic festival and picnic as well as games. It's always been a family event.

Magnificent is the way Cathy Hasse describes the experience of watching the bands march. It's one of the reasons she decided to join St. Andrew's Society, which is dedicated to the preservation of Scottish culture.

The Orchard Lake resident co-chairs this year's games with Bill Baker of Bloomfield Hills. It's a lot of work organizing hundreds of volunteers, she said, but the proceeds go to charities and Celtic scholarships for dancers, bands, and fiddlers to attend colleges in the Midwest.

The welcoming and closing ceremonies just send chills up and down your spine with nearly 15 bagpipe bands all on the field at once during the welcoming and closing ceremonies," said Hasse. "They're wearing all different kilts from the 35 clans."

Vendors selling Scottish art and artifacts, CDs, books, kilts and Scottish attire, bakery items, groceries, teas, and pewter wares bring a bit of Scotland alive for the day as does entertainment by folk singer Alex Beaton, award-winning fiddler Jeremy Kittel, and direct from Scotland the Battlefield Band.

"A border collie shepherd's four domesticated ducks around the field all day. People just love that," said Hasse. "There are children's hands-on activities where they can paint a Targe (shield) of different clans or they can toss a caber. It looks like a telephone pole just like the one used by world champion athletes who are competing but it's made of Styrofoam. Caber tossing originated from the Highlands of Scotland when they were clearing the fields and cutting down the trees. They made a game of it. Tossing or

Artists on the move after Ann Arbor Art Fairs

The Ann Arbor Arts Fairs hadn't even officially opened Wednesday morning and the streets were filling with visitors. Fair diehards weren't about to let a slowing economy and temperatures predicated in the high 90s stop them from taking in the latest creations by 1,000 artists from around the country.

Lake every year, it was a good place to watch people, listen to the entertainment and look for the elusive clay colander my sister Gwen and I have been wanting to drain pasta. We had no luck again this year. Either the bowl was too small to hold a pound of noodles or the holes were too big and all of them would have ended up in the sink with the steaming water. While we'll have to get by with our old chipped one, Stan and Brenda Harris had no problem finding Tom LeGault's abstract floral. Brenda plans to do a little redecorating when she returns

"You can't say what attracts you to a painting," said Stan who does watercolor and Chinese brush painting. "It just does."

"It's an impact," added Brenda. "It's bold. I just love the color. I've got to redecorate the lounge. This will be my spur to do it."

Stan looked surprised about the project but the news wasn't stopping him from enjoying the fair.

putting the stone came about the same way

While Hasse's great-great grandmother on her mother's side was Scottish and her husband is three-quarters Scottish, not all members of St. Andrew's Society of Detroit have roots in the Highlands. Dave Martin is an Irishman in charge of organizing the bagpipe bands performing at the Highland Games. Martin has been playing with the St. Andrew's Society Band for all but two of groups' 50 years together. He now serves as pipe major.

"When I was a boy I lived down the street from bagpipers who played in their basement," said Martin of Livonia. "Then I saw an article in the paper and pestered my mother. It's the different sound of the bagpipe and the pageantry that attracted me. The music is fairly new in the history of bagpipe, only about 150 years old. Members participate in the bands because they enjoy the instrument and want to increase their proficiency.

"I'm really looking forward to hearing the Battlefield Band of Scotland performing at Ceilidh on Friday night and the games on Saturday. They're a very famous Celtic band that travels all around Australia, Britain with fiddles and concertina."

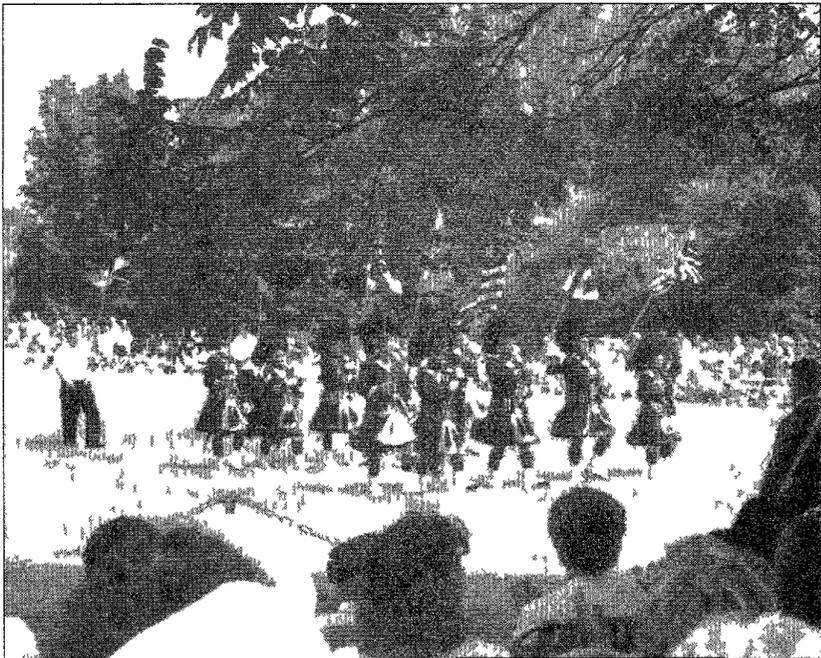

Suzanne Stewart will be anxiously waiting for the dance competition when her 13-year-old daughter Amy puts her best foot forward. Suzanne, a Canton resident, was a Highland dancer as a little girl growing up in Redford. Her grandmothers from Scotland and her great uncle danced.

Amy will perform national dances and wear a plaid sash held by a brooch and in kilts the Highland dances that were traditionally done by men in the old days," said Suzanne Stewart.

The Livonia competition is Amy's seventh since April. She just returned from the Grandfather Mountain North Carolina Scottish Highland Games where she won four medals in the Intermediate category. Amy's been dancing since age 3 1/2 and studies with Cindy Koperski of Plymouth. She frequently performs at weddings and parties to the tunes of Martin's bagpipes.

"I have to practice a lot, at least an hour a day but I love dancing," said Amy, a ninth grade student at Plymouth Salem High School. "I get nervous right before I go up but when I hear the bagpipes I just relax and dance better. I love bagpipes."

and still admire the creativity found in the four fairs. Linda, an artist, and Harvey, a Livonia dentist, arrived at 10:15 a.m. and planned to stay until about 7 p.m. but were taking a break at Rendezvous.

'We're here as tourists,' said

Zalla, who had a show at Exhibit A Gallery in Birmingham before it closed. She has exhibited in many galleries and has work in the collection of the City of Livonia. On Sept. 25, Zalla lectures on the psychology of color at Temple Beth El in West Bloomfield.

'I love it. I come because I think it's important to support artists. First a work has to get my attention. It's riveting, something high quality, and then it's personal. I can't live without that.'

Cat lovers were going crazy at Alice Frank's booth. The West Bloomfield artist mixes media such as enamel and metal to create whimsical felines and 'people' displayed in acrylic boxes. Frank most recently exhibited her work in Fine Art at Meadow Brook.

I like to make people smile said Frank. 'We need more time in our life to smile. I donate a portion of the proceeds to the homeless. I call my creations my people. Every person needs a home.'

You could tell Frank was having a good time telling visitors about her work.

The Ann Arbor Art Fairs are very vibrant and kinetic, said Frank, and you hope you can live through the four days.

Stan Megdall was wondering how he could make it through those same four days with half his glass art being stolen the day before. (See related story) A real trooper, the West Bloomfield artist dug up some of the work he had around the house to sell in Ann Arbor. But his new figurative work was what he'd hope to introduce to fair-goers. There's no doubt he'll be blowing a lot of glass to prepare for his next eight shows including Art, Beats & Eats Aug. 30 to Sept. 2 in Pontiac (call (248) 334-4600) and the Spotlight Art Show to benefit Meadow Brook Theatre Sept. 6-8 in downtown Rochester.

For more information about the Spotlight show held in conjunction with Art & Apples, call (586) 781-2744.

'I'm staying in the vessel mode,' said Megdall, who earlier found it hard to talk because of his loss but couldn't resist the subject that's become his life's work. 'I'm sticking with figurative, more gesture.'

Thieves nab artist's glass works

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Stan Megdall wasn't having a good morning on opening day of the Ann Arbor Art Fairs. Half of the West Bloomfield artist's work was in his red Cargo Mate trailer which was stolen some time between Tuesday evening July 16 and Wednesday morning July 17. It was padlocked and chained to a telephone post in front of his glass blowing studio on Michigan Avenue between Ridge and Ford roads in Ypsilanti.

Megdall has eight more shows to go after Ann Arbor including Arts, Beats & Eats on Labor Day weekend, in Pontiac, the Spotlight Art Show Sept. 6-8 in Rochester, and the Holiday Art Fair presented by the Michigan Guild of Artists & Artisans Nov. 2-3, at Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills.

A graduate of Center for Creative Studies (now College for Creative Studies), Megdall creates large glass bowls, wall vases, paperweights, perfume bottles, flowers, and figurative-like sculptural vessels which he exhibited at an invitational in April at Janice Charach Epstein Gallery in the Jewish Community Center in West Bloomfield.

This was his third time in the State Street Art Fair but he's exhibited regularly for years in the Summer Art Fair presented by the Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans.

Lost three months of work, said Megdall who supports his wife Debbie and three children with his art. Debbie and Megdall work as a team to do the shows. She valued the contents of the trailer at $15,000 and reported the insurance company will only cover the cost of materials not the retail value of the art.

'Stan has been working so hard to build inventory,' said Debbie who's been doing the fairs side-by-side with Megdall for 12 years.

Blowing glass is no easy task especially during summer. Working in front of a furnace heated to more than 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit while forming each piece is physically exhausting.

If you have information about the 8- by 10-foot Cargo Mate with a side entry door and vent on the top (license plate R02832) or the glass art inside call Officer Farst of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department at (734) 971-8400, ext. 7043.

Thornetta Davis, Lee Greenwood perform at for Dearborn festival

A variety of musical entertainment — from jazz, R&B and blues to rock 'n' roll, country and Top 40 — is lined up for the 23rd Annual Homecoming, Aug. 2-4.

Festival-goers won't want to miss the top notch performances by Thornetta Davis, a princess of the Detroit blues scene, and SHOUT!, a musical revue for the entire family.

