Formula change could cost district

Shift in student count may add problems

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

A proposed change in the formula used by the state to calculate how it reimburses school districts for student enrollment counts could cost Plymouth-Canton Schools more than $723,000

The projected decrease, plus the nearly $1 million cut the district received from the state earlier this vear, are at least two reasons why Plymouth-Cantor faces a $5 6 million budget deficit for the 2003-04 school year

Last Thursday, Board of Education trustees Carol Saunders and Marcy Staley testified before the School Aid (K 12) Education Subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee regarding the new formula

"I explained our plight as a growing district, and what it would mean to us in dollars and cents if they change the blended count," said Saunders, who made the five-minute presentation "They might need to consider doing something different for different types of school districts Not one size fits all"

Unlike many school districts that can cut spending because of declining enrollments, Plymouth-Canton continues to grow This year, the district

Mayors: Emergency plans lack people, cash

BY CAROL MARSHALL STAFF WRITER

The mayors know what they need to help keep their communities safe They just aren t sure how to pay for it

Mayors and township supervisors from 11 Wayne County communities met Thursday in Livonia to discuss terrorism preparedness, and weapons of mass destruction scenarios and their abilities to manage the aftermath of such attacks

Most say they need personnel and federal or state financial help to deal with emergencies

"The bottom line is, there's not enough money, there s not enough manpower, not enough equipment,' said Plymouth Mayor Bill

Annual event pushes Johnson Creek

BY BRAD KADRICH STAFF WRITER

Members of the Johnson Creek Protection Group are hoping to raise awareness of the creeks importance, and are sponsoring a day devoted to the creek as a means for gathering support for their efforts

The third annual Johnson Creek Protection Day is set for Saturday, May 17, in Northville, a day organizers are billing as an educational, hands-on community day' to raise awareness about the creek

The idea is to get people out to see the creek, which they might not even have known was there, said Michelle West, the groups secretary 'We want them to enjoy the creek, have a good time with the family"

The day's activities will be centered around three events

■ The Johnson Creek Nature Walk -Starts at 9 a m , an interactive walk on the Northville Ridge subdivision property in Northville Township, on Six Mile west of Ridge Road This morning walk will familiarize participants with the history, fish and wildlife, current problems and ongoing protection efforts associated with Johnson Creek

■ The creek cleanup – Starts at 10 a m, a volunteer effort to remove debris

Store owner critical after fall

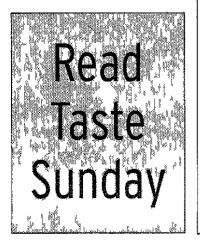

Gordon Matesic, owner of the Darry-Go-Round ice cream shop in Plymouth, remained in critical condition Wednesday afternoon from head injuries suffered when he reportedly fell off a ladder while working on his building Friday afternoon

Plymouth police Officer Tony Angelosanto said he responded to a dispatched call and found Matesic on the ground after apparently falling from the ladder

A Medflight helicopter was called to take Matesic to St Joseph Hospital in Ypsilanti However, after landing at Smith Elementary School, the chopper crew reported engine problems and Matesic was taken by the Plymouth Community Fire Department to the hospital

School candidates square off in forum on issues

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Budget cuts, pay reductions, state funding and class size were among the many topics discussed Tuesday night at the Plymouth-Canton Schools candidate's forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Western Wayne County and the Observer newspapers

Four people are vying for the two seats up for grabs in the June 9 election Mark Slavens, the current Board of Education vice president, is seeking a second four-year term Roland Thomas has twice been elected to the board, serving a total of 17 years Richard Ham-Kucharski is attempting his third run for the board And, Roy McCutcheon, who calls himself the new kid on the block, is seeking a seat on the board for the first time

In opening remarks, each gave an insight into what their priorities would be, if elected

"I want to continue the theme of moving forward and improving the academic success of our students," declared Slavens

'We are facing an unprecedented financial crisis," said Thomas "My experience, knowledge, passion and focus on children can help provide that leadership'

Ham-Kucharski said his focus would be on "class size, federal and state regulations and how they impact our future The best way to predict the future is to help create it "

McCutcheon acknowledged having a dissenting voice could be a good thing for the Board of Education

"I don't like the idea of laying off teachers every year," he said "I'm interested in alternative funding

'Sometimes you need a dissenting opinion, or a straw to stir that drink And, I might be that dissenting opinion," said McCutcheon

While the district is attempting to cut $5 6 million from the 2003-04 budget, the candidates were asked to look ahead to the 2004-05 budget year

"We're going to have to open our minds and find ways to reduce costs without touching the classroom, if we can,' said Thomas "We have to look at administrative costs, and the cost of technology to improve our efficiency and eliminate positions" McCutcheon said he wants to take a look at administrative costs to determine where cuts can be made

"I want to look really hard at things that aren't academic,' he said 'I want to be able to explain to the voters where the money is going We shouldn't touch the studentteacher ratio in kindergarten through second grade class sizes

All except one candidate expressed a desire to look at possible pay cuts to help stabilize the budget

We should try to distribute that pain as much as possible across the entire (school) population,' said Ham-Kucharski "We can potentially reduce or eliminate job cuts

PAUL HURSCHMANN I STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

by doing that"

Slavens, who said he has an insight into the district's finances because of his tenure on the board, said the district is already "lean and mean"

""Our superintendent has already gone beyond pay cuts," said Slavens "Dr (Jim) Ryan has already taken the extraordinary step of not replacing the second-in-command, which has saved this district $110,000-$120,000'

All candidates believe the state needs to provide more funding, whether it be the foundation grant or money for mandated programs

"We need to close the gap between rich school districts and the rest of us," said Thomas "They need to help us improve our safety and security in the schools by providing support services " Slavens believes there's money available from the state for local programs "I've been advised by legislators for the last six years that there's no money there," he said "I don't believe it'

The hourlong forum was videotaped by Comcast Cable, and will be replayed several times before the election

MEA council picks Slavens, Ham-Kucharski for board posts

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

The Michigan Education Association 2A Coordinating Council is recommending its 1,350 members vote for incumbent Mark Slavens and candidate Richard Ham-Kucharski in the June 9 Plymouth-Canton school board election

The council, which represents 1,000 Plymouth-Canton Education Association teachers, plus 350 paraprofessionals and custodians in the district, interviewed all four candidates before making its recommendation to the rank-and-file

Slavens is currently vice president of the school board, and is seeking his second consecutive four year term This will be Ham-Kucharskis third attempt at being elected to the board The council decided not to recommend the other two candidates, former board member Roland Thomas and newcomer Roy McCutcheon Board member Marcy Staley is not seeking re-election "We want to move forward, we don't want to move backward and the old ways," said Tracy Quigley, Council spokeswoman "These two candidates will move us forward

'We liked what they had to say,' added Chuck Portelli, president of the PCEA "It's time for a change We don't want to go back to the past

References to the past by Quigley and Portelli were obvious references to Thomas, who served 17 years in two separate stints on the Board of Education

Portelli said the MEA 2A Coordinating Council will send out postcards to nearly 2,000 MEA members who live in Plymouth and Canton, recommending Slavens and Ham-Kucharski He said the group was undecided if it will hold a phone bank the weekend before the election in support of the two candidates

In the past, because of low voter turnout, the MEA 2A Coordinating Council has been somewhat powerful in the outcome of the school board elections

"I think we have a big influence because of the apathy of the voters in both Plymouth and Canton," said Portelli

The figures appear to support Portellis claims Last year only about 5 5 percent of the districts 76 000

'I think we have a big influence because of the apathy of the voters in both Plymouth and Canton."

City, township partners in hazardous waste collection day

BY BRAD KADRICH STAFF WRITER

City and township residents not only get an enhanced opportunity to get rid of household waste next week, but they also get to take part in a first-time program to exchange mercury thermometers

Township and city governments have organized another joint hazardous waste collection day, this time from 9 a m -2 p m Saturday, May 17 at Compuware Arena

In addition to the waste collection, residents who have mercury thermometers will be able to exchange them for digital thermometers, with representatives from Wayne County on hand to make the switch

It'll be the second time the event has been held at Compuware, located on Beck Road Officials moved it there last fall after residents spent up to 75 minutes waiting in line at the old Port Street location For the first time last year, the event was organized as a joint township/city venture, and its popularity became it's largest roadblock.

"When we invited the city (residents) in, there were a great deal more people," said Susan Vignoe, the townships solid waste and public service coordinator 'At Port Street, we could only service two cars at a time"

At Compuware, Environmental Quality, the firm hired to handle the collection, will set up three service lines, with three or four stations at each line Potentially, EQ could service a dozen cars at once, if necessary

Having this event at Compuware allows us to service the residents much more efficiently,' Vignoe said

Acceptable items for disposal by residents include aerosol cans, auto motive fluids, hobby chemicals, labo ratory chemicals, reactives (stump removal, water treatment compounds, peroxides, elemental metalsodium potassium), items labeled acid, flammable, caustic, poison, caution, toxic, danger or warning, lawn and garden products, pesticides, medications, mercury, oil-based paint, polishes, pool chemicals, propane cylinders, adhesives, gasoline unbroken fluorescent light bulbs, resins, solvents, wood preservatives batteries, drain openers, and driveway sealer

Unacceptable items include smoke detectors, tires, radioactive materials, PCB containing materials, explosives, including ammunition and fireworks, and medical waste Also on the unacceptable list is latex- and water-based paint, because they can be dried out and disposed of with regular trash

'The city and township are providing residents with another opportunity to get rid of chemicals and materials that can harm the environment if disposed of improperly," said Scott Cabauatan, the city's neighborhood services coordinator

Compuware Arena is located at 14900 Beck Road in Plymouth Township Residents can call the city, (734) 455-1392, or the township, (734) 453-8131, for more details bkadrich@ce homecomm net | (734) 459:2700

The move was a key one, according to many of the business representatives on hand

"In the past, it's been very, very crowded," said Dr George Atsalis of Comprehensive Modern Dentistry "It was a good idea to give it more space, because this year people aren't stepping on each other It's a little more enjoyable"

Atsals also benefitted from the positioning of the restaurant booths His table was directly across a wide aisle from that of Station 885

"We ve got a lot of people coming by, and we re right across from them serving steak," Atsalis said with a laugh "It doesn t get any better than that"

In addition, the various area service clubs all handed out their respective "Volunteer of the Year" awards

At the same time they said its not only human resources costs associated with wages and benefits - particularly health insurance - that rise So do the demands placed upon local police and fire departments in the wake of Sept 11, 2001

'I think most communities I've visited are ready for some disasters and can muck their way through it Most have some system in place for dealing with emergencies," said Harrison Lobdell, program manager for the National Emergency Response and Rescue Training Center, and conference speaker

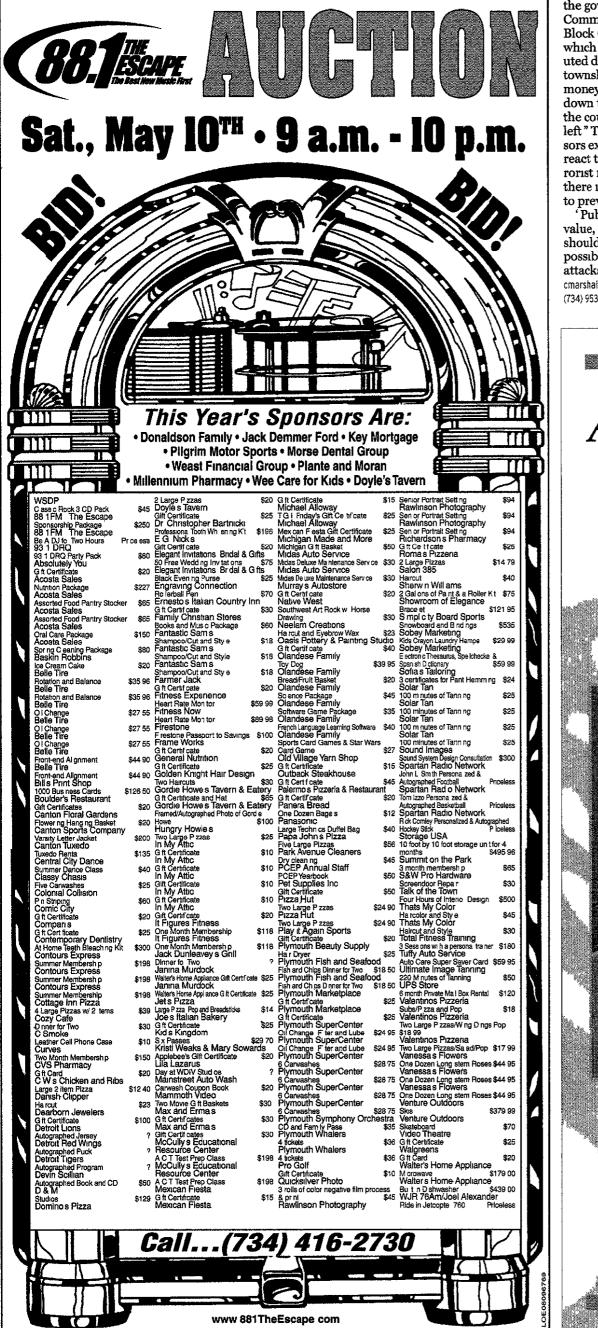

'The problem is if something happens - a bomb blows up or there's a biohazard threat - at a shopping mall in the middle of nowhere where there are no big city resources Those people will be stuck."

