State Sen Bruce Patterson (R Canton) a member of the Downriver Council of the Arts and the Belleville Council of the Arts announced the grants Thursday

City deficits projected out 5 years

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

When Plymouth Commissioner Ron Loiselle studied city budget projections that forecast general fund deficits the next five years, including $2.4 million in the 2008-09 fiscal year, his jaw literally dropped

"I was shocked," Loiselle said "I was expecting the $1.2 million for next year (2003-04), but I wasn't expecting more than a million dollars short every year for the next four or five years"

Finance Director Mark Christiansen gave the sobering facts Thursday night to a subcommittee that will eventually ask voters whether they want to raise taxes or reduce services to balance future city budgets

According to figures released by Christiansen, the budget deficit for the 2004-05 fiscal year is estimated at $1.16 million, $1.47 million in 2005-06, $1.78 million in 2006-07, $2.1 million in 2007-08, and $2.4 million in 2008-09

"Tax revenues for the next five years are basically going to flatten out from where they've been historically," Christiansen said "I projected a decline in state shared revenues in the current year, another 3 percent next year, and then slight increases the rest of the projection. It's never going to come back to what it was because of our loss in population

"If my projections are valid, and I do feel comfortable with them, we will be almost $2.5 million in the hole (in 2008-09) without addressing future operational concerns or revenues," he added "We've got cost increases that we don't have all that much control over"

The subcommittee was estab-

Bill would create 4-day school week

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

A bill that would allow school districts to cut the number of school days is awaiting Gov Jennifer Granholm's signature in Lansing

The new legislation, passed by both the House and Senate, would give districts the opportunity to have longer school days, but shorter weeks, in an effort to give financially-battered school districts a chance to save money

Currently, districts need to hold at least 180 days of class and 1,098 hours of class time each year

Depending on whom you ask, the bill can be interpreted as either good or bad

"I think that would be cool, as long as it didn't affect summer vacation," said 17-year-old Stephen Hogg of Plymouth "I don't think it would be too long a day, as long as you get a lunch break. You'd get a nice, relaxing weekend. Two days isn't enough

Ex-deputy throws hat in clerk race

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

While the political ring hasn't really even been constructed for the 2004 election, there's already one hat in it in Plymouth Township

Sandy Groth, the former deputy clerk who resigned earlier this year, has announced her candidacy for Plymouth Township clerk. She'll be among those vying to replace current Clerk Marilyn Massengill, who has said in the past she will not seek re-election next year

"I think I have the knowledge and the experience, and the right motivation, and I want to positively impact the direction the township takes," Groth said "I believe I was born to serve the public. That's something I would enjoy"

Groth, who served as Massengill's deputy from 1999 until she quit in February, has lived in the Plymouth community since 1969, and moved to Plymouth Township with her husband, Fire Chief Larry Groth, in 1994

Groth has never commented publicly on why she left her position, but she said she was getting encourage-

GEM LAB

O&D Bush Jewelers of Plymouth has earned the American Gem Society Accredited Gem Lab certificate, one of some 500 labs in North America. An accredited gem lab includes a binocular microscope, five AGS master diamonds used for grading diamond color, various gemological instruments essential to providing complete and accurate gemological identifications, and a library of gemological reference books. Donald E. Bush, a certified gemologist of the American Gem Society, will direct the lab. In addition to having a technically skilled jeweler on staff who has earned the certified gemologist or certified gemologist appraiser title, a firm must also meet additional requirements to become certified as an accredited gem lab. The American Gem Society, founded in 1934, is considered the standard of excellence in the jewelry industry. AGS awards titles to member jewelers only after they've had extensive experience in the industry and are recognized as expert and ethical professionals by their peers. For more information, call (702) 255-6500, or visit the society's Web site, www.ags.org

the Lord, How Beautiful, Ave Maria and more. Jarrell will also greet fans and sell her CD at the Plymouth Salvation Army booth all weekend. A portion of the sales of her CD during the festival weekend will be donated to the non-profit organization. "I always look forward to returning to my hometown and to give back to the community that gave so much to me. I have so many fond memories of Belleville and singing in front of my family and friends makes it extra special for me," said Jarrell.

PACE YOURSELF

PACE Yourself-Women's 30 Minute Workout & Weightloss, located on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth, will host an open house from 6-9 p.m. Thursday, June 19. Annual fund-raiser draws money for MDA

BY BRAD KADRICH

The jail wasn't real, and neither were the "crimes" for which people were "locked up." But the feeling of doing something good was very real as a variety of people gathered at Station 885 for the 2003 Plymouth Lock-Up for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Although final figures weren't available at press time, MDA officials said the annual fund-raising event netted some $20,000. "It went extremely well," said Donna Pattison, MDA's "fun parole officer." "The people from Plymouth really helped out MDA. They were very generous."

Money from the lock-up goes to help fund a variety of MDA programs, including several clinics in Michigan, among them Detroit, East Lansing and Farmington Hills. It also funds research programs done at the University of Michigan, Michigan State and Wayne State.

MDA summer camps in Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids and Lansing also get money. Approximately 40 people were locked up at

It's such a great opportunity, not just to get involved in the community, but to support a good cause, said restaurant manager Kim Buerkle. "MDA is something that affects everybody in some way. I think everyone knows someone affected by muscular disease in some way."

Bank breaks ground at township site

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

For years, the old Plymouth party store and New York deli buildings stood empty and decaying, with Plymouth Township officials hoping for someone to come in and rescue the Ann Arbor Road location.

On Thursday, officials at New Liberty Bank solved that problem, with a ceremonial ground-breaking that served as a precursor to construction of a new 20,000-square-foot facility.

New Liberty Bank's chief officers, currently operating out of a much smaller space in downtown Plymouth, said this latest milestone will lead to a much greater ability to serve the bank's burgeoning list of customers.

"We just passed another milestone, $50 million in assets," said Mike Weaver, the bank's president and chief executive officer. "We do hope to keep a presence downtown, and we're very appreciative of our customers who have supported us at our present location. We will now be able to serve them even better when we can move into a larger facility."

New Liberty opened in March 2001, but has grown to some 185 shareholders and has outgrown its present facility. The new building will feature 15,000 square feet above the grade and another 5,000 below the grade.

Bank officials said the new facility will allow them more space for employees and more customer amenities, such as drive-up teller lanes and ATM facilities as well as safe deposit boxes and a larger interior lobby area.

"We feel the building will meet our needs very adequately for some period of time," said Bill Graham, the bank's vice president and chief financial officer. "I think it's going to be a major asset to the Ann Arbor Road corridor."

When New Liberty officials first started looking for space for their new facility, they considered the new Mayflower Centre. But a deal that would have put the bank on the first floor fell through. The bank also considered the Masonic building across from Kellogg Park, but those talks never really materialized.

The bank's board then settled on the Ann Arbor Road location. Despite those initial attempts to keep the bank in the city, Plymouth Township Supervisor Steve Mann said the township is happy the bank settled on the south side of Ann Arbor Road.

"We're pleased that a local bank that keeps its money in the local community has chosen to build in Plymouth Township," Mann said. "It solves the blight problem (of the old buildings) for us, and should be a tremendous asset to the township."

Graham said the new facility could be open within a year.

Judges seek public input on family court plan

Wayne County Circuit Court Co-Chief Judge Mary Beth Kelly and Wayne County Probate Court Chief Judge Milton Mack, Jr., have announced a public comment period as the first step in developing the Family Court Plan for Wayne County.

A state law amended in 2002 requires the chief circuit and chief probate judges in each judicial circuit to enter into an agreement by July 1 that establishes a plan known as the "Family Court Plan."

The new law requires the family court plan describe how the family division of the circuit court will operate in that circuit and how to consolidate and promote more efficient and effective services to families.

Anyone wishing to comment may send those comments in writing to Co-Chief Judge Mary Beth Kelly, at 2 Woodward Avenue, Room 701, Detroit, MI, 48226 or to Chief Judge Milton L. Mack, Jr., at 2 Woodward Avenue, Room 1221, Detroit MI 48226, no later than June 23, 2003.

ished to get the financial facts together before explaining to residents they will eventually be asked to decide between increasing taxes to balance the budget, or cutting services and personnel to get the same result

"I think we have an obligation to explain to people what their choices are," Commissioner Colleen Pobur said, "because if they don't authorize a tax increase, the only alternative is cutting services We don't have a money tree

"If we cut people, we by definition will cut services, and it's going to happen next year, she added "The state isn't going to come up with some magic solution that's going to solve our $2.4 million problem in 2008"

Commissioner Michele Potter believes the state is using Plymouth in an effort to continue the downward spiraling of revenue sharing funds

"If Plymouth voters approve a tax increase, the state will then use us as an example to push other communities to do the same, thereby justifying further cuts in revenue sharing," she said

Potter wants the city administration to cut more from the budget and consolidate operations before going to voters for pleas of a tax increase

If you want to raise taxes, you better prove you've damn well done everything you can to cut spending," she said "We need to look at our own spending and have some oversight on that"

Funding alternatives that could be put to the voters include a charter amendment that would raise the millage limitation from 15 to 20 mills, a Headlee override vote which would push the city's millage rate, which has been slashed to just over 11 mills, back to 15 mills, or special millages to fund the police, fire and recreation departments

Christiansen indicated that even raising the millage rate to 15 mills would still leave the city with budget deficits

HomeTown Web site records record number of hits for May; shows record growth

The Plymouth Observer's web site, www.hometownlife.com, has recorded record usage for the month of May and extraordinary growth over the past six months, Observer & Eccentric General Manager Peter Neill announced today Total site hits for May were nearly 22.8 million, up 58% from December, 2002

The number of 'unique visits' by individuals who logged onto the hometownlife.com site is up 31% over the same six months, according Neill "These statistics plainly show the Plymouth Observer is offering local residents a uniquely informative web site to go along with our local newspapers," he said

Another index of high usage for the site, according to Neill, is the number of page views per visit - 5.02, up an entire page from last December The number of visits per hour - an index of how many individuals were logged on to the site at any one moment - was 638 in May, up 31% from December

Hometownlife.com brings web users the very best of HomeTown Communications Network's 40 Michigan community newspapers and 21 telephone directories, according to Dan Sutton, HomeTown Digital general manager

"The site includes local news from all the newspapers, as well as searchable listings of their classified and retail advertising," he said HomeTown Communications Network is the parent company of The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and HomeTown Digital

The hometownlife.com site offers links to help-wanted ads placed by employers, with views up 78% May over December "Putting a help-wanted ad in the Plymouth Observer, plus extending its reach through our web site, is the best way to get lots of applicants, right around the corner," Neill said

The site also includes listings of real estate for sale downloaded daily from Multiple Listing Service computer files More than 21,000 individual homes for sale were reviewed by prospective buyers on the hometownlife.com site in May alone

In addition to the hometownlife.com site, HomeTown Digital offers custom web design services, together with electronic business cards and eBrochures They may be reached at 1-800-989-4614.

"Every day after school you're not going to have a lot of time for sports or homework," he said

Supt. Jim Ryan admits there could be plenty of pluses for the school district, but his main concern would be for parents

"You wouldn't have to transport kids as much, you could dial down thermostats and possibly there would be some savings from hourly-rate employees," Ryan said "The one big concern I have is for parents who would have to make other day care arrangements for their children That could be very expensive"

Richard Bunt of Plymouth Township, who is a stay-at-home parent, agreed it could be a problem for many households

"It could be a problem for those who work and have smaller kids," he said "But, if it's to save money, maybe some of that savings could be used toward a supervised activity, like keeping gymnasiums, pools or tennis courts open, rather than kids just being at home and watching television"

Gerry Ostoin, Salem High School principal, believes the whole idea should be scrapped "It seems to me that the length of time kids are in school, right now, seems to be most appropriate," Ostoin said, "because when they leave us after six hours, they are tired"

"In some cases, (having a three-day weekend) will keep kids away from the books too long, and some aren't as motivated as others," he said

Any changes would need to be negotiated with the various unions, including the 1,000-member Plymouth-Canton Education Association

"Our day is pretty long already," PCEA President Chuck Portelli said "There are probably a thousand different opinions on this, (but) I don't think our teachers would be supportive"

There is no indication when Granholm will decide the fate of the bill

With a click of the mouse, Mary Margaret voted for Yosemite and was automatically entered into the random-drawing contest

"The sweepstakes was entered by our students, as well as over 13,000 other students in the nation," Allen Principal Marcia Moore said to an assembly of students Thursday morning, the last day of school "We were notified that a student in Mrs. (Gail) Maloney's class was the winner of the sweepstakes. What are the chances of that?"

Mary Margaret learned of the news Monday

"I could just hear my heart beating up and down," she said "I was so excited"

And when the rest of the class found out their surprise?

"They started jumping up and down," Mary Margaret said "It's been crazy all week because everybody has been asking me, 'Are you the girl who won the sweepstakes?'"

Normally, during the last week of school, not much work gets accomplished. But this week was even more so

Fourth-grade student at Allen Elementary Mary Margaret Wojcik is presented with a K2 bike from Ford District Manager Mario Said. Wojcik entered a contest on-line and won bikes for everyone in her class.

"On Monday, everybody was so excited we couldn't even concentrate on anything but the bikes," said Maloney, whose class is a fourth-fifth split. "They kept saying, 'When are we going to get the bikes?'" "I found out there are some children in my class that don't have bikes, and didn't even know how to ride a bike," Maloney added. "And one student told me he won't have to borrow his neighbor's bike anymore."

During the presentation of two of the new bikes, Ford district manager Mario Said began his speech.

"At Ford Motor Co., we are truly involved in the environment, and we have a tight relationship with our national parks," he said.

However, Said, noticing the kids really just wanted the bikes, cut his talk short and said, "Let's just bring it to an end," and presented Mary Margaret with her bike while students cheered.

Mary Margaret presented Said with thank you letters, in an envelope that had a big red heart with the Ford logo inside.

"This is cool," said classmate Mark Shankus, 12, of Canton Township. "I was in heaven when I found out."

Ten-year-old Ryan Brown of Plymouth Township said he just received a new bike two days earlier for his birthday. "I'm going to give one to my sister," he said.

