Rockette fund-raiser

The Salem Rockettes will partner with Coldstone Creamery for a fund raiser from 6-9 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

The new ice cream store located in the Mayflower Centre in downtown Plymouth has agreed to donate a percentage of sales during that three-hour period. Donations to the team will also be accepted.

The Rockettes will serve as hostesses and servers and will also perform segments of their current routines.

Heating up

Plymouth is gearing up for the annual Great Lakes Regional Chili Cook Off scheduled for Sunday Oct. 12.

The main event of the day is the eighth annual cook off which features cooks from all over the country with some 60 chili heads vying for the top spot. Cash prizes and trophies are awarded and the top chili and salsa competition winners advancing to the world competition set for Reno, Nev.

The day also includes a Restaurant Chili Challenge with local restaurants serving up their own versions of chili and a ride in Motorcycle Bike Show sponsored by Motor City Harley Davidson of Farmington Hills. The event features some 3,000 bikes and visitors get a chance to pick the winner. Proceeds from the event support local children's charities. For more information call event chairperson Annette Horn (734) 455-8838. For more information call Lenart (734) 451-0935 or Lauren Treadwell (734) 454-0722.

Charity chow
Five Plymouth restaurants are hoping the way to charitable donations is through donors' stomachs. Compari's, E6 Nicks, Atlantis Boulders and Doyle's Tavern are all participating in the 2003 Chow Down for Charity event sponsored Monday Sept. 29 by the Plymouth Community United Way. All five of those restaurants will donate 5 percent of their total food revenue for the day. Proceeds will go toward nonprofit organizations served by the United Way. For more information call the Plymouth United Way (734) 453-6879.

Senior party
Parents and friends of the Class of 2004 at Canton and Salem high schools meet at 7 p.m. Monday in the Salem cafeteria to plan this year's Senior Party. The party's theme will be decided at this meeting. Party chairperson Elaine Lenart said anyone interested in helping organize is welcome to attend. Ticket sales for the party have begun and will continue through the school year.

Youngsters take to wild blue yonder

Young Eagles program increases aviation awareness among kids

BY PETER A. SALINAS
SPECIAL WRITER

Getting young people up early on a Saturday morning isn't the easiest thing for adults to do, but it definitely helps having a helicopter and a small fleet of private airplanes as an incentive.

Several dozen young people toured the bright blue skies over Mettetal Airport in Canton Township Sept. 14 as part of the Young Eagles Program free fly day sponsored by the Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA) Chapter 113. Chapter president Don Ruff, a Canton resident and licensed pilot, said the local chapter has about 70 members mostly from the Western Wayne and Washtenaw county areas. The group is doing its part to help the international Experimental Aircraft Association realize its goal of raising one million young people aloft and increasing awareness of the field of aviation.

The EAA hopes to realize its goal by Dec. 17, 2003, which is the 100th anniversary of the first flight by Orville and Wilbur Wright at Kitty Hawk, N.C., Ruff said.

Gonzalez even believes Plymouth fits Gov. Jennifer Granholm's definition of a cool city.

"Sure I do," Gonzalez said. "I love Music in the Park and Fall Festival. All the activities create an energy in downtown Plymouth."

Granholm, who earlier this year announced efforts to create cool Michigan cities in order to keep young people from leaving the state, has invited 274 Michigan communities — including Plymouth — to

Board OKs adding barn to township park

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Township Park is about to get another addition.

Township officials, who have in recent years added a playscape and a sprayscape to the park, located at McClumpha and Ann Arbor Trail, voted Tuesday to allow a developer to move a barn onto park property to serve as a nature center.

The developer, Marcello Scappaticci, has volunteered to move the Cassidy barn from its long-time home on the Cassidy property in the city of Plymouth to a wooded section of township park. The barn no longer conforms to the development Scappaticci built on the Cassidy property in the city.

Scappaticci made the offer in February, and the township board voted at the time to accept it. On Tuesday, the board voted to approve the re-assembly of the barn in township park. Scappaticci will disassemble the barn at its current location and put it back together in Plymouth Township Park.

Canton Chiefettes senior co-captain Shay Reilly, 17, leads a rehearsal in the school's cafeteria Monday in preparation for the squad's annual variety show Oct. 4.

Chiefettes celebrate milestone

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Thirty years ago the Canton Chiefettes were born. On Oct. 4, Chiefette alumni will gather for the group's annual Variety Show in the Salem High School auditorium. Shows are 1 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Tickets are now on sale for $5 or $6 at the door. "We are going to honor the alumni," said Chiefettes program director Cece Hinske. "If we can, we would like to have the alumni perform a routine." The squad was started by Ellen Curtis Dorman in 1973 with 16 girls.

The Canton Chiefettes continue to perform as they have over the past 30 years using the format of a pom squad, Hinske said. Unlike a dance team the moves and formation used are very structured and precise, requiring each member to be well-trained and in excellent physical condition.

While cheerleaders are more of a motivational and cheering squad, the Chiefettes are entertainers. We perform for three minutes straight, Hinske said. "One foot must be on the floor at all times. There is a precision to the moves.

Think of lots of high energy, athletics and entertainment and you will have an idea of what the Chiefettes are all about. And as with the Rockettes, the Chiefettes cannot be out of shape and unhealthy. In November, they will perform in a high-kick competition, followed by a regional competition. "You have to place to be invited to the state competition in mid-February," Hinske said.

ROUTINE

The Chiefettes perform 10 months of each year, meaning each girl on the squad gives about 600 hours of her time. The squad performs at all home football and basketball games and at camp in the summer. In their early years, the Chiefettes, who were state champs in 1988 and 1991, also performed in all Plymouth parades.

They have to be physically fit. It is time consuming so they have to be good students, as well, Hinske said. It helps to have had some dance background. We look for kids who have good characters.

Hinske, who has been program director for two years, is also a big supporter of how the Chiefettes helps girls on the squad. "They learn to perform. They learn lifelong leadership skills. They learn to work on a team and they learn sportsmanship."

The Chiefettes actually have two squads: varsity with 28 members, coached by Kristen Barkoot and Andrea Rentz, and the junior varsity squad with 21 members, coached by Jenny Kessler and Coleen Wyndendorf.

"When a young lady is chosen as a Chiefette she makes a commitment not only to her squad, but to herself to be the best she can be," Hinske said. As a coaching staff we not only strive for the girls to perform well at games and competitions but to leave with them the personal skills that will better prepare them for life after high school.

The Chiefettes are still searching for alumni. If you happen to be one of the alumni, contact Hinske at (734) 397-2772. In addition to performances by the Chiefettes at the annual Variety Show, the Salem Rockettes and the Plymouth Sabrettes will perform.

New presses open colorful opportunities for 'Observer'

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER

You may have noticed that your Observer has been a lot more colorful this past week.

Two additional press units and an extra color half-deck now make it possible for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers to offer readers and advertisers more color positions.

"As the world becomes more colorful, we're joining the world," said Richard Agman, president of HomeTown Communications Network, the parent company of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

The approximately $1.5 million investment, combined with a new distribution center and state-of-the-art inserting system for advertising circulars, provides more options for advertisers.

"Advertisers can use ROP (run of paper) for color, zone their inserts and have their inserts printed on our press," Agman said. It gives us more flexibility to do inserts.

Peter Neill, Observer & Eccentric general manager, said advertisers have been asking to run more color, but previously the O&E's press capacity limited color to the front and back pages of four newspaper sections. The new units give the O&E six Goss Metro press units and two color half-decks.

"This has increased our press capacity by 50 percent. We can move around our color positions to give our advertisers what they want," Neill said.

He added that this also gave the editorial department a chance to serve readers better with more color photographs.

"The color should look sharper and cleaner," Neill said.

The Goss Metro presses went into operation Sept. 19. The units were purchased and moved from a newspaper in Newcastle, Pa., to the O&E's Livonia production facility Aug. 5.

Production Director Mark Vines said preparation for the new units began in April.

But the O&E didn't need to construct a new building. "When the building was originally designed in 1969-70, the foundation and reel floor were prepped to add two units and a folder. There was forethought there," said Ray Williams, press working foreman.

But a temporary wall had to be removed and new lines had to be installed to feed water, ink and electricity to the new units.

All the preparation helps the O&E in giving readers and advertisers more and better color.

"With the new presses, we go from a 48-page capacity with eight full color pages, to 64 pages with 16 full color pages," Vines said.

Vines said a new CGI digital inking system allows a more precise and accurate way to disperse the ink.

Williams said the old system for controlling ink was mechanical with a lot of gears and levers and limited options.

"We had 20 different ink settings, from very little to a lot. Now we have eliminated the mechanical parts and gone digital. If we had 0 to 20 settings, now we have 0 to 99 digital readouts," Williams said.

Automated, digital color controls will allow pressmen to exactly calibrate colors to provide consistency for advertisers. For those who use an identifying corporate color, the new process will allow the pressmen to note the exact setting and reproduce the right color every time.

The initial reaction from advertisers has been "very positive," Neill said.

Registration opens for boating safety class

The City of Plymouth is now accepting registration for its U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Boating Safety Class.

A course certificate is issued upon successful completion of the course, which may qualify boat owners for reduced boat insurance rates. Participants must be at least 12 years of age. Class will be held from 8 a.m.

5 p.m. Saturday Oct. 11 at the Plymouth Cultural Center. The class fee is $40, or $35 per family member in groups of two or more.

Township board awards sidewalk contract

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Township officials are hoping to fill some breaks in its sidewalk structure before the snow starts flying this winter.

The township board Tuesday approved the award of a contract to close gaps in the existing sidewalk network, a contract worth nearly $78,000 that went to the project's lone bidder, Audia Concrete Construction of Milford.

The contract will allow sidewalks to be filled in at various locations along Ann Arbor Trail, Haggerty and Five Mile.

The contract was awarded on a 4-2 vote, with trustees Abe Munfakh and Charles Curmi voting against it. The fact Audia's was the only bid, and the timing with winter approaching, were cited as factors. According to township engineer Michael Bailey, Audia will get started on the project sometime in mid-October, with a required completion date of Nov. 15.

That was a little too close to the cold weather for Munfakh's taste.

"I'd prefer to see us re-advertise in January or February when people are looking for jobs in the spring," Munfakh said. "If we start now, you'll be pouring concrete in some cold weather."

The work was originally scheduled to be done earlier this year, but Bailey said getting paperwork through Wayne County has delayed the project.

That has been the case with several projects that have had to go through Wayne County officials, he pointed out.

"It's too bad the county continues to block communities who want to improve themselves," Curmi said. "That's the single biggest tax on your bill. You should remember that at election time."

Audia Concrete

Construction was the contractor on the sidewalk program in 2001, and provided the only bid this time around. Bailey said the township had hoped to use last year's contractor, Hard Rock Concrete, Inc., but Hard Rock had already taken on a full schedule for the fall and couldn't bid.

The township then advertised for new bids, with four contractors taking out the bids. However, at the bid opening Sept. 9, only Audia had submitted a bid.

"Even though there was only one bid submitted, we feel the prices quoted are competitive based on past bid experience," Bailey said.

Township supervisor Steve Mann, clerk Marilyn Massengill, treasurer Ron Edwards and trustee Kay Arnold voted to approve the awarding of the bid. Trustee Ron Griffith was absent.

three, four, 500 bucks to keep Plymouth a great place, but I really want to hear the city also say, 'We're going to do more with less, too,'" he said.

On the other side of the spectrum, Al Bradley, who has lived in his Sunset Street home for 47 years, said enough is enough.

"Somewhere we've got to draw a line for those of us on fixed, limited budgets," Bradley said. "I feel I'm being forced out with the taxes we're paying right now. I just can't afford anymore."

Betty Lillschaff, who is a 16-year Plymouth resident, agreed with Bradley. "Senior citizens are on a limited income," she said. "We don't get these raises. We don't all have health care. Financial affairs is quite simply that expenditures are outpacing revenues."

We've dipped into the savings account to help balance the budget for the current year, he said. "We anticipate more revenue cuts from the state of Michigan. We've developed a plan to reduce the number of employees. We're developing a plan to reduce service levels."

