Hopefuls head down school stretch

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

Four candidates are vying for a chance to be on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education the next four years

And, if the past is any indication, a low voter turnout will mean a minority of the district's residents will elect the two

eventual winners

Elections Clerk Elizabeth Adams said the number of absentee ballots were on par with last year. That could signal that only 3-5 percent of the district's 76,000 registered voters will visit the polls on Monday.

The four candidates include Richard Ham-Kucharski, who failed in his first two bids to be elected, Roy McCutcheon, making his initial run for the board, incumbent Mark Slavens, who is completing his first four-year term on the Board of Education, and Roland Thomas, who previously served a total of 17 years as a trustee.

Thomas believes it's that experience which is needed to pull Plymouth-

Canton Schools through its current budget crisis

"They've never been through a difficult financial situation like they're going through today," he said. "It's a time where you have to be fair, consistent, and direct to people, be honest with them and don't pull any punches. You've got to

Township baptizes sprayscape

Water feature is popular park pick

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

You could have excused Plymouth Township Supervisor Steve Mann if he spent most of Thursday being worried about the weather, what with the grand opening of the sprayscape at township park being threatened by cloudy skies and cool weather.

But Mother Nature came through, popping out some sun just as Mann began his introductory remarks and warming up the temperatures enough to make the watery baptism a successful one, as dozens of children lined up to frolic in the $400,000 sprayscape.

And, after the inaugural dip, many of them were impressed. "It's fun, I liked the rainbow spray," said 8-year-old Ashley Saleen of Plymouth Township. "My mom said we could come back when we want to."

That's because mom thought it was a solid addition to the township park.

"It's a wonderful addition," said Jennifer Saleen. "The kids have been talking about it for a week (and) they loved it."

The sprayscape was one of the most popular answers two years ago when township officials took a poll of children regarding

Plymouth passes budget

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

The Plymouth city commission, without much fanfare Monday night, passed a $6.3 million general fund budget.

After five study sessions, the commission whittled $851,000 from the original budget presented by City Manager Paul Sincock. It leaves the general fund with a slim $137,000 balance.

"There's not much margin for error," Commissioner Ron Loisel said of the less than two percent margin. "Department heads will have to be very tight in their budgets and not overspend."

"The big thing will be anything unexpected, like another cut in revenue sharing from the state, or tax money doesn't come in," he added. "We have quarterly budget reviews, so if we start running into trouble, we'll have to adjust expenses back."

City commissioners already know the 2004-05 budget could result in deeper cuts. They plan to address the potential problems Thursday, in the first of what is expected to be several committee meetings to discuss possible cuts, or asking residents for a millage increase.

"Basically, the citizenry has two choices," Mayor Pro-Tem Colleen Pobur said. "They can direct us to cut services in order to bring the budget in balance, or give us the authority to undertake a Headlee override."

Sincock said there are other options, including a separate vote

Students tackle tough issues in Social Action Project

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

Domestic violence, animal abuse, gay rights and at-risk youth are just a handful of the social issues facing governments and the residents they serve.

Students at Plymouth High School tackled first-hand some of those challenges by not only putting themselves in the middle of the social issues, but also outlining possible solutions to those problems.

The Social Action Project is the brainchild of teachers Shannon McVey and Erin MacGregor. They're hoping students will be exposed to professionals and volunteers who serve as examples of those involved with social participation.

"We want the kids to be aware of social problems, which can be anything from hunger to gay rights to domestic violence," said MacGregor. "We also want them to come up with solutions to those problems."

ARTS PASSPORTS

Students in Plymouth and Canton have been participating in the community's Passport to Arts & Culture program since early spring. Designed to familiarize kids with the area's cultural offerings, the program enticed participants to visit the library, the Plymouth Historical Museum and the Plymouth Community Arts Council, and to attend concerts of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra and other cultural offerings

There are prizes waiting for all participants and a drawing for larger prizes to take place June 18

The program asked participants to get six stamps in their passports. By the program deadline of June 13, passport holders should bring their completed passports to the Plymouth Library (223 S. Main Street) or the Arts Council (774 N. Sheldon Road) for validation and to place their names in a drawing for larger prizes

Larger prizes will be awarded at the June 18th Music in the Park concert, set for noon in Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth

CELL PHONE COLLECTION

The Plymouth Jaycees are collecting cell phones through July 31 to be donated to First Step, a domestic and sexual violence agency serving the families of Wayne County

The phones serve as a lifeline to victims of domestic violence, often providing them with their only means of calling for help in an emergency, Jaycee officials said

To arrange for pickup, call Kris Voss, (734) 422-5220 or Mary Scott, (734) 637-5144. Anyone donating a cell phone to First Step is eligible for a $10 tax credit, according to the Jaycees

First Step collects cell phones on a continuing basis. To donate directly to First Step, call Susan Laskie, (734) 416-1111. First Step's office is located at 44567 Pinetree in Plymouth. It's open from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays

GARDEN WALK

The eighth-annual "Flowers are Forever" garden walk takes place from noon-8 p.m. Tuesday, June 24

The walk, sponsored by the Trailwood Garden Club, a branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, features six gardens. Garden features include vines, fountains and statuary, an old-fashioned country garden in the city with a 100-year-old milk house, a kitchen garden, an abundance of perennials, a garden with an angel carving, Victorian shed and pond, waterfalls and creative use of antique containers and garden decor

Complimentary refreshments, a raffle and a sale of garden-related items made by members will be available. The Plymouth Community Arts Council will feature an art exhibit by Connie Lucas

Tickets are $7 pre-sale, $8 the day of the walk. Tickets are available from club members and at Backyard Birds, Saxton's and the PCAC

HARRY POTTER PARTY

To accommodate customer demand for everything Harry Potter with the impending June 21 release of the fifth book in the series, Little Book Shoppe on the Park hosts a special "Harry Potter Party" at 11:30 p.m. Friday, June 21. Store officials say more than 400 customers have already reserved copies ahead of time

The timing of the party will allow customers to buy the book starting at 12:01 a.m. in accordance with the publisher's release rules. Refreshments, Harry Potter prize drawings and Ming the Magician will entertain the customers awaiting the midnight hour

"We had a similar late-night party three years ago when the fourth book was released, and more than 500 kids, parents and grandparents showed up to enjoy the festivities," said Betty Bryl, inventory specialist at Little Book Shoppe

"Several dressed as Harry Potter characters, so it was like a costume party"

The store will offer the book at a 30-percent discount. The first four books in the series will also be discounted that weekend

Little Book Shoppe on the Park is located on Main, across from Kellogg Park. For more information, call (734) 455-5220

URBAN SPRAWL

The Public Interest Research Group in Michigan launched a local grassroots campaign in Plymouth this week to preserve open space and to curb urban sprawl, group officials announced

A team of 20 young students and activists plan to knock on more than 2,000 doors in Plymouth over the next few weeks to encourage citizen participation in the campaign to "preserve Michigan's special places," PIRGIM officials said

The campaign was launched, according to Anne Pilbeam, a campaign coordinator for PIRGIM, in response to "rising concerns in Michigan over the loss of open space to strip malls, suburban subdivisions and other developments"

In neighborhoods throughout Plymouth, PIRGIM campaigners will ask residents to support the campaign by signing petitions, calling their representatives in Lansing and joining PIRGIM as members

Final plans OK'd for AA Road condo project

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

If the rest of his plans break the right way, Tom Bohlander could see construction on his 80-unit at the old Sunshine Honda location on Ann Arbor Road begin some time in the next 90 days.

The Plymouth Township board pretty much paved the way at its last meeting, approving the planned unit development contract and the final development plan for Plymouth Village.

The board also approved rezoning of the last couple of lots in the area, a move that was required before construction could begin.

Now, developers want to get the project in gear.

"We want to move forward as quickly as possible," said Steve Schafer, representing the developer. "Hopefully, we'll get started in very short order, the next eight weeks or so."

Schafer said the next step involved sanitary sewer/water permits from Wayne County. The county road commission has already recommended approval the vacation of roads connected to the project, a move that drew no objections from area residents. Approval from the Wayne County Commission is expected, Schafer said.

The project will average some 34.6 feet in height, although some points will be higher under the PUD. The height was allowed under a revision of the township's height ordinance passed several months ago.

According to Schafer, the condo units range from some 1,100 square feet to about 1,600 square feet and will sell for roughly $200,000.

"Typically, they appeal to young professionals and young empty-nesters," Schafer told the board.

The condo development is the result of a compromise with Bohlander, who originally was going to expand his old Sunshine Honda auto dealership on the site. Residents in the neighborhood voiced strong objections to that plan.

Bohlander eventually sold Sunshine Honda and came through with plans for the condo development.

Schafer told the board ground could be broken on the development within 90 days.

Woman aims for beauty title

Plymouth psychologist wants national crown

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

With an attitude opposite the traditional perception of a beauty pageant contestant, Maureen Huebel of Plymouth is approaching her appearance in the national Ms and Mrs U.S. Beauties contest with a different thought. She just wants to have fun.

Huebel, a 1993 graduate of Livonia Churchill High School and a veteran pageant contestant, heads to Aurora, Ill., for the June 22 national event after earning her title as Mrs Michigan U.S. Beauties. But, despite what people might think of beauty contestants, Huebel said her performance in Illinois won't be about winning.

"There are people who take it seriously," said Huebel, a clinical therapist for New Center Community Mental Health Services in Detroit. "For me, it's a chance to push my platform, and it's a chance to meet people."

As a psychologist, her platform centers around mental health and substance abuse awareness. She's concerned about budget cuts Wayne County has made and hopes her appearances in pageants such as these give her avenues to explore.

"We have clients wandering the streets with no prescription coverage," Huebel said. "My ultimate goal is to sit down with Gov. (Jennifer) Granholm and tell her what it's all about. I want to increase awareness of what's going on."

She's already getting the chance. The director of Brighton Hospital happened to catch Huebel during a local-access cable television show she was on, and invited her to do some speaking engagements at his hospital.

Not bad for a beauty pageant contestant. But it's part of why Huebel likes these U.S. Beauties pageants, now in their third year, because they concentrate more on the whole person than just the looks.

"They focus on who you are and what you are, rather than what you look like in a bathing suit," Huebel said. "We have sportswear. Basically, you can wear anything you want, as long as it isn't a bathing suit."

Entering, and winning, pageants is nothing new to Huebel, who competed for the first time while still in high school. She found them a solid source for college funding, paying for 18 months worth of schooling from scholarship money she won in pageants.

In 1994, she was Queen of St. Bridget, and in 1996 and 1998, she was on the court in the Maid of Erin contest sponsored by the United Irish Society.

ATTENDS MADONNA

She has since gone on to college at Madonna University, where she obtained her bachelor's in psychology, and to Wayne State University, where she got her master's degree in psychology in 2000.

That's the funny part, Huebel said. Sometimes I get teased, My shrink is a beauty queen."

There are lots of enjoyable aspects to her reign, Huebel is discovering. For instance, she's able to take this pageant much less seriously than other contestants. It's more laid back, although there is a talent competition (she's doing an Irish step-dancing routine choreographed by her friend, John Donahue, who works on Broadway).

And at the national competition, she'll be on stage with her husband, Jason, whom she married in September 2000.

Husbands will escort their wives on stage, deliver a flower to them, and answer questions right along with them.

