Citizens' group to promote millage

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

After voters overwhelmingly turned down a millage renewal and increase for police and fire services May 3, Plymouth Township officials admitted they hadn't done enough to educate residents on the need for the proposals.

As leaders prepare to go back to voters Aug. 2 for the renewal and an even larger increase, the Concerned Citizens for Police and Fire have gathered to keep them from making that same mistake.

Armed with a plan and figuring on spending some $10,000, the committee wants to make sure voters understand the need.

"Our main goal is to get the word out in the community about the need for the millage," said co-chair Geri Hames. "We recognize the fact it was already turned down once, but we all feel that's because it wasn't properly sold to the community."

The group hopes to convince voters to pass the township's requests for a 1.63 millage renewal and a 0.5631-mill increase to help fund police and fire services at their current levels. The police department currently has 31 officers, while the fire department is manned by 27 firefighters and three management-level staffers.

Township officials have said deep cuts — in the form of layoffs — will be necessary in both departments if the two proposals are defeated again in August.

The group formed to keep that from happening is intended to be a grass-roots effort made by ordinary citizens with nothing to gain personally from the passage of the millage request. And, while there are plenty of those involved, the majority of the people who showed up for the group's initial meeting last week at Papa Romano's were either police officers, firefighters or township employees.

Township supervisor Richard Reaume said, while those people were there to show support, the bulk of the work will be done by residents.

"We want to turn this over to the citizens, because they're the ones who are going to make it go," Reaume said. "We've got two citizens ready to co-chair, and I'd like to see them run with it."

In addition to Hames, the other co-chair is Chuck VanVleck, a former Plymouth firefighter who served 32 years in the department before retir-

Being extremely careful not to step into Fellows Creek behind Tonda Elementary, 11-year-old Josh Mirsky gently leaned over and dipped a thermometer to measure the temperature of the water.

"If it's too hot it can get nasty," said Josh, a fifth-grader, "and if it's too cold, it won't burn off the germs."

"We eventually drink this water after it gets to the Detroit River," he said. "It's a whole big circle."

Jennifer Harb remembers waking up one morning in March to find the entire right side of her body numb.

The 20-year-old Canton Township woman couldn't move her right arm, her speech was slurred and she limped while walking. After an MRI at the hospital, doctors gave her three possible explanations, none of which were good news.

"They found a lesion on the right side of the brain, and the doctors told me I either had a tumor, suffered a stroke or had Multiple Sclerosis," said Harb.

"When they told me it was MS, I was devastated."

Harb said taking a shower, driving long distances and shopping are all examples of things she used to take for granted, but now

Prank puts students in the street

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

Four female students were being questioned Wednesday afternoon by Plymouth police, just hours after smoke bombs forced the evacuation of Central Middle School.

School administrators and Plymouth community firefighters found three smoke bombs throughout the school, two of which reportedly were set off shortly before noon.

"They are in the process of being ticketed," said Police Chief Wayne Carroll as the girls were being questioned by officers at the school. "They probably will be ticketed with summoning the fire department by joke or prank."

The antics could be costly to the girls and their families. Carroll said the cost of the police and fire response were being tabulated, and will be presented to the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office.

"We will make every attempt to capture our costs on this needless prank," he said.

Students were ushered out quickly when the alarms sounded. There was no real damage to the school, and no injuries reported.

"We were eating lunch when the fire alarm went off," said

Kamber Kennedy, 13, a seventh-grader from Canton Township. "We all thought it was a drill, but then we realized we never have drills during lunch period. When we got out of the lunch room we saw smoke and started running out of the building."

Julia Herrman teaches social studies in room 220, not far from where one of the smoke bombs was found.

"When we came out of the room we didn't see smoke, but we smelled it," said Herrman. "Smelling the smoke made it seem a little more important."

Assistant Fire Chief Mark Wendell said officials believe it was a prank.

"They have to understand they put everybody at risk," said Wendell. "All of our resources were pulled from other potential emergencies, and just getting here we put ourselves at risk."

"It's not fun and games," he said. "There are serious consequences for whoever did this."

Many students felt the same way.

"I think it's inappropriate and immature to do that," said Molly Grady, 13, of Plymouth. "This is a place to learn."

Neighborly Advice from Sandy Pattock-Beeler
Your Real Estate Expert!

FOR SALE BY OWNER HOMES-NOT THE BEST INVESTMENT

Some homeowners try to sell their own home. They think, "What could be so difficult? You put up a sign, fill out a contract, save the commission." But according to statistics, only 8 to 10 percent of "FSBO" transactions actually close, and a high percentage of those end up in court.

If you choose to buy through a Realtor, you substantially reduce your risks. Buying real estate involves more legal and financial repercussions than most people realize. Realtors are licensed and highly regulated professionals who are equipped to deal with the many issues that buyers face.

Let's take a look at a few situations that arise when you purchase a "For Sale By Owner" home. If the seller holds your earnest money deposit, how will you go about getting it back if the deal does not close? What will you do if the seller refuses to correct defects in the home? What if the seller has liens against the property?

As a buyer, you have rights written into the sales contract. An experienced agent knows how to protect those rights while negotiating the best price and terms.

Eble sentenced to prison, deportation

BY KURT KUBAN
STAFF WRITER

Canton resident Suzanne Eble was sentenced Monday in Wayne County Circuit Court to between 15 months and 15 years in prison for having sex with a 14-year-old Canton boy. After she serves her prison term, the former teacher's aide at Fiegel Elementary will then be deported to Germany, where she has her citizenship.

Eble, 34, was arrested Feb. 14 on three counts of criminal sexual conduct and one count of fourth-degree criminal sexual conduct. On April 27, she pleaded no contest to the charges, which is not an admission of guilt, but is treated as such by the court.

According to Wayne County Assistant Prosecutor Lora Weingarden, who is in charge of the Child Abuse Unit, Eble will serve "every day" of 15 months in a state women's correctional facility.

It will then be up to a Michigan Department of Corrections parole board to review her case and determine if she should serve longer.

Because she is not an American citizen, Eble will be deported back to Germany when she gets out, which Weingarden said is "automatic" for non-citizens who commit felonies. The victim's brother, who is not being identified to protect the identity of the victim, said the family feels justice was served in the case, especially the fact that Eble will be deported.

"We're pretty well satisfied with the sentence," he said. "I was particularly happy she will be deported. That was the issue I was worried about. I did not want to worry about her having contact with my brother after she got out."

The victim's brother said it is time for the family to move on.

"It's been a hard ordeal, and we're happy it's over," he said. Eble is married and has two children.

Construction set to start on largest school

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

Groundbreaking was held Tuesday in Canton Township's Cherry Hill Village for the Plymouth-Canton school district's 16th elementary school, nearly eight months after voters approved a $109 million bond issue.

The $15 million school, which is being constructed at the corner of Cherry Hill and Denton, will be the largest elementary school in the district when it's completed in August 2006.

After the ceremonial shovels of dirt were turned, Gillian Marceau said she was always confident there would be a school built in her neighborhood. Marceau's two children were slated to go to Dodson Elementary when it opened, but were instead sent to Miller.

"Ever since we moved here, I've been working toward this day," said Marceau, who was a member of the bond steering committee. "Everybody came together, we knew the need was there. It's going to be nice to have a school in the community."

Jasmin Walker, whose three children also attend Miller, says the new school will make it easier for parents to participate in school activities.

"I think there's more of a challenge to get parental involvement when it's so far," said Walker. "A lot of parents think there will be more involvement two minutes down the road, compared to 15 minutes."

The 70,780-square-foot building, which will be school-house red, will have the same basic footprint as Dodson, but will have several outside design changes to fit in with architectural style of Cherry Hill Village.

Actual groundbreaking is slated to begin the first week of June.

"We'll be mobilizing our trailer the week after Memorial Day, contracts have been let and we've had meetings with contractors and sub-contractors," said Bill McCarthy, senior project manager and vice-president of McS/EV of Redford Township. "It's a tight schedule. If everything goes well, we should be on target."

Eriksson Elementary Principal Jim Burt, who lives within walking distance of the site, is the as-of-yet-unnamed school's first principal.

"For those of us who live in southwest Canton, this is something that's really important because there are people who have lived here for a number of years looking for a neighborhood school," said Burt to dozens of people on hand for the groundbreaking. "They will have heightened expectations for their kids when they come here."

"This is really an exciting opportunity for me," he said. "I'm going to have a big part in all aspects in development of this school; working to create a learning environment for kids, working to create a school climate best for kids, working in partnerships with teachers and parents to create an optimal school for kids."

When the Cherry Hill Village school opens, it will immediately be at capacity housing neighborhood children, as well as students from Miller, whose building will be closed for a year during renovations.

Two-year-old Allison Bobitz attends the ground-breaking ceremony Tuesday evening with her mother for Canton's new elementary school at Cherry Hill and Denton Roads. There is a possibility that Allison will be a student at the new elementary within the next few years.

Party marks playscape's 10th birthday

Plymouth Township residents get the chance to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the playscape at the township park when officials conduct an anniversary commemoration this weekend.

The "Plymouth Dream Playscape Project" became reality in 1995 after two mothers with young children got together and spurred a large volunteer effort to build a place for them to play.

The celebration takes place at the playscape area in Plymouth Township Park at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 22. A limited number of commemorative T-shirts will be given out and ice cream will be served. Supervisor Richard Reaume hopes that members of the original volunteer group, as well as all other members of the community, will plan to attend.

"We were able to contact several individuals who were on the planning and construction committees and they were very excited. Nobody could believe 10 years have already gone by," Reaume said.

"This playscape has been a wonderful part of the park. Just ask the many children and parents who use it during three seasons of the year!"

Residents are encouraged to explore the rest of the park before or after the anniversary celebration. According to township officials, the baseball diamonds have been improved with the installation of new fences and dugout benches; the pavilions have been painted; and the popular Sprayscape water feature was added two years ago.

The sprayscape will be open on May 22 during the anniversary event, weather permitting.

Plymouth Township Park is located on Ann Arbor Trail at McClumpha Road between Sheldon and Beck.

These cancer fighters go the distance at Relay for Life

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Nancy Glodich of Plymouth Township might have been the most recent cancer survivor at this past weekend's Relay for Life in Canton. Glodich, a teacher at New Morning School, had skin cancer surgery May 10.

"I thought it was important to be here today," she said while sitting in the Geneva

Presbyterian Church booth at the Heritage Park event. She was tired following surgery and isn't sure yet what follow-up treatment will be needed.

Glodich was among those walking the survivors' lap during the American Cancer Society benefit, which ran 10 a.m. Saturday to 10 a.m. Sunday and had a $1 million cumulative goal for the seven years it's been held. Barb Berberet of Canton, a two-year survivor of breast cancer, also came to Heritage Park.

"I'm here to walk the survivors' walk and I'm going to work in the church booth," said Geneva member Berberet. "I think it's great to bring the survivors together."

Jean Tabor of Canton, director of the Canton Public Library, lost her father to lung cancer and her brother-in-law to a rare form of blood cancer. She was out Saturday with the library team at Heritage Park.

Survivors take to the course during this past weekend's Relay for Life at Heritage Park. The event surpassed its fundraising goal.

"I think it's wonderful," Tabor said of Relay for Life. "It brings the community together."

A total of $247,910 raised was announced Sunday morning, surpassing the goal.

Canton Rotary President Lisa Kennedy was at her team's booth. "My father-in-law passed away from leukemia," said Kennedy, whose mom is a skin cancer survivor. "She's one of the lucky ones because everything was caught early."

Kennedy liked Heritage Park as a site and praised Canton Township staffer Debbie Zevalkin's skills in getting the event under way.

Plymouth A.M. Rotary was also involved, teaming up with Carlson Wagonlit Travel and staffers at Tanger Center.

Kathy Hosten of Whitmore Lake, team captain, said they were selling cookies and Southern gospel CDs and doing cup stacking to raise money.

"This is a great event," said Bob Scoggins of Plymouth, club president and retired Plymouth police chief. "It's an event that has grown every year."

He was selling CDs from his group, The Chapels, with proceeds going to Relay for Life. Information's available online at bobbycrumpler.com.

Scoggins lost his grandfather to cancer and his stepfather died of cancer-related illness. He noted that virtually everyone's been touched by cancer.

Hosten praised the Tanger staffers, who run the Plymouth-Canton district's infant and preschool special education. They brought Shotsie, the school therapy dog.

"We have many family members who have experienced cancer," said Mary Kay Herr of Plymouth, a Tanger teacher consultant. Her mom died of cancer almost two years ago. "She was quite a fighter."

Herr was glad to team up with Rotary. "It's been a lot of fun," she added.

Students were a key part of Relay for Life, including the Robotic Relayers team. Members were from the Lightning Robotics group at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park.

Julie Rowe, 16, of Canton

Luminaries were placed in the park in memory and honor of loved ones.

and a sophomore at Plymouth High, agreed the event was fun. She and others from the club had a robot Carlson X on display. The robot was out on the track for a lap, said Joe Jagadics, 17, of Canton, a Canton High junior.

The robot was from a competition in which students had six weeks to finish work. It plays a game with other robots and creates a tic tac toe grid.

"We had an awesome programming team this year," said Rowe, vice president. Jagadics was president this past year.

Through donations, their club raised about $2,000 for the Relay. They also collected from those trying out Carlson X. Their club is sponsored by Visteon and also has students from Plymouth Christian Academy and Marian High, in addition to Catholic Central students in the past.

Financially SPEAKING

Q - I see low rate mortgages and interest-only payment programs advertised everywhere. Are they a good idea?

A - Sometimes, but no single mortgage product is right for everyone. Always look at the "fine print" for details of how often the interest rate and payment might change during the life of the loan. Some mortgage products may start with a very low rate but could adjust every three or six months. Can your budget absorb that? If you know you will move in five to seven years, is a 30-year fixed-rate loan the best option? It's very important to sit down with a mortgage expert and evaluate all of the available mortgage options. At DFCU Financial, we have a Mortgage Loan Officer in every branch to meet with you. Call Wendy Hewitt of the Canton Branch directly to schedule an appointment at 313.337.7702. She'll help you make a decision based on your specific needs and how the payment fits within your family budget.

MOVING FORWARD

Livonia Chrysler Jeep, at 30777 Plymouth, is just about to get a facelift. The Livonia business is part of a company-wide effort meant to give all Chrysler dealerships the same look, according to General Manager Dave McDonald.

"If you're driving down the road, you'll be able to identify us," he said. The branding of Chrysler dealerships will impact this location inside and out. Already, the showroom, offices and service center have undergone remodeling, making it brighter, cleaner and more up-to-date.

"The exterior of the building has been completely re-painted," said McDonald. In addition, doors have been replaced and floors have been refinished. "It's a much more sterile, friendly, brighter environment," he said.

The dealership was built and opened in its current location in 1979. McDonald said other than the normal upkeep, it "still had the appearance of a dealership in the 1960s outside."

The 33,000-square-foot building is housed on 4.3-acre property on Plymouth Road between Middlebelt and Merriman.

"It's been a great place to do business," said McDonald. The Livonia Planning Commission approved plans to revamp the business and McDonald will soon go before the City Council for approval. If all goes well, work will begin within 30 days and be complete within three months.

Livonia Chrysler Jeep is open from 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday and Thursday and 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. The Service, Parts and Body shops are open from 7:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday and 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Friday.

An artist's rendering shows what the new indoor basketball will look like when it is built on Michigan Avenue next to the Canton Softball Center.

Basketball enthusiast to build state-of-the-art courts

BY CAROL MARSHALL
STAFF WRITER

Just three years ago, if you had asked school teacher Jason Kaye about building a $5.2 million premiere basketball facility, he may have thought you were just a bit crazy. But today, it's a perfectly sane idea, and Kaye hopes to break ground before summer.

"It's all very exciting. It's really a big adventure," said Kaye, a Canton father and teacher at Pioneer Middle School.

On April 18, the Canton planning commission recommended special land use approval for the project's site on Michigan Avenue, near the Canton Softball Center and Arctic Edge ice arena.

The idea started percolating about a year and a half ago when Kaye thought it would be nice for Canton to have an indoor basketball facility.

He coaches teams for American Athletic Union (AAU) and very often the facilities he visits are not top-notch, he said.

"But you look at this area - not just Canton but the region - and you see what kind of place we're in. People want what's best for their children and they believe in good sports programs for young people, and the pay-to-play facilities are all doing very well," Kaye said.

So he found four business partners - all from near or within Canton, and all of them parents - to help him get his plans off the ground.

The team put together a business plan and formed P3 (Peak Performance Pavilion) Enterprises.

The plan is for a 62,000-square-foot building with six full courts and two half courts.

Each court will be dual-purpose, appropriate for either volleyball or basketball.

The facility will have a 900-person capacity, which Kaye said is large enough to handle entire tournaments all under one roof.

There will be the opportunity for shared parking with the Canton Softball Center, and Kaye said he is currently negotiating the details with Canton Leisure Services.

A lifelong basketball enthusiast, Kaye is looking forward to starting programs for very young children, instructional and recreational leagues for young people, as well as a "second shift" league for workers who don't get off the clock until near midnight, and a first responders league for police officers and firefighters.

There will be a lounge area in the center of the buildings, separated by glass from the courts, and the lounge will offer wireless Internet access for laptop users. A gourmet coffee shop and concessions will be available, and Kaye is negotiating with large vendors and sponsors for the new facility.

Kaye hopes to have his building open by December.

'40s style dance aids wounded soldiers

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A Westland committee has embarked on a plan to help wounded U.S. soldiers returning home from Iraq and Afghanistan.

Westland City Councilman Robert Stottlemeyer, committee leader, has announced a "Back to the '40s" charity dance scheduled for 4-11 p.m. Sunday, June 5, at Burton Manor in Livonia.

"I've always been ticked off at what happened to the troops when they came home from Vietnam and the way they were treated," Stottlemeyer said. "I didn't want the troops coming home from Iraq and Afghanistan to feel like nobody cares."

The '40s dance will cost $30 a person. Stottlemeyer said it will feature the Glenn Miller Orchestra, an Andrew Sisters-style group called Satin Dolls and the U.S. Army Reserve Band.