Davis, one of Detroit's busiest singers, belts out the blues with tremendous power and passion. She performs at 8:30 p.m. on Friday Aug. 2 on the Main Stage. From the California sounds of the Beach Boys to the Motown sounds of the Four Tops, SHOUT! pays tribute to some of the most outstanding vocal groups of all time. The show combines some of the best-loved songs from the 50s, 60s and 70s with fantastic vocal performances, snappy choreography and dazzling costumes. The group performs at 8:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 4 on the Main Stage.

Homecoming headliner Lee Greenwood takes the Main Stage at 8:30 p.m. on Saturday Aug. 3. He is best known for his patriotic mega hit God Bless the USA.

A Dearborn tradition, the Homecoming celebration offers music, food and fun for every member of the family. In addition to the headliner talent, many more great performances have been planned throughout the entire weekend.

Also live theatrical and musical performances will take place at the Art Festival located at the 'top of the hill' along Cherry Hill. Dearborn's 23rd annual Homecoming festival will run 8 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. on Friday Aug. 2, 8:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Saturday Aug. 3, and 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Sunday Aug. 4. The festival is at Ford Field on Brady north of Michigan Avenue.

Cranbrook Theatre School, Ridgedale Players train youth for stage

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Tony Castellani takes a few moments to rest before heading to a Ridgedale Players rehearsal in Troy. It's been a hectic summer running back and forth between teaching high school students at Cranbrook Theatre School in Bloomfield Hills and directing A Midsummer Night's Dream and acting in Hamlet, the two productions in the third annual Shakespeare Festival opening Friday, July 26, at Ridgedale Players.

"Theater is pretty much my life right now," said Castellani, director of the senior division at Cranbrook Theatre School and drama director at East Hills Middle School in Bloomfield Hills. "I'm working at Cranbrook from nine in the morning to four or five in and around the Greek Theatre in the woods and rehearsals at Ridgedale Players begin at seven. I'm rarely home but it's so much fun, the people I get to surround myself with. "I had some of the actors a couple of years ago at Cranbrook Theatre School. It's interesting to see how they've grown. A lot of them are theater majors at colleges across the country and home for the summer. Of the 24 cast members 16 either have or are pursuing theater degrees. That's pretty unusual for a community theater show. There's lots of exceptional talent."

Jane Fader's going for a degree in theater and political science at Adrian College after studying at Cranbrook Theatre School just as her mother Amy did 30 years ago. This is Fader's first time doing community theater even though she performed with Junior Actors of Ridgedale during her four years at Cranbrook.

"It's such a great experience, said Fader. "The school is like cramming for a test. You learn so much in the six weeks and now I'm applying the basics of acting and character analysis to Hermitia. A Midsummer Night's Dream is high energy, funny, sensual. The amount of hard work that goes into it is amazing. I was in the production at Cranbrook two years ago. Hermitia is innocent, sweet. She's not the villain. It's hard to keep things interesting and not lash out at anyone."

Castellani's done his part to hold audiences attention. "There's a misconception about Shakespeare being boring," said Castellani. "Midsummer is a comedy and moves very fast. Shakespeare's comedies were meant to be comedies. They're full of physical comedy. It's layered with traditional and non-traditional music and dance. We've edited in Hip Hop dancing, modernized the musical element."

"For an audience member afraid of Shakespeare they're going to have fun with it. It's a great place for people to start to turn on to Shakespeare." Born and raised in Ludington, Castellani began reading Shakespeare in high school but it took a trip to see a professional production to change his life. Now he's torn between directing productions and playing roles like Claudius in the dark brooding Hamlet directed by Waterford attorney John Rowland, artistic director of the Shakespeare Festival. Three nights a week Castellani directs A Midsummer Night's Dream and three nights a week rehearses the character that kills Hamlet's father and steals the throne.

"In high school I went and saw A Midsummer Night's Dream at Stratford and I was just blown away," said Castellani. "Seeing it done in such a grandiose way turned me on to theater. That epiphany experience led me to choose that path.

"Shakespeare was a writer, actor, director and wrote for a specific company of actors and sometimes wrote the plays for particular occasions. Hamlet has a traditional Elizabethan feel, quite a contrast to Midsummer."

As choreographer Roberta Campion employed a variety of styles to update the comedy and keep it moving. Like Castellani, Campion lives theater. During the day the Southfield resident serves as associate and dance director at Cranbrook Theatre School. She's especially proud of the staff there. Dance teacher Jennifer Fiant of Rochester Hills recently landed a role with the Rockettes - and school executive director Patrick Bernard was cast in the men's chorus in Michigan Opera Theatre's upcoming Il Travatore. This spring Bernard performed in Otello.

"It's Shakespeare with music. There's never a sitting still dull moment. We use almost every dance style," said Campion who has a Master's degree in theater. In one scene the fairies are on the ground awakening I invented a prologue not existent in the play to get audiences attention. I use interpretive movement, Hip Hop. It's really fun. Then there's traditional Renaissance dancing called Bergermask, a pretty ballet, and the dance of the Queen of the Fairies is a rock the ground kind of dance. When Bottom is turned into an ass there's a bluesy strip kind of music that I've choreographed a sultry dance with a big feather boa. It's just hysterical."

Joanna Spanos learned much of what she knows about theater from Campion who directs the productions at Andover High School where Spanos was student. Now Spanos passes the knowledge on to students at Cranbrook Theatre School. She has two more years to go at the University of Michigan to earn a BFA in theater performance and a BA in English. After graduation she "plans to move to New York and make it as an actor." In the meantime, she directed the junior division production of Wizard of Oz. Now in its 61st year, the school trains budding actors from third to twelfth grade.

"We do a lot of performing," said Spanos, a Bloomfield Hills resident. "Every Monday night is a showcase for parents. The students work on scenes, dances and songs and learn a lot of technique."

Besides the basics, Castellani likes to introduce students to different styles of theater. On Monday-Tuesday, July 29-30, they'll put their talents to work in productions of Into the Woods and Elements, an experimental piece written by Grant Stokes and Travis Reiff.

"We're focusing on the seven elements of the human condition - birth, joy, transformation, strife, love," said Castellani.

"It's a traveling show like the Passion Play. The audience moves from place to place that revolve theatrically around the elements."

Pita Cafe serves authentic mid-Eastern fare

BY MARY QUINLEY
CORRESPONDENT

At least once every two weeks Alyce Haas enjoys a leisurely meal at Pita Cafe. Sometimes family members accompany her.

I like the mid-Eastern food said the Birmingham resident, who has been a regular for almost a decade at either the original eatery in Oak Park or the Birmingham location.

In April 2001, a third Pita Cafe opened in Novi.

The restaurant's menu is extensive and the portions are generous.

Entrees, served with soup or salad and rice or fries, are made with lamb, beef, chicken, shrimp, veal or fish.

One of Haas' favorite entrees, and one of the most popular items served, is the Chicken Shawarma.

This flavorful fare is prepared with marinated chicken, parsley, onions, pickles and tahini sauce.

When her dad joins her for dinner the twosome will frequently order this dish and share it.

Many traditional Lebanese recipes, made with grains, vegetables and fruits, are featured on the menu.

The selection of salads includes a Greek, Caesar, red cabbage, and tabbouli, a combo of parsley, tomatoes, green onions and cracked wheat.

We offer authentic mid-Eastern food (made with honest to goodness fresh ingredients and homemade cooked meals, said owner.

Al Chahine, who described himself as a picky eater who believes in my taste buds.

Chahine, a bachelor for 30 years, has basically cooked everything on the menu for himself. They all are my favorites, he said, laughing.

Homemade soups include crushed lentil, whole lentil and a daily special. Soups also are available by the quart to go.

Another favorite ordered by the Shish Kabob.

PITA CAFE

Where: 43224 W 11 Mile in the Novi Town Center east of Novi Road and south of I-96 Novi (248) 347-7444

Hours: 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday

Menu: A variety of Middle Eastern cuisine including salads, soups, beef, lamb and fish entrees, vegetarian meals, sandwiches and desserts. A raw juice bar, smoothies and alcohol are available.

Cost: Entrée prices range from $8.99 to $14.99. Traditional favorites run $2.45 to $7.99 and sandwiches cost $2.95 to $5.50.

Credit cards: All major credit cards are accepted. Other locations: 239 N. Old Woodward at Maple Road, Birmingham (248) 645-6999 and 25282 Greenfield at I-696 Oak Park (248) 968-2225.

It's made with boneless, skinless chicken breast cubes that are marinated in a special sauce and then charbroiled. A side of rice accompanies this entrée.

Vegetarian meals are a hit with many customers. Myadra, browned lentils and cracked wheat topped with sautéed onions, is a popular choice.

Hummus, a smooth thick blend of chickpeas, oil, lemon juice and tahini sauce, tastes yummy spread on the hot-from-the-oven pita bread.

"When I grew up I thought that pita was the bread that everyone eats," said Chahine, who lived in Lebanon until he was 19 years old.

Pita bread tastes good and is healthy, he said.

There are no additives or preservatives added to the recipe.

On a recent visit to the Novi restaurant, waiter Ali Mohsen delighted patrons with a demo on how the bread is baked.

The temperature must be at least 534 degrees, he said, as he laid the pancake-shaped, thin slabs of dough in the gas-fired oven.

Within seconds the dough began to rise.

Mohsen slid the bread onto a wide, flat spatula, and then, carefully held the spatula up near the top of the oven to faintly brown the puffy tops.

Patrons who are uncertain about trying the Middle Eastern cuisine might want to order Shish Kabob.

The charbroiled beef tenderloin or lamb is prepared on a skewer with tomatoes, green peppers and onions.

Burgers, fries, tuna salad and broiled white fish are also available. A kids menu includes chicken strips and a grilled cheese sandwich.

The juice bar provides an intriguing selection of drinks. Order a glass of carrot, apple, mango or guava juice.

Or be adventurous and try a raw juice combo made of carrot and spinach or a blend of carrot, beet and cucumber.

Not too keen on sipping veggies? Then perhaps a smoothie is more to your liking.

One option is to order your favorite juice blended with bananas, strawberries and honey.

Chefs are trained how to properly marinate and prepare the food. "We must have a chef with experience," Chahine said. He does, however, welcome suggestions from his kitchen staff.

