Frosh survey good tool for school district

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM
STAFF WRITER

Ninth grade can be one of the scariest grades of all - which is just one reason high school freshmen were surveyed about their first-year experiences last month.

Sharon Streaun, Salem assistant principal, said the response was overwhelming, with 1,430 students filling out the voluntary surveys. Students could either fill them out anonymously, or include their names so they could be contacted by school counselors or club and organization leaders.

But the surveyors wanted to give students time to adjust to the routine before asking them to fill out the surveys.

"We really wanted to know how they were doing at the sixth week," Streaun said. "It gave the kids a chance to settle in."

Settling in may be tough for some freshmen. The more difficult courses and the pressures of fitting in can be overwhelming - turning freshman year into a sink-or-swim experience. These are the main reasons ninth-graders were targeted in the survey, Streaun said.

"We're always very interested in ninth grade. Every time you change a grade a whole level, there's a child who's in transition. Expectations are certainly much greater," she said.

The survey is part of an ongoing high school renewal process, which includes several guiding principles. Some of these include reducing movement of students between buildings, outside evaluation of secondary curriculum, adult mentoring program and implementing and enforcing a strong code of conduct.

Survey results are still being tallied and are expected to be released next week. Preliminary findings show that Canton, Salem and Plymouth ninth-graders are overwhelmingly interested in joining school-sponsored clubs. More than 100 expressed an interest in theater activities.

The Park added a new theater instructor this year. In addition, student thespians can cultivate their acting chops by joining the Park Players, which presents a variety of productions each school year.

Other interests and concerns expressed in the freshman surveys:

- Making friends
- Improving reading
- Strategies for better understanding teachers
- Student mentors
- Talking to someone about how things are going

Clerks hope to clear up ballot confusion

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

Local clerks are finding some confusion exists over the wording of the state ballot proposal that would eliminate straight-ticket voting in the general election, and they're hoping to educate voters before they hit the polls Nov. 5.

The confusion, according to Plymouth Township Clerk Marilyn Massengill, arises over which elections are affected by the proposal. The answer is that the ballot proposal, Proposal 02-01 Straight-Ticket Voting, eliminates straight-ticket voting only in the general election.

Voters who have previously simply voted "Republican" or "Democrat" will now have to vote in each race individually. "We're getting a lot of phone calls from people thinking it means they're going to be able to vote individually in a primary election," Massengill remarks to the Suburban Republican Women's Club before heading out the door under the concerned gaze of an aide eyeing the day's schedule.

Nothing in his gait - or his mood - suggested he'd repeated the routine hundreds of times over the last two months and was spending his 52nd straight day on the road across Michigan as the Republican nominee for lieutenant governor. Many of those days stretch to 15 and 16 hours in a motor home affectionately dubbed "The Beast."

On Thursday, Bennett's "entourage" included state Rep. Laura Toy, who is running for a seat in the newly carved 6th Senate District, two of her staffers, and driver Ryan Boeskool, 29, who works for the state Republican Party.

The campaign swing through the 6th District - where Toy faces a tough battle against Westland Democrat Eileen DeHart - was fast paced but hardly glamorous. Such is political life when you're holding down the Number Two spot on the ticket.

ENERGIZING EXPERIENCE

Bennett wouldn't have it any other way. The 51-year-old Canton resident and state senator says Dick Posthumus' decision in August to tap him as his running mate has given him a new perspective on state government and life in Michigan. "It's been an eye-opener for me," Bennett said. "The Beast rolled through western Wayne County. I always thought life was wonderful but in a small way - my family, my neighborhood. But now I look all over this state and I realize it's not just me."

Of course, Bennett recognizes there are plenty of problems that need attention as well, from the state's teetering economy to preservation of the Great Lakes. That's the major reason he's out on the trail day after day - to convince voters Posthumus and the Republicans offer better solutions than Democrat Jennifer Granholm.

STILL OPTIMISTIC

His optimism is unfailing, even as most polls show Granholm maintaining a double-digit lead. "I just don't believe it," he said of the surveys. "I don't put stock in the polls. If you did, then Gil Hill would be mayor of Detroit."

Bennett said internal polls within the campaign show Posthumus trailing slightly. "There are a huge number of people who haven't been paying attention and won't make their minds up until the last couple of days," he said.

Asked if themes like values and integrity, which the Republicans have made a staple of the campaign, resonate with voters, Bennett said they are "sub-issues" that do have an impact. "Most people don't make up their minds on who to support based on just one thing," he said.

Bennett also called Granholm's stand on reparations "a real issue," and not just a trumped-up charge by the Republican Party meant to divide black and white voters. "Look, in Chicago they just passed an ordinance that bans the city from doing business with any companies that have a history of using slave labor - even if it was 200 years ago," he said. "I don't think it's unreasonable to believe that something like that could be implemented at a state level."

A stop for lunch at Westland's Beaver Creek restaurant was a 50-50 split between nourishment and campaigning as Bennett worked the small room, attempting the delicate task of making an impression but not interfering with diners.

ERIC BRONSON | OBSERVER

PERSONAL CONTACT

Back on the motor home, Bennett referred to a study that put the eventual outreach from one personal contact at 85 people. "Of course, they could be saying positive things about you or negative," he said.

The Beast - a Michigan-made CruiseMaster 3400 with 50,000 miles on the odometer (high for a recreational vehicle) and an interior that apparently dates to the Reagan administration - has been Bennett's home away from home since Labor Day. He's been as far north as Calumet at the tip of the Upper Peninsula and as far west as Lake Michigan.

It's hardly anonymous with its huge red and blue "Posthumus/Bennett Michigan Values, Ready to Lead" signs adorning both sides. People are always honking and waving as they pass, weren't on the schedule," Bennett said.

PARTNERSHIP

"We have a whole system worked out," Bennett said. "While Ryan's driving I get to rest and when I go in and do an event he can get some sleep."

Bennett calls Boeskool his "coach" and something of a confidant. Boeskool isn't afraid to issue stinging criticism of something he's said from the stump or a gentle pep talk about staying upbeat and on point, according to Bennett.

At the Clarenceville stop, block scheduling was the main topic of conversation between principal David Simowski, Toy and Bennett.

The governor's race drew a mixed reaction from some Clarenceville students during the late-afternoon visit.

"I'm interested, but I don't follow it that much, at least as far as who's running," said senior Matt Tuomi. The 17-year-old Livonia resident said he was most interested in environmental issues like the Great Lakes.

Senior Amy Nestor of Redford has been working against Proposal 4, the state ballot issue that would change the way money from the tobacco settlement is distributed. "It affects me directly because it would take away my (MEAP) scholarship," she said.

It's that kind of give-and-take that makes the grueling hours and extended travel worthwhile, Bennett said.

"This is the same as running for township board. It's just on a bigger scale."

- Managing social time better
- Making time for homework

"(The survey) gave them an opportunity to tell us what kind of things they'd like to see happen," Streaan said.

The survey asks about the student's interest in extracurricular activities, asks them to check off areas of interest and asks how they're feeling on a scale ranging from "great" to "not OK." On the back of a survey is a list of more than 50 extracurricular activities students could check off.

The survey also asks students to check off statements that apply to them, which cover topics including homework, studying and understanding what a teacher is saying. Lastly, the student was asked, "Is there anything we can do for you? If yes, please describe."

Streaan said the survey team, headed by her and Salem English teacher Lauren Cummings, plans to use the survey findings. Some changes that might come about include getting teachers to instruct students about study skills, starting new clubs and organizations and possibly, expanding or changing the district's alternative education program.

A mentoring program pairing older, seasoned high schoolers with freshman is also in the works.

Plymouth High School principal Michael Bee said the survey is an effective tool. Because Plymouth High is a new school, all students enrolled at Plymouth are freshman, though Canton and Salem students attend classes there. "Anytime we take the time and communicate with kids and they tell us frankly what's going on, that's always going to help," Bee said.

He said the student mentoring program may be even more effective than an adult mentoring program. This is because the older students may be able to relate better to the younger students.

"This will give an opportunity for kids to tell younger kids, 'Hey, I went through this too,'" Bee said.

Kari and Justin Hemme and son Jakob, 1 year, stand inside Bushels Cafe on Mill Street in Plymouth's Old Village

Under new management

Coffee Bean owners won't change much at cafe

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM
STAFF WRITER

Bushels, a popular Old Village cafe, has been under new ownership for some time, but loyal diners may not have even noticed.

The only major difference under the new ownership is an expanded menu, including more vegetarian choices and more baked goods for dessert. The cafe is located at 985 N Mill.

Java connoisseurs may have noticed something familiar about the coffee, though. That's because it's the same as the brew poured at The Coffee Bean, on Penniman in Plymouth.

The coffee similarity is no coincidence. The new Bushels owners are Justen, Kari and Dianne Hemme, all of Plymouth. They have also owned and operated the Coffee Bean on Penniman since 1999. Justen and Kari are married, and Dianne is Justen's mother.

Subtlety was key to the business plan for the new owners, who all said they were loyal Bushels patrons before buying the 5-year-old business in June.

"The menu is very much the same - we just added to the existing menu," said Justen Hemme.

As loyal Bushels patrons, the Hemmes said they realized they shouldn't try to fix what wasn't broken.

Bushels had a very good reputation - so we wanted to enhance that. We liked the food we always ate here," said Dianne Hemme.

Lunch customers make up a bulk of Bushels' business. The busiest time of day comes between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. The main clientele is the business community and, to a smaller extent, mothers meeting each other for lunch.

We have a good, solid business person lunch," Dianne Hemme said.

Bushels also has a thriving catering business. Food from the cafe has graced tables at faculty meetings, graduation parties and even weddings.

"We pretty much cater anything and everything," Dianne Hemme said.

Primary competitors of Bushels include the Plymouth Fish Market and Harvey's Old Village Deli, both of which are also located in Old Village. The Hemmes view them more as colleagues than competitors - with each business offering what the other does not.

The fish market specializes in fish and chips. Harvey's specialty is deli style sandwiches. Bushels' specialties are salads and vegetarian fare.

"Each place has its own little niche," Dianne Hemme said.

GOP, Kelley trade 'Hoodstock' raps

BY MATT JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

Controversy over a rap concert in a park in Redford Township last year has resurfaced in a local Congressional race.

The Michigan Republican State Committee, in a recent mailing, criticized township Supervisor Kevin Kelley's involvement in scheduling rapper DMX's Oct. 20, 2001, appearance at Bell Creek Park. The free concert, which drew about 2,500 people, was part of the black rapper's "Hoodstock 2001" tour.

The flier also makes a pitch for state Sen. Thaddeus McCotter, a Republican and Democrat Kelley's opponent in the hotly contested race for the U.S. House of Representatives in Michigan's 11th District. The new district includes Livonia, Westland, Garden City and Plymouth, and Redford, Plymouth and Canton townships.

Kelley calls the piece character assassination and an attempt to pit city vs. suburb. But, he added, "It doesn't surprise me."

He says the flier exaggerates his involvement in the DMX concert and is a diversion from the issues, such as the economy, prescription drugs and health care, on which his campaign has focused.

"In the race for Congress, I don't know why we're talking about rap music," Kelley said.

JUDGMENT AT ISSUE?

McCotter's campaign manager, Paul Bukowski, said the flier is about poor judgment on Kelley's part.

"There's a lot of people who were angry because of what was going on in their neighborhood," Bukowski said.

One side of the flier is headed "Welcome to Kevin Kelley's Hoodstock" and says the DMX show featured rappers whose lyrics are obscene,

The state Republican Party's flier criticizing Redford Township Supervisor Kevin Kelley's handling of rapper DMX's 2001 concert. Kelley, a Democrat running for Congress, calls the piece racially divisive character assassination, but a state GOP spokesman said it raises legitimate questions about Kelley's judgment.

racial, degrading towards women and promoted violence towards police officers." It includes an out-of-focus photograph of a leering young white man standing next to an electric guitar and holding a bottle of beer.

