District gains help budget

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

Early enrollment projections indicate Plymouth-Canton Schools administrators might get their wish: Nearly 400 additional students for the upcoming school year.

The increase in enrollment, plus $210 per student in additional state funding, could mean more than $2.2 million to the district's general fund budget. The district, pending approval of the state Legislature, is set to get $7,410 per student this year.

As of Friday, projections indicate a K-12 head count of 18,612 students, which is 407 more than last year's official count. Plymouth-Canton Educational Park has the largest increase at 210 students, with the middle school adding 197 pupils.

The elementary total remains even; however, the number continues to grow. Last week, the elementary population was down by 90 students. At Tuesday's school board meeting, the elementary population the number showed a decline of 49 students. As of Friday, the elementary population was even with last year, and is expected to go even higher.

"We're getting some students from private schools," said Superintendent Jim Ryan. "While we like to think we have a very good school district, we assume the economy has something to do with much of the increase."

Ryan said the Miller Elementary population is down, as students and teachers relocate to Washington Elementary in Livonia for one year while

Old Village event highlights local eateries

Unlike their Plymouth counterparts in the Red Hat Society, the ladies of the Livonia Sparkling Rubies had never been to Plymouth's annual Old Village Restaurant Crawl.

So when Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Fran Toney sent them an invitation, the ladies were eager to snap it up. And, after eating at all the restaurants participating in the eighth annual crawl, they were certainly happy they did.

"We started at Station 885, because they had the biggest parking lot," Charlene Miller, speaking on behalf of about a dozen Rubies, said with a laugh. "It was a wonderful event (and) we came to have fun."

They weren't the only ones. According to Toney, more than 200 tickets were sold, not a record but still an excellent turnout.

"The people love this event," Toney said. "Old Village has lots of great restaurants, and this is a great chance

Road fund out of money

City would have to bond again to finish

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

When Plymouth voters passed a $12 million bond issue for road repairs in 1996, the promise was to pave every one of the city's 32 miles of roadway within 20 years.

Ten years later, barely half the roads in the city's 2.2 square miles have been improved, and the fund is out of money.

"The original program was set up such that most of the repairs were to be done as resurfacing projects," said Shawn Keough, vice president of WadeTrim, a consulting municipal engineering firm in Taylor. "When we got to Ann Arbor Trail (from Union to Mill), they found there were numerous utility repairs - water mains and sanitary sewer - and the realization we needed to do it all together at one time."

That stretch of Ann Arbor Trail was estimated to cost $120,000. With the infrastructure repairs, the project ate up $1.2 million of the road money. It was then city officials decided that in order to do the work properly, all road projects would include infrastructure repairs - if needed - therefore driving up the costs.

"Everything was wrong," admitted Commissioner Ron Loiselle, who was mayor when the bond issue was passed by voters. "The estimates were too low, 1997-98 saw huge increases in asphalt costs and we didn't have any forethought of fixing sewers. It was just poor planning."

Keough said the average cost of Local Lions bring circus elephants, tigers to town

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

As a charter member of the Plymouth Lions Club since 1948, Bill Fehlig of Plymouth Township has seen the service organization undergo a number of changes while helping to support various causes.

However, the 86-year-old Fehlig said there has always been one constant the past 58 years.

"The mission is still the same, and our motto remains 'We serve,'" Fehlig said. "I like to say 'We serve and we care.'"

"We are far more active in the community, and we take in and spend a lot more money than years ago," Fehlig said. "It's been part of my life for 58 years, so I've gotten a tremendous boost out of it. A lot of friends, a lot of doing good for the community. That's what Lionism is all about."

Since the mid-1980s, the Plymouth Lions Club has sponsored the Kelly Miller Bros. Circus on the Central Middle School grounds every other year. The tradition continues Wednesday, when the big top will be raised at approximately 9 a.m., with performances at 4:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

The Lions - known mainly for their work with organizations that help the blind - spend approximately $40,000 a year to help support the Penrickton Center in Taylor, which assists blind children who have a second disability; Leader Dogs for the Blind; Paws for the Cause; Michigan Eye Bank; and Bear Lake Camp near Houghton Lake, for blind and handicapped children.

The Plymouth Lions also hand out scholarships to high school seniors, support the Plymouth Community Band, as well as build access ramps for handicapped residents in the city.

"We have two main fund-raisers, the White Cane sale in April and the candy cane sales in November," said Doug Hincker, 63, of Plymouth Township, the Plymouth Lions second vice president. "We also have a booth at the Plymouth Fall Festival selling pretzels, smoothies, caramel apples and ice cream."

"Those events get us the majority of our money," Hincker said.

In fact, Hincker said the end of the club's fiscal year in June is the most fun for club members.

"At the June board meeting we get together to take a look at what the needs are in the community and spend the money we have left," he said. "It's one of the most fun times we have."

Advance tickets for Wednesday's circus are $9 for adults and $5 for children, and are available at Kroger in Plymouth, Busch's Supermarket, Wiltse's Pharmacy, Forest Miller is being renovated. "The Miller kindergarten is down, and I believe some of that is parents don't want to put their child on a bus to go to Washington," Ryan said. Trustee Dianne Gonzalez expressed some concerns about split classes at the elementary level.

"Personally, as a parent, I would much rather have one or two extra children in my son's or daughter's class, than have a teacher who is dealing with two different curriculums and a split scenario," Gonzalez said. Trustee Steve Sneiderman expressed a view on split classes that represented a number of board members.

"I don't like splits, either, but I don't like large class sizes even more," Sneiderman said. "I think this is a reasonable action to take to ensure we meet our class size goals. If there's a split that can be undone, and still maintain our class size goals and not add a teacher, then I'm for it."

Ryan is quick to point out that projections are an educated guess on a moving target.

"The good news is that school doesn't start until after Labor Day this year, so we have an extra week of registration," Ryan said. "We know that some parents are notoriously late, with some registering their child the first day of school. I'm feeling pretty good at where we're going to land."

With addition of Workman Elementary in Canton Township - which will open for the first time in September - as well as some redistricting, only a handful of the 16 elementary schools are looking - at this time - at population increases. They include Bird, Field, Isbister and Tonda.

All five middle schools are projecting enrollment increases, with Discovery expected to have more than 1,000 students, which is up more than 60 students.

"(Principal) Roche LaVictor is out of sixth-grade lockers," Ryan told trustees.

The high school population is nearing 6,000 students, with each of the three high schools expecting to enroll just under 2,000 students each. Since voters turned down a bond proposal in May that included a career and technical education center, Ryan said other space will probably be needed - possibly in the next bond issue - to make room for an increasing high school population.

"There will never be a fourth high school, I don't believe you'll see a career and tech ed center, but we do need to consider some additional classroom space where we can house our students properly," said Ryan.

Vice President Judy Mardigian said the district will have to come to grips with the growth, but it's a better scenario than many other districts, some of which are experiencing declining population resulting in the loss of state funding.

"We definitely have to look at how we're going to handle the middle school and high school growth," Mardigian said. "But, growth is a good thing. It's validation of the programs and things we do in this district."

for them to show off."

That's what drew Jeff and Ania Crawford into the event. The owners of the new Crawford's Kitchen on Starkweather, who opened their doors to diners a couple of months ago, hope to duplicate the success of Jeff's family's restaurant in Northville. To do that, they were hoping to tap into the diners taking part in the crawl. To entice them, the Crawfords put out a spread of goulash and a chicken cashew salad.

"We're new," Ania Crawford said. "We thought it would be good exposure."

The Dilly Dally Deli, on North Mill where Harvey's Deli used to be, is even newer. It won't officially open for another few weeks, but owners Patrick O'Neill and Frank Yaquinto (who also owns Compari's and Fiama on Main Street) wanted to take advantage of the crawl crowd.

The deli will specialize in deli sandwiches, soups, salads and desserts, with daily specials.

"(The crawl) is an introduction to the community," said Judy Yaquinto, a co-owner and manager of the deli. "We're letting everyone know what we have and what we're about."

repairing a mile of roadway is about $900,000. With about 14 miles of city roads still needing attention, another bond issue would cost taxpayers — who would have to approve another bond issue — an estimated $12-$14 million.

Sheridan Street was one of the first on the paving list after the bond issue was passed. Ten years later, for various reasons, Sheridan has still not been paved.

"Sheridan is in pretty bad shape, and was identified as a first-year program," Keough said. "However, every year, it was considered not to be a high volume street, without a history of sanitary and water main issues, so it fell off, one way or another."

Dave Antil, who has lived on Sheridan since 1998, said he thought his street was on the list several years ago, when the Ann Arbor Trail project (between Sheldon and downtown) was completed. Now, he's not sure he'd vote for another millage to pay for the remaining road improvements.

"I was kind of mad when I saw they were doing Union Street and another street (this year)," Antil said. "It seems they haven't handled the first set of bonds the way they were supposed to. What's to say they won't do the same with the next set of bonds?"

"It calls into question any other questions they make," he said. "You have to do what you say with the money, otherwise you can't trust them."

Mayor Dan Dwyer and two other commissioners live on Ann Street, which is being paved this summer. Dwyer said he'd vote for the tax increase again, but understands residents who haven't had their streets paved could have reservations.

"I feel an obligation, now that my street has been paved on other people's backs, to continue the program, and I would vote to continue the 2 mills," Dwyer said. "However, if you're going to tell a group of people who have already paid for 10 years that their street is not a targeted street in the next 10 years, I know what I'm voting if I lived on that street."

One of the positive notes, according to Keough, is a healthy reduction in the number of water main breaks during the 10 years of the program. Loiselle said the commission has to go back to the voters in an attempt to finish the street paving program.

"I think we should finish the city because the roads need to be of good quality," Loiselle said. "But, ultimately, the people are paying the extra millage because we don't have the money in the general fund. If they're willing to pay the additional millage, we'll continue it."

United Way earns national merit

After successfully completing all United Way of America membership requirements properly and on time, the Plymouth Community United Way has received its national certification.

Chief Executive Officer Marie Morrow said the requirements, including membership requirements, certification, membership investment, income-and-expense survey and a database survey of generated resources, have to be certified annually.

"It is important for us to maintain a high standard of accountability and this is part of the process to document that our operations are transparent and meet or exceed United Way membership criteria requirements," Morrow said.

The board of the Plymouth

Community United Way reviewed and approved the Membership Requirements Certification April 20. The certification mandates completion of 13 requirements for United Way of America membership along with verification of the status of 40 indicators that demonstrate a United Way embodies the intent of the membership requirements.

"It is critically important that all United Ways meet the highest standards and verify on paper that they have conformed to the stringent requirements of membership in the United Way system," said Brian Gallagher, president and CEO, United Way of America.