All military branches will be represented, including several soldiers wounded in the latest conflicts involving U.S. soldiers. The cities of Westland, Garden City and Wayne already have adopted proclamations endorsing the event. The Livonia City Council has indicated it will give a vote of support, and committee members also plan to approach Redford officials.

"This is for a great cause," Stottlemeyer said.

The charity dance will benefit two organizations - the national Wounded Warriors

Project and the Westland-based Veterans Haven - that are dedicated to helping soldiers and their families with housing, food, daycare, handicap ramps and other necessities that they need but can't afford.

"I want to say a word on Veterans Haven. I know they provide all the services for free - 100 percent that goes in goes out," said Garden City Councilman William Kaledas. "Please try to attend. It's important to the returning soldiers."

Stottlemeyer, wife Betty and other committee members hope to sell out the 1,800-seat Burton Manor and raise as much money as possible to help wounded troops.

They're advertising the event by putting up posters around the area, and senior citizens at the Westland Friendship Center also made pin-on buttons to promote it.

Stottlemeyer credited corporate donations with helping to cover the event's costs. Moreover, other proceeds will come from ticket sales and a silent auction organized by committee members Georgia Becker, Jo Johnson and Pat Mitchell.

On Tuesday, Becker said bids already are being accepted and will continue through the evening of the "Back of the '40s" dance.

"Right now, we have 39 items (for bid) in the book," Becker said. "We're still getting items donated, and we've already had some people bidding on different items."

Some items include four Detroit Tigers baseball tickets with free parking; a gold ring; Meadow Brook Theatre tickets; an $100 tab for Mary Denning's Cake Shoppe; Macomb Center for the Performing Arts tickets; Showcase Cinema passes; a $225 gold bracelet; a T-shirt autographed by racecar driver Bobby Rahal; and autographed pictures of racer Richard Petty and actor John Travolta, among many other items.

"I just wrote John Travolta a letter, and he sent a picture," Becker said. "Isn't that cool? Everybody has been really generous in giving items for the silent auction."

To bid on items or for more information about the auction, call Becker at (734) 729-1605.

Organizers say that the "Back to the '40s" event isn't intended as political, but only to show support for troops - regardless of whether those attending favor or oppose U.S. involvement in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Veterans Haven President Vince Berna sent out a letter seeking support for the charity event.

"You may not agree with the war," he wrote, "but we must support the troops."

Tickets are available at Burton Manor, 27777 Schoolcraft, Livonia; the Hellenic Cultural Center, on Joy east of Newburgh in Westland; at Veterans Haven Outreach Center, 4924 S. Wayne Road in Wayne; or by calling (734) 721-4594.

RIVER

Becky Leiting's fifth-graders were among the nearly 6,000 students from metro Detroit schools who participated in a hands-on learning experience this week by cleaning Rouge River tributaries and performing experiments coordinated by the Friends of the Rouge.

"We're investigating the water quality of Fellows Creek to see how it affects the Rouge River," said Leiting. "We're dissolving oxygen to see how much oxygen is in the water. The more there is, the cleaner the water is."

Speaking of the organisms they found in the water, 11-year-old Claire Huddas said "they need oxygen to live in the water. If there isn't enough, they can't live."

Students from Our Lady of Good Counsel in Plymouth performed similar experiments in Tonquish Creek, within walking distance of their school.

"We're trying to separate the different bugs to count how many we have, to see how the population is growing," said Kelly Lorenz, 14, an eighth-grader from Plymouth Township. "The water is healthy with oxygen and safer than last year."

Katie Yelick, 14, from Plymouth Township, also noticed the seemingly improved quality of Tonquish Creek this year, compared to experiments she did a year ago.

"Everything is more in abundance than last year because the water is being treated with more care than before," Yelick said. "It's improved a lot."

Their OLGC teacher, Mary Beth Nicholas, agreed they found more creatures than last year, "but we still have to analyze our tests to find out the quality of the water."

Teachers say having an outdoor classroom near their schools is a benefit in teaching science.

"It's convenient having an outdoor classroom where the kids can have hands-on science," said Nicholas. "In the classroom, you get to do some labs, but this is hands-on science, so the kids get excited."

David Tessier of Friends of the Rouge spent time observing the experiments being conducted by Tonda students. "This is where it starts," said Tessier. "Educating the youth so they can understand what impacts the river and environment, and to learn what they can do to improve its health."

"I want to see the class of service kept the way it is; that's near and dear to my heart," VanVleck said. "I hope we keep it a positive campaign. We want to keep what we have and hopefully make it better. That's sort of what I've heard as the theme."

Residents got copies of an outline for the campaign at that first meeting, which included a target of "a minimum" of a $10,000 budget. The plan is to organize, raise money and produce literature during May, then hit the streets door-to-door the last three weeks of June.

Visits to absentee voters, who turned down the original proposal by nearly 400 votes, will be stepped up in July. The group figures to spend some $4,000 on each of two mailings and another $2,000 on handouts and yard signs.

The demolition of the Super Kmart at Ford Road and Haggerty begins as developers make way for the Canton IKEA store.

Kmart razing clears the way for IKEA to get started

BY CAROL MARSHALL
STAFF WRITER

Monstrous backhoes churned and groaned loudly as the crowd of 100 watched the demolition of the former Super Kmart. People schmoozed and rubbed elbows, and all the while, Susan Mendenhall and Kirsten Ussery never looked up from their IKEA catalogs, except to exclaim periodically, "Oh yes! I want something like this!"

The demolition crew began tearing down the old Super Kmart building late Tuesday morning to make way for shoppers like Mendenhall and Ussery.

Mendenhall just moved into a new house in Westland, and Ussery recently moved into a new flat in Detroit, and they both have empty walls and cupboards that need to be filled. They want to fill them with goods from Swedish furniture retailer IKEA when the store opens in 2006.

"I can't wait," Mendenhall said. "I wish it was open now. I don't want to take a road trip to Chicago."

The Canton IKEA store has been in the works for a little more than a year. The 300,000 square foot store will be at the site at Ford and Haggerty where the Super Kmart, about half the size of the new IKEA store, once was.

A little more than a year ago, IKEA began working with Canton Township to build the chain's first Michigan store. The Canton store will be IKEA's 28th location in the United States. IKEA currently has 210 stores in 33 countries.

The impact on the community and on the state will be tremendous, according to Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack.

After it is built, the store will generate an estimated $1 million in annual property taxes, as well as $5 million in state sales taxes, and will employ some 350 local workers.

"It's not just Canton that will benefit," Yack said. "The sales tax revenue generated from this building, revenue that would be somewhere besides Michigan, will be going into the state coffers. This will have a tremendous impact on the state."

Township officials are working the Canton Chamber of Commerce to develop plans to encourage shoppers to stay in the area when they visit IKEA, he said.

"We don't want them to come for two or three hours for furniture and meatballs," he said, adding he hopes they will stay in local hotels and visit other stores, restaurants, and theaters.

Officials aren't the only ones excited about the new store.

Thad Bartley is the director of sales for the Comfort Inn in Plymouth Township.

"This is the biggest opportunity we've seen," he said. "We're excited."

Bartley is hoping that the IKEA retail development team will choose his hotel when they make their frequent visits to Canton during the next year. But after the opening of the new store, he's hoping shoppers will find their way to stay overnight.

"Certainly we're hoping to attract IKEA visitors, but we're also looking at all the residual business that will come after," he said.

"The economic boom will be exciting."

OUR VIEWS

Stick to truth in millage campaign

With Plymouth Township officials set to go back to the voters Aug. 2 in a second attempt to get a police/fire millage renewal and an increase, one citizens committee has already formed to promote the proposal and another is surely to follow to try to defeat it.

We have three words of advice for both committees: keep it clean.

Township leaders are asking voters to swallow both a 1.63-mill renewal and a 0.5631-mill increase for police and fire services. They packaged the renewal and a smaller increase in a question on the May 3 ballot, and promptly had it swatted away by voters.

The problems with the first election were numerous: Leaders did precious little to educate their voters about what purpose the millage serves. Putting the increase in the same question as the renewal was a calculated risk which had worked in previous elections. Township officials wrongly assumed it would work again.

This time around, they wisely decided to separate the issue into two questions, though they're asking for even more money. It's another calculated gamble, but one township officials feel they can sell.

Here's the problem: To do that, they're going to have to explain the numbers behind the proposal. Supervisor Richard Reaume started that process at last week's board meeting, showing a variety of charts containing a mind-numbing assortment of facts and figures.

There's nothing wrong with that, because voters deserve to have the proposal explained to them, complete with numbers that accurately display the needs in both the police and fire departments.

The problem with numbers is you can make them say just about anything you want. A twist here and a nudge there, and numbers that one side says explain why something is necessary can be used by the other side to explain why it isn't.

There's a very real danger of that happening in this case, because emotions are bound to flow as one side talks about potential police and firefighter layoffs and the other side talks about scare tactics and overspending.

The rhetoric started at last week's board meeting, when one township resident accused one board member of incompetence and threatened all seven with recall. Those kinds of threats do more harm than good by getting in the way of trying to educate the public — one way or the other — about the issue.

Committee members on both sides should use the numbers accurately and without hyperbole to get their points across.

Check the histrionics at the door, and do an honest job of campaigning. That's what the voters deserve.

Don't take clean water for granted

If there is a state whose people take water for granted, it is Michigan.

And why not? In addition to being surrounded by the Great Lakes, there are within our borders more than 11,000 lakes and thousands upon thousands of miles of streams and rivers. In fact, the only state with more coastline than Michigan is Alaska. Our state truly is a water wonderland.

But there is a long list of threats currently facing our lakes and rivers, and these threats come in many forms. Some are exotic invaders that hitch rides in the ballast of large freighters from far away seas. It is estimated there have been more than 140 invasive species that have taken up residence in the Great Lakes since the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway. Some of these invaders, including the sea lamprey and zebra mussel, have made a dramatic impact on the lakes, and have probably altered their ecosystems forever.

However, the greater threat to our lakes hit a little closer to home.

On Tuesday, the Environmental Integrity Project, a national organization dedicated to stronger enforcement of existing federal and state anti-pollution laws, released a report that found a significant number of cities in the six Great Lakes states, including Michigan, are still not in compliance with the federal Clean Water Act. The EIP reports that many cities are still allowing sewage overflows into our creeks and streams.

When the Clean Water Act was enacted in 1972, the Great Lakes were a virtual dumping ground for all kinds of pollutants. There is no doubt much progress has been made since then. But laws are only words unless they are enforced. It is up to us to ensure our waters remain clean. It isn't something we should take for granted.

LETTERS

No excuses

My goodness! Some people in the township imply that the voters didn't understand the proposal. Are we stupid or what? Another suggested that the senior vote lost the proposal. Could that be related to the fears about Social Security and pensions?

Bush has made it clear that those receiving now will not be affected. Nevertheless the fear goes on, that fear being flamed by partisan parties with hidden agendas. Private pensions, on the other hand, are vulnerable today. Metaldyne, right here in the township, just dumped its retirees. United Airline just dumped its retirees onto the government, also known as taxpayers. Other companies are reducing benefits for retirees.

And since the ball is rolling downhill for retirees, what's to stop many other companies from doing the same to save profits? The global economy was supposed to be a good thing, the politicians told us. But that outcome has resulted in a hesitation to believe what all politicians say.

But there is an additional factor for seniors. It's called money to pay bills. If one is a widow whose husband used to do all the handy work around the house, she must now hire outsiders to do that work. For example, it costs a fortune to get certain repairs made. So was I happy about that proposal? No!

I have no problem with the amount of money that is necessary for community services. But to be honest, I always have in the back of my mind that there is room for cuts in the budget. I have the greatest admiration for the firefighters and police officers. I would not want one of them to be laid off. They are needed desperately. I know. I have used their services several times with very high satisfaction.

So show me that the township has no excess spending, that cuts are to the bone. Now that the trial balloon has deflated, it appears that the township will do what it has to do. And the citizens must also do what they have to do: get out the vote, with no excuses.

Beatrice Scalise

Health insurance solution

I agree with David Spivey's column "Lack of health insurance takes toll" (May 1), but only to a point. Mr. Spivey does not come out and say it, but his statement, "In a just society, no one should be left behind," sounds like a pitch for a national health insurance plan better known as socialized medicine.

The problem of the uninsured can be solved without resorting to drastic measures such as socialized medicine, which would make matters even worse.

The uninsured are those who are too wealthy to qualify for Medicaid and too young to qualify for Medicare. They do not receive health coverage through their employer and do not purchase health insurance on their own.

A recent Michigan study of people without health insurance found that many live in households with incomes of more than $75,000, even more with incomes above $50,000. Many uninsured are young adults between ages of 19 and 25, who feel they do not need insurance because they are young and healthy.

Solution? Make health insurance policies affordable by offering a variety of policies from basic to deluxe and design special, inexpensive policies for healthy, young adults who are not covered by their parents. And to make sure no one is left behind, make having health coverage mandatory, just like auto insurance.

City's problems

Detroit had problems long before Engler, Limbaugh or Kilpatrick arrived on the scene. Electing political leaders that take advantage of race differences must stop. Cross-district busing destroyed our school system and endangered our children when we lived in the racially mixed Marygrove area.

HUD moved criminal elements into formerly unlocked homes and no one was safe anymore. Property values dropped faster than suburban prices increased. We remained until 1964, but the first to flee suffered the least.

Coleman Young was elected to end STRESS, the police decoy program that happened to capture mostly blacks. Crack addict Malice Green became a hero and the white police officers enforcing the law went to prison.

A smart cop will look away because criminals are often untouchable. Industry hesitates to move into a city that taxes even the incomes of employees living elsewhere, and preferential hiring and "living wages" discourage the likelihood of making a profit. Government does not create jobs, but it certainly destroys them.

Hank Borgman

Unjust charges

I would like to give your readers two examples of why our medical costs are so very high. I am a high-risk heart patient. My wife took me to a hospital emergency room twice in one week. After another catherization, angioplasty and stent procedure, I was released the next day before noon.

While waiting for the volunteer to arrive to transport me, a doctor who I had never seen before walked over to me, introduced himself, said he was a vascular surgeon and wanted to leave me his business card.

For this moment in time he charged Medicare $148 for an initial patient consult. Another billing the same day, by a doctor that I had never met, saw or heard of, charged Medicare $100 to sign my hospital discharge papers.

Can you believe this — $100 for a signature? These examples go on and on. When complaining by phone to the doctors' offices, the hospital, Medicare and the insurance company, I was told that these were legitimate charges.

The doctors are allowed to charge up to the approved amounts and when I signed the paperwork I signed a contract to pay these charges. In so many words, "just shut up and pay." It does not matter how unjust the charges are.

Tell the truth

The White House press corps asked the right questions at the recent press conference, but they did not get a candid response from the president. This is because the administration prefers to keep its motives hidden — what the president and his representatives say in public often belies their real intentions.

During the first term, for example, "Clear Skies" was their euphemistic name for legislation that would decrease environmental regulation. "Healthy Forests" was the name of a program designed to hasten the destruction of healthy forests ... and so on.

As we find ourselves bogged down in the deadly and costly war in Iraq, we now know that there were no weapons of mass destruction, but already unsubstantiated claims about a growing threat posed by weapons in Iran, or Syria or Cuba are starting to be heard. You have to wonder what the hidden agenda is.

The president says he wants to strengthen Social Security, but actually the hard-liners in the Republican Party have long desired to dismantle this hugely successful program. And when Bush's religious backers claim that the filibuster on judicial nominations is "against people of faith," they are ingenuous. What they are really trying to do is to marshal the Christian troops. The filibuster is not about religion. It would be against seven judges who have already been voted down for possessing opinions far out of the mainstream.

Their names have been resubmitted by Bush in an in-your-face challenge to the Democrats who dared to oppose him on the nominations.

The press can ask the right questions, but they won't get a frank reply unless they demand to be told the how, what, when, where and why. It is past time that we had some accountability from this administration. It is time that they told us the truth.

"It's possible a tax increase might not be a bad thing ... The board needs to explain why they didn't do this in the first place. With what's going on in terms of homeland security, this is not the time to be cutting police and fire."

— Carl Berry, former Plymouth Township police chief, on the Aug. 2 police/fire millage proposal

Congress needs to act now to prevent pension disaster

When it comes to the autumn of our lives, few things are as important as a decent and comfortable retirement. Yet increasingly, a forest of dense and often bewildering terms are standing in the way:

Defined benefit pension plan. Pension Benefit Guarantee Corp. (PBGC). Distressed termination. Frozen plan. Underfunded. Deficit reduction contribution requirements. Legacy costs.

Unlovely words — but important ones, because for thousands and thousands of Michigan workers and pensioners, each term represents a potential threat to their retirement future.

Here's the key to understanding all this: Some companies have promised their employees a "defined benefit" pension upon retirement (i.e. plans that provide workers with a set amount each month, depending on their wages and number of years worked), but yet have not contributed enough to their pension funds to pay for the benefits they promised.

Such plans are "underfunded" and, by law, the companies are obliged to make up the difference — a "deficit reduction contribution requirement" — within three years. A huge problem for some financially weak companies is that making these catch-up payments could push them into bankruptcy.

If that happens, their pension obligations can be turned over to the federal Pension Benefit Guarantee Corp. But the PBGC is already saddled with a $23 billion deficit, the result of various companies having gone into bankruptcy over the past few rocky years.

Which means that pensioners covered by the PBGC often discover their benefits are much less than what they assumed they'd get in retirement.

All this can cause big trouble for many people. Just last week, in the largest corporate pension default in U.S. history, United Airlines obtained permission from a bankruptcy judge for a "distressed termination" of its pension plan, which was underfunded by $9.8 billion.

That ruling clears the way for United's pension plan to be turned over to the PBGC, which scares the Dickens out of the airline's retirees and employees already nervous about their pensions. A spokeswoman for the Association of Flight Attendants said that her pension, for example, could be cut from $1,700 a month to $800 — less than half what she had counted on.