Mercy recognizes scholarship finalists

Mercy High School announces that eight young women have become finalists for the 2003 National Merit Scholarship Awards. Megan Messana of Plymouth and her classmates Jenna Beras, Erin Biebuyck, Monica Boomer, Ellen Cappo, Emily Gruber, Francine Shammani and Caryn Smith are among the honorees.

To become a finalist, semifinalists must have a record of very high academic performance, be endorsed and recommended by Mercy's principal, Carolyn Witte, and earn SAT scores that confirm their earlier qualifying test performance.

Participation and leadership in school and community activities is also weighed. These students now have an opportunity to continue in the competition for some 8,000 Merit Scholarship awards, worth $30 million.

National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) is a privately financed not-for-profit corporation, founded in 1955 to conduct the annual Merit Scholarship competition. The independent sponsor organizations and institutions that support scholarships awarded through the National Merit Program share NMSC's goals of honoring scholastically able young men and women and encouraging the pursuit of academic excellence.

Mercy High School is a Catholic college preparatory high school for young women. Located in Farmington Hills, it is recognized nationally as an Exemplary Private School.

ment before that to run for the clerk's office in 2004. She said that, since she left her position, that encouragement has grown.

"I grew up thinking I would (serve) someday," Groth said. "After I left, I had a lot of people asking me, 'Please tell me you're going to run for that office.'"

Massengill, who will be 70 by the time the next term starts, said back in February that she wouldn't seek another term, instead throwing her support behind Joe Bridgman, whom she hired to replace Groth. Massengill wouldn't comment on Groth's candidacy, but sounded like she was wavering on the possibility of her own run.

"I know I said I wouldn't run and I probably won't," she said Friday. "But I feel much younger (than 70), and there's the possibility I could run again."

Groth lists the township hall question and the level of training in the clerk's office itself as some of the issues facing whomever replaces Massengill. Groth said she isn't convinced the township has to have a new township hall, and does not support the current plan to build one at Ann Arbor Road and Haggerty.

Instead, she said, township officials should be thinking about property the township already owns, such as the Port Street location of the Department of Municipal Services.

"I'm not sure I support building a township hall (at all) in this economy," Groth said. "But I'd give Port Street serious consideration. It would put everyone on the same location, and keeping the fire station where it is would keep fire coverage the same."

Groth said more people in the clerk's office need to be trained in election handling, something she says is a "large portion" of the job.

"There needs to be more people trained in the election process," Groth said. "There's no continuity. I really think there needs to be a way to enable more people."

Groth said she's been working elections since 1994, handling everything from the State Qualified Voter File to the absentee ballot process.

"I love everything about elections and voter registration," Groth said. "There's a really big picture, it's very challenging. You have a tremendous sense of accomplishment when you know everyone who should vote gets the chance to vote."

County's mental health agency trying to solve multitude of problems

BY LAURA COLVIN
STAFF WRITER

Wayne County's mental health agency is facing the daunting challenge of staff shortages, slow payments and a complicated governing system that leaves many confused about who is in charge. That was the testimony presented Monday to a task force convened by Wayne County Commissioner Chairwoman Jewel Ware to address some of the agency's long-standing problems. "What we're trying to do is look at all the concerns that have been brought to our attention," said Ware. "It's time for the Wayne County Commission to step up and see what we can do to solve these problems."

The Wayne County Community Mental Health Agency, which operates on more than a half-billion dollar annual budget and provides care for 75,000 people suffering from mental illness, developmental disabilities and substance abuse, has faced daunting challenges for a number of years. Those challenges have intensified in recent months. "We withstood the painful deficit reduction of $30 million from the 2001-2002 budget, the state's announcement of the closure of Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital and the total reorganization of the agency's employees and modification of their duties," said Patricia Kukula, interim executive director of the agency.

And, earlier this year, Wayne County Executive Robert Ficano fired several key staff members from the agency. Some, say the agency, were not replaced, others were replaced, but with people who have limited experience in the mental health field.

"These positions require a high skill level," said Kukula. "They are trained professionals with many years of experience in the mental health field. You can't just replace that kind of experience."

In order to ensure quality service, she said, the agency needs to retain a high-quality, well-paid staff. Many positions within the agency, Kukula said, remain vacant.

"The board and the leadership in the county need to have some understanding so that we can move forward," she said.

However, Ficano says replacement staff members have been brought in.

"We replaced the fiscal people with those who reflect the current business atmosphere in the county," said Ficano. "And we've made another four to six people available to (the agency)."

The two top financial officers were removed from the agency, said Ficano, due to questionable business practices that left millions of dollars worth of mental health services undocumented.

"Some of the contracts were very poorly drafted," Ficano said. "We found one contract for $25 million that was (only) 7 paragraphs long, with a 20 percent administrative fee." Typically, he said, administrative fees run at 6 percent.

Other providers, he said, were being paid without any contract at all.

"They were operating with a handshake," he said. "Ford Motor Company doesn't operate that way. GM doesn't operate that way. We're not going to operate that way either."

Because of the strict new guidelines requiring providers to operate with a contract and extensively documented services, slow payments to providers has also been an issue. Some are owed so much money they are in danger of shutting down.

According to Phil Cavanagh, county commissioner and mental health board finance committee chairman, the county is paying the agency's six managed care provider networks on time. But, because of the mountain of paperwork that is now required before a check is cut, those organizations often don't pay their subcontractors on time — or at all.

"Some of these providers may have been in business for 30 years and never had to keep these kinds of records before," said Cavanagh. "Because of paperwork, bureaucracy and the transition that we're in, that money isn't always flowing."

St. Mary Mercy Hospital in Livonia, which provides inpatient and outpatient mental health services, is owed more than $140,000.

"We're having difficulty arranging contracts with mental health managed care organizations," said hospital spokesperson Julie Sproul, "and we're having even more trouble getting paid."

In October of 2002, the agency was commended for its switch to the Your Choice program, a managed care system that allows patients to choose where and from whom they receive care.

The system, it was said, would promote competition among providers.

Initially, said Cavanagh, there was some concern that the agency's switch would add another layer to an already over-complicated system, and it may have done just that.

But, he said, the competition between providers is good for the cost and quality of service, and, theoretically, will result in a survival-of-the-fittest-type outcome.

"The most efficient organizations are going to surface in the long run," he said. "Our job is not to keep all these providers afloat. Our job is to make sure these dollars are being spent effectively."

The task force will spend the coming months looking closely into the agency's problems.

"We're going to see if we can get people hired to assist (Kukula)," said Commissioner Ware, "and see if we can get the payments out in a timely manner."

Lightning strike

The Plymouth Lightning 1994 select girls soccer team clinched their WSSL under nine Division II championship Tuesday with a 6-0 record posting a 35-8 advantage in goals scored.

Team members are Abby Bartes, Megan Birdwell, Paige Brennan, Amelia Burdette, Devon Corby, Niki Gilo, Amanda Lopez, Jaime Olson, Mikayla Schnettler, Megan Trapp and Jackie Waite from Plymouth and Morgan Bartos, Sarah Mitchell and Heidi Schmidt from Canton. Dave Burdette is the head coach, assisted by Pat Olson. Leeann Burdette is the team manager and Jim Zurawski is the team trainer.

Baseball school

Plymouth Christian Academy will host the Doyle Baseball School, a nationally recognized five-day clinic from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. July 14-18 at the PCA ball fields in Canton.

The school will provide instruction for baseball and softball players from 6-16 years old in hitting, throwing and fielding. Doyle Baseball is in its 22nd year of operation and conducts satellite schools all over the country and in Canada.

More than 500,000 players have benefitted from the Doyle school, thousands going on to play collegiately and some into pro baseball, including Walt Weiss, Joe Oliver, Derek Lee, Charles Johnson, Jody Reed, Turner Ward, Steve Karsay, Tino Martinez, Dave Martinez, Derek Bell, Dan Wilson and Jim Poole.

Cost is $95 per player for payments received before July 7. $115 for those received after that date. To register, call PCA's Sandy Murray at (734) 459-3505 ext. 117 until July 13. After that date, please call PCA baseball coach Don Shumaker at (734) 416-0513. For a free brochure on other Doyle programs, call (863) 439-1000.

Stroke Clinic
Doug Schade, the swim coach at Plymouth HS, will run a seven-week stroke clinic aimed at improving your technique and competitive swimming. Using scientific ly based proven methods also used by Bill Boomer, the stroke technician for the U.S. Olympic Team and Richard Quick, coach of the NCAA women's champion Stanford University team, the clinic will help swimmers with stroke efficiency as you work on all four competitive strokes as well as underwater work, starts, turns and finishes. The clinic runs from 5-7 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays at the Salem HS pool from June 16 through July 31. Cost is $100. For more information, call (734) 242-5664.

Rocks, Chiefs are all-Observer in golf

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

John Wagner has a simple philosophy when it comes to coaching high school golf.

"The biggest value is that it teaches an individual to be honest, it builds character," said Wagner, who guided the Livonia Stevenson girls to a third-place finish in the Division I state tourney. "The game teaches honor."

Wagner, who took over for Les Preiskorn as the Stevenson boys and girls coach in 1991, enjoyed his best season ever with the Spartan girls, who finished undefeated in dual meets, won the Western Lakes Activities Association crown and the regional.

Only the 1981 Stevenson boys, the Class A runners-up, have recorded a better finish.

For his efforts this season, Wagner was named Observerland Coach of the Year.

The art teacher, who taught in the Livonia Public Schools for 29 years before retiring in 1998, deflects all the praise to his team, which features four All-Observer picks.

"This team was a joy to work because of their maturity and their ability to stick with the job at hand," Wagner said. "I also appreciate the fact that the girls are good sports, they're sensitive to their competitors and have good integrity."

Wagner also credits his two assistant coaches, Scott Rutterbush and Bill Albinger.

Rutterbush, who played golf at Methodist College (N.C.), is a substitute teacher and video editor who works with the younger players on the Stevenson squad.

"We had no cuts this year - a total 20 kids - including one freshman who never played before," Wagner said. "Scott helped in the physical teaching. He knows what the kids need as far as teaching the game of golf. He has the patience and explains what needs to be done with that golf club."

Albinger, another volunteer, is retired from Ford Motor Co. He and Wagner have been friends since the age of 12.

"A lot of the credit goes to these guys," Wagner said. "They adjust their schedules and they're with me on a daily basis."

The 59-year-old Wagner played high school golf at Detroit Cody, learning the game at Rouge Park. He is a graduate of Wayne State University and taught four years in the Detroit Public Schools before moving to Livonia in 1970.

"I've enjoyed it (golf) thoroughly," Wagner said. "When I first started coaching I didn't know what to expect. An even when I've had a losing season, I've still had fun with the kids."

Introducing the 2003 All-Observer Girls Golf Team as selected by area coaches.

Kristen Polanski, Liv Stevenson The senior capped her senior year with a third-place individual finish in the Division I state meet. She also took medalist honors at the regional WLAA and the Stevenson Invitational (where she led all scorers with a 37, including a hole-in-one on No. 17 at Idylwyld).

The four-time Stevenson MVP also was honored recently as Senior Athlete of 2003 as recipient of the James Brieske Award during honors night.

Her ability, maturity, integrity, work ethic and character were all of the highest caliber of any young lady I've had the pleasure and honor of coaching, Stevenson coach John Wagner said. As

Offense comes around as Bucks bounce Edge

The Mid-Michigan Bucks got back on the winning side, discovering some offense en route to a 3-2 victory over the West Michigan Edge in a Premier Development League Great Lakes Division match Wednesday at Berkley's Hurley Field.

The victory allowed the Bucks to improve their record to 6-1-1, first in the Great Lakes. The Edge shipped to 3-3-2.

Mid-Michigan never trailed in the game, getting a goal from Mychal Turpin just five minutes in with a set-up by Paul Snape (Oakland University). The Edge, however, knotted it at 1-1 five minutes later when St. Nicholas Benjamin converted a penalty kick. The Bucks regained the lead for good in the 27th minute, Erik Nelson getting the ball to Kevin Taylor for the finish and a 2-1 advantage. They increased their advantage to two goals at the 60-minute mark, Tino Scicluna (Redford/Detroit Country Day) dropped a perfect cross into the box to Snape for the header into the net.

Mid-Michigan remained ahead 3-1 until the 75th minute, when the Edge's Johnny Leonard found the net with an assist from Brady Bryant. However, West Michigan could not get the equalizer in the final 15 minutes.

Jeff Wiese was in goal for the Bucks, he made one save, as Mid-Michigan limited the Edge to three shots. The Bucks had 11 shots, with West Michigan keeper Oliver Sanders making five saves.

The Bucks are on the road against West Michigan at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Holland Municipal Stadium, then they return home to host Columbus at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Canton HS.

Winner plays MetroStars

Pairings for the third round in the Lamar Hunt U.S. Open Cup were announced by the United States Soccer Federation last Thursday, indicating the winner of the June 25 second-round match between the PDL's Mid-Michigan Bucks and the defending Division III champion Long Island (N.Y.) Rough Riders will play the Division I N.Y./N.J. MetroStars in a third-round game.

Marian wrecks Ladywood's successful run in soccer

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

It was meant to be a cross, but Meghan Garrity's shot ended up in the net and Birmingham Marian is headed to the Division II state girls soccer championship for the second-straight year.

The Mustangs, 21-1-2 overall, dominated for the first 30 minutes and made Garrity's goal stand up, hanging on for a 1-0 state semifinal triumph Wednesday over Catholic League Central Division rival Livonia Ladywood at Canton High School.

"I was just trying to cross it and get it near the net," said Garrity, who guided the shot from just outside the left box from 20 yards out and over the outstretched arms of Ladywood goalkeeper Stefani Szczechowski with 28:30 left in the first half. "It was lucky I guess, but she (Szczechowski) was on the short side and we practice those kind of chips all the time in practice."

Marian will play Grand Rapids Forest Hills Central (21-1), a 2-1 winner in the other semifinal over Portage Northern, 11 a.m.

Saturday at Richland-Gull Lake. Last year, Marian lost in the final to East Grand Rapids, 2-0.

"The win was more important than the goal," Garrity said. "Ladywood is a good team and a big rival. We're just excited to be back in the final."

