WTUA gets bond bids for YCUA expansion

BY JACK GLADDEN STAFF WRITER

The expansion of the Ypsilanti Community Utilities Authority wastewater treatment plant moved into its final phase Thursday when the Western Townships Utilities Authority received bids on the bonds issued for the project

Of five bidders, the low bid was offered by Merrill Lynch & Co of New York at a net interest cost of 4 53 percent Merrill Lynch will turn over the bond proceeds to WTUA on Nov 26, said Tim Faas, WTUA director of operations

'The 4 53 rate is an excellent rate,' said Tony Minghine, director of finance and budget for Canton Township

Faas agreed "We were a little bit nervous because during the two weeks leading into that bond sale the bond market turned a little unfavorable," he said "But then it turned around"

WTUA provides wastewater services to the townships of Plymouth, Canton and Northville It recently received a AA credit rating from Standard & Poors, which reduces the interest costs paid by the townships to the bond purchaser over the 20-year life of the bonds

The shares of the debt service for the $92 million project will be divided among the three communities, with Canton paying 33 75 percent, Plymouth

Clerks hope for good turnout as election nears

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Local election officials are predicting a better-than-usual turnout for Tuesday's general election

Plymouth City Clerk Linda Langmesser said she expects 43 percent of the city's 7,200 registered voters to participate in this year's balloting

"The 35th District Court judge race is a big reason I think there will be an increase in voters this year," said Langmesser "And, the governor's race is a hot item

"I've had a lot of telephone calls about the numerous proposals on the ballot," she added "I think people are anxious to make their voices known"

Langmesser said the 1998 gubernatorial election drew 34 percent of the electorate to the

This year, nearly 1,200 absentee ballots were sent out by city election officials, and they received just over half by Friday

"Voters can turn in their absentee ballots by 8 p m Tuesday at City Hall," said Langmesser, "however, we would like to have them all in by Monday, if possi-

In Plymouth Township, clerk Marilyn Massengill is predicting about a 50-percent turnout, a figure she calls disappointing

"I don't think it's a good turnout," Massengill said "We used to get 75 or 80 percent for these (gubernatorial) elections I'd like to see a lot more"

The township, which boasts just over 20,000 registered voters, sent out 3,809 absentee ballots, of which about 66 percent have already been returned.

Massengill is also concerned that voters may run out of patience while waiting in what could be longer lines because of the length of this year's ballot With an abundance of races and four statewide ballot proposals, actual time spent in the voting

Mayflower turns to condos in effort to energize sales

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

The success of the $13 million Mayflower Centre complex in downtown Plymouth will be more dependent on condominium owners than earlier anticipated

While retail space on the first floor is nearly filled, leasing of second-floor office space has been non-existent As a result, owners of the building have decided to transform the 26,000 square feet of space into condominiums "The office market is dead," said Mark Baker of Downtown Plymouth Ventures, owner of the Mayflower Centre "And, since the stock market is

Complaints 'sign' of the times

BY TEDD SCHNEIDER STAFF WRITER

They are campaign currency in western Wayne County and the subject of controversy every election Nothing, it seems, raises the hackles of candidates and supporters from both sides of the aisle like alleged dirty tricks with campaign signs - be they vandalized, stolen or illegally placed

With complaints rolling in on a daily basis, this fall has been no different, although some area communities are taking a decidedly lowkey approach in dealing with sign scofflaws

In Plymouth Township, for instance, sign complaints in the general election campaign have dwindled from the numbers posted during the primary Plymouth Township's sign ordinance limits signs to four square feet

36 10 percent and Northville 30 15 percent Faas said Cantons share would have been larger and the other two less, but Canton has contributed cash from its water and sewer fund toward the project

The original phase of the project, construction of a large collection station and pumping station completed in the 1990s will provide enough transportation capacity for the sewer system until the communities all fully developed, Faas said

The second component is treatment capacity to ensure we have enough (treatment) capacity going forward

Both Faas and Minghine said a long term goal of the project dating from the 1980s, was to allow the participating communities to leave the troubled Detroit/ Wayne County sewage treatment system

They (Detroit) are going to have to spend into the billions of dollars just to get secondary treatment capabilities," Minghine said "This plant has full tertiary treatment Once this project is done, all our flows will go to YCUA instead of Detroit

Faas said WTUA's contract with Wayne County expires in another 10 years

'This project will be done in three,' he said "That leave us six or seven years to determine how much capacity we would keep in the Detroit system We ve done projections to 2030 and think this expansion will take us that far

He said once the expansion is completed, WTUA would have the option to sell the capacity it currently has in the Wayne County/ Detroit system to other communities

He said WTUA also has maintained rights to a future expansion at the Ypsilanti plant

"We'll decide down the road whether to participate in that," he said

And what does all this mean to the average resident?

'It means that we are all going to have adequate sewer capacity in the future," Minghine said 'It's the kind of thing we take for granted It's hard to find a more boring subject When people think of public services, they tend to think of public safety and fire But I know I flush a toilet a lot more often than I call police'

Marchers finish the state season on a high note

BY DIANE HANSON CORRESPONDENT

'Its Plymouth Time!' 'said a pleased Clayton Wachholz, director of the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park Marching Band, at the conclusion of the Huron Valley Invitational held at Lakeland High School in White Lake on Saturday

Capping off their Michigan competitions, the P-CEP band finished off a perfect season by once again capturing the Flight I first-place trophy along with all Flight I captions for Best Music, Best Marching and Best General Effect

And with a score of 92 6 out of a possible 100 points, the hometown performers also marched off with the Grand Champion Trophy for the highest score of all 22 high school bands there, something they have done for 10 of the 13 years the trophy has been awarded

'Im pleased that we are performing to our potential now, Wachholz said I heard a level of maturity tonight that we ve not really reached so far this

That, he added, is a 'good sign,' especially since about one-third of the band are firstyear marchers — making it one of the youngest bands in recent

Rachel Davis, a senior at Salem High School, plays flute during the per formance of the band's show "Elasticity"

Plymouth-Canton history

Having the show completed gives the students a lot more confidence,' Wachholz said "Now, for the first time all season, I think we can actually start to make the show better Trumpet player John Lundy agreed 'You hear about plateaus — where you stop, level off and then start going up more, the Salem junior said We re at the point where we ll go up more now" and one of the four P-CEP drum majors, was excited with the band's performance Tonight was very good," she said after the awards ceremony Everything is coming together - we ve learned our entire show and now we're cleaning our performance That cleaning process is very tedious and sometimes not fun, but we've got to do it and we are Its what makes us good

Those long hours of practice that began last spring are paying off in other ways, too That's something Salem freshman Amy Reissenweber has noticed in her first year playing alto saxophone with the band

'We are starting to really work together now and it is a lot easier that way,' she said 'It wasn t so easy at the beginning You have to get to know each other It takes a lot of teamwork for this to actually work.

Other Observer-area bands at the Huron Valley competition included Farmington, fifth in Flight II with 68 35 points, and Livonia Franklin, sixth in Flight I with 764

The Plymouth-Canton Marching Band walked off with the Flight I first-place trophy at Saturday's Huron Valley Invitational at Lakeland High School

The top 10 scoring bands in each of the four flights qualify for the championship contest Other Observer-area bands making the cut for the state competition are Farmington Hills Harrison, Redford

"We'll hit a good performance level at states," Wachholz said And we'll have two more weeks to get even better after

Thurston and Livonia Franklin

Those two weeks precede the Bands of America Grand National Championships, held Nov 14-16 at the RCA Dome in Indianapolis

There will be one additional performance between the state and national championships -6 p m Nov 9 at the P-CEP sta-

Democrats answer attack ads; the Republican Party backs them

BY MATT JACHMAN STAFF WRITER

Kevin Kelley's Congressional campaign has launched a counterattack on flyers and television advertising Kelley supporters say distort his record, especially on taxes

But the Michigan Republican State Committee, which paid for some of the advertising, is standing its ground So is the campaign manager for Kelley's opponent, state Sen Thaddeus McCotter

McCotter, of Livonia, issued a statement Oct 15 that decried attempts to smear Kelley McCotter called Kelley a good man who would work very hard if elected

Kelley, Redford Townships supervisor, and McCotter are in and say he has voted to raise a battle for the US House of Representatives in Michigan's new 11th District, which includes much of western Wayne County McCotter, Kelley and two minor party candidates will appear on the ballot in the 11th District race in Tuesday's election

Kelley joined some of Michigans top elected Democrats at the Redford Grill on Friday morning to mobilize a response to the ads

They can't win on the issues, so they're going to try a character assassination, Kellev told a group of about 25 that included US Sen Carl Levin, Congressman John Dingell and local officials and residents

Kelley took issue with ads that portray him as a tax raiser or create over 50 taxes and fees during his political career Kelley, township supervisor for sıx years, ıs a former Wayne County commissioner

The portrait painted by the ads is 'just an out-and-out lie,' he said

Redford's total property tax rate has gone from 14 41 to 13 48 mills between 1996 and 2002, according to finance director John Cubba Kelley said the decrease includes cuts in the sanitation and public safety pension millages, as well as tax rollbacks required by state law because of increasing property values

Six consecutive balanced budgets No tax increases. Kelley said

Kelley said the attacks slander all of Redford

"We re not going to have the entire community dragged through the mud to get Thaddeus McCotter elected to the United States Congress," he

McCotter's campaign manager, Paul Bukowski, defended the ads. but said his campaign isn't aware of what the state Republican Party is doing on McCotter's behalf

"You just have no control over it You have absolutely no control over it," Bukowski said