And there is a potential local angle that could have far more importance for our area. Northwest Airlines, the dominant carrier at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, employs nearly 9,000 people in Michigan and has something like 1,000 retirees. They have been nervous for some time, and what happened with United last week made them a whole lot more so.

The nation's airlines are in trouble, having collectively lost nearly $33 billion since 2000. Northwest is no exception, having lost $458 million in the first quarter of this year alone. By the end of last year, Northwest's pension plan was underfunded by $3.829 billion. For months, the airline has been fighting to stay out of bankruptcy, which, if declared, would lead to serious job loss and risk reductions in pension benefits.

If bankruptcy were to happen, everybody loses, according to Andrea Newman, Northwest's vice president for government relations.

"Under current law, once a pension plan is underfunded the difference has to be made up within three years. If that happens, the risks become very great," she said. "Making these big cash payments could push the company into bankruptcy. The employees could find their pension benefits cut substantially. The Pension Benefit Guarantee Corporation would be saddled with another big debt obligation, and the taxpayers would have to pay for it. Nobody wins."

As what happened to United shows, Newman is describing a looming crisis that demands a prompt solution.

She and others in the airline industry think they have one. They would prefer to amend the federal law to allow the airlines to freeze their pension benefits at current levels and stretch out overdue payments to their pension funds for 25 years instead of three, as the law now requires.

Representatives of the airlines and their unions met in March with 10 senators to press for the change. To my mind, this proposal only makes good sense. Employees would continue to get their full pension benefits rather than see them slashed when the pensions are taken over by the PBGC.

By stretching out their underfunded payments, airlines would get time to return to economic health. And both the government and the taxpayers benefit by avoiding a wholesale shift of pension liabilities.

What are the chances for legislative success? Reasonable, Newman says: "The senators have assured Northwest that their forthcoming pension bill will include a provision that deals with this issue. The House has told us they are interested in working with us. I'd guess something will be done, sooner or later. But the Pension Funding Equity Act expires at the end of 2005, so 2006 will be the year of the big crunch."

Far from being a government handout, the solution proposed by Northwest and other airlines makes sense. It costs no money. It improves the business prospects for Northwest, Michigan's dominant air carrier and one of the big factors in any economic development strategy for the state. And it protects workers from seeing their pension benefits slashed.

It's a win-win-win deal that, for the benefit of all concerned, the U.S. Congress should pass and the president should sign, right away.

Michigan deserves fair share for highway repairs

Highways laden with potholes. Bumper-to-bumper traffic on overcrowded streets. Large orange barrels and "detour" signs and roadway closures.

Sound familiar? Traffic congestion and weathered roads have become all-too-familiar to Michigan motorists, who end up with deteriorating cars and white knuckles. We need adequate federal funding to get our roads back in working order.

The Senate is currently considering a highway funding bill that provides federal funding for highways and bridges, highway safety initiatives, and transit programs.

Unfortunately, the bill maintains discriminatory funding formulas that require about 20 states, including Michigan — known as "donor" states — to send more gas tax dollars to the Highway Trust Fund in Washington than they receive in transportation infrastructure spending, while the remaining 30 states — known as "donee" states — receive more in transportation funding than they pay into the Highway Trust Fund.

This formula was developed in 1956, and for the past 50 years, those states that benefit from it have fought tenaciously to defend it.

For many years, I have worked with other members of the Michigan congressional delegation to fight for a fairer return on our state's highway dollars.

We have made some progress over the years — for instance, 25 years ago Michigan received about 75 cents out of every dollar we paid in federal gas taxes, and we've clawed our way to where we now receive over 90 cents. I won't be satisfied until we get our full return.

I introduced a bill earlier this year with

For many years, I have worked with other members of the Michigan congressional delegation to fight for a fairer return on our state's highway dollars.

Republican Sen. George Voinovich from Ohio that would increase the federal minimum guaranteed funding level, which would bring us one step closer to achieving fairness in the distribution of federal highway funding to states. At stake are tens of millions of dollars a year in additional funding for Michigan to pay for badly needed transportation improvements — as well as the jobs that go with it.

Last year, the Senate passed a highway bill that would have given Michigan about $7.4 billion in highway funding over six years, which would produce about 100,000 new jobs. While it would not have fully corrected the inequities in funding formulas, it would have made some progress. The bill was never signed into law, however, because the president vowed to veto the Senate-passed bill, despite the fact that a strong, bipartisan majority approved the legislation.

The bill that the Senate is currently considering falls short of last year's effort. It provides fewer resources than the bipartisan bill that the Senate passed last year, and it fails to adequately raise the guaranteed rate of return to the states to 95 cents.

I'm going to fight for a fairer bill — along with senators from some other donor states — but we need the president to agree to support a bill that does not favor one group of states over another. We need a bill that is fair to everyone.

Liberal nonsense

Listening and reading the things that liberal Democrats are putting out about the problems in the Senate would make most people think we are on the verge of becoming a dictatorship, and frankly I'm sick and tired of their collective whining! I cannot remember one single liberal Supreme Court nominee who the Republicans filibustered or threatened to filibuster because filibustering a presidential nominee is not constitutional.

This nonsense from liberals that Republicans are trying to "change the constitutional balance of power" is asinine and over the top. Most constitutional scholars agree that the filibuster was meant to be legislative, not something to use against presidential appointees.

This whole thing is nothing more than a "liberal temper tantrum," because of their continued failure at the polls and the resulting loss of legislative power in Washington, and it will result in more of the same for them in the future. Does anyone remember the Republicans doing anything remotely similar during their 40 years as the minority party? I can tell you people remember and then compare the differences, even if liberals still think that they don't.

Battle over interstate wine sales far from over

BY JOE BAUMAN
STAFF WRITER

Wine writers Ray and Eleanor Heald may have won their legal war Monday against the state of Michigan when the U.S. Supreme Court struck down a ban on interstate, direct-to-consumer wine shipments, but the battle over the issue is far from over.

The Healds, wine columnists for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Troy residents, sued the state in March 2000 claiming Michigan's law was preventing them from securing wine samples from out-of-state wineries needed for their work.

The case focused on whether Michigan's law violated the commerce clause of the U.S. Constitution since it treated in-state wineries differently from their out-of-state competitors. Michigan wineries are free to ship their product directly to customers, while out-of-state wineries have to use the state's established three-tier distribution system.

The case eventually was joined with a similar suit from New York state before landing on the Supreme Court docket.

"We knew a case would eventually make it to the Supreme Court since appellate courts were handing down conflicting rulings, but we didn't imagine it would be our case," Ray Heald said. "The state would be foolish and irresponsible to act in a way that would put any state industry at a disadvantage."

Heald's comment was in response to published reports that the head of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission will ask the state Legislature to change the law so even in-state wineries would be prohibited from shipping wine to Michigan residents.

Such a move would essentially put Michigan's growing wine industry out of business, said plaintiff's attorney Alex Tanford, who served as co-counsel on behalf of the Healds through the law firm Epstein, Cohen, Donahoe & Mendez.

"This case is not about just shipping wines to consumers," said Tanford, who also is a professor of litigation at Indiana University. "What the courts rightly ruled is that the state has to treat all wineries the same in terms of doing business, regardless of whether they are located in the state or not."

If the state continues to ban out-of-state wineries from dealing directly with customers, then Michigan wineries would lose all the competitive advantages they have enjoyed over the years with the state's blessing.

"If Michigan wineries can only sell through the current three-tiered system of distribution burdening out-of-state wineries, then that means they can no longer sell to customers who visit the winery or an off-site tasting room," he said. "And it would also snuff out any new wine ventures in the state since there is no way they could afford to be represented by a wholesaler or compete for shelf space at the retail level."

Tanford said the state of Michigan will be responsible for paying all legal fees accumulated over the five-year fight, which will be set by U.S. District Judge Bernard Friedman, who first heard the case. He said the total cost of the case, including staff time of the state's in-house counsel, could reach $1 million.

For their part, the Healds said they hope the state will do the right thing and swing open the doors to all wineries wanting to sell to Michigan residents, which also for the first time would allow Michigan wineries to begin shipping their products to out-of-state customers.

"Wine lovers in Michigan and the other 22 'constrained' states will now be able to join winery clubs in other states and receive special wines and educational materials to expand their knowledge of wines," Eleanor Heald said.

Tanford said it should take about 90 days before the high court's ruling is officially entered and takes effect. Until then, he said "just about anything" can happen.

"The Liquor Control Commission could seek an administrative action outlining new rules, or the Legislature could pass a new law establishing whatever guidelines they feel are proper and necessary," he said. "But I can't imagine the state would be interested in investing a whole lot more time and money in trying to protect bad legislation."

Liquor Control Commission Chairwoman Nida Samona could not be reached at press time.

State Sen. Nancy Cassis (R- Novi) said the state will need to level the playing field without devastating Michigan's wine industry.

"The court ruled the commerce clause trumps a state's right to regulate alcohol sales, so we need to be sensitive to that while keeping focused on the impact to an important state industry," she said. "This is a complex and complicated issue that will take some time to work through."

Any new law must be focused on keeping alcohol out of the hands of minors, said state Sen. Laura Toy (R-Livonia), a major argument in the state's case that was largely discounted in the court opinion.

Lights giving fantastic

Creative exterior lighting enhances property

BY MARY KLEMIC
STAFF WRITER

A light touch – that is, a touch of light – can be just the right touch to enhance a home or landscape. Paul Eddleston, president of Illuminata, an exterior lighting company based in Birmingham, has a philosophy of “quiet understatement” when it comes to illuminating a residential landscape.

“Don’t get carried away,” said Eddleston, who lives in Birmingham. “A little lighting goes a long way.”

Lighting can do more than illuminate pathways and house numbers. And any home can have attractive lighting, not restricted to architecturally appropriate fixtures.

Besides providing security and safety, lights can show off architecture, plants and gardens as well.

Illuminata helps homeowners design creative ways of shining light on property. The company designs, installs and maintains exterior lighting systems.

“People underuse (lighting) and overdo it,” said Eddleston, who is opposed to what he calls “light pollution” – glaring illumination.

“You want to make people aware of the paths, but there’s a little more you can do creatively.”

ENLIGHTENING

Like an artist with a canvas, Eddleston works with lighting to create beautiful and mesmerizing night scenes involving paths, steps, plants, patios gardening methods as we strolled through your gardens. What a treat that was. I enjoyed learning about new plants and products and sharing that information. I hope the book reviews helped you to make wise selections.

Now it's time to move on to other things. Lew and I will continue to travel, visit relatives and friends, and take time to enjoy life as it should be enjoyed. He deserves it – he has encouraged and supported me through the ups and downs. (Someday I'll even get this computer mastered.)

People ask, “What did you like best about this job?” I say, “The people!” I leave you with many memories. You'll see my name again as I will occasionally do a story for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and for Michigan Gardener.

As you know, I tried to teach something each time my work was published, so I won't stop now. I encourage you to become a master gardener. Tour modern kitchens to benefit camp

You can learn more about modern kitchens or get new ideas at an upcoming kitchen tour on Friday, May 20 in Northville.

The third annual Northville Kitchen Tour, scheduled 10 a.m.-4 p.m. helps benefit O.U.R. Camp for Children with Special Needs in Plymouth.

The tour of beautiful kitchens in five homes in the area features tablescaping designed by local businesses. The tour includes a luncheon at Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall Restaurant. This year, homes are located in Northville and Novi. Four of the kitchens are remodels and the fifth is a new home.

The tour is sponsored by the Board of Directors of O.U.R. Camp, a local summer day camp in Northville for children with special needs.

Tickets are $25. All proceeds to go to O.U.R. Camp.

Tickets are available in advance at The Kitchen Witch, 134 E. Main St., Northville and online at www.ourcamp.org. If still available, tickets may be purchased the day of the event at Genitti's, 132 E. Main St., Northville.

For further information, call Kathryn Peltier 248-348-7026.

All proceeds from the tour will help to support O.U.R. Camp (Opportunity, Understanding, Recreation); a summer day camp for any child ages 3-9, with special needs. The camp is operated by a volunteer, parent-run Board of Directors whose mission is to offer a fun-filled, appropriately-structured program at the lowest possible cost. The group must raise funds every year to fulfill the camp's mission and cover operating costs, and to avoid raising the camp fees.

Check downspouts, gutters if your basement leaks

Harry from Canton e-mailed me recently about his problems with leaky walls in his basement.

Through our communications, it appears his problem may be due mainly to saturated soil, a typical problem in Canton (and most of the other metro Detroit communities) where homes were built on heavy clay soil. This can be a very difficult problem for homeowners, and something we'll explore in another column.

Let's look at some of the more common reasons for leaky basement walls and the remedies for them.

Uncontrolled surface water or water pooling close to the foundation probably causes more basement leaks than anything else. Start by checking for proper drainage slope away from the house.

The Michigan Residential Code (401.3) says, "The grade away from foundation walls shall fall a minimum of 6 inches within the first 10 feet." Sometimes this slope may be difficult to achieve because of the lay of the land, proximity to other structures or lot lines. The code addresses this problem by stating that "drains or swales shall be provided to ensure drainage away from the structure." It is still imperative that there is drainage away from the building.

Overflow from gutters and downspouts that are clogged are some other contributors to surface water that is too close to the foundation or the downspouts themselves are insufficient. Cleaning the gutters and downspouts will often eliminate this problem. If you suspect that you don't have enough downspouts, clean the gutters. Then go outside and look at them during a heavy rain (when rain falls for about 15 minutes, but not during a thunderstorm and lightning strikes). If you find that there is overflow, have extra downspouts or larger downspouts installed.

While on the topic of downspouts, whenever possible have them discharge 10 feet from the foundation. This is often very difficult to do as water can discharge onto neighboring properties, make mowing difficult in your yard or the downspouts just may be unsightly. Just keep in mind that farther is better. Get them away from the house as far as possible.

Grass tends to "shed" water more than soil. Large flowerbeds sometimes allows water to reach the foundation walls.

Still another area to look at is places where pavement abuts the foundation. Look for pavement that has settled toward the house and the sealant at this joint. The sealant is relatively easy to repair. Use polyurethane backer rod and a good self-leveling concrete caulk, such as products from the Sika Co. These goods are available at home improvement stores and many hardware stores.

Finally, all too often leaking basement wall problems are caused by overwatering of lawns and shrubs. Check that the automatic irrigation system is adjusted properly, so it is not sprinkling too much water near the building. Also, adjust the activation time so you don't saturate the soil, especially near the foundation. You may even want to consider investing in a rainstat, which doesn't allow the system to activate when there has been sufficient rain.

Try this hotline for some yard care information

Before you get your hands dirty working in your yard over the Memorial Day weekend, you can get "yard smart" with a phone call.

Call the free Yard Smarts hotline next week for professional advice and answers to lawn and garden or outdoor power equipment questions.

Consumers can call (866) YARD-TIPS between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday-Friday, May 23-27, and talk to an expert about their yard care challenges and woes.

The Yard Smarts hotline is hosted by Briggs & Stratton, a major manufacturer of engines for outdoor power equipment.

The phone lines will be manned by Trey Rogers, professor of turf grass science at Michigan State University, and his colleagues from MSU.

Rogers - also known as the Briggs & Stratton "Yard Doctor" (www.yarddoctor.com) - and his team will field all types of questions related to turf, weeds and pests, plants and flowers, shrubs and trees, fertilizers, pesticides and more.

Briggs & Stratton representatives will field consumer questions on outdoor power equipment and troubleshooting equipment problems.

From all the hotline calls received, one name will be drawn to receive a personal visit from the Yard Doctor.

One caller's name will be drawn each day to receive a new mower, pressure washer or portable generator powered by a Briggs & Stratton engine.

and decks. The right light can have an artistic effect on a specific element, or showcase a house, garden or landscape.

Among his projects, Eddleston has placed lights behind bushes that washed the facade of a house with illumination, bringing out attractive patterns of brick and stone. Plays of shadows that result are another bonus.

Lights positioned under soffits grazed brick; those under a canopy to show steps also enhanced the architecture of stone piers.

Eddleston has positioned small floodlights up in trees for downlights, creating a subtle illumination like soft moonlight that paints bushes with a gentle glow.

Rather than illuminating everything in a landscape, he has lit bushes from within, and selected accent pieces for high-lighting.

"Restraint is the key," Eddleston said.

Illuminata uses new brass and copper fixtures, as well as low-voltage lights that are cheaper and safer than line-voltage lamps. The low-voltage systems feature cables that can be covered by mulch.

Stylish lights don't have to attract attention. Illuminata designs have featured lights that are out of sight during the day; for example, path lighting that is nestled next to shrubs.

Eddleston meets with the homeowner and visits the site to develop a feeling for what lighting to use.

"You have to see them and talk to them about what they need and what they want illuminated."

"What do they want the light to do? Once you answer that question, we (develop) a solution for that."

BACKGROUND

Eddleston has 11 years of experience in electrical engineering and landscaping.

"It was like everything I did was leading up to this," he said.

Born in Manchester, England, Eddleston studied electrical and mechanical engineering at Salford University College in England.

He had a career in electrical engineering, working as a designer in nuclear, waste water and lighting and small power industries.

"I was really a cyclist at heart," said Eddleston, a former semi-professional bike racer.

He moved to Cincinnati 15 years ago because of his love of bike racing, which led to his involvement in the landscaping industry.

Eddleston worked with Botanical Landscaping and Horticultural Services Inc., including assisting with landscape designs and starting a landscape lighting division.

"I did that to pay for my cycling," he said.

"I was still trying to get back into engineering but got distracted (with the landscape firm)."

Eddleston founded LIMEY-

LIGHT Landscape Lighting in Cincinnati in 1996. He moved to Washington, D.C., and started Illuminata.

Eddleston's wife, Lori, is an assistant professor of biology at Wayne State University.

VARIETY

A display of outside lights at Brose Electrical in Livonia shows the wide variety available - with different finishes (including pewter, verde bronze, aged bronze, ebony, antique copper, antique nickel, brass and brick), styles (such as classical and Arts and Crafts) and types of lights (including flickering flame).