Sincock said he didn't expect the city commission to levy the entire 15 mills, if approved by voters. "My guess it will be in the neighborhood of 2 to 2 1/2 mills."

Joan Rank, who lives on Maple Street, found out the additional hike would cost her $106 a year. She went to the meeting to get information to make an intelligent decision.

"My first thought was enough, I pay enough taxes, and I'm on a limited income," said Rank, a 33-year resident of the City of Homes. "But I enjoy everything about Plymouth, and I'm thinking (vote) yes. I'll just work another day."

City Clerk Linda Langmesser said she'll begin sending out absentee ballots Monday. Voters will elect four city commissioners, and decide the fate of Proposal 1.

Registered voters who want to vote absentee can contact Langmesser at (734) 453-1234, ext. 234.

take part in her cool cities initiative.

"Building vibrant, energetic cities that attract jobs, people and opportunity to our state is a key component of my economic vision for Michigan," Granholm said in a letter to Mayor Bill Graham. "Vital cities will not only open new horizons for urban residents, they also enhance our effort to preserve the green space that surrounds our metropolitan areas and attract the diverse mix of workers so essential to our new knowledge-driven economy."

"Specifically, we would like you to convene a local 'cool cities' advisory group to find ways to make people — and particularly young people — more interested in living, working and shopping in your city."

City Manager Paul Sincock said he has asked Downtown Development Authority Director Bob Anderson to form the advisory group.

Bob Johnson, senior executive assistant director of the Michigan Department of Labor and Economic Growth, said when the data is tabulated later this year, the goal will be to develop stronger cities.

"We want to compete in retaining young Michiganders who are leaving our state," Johnson said. "We want those who are born and bred here to see our communities as desirable. It's a quality of life issue," Johnson added. "We need people who are gainfully employed and contributing to the economic engine. Without them there's more burden on those that remain."

Municipalities participating in the 'cool cities' initiative were chosen by the Michigan State University Center of Urban Affairs. Nearby communities selected to form advisory groups include Northville, Garden City, Farmington and Farmington Hills. Terri Fabbri of Lake Orion formerly lived in Northville, but still visits downtown Plymouth.

"Plymouth is very cool. They've done a lot of things to bring people down here," Fabbri said. "It has something for everybody. There are nice restaurants and shops, Kellogg Park. Every part of the family can enjoy it."

Scappaticci will also foot the cost of the concrete footing for the barn.

Costs for the moving, site plan development and engineering consultation by the township's engineer, Dietrich, Bailey and Associates, will be borne by Scappaticci.

The master plan has always envisioned a nature center in that area of the park, Bailey told board members Tuesday. The area is generally wooded and would require some clearing but we would miss any significant trees."

The next step will be to let residents know the barn is coming. Although the acceptance of Scappaticci's offer was made public several months ago, director of municipal services James Anulewicz said Tuesday they hadn't yet been consulted about the nature of its use. That will happen immediately, he said.

"I would immediately contact adjacent residents so they can see firsthand what's been done," Anulewicz said. Plans for exactly what will be done with the barn, other than making it a nature center, haven't been decided. But Anulewicz said exhibits, trails and other nature-related designs could be among what's incorporated, including ways for students to take advantage.

In terms of how the interior would be developed, we don't have that yet, he said. "We see an opportunity to partner with the school district, and to brainstorm with the folks at the University of Michigan and Michigan State about uses for the nature center."

Services set for Canton man killed in Iraqi bombing

Funeral services for Sgt. Trevor Blumberg, 22, who was killed in Iraq on Sept 14, will be 10 a.m. Monday, Sept. 29, at St. Michael Lutheran Church, 7000 Sheldon Road, between Ford and Warren.

Sergeant Blumberg was a member of the 1st Battalion of the 504th Parachute Infantry Regiment with the 82nd Airborne Division. He died when a roadside bomb hit a convoy and destroyed the Humvee occupied by himself and three other soldiers. His unit had been deployed to Iraq just three days before the incident occurred.

The 1999 Salem High School graduate was the son of Terry R. and Janet M. Blumberg of Canton.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by a sister, Amanda K. (Brian) Marshall, grandparents, Nancy E. Blumberg of Lincoln Park and Bernard N. Beeman of New Port Richey, Fla. He was preceded in death by his grandfather Arthur L. Blumberg and grandmother Mary V. Beeman.

Sgt. Blumberg

Visitation will be Sunday, Sept. 28, from noon to 9 p.m. at L.J. Griffin Funeral Home, 42600 Ford Road. A military memorial service will be held Sunday at 7 p.m.

Sergeant Blumberg will be presented in the narthex of St. Michael Monday at 9 a.m. until the service at 10 a.m.

Interment with military honors will follow at Michigan Memorial Cemetery in Flat Rock.

In lieu of flowers a memorial may be made in Sergeant Blumberg's name to St. Michael Lutheran Church. The donations will support Christian Camp experiences for youngsters.

Chapter members used their new 5,000 square foot facility at Mettetal as a staging area for the third such event this year. The local EAA chapter dubbed The Backyard Eagles was created in 1961 and its major focus is to bring together people who have diverse aviation interests by providing fellowship, learning and fun. Fun is what Andrew Rellinger, 6, of Livonia had when he was taken aboard a Cessna Sky Hawk 172.

I saw the Canton Library and some lakes," the young Rellinger said. I liked taking off the best.

Ruff said seeing the smiles on the faces of young people when the planes taxi to the runway and then gather speed for take off is what he enjoys most about the program.

Aviation is not getting the interest it needs, Ruff said.

It is a vital part of our country. This is not a hobby for the rich or elite. Programs like this show people that we are your friends, neighbors and co-workers. Having a plane is definitely cheaper than having a child."

In fact, Ruff said that getting trained and owning a plane can cost about as much as owning a good size fishing boat, and in many cases less expensive than owning many of the larger boats you see on the Great Lakes.

Nicholas Forsman, 15, a Canton High School sophomore, said he had an interest in flying since he was 2 or 3 years old. After months of training and taking classes at Willow Run Airport, he'll be able to solo next spring when he turns 16.

I want to fly for a living.

Young Eagle program coordinators for the Experimental Aircraft Association Chapter 113, Mike Scovel of Livonia and Debbie Forsman of Canton, give James Moore-Lugo, 12, of Detroit his certificate after flying during the group's free fly day Sept. 14.

Forsman said, "I want to be a commercial or corporate pilot. I want to fly jets."

That's one reason his parents, David and Debbie, joined and became active in the local EAA chapter. David is on the chapter board of directors and Debbie is a Young Eagle Program coordinator.

My son and I are both members of the Civil Air Patrol," Forsman said. "I'm not a pilot, but I have strong interests in aviation."

Construction of the new building, which serves as a storage area for aircraft, materials and equipment, and as a meeting room for seminars and fund-raisers began in June 2002. It is still a work in progress, but most of the major construction has been completed.

"The Mettetal Airport board meets here and the Canton Rotary, which helped us a lot in construction, has held several fund-raisers," Ruff said.

The building costs $70,000 for materials and chapter members and friends provided much of the labor. The chapter hosts a major pancake breakfast and other fund-raisers throughout the year and the airport board gave the chapter a loan, which it will pay back over time.

Robert Paulson, 77, who is spearheading a new aviation library is a retired instructional coordinator at Washtenaw Community College. The aviation library, once completed, will be made available to Civil Air Patrol members, the EAA local scouting groups and of course, local schools.

We will need to formalize

The Backyard Eagles EAA Chapter 113 has a new 5,000-square-foot building which will serve as an aircraft storage facility and meeting hall for the group. The building was constructed with money from various fund-raisers and hard work of members and friends.

our rules of use, but we are going to try to make the collection available to as many people as possible.

Paulson, a Dearborn resident, will have a good grasp of the materials in the collection since he donated much of it from the aviation literature, videos, maps and other memorabilia he collected during a lifetime of interest in the subject.

Hopefully, we will have the library operational this fall," Paulson said.

EAA members post flyers and send schools information

"I've been really impressed by the knowledge of some of the young people who come to these events. I took up an 11-year-old earlier this year who already knows she wants to be a pilot."

Dave James
program coordinator

about the free fly days, and members are hoping to host another one later this year, prior to the 100th anniversary of flight.

Jennie and Katie Rokakis, twin sisters, and fifth graders at Discovery Middle School in Canton, came to the most recent free fly day along with other members of Girl Scout Troop 905. They flew in a plane, owned by Plymouth resident Tom Smith, an EAA Chapter 113 member and private pilot.

This is great, Jennie Rokakis said. "I've really learned a lot about flying today."

Dave James, a Wayne resident, and Chapter 113 Young Eagles program coordinator said he has personally taken 400 children flying in both his Stinson 108 airplane and Bell 47 helicopter.

"I've been really impressed by the knowledge of some of the young people who come to these events," James said. "I took up an 11-year-old earlier this year who already knows she wants to be a pilot. After five minutes in the plane she was working the radio and telling me what the controls were for. She had no fear and couldn't get enough."

James said programs like Young Eagles have become even more important as security at major airports has gotten more restrictive.

"You can't get the hands on experience there like you can get here," James said, as he looked around the small, but busy airfield. "Aviation is what we wanted. This is what we did, and now it's time to teach to the next batch."

Shooting Oswald was a publicity stunt

Forty years later, he sprawls in a comfortable chair in his suite in the assisted living center in Southfield, looking bleakly across the room at a framed collage of family pictures, several showing his famous brother and himself together.

Jack Lessenberry

Earl knows, without asking, that I saw his brother commit murder. So did millions of other people. He wasn't there. He had just left his dry cleaning plant on Livernois when word came on the radio that Lee Harvey Oswald had been shot.

"And they said the fellow that did the shooting is Jack Ruby, owner of the Carousel Night Club in Dallas, and I immediately knew it was my brother because that was the name of the club he owned," Earl Ruby, now 88, told the Warren Commission.

What he didn't tell them was that Jack called him later that day, from the Dallas jail. "I was surprised he could call me. I thought you only got one call," he rasped, a tube in his nose slightly affecting his speech.

What did he say? The answer seems startling. "Earl, I think we're going to get a lot of good publicity out of this," Jack said. Which is exactly what Earl thought, too. He thought they'd book his brother, maybe keep him overnight, and that he would be released as a hero. "I was naive, we were naive," he said.

There have been a lot of books speculating about Dallas' second most famous murder. Some believe Jack Ruby was ordered by the Mafia to wipe out the president's assassin. Others think he was tied to other conspiracies.

Earl Ruby is sure he knows

After all, he knew his brother better than anyone else. "We did everything we could together. We were the closest in the family," he says in an old smoker's voice. "I loved him. He owed me $16,000, you know. When the FBI asked why I gave him the money, I said, 'I loved Jack.' I didn't care if I got it back."

One feels that he is telling the truth. They had grown up in Chicago, in a broken home and in rough neighborhoods. Earl bought a dry cleaning business in Detroit in 1960. Jack went to Dallas, to join a sister and open some nightclubs.

He was, by all accounts, emotional, flamboyant and occasionally violent. And everyone who knew him said he became unhinged by the assassination. "Jack just did it on impulse," Earl says, closing his eyes. "He loved President Kennedy. He said he felt worse when he was shot than he did when our parents died."

What happened that day, he said, was that Jack, who owned a couple of seedy nightclubs, went to Western Union to wire some money to one of his strippers who needed rent money. He saw a fuss over at the police department, and walked over and went in. He wasn't supposed to be there, but he knew all the cops.

They came into his nightclubs, Jack, who was a notorious street brawler, who, not long before, helped a couple of cops out of a jam with his fists. Besides, he liked cops and liked to hang around the police station. Nobody questioned his being there.

Until he blasted a shot into Oswald's abdomen, ripping apart his internal organs from his stomach to his spleen, killing him within an hour. "You killed my president, you rat!" Ruby screamed before he was hustled off to a cell of his own.

"Jack never meant to kill Oswald," Earl said. "He just wanted to make him suffer. The historical record, however, doesn't bear that out. Ruby told the Dallas police immediately afterward that he hoped Oswald died, and that he wanted to spare Jackie Kennedy the horror of having to testify during any trial.