The community leaders recognize their public safety shortfalls, as well

'Most of our communities here seem to be prepared to respond if it's not going to be a catastrophically large incident But if it is, and we hopefully never will need to find out, we may not be as well prepared as wed like," said Westland Mayor Sandra Cıcırellı

CONCERNS RAISED

Since Sept 11, 2001, the mayors and supervisors have had some time to think about what would keep their communities safer and help them to respond to emergencies But knowing is a far cry from implementing, and it's frustrating to some of them

"The trouble 1s, we know what we need but how do we pay for it?" Livonia Mayor Jack Kırksey saıd

There is money available through federal grants, but often the money never makes it to the communities, where first response police and fire personnel are funded "One of the greatest concerns we had as a group 1s that funding for security will flow from the federal government through the states," Kirksey said after the seminar "We have a fear that money will not flow this far - to the local communities - and that it will not be in a timely manner"

Graham likened the problem to water flow

"Theres so much money that gets diverted to administrative functions," Graham said "When the pipeline starts out, it's like a 12-inch main with 60 pounds of pressure, (but) by the time you're done, it's more like an eight-inch main with 40 pounds of pressure"

The attendees agreed the federal government had required measures to increase security on a local level, however very little has been offered in the way of funding such measures

We're all very disappointed in how the homeland security funds will be distributed," Cicirelli said "We had asked the government to use the Community Development Block Grant model formula (in which grant money is distributed directly to cities and townships) By the time the money gets to us, and trickles down through the state, then the county, there is very little left "The mayors and supervi-sors explored the means to react to emergencies and terrorist incidents, but recognized there is very little they can do to prevent them

Public awareness has some value, but not as much as it should, and it may not even be possible for education to stop attacks,' Lobdell said cmarshall@oe homecomm net (734) 953 2109

OUR VIEWS District must protect quality of education

As tough a decision as it was for Superintendent Jim Ryan and the Plymouth- Canton Board of Education, the laying off of some 23 teachers may not have been the most difficult part of his budget balancing act

The hardest part will come when district officials try to avoid cutting into the meat of the education the Plymouth-Canton school district provides our children

For instance, grumbling has already started because the district is considering cutting programs such as Reading Recovery, which provides specially trained staff to ensure first-graders with reading problems are reading at grade level before advancing past first grade

According to some estimates, fewer than two dozen students take part in the program, which costs the district some $150,000 to provide

That's a lot of investment, for which district officials are going to have to weigh the return People, such as former school board member Mark Horvath, say the program should be saved, and we agree - if it makes fiscal sense, board members should save such programs

Of course, it's easy to sit in the ivory tower and say all programs should be saved If it were that simple, Ryan could balance the budget in his sleep

Another danger area when school districts talk budget cuts is class size, long a hot-button issue in Plymouth-Canton When a district lays off 23 teachers, such issues are bound to once again creep to the top

While the possibility of larger class sizes looms, especially at the middle- and high-school level, school board members are talking about holding classes from kindergarten through second grade harmless, meaning they would stay at the 25-student level

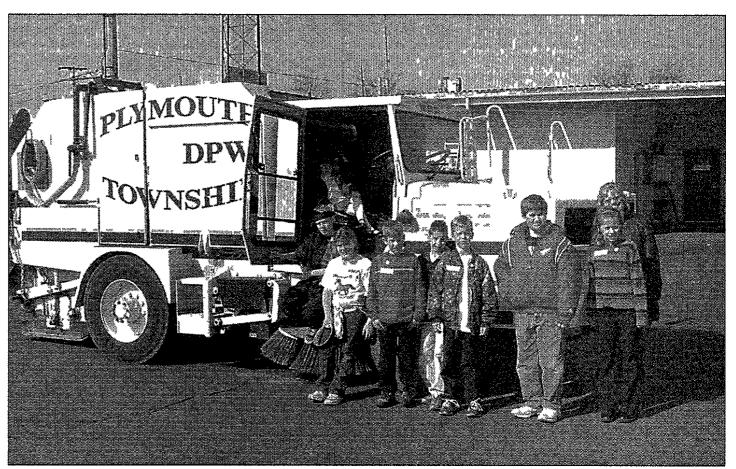

According to district officials, other class sizes remain below 30 students, a range the district obviously hopes to maintain We strongly urge them to keep it there, so the fiscal crisis gripping the district doesn't begin to detract from the quality of education our children receive

When 88 percent of a district's budget is consumed by costs related to personnel, it makes sense that cutting that budget is going to involve people Other fixes would be welcome, and have been suggested Trustee Carol Saunders, for example, recently suggested a top-down pay cut for everyone in the district And, while it sounded nice from a political perspective, it's not likely to happen, what with union contracts and such to consider

No, the board is going to have to go about it the oldfashioned way, making tough cuts while trying to find alternative revenue sources Ryan's been at this a long time, and we trust he'll find a way to do it without compromising the educational quality he was hired to protect

Save Reading Recovery

As one of the efforts to reduce the financial crisis created by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education, the board is considering the elimination of the Reading Recovery Program This program provides specially trained staff to ensure that first-graders with reading problems are reading at grade level before leaving the first grade

Using district data, this program costs $150,000 per year to operate, and the elimination of the program is therefore thought to save the district $150,000 per year This estimate does not, however, include the savings from the reduction in remediation expenses due to fewer children needing special programs for reading assistance in future grades

Even using very conservative estimates for these remediation costs, the reading recovery program will save the school district over $250,000 per year by reducing remediation costs Using this very simple, purely financial analysis, the school district will actually be costing itself an additional $100,000 per year by elimination of Reading Recovery A program that ensures our firstgraders can read and 1s a proven, costeffective method for reducing the need for remediation in future grades must not be cut by this school board I urge you to hold each board member personally responsible for making sure that Reading Recovery is retained by our school district If board members such as current Vice President Mark Slavens, the only board member currently running for re-election, want to continue to act as educational leaders in our community, they must demonstrate their leadership by delivering the board votes necessary to retain Reading Recovery In this time of financial crisis, why would our school board want to eliminate a program that is both educationally and financially beneficial? Mr Sullivan states that 'it is not government's responsibility or role to pay for college education Where is it written that government's funding of education should be limited to K-12? Or that health care for able-bodied individuals should be provided free, similar to Canada's?

If we really wanted to use the tobacco settlement funds for their righteous intent, they would be spent only on tobacco-related illnesses (lung cancer, throat cancer, anti-smoking education, etc) and not the wishes of special interest health-care lobbyists or current governor wish-lists

Teacher shines

In honor of National Teacher Appreciation Week, our family would like to say thank you to Ms Cannon Ms Cannon is a first-grade teacher at Fiegel Elementary School and an outstanding teacher She teaches our twin boys and has welcomed their desire to be in the same class She has taught them as individuals while understanding the comfort some twins have from having one another in the same classroom She has touched our lives personally with her natural gift of teaching Our children have learned so much while in her classroom She teaches with a firm, yet understanding knowledge of children and their behaviors She continually focuses on the positive with the children in the classroom and comments more on good behavior, not bad She addresses each child's needs and is always available to parents Not only has she taught our children above and beyond our expectations, she has become a role model for our son, who now wants to be a teacher, just like Ms Cannon Thank you, Ms Cannon, your enthusiasm for teaching shines through you to the children that you touch each and every day

Stay sober, safe this prom season

Every year at this time, we join other newspapers across the country to warn young adults about the dangers of alcohol

Proms and graduations are prime time for teenagers to get wild and use alcohol to take away their inhibitions It's a dangerous decision that leads to deadly auto accidents, unwanted sexual situations and violence

It is all too common during this season for the Observer to bring the tragic news that some group of young people have been injured or killed in a drunken driving accident, or that they have injured or killed someone else

We tell the stories and show the pictures A senior class picture shows a handsome young man, a pretty young woman, full of confidence in the future The accident photos show the mangled steel, the shattered glass, the death of dreams

Family, teachers and classmates remember the young life that had so much promise

But every year the story repeats itself with a depressing regularity

We can cite the statistics, we can repeat again the effects of just one drink on the body of an underage drinker, we can admonish about the dangers of peer pressure But we know that our words will have little impact on those young people as they set out in their tuxedoes and gowns to the big night

Stay sober, stay alive and live your dreams!

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers, nurture the hometowns we serve and contribute to the business success of our customers.

Preserve history

The pending development of the former Daisy Air Rifle/Adistra property for residential use is one of the most important "in town" projects to be proposed in recent years I would rank it above the Wilcox property for historical significance

We should place high priority on the adaptive reuse of the red brick building where the famous 'Red Ryder" BB guns were made This is where hundreds of Plymouth residents worked from the 1890s to 1957 From this very plant came the toys that made dreams and fantasies of kids around America come true

Plymouth, for all its quaintness, has not had the best record for historic preservation, both in residential and commercial structures Many structures that could have been moved or renovated to new uses have been lost

The list is fairly long for such a small town A significant Italianate home on Main was lost to an office building, four homes on Union (one a former hospital) Village is NOT a historic district!

Historic districts are legal districts, formed and administered by the local government If you reside or own property within one, you have certain benefits, as well as limitations Northville has a large district, Ann Arbor and Grand Rapids have several each In a bold move, Canton has created a district from the remnants of the town of Cherry Hill, and a huge "new urbanism" development is being added to create a historic town-like area again

Most of the original Daisy/Adistra plant could easily be adapted for residential use, as originally proposed The rest of the property can be developed in an architecturally compatible manner If added to the existing historic district, certain federal and state tax credits can be used as well To date, not one property has used these credits in Plymouth!

Let's start to respect our heritage here more, and realize that historic preservation and adaptive reuse are not limitations to development, but smart and environmentally friendly methods

I urge the city commission and planning commission to make preservation a top concern in this and future projects, and to encourage the use of the tax credits allowed within historic districts

Proper use of funds

In response to John Sullivan's letter (May 1), I take great offense to an elected government official that "knows" how and why I voted last November ("The people of this state did not vote against using the tobacco settlement funds for health care') without even asking me

I don't understand how, if our state is in such dire financial condition ($17 bilhon budget cuts) we can cut merit scholarships 80 percent and then "increase Medicaid funding

I don't know if Mr Sullivan has ever worked in the health care field, but I do Throwing more money at the Medicaid program will not solve its problems Just ask Detroit hospital emergency rooms that routinely treat minor health probthe Skopczynski family Canton

QUOTABLE

"The (Stepping Out for a New Beginning) walk provides the basic necessities that keep the shelter pantry and linen closets stocked for months. The Girl Scouts do much to increase awareness by making the community of Plymouth aware of First Step's mission and needs."

- Theresa Brizoe, first vice president, First Step board of directors

What is done in dark may be most dangerous of all

n the good old days, if the FBI wanted to snoop into what books folks were checking out from the local library, it had to get to a formal subpoena signed by a judge

But in the post-9/11 frenzy of patriotism, the US Congress passed something called the USA Patriot Act The act allows FBI agents to walk into libraries or bookstores and demand a list of books obtained by anybody or to see computer records indicating which Web sites they had looked at Sure, the government has to assure a judge that this information is required for an investigation into terrorist activities, which is a nice way of saying that all the FBI needs to do is assure a judge of its good intentions and go on its happy way

Worse, the act forbids the library or bookstore from telling a patron he or she is being investigated by the FBI

Lest you think this is some abstract problem cooked up by some liberal lawyers working for the ACLU, consider the email message I got last month from Charlene Huget director of the Brighton District Library, which is used by about 5,000 people each month

'The thing that has my board anxious is that if the FBI came into the library, took all our computers out and looked into our circulation lists, I could not tell my board they had been in Staff who were present and observed the FBI being here could not go home and tell their spouses Currently, in the library world, it is believed that 175 libraries have been visited — all rumor, of course, because this information cannot be made public

I called Kathleen Zaenger, director of the Howell Carnegie District Library, to ask her how all this makes her feel Very uncomfortable" How come? 'Because it doesn't comply with the intent of our Constitution about individual privacy and because it keeps secret what information our government is gathering"

In Michigan, with the largest concentration of Arab-Americans in the country, the possibility that federal agents are secretly looking into the circulation lists of libraries in Dearborn is hardly an abstract worry, either

The Justice Department refuses to say how many libraries have been asked for information about their patrons' reading habits But a survey conducted by the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign concluded that some 550 libraries around the country had been asked by federal or local investigators about what some of their patrons are reading

Steven Kershner, the executive director of the Michigan Library Association, says that local librarians are put into a bind by the provisions of the Patriot Act The Michigan Library Privacy Act, for example, says librarians may not disclose the records of who takes out what book, except upon a written order from the court or permission by the individual in question

The MLA is working to let librarians and library board members know what they can and cannot do with panels and workshops, posting frequently asked questions on its Web site, and so forth Kershner says the FBI agent in charge of the Detroit office has been pretty sensible about the agency's new powers, preferring to get court orders or search warrants instead of "barging in on innocent libraries" But he's concerned

"It's important for citizens to know that libraries take very seriously the issue of privacy for library users, whether it has to do with books taken out or computer use and Web sites," Kershner said "Libraries will comply with the law, obviously, but at the same time we will be advocates for individual rights and privacy"

I asked the librarians I interviewed if lots of their patrons had been worried about the Patriot Act It seems almost nobody knows about it, which goes to prove that what is done in the dark of public ignorance may be the most dangerous things of all

For example, there is evidence the US Justice Department has prepared for introduction to the Congress an 86-page Domestic Security Enhancement Act of 2003 that would, among other things, strip Americans of their citizenship for giving "material support" to a group designated as "terrorist" This could mean that sending a check to help fund an organization's lawful activities without knowing of its other acts could lose somebody their right to have any rights at all

And, according to The New York Times, the Bush administration tucked a surprise proposal into the intelligence authorization bill to give the CIA and the military the authority to issue administrative subpoenas - known as "national security letters" - that require Internet providers, credit card companies, libraries and other such organizations to produce material like phone records, bank transactions and e-mail logs

Benjamin Franklin was right when he observed that, "Those who give up essential liberties in order to secure a little temporary safety deserve neither safety nor liberty"

First-time soccer dad experience becomes one of life's sweetest joys.

'd been a soccer dad for all of five minutes before I realized I'd already violated one of the cardinal rules

I'd forgotten that little canvas director's chair all soccer parents sit in on the sidelines To that point, I'd done everything else a first-time soccer dad was supposed to do I'd overpacked Robert's soccer bag, put an unnecessary turtleneck beneath his jersey in case he got cold

Obviously, running around the soccer field actually made him hot, a circumstance I realized after the first period When my 6-year-old came to the sideline, I asked him if he was hot in the turtleneck He looked at me, sweat on

Other than that, things went pretty well on my first day as a soccer dad There we were on the elementary school field right on time Saturday for his second game, but my first. I didn't bring my chair, but as it turns out, the chair would have been empty anyway, because I couldn't stop prowling the sidelines

I'd been the same way as a high school wrestling coach, unable to keep my seat. Why I thought it would be any different when my own son was playing the game is beyond understanding The chair's only purpose would have been holding my jacket (sort of like the treadmill at home)

Brad

Kadrich

Robert doesn't know all the kids' names yet, so as we approached the field, he'd see a teammate and call out, "Hey, No 51" or "Dad, that's No 2" He does know the other Robert's name, but he's still learning the rest

He was excited, but nowhere near as excited as I was I wrestled and played football and a httle baseball in high school and, as a typical male jock, couldn't wait to watch my son on an athletic field of some sort My older sons live in South Carolina, Matthew doesn't play sports and I've not yet seen one of Marcus' baseball games

So I'd waited a long time for this, an eternity to feel the thrill of watching my progeny exert his influence in an Olympian effort, propelling his team to victory' Isn't that what all fathers assume is going to happen? Their sons are always going to be the ones who hit the game-winning home run, or score the deciding touchdown or, in this case, knock in a kick from the 18 to win the game that opportunity, the chance to scream, That's MY boy

It didn't happen for me, at least not on this Saturday Only one parent got to have his son score the game-winner, because Robert's team the Shark Attacks - won the game, 1-0 But that or by phone at (734) 459 2700 didn't stop me from having all those "dad" feelings, my chest swelling with pride as Robert jogged into the fray with his teammates

His coach, a young woman named Debbie who seemed very nice, had them organized She took the players and walked them to their positions - Robert started at midfield - and showed them the area they were to patrol

Of course, as soon as the opening kick was taken, every player on the field converged on the ball, forming a scrum of some 20 kids kicking at the ball but more often hitting someone's shins I was delighted to see Robert right in the middle of it, tried to will him through the sheer force of telepathy to knock the ball past the opposing goaltender

As a former sports writer, I've watched a lot of * youth sports, and I've always wondered about parents who shout directions at their children. frequently in direct opposition to what their coaches are yelling I vowed, during those sports writer days, not to become that kind of parent.

