Board hires arts chief

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

At a time when Plymouth-Canton Schools has had to trim its budgets, the Board of Education on Tuesday night approved the hiring of a Visual and Performing Arts Coordinator who will harmonize the district's K-12 arts programs.

That scenario stands out for Tim Schoenherr, who officially begins his duties

List shows no school workers with felonies

District learns 19 employees have records

> BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools officials say there are no district employees on an updated list compiled by Michigan State Police, which includes more than 450 Michigan school employees who have been convicted of felonies.

Ray Bihun, the district's executive director of human resources, said while there were no employees with felonies on the list completed for the Michigan Department of Education, there were approximately 19 people who had misdemeanor convictions in their backgrounds.

"We talked with all those employees affected and confirmed with them the convictions," Bihun said. "We talked to each one of them about the incident to confirm it was really them on the list. If it wasn't them, we wanted to get a correction of the misinformation to the Michigan State Police.

"We are absolutely confident we don't have anyone employed who was convicted of a felony." It's the second time state police released information concerning employees with felony records. The first list contained mistakes, including people with the same names as those convicted, but with different Social Security numbers.

In February the list indicated there were 18

it during challenging times." Schoenherr will be leaving his job as music teacher and co-chair of the West Bloomfield High School Fine Arts Department to take over coordinating the arts for a district that has more than 16,000 students.

"I do have ideas about my vision and what it will look like," said Schoenherr, who resides in Farmington Hills. "I think it's important for all students to learn the same things in all elementary schools, in all middle schools, to get the same arts education. For some kids, the arts is the only connection they have to school."

The board voted 6-1 in favor of hiring Schoenherr at a salary of $78,116. Board president Mark Slavens voted against adding an administrative position to the budget.

"Originally I had supported the hiring of an arts coordinator, however with the loss of the bond and the $2.3 million (reimbursement to the general fund for middle school property purchased in Canton) I made the decision this wasn't the year to make additions to the budget," Slavens said. "I do think we need an arts director, but I just think because of the economic situation right now I will be voting no."

Schoenherr was one of 79 applicants for the position.

Bob Shelton has never lived in Shelton, a former Livonia resident, graduated in 1948 from the old Plymouth High School (currently Central Middle School), when students from surrounding communities also attended the school.

"Even though I grew up in Livonia, I consider Plymouth my hometown," said Shelton, who now lives in San Antonio. "I always have. I like the smalltown atmosphere."

Shelton, 75, likes Plymouth so much that for the second year in a row he and his wife, Ilene, will be visiting his adopted hometown during the first week in July, specifically to attend the Good Morning USA Parade in downtown Plymouth.

"It's what Fourth of July is all about, the Revolutionary solAmerica personified."

Stories like Shelton's make Fred Hill smile. For the past 10 years, Hill has organized the earliest Independence Day parade in Michigan – 7:30 a.m. – which is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth.

"The first couple of years was like paddling upstream, trying to make it all happen ... financially, logistically, putting a product on the street everyone would be proud of," said Hill, remembering his first parade a decade ago. "It felt like a heavy responsibility."

Hill weathered the challenge, and now has it running like a well-oiled machine.

"The amount of feedback we get is extremely rewarding." Hill said. "People are always very

The information is part of the Student Safety Initiative passed by the state Legislature, designed to protect kids from sex offenders in the classroom. The state police cross-checked its database of known criminals with a school employee list from the Department of Education.

According to the law, there is a specific list of misdemeanors that could affect the employment of school workers, such as distribution of marijuana or contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Art in the Park set to draw huge crowds

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

The 27th annual Art in the Park next weekend in downtown Plymouth will have a few new twists this year.

Dianne Quinn, founder and director of Art in the Park, said live entertainment – much of it after the street fair closes for the day – will be held on stage at what is being called the Party Pavilion near E. G. Nicks on all three days, July 7-9.

Live music is scheduled until 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and until 4 p.m. Sunday, with a variety including rock, jazz, reggae and calypso.

"We've always had entertainment, but it's been secondary to art," said Quinn. "Now, it's become part of the show."

Of course, the primary focus on the three-day event are the nearly 400 artists from across the country who will display a variety of media from noon to 8 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

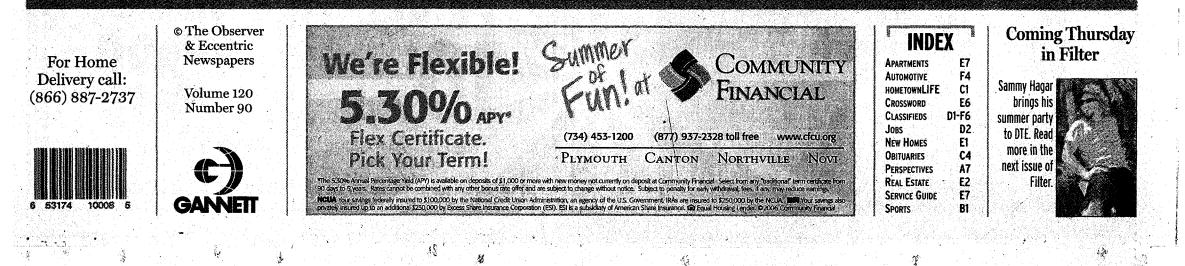

"The Michigan economy is hurting, and artists from all over have heard that, so we're not busting at the seams," said Quinn, who noted the number of artists is down slightly. "However, we've realigned the show, and have more room for food. Besides the Party Pavilion, Compari's will have outdoor seating that will stretch into the street."

Terri O'Brien, president of Street Marketing in Northville, said sponsorships are up this year, and that's because companies see the advantage of promoting to crowds that range – according to her count – from 250,000-300,000 during the entire event.

"It's definitely the largest art fair in western Wayne County, and companies want to target women, and their friends and daughters, who come to spend money," O'Brien said. "Art in the Park is a major draw for sponsors."

O'Brien said among the entities paying to be a part of Art in the Park are Schoolcraft College, which is sponsoring Arts and Scraps, an interactive venue that engages children in projects involving recycled materials; Certified Angus Beef, which is sponsoring the shuttle buses which will transport visitors from the parking lot at Visteon to downtown Plymouth; Meijer, which will have a nutritionist educating women about healthy lifestyles; and

'I honor and remember' The Moving Wall visit 'big deal' for veterans and their families

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

www.hometownlife.com

Kathy Caza traveled hundreds of miles two years ago to see her brother's name, Rick James Stewart, on the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C.

She wept Thursday as his name came to his hometown of Westland on The Moving Wall, a smaller replica of the memorial brought here through the morning of July 5 for the city's summer festival.

"This is pretty emotional," said Caza, remembering how her brother died in Vietnam on June 27, 1967. He was only 17 years old.

Caza recalled how Stewart, a Livonia Franklin High student, gave to her what couldn't be given to him during war - protection.

"He wouldn't even let me date anybody," she said, managing a smile. "He was so much fun. He had a great sense of humor. All he wanted was to be a Marine."

During a tearful opening ceremony for The Moving Wall's arrival on the east lawn of City Hall, Caza sat with survivors of nine Westland servicemen whose names are among more than 58,000 on the memorial.

'OVERWHELMING'

"To be invited to attend this is overwhelming to me," said Caza, who came with 19 family members. "I brought my (six) grandchildren. They've heard

"This wall is a way to bring closure for those families who have not been able to see the names of their loved ones on the wall in Washington," said Joseph Tebor, a Livonia resident who served in military intelligence operations. He dropped Vietnamese-language leaflets over South Vietnam, North Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

Tebor, post commander of the VFW Bova Post 9885 in Westland, was a first lieutenant when he dropped leaflets trying to convince the enemy to desert their side and help U.S. troops. He retired as a major in 1991.

Westland Mayor Sandra Cicirelli called it "a distinct privilege and honor" for Westland to become the 1,021st community to host the wall. City officials expect tens of thousands of visitors.

Members of the Honor Guard for the Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter 528 from Plymouth-Canton make their way inside the Vietnam Moving Wall ceremony outside Westland City Hall.

Vietnam veteran and retired Westland police officer, called The Moving Wall's visit "a real honor." He and many others worked on the effort with festival Chairman Kenneth Mehl, a decorated Vietnam veteran.

"I'm proud as a peacock to see this, but it's a little sad, too," Frazer said, adding that he personally knew 27 names on the wall.

As Mehl addressed the crowd, he paused as a Huey helicopter - like those used in Vietnam – flew several times over the opening ceremony. Mehl praised those who fought and who "arrived in a country far from home, always wondering whether they would see home again."

As the wall proved Thursday, many of them, like Caza's brother Stewart, didn't see home again.

"It's been nearly 40 years since he died," she said. "And it still makes me cry when I think about it."

The Moving Wall is on the east lawn of Westland City Hall, located on Ford Road between Newburgh and Wayne roads. Volunteers will be at the wall 24 hours through the morning of July 5, allowing visitors to view it any time of day or night. Visitors may give names from the wall to the volunteers, who can produce a computer printout detailing the location of names and other pertinent information about the deceased.

League to host candidates' forum

Voters eager to get a look at the crowded field in the race to replace term-limited state Rep. John Stewart, R-Plymouth Township, in the state House's 20th District get their chance July 13.

That's when the League of Women Voters of Northwest Wayne County, along with the Observer Newspapers, sponsors a two-part candidates' forum at Plymouth City Hall.

All eight candidates have been invited to participate. The five Republican challengers -Beth Stewart, Mark Abbo, Don Schnettler, Jason Vorva and T. Cortez Spann, Jr. – will face off at 7 p.m. in the Republican forum.

The forum for the three Democrats – Joanne Lamar,

Joe Hawver and Marc Corriveau starts shortly after 8 p.m.

The event will be taped for broadcast on local-access television several times before the Aug. 8 primary.

Candidates will be allowed a one-minute opening statement, one-minute responses to questions and a two-minute summation. The event will be moderated by a League of Women Voters member, who will read questions submitted by audience members.

The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan, political organization whose purpose is to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government. The League does not endorse or oppose candidates or parties, but it does work to obtain and distribute information to the public on candidates and their views.

Library honored for health efforts

State Librarian Nancy R. Robertson praised the administrators and staff of Plymouth District Library, the recipient of a 2006 National Commission on Libraries and Information Science (NCLIS) Health Award for Libraries.

Plymouth District Library was recognized for its "Taking Life in Stride" program, designed to reach out to one of the community's underserved populations - "new" seniors between the ages of 50 and 65 - and positively address their concerns and challenges tied to the aging process. Plymouth District Library was among outstanding libraries in 39 states and the District of Columbia - and the only library in Michigan to receive this award, which distinguishes libraries' exemplary efforts to promote a healthy lifestyle in their communities.

Eligible programs included those that addressed one or more of the following: Dietary choices, exercise, smoking cessation, alcohol and/or drug abuse prevention or cessation, immunizations and health screenings, and improved health literacy (the ability to understand and make use of health information).

"Plymouth's 'Taking Life in Stride' certainly addresses needs of a growing segment of the population and helps seniors learn how the library can help them cope with evolving health challenges," said Robertson. "Plymouth District Library staff should be commended for collaborating with a number of health institutions, for executing an excellent outreach campaign, and for creating a program with such easy replicability. This program will, I'm sure, serve as a model for other Michigan public libraries seeking to connect more meaningfully with their older customers.

According to Geraldine Barlage, adult service coordinator at Plymouth District Library, "Taking Life in Stride" began to take shape after Ellen Stross, one of PDL's adult services librarian, attended several Public Library Association programs in Seattle. "Ellen said these programs significantly raised her awareness of the public role libraries can and should play in disseminating medical information to the public," said Barlage. "Since she fell into this category of 'new' senior herself, it was easy for Ellen to relate to the need for targeting this group. Barlage said that PDL's role in the community made it a natural for creating and disseminating a program to residents most in need of it.