What about future plans for the restaurant entrepreneur?

There's a very good possibility, said Chahine, who always enjoys a challenge.

Traditional bread is baked fresh from the 600-degree wood stove oven that was built especially for the pita bread, served warm with every entree at Pita Cafe.

Clarification

The correct dates for Celebrating the Quilt An American Legacy a quilt show sponsored by the Greater Ann Arbor Quilt Guild are Saturday Sunday July 27 28. The show will take place 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days at Washtenaw Community College 4800 E. Huron River Drive between Huron River Drive and Clark in Ann Arbor. Admission is $5. Parking is free.

Accessorizing

Walker/Buzenberg Furniture 240 N. Main in Plymouth takes the stress out of accessorizing your walls. The store, which carries a variety of framed wall art and mirrors, gives you the option of taking your selection home on approval. Call (734) 459-1300.

Smoke screening

Home Safeguard Industries introduces a first of its kind aerosol smoke alarm spray tester. The tester, called Smoke Check, is a hand-held spray that is like real smoke. The spray is non-toxic and environmentally safe. Smoke Check is UL listed and meets the National Fire Protection Association code 72 test requirements.

Smoke Check retails for $4.99. One can offers more than 10 bursts. The product is available at AC Hardware Stores and Home Centers and will be available at The Home Depot and other retail stores.

For more information contact Home Safeguard Industries at (800) 822-5676 or email expert@home.safeguard.com or visit www.home.safeguard.com.

(Smoke Check) allows the homeowners to test their detectors just like fire safety professionals do in commercial buildings by simulating the full range of fire conditions, said Scott Pyle, Home Safeguard Industries president.

Unlike the standard button test, the Smoke Check aerosol is a complete test. It checks the power source, it tests the alarm's electronics, and it checks the alarm sensor.

Floral design from the garden

BY NICOLE STAFFORD
STAFF WRITER

In truth, no flower is perfect. Yet, an inspired, if not seemingly perfect, display of summer blooms plucked from the garden brings a sort of pure completion to the home and the cycle of living.

Since flowers aren't perfect, floral arrangements can't be. In other words, don't turn the pleasurable experience of working with flowers into a stressful one.

"Hardly ever, do you get two flowers that grow the same way," said Livonia Thrifty florist floral designer Cathy Valadez of flowers' imperfection and inconsistency.

That's why Valadez suggests looking to the flowers themselves for design guidance, rather than forcing structure and design rules on your arrangements.

"If you try to force it, you'll end up unhappy with your work," she said. "Flowers will go where they want to go."

The paradox: Working with flowers is difficult, when you strive for control, easy, when you go with the flow.

Put Mother Nature in charge, and the lines and shapes of the flowers, stems and greenery do the work for you.

"I look at everything that I have first before starting to put the arrangement together," said Valadez of her design process. "The flowers will determine the type of look that you're going to get, so try and work with that."

That said, floral designers draw on general design principles, none of which are too complicated for the average home gardener to grasp.

Design and arrange in clusters of flowers of the same variety with an eye toward creating layers, textures and patterns, says John Milan, a floral designer of 25 years who works at Keller & Stein Florist and Greenhouse in Canton.

It's also a good idea to have a focal point and pay

PLEASE SEE GARDEN, C2

Design tips from the pros

- ▼ Design and arrange using clusters of one variety of flower at a time.
- ▼ Group different flowers by variety and cut each grouping at the same length, but alter stem length for texture.
- ▼ Odd-numbered groups of flowers appeal to the eyes and are easier to arrange.
- ▼ Choose a vase or container that's equal to or about half the size of your flower arrangement's height and volume.
- ▼ Think in terms of layers and groups, and view vase from all sides during arrangement process.
- ▼ Create a focal point with a cluster of flowers, a contrasting color or use of a single large bloom.
- ▼ Tailor arrangements to the size and style of the room where they will be placed.
- ▼ Use greens to form an arrangement base and prop up flowers.
- ▼ Add greens to a finished arrangement to fill holes.
- ▼ Greens also hide the mechanics of an arrangement, such as a mesh vase top or an oasis.
- ▼ When arranging with an oasis, make sure stems are well-inserted and the oasis can't be seen.
- ▼ Experiment with rocks, stones, marbles, seashells and even greens at the bottom of clear vases for more texture.
- ▼ Try to enhance the natural flow and movement of flowers and greens.
- ▼ Think of color as mood and don't worry about coordinating shades — ultimately, they all work well together.

Proper preparation gives flowers staying power

BY NICOLE STAFFORD
STAFF WRITER

When working with fresh flowers, a little preparation goes a long way — literally.

Proper tools and preliminary techniques prolong the life of flower arrangements. So take note of the fundamentals before leaping into design.

Most important — and it can't be stressed enough — Give each stem a fresh cut just before placing in a vase.

"Always, always give a flower a fresh cut before putting into the vase," said Cathy Valadez, floral designer at Thrifty florist in Livonia.

It's also a good idea to soak and store freshly cut flowers in a basin of water while you're working.

"Bring your flowers in from the garden and let them soak up some water first," said John Milan, a floral designer of 25 years who works at Keller & Stein Florist and Greenhouse in Canton. "It's all about water. It's their life blood."

MATTHEW TAPLINGER/OBSERVER

If you're unhappy with your first arrangement, experiment and play with the elements. To remove a flower without damaging it, cup your hand underneath the blossom at the base of the stem and draw it out.

As important, make fresh cuts at an angle with a knife, not scissors and not pruning shears.

"If you use scissors or pruning shears, it crushes the fibers in the stems and stops it from drawing up water," said Valadez.

A knife makes a clean, sharp slice, which is key to longevity.

Having clean vase water also prolongs an arrangement's life, says Ann Rogers, florist greenhouse manager at English.

Summertime brings heated complaints

I was with a friend the other day who owns a large scale heating and air company, and he told me that his company is very busy installing central air conditioning units. With the temperatures being what they are, homeowners are spending restless nights - especially those who have no air conditioning.

Appliance Doctor

Joe Gagnon

A consumer called me to complain that his 5 year old conditioning unit didn't keep his house as cold as it should be. I asked him if he cleaned the condensing unit outside, and he didn't know what I was talking about. He had never cleaned it and the plants and bushes were growing all around it.

After I told him what he had to do, he called me back to thank me. His house is now cool again. If you don't know what to do, why don't you call me at the number listed at the bottom of this column?

I was someplace the other day where a person said the water taste was terrible coming out of the dispenser on the refrigerator. I asked if there was a filter on the water line and checked for myself at the same time. I discovered the filter was inside the product and should have been replaced last December, which means the water was very impure. I went to an appliance repair shop nearby and bought a new filter. While there, I asked the service manager if his technicians were busy on the road. He told me they were cleaning a lot of dirty condensers underneath refrigerators. It appears many of them have never been cleaned since the day the refrigerator was bought.

Now let me ask you readers a question: Why is it that some home owners pay so little attention to the life of products? If you have an answer, you may also call me at the number listed at the bottom of this column.

Central air conditioner - This needs to be maintained or you are going to spend big bucks on wasted dollars in energy consumption and repairs.

If you are thinking about having air conditioning installed in your home, get it done during the winter months. Slower business periods for these guys sometimes means a better price and a lot less waiting time to have the job completed. The water filter - An inline filter on the water line or inside the box that hasn't been changed in six months or after 500 gallons of usage can be a serious health hazard. Clean it now or quit drinking water and using ice cubes from that refrigerator. It's your health that matters to you.

The dirty refrigerator condenser - Many millions of refrigerators have been sold because the compressor burned out.

People won't spend $500 for repairs and sometimes they won't spend $8 for a long handled brush at the hardware store. The brush and a vacuum cleaner are all that is needed to save the product in your home. The real smart consumer spends less than a dollar to buy this newspaper and read this column and others. There are too many people who pay too little attention to their major home appliances, and only after they buy a new one do they become curious. Please don't let one of those people be you.

Joe Gagnon can now be heard on WWJ 950 and WXYT 1270. He is a member and past president of the Society of Consumer Affairs Professionals. His phone number is (248) 455-7281.

attention to the arrangement's overall dimension.

Watch for balance, texture, shape, form, function and movement. Those are basic rules of-thumb for flower design, for interior design, even car design, Milan said.

"But don't be afraid to break the rules."

To create texture, alter flower height. Working with different heights also encourages the habit of layering elements and seeing arrangements in full, three-dimensional form.

Layers are best built on greenery, which provide a base of support and control, plus a way to prop up flowers. Greens also hide the mechanics of an arrangement, if you choose to place a mesh top or strips of tape over the vase opening for stem support. Also, add greenery to fill empty spaces.

Select a vase that fits the size of your arrangement to ensure you achieve design balance, said Milan.

"People have a tendency to pick a container that is much too large," he said.

The smaller the container and the tighter the arrangement, the more control afforded to the floral designer, he said.

If you're unhappy with your arrangement, play and experiment by making small changes

Simply cup your hand underneath the bloom where it meets the stem and remove the flower.

"Sometimes the working at it, is what makes it fun," said Milan. "Have fun with it."

But remember to give each stem a fresh cut before returning to the vase.

While you're experimenting and learning, don't forget that arranging flowers, like interior design, is ultimately an expression of personal style, said Valadez.

Just do whatever looks nice to you, she said. "Everybody designs slightly different. Everybody's tastes are a little bit different."

Gardens. To keep water clean, use a floral preservative and change water every one to two days, remembering to give stems a fresh cut each time.

Removing all stem leaves, except those above the vase water line, helps to keep water fresh and flowers bright and alive.

"This is very, very important for people designing out of the garden," said Milan.

"The leaves cause bacteria and they decompose very quickly, which gets sucked up by the water and kills flowers prematurely."

While flowering plants need sunlight to grow, buds and blooms dislike rays of sun. Avoid direct exposure, which causes flowers to wilt and die more quickly.

Strictly abiding the rules of preparation only to find your blooms shrivel up in a flash? Keep in mind some flower species last longer than others. "You really have to experiment," said Valadez. "Not all garden flowers will last."

The good news for home gardeners: The fresher the flower, from first cut to placement in a vase, the longer it will last.