The other side has a photo of McCotter playing acoustic guitar with his son George. The text says the candidate wouldn't tell people what kind of music to listen to, but suggests he wouldn't have allowed DMX to perform in a public setting. And yes, Thaddeus still loves rock 'n' roll," reads the last line in the main body of text.

"This isn't about what or who this person (DMX) is," Bukowski said. "It's about what's in the lyrics heard during the concert by nearby residents at their homes."

Bukowski said Kelley should have used the Internet to look at lyrics to DMX's songs. "He didn't have to give them permission to go to that park," he said.

A review of lyrics to several DMX songs found through an Internet search showed them peppered with obscenities, derogatory terms, racial epithets and violent imagery.

It has nothing to do with race, it has to do with the fact that he exercised very poor judgment," said Jason Brewer, a spokesman for the state Republican party.

DISTORTION CHARGED

The GOP flier says Kelley "invited" "Hoodstock" to the park, but Kelley said that is a distortion and that he proposed the Bell Creek Park site as an alternative only after bidding the show to take place at the site requested by promoters.

"I'm not a censor," he said. "I made my judgment based on what I thought was best for the community."

The concert was originally planned for the parking lot of the Mr. Alan's Shoes & Sportswear on Telegraph Road, but Kelley said he denied a permit for a show there after he and other officials decided it would pose too many hazards at that location.

Promoters later called, Kelley said, and asked for help in finding an alternative venue. Kelley suggested Bell Creek, a county park, and made arrangements with the county, he said. Other outdoor concerts have been held at the park.

"I was trying to accommodate a local business (Mr. Alan's) that is a taxpayer," Kelley said.

The "Hoodstock" tour, which DMX was using to promote an album, involved surprise concerts on short notice, and Kelley said promoters approached the township less than a week before the event. Kelley said he wasn't familiar with DMX but heard the rapper was "on the tamer side." He didn't attend the concert, but said he heard it was toned down.

Supports Blackwell

Voters of the 20 District have a clear choice with respect to abortion, honesty and integrity when choosing their representative Nov 5

Rep John Stewart, now running for re-election, accepted $625 from Planned Parenthood and $150 from Maral, both advocate Pro-Choice positions. On July 18, the League of Women Voters posed the question "Will you support legislation that reduces the women's right to choose to have an abortion?"

Mr Stewart's reply, "I am against abortion. I would vote no on Medicaid Abortion. I would vote no on Partial Abortion. I am very glad for the opportunity to answer this question. I have about a 90% voting record with Right to Life. The two issues I would not vote for are Right to Life license plates and to Defend Planned Parenthood" (note: actual percentage is 80%)

Remember, the question referred to woman's right to choose abortion

Lacking integrity, Mr Stewart accepts money dishonestly, then plays both sides against the voter, for his gain. Can Mr Stewart be trusted on other issues?

Candidate Mark Blackwell, the young, deeply concerned thinker-of-our-times, gave an honest and straight forward answer, "My answer is no. Also, I am a Pro-Choice candidate but I do not believe abortion should be used as a method of birth control." He did not violate his convictions for money

Yes to Prop 02-3

I encourage your readers to support Proposal 02-3. As a resident of the Plymouth community since 1967, a chief steward in UAW Local 6000 and an employee of the state of Michigan since June 1974, I speak from first-hand knowledge and experience that the current system needs change

Proposal 02-3 will give state employees the right to bargain collectively with the state and submit unresolved contract issues to neutral, binding arbitration. Contrary to the articles and editorial that appeared in the Oct 17 Observer, Proposal 02-3 will not give state employees the right to strike. Proposal 02-3 uses the same mechanism, binding arbitration, that prevents strikes by police officers, firefighters and state troopers. Binding arbitration is the alternative to, not a license for, striking

Proposal 02-3 will require good faith bargaining from both parties. Currently, there is no incentive for the Office of the State Employer to bargain in good faith. If they don't, the civil service commission, all appointees of the governor who are not subject to popular or legislative review, imposes whatever resolution they want to (Civil Service Rule 6-3 1a). The commission also reserves the unilateral right to change any agreement whenever they want, something they have done over 100 times (Civil Service Rules 6-2 1c3 and 6-3 1c). Proposal 02-3 will level the playing field

While the editorial saw no compelling reason to change the current system, any impartial review of the facts indicates otherwise

It's a shame the Observer did not follow the lead of Jennifer Granholm, Butch Hollowell and Gary Peters, candidates they endorsed for statewide office on October 20, who are supporting Proposal 02-3. But their readers should

Backing Mans

I have had the opportunity to get to know George Mans, an outstanding gentleman. George is running for the newly created 7th District State Senate seat

You know me as someone who expects the highest level of commitment to our specific community needs from our elected officials

George Mans has tirelessly walked door to door throughout this new district, meeting many of you and listening to constituents' concerns. He is already carrying those concerns to Lansing on our behalf

George's remarkable record of accomplishment as a coach at University of Michigan with Bump Elliot and Bo Schembechler, his business expertise utilized at the family owned Mans Lumber Company, his record of service on the Trenton Board of Education and as mayor of Trenton, have all reflected his leadership ability and dedication to getting a good job while currently serving as State Representative

During my 10 years on the Plymouth City Commission, I have spent a considerable amount of time in Lansing advocating local issues with legislators. George Mans is well-respected by his contemporaries on both sides of the aisle. That is an impressive asset that our district desperately needs in Lansing

His soft-spoken, courtly demeanor belies a sharp intellect and a deep commitment to weeding out the rightness of an issue. George isn't intimidated by hard work

I don't often meet a candidate whose integrity impresses me. George Mans' basic dignity, leadership skills and commitment to his constituents rather than a party agenda has convinced me that George Mans is the best choice as our new State Senator said "I can't tell you how many people have asked me that question. We tell them it doesn't have anything to do with the primary election. You still have to vote a straight-party ticket in the primary. People need to understand that"

Michigan election law requires voters in a primary election to vote a straight-party ticket, and that won't change with this proposal. Massengill said the problem is that there's "only one line" that talks about the ballot covering the general election

The rest of the proposal, she said, is clear enough, but voters are focusing on the entire proposal and missing the point

"I think some people aren't picking up on the 'general,' because it's only one line," Massengill said. "The rest of the proposal aims at something else, and people are focusing on that. Consequently, they're thinking, 'Good, it's about time I get to vote how I want to in a primary election'

"I'm fearful that people are going to be thinking that way," she said. "When it comes to the next primary election, you're going to have people voting that way and spoiling their ballots"

City Clerk Linda Langmesser said she's running into some of the same confusion with city voters, because the ballot language doesn't spell it out quite well enough

Langmesser said her election workers will be prepared to answer the question when voters hit the polls

"In our training for election workers, we're making sure they're prepared to answer those questions when people come to the polls"

The ice festival is scheduled for Jan 17-20

The agreement is for one year, with the Observer maintaining right of first refusal for the 2004 guide

The partnership with the Observer is a great one," said Mike Watts, of Watts Up Inc., who organizes the ice show

The Observer has a great reputation, a great distribution system and outstanding readership. We couldn't be more pleased"

The program will feature a full-color restaurant guide, including a comprehensive listing of area restaurants. It will also contain a Web site and promotional ads to help sponsors

O&E officials think their newspaper group is the perfect vehicle for producing the official guide because both are very immersed in local community life

"Our newspapers have the power to appeal to a very large, diverse audience," said Lisa Rudy, retail advertising manager for the Observer Newspapers. "The ice festival is one of the most identifiable features of the Plymouth community, and the Observer is proud to be their partner"

CORTISONE - THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN BY MOUTH AND BY INJECTION

In treating joint and tendon pain, cortisone is a powerful tool. The ability of cortisone to stop inflammation is comparable to what water does to fire. However, like anything mighty, the ability to do great good includes the capacity to do great harm.

The use of high dose cortisone taken by mouth in the equivalence of prednisone 10 mg a day or higher and given over weeks to months creates the potential for unwanted side effects. This includes rounding of the face, deposits of fat around the neck and shoulders, loss of bone calcium, susceptibility to ulcers, risk of cataracts, increased blood pressure, thinning of the skin, and loss of the adrenal glands ability to regulate your body's need for cortisone.

Cortisone by injection does not carry these hazards. First, you take this dose of steroid intermittently, likely weeks or months separate on one injection from the next, rather than getting a dose everyday. Second, cortisone by injection is formulated to stay in the joint or muscle site where it is injected. It does not circulate through the whole body as oral cortisone doses and cannot cause changes in fat cells, stomach lining, or the eyes that underlies the toxicity of oral cortisone.

Excessive cortisone injections can occur, but the margin of safety is great. Even monthly injections have never proved to be toxic. If you have questions about getting too much cortisone, bring those concerns to the attention of your doctor. Be assured he will be able to explain the need and the safety of his use.

Police have tips for safe Halloween

Trick-or-treaters get 2-1/2 hours of official candy grabbing time for Halloween Thursday. Plymouth city and township police have offered tips on making it a safe holiday.

Township Police Chief Tom Tiderington offered his tips using a 'Safe Halloween' acronym.

- S - Start by taking your kids not sending them
- A - Add to the fun by including other families
- F - Find a family-friendly neighborhood even if you have to drive there
- E - Escort young children to the door, instruct them never to enter a house
- H - Have children use the 'buddy system,' picking a partner and sticking together
- A - Avoid close encounters with candles in and out of jack-o lanterns
- L - Light your way by remembering to take flashlights
- L - Leave dark houses behind, no porch light means trick-or-treaters aren't welcome

- O - Observe safety sense cross streets at intersections after looking both ways
- W - Wear comfortable costumes that don't obstruct vision, use reflector tape
- E - Educate your children about stranger danger in age appropriate ways
- E - Equip yourselves with cell phones or walkie-talkies
- N - Nibble candy at home after a thorough checking by parents

City police chief Wayne Carroll also had safety tips broken down into three groups

TRICK-OR-TREATERS

Avoid strangers, walk, don't run, stay on sidewalks, if there's no sidewalk, walk on the left side of the road facing oncoming traffic, costumes shouldn't drag on the ground, and shoes should fit. Don't let masks obstruct vision while walking from house to house, don't pet or go near animals you don't know

PARENTS

Have children eat before setting out. Children should carry quarters so they can call home, young children should be accompanied by an adult, children going out on their own should know how to reach you and when to be home, although tampering is rare, tell children to bring the candy home to be inspected before eating.

HOMEOWNERS

Clear your yard of items such as ladders, hoses, dog leashes and flower pots that can trip youngsters, secure pets to protect them from cars or inadvertently biting a trick-or-treater, if using candles, place the pumpkins or other items well away from where trick-or-treaters will be walking, avoid letting paper or cloth yard decorations blow into a flaming candle.

GREAT PUMPKIN CAPER

The Plymouth Community

Chamber of Commerce once again sponsors The Great Pumpkin Caper, its annual costume contest for area children Wednesday night.

Costumed youngsters in two age categories - 6 and under and 7-13 years old - can pick up their entry tickets at the Band Shell in Kellogg Park from 5:30-6:30 p.m. Winners will be announced at 7 p.m. Prizes for first- and second-place finishers, as well as the scariest costume, will be awarded.

Meanwhile, trick-or-treating through the downtown streets will be sponsored by participating retailers. Frankenstein will be haunting the downtown streets. Plymouth Rotarians will serve as crossing guards to keep the children safe. The scarecrow display will be a prominent feature.

For more information, call the chamber, (734) 453-1540.

COSTUMES = DINNER

Kids decked out in Halloween costumes this week may get an extra benefit - dinner at one of Plymouth's better-known restaurants.

The folks at Station 885 are offering free dinner Wednesday and Thursday evenings to any youngsters, 12 and younger, who come into the restaurant wearing their Halloween costume, as long as they're accompanied by an adult. The offer is good from 4-8 p.m.

The restaurant is located at 885 Starkweather in Old Village. For details, call (734) 459-0885.

