Township, city absorb state cuts

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

Officials in both Plymouth and Plymouth Township are hoping to absorb Gov. John Engler's latest cuts in state revenue-sharing without having to impact their local residents this time. But, with most observers saying further cuts are unavoidable when Gov-elect Jennifer Granholm tries to balance next year's state budget, local officials are also saying more slashing will inevitably lead to cuts in services.

Engler on Thursday got his $460 million budget-balancing plan through the House and Senate appropriations committee. The plan includes a $53 million cut in state revenue sharing. State Rep. John Stewart (R-Plymouth Township) supported Engler's plan. "There is fat in every local budget that we can reduce," said Stewart. "The last three years, state revenue has steadily gone down. I have never voted to raise taxes, and I was not going to vote to delay or freeze the reduction in the income tax. I campaigned on that. I went along with Gov. Engler."

It's the third time this year, according to officials in both communities, that local budgets have seen their state funding slashed. This time, Plymouth Township took an $89,000 hit and the city lost more than $36,000.

With some 28,000 residents, the township loses about $3 per resident, the city also loses about $3 per resident. In Plymouth Township, state revenue sharing is the second-highest revenue stream, behind only property taxes. Budgets for police and fire protection, services traditionally eyed when the state cuts funding, exceed what the township brings in in tax revenue. "It's the third time this year, and all these small cuts start affecting us," township Supervisor Steve Mann said. "We have a tight budget to begin with. We have to start looking at other sources of revenue to fund police and fire, and then

That means Plymouth youngsters need to get their letters to the Jolly Old Elf written and on their way to the North Pole. To make sure we have time to forward the letters to the North Pole, get the letters to us by no later than Thursday, Dec. 19. ### Rockettes

Big Boy of Canton and the Salem Varsity Rockettes are teaming up for a fund raising effort aimed at the stomachs - and hearts - of local residents.

Big Boy will provide the Rockettes with a percentage of total sales for one day from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 17, at the Big Boy at Canton Center and Ford roads. Patrons must mention the Rockettes in order for their sales to count toward the fund raiser.

Proceeds will provide funds for the Rockettes to travel to a national competition in Florida from Jan. 30 to Feb. 3. In recent events the Rockettes finished first in pom and second in dance at the UDA Great Lakes Invitational at Lake Orion High School Nov. 9 and took home first place finishes in both pom and dance at the 2002 Dance Team Championships at Eastern Michigan University Nov. 10.

Cheer Club

Rand Harder felt his daughter's walk to Pioneer Middle School each day was a safety issue, one he couldn't get resolved by the Plymouth-Canton Schools transportation department.

His daughter, Colleen, 13, had to cross a dangerous section of Joy Road in her walks to and from school every day. The transportation department suggested another route, but it still required the Plymouth Township eighth grader to cross Joy Road.

Harder, a member of the district's Safety Committee, decided to take his complaint to the top.

"It was a safety problem, and it was dangerous for my daughter to get to school, so I talked to Mr. Ryan," said Harder, referring to Interim Superintendent Jim Ryan. "He took the time to come out at 7 a.m. and walk the two routes with me. He resolved the

Observer seeking readers' top stories

In its final issue each year, the Plymouth Observer publishes an account of the year's top stories. This year, we'd like to know what our readers think those stories are.

We've culled the year's newspapers and put together a list of 15 stories. What we'd like readers to do is choose their Top 10, sort of a Letterman-esque list of the top stories in the Plymouth community. E-mail your responses to community editor Brad Kadrich at bkadrich@oe.homecomm.net by Dec. 19.

If you think of a story that isn't in this list, by all means add it to your e-mail. In no particular order, here's the list:

City seeks study for traffic hike

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

With the perceived increase in both vehicular and pedestrian traffic on Main Street, mainly the result of new restaurant openings, City Manager Paul Sincock has requested a traffic study of downtown Plymouth.

"There's a lot more traffic, especially at Main and Ann Arbor Trail with the new businesses at the Mayflower Centre," said Sincock. "We think the study will give us a true indication of how much an increase in pedestrian and vehicle traffic we really have, and give us an idea on what we might do if there is a problem."

The study, which begins Monday, will be conducted by the Traffic Improvement Association, a nonprofit traffic studies group which has 65

Man, woman charged in fake check scheme

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

A man and woman from Detroit have been charged with cashing fake checks at Bank One in Plymouth, at the corner of Ann Arbor Road and Harvey. They had fraudulent identification and brought counterfeit payroll checks to cash at the bank," said Detective Lt. Ed Ochal of the arrests on Monday. "They've both been charged with uttering and publishing, which is a maximum 14-year felony, if convicted. Police said 41-year-old Donna McConall cashed a check for just under $500, and was waiting in the parking lot while Jerry Crudup, 27, was attempting to cash a check for a similar amount. However, according to police, when bank officials became suspicious while processing Crudup's check, he ran from the bank. Both were arrested in the parking lot. The pair were arraigned in 35th District Court Wednesday afternoon and are currently awaiting a preliminary exam. Both are being held in the Wayne County jail in lieu of $25,000 cash bond. Ochal said it's not unusual to see more of this type of crime. "With computers and scanners, we're seeing more fraudulent transactions occurring," he said.

Fiegel Elementary Falcons use walking to promote fitness

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

The Fiegel Elementary Feeling Good Mileage Club recently walked 1,993 miles, making its way to Durango, Colo. Well, it seemed like it was that long a walk. Approximately 250 Fiegel students spent six weeks walking a quarter-mile course three days a week to promote physical fitness, and as an alternative to participating on the playground. The nearly 2,000 miles walked by those who participated was calculated to reach Colorado. Andrew Souders finished first among all students, registering 40 miles during the exercise.

the soccer team and I do a lot of running," said Souders, 8, a third-grade Fiegel Falcon student. "It helps keep me in shape." The walking program was begun three years ago at Fiegel as a way for kids to stay in shape. The top five finishers this year included Souders, 8, Jacob Leib, 39 25 miles, Cory Welch, 37 25 miles, Travis Michalak and Andrew Tung each registering 37 miles. Students earned water bottles and certificates for their efforts. Walkers were also given tokens for every five miles they walked.

problem by getting her on a bus at a stop she walks past every day.
 "He shouldn't have to deal with everyone's individual problems, but this was a safety issue and he took the time to resolve it," said Harder.
 Harder was so impressed he commented to the Board of Education before last Tuesday's closed session, in which Ryan was to get his review from trustees.
 He's such a good human being, and I wanted to make sure they saw that in him," said Harder.
 That's partly why Ryan is expected to have the "interim" removed from his title by the board at Tuesday's meeting.
 "He's willing to go out and talk to people and build bridges, and promote the district and community as a whole," said Trustee Carol Saunders, who said she'll vote to make Ryan the permanent superintendent.
 He'll listen, respond and take action.
 "He encourages the people working for him and helps them to grow in their positions. That's the mark of a true leader," she added. "He's genuinely concerned Plymouth-Canton does well. I'm not so sure his predecessors had the same interest."

 The results of Ryan's evaluation will be released Tuesday night. He was graded in areas that included instructional services, business services, technology services, community relations, diversity and board-superintendent relations.
 "His evaluation went well, and he received very high marks," said Elizabeth Givens, school board president. "Jim has tackled the job as if he was not an interim superintendent, and has accomplished as much as if he were the superintendent since June."
 "I like his core team, I like his style, and feel he's accomplished a tremendous amount in six months," said Givens, who also indicated that she'll vote to erase the interim from Ryan's title.
 Ryan admitted he was nervous at his evaluation.
 "I'm defined by my job, and I want people to think I'm leading the district in a positive direction," he said. "The review felt wonderful. These are my seven bosses that I work most closely with and are people I respect."
 "Having the interim tag removed gives me more enthusiasm for the job," he said. "It's a validation that says keep going, we value your leadership within the goals established."

 Ryan, who had been the district's deputy superintendent, took over when Kathleen Booher left last July.
 At the time, there had been some turmoil in the district, and factions among the board.
 "There's a sense of calmness, a steady hand at the helm," said board vice president Mark Slavens. "We're headed in the right direction under his leadership."
 "We're working together with no factions, and Jim helped with that," said Saunders. "He's a team player, and he brings that out."
 If all goes as expected, Ryan will soon begin negotiations on a contract with the board. He currently receives the same salary Booher received, which is $133,700.
 Ryan said he doesn't expect to get more than the current teacher's contract, which calls for a 3 percent raise the first year, and 2 percent each of the following two years. There are also incentives worth a half-percent for higher enrollment and reductions in health care costs.

member communities, including Plymouth. "We'll be looking at the traffic count at the signals at Ann Arbor Trail and Main," said Sincock. "The TIA study will also be measuring pedestrian traffic counts at that location."

"Maybe the width of the streets don't leave enough time for pedestrians to get across," Sincock added. "We'll also be looking at whether there should be left-turn signals erected at that intersection."

Sincock admits the placement of the traffic light for southbound motorists makes it difficult for drivers to make a left turn at Ann Arbor Trail.

"Drivers can't tell when the light turns because the signal is above the vehicles when they drive into the intersection," he said. "Thus far, we've had no pedestrian accidents as a result of the increased traffic there."

TIA's Bob DeCorte said traffic counters will help determine the volume of motor traffic at the intersection.

"We'll take the highest per-hour volume and also look at the turning movements," said DeCorte. "We'll also look at the number of pedestrians who cross the intersection, the sight distance and the signal timing."

"We'll also investigate data from the state police to see if there is an accident pattern," he said. "Then we'll determine if there is a problem at the intersection, and what we can do, if anything, to improve the flow of traffic. If there is a problem, it will be easily identified."

DeCorte points out he's not conducting a speed study of Main Street. "Because there are so many traffic signals in the area, there is little likelihood there is a speed problem downtown," said DeCorte.

While most traffic lights in the city are owned by Wayne County, the lights at Ann Arbor Trail and Main, Penniman and Main and Harvey and Ann Arbor Trail are all owned by the city. They were purchased when the Downtown Development Authority first put in the streetscape project several years ago, in an effort to improve the flow of traffic on Main Street.

CUTS

fund all the other township services we provide."

Mann said the hit this time isn't particularly harsh, and figures the township should be able to absorb it without cutting services. But, according to township Treasurer Ron Edwards, the township has lost some $350,000 in the last three cuts.

"We have a $13.5 million budget," Mann said. "We can pare $88,000 out without a huge impact. But this probably isn't the end (of state cuts)."

This is a huge, long-term problem for the state that won't go away when the economy turns to the bright side. The state can't continue to balance their budget on the backs of municipalities.

It's the same song they're singing in the city, where Finance Director Mark Christiansen has submitted recommendations to city management about how to absorb the $36,000 in cuts the city faces. He wouldn't comment on what the recommendations were, and City Manager Paul Sincock was out of town and unavailable.

Christiansen agreed this particular cut can be balanced by cuts in other areas of the budget without affecting police, fire or other services to residents - this time.

"We have an almost $7 million budget, and we're only talking about cutting $36,000," Christiansen said. "It won't affect services like police and fire, at least not at this level. Another cut of that magnitude or higher could, though."

Christiansen agrees with Mann, and nearly every other observer, that this won't be the last time such cuts are enacted.

"We're dealing with the Engler administration, and I don't think anyone has any idea about what the new governor is going to propose," Christiansen said. "I don't think this will be the last cut."

Ironically, according to Mann, the cuts come at a time when Plymouth Township should be getting more state revenue sharing, not less, based on population growth in the 2000 census.

"This is at a point when we should be receiving more state-shared revenue, because we have 4,000 more residents, according to the census," Mann said. "Not only did we not get the raise, this is the third cut this year. Luckily, we're in better shape than a lot of communities. A lot of places have had to do layoffs. We're not looking at anything like that."

Engler's plan also includes $42 million from higher education, a slash that will hurt Schoolcraft College. Schoolcraft College draws students from Plymouth and other nearby communities. The school relies on this state funding for 25 percent of its budget. Another 25 percent comes from student tuition and fees. And half of the school's budget is comprised of local property taxes from Livonia, Garden City, Plymouth, and parts of Canton and Westland.

"This year the college expected to receive $12.7 million in state funding, said Marty Heator, Schoolcraft's director of marketing. But a 2.5 percent cut will mean a loss of $318,000. Again, it wasn't exactly a surprise."

"We knew that cuts were coming, so we put the brakes on a lot of new spending on the budget this year," said Heator. "Now that we have a final figure from the state, we can get more focused."

