Penn pals set to take over

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WR TER

As Ellen Elliott – executive director of the Friends of the Penn – puts it, 'the clock starts ticking" as of 9 a m Tuesday

If all goes well, at that time a newly formed investment group will write a check for $1 2 million to purchase the historic downtown Plymouth theater from co-owners Chris Knight and Pat Tortora

The 10 partners who make up Penn Theatre Realty, LLC will then tender a 20-year lease to the Friends for $1 a year

The clock starts ticking and the bills start at that time - phone, water, electricity," said Elliott "Without the theater open, we have no operating income We'll be relying on fund-raisers to keep it open '

The investors have each committed either $100,000 or $200,000 to buy the movie house on Penniman Avenue Don Soenen, the president of the Plymouth Symphony Society, was the key figure in putting together the investment group

Cops warn businesses to maintain caution

After the second armed robbery within three weeks at the Hungry Howie's Pizza on Main Street, Plymouth police are cautioning business owners to be alert

The latest robbery took place shortly before 10 p m 🖌 Sunday, Feb 26, when a masked gunman entered a rear door of the p1zza restaurant and robbed the employee on duty

At first the employee thought it was a joke, despite the fact the suspect produced a steel revolver," said Detective Jamie Grabowski "But, the suspect said This is no bull----, give me the money'

The victim went to the register and opened it, but the robber pushed him aside and bagged the money himself because he felt the store employee wasn't fast enough," said Grabowski, who noted there was an undetermined about of money taken

Grabowski said the description of a man about 6 feet and 190 pounds is somewhat the same as when the restaurant was robbed on Feb 4, in much the same manner In that case, a possible second suspect was arrested on unrelated charges A toy gun and ski mask were found in the back yard of a home in the 600 block of Ross Street The robbery is the third in Plymouth since Jan 18 On that night, the Speedway gas station in Old Village was robbed by a man wielding a knife A tracking dog led police to a nearby apartment building, where the suspect was arrested Grabowski said retail shop owners need to be alert "Many people don't expect this to happen in Plymouth, but it can happen anywhere," said Grabowski "We do have a safe community, a good police department with good response times, but they shouldn't lull themselves into becoming lazy investors to be involved, except in the areas where they can provide technical expertise associated with the renovation," said Soenen, a Plymouth resident who will be the manager of the partnership "We have a very experienced group of investors, with a vast range of capabilities And, I'm sure they would lend their services, if called on, to help in any way with the renovation"

Scott Taylor, 53, 1s one of those investors Despite currently residing in Northville Township, Taylor remembers spending 30 years of his life in Plymouth

"I still feel my heart's in Plymouth, said Taylor "I used to go to matinees for a quarter and watch a movie all day "Plymouth has something unique, and most communities would kill to have a theater like that," he said "It's a good anchor for downtown, and good for the community'

Along with Soenen and Taylor, the other partners of Penn Theatre Realty are Mike Ferrantino, Mike Kolb, Ray Maloni, Jim McKeon, Walt Menard, Tom Osborne and Carl Schultz One investor declined to be named

Soenen said the Plymouth Symphony will perform two of its five 2006-07 concerts at the Penn 'And, we're looking at adding one, and possibly two, more," he said

Gatlinburgh, Tenn, several years ago, it quickly became one of his favorite pieces because of its uniqueness

But, as time when on, it cracked and started looking old, so Ward decided to get it rejuvenated

"I took it to a number of companies to look at, and they said they couldn't restore it," said Ward, who lives in Salem Township "I really loved it, and was discouraged because I was told it had to be stripped with a whole new top, which would have resulted in a loss of what it represents

"But, somebody recommended Jay (Densmore, owner of Plymouth Furniture Refinishing) and I took it to him,' said Ward "Now, you can't tell it was ever damaged or restored I was amazed

MIRACLE WORKER

For three decades, Densmore has been refinishing, repairing and providing antique restoration in Plymouth And, for 30 years, Densmore has heard stories like the one portraved by Ward

"The best jobs for me are the ones with emotional attachment," admitted Densmore, whose building at 331 N Main near the railroad tracks - is an historic one itself, which seems fitting "It's about the memories you evoke when you restore something*

Frank and Marion Spiaser of Canton confer with Jay Densmore about a chair they want him to refinish

"Retail establishments should take basic security measures, such as locking back doors, having well-lit parking lots and training employees how to react by just giving the robber what he wants," added Grabowski

Belbin, Agosto set to take silver on road

Canton pair celebrates, prepares for run at worlds

BY BRAD KADRICH STAFF WRITER

Tanith Belbin and Ben Agosto seem to be taking pretty well to their new role as America's darlings after winning the silver medal in ice dancing at the Torino Olympic Games

In their first press conference since returning from Italy to their home rink, Arctic Edge in Canton, Agosto and Belbin talked for 30 minutes about the whirlwind they've been on since winning their medals.

Belbin was asked about her new-found status as a sex symbol, conferred upon her on various Web sites calling her "America's hottest Olympian" She laughed it off

I'm not a shy person, so I'm not uncomfortable with that," said Belbin, the 21-year-old Canton resident "I saw one Web site that was rating the world's sexiest female athletes, and I was behind (Russian tennis player) Maria Sharapova I thought, 'I'm not losing to another Russian this week "

The laughs are coming easier for Agosto, a Farmington Hills resident, and Belbin since winning the silver in Italy They're only just now starting to celebrate, having done several media days" and the like in the days after winning

It's now they can look back on what they both called an 'amazing experience and see it for what it was

'It's such a huge event," said Agosto, 24 It's in the media but being there, it really did hive up to all the hype

"Once we took the ice, we had to tell ourselves it was just another competition," Belbin said "Once we stepped off the ice, it was like nothing we'd ever done"

It's not that the pair isn't used to pressure skating They were second at the world championships a year ago But no US ice dancers had won gold in 30 years, and the pres sure was on Belbin and Agosto to stop the streak.

Not that they noticed it "Going into the games, I had no thought about the historical significance,' Agosto said 'We've been skating together for eight years, so we met when we were little kids," said Agosto, who attended Groves High School in Birmingham "We ve grown up together '

That knowledge of each other has led to a great deal of success They're the three-time defending U S champions, were second at the world championships in 2005 and fifth in 2004 So their medal at Torino shouldn't have come as a surprise, according to their coach

'It didn't happen right away,' Igor Shpilband said They had to gradually build up to it from one year to another It was an amazing experience for me

With the announced retirement of two-time world champions Tatiana Navka and Roman Kostomarov of Russia, the team that beat Belbin-Agosto in Torino, the pressure could be on the silver medalists at this months world championships

The couple leaves for that competition in less than three weeks, but it's been on their mind since even before the Olympics

'The world championship is one of our major goals," Belbin said "We've never won it, so we want to be the first Americans to win gold in the world championships That was on our minds at the Olympics — we still had one to go '

Agosto said the Olympic experience should help them when they had to the worlds

"We always get the jitters when we compete,' he said "Having a medal from the Olympic Games will help us go into the world championships with more confidence"

When they get done, there s the Champions on Ice tour and other obligations There's also an off-ice schedule to worry about The pair have already been approached for endorsements by Speedo and Acuvue In fact, they will be shooting a commercial for the contact lens company soon

'We get to experience a whole other world," Belbin said They're also dealing with

They're also dealing with their increased popularity, something they may not have realized they'd have to deal with until they got home Arctic Edge officials kept a collection of the couple's various press clippings People are starting to rec ognize them more frequently — 'At dinner, people are coming up to me now and saying congratulations,' Agosto said That's wonderful' — and kids are gathering to watch them skate That could be one of the best parts of their legacy

'We hope our performance can popularize the sport," Belbin said 'It got a lot of coverage it usually doesn't get We're glad to be part of that"

But theres no rest for the weary, as the couple ramps up for the worlds

"We re trying to catch up on sleep we're slightly exhausted from the whole experience, Agosto said 'Now we have to train"

For now, though, the couple can look back on their effort in Torino, remembering what it was like to be on the medal stand to capture America's first ice dancing medal since Colleen O'Connor and Jim Millins earned a bronze in 1976

'The medal ceremony is that moment you identify with the Olympic performance,' Agosto said 'You're in that incredible arena with those medals You want it to be the moment you hoped it would be, and it really was'

Detroit Zoo vote is a winner among area residents

BY JULIE BROWN STAFF WRITER

Wednesday's vote by the Detroit City which will keep the Detroit Zoo open pleased local residents