Kristen goes on to play for Michigan State University next year she leaves her high school with the respect and admiration of her coaches teammates school family and community She has truly raised the bar and taken Stevenson girls golf to new heights

Rachel Thomas Liv Ladywood The senior led Ladywood to a eighth place finish in the Division II state finals after shooting an 82 86 168 good enough for ninth place individually

She averaged 40 for dual meets and 84 in tournaments In all dual meets Thomas finished either first or second

Other notable finishes including a runner up in the Catholic League tourney where Ladywood ended rival Farmington Hills Mercys 11 year run of titles She also added a seventh at the Mercy Invitational

The two time captain and two time team MVP will play golf next year on a scholarship at the University of Toledo

Thomas was also named as a Catholic League Scholar Athlete

Ashley Smith Salem Smith established herself as a force in girls golf for years to come in her first season with the Rocks

Just a freshman Smith started by placing 10th at the Brighton Invitational with an 82 At the WAAA Tournament she shot an 81 to place second and earn all conference honors and at the Division I regional at Giant Oaks she paced the Rocks with an 86

Her 42.7 stroke average for nine hole meets was also best on the Salem squad Confidence

too was not a problem for Smith

She played with the No 1 group (of scorers) in the region said Salem coach Rick Wilson after the regional tournament I don't think she was intimidated at all She was expecting to compete with the top girls and she did

That should continue for the next few years

Rachel McHenry Liv Stevenson The sophomore transfer from Ladywood posted the lowest scoring average for a 10th grader (41 per nine holes) She was a co medalist five times this season and finished tied for 12th in Division I McHenry also took third in the WAAA meet and shot 80 at the Mystic Creek regional

Her strengths involve both the physical and mental aspects of the game and as her coach I feel her deep sense of determination and focus is a big factor in her scoring ability Wagner said She will undoubtedly be a leader of the team for the future

Leah Andersen Liv Ladywood The senior a two time captain and four year varsity player Andersen averaged 43 per nine as Ladywoods No 2 player The All League selection took seventh as the Blazers unseated Mercy as Catholic League champion At the state meet Andersen shot 96 101 197 At the regional she carded a 95 Andersen will attend Notre Dame next year

Jenny Kubert Liv Stevenson The Ladywood transfer opened the season with a 79 at the Grosse Ile Invitational and ended the year with an 83 at the state finals held at Forest Akers (East Course) in East Lansing

She also earned All Division honors in the WAAA

Jenny established herself as a welcomed force for this year Wagner said Her future as a Stevenson High School girls golf team competitor and leader is evident

Jenny is a sophomore with strong skills and she has the making of a very low scoring player She never took herself out of the competition with high numbers and as her coach I appreciated her consistency

She was our steady rock in the middle of our lineup and has been an oasis of peace in the heart and mind of her coach

SECOND TEAM

Lauren Dickerson Liv Ladywood The junior captain was named to the All Catholic League team after taking sixth with an 89 Dickerson averaged 45 in dual meets and 89 in tournaments

She also garnered a top 12 finish at the Mercy Invitational and carded an 84 to tie for low Rachel Thomas for team medalist at the Raisin Valley Golf Course regional

In the state finals she finished second among the Blazers with 98-96 194 Lauren played the number three position all season and will be looked upon to be a leader for us next year Ladywood coach Kellianne Nagy said

Michelle Corwin, Canton A senior Corwins abilities extended beyond the golf course She served as Cantons team captain for the past two years has earned a letter for three straight years and earned a senior academic honor with a 3.97 grade point average as she helped guide the Chiefs to a 9-3 dual meet record and a fourth place finish at the WAAA Tournament Her stroke average per nine hole meets was 48 but she rose to the occasion at major tournaments At the WAAA finals she earned all-conference honors by firing an 86 to finish sixth at the Division I regional at Great Oaks she shot a 94

Missy Bartnick Liv Stevenson The junior shot a personal best 41 at the Livonia Public Schools Invitational and made All Division in the WAAA with a 91 at Brentwood Golf Course

Missy really improved to the point of earning a steady varsity role this season Wagner said Often as the team left the course after practice Missy could be seen still working on her putting and chipping

Her work ethic made a big difference as she and her varsity teammates set several records throughout the 2003 season (including a dual meet four player low of 160)

Her showing at the Stevenson Invitational (LPS meet) was an indication of this fine athletes ability and the contribution she'll make in her senior year next season

Kate Amrhein, Liv Churchill The junior shot a 92 to earn All Division honors at the Western Lakes tournament held May 20 at Brentwood Golf Course She added a 95 to lead the Chargers at the regional

As a sophomore Amrhein was a honorable mention All Observer selection

Andrea Heidt, Liv Churchill A junior Heidt made All Division in the WAAA after shooting a 93 at Brentwood She added a 99 at the regional for the Chargers

As a sophomore Heidt was a member of a Churchill squad which finished sixth in the Division I state meet She was a third team All Observer choice a year ago

Erica Jamrog, Liv Ladywood The junior earned All Catholic honors after finishing ninth with a 95 in the league meet held at St Johns Golf Course She averaged 49 in dual meets and teamed with Rachel Thomas to win the Pincney Best Ball Invitational

In the regional Jamrog carded a 92 as Ladywood finished third and qualified for the state meet in the Division II meet at Forest Akers (West Course) in East Lansing Jamrog shot 103-95 198

Walleye fishing is hot on Detroit River

Eyes peeled, we stared intently into a fog so dense there was literally no margin for error. Talk about pea soup? This fog was so thick we could barely see the water from the end of the dock.

Outdoor insights

Bill Parker

My sense of hearing seemed to override my sense of sight as we motored slowly out of the Wyandotte Marina and into the Detroit River. I was listening for the drone of an approaching motorboat, or a Great Lakes tanker or tug.

Fortunately, the only sound I deciphered out of the foggy morning air was the out-of-place cackle of a love-lorn rooster pheasant. At least I knew land was to my left. My eyes were useless. Thank heavens for global positioning systems (GPS). My fishing partner was Bloomfield Hills native and current Berkley resident Kevin Long of Longcast Guide Service (www.long-cast.com).

He fiddled with his GPS while I just sat and fiddled, listening intently for an approaching boat while trying in vain to see through the wall of white nothingness that blanketed the river.

Our destination was the edge of the shipping channel just east of Fighting Island. Our target was post-spawn walleyes.

A touring bass pro, when Kevin's not fishing one of the many pro tournament trails, he's guiding anglers for bass, walleyes and muskies on the waters of the Detroit River and Lake St. Clair.

With the help of modern electronics, we made our way to the edge of the channel and dropped our offerings down to bottom in about 23 feet of water.

The Detroit River welcomes a mad rush of anglers every April when the walleyes begin their spring spawning run. Fishing is usually pretty phenomenal throughout the month of April and into early May, then most of the boats disappear.

What many anglers don't realize is that the walleye fishing remains pretty darn good into early-June. There is a small resident population of walleyes that makes the river their home, but there are also a lot of post-spawn male fish that hang around in the river before slowly making their way back to Lake Erie as summer weather approaches.

Jugging is still the preferred technique on the river, although hand-liners also take a good number of fish. We tipped half-ounce chartreuse and green jugs with silver/grey power tails and bumped them off the bottom. In a matter of minutes we had our first fish in the boat, but it wasn't what we were looking for.

A chunky two-pound smallmouth banged Kevin's jug and was quickly returned to the water.

(Bass season on the river doesn't open until June 21). Moments later I, too, caught a smallie, then we each landed a small silver bass. 'It seems like you have to catch about three smallmouth and silver bass for each walleye you catch,' said Long, moments before sinking his hook into a nice 24-inch walleye.

The key to success is to keep your jig in the strike zone near bottom. We'd drop our offerings down and as soon as we could feel the jig hit bottom, we'd quickly raise it about a foot, then let it slowly settle back down to the bottom again.

The walleyes usually hit on the drop, but the smallies and silver bass would hit at any time. I should know, I think I caught a dozen of each before finally hooking up with a nice eater-sized walleye. We managed to boat seven keepers in just about three hours of fishing.

For those who think walleye season on the Detroit River ends in April, you'd better think again. There's still some pretty good fishing, but it won't last long. Get out there now and enjoy the bounty.

(Bill Parker covers the outdoors for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. Hunters and anglers are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to Bill Parker c/o Outdoors 805 E. Maple Birmingham MI 48009.)

Korff's sharp outing lifts Rams to 4-1 win

Nathan Korff, facing just 23 batters in 6 1/2 innings, tossed a two-hitter Wednesday as the Michigan Lake Area Rams trimmed the Eagles, 4-1, in Lvononia Collegiate Baseball League action at Ford Field.

The Rams improved to 7-2 in the LCBL, while the Eagles dropped to 2-6.

Korff, a 6-foot-4, 215-pound right-hander from Oakland University, allowed one run, a walk and struck out six Central Michigan University's Mark Lundquist came on in the seventh to get the final two outs.

Robert Lotham, the losing pitcher, went six innings, allowing three earned runs on six hits. He struck out five and Brandon Volas, Lvononia Stevenson's Brian Campbell (CMU), Canton's Oliver Wolcott (Michigan State) and Stevenson's Pete Pinto (Henry Ford CC) each had a hit and one RBI for the winners. Salem's Chris Trott (Albion College) and Bryan Marull also added one hit each and scored a run.

The Rams had a total of five stolen bases, two by Volas.

Rob Richardson's RBI double in the seventh scored Terrell Marsh for the Eagles. Jeff Smalz had the other hit for the Eagles.

successful tournament run in school history, finished 10-6-5 under coach Jill Logsdon, a Marian graduate.

Just five minutes into the match, Marian nearly had its first goal, but Ladywood defender Sue Christenson headed out Cara Leonard's point-blank shot. The Blazers were outshot 10-3 in the first half, but gradually got back into the match with more aggressive play. And by then the shots and possessions began to even out.

With 23:42 remaining in the match, Marian goalkeeper Leah Perz, who notched her 13th shutout, made a sprawling save on a shot by Ladywood's Patti Hoeg to preserve the win.

"We started with the momentum, but they (Ladywood) started winning balls in the middle," Marian co-coach Chris Courage said. "We didn't put as much pressure up front. Defensively we played well enough to deny them dangerous shots."

Barry Brodsky, Marian's other co-coach, agreed the defense was the difference.

"With a one-goal lead we feel it's enough," he said. "We responded. We seem to play well with the lead."

Three of Ladywood's six losses — 2-1, 1-0 and 1-0 — occurred against Marian. It might have been a different outcome had the Blazers erased the first 30 minutes.

"I think we were nervous and played too loose, we gave Marian too much room," Logsdon said. "After 30 minutes we started playing them tighter. We won the 50-50 balls and we started to create more opportunities."

But despite the loss, the season was deemed a success for the Blazers.

"We scored more goals in the tournament than we did during the (regular) season," Logsdon said. "I'm proud of the girls with the way they picked up their game in the tournament. They went farther than they expected. It was satisfying to watch the team come together and play as a team."

"But the kids aren't satisfied. They'll come back ready next year. We're losing only two seniors (Szczechowski and Sunny Grezlik)."

July 16 In previous Open Cup matches, the Bucks have played four MLS teams and have posted a 1-2-1 record. Although the location of the match has not yet been determined, in the past the Bucks have hosted MLS teams twice — in 1999 and 2000, when their home base was in Saginaw.

One of our team's major objectives each year is to play our way into the Open Cup, with the hopes of playing and even hosting an MLS team. Bucks co-owner Dan Duggan said. "If we are fortunate enough to get the opportunity, we would host the first-ever MLS game at Hurley Field." Jim Duggan, the Bucks' other co-owner and the team's general manager, thought it best not to start thinking about playing the MetroStars just yet. "Before we get caught up in the possibility of playing the MetroStars, we have a monumental task ahead of us with Long Island," he said. "The Rough Riders are full-time professionals who would love to play a game against their neighbor and big brother in New York. Tickets for the June 25 match against the Rough Riders at Hurley Field may be reserved by calling (989) 781-6888 or by e-mailing the Bucks at info@mmbucks.com. Cost is $9 for adults, $5 for kids under 19 dressed in soccer uniforms, children under the age of 5 years are free."

Did you know trucks take longer to stop?

