Township won't ask for hall taxes

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

Ever since Steve Mann got elected in 2000, he has pushed for a new township hall to replace what he views as an aged, inefficient complex

When the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees meets Tuesday night, he'll find out if he's got the support to get one. Mann, the township supervisor, plans to present a motion to buy just over nine acres of land from auto magnate Don Massey for $1.588 million

If it's approved – early indications say he appears to have the votes – it'll be the first step in getting the $12 million project off the drawing board and on the road

The plan originally called for the township going to voters seeking a bond issue and a slight bump in taxes to pay the price tag. But Mann said Thursday township officials have decided not to finance the complex on the backs of township taxpayers. Instead, the township will finance the project through the sale of property it owns and through bond payments out of the general fund

"We're doing it this way so we don't have to raise taxes," Mann said. "We've taken a hard look at our financial position, and we've determined we can purchase the land and build the hall within our current revenue. We're very excited about that."

To pay for the 52,000-square-foot project under Mann's plan, the township would

- Pay for a portion of the building through the water/sewer fund, since the DPW will be moved to the new complex
- Sell the current property, about three acres, at Ann Arbor Road and Lilley. A few years ago, he said, that complex was appraised at $2.4 million,

Firefighter honors

Plymouth Community fire fighters Chris Mack and Jeff Randall are expected to be honored at Tuesday's Plymouth Township Board of Trustees meeting for their role in helping a diner at the Plymouth Steak and Ale on Ann Arbor Road.

The incident occurred Jan. 25 when paramedics Mack and Randall helped extract a golf ball sized piece of meat lodged in the throat of a diner. The diner's son, who is an anesthesiologist, has credited the firefighters with saving his father's life.

The meeting takes place at township hall, Ann Arbor Road and Lilley at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Comedy relief comes to Plymouth

Kimmy Bailey walks nervously around the dining area at Boulders Restaurant, feeling her mouth go cottony and scratching at the red blotches beginning to cover her skin.

Diners needn't fear, though, because she hasn't gotten hold of a bad plate of fish and chips. It's simply nearing 9 p.m. on a Monday night, and Bailey, a mortgage specialist from Canton, is feeling the butterflies before hitting the stage at the Plymouth eatery for its new comedy night promotion.

Suspect arraigned in bank robberies

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM
STAFF WRITER

A 40-year-old Ypsilanti man who allegedly robbed as many as five banks – and his estranged wife who allegedly helped him spend the stolen money – were both arraigned Friday on bank robbery charges.

John Joseph Sawaya, 40, and Dawn Renee Sawaya, 38, both of Ypsilanti, were arraigned in 35th District Court in connection with the June 11 robbery of a Standard Federal branch on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township.

John Sawaya also was charged Thursday in connection with the robbery of the TCF Bank in Canton reported June 17. His wife has not been charged in connection with that crime.

Sawaya's arraignment was delayed Thursday because of heroin withdrawal symptoms, which have been stabilized through medication, according to Sgt. Bob Antal, of the Plymouth Township Police Department.

His wife told police she has been heroin-free for a year, but has battled heroin addiction in the past, Antal said.

CD tops music boosters fund-raiser

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM
STAFF WRITER

A lot of people in Plymouth and Canton may have heard about or read about the accolades the high school instrumental music programs have received over the years.

But for band parent and publicist Scott Lorenz, that's not enough to truly toot the bands' horn. He wants business people to hear how great the bands sound for themselves as part of a fund-raising effort.

Lorenz and the Plymouth Canton

Music Boosters are targeting 1,000 businesses in Canton and Plymouth by sending promotional CDs – and wish lists – to them.

The digitally-recorded CDs contain music performed by the schools' symphony, concert and varsity bands as well as the jazz and wind ensembles and the marching band.

Some selections include Little Beau Cool, Embraceable You, The Heat is On, Elasticity (from the 2002 Marching Band Season), La Moursque, Bransle Quatre Bransles and Gainsborough as well as the fight songs for Canton, Plymouth and Salem high schools.

"I think they'll be blown away by the quality of the sound and everything," Lorenz said of the tracks, which were recorded at various times and in various places.

In exchange for donating to the effort, businesses will get "stockholder certificates," and one "share" for each dollar donated.

Donor choices include the scholarship fund, instrument fund and the capital fund.

Teacher goes on educational trip to Japan

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM
STAFF WRITER

For Plymouth High School business teacher Tom Kimball, the summer months are prime time for being with his two young children, ages 6 and 7.

An upcoming all-expenses-paid trip to Japan will cut into that precious time. But the souvenirs he brings back from the land of the rising sun will likely make them forget how much they missed their dad.

Kimball departed for Japan this week, where he will learn about education, culture, environment and technology and how these affect industry and society as part of the Toyota International Teacher Program.

He was one of 50 U.S. teachers selected to go to Japan for a six-city tour, which will include Tokyo, Kyoto and Hiroshima. Eight teachers from Michigan will be going on the trip.

"I haven't even been overseas before," said Kimball, who will be in Japan until July 5. "There's a little anxiety about such a long flight."

Before he left, Kimball did his homework. For starters, he read books about Japanese history and culture. He even asked one of his students, a Hiroshima native, to be his teacher and make sure he knows how to say, "Hello" and "Where's the bathroom," while he's in Japan.

"He taught me the basic greetings to help me get around," Kimball said.

His trip begins with an orientation at Toyota Motor Sales USA, Inc. headquarters in Torrance, Calif. Next, the group will fly to Japan to take an in-depth look at the culture and education system in Japan's former capital, Kyoto, as well as other culturally and historically important areas such as Hiroshima and the Iya Valley on the island of Shikoku.

The group will spend some time at Toyota's headquarters in Toyota City where they learn about the automobile industry and its development in Japan and throughout the world.

He's looking forward to sharing his Japanese experiences with other teachers and students when he returns to school. He wants to set up a high-tech distance learning lab that will allow his students to learn from other Japanese students and business teachers.

He's hoping that much of what his students can learn is right in their back yards.

"I also hope to establish a partnership with Yazaki (North America)," a Canton-based automotive supplier, Kimball said.

Plymouth pup leads the way

Madi and Alyssa Lewis didn't waste any time. Once they decided their Welsh corgis, Lou and Sam, were to walk the walk in Tails and Trails, they immediately pounded the pavement.

"We went door-to-door," said Madi, 8. Added Alyssa, soon to be 9, "Only three said no."

Their hard work and instinctive sales skills and charm netted $122.50. Madi and Alyssa joined many others who collectively walked 110 dogs of all sizes, shapes and colors in the Tails and Trails Dog Walk, hosted by the Plymouth-Canton Kiwanis Breakfast Club.

Tails and Trails is one of the newest additions to Canton's 12th Annual Liberty Fest, which began Thursday afternoon.

The walk, which included a spin around the large pond in Heritage Park and a contest with prizes was a fund-raiser for the canine Michigan Technical Rescue Team and the Kiwanis club.

Altogether, the effort raised more than $8,000, with approximately $2,500 going to the rescue team and $3,600 to the Kiwanis.

"This is fantastic. This is way over our expectations," said Carol Hemminger, who with Ginne Hauck, organized the Liberty Fest's first-ever event devoted to dogs and their owners.

"Next year we are going to double it," Hemminger added.

As soon as Tails and Trails ended about 7 p.m. Thursday, plans were already in the works for next year's event. Brian Cowan, also known as "Bubba" the morning dj for W4 Country - 102.9 radio in Ann Arbor, is already committed for next year as master of ceremonies and announcer.

"I thought it was a good opportunity to get involved in the community," said the Lynette Brink and dog Raven are part of the Michigan Technical Rescue Operations Team.

Belleville resident, who as of yet does not own a dog. "I'm a dog lover. I think I am the bulldog - a French bulldog - kind of guy."

Tails and Trails was scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. but owners and their pups began lining up as early as 3:30 p.m. As the hour drew nearer, handlers/trainers and search and rescue dogs performed demonstrations of their work with the help of kids who had come to walk their own pups. The team is trained in all types of rescue and search including lost people, structural collapse, flooding, airplanes crashes, cave-ins, confined space rescue, water and ice recovery, mass-transportation disasters and rope rescue.

"The Kiwanis club has been great," said Mike Brink of the Michigan Technical Rescue Team, headquartered in Madison Heights, and who plans to make a return visit at next year's Tails and Trails.

Lynette Brink had Raven, a search and rescue dog at Tails and Trails for demonstrations. Married to Mike for about 17 years, she decided if she wanted to see her husband, she better get interested in search and rescue. She's never had a regret.

Her dog, Raven, a beauceron, was the result of a lot of research. "I did lots of training before so I had a better idea of what I was getting into," Brink said, about her dog, a French working breed. "They are not common dogs in America. They were just recognized by the AKC (American Kennel Club)."

She researched breeders and found one in Michigan. When she called the breeder's dog had just had a litter of puppies. "We wanted something with a good temperament. My four-year-old daughter rides her back in the house."

While a St. Bernard may be traversing the Alps, search and rescue dogs used here in Michigan are smaller breeds. They have to be "They need to be agile," Mike Brink said.

Char Tavarozzi of Plymouth with her pups Rocky, an 11-year-old miniature pinscher, and Gina, a three-year-old American rat terrier, was honored as the owner who raised the most money for the event with a total $565. She received a basket from What a Card Creations.

Music set to fill downtown air

The sounds of music will fill the air as "Downtown Fridays, Music in the Air" continues Friday at 7 p.m. in Kellogg Park.

"The concert series seems to get more popular each year," said Bob Anderson, director of the Plymouth Downtown Development Authority, a main co-sponsor, along with Plymouth Guitar and Signature Sound. "It has a real following."

The line-up of concerts includes:

■ June 27 Al Hill & the Love Butlers - rhythm and blues

■ July 4 The Rhythm Society of Swing Orchestra - Big Band sounds of yesterday

■ July 18 Lady Sunshine & the X Band - blues

■ July 25 The Raisin Pickers - folk dancing to the sounds of old-time string bands

■ Aug 1 Impact 7 - show band sounds

■ Aug 8 Bobby Lewis & the Crackerjack Band - rock & roll

■ Aug 15 Mass Transit - music to dance by

■ Aug 22 The Ride - classic rock

■ Aug 29 Pamela Ransford & Plymouth Guitar Band

Anderson said the entire concert series comes with a $25,000 price tag, most of which is paid by the Downtown Development Authority, with the remainder picked up by sponsors.

Anderson said the impact on downtown businesses as a result of the large crowds in Kellogg Park isn't necessarily reaped the night of the concerts.

"The idea is to bring people downtown to experience the Plymouth magic," he said. "Hopefully, they'll feel good about their experience and will come back another time."

Student station awards scholarships

Two Salem High School seniors and one senior from Canton came up the big winners when WSDP 88.1, the student-run radio station at the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park, handed out their annual scholarships.

Greg Angel, a Salem senior and a three-year member of the station's staff, won the Bonnie Dore/WSDP Founder Scholarship. Angel will study journalism and meteorology at Central Michigan University.

Angela Olandese, a senior at Canton High School, won the Jeffrey L. Cardinal Scholarship, named after the station's third general manager who served at the station from 1974-1982. The Cardinal scholarship recognizes dedication to the station over four years. The winning student must have a complete understanding of the station's role in serving the community and have experience in a wide mix of work at the station.

