MDOT sees the light for Ridge intersection

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER

One would think Kim Del Col, upon learning the Michigan Department of Transportation had finally agreed to put a permanent, full traffic signal at the intersection of Ann Arbor Road and Ridge, would jump for joy.

Instead Del Col, who has helped lead the fight for the light since her daughter was badly hurt in an accident at that intersection two years ago, could only muster an "I'll believe it when I see it" reaction.

The problem, she said, is the light should have been there all along, especially when MDOT put it up on a temporary basis during last year's M-14 construction project.

"I'm glad we're finally there," Del Col said. "I'll be happy when it's functioning, but in the meantime we still have the same (traffic) frustrations, the same problems we had two years ago when my daughter had her accident. I'll get excited when it's fully functional and up and running."

Apparently, after years of alternately hearing local officials demanding, cajoling, begging and pleading, MDOT has agreed to give everyone what they want — a permanent traffic light at that intersection.

After conducting a traffic study, Michigan Department of Transportation officials agreed a full traffic signal is warranted at the intersection, which Plymouth Township Police have said is one of the township's most dangerous.

MDOT spokesman Michael Budai said the study showed the signal was warranted based on three conditions:

A minimum four-hour warrant volume for Ridge; the intersection's accident history; and with the improvement to the intersection, the overall improvement of traffic flow for the intersection.

"That last one wasn't really a warrant for the light, but it was an item of concern," Budai said.

The decision comes after the efforts of more than 600 residents who signed an online petition on the Web site of state Sen. Bruce Patterson (R-Canton Township), who worked with Plymouth Township officials and MDOT to make the light happen.

"I could see by the response of my constituents that this was an important safety issue," Patterson said in a statement released Wednesday. "We took all the right steps in securing the permanent traffic signal. I commend MDOT for their due diligence and am pleased that the signal will be installed as soon as possible. It just goes to show you that the system does work."

MDOT officials said the signal will

Commission eyes $8M in road repairs

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth city engineers have identified $8.2 million in road and infrastructure repairs over the next five years, with an additional $4.2 million in future street improvements.

Now all the City Commission has to do is figure out how to pay for them.

Commissioners want to continue the road improvement program, but have no money in the coffers. The fund commissioners set up with $12 million in bonds voters approved in 1996 to pave all 32 miles of roads in the city over a 20-year period is out of money, with only half the streets improved.

Mayor Dan Dwyer has made it a goal to determine by the end of March whether the City Commission will ask voters to approve a road millage, most likely in November, to repave city streets. Commissioners are also expected to receive information from Finance Director Mark Christiansen at the Feb. 19 regular meeting on alternatives to a millage, which could include paying for construction costs from the general fund budget, or a special assessment program.

Among the projects at the top of the list, should funding become available, are Sheridan from Sheldon to McKinley, McKinley between Ann Arbor Trail and Sheridan, Arthur from William to Junction and the section of Auburn from Penniman to Junction.

George Smith, a retired teacher who has lived in his Auburn Street home since 1971, said his street certainly could use a makeover.

"When they repaved it last time, they patched it and then had to come back the next year because the company did a poor job," Smith said. "I would like it done ... but they're doing the best they can."

While Smith noted he'd like his street paved, he's willing to wait if it means passing another millage.

"The way the economy is right now it will never pass," Smith said. "I put an addition on the house last year and my taxes almost tripled. I

Mock legislature teaches issues not 'black and white'

Representative Matt Saagman listens to a speaker defending the proposed bill banning embryonic stem cell research.

After one student rose from her seat and passionately justified the need for a no-smoking rule in public restaurants, another teen got up and fiercely argued against the proposed ban.

"It's your constitutional responsibility to protect your constituents," the first teenager said as she rolled out second-hand smoke statistics.

Obviously, her classmates agreed because they voted to outlaw smoking in public restaurants.

Role playing as members of Michigan's House of Representatives, around 50 students at Plymouth Christian Academy participated in a mock legislative session Thursday night.

The students, dressed in business suits, ties and high heels, were divided into political parties and sat primly in their seats -- until a bill was passed.

Depending on their opinion, each time a vote was taken, some students would yell "woo hoo" and cheer while others grumbled in disappointment.

"Whoa, that's high drama there, folks," James Muffett told the group of students.

Muffett, who served as the House speaker, is the president of Student Statesmanship Institute, and facilitated the two-day program that led to the mock session.

Reaction mixed to Granholm's budget plan

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

Whether or not you agree Gov. Jennifer Granholm should impose a 2-percent tax on services such as hair cuts, car repairs or baseball tickets, there is one opinion that everyone seems to agree with, and that's no one really wants to pay more taxes.

