Township tract rises to #1

Local neighborhood at top of county list for median income

BY BRAD KADRICH STAFF WRITER

For as long as most people can remember, any discussion about the highest income neighborhood always started with the Grosse Pointes

Not any more According to information recently released by the US Census Bureau a section of Plymouth Township has vaulted to the top of the list when it comes to median household income Tract 5619 - in the area of M-14, Napier, Beck and Joy - has a median income of $123,945, the highest of any in Wayne County

That ends the 20-year reign of the Grosse Pointes In the 1990 and 1980 census, a tract - an area of 3,000 to 5,000 people - in Grosse Pointe Shores was the richest tract in the county

The 2000 Census marks the first time an area in western Wayne County had the highest median income, meaning half the homes make more than $123,945, and half make less That figure makes the Plymouth Township tract the 14th highest in metro Detroit, all 13 above it are in Oakland County

An area in Grosse Pointe Park - Tract 5503 - had Wayne County's second-highest median income at $117,372

Several factors could figure into the shift While new homes aren't necessarily being

State eyes back taxes

City says it didn't violate procedures

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Plymouth city officials are anxiously awaiting word from the Michigan Department of Treasury on whether it owes $1 8 million in back taxes, interest and penalties for taxes collected through the Downtown Development Authority from 1996-2000

City Finance Director Mark Christiansen said he's surprised at inquiries by the state that question the DDA's capture of school taxes for downtown development

"We had been operating under a plan that included the capture of all taxes school, county and city - for the DDA," said Christiansen "Effective in 1994, with the adoption of Proposal A, the law prohibited the capture of school taxes of any kind to be used for the DDA, except for projects which already had approvals in place '

Treasury Department audits of all the state DDA's found that some cities missed filing deadlines, or failed to follow state guidelines after Proposal A went into effect

The city failed to provide information and was assessed $18 million to replace the school taxes," said Ter Stanton, spokesman for the Department of Treasury 'The sent the accompanying information and its awaiting review It has not yet worked its way through the system ' In question, according to

Christiansen, are school taxes used to construct the downtown parking deck and the streetscape project, which included road construction and beautification projects

"The parking deck was originally bonded in 1984 and refunded (refinanced) in 1993, so I don't know why that is in question," he said

Township sets millage rate

STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Township residents still have the lowest tax rate in Wayne County, although it nearly went up a little Tuesday night

The township board voted Tuesday to lower it's millage rate a fraction below what it was last year. after briefly considering a small ıncrease

Township residents will now be taxed at a rate of 3 2694 mills (a mill is $1 for every $1,000 of stateequalized value) According to township treasurer Ron Edwards, the move saves the owner of a $300,000 house about $24 a year over a proposed increase to just over 3 4 mills

One mill earns the township about $17 million in property tax revenue, Edwards pointed out

The difference revolves around the operating millage for the Plymouth Community Fire Department At the lower rate, 0 8173 of the overall millage goes to the fire department, as opposed to the 0 9948 it would have gotten at the higher rate

The lower rate includes a fire renewal agreed to by voters last year The fire department has added three firefighters in the last year, along with three dispatchers So far,

Band is dressed for success

New uniforms, awards highlight competition

BY DIANE HANSON CORRESPONDENT

It was a spectacular day for sporting the new and bringing home the old And the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park Marching Band didn t waste any time doing both on Saturday at the 29th Annual Michigan Invitational Marching Band Tournament held at Eastern Michigan University's Rynearson Stadium in Ypsilanti

'I think it was a pretty good show, said a pleased Salem senior Jeremy French, drum major for the show, 'Elasticity

Especially with all the new things, everything went great, French added

Sporting new tailored uni forms, the 167 marchers captured the Flight I first-place trophy, all Flight I captions for Best Music, Best Marching and Best General Effect along with the 2002 Governor's Award Trophy for the highest overall score - 75 05 - of all 23 competing bands at the invita tional The event was spon sored by the Flushing Band and Orchestra Boosters and the Flushing Raider Marching

This marked the 27th year the prestigious traveling tro18th time it has traveled home to the P-CEP Marching Bands trophy case - now located in the new band room at the new Plymouth High School

Besides P-ČEPs new uniforms (progressively darker gray from the top of the plumes to the cuff of the pants) - and the new contrast ing bright red color guard cos tumes - there was more music drill and choreography for the marchers to master

'We added about seven charts -30 seconds - this week alone," said Michael Tarr assistant band director 'That's quite a bit, a lot of footwork and a lot of music We treat our show as a work in progress Where some groups will have everything ready right away we take a piece meal approach We refine what we have and add on refine that and add on more

If the number of trophies the award-winning band has brought home over the years is any indication, that learning approach seems to work well

I think the band is really locking in this year - more so than before, said Salem senior trumpet player Mike Berryman It is a really young band and we're really pushing our first-year marchers to understand what it is like to be Plymouth The freshmen are starting to get it and starting to work as a band instead of just individual sections

Band Director Clayton Wachholz couldn't agree more

'We have more than 50 freshmen in the band so every performance they do is a phy has been awarded and the major growth in their life as a marching performer he said The good news is that they are progressing well The more show we put out on the field the more responsibilities there are for all the students, but the overall show is really coming

The show is an audiencepleaser too

People will find laughter and tension in the show' added Wachholz I think if you have extremes like that you have a show that is cer tainly memorable for anyone who sees it Those are the kinds of shows characteristic of the Plymouth-Canton musical marchers

I think it is very innovative and I would say it is transcending for the activity, said Tarr who has been with P-CEP for 10 years We tend to break away from common concepts to obscure ones that you don t usually see -treating marching band as more of an art form than just entertainment I think we would be considered the paradigm for that in the activity

Wachholz and Tarr are looking forward to cleaning and perfecting the bands performance during the week of practice before the Bands of America Regional

Championships in Toledo on Sept 28 We like where we are with the show design now we just need to get in there and clean ıt" saıd Wachholz

That means hours more of practice - every day after school a football game on

The color guard stretches things to the limit during Saturday's performance of Elasticity at the Michigan

Friday and all day on Saturday along with the competition

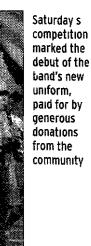

It's all worth it,' said Salem sophomore Jennie Jansen, who plays flute Even with the intense practice, she finds she can get homework done and still have free time 'You just have to organize your schedule really well, she said

And Jansen has seen the benefits her older brother John has experienced After four years playing trumpet in the band, John, a 2002 Canton grad, is now a fresh man at Western Michigan University majoring in aero space engineering

Because he was in march ing band he knows how to organize his schedule," she said and he actually thinks college is fairly easy now

The new uniforms were pio

vided by the school district along with donations from many individual and corpo rate sponsors

District program sends volunteers to help students make wise choices

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Children as young as 10 are being targeted by tobacco companies to become future cigarette smokers

In an effort to combat the makers of tobacco products and help children make good choices, the Hazards of Tobacco (HOT) program, a six-session school-based tobacco prevention curriculum, is being taught to Plymouth-Canton fifth graders

'Research shows the decision to smoke is made long before the legal age of 18 Typically, it's right around sixth and seventh grade," said Carie Francis, community outreach recruiter and trainer for the program, which is a collaborative effort of the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute's Community Outreach Division and Wayne State University's Department of Family Medicine "That's why tobacco companies look at getting children vested before they get to that decision point"

Francis said the former Joe Camel cartoon and the Marlboro Man are two examples of characters that were not only geared to adults, but also children "The characters were advertised in magazines with readerships in that age level," she said 'A lot of times we see advertising in connection with sports It's all very effective"

Unlike some other programs, the HOT program isn't designed to just tell kids not to

It gives children information and skills so they can make healthy choices,' said Laura Grainger of Plymouth Township, who volunteers by taking the six-week program into the classroom 'It's not about running home and telling mom and dad that smoking is bad. It's about helping them make choices about their own health

"The kids are very open to learning," she added "They go home and interview current and past smokers, and learn the decisions that were made"

The program uses a variety of teaching techniques, including hands-on interactive activities, visual arts projects, and team learning opportunities. It's specifically designed to help students learn about the psychological processes involved in smoking, learning the short-and long-term consequences of tobacco use, developing skills in resisting peer pressure to use tobacco, and identifying factors that affect the desire of adolescents to use tobacco

The program uses volunteers, like Grainger, as its teaching partners Take the opportunity to make a significant difference in the lives and health of children in our community," she said

that the title to an 18-acre parcel at 100 S Mill Street belongs to the city, not BMC. The ruling, which is still being sifted through by the city's attorneys, could mean that BMC, formerly Bathey Manufacturing Co, would either have to pay the back taxes and penalties to retrieve its property, or leave it in the hands of the city to sell

A&E Holdings, and its owner Wendell Flynn, reportedly kept circumventing efforts by the city to collect the money by jumping through legal hoops

"It's great news It's been a long time coming," said City Manager Paul Sincock, who admitted he would have to meet with attorneys to get all the details

"There are still plenty of appeals rights remaining, but it's in the right direction," said Commissioner Ron Loiselle

Former City Manager David Rich used a few tricks and connections in Lansing to secure title to the property in December 1999 for only $300 Since then, Flynn has contested the deed transfer, as well as the amount of taxes and penalties owed, in court

City officials are cautiously optimistic they are a step closer to retrieving the tax money Attorney Keith Schofner of Plunkett & Cooney, who represents the city, said there was likely a redemption period that would allow Flynn to pay the taxes and retrieve his property He also expected there would be an appeal process

Farmington Hills attorney Marc Drasnin was unavailable for comment on behalf of Flynn

Plymouth Finance Director Mark Christiansen said there is approximately $1 4 million in taxes due, plus over $2 million in tax penalties

If it is paid, nearly 27 percent, or approximately $918,000, will go to the city, 52 percent, or $17 million to Plymouth-Canton Schools, with the rest to Wayne County and other taxing authorities

If BMC doesn't come up with the back taxes and penalties, the city could keep the property Christiansen said the acreage was assessed in 1995 at $2 2 million

The architectural contract that authorized the project was exe cuted on Feb 28, 1994 one day before the deadline date for the new law Christiansen said That's what made the project

eligible

Christiansen admitted he did miss some deadlines for filing information requested by the state, but Stanton said the Treasury Department did accept the latest documents for consid eration in the tax case Christiansen also indicated there may be some confusion because the bonds for the streetscape project were refund ed, or refinanced in 1995 The true spate of the efforts by the state to recover from local units of government through any means available, seems to be a common practice said Christiansen 'If it was a fishing expedition, it wouldn't surprise me To wait seven years to initi ate this action, and then they try to pile on interest charges on top of it all, is reprehensible

Mayor Bill Graham said the city has met all its obligations in constructing downtown's two biggest projects I believe the city has been true to the DDA plan, and the city has met its obligation by building the parking structure and the downtown streetscape," he said I think it's a fishing expedition by the state for money sources

We don t have $1 8 million sitting around to write a check Its asinine to think that would happen, he said

Stanton, who said the state has already allowed cities and townships to keep $200 million in audited taxes and is demand ing repayment of $12 million from 14 other communities obviously disagrees

The top tract in Plymouth Township is made up essentially of Country Club estates, where Pulte Home Corp. began building in 1997 By 2001, it had sold some 300 homes and another 150 con

More building is going on in other areas of the tract -Huntington Park and Plymouth Commons, where there are about 120 homes, according to township officials Aside from that, though Plymouth Township is about built out

"New construction is on the decline because we're running out of space," township supervisor Steve Mann said

Still, officials agree, Plymouth Townships expansive space combined with a low tax rate makes township living attractive Township trustees Tuesday night approved a millage rate of 3 2694 Wayne County's low

The one drawback to such a low tax rate, however, is fewer services For instance, Plymouth Township provides no road plowing or trash pickup Wayne County plows the main roads in the township, with plowing of subdivision streets generally paid for by homeowners

In a city like Grosse Pointe Park (the number-two median income tract), taxes are in some cases thousands of dollars higher

The tax rate is a big factor why people move to Plymouth Township,' treasurer Ron Edwards said "We could offer those services, but our tax rate would be higher

With 8,000 homes, Edwards said, the township could collect an addition $16 million if it charged homeowners another $2,000 in taxes That might give the township the budget it would need to provide services

We could do a lot with that kind of money. Edwards admitted But people here don t want to pay $2,000 extra in taxes We have the lowest tax rate in Wayne County, and that attracts people here

But its not just the lower taxes The area has easy access to highways, an attractive attribute to commuters Its a nice, wide-open space with a reputable school district

It's outside the city, it's not congested and had proximity to highways,' said resident Harold Davis Taxes are unbelievably low, and the schools are good

Bob and Joan Bisciotti moved here from the Philadelphia area seven years ago At the time, both were working in Dearborn, so the quick access to highways was attractive But so was the amount of land they could get

"We wanted land, and it seemed like the homes we looked at in Novi and Northville were huge homes that engulfed a little bit of property, Joan Bisciotti said The tax rate helps, and we felt the schools had a good reputation And the people are really

Veteran real estate profes sionals in the area say other facets of life also make Plymouth attractive Courtney has lived here for 30 years and has seen the area grow into more than just a sleepy community, while still managing to maintain its small-town atmosphere

Its a wonderful, vibrant town, Courtney said "Now

Homes like this one in Country Club Estates are part of the census tract with the highest median income in Wayne County according to the 2002 Census It's the first time a western Wayne community has been able to make that that we're adding restaurants and different things to attract people, people want this kind of town to have their families go to and enjoy concerts and parks People love that Its

Board OKs soccer park bid

Observer & Eccentric | Thursday September 26 2002

STAFF WRITER

It took some last-minute dodging and weaving, but Plymouth Township Supervisor Steve Mann finally scored a goal on his plan to put a soccer park at M-14 and Haggerty

After length and spirited discussion, the Plymouth Township board voted 5-2 Tuesday night to spend more than $1 2 million to build Lake Pointe Soccer Park The township awarded the contract to build the park to Angela Infrate Construction Company, with some work slated to begin this fall and completion expected by Aug 15 Infrate submitted the lowest of nine bids received by Dietrich, Bailey and Associates, the township's engineering firm But trustees weren't happy with the $1,244,328 bill to get the park built and signage erected

Trustees immediately began focusing on areas to cut, including a $171,000 restroomoffice facility some felt was lavish Trustee Kay Arnold went so The misleading report, Mann far as to make a motion to table discussion of the project until the spring, giving trustees time to whittle the costs Her motion died for lack of support, but indicated some opposition to Mann's plan

"We want (kids) to play soccer, not give them a palace," she said

And Clerk Marilyn Massengill wanted the project delayed until the township and city have ironed out the wrinkles in a proposed joint recreation plan Under that plan, the city would take over scheduling of sporting activities, such as baseball and soccer, at all township fields, including the new soccer park.