The Plymouth Community United Way is specifically involved in programs that influence positive character development and citizen training for our youth, build stronger families by addressing issues such as domestic violence and substance abuse, and provide services to our senior population. Needs of the disabled and mentally challenged are also met through Plymouth Community United Way programs and agencies.

The Plymouth Community United Way is part of a system of over 1,320 United Ways. Each local United Way must complete United Way of America's requirements annually in order to retain its United Way of America membership.

Plymouth-Canton businesses and individuals interested in working with the Plymouth Community United Way can call (734) 453-6879 or go to the Internet at www.plymouthunitedway.org

Savitskie says....

Mortgage Tip #13:

"If you need cash for a new home, get your retirement funds out of retirement."

"Everyone knows that it's a buyer's market out there, in Real Estate but also in mortgages. Interest rates are still low, and the housing market is flush with desirable, aggressively-priced properties. Rarely have these two planets so completely aligned.

If the only thing keeping you from taking advantage of this current opportunity is a shortage of cash for a down payment or for closing costs, it's time to think about putting your retirement assets to work. Lenders can consider up to 70% of your IRA or other retirement investments as assets when determining your eligibility for a mortgage. And first-time home buyers can use up to $10,000 of these funds with no withdrawal penalties.

You've worked hard for your retirement funds. Now, make them work for you."

Developer says 'airport city' will transform SE Michigan

Finally! It's been a long time coming, but at long last there seems to be serious movement toward what could be Michigan's largest single economic development opportunity in the coming decade: the Airport City ("aerotropolis") between Detroit Metro and Willow Run airports.

Troy-based real estate expert Stuart Frankel has announced an agreement to develop 150 acres of land in the Pinnacle Aeropark, an office and warehouse project south of Detroit Metro and east of the I-275/Sibley interchange. That should be just the beginning.

Phil Power

The Airport City project, Frankel told me recently, is "potentially the most transformative project for southeastern Michigan ever attempted. We want to make it such."

Emphasize the "we." A joint memo supporting the Airport City project has been signed by Wayne and Washtenaw counties, the various local government units around both airports and the Wayne County Airport Authority. This week, it will be delivered to Jim Epolito, the CEO of the Michigan Economic Development Corp., or MEDC. (Full disclosure: I am the outfit's unpaid vice chair.)

With that goes a cover letter to Gov. Jennifer Granholm, suggesting "the state of Michigan needs to be an active participant and partner in this exciting economic development undertaking."

There is plenty of evidence to show that the potential is vast. A University of Michigan-Dearborn study shows that Detroit Metro Airport has a $7.6 billion impact on the state's economy, including $4 billion in airline tickets, hotel rooms and parking, plus $2 billion in sales to Michigan companies.

The Airport City project has long been a gleam in the eyes of those visionaries who can see past next Tuesday. Now, at last, it might actually be getting some traction.

For years, experts have known that the area's combination of assets makes the site potentially one of the world's best. Those riches include what is now a first-class passenger facility (Detroit Metro), a good freight airport (Willow Run), easy access to road, rail and international water transport and 25,000 acres of largely undeveloped land in between.

Similar airport developments in Amsterdam, Hong Kong and Bangkok are producing hundreds of thousands of jobs. Here, this agreement to develop the Pinnacle site may finally be what breaks up the logjam of inertia. That Frankel, one of Michigan's most respected — and shrewdest — developers, is prepared to ante up millions of his own funds suggests the dreams aren't pie in the sky.

That's important, because the Pinnacle project has been dragging on since the late Ed McNamara, then Wayne County executive, launched the idea back in 1999. Now this developer intends to cut the ribbon by building 50,000 square feet of offices and 200,000 square feet of warehouse space.

That should jump-start a project that has been the victim of endless Wayne County politics and the lack of an economically realistic development plan. And getting Pinnacle off the ground is important evidence the larger Airport City vision has the wings to fly.

The agreement between the various local governmental units is equally encouraging, if only because it demonstrates that the local powers are united at last in support of the project. Signing on are the cities of Taylor, Belleville, Romulus and Ypsilanti, together with Ypsilanti, Van Buren and Huron townships.

Cobbling together something that appealed to their various interests, combined with those of Wayne and Washtenaw counties and the Airport Authority, has not been easy. Wayne County Economic Development Director Mulu Birru deserves credit for patience and persistence.

Meanwhile, the new man at the MEDC, Epolito, has succeeded in regaining momentum and morale as the state's main arm dedicated to economic development. He has a terrific opportunity to take the Airport City project to a new level by putting planning and marketing muscle behind the project.

Nobody in state government (including the MEDC) has much money these days, but what is needed at this point is coordinated planning and evidence of firm state support.

That's relatively cheap, and Granholm would be wise to jump on board as evidence she's serious about adding jobs to the hard-pressed southeast Michigan economy.

Frankel's right. The Airport City project could transform the area. And now that the local governmental units potentially involved have their act together, it is time for the state to jump in with both feet.

Resistance to school vouchers serves politics, not children

I read Hugh Gallagher's July 30 Observer column "Drive for school vouchers serves politics, not children" with suspicion, believing as I do that at least as an idea, vouchers could work to reshape the educational landscape and consumers' expectations of same, both for the better. While we disagree, I salute Gallagher's concern for balance in presenting links to advocacy groups on both sides of the voucher issue and in inviting this opposing comment.

Gallagher cited the Department of Education's National Assessment of Educational Progress report to indicate that while private schools perform better because of their selective admissions, when students with various disadvantages are factored out of the equation, private and public schools perform about the same. One must take care to avoid hasty acceptance of the criteria and methods for factoring variables out of the NAEP results, for such legerdemain is not unlike the gender-norming practiced in the military and in firefighting to the possible impairment of those critical occupations. In any case, the ability of private schools to screen their applicants is often put forward as an argument against vouchers but in my view, that argument is more against excellence.

NAEP statistics notwithstanding, Gallagher seems to acknowledge that by some discernible proportion, a number of public schools are "troubled," and I suggest that to advocate withholding the means from aspiring students to escape such schools is to advocate the forcible subjection of all to mediocrity.

As a voter on the losing side of Michigan's 2000 initiative for vouchers, I had supposed that the topic was totally defunct but what may have moved Gallagher to write about it now was the story in the July 9 Grand Rapids Press reporting that gubernatorial candidate Dick DeVos vowed in a 2002 speech to reopen the voucher initiative by "one person at a time speaking to another person in privacy." Gallagher characterizes this statement as proposing a stealth campaign but whether advocated through a media blitz or one on one, no voucher measure will take effect without approval by a majority of voters. Thus if DeVos persists in his goal expressed four years ago, I find his low-key strategy to be no more ominous now than a Vatican takeover of Michigan's educational infrastructure was likely under the 2000 initiative.

I was especially troubled by Gallagher's airy suggestion that "For those who want to send their children to private schools, it's a great option" — omitting the key qualifier, "if only they can afford it." From the consumers' standpoint, I think the essence of vouchers is to make educational options affordable.

While I agree that universal public education is a great hallmark of the United States, the duty to educate resides with parents; and parents of ordinary or lesser means can find themselves hostage to an education system they might not prefer. It's ironic that by opposing vouchers, equality advocates should be upholding an arrangement in which private schools remain a preserve of the affluent.

Gallagher argues that all Michiganders should bear the cost of public schools with the analogy that not everybody rides on all of Michigan's roads, but my reply is that not every Michigan household has children to educate. As an analogy on the other side, I submit that a resident who has paid a cable bill over a period of time will appreciate the economies inherent in a competitive environment.

Finally, I can't help but suspect that, as implied by its very title, Gallagher's column is at bottom a defense of the public education establishment, or perhaps more precisely, a circling of wagons around the perquisites and prerogatives of the teachers' unions. Certainly the public schools as a totality have a purpose in keeping all funds to themselves. In what may be perceived as an improbable alliance between management and labor, they defend and promote that purpose with great vigor but whether out of altruism or self-interest is a matter for reflection.

As for me, I lament the plight of children in troubled schools, all the more because they have nowhere else to go. I also lament the future of excellence, as promising students in those schools continue to wait for the improvements that never seem to come. Must the speed of this convoy be the speed of its slowest ship?

As well as things have been going for the Detroit Ignition the past few months, it wouldn't be surprising to see David Beckham or Ronaldo show up for one of the team's open tryouts in September.

Yes, the Major Indoor Soccer League's newest team has made significant strides since it was officially welcomed to the league in mid-April.

The biggest on-the-field news revolved around the acquisition of several All-Star-caliber players in the June expansion draft, most notably reigning MISL assist leader Carlos Farias and goalkeeper Sanaldo, who minded the net for the Baltimore Blast in the 2005-06 championship series.

The most noteworthy off-the-field news included the signing of highly respected head coach Mark Pulisic and brisk season-tickets sales that have re-affirmed Ignition President Greg Bibb's belief that the metropolitan Detroit area is a prime location for an indoor-soccer franchise.

"Talent-wise, this was one of the best drafts I've seen, and I've been in the league for the past 10 years," said Bibb, who most recently served as the vice president and general manager for the MISL's Philadelphia Kicks. "We were able to acquire the rights to the top assist guy in the league last year (Farias) and the goal-keeper (Sanaldo) who played in the championship series. We also drafted four or five young players who I think are phenomenal athletes. Talent-wise, I think we did very well."

CHEMISTRY IS KEY

Bibb cautioned that talent alone won't win in the ultra-competitive MISL.

"It's tough to win in this league

Schmitt excels

Canton swimmer Allison Schmitt, 16, contributed to Club Wolverine's first-place showing at the Conoco-Phillips USA Swimming National Championships held last week in Irvine, Calif.

Schmitt competed in two individual events and on three relays in the competition, which was filled with Olympic-caliber swimmers. She placed 44th in the 100-meter freestyle (57.44) and 19th in the 200 freestyle. Her time of 2:01.95 in the preliminaries and 2:02.22 in the finals qualified Schmitt for the 2008 Olympic Trials.

Schmitt also swam an 100-meter leg on Club Wolverine's fifth-place 400-meter freestyle relay, a 200-meter leg on the team's second-place 800-meter relay team and she anchored the club's fifth-place 400 medley relay quartet.

Softball champs

The Gerou Softball Club won the playoff championship for the Session 1 men's Thursday night D recreation division at Canton's Victory Park. Gerou won three consecutive playoff games by one-run margins.

The team, which finished second in the regular-season standings, defeated Signature, the regular-season first-place team, in the championship game.

The core members of Gerou Softball have played together for more than 25 years and this is the team's third decade in which they have won playoff or division championships.

Biffle car displayed

NASCAR fans can check out the No. 16 National Guard Ford Fusion car, raced by Greg Biffle in the Nextel Cup Series last February in Fontana, Calif., from 2-7 p.m. Friday, Aug. 18 and noon to 6 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 19, at Jackson Hewitt Tax Service, located on 33724 Ford Road, in Westland.