Chamber's set for its annual bash

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

After Friday night's Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce auction, someone may have the opportunity to wear a pair of boxing gloves signed by a world champ to a Red Wings game some time after watching the Rockettes at the Fox Theatre.

That's because all of those things are among the auction items for the annual bash thrown by the chamber. This year's event is set for 7 p.m. at Laurel Manor in Livonia.

The prize auction item is the pair of boxing gloves autographed by Muhammed Ali during a recent local personal appearance.

We're very excited to have those gloves, said Fran Toney, the chamber's executive director. "It's the icing on top of the cake in terms of a great list of items."

Among the hundreds of other items that will be available in silent and live auctions along with raffles, are:

- A "Box at the Fox," with suite seating for 15 including dinner, for a performance by the Radio City Rockettes
- A silver fox fur coat with matching hat
- Season tickets for University of Michigan football
- A pure-bred Schitzsu puppy, with papers
- Tickets to Detroit Red Wings games
- Jerseys autographed by Red Wings captain Steve Yzerman and former Red Wing great Gordie Howe
- A week's stay at an ocean-front condo in Florida

It's an impressive list, especially in a year when Toney thought perhaps donations would be down because of the economic down-turn.

"With the economy the way it's been and what we've been hearing about its chance for recovery, we weren't expecting this year to be this big," she said.

People have been tremendously generous and we're very excited to be able to celebrate our 50th birthday in this kind of style.

The annual auction isn't the only thing the chamber is celebrating. It's also a birthday party of sorts, as the chamber celebrates the 50th anniversary of its incorporation. During the evening, businesses who have been members that entire time will be honored, including AAA Michigan, Ameritech, Bank One, Box Bar, Consumers Energy, DTE Energy, Ernesto's Italian Restaurant, Fmlan Insurance Agency, Kiwanis Club, Rotary Club, Saxton's Farm Supplies, Schrader-Howell Funeral Home, Sutherland & Yoe, Unisys, Vico Products.

Tickets to the auction are $60 apiece, which includes dinner, the auction and dancing to the music of the Fabulous Murray Brothers. Call the chamber, (734) 453-1540.

2 seats open on education board

BY ROBIN D'ANGELO
STAFF WRITER

With the race for two State Board of Education seats less than two weeks away, candidates are voicing their plans for improved accountability in schools, curriculum standards and the question of autonomy within Michigan schools.

Democratic candidate Elizabeth Bauer said her 40 years of involvement on the front lines of education as a teacher, administrator, and special education advocate would bring a needed dimension to the board.

"We need to maintain high standards for our public education, and the Board's biggest focus should be to get our state plan in place so that our schools continue to be well-funded and aren't set up to fail," she said.

Bauer served as executive director of the Michigan Protection & Advocacy Service, Inc., training director of the Michigan Department of Mental Health, and as a speech therapist.

State representative and Democratic candidate Nancy Quarles (D-Southfield) said if elected, she would enhance adult and special education services and resources, and develop strategies to improve achievement in underperforming schools.

"A good education is how we get productive citizens," she said.

Quarles is in her third term of representing the 36th District in Oakland County. Prior to election, she also served as an Oakland County commissioner and a teacher.

Republican candidate Michael Warren said he feels his three prior years of experience on the Board would be instrumental in helping bring about the changes the Michigan education system needs. He plans to support an American Freedom Curriculum to ensure that students learn about American civics and history in each grade.

"There are huge gaps in student knowledge of American history, civics and in the founding principles of our republic," Warren said.

He was appointed to the Board in 1999, and served as Board secretary and Chair of Task Force on Embracing the Information Age. He was also the executive director of the New Common School Foundation and the secretary of Cornerstone Schools, as well as a former partner of Honigman Miller law firm.

Republican candidate Carolyn Curtin said her twenty-one years of experience serving on local school boards in the Mecosta-Osceola Intermediate School District will allow her to be a bridge between local and state boards.

"I am passionate about an emphasis on the importance of early childhood education," Curtin said.

Curtin said she believes the State Board should continue programs already in place such as Frame Works, Michigan Literacy Progress Profile, MEAP Testing, School Accreditation, PA25 and At-Risk which should help serve as indicators of educational excellence.

Curtin served on a local school board for 11 years, three years as president and is currently in her ninth year on the Mecosta-Osceola Intermediate School District Board of Education.

Third party candidates include Libertarians Diane Barnes and Scotty Boman, Greens Kyle Moxley and Karen "Anne" Shelley, US Taxpayers Judith Czak and Ron Monroe and Michael Kitchen for Natural Law.

Golden era

Celebrated restaurant closing after 30 years, but tradition continues

BY MICHELE MACWILLIAMS
CORRESPONDENT

Mention the Golden Mushroom to most any lover of fine food and most assuredly a smile will come to their face as they recall a favorite dish or a special event they celebrated at the renowned Southfield restaurant.

First dates, wedding receptions, anniversaries, birthdays — many milestones have occurred around the tables of the Golden Mushroom.

We held our wedding reception in the Mushroom Cellar, recalls JoAnn Wolf of West Bloomfield. The food was perfect and everyone had a great time.

The couple liked it so much, that they are planning JoAnn's mother's 80th birthday party at the same location. My brothers and sisters discussed options and we all agreed that we had to come back to the Mushroom one more time.

After 30 years as a mainstay of fine dining, the Golden Mushroom will close its doors on Jan. 1. Renown for culinary excellence and as a training ground for some of America's finest chefs, the restaurant brought cutting-edge cuisine to metro Detroit.

In 1972, Golden Mushroom owner and president, Reid Ashton, saw the growth potential of the city of Southfield. He purchased a large deli at the corner of 10 Mile and Southfield Roads, remodeled the facility and opened it as a full-service, fine-dining restaurant called the Golden Mushroom.

His combination of casual elegance, 800-selection wine list, and Continental cuisine was an instant hit. Over the years, the Golden Mushroom has been featured in many publications and was rated among the nation's top restaurants. Today, trophies and awards line the walls of the staircase leading from the dining room into the Mushroom Cellar. Ashton says that the restaurant and its staff have received more culinary awards and acclaim than any other Michigan restaurant.

The decision to close was difficult, Ashton said that he recently signed an agreement to sell the property. After much deliberation, considering how the events of Sept. 11, 2001 and the economic downturn have negatively affected our business, we decided to sell, Ashton stated.

Since announcing that the restaurant will be closing, many friends and past customers have come back to enjoy the Golden Mushroom's cuisine one more time.

And what do they order? "They want our classic dishes, the ones that we're famous for," says Certified Executive Chef Michael Trombley. "They start with Golden Mushroom soup or lobster bisque. Then they have our house salad of field greens, dried cherries, walnuts and bleu

What's hot and what's not in wine now

Recently, we asked Master Sommelier Robert Jones, National Sales Director for Virginia-based importer Kysela

Pere et Fils, to give us his perspective on what's currently hot and what's not in wine.

Thoroughly-American Fran Kysela, founder of the wine import house, had his focus set on France when he chose a company name some years ago. Over the years, Kysela has broadened his global view and as Jones indicated, "we represent the hot wine regions today."

Jones marked the Languedoc region of southern France as having wines with the flavor profile Americans prefer and offering the biggest bang for the buck currently. "These wines, he said, are rich with ripe fruit, a kiss of wood and softer tannins."

Good examples illustrating his description are 2001 Coteaux du Languedoc Domaine de la Brune $8 (50 percent syrah). Syrah from the northern Rhone Valley of France is about as hot as a wine varietal gets. The 1999 Domaine des Entrefaux Crozes-Hermitage $13.50 is 100 percent syrah with an attractive peppery-spice finish.

Personally, we believe wines from the Cotes-du-Rhone region of southern France cannot be beat for value. In the Kysela portfolio, we like 2001 Domaine de la Mordoree $10. Juicy and generous red fruits lead to a supple, smooth and silky finish in a wine with surprisingly good length at this price.

Staying in the southern Rhone, Chateaufort-du-Pape continues to offer big mouthfuls of delicious wine in the $20 range.

A good example is 1999 Vignoble Alain Jaume Chateaufort-du-Pape $22 that sports plump flavors of grenache in a stylish rendition.

GREAT STUFF FROM ITALY

Southern Italy and particularly red wines from Sicily are "in." Nero d'Avola is an indigenous grape to the region that's redolent of ripe fruit with nicely balanced acidity. A fun wine in a rather New World style is 1999 Mezzo Giorno Nero d'Avola/Shiraz $8.50.

"Sangiovese from California," Jones remarked, "is nothing like this variety from Tuscany. The beauty of a Tuscan Chianti Classico (principally sangiovese) is the tart, sour cherry flavors cutting straight through the middle It's a wine that begs for food." A good illustration is 1998 Carobbio Chianti Classico $24.

CONSIDER SPAIN

"Spain is the hottest European wine region of all," Jones suggested. "This country is serious about top quality wines. Some are terrific bargains."

In the bargain category, he cited 2000 Castillo Labastida Rioja $8, a well-fruited everyday quaff. A big step up in character, which generally means a ramp up in price, is the stunning 1999 Pago de Carraovejas $24, a blend of 75

Try some of the Golden Mushroom's most famous dishes

Five years ago, to celebrate its 25th anniversary, the restaurant published a hardcover cookbook called The Golden Mushroom Kitchen, 25 Years of Chefs and Recipes. It featured the favorite dishes of 26 prominent chefs that trained at the restaurant. In honor of the golden era of the Golden Mushroom, here are a few recipes for some of its most famous dishes. Try them at home for your next special occasion.

GOLDEN MUSHROOM SOUP

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 2/3 cup flour
- 6 cups good chicken broth hot
- 1 small bay leaf
- 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1 1/2 pounds fresh mushrooms washed and sliced finely
- 2 egg yolks
- 1 1/2 cup whipping cream

Melt 1/2 cup butter in a 2 quart heavy bottomed sauce pan (preferably enameled or stainless steel), add onions and cook slowly until onions are transparent. Add the flour, stir over fire 3 minutes, add the chicken broth and seasonings. Whip until all lumps are dissolved.

Bring to boil, simmer slowly, stirring occasionally for 15 minutes, strain.

Heat a good size skillet on medium. Add 1/4 cup butter and mushrooms.

Cook over high heat until mushrooms turn gray, but do not brown. Add to soup and simmer 10 minutes or more.

Just before serving, heat soup up to boiling point. In a separate bowl, mix yolk with cream. Start adding hot soup, whipping steadily with a wire whisk. When half of soup is added, pour it all back into the remaining soup in the sauce pan.

Do not boil (it will curdle).
Serve immediately. Serves 8.

MOREL MUSHROOMS WITH COGNAC AND CREAM

- 3 ounces whole unsalted butter
- 8 ounces fresh morel mushrooms
- 1 teaspoon finely minced shallots

- 2 ounces good cognac or a good brandy
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1 tablespoon sliced chives
- Salt to taste

Heat a saucepan or skillet on high until the pan is hot, then turn down to medium heat.

Add half of the butter, then fresh morels and cook for a minute or so.

Adjust heat if needed.

Now add shallots and cook until translucent. Be sure to stir constantly to prevent the shallots from sticking.

Add cognac and reduce until dry then add cream and reduce this until thick and it clings to the morels.

Season with salt and pepper to taste and fold in the remainder of the whole butter. Taste and adjust seasoning if needed. Sprinkle with sliced chives.

Serves two.

BACON WRAPPED PHEASANT

- 2 pheasant breasts - skin on and cleaned of fat
- 4 strips of smoky bacon

Pheasant spice blend (see recipe below)

- Salt and pepper to taste
- 2 cups chicken stock enriched with trimmings of pheasant and reduced in half by boiling

Sprinkle breast with game spice evenly, then salt and pepper. Wrap pheasant with bacon. Heat a skillet on high until hot, and sear bacon-wrapped pheasant on all sides until brown. Place in the oven at 350° F until done, (15 minutes, or cooked through). Let rest and slice thinly. Serves 2.