I m just glad the zoos not closing, said Debbie Borst of Plymouth Township, a member of the Detroit Zoological Society The Detroit City Council voted Wednesday to turn zoo operations over to the zoological society

Borst, her husband and five children enjoy their trips to the zoo, including the kids field trips in first and second grade They always like that, too She noted that officials might likely want to have reopened the zoo in 10 years if it had closed

The cost of doing that would be just prohibitive At east they're thinking ahead, said Borst, whose 10-year-old daughter was particularly happy about the news "She loves to go to the zoo'

Officials at the Detroit Zoo are relieved 'We're pleased that the council voted yes, said zoo spokeswoman Patricia Mills Thursday 'Now we can move forward

It was very heartening to see all the support that we had from the public and our members and the media," Mills said 'No one wanted to see the zoo close, including members of City Council We re very happy'

There's still the issue of state funding, which we should know about soon A total of $4 million will be needed from the legislature 'We re hopeful, Mills said If state funding comes through, the agreement

Densmore said he likes to talk to his customers to get a mental visuali zation of what each antique may have looked like a long time ago, and what it means to the person who wants it restored

'You put a little more of your heart and soul into it when you know the facts, like if it's the only thing you have from your grandfather, or it was a relatives wedding gift, said Densmore 'When it comes in here, its discolored broken or missing pieces You restore all that, and then they have a visual of what greatgrandma saw 100 years ago

Densmore, 55, said he was the kid who was really into woodworking when he attended the old Plymouth High School, making lamps, tables and cigar boxes

"It's like working with God's gift of nature, he said "Wood is a natural medium, not like metal or fabric' Densmore has been refinishing

wood for so long, he can chronicle most pieces of furniture on sight One time a customer brought in an old chair picked up at an antique shop to be refinished, and Densmore immediately knew he had something special ın hıs mıdst

I recognized it as a Brewster chair, going back to the Pilgrims,' Densmore said I took it to Greenfield Village, and figured it was worth about $16,000'

ANTIQUES, TOO

Densmore also buys and sells antiques

Our slogan has always been Preserving Our Heritage, he said 'Your family heirlooms will be passed on from generation to generation because you took the time to preserve it If you don't, it just deteriorates that much quicker"

Karen Maler of Plymouth Township is furnishing her mental health clinic on Main Street in Plymouth with antiques to give it the look of a 20thcentury country home

I've been buying antiques for 30 years, and he's the best dealer I've ever met because of the quality of his furniture, Maier said "I can trust him, that's the most important thing

'I'm was amazed at the quality of his antiques and refinishing," added Maier, who had her mother's 1940s dining table refinished by Densmore 'It was a very sentimental piece that was just nicked and beat up Now, its in mint condition'

While Densmore has restored tens of thousands of valuable - and some just plain sentimental – pieces of fur-niture for people like Ward and Maier, he's also been handpicked to do work for Rick Wagoner, president and CEO of General Motors, the offices of Roger Penske at Detroit Diesel, and Jim Padilla, president and chief operating officer of Ford Motor Co

"I've had customers who have moved away as far as California and Florida that ship back here to have me do work because they didn't trust anyone out there to do it," said Densmore

Thirty years later, Densmore looks back and remembers it didn't all begin so easily

"I started out with two sawhorses and a piece of plywood,' remembered Densmore, 'and sitting by the telephone 10-12 hours a day waiting for it to ring It took a while, but it's been a nice ride

"I learned pretty early the key was doing it better than the next guy, and giving fair value for the dollar,' he said 'I try to make everyone a salesperson for me, so when I put that piece of furniture in a home I'm proud, they're proud and they talk about it We get most of our work from repeat customers and referrals

Densmore is quick to point out that while it's his company, the four fulltime workers are the backbone

"You have to surround yourself with good people,' he said "My guys do things I can t do anymore They're my partners and I treat them hke partners"

Densmore said when it comes to refinishing, there's nothing that can't be done

"If it's wood, we can pretty much do it," said Densmore It's just a matter of what the value is to you, because sometimes it just comes down to dollars and cents

Students want academic rigor if it's relevant to their goals

t a recent state Senate committee meeting on the proposal to require 18 high school credits, two students from Woodhaven High School came forward to bravely offer their views on the subject

They each gave strong, telling testimony that spoke volumes about our educational system, about continuing feelings about class differences and about a clash of expectations.

Jake Taylor, a senior at Woodhaven, told the committee, chaired by Sen Wayne Kuipers, R-Holland, that he was learning welding in order to pursue a trade as a boiler maker He passionately argued that his career goals were every bit as valid as those of future doctors, lawyers and scientists and shouldn't be shunted aside if new credit standards are

adopted

"Some can't afford college and some have to start working after graduation," he said

He also made the valid point that he could start earning a good income a lot sooner than someone who goes away to college

As the son of a pipefitter (who was some-thing of a jack of all trades), I think Jake makes some good points Not all good jobs will require a bachelor's degree, and we will have a continuing need for health care technicians, carpenters, plumbers, electricians, machinists and, yes, boiler makers And these jobs do and will pay good wages But even these positions will require some post high school training and will require the kind of solid academic base proposed in the state's requirements And, unfortunately, some of these jobs in the traditional factory setting will not be done in this country where wages have become prohibitive for some corporations

Katie Williams, another senior, had to wait a while to make her presentation, anxiously rolling and unrolling her written presentation She had several concerns the credit requirements will cut into sports time, they will cut into social time, they require costly tutoring that many parents can't afford and that they aren't relevant to her interest in pursuing some kind of dental education

The argument about social time is not one to impress many adults, who watch fierce foreign competition dragging our economy down And many would argue that students who love sports will find a way to make the

But the most important question Katie asks is, "What do these requirements have to do with me?"

They dropped out because nobody seemed to care enough to push them to do their best.

The state Department of Education is pushing a mantra that goes "rigor, relevance, relationships" with the added phrase 'rigor without relevance is meaningless' Unfortunately, many students have a hard time grasping the relevance of x + 23 = 2x +45, especially as it applies to welding or dentistry (Or journalism for that matter)

But it is relevant to being educated and it is, often, relevant to skilled trades In fact Jeremy Hughes, deputy state superintendent of public instruction, argued Monday that the math credits could be earned in the context of career tech classes and would be more relevant if they were

And here's the kicker On Thursday, the Bill & Melissa Gates Foundation released a survey of high school dropouts, conducted by the Peter D Hart Research Associates They found that nearly two-thirds of high school dropouts would have worked harder if expectations had been higher They didn't drop out because school was too hard, they dropped out because school was too easy They dropped out because nobody seemed to care enough to push them to do their best They dropped out because they were "unchallenged, unmotivated, bored and unsupported

Economics, family illness and becoming a parent were other reasons cited

According to the survey of 470 dropouts ages 16-25, nearly 50 percent said they left school "because their classes were boring and not relevant to their lives or career aspirations" and a majority said that their schools did not motivate them to work hard

The survey also reports that 62 percent of those surveyed had C or better grades and 70 percent reported that they were confident they would have met graduation requirements

If the legislature approves some form of mandated requirements and schools begin to implement them, they need to understand the concerns of Jake, Katie and those students who couldn t be bothered to finish high school

Rigor, relevance, relationships Yes!

There's plenty of room for wildlife outside of the zoo

Outdoors

I believe the wildness of nature is best appreciated through a thick pane of glass - even in summer Roughing it means not having cable TV I haven't watered my lawn in three years Somehow it remains green, although I don't think its made up of grass anymore

The point is, I don't purport to know anything about nature But all the commotion over the Detroit Zoo and its possible closing got me thinking about a little realized fact of Detroit and its environs There's a lot more wildlife out there than we realıze

I don't mean the spiders under the stairs that we co-exist with or the occasional fly that finds a way into the living room

I m talking about real creatures of the forest One night a few years ago, my neighbor came pounding on my door at about 10 p m

"You have to help me," she said, clearly upset

"There's a giant rat on my porch" I grabbed a flashlight and followed her to her house

There,' she pointed

I aimed my flashlight into the corner Two beady eyes stared back at me and a mouth filled with impressive little teeth hissed open

"That's not a rat," I said "It's a 'possum '

A fat 'possum' Somehow it had adapted to a tight urban neighborhood where there weren't even many trees

We gave it some cheese (I don't know if 'possums eat cheese) and left it alone That wasn't the only 'possum I've ever seen roaming the city streets Or the only wild animal

There are plenty of pheasants in the expansive empty fields that litter Detroit I've also seen bats and other assorted flying creatures I don't know what they were, but they were not pigeons or sparrows

A while ago, not far from downtown Birmingham, a resident found a dead owl in a tree in front of his home It was a pretty big owl, et's stray into dangerous territory The Great There are plenty of pheasants in the expansive empty fields that litter Detroit. I've also seen bats and other assorted flying creatures. I don't know what they were, but they were not pigeons or sparrows. A while ago, not far from downtown Birmingham, a resident found a dead owl in a tree in front of his home.

