Scam uses fear of medical emergency

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Township police are investigating two cases in which a scam artist took advantage of people who thought their loved ones were involved in serious accidents and needed immediate medical attention. The caller generally identifies himself as a police officer and asks if they have a relative who might be driving a vehicle at this moment, Plymouth Township Police Chief Tom Tiderrington said. After the victim reveals a possible name, the caller says the relative has been in a serious accident and needs to be airlifted to an emergency room. However, the victim first must transfer funds through Western Union to pay for medical services.

It happened to a 55-year-old Plymouth woman, who lost $940 March 29 when she wired the money through Western Union at the Kroger on Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon.

An 80-year-old Plymouth Township woman almost lost her $850 April 3 when she wired money from the same store. "There was an attempt to pick up the money, but the (Western Union) lady didn't release it when she suspected something," Plymouth Township Sgt. Dennis Wilson said. "In the meantime, the victim thought better of it, called her daughter, and then canceled the money transfer, thinking it was a scam. I don't know of any medical organization that wants money upfront," Wilson added. "These scam artists are just preying on people's emotions. The victims are put in a panic situation and probably giving out information they shouldn't be."

In both cases, according to Wilson, the money was wired to a Kroger store only a few miles away in Westland. "It's hard to track because you don't need identification to wire money under $1,000," Tiderrington said. "They use prepaid cell phones and unregistered cell phones, so tracking a number is impossible." Tiderrington noted while there's been more than a dozen of the scams reported in Michigan, it's occurring around the country. "If someone gets a call such as that, our suggestion is to take the information down and contact their local police," Tiderrington said.

Academy helps autistic kids reach their potential

BY BRAD KADRICH STAFF WRITER

When John Kim saw the kind of progress his son Scott was making at Lorraine Zaksek's Speech, Language and Sensory Motor Systems clinic in Plymouth, he urged Lorraine and her husband George to open a school dedicated to working with autistic children.

With a lot already on their plate, the Zakseks declined. But fate intervened when their daughter, Stephanie Naberhaus, returned to the area. It took another turn when the Zakseks attended a seminar about dealing with autistic kids.

That's what really got Lorraine Zaksek

"Some of the family testimonials were quite heart-wrenching," she admitted. "We were teary-eyed, and just at that moment John walked by. We grabbed him and said, 'OK, we'll do it.'"

Stephanie and her husband, Brad, took over the Plymouth clinic, and Lorraine and George Zaksek concentrated on opening Cross Bridge Academy, a school they designed for the development of educational programs for "children along the autistic spectrum" and those with significant language and sensory disorders.

The Plymouth Historical

Museum is hosting the last three parts of the series, 'Flags - History and Heroes,' 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 13. Then, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 11, speaker Kerry Chartkoff, Director of Capital Services in Lansing will talk about how Michigan gave over 80,000 men to fight for the Union cause during the Civil War. Each unit was a Regiment and each Regiment had a Regimental Flag. These flags were more than just symbols, they were carried through gunfire and chaos to lead men into battle. These symbols of bravery and loss on exhibit at our Michigan State Capital were restored and reproduced under the direction of Kerry Chartkoff so their history and their stories would be told to future generations. All programs are free and open to the public. For more information, visit the museum's Web site at www.plymouthhistory.org or call (734) 455-8940.

As memorial park comes together, capsules give glimpse of Plymouth's history

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

Organizers of the Plymouth Community Veterans Memorial Park were able to take a peek at Plymouth's past when they opened two time capsules found in the base of the Civil War statue known as The Lady.

The war memorial was moved Tuesday from its long time home in Riverside Cemetery to its permanent location at the new memorial park, which is being constructed in front of Central Middle School.

The first was put there in 1917, when the statue was originally in Kellogg Park, said Bob Zaetta, chairman of the Memorial Park committee. "The second one was put there in 1970, when it was moved to the cemetery.

The 1917 capsule contained several lists of men who served in the Civil War era and a newspaper. Zaetta said the second box, which was twice as large as the original, also had a newspaper, photographs of city officials and a booklet that had information about the city.

Plymouth Historical Museum Director Beth Stewart said the museum archives already had copies of everything in the two time capsules.

Museum workers helped to restore the documents that, surprisingly, weathered time fairly well.

The 1917 documents were in very good shape," said Stewart. They were sealed nicely and didn't get wet. "The seal on the 1970 box came loose and the box cracked," she said. The documents inside and photographs got pretty wet.

Stewart said they were able to restore some of the damaged documents.

They need a place where the materials can continue to get humidification.

them from getting any worse," she said.

The boxes, wrapped together with all-purpose duct tape, were put back into the statue on Wednesday, along with a third time capsule.

"We added some photographs of The Lady being moved from the cemetery, one of our fund-raising brochures, a Michigan quarter and a newspaper," said Zaetta. "(Committee member) Hal Young put in a pin that read 'Support Our Troops'."

Eventually, all five war monuments scattered throughout the city will find permanent homes at the Veterans Memorial Park.

Dedication ceremonies for the $561,000 project is planned for the Fourth of July.

 Plymouth-Canton Schools if elected to one of the two four-year seats on the Board of Education come May 2
 "I've seen several runs at the budget, and every time it worries me more and more," said Martin. "We're actually going to be borrowing money to pay teachers at the end of the next school year. We've got ourselves in a hole, with help from the state with the lack of funding, but I don't see the state bailing us out."
 Martin credits the current Board of Education for building a sizable equity fund, which has been used to balance budgets the past several years. However, Martin said deeper budget cuts should have been made.

 "I think the writing was on the wall last year, they needed to make more cuts," Martin said. "I think it's much better to make cuts each year, rather than wait for it all to build, and then make massive cuts."
 "We need more teacher input on what can be reduced, he said. They're the ones in the classroom, and they should be the last ones to feel the brunt. We need to start outside the classroom."
 Martin stopped short of saying he won't vote for the $120 million bond proposal on the ballot for renovations and new construction. However, to get a

"yes" vote from Martin will take a lot of convincing.
 "We really need the rooms in the elementary, middle and high schools are all crowded," he said. "But I don't know how we're going to be able to afford the overhead of the buildings. The first part of the bond is almost $2 million in operating budget, and the second part is about $500,000."
 If we're going to try and pass this bond, we need to know how we're going to open them," he said. "It's going to be difficult to have brand new facilities and staff them because we don't have the money. When you look at opening a pool, that's one teacher."
 Martin said he is in favor of building a second middle school in Canton, because with four of them in the Plymouths "we spend millions and millions and millions of dollars busing kids around the district."

 Martin - an engineer at a domestic automaker being economically challenged by foreign competition - is in favor of the tougher high school graduation requirements being handed down by the state.
 "We're in a global competition here," said Martin. "People in Japan are going to school six days a week, the Chinese are doing that. We continue to do business overseas, so we need to think globally, and that comes all the way down to students in this district."

 give her more opportunities to help shape young lives.
 "The youth are our treasure, our future, and it's so important to give them everything they can possibly have to be successful citizens," McKoy said. "Not everybody is going to be a straight-A student, but everybody has something they can give."
 McKoy joins seven other candidates vying for the two four-year seats in the May 2 board election, in which voters will also be asked to approve $120 million in bonds for renovations and new facilities throughout the district.
 Without second thought, McKoy said she's backing the two-question proposal.
 "As a resident, I'm interested in protecting the quality of education for our community that will continue to attract individuals to our community," McKoy said.
 McKoy is looking forward to the new Career and Technical Education Center, should the bond pass.
 "I think it's a great idea, because it's giving kids the skills they need for when they leave school and get a job, or even while they're still in school," McKoy said.

 As a result of budget deficits the past several years, McKoy said it's time to look elsewhere for much needed revenue.
 "I'm in favor of looking at other means of financing, namely from favorable corporations that would put a nice face on a school, and continue to pour finances toward our youth," she said.
 McKoy said she is in agreement with the new high school graduation standards being set by the state, and likes the opt out opportunity "if a student chooses to go with technical training."
 However, McKoy said the district should be prepared to support those students who need help in achieving the more stringent graduation requirements.
 "I'm for tutoring, and how we can assist children who are struggling, with any type of after school programs," McKoy said. "We want everybody to have the opportunity to graduate with as much as possible."

PSORIATIC ARTHRITIS TODAY
 Correct diagnosis of psoriasis and psoriatic arthritis while always important is more so today. The reason is because the medical community dermatologists and rheumatologists have better therapy than previously existed.
 The new therapy is the anti TNF class of medications of which Enbrel is typical. This class of drugs inhibits inflammation by blocking or neutralizing a chemical substance that attaches to outer surface of cells. Blocking this chemical substance stops a series of actions from cell surface to cell nucleus that would otherwise initiate a cascade of inflammation.
 When physicians use an anti TNF in psoriasis or psoriatic arthritis the involved skin and/or the inflamed joints respond even to the point of resolution of pain and deformity.
 Physicians must use anti TNF drugs cautiously. The medication has side effects of which the most important is to bring out latent tuberculosis or make you more susceptible to catching a fungal infection histoplasmosis. Oddly taking an anti TNF drug does not increase your risk of pneumonia from bacteria or the influenza virus.
 The other problem with this class of drug is the cost. The average expense is $1300/month or nearly $16,000/year. Even with insurance coverage the out of pocket dollars are too great for some patients.
 Doctors are careful in deciding on an anti TNF drug and use it only when indications for its initiation are compelling.

Work at Canton crash site wins cadet award

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

Theresa Barnhart doesn't think that what she did was a big deal, but those around her are of a different opinion.

That's why the sophomore at John Glenn High School will receive the JROTC's highest honor, its Medal of Heroism at an awards ceremony next month.

"I didn't think it would go this far," said Barnhart who is in her second year of the JROTC program. "I turned in the paperwork to the sergeant major and expected a column in the battalion newspaper."

The sergeant major is Sgt Maj Benjamin Brown, one of two JROTC instructors at the school. He's also the person who recommended Barnhart for the award.

"It's the first time in my career as a ROTC instructor that any one has won the award," said Brown. "Being a part of it is a new experience for me."

Barnhart is being honored for what she did on June 4, 2005. She was at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Canton when an accident occurred on Cherry Hill west of Lilley Road.

According to Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro, Barnhart and her mother Beth ran to the crash scene and rendered immediate assistance to the occupants of an overturned vehicle.

The car had flipped over and there were people inside, hanging upside down. Beth helped the driver who had sustained a serious head wound. She placed a bandage on the laceration and helped the driver to safety.

Barnhart crawled inside and stayed with the passengers, keeping them calm until fire personnel arrived. She also helped stabilize the neck of one victim to prevent further injury.

