Ford plan good news, bad news locally

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

Like many people stung by Monday's announcement of plant closings and employee layoffs at Ford Motor Co , Debi Leon of Plymouth Township is worried about what's going to happen to her family

For Leon, though, it's more of an extended family, since she's not even employed by Ford That didn't stop Leon from caring — and crying — with Ford workers stung by the long-rumored news the automaker would close its Wixom plant sometime in 2007

It tore at Leon's heart because she and her husband, Moe, own Leon's Food & Spirits, a family restaurant right across Wixom Road from the 4 7-million-square-foot plant that calls Ford workers its best customers

And they took Monday's news hard

"I had one woman who ordered a meal, then she couldn't eat it, and another man who just sat there and cried," said Leon, who, along with her husband, owns nine restaurants "What can you say in this situation? What's going to help them? They were devastated'

As was Leon, who opened the Wixom restaurant in January 1998 Back then, the Leons felt the Wixom Road location was a prime choice, what with the Wixom plant thriving, with three shifts funneling customers in for breakfast, lunch and dinner

Ford has whittled operations at the plant down to just one shift, and next year some 1,500 workers will be gone Leon figures that'll cause maybe a 25-percent hit to her business Thankfully, she said, the city of Wixom has grown enough that the pool of customers is big enough to sustain it

"We have our name, because we have the other restaurants," Leon said "Wixom has become a bigger city since we moved in, there's a new downtown and lots of homes coming in That'll help us"

But she wonders what will help her customers, the ones who have become like family to her, the ones who banter about golf scores and life's challenges as if they were sitting around the kitchen table in their own homes

'That's the kind of people we are, the kind of people they are," Leon said "Ford is a family, but they became our family The people who come in here they're devastated They wonder how they're going to make their house payment"

NO CHANGE

Meanwhile, Ford's local holdings — namely the former Visteon plant on Sheldon Road in Plymouth Township — escaped the blade in the company's restructuring plan

The plant is technically still owned by Ford though it's been placed in a holding company, Automotive Components Holdings, LLC It will not be closed or otherwise affected by the automaker's plan

"We were not impacted by the announcement because we're going to be sold as a unit," said Dan DiSebastian, the plant's general manager One of (Ford's) primary missions is to sell the Sheldon Road plant"

DiSebastian said discussions are taking place "with four or five businesses talking about a potential sale, but he said such talks could take 9-10 months

"We're all kind of waiting to see how what all this means to us,' DiSebastian said

Hotel launches 'Super' opening

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

Since they d already book all 118 rooms for most of the week leading up to the Feb 5 Super Bowl in downtown Detroit, the folks building the new Inn at St John's had one mission make sure it's ready

That mission was accomplished Monday when the new hotel, built on 192 acres at Five Mile and Sheldon and complete with two presidential suites, new conference centers and a brand new restaurant, kicked off its opening with a grand-opening ceremony that included key officials from around the area

The ribbon-cutting ceremony marked the end of some 18 months of construction that now gives the Inn at St Johns a 118-room hotel, a 27-hole golf course and a state-of-the-art conference center

"We're thrilled we've had the opportunity to take what was a prestigious facility and continue the integrity of this development to its current form,' said Ron Wilson, CEO of Hotel Investment Services, Inc , the firm managing the property "We want to continue the legacy of St John's and keep this as a facility Plymouth Township is proud to have as a jewel in the community

Expanding its ability to host large conferences and weddings has been a big part of the game plan at St Johns To help accomplish that, the Inn recently opened its Grande Ballroom, a converted gymnasium that now can hold some 450 people

St Johns general manager Paul Wegert said that adjustment alone will allow St John's to expand its offerings

"That will certainly allow us to have weddings over 400 people," he said "We've been turning that business away by the week"

The hotel includes a new 80-seat restaurant, 5ive, which celebrates its grand opening with a reception tonight (Thursday, Jan 26) The restaurant will serve breakfast, lunch and dinner and features a martini lounge

Tuesday's ribbon-cutting ceremony featured several city and township officials, including township Supervisor Richard Reaume and Wayne County Executive Robert Ficano

"It's a beautiful place, but that's just the brick and mortar," Reaume said "But what's the next part? It's the people who come here to enjoy it It's the wedding parties and the married couples who are going to make the memories here"

Investors closing in on deal for Penn

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

A group of investors is preparing to buy the Penn Theatre and lease it to the preservation group intent on renovating the 64-year-old Plymouth landmark and turning it into a community center

Plymouth Symphony Society President Don Soenen said he has six investors — three who are pledging $200,000 and three with $100,000 — for a total of $900,000 in commitments, and is confident of finding several more partners to purchase the theater for the $1 2 million negotiated by the Friends of the Penn with co-owner Chris Knight

"We decided to put together a group of people that will buy the theater and rent it back to the Friends of the Penn for $1 a year, Soenen said "I think that will give them a much better opportunity to raise the money for renovations and operating the facility

"It was going to be challenging to raise $2 5 million in donations by the end of January," Soenen added "It's going to help them raise funds for restoration because the building will be secured and, with the terms of the lease, will make the whole project more credible"

Soenen declined to name those who are part of the consortium, at least until the deal is completed

The Friends signed a purchase agreement with Knight in November, giving them until the end of this month to raise the purchase price The Friends estimated it will cost almost as much for renovations

"We wouldn't even be in the position to raise money for renovations if it wasn't for these heroes securing the building for us," said Jennifer Philpot-Munson of the Friends 'We're looking forward to bringing the theater back to life"

The Friends plan to show movies, present various types of entertainment and use the theater as a community center for the arts

Philpot-Munson said the Friends will hold a 3 p m meeting Sunday, at the Penn, where they will show a video of the historic theater and present plans for raising renovation money The business, financial and fund-raising plan is one developed by University of Michigan School of Business graduate students for the preservation group

"We will be looking at selling seats, promoting sponsorships, naming rights and membership sales," Philpot-Munson said

Soenen said motivation of the investors isn't a profit on their return, because there probably won't be any

"If we don't do this, it will end up becoming retail space and we'll lose an opportunity to preserve the theater and provide a performing arts center for the community," Soenen said "We would hate to see that opportunity squandered '

SINKING EXPECTATIONS

Flat feet can be a source of back pain owing to the fact that the arch of the foot is the shock absorber that takes the weight and pressure from each foot strike Thus fallen arches can create a ripple effect which can make its way to the back In addition foot weakness can contribute to back pain With this in mind if you walk or run for exercise be sure that you are wearing the correct footwear Some running/walking shoes are so heavily cushioned that they require less work from the feet There are more than twenty muscles in the feet Arching them to get out of condition can lead to pain in the legs hips and back

Your physical therapist is an excellent resource should you require further information about maintaining maximum mobility and keeping foot and back pain to a minimum with fallen arches To schedule an appointment call the HANDS ON CENTER FOR PHYSICAL THERAPY now at 455 8370 We are located at 650 South Main Street in downtown Plymouth New patients are welcome

Ice fest gets warm reception

Weather doesn't keep fans from turning out

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WR TER

Warm temperatures may have forced carvers creating sculptures at last weekend s Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular to alter their designs a little

And it s true at least one carv ing collapsed and others were affected by warmer than nor mal temperatures

But none of that stopped thousands of onlookers from coming to downtown Plymouth to view the creations of the dozens of Japanese and American professional and student ice carvers for the 24th-annual festival in Kellogg Park

Geraldine and Mike McMillan of Bloomfield Hills had considered coming but never made it to last year s festival This year they came Sunday with sons Cameron, 5 Murray, 3 and 2-year old Alexander

It s amazing Geraldine McMillan said It s a beautiful day, we d heard good things about it so we decided to come It s very family friendly, very entertaining to watch

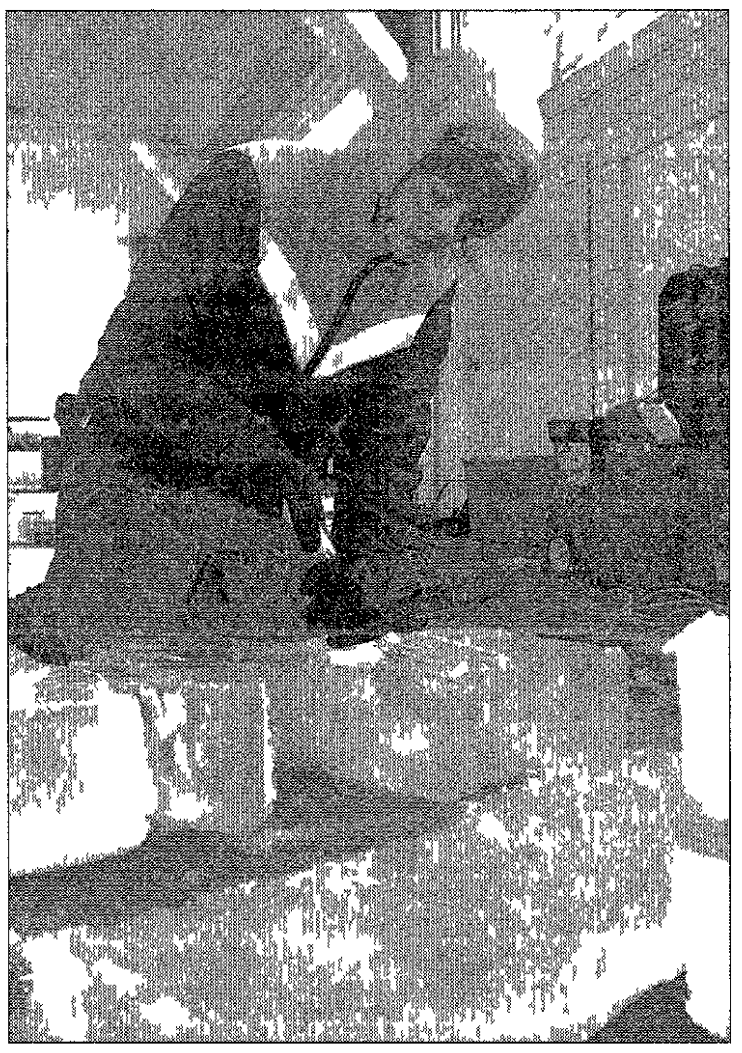
The festival included the annual appearance of the Japanese team, and competi tions for high school and col lege students and there were plenty of sculptures to see

It didn t, however include the usual Fantasyland presentation in the gathering, and there were fewer individual sculptures in front of local businesses That left some feeling a bit cheated

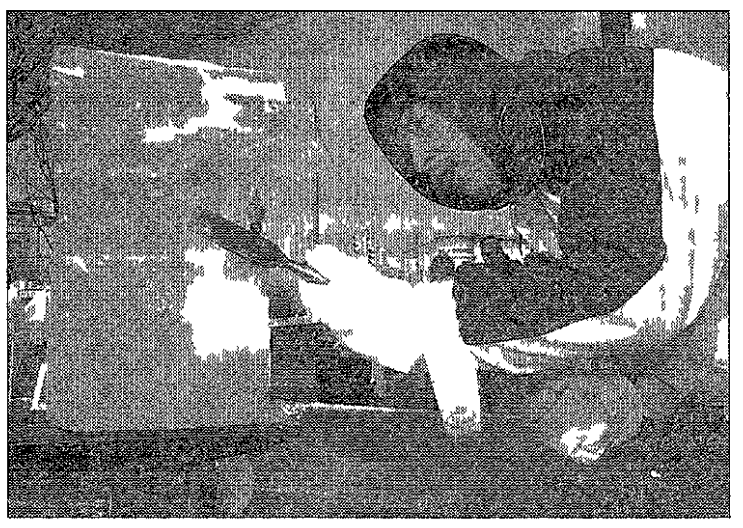
They need to advertise it more get more carvers said Rico Bianchi who has lived in Plymouth for 40 years

Not everyone agreed with Bianchi Gerry and Janice Hallett came down from Walled Lake with their 6 year old daughter Nicole to visit the fes tival and went away impressed

It s a nice thing to have in the middle of winter when th i s o th ig t I Hallett s id I d never seen it done It s pretty cool



Judy Muniz of Clarkston a student at the Oakland Technical Center Northwest works on her ice sculpture in the high school individual competition during last weekend s Plymouth ice festival



Professional ice carver John Fitzer of Westland works on a sculpture on Saturday morning

Colder weather didn t stop crowds from returning to the ice festival Saturday in downtown Plymouth

Cat's meow: Persian Tabby Fanciers bring show to Westland

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

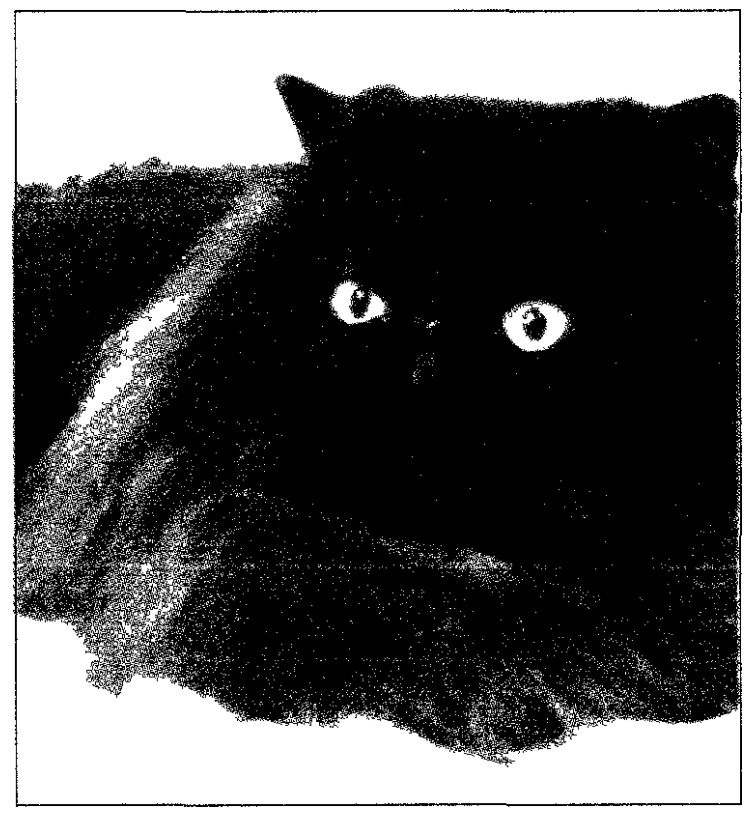
It will literally be the cat's meow at the Wayne Ford Civic League this weekend when the Midwest Persian Tabby Fanciers present their all-breed cat show

Pedigree felines from around the country as well as household pets will be featured in the show Saturday-Sunday, Jan 28-29, at the hall, 1645 Wayne Road south of Ford in Westland

"There's 37 breeds recognized by the CFA (Cat Fanciers Association) and there may be that many at the show,' said Cathy Hawley, a member of the Midwest group 'We expect 225 cats and kittens It ll be a medium-sized show

Like the popular Detroit Kennel Club dog show, when not being judged, cats and kittens will be in cages for the public to see Their owners will be on hand to answer questions about their felines and the breed There also will be kittens for sale and vendors

Pedigree cats will be judged to breed standard, with judges looking at such things as the shape of the eyes and ears, coat, eye color and fur color, Hawley said At the end of the show, judges will pick the top 10 cats to select the all-breed winner



The youngster of Cathy Hawley s four Persian Tabby cats is grand premier Dulcimer Merlin a three year old neutered black male

They will compete for championship points They begin in open class working their way up to champion and then grand champion Neutered pedigree cats like Hawley's black Persian Dulcimer Merlin earn points to become premier and eventually grand premier felines

The points earned depend on how many cats are in a show and how well they place, Hawley said 'People will come from California, Florida and everywhere in between, but they'll check for a show with the most entries If they place they get more points"

Household cats are judged on behavior, condition and temperament and receive ribbons and trophies

The Midwest Persian Tabby Fanciers has been around as a club since 1981 and sponsors a minimum of one all breed show each year It s dedicated to preserving and promoting the Persian Tabby cat, educating people about breeding and showing Persians, promoting sportsmanship and working to protect the interest of all cats

The money the club raises supports the welfare of animals, especially cats Donations have gone to the Feline Endowment Fund at Michigan State University, the Detroit Zoo s Big Cat exhibit, Michigan Humane Society, Michigan Animal Rescue League and Huron Valley Animal Shelter

The CFA is the largest registry of pedigree cats in the world and like the Midwest Persian Tabby Fanciers, it is committed to promoting the welfare of all cats, improvement of breeds and registration of pedigreed cats and kittens It also maintains a a Disaster Relief Fund to provide financial and logistical assistance at times of natural and human disasters

Hawley has had cats her entire life, but has been showing cats for only eight years After the death of her first Persian, she went looking for a new cat and was directed by a friend to a person who had been doing shows for 25 years

She had a hard time selecting a cat – "They were all beautiful, and went to a few shows She started with two cats and now has four Merlin is the youngster at age 3

Hawley learned how to groom cats for show and started working with Merlin when he was a kitten

Merlin purrs when he gets a bath, he thinks he s getting a massage, the Clarkston resident said of the show grooming routine

The show is open to the public 9 a m to 5 p m both days Admission is $6 for adults, $5 for senior citizens and $4 for children For more information about the show, call Hawley at (248) 393-1986

Plymouth woman moves firm to Livonia

BY DAN WEST
STAFF WRITER

A fast growing company that finds contract employ ment for skilled people in need of jobs has moved into a larger office in Livonia this month

Hire Expectations a 10-year-old company owned by Plymouth resident Mary Anne Pompea, moved from a 1,000-square foot office in Northville into a 2 400-square-foot facility on Pembroke near Victor Parkway

The company has 10 in-office employees who coordi nate contracted employment permanent job placement and contract-to-hire arrangements for some 250 people at about 20 compa nies, said Derek Dyer, the company's general manager

We have a lot of Tier One auto suppliers as clients who have project based jobs Dyer said It doesn t make sense for them to hire someone full time for a project that lasts only six 12 or 18 months

Pompea

The company has grown financially by 818 percent over the past five years, earn ing the designation as the 118th fastest-growing U S company on Inc magazines list of the nation's 500 fastest-growing companies The list appeared in its November edition

'We were just bursting at the seams in our former offices and had to find room to accommodate new people and new business, Dyer said

The growth was fueled by its increasing job placements for those in specialized mechanics, construction engineering and information technologies and customer service, Dyer said It also helps that companies looking for temporary employees lean on Hire Expectations as a women-owned business

Places like Ford Motor Co have made commitments to deal more with women and minority-business enterpris-es, Dyer said

According to DiversityBusiness com, Hire Expectations is No 421 among the top 500 women-owned businesses in the country and No 49 among the top 100 women-owned businesses in Michigan, based on awards and 2004 sales

McCLENDON

nizations in the 1950s Soon after moving to Detroit in 1955 McClendon became Wayne County director of school health, along the way writing a guide for teachers on how to deal with student drug problems

EDUCATION FIRST

In January 1972 McClendon became a professor in the University of Michigan s School of Public Health and retired as a professor emeritus in 1990

In the 1960s, McClendon was a driving force in the grassroots campaign that led to the establishment of Schoolcraft College

His passion was education And that's how he touched the Plymouth and Canton communities the most, serving 14 years on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education

His community love was the Plymouth Canton school district, and he contributed immensely toward our efforts to bring better education to the children of this community, said longtime friend George Dodson, 80 a former Plymouth-Canton Schools teacher and administrator Whenever he did anything, he d always ask, 'What s best for the children?''