Jackson Hewitt is also collaborating with NASCAR to support its National Guard Heroes of the Year campaign, which spotlights a National Guard soldier monthly throughout the year.

"Our local racing fans won't want to miss this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to see a race car up close," said Tracey Pawczuk, Operations Manager.

Polished tae kwon do skills bring Stobbe national titles, greater self confidence

BY ED WRIGHT

Sarah Stobbe, 25, is a three-time AAU national champion in tae kwon do. Stobbe's most recent title came in July in Knoxville, Tenn.

Even the simplest test of physical fitness was a struggle for Sarah Stobbe during her pre-tae kwon do days.

"I couldn't even do a push-up," admitted Stobbe, a 25-year-old Plymouth resident.

Over seven years, several hundred hours of training and three national titles later, Stobbe can do much more than a push-up thanks to the form of martial arts that emphasizes the use of one's hands, feet and fists. In July, Stobbe added to her collection of over 80 tae kwon do trophies and medals in Knoxville, Tenn., when she out-pointed five other high-kickers to capture her third consecutive AAU National sparring championship in the 18-to-35-year-old lightweight women's division.

Stobbe was introduced to the sport in 1999 by an ex-boyfriend, who was a tae kwon do instructor. The relationship eventually fizzled, but her passion for the sport kicked into high gear.

"When I started tae kwon do, I was extremely shy and physically I was not very strong," she reflected. "But in a short time after I started practicing, I saw such a quick change in my self-confidence and physical abilities. I fell in love with the sport."

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT

WHAT IS TAE KWON DO?

Tae kwon do is a martial art originating in Korea. A combination of Chinese, Japanese, and traditional Korean fighting styles, the sport has become the world's most commonly practiced martial art, and is the national sport of Korea. In Korean, tae means "to strike or smash with the foot"; kwon means "to strike or smash with the hand"; and do means "art of" or "way of."

Stobbe polishes her craft by practicing at least two hours a night, five nights a week. She also passes on her knowledge of the art to 40 students in a weekly class she teaches for the Plymouth Recreation Department.

"The hardest part in the beginning is picking up the form," she said. "You have to learn a pattern of all the kicks and punches and you have to understand exactly what you're doing — what this kick is supposed to be doing and what this hand should be doing. It's almost like learning a dance."

Sarah Stobbe displays the gold medals she has won in the last three National AAU competitions.

"The nice thing about the sport is that you can go at your own pace."

Stobbe, who works at a KinderCare in Canton, said she's only had to take her enhanced self-defense skills outside of the competitive arena on one occasion.

"There was a guy at a club once who wouldn't leave me alone, no matter what I said to him," she said. "So I used a simple takedown I had learned in class. The bouncers came over to make sure everything was OK. Thank goodness that's the only

New football league offers youngsters noncontact fun

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

Is your elementary school-aged youngster ready for some football — just not the full-contact version?

If so, the Michigan Youth Flag Football Association has just the program for him or her.

Beginning this fall, the MYFFA will be offering NFL Youth Flag Football leagues for Plymouth and Canton students in the second through fifth grades, as well as clinics for kids in kindergarten and first grade.

Each league team will consist of eight to 10 players, who will be grouped with students from their school. One league will consist of second- and third-graders; a second will include fourth- and fifth-graders.

The format for league games will be 5-on-5 non-contact flag. Games will be played on a 25-by-64-yard field (50-yard field with seven-yard end zones). The $110-per-player entry fee covers the cost of eight practices and eight games. Each player will also receive a reversible NFL jersey.

"One of the nice things about the 5-on-5 format compared to the usual 11-on-11 is that every kid has an opportunity to get the ball on every offensive play," said Bryan Ledin, the MYFFA executive director. "In 11-on-11, if you're not the running back or quarterback, you probably won't touch the ball. With 5-on-5, there's one quarterback and four receivers, so everybody can be a superstar."

Ledin said similar leagues the MYFFA operate in Bloomfield Hills have experienced phenomenal success.

"There are around 600 kids in the Bloomfield leagues," he said. "The concept is that it's an alternate to tackle football for the younger kids. The time commitment is a lot less as well as the financial commitment. We've found that this is a great feeder league for the tackle-football program, too."

The season will begin the week of Sept. 11. Practices will be held on either Monday or Thursday evenings with games being held Sunday afternoons at the Canton Sports Center.

The registration deadline is Friday, Sept. 8. To register, visit www.MichiganYouthFlagFootball.com.

The one-hour fundamentals clinic for kindergarten and first-grade students will be held on six consecutive Mondays (6-7 p.m.) beginning Sept. 18 at the Canton Sports Center. The cost of the clinic is $75, Ledin said.

— period,” Bibb said. “It’s especially difficult if you’re an expansion team. A, you have to find players. B, you have to make sure the players you do get can play the indoor game. And, C, your players have to have great chemistry.”

“Chemistry in our sport is extremely important because of the spatial relationships on the smaller surface. Being a new team, it’s going to take a while for our guys to mesh because we’re bringing guys in from all over the place, so most of them have never played together before.”

Having Pulisic as the one who’s in charge of making sure the players mesh will be a plus for the Ignition, Bibb stressed.

“I think Mark will be great for this team,” said Bibb, a Canton resident. “He was an All-Star player in this league years ago, so he knows what it takes to be successful. He was a blue-collar player who, through hard work and determination, became an All-Star. I think we’ll see in our players the same kind of work ethic at both ends of the floor that Mark put forth when he played. I’m excited to have him as our coach.”

GOALS GALORE

Fans who attend Ignition games expecting to see World Cup-like pace and scores are in for a pleasant surprise, Bibb said.

“The indoor game was created as more of a hybrid sport for North American fans who like action, a lot of scoring and a lot of points,” said Bibb. “Why are touchdowns worth six points in football and field goals worth three? Because North American sports fans like points. Goals in the MISL are worth two points and long-range bombs are worth three, so you’re going to see scores like 21-18, 17-15. With the three-point goals, no team is ever out of a game, even if it’s down six late. You hit two long shots and you’re right back in it.”

Bibb said there’s more of a sense of urgency in the indoor version of soccer compared to its outdoor brother.

“In the outdoor game, you might see three or four shots a game by one team,” said Bibb. “In the MISL, it isn’t out of the question to see the two teams combine for 100 shots on goal. It’s non-stop action.”

“In the outdoor game, if you have a ball played to you, you can take a moment to decide what you want to do with it. In our game, you don’t have the space to do that, so you’d better know what you’re going to do with the ball before it gets to your foot, otherwise somebody’s going to take it away from you.”

CONTRASTING STYLES

The vast difference between the indoor and outdoor games makes acquiring players challenging, according to Bibb.

“It usually takes outdoor players an average of two to three years to adjust to the indoor style of play,” he said. “And sometimes, they never adjust. I’ve seen very good outdoor players come into our league and struggle because their skills don’t translate into what a good indoor player needs, and vice versa. Some guys who are stars in our league are good outdoor players, but they’ll never make the national team on a professional level.”

Being able to rely on a proven player like Sanaldo in net should prove to be a key element for the expansion Ignition.

“The goalkeepers in the MISL are like the quarterbacks in football and the catchers in baseball,” Bibb said. “Just about everything — both offensively and defensively — starts with the keepers. They’re the ones that start the fastbreaks a lot of the time, and on some nights, they’ll face 60, 70 or 80 shots. It’s like, they can give up eight goals and it wasn’t necessarily a bad game.”

“To be a successful keeper in our league, you can’t be a guy who falls apart every time you give up a goal. Guys like that just don’t make it in this league.”

SEE IT, BELIEVE IT

What would Bibb tell an average sports fan who may be on the fence when it comes to deciding whether to attend an Ignition game?

“When I went to work for my first MISL team 10 years ago, I had never seen an indoor soccer game,” he said. “I wasn’t a soccer guy, I was a hockey guy. Well, the first game I saw, I was amazed at how much it was like hockey, with a little bit of basketball. I fell in love with it right away.”

“These are world-class athletes playing a sport in your own backyard on a small surface. And I’ll guarantee you that these guys will give a good performance every game they play. Even those people who aren’t necessarily huge soccer fans will realize very quickly the high level of athleticism and skill these guys have.”

Open tryouts are set for Ignition

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

Detroit Ignition President Greg Bibb will be playing the role of a much more pleasant Simon Cowell three times next month when he oversees a series of open tryouts for the Major Indoor Soccer League newest expansion franchise.

“The tryouts will be soccer’s version of ‘American Idol,’” Bibb quipped when referring to the three tryouts, which are set for Sept. 9 at the Soccer Zone in Grand Rapids, Sept. 16 at the Soccer Zone in Lansing and Sept. 23 at High Velocity Sports in Canton.

“All players that have soccer shoes, shin guards and a dream to play professional soccer are invited to attend. We have signed eight players (through Aug. 11) and we’re going to be carrying 20 on our roster, so we will be signing some players from the tryouts.”

Each of the tryouts are slated to begin at approximately 9 a.m. Interested players should visit www.detroitignition.com for tryout registration information.

All individuals who try out must be at least 18 years old and a high school graduate. There is a $25 registration fee. The deadline for registering for the Grand Rapids session is Sept. 1; the Lansing deadline is Sept. 8; and the Canton deadline is Sept. 15.

“A significant number of MISL players got their start through open tryouts,” Bibb said.

Compuware icers lauded for academic success

Compuware Youth Hockey Director Todd Watson announced recently that two Compuware Midget Major players have received academic scholarship awards for their stellar work in the classroom.

Defenseman Brian Rieckoff has earned the Midwest Elite Hockey League's Scholarship Award, while forward Jim McCusker will be the recipient of the Barbara Ann Karmanos Academic Award.

Additionally, 49 other Compuware youth hockey players won MWEHL Academic Awards in 2005-06.

"As an organization, we're proud of Brian, Jim and all the players," said Watson. "We believe it's important to perform well in the classroom and on the ice. Time management is essential to be able to succeed in both. The awards are a credit to Brian, Jim and the rest of the players and their parents."

On the ice, Rieckoff scored two goals and 14 assists in 22 league games, while McCusker tallied seven goals and five helpers in 21 contests. Including tournaments, the Compuware

Midget Majors went 35-22-2 last season.

Rieckoff's MWEHL scholarship is worth $1,000 to the college of his choice. Rieckoff will be attending Michigan State University this fall after graduating from Dearborn High School. McCusker is trying out for the Alpena IceDiggers of the North American Hockey League this summer and could return to the Compuware squad next season.

"Brian, in our minds, represents the tradition of excellence in the Compuware organization," said Compuware Youth Hockey assistant director Randy Paquette. "If you look at the entire Compuware Hockey organization, from top to bottom, the majority of our student athletes are carrying grade-point averages of 3.0 or better."