A team of Schoolcraft administrators met last week to begin reviewing ways to adjust the budget. Heator said no one solution was chosen, and all options will be considered. Much like local governments, budget cuts have come at an already difficult time for the school.

"This latest cut is part of a trend," Heator added. "And it's that trend that really concerns us. We operate efficiently, well within the standards for community colleges of Michigan, so Schoolcraft's ability to accommodate major cuts in years to come is limited."

ANOTHER PINCHED NERVE THAT GIVE LEG PAIN

Many of you are familiar with sciatica. In that condition, compression of the nerves occurs in the lower lumbar spine, usually at the L4 and L5 level. The result is numbness, tingling, burning or weakness down the leg from the lower back to the toes.

There is another nerve in the leg that becomes compressed and causes a similar effect of burning, tingling and weakness. The nerve is called the common peroneal nerve. This nerve circles out of the back of the leg, goes around the head of the fibula and then descends down the front of the leg. As the nerve starts to descend, it splits into two parts: one part goes down the center of the leg to the toes, the other on the outside of the leg to the 4th and 5th toe.

The peroneal nerve becomes vulnerable at the place it goes around the fibula. Injury to the bone or lying on the side of the leg for a prolonged period causes compression at that site. The term "Saturday night palsy" refers to just such a compression that happens when, after a weekend of heavy alcohol intake, an individual falls into a stupor, lying on the side of the leg for a prolonged period without moving brings on the nerve palsy. For reasons that are unclear, individuals with diabetes or hypothyroidism are also at risk for a peroneal nerve palsy even when no episode of compression occurs.

Nerve conduction studies confirm the diagnosis. In most cases, time alone suffices to heal any nerve damage. However, resolution may be slow and the palsy that came on in days may take months to resolve.

MET opens enrollment period

The Michigan Education Trust is offering an eight-month enrollment period for those looking to pre-pay the costs of future college tuition.

The MET Board of Directors voted unanimously to offer open enrollment between Jan 2 and Aug 30, 2003. To date more than 67,000 MET contracts have been purchased with nearly 12,000 students currently using their contracts to attend college.

MET offers three contract options: Full benefits, limited benefits and community college. Due to rising tuition costs at Michigan's four-year public colleges and universities the MET board has authorized 10-percent increases in the full and limited benefits contracts for the coming year. The cost of one-year full benefits contract will be $6,063, with a limited benefits contract priced at $4,884 a year. The cost of MET's one-year community college contract will increase by 5.3 percent to $1,730.

Given the nation's current economic conditions and double-digit tuition increases facing college-bound students, the board has no choice but to increase MET contract prices," said State Treasurer Doug Roberts, who also chairs the MET board. "Despite these increases, the Michigan Education Trust will continue to be flexible, affordable plan for parents and grandparents who want to invest in a child's education."

Roberts said purchasers of MET contracts qualify for a state income tax deduction (total contract price including enrollment fees) while earnings on contributions are tax exempt to beneficiaries, if used for qualified higher education expenses. The cost of monthly purchase contracts range from $21 to $592, and students have nine years to completely utilize MET educational benefits.

The state of Michigan also offers the Michigan Education Savings Program, which allows parents to establish a savings account for educational expenses. Contact the Department of Treasury Web site under Education at www.michigan.gov/treasury, or call (800)MET-4-KID or (877)861-MESP.

Southeast Michigan traffic accidents down, fatalities increase

Southeast Michigan experienced more than 13,000 fewer traffic crashes in 2001 than in 2000, but 20 more fatalities, according to 2001 Southeast Michigan Traffic Crash Facts, a report released by SEMCOG, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

The report contains important statistical information about all traffic crashes reported in Southeast Michigan in 2001, and also focuses on injury traffic crashes, fatal traffic crashes, alcohol-involved traffic crashes, vehicle-deer crashes, young-driver traffic crashes, elderly driver traffic crashes and truck/bus traffic crashes.

Sections at the end of the report contain data about safety-belt use and holiday traffic crashes. The main objective of this report is to provide useful data to aid local communities in their efforts to improve traffic safety.

In 2001, there were 180,739 crashes in Southeast Michigan, a 6.8 percent decrease from the 193,955 crashes reported in 2000. The seven-county region totals are 45.1 percent of the total crashes in the State of Michigan. The state total was 400,813 for 2001, down from 2000's total of 424,867.

The crash rate - the number of traffic crashes per million vehicle miles traveled (VMT) - decreased in the region. The overall crash rate in Southeast Michigan was 3.98 crashes per million VMT in 2001, down from 4.39 crashes per million VMT in 2000, despite the fact that vehicle miles traveled increased from 44,167 million miles in 2000 to 45,460 million miles in 2001.

The report analyzes all traffic crashes by county, severity, crash type, age and gender of driver, rate of crash involvement by age group, and by month, day and hour.

Highlights include:
 ■ There were 470 fatal crashes in Southeast Michigan in 2001, killing 505 people, a 4.4 percent increase from 2000. Southeast Michigan saw an increase in the number of fatal traffic crashes in 2001 after experiencing a drop in fatal crashes in 2000. Fatal traffic crashes and traffic-crash fatalities decreased in the state as a whole.

■ The number of reported injury crashes per million VMT stayed below one for the second straight year in Southeast

Michigan at 90 crashes per million VMT, and continued to decrease in the State of Michigan at 84 crashes per million VMT for the sixth consecutive year.

■ Nearly 84 percent of belted drivers escaped injury altogether, but only 57 percent of non-belted drivers were not injured at all. Drivers in the 16-24 and 25-34 age groups were least likely to use restraints, more than twice as many males and females were not wearing their safety belts at the time of the crash.

■ There were 6,314 crashes in Southeast Michigan that involved alcohol during 2001, down from 7,022 crashes in 2000. This marked a continued decrease in the number of alcohol-involved traffic crashes in the region.

Holiday treat

Popcorn balls originated in the 1800s as a holiday tradition used to decorate Victorian mantels and Christmas trees. They were flavored with orange juice, peppermint or molasses.

The American Pop Corn Company is hoping to renew interest in this old time favorite with the Jolly Time Pop Corn Ball Maker.

The maker consists of two red plastic spheres with a plastic handle on each end. It costs $150 and can be purchased online at www.jollytime.com.

When making popcorn, remember that two table spoons of kernels make about four cups of popped corn. To create popcorn balls, make about 10 cups of popcorn. In a 4 quart glass bowl, microwave 1/3 cup butter or margarine on high until melted about 45 seconds. Stir in 2/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar and 1/3 cup light corn syrup. Microwave on high until mixture boils 1 to 3 minutes stirring once. Microwave on high 2 1/2 to 3 minutes with out stirring. Stir in 1/4 tea spoon baking soda and a 1/2 tea spoon vanilla. Stir in popped popcorn, mixing well. Microwave on 70 percent power 1 minute more. Remove and stir to coat popcorn evenly. Turn mixture out onto cookie sheet just until cool enough to handle.

To make balls, place 1 cup mixture in Jolly Time Pop Corn Ball Maker or in the center of a 10 inch square of plastic wrap. Shape into balls. Twist wrap and tie securely. Makes about 8 to 10 popcorn balls.

Frank Agostini of E G Nick's toasts the holiday season. He encourages people to use their imagination to create a festive setting for Christmas brunch. For example, platters of food are arranged on different levels to create depth. A gold basket, filled with breakfast pastries, is decorated with ribbon, sparkly candles, garland and bright red poinsettias to enhance the presentation.

Holiday celebrations don't have to be about dinner. If you serve brunch, you and your family can relax and enjoy the rest of the day.

"Being together with family is what's important," said Frank Agostini, corporate chef and director of catering for E G Nick's, and part owner of E G Nick's of Plymouth.

He will be preparing Christmas brunch for his immediate family which numbers 25 to 30 people. "Brunch is more relaxed, it's eclectic, you can incorporate breakfast, lunch and dinner foods. Not everyone likes turkey or ham, this way you give a lot of variety, and you've pleased a lot of people."

Although he's a chef, Agostini, who is married and has two children,

See recipes inside

doesn't prepare everything himself.

To illustrate how easy Christmas brunch can be, Agostini put his imagination to work, and set the scene for a festive holiday gathering in the dining room at E G Nick's in West Bloomfield.

"You don't have to spend all of your time in the kitchen, there are so many good bakers. It's a holiday. Think about your family, you've entertained them several times at your house. What do they like? We always have shrimp cocktail on our buffet table for my father-in-law. Think of all the things you like to eat when you go to a party. Think about the dishes you order at your favorite restaurant. Mix what you do with what they do. The whole thing comes down to planning. Use the best people for the best things."

Jackie Scher of Scher Delites in Southfield is his chocolatier.

"She does a great job, and makes all my cakes," said Agostini pointing to a chocolate cake with a white chocolate ribbon. Jim Payne, who owns the Great Harvest Bread Co on Maple Road in Commerce Township, made the caramel apple crunch bread, scones, Danish, and muffins.

Try to think of the ordinary in extraordinary ways. One of Agostini's favorite brunch dishes is blueberry French toast. Mix a little blueberry pie filling with fresh blueberries or blueberry preserves and spread it on a piece of bread. Top with another piece of bread, dip in egg/milk mixture, and fry both sides until golden brown. "It's like having blueberry pancakes," he said. "Or, use cinnamon swirl bread to make French toast instead of plain white bread."

An easy way of carrying your food to your seat, or to eat on your lap: tableware placed inside a decorated gift box.

Make a breakfast strata with scrambled eggs, your choice of cheese, chopped mushrooms, green peppers, onion, and shredded hash browns. Place in a casserole dish and bake until set.

Order entrees and salads from your favorite restaurant. "There are a lot of great independent restaurants that will take the time and put forth the effort to work with you and make sure it's nice for you to take home," said Agostini. "Order sweet and sour chicken from your favorite Chinese restaurant, or Chicken Marsala from an Italian restaurant."

Ruby Red Poinsettias tower over a buffet table filled with festive holiday fare. Flickers of light from red, sparkly votive candles bounce off a tall crystal bowl of fresh fruit, and a gold wicker basket overflows with freshly baked muffins and Danish.

"If I had laid all the food on the table at the same level it wouldn't have the same affect," said Frank Agostini, corporate chef and director of catering for E G Nick's, and part owner of E G Nick's of Plymouth.

"It doesn't have any oomph!" Presentation is important, after all, we eat with our eyes and hunger for foods that look and taste good.

"It's all about little touches and creating different heights," said Agostini. "Use what you've got. Mirrors give you depth, whatever you put on top looks double the size. Fan individually wrapped chocolates out on the table, go to Home Depot and buy glass block

Ancient traditions create champagne with finesse

More than with any other wine, champagne drinkers are brand loyal. And that's OK. However, wine drinkers today are on a bent to experience new tastes. This holiday season, drink your favorite champagne but try Besserat de Bellefon, a new one that was introduced into Michigan only a few months ago. While new to our market, the House of Besserat de Bellefon was founded in the Champagne region of France in 1843 by Edmond Besserat, a native of Hautvillers. That's worth mentioning since Dom Perignon, credited with developing champagne, was cellar master at the Benedictine Abbatte d'Hautvillers.

Over the years, Edmond Besserat also became a master winemaker in Champagne. After him, grandsons Victor and Edmond continued to expand the reputation of Besserat champagnes. In 1927, when Edmond married Yvonne de Merc de Bellefon, a member of the Champagne region aristocracy, the name Besserat de Bellefon was born.

INFUSING ELEGANCE

In 1930, following a request from a Paris restaurateur, Victor Besserat launched a new sparkling winemaking technique that created a slightly sparkling champagne with minimal froth and an abundance of finesse that made Besserat de Bellefon ideal to accompany food.

Crement was once the official French term used to identify a slightly sparkling wine with a reduced dosage, which lowers the "bubble" pressure.

Crement champagne is stylistically bubbly, yet the bubbles break more softly in the mouth than a traditional Brut. When the term crement was officially dropped from French labeling, the Besserat de Bellefon champagnes were redesignated Cuvee des Moines, translated as Blend of the Monks. The name honors the Benedictine monks of Hautviller who pioneered champagne development.

BESSERAT DE BELLEFON

All three Cuvee des Moines champagnes are non-vintage. Some Americans believe that a vintage champagne is better than a non-vintage. It's not. In fact, the non-vintage (NV) Brut sets the style from every prestigious champagne house. Making the Brut taste similar every year is the art of blending champagne.