After first meeting about 35 years ago, McClendon and Dodson discovered they grew up about 50 miles apart in Oklahoma

'We used to talk about how we could withstand hardships because we had Oklahoma dust in our craw, said Dodson, who himself has Dodson

E J and Ruby McClendon celebrated their 50th anniversary in June 2000

Elementary in Canton named for him

Former school board trustee Roland Thomas remembered being beaten by McClendon the first time he ran for the board

"What a terrific human being, and a great mind," Thomas said 'He was thought-ful, energetic and principled He was the type of person who was always challenging people to do better and always put the health and welfare of chil dren first

McClendon served on the Board of Education from 1973-77, and again from 1982-91 He was school board president from 1973-75 and again from 1986 87

'He was a very solid school board member, and even a more solid school board presi-dent, said Thomas Workman, a retired teacher and principal who knew McClendon for 35 years 'He gave a lot of stability to our district at a time when we needed some stability at the board level

McClendon s daughter, Melody Lang of Plymouth, remembers well her father's involvement in community health and education

'His whole life was dedicated to making the lives of other people better, Lang said "It was always known that E J ran the family, but mother was the glue that held it together

McClendon was married to Ruby for more than 50 years, celebrating their golden anniversary in 2000 before she died in 2001 at the age of 78

FAMILY TIES

McClendon s sister, Polly Norman of Wewoka, Okla , remembered with pride her older brother receiving a 4-H award for cattle judging, lead-ing his high school debate team to first place in the state, as a campaign manager for a U S representative, and his immense pride in being a Native American

'There wasn't much differ-ence in age between us, and he shepherded me everywhere, Norman said "He wasn t just my brother, he was my best friend

The Plymouth-Canton Schools Educational Excellence Foundation has begun a special fund to honor E J

"The EEF felt it was cer-tainly appropriate that we acknowledge the work he did on behalf of our students by giving people an opportunity to contribute to a fund in his name," said Tom Sklut, the district's chief development officer It s our intention to endow these funds, so gifts in his name will continue to support education in perpe-tuity

Gifts to the EEF in the name of E J McClendon can be donated by contacting Sklut at (734) 416-2726

Woman admits to stealing $1 million in federal funds

BY CAROL MARSHALL
STAFF WRITER

A 45-year-old Canton woman pleaded guilty Tuesday to stealing more than $1 million from the federal government She will serve less than half the maximum amount of prison time allowed by the law

According to U S Attorney Stephen J Murphy, LoToya Cotton had stolen the money during the 10 years she worked as a contractual liaison for the Michigan State Housing Development Authority, and the funds were diverted from accounts that pay for housing for low-income households

Cotton filled out applications for rental assistance for what Murphy called "straw people," who were either made-up identities, or who were real people who were clearly not eligible for housing assistance She then used the money for her own purposes, he said

Cotton's actions could have meant that low-income people and families who were legitimately eligible for housing assistance may not have received it because there is a finite amount of money available for MSHDA programs, according to Murphy

By stealing from a government fund set up solely to help low-income individuals and families secure one of life's most important necessities — dependable housing — Cotton committed a serious felony that cuts against the expectations of integrity that Americans rightly hold about government administered programs," Murphy said

The fraud from MSHDA, a federally funded entity, occurred between 1994 and 2005, according to Murphy

During that time, Cotton worked as an agent for MSHDA Her duties included arranging for state rental vouchers to be paid to low-income tenants Cotton committed the fraud by creating a bogus company, "Washtenaw Payee Services," and directed housing voucher payments into a bank account in that company's name She claimed at the time the payments were rent payments being made on behalf of indigent tenants, Murphy said

Under the terms of the plea agreement struck between Cotton and the federal government, Cotton will serve between 37 and 46 months in federal prison Cotton must also forfeit her home and repay more than $1 million — the amount obtained by the fraud The maximum penalty for the crime is 10 years in prison and a $250,000 fine

Design teams create visions for aerotropolis

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WR TER

After being locked away for four days at the Ypsilanti Marriott Hotel three design teams presented their visions for an aerotropolis the development of the area between Detroit Metro and Willow Run airports that some see as the primary engine for redeveloping southeast Michigan

There is no bigger development to occur in the state of Michigan Wayne County Executive Robert Ficano said Monday at a reception to unveil the plans at the Eagle Crest Conference Auditorium at the Ypsilanti Marriott

The teams were participants in the eighth annual Urban Design Charette sponsored by the University of Michigan Taubman College of Architecture and Urban Planning and underwritten by Wayne County Washtenaw County six communities around the airports and the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments

Doug Kelbaugh dean of the Taubman College describes a charette as an illustrated brainstorm The term literally means a small cart and derives from architecture students in 19th century Paris who would carry their projects to competitions in carts Previous charettes have been held in Detroit and the projects were smaller challenges such as redesigning the Eastern Market and the Detroit river front

The aerotropolis charette began Friday Nineteen professionals in urban planning architecture landscape architecture and engineering from around the country and 60 U M students were divided into the three teams

They were given a tour of the area stretching along I 94 from Romulus to Ypsilanti John Kasarda director of the Kenan Institute of Private Enterprise at the University of North Carolina and the leading authority on airport city developments presented his concept of the aerotropolis to participants They also heard from airport and county representatives

Then the teams met for three days at the Marriott developing concepts for developing the area which is seen as crucial because of new demands of e commerce and just on time delivery

Location location location has been replaced by speed speed speed Kelbaugh said Monday

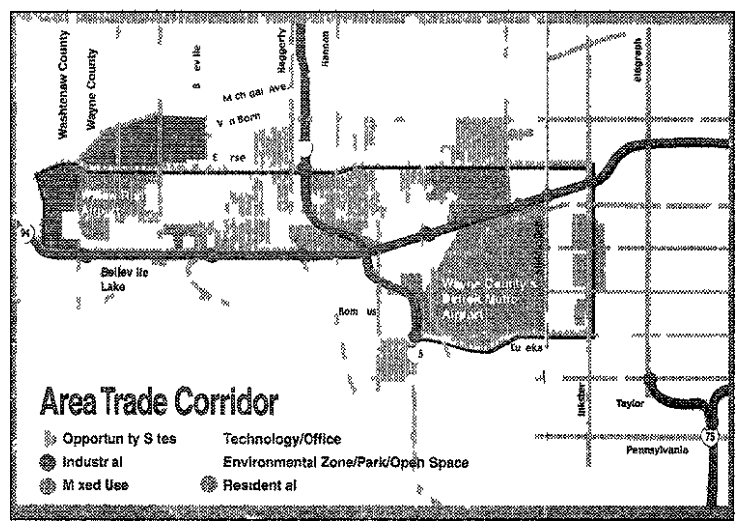
He said the aerotropolis will happen and the question is whether it will be carefully planned

A PHYSICAL VISION

Robert Guenzel Washtenaw County administrator said the project was important to Washtenaw because of the potential for new jobs

We need a plan you can show to outside investors he said

Mulugetta Birru director of the Wayne County Economic Development Authority said that this could be the first "planned airport city



This map from a Wayne County brochure for Willow Run Airport shows the area that designers looked at for development as an aerotropolis

When it is done it will be one of the most unique developments in the United States Birru said

He said it will require a common set of zoning standards across community lines and adoption of a common master plan in the development area

It will have to be a plan that will withstand any political changes he said

The plans developed over the weekend will be gathered into a book Kelbaugh said they will provide inspiration for future planning

The basic idea is to turn an economic vision into a physical vision Kelbaugh said

The groups each presented Powerpoint demonstrations on their plans

The brainstorming groups called themselves the Supersonics, the Stratocruisers and 777S Each group included some kind of mass transit water management systems, green space and pedestrian friendly areas

The Supersonic group opted for an express bus route linking the airport with Detroit on the east and Ann Arbor on the west, because they argued that a light rail or subway system would be impractical because the area is too densely developed They also envision using the existing heavy rail line The Stratocruisers suggested working off the existing rail line and eventually building a light rail system that connects with existing trains They suggest beginning with a bus system

The 777S group envisions a light rail system running down Ecorse Road, which they have redubbed the Concourse as the centerpiece of their plan They suggest turning Ecorse Road into a multi-lane boulevard for light rail and automobiles with a lot of green space But they also recommend preserving buildings and businesses already in existence They also suggest development plans for a Metro Center close to Metro airport, a Gateway Center near Willow Run and a Belleville development north of the river and existing town commercial district

The Supersonics suggest development along Merriman, development of green space and "green' buildings, high-density housing near the airport, hiking and biking trails and the use of roundabouts to handle traffic

The Stratocruisers envision a Metro City along Middlebelt, lots of greenspace that respects local ecology and special development plans for Wayne, Romulus and Belleville

Observer OPINION

OUR VIEWS

Thankless job still needs doing

To paraphrase an old adage, running for the local school board is a thankless job, but someone's gotta do it

But so far, that message isn't getting out to potential Board of Education members in the Plymouth-Canton school district

By Friday, just over two weeks prior to the deadline for filing a nominating petition, a grand total of zero had actually done so in the half-a-dozen clerks' offices that make up the school district

Only two people had even taken out the petitions, and neither of those is one of the incumbents Trustee Joanne Lamar is shooting for bigger political things the 20th District seat in the state House being vacated by a term-limited Rep John Stewart, R-Plymouth Township And incumbent Carol Saunders hasn't yet committed to seeking re-election, though she appears to be leaning ever-so-slightly in that direction

The lack of interest isn't surprising, rarely is there a great deal of competition for these seats Last year, for instance, only one person challenged incumbent Tom Wysocki The only recent aberration came in 2002, when nine candidates battled it out

Interest from the voters end is even lower Last year, just 7 percent of Canton voters turned out for the election, including one precinct where, incredibly, not a single vote was cast To be fair, even that was up from turnout in years past, which struggled around the 4- and 5-percent mark

In Plymouth Township, voter interest (and we use the term loosely) spiked to 15 percent, but those voters also had to decide a millage vote for police and fire services

This lack of interest has always puzzled us, because of the vital job school boards perform Aside from parents, these are the people perhaps most responsible — outside the classroom, at least — for the development of our children

The school board helps decide a variety of issues that directly affect our children's lives — from how much money gets spent in the classroom to what is going to be taught inside it

Our children are inside school walls for more than a quarter of their waking hours between September through June, and school board members are responsible for what happens those seven hours a day

Much of the effort of school board members goes unrewarded, indeed, they may take more grief than nearly any other elected officials The pressure of molding our childrens futures is enormous

Its a task that needs dedicated community members, bold thinkers interested in shaping our future through educating our children It's a daunting challenge

And you've got until 4 p m Feb 7 to step up and accept it

Cooperative spirit the key to DWSD's future

Earlier this month, U S District Court Judge John Feikens sent a clear message to suburban leaders who have tried to wrest away control of the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department (DWSD) from the city of Detroit It's not going to happen, he ruled Neither through legislation, nor litigation

Feikens referenced state law when he ruled that only Detroit can own and operate the DWSD, which serves 4 5 million people and is the third largest water department in the country

In September, Oakland County Drain Commissioner John McCulloch filed a motion in federal court to have Kwame Kilpatrick stripped of his duties as special administrator over the DWSD, and replaced by a five-member joint management committee composed of the drain commissioners from Oakland, Macomb and Genesee counties, as well as the director of the Wayne County Department of Environment and the mayor of Detroit

While Feikens did remove Kilpatrick in his ruling, he shot down any formal suburban role in the governance of the DWSD, something McCulloch has been advocating for several years, because of perceived "repeated, continuing and systematic mismanagement" of the department

In recent months there have been calls from both suburban leaders and Kilpatrick that the region needs to mend fences and quell the hostility that has existed between the city and its suburbs The water issue offers an excellent opportunity to put some of that new cooperative spirit into practice Lawmakers on both sides should lay down the swords and make sure the DWSD continues to provide some of the best water service in the country

Religion vs. science

Where do I go to sign up? I, too, want to write a column on a subject for which I have no particular credentials (how about industrial chemistry?)

I refer, of course, to Jack Kramer's recent Sunday Perspectives on evolution ("Many scientists are skeptical about the theory of evolution," Observer, Jan 15) Mr Kramer graduated with a degree in chemistry, works in the automotive industry and cites as evidence that the theory of evolution through natural selection does not enjoy widespread support within the scientific community the fact he has not run into any scientists who believe in evolution"

Well I haven t had much contact with any astrophysicists recently but that doesn t mean that the theory of universal gravitation is in trouble There are miles and reams of evidence in support of the theory of evolution by natural selection and more coming by the day

The problem is that you are going to have to do some deep wading because it is coming from such fields as genomics, molecular genetics and cell biology in which I doubt most laypeople are going to be widely read

But my real concern is the position of the United States in the international scientific community where we are rapidly becoming laughing stocks for our backward-facing, religiously driven views on many such subjects

Ironic, isn t it, that the same day's paper featured an article about increasing the graduation requirements in Michigan's high schools so we could become more competitive in the global marketplace? All this while much of middle America remains quagmired in the antiquated discussions of fundamentalist religious beliefs versus science!

My suggestion for Mr Kramer and others who might actually want to get the facts is to read any recent book by folks like Sean B Carroll, Spencer Wells, Brian Sykes, Marc Kirschner or almost anything ever written by Richard Dawkins I got all of them from the Plymouth District Library

Harsh editorial

I am troubled by the harsh editorial the Observer has made Miller parents out to be ("Livonia lease a good option," Observer, Jan 19) I see the paper has made many assumptions about some wonderful, caring and concerned parents who want what is best for their children

I don t think there is a perfect solution to having Miller closed for a year and displacing them elsewhere I am certain if there was a way for the school to be completed within the summer months and we could be open for fall, that would have been the "ideal" situation

Workman, Washington — wherever the Miller students are placed — will have to make two adjustments (to a new school and back to the old) regardless, and the children will be breaking ties with their Central Park friendships sooner or later

No one is sniffling, grousing or whining As a PCCS parent, we want, if we can have it, some certainty A month ago, our school was given certainty, today we have uncertainty As do the teachers at Miller school, they don't know if they are packing for storage, or packing for a completely different group of colleagues

Change can be hard, sometimes harder on us, as adults This district realignment will affect more than a couple of subdivisions, and it will be an adjustment for everyone I know that there are many positive aspects to attending Washington (as do all of us) but it is rather premature to put the cart before the horse

The Livonia community is in the process of fighting back for their school, so yet Washington is a good option, it can't be confirmed until the legalities are out of the way As do all businesses, the schools, etc , planning for the next year begins now for extracurriculars etc , all those things are on hold, until Mr Ryan gives us a deadline of when we'll know where our school will "reside"

The Miller parents and their children are loving, awesome and care about their community school They, too, know first-hand what it is like to live less than a mile from a middle school and get bused past two middle schools, so I would have to confirm that our parents are far from a bunch of 'complainers" that would certainly be an off base" assumption I think the paper needs to be a little more compassionate and educated in the topic regarding Miller parents before it puts out such derogatory remarks about our kind and concerned families

Christine Hughes

Valid theory

Mr Kramer's article of skepticism of Darwin s theory of evolution ("Many scientists are skeptical about the theory of evolution," Observer, Jan 15) is interesting, given the incredible, overwhelming paleontological evidence of mutation and evolution of species

And there simply is no other scientific theory of any validity To cite 100 scientists who have similar doubts as "many scientists" is like giving validity to 100 scientists who believe in UFOs or reincarnation They are a drop in the bucket! Evolution is not a "weak theory," it is an incredibly large, clear picture with some pixels missing here and there

Mr Kramer wants simple evidence of mutation and natural selection, a difficult concept because it happens over millions of years The present concern with Avian flu and the change in such viruses from one year to the next is a very real example

It is understandable that many persons, regardless of education and religious persuasion, struggle to balance religious beliefs with scientific knowledge, both historical and research-based While scientific rigor cannot begin to explain the human desire to seek purpose and morals in one's personal life, I think it is also fair to state that personal belief systems such as intelligent design are best not used to dismiss the validity of years of scientific data collection and research

I agree that there's nothing wrong with discussing intelligent design in our schools as long as we treat it as a belief system along with Christianity, Daoism, reincarnation and even witchcraft Science is fact and our only irrefutable tool for trust in what we are taught

Problem solved

I am writing to express my appreciation to Rep John Stewart I was having difficulty renewing my Employment Agency License (which I have held for over 20 years) with the state of Michigan

When I couldn't resolve the problem myself, I contacted Mr Stewart's office, explained my situation over the phone and was told to write it all down, and e-mail it to their office I did as I was instructed, and when they received the note they responded immediately stating they would do what they could

I had been told by the state's office that the renewal would cost an additional $460 this year due to some questionable extenuating circumstances I was never notified of this until I tried to renew this year

Although I couldn't get any satisfaction myself, one call to Rep Stewart's office,and the problem was taken care of I am deeply grateful to Rep Stewart and his great staff

QUOTABLE

"The objective is to give the public a working knowledge of the Plymouth Township Police Department policies and procedures, through a series of classes involving instruction by department officers and other members of the criminal justice system ... This is an opportunity for people who may not understand the role of a police officer or someone who may have complaints about police procedures to see things from the police perspective."

– Jamie Senkbeil, Plymouth Township police officer, on the Citizens Academy the department is offering

Survival of Ford Motor Co. is crucial for our well-being

Last Tuesday, they held a tribute dinner for Steve Hamp, who ended his enormously successful run of nine years as president of The Henry Ford and became a vice president at the Ford Motor Co and chief of staff for Bill Ford, Ford's chairman and CEO

The gathering, appropriately enough, was in the main Henry Ford Museum Three hundred of the good and the great of southeastern Michigan strolled for their supper and then listened as heartfelt praises gushed over Hamp, whose eyes even grew moist as the evening went on

Bill Ford was funny and charismatic Steve's father- and mother-in-law, William and Martha Ford, were gracious and proud

Phil Power

The Ford family is the closest thing we have to nobility in these parts Their combined civic concern, generosity, dignity and well, class have been of incalculable benefit to the entire state for decades Think of Michigan without the Ford Motor Co

Now try to imagine it without The Henry Ford (which includes Greenfield Village) or the Detroit Symphony, the Detroit Institute of Arts — or countless other institutions of stature and merit None would exist, at least not as they do now, without the Ford family

Now fast forward to Monday Bill Ford announced that his company's "Way Forward involved closing 14 assembly and parts plants, including the Wixom plant that employs 1,500, and eliminating around 30,000 jobs throughout North America over the next five years

The Ford Motor Co will be shrinking itself overall by nearly a quarter, reducing production capacity by around a million units

To say the situation is critical is an understatement "It's the most serious crisis at Ford in modern times,' says David Cole, the chairman of the Ann Arbor-based Center for Automotive Research

Although Ford overall showed a profit for the first nine months of 2005, its operations on this continent lost more than $1 4 billion before taxes Combined total market share for Ford, Mercury and Lincoln fell from 18 3 percent to 17 4 percent

To appreciate how sobering that number is, consider that a decade ago, Ford's share was more than 25 percent. The company's market capitalization has fallen by a flabbergasting $40 billion since 2001 Currently, its factories are running at a puny rate of just 79 percent capacity, far below the 90 percent-plus mark needed for profitable operations these days

The question is whether it can survive, given the weight of its chains This enormous company resembles Gulliver tied down by the Lilliputians thanks to the web of contract agreements Ford signed with the United Auto Workers

According to those agreements even if Ford closed every one of its U S factories it would still have to pay wages to the 87,000 UAW members who now work in them Additionally, Ford would be liable for their health care and pension expenses — and for twice that number of retirees and dependents

For years now, experts like Cole have argued that the business model of the American automobile industry is broken Too much capacity, too little flexibility to cut costs, too much competition from foreign manufacturers

Recent shocks have aggravated a desperate situation Globalized workers in China and India are able to turn out parts and cars at a fraction of the cost in America

Meanwhile, in recent years the price of steel, aluminum, plastics, gas — everything! — has skyrocketed

We've lost something like 100,000 auto-related manufacturing and parts jobs in this state since 1999, and many more since the 1970s They aren't coming back, and this week s plant closings are clear evidence the decline is far from over

One can only admire the guts that it took Ford to call its restructuring plan 'The Way Forward" And one can only wish — with every atom in one s being — that the plan turns out to be successful

What all this means for us in Michigan is reasonably clear

If our kids ever thought they could support a family with nothing more than a high school diploma, this week's news should come as a bucket of cold water in their faces

If those who have retired or are about to ever thought their golden years were going to be securely taken care of by pensions and fully paid health care plans, they'd better think again

And anyone in Michigan who was still assuming all we had to do was just wait for auto sales to improve next year or the year after that needs a speedy attitude adjustment, if not shock therapy

But there's an upside, too A smaller domestic auto industry may well turn out to be a healthier one Loss of brawn-heavy jobs in Michigan may clear the decks for a far more healthy emphasis on high-skilled, brainy workers

And there may be an added benefit from the shock of seeing a treasured icon, the company whose name was once synonymous with Detroit, reeling from the crush of a kind of competition the original Henry Ford never imagined

Perhaps this will bring us — politicians, citizens, auto executives — to the realization that it's silly for us to sit around and just wait for the climate to change That s what the dinosaurs did

Nor can we bank on government or industry or the automakers themselves figuring out what to do They must try, but we all have a role to play To paraphrase Shakespeare, the solutions cannot come just from our stars anymore they must come from ourselves

Congress must stem the invasion of illegal aliens

Businesses say they cannot survive without picking up illegals for day labor. Their need to make a bigger profit outweighs their responsibility to run their businesses by employing American citizens and legal immigrants. They shirk their responsibility to pay payroll taxes. It is becoming accepted that breaking the law is acceptable if it increases your bottom line. Companies who employ illegals should lose their licenses to do business.