"The one thing these kids learn here is discipline — not only in the locker room, but also when we travel and when it comes to their studies. They have to find the time to complete their studies, whether it's in the car with their parents while going to a game, or study time when we're on the road."

Rams eliminated with pair of 1-run setbacks

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

After being shut out in Monday's opener, the Michigan Rams tried to open the floodgates in Tuesday's double-elimination All-American Amateur Baseball Association Tournament held in Johnstown, Pa.

The Rams battled back from eight runs down, but the result was another one-run loss, 11-10, in 12 innings to Cleveland (Ohio) after falling, 1-0, in 10 innings, to Altoona (Pa.) in the AAABA opener.

"It was a tough two-and-out," said Rams manager Rick Berryman, whose team was representing the 20-and-under Livonia Michigan Collegiate Baseball League. "We matched up with the two teams we played, but could not get the key hit when we needed it."

Against Cleveland in game played in Portage (Pa.), the Rams (26-13-1) trailed 8-0 until the bottom of the sixth before rallying for four runs.

Altoona answered with two in the top of the eighth, but the Rams closed the gap to 8-6 with two more runs before sending the game into extra innings with two in the ninth.

Pat Tretter, who went 4-for-6 with a double, homer and five RBI, knocked in the game-winning run scoring Christian Valperino in the top of the 12th to end the four-hour marathon.

The Rams, meanwhile, nearly won it in the bottom of the 11th when Matt Nickels' long fly was hauled in at the 380-foot mark.

And in the 12th, the Rams put a runner at second with 1-out, but couldn't cash in as Gary Pierpont, who worked three scoreless innings in relief, got the victory.

Pierpont led Cleveland's 17-hit attack going 4-for-7 with an RBI, while Jedd Cordisco and Valperino each contributed three hits.

The Rams used a total of five pitchers with Eric Lawrence, a pickup from the first-place Michigan Bulls of the LMCBL, suffered the loss. He went the final five innings, allowing just the one run on five hits and one walk. Lawrence struck out four.

Steve Karchefski started, allowing three runs on three hits and a walk in 4.2 innings. All three runs were unearned. He was followed by Mike Sacha, Bobby Henderson and Andy Paulun.

"We went through a flock of pitchers," Berryman said. "Lawrence came in and did a good job, the only exception was the one run."

Scott Cain went 2-for-4 with a 3-run homer for the Rams. Teammate Sam Palace also homered, was hit twice and knocked in a pair of runs.

Other Rams hitting standouts included Billy Anderson, 3-for-6 with an RBI; Eric Vojtkofsky, two hits and two RBI; Ryan Shay and Rob Campbell, two hits apiece.

Altoona edges Rams

Ryan Booney's RBI single scoring Austin Homey with two-out in the top of the 10th inning gave Altoona (Pa.) the 1-0 opening round victory over the Rams at Lilly Field.

Winning pitcher Todd Verndorfer went nine innings, allowing just six hits and one hit batsman. Ian Caster got the save in relief, fanning two and allowing just one hit.

Losing pitcher John Filecchia (Albion College) went 9.2 innings and scattered seven hits. He fanned 10 and walked only two. Mike Sacha came on for the final out.

"Both pitchers pitched good games," Berryman said. "We had a runner at second with nobody out and at second and third twice with one out and couldn't score. We hit the ball, but we didn't get the timely hit."

Altoona, which did not collect its first hit until the sixth inning, was led by Homey, who went 2-for-2. Jeremy Potter, Brett Webley, Josh Farbaugh and Matt Young collected the other Altoona hits.

Andrew Stafford (Oakland University), Kyle Hurtt (Michigan State) and Anderson each went 2-for-4 in the loss. Wayne native and Catholic Central High grad Vojtkofsky (Spring Arbor University) collected the other Rams hit and a sacrifice.

LESSON ON GOLF

by Jeff Lesson

TOP THREE PUBLIC COURSES

These are my annual picks for the top three public access golf courses in southeast lower Michigan.

1. The Orchards (Washington Township)

This Robert Trent Jones Jr. design is spectacular and gets better with age. Complete with great shot values, conditioning and scenery, public golf does not get any better than this.

2. Shepherd's Hollow (near Clarkston)

Arthur Hills working with perhaps the second best piece of land he ever designed a course on (second to Bay Harbour) did a magnificent job. The par four #18 is an outstanding finishing hole with an approach shot over water. The only issues with Shepherd's Hollow are a couple of quirky holes in this 27 hole layout. Great Clubhouse and food too.

3. Cherry Creek (Shelby Township)

Simply a very pretty and fun course with perhaps the nicest clubhouse in the state. Food service is also very good. One of the owners (Mike Bylen) co-designed this gem with Ryder Cupper Lanny Wadkins. Beautiful tree-lined course with lots of wetlands. Only problem, a hole or two along the highway can be a bit distracting.

Jeff Lesson hosts "Lesson on Golf" weekend mornings on WWJ Newsradio 950 and Saturday mornings 7-8am on 1270 XYT. He also co-hosts "Michigan Golf Weekly Saturdays at 6pm on CBS Detroit TV.

Mental part of golf similar for pros, amateurs

Last week's Buick Open at Warwick Hills was a perfect example of how golf, in the end, can be very similar for professionals and amateurs. Believe it or not, when it comes to the mental game of golf, nerves and distractions, you are not that much different than some of the professionals who competed in the PGA Tour event.

Links to the Game

Michael Patrick Shiels

The untold story of the Buick Open, the one you and I can relate to, is the tale of golf professional John DalCorobbo. DalCorobbo, 41, is the director of golf instruction for Michigan State University's Forest Akers Golf Club.

DalCorobbo received an exemption to compete in the Buick Open — or rather, earned his berth in the event — because he won the 2005 Michigan PGA Championship last August at Shanty Creek Resort.

The Michigan PGA Championship field was comprised not of PGA Tour players, but rather, over 200 of the state's best golf professionals — most of whom work at country clubs, golf courses and practice ranges. DalCorobbo is one of the better players and a fine instructor in the Michigan PGA Section, having won the 1998 Tournament of Champions and been named the PGA's "Teacher of the Year" in 2005.

So DalCorobbo got a shot at the big time, a "club pro" in a field of PGA Tour professionals...and he had almost a full year to think about it, since he won the Michigan PGA Championship last August.

"I've had a lot of time to try to get my mind in the right place and be ready for this," DalCorobbo said the week before the Buick Open after a strong finish in this year's Tournament of Champions at Boyne Mountain. "You know, if I don't, people really don't expect a club pro to do well against PGA Tour players. But personally, I don't enter any event without expecting to be competitive and without thinking I have a chance to win."

He had a couple of practice rounds at Warwick Hills Golf and Country Club on Monday and Tuesday before the event, including one with Tour player Dudley Hart, and had hit the ball well. DalCorobbo's children and family were excited. He was in good shape — rested and ready.

So much build up became such disappointment during Thursday's opening round.

"I can tell you that I felt like I was playing golf on seven espressos," DalCorobbo told me after the round. "I just couldn't calm myself down. I couldn't find my normal focus."

DalCorobbo said the excitement of playing in a PGA Tour got to him.

"You definitely know you're alive when you play in that setting. It's a real rush," he admitted. "When I got to the eighth green the spectators were lined three-deep. I tried to prepare for it, but that's the kind of thing a club pro doesn't normally see."

DalCorobbo said he got distracted by the festival-like atmosphere and activities that take place during a PGA Tour event.

"The crowds were cheering and hooting and yelling and there were trucks moving around and I tried to focus on each shot, but I didn't hit the ball well and I didn't putt any better. I missed putts inside nine feet about eight times. Hence my score."

DalCorobbo's opening round score was nine-over-par 81. By contrast, Tiger Woods had opened with a six-under-par 66 — 15 strokes better than DalCorobbo — and Woods wasn't even in the lead.

On the PGA Tour, the field is cut in half to the lowest 70 players (plus ties) after the first two rounds. Unless a player makes the cut, he doesn't make a check. After opening with an 81 on Thursday, it was very unlikely that DalCorobbo could possibly play well enough on Friday to make the cut.

Then the bad news got even worse: DalCorobbo would not be allowed to play his second round on Friday — he'd been disqualified for signing an incorrect scorecard.

"After 20 years of playing golf, that was the first time I'd ever done that," he explained. "Typically I check the card, then I let the official scorekeeper go over it again. I think there was some frustration involved with that. Definite frustration."

DalCorobbo will try to bounce back when he defends his title at the 2006 Michigan PGA Championship in late August at Eagle Eye Golf Club in Lansing — his hometown.

"Golf is a game that beats you down much more often than it lets you up," DalCorobbo admitted.

We can all relate to that sentiment, can't we? Michael Patrick Shiels, golf columnist for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, is a member of the Golf Writers Association of America. He may be contacted at MShiels@aol.com.

time I've had to use it in a non-competitive way."

DAD'S A BELIEVER

Among the people she has impressed with her unique self-defense skills are her dad, Marc, who is a deputy chief for the Westland Police Department.

"Being a police officer, my dad was naturally overly protective of me while I was growing up," Stobbe said. "But now that he sees what I can do, he doesn't worry about me as much any more. I think my friends feel safer when they go out with me too."

Even though she competes in at least two tournaments a month, Stobbe has been able to dodge injury for the most part.

"I've been lucky," she said. "I've had a black eye and my hip went out of socket once, so I've been fortunate. I've given more injuries than I've received."

Stobbe's long-term goals include owning her own taekwon do facility.

Not bad for somebody who, not long ago, couldn't do a push-up.

Managing those bad moods in the home

Moods can be contagious. Imagine you have a throbbing toothache. You sit down in the dentist's chair in pain. The dentist enters the room in a cheerful mood. If you catch the dentist's mood, you relax a bit and he breezes through the procedure. If the dentist catches your mood, what would happen? He'd wince when you winced. As your knuckles turn white grabbing the arms of the chair, his knuckles turn white grabbing his instruments. As your panic grows, his panic grows. My guess is you would never go back to that dentist again.

People in helping professions meet others' sadness, anger and pain with an attitude of acceptance and a belief in their ability to be helpful. Imagine meeting your children's hostile moods with acceptance and a belief in your ability to be helpful.

It isn't always easy to be accepting and helpful. Just try dealing with a mouthy teen, who insists on skipping the family reunion picnic to wait in line for tickets to a concert. When you hear her disrespectful tone, it's so tempting to escalate the conflict instead of staying conscious enough to defuse it.

When my son was 3 years old, he was angry about having to get dressed. Instead of using skills, I caught his mood and got angry with him. He mirrored my anger and got even more angry. I got angrier back. Right in the middle of one of those, "Yes, you do," "No, I don't," kind of arguments, I realized that I had reduced myself to the maturity level of a preschooler. I was reflecting his mood instead of responding to it.