> too And who knows what's in Quarton Lake, although the carp have all been fried

Wild deer also are plentiful in the Birmingham-Bloomfield area There was a whole herd, or flock, or whatever you call them, living in the Woodward-Lone Pine area I haven't seen any roaming the neighborhood south of Eight Mile Road, except at Belle Isle, but frankly I'm surprised I haven't There are huge empty spaces that would be ideal habitat for some wild animals

I'm not suggesting that if the zoo had gone under we should have released the animals into * the wide open fields of Detroit, although there are huge stretches of vacant lots that would suit a lot of them fairly well But the banks of Grand River really are not a place for crocodiles, and lions would not be comfortable roaming the slopes of Mt Elhott

But I've often felt that someone should conduct wildlife tours of urban areas

Some of the areas have gone back to their original state, with wildflowers abundant in the summer Indeed, in some areas you can get an idea of what the metropolitan area was like more than a century ago There are vast spaces interspersed with a few houses It's fascinating in one way

And sad in another

Ficano proposes biotechnology partnership with MSU

BY HUGH GALLAGHER STAFF WRITER

A partnership with Michigan State University to develop biotechnology could do for Wayne County what the microchip did for Silicon Valley

That was the message Wayne County Executive Robert Ficano delivered Wednesday in his annual State of the County address at the Wayne County Building in Detroit

"You've heard the buzz – every day people are talking with excitement about biotechnology and alternative fuels made of corn, soybean and grain," Ficano said "That's a hallmark of biotechnology It's environmentally friendly It also creates jobs of diverse skill levels"

Ficano introduced a plan to partner with MSU to develop E85, an alternative fuel that's 85 percent ethanol and 15 percent gasoline, and other biotech patents

"We're putting our plan in motion I ll present a proposal to Lansing this month that exempts alternative fuel from taxes," he said

Ficano also proposes funding to increase the number of E85 gas stations in the county Currently there is only one station in Dearborn Heights Ficano said he hopes to have 20 stations open by 2007

"Last year alone, MSU received eight new biotech patents that can be licensed for commercial businesses to cre-

Despite a tight time frame and discouraging early projections, County Executive L Brooks Patterson's initiative to repeal the state's Single Business Tax will move forward to the petition phase At a press conference

Tuesday afternoon, Patterson said the effort will move on posed that local communities work with the county to create an Agricultural Renaissance Zone to create research and manufacturing centers in the area around Detroit Metro Airport

We want to make sure our new biotech facilities have the same tax benefits as others in Michigan,' he said

Ficano said he supported the federally funded $100 million grant to design a mass transit system between Ann Arbor and Detroit

I continue to encourage all elected officials to come together on adopting a transit system plan that will not be bogged down in politics and special interest agendas," he said 'We have the momentum Now let's move to get it done Nancy White in Macomb County, L Brooks Patterson in Oakland County, Mayor Kilpatrick in Detroit, myself we're all ready to move The governor is ready to move This is a true sign of regional cooperation Lets get our region moving now!'

Ficano declared the state of the county "stable and steady," citing three consecutive balanced budgets The county is trying to eliminate $56 million in deficits in county funds left over from 2003, 2004 and 2005 fiscal years

Ficano renewed his proposal for a land bank that would clear title on vacant, tax-delinquent properties and free them up for redevelopment through county low-interest loans The County Commission rejected an earlier proposal on the land bank because of differences about representation on the land bank board

Ficano announced that a One Stop Business Resource Center will be opening in Detroit soon to help small and medium-sized businesses

The county executive said he will continue to promote economic globalization

"Choosing to ignore the globalization of business or being angry about it will not lessen the harsh realities at home, he said "In fact, it is counterproductive, we must discourage self-pity and the hand-wringing We must capitalize on our opportunities'

He said his trip to China convinced him that Chinese leaders are interested in investing in the Detroit metro area He introduced two representatives from the Tempo Group, who will be building a 480,000-square-foot facility in Canton that will employ 200 He also proposed a Wayne Reads' program that would promote reading by providing books for mothers of newborns, literacy workshops and early childhood development tutors hgallagher@oe homecomm net (734) 953 2149

"I'm pleased to announce that we've reached our goal," he said "We've taken in more than $615,000 in pledges and have another $185,000 in underwritten corporate loans"

Originally, the plan as announced at the State of the County address was to raise $800,000 in pledges for the effort A week later, based on lackluster fund raising, he amended that figure to $600.000 At the Tuesday conference, he said the fund-raising effort would continue as the petition drive got under way

Whatever the financial goals set or met, he said the response to the effort was a sign that the times are ripe for change

"To achieve numbers this strong is evidence that we're ready for change in Michigan," Patterson said

Changes, he said, are needed Citing statistics that place Michigan near or at the bottom of the heap for job creation, job retention and personal income growth, he said the SBT has to go to make the state a more attractive place to start or expand a business Others have made sımılar, ground up changes in their tax and business structure

"In the 1980s, Ireland was the doormat of Europe, not somewhere you would want to do business, he said "Now it's the second strongest economy in Europe'

The SBT generates about $1 8 billion in revenue for the state's general fund Patterson's plan says nothing about where replacement funds would come from The petition drive, he said, would be an intervention for the state

Rockford ends Chiefs' best-ever mat run

BY ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER

In the spring of 2003, first-year Canton wrestling coach Casey Randolph took several members of his struggling team to Battle Creek so they could get a taste of the state wrestling finals 'I told the freshmen, 'We re going to be here someday," Randolph recalled Friday afternoon, as he stood on the main floor of Kellogg Arena, the site of the state finals 'They looked at me and said, 'You sure about that?"

Randolph's three-year-old pledge became reality Friday when the Chiefs squared off against state powerhouse Rockford in a state quarterfinal match at Kellogg Arena The Rams won, 52-19, but the one-sided setback didn't diminish the pride Randolph felt for the foundation-builders of Cantons up-and-coming mat program

The biggest thing is that I want to make sure these kids understand what they have accomplished this year,' said Randolph "I couldn't be more proud of a group of athletes than I am right now

"I knew the match today could go one of two ways I knew that we would either fight them tooth-and-nail, or that we could lose like this It didn't go our way, but at least we got in their face and wrestled aggressively A lot of the pins they got came very late in matches"

Canton knew going in that beating Rockford would be a tall order The 32-1 Rams' roster was stocked with 11 individual state qualifiers, three unbeaten grapplers and four former state champions Seven wrestlers on their roster had exceeded 40 wins heading into Friday's quarterfinal In comparison, state power Temperance-Bedford has zero 40-win performers

But the Chiefs also knew they had a shot at advancing because of their solid nucleus of wrestlers that included state qualifiers Corey Phillips, Konrad Konsitzke and Donnie Laramie, and other key contributors like Marwan Faral, Alex Amberg, Tom Bonnell and Joe Wilson

The Chiefs opened the match like a

Behen 'They were much quicker than us, too The kids are very disappointed right now because we thought we had a good chance of winning tonight

'We're very young and inexperienced on defense and in goal If you re going to win, you have to be strong in those two positions

Behen made the unorthodox move of pulling his goalie for an extra attacker with just over nine minutes left in the game and his team trailing, 5-1, but the move worked — at least temporarily — when the Chiefs offensive pressure immediately intensified

"I did what I thought needed to be done to win," Behen said 'It doesn't matter if you lose 4-1 or 10-1 a loss is a loss "

Less than a minute after Behen pulled goahe Kevan Swanberg, the Chiefs were whistled for a penalty, so Swanberg was re-inserted Even though Swanberg was lifted for large chunks of the remainder of the period, the Mustangs only managed to score on the empty net once

Canton broke the scoring ice first when Andy Barylski picked up a loose puck between red line and blue line, skated in and lasered a backhander past Northville goalie Scott Ozog to put the Chiefs up, 1-0, with 7 55 left in the opening period The lead was short-lived as Deneau scored from Tim Fick just over two minutes later