"I really didn't want to act on this," Massengill said 'I'd like to see where the program with the city is before we act on this'

A report published in one publication said the joint deal is being done with the city in an effort by city officials to get township money to solve some perceived budgetary problems

the township has absorbed those costs, trustees said

"Fortunately, we've been a growing community and we've been able to make up the difference, between what it costs to run the fire department and what the operating millage brings in, trustee Chuck Curmi said Our growth is slowing

The higher rate drew some discussion because the township is currently trying to balance a proposed budget that includes a $1 million gap between expected revenues and expenditures The higher millage rate would have reduced that gap by about $250,000, according to Edwards

Even with the added income a higher rate would have brought, trustees are likely going to have to consider dipping into the township's fund balance to make the budget

The extra quarter-million dollars would only delay that, according to trustee Ron Griffith, who was in favor of

'This $250,000 is just going to keep you from dipping into the reserves," he said 'You're going to fund what you have to fund This (rate hike) could wait another year"

But Edwards noted that the township's revenues are dipping, and said the township would have to do something about that "sooner or later'

"Sooner is here,' he said "We're not going to be able to sustain this lower rate down the road Our revenues aren't keeping up

Day offers taste of history

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Westland historian Jim Franklin recalls the time he made raccoon soup for Pioneer Day, a program at Nankin Mills featuring 19th-century activities, music and skills such as blacksmithing, butter-making and quilting

The soup's aroma caught the attention of an elderly woman - no, not Granny Clampett - who couldn't resist tasting what some consider a deli-

"She said she hadn't had any raccoon soup in years,' Franklın saıd

This year, he will stick to poultry and sourdough bread during the fifth annual Pioneer Day, scheduled for 1-5 p m Saturday, Sept 28, at historic Nankin Mills, on Ann Arbor Trail between Merriman and Farmington

The building - a former grist mill and Henry Ford-owned machine shop - now houses administration offices for Wayne County Parks, which is sponsoring Pioneer Day with Friends of Nankın Mılls

The event will feature demonstrations such as blacksmithing, butter-making, wool-spinning and quilting, and it will include a Great Lakes history storyteller, a petting farm and musicians playing instruments such as the dulcimer, fiddle and banjo, said Carol Clements, department manager at Nankın Mılls

Most attractions will be free, although there will be a $3 charge for a carriage ride along Hines Drive and for a children's craft tent featuring candle-making, tinsmithing and old-fashioned games, Clements said

Pioneer Day also will include participants making their own apple cider with what Clements described as a hand-cranked press, although cider-makers should bring their own plastic jug and only one grocery bag of apples

Local historians aren't surprised that Pioneer Day, an event for all ages, has grown in populari-

"It teaches the upcoming generations what their grandparents and great-grandparents had to deal with in their lives," Franklin said "It's a touch of the past - a touch of history"

OUR VIEWS

Anti-smoking effort is lauded

We understand that kids are going to try cigarettes, usually by middle school if not sooner It has everything to do with growing up and not much to do with the product itself - which doesn't have any redeeming qualities that we can think of

That doesn't mean adults should stop trying to discourage them Which is why the Observer supports antismoking programs including one the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district has incorporated into its upper elementary curriculum this year

The Hazards of Tobacco (HOT) program is a collaborative project of the Barbara Ann Karamanos Cancer Institute and Wayne State University's Department of Family Medicine The information is encapsulated into six classroom sessions, uses community volunteers and fits in with the Michigan Model for Comprehensive School Health Education, according to information supplied by the institute

In Plymouth-Canton, it has been implemented in the fifth grade, an age where kids are particularly vulnerable to peer pressure and experimentation. The program uses a variety of teaching techniques including hands-on activities, visual arts projects and team learning. It's designed to teach students

- The long- and short-term health risks of tobacco use, ■ Help them develop peer pressure resistance skills,
- Help them recognize deceptive advertising practices,
- Understand that they can live healthy, happy lives without tobacco

It's sort of a DARE approach, minus law enforcement, stripped down to the basics and aimed at one particular behavior The unit provides necessary information but won't intrude heavily on classroom time for academic subjects, which should always be the district's top priority

Recent statistics show educational efforts - along with higher taxes and a government crackdown on tobacco advertising aimed at minors - are beginning to have an effect on teenage smoking, which reached near-epidemic levels in the mid-1990s

A study released last spring by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention showed smoking among high school students had dropped to its lowest level in a decade Some 28 5 percent of high schoolers surveyed in 2001 said they had smoked a cigarette in the previous month, down from 36 4 percent in 1996 The percentage of high school students smoking is now approaching the lower figures reported in the 1980s

We believe the HOT program sends the right message and will at least get kids at a vulnerable age to think twice about smoking choices We commend the school district for including it in its curriculum

Do your part to help end domestic violence

October is Domestic Violence Awareness month There is irony that the designation is meant to shed light on a problem that continues in large part because it is a "hidden" crime

No one likes to talk about domestic violence Yet the crime - and make no mistake that it is a crime - is often covered up by the victims themselves and denied by family and friends

Much like sexual assault, victims often are left feeling that they somehow played a role in the violence Oftentimes, they feel powerless to leave an abusive partner and remain trapped in a cycle of violence

That's why organizations like First Step in Wayne County are so important, and need our support Domestic violence cuts across all socio-economic lines and occurs in every community

First Step's mission - "to reduce the incidence of domestic and sexual violence and to provide services to individuals affected by these crimes" - can only be accomplished through public awareness and public action

First Step's philosophy is that everyone has a right to live in a safe environment and that no one deserves to be victimized by assaultive behavior It relies on the time, talent and resources of volunteers and benefactors to carry on its fight

The First Step Website invites residents to "help once or help many times" First Step is always in need of donations of food, toiletries and bedding

Call (734)416-1111, ext 202 for more information on volunteering and donating

Thanks to the efforts of organizations like First Step and many others fighting the scourge of domestic violence, this dark cloud may one day be lifted for good, making awareness months a thing of the past

FOIA for everyone

As the Michigan attorney general points out in the letter prefacing the Michigan Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), there are few principles more vital to the ideal of democracy than ensuring that citizens are provided with every opportunity to know how their government works

Unfortunately, it appears Plymouth Mayor Bill Graham does not share this opinion with the attorney general or the scores of Americans who every day use the federal and state FOIA laws to better educate themselves on issues that impact their lives and community

During the Sept 16 meeting of the Plymouth City Commission, Mayor Graham made the cryptic suggestion that the Freedom of Information Act is being used to "harass local government officials, presumably by citizens exercising their right to ask for and receive access to public documents that may shed light on how our local government operates

He also provided his own perplexing interpretation of the intent of the Freedom of Information Act, sugg the framers of these laws intended that they be used only for "legitimate purposes of inquiry'

The mayor is wrong on this one, both in the spirit and letter of the law The intent of the law is to give each and every citizen, regardless of their 'purpose," access to the same information that our elected officials utilize when making decisions The Michigan Freedom of Information Act (Act 442) does not impose upon the public any obligation to 'justify" access to public records The FOIA does not require the requester to reveal why it needs or wants the information, purpose is irrelevant

I find Mayor Graham's comments to be deeply troubling and so should every resident of Plymouth Democracy and free markets can only function if there is equal access to the information that informs and influences decisions of public importance As a banker, the mayor should understand the importance of transparency The current recession continues to be exacerbated by a lack of public confidence in corporate accounting, which is the product of investors not having access to the same information as corporate executives Government is no dıfferent

There is something profoundly antidemocratic in the idea that a privileged few should have a monopoly on information about how a city functions outside of its regular commission meetings Governments that operate in the cloak of secrecy (or the appearance thereof) cannot be democratic I certainly hope this is not the direction the mayor is taking our

Protest is political

For the past few months, the members of Our Lady of Good Counsel parish have been subjected to demonstrators against Jennifer Granholm who stand outside of the parking lot with signs that have large, graphic photos of aborted fetuses, along with witty sayings like "Heretic Granholm

The purpose of these demonstrations is to defeat Jennifer Granholm in the election It is purely a political battle If it had anything to do with the Right to Life, then why aren't they in Lansing, demonstrating, grandstanding, banners in hand, working hard to change the law

It's very easy to stand around and denounce others for their beliefs and actions It's harder and much more impressive, and productive, to work toward changing those beliefs John Engler, a Catholic and self-proclaimed Right to Lifer, has been in Lansing for 12 years and hasn't stopped abortion

What has he done to change the law? I haven't heard about demonstrations at his church And why is that? Could it be because he 'talks a good line?'

Jennifer Granholm does not promote abortion She is upholding the law And, she and the parishioners are offended weekly simply because she is being honest! Just saying that you are against abortion, like John Engler and many, many other politicians, doesn't mean that you are actively working to stop it Ronald Regan didn't, George H Bush didn't, and neither is his son

The people demonstrating outside of new crusade I agree that abortion is wrong, but that's my belief If they can't get the law changed, then maybe they should use their energy (and they seem to have a great deal) to help give alternatives to those who are contemplating abortion

Protesting outside of Jennifer Granholm's place of worship is not going to prevent abortion, and they know that This is just their way of trying to sabotage a political campaign and career

They are teaching their children how to hate — the same kind of hate that breeds prejudice and bigotry They should go home Go home and hug their children Teach them to love Teach them to help and try to understand Teach them that berating others is not God's way There are solutions — being abusive of others feelings is not one of them

Theresa J. Pappas

Abortion is evil

On the issue of abortion in politics and churches - if abortion is not a political issue, then what issues are suitable for politics?

In many ways similar to abortion, slavery was a political issue It was also a moral issue, and in 1865 it became a constitutional issue, when the 13th Amendment to the United States Constitution abolished it Slavery was the overriding cause of the Civil War and it nearly ripped our country in two

Today we have difficulty understanding how any thinking and feeling person would have ever supported slavery There were those 150 years ago who would have argued that slavery should not be a political issue, that churches should stay out of it, that it was a matter of personal choice

Strangely, some of the same factors that enabled slavery are enabling abortion Slaves (babes in the womb) were subject to the power and force of another group against their will Slaves (babes in the womb) were not considered people Slavery (abortion) supported a profitable segment of our economy Slavery (abortion) was necessary to support a lifestyle Slaves (babes in the womb) were deprived of the unalienable right of life

Our Declaration of Independence states "We hold these truths to be selfevident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" When will our nation truly fulfill this promise?

The heart of our nation aches at the tragic loss of the nearly 4,000 innocent people Sept 11, 2001 Every single day of the year, our country loses more than 4,000 innocent children to abortions Abortion is an issue for politics, it is an issue for churches, it is an issue every bit as profound as slavery

It is not my place to stand in judgment of any person's heart - candidates for governor or anyone else – but as an American, a Catholic and a father, it is my responsibility to discern what is good and what is evil

As a nation we stand perplexed by the generations who justified the evil known as slavery Someday may our nation be perplexed by the generations that fought for the right to murder the helpless and innocent

Think twice

Dear Homeowner or Renter Have you left your children home alone with a potential killer? Many parents do every day I'm referring to the family handgun

Perhaps you think it's necessary for your protection, but most handguns are not fired in self-defense They're fired by a curious child who finds a gun and accidentally shoots his sibling or friend, or by a suicidal teenager who actually looks for the handgun Sometimes they're fired when an argument gets out of control and a wife, husband or friend ends up dead or wounded

There are better and more effective crime prevention methods than keeping a loaded handgun in your home. If you own a handgun, please keep it locked and unloaded. If you don't own any handguns, politely ask if other families do before you send your child over to play. Children are naturally inquisitive and all the "education" in the world won't stop a curious child from finding the family gun.

Please, think twice before you allow a handgun in your home. It might be my child who finds it

The story that's behind November's Proposal 4

On the surface, Proposal 4 – a 1,400-word constitutional amendment that will be on the statewide November ballot - makes no sense

If passed, it would redirect 90 percent of the $325 million Michigan receives annually from the national tobacco settlement to hospitals, nursing homes, anti-smoking programs and prescription drug programs for seniors The losers would include the 45,000 high school students each year who get $2,500 college scholarships from the Michigan Merit Award program and the Life Sciences Corridor, the state's main effort to jump-start the biotech industry

If passed, the amendment - to be labeled Proposal 02-4 on the ballot — would utterly bypass the normal appropriations process by which public funds are expended in Michigan and lock into the

Constitution a rigid formula that would allocate the money to the various beneficiaries In response, Roger Martin, a spokesman for Citizens for a Healthy Michigan, the group pushing the proposal, argued on public TV last week that "you can't always trust politicians" to make good decisions That's no doubt true, but it's a whole lot easier to undo bad appropriations decisions than it is to remove a mistake written into the Constitution itself

If passed, the money allocated under Proposal 4 would go mostly to private outfits that operate free from legislative or media oversight Spending tobacco settlement money on health programs might be OK, but I think letting nonpublic groups spend public money free from public scrutiny goes way too far

If passed, Proposal 4 would even give around $3 million a year to something called the Healthy Michigan Foundation, which didn't even exist when the proposal was originally

Even with all these surface defects, the folks behind Proposal 4 paid a firm to get 476,000 signatures to put the measure on the ballot At between $2-$3 for each signature, that comes to nearly $15 million And I understand they've budgeted several millions more in TV advertising before the Nov 5 election day That's big

How come? Two reasons mainly, a compound of the good and the greedy

For the good, consider the thought that tobacco settlement money properly ought to be spent getting people to quit smoking or persuading kids not to start or curing folks who get smoking-related illnesses That's a perfectly reasonable position, and it's one the proponents of Proposal 4 will allege is their sole motivation

As to the greedy, consider this history Michigan hospitals have been complaining for years — justly, so far as I can tell — that they are getting screwed on below-cost Medicaid reimbursements Earlier this year, the legislature passed a bill that would have hiked the Medicaid money Michigan gets from the feds so as to give state hospitals an extra $157 million Legislative leaders thought they had made a good faith effort to bail out the hospitals, but the Michigan Hospital Association wanted more and enlisted a bunch of other medical organizations to help launch the petition drive to get Proposal 4 on the ballot

I'm told that things came to a head in June on Mackinac Island, when Gov Engler and Budget Director Don Gilmer met with Spencer Johnson, the head of the Michigan Hospital Association As I understand it, Engler and Gilmer went back to Lansing under the impression that Johnson had agreed he was not going to file the signatures as long as hospitals were going to get their extra $157 million But Johnson and others pressured the hospital association board to file, which eventually it

Feeling (mildly put) double crossed, Engler promptly vetoed the $157 million Medicaid bill And the state wound up in (failed) litigation trying to stop Proposal 4 from ever getting on the ballot And now you can confidently expect a blizzard of harmless-sounding TV ads advocating Proposal 4 as good public policy

Opponents are led by former Attorney General Frank J Kelley, who was an original filer of the suit against the tobacco companies and calls Proposal 4 an attempt to "steal from the state treasury,' and state Sen Joe Schwarz, himself a physician who says it "makes a travesty out of our state constitution'

As far as I'm concerned, Proposal 4 makes even less sense under examination than it makes on the surface

Act more upsetting

Why are so many people upset about seeing pictures of the torn-apart tiny innocents? Shouldn't the "act" of what is being done daily be more upsetting? Yes, it is horrible and ugly to look at, let alone feel I salute the protesters for making obvious the reality of abortion!