Instead, Jack Ruby fired a shot that gave birth, and eternal life, to a million conspiracy theories. Earl Ruby hired famous attorney Melvin Belli to defend him. "He was a bum. I despised him in the end," Earl says. Most experts, indeed, feel that Belli did a terrible job, and should have gotten a second-degree murder conviction.

Instead, it was murder one, and the chair. But Jack Ruby never reached it. His body and mind quickly deteriorated. His jailers gave him Pepto-Bismol, until they belatedly discovered he was full of cancer. Barely three years after he killed Oswald, Jack Ruby died, with the faithful Earl at his side.

Now, his brother doesn't have much time. He has been negotiating with an author who wants to write a book called My Brother and Me, but Earl wants money, and the proposed author wants him to turn over all his papers first.

What does he want the book to say? "To tell the story of the real Jack Ruby, and me, how we grew up together, and that he was not a rotten guy. Never will be, not to an old man whose life itself has been defined by a single bullet."

By the way, does it bother Earl that he will forever be remembered as the brother of the man who? Earl smiles. Not at all. One part of Jack's prediction the day he shot Oswald came true. "It was very good for business. People came in to see me because of it, came in to my place so they could talk to me." Pause. "Like you are doing now."

Jack Lessenberry is editorial vice president of Hometown Communications. He can be reached by phone at (248) 901-2561 or by e-mail at jlessenberry@homecomm.net.

Report urges schools to teach more about American values

A report by the Albert Shanker Institute, Education for Democracy, released earlier this month, warns that our nation's schools are telling students about America's failings, but not enough about its values and freedoms.

Hugh Gallagher

The report concludes that if schools continue this way, they will turn out large numbers of students who are socially disengaged and without a proper appreciation of democracy.

This is an argument you often hear from the political right. But this report has been endorsed by prominent figures from across the political spectrum, from former President Bill Clinton to Ronald Reagan's former UN Ambassador Jeanne Kirkpatrick.

The report has also won the endorsement of representatives of the American Federation of Teachers and the National Education Association, the nation's largest education union.

An Associated Press story quotes Lee Hamilton, a former Democratic congressman and president of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars. "It really shows the depth of concern across the country about the status of our civil society. How low voter participation can you have and still have a democracy?"

This has been a concern of parents in the Farmington School District, who have been critical of a new elective International Affairs course and a curriculum change that moves a basic government course from senior year to freshman year.

The AP quotes the report: "We do not ask for propaganda, for crash courses in the right attitudes or for knee-jerk patriotic drill. We do not want to capsulize democracy's arguments into slogans, or pious texts, or bright debate points."

The AP says the report calls for a stronger history and social studies curriculum, starting in elementary school.

"The basic ideas of liberty, equality and justice, of civil, political and economic rights and obligations, are all assertions of right and wrong, of moral values. The authors of the American testament had no trouble distinguishing moral education from religious instruction, and neither should we," the report says.

There are many forces that contribute to apathy about democracy among the young. First, they have the example of their parents, who are rarely moved to actually make an effort to vote. Except for presidential elections or high-profile gubernatorial and senate elections, the number of voters is usually depressingly small. Ten percent turnout for a local council or school election is considered good. Even the big elections struggle to get 60 percent turnout.

Second, students do not read newspapers. They don't even watch talking-head cable "news" programs. They download music, they play video games, when they're home they watch Friends or MTV. Or at least a significant majority do.

It would seem that a negative school message about America would radicalize students rather than bore them, but let's accept the report's conclusion that our school social studies programs do not say enough positive about America and turn students off from our political system.

What then is the proper balance? What do we want our social studies programs to teach? What do we want students to learn?

This is a nation forged in ideas. It is the idea of a free people — free from the presumptions of nobility, royalty and privilege, free to speak, write, petition, free to assert in public that a leader is a fraud and not suffer imprisonment or worse. We, more than any nation before ours, brought this message to the world. And we opened our doors to the world, asking only that those who came would believe in our great idea. But students need to know that the idea is always at risk, always in play. Social studies classes can not ignore that struggle or the conflicts that are part of a public debate. It would be wrong to ignore the Civil War or Teapot Dome, Vietnam or Watergate, just because they raise questions about how our democracy works.

For older children, the very act of debate is a lesson in democracy. They should know that not everyone thinks the same way about every issue and they should know that that's the beauty of it all.

Sure, tell little children the simplified version, but don't oversimplify and don't distort for the sake of making a dull, flattering but false idea of America.

Value America for its real gift to the world, a chance for every voice to be heard. It doesn't get any more exciting than that.

Hugh Gallagher is the managing editor of the Observer Newspapers. He can be reached at (734) 953-2149.

Commentator Jim Hightower inspires anti-Bush crowd

BY WAYNE PEAL
COMMUNITY EDITOR

Jim Hightower is the kind of Texan who'd make the Dixie Chicks proud. Witty, outspoken and unabashedly liberal — make that progressive populist — author and radio commentator Hightower delivered his take on the state of the nation Wednesday to an overflow crowd of some 320 fellow rompin' stompin' rebels at the Southfield Centre for the Arts.

Like the country music groups much-criticized lead singer, Hightower is also less than thrilled to claim President George W. Bush as a fellow Texan.

That's because — as he sees it — the president is presiding over a shift of power to corporate interests on a scale unseen in U.S. history.

"Drip-by-drip-by-drip, we're losing our ability to control the decisions which affect our lives," he said.

The Bush Administration came in for a pillorying on issues ranging from the environment, to the war and expensive rebuilding of Iraq to "taking a sledgehammer to the Bill of Rights" via the Patriot Act and other post-9/11 measures.

"Imagine what they'd have done if they'd actually won the election," Hightower said. For him, and many of those in attendance, defeating the current president in 2004 amounts to nothing less than restoring democracy itself.

"There have been periods where democracy has expanded, now it's receding. But we can get it back," he said. "There once was a feeling that we were all in the same boat. Now, it's I've got mine — adios sucker."

FROGS IN A WHEELBARROW

His self-described remedy getting individual far-flung progressive groups to work together.

"It's like putting frogs in a wheelbarrow, but we can do it," he said.

Indeed, many audience members were stunned that people shared their views on the issues.

Being here, you know there are people out there who feel the way you do and that's very heartening," said Bob Apczynski of Southfield.

Suzanne Gougherty was also encouraged if a bit more apprehensive about 2004. "It's very inspiring to be here and see all this spirit, the 18-year Southfield resident said. "But I am concerned that Bush is already out there with millions of dollars in his campaign fund."

Apczynski, a founder of the Oakland County Bill of Rights Defense Committee, and Gougherty, general manager of i.e. America, a liberal community radio network, represented some of the groups Hightower was talking about.

Ray Dennison of Livonia would be more than happy to support Hightower, a former Texas Agriculture Commissioner, for any office he'd like.

"He's the greatest. He has such a good grasp of the issues and he makes his points so clearly."

Others attendees came from union organizations, the Dennis Kucinich for President campaign and the Michigan Alliance to Strengthen Social Security and Medicare, which sponsored Wednesday's event.

Hightower urged attendees to resist efforts to privatize Social Security.

"Remember, two years ago these geniuses would have put your money into Enron," he said.

Considering the crowded field of Democratic presidential contenders, Hightower urged the crowd to "put your arms around any and all who espouse any progressive ideas."

I'd even embrace (Sen.

Author and radio commentator Jim Hightower delivered his take on the state of the nation at the Southfield Centre for the Arts Wednesday.

Joseph Lieberman if he had any, but I haven't heard them yet," he joked.

Despite Wednesday's turnout — and his current New York Times best-seller Thieves In High Places and They've Stolen Our Country And It's Time to Take It Back — Hightower's face and voice far is less familiar than that of Bill O'Reilly or Rush Limbaugh and his mainstream media exposure isn't nearly as great.

Though his radio program is carried on stations throughout the U.S., including Alaska and Hawaii, it's mostly on lower wattage community stations. In Michigan, it's currently only available in Kalamazoo.

While the president's popularity has slipped of late, it also remains strong.

Yet, Hightower is delivering his message in various forms, including his books, Rolling Chatuaqua speaking tour, newsletter and, especially, his Web site www.jimhightower.com where his daily radio commentaries can be downloaded.

If and when the frogs jump into the wheelbarrow, Hightower will be there to the pushing.

Bikers ride to help babies

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Kim Streich isn't worried that registration is lagging for the second annual Bikers for Babies Ride to benefit the March of Dimes. Bikers wait till the last minute to sign up even though they support the event.

Streich is just hoping the weather is nice for the 55-mile ride which starts at University of Michigan-Dearborn then winds through Edward Hines Drive. The event begins noon (10 a.m. registration) today.

The cost is $25 per rider, $25 per passenger, and includes lunch. For more information, call (248) 359-1550.

"Bikers don't pre-register," said Streich, March of Dimes event coordinator. "That morning they look out the window and say is this a good day? I think I'll go riding. We're hoping to remind them with a Pre-registration party."

Last year, 170 bikers and their passengers raised $12,000 for the March of Dimes, a national agency working to improve the health of babies by preventing birth defects and infant mortality. The goal this year is $25,000. The money goes to research, education, and community programs such as Healthy Baby Services, a van that picks up women with no transportation to pre-natal exams.

Garden City biker Todd Bates thinks it's an event well worth supporting. Helping others is a lesson he learned early at Riverside Arena in Livonia. As a kid, his parents owned the roller rink and frequently held fund-raisers.

there including ones to support the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon for MDA.

Bates helped organize the first Bikers for Babies last year.

"My wife, Holly, and I are bikers," said Bates who owns Turtle's Detailing and Power Wash for motorcycles in Garden City. "We get involved whatever way we need in order to help. We've always done fund-raisers. We belong to a Garden City club — the Road Dawgs. There's no hardcore drinking. We ride together as friends, do a lot of helping out. Bikers have gotten a lot of bad press through the years but when it comes to charities, there's a lot of bikers not afraid to spend money to help others."

Brad Bockstanz gives money as well as his time. He first became involved with the ride last year after being approached by Dick Rose and Tom Celani, owners of Motor City Harley Davidson in Farmington Hills. Bockstanz is president of the 1150-member Motor City Hog Chapter affiliated with the dealership.

"We're organized around different charities, always gathering money for Penrickton School for Blind Children, Second Chance for Life organ donor program for University of Michigan, and MDA," said Bockstanz. "We want to get the word out and make the ride a big success for March of Dimes. We try to help people in any way we can. We want to make it bigger and better every year."

Madonna men win

A strong first half got Madonna University's men's soccer team headed in the proper direction but the Crusaders had to withstand a second half comeback attempt by Indiana Tech to claim a 2-1 triumph Thursday at Tech's Kreegar Park.

The win gave 17th ranked Madonna a 7-1 overall record and kept it unbeaten in the Wolverine Hoosier Athletic Conference at 5-0.

The Crusaders outshot Tech 11-6 in the first half and had a 1-0 halftime lead thanks to a goal by Worth Sampson at the 19:06 mark. James Miller (from Livonia Stevenson) assisted.

Madonna increased its lead to 2-0 at 17:24 into the second half when T.J. Djokic (Livonia Stevenson) put a shot past Warrior keeper Jake Billingsley.

Tech made a game of it with a goal 16 minutes later scored by Nick Giannakis. But the Warriors could not get the equalizer.

Doug Koontz (Canton) faced 13 shots in goal for Madonna making three saves. Billingsley had five saves for Tech facing 18 shots.

Lady Crusaders fall

Three first half goals by Cornerstone University scored in a 10 minute span allowed the Golden Eagles to upset 10th ranked Madonna University 3-2 Wednesday at Cornerstone.

The Crusaders slipped to 5-2 overall, 3-1 in the WHAC. Cornerstone is 7-1 overall, 3-0 in the conference.

Kathy Betts put the Eagles on the board putting in the rebound off a goal kick at the 16:02 mark. Melissa Strohmaier assisted.

