Fire department gets new leader

BY BRAD KADRICH STAFF WRITER

After some eight months of waiting, the Plymouth Community Fire Department finally has a new chief Capt Randy Maycock, who emerged from Civil Service Act testing as the department's top candidate, this week accepted Plymouth Township Supervisor Steve Mann's offer to become the department's new chief

He starts his new job July 12, replacing former Chief Larry Groth, who retired last fall after nearly 25 years as the department's leader Assistant Chief Mark Wendel has held the job on an interim basis, and will remain with the department, Mann said

"We are extremely pleased," Mann said "It gives us a great member of the fire department who has a wealth of knowledge and experience He'll come to the job with several great ideas and a lot of motivation We're looking forward to that"

Negotiations between Maycock and the township have been ongoing for a couple of months

Maycock delayed taking the job until an agreement could be reached that would allow him to maintain his union benefits in the chief's job, which is a nonrepresented position

The township board recently passed a policy allowing union members who take leadership positions to retain their benefits, clearing the way for Maycock to take the post

"I'm excited about it, and I'm looking forward to working with the guys to make the department grow and prosper," Maycock said "I think it's going to be an exciting challenge"

Mann said the department will benefit from Maycocks leadership

"A little new blood is good," Mann said "It invigorates the troops, and you get a new perspective in there It should lead to new opportunities for the fire department"

Mann had nothing but praise for Wendel, who has filled the job since September

"(Wendel) has provided great leadership in the interim and we appreciate that," Mann said "We look forward to him remaining as our assistant chief"

Plymouth Woman's Club president Tina Powell cuts the cake at the club's last meeting, which ended a 111-year run as a civic organization in Plymouth

Leaving a lasting legacy

Woman's Club bows out after a century of service

BY BRAD KADRICH STAFF WRITER

What started more than 100 years ago as a study group and became one of the Plymouth community's most prolific civic groups has gone away

The Plymouth Woman's Club, which got its start in 1893 as a group studying American history, held its final meeting May 7 before turning all of its archival material over to the Plymouth Historical Museum for historical safekeeping

The club, forced to disband by declining membership and revenue, leaves behind a legacy of which its members are proud

"I think (the club) gave the impetus to a lot of good things that happened," said Mary Fritz, past president and a member since the 1970s "The big emphasis was on civic giving and enlightening women of the era. There was a big movement after World War I, when women's clubs were prominent in town Women were able to band together to do something for the good of humanity"

"Things really changed after World War II, when women got into the work force," Fritz added, "but at one time, this was a very important thing"

The club's civic giving has been extensive, from handing out scholarships to putting together the "Mitten Tree," every year collecting hats, scarves and mittens for those who need them The club provided financial assistance to 13 different organizations, collected food for the Plymouth Salvation Army and supported the Dress for Success program through donations of clothes for those needing to have a more business-type attire in the work place

As any longstanding organization does, the Plymouth Woman's Club has gone through a number of changes Five years after it was formed, the group changed its name to the Women's Literary Club of Plymouth and took in $19.35 Dues back then cost 50 cents

In 1905, with the group's membership at 36 (with 15 "associate" members), the group appointed a civic committee Lecture courses were started with the goal of funding a library After seven years, though, the decision was made the project was too large, and it was discontinued The $200 they'd raised was saved for future library books

On April 1, 1920, the group officially became the Woman's Club, and Articles of Association were signed and recorded

The club entered the 1970s with more than 200 members Meetings took place at St. John's Episcopal Church, then moved to First Presbyterian Church on Church Street in March 1981 The club moved to First United Methodist Church in the 1990s

The club has always been active in social issues For instance, the group sent a barrel of canned fruit to Home of the Friendless in Detroit way back in 1899 In 1903, it gave money for Belgian

City floats water rate increase

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Barbara Trudell tries to conserve water as much as she can

But, while planting flowers in the front yard of her Harvey Street home Friday, even Trudell said there's a limit

"I try to conserve, but you can't let them die," she said of the new alysium she just bought on sale "You've got to water them if God doesn't I try to do it wisely by watering early in the morning or at the end of the day"

Trudell said she's conservative on how much water she uses taking baths, washing dishes and cleaning clothes But, when she heard about water rates possibly going up another $5.16 a month, Trudell said it's just like everything else going up in cost

"I'm on a fixed income, and $5 wouldn't kill me, but that's just one more item," she said "Gasoline is going sky high, Consumers Energy is going up a lot, electricity is going up Where does it all end?"

City commissioners will get a second recommendation Monday night from City Manager Paul Sincock, this time to raise water rates 10.6 percent

Sincock said the increase will help put money in the water and sewer fund that will pay for half of the $600,000 Ross Street improvements this summer

"That's a gamble because what that does is fund the Ross Street improvements at 50 percent and provides no additional cash accumulation," Sincock said

Finance Director Mark Christiansen said the 10.6-percent increase will add $344,000 to the water and sewer fund Last month, commissioners turned down an administration request to increase rates by 18.3 percent, which would have added $592,000 to the fund

"When we get water main breaks, it can cost between $100,000-$250,000 to repair," said Christiansen

Auditors have recommended to the city it have a cash reserve of $15 million in the water and sewer fund

Commissioners will discuss water rates at its regular meeting Monday, which will be held in Kellogg Park

SOCCER PARK DEBUT

The public is invited to take part in the official grand opening celebration of Lake Pointe Soccer Park, Plymouth Township's newest recreational facility, at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 8.

Light refreshments will be served. The park is located on Haggerty Road, just north of Schoolcraft and the M-14 Expressway. Although the park will be open to the public, the two soccer fields will not be available for use until the fall season.

The park also has many other features, including a walking path, a picnic and children's play area, and a shelter with restrooms. The shelter will accommodate approximately 80 people and is available for rental.

For further information on the park, or to make reservations for the shelter, contact the Department of Public Services at (734) 453-8131, Ext. 33.

TOILETRIES NEEDED

The Plymouth Salvation Army got what it needed for its pantry shelves in a recent food drive with the Plymouth Post Office.

Now, the Army is looking to add toiletries to its supply cupboard.

The Salvation Army is looking for donations of things such as toilet paper, facial tissues, feminine hygiene products, paper towels, razors and deodorant to add to the packages it hands out to families who need it.

Donations can be dropped off at the Plymouth Salvation Army office, 9451 S. Main. For more information, call (734) 453-5464.

Options for a permanent replacement are still being explored.

Mirage," a summer day camp program for children ages 8-14.

Oasis offers 19 different camps with everything from model rocketry to theater, from soccer to "girl power" camp. All camps, with the exception of horseback riding, take place on Oasis' redesigned former golf course.

The goal, according to Oasis marketing director Cara Gray, is to 'provide the feel and camaraderie of an overnight camp in the setting of a day camp.' In addition to specified camp activities, each camper will get to use the 80-foot ship-slide and climb a 30-foot rock wall. Each camp also includes a session on the Mirage Adventure Challenge course, learning team-building and leadership skills.

More than 600 campers are already registered, with room for some 1,100. For more information, call (734) 420-4655.

SOCCER REGISTRATION

The City of Plymouth Department of Parks and Recreation will begin to accept registrations for the Fall Youth Soccer season. Open registration will take place all during the month of June. Registration forms may be downloaded from the City's web site starting June 1st. Complete soccer information is available by checking out the Web site at www.ci.plymouth.mi.us.

CHEER MADNESS

The Plymouth High School varsity cheerleaders host a cheer clinic for girls in kindergarten through eighth grade from 9 a.m.-noon Thursday, June 17.

Cost for the clinic is $30, with additional girls from the same family costing $10. The price includes a t-shirt.

House of Bread owner Mark Dennis over looks the construction of his new store in Plymouth Township

Bringing home the bread

Bakery owner gets rise out of new career

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

About a year ago, Mark Denis decided the corporate world wasn't what he wanted anymore. Being the director of the Ford division at Yazaki, sitting in an office, wasn't where he saw his future.

In trying to decide what he wanted to do, Denis remembered the pleasant atmosphere he always felt whenever he visited a bakery.

"When you walk into a bread store, people always seemed to be in a good mood," said Denis. "And, the customer is always in a good mood. It's a positive environment."

Denis decided he wanted a bakery of his own, and recently opened the House of Bread in the Busch's shopping center on Sheldon Road at Five Mile.

"We have 20 different types of breads, cinnamon rolls in the morning, along with muffins and scones and, of course, freshly roasted coffee," he said. "Here, we do everything from scratch. We're grinding the flour, and we're not using eggs or oils in our breads."

People want natural and freshly baked products, Denis added. "Not all places make things from scratch. They buy them frozen and put them in the oven and call them freshly baked."

The House of Bread has the feel of an old-time bakery, with a vintage stove from the Detroit Stove Company and a Vernors ginger ale cooler adding to the nostalgia.

And, as with all House of Bread stores, there's a mural of a wheat field, which was designed and painted by two Plymouth-Canton high school students.

Denis said the key to the business is at 4 a.m., when the baker has fresh product ready for when the doors open at 7 a.m.

Before you buy, Denis has samples of the fare of the day, with a money-back guarantee on the bread if it spoils.

"We use honey as a natural preservative and to sweeten our breads," he said. "Many places went to corn syrup when the price of honey went up, but it's not a preservative. If the bread goes bad, bring it in and

"Many people think they're cheating if they eat the bread, but we have nutritional values on the menu," he said. "There's not much fat in our breads."

Nancy Sabol of Northville Township said she likes having a bakery near her home. "I'm glad to see it, we don't have anything on this side of town, unless you go downtown," said Sabol, who purchased whole wheat and herb pesto breads to go along with the chili she was preparing. "We really like the fresh breads."

Denis said he gets his preserves from Rocky Top Farms near Traverse City, and incorporates them into gift baskets which include breads, cookies and bread dippers.

House of Bread is open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. on Saturday, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

family get a pizza, take it to the park and relax.

"That's what makes Plymouth and that's why I pay more to live here," she said. "I'd hate to lose them."

City officials thought Lyons and residents like her would see a drop in the number of events this summer, especially after the city commission voted to begin charging organizers for services such as police, setup and cleanup. After looking at million-dollar budget deficits, the city decided it could no longer host the events for free.

However, quite the opposite has occurred. City Manager Paul Snock said his calendar shows nearly 60 scheduled events for June, July and August alone.

"Part of it is people have an understanding of the city's financial plight," said Snock. "Clearly, we cannot be a sponsor of every event, and people are looking at creative ways to have events in one of the premier locations in southeast Michigan."

For Bob Anderson, director of the Plymouth Downtown Development Authority, creative was finding sponsors to fund the 13 annual Music in the Air concerts in Kellogg Park, which began Friday.

Anderson said it will cost an additional $600 per concert to pay for city services such as setting up the band shell, lighting, cleanup and police patrol. That's an additional $7,800 for the entire concert series, which already was above $20,000.

"We're fortunate to have generous sponsorships," said Anderson. "Most of it is covered."

Anderson said the concerts are possible because of people like Fred Sanderson at Plymouth Guitar, who does the booking of talent for free.

This year, Community Financial paid $13,000 to become the main sponsor.

"Music in the Air is a unique community activity, and we wanted to make sure we did our part in keeping it going," said Roger Ballard, president of Community Financial. "We have a real strong focus to be a good citizen of the community we served for 50 years, and we want to walk the talk.

And, there are the 18 businesses and individuals who have taken up sponsorships, paying up to $600 per concert.

Tom Piotrowski, owner of Delta Diamond Setters & Jewelers on Ann Arbor Trail, said sponsoring the concerts has nothing to do with attracting customers to his store, because his business is closed by the time concert-goers flock downtown.