Wake up, Fr Ortman, and go back to the Seminary for some refresher courses on the stand of the Catholic Church concerning abortion Pro-choice equals pro-abortion, it's the same thing Exercising our free will does not give us God's permission to kill babies

As a Catholic, I'm ashamed of your muddled ideas and lame explanations An examination of conscience should definitely be a priority for you I will pray God forgives you for the scandal you have given to us and to the non-Catholic as well

Instead of hand wringing, state needs to fix FIA

Mason

John Engler is frustrated, disappointed and very irritated Hmmm, sounds like John Engler during much of his tenure as governor However, this time rather than threatening taxpayers or slashing the budget, he's given Doug Howard a piece of his mind

It's good that he's being so open with Howard, the director of the state's Family Independence Agency, which can't seem to do much of anything right But frankly, it's nothing more than the usual posturing that takes place when it comes to the FIA

The agency's missteps have been well documented over the years and other than wringing of the hands and mea culpa or two, nothing is ever done to address the problem Sure, the legislature passed the Binsfield legislation that mandated that a child could be in foster care one year, then a permanency plan had to be developed and implemented Big whoop

The idea was to not have children grow to adulthood while in foster care, to make children who couldn't be returned to their families available for adoption at younger ages

Frankly, I think the legislature was far too generous in allowing a year to go by before addressing the issue of permanency Protective Services might move quickly to remove from dangerous situations, but the FIA makes the tortoise in The Tortoise and the Hare look like Speedy Gonzalez

I speak from experience I have two lovely children my husband and I adopted through FIA. We got them both as toddlers - Bobby was 3-1/2, Carolee was less than a month shy of her fourth birthday Both spent more than two years in what people who deal with FIA call the

Yes, you read that right You can adopt state wards from the state However, you do need patience When dealing with the state, nothing goes smoothly or quickly

Our first venture into state adoption ended in a mess that involved a state senator, the state ombudsman and the state director of adoptions We were unsuccessful, but two things stick out in my mind about the experience

The first - FIA was clueless about the child's race The mother was white and the father all they knew was that he was from Highland Park. It was the foster mom who tipped them off

That oversight prompted a cross cultural study to see what we knew about other cultures - black in general and black specifically Done by a black and a white adoption workers, we were thunderstruck by one question What was our nationality? I answered American, my husband did the same

The response from the white social worker went something like "No, that's not it We're talking about your nationality Like I'm a Lithuanian-American" Huh?

These two women who decided that we could only adopt light-skinned biracial children - which the little girl was - didn't even understand the question they were asking us

We know FIA workers are overworked Our daughter's adoption worker made sure we knew that every time we talked to her She had 54 cases She talked as slow as she worked, and the adoption that should have taken a year max stretched into 18 months

And we know children can get lost in the system Every three months Carolee had a new foster care worker and every three months she went back to square one They missed court hearings, overlooked the fact that the child had been abandoned by her mother and basically left he in foster care for two years before parental rights were terminated

If it hadn't been for a diligent, proactive foster mom - the workers would call her a royal pain in the butt - she probably would have languished in the system even longer

The state pressures private agencies to find permanent homes for the wards it farms out to them, but it does little for the ones that remain ın FIA's care

Granted there's the Michigan Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) book that's at pubhe libraries It lists some of the more than 3,000 children available for adoption from toddlers to teenagers to sibling groups, but the state could do better

A few years ago, I had a conversation and shared lengthy e-mails with a freshman state rep from western Wayne County who wanted to do something about children languishing in the system Nothing came of it, and the rep is now running for state senator

FIA needs a major overhaul Obviously, it won't be done by John Engler, and it remains to be seen if Jennifer Granholm or Dick Posthumus will do anything, since they're too busy beating each other up over Proposal A

How many more times are we going to have to read about another FIA screwup before something is done?

Children shouldn't be put into a system that has no end and isn't capable of keeping track of them FIA needs to focus on the needs of the children in its care

As a friend says, two people can go at it behind a dumpster and create a child and be given more consideration than the people who will care foster that child or adopt him or her FIA needs to tell parents what needs to be done and set a deadline instead of giving them one chance after another, prolonging the child's placement in foster care In baseball it's three strikes, you're out, in football, it's four downs If FIA dealt out that kind of tough love to deadbeat parents, it could use the time freed up to get children into permanent homes

And maybe we wouldn't have to endure yet another report on yet another FIA screwup

Coalition warns motorists to be watchful for deer in fall

A new public education program announced today by the Michigan Deer Crash Coalition (MDCC) underscores the need for motorists to be extra watchful for deer when driving this

Public service announcements sent to all Michigan radio stations are part of the MDCCs campaign to keep the car-deer crash problem in the forefront of motorists minds Michigan's large deer herd is moving into the fall mating season, when they are the most active, and when most crashes occur

Michigan's car-deer crash totals have leveled out over the last five years, " said Coalition Chairman Richard J Miller of AAA Michigan, "but the results of these crashes in deaths, injuries and millions of dollars in damage caused each year remain huge

In 2001, there were 66,993 crashes, up 3 percent from the year before Forty-four percent of the crashes occurred in the October-December period Due to unreported crashes, he said, the actual figure is pegged at closer to 80,000

Crashes also are prevalent in spring when deer seek out the first green grass near highways Since 1991, state car-deer crashes have risen 39 percent Michigans annual total represents nearly half of all reported car-deer crashes in five Midwestern states Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois and Iowa

CRASHES IN ALL COUNTIES

Eleven Michigan motorists were killed and 2,109 persons were injured in 2001, compared to eight deer-related crash deaths and a similar number of mjuries in 2000

That means on average there are 184 crashes a day, one every eight minutes, all year long," Miller said 'The fact that there are car-deer crashes occurring in every Michigan county is why we are stressing to motorists to think 'deer,' whether they are driving in Detroit's suburbs or in northern Michigan's woods, and always fasten your safety belts and drive defensively Safety belts are your first line of defense in any crash

If a crash with a deer is unavoidable, the MDCC recommenas motorists

- Stay in your lane ■ Brake firmly
- Hold onto the steering wheel
- Come to a controlled stop Get your vehicle off the
- roadway 'Very few persons are injured by simply striking a deer They are injured when they swerve to try to avoid a crash, go out of control and hit an obstacle or an oncoming car, or roll over And they often hit the deer regardless," Miller said

Several factors are combining to make the car-deer crash problem grow, he said Urban growth spreading into deer habitat and a swelling deer population that is four times higher

Car-deer crashes result in an estimated $130 million in auto repair expenses annually in Michigan alone Nationally, one study found, the figure for reported car-deer crashes totals $11 billion

Many drivers may think that most car-deer crashes occur in northern Michigan However, more than half occur in southern Lower Michigan

STAY ALERT

In 2001, the top 10 counties for car-deer crashes were all in southern Lower Michigan

Kent 2,327, Jackson, 2,051, Calhoun, 1,959, Montcalm, 1,643, Oakland, 1,633, Eaton 1479, Ingham, 1,433, Kalamazoo, 1,411, Washtenaw, 1,395, Mecosta, 1,379 Michigans deer herd is estimated to be between 1 8 and 2 mil

That is why Gov John Engler has declared October 'Michigan Car Deer Crash Safety Awareness Month

Here are some tips to avoid injury should you encounter a deer in the road

■ Watch for deer at dawn and especially during the fall mating season In the spring deer will move from cover to find food, and back to cover They often feed along roads, where grass greens up first

■ If you see one deer, there may be more Deer often travel single file so if you see one deer cross the road, chances are more are nearby waiting to cross When startled by an oncoming vehicle, they can dart out from any direction without

■ Be alert all year long in areas inhabited by deer, and dusk Deer are most active then, especially on two-lane roads

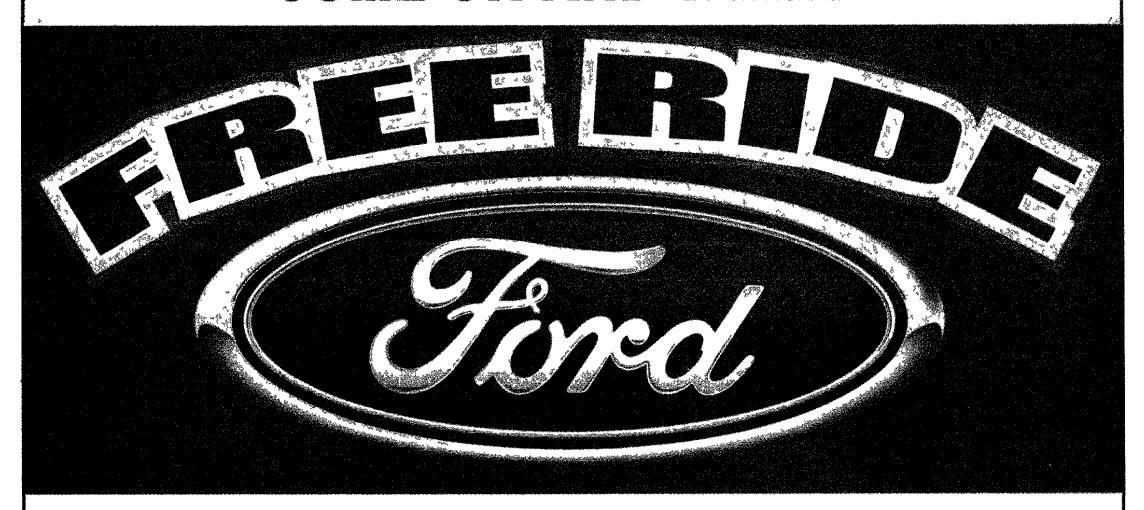

■ Watch for deer warning signs They are placed near known deer crossing areas and are your first alert that deer may be in the area.

Remember, Michigan IS de country More than 1,000 copies of "Stay Clear of Deer A Year," an 11-minute videotape produced by the MDCC in 2001, have been distributed nationwide, including to ever Michigan driver education school Copies are available fr by going to www michiganresourcecenter org or by calling (800) 626-4636 or (517) 882

Area chefs serve up...

Obse ver & Eccentric | Thursday September 26 2002

early 1,000 guests beverages from 60 metro area restaurants helped to raise $90,000 last Sunday for the scholarship fund at Schoolcraft College

A variety of pates, assorted cheeses and fruits help whet the appetite of guests as they entered the Waterman Campus Center to two levels of food, wine, desserts and beverages at this year's Culmary Extravaganza

Toni Wisne Sabina, honorary co-chair of this year's event, and her husband, Steve Sabına, helped the fund-raising effort with some serious bidding during a live auction for a gourmet dinner for eight prepared by Schoolcraft chefs They offered the winning bid of $2,500 for the five-course gourmet feast with wine coordinated by Kevin Gawronski, a certified master chef in Schoolcraft's Culinary Arts Program

Toni Wisne Sabina is president of Epoch Events which owns some of the metro areas leading restaurants including Too Chez in Novi, Tribute in Farmington Hills and Forte in Birmingham

A wine tasting for up to 50 people presented by Beaulieu Vineyard of Napa Valley drew a winning bid of more than $1,000 while a northern Michigan weekend getaway complete with dinner at Tapawingo and Latitude netted nearly $1,000

But it was the food and wine that guests came to sample on Sunday

Crowds gathered to taste the salmon from Steve & Rocky's of Novi, an eggplant and ricotta cheese entree from Villa Maria Ristorante in West Bloomfield and soups from Zoup! Other crowd pleasers included panseared scallops from Papa Joe's Gourmet Market of Birmingham, shrimp nachos from Sweet Lorraine's Cafe in Livonia and desserts from Aunt Olive's in Birmingham

their culinary best

Award-winning wines from Michigan, Ontario and California were supplied by Veritas Distributors of Detroit, Pelee Island Winery of Canada and L. Mawby Vineyards of Suttons Bay Many eventgoers finished the day with espresso or cappuccino from Cadillac Coffee Company

Suzanne Thomas Hughes of Flagstar Bank and Tom Marek, vice president of corporate food service at Ford Motor Co, members of the Schoolcraft College Foundation Board, co-chaired this year's event

