Internet fosters identity theft

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

Laura Nelson was surprised when she received a notice from a collection agency stating she owed $1,800 in overdue charges to SBC for telephone service.

"It was quite a shock," said Nelson, 66, who has lived in Plymouth Township for 25 years. "I was so sure they had the wrong information. But, when I called back and the man read back my Social Security number, I was flabbergasted."

Nelson quickly found out she was a victim of identity theft. Somebody used her name and Social Security number to open a telephone account for an address in Detroit in October 1996, and disconnected it in October 2001, leaving Nelson to foot the bill.

"I told him I never lived there," said Nelson, "so, I had to send him proof I live in Plymouth Township and a police report claiming identity theft."

A 2003 survey by the Federal Trade Commission estimated almost 10 million Americans were victims of identity theft in the past year.

"We probably get one or two people a week who come in here to file a police report about a theft that occurred via their credit cards," said Plymouth Township Police Chief Tom Tidderington.

"In order to cancel their credit cards, they need to file a police report to demonstrate they are fraudulent charges. It happens ever more frequently."

Nelson said once she found out, it became a hassle to correct the situation. "It became my responsibility to get documentation and challenge everything," she said. "You're the victim, but you have to do all the running around, spending time and money."

Tidderington said once a thief has your Social Security number, credit card information and date of birth, it's not hard with today's technology to start running up charges.

"A lot of it is being done on the Internet, where they apply for a credit card and start charging things once they get it," he said. "They have the goods sent to a vacant house and the victim won't even know they're a victim for several months, until a bill collector calls trying to capture an outstanding bill for literally thousands of dollars."

"There are very few fingerprints, if you will, that leads back to the suspect," said Tidderington. "They aren't using any bank accounts, addresses or phone numbers that lead to them because it's all fictitious. It's almost impossible to investigate."

MEMORANDUM

To: Wetland Executive Committee
From: Onnie Jacque, Assistant Corporation Counsel
Subject: Wetland Mitigation Preservation Fund

To date, the County has expended some $793,548.88 in federal and county funds for the creation of three sites within its bank. The total acreage of these sites, or total credit potential of these sites is approximately 6.56 acres. Couple the expenditures of the Bank to date, with the projected return to the County on the sale of these credits of $524,800.00, the County is faced with a clear shortfall of $207,148.00.

What are the implications of discontinuing the Wayne County Wetland Mitigation Program?

'A sad long story'

Wetlands mitigation sinking in high costs

Although it may have started with good intentions, Wayne County's so-called Wetland Preservation Fund has suffered from a myriad of problems. From its inception six years ago, it has been plagued by poor management, poor planning and a series of cost overruns that have left it in a state of limbo, and the county facing a shortfall of at least $200,000, and possibly much more.

The fund is actually a wetland mitigation bank, in which the county creates wetlands, so they can be sold to developers who, because of state law, need to mitigate or replace the wetlands they destroy with new construction projects. The program began under former county executive Ed McNamara as a way to encourage development in the county, because it would simplify the process for developers, who would otherwise have to find and purchase land, and then pay for the engineering and construction costs associated with creating a mitigated wetland.

It would also be a way to pay for the restoration of wetlands along the Rouge River. Yet, the program has not appealed to developers, and local environmentalists have called into question its ecological merits.

City to discuss budget options

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

Fran Crowe has lived on Sunset in Plymouth for more than 20 years. She's aware of the $1.2 million budget deficit the city faces in the next fiscal year, and expects there will be some changes.

"In a perfect world, it would be nice for all of the services to stay around," said Crowe. "You need police officers 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and the fire department, we've already contracted with Plymouth Township."

"If they had to cut something, maybe leaf pickup," she said. "It's a nice luxury to just rake the leaves in the street, but in the summertime we have to bag the grass."

And probably the ambulance service, said Crowe. "I don't know that you need three ambulances at an accident. One is usually working while the other two just sit there."

Possibly those ideas, along with many others, will be discussed by the Plymouth City Commission in a 6 p.m. special session before Monday's regular meeting at City Hall. It will be the first of what are expected to be many sessions to decide what decisions will be needed to balance the budget.

"Now may be the best opportunity since all the department heads have turned in their budgets for the next fiscal year," said Commissioner Michele Potter. "It lets us look in regards to staffing levels and services, and determine if, and what, cuts need to be made."

Crowe said she's concerned about the budget because "our taxes are pretty high as it is."

"When you look at the surrounding areas compared to what we pay here, maybe they do have to get rid of the fat cats and take care of what is necessary," said Crowe.

McCotter doubts plan for Iraq

BY DAVE VARGA
STAFF WRITER

Thaddeus McCotter isn't satisfied with all that President George W. Bush's administration is doing in Iraq.

Nor is he convinced that the administration has entirely the right vision of America's role in the world economy.

Still, after a year in Washington, the Livonia Republican defended his party's president on numerous issues — including the decision to attack Iraq despite not finding weapons of mass destruction — last week before members of the Redford Republican Club.

The visit was one of the stops on his tour of the Livonia Kiwanis, Suburban Republican Women and Redford Lions clubs last week. McCotter fielded some questions and spoke for a full hour, ending with "Hopefully, I'll be back next year for the graduate level class."

The congressman's lecture-like session began with a focus on Iraq, which he visited late last year.

He worries about the top-down approach to setting up a government. "You don't build a house starting with the roof," Town councils should be the building blocks of a new national government, he said.

Military generals told him that many Iraqi-Americans wanted to go to the country to serve as translators and in other roles. McCotter said someone "high up" in the administration blocked the idea, saying they'd be a security risk.

"You're telling me these people are such a security risk that we have to keep them here (in America)?" asked McCotter, noting that growing up in southeastern Michigan makes him comfortable with Arab-Americans.

McCotter reminded listeners that our nation's War on Terror isn't over, just transformed from operations phase to the insurgency stage. Setting an artificial deadline to leave won't help matters. "The insurgents only have to continue instability," he said.

The U.S. has a credibility problem there, McCotter said. Everyone believes we'll be leaving and they remember how we allowed Saddam Hussein to keep his machine gun helicopters to slaughter his enemies after failed uprisings following the Persian Gulf War. "People remember that," he said. "They remember people hanging onto helicopters (as we pulled out of) Vietnam."

McCotter answers critics who question the Iraq war, based on the lack of finding WMDs there. He cites parallels to Nazi Germany and nations that didn't stand up to tyranny there. "Maybe Hussein's program was not fully developed, but it would have been," McCotter said.

In addition, America's action led Libya to give up its nuclear program voluntarily after seeing what happened in Iraq.

"Given the nature of the War on Terror, you have to measure your success on what you don't see, don't hear at 9 o'clock in the morning, when planes aren't flying into buildings," he said.

THERE ARE TWO SIDES TO EACH OF US WHEN CHOOSING WHERE TO DELIVER.

I know exactly how I want to deliver.

I want specialists standing by.

Having delivered more than 4,800 babies last year, we know a thing or two about moms and what they prefer. For example, we know they want privacy and comfort — like our private rooms and our private Jacuzzis. They like to personalize their experience — so we stay current with the latest birthing trends and options. And, in case of complications, they want neonatologists standing by — like the specialists in our Ann Arbor Neonatal Intensive Care Unit who provide expert care around the clock.

Mothers do their homework. And that's why they turn to us.

Students strut stuff in Saturn art contest

Last year, the first Saturn of Plymouth Art Contest drew a respectable 250 entries from six schools in the Plymouth-Canton school district, and the dealership was happy with the results.

Little did they know how big the contest would boom.

This year's contest drew 1,000 entries and now includes 11 of the district's 15 elementary schools. For the second straight year, Hulsing Elementary walked away the overall winner, earning $300 for its art department and a demonstration by Wildlife Safaris, compliments of Saturn of Plymouth.

The dealership went all out at the awards ceremony, mounting all 1,000 entries (courtesy D&M Art Studios in Canton) and having Nelson Pearson from Wildlife Safaris there to perform a demonstration.

"This is an exciting event for elementary students," said Saturn spokesman Bob Ashley. "Because of the children's creativity it's one of Saturn of Plymouth's most rewarding community involvement events."

Student Jeffrey Selewski helped Hulsing capture the overall honor. He earned a $100 gift card to Toys R Us. Winners from the other schools each earned a $50 gift card.

While Hulsing took the $300 overall award, the other participating schools each get $200 for their respective art departments.

Individual school winners were:

- Allen Elementary - Angela Gudzinski
- Isbister Elementary - Madison Ostrander
- Field Elementary - Jose Medrano
- Smith Elementary - Rebecca Lawton
- Bird Elementary - Luke Burdiss
- Gallimore Elementary - Ben Burkman
- Dodson Elementary - Jordan Thompsett

Municipal veteran takes reins at utility authority

Bob Biga brings more than three decades of municipal experience and community volunteerism as the new operations director for the Western Townships Utilities Authority.

Biga, 57, became the director of operations for WTUA, which manages wastewater collection, disposal and future facility upgrades for 120,000 residents in Canton, Plymouth and Northville townships.

He replaces Tim Fass, who took a job as Canton's municipal services director.

"I'm looking forward to the challenges of this job," Biga said. "I wanted a full-time job and those are hard to find these days with the economy the way it is."

The Livonia resident had his 32-year career in municipal administration with Wayne County and the City of Livonia stopped suddenly in November 2002 when leadership changes and cost-cutting removed Biga from his job as Metro Airport's director of administration.

Since that time, while interviewing for other municipal jobs, he worked as a part-time teacher for Livonia Public Schools.

The University of Michigan graduate started his professional career as a math teacher for Farmington schools in 1969.

In 1970, Ed McNamara's first year as Livonia mayor, Biga landed a full-time administrator's role as associate personnel director. Biga later held city posts as assistant superintendent of public service, executive assistant to the mayor and director of labor relations.

Livonia Parks and Recreation Superintendent Ron Reinke worked with Biga during the 1970s and 1980s. "He's an extremely bright and conscientious and a capable administrator," Reinke said. "He was always willing to volunteer for extra projects. I'm happy to see him working in government again."

In 1987, when McNamara was first elected Wayne County executive, Biga joined a number of city employees who switched to roles in county government. Biga served as deputy director of roads and administration director of public services before he took the airport post in 1997.

He said he learned a lot working for McNamara, whom Biga found to be a great motivator and constantly challenged his staff to do more with less.

"In the 1970s, he contracted a lot of services and found a lot of federal grants for programs and to buy park land," Biga said. "That helped keep taxes down in the Livonia."

He has been an active volunteer for various causes in Livonia, his home of 43 years. His volunteer service included a role with the advisory board which helped develop the Livonia Community Recreation Center, which opened last May, and parent groups that support band and athletics at Franklin High School, his alma mater. Along with his wife of 33 years, Joyce, the couple continues to volunteer their time at school events although the youngest of their three sons graduated seven years ago.

In November, the Livonia Board of Education recognized his years of parent involvement by honoring him with its Golden Apple Award.

1998, and entered into an agreement with the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) to establish a bank that would have a minimum of 10 acres. It was the first wetland mitigation bank in the state's history. At the time, county officials involved in its creation felt it was a national model that made the county a leader in land use planning. The county secured a $580,000 federal grant through the Rouge River Wet Weather Demonstration Project and added another $63,000 in county funds to pay for the program.

Initially the goal was to create eight wetland sites, comprising 17.8 total acres, all within Edward Hines Park. Yet, to date, only 6.5 acres have been created at three sites skirting Hines Drive in Dearborn Heights. The sites were poorly planned. One site was built on an old landfill, and the county had to pay for the disposal of the landfill material. At another site, a water control structure blew out because it couldn't handle the volume of water that storm pipes pumped into the site from a nearby neighborhood. It had to be redesigned and rebuilt. And there have been other cost overruns.

To date, the county has exhausted all the federal funds, and has spent another $200,000 in county funds. It has cost the county roughly $120,000 for each acre that has been constructed, which far exceeds the $80,000 per acre asking price. The only return thus far is the sale of less than an acre to Canton Hotel LLC for $61,000. Even if the county were able to sell all 6.5 acres at the current asking price, officials admit the county is looking at a clear shortfall of more than $200,000.