"Theresa's quick action and demeanor assisted in preventing further injuries to the crash victims by providing first aid at a serious injury crash, a response of an exceptional young person, Santomauro wrote in a Dec. 13 report to Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack recommending Barnhart and her mother for citizen recognition.

"I didn't think about it. I just went in," said Barnhart who ran barefoot through broken glass to get in the car. "I saw the accident and saw how bad it was, so I took my shoes off and ran. I was wearing flip-flops so it was easier to run without them."

According to Brown, Barnhart suffered cuts and bruises to her knees and feet and despite her injuries she remained calm and was able to assure the crash victims that help was on the way.

"A lot of people were just standing and looking and I thought, 'Why are you standing there? Why should be helping?'" she said.

Brown found out what Barnhart did two days later in e-mails from her mother and family friends. When he saw that the Canton Public Safety Department planned to honor the teen, he decided to write it up and send it up the chain of command.

He sent the paperwork off on

Nov. 30 and found out Feb. 1 that Barnhart was one of two cadets to receive the heroism award.

"I'm happy they approved it, happy that the Army considered it significant enough for such a high honor," he said. "It recognizes that not too many people at her age would have jumped in like that."

Barnhart credits the JROTC program for the skills she used at the crash scene. She had learned the signs of shock and while the passengers she helped were cold, she determined that none of them were near that condition.

In addition, Canton's Citizens Recognition, Barnhart has also been honored by the Wayne Westland school board.

Board member Cindy Schofield presented the award to Barnhart, telling her that "if I'm ever in an accident, I hope some kind soul like you is there to comfort me."

In accepting it, Barnhart thanked school officials for bringing the JROTC program to the high school. She also had a special thank you for Brown.

"I want to thank the sergeant major for teaching me every thing I knew and for giving me courage to do what I did," she said.

WOW! Country Living Magazine showcases club, co-founder

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

Mary Denning has a sweet reputation, sweet enough to earn national recognition for herself and her favorite group, the Women of Westland. Country Living magazine named Denning as one of six finalists in its Comfort Contest, which landed the owner of Mary Denning's Cake Shoppe mention in its May issue.

"It's kind of nice, but it would have been nicer to win the $5,000 grand prize, we could have done a lot with that," said Denning who is the WOW president. "But it's still pretty cool."

Some 800 individuals from around the country were nominated for the comfort they bring to their communities through "good deeds, acts of kindness and volunteer efforts" by working with an established, recognized organization or charity.

Ironically, it was Denning who saw the advertisement for the contest in the magazine and told fellow WOW member Robin Cooke that the club needed to nominate someone. Cooke decided Denning was the best candidate.

"She's the unsung hero in the group," said Cooke. "She works behind the scenes and doesn't want the attention. It's amazing the amount of time she puts in."

While "it's nice to be recognized," Denning admits she prefers to let others have the attention. She has more than enough accolades - Woman of the Year, Westland ATHENA Award, Wal-Mart Business Person of the Year, to name a few.

"I don't want this to be the Mary Denning Club," she said. "WOW has a lot of great women and they all need to shine. I want WOW to take credit for what we do."

Denning has been at the helm of the organization since she and Mary Gregosky founded it in 2000, helping build it into a 40-member group that has raised some $50,000 to benefit women and children in Westland and neighboring communities. Their inspiration was the Garden City Business and Professional Women's Club. They attended a meeting, saw what they were doing and decided they could do that.

WOW affiliated with the Westland Chamber of Commerce to start and eventually decided to become its own nonprofit. With the money it has raised, among other things, it has helped provide a playscape at the Rose F. Kennedy Respite Center and provided Barbara Douglas scholarships, including four this year, for women returning to school.

Everything that comes in goes back into the community, said Denning. "Our only cost is half of a phone bill."

The group's involvement reads like a who's who of the city. It has helped the Westland Goodfellows, Westland Historical Society, the Wayne Westland Community Schools' Red Wagon Literacy Project and the Westland Relay for Life. It also provided 300 pairs of socks for the victims of Hurricane Katrina who relocated to the Detroit area.

But the crowning achievement may well be WOW's annual Chocolate Fantasy Ball which serves as the backdrop for the presentation of the Westland ATHENA Award, and it is Denning who puts the chocolate in the name.

In its second year, the ball raised $17,000 for WOW programs. It also has caught the attention of ATHENA International which will have Cooke speak at its international convention at the end of this month about the Westland program.

"They see our program as a hallmark example of how to run a successful ATHENA program," said Cooke. "People are starting to recognize what we do and generate more funds to give away."

While Denning didn't get the cash, as a runner-up, she did receive a handcrafted Country Living Collection quilt and several copies of the magazine. But that's OK. She plans to use it in a raffle to raise money for WOW.

Mary is a positive, upbeat person," said Cooke. "She does all this and runs a successful business. She's like my idol. If I keep up with Mary, I'll be successful."

Bill would maintain amount of state land available for hunting

A plan to protect 4.5 million acres of state-managed hunting land as the Department of Natural Resources continues to implement its land consolidation strategy is being introduced by a local legislator. State Rep. Jim Plakas (D-Garden City) announced plans to introduce the Michigan Hunting Heritage Protection Act. "Hunting is a tradition and an economic driving force in southeast Michigan and throughout our state," Plakas said. "This tradition is passed down from one generation to the next going back to our grandparents' grandparents Michigan's great outdoors is a vital part of our heritage and we must do everything within our power to protect it." The Democratic plan would require that there is no net loss of state-owned hunting land in Michigan. Any public hunting land that the state sells would have to be replaced with an equal amount of public hunting land. Michigan has 8 million acres of public hunting land, with 4.5 million acres managed by the Department of Natural Resources.

Michigan has more than 750,000 hunters, ranking the state third in the nation in licensed hunters, according to the DNR. Hunting significantly bolsters Michigan's economy by $2.5 billion every year, the DNR reported, and contributes an estimated $1.3 billion directly to the state's economy every year. In addition, because many residents plan trips around hunting seasons, peripheral spending at local hotels, restaurants and other businesses rakes in an additional $1.2 billion for Michigan's economy.

DFCU Financial members battle switch to bank

BY DAN WEST
STAFF WRITER

A group of DFCU Financial members are banding together to oppose an effort by the credit union's board of directors to convert the not-for-profit credit union into a for-profit mutual savings bank. The charter conversion needs the approval of a majority of DFCU members who participate in the ongoing election via mailed ballot or in person during a June 21 meeting. The credit union is offering a chance to win cash prizes to members who vote. The protesting credit union members said the conversion would result in less membership control with plans to sell stock. They added there will be increases in fees, penalties and rates for loans. Credit union management maintains there will be no change in the cost for banking services or the atmosphere at the institution's seven metro Detroit locations, including those in Livonia, Canton and Garden City. "We see no benefit at all," said Margaret Blohm, spokeswoman for the protesting membership group called DFCU Owners United. "If there is no benefit for the members, then there must be a benefit for the insiders, which would result in lost benefits for the members." DFCU Owners United was scheduled to be at DFCU Financial locations Saturday to walk picket lines and collect at least 500 signatures from qualified members needed to call a special meeting of the board of directors. The group will also hold an informational meeting at 7 p.m. Monday at O.L. Smith Middle School in Dearborn, located on Michigan Avenue, just east of Telegraph. "We're getting the word out so the members know what's at stake," said Blohm, a DFCU member for 28 years. "We want to make sure they get out and vote." In literature distributed to DFCU Financial's 160,000 members, management encourages the conversion into a mutual holding company because it will enable the institution to maintain long-term competitiveness in an economically challenged region. They report the change in legal structure will allow DFCU to raise capital, serve anyone in the market and expand to maintain the "outstanding service" members expect. Also, DFCU Financial (formerly Dearborn Federal Credit Union) reports members will not lose voting rights, even if they do not own stock, and a mutual savings bank cannot be sold to a commercial bank without the approval of DFCU board and members.

Canton woman celebrates her 100th birthday

BY CAROL MARSHALL
STAFF WRITER

Rosa Chase shook her head and laughed when she heard the question - again. What's the secret to living to the age of 100?

"I don't know a secret," she said. "I just live." Maybe it's all the walking she has done, having never owned or driven a car. Or maybe it's that women in her family live long - her mother and aunt, specifically. Or it could be good friends, who gathered for a belated birthday party for Chase this week.

Chase's 100th birthday was back on March 1, but she and a dozen of the original residents of Canton Place, a senior high-rise community on Ford Road in Canton, got together for lunch and cake Thursday, and took some time to look at Chase's life and talk about the time they've been able to share together since they moved into the building in 1989.

It hasn't been an easy 100 years, according to Chase's daughter, Kay Kenny of Canton's Rosa Chase said there are no secrets to reaching her 100th birthday, which she did last month.

Canton

"She always had to work and she raised four children," Kenny said, adding that Chase's oldest child died last year.

But Chase has a few stories to share, and her children and grandchildren enjoy them so much they've become a sort of family lore.

Chase (then Rosa Myra Carrier) was born in 1906 and grew up in Grand Rapids, Minn. When she was 18, her father and oldest brother headed to Detroit to find work at Ford Motor Co., but never did. Instead they found other jobs (her father was a carpenter and her brother was a barber) and soon after sent for Chase's mother and her.

Chase's mother sold the family's home in Minnesota for $500, and used the money to buy a new Model A Ford, which she drove to Detroit over washboard roads. They made it just fine, and Chase has lived in southeastern Michigan ever since.

She now enjoys good health, plenty of time with family and friends, and as much as her eyesight will let her, arts and crafts, knitting and reading.

Cross Bridge to seek a new home this year (they'll move into Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton next year). Since John Kim had talked them into the school in the first place, Kim - who owns Compass Cafe in downtown Plymouth - stepped up and helped them out.

Kim agreed to build out the lower level of the cafe to give the school a place to help the children.

"I can't say enough about (Kim), Lorraine Zaksek said. 'Certainly he wants what's best for the students. His goal is to bring this to as many children with autism as possible. He's very dedicated.'

The Zakseks went about assembling a professional team and designing a program that helps children who are 'at a point where they learn best in an individual environment,' Zaksek said. Each classroom at Cross Bridge is designed for one teacher and two aides.

They teach using the "Association Method, a phonetic, multi-sensory teaching and learning strategy specifically designed for language deficient children. The method incorporates auditory, visual, tactile and kinesthetic cues for learning and has individual teaching time woven into all group-learning activities.

The Association Method was originally designed to help teachers deal with profoundly deaf children, but Zaksek said there are many similarities.