"The public library is in the unique position of serving every single person in a community and, thus, has the opportunity to serve as a source for medical education," she explained. Stross, Barlage and the rest of the "Taking Life in Stride" team set about designing a series of programs to best address the health needs and concerns of their patron base.

They selected session names designed to not scare away potential attendees, while arranging for topic experts to deliver the latest information on nutrition and diet, mental and emotional health, vision aids, memory, spirituality, attitudes toward aging and more. Speakers were drawn from area educational institutions like the University of Michigan, the Eastern Michigan University, and specialists in gerontology, geriatric psychiatry and dietetics. Barlage said the programs eventually reached more than 300 seniors. many of whom didn't know their local library could provide such information.

While for onlookers the parade runs smooth as silk, Hill said everything isn't always as it appears.

"I remember the year we had three skydivers to start the parade," he said. "The wind kicked up and only one landed on Main Street. Where the other two landed, we still don't know. I hope they've found them by now."

One of the most memorable moments, two years ago when a torrential downpour soaked the parade.

"Everybody but one group still marched," said Hill, still seemingly amazed by that. "And the bulk of the spectators stayed. That was a real compliment to the people in the parade and the spectators."

Hill said there are three criteria when it comes to designing each year's parade lineup. "We serve our sponsors.

we serve our sponsors, who we're very grateful to, so we want to give them value for their investment," Hill said. "We want to serve the people who are in the parade. And we want to serve the spectators, so at the end they will say 'Gosh, I'm glad I went to that parade."

If the district had employees on the list convicted of felonies, the superintendent and the Board of Education would look at each case to decide if the infraction was serious enough for termination.

Bihun said the district has always fingerprinted administrators and teachers during the hiring process, but now includes all employees as required by state law.

"The fingerprints aren't just filed with the Michigan State Police, but with the FBI, so we can find criminal records in other states." Bihun said. "When we interview, we check all references, and always give the applicant a form to fill out that allows for us to find records and do fingerprinting checks.

"We won't hire anyone that comes back with any kinds of concerns about them."

Bihun said even though fingerprints of prospective employees are sent to the Michigan State Police for background checks, the district performs a second check to make certain no one slips between the cracks.

"We've fingerprinted every new employee since Jan. 1," Bihun said. "We've done well over 100, and so far have done a great job."

Local seniors among Walton winners

Monica Patel, a student from Canton High School, and Plymouth High School student Alexander Harvey were among some 50 top-notch students to win $1,000 scholarships from the Sam Walton Community Scholarship program.

In its 26th year, the Sam Walton Community Scholarship program is providing scholarships to more than 5,700 students nationwide to help pay for college expenses. In order to qualify for a scholarship, a student must be a high school senior, a U.S. citizen and meet minimum grade point average requirements. An independent panel of judges from Scholarship Program Administrators selects recipients on the basis of financial need, academic record, ACT/SAT test scores, and school and community involvement.

An additional 94 graduating seniors nationwide have been named Wal-Mart Associate Scholarship winners. This $2,000 award is open to seniors who have been employed by Wal-Mart for one continuous year, have a good academic record and can prove financial need.

Wal-Mart is awarding more than $175,000 in Sam Walton Community scholarships in Michigan. The name of each scholarship winner nationwide can be found under their state and hometown at www.walmartfoundation.org under 'Community Scholarships." "Supporting educational opportunities for students of all ages is a high priority at Wal-Mart," said Bob McAdam, vice president of corporate affairs, Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. "When we help anyone reach his or her dream of a college education, we are helping to

Winner's Circle award

Edward Jones investment representative John Birchler of Plymouth recently received the firm's Winner's Circle Award for sales and service efforts over the past year. Birchler was one of only 883 of the firm's more than 9,000 investment representatives to receive the award.

"When you work for a firm that is known for its outstanding service," Birchler said, "it's quite an honor to be singled out for your service record."

Birchler has been serving the Plymouth area since 2001 and is active in several local groups.

"John is an outstanding member of the Edward Jones team who personifies the ideal Edward Jones investment representative, a representative who is 100-percent dedicated to serving the financial needs of his clients."

Water report

The Plymouth Township Water and Sewer Department has sent out its annual drinking water quality report to consumers.

Among other things, the report discloses the amount of various materials in the water, including microbial and inorganic contaminants, pesticides and herbicides.

The annual report has been required by law since the U.S.

Congress passed the 1996 Safe Drinking Act Amendment.

Most of the Detroit metro area, including Plymouth Township, gets its drinking water from the Detroit river. The Detroit Water and Sewerage Department operates the water treatment facilities and pumping stations that supply water to the township. which operates the pipeline infrastructure and acts as the retailer to area businesses and residents.

Residents or business owners who have not received the report or have further questions can contact the Plymouth Township Water and Sewer Department, (734) 354-3270.

Trip winners

Joy Brietzke and Tara Locklear of Plymouth were among local residents and advisers with lia sophia who earned an all-inclusive dream vacation to Aventura Spa Palace on the Rivera May in Mexico in May.

The award was earned by more than 600 lia sophia advisers who reached a personal sales goal and who introduced new advisors to the business during 2005.

Lia sophia is a unique directselling opportunity offering fashion jewelry through personalized in-home demonstrations.

"I'm very proud of the advisors who were able to meet their goals in order to earn this fantastic vacation," said Bonni Davis, vice president of sales for lia sophia. "I truly appreciate all the hard work and dedication they have demonstrated."

The American Dream: Is it slipping away?

"What is at stake is more than our paychecks and benefits. What's at stake is our shared vision of an America that lives up to its promise of freedom, opportunity, dignity and social and economic justice for all. That's our American Dream." - Ron Gettelfinger, president,

United Auto Workers, June 12, 2006

settelfinger's comments at the UAW convention in Las Vegas will be a rallying cry for UAW members and their blue-collar working colleagues. It should also serve as a powerful message to everyone.

Michigan and America are clinging to the precipice of life-altering change. This is the time for us to come together in search of a shared vision and common agenda that will preserve a quality, middleclass living for those who have reached that rung of the economic ladder and to lift up those that strive to achieve this status. There are unprecedented global, disruptive, transformational shifts taking place today. The question, as Gettelfinger articulates, is not how to wish away the collateral damage of globalization, but rather, to exploit it to optimize opportunities for the largest possible proportion of the world's humanity.

Our American Dream must transcend the waters that surround us. We must also focus on lifting up the countless millions who exist on less than $2 per day and who are grateful for water to drink and a shelter to call home.

We are living in an age of massive turbulence. Today, our reality resolves around instant communication, globalization, technology morphing, off shoring and outsourcing. Ours is a world where ideas and work can and do move around the world instantaneously and effortlessly.

John P. Kotler, author of the book Leading Change, offers this advice in his followup book, The Heart of Change.

"People change what they do - less because they are given analysis that shifts their thinking, than because they are shown a truth that influences their feeling." He goes on to say, "This is especially so in large-scale organizational change, where you are dealing with new technologies, mergers and acquisitions, restructuring, new strategies, cultural transformation, globalization and e-business."

Our challenge is that we are confronting these changes simultaneously.

As Kolter says, "In an age of turbulence, when you handle this reality well, you win. When you don't, you lose."

It will rest on our leaders to help; not simply by giving information and analysis to shift our thinking, but to show us and model the way that will influence our feelings and help guide our actions.

A clear test in how this view of change will play out is the 2006 gubernatorial election.

The reality of our anemic economy looms large with 7.2 percent unemployment. The second shoe of pending layoffs at Ford, GM, Delphi and other manufacturers has yet to fall. We are shedding good, middle-class jobs faster than many of us can shed a few pounds.

Do we look into the rear view mirror and long for the days when Russia, India and China had closed economies, when China was not a member of World Trade Organization, when NAFTA and CAFTA were just letters in the alphabet and when U.S. automakers held a healthier portion of auto market share and Japanese and Korean cars were viewed as junk?

Will our politicians simply blame Washington, rail at unfair trade agreements, complain about low wages in China, whine about the SBT or the fact that the Michigan Legislature is controlled by the Republicans and the governor's office by a Democrat? Complaining about these realities will not produce a job for the 50-year-old who has been laid off or the 20-something looking to begin his or her career.

The candidate or leader that can show the people the truth and help them envision a different and better future and model the way with productive actions and will garner the most votes.

This is the vision Gettelfinger was invoking when he spoke to the men and woman of the UAW. While his speech was directed to his membership, the message should be heard by all of us. Yes, our new reality is hard, painful and extremely disruptive.

We need leaders to acknowledge these truths and help forge a new reality. Our world has changed. Different times require new scripts. As Gettelfinger reminded his members, "40 years ago, at our 1966 (UAW) convention, Walter Reuther said, 'We can't solve the challenges of tomorrow with the tools of today.'

Who will be the Abraham Lincoln, Winston Churchill, FDR, JFK or Ronald Reagan who will inspire us to preserve a nation, save the world, place a man on the moon and remind us better days lie ahead? Who will bridge the gulf from fear to security, from looking back to looking forward, from despair to hope? The candidate that can help us imagine a better future, will be there with us when we arrive.

We need to pay attention and vote as if the American Dream, which Gettelfinger passionately spoke about, lies in the balance - because it does.

Ballot proposal will advance a society based on merit

he Michigan Civil Rights Initiative is a proposal on which the people of Michigan will vote in November. If passed, the MCRI will amend the Michigan Constitution by adding Section 26 to Article I which will prohibit state and local government discrimination or preferential treatment in the areas of public employment, public contracting and/or public education to any individual or group based on race, sex, color, ethnicity or national origin.

Our current system is one which gives preferential treatment based on race. If any preference must be given, it should be based on something more viable, such as socio-economic status, which would not neglect the thousands of non-black and non-Hispanic students who grow up with various disadvantages. For system of granting college example, under our current admissions due to racial preferences, the grandchildren of Jesse Jackson (a millionaire who wears $1,000 dollar suits and flies in a private jet) are given preference over the poor non-black/non-Hispanic child whose father was killed fighting in Iraq. Similarly, the black/Hispanic student at Brother Rice, Country Day, and Catholic Central is given preference over the non-black/non-Hispanic student at John Glenn, Taylor Truman, and Annapolis High School.

Ben

Gurk

Opponents of the MCRI claim race is only one of many factors taken into account when students apply to colleges. However, if two students have nearly identical credentials but are different races, then race does become the decisive factor regarding whom to admit. A comprehensive admissions policy which includes race as one of many factors is not acceptable because it is still discriminatory in nature. Proponents of racial preferences and racial discrimination attempt to quantify their policies by hiding under the guise of diversity.

While there may be an educational aspect to having a diverse student body, this does not justify racial discrimination. Furthermore, it is lamentable that unity does not receive the solicitude diversity does. Michigan has always been rich in diversity; should not unity instead of diversity be the altruistic goal?

Opponents of the MCRI erroneously claim that if the MCRI is passed, then scientific research into breast cancer or other genderspecific diseases may be affected, domestic violence shelters may be eliminated, and breast cancer screening centers may be eliminated. The truth is that the MCRI only affects public employment, public contracting, and public education. Breast Cancer screening and domestic violence shelters still exist today in California where Proposition 209 passed. They will still exist in Michigan if the MCRI passes.

Opponents of the MCRI have failed to justify their use of racial preferences and racial discrimination. Their rebuke of the MCRI is tantamount to paranoid scare tactics. Contrary to what some opponents of the MCRI claim, the MCRI will not prohibit females and minorities from taking math and science classes nor will it deny blacks/Hispanics any civil rights. If the MCRI is passed it will not "turn back the clock on Title IX." Sadly, many MCRI opponents have also resorted to ad hominem character attacks in addition to their litany of unsubstantiated claims.