The events bring a lot of people, and it shows off the town and park," said Piotrowski. "My feeling is the more exposure we give our town, the more we get benefits indirectly. People will like what they see and come back to shop."

When the Plymouth Community Arts Council found out it had to begin paying for noon-time kids' concerts, it already had the budget set for its 10 shows in Kellogg Park.

"We had to scramble to cover it," said Debra Madonna, who organizes the concert series. Our sponsor, New Liberty Bank, covered us with our performers, and we just couldn't go back and tell them it was going to cost more. It's a lot of work trying to find sponsors, whether it's for $1,000 or $10,000.

The PCAC went to the Jack Wilcox Foundation and was able to secure money to pay for city services.

Stella Greene is not only the PCAC executive director who negotiated with the Wilcox Foundation, but the city's mayor who agrees the city needs to charge for services for all events.

"We wish we didn't have to do that, but it's the reality of where we're at now," said Greene. "We hope the organizations will have patience with us and continue to do all the appreciated events, and the city will do its part in keeping the costs as efficient as we can."

It will be the third year that New Liberty Bank has sponsored Music in the Park on Wednesday afternoons. President and Chief Executive Officer Mike Weaver said it wasn't a tough decision to sink $6,000 to sponsor the events.

"The things we sponsor are typically causes I feel strongly about," said Weaver. "With school funding and the arts in a budget crisis, if we're going to contribute to the community those are higher impact things

Steven Dodge of the 24th Michigan Infantry carried the American flag during last year's Fourth of July parade, one of dozens of events hosted in the city during the year.

Weaver said getting exposure for his bank is also a consideration in sponsoring events.

"We're a community bank and part of our mission is to give back to the community," he said. "But, we're not in the business to give money away, either."

To that extent, New Liberty gives out a children's lawn chair at the Music in the Park events with the bank's logo on it. And, the business name is mentioned on all fliers and is announced at the event.

Without sponsorships, the annual Good Morning USA Fourth of July Parade would be history. This year, organizer Fred Hill had to come up with an additional $5,500 because the Downtown Development Authority reduced its appropriation by $2,000 and the city will charge $3,500 for services.

Hill said the parade has become so popular, he's been fortunate in getting sponsors to come up with the $25,000 it takes to put on the event.

"We seem to have extra good luck in getting sponsors," he said. "People are very responsive for this event, as they always are in Plymouth."

The Kiwanis Club of Colonial, Plymouth is the major sponsor, putting in $5,000 plus time and labor for the parade. Other sponsors pay $1,000 each and Hill said they have about 20 thus far, with a few more in the wings.

Summer concert series hits Kellogg Park

Plymouth's Downtown Development Association kicked off the summer events season in downtown Plymouth Friday, with the start of its annual "Music in the Air" free concert series.

The concerts, sponsored by Community Financial, take place at 7 p.m. every Friday in Kellogg Park. The rest of the series:

■ June 11 — Lady Sunshine and the X Band, returns for an evening of soulful rhythm-and-blues

■ June 18 — Roots Vibration, an evening of sounds from Spain and Latin America with The Troubadors, followed by the rich Reggae/Caribbean sound of Roots Vibration

■ June 25 — Mass Transit returns with their variety of oldies and American classics

■ July 2 — Red, White, Bluegrass & Blues. An American Music Celebration, featuring the Cass Avenue Ramblers, followed by Harmonica Shah & Howard Glazer

■ July 9 — No concert because of Art in the Park.

■ July 16 — The Warren Commission, featuring vocalist Suzy Marsh, fresh from her Detroit Music Awards nomination as Best Female Jazz Vocalist

■ July 23 — Steve King & The Dittulies. Veteran Oldies King provides a great evening of family entertainment

■ July 30 — Thornetta Davis for blues and R&B

■ Aug. 6 — King Sweat, playing R&B, classic soul and some rock-&-roll

■ Aug. 13 — Bobby Lewis & The CrackerJack Band. The final appearance by The CJB at Music in the Air, as the Dean of Detroit Rock & Roll retires this year

■ Aug. 20 — Impact 7 revue-style show featuring music from Motown to Earth, Wind & Fire

■ Aug. 27 — Pamela Ransford & The Plymouth Guitar Band

■ Sept. 3 — September Surprise featuring mystery guests

Township settles on new hall architect

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

In a move that will come as no surprise, Plymouth Township Supervisor Steve Mann will recommend to the board of trustees they hire A3C, an architectural design firm based in Ann Arbor, to do the design work for the new township hall.

The $12 million project is set for some nine acres of land at Haggerty and Ann Arbor Road, and board members have been reviewing architect bids the last several weeks. At a meeting last week, the board gave Mann and a negotiating committee permission to talk to A3C and THA of Flint. A3C's original bid came in around $551,000, in fact, five of the six bids that received final consideration were for more than $500,000. Only Architects and Planner Inc. of Plymouth was lower, at $235,000.

After further negotiations, A3C dropped its bid to an even $500,000, a 10-percent drop. THAs final bid was $490,000.

"We're bidding for professional services, and even though THAs bid is $10,000 less, there were some things in A3C's bid that were more appealing," said Treasurer Ron Edwards, who helped Mann negotiate the final bid.

At least four of the seven board members - Mann, Edwards, Clerk Marilyn Messing and trustee Kay Arnold - were ready to award the bid after the board's May 25 meeting. But the four listened to appeals from trustee Chuck Curm to narrow the field to two and negotiate a better price.

The board is expected to vote on Mann's proposal at Tuesday's regular meeting, set for 7 p.m. in the township hall meeting room.

Local man pushes gay marriage ban petition drive

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

A petition proposing to amend the Michigan Constitution to ban gay and lesbian marriage is the first effort in which Canton resident John Miner has ever been involved.

"I have never been involved in any activist type of situation," said the retired supermarket equipment salesman.

But Miner said he has watched other states address gay marriages and states, such as Massachusetts, which have allowed gay marriages. He decided it was time to get involved.

Miner joined up with Citizens for the Protection of Marriage, led by Farmington Hills resident Marlene Elwell. The coalition was formed in early April when the issue of maintaining heterosexual relationships as the only legally recognized form of marriage failed to get a two-thirds majority in the Michigan Legislature.

The only thing left was a petition drive, said Miner, a coalition coordinator for Wayne County.

Jeff Montgomery, executive director of the Triangle Foundation, said his organization worked to defeat the legislative vote. "We appealed to the better instincts of the members of the state House."

Montgomery called the petition effort "mean-spirited, heavy-handed and a form of gay bashing. They are trying to elevate bigotry and prejudice to a constitutional amendment. It should offend everyone."

This is the first time in Michigan's history that an organization is attempting to specifically and explicitly single out one segment of society for second-class status," Montgomery said. "The whole intent of the Michigan Constitution has been to expand rights and access and privileges to people."

Steadfastly saying he and other coalition members will not discuss or debate the rejection of gay marriage - at least at this point in the petition drive - Miner said the only goal is to place the issue on the November ballot.

To do that, coalition members need 350,000 signatures (by July 6). This is a massive effort, Miner said. A lot of people said it can't be done."

The coalition, according to Elwell, includes thousands of grass-roots activists all across Michigan and with coordinators already in 65 of Michigan's 83 counties."

The proposed amendment says "To secure and preserve the benefits of marriage for our society and for future generations of children, the union of one man and one woman shall be the only agreement recognized as a marriage or similar union for any purpose."

Elwell uses Massachusetts as an example. "Activist judges decided to thwart the will of the people, the Legislature and the governor and invoke a policy that is wrong," she said. "And today, in the state of Massachusetts, marriage will cease to be a union between one man and one woman."

In Michigan, five existing laws prohibit gay and lesbian marriage. "Why do we need another one?" Montgomery asked.

Triangle Foundation, which offers victim services for gays and lesbians, has noticed a dramatic increase in crimes against homosexuals, from the time the U.S. Supreme Court struck down sodomy laws, followed by well-publicized gay marriages in San Francisco, Massachusetts and Ontario, Montgomery said.

Coalition members have targeted churches and organizations rather than a door-to-door effort. "This not just a Christian endeavor, but a family endeavor," he said, adding synagogues and mosques have joined the effort.

Miner got involved after he saw news about gay weddings on the east and west coasts. "I heard from Marlene and I asked her if she needed help," he said. "I started out in a much smaller capacity."

Miner said he has been overwhelmed with the petition drive's response, though he will not say how many signatures have been gathered.

"We're seeing a ripple effect. It seems to be growing exponentially. The people who are signing it are the silent moral majority. They wouldn't talk about the issue before because it was not politically correct," Miner said.

The bottom line, Miner and Elwell said, is to let people vote on the issue.

relief. In 1915, members campaigned against liquor and cigarettes and supported the women's suffrage amendment.

In 1922, the group gave books to the local branch of the Wayne County Library. During World War II, the club sponsored a Red Cross sewing room, sent packages to men in service and donated $1,016 it raised from dances to the Veterans' Memorial Foundation.

The club, which became known for the scholarships it gave, held its first scholarship gala in 1983. Over the years, the club has handed out hundreds of scholarships to high school seniors planning to attend a college or university and who had given of themselves to the community.

The best thing about the scholarship program, according to its mentors, was it carried no income level requirements.

It helped so many students who were ineligible for (other) scholarships to be recognized," said K.C. Mueller, the club's scholarship program coordinator. "Financial situations were normally involved (with other programs), and we didn't have that in our scholarship program."

"It didn't matter what kind of income the parents had," she added. "We recognized the kids because of their contributions to the community and their hard work in school. That was special to so many parents."

In the later years, membership began to dwindle. At the time the club disbanded, membership was down to 64 members, although 13 were Life Members (those active for 40 years or more).

At its last meeting, club members turned over all their material to the museum, including minutes for every meeting dating back to 1893. That's 111 years of legacy the club leaves behind.

"I think of it probably mostly in terms of the influence the club has had in the community," said Tina Powell, the club's last president. "The club should be remembered best for its fellowship and for working for the community. We wanted to do as much as we could, and it certainly had a wonderful history of being able to accomplish that."

D-Day anniversary stirs many memories of forgotten heroes

This weekend, this nation will celebrate and honor the men who dropped from the skies and charged the Normandy beaches on D-Day.

We'll see the old newsreels and modern tributes and hear about Dwight D. Eisenhower. This will be an especially poignant anniversary because, before long, there will be no more survivors to give interviews.

But I will remember a sort of gawky kid who I feel like I knew, a kid who bitterly hated the idea of war and everything about it. His name was Bob Swarthout, and when it all began, he was a student at Wayne State University, who wanted to be a reporter and have a normal life.

Wayne was really just an overgrown city college then, and most of the classes were in a huge old building that was once Central High School. They called it then, as now, Old Main, and then, as now, Wayne was the best school Detroit-area kids could attend if they didn't have connections or money.

What it did have was a good student newspaper, and Bob Swarthout rose to be its editor. His best columnist was a young woman named Helen Thomas, who went on to be a journalism legend. There is a myth that all Americans, especially the young and progressive, couldn't wait to get into the war.

That was, in fact, broadly true of the faculty. Wayne students mostly thought that was a very poor idea, because they were the ones who would have to fight it. In blistering editorial after editorial, Swarthout denounced war. When a faculty petition called for us to declare war, he went ballistic.

"They would plunge the country once again into the bloody and hell-torn raging inferno that is Europe," he wrote. "They have mounted the mad elephant of propaganda, and with other intellectuals of the land will ride him to the death."

Swarthout, who had grown up during the Great Depression, didn't want death. He wanted a life. He had helped start Wayne's first basketball team. His columns spoke of normal college stuff — he wanted a girlfriend, found a girlfriend, had the usual problems with his girlfriend.