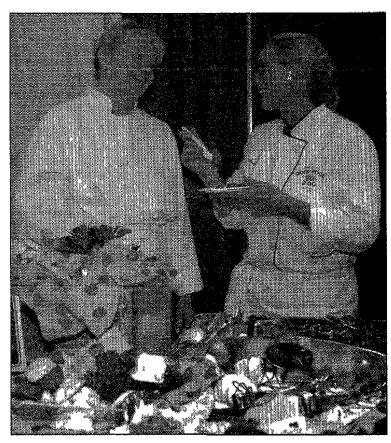

Marek, president-elect of the Schoolcraft College Foundation, is serving his first year as co-chair of the event Although new to the culinary committee, Marek knows the food business Before joining Ford Motor Co nearly 10 years ago, he worked as a regional vice president for business services for Aramark for 29 years

We paid attention to details this year and everything went well It was our most successful auction ever," said Thomas-Hughes, who was serving her fifth year on the planning committee and her fourth year as event co-chair

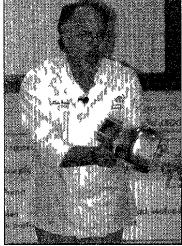

Next year's event will be held in the college's new VisTaTech facility, a $27 million culinary arts and high tech center The new 55,000-square-foot facility is expected to open in January, 2003

VisTaTech will house a culinary arts department and teaching kitchen, classroom and demonstration space, information technology center for education training, product development and new public spaces for seminars, concerts and speakers

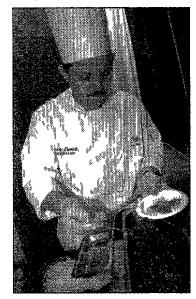

The centers name comes from the words vision, talent and technology

Population up a little since 2000

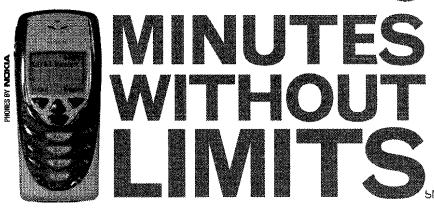

Southeast Michigan's population and households grew moderately from the 2000 Census through July 1, 2002, according to Population and Households in Southeast Michigan, 2000-2003, a new report released by SEM-COG, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments

The population of Southeast Michigan added 57,446 (a 1 2 percent increase), bringing the regions total to 4,890,938 Households grew slightly faster, adding 30,861 (a 17 percent increase), bringing the region's total number of households to 1,876,174 The number of people in each household continues to decline, from 2 58 persons in April 2000 to 2 56 persons in July 2002

Livingston County continues to add population and households at a faster rate than the rest of the region, population grew by 6 percent and households grew 67 percent Macomb County, on the other hand, continues to add the largest numbers of people (17,246) and households (9,520), followed by Oakland County (15,121 addıtional people, 9,126 additional households) Wayne County is the only county to lose population (just under 300), but gained nearly 600 households The report further breaks down each county by community

The continuing phenomenon of households growing at a faster rate than population is due, in part, to the changing composition of households One-person households (younger or older people living alone) now represent 27 percent of all households (up from 25 percent in 1990), while married-couple households declined to 49 percent (from 51 percent in 1990) This has also driven down the average number of persons per household

Sunward Co-Housing main community building

Love thy neighbor

With co-housing, home is a community

BY NICOLE STAFFORD

Not everybody wants the white house with the white picket fence

But the yard work and maintenance that come with traditional home ownership isn't the only reason for ruling out that particular, and quintessential, American dream

Some are seeking a sense of community they contend is missing in many of today's neighborhoods, as the distance widens between neighbors front doors in new subdivisions and front porches give way to backyard decks

Among the alternatives is co-housing where architecture – housing units are configured in close proximity with perimeter parking – and communal space work to encourage interaction

Interaction is inspired,' said Amy Nesbitt, who lives in an Ann Arbor co-housing community called Sunward

The first such development in Michigan, Sunward has 40 units and more than 95 residents

The co-housing concept originated in Denmark in the '60s and took root in North America in the '80s, according Robert W Marans, professor of architecture and urban planning at the University of Michigan

To date, there are about four other co-housing developments in Michigan

ATHOME

Interestingly, Nesbitt wasn't seeking to live in a co-housing community when she decided to relocate to Ann Arbor Friends were living in a three-bedroom townhouse there and an extra room was available

'I was very skeptical,' said the 32-year-old booking agent "And I didn't come for the interaction"

Today, she plans to join friends in buying a unit in one of two co-housing developments planned next to Sunward

"I always had the fantasy of doing a modern industrial condo or an old Victorian house," said Nesbitt The benefits of co-housing were enough to change her mind

"It takes a long time in a traditional housing situation to meet your neighbors. You really have to work at it in regular housing. In co-housing, it's more happenstance. It's very spontaneous."

Other benefits include the convenience of laundry facilities, a gym, a media center and a multi-purpose room in Sunward's common house

Group meals are prepared for and by residents four times a week, participation is optional, and every housing unit is equipped with its own full kitchen. But many residents, including Nesbitt, appreciate not having to cook every night and the luxury of more free time.

"It's awesome for me," said Nesbitt "I tool in from work and there's dinner"

Adjacent to the common house dining area is a sitting room with fireplace and two-room play area for children with tables for arts and crafts, beds for naps and storage for toys and books

Even mailboxes are in the common house as a way to bring together neighbors in conversation and camaraderie

'That's the key with co-housing – making it easy for people to connect," said Nick Meima, chief founder of Sunward and president of the Co-housing Development Company, which is currently building Sunward's two adjacent co-housing communities

Already under construction is Great Oak, with 37 units ranging in price from $150,000 for a two-bedroom to $350,000 for a four-bedroom

Construction on Honey Creek, which will have up to 46 units ranging from $97,000 for a one-bedroom to $350,000 for a four-bedroom, is scheduled to begin in 2003

PLANNING

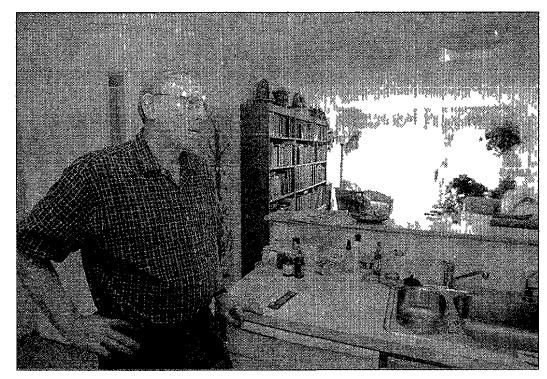

Sunward was developed jointly by Meima, seven core founders and the rest of the community's original residents. Resident participation in the planning and building process is often a stated goal of cohousing communities.

Overall development layout also plays a key role in

Leelanau Furniture Show opens Oct. 4

BY MARY KLEMIC STAFF WRITER

The Leelanau Furniture Show has become almost as much a part of autumn in Michigan as the beautiful, changing leaves

This year's show will take place Friday-Sunday, Oct 4-13, at the Grand Traverse Cultural Heritage Center in Traverse City

The event has grown since the first show in 1995

At that time, 20 artists displayed furnishings they designed

This year, more than 30 fine woodworkers and metal sculptors will exhibit a wide range of pieces, from rustic to modern, all artist designed and studio built

The show has become nationally

'(Participants) try to do something more than traditional copies of what they had done," said Bill Perkins, one of the exhibitors

The event returns to the expanded site of the Grand Traverse Cultural Center

Center
'I think the location and the time of the year (contribute to its popularity),' said Ann Hoopfer, director of the center "(The artists) just have a reputation"

Other parti

Other participants will include Larry Fox, Dave Elmgren, Bob Purvis, Paul Paradis, Paul Czamanske, Chip Gadek, Donna Popke, Joe Stearns and Joe Buteyn

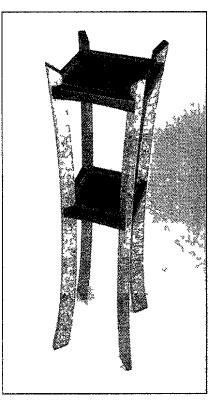

Popke, Joe Stearns and Joe Buteyn Their works will offer the charm of twig and bark, the sophistication of sleek metal and wood, bright colors and soft shades

Perkins said the show came about after some area artists had pieces in a furniture show in Philadelphia

"We said, 'This is a good idea We should do that,' "he said The artists come from northwest Michigan and an area including

Grand Rapids and Lansing, Perkins said "There's a lot of talent up here," he achieving the aims of co-housing

At Sunward, for instance, some townhouses form parallel rows and face one another, creating what Meima calls a lane'

Observer & Eccentric | Thursday September 26 2002

The setup might be best described as a miniature Main Street, and the idea is to reduce physical distance between neighbors

The more physical distance there is between people, the less likely it is that people will interact, said Meima

Indeed, avoiding ones neighbors would be hard to do especially if you're sitting on the front porch

However, Sunward residents seem to view lost privacy and a greater sense of community as a fair trade, said Marans, who led a 1999

University of Michigan study of development "What they lost in privacy, they gained in this feeling of community, said Marans top of the circle when it comes time for this kind of sit-

The vent line story always bears repeating even around here, because I still talk with people who haven't a clue about the dangers of using plastic or tinfoil vent line

Many years ago when the plastic industry started to capture some of the smartest minds in America, the oldfashioned solid aluminum vent line was pushed aside for replacement by plastic This new product was easy to work with and could be installed by just about any homeowner

It became so popular that even the clothes dryer manufacturers included pictures and information in the owner's manual Every hardware store across America had an aisle dedicated to dryer vent line and the appliance service industry had it in service vans

CONDEMNED

Now here it is, some 40 years after its introduction, and it is being condemned by the appliance industry as a whole The state of Michigan has a law banning its use on clothes

The vent line story always bears repeating even around here, because I still talk with people who haven't a clue about the dangers of using plastic or tinfoil vent line.

dryers, and you don't see pictures of it in the owner's manual anymore Some retail stores even have signs near the dryer vent line section that tell us plastic isn't recommended for use with clothes dryers

Let me give you some facts that have prompted this action

We know that there are a reported 15,000-plus house fires every year caused by clothes dryers We know that the number not reported to fire departments could be twice as hıgh

Many people die or are hospitalized due to these fires and the loss of property exceeds many millions of dollars

The insurance industry classifies the clothes dryer as the most dangerous appliance in the home, and rightfully so Let me explain why

DANGERS

Please understand that most fires don't occur because of a fault in the dryer but instead because of improper installation, and by that I mean usually the vent line

The proper vent line should be solid aluminum, which you can buy at most hardware stores It comes in 2-foot sections that couple together quite easily Use a good grade of duct tape on the joints and make sure the complete vent line is secured and not moveable

It stands to reason that the smooth inner surface of the vent line will allow the majority of loose lint to travel through the line and exit the house

A vent line that has ribs built into it will certainly help to gather lint inside the vent line When this happens, even a little bit, more lint will build up until it may become totally blocked

At this point all of the clothes dryer's internal components will run extra hot These can be a cause of fire, along with any lint that may actually make contact with the heat source, such as the electric element or the gas valve

The length of the vent line is also crucial to a safe operating dryer The total length shouldn't be longer than 16 feet with the use of only two elbows Too long a vent run won't allow air to move fast enough to remove the lint from the vent line and again help cause a buildup ınsıde

Cleaning of the vent line every six months is critical no matter what kind is on the dryer

The message I have to give with this column is the most important thing I have ever done in my lifetime If you can just take a minute to try to understand why it is so important, your family will love you

How many homeowners leave a dryer alone while it dries clothes?

Do you ever go to bed or head off to work while it works? Most of us do, and I know that the majority of house fires caused by clothes dryers didn't have anyone around to put it out

One last thing, please, before you close the door Tell someone else about this column You could save a life Stay tuned

New forms insulate concrete walls nsulated concrete walls are a new and exciting building method Insulated concrete forms (ICFs) make these walls possible

foundations

the oppor-

ICFs used

tunity to see

poured concrete If you haven't seen one being built, wooden forms are erected, usually using a crane The concrete is poured between the forms and the following day the forms are removed The ICFs, on the other hand, stay in place, becoming part of the wall

ICFs resemble huge, hollow LEGO blocks made from foamed plastic Just like LEGOs, ICFs interlock as they stack into the shape of the foundation Once in place, the voids in the ICFs are filled with reinforcing steel and concrete The result is a strong, well-insulated concrete wall

There are many advantages to using ICF walls Probably most significant is the insulating value Most ICF systems have R-values in the 20s with some manufacturers claiming as much as R-40

They can be built by just about anyone with basic carpentry skills, common hand tools and some concrete expe-

ICFs aren t just for foundations They are being used right up to the roof The poured concrete creates a continuous air barrier for less air infiltration

They also provide greater thermal mass buffering the interior from outdoor temperature extremes This means great energy savings

Along with the energy savings, which the ICF manufacturers are saying can be as much as 50 percent, these walls are substantial noise barriers In addition, concrete walls have proven track records for security and the ability to withstand the wind damage

Like just about all new building products, the acceptance of ICFs will take time Many building officials aren't sure how new products fit into existing codes Of course, the manufactures are quick to publish data about how their products conform to these

Further, contractors are notoriously resistant to change They are used to working with existing materials and methods They also have a great deal invested in tools, often making change expensive

Probably the greatest resistance to using ICFs for wall construction is the cost factor At present, the cost increase of an ICF house will cost around 4 per cent Since this figure comes from ICF manufacturers, it is likely on the low side

What is true, however, is that this is a one-time cost and the energy cost savings stay with the house The costs of most building materials, especially wood, continue to climb, where the cost of concrete has remained relatively stable over the past 10 years

Using ICFs for the foundation only actually saved us about $500 over conventional methods on the Habitat house For more information on insulated concrete forms I recommend these sites www forms org and www ICFWeb com

The Code of Criminal Couture

ometimes I wonder who sets the fashion for our country. There are days I cringe when walking into a mall, seeing styles I wore 30 years ago as a high school student. Styles are set and fashions are followed.