Olandese joined the station as a freshman and is WSDP's music director. She'll study veterinary medicine at the Honors College of Lyman Briggs School at Michigan State University.

The instrument fund could use some help, too. Some of the instruments students are using are so old that they belonged to a high school that closed in 1970 — the original Plymouth High School, the offender because of his alleged involvement in at least five bank robberies.

Both are being held in Wayne County Jail, him on $100,000 cash bond for each case, and she on $10,000 cash bond for the Plymouth Township case. Both preliminary exams are set for June 30 in 35th District Court.

The characteristics of the Plymouth Township and Canton bank robberies were reportedly similar, with the undisguised suspect approaching the counter, ordering the teller to put money in a magazine he carried, and walking out with the money tucked inside.

Sawaya was ultimately arrested without incident at a gas station on Michigan Avenue four hours after the Canton bank robbery was reported.

and Mann said he's already had several offers near that figure.

■ Sell the DPW property on Port Street. Mann said that property hasn't been appraised recently, but "it cost $2.5 million to build 10 years ago."

■ Finance some $6 million in bonds, the payments for which would be made out of the general fund. According to township Treasurer Ron Edwards, the bonds, financed at about 4.75 percent, would require a $466,000 payment per year, divided into four equal installments.

The township will buy the land from Massey after lengthy negotiations. Massey originally had the land appraised at $1.8 million, while the township's initial appraisal came in at $1.6 million. The original asking price settled right in the middle, and negotiators for both sides wound up eating a third of the difference, resulting in the $1.588 million selling price.

Plante Moran CRESSA, the real estate arm of Plante Moran, the township hired last year to consult, will present its final building needs assessment to the board at Tuesday's meeting. The 52,000-square-foot complex is expected to house all of the township's administrative offices, including the DPW, which is now located at the Port Street facility. A new police department and fire station are also part of the mix.

The township will also acquire property, possibly closer to township hall on Ann Arbor Road, to house its road crew and machinery, Mann said.

Mann doesn't think the plan will be a hard sell to the community.

"This is an issue that has been looked at and needed for 10 years," Mann said. "We're finally in a position with a board that is ready to go forward on it."

The Plymouth Township board meets at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the township complex at the corner of Ann Arbor Road and Lilley.

Student winners share bond with Sagear

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM
STAFF WRITER

The first recipients of the Sandra Sagear scholarship all share a little something in common with the namesake, who lived her days suffering - but not complaining about - the effects of polio.

Sagear, a 1969 graduate of the original Plymouth High School (now Central Middle School), died of pneumonia in 1992. This year, the Sandra Sagear Memorial Scholarship was awarded to five high school students for the first time.

Debra Madonna, representing Plymouth's A.M. Rotary Club scholarship committee, said they wanted to impact a diverse group of recipients, but that they all shared one important thing in common.

"The thread that connected them is that they're all optimistic," Madonna said.

Scholarship recipients must have overcome diversity and display courage, perseverance, spirit and creativity while dealing with physical, mental or emotional barriers.

The five recipients of $500 scholarships are:

■ Amanda Bell, Salem, the daughter of Larry and Mary Lou Bell. She has cerebral palsy and spinal diplegia and uses a wheelchair. She has a 3.4 GPA and is active in WSDP Radio, the Park Players and National Honor Society, among other groups.

Bell hopes to attend Michigan State University and pursue a degree in communications/public relations. She said she's very happy to have received the scholarship.

"I think it's a great honor because (Sagear) was a woman who went through life going through so many challenges because of her disease," Bell said.

When Sagear attended school in the late 1950s and 1960s, she didn't have elevators in schools or bus lifts to help make enduring a disability easier. Bell said knowing that makes what Sagear went through all the more meaningful to her.

"I can't say for sure whether I would have been so positive under those circumstances," she said. "She basically just had her personality to carry her through."

■ Kevin Kilgore, also of Salem, has learned about adversity the hard way. For starters, he lost his older brother, Michael, several years ago when he collapsed from a heart condition. Three months after he died, Kevin learned he had the same condition.

"I was surprised by this," Kilgore said of winning one of the scholarships. "I never thought that with my grades that I could get this. I'm just really thankful for it."

Other scholarship recipients include:

■ Corey Hensley, a Starkweather student who left school for full-time employment. He later returned to graduate with honors from Starkweather, all while still working 40 hours per week. He plans to attend Schoolcraft College.

■ Sarah Palk, Salem, daughter of Carol and Rick and a member of the National Honor Society and Student Council. Born with spastic dystonic cerebral palsy, she uses a wheelchair and communicates with a Dynavox device, activated by a button on her wheelchair's head rest.

With the Dynavox, she can communicate with teachers and students, do homework, write poetry and screenplays, e-mail her friends and do research. She plans to attend Washtenaw Community College and later, Wright State University in Dayton to pursue a degree in film and screenwriting.

■ Matt Whalen, Canton High School. He is active in fund-raising for the Special Olympics and is a WSDP

The new company will be known as Peake Plastics Corporation. The sale was finalized and operations under new ownership began April 30, 2003. "We are very excited about Peake Plastics' extensive technical and product capabilities, as well as its skilled team of people," said Mark Lee, president and owner of Morning Calm Holdings and CEO of Peake Plastics. "We are well-positioned to serve the diverse needs of our customer base, which are predominantly automotive, tier-one, systems suppliers."

Morning Calm Holdings was formed to build a large, tier-two injection molder to service the automotive industry.

The acquisition of Old Lane Plastics was financed by Wynnchurch Capital Partners, Ltd. of Lake Forest, Ill. Wynnchurch is a private equity fund that acquires and finances middle-market businesses.

for the first time in February, is one of a dozen or so young performers trying to find a foothold — any foothold — into the business. Fortunately for Bailey and her comic comrades, Michelle Daugherty, who owns the place along with her husband, Dave, is a good friend who happens to have an open microphone.

"When we first started, we were together like brothers and sisters," said Bailey, who brought comedy night to Boulders about a month ago. "We support each other, whether we bomb or kill."

So far, it's been a little of both, as the comics have tried to get the attention of Boulders' customers. Bailey said some of the early logistical problems are their own.

For instance, the group didn't do much pre-program publicity, so their appearance on that first night caught diners by surprise. Also, the first night they performed was the night of Game 7 of the Stanley Cup finals.

"That first night was bad, and I'm not sure (customers) were too happy to have us there (because of the hockey)," Bailey said, laughing at the memory. "But we kept at it."

The group has gotten a little better at publicity — they put out a flyer before Week 2 — and crowds have been more receptive. Bailey and her friends hope the shows will become more popular as word of mouth spreads.

"This is another avenue for us," said Kimberly Knight, a comic from Taylor who went through the comedy school at Joey's Comedy Club in Livonia. "They've got a stage and a mike, and that's what we need."

Most of the comics are just getting started. Some have gone through the school at Joey's, others, like Bailey, were simply dared into it.

Brian Smith of Plymouth, Mike Waldrum of Minneapolis and Brett Cashman of Ypsilanti enjoy the comedy routines during a business dinner.

Bailey remembers her first time, back in February at the Comedy Castle in Royal Oak. A friend challenged her to get on stage, so she did. That's when she noticed the blotches — they come the more nervous she gets — but ignored them and gave it a shot. "I totally bombed that night," she laughs now. "It was my first time, the place was packed. I had my routine, and I was raring to go, but I froze." Then, with a sense of pride, she said, "But they let me back in the next week."

Not that anyone thought she would come back. That was how Bailey met Knight, the Downriver comic who bases her act on observations of life. Knight was in the audience that first night, and was back the following week.

But as her time neared, Bailey was nowhere to be seen. "She was late, almost a no-show," recalls Knight. "I said,

'This girl isn't coming back,' but there she was. She showed a lot of courage."

It's the kind of perseverance young people need to show, especially in the comedy world, according to Maureen "Mo" Noland, a veteran manager of comics who is trying her hand at an on-stage act, as well.

Bombing, said Noland, is a part of the game.

"It's good to bomb, because you're either going to bounce back, or you're going to learn this isn't your thing," she said. "You have to work through your maternal, no matter how the audience is reacting, to learn what works and what doesn't."

The folks at Boulders don't mind the comics trying their acts out on the restaurant's stage. The restaurant isn't paying them, and Monday nights are good nights because there's nothing else scheduled.

"It doesn't cost us anything, so I let them use our stage and let them perform," said Michelle Daugherty. "They can do it as long as they want to. It can't hurt business."

The comics come from all over. Noland is from Dearborn, while Jason Hagle and Mark Ratner live in Lansing. Charles Ramey came up from Philadelphia. Jason Abbott is from Northville. Laura Lu lives in Livonia.

The group knows each other mostly from other comedy clubs, like Joey's in Livonia. Some have gone through the school, others haven't. Some have larger comic aspirations, others are using it as a springboard to something else.

Bailey, whose routine consists "mostly of bashing my husband," is using it to try to quell her stage fright.

"My real passion is singing," she said. "I'd like to get over my stage fright. I figure if I get over the comedy, the singing will be a snap."

Knight finished the six-week comedy school about a year ago, she said, and has simply been trying to find a microphone and an audience. In that respect, Boulders has been a God-send.

Comedy night at Boulders takes place around 9 p.m. Mondays. For more information, call the restaurant at (734) 459-4190.

Crackdown on deadbeat parents creates a case logjam

BY LAURA COLVIN
STAFF WRITER

Shannon Coffey thought she was finally going to be able to collect on the back child support owed to her 9-year-old son

In April, Wayne County Prosecutor Mike Duggan held a press conference to announce that his office was instituting get-tough measures, and would prosecute 1,000 deadbeat parents this year

Coffey, a Westland resident and single parent, is owed $22,000 in back support from her son's father, and although she's had a case open with the Friend of the Court since 1995, she hasn't been able to collect a dime

Buoyed with new hope, Coffey contacted the prosecutor's office and filled out the required paperwork. A week later, she received a response stating that the system was overwhelmed

No one, she says, was able to answer her questions "I called down and asked them 'How can you say you're overwhelmed? You haven't been doing anything the whole time, then you put it in the paper and showboat like you're going to do something, but you still don't,' Coffey said 'They let me down'"

MOVING FORWARD

Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Rebecca Tenorio agrees that the department was besieged after the announcement of the new Felony Non Support Unit, but, she says, the five full time prosecutors are moving forward with the crackdown

"We received about 600 questionnaires as a result of that press conference," said Tenorio

We are extremely backed up, but we are moving as fast as we can"

Wayne County Prosecutor Mike Duggan was unavailable for comment

Since the new operation officially began Jan. 1, 388 felony warrants have been issued in Wayne County, which will result in the collection of $2 million in back child support.