Participating in these kinds of pageants can be tough on the checkbook, with admission fees running from the hundreds of dollars to the thousands. Huebel helped herself out with several local sponsors, the biggest of which is Plymouth dentist Dr. Mark Santamaria.

"He's a great guy, my biggest sponsor," Huebel beamed.

Huebel also has found a way around the expense e-bay.

"I bought my dress for $40 on e-bay," she confided. "It retailed for $800, and still had the price tag on it."

Still, that's a lot of expense for a pageant you don't care if you win. But Huebel maintains that's how she feels about this one, which carries no prize money.

"I've met so many neat people from across the country," Huebel said. "It's a way to make friends. That's how I look at it."

Physical Therapy UPDATE
Hands On Center
Presented by Hands On Center For Physical Therapy
SOLID TO THE CORE
Core conditioning is an integrated approach that focuses on developing the muscles of the central body so that one can move more effectively. The basic principle is that all the muscles of the trunk and those surrounding the spine need to be trained for strength, balance, agility and flexibility. Rather than training individual muscle groups such as the abdominals or biceps, core conditioning typically focuses on various muscles in the torso, back, hips, inner and outer thighs, and even the chest. The training emphasizes the role of proper breathing and posture. This conditioning approach provides a new awareness about muscles. With a strong platform from which the arms and legs work, one can be a better swimmer, cyclist, or runner.
Today's holistic preventative approach to health care sets a high priority on incorporating the health needs of the whole body into one's exercise routine. Our friendly staff at HANDS ON CENTER FOR PHYSICAL THERAPY is happy to discuss your goals, lifestyle, and needs to maximize your health benefits. Our clinic's goal is functional improvement of motoric and neurolog cal systems by means of application of manual therapy including techniques such as myofascial release, triggerpoint release, muscle energy, strain counter strain, cranial release, and joint mobilizations. Contact us at 455 8370. Located in downtown Plymouth at 650 South Main Street, we're your partners in caring for yourself.
PS Another type of exercise that concentrates on core conditioning is yoga.

what features they'd like to see in the sprayscape. The township board then voted some 18 months ago to approve the addition of the sprayscape to the 80-acre park.

"The process of involving neighbors in the building of a sense of community worked," Mann said. "Again families were taking ownership of their park and as you can see the result is outstanding."

BUDGET CHANGED

The board originally OK'd the sprayscape with a budget of some $130,000, although expenses such as water and sewer connections and the installation of an ice rink have pushed the cost past $400,000.

That didn't seem to bother

"Any place you can go to have fun and not have to pay is great," said Rebecca Muessing of Plymouth Township, who was there with her 8-year-old son, Dominic.

prepare the public for what is coming."

For Mark Slavens, there's unfinished business facing the Plymouth-Canton school board, and he'd like the chance to finish it.

"I'm running because I believe I have the experience to tackle some real strong budgetary issues facing the district," said Slavens. "I want to continue our efforts as a leader in this state in trying to get more equitable funding for the school district. We need to look at the State of Michigan to step up to the plate and adequately fund schools."

McCutcheon believes there's more behind the numbers being presented, and he wants to get to the bottom of it.

"I want to take a look at everyone who is a director, assistant director or secretary to see if they are all necessary," he said. "If you're going to cut people, I want to cut non-essential administrative positions before you can get to the people who are helping our kids - secretaries at the schools, principals and teachers."

Ham-Kucharski said he'd like to see Plymouth-Canton Schools partner more with local businesses and corporations as a way to help fund various programs and activities, which would mean more money for the general fund.

"I'd like to take a look at corporation foundation grants, and touch on our corporate citizens, to get initial funding opportunities, especially for extra-curricular activities," he said. "Then, we won't have to worry about cutting them just because of a budget shortfall, and hopefully offset any budget constraints we do have."

The polls will be open Monday from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., with results to be tabulated and released at the E. J. McClendon Educational Center, 454 S. Harvey.

for a recreation or a police/fire millage, special assessment districts or a capital improvement millage.

City commissioners, who the past several years have held outdoor summer meetings at neighborhood parks, will do so again this year - with one caveat. The so-called City Commission Summer Concert Tour will be unplugged.

Because of the city's budget crisis, the bandshell will not be moved to the parks, saving on municipal services labor costs.

"We will simply set up under the pavilions at these parks and encourage the residents to bring their lawn chairs,"

Sincock said. "In addition, there will be no public address system as there is no power at the various parks."

The schedule is as follows: June 16, Lions Park; July 7, Fire House playground; July 21, Garden Club Park; Aug. 4, Elm Street playground; Aug. 18, Kiwanis Park.

The rain location for each meeting will be City Hall.

City commissioners passed a new liquor license ordinance allowing the city to establish and administer a policy for the issuance and transfer of Class C liquor licenses and permits, the enforcement of liquor laws, and to manage the number of liquor licenses in the city.

Top choices for school board

Like school districts across the state, Plymouth-Canton faces several issues as it struggles for financial and academic balance, which makes the June 9 Board of Education election an important one.

We believe incumbent Mark Slavens and newcomer Richard Ham-Kucharski deserve the two seats that are up for grabs. Slavens has served the board well in his first term. He has a firm grasp on the issues that confront the district, but he isn't necessarily wedded to traditional ways of balancing the budget. While the hue and cry is to cut expenses, Slavens understands the district must also find a way to increase the revenue flow.

Slavens' issues also extend into the classroom. He wants the district to establish goals as to what academic standards are going to be set. Long an advocate of community involvement, Slavens wants to get input from residents while setting up those goals. He also wants to rein in class sizes, particularly at the lower educational levels.

Slavens

Kucharski was viewed largely as a one-issue candidate. His focus was on special education, because his son is autistic. Since then, he has gotten involved in a variety of ways, including serving on many Wayne County committees and task forces, as well as setting up a local task force to deal with universal education issues.

He sees the possibilities of corporate sponsorships, particularly in the area of programming and technology. He also wants to help push the grass-roots effort for changes to Proposal A that would allow more equitable school funding.

We believe voters would do well by casting votes June 9 for Mark Slavens and Richard Ham-Kucharski.

LETTERS

Slavens is fair

The School Board election is Monday, June 9.

We are writing to encourage a vote for incumbent Mark Slavens. Mark is Vice President of our School Board on which we are proud to serve.

Mark is fair minded in his approach to complex issues. Mark has education at the core of his belief. Mark also is a person of high integrity.

It is for these reasons that we recommend Mark Slavens for re-election to the Plymouth-Canton School Board.

Supports Slavens

Vote on Monday, June 9 to re-elect Mark Slavens to the Plymouth-Canton School Board.

Mark -

S - Shares with other parents and members of the PCCS community the desire and determination to provide the best education possible for each and every child.

L - Listens intently to the concerns of the public, weighs the pros and cons of an issue and then makes an informed decision.

A - Articulates time and again to the community and our state legislators the need for more adequate and equitable school funding for Plymouth-Canton Schools.

V - very visible and accessible as a school board member - he attends most school events such as the recent anniversary celebration of Miller Elementary.

E - Exemplifies the committed caring board member who goes well beyond the regular duties expected of the position.

N - Not hesitant to express an opinion or cast a vote which differs from that of the majority, yet he works to build consensus around an issue to move the decision-making process forward.

S - sets high academic standards for students as he strives to keep elementary class sizes down and learning communities at the high schools small to maximize opportunities and build success for all students.

Mark Slavens is not 'Rueben' or 'Clay' of 'American Idol' fame. But nonetheless, Mark needs your vote on Monday, June 9 to continue his work on behalf of the students in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Q. Why Contours Express?

A. Ask your doctor! Strength training with weights prevents osteoporosis by increasing bone density. At Contours Express you will be trained to lift weight at your individual level with a SLOW, CONTROLLED MOVEMENT strength training programs that utilize fast, jerky movements can cause potential injury to your joints and bones.

Q. I am a beginner. I don't think I am ready for weight training.

A. The Contours Express program is designed for women of all fitness levels. That's the benefit of Contours Express - as your fitness level increases you can move the weight up so your muscles and bones continue to benefit!

Q. I don't want to build muscle. I want to lose fat.

A. This is a misconception of weight training and should not be a fear. It is very hard for women to build large bulky muscle. The truth is the more muscle you build, the stronger your bones will be and the more fat you will burn!

Speaker rallies troops against women in combat

BY SUSAN STEINMUELLER
STAFF WRITER

Elaine Donnelly's efforts to protect women from combat began years ago, when concerns about her daughter prompted her to join the battle against the proposed Equal Rights Amendment.

"The reason I became involved in the Equal Rights Amendment was, I didn't want my daughter to be drafted," she told an audience of some 75 Bloomfield Republican Women's Club members at a recent luncheon.

While the Equal Rights Amendment was defeated, the Livonia resident now has a related cause - reversing recent decisions that allow women to serve in front line combat positions.

When in March, world headlines reported the three U.S. enlisted women captured or missing in Operation Iraqi Freedom, "People kept asking me, 'I thought there were laws against women in combat,' she said. "Well, guess what, thanks to the Clinton years, not only are there no laws against women in combat, there are few regulations."

Donnelly is president of the Center for Military Readiness, an independent, nonprofit educational organization specializing in promoting sound military personnel policies in the armed forces. She founded it in 1993.

Before that, in the 1980s, she had served a three-year term on the Pentagon's Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services, and she served on the 1992 Presidential Commission on the Assignment of Women in the Armed Services.

Her luncheon message, entitled Leadership, Morale and Morality in the U.S. Military, was well-received by the audience of women and some men at the Forest Lake Country Club in Bloomfield Hills.

"Of course I agree with Elaine 100 percent," said Violet Vestevch of Bloomfield Hills. She provided us information that we really don't get to hear. We are very proud of our military, and we want to keep it that way."

Edith Simmons of Southfield said, "She's a very knowledgeable patriotic American. She inspires us to become involved in the workings of our military and our government."

DIFFERENCES EVIDENT

Donnelly said that in 1994, then-Secretary of Defense Les Aspin revised laws protecting women from combat with "little notice or public understanding of the consequences." He did so because of "feminist demands," she said.

Abolished were the Defense Department's "risk rule, which spared women in support units from assignments close to the front line, and "substantial risk of capture" as a reason to exempt women from involuntary assignments in previously all-male positions.

Evidence that women don't have equal opportunity to survive in fights, are more likely to be abused, and don't have equal opportunity to help fellow soldiers survive was disregarded, she said.

As a result, the three U.S. enlisted women were serving in a transportation unit supporting the 3rd infantry division near the front lines in Iraq.

"One thing we all agree on, they were brave women," she said. "But the question is, can't they serve without being in units with a high risk of capture?"

Surveys show that enlisted women themselves do not want to go into combat on the same basis as men - in fact, only 10 percent do, Donnelly said.

Spec Shoshana Johnson, a single mother who was later rescued, "wanted to join the Army and learn cooking skills, needs of the military, needs of the military must come first."

OTHER REASONS, TOO

Donnelly mentioned several other reasons she believes that women should not serve in combat.

"There are many psychologists who say the loss of a mother is worse than if a man left them behind."

She also said that statistics show a spike in pregnancies before a military deployment, so the woman can stay behind. "Men resent it," she said.

Donnelly also criticized the "military welfare system," which draws young single mothers. Benefits include "kiddy hotels" with round the clock care. "We need to support them, but we do not need to have 24/7 child care as an option."

President George Bush said he would leave it up to his generals as to whether to revisit Clinton era policies, she said. But, "The problem is that generals respond to the president's leadership."