He said Kelley's citing of Redford's millage-rate decrease doesn t answer Republicans charges about voting to create or raise more than 50 taxes and fees "No ones proving the distortions' are being made, Bukowski said records are there," he added Jason Brewer, a spokesman for the Republican State Committee, said the "over 50' number includes any fee, such as for garage-sale licenses or a copy of a police report, that Kelley voted for during his time as a county commissioner and township supervisor When it was pointed out that it isn't unusual for local officials to periodically raise fees for services in order to pay for the cost of government, Brewer responded 'You can make that argument," but Kelley's voting shows he "utilized tax and fee increases as a first resort rather than a last resort

Kelley disagreed, and said the "over 50 number 'sounds high," even including all fees he mjachman@oe homecomm net | (734) 953 "If you go into the record, the may have voted on during his time as a county commissioner and supervisor

"We had to live within our budget and that s what we ve done for six years," he said

Levin, who is running for his fifth Senate term, said at Friday's gathering that federal campaign finance reform enacted recently should change the tone of future campaigns by regulating the way money can be used free speech rights, he suggested, distortions can't be completely eliminated "The people have ultimately

Detroit man charged Thieves hit a pair of construction sites

It appears that thieves helped themselves to some equipment at one Halvard construction site to steal something from another

Plymouth Township police Tuesday responded to both construction sites At the first, owners reported that a Sky Track high lift had been stolen after the lock that had been securing it had been cut

POLICE BLOTTER

The lift, valued at some $200, was later found at the Johnson Electric construction site, also on Halyard But that site had suf fered some $30 000 in losses

According to police reports, thieves made off with a pair of 18-foot Hydro mobile bridges, which had been assembled when the site supervisor had left the previous evening Construction officials told police it would have taken thieves at least an hour to disassemble the bridge, and that trailer to transport them It was the second loss the

Johnson Electric site had suffered in eight days On Oct 21, a pair of motorized Hydro mobile scaffolding lifts were stolen from the site

Police have no real leads, nor any suspects, in either theft

Detroit bar association rates judicial election candidates

The Judicial Candidate Evaluation Committee of the Detroit Metropolitan Bar Association has rated judicial candidates for contested elections in the courts of Wayne County for the November general election

The Committee evaluates the fitness of each candidate for judicial office based upon the candidates legal ability (scholarship, analysis, judgment, clarity of expression), trial experience, integrity, honesty, judicial temperament, and reputation, without regard to party affiliation, race or creed

The ratings refer only to a candidates qualifications for the position of judge in the court that the candidate is seeking, and do not in any way refer to a candidate's qualifications as a practicing attorney The ratings reflect the collective judgment of the Committee and not the Detroit Metropolitan Bar Association as a whole

Ratings are given after review of the candidate's completed questionnaire and/or an in-person interview conducted with an Interview Panel of the Committee

If the committee feels there is sufficient information available on the candidate's fitness for the judicial office he or she seeks, the committee may rate a candidate, even in the absence of a completed questionnaire or an interview

FOUR CATEGORIES

The Judicial Candidate Evaluation Committee has four categories of ratings Outstanding, Well Qualified, Qualified, and Not Qualified Ratings were provided only in contested races

If there is insufficient information available, a candidate receives a designation of Not

Forty-five attorneys from the Detroit Metropolitan area served on the Judicial Candidate Evaluation Committee Detroit Metropolitan Bar Association Board Director Frank Nizio, of the firm of Bowman and Brooke, LLP, served as Chair of the Committee

THE STANDARDS

The standards for ratings are

Outstanding To be rated

'Outstanding," an individual must stand at the top of his or her profession.

He or she must rank among the very best qualified judges or lawyers available for judicial service This candidate must have outstanding legal ability and background, as well as wide experience, wisdom, intellect. insight, and impartiality

To be accorded the highest ratıng, a candıdate should generally have the breadth of vision and outlook that derives from participation in civic, religious, charitable or political organizations of the community, and the work of the organized bar or other professional associa-

In short, each should be a person whose preeminence in the law and as a citizen is widely acknowledged and whose qualifications are virtually hailed by judges and

Well Qualified To be rated "Well Qualified," an individual must exhibit similar qualities indicated for the rating of "outstanding" A "well qualified" candidate may have less breadth of experience, but shows the promise of all the criteria above Although this is a rating lower than 'Outstanding," it is nevertheless a high rating Qualified. To be rated Qualified," a candidate must exhibit a fitness for the judicial office he or she seeks A candidate given this rating would be considered average on an over-forth above Not Qualified To be rated "Not Qualified, a candidate must be considered well below average on an overall analysis of the factors set forth above

Thaddeus McCotter is backed by gun lobby extremists.

They want UZIs and other Assault Weapons back in Michigan neighborhoods.

Thaddeus McCotter is backed by the Gun Owners of America - an extreme group that wants to abolish our sensible gun laws.

Their dangerous agenda includes:

- ▶ Putting AK-47s and UZIs back on the street and allowing almost anyone to buy deadly assault weapons again by overturning the federal ban on rapid-fire, military-style assault weapons - the guns of choice for drug dealers and street gangs.
- Allowing almost anyone to buy armor-piercing "cop-killer" bullets even though law enforcement overwhelmingly wants these bullets banned.
- ▶ McCotter also sponsored the bill forcing police to let almost anyone carry concealed handguns in public - putting thousands of hidden handguns on the freeways and into our shopping malls, daycare centers, and other public places, endangering police and our families.

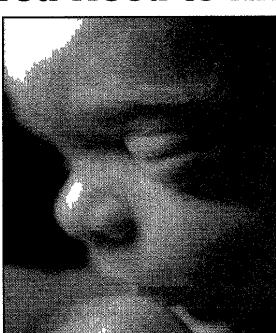

Tell Thaddeus McCotter that we don't want assault weapons and hidden handguns threatening our children. Call (734) 542-0629

Going, going ... gone! Bargains abound at auction house

'Who will start me at 25?" asks Colonel Thomas Moody from his elevated position in front of some 200 engrossed collectors, antique hounds, bargain hunters and the simply curious Eyes are fixed on the unusual-looking lamp held aloft by one of his floor work-

Moody, 48 and slight of build, smiles and gestures animatedly toward his Sunday afternoon audience Though most are adults - many of whom have reached senior status - he good naturedly says, "C mon now kids, How about

Headset in place so all can easily hear, he then quickly articulates, "I've got five, sevenand-a-half Now 10? Who'll bid 10? Twelve-and-a-half? Fifteen! Seventeen-and-a-half? Seventeen-and-a-half? Are we all done? Seventeen-and-ahalf? Sold! Fifteen dollars!"

And, in less than a minute, another piece of the estate has passed on to new ownership Moody sells some 450 to 650 items at each four- or five-hour

"I love what I do,' said the father of one son and grandfather of four "I am a fortunate guy I love the hunt I love the pulling together of it all and I feed on that electrical flow I get from auctioneering with all these people in front of me"

Moody, owner of Blue Willow Auction on the southeast end of the Golden Gate Shopping Center on Lilley Road in Canton, was in the landscaping business for 30 years But his real love was his hobby of working at auctions

'I would turn offlandscaping at the end of the day and I would go and work for auctioneers," he said "Because I was in landscape design, it helped me with doing layout at the auctions Many auctioneers started asking me to put the things out for them because they didn't have the flair to do that Pretty soon I was a floor manager" He also found a niche as a 'quick identifier" Someone from across the room can hold up a piece of porcelain or Depression glass and he can rapidly identify the pattern and often the maker

"I mastered all of it," recounted Moody, "the cashiering, the floor jobs, the setup I decided that my final frontier and my dream was to become an auc-

PASSIONATE RETIREE

So that's just what he did 'I retired to what I love," he said with a smile

Blue Wıllow was ın Wayne for 11 years, but Moody 'officially' retired to his beloved hobby two years ago and just a year ago moved to the Canton location where there is plenty of parking and good lighting in the store so folks can easily see exactly what they're getting

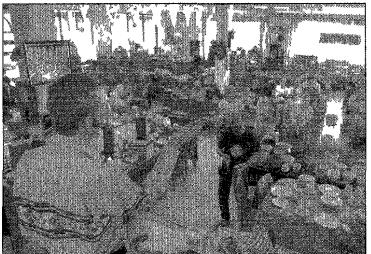

"I wanted to revolutionize the not going to even know it auction business,' said the colonel - an honorary title given after completing auction eering school - which Moody did seven years ago Auctions started during Civil War times when the colonel was responsible for disposing of left-over commodities

"There are no rules, regulations or licenses required for auctioneers in this state," explained Moody, who belongs to the Michigan Association of Auctioneers They can do what they want - and some do Credibility is the name of the game I believe I can make a difference in this field. One of the things I wanted was a good honest relationship with my clients '

That's something Plymouth resident Renee Lawrence appreciates 'He's a very nice man and he is very fair, she said as she checked out some of the thousands of items packing the store And she should know "I come to pretty much all of the auctions he has,' she said And if the prices are right, I purchase a lot"

LAUGH AND LEARN

Family friendly fun and entertainment is what Moody aims for - providing his audience with fun and facts I want it to be entertaining,' he admitted "This is a fun place to be You're going to laugh, but I'm going to interject some information in there too and you're bid and I buy for other people too I've done really well here because Tom and his floor people usually know if something has a chip in it and they let us know ahead of time, which I really like Not all auctioneers

She also buys furniture - 'I kind of have my house in the 30s" and she has furnished her are like that'

Auctioneer Thom Moody presides over bidders at Auctions in Canton

Later, you might be standing in front of your china cabinet or at an antique store and you're going to go, wow that's what he meant' I love to teach

Plus, he pointed out, its a great way for attendees to find out what similar items they have at home might be worth

For those who have never been to an auction and are afraid of possibly buying something by accident, Moody does a little auctioneering 101 Each chent gets a bid card with a number on it Unless you hold that bid card up and you and I make eye-to-eye contact, you didn't bid on anything," he explained "So if you scratched your ear, that won't buy the 1970 avocado green couch - I promise you And, if there is a mistake, we back up It is all very relaxed'