To respond in a helpful way, start by understanding that it is OK for children to feel what they feel. It's OK for a teenager to feel disappointed about missing a concert to attend a family reunion. It's OK for a preschooler to feel angry about getting dressed. It's easier for kids to restore good feeling once their bad feelings are accepted. While unacceptable actions need to be limited, permitting feelings helps children cope with their frustrations and move forward more easily.

To keep your child's hostile mood from spreading to you, take a moment to challenge yourself to choose your mood. If you respond with compassion, it changes the dynamic. For example, in a mood of compassion, I could have said, "I can see how angry you feel. It's not easy to stop playing to get dressed and rush off to preschool. Sometimes doing what needs to be done can be really hard."

Sometimes, everyone is in a good mood, then something unexpected happens. Do you remember the feeling of fear flooding through your body the first time your child got hurt playing a sport or the first time your toddler took a tumble head first on the floor? Everything inside of you wants to gasp and come running. When you do, your child is often more impacted by your mood than the mishap.

Have you ever seen a toddler who after bumping into something, looks around the room to see if mommy or daddy saw? If her parents aren't around, she's fine, but if they are anywhere in sight, the crying begins.

I remember my sister's wise words of advice. She told me not to overreact when my toddler fell. She said, "Instead of panicking, stay where you are and just ask if he's OK. When you panic, they panic." It worked like a charm. Unless he was really hurt, he'd just pick himself up and keep playing.

The parent, not the child, is responsible for changing the emotional climate of the home. It's up to you to model healthy ways of handling life's upsets. If you find yourself catching or spreading a bad mood, don't beat yourself up. Instead, do your emotional homework. Start by congratulating yourself for noticing what you did that was unhelpful. Not until you become aware of your behavior, do you have any hope of changing it. Noticing it means you are making progress.

It takes awareness, planning and practice to become effective. Since the odds are good that someone in your family will be in a bad mood again some time soon, you can plan a more helpful response now, so that when you are in the situation, you don't blindly fall back into your old way of reacting.

By putting these principles into place, you vaccinate yourself against catching future bad moods and raise the emotional intelligence of your whole family.

Staying alive

Dance groups keep Polish culture vibrant

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Megan Boyttcher is proud of her Polish heritage. Even though her Krakowiac costume is heavy and hot, she says the dance is the "most fun" of all the choreography she performs with P.R.C.U.A. Syrena Dance Ensemble, a school affiliated with the Polish Roman Catholic Union of America. P.R.C.U.A. was established in 1873 to unite and help Polish immigrants.

From September to April the 9-year old Livonia girl practices the dances from various regions of Poland on Wednesday nights at St. Michael's Orthodox Church in Redford. Then in April students don different regional costumes for a recital. This year the ensemble celebrated 30 years of keeping Polish dance and song alive, including the Krakowiac from Krakow, one of the country's oldest and largest cities.

"I'm having fun making friends and learning new dances," said Megan Boyttcher, a Hoover Elementary student who started dancing at age 2. "You do need to practice a lot for all of them."

Megan and her brother Daniel, 4, are following in their mother Gail's footsteps. Abigail, 2, will join them in September. Gail Boyttcher danced with Syrena for 10 years.

"Abigail is very excited because her brother and sister have been in it for years," said Gail, whose grandfather immigrated to the United States as a teenager. Her parents and grandparents spoke Polish at home. "It's important because of the friendship. It's a Polish Roman Catholic base and they believe in the same things you do."

TRADITION

Costumes are passed down from child to child in the Michelle Ferracciolo family in Livonia. She's hoping this fall son Anthony, 3, will join his sister Julia, 8, and brothers Joseph, 7, and Dominic, 4 in the group. Michelle danced with Syrena 12 years.

"They're dancing with the same teacher who has taught for the past 30 years, Shirley Galanty," said Michelle Ferracciolo whose great grandparents were Polish immigrants. "Along with dancing they've learned Polish language, to count in Polish and sing songs."

Christine Lewandowski is trying to keep the culture alive not only by enrolling daughter Amy in dance classes, but by opening Polanka Market in Livonia to sell imported and Polish food with her brother Lech Zochowski. She immigrated from Bielsk Podlaski in 1981 and has her mother mail costumes made in Poland for Amy, an 11-year old student at St. Robert Bellarmine in Redford.

"She (Amy) is keeping up with Polish heritage," Lewandowski said. "The costumes are very traditional and the dances — the Polka, Krakowiac, Oberek. My favorite part is the Presentation Ball when kids graduate from high school and are presented to society at a dinner dance. They do special dances and the girls wear beautiful white gowns."

As Syrena's director, Patricia Steven is working to keep the dance ensemble/school alive. At one time, more than 100 students enrolled annually. Today, the number has dwindled to about 20.

Syrena is looking for children interested in learning about their Polish heritage through song and dance. Registration is 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 6. Call (313) 563-1761. For information, visit www.syrenadance.com or www.prcua.org and click on Syrena. Currently there are 10 P.R.C.U.A. schools in Michigan for kids age 3 through high school. Tuition is $35 a month for one child, $50 for two or more.

"Nowadays, everybody is forgetting where they come from, so we'd like to get them back into that," said Steven, whose grandparents came from Poland. Steven studied dance in Poland for a month when she was 16. "I've had four boys who've danced. It's something I get to share with my boys. It's difficult to get boys to dance. You have to start them when they're young. It's helped them with their sports. They're more sure of themselves. It makes them a well-rounded person."

culture. In addition to their April recital at Clarenceville High School in Livonia, the young dancers visit nursing homes and dance on their float in the Plymouth and Northville July Fourth parades, and on Labor Day in Hamtramck.

Although Donna Crachiola's parents came from Poland, she never danced as child so she wants daughters Jessica, 8 and Rachel, 7, to have the opportunity. Both are students at St. Michael's School in Livonia.

"They do community service projects," said Crachiola of Livonia. "A lot of kids are from Catholic schools in the area. Over the years, it's kind of become less cool to do ethnic dancing, but we have been growing. Families are looking for camaraderie."

According to director Dawn Rahn, the Centennial Dancers boast a total of 42 families with 78 kids. From Sept. 8-10, parents will pitch in to help run the Polish kitchen at Plymouth Fall Fest to raise funds for the group by selling kielbasa and pierogi. The group's dancers take to the stage in a colorful display of their heritage at 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 9. Among them will be Madison and Kennedy Rahn, age 10 and 7. "We want to promote the Polish heritage," said Rahn, a teacher at St. Michael's. "When someone calls asking us to perform we don't say no and we don't charge, but do take donations."

The cost for a P.N.A. member to dance is $200 for the year, a nonmember $300, and includes costumes. For information, call (734) 462-0247. Practices are held Wednesdays for ages 4 and up.

Early business lessons lead to his success

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Steven Jackson says he first learned about business through his route as an Observer Newspapers carrier at age 11 or 12. It was hard not to absorb the basics of good customer service when all four of his siblings delivered the hometown paper at one time or another in Garden City.

Nearly 40 years later, Jackson credits his success as president/CEO of Hungry Howie's to not only his faithful patrons, but employees. Like the Bloomfield Hills business man they learned from the bottom up.

"It's really all about people," said Jackson, a Bloomfield Hills resident who over the years has lived in Westland, Canton and Farmington Hills. "I've had people who worked for me for years, some almost 20 years. One thing that gives us credibility is the VPs in the company all worked in stores, managed and worked through the business so when they sit across from a franchisee they understand and have lived those issues."

Jackson began his career as a delivery driver for a local pizzeria after graduating from Garden City East High School in 1972 and enrolling in the elementary education program at Eastern Michigan University. About a year later he left the business owned by Jim Hearn to work on Ford's Wayne Assembly line but as graduation day neared, Jackson realized teaching positions were few and far between.

Hearn had sold the Garden City pizzeria and purchased a small Taylor hamburger shop which he transformed into the first Hungry Howie's in 1973. Jackson dropped out of school to become Hearn's partner and open a second location in Southgate in 1976.

FAMILY AFFAIR

Through the years, Jackson's wife, Sarah, answered phones and made sub sandwiches. Today, she is controller for the franchise division. All three of his children, Jennifer, 30, Andrea, 28, and Steve Jr. 25, worked in the stores during their summers off from college. Jennifer is now director of marketing. Steve Jr. works in franchise development.

Steve Jackson is CEO of Hungry Howie's Pizza.

Detroit kids experience nature

"The earth gives us everything we need," writes a young earthworm in the popular children's book The Diary of a Worm by Doreen Cronin.

This month, 38 students from Detroit elementary schools got to experience Mother Nature firsthand and brush up on their reading skills, too, during a literacy program at the Environmental Interpretive Center on the campus of the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

The YES Foundation's KinderCamp, housed at the EIC for the past six weeks, enrolls students in kindergarten through second grade in the Detroit Public Schools who are recommended for extra literacy education.

This year, the camp's selection of books included nature-themed favorites such as The Very Hungry Caterpillar and The Tiny Seed by Eric Carle, and In the Tall, Tall Grass and Where Once There Was a Wood by Denise Fleming.

When the program finishes this week, each child will receive their own copies of the books they read.

With the assistance of several U-M-Dearborn graduate-level education interns, the students spent each Monday through Thursday morning reading, working on phonics skills and exploring fun nature-based activities to reinforce their learning. Fridays were reserved for field trips with naturalists.

"The benefit of a program like this is the amount of exposure and experience they're getting," according to Jaelyn Wharfield, one of the U-M-Dearborn interns teaching for the program. Children living in the city might not have the chance to experience all that nature has to offer, she said, but the KinderCamp students saw live deer, groundhogs and other wildlife during their visits.

KinderCamp coordinator Michelle Morden said having the program at the EIC allows the students to learn about their habitat while improving their reading skills, and the creepy, crawly bugs and other creatures hold their interest.

"It eliminates walls and creates possibilities for the children," Morden said.

Transient and operating out of different classrooms during its first two years, KinderCamp "found a home" at the EIC this summer thanks to a partnership cultivated by education professor Seth Hirshorn.

"The camp had been in different places, but the facilities weren't really good for it," Hirshorn said. Feeling that U-M-Dearborn's metropolitan presence was a good fit, Hirshorn introduced YES Foundation president and CEO Julia Richie to professor Orin Gelderloos, director of the EIC, and the partnership was formed.

SUCCESS

"We started opening stores with friends and relatives and by 1980 had a dozen locations," Jackson said. "I pressed Jim to franchise this. We hired attorneys and went through the process of putting it together. In 1981, Jim went to Florida and started opening stores. We had our first franchise in the beginning of 1983."

"I feel we have a superior product. What sets us apart is our flavored crust pizza developed in the early 1980s. A franchisee was playing around and adding sesame seeds to the crust then another tried it."