Additionally, to retain crispness — so necessary as a food accompaniment — and to craft a creaminess on the palate, Besserat de Bellefon Cuvee des Moines champagnes do not undergo malolactic fermentation.

What's your carrot IQ?

BY DANA JACOBI
THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE FOR CANCER RESEARCH

The vitamin A in carrots benefits more than your eyesight. It may also help you stay mentally sharp. To test your mental acuity, see if you can answer these carrot questions.

- What color was the first carrot?
- Which is sweeter, a slim, baby carrot or a big, fat one?
- Why are some carrots green around the top?

The first carrots grew wild in Afghanistan, India and China and came in a rainbow of colors, including white, yellow, red, burgundy and purple. Eventually brought to Europe, the orange we know today were first cultivated in the Netherlands in the 1700s. Today, the 'Beta Sweet,' a hybrid created in Texas, is dark purple on the outside and brilliant orange inside.

The orange color reflects the super-enriched presence of carotenoids, a family of antioxidants present in all carrots and believed to fight cancer and bolster immunity.

Mature carrots are sweeter than true baby carrots because during the longer time they spend in the ground, they store up more sugar. The peeled 'petts' sold in bags taste sweet because they are actually full-grown carrots, machine-cut into baby-style ones. Carrots are also sweeter when peeled, as the peel imparts a faintly bitter taste. Storing carrots near apples and pears makes them taste bitter too, because of the ethylene gas these fruits give off.

Though some claim the green color around the top of some carrots signals freshness, it is actually sunburn. Avoid these carrots, as they tend to taste bitter. To keep carrots fresh, you should remove the tops from a loose bunch because the greens draw up moisture, causing the carrots to wilt faster. (Should your carrots look tired, cut off one end and stand them, cut side down, in cold water to help crisp them.) Instead of discarding the tops, steam some of these vitamin-rich greens, then chop them and add to stews. They are also a good garnish for this creamy Carrot Apple Soup.

CARROT AND APPLE SOUP

- 1 tablespoon canola oil
- 1 medium onion chopped
- 1 medium leek chopped
- 1 pound peeled carrots cut in 1/2 inch slices
- 1 Granny Smith apple peeled cored and chopped
- 3 cups fat free reduced sodium chicken Milk or fat free reduced sodium chicken

The orange color of carrots reflects the super-enriched presence of carotenoids, a family of antioxidants present in all carrots and believed to fight cancer and bolster immunity.

- broth as desired (optional)
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste
- 3 tablespoons minced mint for garnish (optional)

Heat oil in medium Dutch oven or large saucepan over medium-high until hot. Sauté onion and leek until onion is translucent, four minutes.

Mix in carrots and apple. Tightly cover pot, reduce heat and cook gently until vegetables give up most of their juices, eight to 10 minutes. Add broth. Cover and cook until carrots are very soft, about 30 minutes.

Let soup sit, uncovered, about 20 minutes, to cool slightly.

Puree soup in a blender or food processor, if necessary in two batches. (Blender makes a smoother soup.) If soup is too thick, add milk or broth, as desired. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Serve garnished with mint. Makes 4 servings.

CHAMPAGNE PICKS

Luxury champagnes are an extraordinary taste experience. Because it's featured in the 20th James Bond film, Die Another Day, which opened in November, interest in Champagne Bollinger peaked this year.

Here's a fact you won't learn from the film: Bollinger estimates there are 56 million bubbles in a bottle of their Champagne.

Begin counting with NV Bollinger Special Cuvee, $45, hallmarked by richness, flavor depth and persistent length.

The style is influenced by barrel fermentation and addition of reserve wines that are aged in magnum with natural cork closures.

For the holidays this year, Bollinger introduced two enticing super sparklers: 1995 Grand Annee, $90, and 1990 RD $190.

■ From Champagne Nicolas Feuillatte try NV Brut Premier Cru $27, NV Blanc de Blancs Premier Cru, $36, NV Brut Rose Premier Cru, $36, or if you like the taste of an older champagne the 1992 Grand Cuvee Palmes d'Or, $120.

■ NV Champagne Ruinart Brut $48 is exceptionally balanced, light and very fresh, a quintessential aperitif pour that consistently ranks at the top in NV Champagne ratings.

All wines mentioned are available in the metro-Detroit area. If a retailer does not stock a specific wine, ask that it be ordered from the distributor.

■ Besserat de Bellefon Cuvee des Moines Rose $40 has a pretty pink-copper color. Very dry and elegant, it's strawberry and raspberry fruit flavors linger long on the palate. Pair it with Mediterranean-style foods.

■ Besserat de Bellefon Cuvee des Moines Blanc de Blancs $60 is the most elegant of the three wines. Crafted of 100 percent chardonnay, its citrusy aromas set the palate up for a perfectly balanced wine that will pair well with any seafood dish, especially crab cakes with a spicy tropical fruit salsa.

'Tried and True' recipes perfect for holiday brunch

The best recipes are ones you share. These 'Tried and True' recipes are from the newly published 'Tried and True Favorites: Top 300 Recipes,' from www.allrecipes.com, by Allrecipes.com, Inc., Seattle, Wash., Oct. 2002, $17.95, paperback.

Allrecipes.com is a community-based recipe Web site where home cooks share family recipes.

'Tried and True Favorites' is a collection of 300 recipes, everything from appetizers to pasta, entrees, cookies and candies. There's even a chapter of vegetarian recipes.

I liked the friendly tone of the book, and a lot of the recipes. They're easy, don't require hard-to-get ingredients, and best of all, are family tested. Every recipe has an introduction by the contributing home cook.

Here's a sample of recipes from the cookbook. I thought they'd be appropriate for Christmas brunch.

TABLE

windows and put your serving platters on top."

To illustrate how you might want to create the setting for a holiday brunch, Agostini created an L-shape with an eight foot banquet table and card table, and covered them with tablecloths.

His color theme was green, red and gold.

Two poinsettias, purchased at Costco, were placed on top of cloth covered milk crates to make them look a lot taller than they really were.

Then he took an assortment of different size boxes, pots and pans, and covered them with cloth to create a variety of levels to place serving dishes on.

Make the most out of a small space.

Throw a cloth over a step ladder and put dishes on the steps, suggests Agostini.

Instead of tablecloths, buy a good white sheet. Create heights out of whatever you have in your house, even a high chair.

He spray painted the bottom of gift boxes with white spray paint, added a sprinkle of gold glitter, wrapped them with holiday paper, and put a decorated paper plate, napkin and eating utensils inside.

The box is a lot sturdier than a paper plate, and easier to carry. Guests can also place the box in their lap and eat while sitting on the couch if you run out of chairs.

Spray paint an old wicker basket gold and add a ribbon and holly.

"The sky's the limit," said

Agostini.

"Have your kids decorate the basket with fake jewels, when their kids are kids they'll cherish the basket."

Fill galvanized buckets with ice and bottles of sparkling water, juice and splits of champagne so guests can help themselves to drinks.

The sparkly red votive candles are disposable, burn for five hours, and available at Gordon Food Service in packages of 24.

"Gold ribbon can add a lot of color for a little money," said Agostini.

"You can also put pine cones, confetti, or cranberries on your table."

If you're going to entertain a lot, Agostini recommends designating an area of your house as an entertainment closet to store napkin rings, serving platters, bowls, and other items.

Save the boxes you get gifts in, he said. After the holidays you might want to have a Super Bowl party. You could make serving trays out of them. Kids love that kind of stuff, use your imagination.

"You'd be surprised at what you can pick up at Salvation Army Thrift Shops, Big Lot, Franks Nursery & Crafts, Michaels, Gordons, Costco, Sam's Club, flea markets and garage sales," he said. In time, you'll have a collection of fun pieces to display food on like the funky fish platter that Agostini put his shrimp cocktail on.

"You don't have to spend a lot of money," he said.

"You just have to be creative. It's all about little touches."

Ornamental tradition alternative to gift giving

BY KEELY KALESKI
STAFF WRITER

When your brothers and sisters marry and have children, causing your immediate family to grow by leaps and bounds, what do you do about gifts?

Some families decide to draw names, other agree to buy only for children age 16 and under. Others like the Agostini Family, come up with fun alternatives. "We set up a three-foot tree, and everyone goes and picks out a nice ornament, something they wouldn't buy for themselves," said Frank Agostini explaining his family's tradition. All of the ornaments are placed on the tree at our family brunch - there's usually about 30 or so.

Then every one draws a number. The person who draws the highest number picks an ornament from the tree, but the next person to pick a number can take that person's ornament if they want, or one from the tree. The reason you want to draw number one is you can take the last ornament off the tree, or from anyone who picked before you. The game ends when the last ornament is taken off the tree.

"It's a fun thing, and gets everyone involved. There's a sense of competition, but everyone's a winner. You find out who's ruthless and who's nice. It's like playing a game. Couples will work together to get the ornaments they want."

The tradition started about five years ago, and has become a much anticipated event. Every year the ornaments get better and better, said Agostini. "We've already got ours, we bought them while we were on vacation."

CELEBRATION

"Tell them you want to serve it the next day, and they'll prepare the dish to be reheated. We assume when someone orders something to go that it will be eaten soon, but if someone calls and tells us they want a Greek salad that will be served the next day we'll put the beets on the side."

To dress up ears of cooked frozen corn, Agostini added chopped pimento to bring out the color.

Saute green beans in butter, add toasted almonds, a shot glass of Amaretto and flame to burn off the alcohol.

Brunch can be whatever you want it to be, said Agostini. From smoked salmon and bagels with cream cheese to stir-fried chicken.

Include some heritage dishes like grandma's pot roast, but most of all, have fun.

Visiting Mr. Green will make you laugh, cry

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
CORRESPONDENT

Arthur Beer won't become the grumpy and lonely Mr Green, but he will feel his pain and shed his tears

"When I'm on stage, I'm not him I'm not me I am something in between," said the University of Detroit-Mercy theater professor "You play with a split focus The tears are there when I need them"

Tears — and laughter — definitely fill the humorous Visiting Mr Green, presented by the Jewish Ensemble Theatre in West Bloomfield. The play opens at 7:30 p.m. today, Sunday, Dec. 8 at the Aaron DeRoy Theatre, 6600 Maple

The award-winning Beer takes on the role of Mr Green, a recently widowed 86-year-old Jewish man, who is quite accidentally and reluctantly befriended by a young, up-and-coming New York American Express executive

As penalty for hitting Mr Green in a car accident, the executive, Ross Gardiner, played by Timothy McKernan of Livonia, must perform community service — visiting Mr Green for six months

"The first act is warm and funny," Beer said "In the second act, the scenes are touching and bring out basic human emotions"

The two-man play, performed in two 45-minute acts, takes the odd couple from their reluctant meeting through the struggles of a burgeoning friendship and finally, to kindness

"They are two very unlikely people to be together," said the play's director, Yolanda Fleischer, an associate professor of theater at the University of Detroit-Mercy "The two seem like oil and water at first But through each other they learn to love again Lots of secrets come out and they help each other come back to the world"

Missing here are a few morsels of information — they're a secret — that bring out the lost souls in the two characters and prompt their relationship

"They bond The fact is they need each other," Beer said "They are of different generations They are different people"

Evelyn Orbach, artistic director and friend of Beer's, asked him last spring to take the role That was a blessing for Fleischer, who is able once again to work with her academic colleague

McKernan, who was unavailable for comment, is Fleischer's former student

"It is like old home week here We all agreed that Tim was the right person He is a really wonderful person"

Audiences will get the chance to listen in on the odd couple's intriguing, funny and heartwrenching conversations that prompt revelation and friendship through Jan. 5, 2003 Showtime is at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays, Thursdays and Sundays, and 8 p.m. Saturdays, and 2 p.m. for Sunday matinees

A special New Year's Eve Gala performance will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 31 Tickets range $18-$50 with discounts for seniors and students, and are available by calling the JET Theatre at (248) 788-2900

Fleischer and Beer make no bones about the potential difficulty of a two-man show "We are dealing with only one relationship in this show On the other hand, these two actors have to carry the whole ball They have to bring their audience right into their relationships," Fleischer said

That's opposed to a play such as The Children's Hour, which she recently directed with a cast of 12

"You can let the pictures tell the story In Visiting Mr. Green the conversations take place in Mr

Green's apartment that clearly has not been tended since his wife died months earlier

Beer likes the challenge "With a larger cast, you certainly have fewer lines," said the associate director of the university's theater "On the other hand, you are also sharing the credits with everyone Theater is pretty much my life"