Livonia resident Bill Craig and a small group of local environmentalists have been dogging county officials about the program since its inception. They have argued that it doesn't make sense to let developers destroy native wetlands, in exchange for 'restored' wetlands in Hines Park, which is already in a flood plain. Craig is equally disenchanted with the way the program has been mismanaged.

The county has spent a lot of money altering these sites, but I think they would look the same had they just quit mowing them,' he said. 'This whole program has a long, sad history. When you put it all together, it shows an incredible ineptness. There is no need to continue this program. They are wasting taxpayers' money. I say it's an unsound financial endeavor.'

A PROGRAM IN LIMBO

Currently, there is no budget for the bank, which, according to county records, is overdrawn by $149,000. The original bank manager, Hugh Macdonald, retired Feb 1. His successor, Dione Alexander, lasted on the job for one day, before the county terminated her position in the Department of Environment reportedly for reasons unrelated to the mitigation bank. So there is nobody currently managing the program.

No sites have been created since 2001, although four sites were scheduled to be built last year.

As part of its agreement with the MDEQ, the county is required to submit an annual report to the state. No report was filed in 2003. After receiving a letter from

'This whole program has a long, sad history. When you put it all together, it shows an incredible ineptness.'

Bill Craig
 Livonia resident

the MDEQ asking for the report, county officials asked for an April 4 extension, which was granted. Amy Lounds, a MDEQ environmental analyst who is acting as the county's contact person, said the state is taking a wait-and-see approach before taking any action against the county.

'We don't have a position until we hear back from them. We're not even sure who the contact person is. It's hard for us to take a position if we don't know how the county is going to proceed with the program,' she said.

According to Lounds, the MDEQ has approved credits for two of the three sites, and still needs to inspect the site built on the former landfill before the county can sell it to a developer. She said the state has shown the county some leeway because this was a pilot project. The department has since signed agreements with two private companies to establish mitigation banks. 'This has been a learning experience for us, and we've changed the guidelines somewhat as a result,' she said.

Having inherited this from the previous administration, Wayne County Executive Bob Ficano has ordered a complete review of the program to not only evaluate its financial viability, but also its ecological impact. Like Craig, he doesn't believe it makes sense to destroy natural wetlands with new development, and replace them with created wetlands in Hines Park.

'This was a poor substitute for a wetlands program. It was not something that was realistic,' Ficano said. 'We demanded that there be a complete review of the program to make sure this is not just a bunch of smoke and mirrors, or a mirage. Some of the previous efforts were just terrible. They are ugly. Hines Park is already a wetland. This was kind of a sleight of hand. It just makes ecological sense to keep wetlands on the site you are developing.'

Wayne County Department of Environment Director Kurt Heise, one of six members that sit on the Wetland Preservation Fund Committee, said the first priority is to find a new bank manager. Then they will determine how to proceed.

'We have to decide whether to move forward with this or end it. Moving forward seems out of the question right now because there just isn't the money. At this point, I'm inclined to say let's sell the credits we have to a developer, cut our losses and call it a day,' he said.

LEGAL RAMIFICATIONS

It may not be that easy though. At Ficano's request, Onnie Jacque, the county's assistant corporation counsel, researched the program and issued a memorandum last October, outlining several courses of action for the county. Develop an exit strategy, continue the program, sell the credits to another mitigation bank, or temporarily suspend the program.

There could be legal ramifications for the county if it ends the program, because it did not fulfill the 10-acre minimum it promised when it accepted the federal grant. Whether the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency will want the grant money returned if that agreement isn't fulfilled remains to be seen. The state could also take action for breach of contract.

Whatever happens, Wayne County Commissioner Ed Boike, who represents several Downriver communities and is the chairman of the wetland bank executive committee, said the county had good intentions when it began the program. He would like to see the county spend the money to complete the program.

'I don't think this program is a failure. I'm still a supporter. Even if we don't move forward with it, at least we've created some wetlands that we will have to maintain forever. I don't think we hurt the environment. No one is going to get hurt by this,' he said.

Real Detroit is dreadful, headed for desperate

Detroit Mayor Kwame Kilpatrick was positively beaming during most of an enthusiastic, upbeat State of the City address last week.

He won stormy applause when he announced that Michigan Central Depot, the hulking old ruin of a train station that dominates Detroit's southwest skyline, would be bought by the city, renovated and turned into a new police headquarters.

The mayor announced plans to rebuild a decaying neighborhood on the far east side, saying he expected "between 3,000 and 4,000 new or renovated homes."

For half an hour, the 33-year-old mayor trotted out achievements and promises: a new industrial park here, so many roads resurfaced there, free admission to city recreation centers, a downtown wired for wireless communication.

Yet he never came close to mentioning the real state of the city, which is dreadful, heading for desperate, and after improving markedly in the late 1990s, is getting worse again. Suffice it to say that if America's vital statistics looked like those in Detroit, George W. Bush might not even dare to run for re-election.

What the mayor didn't mention was that four years ago, unemployment in Detroit was 6.6 percent, last year, it averaged 14.1 percent. While there are 55,875 jobless, other thousands have dropped out of the labor force entirely.

Infant mortality is more than twice the national average and rising. "White flight" essentially ended in the 1990s, because there are fewer than 100,000 white people left, and many of those are from Latin America or the Middle East.

The new trend is "black flight," to suburbs like Southfield and West Bloomfield, noted Kurt Metzger, the area's leading demographer. The black middle class is abandoning the city, too.

And ominously, after many years in which Detroit's once-infamous murder rate declined, the city has been plagued by a wave of homicides this year. The mayor did pay tribute to the two young police officers brutally slaughtered in their patrol car earlier this month, after they stopped a local punk for a traffic check.

But he didn't address the wider issue of violence. Nor did he deal much with economics.

The city has, analysts claim, a $120 million budget deficit. City council members said after the speech that the agreement to buy the old train station is not a done deal, and indicated they didn't know where the money would come from.

David Littmann, chief economist for Comerica bank, doesn't see things getting better this year. He is the creator of the "Detroit Comeback Index," which set 1994, the year the Coleman Young era, ended, at 100. The city reached 123 in 2000, but has now slipped back to 116, "about where it was in 1998. He hopes for an upturn in fiscal 2005, but is not optimistic for the short term.

Yet anyone who blames Kwame Kilpatrick for much of this is wrong. David Rusk, a former mayor of Albuquerque, N.M., who now spends his life studying cities, says Detroit's problem can be summed up in a word: elastic.

"Elastic cities succeed, inelastic cities fail," says the author of two fascinating books on urban affairs, Cities Without Suburbs and Inside Game, Outside Game.

Elastic cities are those that can expand their boundaries by annexing territory, as Los Angeles has very successfully done. Or they partner with a county in some form of metropolitan government, as is the case in Nashville, Indianapolis or Miami.

But Detroit is up against county lines and incorporated cities, and hasn't been able to add a single parcel of land since 1926. The money and the jobs began fleeing in the 1950s before anyone thought of "white flight." Later, racial tensions accelerated things.

Today, a shrinking and poor central city of 940,000 is surrounded by affluent suburbs that are home to 3.5 million people, many of whom think the central city's problems have nothing to do with them. Most of the jobs these days are in the suburbs.

Increasingly, Detroiters can't get to them. There is no convenient and reliable public transportation system, and something like 45 percent of the residents of what was once the Motor City cannot afford a car. For years, all efforts to get a light rail system have failed, even attempts to get a better bus system tend to dissolve into petty squabbles. Undoubtedly, the area would be much better off with a little teamwork. Political vision is desperately needed. Metropolitan government, however, would cost the suburbs more, at least for a while.

Black Detroiters, on the other hand, might lose political power. So no one is pushing very hard for solutions, and racism still hangs in the air like a cloud. The morning before the mayor's speech, two suburban men were arrested for spreading white paint on a statue of boxer Joe Louis arm and fist.

They apparently did it to protest the killing of the two young police officers, who were white. The man accused in the case is black. Police said he claims the shooting was a mistake. These days, mistakes are something Detroit can ill afford.

Redemptive sacrifice of Christ should be focus for 'Passion'

Over the last six months a deluge of reports, editorials and comments have been directed toward producer Mel Gibson and his movie, The Passion of the Christ. Hundreds of thousands of Evangelicals, Catholics and Christians of all bodies previewed this movie which opened Ash Wednesday throughout the country.

Viewers' reactions ranged from tearful awareness of the pain Christ endured to efforts to trace the authenticity of what was seen—but nobody remained indifferent.

What is the position of Orthodox Christians toward The Passion? Do we recommend this movie or urge believers not to see it? Let us begin by saying this is not a matter of doctrine, hence, our parishioners reserve the freedom to make their own decisions in this regard.

With that said, I would like to make the following observations:

1 Throughout the history of our church, we have never formed our faith, doctrine or worship on what public opinion says it likes or dislikes.

2 The source of our faith is, and will always be sacred tradition of the teachings of the Fathers of our Church, who for the last 2,000 years have proven the Church is alive and well.

3 It is a veritable impossibility for the media to present the totality of truth about anything. Directors and actors need portray a story that captivates, challenges, sells! The domain of the Church rests on the essence of morality and faith.

4 It is a sad reality that some non-denominational Christians, operating under the influence of Christian Zionism (not Judaism), in the quest for winning more members, tend to adapt the Hollywood approach by moving away from holy tradition in favor of the passing success of Hollywood entertainment. Unfortunately, when the initial appeal wears off, other approaches are needed.

5 Due to the violence of this movie, I do not recommend children under the age of 17 to see The Passion without their parents' permission.

My own thoughts on this subject are a "The Passion of Christ" enshrined in the Gospels of Mark, Matthew, Luke and John, remains the central focus of our redemption.

b For the past 2,000 years, the redemptive sacrifice of Christ has penetrated and sanctified every aspect of our spiritual and material lives.

c We individually and as a believing people adore the cross, lift the cross, bless with the cross, wear the cross, or bless ourselves or others with the conviction that it was through the cross that the doors of Heaven were opened for those who desire to follow and to carry the Cross of Christ.

One of the most revered hymns of the church, taken from the Feast of the Elevation of the Cross Matins Service states, "To the cross, O Christ, we adore your holy resurrection, we glorify" and we dare to pray:

O cross of Christ,
O hope of Christians and guide of the lost,

O haven of the winter locked,
O victory in war and security of the universe,

O physician of the sick and resurrection of the dead.
Have mercy upon me
Amen.

If we view this movie with only rage toward our neighbors, we have completely missed the message of Christ the Savior for our souls. This movie is not to be taken as anti-Semitic or anti-any race or people. The question is not who crucified Christ but for whom was Christ crucified?

Rather than focus on Pontius Pilate, or the Sanhedrin Jewish Council, or the Roman Authority, let us accept in faith that it was us and for our salvation. These are historical facts the church teaches us. Let us refrain from condemning people for the sins of their ancestors. Looking up to Christ, enthroned on the cross as Brother, Savior and Redeemer, let us accept the freedom for which He died and to which He calls us.

The Rev. George Shalhoub is the pastor of The Basilica of St. Mary Antiochian Orthodox Church in Livonia.

Banks, credit unions not necessarily safe

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

"If you've got money, somebody is out there trying to take it away from you."

Words of wisdom from Walt Wiessner, regional bank protection manager at Fifth Third Bank.

Wiessner said it's wise for consumers to ask questions of a banking institution before deciding where to do business because identity theft can strike a bank or credit union, too.

"Customers should ask management how they maintain account information, who has access to it, what are the confidentiality procedures, and how do they handle their trash," said Wiessner. "Believe it or not, some banking centers aren't good at shredding documents, and a crook could get private information by just taking the trash."

"Cleaning crews have been known to be paid to get a copy of a signature card, which provides information such as a Social Security number, maiden name and even your signature," Wiessner said. "A copy of a card has been known to go for $500. Two of those a week is a good bonus for a cleaning crew member."

'If a thief gets hold of the bill from the mailbox, he's got your information.'

Wiessner also suggests bills be sent at a post office, and not in the house mailbox waiting for the postal service to pick it up.

"If a thief gets hold of the bill from the mailbox, he's got your information from the bill and from your check," he said. "Some have gone so far as to open the payment, get the information, and then put the bill in another envelope and mail it for you."

"You've got to be creative if you're an entrepreneurial crook," said Wiessner.

Man faces porn charges

A 56-year-old Canton resident - a teacher at Emerson Middle School in Livonia - was charged with possession of child sexually abusive material in 35th District Court Friday.