Fashions trends seem to work that way in every segment of society, old and young, law abiding and criminal

In the criminal society the fashion is very easy on the budget. For in the criminal society the fashion doesn't involve the purchase or wearing of a shirt

I began to notice this trend after the third season of watching "COPS" on TV Criminals in all parts of our country being arrested, mugging for the camera in all of their shirtless, beerbellied, tattooed glory Often you would find the "perps" lying face down on the pavement, balancing a 250-pound officer on the back with nothing at all between their skin and the officer's uniform

Cuffed, hauled to their feet, the truly stylish criminal strikes a pose — belly covered in gravel, tattoos blazing and mugging for the camera But you have to look quickly, they're going to be shoved into the squad car for a trip to the pokey

Fifteen minutes of shirtless fame Priceless

Won't Mom be proud? I bet some Mom somewhere was really proud last week as her shirt and husband stormed the baseball field at Comiskey Park and pummeled the first base coach for the visiting Royals Father and son dutifully followed the criminal dress code to a tee Attıred from the waist up only in body art, and in fashionable pants from the waist down, this debonair duo showed all of America what style is all about

There must be a law
I can read the fine print now in the book of Criminal Couture

"While perpetrating criminal activities and/or acquiring ill-gotten gains, removal of the shirt is imperative Failure to remove said shirt will result in dismissal from the underworld of crime"

Removal of pants is optional, if I remember my "COPS" right

Going shirtless is, indeed, a trend, according to Officer Seipenko of the Plymouth Township Police Department

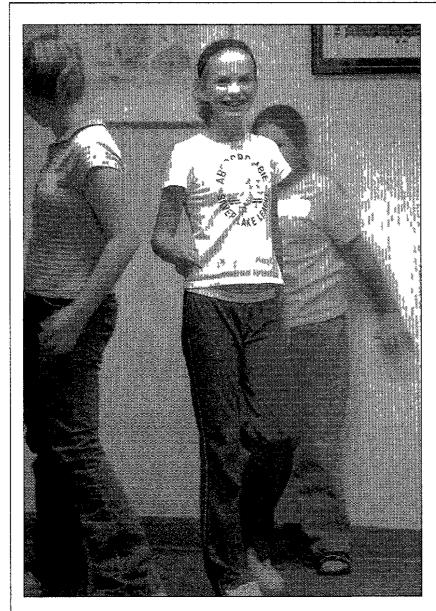

"This seems to run only in the summer months in Michigan," he said the other day, perhaps a little relieved since there was a hint of fall in the air, "and the shirtless look is typically alcohol related" Alcohol! Imagine that!

Winter's closing in Officer Seipenko and the good guys on "COPS" will have the benefit of winter to keep the criminal clothed Those officers in warmer climates aren't so lucky The shirtless look never goes out of fashion there

But in Milan, New York and Paris, those hooligan trendsetters are hard at work, setting next year's fashion Until then you can only wonder what those style-setting ruffians will (or won't) be wearing next And we thank our lucky stars that shirtless never goes out of style

Abby Rice of Canton, 8 watches auditions with the Whistle Stop Players

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

In Jennifer Tobins mind, theres a simple explanation as to why nearly 100 kids showed up last week to audition for the Whistle Stop Players, an acting troupe for youngsters sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council

"We think kids want to be attorneys, scientists, space explorers and chemists But, then I saw how many kids came and I thought 'You know what' Girls still want to be a princess and guys still want to be a prince," Tobin said

One of the girls in attendance announced she didn't want to be a princess

Then you can be the ugly old woman, which is the part I would pick,' shouted back Tobin with a laugh 'It's fun just to go back to a fairy tale"

The Whistle Stop Players begins its ninth season at the Plymouth Community Arts Council, with an hour-long performance entitled Grimms' Gorgeous Girls, a re-creation of original plays that includes

Sleeping Beauty, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Cinderella, Little Red Riding Hood, Goldilocks and the Three Bears plus Twelve Dancing Princesses, vignettes weaved into one play Students will perform at schools in the Plymouth-Canton school district Actually, the script isn't even written yet 'The kids will make i up because they are so creative,' said Tobin

"It can be an old-fashioned fairy tale, or put in modern times, or maybe a comic opera. It's all in here," she added, pointing to her head "You're going to be the creators"

Tobin held two auditions last week, though that may be a misnomer because "everybody gets in, no sweat" She encouraged kids, ranging in age from 5-14, to get on stage and give their best shots at saying a line or two to break the ice, playing happy and sad, and posing like a prince or princess For most, there were few inhibi-

"I just love acting When I grow up I want to be an actor, or a farmer's wife, said Andrea Fisher of Dearborn Heights, who signed up to play a king "I just like to pretend I m someone else, and don t have a brother

Fisher auditioned at the PCAC because there wasn't an available program near her home 'Dearborn Heights doesn't have a program during the school year, so I got on the Internet and found this program," said Michelle Fisher, Andrea's mom 'I see a smile on her face, so it's a good sign'

Samantha Daugherty, 11, is a Discovery Middle School student who proudly said this was her third audition for the Whistle Stop Players

"You get to have fun and act," she said "I do skits with my friends for my family"

Her mother, Michelle, envisions a career in acting for her daughter "We make home movies with the video camera and we put them on the big screen TV," said Michelle Daugherty "She's going to be the next American Idol"

While the Whistle Stop Players is fun and games, Tobin and her crew

Local man defends animal rights on the street

BY LANA MINI STAFF WRITER

The boys ran away with guns in hand after shooting a dog with BB guns Jack McNellis chased after them

"I remember watching my dad and thinking what a hero he was when he stood up for that animal, Jim McNellis said

The shooting happened decades ago when Jim was a young boy, but he remembers his father's bravery, he said Jack McNellis, died years later

When Jim McNellis was in his 20s, a situation occurred where he witnessed an animal being killed for meat

being killed for meat
"It was so brutal, the animal was in so much pain," he said

Fast forward to present day
Jim McNellis is 39 and loves fine dining, The Red Wings and good movies He lives in Westland and works for the Canton Recreation Department He's in graduate school for public administration and holds degrees in psychology, liberal arts and English He lives with three dogs and three cats, all rescued

And he sa vegan He neither eats nor wears any animal biproducts — from leather to dairy He doesn't eat fish or chicken and his girlfriend is a vegan too He urges others to do the same

"I couldn t justify something dying so I could eat," McNellis said "I made a connection with animals

His mission is video activism Recently McNellis converted a white van into a high-tech, rolling, information vehicle. On both sides are large video screens that show graphic footage of the killing process in the meat, poultry, dairy and fur industries. He also shows footage of circus elephants and tigers being struck with steel rods and fists

His goal is to teach others about the benefits of vegan diets, he said The American Cancer Institute and American Heart Association both endorse them He also works for the animals sake, he said His van can been seen in downtown Rochester, Birmingham, Royal Oak, Plymouth, Canton, Detroit and any other city with pedes

In addition to the videos Jim McNellis displays different pictures on his van, such as this fox in a trap of student directors make the experience real, asking each actor to stand up, give their resume (usually name, age and school) and say a line or two so Tobin and her crew can get a feel on how to cast each actor Tobin said she has high expectations of her young thespians

"If I don't expect anything of you, you won't give me anything," she told them "When I expect a lot, you give me more

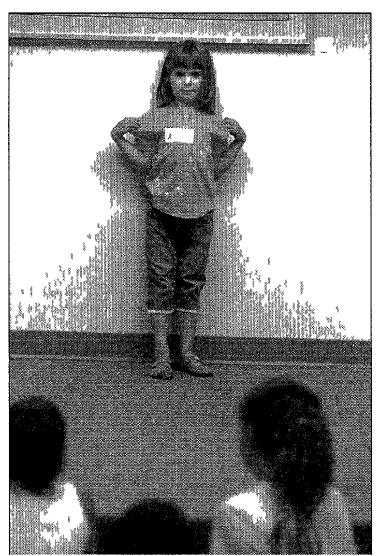

"You get better every time you do it Experience is everything," added Tobin

Tobin's staff of student directors includes Patti Nelson of Canton who, like some others, is a former Whistle Stop Player herself

"I was in the first show we did when I was in third grade, said Nelson, 16, now a Canton High School theater student She remembers being in A Winnie the Pooh Christmas Tail "I was a rabbit I had a costume made out of a sweatsuit and ears, and I got to sing and dance

Nelson said going back to to young actors

trian traffic

"People don't want to be preached to," he said "They want honesty The videos are completely honest"

THE FACE OF CHANGE

McNellis said he cares for humans as much as animals It's what the whole animal rights movement is about, he

'With vegetarianism, people are initially concerned about their health," he said He sites statistics from Dr Robert Cohen, a physician who speaks against dairy consumption nationwide for health reasons Cohen will speak on the subject of dairy and health on Sept 28 at at the Michigan Federation of Humane Societies Conference at Webber's Inn in Ann Arbor at 8 30 a m The event is open to the public at $30 with a vegan lunch McNellis will be there with his van

The biggest misconception is that his work is about loving animals or choosing animals over humans

"It's about animal rights, human rights and the environment," he said

And he cites recent USDA statistics that say Americans spend more than $12 million per year on dieting - enough money to end world hunger twice over

CAPACITY TO SUFFER

While McNellis' compassion toward animals is deeply rooted, he knows that he must be able to win debates and answer questions with courtesy and evidence Years of research helps him, he said Some argue with what

McNellis calls the "might makes right" philosophy

"The philosophy essentially says that one can dominate and oppress simply because they have power over those who are less fortunate This is contrary to everything we're taught in school and from our parents This same argument was used to justify slavery, ignore women's right to vote and deny African-Americans their civil rights"

IT'S GETTING BETTER

Just a few weeks ago, the Windsor, Ontario government voted to ban all circuses with animals from its city McNellis played a role on behalf of the elephants and expects progressive, family-oriented cities to do the same in Michigan

Burger King, Ruby Tuesdays, Bennigans and Red Robin all offer fantastic veggie burgers, he said

"I believe that within a hundred years, humans will look back at our current treatment of animals with the same outrage and horror they look at human exploitation"

Artist Leonardo Di Vinci said the same thing

McNellis welcomes comments and questions from the public and can be reached via e mail at aveganman@ yahoo com

Town Hall series opens with TV comedy star Vicki Lawrence

BY RENÉE SKOGLUND STAFF WRITER

What started as a fund-raiser for foreign exchange students 39 years ago has evolved into an organization with 425 members that continues to raise money for non-profits through its popular luncheon-lecture series

Kudos to the Livonia Town Hall Lecture series, which opens its 39th season Wednesday, Oct 9, with much-loved comedienne Vicki Lawrence, who began her career on the now legendary Carol Burnett Show

"Big names do draw, said series president Dee Dee Dittmar, who, along with a sixmember selection committee, often works through several New York talent agencies

Although the Lawrence appearance is a sell-out, the 2002-2003 season is just beginning, said Dittmar Future headliners include

■ Nov 20 - Steven K Hamp, president of Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village During his 20-plus years at the venerable institution. Hamp has been involved in every aspect of programming, collections and business

Jan 15 - Devin Scillian, anchorman on Channel 4, WDIV-TV (NBC) Scillian is the author of A is for America He recorded a companion CD, for which he wrote all the songs Scillian first publication was a children's book, Fibblestax, a second, One Nation, will soon be released by Sleeping Bear Press audience on a guided tour through one or more of the world's great art collections, including the Louvre in Paris, the National Gallery and the British Museum in London, the Vatican Museums in Rome, the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, and the National Gallery of Art in Washington D C

Dittmar, who missed just three lectures during the series entire history, said she used to keep her daughter home from school to baby sit younger siblings so she could attend the lectures

"I considered it my time," she said

Throughout the years, she has had favorite lecture guests - like actor David Niven who was a guest in her home after his appearance

"We asked him if he wanted to go out for dinner and he historians He will take his said, 'No, I'd rather watch the baseball game' He was exactly the kind of person in real life as he portrayed on the screen

Dittmar also recalled a par ticular anecdote about Dr Joyce Brothers, the psycholo gist with the famous blonde page boy who appeared on many syndicated television shows

It seems Brothers' polyester dress refused to be tamed of its static cling, and as she walked out on state her dress clung to her legs and showed her slip

Brothers was nonplused and continued her lecture

Other favorites included consumer advocate Esther Shapiro - "You couldn't believe someone who talks about consumer rights could be so funny' - and the hawk ısh fashıon commentator Mr Blackwell – "Funny, charming and complimentary

Dittmar the series longest running president, doesn t plan on missing any more lec

"I really enjoy listening to these speakers, finding people who offer such different aspects of living It's really fun to say, 'Oh yes, I've seen him "

All luncheon lecture series begin 10 30 am at the St Mary Cultural Center, 18100 Merriman Road, Livonia

Latter-Day Saints sponsors genealogy project

The Family History Center at years old the Church of Jesus Christ of latter-day Saints is sponsoring a Molecular Genealogy Research Project to gather information for a worldwide family tree on Oct 11, 2002 The event will be held 6-9 p m at the Family History Center, 37425 Woodward Ave, Bloomfield Hills

Molecular genealogy uses DNA samples from volunteers to create pedigrees based on genetic markers Participants will be asked to complete a four-generation biological pedigree chart, and experienced phlebotomists will draw approximately 8cc of blood for DNA marking The process will take less than 10 minutes Participants must be at least 18

Using genetic information and documented pedigrees (family trees) from volunteers, the Brigham Young University Molecular Genealogy Research Group (MGRG) will determine the genetic composition of major populations throughout the world To produce an informative database the study will use information from more than 100,000 people and at least 500 populations from all over the world

Genes passed from generation to generation are unique to specific populations, class or tribes Information from this study can be used to resolve "blocked" genealogy where information in incomplete or missing due to lack of records

This information can also be used for peoples that do not have traditional name-based genealogies There are many implications for genealogical and medical program in the future that will result from this study

Latter-day Saints has the largest collection of genealogical information in the world Their Web site, www.FamilySearch.org, contains approximately 35 6 million lineage-linked names and an international Genealogical Index containing 600 million ındıvıduals

GO WITH GOD

Life is a journey! One does not arrive here a fully developed human being and the task of becoming fully human is often compared to a long and sometimes perilous -though hopefully joyful and interesting- journey But it is a journey where for the most part we don't know where we are going to end up or in many cases where we are likely to pass or even what we should pack for the journey. Some people are in the habit of packing a tool kit when preparing for a vacation to help deal with the contingencies of travel, and particularly with the possibility of automotive breakdown. In the same way we should give some thought to what kind of 'tool kit, we should carry with us on our journey through life. What virtues and values should we carry? What kind of education should we pursue and what are the lessons of faith to carry with us? Whatever else we take on our journey through we should always take God with us as a traveling companion and guardian of our lives. As our Spanish-speaking friends say before a journey. Vaya con Dios for Go with God.