A two-man show — especially in a smaller venue — provides instant feedback from the audience

There is no doubt when the audience is laughing and when it doesn't think a line is funny "You must always work with the audience," Beer added

Author looks at the 'Power of the Purse'

BY SAMANTHA CRITCHELL
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

There are so many choices standing between a woman and her perfect handbag that she often buys everything in her way

"They're all so tempting," gushes Anna Johnson "There are fewer rules in fashion now, so it's an excuse to have more bags"

A good bag acts as an extension of the body, she reasons, it says so much about a person in such a small space

Johnson is the author of "Handbags: Power of the Purse" (Workman), a book that attempts to describe "why a little piece of fabric or a little pouch of leather with a strap on it is so powerful"

She says that a purse often indicates a woman's higher aspirations If she wants to look organized, she might choose a unisex-style briefcase, if she wants to look like a woman so wealthy she doesn't care about status symbols, she might choose a canvas tote that would fit right in on a yacht

"Every woman wants a bag you can wear to work and that makes you look like you make $30,000 more than you do," Johnson adds

But, she says, it's not the cost of the bag that matters, it's the message

Right now her own three favorites are a Lambertson Trux Westport bag that can hold her keys, cell phone and practically all her office supplies, a bag from Donna May Bolinger that Johnson calls her "airport bag" because it accommodates three magazines and a bottle of water, and a Sonia Rykiel Domino purse that isn't as practical — it's covered in rhinestones — but it has a built-in key ring She calls her style expensive downtown

"My bag says I'm not really ready for a serious status bag yet I'm not ready to be that grown up

Other purses with personality, according to Johnson, include

■ Elegant icons, such as a Birkin or Kelly from Hermes, the Fendi Baguette or almost anything from Chanel, carry the message, "I'm worth it"

"There's a great dignity in carrying a bag with great lineage," she adds.

■ A "bag of the moment," which is anything there is a waiting list for, means the owner takes fashion seriously

■ A tote bag signifies an unpretentious American style It is classy with a touch of sportiness

■ Decorated purses embellished with fringe, beads and the like, are usually carried by women who indulge in their femininity "She's laughing at her responsibilities," Johnson says

■ Sporty styles, including a Kate Spade shopper or a Bonnie Cashin "grab-it-and-go" shoulder sling, are "suggestive fashion," carried by a woman who wants to look as if she can do it all

■ Novelty bags along the line of Moschino's melting chocolate purse or a Lulu Guinness floral bouquet are "like red shoes on a rainy day — impractical and absolutely fabulous"

Most women want a purse that is a combination of the above, which is why Kate Spade, one of the first accessory designers to focus on everyday bags for everyday life, became an icon in such a short amount of time, says Johnson

But Johnson predicts a new wave of handbag designers will come from a world far away from fashion She expects industrial designers to get in on the act

It eventually will dawn on someone that women will pay a very high price for an attractive, functional, long-lasting bag that is also comfortable to carry but big enough to hold sunscreen and bottled water, Johnson says

Winter brings Santa, crafts, music to the Detroit Zoo

The Detroit Zoo kicks off its annual Wild Winter program this weekend with a visit from Santa Claus.

He'll be on hand for photos every Sunday through Dec. 11 and will greet youngsters and their families at a Santa Breakfast, Dec. 14 and 21.

Santa breakfasts run from 8:30-10:30 a.m. and include pancakes, sausage, Danishes, coffee, hot chocolate and juice. No high chairs or booster seats are available. The breakfast is served family-style at tables that accommodate several guests. Youngsters can meet Santa and will receive a gift. Members pay $25 for adults and $20 for children, age 12 and under. Non-members pay $35 for adults and $30 for children. Reservations are available through the Detroit Zoological Society at (248) 541-5717.

Wild Winter runs every weekend through February 2003 at the zoo, located at Woodward and the I-696 service drive in Royal Oak.

It consists of activities, such as ice carving, decorated holiday trees, musical performances and children's entertainment. Most activities will be held indoors, at the zoo's Wildlife Interpretive Gallery. Some musicals and performers stroll the grounds.

Winter is a great time to view the zoo's snow monkeys soaking in their outdoor hot tub. Or to see the arctic fox, with its white winter coat.

The brightly colored red pandas look striking against the snow and wolverines have been known to make "snow angels."

No winter visit would be complete without a stop at the penguin habitat or the Arctic Ring of Life, which allows visitors to watch polar bears and seals from inside a 70-foot-long clear tunnel. Zoo admission is $8 for adults, age 13 and over, $6 for senior citizens, age 62 and over and students, ages 2-12, children under age 2 are admitted without charge. The zoo is open 10 a.m.-4 p.m. daily.

Come face to face with breathtaking views of underwater seals and polar bears at the Detroit Zoo's Arctic Ring of Life exhibit.

Readers share 'Spectacular' Christmas memories

BY KEELY KALESKI
STAFF WRITER

Jean Mattingly of Farmington grew up in Brooklyn, New York and went to see the Rockettes "many, many times" with her grandmother, aunt and sisters.

She sent us a program from the Saturday, Jan. 8, 1949 show Perry Como, Judy Garland, Lena Horne, Gene Kelly, Mickey Rooney, and Ann Sothern were among the cast members. Mattingly is one of the winners in our "Share your 'Radio City' Memories" contest and received four tickets to the Friday, Dec. 6 performance.

Attending The Radio City Christmas Spectacular is a holiday tradition in many families. Readers shared their memories of attending the show either here or in New York for the chance to win free tickets.

"I was thrilled when the famous Rockettes began doing a Christmas Show at the Fox," said Mattingly. "Seeing the Rockettes has brought back many happy memories for me."

Victoria Heugh of Rochester Hills also won four tickets to the Friday, Dec. 6 performance.

"I have great memories of the Radio Christmas Spectacular," she wrote. "I attended it for the very first time three years ago with my aunt, son, and daughter on the day after Thanksgiving. The show was indeed spectacular. One scary, but kind of funny moment was when one of the dancing bears got too near the front of the stage and fell off, right into the lap of an audience member. No one was hurt, and the show continued."

Our runners-up won two tickets to see the Rockettes, here are their stories.

"My first memory of the Radio City Christmas Spectacular is going to Radio City Music Hall with my parents in New York City," wrote Kathy Kennedy of Bloomfield Hills. "Having seen it numerous times in NYC, I was thrilled to see it coming to Detroit. Taking my children, going with loved ones and friends, I never tire of seeing it."

Probably one of the most memorable times seeing the show was when our college group decided to go together. One of the fellows took charge of getting the tickets and we had agreed that dinner at the DAC would certainly top off the evening. When the day came, the 'party planner' was unable to attend due to illness. We all went anyway, including his wife. We had a terrific time, charged dinner at the DAC on his account, but did buy him a Radio City Rockette Doll to console him. The doll goes on his Christmas tree every year. We still chuckle about that."

CHILDHOOD MEMORY

Patricia Klinger, also a Bloomfield Hills resident, remembers getting dressed her Sunday best and taking the train to downtown New York with her mom and sister to see the Rockettes. They waited in a line, blocks long to get tickets. "We waited a long time and it was bitter cold," she wrote. "We had on ankle socks and I remember putting my mittens on my feet and forcing them into my Sunday shoes, a very uncomfortable feat. I still shudder when I remember the cold. We got into the second performance. Once we sat down and thawed out we stopped complaining and enjoyed the show. In spite of it all it turned out to be a wonderful day and the next year we were back in line again, this time with tickets."

Margaret Johnston, a Commerce Township resident, remembers going to Radio City Music Hall with her grandmother. "The show was beautiful, how the dancers stayed perfectly in step with each other was just amazing to me," she wrote. "I have been to the Fox Theatre's Christmas Spectacular and it brought back wonderful memories. The Rockettes are just as awesome as my girlhood memories. It definitely is a great way to get into the spirit of the holidays."

"I remember two years ago my mom, my friend and her mom went to see the Radio City show in Detroit for the first time," wrote Maria Stoll, 10 of Livonia. "I was so excited. It was a spectacular site! There was Santa's workshop and the talented Rockettes. Now I want to go back every year as a family tradition. It was the best show ever. Keep up the good work Rockettes!"

A PROPOSAL

Theresa Latour of Westland will never forget the time she went to see the Rockettes at the Fox with her sweetheart. "Right there at the aisle, he got down on one knee while a crowd of onlookers giddy with glee. They knew what was coming, and didn't I too. Tiny box in his hand, his love so true. His eyes filled with tears, his lips barely parted, his voice trembled slightly, my heart jumped and started. 'Will you marry me?' Enchanted right there, I replied 'Yes!' around us applause and care!"

A few months after giving birth to twin girls, Rhonda Van Horn's husband surprised her with a homemade gift certificate for a mystery date. She was told to dress up, and grandma stayed with the kids at home in Livonia. The evening began at the Whitney where Rhonda's husband treated her to dinner. After dinner they were off to the Fox. "I can't believe my husband has ever even heard of the Rockettes but here we are, second row center, and I am stunned," she wrote. "The show is fabulous, like nothing I've ever seen. The dancing, the costumes, the whole show is bigger than life and even my husband is having a wonderful time."

Mary Kauper of Bloomfield Hills went to New York City for New Year's Eve with her husband and five-year-old daughter in 1993. They got tickets to see the Christmas Show at Radio City Music Hall. While seated, a "very nice lady" approached us to ask if she could ask our daughter if she wanted to be in the show as a walk-on when Santa was on stage. We agreed and Sarah was thrilled. We all went back stage to get Sarah fitted for her costume, a very large winter coat. Our guide showed her where she would walk on stage from the wings and she looked out on to the enormous stage, and then broke into tears saying "Mama, I don't want to do this!" We went back to our seats and another, slightly older girl was selected for the part. She loved the show from our seats out front. Sarah is now 14 and regrets that she missed her big chance to be in the Radio City Christmas Spectacular."

Jean Mattingly of Farmington, one of the winners in our "Share your 'Radio City' Memories" contest, sent this program from the Jan. 8, 1949, Rockettes performance at Radio City Music Hall.

Grand Rapids: Perfect weekend jaunt for holiday fun

BY MARY QUINLEY
CORRESPONDENT

If you and yours need to escape the holiday hoopla, consider a jaunt to Grand Rapids. It's a favorite weekend getaway for the Reed family of Redford.

"I love Grand Rapids," said Shannon Reed, who frequently visits family and friends there with her husband, Matthew, and their son, Benjamin.

"People don't realize all the cultural and entertainment options that are available," said Barbara Kravitz, director of communications at the Grand Rapids/Kent County Convention & Visitors Bureau.

There's something that appeals to everyone - an entertainment district with lots of possibilities for dining and music, a ballet, eclectic museums, outdoor ice-skating and a symphony. And the list goes on.

If you go, check out this sampling of hot spots in Michigan's second largest city.

■ On weekends at the Grand Rapids Art Museum kids can "drop in" and participate in the hands-on activities. A minimal fee is charged.

The Reeds are so impressed with this museum that they became members.

"I like the smallness, the well-versed staff and the rich exhibits," said Reed, who recently viewed the Frank Lloyd Wright leaded glass display at the museum.

Eye of the Beholder A History of Photography features 150 rare and classic photographs that trace the history of the medium from its inception in the early 19th century to the present. The exhibit will be on display through Jan. 5, 2003.

The skeleton of a 76-foot whale is suspended from the ceiling at the Van Andel Museum Center in Grand Rapids.

For information call (616) 831-1000 or visit the web at www.gramonline.org

■ One of the Reeds' favorite stops is the Frederik Meijer Gardens & Sculpture Park.

"Here we have works of art placed in nature and in galleries," said Joseph Beherer, curator of sculpture, referring to the more than 100 sculptures by world-renowned artists. The Gardens are a blend of education and enjoyment.

"Brave the elements and walk outside to see the sculptures," Beherer suggested. Or take a ride on a tram. Tours of the outdoor gardens are available on the hour from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

"The Gardens are like a little oasis in midwest Michigan. My favorite part is walking outside on the winding path," said Reed.

Through Sunday, Jan. 5, the Christmas Around the World & Holiday Traditions exhibit features children's activities, ethnic entertainment and decorated Christmas trees representing forty nations.

On Thursday evenings in December, enjoy the luminary-lit walkways via horse and carriage rides.

■ If you look up in the main galleria of the Van Andel Museum Center you can't miss the skeleton of a 76-foot whale. It's awesome!