Our program is evolving. It's becoming more efficient and more effective, and we're getting (child support) money that people are seeing for the first time," said Nancy Neff, principal attorney in the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office "People have to be patient, but we will get to every single case"

Neff said a representative from the prosecutor's office will interview the custodial parent by phone, usually within 30 days of receiving the initial paperwork. Parents will then be informed as to whether a felony warrant will be issued for the non-supporting parent

WORST OF THE WORST

Each case is evaluated on an individual basis, she said, but the prosecutors office looks for certain criteria when deciding whether to issue a felony warrant. The non-custodial parent must live within the state, have the ability to pay, and have been previously unresponsive to civil sanctions issued by Friend of the Court

"We're trying to take the worst of the worst, in situations where civil sanctions just haven't been effective," said Neff "It's not the person who's missed 5 payments that's going to be charged with a felony. We're going after the most egregious of cases"

Generally, she said, the owing parent must also be in arrears of at least $5,000, but that amount will vary by case depending on the monthly amount the parent has been ordered to pay

"For some people, a debt of $5,000 might mean they haven't paid in years, said Neff, "But for someone who has been ordered to pay $1,000 a month, it means they're only behind 5 months"

Michigan ranks third to last in the nation when it comes to back child support, with about $7 billion owed to the state's children. Only parents in Texas and California owe more

About $3 billion of Michigan's outstanding child support is owed to Wayne County residents

But the new Felony Non-Support Unit, deadbeat parents can face a criminal record and a four year prison term if they refuse to pay

"We're arresting them almost as fast as we're getting (the warrants)," said Executive Lt. Kevin Losen, head of the Sheriff's Friend of the Court

Enforcement Unit. "We rely on information from custodial parents about where to find them, and we have our own ways of locating people, too"

Thus far, however, no parent has been sentenced to the four-year felony term

"What we find is that when they're recharged with a felony and they're looking at four years in prison they find the motivation they need," said Wayne County

Sheriff Warren Evans "They all miraculously come to some agreement and find money they didn't have before"

The prosecutor's office has set up a hotline for parents who wish to have their cases reviewed for possible felony prosecution (313)224-046

Magnetic strips speed up license renewal

The state Secretary of States branch offices are speeding up the renewal process by retrieving data stored in magnetic strips on the back of licenses

Each employee workstation now has a keyboard that is equipped with the magnetic-strip reader

Retrieving data directly from the license eliminates the need to enter it manually. That provides faster and more accurate inputting

From the customer's standpoint, it helps to expedite license renewals and shorten waiting times

Many law-enforcement agencies are making use of this technology as well. Because the magnetic strips are tamper-resistant, police can make certain that the data contained in the magnetic strips matches the information listed on front of the license

By law, the magnetic strip contains no personal information other than the holder's license number, date of birth and license expiration date

About 10.5 million driver's licenses and 1.4 million personal identification cards - which include replacements for those that were lost or destroyed - have been issued since Michigan began using magnetic strips in April 1998

A computer system installed last year in the branch offices now enables the department to take advantage of the magnetic strip capability

Schoolcraft College's men's basketball class of 2003-04 continued to take shape Tuesday when coach Carlos Briggs announced the signing of two more recruits.

The Ocelots, coming off a 31-4 season and third consecutive trip to the NJCAA Division I Tournament in Hutchinson, Kan., have added 6-foot-9, 215-pound center Wes Wilkun from Waldron High School and 6-5 swingman Elzie Bibbs, via Hampton (Va.) University and Jacksonville Community College (Tex.).

They will be joined by four other Briggs recruits including two members of Pontiac Northern's 2001 state Class A championship team, 6-foot point guard Ricky Morgan (via Iowa State) and 6-5 guard Derrick Ponder (via Des Moines Area CC in Iowa), along with 6-7 forward Glenn Garrant (Livonia Clarenceville) and 6-6 forward Brandon Chitwood (Livonia Stevenson).

Wilkun, Waldron's all-time career leader in rebounds (1,076), earned All-State honorable mention honors as the Spartans, with an enrollment of 118, finished 19-4 and earned a trip to the Class D regional.

As a senior, the South Central Athletic Association MVP averaged 23 points, 15 rebounds, 3.8 blocks and 3.3 assists per game.

"We will be moving in with his sister who lives in Canton," Briggs said. "He's a guy who rebounds the ball and can face up to the basket and hit the 15-footer. He's a good student who has already taken 12 credit hours at Washtenaw (CC)."

The four-year varsity starter is also second all-time in career points (1,293) and owns the single-game record for rebounds (27). This season, Wilkun amassed a school-record 531 points.

Bucks getting ready for Cup challenge

BY C.J. RISAK

For a soccer team like the Mid-Michigan Bucks, it couldn't get much better than this.

First, the Bucks get into the biggest open soccer tournament in the country — the Lamar Hunt U.S. Open Cup, the oldest cup competition in U.S. soccer, dating back to 1914. To do so as a Premier Development League (or Division IV) team, they can't lose any of their first four matches, only six of 51 PDL teams qualify.

The Bucks do it, going 3-0-1 in that qualifying stretch.

Next, the Bucks send in their bids to host a match in a tournament that has nothing to do with the standings in the PDL or Mid-Michigan's Great Lakes Division. Their eventual reply is better than anyone could anticipate. The Bucks haven't just qualified for the nation's biggest open tournament, they drew a first-round bye and they host the Long Island (N.Y.) Rough Riders, a Division III pro team, in the second round.

That game is set for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Berkeley's Hurley Field.

Sounds great, doesn't it? "It's huge," said Jim Duggan, the Bucks' general manager and co-owner, in describing the Open Cup. "This is the national stage. It's the biggest tournament in the country."

Yes, well, unfortunately, that's where the good news ends for the Bucks. After all, one must face the facts, and the fact is, a team made up mainly of college-level players will have a difficult time beating a professional team.

Duggan knows this. "We're not going to win the tournament," he admitted. "It's all about getting our guys exposure. You can go to tryouts (with pro teams) all you want and it won't be the same thing.

Is that the only reason to play in a tournament you have no chance of winning?

The goal," Duggan explained, "is always to get an opportunity to play an MLS (Major League Soccer) team."

Using that sort of perverse logic, the Bucks go into the Open Cup knowing that if they win their first match, they go up against a team (the New York/New Jersey MetroStars) that can and probably will win without any trouble. And the Bucks are happy about it.

Follow that odd reasoning and try to figure out why they'd want their fans on hand to witness the debacle. But they do.

"The reason getting a good crowd to Wednesday's game (against Long Island) is so important is because they haven't decided who will host the next round yet," Duggan explained. In other words, should the Bucks beat the Rough Riders, they could conceivably host the MetroStars on July 16.

Not that the aforementioned is anything near a certainty. The Rough Riders, going into last weekend, were unbeaten (6-0-3) in the USL's Pro Select League.

"We've never seen 'em play," Duggan said. "They're better than any Division III team we've played before."

"The guys are going to have to be fired up."

Duggan added that the pros in Division III are "clearly a step up (but) most of our guys are capable of playing at that level."

So far a few Bucks have displayed that kind of talent. In the 10 matches they played

Prior to leading the Ford Senior Players Championship, Clark has also worked with the LPGA, developed and managed marketing and sales strategies for the Honda Classic, Doral-Ryder Open and the Royal Caribbean Classic. He also worked for Executive Sports International, a Florida-based golf tournament management firm.

His primary duty with the Ford tournament will be to organize marketing, sales and operations for the annual tournament. Although the golf playing portion of the tournament takes less than a week, the position is truly a year-round one for Clark.

"I am basically the spokesperson in the community for the event," he said. "I work with budgeting, staffing and help organize the many volunteers we need to help pull a tournament like this off

"It definitely gets busier around tournament time, but the planning that goes into the tournament takes all year."

In addition to his wife Linda working with the sport of golf, Clark's son Kevin is attending the University of North Carolina on a golf scholarship, and his daughter Julie is a teacher in the Boca Raton, Fla., area.

Clark says his goals for the tournament are to create a fan-friendly sporting environment, which not only showcases the golfers who participate, but also gives fans a full entertainment experience.

One change he has implemented this year is for live music concerts at the venue after play ends each day of the tournament. Huey Lewis and the News headlines the groups who will be performing behind the 12th tee at TPC.

"We want to create fun, interactive areas for golf fans at the tournament," Clark said. "With this, they can enjoy a free concert with their ticket to the event."

Here's a look at the Observerland baseball team

FIRST TEAM
Marco DiMichele P Garden City The last Garden City pitcher to be this overpowering was Justin Ockerman and DiMichele broke all his records. He posted an 11.2 mark this year with a 1.00 earned run average, a school record 146 strikeouts (breaking his own mark of 104), eight complete games and threw in a no-hitter to boot.

DiMichele who is headed for Kent State also hit .440, scored 31 runs, had seven doubles, 24 RBI, had four homers and had a .588 on base average. The all-Mega Red selection also set career marks for strikeouts (319), hits (96), and runs scored (76).

Steve Herman Garden City Coach

He is the type of player you always want, said Herman. He is willing to do what it takes to win the game. It doesn't matter if he pitched the day before. We had 19 wins and he had 11 of them. He is the best hitter and best pitcher by far on this team.

Mike Monterrey P Redford CC Monterrey hit the ground running after hockey season ended going 6.0 on the mound with a 2.03 ERA, allowing just 32 hits and 10 walks in 41 innings with 45 strikeouts. Just 12 of the 16 runs he gave up were earned this year.

Offensively, the junior hit .341 and had 18 RBI in playing shortstop or third base when he didn't pitch.

He had a very solid season for us, said Salter. He had good control around the plate and with his size (6'3", 190) he should continue to improve. He should be one of the top players in the area next year.

Carl McDevitt P Canton Perhaps the game that defined McDevitt was the best was his last in the state district tournament against Salem. The senior right hander pitched as many innings as the state allowed giving up one earned run in 10 innings before going to the bench with the score tied at 4-4.

The last two years, he's done a great job for us, said Canton coach Scott Dickey. He's a great control pitcher who gave us a ton of innings. McDevitt was all WAAA, posting a 7.3 over all record with a 2.27 earned run average. He worked 71 1/3 innings, striking out 63 while walking just 13.

Only 13 walks, said Dickey. That was the key. The last game of the year showed what kind of pitcher he was.

McDevitt started the season 0-3 before getting seven straight wins to lead the

Dave Herrick, C Liv Churchill The three record set in 1986 by Mickey Katschor.

Herrick likely headed to Madonna

Our kids looked to Dave as a team

He's a tough ballplayer. He became a much better hitter just trying to hit the ball hard.

But he's more than just a hitter, he's a good catcher with a strong arm.

Matt Nollar, C Lutheran Westland The

Matt is one of the most underrated catchers in the area. Lutheran Westland coach Ted Younglas said. He was a real leader for us this year.

Ryan Gallagher, C Redford CC Gallagher was a solid hitter for the Shamrocks this season hitting .390 and posting 22 RBI. But his forte was on defense where he made just three errors all year and had a .986 fielding percentage in earning all-league honors.

Teams didn't run on him much and he had some big hits for us, said CC coach John Salter of the junior. Sometimes it was tough to decide to put him at first or at catcher. He was equally tough at both. He did a great job catching.

Chris Judd, 1B Wayne The senior first baseman who made All Western Lakes hit .365 (38 for 104) with five doubles, one homer and 19 RBI. He drew 11 walks was hit on five occasions and struck out only 11 times in 33 games. His on base average was .441.

Chris was a team leader and had a passion to win and play the game. Wayne coach Tom Wakefield said. His desire to succeed will truly be one of his biggest assets in his future endeavors.

Judd also spent time on the mound for the Zebras.