Cornerstone then got a pair of unassisted goals from Lena Baldwin at 22:00 and 25:59 to push its lead to 3-0.

The Crusaders regrouped at halftime and made a game of it. Tanya Bruce scoring 3:37 into the second half and Lacey Cattarino making it a one goal game with 7:13 left. Emily Jackson (Farmington Harrison) assisted on both goals.

But Madonna could not pull even. Diana Kaip started in goal for the Crusaders and played the first half. She was replaced by Katie Sponsler in the second half. Laura Hamlyn was in goal the entire match for Cornerstone.

Halloween tourney

A Halloween 3v3 Soccer Tournament hosted by Brian Finnerty of High Velocity Sports and the Canton Soccer Club is scheduled for Oct. 18-19 at High Velocity Sports located at 46245 Michigan Ave.

The tournament is a benefit for Allen Lukko who suffers from non-Hodgkins lymphoma and is in need of a bone marrow transplant. The search for a donor is expensive and not covered by insurance. All proceeds from the tournament will aid in that search and cover medical expenses.

One of Lukko's three children is a member of Canton's U-13 boys premier team. Donations can be mailed to My Friends Care, Canton Soccer, 44211 Nowland Drive, Canton, MI 48188.

Canton leads boys, Salem tops girls

First of all, in a meet designated as the City Championship but also featuring Western Lakes Activities Association teams from Northville, Westland, John Glenn and Wayne Memorial, Canton's boys team proved slightly better than Salems — but neither was even close to Northville.

In the WLAA City Championship Jamboree Thursday at Cass Benton, the Mustangs claimed five of the top six places, led by front-runner Tim Dalton, who was first in 16:48. Northville had the next three spots as well before Canton's Scott George slipped in at No. 5 overall.

George was the top finisher in the Plymouth/Canton City Championship (18:20), but the race between Canton and Salem proved to be a real dogfight. The Chiefs edged Salem 28-31, with Plymouth third with 69 points.

Canton won by putting four of their five runners in the top seven positions in scoring kept for just the three Plymouth/Canton high schools. All five of Salem's runners were in the top 10, but they weren't quite high enough to beat out Canton.

The Chiefs' top runner behind George was Nate Phillips in third place (18:22), with Eric Zech fourth (18:23), Steve Cheek seventh (18:43) and Trey Wolfe 14th (19:31).

Salem was led by Brian Kutnick in second (18:22), followed by Dave Maryanski, fifth (18:38), John Israel, sixth (18:42), Brian Barnes, eighth (18:55), and Cam Loftus, 10th (19:20).

Plymouth, a team consisting of just freshmen and sophomores, was led by Chris Marsh, who was ninth (19:03). Jeff Mousesian placed 12th (19:30), Nate Kostegian was 13th (19:30), Patrick Slavens took 16th (19:48) and Christian Chagas finished 19th (20:20).

In the WLAA City Championship meet, Northville — led by first-place finisher Liz Hrvinac (19:50) — was best, claiming the top five spots overall.

Three touches, three touchdowns. Ball game.

Canton, getting used to its status as a state power, broke away from Livonia Stevenson with three touchdowns on three straight plays early in the second half Friday to turn a close game into a 40-15 Western Lakes Activities Association rout.

"The big plays definitely did it," coach Tim Gabel of the Spartans (2-3) said. "But I was more disappointed in our offense in the first half."

"Our defense gave us good field position and we didn't take advantage of it. That was the beginning of the end for us. We had good field position and couldn't do anything with it."

Stevenson clung to a 7-6 lead at halftime but Canton (5-0) tinkered with its blocking assignments and went from 10-squared trickery to 10-cubed.

"We made a couple of adjustments in our blocking," Chiefs' coach Tim Baechler said. "And we ran some different plays. We went to our counter plays a little more."

That could have been one of the keys to the game.

The Spartans sacked the Chiefs' sophomore quarterback Shawn Little for a 7-yard loss after Canton received the second-half kickoff. Devin Thomas gained 10 yards with a pass in the flat, which left it 3rd-and-7.

The Chiefs lined up in a double slot-back formation and ran both past Little. The second man by, Travis McKinney, got the ball and zipped 44 yards around the left side to the Spartans' 14. Three plays later junior Juhan Smith bulled over from a yard out to give Canton a 12-7 lead.

Stevenson ran three plays and punted, downing the ball on the Canton 42. McKinney ripped off a 58-yard scoring run up the middle to make it 19-7 and after the Spartans went 3-and-out again, fullback Chuck Schumacher bolted 47 yards up the middle for a touchdown and a 26-7 lead.

Bryon Siefert intercepted sophomore quarterback Chad Casey's pass on Stevenson's next possession and Canton marched 62 yards in eight plays, getting into the end zone on a 2-yard Thomas run with 1:21 left in the second quarter that boosted Canton's lead to 33-7.

"They've got an awful lot of weapons," Gabel said. "They've got a lot of ways they can beat you."

Salem battles but can't stop Viking offense

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Throughout the second half of Thursday's Salem-at-Walled Lake Central football game, the cheer could be heard reverberating along the Salem sideline.

"Defense, defense, defense!" That, unfortunately, was the one element missing for the Rocks. The big-play syndrome that has hurt them all season hurt them again in this game, although their offense answered with a few big plays of its own.

But in the end, it was the defense's inability to stop the Vikings that hurt the most in Central's 34-27 victory.

"That's our year right there," said Salem coach Bob Cummings. "Just a few busted plays, too many big plays. I mean, it was a nice comeback. If you eliminate the 40-yard (or more) plays we've given up this year, our record would be a lot better."

The loss left the Rocks at 1-4 overall, 0-4 in the Western Lakes Activities Association, three of their losses have been by one touchdown. Central remained perfect: 5-0 overall, 4-0 in the WLAA.

There were a lot of positives in this game for Salem: no turnovers, no penalties, 265 yards in offense. Unfortunately, the Rocks' defense surrendered 411 yards to the Vikings, who stopped themselves twice in the first half and only punted once in the game.

Indeed, Central coach Chuck Apap admitted his approach in the second half was somewhat conservative — considering his quarterback, Casey White, completed 6-of-8 first-half passes for 106 yards, including a 44-yard touchdown toss to Randy Rzezniak.

"We could run the ball," Apap said.

Rocks remain unbeaten in WLAA

Last Tuesday, Salem's basketball team played well. On Thursday, they played even better.

In what was expected to be their first real test in the Western Lakes Activities Association, the Rocks pulled away in the second half Thursday to upend host Walled Lake Western 48-37.

The win kept Salem unbeaten in the WLAA (3-0) and evened the Rocks' overall record (4-4). Western fell to 5-3 overall, 2-1 in the conference.

"This was probably as good as we've played this year," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "The second half was very, very good."

"On Tuesday, we played through the third quarter. This time we played through the fourth."

Salem led 24-23 at halftime, then outscored the Warriors 24-14 in the second half. Kathy Hammerschmidt, in what was her best offensive performance of the season, collected 13 points and grabbed eight rebounds. Theresa Coppellie contributed 10 points and eight boards, and Alyssa Guerin scored nine points. Ellen Canale also dished out eight assists.

Western's Tracy Winkler led all scorers with 21 points. Next best for the Warriors was Meghan Marianough with seven.

Canton 63, W.L. Central 33: This was the kind of game that allowed Canton to iron out a few problems. In other words, it wasn't much more than a practice when the Chiefs hosted Walled Lake Central Thursday.

A four-point Canton lead after one quarter (15-11) grew to a 29-16 cushion by halftime — and for Central, it only went downhill from there.

"I thought coming in, 'If we can get out of here with an eight or 10 point win, I'll be pleased,'" said Canton coach Bob Blohm. "But we really exploded in the middle quarters."

"The way we were attacking their zone was a real positive. We were real patient offensively and we got some good open looks."

In the aforementioned middle quarters, the Chiefs outscored Central 35-10. Katie Cezat paced Canton with 22 points and 12 rebounds, Rachele Guastella netted 18 points and Sarah Samulski finished with 10 points.

Kris Campbell topped the Vikings with nine points.

Canton improved to 6-2 overall, 2-0 in the WLAA. Central slipped to 2-5 overall, 1-1 in the conference.

S'field Christian 28, Ply. Christian 20

PCA managed just 10 points in the first three quarters, during which time Southfield Christian built a 12-point lead.

"Defensively we were fine," said PCA coach Kevin Nast. "But we were very passive on offense."

The loss left PCA at 2-4 overall, 0-3 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference. Southfield Christian is 5-4 overall.

Carissa Elenbaas led PCA with seven points and seven rebounds. Shannon Murray was next best with six points. Christina Hall's 11 points led from Eric Vanston, increasing Salem's halftime lead to 3-0.

In the second half, the Rocks got goals from Dave Hall (with an assist from Gzicki), Conlisk (from Harris) and Harris.

The win gave Salem a 7-3-3 overall record.

Plymouth 5, Taylor Kennedy 0:

Lightning struck throughout Plymouth's match against Taylor Kennedy Wednesday at Plymouth.

The Wildcats provided the early fireworks, building a 4-0 lead by halftime. Shortly after they got their fifth goal, the weather intervened and the match was called 15 minutes into the second half.

"The kids played solid and we maintained control most of the game," said Plymouth coach Jeff Neschich.

Five different Wildcats provided goals against the Eagles. Andre Kote got the first, followed by Dave Lewandowski, Jeff Lucco, Justin Sheraden and Ali Youssef.

Nick Siekirk was in goal for the shutout.

Plymouth improved to 4-3-1 overall with the victory. Kennedy fell to 5-7.

Canton's Scott George was the top finisher among the Canton, Salem and Plymouth runners at the City Championship meet

CROSS COUNTRY

15-50, Canton defeated Plymouth 23-36
 Salem won despite not having two of its top five runners, one out with the flu and the other with another commitment
 "We knew going in what we needed to do to win, said Salem coach Dave Gerlach
 That was our task at hand. We wanted to win the city championship and we did."
 Actually, the Rocks had runners in the top four positions and in 12 of 13. Lauren Kane and Danielle Malone were the top placers, tying for top honors in sixth place (20 58) with

Amanda Kassem right behind in eighth (21 12)
 Next was Lauren Medley in ninth (21 13), Marisa Carpinelli in 11th (21 34), Monica Przebienda in 12th (21 35), Alyssa Mastie in 13th (21 43) and Chelsea Baldwin in 15th (21 59). Lianne Griffiths was 16th (22 00) and Katie Dondzila was 19th (22 14), while Allison Janda was the winner of the junior varsity meet (21 31)
 Canton's top runner was Becky McCormack, 10th overall (21 31), followed by Sarah Stobbee in 14th (21 49), Carrie Oleszkowicz in 21st (22 49), Colleen Murphy in 23rd (22 36), Kirsten Ward in 24th (22 37) and Alli Schmitz in 28th (23 00)

when asked why they never threw in the second half "In the first half, they made a commitment to stop our run. Every time we had the ball in the second half, we drove the field."

They certainly did that. The Vikings finished the game with 305 yards on the ground, Paul Campbell gaining 120 on 20 carries and White adding 109 more on 14 attempts, scoring three TDs. Campbell also caught three passes for 21 yards.

Salem's Chris Drabicki completed 9-of-19 passes for 157 yards and rushed 11 times for 38 yards and two touchdowns. Brian Bradley caught three passes for 90 yards.

The first half was a disaster for the Rocks after their opening drive, which is why they trailed 20-6 at the break. Central outgained them 226-128, Salem's biggest defensive play of the half was a fumble recovery by Nate VanBynen. The next biggest was White shipping and going down untouched for a 7-yard loss, ultimately leading to Central's only punt of the game.

The second half didn't start any better. The Vikings took the third-quarter kickoff and marched 51 yards, from their 38 to Salem's 11, where they faced a third-down-and-5.

That's when Salem's Dominic Fracassa stepped up, sacking White for an 8-yard loss and then blocking Chris Kelly's 36-yard field goal attempt.