"Many inherent characteristics of this program are suitable for language-impaired kids," she said. "The method builds comprehension of language, reading and writing at the same time. It's very multi-sensory."

According to Zaksek, Cross Bridge students get three hours a week of occupational therapy and an hour of speech and language therapy in a curriculum that's big on social skill development. She said classically autistic children have complex disorders that would be easy to misconstrue.

It would be easy to think these children are cognitively impaired, Zaksek said. But with specialized techniques, we're finding many of them might even be gifted.

The biggest challenge, according to the teachers charged with executing the program, is making it specific to each child.

In a school like this, (the biggest challenge) is trying to individualize it, said teacher Leah Inman, who has a bachelor's degree in special ed from Western Michigan, with endorsements in emotional impairments and learning disabilities. "You have to make it unique to each student's needs, so they get the most out of the program."

Joy Muscat worked at Speech & Language with Zaksek, and moved with her to Cross Bridge, where she's a teaching assistant. She said she felt "a little lost" the first year because everything was so new. Now in her second year, Muscat is finding her way.

It's very rewarding, Muscat said. "The kids are so smart, so intelligent."

The kids at Cross Bridge are now reading at a kindergarten or first grade level, something Zaksek thinks shows how far the kids can come.

They've made a lot of progress, she said. One of the biggest thrills for us is seeing children who might otherwise be overlooked demonstrate their potential.

State immigration proposals revive Know Nothing spirit

My ancestors all came from Ireland I've never explored the family genealogy but both paternal and maternal sides of the family tree probably made their way here before 1900 and some probably as far back as the 1840s in the first rush of Irish Catholics escaping the potato famine

I don't know if all my ancestors made their way into the country through their legal channels I suppose some could have hidden in a tramp steamer and then made off in a small boat once they got close to New York City or maybe they were legally allowed into Canada and then crept over the border through Maine or Vermont from Quebec

Don't know if any of them were Fenians, on the lam from British justice as terrorists and agitators against British rule in Ireland

Probably not My paternal grandfather, for whom I was named, was pretty strait-laced He worked more than 50 years on the Lackawana Railroad as a switchman beginning in 1906 According to an article in the Lackawana company magazine in 1954 he had a perfect safety record on a dangerous job He was given the Orchid of the Month Solid, hard-working and I suspect his parents were as well He went to Mass every morning before work

When my ancestors arrived they encountered numerous "No Irish Need Apply" signs for any but the most menial and dangerous occupations They gravitated to the coal mines and railroads "They" and "their" foreign religion were the particular targets of the Know Nothing Party, a remnant of the Whigs before the Civil War "They" would be joined in time by Italians, Jews from Eastern Europe, Poles and other groups

State Rep Robert Gosselin, R-Troy, would be a Know Nothing if the party still existed He is the sponsor of an 11-bill package that he calls "Michigan Citizens First" which seeks to create residency and citizenship requirements for financial assistance including scholarships, education grants and state-funded mortgage programs

This is all part of a concerted effort nationally and in the state to deal with the problem of illegal immigrants On Friday, the U.S. Senate shelved a compromise bill that would allow some illegal immigrants (those here more than five years and able to pay a fine and back taxes) to eventually work toward citizenship The bill requires immigrants who have been here less than five years to touch back with their home country before being allowed back into the United States and would send illegal immigrants with less than two years back to their countries of origin It would also beef up border security to prevent more illegals from arriving and penalize businesses that hire illegals

The Senate compromise had won the favor of President Bush and but faced stiff opposition from Senate conservatives and the House, which passed a tough bill in December making illegal immigration a felony and created stiff new fines for employers who employ illegal immigrants It also would extend a physical wall along the 700-plus-mile border with Mexico in addition to other security measures

Illegal immigration is a problem An estimated 10 million to 12 million people are in this country illegally Conservatives argue that any plan to allow these immigrants to become legal residents constitutes amnesty (which is apparently a very scary word) But, also, labor unions argue that illegal aliens in some parts of the country drive down wages and that immigrants are exploited by employers who underpay them and don't provide proper safety and health protection Though most unions oppose the House approach

There are security issues, crime issues and lost tax income

It's a tangled web and needs to be addressed But the package "Michigan Citizens First" is a misguided, xenophobic mess Any bills that require citizenship to receive benefits would deny benefits to taxpaying legal immigrants The bills also seem based more on notions than actual information

In a story Thursday Gosselin said, "I don't know what it would mean in terms of economics if we clamped down on illegal immigrants But I do know that it's costing us right now We pay for it through out hospitals and our schools Our systems are being overtaxed and drained dry" (By an estimated 150,000 illegal immigrants in a population of nine million?)

What these proposals do is penalize hardworking people who want to be even more productive by getting an education, buying a home, putting down roots and paying taxes It's just a slap at people already on the lowest rung of our society It's legislative bullying

Gosselin also argues that Michigan lost representation in Congress to California because of all the illegal immigrants there Wouldn't that be an argument for inviting more illegal immigrants to Michigan rather than driving them down to California and Texas? Talk about Know Nothing!

Once again, case of the Oakland County child killer taunts us

With the possible exception of Jimmy Hoffa's disappearance, I can't think of another crime that has gripped Oakland County so strongly for so long as the Oakland County child murder case

Nearly 30 years after four children were abducted, including one from in front of a store on Maple near Woodward in Birmingham, police continue to investigate the case, hoping to find a clue before it is too late to ever solve it

The killer, if he is still alive, is getting older

Most recently, police had planned to go down to a prison in Indiana to interview a potential suspect It's not the first time police have held out hope that the crime will be solved - eventually

And it's not surprising that so much effort has been devoted to this long investigation This is truly a heart-breaking case

Mark Stebbins, 12, Jill Robinson, 12, Kristine Mihelich, 10, and Timothy King, 11, were abducted and murdered between

December 1976 and March 1977 Timothy was abducted in Birmingham Their bodies were found scattered from the side of I 75 in Troy to a ditch in Livonia At least two of the kids had been sexually assaulted

There were scant clues - a blue AMC Gremlin may have been involved - but it was never found In fact, nothing ever came of any clue, tip, lead or hope that the case would ever be solved

For several years I knew Jerry Tobias while he was on the Bloomfield Township Board of Trustees Tobias, who was once the Franklin Village police chief, was part of the Oakland County child killer investigation team from the beginning He never gave up the search

From time to time he would give me updates on the case In particular I remember one Saturday when he called me at home There had been a break in the case, he said He was confident that at last there might be a resolution at any time That was about five years ago

Nothing came of it, just as nothing came of all the other leads that glowed red hot only to fade over the years

Jerry died in January 2004 I know that if he had only one regret in life it was that he couldn't crack this case It meant a lot to him It's hard to get excited anymore when someone says there's a new lead in case Just as they tear up the countryside from time to time in search of Jimmy Hoffa, the hunt for the Oakland County child killer goes on

For several years I knew Jerry Tobias while he was on the Bloomfield Township Board of Trustees. Tobias, who was once the Franklin Village police chief, was part of the Oakland County child killer investigation team from the beginning. He never gave up the search.

And on Despite the years, this must be dreadful for the families of the children But what could be worse than thinking that somewhere out there the killer is still free

Or maybe not It's been speculated the killer never struck again because he is in prison on some other charge Or he may be dead Or maybe he did kill again somewhere else and the cases were not linked

Or maybe

That's the frustration The most dedicated investigators and most sophisticated police work haven't been able to solve these murders

That's not without precedent Back in 1888 the most famous serial killer of all time murdered five women in one of the largest, most sophisticated cities in the world. Yet Jack the Ripper was never caught and has grown to legendary status, in a perverse way

The Oakland County child killer won't achieve the notoriety of Jack the Ripper But that doesn't make this case any less painful

The identity of Jack the Ripper likely will never be known, but there still is hope that this case will be broken Unless the killer operated alone and never spoke about his acts to anyone, someone out there knows who he is

And maybe

Its geothermal heating system extends 300 feet underground

Its living, green roof insulates against summer's scorching sun and winter's biting cold

Its sweeping glass wall dominates the campus quadrangle, providing grandeur to the center where students go to change a class, get financial aid or look for a job

It's the $13.9 million A. Alfred Taubman Student Services Center and it will be dedicated Friday at Lawrence Technological University in Southfield

The center's environmentally-friendly features are more than talking points, said Joseph Verysar, associate dean of the LTU College of Architecture and Design

They're examples of LTU practicing the cutting-edge technology students need in their professional careers, Verysar said earlier this week while previewing the newest structure on the 125-acre campus

Environmentally-friendly design is important as companies look for ways to conserve energy, Verysar said

And LTU students are expected to be familiar with them, said Ann Knecht, an architecture student from Ann Arbor "Companies want us to know something about them," she said

Andrea Lazar, a student from Farmington Hills, said she is anxious to put some of those concepts into practice "They're important when I look at a company (as a perspective employer)," she said

The building is designed as a living laboratory, said Bruce Annett Jr., executive director of marketing and public affairs, in compliance with LEED™ (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design)

certification

Here are some of the building's features

■ It has no boiler, furnace or gas meter

Water is circulated in 88 geothermal wells - each as deep as the nearby Southfield Town Center across is tall - which help heat the building in winter and cool it during the summer

■ It has a living, green roof
Nine different species of sedum ground cover on most of the 10,000-square-foot roof provides more effective insulation. The living roof also absorbs about 60 percent of rainwater, with the rest recycled as 'gray' water used for flushing toilets and irrigating the adjacent campus quadrangle

The roof is expected to last about 40 years, or more than twice the life span of those constructed with traditional materials, according to designers

■ Its photovoltaic panels convert sunlight into electricity. Students designed and built a photovoltaic demonstration system on the roof of the engineering building that converts the sun's rays into enough electricity to power a large home

If AD's leave, P-CEP athletics will suffer

Ed Wright

Even though my job requires me to focus more on scoring averages than grade-point averages, I'm certain of this: Academics form the central nervous system of every school district.

Without a healthy, well-rounded educational structure, school districts would be weak, stagnant and detrimental to the students they serve.

But as someone who has witnessed literally hundreds of high school sporting events over the past two years — from state championship football games to out-of-the-lime-light freshmen baseball games — I'm also sure of this: While academics serve as the brain of a school district, athletics make up the heart.

There is nothing that strengthens a school's pulse more than a bonding, feel-good, successful run by one of its athletic teams.

And few things build more confidence, self-esteem, camaraderie and just plain old exuberance in a student than participating on a sports team, no matter if that team goes 20-0 or 0-20.