John Hageman, Inf Redford Union Hageman provided leadership on and off the field. On it, the senior hit .467 with seven doubles, a pair of homers, 28 RBI and a school record 30 stolen bases. He also went 4-4 on the mound with two saves and a 4.85 ERA.

He would do anything to get on base, said Taylor of the all-Mega White selection who is headed for Madonna next year. He did get on, he was scoring. He's kind of calm but was the cheerleader on the team and a leader in the locker room.

Shawn Meyers, Inf Redford Union Meyers was the Panthers' emotional leader and one of its best hitters. He hit .432 with a school record 15 doubles, 51 RBI (missing the school mark by two) had 17 stolen bases and struck out just three times all year. He was an all-Mega pick as well as all-district and all-region.

He did what a No. 4 hitter needs to do: move the runners around, said Taylor. He had a lot of timely hits this year and was our emotional leader. He and Rigley were the most reliable hitters on the team.

Brian Shekell, Inf Liv Stevenson The senior third baseman shortstop headed to Grand Valley State made All Western Lakes All District and was named team MVP.

In his final year with the Spartans, Shekell hit .408 (29 for 71) with two doubles, 10 RBI and 13 runs scored. He had an on base average of .534 and a slugging percentage of .408.

Shekell ranks first all time for Stevenson in sacrifices, third in walks and seventh in career batting average (.353) and hits.

Brian adjusted well moving from short stop to third base. Stevenson coach Harvey Weingarden said. He's a solid season defensively at third base.

He led us in sacrifices and still hit .408. He's a good contact hitter. He uses all parts of the field.

Kyle Rutkowski, Inf Westland Glenn The senior named All Western Lakes hit .385 this season and also pitched for the Rockets compiling a 3-2 record with a 1.78 earned run average.

Rutkowski also excels in the classroom sporting a grade point average of 4.1.

Kyle is a great baseball player, one of the best on our team. Glenn coach Matt Howton said. He is also a very intelligent young man whose future is full of promise. He will be successful in whatever he decides to do.

Chris Rigley, OF Redford Union Rigley was an all-region player in the outfield but could have been there at pitcher, short and catcher, even though he only played the latter in the last couple of weeks of the sea-

Steve Cox, OF Salem Cox has already had back to back 40 hit seasons for the Rocks - and he just finished his junior year. With more than 80 hits to his credit, Ryan Rumberger's school record of 114 career hits is well within reach.

He's played 62 consecutive games in center field, said Dale Rumberger, the Salem coach. Last season, Cox had 41 hits with a .398 batting average. He also had five doubles, a triple and a home run with 26 runs scored and 27 RBI.

Cox was also 16 for 16 stealing bases and he had one pitching win. His all-around performance earned him a spot on the all-conference team.

Dan Graham, OF Garden City Graham also had a solid season for the Cougars, earning all-Mega Red honors and a scholarship to Xavier to play baseball. He hit .370, had 26 RBI, scored 17 runs and had 20 walks on the mound. He was 4-3 with 111 strikeouts (second most in school history) and had an ERA of 1.65 and five complete games.

His numbers improved a lot this year, said Herman. He improved his accuracy and his offensive numbers went up as well. He

Bulldogs' goal spree leads to a pair of victories

When a team gives up 19 goals in two hockey games, the hope for success is normally slim

When a team scores 23 goals in two games, it's a good bet that team will win both

In two nights of play in the Metro Summer Hockey League last week at Farmington's Suburban Training Center, the Bulldogs did both of the above — and came away with a couple of two-goal victories. Last Wednesday against the Huskies, Brandon Scero (from Canton) collected four goals and four assists to lift the 'Dogs to a 15-13 triumph

The previous night, Scero poured in four more goals to boost the Bulldogs to a season-opening 8-6 win over the Redhawks

The Bulldogs are 2-0 through the first week, the Huskies are 0-1-1 and the Redhawks are 0-2

In the win over the Huskies Wednesday, the 'Dogs broke an 8-8 tie — which the Huskies had forged with consecutive goals by John Kivisto, Dwight Helminen and Kurt Kivisto — by scoring five times before the period ended, Scero

Brent Bocson (Troy) was in goal all the way for the Huskies. Dan Hemphill (Clarkston/Brother Rice) started for the Bulldogs, he was replaced in the second period by Brad Smith

NFL player among Observerland's best

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Even while he was battling cancer, Garden City native and former NFL linebacker Pete Wysocki believed in living life to fullest.

On June 14, Wysocki, who made his mark in the National Football League as a special teams player and linebacker for the Washington Redskins, passed away after a three-year bout with cancer at age 55, in his home in Vienna, Va.

In 2000, Wysocki was named one of Observerland's 50 Greatest Athletes and in 1993 he was inducted into Western Michigan University's Athletic Hall of Fame.

"He was going out riding motorcycles with his son (Bannon) — out on a track, of course," said former WMU teammate Sam Antonazzo. "He told me was going about 135 to 140 miles an hour. And I'm thinking this guy is sick?"

Wysocki's outstanding football career was realized when he first made his mark a standout wide receiver during his days at Garden City High. He graduated from the school in 1965.

Antonazzo, who played at Livonia Franklin and later teamed up with Wysocki from 1966-68 at WMU, remembers hearing about Wysocki catching 25 consecutive passes in high school.

It was something like that, just incredible statistic," said Antonazzo, who teaches in the Waterford Public Schools.

Wysocki lettered as a sophomore wide receiver on WMU's 1966 co-Mid-American Conference championship team, but couldn't quite crack the Broncos' starting lineup. "The summer before his junior year he got into (weight) lifting, he started working out like crazy and his arms got so big and his chest was so huge that he couldn't raise his arms above his head to catch the ball any more," Antonazzo recalls. "He still kept his quickness, but then they moved him to offensive guard and he was like a fish out of water."

Wysocki did not letter his junior year, but came back for his senior year and started at inside linebacker. Despite weighing 200 pounds, he earned second-team All-MAC honors. His greatest college memory was playing against the backfield of Mercury Morris and Dwayne Thomas of West Texas State.

"Even though we didn't have a very good season (3-6), he was our heart-and-soul, very inspirational and gung-ho," Antonazzo said. "They made him a linebacker and he did very well."

While Antonazzo was ready to get on with a teaching career, Wysocki decided to give the Canadian Football League a shot after going undrafted by the NFL.

"In 1969 he wanted me to go to Toronto with him and try out, back then you had to play both ways in the CFL," Antonazzo recalled. "He had a wife and kid at the time, and I thought he was nuts. After he got cut by Toronto, he drove up to Sashkatchewan (Roughriders)."

Wysocki played four years in the CFL including stops with Hamilton (1971), Toronto (1972) and the Roughriders (1973-74) before earning a spot with the Redskins in 1975. The All-CFL linebacker also played a year of semi-pro football with the Norfolk (Va.) Neptunes.

"Pete used to work out here in the summers at Vic Tanny's with Joe Schmidt and Mike Lucci of the Lions and they talked to George Allen (the Redskins' coach) about him," Antonazzo recalls. "They told George you really ought to take a look at this guy."

Wysocki signed as a free agent with Washington and quickly made his mark as a special teams player, a "wedge-buster," who charged down the field with reckless abandon and made aggressive hits.

Because of his aggressive style, along with being the team's resident comedian, the 6-foot-1, 233-pound Wysocki quickly became a popular soundbite with the media and a fan favorite in D.C.

Wysocki played six years in Washington, earning a start in the 1979 opener for coach Jack Pardee against Philadelphia. He retired prior to the 1981 season.

During his post NFL career, Wysocki, who was a Fine Arts major at WMU, became an advertising salesman for WMAL-AM.

He also was a commercial real estate agent, announcer at University of Maryland games, volunteered at soup kitchens, organized charity golf events, raised bulldogs, did cycling and enjoyed racing Triumph and BMW motorcycles.

After being diagnosed with non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma in 1999, Wysocki spoke at gatherings for the Leukemia Society and raised money for research.

"He may have been a different guy on the field, but off it Pete was happy-go-lucky, a great guy that everybody liked," Antonazzo said.

prior to Saturday, three of them have five goals. Knox Cameron, Simon Omekanda (from Rochester Adams) and Paul Snape (from Oakland University). Snape's 13 points lead the Bucks, who have scored 22 goals while giving up nine.

Mid-Michigan is equally deep in goal, with Peter Dzuby and Jeff Wiese dividing time in the net. At present, Dzuby has shone brighter, surrendering three goals in five games with two shutouts and a 0-58 goals-against average. Wiese's goals-against average is 1-15.

There is one factor, a rather important one, that favors the Bucks' history. They have beaten an MLS team before in the Open Cup and, indeed, have a 1-2-1 record in games against the MLS.

Certainly these matches will mean more to the PDL teams than to the MLS or other pro squads. Which is what makes this tournament so intriguing — the pro teams have little to gain and a lot to lose, mostly in respect.

increase the awareness and fun factors of the tournament.

While he helps to organize all the fund raising through the year, he adds that this is one of the golf tournaments that donates all its profits to charity.

"We've donated $5.2 million to charity over the past 10 years," he said. "We know we have a strong field of golfers, and that's who the people are going to come out and see. We want to promote the fact these guys are still phenomenal athletes. We have a new four-year contract with Ford Division to sponsor the tournament, and it's something we hope gets bigger and better."

The tournament also comes at a good time of year, when there isn't a lot going on in the Detroit-area sports scene. Clark said the PGA Champions Tour starts in the south and heads up to the northern part of the country for some of its major events.

Not unlike the path Clark himself has taken in returning to his Redford-area roots on weight and get stronger," Briggs said. "He has to improve his skill level, but he's a good athlete who can run the floor, and he has some toughness."

Wilkin also considered Siena Heights University before settling on Schoolcraft.

"It's an opportunity to get better and move on to a big school," said Wilkin. "My goal is to play Division I (NCAA basketball)."

Bibbs, who played at Notre Dame Prep (Md.), but now resides in Lansing, sat out his freshman year at Hampton before transferring last season to Jacksonville (Tex.) where he averaged 8.8 points in 11 games. Bibbs shot 41 percent from the floor and 74 percent from the free-throw line as Jacksonville finished 17-14 overall.

"We're looking to bring in four or five more," said Briggs, who sent seven players off last year's squad to the Division I ranks including Marcus Bennett (UNC-Charlotte), Torvoris Baker (Detroit Mercy), Andre Scott (New Mexico State), James Holmes (South Florida), Gary Johnson (Central Florida), Ronald Dorsey (McNeese State) and Dion Sherrell (Wyoming).

Check bowling equipment before summer slips by Summertime, and the living is easy, fish are jumping and the cotton is high. So goes the song, and as we know, it all slips by so fast.

Ten Pin Alley

Al Harrison

That is when the leagues hold their meetings to arrange for the coming season. The bowling centers put on their usual promotions such as the "Good Old Days," along with the John P. Gavie Memorial Tournament, Aug. 18, at Thunderbowl Lanes in Allen Park.

This is also a good time to check out your equipment for the coming season.

The pro shop can easily rejuvenate your old bowling balls. And are your shoes in good shape? Are you in good shape? Maybe a little exercise will help get you physically ready to bowl at your best.

Enjoy the summer because it will be gone all too soon.