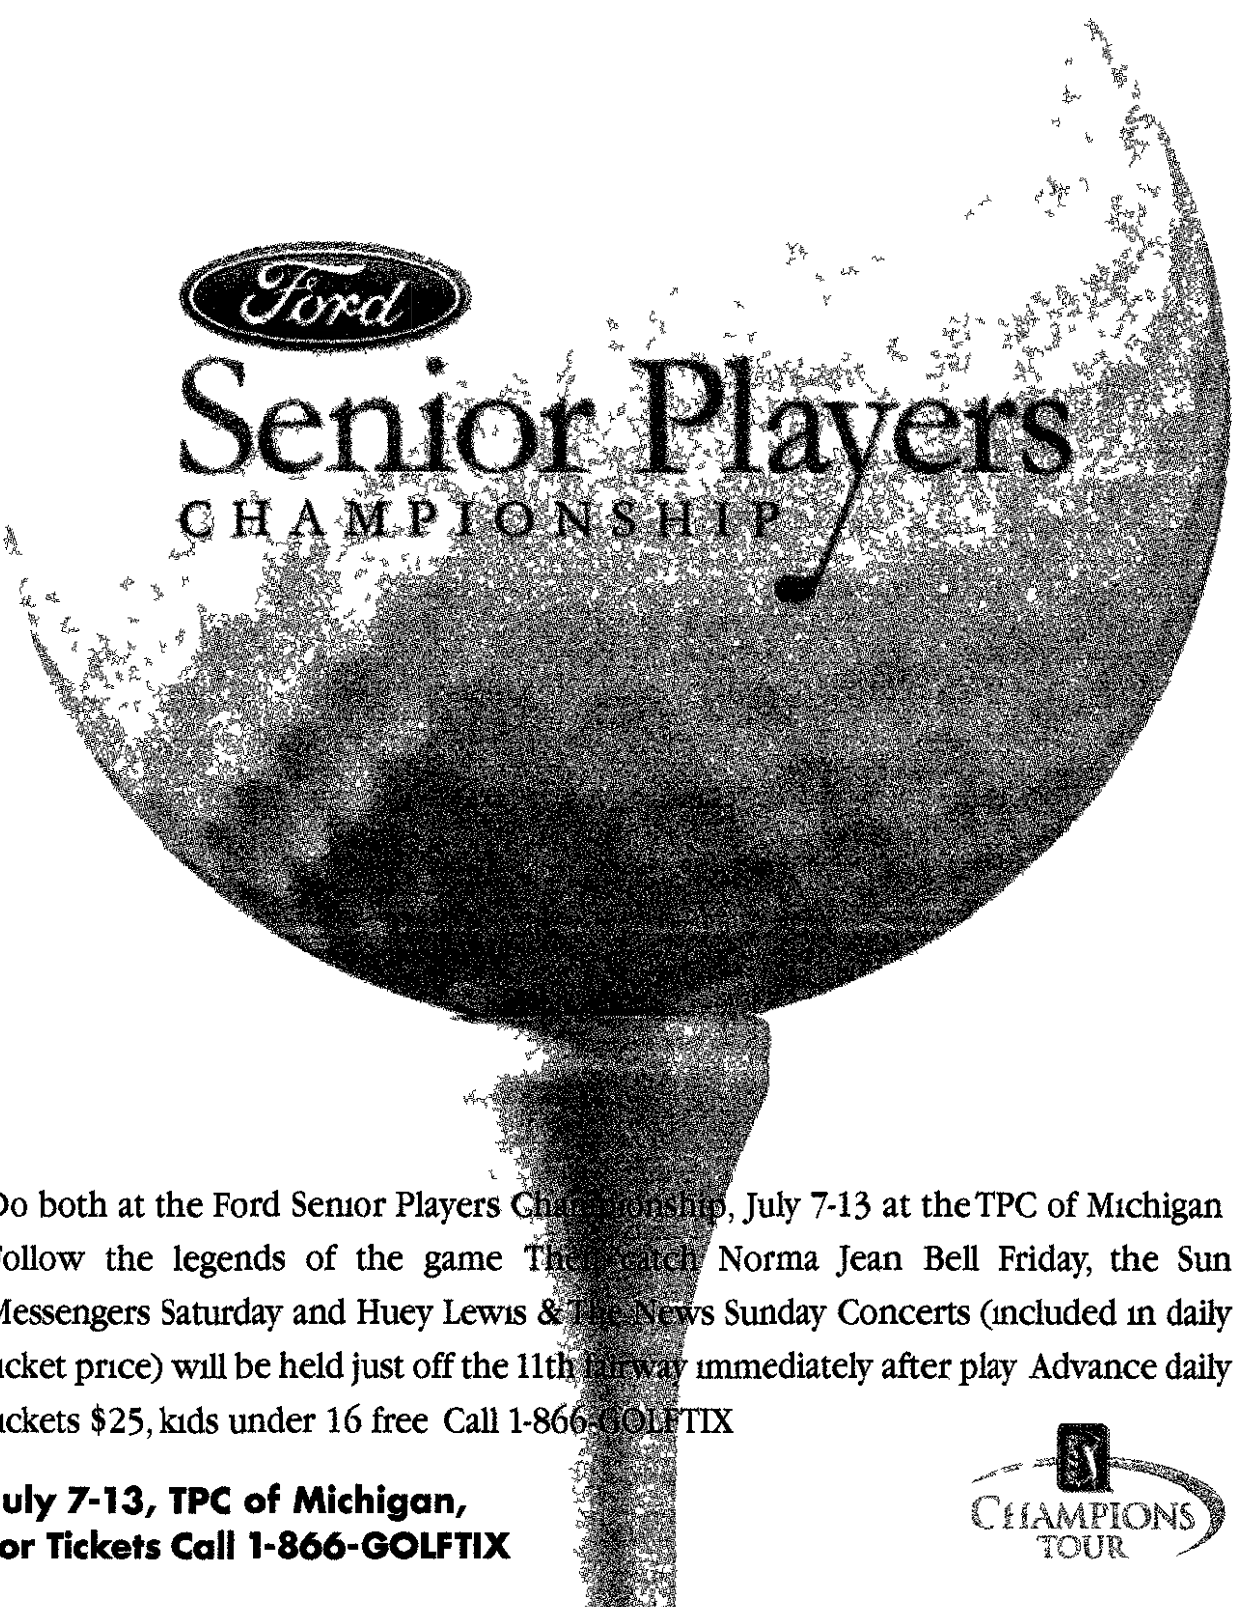

When a truck driver hits the brakes at 55 mph, it takes more than the length of a football field for the rig to come to a stop. Don't pull in front of a truck, then slow or stop quickly to make a turn or exit. Allow the truck driver time and distance to brake.

Life's true measure of success

It was on Father's Day that June of 1986 that I last saw my Dad

Visiting my parents' home, I sat on the deck that Sunday morning, holding our infant son, my Dad standing on the driveway below

There was something different about my Dad that last day, something in his manner that I couldn't quite put my finger on

Always a quiet man, my Dad was strangely talkative. We chatted, me just sitting on the steps of the deck, my father below

He was wearing a flannel shirt, his light blue jeans were smudged with the dirt of his gardens. I can still see him now

As we chatted the conversation turned to birthdays. In August of that year I was to turn 30

"How old will you be?" asked my father

Never good with dates or ages, this annual question from my Dad never surprised me

I groaned and grimaced "Thirty, Dad! I am going to be 30"

"That is bad?" my father wondered

"Yes, Dad!" I looked at him quizzically "I am going home my 30th birthday!"

He did get it

My father looked up at me sitting on that porch and he looked at the baby I was holding

His eyes seemed to have a strange knowing, a sort of twinkling I had never seen in them before

"Think of it this way," he winked "It is better than the alternative"

With that my father wandered off to grab his hoe. I never talked with my father again

Two weeks later he was gone

In those 16 years since my father has gone, the world has changed

Besides that baby boy I was holding that last day in June, another grandson and a granddaughter were born into our family

My brother has the twins, babies my father would have delighted in. A boy and girl, I wish he could have seen them

His grandsons by another brother have grown into men, no longer the little boys he last remembers

He never got to see his daughter marry, or his son take a wife

He never got to hold our babies, never got to see them graduate

He never got to see the soccer games, the baseball, or the gymnastics meets

He will never see our babies take their first steps, or hear them utter their first words

It was that strangest moment in time that the meaning of those lost years truly struck me

The dream had finally come true for the gymnastics coach and her family. Their brand new gym was opened and it was a time for a grand opening celebration

The party was great. Food, drinks, dancing, karaoke. Everyone was there, coaches, parents, and even the owner's dad had flown in for the occasion

People cutting loose, having fun. We felt like college

PLEASE SEE SUCCESS, C8

Don, Papa, Donnie, "Liebault," Big D, whatever the name he's the only one for me! My Dad, he's the best he's the dream of the crop! He's proud of us all no matter what. Ten minute phone limits, be home by 10, turn out the lights. Your room's a pig pen. Diplomas and hugs he gave us at graduation, we look at him now with such admiration. There's five of us in all ranging 28 to 21, look at us Dad how well you've done. From a broken finger in ninth grade to emotional PMS at 25 - I've always been the one to cry. But Dad is there he shows no fear and hasn't for all these years. This picture is older so are we, much too old be sitting on his knee. However the age the love is unchanged. I love you, Dad, Happy Father's Day

One of the best times I had with my dad was at the Grand Canyon. He and I woke up at about 5 a.m. and hiked over to a scenic part of the canyon to watch the sun rise. We talked as we watched the bright ball of fire slowly rise above the rocky landscape. It was so beautiful and peaceful. It was a very special time with my Dad because we both enjoy the beauty of nature. I love and admire him and will never forget this great experience

My favorite memory with my Dad is fishing. We go fishing every year. Last year my Dad was teaching me how to fish and he broke his pole! It was really funny. I caught the most fish. I really love doing this with my Dad

The nicest memories with my father is football. Watching on television, watching my brothers play, or when I played him and my mother would wait at the fence for me and the team to congratulate us. My father just passed away this January so this will be the first Father's Day without him. Happy Father's Day

My favorite outing with my Dad (Daniel) is when we go skiing at Blue Mountain. Next year I'm going to try snowboarding. I love my dad very much!

In the winter my Dad took me to the Summit. We swam in the big pool. Afterwards we went to the water slide. I went first and then my dad. He yelled, "Yippee!" when he went down the slide and I laughed. It was a memorable time swimming alone with my Dad at the Summit

Being with

Favorite memories of good times with their fathers

In the late 1800s, William Smart, a Civil War veteran, lost his wife as she was giving birth to their sixth child. He raised his children alone on a farm in Washington state. One of his daughters, Louise Dodd, later realized the extreme self-sacrifice her father had made throughout the years and the love he had for his children.

In 1909, Mrs. Dodd proposed a day to honor her father in June, which was the month of her father's birthday. Father's Day was slow to catch on. What Louise had done was not even well-known in her own state despite the governor's proclamation.

The idea of honoring fathers with a special day was actually reinvented independently in several other places, each locality thinking it was starting something new. By 1916 President Woodrow Wilson had endorsed the idea and in 1924 President Calvin Coolidge recommended national observance of the day "to impress upon fathers the full measure of their obligation" and strengthen intimate ties between fathers and children.

We asked our readers for their favorite memories of being with their fathers. Here are the responses.

Justin Dotson, 4, canoeing with his Dad

I think the best time I've ever had with my Dad was the time we went up to Cadillac, Michigan, to go fishing. It was my first time on a fishing trip and you'll never guess what happened. My Dad had cast out the line and then he gave me the rod. I felt a small tug and I started reeling it in. When I reeled in the fish, it turned out to be a 16-inch brown trout - the largest one ever pulled out of that stream. It was definitely a great bonding time between my father and I. I've never had more fun. I can't wait until the next fishing trip. Happy Father's Day

Love your son,
Joey Barden

By the time that I was in high school, my dad was a single parent due to the untimely death of my mother. For my junior prom I had shopped and shopped for the perfect dress and just couldn't find it, so I went to a dress shop and had one made.

Two days before the night was to be danced away with all of my high school friends, my date called and said he didn't want to go. No other reason other than that, he just didn't want to go to the prom. I was devastated. As a teenager who didn't have the self-esteem to go to the prom alone, I locked myself in my room with all of my perfect prom attire and didn't see the light of day for the next 48 hours.

My Dad did the only thing he knew to be a constructive solution to his little girl's problem. He put on his suit and had me tie his tie (he still doesn't know how to tie a tie) and bribed me into getting into my prom getup that seemed anything but perfect by that time.

So while all of my friends were slipping into the bathroom to catch a sip of something that they had no business drinking, I was dining and dancing the night away with my dad at Weber's Inn in Ann Arbor.

Somewhere between putting that dress on and halfway through the night my Dad got me to laugh and then to dance. I'm sure that more than one time he wanted to go to that guy's house and let him know, in no uncertain terms, how devastated he had made me feel. Instead he took me to his favorite fancy place and requested "Beautiful Tonight" because he said I looked beautiful that night.

Now that I have kids of my own I can realize that the amount of hurt that I felt could have done nothing but paled in comparison to the hurt my Dad must have felt to see that amount of pain in his little girl. And, without a mom around to soothe the pain in the way that a mom may have been able to do, my dad did the best thing that he knew how to do. And, as a daughter I will never forget the way my Dad made it all better for his little girl that day.

Though I do not have any pictures of that night, I do have one of the next time that we were all dolled up together - my wedding. Thanks for the perfect prom night, Dad!

I spent the summer of 1978 studying International Law at Oxford. Before departing on the trip, I mentioned to my parents that I planned to spend a couple of weeks touring England and Scotland after the school semester. My father had family roots in Scotland, and he decided on the spot that he was going to join me on the tour. I must confess I was a little apprehensive about the idea. I don't think I'd ever spent eight hours alone with him. Let alone 10 days. But plans were put in motion, and touring we went.

We saw Stonehenge. We walked through Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's and Salisbury Cathedral. We visited Sterling Castle, Edinburgh Castle and the Tower of London. We saw Agatha Christie's Mousetrap in London. We hiked across the Isle of Iona and saw the burial grounds of many Scottish kings.

We stayed in great bed and breakfasts, and in some not-so-great ones, too.

The highlight of the trip was spending an afternoon playing a round on the links of the Old Course at St. Andrews. Since we were both lifelong golf fanatics, that was a real treat. Earlier that summer, Jack Nicklaus had won the Open at St. Andrews. I can assure you that Jack could not have enjoyed his final round there anymore than my Dad and I did that day. I lost my father four years ago, but I'll never lose the memories of that great trip we shared in 1978.

I love my Dad so much. I like when we play basketball, golf and I like when we play Nintendo. I love when we scream! My favorite thing is beating him at the last second! He's my best pal in the north, south, east and west.

My Dad is not the typical father - he's a father of five (one daughter 44 and four sons 41, 40, 38, 34). He sacrificed his life for numerous years. You see, he was an assistant principal for a Catholic high school for over 30 years. So my Dad was Dad to hundreds upon thousands of young men and women at Benedictine High School. He taught us respect, pride and integrity

My most memorable outing happened in 1976. Dad coached football, track (boys/girls) and was the athletic director. He started the position of assistant principal that year and stopped coaching football. The new coach was terrible. Anyway, at the all sports banquet the returning football players presented my father with a plaque which read "Dad PLEASE come back to coaching WE NEED YOU!" He was so touched with this that tears rolled from his eyes.
Now 66 and having been retired for six years, the plaque still hangs on the wall in his home for all to see. Sometimes, I swear when I see him wipe the dust off of it, I see the tears fall as he remembers the memories of that night. My Dad is not just my dad - he's my best friend.

Our favorite place we like to go with our Dad (Joe) is fishing! We like to take our canoe and go out to a lake. We take our lunch with us and eat it in the boat. Our Dad teaches us all about how to catch big fish and helps us try different lures to catch them. We will take him fishing on Father's Day because that is where he would like to go.

We also like to build things with our Dad. We use all kinds of tools. Our Dad helps us build special projects for school too. We have fun together. Our Dad is the best and we love him a lot. Happy Father's Day, Dad.

Our favorite adventure with Dad (Ray Klieber) was when we went to Cranbrook to see the robotic zoo. It was a beautiful day and Daddy wanted to surprise us by taking us to see the robotic zoo. At the robotic zoo they had robotic bats, giraffes, rhinos, flies, grasshoppers, platypus and other animals. After that we went out to eat some doughnuts (we brought some home for mom).

Then it was time to go home and go to sleep. We had a great time and hope we can do it all again some day (maybe even with mom, too).