As you wander by the reproductions of 19th century Grand Rapids storefronts, be sure to look down at the brick-covered streets. Listen as you walk - you'll hear the "street sounds" of horses, birds and conversations.

The 1928 Spillman carousel draws youngsters and the young-at-heart alike. The platform, which extends out over the Grand River, is enclosed in a glass and cast stone pavilion. Riders are treated to views of the downtown skyline.

There are tons of other neat exhibits you won't want to miss - the tribute to Grand Rapids as North America's first center of furniture manufacturing, the story of Native Americans of West Michigan, the WHODUNNIT? crime scene, and, a 2,800-year-old female mummy.

Van Andel celebrates the holidays with afternoon tea festivities, gingerbread houses, entertainment and crafts for the kids. Call (616) 456-3977 or visit www.grmuseum.org

■ Take time for a self-guided tour of the impressive Amway Grand Plaza.

It's a wonderful hotel! said Reed, who has stayed at the complex several times. Gold leaf ceilings, a pineapple spigot fountain and two-ton chandeliers adorn the circa 1913 east wing.

During the holiday season, rooms cost $79 (December 16-20 and 22-30) if you dine in any of the hotel's six restaurants or you request room service. Call (800) 253-3590 for details or check the web at www.amway-grand.com

■ How about a history lesson? It happens at the Gerald R. Ford Museum where students of all ages can re-live the sights and sounds of the 1970s era.

See Watergate tools, a Vietnam-era Huey helicopter, part of the original White House switchboard, a gift from the emperor of Japan and a potpourri of other memorabilia representing the 38th President of the United States.

Tera Morrill, a Livonia Franklin graduate, led Madonna in kills with 19 in its victory over Indiana Southeast Thursday at the NAIA Tournament.

Final Four!

Madonna's unbeaten in quest for NAIA title

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

For the first time in school history, Madonna University's volleyball team has reached the NAIA's Final Four.

The Lady Crusaders ascended to that lofty status Friday night with a straight-set sweep of eight-seeded Westmont (Calif.), 30-23, 38-36, 30-19 in the tournament quarterfinals at Point Loma Nazarene in San Diego.

"The key to tonight's win was that we believed in each other," said Madonna coach Jerry Abraham after his seventh-seeded Crusaders improved to 48-3. "We played with relentless pursuit. We played very consistent. Every time we needed a big play, we got it - even when we were down in the second game."

"It was a fabulous win because Westmont had some thunderous hitters and they were hard to block. But our key players came through again, and I think they outplayed their key players."

"We outlasted them." Shelley Stanton paced the Crusaders' attack with 22 kills (60.0 kill percentage), she also had 10 digs and two blocks. Natalya Timna had 15 kills (33.3), Tera Morrill (from Livonia Franklin) had 10 kills, Amanda Suder (Salem HS) collected 13 digs and setter Natalie Sayre finished with 47 set assists, two service aces and 10 digs.

As a team, Madonna hit 434. The Crusaders had just four service aces, but the last one - by freshman Lansey Buche - came at a pivotal time, giving them the match-clinching point.

Westmont ended its tourney run with a 27-9 record.

It's been a tournament of fabulous wins for the Crusaders. They capped a 4-0 run through Pool B with a five-game victory over second-seeded Dickinson State (S.D.), 30-25, 30-24, 20-30, 15-30, 17-15 earlier Friday.

In that match, the 32-year-old Stanton led the attack with 23 kills, 16 digs and two blocks. Laura Lesko added 15 kills (30.3 kill percentage) and 11 blocks, Tera Morrill had 11 kills (52.6), 26 digs and two blocks, Natalya Timna had nine kills and two blocks, Suder had 30 digs, and Sayre totaled three kills, 55 set assists and 14 digs.

"It was our best win of the year," said Abraham after beating Dickinson State. "It was another tough team with a strong outside attack. We played relentless defense. We dug everything. It was a big-time struggle, but the kids hung in there and left it all on the floor.

"We're playing well in crunch-time situations. We made the clutch plays."

Madonna, which opened its pool play last Wednesday with a sweep of Palm Beach Atlantic, blew past Indiana Southeast 30-26, 30-16, 26-30, 30-17 and Walsh University (OH) 30-19, 30-27, 30-17 in Pool B action Thursday.

In the win over Walsh (which finished 39-4), Stanton had 28 kills with a 68.4 kill percentage, as well as 17 digs and five blocks. Lesko contributed 14 kills (77.8) and 17 digs, Timna got 12 kills (50.0), Morrill had five kills and 20 digs, Hayley Myers had eight kills (58.3) and two blocks, Suder got 10 digs, and Sayre totaled 49 set assists.

Against Southeast (31-9), it was Morrill who paced Madonna with 19 kills (54.5), she also had two aces, 13 digs and two blocks.

Stanton got 17 kills (38.7) and 13 digs. Lesko finished with 15 kills (66.7) and two blocks. Timna had 14 kills (46.7) and two blocks. Suder had 18 digs, and Sayre got 47 set assists, five aces and 16 digs.

Madonna met Houston Baptist, the No. 6 seed, in the NAIA Semifinals Saturday. Baptist was 46-2 going into the match, having defeated Columbia (Mo.), the defending NAIA champions, earlier in the tournament.

In the other semifinal, No. 1 seed National American (S.D.), 39-0 overall, faced fourth-seeded Fresno Pacific (Calif.), 41-1 overall.

Baechler on private schools: On target

Let's get this straight right off. The magic is not in the believing. Not where Catholic Central is concerned.

For weeks, the football coach at Canton HS - Tim Baechler - has been bombarded by cheap shots for remarks he made after the Chiefs lost to CC in the state playoffs.

All sorts of things have been offered. Very few, however, have been in his defense. And that bothers me. Because every public school football coach

Four players with starter's experience. That's what Canton Agape Christian has lost from last season's basketball team.

And that's a shame, since that Wolverine team won 17 games (against five losses) and was beating Redford St. Agatha in the Class D District semifinals until the final quarter.

But if that's the bad news, then here's the good: Two starters do return, and they were Agape's best players.

"I think our team is as good as last year's, but it might not be able to match that record," said Agape coach Chuck Henry. The reason: "Our schedule is a lot tougher this year."

What Agape lost was the bulk of its frontcourt. Gone are 6-foot-3 forward Paul Chrenko, 6-1 forward Josh Anthony, 5-10 guard Rob Hough, and 5-5 guard Jeremiah Belton. Each of them, at one time or another, started for the Wolverines last season.

So did Charlie Henry and Jordan Napier. Both now juniors, they were Agape's top scorers last season. Henry, the coach's son, stands 5-8 and plays point guard, he averaged

Despite losses, PCA looks promising

Some key members of last season's team are gone. So why is Plymouth Christian Academy basketball coach Doug Taylor optimistic?

Why does he believe this team can outdo last year's?

Couple of reasons. First, several key players return. Second, injuries last season led to the development of other players, which in turn should help this year.

That being said, the anticipated losses - Matt Gallagher, Eric Schultz, Mark Erickson and James Bauslaugh, who graduated - were made worse by the transfer of two other key players, Aaron Ciborowski, who led PCA in Plymouth Christian Academy's Clay Welton, a 6-foot-3 forward who led the Eagles in scoring last season, is expected to be a powerhouse for the Eagles.

This is a situation no other high school basketball team will face this year

Plymouth HS will start the season as a freshmen squad, the Wildcats will compete at that level all year. But by March, they will be expected to have graduated enough to take on varsity teams.

That's life in a freshmen-only school.

From the beginning, Plymouth sports teams were expected to compete at the freshmen level this school year, then have both junior varsity and freshmen teams next year when the school has a sophomore class. By 2004-05, they would be ready to go with a varsity, even though there would only be freshmen, sophomores and juniors in the school.

But something happened. It was reasoned, correctly, that some freshmen grow up faster and are ready to compete at the varsity level before their junior year. The Plymouth boys soccer and girls basketball teams proved just that, the soccer team winning a state tournament game and the basketball team coming very close.

True, they didn't have to compete against other Division I or Class A teams, playing instead in Division III (or Class C). Still, a freshmen team that can beat a senior-laden varsity squad is impressive.

That means the die has been cast for Plymouth's boys basketball team and its coach, Erin MacGreggor. Come March, the Wildcats will play in the Class C district tournament hosted by Clinton HS.

What happens in between is anyone's guess. Even MacGreggor won't hazard a guess as to who will emerge as a standout player, or how good the team will be.

"That's still to be determined," he said. "We do have some good athletes. But I'm not going to say we'll have a 20-win season."

That's what the Plymouth girls basketball team managed, playing a freshmen schedule. Those Wildcats did have advantages, however, the same the boys team will have. Standout freshmen at other schools move up to the junior varsity level, perhaps even the varsity.

At Plymouth, only one level currently exists.

"It's good and bad," said MacGreggor, noting that an all-freshmen schedule could hinder his team's progress. "But I think it's very unusual to be able to keep 12 kids together for four years."

"The biggest thing with this first year is, they're going to end up being team leaders. And that's so important. They will lay the foundation for the whole program."

MacGreggor's foundation is strong, to be sure. He served on Bob Brodie's coaching staff at Salem HS for the past three years. A graduate of Grand Haven HS in 1995, he then attended Michigan State, graduating in 1999. He is currently teaching social studies at Plymouth HS.

"This has been an unbelievable opportunity," he said.

But what will come of it? How good will the Wildcats be, now and by season's end, when they face those Class C varsity squads?

"The team in general, for 14-year-old kids, they're really pushing each other, he replied in what is definitely advanced diplomatic coachspeak.

The Wildcats scrimmaged Plymouth Christian Academy Friday. That may answer a few questions.

Then again, it may create more of them. Such is life with an all-freshmen team.

Power play gets Whalers 2 victories

OHL HOCKEY

The power play — it's working just fine for the Plymouth Whalers.

Two Ontario Hockey League road games, two wins, seven goals scored. Four of those goals came on the power play.

That's pretty good. On Friday, the Whalers traveled to Saginaw to meet the Spirit. The result: a 4-0 win, thanks to an outstanding performance by goalie Jeff Weber, who turned away 32 shots in the shutout.

The Whalers led 1-0 after one period and 3-0 after two. Tim Sestito scored twice for Plymouth, and James Wisniewski (from Canton) got a power-play goal and assisted on Sestito's first-period score.

Cole Jarrett also got a power-play goal for the Whalers, who improved to 19-6-3-1 with the two wins, assists coming from Karl Stewart and Chad LaRose. John Vigilante and John Mitchell assisted on Wisniewski's second-period power-play goal, Mike Nelson and Sean Thompson drew assists on Sestito's third-period goal.

On Thursday, Jarrett's third-period power-play goal proved to be the game-winner at Windsor, with the Whalers eventually edging the Spitfires, 3-2. Jarrett's goal, with assists from LaRose and Wisniewski, gave Plymouth a 3-1 lead at 9:31 of the third period. At 1:41 of the third, Jimmy Gagnon had given the Whalers a 2-1 lead, with assists from Thompson and Sestito.

Windsor pulled to within 3-2 with a power-play goal by Mike Jarnas at 11:10, but the Spits could not get the equalizer.

Plymouth never trailed in the game, getting the first goal from Mitchell on the power play at 5:07 of the first period, with assists from Vigilante and Jarrett. Windsor tied it at 7:35 of the first with a goal by David Lomas. Paul Drew was in goal for Plymouth and got the victory, making 29 saves.

The Whalers are on the road this week, with games at Peterborough Thursday, at Ottawa Friday and at Kingston Sunday.

JARRETT IS TOP DEFENSEMAN

Cole Jarrett scored goals in consecutive games for the Whalers last week — which served as vindication for an honor he received a few days earlier.

Jarrett was named the Ontario Hockey League's Defenseman of the Month for November after putting together an impressive offensive showing. He collected four goals and 17 assists for 21 points in 13 games — including a goal and four assists in the Whalers' 9-3 victory over the London Knights Nov. 2.

A 19-year-old native of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Jarrett was drafted in the fifth round by the Columbus Blue Jackets in 2001. He was on the Western Conference all-star team at the Hershey Cup game, and he was tied for second in scoring among defensemen with 28 points in the Whalers' first 27 games.

Kubert's gets hat trick as Stevenson wins, 6-0

HOCKEY

Stevenson is 4-2 overall and 1-0 in the Lakes.