HEART OF THE MATTER

Now, I'm not a cardiologist (and I didn't stay at a Holiday Inn Express last night), but I'm reasonably confident of this: If a budget-cutting plan aimed at saving the Plymouth-Canton School District $30,000 a year forces the three current P-CEP athletic directors to depart — which it may — then the heart of the "Park" will lose a significant percentage of

One of the most impressive winning streaks in area high school athletics ended Thursday afternoon.

At the same time, another one may have started.

When Plymouth's boys track team upended Canton, 89-48, in the season-opening dual meet for both teams, it snapped the Chiefs' streak of 21 straight victories. Canton's last loss before Thursday came on May 14, 2002, when it dropped a close decision to Livonia Churchill.

With the triumph, the Wildcats may be starting a long and illustrious streak of their own. That's the word from Canton coach Bob Richardson, who came away impressed by the Wildcats' depth.

'I always said that when they get all four classes in there that they'd be very good, and they are. I give a lot of credit to coach (Kurt) Britnell and his staff. They've done a nice job.'

I always said that when they get all four classes in there that they'd be very good, and they are, said Richardson, referring to Plymouth's first team with seniors. I give a lot of credit to coach (Kurt) Britnell and his staff. They've done a nice job.

All streaks have to come to end some time like ours did on Thursday. Now we can start a new one.

Many stars shined for Plymouth, most notably seniors D J Coleman, who won the 100-meter dash (11.3) and the 200-meter dash (23.3) while contributing to the Wildcats' winning 400-meter relay team, and Anthony Scaparo, who turned in gold-plated efforts in the 1,600-meter run (4:58.1) and 3,200-meter run (10:36.4). Scaparo also ran the third leg of the Wildcats' first-place 3,200-meter relay team.

Other individual Plymouth firsts were garnered by Cam Scharchburg (high jump), LaBroderick Caldwell (long jump), Ben Ambrose (pole vault), Nate Gholston (110 high hurdles) and Sean Dillon (800-meter run).

The Chiefs received first-place points from Steve Paye (discus), Ryan Jonik (shot put), Cyrus Azizi (400-meter run) and Tim Belcher (300 high hurdles).

Plymouth won three of the four relays.

Churchill outruns Salem, 93-44

The Salem girls track team had its moments Thursday afternoon in the season-opening dual meet against Livonia Churchill.

Unfortunately, the Rocks didn't have nearly enough to stay with the speedy Chargers, who pulled away for a 93-44 victory in a meet held at the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park's varsity stadium.

"Our seniors performed very well today," said first-year Salem coach Julie Montgomery. "Brittany Lockhart, Allison Janda and Dana Eldred all had really good performances."

Lockhart was phenomenal, turning in first-place efforts in the 100-meter high hurdles (16.1 seconds), 300 hurdles (46.9) and long jump (15 feet, 9 inches).

Janda won the 800-meter run (2:35.7), was second in the 400 (1:04.6) and anchored the Rocks first-place mile-relay foursome.

Eldred found success in many of the same events as Lockhart, placing second in the 100 hurdles (17.6), the 300 hurdles (53.7) and the long jump (14-10).

Other than Janda and Lockhart, the lone Rock to earn an individual first was junior Hannah Cavicchio, who won the 3,200-meter run in 11:56. Brittany Jones was second in the 100-meter dash (13.6) and Karlin Heaney was third in the 400 (1:05.9).

"Churchill has a strong team and they're going to have a very good year," said Montgomery.

The Rocks return to action Wednesday when they travel to Walled Lake Central to take on the Vikings. The field events are set to begin at 3:30 p.m.

Thundering Storm

Whalers drop opener of OHL semis

Even though it finished 40-24-1-3 during the regular season, it's fair to say the Guelph Storm flew under the radar during much of the Ontario Hockey League's regular season.

But the Storm showed why it is a potential threat to go far in the OHL playoffs as it specialized in defeating the Plymouth Whalers, 4-1, in the opening game of the best-of-seven OHL semifinal playoff series played Friday night at the Compuware Sports Arena.

Guelph built a 3-0 lead after one period on two power-play goals and a short-handed effort, and it protected the lead the rest of the way.

Matt D'Agostini led the Guelph attack with a goal and assist, and was named the game's first star. Mark O'Leary also had a goal and assist for the winners, while Mike McLean added a short-handed goal and Jason Pitton scored an empty-netter. Andrew Fournier scored the lone Whaler goal — his fourth of the playoffs — in the second period for Plymouth. Ryan McDonald was solid in goal for Guelph, stopping 23-of-24 shots. McDonald lowered his league-leading goals-against-playoffs average to 1.23 while raising his league-best save percentage to .951.

With his team trailing 3-1, Fournier scored at 11:44 of the second period when he capped good Plymouth pressure in the Guelph zone. Defenseman Derek Merlmi intercepted a Guelph clearing pass at the blue line and found Fournier at the top of the left circle. Fournier snapped the shot, top shelf, by McDonald. Plymouth continued to apply pressure for the remainder of the game and pulled Peters following a timeout with 16:2 seconds left in the third period. But Pitton picked up Ryan Parent's clearing pass on the left wing in the Plymouth zone and scored.

Game 3 of the series is set for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Compuware Arena.

All-Observer gymnasts vault past their opponents

Only a freshman, Salem's Katie Koetting earned All State and All Observerland honors this season. She is pictured above in the Rocks' dual meet with Canton earlier this year.

FIRST TEAM
Andrea Pisani, Jr., Livonia: The junior overcame an early-season injury to post a solid season. Pisani shined at the Division 1 state meet, finishing ninth on the balance beam, fourth in the floor exercise and seventh all-around.
 "Andrea amazed everyone the way she came back to full strength following her injury," said Livonia Unified coach Christa Hinderliter. She will be the captain for her Churchill team next year, which is well-deserved."

Alyssa Kelley, Jr., Canton: The junior, who was elected by her teammates to serve as a captain next season, was a Division state champion on the vault, setting a school record of 9.75. She is a member of the Academic All-State squad and an Elite All-American.

"Alyssa has had a terrific year setting the school all-around record and leading her team to a Division championship in the Western Lakes Activities Association," said Canton coach John Cunningham.

Katie Koetting, Fr., Salem: Only a freshman, Koetting earned All-State recognition for her Top 10 all-around finish at the Division 1 state meet.

"Katie was probably our most motivated and enthusiastic gymnast," said Salem coach Dana Driscoll. "She is an extremely hard worker which was great because it's contagious and it rubbed off on the other girls. If she could, she'd be in the gym 24/7 training."

Alyssa Supplee, Sr., Livonia: The senior enjoyed a stellar season, recording record scores on the beam (9.625) and in the all-around (37.40). She turned in an outstanding performance at the Division 1 state meet, placing ninth in the vault, fifth on the uneven bars, third on the balance beam and third all-around.

"Alyssa has been an outstanding co-captain for us the past two years and helped lead the team to a 22-0 dual-meet record," said Hinderliter.

Kate Staley, Jr., Canton: Staley was an Academic All-State selection and earned All-American status this past season. "Kate had an exceptional year, setting personal bests in all her events, including a 36.775 all-around," said Cunningham. "She was voted our team's 'Most Improved Gymnast,' which was a well-deserved honor."

Sarah Bugosh, Jr., Salem: The junior captain proved to be one of the Rocks' steadiest performers this season. She saved her best for the Division 1 Regional when she placed near the top in the all-around.

"Sarah was a great leader and motivator for us," said Salem coach Dana Driscoll. She really worked hard. Sarah had some setbacks early in the season, but she kept doing what she had to do.

Her best event was the beam. She only fell once all season.

Paige Albers, Sr., Livonia: A two-year co-captain, Albers sparked at the Division 1 state meet, placing third on the vault, first on the floor and seventh all-around.

"Paige really came into her element this past season," said Hinderliter. "She had a record on floor with a 9.75."

Kara Ahern, Sr., Canton: Ahern raked in several awards during her final year at Canton, including the "Senior Gymnast of the Year Award," Academic All-State honors and Elite All-American status.
 "Kara has been a happy, friendly, helpful team leader who tied two school records in her career at Canton," said Cunningham.

Paula Guzik, Fresh., Livonia: The first-year competitor placed fifth on the vault at the Division 1 state meet with a dazzling score of 9.525.

"Paula's first year out on the team proved to be a huge success," said Hinderliter. "As the season went on, she gradually improved her skill level and realized her potential and where she fit on this team. Her desire to succeed was evident at every competition. I am sure you will see more good things to come from this freshman next year."

Jessie Murray, Soph., Canton: Murray, a sophomore, qualified for the Division 1 state meet in the all-around.

"Jessie is right at the break-out point when she moves from the strong 36 all-around

Okola paces Wildcats' win

BY ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER
 Canton's girls track team saw plenty of Plymouth sprinter Stephame Okola Thursday afternoon
 More specifically, they saw plenty of Okola's back
 Okola placed first in the 100- and 200-meter dashes, won the long jump and served as the catalyst on the first-place 400-meter relay team to lead the Wildcats to a season-opening 72-61 dual-meet victory over the Chiefs
 The win was the first over Canton for the Plymouth girls track-and-field squad
 "It was our first dual meet,

PREP GIRLS TRACK
 so I just told the kids to go out and see what they could do," said second-year Plymouth coach John Dunn "They were very excited running against Canton and they performed well It was a nice way to open
 "I knew we had some strong sprinters and our cross-country team is coming off its best season ever, too, so we have good balance"
 Canton's Becki McCormack matched Okola's effort, winning the 1,600- and 3,200-meter events while anchoring the Chiefs' two distance-relay foursomes

"I saw a lot of things that I liked today," said first-year Canton coach Chris Imber, who once served as an assistant coach with Dunn at Birmingham Groves "Our sprinters just need a little more work to get to where they need to be
 "Becki is a fabulous runner and a hard-working athlete She was one of the girls who were at every one of our off-season workouts"
 Plymouth's Brittany Petty was a two-time visitor to the winner's circle, finishing first in the 100 high hurdles (18 92) and the high jump (5 feet, 1 mch)

Canton edges Spartans with rally

BY ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER
 Canton's baseball team remained unbeaten Wednesday afternoon by offsetting a miserable start with an incredible finish at Lavonia Stevenson
 After falling into an early 6-1 hole, the Chiefs fought back to win 7-6 thanks to a five-run, seventh-inning rally that was capped by junior first baseman Blaine Padens two-run single Canton is now 3-0 overall and 1-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association The Spartans slipped to 2-1 and 0-1, respectively
 Brian Brubaker earned the mound victory after yielding just one hit and one walk over the final four innings Kyle Thom suffered the loss for Stevenson after he came in to relieve in the top of the seventh
 Canton's Justin Latin continued his torrid hitting, going 3-for-4, including a home run to lead-off the game, and a double Paden went 2-for-4
 Trailing 6-1, the Chiefs pushed across a run without the aid of a hit in the fourth when senior outfielder Shawn Little reached on an error, stole second and went to third on a passed ball

Little then scored on Jon Puskar's fielder's choice
 Canton's seventh-inning rally started with junior outfielder Brad Barath's one-out walk Latin followed with a double and Little ripped a single to score Barath
 After senior catcher Tarek Khasawneh belted an RBI single to make it 6-4, junior outfielder Kyle Gring walked and Puskar plated Little with a fielder's choice Paden then laced his two-run single Junior right-hander Corey Lewis started on the mound for the Chiefs, yielding five earned runs in three innings
WL NORTHERN 6 PLYMOUTH 4 On Wednesday Northern's Rob Murphy drilled a two run opposite field home run in the bottom of the fifth to break a 3-3 tie and lead the Knights to a WLAA victory at Plymouth

 Trailing 6 3 the Wildcats mounted a comeback in the top of the seventh however Tyler Locklear lined out hard to left center field with the tying run on second base Ryan Valle and Kyle Feldscher both paced the Wildcats seven hit attack with doubles Murphy Chris Skalski and Craig Walde had two hits a piece for the winners

The Plymouth softball teams season opener was delayed one day — from Monday to Tuesday — due to rainy weather.