Those plays gave the Rocks life. They took possession at their own 43 and went 57 yards in nine plays, Drabicki plunging in from a yard out for the touchdown. But the big play was Drabicki's 32-yard pass to Bradley on third-and-12, which gave Salem a first down at the Central 3. The extra-point try was blocked, leaving the score at 20-12.

The Vikings made no mistakes on their next possession. White opened the drive with a 22-yard run and closed it the same way, sweeping around right end 22 yards on the second play of the fourth quarter for the TD. Kelly's PAT made it 27-12.

Again Salem refused to surrender, mounting an 85-yard drive in 13 plays that included Drabicki's clutch pass completions of 19 yards to Dave Scherbaty on fourth-down-and-10 from the Central 44 and 18 yards to Jeff Lake on a comeback route after Drabicki scrambled around in search of a receiver.

The latter left the Rocks at the Viking 2. Mike Kerul scored on the next play to cut the Central lead to 27-20 (thanks to a Drabicki-to-Lake two-point conversion pass) with 5:10 left.

Salem's ensuing onside kick, however, backfired when Central's Brandon Clothier scooped up the ball and returned it to the Rocks. 33 A pair of 10-yard scampers by Campbell and another by White led to a 4-yard scoring run by Campbell and a 34-20 lead for the Vikings.

Which lasted just 16 seconds. Bradley took Kelly's kickoff, headed up the right sideline, dodged one tackler and raced to the end zone, a 98-yard return that, with the placement, trimmed the lead to 34-27.

On the kickoff the Rocks tried to cross Central up. With all the Vikings pushed forward for an expected onside kick, Salem booted the ball deep, but Campbell fielded it at his own 1 and returned it 53 yards to Salem's 46. On a fourth-down-and-3, Campbell went off-tackle and gained 5 yards to keep Central's drive alive and seal Salem's fate.

"Salem has shown that all year, that they can score," said Apap. But so could his Vikings. "We can run, we can pass, the Central coach said. Defensively, I was disappointed. We can play better."

Salem opened the game with a 62-yard drive, Kevin Bradley providing two big plays: a 17-yard pass from Drabicki and a 13-yard run on an end-around that, with a facemask penalty against Central added on, put the ball at the Vikings' 9. Drabicki scored on a keeper off-tackle on the next play to make it 6-0.

Central answered with a 60-yard drive, White completing all three of his passes for 38 yards before negotiating the last 3 yards himself, making it 7-6 with 4:58 left in the first quarter.

If there was a back-breaker for Salem in this game, it came when Central faced a fourth-down-and-11 at the Rocks' 41 with eight minutes left in the second quarter. Unsure what the Vikings would do, the Rocks took a timeout. Central's reply was a trick formation, the center and White split to the right all by themselves.

The ball was snapped to White, and somehow he scrambled his way through the entire Salem defense, going 41 yards for a TD and a 14-6 lead. White's scoring pass to Rzezniak came two minutes later, increasing their halftime lead to 20-6.

They're pretty darn fast, said Cummings. "Their quarterback got out and about on us."

But the Rocks kept charging back, leaving Cummings with this final thought: "We're much better than our record."

It certainly seemed that way against Central.

"The big plays hurt. I think they had three touchdowns on three touches." "They really busted loose on those counters," Baechler said. McKinney did a great job." Senior Brian Alpert, who alternated at quarterback with Casey, threw touchdown passes of 75 and 74 yards to Keith Hearn, the second coming with 10:43 remaining in the game and drawing Stevenson up to 33-15 after the quarterback ran in the two-point conversion. But Canton countered with a 16-play, 80-yard drive that ran the clock down to 2:38 after Smith went over from a yard out to score. Canton stuffed the Stevenson running game, holding the Spartans to just 39 yards rushing in the first half and 52 (on 25 carries) in the game. Alpert and Casey combined for 198 yards passing, with Hearn collecting the bulk of it on those two scoring tosses. They went 7-for-18 with the one interception. Little threw five times and completed all of them for 50 yards. He was pretty much on the money, but when he wasn't, the human eraser Thomas would wipe out his mistake with a nice grab and go. McKinney was the Chiefs' leading rusher with 193 yards gained on 17 carries. Schumacher was 16-for-119 and Smith ran 11 times for 52 yards. Canton rolled up 396 yards rushing, on 53 carries, after being held to 92 yards rushing in the first half. "I was pleased with the way our kids prepared to play and came out," Gabel said. "But now we have to bounce back because we're playing another undefeated team (at Walled Lake Central)." The Chiefs scored on their first possession of the game, with McKinney running off left tackle for a 6-yard score, but they missed the extra point. The Spartans connected on a 3rd-and-11 play with Hearn hauling it in behind a defender, who fell down after he was beat. Hearn zoomed 75 yards down the left sideline to help Stevenson grab a 7-6 lead. After that the Chiefs bogged down. "I don't know what happened after that," Baechler said. "We'd get 10 yards on one play and one yard on the next. We weren't consistent. But give them credit for that." Now Canton is 5-0 with the toughest part of its schedule behind it. "We're not perfect yet," Baechler said. "You want to peak at the end of the season." "If you looked at our schedule before the season you would have said that on paper, the first five would be the best teams we play." "But we're not going to overlook anybody." You can't afford it when you aspire to lofty goals.

Chiefs remain in WLAA title picture

One step closer. Canton's golf team remained in the chase for the Western Lakes Activities Association title with a pair of dual-meet wins last week. The Chiefs beat Livonia Franklin 169-184 Friday at Hilltop, two days after defeating Livonia Stevenson 162-172 at Fox Creek. "I'm pleased with being ahead of the game here at 6-2," said Canton coach Tom Alles. "If things work out for us Monday at Livonia Churchill, if we can steal one over there, we'll really be in good shape." Canton is 6-2 in the WLAA, Churchill has one loss. The Chiefs go against the Chargers at 3 p.m. Monday at Whispering Willows in Livonia. Against Franklin, Mike Yates and Chad Johnson shared medalist honors, each shooting a 41. John Palmer had a 43 and

GOLF
Dustin Trosper a 44 for Canton, while Bryan Wioncek shot 47 and Dominic Gallo had a 50. Franklin, 2-5 in the WLAA, was led by Kevin Mimer with a 44. Jeff Burda shot 45, Paul Seguin a 47 and Steve South a 48. Brian Dzurhikowski had a 50 and Justin Wieland a 51. Against Stevenson, it was Wioncek who stepped up to claim medalist honors with a 35. Yates shot a 38, with Gallo next at 44 and Palmer at 45. Johnson had a 48 and Matt Haar a 51. The Spartans were led by Richard Wyman with a 42. Brad Schmitz and Brent Medlen were next with 43s, and Brad Fischer, Reed Klafit and Sean Sachau each had a 44. After Churchill on Monday, the Chiefs face Plymouth Wednesday at Hilltop and Northville in their final WLAA dual match at Tanglewood Friday. The WLAA Conference Tournament is Oct. 7 at Huron Meadows. CC tops Divine Child With four golfers shooting better than 40, and two other right at it, Redford Catholic Central easily outscored Dearborn Divine Child Thursday 151-167 at Cattails. The Shamrocks improved to 11-1 overall, 8-1 in the Catholic League's A-B Division. Jimmy Burns earned medalist honors for CC with a 36. Mike King was right behind with a 37, and Adam Hogue and David Denyer each carded a 39. Chris Elason and Colin Fitzgerald both had 40s. Divine Child was led by Pat Elliott and Joe Juszczyk with 41 each.

Kids are smarter than dad

Pssst Hey, you, come here Shhhh! I don't want my 5- or my 6-year-old to hear me That's better Now, can you puh-leeze help me? What the heck is Yu-Gi-Oh!?

I confess I don't know, though I've made every effort, because both of my young sons are hugely into it For those of you as uninformed as I, it's a kind of interactive television show that features battles among the principal characters, the star of which is named Yugi, far as I can tell

Like Pokemon before it, Yu-Gi-Oh! gets kids hooked by selling trading cards featuring its various monsters and heroes The kids then duel their friends, using the attack points and defense points listed on each card

That's where I get lost Robert will bring his Blue Eyes White Dragon card to me and say, "Now, Dad, this one has 1,200 attack points and 800 defense points" And I'll look at him, nod, and say, "He's a pretty scary-looking monster"

It's not that I don't want to understand, because obviously I want to be able to be part of what my sons enjoy It's just that I'm pretty sure I'm not smart enough to get it

But then I don't get a lot about kids these days Why is Yu-Gi-Oh! such a hero to them, rather than Batman or Superman or any of the super heroes I wanted to be when I was that age?

If you had approached me at 6 and said, "Here's a deck of cards, and you have to figure out the attack-defense differential before you can use them," I'd have tossed them aside, grabbed my baseball glove and headed outside

I had real baseball cards when I was that age, and you didn't have to have a degree in mathematics to enjoy them I could read Mickey Stanley's statistics without having to have them explained to me by an MIT grad

That's not to say the kids sit down in front of a television and are mesmerized all day Robert, the 6-year-old, enjoys soccer and has games every Monday and Saturday So there I am, every Saturday afternoon, watching him run up and down the field

And occasionally, his coach has him sit out a quarter, so he joins me on the sideline, and we watch the game together At a recent game, he watched his teammates playing and said, "Dad, if they would just get the ball up this way, they could get around these guys and score a goal"

This from a kid who, like all players that age, gravitate immediately to the ball, ignoring positional assignments and forming a huge scrum with very little chance of actually moving the ball

Andrew isn't into soccer yet He's just into not sitting around A 5-year-old ball of energy, he scrambles for the playground as soon as we reach the soccer field He's the same way at home, endlessly flitting about the house, pretending to be one character or another

I haven't always heard of the people he's pretending to be, but that's OK He's blessed with an extraordi-

Snake, rope and tennis ball help release trapped squirrel

Spend a lot of time trapping and relocating nuisance animals, such as raccoons, opossum, skunks, rats, mice and Coyotes from property in the Farmington/Farmington Hills and surrounding areas. The following is a story about a concerned and caring homeowner who more than anything wanted to do the right thing.

Day 1: I had just finished a long day of setting and checking my traps when the phone rang. The gentleman on the other end asked if I could remove a squirrel from a vent pipe in his house. He had dropped a rope down the pipe for the squirrel to use as a ladder, unfortunately the squirrel had not used it.

On the way over, I had visions of a squirrel either down the furnace chimney or fireplace and began to formulate my plan of attack. Upon arrival, I surveyed the roof line and noticed the rope tied around the sewer vent stack. The sewer vent stack is attached to your plumbing system and allows sewer gases to vent out.

Apparently the squirrel slipped into the three-inch diameter pipe tail first and was not able to free itself. The homeowner decided to assist, but the squirrel panicked, lost its hold on the rim of the pipe and disappeared down the pipe.

I discussed a few options with the homeowner, who insisted that I remove the animal alive. This complicated matters greatly since the pipe didn't go directly to the basement. From the roof the pipe went straight down to the second story floor and made a 45-degree turn below the floor. The pipe ran for about six feet and made another 45-degree turn down towards the basements.

The homeowner had dropped birdseed down the pipe in an attempt to keep the squirrel fed. With a flash light I could see the birdseed piled up in the first elbow, however, I could not see the squirrel. The homeowner and I agreed to wait and see if the squirrel made noises throughout the night and we left for the evening.

Day 2: Around noon I received a call from the homeowner, indicating that the squirrel was indeed still in the pipe and he could hear it struggling through the walls of his closet.

As I headed over, I had visions of cutting drywall and pipes to get the squirrel out. It appeared the homeowner was reading my mind, he had already removed a section of drywall inside the master bedroom closet, which exposed the vent stack. After careful review and permission from the homeowner, I cut a section of pipe large enough for the squirrel to get out.

I poked around inside the pipe and could hear the animal moving. It was decided to leave a live trap baited with food in the closet near the opening. Again we left for the night, disappointed that we were unsuccessful in removing the squirrel.

Day 3: We were scheduled to arrive with my sons, Erik and Ethan, around 7 p.m. My feeling was that if I could not get the squirrel out alive, it would perish soon. Ultimately, we could not leave the squirrel in the pipe any longer.