Lary Howard was arraigned on six counts of possession of the material on his home computer. Each count is a four-year felony. A plea of not guilty was entered for him before Judge Mike Gerou and he was being held on a $10,000 cash bond. A preliminary exam is March 12.

Howard was arrested by Canton police on Thursday after an investigation that started in December, said Detective Sgt. Todd Mutchler.

Jay Young, director of community relations for Livonia schools, said officials were sending a letter home with students. "As a result of these allegations, Mr. Howard's employment has been suspended pending the school district's investigation," he said.

Nelson thought she was careful to make sure her private information was safe.

"I don't know how they got my Social Security number because I shred everything," she said. "Back in 1996 I was working, so maybe someone got my information at work."

Tidderington said it used to be that someone had to break into your home to get private information.

"Criminals are going through mailboxes and taking mail to get credit card numbers," he said. "They drive down the street and grab garbage bags."

And, I guarantee you, most times there will be personal information in there from credit card receipts to phone bills to other kinds of information. We recommend paper shredders to shred all mail."

Nelson contacted the three major credit reporting companies and found the outstanding SBC bill on all three reports.

"I thought I was being real careful by shredding documents and carrying only one or two charge cards," she said. "I don't know what I did wrong."

Scoring points

Kari Foust helped Hope College win the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association women's swim championship, held Feb. 19-21 at East Grand Rapids HS.

Foust, a junior at Hope and a Salem HS graduate, scored in the 200-yard backstroke (2:16.14) and placed sixth in the 100 back (1:02.95). In the 200 individual medley, Foust placed 11th (2:20.70).

Hope scored 587 points to easily win the team title, Calvin was second with 422.

T-Ball signup

The city of Plymouth Recreation Department will have registration for its 5-6-year-old T-ball League from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. March 29 through April 18 at the Recreation Office, located in the Plymouth Cultural Center at 525 Farmer in Plymouth.

Children must be born July-December 1997, January-December 1998, or January-July 1999. A birth certificate is required.

The season runs seven weeks from June 19 to Aug. 7 (no games on July 3).

Cost is $45 for city of Plymouth residents, $65 for all others.

For more information call the Recreation Department at (734) 455-6620.

Basic skating

A basic skills class in skating, which will offer the opportunity to learn to skate at every level from beginning to advanced freestyle, will be held for eight weeks, from March 15 to May 8, at the Plymouth Cultural Center's Ice Arena.

Each class will be 25 minutes in length, with an additional 25 minutes of practice time either before or after the lesson, depending on scheduling for that day.

Cost is $56 for city of Plymouth residents, $76 for non-residents ($5 off for each additional sibling).

An open general registration will be from 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m. Saturday, March 13 at the Cultural Center, located at 525 Farmer in Plymouth. Registrations will also be accepted at the Recreation Office during business hours.

For more information, call the Recreation Office at (734) 455-6620, ext. 304, or check out the city of Plymouth Web site at www.ci.plymouth.mi.us.

Open skating

Open skating will now be offered five days a week at the Plymouth Cultural Center's Ice Arena, located at 525 Farmer in Plymouth. The cost is $4 for adults, $3 for children and $3 for seniors. Skate rental is $2.

Open skate hours are 9 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Tuesdays, 11 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Wednesdays, 11 a.m.-12:50 p.m. Thursdays, 11 a.m.-1:30 p.m. Fridays, and 4-5:50 p.m. Sundays.

Falling short

Salem stopped by Glenn, sets up Wayne showdown

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK

Chris Szydlo is listed at 5-foot-4 — but he plays a whole lot bigger than that.

The junior point-guard stepped up big-time when needed Friday night and guided Westland John Glenn's offense to 42 second-half points in a 72-50 Western Lakes Activities Association boys basketball victory over Salem.

Szydlo, who has started three of the Rockets' last four games, is not one of those guards who will dazzle you with footwork or flashy dribbling. What he does do is play virtually mistake-free basketball while getting the ball into the hands of the players who need it — and at the right time.

"He stepped up to the plate big-time," Glenn coach Joel Lloyd said after his Rockets (10-9, 5-3) clinched third place in the Lakes Division of the WLAA. "He did a great job for us."

Szydlo's play confirmed what everybody figured at halftime — that he would be running the Rockets' offense for the duration of the season.

Salem (8-10, 5-2) plays Wayne Memorial in a makeup game Tuesday to decide the first- and second-place finishers in the Lakes Division. Crossovers against the Western Division will take place on Thursday.

"They beat us up," Salem coach Bob Brodie said. "They played hard and weren't to be denied."

"They were able to get it inside and they played good defense. But we've still got a chance to finish first in our division if we can beat Wayne. We're still in the hunt."

Salem had two problems — making free throws and making baskets.

The Rocks, who shoot a lot of free throws, went to the line 40 times during the game. They made just 20.

They got 63 shots in the game, too. And made just 14 for 22 percent.

"If you don't make your shots from the floor and from the line," Brodie said, "you're not going to do very well against a good basketball team."

"We've been shooting about 23 percent all year. We're shooting the ball well, we're just not making them well."

Chris Haar was the only Salem player to reach double figures, netting 13 points. Brian Bradley had nine while Brad Clark, Jon Pomorski and Dominique Washington scored seven apiece.

Barry Eberhardt led John Glenn with 27 points. Ryan Hudy contributed 14. Derrick Bush, nine and Szydlo, eight. Szydlo, incidentally, had just one

McGinnis lifts Whalers, 4-2

A pair of third-period goals by defenseman Ryan McGinnis, his first two scores of the season, carried the Plymouth Whalers to a 4-2 victory over the Saginaw Spirit Friday at Plymouth's Compuware Arena.

The Whalers, who lost 4-2 at Sarnia Thursday, improved to 28-22-9-3 (68 points), second in the Ontario Hockey League's West Division. Saginaw is 15-40-2-4 (36 points).

The Spirit took the early advantage, getting first-period goals from Jean-Michel Ruzk and Sean Courtney. The Whalers tied it at 2-2 with a pair of second-period goals, scored by Brent Mahon (assisted by Vaclav Meidl and Jonas Fiedler) and, on the power play, by John Vigilante (from Ryan Ramsay and John Mitchell).

McGinnis gave Plymouth the lead for good at 7:22 of the third period (assists from Fiedler and Mitchell). He cemented the outcome with his second goal at 13:20 (assists from Ramsay and Nice Vernelli).

Ryan Nie stopped 28 of 30 shots on goal to earn the win for Plymouth. Saginaw goalie Eric Pfugler had 38 saves.

On Thursday at division-leading Sarnia, the Whalers took a 2-0 lead into the third period only to be victimized by a four-goal outburst by the Sting.

James Wisniewski (from Canton) had a goal and an assist for Plymouth. Dan Collins also had a goal.

The Sting got a goal and two assists from Joey Tenute, a goal and an assist from Colt King, two assists from Dan Sisca, and goals from Daniel Carcillo and Danny Fritsche.

Canton thumps Franklin; Plymouth wins

Senior forward D.J. Bridges pumped in a game-high 21 points and senior center Brad Waidmann added 11 to lead Canton to a 53-40 triumph over Livonia Franklin in a Western Lakes Activities Association basketball game Friday at Franklin.

With the win, the Chiefs improve to 12-7 overall, 5-3 in the WLAA's Western Division. Franklin falls to 3-16 overall, 1-7 in the division.

With Walled Lake Western's upset of division-leader Northville Friday, Canton finishes in third place in the division. Who the Chiefs will play in Thursday's WLAA crossover depends on who wins the Salem-vs.-Wayne Memorial game Tuesday.

If Salem wins, they play Westland John Glenn, if Wayne wins, the Rocks will be Canton's opponent.

with a team-high 13 points for the Patriots, who shot 10-of-20 from the foul line. Andy Lynett, a 5-foot-11 senior, added six points and 12 rebounds.

"Their coach (Canton's Charlie Paye) thought he (Lynett) did a great job of rebounding against taller kids," Franklin coach Russ Keberly said. "We do our best to control tempo, but we seem to get into a rut where we miss shots."

Plymouth 53, Det. Winans Academy 48: Plymouth concluded its regular season Thursday with a satisfying homecourt win over the Detroit Winans Academy varsity, a team which had defeated the Wildcats earlier this season.

The fourth quarter proved to be the difference. Plymouth trailed 26-23 at the half and 40-39 after three quarters. The Wildcats outscored Winans 14-8 in the fourth.

"I think we just wore them out," said Plymouth coach Dave VanWagoner. "They looked a bit tired in the fourth and our guys came up big."

Winans had beaten Plymouth in overtime, 73-69, last month in Detroit. The Wildcats improved to 13-2 overall, 6-2 against varsity teams. Winans is 14-4.

Jim Wilbur led Plymouth with 12 points, Josh LeDuc and Kuraj Sandhu scored 11 apiece. A.J. Davey finished with seven points and 11 rebounds, and Brent Jones scored four points and dished out nine assists. Winans got 18 points from Jeremy Winans.

Buzzer-beater ends Madonna's season

BY DAVE REGNIER
STAFF WRITER

When Madonna University freshman guard Stephanie Childs sank both free throws with 3.6 seconds remaining in Thursday's Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference first-round playoff game, everyone figured that meant overtime.

Everyone except Tech's Lashanda Conwell. Conwell took the inbounds pass, zig-zagged down the floor and banked in a buzzer-beating three-point shot off the glass to give the Warners a 76-73 victory.

Fifth-seeded Tech, which improved to 17-12, advanced to play Cornerstone — the No. 1 seed in the WHAC Women's Tournament — Saturday in Grand Rapids. Madonna, the fourth seed, concludes its season at 11-19.

Considering the way the game had gone, perhaps the finish should have been anticipated. Tech hit just 18-of-42 two-point shots (42.9 percent) but 10-of-22 three-pointers (45.5 percent), including 4-of-8 in the second half prior to Conwell's game-winner.

"We took away some of their threes," said a disappointed MU coach Marylou Jansen, referring to her team's improved ball-pressure defense in the second half. "And they still got five of them on us."

Four of those came in the final 4:12 of the game, and Conwell — who scored just two points in the first half — had two of them. An all-WHAC selection who averaged more than 17 points a game, Conwell totaled 21 points and five assists.

Her slow start was partly attributed to a case of food poisoning lingering from the previous night, the same affliction that kept DeNisha Gray, one of the team's top players, out of the lineup Thursday.

It wasn't as if Madonna wasn't prepared for a final desperation attempt.

"We were expecting some kind of shot but didn't expect them to get so close," said Jansen. "The game went down to the wire. We were expecting overtime."

It was a game of immovable force vs. unrelenting speed, each coach trying to take advantage of their strong points. "We're small and they're big," said Tech coach Gary Cobb. "We had to rely on our speed."

PLEASE SEE MADONNA, B3

Courtney Rehbine, driving against Indiana Tech's Alicia Harrison, collected 17 points, 11 rebounds and three assists for Madonna, but it wasn't enough to get a win.

Late goal lifts Stevenson over Canton

Matt Fortier's power-play goal with 1:43 left enabled Livonia Stevenson to edge Canton 6-5 in a Western Lakes Activities Association crossover hockey game Wednesday at Canton's Arctic Edge Arena.

Adam Stoner and Sean Sachau assisted on the game-winner.

"It was not our best effort, we're trying not to look ahead to next week (the state playoffs), but I think we were a little bit," said Stevenson coach Mike Humitz, whose team opens regional play Tuesday against Churchill at the Dearborn Indoor Skating Center. "It's going to be a short week if we play like we did today. But any time you win, you're not disappointed."

The Chiefs, who trailed 5-4 after two periods, got three assists from Reece McCabe, Mike Stewart, Sean Rago, Kyle Tollison, Paul Davison and Kevin Tollison each scored a goal for Canton, which fell to 7-13-1 overall with the loss.

Stevenson improved to 14-5-4.

Stoner finished with three assists for the Spartans, while Sachau and Billy Westerman each had a goal and one assist. Other Stevenson goals were scored by Alex Bokas, Rico Guerra (power-play) and Brad Fischer. Stevenson netminder Kit Pruchnik made 19 saves, while Canton's Chris Garrett stopped 24 shots.