Voting "Yes" on the MCRI this fall will advance our society by making it one in which merit and achievement, not the color of a person's skin, are the ultimate indicators of success. This ballot proposal poses a simple question: Will we continue to tolerate racial discrimination or will we choose to live in a more equitable society? By voting "Yes" on the MCRI we can end the bizarre, racist, and antiquated practice of treating people differently because of the color of their skin.

Deputy, sheriff warn of Internet predators, fraud

BY JULIE BROWN STAFF WRITER

The Internet has brought benefits to many lives, but Deputy Ray Johnson of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department sees its downside. /"We have to be careful what kind of information we provide on the Internet," Johnson told members and guests Thursday at a Westland Rotary luncheon. He cited the work he and colleagues do in the Internet Crime Unit, founded in 1998.

"We're a model for other agencies across the United States," Johnson said during the meeting at the Sgt. S. Romanowski VFW Post. The sheriff's department worked with the Westland Police Department on a recent case involving a local Internet predator who owned a tobacco shop.

"Do I look like a 13-year-old girl?" Johnson said, explaining that chat rooms are popular with young people who often share personal information. With instant messaging, predators can isolate victims one-on-one for conversation. "For some reason on the comSheriff Warren Evans and others in law enforcement attended the Thursday meeting. Evans noted increased deed fraud at the county Register of Deeds office.

puter, people answer this question on a regular basis," Johnson said of age/sex/location inquiries.

He described Internet profiles which include photos. Johnson noted the popularity of MySpace.com, a Web site he believes should be limited to those age 18 and older.

Johnson showed Web cams, which have beneficial uses for distant family and business teleconferencing. Unfortunately, some people disrobe on Web cams.

He cited the Public Sex Offender Registry of the Michigan State Police, a good tool but not totally accurate.

Johnson warned against "phishing" in which spam, popups and junk mail are used online to obtain personal information. "Nobody will ever ask you for your ATM PIN number," he said in displaying a fraudulent inquiry he received. Mail theft, stolen purses and wallets and discarded trash are other sources of personal information which can lead to identity theft. "People get credit card applications all the time" and discard them, the deputy said.

Thieves can grab trash and apply for a bogus card. Johnson recommended reporting theft of your identity to the credit reporting bureaus, Equifax, Experian and Trans Union.

"Let them know you've been a victim," Johnson said. Sheriff Warren Evans and others in law enforcement attended the Thursday meeting. Evans noted increased deed fraud at the county Register of Deeds office.

"Check to make sure your house still belongs to you," Evans said. "If someone is messing with your title, let's get on it earlier." Criminals have been filing fraudulent quit claim deeds and obtaining mortgages.

Information is available online at waynecounty.com. Evans praised Westland

Police Chief Daniel Pfannes and his department, noting sheriff's personnel can extract from computers material the user thought had been erased.

The sheriff said there have been nearly 70 Internet cases, and his department is proud of the 100 percent conviction rate. "We know we're only getting the tip of the iceberg."

Pfannes was pleased to have the sheriff's department in town. "I thought he did a fantastic job," the chief said of Johnson's presentation, which he said was thorough and easy to understand.

"I think it's definitely a generational thing," Pfannes said of parents who grew up without the Internet. Parents monitor stranger danger for kids.

"And yet we seem to be not as careful when they're surfing the Internet."

Man dies in county jail

BY JULIE BROWN STAFF WRITER

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department is investigating the death of a 46-year-old Lincoln Park man Thursday in the Dickerson jail facility in Hamtramck.

"It was a drunk driving-related violation," department spokesman John Roach said. The man's name wasn't being released Thursday, pending notification of family.

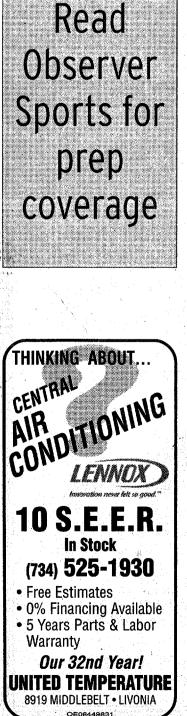

According to Roach, an officer discovered the inmate unresponsive in his cell, and staff tried CPR without success.

"He was pronounced dead at the scene," Roach said.

The county medical examiner's office is involved, Roach said, and the sheriff's department will-investigate as a possible homicide, a routine practice. "We're trying to figure out if it's natural causes," he said. The Lincoln Park man was alone in his cell when found shortly before noon Thursday. "As the investigation proceeds, hopefully we'll know more soon," Roach added.

Local soccer fans get a kick out of 'Cup'

BY ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER

Local interest in the World Cup soccer tournament hasn't. taken a detour in the wake of a quick exit by the United States.

That's the unanimous observation of some of the area's most-knowledgeable soccer aficionados, who agree that a large number of metro Detroiters still care about who's going to win what's widely considered the world's most-popular sporting event. "It seems like the adults are getting into the World Cup this year as much as the kids," said Bryan "Goose" Finnerty, the lead owner of High Velocity Sports in Canton. "Eight years ago when the World Cup came on, the kids would ask their mom or dad if they could watch it, then there would be a little moan before the parent would say, 'Oh, I guess, if you really want to.' "This year, from what I've seen, the adults are watching it more. They're getting together in groups and watching it together. When the kids see this, it's almost like getting permission from their parents to get excited about it.'

Through Saturday, there were only four teams remaining in the World Cup field, which started with 32 two weeks ago. The United States failed to reach the round of 16 after compiling an 0-2-1 record.

WHO'S GOING TO WIN?

Following are the predictions of a few area soccer experts and media representatives who were asked to pick the winner of the 2006 World Cup soccer tournament. The predictions were made prior to Saturday's games:

High Velocity Sports lead owner Bryan "Goose" Finnerty – Brazil; High Velocity Sports general manager Drew Crawford - Brazil; Detroit Ignition president Greg Bibb: - England:

- Plymouth/Canton sports editor Ed Wright Italy;
- Livonia/Westland sports editor Brad Emons Brazil; and
- Farmington sports editor Dan O'Meara Germany.

Ignition tryouts

The Detroit Ignition professional soccer team, which will begin playing games at Compuware Sports Arena in Plymouth Township in November, will be holding open team tryouts at Canton's High Velocity Sports facility from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 23. For more information, visit www.detroitignition.com or contact Lindsey Gamrod at Lindsey.gamrod@hantzgroup.com. The Ignition will open the 2006-07 season at home on Nov. 4.

Cubs win

The Canton Cubs recently placed first in the Canton Little League's Major Division (11- and 12-year-olds) with an impressive 9-3-1 record. The team consisted of Ryan Sielgler, John Etienne, Justin Thompson, Derek Gielarowski, Craig Solarz, Irene Pool, Michael Pool, Ty McMahan, Joey Etienne, Chris New and Nathan Michalik.

WHERE TO PLAY

Following are the five miniature golf courses located in the Observerland vicinity: Armstrong's Funland, 8787 Belleville Rd.,

Van Buren Township (18 holes); Ford Rd. Miniature Golf, 29060 Ford Rd., Garden City (18 holes);

Oasis Golf Center, 39500 5 Mile Rd., Livonia (18 holes plus driving range)

Sport-Way of Westland, 38520 Ford Rd., Westland (36 holes)

Glo-Golf, 42130 Ford Rd., Canton (18 holes).

Five-course, five-day journey reveals area's ultimate miniature-golf holes thought it would be fun to set out on a week-long trek to find the best 18 miniature golf holes in Observerland. OK, it wasn't quite as awe-inspiring as playing Pebble Beach, Spyglass, Winged Foot and Oakland Hills on four consecutive days, but it was fun. It was also challenging (too many snowmen on the scorecards), embarrassing (I lost a ball in a McDonald's restaurant parking lot; details below), frustrating (one hole was so difficult, I finally just wrote the word "infinity" under my name on the scorecard), and exhilarating (when my only ace of the week found the bottom of the cup).

Accompanied by my 5-year-old son, Ben. I played five courses (90 holes) in five days. The layouts ranged from '60s retro (Oasis Golf Center in Livonia) to glow-in-the-dark modern (Glo-Golf in Canton).

The difficulty of the 90 holes ranged from hazard-less, straight-down-themiddle, I-could-ace-this-in-my-sleep easy to even-Phil-Mickelson-wouldget-a-12-on-this-insane-hole difficult.

When I explained what I was doing to Cara Gray, an employee at Oasis, she smiled and said, "What a fun job!"

She was right - for the most part. Approximately 20 minutes after I talked to her, my first shot on the 12th hole of her course hopped off the fairway, through a 12-foot-high Cyclone fence and into the adjoining McDonald's parking lot. The shot gave new meaning to the term "drive-thru." The situation really got embarrassing when I had to shout "Fore!" at a family walking from the fast-food

King's gymnastics moves turn to gold

BY ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER

Canton gymnast Samantha King had a few jitters while competing at the USAG Eastern National Championships April 21 in Nashville, Tenn.

You never would have known it by her performance.

King, an eighth-grader-to-be at Discovery Middle School, captured gold medals in the Level 9 Junior B Division's all-around and balance beam competitions with scores of 37.325 and 9.525, respectively.

King was competing against 49 other top-notch gymnasts from throughout the United States.

The first-place showings at the Vanderbilt University-hosted competition were King's first as a Level 9 competitor.

Judging by her scores, they won't be her last.

"I was pretty nervous the whole time," admitted King, who trains at the Westland-based Michigan Academy of Gymnastics. "But I just tried to concentrate and do what my coaches taught me to do."

King, who moved to Canton from Stratford, Ontario, Canada, when she was 6, was introduced to her first set of uneven bars and a balance beam at the age of 3.

"I've always liked gymnastics because it's always challenging," said King, who trains up to 25 hours a week during the summer. "Plus, it lets me get my energy out, and I have a lot of energy.

King is coached by Doug Rowe and Kami Gotchev.

The coaches are the main reason I chose Michigan Academy of Gymnastics over the other places when I moved here," said King. "They push me to get better, plus they make it fun."

Although she realizes it's a lofty goal, King has her sights set on making the 2012 U.S. Olympic team that will compete in London.

"That's my dream," she said. King also posts high scores in the classroom.

She has studied her way to a 4.0 grade-point average at Discovery with one year of middle school to go.

"I think the interest was extremely high, especially before the United States got eliminated," said Andrew Crawford, the general manager of High Velocity. "I think some of that had to do with the amount of TV coverage it's been getting. Even now, with the U.S. out of it, we'll have the World Cup games on our TVs during camps and the kids still seem to have an interest in who wins the games."

"If the United States would have advanced further, there would have been an explosion of interest, probably equal to the way it was when the U.S. hosted the World Cup in 1994," said Greg Bibb, the president of the Major Indoor Soccer League's Detroit Ignition, which will open its inaugural season at the Compuware Sports Arena in November.

Bibb said a strong U.S. run through the tournament would have indirectly aided the Ignition and every other professional soccer team playing in this country.

"Any time soccer takes over the world stage and the United States' team is on that stage, it helps all of the professional teams to some degree because the media pays more attention to the sport and the fans follow it more," said Bibb.

All three soccer buffs agreed that youngsters can learn a lot by watching the remaining World Cup matches, which will be broadcast live by ABC and ESPN.

"The biggest things the young players can learn from watching the World Cup games are the ball movement and the unselfish play by the players," said Crawford. "I would advise youngsters to pick out the player on the field who is playing the position they play and watch what they do. It's a great way to learn."