In the next few weeks, the United States will face a critical crossroads and most of its citizens are unaware

The U S Senate will debate the problem of illegal immigration across our sovereign borders The U S House of Representatives has passed its own version (HR 4437), which is a weak attempt at solving a national crisis

The House bill insists on effective enforcement and does not include waving the magic wand and making illegals legal (called amnesty or guest worker program) This is a process where the government allows foreigners to invade our country, take American jobs, take tax dollars for welfare, schooling and medical care Some in the Senate want to have them pay a paltry $2,000 to buy their freedom from prosecution and deportation They will never pay back the billions of dollars taken out of American taxpayers pockets

Peggy Robichaud

Businesses say they cannot survive without picking up illegals for day labor Their need to make a bigger profit outweighs their responsibility to run their businesses by employing American citi zens and legal immigrants They shirk their responsibility to pay payroll taxes It is becoming accepted that breaking the law is acceptable if it increases your bottom line Companies who employ illegals should lose their licenses to do business

In comparison to amnesty, all American citizens will be prosecuted for any crime for which they are found guilty No amnesty for citizens — only for illegals who breech our borders Any small error on your 1040 and you will face an audit, yet businesses continue to employ illegals without paying a dime in federal income or Social Security taxes In some cases, when the illegal uses a fake Social Security number, taxes go into the system Some would say this is free money' that will help pay for others Is that how our country is to run? Using the profits from illegal activity to fund Social Security?

There are no jobs that Americans won t do Who did these jobs before the invasion? Illegals undercut American workers and are driving wages down They take jobs from our poorest citizens

We are firstly a country of people who created laws to protect ourselves The welfare of American citizens must come first The bottom line of business should reflect an economy where Americans are able to work for a fair wage

We have approximately 15 million illegals in this country Three million were "amnestied' in 1986 when the government promised it would never happen again If Congress passes any form of amnesty or, as the new term goes, 'guest worker program,' it will be the green light for millions upon millions more to continue their trek to the United States and its liberal welfare programs You and I will continue to pay

We need to put American citizens back to work and restore our welfare system to benefit only American citizens We need to stop burdening our welfare system, schools and hospitals with a financial burden that is not (or should not be) ours

We want our borders defended from invasion

If you agree, write to, or call, Sens Debbie Stabenow and Carl Levin Tell them that America needs to take care of Americans Enforce our laws and do not pardon criminals No amnesty No guest worker program Return to putting the welfare of American citizens first 'We the people want our country back

Professors debate affirmative action

BY ALEX LUNDBERG
STAFF WRITER

In the run up to November s statewide ballot initiative to eliminate the use of preferences based on ethnicity or sex, Oakland University will play host to a debate over whether or not affirmative action is a good thing for the state and nation

'Affirmative Action Pro and Con,' a traveling debate created by the anti-affirmative action group Toward a Fair Michigan, will run from noon to 1 p m Wednesday, Feb 1, at the Fireside Lounge, Oakland Center at Oakland University

The debate is free and open to the public

William Allen, a political sci ence professor at Michigan State University, is affiliated with TAFM and will speak against the practice of affirmative action

Affirmative action distorts the reality of citizenship in this country, he said It encourages decisions based on race"

One of the main problems, he said, was that affirmative action creates a climate where people are locked into perpetual roles of subordinate and superior,

Sedler

Allen

where the former is always dependent on the good graces of the other

It undermines what we take to be the heart of America, Allen said "The virtue of our principles

Unlike some other anti-affirmative action activists Allen doesn t believe the program ever had a useful place in American society and has been a bad idea since being introduced by President Lyndon Johnson in the mid 60s

The only true path to sorting through racial inequality, he said, is rigorous enforcement of the law

Robert Sedler, a constitutional law professor at Wayne State University who will represent the other side of the debate at Oakland University, said history carries inordinate weight in race and gender issues

"There's a long and tragic history of race and gender discrimination in this country, he said '(Affirmative action) is the only way to counter white- and male-supremacy in the U S "

A self-described strong supporter of affirmative action, he said keeping the program is in the public interest just as the active participation of women and minorities in all walks of life

'Race and gender should continue to be taken into account along with other factors," Sedler said "If you don t, there s going to be more whites and fewer blacks (in several spheres) We have to bring about equal representation in all walks of life"

TAFM Program Coordinator Carol Allen said the organization has promoted discussions about affirmative action in forums around the state The style of the conferences is as much a focus as the messages

'In a lot of cases, rhetoric is the main approach," she said "We emphasize cooler discussions We want people to speak on a principled basis and appeal to people's minds, not their emotions '

Allen said feedback from events in Lansing, East Lansing and Traverse City vindicates the approach of civility TAFM is planning to hold more debates around the state

Ford: Plant closings 'painful last resort'

STAFF WR TER

Days after rolling out an elaborate display at the North American International Auto Show, the leadership of the Ford Motor Co has announced sag ging North American sales is forcing the company to close fac tories and cut thousands of American manufacturing jobs, including more than 1,500 in Wixom.

Monday morning, Ford Chairman and Chief Executive Bill Ford called the restructuring plan, The Way Forward, a bold and sweeping strategy that calls for sacrifices at all levels to create sustainable, profitable change

'These cuts are a painful, last resort,' he said 'It will affect many lives, families and commu nities '

By 2008, the plan will close plants in Wixom, Atlanta, St Louis Batavia and Windsor Other plants will have their operations scaled back.

While the company has shown good growth in Europe South America and Asia, sales in North America haven t followed the trend He chalked the failure up to old thinking — that the American customer will pur chase whatever the company wants to build.

"My great-grandfather said if he built what his customers wanted, he'd build a faster horse Ford said 'Now, we will build what our customers want

Wixom City Manager J Michael Dornan said Monday was a day for the workers at the plant, their families and friend Tomorrow, he said, and every day after are for the city to work to bring things back together

'We have a half-century relationship with the plant, a good relationship, Dornan said 'We're going to identify the timetable of their plan and work to understand what they're trying to accomplish

Now that the plans are known, he said the city can start to try to minimize the effect of the plant s closing on other local businesses In a way, Ford s announcement is almost good news

The plant s employees are off that roller coaster, it s a good thing to know rather than to guess and to speculate' Dornan said 'We're at our best when we know the facts That's when many of us here are at our best."

U S Rep Thaddeus McCotter, R Livonia, whose 11th District includes Wixom, released a state ment, "It is a body blow to the 1,567 hard-working men and women of the Wixom Assembly Plant Our prayers and thoughts must be with the workers and their loved ones They fought for their jobs and their plant every step of the way Yet now that their paths are uncertain, I will do everything possible to assist them through this difficult transition to a better future

McCotter s office said he joined Wixom workers in January 2005 outside Ford World Headquarters to urge the company to keep the plant open

Though Wayne County facilities were spared for the moment, County Executive Robert Ficano called the Wixom closing a disturbing and unfortunate setback.'

"Sadly, the outcome will be felt by the city, many of our citizens and businesses in the area," Ficano said in a statement. "The plant closing is yet another clear indicator that we must diversify our industries and economy while supporting the ever changing manufacturing base on which we have become so reliant.

Oakland County Executive L Brooks Patterson said the change was an unfortunate blow to the families of workers at the Wixom plant, one that would cause disruptions in everything from mortgage payments to the college plans of their children

He said the county will do what it can to help

He said his offices, together with representatives from the United Auto Workers lobbied the governor's office and the Michigan Department of Transportation to renovate the I-96/Wixom Road exchange on behalf of the Ford plant. But, he said, the announcement at Ford is larger than what Oakland County or Michigan can do for the company

Steeler resolve

Bryan Proven stands among his family's Pittsburgh Steeler decorations and memorabilia in the living room of their Farmington Hills home. The Provens' tradition of displaying the items during playoffs featuring the team has paid off this year, as the Steelers will be in the Super Bowl in Detroit

Pittsburgh team paraphernalia makes spirited decor

BY MARY KLEMIC

The Proven residence in Farmington Hills features country decor – Steeler Country, that is

For the last few years Bryan and Janet Proven son Bryan and daughter Laura have decorated the r living room with Pittsburgh Steelers memorabilia and paraphern li

The items are gathered from around the house and set up in the room only during playoffs the Steelers make The pieces are taken down after the playoffs

"Most people are overwhelmed (when they see the room)," said the younger Bryan, who graduated from Wake Forest University in North Carolina this year

"We root for the Lions, except when they play the Steelers," his father said

Even before Sunday's game, in which the Steelers won the American Football Conference championship, the Provens were excited about Detroit hosting the Super Bowl

"I think it's great," Mr. Proven said.

TEAM SPIRIT

The display fills the room in an attractive arrangement. It is one of the family's superstitions about the playoffs. (Another is each member sitting in a particular seat when they watch the games on TV.)

The collection's latest addition, received this month from a friend, is a football signed by this year's team. It's on the mantel, along with lights bearing the team logo, and statues of players.

A flag with black and yellow stripes, and a city skyline and the Pittsburgh Steelers logo in the upper left corner, is on the wall over the fireplace, above a Steeler Country street sign.

2 programs promise to tame digital-photo collections

Owners of digital cameras quickly learn the unspoken curse of film-less photography Organization is a nightmare

After just a few months of shooting you can wind up with hundreds and hundreds of digital snapshots After a year or two the number can easily stretch into the thousands

Tech Savvy

Rick Broida

It s easy enough to copy all these photos from your camera to your hard drive, but then what? How do you keep this huge library organized?

There are dozens of programs that promise to help I looked at two Adobe's Photoshop Elements 4 0 (adobe com) and Google s Picasa (picasa google com)

The latter is free Adobe s software costs $99 (less if you shop online)

Which one should you choose? The answer may surprise you

PHOTOSHOP ELEMENTS

Let s start with Photoshop Elements 4 0 Don't confuse it with Adobe Photoshop the 800-pound gorilla of image editing programs Although Elements incorporates some of Photoshop's features it s much easier to use and it does a lot more than just image editing

For instance it lets you build custom slideshows, complete with Ken Burns style pan and zoom effects You can add music captions and narration, then output the finished product to a CD or DVD

Elements also supplies some pretty robust editing tools – lots more than just red eye removal (which for the record it can do automatically when importing photos from your camera)

With a few clicks of the clone tool for example, you can edit out the telephone pole that appears to be sprouting from a subject s head

Of course, our main interest here is organization, and Elements excels in that area I particularly like

Photoshop Elements' cool face-tagging feature makes it easy to tag and organize your photos

Forget about football, it's a super time for animal activities

About Animals

Dr Brad Davis

The Detroit area has become the focal point for the nation, filling up with people wearing loud clothes, screaming loudly and wearing face paint

No, it s not a circus convention, it's the Super Bowl, which could make circuses look tame in comparison

Scores of people from around the world will be descending on the Motor City, checking into every available hotel room from here to Iron Mountain, looking for fun and Ford Field

(The several hundred sportswriters and broadcasters will be looking for things to complain about, but try to remember they make their living by watching a game, writing about it and whining Don't let them bother you)

These visitors will arrive rife with the desire to experience all our area has to offer Some will spend all their time in the casinos Others will take in the unbelievable history at Greenfield Village and the Henry Ford Museum

For some, the time here will be spent downtown, with NFL activities, or maybe completely in the suburbs, shopping, and learning about southeast Michigan

Many people will be reading our local paper for the first time, and may be looking for things to do that would involve animals They might be thinking, Hey, football's great, but I'm really in the mood to look at a river otter"

Boy, are you in luck!

Detroit and surrounding areas boast an impressive array of animal activities for the whole family, whether you are in town to see a Super Bowl or if you live here and want to escape the hype for a while

ZOOS

We have a couple of great options of zoos to visit in our area

The Detroit Zoo, on Woodward Avenue at I-696, makes for a great day

Among highlights of the zoo are a beautiful Arctic exhibit (The Arctic Ring of Life) which features seals and underwater viewing of polar bears, including Talini, the polar bear baby who turned 1 year old in November

There s also an amphibian house (Amphibiville), a butterfly room, a penguinarium, a river otter exhibit, and a group of young sibling tigers who play hard and draw great crowds around their exhibit

It also might be the closest you'll ever see lions to a Super Bowl

The zoo s hours shorten to 10 a m to 4 p m in the winter, and some days it closes altogether, so call ahead to check for open hours at (248) 398-0900

The Detroit Zoo also offers something almost as precious as the Lombardi Trophy – parking

The Detroit Department of Transportation will be offering shuttle service from the zoo to the downtown events Expect charges for parking and for the shuttle service The zoo should have information, as will the DDOT at its Web site, www ci detroit mi us/ddot

The Toledo Zoo, between Anthony Wayne Trail and Broadway south of downtown Toledo, requires one or two hours heading south on either US 23 or I-75, depending on where you're coming from

This is a smaller zoo, but what it lacks in size, it makes up for in features

It saved much of the charm of its older buildings by renovating them, and making them part of the new zoo

The archaic feline house with cages that would be inhumane by today's standards has been transformed into an eatery, where you can sit at tables in the cages (and I think we've all seen families in restaurants where we thought the children might need to be caged)

While the main African area usually all but shuts down in the winter, the Toledo Zoo features some wonderful exhibits, including a wolf pack that appears to be closer than your neighbor's dog, a hippoquarium, a nice aquarium and Louie, the fast-growing baby elephant, who has become a star among visitors very quickly

It also has a weekend festivity called Frozentoesen 2006, which features events like ice sculpture and something called Czechoslovakian Black Light Theatre, along with "Cabin Fever feeds" of various animals

Call the Toledo Zoo at (419) 385-5721 for more information

HARNESS RACING

If you want to see animals being a little more active, you might want to consider a trip to Northville, where Northville Downs has a slate of harness racing

I know, you might have all your money on a square with the numbers 2 and 8, and are pretty sure you will have nothing more to bet, but seeing these animals glide around the track can be exhilarating, especially on the coldest nights

When it's very cold, fewer people go outside to yell desperate encouragement to their horses ("Go, number 3!"), and you can hear the hooves clapping against the ground, even echoing against the grandstand

Northville Downs features 12 harness races every Thursday through Sunday evening starting at 6 40, and simulcast races from noon 'til midnight

Admission is free (which is slightly less than Super Bowl tickets)

The track is at Seven Mile and Sheldon roads, north of M-14 and west of I-275 Call for more information at (248) 349-1000

CANADA

Maybe you want to get a little wild, and you've heard that a trip across the bridge to Canada is the answer You couldn't be more right! There are definitely wild times in Canada!

Just about 45 minutes or so after the tunnel on Ontario's Highway 3 would be Leamington, city of ketchup, and gateway to Point Pelee, a national park and a location prized by birders from all over the world

This park serves as a landing area in spring and a rest area in fall for migrating birds

That being said, it should be noted this isn't spring, nor fall Still, this is a lovely area, with some wildlife that is native, such as flying squirrels

A group called Friends of Point Pelee can be reached at (519) 326-6173 for more information

METROPARK

Closer to Detroit, the Kensington Metropark off I-96 just east of Brighton offers fabulous outdoor fun

Along with all the usual winter activities, the park has neat nature trails, which are frequented by animals all year round

Deer sightings are more the norm than the exception There's even the occasional bald eagle Plus, a walk through the woods is always a nice way to spend a day

There you have it – a list of ideas for things to do involving animals as you wait for kickoff

If you do live here, remember these sites are available, and they are a great time for your family, despite the season being winter

Plus, they are a great way to get away from all the hype There's very little chance someone will show up at Kensington with his body painted in team colors

I guess I can also give the obligatory prediction about the final score of the big game I predict it will end up 31-17 The winning team? The one with 31

Be careful of what you buy, you'll probably have to repair it

When you've been in the major home appliance industry for more than 40 years, done a radio show on the subject for 21 years and written a newspaper column for 10 years, you should be somewhat of an expert, and that's where I think I'm at

Appliance Doctor

Joe Gagnon

I have opinions that I pass on to you, and sometimes they are very strong and point out my disappointment as to how products are made today

Here is an example of the many hundreds of stories I hear from consumers every year I'll use the "XXX" brand name

Keep in mind, it's not near some of the tales told me by homeowners but simply the most recent

'I purchased a XXX refrigerator in March 2001 My first repair was October 2001, when the mother board in my refrigerator failed and had to be replaced

'My refrigerator has had to be serviced at least twice a year since then I have lost a whole refrigerator's worth of food twice due to moisture-related problems The first time it happened, XXX failed to inform me I was entitled to $100 for loss of food

'I have had my ice machine replaced, 'parts' of my ice machine replaced, the insulation on my freezer door replaced, cracked drawers replaced etc I have ongoing problems with the defrost motor in my freezer We have pictures of the defrost motor caked with ice

'I have to listen to the 'sounds my refrigerator makes If the sound changes, I have to remove all food from my refrigerator, and shut the refrigerator off so the ice on the defrost motor' can melt

"I purchased the extended warranty (had to) and the first time the refrigerator failed, XXX extended my warranty for one year

CALLS

"I have repeatedly called and complained, asked to speak to managers, etc I was told if 'their engineers deemed my refrigera tor repairable I wasn t entitled to a new refrigerator' I was never allowed to talk to the engineers

I told them the refrigerator was a lemon, and that I purchased said appliance in good faith, and the expectation that the appliance should perform as advertised wasn t unreasonable They told me they couldn't help me

'I misplaced one of my service receipts and asked for a copy of my entire file to be sent to me I was told the computer didn't go back that far (four years) When I laughed and told them that was ridiculous, they amended their statement to 'Well, it does have the information, we just can t print it out.'

"I have an ice maker that gives me cracked ice when I push the button for cubes

Sometimes I push the button and can hear the auger turning, but no ice comes out When I open the door, a mountain of backed-up ice falls on my kitchen floor

'I have hollow ice cubes, partial ice cubes, and a machine that won't work if a piece of ice gets frozen to the little lever in back

'XXX has caused me no end of frustration, anger and unhappiness over these problems A refrigerator that cost almost a thousand dollars shouldn t break down every few months

' I purchased the refrigerator from a retailer and they refused to go to bat for me End for now Rozanne"

Remember the recent column, folks, the one where I announced that warranties on major appliances are now going to change? Is it any wonder they want to remove all the coverage they have given us for so many years?