There is great gain in godliness with contentment; for we brought nothing into this world, and we cannot take anything out of this world; R.S.V. 1 Timothy 6:6-7

"My grandfather was a Baptist minister and I got my gift of music from him The first time I knew I had this special gift was at the age of eight I was sitting by a little brook I used to visit when I was young I just started singing something out loud that I never heard before

'The melody and words came to me so fast it scared me I ran home to tell my mother and find comfort from her Mama began to quiz me seriously about what had happened at the brook and then she began to cry She explained that my grandfathers gift of music had been passed on to me, and she also realized that I would go through both good and bad experiences because of it

She told me something that I have held onto all my life She said, 'Dottie, honey, you will pay a dear price for the anointing that the Lord has placed upon your life Guard it well"

With more than 70 albums to her credit - including five solo recordings and others with artists such as Elvis Presley, Whitney Houston, Sandi Patti, Johnny Cash and Vicki Winans - she was awarded "Songwriter

Canton near-perfect in shutting out Western

BY C.J RISAK STAFF WRITER

The weather delay only delayed the inevitable, as far as Canton was concerned

The Chiefs were primed and ready to go after Walled Lake Western on Friday The Warriors were the team that ended Canton's season last year, upsetting them in the state football playoffs after the Chiefs had beaten them soundly during the regular season

'We were pretty ticked off," said Canton coach Tim Baechler of Friday's cancellation 'We really wanted to play"

The Chiefs didn t lose any of that determination when they finally arrived at Western Saturday night Four firsthalf touchdowns staked them to a 27-0 lead and they never let up, ripping the Warriors 35-0

The win gave Canton a 3-1 record (Western's 1-3) as it heads into yet another game against one of the Western Lakes Activities Association's best teams The Chiefs play at unbeaten Livonia Stevenson Friday

The lopsidedness of Saturday's victory was certainly unexpected "I kinda thought the same thing,' said Baechler 'We just played really, really well That's the best football I've seen in my 11 years of coaching. We were near perfect"

And in all phases of the game - offense, defense, special teams Canton opened the game with a 12-play drive that culminated with a 21-yard Dave Nicoloff-to-Devin Thomas scoring pass It was the second key pass play of the drive, earlier, facing fourth-down-and-7, Nicoloff connected with Travis McKinney on a screen play that gained

The Chiefs' defense then did its part, forcing a three-

The Ocelots improved to 7-0 in the conference, they are 21-9 overall What Teeters liked best about the match was that it allowed him to change his lineup, alter his setup, finagle his formation In other words, tinker "We're still searching for ways to opti-

Agape jolts state-ranked Lancers

One might think Canton Agape Christian has had its share of big-time basketball victories — and it has, particularly over the past two seasons But few can match Tuesday's 38-35 triumph over Auburn Hills Oakland Christian in a game played at Discovery Middle School 'This is one of the biggest games we ever won, said Agape coach Chuck Henry "We had never beaten them before'

Oakland Christian was ranked ninth in Class D coming mto the game, but the Wolvennes never allowed the Lancers to take the lead after opening a 9-6 lead after one quarter Agape expanded it to 18-13 by halftime and to 30-22 after three quarters

"They made a run at the end and cut (the lead) to one," said Henry But with 30 left to play, Lisa Ther knocked down a jumper to increase Agape's lead to three, and that's how it ended

The Wolverines improved to 8-1 with the win Oakland Christian fell to 5-2

Amy Henry was, once again, the offensive catalyst for Agape, scoring 20 points Ther added

16 as the twosome accounted for all but three of the Wolverines' points A J Creps grabbed 13 rebounds

It was much the same for the Lancers Calı Crawford poured in 16 points and Becky Quinn added 10, the two of them totaling 26 of their team's 35 points

PCA 35, A P Inter-City Baptist 20 Plymouth Christian Academy put the defensive skids on Allen Park Inter-City Baptist, and the result was a lopsided win for the Eagles Tuesday at PCA

The win boosted the Eagles' record to 2-4 overall, 1-1 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference Inter-City slipped to 5-3 overall, 0-2 in the MIAC

'They had a really tough night shooting the ball,' said PCA coach Annie Malcolm "We played a zone most of the game and they couldn't handle it And we did a great job rebounding They were not getting any second shots'

Power play carries Erie past Plymouth

The Plymouth Whalers knew that with so many new faces in the lineup, it might be a while before they got into sync Opening the season at home Saturday against the defending Ontario Hockey League champion Erie Otters didn't make the adjustment any easier

WHALERS

And experience certainly was a factor The Otters, who also have a lot of key players to replace, scored a pair of power-play goals in the first period and goalie Adam Munro made them stand up as Erie blanked Plymouth, 2-0

Michael Blunden opened the scoring for the Otters, scoring a power-play goal at 10 28 of the first Brad Bonello and Mike Rice assisted

Rice made it 2-0 with the second power-play score with just 1 07 left in the first period, Bonello and Chris Campoli assisted

Munro was perfect in goal, stopping 28 Whaler shots Paul Drew had 20 saves for Plymouth The difference was easy to see Erie was 2-for-7 on the power play, the Whalers were 0-for-9

Plymouth has two home games this weekend, hosting Barrie on Friday and Guelph on Saturday Both games begin at 7 30 p m at Compuware Ice Arena

Stevenson simply too much for Salem

BY BRAD FMONS STAFF WRITER

Unbeaten Livonia Stevenson racked up 38 first-half points and shut down Salem's veer attack to earn a 45-7 football victory Saturday afternoon over the host Rocks at Centennial Educational Park

Stevenson is now 4-0 overall and 3-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association The loss drops Salem to 1-3 and 1-2

The Spartans held Salem to 88 total yards, 80 on the ground in 28 attempts The Rocks completed just one pass in eight attempts

The game was postponed from Friday night due to threatening weather

"The whole setting was kind of surreal coming back to play late in the afternoon," Stevenson coach Tim Gabel said "We were not crisp offensively Big plays and turnovers got the ball rolling for us

"Our defense carried the play They were outstanding because they gave us short fields We didn't have that many yards (244) for the amount of points we scored"

The Spartans went without leading ball carrier Matt McCowan, who sat out the game with a high ankle sprain suffered ın a 24-19 wın the week before agaınst Walled Lake Western He is expected back in the lineup for Friday's clash at home with Canton

A Dan Dınardı 37-yard punt return set up Jeff Lajdas 26yard field goal with 8 13 left in the first quarter to give Stevenson a 3-0 lead

Salem then fumbled on its own 14 and the Spartans took advantage as Kevin Domingo scored on a 4-yard touchdown run with 6 05 left in the first quarter

Senior linebacker John Rehberg then picked off a Salem pass and raced 30 yards for a TD later in the quarter to give Stevenson a 17-point lead

In the second quarter, Jim Spiker recovered a fumble at the Salem 37 and seven plays later, Bill Williams scored on a 2-yard TD run with 11 57 in the half Junior Dave King, who led the

Spartans with 87 yards in 10 touchdown run with 10 09 remaining until intermission Domingo added his second carries, then scored on a 67-yard

Big plays lead CC to victory over Rice

BY BRAD MONASTIERE STAFF WR TER

Redford Catholic Central's football team broke a centurylong losing streak Saturday night against archrival Birmingham Brother Rice

Granted, the century hasn t lasted too long, but the Shamrocks used big plays on offense and a playmaking defense to defeat the Warriors for the first time since 1999, 21-14, in front of almost 5,000 fans at Birmingham Groves High School

CC the states top ranked team in Division 1, improved to 4-0 on the season while Rice which had been tops in Division 2 - fell to 3-1

In the latest incarnation of one of the most storied gridiron rivalries in the state, CC gained a measure of revenge against a team that had won threestraight games in the series The typically reserved Shamrocks coach Tom Mach said winning this game meant more than other regular season games

'We have a great deal of respect for their program, and any time you can beat a team like Brother Rice, it's a great win for your program," Mach said after the Catholic League Central Division opener 'I'm just so proud of our players and the way they executed our game plan tonight

CC has typically built its championship teams from the defense, and it was the defense that dominated this game, particularly in the first half

The Warriors came into the game with one of the most explosive offenses anywhere, averaging 35 points in their first three wins

However, the interceptionhappy Shamrock defense limited Rice (0-1 Central) to seven points in the game's first 28

Our defensive coordinator

'We have a great deal of respect for their program, and any time you can beat a team like Brother Rice, it's a great win for your program. I'm just so proud of our players and the way they executed our game plan tonight.

Tom Mach Shamrocks coach

Rick Coratti did a great job of mixing up our defensive calls and taking them out of their rhythm, Mach said "They've got a great quarterback on their team, and they've scored a lot of points this season But I'm very proud of the way we executed the things we had to do defen-

Rice coach Al Fracassa said he was happy with his teams effort, but knew its four turnovers were too much to overcome against the defending Division 1 state champions

"We got down 14-0, but we didn't quit and came back against them," Fracassa said "We played hard, and had opportunities to score, but we just couldn't finish a couple down here"

CC's defense intercepted Rice QB Doug Pickens three times and forced four turnovers in the game On the offensive side, junior running back Derrick Brooks was the difference maker

Brooks played one of his best games of his young career, rushing for 199 yards on 23 carries and one highlight-film touchdown that gave the Shamrocks

This

a 14-point lead early in the fourth quarter

Derrick is a class young man and a great back," Mach said "Rice has a very good defense, and Derek did a great job of breaking tackles and getting big runs He's a very humble and hungry kid

Two of Brooks' runs took up 108 yards in the game, the first leading to a touchdown, the second the game-winning score

On the second long run, a 52yard scamper, he shook off three tacklers near the line of scrimmage, made two sideways cuts and outran the defense to give CC a 21-7 lead with 10 55 left in the game

His 56-yard run in the first quarter led to the first scoring of the game

On one play, he took the Shamrocks from their own 14yard line to the Brother Rice 30 Seven plays later, CC signal caller Dave Thomas lofted a scoring strike to junior wideout Alex Wojcik to give the Shamrocks a 7-0 lead

Brooks is a slippery back,' Fracassa added 'We had a tough time containing him

Rice junior Jeff Sander inter cepted a pass while laying on his back on CCs next drive, giving the Warriors a golden opportunity to tie the game

But CC's Randell Means answered with an interception in the end zone to kill Rices best scoring chance of the first half Means played the pass perfeetly, getting in front of the receiver to make a leaping pick.

The Shamrocks scored a key touchdown in the waning moments of the first half, driving 57 yards in just 34 second to go up 14-0 at halftime Thomas completed three straight passes on the drive before finding junior tight end Kyle Smith down the right sidelines for a 29-yard touchdown pass

The Warriors got on the scoreboard with 16 seconds left in the third quarter when Pickens hit senior Anthony Jackson from five yards out, cutting CC's lead in half

After Brooks' spectacular 52yard TD run, Rice responded with a 76-yard drive that stalled on the Shamrock 16-yard line

Pickens caught a doublereverse pass from senior receiver Brian Mahler, and was tackled hard out of bounds, knocking over the Rice bench

CC was flagged for two late hit penalties in the ensuing tussle on the field, but the Warriors were unable to take

Rice's Jason Horton plowed through the CC defense for a 2yard touchdown with four minutes left in the game to make it a 21-14 score, but the Shamrocks went to their always-reliable running game to run out the clock

Brooks and sophomore running back Eric Vojtkofsky ripped off consecutive runs of 16 and 15 yards on the final drive to wrap up the victory

Pickens completed 13 of 33 passes for 131 yards, two scores and three interceptions Thomas was 7-for-13 for 83 yards, two scores and two interceptions on the CC side

Vojtkofsky picked up 45 yards on 10 carnes for the Shamrocks

Canton also got superb runs from Sarah Stobbe, 13th in 21 22, Carrie Oleskewicz, who was 18th in 21 43, and Kristen Ward, who

SALEM GETS STRONG SPLIT

Salem divided its cross country team last Saturday, sending its top seven runners to the Jackson Invitational at Sharp Park and its next seven to the Redford Catholic Central Invitational at Cass Benton

At Jackson, the Rocks finished fifth out of 17 teams, at CC, they were seventh out of 11 teams

We are moving in a positive direction again, which makes me happy," said Salem coach Dave Gerlach "We are continuing to take steps toward our long term goals by improving as a team and as individual athletes at these invitationals

"We are working on the development of a tight pack with a leader or two We got that today from our top five at Jackson and Catholic

Particularly pleasing to Gerlach was the performance of Lauren Kane at Jackson She finished 21st overall in 20 33 Amanda Kassem was next best for the Rocks in 42nd (21 22), followed by Lusa

Keski-Hynnila, 43rd (21 25), Stephanie Hajduk, 46th (21 31), and Laura Friedman, 47th (21 32)

Saline was first in the meet with 53 points, with Ann Arbor Pioneer second (99), Traverse City Central third (150), Ann Arbor Huron fourth (180) and Salem fifth (195)

At CC, the Rocks were paced by Meghan Galvin, who was 32nd (22 27) Lauren Medley was 34th (22 29), with Monica Przebienda 35th (22 35), Kim Towne 37th (22 36) and Katie Dondzila 38th (2244)

Salem is at the WLAA City Jamboree at 4 20 p m today, then travels to the Sterling Heights Stevenson Invitational Saturday plays-and-out sequence on Western Brandon Wilcox did his part on special teams, returning the ensuing punt 20 yards to give Canton field position in Western's end of the field

Thomas and Nicoloff connected again on a pass play, this one covering 20 yards as Thomas reached the Warriors' 3 Reggie Joyner scored on a 2-yard run and Canton was ahead, 14-0

Another three-and-out, with a second-straight good punt return of 18 yards by Wilcox that put the ball at the Western 45, led to a 38-yard scoring run by McKinney The extra-point kick was blocked, but Canton's lead was 20-0 McKinney scored again before halftime, this time on a 21-yard run, making it

The Chiefs' defense continued to sparkle, with just one play that came close to irritating Baechler a 50yard pass completion early in the second half on a ball that was tipped by a Canton defender "We should have picked it," said Baechler Western finished with just 113 yards and five first downs for the

The game's final score was a 25-yard pass from Nicoloff to Joyner The Chiefs got a two-point conversion from Thomas to make it 35-0, implementing the running clock. "That felt pretty darn good, to get that mercy clock going," said Baechler

Nicoloff finished with 4-of-5 passing for 85 yards and two TDs The Chiefs rushed for 211 yards on 41 carries, with McKinney gaining 99 yards on 10 tries (with two TDs) and Joyner adding 86 yards on 15 attempts Thomas had two catches for 51 yards

"Going to Western and then Stevenson, we knew it was going to be tough," said Baechler "It was nice to play that well, instead of one nail-biter to another" As for Stevenson, the Canton coach said, "They're well-coached and they've got a lot of athletes I like what they do offensively - they bring it We'll have to bring it too" Thus far this season, the Chiefs have done just that.