Swanberg was strong in the first period, turning away 11 Mustang shots

With Canton trailing 5-1, Derek Trosper handled a smooth pass by C J Wies on the doorstep of the goal crease and flipped the puck past Ozog to keep the Chiefs' hopes alive However, Northville retainated with three goals over the next four minutes

"I'm proud of the way everybody on this team came and competed every day, at practices and games," Behen said 'There were only about three games that we weren't in at the end this year" ewright@hometownlife.com | (734) 953 2108

hockey, he does everything I ask him to do When I asked him to move from forward to defense this season, he agreed, even though he's been a forward for most of his life

"And he's not only become a good defenseman, he's been an outstanding defenseman He's not going to out-physical you, but he's always in position and he gets the job done"

IS TYPICALLY SOLID

A typical Tollison play unfolded early in the second period of Wednesday night's pre-regional final against Northville With the score knotted at 1-1, the Mustangs intercepted a pass in Northville's zone, then headed down the ice on a 2-on-1 break The "1" was Tollison

After zipping three passes back and forth, the Northville player on the left wing attacked the net with the puck Tollison deftly skated into his path and re-directed the puck harmlessly against the boards The play didn't show up in the postgame boxscore, but it was as vital as any goal that was scored

IN THE BEGINNING...

Tollison's hockey origins can be traced back to the 'roller' version that he played with friends and neighbors in the street outside his Canton home since he was in elementary school He didn't lace on his first pair of ice hockey skates until he was 10

"The transition from roller hockey to ice hockey was pretty easy for me,' Tollison said "I didn't have any problems with it, probably because I had been playing roller hockey for so long I liked ice hockey right away because it was such a physical game and a team sport It's always been fun for me'

After playing primarily forward during his youth hockey days and his first three years at Canton, Tollison took this year's move to defense in stride

"Coach told me during our summer league last summer," Tollison said "I told him it was fine by me I miss not being able to score as much as I used to, but there are a lot of things I like about playing defense"

Canton's season may have been somewhat disappointing, but two of their victories came against cross-campus rival Salem

'Beating Salem was a highlight because we hadn't won a game against them before this season,' said Tollison "It was nice for a change to be able to go to school the next day knowing we won"

Tollison didn't hesitate when asked to pick out the highlight of his entire high school career

"When I was a sophomore, I got to play on the same line as my brother, Kyle," he said 'That was fun '

momentum swings as a hyperactive pendulum Churchill, fueled by the left-over adrenaline from its win over Plymouth, roared to a 25-8 first-game win, but the fresher, more-rested Mustangs won the next two games and surged to an 18-13 lead in game four That's when Krupsky and senior setter Stacy Urbats combined for six kills over the next seven points to put the Chargers ahead, 20-18

"I couldn't have done it without Stacy," Krupsky said "She's was putting the ball right where I like it "

Churchill went on to win 25-21, setting up a decisive game five, which the Chargers took command of early, jumping ahead 7-3, before winning 15-11 on a Krupsky kill that may have left an ever-lasting abrasion on the South Lyon High School gymnasium floor

"It was a war of attrition and, fortunately, we won the battle,' said Churchill coach Mark Grenier "We passed well and played great defense today It was our passing and defense that made it easy for the hitters

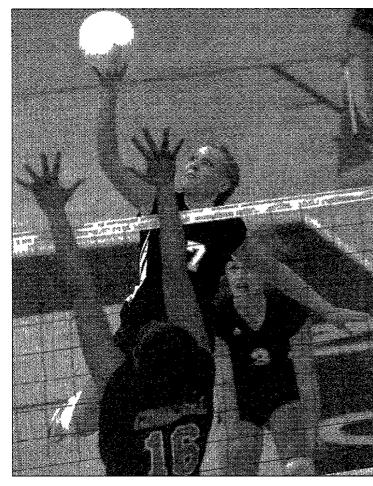

The Chargers' best defenders were Libero Brynn Kerr and Kelly Archer, who covered the South Lyon gymnasium floor like wall-to-wall carpeting The duo combined for 48 digs in the championship match alone

"They were both outstanding," Grenier said "The spotlight is on the hitters a lot because they're the home run hitters, but it's the defensive players like Brynn and Kelly who get it started '

Urbats was spectacular as well, contributing 48 assists, 20 digs and several clutch serves

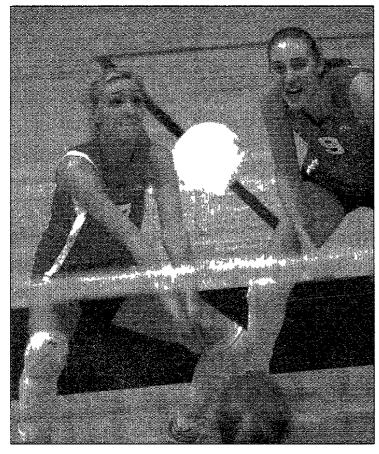

The outside-hitting tandem of Krupsky and sophomore Kyndra Abron wreaked havoc on the Mustangs all night Krupsky finished with 29 kills while Abron notched 17 The Chargers also received signifi cant contributions from Anna Gatt, Stephanie Bradshaw, Carly DeClercq, Sarah Button and Shea Truxell

Plymouth gave the Chargers fits during the early-going of the semi-final match Led by power ful front-row players Jeanine Moise, Brittany Hengesh and Jackie Dorre, and the pin-point serving of Janet Hanchett, Hengesh and Dorre, the Wildcats rolled to a 25-21 gameone victory However, inconsistent serving and the strong front-row play of Abron, Krupsky and DeClercq powered the Chargers to victory in the closing three games "Not to take anything away from our girls because they played great, but I think Churchill's hitters were a little off in that first game, said Plymouth coach Kelly McCausland 'They got the momentum back in games two and three, and their defense was outstanding I think that s the key to their success There were quite a few points I thought we had that they were able to keep alıve

Canton netters stay upbeat despite many close setbacks

BY ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER

The feel-good victories came too infrequently and the tight, heart-breaking defeats far too often this season for the six seniors on Canton's volleyball team

But instead of destroying the veteran Chiefs' resolve, the misfortune strengthened it, according to first-year coach Kristi Drinkhahn "We lost a lot of close matches, but the girls kept working hard and they stayed upbeat,' said Drinkhahn, whose squad finished 10-30 overall and 2-9 in the Western Lakes Activities Association

"All six seniors brought something different to the team - from Kelsey Bailey and Rachael Beaudoin's leadership and intensity, Lisa Western's knowledge of the game and experience, Sarah Alexander and Krista Holcomb's allaround play, and Izabela Paszkowska's blocking skills at the net

"They stayed positive and they encouraged and pumped up the younger players, which was important

Drinkhahn is the third coach the senior Chiefs have played for in their high school careers While they all spoke highly of all three coaches, the players said the year-to-year transition made things difficult — at least during the outset of each season

"Each coach had their own style, their own way to practice and their own strategies, so there was definitely a transition time at the beginning of each season," said Western, who earned three varsity letters "This year we didn't win a

Alexander, who also plays soccer, etched her name in the Canton record books the past two seasons with her unbelievably accurate serving

This season she posted a school-best 98 6 serve percentage and last year she was good on 172 consecutive serves

"I think it was just concentration more than anything," Alexander said, when asked the key to her serving success

"Our team really pulled together this year We had some strong personalities, which helped Our best match was probably against Ann Arbor Pioneer We were passing and setting well that day"

Our spirits stayed pretty high this year," said Beaudoin, who also excels for the Canton softball team "Probably the most fun part of the season was playing in tournaments

Adversity didn't stop Jackson

Illed as one of the greatest gospel singers of all time, Mahaha Jackson survived a poverty-stricken childhood to play one of the most prestigious concert halls in America, Carnegie Hall She filled the hall to capacity every night of her three-night engagement and she said it was all due to her unshakable faith

Mahalia Jackson was born Oct 26, 1911, in New Orleans Jackson spent most of her young life just trying to make do She watched her mother go off to work every morning to do work as a domestic in the homes of her rich white neighbors

As a young child, Jackson took note of the family's severely strapped resources and made a stern promise to herself to do better in hife She started singing at the age of 5 m her father's church and, not being fully aware of her gift yet, toyed with several different styles of music But she always returned to her roots in gospel