"Any time you have the best of the best coming together at one place and one time to play in a tournament like this, it's a great opportunity for young players to watch and learn, said Bibb. "This doesn't happen very often – once every four years - so the young players should take advantage of the chance they have to watch the best players in the world."

Finnerty said young players can learn valuable lessons by watching things beyond the players' skills.

"You have the best-of-thebest players out there for 90plus minutes playing for their teams and their countries in some pretty fierce competition," Finnerty said. "But when the games are over - no matter how rough the game got they get together and shake hands.

"I think it's important that young players realize the sacrifice a lot of these players are making, too, for their team and country. Each player on each World Cup team is a superstar on the teams they play for before and after the World Cup. But they quickly learn what their roles are once the tournament starts and they adjust so that they can help their team win.

"That's an important thing for young kids to see." ewright@hometownlife.com | (734) 953-2108

ESSON ON GOLF by Jeff Lesson

WHO'S NUMBER ONE?

11-16

It all seemed so simple. Just a par four on the 18th hole of the 106th US Open Championship was all Phil Mickelson needed to win his third consecutive major and assume the title of "The best golfer in the world." Even a bogey would guarantee him a playoff with eventual winner Geoff Oglivy.

What happened next was golf infamy. It was reminiscent of Lefty's tee shot at Oakland Hills in the 2004 Ryder Cup. There he was paired with Tiger Woods and sliced a tee shot so far left that only a fence kept it on the property.

The look on Tiger's face as he watched will forever be in my mind. Tiger had to play that shot from there in the alternate shot format at the Ryder Cup.

The only difference this past Sunday at Winged Foot was there was no Tiger. Woods had missed his first cut at a maior since turning professional. Mickelson's tee shot however was a carbon copy.

His drive traveled over the trees and hit a building. A building. And no they did not erect that building in the middle of his backswing.

What ensued was what NBC's Johnny Miller called " maybe the biggest collapse in US Open history. "Lefty then hit a tree, a bunker, and the rough once again. It was a double bogey six, hand delivering the championship to Oglivy, who watched with astonishment from the clubhouse.

Tiger Woods has yet to blow any tournament, let alone a major in such fashion. Let's be honest here. Mickelson just flat out choked. He had a chance to change the way he is perceived as the "second or third best". He may never recover from this. Until someone proves otherwise, Tiger is still the best.

a ball on a miniature golf course, I quickly walked toward Ben in an effort to snatch his ball and make it look like the 5-year-old was the one who hooked his drive onto the asphalt. But as soon as I got to within grabbing distance, he put a death grip on his ball and flashed a "Don't even think about it!" look at me.

Earlier that week, at Glo-Golf, my ball got wedged under the foot of a triceratops. Now, that's something that doesn't happen every day at Fellows Creek, Hilltop or Pheasant Run.

Yes, there were mishaps along the way, but overall, it was an enjoyable experience.

WINDMILLS ARE GOOD

My criteria for ranking each hole worked like this: In order to be ranked highly, the hole had to be both fun and challenging. Holes could earn a possible 20 points — or, since we're talking miniature golf here — 20 windmills. Holes were rated on both a "Fun Factor" and a "Difficulty Factor." The scale for both was 1 to 10 windmills, with 10 ### being the best.

The five courses I played were: Armstrong's Funland in Van Buren Township, Glo-Golf, Sport-Way in Westland, Ford Road Miniature Golf in Garden City and Oasis. They were all in great shape and challenging in their own way.

Here are my final rankings. The 18th-best hole is listed first with the best hole bringing up the rear.

THE TOP 18

No. 18 — The 5th hole at Armstrong's Funland: Amazingly, this was the only hole of the 90 I played that had a windmill. Everybody knows you can't have a "Best 18" miniature golf hole list without a windmill hole. FUN FACTOR: 6.0 windmills; DIFFI-CULTY FACTOR: 2.5 windmills; TOTAL: 8.5 windmills.

No. 17 — 9th hole at Glo-Golf: In order to reach the tee, you have to step through the mouth of a huge shark. In order to reach the hole, you have to hit the ball squarely through a smaller shark's jaws. It must have been designed by that great miniature golf course architect, Peter Benchley. FUN: 6.0; DIFFICULTY: 3.0; TOTAL: 9.0.

No. 16 — 3rd hole at Glo-

(734) HV-SPORT 46245 Michigan Ave. hvsports.com

IN THE TEAM FOR 4 C

Golf: This may be the coolestlooking hole of the 90 I played. The only thing keeping it from appearing lower on the list is that it's not real challenging. The tee shot goes up a 10-foot ramp and into a huge pyramid. The ball then disappears briefly before falling onto a lower level to the left. FUN: 8.5; DIFFICULTY: 1.0: TOTAL: 9.5.

No. 15 — 10th hole at Glo-Golf: Very similar to the pyramid hole, but on this one the tee shot disappears into a 20foot high volcano before reappearing on the other side. FUN: 7.5; DIFFICULTY: 2.5; TOTAL: 10.0.

No. 14 — 5th hole at Ford Road Miniature Golf: Players have to hit their drive over a two-foot-high mound then onto a ramp that leads to a narrow ledge 20 feet away. The hole is situated on the ledge, making it difficult to reach. Comparable to the islandgreen hole at the Tournament Players Championship. FUN: 4.0; DIFFICULTY: 6.5; TOTAL: 10.5.

No. 13 — 8th hole at Sport-Way: Be advised to barely tap your first shot on this curving, downhill, dog-leg left or it will sail past the hole faster than Randy Moss running a fly pattern past the Lions' free safety. FUN: 5.0; DIFFICULTY: 6.0; TOTAL: 11.0.

No. 12 — 8th hole at Oasis: Shaped like a hairpin, this hole is un-aceable. If you get a holein-one on this one, send me the video and I'll personally buy you a lifetime supply of miniature golf pencils. FUN: 3.5; DIFFICULTY: 8.0; TOTAL: 11.5. No. 11 — 4th hole at Oasis: A hook comes in handy on this one-of-a-kind hole that requires a 360-degree shot around a rocket. FUN: 7.0; DIFFI-CULTY: 5.0; TOTAL: 12.0.

No. 10 — 1st hole at Armstrong's: A 20-somethingpound, four-foot-high weight attached to a string hangs within a half-inch from the top of the hole. When the player is ready to hit, his or her partner swings the weight back and forth over the hole. If the player mis-times his shot, the weight hits the ball and sends it sailing onto a runway at Willow Run Airport two miles away. Props to whoever thought of this hole. FUN: 6.5;

DIFFICULTY: 6.0; TOTAL: 12.5. MAKING THE TURN...

No. 9 — 12th hole at Oasis: This is the hole I lost my ball on in the McDonald's parking lot. Enough said. FUN: 4.0; DIF-FICULTY: 9.0; TOTAL: 13.0.

No. 8 – 16th hole at Armstrong's: This was - by far the most difficult hole I played. If Tiger Woods plays this hole, I guarantee you he launches his putter into the adjoining mobile-home park within 30 seconds of his tee shot. Since I have more composure than Tiger, it took 45 seconds before my putter took flight (just kidding!). The hole is located on top of an ant hill. You have to play it to believe it. FUN: 4.0; DIFFICULTY: 10.0; TOTAL: 14.0.

No. 7 – 14th hole at Sport-Way: If you hit your tee shot too far left on this straight downhill hole, it hits a rock and is directed into a fast-moving stream before coming out of a pipe 20 feet downhill and onto the green. It's the only time I've enjoyed hitting a golf ball into water. FUN: 8.5; DIFFI-CULTY: 6.0; TOTAL: 14.5.

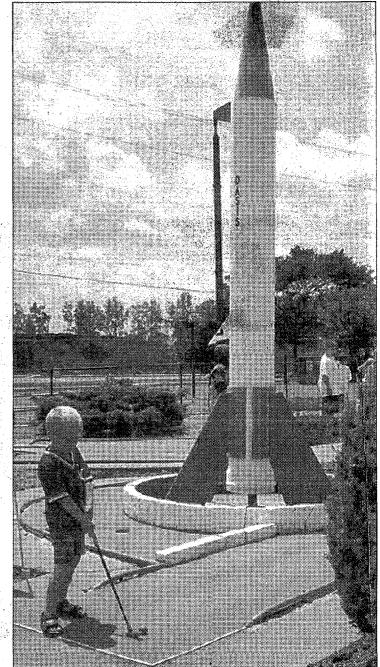

No. 6 — 6th hole at Ford Road Miniature Golf: This one is called the "Big Dipper" and for good reason. Use your imagination. FUN: 7.0; DIFFICUL-TY: 9.0; TOTAL: 16.0.

No. 5 — 14th hole at Ford Road Miniature Golf: This one is much like the ant hill hole at Armstrong's only it has a larger cup. You won't ace it, but you won't get a 12 either. FUN: 8.0; DIFFICULTY: 8.5; TOTAL: 16.5.

No. 4 — 16th hole at Glo-Golf: As a pair of pterodactyls circle overhead, this spacious hole requires you to maneuver around a large, snake-infested tree and find the cup, which is on an elevated green close to 30 feet away. Parring this hole is more difficult than trying to spell pterodactyls. FUN: 9.0; DIFFICULTY: 8.0; TOTAL: 17.0.

No. 3 — 6th hole at Sport-Way: You hit your tee shot from inside a castle down to the hole that is situated 30 feet below. If you hit it too hard, your ball goes into "Black Bart's Brink," which is almost as bad as a McDonald's parking lot. FUN: 9.0; DIFFICULTY: 8.5; TOTAL: 17.5.

No. 2 – 18th hole at

The fourth hole at the Oasis Golf Center course takes players for a 360degree trip around a rocket.

Armstrong's: There's something about the "put-the-ballin-the-clown's-nose-and-youwin-a-free-game" hole that gets everybody's adrenaline flowing. FUN: 8.5; DIFFICULTY: 9.5; TOTAL: 18.0.

Drum roll please...

No. 1 — 18th hole at Ford Road Miniature Golf: Again, a hole in one wins a free game. The only catch is, you have to hit it up a steep, 15-foot ramp that gets narrower as it gets higher. Win a free game on this one and you've earned it. FUN: 8.5; DIFFICULTY: 10.0; TOTAL:

18.5

Good luck with your miniature golfing this summer.

www.hometownlife.com

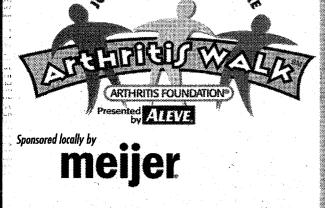

Remember: Hit it straight and hit it far.

On second thought, just hit it straight.

Oh, one more thing: If you stop by the McDonald's on 5 Mile just east of Haggerty and you see a blue golf ball laying near the drive-thru order window, could you please return it to the Oasis clubhouse for me? Thanks.

Clancy Callahan is pictured during his first night with his new owners at the Super 8 Motel in Claremore, Okla. He slept in the back seat of the car for most of the 1200 mile trip from Gainesville, Texas to Michigan.

Raising a companion animal can be costly

aising a puppy can be costly. The rolls of eaten toilet paper are minimal compared to the money I spent to drive 2,400 miles to Texas and back for a puppy from the same blood line as Shamrock, our Irish Wolfhound who died in November. My sister, Gwen, and I tried to adopt one of the lovable gentle giants by calling Irish Wolfhound rescue organizations around the country, but none were available so I

CANINE CRAZY - PART II

This is the second in a two-part series on the popularity of pets, with dogs leading the way. Today's section looks at how the pet business is booming, from premium retail items to individual services and pampering.

A fluffy customer tries out the mattress on this mahogany-finish dog bed at Art Van Furniture.

A dog's dream bed

Art Van is making its first foray into the pet world with beyond-cute miniature beds for dogs.