CHURCHILL 7 CANTON 3 Dan Deuby scored a pair of goals Wednesday as Livonia Churchill (2-3-2-1) exploded in the final period to subdue Chiefs (1-1) in a WLA Western Division game at Edgar Arena.

The Chargers led 3-2 after two periods before outscoring Canton 4-1 in the final period.

Jim Krygowski, Sean Burke, Kyle Strong and Mike Dzewiet each added one goal and one assist. Ryan Wischmeyer scored the other Churchill goal.

Assists went to goaltender Dave Herrick (23 saves), Steve Yarber, Justin Tomi and Jason Bradshaw.

Matt Gabriel scored twice for Canton. Kyle Tollison had the other goal.

Only three penalties were called in the game.

We put more emphasis on getting more shots in a five-on-five situation. Churchill coach Pete Mazzoni said.

STEVENSON 6 NORTHVILLE 1 Tommy Zagata's hat trick lifted Livonia Stevenson (3-2) to a WLA crossover win Wednesday over the Mustangs (3-2) in a game played at Edgar Arena.

After a scoreless first period, Stevenson tallied four goals in the second period. Zagata from Brian Shekell and Justin Dunn at 1:53, Zagata from Shekell and Erik Anderson at 9:37, Jeff Kraemer from Brandon Hoots at 10:30 and Dave Baruzzini from Jon Fritsch at 11:53.

Northville's Jake Vitale broke Spartan net minder Rob Thomas's shutout bid with 40 seconds left in the second period.

Stevenson tacked two more scores on in the final period. David Kubert from Kraemer at 4:21 and Zagata from Dave Mifsud at 13:09.

We played hard for 45 minutes. We're improving every game. Stevenson coach Mike Humitz said. We started slowly but Rob (Thomas) made some pretty good saves early for us before we got going.

LADYWOOD 2 G P NORTH 1 Goals by Jess Blaesser and Jenna Keenan carried Livonia Ladywood (3-0) to a Michigan Metro Girls High School Hockey League victory Wednesday over visiting Grosse Pointe North (2-2) at Plymouth's Arctic Pond.

Megan MacDonnell chipped in two assists for the Blazers.

Dana Chicklas had the lone goal for North.

"Canton has always been a giving community and we expect an outstanding response."

As a token of appreciation for each donor's generosity, HVS management will give a coupon for a free box of popcorn and small pop at the HVS concession stand.

would agree with Baechler's assessment. What Baechler said was no revelation. It was nothing that hadn't been said before. Private schools do have an advantage. They can draw players from anywhere — even Canada, if so desired. For example, Imagine Michigan State meeting UCLA for the NCAA basketball championship, but certain conditions exist. MSU can draw its players from this state only, while UCLA can get its players from anywhere — including Michigan. Who you going to bet on? Before any CC alums or coaches get all p o e d at me, let me offer this. I have nothing against Tom Mach and the truly wonderful job his staff did this season. Nor do I disrespect their players. Which means I am in agreement with Baechler. 'Cause that's what he said, both to me and in a letter he sent to Mach. "I never said anything about them not working hard, and I never said anything about them recruiting," Baechler said. There was no disrespect to them or to the Catholic Church. I wrote a letter to Tom Mach, a long letter, and I said the same thing. I totally respect the guy." What Baechler did say was that CC should win because it can do things most public schools can't. Indeed, it's what those public schools like Canton can't do that helps make CC so successful. If you're the parent of an outstanding athlete who will be a star in football, what would you do in this situation. Enroll him at CC, with all of its tradition, or stay in the Plymouth-Canton school district, where he could end up at any of three schools — one of which won't even have a varsity program for another two years? Is that sour grapes? No, that's reality. And that's what Baechler was talking about when he said CC should win every year. Canton HS players all live in Plymouth or Canton, less than half of CC's athletes reside in Redford. The playing field isn't equal, and it won't be unless public school districts start doing what Farmington and Detroit have done with open enrollment. Do you think John Herrington won all those state titles at Farmington Harrison by relying on the luck of the draw, like they do in Plymouth-Canton? This is not an accusation that CC recruits. It doesn't need to, really. Like Herrington at Harrison, dads want their sons to play football for Mach at CC. The Shamrocks draw enough good athletes to compete with anyone, and Mach and his staff make sure they fulfill their potential. They may not have loads and loads of NCAA Division I talent, but they have more good talent than anyone else. Success breeds success. Given a choice between a sure thing and an I dunno, where would you send your kid? "I didn't mean to hurt any feelings or disrespect anybody," Baechler said, speaking publicly for the first time since his outburst after Canton lost to CC. "And I never, ever said I didn't respect their players or their coaches. I said I didn't respect their state titles because they're competing on a different playing field." It's true. Everyone knows it.

Both coaching staffs are limited to the students that walk through their doors, it's just that CC's doors are open to everyone. Canton's are open to those who live in Plymouth or Canton, and whoever draws a red chip. Here's something else to consider. Of the 16 teams that played for state titles this fall in football, five were from private schools. Three of those won championships (two Catholic schools, Gaylord St. Mary and Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes, played each other for the Division 8 crown). Another four private schools reached the semifinal round before being eliminated. Is that fair? No. But that's the way it is. What Baechler said was logical. It was accurate. And it was truthful. Perhaps his timing could have been better, but when asked if his team was intimidated by the CC tradition a few minutes after losing, well, he has a right to be a bit defensive. We can resolve all of this quite simply, you know. A: Let kids go to whatever school they want to, anywhere in the state. B: Restrict private schools to recruiting — sorry, I mean drawing — students from a five-mile radius of their present location. I don't expect either one to be adopted. I mean, if either was, what would the Catholic League schools do? One last thing. For years, I have insisted on listing the city where Catholic Central is located (it's Redford, if you didn't know) in its first reference in a story, as I do with any other school. Now I realize that was unnecessary. CC has no boundaries. C.J. Risak can be reached at (734) 953 2108.

a team-best 17 points a game. Napier, a 6-3 forward, averaged 10 points a game. "They were our most skilled kids," said Henry, the coach. "Napier and Charlie are very good players. If we can get our defense to improve, we'll be very good." The defense is what Henry figures was hurt most by the graduation losses. With just nine players on this season's team, it won't be easy to fill those holes. It's not difficult to spot Agape's biggest deficiency size. Of the probable starters, only three are bigger than 6-foot — Napier, 6-1 senior Matt Ratchiff and 6-1 senior Alec Tarnowski. Ratchiff and Napier will share the post position, while Tarnowski is a shooting guard. Others who could figure into the starting rotation are 5-9 senior guard John Estrada, a back-up on the varsity last season, and 5-9 senior guard Mike Bommarito, who swung between the varsity and junior varsity last season. The cast is strong enough. Offensively, Henry believes Defense is another story. "That's what we're working on very hard," the Agape coach said. "That's what we're focusing on, trying to get better (defensively)." The Wolverines other weakness is that short bench. "Without a long bench, we have to stay out of foul trouble, and we can't have any injuries," Henry said. "If we can continue to improve throughout the year, then..." Then perhaps the Wolverines can make a run in the state tournament. Agape is still a team without a conference, at least for one more year, it joins the Michigan Independent

Athletic Conference next fall. That means the team must find motivations throughout the season, at least until the state tournament begins. Certainly coaching at Agape is different than at Henry's previous stop, Wayne Memorial, but not in obvious areas. Agape will continue to play its home games at Discovery Middle School, and it will practice in a 50-foot long gym. But while the talent pool is far smaller to choose from, the game's the same. Or as Henry put it, "Coaching's coaching. Kids are kids. They all want to play, they all want to compete." Henry's always been well known as a strong teacher among coaches. If he can get his message through to this team, it may extend the even season deeper into the state tournament. Agape opens on Tuesday at Deerfield. cjr/srk@oe.homecomm.net | (734) 953 2108 rebounding as a freshman, and Xander Younce, who started at guard as a sophomore. "That was a bit of a hit," admitted Taylor of the transfers. Still, the Eagles won't be talentless. Returning are two seniors who should give PCA strength inside. Clay Welton, a 6-foot-3 forward who led the Eagles in scoring, averaging 12.5 points a game (as well as 6.8 rebounds), and Ben Pew, a 6-4 center who didn't start but has "really improved in the last year. He'll definitely have to play more minutes (this year)." What Taylor is really banking on is the further development of his backcourt, juniors Dan Carty and Ben Baloga. When Bauslaugh suffered an ankle injury last season, both got more minutes, their improvement a year ago forced Taylor to give them additional playing time. Carty, who's 6 feet, averaged nearly seven points a game, Baloga, who's 5-11, averaged 4.5 points while making 47 percent of his shots. I may have my best two guards as juniors in my 10 years of coaching," Taylor said, which is why he added, "I think we can be as good or better than last year, even though we lost two starters." PCA finished 11-10 last season. Matching that may not be easy. "I want us to play hard, play smart and play with pride every night," said Taylor. "We've got some experience with two seniors in the post and we have two guards with experience." "We will have balanced scoring. What I'm hoping will be improved will be our shooting. The guys worked hard on that in the off-season." In 2001-02, PCA averaged 52 points a game, making 39 percent of its floor shots, 60 percent of its free throws and 26 percent of its three-point tries. Taylor believes the Eagles will be better in all three percentages, which will make the team's scoring average increase. Others who figure to play a role for the Eagles are Drew Gallagher, a 5-11 junior guard, and his brother Steven, a 5-11 freshman who may play junior varsity too, juniors Jamin Ruark, a 5-11 guard, Lew Trupp, a 6-2 forward, and Kris Whipple, a

6-foot forward, and sophomore Steve Sumner, a 5-10 guard. Ruark, Trupp, Whipple and Sumner played JV ball last season. Dave Twellman, a 6-2 senior forward who transferred in from Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard, will also get some playing time once he becomes eligible in mid-January, at the start of the second semester. "We're going to score more points and be more balanced," Taylor predicted. Does that mean PCA will challenge Auburn Hills Oakland Christian for the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference title? Or even Allen Park Inter-City Baptist, another MIAAC power? Taylor won't make any such argument. He will say if his team adheres to his "play hard, play smart, play with pride" mandate, success will follow. "Do those things and good things will happen for you," he said. "But we have to shoot better. We had some big wins last year. Hopefully, we can build on that." Many of the pieces are in place. Now it's just a matter of cementing it all together. cjr/srk@oe.homecomm.net | (734) 953 2108

Old-Timers Tournament a big success

The 72nd annual Old Timers Bowling Tournament, held Saturday (Nov 30) at Thunderbowl Lanes in Allen Park, was a huge success as usual, thanks primarily to the efforts of John Chmelko, Sr and John Chmelko, Jr

Al Harrison

Also, event directors worked tirelessly to keep the event running smoothly and resulting in a full house of bowling participants again this year

The opening ceremonies included the introduction of hall-of-famers, including Lew Saad, who was recognized for his longtime contributions and support

At 99, Saad is the oldest living sanctioned American Bowling Congress bowler in the state

Meanwhile, the press squad consisted of myself, Jim Jimmerson, Larry Paladino, Darrin Hill and our rookie, Perry Farrell

Paladino, this year's president of the Old Timers, turned over the gavel of the office to Ted Kress of Redford, who will serve in the same capacity for the coming year

Mark Hickok of Farmington Hills was the defending champion, but was unable to repeat

Top honors went to overall champion Bob Chamberlain with a 779 series

Hall-of-Famer Tony Lindemann took first in the 80-and-up division followed by Harold Porter and Charles Aghian

Gene Rice earned the title in the 75-79 group, thanks mainly to a 300 game which he rolled in the opening set. He started the day with 15 consecutive strikes and finished with 661

Gabe Fazekas was runner-up with 649 and Milton Patton rolled into third place with 636

The 70-72 division was captured by Chester Oleszkowicz with 694, followed by Jerry Cole at 690 and Tony Ballarta with 656

In the 65-69 group, it was Tony Loiacano taking first with 728

Joe Fitzsimmons of Waterford was second with 701 and Bob Arnold placed third with 671

The 60-64 age division was won by Roman Seniw of Inlay City with 751, including a 279 game, Jim Schaeffer of Farmington Hillstock second with 719 and Bob Haynes third was with 698

In the 50-59, Frederick Skora of Westland won with a 756 followed by Lee Snow of Wixom (741) and Ted West (726)

The under-50 title went to Paul Bohn of Trenton with a 780 series followed by Ed Towns at 767 and Greg Cohen of Livonia with 725

The victor in each division received a commemorative wrist watch, made specifically for the Old Timers event

A buffet dinner was followed by the awards presentations led by past president George Zainea, who presented Saad with a plaque

■ Random ramblings Let's back up a little and talk about bowlers who throw a backup ball (reverse curve)

This type of delivery is more common among women bowlers as it is conducive to the bone structure of the hand

To imitate a hooking ball (right-handed), the bowler imparts a counter-clockwise turn as he or she releases the ball

The backup is thrown the opposite way, the wrist and hand rotating clockwise at release

I have discussed this delivery with many coaches and pro shop operators

"It is better not to try and change somebody's delivery style if they are more comfortable in doing it that way," said Tom Relech of the Strike Force Shop at Oak Lanes "They can learn to get the maximum results by playing the left-handers line"

One of my own teammates, Cathy Andrews, throws a nice backup ball where she has learned to adjust her starting position to the lane conditions by moving right or left on the approach An All-Star women, Robin Barter of Westland, is able to generate a lot of striking power with her "scroogie" delivery, while Jimmerson is able to convert some tough spare combinations by throwing a reverse curve, even though his regular shot is a nice strong hook.