The way things turned out, it was worth the wait.

The Wildcats picked up where they left off last season with a pair of first-week victories. On Tuesday they edged

Ann Arbor Huron, 5-2 before turning back Walled Lake Northern, 8-1, on Wednesday.

It was very exciting to see how the girls jelled right from the get go, said Plymouth coach Val Canfield.

Junior right-handed pitcher Claire Ostrowski, who went 25-10 as a sophomore, pitched complete games in both wins. She allowed four hits and four walks while striking out seven against the River Rats. On Wednesday, she whiffed nine and permitted only four hits and two bases on balls.

Claire struggled with her control a little bit on Tuesday, but she was extra tough against Northern, said Canfield.

After Huron knotted the opener at 2-2 in the top of the sixth, the Wildcats sealed the win with three sixth-inning runs. Plymouth, which banged out nine hits, was led at the plate by junior shortstop Kim Klonowski (3-for-3, two doubles, RBI) and Ostrowski (2-for-3, RBI).

It was all Plymouth in the nightcap as the Wildcats posted four runs in the fourth and single markers in the first, third, fifth and sixth innings to run away with the triumph.

Junior catcher Madison Dresser ripped a pair of triples, Klonowski stayed hot, going 2-for-4, Melissa Butzow added an RBI double and Danielle Bondy contributed a two-run single in the big fourth inning.

Plymouth outthrew their visitors, 7-4.

FRANKLIN 5 SALEM 4 Linda Jimenez couldn't hold her excitement following Livonia Franklins 5-4 extra-inning girls softball win Wednesday at home over Salem.

"We played with toughness and determination three times we were down by one run and battled back," said the Franklin coach whose team improved to 5-0 overall.

Down 4-3 after the Rocks scored in the top of the eighth, Franklin loaded the bases with one out in the bottom half of the inning when Becky Garbutt reached first on a misplayed error followed by a walk to Allison Bonsall and a single by Natalie Sanborn. Garbutt then scored the game-tying run on an infield error and Heather Jaroh ripped a singled between short and third to score Sanborn.

Salem pitchers Courtney Davis and Melissa Leach combined to strike out two. They allowed six hits and walked two. The Rocks commit

Pair of Canton hurlers combine for 2-hitter

Many of the names have change, but the early season results are familiar for Canton's softball team.

The Chiefs, who are coming off a 36-2 season, opened the 2006 campaign with a 2-0 victory over Livonia Stevenson Wednesday afternoon. Starter Sarah Anthony and reliever Hilary Payne combined on a four-hitter for the Chiefs, who scored single runs in the first and third innings.

Anthony earned the win by working the first 4 1/3 innings, striking out four, walking one and yielding two hits. Payne was credited with the save after whiffing four in 2 1/6 innings of work.

Canton's offense was led by Rachel Beaudoin and Stephane Sadek, both of whom went 2-for-3. Junior shortstop Lauren Delapaz knocked in Beaudoin with a single in the first. Allysia Johnson added an insurance run when she crossed the plate on a wild pitch.

"I thought we played really well for the first game," said Canton coach Jim Arnold. "We only had one error and we didn't strike out once. Overall, the girls did a fantastic job."

Anthony and Payne held Stevenson star slugger Roya St. Clair in check. The talented catcher has accepted a softball scholarship to the University of Michigan.

its pumping capacity

The Park's heart will still be able to pass a stress test if the three current AD's are forced to exit, but there will be a lot more huffing and puffing than there is now

As of Friday night, negotiations were still under way that will determine the employment fate of the three P-CEP AD's Tom Willette (Salem), Sue Heinzman (Canton) and Terry Sawchuk (Plymouth) Superintendent Jim Ryan told me the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education is determined to have the matter settled by Spring Break, which begins next week

The best-case scenario for the hundreds of athletes, coaches and parents involved in athletics at the Park would unfold if the AD's can negotiate a minimal salary reduction and retain their jobs

Granted, it wouldn't necessarily be a fair scenario for Willette, Heinzman and Sawchuk, who would retain the same number of responsibilities for a lower wage, but it would avoid the potential chaos that would exist if an all-new group of athletics administrators are brought in

If the negotiations fall through and the current AD's leave, there are a number of potential options for the members of the Board to consider

One plan would have the athletic directors' duties passed on to an assistant principal at each of the three schools The new building AD's would then report to a districtwide athletic director

Another plan would include the hiring of two new athletic directors — one to oversee the boys' programs and one to run the girls' teams

According to several coaches I've talked to, any plan but the status quo would dump more time-restricting duties on the coaches' shoulders and take away from their all-important game-preparation and team-management time

WORTH THE SAVINGS?

If the Park's athletics administration is re-structured, the school district would save money, but the savings will be at the expense of the athletic programs, which have enjoyed incredible success over the past several years in large part to the often thankless, behind-the-scenes work of Heinzman, Willette and Sawchuk, who, combined, bring more than 30 years of athletics administration experience to their jobs

I don't envy the members of the Board Due to relentless state cuts, they're working with a budget that is tighter than a pair of over-washed polyester pants

And while I respect their judgment and decision-making skills, I worry about the consequences if the final product of the $30,000 annual savings is an entirely new P-CEP athletics department administrative staff If the plan goes through, I'm sure the positions will be filled by intelligent, competent individuals, but there's no way the three current athletic directors' vast knowledge of day-to-day athletics operations can be sufficiently replaced

ALL-ENCOMPASSING JOB

When the P-CEP athletic directors salaries were made public two years ago, cynics cringed and argued that they were overpaid, especially during a time of belt-tightening cuts

However, after observing the athletic directors' often-stressful, never-renting duties the past two years, I realize how wrong these skeptics were

On a typical day during the school year, Sawchuk, Heinzman and Willette pull into their parking spaces as the sun rises and don't leave until long after it sets

During the hours in between, they serve as arbitrators for player-coach and coach-parent conflicts, as bosses for as many as 24 coaches, as sounding boards for players, coaches and parents, as suppliers who are in charge of making sure all of their teams are stocked with sufficient equipment, as accountants, who make sure their school's numbers add up for the district's pay-to-play policy, as transportation specialists, who make sure there is a bus available for each team's away games, and as schedulers of hundreds of games — a task that (especially in the rain-drenched spring) could be considered a full-time job by itself

And this list only scratches the surface They hire, they fire, they catch grief if one of their school's high-profile teams is considered to be underachieving

Crusaders sweep Tiffin, brace for weekend set with St. Xavier

BY TIM SMITH
STAFF WRITER

It's conference bye week for Madonna University's baseball team. But unlike in the past, head coach Greg Haeger made sure to schedule tough opponents instead of weaker squads, to help the Crusaders continue to gear up for post-season play.

On Thursday, Madonna (12-14-1) swept a very good Tiffin University (12-19) team at Ilitch Ballpark, by scores of 10-6 and 9-8. Next for the Crusaders, however, are back-to-back twinbills against a preseason hopeful for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics World Series - No. 12-ranked St. Xavier.

Those doubleheaders were set for 1 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, both at Ilitch Ballpark.

"We're bringing in St. Xavier, which is a very good baseball team," said Haeger. "They're a perennial team for the World Series. It's a good matchup."

St. Xavier, however, is off to a 10-20 overall start.

"There's one or two ways you can go in your (conference) bye week," Haeger explained. "You can either schedule patbies and get four more wins or bring a great team in and help prepare for the postseason. We've chosen, as our schedule's indicated all year, to prepare for the postseason and bring the best teams in that we can play."

Thursday's wins over Tiffin continued the Crusaders' solid play since returning to Michigan from March junkets to California and Kentucky.

In the opener, the Dragons broke out to a 5-0 lead in the second inning. But MU relief pitcher Scott Miller (1-0) came in to start the third and he shut down Tiffin on one hit over the next four frames, giving the Crusaders offense plenty of time to get back into the game.

MADONNA SPORTS INFORMATION

Teammates congratulate Madonna University's Ben Ramsey after he hit a two-run homer during Thursday's doubleheader at Ilitch Ballpark.

Madonna started the comeback with a run in the third, when senior catcher Nick Hippler (Farmington) singled in junior outfielder Manny Alvarado (Southfield).

A five-run fourth put the Crusaders in the lead for good. Key hits in the frame included a two-run homer by Alvarado (2-3, two RBI), a run-scoring single by Hippler (3-3, two RBI) and a double to left by senior outfielder Kevin Entsminger (Canton) for the fifth run of the inning.

In the sixth, the Crusaders tacked on four more runs for good measure. A two-run double to right by pinch-hitter and 2005 Redford Catholic Central graduate Matt Rodeghier drove in two and senior first baseman Todd Kalmbach plated another with a base hit.

JUMPING IN FRONT

The second game was almost the mirror image of the opener, with the Crusaders storming out to an early lead and then hanging on.

Madonna staked starting and winning pitcher Keegan Beaton to a 4-0 first-inning lead thanks to a two-run single through the left side of the Tiffin infield by sophomore catcher David Herrick (Livonia Churchill) and an RBI double by Kalmbach.

A two-run homer to left by senior third baseman Ben Ramsey (3-3, two RBI) made it 7-0. Earlier in the inning, junior shortstop Kyle Fedorka singled in a run.