Don't be in dark about new light switch

After our volunteers completed the wiring on our present Habitat project, it occurred to me that a column dealing with the basics on this subject might be a good idea.

Ask Dad

Harry Jachym

I'd like to give a special thanks to Mike Bratcher of Bratcher Electric for assisting us on this portion of the new home.

Most of us take a light switch for granted. It's there and it works. However, every time the switch is used, a small spark is created at the contact points. These sparks erode the contacts. The more often a switch is used, the more rapidly it wears. Heavier wattage loads create bigger sparks, which also contributes to deterioration.

An inoperative switch must be replaced. If you are not 100 percent comfortable working on electrical items, DON'T. Call a professional, like Bratcher.

Start any electrical replacement job by turning off the power at the breaker or fuse box and testing the circuit to be certain it's off. DON'T EVEN THINK ABOUT WORKING WITH LIVE WIRES.

There are two basic types of switches in a home: the typical single pole switch and the double pole or three way switch. The three way is the switch found at each end of a hallway or stairway that allows you to control the light from either end.

Remove the cover plate and set it aside. Remove the screws holding the switch in the box and pull the switch out. On the single pole switch you'll see two insulated wires and one bare wire attached to the switch. They may be inserted in the back of the switch or attached with screws on the side. Both insulated wires may be black, or one may be black and the other white. Inserting a small screwdriver into the slot near the insertion point and pulling on the wires will remove them on back wired switches.

Note: In older homes there may not be a ground wire.

Attach the new switch. If you are using the screw terminals, make a small hook in the wire with needle-nosed pliers, making sure the open side of the wire hook faces right. This will tend to pull the wire under the screw head when it is tightened.

A three-way switch is replaced the same as a single pole switch with one important difference: There will be three insulated wires and the bare ground wire attached to it. These will usually be a red and either two blacks or one black and one white.

Before removing the wires, look for the terminal marked 'common' on the switch body. Often this will be a black-colored screw.

It is very important that this common wire is placed on the common lug of the new switch, otherwise the lights won't properly operate.

Check that all your connections are tight and that there is no uninsulated wire protruding from the switch.

Place the switch back into the wall and replace the cover plate.

Turn the power back on at the panel. If all was done properly your new switch will do what it is supposed to do.

HIGH HOPES CONTEST

Sponsored by English Gardens

Submit your entries as follows: PLEASE DO NOT CALL THE NEWSPAPER. Use the entry form below (or a facsimile, printed in this newspaper). Entries must be received by Monday Aug 26 2002. Fill in all the blanks. Clearly print or type the information. Include area code with your telephone number and the best time of day to call. If we wish to take your photographs, children should include their ages. Your comments about how you care for the plants can also be sent along with the entry. This information may be passed on to our readers when we announce the winners.

There are two categories of winners in this High Hopes Sunflower Contest: The tallest sunflower and the one with the largest seed head (not including the rays of the flower), grown in the 2002 season through Aug 26.

- 1 Sunflower measurement must be taken from soil level to the base of the head where the stem attaches to the flower.
- 2 Seed head measurement must be taken diagonally across the seed head (not including the rays of the flower).
- 3 Participants must send the official entry form (or a facsimile) to High Hopes Sunflower Contest, The Eccentric Newspapers, 805 East Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009. To fax, call (248) 644-0154. Judges will not fly contest finalists to verify height and size.
- 4 Winners will be announced in the newspaper on September.
- 5 Employees and families of the Observer and Eccentric Newspapers are ineligible.
- 6 Decisions of the judges are final.
- 7 Entrants must live in Oakland or Wayne County to be eligible.
- 8 Gift certificates from English Gardens will be awarded to the winners: $75 for 1st place, $50 second place and $25 third place. Prizes will be awarded 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 21, at English Gardens, 8310 Orchard Lake Rd., West Bloomfield, MI. Winners must appear at awards to claim their prize.

Book explains landscape form

Mountains in the Sea The Vietnamese Miniature Landscape Art of Hon Non Bo, Phan Van Lit with Lew Buller (Timber Press, $34.95), introduces us to an unusual art form.

Hon Non Bo is translated literally as "mountainous island in the sea." This art form reflects the ancient Vietnamese custom of worshipping stones, trees and rivers, a creed or form of meditation that is distinctly theirs.

As we travel through the book, we visit this picturesque country and learn the philosophical concepts that have affected the evolution of the art.

Each step of this ancient art is explained in detail and many illustrations further depict the creative process that is similar to Japanese bonsai and Chinese penjing.

I don't know one person who doesn't like hummingbirds. Peterson Field Guides Hummingbirds of North America, Sheri L. Williamson (Houghton Mifflin, $22), details the distribution, and lists similar species, their calls (sounds), behavior, habitat and much more of 31 North American species.

The color photos of the birds, especially the close-ups of the tails and heads, will make us more appreciative of their coloration. The author has had much experience observing and studying these birds.

Take this along with you when you're out and about. You may get lucky and spy a beauty!

Cubed Foot Gardening Growing Vegetables in Raised, Intensive Beds, Christopher O. Bird (The Lyons Press, $18.95, soft), is filled with innovative information.

Bird gardens in beds that are framed 2-by-12-foot lumber and are intensely planted. A master gardener who has gardened in a number of diverse places, his practice produces good results.

He begins with the very simple basics of gardening and then takes us through the steps to perfect results, from seed sources to buying seedlings. The bulk of the book deals with specific vegetables and what to do when. Anyone will learn from this, especially beginners.

Father John L. Fiala's book Lilacs: The Genus Syringa, first published in 1988 by Timber Press, is now available in paperback ($34.95).

This publisher has received many requests for Lilacs and is reprinting it, including 398 color photographs from the first edition. It will be some time before a revised edition will be available.

Father Fiala (1924-1990) was a leading grower and hybridizer of lilacs and a founding director of the International Lilac Society.

This scholarly work includes information about the taxonomy, lilac species from Europe, China, India, Korea and Japan, color, landscaping considerations and culture. I found the information about lilac hybridizers who have gone before and those still involved in hybridizing quite fascinating.

In 1984 Houghton Mifflin originally published An Island Garden by Celia Thaxter. Now we have a new slipcased facsimile edition, which contains the original chromolithographs by Childe Hassam and a new introduction by Tasha Tudor.

Thaxter, a popular poet, created a garden on Appledore Island during the 19th century. This is the account of a year in the life of the garden.

Thaxter grew most of the many plants from seeds and she writes with complete honesty of her successes and failures with a poet's descriptive phrasing. Her account of introducing birds in the garden and the way she deals with weeds and pests is interesting but her knowledge of plant life and the wonder of it are awe-inspiring. A great gift for $35.

E-mail leads to a love story

We were taking a leisurely walk one evening when I spotted the "For Sale" sign in front of their house on Carol Street in Plymouth. Though it surprised me at first, I decided it made sense after all. Now that Carrie, her only child, was about to graduate from high school, her mother was probably selling the house so she could buy a condo or something smaller.

Weeks later, I learned the amazing story of why Pat Vaughn was really moving. It only proves it's never too late to fall in love, and you never know when it might happen.

For the last 14 years Pat has raised her daughter Carrie by herself.

Pat's husband, who was only 38 at the time, died suddenly and tragically of a brain aneurysm just one week after Carrie's third birthday.

If it hadn't been for my family and friends over the last 14 years, I never would have made it, Pat says.

In July 2001, Carrie, a high school senior, was at home one night fiddling around with the computer.

"What year did you graduate from high school?" she yelled to her mom.

(Pat told her daughter but she will only tell me that she graduated eons ago from the old Plymouth High School on Main Street.)

Do you recognize any of these names? Carrie asked her, pointing to the monitor. She did. It was a list of some of her classmates who had registered with the website Classmates.com. Pat noticed the name Tim Nuoffer, who used to be in her Spanish class.

The thing I remember about him was he was so smart," Pat recalls. "Also, I remember he came from a big family and he had to work all the time."

Curious, she dug out her old yearbook but found no picture of Tim. For some strange reason, she was feeling gutsy that night. Pat sent him an e-mail, not knowing that it would set in motion a chain of events that would change her life. She tapped out a simple message. She said hi, re-introduced herself, and simply asked him why his picture wasn't in the yearbook. Tim e-mailed her back, telling her that he wasn't included in the yearbook because he couldn't afford to have his senior pictures taken when he was in high school.

Pat felt terrible for asking. She e-mailed him back and apologized. The e-mails continued. She brought him up to date about her life and he did the same. Divorced and the father of two grown sons, he is a newspaper editor who lives in Arkansas. Something between them clicked. Over time the constant e-mails evolved into one and two-hour phone conversations. Then, despite the distance, they began visiting each other at least once a month.

In February of this year, just seven months after that first e-mail, Tim asked Pat if she would marry him.

Pat smiled, looked into his eyes, and answered. "It's about time."

Though she dated occasionally over the years, Pat, who works at Hayes Elementary in Livonia, was

PSO conductor arrived with a mission and the dividends are beginning to roll in

BY TEDD SCHNEIDER
STAFF WRITER

For someone who collected a baker's dozen of them, you'd think last month's announcement that another American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers/American Symphony Orchestra League award was headed her way wouldn't have elicited much more than a quick smile and shrug from Nan Washburn.

But the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra conductor/music director was truly excited — and not just because it broke a personal, five-year ASCAP drought.

The prestigious Award for Adventurous Programming — her first with the PSO — validates her mission with the orchestra and the chief reason she signed on as conductor nearly three years ago, Washburn said.

"This time it's different," Washburn said. "I didn't consciously set out to get the award, where as in other years I have

'But more importantly, this orchestra had a specific goal to present contemporary music. To be recognized for that is wonderful. And it's also the best way to build the orchestra.'"

That, too, has been part of Washburn's mission since taking over from Russell Reed, the PSO's second longest serving conductor. Now preparing for its 57th season, the symphony has evolved from a tightly knit group of friends who gathered in local homes to enjoy each other's company as musicians to a community-based orchestra with fund-raising and education components.

Nan Washburn shows off the ASCAP/ASOL Award for Adventurous Programming won by the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra in June.

'This time it's different. I didn't consciously set out to get the award, where as in other years I have. But more importantly, this orchestra had a specific goal to present contemporary music. To be recognized for that is wonderful. And it's also the best way to build the orchestra.'