She urged signing of a petition that asks to restore the risk rules, and review other Clinton era gender policies.

Doing so, to Donnelly, would make sense - especially as a Republican. As she said while telling why she became a Republican, "I would say most of our principles are based on common sense and good morality."

but instead found herself serving in a very dangerous situation. They are not to blame for the problem."

But feminist politicians say, "We need an opportunity to break the glass ceiling. That's the kind of logic I deal with every day."

Donnelly believes, however, "If there is a conflict between career considerations and the

Hockey choice

Alison Proodian a sophomore at Salem HS has been chosen to play in the upcoming USA Hockey Select Festival in New York

Proodian 15 competed against players throughout the midwest to earn a spot on the team The festival held in June brings together the top hockey prospects from all over the country to compete and train at the USA Olympic facility in Lake Placid

New recruits

Let's hope seven is a lucky number for Madonna University's girls soccer team

That's how many new recruits coach Mark Zathay has signed including midfielders Bethany Dobbyn from Livonia Stevenson and Sunny Grezlik from Livonia Ladywood

Bethany is a tactician who works extremely hard for what she gets said Zathay She is another one of those kids that you just love to have around

Grezlik according to the Madonna coach fills a major void in the program She is a lefty and ideally you like to have five or so left footers on your team he said With her in the fold we now have two but couple that with her work ethic and enthusiasm and we could have some thing special down the road

Other top recruits are Kelly Japowicz a forward from Grosse Pointe North and Julie Turner a center back from Troy Athens

Japowicz according to Zathay is a Division I player no doubt about it She has the skills to play at a higher level and we are extremely excited to have her here She can dominate at this level

Turner is another with Division I talent according to Zathay She is a leader on the field a great defender and will be a cornerstone for our program for the next four years he said

Others who will be major contributors are keeper Diana Kaip from Woodhaven (She can be an immediate impact player for us Her skills are at a level where she can come in and start right away) defender Samantha Shear from Clawson (Samantha is very smart tactically she is strong and she has great skills She is one of those players that does everything well) and keeper Katie Sponsler from Jackson Lumen Christi (Katie is a very good goalkeeper She has good height and agility and will give us depth at the position)

Zathay is still hunting for recruits hoping to add a couple of more before practice begins in August for the fall His 2002 squad finished 15-2-3

Pioneer tops Canton in OT

BY C J RISAK
STAFF WRITER

For the second time this season, Canton shutout Ann Arbor Pioneer — at least in regulation Overtime was another matter

The Pioneers' Jessica Westerhof wound a crossing pass from the right corner over Canton's defenders to Anna Barsan, perched at the left corner of the Chiefs' net, 10 yards out Barsan headed a hard shot past a leaping Briana Wolcott, the Canton keeper, and with 8:25 left in the second OT Pioneer had a 1-0 win to earn its first-ever trip to the state semifinals

Canton ends its season with a 15-4-2 record Pioneer advances to play the Okemos-Brighton winner in Wednesday's semis at Brighton with a 15-2-3 record

As in their first meeting, defenses ruled this match "Breanna Mulholland, Lauren King, Ali Wicks — our whole defensive core was outstanding," said Pioneer coach Chris Morgan

He knew how dangerous Canton forwards Erica Ahrens and Rachel Perry could be, particularly on counters "We preached to them all week about them," Morgan said "And they did the job"

So, too, did Canton's defense "I thought the difference in the game was their keeper," said Morgan, referring to Wolcott, who made several spectacular saves "I thought she pulled a couple of balls out that we've been scoring on all year"

In the first half it seemed the Chiefs had the better of the play, putting several shots on goal that keeper Erica Goethel had to handle But they couldn't quite finish their chances, the offense never seemed quite in sync

"We were hanging back too far," said Canton coach Don Smith of his midfield ("Pioneer") played good defensively, no doubt about it"

As for the Pioneers' successful efforts to negate Ahrens and Perry, Smith replied, "They had to We had to have some help"

Longtime Livonia Stevenson girls track coach Paul Holmberg had plenty of success last fall with his cross country team

That success carried over to the spring track season as the Spartans captured the Division I regional at Ypsilanti Lincoln and placed runner-up in the Western Lakes Activities Association meet

Stevenson also finished undefeated in dual meets this spring and won the Public Schools of Livonia Invitational meet

The Spartans proved to have a well-balanced squad, placing three on first-team All-Observer, along with two sprint relay squads

For his efforts this season, Holmberg was named Observerland Coach of the Year

And if the 2003 season was deemed a success, wait until 2004 when the Spartans return a majority of their performers

Another strong effort this season was turned in by WLAA champion and regional runner-up Livonia Churchill, which placed four on first-team along with two first-team relay teams

Other first-team representatives include performers from Wayne Memorial, Livonia Franklin, Canton and Westland John Glenn

Introducing the 2003 All-Observer Girls Track Team as selected in a meeting by area coaches

FIELD EVENTS

Nia Henderson Liv Churchill shot put The junior voted the Chargers co MVP finished third in the Division I state meet with a toss of 40 feet 7.75 inches

Henderson a scholar athlete also won both the shot put and discus at the WLAA and regional meets She was also Public Schools of Livonia Invitational champion and holds the school record in both the shot put (40 7.75) and discus (124 7)

Nia has been such a wonderful athlete to watch excel over the years coach Kelly Graham said She has truly developed into one of the best throwers in the state I am very proud of her effort talent and dedication to her sport She is my very first All State athlete I'm very happy for her and excited to see how much more she can do next year

Lauren Kmet Liv Franklin discus The senior finished second in the regional and second in the WLAA Her best throw in the discus was 115 5.5 (second all time in school history)

Kmet also captured five dual meets in the discus along with recording the best throw in the Patriot Stafford and Chelsea relays

In the shot put Kmet won five meets with a best throw of 35 5 She finished fifth in the WLAA and sixth at the regional

The four year varsity letter winner was Franklin's leading point getter and two year Franklin MVP

Lauren was our most consistent performer this season Franklin coach Dave Bjorklund said This is the result of her hard work and dedication both during the season and in the off season

She was one of our hardest workers over her four years on the team We're very proud of her accomplishments and she will be greatly missed next year

Khelli Wade Wayne, high jump The three year varsity performer enjoyed an outstanding senior year by finishing second at the regional and runner up in the WLAA meet

Her best effort was 5 3 in a dual meet against Westland John Glenn

Khelli had a great season Wayne coach Kevin Miller said She improved her jump by five inches over last year

I made her an honorary team captain because she takes on a leadership role and she's a worker

Wade was also a member of Wayne's school record 4 x 200 meter relay squad She also ran a leg in the 1600 relay

Jennifer Anderson Wayne, long jump The sophomore was regional champion (16 3) and placed third in the Western Lakes meet

Her best effort was a 16 5 against rival John Glenn

Jennifer always put in the extra time and she spent time on Sundays working with other jumpers she's so gung ho Miller said She works hard every day and some times we have to tell her to go home even long after practice had ended

She wants our school record (17 9) before she leaves here

The change has been made Anyone possessing some hockey knowledge may not even notice it The style of Canton's hockey game won't be much different, and at least one of the faces behind the Chiefs' bench will be a familiar one

Wheaton

But there is a change Dan Abraham has stepped down as Canton's head coach, the only coach in the team's history

He will be replaced by Jim Wheaton, his assistant coach since the program began

Both share the same philosophy As Wheaton explained, "It's pretty simple It's team play — every player has to know his role, and you don't put yourself ahead of the team"

"We have a disciplined style of play, and that's worked for four years"

pole vault junkie She absolutely adores pole vaulting said her coach John Venning She's a real stickler for it

That adoration helped Williams win the Division I regional Clearing 9 feet the only Observerland vaulter to qualify for state where she cleared 8 6 but didn't score She also tied for fourth at the Western Lakes Activities Association

She practiced pole vault constantly Venning said There's no reason she can't go 10 6 11 feet It's just a matter of fine tuning all those little things

Williams dedication and work ethic She went to indoor meets on her own went to clinics on her own - has earned her title as co captain for 2004 She has to work on her speed on the runway said Venning who also plans to use her in the hurdles next season

RUNNING EVENTS

Lindsay Conklin Liv Churchhill 110 meter hurdles The senior captain and three year varsity letter winner was voted Most Improved by her teammates after placing first in the WLAA meet and fourth at the regional

Her best time in the 110 highs was 161 She also ran a 49 3 in the 300 intermediate hurdles

Lindsay has continued to excel and improve in whatever event she ran Graham said of the All State Scholar Athlete Thankfully this year she finally made her mark with running the hurdles She dropped 2 seconds from the beginning to the end of the season She is a hard worker dedicated and a wonderful student athlete She will surely be missed next year with her leadership and talent that she gave us this year

Kaitlin Armstrong Liv Stevenson 300 hurdles The sophomore ran the area's best times in both the 300 hurdles (47 8) and 100 hurdles (16 0)

She was WLAA champion for the second straight year in the 300 hurdles and runner up at regional

Armstrong was a state qualifier in three events including two relays

Kaitlin is a gifted athlete who has worked to become an outstanding hurdler Stevenson coach Paul Holmberg said She is also an excellent relay person with an ability to make handoffs work smoothly She has two years to challenge the records at Stevenson in the hurdles and speed relays

Christina Redd Canton 100 dash Redd's performance this season she finished seventh at state meet began a year ago according to her coach John Venning She set her goals last year he said She thought she should have gotten to states a year ago Christina is one of those kids you love to coach because you don't have to coach them She had the will to succeed

A senior Redd won the 100 dash title at the WLAA finals with a season best 12 42 and was third at the state regional in 12 5 Both girls who finished ahead of her at the regional also placed in the top eight at state

On top of all that she was a team captain and is one of the top scholar athletes in the state She plans to walk on in women's track next year at North Carolina

Linda Montgomery Liv Stevenson 200 The junior ran the area's best times in the 200 (25 6) and 400 (58 9) both school records She broke Stevenson assistant coach Nancy Gavoors' 31 year old record in the 200

Linda is the most versatile runner I've ever coached Holmberg said She is capable of running any event from the 100 through the 3200 and winning She always ran in four events and played a big role in Stevenson's undefeated season

Alyse White Liv Churchhill 400 The junior and three year varsity letter winner was the second highest scorer for the Chargers this year

She ran a personal best 59 6 at the regional to qualify for the state meet While she also went 12 5 in the 100 and 26 4 in the 200

I've had the opportunity to watch Alyse excel in many different events Graham said I knew she was going to be a great runner and through her hard work gained the opportunity to go to the state meet where she equaled her personal best (59 6) She has been an important part of our overall success based on her talents in the events that she has run She will be a great force and success in the future

Michelle Phillips Liv Churchhill 800 The four year standout and two time state placer in the 800 is headed next season to NCAA champion University of South Carolina

This season Phillips placed first at the regional and first in the WLAA She was also Public Schools of Livonia Invitational champi on The senior captain a scholar athlete was voted Co MVP for Churchhill

She led the area with best times in the 800 (2:19) and 1600 (5:17) She also ran 1:01 3 in the 400

It has been a pleasure to have had Michelle compete for me these last four years Graham said She was a huge part of our team the first year and has developed into an impact athlete these last two year She has gone to the state meet the last three years

She's a wonderful person funny personality and a very hard worker

Phillips will be competing next week in Delaware Ohio at the Midwest Meet of Champions