A bit of summer league action from Woodland Lanes in Livonia featured Jim Sterbenz of the Woodland Summer Trio rolling the first 11 strikes in a row. But he got a nine-count on the last throw and racked up, setting for a 299 game.

Either way, that's some great bowling by Jim, a feat duplicated by Richard Duff in the same league, as he too, racked up another 299 game.

Summer time bowling can also have its fine moments.

The Greater Detroit Bowling Association and the Detroit Women's Bowling

The pro shop can easily rejuvenate your old bowling balls. And are your shoes in good shape? Are you in good shape? Maybe a little exercise will help get you physically ready to bowl at your best.

Association jointly staged an annual awards dinner June 12 at DeCarlo's Banquet Center in Warren.

For both organizations, the swearing in of new officers was conducted by Judge of Probate Court David Szymanski, who added a little humor to the process.

The entire local press corps was introduced, including yours truly, Rick Strobl of the Bowler's Digest, Matt Fiorito of the Free Press, Darrin Hill, who writes the bowling column for the Detroit News, Larry Paladino, who writes great stuff for the slick cover magazine, Bowlers Digest, and Mark Martin, Executive Director of the GDBA, who writes a weekly column in the Oakland Press.

Bowling journalists will always go out of their way for a free meal.

Past president Michael Munson presented the past presidents ring to Jim Lhamon, who did a remarkable and steadfast job during his term in office.

Incoming president Ken Swan took office officially as he was sworn in by Judge Szymanski.

The women's and men's city tournament champions were awarded with engraved mementos, while the All-City teams were given embroidered team jackets. The DWBA Agnes Eckstrom Memorial Award went to Rosetta Williams for her 161 pins over average (series) in the city tournament.

This year's Queen was Altramese (Mickey) Webb with a 225.2 composite average. The Queen's Court consisted of Tamika Glenn of Farmington Hills with a 224.1 composite average and Veronica Tubbs with 217.1.

Livonia's Mary Mohacs earned high honors by being selected Woman of the Year, while Phyllis Jordan was recognized as Secretary of the Year.

The GDBA awarded the first- and second-team All-City teams and the Senior All-City squad.

Hall-of-famer Tony Landemann was given the Bowlers Achievement Award, while Jarvis Woehlke, who is four score and 10 years in age, was handed the plaque for meritorious service.

Jarvis Woehlke of Dearborn is another whole story, one of a select group and very few still living who knew Henry Ford personally.

Mr. Ford would often see young Jarvis walking to school and give him a lift the rest of the way.

They became good friends and Ford would sometimes appear at the Woehlke residence, just on down the road and visit with the family.

Jarvis might have easily gone to work for Ford Motor Co., but he followed his dream to be a fireman and is now retired from the Dearborn Fire Department.

His wife, Ida, has always been there for her man, fully supportive and loving for all these years. And what more could a man ask for but to have made friends with Henry Ford, and enjoy a long and loving marriage.

Al Harrison is a Livonia resident and a director of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association. He can be reached at (248) 477-1839.

New Parents

Lisa Kruman

Get help for blues after birth

This week we begin a new column by Lisa Kruman, a clinical social worker at the Davis Counseling Center in Farmington Hills. She will answer questions from new parents about their concerns. Kruman has more than 10 years experience working with children, adolescents, adults, couples and families.

Lisa: I am depressed and feeling anxious since I had my baby two weeks ago. I have heard a lot about postpartum blues. I feel more than "blue." How serious is this and what should I do? Jane D., Livonia

Dear Jane: Postpartum blues occurs frequently as a result of normal hormonal changes that occur shortly after delivery. The symptoms range from mild to moderate and usually do not last for an extensive period of time. For some women the effect of the hormonal changes is more severe. If your symptoms continue after several weeks post delivery, and are interfering with your daily overall functioning, you may be experiencing a more severe form - called postpartum depression. The symptoms may include but are not limited to anxiety, depression, obsessive thinking, agitation, irritability, insomnia, hyperinsomnia, lack of motivation, frequent crying, fear of caring for the baby as well as thoughts of harming yourself or your baby. Mental health treatment, sometimes combined with medication, is very successful in treating postpartum depression.

Lisa: When I had my first baby three months ago I imagined that everything would be "wonderful." Since she was born, my life has changed so much and I'm feeling resentful. Is this normal and how can I feel more positive? Mary S., Farmington

Dear Mary: Our fantasy of life with a new baby is often different from the reality. Your identity has changed in numerous ways, as have your responsibilities in your life. Many women go through a grieving process over these losses and experience some feelings of resentment. While you need to acknowledge the losses and changes in your life, you need to make a conscious effort to also acknowledge the gains and the new experiences you will have along this new journey of motherhood. Remember that at this early stage you are sleep deprived and constantly giving to your baby without much feedback. As your baby grows and begins to respond to you, you will likely begin to enjoy motherhood more.

Lisa: Since our baby was born eight months ago, we have become so focused on him that we have lost our connection with each other. How can we keep our marriage strong with the busy daily routine and needs of our baby? John M., Farmington Hills

Dear John: While a child certainly requires significant time and attention, it is very important to remember that your marriage does too. You will probably need to create this time, as it will not necessarily naturally occur. Although it may seem impossible, make every

Plymouth producer sees film vision turn to reality

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

One of the definitions for epiphany used by Webster's is "a moment of sudden intuitive understanding."

Susan Odom of Plymouth probably defines it as "that which sends you into the movie business."

Odom, 38, had hers one morning in 1994 when she woke up to the realization she was horribly miscast as a municipal planner and decided to shift careers. Since then, she has parlayed her job at The Henry Ford (formerly Greenfield Village) into a career producing films with her new production company, Owl Creek Productions.

"I woke up one morning and thought, 'I really hate this,'" said Odom, who earned a bachelor's degree in geography from Eastern Michigan University in 1988. "I was miserable, and I did a lot of soul searching."

That search eventually led her into film, where her company recently produced its first feature film, An Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge, a Civil War-era film that premiered Saturday at the Michigan Theater in Ann Arbor.

Young artist puts 'stamp' on his hobby

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

He says he doesn't have any real interest in pursuing art as a career, but if teenage artist Kevin Soubly continues to have the success he's achieved thus far, he may have to change his mind.

Soubly, 14, a home-schooled Plymouth Township resident, recently won the Michigan competition and had his pencil-and-chalk drawing represent the state in the national Junior Federal Duck Stamp Competition.

The winning entry in the contest, sponsored by the U.S. government, is converted into a stamp, proceeds from the sale of which fund conservation programs around the country. While Soubly's drawing wasn't chosen as the best, it did make the top 50 and will be among a traveling display.

"It's relaxing," Soubly said of his art. "It's an art I can do with my hands. I enjoy it as a hobby. I'm probably not going to pursue it professionally, but I will continue it as entertainment."

For someone who doesn't want to pursue his art as a career, Soubly has worked awfully hard at it. He has studied art since the age of 6, primarily at the Monart School of Drawing in Taylor. The fact he hadn't shown any previous art inclinations didn't matter.

"The whole idea of the Monart program is everyone can produce something like this," Soubly said.

Soubly prefers to work in pencil and chalk - "That's what I use to achieve my best results (because) it's easier to control," he said - but has also dabbled in oils, watercolors and pen-and-ink. His subjects have tended to be wildlife and outdoor-related drawings, because those are the kinds of contests he's entered so far.

He has on occasion done buildings or abstracts, but regardless, his mom is happy for him.

"I'm proud of him," Carol Learned said. "He enjoys doing it, and he gets recognized for doing it. Because he's home-schooled, he doesn't get the

Lorraine Zaksek and the staff of Speech, Language and Sensory-Motor Systems Inc. of Plymouth accepts the award from the Michigan Speech-Language-Hearing Association

Pathology practice receives honors

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

For some 15 years now, Lorraine Zaksek has been doing what she can to help special needs children in the local area.

Now, her work is being noticed. The Michigan Speech-Language-Hearing Association recently recognized Zaksek's company - Speech, Language and Sensory-Motor Systems, Inc. - as the recipient of its Clinical Service Award for 2003.

Zaksek and her staff received the award, the MSHA's highest honor in the direct delivery of services, at the organization's award luncheon.

"We were extremely excited and gratified," said Zaksek, a speech pathologist and the center's director. "I think when your peers recognize you're doing something well, it's very meaningful."

MSHA officials noted Zaksek's practice has grown from a single-person private practice into a multi-disciplinary rehabilitation pediatric program that includes speech therapy, occupational therapy and education.

"The other thing they looked at is our great staff," Zaksek said. "They met with our staff people and looked at the quality of the services we were providing, and that spoke very well of our staff."

The MSHA also made special note of Zaksek's annual "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Stars" talent show, which gives clients three months' worth of free dance lessons and assists them in displaying other talents or interests.

The annual show is one of the highlights of Speech, Language and Sensory-Motor Systems' programs, and Zaksek was happy to see the MSHA recognize it.

"They loved the fact we do the talent show. They thought it was something unique, and they clearly saw the benefit of it for our children," Zaksek said. "They also interviewed parents who come to the clinic. The parents indicated we provide a nurturing environment for the parents and families that come here as well."

Staff honored by the MSHA include speech-language pathologists Janice Pagano, Nancy Magnani, Jennifer Bell-Smith, Amy Remski, Cheryl Martin, Deb Noble, Kirsten Sabados and Georgene Kinsman, occupational therapists Stacy Fairman, Tracy Crews, Jennifer Haft, Angela Wolcott, Elena Petrucci and Erica Beauchamp, teachers Jeanne Burnett and Joyce Baack and office manager Jill Reith.

accolades he'd get if he attended a brick-and-mortar school.

Soubly has taken lessons from the same teacher - Nancy VanAlstyne - since he started at the Monart school eight years ago. The relationship began when Learned met VanAlstyne during a home-schooling conference.

"She showed me some of the work created by kindergarten-ers," Learned recalled. "I thought, 'Kevin could do that!'"

And he's been doing it ever since. He's worked hard enough that he now needs very little help.

The Monart method has benefited me to the point I can do this on my own, without a teacher," Soubly said. "If I have a problem I haven't encountered, I call her in. Otherwise, I'm on my own."

Soubly is thinking about going into marketing or the law, or even politics.

"I could do a lot of good for the world if I got elected," Soubly said.

While he isn't considering art as a career at the moment, he did point out that his original goals are no longer in the picture, either.

"Anything to do with art appeals to me," he said. "But I first wanted to be a bagger at Meijer, so you can see how my career options have changed."

An easy transition? Hardly Odom eventually took a job at The Henry Ford, where she works on the Firestone Farm, an 1885 farmhouse where they wear period clothing and work the farm as farmers did in 1885.

The job suited Odom's passion for history, and also gave her the knowledge she'd eventually use to make period films. It also introduced her to Brian Egen, her boss, friend and, now, partner. She noticed she and Egen shared a thirst for history, and she noticed another thing about him.

"I started to notice that Brian worked really hard, and I admired that," said Odom, who grew up in the area and graduated from Canton High School in 1982. "I work hard, too, and I appreciate that in other people."

The pair got to talking and decided they wanted to do a project together. Egen recalled reading the Ambrose Bierce story on which Occurrence is based in high school. It is frequently used as a teaching tool in film classes, and a French film based on the story won an Oscar in the 1960s.