Well lights are popular, said Patrick Tumey, estimator at Reliable Landscaping Inc. in Canton. These are buried in the ground and shine up on trees or any other focal points.

Reliable will set up demonstration kits to give customers an idea of the lighting effect.

Plymouth Nursery and Garden Center uses Rockscapes professional lighting, a low-voltage system with lights and lanterns made of materials that include brass, copper and aluminum.

"We don't want to get a run-way effect," said Ann Hagman, landscape designer. "We'll highlight trees, focal points."

equally simple.

But consider what happened while the Recording Industry Association of America was busy suing the stuffing out of file-sharing sites and teenage girls: iTunes came along and proved that people were more than willing to pay for digital music. Now it's the model for the entire industry.

So if we're headed in that direction anyway, why wait? Do you really want to share your profits with Steve Jobs?

You may argue that this move is unnecessary, that DVDs are making it less likely I'll miss my favorite shows. But for some reason you're screwing that up, too, like when you schedule shows from 8:00 to 9:01.

That's right, NBC, I'm missing The West Wing because ABC tacks an extra minute on the end of Lost. You gonna let them get away with that?

If you're worried about cutting into DVD sales, don't be, this is an entirely different market. We just want to stay current on our favorite shows so we're not odd-man-out at the water cooler.

At the risk of being unpopular with my readers, let me give you one last incentive: It's possible to disable fast-forwarding in the downloaded files, meaning viewers will be forced to sit through commercials. That's easy extra money in your pockets.

TV show downloads will happen sooner or later. I vote for sooner. Why should I have to haunt the Internet's back alleys for my weekly Wisteria Lane fix?

Remember, you're not just fertilizing your lawn

Find out more at www.semcog.org

Fertilize sparingly and carefully

Green grass can result in green lakes.
That's because storm drains found in our streets and yards lead directly to our lakes and streams. So, fertilizer from your lawn can easily end up in our water. This fertilizer can form large algae blooms and use up oxygen fish and other aquatic insects need to survive.

What can you do? These tips will help stop our lakes from turning green and keep some green in your pocket.

- Sweep fertilizer off of driveways and sidewalks and back onto your lawn
- Recycle grass clippings by leaving them on your lawn.
- Use fertilizer with no or low phosphorus
- Select a slow-release fertilizer where at least half of the nitrogen is water insoluble (check the label).

Keep the green where it belongs.

Great Wines

Connoisseurs enjoy the fruits of regional vintners' labors at OCC fund-raiser

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

Robert Gillikin of Canton enjoys the Great Lakes Great Wines event at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington Hills.

And being the wine lover he is, he's not particularly shy about being a wine connoisseur.

"I like the fact that you can go pick up a bottle and pour it yourself," he said. "You can find something you like and go with it. The wines are tremendous and the food is outstanding."

Gillikin and more than 200 others enjoyed food from 14 restaurants and country clubs with proceeds going to a scholarship fund. Monies raised also will help fund a trip to France next year for students in the school's Culinary Studies Institute.

Darlene Levinson, chair of Great Lakes Great Wines and instructor, said she would not know for several days how much this year's event would raise, but said the event has raised more than $80,000 in its first nine years. More than 250 tickets were sold for this year's event.

"We had quite a few new wineries," Levinson said. "We had some amazing ones. The Michigan vineyards are getting a lot better."

Then there's the food. Gillikin's favorite dish was OCC's Culinary Studies Institute's shrimp and sausage New Orleans-style with dirty rice. That and steamed chicken dumplings were hits with the guests, dishes created by OCC chefs and instructors Kevin Enright and Doug Ganhs, assisted by OCC culinary students. "I also liked the crab cakes from Travis Pointe Country Club," Gillikin added.

And there were other delicious dishes, too, from many area chefs. Steve Allen, co-owner of Steve & Rocky's in Novi, featured a poached salmon with vermouth sauce, while Detroit Athletic Club's David Howell created a smoked whitefish with potato cake.

Chef Randy Emert, certified executive chef at Great Oaks Country Club in Rochester, created a spicy spring pork tenderloin. Mark Dixon, certified executive chef at Dearborn Country Club, added a spring touch to the menu with a light and delicious Asian salmon salad with honey-lime vinaigrette.

Then there were the wines, featuring more than 500 of them from six states (Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Wisconsin, New York and Pennsylvania) along with wineries in Ontario, Canada.

Gillikin enjoys the sweet whites, namely the reislings. He enjoys the Michigan wines. "It's really the best-kept secret in Michigan," he said.

Johanna Schave of Trenton saw a newspaper article and decided Great Lakes Great Wines would be a fun event to attend. "It really sounded interesting," Schave said. She had hoped that the Oliver winery in Indiana would have wines there, but she tried and enjoyed some of the others, including Black Star from Michigan's Leelanau Peninsula.

"The food is excellent," Schave said. Her favorite: the chicken wraps from P.F. Changs.

Schave's friend, Dianne Macut, also of Trenton, enjoys traveling to different wineries throughout Michigan.

"We're looking for other wineries and we can see ones here we can travel to," Macut said. With so many wineries from New York at the fund-raiser, Macut said she'd be interested in traveling there. Both women keep wine journals, noting which labels they enjoy.

"We love the Traverse City wines," Schave said.

Levinson said fruit wines are not her favorite, but she notes that they are getting better overall in the entire Great Lakes region: "I'm amazed at the quality of fruit wines. I'm just amazed at how good they are and how they have grown so much. It's getting quite competitive."

Area chef debuts in new public television show

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

Shawn Loving may soon join the ranks of Emeril Lagasse, Mario Batali, Sara Moulton and Bobby Flay.

Well, maybe he doesn't have the national appeal of those chefs just yet, but the owner of Loving Spoonful in Farmington Hills will debut in his own cooking show at 5:30 p.m. today on WTVS-TV (Channel 56).

Loving shows viewers how to bring out the flavor in Cuisine from the Heart.

"My goal is to show a very simple appreciation of cooking and to cater to every age group and ethnic group," he said. "I want to try to capture food to appeal to audiences, kind of like the Nick at Night episodes." Loving wants to explore creativity in the kitchen, yet keep it simple. "We'll show easy recipes with basic items you can find in the pantry, leftover items and one- and two-part combinations of flavors, and meals you can prepare," he said.

The show's producer said the show gives home cooks information that they will enjoy and appreciate using.

"We think viewers will appreciate the show because it is contemporary and informative in offering ways to save time and money with healthy and tasty dishes that are fun to prepare," says B. Charles Mercado, the show's producer. Jeff Forster is the executive producer.

Loving, who also teaches at Schoolcraft College in Livonia, hosted a dinner at his restaurant about a year ago to help raise money for the public television station when officials approached him later about hosting a television show. "They approached me and I thought, like any chef would, 'Why not?'" Loving said.

The half-hour program explores how ingredients and cooking techniques have changed. Loving will demonstrate preparation of dishes that are flavorful, healthy and inexpensive.

Loving enlists the help of two of his students to create a variety of dishes using a roasted pepper and tomato sauce. "You can use it on pasta, or form a puree to use in a soup or mix in leftover products, like rotisserie chicken, and make a stew with it," he said.

Sherri Cooper of Armada appears in today's episode to recreate a wacky cake recipe left behind by her aunt. After failing in her own efforts to bring out the taste, Cooper issues a challenge to Loving. The chef tested and adjusted the recipe several times with his students, then unveils a revised wacky cake for the program guest.

The question of whether Loving restored the taste to Cooper's family recipe will be answered on the show.

Fresh herbs bring spring to your salads

BY DANA JACOBI
CORRESPONDENT

Perk up green salads by adding fresh herbs like parsley, basil, or mint (available at the market) to your dressing, leafy greens, or both.

In spring, I especially like using mint. It refreshes the flavor of romaine and other greens, and makes commercially-grown baby spinach positively sprightly.

The concentrated aroma and flavor of herbs signals that they are packed with nutrients. Mint is particularly rich in vitamin C, carotenoids and antioxidant compounds, especially terpenes, which laboratory studies have shown to protect against some cancers. It also contains substances that help the body fight inflammation and can aid in easing nasal congestion, just the thing if you suffer from spring allergies.

The mint you buy will probably be spearmint, though you might find peppermint. Spearmint has slightly rounded, crinkly, bright green leaves and a mild, refreshing flavor. Peppermint's pointed leaves have a purplish cast. Its flavor is cool and intense.

The recipe for the following salad appears in The New American Plate Cookbook: Recipes for a Healthy Weight and a Healthy Life. The dressing includes a touch of mint, plus fresh berries, but you can also add a bit more mint to the salad itself. I like to snip four or five additional mint leaves into thin strips and toss them with a combination of baby spinach, romaine and red leaf lettuce. Fresh berries on top of the greens gives the salad a vernal look while enhancing its nutritional value. If there are no blueberries around, strawberries can take their place in both the dressing and on the salad.

New twist on an old favorite: Moroccan mashed potatoes

BY DANA JACOBI
CORRESPONDENT

Imagine the adventurous soul who first dared to eat a raw oyster. While this heroic act is celebrated by gourmands, I would rather cheer the cook who discovered how to whip a humble tuber into mashed potato bliss.

No one knows for certain who first made mashed potatoes. Most likely, it happened somewhere in France or in Britain, conceivably as early as the 16th century, shortly after potatoes were brought to Europe from the New World. At that time, most Europeans believed potatoes were poisonous and cultivated them mainly for their fragrant flowers, and it was subterfuge and disguise rather than derring-do that gradually turned the potato into an everyday ingredient.

By the 1700s, English aristocrats had a passion for colcannon, the poor man's dish from Ireland, combining mashed potatoes with kale or cabbage. Also, Antoine Parmentier, the French military man who popularized spuds in France, served Benjamin Franklin a meal prepared entirely of potatoes.

By the late 18th century, chefs in Europe and the U.S. were serving lavish potato dishes full of cream, butter and even precious truffles. Europeans took potatoes along as they conquered the East, planting a taste for them in India, Indonesia and other parts of their empires.

As they took root in various places, potatoes were combined with local ingredients. Malaysians still use them in roti canai, a paper-thin flatbread dipped into a curry sauce that includes chicken and potato chunks. Ethiopians add potatoes to a mild vegetable stew made with cabbage, carrots and onions, and make fiery stews, or wa'ats, with ginger and dried red peppers. Indians love potatoes in curry, a wonderful combination, and wrap peppery mashed potatoes inside the immense, paper-thin, crisp pancakes called dosas.

In Morocco, Jews make a casserole of mashed potatoes with carrots, peas, scallions and cilantro. They fluff the potatoes by adding eggs rather than milk or cream. A touch of turmeric adds both golden color and a rich, buttery flavor.

MOROCCAN-STYLE MASHED POTATOES

1 pound yellow-fleshed potatoes
2 tablespoons canola oil
1 medium carrot, finely diced
2 cups chopped onion
1 garlic clove, finely chopped
1 cup frozen baby green peas
canola oil spray
3 extra large eggs, lightly beaten
1/4 teaspoon ground turmeric
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground pepper
4 scallions, white and green, chopped
1/2 cup chopped cilantro

Place the potatoes in a deep saucepan, halving any large ones so that potatoes are roughly a uniform size. Add cold water, covering them to a depth of 2 inches. Cook, uncovered until tender, about 30 minutes.

Meanwhile, heat the oil in a medium skillet over medium-high heat. Sauté the carrots 3 minutes. Add the onions and garlic and sauté, stirring, until the onions golden, 2 minutes longer. (Do not allow garlic to brown.) Mix in the green peas. Remove from heat and set aside.

Preheat the oven to 350° F. Coat a deep 8-inch baking dish with cooking spray and place it in the oven to preheat. (This helps brown the potatoes on the bottom.)

When cool enough to handle, peel the potatoes and mash until fluffy. Mix in the eggs, then the vegetables, cilantro and turmeric. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Carefully remove the hot baking dish from the oven. Transfer the mixture to the pan. Bake 45 to 50 minutes, or until golden on top. Serve immediately.

Makes 12 servings.

Per serving: 98 calories, 4 g. total fat (less than 1 g. saturated fat), 12 g. carbohydrate, 4 g. protein, 2 g. dietary fiber, 222 mg. sodium.

MIXED GREENS WITH BLUEBERRIES AND FETA

2 tablespoons raspberry-flavored (or blueberry-flavored) vinegar
1/2 cup fat-free, reduced-sodium chicken broth
2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
1 teaspoon honey
2 small fresh mint leaves
1 cup plus 10 fresh blueberries
8 cups mixed salad greens, torn into bite-sized pieces.
2 ounces crumbled reduced-fat feta cheese

In a blender, place vinegar, broth, oil, honey, mint and 10 blueberries. Blend at low speed just until smooth and well-combined. Transfer the dressing to a jar with a tight-fitting lid and refrigerate until needed. (It will keep for up to 3 days.)

In a large bowl, toss greens with remaining blueberries. Shake vinaigrette until well blended, drizzle over the salad, and toss lightly. Sprinkle the cheese over the top and serve.

Makes 8 servings.

Per serving: 64 calories, 4 g. total fat (1 g. saturated fat), 5 g. carbohydrate, 3 g. protein, 2 g. dietary fiber, 126 mg. sodium.

Make chili lean with vegetables

BY DANA JACOBI
CORRESPONDENT

We call it chili, shortening the name from its original, chili con carne, the dish chuck wagon cooks in the Southwest made to feed the he-man appetites of cowboys working cattle at the ranch and out on the range. We expect it to be hearty and filling, whether it is hot, hotter or hottest from liberal seasoning with ground dried chile peppers.

Until fairly recently, most people also expected chili to be meaty. In addition to arguing over the relative virtues of personally blended secret seasonings, and if it was acceptable to include beans in chili, rather than accompanying it, they also debated whether great chili could be made using ground meat, or if it had to be finely chopped by hand. What no self-professed "chilihead" ever considered was leaving out the meat.

In fact, beans help make vegetarian chili as satisfying as those using meat, and a far sight healthier. Although it is so much leaner and cholesterol-free, pitching meatless chili to anyone but committed vegetarians used to be a hard sell. This changed when the world discovered the black bean chili Deborah Madison made when she was the chef at Green's restaurant in San Francisco in the 1980s. She proved how profoundly flavorful, yet simply sophisticated, vegetarian dishes can be. This chili inspired the rest of us to develop more pleasing meatless chilis, like the one below, which is crammed with summer vegetables and perfect for a summer day, sunny or rainy.

I find that pintos – the soft, creamy bean that usually accompanies Texas-style chili con carne – the least satisfactory for a vegetarian chili. I think black beans are best, staying firm yet creamy and giving a pleasing contrast to the other ingredients. I especially like them combined with roasted vegetables, which remain pleasantly al dente, while adding the layers of flavor that make an exciting chili like this one.

BLACK BEAN AND ROASTED VEGETABLE CHILI

Canola oil spray
1 large zucchini, cut crosswise into 1-inch slices

1 small eggplant, about 1 pound, cut in 1-inch cubes
1 tablespoon extra virgin olive oil
1 large sweet onion, chopped
3 large garlic cloves, finely chopped
2 tablespoons chili powder
2 tablespoons dried oregano
1 tablespoon ground cumin
1/4-1/2 teaspoon ground chipotle chili
1 tablespoon tomato paste
One can (28 ounces) whole plum tomatoes, drained, liquid reserved
2 cans (15 ounces each) black beans, rinsed and drained
1/2 packed cup cilantro leaves
Cayenne pepper, to taste (optional)
Salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste
1/2 cup reduced fat sour cream, for garnish
1-2 tablespoons lime juice, for garnish

Preheat the oven to 425° F.

Coat a baking sheet with cooking spray. Place the zucchini and eggplant on the sheet. Generously spray the vegetables with cooking spray and toss to coat them all over. Spread them in one layer. Roast until the eggplant is lightly colored and soft but holding its shape, 20-25 minutes, turning the vegetables after 15 minutes. This can be done up to 4 hours ahead.

Meanwhile, heat the oil in a large pot over medium heat. Sauté the onion until translucent, 4 minutes. Add the garlic and cook until the onion is soft, 3 minutes longer. Mix in the chili powder, oregano, cumin, and chipotle chili. Stir in the tomato paste. Add the tomatoes and 1/2 cup of their liquid. Break up the tomatoes with a spoon. Simmer 15 minutes.

Add the beans and roasted vegetables. Cook 10 minutes, stirring occasionally, adding more tomato liquid to keep the chili moist but not soupy. When the zucchini is soft but not mushy, remove from the heat. Mix in the cilantro and cayenne, salt and pepper to taste.

Divide the chili among 8 bowls. Mix the sour cream with the lime juice, and garnish each bowl with a dollop.

Makes 8 servings.

Mexican tomatillo soup shows regional flavor

BY DANA JACOBI
CORRESPONDENT

As Mexican cooking has become increasingly popular, chefs have taken to exploring its regional aspects. A refreshing example of this, both for its flavor and unexpected use of common Mexican ingredients, is a soup created by restaurateur Bob Kinhead, featured in his recent Kinhead's Cookbook. The easy-to-make version below, adapted from his recipe, shows influences from the Yucatan peninsula jutting out from Mexico's southern Gulf Coast.

Food in the Yucatan reflects influences of the ancient Mayan culture. The Mayans, as well as Aztecs, the ancient native culture most associated with Mexico, were fond of tomatillos, also called tomate verde. They are a cousin of the tomato, which Mexicans call jitomate or tomate, depending on the region of the country. This dish also calls for fresh tuna, typical of use of the excellent seafood from local waters in Yucatan cooking.

Tomatillos are most commonly used in salsa verde cruda, the green table sauce, and salsa verde, the lightly cooked sauce used for enchiladas and chilaquiles. Both these loose, green sauces often call for lightly-boiled tomatillos, because cooking eliminates their raw taste and rounds out the lemony, clean flavor we enjoy in most dishes featuring this Mexican native.

The most flavorful tomatillos are small, and soft green to yellow or purple outside. All are vivid green inside. They should feel firm, and the papery husk covering them should fit tightly, feel dry and show no mold spots.