Jackson moved to Chicago at the age of 15 to live with relatives and while there enrolled in a training program for nurses She felt this would provide her with another means of income during tough times

During the week, Jackson worked as a domestic and took her work seriously, but on the weekends she relaxed, fellowshipped and sang her heart out at her second home – the Southside Greater Baptist Church

Jackson was not one to stay put when it came to her singing She began to travel and visit other Baptist churches in the Chicago area and before anyone knew it she had a huge following

In the mid-40s Jackson signed with Apollo records and recorded her first major song, Move on Up That put her on the map, but it would be another 10 years before she would see the inside of a recording studio again

In 1954, Jackson decided to sign with Columbia Records after spinning her wheels at Apollo She signed a $50,000 contract for four years with Columbia - unheard of for African-Americans during that time In 1955, CBS offered Jackson her own variety show and although her show was forced off the air from protests from Southern viewers she managed to win a loyal following and gained national recognition for herself as well as the gospel industry In 1958, Jackson made her big-screen debut, appearing with Nat King Cole in StLouis Blues The recording industry wanted to honor her in 1962 with a Grammy, but the award ceremony had never presented an award for Jackson's musical style So they created a Gospel category for her and presented her with the first Grammy for "Best Gospel Album* Mahaha Jackson spent her years on Earth singing the music she loved, helping the people and causes she cared about and providing a great inspiration to all she came in contact with And, despite some of the heartache she faced she proved that by keeping the faith in God and in yourself, you could accomplish anything.

Jen David of Plymouth (left), Nipa Desai of Canton and Nicole Exe of Plymouth show off some of the moves they will use during the 30-hour University of Michigan Dance Marathon

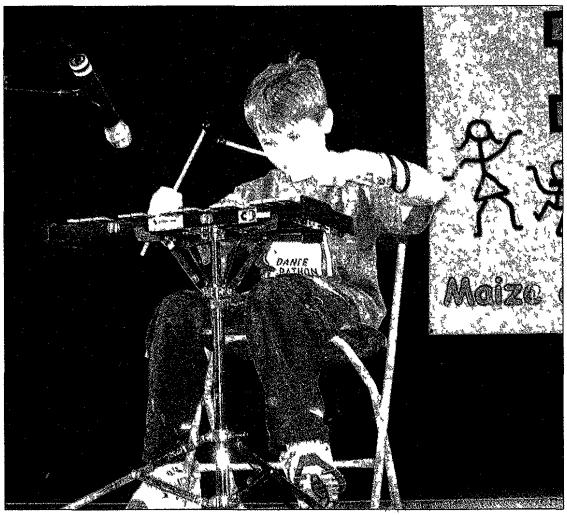

Students dance all night long to raise funds for children

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN Staff Writer

I pa Desai expects her legs to hurt as much as during the last three University of Michigan Dance Marathons The first 15 hours is usually a breeze for the 21-year-old U-M senior from Canton Desai prepares for the gruehing 30-hour event, as much as possible, by doing stretching exercises weeks in advance of the marathon to raise money for pediatric rehabilitation at C S Mott Childrens Hospital in Ann Arbor and William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak The cause is what keeps her coming back for punishment

"The marathon is so much fun and the pain of standing on your feet for 30 hours is worth it because you get to see how grateful the families are and basically forget about the pain,' said Desai, who volunteered at Mott while a student at Plymouth-Canton High School 'It's so important for the kids to get these therapies A day or two in pain is worth it During the dance I always have to get my ankles wrapped and just go on By the end you're ready to sit down, go home, shower

Briggs Perry plays his favorite song at last year's University of Michigan Dance Marathon. He was one of the first children to receive pediatric rehabilitation because of the fund raiser

"I wean myself off of caffeine because its not allowed during the marathon,' said Boyle, a 20-year-old junior studying psychology at U-M "This is my third year doing the dance marathon It's real easy when the children and families come to the marathon and they speak to you throughout the night and it keeps you inspired to keep going

Woodworkers to show their wares

Dan Reahard's love for 18th century furniture shows in the 107-inch tall clock in the family room of his Plymouth home The handcrafted work of art is among the many pieces of furniture he's created in the last 18 years of woodworking

On Sunday, March 12, the clock stays home but Reahard brings a turret leg card table to the Michigan Woodworkers Guild Showcase of Custom Woodworking at the Livonia Semor Activities Center, 15218 Farmington, between Schoolcraft and Five Mile

"I enjoy the history," said Reahard, a 65-year-old retiree who took woodworking classes at Mark Adams School in Indiana and The Olde Mill in- > Pennsylvania 'I just came back from a conference on 18th century carving in Old Salem, North Carolina, at the Mesda Museum of Early Southern Decorative Arts which is similar to Greenfield Village

For me, 18th century furniture is the high point I like using hand tools They didn t use power tools then particularly with the Queen Anne style which has more curves You have to use thick, big chunks of wood to do the curves"

In addition to Reahard, woodworkers from Michigan, the Midwest and Canada display work built in different period styles from various types of wood Also on exhibit will be prototype of toys that were handcrafted for patients at Children's Hospital of Michigan in Detroit Toys are delivered to the children each year before Christmas Over the last 24 years, members of the Michigan Woodworkers Guild have donated thousands of toys

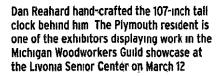

About 350 men and women belong to the Michigan Woodworkers Guild which meets monthly except for July Although some of the woodworkers will take commissions at the March 12 show, Reahard and the other exhibitors will not sell their wares

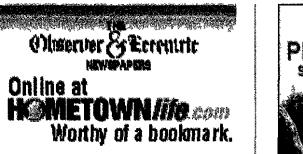

'I never sell anything," said Reahard, who's displayed his woodwork for 10 years "It's more show I just recently had one of my pieces accepted for a show (April 12 to May 28) for early period furniture makers at Telfair Museum in Savannah, Georgia '

Jim Kudej brings a variety of boxes,

The Dance Marathon is definitely one of Kyle Killebrew's best student experiences at U-M As special events chairman, the Westland resident is inviting everyone to attend the marathon Even non-dancers can help the cause by volunteering to boost the morale of fading participants

"You get to spend 30 hours with a bunch of your friends and enjoy entertainment, bands, performers, comedians As a dancer there's something going on every second whether it's a line dance or eating 6 times over the span of 30 hours," said Killebrew, a 20-year-old Franklin High School graduate who's hoping to go on to law school after earning a degree in political science

"The other really cool part is the way the marathon works As a dancer you re on a team which is assigned a family for not just this event but throughout the year You get really close to your family and see what your money, time and energy is going to'

In order to participate as a dancer, students must raise $250 or more in the name of UMDM, the nonprofit student organization

"We provide buckets for dancers to go somewhere popular and ask them to donate change, said Killebrew It is the biggest event of the year but we're a year-round organization with events and activities at least every other week - fundraising events such as a 5K run ın Ann Arbor March 19 Outside of fund-raising, there are events to meet the families with puppet shows and a magician for the children "

Dawn Ham Kucharski is looking forward to attending the marathon for a fourth year with her husband Richard, and son Alex, 7 Over the years Alex, a special needs child, has received martial arts, music and bicycleriding therapies through Mott Childrens Hospital A two-week summer camp allows him to ben efit from social recreational activi ties Alex was diagnosed with severe autism at 26 months and cerebral palsy at age 5

'Martial arts helped Alex to develop fine and gross motor skills that were affected by the cerebral palsy said Ham-Kucharski of Canton "Alex learned to do punching and kicking activities For a child with CP to be able to maintain that balance and get the mind to focus is huge Another benefit is the stretching involved because CP muscles tend to be tight and rigid

"At age 2 Alex was nonverbal and through music he was able to learn to communicate, fine motor coordination, and social tolerance

Ham-Kucharski will give a presentation showing the progress Alex has made since he was a premature baby weighing 3 pounds Without these kids Alex wouldnt have the physical, verbal or social capabilities that he has said Ham Kucharski They (UMDM) also send a letter of encouragement to Alex throughout the school year and on a separate day his team takes him out to Chuck E Cheeses his favorite place He has a blast.