The Golden Mushroom features this dish with braised spinach, julienne pears and smoked gouda whipped potatoes.

PHEASANT SPICE BLEND

- A recipe of Chef Augustus Escoffier
 - 1/2 teaspoon thyme
 - 3 bay leaves
 - 10 peppercorns
 - 10 Juniper berries
 - 3 Allspice cloves
- Grind ingredients in a food processor or coffee grinder.

cheese The wild mushroom saute and the morel appetizer dishes are also flying out of the kitchen.

The restaurant is famous for wild game and many people choose the pheasant or venison for their main course. Trombly says that these are all signature Golden Mushroom dishes, developed first by Master Chef Milos Cihelka, who was responsible for putting Michigan on the culinary map 25 years ago.

Cihelka came to the Golden Mushroom when Reid Ashton wooed him from the London Chop House in 1976.

He was the first Certified Executive Chef in Michigan and in 1981 became the first Master Chef certified in the United States. A highly respected chef worldwide, he has won numerous gold medals in culinary competitions around the world, including a perfect score in the 1984 Culinary Olympics in Germany, and was the manager of Michigan's first Culinary Team in 1988.

One of Cihelka's most noted accomplishments was the creation of an apprenticeship program at the Golden Mushroom. Many of Michigan's top chefs began their careers in the kitchens on 10 Mile Road. Trombly, was one of the stars of this apprenticeship program.

"It was an eye-opening experience, one I'll never forget," said Trombly.

Although the Golden Mushroom will shut its doors in January, its cuisine will live on through Golden Mushroom Catering, Inc., which provides food service for St. John's Banquet and Convention Center and the Ambassador Hotel (formerly the Michigan Inn), in Southfield. Trombly will oversee the kitchens of both venues.

UNREALIZED POTENTIAL

Jones labeled Portugal as the "land of unrealized potential where the dry wines from the Douro Valley have not caught on as it was expected they would. Yet, I truly believe, Portugal has enormous potential. He proved his point with 2000 Vila Santa Alentejo $20 with bright ripe red fruits in a well-structured wine with a flavorful finish. This flagship wine from Joao Portugal Ramos is a blend of grapes you've probably never heard of. That's OK. Try it to learn the potential of Portuguese wine. The Vinho Verde region in Portugal is gaining attention as a white wine area, he added. "These wines are dirt cheap, and in my opinion, have equivalent quality to the hot and trendy Albarinos from the Galicia area of Spain. People should seek these out."

MAKE YOUR WINE VOICE HEARD

Earlier this month, the Federal Trade Commission held a three-day workshop to address how state regulations and private business practices have anticompetitive effects on E-commerce in nine industry segments, including wine.

Wine industry spokespersons provided testimony in support of consumer choice and direct shipping of wine. The hearing was another positive sign that the Federal government is acknowledging the negative effects of laws restricting free trade and E-commerce. During the hearings the FTC indicated that they want to hear directly from consumers frustrated with prohibitions on direct-to-consumer, interstate wine shipments.

Action: By Nov 10 share your concern about Michigan's ban on direct shipping of wine and its anticompetitive effects on E-commerce with the FTC by sending an e-mail to ecompetition@ftc.gov and copy your e-mail to fedup@freethetrades.org.

Michigan wine consumer voices, now under constraint, need to be heard.

Celebrate the autumn season with Oktoberfest beers

Fall is my favorite time of year. Fresh apples, butter nut squash and wild game are all on my fall dining table, usually paired with a malty Oktoberfest lager from my local pub. If you still have yet to try an Oktoberfest-style brew, you are missing a true treat. These beers are usually very well balanced, smooth, and malty, with a toasted caramel note that is exceptionally pleasing, and they pair extremely well with food. (If no Oktoberfest beer can be found, you can substitute any hearty red ale. Fall is also the perfect time for walks in the woods and early afternoon Sunday dinners. One of my favorites is Roast Pork Tenderloin with Fennel and Lager glaze. It is a very simple dish that is hearty and heartwarming, and is a natural compliment to the Oktoberfest-style beers. In the recipe below, the pork tenderloin browns nicely during cooking, playing up the wonderful roasted flavors that actually compliment the beer! You can pair this meat with any vegetable, but I suggest roasted squash and baked apples with cinnamon. It will be a treat to remember. The crisp fall days spent with family and friends will make for some great memories that you'll always remember. Take some time to go to the cider mill, to take the kids to pick apples or for a hayride, and, of course, be sure to venture out to one of your local pubs for an Oktoberfest celebration or just to pick up some fresh beer to accompany your Sunday dinner. As always, never trust a skinny Brewmaster. In the following recipe, it's very important to use the pan size the recipe calls for. A smaller pan or one with higher sides (like a roasting pan) will cause pork and fennel to steam, and thus prevent proper browning.

ROAST PORK TENDERLOIN WITH FENNEL AND LAGER GLAZE

(Total preparation and cooking

- time 30 minutes)
- 2 medium bulbs fennel (about 1 pound each) trimmed and cut lengthwise into 1/2 inch thick slices leaving core intact
- 1 tablespoon plus 2 teaspoon olive oil
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1 whole pork tenderloin (about 1 pound)
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon fennel seeds crushed
- Lager Glaze (recipe follows)
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley leaves
- 1 teaspoon grated fresh lemon peel
- Herb sprigs for garnish

Arrange oven rack in lower third of oven. Preheat oven to 475 F. In 1 1/2-by-10 1/2-inch jelly-roll pan, toss fresh fennel slices with 1 tablespoon oil, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Push fennel slices to sides of pan. Place pork in center of pan with fennel. In small bowl, stir sugar, fennel seeds and remaining 2 teaspoon oil, 1/4 teaspoon salt, and 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Rub fennel-seed mixture all over pork. Roast pork and fennel, stirring fennel occasionally, 20 to 25 minutes or until meat thermometer inserted into thickest part of pork reaches 155 F. In small bowl, combine parsley and lemon peel, set aside. Pour Lager Glaze over pork. Transfer pork to cutting board, cut into slices. Place sliced pork on large platter, sprinkle with half of parsley and lemon peel mixture. Toss fennel with remaining parsley mixture and arrange around pork. Garnish with herb sprigs.

Makes 4 main-dish servings

LAGER GLAZE

- 1 cup red lager or ale
- 1/2 cup honey
- 4 tablespoon apple cider vinegar
- 2 teaspoon cornstarch whisked with 1/4 cup water
- 1 tablespoon butter

In a small saucepan whisk ale, honey, & vinegar over med high heat 3-5 min whisk in cornstarch until incorporated and no visible lumps simmer whisking constantly till thickened and finish by whisking in butter. Pour over entire tenderloin. Slice and serve.

Time to eat your fennel - it's loaded with antioxidants

You might not know unless you grew up in Europe, where fennel has been eaten for centuries, but the season for this delicately flavored vegetable has just begun. Fennel looks something like celery and is occasionally confused with dill. It has a fragrant bulb, celery-like stems, feathery fronds and gold-yellow flowers. It is sometimes called by its Italian name, finocchio, or anise, because of its delicate, licorice taste. Fennel contains vitamin C and beta carotene, a powerful antioxidant believed to help reduce the risk of cancer, enhance immunity and prevent cataracts.

bulb into thin wedges. Prevent discoloring by dropping the slices into a bowl of water and the juice of half a lemon added. Just before serving, drain them, pat dry and use in a mixed green salad. Or serve them on their own, fanned out on a plate and drizzled with a little olive oil. To add to a casserole or to braise for a side dish, cut the fennel bulb into chunks and cook until tender. To grill or roast, simply lightly coat with an oil spray and sprinkle with salt and pepper beforehand. Fennel and orange slices make a simple but tasty salad that can be served before or after a meal.

darker, about 1 to 2 minutes, watching carefully to prevent burning. Remove coriander from pan immediately and transfer to a small bowl. To the bowl add vinegar, juice, salt oil and mint. Whisk until well blended. Cover and keep chilled until ready to use. (Dressing may be made 1 day ahead.) Cut onion in half crosswise then slice very thin. Soak separated onion rings in a medium bowl of ice cubes and cold water for 15 minutes. Meanwhile, remove peel and pith from oranges. Cut oranges crosswise into 1/4-inch thick slices. Cut fennel bulb crosswise into thin slices. Drain onion rings and pat dry

West Bloomfield resident pens fantasy-history story for children

Pee Wee Mulligan is only six inches tall, but at age 60-plus he's practically ready for retirement

Don't bet on it, though After publishing his first book, The Adventures of Pee Wee Mulligan, this year, Raphael Adler, Pee Wee's creator, is just warming up

He devised 39 Pee Wee stories when he created the fantasy character in 1936 and thought up dozens more since

Adler, 80, brought Pee Wee Mulligan to life in a few sessions of storytelling, while entertaining rambunctious children in a Catskill Mountains resort He was 17 and singing for his pay, which he'd send home to his family

"They'd have me play classical records at lunch, but the kids would be interfering with the folks eating," said the West Bloomfield author "They said, keep the kids busy I kept them busy with Pee Wee stories"

It didn't take long for parents to sit in on the storytelling sessions

"They'd say, 'don't tell the story until we come out of lunch'"

Little Pee Wee's appeal was beginning to grow

Adler wrote a comic book scenario — pitting Pee Wee against Hitler — and then a cartoon script. He put the project aside for 60 years while embarking on his own adventures

Adler

"I came to Windsor and met my wife Instead of going back to New York, we were married after 10 days"

The couple settled in Detroit where Adler continued a singing career that started when he was 13 years old and singing Yiddish and English songs on a children's radio show in New York

"I became a singing bartender at my wife's uncle's bar while I was doing some TV work here My fantasy was that I'd run my own nightclub here"

He sang and made drinks at night and attended classes at Wayne State University during the day

"At first I thought I'd go into public relations, but then I got into teaching It all fell into place in the strangest way"

Adler taught English and speech at Berkley High School, while taking graduate level classes in audiology and speech pathology and eventually earning a doctorate degree in brain trauma and neuropsychology

He retired from Berkley High in 1968, but continued his education career as an adjunct professor at Oakland Community College, where he taught ethics and philosophy — what he calls "rocking chair" courses because few teachers are interested in teaching them

While teaching part-time, he took a full-time position as director of the speech and hearing clinic at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac where helped stroke patients and brain trauma victims regain their speech

He stayed until 1984 when his day job began to conflict with his teaching

"They wanted me to give up the teaching post and I wouldn't"

He continued teaching, writing poetry and songs and dusted off his long-languishing Pee Wee Mulligan story five years ago

"I was talking and joking with one of my neighbors and I said, once upon a time I wrote this story"

He told her a Pee Wee tale and she made him promise to put it on paper

"It took so many different forms I had a long form and kept sending it out, but no one was interested in that," said Adler, who prefers writing with a pen rather than a computer keyboard "Then I met some young people who run a film institute I said, 'look I have this long thing, help me figure out a way to shorten it'"

"They started using it like a movie script Everything was still too long That's when I switched to poetry to move it along I shortened it and came up with new characters"

By 2001, The Magical Adventures of Pee Wee Mulligan was ready for a publisher 1stBooks, a print-on-demand, eBook publishing company produced the tale earlier this year as a 97-page paperback

The book tells the story of Mary, who meets the magical Pee Wee after inadvertently freeing him from a book in her grandmother's attic The pair travel through time to colonial America where they meet Benjamin Franklin and other friendly — and a few menacing — characters

The book is available on line

Vancouver gateway is a great getaway at affordable rates

BY NORMA AND WENDY SCHONWETTER CORRESPONDENTS

Thinking of a cruise to Alaska or an excursion through the Canadian Rockies? Then think Vancouver

Besides being voted as one of the top ten "best destinations" in the world by the readers of Conde Nast Traveler magazine, most tours to the Canadian Rockies and all Alaskan cruises begin or end in Vancouver If you can extend your travels 2 to 3 days, take in this fantastic area and you'll see that it's much more than just a gateway Vancouver is a city of stunning natural beauty, world-class cultural attractions, and refreshingly low prices (especially with the Canadian dollar's weak exchange rate)

If you can afford yet another day or so, include the beauty of Victoria with its Butchart Gardens, Butterfly Gardens,

Crystal Place, Empress Hotel and the Royal British Columbia Museum

Vancouver, the third largest city in Canada, is situated on a small peninsula in the southwest corner of British Columbia

This is a cosmopolitan city with a multicultural mix that includes a large Asian population The city is known for its mild sunny climate from spring through October and a rainy season in winter The downtown area is nestled below the majestic mountain ranges, which includes Whistler and Mt. Bachelor ski resorts This makes it a unique place where you can ski and sail in the same day

Vancouver is accessible by every major mode of transportation, including trains from Toronto and five buses daily between Vancouver and Seattle, a mere three-hour trip For auto travelers, the BC Ferry system offers sailings between Washington State and Vancouver and Vancouver and Victoria.