One reason truly authentic Mexican cooking is rare in the U.S. is that many of its techniques take time. Here, both the tomatillos and onions are dry roasted briefly in a cast-iron or other heavy skillet. Different from conventional grilling, this sears them for outstanding flavor with less charring. Tangy and hot, the puréed soup retains a texture that contrasts deliciously with the seared tuna and diced avocado. Crushed corn chips add crouton-like crunch.

TOMATILLO SOUP

WITH FRESH TUNA

1 poblano chili pepper
3 garlic cloves, chopped
1 can (4 ounces) green chiles, drained
1 large onion, preferably white, cut crosswise into 1/2-inch slices

AMERICAN INSTITUTE FOR CANCER RESEARCH

Tangy and hot, the puréed tomatillo soup retains a texture that contrasts deliciously with the seared tuna and diced avocado.

1/4 pound tomatillos, husked and halved crosswise
1/2 packed cups cilantro leaves
2 cups fat-free, reduced sodium chicken broth, divided
Salt, according to taste
1 tablespoon extra virgin olive oil
1/4 pound yellowfin or albacore tuna, cut in 1/2-inch cubes
1/2 peeled avocado, diced, for garnish
1/4 cup chopped scallion, for garnish
16 tortilla chips, crumbled, for garnish

Roast the poblano pepper over an open flame until its skin blisters. Seal it in a paper bag to steam for 10 minutes. Using your fingers, slip off the skin. Seed and chop the pepper. Place it in a blender. Add the garlic, canned chiles and cilantro. Set aside.

Heat a heavy skillet over medium-high heat. When hot, add the onion slices in one layer. Cook until grilled in places, 1 minute. Turn and grill on the other side, 1 minute. Transfer to a plate. Pan-grill the tomatillos, cut side down, until dark brown in places, about 2 minutes. Turn and cook until they brown in spots on the rounded side, 2 minutes. Transfer them to the plate.

Coarsely chop the tomatillos and onions. Add them to the blender along with 1 cup of the broth. Process into a pulpy purée. Transfer to a deep saucpan. Stir in remaining broth. Season to taste with salt. Over medium heat, bring to a boil. Transfer to 4 shallow soup bowls.

Rinse and dry the skillet. Add the oil and heat over medium-high heat. Add the tuna chunks, searing and turning them until they are opaque all the way through, about 3 minutes. Divide the fish among the bowls. Garnish with avocado, scallions and tortilla chips. Serve.

Makes 4 servings.

This salad of bulgur, chickpeas, apples, raisins and pumpkin seeds in a lemony dressing is a good way to start including more whole grains in your meals.

Going with the grain

As the low-carb diet craze subsides, it's time to reconsider the grain.

Grain products, such as bread, pasta, rice and cereal, offer many vital nutrients. But, for maximum nutrition and health protection, they should be whole grains.

New research reported by the American Institute for Cancer Research shows that whole grains have powerful antioxidants – cancer-fighting agents – that have gone undocumented for years. Whole grains, the study found, exhibit a level of anti-cancer activity that is equal to, and sometimes greater than, the level known to occur in vegetables and fruits.

AICR recommends giving whole grains a prominent place at the table. The New American Plate approach to eating, created by AICR, fills at least 1/3 of the plate with a variety of plant-based foods – whole grains, fruits, vegetables and beans – and leaves the remaining 2/3 (or less) of the plate for animal protein. This plate, according to AICR, reflects the best available advice on lowering risk for cancer, heart disease, stroke and other diseases. At the same time, the New American Plate remodels meals so they are higher in fiber and lower in fat and calories than the traditional American meal.

Nutrient-rich whole grains include bulgur, brown rice, whole-wheat bread and pasta, barley and quinoa. A grain of whole wheat is composed of three parts: endosperm, bran and germ. When wheat – or any grain – is refined, the bran and germ – which contains most of the nutrients and fiber – are removed.

Whole grains, as well as other plant-based foods, also contain antioxidants and phytochemicals, natural substances that protect our health from serious diseases like cancer. Different foods contain different phytochemicals, so it is important to eat a variety of these foods for good health.

Adding whole grains to meals is not difficult. Some simple adjustments in shopping and cooking can help. Use whole-wheat pasta, ask for brown rice at Asian restaurants, eat bread that is 100 percent whole grain and, for breakfasts, check that your cereal is either 100 percent or a high proportion of whole grains.

This salad of bulgur, chickpeas, apples, raisins and pumpkin seeds in a lemony dressing is a good way to start including more whole grains in your meals.

BULGUR SALAD WITH RAISINS AND PUMPKIN SEEDS

- 1 cup bulgur wheat
- 2 cups boiling water

- 1 large celery rib, finely chopped
- 1 medium green bell pepper, finely chopped
- 1 can (15 ounces) canned chickpeas, rinsed and drained or 1/2 cup crumbled feta cheese (optional)
- 1/2 Granny Smith apple, finely chopped
- 1 cup loosely-packed parsley, chopped
- 1/2 cup raisins
- Juice of 1 small lemon
- 2 teaspoons extra virgin olive oil
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste
- 3 tablespoons toasted pumpkin seeds, coarsely chopped

Place bulgur in a large bowl. Carefully add water. Let stand until bulgur is tender, about 20 minutes. Drain well in strainer, pressing gently to remove excess moisture. Transfer bulgur to a dry serving bowl.

Add celery, bell pepper, chickpeas or cheese (if desired), apple, parsley and raisins. Stir to combine. In a separate bowl, mix together lemon juice and oil, then add to the salad while tossing ingredients with fork to evenly distribute the dressing. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Just before serving, toss with pumpkin seeds.

Practice your stir-fry methods

Stir frying is a good method to master in the months before you have an abundance of zucchini in your garden. By then, you'll know how to take those summer vegetables, cut them into small pieces and cook them quickly and easily.

Although stir-fry recipes may seem like a lot of dicing and chopping, there are a number of shortcuts. For example, use precut vegetables, found in the produce section at the supermarket. More variety also offers a health bonus. The more variety of vegetables you use, the more different kinds of phytochemicals and other nutrients you'll have.

Phytochemicals are natural plant substances that have been shown to have cancer-fighting properties. The American Institute of Cancer Research has recently published a cookbook called The New American Plate Cookbook: Recipes for a Healthy Weight and a Healthy Life. The book is based on the premise that eating a variety of mostly plant-based foods – fruits, vegetables, whole grains, beans and nuts – in the right proportion and portion sizes, can help you lower your risk of serious health problems like cancer, heart disease and diabetes, and help you maintain a healthy weight.

Once the vegetables you've chosen for your stir-fry are cut up, the cooking process is quick and easy. Stir-frying is similar to sautéing. The pan is heated until hot, a little oil is added and heated and, on high heat, the ingredients are added in order from the longest to shortest cooking times. The food is stirred constantly during the cooking to keep it from burning and ensure it cooks evenly on all sides.

Use this recipe for zucchini and portobello stir-fry with chicken to practice your technique.

ZUCCHINI AND PORTOBELLO STIR-FRY WITH CHICKEN

(From The New American Plate Cookbook)

- 2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
- 1 pound skinless, boneless chicken breast or thigh, cut into 1/2-inch pieces
- 2 large red bell peppers, seeded and cut into 1-inch pieces
- 2 large zucchini, halved lengthwise and sliced diagonally into 1/2-inch pieces
- 4 garlic cloves, finely minced
- 4 large portobello mushrooms (about 1 lb.), cleaned, stems removed, and cut into 1-inch pieces
- 2 teaspoons dried basil
- 2 teaspoons dried oregano
- 1/2 teaspoon dried red pepper flakes, or to taste

- 1 cup fat-free, reduced-sodium chicken broth
- 1/2 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste
- 2 cups hot cooked brown rice

Place a large skillet or medium stockpot over high heat. Add the olive oil and heat until very hot. Add the chicken and stir-fry for about 5 minutes, until it loses its pink color. With a slotted spoon, remove the chicken from the skillet and set it aside. Add the bell pepper, zucchini and garlic to the skillet. Stir-fry about 2 minutes, until the vegetables are crisp but tender. Add the mushrooms and stir-fry for about 2 minutes, until the liquid released from the mushrooms evaporates.

Return the chicken to the skillet and add the basil, oregano, red pepper flakes and chicken broth. Cook for about 4 minutes, stirring, until the chicken is completely cooked through. Remove from the heat. Add the cheese, season to taste with salt and pepper, and toss ingredients together. Serve immediately over the brown rice.

Makes 4 servings.

Salem kickers edge Chiefs on Adsit's goal

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

Salem sophomore forward Kelly Adsit's right leg is so powerful, she could probably score a goal while waiting in line for a bottled water at the concession stand.

Adsit's game-winning goal Monday night in the Rocks' 1-0 victory over cross-campus rival Canton wasn't quite that challenging, but it was far from routine.

After taking a pass near the corner from teammate Amy Gizicki 12 minutes into the game, Adsit dribbled a few yards before zipping the ball past Canton net-minder Brittany Cervi from a nearly impossible angle.

"Kelly's shot is like a rocket, so she can score from just about anywhere," said Salem coach Joe Nora. "Cervi made a nice play on the shot, and I think she got a hand on it, but it was a great play by Kelly."

Both Nora and Adsit incorrectly assumed the Rocks would need more than the one goal to triumph over the fired-up Chiefs.

But it's one time they were glad to be wrong.

"There was so much time left and Canton was really coming at us, so at the time I didn't think one goal would be enough to win," Adsit said. "I was pumped after I scored. It's always huge to score against Canton."

Nora agreed with Adsit's one-goal-wouldn't-be-enough theory.

"You never think one goal is going to be enough against Canton," the veteran coach said. "I've coached games against Canton when the final score was 4-3, so you never know. Anything can happen. It was nice getting an early goal tonight. It kind of got the momentum going for us the rest of the half."

The victory improved Salem's record to 7-6-3 overall and 7-0-3 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. The loss dropped Canton to 9-4-2 and 8-2.

"I think our emotions had a negative effect on some of our decision-making in the first half," said Canton coach

George Tomasso. "But in the second half, we settled down and started playing the way we're capable of playing. In the second half, we did everything we could to score without scoring."

"I thought their goalie (Alyssa Guerin) and their defense played great. When the defense wasn't bailing out the goalie, she was bailing out the defense."

Guerin made nine saves, the most impressive coming with 37:40 left in the game when she went down on the ground to smother a point-blank shot by Canton's Lisa Ealy, who had broken behind the Rocks' defense.

Chief net-minder Brittany Cervi also turned in a stellar effort at the other end of the field. Other than barely missing Adsit's goal, Cervi was flawless. Additionally, several of her free kicks soared more than 30 yards downfield,

Salem pounds out 14 hits in 16-6 win

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

At times Monday afternoon, it appeared as if Salem's hitters were taking target practice — and the advertising signs affixed to the left-field fence were the targets.

The hot-hitting Rocks pounded out 14 hits — three of which crashed into the signs approximately 340 feet away and two others soared over the signs and the fence — and cruised to a 16-6 victory over visiting Livonia Stevenson in a crucial Western Lakes Activities Association contest for both teams.

The final result of the six-inning, mercy rule-shortened game left both teams tied atop the competitive WLA Lakes Division with 5-4 records. Stevenson, which dropped to 11-13 overall, defeated Salem (10-12) 6-5 earlier in the season on the Spartans' home turf.

The Rocks have now won five of their last six games and appear to be peaking at the right time as post-season tournament time approaches.

"It's like the old adage goes — hitting is contagious, and it was for us today," said Salem coach

Chiefs mercy Wildcats, 13-2

BY ED WRIGHT

For a moment Monday afternoon, Plymouth had visions of pulling off a monumental upset over cross-creek foe Canton.

The Wildcats jumped ahead 2-0 in the bottom of the first when Ryan Valle walked and scored on Alex Harvey's two-run home run.

PREP BASEBALL

However, the visiting Chiefs retaliated with a resounding nine-run second inning and went on to record a five-inning, mercy rule-shortened 13-2 victory.

Canton, which improved its record to 12-12 overall and 5-3 in the Western Lakes Activities Association Western Division, out-hit the Wildcats, 13-3. Plymouth fell to 2-15-1 overall and 0-8 in the division.

"I told the kids before the game to make sure they were focused and ready to go," said Canton coach Scott Dickey. "Every game is a big game for us now if we want to win the division."

Canton starting pitcher Matt Hemmelgarn overcame the shaky first inning to record a complete-game victory, improving his record to 4-3.

"Matt wasn't throwing overly hard today, but he worked a lot on his off-speed stuff," Dickey said.

Canton's big second inning was highlighted by a pair of Shawn Little hits and a two-run double off the bat of junior catcher Tarik Khasawneh.

Marian derails Crusaders, 10-6

The Madonna University baseball team saw its 2005 season come to an end Saturday after a 10-6 setback to Marian College (Ind.) in the NAIA Region VIII baseball semi-finals at Kimball Field in Grand Rapids.

Despite the loss, MU (40-16) finished with its first 40-win season since 1994.

The Crusaders fell behind early when the Knights scored a pair of runs in the opening inning. MU cut its first-inning deficit in half when second baseman Jason Barbeau launched a solo home run to make it 2-1.

Marian pushed across three unearned runs in the fourth against MU starting pitcher Paul Hays (2-2) to pad their lead to 5-1.

The Crusaders' bats were stymied by Knight starting pitcher Matt Kennedy (6-0) until the bottom of the sixth when first baseman Todd Kalmbach delivered a two-out, two-run single to bring MU to within 5-3.

However, after Hays walked the leadoff hitter in the seventh, the Crusaders turned to All-WHAC closer Kyle Fedorka, who yielded four runs, giving Marian a 9-2 advantage.

MU added a pair of runs in the ninth when freshman pinch-hitter Mike Cauzillo delivered a two-run single.

Three Crusaders were named to the NAIA All-Region VIII team: senior outfielder Joe Greene, Fedorka and junior pitcher Derek Dufrane.

Walleye warriors

The Canton father-and-son fishing team of Ron and Chris Merbler finished sixth Saturday in the 48-team Houghton Lake (Mich.) Walleye Tournament. The impressive finish earned the Merblers a $390 pay-day and earned them valuable points in the summer-long Professional Walleye Trail Circuit.

It was the first time the Merblers have won a cash prize in a PWT event.

"We attended a six-day school that was taught by pro Lance Valentine this winter, and we used a lot of what we learned to catch our limit of six fish on Saturday," Chris Merbler said. "We trolled with a planner board, which was one reason we were successful."

The Merblers will compete again in June at a PWT event at Hubbard Lake (Mich.).

Whalers rookie orientation

The Ontario Hockey League's Plymouth Whalers will host their annual rookie orientation Saturday and Sunday at the Compuware Sports Arena.

Canton's bats rattle Northville Mustangs

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

The second game of the May 12 double-header between Canton and Northville spanned five days after it was suspended due to darkness.

It must have seemed like five years to the Mustangs' pitchers, who ended up giving up 18 hits in the Chiefs' 19-10 victory.

The final 2.1 innings of the contest were completed Tuesday afternoon at Northville. When it became too dark to finish last Thursday, Canton led 12-6 with two outs in the bottom of the fifth.

The victory improved Canton's overall record to 13-12 and their Western Lakes Activities Association Western Division mark to 6-3. Northville slipped to 14-9 and 2-7, respectively.

"We're executing and hitting the ball well," said Canton coach Scott Dickey, explaining his team's offensive success against the Mustangs. "We played great defense, too. I've always told the team that if we commit zero to two errors, we should win, and that's what we've been doing."

Canton outthrew Northville, 18-13, and played flawless defense while the Mustangs were committing four costly errors.

Sparked by an eight-run fourth inning, the Chiefs led 9-2 after four and 12-2 heading into the bottom of the fifth. However, Northville avoided the 10-run mercy rule when it plated four in the bottom of the fifth.

When play resumed Tuesday, Canton kept hitting, scoring four in the top of the sixth to go up 16-6. For the second time in the game, Northville ducked the mercy rule by putting a four-spot on the scoreboard to ensure a seventh inning.

The Chiefs scored three in the final frame to coast to the win. Shawn Little did it all for Canton, earning the win by pitching six innings and striking out five. He also excelled at the plate, contributing three hits, including a triple, and five RBI. Little knocked in 10 runs combined in the twinbill.

Jake Powers also had a strong pitching/hitting game, shutting out the Mustangs in the seventh inning and chipping in with two hits and an RBI.

Also contributing to Canton's powerful offensive attack were Craig Galarnau (4-for-5, three runs), David Neu (2-for-4, two runs, two RBI), Tarik Khasnaweh (2-for-5, two RBI), Eric Byrne (2-for-3, two RBI), Scott Steffes (2-for-4, 1 run) and Justin Latin (1-for-5, two runs).

CANTON AGAPE 11, WARREN ZOE 10: The Wolverines overcame a 7-0 deficit Tuesday afternoon at Griffin Park to win a thriller with a pair of runs in the bottom of the seventh.

Freshman southpaw Jared Miller notched the win by pitching a scoreless seventh inning. Kyle Miller (three innings, one earned run) and Ryan Barber (three innings, two earned runs) preceded Jared Miller on the mound.

The victory improved the Wolverines' record to 5-12 overall and 4-5 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference. Zoe, which entered the game tied for first in the MIAC Red, dropped to 8-2 in the league.

Zoe tallied three runs in the first and three in the third before Agape mounted a seven-run rally in its half of the third to knot the game.

"The kids were a little down when we fell behind 7-0, but we rallied them around and told them there was a lot of game left to play," said Agape coach Scott Lewald. "We had three errors that really hurt us in the first three innings, but we played a lot better defensively after that."

Trailing 10-9 heading into the bottom of the seventh, Agape loaded the bases with no outs when Jared Miller hit into a fielder's choice that brought home Barber with the tying run. The next batter struck out before Wolverine lead-off batter Matt Holmes was intentionally walked to load the bases. Jack Anleitner followed with a hard-hit ball to second which was bobbled and thrown away for an error, allowing the winning run to cross the plate. Five Wolverines had two hits each: Holmes, Barber, Matt Molnar, Jared Miller and Nick Feeley. Barber knocked in four runs.