And I lived up to that yow - for about six minutes Then, there I was, hollering at Robert to move up on defense when the ball was deep in the opposition's end, urging him to watch the ball, rather than play kick-the-rock when the action wasn't anywhere near him

I understand better now the parents who holler at their children during the game I used to think they were doing it because they figured they knew better than the coaches, now I realize they simply can't help themselves It's part of trying to support them, trying to help them be the best they can be No one can do that better than a parent, can they?

I bet Steve Yzerman's dad hollered instructions at his son, even with Hall of Fame coach Scotty Bowman on the bench

There's still enough detached sports writer in me to evaluate Robert's game in a fairly unbiased fash-10n. He didn't score a goal, but made several good clearing kicks during his time on defense. He hustled upfield when his team was advancing with the ball. Passes never got to him, although I remain unflunchingly convinced he would have converted them into goals had they reached his little feet.

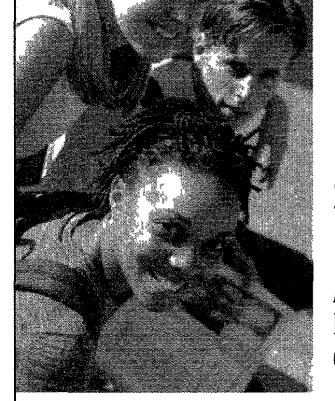

Frankly, it didn't matter what kind of game he played He could have stood around, never touched the ball and allowed 14 goals to get by him, and I still would rather have been there than anyplace else on the planet

For one hour, on one Saturday morning at one elementary school, I got the chance to watch my son having the time of his life, doing something Every father throughout history has wanted he loves to do, and allowing me to be part of it That's my boy!

Beardmore remembered as education champion

BY SARA CALLENDER STAFF WRITER

Dorothy Beardmore inspired boards of education, teachers and parents for more than three decades

The name Dorothy Beardmore is synonymous with service to children," said Tom Watkins, Michigan superintendent of public instruction

Beardmore, who served at various times on the Rochester Community Schools, the Oakland Schools and the State of Michigan boards of educa-tion, died May 2 The Rochester Hills resident was 76

Mrs Beardmore served on the Rochester board from 1967-74 and the Oakland Schools board from 1974-84 On state board from 1985-2001, the Republican never missed a meeting in 16 years

Mrs Beardmore made outstanding contributions to public education in this district and at the county and state levels," Rochester Superintendent John Schultz said "She continued to advocate for public school children through her volunteer efforts after leaving the state board Recently, Dorothy served as a member of the Rochester Community Schools Foundation She will be dearly missed"

During her tenure on the state board, she helped adopt new teacher certification rules and curriculum standards In that era, the board also adopted inter-district schools of choice, special education policy framework, character education policy, parental involvement policy, alternative routes to teacher certification, statewide technology plan and policies for creating effective learning environments

was completely

Straus, a Detroit Democrat, and Beardmore were also close friends, despite their party differences

An advocate for early childhood education, Beardmore also served on several committees of the National Association of State Boards of Education From 1995-97, she chaired the Healthy Schools Network, a 15-state interagency coalition to promote good health for school-age children and their families She also chaired the state's Healthy Schools Network until 2001

She received the Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of State Boards in 2000, the Michigan Education Association Distinguished Service Award in 1999, the Education Leadership Award from the Association of Elementary and Middle School Principals in 1995, and was inducted into the Michigan Hall of Fame in 1996

In April, the state Board of Education created a new award in her honor — the Dorothy Beardmore Service to Education Award, which will annually honor a person whose past or current efforts on behalf of education are deemed to be of outstanding benefit to the quality of education for all Michigan students In addition to her involvement with education,

Beardmore and her husband, William, were founding members of University Presbyterian Church of Rochester, where she served as an elder

Beardmore was also a founding member of Rochester's Neighborhood House in 1968 and was elected chair of the board in February

"She was a pillar in our organization and our community," Neighborhood executive director Susan Vidican said "She truly was a gentle soul There will be a tremendous hole "

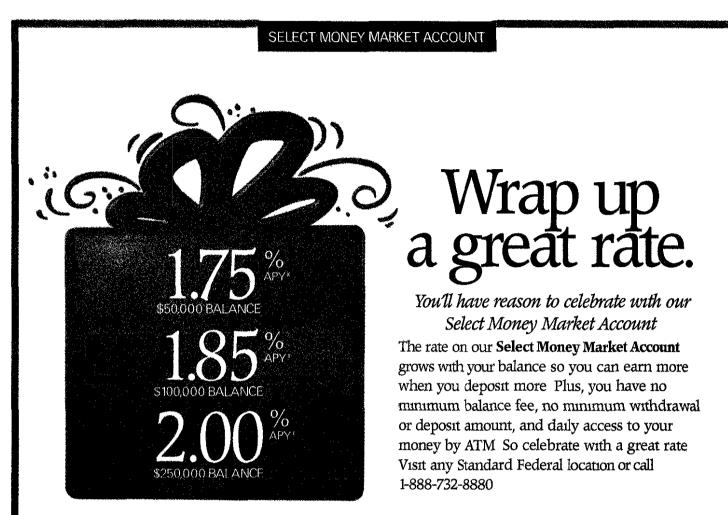

Beardmore was born Oct 19, 1926, in Chicago She is survived by her hus band of 54 years, William Beardmore, daughter Nancy Beardmore Weiss, of Bambrige, NY, son Alan Beardmore, of Morrison, Colo, brother Charles Van Zoeren, of Kalamazoo, and many nieces and nephews

Joffrey troupe presents American, Russian works

BY NICOLE STAFFORD STAFF WRITER

Think twice about attending just one Joffrey Ballet of Chicago performance

The company has two decidedly different programs planned for their Detroit visit this weekend at the Detroit Opera House

"Like night and day," said David DiChiera, DOH director "And, ballet watchers are going to be fascinated by both."

The first, Encore, Arpino', offered May 8-9, represents late 20th century dance The second, The Diaghilev Dynasty, runs May 10-11 and recalls some of the great Russian choreography of the early 1900s

Encore, Arpino ' is comprised of signature works created by Joffrey Ballet of Chicago's founder and artistic director Gerald Arpino Arpino, whose choreographic style has been described as youthful, passionate and precise, co-founded New York City's Joffrey Ballet with Robert Joffrey in 1956

In 1995, Arpino established Chicago's Joffrey Ballet

Among the pieces presented in Encore Arpino' is Light Rain, the most requested work in the dance troupe's repertoire, Arpino's choreography "is steeped in the tradition of ballet but has such youth, which gives it an American vitality," DiChiera said, adding, "It appeals to a very wide audience It's not like an interpretation of an old-style European ballet" In contrast, The Diaghilev Dynasty is rooted in the art form's legacy The Brazilian rhythms jazz up Beatles songs on new CD

*here's no doubt The Beatles changed music as we knew it in the 1960s Their albums introduced foreign elements of classical and world music into the pop vocabulary

Rich Kowalewski and his band Brazil and Beyond continue the musical journey with the release of their CD Beatles Set to a Brazilian beat, the recording covers early to late 1960s songs like This Boy, Blackbird, and Norwegian Wood

Brazil and Beyond perform music from the CD at a release party Wednesday, May 14, at the Bird of Paradise in Ann Arbor They'll also play tunes from their latest recording 2 p m Sunday, May 11, at the Bumingham Fine Art Festival in Shain Park

'We ve been together five years and always included Beatles songs in our sets," said Kowalewski 'They adapted well to Brazilian rhythms I grew up in the late 60s with The Beatles Every new record was a big event full of anticipation and excitement The Beatles took us on a journey from Rubber Soul onward They introduced new sounds,

Indian music through George Harrison They were good influences introducing us to new and positive things That makes for good music making

Brazil and Beyond pick up where The Beatles leave off by arranging songs in samba, Bossa Nova and Afro-Brazilian styles The latest CD opens our ears to instruments like the cavaquinho Kowalewski per forms the melody line of This Boy on the ukulele-like instrument He also plays six-string Brazilian bass guitar and double bass on the CD Frank Marinello plays classical and steel string guitar, Dennis Sheridan a number of percussion instruments including the African berimbau Rob Emanuel sticks to drums and tamborim

Marching band meets Broadway on Fox stage

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Blast' is an entertainment experience Don't go to this celebration of movement, color and music expecting to see a show strung together by a story

Imagine a marching band flashing instruments and sabers to music on a Broadway stage Thats Blast', the 2001 Emmy Award winner for Best Theatrical Event and Best Choreography

Blast' explodes onto the stage of the Fox Theatre Tuesday-Saturday, May 13-17

There's no story line, just sit back and enjoy it, said Bryan Sutton, one of 56 cast members putting on the spectacle 'There's comedy, some sadness but most of it's high-end, fastpaced, energetic

'Blast' is a theatrical spectacle of movement, color and sound

Blast' is like a visual representation of the emotion a color gives you It's like a live fantasy with a light show, loud music, lots of dancing to songs that go from purple to red hot and end with Malaguena There's every kind of music

BLAST!

What. Theatrical spectacle of music and movement drawn from marching band pageantry
When: 8 p m Tuesday Saturday May 13-17
2 p m Saturday Sunday May 17-18 7 30 p m Sunday May 18
Where: Fox Theatre 2211 Woodward Ave Detroit
Tickets: $25-$59 call (248) 433-1515 for information (313) 471 6611

from techno pop to classical to jazz and show tunes ' Like the rest of the cast members Sutton's theatrical experience hails from his years with Lakeview High School's competitive marching band and color guard in St Clair Shores Blast' is based in marching band and drum corps The show evolved from the marching band pageantry of Star of Indiana drum corps founded by businessman Bill Cook in Bloomington, Indiana in 1984 Artistic director James Mason shaped the competitive drum corps into the theatrical show Brass Theatre and eventually into Blast' which opened to rave revues at the London Apollo in December 1999

The 28-year old Sutton

joined the cast four years ago He's part of the visual ensemble creating dance and movement with flags and sabers but also plays tuba and drums

'I know all of the parts," said Sutton who attended Oakland Community College in Royal Oak and competed with a number of award-winning marching bands We're all kind of multi-talented and all sing in the show"

Marching and moving around a stage while toting an instrument or saber takes an enormous amount of energy

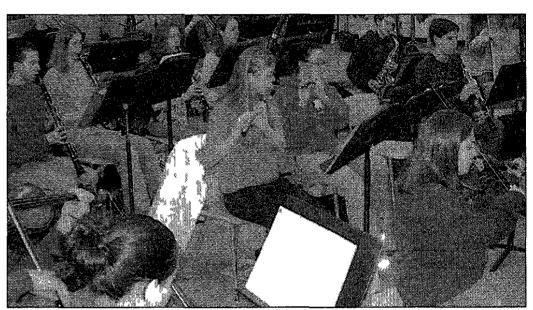

'It's kind of strenuous on tour doing mostly one week runs," said Sutton, who goes through seven costume changes during the show "My life fits into two surtcases and a carry on"

program resurrects three works performed by the celebrated Russian dance company Les Ballets Russes de Diaghilev pieces is Le Sacre Du Printemps, which translates into The Rite of Spring

Created by legendary choreographer Vaslaw Nijinsky to music by the equally renowned Igor Stravinsky, the piece's debut in Paris incited street riots The ballet depicted a fertility rite, during which a girl is sacrificed Consequently, the piece was performed only a few more times and considered a lost masterpiece

Nıjınsky's sıster Bronislava Nyinska choreographed Les Noces, which is also set to

Les Ballets Russes de Diaghilev's 'Parade' was a collaborative effort choreography by Leonid Massine, set design by Pablo Picasso and theme by Jean Cocteau music by Stravinsky Four grand planos accompany the vibrant depiction of a Russian peasant wedding

The third selection, Parade, was a collaboration by several well-known artists of the time Leonid Massine choreographed the piece, Pablo Picasso designed the set and Jean Cocteau created the circus theme

"It was revolutionary at the beginning of the 20th century to bring together different artists,' commented Carol Halsted, dance coordinator at the Detroit Opera House

Of course, the Diaghilev-era choreography was itself radical "It absolutely revolutionized what was being done at the time," said DiChiera

Today, pieces like Les Noces and Le Sacre Du Printemps are considered the building blocks of modern and contemporary choreography, said DiChiera

"These pieces altered the evolution of dance and have been influential up to the current day"

FAMILY FESTIVAL

"We want this to be a family festival We have a variety of live entertainment and new food including healthy alternatives from Lettuce Plan It in Southfield There's plenty of great food, great fun' This year for the first time the weekend begins with a trolley tour of Birmingham galleries 6-9 30 p m Friday, May 9 While Sharon Stanton is excited about partnering with local businesses to feature art indoors, the BBAC special events coordinator is ecstatic about artists in the Birmingham Fine Art Festival outdoors The quality of work has increased as word of mouth about the festival spreads among artists on the art fair circuit For the first time this year judges will award $2,600 in cash prizes for Best of Show The monetary awards are sure to draw even more artists to create a larger pool from which to choose 'I'm excited about artists like Karen Howell of Pennsylvania whose porcelains are based on the Japanese legend of the Rabbit and the Moon," said Stanton "There are a lot of interesting types of art -Birmingham artist Andrew Madvin's glass flowers are for outdoors and indoors They have a glass bloom mounted on a steel stem and are lyrical and beautiful About one-third are new artists working in fiber, photography, and glass 'There will be very colorful lampworked glass beads by Lee Cox of Florida, from New Mexico acrylic abstract paintings by Bill "Wild" Weldon Sherri Tracey of Illinois is bringing 2-D mixed media She begins with batik then adds wire, wood, silver leaf to create works with titles like Journey into the Woods They're very colorful and tell a story '

Fresh air 'A Mighty Wind' opens; winged creatures take flight on the big screen

Movie-goers looking for a breath of fresh air have two spirituous films from which to choose this weekend A Mighty Wind, which opens in theaters Friday, and Winged Migration, showing Friday-Sunday, May 9-11 at Detroit Film Theatre