My Dad, George Donald Potter, came to America, from England, in the early 1920s. He had only been able to go back once, before 1978. In 1978 he wanted to take a trip there and wanted me and my two sons, Don and John, to go with him.

It was a most wonderful trip. England is very beautiful and loaded with history. We went to some old castles, including St. Michaels Mount. I know my Dad was happy to see and be where he grew up again. It's a part of my life that has special memories.

I am so glad we took my sons. They had a good experience. They even went down in a coal mine there. We went to a zoo, saw some different animals and went to Gwennap Pit and Stonehenge.

It's a trip my son Don will always remember, as I know my son John did, until he was taken from us. Going on this special trip with their Grandpa, seeing where he grew up and being with some of his family. It's a memory to treasure.

My Dad was a good person, devoted to his family. Our lives were happy. Both Dad and Mom were the best.

We've looked through all the woods. We've looked under everybody's hoods, but we haven't found a Dad, as good of the one we have.

You've done everything for us, you've done more than any other father does, you are always there. Even though Mommy had another baby, we'll always be your baby pair.
Look through all the moon. And you'll see soon, you are the best! We'll always be your baby girls, because you'll be the best Dad in all worlds.
Happy Father's Day, Daddy
Nikki Karnesky, age 10

Every weekend you've taken us somewhere fun. And in March you took us to see our new baby sister being born in the warm spring sun. Now baby (Kayla) makes three, but now I know how much you'll always love me. Daddy, you really are the greatest Dad that I could ever have.

Nikki, Kayla and Lauren (age 9) Karnesky

I love my Dad because he makes time to do things with me. We had a birthday party for my first American Girl doll, Kirsten, and my friends and I did activities and ate food from the 1800s. My Dad dressed up and pretended to be my "Pa," which was very fun. He videotaped us playing games (which was the only thing we did that wasn't from the 1800s).

My Dad is also funny and always making us laugh. But the thing I love most about him is that he always puts other people before himself (and that's a hard thing to do) but he does it wholeheartedly. I really love him a lot!

Alyssa Parkyn, age 10

I love my Dad because he spends time with me. He takes me to the park and plays ball with me. I like it when my Daddy and me work on wood projects. I love my Dad because he cuddles with me. He's the best Daddy in the whole world.

Our father, Wally Beers, is a loving father of seven and grandfather of 11. Back in 1987, my father suggested that my large family create a co-ed softball team (T.C.'s Brew Crew) as part of the Livonia Parks and Recreation Co-ed Softball Program. Our team consisted of six siblings, their spouses and other extended family members. Basically, our entire family made up the team. Dad was very competitive and played softball all of his life, so we knew what we were in for!

Dad coached, played and ran our team for about 10 years, until we decided there wasn't enough competition for us (or maybe it was that the average age of our team was approaching 40!). We had many hours of fun together as a family on those Sunday afternoons at Bicentennial

Park in Livonia. Our extended family cherishes those special times we had together, being a part of our co-ed team for so many years. We have truly been blessed to have such a wonderful, caring, Christian man to call Dad! We love you, Dad!

Janice Beers, Kathy Komender, Janice Creedon, Karen Beers, Gordon Beers, Mary Beckley and Brian Beers

When I was 7 years old I made a doll house with my Dad. My grandma had given it to me for my birthday (a do-it-yourself doll house kit). We built it and decorated it together just him and me. It took us five weeks to complete. At the end we brought it up from the basement and showed my Mom and brother. They were surprised at how well it turned out.

Now I am 9 years old and I still play with it. Each time I play with it I remember the fun I had assembling it with my SUPER Dad!

Kelsey Anderson, age 9

I remember a fishing trip with my Dad. When I was 8 years old we went together to Lake Michigan. We were having a race and I caught a bigger fish before he did! My Dad helped me reel it in. I fell backwards and he helped me keep my balance. We had a great time.

Ilijana Logu, age 9

One of my best times with my Dad is when he took me fishing and canoeing for the first time.

It was OK that we didn't catch any fish. We had lots of fun.
Justin Dotson, age 4
Livonia

Being the youngest of three, and the only daughter, there was not much alone time for my parents and I. But we found something that my brothers had no interest in - fishing. On weekend mornings we would be found on Lake St. Clair, trying to catch some perch or walleye. In all the years that we went fishing there was only one time my father and I went alone. Neither of us caught the catch of a lifetime, but to me it meant more than any fish I could have caught for this was the only time we ever spent alone.

What a beautiful memory, just the two of us, in our little fishing boat, spending quality time together. This memory will last a lifetime.

My best time with my dad is when he takes me for a motorcycle ride.

My name is Aaron Kevin Hurst. I am 14 years old, and I attend Stevenson Middle School in Westland. I'm writing you referring to your article in the Westland Observer. Father's Day is just around the corner and I couldn't think of a better gift to give my dad than to let him know how thankful I am to have such a good Dad.

I would have to consider myself the luckiest kid in the world because if it wasn't for my Dad I wouldn't be where I am now I race go karts nationally and he does it all He also works six to seven days a week about 12 hours a day at Chrysler and comes home and keeps the house up to par Kids at the track wouldn't be as fast as they are if it wasn't for him because he is always helping other people out, too

He is always positive cheering me on to another victory, and is always adjusting things to make me faster He is just an all around great guy He keeps my Mom happy and with all the work he does he still shows her how much he cares about her, and my other brother and sister, too I really hope that I grow up and have a lot to offer like my dad

Aaron K. Hurst

My best time with my Dad is when he took me to the movies to see Spiderman It was great! Happy Father's Day

Love, Brandon Kreher, age 4 Livonia

mean things and tries not to get angry, and he always tries to understand if you need help or if you have a problem He always tries to be there for you when you need him

When him and my mom went to Mexico for a week I missed him (and my Mom) a whole ton That is why I think my dad is special Even though he might not win any awards he is still my dad, Derek Pennington, and to me that means he's the best!

I know that not everyone has a Dad, so I will love and cherish (and listen to) him forever and ever! I love you dad #1 Dad

Jessica Pennington, age 10 Livonia

My best time with my Daddy is when he puts his legs up on the entertainment center and I sit on his legs and sometimes jump off them Happy Father's Day

Love, Kayce Zaemba, age 3 Livonia

even gives baths And though it seems there is always much to do He always takes the time to say 'I love you' So today on Father's Day our wish for you, is that you'll get a day of rest and relaxation too Happy Father's Day We love you

Kelsey, Keene, Kendyl and Kyler Weekley Redford

I liked it when me and my Dad went up to the store to buy some peanuts And I like it when he takes me to the mall

Justin Alton, age 4 Livonia

I am writing this letter hoping that it will get published because we want everyone to know that we think our Dad ROCKS! Our favorite time spent with our Dad was when he took us trout fishing last summer We went to a trout farm and fished all day In all we caught 11 fish Our Dad put the bait on our fishing lines because we were afraid of the squirmy worms

Our Mom packed a picnic lunch that we ate while the workers weighed and cleaned our fish We all liked fishing because we learned how to do something new and because we spent time together My brother, Brock and I are lucky to have such a great Dad! Happy Father's Day, Dad We love you

"Cecers and Brock-o" Diamond, ages 9 and 6 Livonia

One of my favorite times with my Dad is when he took me to the movies to see Ice Age We ate yummy popcorn! Happy Father's Day, Dad

Love, Nikolas Jamrog, age 4 Livonia

The day right after the last day of school my Dad (Rod), my uncle (Theodis) and my dog (Caesar) and me went on a big trip We left at about 10-10 30 a.m. On the first day we stopped in Wisconsin The next day we stopped at a KOA campground in Sioux Falls, South Dakota

I liked the next day after we saw the Badlands and Mt Rushmore They were both amazing sights On the next day we headed for Yellowstone National Park We stopped at this amazing site called Devils Tower It was a huge rock The next day we got into Yellowstone and got a campsite

The first day in Yellowstone we saw deer, bison and elk We also saw hot springs The first night and the second morning it rained The second day was wet and cold Guess what, we saw Old Faithful

It was very cold that night WE had pancakes the next morning

On the third and final day we saw many fascinating things

We saw a really huge and fat grizzly bear, coyotes and a female elk that was trying to attack a man with two dogs

The next day we left Yellowstone and stopped at a KOA in Salt Lake City, Utah Our next stop was the Grand Canyon The Grand Canyon was really grand to me

The next day we had to go home It was a sad time for all of us except for my dog I really enjoyed the trip and everybody else did too That was a great and memorable trip

Roderick Curry Westland

My Dad (Joel Weingarden) and I we like to travel and to fish together My dad and I have been to various destinations, and have gone fishing in various areas One of the places we have traveled to was Cancun, Mexico, where we went sailing and when we went to California and went fishing My Dad and I like to do a lot of things together and hope to continue to do that in the future

Jerome Weingarden Westland

My favorite outing with my Dad was the Father/Son campout for Boy Scout Troop 900 I had a great time My dad and I did lots of things like tomahawk golf and a scavenger hunt We had great food like roast elk and venison chili I got to spend some time with my friends and my dad I love my Dad

Gavin Swantick, 11

My father, Jim Simek, is on the speaker's bureau for the Cleveland, Ohio NASA Glenn Research Center I am a teacher for Willow Run Community Schools in Ypsilanti When I began teaching my father mentioned how nice it would be to give the NASA presentations while visiting my husband and I at the same time

This year my school found money in the budget, he found time in his schedule and he came to visit my husband and I for a few days while also giving NASA presentations to my students at my school It was a wonderful experience for the other teachers and students, but I was also happy to spend some quality time with my father, which is difficult when he lives over 150 miles away

Happy Father's Day, Theresa Latour Westland

My father, John Ptasnik, is an extraordinary person All of our outings are usually great, from family cookouts to shooting pool (at which he constantly beats me) We did take a memorable trip together, it was 14 years ago, after I had graduated college Mom was going to visit her sister, so Dad and I planned a trip to Washington, D.C. Neither of us had ever been, so we hopped a train and spent two days exploring museums and monuments, including the wall which I don't think either of us will ever forget It was a great experience that was even more special because I got to share it with my Dad

Happy Father's Day, Dad, I love you Pam Bushway Westland

My dad does everything for me and my mom He never takes time for himself He works all week and sometimes on the weekends too But no matter how busy he gets, he always finds time to volunteer for my class trips and we have never missed a Daddy/Daughter dance He is the best dad a kid could ever ask for He took me ice skating this winter because I wanted to learn to skate like the girls on TV We had so much fun together I love him so much

Katie Smith, age 8

Our Dad is GREAT! He makes any outing fun This picture was taken on a family vacation to San Diego We did lots of fun things there like Legoland, the San Diego Zoo and Sea World But the most fun of all was being in the hotel swimming pool with our Dad He does the best beach ball tricks! He finds the fun in

There are so many things that my husband, Mike Larson, likes to do with our children that it's kind of hard to pin point a specific 'favorite' time

Our daughter, Jayme, who is 7 years old and in the first grade loves when we go camping We also have a son, Jake, who recently turned 4 years old Our favorite time for camping is in Ludington Jayme and her Dad spend a lot of quality time together when they hike around the campsite which is near Lake Michigan I would have to say that Jayme's favorite time with her Dad is hiking every summer at Ludington State Park.

Kimberly Larson

I love it when my Dad sets up the tent in the basement and plays camping with me I love you, Dad

Nicole Naszardi, age 4 Livonia

I don't really have a special outing with my Dad, but I do know why he is special to me My dad is special to me because he loves me and I love him To me, that's the most important reason He is very helpful, kind, considerate and caring He is brave, strong and responsible He doesn't say

My best time with my Dad is when he takes me to the video store I like to rent Power Ranger movies with him

Nathan Ward, age 3 Westland

It may not sound like fun, but it certainly is fun for me when I go food shopping with my dad My two younger brothers stay at home with my mom At the store my dad buys me chips! Tuesdays is my day alone with my Dad He is a great Dad!

Omar Alayyoubi, age 8 Canton

My favorite time is when my Dad took me to the car show I saw lots of cars

Parth Patel, age 4 Livonia

Dad, Our #1 fan in whatever we do He's always there cheering and encouraging, too

He works two jobs (he's a very busy fellow) and hardly ever gets to lay his head on a pillow He drives us here and drives us there, picks up, drops off and takes us everywhere Could that be why he sometimes says we drive him crazy? He mows the lawn, takes out the trash, fixes the toilets and

 We want to say Happy Father's Day to our Dad - Dan Reilman Daddy's great Danny, 6, and Andrew, 3, Reilman Canton

My father, Charles (Bud) Morris, and I went on the first Free Press Michigander Bike Ride across the state of Michigan in 1992 I went with him by default as my sister at the last minute could not go and my Mom didn't want him

going it alone
 It turned out to be a wonderful experience It was a week of bike riding and camping with just my father and I which was hard to do coming from a family of nine children My father is now 78 years old and is still riding his bike
 In the past 10 years he has been raising money riding his bike in the MS 150, to benefit multiple sclerosis and has been one of the top money raisers He is currently going across the country, 4,000 miles from

Washington State to Washington, D C , with his godson, Father Eric Zimmer
 This time he is driving the support vehicle and riding a little bit, too, he said as he also brought his bike along
 This time he is raising money with Father Eric for Project Rachel, the National Office for Post-Abortion Reconciliation and Healing
 This ride is from May 26 to July 20
 I am proud to have him as a father as he has shown great integrity and caring, combining his joy of bike riding with his desire to raise money for his charitable causes You can follow my fathers progress across the state by logging onto www.liferide.us

The best time I have with my daddy is when we get all dressed up and go to the Girl Scout Daddy/Daughter dance I love dancing fast and slow dances and even the chicken dance I can't wait to go again
 Happy Father's Day, Daddy - I love you - you are the best daddy in the whole wide world

Love, Kayla Dempster Livonia

Nick with his dad, Rick Armes

The Big One
 Getting up at six in the morning to go ice fishing with my Dad, Rick Armes, was my idea of an adventure After my Uncle Eric came over with his gear we were ready to go After getting to Kensington Lake and deciding where we were going to fish, we started to unload By now it was nine in the morning with a light wind coming from the North and the temperature was about three degrees