The way they're building products, they must be losing a great amount of dollars in their service divisions

Now, imagine what is in the future for millions of Americans who have a problem with a major home appliance

Remember to get all the information you can about any appliance you're going to buy Read, talk, ask and put the salespeople on notice that you want the best proven product available Shop smart and keep your fingers crossed

Stay tuned

This is one of the unusual Phalaenopsis orchids that will be featured at English Gardens' fourth annual Orchid Festival in February

A frequently requested speaker, Doherty has been featured at the Tokyo Dome Show, the World Orchid Conference in Vancouver, and recently in Dijon, France

Ohlman is the director of sales and marketing for Orchids by Ohlman in Toledo, Ohio Celebrating his fourth year in the orchid industry, he prides himself on educating new orchid lovers and sharing his knowledge of orchids

Orchids on display and for sale during the festival will include popular varieties such as Cattleyas, Cymbidiums, Dendrobiums, Phalaenopsis and Oncidiums

Popular in Europe, this method employs a two-pot system and clay aggregate pebbles that make growing orchids much easier for homeowners

Orchids are popular for home gardeners because they re easy to maintain and very long lasting said Lori Secord, merchandising manager for English Gardens

'Each year our festival grows in popularity because more people realize the bene fits of decorating with orchids We re looking for ward to hosting the industry s most knowledgeable and prominent growers

the stack feature, which allows you to organize similar photos (say, multiple shots of your Aunt Edna) into a virtual stack

That not only helps with organization, but also reduces some of the clutter in your photo library

Cooler still is Elements face-tagging feature, which finds and isolates the faces in your photos so you can tag them more easily (Tags are descriptors you apply to photos to make them more easily searchable They're the key to effective organization)

Elements isn't perfect It's annoyingly slow to load, and you have to switch between different programs to accomplish different tasks Plus, it lacks a folder-based browser, which is daunting if you're accustomed to working with folders

Plus, there's that whole price thing It has one So let s look at a photo manager that s absolutely free Picasa

PICASA

If it s free, it can t be any good, right? Wrong Picasa is an incredibly polished and versatile photo-management tool

I love its friendly, uncluttered interface and simplistic image-tweaking tools Click I m Feeling Lucky,' for instance, and Picasa will automatically fix the lighting and color in your selected photo

The software's other one-click-away features include sending automatically resized photos via e-mail, adding photos to your blog, ordering prints, and burning a slideshow CD (without music, alas) On the downside, Picasa's operation isn't always intuitive, and you have to venture online to get help It's a lightweight when it comes to editing, and I genuinely dislike the way it imports photos from memory cards

Even so, it's a great place to start, especially if you have photos littered across your hard drive and no effective means of organizing them

That said, Photoshop Elements 4 0 is well worth the investment – and you know what a sucker I am for free stuff Once you master its excellent tagging and organization tools, you'll find your once-unruly photo library quite tame Plus, it's packed with advanced editing tools, meaning you can tweak those near-perfect shots to perfection

Don't take my word for it Download the 30-day trial version and see for yourself

Time to replace putty at windows

BY MORRIS AND JAMES CAREY
FOR AP WEEKLY FEATURES

James says 'The aluminum windows on my house have an almost concrete-like substance (or very hard putty) on the exterior, which presumably holds the windows in place

"This substance is cracking and whole chunks are falling out of the window What should I do?"

The hard stuff to which you refer is well aged glazier's putty This compound is used to hold glass panels in place in old-fashioned aluminum win dow frames Very soft and pliable when installed, the material naturally hardens until (after many years) it finally reaches the extremely brittle state you described

The trick to applying putty is its softness

Remove a palmful from the can, knead it into a bead about the size of your small finger, force into where the glass and frame meet, and then use a glazier's knife or small putty knife to shape the putty at a 30- to 45-degree angle between the glass and the frame

Pallas Du Wang owner of Pallas Restaurant in Farmington Hills presents flounder in sweet chili sauce Fish is a must for Chinese New Year dinners, representing a bountiful year

Well, here's another one

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK

Look at the special menu for the Chinese New Year, and you'll notice that symbolism abounds

The shape of the crab-meat wonton in the Gin Yuan Boa Tang (Golden Fortune Soup) resembles ancient Chinese money Sze Ji Ping An (Peaceful Four Seasons) is a dish of apple and lobster salad as one of the Chinese characters for apple (ping) is a symbol for peace

And Woo Foo Ling Men (Five Blessings) is a cold appetizer combination of five ingredients – roast beef, pepper shrimp, smoked fish, thousand-layered curd and shredded tofu, and candied walnuts, each representing longevity, wealth, peace, wisdom and righteousness

That's all on a menu at Pallas Restaurant in Farmington Hills to celebrate Chinese New Year Sunday, Jan 29 (This year is the Year of the Dog and year 4073 in the Chinese calendar) The dinner event, which has attracted 100-150 people in each of the previous two years, features a traditional 10-course meal symbolizing the "Perfect 10" (See information at end of story)

Each course is poetically named for good luck in the following year while the ingredients are symbols for the dish's name (See the accompanying menu)

"Hosting an event like this is a special honor for my family," said Pallas Du Wang, who, with her husband Sonny, co-owns Pallas and the Sze Chaun Restaurant in Canton In addition to being able to help those of Chinese descent celebrate the New Year in the manner of our ancestors, we get to share this experience with the rest of the metropolitan Detroit community'

Steamed scallops are served with an oyster sauce with black moss seaweed The dish symbolizes prosperity and wealth

But why does Chinese New Year fall on a different day?

For one thing, the Chinese years last only 360 days and the Chinese follow a lunar calendar, so every year New Year's falls on a different day, according to Wang

"It's just like an American Thanksgiving with a large family gathering,' Wang said "It's the biggest day of the year for the Chinese"

"We remember our ancestors, grandparents and parents, and family members and the fact that we never forget about them We pass this on through generations

Grandparents give a lucky envelope for their children and grandchildren 'It contains a gift, and that's usually money," Wang said The envelope has a Chinese slogan on it, and the recipient opens the envelope, then keeps the envelope under their pillow for good luck in the next year Attendees can also have their name inscribed in Chinese on the red packets (or envelopes)

She plans to extend that tradition to restaurant patrons on Chinese New Year's Day at the restau-

Discover Montepulciano d'Abruzzo wines

Focus on Wine

Ray and Eleanor Heald

Montepulciano d Abruzzo wines caught our attention in 2004 when we judged at the world's largest wine competition in Verona, Italy, prior to Vinitaly

Only a decade ago, few would have bet on this wine winning the palates of wine aficionados But it has and particularly among U S red wine lovers

Why? From a first sniff, the bright red fruit aromas of Montepulciano d'Abruzzo captivate In the mouth, wines from the best producers are rich and structured, but not tannic They're generously fruity with cherry, plum and raspberry notes, complemented by hints of dark spices and almonds

Additionally, Montepulciano d'Abruzzo evolves in the glass to reveal different aromas and flavors as the wine is enjoyed over time, especially with a meal

ABRUZZO REGION

Abruzzo, a "mid-boot" Italian region, is bordered to the north by the province of Le Marche, to the east by the Adriatic Sea, Molise to the south and Lazio to the west Its two-thirds mountains and one-third hills — most favorable natural conditions for grape growing

Clinging to the slopes of the Gran Sasso or Maiella mountain ranges, Abruzzo vineyards create a magnificent site We marveled that these vineyards stretch, in some locations, to reach the Adriatic Sea

Our closest local connection to Abruzzo is the Del Signore family, who hail from central Abruzzo and the village of

Walnut keepers

Walnuts can be healthful items to include in your food planning, and here are some pointers from the Walnut Marketing Board for storing and using them, according to the Associated Press

- Walnuts have a long shelf life, so it's practical to keep them on hand for adding to recipes or for snacking In-shell walnuts keep best, shell them when you are ready to use them Unopened packages of shelled walnuts have a shelf life of up to one year Open packages of shelled walnuts or chopped walnuts can be refrigerated or frozen in an airtight container and kept for six months
- The best way to open an in-shell walnut is to place the nutcracker at right angles to the shell's seam and crack
- To chop walnuts, use a knife or a food processor Make sure nuts are at room temperature before grinding in a processor, or their natural oils will make the nuts soften to a paste
- To blanch walnuts, add shelled nuts to boiling water Take the pot off the heat and let the nuts stand for two minutes (Some recipes call for blanching, to make the walnuts' flavor a little milder)
- To toast walnuts, which brings out their full, rich flavor, place them on baking sheets, spray with nonfat cooking spray or add a dash of vegetable oil and bake in a 375° F oven for eight to 10 minutes, tossing occasionally during baking

Which bacon to bring home?

In case you wonder about bacon varieties at the grocery counters, here are some points on different kinds of bacon, courtesy of the Associated Press

- Traditional bacon is cut from the pork belly and has a fairly even ratio of fat to lean It is cured and smoked for flavor and may be sold raw or fully cooked When cooked and ready to eat, it is crisp and chewy.
- Canadian bacon is from the loin, a muscle that is generally lean with minimal visible connective tissue or fat The loin is cured and smoked to make Canadian bacon, which has a flavor similar to ham but is slightly milder

Canadian bacon has a tender texture and is typically sold ready to eat either in combination with other ingredients or on its own It's well-known for its role in eggs Benedict and as a pizza topper

- Canadian-style bacon is a term that is often used interchangeably with Canadian bacon. However, unlike real Canadian bacon, it can include additional pork muscles including sirloin hip meat and ground pork trim, and will be labeled accordingly

Fonte d Amore, near the larger town of Sulmona As most Italian food lovers in this area know, John and Lina Del Signore own Fonte d'Amore restaurant in Livonia and their chef son Luciano owns Bacco Ristorante in Southfield with his wife Monica

On a recent writing research trip to Italy, we found the senior Del Signores at the family home in Fonte d Amore 'I ve made arrangements for you to go with us to Zaccagnini," John announced soon after we arrived General manager Marcello Zaccagnini and his winemaker do not speak English, so Lina and I will translate for you

As we embarked on a 25-mile drive to the little town of Bolognano, we calculated that Zaccagnini made the eighth producer of Montepulciano d'Abruzzo we had visited in four days

Under the guidance of winemaker Concezio Marulli, Zaccagnini uses ultra-modern winemaking techniques and an amazing quality control system that follows the entire production process

ABRUZZO AND KASAURO

Although Marulli took great pride in showing us the winery s state-of-the-art winemaking capability, he beamed the most as he brought out the first showing of 2003 Kasauro Montepulciano d'Abruzzo, Del Signore Selections

The name Kasauro relates to the village of Tocco Kasauro, where the grapes are grown The wine is a special blend of Montepulciano d Abruzzo made for the Del Signores by Zaccagnini Dark fruit aromas are mirrored in the flavors of this easy-drinking, yet well-structured wine with a delicious finish

It s available for $25/bottle or $7/glass at both Fonte d Amore and Bacco Ristorante on the wine list or for $150 per case at both restaurants and also at the Laurel Manor Deli (Laurel Manor is also owned by the Del Signores) The 2003 Kasauro is value-priced and an excellent wine making its way to the heights of international success that many Montepulciano d Abruzzo wines deserve today

Kitchen Craft to cook up delights

Kitchen Craft Cookware will sponsor cooking demonstrations all weekend at the 2006 Novi Home Improvement Show Friday-Sunday, Jan 27-29, at the Rock Financial Showplace

The distribution of this American-made stainless steel cookware and kitchen equipment is through events such as national home shows like the Novi Home Improvement Show

Professionally trained chefs entertain and educate cooking show audiences as they demonstrate the waterless cooking technique that is the Kitchen Craft hallmark

Stack cooking is one of the features that bring "oohs and aahs" from cooking show audiences

Kitchen Craft units are constructed so that the smaller units can be stacked on top of the larger units

An entire meal can be cooked on one burner with the foods that require a longer cooking time on the bottom of the stack, working up to the foods that require a shorter cooking time on top

This technique reduces the amount of energy needed to cook dinner and it eliminates the need to "shuffle" pots and pans on the stovetop when preparing a large meal

Kitchen Craft will present demonstrations and taste testing from its booth all weekend on the hour

The Rock Financial Showplace is on Grand River between Taft and Beck in Novi

Show hours are noon to 9 p m Friday, 10 a.m to 9 p m Saturday, 10 a m to 6 p m Sunday

Admission is $9 for adults, $8 for ages 65 and older, free for children under 12 accompanied by an adult Parking is available at the Rock Financial Showplace for a fee

Discount coupons are available online at www novihomeshow com or at participating metro Detroit Dunkin' Donuts locations

AMERICAN INST TUTE FOR CANCER RESEARCH

Parsnips, beets, carrots and turnips reach their peak this time of the year and make perfect winter dishes

It's a sweet time of year for root vegetables

It's root vegetable season Parsnips, beets, carrots and turnips reach their peak this time of the year and make perfect winter dishes

Root vegetables release rich, sweet flavors and aromas as they oven-roast They undergo a change with the first frost of the season, which changes the vegetables' starch to sugar High oven temperatures interact with the natural sugars in these vegetables to intensify their sweetness

In addition to their sweetness, root vegetables contain substances that fight cancer and help strengthen resistance to other health problems, according to the American Institute for Cancer Research

Parsnips are not used as much as some other root vegetables but are worth a look After the first frost, they have a pleasantly sweet, dense flavor that adds complexity to casseroles, stews and soups and, in combination with other fruits and vegetables such as sweet potatoes and apples, make a winning combination of taste and nutrition

Parsnips are part of the carrot family and are good at fighting cancer and heart disease like other vegetables in this family Root vegetables like parsnips, carrots and beets are also high in nutrients, dietary fiber and a range of cancer-fighting substances called phytochemicals, available only in plants

Although parsnips are available year-round, their peak months are in fall and winter

When shopping for root vegetables, look for those that are smooth and firm, with a bright color Parsnips are preferable young, when they are smaller and sweeter They can be refrigerated in a plastic bag for up to two weeks

The flavors of sweet potato and apple blend nicely with the parsnips in the following recipe They also add to the health benefits of the dish A little honey and soy sauce are a good complement to this satisfying winter medley

Honey-Roasted Parsnips with Sweet Potatoes and Apples

Canola oil spray
1 1/2 cups peeled and chopped parsnips
1 large sweet potato peeled and cut nto bite size chunks
2 crisp red apples peeled cored and cut into bite size chunks
1 tablespoon canola oil
1 tablespoon honey
2 tablespoons reduced sodium (lite) soy sauce
Salt and freshly ground black pepper

Preheat oven to 375° F Spray a baking pan or casserole dish with oil spray and set aside In a large mixing bowl, place parsnips, sweet potato and apples Set aside In a microwave-safe bowl, mix oil and honey Warm in the microwave, about 10 seconds, to thin Stir in soy sauce Pour sauce onto vegetables and apples Toss to coat well Transfer to the baking pan and cover with foil

Bake until very tender, about 1 hour, stirring occasionally Add salt and pepper to taste, then serve

Makes 6 servings Per serving 113 calories, 2 g total fat (less than 1 g saturated fat), 23 g carbohydrate, 1 g protein, 4 g dietary fiber, 216 mg sodium

Beans add nutrition to meatless chili

About this time of year, most people are happy to see a bowl of chili But it doesn t have to be a bowl of fat and calories You can retain the robust flavor of chili without sacrificing solid nutrition or a post-holiday weight-loss resolution

Many foods that go into a traditional chili offer important health benefits Chile peppers, for example, contain capsaicin, an antioxidant Spices typically used in chili recipes, like cumin and cilantro, offer cancer protection, especially against breast and liver cancer And beans are rich in many different types of phytochemicals that help protect against infections, heart disease and cancer, especially of the breast and prostate Beans are also rich in protein, dietary fiber, thiamin, vitamin B6, folate and several important minerals The following meatless chili tastes better eaten a day or two after it is made The baking chocolate can be omitted if desired, but it provides a rich, deep flavor that acts as a kind of substitute for the flavor of meat

This chili makes nine servings, but it can be extended for a large crowd by serving it over hot cooked rice, preferably brown Leftover cooked meat, like diced turkey or chicken, can also be added

AMERICAN INSTITUTE FOR CANCER RESEARCH

Toss pasta with mushroom ragout

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cultivated mushrooms are not only sliced in salads and cooked in sauces, they can even be the main ingredient of a dish

That s the point made and confirmed with a selection of recipes in Everyday Food magazine s December issue Among the recipes is this mushroom ragout with bacon, tossed with pasta to make a tasty, low-fat entree

The cremini and white mushrooms give the versatile sauce a mellow, woodsy flavor Other things you can do with the sauce are to use it over polenta, as a sauce for cooked chicken breasts, with toast, as a pizza topping, with scrambled eggs, or stirred into cooked rice or risotto

The sauce can be made a day or two ahead (keep bacon separate), and refrigerated Gently reheat as the pasta boils, add bacon to sauce during the last few minutes of heating

Mushroom Ragout With Pasta

- 4 slices bacon cut crosswise into 1/2 inch pieces
- 1 small onion finely chopped
- Two 10 ounce packages cremini mushrooms trimmed and quartered
- Two 10 ounce packages white mushrooms trimmed and quartered
- 1/4 cup tomato paste
- 2 teaspoons dried thyme
- 1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
- 2 teaspoons red wine vinegar
- 3/4 pound spaghetti
- Shaved Parmesan for garnish (optional)

In a large 5 quart saucepan with a tight-fitting lid (that will be used later) cook the bacon over medium heat uncovered, stirring until crispy, about 5 minutes With a slotted spoon transfer to a paper towel to drain Set aside

Add onion, stir until golden, about 1 minute Add mushrooms, cover Cook until juices have evaporated about 20 minutes

Stir in tomato paste thyme and 2 cups water until combined, cover Cook until sauce has thickened, 10 to 15 minutes Stir in parsley and vinegar Add bacon reserving some for garnish, if desired

Meanwhile cook pasta until al dente according to package instructions Drain and return to pot

To serve, toss pasta with ragout Garnish with reserved bacon and shaved Parmesan, if desired

Makes 6 servings

Tom Workman has established an outstanding reputation as a high school and collegiate football official over the past four decades The retired Plymouth/Canton schools administrator currently serves as a technical adviser and replay-booth coordinator for the Mid-American Conference

Upon further review...