While both films sound a bit like National Geographic productions, only Winged Migration tackles natural phenomenon, that of the flight of birds Oscarnominated for best documentary, the film tracks species from seven continents, capturing the experience of flight thanks to cuttingedge technology and unprecedented efforts by cinematographers and pilots

Winged Migration took three years to film and is visually stunning, said Elliot Wilhelm, DFT director 'You feel as if you're flying alongside them"

Winged Migration a Sony Pictures Classics release is rated G For schedule or tickets call (313) 833 3237 or visit www.dia.org/dft

A Mighty Wind, directed by Christopher Guest (Best in Show and Waiting for Guffman) is a mock documentary – otherwise known as a

Three '60s folk music groups reunite for a concert in the mock documentary A Mighty Wind' featuring Eugene Levy and Catherine O'Hara mockumentary - about three 60s folk groups who reunite for a concert following the death of a manager

The film genre – fiction with actors filmed like a documentary - makes for hilarious

Guest's other mockumentary Best in Show did well in the box office A Mighty Wind is doing even better in cities where it has already opened Whether you like folk music or came of age in Bros release, is rated PG-13 the '60s is unimportant here The idiosyncrasies of folk artists and absurdities of the Age of Aquarius are universal fodder for great comedy

'The Lizzie McGuire Movie' is a giggly teenage girl's fantasy

THE LIZZIE MCGUIRE MOVIE *1/2 (out of four)

Lizzie McGuire (Hilary Duff) is a giggly teenager with a knack for screwing up At her junior high graduation, she trips and pulls down the curtain backdrop, knocking her entire class from the risers Her little brother - a master blackmailer who possesses a folder entitled "The Lizzie Files,' which includes subfolders like "Trips & Falls" and 'Embarrassing Moments" tapes the incident and sends it to CNN

Desperate to duck primetime humiliation, Lizzie joins her class trip to Rome, under the militaristic eye of their chaperone, Mrs Ungermeyer

Things take a turn for the totally dreamy when Lizzie meets Italian pop star Paolo, who wants Lizzie to imperson-ate his former girlfriend and singing partner, Isabela, at an awards show that takes place at - but of course! - the Roman Coliseum

The song Lizzie sings at the end of the film - a moronic, embarrassingly catchy teenybopper number called What Dreams are Made Of - 1s really the perfect comment on the preceding exercise in adoles cent fantasy, because Lizzie McGuire is exactly that a teenage girl's fantasy Its pretty clear that Lizzie day gender roles, and this is what is most irritating and endearing about the film Lizzie encounters no adventure No international intrigue Her only competition? Other girls, locked in savage competition to outglam their bitter rivals

Sure, Lizzie does her fair share of conniving, but it is solely in aid of nabbing the romantic attention of a boy she hardly knows With Lizzie in an almost constant state of swoon, Lizzie McGuire is borderline offensive - what happened to all the faux-feminist "girl power" that was all the rage a couple years ago? Lizzie makes the Spice Girls look radıcal

But let's be honest with ourselves here 14-year-old girls do dress in pink outfits with clothes and make-up Because if they don't succeed in getting that idiotic 14-year-old boy to look at them they might, like, totally die! If you've ever seen the kids' TV show that Lizzie McGuire is based on, you know that the opening credits look like a JC Penny's commercial the clear message, in a nutshell, is to dress up, fit in, and be cute - and the world will be your oyster

Despite all this, I liked Lizzie McGuire precisely because it contained no messages It simply embraces modern middle-class WASP girlhood and treats all its neuroses and hang-ups as par for the course The young ladies at my screening loved the film, feasibly in part because it reassured them that all their "unimportant" desires weren't unimportant at wardrobe,' the film assured them And, for better or worse, there was an almost audible sigh of relief

Duff makes it all work. Like many child actors, her acting is slightly overconfident, but behind her bluster you can still see an overwhelmed youngster - and is this not how one braves the daily junior high gauntlet?

Unfortunately, Duff is way too pretty - never for a second did I believe Lizzie could ever be as unpopular as the film implies After all, Duff is a Britney Spears look-alike, and lest we miss it, there are several Britney-style dance sequences to solidify the comparison

Like Britney, Duff treads an uncomfortable middle ground of being aggressively sexy bits of animation portray Lizzie as an awkward beanpole, quite unlike the buxom starlet she really is) To neutralize this, Duff is put into a storyline so safe Pamela Anderson could emerge unscathed - there is never a threat of sex here, only of super-duper pop stardom

To those of us who aren't adolescent females, Lizzie McGuire may seem to be part of the problem when it comes to issues of young women's confidence, self-esteem and self-worth Still, Lizzie's contemporaries should feel welcome to embrace the movie After all, don't they get enough preaching outside of the theater?

Daniel Kraus is a syndicated columnist and filmmaker info on his latest film Ball of Wax can be found at www.ballofwaxmovie.com

If there's a way to convey the experience of flight to human beings on film, 'Winged Migration,' Oscar-nominated in the category of Best Documentary, has done it The film shows Friday Saturday and Sunday at Detroit Film Theatre

Birmingham reels in Mitchell's Fish Market

BY ELEANOR HEALD CORRESPONDENT

Over the last few years, southeast Michigan has attracted a number of upscale national-chain restaurants, choosy about their high-profile locations The latest of these 1s Mitchell's Seafood Market, which opened Friday, May 2 on the ground floor of The Willits, a luxury condo complex in downtown Birmingham

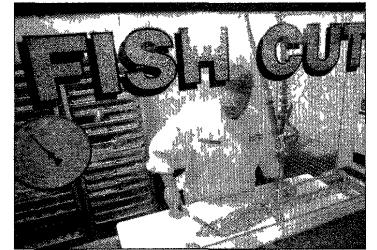

Owner/president Cameron Mitchell is the energy and idea-man behind the restaurant corporation Cameron Mitchell Restaurants, headquartered in Columbus, Ohio The company has grown from a single unit in 1993 to 19 units with nine different concepts in four states Birmingham is the seventh Fish Market restaurant to open

Mitchell knows the restaurant industry from dishwasher to the president's desk. In 1979, he got his first taste of the business as a dishwasher at a local Columbus, Ohio steakhouse A few years later, he graduated from the Culinary Institute of America and began to climb the corporate ladder of another Columbus restaurant group As an entrepreneur in 1993, he left to form his own company

BIRMINGHAM FIT

Mitchell's seats 250, including a private dining room for 18 The great seafood houses of coastal America inspire the design and atmosphere, complementing the over 80 menu items utilizing fresh seafood, flown in daily from coastal origins and displayed at the entrance to the open kitchen

A custom-designed refrigerated seafood preparation room at a constant 35 degrees Fahrenheit, maintains maximum freshness once seafood deliveries are made True to the "Market" in its name, Mitchell's Fish Market also features a retail seafood menu

of fresh fish and seafood to go A large reception area divides a cigar-friendly bar with 35 stools and additional

table seating for 40 from a richly wooded no-smoking main eating area off the open kitchen A nautical bar mural hints at boating on local waterways while the nonsmoking area offers the feel of eating on a docked private yacht with rich wood decor Many polished brass-accented comfortable booths set another mood while tables at the windows offer a city "shore" view

Among the unique cocktail pours is Whatyoutalkinbout Willits, a spin on a Cosmopolitan, christened by General Manager Mark Weiss, a Birmingham resident The name is but one clue about a restaurant that takes seafood, fun and gracious hospitality seriously

ON THE MENU

"Preparing seafood is all I've ever done," said 27-year-old Executive Chef Seanne Myers, a graduate of Pennsylvania Institute of Culinary Arts in Pittsburgh A native of Kent, Ohio, she now makes her home in Troy "With seafood, the concept is all about what's fresh," she added

Except for sandwiches at lunch and steak or chicken options at dinner, the menu for each service time is nearly identical Based on Mitchell's Seafood Market in other locations, Chef Seanne noted the trendy menu items

"From the raw bar, oysters are popular," she said 'Oysters have seasons, therefore we source them that way and from the coldest waters We always have three East Coast and one from the West Coast"

Other house special 'starters" are Beer-Boiled Jumbo Shrimp Cocktail, Seared Rare Salt 'n Pepper Tuna, and N'Awlins BBQ Shrimp or if you prefer soup, it's Maine Lobster Bisque

The Beachcomber's Platter offers three tastes in one, broiled Atlantic salmon, shrimp and scallops, accompanied by creamy garlic mashed potatoes and vegetable garnish of the day Sweet corn saute in addition to creamy garlic mashed potatoes are an excellent plate accompaniment to Chesapeake Bay Crab Cake To heighten the experience, pair this dish with a foodfriendly chardonnay, such as the 2000 Byron, 2000 St Francis or 2001 Chateau St Jean "Belle Terre

These are only a few of the well-priced selections on the progressive wine list (wines listed from lightest to heaviest), accessible on the back of the daily-dated menu

Chef Seanne, whom you ll see visiting tables, especially likes her Cedar Roasted Atlantic Salmon, roasted and served on a cedar plank, and her Blackened Florida Mahi Mahı, served with flash-fried rock shrimp, sauteed spinach, sweet onion hash browns and a Zvdeco BBQ sauce ($11 50 at lunch and $17 95 at dinner)

Keeping with the seafood theme, don't miss Sharkfin Pie, Johnson's butter fudge ice cream, honey-roasted peanuts, fudge, peanut butter, Oreo cookie crust, all topped with whipped cream Or if you like your dessert in liquid form, a number of specialty coffee drinks, Single Malt Scotches, cognacs and Ports require only a simple request

🎆 Flower Day

In 1965 most flower orders were not made with local flower growers so they decided to try and find a way to increase awareness and availability of plants in the Detroit area They decided that the first Sunday after Mother's Day at Eastern Market in Detroit they would host the largest display of annuals perennials and vegetable plants

The first Flower Day drew more than 20 000 people even though plants were not sold only dis played and questions were answered by the growers about plants The following year growers sold the plants and the event grew Today more than 100 000 flats of plants are on dis play making it the biggest event of its kind in the world according to organ izers On Saturday May 17 Blooming Affair Day will be spon sored by the Detroit

Recreation Department and the Eastern Market Merchants Association On Sunday May 18 Flower Day will be spon sored by the Metro Flower Growers Association and EMMA

You'd thought you'd just run over to the Somerset Collection and browse the stores After a few minutes of walking, you've come across a new storefront Actually, it's not a store at all It's a replica of a home, a show house, a stonemason's throw from Neiman Marcus in Somerset South in Troy

The 2003 Somerset Home and Garden Show features The Ultimate Show House, 6,000 square feet with 16 rooms, which retails for about $2 5 million in a real-life setting in the Birmingham area Builder Doug Derocher estimates the actual cost at $800,000 to $1 million

Nearly 80 percent of that was donated through the volunteer work of the Michigan Regional Council of Carpenters and Millwrights, supplies from Stock Building Supply & Stock Architectural Millwork, and the brick, landscaping and masonry of JCCornillie Approximately 35 local businesses provided building materi-TOM HOFFMEYER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER the project als or labor to assist in The wine pantry of the house Opening May 12 comes complete with a stained through June 20, the glass door and cultured stone home will be the site of parties to raise money walls for charities or nonprofit organizations, such as the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Suite Dreams Project, CATCH, Habitat for Humanity and the United Way The public can view the home during Somerset's business hours Admission is free The idea of a show house was conceived after representatives of Dominick Tringali Architects of Bloomfield Hills made a site visit to a Las Vegas show house last winter That group discussed with a group of women what they wanted to see in a future dream home Comments ranged from a place to 'drop papers and mail when friends came over" to an "easy-to-operate home automation system" Dominick Tringali Architects developed the house after discussing it with clients Derocher, a third generation builder and owner of Custom Homes by Derocher in Royal Oak, was the builder Standard Federal Bank served as a third sponsor Usually, Somerset is the site of a garden show to help charities, but this year Somerset's marketing officials wanted a different kind of event, said Leah Plotkin, marketing coordinator for Dominick Tringali Architects

💹 Sunscreen

As summer approaches most people are conscious of the necessity for sun screen Unfortunately for our furnishings people are not as aware of the necessity to protect their homes against the sun s harmful ultraviolet rays

Ultraviolet rays can even tually fade floors furniture upholstery and drapery fab rics - or even worse - a treasured painting Natural undyed fabrics can become vellowed Wood in furniture can fade leaving an uneven ly colored piece of furniture or split in the wood due to the heat. The right window covering can block up to 99 percent of UV rays Look for a percentage of UV blockage rating The higher a prod ucts rating the better the homes interior is protected

Silhouette window shad ings from Hunter Douglas feature soft fabric vanes suspended between sheer fabric panels. Learn the right way to choose a PDA

"Which PDA should I buy? It's the rare day that I don't hear this question from a friend, neighbor, or family mem-level, I recommend the Sony Che PEG-SJ22 (www.sonystyle.com), which sports a gorgeous color screen, plenty of memory, an expansion slot, and one of my favorite features a 'jog dial," which lets you operate the unit one-handed Bevond $200, things get a little trickier, as you have to decide between the Palm and Pocket PC operating systems-the core software inside the PDA (It's not unlike choosing between Windows and Macintosh) Palm, Handspring, and Sony are the major manufacturers of Palmbased handhelds, Hewlett-Packard and Toshiba rule the Pocket PC camp Microsoft makes the Pocket PC operating system, meaning those PDAs offer a more Windowslike interface

Trust me when I say

that's not necessarily a good thing Indeed, it's widely accepted-and I strongly agree-that Palm-based PDAs are much easier to learn and use than Pocket PCs If you're a selfproclaimed technophobe or new to PDAs, you may appreciate a gentler learning curve

That said, I've recently become smitten by the Hewlett-Packard 1PAQ h1910 (www.hp.com)-a Pocket PC

It's remarkably thin and compact, but still loaded with features Meanwhile, Palm 1s back in the game with its best model in years, the Zire 71 Its highlights include a dazzling color screen, movie and music software, and a built-in digital camera The 1PAQ h1910 and Zire 71 each a sell for $299, making for a decidedly tough choice

Don't look at me-I'm no expert I'll discuss higher-end PDAs in an upcoming column In the meantime, happy shopping!