Moody, who also does a lot of charity work for various organizations, gets to know the names of his regulars and birthdays and anniversaries are announced during the auction and often celebrated with a cake At the Oct 6 auction, Moody announced Kathy and Ross Willett of Plymouth would be celebrating their 44th anniversary that week

BIG FAN

'I hardly miss Tom's auctions,' said Kathy who collects Depression glass and is a 30year veteran of auctions 'If I see a bargain on something, I from Blue Willow auctions 'To me, it's a great way of shopping," she said 'Something that has lasted 50 years is probably going to last another 50 years Some of the stuff we buy today doesn't last even five years' Her husband Ross enjoys looking for beer memorabilia, sons apartment with furniture but, he admitted, "Just being here is what I really like I like what it's all about'

Moody does absolute auctions "That means that if it goes for five dollars or if it goes for $50, it's going,' he said, adding that very few things are sold with a reserve – a minimum price that must be met Cars and other large items often have a reserve

Rick Suttle, a physician's assistant from Canton came to bid on a travel trailer He had purchased automobiles at other auctions, but it was his first time at Blue Willow "This is a fastpaced, good auction,' he said Im having a good time But he didn't go home with the trailer and neither did the other bidders since the reserve wasn't met Plans are to auction it again on Oct 20

FULL HOUSE

Sunday auctions are often standing-room-only, but seats can be reserved ahead of time For those who can't make a particular auction, there is something called a 'left bid'

'You can fill out the proper paper work and leave your bid, said Moody 'I have a special clerk who bids for it and she is instructed to buy it as cheaply as possible up to the amount of the left bid Probably 80 percent of the left bids are the winning ones"

Moody sets up displays of upcoming estate auctions along the walls with dates the items will be auctioned off so people can come in ahead of time to preview or even to bring professionals in for appraisal The store is open from 10 a m to 6 p m seven days a week, but nothing can be purchased except by auction Larger estate auctions are held every other Sunday from noon until 4 p m and general or specialty auctions are held on the opposite every other Saturday from 3 p m until around 8 p m

for ground-mounted and eight square feet otherwise. It doesn't have specific language banning signs from the right of way "but we're supposed to (keep them off public property)," according to township ordinance officer Kathy Pumphrey

Signs must be removed within 10 days after the election

'There haven't been many complaints this fall, Pumphrey said 'I had some during the primary, when there were more candidates We have one where a sign was blocking a crosswalk We (also) get some complaints about the size of signs"

The township notifies candidates about illegal signs but rarely removes a sign or issues a citation, Pumphrey pointed out "We give them every opportunity to comply, she said

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday November 3 2002

The City of Plymouth also fielded more complaints during the primary, said building officer Jim Penn, who is responsible for enforcing the sign ordinance

'We've had a few, here and there,' Penn said of the fall campaign season 'They've mostly be in relation to stray signs or the size limit"

The city limits signs to four square feet per side. There is no time limit for putting them up before the election and they must be removed within 14 days.

"We really don't enforce the time limits, it's difficult to do,' he said

Penn said on residential streets, the policy has been to take signs from the right of way and place them on the lawn (private property) "If it wasn't supposed to be there, you'll usually see the resident remove it," said Penn, who said he can't recall the city ever issuing a ticket over a political sign

Penn said most candidates are cooperative about pulling or moving illegal signs because they don't want any bad publicity'

Canton, on the other hand, takes a much more aggressive approach Township employees, along with a small but dedicated band of volunteers, have been roaming local streets the last few weeks collecting signs that don't conform to the township sign ordinance

"We get a lot of complaints," said T J Turowski, Canton ordinance inspector "I don't know how many e-mails I've gotten over the last month"

People just don't want to

JUDICIAL RACE

The battle for the new 35th District Court judgeship has been a sign flashpoint during the current campaign Plymouth attorney Mike Gerou, one of two judicial finalists, has made it an issue

"Judges are supposed to enforce the laws and ordinances are laws," Gerou said 'I understand that some people feel these stricter sign ordinances may be unconstitutional But there is a way to address that and ignoring or violating the ordinance isn't the way to go about it"

Gerou and supporters have made numerous complaints and engaged in a letter-writing campaign over allegedly nonconforming signs put up by his opponent, Karen Woodside of Northville Township

Gerou has also handed out written guidelines to his supporters on the proper placement of campaign signs in each of the district's five communities (Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships and the cities of Plymouth and Northville)

"I think probably every candidate has some supporters who are a little overzealous," Gerou said "But the responsibility of making sure things are done right is up to the candidate as well"

Woodside did not return phone calls seeking comment this week

FIGHTING CLUTTER

Ron Lieberman is one Canton resident who doesn't like the sign clutter, particularly along major thoroughfares "As far as free speech goes, that may be true for signs you see along residential streets, where a person is expressing their views," he said 'But in the commercial right of way, that's really just a bunch of paid staffers papering the township'

Placement of signs on public property seems to be the most common complaint, Turowski said That's also true in Plymouth and Plymouth Township

A political rival stealing or defacing signs is also typical Smearing signs with Vaseline or other substances, rendering them unreadable, seems to be the preferred technique

Nearly all Michigan municipalities prohibit signs – political or otherwise – in rights of way In Canton, they must be placed on occupied private property with permission of the owner The section of Canton's sign ordinance dealing with political signs also limits them to 6 square feet, with one sign per candidate, per issue. They must be removed within two days after the election. Candidates or committees are responsible for removing non-conforming signs within two days after receiving written notification by the township although people are rarely ticketed, Turowski said

Turowski admitted pulling illegal campaign signs is something of a fruitless task. She works with another township employee but can't keep up with well-funded candidates.

'Sometimes we'll be going down one side of the road taking the signs out while (supporters) will be going up the other side putting new ones in," she said

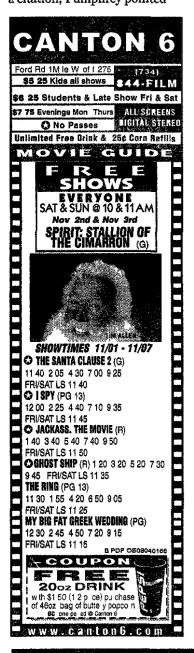

OTHER STATES

Plymouth-Canton and Michigan aren't the only places where political signs are a bone of contention

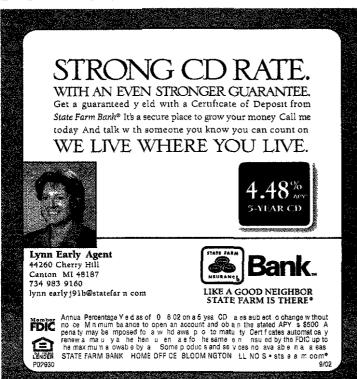

Alabama Attorney General Bill Pryor earlier this year lashed out at illegally placed signs in that state 'It's clearly illegal and it's clearly a crime," Pryor said in an opinion published last February, according to a story in the Montgomery Advertiser

Pryor said people caught in the act would be charged with a misdemeanor that carries up to a $500 fine

In Missouri, signs placed in the right of way have become a safety issue and state department of transportation employees have been ordered to remove them The signs often block the view at intersections or serve as a distraction to drivers, a department engineer said in a press release issued last summer

On behalf of the League of Women Voters of Northwest Wayne County, I encourage all Michigan residents to vote NO on Proposal 02-1 This state wide proposal will change certain aspects of election law, including eliminating "straight party' voting on partisan general election ballots and much more If approved, this proposal will make voting more complicated for the individual and more costly for the state and local govern-

Again, I urge you to vote NO on Proposal 02-1 on Tuesday, November 5

Poor judgment

The community needs to be reminded why Karen Woodside is a household word While she was Northville Township supervisor, a lawsuit was initiated against our own Northville Public Schools over the construction of the voter-approved new high school

There was an effort to legally stop the ground-breaking ceremony of her community's new high school in June of 1998 An attempt to legally stop work on the construction of the project was made The litigation was dismissed twice in Circuit Court and once in the Court of Appeals An adjoining neighborhood was encouraged to file litigation against Northville schools The Woods of Edenderry subdivision litigation continues today and is still costing taxpayers money

Michigan law clearly states that a township has no authority over the site plan of a public school A candidate for judge should have a clear and concise understanding of the law, how to interpret the law, and how laws are made or changed, which is through legislation not litigation The combined costs of this litigation in the Northville community approach $300,000 and are ongoing

Fortunately, the initiation to recall Karen Woodside as township supervisor helped settle the litigation between our own schools and our township This was followed by Woodside's sudden resignation as supervisor A possible delay in the opening of the new high school could have cost the community over $1 million

Do you feel that Karen Woodside should ever be elected judge?

> James M. Nield Northville

Woodside is best

Karen Woodside hands down is the best qualified candidate for 35th District Court Judge

She is the chairperson of the State Bar Criminal Law Section, an appointed member of the Leadership Summit of the State Bar, planning for its future, and President of the Western Wayne YWCA (helping women and children) She was named Michigan Prosecutor of the Year in 1996, Northville Township Supervisor, Vice Chair of the Western Townships Utility Authority, and honored as Wayne County's Outstanding Woman from Northville

I am grateful for her concerns over the safety of our children and for her good planning practices that have preserved the natural beauty of Northville Karen supported the last two Northville School bond millages, and worked very hard on the last recreation millage which enabled our community to acquire over 200 acres of land while it was still available The court needs her proven administra-

I am grateful for her leadership in creating "Celebrate Northville," a day for the community to be together, starting with a Fourth of July parade, a car show, a concert at Northville Community Park, and ending with fireworks at the landfill She and her husband Ken volunteered over a thousand hours organizing and getting the needed donations for "Celebrate Northville'

When you look at the qualifications of the candidates for the 35th District Court, Karen Woodside has the most broad-based legal experience which will best serve our community when elected judge

Westland, Michigan . . . Banks repossessed cars and trucks are among the most hunted-forbargains in the automobile industry. Unfortunately for John Q. Public, they're also the hardest to come by.