"This story is a fascinating story," said Egen, a historic district manager at The Henry Ford. "It has all the primary vices of dramatic story structure — man vs man, man vs nature. That was a major consideration, as well as the fact it was a manageable size for a short film. It also offered an opportunity to do a period piece, which appealed to both of us."

In order to get the film made, Odom and Egen formed Owl Creek Productions in June 2000, and started in earnest trying to get the film made. While Egen is the creative force behind the project, Odom took on the role of executive producer and handled most of the business end of the production.

"Making movies is not for the faint of heart," she said with a smile. "You have to be willing to put yourself on the line, and you have to be willing to hear 'no' a lot."

She heard it enough, but overcame it to get the movie made. Shot entirely on location — in North Carolina, West Virginia and some in Michigan — the movie tells the story of Peyton Farquhar, a man torn between his passionate devotion to his family and fierce notions of patriotism for his country during the time of the Civil War.

Perfectionists both, Odom and Egen made everything authentic, right down to the button holes on Farquhar's clothing. Odom didn't want to leave anything to chance in producing the Civil War-era aura for her first film.

"When you look at them individually, those little things don't seem like much," Odom said. "Viewers might not even notice them. But when you put them all together, it can make the film look more fake."

There were other challenges for the rookie producer, whose self-described job description included "making sure everything is there so everyone can do their job at the time they need to do it."

Part of that meant overseeing the budget. For instance, the North Carolina set was a bridge over a river, where alligators lolled. Crew members told Odom she'd need to have an alligator wrangler on hand just in case.

She balked, then agreed. As it turned out, it was money well-spent, because the guy had to earn his keep.

"If I hadn't paid that guy his

Director Brian James Egen and producer Susan Odom discuss production issues on the set of 'An Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge,' the first film produced by their Plymouth company, Owl Creek Productions.

$250 (daily fee), everything would have stopped," Odom recalled, laughing. "That would have cost us a lot more than $250."

A very organized person adept at multi-tasking, Odom's nature came in handy with the business aspects as Egen concentrated on the creative force behind the movie.

"I'm more creative," said Egen, who has a degree in history. "Susan is a great producer, she's great as an organizer of projects and processes. We both sort of handle everything, but that's how we cleaved the responsibilities."

With the premier in the rearview mirror, Egen and Odom are taking Occurrence, which runs just less than an hour, on the festival circuit to try to attract some commercial interest. Odom is applying to show it at the Toronto Film Festival, and the film has drawn some interest from distributors in California and Arkansas.

"We're looking at this as a calling card project," Egen said. "It demonstrates our capabilities, shows what we can do."

As she turns her attention to the future — the duo has tentative plans to do a documentary on the War of 1812 — Odom says she learned a lot from this adventure.

"This is a partnership, and sometimes I want my own way too much," Odom said of her toughest lesson learned. "I had to learn to listen to what other people want and think. This has been a big chunk of my life. It was an adventure."

Inherited disease Hypothyroidism drains energy

BY KATHIE O'DONOHUE
CORRESPONDENT

Looking back, Kevin Kitze of Canton says he should have anticipated the possibility of developing thyroid disease, because both his grandmother and his father had it.

A competitive runner in high school whose performance began to deteriorate, Kitze said, "I thought I was just lazy and kept telling myself I wasn't trying hard enough."

Diagnosed nine years ago at age 34 with Hashimoto's disease, a type of hypothyroidism, Kitze was surprised no one thought of it sooner. "In high school, I experienced extreme fatigue and I remember girls asking me if I plucked my eyebrows (Difficulty regrowing hair is one symptom of the disease). I had itchy skin, cold intolerance and severe brain fog. I felt like I was moving in slow motion."

Treated with Synthroid, a thyroid replacement hormone, Kitze immediately noticed improvement when he developed tremendous hunger - something he hadn't experienced for a long time. Kitze now has children and plans to have baseline thyroid testing done soon in case they inherit thyroid disease.

RUNS IN FAMILIES

A butterfly-shaped organ at the base of the neck, the thyroid gland influences the metabolic rate - or energy utilization - of all the cells of the body. Hypothyroidism occurs when the levels of thyroid hormones are too low and the functions of the body slow down significantly.

Dr. Vicki Collins said thyroid disease "usually runs in families and is caused by antibodies against the thyroid gland. In some people, the body thinks the thyroid is foreign tissue."

Collins, of Farmington Family Physicians PC, said hypothyroidism is more common in women than men and that most people diagnosed are over 40. Blood tests, specifically the TSH (thyroid-stimulating hormone) and T7 test are used in diagnosis. People usually complain of fatigue, the inability to lose weight, coarse hair, constipation, heavy menstrual periods, and I see carpal tunnel syndrome as well," said Collins.

Treatment with thyroid hormone is usually lifelong, Collins said, as the thyroid gland tends to decrease in activity over time. Before supplementation was available, "Hypothyroidism could be a fatal condition," she said. "It is such a serious disease if not treated, though it may be viewed as minor because it can be easily treated."

DEBILITATING DISEASE

Plymouth resident Linda Alvarado also has hypothyroidism and said it is "a condition that causes profound individual and family dysfunction. If I had had an arm and a leg amputated, (others) would have understood that I was unable to do certain tasks and made allowances."

One may look perfectly healthy while suffering from debilitating thyroid disease, she added.

Alvarado first noticed symptoms after giving birth, she was unable to lose weight and became increasingly tired and slow. A teacher, she eventually had to cut her

U-M scientists trigger new hair growth in mice

University of Michigan graduate student David Van Mater knew something strange was going on when he noticed stubble on the shaved skin of experimental mice in his laboratory. Instead of the tumors he had originally expected to see, the mice were growing hair.

Van Mater had stumbled on the discovery that beta-catenin ("bay-tuh-kuh-TEEN-in"), a signaling protein involved in embryonic development and several types of cancer, also triggers changes in adult mouse hair follicles that lead to the growth of new hair.

The discovery by Van Mater and U-M scientists Drs. Frank T. Kolligs, Andrzej A. Dlugosz and Eric R. Fearon will be published in the May 15 issue of Genes & Development.

"Other researchers have shown that beta-catenin and other genes in the Wnt ("wint") pathway are important for normal development of hair follicles in embryos and after birth," says Dlugosz, an associate professor of dermatology in the U-M Comprehensive Cancer Center. "What's new about our study is the finding that a brief activation of beta-catenin in resting hair follicles could be enough to trigger the complex series of changes it takes to produce a normal hair."

The original purpose of the research study was to learn how the Wnt signaling pathway and beta-catenin are connected to cancer development, according to Fearon, the Emanuel N. Mautz Professor of Oncology in the U-M Cancer Center. "Beta-catenin carries signals from growth factors called Wnts to the cell's nucleus," Fearon says. "If beta-catenin expression in the cell isn't adequately controlled and regulated, it changes normal patterns of gene expression. This can lead to several types of cancer, especially colon cancer."

STUDY

The study used genetically altered mice developed in the U-M Transgenic Animal Model Core. By adding a packaged set of genes called a construct to fertilized mouse eggs, U-M researchers created a new strain of transgenic mice with an inducible form of beta-catenin in their skin cells and hair follicles.

Van Mater induced beta-catenin signaling activity by applying a chemical called 4-OHT to shaved areas on the backs of the transgenic mice and matched control mice with normal beta-catenin genes. This chemical turned on the beta-catenin in the skin and follicles of the transgenic mice. The plan was to use 4-OHT to turn on beta-catenin activity in the transgenic mice until skin tumors developed, and then turn off beta-catenin activity to see if the tumors disappeared.

"But we never saw tumors — just massive hyperplastic growth of hair follicle cells," Van Mater says. The scientists also noticed other skin changes that suggested an exaggerated

Mice treated with a protein grow new hair growth phase of the hair cycle. Dlugosz suggested applying 4-OHT just once, instead of every day, and to do it during the hair follicles' resting phase or telogen

"Hair follicles are like a mini-organ in the body," explains Van Mater, a graduate student in the U-M Medical School's Medical Scientist Training Program. "Unlike most organs in the adult body, hair follicles go through regular cycles of growth, regression and rest. They are able to regenerate completely during each growth phase. Previous studies had suggested that a Wnt signal might be the switch that drives resting hair follicles into the active growth phase. By treating the transgenic mice with a single application of 4-OHT, we hoped to mimic the effect of a short pulse of Wnt expression in normal mice."

So Van Mater started over — applying 4-OHT just once to the shaved backs of transgenic mice and normal mice during the telogen phase of the hair cycle. Fifteen days later, the transgenic mice needed another shave, but there were no signs of new hair growth on the control mice.

"Our findings suggest some potential strategies for inducing hair growth, but it is premature to think these results will lead to new approaches for treating common male-pattern baldness," Dlugosz cautioned. "Many hair follicles in bald and balding men are greatly reduced in size, so merely reactivating hair growth would not produce a normal hair. Also, activation of beta-catenin in the body would need to be tightly regulated, since uncontrolled beta-catenin activity can lead to tumors of hair follicle cells or tumors in other sites, such as the colon, liver or ovary."

schedule to part time and was once restricted to bed for months after a bout with the flu.

Though her route to proper diagnosis and health was a circuitous one, Alvarado now takes natural Armour thyroid replacement hormone and feels alive again.

Beaumont endocrinologist Dr. Charles Taylor and his associates see 20,000 thyroid patients every year, half of whom have hypothyroidism. It's a common disorder, 5-10 women experience hypothyroidism for every man.

One in 4,500 children are born without a thyroid gland, something routinely screened for at birth nationwide. Once born mentally retarded and referred to as cretins, these infants are now treatable from birth.

"There is a very significant relationship between thyroid and pregnancy," Taylor said. "In pregnant women on thyroid hormone, the need increases significantly in the third month of pregnancy. Retrospective studies have been done which tested IQs of babies. Of 1,000 women, 64 were hypothyroid, and those women's infants had significantly decreased IQs."

"The main test we use (to diagnose hypothyroidism) is (a) pituitary (function) test, (which tells whether) there is or is not enough thyroid hormone there. Most endocrinologists treat hypothyroidism with one of four synthetic products containing thyroxine (T4), a hormone secreted by the thyroid," said Taylor, who doesn't treat people with low to normal thyroid levels because he believes "the tests are too sensitive."

CHOLESTEROL PROBLEMS

Contrary to popular belief, Taylor said hypothyroidism does not cause people to gain massive amounts of weight, though there may be some weight gain. In addition to the symptoms listed above, the specialist in hormone disorders also sees patients experience leg cramping without apparent cause.

Taylor adds, "If your cholesterol is elevated, you should be certain it's not thyroid-related. I have had patients whose cholesterol was over 400 go to under 200 with treatment."

Dr. David Brownstein, medical director for the Center for Holistic Medicine in West Bloomfield, has authored the book, Overcoming Thyroid Disorders, (Medical Alternatives Press, West Bloomfield, Mich.) and calls the prevalence of hypothyroidism "staggering."

In addition to diagnostic blood tests, Brownstein also employs basal temperature readings and clinical presentation. "Relying solely on blood tests will miss 30 percent of individuals with hypothyroidism," said Brownstein, who believes 40 percent of the U.S. population suffers from hypothyroidism, many undiagnosed.