He spent too much time at the paper, fighting with the academic adviser (the days when students could print whatever they wanted hadn't yet arrived) and his grades suffered. He worried about graduation, he worried about finding a job.

And he worried about eager armchair generals dragging us into war. He was pleased when a young professor quit the faculty and went to Canada and enlisted. Good. Anyone who wants to be in the war should follow his example, and live up to your convictions without inflicting them on us, he snorted.

What he wanted was for times to get better and for Wayne State to become a real university, with a campus and a student union.

Then came Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941. And everything changed. The next editorial had the headline, today eerily reminiscent of Sept. 11, "United We Stand." Now his country had been attacked. "We must lick hell out of them," he pounded out on his manual typewriter. "Every action, every deed, every thought must be calculated on the basis of whether it helps or hinders victory."

The next spring, he graduated, and his girlfriend married him, and Bob enlisted in the Army Air Corps. Helen Thomas went off to Washington. Soon, nobody on campus remembered him.

Then, one day in the fall of 1944, as the German army was retreating across France, the Daily Collegian got a letter from someone who had known Bob Swarthout, and had heard him talk about the newspaper and the school.

America's air superiority was pretty much total on D-Day, which was the main reason the Germans were unable to push the invaders back into the sea. Swarthout had been a bombardier on a B-24 which pounded the concrete defenses on Omaha Beach. The Nazis shot down very few planes that day.

But they got his. It went down in the English Channel, and his body was apparently never found. His death was swallowed up in a tidal wave of death that day.

When the war started, they turned off the light in Old Main's tower, lest it become a target. It has been a little bit of beauty in our drab surroundings, he had written. "And in the darkness, students have looked at the light tower and imagined it as the focal point of a new, enlarged and modern campus."

Today the light is shining again, and Wayne State University has a new, sprawling and largely modern campus, and a huge student union.

Nobody remembers the boy who opposed the war, and who died on D-Day, two years before President Bush was born. And so from my generation, who grew up to have all the things he missed out on, I say, simply, "Thanks."

Development nominee sees Pittsburgh-Detroit parallels

You want us to move where?"

You can just imagine the conversation when Dr. Mulugetta Birru told his wife and three daughters that he wanted to take a job in Detroit as the executive director of the new Wayne County Economic Development Corporation.

It's not that rust-belt Detroit is too different from rust-belt Pittsburgh. But home is home. "They all said you must not leave Pittsburgh, because Pittsburgh is our home base," Birru said at a reception Wednesday to meet press and economic development staff.

But Birru, the executive director of the Urban Redevelopment Authority of Pittsburgh, was interested in making a new beginning and was enticed by the prospect of being the first executive director of a public/private development partnership.

"Government can not do it by itself and, frankly, the private sector can't do it by itself," he said.

When he was contacted about the job by the headhunter Compass Group of Birmingham, he was intrigued. After meeting with businessman Frank Hennessey, chairman of the Economic Development Advisory Committee and Search Committee, and Larry Simmons, director of strategic planning for Wayne County, he was hooked.

"I went back to my angry family and told them I had a good time in Detroit," Birru said.

It will be interesting to see whether he'll continue to have a good time in the Motor City. Wayne County faces many of the same economic problems he faced in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County.

Birru, 57, has been nominated for the new $175,000 a year position by County Executive Robert Ficano. The county commission is expected to approve the appointment. He would start his new position in August.

Hugh Gallagher

Birru's first job will be organizational. The new organization — modeled on the Michigan Economic Development Corporation — will be organized as a 501(c)(3) nonprofit and privately funded. Under the model, Birru will report to Ficano and a corporate board weighted with Ficano appointees.

Hennessey said he was impressed by Birru's intelligence and his understanding of the problems of an older industrial area. He also said Birru has a lot of work ahead of him.

Birru is a native of Ethiopia, with the most musical accent heard in Wayne County this side of Bill Lucas. He has a bachelor's degree from Addis Ababa University, master's degrees from Syracuse University and a doctorate in public and international affairs from the University of Pittsburgh. He is an adjunct professor at Carnegie Mellon University.

According to Pittsburgh newspaper reports, Birru might be leaving the steel city because of frustrations with development problems and city financial problems.

An article by Dave Copeland of the Pittsburgh Tribune-Review points to the failure of a plan to develop retail in the downtown corridor. Birru brought two major department stores to the downtown Lazarus-Macy, which closed last month, and Lord & Taylor, set to close next year.

"I honestly have no regrets about the Lazarus building or the Lord & Taylor building because now we have discussions with developers on those two buildings," Birru told Copeland. On Wednesday, he said that not all retail development has failed. He added that the first priority for developing the city is creating viable residential areas.

On Wednesday, Birru drew parallels between Detroit and Pittsburgh. He said it was too soon for him to set a vision, but he said he sees the possibilities. "The problems here are the same as in Pittsburgh. Auto plants are similar to steel plants. When the last steel plant closed down in Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh did not panic," he said. "They said this land will be converted to productive use. I see the same analogy here. I see a lot of abandoned buildings in Detroit. That's what I saw in Pittsburgh, and to me those were assets. When I see those empty buildings I see those kind of conversions."

Birru left the "vision thing" to Ficano. Ficano has outlined several major projects: development of the I-94 corridor, especially the area around and between the county's two airports, Metro and Willow Run, completion of the commercial tunnel between Detroit and Windsor, and expanding foreign trade opportunities.

Ficano is especially excited about working with Magna Corp., which is seeking a license to build a racino in Romulus but is also interested in locating a research and development center for its auto parts operations near the airport. He said the company is ready to invest $185 million in the first phase of its plan and another $185 million in the second phase.

That's a hefty agenda. But Ficano and Hennessey both believe Birru has the energy, the expertise and the battle scars to carry it forward.

Now if he can just convince his family that Wayne County really is a fine place to relocate.

Salem booted from playoffs

Pioneer ends stalemate with 5-4 shootout victory

Sometimes it's a matter of seconds that decides the outcome of a game. This time, it was a matter of an inch or so. Salem and Ann Arbor Pioneer battled through 110 minutes of playing time — 80 minutes of regulation, 30 of sudden-death overtime — with neither team able to find the net in Saturday's Division 1 district soccer final at Canton HS. Which meant a penalty-kick shootout.

First kickers on both teams, Salem's Melissa Sarkesian and Pioneer's Sarah Burns, converted. Prior to the Rocks' second kicker, Halle Burton, taking her shot, Pioneer coach Chris Morgan asked the referee to ask the Salem rooters to quiet down when his kickers were shooting. It was a distraction and an unfair advantage.

A reasonable request. The announcement was made. Meanwhile, Burton nervously stood waiting for her try, with Pioneer keeper Erica Goethel bent over in the net, focusing intently.

After waiting an extra minute or so — prior to a game-clinching field goal try in football, don't they call this being the kicker? — Burton got her chance. Her kick was solid, but caught the upper right corner of the net and deflected out.

It proved to be of importance. On the first five kicks, each team missed once, necessitating a sudden-death round of penalty kicks. First team that misses loses.

On the sixth kick, Salem's Megan McCarthy had her shot grabbed by Goethel. Pioneer's Nadia Bitar beat Rocks' keeper Kristen O'Beirne to the lower right corner.

Pioneer got the victory, 5-4 on kicks.

It wasn't an easy win for the Pioneers, now 12-2-5. It wasn't an easy district. "I thought this district was the toughest one in the state next to the one in Northville," said Morgan.

And his team had the toughest road through it, facing crosstown rival Ann Arbor Huron in the first round (Pioneer won 2-1) then shutting out Canton 1-0 in the semifinals (see related story). Salem had only to dispatch Livonia Churchill, which proved to be an easy task, 8-0.

But how do the Pioneers handle the Rocks, with all-state players like Melissa Sarkesian and Jordan Falcusan roaming about?

Not an easy task, but they managed it. "I thought we did a pretty good job shutting down 8 (Sarkesian)," said Morgan. "We gave her some opportunities, some of them on set pieces. And she's dangerous whether its set pieces or with the ball."

Pioneer usually tries to establish its offense through pass-

Crusaders lauded

Call it the final phase of a successful season.

Madonna University's baseball team honored six players with special awards, including the first ever Bryan Rizzo Champion of Character Award. That award, named for Madonna's current athletic director and created from an NAIA initiative to promote the true spirit of competition through respect, integrity, responsibility, servant leadership and sportsmanship, went to senior pitcher Ben Galus.

The team's most valuable player was junior outfielder Joe Greene. Greene had a solid all-around year, batting .358 with a team-best 18 doubles and 17 stolen bases. He also had a triple, five home runs and 38 runs batted in, scoring 35 runs and playing errorlessly in right field. He was named to the all-Wolverine Hoosier Athletic Conference first team.

The Crusaders' offensive MVP honors were captured by sophomore outfielder Preston Picard (Farmington HS). Picard led Madonna in eight offensive categories: batting average (.382), at-bats (186), runs (43), hits (71), triples (five), home runs (eight), total bases (117) and slugging percentage (.629). Picard was a unanimous selection to the all-WHAC and all-region teams and earned honorable mention All-American honors.

Sophomore second baseman Jason Barbeau was the team's defensive MVP with a .949 fielding average, recording 94 putouts and 95 assists. Senior Chris Behrens was the pitcher of the year, posting a 4-0 record with a 2.59 earned run average over 48 2/3 innings and earning all-conference honors, junior outfielder Tony Kern was the most improved player, going from fifth on the pre-season depth chart to one of the team's best with a .380 average, 12 doubles and 30 RBI; and relief pitcher Kyle Fedorka was the freshman of the year, setting a school record with nine saves and earning all-WHAC accolades.

Madonna finished 14-5 in WHAC play and was 32-25 overall.

Kicks win Gold

The Plymouth Kicks U12 boys select soccer team won the Gold Division of the Canton Cup Memorial Day Soccer Tournament, beating Portage 2-1 in the final with a goal in the second overtime. The Kicks were 3-0-1 for the tournament, outscoring their opponents 10-2. Team members are Giffin Leiting, Andy Dodge, Robbie Barackman, Scott O'Connor, Cody Frederick, Tate Theisen, Sean Walsh, Casey Olson, Matt Montgomery, Brandon Updike, Josh Hill, Ryan Deffrain, Matt Edwards, Josh Bair and Cal Copia. Guest players for the Kicks were Joe Bockstanz, John Getschmann and Taylor Jeffers. Team coaches are Tom Walsh and Steve O'Connor, the trainer is Lucian Popescu.

Rocks reach 2nd round

STATE GOLF

It was an eye-opening experience for Salem's golf team in the first round of the Division 1 Girls State Finals at the Forest Akers West Course at Michigan State Friday.

It wasn't bad, but it wasn't really that great, either.

In their first trip to the state tournament, the Rocks shot 399, led by Ashley Smith's 87, which put her in a tie for 12th overall. In the team standings, Salem was ninth in the 15-team field, which earned the Rocks a spot in the 12-team field on Saturday.

Both Livonia Stevenson and Livonia Ladywood were sitting in eighth place in their respective divisions. Stevenson was 12 strokes ahead of Salem at 387. Grand Blanc led the way with a four-player total of 356.

The other nine teams advancing to Saturday's final round were Ann Arbor Pioneer (360), Rochester (365), Northville (367), Grosse Ile (373), Traverse City Central (375), Lake Orion (379), Ann Arbor Huron (404), Clarkston (424) and Grand Ledge (427).

Salem's other scorers were Jamie Stedlaczek, 97, Amyrose Mitchell, 105, Kristen Schwan, 110, and Danielle Powers, 112.

Stevenson's Rachel McHenry was third in the overall standings with an 83, while teammate Jenny Kubert was tied for eighth with an 86. Other Stevenson scorers included Abbey Wolfe (108), Missy Bartnick (110) and Chrissy McHenry (112).