Workman takes decades of officiating expertise to the replay booth

BY ED WRIGHT

Like millions of college football-loving Americans, Tom Workman s eyes were riveted to a television screen every Saturday afternoon this past fall as he watched games with undivided focus

What made Workman unique from his pigskin passionate peers was that when he didn t agree with a referee s call, he didn't slam his remote control into the couch and curse

When Workman didn't agree with a call, he corrected it — literally

The 68-year-old Plymouth resident served as one of the NCAA's instant replay football officials during the 2005 season

Armed with a TV monitor, a headset or telephone, and a device that could instantaneously connect him with the on field officials, Workman would review every play of his assigned Mid American Conference games from his booth adjacent to the stadium s press box

When he saw something in the replays that needed to be changed, he simply buzzed the on-field refs and explained his findings

There is an increased level of tenseness with this job compared to being on the field because you know that your call is the final call," Workman said "In some cases, I'm overruling a call on the field In some cases I'm confirming a call on the field And in some cases there's simply not enough evidence to do either

"It can be intense because you don't want to be an intrusive part of the game's process On questionable plays, I would ask the television production people for the best replays, but at the same time I was aware that the game clock is ticking

HISTORICAL JOB

Last season was the first that the NCAA used the replay system on a full-time basis, which made Workman

Rocks hand Chargers 1st net setback

Two days after getting brought down to earth, Salem's volleyball team played out of this world

On Monday — less than 48 hours after dropping their first three matches of the season at the Novi Invitational — the Rocks rebounded in a big way by sweeping previously unbeaten Livonia Churchill, 25-17, 25-19 and 25-19, before a large and charged-up crowd in the Salem gym

The eye-opening triumph raised Salem's record to 24-3 overall and 3-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association The Chargers dropped to 27-1 and 2-1, respectively

Churchill was ranked fifth in Division 1 heading into the game while Salem was sixth

"Losing on Saturday actually helped us tonight," said Salem coach Amanda Suder "We went in undefeated on Saturday, but we got a reality check. It was the first time we were really challenged. The girls found out what they needed to work on and they came out tonight and played their best match of the season"

The Rocks needed their "A" game against Churchill, which had lost only a handful of games heading into Monday's match For the first time this season, the Chargers' usually reliable serve-receive game was inconsistent

"They served us off the court," Churchill coach Mark Grenier said of the Rocks 'We didn't pass well, which meant we couldn't get into our offense Give Salem credit, though They did a lot of things well and they didn t have many unforced errors

I give Amanda a lot of credit Shes done a nice job of turning that team around They played better than we did tonight, but we ll be back"

Salem played with the confidence and cohesiveness that was missing last year when it struggled to stay above

MHSAA court date

The Michigan High School Athletic Association gets its next day in court March 14 when the state's governing body of high school sports appeals once again to the U S 6th Circuit in Cincinnati, Ohio

The MHSAA is appealing a district court decision from 2001, which claims the MHSAA discriminates against female athletes and ordered it to switch six sports seasons, including flopping girls basketball and volleyball

The Communities for Equity, an organization founded in western Michigan back in 1998, originally filed the civil suit eight years ago The MHSAA makes its appeal to the same three judges who denied the earlier appeal in June 2004 But the U S Supreme Court vacated this decision in March 2005 and sent the appeal back to the 6th Circuit

Franklin favored to defend its Observerland mat title

BY BRAD EMONS

Livonia Franklin can't sneak up on anybody when it comes to this year's Observerland Invitational Wrestling Tournament

The Patriots, who came out of nowhere last year to win their first-ever title, find themselves favored along with Canton and Novi-Detroit Catholic Central in the 15th annual invitational, which starts at 9 a m Saturday at Livonia Churchill High School

The field features 16 schools including host Churchill, Franklin, Livonia Stevenson, Livonia Clarenceville, Canton, Plymouth, Salem, Redford Union, Garden City, CC, Lutheran High Westland, Westland John Glenn, Wayne Memorial, Farmington High, North Farmington and Farmington Hills Harrison

Admission is $5 with the finals scheduled to start sometime between 5 p m and 6 p m

The Patriots, who had won seven tournaments, were riding high with a 14-0 dual-meet record until last weekend when they went 1-3 in the CC Team Tournament, losing to the host Shamrocks (38-27), along with state-ranked Anchor Bay (41-27) and Temperance Bedford (44-13)

Franklin also escaped just 10 days earlier with a 32-20 dual-meet win over Canton

The Patriots were without three starters at CC, but should be back at full strength for Saturday

"I told our guys we have a big target on our backs," Franklin coach Dave Chiola said "But we should be ready this week

"Between the first and sixth-place teams I figure the difference is only 50 points CC is the favorite, then there's us and Canton And with teams like (Westland) John Glenn, Salem, (Livonia) Stevenson and Plymouth, you have to take those schools into account as well"

Chiola predicts a lot of individual parity at this year's tournament

"You could have champs from n ne different teams, it's pretty spread out, he said "Just about every team should have a finalist It will be competitive It's all about matchups'

Canton coach Casey Randolph said the meet is highly anticipated by his wrestlers

'Observerland is a good showcase for the kids and they get excited for it," said Randolph, whose team is 21-4 heading into tonight's match against Northville "We have a couple kids banged up, so we might be a little short-handed It all depends how they do this week

"This year it should come down to CC and Franklin, and we should be in the mix, too Franklin is probably the favorite because they won it last year, and CC's tough, too"

Like most teams that suffer injuries to key players, Plymouth's volleyball team is playing the hand it's been dealt

The past few days, that hand has been filled with several aces

On Saturday, the Wildcats finished second in the Madonna Invitational at Plymouth High School, despite playing without senior front row standouts Jeanine Moise and Jackie Dorre Plymouth went 4-0 in pool play, downing Flat Rock 25-11 and 25 12, Holly 25-16 and 25-20, Goodrich, 25-18 and 25-20, and Riverview, 25-23 and 25-19

The Wildcats then ousted Macomb Dakota, 25-22, 23-25 and 15-7, in the semifinals before falling to Dearborn Divine Child, 25-21, 21-25 and 16-18, in a drama-filled final match

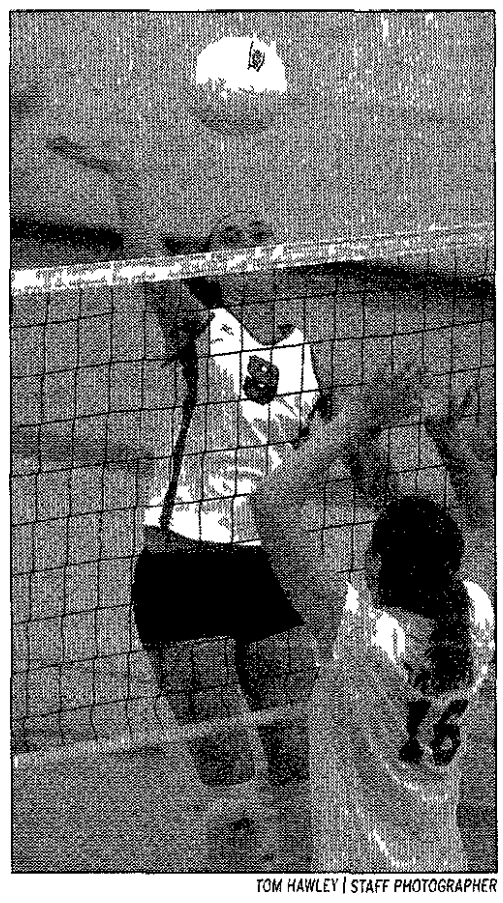
"It was an extremely emotional loss in the finals because the girls had played so well all day," said Plymouth coach Kelly McCausland 'We beat ourselves against Divine Child We couldn't get our offense going Our passes were on right there, but we couldn t get any kills to fall"

Several Wildcats turned in stellar performances on Saturday Janet Hanchett (32 kills), Brittany Hengesh (26 kills and 11 solo blocks), Kim Klonowski (33 kills), Lindsay Vogelsberg (47 digs), Brandi Swyhart (50 digs), Lauren Stemberger (27 digs) and Sarah Haskins (107 set assists)

Plymouth's strong play carried over to Monday's four-game victory over Westland John Glenn 25-16, 16-25, 25-18 and 25-9 The win improved the Wildcats record to 24-5 overall and 2-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association

"Even though we won the first game, I thought we started slowly,' said McCausland 'We played kind of timid through the first two games All six girls that were on the floor at any given time played like they didn't want to make mistakes But they came back in the third and fourth games and stepped up their intensity We went ahead 19-3 in the fourth game to put it away

'Kim Klonowski had an outstanding serving night. She has a banana serve that they had a hard time handling She had four aces in a row at one point in the fourth game



TOM HAWLEY | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Canton's Marie Martin (left) played an instrumental role in the Chiefs four-game victory over Walled Lake Central Monday night

Excelling in the win over the Rockets were Haskins (24 assists), Hanchett (11 kills and 11 digs), Klonowski (nine kills and seven aces), Swyhart (14 digs) and Vogelsberg (10 digs)

CANTON 3, W.L. CENTRAL 1: On Monday, the Chiefs earned a hard-fought, four-game victory over the Vikings thanks to strong play from senior Lisa Western, sophomore Marie Martin and freshman Gina Waite Canton won 25-11, 12-25, 25-19 and 29-27 to improve its WLAA record to 1-2

"The girls played great,' said Canton coach Kristi Drinkhahn "Their morale was high, they were upbeat and they played hard The last game was especially impressive because we were down 10 points at one point It was a great comeback

"Lisa Western provided us with strong senior leadership, Marie Martin had a great night blocking and our freshman, Gina Waite, was outstanding in the backcourt'

Drinkhahn also praised the serving of Emily Hoernschemeyer and Heidi Herendeen

PCA 3, ROEPER 0 Playing without one of their leaders, Julie Bahbah, who was out with a sprained ankle, the Eagles swept the Roughriders Tuesday night behind the strong play of Kelsie Tietjen (nine kills, 12 digs, four blocks and eight service points), Bre Ruark (20 digs, eight service points and six assists) and Brooke Harris (18 digs, four kills and 10 assists)

The Eagles soared, 25-17, 25-15 and 25-22 in a match played on their home court.

It was a little rough without Julie in there, said PCA coach Missy Henry Our line up was off a little and we scrambled, but the girls held it together enough to win'

The Eagles will take on Ypsilanti Calvary Christian Friday night in a homecoming match that will be played at Concordia College

'We're a lot more experienced and more mature than we were last year," said Salem senior outside hitter Lauren Price, who contributed 16 kills, six digs and three aces to Monday's victory 'We re put together differently, too, which is a big change

Price gave Suder a large dose of credit for the Rocks turn around

She's hard on us when she needs to be, but she's there for us when we need to talk to her, too, said Price

Like Price, Salem junior outside hitter Teresa Coppiellie had an outstanding night, recording 19 digs and 18 kills Freshman setter Jansan Falcuson sparkled with 34 assists and two aces as did seniors Shannon Rusin (five blocks) and Courtney Seiler, who served the Rocks to a 9-0 advantage in game three

'Courtney did a great job tonight, especially with her serving Suder said "She really hit her spots in the third game

Salem's libero Nikki Mersch registered several spectacular digs that kept points alive for the winners Mersch's counterpart, Churchill libero Anna-Marie Gatt, executed a number of highlight reel-caliber digs as well

One particular point Monday night epitomized the Rocks' formula for success this season With Salem leading 12-3 in the third game, Coppiellie hit the floor to make a stunning point-saving dig The ball popped over to Falcuson, who lofted a perfect set to Price, who drove the ball hard into the floor on the Churchill side of the net

Lauren Krupsky played well for the Chargers notching 13 kills Other standouts for Churchill included sophomore Kyndra Abron (nine kills), Gatt (two aces and four digs) and Stacy Urbats (27 assists)

The way the opening game started, the match had five-gamer written all over it Neither team managed to build a lead larger than two points until a Price kill put the Rocks up, 15-12 Salem then went on a 10 5 run to close out the game thanks to a combined seven floor-jarring hits from Coppiellie and Price

After Salem jumped out to a 7 2 lead in game two the Chargers narrowed the gap to 20-18 behind a five-point serving run by Gatt However, the hosts netted five of the next six points — three coming on Price serves — to pull ahead 2-0 in games

The likelihood of a sweep deepened when Seiler's serving led Salem to a 9-0 lead at the onset of the third game Churchill was unable to get to within five points the rest of the way

'A win like this will definitely give us confidence for the rest of the season," Price concluded

Franklin, ironically, owns a dual meet win over state ranked Clarkston, while Clarkston has a dual-meet victory over CC John Glenn, meanwhile, posted a dual-meet win over CC

"We always shoot to win everything, but with CC, Franklin and Canton there, we'd just like to be in the top four and maybe move up to third,' said Glenn coach Bill Polk 'Our team is a little unpredictable because we don't have the depth we've had in the past When everybody is in the lineup, we ll do well We haven't had a full lineup so far this year, but this weekend we'll be as close to a full lineup as we've had

I m excited to see how we stack up this weekend and I'm excited to see how we do"

Last year, Franklin scored 209 points to finish ahead of pre-tourney favorite Churchill (186 5) CC placed third (177) followed by Canton (172) and Salem (152)

Defending champions at this year's tourney include Franklin's Mike Warren (119) and CC's Sean Dong (135)

Redford Union coach Russ Swinson also believes his team, which is 3-1 in the Mega White, can be a factor

'Team-wise, hopefully we can place in the top five," he said "That's my goal There's some real good competition Detroit Catholic Central's coming, even though they're not actually in Observerland

'But it makes the tournament a lot better when you can add a strong team like that Livonia Franklin will do very well '

Canton grapplers 3-1 at Hartland

Canton's wrestling team recorded three impressive wins and one frustrating loss at Saturday's 16-team, talent-rich Hartland Bracket Dual Meet Tournament

The Chiefs upended Fraser, 69-11, Grand Rapids Northview, 51 18, and Milford, 39-18 Their only loss was a 41-26 setback to state-ranked Montrose

We were seeded kind of low (fifth) which fired us up before the tournament, said Canton coach Casey Randolph, whose team improved to 21-4 'Against Montrose, we lost a couple of matches I thought we should have won, otherwise it would have been real close

The highlight of the day for the Chiefs was junior Corey Phillips' 6-4 overtime victory at 135 pounds over Fraser's Kevin Julien, who is a two-time All-State performer Phillips effort — he went 4-0 on the day — earned him the meet's 'Most Valuable Wrestler' award in the lower weight classes

That was a great win by Corey against an outstanding wrestler," Randolph said

Canton wrestlers who joined Phillips in the unbeaten category were heavyweight Donnie Laramie, 119-pound Sam Santilli and 171-pound Kiel Price

'Sam and Kiel had been struggling a little bit, so for them to go unbeaten was huge,' said Randolph 'They're both really coming on '

The Chiefs lop-sided triumph over Grand Rapids Northview was significant considering the Wildcats are one of the top-ranked teams in Division 2

somewhat of a replay officiating pioneer

And he readily admits that he was a nervous pioneer, at least in the very beginning

The first game I worked — Western Illinois at Toledo — I was quite nervous because I didn't have any chance to practice," he said 'When I was a regular official, I'd get to work six, seven, eight or nine college scrimmages or practices before our first game, which allowed me to get back in the groove

'My opener happened to be on Sept 1 — the first MAC game of the year, so there were a few other people in the booth with me who wanted to see how it was going to work It actually went very well There were two stoppages and both calls were confirmed"

ROCK-SOLID CREDENTIALS

Workman's officiating resume is long and distinguished He started whistle-blowing for Little League and high school games in the mid-60s Thanks to hard work and a love for the profession, he worked his way up to the Division 1 collegiate level by 1984

'I'd work three Little League games on Saturday and three on Sunday when I first started out,' said Workman, who, obviously, lived up to his name I would advise anyone who is starting out to do as many games as they can and attend as many officials' meetings as they can You can learn so much from talking to other officials because you can share situations you've both faced and talk about them

A back judge, Workman's work was so respected that he was assigned to work in four college bowl games during his on-field career the 1986 Cherry Bowl, the 1997 Independence Bowl, the 2000 Liberty Bowl and the 2003 Outback Bowl, which turned out to be his final on field game

That was a very emotional game for me because I knew it would be my last pre-game preparation, the last time I'd be putting on the uniform and the last time I'd be working with the rest of my crew, Workman said I announced that it was going to be my last year before the season started because even though I was still doing a good job, I had been the oldest official in the Mid-American Conference for a number of years (he was 65) and I didn't want to go so long where it got to the point where they asked me to step down

If you make it into your 60's in this job you consider yourself lucky

BACK IN ACTION

Workman served as a technical adviser for Mid American Conference officials during the two years after he stepped off the field When he was asked before last season to work as a replay official he didn't hesitate to accept the position

I always wanted to stay connected to college football so this was the best possible thing that could have happened, Workman said "The best thing about it is I'm still connected with the officials on the field, guys I've built a strong camaraderie with over the years

Workman made a smooth transition into the booth and was rewarded by getting assigned to work in the replay booth for the 2005 Poinsettia Bowl

EDUCATION ICON

Workman has been equally successful away from the gridiron He was a longtime elementary and middle school teacher and principal in the Plymouth/Canton School District In December, he received the ultimate reward for an educator when it was announced that Canton's newest elementary school would bear his name

Workman said serving in the education field and working between the sidelines went hand in hand

When you stop and think about there are a lot of similarities between the two professions, he said With both positions I was a person of authority whether I was on the field or in the school I had to deal with hostile coaches and hostile parents or disgruntled staff members

In the end though, both jobs are rewarding and I've loved them both

It doesn't take an instant replay to confirm that feeling

Late goal ties up Penguins, 1-1

With the final seconds winding down and a face-off in their own end, things looked bleak for Livonia Ladywood s hockey team in Tuesday s matchup with undefeated Plymouth Canton Salem at the Arctic Edge

Heather Sartorious won the face off and Laura Szwed was off on a breakaway, scoring the game-tying goal with only 14 seconds left to give the Blazers a 1 1 tie against the host Penguins

Lauren Doroghazi also drew an assist on the game tying goal, which was short handed

Ladywood had lost two previous meetings against P-C-S, 2 1 and 6-0

Laura (Szwed) split the defense and took it end-to-end, said Ladywood coach Bruce Peck whose team is 8 5 2 overall 'We're thrilled (to tie), especially with one of our top defenseman (Danielle Foley) out of the lineup (attending a Detroit Symphony Orchestra rehearsal)

Through two periods it was a goaltending battle between the Penguins Kristie Kowalski and Ladywood s Michelle Wyniemko

It wa a really tight defensive game, each team had equal opportunities, Peck said Both goalies kept their teams in the game

But just one minute into the third period, Katie Zimmerman broke the scoreless deadlock for Plymouth-Canton-Salem with a goal from Ashley LaBlanc on a four-on-four

The Penguins, leading the Michigan Metro Girls High School Hockey League at 9-0, are now 10-0-1 overall

Country Day s Blake Fielder opened the scoring at 6 04 of the first period on assists from Tyler Cotter and Erik Rebbe Less than a minute later, Cheesman knotted the game at 1-1 off an assist from Roman Kahler

The Yellowjackets regained a 2-1 advantage one minute into the second period when Sam Lites scored thanks to assists from Rebbe and Josh Piche

The Rocks re tied it at 2 2 with 12 16 left in the second period when Steve Heilser scored from Hoelscher and David Carey

Chris Haboian s goal with 12 31 left in the game gave Country Day a brief 3 2 advantage before Heilser scored from Hoelscher and Carey

Salem cagers slay Knights

Don't look now, but Salem s basketball team is making waves in the Western Lakes Activities Association

The Rocks evened their WLAA record at 2-2 Tuesday night — and remained in the thick of the WLAA title chase — with an impressive 50-47 victory at Walled Lake Northern With the win, Salem improved its overall mark to 2-8 heading into Friday night's home contest against Westland John Glenn Northern dropped to 4-5 and 1 3, respectively

The thing that impressed me the most was the way we finished strong," said Salem coach Bob Brodie The kids played four good quarters, which is something we haven't done very often lately The band was playing, the heat was on and Northern pressed for all 32 minutes, but our kids handled it all well'

Sophomore Grant Stone paced the victory with 16 points and nine rebounds Billy Leddy chipped in with 10 points and Brian Baumgart contributed a game-high 10 rebounds

Alex Ropek led the Knights with 21 points

I thought Our four guards did a great job against their pressure defense, Brodie said "Jierah Dixon, Kevin Burleigh, Mike Marek and Joe Halewicz didn't score much, but they played well defensively and took care of the ball

Following an even first quarter that ended 11-11, the Rocks surged to a 29-19 halftime advantage Northern sliced its deficit to 36-32 after three quarters, but Salem repelled the comeback, building an eight-point lead at one point during the fourth quarter

Stone and J P Truesdell buried clutch free throws down the stretch for the winners and Baumgart yanked down a key rebound in the waning seconds, Brodie said

Waidmann's big night paces Chiefs

Junior center Ryan Waidmann poured in 15 points and pulled down six rebounds to lead Canton to a 51-35 victory over Livonia Churchill Tuesday night in a Western Lakes Activities Association cross over game played in Cantons Phase III gymnasium