Brownstein also believes hypothyroidism may be implicated in two epidemic diseases, chronic fatigue immune deficiency syndrome and fibromyalgia, and he often utilizes thyroid replacement hormone for these disorders with reported success. He also said a low level of thyroid hormone may be the culprit in many cases of infertility.

Brownstein explained that the thyroid gland produces two major hormones: Thyroxine (T4) and Triiodothyronine (T3), both of which influence the "energy work" of the cells in all the body's organs. When there are adequate amounts of these chemicals, the body functions normally, but if the levels are too low, the body's metabolism reflects this with a slower rate.

While many practitioners diagnose hypothyroidism on the basis of the TSH test (thyroid-stimulating hormone), Brownstein said it is possible for a person to have normal T4 and TSH levels while the T3 level may be low.

"Many people do not adequately convert T4 into T3 and thus will be hypothyroid even though the TSH test falls within the normal range."

One of Brownstein's patients with hypothyroidism is Tracy Green, who said her treatment of liver-cleansing regimen, dietary changes, and hormone replacement quickly "made a difference. Within a week, I was 70 percent better."

Green's problem was finding the right doctor, she visited eight doctors before finding Brownstein and treatment that was effective.

As a result of her experience, Green began a support group in 1999, which grew from an initial membership of seven people to over 500 members at present. Meetings usually include professional speakers, and doctors also frequently attend "figuring out what thyroid patients have been telling them for years," said Green. Linda Alvarado attends the Plymouth support group and said, "Being around people who actually understand is one of the most relieving aspects of the group."

The group meets the second

2nd Monday of the month at the Plymouth Library at 6:30 p.m. Guest speakers begin at 7:00 p.m. There is no charge.

FOOT PAIN

If asked, many people would say that the most common cause of foot pain is gout. That isn't the case, as few people have gout and many individuals experience foot pain. Another cause for foot pain that receives more prominence than it deserves is heel spurs. The appearance of a spur on X ray usually represents aging changes and presents in many individuals with no foot discomfort.

Probably the most likely reason for sore feet is improper shoes. As you age, your feet get bigger, not longer, but wider. The change is due to decreased ability of the veins of the leg to carry blood back to the heart. Eventually this back up shows itself as swelling in the feet. The swelling comes on as the day progresses because the blood flow back to the heart decreases when you are standing or sitting. Therefore, you can put on your shoes in the morning with little or no difficulty. At the end of the day, what you notice is that you feel pain either on top of your foot, or on the inside or out edge of your foot. These are the sites where the swollen foot will press against the shoe. The treatment, as you can imagine, is a wider shoe.

Medical problems that cause foot pain include rheumatoid arthritis, osteoarthritis, and psoriatic arthritis. In each condition, the foot pain can begin before you show other signs that would make the reason for foot pain apparent. You should not be surprised if your doctor asks questions about your other joints or takes blood test as well as x rays when your concern is your foot.

Traditions Condominium offers many different plans

If you can't find what you're looking for at The Traditions Condominium, it's not for lack of trying by developer/builder Richard M. Lewiston.

Thirteen different floor plans are available at the attached condo community off Canton Center Road just south of Ford Road in Canton.

"There's a style for everyone's needs from one bedroom with 1 1/2 bath to three bedrooms and 2 1/2 baths," said Leslie Lewiston Etterbeek, project manager and Lewiston's daughter. "We have a floor plan for everybody, ranch style as well as up-and-down townhouses."

You almost have to look at the entire menu to get the full flavor of what's available. In some cases, fireplaces are standard, in others, options. The same goes for finished basements, decks, and separate tub and shower in the master.

All plans include at base price air conditioning, range, refrigerator, microwave, dishwasher and washer and dryer, wood or ceramic flooring in the foyer and kitchen, ceramic in baths and the laundry, carpeting throughout, one- or two-car attached garage, and landscaping.

Prices range from $164,900 for an upper-level ranch of 1,283 square feet with one bedroom and 1-1/2 bath to $224,000 for a multi-level townhouse of 1,462 square feet with three beds and 2-1/2 baths.

"That's what people are amazed at - how much is included," said Sally Bailey, sales representative. "They're also impressed with the look of the grounds, landscaping."

"Everything is included," added Pamela A. Guoin, sales representative. "Others' upgrades are our standards."

A 12,000-square-foot clubhouse including a fitness center, computer center, community room, plus a swimming pool and tennis courts are expected to be finished in the summer of 2004.

"It's kind of like a resort feel," Etterbeek said.

"We're in the heart of Canton," said Bailey, adding that the Summit recreation center and Canton Library are right down the street.

"It's a great location with easy access to M-14 and I-275," Guoin said.

The Plymouth-Canton schools also enjoy a good reputation, Etterbeek said.

Nine models are available for viewing. A sampling:

■ The Mayfair, a lower-level ranch of 1,505 square feet, includes two bedrooms, two baths, living room with cathedral ceiling, dining area and a finished lower level. Base price is $199,000 for middle units, $204,000 for end units.

■ The Pickwick, an upper-level ranch of 1,351 square feet, also includes two beds, two baths, living room/dining area with cathedral ceiling, fireplace, balcony and an unfinished basement. Base price is $197,000 for a mid unit, $199,000 end.

■ The Surrey, a lower-level ranch of 1,245 square feet, includes one bedroom, a master with separate tub and shower living room, dining area and finished lower level. Base price (end units only) is $172,000.

The Traditions Condominium presents a stylish appearance and lots of different floor plans from which to choose.

■ The Turnberry, a townhome of 1,439 square feet, includes three bedrooms (all on the upper level), 2 1/2 baths, dining room, living room, fireplace in the master and an unfinished lower level.

Base price is $207,000 and $209,000 respectively.

And if buyers don't see exactly what they want, they can ask about modifications. "We make changes for people,"

Etterbeek said.

Brick, fiber cement siding and dimensional shingles are primary exterior materials.

The Traditions Condominium is serviced by city water and sewers. The community has sidewalks and open grass areas.

The property tax rate is $33.03 per $1,000 of state tax-able value, half of sales price for new construction. That means the owners of $197,000 home there would pay about $3,300 the first year.

The monthly association fee, which includes water, ranges from $140 to $200. Upwards of 550 residences, six to 12 per building, are planned for the site.

Pets are allowed.

The sales model/office at The Traditions at Cambridge (734) 340-3131 are open noon to 6 p.m. daily.

The Wolfe offers lots of room and comfort

The Wolfe appears to be massive and would look wonderful in many of the neighborhoods that are filled with large homes. Its impressive exterior has numerous windows, brick and wood siding, dormers, skylights, porches and decks.

This home has a three-car garage with an area that could be converted into another bay if needed. The brick on the facade adds character and elegance. Entry into the Wolfe brings guests into a large foyer with a skylight.

To the left of the foyer is the formal living room. It has two arches and many angles that add to the beauty of the room. The front consists of numerous windows bathing the room in light.

The dining room is off the living room and the kitchen. It has coffered ceilings and windows overlooking a deck.

The kitchen is very large with an octagonal island containing a vegetable sink. There is a trash compactor, dishwasher, dual sinks with a garden window, and the cook top. Counter space is abundant as are the cabinets.

Off the kitchen is a nook with bay windows and a door opening onto a deck.

The family room is in the rear with two skylights, large windows, French doors to the rear deck, and a fireplace with a hearth that covers one entire wall.

To the right of the foyer is a study room, ideal for computers or as a sitting/den area.

The only bedroom on this floor is the master suite. It has a large coffered vault ceiling in the main suite area with sliding glass doors opening onto the rear deck. The master bath is enormous.

There is a private area for the stool, a large spa tub with a window over, 'his and her' sinks, and an oversized shower. Two walk-in closets are between the bath and the suite. Adjacent to the master suite is a pantry and the utility room as well as a half bath across the hall.

Upstairs are two bedrooms, a TV/Media room, sewing/hobby room, and a large bonus area. Bedroom two is a guest room with a full bath and a walk-in closet. Bedroom three also has a walk-in closet and is adjacent to a full bath with a tub, dual sinks, a laundry chute and a linen closet.

The other two rooms could also be bedrooms as they each have a wall closet.

This entire home has been designed for spacious and gracious living.

Sense of community, open spaces to greet show-goers

HOMEARAMA & CONDORAMA 2003, a single site showcase of new homes constructed especially for public display, has opened and runs daily through Sunday, July 13, at the Stratford Subdivision in Washington Township. Stratford is located on 29 Mile Road between Van Dyke and Mound. The extravaganza, co-sponsored by the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan and Standard Federal Bank, features two homes each by five residential builders - Lochmoor Development, C.R. Miller Homes, Lexus Homes, Brundo Building and MJC.

The open-house format allows show-goers to walk through each home and observe the latest ideas in interior decorating, appliances and landscaping. Visitors may take pictures.

"HOMEARAMA & CONDORAMA is a perfect place for prospective home buyers to come see the latest of what home builders have to offer," said Steve Perlman, BIA president. "Current home owners who are just looking for new trends in home design and decorating will also enjoy the show."

Hours are 2-9 p.m. Monday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sundays.

HOMEARAMA & CONDORAMA will be open on the Fourth of July, with show hours from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Admission is $7 for adults and $6 for seniors. Children 12 and under are admitted free.

A plan book covering all the homes is available at the site. Discount coupons toward admission are available at Standard Federal Bank branch offices.

Free parking will be available on site and refreshments will be available for purchase.

The eight houses range in size from 2,900 square feet to more than 3,700 square feet and are priced from $345,000 to $500,000. The two condominiums are priced from $209,000 to $225,000 and run from 1,519 square feet to 1,826 square feet.

The Stratford Subdivision will feature reflecting ponds, and walking and biking trails throughout the entire community. Antique streetlights and lush landscaping add to the ambiance of the development.

The development team includes, Trinity Land Development of Clinton Township, Mocer Companies of Auburn Hills and MJC of Macomb Township. For more information, call (248) 862-1019 or visit www.builders.org

Water-pumping windmills make a comeback at ponds

(AP) - Fat game fish break the pond's surface soon after Jim Crouch casts handfuls of food pellets on the waters

Monster catfish, crappie, and bass dwell in the 25-foot depths of the 11-1/2-acre pond behind his home in Ottawa Lake southwest of Monroe (Mich.) The water is clear and blue-green

If you have a pond and you want it to be a healthy pond, you have to aerate it in some way, shape or form," says Crouch, a retired UPS driver who's developed a new business out of thin air

Crouch sells windmills. Windmills once were as common in rural America as barns, but most still standing are monuments to a bygone lifestyle - a time when windmills were needed to pump water from the ground to irrigate cattle, crops and people

Now they seem to be making a comeback

Water-pumping windmills still can be had. But Crouch is selling air-pumping windmills to help country-dwellers keep healthy oxygen levels in their fish ponds and swimming holes

One stands near the edge of his pond, its spinning prop a blur in an 18 mph breeze. Out in the middle of the pond, air bubbling up from beneath the surface breaks the wavelets caused by surface wind.