Banks often unload these repos to car dealers at rock bottom prices allowing dealers to resell them for retail value. But bargain seekers can take heart: This week Auto Liquidators of North America has selected North Brother's Ford Used Cars in Westland, Michigan to be the official liquidation site for 228 of these incredible bargains.

This Monday, November 4th through Friday, November 8th, North Brother's Ford Used Cars of Westland, Michigan will have 228 bank repos, lease returns, and other used vehicles for thousands below normal values and will pass those savings on to their customers.

"These have been acquired at incredible savings from banks (repos), Factory auctions and other sources," Rick Huetter, Used Car Sales Manager of North Brother's Ford said. "Our creditors have asked us to sacrifice this inventory immediately - regardless of loss of profit. If that means selling these vehicles for near or below wholesale, then that is what we will do."

Every bank repo and other preowned vehicle will be available for just $29 plus a fee* and then start making payments. "It's just that simple," said Huetter. "To make these bargains even easier, we'll mark the payment right on the windshield. Just pick a car and a payment. You won't find a faster easier way to get a great deal on a pre-owned vehicle."

Almost every type and price range will be available, from luxury, to 4x4's, to basic transportation. "With pre-owned vehicles near an all time high, chances are we will have what you are looking for in stock and ready to drive home," Huetter said.

Auto Liquidators of North America has flown in extra financial staff from three states to assure North Brother's Ford Used Car's customers prompt, courteous service and the best financial terms possible. Huetter said, "we will have over $5 million in financing available for this event. So chances are we can arrange financing for just about anyone who is employed, regardless of past history."

MICHIGAN COURT OF APPEALS

An Open Letter to the Residents of the 11th Congressional District:

Last April when I made the decision to declare my candidacy for the United States Congress in the new 11th District, I knew that it would be a tough fight and that we would be up against an opponent who would be better funded and already a part of the Washington establishment

Connie and I got married in May and hit the campaign trail together. We have met thousands of people and talked to them about the critical issues facing this District Social Security, quality health care, a prescription drug plan for seniors, unemployment, the economy, the environment and public education We have talked to laid off workers, retirees who have lost their life sayings in the aftermath of September 11th, parents who are concerned about their children and their parents and seniors who have to decide everyday whether to eat or take their medicine. We have visited senior centers, preschools, parks, community centers, grocery stores, bowling centers, ice arenas, coffee shops, cider mills and restaurants across the district

We have taken our message to the people the old fashioned way

At the same time, the Republicans and Thaddeus McCotter have waged the most negative campaign I have ever seen for an open Congressional seat. He seems to have unlimited funding and I am convinced that the Republican Party actually does

Time and again, Thaddeus has tried to distance himself from the attack ads by saying that the Republican Party is responsible and he has had nothing to do with them. Funny thing, as of today, his own campaign committee is paying for at least two of these nasty commercials

They have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars accusing me of raising taxes. They know this is simply not true. Since I took office in 1996, the millage rate has decreased. They have filled our mailboxes with no less than forty pieces of mail Many of them filled with false and unbelievable accusations, including blaming me for the deaths of 518 people killed on Michigan's highways last year. It seems one of the biggest lies he has told us is the one about "pledging to say nothing bad" about me

He has accused me of "not being afraid to use the 't' word He's right I'm not afraid To me, the 't' word is truth and unlike Thaddeus, I am not afraid to tell it

My campaign does not have the millions of dollars it would take to refute these lies. What we do have is the endorsement of the "Detroit Free Press," the "Oakland Press," all of the "Observer" newspapers, the "Plymouth Crier," all of the "Hometown Newspapers", and thousands of voters who we have met and talked to throughout the District.

The only way we can stop the misrepresentations and lies is in the voting booth. Go to the polls on Tuesday and let McCotter and his friends in Lansing and Washington know, that here in the 11th Congressional District of Michigan we care about the truth!

Lowly vegetables pack a powerful nutritional punch

STAFF WRITER

It's strange that certain vegetables can actually go in and out of vogue

Take, for instance, cauliflower Popular with families in the 1960s and 1970s, the white cruciferous vegetable took a back seat to its greener sister broccoli throughout the 1990s Today its health benefits are bringing cauliflower back to the lime light

Other cruciferous vegetables are being touted for their nutrients too kale, cabbage, Brussels sprouts, beets, mustard greens, watercress, radishes, turnips and rutabaga

According to the American Institute for Cancer Research, these vegetables can help fight colon, stomach, lung and maybe even breast can-

Cauliflower needs to be well cared for to prevent its pungent scent from filling the air and to keep its color

Dan Rowlson, a registered dietitian and chef instructor at Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills, recommends adding two teaspoons of lemon juice to a quart of water to help maintain cauliflower's color when boiling

"Texture is important and cauliflower shouldn't be over cooked,"

Dark red cabbage with a splash of vinegar cooked apples and fresh ground black pepper, adds a wonderful splash of color to an autumn meal

Rowlson said It's best cooked and served immediately. The presentation is important to encourage guests to eat Mix cauliflower, for example, with dark greens or diced red pepper to give it some coior

Doug Ganhs, also a chef instructor at OCC, suggested flavoring cooked cauliflower with red wine or rice vinegar to taste Add a dash of curry or juniper, then chill and serve as a side

On the subject of kale, both chefs laughed

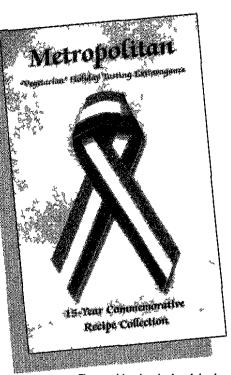

"Old school chefs will remember kale as the mexpensive, pretty garnish on the side of the dish,' Ganhs said "Look at any photo of a cruise ship dinner and the kale is always there"

But Ganhs also said that kale is under-used in America, and is more

Enjoy wine more with classical music

Don Blackburn, winemaker at Byington Winery & Vineyard in Los Gatos, Calif, said, "Wine's purpose is to please people' He suggested that wine's pleasure has been over-focused on aroma and flavor, which use only 40 percent of a person's sensory capability

He applied the term synesthesia to refer to the process by which the stimulation of one of the senses, in turn, causes another sense to be stimulated He used music as the principal stimulant

Synesthesia was in its prime from 1850 to 1900 Today, there's a renewed interest in how it impacts wine enjoyment A number of artists in the late 19th century were true synesthetes and experienced a degree of trans-sensual perception beyond the average person OK, but we're just a lot of average folks trying to enjoy wine!

A good wine, Blackburn said, can never be characterized in its entirety but the tool that has offered him the most insight is music

Blackburn further referred to Being very left brained, we belong to the "show me" school Since wine is part of the food pleasure process, Blackburn used a lunch setting as backdrop to have us discover the nuances of synesthesia, wine and music popular in Europe He suggests braising it, but because it takes a while to soften, it will lose some of its nutrients

The same is true for mustard greens, Rowlson said Southern-style mustard greens are mixed with pork and simmered all-day long in a pressure cooker

However, to avoid killing nutrients that method isn't recommended

It can be braised with orange juice or red wine vinegar to cut the acidity

Raw cabbage and cauliflower are mild in flavor Both are stronger when cooked and can be steamed, baked, sauteed, or grılled

Cauliflower is perhaps more versatile It often accompanies grilled chicken or fish in Asian dishes, and is widely used in Indian dishes such as curry

Popular health guru Dr Andrew Weil writes on his Web site www askdrweil com "Eat cabbage with some regularity It contains compounds which may block (harmful) estrogen surges from other sources, such as environmental pollutants Compounds in broccoli, kale and collard greens - all cruciferous vegetables - are also good'

Here are some healthy tidbits from the public watch group Communicating Food for Health, reported in March

■ One serving of cauliflower, about 3/4 cup, contains a full day's supply of vitamin C One serving of cooked kale contains a whole day's supply of vıtamın A ■ Collard greens, kale, and mustard greens are good

Lentil soup, three ways to enjoy

BY DANA JACOBI CORRESPONDENT

Lentil soup is the perfect one-dish meal Using a few basic ingredients, you can have a magnificent pot of it ready to eat in just one hour - and only 10 minutes is actual, hands-on time

A generous, sustaining bowl of this easy lentil soup has just 215 calories, 15 grams of protein, a healthy 15 grams of filling fiber and absolutely no fat, even though it tastes too good to seem true

Because I make lentil soup so often, I have developed many variations Sometimes I brighten a bowl of this soup with a squeeze of fresh lemon juice Changing the seasoning creates another variation, replacing thyme and bay leaf for example, with oregano for a Greek taste, curry powder for Indian flavor, or ground cumin and comander for Moroccan notes

Adding more vegetables creates a variety of textures, colors and nutrition Ill use diced potatoes and cauliflower, or chopped cabbage and canned tomatoes, sliced mushrooms, cooked chestnuts, shredded spinach or kale, or even diced eggplant and fennel

I also use different kinds of lentils After all, they come in red or orange, slate green, black and brown All of them make great soup, with peeled, split, reddish lentils turning almost into a puree on their own, while the black and green ones stay nicely firm

What I never add is fat The lentils and vegetables go into the pot at the beginning, broth included, no sauteing first This keeps the soup lean and quickly gets the mixture to a sımmer

This soup can be made with any of three different consistencies Try them all to see which you prefer

EASY LENTIL SOUP

Writer says journal-keeping is creative, therapeutic

BY KURT ANTHONY KRUG CORRESPONDENT

It is next to impossible to document all the events of your life, no matter how significant or insignificant, on

That doesn't stop Iris Lee Underwood from trying

Inside her 19 journals -some of them spiral-bound notebooks with tattered covers and yellowing pages, others are journals that have been given to her, taped with cards, letters, ticket stubs and newspaper clippings between entries - Underwood has written about all the joys and the good times she has experienced in her lifetime She also has written about all the pain and sorrow without mincing any words