Sarah McCormack Canton 1600 McCormack a senior was the Chiefs' top distant threat all season showing her ability by finishing first in the 1600 at both the regional meet in a season best 5:18 80 and the WLAA Finals in 5:22 7

She ran all my distance stuff said John Venning her coach She was my premier distance runner

Although McCormack was good in the 3200 her goal was the mile Venning said And she did set her goals high She had a fantastic regional and a great conference meet and she came within a few seconds of her best time at state

Another superb student McCormack is pondering attending Michigan and walking on in cross country

Heather Sirko Liv Stevenson 3200 The sophomore blossomed during her second track season leading the area and qualifying for the state meet in the 3200 with a best time of 11:24 0 She ran under 11:30 three times and also ranked fifth in the 1600 (5:21 0)

In the 3200 Sirko went undefeated until the state meet winning both the WLAA and regionals She was also MITCA State Team champion Stevenson and Mercy invitational champion

Heather is a coach's dream - talented motivated and willing to work Holmberg said She made great strides this year both in cross country and track She'll be one of the state's elite distance runners the next two years

RELAY EVENTS

400 (tie) - Stevenson (Alison Collins Elizabeth Sturdy Kaitlin Armstrong Jennifer Perkins) This quartet led the area listing with a time of 51 0 and went undefeated in dual meets Stevenson's foursome also won the Public Schools of Livonia Stevenson and Mercy invitationals along with a runner up finish at both the WLAA and regional meets

We were fortunate to have the same four girls run this relay from early in the season until the end - and continue to improve Holmberg said They will all be back next year to go after the Stevenson record of 50 3

400 (tie) - John Glenn (Brittany Howard Alisa Orr Elizabeth Easter, To'ina White) The Rockets won the Western Lakes meet with season best of 51 3

After a round of early season injuries and a couple of position changes they clicked at season's end Glenn coach Kirk Conner said They steadily improved each week and they were really good at invitationals

800 - Stevenson (Alison Collins Kristy Sobran Kaitlin Armstrong, Linda Montgomery) This group posted the area's best time (1:46 8) including five clockings under 1:48 0 They finished undefeated in dual meets and took first places the Public Schools of Livonia Stevenson and Mercy invitationals They qualified for the state by winning the regional at Ypsilanti Lincoln

This team was clearly one of our best ever Holmberg said They worked hard on their exchanges and improved each week running their best at the state finals

1600 - Churchhill (Lache Wilkins Lindsay Conklin Michelle Phillips, Alyse White) The Chargers foursome ran their best time in the Division I state meet (4:04 6) en route to a seventh place finish They also placed second at the regional and first in the Western Lakes meet

This has been one of the most exciting relay teams I have ever had Graham said It has been fun watching them perform and improve throughout the season They will be a tough act to follow next year

3200 - Churchhill (Sarah Westrick Nicole Schmidt Rachel Wodyka Michelle Phillips) Ran a school record time of 9:35 1 en route to an eight place finish in the Division I state meet They finished first at the regional WLAA and Public Schools of Livonia Invitational meets.

This will surely be a relay team that will be hard to replace Graham said The three seniors (Westrick Wodyka and Phillips) that have run this event most of their careers at Churchhill will be missed based on their talent as well as who they are as individuals

Mid-Michigan Bucks to host defending D-III champions

The time and date for the Mid-Michigan Bucks US Open Cup soccer match has been verified. The Bucks will face the defending Division III champion Long Island (N.Y.) Rough Riders at 7:30 p.m. June 25 at Berkley's Hurley Field. The Bucks, a Premier Development League team, is Division IV. First-round matches in the Open Cup Tournament were last week. The Bucks, 5-0-1 for the season going into Saturday's match against the St. Louis Strikers, got a first-round bye. They also have a PDL-record six Open Cup victories. Only six of the 51 teams playing in the PDL received bids to the Open Cup, which is open to qualifying teams in all four divisions — including Major League Soccer. This will be the biggest soccer game this area has hosted in a long time," said Bucks' co-owner/general manager Jim Duggan. "We are fortunate to be able to bring in a franchise with the tradition of the Rough Riders as our first big match-up in Detroit." "This is the (United States Soccer) Federation's biggest tournament and we are hoping to attract affiliated youth players from all over southeast Michigan." Round Two winners could meet an MLS team in Round Three, scheduled for July 16. Round Three winners will meet an MLS squad in their next match on Aug. 6. Tickets are $9 for adults and $5 for kids

(under 19), and are available at the gate or by calling (989) 781-6888, or by e-mailing the bucks at info@mmbucks.com. In other Bucks' news, despite their strong start the team had been ignored when PDL officials made their first five selections of the Team of the Week, which consisted of the top 11 players from the 51 PDL teams. Week Six was different, however. Both Knox Cameron and Peter Dzubay were honored by the PDL as members of the Team of the Week. Cameron, a midfielder from the University of Michigan and a member of the U-20 US National Team, scored two goals in the Bucks' 3-1 victory over the Indiana Invaders on May 25, a win that clinched the Bucks' Open Cup berth.

Indeed it has. Most new programs require a year or two to develop, not Canton Abraham's Chiefs posted a winning record their first season, and have had a winning record in three of their four years. Last year, they were 15-10-0 and finished first in the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division.

"The foundation of a quality program is in place," said Wheaton. "Now we have to maintain it, tweak it."

"I want to turn this into a perennial top-10 team, always up there in Division I. Last year we got there, we got as high as No. 9."

Wheaton, a 1991 Salem HS graduate who now teaches history there — he got his undergraduate degree at Western Michigan in '01 — met Abraham five years ago and, when Abraham took the Canton job, became his assistant. "I learned a lot from Dan," he said, adding he has coached in the junior ranks in Plymouth, but this "is my first real (head) coaching gig."

The question that lingers is,

Why leave? It appears Canton is perhaps on the verge of becoming the kind of team Wheaton envisions. So why would Abraham leave when the program he built is on the way up?

"There are some things I want to do outside of coaching," Abraham explained. "I don't live locally, and the travel was tough."

Abraham, who lives in Allen Park and teaches physical education at Discovery Middle School, has been a head coach of a high school team for the past eight years, he was an assistant coach for the two years prior to that. As Wheaton noted, next winter will be the first Abraham hasn't been coaching or playing hockey since he was six years old.

Abraham made certain to point out his resignation had nothing to do with the people he worked with. "The last four years have been real nice non-problem years," he said. "The parents and booster club were always very supportive. It's such a positive thing, getting that type of support."

The players were special, too. "I'll always remember the great group of kids we had, all four years," he said.

"My goal was to get it off the ground, to build a program that was well-recognized. I did what I wanted to do, I did it for four years, and I had a great group of kids."

After a bit of reflection, Abraham added, "What a great way to go out, on top." Whether or not he'll coach again, he could only say it's "impossible to tell." He will provide Wheaton with any assistance he requests.

Although Wheaton has never been a head coach at the high school level, the transition should be a smooth one. In addition to a similar coaching style, he has the added advantage of being familiar with the players in the program.

"I know their personalities, their strengths and weaknesses," he said. Canton will remain a "strong forechecking team," one that's solid defensively. "It all starts in your zone," Wheaton said.

Asked if he will make any significant changes, he answered, "It's hard to say. We'll go with the same basic system, then adjust things as the season goes on, according to the situation."

Anticipate some change, but not much — no sense tinkering with a winning formula.

This learn-to-skate hockey program is geared toward beginning players. It emphasizes skill development with instruction by experienced USA Hockey-certified coaches.

The program runs from September through March. Registration forms are available at the Plymouth Cultural Center or on line at www.pchockey.org

"Heck yes, they wanted to shut them down. And they did."

After a strong first half, it seemed only a matter of time before Canton would find the net. Instead, Pioneer took command in the second.

"If we had put some balls away early, it wouldn't have been a one-goal game," said Smith. "But they played tough."

The Pioneers were the only team to blank Canton this season — and they did it twice.

Women's Open a striking success at Sunnybrook

The Professional Women's Bowling Association (PWBA) hit our town last weekend with one of the prestigious "Triple Crown" events of the tour, the Women's US Open held at Sunnybrook Lanes in Sterling Heights.

Ten Pin Alley
Al Harrison

There were more than the usual number of Detroit area bowlers entered, as the near proximity meant little or no travel expenses for the entrants. A huge starting field of 267 competitors, all vying for the TV finals, featuring the top five finishers after the qualifying rounds and match play had been completed. Lisa Bishop of Belleville nearly made the finals, winding up sixth overall. For those who watched it on TV, you already know that a very gritty young lady named Kelly Kulick from Union, N.J. took the title by climbing all the way up the stepladder to the finals. A former three-time Team USA member, Kulick came through when she had to to win every TV match and the first four victory of her career. In winning, she had to get by Leanne Barrette at the No. 4 spot. Winding up tied 213-all after 10 frames, Kulick won the extra frame(s) roll-off, 39-35. Kulick then faced and defeated 1990s Bowler of the Decade and No. 3 seed, Wendy Macpherson, 221-179. The powerful Michelle Feldman, who was voted PWBA Player of the Year, was her next victim, 256-174. And finally, she faced off against the top-seed Carolyn Dorn-Ballard. This was a real dogfight as Carolyn spared the first frame and followed with a four-bagger. Kulick responded by striking in the first six frames. The final match was dominated by Kulick, 261-195. Kelly was very emotional during the finals and once she had the title cinched was overcome by tears of joy. Another local bowler, Cheryl Daniels of West Bloomfield, had a great start, and led the field in the early qualifying rounds. She was near the top in the qualifying action and held a good position during the match play rounds when the field was cut to 24 bowlers. Daniels finished in 17th place with her dad, Booker Daniels, in her corner, rooting for her all the way. Cheryl has a lot of good friends in her home town, and many were there to cheer her on. With Bishop just missing the final cut and finishing sixth, she said, "I'm just so happy for Kelly, she finally got her first win and she really deserved it the way she bowled and we are good friends." Bishop rolled a 289 during the second game of qualifying using an inside line. But she struggled afterward and decided to play another angle. That was a good choice as she started to bowl very well. But Bishop fell short with her final two matches and missed the cut. Lisa will be headed to Terre Haute, Ind. for the next PWBA stop, the same place where she won her first pro title. She has won four national titles with one major win. Her next step is to join Aleta Sill and Michelle Mullin in the new pro shop opening on Aug. 9 at Country Lanes. Bishop will be there when not out on the tour. The pro tour is a tough grind for any bowler. Lisa bowled 56 games in the tournament plus almost as many in practice sessions. "My arm is okay," Bishop said. "A little sore, but that will go away with a day or two of rest. I have learned to be patient and not get upset after making a bad shot." Other ladies from Michigan who entered the event included Tracey Wade, Barbara Giles, Marie White and Laura Goldberg, all of Lansing; Darlene Dysart and Angela Wilt, Westland; Michelle Ewald, St. Clair Shores; Debbie Manthey, Algonac; Sheri Zaccarella, Monroe; Krista Winbigler, Eastpointe,

There were more than the usual number of Detroit area bowlers entered, as the near proximity meant little or no travel expenses.