BIRMINGHAM ROEPER 11, PCA 2: The short-handed Eagles were outthit only 7-6, but were done in by 11 walks, three hit batsmen and two errors. PCA was missing five players, including starting shortstop Stephen Sumner, who was ill.

Sophomore southpaw Matt Saagman started on the hill for the Eagles and yielded three runs before leaving in the third. He was relieved by Bobby Unis, who completed three innings before giving way to Eric Immerfall, who tossed a scoreless seventh.

The Roughriders broke open a close game with an eight-run fourth inning.

"It was a disappointing loss for us," said PCA coach Kurt Johnston, "especially after beating (state-ranked) Inter-City on Saturday."

Nathan Bixler was the lone Eagle to wrap out two hits. Senior Adam Catallo went 1-for-2 and scored a run for PCA, which hosts Southfield Christian on Thursday and Canton Agape Christian on Friday. Both games are set to begin at 4:30 p.m.

No sleep, no problem

Canton boys track team defends Troy Athens title

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

A good night's sleep on the eve of a big track-and-field meet is overrated.

At least it was on Saturday afternoon for Canton, which shrugged off the effects of the previous night's senior prom to capture its second consecutive Troy Athens Relays crown.

The Chiefs finished with 46 points, 11 more than runner-up Utica Stevenson and 18 more than the host Red Hawks. Grosse Pointe North (20) and Walled Lake Central (19) rounded out the top five places in the 20-team field.

"I was very happy with the kids' efforts, especially the seniors, who were pretty tired from the night before," said Canton coach Bob Richardson. "The kids ran some great races."

"We love going to this event because it's a big weekend fund-raiser. There is a baseball tournament, tennis tournament and some other things going on. It's a circus-type atmosphere with all the events. We've done well there, too, in the past. We've won it three or four times now."

Junior Andy Rossow may have been the Chiefs' most valuable performer Saturday if such an award had been handed out. Rossow was a member of three first-place units and Canton's second-place three-man high jump squad.

Canton earned first-place points from its 800-meter relay squad (Kevin Burdette, Rossow, Cyrus Azizi and David Calille), its sprint-relay foursome (Rodney Preston, Dalton Walsler, Eric Piwowar and Calille) and its 1,600 relay quartet of Rossow, Derek Reeves, Calille and Azizi.

The Chiefs also won the unique Athens Relay event, which consists of two 800-meter legs and two 400-meter legs. Phaltiel Whitlock and D'Angelo Pitts ran the 800's while Rossow and Azizi manned the 400's.

Canton's field-event competitors got the Chiefs off to a solid start by finishing second in the discus and high jump competitions, and fifth in the shot put event. Steve Paye, Joe Zugaj and Jayson Wurtzbacher made up the discus team while Rossow, Matt McClellan and Paye combined for a 16-9 total in the high jump. P.J. Caram, Jason James and Zugaj racked up a 116-10.25 total in the shot put category.

The Chiefs' final points came from their third-place shuttle-hurdles team of McClellan, Tim Belcher, Pete Boucher and Preston.

Canton trailed with four events remaining, but finished first in three of the competitions to earn the "Red Hawk" trophy.

Conlon silences Wildcats

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

Canton's softball team battled Plymouth and complacency Monday afternoon in its 6-0 victory over the Wildcats.

"I thought we came into the game a little too relaxed," said Chief coach Jim Arnold, "whose team improved its record to 26-0 overall and 8-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division. "We didn't hit the ball well in the first couple of innings, but we started coming around as the game moved along."

Chief mound ace Molly Conlon was nearly unhittable as she improved her record to 17-0. Conlon yielded just two hits and struck out six in the complete game performance. Claire Ostrowski pitched well for the Wildcats, giving up just six hits, however, she was hampered by four Plymouth mistakes. The host Chiefs broke open a scoreless game with two runs in the third. They iced the win with a four-run fifth thanks to a bases-loaded triple by Melissa Cieniuch. Rachel Beaudoin also had a strong offensive effort, going 2-for-3.

shortening the field for the Canton offense.

Canton's Becci Houdek nearly tied the game twice, the first time with 4:10 remaining in the opening half when her attempt from short range bounced hard off the cross-bar, then straight down before getting cleared by Salem sweeper Kathryn Wheatley.

Houdek nearly struck again with 18:10 left in the game, but her shot from 17 yards out was re-directed over the net by a leaping Guerin.

"I was proud of the way the girls fought back the last 40 minutes of the game," Tommaso said.

Nora praised the strong play of Megan McCarthy, Kim March, Kathryn Wheatley and Guerin, who he said played "spectacular."

"Canton was in our end of the field for most of the second half, but I thought we did a good job of handling everything they threw at us," he said.

PCA 7, SOUTHFIELD CHRISTIAN 1: Abby Lorion tallied three goals to help the Eagles improve their record to 9-2 overall and 8-2 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

"Southfield dominated the mid-field in the first half, but our defense got stingy when they got within 25 yards of the net," said PCA coach Bob Lorion. "At halftime, we made a few adjustments, and they worked."

PCA, which outshot SC, 13-5, led 3-0 at the intermission.

Lauren Soblesky (two), Meghan Polera and Karen Cleary also scored goals for the winners. Anna Dempsey, Julie Predhomme, Sarah Roth, Sara Ross and Cleary added assists.

Ross earned the win in net for the Eagles, who host Bethesda this afternoon.

"Throughout this entire season, we seem to be a much better second-half team," Lorion said. "We seem to come out and play up to our potential more after the half."

Szawara's key hit KO's Spartans, 4-1

Deonna Szawara's 2-run single keyed a four-run uprising in the sixth inning Monday as Salem (14-8, 4-4) ousted Livonia Stevenson, 4-1.

The loss dropped the Spartans (17-6, 6-3) out of contention for the Lakes Division title in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Ali Proodian went 2-for-4 with a run scored to pace Salem's six-hit attack.

Winning pitcher Melissa Leach went the distance, allowing just four hits and three walks. She struck out two. All three of Leach's walks were intentional to Stevenson slugger Roy St. Clair.

PREP SOFTBALL

Losing pitcher Jenny Hamel struck out one and walked one in seven innings.

Janice Hollandsworth went 2-for-3 with a double for the Spartans, who led 1-0 in the bottom of the fifth on Monica Piekarski's RBI single.

"We finally came out swinging and made things happen on the bases (in the sixth inning)," said Salem coach Bonnie Southerland. "It was a nice game for us. The girls played hard and made some great defensive plays. Kait Downey saved a run in the third when, with the bases loaded, she went down on her knees to make a catch. And Deonna Szawara grabbed a line shot at first to double off Hollandsworth to end the game."

Salem's Melissa Plante and her Rock teammates slid past Livonia Stevenson, 4-1, Monday afternoon in a Western Lakes Activities Association Lakes Division contest played at Stevenson.

"Leach is throwing really well right now. It's great to see her team back her up." The Rocks will host Walled Lake Northern on Friday before taking part in the Madonna University Invitational on Saturday and Sunday.

Dale Rumberger. "A lot of our kids are getting good at-bats, which is a great sign. We need to keep hitting to help cover up for some of our defensive lapses (the Rocks committed three errors Monday)."

Stevenson coach Rick Berryman said the lop-sided final score was the product of solid Salem hitting and shaky Spartan pitching.

"Our pitchers came up a little flat and Salem can really hit the ball," Berryman said. "It wasn't just their long hits that hurt, but also the ones that found the spots between the third baseman and the shortstop. I give Salem a lot of credit. They did a nice job of hitting."

"I had to put our starting pitcher (Matt Tuttle) into Friday's game for 40 pitches, so he was throwing on just two days' rest. His brother, Andy, came in and pitched well in relief."

While every Salem starter reached base at least once, it was the bottom-third of the order that did the bulk of the damage. The Rocks' No. 7, 8 and 9 hitters — Bill Horgan, Scott Holka and Dave Cardenas, respectively — reached base in nine of their 12 combined plate appearances and scored half of Salem's runs.

"You need the bottom of the order to produce if you're going to score 16 runs like we did today," Rumberger said. "We have a lot of speed in our line-up, especially at the bottom of the order, which sets things up for the guys at the top and middle of the order."

Horgan had a huge day at the plate for Salem, going 3-for-4 with a double, home run and three runs scored. His second-inning double dented the "Rock Shoppe" ad in left and his fourth-inning round-tripper cleared it by 15 feet.

Jim Sroka (2-for-3, three runs), Andy Ciantar (2-for-5, four RBI), Mitch Hosch (2-for-4, home run), and Holka (1-for-2, two walks, three runs) led Salem's hit parade. Rock starting pitcher Josh Ritter improved his record to 3-1 after yielding six runs (three earned) and eight hits in five innings. John Israel pitched the sixth, allowing just a pair of harmless, two-out singles.

TENNIS

they did a great job.

"When we weren't playing tennis, we'd be working out with, let's say, a medicine ball, or something else. It was hard work, but it was well worth it."

How much more enhanced would his tennis skills be if he were able to stay at the academy year-round like some of Bollettieri's students?

"I'd be 100 to 200 percent better," he said. "But that's a huge commitment for the players who do that."

YOUNG NETTER

Hoernschemeyer, who has done an admirable job as the Chiefs' No. 1 singles player this spring, picked up his first racket at the age of 7.

"My mom wanted me to get into a sport that I could play my entire life, so tennis was a natural," he said. "The thing I like about tennis is the friendly competition it offers. You're not necessarily out to destroy your opponent like in some other sports. Plus, I love being outdoors in the sun."

Around the time Hoernschemeyer started to become accomplished at tennis, he took on the challenge of learning to play the piano. And, like tennis, he's still playing today.

"The biggest thing playing tennis and playing the piano have in common is that you need good hand-eye coordination for both," he said. "Plus, you have to have a lot of dedication to practice if you want to get good. Looking back, I wish I would have practiced tennis more when I was younger because a lot of the really good players I've lost to the past couple of years became excellent players because of how much they played when they were young."

NEW CHALLENGES

When Hoernschemeyer hit his early teens, he decided to temporarily shelve tennis and play ice hockey, and swim for the Central Middle School team.

Although he excelled in both, he eventually was drawn back to the tennis courts his freshman year at Canton.

"I wasn't sure if I wanted to play my freshman year," he said. "When I finally decided to, it was too late because the roster had already been set. I played No. 3 singles my sophomore year and No. 2 last year."

Hoernschemeyer said people outside of tennis circles don't understand how grueling the sport can be.

"You always hear people say that hitting a baseball is the hardest thing to do in sports, or dunking a basketball," he said. "It's kind of frustrating knowing that tennis doesn't get the attention some of the other sports get. Tennis is a very demanding sport. It tests you mentally and physically. Not too long ago, Andy Roddick won a five-set match that lasted five hours and 19 minutes in 90-degree temperatures."

ACADEMIC ACE

Hoernschemeyer's academic skills are as impressive as his forehand volley. The Hope College-bound senior has served up a 4.0 grade-point average even though his schedule has included several advanced-placement classes.

"I have an (advanced placement) calculus class right now that is ridiculously hard," he said. "I just ask a lot of questions and make sure I get my work done on time."

Hoernschemeyer said he plans on studying German and electrical systems engineering at Hope. His long-term goal is to work in the military defense field as a weapons engineer.

"Ideally, I'd like to work for General Dynamics or a company like that," he said. No matter what line of work he gets into, Hoernschemeyer said he'll never stop playing the piano or tennis.

That would be music to Nick Bollettieri's ears.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

SOCCER CAMPS

For the 13th consecutive year, Bryan "Goose" Finnerty will be hosting Goose's All-Star Soccer Camps in the metropolitan Detroit area. Joining Finnerty are former Detroit Rocker teammates Dreo Callahan, the camp's director, Rodrigo Gonzalez, Marty Caves, Jim Lemley, Amy Knechtly, Emily Jackson, Gary Bell, Billy Joker and Brian Vanderziel. All the coaches are licensed and serve as trainers for local soccer clubs year-round. The instructor-to-camper ratio is 1-to-10.

"My staff and I look forward to another exciting camp season," said Finnerty. "Being able to give back to our local communities is a highlight and an honor. The friendships we've built with the kids over the years make it like a mini-reunion every week. It's great to catch up on how they did in school and what new achievements were conquered both on and off the soccer field."

The camps include two options: a regular camp for beginner to intermediate players; and advanced camps for striker/goalkeepers. The advanced strike camp is an all-offensive camp that moves at an accelerated pace and focuses on finishing (scoring).

The fee for the regular camp is $139 per player, while the advanced striker/goalkeeper camp runs $179. Interested players can register at www.goose22.com by May 1, and receive $20 off the registration fee. Salem 3rd, Canton 5th at Western Lakes net tourney

Led by No. 4 singles player Peter Bartlett and the No. 3 doubles team of Dave Geick and Alex Poe, Salem earned a third-place finish at the Western Lakes Activities Association boys tennis tournament Saturday at Livonia Stevenson High School.

Salem finished with 19 points, four behind first-place Northville and just one behind runner-up Walled Lake Western. Livonia Churchill copped fourth (14 points), while Canton and the host Spartans tied for fifth with 11 points a piece. Plymouth notched ninth with four points.

Although Western finished second in the WLAA tournament Saturday, the Warriors still gained a share of the overall championship with Northville because Western went 11-0 in their WLAA dual-meet campaign. The dual-meet and tournament standings count 50 percent each toward the overall tally, making Western and Northville league co-champions.

Bartlett won his flight by ousting Stevenson's Gino McCathney, 6-2, 6-0, in the finals. Bartlett advanced to the championship match by defeating Northville's Ashtyn Saltz in straight sets.

Geick and Poe also won their flight by knocking off Walled Lake Western's Colin Sipperly and Jason Yokibishon, 7-6 (7-1), 6-4.

The Rocks earned second-place points from No. 2 singles player Rob Wallen, who entered the tourney unbeaten, and No. 3 singles player Lawrence Washington, who is just a freshman. Wallen was defeated by Canton's Mike Keesey, 6-3, 6-2, in the finals, while Washington fell to Northville's Colin Ackerman in three sets. Washington outstroked the Chiefs' Eric Szydlowski, 6-2, 6-3, to advance to the final match.

PREP TENNIS

Canton's Keesey qualified for the gold-medal match by upending Northville's Chris Irvin, 7-6 (7-4), 6-1.

Western junior Jason Norville, a resident of Farmington Hills, captured the No. 1 singles title by defeating the defending champion, Ryan Kingsbury of Livonia Franklin, in the final, 6-2, 7-5.

In the semifinals, Norville edged Northville's Jason Spruit, 6-2, 7-6 (5), while Kingsbury advanced with a 6-3, 6-3 win over Churchill's Trevor Kogut.

Western fared well in singles competition with Yale Miller, Ryan Jackson and Michael Chou reaching the semifinals at the Nos. 2, 3 and 4 flights, respectively.

The Warriors won the No. 2 doubles championship when Jean-Luc Delpy and Brian Stone defeated Northville's David Cornett and Chris Doud in the final, 6-1, 3-6, 6-0.

Western's No. 3 doubles team of Colin Sipperly and Jason Yokibishon and its No. 4 duo of Danny Cohen and Zack Goldstein were runners-up.

WMUZ Christian show greets early risers

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

"Mornings with Jon and Rhonda" went on the air at WMUZ radio in early April. Station general manager Frank Franciosi is pleased with response to the Christian morning show.

"It's been very positive," said Franciosi, who's been at Detroit-based WMUZ 103.5 for 30 years and manager since 1979. "Jon and Rhonda bring a slightly different feel to the morning show."

The show with hosts Jon Culbert and Rhonda Hart airs 6-10 a.m. Monday through Saturday. Franciosi believes its core of spirituality has drawn listeners, who have e-mailed, written and phoned in praise. Advertiser response has also been positive.

Traffic, weather, news and a little comedy are featured, he said, and "on top of it, there's that spiritual component."

The new show came about as a result of station staffers knowing Christians "also live everyday lives so they need information. All of that practical help we thought could be provided through a morning show," Franciosi said.

Hart has more than 25 years of experience in radio and has worked in metro Detroit for WABX, WRIF, WYCD, WOMC and WCSX. "The part I enjoy right now is the chance to share my faith," said Hart, who with her husband became a Christian about seven years ago.

"My husband and I both prayed before I took the job." She considers her husband to be part of the team for the show.

Hart has found those in metro radio are a little surprised at her change to Christian broadcasting. She went into rock radio at 18 and was living that lifestyle. Hart, who was raised in Warren and still lives there, grew up in the Catholic church but wasn't a regular worshiper.

Her key message is for others to realize no matter what mistakes they've made in life, God will offer forgiveness.

"Here, Jon and I are equal partners running the morning show," she said of their program, which includes Christian music. Culbert started in radio as a teen at Port Huron Northern High School where he had a morning show before school.

"I've been doing mornings from the start," said Culbert, who worked recently on the "Paul Miller Show" at WPHM in Port Huron, a news/talk morning show. "So coffee has really become my friend over the years."

Culbert, who's also done country radio, is a Christian who came to his faith with the help of a youth pastor when he was a teen. "Every time we open up the microphone there's a responsibility," he said. "We don't want to let them down."

It's rewarding to hear how they've picked people up, he said, something that happens far less in secular radio. He appreciates Hart's experience in radio and is learning each day.

"I think we do both bring different perspectives," Culbert said, adding listeners have welcomed them as family.

WMUZ is owned by Pennsylvania-based Crawford Broadcasting Co., which owns 29 stations, three in Detroit. Most are Christian in focus, Franciosi said. WMUZ has been around nearly 50 years as a Christian station.

Franciosi noted the growth of Christian radio as the evangelical movement has gained strength. Even Catholics, Presbyterians and others who aren't evangelicals "are turning to Christian radio because it's kind of a safe place to explore their faith," he said.