Nan Washburn
PSO conductor/music director

THE NEXT LEVEL

The transition, Washburn said, was necessary in order for the 60-70 musicians who make up the symphony to grow professionally and so the orchestra could continue to thrive in an age where competition for the entertainment dollar — even at the local level — has become fierce.

Washburn's new path for the orchestra was evident during her first season when works by Czech composer Anton Dvorak to those of 20th century Americans Aaron Copland and Libby Larsen began appearing on the concert bill. It continued during 2001-2002 with a concert celebrating Hispanic music and a guest appearance by one contemporary American composer who has built his reputation from a comic book.

That would be Michael Daugherty whose Metropolitan Symphony debuted on the stage of Supplication and has been performed on stage at Carnegie Hall by the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra. A composer in residence for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and a professor of composition at the University of Michigan, Daugherty answered questions from the audience following the performance.

Of course we still do the big, big pieces, Washburn said, noting last season's concerts included performances of Beethoven's Ninth and Tchaikovsky's Second symphonies. Even there, little twists are sometimes added to keep things interesting. The Beethoven program last March, for example, featured accompaniment from area vocal choruses.

STRIKING A BALANCE

Washburn's real talent as music director lies in balancing the contemporary and traditional works on the same program, often as part of a theme, said Kiyoo Morse, a violinist with the orchestra for 26 years. It takes real skill. When done right, it appeals to a variety of audiences and is stimulating for the musicians, as well," Morse said.

BRYAN MITCHELL | OBSERVER

Nan Washburn, conductor/music director for the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, has updated the orchestra's sound and broadened its appeal.

Plymouth Symphony Society President Linda Alvarado said the concerts are very listenable and are beginning to draw people from outside the Plymouth-Canton community.

The 48-year-old Washburn meanwhile has taken to the area like a conductor to her baton. The small-town feel is decidedly different from the San Francisco Bay area where she grew up, she said.

She recently moved from Ann Arbor to what she described as a cottage in Plymouth. She's still a (really) long distance commuter, though, with a second job as artistic director and conductor for the West Hollywood Orchestra. The mostly veteran PSO provides a contrast with the California orchestra, just in its third year, she said.

She earned a bachelor's degree from the University of California at Santa Barbara and a master's degree in performance from the New England Conservatory of Music.

Asked to find an analogy in the everyday world to conducting an orchestra, Washburn struggled. Corporate middle-manager didn't quite cut it. Neither did sports. "You're not really a coach, because you're up on stage performing, too," she said. "The challenge is how you connect with the orchestra in a visual manner. And teaching comes into it, too."

MUSICAL INFLUENCES

Although you can't really separate the conductor and music director roles, conducting is definitely the fun part, Washburn said.

A flutist before deciding her place as the conductor's podium, Washburn grew up in a house where classical music was king, but folk records also had a prominent place on the turntable. Artists like Joni Mitchell, Judy Collins and James Taylor got almost equal playing time.

As for pop and rock, well, Washburn said she wasn't exactly blowing out any stereo speakers. She does whimsically recall being enchanted by a song she heard on the radio when she was about 16 and asking a friend who the artist was.

The Beatles? Oh yes, I think I've heard of them, she remembers telling the acquaintance.

These days, she listens to jazz to unwind. Mostly vocalists like Ella Fitzgerald and Dinah Washington. Her programming rebel side can't be completely suppressed though. Miles Davis, the trumpet player who gave new meaning to bebop and was an early experimenter with electronics, often finds his way into the CD player as well.

Now that she's moved, Plymouth-Canton residents might see the petite conductor tooling around town on her bike. If pressed, she'll admit that she knows how to pedal a unicycle, although she hasn't ridden one in years.

Somehow, that's not at all surprising for a classically-trained musician whose definition of the "classics" runs way beyond the three B's — Bach, Beethoven and Brahms.

Bollin Memorial Award helps those with epilepsy

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

From the day his daughter died in a car accident almost a year ago, Bill Bollin, owner of Bollin Electric in Plymouth, has been working vigorously to make certain her death is remembered in a positive way.

Leah Bollin died Aug. 16, 2001 when she suffered an epileptic seizure while driving to work. Leah had dealt with epilepsy since third grade, and suffered learning disabilities as a result. However, that didn't stop the 23-year-old, who died just two weeks before starting her junior year at Lake Superior State University in Sault Ste. Marie, from achieving her goals.

In honor of her spirit and determination, Bollin and his wife, Sharon, of Farmington Hills, have begun the Leah Marie Bollin Memorial Award, a fund that will award scholarships to students with epilepsy and its related disorders.

For years we saw how Leah struggled with learning disabilities as a result of epilepsy, said Bollin. It threw her off task easily, but she never gave up. She always bounced back, refocused and redirected herself. It became important for her to graduate college.

A bowl-a-thon and silent auction are being held Saturday, Aug. 3 at Drake's Lane in Farmington Hills to raise money for the endowment. The goal is to raise $100,000, which will fund four, $1,000 scholarships annually to students with learning disabilities. The scholarships are renewable each year, as long as students remain academically eligible at Lake Superior State.

For kids with learning disabilities, there's no help out there, said Sharon Bollin. "There's not much they can't do if given the chance. Having a learning disability doesn't mean they can't learn. Most of the time they just learn in different ways."

Leah had a lot of problems with math, and had to take one math course three times before she finally passed it, added Sharon Bollin. She had just taken her last math class over the summer, statistics and got an A. She never found out.

More than 600 people attended

Leah's memorial service where almost $10,000 was donated in lieu of flowers. The Bollins in less than a year since Leah's death, have raised nearly $27,000. With next month's fundraiser, they hope to get to the halfway point.

The Bollins donated $1,000 of their own money to make certain one student gets a scholarship this academic year while they build the endowment fund. For them, putting the scholarship together is a way of dealing with the healing process.

"We feel like we're doing something Leah would be very proud of," said Sharon Bollin. "People have been very kind and helpful. I think we've put together a good thing."

For Bill Bollin, the scholarship effort will help those students who feel the stigma of epilepsy.

Leah endured stings and indignities because of her epilepsy, he said. Hopefully, the scholarship program will help kids like Leah so they don't have to be embarrassed by having epilepsy.

There will be two bowling sessions 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. at Drake's Lane, 35000 Grand River in Farmington Hills on Saturday, Aug. 3. Free food and refreshments for all bowlers. For entry forms and auction item listings or to donate auction items, call (734) 459-0070 or (248) 553-4776.

Bill Bollin and his wife Sharon have established a scholarship fund in memory of their daughter, Leah (above) who died in August 2001 after suffering an epileptic seizure while driving her car.

As a college student of a single parent, Carrie is the recipient of a PEEL grant. So the wedding is off for now.

In the meantime, Pat is going ahead with plans to sell her house and she's looking forward to being with Tim soon. Tim, who totally supports her decision, has started to affectionately call her 'Tupper'. He figures Pat, who sells Tupperware on the side, needs to take on a Southern nickname like 'Tupper Gator' when she moves to Arkansas.

A long distance romance is stressful enough, she says. By the time we're finally together, we'll be able to beat anything.

Though disappointed, Pat figures their extended engagement is no big deal. Just one more obstacle to overcome. And if anyone can get through them, she can.

Don't your employees deserve the security and peace-of-mind of Wayne County's HealthChoice?

With over 2,000 businesses and more than 21,000 members, Wayne County's HealthChoice is the fastest growing health care coverage in Michigan.

Not only because of its unmatched affordability—you and your employee each pay just $43 a month*—but because of the exceptional quality of care HealthChoice provides.

For the cost, we couldn't believe the coverage could be this good, said Juan Haygood, owner of Pete's True Value Hardware. But it's true: HealthChoice is everything it says it is—and more.

Including coverage for doctor's visits, emergencies, hospitalization, even prescription benefits. From a choice of six excellent provider networks.

For you, the Wayne County business owner, that means attracting better employees and retaining your best workers. For your employees and their families, it's peace of mind, security, not having to worry about being able to afford health care when needed.

And if your business isn't in Wayne County, maybe it should be.

Pride and Humility
The dictionary defines pride as proper and justified self respect and a proper sense of personal dignity and worth. Everyone should take pride in their work, their family, their country and heritage. It is also good to take pride in things such as our personal appearance. When we take pride in all of the good things that our Lord has given us, we tend to take better care of them. However, we must be careful to have pride and self respect without arrogance or superiority. Children who are proud of their parents and respect them will try to be better children and do what is pleasing to their parents. As adults, we should always try to do what is pleasing in God's eyes. The Bible tells us that God opposes the proud, but gives grace to the humble (James 4:6). We should try to temper our pride with humility and not have an exaggerated opinion of our selves. The best way to be the best we can be. People who exalt themselves are usually esteemed less by others, and those who humble themselves are often more admired.
..do not think of yourself more highly than you ought, but rather think of yourself with sober judgment.
N.I.V. Romans 12:13

Berryman leaves RU after 31 years

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
STAFF WRITER

For more than three decades, Rick Berryman has led Redford Union athletes on and off various athletic fields. But for the 2002-03 baseball season, he'll be making a change of venues.

After 12 seasons as coach of RU's baseball program, Berryman has accepted an assistant coaching position with Madonna University's baseball program. He will remain the assistant principal at Hilbert Middle School for the upcoming school year. Berryman said the move to collegiate baseball fulfills a longtime goal of his, but leaves fond memories behind at Redford Union.

"I played at RU, taught and coached there, and coached my son there, so there are a lot of good times there," he said. "It will be difficult leaving, but this is a chance for me to move on to the college ranks, which has been a goal of mine."

Berryman will now assist Madonna coach Greg Hagar, who hired him to replace Sean Maloney, who left the Crusaders to take the Athletic Director's position at Crestwood High School.

The Panthers were a highly successful program over the 12 years Berryman was the head coach. His son Brian was a top performer for the team and earned a scholarship to the University of Michigan while he played at RU. Those emotional connections to the school will always remain, he said.