In the Division II finals at Forest Akers (East Course), Dexter led the team standings with a 325. Ladywood, Okemos and Coldwater were tied for eighth at 373.

Andrea Warzyniec led Ladywood with an 88 followed by Erica Jamrog, 90, Lauren Dickerson, 97, Lauren Doroghazi, 98, and Angela Jamrog, 99.

Canton stymied by Pioneer once again

It seemed only a matter of time.

Canton dominated play early in its state district soccer match against Ann Arbor Pioneer, played Thursday at Canton. Possession had been a recent concern for Chiefs' coach Don Smith after his team lost twice in a row to Salem.

That wouldn't be a problem this game. But scoring would be.

Because while the Chiefs dominated the action for the majority of the game, they never found the net. The result was a second-straight season-ending loss to Pioneer, this time by a 1-0 score.

Canton, which spent a good portion of the season unbeaten and atop the MHSAA's Division 1 rankings, finishes at 14-3-3. Pioneer advanced to meet Salem, an 8-0 winner over Livonia Churchill in Thursday's first district semifinal, Saturday in the district final. The game's only goal was scored on the Pioneers' first real opportunity. With 15:14 left in the opening half, Sarah Burns tried to slip between a pair of Canton defenders and was knocked down about 20 yards in front of the Chiefs' goal. Her ensuing free kick deflected off Canton's wall of players, but the ball was not cleared.

Courtney Whittler pounced on it for Pioneer and deposited it behind Canton keeper Brittany Cervi. Those were the Pioneers' first shots on goal.

The goal energized Pioneer and the Ann Arbor team dominated the play the remainder of the half. However, the second half belonged to Canton as the Pioneers slipped into a defensive mode.

"We controlled the second half, but we couldn't put one in," said Canton coach Don Smith.

PLEASE SEE SOCCER, B2

Eric Byrne worked his way through 5 2/3 tough innings against Stevenson, giving up six earned runs, but he got the win. Byrne also had three hits and scored twice.

Chiefs outslug Spartans for a win; Rocks sweep

Win some, lose some and sometimes you just can't finish 'em.

Canton's baseball team warmed up for the Division 1 state district tournament hosted by Salem on Saturday by beating Livonia Stevenson 11-9 in the first game of their double-header Tuesday at Stevenson.

The second game was called after six innings with the score tied, 2-2.

The win and tie left the Chiefs with a 9-21-1 overall record. The Spartans are 7-21-1.

In the Game One victory, Stevenson outhit Canton 13-10 but was victimized by 13 walks issued to the Chiefs.

Eric Byrne got the pitching win for Canton, allowing nine runs (six earned) on 12 hits and five walks in 5 2/3 innings. Dave Mintz got the save, pitching 1 1/3 scoreless innings, giving up one hit and one walk.

Byrne helped his cause at the plate with three hits, two runs scored and a run batted in. Kevin Kwiatkowski had two hits and two runs scored, and Brad Gallison finished with a double, three walks and four RBI. Reece McCabe had a double and two RBI.

For Stevenson, Brad Schmutz had three hits, Mike Evenson got two hits and two RBI, Sean Hostetter had two hits and Brian Alpert had a triple.

"Because the first game took so long, the second game was played with the 3-2 rule (three balls is a walk, two strikes is a strikeout)."

Tom Wolfe, who started for Stevenson, certainly took advantage. Wolfe struck out 18, allowing two runs on three hits.

Russ Bruner pitched the first two innings for Canton, giving up one walk and two strikeouts. Joe Mischler relieved and allowed two runs (one earned) on five hits with seven strikeouts in four innings.

The Chiefs scored twice in the sixth thanks to walks issued to Mintz and Scott Steffes. A double steal put them at second and third for Steve Campbell. His suicide squeeze bunt scored both runs when the throw to

Chiefs' Conlon tosses Unbeaten Jaguars tackle national finalists a 4th no-hitter

Molly Conlon threw her fourth no-hitter of the season Wednesday as Canton shut out Plymouth 12-0.

The Chiefs improved to 24-8-1 with the win.

Melissa Cienuch, Heather Richardson, Kelly Baker and Jackie Perrino each collected two hits for Canton, with Cienuch driving in a run Sarah Anthony had a hit and drove in two runs.

Conlon, a junior, struck out 10 and walked two in improving her pitching record to 15-5-1.

Garden City 2, Franklin 1: The game-winner came in the bottom of the ninth as Ashley Kalmski singled. Ashley Letch followed that with a single and took third on an error. Ritz followed that with a single to plate the winning run.

Ritz had the Cougars' first run of the game in the third as Russell followed Ritz's single with a triple. Franklin countered that in the fourth with an RBI single by Ashley Bonsall that scored Jaleece Lavine. Sara Wagaman had the other hit for Franklin.

Ritz was 3-for-4 for the Cougars, while Russell was 2-for-4 and Smith, Kalmski and Lauren Watts all singled.

WAYNE 6, CRESTWOOD 5: A bases-loaded single by Jena Trudell gave the Zebras the game-winner.

Henning was 3-for-4 with two runs scored, Trudell was 2-for-3 and Angela Shiemke was 2-for-4.

The 4-0 expansion Detroit Jaguars, newcomers to the W-League, will have their hands full Sunday when the national runner-up Chicago Cobras come to town.

The defending Midwest Division champions face the upstart Jaguars, 1 p.m. Sunday at Total Sports Complex, located at Wixom and Grand River roads, in Novi.

"They (Cobras) are the most talented and have the most history," said Jaguars coach and Livonia native Laura Fedrigo. "They've lost only four games in the last eight years."

SOCCER

The Cobras, who went 12-1 before losing to Hampton Roads (Va.) in the national finals, feature five players from WUSA, the now defunct professional women's soccer league, including forward Charmane Hooper, who led the Canadian National Team in scoring at the last World Cup.

Other former WUSA players included defenders Krista Davey and Lindsey Jones, along with midfielder Emily Janss, all from the New York

Power, also midfielder Tara Minnax of the Atlanta Beat.

The Jaguars are off to an impressive start thanks to the early goal scoring binge by Theresa Heaton. The Wheaton, Ill. native, who is entering her junior year at the University of Michigan, has nine goals and one assist for a Midwest Division-leading 19 points. She has a pair of first-half hat tricks.

The defense has allowed less than eight shots per game. Goalkeeper Sarah Buckland, a Canadian native who played at Oakland University, has allowed only one goal.

The Jaguars' roster feature several players with area ties including back-up goalkeeper Stefani Szczecowski, who played at Livonia Ladywood and now is at the University of Wisconsin, Amanda Lentz, Canton High and Penn State, Abi Morrell, Canton and Western Michigan, Stevenson High grads Fedrigo and Michele Brach.

Admission is $8 for adults and $5 for children 12-and-under. For more information, call (734) 634-8832 or visit detroitjaguars.com.

"But we played tough. I can't fault 'em. We played real well in the second half."

Indeed, the Chiefs held a huge advantage in shots on goal in both halves. They outshot Pioneer 9-3 in both for an 18-6 total. Several times they came very close, but none found the mark. "If we could have tied it up, I think we would have taken them in overtime," said Smith. But it never got that far, and for the third time in four years, the Chiefs were eliminated from post-season play by the Pioneers.

Salem 8, Churchill 0: A Livonia Churchill team missing several players who were attending the prom was no match for Salem in Thursday's first state district semifinal at Canton. Lauren Boothroyd knocked in three goals to lead the Rocks' onslaught, which put them into Saturday's district final opposite Ann Arbor Pioneer. Marissa Sarkesian quarterbacked the offense, scoring one goal and assisting on five others.

Genna Foster contributed two goals and an assist, and Jordan Falcusan collected a goal and an assist. Alicia Hay also scored a goal and Amy Gizicki got an assist.

Kristen O'Beirne and Alyssa Guern divided time in goal for the shutout.

"All in all, it was a good game," said Salem coach Joe Nora. "We set the tone from the beginning. We played physical, we won the 50-50 balls and pretty much everything out of the air."

"That set the tone for the rest of the game."
Churchill ends its season at 6-13.

Terek scores well at international meet

With the U.S. Olympic Trials less than seven weeks away, decathlete Paul Terek gained some valuable international experience last weekend when he placed eighth in the 30th Hypo-Bank Combined Events Meeting in Gotzis, Austria.

The Livonia Franklin High grad and two-time Big Ten decathlon champion from Michigan State, scored 8,161 points out of 30 competitors who started, including reigning world champion Tom Pappas, who trains out of Knoxville, Tenn.

Roman Serble of the Czech Republic placed first with 8,842 and Pappas was second with 8,732.

"Overall it was beneficial because I scored 8,161 with not great results," said Terek, only the third American ever to score over 8,000 points in the Gotzis meet. "For the Trials I'll be in better shape and I'll be able to put stuff in the bank and sharpen up."

Terek's best showing came in

the 400-meter dash where he ran 48.78 seconds, just off his personal best.

He cleared 17-8.5 in his specialty, the pole vault (Terek is a former NCAA indoor runner-up in the pole vault with a personal best 18-8.25 and still holds the Michigan prep record).

In Gotzis, located at the base of the Alps, Terek's other marks came in the high jump (6 feet, 4.25 inches), long jump (23-11), 100 dash (11.04 into a headwind), shot put (51-4.5), 110 hurdles (15.4), discus (145-7), javelin (191-9), 1,500 run (4:41.86).

"I lost 100 points in the high jump and my long jump, shot put, high jump, even the 400, should be better at the Trials," Terek said. "I hit a dry spell in the discus. So, for a week I worked out with one of the Stanford coaches (Richard Weir) and I'm feeling much better about that now, too."

Terek, 24, trains year-round in San Luis, Obispo, Calif. and belongs to the World's Greatest Athletes Chiropractic Decathlon Club. He was accompanied on the trip to Austria by Pappas, competitor Stephen Harris (also of the U.S. and the 2003 NCAA champion), WGC director Harry Marra and his chiropractor.

"We had a great time," Terek said. "It was good to get out and compete and the benefit was know I'm ready to compete."

The decathlon portion of the U.S. Trials is July 16-17 in Sacramento, Calif. with the top three finishers going to the 2004 Summer Olympic Games Aug. 14-29 in Athens, Greece. Last year Terek finished third in the U.S. Nationals, scoring a personal best 8,275 points and took 12th in the World Championships last August in Paris, France despite being disqualified in the 110 hurdles.

ing, but Morgan knew that wouldn't work against Salem. "We concentrated on our defense and played long balls over their defense," he said. "Defense is our strength and we know that. We're not an offensive team."

The Pioneer defense was the difference in this match. Salem controlled the play, but could not crack it.

"We had a game plan and followed it," said Rocks' coach Joe Nora. "That's why I'm proud of them. There was nothing to be ashamed of. Their keeper (Goethel) was huge. She was the difference today."

That and perhaps an inch or so of metal pipe that extends over the net.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

The Top 50 Junior Golf Tour, presented by the Michigan Section PGA, is seeking volunteers to help with its upcoming junior golf season

The tour is a southeast Michigan golf tour designed to give boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 18 the opportunity to earn scholarship money to further their educations after high school while promoting the growth of the game

"We have experienced tremendous growth in the tour throughout the sign-up period so far this spring," said tour director Dan Thomas. "Due to that growth, we could certainly use the assistance of anyone that could help us out"

"Anyone that likes golf and likes working with young people is more than welcome. We could use additional folks to help us by working as starters, for tournament registration and sign in, scoring and transportation"

Interested volunteers should contact Thomas at (248) 321-9900

The Top 50 Junior Tour consists of 10 qualifiers and 10 tournaments, played on Michigan public and private courses between June 15 and Aug. 20

GOLF OUTING

The annual Salem Rocks Football Golf Outing will start at 11 a.m. Saturday, June 19, at Hickory Creek Golf Course. The scrambles format event includes 18 holes of golf, cart, lunch at the turn, dinner and prizes

The cost is $85 per person. Optional games are $10 per person. Dinner for non-golfers is $20 per person. Register as an individual or team by June 12

Chiefs capture 5 golds at Meet of Champions

It was just what the track coach would have ordered

Top-notch competition with nothing, as far as the team is concerned, on the line. No pressure like that.