This comes from a man who just spent $1,000 on veterinary bills to save Sam, a rescued flat-coated retriever mix from a mysterious autoimmune disorder.

So far, Clancy's bills for treatment from Dr. Ben Colmery, the doggy dentist at Dixboro Dental and Medical Center, have totaled about the same amount, but eliminated the problem caused by his two lower canines cutting into the roof of his mouth. There's nothing worse than a cranky Irish Wolfhound puppy with a sore mouth.

That brings us back to the eaten toilet paper. We think the pain is what causes him to put everything in his mouth. He really hasn't done too much damage except to his teeth. Clancy loves to chew on rocks so it was back to the dentist for a $224 Clancy-proof restoration to protect the canines that were shortened.

None of the dental work, including the pulpectomy, has stopped Clancy from eating his food or stealing my kale plants before I could plant them in the garden. Of course, he loves Dick Van Patten's Organic Natural Balance dog food at \$25 for a 12 and  $\frac{1}{2}$  pound bag, and the organic ground turkey, rice and broccoli meal that I cook for him every night. My sister and I want to do everything possible to ensure he lives a long life, and that costs money.

Of course, the toys and grooming add up as well as his constant need for larger collars. Clancy is growing fast. At nine months, he weighs more than 115 pounds and doesn't realize his size. Since my sister and I already knew it was important to learn the right way to control a big dog, the three of us went to obedience school. Clancy graduated but I guess my sister and I still need more training. In the next couple of weeks we'll sign up for advanced classes.

I'm not complaining about the money or time I've invested in Clancy. Every morning he wakes me up because he wants some loving. Several tummy rubs and good boys later he's ready to start his day, and I

Dressing up Fido and Fluffy is one of the growing trends in today's pet market. It's part of a larger trend in which people are giving their beloved pets the same kinds of things they would give each other.

Fucini knows a lot about that. Not only she is a pet owner, but she works in public relations for Pet Supplies "Plus," a Farmington Hills-based chain.

"Pets are being viewed as more part of the family," says Fucini, of West Bloomfield. "They're included on vacations and holiday get togethers, at picnics and parties. They have their own travel gear." She credits some of the change in the way pets are treated to today's smaller families.

"There are more childless couples than a couple of generations ago, and couples having babies later," Fucini said. "There are more empty nesters."

For them, and for singles delaying families while they establish a career, "The pet takes the place of a child." It all contributes to a pet retail and service industry, which she says "has been growing at an astronomical rate." American Pet

The dog beds are in the same styles as the ones for humans, he said. The collection has head- and foot-boards that mirror their owner's beds. The beds are 36-inches wide by 30-inches long and come in four styles and finishes: Oak, mahogany, cognac and pine. They can be bought with or without a mattress imprinted with bones and paws. The 5-inch foam mattress is encased in a removable cover for easy care. The cost: $249.

"It's an emotional tie" that leads to the purchase as much as a decor one. Macdonald said of the beds. He said these days, pets are considered part of the family and owners want them to have the same amenities as other family members.

As Art Van caters to the "heart and home," it's a perfect fit, he said.

The company has 29 Michigan locations. In the Observer & Eccentric coverage area, they are in Livonia, Southfield and Westland.

How do I love thee? With doggy parties, special chow, clothes

Good dog ownership runs the gamut.

It generally includes giving the dog a good diet, regular vet visits, daily exercise and loving attention.

But some dog owners go above and beyond for their pets by saying "I love you" in some unusual ways. Meet a few:

BIRTHDAY DOGS

Turkey and garlic cake with mashed potato frosting, homemade fire hydrant-shaped treats, water bowls and party hats.

Nancy Redilla of Troy knows exactly what it takes to make her dog, Max, feel special on his birthday. "It's just a love of animals," Nancy said of why she and husband, Bob, throw parties for their dog and their friends' dogs. "You know how you get a crazy idea and you just get going?"

It all started when Redilla offered to bake a cake and treats for the pet blessing at her church, Unity of Rochester, about five years ago. "As soon as we found out there were people there who are animal lovers - look out!" she said. She threw her first party for their dog, Casey, who has since died. Redilla baked food for both pets and owners, bought hats and decorative plates and tablecloths.

"Just about anybody that had a dog that I knew came. They all came -16, 17 dogs maybe. Some people had two dogs. One person had three," Nancy said.

"And they were pretty quiet, too. They didn't fight or anything," Bob added. "They were more interested in eating that cake."

After playing, the dogs settle down or snooze. There's no pin-the-tail on the kitty cat, or other party games, although guests sometimes bring gifts for the birthday dog.

In winter, the parties move indoors from the Redilla's spacious backyard to their modest-sized house.

"When it turns gray outside, we have lasagna and they have their treats and we can all enjoy each other's company," Nancy said.

HOME COOKIN'

Haley lives with Mike Dolkowski and his wife in Troy. The couple own a business in Canton Township, have two grown children who no longer live at home, and two furry children, Haley and Shelby, a 13-year-old papillion.

Dolkowski started making dog food from scratch when he discovered that Haley had developed allergies to pre-packaged fare.

"I took her to the allergist and we spent $1,500 giving her tests," he said.

"It was difficult. We said, let's just make our own. We tried fish, chicken and duck. The duck worked for her," he said.

Dolkowski adds vitamins to his mix of duck and potatoes. He often grinds the duck and dries the mixture, adding water when he's ready to serve it. He makes duck jerky as a treat and bakes his own dog cookies.

"Probably every other weekend I spend Saturday morning baking," he said.

Dolkowski said Shelby benefits from eating the same food as Haley. The pair spend their days together at Camp Bow Wow, a doggy daycare center in Troy.

A DOG WITH EVERYTHING

Truffles may be the best-dressed, most chauffeured, well-equipped bichon frise in all of metro Detroit.

"He's my first-born and only child. Even Truffles' vet said he's too much of a prince to be around another dog," said owner Patty Livernois, of West Bloomfield.

A closet full of clothing, two strollers, a wagon, backpack and car seat, indoor bathroom, customized doggy dinner table designed to ease neck strain and a specialized diet would make any dog feel a bit like royalty.

But Livernois says she has a good reason to pamper her pet.

"He's allergic to about 90 percent of life," she said, explaining that his immune system was weakened, the result of too-close breeding.

She feeds him a vegan diet, consisting of "people grade" food and chooses homeopathic and holistic medical treatment. She worked with a chemist for months, developing a skin-soothing shampoo that she tested on herself before using it on Truffles.

"He's always dressed and that started because of his allergies," Livernois said.

Livernois began altering baby clothes and dressing him in outfits when he was 1 year old, a technique that prevented him from chewing on itchy skin.

"His business suit is my favorite," she said, noting that he has "jammies" and more casual looks as well.

Truffles occasionally strolls outdoors in shoes, called Gooby Boots.

But most of his romping is limited to inside their condo, where his paws won't touch dirty sidewalks or chemically-sprayed lawns. He even relieves himself indoors on potty-training pads placed over tiled flooring, behind a privacy screen.

"He's the reason I'm single," Livernois said, with a laugh, explaining that he has the run of

Pets love summer too but safety precautions needed

According to a recent survey conducted by the Pet Supplies "Plus" chain, 67.5 percent of pet owners say summer is their pets favorite season

A highlight is the Fourth of July. According to the 275 pet owners who took the survey, 40.6 percent of pet owners will dress their pet with a patriotic bandana for the Fourth of July and 37.9 percent will involve their pet in Fourth of July celebrations.

On the down side, 60.4 percent of pets are frightened by fireworks.

Pet Supplies "Plus" offers some summer safety tips for pets:

1. If pet owners plan on taking their pets to see a firework display make sure that the dog is on a leash at all times. The loud bangs and colors may disorient even a calm dog.

2. If a pet has to be outside for a long period of time make sure they have access to shade.

3. Whenever possible walk dogs on a grassy area rather than on hot pavements. Hot pavements can burn pads of a dog's feet in no time.

4. Never leave your dog in a parked car. This is the number one cause of heatstroke. On an 80-degree summer day, the inside of a car can reach far above 120 degrees within minutes.

5. The most important thing to remember is to make sure that your dog has plenty of fresh water. A ceramic or clay bowl is ideal to keep water cooler for longer periods of time during the hot days of summer. Place ice cubes in the bowl to keep it cold longer.

6. Always supervise a dog while they are swimming; they get tired just like humans. Always rinse off your dog with fresh water after swimming. Water has bacteria and parasites that can cause a dog to become severely ill.

NORBERT J.

FLECKENSTIEN

'Sonny" to close family, "Fleck" by most, age 82 of Westland passed away peacefully June 22, 2006. He was preceded in death by only 25 days by his wife of 57 years, Shirley. Survivors include two daughters, Susan Jo and Barbara Ann (John Vaughn) both of Canton, three grandchildren Maxwell, Jackson, and Mitchell, and two sisters, Carla (Jack Mills) and Ann, both from Virginia. He was also preceded in death by another sister, Teddy from Union Lake. Fleck was born on July 1923 in Muskegon, Michigan Norbert and Elsa (Meeske) Fleckenstein and raised entirely in the area. Norbert's family heritage has a link to the historical Fleckenstein Castle in Germany and he is the grandson of Muskegon patriarch Gustav Meeske.. His family ran many businesses in the Muskegon area including a brewery, tannery, and banking. The only Fleckenstein business to survive the depression was the tannery, which Norbert help run during his teenage years. He was a multiple sport letterman for the Big Reds of Muskegon High School from 1939 42 playing football, basketball, wrestling, and track. He qualified for the state finals in shotput his junior year and was elected captain of the football team his senior year during the fall 1941 season. Upon graduation in 1942, Fleck was recruited by and joined the Michigan State (University) College football team.Norbert left the college prior to the football season beginning his freshmen year to join the war efforts. He served in the Army Air Force earning the rank of sergeant as a lead flight mechanic for the 398th bomb group of the 8th Air Force working on the famous B-17 Flying Fortress. Norbert was stationed in Nuthampstead, England and earned battle stars for Normandy, Northern France, Ardennes, and Air Offensive Europe. After VE day and returning home on the Queen Mary, he was shipped off to be trained on B-29's but the war ended prior to completion. Norbert returned to college, attending Western Michigan (University) Teaching College where he earned a varsity letter playing football for the Broncos. Fleck began a long career in the financial loan industry with Seaboard Finance in Muskegon. During the 1950's Fleck played semiprofessional football in the Lions' organization while continuing his finance career. After many company mergers and acquisitions, he eventually retired from Chrysler Financial in 1988. During his retirement years, he tinkered with VCR and other electronics repair work and continued to follow Muskegon football, but his primary focus was helping to raise his three grandsons. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion. Please share a "Memorial Tribute" with the family to Norbert at griffinfuneralhome.com. Care and services have been entrusted to L.J. Griffin Funeral Home 734-981-1700. Contributions can be made to Angela Hospice of Livonia in the

Dogs romp, socialize, play at bark parks

Canine friends meet at one of three ramps on the dock in Lake Sixteen in the Orion Oaks Bark Park in Orion Township.

Karen Gorman tells her clients that "a tired dog is a good dog."

"So many people give their dogs up to shelters. If their dogs just had regular exercise, they'd go home and sleep at night."

Gorman, a dog trainer, keeps her E-Z Dog Park in Howell open 24-7, 365 days a year, giving owners every opportunity to let their dogs run, romp and wear themselves out on her 8acre canine playground.

"The difference between me and other dog parks in Michigan is that I'm private. I charge $7 a visit or $30 a month. I've got a separate area for small dogs. I don't allow children in. And there are some dogs and people I don't let in."