And there has been pain Underwood lost her eldest daughter, Becky, six years ago to the horrors of drugs and alcohol, despite her and her husband's best efforts And her mother, Sadie, suffers from Alzheimer's disease

"It's very, very important when you're going through a trauma you need to mark your places It shows our growth or lack of growth, said Underwood, 53, who lives with Mel, her husband of 32 years, in Leonard in northern Oakland County She has two daughters, Kelly, 27, a French teacher, and Ruth, 25, an art student

She earned her bachelor s degree in communications from Oakland University in 1998, two months before her 50th birth-

She has kept a journal for 22 years She says her journal gives her the opportunity to put down on paper what she is feeling at the time It has been an outlet to vent her anger and frustration in a productive capacity

"Basically, my journal is my savior," she says "It's my ultimate friend It does not judge me I can write through anything I can say anything I want, any doubt I have, any fear I have, I won't be judged for it It's what I'm thinking, be it good or bad'

STARTING A JOURNAL

Underwood, who teaches workshops in journal writing, wrote her first journal entries when she was 11, after attending the funeral of a neighbor's 9-year-old daughter It wasn't until the early 1980s after reading Catherine Marshall's novel, Christy, that she considered becoming a serious journal writer

'My grandmother's life was passing away without record My mother's life was passing away without any record My life was passing away without any record Three generations," she said So, what kind of example was I going to set?

Would I have just allowed three generations to vanish without any documentation for my children?"

Despite her enthusiasm. there were no books or magazines on keeping a journal as there are today, so Underwood just wrote She took some advice from her daughters' teachers who made their students keep journals She decided that if a junior high school student could journal, so could she

Her first journal entries started out as a dialogue with God

"Now my journal is multidimensional because I've grown I've changed To me, that is the most marvelous benefit of keeping a personal journal

Keeping a journal also helped Underwood through a crisis of faith, as well as her redefinition of God and religion She describes her childhood as an 'evangelical childhood" Her faith got her through her parents' divorce in 1967 and hard times in her marriage But when Becky died, Underwood's faith was

'Becky died and yet there are women in the inner-city who don't know where their children are from moment to moment and yet somehow they survive These are things I discuss in my journals I'm finding my faith through the process of asking questions and pouring out my grief and my anger

TEACHING CLASSES

Underwood relays the story of Becky's passing at her journal writing workshops called "Writing Your Legacy," which are six- or 12-week-long courses, depending on where she's holding them Since 1995, Underwood has taught these workshops in the tricounty area at book stores, libraries, coffeehouses and on a recurring six-week basis at the Troy Public Library

Underwood's students are mostly middle-aged women Only a handful of men have participated

Her beginning workshops cover the definition of a journal and debunk myths of a "right" and wrong" way to keep a journal
"These are all hang-ups I've had and what's prevented me for years from getting really serious about writing a journal 'Oh, there's a right way and a wrong way' No, there is no such thing," Underwood said "Just getting your thoughts down, your feelings, your plans, your dreams, just little mundane things All that is historical information. It's part of our lives and is very valuable but we don't see it as valuable"

Underwood believes journal-keeping has caught on because of the self-help move-

"Personally, I could not afford a therapist or a counselor I also wanted to experiment with the creative

IRIS UNDERWOOD'S WORKSHOPS

- Writing Your Legacy This is Underwood's most well-known workshop focusing on writing personal journals defining journal styles and clarifying the benefits of keeping a journal
- Mission Statement This workshop teaches you how to gain a healthy mental and emotional control of your life by writing your personal goals purpose in life and plans for achieving those goals
- Companions Grieving & Writing Relying on her experience after the loss of her eldest daughter Becky, Underwood teaches how keeping a journal meets the needs of the bereaved in their journey through grief offering support and insight
- Underwood s Web site is www irislee org

process Creativity is vital to a person's mental health I can never go through a session of one of my workshops without someone bringing me some kind of article they have read about the healing and therapeutic properties of keeping a personal journal," Underwood

FOR PATIENTS

Frank M Ochberg, a psychiatrist who specializes in traumatic stress, from Okemos, is a founding board member of the International society of Traumatic Stress Studies and teaches at Michigan State University He encourages patients to keep a journal and 'express themselves on themes and issues after they've been traumatized"

"By keeping a journal, people turn their feelings into discussions with themselves on the written page and get it out in the open As a result, they end up feeling better about themselves and undergo a journey of understanding and self-discovery,' he said

But Underwood adds that writers must tell the truth – no matter how painful - in their journals if they hope to grow

"If you don't, then you're missing the whole object of writing a journal,' she said

Shoot abstract photos to enhance your vision

he word 'abstract' means apart from the recognizable object This opens up a realm of photographic opportu-

Shooting abstracts is a terrific exercise in enhancing your photographic vision, which in turn will greatly improve your picture taking abilities A good place abstract photography A good way to make abstract pictures is to exclude part of the subject We all tend to identify objects by their whole We recognize their outlines and the context in which we find them A shiny new or classic automobile is easily recognized when we photograph it in its entirety But by moving in close, using tight cropping, and photographing just small sections of the car can produce interesting pictures of bold colors and unusual abstracts The viewer may even have to guess at what they are looking at Try using slow shutter speeds to form abstracts Colorful clothes hung out to dry in a breeze will produce a formless blur when a long shutter speed is used Even try moving the camera up and down as you shoot a field of flowers You'll be please with the abstract results

Photograph a still life through heavily textured glass for another kind of abstract feeling A scrap of shower-door glass obtained from your local glass dealer works fine Consider photographing your subject completely out of focus to where it may be barely recognized You see, there's no end to the possibilities of abstracts Nature abounds in abstract subjects From the intimate pattern of veins in a single leaf, to the vast array of geometric designs seen from an airplane, abstracts exist in abundance The Seattle Space Needle is a terrific subject for producing abstract pictures By combining it, a nearby Ferris wheel, a wide-angle lens and an unusual composition, I was able to produce the photograph shown here Monte Nagler is a fine arts photogra close of the 1970s, in and around a wintry spot called Copper, this powerfully written mystery novel makes northern Michigan seem anything but of the time (This is the world capital of nowhere, one of the characters utters, on seeing the area for the first time) Believe me, this is not a book written to encourage tourism But, aside from a highly convoluted ending, The Resurrectionists is a fine story, told by a native of Ireland, who knows a lot about America -and the power of American English

On the rather mysterious death of his uncle, Frank has made up his mind that, if he returns to the family farm in Michigan, he'll have a shot at acquiring what is 'rightfully his' The fact that the family doesn t own the necessary transportapleasant most tion for such a trip doesn't slow Frank down a whole lot He simply steals a couple of cars and gets them to the place of desti-

If this sounds like somebody who might be a little hard to view as a hero, you may be right But stick around It's a tribute to Collins' gifts as a writer that he is able to take us not just inside the mind, but the appealing heart of this simple but complicated character We also get up close and per-deeply involved with claiming his inheritance, getting hold of some money, and thus starting a new life with his family, he will find that not everybody is willing to cooperate, of course And therein hangs this tale His most persistent adversaries appear to be his cousin, Norman, and Norman's wife But he's also stymied by a psychologist who treated Frank as a child, and who now appears to hold some dark secrets of his own As part of the adventure,

Collins not only takes us to the hearts of his haunting characters, and takes us to this place (and the places within this place), but also spirits us back to this time, when a person could buy lumber ack boots at Woolworths, when many hardworking women sought careers as typists, when phone calls cost a dime, when Rocky' was the man of the hour, and when "the sky fell to earth" in the form of a disintegrated Skylab

Seminar deals with how recruiting process works

BY CJ RISAK STAFF WRITER

Like everything else, this must be learned Jack Renkens has taken it upon himself to teach the course, one that all sorts of aspiring high school athletes would be interested in His 'Recruiting Realities" program visits the Northville HS auditorium at 7 p m Monday, and it's free of charge

Renkens' goals are simple to teach prep athletes who may be good enough and are interested in playing their sport in college how the recruiting process works

"It's a combination of things," Renkens said "You have to be realistic about the opportunities that are out there to get your education, and here's what you need to do'

Renkens tours the country giving his presentations There is always an interest, since there are always athletes getting recruited

The one-hour presentation addresses the who, what, where, when, why and how of college recruiting, addressing the myths attached to the process

"The upper one percent of the athletes in the country will get scholarships," he noted "A school will recruit a hundred athletes when they only have five or six scholar-

"When you don't hear from them by a certain date, you've got to get real"

What Renkens tells some athletes who believe they are NCAA Division I-caliber may not be what they want, or expect, to hear

"It opens up their eyes," said Renkens, whose background includes 20 years of coaching, teaching and administrating at the high school, junior college and college level Renkens has coached state championship-level basketball teams and served as an NCAA congressman

"I say, 'Here are your options, here are your choices," Renkens explained "Do you really want to go on and play in college?"

Getting that initial answer is the first step After that, it's understanding what a scholarship is for - to get an education

Renkens' program covers all aspects of recruiting, including when the athlete should start the process, what camps to attend to get noticed, what to look for on campus visits, and how to obtain a copy of the NCAA's, NAIA's and NJCAA's "Guide for the College Bound Student-Athlete" free of charge

One aspect of his program Renkens stressed was time Potential college athletes shouldn't wait until their junior year to start searching for a scholarship There are avenues to pursue earlier than that which will maximize a student-athlete's opportuni-

Providing answers to many of these questions is what Renkens will attempt to do Monday at Northville HS Game time is 7 p m

Here's a switch...

Most tax proposals are to provide funding for things that we all need Like police and fire services Or schools Historically, some have been to subsidize programs specifically for the less fortunate Like public transportation Or food stamps

This year, we are being asked to increase property taxes on the homes of the poor and the working class to help support the lifestyles of the rich and famous!