There would be enough of that to come when Canton's boys track team traveled to Rockford HS for the Division 1 state finals. Nine Chiefs, by virtue of their performances at the state regional May 21-22, would be making the trip.

Which made Wednesday's Meet of Champions at Ypsilanti HS important but pleasurable. No team scores were kept, but many of the area's best track athletes were competing.

As Canton boys coach Bob Richardson said, "It was a good tune-up for this weekend."

TRACK

Maybe better for some Brad Waidmann, for instance, collected a couple of first-place finishes, winning the discus (150-foot, 1-inch) and the high jump (6-2).

Waidmann competed in the high jump at state.

But even Waidmann could not match the performance of Rodney Preston.

The junior hurdler shattered the Canton school record, set last year by Steve Kiljanczyk, in the 110-meter hurdles by 4, winning the event in 14.4.

His previous best had been 14.9.

Preston also captured top honors in the 300 hurdles, winning in 4:00, and he combined with Cyrus Azizi, D'Angelo Pitts and Andy Rossow to finish second in the 4x400 relay (3:28.4).

Julian Smith was Canton's other standout, winning the long jump (20-11 1/2) and placing fourth in the 110 hurdles (15.3).

The Chiefs' 4x100 relay team of Kevin Burdette, Smith, Dave Cahille and Devin Thomas was second (43.8), so was their 4x200 relay of Rossow, Burdette, Cahille and Thomas (1:32.3).

Other top-five performances for Canton came from Matt McClellan, fourth in the high jump (5-8), Derek Reeves, fifth in the pole vault (12-0), Azizi, fifth in the 400 (52.4), and Scott George, fifth in the 3,200 (10:25.0).

BASEBALL

first was errant

On May 29, Canton lost twice to Redford Catholic Central, 5-3 and 5-4, at CC.

The Chiefs totaled just nine hits in the two games, Mintz doubling home two runs in the first game and Tarik Khasawneh collecting two hits (Brian Whiting took the loss), and Rich DeMeyere getting two hits, a two-run single in the first and a two-run homer in the seventh, in the second game (Joe Mischler got the loss).

Salem 8-12, Milford 0-1: The Rocks concluded their regular season with a sweep of Milford Wednesday at Milford.

In the first game, Nic England improved his pitching record to 6-3-1 with a three-hit shutout of the Redskins

Andy Thackaberry slugged his sixth home run of the season, a two-run shot in the third inning, to spark Salem's six-hit attack.

In the second game, Jim Sroka, Steve Myers and Kenny Warren each collected two hits and Dom D'Aguanno slammed a three-run home run to propel the Rocks.

Dave Pawlukiewicz improved to 7-2 with the pitching win.

Salem improved to 18-13 overall.

Some things change, but some don't

Four East Middle School eighth-graders - Hannah Fox, Riley Kennysmith, Katie Balaze and Jeanette Perkovich - transformed themselves into women pirates during a group performance for Michigan's History Day at Henry Ford Museum

They wrote monologues, created costumes and answered questions so the judges would have no doubt Hannah was Queen Teuta of Illyria, Riley was Cheng I Sao, Katie was Grace O'Malley, and Jeanette was Ann Bonny

Riley has been fascinated with pirates for some time Hannah threw in a little feminism, which led to the topic, Women Pirates Through the Ages

Jeanette "didn't know there were women pirates" before she started working on this project Katie was "inspired" by these women Hannah liked the "determination and courage it took for women to be a ship's captain"

When these young women aren't researching pirates, they watch movies and hang out with friends They're not the kind of girls who say, "I'm bored" They're regular customers at both libraries They all think Kevin Scanlon (Canton Library) is a cool librarian They know which stores are kid-friendly and welcome them as customers

Some things never change In the summer of '64, my friends and I listened to music, went to the movies and shopped at Kresge's, Kemnitz, Cloverdale and Melody House We knew which stores were kid-friendly, too

Some things are different, though Hannah, Jeanette, Riley and Katie are active in sports Girls at my school weren't allowed to play on the baseball team We were given the option to cheer the boys on, but we turned that offer down

Katie thinks "boys show off around other guys and walk around with an air that they're better than girls"

Hannah said that "newspapers should publicize women's sports more" Jeanette said "I don't like it when guys feel they're better at sports than girls I just want the opportunity to play" Maybe some things don't change

MEDILODGE SCHOLARS

Jordan Schaefer of Salem High School might not have won the top prize in the 2004 Medilodge Plymouth (formerly West Trail Nursing Center) scholarship contest But he did pretty well for himself

Schaefer won a $1,000 scholarship in the contest, which asked students to submit essays using the theme "Ageism" In addition to the essay content, the scholarship judging was based on the student's grade point average, community involvement, school activities and references

BREVARD SUCCESS

Brevard (NC) College offers a range of distinctive baccalaureate degree programs on a beautiful residential campus Bernadette Merriman of Plymouth is making the most of her time there

Merriman was recently named to the Spring Semester 2004 honor roll at the college, recently named one of the best Colleges and College Towns in America by Outside Magazine, among the top 25 Comprehensive Colleges in the South by US News & World Report and a "Champion of Character Institution" by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA)

Felician nun recognized for chaplain work, teaching

Surrounded by a prestigious award and gold shield from the Livonia Police Department, Sister Ann Stamm points to the vintage photographs of her parents on the wall of her Madonna University office One of Stamm's favorite sayings recognizes the love and devotion that created the compassionate person who ministers to police officers, abused children and grieving families

Her dedication was recognized May 6 with an honorary doctor of divinity awarded by the Graduate Theological Foundation for years of chaplain work and teaching With several of her family and friends in attendance, Stamm graciously accepted the tribute during convocation/graduation ceremonies at the University of Notre Dame and Century Civic Center in South Bend, Ind

Stamm has taught every level through university for the last 52 years When she came to Madonna University 30 years ago, she had several police officers in class and was asked to be a chaplain After successfully going through the police academy for chaplains in Detroit, she joined the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, and response team for Wayne County Emergency Management Division, ministering to those affected by three plane crashes including Northwest Flight 255 She presently is chaplain for the Livonia Police Department Stamm did her doctoral dissertation on the spirituality of grief and has counseled people in all walks of life

"Life's all about roots and fruits, past and future Without roots there are no fruits At the ceremony, I paid tribute to my parents," said Stamm, professor and chairperson of religion and philosophy at Madonna University "My seven older brothers and sisters were teachers My mother and her mother were teachers My father was not educated, but wise If he wanted to compliment us he'd say, 'You look like a teacher' If he really wanted to compliment he'd say, 'You look like a professor'"

PARENTAL VALUES

Her parents' values inspired a love of the word in the Felician nun Forty years after their deaths, she continues to write in a journal every day A shelf in the office holds books of poetry she's written and published The books reflect her journey in life and serve as an outlet so she "doesn't burn out because if you do you're not good for anybody" Stamm is wise beyond her 70 years After one of the plane crashes, she didn't understand why she couldn't stand looking at yellow flowers then realized the response team was marking body parts with yellow tape She still remembers the smell, heat and the pain

"You cannot lose yourself in the work you do, whether it's a police officer or a mom, and you have to accept your humanness My form of catharsis is writing," said Stamm, who also paints, draws, carves and boasts of having the best garden in Livonia

"If you can write, you can fly One of the highlights for me is being able to inspire students, to teach the love of word, instill in them a sense of their worth Each of us is a jewel Every facet of

Sister Ann Stamm displays the honorary doctor of divinity degree she received for her years of police chaplain work and teaching In front of her is the gold shield presented to her by the Livonia Police Department

that jewel has to be explored

Revealing painful facets is definitely one of the major challenges faced by Stamm in her work with more than 3,000 abused children When the words won't come, it helps to have a furry friend "I raise dwarf rabbits and frequently use them to get to the children who sometimes won't talk, but will to a rabbit," Stamm said "The way to the human heart isn't clear When you hear a man's words, listen to his heart"

FRIEND TO EVERYONE

Stamm's wealth of sayings, Irish charm and work with abused children and police officers are some of the reasons so many in the community call her friend

"I remember when she had rabbits and conducted therapy with abused children," said state Sen Laura Toy "Child abuse is an underlying issue or problem that families do and don't want to recognize It's a sensitive matter It's important for someone to recognize and participate in the healing Through her grief counseling, she touches the other side of life that people don't want to recognize It takes a special person to do that"

Sgt Julie Warden of the Livonia Police Department couldn't agree more She's proud to call her former teacher friend

"She's a good support system and shares her faith in a way that doesn't matter what your religion," Warden said "She brings a lot of life experience and she's well-respected"

Whenever Livonia Police Chief Robert Stevenson has to deal with death, he seeks counsel from Stamm Their friendship goes back nearly 20 years He took her death and dying class when studying for a bachelor's degree at Madonna University

"Death notification is one of the hardest things, and she's always there when we need her whether it's a tragic incident, counseling on a group level of an untimely death of an officer, private counseling with officers and their families It gives the officers someone to turn to in a confidential manner," said Stevenson, who remembers Stamm holding his 4-week-old son so he could take an exam

"She wrote a blue book for the department that talks about grief, guidelines for death notification, child abuse," he said "It was a huge investment of time on her part She has such life experience I know she's been a lot of comfort to officers over the years For me, she's a great resource It makes my job easier"

Stamm's feeling for officers is mutual In fact, their loss in the line of duty touched her so much she wrote the song A New Day Dawns, which is now used in police funerals across the nation

"It's like me having another family," Stamm said "Police officers have a place in my heart that no one will ever have I see the noble and sacred side of a police officer"

"I call them my terrific blue angels They come with their own hurts and fears People sometimes fail to think police officers are human beings, a man or woman They're my heroes"

Salvation Army camp offers learning opportunities

BY BRAD KADRACH
STAFF WRITER

Participation lagged a little during the Plymouth Salvation Army's annual spring-break day camps, and Army officials figure it'll be the kids who benefit if the same thing doesn't happen for its annual Summer Camps

The Army's annual two-session camps are set for June 14-July 9 and July 19-Aug 13, and officials are hoping to fill the camps, which are conducted at the Army's building on Main Street and in Plymouth Township Park

Camps run from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. Monday-Friday, at a cost of $200 per session A limited number of scholarships, which drop the cost to $50 based on income, are available

"A lot of kids like having the chance to be outdoors all day, and the township park camp is pretty much all outdoors," said Summer Day Camp Director Cassie Hull

The camps are Christian-based, in keeping with Salvation Army philosophy Activities include Bible lessons, crafts, lots of games and activities such as drama and science

Campers also take one field trip per week Possible destinations include Rolling Hills Water Park in

Ypsilanti, the Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum and the Toledo Zoo

This year, the field trips will include a trip to Jeepers and to the Morley Candy Makers facility in Clinton Township

"We want to make sure the kids are still learning something," Hull said

The camps can fit 50 kids at each site, although numbers were down a bit last year, with 30 at the base camp and 40 in the township park Army officials attribute that largely to a decision by Plymouth-Canton schools not to let them distribute their advertising to students in school buildings The Army's camp competes with similar offerings in the district

For the second year, the Salvation Army will offer a pre-care program, for an additional $40 per session The program allows parents to drop their kids off at the Salvation Army's Main Street building, and the children are then transported to the camp

The pre-care program is limited to 20 children "A lot of parents wanted their children to come, but couldn't get them there at 10 a.m. because they were at work," Hull said

The camp is open to children ages 6-12 Campers must have completed kindergarten, and can't be older than 12 on the day they sign up Children who turn 13 during the camp are still eligible

Hull believes the affordability and diverse nature of the activities makes the camp a popular one

"A lot of other places are very expensive," she said "We get a lot of the same kids coming back every year One girl was worried that she would still be young enough They love it"

Star Struck

(June 6-June 9)
By Dennis Fairchild

ARIES (March 21-April 20)

Put your recent hassles and troubles behind you. Aries and practice a smile this week. After the Sun changes signs on the 20th, life won't seem as anxiety ridden as it has since before your birthday. In fact, it'll be quite enjoyable for a change! Aim for 'spectacular' rather than 'stress'.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)

You may experience a tiny type of crisis of confidence this week, especially Tuesday and Wednesday with the Moon in your opposite element. Don't let it worry you if you seem to be the only one who doesn't know what's going on. According to the planets, that's to your advantage.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)

Go where your impulses take you and don't think that you have to account for every movement. Others may complain that you don't keep them informed but things are screwy and scattered now for you now, so it isn't a horrid objective. Keep your distance but also keep your chin up.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)

The more you worry about your financial prospects, the more likely you'll miss out on a golden opportunity this week. You must be in that calm, balanced state where you're alert but not tense. Then you'll be ready when fate comes calling before the month is over.