She checks out each dog to make sure they're suitable for dog park play. And play is just what she says dogs need. "Let the dog have fun. That's the idea of a dog park," she said. Although customers must watch their dogs and clean up after them, Gorman suggests they also "relax" and socialize with other adults while allowing their dogs to have fun together.

"I've got seating, a pavilion. Some people come here for five or six hours. I get people from all over the metro area. On Friday nights we have happy hour. We cook hot dogs, order pizza. We always like to see if the pizza man will walk into the bark park," she said. "They usually do, but we have these visions of him walking in and the dogs ending up with all the pizza."

E-Z Dog Park and Training Center is located at 230 Norlynn Drive in Howell. Take I-96 west, exit at 145 (Grand River), and turn right. In less than a mile, turn right onto Hacker. Go 3.3 miles to the facility. (810) 229-7353.

A few other fenced parks:  $\blacksquare$  Birmingham — Free and open to the public, the park is fenced and located at Springdale Golf Course. From Woodward Avenue, make a right on Strathmore, a block north of Big Beaver, and follow it to its dead end at Springdale Erica Weaver of Lake Orion (left), Tina Caldwell of Auburn Hills and Jill Williams of Orion Township watch from the dock as dogs play in the caninesonly lake at Orion Oaks Bark Park in Orion Township.

Cooling off in Lake Sixteen in Orion Township.

Park. (248) 644-1807.

Clinton Township – Annual cost is $20 annually for non-residents and $10 for residents. Locked and located at 40700 Romeo Plank Road at the Clinton Township Civic Center. Dog owners receive a park pass card when they pay and register. (586) 286-9336. ■ Lake Orion — The 14-acre Orion Oaks Bark Park is located on Joslyn about three miles north of I-75. Vehicles parked in the lot must have an Oakland County parks sticker. The park consists of three fenced areas and includes meadow, trails through forested areas, a lake with diving dock (dogs only), drinking water, benches, tables, waste bags and receptacles. (248) 858-0906 or www.oakgov.com.

Lyon Township — The 13-acre Lyon Oaks Dog Park requires an Oakland County parks permit for vehicle entry. It's similar to Orion Oaks but has no lake access for dogs. Located on Pontiac Trail between Wixom and Old Plank roads. (248) 432-7345.

Pleasant Ridge — The half-mile long by 150-feet wide dog run has benches, some parking and a water fountain. $50 annual fee for non-residents; $25 for residents. From Woodward, take Sylvan east to Indiana and turn left. Indiana dead ends at the park. Dog owners receive a park pass card when they register and pay. (248) 542-7322.

Warren — The 350-feet by 150-feet Ann Fracassa Memorial Dog Park has waste bags and receptacles, water, benches, toys and two doggy pools. $20 annually non-residents; $10 residents. Located at the end of Pauline, just south of 12 Mile, between Mound and Van Dyke. Owners get a code to unlock the gate after paying and registering. (586) 751-0168.

■ West Bloomfield — The 3acre park, located at Karner Farms, 5911 Halstead, is open to residents only. A $20 annual fee, mandatory meeting and registration required. (248) 738-2500.

ong-term care Everything you need to know about living in a nursing home

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Lynn Dickinson's first reaction to learning that Xenia Vosen owned three nursing homes was "that's gross," but then her family was faced with seeking a long-term care facility for her mother-in-law. Until that time, Dickinson had never set foot in a nursing home. Her chance meeting with Vosen was about to change her negative opinion.

Dickinson met Vosen, who holds a doctorate in social gerontology, while attending a conference on an unrelated topic in Florida in January 2004. Vosen began telling her positive stories about the nursing homes she operated in Germany. The emotional issues surrounding the decision to place a parent or loved one in a nursing home are similar in Germany where nursing homes bear the same stigma as in the U.S. Before long the two were working together on Living Well in a Nursing Home: Everything You and Your Folks Need To Know. The book was published about one month ago by Hunter House.

COPING WITH GUILT

Check lists and quizzes help determine which option is right for the elderly person and their family. Dickinson's mother-in-law had Alzheimer's and no longer knew where she was anymore so she needed 24-hour-a-day care. Dickinson started to tour nursing homes to find "a good one." She says, the biggest mistake people make when deciding on long-term care is going with their first instinct to bring mom or dad home to live with them. In the book, she goes into the feelings of guilt about the decision to place a loved one in a nursing home

"The first instinct is it's always bad to go to a home. The book helps to evaluate whether or not home care is right for you, why a nursing home might not be such a bad option in certain cases," said Dickinson, who grew up in Redford and now lives in Santa Monica, Calif. She holds a master's degree in spiritual psychology and a bachelor's degree from Wayne State University. "We talk about emotions that will come up. This can tear apart a family. Often the families seem more troubled than the loved one.

Throughout the book, Dickinson and Vosen describe elderly people living in difficult circumstances. The names have been changed, but the suffering of one 82-year-old woman who lived in a third-floor walk-up apartment in Dickinson's building was real

"Every now and then I saw a face looking down at the kids playing," said Dickinson, 46. "It's really hard for people to participate in community when they can't get out. They're isolated in their homes.

After a friend encouraged the woman to move into a nursing home, she not only received the medical care needed but now has a boyfriend and participates in the facility's activities. She is happier and no longer isolated.

NOT AN EASY CALL

It is difficult to know when a loved one needs help with everyday living. As long as a parent is mentally capable, it's always his or her choice to stay in their home or move. If they're not mentally able, their family can use the guide in the book to decide what's right for everyone involved. When Dickinson's mother-in-law needed five full-time caregivers around the clock and she was sitting in her own living room asking to go home, the family knew it was time to look for a long-term care facility.

Depending on an elderly person's health, the options include retirement communities, assisted living facilities, nursing homes, and rehabilitation centers if there is hope for recovery after suffering a stroke or heart attack.

"We dropped Clyde's mother off at night. She was coming from Missouri and woke up in California. We worried she would wake up in a strange environment and we weren't there, but we need not have. When we walked in the next morning she was in the middle of the room hitting a balloon back and forth with the other residents," said Dickinson.

"It's knowing what your parent or loved one needs. We're not saying all nursing homes are great. Nursing home reform is something we need to get to that needs help to improve and can improve through voluntary means with pet therapy, gardening

"I love this concept! What a great idea.

Everything You and Your Folks Need to Know

Lynn Dickinson, M.A. and Xenia Vosen, Ph.D. with Seperine Biedermann Lynn Dickinson and Xenia Vosen wrote this book to make the decision of moving a loved one to a nursing home easier.

then they'll be there when we need them. We wouldn't think of not going to plant a flower at a parent's home, but hesitate when it's at a nursing home."

Communication with staff is even more important to obtain the proper care for a loved one. The second part of the book deals with life and problems in a facility. If a loved one is complaining of cramps, he or she might tell family but not the staff. Dickinson covers when and how to approach staff for help and how to tell if a resident is being neglected. The nursing home where her mother-in-law lives was recently sold so the family is watching to see what changes, good or bad, new ownership will bring.

"The most important thing is to know that they have options. The book is an educate campaign to let people know. I've now even thought about my own self in that position since writing the book," said Dickinson. "More than 50 percent of the diseases of aging are lifestyle-related. I've started eating healthier, working out regularly. It got me thinking about my body. When people died in older days they used to spend 1 percent of their lives incapacitated or infirm. Now they spend at least 10 percent of their lives infirm or incapacitated.

Living Well in a Nursing Home: Everything You and Your Folks Need To Know is available at www.amazon.com, and major bookstores such as Barnes & Noble.

Shelly, the latest research gives new cre-women, with a history of urinary infections, a daily dose of cranberry juice, a dose of good bacteria, or nothing at all. After six months, the cranberry juice drinkers were only half as likely to suffer a recurrence of infection. Scientists believe a substance in the juice may prevent bacteria from sticking to the walls of the urinary tract.

To get proper amounts of pure juice, you'll have to drink 6 ounces of the unsweetened cranberry cocktail per day. That's the kind of cranberry juice you'll usually find on store shelves near you. Enjoy!

Jaclyn from Battle Creek e-mails asking what foods she can eat to help protect her eyesight.

Jill, new research is coming into focus that will help answer that important question. Scientists now say that antioxidants found in green leafy vegetables, such as spinach and collard greens, can help prevent cataracts. Lab experiments show that the antioxidants Lutein and Zeaxanthin will protect the eyes from ultraviolet light.

prime causes of cataracts.

These two antioxidants were found to be 10 times more powerful than Vitamin E when it comes to eye protection, even though scientists have been saying for years that Vitamin E was one of the best natural sources of eye protection. The research is especially important since 20 million Americans will develop some kind of cataract or other eye problem.

It turns out when mom told you to eat your spinach she was right on the money!

In osteoarthritis of the shoulder the cartilage of the shoulder joint wears away. At present no medication exists to replace that cartilage. There is no proof that glucosamine or any similar substance can replace worn shoulder cartilage. While the non-steroidal drugs like ibuprofen and aspirin can relieve shoulder pain, these medications cannot stop the underlying irritation that cause the pain.

Shoulder replacement is possible. However, in older persons, the group most likely to experience shoulder osteoarthritis, the rehabilitation needed to restore movement, is often difficult to impossible. One possibility of a failed shoulder operation is not being able to drive a car. For a person living in Southeaster Michigan, the risk of that loss often cause a rethinking of an operation.

Other treatment includes physical therapy or joint injection. Physical therapy may suffice, but if it does not, joint injection with cortisone is an option. Some physicians inject shoulder joints with a form of hyaluronic acid, but injections with steroids is the procedure of proven benefit.

Success with steroid or hvaluronic acid injections depends on an accurate injection. The injection must reach the shoulder joint if it is to be effective, but getting there can be difficult. The medical community is working on ways of guiding the injection needle to assure that accuracy. In the meanwhile, it may be necessary to repeat the injection before determining if the procedure is effective or not. www.drjjweiss.yourmd.com

Pet Supplies "Plus" has grown to meet the demand. It started with one store in Redford in 1988, as a pioneer in bringing supermarket-style merchandising to the field. It's now a franchise chain with more than 200 stores in 20 states.

PET PRODUCTS, SERVICES

As the industry grows, never before seen products and services are appearing on the market. A sample of trends and offerings follows:

GOING TO THE DOGS

Big-name companies are adding pet product lines. A new example: Nathan's hot dog treats. Known as a premium hot dog for people, the dog treats are premium too, using "human grade" ingredients. Scott Samet of Petbrandz.com, which offers the product, says, "I think people are just more aware that it's probably better for their pet to give them higher quality items."

Fucini of Pet Supplies "Plus" says another trend, as with people, is supplementing food with medicinal ingredients. "A big trend is treating

Herniated Disc Technology Discovered by NASA Scientists

CHRIS BOTTI Sunday, July 30 at 7:30pm He's back! The hottest young trumpet player on the scene. This time jorned by the DSO. "The sexiest trimper player since Chet Baker." - Rex Reed CLASSICAL SUPERSTARS Friday, Aug. 4 at 8pm Featuring classical blockbuster's from the last 400 years. TCHAIKOVSKY SPECTACULAR Saturday, Aug. 5 at 8pm The DSO presents favorites from one of the greatest Russian composers, topped off by the patrione 1812 Overme. CALIENTE! Featuring BOLERO Sunday, Aug. 6 at 7:30pm Close out the DSO's summer season arthritic and joint conditions, because as the average age of pets is increasing with better care it is lleading to more senior conditions like arthritis," she said.

"Also, pets are not being kept outside and it's creating overweight animals. So there are lots of foods on the market that are weight control type products."

GOOD DOG

Vladae Roytapel is a Troybased dog trainer and coowner of Alternative Canine Training, which offers homebased training and approaches behavior problems from the dog's point of view. He also writes a column for the Eccentric, and is the "Dog Wizard" for local television's Fox 2. Roytapel started his business here four years ago. "It's a tremendous market," he said. "When we started we charged $60-65 a lesson. Now, its $120-130 a lesson. Even though the economy has slowed down dramatically, we still have a waiting list."