While my uncle and I were inside the ice shanty my Dad was outside drilling the holes in the ice for the tip-ups to go into I thought to myself, "Wow, not many Dads would be drilling through seven inches of ice to fish Some Dads wouldn't even be out here right now at all When my Dad came in from the cold, we baited our hooks and started to fish After an hour or so of fishing, drinking hot chocolate and debating at who was in the lead with the most fish, I looked outside from the shanty and saw that the flag was up on the tip-up

"Hey Dad," I said, "I think there's a fish on the line!" So we went to see if there really was a fish While my Dad was pulling the line he said, "Go get the ice scoop so we can clear the shavings out of the hole

As I was running back to the shanty I turned around and saw my Dad pulling in the monster pike After he got the fish out of the hole he dropped it on the ice The fish hit the ice and started to slide back into the hole My Dad suddenly grabbed the fish by his gills and hoisted him on to the ice where we could all see him with our own eyes

The fish was a MONSTER He was three feet long and weighed 20 pounds After taking pictures and setting him free we put everything away and headed home While in the car I talked to my Dad about the experience "What a thriller!" my dad said He said that if it weren't for me noticing that something was on the line, we probably wouldn't have even caught the fish in the first place So ended a perfect day This is one of my most favorite memories of being with my Dad

Nick Armes, age 12 Livonia

My Dad (Ken Buczek) and I are NASCAR fans This is my Dad and I at the Michigan International Speedway last August My Dad got tickets for the two of us to go see the NASCAR Winston Cup race that weekend It was really cool to be able to tour the facility and to watch a good race Thanks, Dad

Joe Buczek Farmington Hills

My Dad is one of the greatest men on earth He was the man that taught me to ride a bike, Rollerblade, play baseball and many more things He is always there when I need advice, whether its about a boy or my homework If I didn't have him for a father, I'd probably be a girl that sits in the corner and waits for someone to come and talk to her, instead of the party girl always meeting new people and striking up an interesting conversation

My Dad, John Butkovich, is a supporting Dad, too I was on the Farmington cheerleading squad for three years and last year I was on the Garden City Junior High School Pompon squad Currently I'm on the Pompon squad again, and I wouldn't be able to continue with it without the emotional and mental support He is always there when I go to camp, practices and competitions He's always cracking jokes to make me smile again

I remember my first real hockey, baseball, football and Super Bowl party because my father took me I have two other sisters and a 4-year-old brother It's not exactly easy getting time alone with him He always is equal and fair to all of us, and to his loving wife Without her, I don't think that our family would be the same and both of them are probably the strongest married couple I know

If I didn't have a Dad like mine, I'd be a shy, sad and quiet girl He's my role model, best friend, and my father all in one I don't know what would happen if I lost my Dad If there was one person that I had to say was the all-American role model it would definitely be my father

New ways to manage diabetes encourage sufferers

BY KIMBERLY MORTSON
STAFF WRITER

Being diagnosed with diabetes is serious. The chronic condition, according to the American Diabetes Association, affects more than 17 million people (one third are unaware they have the disease) and we annually spend $132 billion on treatments. For all practical purposes though, people with diabetes can lead relatively normal lives.

"The percentage of Americans with Type 2 diabetes has doubled over the past 20 years, and the upward trend is expected to continue. Nearly 20 million Americans have diabetes, and up to 95 percent of them have Type 2," said Dr. Fred Whitehouse, M.D., division head emeritus of Endocrine/Metabolism at Henry Ford Hospital.

Medical experts in the field of diabetes will tell you a commitment to managing the disease, a willingness to lead a healthier lifestyle and a proactive approach to your health are all prescriptions to treating both types of the disease. While the cause of diabetes remains a puzzle, physicians know that two big pieces to solving the mystery include genetics and environmental factors such as a lack of physical activity and obesity.

SUGAR OVERLOAD

The pancreas is the organ in the body that produces insulin (a hormone that allows the body's cells to absorb glucose from the bloodstream). The challenge for a person with diabetes is that their pancreas has stopped producing insulin (Type 1) or it doesn't produce enough of the hormone to be sufficient (Type 2).

"Also known as adult-onset diabetes, Type 2 is characterized by the body's inability to properly use insulin — a hormone needed to move sugar out of the blood stream into cells," said Whitehouse. Furthermore, he noted minority groups more frequently suffer from Type 2 diabetes and experience more severe outcomes from the disease.

Without the correct level of insulin the body is overloaded with sugar in the bloodstream and can cause a number of problems including increased urination, thirst and fatigue. Untreated this can lead to high blood pressure, kidney disease and permanent vision damage.

If the pancreas is still producing insulin, but at insufficient levels, Type 2 patients can manage the condition through exercise, proper diet, a reduction in weight and medication. A diagnosis of Type 1 diabetes requires individuals to receive insulin injections to compensate for the lack of the hormone. This acts to balance out blood sugar levels.

NEW METHODS

One new approach to self-management is the development of a new generation of blood glucose monitors and blood glucose tests. According to Dr. George Grunberger, founder and chairman of the Diabetes Institute in Bloomfield Hills, the best predictor of diabetes complications is a test called HbA1c (hemoglobin A1c test) which shows a person's blood glucose level over the previous 60 to 90 days. This test will help doctors and their patients develop a long-range plan of action for the management of their illness. People with diabetes can experience radical fluctuations in their blood glucose levels during a 24-hour period due to smoking, diet and physical activity, etc.

"We base everything now on the numbers we receive from the monitors and tests like the A1c. Patients can't fake it anymore because we simply download the information from their machines and can tell the patterns in which their glucose changes," said Grunberger. This helps us see that on average they have a rise their blood sugar levels at a particular time of day or before or after they eat. The A1c test shows us a pattern over the past three months that is documented for the patient and myself to see. From there we discuss lifestyle changes like diet and exercise.

"Type 2 diabetes is a preventable illness but the number of people being diagnosed with diabetes is rising at an alarming rate. It's becoming an epidemic and it's just destroying us."

Sustaining positive HbA1c levels will help reduce the risk of diabetes complications such as blindness, kidney disease, nerve damage, stroke and heart failure.

Davida Kruger, R.N. works alongside Fred Whitehouse, M.D., division head emeritus, Division of Endocrine/Metabolism, Henry Ford Hospital.

The American Diabetes Association and the National Institute of Diabetes & Digestive & Kidney Diseases recommends an HbA1c test 2-4 times per year. There are several FDA-approved at-home testing kits available including A1cNow Monitor, A1c At Home, eBioSafe Home HbA1c Kit and Accu-Base Hemoglobin A1c Sample Collection Kit.

There are also home test kits that you ship to a laboratory for results.

The HbA1c test is best described as the "big picture" compared to the "snapshots" a patient receives on a day-to-day basis when he or she monitors blood sugar levels. You should always consult your physician and a diabetes educator about your readings if you perform the test at home or have your results mailed to you.

LIFE DOESN'T STOP

Another way patients are encouraged to maintain a normal lifestyle is to continue staying active through hobbies, social events, clubs and traveling. Henry Ford certified nurse practitioner Davida Kruger, M.S.N., R.N. recently published a book titled The Diabetic Traveler. She encourages patients to continue to incorporate travel plans into their life rather than letting the disease confine them. Being sedentary is one of the worst things a diabetic can do.

In the book, she organizes all of the things necessary to do before you travel whether you're "taking a business trip, changing time zones or just changing your scenery," said Kruger, the chair of the American Diabetes Association Research Foundation. Kruger suggests you create a diabetes survival kit, find insurance to cover medical expenses while you travel and plan for every situation you can think of "and survive the ones you just didn't expect."

Since 1982, Kruger has been a certified nurse practitioner in the Henry Ford System, her responsibilities include both clinical practice and research. Previously, she served as president of the Health Care and Education of the American Diabetes Association.

The Diabetic Traveler provides a wealth of suggestions for ways to prepare for your excursion including packing lists for all

RADIATION ONCOLOGIST

Ronald B. Irwin, M.D., executive vice president and chief medical officer of the Beaumont Hospitals, recently announced the appointment of radiation oncologist Frank A. Vicini, M.D., to the position of corporate chief of Oncology Services.

A former breast cancer fellow at the Harvard Medical School, Vicini is internationally recognized for his research of brachytherapy (radiation implants) and delivering radiation with greater precision for women with early-stage breast cancer.

Vicini replaces Irwin in the top cancer position. He assumes his new job July 1.

INTERNSHIP

Erin Murfey, a recent graduate of Georgetown University Medical School, is beginning a rotating internship at Beaumont Hospital in the emergency room. Murfey, a Livonia resident, is the daughter of Chris and Janis Murfey and a graduate of Churchill High School and Hillsdale College.

HOSPICE DIRECTOR

Beaumont Hospital has announced the appointment of Betty Stacer, R.N., as director of Beaumont Hospice. Prior to taking over as director, she served five years as a hospice

team manager

In her new position, Stacer is responsible for overseeing the operation of the hospice program, a part of Beaumont Home Health Services. Her duties include planning, developing, implementing and managing the program to best serve the wide range of patient needs in the community.

NEW KARMANOS CIO

John Ruckdeschel, M.D., president and chief executive officer of the Detroit-based Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute, has appointed Richard L.H. Rauscher as vice president of Information Technology (IT) and Biomedical Informatics and chief information officer. In this position, Rauscher is responsible for (the strategic direction of) the Institute's information systems and all aspects of support for its research and clinical initiatives.

"We are committed to providing patients in metro Detroit with the best cancer research and treatment available. An excellent and efficient IT system is key to supporting that mission," said Ruckdeschel. "Richard is a proven leader in the development of information systems. I'm confident that under Richard's leadership, our IT will become among the best cancer center systems nationwide."

"I am delighted to be here at the Karmanos Cancer Institute and working with Jack again," said Rauscher. "Among our top-level IT objectives is revamping the Institute's Web site to make it more accessible for patients, doctors and our general community."

Rauscher holds a B.A. in computer science from Rutgers University in New Brunswick, N.J., and a M.S. in computer science from the University of South Florida in Tampa Bay, Fla. Rauscher is a member of the American Medical Informatics Association and presents regularly at academic conferences on the design of effective and reliable IT systems for use in healthcare.

RESEARCHER HONORED

Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute researcher and professor at Wayne State University School of Medicine, Avraham Raz, Ph.D., has been recognized by his peers for more than two decades in cancer research and discovery. The Metastasis Research Society, an international nonprofit organization, has honored Raz with the Paget-Ewing Award for his many years of work in helping to find a cure for cancer.

"The Karmanos Cancer Institute is nationally recognized for its outstanding cancer research and clinical excellence, and Dr. Raz is one of the reasons why," said John C. Ruckdeschel, M.D., director and chief executive officer.

WEATHER AND ARTHRITIS
 People with arthritis who say "I can feel the weather in my bones" aren't kidding. What happens is that changes in barometric pressure are transmitted into the bones of our bodies. An increase in pressure causes a slight expansion of the bones; this movement may suffice to bring inflamed joint surfaces into contact. In turn, joint aching and pain occurs and becomes a signal the person learns from experience accompanies a shift in the weather.

Several arthritic conditions change under the influence of the seasons. Lupus arthritis is worse in spring and summer and improves in the fall and winter seasons. The reason is that ultraviolet light striking the skin sets off events that increase Lupus antibodies. In fall and winter, lack of light causes a decline in these antibodies. Individuals with psoriatic arthritis experience just the opposite effect: The ultraviolet light of spring and summer treat psoriasis and lessens the arthritis. Lack of ultraviolet in fall and winter cause the psoriasis and accompanying arthritis to flare.

For reasons that are unclear, people with a sensitive stomach note an increase in their gastric irritation in the start of spring and the beginning of fall. Many of the medications used in arthritis cause stomach irritation. Thus, doctors need to tailor the medications prescribed to fit the season and the stomach.

In treating patients with arthritis, a physician must keep aware not only of his daily schedule but where he is in the calendar year.

types of trips whether they're local or abroad. She also offers suggestions on the best way to take medications and syringes on a trip, translations of essential diabetes phrases into seven languages and resources to help you plan a trip and while you're traveling.

Grunberger said lifestyle changes are the first step in "leading a normal life with diabetes not for diabetes."

There are ongoing research studies and trials under way to provide diabetes patients with new oral insulin medications, more advanced insulin pumps, custom-made insulin and insulin taken by inhaler - a clinical study currently being performed at the Diabetes Institute in Bloomfield Hills where volunteers are being sought.

"The face of diabetes has changed over the last 10 years. It used to be found in a much older population of people but now we're seeing a faster growing segment of patients in the 30 to 45 year range and something we've never seen before - children. The best plan of action is change. People need to recognize how predictable the development of this illness can be and start eating better and exercising more." Davida Kruger's book can be found at www.amazon.com. Father's Day comes 365 times a year

Canton dad lives out a dream working with his 3 sons

BY SANDRA DALKA-PRYSBY
CORRESPONDENT

Every day is Father's Day for Bob Kime. This is because he not only has a job he loves, but he gets to work with all three of his sons.

When Kime started RDK Homes in Canton 10 years ago, little did he know that one day he'd be joined by his sons.

"It was a dream, something I hoped for," said the builder of residential homes, "but I didn't want to influence them on their career choices. I wanted them to make their own decisions about what they wanted to do."

The three Kime boys worked on weekends and during summer school breaks first for their dad's and uncle's company (they started Kime Brothers in 1983) and then their dad's business Brothers Curt and Bob Kime decided to form separate companies as their families got larger. Both wanted to have a business that they some day could pass down to their children.

The young Kime boys didn't have easy jobs when they first got their hands dirty. They learned from the bottom up and handled such jobs as clearing land and construction. Although they were acquiring knowledge of the business, it didn't look as if they would end up at RDK Homes. This was especially true for two of them.

Greg, 33, chose to study journalism and community recreation at Central Michigan University. His goal sports writer. He joined his dad's business, however, when he graduated, "because there was a sales position open in the new company." And now, 10 years later, he is still happy with his choice.

"I have the opportunity to use the communication skills I learned," said the head of sales and marketing. "I love what I do and I couldn't have a better boss. I also like working with the other staff members," he added as he offered a smile to his two brothers.

Matt, 25, also started out in a different direction. While studying at Kalamazoo College, pre-med was his choice. By the time he graduated in 2000, his interests had changed.