Necessity easement not a given

Can you tell me what is meant by the term "easement by necessity" as a legal matter and how do we establish it?

A party claiming an easement bears the burden of proving it by a preponderance of the evidence

In establishing whether you are entitled to an easement by necessity, presumably over someone else's property, such as a road, you must prove that the area in question was the only available means of access to your property

Mere inconvenience or even reasonable necessity won't be sufficient if there are alternative routes, even if these routes over other properties prove more difficult or more expensive

I've heard the concept of adverse possession, but I'm wondering If it applies to a road that has been dedicated to the public but is rarely used by the public

If, in fact, the road you have in question was accepted for dedication by the applicable public authority, it can't be acquired by adverse possession

If, in fact, the property abutting the roadway is also part of the dedication, a person cannot claim that property as well by adverse possession because a public dedication exists

Don't laugh, but didja' hear...

BY DOUG FUNKE STAFF WRITER

Boring? Who said real estate is boring?

Every deal is different There's excitement There's humor There's the unusual, the bizarre, the embarrassing

There's even danger at times

If you don't believe it, listen to sales professionals recount zany experiences in the field Welcome to another edition of real estate follies, where anything can happen

Tim Winter, associate broker with Red Carpet Keim Carter Reed in Clarkston recounts helping a referred client move back to Michigan from Georgia

"We found her a house It was being rented at the time of closing and the renter had 30 days to move out," Winter said "After 30 days, he decided he didn't want to move out We had to help get him evicted The sheriff moved everything

"One night after work I went over The house was dark I tried the door and it opened I turned on the light and a guy was sitting on the carpet, pointing a gun at me I said, 'I'm sorry, I m going,' closed the door and left I went back the following day He was gone"

Winter said he learned something from the experi-

"Maybe the most important thing you should do is let people in the office know when you're doing things - showing houses or meeting people," he said "If something would have happened, no one would have known

Del Moore's Kodak Moment was more on the humorous

I was showing the most expensive house I had ever shown and there was no driveway in, just wooden rails on either side," said the associate broker with Coldwell Banker Schweitzer in Birmingham

'It had just rained and this was in the days when you really dressed up I was in heels and a dress, slipped and went into mud up to my knee

'He was so upset I was laughing All I could do was take off my other shoe, walk to the grass and see if there was a hose outside where I could wash myself off

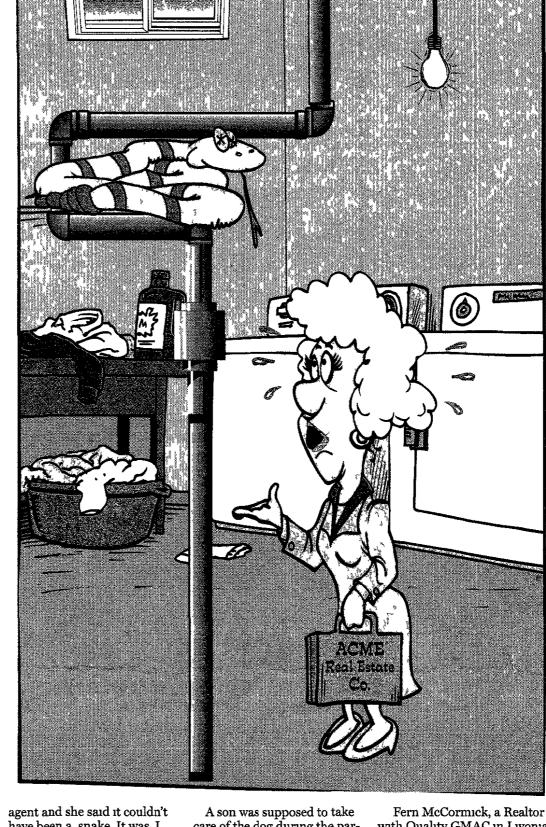

"He bought the house," Moore recalled 'I guess if I had got terribly upset or mad, I may have lost the client or sale In real estate, if you don't keep your sense of humor, you may as well forget it"

A reptile figured in a magic memory for Nancy J Howell, associate broker with Century 21 Sakmar in Rochester

"I was showing a house to a pregnant woman - she was nine months along - a vacant house in Oakland Township and we went into the basement," Howell said "I was in one area, she was in another 'I thought I was seeing things, but what I saw was a snake about six-feet long draped over a pipe I was just staring at it It had died and his skin was shedding I didn't want her (pregnant client) to see it so she wouldn't be upset I took her by the arm and led her to another area

"Later, I called the listing have been a snake It was I wasn't dreaming," Howell said The lesson learned -

'Probably go and check around first But you can't always do that,' she said

An animal also was at the center of a bizarre situation involving Brian Waskiewicz, associate broker with RE/MAX Classic in Canton

I was showing houses in the $300,000 price range in Van Buren Township," he said 'At the door I heard a dog barking It sounded like a huge dog, but I figured a big house, expensive house, the dog would be penned up

"We went in and the house stinks terrible," Waskiewicz said "There's crap all over The dog is running loose It's a Hooch like in the movie - what was its name, Beethoven - and it was slobbering in the kitchen My buyers are hiding behind me'

Waskiewicz said he took some food and water into the back yard and the dog followed, apparently grateful for some human attention

"We didn't even show the house I called the listing agent We never went back,' he care of the dog during the parents' absence Instead, he took off, himself, for an extended period, leaving the pet loose inside with food and water

Don't leave a teenager in charge of a house when you're selling it," Waskiewicz said, adding that it happens more often than people might think

Meriem Kadı, a Realtor with Remerica Family in Westland, once beat a hasty exit from a showing after her imagination and that of a client got the better of them

"I was showing my best friend condos in a rural area,' Kadı saıd "It was dark We fumbled with the lockbox, one of those situations where you can t find the lights And we thought there was a body in the

"My friend said, "This is too spooky Let's get out of here' We didn't even finish the walkthrough," Kadı added, chagrined at the memory

Of course, when Kadı later followed-up, there was no body or nobody 'Probably just a clump of clothes," she said

The experience wasn't without its lesson, though Don't let your imagination fool you Have more faith," Kadı said with Quality GMAC in Livonia, played a leading role in a little comedy very early in her career about 30 years ago

An associate and I went to hold an open house The lady (seller) was not the best housekeeper Sugar and bread were all over the kitchen counter Underwear was on the dresser, on the bed

"We put the bread away. wiped the counter, stuffed all the underwear under the bed," McCormick said When we were ready to go, what to do? We pulled the underwear out and put it back on the dresser and bed, spilled some sugar on the counter and put the bread back out The seller never knew, but we had a clean open house" McCormick, however, quickly learned from the experience that forthrightness was the better policy

Be frank with an owner what you expect, how the house should be at all times company perfect," she said 'Our homeowners today are very conscientious about cleanliness, neatness and presenting a home well"

Mortgage

Tim 'Timbo'

Two loans sometimes work better

We loan officers can usually select individual mortgages to properly fulfill our clients' needs - but not always

In many cases, I find that using mortgage combinations yields a better result than would the use of a single loan product

One of my favorite mortgage combinations involves the addition of a Home Equity Line-of-Credit, or HELOC, onto a conventional mortgage

This special loan combination can be used for refinances and for purchases and is especially useful for borrowers who are paying for Private Mortgage Insurance

As an example, consider the young couple who bought their home with a very small down payment a year ago These borrowers are likely trying to improve both their interest rate and to reduce or eliminate their mortgage insurance payments

Because it's unlikely that their home has appreciated much in just one year, they may not be able to accomplish both objectives with a single loan They could probably reduce their interest rate, but will not likely shake their PMI

The combination solution calls for them to take out two separate new loans to replace their old one

The first would be a conventional loan written at 80 percent of their home's current value, and the second would be a HELOC large enough to pay off the balance of the first mortgage, plus the new loan's costs

By structuring the refinance in this manner, the borrowers will avoid PMI and can pay as little as just the interest on the HELOC

Also, since PMI expenses offer no tax benefits, borrowers better their situation with a combination loan because the HELOC interest is tax-deductible

As a technique, they can voluntarily keep their payments at the pre-refinance level, and apply the overage towards the principal on the new HELOC to pay it down quickly

Not all borrowers qualify for combination loans Others may not want to mail off two payments, one for the mortgage and one for the HELOC, each month However, for the fiscally savvy, the tax benefits and the improved cash flow for the new combination mortgage more than offset the additional effort

Introducing

THE PARKS AT STONEWOOD

In a neighborhood interwoven with 90 acres of private parks and protected green space, you come by neighbors naturally Where homes are secluded in woodlands with pristine views and amply sized home sites that offer families room to grow Even where streets of homes are embellished with front porches reminiscent of small town America nature is just steps away

This is the irresistible appeal of life at The Parks at Stonewood A collection of communities enveloped within 256 lushly wooded acres including the Suzanne G Knorr Nature Preserve in Clarkston Michigan

Come see the magnificent homes, and amenities like our swim club nature trails and tot lot playground, that make the prospect of nesting here so enticing

Throughout Europe, they were called gleemen In Africa, the term was griot. They did the same job they visited communities to entertain and educate primarily by telling stories

The tradition lives on The Detroit Story League will bring three acclaimed professional storytellers to the Livonia Civic Center Library Friday-Saturday, Sept 27-28 as part of its annual storytelling festival There will be workshops as well as performances both days Ann Bonnelli, one of the co-organizers of the festival, said the Detroit Story League was formed in 1912 by Mary Conover, the first children's librarian in the city Since its creation, members of the league have traveled to schools, homes and even shopping centers through their motto of "Service Through Storytelling'

'They get together on a regular basis to meet and perfect the art of storytelling," Bonnellı said

Originally, it was almost a social organization run by volunteers Now, professionals like librarians and teachers fill those ranks

There is some help from outside too The National Storytelling Network (formerly the Association for the Preservation and Perpetuation of Storytelling) sends storytellers out around the country to meet with local groups, host workshops and work on helping them refine their storytelling pow-

Barbara McBride-Smith will entertain at Storytelling 2002 in Livonia.

The form, she said, is old as the hills "It's part of the oral tradition, oral histories," Bonnelli said "It is a facet of learning and entertainment that tells stories by painting word pictures Before radio and television, this was the entertainment people had Some were stories about things that happened, others were personal anecdotes"

Barbara McBride-Smith is a librarian from Tulsa, Oak. She said that putting a definitive tag on what storytelling is easier said than done

"We've been trying to define storytelling for the last 10 years," she said "Nobody can PLEASE SEE STORYTELLING, J7

come up with a definition everyone can

She said it is an art form, a type of performance art that can teach as well as entertain It's not to be confused with story time, as schoolchildren might know it.

"There's nothing between the storyteller and the audience," McBride-Smith said "There's no book, no script, the words come from the heart and mind of the storyteller It's like theater but the fourth wall doesn't exist"

Play cries for dignity of the mentally ill

BY LINDA CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Laura Gumina called me out of the blue a few weeks ago to tell me she d written a play about living with the stigma of mental illness I'd wondered what happened to the Farmington Hills actress I d interviewed often for community theater productions

Gumina explained since the last time I saw her playing one of the lead roles in Trinity House Theatre's production of Grace & Glorie in Livonia a couple of years ago, she'd put on 60-70 pounds due to the

'For many it was overcoming the fear of coming to rehearsal or saying it wrong. Most don't have theater experience. It's been frustrating artistically but they're people who've struggled all their lives like me.'

Laura Gumina Playwright

"meds she was taking to prevent another suicide attempt I learned Gumina could function as long she took 8-10 meds every morning When she did it was possible to work with emotionally impaired and learning disabled in Southfield schools as a creative dramatics specialist When she didn't Gumina ended up in the hospi-

But now life was looking up She and Southfield resident Sue Kennedy were trying to bring Cry Dignity to the stage The drama is a work in progress but then, so is Gumina She was 19 and a sophomore at Northwestern University in Illinois when the first bout of mental illness hit Gumina finally earned a degree in elementary education from Wayne State University at the age of 37 She would try to kill herself and drop out Throughout the years, she's been hospitalized a total of 16

"I couldn't go to classes My self-esteem was low I was paranoid I felt walking my dog people were looking at me It was a disability,' said Gumina whos now 52

Bi-polar, manic depressive What we call it isn't important Gumina found the strength and courage to tell me and others about the daily struggles of living with mental illness by writing Cry Dignity

The play received good reviews recently when it was presented at a conference in the Renaissance Center for the International Association of Psychosocial Rehabilitative Services, but it hasn't been

Like Gumina, cast members have spent most of their lives dealing with mental demons so along the way to presenting a production actors have come and gone

But Gumina isn't giving up Auditions will be held 5 30 p m Monday-Tuesday, Oct 7-8, at Mercy Network West, 1885 West Pontiac Trail, between Welsh and Decker, Walled Lake For more information, call (248) 668-3440

"For many it was overcoming the fear of coming to rehearsal or saying it wrong Most don t have theater experience Its been frustrating artistically but they're people who've struggled all their lives like me," said Gumina, a graduate of Berkley High School

I guess that's why it was so easy to write A lot of it came off my fingers so fast I love the English language and I've worked in theater so long My life literally started in my mid to late 40s I wasn't in mainstream culture I was in hospitals but when I was in a play I could play in a role When I put on that hat, I could function

The cast of Cry Dignity rehearses for the play dealing with the stigma of mental illness

Barry, a teenager faced with mental illness in the play couldn't He ended up killing himself

'Barry wants his father to understand he's mentally ill and never does," said Gumina "I give a lot of examples in the play of mental illness - one woman who drank Clorox bleach heard voices Command hallucinations can make you hurt yourself All characters come from real life, either from people I've met or learned about while doing research for

It's really true you develop a character and they take on a life of their own They come out of that value system you vé given them"

Sue Kennedy never doubted that Gumina was the one to write the play when she decid ed to apply for a Community Block Grant Kennedy is a clin ical manager at Mercy

Network West in Walled Lake, a case management provider for the mentally ill through Community Mental Health

'I knew Laura had this talent when I saw her perform in The Queen of Bingo at Trinity House Theatre She took the ball and ran with it She never waited for the grant," said Kennedy 'I think that's because she realized the play is important because stigma is such a huge problem for people with mental illness

They have negative feelings about themselves and absorb society's misconceptions but they're more like us than not lıke us

"We didn't receive the grant and have had problems finding funding There's been difficulty with memorizing and actors not able to continue but we're hoping eventually to produce it somewhere in the area For the auditions we prefer actors with mental illness but we're not excluding others It's a positive thing to have both It's a wonderful way to reduce stigma"

Rehearsal for the Jewish Ensemble Theatre's season opener is about to begin when Bob Devin Jones asks 'when was the last time you've had a dinner discussion about race?