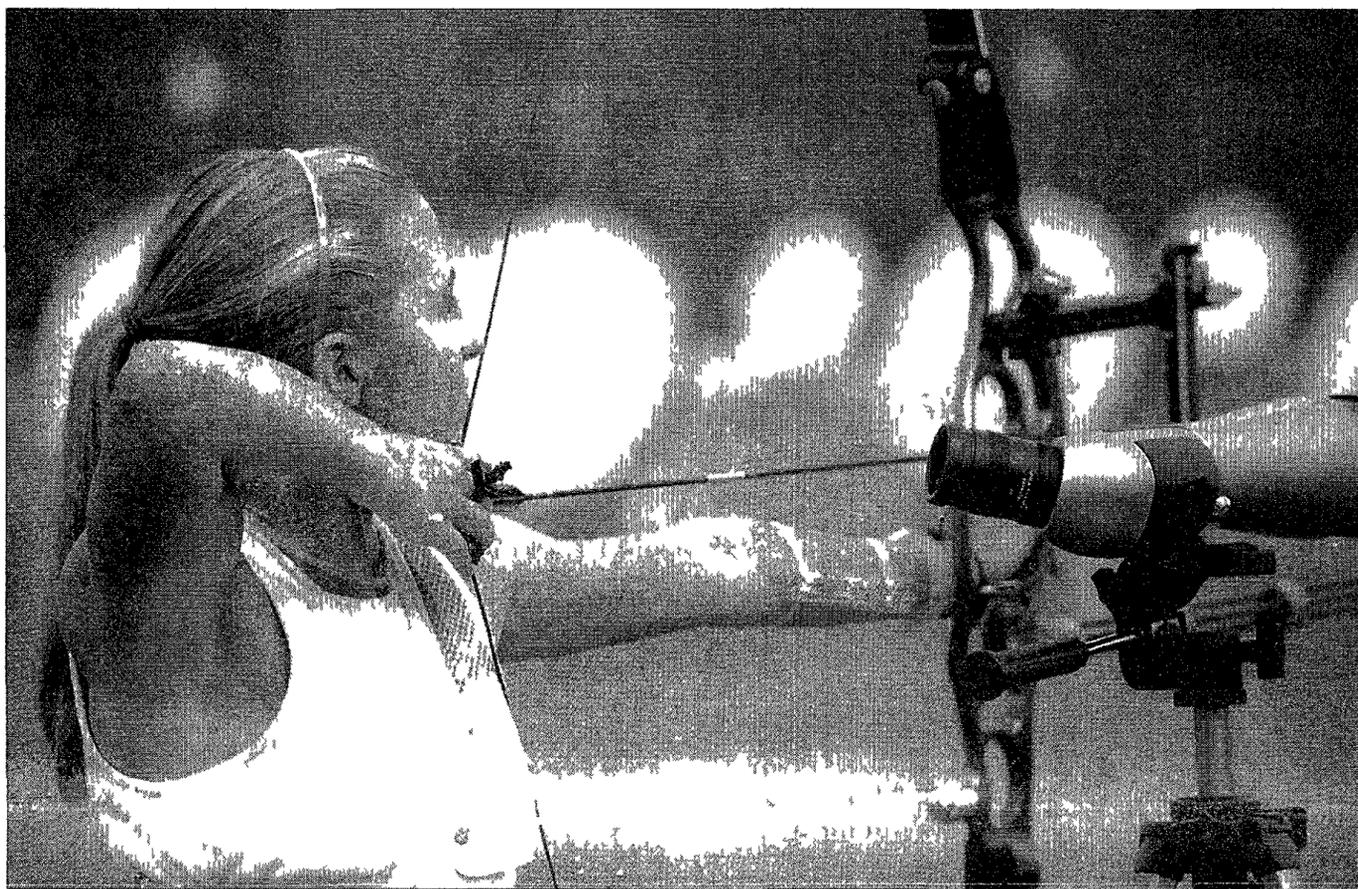

"I enjoyed my time there tremendously," he said. "I still keep in touch with a lot of my former players. We had wonderful success there over the past 12 years."

Berryman called Shawn McGowan a co-coach through the season, but didn't know if McGowan would become the head coach of the Panthers. Berryman also coached basketball and football during his 31 years associated with RU.

"I don't know how long I will go, maybe the assistant coaching thing will be a nice retirement option," Berryman said.

ARCHERY

It's a chance — the last chance, at least for a while — to see the best U.S. athletes in their sport pairing off against each other, with a national championship at stake.

The event is the 118th National Target Championships/U.S. Grand Prix, and for the fifth time in the last six years, Canton will host the country's premier event in archery target shooting.

Heritage Park, located at 1150 S. Canton Center, is the site of the championships, which get underway Saturday with the opening round of the Traditional National Championship, featuring archers using the older-style bows.

On Monday, competition begins for the U.S. National titles, including recurve, which features a bow that curves away from the archer and is the only type allowed in the Olympics, and compound, which has a bow equipped with pulleys and cables that make the holding weight less than half the draw weight.

Other competition will be held in crossbow and barebow.

Nearly all of the country's top target shooters, from Olympians to promising youngsters and some of the best Masters, will be present in a field of nearly 600 archers.

Included are such standouts as last year's defending champion in Senior Male Recurve, Butch Johnson (from Woodstock, Conn.), as well as runner-up Vic Wunderle and third-place finisher Jay Barrs. Joe McGlyn, who placed sixth in recurve at last year's tournament, also returns. McGlyn is currently ranked second in the nation, trailing only Johnson.

Area baseball teams roll into World Series play

The North Redford Yankees will be heading to a place many would rather be six months from now: Florida.

The team recently finished the Little Caesar's portion of its schedule with an 8-7 win over the Wayne Bandits at Redford Union High School.

The Yankees rallied from a 7-5, seventh-inning deficit to win the game. Ryan Gallagher (Catholic Central) doubled home Ryan Gafford and John Hageman to tie the game at 7-7. Gallagher later scored off a double by Jason Dunnington to win the game for the Yankees.

Matt Thieleman and Hageman combined to get the win on the mound for the Yankees. Hageman added a triple, while Shawn Meyers doubled to lead the team's offense.

The Yankees finished the Connie Mack summer league season with an 8-6 league mark. They will be playing at the 2002 Cocoa Expo Summer Baseball Classic in Cocoa Beach, Florida, to wrap up the summer season.

RAMS READY FOR OHIO TRIP

The Rams are going back to the series. After splitting a Saturday doubleheader with the Tecumseh, Ontario Thunder, the Michigan Lake Area Rams qualified for the N.A.B.F. World Series in Springfield, Ohio, once again this year. The Rams will represent the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League at the series.

The Rams won game 2, 2-0, after losing the opener 2-1 to the Thunder. With the split, the Rams are now 21-10 overall this summer.

Thanks to a complete-game shutout from Steve Knebbe (Oakland University), the Rams defeated the Thunder in the second game 2-0. Ty Herriot drove in the game's first run with a groundball out that scored Ryan Freiburger in the first inning.

Bucks start playoff run at Des Moines

There were more than a few anxious moments for the Mid-Michigan Bucks this season, notably a four-game winless streak that nearly took them out of the playoff picture.

It took a victory over the Dayton Gemini in their final game of the regular season for the Bucks to earn a playoff spot. Their reward: a playoff date with the Des Moines (Iowa) Menace, set for 8 p.m. (CDT) Friday in Des Moines.

So what does that mean? Let's look at the task confronting the Bucks, and a daunting one it is. The

Brad Leach added a hit and scored a run in the second inning off a single by Joe Neal That gave Knebbe all the runs he needed, as he pitched his way to a brilliant performance, going all seven innings with seven strikeouts and four walks, allowing only three hits With the won, he lowered his season earned run average to 1.31

Good pitching has been a constant for the Rams all summer according to coach Rick Berryman

"The pitching has been the most consistent part of our team," Berryman said "Our team ERA (earned run average) is 1.81 We don't have the best hitting team, but we do enough to win"

The Rams finished in second place in the league, behind the Bulls this summer, but still qualified for World Series play The team will leave for Springfield, Ohio on Aug 6 and begin play Aug 7 Again, the pitching will play a crucial role in the team's success

Our staff has struck out 213 batters this season, and we've struck out 157 times," Berryman said "Playing in a wood bat league is a different ballgame, but our pitchers have hung in there We have seven shutouts out of 33 games this season

In the opener, the Thunder scored a run in the bottom of the eighth to pull out a 2-1 victory over the Rams Mike Hayes (Redford Union/Madonna University) took the loss Mark Lundquist pitched six strong innings, giving up no earned runs and fanning eight batters Offensively, the Rams were held in check, but Leach delivered a pair of hits and a run scored Neal went 1-for-3 and drove in the team's lone run in the contest Berryman has coached two other teams to World Series appearances, finishing fourth and third in those two trips He said with a deep pitching staff, this team can come close to equaling or exceeding those finishes

"In any tournament, it's who gets hot at the right time that wins," Berryman said "Our pitching will be fine, it's how we hit that will determine where we finish"

The Rams picked up Albion's Brian Hastings and Michigan's Derek Felkamp for the tournament to add depth to the pitching staff

CONCEALED SECURITY RALLIES

The Concealed Security 15-

and under baseball team finished its regular season with a flourish and will be rewarded for its heroics

The team rallied from a three run deficit to win the 4th Annual Concealed Security Invitational at Redford Catholic Central's High School field on July 19 Concealed was down 5-2 with two outs in the top of the seventh to the Ann Arbor Braves before bouncing back to win 7-5 The win enables the team to travel to Crystal Lake Illinois starting July 26 for the Continental Amateur Baseball Federation World Series

In the tournament final, Concealed piled up five runs with two outs in the seventh to clinch the title After a walk by Jon Roddy loaded the bases Ryan Shay singled home a run to make the score 5-3 Jon Rochow (Farmington, Detroit Country Day) followed with a double to knot the score at 5-5

CC's Eric Vojtkofsky delivered the game winning hit with a single, scoring Shay and Rochow to give Concealed the lead

Pitcher Will Jostock, who was named tournament MVP, closed out Ann Arbor in the bottom of the seventh to pick up the victory He also was the winner on the mound in the tournament semifinals, helping Concealed to a win over the tourney's defending champion from Ohio

Concealed won the N.A.B.F. World Series in 1999 and 2001 and will take a shot at its third championship in four seasons The team has compiled a 34-10 record this summer and is ranked second in the nation in the USSSA, behind only the Kansas City White Sox