Salem 3, Saline 3: Craigen Bauldry turned a pass from Dan Crockett and Mike Barr into the game-tying goal with 36 to play in regulation as Salem got a draw with Saline Wednesday at Chelsea Ice Arena.

The Rocks are 11-9-3 overall. Bauldry's goal capped a wild third period in which each team scored two goals, the Rocks first on a penalty shot by Matt Van Hoet. That put Salem ahead 2-1, but the Hornets scored twice in less than two minutes to recapture the lead, with goals from Drew Collins and Keith Marsh.

Saline led 1-0 after one period. Salem tied it with a goal by Andy Thackaberry (assists from Kyle Emmons and Crockett) midway through the second period.

Ladywood 7, Port Huron 4:

Laura Szwed scored a pair of short-handed goals 18 seconds apart early in the final period to break a 3-all deadlock as Livonia Ladywood (14-7) went on to defeat Port Huron Unified in a Michigan Metro High School Girls Hockey League game played Wednesday at the Arctic Pond in Plymouth.

Ladywood led 3-0 after one period, but Port Huron stormed back to tie it as Ashley Hinton, who finished with two goals, scored with five minutes remaining in the second period.

"We played well the first and third periods, but we kind of went to sleep in the second period," Ladywood coach Bruce Peck said.

Szwed finished with a hat trick and one assist. Mary Beth O'Dea and Jess Blaesser tallied the other Ladywood goals. O'Dea also had an assist, while teammate Joy Troczynski collected two assists.

Kryl Meyers and Meg Quinn had the other Port Huron goals. Ladywood goaltender Danni St. Onge made a total of 30 saves.

Redford CC 5, Allen Park 2: Redford Catholic Central has had problems scoring at full strength in its last few games. That didn't pose a problem on Wednesday night as the Shamrocks scored four power-play goals and one of the short-handed variety in a non-league win over Allen Park.

"I'm glad the power play showed up because we haven't been real strong skating 5-on-5 in the last three games," said CC coach Todd Johnson. "That's a bit of a concern going into the playoffs. It was a chippy game both ways."

CC opened the scoring with a power-play goal from Dave McGrorty with Tim Buttery and Mike Monterey assisting. After Chris DeRoche tied the score for Allen Park, Dan Barczuk made it 2-1 just into the second from Jimmy Burns and Andrew Godoshian.

Chris New made it 3-1 on a short-handed goal with Michael Evans and Tim Buttery assisting. Monterey scored 25 seconds into the third from Buttery and Godoshian and after an Allen Park goal, Burns closed out the scoring from Bill Makela and Pete Pfeffer.

Godoshian stopped 17 shots in goal for CC (14-6-3), while the Shamrocks had 29 shots on the Allen Park goal. The Jaguars fell to 14-7-2.

Strong serving carries Canton Agape to victory

If Tarah Armbruster keeps serving like this, Canton Agape Christian's season could have an extended run.

On Thursday at Harper Woods Lutheran East, Armbruster totaled four service aces to go with three defensive digs as the Wolverines edged the Eagles 15-12, 15-10.

The win improved Agape's record to 9-11.

It was the second-straight match, both of them wins, that Armbruster's serving has been pivotal.

On Monday in a home match against Taylor Light and Life, she served the first 10 points in each game as Agape won easily 15-10, 15-1. Other key contributors to Thursday's win against Lutheran East were Amanda Tashnick with 10 kills, Brittany Miller with four kills, and Emily Tong with 17 set assists and two kills.

In Monday's win over Light and Life (which shipped to 9-10), Armbruster collected five aces. A.J. Creps had eight kills, Miller added three kills, and Tong had 17 set assists.

The Wolverines play at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Plymouth HS.

MADONNA

Jansen countered "We were outsizeing them, out-muscling them, and they were out-quicking us. It was a game of opposites."

It was also a game with 15 lead changes with neither team leading by more than seven points. Madonna led by six early in the game after three consecutive baskets by Sarah Thomson, but the Warriors closed the half better, outscoring the Crusaders 17-10 in the last 8:21 to take a 36-31 halftime lead.

The Crusaders started the second half with a flurry, eliminating the deficit with a 7-2 run in the first 2:48. It stayed close the rest of the game, the biggest cushion either team enjoying just five points.

"Madonna did a good job of stopping our penetration," Cobb said. "With their size we were forced to the outside most of the night."

Madonna dominated the Warriors on the boards, grabbing 45 rebounds to their 28. Tech's speed was definitely a factor though, with Conwell and teammate Thyoshi Chambers. Chambers had 19 points and four steals, and Eliza Drckinson, another guard, scored 10 points, dished out four assists and made four steals. Forward Quanette Vales also scored 10 points.

The Crusaders were the younger, less experienced team, starting only one senior center Courtney Rehbine, who had 17 points and 11 rebounds. Madonna was led in scoring by Sarah Thompson's 21 points (she also had 10 boards), Lydia Prusinowski netted 18 points (on 7-of-8 floor shooting), had eight rebounds and three assists, and Jackie Pingston scored nine points.

While Madonna had the rebounding edge, Tech forced 20 Crusader turnovers while committing just 12. And Madonna's substantial advantage inside (the Crusaders outscored the Warriors in the paint, 32-24) was offset by Tech's superior defense (23-11 in points off turnovers).

"They're a great team," said Jansen. "This was a great playoff game, where it came down to the last team with the ball."

"We did everything we wanted to do."

Except win.

Grand Rapids CC 65, Schoolcraft 56: Autumn Khutic scored 23 points and hauled down 16 rebounds Wednesday as visiting Grand Rapids CC ousted Schoolcraft College from the Michigan Community College Athletic Association semifinals. Schoolcraft, which led 42-29 at the half, also got 14 points from 7-foot center Lamont Arrington.

Guard Ty Scott and forward Marcus Johnson added 12 and 10, respectively. "Lamont played a great game defensively, both blocking shots and rebounding, he

Ocelots aim for 4th-straight state title

Gunning for their fourth-straight state championship, the Schoolcraft College men's basketball team earned a spot in Saturday's finals with a 93-73 victory Friday over Wayne County CC at Flint Mott.

The Ocelots, 26-3 overall, got a game-high 22 points from Ryan Baumgartner and 17 from Derrick Ponder as the Ocelots earned the Michigan Community College Athletic Association semifinal win. Schoolcraft, which led 42-29 at the half, also got 14 points from 7-foot center Lamont Arrington.

Guard Ty Scott and forward Marcus Johnson added 12 and 10, respectively.

"Lamont played a great game defensively, both blocking shots and rebounding, he set the tone early," Schoolcraft coach Carlos Briggs said. "Everybody played tough defensively. Our inside presence hurt them. It was a good overall effort."

Curtis Tillman led Wayne County, now 19-7 overall, with 18 points.

Two Schoolcraft players, point guard Ricky Morgan and forward Anton Palmer, did not make the trip for what Briggs called "conduct detrimental to the team."

The Schoolcraft coach said both would also sit out the state final against 23-4 Grand Rapids, which ousted host Mott in the other semifinal, 82-80, in overtime. (Results of Saturday's final will appear in Thursday's Observer.)

Cornerstone 88, Madonna 66: Madonna University's season came to a close in the opening round of the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference playoffs as host Cornerstone earned the victory before 1,100 fans Wednesday night at the Henson Athletic Center.

Cornerstone, 24-8 overall, got a team-high 20 points from John Freund. Jim Cochran added 16, while Kerth Wurn contributed 15. Andy Bronkema finished with 13 points and 10 rebounds.

The Crusaders, who ended their season losing six of their final seven games, wind up 10-19 overall.

Senior guard Dan Kurtinatits, the school's all-time assist leader, finished his career with a game-high 21 points on 6-of-12 shooting from the floor, including 4-of-9 from three-point range. Junior guard Noel Emenhiser, the WHAC's leading scorer, added 18 points.

The Crusaders, who trailed by only four at halftime, 34-30, racked up a total of 30 fouls as Cornerstone shot 33-of-45 from the foul line (73.3 percent). Five MU players fouled out, including Kurtinatits, Emenhiser and two seniors playing in their final game, Chad Nadolm and Jim Woodworth. It also marked the final MU appearance for John Bennett (Livonia Churchill) and Chris Behrns.

OPEN SATURDAYS

SPORTS ROUNDUP

FOOTBALL BOOSTER MEETING

The next meeting for the Plymouth Wildcat Football Boosters will be at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Room 401 of Plymouth High School. All parents of current players and parents of incoming freshmen are encouraged to attend.

BASEBALL CLINIC

The annual Salem Baseball Clinic will be in two sessions, the first on Saturday, March 27 and the second on Saturday, April 3, both in the Salem HS gym. Three hours of baseball instruction from the Salem varsity players and coaches, for players ages 7-15, is included. Lunch is provided as well, registration fee is $20.

To reserve a spot or for more information, call Ron Myers at (734) 459-4026.

LACROSSE SIGN-UP

The Canton Leisure Services is sponsoring a Youth Lacrosse League, with the league running from March through June. New and experienced players may join either the fifth-sixth grade team or the seventh-eighth grade team. Indoor practices are available in February.

Players must supply their own equipment, including helmet, stick, mouth guard, protective equipment and shoulder pads. Teams must have a minimum of 10 players and no more than 25. Included in the $100 per player fee is a uniform, indoor practice time, a 12-week league schedule and an end-of-the-year jamboree tournament.

Players may register right now at the Summit on Park, located at 46000 Summit Parkway. For more information, call the Canton Softball Center at (734) 483-5600.

ROAD RALLY

The Canton Thunderbirds girls fast-pitch softball organization is hosting its second-annual Road Rally on March 13. Space is limited, early registration is suggested.

Cost is $25 per person, which includes meal, prizes and music. For further information contact Mike Roberts at (734) 397-1355 or on the Web at thunderbirdsoftball.tripod.com.

DeBellis, 13, making a name for himself

Jon DeBellis, a 13-year-old bowler from Farmington is one of the area's up-and-coming talented youth bowlers. His 198 average was given a boost recently with a 300 game and 752 series last month at Country Lanes.

As he bowled the final frames in his perfect game, he said he was, "calm, cool and collected."

But according to his mother, Tina Schaefer, said she "just about went crazy in the 10th frame."

Both parents, Tina and her husband Jim, are outstanding bowlers and have brought their son, Jon along the path to future stardom.

A 300 game is the goal of most bowlers, but so many who have played this game for 30, 40 or 50, or more years, that have never quite reached that ultimate score.

It didn't take long for 19-year-old Kathleen Bishop to achieve her first 300 game. She time to help coach the Clarenceville High School youth bowling team.

Bishop was coached in her growing years by her father, Bill.

As this Westland family has welcomed Kathleen to the winner's circle, dad Bill has also coached his 21-year old son, Tim, who also rolled has a perfect game, and has previously received his own 300 ring.

If you have been around the local pro shops lately you might have noticed a clear plastic device made in the size and shape of a bowling ball.

This is the latest branch from the mad scientists at Ebonite.

Just from looking at it, you might have a hard time figuring out what it is.

Ebonite calls it Powerhouse Hook Agan, which enables the bowler to remove the lane oil from the ball without damaging it.

Oil build-up is a common problem on ball surfaces. Some bowlers had even gone so far as to place their ball in an oven to try to "sweat out" the oil. This could work, but in most instances, it ruins the ball itself because the inner core and cover stock are of different compositions.

It can also cause de-lamination, and take away the effectiveness of the ball.

The Hook Agan device removes the oil safely and without using heat.

Most ball manufacturers do not warranty a ball that is subjected to heat. Actually, oil is not the real problem, for heat will also break down the plasticizer in the ball, thus reducing the effectiveness. With the plasticizer diminished, the ball will not perform well.

Here's how it works: The ball is placed in the plastic chamber and the Hook Agan compound is added to the chamber. It remains in the chamber for 24 hours, then it is removed, wiped off and ready for renewed life.

The process may be done by the pro shops or a unit can be purchased for individual home use.

According to Ebonite tests, Hook Agan has proven to restore 99.8 percent of performance loss due mainly to plasticizer saturation. This product does not use heat, it is not abrasive to the surface, and will not harm the ball.

This reporter is packing his bags for a quick trip to Reno, Nev. for the American Bowling Congress convention.

This could be an historic event as the revised Single Membership Organization will be voted upon.

If the men's and women's organizations both vote for the merger, it should pass and then become the U.S. Bowling Congress, which will also include youth bowling.