But the Dragons started chipping away against freshman Beaton, scoring two runs in the third. After MU added two in the fourth on a two-run single to center by junior outfielder and Farmington native Tony Luttmann (2-3, two RBI), Tiffin drew closer on three runs in the fifth and another in the sixth.

Fedorka came on to pitch the seventh after reliever Andy Wojcik walked the leadoff batter. The Dragons made it 9-7 on a sacrifice fly by Justin Blair and then, with two out, Gary Rule smoked a one-hop double off the right-field fence to cut the lead to 9-8.

That brought up Paul Robbins, who lashed a liner toward the right-center gap. The ball looked like it was going to drop in and tie the game.

But Madonna sophomore centerfielder Mike Cauzillo (West Bloomfield) stretched out to snare the drive, ending the contest.

"Mike Cauzillo and many other players on this team can play some defense," Haeger said. "That's exactly why he's out there."

Ladywood stymies Chargers in season opener, 4-0

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Livonia Ladywood made quite a statement in its 2006 girls softball season opener.

The Blazers, who played errorless ball, looked sharp in all phases of the game en route to a 4-0 victory Thursday over host Livonia Churchill in a battle of state quarterfinalists from a year ago.

Junior pitcher Lauren Taylor now in her third varsity season limited the Chargers (3-2) to a pair of hits. She struck out 10 and walked three.

Ladywood collected six hits against Churchill senior Bridget Long, scoring twice in the first, one in the fourth and one in the fifth.

"For not playing yet, overall I was pleased," said Ladywood coach Bob Lulek, whose 19-16-1 team reached the 2005 Division II state quarterfinals. "We definitely have some things to work on, but I was happy with the hitting."

Not all of them were hits, but they hit the ball hard. Even the balls we struck out on were good pitches. And Long is a good pitcher (1-0-0).

The Blazers' Churchill in a hole early with a pair of runs in the top of the first inning.

Alyssa Abramowski had a one-out single and Central Michigan University signee Jill Schulz walked and both runners moved up. Long then got Kyla Suchy on a popout, but Erin McLaughlin's smash to shortstop squirted through the infield for two unearned runs.

"With runners on second and third you're always running on the hit so it was good situation with two-out. Lulek said, 'If its one-out you're not likely running on the pitch.'"

Ladywood added another run in the fourth on Suchy's lead-off double which landed her on third after Churchill's second error of the day. Suchy then came home on McLaughlin's single.

In the fifth, Rachel Jachym singled with one out and Schulz followed with a two-out walk.

Suchy then ripped to a shot to center field that was muffed, scoring Jachym to give the Blazers a commanding four-run lead.

Taylor meanwhile was on cruise control, setting down Churchill's first 10 batters in order, including six Ks before Long doubled off her with one out in the fourth.

"We tried a couple of things with Lauren when she got the draft call," Lulek said. "But in this pitch she had to stay ahead in the count to be effective. It doesn't necessarily work against every team we'll see, but we felt today it was important."

Jordan Kerr and Chelsea

Wydick drew walks in the fifth, but the Chargers were unable to capitalize. Churchill's only other hit came off Taylor came in the sixth on a single by Cat Sidor (following a lead-off walk to Brynn Kerr).

"We seem to be doing that so far this season - come out flat and try and play catch up," Churchill coach Carrie Korcan said. "We made some base running mistakes. Ladywood was pretty aggressive. They have good hitters."

And Taylor has improved. She's faster and smarter since last year."

Korcan, whose team finished 25-7 a year ago and reached the Division I quarterfinals before being ousted by state champion Harper Woods Regina, said the early-season losses to Ladywood and Garden City (4-3) can only benefit her team in the long run.

"We have a whole new outfield, a new shortstop and third baseman," she said. "We had chemistry last year. We can be as good because we've got talent and the athletes, but we're missing the experience. In these games where you gain the experience that our seniors had last year. We had two seniors that had four years varsity experience, and you can't get that in just three weeks of practice."

Small changes can make big results

Parenting is a breeze — once you've set your kids up with healthy sleeping habits, homework habits, and chores so they can contribute and develop abilities. Then, of course they need to learn social skills such as table manners, and how to greet guests who come to visit.

One of the many things on a parent's to-do list includes setting up an environment for children to develop healthy self-esteem. Here are a few easy to implement ideas to help you move full-esteem ahead.

1 Place items in your children's bedrooms and around the house that remind them of past successes and current passions. Find a place for items such as trophies, artwork, projects, inventions, photos of your children fishing, skating, singing in the choir, participating in a sports event, or volunteering at a seniors center. When children learn to master skills, they are empowered and their sense of self-esteem rises.

2 Show a positive regard for your children. It helps them blossom and feel a stronger sense of belonging. Keep their community connections strong by displaying physical reminders of their bonds to others. Display pictures and talk about their favorite teachers, friends, grandparents, coaches, pets and anyone else who has struck a personal connection with them.

Make a habit of setting up visits and telephone time with extended family and close friends. Research from the National Longitudinal Study of Adolescent Health provides indisputable evidence that creating a feeling of connectedness at home and at school is valuable and should be as important a national priority as high test scores for children to succeed.

What kind of connection do you most often make with your kids? Pay attention to what your body language is saying. What expression shows up on your face when your children walk in the room? Do your eyes light up or do you frown your brow while baring them with a list of everything they need to do? Don't just tell them that you love them, show it with hugs, smiles or by letting them overhear you saying positive things about them to others.

3 Encourage your kids to create a vision board. You can use anything from a posterboard to a large push pin cork board. Kids can cut out pictures from magazines of what they envision for themselves and want to bring into their lives. What are their wants, desires, and dreams? Give your children the freedom to have their vision boards reflect their own wants and desires, not yours. Vision boards have a way of attracting you into the future you wish to create for yourself.

4 Express gratitude on a daily basis. Gratitude is a shortcut to happiness. When I ask parents what they want for their children, their top answer is almost always "I want my kids to be happy." Regardless of what is going on in life, when you get in touch with what you are grateful for, happiness emerges.

Start modeling the gratitude attitude with your children.

Nothing goes when it comes to prom fashions this year. Girls dressed in gowns in a rainbow of colors and designs dazzled the audience at the 25th annual Prom Fashion Show at Churchill High School in Livonia in early March.

Seniors from all three Livonia public high schools vied for the honor of strutting down the runway in gowns from the Somerset Collection and J.C. Penney in Westland, and men's evening wear from four local businesses. The 26 male and female models were chosen based on their involvement with school activities and the National Honors Society. The Plymouth-Canton branch was treated to selections from A Chorus Line, to be presented later this month by Destination Theatre at the Cherry Hill Village Theater in Canton.

"We're just so excited because we've got this beautiful theater in town," said Patrick Persons of Canton, a board

Persons, a librarian at Plymouth Salem High School, heard from AAUW's Pam Dean, who needed entertainment for the April 1 luncheon. "She asked if we'd be interested and we said, 'absolutely,'" Persons said. "The cast is excited."

They picked their favorites for the luncheon, including not only A Chorus Line, but also selections from Hairspray, Miss Saigon, I Love You,

'BIG EVENT'

The show trains kids in junior year to plan a big event because the next year they're planning a prom. They're developing people skills, how to do an application for the show. They'll be applying for college next year so this is good practice, said Zapalski.

a social studies teacher at Churchill. "The biggest challenge for me is trying to organize the show with top athletes and scholars. Their time is limited."

Ashlee Ricketts had never walked down a runway before but wasn't the least bit nervous once the music started. Ricketts showed off a pink, poufy dress with sparkles. The 17-year-old said, "It's like the dress you always dream of." Unfortunately, it cost almost $400. Ricketts paid less than half for a strapless gown from Marshall Field's. She'll wear the bright orange and pink creation to the prom on May 1 at Laurel Manor. "Orange, pink and green are big colors this year," said Ricketts who is having her aunt design jewelry to go with the dress.

Munevera (Momi) Surkovic agrees green and orange are some of her customers' favorite colors, but so are pink, white and yellow. At Momi's Bridal and Fashion in downtown Farmington, girls can choose from thousands of dresses in stock or visit the Web site at www.momibridal.com to special order any size or color. Surkovic carries only U.S. designers so gowns can be shipped the same day if the manufacturer has it in stock.

"Poufy, straight, all colors—they're all in," said Surkovic, who studied dressmaking and design in Europe and now lives in Canton since leaving her home in Sarajevo. "I can do all alterations and even can redesign the dress."

Shehzeen Ahmed hasn't noticed any specific trends since she began looking for a dress at Marshall Field's and Parisian, but likes halter styles.

NO PASTELS, PLEASE

"I'm looking for a dress that's not so big you can't dance and I'm staying away from pastels," said Ahmed, who walked down the runway in a coffee color dress with beadwork. "I'll be very excited as soon as I get the dress. Then I don't have to worry about anything else that includes finding a date."

It seems not everyone has a date for the prom yet. Brendan Kihm thinks that's because seniors are busy planning their spring break April 14-23. The 18-year-old student is waiting to find out what his date's dress will look like, but plans to rent a black suit. For the show, he wore a black pinstripe suit by Echo from Randazzo that was accented with a silver tie and vest. In addition to Randazzo, guys chose evening wear from After Hours Formal Wear, President Tuxedo, and Steve Petix Formal Wear. Decker's Flowers in Westland, and Nature's Florist and French's Flowers in Livonia provided the corsages and boutonnières.

"I'm really excited," said Kihm. "It's the culmination of your senior year. Homecoming and Coming Home are fun but prom is more intimate with just seniors."

Evan Butka wanted to look "outrageous" for the show so he donned a bright red two-button jacket with black pants and vest from President Tuxedo.

"I don't want just plain," said Butka about his plans for prom wear. "I don't want to be like everyone else."

Cole Cousino's girlfriend hasn't bought her dress so he's waiting to select his tux. Cousino wants to wear "something more colorful" than the black, five-button coat with silver vest he chose to wear in the show from President Tuxedo in Westland.

"I like getting dressed up," said Cousino. "Prom is a reason to dress up."

Over the years, Landa Batzloff has noticed that many of her male customers choose white rose boutonnières to go with their attire. The owner of Farmington Center Florist is encouraging both sexes to be adventurous. Dress styles have changed since she went to prom, but nose-gays and shoulder corsages are making a comeback.

"There are some corsages to go over the shoulder for those dresses that are not strapless, and clutches, which are like a nose-gay, but not, for dresses which are strapless," said Batzloff, flower shop owner. "We have crystals coming in to make some more contemporary, fun and different. It doesn't have to look like a corsage. Earrings can be made with flowers or they can choose ribbons around the neck with flowers on them."