Christine Wissinger and Tina Mikolowski, Utica; Sandy Schultz, Macomb; Carole Liebuch and Shelly Zarick, Sterling Heights; Tina Schaefer, Farmington; Kristy Hatcher, Roseville; Melissa Lynch and Phyllis Wurth, Clinton Township; Rowena Flonoury, Detroit; Erin Mulikin, Jackson; Erika Ruff, Dearborn; Darlene Gunter, Garden City; Karen Rushlow, Gibraltar; Sherry Uhlmann, Harper Woods; and Kim Steele, Clarkston. In addition, there were several foreign entrants from Denmark, Australia, Finland, Canada and Mexico. A lot of the women bowlers have come from Australia and are enjoying a lot of success here. Could it be that they come to America because they get to bowl cheaper? Aussies usually spend $8 per game. Among the audience at the U.S. Open were Dave and Carol Jacob, along with their 14-year-old son Michael. A student at Westland John Glenn, Michael's youth bowling team had just captured the Michigan State Young American Bowling Alliance championships by taking first place at Royal Scot Lanes in Lansing. The team also consists of Jeff Elswick, Geoff Glumm and Justin Collip. The quartet compete in the Western Wayne Youth Traveling Classic where Jacobs shot an 852 series to lead the way. He tied at 18-19th in the All-Events, while finishing 15th in the Male B Doubles with partner Chris Hiltunen of Westland. Jacobs was extremely proud to win a state crown because his father had won a state title a few years ago. This is a very complete bowling family from Canton and Westland. They span four generations of active participants starting with grandpa Bill Jacobs, who is in the Mayflower Senior Men's Classic League. The Jacobs are just not bowlers, but also huge enthusiasts for the sport. If there is a pro tour around, they are usually there. This game is there for all to enjoy, and the Jacobs family makes the most of it. Al Harrison is a resident of Livonia and a director of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association. OT goal carries Ladywood into regional final

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Sudden victory seems to suit Livonia Ladywood's soccer team just fine during its current state tournament run. The Blazers, coming off a 2-1 double-overtime win in the Division II district final over Dexter, ousted eighth-ranked Mason in the regional semifnals on Wednesday at home by the same 2-1 double-OT ledger. Sue Christenson scored the game-winning goal to break a 1-1 deadlock with only 38 seconds left in the second 15-minute overtime. Christenson stole a pass at midfield, dribbled through and sent the ball to teammate Sandy Swish, who one-time it back. Christenson then put the ball in side-netting. The victory puts the Blazers, 9-5-5 overall, into Saturday's regional final at home against Trenton. (Results of that match will appear in Thursday's Observer.) Mason bowed out with a 17-3-3 record.

Ladywood jumped out to a 1-0 lead with 8:40 left in the opening half on a goal by Megan Szczepka. The assist went to Swish. But the Bulldogs, members of the Capital Circuit League, tied it with only 1:37 left in regulation on Christina Timmer's header initiated off a corner kick from Skye Martin. Ladywood coach Jill Logsdon said the Blazers remained confident in overtime. She also had standout goalkeeper Stefani Szczechowski, who earlier in the match stopped breakaway attempt, as insurance. "I didn't want to go to a shootout," she said. "I'd rather take my chances before then."

Renee Skoglund

Take time to put life in a frame

Renee Skoglund died Monday following a long struggle with cancer. She wrote this column a week before her death. It is a tribute to her strength and always positive spirit.

Several years ago while in college, I fell in love with a Midwestern author, Wright Morris, who spent many years as a photographer, a calling that was often reflected in the way he set up scenes in his stories.

Through Morris, my classmates and I viewed people through windows, landscapes through barn doors, and life in general through doorways.

Morris' 72-year-old curmudgeon of a protagonist, Floyd Warner, was viewed more gently, more humanly through this literary technique.

For most of us, Warner was just a reach through a window.

I once wrote a short story, Saying Good-bye to Bernice, which to this day remains my favorite attempt at fiction. The story was inspired by my mother, who stood in her kitchen one day looking out the corner window into Bernice's yard.

"You know, I still miss Bernice," said my mom. Bernice had been dead for 10 years.

Three days later I had my story. It went on to win first place in the now defunct Detroit Monthly's annual short story contest, and first prize statewide and nationally as the Michigan Press Women's entry in fiction writing.

Bernice's entire life, as sheltered as it was, came to life through a kitchen window. The reader knew she sun dried her hair on summer mornings, smoked cigarettes while sucking in and blowing out the words to Patsy Cline songs on her porch at night. And they knew that when a strong wind came along as Bernice was pinning her husband's work shirts on the line to dry, she wore bright pink nylon panties. They also knew that Bernice was just too afraid to leave her back yard.

The point of this column, my last since I officially will have resigned for health reasons May 30, is simply this: Take time to view life through a door frame once in a while. First look at the contents of a room then go back and slowly scan. See how the sun puddles on the floor then rises through a filter of fog of dust. See the rocker piled high with discarded clothes or nothing. Make connections and see things you haven't seen before.

These rooms contain the essence of people who once occupied them, or perhaps still do.

They tell a story. They offer a chance to frame a memory.

When I came in today, a Saturday, to collect some pictures and hunt down any errant bananas I may have left in my desk, I paused before entering the big, cavernous editorial room.

It was empty then it wasn't. I saw the life, the laughter, the teamwork, and the occasional flaring temper I have seen for almost 10 years. I loved it.

It will be part of my life for ever.

Studios give dancers multiple chances to shake a leg

One, two, three and four!"
"Where's my emotion?"
"Where's my faces?"
"When you're doing frappe, your knees have to stay in the same time and place!"

It's early spring and, as any dancer in the Plymouth-Canton area knows, the sounds of recital and the upcoming summer season are in the air. There are plenty of places in the area where young and old, female and male, graceful and two-left-footed alike can participate in the artistry and activity.

According to the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, eight dance studios make Canton home, and two are in Plymouth. Everything from tap, jazz and ballet to modern, lyrical and musical theater is only a few leaps away. For these studios, the key to success in a flourishing market has been unique combinations of variety, experience and focus that keep dancers coming back.

TARGETING MARKETS

"We all hit a different target," says Jeralyne Feasel, one of the director-owners of Metro Dance in Plymouth. "We (at Metro Dance) focus on the artistry and the discipline in dance."

On a recent Thursday evening, dancers are getting in gear for their recital. In one room, a jazz class is warming up, next door, ballerinas of all ages are rehearsing this year's big number, Alexander Glaznov's The Seasons.

A little dancer with a bouquet of pink daisies runs up to Feasel and asks, "Should we go to jazz now?"

Her teacher tells her that she may, if she is finished with her part. Feasel, who has been teaching for more than 15 years, explains that her jazz dancers also are required to take ballet.

"Ballet is the foundation for pretty much all types of dancing," says Feasel. "They get their technique that's necessary, it just makes them a more well-rounded dancer."

Retiring rabbi faces new challenges

BY JUDITH DONER BERNE
CORRESPONDENT

When Sherwin Wine retires next month after 40 years as founding rabbi of Birmingham Temple, he merely will transfer his energy to his other passions.

"I'm shifting my work," says Wine, a dynamic, imposing, outspoken Birmingham resident who thinks outside the box.

"I want to work on visiting more communities, training more rabbis and doing more writing."

Wine, who at 75 operates at full throttle intellectually and physically, will continue to travel the world and to further develop the Birmingham-based Center for New Thinking, his take on community education.

The visiting, training and writing all fit his goal of securing the religion he began — Humanistic Judaism — as the fifth branch of Judaism, alongside Orthodox, Conservative, Reform and Reconstructionist.

"One of the big concerns a few years back was whether Humanistic Judaism would continue," Wine says. "People were saying, 'What's going to happen when Sherwin goes?' I hated that."

MOVEMENT GROWS

Wine estimates that 30,000 members in 12 countries consider themselves part of the Humanistic Jewish movement, with the outreach larger than that. They identify culturally, historically and traditionally with Judaism and with its ethical values, but they don't believe in God

"For us, the heart of religion is not God, prayer or worship — but human behavior," Wine said back in 1975. That was during the time when he was labeled "the atheist rabbi" and the subject of condemnation.

Today, he says, "Our focus was not to deny God but to affirm people. We're helping create something long lasting for the worlds of religion, philosophy and Judaism." Completing his fifth book, The Jews From a Humanistic Perspective, is a priority. These and other writings preserve his work the way his talks never can. That's because he speaks from a single, salmon-colored, 4-inch by 6-inch card, never writing out the full text of what he will say.

"I think very carefully about my talks," he says. "I consider the podium a barrier between the speaker and audience. For me, talking to people is a very enjoyable experience."

Those who encounter him even once are impressed by his memory, which allows him to recall historical facts as easily as he inquires after each temple member's child by name.

"It's not just his memory, it's his whole system of knowledge," explains Rabbi Adam Chalom, 27, who along with Rabbi Tamara Kolton, 32, will lead Birmingham Temple after Wine's retirement next month.

'A GENIUS'

"He's clearly a genius," Kolton adds, citing his command of world events. "But he understands it's not only the day that Napoleon conquered Europe that is important but the day that your daughter is born."

"His humor is delicious and it's really part of enjoying him." Retirement also will allow Wine to travel. Antarctica and Cuba are two of the few places he hasn't been.

"I like politically interesting trips," Wine says. "I don't sleep a lot when I travel. I walk, sometimes as much as 20 miles in a day. I know what I want to see and I don't want to waste my time. Next to philosophy my major interest has been history. Travel is my way of seeing history in the flesh. It's my greatest recreation."

Connie Wolberg, a Southfield-based travel agent and temple member, has arranged many of his trips, accompanying him on some. She is amazed at his energy, thirst for new adventure, and ability to take mishaps with humor. Her favorite story involves an over-eager guide in West Africa who took Wine and his longtime partner Richard McMains to see a witch doctor supposedly renowned for his supernatural powers.

"This somehow involved the killing of a chicken," Wolberg says. "But the chicken objected to being sacrificed and eventually Rabbi Wine and McMains joined the witch doctor, numerous family members and the guide in chasing this hysterical chicken all over the back yard. It is a vision, totally lacking in rabbinical dignity, that I will cherish forever."

Wine's wry comment "You can always learn from other clergy."

CHOOSING HIS PATH

Wine did not grow up in Detroit, bent on founding a new religion.

He came from an observant family, active in the conservative Shaarey Zedek synagogue, now in Southfield. As a philosophy student at the University of Michigan, he thought he might want to become a college professor or an attorney.

But the academic world "was less adventurous than I wanted my life to be," he said. And law fell by the wayside when he decided, "I couldn't defend someone who was guilty."

"I was always very connected to Judaism," he said. "I wanted to combine philosophy and Judaism and the thing that seemed closest to that was the Reform Rabbinate."

Even as he applied, he knew that he did not believe in God. The philosophers that he regards as his mentors — Bertram Russell, John Dewey, Jean Paul Sartre, Albert Camus, Baruch Spinoza — had already helped him shape a humanistic philosophy.

"They were my teachers," he says. "I didn't have anyone in the rabbinic world who was my mentor. They didn't agree with me. I liked being a rabbi. But I didn't like the praying," he said. "I decided I would explain to everyone what I meant by the word 'God'."

A two-year stint as a Jewish chaplain in Korea further cemented that idea and his communication skills. "The Jewish soldiers there weren't interested in praying," he said. "They were farm boys from places like central Iowa and I learned how to talk to them. They needed to be nurtured."

Returning home as assistant rabbi at Temple Beth El, now in Bloomfield Township, and then as rabbi of a new Reform congregation in Windsor, he grew increasingly uncomfortable with what he terms "God language." "Redefining a familiar word just so you can stay in the organization wasn't being honest."