All day long I thought of many ways to get the squirrel out and I decided to try a method that - in theory - should work.

Upon our arrival, I sent Erik down to the basement to open the sewer clean out cap and to wait for me to send a sewer snake down from the cut in the pipe I made on day two. After 20 minutes, I was able to send the snake down to the basement where Erik was able to grab the end and pull it through the clean out opening.

My theory was to attach one end of the rope to the snake and a tennis ball to the other end of the rope. Once we had a good connection I began to pull the snake back up and out of the pipe. I was very pleased, since I now had the rope through and hanging out of the opening. I cut in the pipe I slowly began to pull the rope, once the tennis ball was in, Erik closed the cap.

Suddenly the ball stopped and I wasn't able to pull it any further. I began to think I now had two problems, a stuck squirrel and a stuck tennis ball. I gathered my composure and looked down the pipe.

At the elbow just below the floor, I noticed more bird seed than before. I tugged on the rope and to my surprise the head of the squirrel popped out into the elbow, half-buried in bird seed. No matter how hard I pulled on the rope, the squirrel would not come any further out of the pipe.

With a wire hook, I attempted to move the bird seed around, hoping to free the squirrel. This worked enough for the squirrel to move its head up and down. I sent Erik to fetch one of my coyote snares (a piece of cable with a loop on one end). I was able to get the snare around the animal's neck and with a gentle tug, we had the squirrel securely leashed.

We laid down a tarp while Ethan stood ready with a net

As I pulled the squirrel out of the pipe we noticed it was wet, dirty and very stiff. We quickly took it outside, and I freed it. To everyone's surprise, the squirrel slowly walked off and then quickly scurried away into the night.

We were very grateful this story had a happy ending. I was very impressed with my boys' eagerness to help, since working with sewage can be a very, very humbling experience. They performed like seasoned professionals even impressing the homeowner - they each received a tip for their efforts.

I personally learned never to give up on a situation. As my father would jokingly say, "There is always a way to work out a problem, you just have to figure out the solution."

Sometimes, it's as simple as a little imagination, a rope and a tennis ball.

Plymouth Carrier of the Month Paul Kitti

Paul Robert Kitti, a seventh grader at Agape Christian Academy, is the Plymouth Carrier of the Month for September.

Paul's favorite subject in school is math and he enjoys football, hockey, basketball and computer activities.

The thing he likes most about his route is building the route and interacting with the customers and getting to know them better. He feels he has developed responsibility, organization and people skills in doing the route. He feels other young people could benefit from having a route by teaching them responsibility and allowing them the opportunity to earn and save money for things like a car or college tuition.

He feels the routes could be improved by making the statements easier to interpret and making the carrier receipts of better quality. Overall, he thinks it is run well.

Did you know trucks take longer to stop?

When a truck driver hits the brakes at 55 mph, it takes more than the length of a football field for the rig to come to a stop. Don't pull in front of a truck, then slow or stop quickly to make a turn or exit. Allow the truck driver time and distance to brake.

there's a lot of familiar faces."

Any Canton resident may join. Though not exclusively a women's organization, by far most members are women and the majority are stay-at-home moms. This year, however, the Newcomers have started a mens group. "We're trying it out," Armstead said. The start will be a golf scramble.

By no means is this organization a kaffe klatch. On the contrary, it is about connecting people and about getting people to know their community and to be involved in the community.

Meetings feature speakers, such as Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Superintendent Jim Ryan or Canton Supervisor Tom Yack. In May, an expert will attend to speak about women's health issues. It is designed to get members acclimated to Canton Township," Armstead said. "It is to see where we can fit in the community. We have no political involvement."

Every year the organization raises money for charity, such as donations to the Canton Public Library and the adoption of a zebra at the Detroit Zoo. "Every year the board picks something," Armstead said. Last year, Newcomers sold entertainment books to raise money. This year they will be selling

Each monthly meeting offers time to socialize, and then members get down to business. There's also plenty of opportunity to sign up for interest groups, such as a book club or helping hands, which helps other members in time of personal or family need. There's also ladies' night out, a baby-sitting network, arts and crafts, euchre, gardening, lunching, running or wallyball. How about chick flick? Creative Kids? And, of course, couples' night.

Newcomers is no flight-by-night organization. It has its officers, its elections and its own well-read newsletter and calendars.

"I had heard a lot of moms talking," said one-year member Stephanie Johnson, who met Armstead at a play group. She is the mother of infant Lauren, 2-year-old Elliott and 3-year-old Alexandra. "Newcomers sounded like a great network for moms. If you want to be a great parent, you aren't going to do it on your own. I love the camaraderie. It's nice to talk to somebody who is going through the same thing you are going through."

Newcomers was started by resident, Sue Warmber. At that time in Canton, only two subdivisions were under construction. "Women were home. They weren't meeting people. And that's how it started," Armstead said.

When you are a stay-at-home mom, it's tough to meet other people and to make friends," Armstead said, her entire family was ill. "Some of the Newcomers made soup and brought over bread

But that's OK. They don't have to like everything Daddy likes. And I'm comforted somewhat by the fact they like hokey '70s music. Ever hear of the song, Bully, Don't Be a Hero? Didn't think so. But it's currently their favorite song.

It will be easier for non-uniform wearers to brighten their look this fall with lots of color. Mervyn's offers everything from retro athletic separates to peasant tops and T-shirts that are garment-dyed.

"There's glitter on tops, a bright orange top with Romeo spelled out in glitter on the front, Juliet on the back," Rice said. "What is big is juniors fitted blazers with skirts or pants. It's a blend of '70s and '80s, the thinner corduroy wales of the '70s."

Madonna's commercial for The Gap is influencing buyers at Laurel Park Place in Livonia.

"Juniors are inspired by music and video, the MTV Video Music Awards," said Cindy Caura, Laurel Park Place vice president of marketing. "We're seeing '80s inspired meshed netting shirts for girls, hoodies — button-up hooded sweat shirts — belts of all sizes and chunky-heeled shoes. The hot colors are pink and tan."

For those who shop the sales,

Bobbi Gelman suggests visiting Value City at the Livonia Mall. Teens especially can look great in name-brand fashions.

At the mall they're buying hip-huggers, bells, said Gelman, marketing director at Livonia Mall. Cargo pants were big this summer and will probably get a stronger foothold this fall. It's not too late to shop for school. We cater to moms of elementary school age and all year round there's the Dollar Tree for school supplies.

Back-to-school shopping isn't that mad rush anymore. Shopping for school continues all year long."

show creativity. In Mack's class, three hands went up when students were asked about belly button rings. Mack herself was sporting toe rings. Everything from pendant drop necklaces to black leather chokers were on the girls. Guys seem to like shell necklaces.

CAPA student Matt Johns likes looking different from day to day, so he "mixes his clothes up." On Thursday, he might wear Nikes and jeans, another day, it's dark blue faded Lees.

"In CAPA there's so much diversity," said Johns, known as Rusty because of his naturally red hair. "There's so many different people, preps, jocks. Preps are wearing American Eagle, Hollister Co., Abercrombie & Fitch, the jocks athletic wear. I pick my clothes out the night before. It's important because I want to look good for the ladies."

Not everyone decides what to wear the night before. Most high school students get up anywhere between 5:30 and 6:30 a.m.

"I find whatever I have clean," Chelsea Yehck said. "I don't like dressing up. I put on a comfortable shirt, no panty hose."

Sarah Dage is the exact opposite. She put a lot of thought into her outfit — a green shirt with Snoopy's sidekick Woodstock on the front, a pleated plaid skirt, bright patterned knee socks and sneakers and yellow spiked hair.

"I'm a big fan of color," said Dage, a CAPA vocal student who plans to try out for Little Shop of Horrors in spring. "I take the fashions of the '80s and change it."

YOUNGER CROWD

Personal expression is as important with the younger crowd as it is at the high school level. Pioneer Middle School Principal Philip Freeman encouraged students in the Plymouth Canton school district to look around before they did all of their back-to-school shopping.

"It's an unusual dilemma for middle school students, whether they're just coming out of elementary grades or going into high school," said Freeman, who previously taught in Garden City schools for 10 years. Sixth-graders don't want to look too young. Eighth-graders don't want to look too old."

Many Pioneer students opt for blue jeans and T-shirts. Freeman said boys take pride in their shoes — everything from Converse high-tops to $120 Nike basketball shoes.

Joe Weycker has seen styles "become pretty casual" during his 30 years of teaching chorus. T-shirts, jeans and athletic wear fill the chorus room at Pioneer in Canton. Students in the eighth-grade class shop anywhere from J.C. Penney to Abercrombie & Fitch.

Megan Byers decides the night before whether she's going to wear a black and white patterned bandana and hair bangles from Meijer.

"I don't wear nothing anybody else would wear," Byers said.

Emily Knous feels the same way dressed in her black T-shirt and flared jeans with spiked short hair. She and friend Alicia Holloway are into the Gothic look with dark eye liner. The only touches of color among all of the black was Holloway's blue camouflage pants and dozens of bangle bracelets. These two definitely follow their own path.

Gretchen Verrot, on the other hand, usually calls friends and asks them what they're going to wear.

"I like matching outfits," Verrot said. "I always dress up, especially for chorus concerts in the gym every other week."

Comfort seems to come first with the younger students in Jerry Majetics sixth grade social studies class. There's no air conditioning and on this warm day shorts were in for boys. Bradley Sugg of Plymouth tops his with a Nike sports shirt.

"I check the weather and see what it's going to be like, and I ask my twin sister if she likes it," Mari Manning said. "We never wear the same thing. Jeans are basically the only thing I like to wear."

Shelby Nolen tries to match her clothes, as does Mike Nshwat.

"I wear my best-looking clothes," said Nshwat, dressed in a blue and white outfit. "My mom does the shopping. I found them in my closet."

Eleven-year old Plymouth resident Laz Cizek shops The Limited and Limited Too for outfits like the white one she was wearing.

David Armstrong didn't do a lot of back-to-school shopping. His method of dressing for school is to get up and start pulling clothes out of the drawer.

BAKER'S CYST

Baker's cyst refers to a swelling behind the knee. The cause of the swelling is as follows: You make a fluid called synovial fluid from cells of the knee joint capsule lining the knee joint. The joint capsule extends to the back of the knee to provide protection for the tendons that come close together in the back and inner side of the knee.

Normally just a little fluid enters this back area of the knee joint. However, for reasons not clear, cells lining the back of the knee cap enlarge. This increase in size, coupled with the position of the cells creates a one way valve. Fluid can enter but does not leave. The area in back of the knee enlarges, forming the fluid filled compartment known as a Baker's cyst.

The cyst itself is of little importance. It does not cause any problem for the knee tendons and will not slow your walking or cause you pain. The one troublesome aspect of a Baker's cyst is that it can rupture. When that happens you have synovial fluid rushing down your lower leg, crowding and pressuring the calf muscles. Then you feel pain and cannot walk normally.

Doctors can control a Baker's cyst. They do so not by taking fluid from the cyst itself. That would only cause the fluid to reoccur. Furthermore, the track of the needle used to remove the fluid would provide a pathway for excess fluid to squirt out with every step you took. Rather, the treatment of choice is to remove fluid from the front of the knee. Afterwards, the fluid cannot accumulate in the back of the joint.

Children's allergy, asthma study's focus

Children who receive antibiotics within their first six months of birth increase their risk of developing by age seven allergies to pets, ragweed, grass and dust mites and asthma, according to a Henry Ford Hospital study. However, they are less susceptible to these effects if they live with at least two pets—dogs or cats—in the first year. Researchers also found breast-feeding and a mother's history of allergies add to the risks of allergy for a child taking antibiotics. Christine Cole Johnson, Ph.D., the study's lead author and senior research epidemiologist for Henry Ford's Department of Biostatistics & Research Epidemiology, said she's not suggesting children shouldn't receive antibiotics. But she believes doctors need to be more prudent in prescribing them for children at such an early age.

Experts guide parents on search for answers

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Growing up is hard. Children change so quickly sometimes it's difficult for a parent to know if they're going through a phase or having behavioral problems that require a professional's attention.