A rose for Julie's mom

t was 11 years ago that we met in the prenatal exercise class She was pregnant with Julie, I was pregnant with Taylor

That year that exercise class was just what I needed All day I would chase two tireless little boys, busy with friends, schools and activities I needed a respite, a time to concentrate on this new baby to come I loved meeting with all of the women, we would chat, share stories

I learned she was the mother of two little girls and, like me, she was expecting baby No 3 She was a nurse and I was a writer In that 20 minutes of bending and stretching we shared stories of life and husbands and recipes When it was all over 45 minutes later, we would run back to our schedules

After the girls were born, there was no time Feeding, burping, changing, the rou-time of caring for baby three Then one day, before we even knew it, our babies went to school Taylor in the morning kindergarten session, Julie attending school in the afternoon

A couple of years ago she moved just a few blocks from me I sometimes would see her jogging past my house, sometimes I run into her grocery shopping at Costco, some days I would see her picking up a child at school, or I might run into her at Target

Somehow we had lost touch, life has a funny way of doing that There seemed no more time to stop and chat, no time to compare stories She had her life, and I had mine I heard once that she appeared on the "Who Wants to be a Millionaire?" show She actually sat across from Regis, and she won some money Through the years of passing in the hallway of that elementary school, through the years of waving a passing hello, shouting a greeting, I never forgot that prenatal exercise class I never realized how fast 11 years could fly by Taylor and Julie are now fifthgraders preparing to move on to junior high in September They are classmates this year, but their moms still don't see much of each other I keep busy with the kids, with my husband's schedule, she keeps busy with her girls I ran into Julie's mom at Target just a couple of weeks ago Her once-curly brown hair was covered with a hat She was checking out at one counter, I was an aisle away in our community said Jenny Haggerty of the Huron Valley Council

The idea was born out of a brainstorming session during the infamous O J Simpson trial Prosecutors in that case presented evidence of domestic abuse between Simpson and his former wife, Nicole, whom he was acquitted of killing, then later found responsible in a civil case

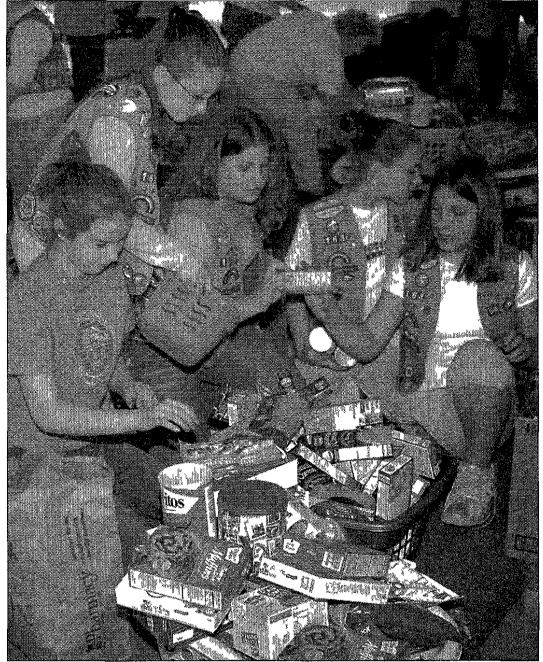

According to Stepping Out co-chair Barb Svec, "we wished we could do something to make people more aware of domestic violence "This idea just came to us '

The Girl Scouts, their parents and adult leaders spend time before the walk collecting items - toilet paper, laundry soap, diapers, linens, wipes, food and other personal care items — and bundling them up to be handed out to shelters

The scouts then bring the collected items to the walk in downtown Plymouth, where they are loaded into vans for distribution to the shelters run by First Step and La Casa

The girls then walked a little more than a mile along a pre-determined route that featured various activities

Margaret Hoffman, pro gram director for the Huron Valley Council, said the shelters depend heavily on the been involved in most or all of them, and they've come to know the importance of the event

"When we came to understand why we're doing this, it got to mean more to us," said Teja Paruchuri of Canton 'Its a great cause "

In addition to the annual walk, event organizers decid-ed to put together a Girl Scout troop at the First Step shelter Cadette Girl Scout Troop 900 participates in Girl Scout program activities 'This is especially important to the shelter residents because of the uncertainty in their lives,' said Girl Scout Leader Karen Clark, a member of the planning committee 'Joining a stable organization like the Girl Scouts can help them meet new friends when they relocate to their new home'

"Our babies are going to be big sixth-graders," she smiled happily

"I know," I agreed, "it all has gone by so fast"

She nodded and we gathered our purchases and walked through the door I wondered why I didn't stop to talk longer I wondered why I didn't invite her to lunch I wondered why I didn't run through the parking lot, to ask her how she was doing As I put my bags in the back of my van, I looked one more time for her But she had gone

Some days now, I look for her to jog past my house, I look for her during my runs to Costco, I look for her to pick up Julie from school. but that isn't needed any longer Julie walks home from school with her friends Taylor gets a ride

When you hear shelter officials saying they actually budget for this, you realize the need to fill this place up,' Hoffman said

Local officials agreed 'The items collected from the Stepping Out Walk are extremely important to the families at our shelter,' said Theresa Brizoe, first vicepresident of First Steps board of directors The walk provides the basic necessities

WAC Chapter 15, which meets monthly at the Southfield VFW, has only a handful of active members left As such, it is reaching out to younger female veterans in all branches of the military to keep the organization going

"It's an opportunity to be of service to other veterans," said WAC chapter president Lt Col Freida Williams of West Bloomfield, a career military officer who is called on regularly to play Taps at military funerals

Williams said the members work closely with Detroit's V.A. Hospital, raising money for activities and supplies, hosting a spring carnival, making visits with coffee and doughnuts and decorating a Christmas tree each year Dues are $18 a year and the group meets the second Saturday of the month for a potluck. The national WAC organization also holds a conference every year, where all the local chapters can get together

"Whenever a member dies, we make a $100 donation to the Army Women's Museum in Virginia," Williams said

army created in 1943, to which all women were assigned, to provide additional support during World War II From there, they would be assigned duties in mostly secretarial, clerk and communications jobs

Unlike its precursor, the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, the WAC afforded women all the same military benefits, pay and protection of male soldiers Through the WAC, 150,000 women served in World War II, including overseas in the South Pacific and European Theaters The organization was disbanded when the army was integrated in the 1970s

The assimilation of males and females for basic training, I still think it is a stupid idea,' said Barbara Becker of Plymouth, a retired master sergeant 'A lot of these women come from no rules to a long list of rules and they can t take it And they don't need the harassment of some of these men'

The WAC insulated female soldiers and protected them from the type of sexual harassment that goes on today, said four members gath ered at the VFW on a recent Wednesday to tell war stories over cookies and ice cream

They spoke of days when female soldiers were not allowed to wear pants or jewelry and were required to wear lipstick in public

Women have always been in combat, they said, just not in any official capacity until recently 'There have been women in combat ever since the Revolutionary War, just not officially," said Williams

'Every person at this table has been in situations where there has been a lot of danger, said Mary Baker, who served as an army medic 'When I was 18 years old, I wanted to be an army nurse so bad

In 1943, 1st Sgt Sandra Intorre worked as a cryptographer, helping decode messages about military operations Her turn in the war effort was short-lived however, because she had family living in Italy and as such, was considered a possible threat to national security She was reassigned to the Pentagon and made the army a career, ultimately becoming a recruiter

The stories could go on forever, but the numbers of those who served in the WAC, or even know what the WAC is, continue to dwindle 'When you go to the convention, you see it,' said Becker

Added fellow soldier Baker Thats why we need new blood' The U.S. Women's Army Corps is hosting a 62nd annual birthday buffet lunch at 12 noon on Saturday May 10 at the Ray Dunham VFW Hall located on Nine Mile west of Telegraph An $8 donation is required to attend and all female Army vet erans are invited

The Easter message is the core of the Gospel The good news of Christianity is that death is not the last word but rather a transition to our true home with God Death may seem invincible after all, each of us will die, having little control over the details of when where and how we will die. On the surface, death looks both inescapable and permanent. However, we should not be fooled by the external appearance of death. For death affects only our bodies At the core of our being is our immaterial soul, the eternal spirit which we share with our Heavenly Father Although we tend to identify ourselves with our earthly bodies the Easter message reminds us that this is a mistake. Our physical bodies are nothing more than transient shadows and not our true selves Easter is a celebration of our true selves, our eternal souls The Bible tells us "The Good News was promised long ago by God through His prophets It is about His Son, our Lord Jesus Christ as to His humanity, He was born a descendant of David, as to His divine holiness, He was shown with great power to be the Son of God by being raised from death " (Romans 1 2-4)

And I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, and no one shall snatch them out of My hand. R.S.V. John 10:28

COMMUNITY LIFE

So many projects, so little time

chool is winding down, and so, for awhile hopefully, will the number of projects the kids bring home Don't get me wrong I love all of their handmade creations, especially my 3 year-old's most recent drawing of me I look like a fetching alien with a gigantic head, big eyes and tiny stick arms and legs My refrigerator is plastered with renderings of mermaids, animals, flowers and other original artwork from my two Picassos

www.hometownlife.com

But to tell the truth, I need a break from all the "projects" Every month, my first-grader brings home a new "family project" It's simple enough, really We are asked to decorate one side of a shape made out of construction paper with items like beads, fabric, stickers, cereal, etc (Let me say right now that whoever invented glitter should pay, and I mean pay)

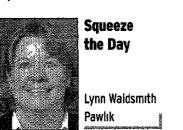

We are also instructed to include all family members in the monthly project This involvement usually consists of big sister telling little sister not to touch anything, at which point little sister starts whining and crying that she wants to help So big sister tells little sister she can help only if she does what she says

Dad s role usually consists of gluing one tiny sequin on the nearly finished project, or walking by and remarking how nice it looks My duties typically include locating all materials, laying down newspaper in preparation for the inevitable spills and mess to come, giving suggestions and encouragement, and, of course, cleaning everything up

Our first successful attempt at family creativity involved transforming a blank paper doll into a Hawanan hula dancer, complete with a skirt made from leftover plastic green grass from the previous year's Easter baskets Since then, we've tackled the artistic challenge of decorating a pumpkin, a turkey, a Christmas tree, a snowman, a heart, a shamrock, and a raindrop Now, we have to do a flower

But that's just for starters There are many more projects In March for example my

In March, for example, my daughter brought home instructions for three required school projects in one week In addition to decorating a shamrock for the monthly project, she had to decorate a Mardı Gras mask and make a "leprechaun trap" to bring to school on St Patrick's Day I looked at my husband "You do the leprechaun trap with her, I told him point blank I may be creative, but I draw the line when projects become mechanical in nature Even if they only require first-grade mechanical skills Then I can't forget the biggest project of the school year It was the "100 Day" project Students had to make something, anything they wanted, out of 100 things and bring it on the 100th day of school I had saved some Popsicle sticks and helped Eileen count them out Then she spent days painting them vibrant colors before my husband helped her glue them together in the shape of flowers I have to admit, seeing the proud look of accomplishment on her face made it all worthwhile (And it even made me almost forget my mad dash to Michael's in a desperate search for a green Styrofoam base) Even little Erin brings projects home from preschool I had to help her make a "Me and my family poster by assem-bling a collage of photos We also had to look through magazines and cut out pictures for the "What do people wear" project and the What do people eat" project Besides gluing the pictures, she gave the projects finishing decorative touches with markers and glitter glue (If there's one thing I've learned when it comes to projects, it's that kids like "sparkly" things) Now, all these projects are good for kids, I know Nothing can replace hands-on work for promoting their creativity and self-esteem And I know these projects are also meant to promote bonding between parents and their children And they have Its just that when you add homework and all the rigors of daily life into the equation, tackling project after project can be a bit tiresome at times

our own never-ending home maintenance and home improvement projects to deal with Sometimes it's just overwhelming to think of all the projects we have to do around here and all the school projects we'll be doing with the kids for years to come

I guess when you come right down to it, life is one big project We, ourselves, are all works in progress, so to speak But it sure would be nice just to do nothing for awhile

'Fix Up-Clean Up' project is May 31

The Youth of Unity is a group of teens who practice the Unity principle of giving to others in need Parents and teens work together in teams as a way to teach children valuable lessons in home maintenance and respecting elders while providing an important community service

The group promotes family unity by regularly spending time together having fun, communicating and learning new skills

Its goal is to have the group grow together spiritually, mentally, physically and to provide service to others

The Church of Today West in Novi and The Unity Church of Livonia accepts those of all belief systems who wish to explore practical Christianity concepts including how the mind, body and spirit interrelate For information on the Novi church, please call (248) 449-8900 or for the Livonia church call (734) 421-1760

What is the Fix Up-Clean Up project? Teams of parents and teens go into the community once a year to help the elderly in and around their homes by doing odd jobs

Who qualifies for free chore services? All persons 65 years or older living in Livonia, Novi, Farmington, Farmington Hills and any Unity congregation member Special consideration will be given to those with physical handicaps or difficulties with activities of daily living ing When will services be provided? May 31, 2003

How do you apply? Fill out the application below and mail it to us by May16

We will select applications based on seniors most in need and the availability of workers We will contact those who are selected home from school nearly every day Her after-school activities demand it, even though we just live a couple blocks away from the school

There seems as if there is just never enough time There are times in life that stay with you and times that fade away My time in that exercise class with Julie's mom has stayed with me I think of those times, before the girls were young, and I smile As the years pass, as our daughters continue to bloom and blossom, they are growing into young women before our very eyes

There are days I think about a reunion for that exercise class Bringing together that group of diverse women who in that 45 minutes 11 years ago found a moment of commonalty, a bond of Motherhood

It is true, life does have a funny way of changing My babies are almost grown now Julie's mom's girls have grown too

And so, in these moments of memories, I offer this rose to Julie's mom A rose offered in celebration of the spirit of a shared Motherhood, in celebration of hope, in celebration of the bloom for tomorrow

I just never realized how fast 11 years could fly by

League leaders

Salem, Canton golf teams rank with the best in the WLAA D2

Canton edges N'ville; Salem splits with Wayne

Canton completed one of its scheduled baseball games Monday before the rains hit, forcing the second game to be halted after two innings

In that first game, the Chiefs emerged with a 4-3 triumph at Canton Northville led 3-2 after three innings, but the Chiefs struck for two runs in the fourth on back-to-back doubles by Shawn Little and Ryan Powell (Powell's scoring the game-tying run), a hit batsman, a walk to Andy Howald and, after a runner was thrown out at the plate trying to score on a passed ball, a double by Dave Mintz to knock in the winning run

Canton improved to 8-7 overall, 2-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association Northville is 6-4 overall. 3-1 in the WLAA

Mintz and Matt Kay each had two hits (Kay had two doubles) and an RBI, while Zach Fishaw had a hit and an RBI

Carl McDevitt got the pitching win for Canton, allowing two earned runs on eight hits and two walks, with four strikeouts

In Monday's second game, the Mustangs were ahead 2-0 after two innings when it was postponed The game will be resumed next week

Last Saturday, Canton competed in the Big 11 Tournament in Farmington and came away with a split In the Chiefs' first tourney game, they went up against state-ranked Kalamazoo Central and came away with a 10-0 five-inning mercy loss in a game played at Farmington HS

Rich DeMeyere pitched well for the Chiefs, surrendering three earned runs

🌌 An era ends

There's little doubt the suc cess the different hockey teams that have called Plymouth s Compuware Arena their home have experienced over the last few years But for the Detroit Compuware Tier II team winning wasn t quite enough