Al Harrison is a resident of Garden City and a director with the Greater Detroit Bowling Association He can be reached at (734) 422 1609

Heart attacks

For the first time researchers have shown that magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) can predict the risk of heart attacks or cardiac deaths in coronary heart disease patients according to an American Heart Association report.

This study is the first to determine that MRI is a strong prognostic forecast. Says lead author Dr. W. Gregory Hundley, a cardiologist and associate professor of internal medicine and radiology at the Wake Forest University School of Medicine in Winston-Salem, N.C., "Such information is important because it helps us identify which patients should receive more aggressive treatment."

Hundley's study yielded several important findings. Regardless of other risk factors, MRI can predict fatal and nonfatal heart attacks in patients whose left ventricle pumps out less than two-thirds of the blood a normal heart ejects.

Someone whose damaged heart wall moves better at rest than when stressed also has an elevated risk and.

The location in the heart of reduced blood flow or muscle damage apparently influences risk. Reduced blood flow in the apex of the left ventricle indicates a higher risk.

These findings have interesting implications, says Hundley. Patients with isolated disease near the base and the middle of the ventricle often are referred for procedures to restore blood flow. This study suggests that in doing so, you might alleviate chest pain but not prevent a cardiac death.

Bipolar disease

Don't cope with the highs and lows of bipolar disease alone. Let others help you learn to live a full, productive life.

The Manic Depressive/Depressive Association (MDDA) Bipolar Support Group meets 3-5 p.m. the second and fourth Thursdays of the month at Beaumont Hospital Administration Building, 3601 W. 13 Mile Road, Royal Oak. For information, call Kathie at (248) 544-1097.

Blood pressure

Beaumont Hospital needs people 18 and older with high blood pressure to volunteer for research studies of new medications. All study-related health care is provided at no charge to participants. Call the Division of Preventive and Nutritional Medicine in Royal Oak toll free at (888) 807-8839 for more information.

To schedule, just call Botsford Center for Health Improvement in Novi at (248) 477-6100 Ext. 247. A certified massage therapist will come to your workplace. ## A holiday without weight gain?

Yes, it can be done!

BY SANDRA DALKA-PRYSBY
CORRESPONDENT

During the holidays, if my true love sent me a partridge in a pear tree, I'd eat the bird - fried, of course - and all the pears on the tree. This is how out of control I can be, and have been during this festive and food-filled time of year.

This year, however, I'm determined to do better and eat less-fattening foods at all the parties and family feasts. But to do this, I've solicited help from a couple of experts. You, too, will do better if you follow their tips for making it through the holidays without gaining weight.

BE PREPARED

Sharon Claye has been a Weight Watchers leader for 11 years and is my motivator on this "fitness forever" quest. She, herself, lost 75 pounds and has kept them off for more than 12 years, including during the holiday season.

"I've discovered that if I eat right, I feel right. How good it is to go through the holidays feeling this way," she says.

Being prepared, setting priorities and having a positive attitude are the best ways to handle the holidays, she says. Her suggestions include:

Have precut and convenience foods, such as vegetables and fruits, available to munch on at home and to bring to parties to share with others.

"When I make up a fruit tray for parties, I like to use exotic fruits, such as mangoes, pomegranates, kiwis and persimmons. These fruits are now more readily available and less expensive, and they look pretty and colorful on the serving plate."

A fruit dip can be added for the finishing touch. Claye likes to mix vanilla low-fat yogurt with sugar-free hot cocoa to taste.

Bring a healthy dish to holiday dinners. "Don't ask if you can bring something, because most hostesses will say 'no.' Just bring a dish. Nobody is ever offended if you show up with a food offering."

'I've discovered that if I eat right, I feel right.

How good it is to go through the holidays feeling this way.'

Sharon Claye
Weight Watchers

A popular dish that Claye takes to gatherings is spaghetti squash topped with tomato salsa. ("Poke holes in the squash and microwave it for 8 to 10 minutes, until it's soft. Scoop out the strands of squash and place them in a casserole dish. Cover with salsa and sprinkle on Parmesan cheese, if desired.")

Get enough sleep. If you're tired, there's more of a chance that your willpower will be lower. Also, you tend to eat more sugars and fats to help increase your energy. This means that you can take in a lot of calories when you don't get enough sleep.

Bring along some healthy foods when you do your holiday shopping. "If I'm going to be away from home for four hours or more, I always take a small cooler with some lean protein, such as chicken breast or fish, and some cut vegetables. You can get carbohydrates just about anywhere, but you need the protein, which keeps you full longer."

Packing a cooler takes less time than standing in line for a snack (often high-calorie or high-fat) at the mall.

Also, Claye keeps a piece of fruit or a protein bar (15-20 grams of protein and no more than 200 calories) in her purse. "There's no excuse for not planning ahead."

SET PRIORITIES

Choose how you're going to spend your calories (or points) at home and at gatherings.

For 250 calories, you can choose four small cookies or 8 small pieces of chocolate or six ounces of eggnog or five cups of strawberries or 12 cups of low-fat popcorn. It's up to you to decide which one - and only one is best - you want. At the same time, you have to decide if you need a treat in the first place. By knowing what you are trying to accomplish, you are better able to make good choices," says Claye.

Make sure you fit exercise into your busy schedule.

According to Claye, you need to exercise during the holiday season to help you maintain your present weight, and, at the same time, help reduce the stress that comes with this busy time of year.

Don't wait until January, when the holidays are over, to return to healthy eating and exercise.

Some people take an all or nothing approach to the holiday season. Neither is good. "All" usually results in weight gain, "nothing" makes for a miserable few weeks. Claye adds that moderation, balance and making good food choices, as well as a realistic exercise routine, is the best way to handle the holidays.

KEEP A POSITIVE ATTITUDE

Remind yourself that you're a good person and worth good health and fitness.

"It's easier to make it through the holidays if you have the positive belief that you deserve to look and feel good," Claye says.

Focus on people and not on food.

"When I have to go to gatherings that I dread, I search for someone who looks as miserable as I feel. I strike up a conversation with them. Often this person is grateful to talk with me and it's an opportunity to make a new friend."

Don't be a victim!

By choosing to take healthy steps, you'll have a positive and successful holiday season without gaining weight.

"For many, it's too hard to lose weight during the holidays. You should consider yourself successful if you maintain the weight you

Change your beverages to reduce your stress

BY SANDY BAUMANN
CORRESPONDENT

As the holiday season begins, we use coffee, tea, and caffeinated soft drinks to compensate for lost sleep and to gain energy to accomplish the multitude of tasks ahead. Indeed, caffeine found in these drinks is a stimulant that temporarily improves alertness. However, excess caffeine increases stress and impairs health.

A general guideline for maximum consumption of caffeine is 1 mg daily for every 2 lbs. of body weight. Thus, an 80-pound child could ingest up to 40 mg caffeine, while a 150-pound adult could consume up to 75 mg caffeine. Dr. Singh Khalsa, author of Brain Longevity, recommends a maximum of 100 mg caffeine per day to preserve optimum brain function.

Since the usual take-out coffee or soft drink is usually 12 oz., you don't have to drink very much to reach the recommended daily maximum. (The Web site www.sleepfoundation.org/caffeine.html offers a "Caffeine Calculator" that lists caffeine in beverages, chocolate, and pain relievers.)

EFFECT ON THE BRAIN

Caffeine adds stress to the body in a number of ways. It reduces blood flow to the brain. According to the journal Life Sciences, a brain scan of a person ingesting 250 mg of caffeine (about 15 oz. coffee) showed almost 30 percent decrease in blood flow in the brain. It can also contribute to insomnia.

The Institute for Natural Resources reports that the body may take three to 10 hours to metabolize one-half the caffeine ingested. Thus, the cola or coffee you drank in the afternoon may be why you can't sleep at night, and children who have soft drinks or iced tea with caffeine may fight going to bed.

Too much caffeine may also result in irritability. Since caffeine is a diuretic, it increases excretion of water-soluble B-vitamins and Vitamin C. These vitamins help the brain and adrenal glands cope with stress. Deficiency in these vitamins results in irritability, confusion, memory loss, restlessness, anxiety, headaches, and more.

EFFECT ON THE BODY

Caffeine promotes the release of norepinephrine in the body, which raises blood pressure, blood sugar, and potential for blood clots. In this way, excess caffeine can increase the risk for heart disease, stroke, and diabetes. Caffeine's effects on the heart can make worse heart palpitations, irregular heartbeats, and mitral valve prolapse.

According to Health Wisdom for Women, caffeine poses other health risks, including urinary excretion of magne-

Red Cross offers winter safety tips

As winter weather and frigid temperatures sweep through the tri-county area, the Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross emphasizes the importance of being prepared for potentially life-threatening winter conditions. The Red Cross offers the following tips:

PREPARE WINTER STORM PLAN

- Have extra blankets on hand
- Ensure that each member of your household has a warm coat, gloves or mittens, hat, and water-resistant boots
- Assemble a Disaster Supplies Kit
- First aid kit and essential medications
- Battery-powered NOAA Weather Radio (a portable device that enables the public to receive continuous weather broadcasts and hazard alerts directly from local weather forecast offices), flashlight and extra batteries
- Canned food and can opener
- Bottled water (at least one gallon of water per person per day to last at least 3 days)

Stay tuned for storm warnings

- Listen to NOAA Weather Radio and your local radio and TV stations for updated storm information

PREVENTING INJURY

Exposure to cold can cause injury or serious illness such as frostbite or hypothermia. The likelihood of injury or illness depends on factors such as physical activity, clothing, wind, humidity, working and living conditions, and a person's age and state of health. Follow these tips to stay safe in cold weather:

- Dress appropriately before going outdoors. The air temperature does not have to be below freezing for someone to experience cold emergencies such as hypothermia and frostbite. Wind speed can create dangerously cold conditions even when the temperature is not that low. If possible, dress in layers so you can adjust to changing conditions. Avoid overdressing or overexertion that can lead to heat illness

- Traveling and winter can be a dangerous combination. Allow extra time when traveling. Monitor weather conditions carefully and adhere to travel advisories
- Keep a winter storm survival kit in your car. This should include blankets, food, flares, chains, gloves and first aid supplies
- Have your car winterized before winter storm season
- NEVER allow anyone who has been drinking alcohol to drive, regardless of the weather

Cold- and heat-related emergencies can occur quickly. To learn more about signals of how to care for cold or heat-related problems, take a Community First Aid and Safety course from your local Red Cross chapter

OTHER HEALTHY HOLIDAY TIPS

- Keeping a positive attitude during the holidays – and every day – is also one of the best tips offered by Sarah Irving, a registered dietitian with the Beaumont Weight Control Center
- Irving offers these other tips
- Preplanning is the key to success. Identify those foods or situations which pose the biggest challenge for you. Then develop strategies to cope with these foods and situations.
- Plan fun activities to stay active. "Exercise can be a fun thing to do. You can do such things as playing in the snow or walking the mall while enjoying all the holiday decorations"

- Create a non-food holiday tradition. Instead of baking cookies, make ornaments, wreaths or other decorations
- Avoid hanging around the food table. Often if food is out-of-sight, it's out-of-mind. If you stay away from the food, you're less tempted to eat it
- Limit your alcohol consumption. "Alcohol adds extra calories. A regular (12 ounce) beer, for example, has 150 calories. Limit your alcoholic drinks by having a glass of water or a non-alcoholic beverage in between
- Don't skip meals. Oftentimes, when you skip a meal (or meals) to save the calories for parties, you tend to overeat, even binge, when you get to the party. Eat healthy and low-calorie foods the day of the event so that you can better control what you eat when you get to the party
- Don't forget to drink plenty of water. Water fills you up and, oftentimes, when you think you're hungry, you're just thirsty
- Send leftovers home with your guests. Remember: Out of sight, out of mind

FINAL THOUGHT

I was told early on in my weight-loss journey that when making a trip to the buffet table, follow behind the slimmest woman at the gathering and put on my plate only what this person puts on hers

This, I was told, would guarantee that I wouldn't overeat. This might work most of the time, but the two times I tried this I must have found the slimmest women with the biggest appetites. They piled their plates with heaping portions of food! I would have loved following their lead, but, darn, I knew better!