Is a child having trouble adjusting to school after a fun summer or are they experiencing something more serious?

Dr. Robert Cohen usually sees an influx of children and parents at the Psychological Services Clinic at Madonna University around the first marking period. That's when parents hear from teachers that their child isn't doing well. Dr. Cohen recommends parents do a little troubleshooting before seeking professional help.

If it's been going on for a couple of months, parents should be asking questions. Is the child repeatedly getting in trouble, into fights, alienating people? Parents need to trust their judgment, said Dr. Cohen, psychology clinic director. Talk to the child, if it's occurring in school, the teacher. If that doesn't work, there's never any harm in checking this out with a professional.

CHILDREN'S SYMPTOMS

Children's symptoms differ from adults who say they feel depressed or anxious. Children avoid things they used to like doing, complain of stomach and headaches, have trouble completing school work on time or don't work up to their potential.

"Social problems surface," said Dr. Cohen. "They can't relate to peers, are picked on by other kids, seem down in the dumps, don't want to do anything, or are jittery, nervous." The clinic provides parent guidance. They don't even have to bring the child in. Sometimes parents are reluctant to do that. There's a lot of stigma around mental health issues. Many parents tend to think of childhood as a time of paradise, fun city. It's not. Growing up is hard.

And apparently getting harder all the time. Psychotherapist Jane Kessler has seen an increase in parents seeking help for their children over her last 13 years in private practice in Huntington Woods. Kessler co-directs the Madonna University psychology clinic that opened June 2002.

It's partly parents are more aware that getting therapy can help their children. On the other hand, more children are having more difficulties, said Kessler. One reason is children are under much more stress, even though we adults tend to think kids have it easier than we did. There's more pressure for kids to be successful earlier in life. They're more heavily scheduled than ever before. There's pressure to succeed not only in school but after school.

Another influence is how much stress their parents are under. Parents are under more stress. "I see more problems with anxiety and depression than even 10 years ago. Children as young as elementary feel the world is going to come to an end if they don't get a perfect paper. Another source of pressure is the school stressing achievement sooner than before. Years ago we rarely saw elementary schools giving letter grades."

MEDIA MESSAGES

Media contribute to the problem as well. "There are a lot of messages about perfection, competition," said Kessler. "Commercials glorify winning at all costs, physical appearance over personal attributes. We know children pay attention to that. Studies have shown babies are more interested in a toy if it's been on television. Even when we think they're not listening, they're soaking this all in." So what can parents do? Dr. Jeffrey Betman said parents should make sure TV and Internet are age appropriate. Sixteen years as a child psychologist has taught him that if children have too much information they might not have the ability to manage it. It could be one of the causes of behavioral problems that include learning disabilities. Dr. Betman does consultation for Eton Academy, a Birmingham school for students with average and above-average intelligence with learning disabilities.

"They don't have cognitive or emotional ability to handle it, so it results in overload and stress," said Dr. Betman, a West Bloomfield resident in private practice in Farmington Hills. "I teach kids deep breathing, stress relaxation techniques and visualization - imagine you're floating on clouds or wherever you want to be."

"Build a family time. Build in some r and r for kids and family. I prescribe family time when the computer, telephone and TV are off and families play board games, go for a walk. Kids need a sounding board. Talk about the day's events. I'm a big fan of everyone around the dinner table. It gives support to everyone there."

Parents need to know that children go through an adjustment period when school starts. For most kids, it's temporary. If symptoms like crying spells, changes in eating habits, sleeping and energy levels continue for more than a couple of weeks, it's time to take action.

"If there are mood changes, kids are crankier or chingier, check with the teacher or school counselor. They're right there. They're experts. Have teachers compare that child to other fourth-graders," said Dr. Betman. "Then check with their pediatrician or family practice doctor, a phone call even to say, 'Here's what's going on, what do you think?' See if it could be allergies. They are miserable at this time of year. You don't want to underreact or overreact."

"Check how things are going socially. Is the cause school-related? A lot of why they go to school is social. Is relating to the other kids difficult? Kids with ADD (Attention Deficit Disorder) have a difficult time picking up on nonverbal actions or cues, a major part of communication. Imagine if you couldn't pick up on that."

Dr. Betman does IQ testing, personality testing, testing for learning disabilities, and ADD screening for all ages. "Teens have the same pressures as younger children - academic, social, developmental. On top of that, they're searching for identity - who they are and how they fit in the world."

"Boys are trying to figure what girls are all about," said Dr. Betman, who meets with the parents and teen together and then separately. "Get feedback from their environment. Dig a little deeper. It doesn't mean it's panic time, just time to explore and see what's going on. As they age, symptoms might become more obvious as they get more stressed out."

Where to turn if your child is having behavioral problems

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Dr. Robert Cohen cautions parents not to wait until children develop serious behavioral problems. Therapy, books and learning sessions can help a parent help a child - and it's never too early to start.

Madonna University's Psychological Services Clinic is offering a group for parents of toddlers and preschoolers beginning Oct. 2. For more information, call (734) 432-5772 or (734) 432-5773. Parents can learn the answers to separation issues, picky eaters, tantrums and discipline in addition to finding out what's normal. Seeking help in early childhood can prevent some difficulties in adolescence and adulthood, according to Jane Kessler, clinic co-director.

"They don't have to have problems," said Dr. Cohen, an associate psychology professor and director of the psychology master's program and clinic at Madonna University. "Prevention is part of mental health. We want to empower parents to know more. Parents are reluctant to seek help until it's really bad. We offer a comprehensive consultation to find out what's going on. We're trying to combat the thought that every behavioral problem is Attention Deficit Disorder. There can be multiple problems that cause that. They can react to anxiety or depression by behaving badly."

If help is necessary, the clinic offers underinsured and uninsured patients treatment on a sliding-fee scale. There, graduate students use toys to determine and solve a child's behavioral problem. Norma Wolford was a former teacher and administrator dealing with discipline problems at a private school in Southfield before deciding to go back to school to help children one on one. Amy Olszewski of Plymouth worked with autistic children as a preschool teacher's assistant. Jan Ranucci was a special education teacher in Plymouth-Canton Schools for five years.

Very young children express themselves through action," said Jane Kessler. "If a young child is worried, something terrible is going to happen to their family, we take out the dollhouse and play it's on fire or picked up by a tornado. If they're afraid of robbers, fire, their house will blow away, we might take a super hero to help the child to see there are strong people to help protect them."

"A lot of parents worry if they seek help there's something wrong with their kids or they're to blame. Good help is about finding solutions so a child can function at his or her best and parents can enjoy being parents again."

Dr. Cohen says it's important to find a therapist willing to work with parents as well as the child. For referrals, call the Michigan Psychological Association at (800) 270-9070, or the Michigan Psychoanalytic Clinic, a nonprofit mental health education and treatment center in Farmington Hills at (248) 851-7739.

"Find out what involvement does the therapist offer parents? Do they bring you in, give advice?" said Dr. Cohen. "Parents are key to solving the problem plus they need support."

At the clinic, graduate students are under the guidance of a certified clinical psychologist like Dr. Cohen, who has private practices in Farmington Hills and Ann Arbor.

"Does a person specialize in children? Do they have training and experience? Parents have to decide if this person kid-friendly," said Dr. Cohen. "Go to the office and see where your child would be. Do they have toys? Would it be comfortable for kids?"

Three-quarters of Dr. Jeffrey Betman's practice in Farmington Hills is children ages 3 and older. He suggests parents might want to pick up a book to find out more before coming in.

"For basics on effective discipline for ages 2-12, there's 1-2-3 Magic and for ages 13-18, Surviving your Adolescents by Thomas Phelan Ph.D.," said Dr. Betman. "For father-son relations The Good Son by Michael Gurian, temper tantrums - The Explosive Child by Ross Greene, Ph.D. For what's normal for specific ages, what is a 7-year-old all about, there's Louise Bates Ames' series of books, Your Five Year Old, Your Seven Year Old."

Livonia Symphony shakes things up with less familiar pieces

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Volodymyr Shesniuk is shaking things up a little in his ninth season as conductor of the Livonia Symphony Orchestra. Each concert spotlights at least one piece of music unfamiliar to audiences. Shesniuk hopes everyone, especially people of Polish descent, will give a listen 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 4, at Churchill High School Auditorium, 8900 Newburgh, north of Joy, Livonia.

Tickets are $17, $8 students. Call (734) 425-4855.

Solomia Soroka is soloist for Henri Wieniawski's Violin Concerto No. 2 in D minor with the Livonia Symphony Orchestra. Soroka earned her master's degree and completed post-graduate studies at Kiev Conservatory (now the National Music Academy of Ukraine) and is working on a doctorate from Eastman School of Music in New York.

Solomia Soroka performs Henri Wieniawski's 'Violin Concerto No. 2 in D minor' with the Livonia Symphony Orchestra. Soroka earned her master's degree and completed post-graduate studies at Kiev Conservatory (now the National Music Academy of Ukraine) and is working on a doctorate from Eastman School of Music in New York.

Every season I'm trying to bring something new. On the first concert are two Polish composers: Wieniawski was popular in the 19th century throughout Europe and Russia," said Shesniuk, a Garden City resident. "Chopiana are pieces of music by Frederic Chopin whose father was French but he was really Polish. There's a deep feeling of Poland. It's translated to orchestra by Alexander Glazunov because Chopin mostly wrote for piano. It's not really dance music. It's like pictures, feelings of people of Italy, Polish and mountains.

The Oct. 4 concert is just the beginning of a surprise-filled season continuing Dec. 6 with an old favorite The Nutcracker Ballet. Arthur Greene is part of the Russian Spectacular on Jan. 24. Greene performs Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 3. Shesniuk says not many pianists play this piece due to its difficulty in fingering and philosophy. Greene performed the popular second concerto last year. He chairs the piano department at University of Michigan School of Music.

The orchestra celebrates Valentine's Day Feb. 14 with favorite love songs like Lara's Theme, The Greatest Love of All, and You Made Me Love.

You before taking on a heavier note March 13. That's when they join Madonna University and Ward Presbyterian Church choirs for Bach's St. Matthew's Passion. A chamber concert of Mozart, Bizet and Respighi closes the season April 17.

A dinner concert Friday, Nov. 21, at Laurel Manor with Ukrainian soprano Lesya Hrabova will help raise funds. LSO president Robert Bennett says corporations are cutting back on their giving so the annual benefit is more important than ever.

For tickets, call (734) 591-0266. It helps support a wonderful season, said Bennett. "I'm excited about Rachmaninoff No. 3 and the first program with Rossini's Signor Bruschino. It's a beautiful overture."

*The Annual Percentage Rates (APRs) on Standard Federal Bank's Home Equity Lines of Credit are tied to Prime. Prime is the highest Prime Rate as published in the Money Rates section of The Wall Street Journal on the last publishing day of the calendar month immediately preceding the billing cycle. The margin tied to Prime varies and depends on the approved credit line amount and product. On August 29, 2003, Prime was 4.00% and the APR on Standard Federal Bank's Home Equity Line of Credit products varied between 3.25% and 7.00%. Prime is a variable rate as it changes, the APR on your account will change. The maximum APR is 21%. A balloon payment will result at the end of the ten-year draw period. The Home Equity Lines are limited to owner-occupied 1-4 family principal residences and are subject to no less than a second lien position on your property. You must carry insurance on the property that secures this loan. Flood insurance required if necessary. There is a $80 annual fee after the first year unless you are a member of Credit Exclusives. Consult your tax advisor concerning the deductibility of interest. Closing costs paid by Standard Federal Bank are limited to appraisal, title insurance, flood certification, and recording fees. Any additional fees or conditions imposed by the city, state, or county that the subject property is located in will be the borrower's responsibility. The APRs are subject to change without notice.

Shade, stream draw buyers to Woodward Place condos

BY BARRY JENSEN
CORRESPONDENT

In a shaded location overlooking a stream of the Rouge River in Birmingham is a condominium development named Woodward Place. What was once the Burlington Arms apartments has been upgraded and converted into condominiums.