Proposal K is a ½ mill increase on every home and business in both Wayne and Oakland counties The residents of Macomb, Washtenaw, Livingston — and every other county in Michigan — get a completely free ride!

Most of the money would go to give subsidies to a select list of arts and cultural institutions that reads like the social calendar of Mr & Mrs J Barrington VanderSnoot

Among the 17 beneficiaries are

- · Cranbrook House & Gardens
- Detroit Symphony Orchestra
- Meadowbrook Hall
- Michigan Opera Theatre

The rest would go to local politicians and bureaucrats to dole out to their friends and supporters

Is it right to tax people who prefer Rock & Roll or Hip-Hop so the wealthy can get a discount on tickets to the opera? Do we really want to take money from people who can barely afford an occasional movie to. subsidize the ballet?

The economy is floundering, people are losing their jobs, our retirement savings are disappearing Now they want us to raise property taxes and risk putting poor people and seniors out of their homes, just to make symphony tickets cheaper for rich people? "K" doesn't stand for "Kids" It stands for "Kings"

Vote NO on Proposal K!

The Chiefs, now 9-1, advance to play the winner of the Redford Catholic Central-Livonia Stevenson game Glenn finishes at 8-2

'He just wants the ball." Canton coach Tim Baechler said of Joyner "He's a leader'

Joyner certainly set the tempo for the Chiefs, and his teammates joined right in Except for a short interval in the second period in which they gave up the ball on a punt (their only one of the game) and an interception, the Chiefs could not be stopped Once, late in the second period, Glenn forced Canton to give up the ball on downs at the Rockets 14 The rest of its drives ended in the end zone

'We never did get them stopped,' said Glenn coach Chuck Gordon 'They give you a lot of problems They have so many different looks The way they come at you, if it was just shutting one thing down it would be different?

Joyner finished with 206 rushing yards on 19 carries Devin Thomas added 103 rushing yards on just seven tries, scoring a pair of TDs, and fullback Corey Rutledge added 98 yards on 14 attempts with two more touchdowns

This is a little nicer than it was eight weeks ago," said Baechler Asked what the difference between then (a 46-21 Glenn win) and now and he answered, Obviously the turnovers (six in the first game) We're executing and not turning the ball over'

Still, this was hardly a runaway win for Canton The Chiefs did score the first two times they had the ball, on Joyners 66-yard run and an 8yard burst up the middle by Rutledge, to build a 13 0 lead

Glenn was without starting quarterback Brian Ceckiewicz out with a bruised kidney), and running back Tony Davis. also injured carried the ball just once (for 3 yards) With the ground game struggling and the Rockets unable to stop Canton Gordon was forced to rely on sophomore quarterback Vinnie DeLuca

On their first play of the second quarter, DeLuca pitched the ball to Jerret Smith, and he tossed a 71-yard option touchdown pass to a wide open De'Anthony Granberry, trimming Canton's lead to 13-7

The Rockets would go ahead a few moments later, when Smith picked off a Nicoloff pass and returned it 30 yards to the Canton 14 A personal foul penalty against the Chiefs put the ball at the 7, and on fourth down from the 3 DeLuca hit Granberry with the TD pass The placekick gave Glenn a 14-13 lead with 8 01 left in the half

The Rockets kept the lead for 1 06 "We knew they wanted to shut down our running game," said Joyner "We said from the start, 'Don't get down Keep your heads up"

On the third play of Canton's next possession, Thomas busted through off right tackle and raced 74 yards for a touchdown Joyner's two-point conversion gave the Chiefs a 21-14 lead, which they took into halftime

Finding openings in Canton's pass defense, DeLuca continued to exploit them in the second half Scrambling away from the pass rush, he found Smith with a 56-yard TD pass on Glenn's first possession of the second half, knotting the game at 21-all

But two key fourth-down plays, one in each of Canton's next two possessions, busted the Rockets On a fourth-and-4 from the Glenn 27. Nicoloff threw a fade pattern to Thomas along the left sideline Thomas managed to outleap the Rocket defender and make the catch at the 1 Two plays later, Joyner scored to put Canton back on top, 28-21

On their next possession, Baechler opted to go for it on fourth-down-and-22 from the Glenn 36 This time the Rockets were called for pass interference, giving Canton a first down at the 21 Joyner scored his third TD on a 2-yard run, increasing the Chiefs' lead to 35-21

Glenn gave it one more shot, putting together a seven-play 79 vard drive that included a 53yard catch by Granberry in which he leapt over the Canton defender bobbled the ball then grabbed it at the Canton 23 Smith hauled ın a 28-yard scoring strike on a fly pattern down the right sideline and Glenn was within 35-27

PAUL HURSCHMANN | OBSERVER

Canton's Ryan Edwards (24) breaks up a pass intended for Glenn's De'Anthony Granberry

But the Chiefs would not be stopped, traveling 76 yards in 11 plays, the key a 12-yard pass completion to Thomas on third-down-and-12 from the Glenn 17 Thomas carried the ball up the middle for the final 5 yards and Canton led 42-27 with 4 23 left in the game

The final Canton TD came after Glenn surrendered the ball on downs at its own 31 Rutledge's 15-yard burst made it 49-27

The Rockets never did get a ground game established, partly — as Gordon pointed out because they were playing catch-up most of the game They finished with 25 yards on 20 attempts

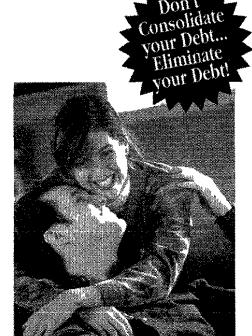

However, DeLuca did complete12-of-26 passes for 220 yards and three TDs, suffering one interception late in the game Granberry had five catches for 165 yards and two TDs, while Smith caught eight passes for 124 yards and two more touchdowns He also threw the TD pass to Granberry

But with a defense incapable of halting the Chiefs Glenn just couldn t keep pace advanced to the state final They won the WLAA championship this year, too

Stevenson bows out at 19-2-1 Salem is 19 4, having won 16 straight games, the Rocks advance to the state semifinals against the winner of the Brighton Grand Rapids Forest Hills Central match That semifinal will be at 7 p m Wednesday at Jackson's Mehall Field

Both teams had chances to end the match earlier, but it was Jeff Everal, a reserve defender, that clinched it for the Rocks who had lost three early-season games in overtime

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday November 3 2002

This time, Salem's first four kickers converted while Stevenson missed one, which meant if the Rocks fifth player, keeper/midfielder Jeremy Boothroyd, could convert, they would win But his try was high and over the goal, giving Stevenson a reprieve

It proved to be short-lived The Spartans' sixth kicker, Patrick Kolodziejczak, was stopped by Huls, who dived to his left to make the save That brought Everal to the line for his try, knowing a make would win it

His shot was to the right corner, beyond the reach of Stevenson keeper Michael Maciolek Salem had its victory

Stevenson outchanced us in this game, said McCarthy 'We were just fortunate enough to finish ours

"Its too bad someone had to lose this game'

From the start, it seemed Stevenson had no such inten tion Salem was having a diffi cult time maintaining any pos session, with the Spartans getting all the scoring chances throughout the first half and into the second

With 21 06 left in the first, Paul Johnson's corner kick was headed off the crossbar and finished it and Stevenson led 1-0

Less than 10 minutes later, another Spartan foray into Salem territory reaped dividends when Huls came out to confront Djokic, but Djokic flipped the ball over him and into the goal, making it 2-0

We ve got work to do, was how McCarthy greeted his team at halftime

I think that we started to believe at halftime, to get some momentum, he said "But that penalty kick really got us going"

McCarthy had altered his lineup to push Chris Conlisk, usually a central defender, to the front line for more offense ended on Brady Crosby's foot He The Rocks were beginning to apply more pressure, and with 16 minutes left Kevin Savitskie outsped Johnson to the ball, forcing Johnson to tackle him in the penalty box With 15 21 left in the match, Brian Popeney converted the penalty kick and Salem's deficit was 2-1

It was Popenev who created the game-tying goal With eight minutes left, Conlisk made a run up the right wing as Popeney got to a long ball served in near the Stevenson goal He headed it toward the corner, a mere flick, and Conlisk ran onto the ball and knocked it past Maciolek to tie ıt at 2-2 with 7 52 left "It's unfortunate, said Richters, his team having lost just twice this season — both times to Salem "We made a few mistakes in back and they took advantage But if anything, we should have finished one of those chances we had at their end" The Rocks won both their regional games in OT, and all of their goals in both matches (including the penalty kicks) were scored into the goal at the south end of the field

Fate, indeed, seems to have played a role

Sleep apnea, a threat to life and well-being

BY LAURA COLVIN CORRESPONDENT #

Ken Cook of Novi knew his life was in danger when he sought medical help nearly three years ago

Every morning, during the commute to his job as a business analyst at Ford Motor Co, Cook wrestled with a beast called sleepiness - a beast that threatened to crash his car and, perhaps, steal his life As an added annoyance, he found himself dozing at his desk during lunch and falling asleep in front of the television every evening

"Not only was I falling asleep all the time, but my wife noticed that I often stopped breathing during the night,' he said "I knew I had to do something'

After Cook spent two nights in a Novi sleep lab, the physicians handed him a straightforward diagnosis Sleep apnea

A condition as common in adults as diabetes, sleep apnea is the temporary suspension of breathing caused when soft tissues in the rear of the throat relax, blocking the airway The sleeping person stops breathing for a period of time that can last from 10 to 60 seconds - or longer

When the body senses the low oxygen and elevated carbon dioxide levels that result from not breathing, the person is aroused and breathing begins again with a loud snort