The victory lifted the Chiefs to 7-3 overall and 3 1 in the WLAA Churchill slipped to 0 10 and 0-4 respectively

Junior forward Steve Paye (13 points) and Andre Bridges (five points, five assists and four steals) also excelled for the winners Joel Hall led the Chargers with 14 points

Churchill led 9-6 after one quarter before Canton stormed back to build a 20-14 halftime lead The hosts extended their advantage to 34-22 after three quarters before netting 17 fourth-quarter points to notch their second-straight WLAA victory

Churchill was trailing by only one, 24-23, late in the third quarter when Canton went on a 17 point spree The Chargers committed six straight turnovers during the surge

"Up until that point we played exactly the way we wanted to play, Churchill coach Jim Solak said But we ve had difficulty handling the ball all year'

The Chargers hit 13 of 26 shots from the floor but committed a total of 26 turnovers

Canton connected on 5 of 9 free throws, Churchill was 8 of 9 from the line

BELLEVILLE 66, D H ROBICHAUD 40 Three players scored in double figures and three others weren t far behind as the host Tigers turned in one of their most complete performances of the season Tuesday night against the Bulldogs in a Mega Conference cross over showdown Leon Freeman paced the Tigers balanced attack with 13 points Also making key offensive contributions for the winners were Mike Donaldson (12) Carlos Clark (11), Darius Hardrick (seven), Mike Gibson (seven) and Caral Dial (six)

Aaron Crump led Robichaud with 15 points while Denzel Russell twined 12 and Tim Hunt added 11

The victory boosted Bellevilles record to 7-3 overall Robichaud dropped to 6 3

Belleville was red hot early on sprinting to a 20 8 first-quarter advantage and 30 16 halftime lead

We jumped out to an early 13-2 lead, got the momentum going and never really let up said Belleville coach Mike Krogel 'We had a lot of kids contribute tonight — both starters and reserves — which was nice to see Mike Donaldson and Carlos Clark hit some key shots and we scored a lot of points off of defen sive steals

They were doubling up on Leon tonight and we struggled getting him the ball, but some other kids stepped up and had nice games

Neither team shot particularly well from the line Belleville canned 6 of 12 free throws while the Bulldogs went 2-of-6 from the stripe

The Tigers will take on Mega Red rival Ypsilanti Friday night in show down that was moved to Eastern Michigan University Convocation Center The opening tip is set for 7 p m

TAYLOR BAPTIST PARK 51, CANTON AGAPE 49 In a battle for first place in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference's Red Division, the Wildcats received a pair of late-game steals from reigning league most valuable player Halston Hodges to salt away the win

The victory improved Baptist Park to 6 3 overall and 4 0 in the conference while Agape fell to 7-2 and 3-1, respectively

With 40 seconds left and the game tied at 49-49, Hodges stepped in front of a Wolverine pass and proceeded to turn the theft into a layup at the other end Twenty-three seconds later, he sealed the Wolves' fate when he stole another pass

'We shot poorly in the first half, even though we were getting good shots, said Agape coach Keith Anleitner 'We were getting 15-foot ers, but they were going in and out

Baptist Park played good defense tonight They re one of the few teams in our league that plays man to man and they do a good job with it

Derek Leathers played well despite the loss, tallying 15 points and 10 rebounds Terrell Pierce (13 points and nine rebounds) and Jack Anleitner (10 points) also turned in stellar efforts for the Wolverines

Caleb Thompson led Baptist Park with 14 points while Hodges fin ished with 12

The Wildcats led 10 6 after one quarter and 20-17 at the intermis sion

The game was tied at 34 34 with eight minutes left

Agape hit 10 of 16 free throws while Baptist Park drained 13-of-16 from the charity stripe

After Jack Anleitner fouled out with two minutes left Pierce and fellow sophomore Tyler Majeski stepped up and contributed clutch three point plays to keep Agape in the game However, Hodges late-game defensive gems proved to be too much to overcome

The kids fought hard tonight,' Anleitner said

STEVENSON 51, PLYMOUTH 39. Despite getting off to a slow start, Livonia Stevenson (6-4, 3-1) regrouped to earn a Western Lakes victory Tuesday over the visiting Wildcats (4-6 2-2)

Tony Lenardon paced the Spartans with a game-high 18 points, while Luke Knochel added 15

Stevenson trailed 13-9 after one quarter, but coach Bill Dyer decided to go with a smaller lineup and got a spark both offensively and defensively off the bench from Kyle Chitwood, who finished with eight points

"Kyle gave us a lift defensive, he got a lot of steals and picked us up that second quarter,' said Dyer, whose team outscored Plymouth 15-8 to take a 24-21 halftime lead

Even though we shot poorly at the free throw line (8-of-20), the effort was outstanding"

Senior forward Josh LeDuc and senior guard D J Coleman scored 12 and 11 points, respectively, for Plymouth, which was 9-of-19 from the foul line

'When we pounded the ball inside or made the extra pass, we did OK offensively, Plymouth coach Tom Van Wagoner said But We didn't do it enough Stevenson has a couple of nice guards and they shoot well We had the height advantage, but we didn t take advantage of it

Former prep tennis standout a key compone

BY JIM TOTH

Tennis has always played a big part in Marija Neubauer s life, and much to her pleasure today there is no sign of it diminishing anytime soon

The former Rochester Adams tennis standout who went on to enjoy a stellar collegiate career with the University of Wisconsin recently was rewarded for her hard work and dedication in the athletic field by being named the school s Associate Athletics Director for Development

Neubauer, who previously served as Assistant Athletics Director for Development will now assume duties overseeing the men s and women's tennis teams, spirit squad and also serve as liaison with the University of Wisconsin Alumni Association

It s always been a little pipe dream of mine to work in college athletics, said Neubauer, a 1990 Adams grad, who starred for three seasons with the Highlanders tennis teams "I ve always been committed and dedicated when it comes to something I really want, and working with athletes gives me a special feeling

I had been leading the development program for a number of years here at Wisconsin, but now I ll be reporting directly to Barry (Alvarez, UW Director of Athletics) I'm excited about my new duties

"We re thrilled to elevate Marija to a key management position in the department," said Alvarez, himself in the midst of taking on new responsibilities after stepping down from the position he held since 1990 of head football coach at the university She has done an outstanding job in growing our annual fund-raising and will be a tremendous asset to us as Associate Athletic Director for Development"

Neubauer has made the Madison campus her home much of the time since earning a tennis scholarship upon graduation from Adams Following a sterling four year career that saw the ever aggressive and confident Neubauer honored with four consecutive All-Big 10 selections she remained tied to the university with positions in the Big 10 Conference and the UW Foundation prior to joining the UW Athletic Department in 2000 Those duties went a long way in preparing her for many of the duties she holds today

'Back then I didn't know what fund-raising was all about," Neubauer said "I gave myself two years and was set to move onto

And he readily admits that he was a nervous pioneer, at least in the very beginning

The first game I worked — Western Illinois at Toledo — I was quite nervous because I didn't have any chance to practice, he said 'When I was a regular official, I'd get to work six, seven, eight or nine college scrimmages or practices before our first game which allowed me to get back in the groove

'My opener happened to be on Sept 1 — the first MAC game of the year, so there were a few other people in the booth with me who wanted to see how it was going to work It actually went very well There were two stoppages and both calls were confirmed'

ROCK-SOLID CREDENTIALS

Workman's officiating resume is long and distinguished He started whistle blowing for Little League and high school games in the mid 60s Thanks to hard work and a love for the profession, he worked his way up to the Division 1 collegiate level by 1984

I'd work three Little League games on Saturday and three on Sunday when I first started out, said Workman, who, obviously, lived up to his name I would advise anyone who is starting out to do as many games as they can and attend as many officials meetings as they can You can learn so much from talking to other officials because you can share situations you've both faced and talk about them'

A back judge, Workman's work was so respected that he was assigned to work in four college bowl games during his on-field career the 1986 Cherry Bowl, the 1997 Independence Bowl, the 2000 Liberty Bowl and the 2003 Outback Bowl, which turned out to be his final on-field game

"That was a very emotional game for me because I knew it would be my last pre-game preparation, the last time I'd be putting on the uniform and the last time I'd be working with the rest of my crew,' Workman said "I announced that it was going to be my last year before the season started because, even though I was still doing a good job I had been the oldest official in the Mid American Conference for a number of years (he was 65) and I didn't want to go so long where it got to the point where they asked me to step down

Workman served as a technical adviser for Mid-American Conference officials during the two years after he stepped off the field When he was asked before last season to work as a replay official he didn't hesitate to accept the position

I always wanted to stay connected to college football so this was the best possible thing that could have happened Workman said The best thing about it is I'm still connected with the officials on the field, guys I've built a strong camaraderie with over the years"

Workman made a smooth transition into the booth and was rewarded by getting assigned to work in the replay booth for the 2005 Poinsettia Bowl

Workman has been equally successful away from the gridiron He was a longtime elementary and middle school teacher and principal in the Plymouth/Canton School District In December, he received the ultimate reward for an educator when it was announced that Canton's newest elementary school would bear his name

Workman said serving in the education field and working between the sidelines went hand in hand

When you stop and think about, there are a lot of similarities between the two professions he said With both positions I was a person of authority whether I was on the field or in the school I had to deal with hostile coaches and hostile parents or disgruntled staff members

In the end though, both jobs are rewarding and I've loved them both

It doesn't take an instant replay to confirm that feeling

With the final seconds winding down and a face off in their own end, things looked bleak for Livonia Ladywood s hockey team in Tuesday s matchup with unde feated Plymouth Canton-Salem at the Arctic Edge

Heather Sartorious won the face off and Laura Szwed was off on a bi eakaway, scoring the game-tying goal with only 14 seconds left to give the Blazers a 1 1 tie against the host Penguins

Laura (Szwed) split the defense and took it end to end, said Ladywood coach Bruce Peck, whose team is 8-5-2 overall "We re thrilled (to tie) especially with one of our top defenseman (Danielle Foley) out of the lineup (attending a Detroit Symphony Orchestra rehearsal)

Through two periods it was a goaltending battle between the Penguins Kristie Kowalski and Ladywood s Michelle Wyniemko

It wa a really tight defen sive game, each team had equal opportunities,' Peck said Both goalies kept their teams in the game

But just one minute into the third period, Katie Zimmerman broke the scoreless deadlock for Plymouth-Canton-Salem with a goal from Ashley LaBlanc on a four-on-four

The Penguins, leading the Michigan Metro Girls High School Hockey League at 9-0, are now 10 0 1 overall

Hoelscher's goal ices Salem win

Defenseman John Hoelscher s goal with 2 34 left gave Salem a dramatic 4 3 vic tory over Detroit Country Day Saturday night at the Oak Park Ice Arena Hoelscher s game winning goal was assisted by Joel Cheesman and Kris Brant

Country Day's Blake Fielder opened the scoring at 6 04 of the first period on assists from Tyler Cotter and Erik Rebbe Less than a minute later, Cheesman knotted the game at 1-1 off an assist from Roman Kahler

The Yellowjackets regained a 2-1 advantage one minute into the second period when Sam Lites scored thanks to assists from Rebbe and Josh Piche

The Rocks re-tied it at 2 2 with 12 16 left in the second period when Steve Heilser scored from Hoelscher and David Carey

Chris Haboians goal with 12 31 left in the game gave Country Day a brief 3-2 advan tage before Heilser scored from Hoelscher and Carey

PLYMOUTH 6, A P CABRINI 0

ON Saturday, the Wildcats ran their unbeaten streak to five games (4 0 1) with a convinc ing white washing of Cabrini Plymouth improved to 8 4 3 overall thanks to solid goal tending from Justin Desilets (13 saves) and a pair of goals from Nick Cote

"This was one of our best games of the season so far, said Plymouth coach Chuck Dubois We out-shot them 45 13, so the kids did a heck of a job It could have been 10-0 but we couldn t put the puck in the net"

Also scoring goals for Plymouth were Mark Olivier, Billy Gauthier and Nick Rosochacki

Notching assists were Gauthier (two), Michalek (two), Jason O Guinn (two), Ryan Stamm, Joe Perkovich and Kyle Goll

PLYMOUTH 3, MASON 2 On Friday, Christian Blick record ed 25 saves and Justin Michalek netted the game-winning goal in the third period to lead the Wildcats

nt in continued success of Badgers athletics

something else, but I began to learn quite a bit about communications and the Big 10 Conference Eight years later I'm still here"

Her decision back in 1990 to attend Wisconsin she said was cemented with her initial visit to the campus

It was a pretty good first impression,' Neubauer recalled 'There was this appeal that it was similar to Michigan weather and the women s tennis program was a top-20 program that was still growing

"I also looked closely at Indiana and Northwestern for the academics and athletics, but I knew Wisconsin was the place for me"

Neubauer contributed right from the beginning as she competed continuously among the top three singles matches and at No 1 doubles for the Badgers

I was a pretty good junior player but I ended up being a better college player," Neubauer said It was a great experience

SETTING THE STAGE

Neubauer emerged onto the varsity scene at Adams in the fall of 1987 as a promising sophomore whose hard work and dedication will continue to pay off,' Highlanders head coach Al Must expressed at the time

She certainly didn't disappoint as her outstanding 22-1 individual record was surpassed only by the team achievement of winning the Class A state girls tennis championship

Our team was so loaded," Neubauer said We had so many great players – Amy Frazier Shannon Condon Erika Johnson If I remember correctly, we were the first state championship team at Adams We had a lot of fun and were all really good friends It still feels like yesterday

Following that season, Neubauer compiled two more extraordinary campaigns to finish with a 69-3 mark overall

I was so fortunate growing up in Rochester where the education system is so valued and so many opportunities are given, said Neubauer who was inducted into the Rochester Adams Hall of Fame last September It s so important for high schools to provide those extra curriculars like sports and music because those lessons learned become so valuable later in life

Tennis no longer is the activity of choice for Neubauer Golf instead has taken top priority and continues to spew her competitive juices

I ve become a golf addict the last couple of years,' Neubauer said My competitive juices are now in golf, and hopefully, I ll become good enough to one day play on the senior LPGA

Spitfires stymie Whalers, 2-1

Following this past weekend s action, there is a race for first place brewing in the Ontario Hockey League's West Division

Although it still appears that first-place Plymouth and second place Saginaw will decide the division when they meet six times over the final 23 games, the Windsor Spitfires are just six points back

The much-improved Spitfires served notice when they beat the Whalers, 2-1, Saturday night in a playoff-style game before 3,405 at the Compuware Sports Arena

Windsor goaltender Anthony Guadagnolo was the difference, stopping 39-of-40 Plymouth shots Bryan Bickell and Brad Snetsinger scored second-period goals to give Guadagnolo all the help he needed

Guadagnolo came into the game in a zone He shut out Kitchener, 1-0, on Jan 19 at Windsor Arena

Plymouth goaltender Justin Peters was nearly as good as Guadagnolo, stopping 38-of-40 shots as the game's second star Peters could not be faulted on the Windsor goals

Bickell s goal came when Cal O Reilly beat Plymouth defenseman Zack Shepley to the puck behind the Whaler net and found Bickell cruising in front Snetsinger's game-winner (at 13 30 of the period) came after Peters made a brilliant stop on Peter Aston But the play continued and Snetsinger's shot in tight on the left wing caromed off Plymouth defenseman Ryan McGinnis' glove, rang off the inside of both goal posts and stayed in the net

Trailing 2-0 after 40 minutes, Plymouth forced the action throughout the third period, outshooting Windsor, 20-12, in the period and getting a goal from Joe McCann at 5 50 McCann's goal — his first for Plymouth and ninth of the season after being acquired from Saginaw — ended Guadagnolo's personal shutout streak at 108 minutes, 58 seconds

"It was 2-0 and Peters made some big saves,' Guadagnolo said "If we could have made it 3-0, they may have given up, but they didn't quit"

Plymouth pulled Peters with 55 2 seconds left for the extra attacker They had a 6-on-4 advantage when Windsor defenseman Mitch Maunu was sent off for cross-checking with 46 seconds left, but the Whalers could only manage one more shot — Ryan McGinnis from the left point — that was blocked by Aston

While the Whalers lost, Saginaw — with games in hand on Plymouth — had two chances to pick up ground on the Whalers But the Spirit lost, 6-1, in Kitchener and then suffered a heart-breaking 5-4 loss in Toronto against the Majors

Saginaw led, 4-2, after two periods in Toronto, but couldn't hold onto the lead

Scott Lehman cut the Saginaw lead to 4-3 with a goal at 7 41 Then Toronto goaltender Wayne Savage caught Saginaw on a poor line change when he passed the puck to Justin Donati at the Spirit blue line Donati went in all alone on a breakaway and tied the game at 9 04 of the period

Ryan Wilson took a shot from the point that was stopped by Saginaw goaltender Ryan Daniels

But the puck caromed to Vitarelli at the side of the net Vitarelli — who makes his living in tight around the opposition's goal — scored the 30th of the season to give Toronto the victory

Cornerstone's Jonka lights up MU

BY TIM SMITH

Chuck Henry thought his team had the opponent right where it wanted it – in the zone

Even though the cold-shooting Madonna University men's basketball team trailed Cornerstone 46-34 at halftime of Saturday's Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference game, Henry owed the deficit more to the fact MU players couldn't find a swimming pool with their shots (11 of 32 in the first half, 34 percent)

But this time, the host Crusaders were unable to take advantage of the Golden Eagles' zone coverage and could not stop 6-foot-9 junior center John Jonker (35 points, 13 rebounds) as Cornerstone went on to a 90-74 triumph

The defeat dropped Madonna's record to 7-13 overall and 2-4 in the WHAC

"This (Cornerstone) is one of the good teams in the conference and we wanted to come out and play one of our best games," said Henry following a postgame chat with his team 'We just didn t shoot the ball

"They (Golden Eagles) changed their defense and went zone and we really love that because we've been a good team against the zone But I was really surprised that we came up dry against the zone"

Although Jonker showed his low-post might throughout the contest, the key to the game was MU s seven-minute cold snap during the first half

A layup by Madonna junior guard Adam Kerfoot (13 points) cut the Golden Eagles' lead to 33-29 with about 7 30 left in the first half But the Crusaders then missed 10 field-goal attempts in a row, including some open looks and layups

Madonna would not score again until 6-5 junior forward Derrick Mudri (17 points, eight rebounds) nailed a triple from the left corner with just 25 seconds remaining, cutting Cornerstone's margin to 45-32

I thought we had some real good looks and could not make it go down Henry said Sometimes in basketball that happens

Even so, the coach tried to rally his players during the intermission that they were still in the game, provided they could shoot better in the zone coverage

"At halftime, we thought we were going to win the game," Henry said "We thought we could cut it down to six or seven points going into the last 10 minutes'

The Crusaders – hitting 12-of-28 (43 percent) from the floor in the second half – made their coach appear somewhat prophetic, trimming the lead to 66-59 with about nine minutes remaining

MU sophomore guard Charlie Henry (Canton/Agape Christian) drained successive treys from the same spot on the floor – beyond the top of the arc.