That's when he left to form Birmingham Temple, which took its name from its initial gathering in the home of a Birmingham couple.

"I've always regarded myself as a philosopher-missionary," Wine says. "I've provided people a new setting for what they believe."

Although the temple eventually moved to a permanent site in Farmington Hills, Wine himself chose to move to Birmingham, a city he loves. He is a familiar figure walking its downtown and residential streets and having breakfast each morning at The Townsend Hotel.

A NEW DIRECTION

Once he retires, residents will see him regularly take a new route — from his condominium with the walled garden on the west side of Birmingham to his new library office on the east side, at Adams Square. That's where he and the faculty of the Center for New Thinking — the Rev. Harry Cook, art historian Michael Farrell and journalist Jack Lessnerberry — hold some of their classes. Others take place at the Birmingham Unitarian Church and The Community House.

The nonprofit center, which he began in 1977, is another aspect of his original mind. After teaching some adult education classes for Wayne State University, he got the idea that people might like to pay as you go for a single class on a particular subject, rather than commit to a whole semester.

"It was all about interesting people in the world of ideas. I thought I could create a forum in a more convenient place based on new books and new thinkers."

Last month, the American Humanist Society named Wine "Humanist of the Year." He joins a line up that includes philosophers, doctors, scientists and writers including Jonas Salk, Carl Sagan, Julian Huxley, Benjamin Spock, Lanus Pauling, Margaret Sanger, Kurt Vonnegut, Alice Walker and Isaac Asimov.

"I look at my life and I really like what's happened," says Wine, in a softer tone than usually characterizes his bold statements. "I feel very fulfilled because my life's work has touched a lot of people in a very positive way."

Walkathon an emotional tribute for participants

BY M B DILLON
CORRESPONDENT

Even in death, George and Betty Andrews of Plymouth are helping the estimated 35,000 people in Michigan who suffer with Parkinson's disease, a neurological disorder that causes slow movement, tremors, muscle rigidity and imbalance.

More than 250 people participated in the recent George and Betty Andrews Memorial "I Gave My Sole for Parkinson's" Walkathon and 5K Run at Maybury State Park. Together they raised more than $15,000 for the Michigan Parkinson Foundation.

Randy Lambertus, 23, of Ann Arbor was the overall 5K winner in 17:41. Sara Freatman, 41, of Ypsilanti was the female 5K winner in 24:00.

George Andrews, 75, head of the physical therapy department at Farmington Hills' Botsford Hospital, died of leukemia last September. His wife Betty - who had Parkinson's - died three weeks later. Betty Andrews was retired from Schoolcraft College where she was assistant dean of community services.

'A MIRACLE'

The mile was non-competitive. But as Warren Oberlee, 47, of White Lake crossed the finish line, tears welled up in the eyes of friends and family. "Considering where Warren came from, it is really a miracle to see him function the way he is now," said Tom Richardson of Milford, who served as race director along with Dave Bartzak of Huntington Woods and Debby Orloff-Davidson of Farmington Hills. Richardson is a physical therapist assistant at Botsford's Total Rehabilitation & Athletic Conditioning Center (TRACC), which helped put on the race.

"If you would have seen Warren a short while ago, you wouldn't believe it was the same person. He couldn't dress himself or drive. He would tire out just trying to walk a short distance," Richardson said. "He was just about incapacitated. The guy is really a miracle - and a terrific guy and lots of fun to boot."

Oberlee, who with his wife Patricia and daughters Amanda and Katelyn also helped stage the race, has fought Parkinson's with surgery, medication and rehabilitative exercise at TRACC.

"I felt good crossing the finish line. I was pleased I was able to make it," said Oberlee, facilitator of the Waterford-West Bloomfield Parkinson support group, also known as the "Movers and Shakers." "I've been training and walking at TRACC, about two-and-a-half to three miles a week." Oberlee also raised $875 in pledges for the walkathon.

Some of the more than 250 people participating in the George and Betty Andrews Memorial 'I Gave My Sole for Parkinson's' Walkathon taking off from the starting line. Participants helped raise more than $15,000 for the Michigan Parkinson Foundation.

Proceeds will assist the Michigan Parkinson Foundation in training support-group leaders, sponsoring educational programs, defraying newsletter costs, and helping pay for care and medication.

The Andrewses' son, Greg, a Seattle architect, flew in for the event. "This is just real touching to see this kind of thing come together and so many people responding," he said.

AN INSPIRATION

Greg said his mother was an inspiration. "She struggled with Parkinson's for many years," he said. "She was amazing - an inspiration to the family."

She never complained. "I think that's the reason you see so many people responding," he said. "They remember that."

Richardson agreed. "Betty was very loving, very kind, and compassionate," he said. "And phenomenally active in the community." said race co-director Orloff-Davidson, chief operating officer of the Michigan Parkinson Foundation.

Michigan Parkinson Foundation leaders (from left to right) David Bartzak, Parkinson group facilitator in Royal Oak and co-director of the walkathon; Debby Orloff-Davidson, chief operating officer for the MPF and co-director of the walkathon; Warren Oberlee, Waterford/West Bloomfield group facilitator and volunteer greeter for the event; Diane McQuiston, MPF executive assistant and walkathon volunteer; and Sophie Tomich, Parkinson Downriver group facilitator and event volunteer.

The Andrewses' three daughters - Christina Courtney of Franklin, Tenn.; Janis Burleson of Plymouth; and Laurie Butman of Ypsilanti and their children also attended.

Carol Poenisch of Northville teaches physical education at John Glenn High School in Westland. She offered her students extra credit if they completed the walkathon or run.

Not only did Glenn junior Tiffany Morgan walk the 3.1 miles with her teacher, but she brought six relatives and friends with her - including her mother, Barbara Correa, who race-walked on just three hours sleep, having worked the late shift at Ford the night before. Co-worker Kiley Mitchell of Westland did the same.

Setting off with them down the wide ribbon of black top at Maybury were Tiffany's sisters, Sara, 12, and Renea, 11, and friends Meghan Glass, 11, and Kala Contway, 12, also of Westland.

You couldn't have asked for a better result for a first-time event, said Orloff-Davidson. She credited TRACC, fellow race directors Tom Richardson and Dave Bartzak, and volunteers Jennifer Lantz of Birmingham, Ilene Hafner of Huntington Woods, Paul Hendricks of Northville, the Oberlees and Michigan Parkinson Foundation staffers Diane McQuiston of Farmington Hills and Sophie Tomich of Allen Park.

Corporate partners and sponsors of the event included Park West Galleries, Community Emergency Medical Service, J. Walter Thompson, Quest Research, Wolverine Orthotics, GlaxoSmithKline, Buddy's Pizza, Aquafina, Botsford Hospital, Botsford's Total Rehabilitation & Athletic Conditioning Center, Henry Ford Health System, Michigan Neurology Institute, Providence Hospital, Running Fit, St. John Hospital and Medical Center, Great Harvest Bread Company, Estate Planning Service, Direct Medical Services, Advanced Printwear, Meyer of Northville and Beaver Tile and Stone of Farmington Hills.

For more information on Parkinson's contact the Michigan Parkinson Foundation at 30161 Southfield Road, Suite 119, Southfield, Mich. 48076 or (800)852-9781.

Now in its sixth year, Metro bases its classical ballet training upon the popular Cecchetti Method, a system based on the standards and methods of ballet master Enrico Cecchetti, which involves mastering various levels of the discipline and then taking exams

The studio's programs range from children to pre-professional and focus on proper technique

"We just do a little bit of competition," says Stephanie Plansker, Metro Dance's co-owner and an instructor of 13 years "We're not into the trophies"

The studio's curriculum also includes tap, hip-hop, modern/lyrical, an extensive adult program and certified pilates training

"I'd gone to two other places and they just weren't giving me what I needed," says 16-year-old student Marissa Malcolm, who takes Cecchetti, ballet, pointe and jazz "I got hooked. It's given me a lot of confidence"

REPUTATION GROWING

On the second floor of the Summit on the Park community center in Canton, the summer season for Dancin' Feet is beginning

"What is the summer intensive program?" dance instructor George Hurley asks 18

adolescent jazz dancers

After a few guesses, he explains "It's a class that helps you improve to your full potential" And for the next two hours, Hurley leads the young ladies through a rigorous routine

Dancin' Feet, run in collaboration with Canton Leisure Services, has offered training in ballet, pointe, tap, jazz and lyrical for the past 20 years

Cheryl Reitz, who has been running the program since its birth, has seen the studio's reputation grow primarily from word-of-mouth

"I think the staff is exceptional, in their training and what they've been able to do," says Reitz, who has been dancing since age 4 "We have just found a blend that has worked for us"

For instance, Hurley, who has been at Dancin' Feet since 1995, has been named Mr Dance of Michigan three times

He received his dance training at Joanne's Dance Extension in Plymouth and teaches there, as well

"All the teachers are professionals and they've been trained (by) good teachers," many from the area, according to Hurley

One such student, Jessica Ratts, 13, has taken tap, jazz, ballet, pointe and lyrical dance at Dancin' Feet for several years

"You don't have to take competition if you don't want to," says Ratts "I don't feel behind"

"We do try to offer a high-quality, fun and enjoyable dance atmosphere," says Reitz "I don't know if people understand how lucky they are with the amount of dance training you can get in this area. There's just room for all the dance studios to cohabit peacefully"

UNLIMITED POSSIBILITIES

The recital is also finished at Dance Unlimited in Plymouth, but this Monday afternoon, students are returning to get pictures taken

"This way the costumes stay intact for the recital," explains director Barbara Raschke, who is busy knitting an afghan in her cubby office as dancers and their parents flutter by to ask questions

Raschke, whose studio has been located in the city for the past 25 years, says she always does "little extras," whether running to CVS, looking for bunny ears or tea-staining white lace to give costumes an antique look

Operating a "general dance program that involves all spectrums" Raschke, who teaches ballet, creative movement and preballet, incorporates quality training with recreation

"I truly feel that dance is not a competitive sport," says Raschke

"It's supposed to be expressive and graceful, and it's too subjective to really judge. We're in recreation and arts education"

In this year's recital, held May 31 at Salem, Raschke's dancers presented The Ugly Duckling, a one-act ballet featuring Raschke's choreography, and Suspense Action Drama, a second act with modern, tap and jazz

"Each studio does have its own philosophy," says Raschke "It's an activity that they can do through their lifetime if they choose to"

NEW MOVES

Back in Canton, near the Plymouth-Canton border, Central City Dance is the new kid on the block

Tim Smola, one of the director-owners who has a bachelor of fine arts in dance from the University of Michigan and 13 years of teaching experience, had planned to head to New York

The reason he didn't? "I fell in love with my wife," explains Smola. He met Tamara Nastev-Smola at a previous dance studio, and the two opened one of their own last August

The husband-wife team offers an extensive curriculum including ballet, tap, jazz, lyrical, hip-hop, Cecchetti, pilates, musical theater, theater, cheerleading, pompon, Hawaiian, pilates and even modeling

"We plunged into it and we're really happy we did," says Smola

All of our teachers are trained in all genres of dance. We're young and vibrant, full of energy"

So far, the studio has attracted around 400 students, according to Smola

"We try to offer them something other than just taking lessons," says Nastev-Smola, an active member of the Cecchetti Council of America-Professional Ballet Syllabus

Hip-hop dancing is one of the studio's most popular forms, attracting everyone from young "NSYNC aspirants to a 70-year-old man

CT scan is cutting-edge diagnostic technology

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON
 STAFF WRITER

Imagine radiology technology so advanced it has the ability to stop all motion and produce such high resolution images it's as if you're looking inside the human body with a three-dimensional view.