The choices seem endless when it comes to flowers. For those wearing a halter gown, a corsage can adorn the strap. The heat of the body sends the intense aroma into the air for the wearer and her date to inhale.

"There are wrist bands that are more like bracelets that they can use again," said Batzloff. "Boutonnières can have the same kind of flash with metals and crystals to jazz them up, and lights that glow."

"I tell them be free or have fun with it. There are so many fun things that can be done. Flowers can be worn on the ankles and on the shoes."

Mortgage Tip #4:
"When it comes to your ARM, use your head."
 "With mortgage interest rates beginning to creep up, conventional wisdom suggest that you convert your current Adjustable Rate Mortgage to a fixed rate. But before you do, think
 If you plan to stay in your home for awhile or if you believe that rates are going to rise rapidly over the short term, then by all means, convert your ARM. If, however, you plan to sell your home in the near future or if the costs associated with converting to a fixed rate mortgage are higher than the amount you stand to save by doing so, then don't. Not even if your present mortgage company pressures you to. Remember, mortgage companies have everything to gain by getting you to re-finance, and you may or may not gain anything. Only you know your situation. Think it through.

Benefit concert to feature one of India's leading musicians

Eastern Michigan University is presenting A.R. Rahman in concert to raise money to create opportunities for students to gain greater understanding of Indian culture and the arts. Rahman is one of India's leading musicians and music director for Andrew Lloyd Webber's Bombay Dreams and the musical, Lord of the Rings. The concert takes place 7:30 p.m. Saturday, April 15, at EMU's Convocation Center.

The show, Wake Up! A.R. Rahman with 150 All Stars, brings together Rahman's works on stage through colorful costumes and set designs, along with Indian and American singers and dancers. Rahman also will perform with the Global Rhythm All Stars, a group of more than 150 American artists that have performed with numerous Grammy-winning artists.

Tickets cost $50 to $205 and are available by calling (734) 487-2282 or online at www.emuch.edu/convocation or www.tickets.com.

This is a special opportunity for Eastern Michigan to reinforce its multicultural mission," said John Fallon, EMU president. "The engagements of these international artists on campus represents a significant opportunity for our students to experience important elements of Indian culture. Beyond this, the funding raised will provide opportunities for student travel to India to observe and participate in the culture."

Joining Rahman on stage will be cellist V.R. Sekar, founder of the Madras String Quartet, playback singer/actor Vasundhara Das, and playback singer Kailash Kher.

In addition to the concert, Rahman and several guest artists will also conduct master classes at EMU, which will explore Indian film, music, drama and culture.

Nicknamed the Mozart of Madras, by Time Magazine, Rahman is known for redefining contemporary Indian music. He has sold more than 100 million albums.

Persons noted they have contacts with the Ann Arbor Civic Theatre and other groups. The cast comes from Livonia, Ann Arbor, Detroit and all over.

The cast has about 25 members, including 17 lead dancers. "We originally were slated to do Jesus Christ Superstar," Persons said. Rights were denied due to a nearby performance, so the new company turned to A Chorus Line.

"It's familiar, it's in the American memory. It's being revived on Broadway right now," he said. Destination Theatre did the choir part for John Brown's Body in conjunction with O'Leary Productions. The musical A Chorus Line will be its first large stage production.

Persons said the group's not really community theater, in that it draws a number of professionals from Detroit and Ann Arbor.

"We feel we're somewhere in between," Persons said.

The AAUW audience appreciated the show April 1. "I wanted to have something light and fun and entertaining," said Dean, a Canton resident who plans to attend the

Dialysis patients put their lives on hold

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

The University of Michigan Livonia Dialysis Unit is a quiet place. Many of the patients sleep away the hours they need to be hooked up to machines.

Suddenly, Mary Lou Szott breezes in on her way to work and their moods brighten. Szott sat in these chairs for up to 3 1/2 hours a day, three times a week, before receiving a kidney transplant from an unrelated living donor in December 2005. She understands what life is like for someone who depends on a dialysis machine to keep them alive by filtering blood as their kidneys would, if working properly.

"I made some real connections with people when I was here," said Szott, a Canton resident who now volunteers her time as a peer mentor for the unit. "I felt I might have something to offer them and learned a lot from patients as well. Friendships were built."

Christy Porter smiles as Szott approaches. The Westland mother has been on dialysis since she went into kidney failure while delivering her son 16 years ago. Today, it's Christopher who keeps Porter going as she waits for a second transplant. Porter received her first transplant in 1995, but the kidney lasted only a few months before her body rejected it.

Sometimes I read watch movies. I pray a lot and chat with my peers. Porter said. They talk about their feelings and needs, whether they be dietary or whatever."

Westland resident Christy Porter is waiting for her second kidney transplant. She has been on dialysis since her body rejected a kidney transplanted in 1995.

Sometimes the talk turns to Chanty, the choir composed of patients, their family members and unit employees. Dialysis technician Karen Schlueter of Farmington founded the group to promote the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan. Porter and friends sang their first song for an audience at Schoolcraft College in March. The event kicked off the May 21 walk to benefit NKF, a nonprofit dedicated to preventing kidney disease and improving the quality of life for those living with it. According to the foundation, diabetes and high blood pressure are related to kidney failure. Diabetes caused 44 percent of kidney failure and high blood pressure 29 percent in Michigan patients in 2004.

"I'm a diabetic. I see this down the road," said Schlueter nodding to the patients in chairs. "I work with these people every day. Coming here is the hardest thing you ever have to do. You give up control of your body. Since starting the choir, I've received positive responses from patients. They feel they have a purpose.

"Last year I got involved with the zoo walk and learned a lot about NKF," added Schlueter, U-M team captain for the walk. "I explain to patients about the foundation. They help with medications when you can't afford it, promote prevention and organ donation."

Rosalind Thomas is not a candidate for transplant because of her diabetes and heart disease, but supports the efforts of the foundation. The dialysis patient's daughter son-in-law and 20 grandkids have already raised $150 for the NKF walk at the Detroit Zoo. Thomas says the organization is creating awareness, not only about kidney disease, but its link to diabetes and the role nutrition plays.

"I wish kids would take into consideration their diet," said Thomas of Livonia. "Kids have more junk food today."

Lupus destroyed David Lyles' kidneys years ago. Today, the 34-year-old Detroit resident writes songs about organ donation while awaiting a second transplant. He received his first kidney in 1995 and has been back on dialysis since 2003, for a total of 16 years. It's David's dream to one day eliminate dialysis.

"The title of the song is Reach Out and Love," said Lyles, who owns the production company which plans to record the song on a CD by the Chanty choir. "It's encouraging people to be more giving about being an organ donor."

According to Therese Adamowski, a registered nurse and nurse manager of the U-M Livonia Dialysis Unit, 46 percent of her patients are transplant listed. The peer mentors and a recently begun support group allow all of the patients to express their feelings about dialysis and end stage renal disease. "When I started (working in the field) 19 years ago, there were fewer patients, Adamowski said. "We're seeing people live longer. It has a lot to do with technology. Technology changed tremendously to better suit what their kidneys would do."

In January, the unit expanded from 12 to 16 chairs, which serve patients on shifts that begin at 6 a.m., 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Dialysis is pretty devastating. It changes their entire life, Adamowski said. They bring in their own pillows and blankets whatever they need to make them comfortable. We have people here for years, from their late 20s to mid 80s.

It's a huge chunk of your life and a regimented schedule. They like to sit in their particular chair.

Donna Bonds hurries to respond to the beeping from one of the machines. Dialysis technicians spend their days taking blood pressure and assessing excess fluid before programming machines and hooking up patients. Along the way they find themselves exchanging information about their dogs and children.

"I was a traveler, traveling from unit to unit. I ended up staying at the Livonia clinic because everybody is like a family," said Bonds of Canton. "This was more home. Patients help each other out and even remember each other's birthday. You get really attached to patients."

For more information about the May 21 walk, call (800) 482-1455 or visit www.nkfn.org.

Schlueter and the choir are doing their part by performing at area churches to raise money for the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan and to cover production costs of making the CD. For more information, call Schlueter at (248) 797-9499.

Give life by signing up for organ donation registry

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Steve Spitzer passes the time by reading a book about training his dog, a Rhodesian Ridgeback. The Westland resident has been on the transplant list 3 1/2 years due to polycystic kidney disease. For the last 18-months, he's spent four hours a day, twice a week sitting in a chair in the University of Michigan Dialysis Unit in Livonia.

"It's like a prison. It's terrible. I come in at 5:30 a.m.," said Spitzer. "I'd like to encourage people to sign up to be an organ donor. People can't use them any way when they're dead."

Mark Gravel quotes the staggering statistics from United Network for Organ Sharing: 5,949 people died last year waiting for a transplant. While that figure is 12 percent less than the year before because people are signing up to donate their organs after death, transplant listed patients are still dying and that doesn't include the 1,843 who became so ill they had to be removed from the transplant list.

In 2005, the University of Michigan Transplant Center worked with Gift of Life Organ, Tissue & Eye Donor Registry in Michigan and similar organizations across the country to transplant 225 kidneys, a procedure U-M physicians have done since the 1960s.

April is National Donate Life Month and the need is urgent for people to sign up on the Gift of Life Registry. For more information, call (800) 482-4881 or visit www.giftoflifemichigan.org. Beginning Monday, April 10 and continuing through the week, volunteers will be in more than 135 Secretary of State offices from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. to pass out organ donor information.

In 2005, Gift of Life Michigan reported 799 organs were retrieved from 269 donors, each of which was able to save or improve the lives of up to 50 people.

72 percent of patients on the waiting list are for kidneys, said Gravel, director of organ donation initiatives for the U-M Transplant Center. "Kidney transplants are effective in giving patients a higher quality of life than dialysis and are more cost effective than dialysis. Nationally, almost half of all donations are from living donors, the rest from people who have passed away. Living donations have a higher survival rate than from dead."

At the U-M Health System, once a patient is evaluated to be a recipient, information is given to them on living and deceased options. Patients then talk with family. If they're not able to donate for medical reasons, friends are approached.

"People sometimes donate for altruistic needs because they want to help someone in need," said Gravel.

Nationally over 91,000 people are waiting for a transplant and the number tends to go up. We have a population that's aging and as they age there's going to be a greater need.

"It really takes a hero to do this. It's very sad when we deal with families who have the opportunity and don't donate and their loved one goes to the grave with organs."