The Greater Detroit Bowling Association will be participating as the ABC Tournament continues.

Al Harrison is a resident of Livonia and a director of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association. He can be contacted at (248) 477-1839 or e-mail at tpeninallay@sbcbglobal.net.

LEGAL NOTICE

1954 PA 188 PROCEEDINGS
NOTICE OF SPECIAL ASSESSMENT HEARING

Charter Township of Plymouth
Wayne County, Michigan

TO THE RESIDENTS AND PROPERTY OWNERS OF THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH, WAYNE COUNTY MICHIGAN, AND ANY OTHER INTERESTED PERSONS

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that as a result of Petitions of property owners within the Township signed by the record owners of land whose front footage constitutes more than 50% of the total front footage of the hereinafter described Special Assessment District and the Township Board of the Charter Township of Plymouth proposes a road paving project in the Plymouth Hills Subdivision and to create a Special Assessment for the recovery of the cost thereof by Special Assessment against the properties benefited therein.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested that the Board of Trustees of the Charter Township of Plymouth has tentatively declared its intention to make the hereinafter described improvement:

The proposed improvements shall consist of two lane asphalt pavement constructed over the existing gravel road as well as miscellaneous driveway and drainage work which may be needed to facilitate the placement of the asphalt road pavement. The project commences at the westerly right-of-way line of Beck Road and proceeds along Amherst Court to the northerly right of way line of Powell Road. The project also includes Nicholas Lane in its entirety.

That it has further been tentatively determined that the following described lots and parcels of land will specially benefit from said improvements and will constitute a Special Assessment District against which the cost of said improvement shall be assessed:

The district limit for frontage along Amherst Court and Nicholas Lane consists of Lots 1 through 46 of the Plymouth Hills Subdivision as well as parcels 990003001, 990003002, and 990003003, located in the Southeast 1/4 of Section 29, T1S, R8E, of Plymouth Township, Wayne County, Michigan.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that the Board of Trustees of the Charter Township of Plymouth shall meet on Tuesday, March 9, 2004 at 7:00 p.m. at the Plymouth Township Hall, 42350 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, Michigan 48170, for the purpose of reviewing said proposed Special Assessment District, and hearing objections to the improvement creation of the Special Assessment District and the assessment thereon. All persons may then and there appear and make any objections they may have to such improvement and assessment. Appearance and protest at the hearing is required in order to appeal the amount, if any, of the special assessment to the state tax tribunal. An owner or party in interest or agent thereof may appear in person at the hearing or may file an appearance or protest by letter. All parties or agents appearing in person at the hearing for purposes of protest should request the appearance be entered into the record of the meeting.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that the plans, specifications estimates of cost and recommendations of the engineer for said proposed Special Assessment District have been filed with the Township and are available for public examination at the office of the Township Clerk. The estimate of costs of such construction is in the approximate amount of $332,000.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that periodic redetermination of costs for the proposed Special Assessment District may be necessary and may be made without further notice to the record owners or parties in interest in the property.

CC wrestlers fall in regional final

Catholic Central's wrestling team started strong in the Division I regional final against Roseville, but wound up bowing out down the stretch and losing 42-20 at Royal Oak Kimball.

CC (11-12) started the match with five straight wins and a 17-0 lead as the match started at 160 pounds. But the Panthers won eight of the last nine matches and stopped the Shamrocks for the second time this season.

The Shamrocks advanced to the finals by topping Oak Park, 63-15, while Roseville beat Dearborn Fordson, 39-28.

Catholic Finals feature Observer schools

It will be a history-making Redford tripleheader at University of Detroit Mercy's Cahhan Hall this afternoon as all three of the township's Catholic League schools advanced to their division basketball championships.

Both Catholic Central and Bishop Borgess came away with wins in their division semifinals on Wednesday to advance to Cahhan. On Tuesday, St. Katharine Drexel won its spot in the C-D Division final with a 55-48 overtime win against Center Line St. Clement.

CC overcame a 19-6 first quarter deficit against Warren De La Salle to pull away with a 63-50 win to move into the 4 p.m. Sunday Central-AA final against Orchard Lake St. Mary. In the opener, Bishop Borgess overcame some sloppy shooting and ballhandling to come away with a 56-54, double-overtime win against Madison Heights Bishop Foley. The win earned the Spartans a spot in the East-West final against Harper Woods Trinity at 2 p.m.

All three schools making the finals in three separate divisions is a first, however, all three have gone to the finals in the same year. CC beat Bishop Borgess for the Central-AA title in 1989 and 1997.

CC (15-3) did two big things and a bunch of little ones to pull away from the Pilots (13-5) in the semifinal win — the third win against the Pilots this season.

The first was to put guard

Robert Fragoso on high-scoring Pilot guard Keith MacKenzie. The move paid off as MacKenzie, who had 20 against Detroit DePorres on Sunday, settled for a pair of first-quarter 3-pointers.

'Rob did a nice job defending him,' said CC coach Rick Coratti. 'He stayed with him and guarded him alone.'

The second was to beat the Pilots at their own fast-paced, high-pressure game. De La Salle had the advantage in the first quarter, but the Pilots seemed to flame out and tire quickly. CC took advantage and cut the lead to 26-25 by half — thanks in no small part to six turnovers in the second quarter.

'It seemed like we wore them down,' said Coratti. 'In the middle of the third quarter, it seemed like they ran out of gas. I wasn't comfortable, though, until the final buzzer. The Shamrocks took the lead for good midway through the third quarter as Kyle Smith converted a three-point play to give the Shamrocks a 32-31 lead and start an 8-0 run. De La Salle managed to pull within 42-41, but could get no closer.

The unsung things came in the scorebook as Jim Cash paced CC with 17 points, Smith and Dan Waterstradt had 15 each, and Dave Herberholz added 12.

John Novak paced the Pilots with 18 points, while Jake Jakubek had 14.

turnover in the second half. Eberhardt scored 12 of his points in the third quarter, many off feeds by Szydlo and many the result of his getting the ball on the wing and driving to the basket.

'Barry likes to face the basket,' Lloyd said. 'He doesn't always have to play with his back to the basket. He did a very good job despite playing in a bit of pain.'

Glenn enjoyed a 13-8 lead after one period and was up, 30-21, at the game's midpoint.

Salem came back from a 15-point deficit early in the third quarter and trailed 42-30 with 2:29 left. However, John Glenn outscored it 10-2 the rest of the period and took a 52-32 lead into the final 8 minutes.

I thought we played good in the first half, Lloyd said, and I thought we played very good in the second. The looks we had in the second half were excellent — and we knocked them down.

'And when you're scoring, it makes it that much easier to get into your defense.'

The Rockets get their next test, their state tournament prep game, in the league crossover Thursday night — with Szydlo in the starting lineup.

One small action

Hard to believe that 48 years ago, a tired little lady got onto a bus and sat down for the ride

It was on that ride that this woman took one small courageous action. She refused her seat to a white man. For that one small action, the woman was arrested, she was tried for a violation of a local ordinance.

From that one small action, an entire city responded and soon one small action would change the conscience of an entire nation, reshape the moral fiber of a country and elevate a little-known clergyman to greatness.

All of this history was born, from one small action.

The young black woman who was expected to yield her seat to a white man was Rosa Parks. This small act of courage that grew into something immense reverberates through the decades.

Today, it is hard to believe that a year before my own birth, segregation still survived in this country. Hard to believe that sharing a lunch counter was forbidden, hard to believe that washrooms and drinking fountains were labeled.

It is hard to believe that the right to vote for a segment of our society came only within the past 40 years.

Hard to believe that a man named Medgar Evers could be shot as his family watched, and hard to believe that a crime of this magnitude would go unpunished for years and years to come.

Hard to believe that civil rights workers would be shot, beaten, hung. Hard to believe that a church could be bombed, hard to believe that this was the country, that these were the times, that many of us grew and lived in.

Hatred brews anger. The country was at war, at war in a small southeast Asian country and at war with itself. Changing ideology does not come easily, does not come without casualties.

Gradually, people began to notice, began to take heed.

Through one small action, slowly, the country started to change. People stopped and listened, listened to the speech, listened to the dream of that once unknown clergyman, a man named Martin Luther King Jr.

This man, this leader, had a dream. He dreamed that freedom would ring throughout our land.

Slowly, freedom did begin to ring. Slowly, the attitudes began to change. Slowly, the country began to grow. Change didn't come quickly, change didn't come easily.

In 1968, the minister was assassinated. He didn't live to see the changes, to see the country that we have become.

There is a generation that doesn't remember these times. Just as the baby boomers can't appreciate the hunger and anguish of the Great Depression, there is a generation that can't realize the true struggles of the civil rights movement.

Learn through the history. Understand the hatred of the racial pejoratives, through the history try to understand the struggle.

Through one small action taken in 1955, the history of our nation was changed forever and though our country has come a long way, we still have a long way to go. For it is in the history that we continue to shape our future.

A wee bit o' the Irish

Canton dancer scores big in first competition

When Shannon Murray puts on her dancing shoes and her curly wig, you know you're about to witness a little bit of Ireland right in the middle of Canton.

The 8-year-old second-grader at Eriksson Elementary has been studying Irish dancing for three years and earlier this month completed her first feis (competition) in Nashville, Tenn., where she won four first-place medals, one second-place and one third.

With that accomplishment, she advances from advanced beginner to novice. And she probably owes it all to Riverdance.

"I just started liking it," Shannon said of her love of Irish dancing. "And I saw all the Riverdance people."

That was a few years ago. "When I was a baby," the 8-year-old said, "I used to go downtown where there were Irish dancers and they'd say, 'Dance with us.' Dance with us."

That downtown experience with the Gaelic League led to a "freebie" lesson in Irish dancing, according to her mother, Debbie, who traces her roots to County Mayo.

"She turned out to be pretty coordinated," Debbie said.

Shortly after Shannon was enrolled in the Tim O'Hare School of Irish Dance in Westland (the studio has since moved to Plymouth Township).

She goes to class four hours a week, not including private lessons, said her father, Mike, a sergeant and paramedic with the Westland Fire Department, who traces his roots to County Galway.

All those lessons and practice have paid off. In Nashville, Shannon placed first in her division in the Irish reel, the jig, the slip jig and the treble jig. In the horn pipe, she placed third. All six dances are mandatory in the feis.

"She also danced a single jig, which she had never been taught," Debbie said. "She just sort of ad libbed it. And she placed second."

Shannon's favorite dance is the horn pipe. "It's challenging," she said.

But she also does the ceil, an Irish square dance.

"It's long," she said. "It takes about 10 minutes."

Her father is not a dancer.

"I'm more of a singer," he said. "I used to be in a band, but I don't do it professionally. I just enjoy it."

Her mother is not a dancer, either. But she tried.

All those lessons and practice have paid off. In Nashville, Shannon placed first in her division in the Irish reel, the jig, the slip jig and the treble jig. In the horn pipe, she placed third. All six dances are mandatory in the feis.

Shannon Murray does an Irish dance. Shannon, 8, just competed in her first feis (competition) in Nashville, Tenn., where she won four first place medals, one second place and one third.

"My mom started taking lessons," Shannon said. "She took quite a few classes and then she said 'Oh, I'm just going to quit. This is too hard for me.'"

Mike, who visited Ireland for the first time a couple of years ago, said his daughter may have to go there also.

"If she keeps doing as well, we're going to have to take her to Ireland to compete," he said.

As for Shannon, she just keeps on dancing.

Eight-year-old Shannon Murray with her mom, Debbie, and father Mike. Mike doesn't dance, Debbie gave it a shot for awhile.

Jennifer Catalo has founded a new nonprofit organization aimed at helping victimized children around the world.

Plymouth native reaches out to young AIDS victims

African crisis prompts woman's actions

With two young children and a music career, former Plymouth resident Jennifer Catalo has plenty to keep her busy. But last summer, while sitting in the sauna at World Gym in Rochester, she read a magazine article which made her realize she had to do more.

Catalo, 34, now living in Rochester, read about an epidemic of child rape in South Africa, a tragic offshoot of the AIDS crisis.

I could hardly stop crying that day, she said, nearly a year later. I knew I couldn't close my eyes to this problem.