Advanced Imaging of Michigan, located in Troy, was the first facility in the state to have the 16 slice Multi-Detector Siemens CT scanner. According to Dr. Roger Fenton, AIM medical director, he and his staff began offering this state of the art technology in March to physician-referred patients as well as individuals wanting wellness scans.

The technology of a CT or CAT scan (computed tomography) allows radiologists to capture hundreds of X-rays taken from numerous angles in the body. The integration of the images together creates an likeness so clear and realistic it gives doctors a view of the body in the same way they would in an operating room.

"The technology is amazing," said Fenton, medical director at AIM in Troy and the MRI Center of Oakland. "This will undoubtedly revolutionize diagnostic readings, the quality of the scans and the turn around time for a diagnosis. Not only that but we're giving patients the opportunity to detect issues early enough, long before we could have seen things with traditional scans and X-rays, so that they can deal with the disease before it becomes a matter of life and death."

"This gives us a lot more options and there are a lot more things we can see in just one exam."

According to Fenton, CT was first offered in the early 1980s and it provided physicians with more definite images than X-rays provided of both bone structure and soft tissues. This improvement in the quality of the CT gave us a clearer picture of the body's organs but it had its drawbacks, too. It was a lengthy process that could take almost an hour and we could only view the images in one dimension."

Fast forward 20 years and Fenton is looking at scans in three dimension with more accuracy than he could have ever imagined.

"It's like you're driving through the body providing patients with the most accurate diagnosis possible in a fraction of the time it took two decades ago. This is the latest and great in CT scan technology," he said. "The frames are as thin as a pathology slice, about 1 mm, and can be viewed at any dimension. We can manipulate the image any way we want in the highest quality possible with exquisite definition. This is high-tech medicine."

TECHNOLOGICAL ADVANCES

The Multi-Detector Siemens CT Scanner captures 32 slices a second creating in excess of 1,200 images for a full body scan. The frames or images can be viewed individually or together to see how an organ relates to other structures in the body.

Most importantly, the technology turns many procedures that were previously invasive into non-invasive virtual scans, eliminating the risk associated with procedures such as a colonoscopy and diagnostic cardiac arteriogram.

During a virtual colonoscopy, the CT technology captures images of surrounding organs that can provide early warning signs of gall bladder, kidney and pancreatic disease in addition to creating the most realistic and up-close view of the colon ever seen. While doctors recommend individuals over 50 having the test done every three-four years, physicians are aware that the preparation and discomfort many people feel before and during the exam create enough anxiety that they are willing to accept the risk and go without the test.

Sixty-year-old Southfield attorney Richard J. Maddin had a CT scan and virtual colonoscopy done earlier this year at Advanced Imaging of Michigan after striking up a conversation with Fenton at the facility where they both work out.

"Ironically, I had a traditional colonoscopy already scheduled, because I have a concerned and loving wife, but I started talking with Dr. Fenton and he was telling me about this new technology. I had heard the traditional procedure for a colonoscopy wasn't too user-friendly. I'm not afraid of medicine or procedures but the idea of the anesthesia, missing a day's worth of work and the invasiveness of the scope didn't make me want to sign up, but I was going to do it anyway," said Maddin.

The West Bloomfield resident made another appointment at AIM and says he was "awestruck" by the definition of the images. "They produced a winner with this one. I was blown away at what the scan showed. I think the benefits outweigh any cost issue. They didn't sell me on this. I sold myself."

Maddin's results were positive all around. "It showed me what I wanted to see and took away the apprehension because it wasn't invasive," added Maddin.

A CT Angiography is also less invasive thanks to the Multi-Detector scanner. In the past if a cardiologist wanted to take a look at a patient's vascular system, he or she had to make an incision and insert a rubber catheter through the femoral artery in the groin up to the heart. Today, with an intravenous injection for contrast dye, in a matter of seconds the clarity of a CT Angiography can supply the same diagnostic information without being invasive but with even more detail. Cardiac Calcium Scoring helps doctors calculate your risk of heart attack. The scan is also non-invasive and clearly depicts early plaque buildup in the arteries.

Having seen traditional X-rays it might be hard to believe this is an actual body scan of a patient's chest and abdomen area. The technology of the Siemens scan offers a three dimensional view of the body for improved detection and diagnosis of illness.

al most wellness exams are not covered by insurance but his office offers flexible payment plans and accepts all major credit cards. Most insurance companies do cover diagnostic CT for patients referred by a physician but it varies greatly from provider to provider.

Fenton says if you are 35 and older and have a history of family illness you might want to talk to your doctor about the benefits of a wellness scan. Fenton says they "welcome patients who want to be proactive about their health care" and will take the time to find out if they are a candidate for a scan before making an appointment.

Fenton has more than 25 years experience in the field of radiology and says this CT scanning technology is cutting edge. Known as a leader in preventive health care, he established The Woman's Breast Centers in 1985 and was among the first in the country to recommend breast exams beginning at age 40.

"The bottom line is this technology will undoubtedly change the way doctors and radiologists assess a patient's symptoms and improve the quality of care by making procedures less invasive, less time-consuming and more importantly more beneficiary in detecting and treating diseases," said Fenton.

To learn more about the Multi-Detector Siemens CT Scanner visit www.advancedimagingofmi.com or call (248) 816 9900. Advanced Imaging of Michigan is located at 2401 W. Big Beaver Suite 101 in Troy.

LESS TIME

Images of the lungs, head, heart, abdomen and pelvis can be viewed immediately in two and three dimensions, allowing doctors to "literally drive through a patient's body, looking for unexpected bumps in the road - polyps or growths that cannot be detected."

The virtual colonoscopy doesn't eliminate the need for a traditional procedure if something questionable is found during the exam. Fenton said then a patient is referred back to his or her physician who schedules the traditional colonoscopy. Another benefit of the scan is that the CT study of the colon also provides images of the entire abdomen, enabling doctors to identify underlying illnesses. Viewing surrounding organs can be used as a problem-solving tool and help doctors better prepare for surgery.

Not only does the Multi-Detector CT Scanner produce hundreds of images in a matter of seconds, it doesn't leave the patient feeling claustrophobic because you simply pass through a doughnut-shaped apparatus as opposed to being enclosed like that of an MRI machine.

While most people undergo scans once a health-related issue arises, there has been some debate as to whether "wellness" scans are necessary and how much added costs to insurance companies are involved. Fenton said in gener-

IT ISN'T WATER ON THE KNEE

When you experience knee swelling you may be told you have "water on the knee." That designation is incorrect. The fluid that accumulates in the knee after injury or inflammation is far more sophisticated than water.

That fluid is called synovial fluid. It is present normally in the knee and exhibits several unique properties. One is viscosity. Knee fluid flows more like oil than like water and like motor oil. Synovial fluid functions as a lubricant. In the case of the knee joint, the function is to allow the cartilage of the femur and the tibia to glide smoothly over each other with a minimum of friction. Synovial fluid absorbs pressure that comes from a fall, dissipating forces that would otherwise tear cartilage or bone. Synovial fluid also carries nutrients to cartilage cells and carries away waste products from the metabolism of tissues that line the knee joint.

Excess fluid develops after injury or inflammation. The pain you feel comes from distention of the knee joint capsule caused by the pressure of the increased fluid. In instances of inflammation the joint fluid contains white blood cells and often carries bacteria or gout crystals if such are the cause. Thus, one of your doctor's goals when he identifies a swollen knee is to remove and analyze the joint fluid.

Knee fluid is not water, but a tribute to the ingenuity of nature, and another example of the sophistication of our makeup to the smallest degree.

Stylish Troy condos provide gracious style of living

Twenty-eight condominiums, attached four to a building, invite buyers to a low-maintenance, gracious style of living at Maya's Meadows in Troy.

The community, constructed by Meram Building, is off Rochester Road just north of Wattles.

"You're centrally located in the city of Troy, very close to all the shopping malls, outlet centers, restaurants," said Sam Meram.

"Troy has such exceptional resale value due to exemplary schools," said Cindy Grunow, a Realtor with Century 21 Town & Country and sales representative at Maya's Meadows.

"A lot of people looking already live in Troy," she added. "They want to stay. They want new. People like the look. Many people think they're single family homes. The view from the street is great."

"It's an elegant, casual atmosphere," Grunow said. "They (prospective buyers) like the floor plan, layout, yet don't have the upkeep of a home."

Two floor plans are available. Middle units, two-story floor plans of 1,800 square feet, with three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths, carry a base price of $269,000. End units, story-and-a-half of 2,210 square feet, also with three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths, go for $345,900.

But buyers aren't necessary beholden to a what-you-see-is-what-you-get philosophy.

"We have an in-house architect and engineer so we can draw up (interior) modifications," Meram said. "We're here to please people and give them what they want."

Meram Building truly is a family enterprise, with Sam's sons Frank, civil engineer, Irvin, architect, and Jason, construction management, involved.

That's a big plus for potential purchasers, too, Grunow said.

"They like the quality of workmanship. They look at the construction, look at the drywall. They like the openness, the airy feeling, the size of rooms."

Both styles of homes include a base price two-car garage, air conditioning, fireplace, first-floor laundry, wood deck and basement.

Also standard are refrigerator, oven, microwave and dishwasher, wood or ceramic flooring in the foyer, hallway, kitchen/nook, ceramic baths and laundry, and carpeting throughout, plus 16 recessed lights in the larger home, nine in the smaller.

Well-designed angles give end residences a sharp-looking appearance.

'We're here to please people and give them what they want.'

Sam Meram
Meram Building

Landscaping also is included. Brick and vinyl siding are primary exterior materials.

The story-and-a-half features a living room/dining area with sloped ceiling. The kitchen/nook has a pass-through wall and sink oriented toward the main entertaining area of the home so folks preparing meals or cleaning up can be included in activities.

The first-floor master includes a combination tub/shower and walk-in closet. A bridge on the second floor overlooks the great room. A loft, two bedrooms and full bath with shower are upstairs.

The two-story includes a living room, dining area and kitchen with built-in desk on the main floor. The master with cathedral ceiling, walk-in closet, two-sink vanity and shower is upstairs, as are two secondary bedrooms and a bath with combination tub/shower.

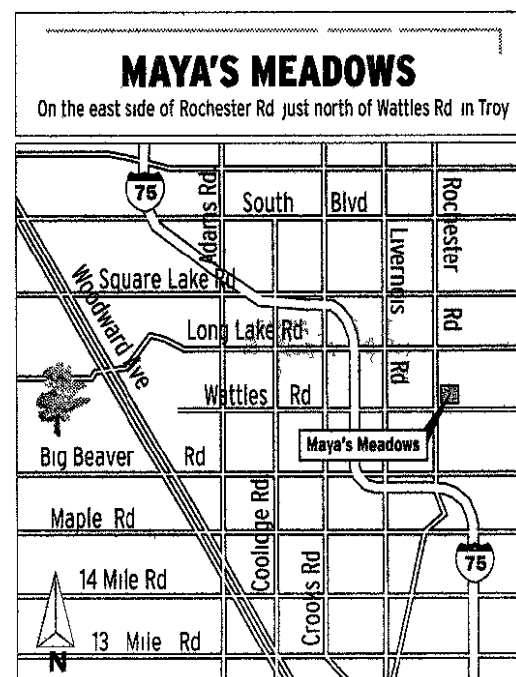

Maya's Meadows is serviced by city water and sewers. It's within the Troy public school boundaries.