The Waterfront Hotel is walking distance from the cruise terminal and is an excellent choice for great views of the harbor and Stanley Park, as well as being centrally located to many of Vancouver sites

Just a few blocks from the hotel is a lovely sea of tranquility planted in the heart of bustling Chinatown Walk or use surface transportation to visit the Dr. Sun Yat-Sen Classical Chinese Garden It is modeled after the private classical gardens developed in the city of Suzhou and is the only authentic Ming Dynasty garden ever constructed outside China No modern equipment was used — not even a single nail, and all materials were shipped from China. Let the docents sweep you away with charming stories that highlight the meaning of the elements in the garden as well as the Chinese culture

For a magnificent panoramic view of the city and outlying districts, take the glass elevator to the Lookout in Harbour Centre This is one of the tallest buildings in Vancouver

VISIT PARKS

Queen Elizabeth Park, just a short drive up the hill from the waterfront, is located on the highest point in Vancouver Enjoy superb views of the city, harbor and North Shore Mountains while strolling through the park's other highlights Rose, sunken and quarry gardens At the center of the park is exquisite Bloedel Floral Conservatory Enter the atmosphere-controlled triodetic dome and experience an exotic tropical paradise full of free-flying tropical birds and impressive plant displays

Stanley Park is a must-see attraction Miles of nature trails, bike rentals, and an awesome aquarium, in the largest city park in Canada For a relaxing overview of the park take an hour-long horse drawn tour or ride a rented bike around the park

Gastown, named for a tavern owner nicknamed Gassy, is an area with restored 19th century buildings and cobblestone streets Specialty and antique shops, art galleries, and restaurants abound Be sure to see the world's only steam-powered clock, located on Water Street in the downtown core, driven by the city's extensive underground steam heating system for office buildings

Vancouver has an enormous variety of restaurants For a unique eating experience, try Hon's Wun-Tun House on Robson Street or on Keefer Street in Chinatown

At many of the trendy restaurants, don't be surprised if you get served something looking like black tar artistically drizzled over olive oil It turns out to be

Bracket your shots to achieve correct exposure

Have you ever picked up your prints from the lab only to discover to your chagrin that your shots are either too dark or too light and the perfect exposure eluded you? Or for you slide shooters, were your pictures from last year's vacation just not up to par exposure-wise and you don't want to repeat the problem this year?

Well, a negative can be reprinted and you may possibly get a good print but why take the chance? Slide film is very unforgiving and if your exposures are off the mark, you may be out of luck. Simple solution: Bracket your shots. Think of bracketing as 'photo insurance' because you're bound to get an exposure that is perfect.

Bracketing means taking three shots of the same scene. The first at the actual meter reading, the second at one stop underexposure, and a third at one stop overexposure. You have just "bracketed" the initial exposure to assure you'll get the ideal shot.

Bracketing can be accomplished either with the aperture control, or by adjusting the shutter speed.

With slide film, I would definitely recommend bracketing as described above. With the more forgiving color negative and black and white film, a more experienced photographer need only bracket on the high side, that is, one shot at correct exposure and one shot over. Remember, even though you won't get as many pictures out of a roll, film it is still relatively inexpensive and bracketing will assure you'll get that special shot.

Other advantages of bracketing are that you'll often get an acceptable second print or slide you may be able to put to good use. Also, if a negative or slide should ever be damaged, you'll have a backup.

Bracketing your shots makes good sense both at home and when traveling. After all, you take an extra set of clothes or an extra traveler's check just in case. Think of bracketing in the same way. An extra shot or two covers you just in case.

a balsamic vinegar reduction and is surprisingly delicious with bread or seafood. It mimics a very expensive, aged, balsamic vinegar, sometimes used with deserts in Italy.

There are four foods that say "Vancouver." They are Geoduck (giant clams), found at the Radisson President Hotel, nanaimo bars (sweet and chocolaty) at the Lazy Gourmet, alder-grilled salmon at Aqua Riva, and hot smoked salmon at Heron's Restaurant at the Waterfront Hotel.

If you must escape the food of Vancouver to preserve your waistline, consider jumping on a ferry to Victoria. The ferry from the outskirts of Vancouver to Victoria is available for both autos and foot traffic. There is also a day trip to Victoria downtown from downtown Vancouver, including two spectacular ferry rides (for $50 Canadian).

MORE GARDENS

There's excellent bus service on Victoria, which will even take you directly to the famous Butchart Gardens.

This massive display garden always has flowers in bloom with seasonally changing gardens. Created from a spent rock quarry by the owner's garden-happy wife, you can easily spend a couple of hours in breathtaking beauty. While we visited, stunning giant dahlias and richly colored fuchsias were blooming. It is worth signing up to take the free guided one and a half-hour tour.

Turn of the century architecture embraces you with civility and charm in downtown Victoria.

As you stroll along the waterfront Causeway you'll be surrounded by the Parliament Buildings (1893), the Empress Hotel (1908), the glass-roofed tropical conservatory of the Crystal Garden (1925), and the Royal British Columbia Museum. Government Street is lined with 19th century storefronts.

For a royal experience, treat yourself to high tea at the Empress hotel, and then browse through the gallery-like gift shops. The Empress has been a landmark in the city and a focal point in the inner harbor for over ninety years.

If you want yet another totally different taste of the northwest, jump on another ferry to Seattle and spend a couple of days soaking up the history and culture that made both John Crapper and Bill Gates (and company) famous. From opera to aircraft, and kayaking to klondiking there's something for everyone.

OF ALL THE POSSIBLE SYMPTOMS OF DEPRESSION, THERE IS ONE THAT CAN BE ESPECIALLY DANGEROUS.

www.med.umich.edu/depression/screen.htm

One of the biggest misconceptions about depression is that people who have it don't function well. In truth, even highly successful people unknowingly struggle with it. The University of Michigan Depression Center can help even if you're not sure you need help. And it's the only multidisciplinary program of its kind in the country, so you can be sure you're starting in the right place. To learn more about depression and to take an online depression screening, visit www.med.umich.edu/depression/screen.htm. After all, even the most effective help can't start unless you know you need it.

The Plymouth Canton Steelers varsity football team suffered its first loss of the season against the Garden City Chargers losing 6-0 last Saturday (Oct 19). The defeat brings the Steelers' record to 4-1-1 for the season.

Brendon Fender, Jerrell Kimbrough, Deshon McClendon and Paul Kanaan led the offense, combining for over 170 yards on the ground. However, the Charger defense was able to keep the Steelers out of the end zone. Alex Avramoski, Paul Kanaan and Spencer Tobin all had out-standing defensive games for the Steelers. The Steeler junior varsity won their third consecutive game, shutting out the Chargers 18-0 Saturday to bring their record to 4-2. They totaled almost 170 yards rushing and 40 yards passing. Dalton Walsler rushed for two touchdowns and Michael Bashawaty ran for a third. Adam Powers and Heath Parling also had out-standing offensive games.

The Steelers' defense led by Michael Bashawaty, Malik Rich, Nick LaPorte and Alex Hays did a strong job containing the Chargers.

The Steeler freshmen won their first game this season, beating the Chargers 25-18. Zach Guy scored two TDs for the Steelers, one on a 60-yard kickoff return and the other a touchdown catch. Tyler Rusin rushed for a touchdown while Sam Rechter caught a touchdown pass.

Leading the Steelers' defense in tackles was Skyler Mornhinweg, Tyler Goble, Tony Rhodes and Justin Gohl.

Savitskie's goal gives Salem a district title

Good teams win. Great teams find ways to win, even when they're not at their best.

Neither Salem nor Ann Arbor Pioneer were playing their best soccer Saturday, when they met for the state district championship at Canton HS. Ranking-wise they were fairly even, Pioneer at No. 7 in the state and Salem at No. 8.

And on this day they were fairly even too, except for one rather notable difference: Or make that two notable differences.

Team co-captains Kevin Savitskie and Brian Popeney always find a way to create a play that ends in the back of their opponents' net. Which is what they did for Salem, playing key roles in the Rocks' 1-0 triumph over the Pioneers.

Asked what the difference in the game was, Pioneer coach Chris Morgan replied, "Their frontrunners. Those two (Popeney and Savitskie) are dangerous. I thought our guys did well marking them, considering those two could be Dream Team players."

The district title, Salem's first since 1999, extends several streaks for the Rocks, but most importantly, it advances them to the Dearborn regional. Salem plays the Monroe-Woodhaven winner at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

The aforementioned streaks include consecutive victories — the Rocks have now won 14 in a row — and shutouts. Salem has yet to surrender a goal in state tournament play and has four-straight shutouts.

The Rocks are 17-4 overall. Pioneer ends its season at 17-2-4.

"We'll take it," Salem coach Ed McCarthy said of the victory. "We had a lot of chances, but I really think we can play better than we did today."

"We didn't possess (the ball) as well as we can. It was very poor. And we made a lot of little mistakes, things we don't usually do."

In the end, however, McCarthy noted, "We played well enough to win."

The havoc Popeney and Savitskie wreak on opposing defenses cannot be underestimated. The operating term for Salem soccer can often be heard from the sideline as McCarthy yells reminders to his minions: "Pressure!"

That's something Popeney and Savitskie do well. The game's only goal resulted from the Rocks keeping the ball in the Pioneers' end by pressuring who-

Carty's goal spree carries PCA to district crown

DISTRICT SOCCER

It was like 40 minutes worth of fingernails on a chalkboard for Plymouth Christian Academy soccer coach Rick Ericson.

His team was playing Westland Huron Valley Lutheran for its Division 4 state district title, and Ericson wasn't there. He was forced to get updates via cell phone from a mile away from the Ann Arbor Greenhills playing site, the result of the red card issued to him for disputing a call with a referee in Wednesday's 2-1 OT win over Greenhills.

It had to eat at him, knowing his team could win this match but at halftime, wasn't. The game was scoreless, which meant a single fluke goal could be decisive.

And there was little Ericson could do to help his Eagles.

Fortunately in the second half, they didn't need it. Dan Carty, PCA's leading scorer, assumed control offensively, driving in three goals and assisting on a fourth to lead the Eagles to a 4-0 triumph over the Hawks. PCA, now 8-9-4, advances to the Jackson Christian regional, where it will face the winner of the Allen Park Cabrini district. The winner of that game plays for the regional title at 2 p.m. Saturday. Huron Valley Lutheran bows out at 8-7-1.

"From the sound of it, we had a lot of opportunities in the first half," said Ericson. "We just kept missing right, missing left. We felt that if we kept at it, it would go our way."

It did, and more than any other single player, Carty was the difference. His three goals gave him 15 for the season. "He had a great game," noted Ericson.

Carty got PCA's first goal and Ben Welton made it 2-0, with an assist from Carty, who scored the last two Eagle goals. Steve Gallagher got two assists and Lew Tripp had one.