Following up with a triple from the left corner was sophomore forward Jordan Napier (Wayne/Agape Christian) Henry and Napier scored nine and five points, respectively

But that seemed to wake up Jonker and outstanding 6-2 senior guard and Detroit native Josh Liggins (17 points, six rebounds)

Cornerstone, perched atop the WHAC with a 5-1 record (the team is 14-8 overall), demonstrated why with a 13-3 run to make it 79-62

Jonker dropped in a putback and Liggins went strong to the hole for successive buckets Then, a steal and layup by junior guard Kevin Wurn (eight points) seemed to be the exclamation point for the Golden Eagles

"Jonker gives them an inside presence, and at 6-9 he's four inches taller than the guy guarding him," said Henry, whose biggest player (6-10, 300 senior center Antoine Stewart) is red-shirted for the rest of the season "And Liggins, he's one of their leaders and one of their best players What he did today was nothing out of the ordinary"

Other MU players to make good contributions in a losing effort were sophomore forward and Canton alum D J Bridges (15 points, seven rebounds) and 6-6 junior forward Doug Creighton (eight points, five rebounds)

Also in double figures for Cornerstone was freshman forward Jon Snikkers (10)

Businesses boost work of Habitat for Humanity

BY JULIE BROWN

Businesses play a key role in the work of Habitat for Humanity

We've always had gift in kind donations and we're always seeking them, said Barbara Fichtenberg of Canton, church relations co-chair for Habitat for Humanity of Western Wayne County We're definitely looking for donations"

The Plymouth-based affiliate is among many that build homes for low-income families who in turn pay mortgages to fund new homes for others A home was built in Canton, off Ford Road near Sheldon, last year The Western Wayne affiliate can be reached at (734) 459-7744, with Alice Dent as executive director The Web site is habitatwwc org

"They're very important," Dent said of the business supporters Keeping costs down means more homes can be built

"We've still been tremendously blessed," Dent said, noting the economy has made donating more difficult They're giving So we're grateful for that"

There's also the Pontiac-based Habitat for Humanity of Oakland County, with Steve Campbell as executive director It can be reached at (248) 338-1843 or on the Web at www habitatoakland org

BUILDING HOPE

The Western Wayne affiliate dedicated a home in Inkster Dec 4 "The Belleville house is under construction right now,' Fichtenberg said A Lincoln Park home was dedicated last June, a Jimmy Carter Work Project along with the Canton home

There's a new Inkster home now In Western Wayne, the affiliate uses a lot of the same vendors, Fichtenberg said, getting a break on the price

A look through Habitat files reveals some of those generous folks Verde-Terre has done excavation and foundation work free of charge for the Belleville home

Lowe's is a corporate sponsor and has provided excellent customer service, said Dent That's important as the organization can face time constraints with families moving in

Basic Electric is one that we've worked with too," with a discount, Fichtenberg said, adding that union locals have donated labor Best Block has donated brick for three homes

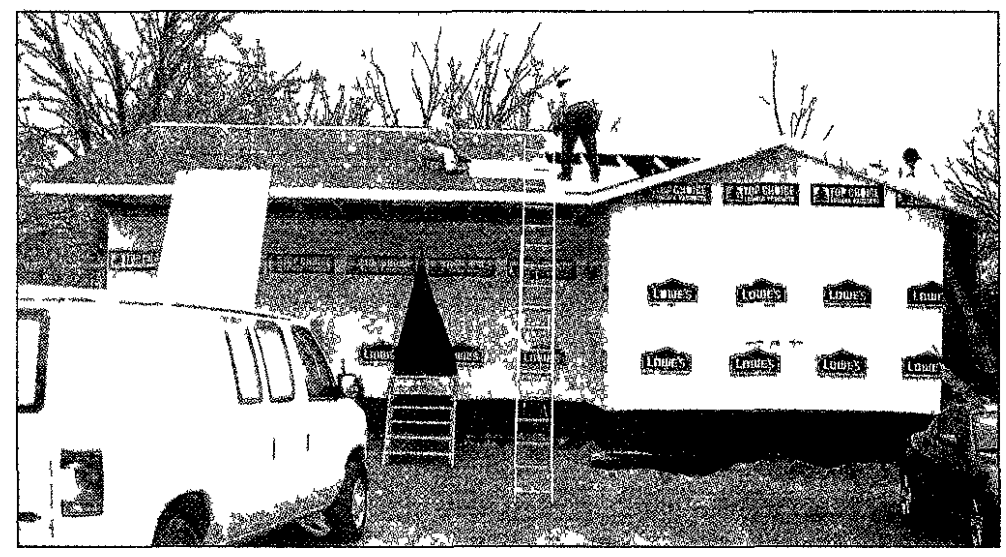
Whirlpool's a major donor with appliances for the newly built homes The Western Wayne affiliate has a gifts in kind committee which contacts businesses to seek discounts and donations Members went to the Canton Home Improvement Expo to seek help

"All of the appliances have been donated by Whirlpool, said Dent, adding that Whirlpool is an international corporate sponsor Thrivent Financial, a Lutheran organization, has made a significant contribution to Habitat as well in Western Wayne and Oakland The Downriver Association of Realtors helped with homes in Lincoln Park and Taylor

Churches are stretched financially due to hurricane and tsunami relief, Fichtenberg said, so the business support is a boon The more we get donated the better

The Oakland affiliate concentrates in Pontiac, and staff and volunteers there also appreciate the discounts and donations they've received It built 13 homes in 2005 in Pontiac said Campbell and will build about that this year

Oakland had two families move in just before Christmas and has one home under construction this winter he said Ground will be broken on seven more homes in the spring

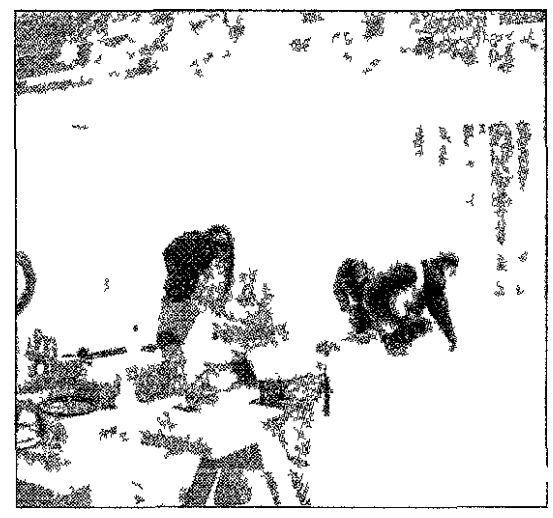


Workers construct the Belleville home's roof

Overall, Oakland County is very affluent, he said Areas with financial struggles do exist He agreed with Dent that donations and discounts are vital

Habitat homes are sold at cost with no interest to residents "We're a hand up, not a handout, he said

Volunteers do most of the construction work We can build more homes when we outlay less cash," said Campbell, a Bloomfield Township resident



Habitat for Humanity of Western Wayne County is building a home in Belleville

WORKERS CONTRIBUTE

Plumbing, electrical and concrete work is often donated, he said, citing the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 58, as a key supporter In 2005, Lowe's and Masco Corp gave over $1 million each in Michigan

Those are very important and critical donations,' he said In Oakland, about half of the support comes through religious groups, the balance from businesses

Chrysler Financial underwrote a concert at the Palace for Habitat, which raised a half million dollars earmarked for hurricane relief General Motors/GMAC, Handleman Co and BrassCraft have been other supporters

'We do have quite a few other regular sponsors, said Gwen Joseph, corporate relations director for Oakland Joseph, a Clarkston resident, said partnerships make success possible

The three affiliates have really been working well together,' she said, including Detroit That helps us in all ways '

Campbell's excited about a Builders' Blitz coming this summer, with 1,000 Habitat homes in the U S and 14 in southeast Michigan Builders, suppliers and contractors work together to make those homes a reality

The Youth United Build, a national program for ages 5 25 is getting young people active in Habitat It's really exciting to see what these kids are doing with this Joseph said Ages 14 and up will be involved with construction

Beware: Time may not be right to refinance

Timothy Phillips

For those with adjustable-rate mortgages (ARMs) or with variable-rate piggyback mortgages, the message might be the same: Be patient and ride out the storm.

If a furniture salesman told you not to make a purchase, you might smile and start looking around for the hidden cameras You might feel the same way when I, a mortgage broker, tell you that it may be in your best interest to stay put with your current mortgage configuration

I am getting many phone calls from homeowners who have either all or part of their existing mortgage in a variable rate product Their payments are increasing and they want to know if and how they can get off that train

Over the past year or so, the Fed has bumped up their Funds Rate over a dozen times Higher mortgage rates and lower home values have put many borrowers in an equity squeeze

In short, many homeowners cannot free up their homes equity by selling their homes and the refinance terms – higher interest rates and higher loans relative to home values – are not favorable for traditional refinancing For those with adjustable-rate mortgages (ARMs) or with variable-rate piggyback mortgages, the message might be the same Be patient and ride out the storm

If you are in the early part of a three- or five year ARM, it could be a good strategy for you to stay in the fixed-rate portion of your ARM until it ends, then refinance into another no-cost short-term ARM to see your way through to the next market cycle of attractive fixed rate mortgages That may still be a good five years away

If you have an 80/20 or an 80/15 piggyback combination mortgage and the 80 percent part is a good interest rate, you would typically need to see the smaller, variable portion go well into the double digit interest rates before you could justify a refinance

Today's TIMBIT! The only certain way to determine whether a refinance is correct for you in today's tough market is to have a professional mortgage person do an analysis for you They should do it for you pro bono, but before you take action on their advice, make sure it makes good sense to you based on your situation

Timothy Phillips is a mortgage banker and newspaper columnist Visit www PhillipsHQ com for free information online or call him toll free at (866) 369 4516 Homebuyers should always consult a professional for guidance specific to their situation

NLC and CH2M HILL Unveil New Name for Recognition Award

The National League of Cities (NLC) and CH2M HILL announce a new chapter in the recognition of outstanding city and town programs with their co-sponsorship of the Awards for Municipal Excellence The new name reflects the higher standards being applied in evaluating excellence and creativity in municipal programs

The Awards for Municipal Excellence will recognize city programs that have significantly contributed to the quality of life in their city Nominated programs will be judged on several criteria successful public-private partnership ventures, productive citizen and community collaborations, effective management of municipal resources (public or private), innovative government policies, project implementation with tangible results, and the ability to replicate the project in other cities There are four population categories, with a gold and silver in each category

In 1989, NLC and CH2M HILL joined as sponsors of a recognition program, naming the awards the James C Howland Awards for Urban Enrichment

Handicapped parking standards vary

Real Estate Inquires

Robert Meisner

Q The other night, my 75-year-old, handicapped mother arrived at her unusual unmarked covered parking spot near the door of her condo. Upon arrival, she noticed that the management company had painted numbers on the spot They assigned her an uncovered spot about 500 feet from the door I called management and told them that they needed to rectify this and to report to me as soon as possible when they can make the corrections I have not heard from them. What action do you recommend?

A It appears that you are writing me from out of state and I do not know whether your mother is located in Michigan or Texas In any event, it depends on the condominium documents as to whether the association can assign parking spots and whether your mother would have a right to a particular parking spot in the condominium since she is handicapped If you do not hear from management, I would contact an attorney to assist your mother in attempting to gain access to the parking area close to her unit if the association has the right to assign parking upon a contract they have with the association However, unless the condominium documents allow the association's agent to charge for this transfer fee, it is of dubious validity I would question the authority of the association s agent to collect this money which is done in many instances where there is not even a provision in the management contract between the association and the management company to do so To the extent it is deemed invalid, it might be a good basis for a class action lawsuit

Q We are purchasing a condominium unit and the association's management company wants to charge us a transfer fee for getting a copy of the documents and other information about the association I have checked the documents and do not see any basis for them to claim that. What do you think?

A Several management companies in town are charging this transfer fee based

by Mildred L. Culp

Two years ago, Zachary Friesen, age 17, applied for his first job He was surprised to learn, as part of the application process, that an entry on his credit report indicated that, 10 years before, he'd bought a houseboat Someone had stolen his identity, never to be found A college student, he now also speaks to high school students about identity theft on behalf of Qwest Communications, an ISP provider

Is identity theft a real problem in job hunting? The FBI, according to a spokesman, intends to categorize data in this area The FTC offers one lone statistic in "Identity Theft Complaint Data," published in 2001 Nine percent of 86,168 ID theft cases reported – 7,755 – involved the use of "personal information to obtain employment "

Judd Rousseau, COO and director of Fraud Operations at Scottsdale, Ariz 's Identity Theft 911, has been observing significant numbers of "database compromises due to the application process " He won't disclose numbers, he says, "because of privacy "

APPLICANTS

Entry-level jobs (and many others) require people to complete applications "Teens often fill them out in bulk," he states, "with their Social Security numbers, driver's license numbers, even photo ID They put it down without thinking about who they're giving it to and who has access to it once they turn it in There is a large sense of trust and fear behind not knowing the system For the first couple of jobs, all they know is that they need the job Parents are pushing, they need money for college, they worry that 'If I don't fill everything out, I won't get hired '"

This conundrum mirrors that of job seekers of any age Should you cooperate? Should you dance around the issues? Should you ignore the question? What's a person to do, whether a teen or an established job seeker?

The FTC recommends straightforward questions covering the need for your Social Security number, its protection by the company, its uses there and the consequences of not providing it Rousseau advises meeting recruiters represented on a Web site before providing the number "Then you know they're serious "

Friesen mentions that certain information is necessary for a company to conduct a background check He asks employers to "be open to the idea that if a teenager says he feels more comfortable giving it to you in person (rather than online or on paper), after hiring " Ironically he observes that "teens are becoming more aware but are not sure about how to deal with it with new authority figures " His insights apply across the board

Job seekers' missteps can create vulnerability to identity theft, he points out

– pulling out their Social Security card, in full view of others ("Memorize the numbers," he advises, "and put it in a safe or lockbox "),

– failing to ascertain the legitimacy of a Web site (Call someone related to it), and – not requesting permission to speak about a job first so that if your identity is stolen, you'll know where it happened

He also tells teens to check their credit report occasionally to avoid a surprise

EMPLOYERS

The ease of identity theft in the hiring process suggests that it's time for companies to review requests for sensitive information of all kinds prior to a tentative hiring agreement No company can guarantee that its workers won t abscond with information Every company must focus upon what s relevant and immediately necessary Pull back Don't ask applicants to surrender their most personal data before mutual interest is even established Update those forms! When you don't, job seekers must question them as diplomatically as possible Remember that this is such an emerging trend that people who take your applications may have no idea that identity theft can flourish in the hiring process

Finally, if Qwest is training high school students about identity theft, companies must train their employees, especially those who hire Doing so will represent nothing less than a respect for privacy on both sides of the hiring desk, entry level or not

Zachary Friesen, age 17, discovered that someone had stolen his identity.

The Way Forward with Ford Motor Co.

Advertising Feature

Thursday DriveTime

BY DALE BUSS

The Way Forward It sounds like the title of a best-selling new book Or maybe one of those comet-worshipping cults But, sadly, The Way Forward is about all that the hundreds of thousands of employees and dependents of Ford Motor Co – that once invincible, proud, innovative creator of the global automotive economy – can possibly cling to these days

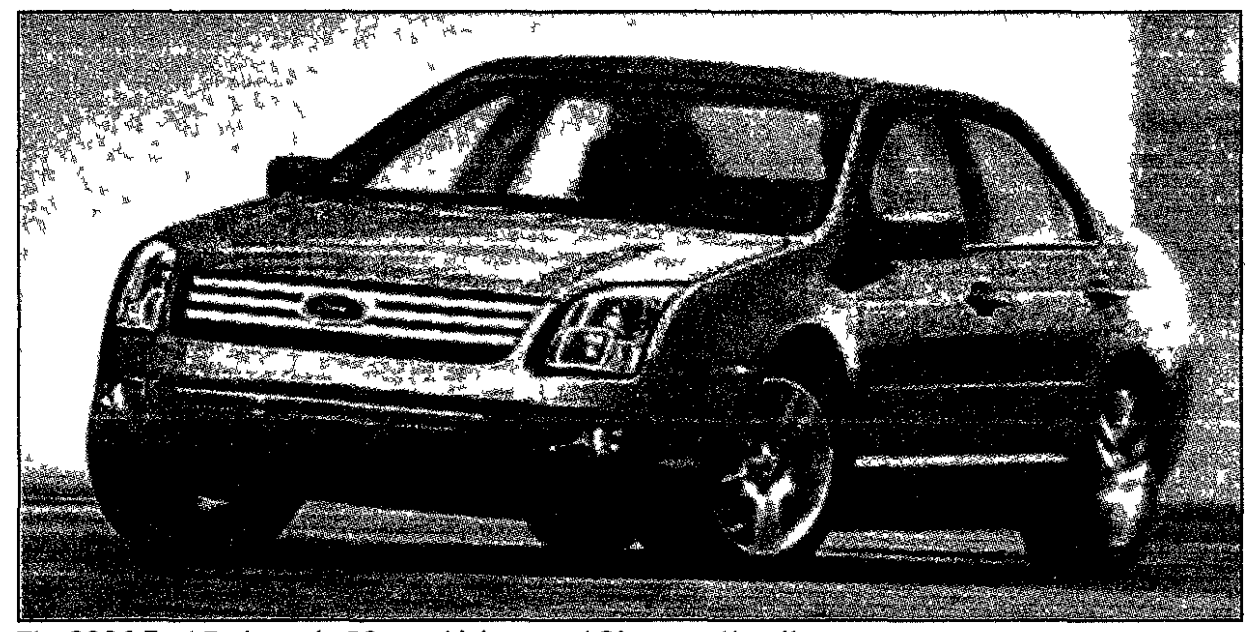
This program, of course, is the one that was announced on Monday by Mark Fields, the company's newly ensconced executive vice president, amid the sketches, clay models, computer work stations, investment analysts and journalists that were assembled in Ford s design studio in Dearborn Oh, and he also announced that The Way Forward would be fueled by a new commitment to make Ford Red, White & Bold

This is where our commitment to see the world through our customers eyes takes shape, and this is where the future of the Ford Motor Company begins, Fields was scripted to say

Fields went on to describe how 50 people, over the course of two months, had put together the plan for the Way Forward Every part of the business was represented, he said, and the team was 'told to put everything on the table, start with a clean sheet of paper and to be unconstrained in their thinking' It was "liberating and invigorating," Field reported

Allowing as how the audience assembled there would be skeptical, Fields went on, promising 'a level of candor that you might not have heard from us in the past" He described Ford's goal to slow the rate of loss and stabilize its market share in the near term, to return to profitability in Ford s North American automotive business "This is not a prediction,' Fields said 'It s a promise'

A promise that, by the way, Ford only has a hope of accomplishing after executing Fields' announced plan to cease operations at 14 North American manufacturing facilities by 2012, including seven vehicle-assembly plants, reducing the company s North American manufacturing capacity by 26% by the end of 2008 Plant employment will drop by a breathtaking 25,000 to 30,000 positions



The 2006 Ford Fusion gets 29 mpg highway and 21 mpg in the city.