Now, instead of seeing patients, he is overseeing construction crews at the company's various sites. RDK Homes primarily develops subdivisions of three- and four-bedroom homes in the mid-price range of $250,000 to $300,000. Its homes and condominiums are located or being built in Canton, Van Buren Township, Ypsilanti Township and, most recently, Augusta Township and Monroe.

In addition to enjoying the work he does, Matt said there are other benefits to the job. "I get to see my dad and brothers every day. I know their personalities and can often tell what they are thinking, which makes my job easier," he said.

According to Kime's youngest son, the best reason for being in the family business is the respect they all have for each other.

"And trust," added Greg. "It's great to work at a place where you can trust each other."

Brian, 27, agrees that respect and trust, combined with a comfort level that comes from being with family, made his decision to join the company even better. A graduate of the University of Michigan with a degree in civil engineering, Brian learned how to design homes from his uncle Curt Kime, an architect. He now handles this responsibility for RDK Homes as well as most of the technical end of the planning and building, contract negotiations and budget development.

"I just worked my way into the business and I'm glad I'm here," Brian said. "I wouldn't want to do anything else, or do it at any other place."

Because the family was strong and close before they became co-workers, the Kimes do not have the corporate mentality of climbing over one another to get ahead. "Each of my sons have their own strengths and by working together, we all succeed. We're a team," said Bob Kime.

Learning how to be team players and taking directions from their dad has not been difficult for the Kime sons. When they were younger, their dad often coached their baseball teams.

"Coach" Kime, who is sometimes "boss," but always "dad," said one of his greatest joys has been watching his boys grow into successful and professional men. He added that because of their contributions, the business has bloomed much larger than he ever envisioned. "This, to me, is the American dream."

BILL BRESLER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Bob Kime and sons Brian, Matt and Greg have worked together for about ten years

The Kime men haven't been the only contributors to the family business. Kime's wife, Margaret, has served various roles, including bookkeeper in the early days of the company. She currently adds her creative touch by helping to decorate the model homes.

Also, the Kimes' daughter, Julie Kime Callcut, 28, was instrumental in helping to establish Evergreen Mortgage, an allied business to RDK Homes. She is now a full-time mother and raising the next generation, 10-month-old Nicholas.

Kime added that all three generations — his, his children's and now his grandson's — have his father, Curtis Kime, 82, to thank for where they are today. "He is the type of man who truly needs to be honored today on Father's Day," he said.

"My dad, who built and remodeled houses and buildings for himself in rural Morenci in southern Michigan, set a standard of hard work and decency," Kime said. With a look of joy and pride, he added that his sons are continuing this legacy today on a daily basis.

"There has been nothing more terrific than working with my sons except, maybe, fishing."

Unless otherwise provided, any person, corporation, partnership or any other legal entity who violates the provisions of this Ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and may be fined not more than Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars or imprisoned for not more than ninety (90) days or both at the discretion of the Court.

SECTION 4. SEVERABILITY.

If any clause, sentence, section, paragraph or part of this Ordinance or the application thereof to any person, firm, corporation, legal entity or circumstances shall be for any reason adjudged by a court of competent jurisdiction to be unconstitutional or invalid, said judgment shall not affect, impair or invalidate the remainder of this Ordinance. It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent of this body that the Ordinance is severable and that the Ordinance would have been adopted had such invalid or unconstitutional provision not have been included in this Ordinance.

SECTION 5. REPEAL OF CONFLICTING ORDINANCES.

All Ordinances or parts of Ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed only to the extent necessary to give this Ordinance full force and effect.

SECTION 6. SAVINGS CLAUSE.

All rights and duties which have matured, penalties which have been incurred, proceedings which have begun and prosecution for violations of law occurring before the effective date of this Ordinance are not affected or abated by this Ordinance.

SECTION 7. PUBLICATION.

The Clerk for the Charter Township of Plymouth shall cause this Ordinance to be published in the manner required by law.

SECTION 8. EFFECTIVE DATE.

This Ordinance as amended shall take full force and effect upon publication as required by law.

The above is a summary of proposed Ordinance No. C 2003 01 considered for first reading at the June 10, 2003 regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Charter Township of Plymouth. It will be submitted for second reading at the regularly scheduled Board Meeting on Tuesday, June 24, 2003. The Ordinance in full is available in the Clerk's Office for public perusal at 42350 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, MI 48170 during regular business hours 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. kids again, only in better shoes and better clothes.

When that father took his daughter, the coach and owner of the new gym to the dance floor, the room seemed to hush as the music quieted and slowed.

I watched as this man, this proud father, danced with his daughter. In that dance, in that man, I saw a glimmer, a memory.

It was as if my own father were dancing in front of me. A simple dance with her father at the opening of her gym, her dream. It must have meant so much.

In that moment I traveled back 16 years, back to that last Father's Day, back to that last chat.

I wanted that chance to have my Dad to dance with me.

As we danced I would have told my Dad about his grandchildren, told him about the weddings he missed, told him about the changes in the world during the 16 years he has been gone.

My Dad was right. Turning 30 was better than the alternative. I turned back to that father, that daughter, on the dance floor in front of me, celebrating her dream together.

Lifes true measure of success

Teaching kids to avoid abduction

BY JOHN R. HALL
CORRESPONDENT

The "Escape School" sounds like an institution that teaches people how to escape from captivity. Actually, it is much more meaningful than that.

Escape School is a program developed by former police officer Bob Stuber, who created a series of safety techniques to help children avoid abduction at the hands of would-be kidnapers.

"The techniques are very creative," said Tia Macklin, an Escape School instructor and office assistant at the R.G. and G.R. Harris Funeral Home in Livonia. The funeral home is one of several in the greater Detroit area that sponsor Escape School informational programs for local schools and community groups.

"Dignity Memorial is a national funeral home provider who sponsors the Escape School on a national scale," she added. "Being part of Dignity, we have access to this program and the training involved in presenting the program to the public."

The program is geared toward children from the ages of 6 to 12. Macklin said the program takes approximately an hour to explain and demonstrate, including a video showing Stuber.

"We call children up to the front of the group and actually demonstrate some of the techniques from the program," she added. "There are four techniques that we demonstrate. One is called the Velcro technique."

"If a child is being pursued by a bad stranger, the child can go to another stranger and hang on to him as tight as she can until that (good) stranger helps him out."

Macklin said that the program teaches children not to judge a stranger by how he or she looks, but by their actions.

"Stuber classifies them as strangers with good actions and strangers with bad actions," she added.

Macklin said that the program is received very well by the children - and adults as well.

"This is a serious subject and parents tend to be somewhat leery about it, so they attend the programs with their children," she added. "This is good - we encourage them to join their children. Parents will watch the program and say, 'I had no idea' about the techniques we use."

The video presentation is "kid friendly" with lots of bells and whistles - including music - to keep the kids' attention. Stuber tries to make as many personal appearances as possible, but he has a very busy travel schedule across the U.S.

However, he does stay in touch with interested parents and children through the Escape School Web site at www.escapeschool.com.

The Web site has a listing of the various instructors throughout the U.S., how to get in touch with local sponsors and some informative articles on Escape Program, which can be downloaded and distributed.

There are stories about children who escaped from abductors thanks to the knowledge they gained from an Escape School presentation. One involved a 10-year-old boy who had viewed the Stuber tape. Not long afterward, a man attempted to abduct the boy outside a public restroom. The boy yelled out that he was being kidnapped and struggled with the abductor, eventually kicking him in his "privates" and escaping. The grateful parents wrote a letter to Escape School, which is published on the Web site.

"Because our program is only one hour long and it is an ongoing process, we encourage people to visit the Web site," Macklin added. "It is very interactive and answers the questions that we cannot answer."

There is a 10-question test at the Web site that children can take. If they pass it, they can print out a color certificate with their name on it.

"We'll go to anyplace in Livonia and surrounding areas to make our presentation," said Macklin. "I love to watch the children when they catch on to the presentation."

Macklin said that her experiences working with the funeral home have exposed her to the sad side of losing a child and she wants to do whatever she can to prevent that from happening.

Since summer is almost here, the program is available for vacation Bible schools and daycare centers. For more information or to schedule a presentation, visit the Web site or call Macklin at the R.G. and G.R. Harris Funeral Home at 734-422-6720.

Car buff designs poster for Great Race

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Van Nazarian's love for vintage cars made it easy for him to come up with a design for The Great Race poster. It's apparent by the 1965 Corvette in his Livonia driveway, Nazarian is a car buff. A quick visit to his studio shows the extent of his involvement with automobile related events in the area.

One by one Nazarian pulls out posters, a T-shirt and key chain created for the race leaving the Livonia Community Recreation Center 12:30 p.m. Saturday, June 21. Next is a newsletter for Crusin' The Grand in Farmington. Every Monday night in summer Nazarian meets with other vintage car enthusiasts at the corner of Farmington and Grand River.

Nazarian was interested in vintage cars long before he was asked to create promotional materials for The Great Race. He studied transportation design at Society of Arts & Crafts (now College for Creative Studies) after taking photography classes at Wayne State University. Today Nazarian designs the quarterly Michigan Rolls Royce magazine. The International Lady So it's no surprise he'll be there for all pre-race activities including

The Great Race Trophy Run from the Livonia Holiday Inn to Michigan International Speedway and back to Livonia City Hall Friday, June 20. The event kicks off the Saturday race which has 101 teams registered.

"I want to help make it as big as we can," said Nazarian who also designed the trophy for the Friday run. "I began by looking for ideas and made thumbnail sketches. I had known about the race before from the History Channel."

"In Livonia it's going to be such a fun family event. Livonia's motto is families first so it's a perfect fit."

Susan Roush McClenaghan agrees with Nazarian about Livonia being an ideal location for the starting line. This is home to Roush Industries, her father Jack's company. Jack Roush is well known in automotive racing circles. Add to that the fact that she's competing with husband Dale McClenaghan in the race. But before then she'll greet visitors to an open house to view the Roush collection of vintage and racing vehicles 5:30 p.m. to dark Wednesday, June 18, at 11851 Market Street in Livonia.

"I think Van's poster promotes the spirit of the race," said Susan Roush McClenaghan, an artist

Van Nazarian featured a Hudson Speedster in his poster for The Great Race. Drivers leave Livonia on Saturday and arrive in Daytona Beach, Florida July 5.

herself. "It's very classy like the cars themselves."

Summer camps emphasize self-esteem, fitness

Navigating the road through adolescence can be tricky. Thankfully though the programs at Girls Empowered can prepare kids, and their parents, for the journey

Just ask Pam and Jessica Stanley of Southfield

They first learned about the motivational/fitness business when Pam, then a Girl Scout troop leader, asked Girls Empowered to hold a workshop for her troop, which included her daughter Jessica. They were reintroduced to the programs when Jessica joined a friend for camp

Today, 12-year-old Jessica regularly attends Girls Empowered summer camps and says other teen girls can benefit from the lessons she learns

I think a lot of teens go through self-esteem issues, and the nutrition (camp) helps you organize your day and keep active

In the Self-Esteem/Fitness Camps, girls learn how to speak up for themselves and not worry what others think of them. Each day includes an age-appropriate educational activity and exercise class. Worksheets are sent home to help parents reinforce the skills their daughters are developing

"We're about giving girls the skills and tools they need so they have the confidence to make the right decisions for themselves," says Girls Empowered owner Kimber Bishop-Yanke

This summer, additional Self-Esteem/Fitness Camp sessions are available in Livonia and many in new locations throughout Oakland and Wayne Counties. A new camp for boys is offered. Registration is $150

Go to www.girlsempowered.com or call (248) 396-3066 for details

Meanwhile, at the Stanley household in Southfield, mother and daughter are deciding and planning Jessica's summer camp schedule. Pam appreciates the programs. "We're involved with Girls Empowered because I want her to be empowered"

A sixth-grader at Sacred Heart Academy in Bloomfield Hills, Jessica says "Girls Empowered will help you with anything you do when you're older"

Girls Empowered programs promote and boost self-esteem, self-confidence, healthy living, personal empowerment and a positive body image among preteen and teen-age girls. Bishop-Yanke, a 15-year veteran of the fitness industry, has a Masters in International Management

Over 6,000 girls have participated in Girls Empowered programs

Buyers at Livonia condo site can design own units

The lay of the land, location and ability of purchasers to customize recommend Deerwoods, 11 detached condominiums off Five Mile between Levan and Farmington roads in Livonia.

"Would you expect to have your home built on a plateau overlooking a protected area with wetlands?" said Jim Szkrybalo, partner in SJJ Development.

"This is a helluva site. We're at a loss for words. This is one of the last parcels in Livonia abutting a nature preserve," he said.

"Livonia has the best services, I consider, in the state," said Larry Henney, partner. "Schools are excellent. This is one of the safest cities in the U.S. There's three golf courses. It's great."

"We're going to not rush things here," said Steve Summers, partner. "We take our time to do things right. We want customers to know they get a detail job with a heavy emphasis on quality."

Prospective buyers who like what they see at the model will be directed to GAV Associates in Farmington Hills, architects for Deerwoods. Some ranch, colonial and story-and-a-half plans will be presented as a starting point. But they don't have to be the end product.

"Each home will be entirely unique," Henney said. "We want buyers to participate in the design."

"We truly want to customize homes here," Szkrybalo added. Deerwoods' location with easy access to the I-96 and I-275 freeways, shopping at Laurel Park and Livonia Mall, the new Livonia Community Recreation Center and a host of restaurants also should attract lookers.

For about $379,900, purchasers should be able to build a ranch of 2,100 square feet with three bedrooms and two bathrooms, a 2,300-square-foot story-and-a-half with four beds and 2½ baths, or a 2,500-square-foot colonial with four beds and 2½ baths.

Ranches, like this one, are available at Deerwoods in Livonia. Folks who buy there also can choose a colonial or story and a-half model.

The seven walk-out lots at Deerwoods carry a premium of $20,000 to $50,000. Figure on another $20,000 to $50,000 to finish the lower level.

Homes will include two-car garage, first-floor laundry, basement, air conditioning, fireplace, dishwasher, ceramic or wood flooring in the foyer and kitchen/nook, ceramic baths and a carpeting allowance of $3,000.

Homes also will include energy-efficient furnace and water heater. Brick is the primary exterior material. Dimensional shingles will be standard.

The model, a ranch, includes a dining room, butler's pantry, kitchen/nook with breakfast bar counter and the sink oriented toward a pass-through wall to the great room, which includes fireplace and cathedral ceiling.