The Dance Marathon runs from 10 a.m Saturday, March 25, to 4 p m Sunday March 26, at the Indoor Track and Field Building on the athletic campus at Hoover and State Street near Yost Ice Arena in Ann Arbor For more information or to make a dona tion, call (734) 615 1525, visit the Web site at www.umdm org, or send e mail to umdm info@umich edu

Shaker and bent wood, to the March 12 show The Livonia woodworker always makes smaller pieces including jewelry boxes, cribbage boards and bookcases to give to his family at Christmas time As a child, Kudejs grandparents owned a farm on the west side of state which was passed down to him Today, he continues to harvest and nurture the wood lots there Kudejs projects begin with him sawing down trees with a chainsaw

My kids like that family attachment to it, said Kudej 'I started cutting down trees in the 1970s during the first energy crunch when my parents owned it I would go and cut trees for the wood fireplace'

Kudej started working with wood out of boredom as a 10year-old He's continued for the last 50 years because of the challenge An engineer for the automotive industry for 40 years before retiring, Kudej always looks at an object to see how to make it better

We didn t have computers when I was young so I started making my toys in my dad s workshop, said Kudej "Back then most of the things were made with hand drills and saws

Coverage confusion

Senior citizens still bewildered by new Medicare benefit

Bill (left) and Sally Goosiin (right) meet with counselors Veronica Tyree, Joan Gentilia of Plymouth (at the computer), and Jo Ann Smith Taylor to discuss the new Medicare Prescription Drug coverage

Beverly Gustafson describes her feelings about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage with these words – angry and confused

The 79-year-old senior is not alone Sitting next to Gustafson at the Livonia Senior Center is Shirley Smith, 84, who complains constantly about Part D which became available on Jan 1 Neither has signed up as yet although both say they will in the next month or so

Before applying for coverage, Medicare recipients must choose from more than 60 insurance plan carriers in Michigan by visiting the Web site at www medicare gov or phoning (800) MEDICARE Both of those options can be disconcerting for seniors who frequently seek assistance at local senior centers and agencies on aging

If seniors wait until the last minute to apply, Kathleen Sweder worries that counselors like herself will be as overwhelmed in late April and early May as in November Sweder asks that anyone requesting help at the Livonia Senior Center, call her at (734) 466-2557 for an appointment

The Livonia Senior Center provides information on specific drug plans and enrollment 9 a m to 1 p m Wednesday, March 8, at the building on Farmington, south of Five Mile in the Civic Center complex Every Thursday at 1 30 p m staff from U S Rep Thaddeus McCotter s office help seniors make informed decisions regarding coverage

"It's usually people with higher prescription costs who are applying, said Sweder, the center's grant manager "People with fewer are waiting until the latest date they can without penalty"

Gustafson is one of the lucky ones because her doctor gives her the four medications she needs Smith doesn t take any prescriptions, but realizes eventually her health could deteriorate Insurance carriers do offer plans with lower premiums for those not taking any prescriptions or just a few

'GOOD RACKET'

I think it's a good racket for the insurance companies to make money,' said Gustafson, a Livonia senior who volunteers at the center with Smith "What makes me angry is the people who used to fill prescriptions have gone back (to the pharmacy since the coverage went into effect Jan 1, 2006) and the cost has gone up $10 to $20"

Smith says she will continue to complain until the problems are solved She is especially upset about paying higher premiums if she doesn't apply before the May 15 deadline

"I see that as a threat because they want us to commit to this," said Smith

Although Sweder encountered several delays and difficulties before and after receiving training on the coverage at a regional Medicare center, she thinks the worst is over Sweder has enrolled about 75 percent of the nearly 200 people she's counseled at the Livonia Senior Center Many have come in thinking they are automatically enrolled in an insurance plan They aren't Only Medicaid recipients were switched over to a Medicare prescription drug plan after Medicaid no longer provided coverage All other Medicare beneficiaries must apply

"For some people it's great," said Sweder "Just like anything new it will take a while to shake out The basic premise is wonderful

'One of the problems is that Medicare gives all of the information verbally (when they call) If they can't hear or see well, or have to go to the bathroom frequently, it's difficult for them to apply"

COMPUTER SKILLS

Many seniors who want to apply online don't have computer skills to use the Plan Finder tool on the Medicare Web site Counselors hke Sweder and Carrie Nicholson at the Area Agency on Aging 1B in Oakland County can sort out the confusion by going online to enter a senior's information including names of medications, dosages, how often taken, and their pharmacy so the Medicare beneficiary can then select a plan For an appointment in Oakland and Wayne counties or statewide, call the Michigan Medicare/Medicaid Assistance Program at (800) 803-7174 or visit www.mymmap.org

"It's been pretty rough," said Carrie Nicholson, Medicare Medicaid Assistance Program coordinator at Agency 1B which received 500 to 600 calls a day at the office in Southfield in December "There was a lot of miscommunication between Medicare, Social Security and insurance plans Seniors are not getting enrollment information in a timely manner or not at all Prescriptions aren t getting paid for and it's not getting any better Enrollment ends May 15 Hopefully by July or August the federal government will have better communication with insurance plans*

Until then Nicholson has a few tips for seniors Don't wait to enroll Even though coverage is effective the first of the month after enrollment, information takes one or two days to process and confirmation a couple of weeks so a senior might have to pay for drugs themselves

'If they think they qualify for extra help, call Social Security (1-800-772-1213 or visit www.ssa.gov) right away," said Nicholson "Again, it's better to call the beginning of the month and keep information and confirmation numbers in a safe place They won't be able to get their prescriptions unless they have enrollment confirmation and billing information for the pharmacist Just like when you go to the doctor, you have to bring your insurance card Even if they don't have plastic card you can show them the letter

EMERGENCY NEED

If seniors don't have confirmation yet, the Area Agency on Aging 1C (The Senior Alliance) in Wayne County offers this advice to the seniors they counsel 'If you cannot pay out of pockets and need your medications, call 1-800

MEDICARE Tell them there's an emergency need,' said Chris Kenzie, the agency's information and programs manager

The nightmare part is when we hear people are going without their medicine or paying hundreds of dollars If they call us. we try to help them walk it through

Agency IC usually receives phone calls only from those experiencing problems so it's difficult to assess the success of the Medicare Prescription Drug Improvement and Modernization Act of 2003 that was signed into law by President George W Bush

"Some of it seems to be working out fine Others have enrolled and are having difficulties getting prescriptions,' said Kenzie "We're trying to stay positive, but it is challenging The key is to encourage people

We tell seniors talk to your family and recruit some help Try to look at annual cost Sometimes folks get caught up in cost of deductibles or gaps in coverage Rather than focus on that, figure annual costs You hear about this doughnut hole, people falling through Sure there is a coverage gap when comparing someone with six medicines and 12 medicines The plan finder on line helps you to do that

The Area Agency on Aging 1B in Oakland County is looking for volunteers to train to assist seniors applying for the Medicare benefit They must know how to use the Internet For more information, call (800) 803-7174

SEEING THE DOCTOR

In treating arthritis doctors try to reach a state of patient stability That means you are taking the medicine you require in the dose you need

If this stability occurs your visits become less frequent and when you see the doctor the time you spend with him is short. When your routine with the office takes on this pattern you are tempted to skip a visit because you feel alright and the appointment is uneventful

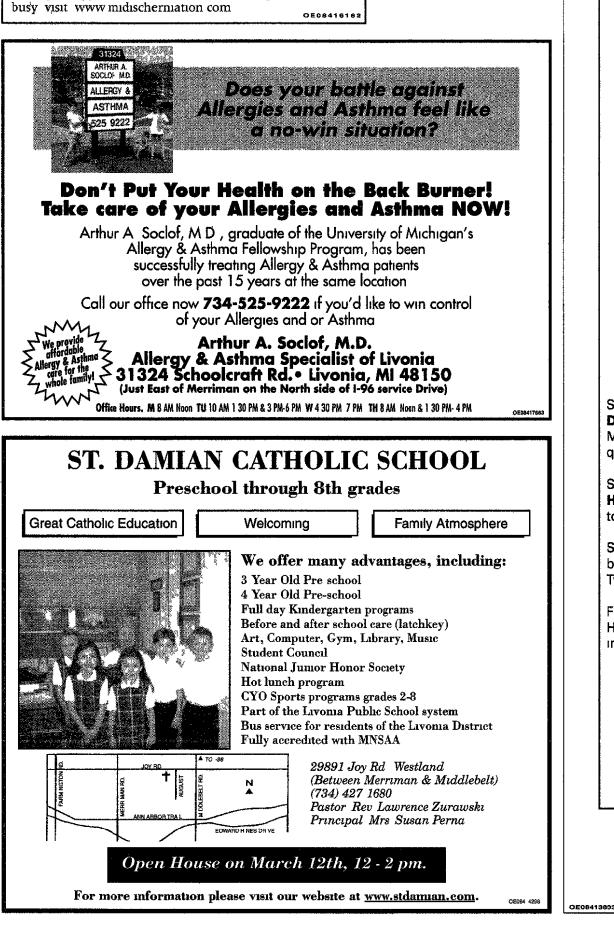

You can develop a similar attitude to laboratory appointments in the treatment of arthritis a number of drugs such as methotrexate immuran Arara and Enbrel can cause side effects to the blood liver and kidneys Your doctor orders laboratory work monthly to monitor these possible effects After months of normal results you may believe that the medicines won t effect you and there is no need to keep coming to the doctor's office just to show you are still normal

That view is incorrect it is necessary for your doctor to see you periodically to assure that you still need the same medicines in the same doses that your are taking now He has to speak to you to confirm that your health and other medications haven t changed in a manner to affect what he is prescribing for you

You need to continue to keep your laboratory appointments as the side effects of the medications may occur at any time. Also changes can happen in your body or from the interaction of other medicines so that formally harmless drugs become toxic. Obtaining the laboratory work regularily is the best protection against such possibilities.