"In the U.S., dogs are like kids," said Roytapel, who previously resided in the Soviet Union and Europe. But he added he has trainer friends in India and China who report the same tendencies. "Before the dog would live outside, now they take it inside, treat it like a child."

Like children, however, they need to learn obedience. So much of his business is helping people understand how to get the best behavior out of theirbeloved pets, just as a canine parent would.

Roytapel is now going to franchise his business.

HOME ALONE NO MORE

One of the most recent doggy day care centers to open is the Canine Campus in Farmington Hills, providing dog day care, boarding, grooming and training. And now your dog can go to camp, too. Camp Bow Wow in Troy, part of a national franchise company, provides "premier doggy day and overnight camps" with live "camper cams" for families to see their dog while they're away, certified camp counselors, campfire treats, indoor and outdoor play areas and overnight cabins.

MUST LOVE DOGS

For the single looking for a partner who "must love dogs," Canine to Five, a doggy day care in Detroit, hosts Hot Dogs, a monthly singles social at which dogs and dog lovers can meet — although dogs get the bonus of a playspace.

THE BEST MEDICINE

Medical advancements in pet care include canine dialysis, brain surgery, hip replacements, cancer treatment and cataract surgery. Michigan Veterinary Specialists recently opened a new 38,000-square-foot hospital in Southfield. Educational offerings include a free Pet CPR/First Aid class showing how to address common emergencies and a demonstration of "mouth to snout" CPR.

www.hometownlife.com

Holistic medicine is also available for pets, such as acupuncture and massage. Pet insurance is also gaining in popularity.

One might wonder: What do the pets think about it all? For instance, what does Casper think of wearing a lifejacket?

"They're your best friend and they're going to trust you and think whatever you do is normal," Fucini said.

As for her, she loves pets and loves the business.

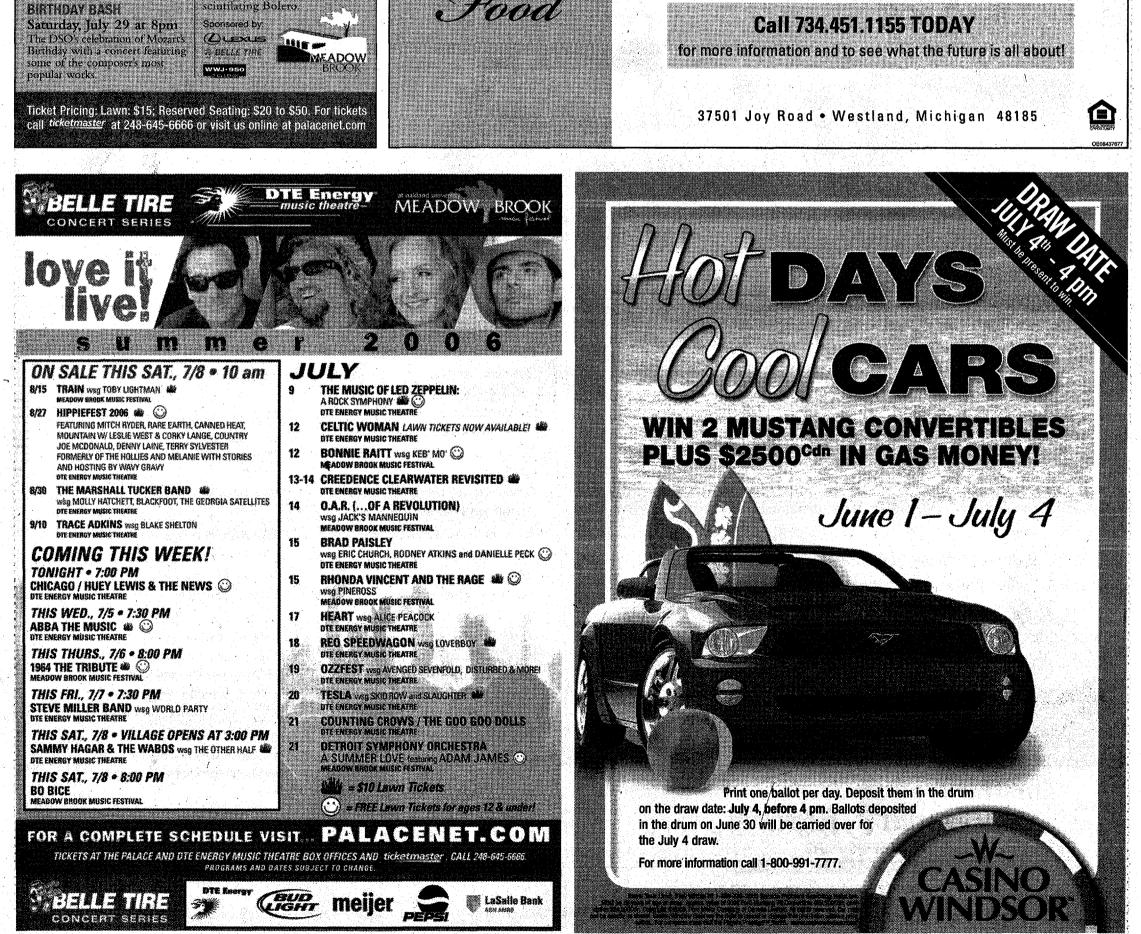

"It's a happy business. The people in the industry are happy people."

"Of course, it's for the money," Roytapel said, "but also for the love of animals."

Solid resume key to job hunting is that if a career professional truly wants to get a leg up on the competition, the equivalent of one week's pay should be invested to have a certified professional review skills and experience, and then craft an effective resume package that will guarantee that next move up the corporate ladder. So, what happens to the promising graduate that just spent the last six or seven years in school pursuing a dream, and doesn't have a weeks pay to spend on the perfect resume? Enter GradResumes.com who truly stands behind their company slogan, "Our Focus Is Your Future."

The average cost to have an entry or graduate level resume package written by an industry certified resume writer is $236. These are services provided by reputable companies that are experts in their fields. A typical student earns $7 an hour and works an average of 13 hours a week part time. A professional resume service equates to more than three weeks pay for the average student. GradResumes.com is offering students a complete resume package for just $84. The affordability is based on the company's desire to help brand new graduates, who finished school in 2006 and are having trouble launching their post-graduate careers.

GradResumes.com has completed thousands of resumes for graduates and students. Not having work history on an entry-level resume does not have to be a detriment. Analyzing transferable skills, academic achievements, community involvement and internships, the company uses its proprietary graduate "Steps System" to clearly demonstrate the long-term value a graduate can offer employers - and assist clients to quickly and easily find the right job.

The owner of GradResumes.com, Tracey Drake, said: "I believe in the importance of educating new graduates regarding the importance of launching a career, and the value of their education and transferable skills to potential employers. We are excited to make professional resume writing services more accessible financially to even more graduates and students by offering a affordable services on all graduate packages."

GradResumes.com graduate resume writing service is one of the most inexpensive specialty services available online and packages offered are extremely comprehensive. Every client resume package delivered includes a resume in three formats, a customized cover letter, a customized followup letter and a Web published html version so employers can find applicants online. The company does not stop at providing just a resume package. Each client also receives a free 50-page eBook, researched and written by the company, which extensively covers all aspects of a job search from what to wear and how to prepare for a telephone interview, to practicing responses to tough interview questions and researching a potential employer.

For additional information about resume writing for students and graduates, visit www.GradResumes.com.

Not having work history on an entry-level resume does not have to be a detriment.

'Me first' not so for counselors

(NAPSI) — Despite today's "me first" society, there are still college graduates who want to make a difference.

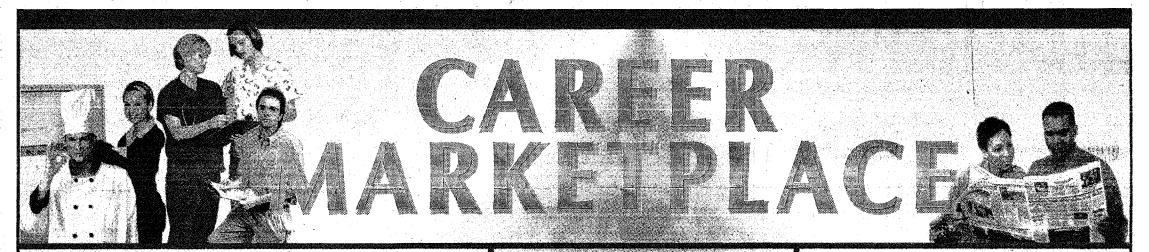

"We can tell if a counselor job applicant has a passion about our work," said Malia Kekahuna, who hires counselors for Eckerd Youth Alternatives (EYA), a leading provider of services for troubled youths. "They want to have an impact on these kids. They change society one child at a time."

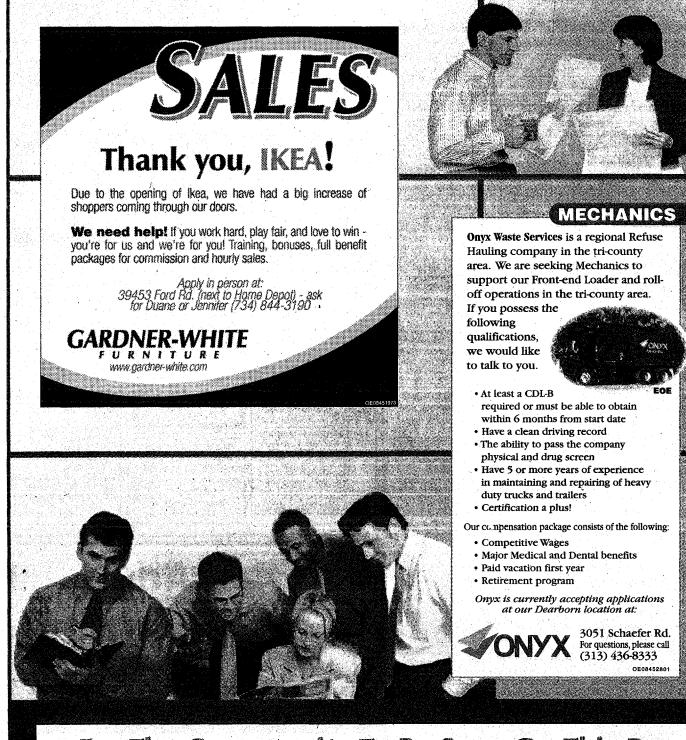

EYA has several outdoor programs in eight states and is constantly looking for counselors with various majors. The programs integrate group and individual therapy, adventure, communication skills and a fully accredited educational component.

Counselors have few expenses, so many save money while enjoying an outdoor lifestyle. Skills like patience and problem solving apply easily to any career.

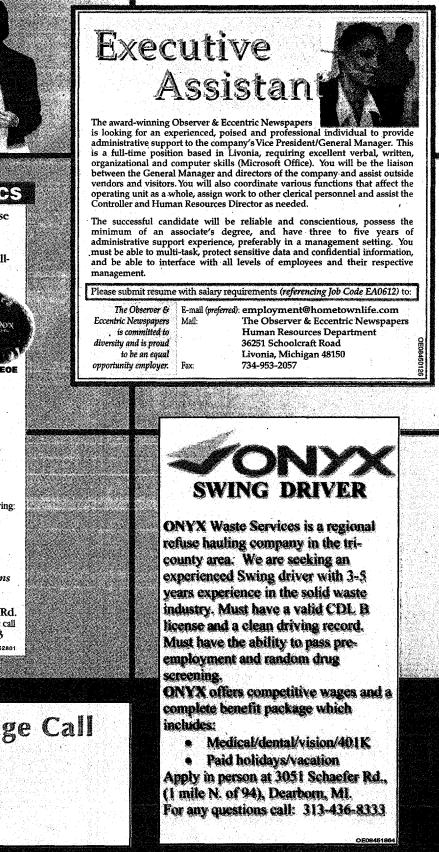

"The rewards are immense," Kekahuna said. "A connection with a child may last a lifetime."