The cycle continues during the night, and most people with the condition stop breathing, wake up, and start breathing again more than 20 times per hour, sometimes hundreds of times per night Although they are usually not aware of the arousals, sleep apnea victims suffer from fragmented, non-restful sleep The immediate result is often severe daytime sleepiness

"Driving while tired can be as hazardous as driving while drunk,' said Darrel Drobnich, the National Sleep Foundation senior director of Government and Transportation Affairs Drobnich noted that persons with untreated sleep disorders such as sleep apnea are among those groups most at risk for automobile accidents

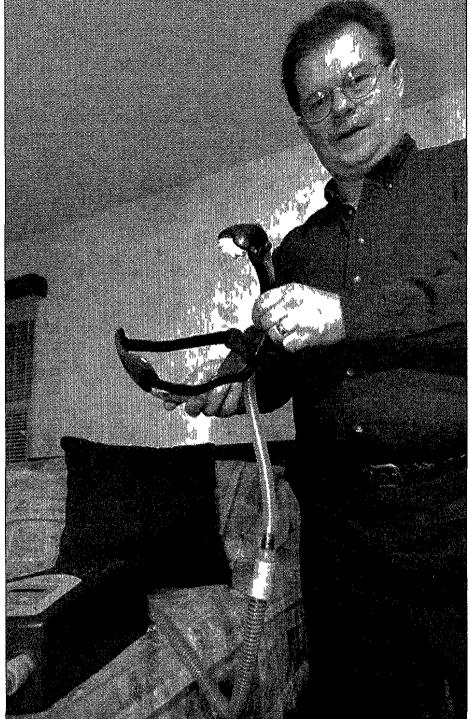

Although it can occur in all age groups and in both genders, sleep apnea appears to exist predominantly in males over the age of 40 who are considerably overweight The cardinal symptoms of sleep apnea are excessive daytime sleepiness and heavy snoring at night

"While most people think of snoring as simply an annoyance, (it) may indicate sleep disordered breathing which should be evaluated by a doctor or sleep specialist,' said Dr Safwan Badr, president of the American Sleep Apnea Association "Untreated, sleep apnea can cause much harm Treatment can

According to the ASAA, sleep apnea can have dangerous consequences, including high blood pressure and other cardiovascular disease, memory problems, impotency, headaches and additional weight gain

And, the number of people affected with the condition is growing

Experts estimate that between 12 million and 20 million Americans suffer from sleep apnea, with perhaps as many as an additional 10 million undiagnosed

Ken Cook of Novi keeps his sleep appea in check with a BiPAP sleep device, which he wears every

'As our population gets more obese, sleep apnea becomes more prevalent,' said Dr David Hudgel, section head of Sleep Disorders Medicine in the Pulmonary Division at Henry Ford Hospital 'We're not totally sure of the exact cause of that relationship, but breathing and sleep is surely affected by body weight"

DIAGNOSIS

To properly diagnose sleep apnea and determine its severity, most experts recommend a polysomnography, also known as a sleep study

The patient spends one or two nights in a sleep laboratory so that physicians can monitor body functions Some of these include brain activity, eye movement, heart rate, respiratory effort and airflow the patient's medical history, physicians can make a recommendation for treat-

(patients) to enter an exercise program," said Hudgel "One reason that obesity is so prevalent, obviously, is our sedentary lifestyle"

But significant weight loss takes time, Based on results of the sleep study and and patients often require immediate care The most common form of treatment is a portable device called the nasal continuous positive airway pressure, or CPAP

With this treatment, the patient wears

SLEEP APNEA FACTS

- The Greek word "apnea" literally means "without breath"
- Sleep apnea is as common as adult diabetes, affecting an estimated 18 million Americans according to the National Institutes of Health, yet the vast majority of cases go undiagnosed
- Obstructive apnea is the most common type of apnea in children, and occurs when the child's airway is blocked or partially collapses during sleep
- In addition to attention problems. sleep apnea can cause high blood pressure, cardiovascular diseases, memory problems weight gain and headaches
- The most common treatment for pediatric sleep apnea is surgery on the tonsils and adenoids, though the condition can also be treated with the use of a CPAP machine a mask over the nose during sleep, and pressure from the CPAP machine keeps the airway open

"It works," said Hudgel "If you wear it most of the night, it will eliminate the apneas, improve your sleep quality and almost totally eliminate daytime sleepiness"

The problem, he said, is one of compliance Some patients complain of nasal stuffiness, facial skin irritation, inconvenience in being attached to a machine, or discomfort with the constant pressure of the machine

There are solutions to most of the discomforts, however, and experts agree that the benefits outweigh any inconvenience

Surgery is sometimes an option, depending on the individual, but effective only about 50 percent of the time Medications have had only very minor

IMPROVED LIFE

Ken Cook now uses a BiPAP every night, and he no longer worries about falling asleep at the wheel The BiPAP is a variation of the CPAP, designed to follow the breathing pattern of its user The pressure is lowered during exhalation, so breathing feels more natural

"I had immediate results from using this machine, like night and day," said Cook. And the good side effect is that I don't snore anymore, so my wife sleeps much better, too"

For further information visit the American Sleep Apnea Association Web site at www.sleepapnea.org, or the National Sleep Foundation at www.sleepfoundation.org

The Sleep Disorders and Research Center at the Henry Ford Health System can be reached at (313) 916-5147 A physician's referral is required for an appointment

Book informs cancer survivors about use of supplements

According to some surveys, over 80 percent of cancer survivors are already using a wide array of dietary supplements or regimens in the hopes of preventing recurrence and secondary cancers, even though serious study of the effectiveness and safety of these approaches remains in its infancy

"Researchers are only beginning to investigate the role of diet after cancer," said Dr Steven K Clinton, of Ohio State university's Arthur G James Cancer Hospital "And even though we have learned a great deal about how a healthy diet and lifestyle can help prevent first cancers, the hypothesis that these same healthy behaviors might help prevent recurrence is still just that a hypothesis" In the meantime, millions of anxious survivors who are not content to wait for the scientific consensus to build have begun to self-administer all manner of foods, pills and powders, often without their health professional's knowledge

And unfortunately, there's no guarantee that informing their doctors will help survivors in their search for answers Very few in the medical profession are aware of the ongoing research, let alone follow it closely

'This book helps survivors become better informed about the wealth of options now being investigated and then go back to their physicians with concrete questions."

Dr Richard Rivlin American Health Foundation

GUIDANCE

Cancer experts at the American Institute for Cancer Research are concerned that survivors who are turning to specific foods, supplements or regimens for protection may be doing themselves more harm than good Many of the substances and techniques in question are showing powerful effects - for good and for ill - in laboratories and clinics These effects come with real risks that could have a serious impact on health

"These people need some guidance." said Glen Weldon, editor of a new book published by AICR called Dietary Options for Cancer Survivors, and they need it today We can no longer ignore the fact that millions of them are already taking things into their own hands This late in the game, simply telling survivors to 'wait and see' - and expecting them to do so – 1s absurd "

"Dietary Options for Cancer Survivors is ultimately a book that survivors and their doctors should use together," added Dr Richard Rivlin, senior vice president for Medical Affairs at the American Health Foundation and professor of medicine at Weill Medical College of Cornell University

'This book helps survivors become better informed about the wealth of options now being investigated and then go back to their physicians with concrete questions," Rivin continued "It may even encourage more physicians to provide dietary guidance tailored to the specific needs and medical histories of their survivor patients"

INFORMATION

Dietary Options for Cancer Survivors helps cancer survivors navigate the limited but no less confusing mass of scientific information on how diet, supplements and complementary/alternative therapies impact the chances that cancer may return

The book lists 48 popular foods, phytochemicals, vitamins, minerals, herbals and dietary regimens that are currently being studied in regard to cancer survival, and presents pertinent research results in an easy-to-understand format Containing over 540 reference citations that direct interested readers to the original research, Dietary Options for Cancer Survivors was compiled and reviewed by a team of researchers, nutritionists and

Dietary Options for Cancer Survivors is a book for survivors to use as a reference, not a "laundry list" of foods to eat to prevent recurrence The book does not endorse any particular food, supplement or regimen Instead, it simply and clearly lays out the published laboratory and clinical research that has investigated the interplay of diet and survivorship

The book's introductory chapters, however, offer a thorough overview of the kind of diet and lifestyle changes that have been shown to help prevent first cancers The wealth of research on primary prevention provides a sharp contrast to the small amount of survivorrelated research, and helps to illustrate how much more work needs to be done The book can be ordered through the AICR Web Site, www aicr org, or by calling AICR toll-free at (800) 843-8114,

Innovative nutrition program garners recognition

The American Institute for Cancer Research (AICR) recently received the American Dietetic Association's prestigious 2002 Presidents' Circle Nutrition Education Award The award recognizes "the development and dissemination of scientifically sound nutrition information that is unique in concept, creative in presentation and free from specific commercial message or endorsement"

With the New American Plate, AICR has distilled a number of vital health messages into a highly visual presentation that speaks to people in a simple, intuitive way," said ADA President Julie O Sullivan Maillet This campaign combines the latest science. a memorable, striking design, and a dose of old-fashioned common $sense \ to \ simultaneously \ address$ short-term goals like weight management and long-term goals like the prevention of chronic disease'

In accepting the award, AICR Vice President for Education and Communications Jeff Prince outlined the New American Plate's beginning

"The knowledge that healthy diets could lower cancer risk was driven home by AICR's 1997 Expert Report, which analyzed over 4,500 studies,' he said "That report showed that our everyday choices have a dramatic impact on our risk for cancer and went on to stress the importance of a healthy weight, regular exercise and diet high in vegetables, fruits, whole grains and beans"

Just three years after that report was published, however. American obesity rates had reached an all-time high, and the bestseller lists were thronged with "quick fix" diets Experts at AICR grew concerned because many of these fad diets advocated cutting back on vegetables and fruits the very same components of the diet that have been shown to be the strongest cancer fighters