Warren Harris is usually tired on the days he comes for dialysis at the U-M Health Center in Livonia. The 41-year-old Belleville man has been on the transplant list since 2001. His kidneys failed because of high blood pressure 10 years ago.

Harris is a tenor in Chanty, a choir formed to create awareness for the National Kidney Foundation in Michigan, a nonprofit dedicated to preventing kidney disease and improving the quality of life for those living with it.

"We need more donors," said Harris, and for people to get more information about what we're going through.

Tips for starting a virtual business

(NAPSI) — Are you a virtual worker or thinking of becoming one? If you are, you're not alone. There's been a rise in virtual workers of 800 percent in just the past five years (Nemertes Research 2005). A big reason for this dramatic increase is that it's a great way to start a company, especially if you can work from a home office or out in the field.

With that in mind, a team of experts at Hewlett-Packard came up with these five tips on how to successfully operate a business from your home.

■ Make sure your business can operate "virtually" Are you meeting with contacts at your place of business or theirs? Do you spend most of your time outside the office?

Good candidates for a virtual business include architects, interior designers, homebuilders, computer professionals, accountants and other service professionals whose work is actually conducted in other people's homes or businesses, ranging from cleaning services to home repair.

■ Consider your personality Are you a self-starter or do you need inspiration from others to get things done? Do you prefer quiet time to work or do you thrive around other people who can provide reinforcement and support? Are your management skills suited for a phone based relationship with your remote team?

■ Hire the right people Do you have trustworthy employees who can get the job done, even if they are not physically in the same office? How much of their work is actually done outside the office? Do you have access to a mature talent pool of potential employees if you are just starting out or planning to expand?

■ Leverage technology Go

wireless and take security to heart. Do you have the technology in place to support a virtual business or a good technology adviser who can help wire your business for success? Have you considered streamlining your office with an all-in-one fax-printer-copier, notebooks, PDAs and a wireless LAN network? Fight security threats with anti-virus, vulnerability and business protection solutions to protect your data and secure your networked PCs. For added security, think about connecting through a wireless virtual private network (VPN) and watch your productivity expand.

Did you know that with Voice Over Internet Protocol (VOIP) you can place a call anywhere in the world from an Internet connection without incurring long-distance fees? Even away from the home office, your employees can tap into WiFi networks at Internet cafes. Thanks to technology, many virtual companies have the face of a traditional company — yet operate with lower overhead and greater flexibility to stay competitive.

■ Create an online storefront and take advantage of e-commerce. An online presence can give your business the appearance of a traditional brick-and-mortar company. Small companies can grow into larger companies with an effective virtual business strategy.

Saving jobs for heroes

(NAPSI) — One of the best ways to honor America's returning war heroes — and uphold the law — may be to give these veterans their jobs back.

Many employers don't know that federal law requires employers to rehire service members and give them jobs comparable to those they had before shipping out to Iraq. This is true for up to five years, even if the employee left voluntarily. In the case of the combat-wounded, the employer must rehire even if the service member is physically unable to perform the same functions as before.

"We support our National Guard and Reserves and want them to defend us, but when they come home and find their job gone, that doesn't seem very American to me," said James Randles, national commander of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, a service organization of combat-wounded veterans. "American business owners need to honor returning combat wounded, not turn them away."

Redwood 'shade shelters' cool summer's sizzle

(NewsUSA) — During the gray days of winter and early spring, memories of cookouts and days by the pool keep us going until summer returns. What we fail to remember, however, are the things that keep us from enjoying the precious summer months — namely, scorching heat and annoying insects.

A well-planned redwood "shade shelter" can solve these problems, allowing you to enjoy more of summer's fun in comfort. What's more, you can build it yourself and save money.

Your redwood shade shelter can be free-standing over a deck or patio or it can be attached to the house. It can be a simple structure, consisting of just redwood rafters that support a vine or climbing plant, or it can be a completely enclosed and bug-proof garden room.

Redwood is especially good for shelters because its inherent stability keeps posts, beams and joists from twisting or splitting. Because it comes in a variety of dimensions, you can always find the size and shape you need, from timbers to boards and latice panels.

Plus, for the do-it-yourselfer, redwood is the easiest material to work with because it has no toxic chemicals and is easy to handle, saw and nail. You should use only non-corrosive hardware and fasteners to prevent staining and rusting. And if you plan to paint your shelter, it will be easier if you prime all edges, ends and sides before beginning construction.

Be sure to check with your local building department before beginning any home-remodeling project to determine if a permit is required or if there are any special building codes for your community. If you would like to build a redwood shade shelter, the California Redwood Association has a pamphlet with basic instructions, a materials list and helpful hints about selecting proper grades of wood, hardware and finishes.

For details, send $1 to: California Redwood Association, Dept. ACS-05, 405 Enfrente Drive, Suite 200, Novato, CA 94949. Visit www.calredwood.org for more information.

Sign of the times: Keep the lawn sign when selling your house

I am going to sell my house, but I don't want my neighbors to know. Do I need to have a lawn sign?

You can understand your concern regarding nosy neighbors and wanting to keep the knowledge of selling your house from them. This is very difficult to do.

It's very hard to effectively sell a house without a lawn sign. In fact, the majority of inquiries regarding a house usually come from the sign. Once there is a sign call it's then up to your agent to convert those calls to showings, and then hopefully to a sale.

Part of marketing a house is letting as many people know about it as possible. This is especially critical in this slower market. The more exposure your house has to buyers, the more likely of finding a buyer who is willing to pay you what it is you want for the house. The fewer people that know your house is for sale, the less likely it will be to find a good buyer.

What I do as well is to send mailings regarding my client's house into the neighborhood. Many people move into a particular area because they have friends or family in that subdivision. Obviously, if your neighbors don't know that your house is for sale, they can't suggest that a family

Your neighbors may get the idea that the house is for sale anyway, when they see a man or a woman in a suit leading a couple. If they are indeed nosy they will realize pretty soon that your house is on the market.

In fact, one of the reasons you could be selling your house is to get away from these neighbors. Remember though that once you sell your house, you no longer have to deal with them.

The lawn sign is crucial to getting your house sold.

Unfortunately, you can't have everything. You can pick to not have your lawn sign in front of your house. However, that choice could mean that it could take a lot longer to sell your house and may end up costing you a lot of money.

This berry looks as good as it tastes

If yours is a family that is searching for a floor plan that will give you more for your building dollar, the Boysenberry (404-44) might just fit the bill

Economical to build and maintain, this three-bedroom home combines excellent use of the available space with an easy flow of movement throughout the entire floor design

A covered walk leads to a recessed entry that welcomes visitors into this contemporary home. The sleeping areas are all concentrated on the left side of the home

Two identical bedrooms face the front. They are close enough to the master suite for concerned parents to easily check on younger children. For a young family, perhaps one of these bedrooms can be made into a nursery and the other into a sewing room, musical study, or a small home office.

2006 Volvo V50 T5 delivers a great driving environment

Advertising Feature

CAReport

By Dave Menard
Avanti NewsFeatures

What do you think of when you think of station wagons? Wood paneling along the sides? Reverse facing seats in the rear? That was your daddy's station wagon, and there aren't any of those left. Today's station wagons are a bit more stylish and some automakers, like Dodge, market their station wagon as a muscle car.

Volvo, meanwhile, has set up its V50 T5 as a "premium compact Activity Sportswagon," (as opposed to a regular old compact Activity Sportswagon, I suppose). Cutting through the marketing jargon, I can tell you that if you already like the way Volvos look and feel, you'll find a lot to like in the V50 T5. For those non-Volvo fans that have based their feelings on what Volvos were like several years ago, you might find the V50 T5 is a stylish wagon with decent performance and worth a test drive.

For the last few years, Volvo has been working to make its cars less boxy with more stylish lines, and the V50 T5 is one of the models that has benefited. The lines are smoother and I really like the way the lines move from the front doors to the grille.

The grille is unmistakably a Volvo, and the rectangular headlamps, with rounded corners, are quite attractive. I look at the front straight on and I see a cat-type face - but then maybe I have issues. Fog lamps are included, as are 16" alloy wheels (17" wheels are part of an option package), color-coordinated bumper and body-side moldings. Any good station wagon should have roof rails - unfortunately, they are an option on this one.

Inside, the V50 T5 provides a nice driving environment. The instrument panel is simple and well-presented. The audio and climate control systems are housed in a center panel that is actually not flush with the dash, it's designed that way to provide storage space behind the panel. The power seats (heated seats are optional) provide good support and the rear seats fold down for more cargo space (after all, this is a wagon). There are cupholders in the center console and front seat back storage pockets.

There's plenty of room in the V50 T5, and 62.9 cubic feet of cargo space with the rear seats folded down.

Cruise control is standard, as are automatic climate control, power windows and locks, a power tailgate release, trip computer, rear window defroster, and a 12-volt outlet in the rear cargo area. A security system that includes an engine immobilizer is included and a navigation system can be ordered as an option.

Station wagon acoustics can be tough, but the audio system is a little disappointing. The standard system is an AM/FM/CD system with six speakers and rated at 100 watts. The sound is a bit wanting - muddy bass and no high end to speak of, no matter what I did with the tone controls. On the plus side, you can control the system from controls built into the steering wheel. Volvo offers an optional system with a six-CD changer, Dolby Pro-Logic with digital sound processor, 12 speakers and a 325-watt amplifier. I haven't heard it, but if audio is important, you might want to look at that system instead.

The V50 T5 is powered by a 2.5-liter DOHC

inline turbocharged five-cylinder engine. Rated at 218 hp and 236 lb-ft of torque, the engine is mated with a six-speed manual transmission, but a five-speed automatic "auto-stuck" transmission is optional (at about $1200). The automatic worked very well with the turbocharged engine and acceleration is pretty good. The engine is rated at 22/31 and it does require premium fuel.

Ride and handling on the V50 T5 is very good. The front suspension system consists of MacPherson struts with coil-over spring and stabilizer bar. In the rear, it's a multi-link independent system with coil springs and stabilizer bar. Stability traction control is standard, as are four-wheel anti lock brakes. The power-assisted steering makes the car easy to handle and it's easy to maneuver into parking spaces.

Volvo's reputation was made on safety features and the V50 T5 has 'em. Side-impact airbags for the driver and front passenger, side-impact protection system, integrated child booster seats, anti-submarine seats, and inflatable side curtain are all included.

The front-wheel drive 2006 Volvo V50 T5 (which can also be ordered as an all-wheel drive model) starts at about $28,000. Add the automatic transmission, and you're a little over $29,000. How's that for a "premium compact Activity Sportswagon," or whatever it's called?