Jeff Crandall was in goal for PCA, it was the third-straight strong performance for the Eagle defenders, who have allowed just one goal in state tournament play. The reason for that is the return of several key defenders to active duty. PCA was without three starters for long stretches of the season, which handicapped them.

Early TDs carry Chiefs to easy victory over Rocks

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

This is the kind of game that Canton football coach Tim Baechler hates to play. The reason there's no telling what might happen. Too much emotion involved, leaving open too many variables.

"I just felt sick for a couple of days before this," said Baechler. "It's such a mental game."

Baechler may have felt physically ill before the game, but it was Salem coach Bob Cummings that had that feeling afterwards. The reason: Canton's Brandon Wilcox scooped up the opening kickoff as it splashed through puddles on the field and raced 86 yards for a touchdown to put the Chiefs up 7-0.

The Rocks never got any closer. It was 21-6 after one quarter and 42-6 by halftime. With most of the second half played with a running clock (the result of the 35-point mercy rule), each team got a score to make the final 49-13 and make Canton the winner of the Sandmann-Cummings Trophy.

The season for Canton, now 8-1, continues. The Chiefs find out today (5:30 p.m. on Fox Sports) who their first-round state playoff opponent will be, and where the game will be played.

The season for Salem is over, the Rocks finishing at 2-7.

Sutton given nod as Ryder Cup captain

BY MARTY BUDNER
STAFF WRITER

With The 35th Ryder Cup Matches slated for 2004, Oakland Hills Country Club has reached new heights on hosting major tournaments. Ryder Cup captain Hal Sutton hopes the U.S. team can reach that same level when the competition begins. Oakland Hills is continuously in the rotation for the nation's championship golf tournaments. The Bloomfield Township-based country club has hosted six U.S. Opens, two PGA championships and two U.S. Senior Opens. Now its resume will be spotted with the prestigious Ryder Cup, a tournament that is becoming one of the most important and significant events in golf.

"We have hosted all those

major tournaments and the one we were missing was the Ryder Cup," said Ryder Cup General Chairman Bob Gagliotti at Thursday's press conference formally announcing Sutton as U.S. team captain. "We made a conscious decision several years ago to get the Ryder Cup and capping off our history."

"With that it puts us in such a select group of courses which have hosted the Ryder Cup, PGAs and U.S. Opens. Not very many courses can lay claim to that. This just adds to our history and lore - something that we felt we needed to complete."

This is pretty prestigious. You have to realize that since the early 20s when they first had the Ryder Cup, this is only the 18th time it will be played in the United States," he said. Here we are in Michigan being able to get the Ryder Cup and what a wonderful tribute it is to the state, Oakland Hills and Southeast Michigan.

Now it's Sutton's challenge to bring the Ryder Cup trophy back to the U.S. The European team has won six of the last nine matches after the U.S. dominated the series early years. In the overall 75-year tournament history, the U.S. leads by a 24-8 margin, with a pair of ties.

But lately it's been all Europe, including the 34th Ryder Cup match last month at The Belfry in England where the host team reclaimed the trophy with a stunning 15-5-12-5 triumph.

Sutton, who said he was overwhelmed, honored and awed to be named captain, indicated the U.S. team needs to be more passionate about winning.

"We possess all kinds of talent in America. We've got the world's greatest player and the second-greatest player on our team," said Sutton, a member of four previous Ryder Cup teams. "I don't know what the missing ingredient is right now other than I think we can become more passionate about it."

"I think back to every time the flag is raised in every Ryder Cup ceremony I've ever been in, and every time I put my hand over my heart, it's just passion," he said. "If we can just take it to that level with every player and present that passion, I think we can come out victorious."

Oakland Hills Country Club will come out victorious. Now it's up to Sutton's Ryder Cup team to follow that lead.

ever had possession. Popeney got the ball in the corner to the left of the Pioneer goal, evaded a defender and crossed it.

The ball went through the box towards the right corner. Eric Vanston retrieved it, sending it in towards the net, where Savitskie was waiting to drive it past Pioneer keeper Ryan Bennett.

Savitskie's goal came with 10:13 left in the first half. It was all the Rocks would need, although they would have liked to supplement their lead.

"Savitskie finished when he had to," McCarthy said of the game-winning goal. "And we defended well enough to win."

Proof of that was resting on the scoreboard, where Pioneers' goal total was — or rather, wasn't — listed. Steve Huls was in the net for the Rocks, claiming his third-straight shutout.

"I really wasn't worried during the game," said Morgan. "One goal is nothing for this caliber of team. We had our opportunities, we just didn't find the back of the net."

"Even when our build-up was on, our last touch was off. To tell the truth, I am surprised it was a 1-0 game. I thought it would be 2-1 or something like that."

Morgan thought his side was too strong offensively to be shut down. True, starting forward Steve Lagore was not with the team for reasons Morgan did not want to disclose.

In the end, the Pioneer defenders — with Ryan Hollingsworth marking Savitskie and Greg Pfister on Popeney — were good, but not quite good enough. The Pioneer offense was good, too, but Salem's defense was better.

Folic acid

Both men and women should increase their intake of folic acid to help reduce the risk of heart disease and stroke.

Researchers at the University of Ulster in Belfast, Ireland, found folic acid and B vitamin also known as folate, and other B vitamins prevent the accumulation of high levels of homocysteine, a risk factor in heart disease and stroke. The risk of high homocysteine is similar to the risk of high cholesterol. While folic acid breaks down levels of homocysteine, three other B vitamins—vitamin B12, vitamin B6, and riboflavin—also prevent its buildup.

All adult men and women should consume 400 mcg of folate each day. Pregnant women need 600 mcg per day. Folic acid is needed before a woman becomes pregnant to help prevent neural tube birth defects.

B vitamins can be found abundantly in enriched grain-based foods, including bread, crackers, bagels, English muffins, flour, pasta, rice, and fortified cereals. Other sources of folate include legumes, yeast, dark green leafy vegetables, and some fruits.

Need motivation?

A personal trainer just may be the answer

BY JENN KENNEDY
CORRESPONDENT

Are you tired of trying to motivate yourself to workout? Have you tried different diets and exercise programs that just weren't giving you the results you wanted? Hiring a personal trainer might be what you need to become educated on the proper workout program and achieve the results you are striving for.

Regardless of age, everyone can benefit. Personal trainers can be great assets to your health and wellness. Some people choose not to hire one because it is not in their budget, or they think they can meet their goals on their own.

Before you think you cannot afford it or can get the same results by yourself, consider the benefits of working with these health professionals. They can assist with performing the proper technique of lifting weights or the proper amount of time or exertion for cardiovascular exercise and the right nutritional choices.

MAXIMUM BENEFIT

There are times when I see people exercising in the fitness center, said Teresa Maguran, a personal trainer at the Livonia Family YMCA. It is great to see them in there, but they may not realize they are not performing the exercise to get maximum benefit, or even to avoid injury. That is where I can help them.

Personal trainers can also help you set realistic goals according to your schedule and lifestyle, and help motivate. They can educate you on the importance of maintaining a healthy lifestyle so you stay in shape and stay at your target weight without gaining it back.

"I like to educate my clients," said Tom Arbaugh, personal trainer at the Summit in Canton. If they have not learned what they can do on their own to maintain a safe and effective workout program in the future, then I have not done my job.

Whether you don't know much about exercise, or are an individual with medical concerns, or completing your rehabilitation with a physical therapist, personal trainers can work with you. Most personal trainers offer a consultation first so you can get to know each other, assess your current fitness level, and establish realistic goals.

GOOD COMMUNICATORS

Being a good listener and being able to communicate are essential skills a personal trainer should have. Your personal trainer should be compatible to get the most out of the time spent together.

Personalities should be like yin and yang, said Peter Nielson of Nielson's Town Center Health Club in Southfield. It is important that the personal trainer listen to what the client wants to accomplish, and be able to motivate him or her in an animated, non-threatening way.

A good trainer not only creates a positive relationship with the client, but also with his or her doctor, or physical therapist if there are medical concerns.

Sharon Wells uses the chest press machine under instructions from Teresa Maguran, personal trainer at the Livonia Family YMCA.

Leisa Golden of Northville has been working with Chris Jeffries, a personal trainer from Northville's Water Wheel Health Club, for six months, two days per week. She has lost 12 pounds, and more importantly, reduced her body fat percentage by 10 percent.

"I had been working out for a long time, but I was really surprised how much I did not know before I started working with Chris. He is very knowledgeable, and he makes it fun."

Working with a personal trainer isn't always just using weights or the treadmill. It can involve strength and flexibility training with therapy balls, medicine balls, and fun cardiovascular exercises inside and outside of the gym. A trainer should customize your workout.

GOOD NUTRITION

Jeffries has educated Golden on the importance of the nutritional component of her program.

"I didn't realize I wasn't eating the right foods. I wasn't eating much, and I thought I was eating healthy, but I was not losing weight," she said. "Chris has really been a great resource for me."

Along with being great motivators, having good communication skills, and knowledge of nutrition and exercise, personal trainers should have a CPR certification, be nationally certified, and have at least a few years of experience in the field. Some nationally recognized certifications are American Council on Exercise (ACE), National Strength and Conditioning

Association (NSCA), American College of Sports Medicine (ACSM), National Association of Sports Medicine (NASM), and Aerobics and Fitness Association of America (AFAA). Personal Trainers are also required to take a specified number of continuing education credits per year to maintain their certification, so they are frequently learning new material.

If you work with someone who also has a bachelor's degree in exercise science, physiology, kinesiology, or physical education, it is preferable, but not ultimately necessary.

Experience, knowledge, attention to safety, and ability to get you moving are key factors in choosing a personal trainer.

"A trainer can have a degree, but not the skills or experience to help you achieve your goals. However, on the same token, he or she could be without the degree and be very motivating, but not have all the knowledge to design a safe and effective workout specific to your needs," said Nielson.

SEEK REFERENCES

Asking the trainer for references is encouraged. Obtaining testimonies of current or past clients is worthwhile. Ask around at the fitness center where you belong to find out who is recommended. Do your research and sign up for a consultation (most are free) to get to know the trainers before you hire one.

Some trainers or fitness centers may offer a few free sessions with the club membership. Prices can range from $25-

$200 per one-hour session, depending on the trainer or club, whether the trainer works with you in the fitness center, or at your home. Working with a trainer in your home can be more costly. Average cost in a fitness center is most likely between $30-$60 per one-hour session.

Location is important, so call around to health facilities near your work or home, or ask to set up an appointment with a trainer at your current fitness center if you already belong.

You may even want to purchase two to three sessions first, before purchasing a package, to see if your personalities are compatible, but be sure to choose another trainer if it doesn't work out.

Don't feel intimidated by the thought of working with a personal trainer. A good health and fitness professional will be patient, encouraging, and educational. If you want to improve your health and well-being, just like working out on your own, it takes time and commitment to change your lifestyle. Don't expect results overnight. It takes at least six weeks to start seeing the benefits of your effort.

You can spend $30-$50 easily in one hour dining out, a couple times a week. Save the money and spend it on bettering yourself. You may be able to get fit on your own, but the question is "Have you?" Also, when was the last time you felt that good? When it comes to your health and becoming educated on something you thought you knew, hire a personal trainer. The experience can last a lifetime.

Mushrooms may help reduce breast cancer risk

Preliminary studies conducted by the Beckman Research Institute of the City of Hope in California suggest that the humble white button mushroom may play an important new role in treating or reducing the risk of breast cancer in postmenopausal women.

City of Hope, a National Cancer Institute-designated Comprehensive Cancer Center, is a leading research and treatment center for cancer.

Researchers at the City of Hope, under the leadership of Dr. Shuan Chen, a scientist in the department of immunology, have found that a substance in white mushrooms appears to suppress breast cell proliferation by reducing the level of estrogen, a hormone that can stimulate the development of breast cancer. The substance, yet to be identified, appears to inhibit the activity of the enzyme aromatase, involved in the production of estrogen.