On Tuesday Detroit Compuware president Mike Vellucci

> announced that the

gram will

operations indefinitely Detroit Compuware will continue to operate its other youth hock ey programs which includes seven AAA teams spanning all age divisions

Because of the increasing costs of operating a Junior A franchise we have made the difficult decision to suspend team operations Vellucci said in a press release It was a very difficult decision to have to make after operating a team for 20 years

A highly successful team at that The 2001 02 team won the Robertson Cup and the Gold Cup national champi onship through its history the Detroit Compuware Junior A Tier II team has a record of 508 176 61 a win ning percentage of 682 higher than any other Junior A franchise in the U.S. The 1989 90 squad was 42 0 2 and included on its roster Er c Lindros, Pat Peake and Brian Rolston all NHL first round draft choices The team won a record four USA Gold Cup National cham pionships and captured 11 North American Hockey League titles Other notable alumni from the Compuware franchise are NHL players David Legwand Derian Hatcher and Doug Weight

Rocks are on a roll Slip past Chiefs, 2-1

So far, perfect

That's what Salem's softball record 15 thus far in the Western Lakes Activities Association's Lakes Division after Monday's double-header sweep at Wayne Memorial, 12-1 and 8-3

And if that was nice, Tuesday's result was even sweeter a 2-1 win over cross-campus rival Canton at Massey Field

The Rocks improved to 15-4 overall, 7-1 WLAA and, with Monday's wins, 5-0 in the Lakes Division

Tuesday's win over Canton allowed Salem to avenge an earlier one-run loss to the Chiefs This meeting was a "defensive battle, that's for sure," said Salem coach Bonnie Southerland "We came up with some big plays*

Canton had a 1-0 lead going into the sixth inning, but the Rocks scored twice in the inning for the decisive margin Alycia Murawski started the inning by reaching base on an error Maggie Tudor followed with a bunt single, with both runners moving up

Madonna sweeps

Madonna University s base ball team managed just nine hits in two games played against Wolverine Hoosier Athletic Conference rival Siena Heights last Saturday But the Crusaders still man aged to get a pair of victories at Livonia's Ford Field

In the first game Sterling Mintzer handcuffed the Saints on just three hits and two walks giving up two unearned runs while striking out eight in a 3 2 Madonna WIN

Mintzer also started the game winning rally doubling to lead off the seventh inning Tony Kern ran for Mintzer and after a sacrifice by Eric Lightle (from Livonia Churchill) Justin Fabian dou bled to score the winning run Fabian had two hits in the game to pace Madonna

In the second game Mark Cole (Livonia/Catholic Central) was nearly unhit table for the Crusaders stop ping Siena Heights on two runs (one earned) on two hits and five walks striking out six in 6¹/₃ inings of another 3.2 win Madonna scored all three of its runs in the second Inning Mintzer collecting three hits in the game and Lightle singling in two runs Madonna finishes its sea son at 22 30 overall 6 18 in the WHAC Siena Heights is 14 38 overall 9 15 in the WHAC

Laura Stewart's first two years as a pitcher for the Western Michigan Broncos softball team were pretty much lackluster

The Plymouth Township native was a dominating force for the Canton High School Chiefs, but the college game was much different

'The hitters are a lot better, it's like taking the big hitter on every high school team and putting them on one college team," said Stewart "And, there's the three feet back (pitching mound) that takes some adjustment It's a lot of time and mental strain" In fact, in Stewart's freshman year the Broncos finished dead last, so there was nowhere to go but up

And that's exactly what's happened this year, as the Broncos, led by the pitching of Stewart, a junior who helped WMU capture its first Mid-American Conference West Division title (27-22, 17-7 MAC) The Broncos head into this week's MAC tournament as one of the favorites

In the game that clinched the division title, Stewart allowed only five hits over five innings in a 9-2 victory at Ohio on the final day of the regular season

The win improved Stewart's record to 10-3 overall, 10-1 in the MAC (including four shutouts), with an earned-run-average that is now less than two runs per game Her only losses were to the University of Michigan, Stanford and MAC foe Toledo

"My change-up has improved a lot, I have a better curve ball, and better control of my rise ball," said Stewart "I picked up a lot of speed with weight lifting"

According to pitching coach Jamie Mandarino, it was more than just better control of pitches that lifted Stewart to MAC West Division

The future is now for the Plymouth Whalers, and their view of it is something big

At last Saturday's Ontario Hockey League Priority Draft, the Whalers chose a left wing, a right wing and a defenseman with their three selections in the first two rounds All three share one common trait size

"It was evident the success a guy like Chris Thorburn had in the playoffs and we wanted a guy who could do that for us," said Whalers' coach/general manager Mike Vellucci "We wanted somebody who could work hard along the boards and score goals'

The Whalers' first-round pick (18th overall) was Michael Lombardi, a 6foot-2, 180-pound left wing who played last season for the Minor Midget Vaughn Kings In 28 games for the Kings, Lombardi had 17 goals and 32 assists (49 points), with 139 penalty ward – big, strong and skilled," said Vellucci "I know a lot of coaches say this, but he was a guy we had rated very high on our board and were happy to see he was still around by the time we picked'

Lombardı, who is a native of Richmond Hill, Ontario, is looking forward to joining the Whalers "I am very excited to be in Plymouth," he said "The Whalers are a great organization

Hawks stop Chiefs' Observerland streak

BY DAN O'MEARA STAFF WRITER

It was just a little ironic that Farmington Harrison coach John Reed had to change a flat tire on his car late Saturday night following the 33rd annual Observerland Relays

"That was the only thing that went bad," he said Otherwise, it had been a perfectly good day for Reed and his team, which finished first among 20 area schools in the boys track and field competition at Farmington High School

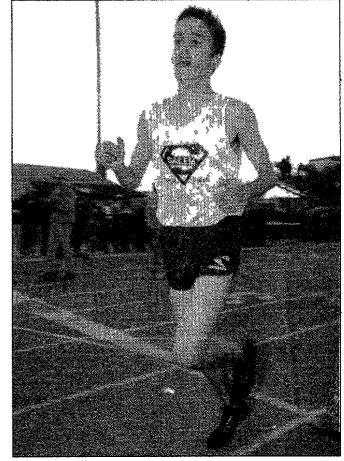

There was nothing flat about the Hawks' performance They won half of the 16 events and dethroned three-time defending champion Plymouth Canton It was the second team title and first since 1997 for Harrison, which had 875 points Canton (80) and third-place Northville (62) also received team trophies

"It's awesome, the kids came ready to run," Reed said "It's a senior team, they're focused and have excellent attitudes We've been working really hard, and we're just very happy to win the meet"

It was either feast or famine for the Hawks, who scored 80 points with their eight first places and just 75 in the other eight events

Despite winning five of the first 13 events, Harrison still trailed Canton, 59-575 The Hawks had a big finish, winning the last four - the shuttle hurdle, 400, 1,600 and pole vault

Rocks' golfers are looking better than ever

BY C J RISAK STAFF WRITER

The bar has been raised Used to be breaking 200 as a team was a reasonable goal for a girls golf team like Salem Not so anymore

Observer & Eccentric | Thursday May 8 2003

Going into todays key dual match with Livonia Stevenson, the Rocks are not satisfied with bettering 200 Their goal now is more like 180, something they ll have to do to compete with the likes of Stevenson and Northville

And that's surprised even their coach, Rick Wilson After all, Salem lost two key golfers from last season's squad in Danielle March and Kellie Tamme The Rocks have just one senior, Lindsay Young, who is consistently among the team's top eight

For example Last Thursday, Salem outshot Walled Lake Central by 28 strokes at Edgewood CC That improved the Rocks' dual-meet record to 4-0

We ve never been that low before, said Wilson 'It used to be wed try to get four girls at 50, which would be a 200 team score Now it's 180 "

SALEM OUTLOOK

Against Central, Salems four scorers were Ashley Smith at 39, Jamie Siedlaczek at 40, and Amyrose Mitchell and Young at 47 each Team total 173

What startled Wilson wasn t just the scores, but the ages of the girls shooting them Smith is a freshman, Siedlaczek is a sophomore

A little bit, Wilson admitted when asked if his team's success surprised him What really surprised me was the level Ashley Smith came in playing

Ådding someone like Mitchell, a junior who transferred in from Dearborn Fordson, and freshmen Kristen Schwan and Anna Ross to a lineup that already included the aforementioned as well as juniors Danielle Powers, who was all-division in the Western Lakes Activities Association last season, and Emily Brockschmidt will transform any team into a contender

'Our strongest players are our younger players," said Wilson Indeed, Smith and Siedlaczek are "Our strongest players are our younger players.'

Rick Wilson Salem girls golf coach

the team's top players at present 'We ve improved,' he added Siedlaczek, Powers and Young have all improved and the new players have really helped'

Which brings a couple of team goals within reach, such as the WLAA championship (which combines the league tournament finish with dual-meet record) and a berth at the state meet

"My belief is the young ones will continue to get better," Wilson said We haven't been to the state meet as a girls team"

One reason is that Salem, and Canton, have always competed at the very tough Brighton Regional at Oak Pointe They won't this year, they travel to the Temperance Bedford Regional at Giant Oaks on

May 15 The WLAA Tournament 1s scheduled for May 20 at Brentwood

Trying to get a team that includes six freshmen to perform at a consistently high level would seem difficult, but thus far the Rocks have managed

'They just go out and play,' Wilson said 'They have no concept of what it would be like to go to state meet

"We just have to continue to beat the teams we think we can beat

Todays dual match against Stevenson at Fox Creek, the Spartans' home course, will be a major test

"I think it will be an advantage for Stevenson because it's their home course," said Wilson

But then again, who knows for certain?

Pinckney best-ball

Chiefs are capable of a title challenge

On Monday at Timber Trace in Pinckney, Salem shot a best-ball total of 175 to finish fourth in the 16-team field

The top score was carded by Saline, 156, followed by Livonia Ladywood at 169 and Farmington Mercy at 172

Following Salem came Farmington Unified at 176, Livonia Churchill at 184, Canton at 188, Milford and Linden tied at 189, and Dearborn at 197

Salem's Smith and Siedlaczek shot a best-ball total of 80 to place fourth overall

Young and Mitchell had a 95 total and Schwan and Brockschmidt shot 97

Canton's top scoring team was Megan Depp and Beth Treadwell at 94

The Rocks competed at two other tournaments, the Brighton Invitational at Oak Pointe April 11 and the Hartland Invitational at Dunham Hills April 16 At Brighton, Salem finished 11th out of 28 teams, with Smith shooting an 82 to place 10th in her first-ever high school tournament

The Hartland Invitational was another best-ball tournament, with three two-girl teams for each school Salem was sixth with a 280, with Canton seventh at 285 Northville won the tournament with a 249

BY BRAD MONASTIERE STAFF WRITER

An experienced lineup has been leading the Canton golf team on the links so far this spring, and the team appears ready to take the next step into the upper echelon of the Western Lakes Activities Association

The Chiefs have finished in the top 10 in two tournaments this season, both featuring at least 20 competing teams, and they have won four of five dual meets in WLAA play Coach Dan Riggs said his team should remain competitive in both tournaments and in duals

"We have an experienced " team and a good dual meet team," Riggs said 'We have been playing consistent and Im pleased with our improvement' Leading the Chiefs is fouryear starter and captain Megan Depp Fellow senior Michelle Corwin has been a top player for Canton for three seasons Their leadership and experience are valuable assets to the team

Rounding out the top six for Canton are juniors Beth Treadwell and Heather Hugasian and sophomores Natalie Slupek and Katie Hoeksema

Last year the Chiefs finished seventh out of the 12 teams in the league Riggs said a change in the league pecking order is anticipated

We have more consistency than we did before," he said 'In this league, you have to be careful in every match But the girls help each other out a lot and our seniors complement each other real well on the course"

Like all spring coaches, Riggs said the timing of spring break has made it a challenge for his athletes to stay sharp With the resumption of league play last week, the breakneck pace towards league and regional meets has started

"It makes it tough, because before, you had lots of time to practice and get into matches right away," Riggs said "Now, everything is condensed into 3 1/2 weeks

Not that it's hurt the Chiefs much On Tuesday, they hosted Livonia Franklin and Walled Lake Northern in a doubledual at Hilltop Canton led with a 198, Franklin was second with a 259 and Northern was third with 279

Canton's low scorers were Slupek and Corwin, each with a $4\overline{8}$, Depp at 50, and Treadwell at 52

The Chiefs also have dual victories over Walled Lake Western (202-218) and Walled Lake Central (200-229) Their only loss has been to Northville in the first week of the season, by a 189-196 margin

"I'm real happy with the kids," he said "They're doing a real good job They've been together for two of the last four years - it's time"

At present, Northville together with Livonia Stevenson (which Canton faced yesterday) and Salem figure to be at the top of the WLAA race

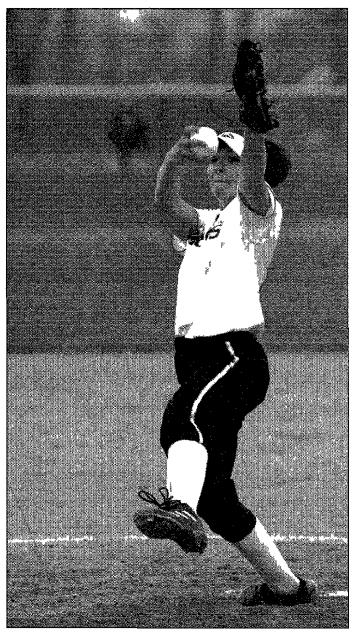

Together with the Chiefs, who could be in the mix as well relays Harrison moved onehalf point in front of Canton, 67 5-67, by winning the 400, in which it tied the meet record of 43 seconds that it set last year

The 1,600 victory virtually guaranteed Harrison first place, and the pole vault results clinched it At nearly 10 p m the running events were done, but the contending teams and meet officials were still waiting for the pole vault to finish before the final results could be announced A short time later, Harrison was declared the pole vault and meet winner Canton was second in both

"The pole vault is one of the most popular events at our school," Reed said, attributing Harrison's success in that event to assistant coach Richard Penderal "Everybody wants to be a pole vaulter"

As expected, the Hawks did well in the sprint events They also won the 800 relay, while senior Marcus Woods won the individual 100 dash

Led by high hurdles champion Kevin Davis, Harrison fared well in the hurdles and was a surprise winner in the 3,200 relay since distance running is not a traditional team strength

"I'm really proud of my 3,200 team (Charlie Gass, Andrew Singer, Brian Coats and Fermon Tate)," Reed said "But we've been quietly working on it We've got our time down to 8 15, and we're going to try to place in the (Division 2) state meet with that

'That was our surprise

event We knew we were going to do well in that, but I don't think other teams realized we would have a time like that