The Woodward Place condominiums are at 1111 N. Old Woodward. That's up the hill, a mile north of Maple on the west side of Old Woodward Avenue. The condos are in three buildings, surrounded by a wrought-iron fence on three sides and the stream on the fourth side.

All the exteriors are done, said Madelon Ward, a Realtor with Hall & Hunter. "We still have some interiors that are being completed, but many of the condos are ready for immediate occupancy."

Seventy-seven condos eventually will be available. Twenty-five already are occupied. Buyers have their choice of one-, two- or three-bedroom ranch-style (all-on-one-floor) condos. The two- and three-bedroom condos have two full baths. There are 12 one-bedroom condos, 56 two-bedroom condos and nine three-bedroom condos.

Each condo comes with one carport. Additional space is available as an option. The city has just approved the construction of 26 garages.

TRANQUILITY

"This is a tranquil setting on the edge of the city," Ward said. "The trees are well-established and the grounds are green."

One of the advantages of a condo conversion is the quiet — the building was built as an apartment house. The original owner did not want his tenants complaining about noise from the neighbors, so he used a lot of sound-deadening insulation. It's easy to get to downtown Birmingham from Woodward Place — Birmingham's downtown is a mile south along Old Woodward.

What was once the Burlington Arms apartments has been upgraded and converted into condominiums. They're in three buildings surrounded by a wrought-iron fence on three sides and a stream on the fourth side.

"We have some people who walk to town every day," Ward said. Sidewalks run from the front of the complex to Maple Road — the center of downtown Birmingham.

Birmingham offers restaurants, shops, theaters and the features of any downtown. In the middle of Birmingham is Sham Park, home of events ranging from the Village Fair to Art in the Park.

AMENITIES

Standard amenities include granite countertops in the kitchen and baths, a laundry with washer and dryer in each condo, forced air heating and central air conditioning, walk-in closets, hardwood flooring, raised-panel cabinetry, Whirlpool appliances (stove, refrigerator, dishwasher, microwave oven, washer/dryer), crown moldings, solid core six-panel doors, ceramic tile in the bathrooms, individual brick balconies and covered parking. The condominium complex will have a fitness room.

Options include an extra carport or garage, location (standard, riverfront or courtyard), stainless steel appliances, gas fireplace and mantel, a satin nickel shower, pullout kitchen faucet, a dry bar in the dining room, French doors, a full or partial basement, and in-unit stairs to the basement.

The prices range from $295,000 for a one-bedroom condo to $459,000 for a three-bedroom condo. If you want to overlook the stream or the central courtyard, you will pay a premium.

Each master bedroom is a "first-floor" master bedroom because each condo has just one floor. The owner does not have to climb stairs to get around his home. The master bedrooms are on the "first floor."

Some condos, especially those on the lower floor overlooking the stream, are just one step up from the sidewalk. An accessibility option is available. Also of interest to older buyers are the abundance of light and the easy-to-use faucets.

Each homeowner, whether on the first or second floor, has a balcony. The whole development is lighted with period-looking lamps. In the back, next to the stream, is an open area suitable for volleyball and it comes furnished with a picnic table.

Many buyers are people downsizing from homes or people who no longer want the care of a house now that their children have left home, said Debbie Crawford, who shows people around the models and the complex.

"Maybe they have a house up north, or a house in Florida, or house in Arizona," Crawford said.

ASSOCIATION FEES

The association fee varies with the size of the condominium. The owner of a one-bedroom condo will pay $180 per month, two bedroom $230 and three bedroom $240. For the monthly fee, the owner will receive heat, water and window washing in addition to the usual exterior landscape maintenance and snow removal.

The owner of a condo costing $300,000 will pay $6,800 in property taxes the first year. Residents will have city water and sewer service. Students will attend class in the respected Birmingham School District. Dick and Elaine Blouse bought and moved into a three-bedroom condo that overlooks the stream. They had owned a big house in Birmingham.

"We're interested in building a house in North Carolina, and we didn't want to maintain two 3,500- to 4,000-square-foot houses," Dick Blouse said. "We told ourselves we would be willing to sell our house if we could find another nice place in Birmingham. We didn't want to leave the city."

To drive to Woodward Place, take I-696 to the Southfield Road exit (12). Go north to Maple and turn right — driving through downtown Birmingham. Turn south onto Woodward and make a Michigan left turn onto northbound Woodward. Go north a mile until just before the intersection with Big Beaver/Quarton. Make another Michigan left turn onto southbound Woodward. Get into the right-hand lane. Just before the road splits to become Woodward and Old Woodward, look to your right for the gray brick buildings.

To learn more about the Woodward Place, call (248) 703-9532. 1-6 p.m. Monday and Wednesday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday 1-5 p.m. Friday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday or noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Farmhouse is regal, spacious for country living

Snuggled deep in the trees, or out on an open prairie, the Frosty is a regal country farmhouse. It is a two story home with numerous windows and large wrap around covered porch. It has a three-car garage that adds to its appeal.

The vaulted entry has the formal living room on the left and a circular staircase on the right. The living room has four large windows that bathe the room in light as well as a fireplace to provide heat and ambiance during those dark winter months.

Through an archway is the formal dining room, again with four large windows facing the side of the yard. The L shaped kitchen runs along the left wall with the bayed nook in the rear.

The kitchen is very open with an island in the middle that has the range/oven and an eating bar. A Lazy Susan is in the corner of the counter for ease of reaching items in that out-of-the-way

The kitchen faces the large vaulted family room. French doors open off the family room to the deck in the rear.

In the center of the Frosty is a walk-in pantry and the utility room. A washer/dryer is located on one wall with the laundry chute from upstairs on the other. On the opposite side of this area towards the entry is a half bath and a closet containing the forced air unit.

An enormous master suite completes the right side of this beautiful home. The main suite is vaulted and also has French doors opening to the deck. A large walk-in closet is across from the sink/vanity area. The master bath has an oversized tub and a custom shower as well as another sink.

Upstairs are three large vaulted bedrooms and a full bath with a tub and the laundry chute. Each bedroom has a long wall closet, and three windows that brighten the rooms with light. There is a large linen closet next to the bathroom.

For a study plan including scaled floor plan(s) elevations section(s) and an artist rendering send $24.95 to Landmark Designs 33127 Saginaw Road E Cottage Grove OR 97424. Please specify plan name (FROSTY) and the number (500 08). A catalog featuring hundreds of home plans is available for $12.95 or save by ordering both for $29.95. City buys property to create affordable housing

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The city of North Charleston, S.C., plans to buy real estate to try and prevent slumlords and absentee owners from taking over depressed areas.

The idea is to purchase vacant land and homes at tax sales and use it to create affordable housing.

We have a lot of property that is substandard and we have a lot of property that is rental, said Mayor Keith Summey who proposed the idea unanimously approved Thursday during a meeting of the city's finance committee.

"The only way we are going to break this cycle is to create more affordable housing," the mayor said.

In tax sales, the county auctions off property where the owners have failed to pay taxes. In some cases property sells for the tax value and in others for hundreds of thousands of dollars more.

The owner has a year from the auction to come up with the taxes and, if they do, the buyer's money is then refunded with interest.

Thomas Ervin Let's Talk About Real Estate

"PRICING IT RIGHT"

What is the correct asking price for your home? The answer is that the asking price as well as the value of the property is subject to change as the market changes...

So, the asking price must reflect the market conditions you are facing at the time your property is listed for sale. Past sales are a general indicator of prices paid during other market conditions...

Your Realtor can provide you with current market facts including the homes now for sale competing with your property. You must consider the other homes that buyers are seeing when comparing your property and its features...

The real question to ask is, "Will your asking price attract or deter buyers from wanting to see your home?" Remember that nobody makes an offer until after the showing...

More showings promote competition between buyers and higher eventual selling prices. Fewer showings may prolong the time your home sits on the market...

ADVICE: Don't try to sell your home without the assistance of a Realtor. There is too much money at stake.

ADOPT-A-PET
 This Week's Featured Pet

Night
 Night is a two year old German Shepherd mix with a black coat bearing an unique tan mask on his face weighing in at 49lbs. This gentle giant will not bow you over when he greets you at the door and is very good with older kids. Even though he's cutting up with people he will need a little time to relax and become comfortable in his new home. In addition to time to settle in he's seeking a quiet household that does not have young children. Since his pouch does enjoy attention and going for walks he's looking for a special someone that he can count on to share his activities and attach to quickly.

If you would like to be Night's new owner, visit the Michigan Humane Society Westland Shelter (734) 721-7300

Anne Fracassa

BY ANNE FRACASSA
AVANT NEWS FEATURES

It's still cute as a button and drives like a dream. Yes, the Mazda Miata makes me feel young again. Yes, this MX5 Miata is sweet. I want one. Badly. But, alas, it makes no sense for me to want one. It's just too impractical for this stage of my life. You know, two kids, two suitcases full of figure skates and assorted supplies nowhere to put groceries, etc., etc.

Sure would be nice, though. It's the world's best-selling sports car, and there's a reason for that. It IS the best sports car out there hands down. Nothing makes me smile as much as the Miata. It always has.

This year, Mazda is offering a special performance package that's designed exclusively for people who want to race their Miata. The package includes high performance radial tires on 16-inch aluminum wheels and wheel locks, fine-tuned suspension package. Unfortunately, Mazda is making only 50 of them - 25 soft top and 25 hard top models.

Up front is a 1.8 liter dual overhead cam 16 valve four cylinder engine that produces a whopping 142 horsepower. The Miata is front engine and has rear wheel drive. Rev up the engine, which has a beautifully tuned exhaust and you'll feel your heart race right away.

Variable valve timing on the intake tract pumps the peak power to a phenomenal 7,000 rpm. Need more techno facts? How about 125 lb-ft of torque at 5,500 rpm? That get you humming?

The Miata has to have the easiest convertible top to operate on the planet. Two levers at the top corners and just flip it back. There's a boot that goes on top but you've got to get out of the car to put it on, which means you have less time in the driver's seat. And that's where you really want to be.

The Miata comes in two basic models, the high est level being the LS model. Both come standard with a NARDI leather-wrapped steering wheel, front and rear independent double wishbone suspension, gas-filled shock absorbers, front and rear stabilizer bars, front suspension tower brace, power-assisted four-wheel ventilated disc brakes, power steering, power windows, power mirrors and air conditioning.

2003 Mazda Miata. Vehicle type: Compact sports car. Power: 1.8 liter dual overhead cam four cylinder engine. Mileage: 23 mpg city / 28 mpg highway. Horsepower: 142 horsepower. Where built: Japan.

If you choose the LS, you get leather seats, cruise control, remote keyless entry, power door locks, a 200-watt Bose AM/FM/CD stereo, automatic speed-sensing volume control, cloth convertible top and aluminum-like interior trim.

The interior attributes of the Miata are extremely simple, just like I like it. Everything is in easy reach and easy to operate and understand. If you happen to have a kid in front, you can turn off the passenger-side air bag with the ignition key and a control right on the center instrumentation stack.

Leather seating surfaces are very comfortable and more than adequate on long drives. You'll get out feeling refreshed, instead of fatigued.

Someone who drove the Miata said there was one thing that was unnerving about the vehicle. The person was stopped at a traffic light and a Chevy Suburban pulled alongside. All that person could see was the tires, which seemed bigger than the Miata itself. That had to be funny.

Performance and handling on the Miata are second to none. This little sports car whips around curves and handles well on the highway as well. You won't feel any road inadequacies on your drive, either. The suspension is so superior that you won't even feel a bump. It's as steady as they come.

I also enjoyed the fuel economy on the Miata. You'll get between 22 and 23 mpg in the city, while on the highway, you'll see 28 mpg. All that depends on your choice of the five speed manual transmission or the automatic transmission. (Don't know why anyone would choose the automatic - takes all the fun out of tooling around in the Miata.) Count on about 250 miles or more between fuel fill-ups.

The Miata didn't hand me any surprises this week. It was truly a pleasure to drive. I didn't want to give it back.

It's a small car, but a wonderful and affordable sports car to have for the times you want to feel young again.