Menace averaged 3.78 goals a game They gave up 1.05 goals Their 68 goals scored led the Premier Development League

This carried the Menace to a first-place finish in the Heartland Division with a 15-0-3 record - only the third time in PDL history a team has completed the regular season undefeated

"It doesn't look good, on paper, for us," admitted Bucks general manager and co-owner Jim Duggan "They score more goals than we do and only give up one a game

"My hope is we can stay disciplined and pull off a 2-1 win or win it overtime"

This wasn't just a case of the normal modesty applied when talking about an upcoming opponent Nor was it a lack of confidence in his own team

It's just that Des Moines is that good The Menace feature the top scorer in the PDL in

Tomas Boltnar who has an astounding 24 goals and 11 assists (59 points) in 18 matches

But this isn't just a one man show Stuart Riddle has 14 goals and two assists, and Nathan Gibson has 11 goals and five assists Then there's Seth Modhesson with two goals and 10 assists

How offensive is this bunch? Matthew Nickell and Dustin Grau both come off the bench, playing perhaps 20 minutes a match Grau has five goals and seven assists Nickell has five goals and five assists

Such numbers would bolster any coach's confidence The Menace's Laurie Calloway is no different

I've never thought any team in the league could beat us, he said I respect our opponents, but I always had confidence we would prevail

"Very few teams in any sport can go all season unbeaten It's a tremendous accomplishment that we can be proud of, but just for today Our second season starts on Friday, and we need to prepare for it

What must figure into the equation is a Bucks defense that surrendered 36 regular season goals an average of two per game and the second-worst total in the six-team Great Lakes Division The Bucks will also be without marking back Jason Perry, who is out for the playoffs with a knee injury

Okay, it sounds bad, but all is not doom and gloom for Mid-Michigan The Bucks were also the second leading scoring team in the division

I'm pretty confident we're going to score two goals every game said Bucks player/coach Dario Brose

His optimism is well founded with Des Moines' Ryan Mack (Bucks) and Paul Krumholz (Redford) and Detroit County Day Paul Strape (Oakland University) and himself

Both teams keepers are sound with Eric Pogue (Troy Athens) in the net for the Bucks and Remy Roy in goal for the Menace

Playing in Des Moines, which reportedly could draw as many as 5,000 fans to this match, won't help the Bucks

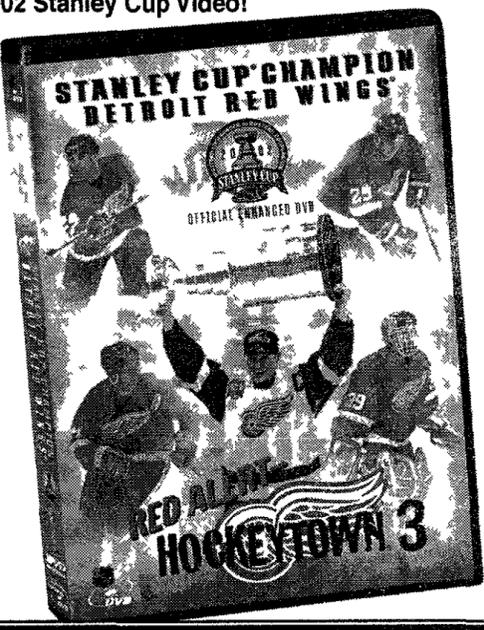

The winner of this semifinal plays the winner of the Chicago Fire Reserve-Boulder Rapid Reserve winner at 7:30 p.m. (CDT) Saturday in Des Moines Mid-Michigan lost to the Fire Reserve, winners of the Great Lakes Division, twice this season

It will come down to discipline, said Duggan It would be an amazing feat for us to come away from there with two wins" Amazing but not impossible

In Senior Women's Recurve, top-ranked Kathy Loesch — the defending champion — is one of the few top shooters who won't be competing. Loesch is recovering from a back injury.

Karen Scavotto, the runner-up in women's recurve last year and currently ranked second in the nation, will be the favorite in her division, but like Johnson in the men's recurve, she will face a formidable field. Among the leading challengers is Jessica Carleton of Redford, who placed fifth at last year's championships and is currently ranked fourth in the country.

Also back will be Dave Cousins, the defending champ in Senior Men's Compound, and Sally Wunderle, the reigning champ in Senior Women's Compound.

The format for both compound and recurve is the same. In men's competition, there are two separate rounds, with archers shooting at distances of 90, 70, 50 and 30 meters, 18 arrows at each distance — a total of 144 arrows. Women shoot two rounds as well, but at three distances, 70, 60 and 30 meters, 18 arrows at each, a total of 108 arrows.

Competition for the U.S. Nationals title in both recurve and compound will be from 8 a.m. until approximately 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday of next week. On Friday (Aug. 2), the single-elimination U.S. Open Tournament in men's and women's recurve and compound will be held. Admission to all events is free.

Spartans, Warriors among advancing playoff teams

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
 STAFF WRITER

Third-period goal binges were common in the first round of the Metro Summer Hockey League's playoffs.

MSHL HOCKEY

Tuesday night, the Spartans lit the lamp eight times en route to a 14-7 win over the Wildcats, advancing to the semifinals. The game was played at Farmington Hills Suburban Training Center.

Alex Foster (Canton) was an offensive cog for the Spartans in the third period, scoring three times, including the final two of the game. The goals were his only ones of the contest.

Michael Crowley (Canton) added another hat trick for the Spartans. The Spartans jumped out to a 4-1 lead after the first period, but the Wildcats stormed back in the second, outscoring the home team 4-2 to make it a 6-5 game heading into the third.

Todd Bentley (Milford) scored four times to lead the Wildcats. Livonia's Dan Cook added a goal for the losing side.

The Spartans now advance to Thursday's semifinals, taking on the winner of Wednesday's Huskies-Wolvernes contest.

Warriors 12, Whalers 6 The Warriors were the best team in the MSHL for much of the season and proved it with a convincing first round victory Tuesday night 12-6 over the Whalers.

Brandon Kalemiecki's (Livonia) two goals helped to get the team off to a 3-0 first period lead. One it would never relinquish. He finished the game with four tallies for the Warriors.

Dave Moss (Redford CC University of Michigan) was the star playmaker for the Warriors once again, scoring once and assisting on five others. He's been among the summer league leaders in assists all season.

Livonia's John May had a big offensive game for the Whalers, scoring four of their six goals.

Lakers 10, Broncos 6 A huge third period by the Lakers enabled them to move on in the MSHL playoffs.

The Broncos were in control and holding a 6-3 lead entering the third period of their first round game Monday night. But the first place Lakers exploded for seven unanswered goals to take home a 10-6 win.

Steve Yarber (Livonia Churchill) and Joe Moreau combined for three straight goals to end the second period, giving the upset-minded Broncos a 6-3 lead.

But the Lakers came back starting with a run of three goals in 2:08 to start the third period, paving the way to the win.

Plymouth's Joe Pomaranski assisted on three goals to play a key part in the team's win. Yarber had two goals and two assists for the Broncos.

Huskies 16, Bulldogs 8 A 7-2 start by the Huskies was all they needed to join the Lakers in the second round of the MSHL playoffs. The Huskies used the big start to defeat the Bulldogs 16-8 Monday evening.

Dwight Helminen (University of Michigan) scored three goals in the team's seven goal first period. He finished the game with four goals and four assists to lead the team's offense. Canton's Art Baker recorded the win in goal for the Huskies.

Westland's Chris Connor led the way for the Bulldogs with four goals and two assists. Ryan Kester (Livonia) had two goals and two assists for the losing team.

PROPOSAL K
SPECIAL EDUCATION MILLAGE PROPOSAL

The following proposal asks voters to consider an additional 1.5 mills for mandated special education programs beginning in 2002. The current authorization of 2.00 mills which the voters approved at 1.00 mill in 1974 with an additional mill in 1988 has been rolled back to 1.8679 mills through application of the Headlee Amendment to the Michigan Constitution. The funds would be restricted to supporting these mandated programs in Wayne County school districts and reduce the reliance on the districts' general funds for this purpose.

Shall the limitation on the annual property tax rate previously approved by the electors of Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency, Michigan for the education of persons with disabilities be increased by 1.50 mills ($1.50 on each $1,000 of taxable valuation)? The estimate of the revenue the intermediate school district will collect if the millage is approved and levied in calendar year 2002 is approximately $59,360.00

Changes require board OK

I'm a member of the board and our condo documents require prior consent before anyone can make any modifications. Many of our board members aren't serious about enforcing this provision. Can you give me some good reasons why we should enforce this provision so I can discuss it with them?

There are many reasons, not the least of which is that the condominium act and most condominium bylaws require that modifications to structural components of a unit and/or major changes to the appearance must be approved by the board of directors of the association. In addition, the board can prevent low quality workmanship and avoid disrupting the community's architectural and esthetic uniformity which allow for some sort of control over construction. In addition, not allowing adverse changes to the common elements or structural changes to a unit may avoid setting dangerous precedents which could adversely impact on the association. It otherwise keeps the board from potentially incurring liability for failing to enforce its own condominium documents and the condominium statute.

Robert M. Meisner, a lawyer, concentrates his practice in the areas of condominiums, real estate, corporate law and litigation. This column provides general information and should not be construed as legal advice.

When the going gets hot, the hot get going - that is, one way or another

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

When the weather gets hot hot, Realtors who succeed get down to the business of keeping their cool and orchestrating the deal.

Some participants in the real estate market find this a terrific time to be active.

"Yes, it's warm, but buyers are in mode and want to close and be in when school starts," said Rebecca Ketty, affiliated with John Burt Realty GMAC in Oxford. "This is probably one of my favorite parts of the (selling) season."

Scorching summer days, however, bring their own special challenges. Extreme heat and humidity drain buyers as they visit home after home. Sellers, perhaps already anxious about lack of movement, get more agitated as the sun bakes their dreams for an expeditious relocation.

Houses without air conditioning and lawns that don't get watered stand out like tuxedos at the beach.

It becomes more tempting, maybe, to call in sick and tired "Sam" Cupp, affiliated with Real Estate One in Rochester, sees pitfalls for buyers and sellers when Mother Nature turns up the heat. But there's ways around them.