By 1986, Hearn and Jackson had formed a distribution company to help control costs and product consistency. As of two weeks ago, Hungry Howie's had 543 stores with 92 franchise agreements to be developed in the next two to four years. Jackson says they receive about 500 inquiries a month.

"Hungry Howie's is the 11th largest pizza chain with more than 500 locations in 17 states, $254 million in sales and plans to open 50 new stores a year. The bulk of the stores are in Michigan and Florida but we're as far west as California, as far south as the tip of Texas. The plan is not to have one store in every state but regional strategic groups. We have close to 220 locations just in the state of Michigan."

Jackson's business plan is paying off. About a month ago, Eastern Michigan University bestowed an honorary degree on him for his accomplishments.

"Proud is probably the first word that comes to mind," said Jackson, 51. "I always thought about finishing, but I was so busy with the business."

While Jackson is excited about the honorary degree, he's even prouder of another award.

"In 2004 Pizza Today magazine named Hungry Howie's pizza chain of the year," Jackson said. "It's like winning the academy award of the industry."

Success hasn't changed Jackson though. He fondly remembers the friends he made while growing up in Garden City. They continue to remember the good old days as well. Jackson chuckles when he talks about Bob Mason, one of his best friends from high school. Mason and Jackson vied for the honor of most valuable player on the track team. Mason won. Shortly after their 25th reunion, the Westland resident mailed it to Jackson saying he should keep it for the next 25 years.

More heart attacks on Mondays

Mike from Novi e-mails that he's heard you can be more prone to suffering a heart attack on a Monday and wants to know why.

Mike, an interesting study from the British Medical Journal seems to bear that out. The 10-year study suggests that 20 percent more people die of heart attacks on Monday than on any other day of the week! The study focused on 80,000 men and women who died of heart attacks between 1986 and 1995. The study showed that women, with no history of heart disease, were 20 percent more likely to have an attack on Monday compared to 19 percent of men. The study suggests that the stress of returning to work after the weekend could be to blame. So try to ease into your work week and your heart will thank you for it!

Peter's Principles

Peter Nielsen

Craig from Harper Woods e-mails that he's been jogging for months and is ready to take his training to the next level.

Craig, you may want to think about heading for the hills. World-class athletes have been running up hills for years to get the most out of a workout. But, don't try to climb Mt. Everest in a single day! Make sure that you're in shape by running on a flat surface for at least two months before taking on hills. This will help the calves and joints prepare for the added strain of uphill running. Once you start running hills, work your way up gradually. Start by running up the hill and then walking back down. If done properly, hill running can help you reach the peak of fitness and endurance you've been looking for!

If you have a health or fitness question you would like answered in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, e-mail Peter at www.peternielsen.com. Catch Peter daily on WDIV-NBC 4 & WWJ News Radio 950. Health talk

Safety for children and adults is physician's priority

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Even though temperatures have dropped from near 100 degrees, Dr. Niru Prasad is cautioning readers "to be careful." In the latest installment of her Health Talk program on cable television, the Bloomfield Hills physician talks about heat-related illnesses with guests Dr. Elizer Basse, chief of emergency medicine at North Oakland Medical Center in Pontiac, and Dr. Mahmoud Elghoroury, a pediatrician in Rochester Hills.

Prasad warns golfers need to dress appropriately and limit their time on the course when temperatures rise unexpectedly to a dangerous level. Outdoors, children and young babies less than 2 years old should cover their head, wear dark glasses and drink plenty of water. Senior citizens should take the same precautions.

Prasad posts a variety of health tips, related and unrelated to heat, in nearly four-dozen articles on her Web site at www.doctorniruprasad.com.

"At least for the next two weeks, there's still cause for concern," Prasad said. "If they develop cramps, dizziness, just don't feel good, they should seek help. If symptoms are mild, they should stop doing whatever they are doing and go inside and drink lots of water and electrolyte containing solutions like Gatorade. Joggers should carry electrolyte solutions with them because they're already losing fluid (by running)."

"Through sweat we lose sodium. For athletes and children, they could develop cramps in the legs. It could be due to the loss of potassium.

"For people with heat stroke, they develop a high temperature and there won't be any sweating. This requires calling 9-1-1."

During her 15 years in the emergency rooms at Henry Ford Medical Center, West Bloomfield and St. Joseph Mercy Oakland Hospital in Pontiac, Prasad has seen everything from severe head traumas caused by falling or not wearing a helmet while bicycling, to broken bones resulting from summer activities as benign as walking.

Prasad sees her Health Talk program as a community service to help people stay safe and well. Each week, she invites experts to talk about prevention. She recommends senior citizens put on comfortable shoes before taking their next stroll to prevent falls and the resulting hip or forearm fractures. And everyone should be leery of animals. She's seen cat, dog and even raccoon bites in the ER. One woman was regularly feeding a raccoon on her deck when bitten. She required a series of rabies vaccines.

"My whole aim of life is helping people," said Prasad, 66. "I raised four children and none of my kids ever missed a school day, and they were all active with sports."

Shortly, she'll tape a back-to-school safety segment for the cable show. Prasad frequently speaks in the community on topics such as immunizations for children and college students. Her book, How to Keep Your Child Safe and Healthy, published in 1999, offers valuable information. Visitors to her Web site can read it online, or purchase a copy at www.amazon.com. Orphan Medical Network International, a Michigan-based charity, has distributed about 10,000 copies of the book in Zambia, Kenya, Haiti and India. She also donated copies to needy families enrolled locally in Women, Infant & Children (WIC) and Head Start programs, to name a few.

Board-certified in pediatrics and emergency medicine, Prasad served a fellowship at Children's Hospital of Michigan in Detroit after graduating from Patna Medical College in Bihar, India, where she lived until 1965. It was at the hospital that she witnessed the living circumstances of underprivileged children. The experience inspired her to write the handbook for parents.

Today, Prasad is semi-retired and practices occupational medicine for General Motors and DaimlerChrysler. Her cable show, produced by Zachary Florence, can be seen on Bloomfield Community Television Channel 15 in Birmingham, Southfield, Franklin and Bloomfield Hills.

Bariatric surgery decision requires research, commitment

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Paula Magid is not only a cheerleader for laproscopic bariatric surgery, but the educational program at St. Mary Mercy Hospital in Livonia. Four years ago, she had the open surgery procedure which required a 12-inch incision in her abdomen, but that wasn't the most painful part of her life changing decision. It was going it alone after the surgery without any knowledge of dietary changes and behavior modification.

St. Mary Mercy Hospital offers a four-hour education program to see patients through the decision-making before surgery and transition period after undergoing the minimally-invasive laproscopic Roux-en-Y gastric bypass. The evaluation process before surgery takes about 6-8 weeks and includes physical and psychological assessments.

The next educational seminar takes place 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 20, in the hospital auditorium. Speakers are Surgeon Tallal Zeni, MD, medical director, Minimally Invasive and Bariatric Surgery; and Magid. For information, call St. Mary Mercy Hospital (877) WHY-WEIGHT. To register, call (734) 655-2692.

"They have to be committed, have to attend support group after surgery to make changes permanent," said Magid, bariatric program director. "For me, the hardest part was overcoming the fear of surgery. I was afraid of not being able to enjoy food. You can still enjoy food. It's about controlling portions and choices."

Shelly Salazar and co-worker Veronica Davis went through the process together. The two women work in the billing department at Livonia Radiology Group at St. Mary Mercy Hospital. Salazar, 50, has lost 117 pounds since her Sept. 26 surgery. Davis works out nearly every day and has lost 160 pounds since her surgery Oct. 31. She even ties Pilates bands around her legs to exercise at work. Before the surgery, it was hard for the 40-year old woman to even walk up stairs.

"It's so much more than getting the surgery," said Davis, who at 270 pounds admits to still having a long way to go.

Many major hospitals offer bariatric surgery in the area. Dr. Tallal Zeni, an M.D. who directs the minimally invasive and bariatric surgery program at St. Mary Mercy Hospital, says when selecting a surgeon it is important to ask about mortality rates. It should be less than one-half percent. He's had no deaths out of 200 surgeries performed.

Henry Ford Hospital Bariatric Surgery Center in Detroit has been named an American Society for Bariatric Surgery (ASBS) Bariatric Surgery Center of Excellence, a designation that recognizes programs with a demonstrated track record of favorable outcomes. Henry Ford Hospital offers gastric bypass and lap band surgeries. For information, call (313) 916-9782.

Beaumont Hospitals in Royal Oak and Troy offer both lap band and gastric bypass. An informational seminar takes place 4-5 p.m.

Tuesday, Aug. 15, at the Beaumont Health Center, 4949 Coolidge, north of 14 Mile, Royal Oak. For information, call (888) 899-4600 or visit beaumont-hospitals.com and type in "bariatric surgery." There is no charge for the seminar, but registration is required.

Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn offers free monthly informational sessions on bariatric surgery as well. For information, call (800) 543-5511, WELL, or visit oakwood.org.

Currently, the University of Michigan Hospitals offer only gastric bypass surgery for adults, but plan to add lap band surgery in fall, and pediatric bariatric surgery in a couple of months.

For information, call (734) 936-5738, or visit www.med.umich.edu/bariatric-surgery.

Bariatric patients at Providence Hospital are sent to the St. John Oakland Hospital program in Madison Heights. St. John's Center for Comprehensive Weight Loss is an all-inclusive, centralized clinic that provides pre- and post-operative care for Roux-en-Y gastric bypass patients. For information, call (866) 823-4458.

Crittenton Hospital in Rochester doesn't have a formal program, but surgeons do perform bariatric procedures. For information, call the physician referral line at (888) 904-4325.

Garden City Hospital offers adjustable gastric binding and gastric bypass. For information, call (734) 458-4259.

INJECTIONS AND PRESCRIPTIONS

If you have rheumatoid arthritis and develop a flare, your doctor can treat you in several ways. One approach is to add to your medications, a second is to give you a higher dose of the medicine you are taking now. The third way is to keep your medication as it is and inject the joint or joints giving you the most trouble. My approach is the third way.

I do not like to add medications to a patient's regime if I can avoid doing so. The reason is that any new medicine brings not only a benefit but a risk. In most instances neither your past experience nor laboratory testing can identify that you are susceptible for a particular drug toxicity. Furthermore, adding a drug may create an interaction with a medication another physician is prescribing or plans to prescribe.

Taking higher doses of a medicine you are using now may bring you to the point of toxicity to that drug. With certain medicines such as cortisone, raising its dose invariably causes unwanted side effects such as osteoporosis, raised blood pressure, higher blood sugars, and increased cholesterol levels.

In contrast, a steroid joint injection has its cortisone effect limited to the joint injected. Also, the injection gives immediate relief, usually within a day. Often treating a major joint stops the flare in other joints and ends the need for more drastic changes such as adding or increasing medication. Finally, if the injection does not resolve the flare, you can turn to these other measures.