At Rattle Run you can experience an "up north" golf course with the convenience of a Metro Detroit location. Built on 178 acres in Southwestern St. Clair County, 18-hole course plays to 6,900 from back tees. Golf Digest ranked Rattle Run as one of the top 75 public courses in the United States and number one in Michigan.

You will experience the feeling of being in "Northern Michigan," with all the wildlife, rivers, ponds, and vegetation throughout the course.

The rolling and open course has strategically placed trees that really come into play on second shots.

Signature Hole: #6 - 501 yard, par 5.

Pro Tip #1: Play the par 5's (#1, 6, 11 & 15) as 3 shot holes. Risk - reward. 2nd shot is better placed for approach.

Pro Tip #2: Don't be intimidated by tree lined fairways. They are wider than they appear. Play to your strengths.

FINANCING

your new home a crucial first step

BY JOE DANIELS,
CORRESPONDENT

If you are in the market for a new home, the news couldn't be better. Mortgage rates are at bargain-basement levels and there's no end to the numbers of deals and arrangements that can be put together to match your financial situation.

"I don't know that the public understands what a good deal you can get right now on a mortgage," said Jack Brown, executive vice president of retail mortgage sales at Standard Federal Bank. Standard Federal has been the number one mortgage lender in Michigan for 15 of the past 17 years.

"About this time last year, we all pretty much thought that by now, the rock bottom rates on mortgages will be history, but now we are just an eighth above our bottom from last year," he said.

So, what's the best deal going? "There's as many different answers for that as there are people," Brown says. "Take down payment — the old norm was you had to have 20 percent down. Now, down payment is almost a matter of personal preference," he said, explaining mortgage options that feature virtually no money out of the buyer's pocket up front.

Others might be willing to pay fees, known as "points," up front, in exchange for a lower interest rate over the long term. Before deciding on a mortgage plan, however, it is important to first determine what size loan you can afford.

Most lenders recommend that you

If they aren't planning on being there a long time, it can be a great way to go.'

Kim Schmidt
First State Bank Mortgage

use no more than 32 percent of gross income on your monthly payments to cover principal, interest, property taxes and heating costs (PITH). This is called the Gross Debt Service ratio (GDS).

Gross household income is the total salary, wages, commissions and other assured income, before deductions, by all household members — such as a husband and a wife — who are co-applicants for the loan.

A second factor is the Total Debt Service ratio, which stipulates that no more than 40 percent of your gross income can go toward your total debt load, including your mortgage and all other loan payments.

It is important to calculate how much mortgage payment you can handle as part of that monthly payment.

Once you have worked out how much you can afford in monthly payments, you can determine the maximum amount of the mortgage loan that you qualify for. Subtract the estimated property taxes and heating costs from the total maximum monthly payment. The remaining sum is what you have available for the principal and interest.

The amount of the mortgage loan that can be serviced with a $1,000 monthly payment depends on the interest rate at the time—the lower the interest rate, the higher the amount you can borrow.

The traditional mortgage is a 30-year, fixed rate mortgage. But in recent years, a wide variety of mortgage options have come on line, including interest-only adjustable and fixed-rate mortgages.

If you plan to be in your home five years or less, an adjustable rate mortgage, or ARM, might be right for you, said Kim Schmidt, president of First State Bank Mortgage.

An ARM is a bit of a gamble, after an introductory period, typically of a couple years, the interest rate can go up if the market for rates goes up. Generally the ceiling on how high the rate can go up is capped at about 6% higher than what you started paying at. So, you aren't locking in the great fixed rate mortgage for the long haul, but you will be saving up front.

"For some people who are only going to be in a home for four years, that's enough," Schmidt said. "They say 'Oh my gosh, I can save a point for a whole year.'"

"If they aren't planning on being there a long time, it can be a great way to go," she said.

Getting your mortgage loan pre-approved helps determine exactly how much your costs will be, Schmidt said. "That way you know in advance how much house you can afford," she said.

Covenant exemptions need to be unanimous

We have restrictive covenants in our subdivision regarding the use of residential property. One of the lot owners wants to exempt his property from it and a majority of the homeowners are willing to allow him to do so. Can that be accomplished?

Real Estate Inquires

Robert M. Meisner

Of course, it depends upon the covenants and conditions which may prescribe the requirements to amend the documents. However, in a recent case in Michigan, the court concluded on similar facts that amendments to the covenants that affect less than all the lots subject to the covenants required the unanimous consent of the affected property owners even though a super majority of the owners within the subdivision approved the amendments. The Court of Appeals held that the amendment procedure in the restrictive covenants was intended for uniform changes applicable to all lots. The court further stated that "permitting non-uniform amendments and exemptions by a majority or super majority vote would destroy the crucial aspect of covenants and thus undermining the entire system of private regulation and real property in Michigan." It would appear, therefore, that unanimity may well be required.

I am wondering whether one can purchase a condominium in Naples for $250,000 or less. Do you have any information in that regard?

You are best advised to consult with a Realtor familiar with the Naples condominium area but I can tell you from my knowledge of the area and personal observation that there are new units available for $200,000-$300,000 in nice areas although not necessarily near the Gulf of Mexico. Also, there are used condominiums of some vintage which are available on the market in the Naples/Benito Beach area in that price range, although there has been significant appreciation in the Naples area over the last several years. Before buying a condominium, you should consult with a condominium attorney and knowledgeable real estate professional.

Combo loans help nix Private Mortgage Insurance

We loan officers can usually select individual mortgages to properly fulfill our clients' needs, but not always. In many cases, I find that using mortgage combinations yields a better result than would the use of a single loan product.

One of my favorite mortgage combinations involves the addition of a second loan onto a conventional mortgage. This special loan combination can be used for refinances and for purchases, and is especially useful for borrowers who are paying Private Mortgage Insurance.

As an example, consider the young couple who bought their home with a very small down payment a year ago. These borrowers are likely trying to both improve their interest rate and to reduce or eliminate their mortgage insurance payments.

Because it is unlikely that their home has not appreciated much in just one year, they may not be able to accomplish both objectives with a single loan. They could probably reduce their interest rate, but will not likely shake their PMI.

The combination solution calls for them to take out two separate new loans to replace their old one. The first would be a conventional loan written at 80 percent of their home's current value, and the second would be loan large enough to pay off the balance of the first mortgage, plus the new loan costs.

By structuring the refinance in this manner, the borrowers will avoid PMI, and can pay as little as just the interest on one or both of the two new loans. Also, since PMI expenses result offer no tax benefits, borrowers better their situation with combination loans because the interest is normally tax-deductible.

As a technique, they can voluntarily keep their payments at the pre-refinance level, and apply the overage towards the principle on the new second loan to pay it down quickly.

Today's TIMBIT: Though not all borrowers qualify for combination mortgages, the fiscally savvy who do qualify will enjoy tax benefits and improved cash flow that will more than offset the effort it takes to get them.

Timothy Phillips

PERSONALITY, CULTURE AND PAID PATERNITY LEAVE

by Mildred L. Culp

How would you characterize (paid) paternity leave in a workplace? It varies from company to company and employee to employee.

Arik Hanson manages financially-related publications reaching 60,000 CEOs and CFOs monthly and 50,000 mid-sized businesses annually for the $499 million RSM McGladrey. The company, headquartered in Bloomington, Minn., has 2,081 employees in 100 sites in the continental United States (140 in Bloomington). Three percent of employees have taken maternity/paternity/adoption leave since it was instituted four or five years ago. Note the androgynous categorization. Hanson took his first paternity leave in December, when Matthew was born. The leave, when combined with holidays and paid vacation, transpired over a one-month period. However, he wasn't off a full 30 or 31 days straight. He describes his break as "interspersed" to accommodate the needs of his job and his lively e-mail inbox.
"I had five working days for leave," Hanson explains. "It worked out well for us. I interspersed my days, working two or three days, then taking long weekends. For example, I worked Monday through Wednesday, then took Thursday through Sunday off. We were in the hospital a couple of days. A first child turns the world upside down." He says that the person from marketing who stepped in during this period had experience working with agencies and "filled the shoes nicely."

Some people would consider this schedule fragmented and chaotic. Hanson concedes that his boss was extremely understanding as he was defining the shape of his time off. Hanson maintains that "everyone has a unique job. Situations vary. Work/life balance here is very flexible." Unexpectedly, he fully enjoyed the time he had with the baby.

BUSINESS AS USUAL

Scott Fritz, in a very different company, is director of financial reporting at the Woodcliff Lake, N.J., office of $4.1 billion Big Four, KPMG L.L.P. He manages 12 accounting, financial, and technical employees out of the location's 1,000. Two years ago, he had almost two weeks of paternity leave around the birth of his third child. He attributes the success of his leave to the company's "good people, policies and procedures." In 2004, more than 80 percent of eligible employees took advantage of this benefit, up from 30 percent two years previously, when it launched.

A 15-year employee at KPMG, he mentions, "I felt no tension in asking. Our process flowed well. I didn't have to think about work and what my boss thought.

"Things got done," he says. "We had a good group in place, and everyone knew I was going out. I didn't check in but told people to call me (if a problem arose). I didn't get a lot of calls. When I returned, there wasn't a lot of work waiting on my desk. My boss was extremely supportive..."
RESPONSIBILITY

Fritz and Hanson, both grateful to their employers for providing this benefit, nonetheless differ on the issue of where the emphasis upon responsibility lies for a successful paternity leave. Hanson, who works in a much smaller group, remarks, "The onus falls on you. My manager helped me through it. The individual has all of the responsibility, because it's your job, your time away from the office. It's like a vacation. You plan, make sure work's getting done and that the work that isn't doesn't impact bottom line. I planned this with people in our marketing group. I had to communicate my schedule to the people in the agency we work with. I let people know that I was at home, just hanging out with the family. I received a couple of calls... pretty minor. I wanted people to have that option."

Fritz says that there is a company-wide responsibility. Leadership must be supportive of work/life balance, and the policy, he hopes, individuals won't abuse. "A company must be people-focused," he observes. "There's a real understanding where people are everything. I didn't anguish in my office and wonder if my boss would shoot laser beams. I didn't worry about things getting done."

RSM McGladrey is one of several companies where Hanson has worked. "I don't think that people are impressed that we get five days off," he remarks, but he wasn't counting days. He was enjoying the flexibility. Fritz, whose experience was equally seamless, quips, "This is my last paternity leave story, because I'm not having more kids."

2005 VW PASSAT AND JETTA

Advertising Feature

Thursday DriveTime

BY DALE BUSS

Less Euro funk, more American hunk. That's what I've believed for a long time that Volkswagen needed to do to make its vehicles more than quirky and, inevitably, niche vehicles in the U.S. automotive market. If they ever hope to grow into a significant mainstream player here, the manufacturer of the boxy and strange Eurovan, the exotic and expensive Phaeton sedan and the highly personable but fickle New Beetle absolutely need to get it right when it comes to their staple sedans in this market.

I think they're finally doing it, with the improved 2005 Passat and the all-new 2005 Jetta. These cars leave off some of the strangeness of their Volkswagen pedigree, thankfully, in exchange for taking on a greater resemblance to the American and Japanese compacts and mid-size cars that they're competing with. And in so doing, Passat and Jetta look better than ever by comparison.

The Passat GLS version that I drove is impressive in many ways. Some guy at the corner gas station saw me filling it up the other day and stopped dead in his tracks to come across the island and give it a once-over. He said it surprised him that this was a Passat because it looked sort of Japanese. He very much liked the styling.

My thoughts were similar. The rounded and sloping front end of the 2005 Passat makes the car look more like a projectile than the boxier designs we're used to seeing from Volkswagen. In fact, it's a compliment in a way that the vehicle that is often mentioned as most closely resembling Passat is Ford's new 500 sedan, a high-ceilinged design that is aimed rather capably at the heart of the U.S. sedan market.

Equally satisfying as looking at the 2005 Passat is driving one. The GLS version I drove is the medium entry in the line, but its powertrain is anything but middling. It was the 1.8T 4Motion Passat offers a dependable, fun package with fuel economy of 20 mpg city and 29 mpg on the highway.

Jetta offers performance at a price range from around $17,900 to around $22,000

ket. Jetta, the compact, is all-new for 2005. Gratingly, it displays some of the more rounded and aggressive lines of its bigger sibling as well as a penchant for delivering delightful performance. For one thing, Volkswagen gave the new Jetta a new, 2.5-liter, five-cylinder engine, whose improved torque pulls the driver away from the curb quickly and crisply.

Apparently, much of the investment in the new Jetta went toward increasing the car's structural integrity, which is evident in the solid feel of the drive, for example, and in other ways such as reducing unwanted noise in the cabin.

The interior of the 2005 Jetta also adopts a more conventional look without sacrificing VW's distinctive economy of space. The leather upholstery is nicely stitched and very supportive. And aesthetics-wise, nice touches include metallic trim around the shift lever, metallic instrument-cluster rings, and glimpses of chrome in places such as the button for the parking-brake lever.

2005 Jetta prices range from around $17,900 to just over $22,000. For the Passat version I drove, sticker was $27,175. In either segment, American buyers are getting more and better from Volkswagen than ever.

Pure Picks

Selected from the reams of publicity propaganda, we present our top entertainment picks for the week, "Filtered" just for you.

Ladies, please form a line to the left of the body. Ryan Adams returns to form with his new band The Cardinals.

Album I like Ryan Adams sad. Downtrodden, melancholy and dripping with regret. I liked him (note past tense) when it seemed that the songwriting was the only thing with shadows.

In short, I want him drunk in Whiskeytown or heartbroken, and by extension, I want his latest, Cold Roses, recorded with his new band The Cardinals, to harken back to the time before he copied The Replacements, hooked up with Parker Posey and fought Jack White — you know, when he was just an alt-country kid with damn great songs. The first of three albums to be released by Adams this year, I have to admit I was a little scared of possible disappointment with the double CD out now on Lost Highway. While tearing off the shrink wrap, I was reminded of my history with Ryan.

As a long-time listener and lover of Mr. Adams, I have in recent times felt betrayed by him. His work lately seems less for any kind of development of the art form and far more for a development of sales numbers. How disconcerting to have a prolific writer use his talent for evil — especially when it's someone you really started to admire. Anyway, where is this going, oh right, I was talking about hearing the new album.

So I popped Cold Roses in my stereo and was immediately reminded of 2001's Gold, the last solid release coming from the Adams general direction. It's in the middle of the second disc that I realize I am indeed listening to something good again. The sound is a blend of Neil Young's guitar and classic country's swagger. Rachel Yamagata lends her vocals to some of the album's best songs, recalling the Emmylou Harris duet of Oh My Sweet Carolina. (Though who can top Emmylou?) Cold Roses is filled with influences, not copycat syndrome. The final product is a return to his alt-country roots. Adams fans won't be disappointed.

In conclusions, welcome back to my heart Ry Ry.

Film Like The Flaming Lips? Then you will probably want to see the only Detroit showing of The Fearless Freaks, a documentary by Bradley Beesley about the Oklahoma weirdos. Detroit Docs will show the film Friday at the Detroit Film Theatre, at the DIA.

It starts at 9 p.m. and admission is $8 or $6 for DFT or Detroit Doc members. The showing will benefit the seat restoration project at the DFT. For more, check out www.detroitdocs.org

Not enough Wayne Coyne for you? After the film, head over to the Magic Stick where they will host an afterparty with performances by Outrageous Cherry, P.A. and Midstates. Cover is $5 and apparently they will be giving away some Flaming Lips swag. 18 and up Pure Picks is written by Stephanie Tardy, who is so excited that summer is almost here she is about to faint. You can tel. her how much Ryan Adams stinks at stardy@oe.homecomm.net.

Local music

Former Saturday Looks Good to Me and current Showdown at the Equator singer Kelly Caldwell is releasing her own record Many Many Birds, which I believe is actually her second solo record. To celebrate, Caldwell will play Friday at Jacoby's in Detroit. Doors at 9:30 p.m. Cover is $10. 18 and up. Check out her Web site at <http://www-personal.umich.edu/~brycejb/kelly/>

Want to see your favorite new movie, band or book in this well-written column? Submissions for Pure Picks are always accepted. Shoot me an e-mail at stardy@oe.homecomm.net about your favorite new thing and let me know why you think it should be included. Or do the old-fashioned thing and send a letter too. The address is Pure Picks c/o Stephanie Tardy, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI, 48009.

Everyone's a DJ at Bosco's MP3 night

BY LANA MINI
STAFF WRITER

Mix whatever three you like: Tom Waits, Autechre and The Fugees.

How about Jimi Hendrix, Perry Farrell and Primus? Ella Fitzgerald, Moby and Mostafa Sax?

Make it surreal, make it danceable, make it mellow. For three songs, the room can be yours at the Bosco in Ferndale as it becomes the first metro Detroit spot to kickoff iPod DJ nights.

Every Wednesday at the Bosco, DJ enthusiasts can bring their MP3 players, take a number and wait their turn to spin three songs to help create the ambiance of their choice.

The theme for musical democracy at nightclubs is happening in London, Tokyo, Paris, Manchester and now Ferndale.

The iPod nights originated through noWax, a U.K.-based company that has partnered with the Bosco.

"We've been considering the idea of an iPod DJ night for some time, but pairing with an organization like noWax fills in all the gaps," Bosco owner Daniel Haberman said. "They've got a good thing going, and being based in London, they're really familiar with the style and vibe of a place like the Bosco. It's going to be really interesting."

The first noWax event was held in 2003 at Dreambagjaguarshoes, a bar in London. Success happened fast. Charlie Gower of noWax said the company doesn't take a financial cut from the lounges that host noWax nights. The company instead wants to "give the night away." noWax is part of Sense

Worldwide, a research company that specializes in understanding people and their relationships with products, brands and one another.

The company hosted social gatherings to have face-to-face contact with people, rather than rely solely on telephones and Internet. The democratic approach to playing music at lounges spawned there.

"You get some friction when people play some things that others don't want to hear, but we don't censor their expression as this is the heart of the concept," noWax states on its site.

Haberman isn't worried about tension. People who visit the Bosco are open-minded, he said.

"Almost anything goes," Haberman said.