Woods, Robert McCall, Charles Pickett, Charles Stewart, Coats, Tate and Davis contributed to two relay victories each Harrison's 400 time * is the fastest in the state, and its 800 time is among the top three, according to Reed "We went after the events we knew we could do well in," Reed said, 'but we did go after others (pole vault and hurdles) We are doing other events'

As opposed to Harrison, Canton had a more balanced approach to team scoring

The Chiefs didn't win an event, but earned points in all but two of the 16 Canton had four seconds, five thirds, fourth fourths and one fifth

'We scored in so many places, and that's a compliment to our kids," Canton coach Bob Richardson said "We have some real good athletes and some depth 'I'm real proud of my guys and the effort they gave today This is one of the best teams we've had at Canton High School They're a hard-working bunch and also good kids"

Canton and Livonia Churchill (1976 78) are the only schools to have won the championship three consecutive years

Churchill hasn't won since 1989, but has the most overall titles with eight Plymouth Salem is next with six, followed by Canton (which also won in 1986) and Westland John Glenn

"We would ve hked to have been the only team to win it four years in a row, Richardson said "We enjoyed our run of three in a row We gave it our absolute best effort, and Harrison was just a little better than us today

"Our seniors can say they were Observerland champs three out of their four years"

Brad Waidmann, who recently returned from a quadricep injury, had a personal best in the discus (136-6), tied two others as the best high jumper (6-2) and had Canton's fastest split in the shuttle hurdle relay

Richardson also cited Dan Driscoll, who scored in four events, and Corey Walser, who was third the 100 and anchored the second-place 400 relay team

The Chiefs, who trailed Northville early, "didn't start to catch up until halfway through the meet, and that's when Harrison decided to put on a big push," Richardson said

Northville, which won the long jump and was second in four other relays, had possibly its best finish under secondyear coach Bill Cornelius

It's gratifying "just to see Northville become a real track team," he said "I grew up in a small town (in Illinois) where track was an important part of athletics

It's taken a while to instill (a commitment to hard work and to change some attıtudes), and it's starting to take hold Success breeds success and we're looking forward to the future'

Reed added the meet was a homecoming for the Farmington schools, which moved to the Oakland Activities Association last fall

"We were looking forward to running against our old rivals (in the Western Lakes Activities Association),' he said "We're used to seeing them, and now we only see them once, so that was fun

'We always know Canton is going to be right there Canton has a really outstanding track team We know, if we're doing well, they'll be right there'

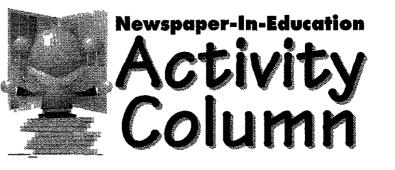

Other winners included Livonia Franklin in the high jump, Livonią Stevenson, discus, Redford Catholic Central,4 shot put and 6,400 relay, Churchill, distance medley, Salem's Justin Hajduk, individual 1,600 run, and Farmington, sprint medley

"Focus on Getting Acquainted With Your Newspaper"

If you look through your local newspaper, you'll see many pictures and photographs Generally, each photograph has a caption Captions are the information below a photo describing it They appear throughout the paper, giving the readers a better idea of what the photograph is about

Captions are significant because they explain the photo and also give it meaning The photos themselves are also important, because they attract the readers' interest to read the entire article Captions vary in length, some being only one word (such as last names, locations, etc.) while others can be a few sentences long However, despite the differences in length, each caption serves the same purpose - to give information about the photo to the reader

Sketch three pictures with captions of your own The pictures can be about school, sports, your friends, or even your family The possibilities are endless - just be sure to write a caption for each picture you draw Be creative with your pictures and your captions You can add a little humor, by making them funny Most importantly, have fun! After sketching three pictures and writing three captions, choose one of them to write a short article about and then present it to the class

On a separate sheet of paper, answer the following questions.

- . Why did you choose that particular picture and caption to write your article about?
- 2 Of the three, which picture and caption is your favorite?
- 3. Which picture and caption is the best in your class and why?

Look for this column every Thursday during the school year!

University of South Florida signs Ocelots' 6th man

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

A month ago James Holmes had every intention of playing another season of basketball at Schoolcraft College

But the 6-foot-3, 185-pound guard from Belleville has a different destination for the 2003-04 basketball season and it's a long way from Sugarbrook Park in Ypsilanti where Holmes honed his game

Holmes, who averaged 14 4 points as a sixth man on Schoolcraft's 31-4 squad, will be coach Robert McCullum's first recruit at the University of South Florida.

McCullum, who took the USF job after three seasons at Western Michigan University, became interested in the shooting guard after it was learned that Holmes had met ACT and core curriculum requirements

coming out of high school

Ironically, an assistant coach at Central Michigan University checked into Holmes high school academic record and it was determined through the NCAA Clearinghouse that he had three years of eligibility remaining

"It's a chance to play now, with new facilities and a new coach, and I'm on the same level as everybody else going in there," said Holmes, who joins a South Florida squad coming off a 15-14 record "I visited Central, but I know Conference USA is one of the top conferences in the nation My dream 1s play in the NBA and I feel this gives me the best opportunity

As a senior at Belleville, Holmes averaged 18 points, six rebounds and five assists per game as the Tigers reached the state Class A semifinals

The shooting guard was recruited by NCAA Division II schools, but Division I interest didn't come until this season when Holmes took advantage of playing time when starter Dion Sherrell, who signed recently with Wyoming, missed 15 games during the middle of the season with a broken foot

'First of all, James comes from an outstanding program and we're trying to building a top-notch program by recruiting from winning programs," McCullum said

"You know when you get a player from Schoolcraft and coach Briggs that you re going to get a guy who plays hard and will embrace the things we're trying to do here at South Florida"

Holmes, who plans to major in either Communications or Business at USF, averaged 20 6 points per game during Schoolcraft's final six games He had a game-high 25 points in a 78-77 overtime win over Vincennes (Ind) in the Region 12 championship final and scored 29 off the bench earlier in the season when Schoolcraft beat Flint Mott for the Eastern Conference crown

He shot 52 6 percent from the floor, including 407 percent from three point-range and 776 percent from the foul hne

"James certainly fills a void for us because he's a guy who can really shoot the basketball," McCullum said "And he was appealing because he's a student-athlete who has three years of eligibility remaining because he was an academic qualifier who met the initial NCAA requirements"

Holmes became the Ocelots top scorer down the stretch, averaging 20 points per game during the last month as Schoolcraft earned its third consecutive trip to the NJCAA Division I tournament in Hutchinson, Kan

'It shows if you work and continue to do well in school, and when your time comes and you're ready, it will happen for you," Schoolcraft coach Carlos Briggs said

"If James hadn t done well his first year at Schoolcraft, he would have had to come back for a second year But he took his school work seriously and he's done well in school Good things happen to good people James not only a good player, but a good person

Holmes, raised in a single parent family by his mother Rose Hamilton, has three older sisters and two younger siblings, including a 1-year-old brother whom he affectionately calls 'Little Smooth"

(PC)

Often searching for reliable transportation, commuting back-and-forth to school was a chore, but Holmes persevered, thanks to Coach Briggs and academic advisor Carol Derr

"Personally, I hate to see him go because that s 25 points per game we won't have next year,' Briggs said

'So if you know anybody who can do that for us next year, let me know"

Holmes becomes the sixth Ocelot to sign with a Division I school this year joining Sherrell (Wyoming), Marcus Bennett (UNC-Charlotte), Andre Scott (New Mexico State), Gary Johnson (Central Florida) and Torvoris Baker (University of Detroit Mercy) that affect freshwater fish Unfortunately, as a relatively new virus, not a lot is known about it including its origin and the mechanism through which it is spread

Although it can be deadly to largemouth bass, LMBV is not known to infect humans Infected fish are considered safe to eat as long as the flesh is thoroughly cooked

LMBV can infect other species of fish including crappies, bluegills and smallmouth bass, but apparently 1s only

LMBV causes bloating in the swim bladders of adult largemouth bass causing them to remain in the warm, oxygendepleted water near the surface, which eventually leads to suffocation They often have trouble remaining upright, appear lethargic, and occasion ally have sores and/or lesions on their skin

"When the fish are most sus ceptible is in the heat of the summer," says Jim Francis, a DNR fisheries biologist at the Livonia District Office There are lower levels of dissolved oxygen then, and the fish are already stressed out by the warm weather'

In an effort to help contain the disease the DNR is asking for angler's help

"We're asking people to try to abstain from fishing in the heat of the summer," Francis says 'Try to minimize their stress levels and don't carry them around all day in a livewell

The DNR also asks anglers and boaters to take the following steps to help prevent the spread of LMBV

Clean boats, trailers, other equipment thoroughly between fishing trips to keep from transporting LMBV, as well as other undesirable pathogens and organisms, from one water body to another Take special care to clean fishing equipment when you are done fishing known locations of the virus

Do not move fish or fish parts from one body of water to another, and do not release live bait into any water body

Handle bass as gently as possible if you intend to release them and release them as quickly as possible

Refrain from hauling the fish for long periods in live wells if you intend to release them

Minimize targeting of largemouth bass during the period from mid-July to mid-August, especially during exceptionally hot weather conditions

Report dead or dying adult largemouth bass fish to Michigan Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Division offices (517-373-1280)

Volunteer to help agencies collect bass for LMBV monitoring

Educate other anglers about LMBV

"I would say I'm a bumpand-grind, get-your-nose-dirty type of player What you see is what you get with me"

Size was again a key element in Plymouth's second-round selections The first secondround pick (No 32nd overall) was Dan Collins, a 6-1, 180pound right wing who was with the Syracuse Jr Crunch last season Collins totaled 14 goals and 12 assists (26 points) in his 35 games with the Crunch, with 58 penalty minutes

"Dan has a ton of skill from the blue line in,' Vellucci said "He is a player who can score and has nice hands around the net In the games we saw him play against the Ann Arbor team, he dominated

Plymouth's second secondround selection was someone close to home Mark Mitera, a 6-2, 180-pound defenseman from Livonia

Last season playing for the '87 Little Caesar Minor Midget team, Mitera collected five goals and 23 assists (28 points), with 141 penalty minutes, in 68 games

Although Vellucci is hoping all three players will join the Whalers, nothing is for certain "Like Dan, (Mitera) is a player who isn't sure if he is going to college or will play for the Whalers,' the Whalers' GM/coach said "But we are excited to have the opportunity to have him playing for the Whalers He is a player who could easily be a first-round NHL pick. 'He is a powerful and skilled defenseman who is a future captain He could come in right now and quarterback our power play'

Mitera, however, won't rush his decision "I really like the OHL, it seems the better players go to the OHL," he said "But it's a tough decision (college or pro) to make and I have all summer

'I am more like a Chris Pronger type player who can move the puck up to the forwards"

All three players pleased Vellucci "I think we were able to get some great players with a lot of potential to be impact players in the future," he said "We were able to get players with a lot of size, but also have a lot of skill

"My teams have always had those type of players But I also think you are seeing the kids are getting bigger"

The Whalers also helped their future a bit Last Friday, the day before the OHL Priority Draft, they traded their second-round pick (39th overall) and a third-round pick

Award-winners

At the Plymouth Whalers annual team banquet last Thursday, Chad LaRose received the greatest accolades, taking home two team honors

LaRose, who set a team record by scoring 61 goals during the regular season, was selected by the Whalers' coaching staff as the regular season's Most Valuable Player He also received the Top Scorers Award

LaRose, who was earlier named winner of the OHLs Leo Lonlonde Memorial Trophy, which is presented to the OHL's outstanding overage player, finished second in he league to Ottawa's Corey Locke in the Most Outstanding Player Award voting

Other award-winners for the Whalers were John Vigilate. Rookie of the Year, Cole Jarrett, Defenseman of the Year, Jimmy Gagnon, winter of the Face-off Award, Chis Thorburn, Playoffs Most Valuable Player, Nate Kise Hardest Worker, and Jams Wisniewski (from Canton) Scholastic Player of the Yea

Salem 6-2, Wayne 3-4: After a rough start, Salem sophomore pitcher Nic England handcuffed Wayne Memorial Monday to elevate the Rocks to a WLAA victory at Salem

The Zebras scored all three of their runs in the first inning on four hits, but Salem answered with a run in the first on Brian Bradleys second home run of the season The Rocks got three more in the second to take the lead, Ryan Leach's double accounting for two of them Stevland Davis singled in another Rocks' run in the third and Andy Thackaberry doubled in their sixth run in the fifth

Davis, Thackaberry and Steve Cox each had two hits in the game for Salem, which ended a three-game losing streak Chris Judd was the losing pitcher for the Zebras

Wayne won the second game, which was completed Tuesday, by a 4-2 count Dave Clendenning was the winning pitcher, the sophomore righthander struck out 15 while tossing a four-hitter

Wayne is 5-12 overall, 2-2 in the Lakes Salem is 8-10 overall

Catholic Central 11-9, U-D Jesuit 0-1: Catholic Central stayed in striking distance in the Catholic League Central Division on Sunday, sweeping a doubleheader from U-D Jesuit

We told the kids we needed to sweep to stay within striking distance of Brother Rice and they did it,' said Salter, whose team played Rice in a doubleheader on Wednesday 'Both starters went the distance, so that was nice Our pitching has been strong lately Our earned run average has come down quite a bit lately

Jeff Schulz set the Cubs down in the opener, retiring the first 13 hitters before allowing a one-out single in the fifth inning to break up the perfect game He didn't walk a batter and allowed just three hits while fanning nine to improve to 4-1

Kyle Crepeau was 3-for-4 with two runs scored and three stole bases for CC, while Ryan Gallagher had a double, triple and four RBI, Mike Monterey was 2-for-4 with two runs scored, Drew Amble had a homer with two RBI and Schulz had a two-run double

A seven-run fifth inning led CC (10-2 Central) in the second game, called after five innings because of darkness Monterey (5-0) earned the win on a four-hitter with two walks and eight strikeouts Derek Brooks was 3-for-4 with a double and two runs scored at the plate, while Monterey had two RBI and Schulz had two RBI

On Monday, the Shamrocks mercied Detroit Country Day, 10-0, as Bob Henderson (2-0) pitched a five-hitter with a pair of walks and a strikeout John Eshelman suffered the loss for the Yellow Jackets, giving up six runs and seven hits in three innings

Aaron Pauling had a pair of hits with a double and an RBI for CC (15-2), Alex Wojcik had a homer with two RBI, Joe Dudzinski had a double with an RBI and Schulzs single scored a pair of runs in the three-run sixth inning to end the game

Salem 2nd at tourney

At last Saturdays sixth annual Salem Invitational, the Rocks reached the tournament final before losing to Temperance Bedford 3-1

Salem opened with a 3-2 victory over Flat Rock, Szczepanski giving up two runs on four hits and one walk with five strikeouts The Rocks trailed 2-0 after one inning, but a Sue Woodard single scored one Salem run in the second

That was it until the sixth when Brook Posler doubled home Bradley with the tying run In the Salem seventh, Emily Maletic and Tudor each singled and Edwards was safe on an error, loading the bases Proodian's long fly ball to right scored the game-winning run

In the second game of the tournament, the Rocks defeated Ypsilanti 11-0 in a fiveinning mercy Jurcak got the pitching win, allowing three hits and three walks, striking out three in five innings Bradley led the attack with three hits including a double

Ashley Bilkie was 3-for-3 at the plate, with Tudor and Proodian getting two singles and two RBI each

The Rocks went up against Livonia Churchill in the game that would decide who would play for the championship and came away with a 6-0 triumph Szczepanski was again superb, allowing five hits and one walk in six innings

Salem broke the game open with four runs in the third inning

Tudor, Murawski and Bonello each had two hits, Bonello slugging a triple, and Bradley had a single and a home run.