LEO (July 24-Aug 23)

Ease off your break neck pace a bit and give yourself some time to recover from recent exertions. Even Lions need to catch their breath. And if you don't do so now, you may not get the chance again until way after your birthday. Nothing is worth working yourself into the ground.

VIRGO (Aug 24-Sept 23)

You can't go on much longer at your current pace, so start slowing down and thinking of ways to consolidate what you have gained. Remember the more things you try to hold on to, the more you're likely to let slip. Ease up and enjoy and smell some flowers.

LIBRA (Sept 24-Oct 23)

The emphasis now is on the domestic area of your chart, and though you may be the kind of Libran who prefers to avoid family show downs, you really have no choice. Say what has to be said and listen to what others say. Then act on what you learn. It's gonna be a busy autumn, so make time to relax now.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22)

This week's Uranus retrograde shift could be a rough one and you'll need a helping hand if not a shoulder to cry on, so don't pretend you're so tough that you can face your problems alone. There's no shame in revealing your vulnerable side. It's what makes you human, kid!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21)

Uh huh, you're exhausted trying to convince others lately. There are a lot of things you want to say, and no doubt they are things that need to be said, but choose your words carefully. If you come on too strong this week or sound too harsh, the wisdom of your message will be lost.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 21)

Sometimes you get so worked up about your goals that you lose sight of the reasons you're chasing success. Take time this week to remind yourself what it's all for, then proceed at a more comfortable pace. Don't burn out or pass judgment on co-workers or friends now.

AQUARIUS (Jan 22-Feb 19)

Promise yourself that from now on you'll get plenty of the one thing that has been lacking in your life — fun! The Sun's entry into your felicitous sign element of Gemini marks the start of one of the most enjoyable times of the year for you. So dig it, don't be down.

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20)

Don't let anyone limit your self-expression now. If you have something to say, then go right ahead and don't worry about whose tender sensibilities you might offend. If freedom means anything, it means the right to be provocative. Don't be timid, just be true!

Trust can be regained with work on part of both

Q. My husband had a six-month affair with another woman last year. She happens to work where he does. My trust in him is completely gone. How do I go about trusting him again and how long will this process take?

The Love Doctor
Terri L. Orbuch

Trust is an important and necessary aspect of any intimate relationship. When we trust someone, we believe that person tells us the truth or at least doesn't lie to us and that their intentions toward us are positive. We are also more likely to trust someone whose behavior is reliable. It is no wonder then, when our partner has an affair, that trust is broken. In order for the relationship to continue, you need to be able to trust him again and he needs to be trustworthy. Can you ever regain trust in your husband? The answer is yes. Trust can be rebuilt, but it takes a lot of work and commitment on both partners' parts. Studies find that only one out of four couples can move beyond an affair and regain the necessary trust in their relationship. At times, it may feel like finding another relationship would be easier. This issue will not resolve itself in a few weeks or months. The rebuilding of trust takes a long time. In addition, it is very common for you to feel anger toward your husband, even far into the future. You may be able to forgive him, but you will never forget what happened. These memories periodically bring back the anger. It is what you do with that anger that is important. Here are some Love Doctor tips on how to rebuild trust with your husband:

- 1 The betrayer must give an apology that is very sincere.
- 2 Both partners need to understand the other partner's perspective. Do you have a sense of why he had the affair? Does he understand how you feel and how this affected your marriage?
- 3 Express your anger to him in a constructive way. Don't attack or use names, use "I" statements, address specific behaviors not personality qualities that annoy you, and be sure to listen to his responses as well.
- 4 It is sometimes easy for the person who was betrayed to blame herself. Don't blame yourself. Your self-esteem is not dependent on his behaviors.
- 5 Set a time period (e.g., six weeks, four months) to both work on the relationship. He needs to avoid the circumstances that led to the affair and commit to your relationship. This will give you some indication of reliable, committed behavior on his part. You need to agree that you will not leave the relationship during this same time period. Then both of you need to spend time with each other and communicate directly. From this point forward, you will be able to see whether he can engage in predictable behavior.

- 6 Make a list of the positive things in your relationship. Right now, it may be difficult to think of the beneficial aspects so coming up with them together is important.
- 7 You may also want to seek help from a marriage counselor.

Improve through curiosity

I've always believed that one of the best things a person can do, from a mental perspective, is to develop a curious mind about life.

One of my favorite hobbies is asking people about their families, where they grew up, their jobs, whatever. I joke that I'm the biggest busybody around, but the truth is that I like finding out about people, what experiences have shaped them, what makes them tick. It's great fun and a wonderful way to learn and build relationships with people.

There are other things we can do, too, to exercise our minds. Next time you come across a word you don't know, instead of skimming by it, find a dictionary and learn about it. What does it mean? How did it originate? How is it used? It might just stick in your head for the next time you're searching for that perfect word or phrase.

Traveling is another great way to expand your horizons and see how other people live. Our country is so beautiful and diverse, and full of learning opportunities. I also highly recommend traveling abroad, if you're able, because it can really give you a new perspective on the world and life.

When we cultivate our minds, we improve ourselves and become more well-rounded. And that's a healthy way to be.

And remember, take care of your health before it's longgggg gone!

Firms join Diabetes Association to fight disease

Keith Wandell's grandfather and father-in-law suffered with the disease so he knows the costs exacted physically and emotionally. As president of Johnson Controls Automotive Group, he's learned how diabetes affects the bottom line.

Eight thousand people die of the disease in Michigan each year. Roughly 12,000 to 24,000 lose their sight. Eighty-two thousand undergo amputations. Costs from lost work days, restricted activity, mortality and permanent disability total nearly $41 billion annually in the United States.

Currently, diabetes has no cure. Wandell is doing everything possible to help raise funds to find one, including inviting executives of businesses such as Exhibit Works, the DeMattia Group and W.B. Doner to breakfast. Wandell was among several speakers, including Michigan Surgeon General Dr. Kimberly Dawn Wisdom, at the recent event to kick off the American Diabetes Association's Walk scheduled Sept. 26 in four locations across southeast Michigan. The walk creates awareness while raising money for research on the disease that results from the body inadequately producing or using insulin.

"The walk is something the corporation's supported for years," said Wandell, corporate recruitment chair for America's Walk for Diabetes. "We hold food sales, wear your-jeans days to raise funds leading up to the walk and to build morale for employees. We raise awareness through team leaders and broadcasts. Today we're encouraging corporate leaders to form teams for America's Walk for Diabetes."

Wandell estimates that from 2000 to 2003, Johnson Controls raised $115,000 each year, a drop in the bucket compared to costs caused by the disease. For every 50 employees, three are likely to have diabetes, resulting in $49,000 annually for health care. For a large company with 1,500 employees, 95 with diabetes, Keith Wandell, president, Johnson Controls Automotive Group, recently urged executives to become involved with the American Diabetes Association's annual walk.

the cost zooms to $14 million.

At Johnson Controls, healthy living is promoted through a wellness program. Monthly classes focus on topics such as nutrition, relaxation techniques, and running and walking. Founded in 1885, Johnson Controls is a supplier of automotive interiors and environmental controls for buildings.

"We offer recognition and rewards for completing score cards that track their health goals," said William Dawson, vice president, automotive communications. "There's no health center, but we have arrangements for discounts with area health clubs. Weight control is essential in the fight against diabetes. Obesity and lack of exercise are leading causes of the disease. ADA Michigan President Dr. Gary Edelson recommends aiming for a body shape similar to a carrot stick rather than an apple or pear.

Diabetes is the number one cause of blindness, dialysis and losing a limb," said Edelson, a Franklin resident.

Through its numerous programs and events, the American Diabetes Association strives to educate the public on how to live healthier lives and prevent the onset of type 2 diabetes. Diabetes prevention can be so simple if people are given a game plan. Dr. Kimberly Dawn Wisdom agrees that with control, diabetes can delay or prevent complications. For 20 years she practiced ER medicine at Henry Ford Hospital where she saw patients suffering from strokes, amputation and blindness due to diabetes. Over the years, she launched several programs to detect, manage and prevent the disease.

"It's a disturbing yet exciting time for diabetes," said Wisdom. "We're seeing more and more type 2 diabetes in children. Ten to 15 years ago we

Dr. Kimberley Dawn Wisdom, Michigan's surgeon general, warns 'obesity is a gateway for diabetes'

Diabetes is a silent killer

According to the Southeast Michigan Diabetes Outreach Network Strategic Plan, Michigan has the seventh highest diabetes prevalence rate in the U.S. with almost 1.3 million residents having diabetes or pre-diabetes, a condition which puts individuals at high-risk for developing type 2 diabetes within the next 10 years. But there is something everyone can do to prevent the disease from happening. To lower your risk, control your weight, exercise regularly, and eat low fat meals high in fruits, vegetables and whole grains. Blood pressure at or above 130/80, a family history of diabetes, or having diabetes during pregnancy or having a baby weighing more than nine pounds at birth increases the risk for the disease. Don't wait for symptoms such as increased thirst, frequent urination or unexplained weight loss to see a doctor. Diabetes is a silent disease.

Migraine sufferers urged to 'Get Diagnosed'

In an effort to educate the public about the impact and severity of headache, and support America's 28 million migraine sufferers, the National Headache Foundation has declared June 6-12 as National Headache Awareness Week. This year's theme is "Migraine - The Pain is Real So is the Treatment Get Diagnosed."

The goals are to gain recognition of migraine pain as a real and legitimate condition, to let sufferers know that there are new treatments available and to encourage sufferers to see a healthcare provider for proper diagnosis and treatment. According to a recent online survey conducted by the Foundation, which received more than 1,300 responses, 43 percent of respondents indicated they were not aware that prevention was an option, and 39 percent have sought treatment for a migraine attack in the emergency room. Additionally, 86 percent of survey respondents experience throbbing pain during an attack, while 72 percent suffer from nausea.

National Headache Awareness Week emphasizes five strategies for effective migraine management which empower sufferers to take control of their condition.

■ Get an accurate diagnosis. Make an appointment with your doctor to specifically talk about your headache problem. If within three months you are not receiving adequate relief, ask for a referral to a headache specialist. The NHF has a free state list of physician members available on request by calling 888-NHF-5552.