Two bedrooms and a full bath are on one side of the home, the master suite with two-sink vanity, walk-in closet and compartmentalized toilet on the other. The walk-out lower level was to include a fireplace, wet bar, exercise room, study, great room and a full bath.

The model with lot premium and landscaping was priced at about $480,000.

Deerwoods, serviced by city water and sewers, is within the Livonia public school boundaries.

The property tax rate is currently $34.57 per $1,000 of state taxable value, half of sales price for new construction. That means the owners of a $380,000 home there would pay about $6,600 the first year.

The annual association fee is projected at $300.

A turkey farm just east of the property shouldn't deter buyers, the principals said.

"She's only in business from Labor Day to Christmas," Szkrybalo said. "Only two homes about it."

The wind blows from west to east, Henney added.

The sales model at Deerwoods is open 15 p.m. Friday through Monday. Henney can be reached at (734) 432-1010.

One fire called arson, the other suspicious; information sought

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

Law enforcement officials have appealed to the public for help in solving what they say was an arson and a suspicious fire at two residential subdivisions under construction in metro Detroit in recent months.

They also asked that any suspicious activity observed at construction sites - especially at night or early morning hours - be reported immediately to 9-1-1 to prevent similar incidents from occurring.

Two houses were destroyed June 4 at Willow Ridge, Washington Township in Macomb County and two March 31 at Mystic Forest, Superior Township in Washtenaw County.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation hosted a news conference on June 11 with several law enforcement agencies and the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan to update the cases.

"We have determined the fires in Superior Township were, in fact, arson and the fires at Macomb County are still under investigation," said Gregory L. Holley, special agent in charge of the Detroit office, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. Holley termed the Washington Township fires "suspicious" pending further lab analysis.

"It could be one (person) or several," said Willie T. Hulton, special agent in charge of the FBI Detroit office.

The message "ELF-Stop Sprawl" was left at both subdivisions where fires occurred, Hulton said.

The ELF press office describes the Earth Liberation Front on the Internet as an organization "that takes non-violent, direct action to halt destruction of the environment."

The ELF press office denied involvement in the fires in a recent e-mail communication with the Observer & Eccentric.

"There were occupied dwellings in the vicinity to where these (Washington Township) fires were," said Macomb Sheriff Capt. Rick Kalm.

The BIA, Michigan Association of Home Builders and the Home Builders Association of Washtenaw County have combined to offer a $15,000 reward for information leading to arrest and court conviction in the fires.

Additionally, the Michigan State Police Fire Marshal Division offers a $5,000 reward in this case.

The BIA also plans a membership meeting at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Troy Marriott to update and offer arson prevention tips.

"Some members of the public probably see activities that are suspicious and don't do anything about it," Hulton said. "If they see suspicious activity, especially at night, contact local law enforcement officers immediately. Don't approach or confront."

The FBI can be reached at (313) 965-2323, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms at (888) ATF-FIRE, the Michigan State Police Fire Marshal Division at (800) 44-ARSON and the BIA at (248) 737-4477.

Preservationist recommends more density, mixed-use land zoning

(AP) - Tom Hylton doesn't care much for one-acre lots. He doesn't like destination shopping or drive-through windows either, and he cringes at pictures of suburban housing complexes winding through what used to be farmland.

Hylton, who won a Pulitzer Prize in 1990 for editorials advocating the preservation of farmland and open space in southeastern Pennsylvania, made his case against sprawl recently at the Vermont Historic Preservation Conference.

He praised Vermont for its commitment to village and town centers.

But Hylton urged the more than 200 preservationists, civic leaders and city planners to create new mixed residential and commercial zoning areas and to recommit themselves to redeveloping Vermont's historic Main Streets.

"Let's expand and restore our cities and towns," he said. "Let's live in a real town that includes people from all walks of life - one that mirrors the economic and racial pictures of our states. Where you can walk to work or school. We must safeguard against sprawl."

Hylton endorsed a city planning approach that increases urban density and protects the surrounding landscape from development. He envisions more American communities where residents live in small tight neighborhoods and all of life's necessities are within walking distance.

Preservation Trust of Vermont Executive Director Paul Bruhn said the conference's theme, Creating Community Partnerships, was really an outgrowth of current work in the state.

"This is really about the work we're doing," he said. "You have to depend on local partners to do important preservation. You can provide technical assistance and grant money, but in the end it requires the commitment of the people in the community to make it happen."

Bruhn said the work of local preservationists has gained momentum in recent years.

"It's incredibly inspiring to see the work that's being done in the state," he said. "Since Sept. 11, there has been an even greater focus on community and community building. People are looking closer to home to lead a great life. Community is growing."

Study examines cost of development

(AP) - Wyoming county commissioners tend to approve rural residential developments despite evidence showing the ranchettes eat up more money in public services than they generate in tax revenue, a new University of Wyoming study showed.

Across Wyoming, converting 35 acres of rural land into residential developments creates an average $1.13 in county government and school expenses for every dollar in revenue generated, researchers concluded in the study.

The agricultural economics professors found a net loss for counties throughout the state. For every dollar generated in revenue, expenses ranged from a low of $1.03 in Weston County to a high of $1.45 in Hot Springs County.

Teton County, with its high revenues and income, was not included in the study because it skewed model results, researchers said.

Commissioners, meanwhile, continue to approve the developments out of hope they will pay for themselves, even though they never have and really can't while counties have "bargain basement rates of taxation," said Sam Western, an author and prominent critic of the Wyoming economy.

"There's always the hope that maybe someday it'll work," he said. In the study, UW researchers used figures from the 1997 Census of Agriculture to find out what would happen if an average Wyoming agricultural operation of 3,781 acres was subdivided into 35-acre lots.

of agricultural land. Such protection would save money as well as wildlife habitat, water quality and views.

Carl Mailler, an economic planner with American Farmland Trust, said data developed by his group, UW researchers and others can help county officials find balance in land use decisions.

Communities can't just focus on commercial and industrial development.

"You get in a cycle," Mailler said, "if you invest solely in commercial/industrial development. After a while, you have new people coming to work in those businesses and they need housing. You can never build your way out of taxes for more services, because people want those services."

The study's key points, researchers and experts said, are twofold.

One is that new expenses almost always exceed new revenues and therefore can't be used as a way to balance local budgets.

"I think the other point is that agricultural lands act as a sort of fiscal sponge," Mailler said, generating some surplus while still undeveloped.

Let's Talk About
Real Estate

"SELLER BEWARE"

Do you remember when you bought a home with the understanding that you were buying it "as is"? This was referred to as "caveat emptor" or "Let the buyer beware." In simple English, this phrase meant that if the house had problems, the buyer assumed the responsibility for those problems and had no recourse to the seller. This is no longer the case.

Today's situation calls for the seller to beware of delivering a property to the buyer that has material hidden defects. When you sell your home, there are two additional steps that you may have to take that were not a part of the transaction ten years ago. They are seller disclosure and the home inspection.

SELLER DISCLOSURE

In many parts of the country, sellers must fill out and sign a document called, "Seller Disclosure Form." This form lists every feature of the property and the seller must indicate if each feature is in good working order or in need of repair. If an item is in need of repair and the seller does not acknowledge this fact, he or she could be held liable for falsifying this document. If repairs are needed, it would be best to fix needed items so the disclosure form can be filled out accurately and not list problems that would discourage a potential buyer from seeing the property.

HOME INSPECTION

Most buyers will include a phrase in their offer allowing them the opportunity to have the house inspected by a licensed home inspector before going through with the purchase. If the buyer is made aware of problems by the inspector, he or she may choose to terminate the purchase.

ADVICE: If you plan on selling your home, get the help of an experienced Realtor who can guide you through these extra complications and on to a successful sale.

Rustic home perfect for setting

With its rustic look, the Ginna would be great for a vacation home or for the family that lives in a forest setting. There is a brick fireplace chimney on the outside right and a wood pole porch. There are shutters on the windows and each window is paned to create the look of the old West.

The front door enters directly into the living room. It has a hall closet to the left of the door and large open area that is the living room and dining room together. The fireplace is surrounded by windows and faces the main part of the room. The dining room is large and also has windows that bathe the room in a lot of natural light.

In the left corner of this great room is the kitchen. It has an 'L' shaped counter with a large pantry at the rear. On a separate counter are the sinks and the dishwasher. A door opens onto a small stoop going out to the backyard.

The entire left side of the home is bedrooms. The master suite is in the left front and has a long wall closet. Windows are spaced so that the room has a good source of light and brightness. The master bath is to the right of the suite and has a single sink and a tub.

Adjacent to this bathroom is the bathroom for the rest of the home. It also has a single sink and a tub. Bedroom two is the larger of the two other bedrooms. However, both rooms have large windows and a wall closet. These are conveniently located near the master suite for the family with small children.

Even though the Ginna is rustic, it would be ideal for the first time buyer, or for an empty nester, or as a vacation home.

It's vital to learn more about selling your home before you sign on

Ever consider selling your own home? It's not easy. If it was, everyone would do it.

The main incentive is to save a lot of money. The standard Realtor's commission is six percent which amounts to $15,000 on a $250,000 home. Not all of that could be saved because a 'For Sale By Owner' home still needs to be promoted and advertised. Legal and other fees may also be involved. But one could probably allot $2,000 to $4,000 to cover these expenses.

The question is, could you do it? Maybe not if the market is particularly slow or you live in an area where homes are hard to sell. Realtors can reach more potential buyers. Also, high value homes (above $500,000) are especially hard to sell by owner because upscale buyers find it helpful to use a Realtor as a buyer's agent. And Realtors often steer buyers away from homes for sale by owner.

Would you want to do it? There is a lot of work, worry and time involved in selling a home, and the seller would have to handle all the difficulties that normally arise. In addition, one could inadvertently do something wrong and cause legal problems. A lot is at stake.

All these considerations aside, many people still feel they have the ability and chutzpah to tackle the job. But before the final decision, it will be helpful to view what is in store for them versus the person who uses a Realtor.

PREPARATION

The first stage of selling your home is preparation. It involves preparing the home to be shown and subsequently inspected. Everything broken needs to be fixed. A good first impression is important. That requires curb appeal. It's also curb appeal that entices buyers to come inside where the sought-after look is light, clean and uncluttered.

The second stage, setting the

price, predetermines whether the house will be efficiently sold or languish on the market. The right price is best suggested by a Realtor, whether one is used to sell the house or not. They have the expertise. A price that is too high will be self-defeating and too low would be overly generous.

The right price is largely determined through a comparative market analysis. The homeowner, however, who has done some neighborhood research, should have a say in the matter. A Realtor will gladly do comparative market analyses for homes for sale by owner in the expectation that the owners will, sooner or later, let the Realtor sell the home or assist in finding the next home.

PROMOTION

The third stage is promoting, showing and selling the home. This is the most challenging stage. To properly handle it, homeowners will need to become educated. The alternative is to learn by trial and error, not a good idea.

Spend time at your local library reading books on how to sell a house. In addition, continuing education classes on this subject, offered through local colleges or community education programs, can be invaluable.

Finally, there are 'For Sale By Owner' stores. They are usually affiliated with a title company that wants to attract this kind of business. The stores provide advice, forms, title and closing services to fit sellers' needs. The forms and advice are free. The title and closing services are reasonably priced.

The next to final stage is often called the paperwork stage. It involves negotiating a good sales contract, ensuring disclosures and inspections don't become impediments, and following up to see that contract terms and time limitations are met. A Realtor normally does all of this.

If there is no Realtor, the homeowner will have to do it. It takes good judgment, ability to handle details, and a desire to always be a part of the answer rather than a part of the problem. It might be advisable to hire an attorney to review the sales contract. This is true regardless of sales method but especially true if it is a 'For Sale by Owner'.

CLOSING

The consummation of sale (the closing) is handled by the title company. Prior to, a Realtor would review all title matters and financial closing statements and resolve any problems. Absent a Realtor, homeowners or their attorneys should perform these tasks.

This isn't a complete picture of the home selling process but it provides a sketch of what is involved whether homeowners sell their house themselves or use the services of a Realtor.

Oh, one more job is required of homeowners who use a Realtor. They need to carefully select one who is competent and a good communicator.

As you can see, it's a big decision. For me, big decisions start with research. I would talk to a couple of Realtors and a 'For Sale by Owner' seller, consult a 'For Sale By Owner' store proprietor, attend a class on the subject and read about it. This sort of thing leads to an informed decision, usually the best kind.

What will you do when you are ready for your next move?

Alan Wells is a real estate sales agent with Cranbrook Associates Realtors Inc. in Bloomfield Hills. Prior to becoming a Realtor, he sold four homes by owner. He teaches a course called 'How To Sell a Home Quickly' through Macomb Community College Continuing and Professional Education. He can be reached at (248) 647-0100.

Preservation eyed for chunk of ranch

(AP) - Up to 100,000 acres will be preserved as part of a deal to build a 22,000-home subdivision on a north Los Angeles County ranch, the developer said.

The Tejon Ranch Co. said it will work with the Trust for Public Land California to map out the most environmentally-sensitive areas of the ranch, appraise the land and seek out public and private funding sources to buy it, a joint statement said.

The move would set up a 25-mile corridor stretching from the Sierra to the sea. Tejon Ranch Co. has applied to create a community of about 70,000 people, to be called Centennial, over about 25 years.

"We are a publicly traded company and we have fiduciary responsibilities to our stockholders, so we are not in the business of giving our land away," Tejon Ranch Chief Executive Officer Bob Stine said in the statement. "But our goal and our vision for the future includes permanent protection of these highly valuable habitat areas if a fair price can be obtained."

The ranchland extends across a mountain range and has woodlands that contain 450-year-old oaks and 200-year-old pines.

"This innovative partnership is the first step toward possible public purchase and permanent protection of a pristine, unique, and historic landscape the size of Yosemite Valley and twice the size of Santa Catalina Island," said Reed Holderman, executive director of the Trust for Public Land California.

The sale of more than a third of Tejon Ranch's 270,000 acres of land near the Kern County border would allow creation of a preservation zone between the Sierra Nevada, national parks and the Pacific

The ranchland has been used for 160 years, mainly for agriculture. The area 60 miles from Los Angeles is feeling the pressures of demand for housing that has led to intense development moving steadily northward along the route of Interstate 5