As far back as 2001, CNN reported that child rape was already a crisis in South Africa. Though the country has one of the highest violent crime rates in the world, "The attacks are fueled by the myth that sex with a virgin will protect a man against AIDS or even cure him of the incurable disease," CNN.com reported.

In response, Catalo established a new charity, Firefly. She hopes to raise money which can then be funneled to established organizations in South Africa to assist victims. She is also collecting toys for victims in Durban, a South African city.

Firefly is currently working with the Children's Rights Centre in South Africa, as Catalo seeks to establish relationships with other organizations. She has also achieved nonprofit status, so donations are tax-deductible.

"It has been quite a learning process," she said. "I have had to learn by doing."

Catalo took a logical first step, visiting the Rochester Hills Public Library and enlisting the help of a librarian as she began her research. She's also been assisted by two Main Street businesses, Dforce and SV3, who have donated services such as logo design and publicity.

Nevertheless, Catalo's effort hasn't been universally well-received. Some have reacted with hostility, not wanting to hear about the problem or challenging her to help children here at home.

"It kind of knocked the wind out of my sails," she said. "I mostly wanted to get the word out, I wanted to educate people. We can't keep putting blinders on to what's going on in the world around us. Especially when I have children, how can I let this go on?"

What's most heartbreaking is the knowledge that victims can be as young as a few months old and suffer irreparable internal damage, as well as HIV infection.

"They keep getting younger and younger because there's little chance a baby has been infected," she said. "And the AIDS crisis is unbelievable. It's the leading cause of death in Africa."

Catalo teaches voice and music at Oakland University and the Rochester Conservatory. A singer in a couple of local Top 40 bands, she's also sung the National Anthem at Oakland University and Palace sporting events. She and her husband Gene moved to Rochester a year ago from Plymouth, where she grew up, and remodeled a home on a lovely, tree-lined street.

Several fund-raising events are in the works for Firefly. Since shipping toys costs more than buying them, one idea is to sell donated toys at a garage sale. Catalo is also hoping to put together a concert with musician friends and produce a CD of original music.

Gene Catalo came up with the name Firefly. His wife loves it because of its childlike quality, which she sees as "lighting the way for children in need."

For more information or to make a donation, contact Catalo at (248) 420 9119 or jen.catalo@comcast.net or P.O. Box 81444, Rochester, MI 48308. For information on the Children's Rights Center, visit www.childrensrightscentre.co.za on the Web.

Disney concert promises fun for all "The Magical Music of Disney will take center stage as Henry Ford Community College's Music Program presents the ninth annual President's Collage Concert 8 p.m. Saturday, March 6, in the Ford Community and Performing Arts Center, 15801 Michigan Ave., Dearborn.

Tickets are $15 and can be reserved in advance or bought at the door. To reserve tickets, call (313) 943-2354. For more information about the concert and HFCC's music program, call (313) 845-6470.

More than 250 instrumental and vocal musicians from HFCC's music program, the largest two-year music program in the state, will perform the Disney spectacular under the direction of conductors G. Kevin Dewey, Rick L. Goward and Randall Knight. The HFCC Big Band, Blue Fusion, Concert Choir, Con Spirito, Metropolitan Symphony Band, Studio 110, Renaissance Voices, Symphonic Wind Ensemble and Vanguard Voices will perform.

"This promises to be one of the premier musical events in the metropolitan area this year," said HFCC President Andrew Mazzara who along with his wife, Peggy, will host the concert. "This year, the concert is geared to baby boomers and their families, as well as all those who are young at heart. Our award-winning musicians, coupled with the stellar reputation of Disney music genius, guarantees a fun-filled evening of entertainment for the entire family."

According to Rick Goward, associate dean of HFCC's Fine Arts and Fitness Division, the Metropolitan Symphony Band and the Symphonic Wind Ensemble will perform classical music from the hit Disney movie Fantasia 2000, including excerpts from Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, Frederic Suite and Pines of Rome. HFCC's choral groups will sing excerpts from the most popular Disney films including Be Our Guest from Beauty and the Beast, Kiss the Girl and Under the Sea from Little Mermaid and A Whole New World from Aladdin as well as favorites from other Disney blockbusters.

HFCC's Metropolitan Symphony Band, performing with the Symphonic Wind Ensemble, is the largest community college concert band in Michigan. The symphony band includes advanced placement high school students, members of the community and students from neighboring universities. The wind ensemble, HFCC's instrumental honors group, features the top musicians from other HFCC bands.

ARIES (March 21-April 20)

Generally you are not the demonstrative type - particularly when it comes to affairs of the home or heart. However, now it's time to air your feelings to someone whose passions may not coincide with your own. Be patient. You have more going for you than you realize.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)

Don't let others bully or browbeat you over a fiscal or professional matter. The approaching Full Moon will give you the opportunity to air your grievances, but they are liable to fall on deaf ears unless you lay the necessary groundwork first. Don't be a bully. Bull!

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)

The astro effect of restrictive Saturn is to give you a new broom with which to sweep away any feelings of confusion, self-doubt or inadequacy. Personally and professionally, certain methods are no longer viable and therefore must be streamlined, reorganized and replaced.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)

You may be back on form and firing on all cylinders. Unfortunately, however, loved ones and other members of the family are still not going to give their full support. By all means, at this time, stick to your guns but be real considerate, not to force the pace.

LEO (July 24-Aug 23)

If you ask for what you want this week, you're sure to get it. And if you accompany the request with a gift, you might get more than you bargained for. Just make sure that you're serious before you start getting personal. Don't play games right now, Lion!

VIRGO (Aug 24-Sept 23)

Recent events mean you now know that success on any level is really a ladder that cannot be climbed with one's hands in one's pockets. Above all, however, remember that it is a waste of time arguing with individuals who cannot be honest with themselves or admit their mistakes.

LIBRA (Sept 24-Oct 23)

Unsettling developments seem to be casting a very long shadow over matters of a financial, tax or legal nature now. However, challenging astro activity also heralds a period of intense growth and a wonderful opportunity to practice the maxim: "As we think, so we are."

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22)

Let family and friends have their way right now, even if you don't agree with what they're doing, because later in the week you'll need their assistance and it will help if they owe you a favor. And don't spend too much money on Monday or you'll regret it by Friday.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21)

Not only do you know you are right in a domestic or family matter, but there is a strong possibility that you actually might be. Don't, however, let it go to your head. What seems obvious today may be less convincing tomorrow. Allow room for adjustment, Archer!

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 21)

Don't limit yourself to the same old scene with family and old chums this weekend; go somewhere different, somewhere where you can be who you want to be - and are! Your life is moving into a different gear. It may be higher or lower, but you'll certainly feel the shift.

AQUARIUS (Jan 22-Feb 19)

Even if you hate to say you're sorry, you'll find it easy to beg for forgiveness during the coming days. According to the planets, you have well-something to apologize for. But don't let others play on your feelings of guilt. Make amends and move on, WaterBearers!

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20)

It simply is not possible to be all things to all people, and the sooner you realize that, the better your life will be. If you have to let someone down this week - be it friend or family - don't feel bad about it and don't flounder. It's time to put your own needs first, now!

Colored pencil artist featured

The Three Cities Art Club features Livonia artist and instructor Sherry Eid during its monthly meeting 7-9 p.m. Monday, March 1, at the Plymouth Township Municipal Building, 42350 Ann Arbor Road (at the northeast corner of Lilley Road), Plymouth.

The public is invited. Eid will conduct a workshop on the use of colored pencils. Many people are surprised at the effects achieved with the pencil. One method is to vary the pressure that is applied. Eid will show how to create different effects by light and burnishing techniques. For those who are interested in experimenting, bring your pencils, sharpener, kneaded eraser, a good 8 by 11 inch paper such as Bristol vellum, and transfer paper.

Eid is the local president of the Colored Pencil Society of America. She teaches colored pencil classes in the continuing education program at Schoolcraft College as well as a number of workshops and classes in the area. Her work has been accepted in many local judged art shows.

Know the qualities you want in dating

Q I recently divorced after being married to the same man for almost 20 years. I would like to meet someone new, but I don't know if I'm ready. How do I meet someone after being out of the dating scene for so long?

A As the song says, breaking up is hard to do, but getting back into the dating world is even more difficult. Dating again can be tough because in many cases, we have been hurt in our previous relationship or marriage. We feel unsure of ourselves and may have a lot of anger toward our ex-spouse. Remember, a healthy dose of anger can be positive because it forces you to move on. If one is sad and feeling sorry for oneself, he or she is less likely to move on from the previous relationship. Many people think the dating scene has changed over the years, so they do not know what to expect. This unknown situation causes anxiety and fear. The biggest change in the dating scene is that today, computers, e-mail and the Internet are frequently used to meet people. Internet dating allows greater intimacy in terms of self-disclosure early on in the relationship, and people get to know each other better without the distraction of physical attraction. But if you are communicating via the Internet, remember that deception is possible, so be safe and realistic about these Internet relationships. Here are some Love Doctor tips for dating or meeting someone new:

1. Make sure you are really ready. Sometimes we think we are ready to have another relationship, but if we are still too attached to our ex-partner, it is too soon. You need to ask yourself whether you are ready to get into another relationship.

Love Doctor

and to really care for another person.

2. Write down 15 qualities that you want in a partner. No more than 15 qualities and no less. Be sure your qualities are specific. For example, if you are looking for a sense of humor in a partner, be sure to write down exactly what kind of humor you desire.

3. Join a group activity that meets consistently. Ideas include getting involved in a book club, softball league, or wine appreciation club. The goal is to interact with people of similar interests on a regular basis.

4. Ask your friends and family to fix you up. Many people are surprised to learn that when married people are asked how they met one another, the most common answer is that they were fixed up (even dating services count as being fixed up).

5. Do not discuss your ex-partner on first dates. You may decide to talk about your previous relationship or spouse at a later point, but don't let that kind of discussion cloud your judgment on the first date. To submit a question e-mail The Love Doctor on her Web site at www.detroitlovedr.com.

Anti-antibiotics

Resistance to antibiotics has increased significantly in recent years. Even though antibiotics have no effect on viruses, the U.S. government estimates that half of the 100 million prescriptions written for them each year are unnecessary. The Michigan Chiropractic Association is offering a pamphlet containing basic rules to follow when struck with an illness this season. Many people mistakenly believe that antibiotics are effective in treating viruses such as flu, colds and some ear infections. To help yourself feel better when you have a viral infection, drink plenty of fluids, get rest, and use a humidifier to put water back into the air. For more information or locations of chiropractors offering the Anti-Antibiotics pamphlet, visit the Web site at www.michiganchiropractic.org. The pamphlet is also available on the Web site.

In a study done by Henry Ford Hospital researchers found a link between antibiotics and allergies and asthma in children. Children who receive antibiotics within their first six months of life increase their risk of developing allergies to pets, ragweed, grass, and dust mites and asthma by age 7. However, they are less susceptible to these effects if they live with at least two pets, namely dogs or cats, in the first year. The study's findings are believed to be the first of its kind in the U.S. that found a link between antibiotics and allergies and asthma in children.

Fibromyalgia patients piece together puzzle to seek relief

Twenty years ago, when doctors told Sharon Ostalecki she was crazy, the Farmington Hills nutritional consultant kept looking for an answer to why she hurt all over.

Eventually she found a doctor familiar with fibromyalgia and began gathering information on the disease.

Ostalecki estimates that patients see anywhere from five to 50 doctors before finding the cause of pain in their muscles, ligaments and tendons. Once they do, they're on their own to find a prescription for relief. To help herself and other sufferers put together pieces of the puzzle, Ostalecki is starting a lecture series in conjunction with the H.O.P.E. support group, which meets 6 p.m. Monday, March 9, at the Farmington Community Library.

According to the Arthritis Foundation, which is currently funding seven studies on fibromyalgia, the disease can be triggered by arthritis or injury. Nearly 20 percent of people with osteoarthritis, rheumatoid arthritis and systemic lupus also have fibromyalgia. Infections such as Lyme disease can also trigger it.

About 80 to 90 percent of sufferers are women, but middle school-age children are also affected.

"It's a mysterious condition," said Sharon Ostalecki. Doctors have a difficult time diagnosing and treating it. Patients suffer from debilitating pain and fatigue. It's a complex illness.