Designer gives vintage jewelry a new look and life

By Erin Brown Bell 🕮 PINK Correspondent

""f you re searching for the perfect embellishment this season, you may want to look to local designer Calliope Zgouvas Known to friends and clients simply as 'Peppy, the St Clair Shores artist creates unique necklaces in her home studio by pairing vintage pieces like cameos, enamel pendants, rhinestone earrings and more with a variety of baubles and bangles for beautiful, eye catching adornment Zgouvas jewelry design business, called Treasures of Time, has branched into a booming cottage indus try in the last few years PINK recently sat down with Zgouvas to find out more about her one-of-a-kind creations

How did your interest in jewelry begin?

My dad was one that gave me my first piece of jewelry, and sort of started everything Also, my parents used to go to Mardi Gras in New Orleans every year, because I am originally from Alabama, so they'd always bring us the beads back, too

What types of materials are featured in your necklaces?

The beads are either some kind of a semiprecious stone like amethysts, garnets, quartz or fresh-water pearls, Swarovski

Treasures of Time will be among dozens of vendors at the Spring Fashion Gala hosted by the American Association of University Women Birmingham Branch When: 10 a m -4 p m Wednesday, March 8 Where: St George

Cultural Center, 43816 Woodward, Bloomfield Hills

Calliope Zgouvas wears What: Boutique one of her designs shopping, lunch, raffle prizes and a fashion show Tickets: $5, shopping only, $25 includes noon luncheon and fashion show, to benefit AAUW Information: Call (248) 851-2458 or visit www.aauw-birmmi.org

Crystal or sterling silver, so they are mcer quality Then the pendants are the very unique parts, they're the vintage things There are enamel pieces, rhinestone pieces, and they date from like the 1880s to the 1950s Its like a piece of history

Where do you find and purchase these pendants for your work? Some estate sales and a lot of traveling now Around here, it is so depleted — for years now, you can't find pieces Tennessee is awesome Kentucky is great, even Ohio, which isn t that far Arizona also has some really cool things

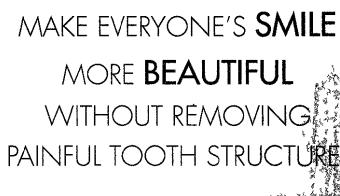

So you can wear one of your pieces with a business suit or an evening gown

Right, or even jeans And you can say your work is all one-of a kind, you're never going to find the exact same combination anywhere Ever'

Do people ever commission you to make special pieces?

They do I ve done many things for weddings, the first wedding was my own I did a cameo that my husband bought at an antique show and it was a big cameo and six strands of little tiny pearls with crystals But another thing I do for people is that they'll see my work and say Oh my gosh, my grandmother has a cameo like that, and I never wear it, but I like your jewelry," so I make a piece for them

Treasures of Time necklaces start at $150 and is avail able at www.vintagejewelrydirect.com or at boutiques including Janet Varner in Rochester Bellisima in Bloomfield Hills and Dancing Eye Gallery in Northville

Recruiters struggle to adapt as targets surge

(PRWEB) - Management consulting and IT consultancy recruiters revealed that they are struggling to meet a surge in demand for new hires Ninety percent of all recruiters in the sector believe the candidate market will be even tighter in 2006 than it was in 2005, leaving them with a candidate shortfall at a time when client demand is resurgent

With recruiters from the likes of Accenture, Capgemini and IBM gathered in London this week for the industrys annual recruiter conference. it was clear that the War for Talent 1s back on the agenda Difficulties in attracting sufficient talent into the sector were last an issue during the dot-com boom, when many consultants were lured to startups by the promise of Internet riches and share option schemes At the time, consulting firms were forced to hike remuneration considerably, to prevent resourcing constraints from becoming a hindrance to growth

Attendees at this weeks event confirmed that it is becoming increasingly diffi cult to attract candidate applications Even once applications have been generated and candidates have gone through the interview process, the likelihood of a management consultancy candidate accepting an offer has plummeted Multiple offers are now the norm, with candidates playing firms off against one another

Another major problem is that corporate Web sites are now more likely to turn a candidate off an employer than encourage them to apply The vast majority of corporate careers pages have been designed to minimize the workload of the HR team that processes the applications making them highly timeconsuming for candidates to use While a valid strategy for a recessionary market, in a boom market like 2006 it is critical that the candidate be made to feel highly valued and that they are sold to at every available opportunity Recruiters are struggling to adapt their company Web sites accordingly and so are likely to see fewer and fewer applications through this their only source of free hires Internet job boards, by comparison, are increasing their penetration and are highly likely to be used

The conference, organized by specialist recruitment Web site Top-Consultant com, attracted more than 700 registrations from recruiters compared with 250 this time last year

Home builders offer safe harbor amid area's economic waves

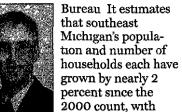

ome builders are the type of folks who look at land and see how communities can grow, who visualize framing families dreams

So it's no surprise that we recognize economic bright spots in southeast Michigan amid challenges for our region and state Without minimizing the forces reshaping Michigan, residential developers are heartened by new Census figures, by our industry's stability, by home values that keep rising and by other advantages for buyers in one of the most affordable U S housing markets

Naturally, we share confidence about Michigan's transition to a new era and recognize that the transition requires adjustments, endurance and resilience in our field as well as others

By adapting nimbly to business cycles that depend on outside forces such as interest rates, employment levels and tax policies, home builders are able to keep going amid economic slowdowns Now we see fresh signs that our carpenters, roofers, painters, masons, plumbers, electricians, landscapers and others will be active this year

One encouraging sign came early this year from the US Census

2000 count, with increases in six of the region's seven counties

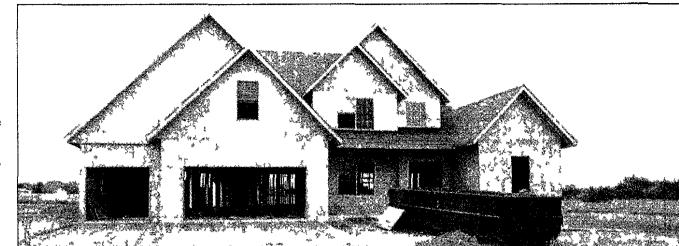

James

Census figures also show that our area gained more than 109,000 housing units during that same span, a 5 6-percent boost in nearly six years. More than half of the total results from heavy construction activity in Macomb and Oakland counties And this time, Wayne County was part of the region-wide increase

Last year, more than 17,700 housing permits were issued in Metro Detroit and surrounding counties with Oakland leading its neighbors at 3,292 new units

This steady pace shows why the housing industry remains vital to Michigan's economy Behind the homes, apartments and condominiums that rose from Brighton to Birmingham and from Woodhaven to Waterford are thousands of jobs, mil-

A continuing healthy residential construction industry will help Michigan's economic rebound lions of dollars in purchased goods and services, and expanded property tax bases for communities

Among the biggest beneficiaries, of course, are those turning the keys on new chapters of their lives under new roofs Thanks to the healthy construction market, first-time buyers and families on the move have a choice of styles, sizes, locations and price ranges that run from one-bedroom condos to custom estates Whatever they select, Southeast Michiganians are investing in something with consistent appreciation value — a rarity now Michigan prices of existing homes rose 4 percent in the third quarter of 2005 The result is affordable housing and realistic appreciation that can be sustained, a safe harbor at a turbulent time

Historically low interest rates are another positive indicator Mortgage rates should stay below 7 percent this year and perhaps next, industry analysts piedict Builders and home shoppers alike clearly have valid reasons for confidence in this segment of southeast Michigan's economy, which is as solid as the foundations of the 109,000 housing units built here so far this decade

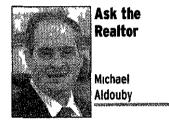

James P Babcock president of Babcock Building Inc in St Clair Shores heads the 2 400 member Building Association of Southeast Michigan based in Farmington Hills

Time to shop around: Look at your home inspection options

I am going to buy a house. Should I do a private inspection, and if so, what should I look for and what would kill the sale?