Now I have my own way of handling buffets. It's my '1 2 3 Plan.' I look over all of the offerings, then I select one protein, two starches/carbohydrates and three vegetables and/or fruits

And I get only one plate (even the salad, if chosen, must go on the same plate) and one trip to the buffet. This works because a plate is only so big. Heaping is allowed, but only with the vegetables sium and calcium, leading to bone loss. In a study of over 90,000 women, those who consumed the most caffeine had three times greater risk for hip fracture than those who consumed little or no caffeine

Happy, healthy holidays!

In the digestive tract, excess caffeine can cause or worsen irritable bowel syndrome, ulcers, inflammation of the esophagus, heartburn, and hiatal hernia. During digestion, caffeine reduces iron absorption and can lead to anemia. One cup of coffee can reduce iron absorption by 39 percent

For women, too much caffeine can cause sore breasts and PMS, these symptoms often disappear when caffeine is stopped. Health Wisdom for Women reports that caffeine has been shown to increase the rate of miscarriage and low-birth-weight babies

SOFT DRINKS

Many persons, including teenagers, drink carbonated beverages, both diet and regular. These carbonated beverages also present health hazards – even those without caffeine

Dr. Jonathan Ewer, a chiropractor from Latrobe, Pa., has seen osteoporosis fractures in 13-year-old girls and men who consume large amounts of carbonated soft drinks. Phosphoric acid in soft drinks increases the risk for bone loss, because it reacts with calcium to make it insoluble

Sugared soft drinks raise the potential for obesity. A 20-oz soft drink contains around 250 calories, which represents 1/8 of the daily caloric intake recommended for either an elementary school student or the average woman

A person who drinks three 20-oz sugared soft drinks weekly and does not increase physical activity may gain seven pounds a year

Diet drinks that contain aspartame increase the levels of dopamine in the brain, too much dopamine causes anxiety and headaches

WATER

Plain water is a great choice, because it enhances health. According to Dr. Batmanghelidj in Your Body's Many Crises for Water, drinking more water is a simple way to decrease hypertension

It also increases fluid in the joints, thereby lessening the pain and stiffness of arthritis. Water restores fluid balance in the bowels, which reduces heartburn and constipation

It also hydrates the respiratory tract to decrease sinus problems, asthma, and the potential for infection

In the book Overcoming Arthritis, West Bloomfield physician Dr. David Brownstein recommends drinking one ounce of water for every two pounds of body weight. If you eat many fruits and vegetables, you may need less water. You are drinking enough water when your urine is the color of pale lemonade. If you have congestive heart or kidney problems, consult your physician before drinking more water

Water fights fatigue. Hikers find that they can hike longer when they carry and drink water than when they don't. Thus, you can fight holiday stress (and save money) by switching from caffeinated beverages and soft drinks to water

Holidays can intensify anxiety disorders

It's normal to worry from time to time, and everyone does it. However, one in every four Americans suffers from some form of anxiety disorder at one point or another in their lives. For these people, their excessive anxiety can dramatically affect quality of life. This is especially so during the holidays, when added stresses can trigger an increase in panic attacks or acute social anxiety.

Mental health specialists with the University of Michigan Health System encourage all of us to slow down and enjoy the holiday season, and for those individuals suffering from anxiety disorders to seek professional help. But how can people tell when their state of high anxiety is such that they need professional help?

According to Joseph Himle, associate director of the U-M Anxiety Disorders Program, anxiety of a clinical nature hinges on how much it interferes with activities of everyday life. Anxiety disorders people commonly seek treatment for fall into several groups: generalized anxiety disorder, panic disorder, and social anxiety disorder.

Generalized Anxiety Disorder
We all experience worry, but usually we're able to control it. People with generalized anxiety disorder have difficulty controlling their worry. Also, the disorder comes with other problems or symptoms, such as difficulty sleeping, feeling tense, keyed up or on edge, or having problems with concentration or irritability.

Panic Disorder
This is a condition characterized by sudden, unexpected surges of very intense anxiety and fear. Often when people experience a panic attack, they have several physical symptoms that just don't make sense for the situation they're in. These symptoms can include rapid heart rate, difficulty breathing or shortness of breath, chest pain or discomfort, shakiness, sweating, dizziness, even a feeling that things don't seem quite real. Panic attacks commonly last just a few minutes, coming on suddenly and going away fairly quickly.

Around a third of the population will experience an attack of anxiety at some point that makes no sense. Most of us would dismiss it and carry on with our life, probably never to have another episode again. People with an actual panic disorder have a different reaction, however. They often characterize the experience as threatening or something to be afraid of.

"When the panic attacks increase in frequency and begin to interfere with a person's life, that signals panic disorder, a condition that often requires treatment," says Himle, who is also a clinical assistant professor in the U-M Medical School's Department of Psychiatry.

Social Anxiety Disorder
Social phobias are a common anxiety disorder. They affect approximately 13 percent of the population at some point in their lives, affecting women only slightly more than men. For people with this disorder, the impact on their lives can be significant.

"Social anxiety is really centered around a fear that people are evaluating you in a negative way or judging you in an unflattering way," Himle explains.

This anxiety disorder can interfere with a person's social life, including interfering with the ability to make friends, making one feel anxious around other people, and yearning to be alone. People with this disorder may find that interacting with someone on a date is so stressful that they prefer staying alone. Others may choose a partner who is less threatening.

Many people with social anxiety disorder find themselves isolated, depressed and feel the disorder has made a substantial impact on their well-being.

CHALLENGE

For people with anxiety disorders, the holiday season is often a challenge. For instance, people with social anxiety may find it very difficult to attend office parties or neighborhood get-togethers.

For someone with a panic disorder, the hectic pace of the holidays can raise levels of general anxiety to the point where it triggers more attacks of anxiety. And people with panic disorders are sometimes challenged over the holidays to go places and do things like shopping or visiting.

"I think a gift we can all give ourselves during the holiday season is to take a little more time for rest, relaxation, satisfaction and to use this time to think about getting help if social anxiety, panic disorder or generalized anxiety are interfering with life," Himle says. "We have treatments that are available for these conditions, and using the holidays to reflect and redirect our life in a more positive direction clearly makes sense."

There are two main interventions for people with anxiety disorders, and these include medications and psychotherapy. The psychotherapies often center around something called cognitive behavioral therapy, which involves asking people to confront their difficult situations.

People in therapy also learn

ABOUT ANXIETY DISORDERS

- Anxiety disorders only infrequently occur in an isolated form. They are extensively present with depression and substance abuse.
- Anxiety disorders cannot be cured, but full functional recovery is achievable.
- People with anxiety disorders tend to be at a continuous risk of relapse.

ways to manage their anxiety by using relaxation techniques. Lifestyle changes can also help, these include exercise, sleeping at regular times or even finding a better balance between work and fun.

"Medications and psychological treatments can be quite helpful for these problems, and there's real reason to come forward for help," says Himle.

Cognitive therapists help people think more accurately about their situation and learn to judge risks more clearly.

The fact of the matter is that most of the time, the things we worry about don't happen, a cognitive therapist helps people think more clearly and helps them gain their perspective about the real risks in life," he says.

Participants needed for child urinary dysfunction study

A major pharmaceutical company is screening children from 1 month through 15 years of age to participate in one of several clinical research studies. An investigational medication will be studied for the treatment of neurogenic lower urinary dysfunction in children.

These clinical research studies will collect data as a basis for a pediatric dosage recommendation, and evaluate its safety and effectiveness in children. The studies will be conducted at multiple centers throughout the United States including Children's Hospital in Detroit, and will involve up to six visits over a period of up to 13 weeks.

The investigational medication is classified as an antimuscarinic drug, a class of drugs that is commonly prescribed for overactive bladder because they reduce the frequency and intensity of contractions of the bladder muscle. The investigational medication is currently approved for use in adults.

Children from 1 month through 15 years of age with neurogenic urinary tract dysfunction due to known neurological disease, who require intermittent catheterization, are being sought to participate in these clinical research studies.

Children who qualify to participate will receive study medication, lab screenings that include urodynamic studies, and study-related health exams. Compensation will be provided for time and travel. Parents or legal guardians should call 1-888-STUDY-96 for a preliminary pre-screening and possible referral to a participating physician for additional information.

Chase Meadows builder touts value, flexibility

Buyers at Chase Meadows in Westland can choose from among two colonials and a raised ranch offered by JK Construction on a small infill site in that community.

Twenty-six lots are available in the platted sub off Palmer between Venoy and Wayne roads.

"You get a quality builder providing open floor plans in a good location," said Marlynn D. Udman, sales rep.

"You get a lot for the money," said Brad Kallen of JK Construction. "A lot of our things are standard. We give overhead lights in bedrooms, six-panel doors."

"We're flexible, making it an easy experience and getting them (buyers) involved," he added. "We'll give you freedom to move non-bearing walls."

"These people (JK Construction) make sure everything is taken care of," Udman said. "Their aim is to please. They're going to be around a long time."

"We say let's make this be a fun thing for you," Kallen added.

"This is an upscale, family-oriented new sub," Udman said. "Wayne-Westland schools are good schools (City) services are good here."

"There's plenty of retail nearby - all major stores," Kallen said. "It's certainly located close to all major expressways."

The raised ranch at Chase Meadows contains 2,200 square feet with a finished lower level and includes three bedrooms and 2½ baths. Base price is $210,000.

The ranch with an unfinished lower-level has about 600 square feet less living space with three bedrooms and two baths on the main floor at a base price of $199,900.

Kallen expects the great majority of buyers who select the raised ranch will opt for the finished lower-level version.

This raised ranch comes with a finished or unfinished lower level.

The smaller colonial, the Douglas Model, includes 2,012 square feet of living space and a base price of $226,000, the larger one, the Woodcrest, 2,300 square feet for $236,000.

Both contain four bedrooms and 2½ baths. All plans include at base price two-car garage, air conditioning, dishwasher, vinyl floor covering, ceramic baths and carpeting throughout.

Sod in the front yard is included in purchase price. Brick and vinyl siding are primary exterior materials. Dimensional shingles are standard.

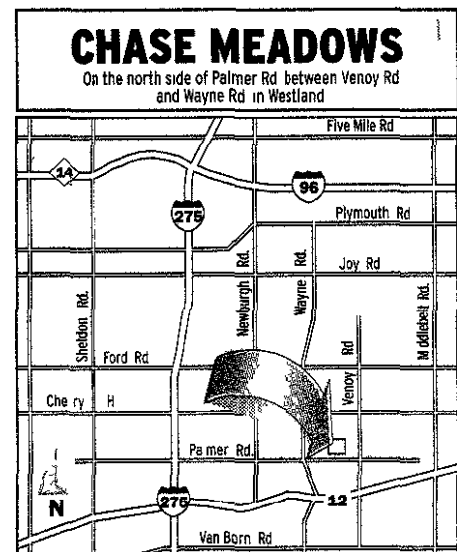

Chase Meadows is serviced by city water, sewers and sidewalks.

The property tax rate is $37.75 per $1,000 of state taxable value, half of sales price for new construction. That means the owners of a $210,000 home there would pay about $4,000 the first year. There is no association fee.

Wanita McMurrin ordered a colonial. "As soon as I saw it, I fell in love," she said. "I liked the way it was set up, looked. They were willing to work with me. Price was reasonable. I love the (Westland) area."

JK Construction also has built at Silver Leaf in Pittsfield Township and scattered homes in West Bloomfield, Farmington Hills and Sylvan Lake, Kallen said.

The sales model/office at Chase Meadows (734) 467-5785 is open noon to 6 p.m. daily, closed Tuesdays.