"This is really going to be the big mystery, and where the DJ is going to have to feel out the crowd. Should someone want to spin some Backstreet Boys, I might expect a bit of heckling ... but you never know; and that's part of the fun. Maybe someone would come in with a terrible Backstreet Boys track mixed with Pink Floyd and the room could love it."

The Bosco was named one of the nation's top bars/nightclubs in the country by Nightclub & Bar magazine.

Fine Living Network's "Insider's List" named it one of the top 10 places in the country for a drink.

It's laid-back and hip. Don't overdress, but the clientele is creative so casual clothes are still interesting.

Known for the mojitos, the lounge also added some newer drinks.

Haberman's descriptions:

■ Pink Cocktail, tastes like ruby red grapefruit juice

■ Melona Bar, liquid version of a Korean/Hawaiian ice cream bar

■ Shaved Peach - a light peach vodka-based martini

■ Lemonhead (this name might change), a muddled lemon and sugar/citron vodka cocktail

The Blue Angels will make its first appearance in nearly 10 years at the Selfridge Air Show.

Flying High Again

Blue Angels return to Selfridge

BY LANA MINI
STAFF WRITER

There's two important elements to this year's Selfridge Air Show, one is rocking and the other is about honoring.

The bi-annual show, Saturday and Sunday at Selfridge Air National Guard Base in Harrison Township, will include the Blue Angels for the first time in nearly 10 years. The acrobatic aviation team flies F-18s in artistic formation and high speeds.

"It's really exciting to watch," said Maj. Jim Rossi, director of the air show.

This year's event also marks two Vietnam anniversaries.

In 1965, President Lyndon Johnson sent the first large-scale number of combat troops to Vietnam. In 1975, the last American officially left the country.

"We have a group of Vietnam veterans here in Michigan who earned medals, but they were never officially presented," Rossi said. "It's long overdue and will happen at the show."

The Moving Wall will be on display. The memorial is a replica of half the side of the Vietnam Veteran's Memorial in Washington D.C. and has been touring the country for more than 20 years.

"It's a sobering experience," Rossi

Carbon Lounge features audio-visual feast

BY LANA MINI
STAFF WRITER

Electronic music with a danceable rock edge, artistic imagery, heavy percussion, dance floor, sofas and an ultra-hip, laid-back and friendly atmosphere with a well-stocked bar.

Is it enough to intrigue?

There's a lot happening for a $5 cover charge at the Carbon Lounge in Hamtramck on Saturday, May 21. Headlining that night is electro musician Reidnoise where founder Reid will play his songs with studio drummer Duane Huff — known for his work with Snoop Dogg, Dr. Dre, Mary Jay Blige and locally with Robb Roy. Adding to the ambiance, video jockey Julie Met will bring her creative imagery for visual effect.

'I wanted more than just good tunes. With electro music, and all music, it should be entertaining to watch and to hear, so we created an audio-visual experience.'

Reid said, "With electro music, and all music, it should be entertaining to watch and to hear, so we created an audio-visual experience."

Earlier that evening, INS (Infinite Number of Sounds) of Cleveland will perform.

The collective group of artists, musicians and writers mix music and noise samples also with video imagery to create sometimes dreamy, sometimes heart-pounding sounds.

"There will be so much talent that night," Reid said.

New to electro? Don't worry about feeling like an outsider. Reid said electro music has come full circle since its popularity growth and everyone is welcome.

"Electronic was popular in the late '90s, then we had the surge of garage that kind of took its place. Now people are coming out to shows again. The audience is people 18 and 19 and also in their 30s. It's come full circle, it's really great," Reid said.

Darth days

'Star Wars III' is a thrilling finale

A long time ago in a galaxy far, far away the words Star Wars blasted onto movie screens and into film lore. The galaxy has changed much since 1977 when the original Star Wars opened. So has Star Wars. It has matured from fun-filled hokum to a character-driven, somewhat brooding morality tale.

It has crossed over to the Dark Side.

Star Wars Episode III: Revenge of the Sith opens today and no doubt will thrill hard-core Star Wars fans. But even more, it may bring back those of us who have strayed from the fold with the last two installments, which were less than thrilling.

This is a much darker Star Wars, strong on characterizations and shorn of much of the too-cutesy elements — like ewoks and the ghastly Jar Jar Binks.

But it has to be that way. Revenge of the Sith is the key Star Wars film.

Greg Kowalski

It melds the initial film, which was actually Episode IV, to bring the cycle to a close. Episode I introduced Darth Vader.

Revenge of the Sith shows us how he descended into a figure of evil, seduced by the power of the Dark Side.

It isn't an easy journey, but director-writer George Lucas understood that this story is in the telling since we already know where it is going. And he masterfully transforms Anakin Skywalker, a loving husband and father-to-be, into a remorseless child killer whose evil is second only to Palpatine, supreme chancellor-turned-emperor.

Like its earliest predecessor, Revenge of the Sith opens with a stunning star war as hundreds of ships battle each other. Here Skywalker and his mentor Obi-Wan Kenobi are on a mission to liberate Chancellor Palpatine who has been kidnapped by Count Dooku, nobly played by Christopher Lee in a far-too-small role.

While they are successful, the battlefield shifts to Skywalker's soul as he is drawn into the world of political duplicity, power brokering, treason and trickery. His only real concern, initially, is to protect his secret bride, Sen. Padme Amidala, who he is convinced through his horrific dreams will die in childbirth.

That leads him to seek out the Sith secret of defeating death, tantalizingly offered by Palpatine.

And step-by-step he is seduced by the power of the Dark Side and turns against his mentor, Obi-Wan. This culminates with a blistering light saber fight and Anakin's rechristening as Darth Vader.

There are spectacular battles enhanced by superlative special effects. Whether an extreme close-up of Yoda to a sweeping cityscape of massive buildings and unending streams of aircrafts flowing across the sky, every detail is perfect.

But it is the details of the landscape of Anakin's soul that makes Revenge of the Sith succeed

Hayden Christensen ably plays Anakin, and is well supported by Natalie Portman as Padme and Ewan McGregor as Obi-Wan. Ian McDiarmid seethes with evil as Palpatine.

Pay attention to the details particularly at the end, when all the threads come together. The characters on the space ship are wearing the same uniforms that they wore 28 years ago in Episode I. It's almost nostalgic.

That and the promise of a bright tomorrow — literally — keep this film from being a complete downer.

Indeed, it is exhilarating.

Café Bon Homme

Goodmans celebrate 20th year in Plymouth

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
 STAFF WRITER

When you consider how frequently restaurants close their doors within the first five years of their existence, it almost shocks you when they hit the 20-year mark.

Except when the food is high quality, then it isn't surprising at all.

Café Bon Homme in Plymouth is celebrating that 20-year milestone this year, as owners Greg and Susan Goodman and chef de cuisine Eric Schilbe added a special Bistro menu that runs Monday-Thursday, or what Goodman calls his 3/4/30 menu, featuring three courses (salad or soup du jour, main course and dessert) for $30.

"It was a way to thank our customers who have been coming here for 20 years," Goodman said. "Summer is also a casual time, and we thought to at least offer this as an option would be appropriate." (Goodman named the restaurant after himself, using the French translation of "good man.")

OLD MENU STILL REMAINS

Of course, all the traditional principal dishes on the regular dinner menu are still offered: pan roasted breast of duck, lobster dusted Lake Superior whitefish, caramelized scallops and sweet corn variation, veals and morels, tenderloin of beef and rack of lamb. Prices on those items range between $36-$42. Appetizers are $12. Soup and salads are $5 or $7.

The less expensive Bistro menu features a choice of one of four main courses, which includes pan-seared scallops with grilled asparagus and lobster sauce, Maryland crab cake with roasted corn, beef tenderloin parpardelle or roasted chicken with Manchego cheese and prosciutto de parma. Desserts included are flourless chocolate torte, vanilla-infused creme brulee and white chocolate cheese cake.

The restaurant and smoking lounge-cocktail reception room seats approximately 60 diners. The decor is sleek and simplistic, reflecting a modern feel.

Kicking off the 3/4/30 meal is the choice of a traditional Caesar salad with whole leaf Romaine and anchovies or a honey mustard vinaigrette with brie cheese and vine-ripened tomatoes. "That was one of our original salads 20 years ago, and we've had a good response to that," Schilbe said.

One of the second courses (the scallops) features grilled asparagus with lobster sauce and little sherry vinegar "to finish," Schilbe said. "Grilling the asparagus adds a little smokiness to it, more acidic and a little more bitter. It brings out the flavors and makes it a little more crisp."

After 20 years, Goodman knows he can't rest on the laurels of writeups from Condé Nast, Zagat or Gourmet magazine. "That's great, but the key is executing on a day-to-day basis," Goodman said. "You just can't hang your hat on past performances."

CONTEMPORARY FLAIR

Goodman doesn't like to label the restaurant's food, but describes it as contemporary, combining French and American influences and techniques. "But we're not using a lot of butter and a lot of cream, it's much lighter with spice rubs and herb and oil infusions, and reductions," Goodman said.

"What we had decided in the demographics have changed," said Schilbe. "We're seeing a little more casual dining and we're no longer open for lunch, but we've scaled down the lunch items and added popular ones to the dinner menu."

Schilbe, who has cooked at Touché and Five Lakes Grill, said his favorite is breast of duck slow-roasted, with spaetzle infused with foie gras, with a pomegranate, port and currant reduction. "What I try to do is get duck into mainstream cooking like it is in Chinese and French cooking. The duck is medium rare and juicy, as it is slow-roasted in the pan," Schilbe said. The sweetness of the pomegranates port and currant balances the dish.

Goodman's favorite is caramelized scallops with sweet corn variation with parmesan polenta, smoked tomato and corn ragout and a basil-infused roasted corn sauce. "We caramelize the natural sugars with intense heat. It adds a little texture."

maintain their appeal over the next 20 years and as the demographics change and the population ages, so will eating habits. "I think we'll be eating smaller foods, but the intensity of the food will be there," Goodman said. "We enjoy food, but we've noticed we want to do tastings."

Schilbe calls the 20 years a milestone. "It is quite an accomplishment for Greg. I admire him for what he has done. When he set out to do this, he wanted to do it right and do something special and you can see that it is something special."

American chefs have an adventurous approach, Goodman said. "Combining unique and separate flavors continues to be unique and fascinating," Goodman said.

"It's nice that we say, 'Who says you can't do this?'"

They belong to the same family as the mammoth and elephant, and their remains have been found right here in Michigan.

In fact, the female mastodon skeleton on display at the University of Michigan Exhibit Museum of Natural History came from Owosso. Now she'll be joined by a male mastodon skeleton that showcases the size difference between the genders.

The addition of the 9-foot skeleton marks an expansion of the museum's mastodon exhibit. A public opening with special activities for children is scheduled for Saturday.

"He weighed about 6,000 pounds," museum director Amy Harris said of the male skeleton. "Which is the equivalent of two Hummer H2s. I can't believe how big it is. Oh my gosh."

The museum's display of an adult male and female mastodon together is the first of its kind in the world, Harris added. The male is a replica, while the female is almost entirely composed of real bones.

The expansion includes additional objects, including bones and tusks, and arrowheads used by human hunters. Some of the artifacts on display can be touched, and explanatory text panels have been added to enhance visitor learning. An interactive audio system, which explores the art and science of paleontology, is also planned.

The mastodon exhibit is a permanent display at the museum, which was established in the 1800s after an alumnus toured the world and sent back 60,000 specimens for study. The female mastodon skeleton has been on exhibit since the 1940s.

Star struck

(May 19-21)
By Dennis Fairchild

ARIES (March 21-April 20)

It's zip-your-lip time, Ram. Your temper could easily get the better of you later this week as the sun changes signs, but that doesn't mean you'll win. Therefore, be extremely careful of what you say and to whom now, because any outrageous statements you make are sure to catch up to in late June.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)

Feelings appear to be running high over a project or relationship and you would do well to share any doubts rather than keep them to yourself. But do so with care, Bull. Nobody wants to feel guilty or trapped during Monday's full moon even though you have been feeling against the wall. Stay focused, positive.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)

Words always come easy to you, but sometimes you say things that are a bit too off-the-wall or abrasive, and that is something you must watch out for now. If you must point out other's faults, try not to destroy their confidence. It's time to make peace with those whom you've burned bridges.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)

I'd like to say that you're in for a financial windfall, but you're going to have to practice patience and cleverness now, MoonKid. The more others make you feel guilty for all the good things in your life, the more you should remind them that nothing is free. You've sacrificed enough, and things are turning to your favor.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)

You know how to communicate, Lion, so why are you making such a bad demonstration of it lately? The only way you'll get what you desire in the days ahead is if you spell it out in plain and simple language. "Enemies" may only be such because you don't treat them as friends and see their view.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)

Virgoes never lack for ideas, but how often have those of yours been turned into action lately? If the answer is "not recently," you get the chance to make up for it this week. Don't listen to those who say you should be more cautious (yawn). Some folks may not want you to succeed. Prove them wrong; plow ahead!

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)

You know better that there are times when you struggle to keep your composure and it may get you into trouble with loved ones, Balancer. The sun in your element as of yesterday with angles to powerful Pluto means that the next person or family member you pick a fight with may be tougher than you. Stay nice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

Others may want you to change your plans to fit what they're doing and their desires, but you're under no obligation to do so now, Scorp. You have your own agenda and needs to satisfy and they must come first, especially as you're committed in both time and money now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

If a partnership is, or has been recently, on the slide: let it go all the way to bottom and just pick up yourself, Archer, and let it go all the way to the bottom - for recycling. According to the planets, kiddo, "it" isn't worth saving any longer. And the sooner you accept that fact, the better.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 21)

Now with the sun in Gemini, instant decisions aren't a Cap's best pal, and the planets warn that if you act without thinking, you may regret it. Take your time and don't allow yourself to be rushed by those who'd profit by your mistakes. You're smarter than you give yourself credit.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 22-Feb. 19)

It's an open up your eyes and mind-kinda week, WaterBearer. It's not like you to waste time looking back, but you seem to be doing a lot of that lately. The current planetary setup urges you to stop thinking about what might have been and start thinking about what is going to be.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

A problem shared is a problem halved, or so they say, and it's certainly true that if you ask for assistance this week, you'll get as much as you need and, hopefully, more. No one expects you to do everything, so don't expect it of yourself, Fish. Make this a less-stress week. Stop fretting over moolah!

U of M students create art to remember

BY NICOLE STAFFORD
STAFF WRITER

TOUCH MEMORY

What: Exhibit of memory-aid art for seniors created by University of Michigan art students at the Work Gallery.
When: Through May 29; regular gallery hours are noon to 7 p.m. Tuesday-Thursday, noon to 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.
Where: Work Gallery, 306 S. State Street, Ann Arbor.
Admission: Free; for information, call the gallery at (734) 998-6178.

Takahashi became interested in how to use art both to enhance the memory skills of seniors and impart greater understanding about memory problems.

"How can we include those seniors and their problems with memory? Art can make it a more universal experience," he said.

So Takahashi decided to pair 12 of his students with seniors experiencing memory problems who were seeking support through the University Health System's Turner Senior Resource Center.

The students met with and interviewed the seniors weekly for about three months as part of a class.

The seniors also visited the students' art studio to give input on work in progress.

The pieces, which were completed three weeks ago and taken to each senior's home, "are all different," said Takahashi.

"There are different shapes and sizes, from a music box to a glove, and different mediums from wood and glass, to plastic and fiber," he said, adding many students plan to ultimately turn over their work to the seniors who inspired them.

Some of the works tell the life story of an individual senior.

Others simply impart the subject's life sentiments.

All, however, are hands-on pieces that seek to aid memory through touch and sensory stimulation.

One student, for example, created a music box with drawers that open to reveal descriptions of the places her subject visited. Some of the pieces are wearable art. Others resemble albums.

"It's like kind of a game," explained Takahashi.

"You can imagine a box and divide it into nine sections. You can open them up, and you can see your life story, and some sections you can't open. This idea helps short-term memory loss by encouraging long-term memory."

The Blue Angels fly higher and higher this weekend at Selfridge.

said. "And it gives people who can't, or don't, travel an opportunity to view it."

Speaking at the air show is Col. Roger Donlon, the first Medal of Honor recipient from Vietnam. On July 5, 1964, Donlon was severely wounded from mortar fire during an enemy attack at Nam Dong. During the five-hour siege, Donlon moved throughout the darkness, dragging needed supplies to his troops who were hunkered down in pits. He encouraged them, directed gunfire and moved wounded men to safer areas.

"His story is truly heroic," Rossi said. "It will give you goosebumps."

Aircraft used in Vietnam like the AC 47 Spooky Gunship will be on display and flown.

"That's an important one," Rossi said.

"The Spooky was a low-flying aircraft that flew over the jungles in search of the enemy. It was loud. Troops on the ground say it was their guardian. When they heard it overhead at night, they knew they could go to sleep."

There will also be F-104 Phantoms, a Russian MIG-17 Fresco, F-16s, A-10s and others. Acrobatic pilot Sean D. Tucker brings his Oracle Challenger to the show and will fly backward at more than 100 mph. Jim LeRoy's Bull-Dog Acrobatics also returns this year with his highly modified, factory-built Pitts S2S.

Every aircraft at Selfridge will be available for up-close views by the public, Rossi said. "Viewing the aircraft up-close is a way for taxpayers to see where there money is spent."

More than 150,000 are expected to watch the show.

The remains of about 250 mastodons, which walked the earth some 10,000 years ago, have been found in southern lower Michigan, Harris said, adding such a fact intrigues not only adults but also children.

Activities planned for the public opening include kids craft projects related to the Ice Age and mastodons, planetariums shows, refreshments and balloons.

University of Michigan paleontologist

Daniel C. Fisher and University of Michigan School of Dentistry professor Daniel Chiego are set to compare mastodon tusks and human teeth from 1-3 p.m.

Fisher, an internationally known paleontologist, will also discuss his recent research on mastodons at 8 p.m. Friday during an on-campus lecture for adults.

"He's interested in how and why mastodons went extinct. The jury is still out," Harris said. "But he has several theories."