Research has shown that fibromyalgia patients have too much substance P — a neurochemical found in the spinal cord that alerts the body to pain — and low levels of serotonin, which causes a decrease in Stage IV sleep necessary for muscles to repair themselves. Thus, the slightest pain is amplified for fibromyalgia sufferers, creating a vicious circle. Traditional treatment only addresses the pain and lack of deep sleep, and narcotics weren't a viable solution for Ostalecki, so she kept searching.

"There's no cure, but complementary or alternative treatments can help bring it under control," said Ostalecki. "It's like putting the pieces of a puzzle together. It's trial and error. It's a journey."

Ostalecki found that sleeping eight hours a night, eating a healthy diet, walking several times a week, and performing stretching exercises, yoga and low-impact aerobics brought her pain under control. She also takes vitamins and supplements such as calcium, does meditation, and has a deep tissue massage once a week. She said massage is important to keep down knots in the muscles. Practicing Tai Chi has also been helpful for some sufferers.

In order to share this information with other fibromyalgia patients, Ostalecki began the support group H.O.P.E. — Helping Our Pain and Exhaustion.

"You have good days and bad days," said Ostalecki, who's lectured on fibromyalgia in Michigan, Ohio, Boston and Canada. "That's why it's still misunderstood. A lot of people are still sent to psychologists and psychiatrists. A simple pressure point test, where 18 points on the body are touched, helps diagnose the disease."

There are many possible causes — stress, if you go through a health or personal crisis. People have various degrees of fibromyalgia. If you eat well, sleep well, control stress, you can control it.

Keeping a positive outlook is as important for fibromyalgia patients as nutrition. Ostalecki said most people eat a poor diet low in protein, the building block for muscles. Ostalecki suggests a diet high in complex carbohydrates, high in protein with at least 60 grams every day. Eating 40 percent of calories from complex carbohydrates, 30 percent protein and 30 percent fat keeps energy levels up and blood sugar still.

NUTRITION AND PAIN
Pain through a diet to limit refined sugars from her diet to reduce the pain. She also uses meditation, relaxation techniques and stretching exercises in the morning and night to help keep it under control. She follows no special diet but eats lots of fresh fruits and vegetables, and stays busy to keep her mind off the pain.

Like Ostalecki, Bowers started a support group in Livonia in 2001 to provide information within an upbeat environment.

"I was going to other support groups and saw patients who would leave more depressed than when they came," said Bowers of Livonia. "When people come to the group, it gives them comfort to know they're going through what others are going through. We're giving people the tools to help themselves.

Sharon Ostalecki, a nutritional consultant in Farmington Hills, suggests fibromyalgia patients eat a diet high in complex carbohydrates and protein.

"I probably had symptoms back in my early 20s and over looked them until finally there was a breaking point. My fibromyalgia started with exercising ear pain seven years ago. I was finally diagnosed with TMJ of the jaw, which is very common in people with fibromyalgia. From there the pain worked its way down. It's under control now, but I continue waking up with pain several times a night. I'm also sensitive to lights, smells like perfumes, and sounds, which studies show are common to fibromyalgia patients."

COMPLEXITY

The disease's complexity is why doctors send sufferers of moderate and severe pain to Dr.

H.O.P.E.

The H.O.P.E. support group meets Monday, March 9, at the Farmington Community Library. Admission is $5. For more information, visit the Web site at www.hffc.org or call (248) 344-0896. The first speaker is West Bloomfield physical therapist Loren DeVinney who specializes in treating fibromyalgia patients. Peggy Bowers' support group meets 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 10. Dr. James White will discuss biofeedback. For more information, call (248) 346-3164 or visit the Web site at www.geocities.com/livonia-acsfms.

Peter Ianni, The Farmington Hills psychologist, specializes in helping fibromyalgia patients cope.

"Patients need to understand how they cope," said Dr. Ianni, who will speak on fibromyalgia and intimacy at the April 26 meeting of H.O.P.E. "When the disease starts, they can push through the pain with certain coping strategies. When it becomes severe, it tends to escalate when they try to push through. I teach them to use behavioral techniques such as biofeedback to relax, and to prioritize and conserve energy when they're fatigued."

MORE ON SHOULDER PAIN

The most common cause is supraspinatus tendinitis, what you know as bursitis or as rotator cuff tendinitis. In this condition you can move the shoulder but hurts particularly when you raise the arm. Often the tendinitis is troublesome at night, awaking you in pain when you roll over on the involved shoulder joint.

The best known shoulder problem is a rotator cuff tear. The pain is often worse if you cannot fully turn your shoulder. This limit on motion interferes with your ability to attempt to override only bring on more pain. A poorly lubricated joint and adhesive capsulitis also causes marked restriction of the shoulder and great pain. Fortunately it is the reason for shoulder pain and immobility in less than 5% of cases.

There is one source of limited shoulder motion that you may overlook. This is osteoarthritis. The reason for its occurrence is the shoulder is the same as the wrist, hip and knee. There is a wearing away of cartilage with subsequent loss of the smooth motion between the ball and socket of the joint itself.

It is unclear why you get osteoarthritis of the shoulder or how to prevent it. Past injury often leads to a rotator cuff tear, but the evidence does not point to the same cause for osteoarthritis of the shoulder. Shoulder x-ray is excellent in revealing the arthritis and allows your doctor to make an early diagnosis. Treatment is not so straightforward. Joint injection helps but cannot cure, and anti-inflammatory drugs are good for pain relief but little else.

Weigh pros and cons of buying a home

Buying a house is perhaps the single largest financial investment a person will make in his or her lifetime. That's why if you are even thinking about buying a house, you need to do some research before plunging ahead. It's a commitment that you need to be willing to make both financially and emotionally.

More often than not, buying makes more sense than renting for many reasons. Paying rent means giving money to someone else. Paying a mortgage means putting money into your own house. Rent traditionally increases each year, whereas a mortgage is a fixed or variable rate (unless you refinance). After considering the tax benefits available to homeowners, they generally come out ahead of renters in savings. In essence, the longer you rent without buying, the more money you lose.

Seems like a no-brainer in favor of buying, right? Not necessarily. Buying isn't for everyone. If you can't afford to finance the entire process, then it's just not feasible. Consider that you will need a good amount of cash upfront to cover a number of expenses: the down payment, closing costs (which can start at $2,000 or more), taxes, insurance and inspection fees, points (a percentage of the mortgage), and other fees.

Of course, owning a home also means that you are in charge of that leaking roof, the lawn that needs mowing and a host of routine weekend jobs, especially if you own a single-family property. Some townhome communities cover external maintenance costs through association fees. Owning may also mean staying put for a while. If you move often or travel frequently, renting may be better (consider getting a roommate to split the rent and utility bills).

If you do decide to buy, you can get a reasonable mortgage by keeping your credit rating healthy. Do so by paying all your bills on time and in full for at least a year before you apply for a loan. It's always a good idea to check your credit rating every six months from one of the numerous credit rate services out there (note that there may be a fee of $25 to $50 per credit check).

METRO CREATIVE GRAPHICS

Choosing paint colors is one of the many joys of owning a home. Just make sure you are ready to be a homeowner financially and emotionally.

Even if the real estate market is good, be aware that if the market slips, you will end up with less equity when it comes time to sell. Consult your realtor for information on your region's housing market. Then research your local economy. If more people are moving in than out, this could indicate better value.

appreciation for homes in your area.

While homeownership is a responsibility not to be taken lightly, the investment in your future makes ownership much more satisfying. With a little planning and prudence, there's probably a home out there within your reach.

Some tips on blending style in a new home

A moving van deposits stacks of his and her boxes and furnishings at the newlyweds' home, as they stare and wonder how to pull it all together.

'Couples receive lots of marriage advice, but little on creating a new home,' said Carl Prindle, CEO of furniture.com. He offers these tips to couples on how to blend styles to ensure that their happy new home doesn't become a house divided.

■ Relax — Don't worry about what goes with what. Mix and match. Your home like your relationship is about you as a couple. Follow your instincts with pieces that suit both your interests and activities.

■ Respect — Beware of underlying emotions. You'll trample his feelings if you trash his well-worn recliner — a hand-me-down from Dad. Instead, get creative. Corner it in the bedroom if it's a "no" for the living room.

■ Prioritize — Blending pieces from the past is one thing, shopping for new furniture is another. First step: List what's needed most. While you'd love an armchair, how will it look if you're sitting on a dorm-room futon?

■ Budget — Be realistic in setting spending limits and work within them. Ask as you shop. Will this be your forever dining room or something until you're in a larger place? Saving for a better selection is an option, too.

■ Get inspired — Research as a couple.

■ Pile together on the couch and scan magazines, TV shows and style guides. Discuss your friends' homes. Find inspiration and common ground. If you like modern and your spouse likes casual, rejoice in discovering you both prefer light tones.

■ Collaborate — Many couples include one style-conscious person and one it's just a chair person. While one partner may be driving most decisions, for the long-term good of the relationship involve the other. It's their home, too.

■ Try online — Nothing frays the nerves more than wasting weekends fighting crowds at a half-dozen different stores — and coming home with no decisions. Shop online.

■ Make a life of it — Rome wasn't built in a day. Creating a new home together — or second or third — should be a positive, lifelong and shared "building" experience.

Home ownership among people under 25 rising

BY MARIAN ACCARDI
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Katrina Davis is 24 years old, just two years out of college, but she already owns a home. Davis felt like she was wasting her money paying rent for an apartment. So she started house shopping last year. The third house she checked out - a three-bedroom, 1,450-square-foot tan brick in northwest Huntsville, Ala. - caught her eye. "I knew this was the one," said Davis, a fourth-grade teacher. She made an offer Dec. 16, the day after she checked out the house, and closed on the purchase a month later. "It was more of an investment decision than anything," said Davis, who moved into the house and started graduate school last month. "I'm still in shock. It really hasn't sunk in yet." A record number of twenty-somethings are becoming homeowners. The U.S. Census Bureau reported that 1.5 million people younger than 25 owned homes nationwide in 2002. Another 343,000 people under 25 were expected to buy a home last year, according to the National Association of Realtors. "There's been a strong rise in younger buyers, but not a significant shift in terms of percentages," said Walt Molony, a spokesman for the National Association of Realtors. According to the association's data, 12 percent of first-time buyers of single-family homes, excluding condos, were under 25 last year compared with 10 percent in 1993. What's interesting, Molony said, is

'There's been a strong rise in younger buyers, but not a significant shift in terms of percentages.'

Walt Molony
National Association of Realtors

that the number of under-25 buyers is up 19.5 percent over the past two years while the overall increase in home sales is 15.3 percent for the same period.

BUILDING WEALTH

"This indicates we're seeing a greater number of young people who are more mature and who understand that home ownership is the key to building wealth over time," Molony said. Helping to drive up the number of twenty-something home buyers are historically low mortgage interest rates, said Molony and other local mortgage sellers. It isn't unusual for John Tate, branch manager of the First Metropolitan Mortgage Firm in Huntsville, to work with young people. The branch specializes in first-time home buyers. "What I have noticed is an increase in the number of clients in their lower 20s," said Tate, who opened his own Huntsville First Metropolitan Mortgage branch in October after working as a loan officer for almost two years. Tate and Dennis Toney, branch manager of Allied Mortgage Capital Corp., said down-payment assistance programs such as the American Family Funds Down Payment Gift Program also helped put young people in homes.

GROWING TREND

If mortgage rates remain relatively low, Toney believes the trend of people in their 20s buying homes is "just going to grow." Davis was able to get a 6 percent rate on her 30-year mortgage loan guaranteed by the Federal Housing Administration. She also was eligible for down-payment assistance.

It pays to invest in real estate

(NAPSI) - In the last five years, real estate has outperformed the stock market, inflation, money market funds and bonds. With home sales reaching record levels due to lower interest rates, everyone wants a piece of the real estate pie. If you are interested in learning more, there are many resources that can help you get started. The tips below are just a few options to help you begin your journey on the road to financial success in real estate.

TIPS

- Scout for Foreclosure Properties A foreclosure occurs when the property owner fails to make payments on a loan that is secured by a mortgage. If the loan amount is less than the property's market value, as is often the case, the home will be sold below market. This presents a unique opportunity for investors to buy properties at a lower cost. For information on the foreclosure process and property searches, visit www.info.NoDownPayment.com.
- Call on Uncle Sam The Department of Housing and Urban Development administers housing and community development programs. HUD promotes home ownership by insuring loans that meet its underwriting criteria, making it easier for everyone to invest in real estate. Lenders are more likely to provide home loans knowing that they are protected against loan defaults. Visit www.hud.gov for more information.