Chiropractors find career rewarding

BY JULIE BROWN
 STAFF WRITER

When Dr. Kim Shunkwiler was looking for a fulfilling profession, he chose chiropractic medicine. The Wayne resident is a 1987 graduate of Life Chiropractic College in Marietta, Ga., where he earned a doctor of chiropractic degree.

"It's a great career," said Shunkwiler, who has his own practice on Wayne Road in Westland. "The old prejudices are coming down. It's fun to help people."

At the time he was in school, an undergraduate degree wasn't required as it is now to enroll to study chiropractic medicine. "The curriculum is very similar to medical school except we don't study pharmacology," he said. Students do their internship while in school, working extensively with patients.

"People want choices, they want alternatives," he said. He finds people seek less invasive and more effective treatments.

"Very rewarding career," Shunkwiler added. "Whenever you can help change somebody's life for the better it's rewarding."

There are opportunities to specialize in such things as being a chiropractic radiologist or to work in a group setting. Shunkwiler incorporates clinical nutrition into his practice.

Chiropractic is a health care profession that focuses on disorders of the musculoskeletal system and nervous system, and the effects of these disorders on general health. Chiropractic care is used most often to treat neuromusculoskeletal complaints, including but not limited to back pain, neck pain, pain in the joints of the arms or legs, and headaches, according to the American Chiropractic Association Web site.

Doctors of chiropractic - often called chiropractors or chiropractic physicians - practice a drug-free, hands-on approach to health care that includes patient examination, diagnosis and treatment. Chiropractors have broad diagnostic skills and are also trained to recommend therapeutic and rehabilitative exercises, as well as to provide nutritional, dietary and lifestyle counseling, according to the Web site.

Dr. Michael Brackney practices on Canton Center Road in Canton with brother and fellow chiropractor Brian. Michael Brackney attended Henry Ford Community College and graduated from Parker College of Chiropractic in Dallas, Texas, in 1996. His brother is a graduate of Logan College of Chiropractic in St. Louis, Mo.

"Chiropractic should be part of everyone's health care team," said Michael Brackney, a Canton resident. He finds the work rewarding, citing such things as a woman being able to lift a grandchild or a patient gaining productive days due to fewer migraines.

"I like to watch people's life get restored to them," he said. Brackney noted the key to chiropractic medicine is work with the body's nerves and getting them to heal.

"We have a lot of science behind us," Brackney said. "The science of it is so proven." He recommends patients check Web sites for good credentials and training of chiropractors.

Brackney agreed that chiropractors refer patients to other health care providers when necessary: "We let them know where they need to go."

The most common therapeutic procedure performed by doctors of chiropractic is known as "spinal manipulation," also called "chiropractic adjustment." The purpose is to restore joint mobility by manually applying a controlled force into joints that have become hypomobile - or restricted in their movement - as a result of a tissue injury. Tissue injury can be caused by a single traumatic event, such as improper lifting of a heavy object, or through repetitive stresses. In either case, injured tissues undergo physical and chemical changes that can cause inflammation, pain, and diminished function. Manipulation, or adjustment of the affected joint and tissues, restores mobility, thereby alleviating pain and muscle tightness, and allowing tissues to heal.

Let there be light: Shining a light on skylight myths (NAPS)—One of the best ways to add natural light to a room is also one of the most frequently overlooked.

Modern skylights let homeowners add balanced light, beauty and a sense of space to most any room in a home. Yet myths about skylights sometimes prevent homeowners from having them installed, either during construction of a new home or after purchasing an existing residence.

For instance, research shows that many people mistakenly believe that a skylight is bound to leak at some point. But industry experts say preventing leaks is simply a matter of proper installation and using flashing matched to the unit being installed.

"Skylights from reputable manufacturers are built to be totally dependable, just as are quality windows," said Joe Patrick, senior product manager with VELUX America, a leading skylight manufacturer. "Anytime a hole is cut in a roof or frame of a home, the potential for air or moisture entering exists. But proper installation techniques and materials can take care of those concerns," he explains.

CONTROLLING HEAT AND LIGHT

Another point often lost on homeowners is that skylights offer as many or more accessories to control heat and light as do vertical windows. There are Venetian blinds to adjust the light and cellular shades to diffuse it. Lightblock shades can totally or partially block light, which is especially useful in bedrooms, while exterior Heatblock awnings can prevent heat from entering rooms during hot weather but admit needed heat on colder days. The latest technology is electrochromic glass in skylights that can be darkened or lightened electronically by remote control without blocking the view of the sky.

SAVING ENERGY

"And even before accessories are considered," Patrick said, "skylight glazings are among the best in the industry. Quality units employ double-pane construction with argon gas between low-E coated panes for control of heat gain or loss. These glazings control up to 83 percent of the sun's fade-causing rays and resist condensation so well that a home can contain up to 50 percent more humidity before condensation will occur."

There are even impact glass models available that meet the strictest code requirements for wind-borne debris protection in hurricane-prone and other high-wind areas.

SAVING MONEY

Another good reason to consider upgrading existing skylights or adding new units is to qualify for a tax credit of up to $200 under the Energy Tax Incentives Act. Details are available at www.energy.gov/taxbreaks.htm.

You're not stuck with stippled ceilings

BY MORRIS AND JAMES CAREY FOR AP WEEKLY FEATURES

From Doug of Winchester, Va.: "I live in a house that has stippled ceilings throughout. This was put on several years ago to hide imperfections. Is there a way to get rid of this texture so I can have smooth ceilings?"

Yes, you can have smooth ceilings again. The stippling effect is simply paint applied with a special stipple roller. If the paint used was latex, you can wet the paint and then scrape away.

If the paint used was oil-based, it will be slightly more difficult.

First, do a wash of the ceiling with synthetic TSP. Once dry, do a light sanding with 80-grit paper on a sanding pole. Finally, you can "float out" the surface with drywall joint compound.

Use a wide joint compound knife to spread thin layers of the compound into the voids on the ceiling to make a smooth surface. You may need to apply more than one layer.

Keep in mind that you will need to wait for the first coat to completely dry before adding other coats. Sanding each coat is also recommended.

Once your ceiling is smooth, you can paint normally, or apply a textured finish of your choice and then paint.

TIM TAM
335-180

Natural light shines through in this model

The eye-catching brick work that fronts the country/contemporary Tim Tam (335-180), contributes to the enormous curb appeal of this elegant home.

The promise of the twin facades flanking the entryway are realized in two unique rooms as you make your way into this attractive dwelling. To the right is a large, sunken living room. A nine-foot ceiling enhances an already spacious area.

The gas fireplace makes this a cozy spot for conversation with friends or to read a good book on a chilly winter evening. Shelves for displaying your favorite collectibles abound. On the other side of the entry, step down into the sunken, guest/office. Vaulted, nine foot ceiling, shelves and a private bath make this room both an attractive office and guest suite.

One entire side of this floor design is given over to the sleeping area. This arrangement is ideal for parents with smaller children. Privacy is maintained, while still being near enough to respond to a child's needs. The gracious master suite features large walk-in his and her closets, security system, private sky lit bathroom with twin basins and personal access to the extensive back deck and spa. Conveniently separated from the master suite by a full bath, are two almost identical bedrooms, each with ample closet space.

The bountiful, vaulted dining room adds that touch of charm to any formal occasion.

Skylit's and plenty of windows afford natural illumination while dining with friends and relatives.

The sky lit kitchen, with range, built-in dishwasher and central eating bar creates an unhurried atmosphere for the cook in the house. Meals may be served informally in the multi-windowed breakfast nook or at the eating bar.