The question is meant to cause uneasiness just as the play hes directing Written by Tony Award-winning playwright Mark Medoff, Tommy J and Sally deals with issues of race, religion and diversity in America Like Jones, the intense drama pulls no punches as it follows Tommy J on a journey for answers

Jones believes so strongly in the message hes traveled across the country three times to direct the two-person drama making its Midwest premiere at the Jewish Ensemble

Director Bob Devin Jones listens intently to the dialogue exchanged between the actors playing the obsessed fan and pop music singer in Tommy J and

Theatre Oct 2 to Sunday, Nov 3, in the Aaron DeRoy Auditorium at the Jewish Community Center in West Bloomfield

Commissioned by the Kennedy Center for its New Vision/New Voices Festival, the play focuses on Tommy J, a young African American who lived with a Jewish family for a year Now in his early 30s, Tommy J is enraged that more than a decade earlier the daughter believed he burglarized the family's

Theres scant plays that talk about cross races not written by African Americans," said Jones "Its a contemporary play that will lead the audience to hopefully see beyond stereotypes of one another

"Tommy J believes shes Madeline Rosenberg, the girl whose family he lived with the last year of high school It's loosely based on something that happened to Mark 13-years later she becomes a famous pop star He believes she sent out a message of reconciliation in one of her songs and breaks into her apartment. The grace is they're changed by this encounter

One minute he's joking around the next Craig Wallace turns Tommy J's anger on Sally Hemmings, taunting her with rapid fire accusations about bobbing her nose to hide her Jewish identity Like Jones, Wallace thinks the issues in the play need to be spot. lighted He played one of the two lead roles twice before in professional productions including the world premiere by Woolly Mammoth Theatre Company and Theater J ın Washıngton, DC Wallace has worked professionally in theater since earning a master of fine arts degree at Pennsylvania State University a decade ago

"Mark has written such a unique character that shows his need to be loved and respected," said Wallace "He's blaming so many people and I think in the end he learns to take responsibility for his actions There's so many different facets of the character it's exhilarating to attempt

"Mark's propensity for language is incredible It's like Shakespearean dialogue and can be difficult to attack. My favorite part is the beginning from an intensity standpoint Tommy J's not menacing and it's my last opportunity to relax Once he breaks into her apartment he's on a freight train"

Unfortunately, Sally is tied to the tracks This crazed fan, or so she thinks, has broken into her home intent on harming her Race isn t the issue for Stephanie Stephan's char-

Initially she's like a lot of performers strong, confident. Shes put in this situation where we see just how insecure she is, said Stephan "As a woman, its putting yourself into a situation where I think he's going to kill me God willing I'll never have to experience that It reaffirms that women are a lot more vulnerable than most of the time they portray themselves to be She puts up a

Barriers are what Evelyn Orbach's trying to break down at the Jewish Ensemble Theatre Last season the artistic director started a Stop Hate Campaign to draw people together in peace It continues this season with thought provoking plays such as Tommy J and Sally by the author of Children of a Lesser God and When You Comin' Back, Red Ryder?

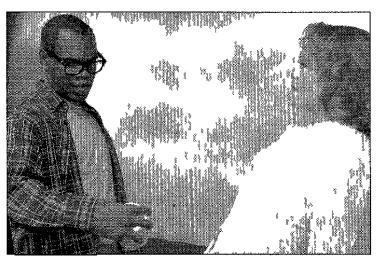

While she's just as excited about the rest of the season which includes a new Guest Artist Series that begins Oct 14 with a discussion by Elmore Leonard, Monika Essen and Jeff Bass on the mystery of creativity, and a Nov 3 Bar Mıtzvah fundraiser celebrating the theater's 13th season, Orbach stresses the importance of presenting plays such as Tommy J and Sally

"I had been looking for a play that dealt with Jews and Blacks, White and Blacks, the prejudices we have," said Orbach 'T've always felt theater is relevant, a platform where you can explore issues It's a voice We at JET feel strong about opening doors, continuing the Stop Hate Campaign, partnering with organizations like the NAACP to seek peaceful resolutions, for us all to join hands instead of a lot of people going on our own path

Tommy J and Sally is a very edgy play, an exciting play exploring interracial kinds of issues I think it's a positive play although on the way you might not think so It's one of the most honest plays I've seen on the subject It gives real hope at the end"

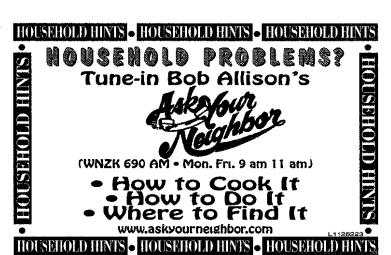

Orbach said she 'doesn't want to give away the play It's definitely for adults, high school seniors and junior We allude to things not for kids It's provocative It explores racism and anti-semitism"

Book Beat attracts nationally-known children's book authors

BY ALICE RHEIN CORRESPONDENT

This week will be a busy one for the Book Beat in Oak Park Having celebrated its 20th anniversary earlier this month, the independent bookstore owner by Colleen Kammer and Cary Loren is sponsoring several children's book authors and illustrators in what Kammer refers to as her "link in the chain"

"I love bringing readers together with the authors and artists When children have a book signed to them, it creates a strong connection, and it's a self-esteem thing knowing that a special person signed ıt," saıd Kammer

Two-time Newbery Award winner Lois Lowry says that at 65, she's ready to slow down on her speaking engagements, but when it comes to places like the Book Beat she said, "They are passionate about the same things that I am and it's a pleasure to be with them? Lowry, whose most recent book Gooney Bird Greene, introduces young readers to the elements of storytelling, will speak at the Berkley High Theater from 12 30 p m -2 30 p m on Saturday, Sept 28 Lowry's books, which include Summer to Die and The Giver, are geared to older children, but her latest is about a very precocious 2nd grad-

"I skipped second grade, and have always envied the second grade experience,' said

On Friday, Sept 27, Kammer is bringing California author Pam Munoz Ryan to speak and autograph books at the Detroit Main Library from 9 30 a m -11 30 a m

Scholastic Books just published Ryan's book When Marian Sang, the true story of Marian Anderson, the African-American singer who in 1939, drew an integrated crowd of more than 75,000 people to the Lincoln Memorial

'Since it's on a Friday, classes can attend,' said Kammer, who often has to encourage publishers to allow authors to visit this area "It's always New York and the West Coast, but we're not a flyover I m connecting with the community and trying to say, 'We support this Don't ignore us "

Caldecott Award winning illustrator David Small certainly hasn't ignored the area Growing up in Northwest Detroit, Small was deeply influenced by the Diego Rivera murals at the Detroit Institute of Arts And in his latest book, So You Want to be an Inventor? written by Judith St George, Small was able to revisit another childhood passion -- the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village

I remember those field trips and looking at that huge Allegany Railroad train It was a thrill to have a chance to put it in the book," says Small, who used the black

trays Zeus, the king of the through sweet talk than by hurling thunderbolts

iron behemoth to illustrate the "real McCoy," a lubricant could be used while a train

Small has also illustrated three of wife Sarah Stewart's ny him at an in-store book invented by Elijah McCoy that engine was running books, and she will accompasigning at the Book Beat from 6 30-8 p m on Thursday, Oct

3 The duo will also be featured at a luncheon that day at the Birmingham Community House

Small's latest book features humorous two-page spreads that cover the well-known inventions of Ben Franklin and Thomas Edison to the more obscure work of Georges de Mestral (inventor of Velcro) and movie star

Hedy Lamarr, who helped invent a system for guiding torpedoes by radio signals

With training as an editorial cartoonist, Small is very successful at delivering a punch on each page "That's my aim, said Small, who now resides on Michigan's west side, "I never want to leave kids out of the joke, and at the same time, I want to have adults be entertained "

Caldecott Award winning illustrator Jerry Pinkney entertains his readers with a newly illustrat ed version of Hans Christian Andersen's fairy tale The Nightingale While the original tale is set in China, Pinkney moved to setting to Morocco where his watercolors feature rich costumes and spectacular African architecture Pinkney will speak and autograph books at the Oak Park Library 3 30 p m -5 30 p m Saturday, Sept 28

I'm a passionate fan," said Kammer, acknowledging her lifelong love of children's books "I m more interested in children's literature It's about possibilities'

And this week, Kammer is making it possible to see and hear from several of this country's most notable children's authors and illustrators

Storytelling, she said, is direct communication between the teller and the audience The storyteller doesn't know exactly what will happen beforehand, everything depends on the audience Unlike theater, the story line of an oral tale very likely will change from performance to performance

McBride-Smith's work covers a range of different genres, but she said she is best known for her interpretations of classical Greek mythology She's had a love of the material that stretches back to her own days

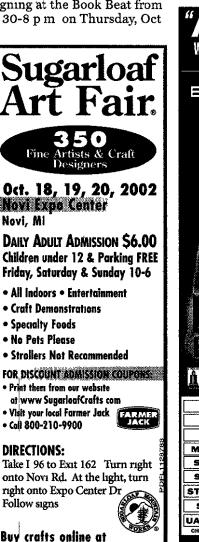

"I love it, it really hits home with me," she said "It's full of adventure and debauchery, blood and guts and love and war"

In an art form that's entirely performer-driven, naturally she takes license with the material McBride-Smith said all of the characters — gods and mortals alike - are people she grew up around in Waco, gods, as a gun-toting mayor who gets what he wants more Buy crafts online at www.CraftsOnline.com

But the main focus is a relief of Sagear as an adult looking at herself as a child Flowing lines of energy radiate from the portrait Jones carved into a 430-pound piece of white alabaster Surrounding the two are four painted panels featuring a crowd with nondescript faces They signify the people touched by Sagear, and she by them A black panel behind the painting makes the figures look like they're floating

Even though Jones spent more than 1,000 hours designing and creating the 19-foot wide by 10-foot tall memorial wall that greets students and staff entering the new Plymouth High School, it was definitely a labor of love Carving a brief biographical sketch about Sagear ingrained in him the strength it took her just to survive He thought about Sagear from the first moment he sketched the mural out on paper then onto the stone His arms never tired during the long hours he ate into the alabaster with air chisels and high speed grinders before bringing out the color and veining of the stone with tongue oil

BUSY ARTIST

The many tasks involved in completing the mural called on Jones skills as an artist and architect. Jones earned a master of fine arts degree from Wayne State University in 1990 and three years later went on to learn the art of stone carving from Jay Lefkowitz at the Birmingham

Bloomfield Art Center Jones currently is exhibiting his two- and three-dimensional work in a one person show at the Cass Cafe in Detroit and preparing to accept Best of Show for The Artists Among Us, the Wayne County Council for the Arts, History & Humanities exhibit opening at Madonna University in Livonia Friday, Oct 4 But before then Jones will drop off the works he donated to the Midwest AIDS Prevention Project auction Saturday, Sept 28, at the Edsel and Eleanor Ford House

A licensed practicing architect Jones has worked on residential projects in Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills and West Bloomfield so the challenge of bending the lead frame encasing the mural was not as difficult as it could have been. The frame still took two people three days to wrap the lead around the wood by

"The thing that most affects me is trying to picture her as a small child, all the struggles she had to get her through her daily life, the strength and spirit she had Imagine the strength she must have had to try to express that spirit she had,' said Jones of Plymouth

'The steps under the sculpture refer to her time at the old Plymouth high school (now Central Middle School) where she scooted up the stairs on her butt and also indicates the adversity she overcame The words courage and perseverance refer to the way she approached her life"

Sagear's courage and perseverance is what inspired Debbie Madonna to lead the effort to create a memorial to her school friend She still has $2,500 to raise to pay off the nearly

$30,000 mural but donations keep coming in one by one as people here Sagear's story

ABOUT SAGEAR

Born in 1950, Sagear contracted polio at the age of 17 months and endured many operations but that didn't prevent her from serving as the March of Dimes Poster Girl when she was four years old and spokesperson for the Plymouth Community Fund (now the United Way) at 16 After graduating from the old Plymouth High School in 1969 she went on to work as an office manager and became a computer whiz She died from complications of pneumonia in 1992 at the age of 42

'This is a person I learned from,' said Madonna who annually organizes the Music in the Park series for the Plymouth Community Arts Council "She was very single-minded in wanting to be part of the group She didn't want any help She wanted to help others After contracting polio she spent 1 and 1/2 years in the hospital where her brothers and sisters couldn't even visit her

I want people to be appreciative of people like this and help people who need help and think about how are we going to look back at how we treat people When students and staff walk into the new high school I want the mural to be a piece of art that they like but I want them to realize what it takes for people to overcome obstacles Its that spirit"

Adding European flavor to Dearborn's quaint downtown district is Ciao Ciao is an artfully approached, Italian nook that is more a reflection