"I just listed one and recommended to people (sellers) that they have bottled water in the refrigerator and leave notes out saying to help yourself," Cupp said. "And people do help themselves to bottled water a lot."

Miles south, a (condominium) seller noted that she added, "If they don't have air in the home, it's almost better not to show that day. People can't see past that. It hurts the house."

With buyers, we take it easy, maybe not see as many, move a little slower," she said. "I make sure there's bottled water in the car."

Cupp isn't adverse to bypassing the office and taking work home - "where it's more relaxing" - after a long day of showing in the heat.

"I like to dress comfortably, stay away from the kitchen, take it easy," Cupp said.

Marketing techniques that might work at other times of the year probably won't in scorching heat.

"If you're supposed to hold an open house, you aren't going to get a lot of people to show," said Deborah Field Cavanaugh, a Realtor with Hall & Hunter in Birmingham.

"I'll tell you another thing. If you're out showing a house that doesn't have air and it's all closed up, they'll go through it but mentally cross it off their mind at the door," Cavanaugh said of prospective purchasers. "Unless they see an attic fan or it's an estate closed off for a reason."

Still, you soldier on and do what you have to do, she said. Sometimes, it's just a matter of perspective.

"Now, I'm taking someone around from out of town, Houston," Cavanaugh said. "This is nothing to her. She brings water. I bring water."

We stay hydrated. We take a lot of water. We just go.

Preparing might include in advance, cold soups and salad ads - keeps things simple on the home front after a long, hot day in the field, Cavanaugh said. "It's easy and so refreshing."

Wayne Baumgartner, associate broker with Remerica Hometown One in Plymouth, figures that real estate is a piece of cake compared to the days he worked as a building contractor in the heat.

But different kinds of problems come with extreme heat when dealing with residential sales, he said.

"With buyers, it's kind of like a rainy day. They don't care to get out and look or take as much time to look at the exterior as they should," Baumgartner said.

"You try to encourage them instead of canceling, invest a little bit of time taking a look. If they want to cancel, you need to set an appointment right away for when they want to come out."

"Sellers, they're a little more reticent to leave the property for a showing," Baumgartner added. He encourages those folks to get into their air conditioned vehicle anyway and take a ride.

In summer, Baumgartner totes bottles of water. In winter, it's hot coffee.

"You have challenges throughout the year, he said. "It's 8 to 10 inches of snow or a heat index of 110. It's life. You carry on."

Lucia Vulaj, a Realtor with

Coldwell Banker Schweitzer in Farmington Hills, agrees that temperature extremes can set off both buyers and sellers.

"With a seller, I had one just the other day," Vulaj said. "She was so frustrated and I didn't think she wanted to take frustration out on me."

"They had scheduled a showing and she took her two big dogs out to give the buyers some privacy and they never showed and never called. The cell phone went dead and they couldn't call. It just got too hot and the buyers couldn't take it any more."

"You're driving buyers around, it's hot and they get frustrated, especially if they have children," Vulaj added. "It's good to pack a cooler with ice cold drinks and keep it in the trunk of your car."

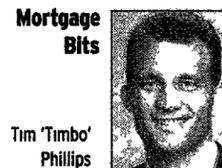

Sellers must take care to keep their landscaping sharp, or make arrangements to have it done if they relocate before selling during the dog days of summer.

"Curb appeal is number one," Vulaj said. "If the grass turns brown and flowers start dying, buyers think, 'Wow, this house isn't taken care of.' That may not even be true."

And be especially good to yourself when the heat becomes relentless, Vulaj added.

"For every sale and every listing, I treat myself to ice cream. I deserve it. I work hard and it's a motivation. When it's hot, I stop, take 10 minutes out of the day and treat myself."

Don't give up quest for loan

"I have bad credit. We had a bankruptcy three years ago. I don't make enough money."

It's amazing how many potential homebuyers disqualify themselves from mortgages because they simply don't try.

Any of the above reasons may seem like "show stoppers" for an uninformed borrower, but there is usually a way to get funding for those who are truly motivated to do so.

Such mortgage success almost always takes work, creativity and patience, but diligent borrowers are usually delighted with the results.

Recent bankruptcies or collections don't automatically disqualify borrowers from getting a mortgage as long as they can prove that they are no longer a credit risk.

That proof usually comes in the form of some sort of minimum credit score, one or more satisfactory scored credit references and by showing an ability to put a meaningful down payment on their new purchase.

Less lender risk means a better interest rate. A borrower with a 30-day late mortgage payment in the past year will normally get a better interest rate and terms than would a borrower with four such late payments.

Similarly, a borrower who provides a higher down payment is less of a risk to a lender, and will be rewarded with a better interest rate.

Discouraged borrowers who have been "shot down" time and again by mortgage lenders may feel their only resort is to rent forever. That is simply not the case. No matter how bad a borrower's situation may be today, that person can be eligible for a home loan within a year with good self-discipline and proper coaching.

Finally, there's absolutely nothing wrong with getting a "second opinion" from another mortgage lender. Some lenders have more experience, a wider variety of products, and different levels of creativity than others. Also, using a mortgage broker may speed up your search because they generally have access to the broadest spectrum of loan products.

Don't let shame or embarrassment stop you from buying or refinancing a home. Remember, you will miss 100 percent of the shots you never take.

Tim "Timbo" Phillips is a mortgage loan officer serving all of Michigan. You may contact him anytime at (734) 797 5522 or via e-mail at PhillipsHQ@comcast.net. Homebuyers should always consult a professional for guidance specific to their situation.

Rare steel home listed for sale as owner plans marriage, move

(AP) — Brian Coudriet's modest house has none of the grand staircases, fancy woodwork or other attributes usually found in dwellings that draw the attention of high-end home aficionados.

It, nevertheless, has plenty of drawing power, which Coudriet hopes will help lead to a quick sale now that he's put the house on the market for $124,900 in Chesteron, Ind.

The home, listed on the National Register of Historic Places, is made entirely of steel. The house is one of 2,500 Lustron homes built after World War II and marketed to young GIs looking for an inexpensive place to start a family. "The first two years I lived here, a lot of people stopped by and asked for tours," said Coudriet, who didn't expect such attention when he bought the home four years ago in this northwestern Indiana city.

Previous owner Jim Morrow promoted the home with tours, in brochures, on programs like Home and Garden Television's Extreme Homes, and in magazines like Historic Preservation. People have come from around the world to check out the rare home.

"It's like living in a piece of art," said Coudriet's Realtor, Jan Thomas. Coudriet is getting married and is looking to move to a new home.

The steel homes came in two-bedroom models for $7,000. The Chesteron home, with three bedrooms and a garage, cost $13,000 when it was built in 1950.

"After the war, steel was in short supply. So was housing. Lustron got the idea to build the homes and got funding from the government," Coudriet said.

"Then it got political. The government funding dried up (Manufacturing of Lustron homes) only lasted four or five years," he said.

'After the war, steel was in short supply. So was housing.'

Owner of steel constructed home

Lustron homes were shipped to the property to be built, and Coudriet's model came with more than 4,000 pieces. The porcelain-enameled steel parts that make up the home's exterior and interior walls and ceiling are screwed onto a frame.

"These were made to last two lifetimes," Coudriet said.

The home features original steel shelving, storage space and furniture. The tile roof also is steel.

An all-steel design makes the home low-maintenance. Dirt or dust are simply washed or wiped away on the steel walls, tile kitchen floor and rubber bathroom floor. Some Lustron owners wash and wax their home's exterior.

"Except for cutting the grass, I've probably spent an hour working on the home for the last four years," Coudriet said.

The home has been for sale for less than a month. So far, Thomas has heard from several interested buyers and a few professors from the Chicago area.

"It's going to take someone who appreciates the art of the house," Thomas said.

State revisits efforts to save section of dunes

(AP) — Real estate doesn't have to be developed to make an impact.

A plan once dead has gained new life — preserving 420 acres of pristine Lake Michigan dune land at the mouth of the Kalamazoo River for public use.

The city and the state Department of Natural Resources are behind the latest effort to buy the site once owned by the late Saugatuck yacht builder Frank Denison and his wife, Gertrude.

"What we're looking at is preserving it as a natural area for future generations," said Saugatuck City Manager Gordon Gallagher.

The land is split by the Kalamazoo River channel. It features a freshwater dune ecosystem with abundant wildlife, woods and some wetlands. Some dunes are considered "critical dunes" under state law.

Saugatuck and the DNR plan to apply for grants from the Natural Resources Trust Fund on to help buy the property, which could cost more than $25 million. Two appraisals, expected to be finished by August, will determine how much the two organizations seek.

Under the latest plan, Saugatuck would try to buy the 160 acres south of the Kalamazoo River as an addition to its existing Oval Beach property.

The DNR would buy the land north of the river and add it to the 900-acre Saugatuck Dunes State Park. The properties would offer the public 3.5 miles of continuous beachfront, including 1.25 miles on the Denison land.

Local environmentalists say the deal would benefit everyone in West Michigan.

"The value of it, in my mind, is the fact that it's relatively untouched land," said Alison Swan of Saugatuck, who has been fighting a plan to build a water-treatment plant near Saugatuck Dunes State Park.

"It's really very beautiful," she said. "I can't think of anything better for southwest Michigan than to have that much open land."

Saugatuck officials expect to hold a public hearing on their grant application.

Gallagher estimates that $2 million-$5 million in privately raised funds will be needed as a match for any grant from the Trust Fund to buy the southern part of the property. The Trust Fund typically pays 75 percent of a parcel's cost.

"We're hopeful we'll get the opportunity to acquire it," Gallagher said. "The problem is we just don't know right now. All we can do is put forth our best effort."

The Denison property is controlled by two estates, one on behalf of Frank Denison and the other for Gertrude Denison, and their beneficiaries. The Denisons had three sons, including one who owns a home near the channel.

Until recently, legal battles over the estates stalled public efforts to buy the land. But now the property is being marketed, with considerable interest from developers and attorneys. Many have sought zoning information from Allegan County's Saugatuck Township.

The latest effort by Saugatuck to buy the southern 160 acres comes six years after it organized a committee to seek a Trust Fund grant. The effort ended months later after Saugatuck found that Gertrude Denison, who died in 1997, was unwilling to sell.