"At the same time, American portion sizes - in restaurants and in home - had steadily ballooned The common-sense notion of portion control was all but aban doned in light of the murky promises made by fad diets

In such an environment, AICR devised a simple approach that makes it easier than ever to eat for lower risk of cancer and other chronic diseases At the same time, the campaign combats the obesity epidemic by refocusing attention on the notion of portion size, and providing tools for adapting personal portions to suit individual caloric needs

The simple advice Take a look at your plate Make sure that vegetables, fruits, whole grains and beans cover two-thirds (or more) of the plate, while animal-based foods cover one-third (or less)

Meals that are composed according to the New American Veggies, have proven equally popular

Plate tend to 'push" high-fat, high-calorie foods off the plate in favor of plant foods that contain protective fiber and phytochemicals Such cancer-protective, heart-healthy meals also help keep weight gain in check "There's noting to count or measure,' said Prince "The program involves a simple rule-ofthumb that helps people eat for both weight management and reduced risk for chronic disease"

Since the New American Plate campaign was launched in September 2000, over one million individuals have requested the brochure. Subsequent brochures in the New American Plate series, titled One-Pot Meals, Comfort Foods and

To order New American Plate materials, call AICR at 1-800-843-8114 Monday through Friday, 9 a m to 5 p m The text of all four brochures in the New American Plate series can be downloaded from the AICR Web sit at www aicr org

The American Institute for Cancer Research is the nation's third largest cancer charity focusing exclusively on the link between diet and cancer The institute provides a wide range of edu cation programs that help millions of Americans learn to make dietary changes for lower cancer risk AICR also support research in cancer pre vention and treatment at universities hospitals and research centers across the United States

New guidelines released for cleaning of hands

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recently released new guidelines that advise the use of alcohol-based handrubs to protect patients in health care settings The new hand hygiene guidelines were released in Chicago during the 40th annual meeting of the Infectious Diseases Society of America

"Clean hands are the single most important factor in preventing the spread of dangerous germs and antibiotic resistance in health care settings," said Dr Julie Gerberding, director of the CDC 'More widespread use of these products that improve adherence to recommended hand hygiene practices will promote patient safety and prevent infections"

CDC estimates that each year nearly 2 million patients in the United States get an infection in hospitals, and about 90,000 of these patients die as a result of their infection Infections are also a complication of care in other settings including longterm care facilities, clinics and dialysis centers

Improving hand hygiene will help prevent the spread of germs from one patient to another Data show that health care personnel may be more inclined to use alcohol-based handrubs because they are more convenient to use Recent studies show that these handrubs actually reduce the number of bacteria on the hands more effectively than washing hands with soap and water

"Health care personnel are always on the go, which sometimes makes handwashing with soap and water difficult," said Dr Steve Solomon, acting director of CDC's healthcare quality promotion division 'These handrubs should help promote hand hygiene because they are much more accessible than sinks, take less time to use and cause less skin irritation and dryness than many soaps"

The new guidelines recommend additional steps that administrators can take to increase adherence to good hand hygiene practices When deciding what products to purchase, administrators should consult with health care personnel on issues like smell, consistency and the amount of skin irritation the product may cause If, as expected, hand hygiene products improve hand hygiene practices, preventing even a few additional health care-associated infections per year will lead to savings that will exceed any extra costs for better hand hygiene products The hand hygiene guidelines were developed by the CDC s Healthcare Infection Control Practices Advisory Committee

Lighting now design mainstay in new, old homes

FOR AP WEEKLY FEATURES

When people visit a friend s home, they probably first notice new furniture or artwork

Not Scott Plemmons The first thing he looks for are lights Or more precisely, how lighting is used

"When you walk into a home where the use of light is planned, you see layered light and the right bulbs in the right fixtures," said Plemmons, Mr Light for nearly 800 stores in the Lowe's Home Improvement Warehouse cham

"For lots of people, light is the crowning touch to a room because its the last thing you do," he said

Plemmons says attitudes toward illumination have come light years from a decade ago

"Homeowners are out of the dark these days," he said 'Now they light for mood, to create warmth, accent a room or just to make reading that much more comfortable"

And consumers, once reluctant to experiment with light, are now willing to change lights and lighting schemes as readily as they repaint walls

'The effects you create with light help everything else in the room artwork, furniture, wall colors, fabrics, you name it Light enhances all those other elements," he said

In part, the switch to light was driven by a furniture industry wanting more focus on fabrics and designs High-end fixture manufacturers such as Kichler introduced lamps and accessories to a home store lighting market previously dominated by department stores and showrooms

Consumer demand has expanded from perfunctory table lamps to a wide range of purpose-specific fixtures including track lights recessed canisters chandeliers and touchier

The notion of layered lighting - the use of various fixtures, bulbs and accents in a single room - is now a standard interior design practice

In a departure from the brass look of recent years, demand for different finishes has exploded, Plemmons

"It's all about finishes now Rust, pewter, white and lots of hand-painted finishes are what people specifically ask for The fashion of light is a big deal," he said

Even venerable fluorescent bulbs have seen the bright light of attention

"In the old days, people associated fluorescent bulbs with casting a green pallor on everything in a workshop," Plemmons said 'But now you choose bulbs that mimic sunlight in table lamps as well as different levels of color, including warm and cool tones"

One element still rings true for fluorescent lamps the whitish-tubes remain very energy-efficient

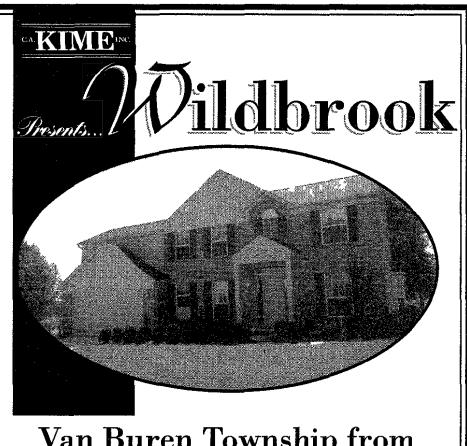

Still, the public needs education to use the right bulb in the right place

Instead of a soft-white bulb in every socket, homeowners find success with spotlights to accent paintings and flood lamps to wash a wall with light The ultra-white light of halogen bulbs muscled a way into the options consumers face

The lighting industry uses the Color Rendition Index to recommend lights to retain true color on any given object One example is a warm colored bulb to illuminate a dark wood

"The biggest thing is that homeowners are willing to take risks with light these days," Plemmons said The fixture market is such that they can afford to

When they repaint a room, add carpet or place new furniture, light isn't the afterthought it was even a few years ago Its a mainstay of design now

Anne Fracassa

Looks can be deceiving. Very deceiving The Dodge Neon looks like a tiny car Too tiny, in fact. But when you step inside, there's a whole new ballgame.

It's quite roomy for front – and rear – passengers I would never consider a trip in something that small, but you know what? We did take a trip in it - around a 350-mile trip - and other than need for a much better suspension, it really wasn't that bad Honest, I'm not crazy.

This year, the Neon is offered in the widely purchased SE and SXT models and the sportier R/T and SRT-4 models The SRT-4 models are high-performance models with the "Street and Racing Technology" moniker, and its 2.4-liter turbocharged engine is capable of 215 horsepower.

Driven this week was the sporty R/T model. All Neons have better performance features this year. Dodge tweeked the automatic transaxle calibration to improve driveability and installed new engine mounts to make it quieter.

One thing that was most annoying was the road noise. In highway driving, it was actually necessary to turn up the stereo to hear it I kept wondering whether I had it in the right gear Speaking of gears, Dodge modified the fifth gear ratio on the manual transmission to improve mileage.

One thing I have to say - the mileage is great The round-trip jaunt cost a little more than $12. Yep, just $12 You can't beat that with a stick The numbers range from $29 mpg in the city to 35 mpg on the highway. Nice.

2003 DODGE NEON | Vehicle type Compact car, Power 2 0-liter single-overhead-cam V6 engine. Mileage 29 mpg city / 35 mpg highway, Where built Belvidere, III Price as tested $17,250

The Neon has a high-output 2.0-liter single overhead cam 16-valve high-performance four-cylinder Magnum engine. It performs well in all types of driving conditions. Some performance features you may like are fourwheel disc brakes, dual exhaust and a fivespeed manual transaxle.

There are also 16-inch aluminum wheels, leather seating surfaces and fog lamps to add to the sporty features.

Dodge considers the Neon a family car and puts a lot of safety features in the Neon to protect children. That means standard equipment includes the child seat anchor system, child-protection door lock, emergency internal trunk lid release and window lock-out.

There are other safety features as well, like safety cage construction, seat-mounted supplemental side air bags (an option), dual air bags, two-way adjustable head restraints and three-point seat belts for all three rear occu-

Also new on the R/T this year are a new AM/FM stereo with cassette and six-disk indash CD changer It was a nice system to listen to, but you have to be parked to use the CD. It's probably for anti-theft, but it's actually hidden to the driver and under the center stack. Very hard to get to. But once you load those six CDs in there, and let the play, you won't have to worry about it

Fax (734) 953-2232

Speaking of the center stack - it's actually color coded to the color of the exterior of the car. I thought it really added a bit of flair to the vehicle. Looked really nice, too.

Of course, there's a stack of standard equipment on the Neon. Stuff like air conditioning, leather-wrapped steering wheel, tilt steering wheel, cruise control, keyless entry, full length console with cupholders, floor mats, reading lamps, mirrors on the sun visors, leatherwrapped shift knob, 12-volt power outlet, power windows, power locks, power trunklid release, and rear spoiler.

First introduced in 1994 as a 1995 model, Dodge has always marketed the Neon as a fun-to-drive small car with a whole lot of value. Even with the top-tiered SRT-4 model, it still can come to your home for under $20,000.

Decent value for a small car. And it's big on the inside, too.