EYA is seeking counselors in Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, Vermont, New Hampshire, Tennessee, Rhode Island and Ohio. For more information, call (800) 222-1473 or see www.eckerdyouth.org.

You can do it: Tips to raise home's resale value

Curb appeal counts in selling

(NewsUSA) — You've decided to move, but the housing market is more competitive than ever. To get an edge on your competition, it's important to make your home as appealing as possible so that you can sell it quickly and at its maximum value.

Home improvement experts provide the following tips to increase the resale value of your home:

■ Give it curb appeal. A home's exterior' is one of the most important selling points. During the warmer seasons, have colorful flowers and potted plants adorn your yard and entryways. Repaint your front door and replace welcome mats that appear worn or dirty. Also, have the grass cut and trim bushes and shrubs regularly.

Improve or replace siding. If the outside of your home is looking a bit dull, re-siding can be a dramatic and cost-effective way to improve its appearance. Companies now offer siding that replicates the beauty of real cedar, brick and stone yet requires less maintenance. If you are not looking to replace the siding on your entire home, choose certain areas for accent siding.

■ Remove the clutter. Excess furniture can make a room seem smaller. Rearrange or remove furniture to give your home a feeling of openness.

Address any imperfections that can be easily fixed. Look at carpets for stains; walls and ceilings for paint scuffs or marks; floors for chips or cracks; and any other noticeable flaws. Replace fixtures and hardware to improve the appearance of the kitchen and bathrooms. Brighten it up. Lighting is essential because it can portray a certain mood and accentuate features of a room. Open the blinds and drapes to let as much natural light in as possible, and consider installing accent lighting. ■ Make it sparkle. Your home should be thoroughly clean and tidy to ensure potential homebuyers see it at its best. Burn candles or scented oils to remove any lingering odors. And don't forget about the outside: Clean off porches and decks and brush off debris from walkways.

Making your home look more attractive will boost its curb appeal, making it easier to sell.

Shown by appt. Mon - Fri

There will be free a Homebuyer's Seminar 11 to 3 p.m. Saturday, July 8, at Century 21 Today, one block west of Beech Daly at 26000 Five Mile in Redford. There will be door prizes and giveaways. Speakers include: real estate attorney, title company, mortgage lender, home inspector, certified public accountant and others. Attendees will get answers to these questions: Why do buyers receive free buyer agency representation and whydo they need it? What is the difference between a private inspection and a required municipal inspection? How much home can I afford and how do I protect my credit score while shopping for a loan? How can buying a home actually save me money? How do I get seller concessions to cover my costs? For details, contact Mel Haggood at (313) 538-2000 or e-mail

Homebuyer class

A free Homebuyer's Class will be 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 11, at Fidelity National Title at Six Mile and I-275. It is put on by Rosemary Firestone of RE/MAX 100 and Michael Firestone of Golden Mortgage. There will be a home inspector present. Attendees are both first-time buyers and experienced buyers. The class will cover why it is important to be pre-approved and what that entails; what kinds of mort-. gages are available and to whom; how to avoid a "lemon" and have the house inspected professionally; have a buyer's agent working only for you not the seller; how to get seller's concessions to help cover your costs; how to decide on a good offering price; what are all the papers involved in writing an offer. Call for reservations (24 hours) at (734) 420-9600 or e-mail at: info@rfirestone-team.com.

Time to sell: What you need to do when holding an open house

What are some basic rules I should know regarding having an open house?

An open house is a great opportunity to expose your house to the neighborhood. Here are some general things to keep in mind when holding one open:

■ The house should be immaculate. This is your chance to present your house to the public. I have seen buyers get turned off about a house because of dust. Although, the house after it's sold can be cleaned it creates a bad feeling if the house is perceived by buyers to be dirty. ■ Just about all the lights should be on. There is a different feeling walking through a house that is dark, rather than one that is lit up. The dark house creates a gloomy feeling, You are selling your house. It needs to be as presentable as possible.

■ You should not be there. You want buyers to feel comfortable walking through the house and checking out closets. It makes most buyers uncomfortable to closely look inside a house if the owners are there. If they don't carefully examine the house there is less of a chance they will write an offer on it. Generally the more time they spend in the house, the greater likelihood that they are interested in buying it.

The best thing you can do is stay away. Go visit relatives, see a movie, do some shopping, etc. It's the job of your Realtor to sell the house during the open house.

■ All the people whom visit your house should sign in on the guest register. This is a security precaution. Complete strangers are coming into your house. There should be a way to monitor who the visitors are.

■ Often there are nosy neighbors who will visit your house because they are well, nosy. It is still good for the sales process for them to come and see your house. They may have friends or relatives who are interested in moving in next to them.

If they see the inside of your house, assuming they like what they are seeing, there is more of a chance that they will sell the house for you. The more people who see your house the better. Also, nosy neighbors talk a lot more to others than non-nosy types, so they may be your best salespeople.

First-timers should sweep up model

Homes designed for narrow lots that have a quality appearance to them are always in demand. The new housing projects have many lots that need that special home to fit. The Kirby Farm (D8093) has 1,212 square feet and is nearly square in shape. It has distinctive rooflines that provide character to the front this great starter home.

The entry has a covered porch with a transom overhead. Inside to the right side is a closet, while the stairs for the unfinished basement is on the left.

Straight ahead is the large great room with a fireplace covering nearly half of the back wall. Windows with transoms overhead decorate the balance of the area. In a front corner is a bookshelf, ideal for having a favorite book ready to read at a moment's notice.

To the right of the great room is a large nook. This eating area is enhanced with large windows bathing the room in light. For convenience, a door to the back yard has been inserted at the rear of the nook. The kitchen for the Kirby Farm is "C" shaped with an eating bar facing the nook. A corner sink is adjacent to the eating bar and a pantry is across the walkway.

At the end of the kitchen is a door leading to the utility room. An extra storage closet has been added to the utility. Another door opening into the two-car garage makes bringing in groceries or kids easier. An extra jog in the garage provides a possibility of storage or a workbench for the weekend do-it- yourselfer.

The Kirby Farm has two bedrooms, the master suite in the left rear area, and the secondary bedroom (ideal as a kid's room or nursery) in the left front. A full bath is located between the two bedrooms, along with a linen closet in the hall. This is easily accessible from the rest of the home through an arched doorway. The master suite has a large walk-in closet with twin sinks directly across the walkway. This is ideal for getting ready for work in the mornings. There is an oversized shower conveniently located beside the closet.

Entry into this suite passes through an arched doorway, and over the basement stairwell.

Kirby Farm has the openness of a traditional old farmhouse and could easily be expanded.

For a study plan of the KIRBY FARM (D8093), send $15 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Rd. E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424 or call (800) 562-1151. Be sure to specify plan name and number. Compact disks, with search functions are free of charge, to help you search for you dream home ($5shipping and han-dling will apply). Or you may order or search online at www.ldiplans.com. People that know what I do ask me the question all the time. What car do you really like best? It's a hard question to answer. There are a lot of different vehicles I like for a lot of different reasons. Somewhere in my top five, though, has got to be the 2006 Mercedes-Benz E350 sedan.

Its a new model, replacing the not-too-shabby E320. and its nice to look at and fun to drive. The E350, which also comes in a wagon configuration, is what I call a personal sedan -- not so large as to lose all road feel and be difficult to maneuver, and not so small that its ride is uncomfortable and its space too tight. It just feels like a part of you when you drive it.

You can tell its a Mercedes right away. Its got the distinctive front fascia of a Mercedes, larger outside headlamps with smaller inside lamps and the classic Mercedes hood ornament. The lines are sharp and clean. Although there wasn t one on the test car, you can get an AMG Sport package for the E350 that includes an ANGdesign sculpted front air dam and rear apron, dual polished chrome exhaust tips and 18-inch wheels with performance tires. Even without the sport package, though, the E350 looks nice.

The E350 is powered by a 3.5-liter V-6, featuring four valves per cylinder, double-overhead camshafts and variable valve timing for both intake and exhaust valves. The engine is rated at 268 horsepower, which is an increase of 20 percent over the 3.2-liter engine it replaces, and 258 lb.-ft. of torque.

The good news is that six cylinders are enough to give you a nice shot of power off the line (0-60 in 6.5 seconds) and more-than-adequate passing power, and it's rated at 19 mpg city and 27 on the highway. The bad news is that it takes premium fuel.

It s mated to a very smooth transmission. It s a sevenspeed automatic with touch shift. You can do the shifting yourself, if you care to, but I never felt the need. With seven gears to choose from, the shift points always seemed to be properly spaced and, at times, almost unnoticeable.

Where the E350 really shines, though, is in how it handles. It seems to almost anticipate the road ahead and quickly compensates for twists and turns. It corners very well --you almost look forward to them.

2006 Mercedes-Benz E350 (sedan). Vehicle class: Midsize car. Power: 3.5-liter V-6 engine. Where built: Sindelfingen, Germany. Mileage: 19 city / 27 highway. Base price: $50,050. Price as tested: $54,465.

The suspension is a four-wheel independent system, with coil springs up front and a five-link system with gas shocks and stabilizer bar in the rear. The ride is smooth and quiet without losing road feel. There is an optional air suspension system available, which uses sensors to monitor road conditions to select suspension settings.

Power-assisted rack-and-pinion steering, electronic stability program and traction control are standard, and the power-assisted four-wheel ABS brakes are excellent.

Inside, Mercedes has given the E350 a nice combination of sportiness and luxury. The standard 10way power-adjustable leather seats (which can be heated as part of an option package) provide great support, and it s easy to find a good driving position.

The cockpit features woodgrain inserts and a center console that s also woodgrain. The console opens to reveal two cupholders and a storage area (there s also a small storage bin that slides out of the passengers side of the dash.

The instrument panel is well laid-out and features a computer message center in the middle. While I m old school enough to prefer an analog fuel gauge, the vertical bar gauge is fine.

There s plenty of leg room, even for tall drivers. Hip and shoulder room are not a problem, either. The trunk area is roomy and you can drop the rear seats down for even more cargo space.

The E350 comes with automatic climate control. power tilt steering wheel, power windows, cruise control, and an integrated garage door opener. A sunroof is optional.

The standard audio system on the E350 is an AM/FM/ weatherband/CD system with nine speakers and surroundsound. As impressive as it is, you can opt for an even more impressive harmon-kardon LOGIC7 system, with sevenchannel digital surround sound, 12 speakers and 420 watts of total power.

You can also add a DVD-based navigation system. It s not as intuitive as some others I ve seen, but it provides an attractive display and will do the job for which its intended.

The E350 comes with adaptive dual-stage front airbags; in less severe crashes only the first stage of the air bag will deploy, while both stages will deploy in more serious crashes. Side airbags are also included and the E350 has a rollover sensor that will deploy the side airbags in the case of an imminent rollover. Also included are active front head restraints. In the event of a rear collision, the head restraints move forward to support the head and help reduce whiplash injuries.

As much as you might love the E350, it does come at a price. It starts at about $50,000. Add the sunroof, navigation system, heated seats and rear sunshade (it s all part of a package) and you re up around $54,500. And this doesn t include the AMG sport package. Not cheap but you get a lot of car for your money

At the beginning of this story I said I really liked the 350. I never said I could afford it.