Of course, the drastic cutback in operations only will help 'right-scale Ford for its dismal current state and a future that looks to be just as small The only way that the company has a prayer of being a vibrant company and possibly growing again is to actually execute some of the other steps that Fields outlined

He said that Ford would retain and strengthen the character of all three of its primary brands Ford, Lincoln and Mercury Fields said that Ford would go after the small-car segment as it hadn't in a long time He said that Ford would quicken its product-development process He promised that Ford would field more products like the intriguing new Lincoln Zephyr, Lincoln MKX, Mercury Milan and Ford Fusion

But I remain one of the skeptics that Field admitted would remain skeptical about this plan I remember reporting about Ford turnarounds twenty years ago, when I was working for The Wall Street Journal and Don Petersen was Ford's CEO The company had emerged more robustly from the early Eighties recession than GM and Chrysler, and Ford executives were crowing that they'd finally got this car-market thing figured out They were practically begging for the onset of the next downturn in the market so that they could prove how smart they d been

But since then, with brief glimpses of renaissance, Ford s fortunes have only steadily declined Yes, the company's manufacturing quality has improved markedly, as has that of everyone in the industry Indeed, Ford has developed fantastic new credentials as a 'green' auto company, what with the grass roof of its renovated River Rouge complex and William C Ford Jr's pledge to be producing 250,000 hybrid vehicles a year by 2010

And of course, there have been shimmering examples of the possibility that Ford really does get it when it comes to American automotive consumers F-150 trucks have continued to lead the way in their segment The new-and-retro Mustang finally gets it right I've liked the Aviator as a middle of-the-road-market SUV sine its introduction

But for the most part, some of the "new solutions" that Fields proposed seem to be rehashes of the old 'solutions" that didn t work when they were tried the first time For example, Fields emphasized a company that will reconnect with what consumers want and emphasize its brands, I thought former CEO Jacques Nasser tried that a few years ago

Ditto for Fields promise to recast Ford in the image of Mazda Ford has been trying to learn from Mazda for years, beginning in the Eighties with the sharing of small-car platforms and with the construction of the Mazda assembly plant in Flat Rock

"It s about taking back our future, Fields said But first, Ford has to outlive its past

REVIEW

If you ask me, pop music gets a bad repu tation by today s stan dards Whereas years ago the Beach Boys received acclaim for creating some of the best "pop records of all time, today's listeners now classify anything as "pop' from Coldplay to Britney Spears

Luckily we have The Rosebuds latest release Birds Make Good Neighbors (Merge Records), to help us music purists make the case that good pop music is still alive and well

The Rosebuds are an interesting story The husband and wife duo of Ivan Howard and Kelly Crisp actually began playing and recording together after they were asked at the last minute to fill in for an opening band that had backed out Since then they ve been creating their back-to basics pop music, filled with peaceful melodies intriguing lyrics and overall pleasant sounds

After listening to their latest release you d never know Howard and Crisp

grew up in rural parts of North Carolina (Howard on a tobacco farm and Crisp on a then isolated island off the coast) their polished, sometimes morose sound would make one think they d spent the past few years in some of America s musical hot spots not the southeastern United States

Leaves Do Fall is a great duet between the two and has some of the best lyrics from the album "I m a des perate girl/And that terrifies me" sings Crisp quietly only to be answered right back by Howard While Howard is the primary singer Crisp adds as backup and occasionally takes the lead role herself

Each track is just a little bit different and that's what makes The Rosebuds interesting to listen to From fast to slow, happy to sad, each song has its own special blend On Outnumbered you hear just a hint of country twang, while on Shake Our Tree the drum beat lends itself to repetitive handclaps It's infectious

Sometimes husband-and-wife musicians can seem almost gimmicky — think about the happier-than-happy pair Mates of State But Howard and Crisp are more music business partners than a married couple

While The Rosebuds have no big tour plans as of right now, keep an eye on www mergerecords com to find out their latest news

LOCAL NEWS

U2 Sting Aerosmith The White Stripes It doesn t seem like these bands have anything in common, do they? Think again Local heroes Jack and Meg White will be the latest band to become "animated" on the now-classic Fox series, The Simpsons

Yes, The White Stripes will be featured in an episode where young Bart attempts to become a jazz drummer The episode is scheduled to air in the fall and is reportedly titled, Jazzy and the Pussycats

Everyone is invited to Jimmy Kimmel's Super Bowl party

Jimmy Kimmel arrives Friday to host his show Jan. 31 through Feb. 5 at the Gem Theatre.

Picture this

Kid Rock will take comedy talk show host Jimmy Kimmel on a tour of Detroit

And it will be filmed for Kimmel's Live! ABC show that airs late nights Mondays through Fridays at 12 05 a.m

'With Kid Rock, I can only imagine where we'll end up and what we ll find," Kimmel said during a telephone interview from his Los Angeles office

Kimmel is preparing to come to Detroit where he will host his show Jan 31 through Super Bowl Sunday at the Gem Theatre He arrives this Friday, Jan 27

Throughout the week, Detroit (or Michigan-area) celebrities will stop in as guests on the show Kimmel said he expected Magic Johnson, Red Wings, and a few Detroit musicians — plus anyone else he can lure, he joked

We re letting celebrities know that our backstage 'Green Room is available to them as an escape during Super Bowl, Kimmel said Then we won t let them leave It will be like a fly trap'

Kimmel, who has visited Detroit many times (his ex wife is a Michigander), said the show will be filmed in the Gem Theatre but also in and around the streets of Detroit

"In Los Angeles people are jaded because everytime they turn around there s a camera filming something, somewhere We re hoping people in Detroit have fun with this and are enthusiastic

Kimmel also said he s going to enjoy the city's restaurants — he really likes Seldom Blues but plans to explore others

I m all about food, he said

Kimmel was slammed for joking about Detroit and fires in the past He apologized soon after He said the response he's received regarding the idea to tape his show in Detroit has been hot So it seems Detroiters are ready to move on

A NEW ENERGY

The task to film Jimmy Kimmel Live! for one week here is big — his whole production team will be here All the shows are sold out except for a few tickets still available on Super Bowl Sunday Be careful of scalpers online, Kimmel advised

'The only worry is equipment trouble since we won t be on our home-base," Kimmel said 'We're excited about everything else The only time we ve filmed outside of our studio was once at a viewer s home in Houston

Kimmel is host and executive producer for his show He is also producer of the MTV hit The Andy Milonakis Show He also co-created Crank Yankers on Comedy Central and is still widely know for The Man Show

Kimmel said although he grew up in quirky Las Vegas, he still manages to stumble upon weird things wherever he goes

Once for the show I was doing a bit where I was a pizza deliverer So I get this call to deliver a pizza to a dark, abandoned building in L A I walk in and it's empty I go through a few other doors with the camera crew and we find a packed room where a Mexican dating game is being filmed, Kimmel said "I was totally confused From the outside no one would have known this was happening Next thing I know I ask if I can be on the show, and 10 minutes later I was a contestant on a Spanish-speaking game show I loved it

"You just never know what s going to happen It's great"

And we re sure the same will ring true in Detroit

Kimmel also joked about the number of exclusive Super Bowl parties

No one is invited to those, but everyone is invited to mine,' he said

The party is every night next week at 12 05 a m

The outdoor display of colorful and creatively designed footballs is called Pigskins on Parade, and continues through June at prominent locations in the city and on the University of Michigan campus

Located at Division and Liberty streets near campus, the football was created by a local team of architects The group cut off one tip of the pigskin and recreated the interior of Michigan Stadium On the outside, they painted famous Ann Arbor and University of Michigan buildings and landmarks

Pigskins on Parade will raise money for the Ann Arbor Area Community Foundation s arts endowment through business sponsorship of the footballs

It s kind of like the cows in Chicago The artists have come up with some amazing designs for the footballs They re very colorful and full of lots of humor, Real said "And who knew we would be able to raise money for the arts through the Super Bowl!

The Big House tours are a once in a lifetime opportunity

"This is only being offered for Super Bowl," Real said, adding the Athletic Department does not generally offer pub lic tours of the stadium

A team of trained University of Michigan students will lead patrons through the nation s largest college-owned s.adium with an official capacity of 107 501

Although fans won t get to peek inside the locker rooms the tour is a behind-the scenes look jam packed with fascinat-ing statistics and plenty of stadium lore

Perhaps the tour s highlight is a chance to get on the field courtesy of the tunnel

Yes that s right you, too, can take the field just like the players do before the start of each and every game

So anybody who have ever dreamed of running through the tunnel Real said, this is your chance

Feelin' it

Blues festival will entertain locals and visitors alike

BY NICOLE STAFFORD

Got the Super Bowl blues?

The city of Ferndale, an official Super City, sure does

As part of the community's Super Bowl celebration a marathon of blues concerts is set to begin Friday, Jan 27

The Ferndale Metro Blues Festival is an annual event that has been greatly expanded for Super Bowl festivities

Nightly performances will run simultaneously at more than 15 city venues through Jan 31 and then Feb 1-4 In all, more than 75 concerts are planned Last year's event took place over five days and featured about 40 shows

It was pure coincidence that it happens the same week as Super Bowl, said Craig Covey, founder and co-chair of the event and Ferndale councilman So when we first learned, we immediately decided to try to link the festival with the Super Bowl

QUITE THE LINEUP

What 5th Annual Ferndale Blues Festival an official Super Bowl Host Committee Super City event featuring more than 75 concerts plus the Super Blues Bar-BQ Tent party, a family event with blues entertainment

When Friday Jan 27 to Tuesday Jan 31 and Wednesday Feb 1 to Saturday Feb 4 Performances start at 8 p m or 9 p m Super Blues Bar BQ Tent 12 30 p m Saturday Feb 4

Where More than 15 downtown Ferndale venues along Woodward Avenue and 9 Mile all within walking distance Super Blues Bar BQ Tent located at Troy and Woodward

Admission: Most concerts are free Food and entertainment included in $10 admission for Super Blues Bar BQ Tent For more information call (248) 545 1435 or visit www ferndalebluesfestival org

After achieving Super City event status, organizers set their sights on pumping up the festival, in its fifth year, as a way to impress out-of-town visitors and provide local residents with great entertainment during and before game week.

'We want visitors and out-of-towners to leave with good feelings and good images about the time they spent in Detroit,' Covey said, adding Ferndale will likely appeal to international and West Coast visitors because it's a walkable city

Each participating Ferndale venue is within two or three blocks So festival-goers can enjoy dinner at one location, visit one or two bars for drinks afterward and ultimately catch several shows in a single evening

Besides, Covey said, Ferndale is one cool spot

SUPER CITIES HOST SUPER EVENTS

BY LANA MINI

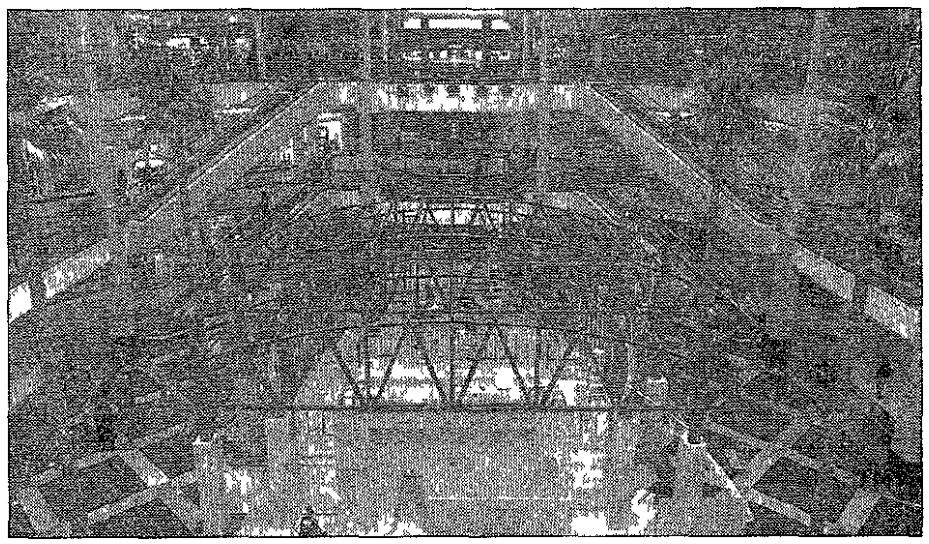
OK so you don t want to deal with crowds in downtown Detroit during Super Bowl week

Or maybe you do and the idea of a tourist packed Motor City is exciting — as it should be But don t forget there are eight other cities that will have a special Super Bowl XL vibe, too And they aren t high end high ticketed events either

They're the Super Cities!

Rochester, Farmington Farmington Hills Troy, Ferndale, Ann Arbor, Dearborn and Windsor were all sanctioned by the Super Bowl Host Committee as extra-special places to hang out during Super Bowl week Many of the events scheduled in those cities are family oriented

In Rochester, you can try the Taste of the Town In Windsor, hit the exhibit 40 Years of Football Mount Clemens hosts a chili cookoff, ice sculpting, tropical themed bar nights tailgating parties and more



Members of the Michigan Regional Council of Carpenters and Millwrights are volunteering their time in building a Super Bowl theater at Somerset North

Ferndale is hosting its Blues Festival (see related story on page 3) Ann Arbor will have a Blues Cruise Farmington and Farmington Hills have created F2-HXL 40 Years of Super Bowls & Rock n Roll Troy offers food at its Supper Bowl Dearborn has an event called My Name Is

And that s just the beginning

Being a Super City is a big deal — it introduces, and re-introduces in some cases the world to local destinations

We are excited and proud to be one of only eight cities designated by the NFL as a Super City for Super Bowl XL, Ann Arbor Mayor John Hieftje said in his welcome announcement to tourists We are excited and proud to be one of only eight cities designated by the NFL as a Super City'

So bring a few dollars, warm clothing for the outdoor events and get to know your city or nearby neighboring town

Grabbing your attention

Favorites that stand out

BY ELEANOR HEALD

Chef Steve Allen of Steve & Rocky's in Novi presents lake perch with wilted spinach and shitakes in a brown butter vinaigrette and wild striped sea bass stuffed with a shrimp and spinach mousseline, baked in phyllo pastry

Table Hopping

Menus are printed daily at Steve & Rocky's in Novi, where offerings are anything but routine, except for the Chef Milos' Mushroom Soup, a tribute to chef Steve Allen's mentor. This is a must starter, especially in cold weather.

In an era where hype grabs attention, it s sometimes hard to keep your name out there

As I look-d back recently on 11 years of writing about restaurants for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, I realized that some eateries slipped through the cracks, and others that I praised, had not grabbed my attention lately But they should have!

SEAFOOD

Menus are printed daily at STEVE & ROCKY'S in Novi, where offerings are anything but rou tine, except for the Chef Milos Mushroom Soup, a tribute to chef Steve Allen s mentor This is a must starter, especially in cold weather

Innovative comfort food is the name of the game here and it s expertly delivered in pork and duck menu items But for me, Steve & Rocky's seafood preparations score Actually, on most evenings, they outnumber meat main courses

Team a seafood special with a crisp House Caesar, a brainy variation on the classic with roasted garlic, tapenade and cheese topped croutons

On-premise made breads and desserts are not to be missed, so enjoy the bread but save a little room for a made-to order flourless chocolate ganache cake as dessert

Although they don't take reservations at STREETSIDE in Birmingham, it s another of my favorite seafood spots Two reasons for that Chef Sharon Juergens knows fish and how to prepare it Secondly, the wine list is brimming with luscious red wines proving that red wine pairs with fish

Whether it's for Spicy Buffalo Shrimp with bleu heese dressing, Tilapia Fajitas or Sesame-Seared Tuna Loin and Asian Crab Roll with hot mustard and plu 1 sauces, a table wait at Streetside is worth t

Call it a seafood tavern where rustaceans are king and you have he best description of FRAN O'BRIEN'S in Auburn Hills Traditional East Coast cooking is n the spotlight Crab cakes, Chesapeake Bay Blue Point oysers and fried whole Ipswich clams take your mouth on a Cape Cod vacation If you can't decide what to order, the sampler plate is good and offers succulent variety

CREATIVE ASIAN

Whether you call it cross culture, fusion cooking or where East meets West, EURASIAN GRILL in West Bloomfield does it superbly, both in the food category and in a low-lit atmosphere with a sleek and polished design

Wok cooking marries American with multiple Asian influences expertly Any dish with Thai curry sauce is spicy and flavorful Indonesian spiced lamb is one of my favorites You can get a New York Strip grilled to perfection, but why would you order that when you can have a Kobe Beef Steak, traditional Chinese dishes and kicked-up creative Asian?

Asians are not big on desserts so at Eurasian Grill, sweet endings are decidedly West – Grasshopper Pie and a Brownie Sundae are yummy

HISTORY NEARBY

Some foodies travel hundreds of miles for a taste of history But it s virtually in our neighborhood at the HISTORIC HOLLY HOTEL, where in the 1860s, the Washington House occupied the corner where the Holly Hotel stands today

Dinner or Sunday Brunch in this three-story, gabled hip-roofed, red brick, Queen Anne style structure is a treat Daily-dated menus indicate that fresh is an operative kitchen word and if you like wine, the Holly Hotel set the standard for fair pricing a long time ago There are 40 offerings, all at $18 per bottle

Although, the Sunday Brunch menu changes weekly, Prime Rib, made to order omelets, cold poached Gulf Shrimp and an extensive dessert selection are always on

A classic example of the now-vanishing railroad hotels of the past in small town America, the Holly Hotel is well worth a drive

More parties, and a way to win game tickets

No tickets for game day? Join the crowd

The Super Bowl is coming to town, and all we Michiganders can do is delude ourselves into believing that somehow, in some way, through some friend, we're getting tickets

Forget about it! But don't brood about it, either

If there's anything I've learned about the Super Bowl in the past several months it's that the football game itself, though obviously the center of attention, is just a small part of the action when the championship event lands in your back yard

So in an effort to keep you up-to-date on Super Bowl goings-on, from who's performing at NFL-sanctioned events to media parties to celebrity sightings, welcome to "Everything but the Game," a report on all things Super Bowl — aside from the game itself

PARTY TALK

Rocker Tommy Lee's party Feb. 4 at Bleu Room Experience is a go. Rapper Juvenile's Feb. 2 and PR diva Lizzie Grubman's Feb. 3 appear to be a go at the Detroit club, too. That does not leave a date for the fabulous Hilton sisters to host a party there despite rumors. So who knows where the girls will ultimately make their presence known. Bleu Room Experience is located at 1540 Woodward, (313) 222-1900.

FHM Magazine's invite-only party is going up Feb. 2 at Envy. Planned for Feb. 4 at the downtown Detroit club is a celebration hosted by Philadelphia Eagle Terrell Owens. The party starts at 8 p.m., live performances are planned (no names yet), and tickets are only $50. Envy is located 234 E. Larned, (313) 962-3689.

At Posh Nightclub and Ultralounge in Ferndale, Magic Johnson is hosting a VIP party Feb. 3. The club itself will be hosting the "Super Bowl Kickoff Party," but maybe Magic will step out front and make a visit. But if you must see Magic, tickets for his gig are available for $125-$225 through Ticketmaster. Posh is located at 22061 Woodward Avenue in Ferndale, (248) 541-7674.

WIN GAME TICKETS

No joke. The latest type of Super Bowl event to emerge is the come-to-this-event-because-we're-having-a-ticket-raffle. Now, the truth is you could actually be the winner. I mean if they're being raffled off somebody has to win. Here's one that's free to enter as long as you're willing to work a little. Wednesday, Feb. 1, head to Royal Oak.

You'll have to tour the city, visit a list of designated establishments, and get a card stamped just to get entered. But the prize is two tickets to Super Bowl XL. Registration forms are available at any of the participating establishments.

For more information, visit www.downtownroyaloak.org.

'Elmo's Coloring Book'

'Sesame Street' cast teaches acceptance of others

Did you know the character of Elmo is 3 years old and Big Bird is 6, Grover sees the world from a 4 year-old's point of view, and the charming Count von Count is age 1,832,647? The big Sesame Street fan knows that all Muppets have four fingers — except Big Bird, who has three, and the Cookie Monster, with five

Those characters are part of Elmo's Coloring Book, appearing on stage at the Fox Theatre Feb 9-26 The show is currently touring on five continents and in 17 countries It stays true to Sesame Street's daily theme of combining humor, love, dance, song and education

The actors in Elmo are trained dancers who perform a fast paced 90-minute Broadway-style show filled with upbeat fun songs such as Red Hot Tango and The Yellow Polka (and those numbers aren't too syrupy for parents to handle) Theres also wild lighting effects and colorful, elaborate stage sets

The Elmo story playfully explores what would happen if color disappeared Elmo, Bert, Ernie and friends quickly realize that colors evoke an emotion — red might give energy, yellow is mellow

As they try to find out where the colors went, the Muppets learn the importance of diversity, sharing and the acceptance of others

And like all Sesame Street shows, it caters to kids Theres a break halfway through the show and kids are also encouraged to clap, sing, dance and cheer — but they should not stand on the chairs And of course there's souvenirs, from $5-$25, respectively