THE ROLE OF AROMATASE INHIBITORS

Estrogen is a hormone necessary for childbearing and bone and heart health in women, but lifetime exposure to estrogen may influence breast cancer risk. After menopause, the ovaries no longer produce estrogen, instead, the enzyme aromatase converts adrenal androgens into estrogen. Aromatase inhibitors limit the amount of estrogen being produced, thereby making less estrogen available to stimulate growth of estrogen-responsive breast cancer cells.

In vitro aromatase inhibition studies were performed by City of Hope researchers using mushroom extract prepared from fresh white mushrooms. A 50 percent inhibition of aromatase activity was achieved. Portabella and crimini mushroom extract also demonstrated significant anti-aromatase effects. The researchers are now in the process of identifying the specific substance or substances in mushrooms that suppress aromatase.

"Knowing the substances in mushrooms that slow down the production of estrogen could enable physicians to make dietary recommendations that have the potential for affecting the development of breast cancer," said Dr. Chen. "Mushrooms are not a miracle cure, but with cancer treatment advances are typically small, adding up over time to make significant progress in our battle against this dread disease."

MUSHROOMS: DELICIOUS AND HEALTHFUL

Meaty mushrooms are a welcome addition to any diet, having few calories (virtually fat free and low in carbohydrate) and contributing B-complex vitamins and essential minerals, including selenium, though to reduce prostate cancer risk.

For thousands of years, Eastern cultures have revered mushrooms as both food and medicine. Eastern tradition has it that there are more than 50 species with healing properties. Studies conducted over the past 30 years—mostly in Asia—have provided data suggesting that mushrooms or substances extracted from mushrooms may aid in the treatment of certain types of cancer, boost the immune system, and reduce risk of coronary heart disease. Much of this research has focused on shiitake and maitake mushrooms. The City of Hope study is one of the first to focus on white mushrooms.

Mushrooms are exciting interest in other quarters, as well. Cancer Research UK, a private cancer research organization in England, has just published Medicinal mushrooms: their therapeutic properties and current medical usage with special emphasis on cancer treatments, the most comprehensive review to date of the use of medicinal mushrooms in Japan, China, and Korea. Many of the studies cited in the 250-page report focus on the ability of purified isolates—especially the beta-glucans and other polysaccharides—to act as anti-tumor agents and immune system enhancers. The Cancer Research UK report also reports research suggesting that medicinal mushrooms may also help reduce side effects from radiation and chemotherapy.

Mushroom nutrition and health information can be found at www.mushroomcouncil.org. Free booklet, And They're Nutrition, Too, also available.

Complementary medical center opens in Novi

Gentle music plays softly in the background. A friendly receptionist smiles as visitors enter the spacious room. Wood and warm-toned upholstered furniture face a view of green trees and blue sky. A waterfall bubbles behind an etched glass pane of richly hued leaf patterns suspended over bamboo flooring.

Where are you? Heaven on earth? Almost.

It's the new Center for Complementary and Integrative Medicine (CIM), located at Henry Ford Medical Center in Novi.

The treatment site answers the concerns of those who turn to alternative treatments by taking the best of treatments that complement conventional medicine and offering them in a spa-like setting at competitive prices.

Ultimately, a complete range of practitioners, including a holistic physician, a hypnotherapist, a chiropractor and a holistic nutritionist, are expected to provide services onsite. Currently, acupuncture, massage therapy and St. John's wort therapy are offered and business is booming.

"We have the credentialed practitioners that people are looking for whether they are trying to stay well or receive treatment for their chronic problems or diseases," notes Denise Jacob, R.N., Ph.D., and administrative manager for CIM. Jacob says a primary focus for CIM experts is to help patients overcome pain, headache, chronic fatigue syndrome and other conditions that don't respond well to standard medical care. But, she says, patients with treatable conditions also are welcomed to explore alternative treatments to complement their conventional medical care.

That's particularly important, says Dr. Michael Seidman, ear, nose and throat specialist and director of Complementary and Integrative Medicine at Henry Ford, since combined medical and alternative treatments have a synergistic effect.

And unlike some other alternative health care entities, the experts leading innovations at the site, like Robert Levine, the research director of the center, are adding to the body of scientifically verified knowledge about complementary and integrative medicine.

The center's researchers currently are conducting studies on the effectiveness of St. John's wort therapy on chronic headaches and the effects of grape seed extract and red wine on aging. Federal grants on studies of chronic back pain, age-related hearing loss and cancer also are being pursued.

Tapping into the desire to provide optimal healing and well-being for all, officials brought in a Feng Shui expert to help create the soothing environment, seen in features like the columned curvilinear reception desk and the "healing rooms" of the beautifully designed space.

A store in the reception area also will be available for people to purchase significant healing arts books, music, herbs, vitamins and other health-related products. Later, space in a lower level may host classes in yoga, Feldenkrais and stress reduction. For now, at least one practitioner is thrilled to see the wide range of patients visiting the clinic.

"In my practice here, I've seen people ranging from those who want a relaxing massage to people who have strains and sprains to those who have chronic conditions like fibromyalgia," says B. J. Rau, a nationally certified therapeutic massage and bodywork expert.

Rau also has specialized training in prenatal and infant massage and is a Reiki practitioner, an increasingly popular ancient energy medicine.

"Our eclectic group of practitioners really makes it ideal for patients," Rau says. "If I am working with someone, I can refer them on if I see that massage won't fix the problem."

FDA official to lead generic drug educational session

FDA official to lead Oct. 29 generic drug educational session.

The Food and Drug Administration's Office of Generic Drugs director, Gary Buehler, will discuss the FDA approval process for generic drug products at an educational session for health care professionals sponsored by Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan. The session will be held at the Blues' Bricktown Auditorium in Detroit 6-8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 29.

Physicians, nurses, pharmacists and other health care professionals are invited to this CME/CPE (Continuing Medical Education/Continuing Pharmaceutical Education) program. Buehler, a registered pharmacist, leads the FDA's Office of Generic Drugs in the Center for Drug Evaluation and Research and directs a staff of scientists, researchers and other support staff.

Buehler, whose office launched a generic drug education program during the summer to educate consumers on the safety and effectiveness of generic prescription drugs, will address aspects of the FDA approval process such as review, inspection and monitoring. Buehler will cover issues of concern to both health care professionals and their patients.

Joining as co-lecturer for the night will be University of Michigan associate vice president for Medical Affairs, Dr. John E. Billi. Billi is active on statewide committees involved in physician practice and quality improvement, including the Michigan State Medical Society's Medical Economics Committee, the Southeast Michigan Quality Forum and the Michigan Quality Improvement Consortium.

Billi will provide a physician's perspective on using generic drugs. He will also share results of an informal survey of patient comments on generic drugs.

Dr. Thomas Simmer, Michigan Blues vice president and corporate medical director, said the issue of FDA standards for generic prescription drugs is particularly timely in light of interest in Congress and state legislatures and among group insurance purchasers and consumers to find quality alternatives to expensive brand-name medications. The Michigan Blues are currently conducting a statewide awareness campaign on the safety and value generic drugs offer consumers.

Session attendees will receive Continuing Medical Education or Continuing Pharmacy Education credits that are required to maintain professional licensure. The Michigan Blues program is an accredited provider of continuing education by the Michigan State Medical Society, the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education, the Academy of General Dentistry and the Michigan Nurses Association.

For more information about the Oct. 29 CME/CPE program, the FDA Process for Approving Generic Medications, please call the Department of Health Care Education Hotline at (800) 921-8980 or register on line at www.bcbsm.com/providers/cme-sht/ml

Almonds fight cholesterol

Almonds significantly lowered bad cholesterol levels in a study of people with high cholesterol reported in an August issue of Circulation Journal of the American Heart Association.

Canadian researchers conducted the study, funded by The Almond Board of California and the Canadian government, to determine whether almonds can help reduce heart disease risk by lowering high cholesterol and at what consumption level.

Some previous research has suggested that nut consumption reduces the risk of coronary heart disease. Because previous research has suggested that eating more nuts increases calories, nuts generally are not recommended for people who need to restrict calories.

Twenty-seven patients with high cholesterol (15 men and 12 postmenopausal women, average age 64) completed the three-phase study. Their average total cholesterol level was 260 milligrams per deciliter (mg/dL) at baseline.

Three one-month diets were undertaken. For one month each participant ate a full dose of almonds (average 74 grams), which represented a little less than one quarter of their total daily caloric intake. For one month they took a half dose of almonds (average 37 grams), described as a "handful" of almonds. In the last month, they ate a low-saturated fat, whole-wheat muffin as a daily snack.

The muffin snack served as the control diet because it had about the same amount of calories, protein and saturated and polyunsaturated fats, explains lead author Dr. David J. A. Jenkins, director at the Clinical Nutrition and Risk Factor Modification Center, St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto.

Researchers measured cholesterol levels, blood pressure and weight in the subjects. They found that patients reduced their low-density lipoprotein (LDL, or "bad" cholesterol) an average 4.4 percent with the half portion of almonds and 9.4 percent with the full portion.

"We were quite impressed," says Jenkins. "If you look at the ratio of LDL to HDL (high-density lipoprotein, the good cholesterol), the reduction was 7.8 percent for the half dose and 12 percent for the full dose by the fourth week. That ratio is very important in assessing cardiovascular risk."

The patients' cholesterol levels did not significantly drop after the muffin phase.

Jenkins says that practitioners should encourage patients to eat almonds as part of a healthy balanced diet as long as they are natural or "dry roasted" without added oils or salts.

Nuts do not have cholesterol and are a good source of protein, according to the American Heart Association. However, the association stressed that the potential benefits of nuts may be negated if they are added rather than substituted for other foods in the diet. While nuts and seeds tend to be very high in fat and calories, most of the fat is polyunsaturated or monounsaturated (e.g. almonds, pecans, walnuts).

Participants in this study were carefully counseled on how to use nuts in place of other foods in the diet.

Nuts, including almonds, walnuts, pecans, peanuts, macadamia and pistachios, have been shown to lower blood cholesterol, says Jenkins.

Brookside attracts with different floor plans, price

Centex Homes offers a brand new home for less than $175,000 at Brookside, a detached site condominium community amid the cornfields of Superior Township.

About a third of the 370 lots off Geddes between Harris and Prospect roads have sold.

"The location between Ann Arbor and Canton is a new frontier," said Ebon Petty, sales rep. "It's open land and still within a 45-minute drive of Detroit. We saw what happened to Canton the last 10 years," he added. "Land is available. It's a great opportunity for investment here."

Attention to detail is big for Centex, said Ryan Andrews, project manager at Brookside. "The customer gets a phone call from sales and the field manager every Monday with an update what happened the previous week and what's happening this week," he said. "It gives the opportunity for questions and concerns."

"We make sure the customer is 100 percent satisfied with the home," Andrews said.

"Our goal is satisfied customers who will recommend us without reservation," Petty added. "These are high-design plans, very functional, not the type of a box on box."

"We have angles, niches, plant shelves, things of that nature," Andrews said. "Value for square foot is incredible."

Six floor plans currently are available. Base prices range from $171,400 for a colonial of 1,442 square feet with three bedrooms and 1 1/2 baths to $213,400 for a colonial of 2,200 square feet with four bedrooms and 2 1/2 baths.

A tri-level and ranch also are available. Two new plans, a story-and-a-half and colonial, are on the drawing board.

A two-car garage, basement, range and dishwasher, main-floor or second-floor laundry and hardwood flooring in the foyer, vinyl in the kitchen and bath, and carpeting throughout are standard features in all plans. Air conditioning ($2,800-

This tri-level home at Brookside contains nearly 1,500 square feet of living space.

$3,300) and fireplace ($2,965) are upgrades.

Three models have been constructed.

The Brook, a tri-level, features a living room and kitchen/nook with volume ceiling on the entry level, a step-down family room with half bath and an upper level with three bedrooms and the laundry.

The master includes a combination tub/shower and walk-in closet. A second full bath up also services the secondary bedrooms.