I highly recommend getting a private inspection After all you will be spending hundreds of thousands of dollars, it's worth the approximately $300 to lower the probability that you may get a big costly surprise after you buy the house

Some buyers, in order to save the expense, decide to do the inspection themselves or to ask "Uncle Bob" to do it for them I tell my buyers that this is a big mistake At the very least you or Uncle Bob probably don t have all the equipment necessary to do a thorough inspection Usually if there is a problem found in an inspection you have a few options You can

Ask the seller to fix it Request a repair allowance so you can fix it yourself

Offer less money for the house

Withdraw from the sale completely

The key is that because you have the right to end the transaction, the problem is now negotiable All of this depends on what is written in the purchase agreement However, almost all purchase agreements have an inspection contingency Often the seller agrees to fix the problem They usually realize that if your inspector found the problem, another one will, as well Therefore, it's a good idea to take care of it now

Another possibility is that the seller realized that the house has some problems and because of this adjusted the purchase price to reflect that repairs are needed If that is the case you may find it more difficult to get the seller to fix the problem This is often true regarding foreclosures and corporate relocation properties They often are offering the price below market value because they want to sell the property quickly and not be bothered with making repairs

Sellers may decide that they don't want to make repairs and offer you a repair allowance This way you can decide to fix it the way you want This could be an advantage if it involves carpeting or something decorative It gives you the power to decide for yourself what the end product will look hke

Usually what happens is that money from the seller is put aside and given to the title company to be held in an escrow account You then make the repairs, pay for them, give the receipts to the title company and you are reimbursed

The homeowners may decide not to negotiate about an issue This often occurs when it's an expensive problem to fix For example, the inspector might find there is a problem with the foundation which would cost mega bucks to fix The seller can decide that he isn t going to give on this issue You then need to make a decision You need to ask yourself whether its worth losing this house because of this issue Only you can make that decision If it's something small you may decide that you will repair it yourself

When it comes to buying a house remember that almost everything is negotiable, as long as it's in the purchase agreement If an issue is important to you make sure that it's indicated there · Walkouts and so much more. .

Chances are you created a project budget for your remodeling or construction project

But chances are just as good that you neglected to tack on an extra line item for added insurance

Your standard homeowners policy probably won't cover every aspect of the project Most home insurance is intended to protect what's already there, not what you plan to add, improve or renovate

Lost, damaged or stolen materials will need to be replaced

😤 If you don't take adequate security precautions, portions of a standard policy may be void

If a worker, neighbor or passerby is injured because of some lapse in the process that could be linked to you, you could be on the wrong end of a legal skirmish

It will be worth your time to invite your insurance agent for an informal discussion or walk-through of your project intentions

ł

The agent will be able to suggest riders to existing policies that won't cost an arm and a leg The riders will be for the term of the project itself

Eric Goldberg, associate general counsel of the American Insurance Association, says not enough homeowners bother to read existing policies to find what is covered, nor do they talk their plans over with their agent, who can recommend how to fill any gaps in coverage

Goldberg says homeowners should chiefly be concerned about liability For example, if any portion of your project would fall over or otherwise cause damage to neighboring property, you could be hable for repairs

Suggestions can range from roping off excavation holes to secure off-site storage of materials and appliances

If you live elsewhere during the renovation period, it may be recommended you hire a have original insurance documentation, too.

drive-by security service to check on the work site during evening hours

It will be advantageous to document all materials, safety measures and other insurancerelated steps you take Should an unfortunate event occur, you'll need such paperwork and perhaps photographic or video documentation

So what can you expect to pay for this protection? According to several insurance sources, the cost will vary by the size and scope of the project

Since the coverage is of limited duration, the cost of added coverage could be as little as an additional $200 to a high of roughly $750

Location or isolation of your home, availability of street lighting and nearby neighbors who can keep an eye open for cvents are also variables

On top of hability and theft coverage is a bump in total coverage for your home

"With the way real estate prices are going, if the improvement increases the overall value of your home, you ll need to be covered,"

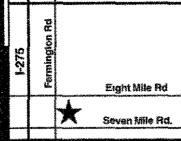

Goldberg said It can be particularly unfortunate if the house is damaged by fire or storms and you won't receive enough insurance proceeds to rebuild

Portions of the project will be covered by the policies of your contractor and subcontractors Sit down with your general contractor for their two cents on insurance issues

In any event, insist on viewing original copies of insurance policies Contractors should have policies for immediate display Don't accept photo copies, as these are easily altered

All subcontractors should have original insurance documentation, too

2006 Hyundai Tucson Limited beefs up SUV field

No, it's not your imagination, the roads of $\frac{1}{2}$ America are clogged with SUVs, of all sizes and from all manufacturers If you're shopping for an SUV, the choices can be overwhelming, and Hyundai has jumped in with another option to add to your menu – the 2006 Tucson Limited Hyundai is hoping the Tucson's combination of features and price will pull you into the showroom, and if it does, you might find yourself looking at a pretty decent small SUV

The Limited trim line replaces the LX version of the Tucson and is the highest trim line available on this SUV With the Limited, you'll get fog lights, body-side cladding, body-colored door handles and mirrors, a chrome rear accent trim, double-spoke alloy wheels and wider tires than the other versions, and those features compliment an otherwise average-looking SUV Roof rails are standard

The front-wheel drive Tucson is powered by a 2 7-liter V6 with an aluminum block and cylinder heads It's rated at 173hp at 6000 rpm, and 178 lb -ft of torque The V6 is mated with a fourspeed automatic transmission and is rated at 20/26 mpg on regular fuel The combination isn't going to win you Daytona, but provides enough power for smooth acceleration and passing on the highway While you can leave the shifting to the transmission automatically, it does allow you to shift manually, if you prefer

For some reason, I wasn't expecting much in the way of a decent ride with the Tucson, but I was pleasantly surprised For a small SUV, it actually gives you a comfortable ride The suspension system combines a MacPherson strut system up front with a fully independent strut rear suspension system that uses tailing arms and multiple links to control wheel geometry All four wheels are controlled by coil springs and fade-resistant gas charged dampers, and stabilizer bars are part of each axle's system Power-assisted rack-andpinion steering is standard, and with a 35 4-foot turning circle (curb to curb) the Tucson is easy to maneuver in parking lots and during U-turns

Inside is where the Tucson shows its value There a lot of standard features in the Tucson In fact, the only options you can order for the Limited are electronically controlled four-wheel drive and a power tilt-and-slide sunroof Keyless entry with alarm, automatic climate control system, power doors, windows and locks, cruise control, and power, heated mirrors are all included The standard audio system is a 200-watt AM/FM/cassette system with a six-disc CD changer and a subwoofer included The sound is very good, although the tuner is a little weak

The standard leather seats can be heated and are comfortable with good support The dash and controls are logical and well laid out There's plen ty of leg, shoulder and hip room up front, and lots of cargo space in the back, particularly when you \Im fold down the 60/40 rear seats

Hyundai is putting a lot of focus on the safety aspect of the Tucson, and it does have some good safety features Anti-lock brakes are standard, why they're not standard on every vehicle I have no idea All Tucson trim levels also have Electronic Stability Control (ESC) that includes traction control ESC compares the driver's intended course (based on steering and braking inputs) with the vehicle's response (based on lateral acceleration, yaw, and individual wheel speeds) ESC then brakes individual front or rear wheels and/or reduces engine power as needed to help correct understeer or oversteer In addition to the standard front air bags, the Tucson comes much with side-impact and side curtain airbags

The 2006 Hyundai Tucson Limited comes in at under $22,000 For a small SUV with the features included, it's a pretty good price Just one more good choice to add to your menu of small SUVs Good luck choosing