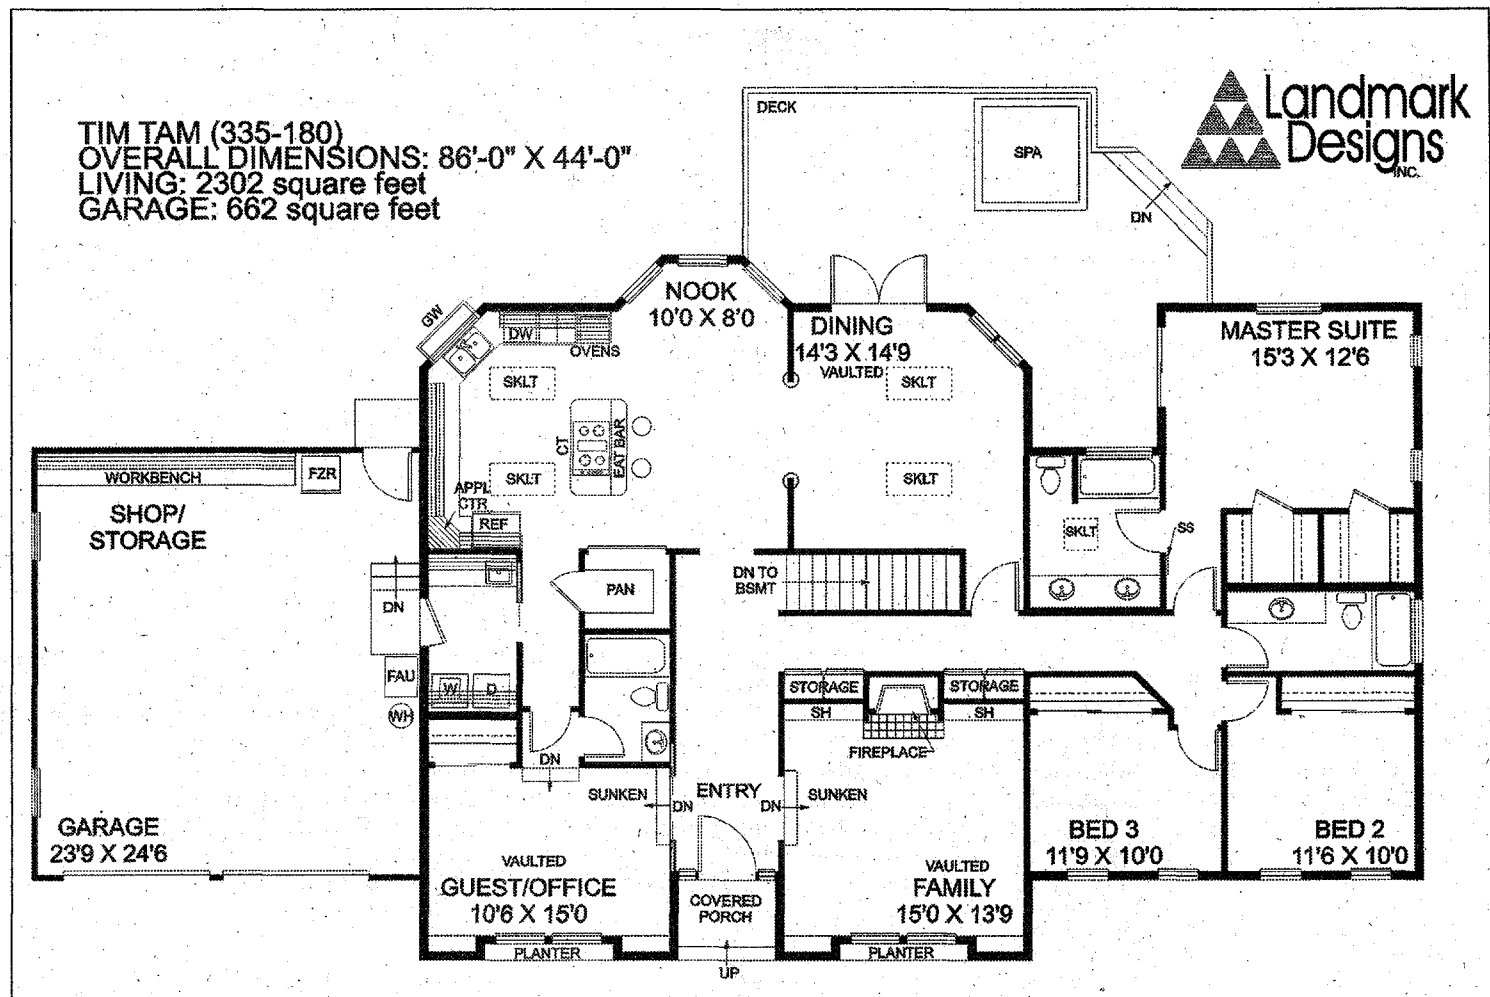

A huge walk-in pantry, with shelves for canned goods and a full bath line one side of the hall. A handy utility room

Remerica Country Place

Broker/owner Dan Clem bought the Remerica Country Place franchise in 1991. At that time, he was the only agent. Today, it has more than 170 agents operating out of the office at 44205 Ford in Canton. In 2005, Remerica Country

Place had sales in excess of $100 million and paid out more than $2.4 million in commissions. Clem attributes the growth to: pay plans he calls revolutionary and exclusive; large investments in technology; and providing top training at no additional cost.

"By only charging a small monthly fee and letting our agents keep the vast majority of their commissions, it has allowed our company to add agents that otherwise couldn't afford to become real estate agents," Clem said. "We expect this trend to continue and our goal is to expand this office to over 1,000 agents servicing the entire metro Detroit area."

In 2005, they expanded operations to include an additional 1,200-square-foot training facility and administrative office. For more, see www.RemericaCountryPlace.com.

CMU project

JM Olson Corporate has been awarded a $5 million renovation project for Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant. The firm has been commissioned to provide general contracting services for the new 19,140-square-foot addition to the existing Center for Applied Research & Technology Facility. The new addition will provide chemistry and bio-level laboratories, with space available for leasing. The existing building will receive renovations to expand and upgrade the computer room, a conference/seminar room, and provide circulation through existing space to the addition.

On the move

Pogoda Companies, a self-storage operator and broker, will relocate to larger offices at 30301 Northwestern Highway, Suite 400, Farmington Hills, 48334, on Aug. 22.

The move provides almost 40 percent more space for the growing firm's headquarters than its current office, also in Farmington Hills, said Maurice Pogoda, president.

The company's telephone and fax numbers remain the same: (248) 855-9676 and (248) 855-0170, respectively.

Pogoda Companies also recently launched a Web site at www.pogodaco.com. It includes information about management, brokerage and consulting services for the self-storage and manufactured housing industries, along with employment opportunities and company news. It also offers tips for choosing a property management company.

Founded in 1987, Pogoda Companies provides brokerage, management, investment and consulting services to the self-storage and manufactured housing industries through its Pogoda Group, Inc. and Pogoda Management Co. divisions. In addition to its Farmington Hills headquarters, Pogoda Companies has operations offices in Grand Rapids, Mich., and Dayton, Ohio.

5 buyer mistakes to avoid

I am going to buy a house. What are some mistakes I should avoid?

Buying a house can seem like a daunting task. Here are some tips:

■ Not knowing how much you can afford. You need to determine what kind of payments would fit into your budget. Estimate how much your monthly expenses are compared to your income. Determine how much of a payment you can afford.

■ If you don't own now, you most likely are renting. You may be surprised to learn that your mortgage payments may not be much higher than your rent payment. And of course, if you are paying a mortgage payment, you are gaining ownership. You need to also factor in the cost of property taxes.

■ Waiting to get a pre-approval from your lender when you make your offer. However, it's very important to get a pre-approval at the start of the process. You need to know how much of a mortgage you can get. There is no point wasting time and energy looking at houses that you can't get a mortgage for. Also, if there is a problem in you getting your mortgage, you may need time to correct it. The time to deal with these issues is before the process starts, not at the time of making an offer.

■ Trying to go at it alone rather than hiring a Realtor. A real estate agent provides many services for you. Some of these are checking the database for houses that fit your criteria, letting you know what the market values are, writing and negotiating the offer, etc. Best of all, Realtors are usually paid by the sellers. Therefore, you have access to all of the Realtors' services virtually for free.

Ask the Realtor

■ Making an extremely low offer for a house you are interested in. Everyone wants to get a good deal. Buyers don't want to pay over market value and sellers don't want to feel that they are giving their house away. However, if you making an offer too low, the seller will get angry, and not take your offer seriously. Remember, this is the seller's castle you are making an offer on.

■ Not getting a private inspection. When you have an accepted offer, you normally have the right to have a private inspection. They normally range between $300 and $400. Some buyers want to save the cost. If you are going to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars into buying a house it's worth this relatively nominal cost to find out if there is something very long before buying the house.

Michael Aldouby is a Realtor with Real Estate One. He has an M.B.A. with a concentration in marketing. Feel free to call him at (734) 748-9621 or e-mail him at michael@sellshomes@realestateone.com.

SUDOKU

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

				5				7
8	1	9
4								1
8			7	3
5	6							2
					5	4
	1			7				6
6		9
							2	5	9

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

2006 Lexus LS 430: It's what's on the inside that counts

Advertising Feature

CAReport

By Dave Menard
Avanti NewsFeatures

Sometimes, one sentence says all you need to say, and my wife said it: Ooh, baby, I like this car. She was gushing about the 2006 Lexus LS 430, a car that's more tuned to her tastes than some of the sports cars and SUVs that I'd been test driving lately. She's the type of person who wants a nice, smooth ride, a comfortable cabin, good acceleration for freeway merging and some room for her stuff. Now that I think about it, who doesn't want all that? The difference, though, is that she's not into flash, not into cars that are hard to get in and out of (like some sports cars), and not into SUVs so big they're hard to park. She's more into understated luxury, smooth performance and easy handling. The 2006 Lexus LS 430 has all of that, and more.

We won't spend a lot of ink on the exterior styling for the LS 430. There's nothing terribly flashy here, and that's just fine. The lines are smooth, with fog lamps integrated into the front spoiler. The LS 430 comes with outside mirrors that automatically fold down, and they're heated. Exposed dual exhaust tips and 17-inch wheels complete the package, although 18-inch wheels are available as an option.

The package gets more interesting when we get inside the car. The cabin features wood and leather trim throughout, available in either walnut or maple. The standard 14-way power driver's seat and 10-way power passenger's seats are quite comfortable and provide great support. The seats come in leather, but you can also get perforated semi-aniline seats, and the perforated seats can be heated and cooled; the cool air on your back feels wonderful in hot weather. The steering wheel, which also contains audio controls, and the shift knob are wood- and leather-trimmed, too. The headrests are large and pliable. There are plenty of storage compartments, too, with large fold-down map pockets in the front doors, a slide-out cell phone tray, a storage area in the center armrest, and flip-down cupholders.

There's plenty of room for people, too. As you would expect in a luxury car, leg, shoulder and hip room are plentiful, and the rear seats are comfortable, as well. Instrumentation is attractive and well laid out. You get a tachometer and coolant temperature gauge in the cluster, and a message center at the bottom of the cluster contains warning messages for low oil pressure, low engine coolant, charging system, tail lamp failure (cuts down on those unwanted chats with local law enforcement), ABS and brake pad wear.

There are plenty of standard features on the LS 430. As you would expect, automatic climate control is standard, and it has automatic air filtration and deodorizing. Power tilt steering column, power windows, integrated garage door opener, power moonroof, cruise control, rain-sensing wipers, and power rear sunshade are also included. Lexus offers a few luxury packages that include options like power door closers, headlamp washers, laser and radar cruise control, and rear seat climate and audio controls.

Speaking for audio controls, the standard audio system in the LS 430 is an AM/FM/cassette/six-disc CD changer rated at 178 watts with seven speakers. You can upgrade to a Mark Levinson system that gives you 11 speakers, a seven-channel amplifier and is rated at 240 watts. Anything from Frank Sinatra to Faith Hill to ZZ Top will sound killer on this. Satellite radio is available as an option, as well.

Also available as an option is a navigation system with built-in back-up camera. The interface is easy to use and the camera can be quite useful. In fact, I'm hoping more and more vehicles end up with back-up cameras as standard equipment. Bluetooth integration is also available for hands-free cell phone operation.

The LS 430 is powered by a 4.3-liter DOHC V8 engine, rated at 278 hp and 312 lb.-ft. of torque. Mated with a six-speed automatic transmission (which you can shift manually), the powertrain provides quick, smooth starts and plenty of passing/merging power (0-60 in 5.9 seconds). At 18/25 mpg, the mileage is pretty decent for a V8, but the downside is that it only takes premium fuel.

The ride is smooth and the LS 430 handles very well. Front and rear, the suspension system is a double-wishbone system with anti-lift geometry; coil springs gas-filled shocks and stabilizer bar. Electronic air suspension and Euro-tuned sport suspensions are available as options. Vehicle Stability Control is standard.

The LS 430 comes with power rack-and-pinion steering and it functions very well. The power-assisted ABS braking system is excellent.

In addition to the standard front air bags, the LS 430 comes with knee airbags for driver and front-seat passenger, side airbags and front and rear side curtain airbags.

A tire pressure monitoring system tells you if one (or more) of your tires are critically underinflated. An optional pre-collision system uses radar to sense an oncoming collision and adjusts seatbelts and the braking system for maximum safety.

My only real problem with the LS 430 is the price. It starts at about $56,500, certainly reasonable for a luxury car. The problem is in how much you have to add to get some real luxury features. Add the larger wheels, the packages that give you the upgraded audio system, navigation/Bluetooth system, the laser cruise control, upgraded heated/cooled seats, headlamp washers, park assist and power door closers and you've added more than $10,000 to the price, and are looking at almost $67,000. That's getting close to Jaguar territory. The question is how many of the add-ons do you need?

On the other hand, what price can you put on the reaction from your wife when she says, Ooh baby, I love this car?