The home also contains a basement. Base price for 1,487 square feet is $177,400.

The Woodland, a colonial of 1,729 square feet, includes a living room, dining area, kitchen/nook, family room and half bath on the main floor.

The master with a combination tub/shower and walk-in closet, two secondary bedrooms, another full bath and a laundry are upstairs.

Base price is $187,400.

The Greenleaf, a colonial of 1,886 square feet, features four bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths and an upper-level laundry. Base price is $193,000.

Vinyl siding is the primary exterior material.

Brookside is serviced by city water, sewers and sidewalks. It's within the Willow Run public school boundaries.

The property tax rate is $37.25 per $1,000 of state taxable value, half of sales price for new construction. That means the owners of a $187,400 home there would pay about $3,500 the first year.

The annual association fee is $95.

The sales models/office at Brookside (734) 480 3300 is open noon to 6 p.m. Monday 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Sunday.

All of these new homes include a two car attached garage full basement and first floor laundry. Gas fireplaces, decks, skylights, central air, wood and ceramic tile floors and jetted tubs can be added as optional items. Forest Park Condominium is in the excellent Wayne Westland school district. The city of Wayne has a beautiful modern, community center with a unique swimming pool and ice rink. They also host a community theater with fine entertainment. Metro Detroit area ranks 15th in urban sprawl study

(AP) - People flocked inland from Pacific coastal communities to more affordable homes in the Riverside-San Bernardino area of southern California over the past two decades. Businesses followed.

That growth propelled the Riverside-San Bernardino metropolitan area to become the most sprawling metro region in the country, according to a study released recently by Smart Growth America.

The group promotes the protection of open space, neighborhood revitalization, affordable housing and more transportation options.

The next two areas on the list are both in North Carolina: Greensboro-Winston Salem-High Point and Raleigh-Durham.

Another southern metropolis, Atlanta, is the hub of the fourth most sprawling area.

Detroit ranked as the 15th most sprawling of 83 metro areas measured by Smart Growth America. The Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan has keyed on Smart Growth issues in recent years.

The only Northeastern area in the top 10 of Smart Growth's rankings is the Bridgeport-Stamford-Norwalk-Danbury area of Connecticut, home to many suburban commuters to New York City.

More sprawling metro areas tend to have more fatal traffic accidents and worse pollution, in large part because of an increased reliance on cars to get to work and do errands, the report said.

People drive more miles and mass transit options are often limited.

"People define sprawl and smart growth in a lot of different ways and we want to bring rigor to the debate," said Don Chen, Smart Growth's executive director. "What we hope people will gain is a better understanding of how sprawl affects peoples' quality of life."

The report ranked areas by population and housing density, the mix of homes, jobs and services, the availability and use of town centers or downtowns, and the street network.

To fight sprawl, the report said, planners should focus on reviving abandoned properties and neglected communities, create places where homes and businesses are in close proximity and encourage development in already built-up areas.

The rankings were based on analysis of federal data for 83 metropolitan areas around the country. For more specific details, visit the Web at www.smartgrowthamerica.org.

Exterior accents, volume ceilings recommend ranch

The Dykstra (405-11) is an elegant looking ranch of 2,350 square feet.

The facade has numerous windows, varied roof lines acting as accents and an elongated two-car garage facing the street. Brick has been used to complement wood siding and a shake roof.

Planters have been built on both sides of the covered front porch.

The center of the Dykstra is all vaulted. The living room would be ideal for entertaining. Windows on the front and side bathe the room in natural sunlight.

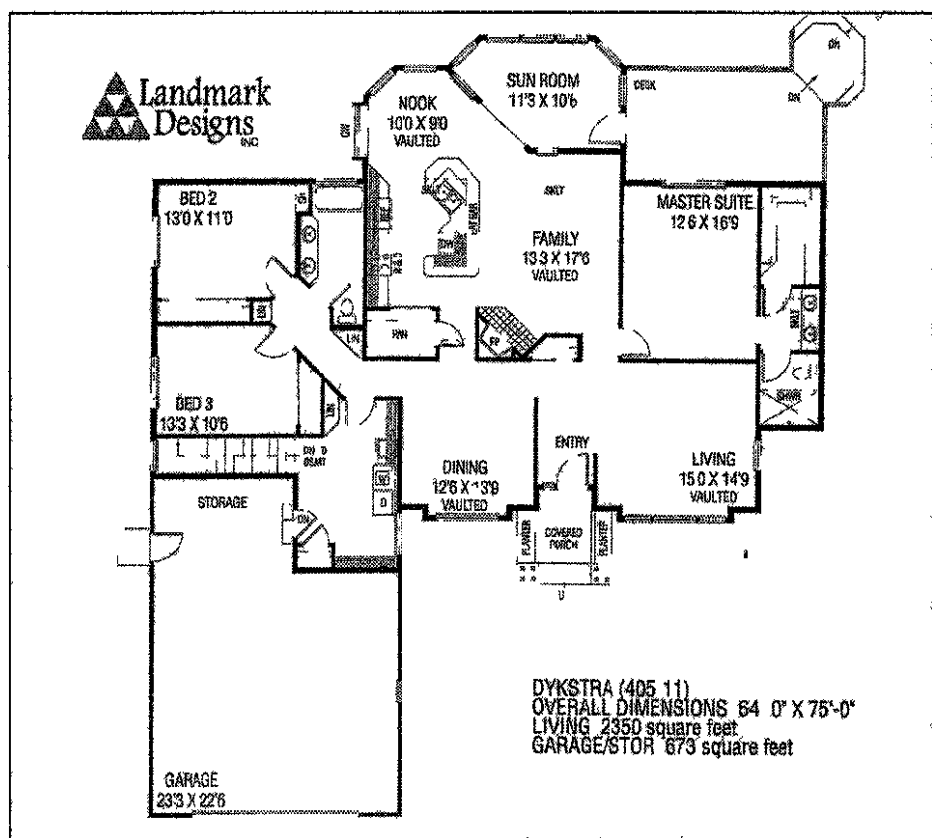

A formal dining room is on the other side of the main entry. It's wide open to the kitchen and family room. At the doorway to the kitchen is a walk-in pantry.

An island in the middle of the kitchen has a long eating bar, dishwasher and sink.

Beyond the kitchen is a nook that has patio doors going into a fully enclosed sunroom, wonderful for enjoying evenings outdoors without the bugs.

A deck is off the sunroom.

A fireplace is in the corner of the family room.

The master suite opens off the family room. It includes an elongated, walk-in closet, dual-sink vanity, oversized shower and skylight overhead. Two other bedrooms, each with a wall closet, are on the opposite side of the home. A full bath is nearby. A long utility room is off the hall. It has folding counters, storage closet and a sink. The door to the garage also is here.

For a study plan including scaled floor plans, elevations, sections and an artist render ing send $1995 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Road E, Cottage Grove, OR 97424. Please specify plan name (Dykstra) and number (405-11). A catalog featuring hundreds of home plans is available for $12.95 or save by ordering both for $29.95. For faster processing, call (800) 562-1151 or visit www.landmarkdesigns.com.

Berkshire is the best house, HOMEARAMA visitors decide

And the winner is the Berkshire, constructed by Randy M. Perez Custom Builder of Washington Township. That house, a two-story brick Tudor with four bedrooms, five baths and 5,100 square feet of living space including a finished lower level, was voted the favorite last weekend of visitors to HOMEARAMA Orion.

People's Choice ballots were distributed as show-goers browsed the six new idea homes each featuring a different design, furnishings and landscaping.

The show continues through Sunday, Nov. 3 in the Turnberry Subdivision at Indianwood Golf & Country Club, Indianwood Road between Joslyn and Baldwin roads in Orion Township. Voters especially liked Berkshire's overall design, the lower level entertainment area and bar, the kitchen and the great room's see-through, hand-carved cherrywood surround fireplace with built-in wine rack.

The Legacy by MacLeish Building of Troy took second place with voters mentioning the lower level with home theater, exercise room and bar.

The St. Andrews by Alan Bishop & Associates of Birmingham, which took third place, was cited for its master suite with built-in television above the fireplace.

HOMEARAMA visitors also were asked if they plan to buy a new home within the next year. Twenty-seven percent said yes. The reason they visited the show was to get ideas for decorating, remodeling or a new home.

The Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan sponsors the show. Hours are 2-9 p.m. Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturdays and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sundays.

Admission is $7, free for children 12 years of age and younger. Discount admission coupons are available at Standard Federal Bank branch offices.

A free plan book and free parking are provided. Refreshments are available for purchase.

Visitors may take pictures of the six homes when touring. They range in size from 4,250 to 7,950 square feet and in price from $600,000 to $1.3 million.

2003 Ford Crown Victoria: Nice luxury for under $30,000

Advertising Feature CAReport

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti News Features

Anne Fracassa

It's super easy to see why the Ford Crown Victoria has become the car of choice for most police departments.

Not only is the Crown Vic comfortable, it's also got a lot of room. I mean head room, leg room, hip room, shoulder room, room, room, room. There's actually 132 cubic feet of interior room in there.

I think you can actually live in the car. The new police version is called the Interceptor.

In reality, however, peek inside a fully outfitted police cruiser (rear cage, computer, rifle rack, ticket book, report portfolio and all the other stuff) and there isn't all that much room anymore.

But for you and me, there's more than plenty. Interior space and comfort is at a premium. Front seats are bench style, which suits me fine. Both driver and passenger can enjoy an 8-way power seat. You'll easily seat six without a problem. And with four doors that open very wide, you'll enter and exit the Crown Vic with ease.

There's also a lot of cargo room in the trunk - a whopping 20.6 cubic feet of storage space. The way the trunk lid is configured, you'll only have a 26.6-inch lift-over height so you can put all your worldly belongings in there. There's an optional trunk organizer that you would be well advised to pick.

The Crown Vic tested this week was an LX model with a cloth interior. You can also choose the LX Sport model. Floor mats are standard.

2003 FORD CROWN VICTORIA | Vehicle type Large car, Power 4.6-liter V8 engine; Mileage: 18 city / 25 highway, Where built St Thomas, Ontario, Canada, Price as tested: $29,415.

Especially enjoyable was the illuminated entry system. It has automatic on/off headlights and dual sun visors. Exterior side mirrors are heated for those really cold mornings that are ahead of us here in Michigan.

The steering wheel has built in audio and climate controls. Up ahead is larger-than-life electronic instrumentation that stretches across the front panel. Something perfect for the height challenged - power adjustable pedal.

Like I said, the ride is extremely smooth and you could plan a cross country trip with this vehicle without a worry. And with the optional handling and performance package, you really won't have a worry.

You won't hear any road noise either. The Crown Vic is a rear-wheel-drive vehicle and has a suspension that should be on every Ford vehicle. There's speed-sensitive variable-assist power steering as well.

The Crown Vic tested was outfitted with a 4.6-liter overhead cam sequential fuel injected V8 engine that gives you 235 horses under the hood.

It's also outfitted with a fail-safe cooling system that protects the engine - even when it doesn't have any coolant in it. It's also got a dual exhaust system.

All the safety issues are taken care of, too. Two years ago, the Crown Victoria was awarded a five-star frontal crash test rating for front passengers in the U.S. government's crash test. Five stars is the highest, by the way.

Its personal Safety System adjust deployment of the airbags based on data transmitted to the car's computer during the first milliseconds of a collision. Front outboard seat belt pretensioners activated even before the airbags ignite.

The Crown Vic is also outfitted with an anti-lock braking system, and as an option, you could get an all-speed traction control system. In the rear trunk you'll find a florescent release handle, just in case a kid - or you - get locked in the trunk.

I don't care too much for the styling of the Crown Victoria, but there really isn't too much you can do with a vehicle that large to make it pretty or more sport. Besides, most cops probably wouldn't drive something "pretty," right?

I liked my week in the Crown Vic. The comfort issues alone were so pleasing that I would recommend it to anyone that needs a people-hauler with a no-nonsense attitude. Go take a look.