In the final, Temperance Bedford got eight hits off of Szczepanski while Salem managed just one hit Two runs in the seventh clinched it for the Mules

"It was a nice tournament," said Southerland "Salem hit a couple over the fence Hopefully, it's just the beginning of what is to come Bedford is a good team and very aggressive up at bat

"I'm glad we got to face them because they are in our regional and they have a very good pitcher"

Seek advice before signing

I am closing on my home and have looked at the closing statement, and in addition to the broker's commission, there is a broker's processing fee. I do not recall being asked to pay that.

In the small print on many listing agreements, there is a provision where the broker, in addition to getting a commission, also receives a broker's processing fee, which is simply an add-on fee which I would certainly argue about when you are signing the purchase agreement, as it would appear that the 6 or 7 percent commission for the broker is adequate given the circumstances This again proves the necessity to have legal advice before you sign the purchase agreement and any listing agreement or buyer's agency agreement

There are a number of homeowners in our building who have damage due to overgrown tree roots because the city planted them. Do you think we have an opportunity to band together, perhaps in a class action suit?

In a similar situation, the Michigan Court of Appeals has ruled that a homeowner's whose property was damaged by overgrown tree roots can maintain a class action suit for trespass-nuisance against the city that planted them The court in that case found that there was a common sense scheme of trespass-nuisance, negligence and governmental taking involving the municip tree policy Since all of the plaintiffs allegations were substantially similar, and stem from the same pattern of the municipality's contact, the court granted class certification

Some Realtors say they live, breathe, eat and sleep real estate Others maintain that they devote 25 hours a day to the job And some sales professionals claim that they're always on call

Well, OK, if they say so But work to the exclusion of everything else isn't everyone's idea of how best to use all the hours in a day Sometimes, subtraction rather than addition is the better approach to time management

Caroline McGuire recently became broker/owner of RE/MAX Professional in Rochester Hills She has 33 years experience

"This is one of the businesses where the better you are at what you do, the more you work," McGuire said People who have endurance, who last, have learned to take short breaks They actually pencil in family time, personal time '

McGuire periodically escapes to her boat 'I can take my cell work from my boat all day I like to bob around once in a while, a few times a month, she said

McGuire also enjoys long several times a year

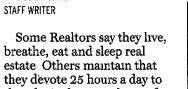

NO APPOINTMENTS

Every other weekend I don t schedule any appointments, she added 'Something may come up and I may have to work, but I don't schedule anything You have to refresh or you burn out You have to get away or you re of no value to anybody

Real estate 1s hard-charged, McGuire said 'The three most difficult things in a person's life are death. divorce and moving Sometimes (with clients) we deal with more than one of those at a time "It's emotional, like a roller coaster You have to get short spurts where you can to get refreshed, clear the mind, she said

A workaday real estate life can include other exciting activities

Brokers an asset to the market

o you believe in free enterprise? Hug a mortgage broker today Mortgage brokers are entrepreneurs who compete in the real estate lending market by providing funds for residential purchases and refinances They are specialists in mortgage lending and, in Michigan, must be licensed with the state

Mortgage brokers compete against traditional lending institutions like banks and credit unions In fact, most of them can get you VA, FHA, jumbo, ARMs, and conventional mortgages, bridge, construction, and balloon loans, and more Some even have access to private funds and "hard money" The same way real estate brokers employ real estate agent, most mortgage brokers hire loan officers to work for them

The biggest advantage mortgage brokers have over traditional bankers is that they are not limited to a single lender s rules and restructions Bankers can have their board approve unique situations, but mortgage brokers can access wholesalers and investors who specialize in those areas

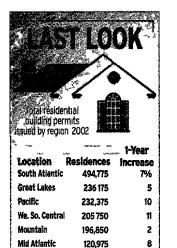

Mortgage brokers and banks often use the same funding sources Companies like Flagstar Bank, Bank One, Chase Manhattan, and US Bank, to name a few, have wholesale lending divisions that allow mortgage brokers to originate mortgages if they meet their respective guidelines Often. by completing only one loan application and pulling a single credit report, mortgage brokers can submit a borrower's loan package to as many different lenders as it takes to get the right fit Banks and credit unions normally have a reasonable selection of mortgage products, and must use one of their own loans to fulfill a borrower's needs Mortgage brokers, alternatively, choose from a variety of competing lending institutions, based on the customer's needs and profile Many mortgage brokers will meet you on your termsduring the evenings and weekends, or even virtually via computer or telephone Like full-time real estate agents, professional mortgage loan officers are "on call" all the time Best of all, mortgage brokers usually work on 100 percent commission, so they are an especially good choice if you have a tough situation or must handle very unique circumstances They are truly motivated to get the job done for you

Sondra Snowdeal, affiliated with Coldwell Banker Shooltz in Oxford, has been in the business off and on for 30 years

"I think you're more efficient when you put in less hours and use time wisely," she said 'Every hour I'm working, I'm working I'm not chatting I have a game plan and go at it When it's playtime, it's playtime The pager gets shut off"

DAILY WALK, WORKOUT

Snowdeal said she starts every day at 5 a m meeting a group of friends for a five-mile walk They hike into town, enjoy keeping in touch with each others' lives over tea or coffee, then head back to take on the workaday world

'For relaxation, I garden and golf in summer and in winter I cross-country ski,' she added 'I set aside time for myself a couple of days a week - half a day on Wednesdays and Sundays All my chents know that and respect that I have someone cover my business during that time as I cover for her when she's gone

'It's not good to be under stress 24 hours a day, Snowdeal said 'When you re under stress all the time, it's easy to make mistakes, errors' Bill Vaughn, broker/owner of Century 21 Ambassador, Southfield, says he starts every day with a workout "It keeps me feeling good, gives me energy for the rest of the day' But that s not all

I take off every chance I get I want to go somewhere - Las Vegas, Orlando I usually go on Friday, back on Monday morning You've got to get away Otherwise, the pressure gets too tight," he said

TUNE OUT

Agents - especially newcomers – sometimes are reluctant to tune out for fear of losing business, Vaughn said

I advise my people to turn off the pager, turn off the cell phone," he said "If you stay around the house with technology today you don't get away from the business

"You've got to let your chents know you're going to have a day off People accept that You can't be available 24/7,' he said

Vaughn also has a personal maximum-number-of-hoursper-day work rule After 10 hours, I just drop everything,' he said

Bernie and Chris Shoemaker. a husband-and-wife team with Real Estate One in Clarkston, visit their up North getaway monthly during nonwinter months

'Its kind of a head-clearing type thing," he said "We still probably break the rules by carrying cell phones But when a pressing issue arises, we can take care of it in 15 minutes The rest of the time, we're looking out the window at deer We've got trails we walk

Chris also likes to travel, recently visiting Key West, Fla, for a week, while Bernie fishes and hunts

HOBBIES

Kim Hahn, office manager at Remerica Integrity in Livonia, is another one those folks who enjoy minivisits to a place on a lake in the North country

'Absolutely it's so important to get away for peace of mind,' she said "I had a deal go sour right after Christmas I let the seller down easy and headed north for the weekend '

Shortly thereafter they found another buyer

On a more regular basis, Hahn said she enjoys following dfunke@oe homecomm net | (734) 953 2137 the exploits of the Detroit Red

Wings – a short season this year - and gardening

'If people say that's all they do is work, when are you finding time for your family or the things you enjoy doing?" she said

Ed Spain, a Realtor with Weir, Manuel, Snyder and Ranke in Plymouth, wonders about the truthfulness of Realtors who claim they work voluminous hours

"Anyone whos in the office every day, seven days a week for 12 hours, something's wrong with them,' he said "It grinds on you, your head gets twisted and sometimes you ask, What am I doing here?' Just like any job"

Spain likes to golf, work in his yard, socialize with friends and visit his grandchildren to recharge the batteries

He and his partner, Janie Clemons, spell each other so each can have a day off every week, Spain said

'In this business the customer is always right,' he said 'Sometimes, you have to control the customer You can't let them control you'

And that refers to time as much as anything else

Average mortgage rates fall nationally

(AP) - Mortgage rates moved lower last week, good news for people thinking about buying a home

The average interest rate on a fixed-rate, 30year mortgage fell to 5 70 percent for the week ending May 2, Freddie Mac, the mortgage company, reported in its weekly nationwide survey

The rate was down from 5 79 percent the previous week

For 15-year fixed-rate mortgages, a popular option for refinancing, rates declined to 5 03 percent last week, compared with 5 12 percent Rates for one-year adjustable mortgages dipped to 3 74 percent, down from 3 79 percent

In the week ending March 14, right before the United States went to war against Iraq, rates on 30-year mortgages declined to a record low of 5 61 percent as jittery investors sought the safe havens

That rate was the lowest since Freddie Mac began tracking 30-year mortgages in 1971 Records that reach back earlier indicate that the rate is of bonds

the lowest since the early 1960s Low mortgage rates propelled home sales to record levels last year, and economists expect this year could turn out to be very good given the favorable financing climate

"It appears the housing

industry will continue to flourish well into the summer," said Frank Nothaft, Freddie Mac's chief economist Low mortgage rates also propelled homemortgage refinancing activity to a record level last year, which has played a key role in supporting consumer spending Consumers, the main force keeping the economy going, used the money saved on their monthly mortgage payments to make other purchases

BY DALE BUSS AVANTI NEWS FEATURES

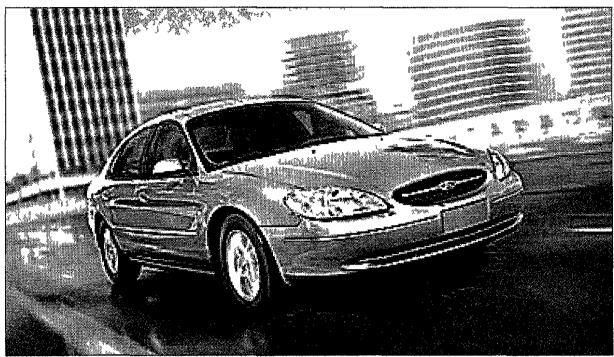

Time was when my family drove one of the most innovative cars in America, and it was a station wagon from Ford Motor Co's Taurus and Sable family of cars, which then were the biggest-selling line in the nation It was about a decade ago, when owning and driving our white Mercury Sable station wagon - with its extremely streamlined styling - made us just the timest bit iconoclastic, because it was the high point of the era of the minivan And yet the car performed very reasonably and served well the needs of our young family of four

I recount all of this because I ve been driving a 2003 Taurus sedan lately, which has rekindled the memories Recalling what the Taurus franchise once represented also helps place it in the proper context today And after a week with the SES sporty version of the Taurus, I came to pretty much the same opinion that I held about its cousin nameplate many years ago The car performed reasonably and served well the now-changed needs of our somewhat-grown family of four

The big difference between then and now, of course, is that this package of attributes doesn't hold up nearly as well in the much-expanded automotive marketplace of today as it did a decade or so ago Higher-quality reasonably priced models made by Japanese companies, most notably the Toyota Camry, long since have overtaken the Taurus's once-vaunted car-sales leadership, even though the Taurus family has been fully redesigned at least a couple of times Moreover, conventional sedans such as Taurus are trying to hold onto their very place in the new-vehicle continuum amid an intensifying assault by light SUVs and cross-over vehicles

The good news at the end of all of this, however, is that the 2003 Taurus, with prices centering in the low $20,000s, continues to represent a solid value for middle-American consumers looking for a traditional sedan above all else It remains modestly stylish, it performs adequately, there's plenty of room, and Ford keeps improving the product

The SES Taurus is a new sporty version of the sedan

that is designed to appeal to younger buyers searching for style at a good value And at a suggested retail price of $23,930, this version delivers on that promise The fully monochromatic body - silver, in the case of my vehicle highlights an exterior that has a good chance of appealing to the target demographic The 3 O-liter DOHC V-6 Duratec engine delivers 200 horsepower and 200 footpounds of torque, giving it a nice reserve when quick acceleration is required The interior is highlighted by a pewter-brush finish on the instrument-panel centerstack surround and the console floor

Outside, the sports package nicely states its case with a body-color spear in the grille and a body-color applique on the rear deck lid. Aluminum painted sport wheels, a rear spoiler and unique "Sport 24V DOHC" fender badging round out the exterior With its sleek and low profile, the whole Taurus family cuts a nice figure on the road, with its overall slightly organic design providing the most reasonable and stylistically effective appearance that Taurus and Sable have had since their introduction in 1986 Gold Ash Metallic is a new color for 2003 Overall, this year's models are available in four-door sedans and four-door wagons

The base Taurus is equipped with a 3 O-liter V6 that is capable of 155 horsepower, an acceptable output for a mid-priced family sedan Fuel economy tops out on the highway at an average of 28 miles a gallon, a good mark Dual-stage airbags in front are offered on all models, and higher-priced models include four-wheel antilock-disc brakes as standard The top-line SEL Premium features traction control and front side airbags The trunk is a generous size, and back-seat passengers also have plenty of room

Taurus s interior has picked up a series of quality improvements to reduce air leakage and cabin noise, two problems that have afflicted Taurus off and on sine its inception Also new for 2003 are illuminated cruise-control switches, also, the controls for the adjustable pedals have been moved to the instrument panel for easier access The cabin overall is functional and attractive, controls placed and labeled in a straightforward manner I was disappointed that Ford hadn't found a way to move overhead lights further ahead in the cabin, over the dashboard rather than staying in their traditional placement as "dome" lights

Specifically in the SES, high-contrast, two-tone sports seats with upgraded fabric for both front and rear passengers are visible even from outside the vehicle Deeppile floor mats feature the Sport badging In short, for young drivers who otherwise wouldn't be interested in this family of cars because they don't want to be caught dead driving their 'father's Oldsmobile, so to speak, the 2003 Taurus SES may provide a way out