■ Ask which treatment option is right for you. There have been many advances in the treatment of migraine, both medication and alternative therapies, all of which should be discussed with your doctor to determine the treatment option best for you.

■ Find out if prevention is an option. While some migraine sufferers take acute medications (those taken when an attack occurs), prevention is a possibility for others and should be discussed with your doctor. If you are having two or more headaches per week or your attacks are particularly disabling, prevention may be an option.

■ Keep a record of what has reduced migraine pain. All sufferers should keep a diary which includes triggers, pain management strategies, time of attack, length of attack, and frequency and severity.

■ Don't be afraid to ask for support. Family, friends and professional colleagues should know you are a migraine sufferer and that if you are experiencing an attack, they should be supportive and understanding. The National Headache Foundation offers local support groups around the country. To find a group in your area or more information, call 888-NHF-5552 or visit www.headaches.org.

Also during National Headache Awareness Week, the Foundation will introduce its new Headache Sufferer Identification Card, a wallet-sized card that details health information related to their headache condition, which allows the sufferer to easily access this information when requested by a healthcare professional. The card is available by calling (888) NHF-5552.

didn't have data. Now we have studies that show obesity is a gateway for diabetes."

Economic data from a recent study commissioned by the Michigan Economic Development Corporation draws a link between physical and fiscal health. As body mass increases so does diabetes, thereby impacting health and finances.

According to the study, overweight and obese individuals can incur up to $1,500 in additional medical costs every year because of unhealthy lifestyles. Those costs are often borne by Michigan employers through higher health care insurance premiums.

Finding a cure for diabetes would reduce health care costs at Accenture, a consulting firm based in Detroit with offices in Southfield. Currently they offer a program that includes resources on fitness and nutrition, according to associate partner Gary Corbin, who was interested in learning more about the walk.

'My grandfather was a diabetic who went through multiple amputations,' said Corbin. 'Those were a startling set of statistics we heard today.'

Last year's walk raised $650,000 for research, education, advocacy, and local programs such as a camp for diabetic children. This year's goal is $750,000.

For more information about the walk on Belle Isle, and in Kensington, Stony Creek and Willow metroparks, visit www.diabetes.org/walk or call (888) DIABETES.

Summer safety day set for Annapolis

Area families are invited to join Oakwood Annapolis Hospital with the support of the OAH Auxiliary and city of Wayne, to start the summer off right with Summer Safety Day, an event focused on community and personal safety. The event will be held 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, June 12, on the grounds of the hospital, 33155 Annapolis Avenue.

The Wayne Police Department will host a Bike Safety Rodeo and the first 200 participants will receive free bike helmets. There will be information available on fire safety, and members of the hospital's Hazmat team will hold demonstrations on bio-terrorism.

Representatives from the hospital, Wayne Parks & Recreation and the Wayne Fire and Police Departments will be joined by the Survival Flight Helicopter, the Canton Clown Corp and many others. Tours of the new surgery center and hearing screenings will also be available to attendees along with free refreshments and a drawing for a new bike. Car seat safety checks will be available until noon.

For more information call the hospital at (734) 467-4111 or the Wayne Police Department at (734) 721-1598.

MONITORING YOUR MEDICATION

Monitoring your medication is as important as prescribing it. Any medicine that can do good can also do harm. It is both dangerous and unnecessary to wait until you or your doctor can see a side effect to decide to stop a medication.

In arthritis most monitoring involves doing particular laboratory studies on a monthly schedule. Medications such as methotrexate are known to cause possible toxicity to the liver and bone marrow. The chance that such side effects may occur increases if your kidneys are not working properly. Your body removes methotrexate via the kidney and impaired kidney function means high levels of methotrexate could accumulate. Thus the rationale for monthly blood examinations that test the number of blood cells and the quality of liver and kidney function.

Other medications such as Embrel, Immuran, and Azulfidine have their schedule of laboratory testing based on similar reasoning.

However all monitoring is not done by blood or other testing. Talking to you about specific side effects associated with a drug is an excellent approach to monitoring. The best way for a physician to undertake surveillance of a medicine like Indocin is to see you periodically such as every 6 months and ask you specific questions. These inquiries include finding out how often you have experienced headaches, upset stomach, abdominal pain, or rash.

A doctor can choose to undertake monitoring through many different modes but will invariably do it one way or another.

(NAPSI) - Many homeowners are discovering that a new sunroom not only shines on each member of the family, it's an investment that starts paying off right away. Each year more than 500,000 homeowners enhance their homes and lives by adding a beautiful, new sunroom custom-designed for their individual and unique lifestyles. A glass-enclosed sunroom can be used by dad as a home office, by mom as a quiet, scenic place to read, and if your interests run to exercising, a perfect place to park the equipment.

"Sunrooms are all about expressing the uniqueness of each home, and each person or family," according to Mike Smith, brand manager, PGT NatureScape Patio Rooms, a leading national manufacturer of custom-built three- and all-season rooms. "When working with a custom manufacturer, you can build a sunroom tailored to your personal lifestyle and because it's custom made, it can be virtually any size a homeowner chooses."

Patio rooms come in three styles ranging from screened-in patio rooms with vinyl-glazed sliding panels to glass enclosures. A new sunroom can be custom-designed to include upgrades such as French doors, skylights and sliding glass doors, Smith added.

Homeowners also discover a new sunroom provides other benefits, such as bringing style, convenience and comfort that fit their personal needs and taste. A recent national survey conducted by PGT discovered 64 percent of polled homeowners not currently possessing a sunroom wished they had one.

Most homeowners reported they would use a sunroom primarily as a quiet space to relax, while others wanted sunrooms as a customized recreation room, hot tub room or as a way to enjoy the outdoors without pesky insects. In all cases, the sunroom represented an extension of their lives.

Aside from the many lifestyle-enhancing benefits sunrooms provide, homeowners are especially pleased to discover such projects go straight to the bottom line at selling time, as well. According to the National Association of the Remodeling Industry, the addition of a glass-enclosed patio room can return between 70 to 110 percent of the homeowner's investment when it comes to resale value.

Homearama showcases new trends in housing

Homearama - the 21st annual showcase of new idea homes built by members of the Building Association of Southeastern Michigan - features eight professionally designed, decorated and landscaped single-family homes.

The models are featured at The Hills of Bogue Lake, Bogue Lake Road at Cooley Lake Road, 1/2 mile north of Wise Road, next to Walled Lake Northern High School in Commerce Township, through Sunday, June 20.

The site, which was sold to Hills of Bogue Lake developer Larry Cohen of Cohen Associates, Inc. in West Bloomfield, was once the location of the Bogue Lake Golf Club. Cohen will leave about 25 acres of the former golf course untouched.

Cohen designed exteriors with the charm of yesterday on this wooded landscape using modern materials that will endure despite the elements.

"I love the blend of different kinds of materials like cedar shake and James Hardie Hardiplank lap siding," he said. "They provide such class and appeal."

Many homes feature front porches. There's been a trend over the last few years to make the porch more a part of the home, said Cohen. Porches add beauty value and security to the home, they provide shelter from the elements. The porch is the final touch to what a neighborhood should be.

Children receive royal treatment in one of the 2004 Homearama models. A stage for theatrical productions features a hand-painted mural backdrop and is adorned with red velvet curtains. The room also doubles as a cozy home entertainment lounge with just enough room for plush seating.

A second-floor laundry room has a drip-dry area, fold-down ironing board and hanging rods.

Builders include Larry Cohen and Mitch Hogan, Steve Perlman and Gary Shapiro of Ivanhoe Huntley Homes, Terry Nosan and Barry Nosanchuk of Heritage Nosan Homes, and Gregg Oleshansky of the Skylar Group.

Standard Federal is an event cosponsor and provided construction funding for some of the model homes. The bank will offer financing to qualified buyers and have representatives at Homearama to provide information on mortgage loans.

Show hours are 2-9 p.m. Monday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. Admission for adults is $9, $7 for seniors, no charge for children under 12. Refreshments available for purchase, call (248) 862-1019 or visit www.builders.org for more information.

Discount Homearama admission coupons are available at Standard Federal branch offices. For more information, visit www.standardfederal-bank.com.

Headquartered in Farmington Hills, the nonprofit Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan is a trade association representing more than 2,300 builders, remodelers, multi-family property owners, developers and suppliers to the single family and multi-family residential construction industry.

Home equity loans can be risky Showing up on time important for contractors

(NAPSI) - Increasingly, homeowners who need money for home repairs or to pay bills are turning to home equity loans as a way to solve their problems. Unfortunately, not all loans and lenders are the same. It's wise to shop around. In fact, the cost of doing business with high-cost lenders can be excessive and sometimes abusive - even dangerous. Borrowing from an unscrupulous lender who offers you a high-cost loan using your home as security is risky business. You could lose your home and your money. Before you sign on the line:

- Think about your options
- If you're having money problems, consider other options before you put your home on the loan line
- Talk with your creditors or budget counseling organizations to work out a plan that reduces your bill payments to more manageable level
- Remember, if you decide to get a home equity loan and can't make the payments, the lender could foreclose and you would lose your home
- Do your homework -

Contact several lenders. Ask friends and family for recommendations of lenders.

- Talk with banks, savings and loans, credit unions, and other lenders before you proceed
- Think twice before you sign - Have a knowledgeable friend, relative, attorney, or housing counselor review the Good Faith Estimate and other loan papers before you sign the loan contract
- Make sure all promises are put in writing. It's only what's in writing that counts
- Know that you have rights under the law - If you're using your home as security for a home equity loan or for a second mortgage loan or a line of credit - federal law gives you three business days after signing the loan papers to cancel the deal, for any reason, without penalty
- You must cancel in writing. The lender must then return any money you have paid to date (NAPSI) - Your home may be your castle, but what do you do when a home improvement project invites others to invade your private domain? Do you leave for vacation to escape the chaos? Do you stay home to watch over everyone? After the job begins, do you spend all your time cleaning up someone else's mess?

These were among the questions in a survey conducted on behalf of the Scott Rags in a Box business. The answers reveal a love-hate relationship with the people we hire to renovate and repair our homes.

The top three complaints about contractors from respondents who had used an outside contractor in their homes within the last few years were:

- Not showing up when they say they will
- Jobs that take longer than expected to complete
- Waiting a long time for work to be scheduled

As for pet peeves, the biggest ones reported by this group were:

- Not cleaning up after the work is finished
- The mess and the dust

Respondents who had hired contractors were also asked to describe how they felt when contractors were in their homes.

While one-third said it didn't bother them to have workers around, 17 percent reported feeling like they had to stay home all the time to protect their possessions from theft. Thirteen percent said they felt "creepy" with strangers roaming all over the house and nine percent said they wished they could leave for vacation and come back when it was over.

Overcoming Objections
How can home improvement contractors improve their image?

One way, according to eight in 10 respondents, would be for them to wear gloves, shoe mitts, disposable coveralls and provide their own clean-up products, such as drop cloths, pre-moistened hand wipes or disposable towels that remove dirt, dust and paint.

Despite these concerns most people will still need outside contractors because they don't have either the time or skills to do many home improvement jobs themselves. Nearly half of those who had hired contractors said they did so because of their own lack of skills, while one-quarter cited lack of time.

Overall impressions of the final outcome of a job by an outside contractor were largely positive, with close to half saying it generally met but did not exceed expectations.

Relying on Word of Mouth

Despite a proliferation of circulars, flyers and Yellow Pages ads, the vast majority of respondents (81 percent) said they would be most likely to hire contractors based on recommendations from neighbors, friends or relatives.