The property tax rate is $35.73 per $1,000 of state taxable value, half of sales price for new construction.

That means the owners of a $269,000 home there would pay about $4,800 the first year.

The monthly association fee is $125. All utilities are individually metered. Pets are allowed.

The sales models at Maya's Meadows are open 1-6 p.m. weekdays, noon to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, closed Thursday or by appointment with Grunow at (248) 526-2108.

The Richland will fit those odd-shaped lots

Versatile home has good eye appeal, excellent dimensions

The Richland is a versatile home in that it is narrow so it will fit those odd shaped lots. It's an excellent size to be either a first time homeowner's dream or the home for the empty nester. It has good eye appeal from the street with its clean lines, large windows, and a two-car garage that is set back and does not protrude too far beyond the rest of the home.

Crossing the covered porch, the entry to the Richland is a small alcove with a coat closet on the left. Straight forward is the great room and to the left are bedrooms. The great room has a large fireplace on the rear wall with a window on each side overlooking the backyard. Sliding glass doors on the left side open onto a covered porch in the rear.

A large dining area and the kitchen complete the large great room. The kitchen is in the right front corner. There is an 'L' shaped counter with a pantry on the end along with an island containing dual sinks and an eating bar. It is open and facing the main great room. Stairs to an optional basement are across from the kitchen. The basement if finished could have 1,333 square feet of usable space.

The bedrooms are on each side of the home. On the left are two bedrooms with a full bath between. Bedroom two has a wall closet and two windows that bathe the room in natural light. Bedroom three has a corner walk-in closet and large windows overlooking the front yard. The full bath has a tub, single sink, and a linen closet.

Behind the two-car garage, sheltering it from the noise of the street, is the master suite. The main suite area is in the rear and has coffered ceilings. Through the master bath with a single sink and a tub is an elongated walk-in closet. Three windows spaced around the suite provide great light for the room and spread out so placing furniture is easy.

Adjacent to the master suite and just off the kitchen is the utility room. A door in the hall shuts the room off from the rest of the home, whereas a door to the garage makes easy access for unloading groceries and packages.

For a study plan including scaled floor plan(s), elevations, section(s), and an artist rendering, send $24.95 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Road E, Cottage Grove, OR 97424. Please specify plan name (Richland) and the number (D6787). A catalog featuring hundreds of home plans is available for $12.95 or save by ordering both for $29.95. Luxury homes worry fire chief

(AP) - Luxury homes under construction in remote, fire-prone mountains of western Colorado worry a fire chief who wonders if he would have enough time and equipment to save them.

Some of the construction is on land burned over by last summer's Panorama fire, a blaze authorities blamed on sparks from a saw used by a crew building a house. The 1,700-acre fire destroyed two homes.

"This growth is hurting the fire departments," Carbondale Fire Chief Ron Leach told Garfield County commissioners.

Leach told commissioners the developers of one mountain subdivision were required to make roads and driveways wide enough to accommodate fire trucks and ensure adequate water for firefighters through hydrants or storage tanks.

Homeowners in the subdivision will be required to thin or remove vegetation from a safety zone around their houses and to install sprinkler systems inside.

"I don't know what else to have them do," Leach said. "We held them to a pretty high bar."

The development is nine miles up a steep, narrow road from Carbondale, where crews would start in the event of a fire. It will eventually include 26 houses, all of them at least 8,000 square feet and two of them 12,000 square feet.

County Commissioner Larry McGowan questioned how long the safety zones around the houses would remain clear of flammable growth.

Let's Talk About
Real Estate

"TIME AND PRICE"

There is almost always a direct relationship between the amount of time a house is on the market and its actual sale price. The market weary house arouses the concerns of the buying public that something must be wrong with either its price or condition. Here are the things you, as the seller, can do to get the top dollar and shorten the market time.

PRICE IT RIGHT

What is the right asking price? The amount that will give you the most possible and still be competitive with the asking price of similar homes. Remember, nothing sells until buyers take a look. Ask your Realtor to give you all the facts on the asking price of other properties now for sale. You only have one chance to make a first impression on potential buyers. Make it count.

APPEARANCE

Look at your home as a buyer would evaluate it. What catches your eye that needs a little touch up or fix up? Don't be penny wise and pound foolish. A little money spent before you put your house on the market will come back to you in a quick sale at an attractive price.

CO-OPERATION

Work with your Realtor as your partner. The Realtor provides multiple listing services, advertising expertise, referral sources, negotiating and closing skills. You also make a valuable contribution to the sale by allowing buyers to see it when they need to see the house. Be sure not to interfere with the showing itself. Let the Realtor take the buyers through the house and remain available for questions.

ADVICE: There is a relationship between market time and selling price. You and your Realtor, working together, can get the job done.

Mansion up for auction must go

(AP) - A 200-year-old historic estate made almost entirely of hand-cut stone and considered to be a sophisticated example of English Palladian architecture is on the auction block for as little as $100,000

But there's a catch. The new owner of the Isaac Meason House in Dunbar Township, about 40 miles southeast of Pittsburgh, must remove each door, window and piece of woodwork, dismantle every stone and move the building to a new location.

The current owners of the 2-1/2 story house, Terry and Diane Kriss, acknowledge it's unusual to sell a structure and not its land. They know it's even more unusual for one of fewer than 2,500 National Historic Landmarks in the country to be up for auction on eBay.

The problem, according to the Krisses, is that encroaching residential, commercial and industrial development is depreciating the sites value.

The professional antique dealers say they can't afford to both renovate and maintain the mansion and fight Fayette County planning officials, who the Krisses say don't appreciate the site's historic significance.

So the Meason House is now on sale online.

'I love this home. I cried for this home. I fought for this home,' Terry Kriss said. "There are no more avenues left for me to save this home. It can only get worse, and I know it will."

Despite the site's status, and its place on the National Register of Historic Places, the Krisses can sell the property and the new owners can dismantle it because it's privately owned.

But if the property is moved, it probably will lose its status because the National Park Service considers location when it places sites on the register, said Beth Savage, an architecture historian with the register.

The house was designed by English architect and stonemason Adam Wilson for Isaac Mason, a colonel in the Revolutionary War and an industrialist.

Completed in 1802, the mansion sits on the site where George Washington established the first permanent English settlement in the new frontier in 1753.

Also known as Mount Braddock and the Dr. Christopher Gist Plantation, the estate contains a 5,500-square-foot main house, a smoke house and former slave quarters.

"It's a 200-year-old time capsule. It's in the same league as Monticello and Mount Vernon," Terry Kriss said.

The Krisses acknowledge the estate didn't sit on a rambling, isolated plot when the family bought it in 1977, three homes and an autobody salvage yard sat just outside their plot.

According to the Krisses and Tammy Shell, the executive director of the Fayette County office of Planning, Zoning and Community Development, the salvage yard has grown over the years and more development, including a shopping mall, have grown around the Meason House.

The Krisses liken their property to a four-acre island in a sea of development and call their 1,000-foot driveway an "umbilical cord."

The way they see it, just when they think the development can't inch any closer, it does.

The couple unsuccessfully fought a strip mining company from harvesting coal within 800 feet of the main house. They did, however, win the right to limit the company's blasting level as they mined from 1990 to 2002.

But in 1999, the Krisses successfully stopped the construction of a cellular telephone tower within feet of their property.

The county planning office has tried to work with the Krisses, Shell said, but can't give them special treatment just because they own a historic property.

If the Meason House weren't a private property and was open to tourists like museums are, the county might consider special zoning around the property, Shell said.

Small piece of land causes dispute

(AP) - A small piece of land is at the heart of a big dispute involving city officials and two local families.

Each of the three sides says it is the rightful owner.

At issue is property near Manoka Lake on the city's southwest side. Greenville is about 35 miles northeast of Grand Rapids. The land is next to the home of Gene and Holly Noble and across the street from the home of Earl and Polly Boatwright.

Daniel Burns, the Nobles' attorney, said the triangular-shaped plot in dispute measures about 51 feet by 59 feet by 65 feet. A trial to determine the land's rightful owner is scheduled July 21-22.

Earl and Polly Boatwright bought their home in 1965. The couple say they took care of the disputed parcel for 38 years and own it by adverse possession.

Adverse possession allows someone to obtain title to a property from the actual owner simply by openly and continuously using the land for a long time.

It wasn't until the Nobles moved in five years ago that the Boatwrights' ownership claim was challenged. The

'We didn't know he owned it or cared to own it.'

Polly Boatwright involved in lawsuit

Daily News reported

After a disagreement with the city over a zoning ordinance's effect on the Nobles' new garage and driveway, Gene Noble sought a quitclaim deed and deeded himself the parcel on Sept. 29, 1998.

With the land added to the Nobles' existing property, the city was temporarily satisfied that the couple did not need to remove the garage or driveway.

After further review, the city wrote to Burns in November 2000 and questioned whether Noble had a proper claim to the property. It says an assessor's plat of the area made in 1932 shows that the city owns the land. City Manager George Bosanic said if residents' quitclaim deeds go unchallenged, the land becomes their private property.

"So that's what we've done," Bosanic said. "We're challenging the deed."

Public land cannot be adversely possessed. But G.R. "Pete" Frye, the Boatwrights' lawyer, said the parcel does not belong to the city or any other public entity.

The Boatwrights sued the Nobles over ownership of the property in May 2001.

It happened after Gene Noble chopped down a tree on the disputed plot - a tree that the Boatwrights had planted years ago.

"We didn't know he owned it or cared to own it," Polly Boatwright said.

In August 2001, the city's lawyers submitted a legal brief in support of Greenville's motion to intervene in the lawsuit.

Permission to intervene was granted in April 2002, and the city claimed ownership of the land in a counterclaim against the Boatwrights and a cross-claim against the Nobles.

Burns called the intervention "a real backdoor maneuver on the city's part."

Chimps calling house home upsetting to neighbors

(AP) - The University of Louisiana-Lafayette has a real animal house, and the neighbors are upset - not because of a fraternity, but because chimpanzees are living there.

It's part of a psychology experiment studying relationships of primates and humans living together.

The research is headed by Daniel Povinelli, director of the university's Child Studies Center, which focuses research on cognitive development, or knowledge and perception.

Wendell Bares and other neighbors said the animals are an insult to the memory of the late Winn Hawkins and his wife, the former Mabel Roy, whose will left use of the house to the university.

The current use of the house also violates terms of the Hawkins' will, neighbors said.

"The neighbors don't feel that this type of activity should be conducted in any residential neighborhood," said Bares, an attorney who lives directly across the street.

"It violates the specific restrictions under which the university accepted the (home). And it's an affront to the legacy of the Hawkinses," Bares said.

University President Ray Authement, in a long written statement, said he agreed to let the home be used for research involving chimpanzees and humans.

An out-of-town family who owns three young chimpanzees have agreed to allow the chimpanzees to work with researchers.

"Opportunities like these in our home setting are too valuable to pass up," Authement said.

The chimpanzees are kept in a large play area inside the home and are observed interacting with humans in the home and performing activities, such as eating at a table.

Records show that that when the university accepted accepting the house in 1988, it agreed to oppose any change in its residential zoning classification.

It also agreed to use the home only for a faculty club or for faculty residential use.