■ Consider Condos Recently, condos began appreciating in value at more than double the rate of detached single-family resale homes. National survey data show that the median price of a resale condo was up 15.1 percent from a year earlier, while single-family homes were up 7.4 percent. Remember, before investing in a condo, check the home owners association's reserve fund, since a healthy fund promises that you won't be slapped with any special assessments. For more information on the American Homeowner's Association, visit www.ahahome.com.

INCENTIVES FOR 'RECONVERSIONS'

Investors who rehab should be aware of reconversion grants, sometimes called deconversion grants, which are offered by city governments as an incentive to convert multi-unit rental properties back into single-family homes. Some cities provide incentives and assistance to structures that are restored to their original use. Priority is given to applications that show a significant impact on the neighborhood. In baseball, you need guidance and knowledge to swing at the right pitch and hit a 'home run.' Likewise in real estate, coaching can help you identify the right opportunities and make smart decisions. For more information on Real Estate coaches, visit www.info.NoDownPayment.com. For additional information on real estate investing, call (800) 283-0202.

Uncle Sam might be able to help with payment

(NAPSI) - Buy a home in 2004 and the federal government will help you with the down payment. The American Dream Downpayment Act is aimed at low-income buyers who find high down payments and closing costs a significant barrier to owning their own home. This and other new legislation are expected to contribute to meeting the Bush administration's goal of increasing minority homeownership by 5.5 million by the end of the decade.

Yet even more assistance may be available through the new Federal Housing Commissioner John C. Weicher recently announced a proposal for a "zero down payment" mortgage while speaking at the National Association of Home Builders annual convention. As part of its Fiscal Year 2005 budget request, HUD would eliminate the statutory requirement for a minimum three percent down payment on FHA-insured single-family mortgages for first-time homebuyers. This new mortgage product is projected to generate approximately 150,000 buyers in the first year alone. Such programs are welcome news to professional Buyer's Representatives throughout the country, who have long championed new initiatives for increasing homeownership. The addition of these programs to existing financing plans will offer prospective homebuyers an even wider array of options. However, they will also add to what many consumers see as the confusion of a very involved undertaking. That's why the expertise of Accredited Buyer's Representatives can be so helpful. As members of the Real Estate Buyer's Agent Council, they have completed extensive training focused on providing the services and up-to-date knowledge that can help make the home buying process less intimidating and more successful.

An affiliate of the National Association of REALTORS, REBAC numbers over 44,000 members, all dedicated to superior buyer representation. To find an ABR in your area and to request your free Homebuyer's Kit, call (800) 648-6224 or visit www.REBAC.net.

Save on your homeowner's insurance policy, experts say

(NAPSI) - If you don't like coming home to high homeowner's insurance bills, you may want to heed some tips from the experts. These 12 tips may help streamline your insurance bill. Shop around. Check with different companies to get rate quotes. Use the Internet to get online quotes, such as the ones at MSN Money. Raise your deductible. The deductible is the amount of money you have to pay toward a loss before your insurance kicks in. While they typically start at $250, increasing it to $1,000, for example, could save you 24 percent. Buy your home and auto policies from the same company. Some companies will give you a multi-line discount. Consider insurance when buying a home. A newer home's electrical heating and plumbing systems may be in better condition than those of an older home and can lead to a discount on your premium. Insure your home, not the land. Don't include the value of the land in deciding how much homeowner's insurance you need to buy. Improve safety and security. Items such as deadbolt locks, burglar alarms and smoke detectors usually bring discounts. Stop smoking. Smoking accidents account for more than 23,000 residential fires every year. Senior discounts. If you're at least 55 and retired, you may qualify for a discount. Group coverage. Alumni and business associations often work out insurance deals with an insurance company, which includes a discount for association members. Stay with an insurer. If you've kept your coverage with a company for several years, you may receive special consideration. Check your policy annually. If you review your policy every year, you will be able to make the necessary adjustments. Look for private insurance first. If you live in a high-risk area and think you'll be forced to buy homeowner's coverage from your state's high-risk insurance pool, check first with an insurance agent. For more on accessing your insurance needs, visit CNBC on MSN Money (www.money.msn.com) or use the financial planning tools within Microsoft Money software.

This country-style home has lots of nice accents, amenities

Brick accents, a front-facing gable, and a railed wrap around covered porch add to the country-style charm of the Halterman, a medium-size home that centers on a large family room. Quiet rooms – the parlor and master suite – are to the right of the family room, children's bedrooms to the left. Range and oven are built into an eating bar that faces into the family room. The room is large enough for a couple of couches, a media center, computer, or what have you.

Generous counter space lines the sides of the dog leg shaped kitchen. A walk-in pantry is at one end and a large eating nook at the other. The kitchen sink faces a wide window that overlooks a covered porch and allows you to see who's coming up the walkway to the front door. The nook's garage access is convenient for unloading groceries and other supplies.

Bay windows wrap around the front of a formal living room or parlor. This room is vaulted, with still more light coming in from the gable overhead. Despite the many windows, the gable and the covered porch at a minimum here mute direct sunlight, so it won't fade curtains and furniture.

A master suite, with French doors opening on the deck, dominates the right wing. Its huge walk-in closet has several walls of shelves along with typical rod and shelf sections. The bathroom has an oversize spa tub and a separate shower.

Bedrooms two and three share a bathroom and are close to the utility room as well.

State makes list for luxury home sales

PRNewswire – Coldwell Banker Real Estate announced another blockbuster year for the sale of luxury homes – valued at $1 million or more. This represents an all-time record for the Coldwell Banker system, a leader in the luxury category. In 2003, Coldwell Banker affiliates sold 13,816 luxury homes priced over $1 million. This represents an increase of 24 percent from 2002. In addition, Coldwell Banker luxury home sales volume surged 23 percent to $23.3 billion, compared to the $18.9 billion mark set in 2002.

The luxury home market is enjoying one of its most active periods ever," said Alex Perriello, president and CEO, Coldwell Banker Real Estate Corporation. Homeowners have built equity in their homes and, as a result, we are seeing a significant migration of homeowners into the luxury category. We expect activity to remain strong in the luxury category with a rebounding economy.

Highlights from the 2003 Coldwell Banker Luxury Home Sales Report include:

- California continues to dominate the country in luxury home sales with six times more sales in this category than any other state. Florida had the second largest luxury home volume activity.

- In 2003, the most active segment of luxury homes was in the $1 million to $5 million range. Coldwell Banker sold more than 13,000 homes in this price range. In addition, the company reported sales of more than 200 homes in the $5 million to $10 million price range, 22 homes in the range of $10 million to $20 million, and two homes that were sold at over $21 million.

- The average sales price of luxury homes sold by Coldwell Banker affiliates in 2003 was $1.69 million.

Michigan was among the top 30 states with the most luxury home sales by dollar volume from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 2003.

Top five were California, Florida, Massachusetts, Illinois, and New Jersey. Michigan ranked 20 on the list.

Thomas Ervin Let's Talk About Real Estate

"IMPROVEMENTS WORTH MAKING"

If you have decided to stay in your present home, and are going to make improvements, there are some facts you should consider...

Improvements that complement the existing design of your home can be worthwhile. If however you attempt to add a bedroom that can only be accessed by going through another bedroom...

Improvements must be appropriate to the neighborhood. If, as an example, the house is located in an area of homes in the $100,000 price range...

Improvements that increase resale value are those that are visible. If the wiring or plumbing have been updated to meet current city code requirements...

Additional bathrooms can be a good investment if they are located appropriately to the floor plan of the house.

ADVICE Because money spent on improvements may or may not be a good investment, you may want to consider selling this home and purchasing one that has the features and the location that can justify the amount of money invested.

2004 Mercury Monterey

Advertising Feature

CA Report

Anne Fracassa

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

Just the name conjures up old, old memories for me Ford's resurrection of the Mercury Monterey moniker takes me back to the early 1970s

Do you remember that great cop show set in Hawaii - Hawaii Five-O? Steve McGarrett, the show's top cop star, used to tool around the island of Oahu in a jet black Mercury Monterey. Squealing tires was the norm for McGarrett, whether it was chasing a criminal or just taking off from a crime scene

Another memory that's quite fond of the Mercury Monterey was that the 1972 model was my very first car. Bright yellow, with a fast-back. It was my mom's car and she gave it to me after it had been hit by a truck and was totaled. Insurance companies used to allow you to keep a totaled car.

That Mercury Monterey was so cool, too. A 16-year-old with a car like that was cool, too. The thing got something like seven miles to the gallon, but back then a gallon of gas was a quarter. And there were gas wars all the time. Enough about going down memory lane, here. The bottom line is that the 2004 Mercury Monterey is obviously quite a bit different than the vehicle I remember as a kid. It comes from a hearty history and is part of Ford's next step in a return to Mercury's founding philosophy of modern design and smart styling.

Let's start on the outside. The styling is distinct, but still carries the signature effects that defines Mercury. Its styling foundation is decidedly taken from the 2002 Mountaineer and the rest comes from the Mercury Messenger concept vehicle.

The Monterey is Mercury's first long-wheelbase luxury minivan. It incorporates a ton of features that you won't see on some of the other luxury minivans on the market. Stuff like Mercury's own Safety Canopy side curtain air bag system with a rollover sensor.

Other safety features include a reinforced structure to improve offset crash protection, air bags that can sense if someone is sitting in the front passenger seat, a stability enhancement system, three point seat belts for all passenger positions and four wheel anti-lock disc brakes with panic assist.

One thing I noticed about the Monterey was how quiet it was. It was hard to hear the engine turn over with the doors closed. I kept looking at the tach to see if it had started. And the quality of the lack of noise, even when on the freeway, was very comforting. You won't have to turn up the radio on the freeway for once.

The interior of the Mercury Monterey is a little plain, but functional. The instrumentation is logically laid out and is within easy reach of the driver. There are storage bins and cubby holes all over the front cabin.

I was annoyed by the alarming parking sensor that sounded whenever I put the vehicle in reverse or came within three feet of a car in front of me -- like at a traffic light. Although appreciated the spirit of the sensor and why it was created, it was still highly annoying throughout the week. At one point, my 11-year-old said, "enough already!"

The Monterey has power-operated side doors on both sides of the vehicle, which my kids -- and I -- loved. They were able to operate them with ease and actually appreciated the feature. The doors, as they opened or closed, were quite quiet. Quieter than any other vehicle I've tested.

The Monterey also has a power-operated liftgate. One thing that was really great were these larger-than-life -- but highly functional (makes sense) -- door pull handles. It actually makes the doors so much easier to open. Ford was thinking about the roughly six million people under the age of 60 suffering from arthritis on this one. Great idea.

There are a whole number of different ways to outfit the interior of the Monterey from bench seats to captain's chairs to third row seating arrangements. The Monterey tested had bench seats in the third row and captain's chairs in the second and first row of seats. Having the captain's chairs in the second row of seats prevents a ton of "she's touching me" incidents from happening.

And I loved the spy mirror. The kids hated it. It's a little flip-down mirror in the roof-mounted center console area that you can flip down to spy on the kids. It's a concave mirror that's only about three inches across, but allows you to see all rear seating positions clearly and with ease. The kids were on their best behavior because of it. They knew I could see what they were doing.

Another kid-friendly feature is the use of square cupholders for juice boxes. That's cool. I appreciated the fact that the Monterey has heated and cooled seats. Previously, cooled seating was only available on some of the luxury imports. This year, it's also available on the Lincoln LS, Aviator, Navigator and on the Ford Expedition. It's nice to see a feature like that appearing on more mainstream vehicles.

Now, for what's under the hood. The 4.2-liter V6 engine promises 201 horsepower and has the highest torque numbers for a minivan. It's mated to a 4-speed automatic. A couple more facts -- turning circle is a mere 39.5 feet, has 16-inch aluminum wheels, 25.9 inches of cargo room behind the third row of seats and get 16 miles to the gallon in the city and 22 miles per gallon on the highway.

All for a base price of $29,995. The most you'll pay -- with all the bells, whistles and options is $35,525. Not bad for what's in the Monterey. Go take a look at one. It's worth it.