Turn your house into a home with paint

(NAPSI) - As facets of the residential real estate market continue to set records, a recent survey revealed that during a one-year period, homeowners reinvested about a third of funds generated by mortgage refinancing-about $18 billion - on home improvement. In addition, industry research shows that 56 percent of new homeowners paint their homes within the first year of ownership. This increasing percentage is the result of current record-low mortgage interest rates, the do-it-yourself trend and increased income.

The survey also found that interior painting is often the first thing homeowners do to personalize their homes upon moving in. Interior paint jobs represent a quick, fun and cost-effective way for homeowners to express their personal style, turning their house into a home.

Finish and durability are the most important characteristics considered when buying paint, followed by price, according to the survey. Semi-gloss, eggshell and satin finishes are becoming more popular among interior paints due to their ability to display richer tones. As you consider interior paint projects, following are a few tips in selecting the appropriate finish.

■ An interior flat finish conceals imperfections and has a washable finish, it is great for bedrooms, living rooms, dining rooms and home offices.

■ An interior flat enamel is moisture resistant and scrubbable, it is excellent for kitchens, bathrooms, hallways, children's rooms, doors/windows and trim.

■ An interior eggshell enamel highlights wall texture and has a scrubbable finish, it is good for dining rooms, bedrooms, hallways, interior furniture, cabinets and trim.

■ An interior satin enamel is extremely washable and very durable, it is suitable for children's rooms, bathrooms, kitchens and laundry rooms.

■ An interior semi-gloss enamel is extremely moisture and stain-resistant and lasts in high-wear areas, it is designed for kitchens, bathrooms, hallways, shutters, trim and laundry rooms.

Narrow, deep corner lot perfect fit for the Hudson

COPYRIGHT DESIGN BASICS Inc.
HUDSON (D6727)
OVERALL DIMENSIONS: 35'-0" X 66'-0"
LIVING 1337 square feet
UNFIN BASEMENT 1337 square feet
GARAGE 507 square feet

The Hudson is ideal for a corner lot that is narrow and deep. It is 35 feet wide and 66 feet deep with a rear entry garage.

The home has clean, contemporary lines with three different rooflines and a covered porch with railings and accent posts.

The entry of the Hudson brings ones guest directly into the great room. This is a long, narrow room with a fireplace on the right wall, nook and kitchen beyond.

Stairs to the unfinished basement are on the left side of the great room. Should a basement not be needed, this would add a considerable amount of space to the great room.

Two large windows on the right side of the nook could be converted into patio doors opening onto a deck. The kitchen is in the rear corner with an eating bar facing the nook.

Between the kitchen and the master suite is the utility room. A door opens into the two-car garage.

Bedroom two is the largest and has a built-in desk with a wall closet.

Windows face the front, overlooking the covered porch. Bedroom three also has a built-in desk and wall closet.

A full bathroom is across the hall from the two bedrooms.

The master suite has 10-foot ceilings and two large windows to allow the sunlight to shine into the room.

It has a single sink, tub, and walk-in closet.

While the Hudson is only 1,337 square feet, it would be ideal for first time homeowners or for empty nesters looking for the smaller, open home.

Which features of a homesite usually affect the buyer's decision to buy or not buy? Although each potential buyer is unique and no general rules apply to everyone, here are some thoughts,

SCHOOL SYSTEM

Whether a buyer has, or will ever have children of school age, the reputation of the local school system is a major concern. This is one feature of a property that you cannot change.

KITCHEN

The condition of the kitchen is vital for a number of reasons

- 1 It is the most utilized room in the house
- 2 It sends a message about how up-to-date the house is
- 3 Needed modernization costs are very expensive
- 4 Eating space in the kitchen is often crucial

MASTER BEDROOM

The adequacy or inadequacy of the master bedroom often is the decisive factor that will sway the buyer one way or the other. Its size may dictate whether or not it will accommodate the master bedroom furniture of certain buyers. Does it have a master bath and how well is it equipped? A luxurious master bedroom is always a strong selling point.

FLOOR PLAN

Some floor plans attract more buyers than others. Although it may vary from one location to another, the most popular floor plans usually rank in the following order:

- 1 One floor
- 2 Two full floors
- 3 Split levels

Buying or Selling a Home?
Home Quarters Can Help You Just Like We Helped the Canfields!

When it came time to sell their current home and buy a new one the Canfields got the best service support and savings imaginable

Jim and Cathie searched every available home for sale in Southeast Michigan by visiting HQRealEstate.com And when they were ready to buy their local Home Quarters real estate professional assisted with their mortgage pre-approval scheduled private showings and negotiated their offer to purchase

The Canfields now own their dream home And with Home Quarters on their side they sold their previous home quickly and profitably

Temporary Workers Needed In Good Times

And Bad

BY DAN ASPELL

In business conversation, one topic sure to raise a wide range of opinions is the role of temporary workers. "Temps" are both lauded and derided by personnel at firms, and temps themselves show equally divided opinions about their role in business. One thing, though, is certain. Whether business is booming or in the tank, temps can play a vital role.

According to the American Staffing Association (ASA), a full 2.27 million temporary workers were on the job every day in 2003. Although that constitutes a huge workforce, it is still less than 5% of those going to work every day. It's what this small percentage of workers does that completes the picture.

When the economy and businesses are booming, resulting in low unemployment figures, temps fill much-needed vacancies when skilled employees are in great demand. The technology sector uses a great number of temps during such times, as they help meet project deadlines. More blue-collar intensive companies also find them indispensable in these times, as they know that downturns are inevitable, resulting in layoffs. Rather than lay off an employee with many years invested in the company, it's the temp that is let go.

During slower economic times, temps fill in where regular personnel can't be hired due to economic stress, and often stay on when the business climate improves. As a stop-gap measure, many firms would flounder without them. Truly, their role is crucial at all times.

On the temp side, things have certainly gotten better over the past few years. Because of a landmark ruling several years ago, temp workers are now eligible for benefits after a certain period on the job, and are even eligible for stock options with certain firms based upon duration of employment. To counteract the reticence of some in the business community to offer benefits, many temp agencies have begun offering benefit packages to their regular workers.

In addition to the recent rulings, temps are also protected against workplace discrimination, are protected under the Fair Labor Standards Act, and being employed by both their temp agency and the contracted employer, have legal recourse against both. Temporary workers also have been finding success in landing permanent positions, according to the ASA. The theory that a temp job paves the way for future regular employment plays out the majority of the time, with 70% of temp workers finding a steady position within one year. And the majority of larger temp agencies - those with $50 million or more in sales per year - offer healthy benefits to their workers on a regular basis. While being a temporary employee is not the dream of most, it fits the lifestyle of many. Those who chose temporary work during the technology boom padded their resumes, learned new skills and made quite a good wage when working in specialized applications. For others, moving from one job to another while usually climbing the skills ladder is the kind of work they need, for a variety of reasons. Some use it to test different geographical locales to find their favorite environment, while others find it useful when having to care for aging parents or revolve a schedule around graduate studies. As the economy picks up once again, expect to see a demand for temps from smart business owners to fill the needs of a multitude of positions.

2004 Honda Pilot caters to our comfort zone.

Advertising Feature

Anne Fracassa

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

The Honda Pilot has always been a favorite of mine, and this year is no exception. The element (no pun intended, by the way) I like the most is the fact that it has so many of the amenities you would expect in a vehicle that's a lot more expensive than the Honda Pilot.

First of all, let's look on the outside of the new, 2004 Honda Pilot.

More and more of the corners are rounded, giving it a clean, polished look. Something more of a sports car nature, rather than a boxy-looking sport utility that copies just about everything else on the road.

This Pilot is built and designed for the family in mind, rather than the rough-and-tough guy or gal who finds the need to go to the beach and bring along the ol' mountain bike or ropes for rock climbing on the weekend.

Its versatility in seating configurations is amazing. You can actually fit eight people in there and it boasts the largest cargo-carrying capacity in this segment of sport utility vehicles.

In the second row of seats, for example, you can adjust them to go forward or back to allow the third row passengers better and easier access. That's such a plus when hauling extra people.

Seating up front is extremely comfortable and doesn't feel cheap. There's a large, more-than-adequate tall ceiling on the Pilot that could probably accommodate a 10-gallon Texas-sized hat. OK, maybe that's an exaggeration. But you won't have to worry about wearing a bouffant hard hat in there.

Slip inside the Honda Pilot and you'll find everything that's in there geared to a totally pleasant driving experience -- both for the driver and passengers.

Thank you, Honda, for the adjustable seat belts up front. Nothing annoys me more than the fact that some of these seat belts tend to cut you -- no, rake you -- right across the neck when you're driving. It's enough to make me reject to purchase a certain vehicle -- and it has Instrumentation is surprisingly simple, consisting of merely the tachometer, fuel gauge, outside temperature, odometer and speedometer. You know, sometimes that's just enough.

The center stack console contains everything in a logical manner, from heating and cooling to the radio at the far bottom. There's a fairly large screen navigation system that's a blast to operate and very accurate, as well. By the way, the heating and cooling system is one of the quickest operation systems I've had the pleasure to be in lately.

You're not waiting a hundred years for it to cool, or to heat. Want it on demand, you're going to get it, here. And there are also front heated seats that turn on in an instant to warm that sore back from that long day of toiling at the office, hunched over that rotten computer. Right next to the heated seat buttons is a power point you can use to charge your cell.

In the center, between the driver and the passenger is a huge center console storage area that rivals the cargo hold. It's abnormally deep -- but that's a good thing -- and also includes an additional power outlet for whatever you need it for. Like the kids' portable DVD player. There's even a coin holder in there.

The Honda Pilot has plenty of wide, open spaces and wide window surfaces that ensure you won't have any blind spots to worry about.

A few complaints. The cup holders are too small and there aren't enough of them. Come on! We're talking family car here. The sun visor extenders are more of a hassle than they're worth, too. And the stalks extending from the steering column take a lot to get used to.

You tend to be touching, and pressing, and wondering what the heck you're accomplishing. Is it the wipers or the cruise or the turn signal? Try them all -- one might work.

Kudos to Honda, by the way, for having a dead pedal on the left. I truly miss them on some vehicles that really need them. Not only is it a comfort factor, it's also a safety factor, in my eyes. I love them.

The Pilot is powered by a 240-horsepower 3.5-liter VTEC V6 engine mated to a four-wheel-drive system and automatic transmission. The engine never let me down in any situation and got me going on the freeway without a fright and around town in comfort and style.

2004 HONDA PILOT. Vehicle Type: Special Purpose | Power: 3.5-liter SOHC 24-valve V6 engine | Mileage: 17 mpg city/22mpg highway | Where built: Alliston, Ontario, Canada | Price as tested: $33,330.

There are two trim levels to choose from, the LX and EX models. The LX comes with a host of amenities standard like air conditioning, cruise control, AM/FM stereo with in-dash CD player, dual air bags and power windows, mirrors and door locks.

The EX, which was the model driven this week, is equipped with all those things, along with front and rear climate controls, aluminum alloy wheels, a better stereo and leather seats.

You can also add the DVD entertainment system and Honda's own satellite-linked navigation system.

Still keeping the family in mind, the second row of seats can fold down and act as a family-friendly activity tray that has a few cup holders and a storage tray for the kids' Game Boy, fast food stuff and a special holder for fast food sauce containers (read that: honey mustard thing for the chicken nugget meal).

By the way, the total foreign parts content of the Honda Pilot is just 10 percent. That means 90 percent of the Pilot's parts are produced and assembled in North America. Translation: Not a Japanese vehicle.

I think the Honda Pilot is worth looking at, especially if you have an active, young family who spend lots of time in a vehicle. The comfort factor you'll enjoy will translate into more pleasant drives for your family and fewer "Are we there yet's" in the summer months when traveling. Go take a look.