After installing his own windmill about five years ago, Crouch started Windmill's Pond Aeration, selling and installing kits made by Koenders Windmills Inc., a Saskatchewan firm

Business truly has been brisk. He started slowly, but the business has grown and he now he's selling more than 100 a year, mainly in southern Michigan and northern Ohio

Each windmill comes with a mechanical air compressor that is spun by a 6-foot-diameter, 12-blade propeller, directed into the wind by metal tail feathers

"All you need is a 5 mph wind to make 35 pounds of air pressure," Crouch explains. The compressed air is fed down a plastic tube leading to an air stone that diffuses the oxygen at the bottom of the pond - an arrangement that's much like an aquarium but on a much larger scale

The air circulates the stagnant bottom water, helps break down plant and animal waste and promotes zooplankton that consumes unwanted algae, Crouch says

Results are noticeable within two weeks of starting the operation

"It's amazing how much it will clear up a dirty pond," says Bart Sarkisian, who helps Crouch build and install the windmills

"The nice thing about it is you're not putting money into it all the time," Crouch says

The windmills are designed to be used in place of the electric compressors that many pond operators have. Though compressors can chew up $35 to $40 monthly in electricity, the windmills use only wind power, Crouch says

Crouch supplies 12-, 16- or 20-foot towers for the windmills. The kits are mainly galvanized steel and are anchored to the ground with a combination of steel rods and concrete

Customers can assemble and erect the windmills themselves, it's a 12- to 15-hour job, or hire Crouch to put them up

Prices for the do-it-yourselfer range from $750 to $850, depending on the size. If Crouch assembles, delivers and installs one, it can tack on another $375 to $550

Jack Sturn of Monroe bought a 20-foot model about a year ago for his 1-to-2-acre pond. "We've never had a problem before, but I do have fish in it," he says

"So far, I'm real happy with it, he said. "People come in and see it and I'm really surprised how much people pay attention to it"

Sturn said he disconnects in the winter because children skate on the pond and the air stone will keep ice from forming

Crouch keeps his windmill connected in winter, allowing for a 12-foot circle of open water. That benefits the pond by allowing more sunlight in, allowing gases to escape and keeping the water oxygen-rich despite most of the ice cover, he said

There's also an aesthetic advantage. "It's a nice-looking piece of equipment sitting out there," Crouch added

Habitat house is all built with nowhere to go April excellent month for new house sales

(AP) - Margaret Townsend's miracle house seems to float above the lawn in Eastville on Virginia's Eastern Shore

If you look under the white siding shimmering in the sun, though, you can see the timbers, stacked like Lincoln Logs, and the thick steel beams of a very patient house mover

There are no front steps, no doorbell - no doorknob, for that matter. The house was finished last spring and parked temporarily, all thought, on Northampton High School's lawn last fall

Now they refer to it as "The House Without a Home"

Townsend, 44, has been waiting patiently for a year, her belongings all packed, her faith strong. There's not much else she can do

"The Lord will bless me," she said. "But when I come and look, I say, 'That's my house'"

Someday, she knows, she and her two teenage children will be able to leave their rental place, which lacks plumbing, a few miles up the road and settle into their new house

Then they won't have to carry buckets of water from the well out back for baths or walk through a dark yard, worried about snakes, to use the outhouse

No one figured finding the family a new address would be so difficult

On the Eastern Shore, there's only one thing as abundant as the poverty, and that's land. When Northampton County school officials approached the local chapter of Habitat for Humanity in 2001, it seemed the perfect marriage

Shop students at the high school needed practical experience in the building trades

The county, one of the state's poorest, was desperate for affordable housing. Habitat had decided to increase its annual goal on the Eastern Shore from one to four homes and was looking for volunteer labor

"We have the kids. We have the time," explained John Downing, the county's director of career and technical education, who came up with the partnership idea after visiting a construction apprenticeship program in Hampton Roads. "And good old Habitat has the money"

So in the fall of 2001, students began building a house using Habitat plans and materials behind the high school's Center for Careers and Technology

It was a quantum leap beyond the sheds and doghouses and tear-apart walls that the trainees used to cobble together in their classrooms

Students set up power poles and learned to tap into the electricity, as if on a real-world construction site. They framed the house and wore harnesses and cables to shingle the steeply pitched roof

The electrical and plumbing classes did the wiring and ran the pipes. Then the carpentry students installed the interior walls

Other classes at the high school visited for practical lessons. Math students came by to learn how to apply their geometry theories to such everyday problems as how much paint would be needed to cover a room

When the project began, Habitat was in negotiations for a piece of property just on the other side of the school's baseball field. School officials figured they'd move the house the couple of hundred yards and then build next year's house on the property, an easy walk for the students

But the land deal fell through, and when the house was finished last year, there was no place for it to go

No one at Habitat was worried, though. They knew the Shore was rich in land

One property they were offered wouldn't handle a septic system. Another did, but when they went out to look at it, it was under 6 inches of water, hardly the place to plop a brand new house

This fall, with a new group of senior building students ready to learn the trade, they moved Townsend's house to the lawn out front and began the second one in back

The Norfolk Foundation recently changed the terms of one of its grants to Habitat to provide money for land acquisition

With the money, Habitat went to real-estate agents, and they asked around. There had to be a place to move their house

The second home is nearing completion, and Habitat still doesn't have a place to put either. The second house is a little narrower and the roof a bit lower. Both changes will make it simpler to move it past power lines and over tight roads, Downing said

Margaret Townsend read about the Habitat program in the local newspaper. She and a brother both put in applications for houses, which are sold at cost with no-interest mortgages to homeowners who would not qualify for financing through ordinary channels

Her brother was chosen by the Habitat Family Selection Committee for one of the homes. His family, too, lived in a house without plumbing

Margaret's application somehow got lost, she said

But she was glad her brother got his house first. "He deserved one more," she said. "His kids were younger"

Her house was already being built last March when Margaret got word from Habitat that it would be hers. Both her children attend Northampton High. Her daughter, Neola, had been inside, measuring for her math class, unaware that it would one day be her home

Margaret went to look as well. She hasn't been inside since they moved it out front, but she has never stopped dreaming and lies in bed planning what she will do with every room

Nancy Gonzalez, Habitat's executive director on the Shore, said Margaret has been patient. She long ago finished the 350 hours of "sweat equity" that Habitat requires of its homeowners

Gonzalez said local real-estate sellers have been "unresponsive," so "We'll take anything we can get to"

Try putting some ceramic tile over vinyl

BY MORRIS AND JAMES CAREY
FOR AP WEEKLY FEATURES

Ceramic tile is a most attractive floor covering and, believe it or not, can be installed directly over a vinyl floor. It's easy. First, use a belt sander to clean and score the vinyl. Next, apply two coats of bonding agent. This will help the mortar stick to the floor

As with any tile job, the most important step comes next - layout lines. Always start laying tile from the center of the floor and outward toward the edges. Keep it simple by using premixed mortar and work on one small area at a time. A day of drying is needed before applying grout. After grouting, apply a light vinegar wash, it will make your job shine

VW Beetle Convertible: It's great fun!

Advertising Feature

Anne Fracassa

BY ANNE FRACASSA
AVANTI NEWS FEATURES

When the New Beetle hit the American landscape a few years back it was truly the rebirth of an icon. I think every person in the U.S. can remember the old bug cars of the 1950s and 1960s. And everyone remembers what the familiar engine sounded like going by on the street or on the highway. It was unique, wasn't it?

Well, the New Beetle doesn't sound the same. It's a lot quieter, and no matter what you say to me, I don't think it looks the same. Similar, but not the same.

But it's as cute as the Beetle was so long ago. And small, too. The back seat is almost non-functional. The only people who would be comfy back there are teeny tiny people. My children complained. And begged with me not to consider taking the New Beetle on a weekend trip to Six Flags. I wanted to put it through the paces, but they refused to let me take it with us. As it worked out, they ended up packing the house for a two-night trip and nothing larger than a duffel bag would fit in the trunk.

In all fairness, if you don't have rear seat passengers, you can fold down the rear seat for more trunk space. Then it's not a problem.

Even though the New Beetle is not a novelty on our roads, people still stop and stare. Even in parking lots. The New Beetle I drove was the 2003 model outfitted with a convertible soft top, and a gentleman actually stopped in front of me in the parking lot of the local Sams Club in the rain. Mind you, to ask me if the soft top was easy to operate. He proceeded to tell me he had an old Beetle in the 60s that was more than a hassle to peel off. Luckily, he didn't ask me to demonstrate how easy it was. But I did verbalize procedure to him, and he was truly impressed. I was, too. It rained most of the week, so I had the top down only once, much to the delight of the children.

When it did come down, it did so without a hassle or a second thought. It was simple and easy to do, even without the instructions sitting in front of me. I loved the fact that it was motorized.

The New Beetle can also be ordered with a manual cloth-lined top. One thing that wasn't lost on me was the fact that even with the top on, traffic noise wasn't unbearable, as it is on most convertibles. There are three layers of fabric that provides not only insulation, but also is attractive.

By the way, the semi-automatic power top opens and closes in a mere 13 seconds. When it's open, it rests on the back and can be covered with a boot, which doubles the appearance of the original Beetle convertible. VW thought of everything.

2003 New Beetle Convertible. Vehicle class: Sub-compact convertible. Power: 2.0-liter 4-cylinder engine. Price: $20,450.

The standard power windows are in sync with the power top and automatically lowers the windows to clear the soft top with the door is opened. When the door closes, it raises the windows to the top where it seals tight.

Also, there's added safety in Volkswagen's standard Automatic Rollover Support system that provides added overhead security in a rollover accident. There are actually sensors in the car that detect if the New Beetle is in a rollover situation and deploys the supports behind the rear seats. This happens whether the top is up or down. This is a Volkswagen's best feature and exclusive to the New Beetle.

There are a host of trim levels on the convertible to choose from: GL 2.0, GLS 2.0, GLS 1.8, and GLX 1.8 T. As you can imagine, the numeric designation is for the engine size.

Gotta tell you that the engine is more than adequate for a car of this size and it doesn't stop you from being the first one away from a light. Never had a problem merging on the freeway, either.

The New Beetle comes standard with a five-speed manual transmission. Optional is a six-speed automatic transmission with Tiptronic. Why in the world would anyone choose the five-speed manual when the Tiptronic is available anyway?

If you don't know, Tiptronic allows normal automatic transmission, but allows you to shift manually through the gears through a special shift gate. It's the best of both worlds: use the manual when you want control and the automatic when you're in heavy traffic and you don't want foot cramps. I think it's a cool option that more and more manufacturers are offering.

Just like its sister sedan, the convertible has front-wheel drive, anti-lock brakes, and those pesky daytime running lights. The standard equipment list is nothing to sneeze at and includes steering column emergency trunk release handle and LATCH for the kids' car seats.

Let me have one more complaint that I don't have a solution to. The front seat belts are an absolute bear to get to. They're far back and you have to stretch way out of position to get them on. Must be cuz I'm getting old. It bothered me.

Oh! Another cool feature that's been cropping up on the sporty ones but hasn't reached the passenger car market until now is the side mirrors with integrated turn signals. Cool feature that lets other drivers see you more effectively. Although I complained, no, they complained—about the rear seat room. I was pleased as punch to be able to have quite a bit of headroom, hip room and leg room.

Handling? Nimble. I don't think I have to elaborate. Performance? The best. Ditto on above.

Value? Let me just say German engineering—and a convertible—for just a hair above $20,000. 'Nuff said about that, too.

Now go get yourself one!