"I'm a Democrat, but I don't like taxes," said Denny Wheeler of Canton Township, owner of Denny's Service Center at the corner of Starkweather and Pearl in Plymouth's Old Village.

Wheeler's customers will have to pay a 2-percent tax on car repairs if the measure is passed by the Legislature. However, that being said, Wheeler said he's willing to do his fair share to help Granholm out of the state's budget predicament.

"What makes this a worthwhile tax to me is the fact she has done some serious cutting, and says we can't make it," Wheeler, 55, said. "If you're in business, you've been there."

"When you have people moving out of state as fast as they are and you have houses up for sale and foreclosures because there are no jobs, property taxes and sales taxes will be down," he said. "I think it's a legitimate need, but I don't like it. It's one of those necessary evils."

Julie Oguinn, who does the accounting for her husband's business, Oguinn's Lawn and Landscaping in Salem Township, said it's not the tax she's concerned about.

"I want to find out if we have to charge it," said Oguinn, outside the downtown Plymouth post office. "Then, it will require a lot more paperwork for small businesses. That takes time and effort to track, and it will take the state time to track, which could cost them money."

However, Kathy Stasa of Plymouth Township, shopping along Forest Avenue in downtown Plymouth, said Granholm needs to look elsewhere to reduce the budget deficit.

"I'm not in favor of it because I think it's an unnecessary -- and possibly unfair -- way to reduce the deficit," Stasa said. "She should look at other areas, possibly some cutbacks in the school budget. I say that because we go to a private school, and we're paying taxes for public as well as our children's private education."

It doesn't appear Stasa will get her way, as Granholm is proposing a $178 per-pupil increase in the state foundation grant for public schools. According to Patricia Brand, the district's assistant superintendent for business services, the increase would give Plymouth-Canton an additional $3.4 million.

However, according to Brand, the money isn't enough to cover increasing costs.

"The per-pupil increase still leaves us $63 short of increases in utilities, health care and if they don't change the current retirement system," said Brand.

Academy open house

Plans for the fourth year of Cross Bridge Academy, a non-profit school for children with autism and other severe language impairments, are well underway. The school is the product of the combined effort of a group of dedicated parents and caring professionals to develop an academic curriculum for children with moderate to severe autism.

The school hosts an open house 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 21 at Geneva Presbyterian Church, on Sheldon Road in Canton.

The Cross Bridge Academy curriculum has been carefully researched and incorporates the highly successful Association Method, intense Sensory Integration therapy and Speech and Language therapy. Social skill development is woven into each day, as children move from individual to group learning sessions.

As a result of the children's academic success, the Cross Bridge Academy curriculum has been expanded to include Social Studies and Science.

Classroom size is limited to five children per class, with teachers specially trained in the Association Method. There are two teaching assistants per class. A full-time Occupational Therapist specially trained in Sensory Integration provides two hours per week of individual therapy, plus one day a week of in-class consultation to help transfer newly learned skills to an academic environment. A language program specifically designed for Cross Bridge Academy is implemented weekly by a certified speech pathologist.

To register, call Lorraine Zaksek at (734) 455-6232.

New Plymouth fitness center offers four-minute workout that gets results

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

Health experts recommend exercising an hour or more a day to lose weight and remain healthy.

But, for some, spending time at the gym walking the treadmill, using the elliptical machine or lifting weights is more a chore than fun. And those New Year's resolution workouts at the fitness center in January and February can easily fade by March and April.

However, Parker Whitaker, owner of ROM Fitness Studio on Forest Avenue in downtown Plymouth, said you can skip the drive to the gym, spending hours a week exercising, because all it takes is four minutes a day. And, you don't even have to shower afterward.

Whitaker said his ROM resistance, cardio and stretching apparatus is designed and engineered to provide a complete upper- or lower-body workout in less time than it takes to change clothes at the gym.

"The old theory is you had to do 45 minutes to get heart-vascular health, but the new studies show that's not true," said Whitaker. "Actually, high intensity training, which is what this falls under, is much more conducive to a healthy heart than long-duration cardio because it develops the lungs. And lung capacity is actually the key factor in heart health."

"The four minutes (on the ROM) is the equivalent of doing 45 minutes of cardio, 35 minutes of weight training and 20 minutes of stretching," he said.

Trading in 60 minutes or more of exercise for just four minutes a day was enticing to Diane Bancroft of Canton Township, who began working out in the office-like exercise studio in July.

"That's why I come here, because I hate gyms and organized exercise," Bancroft said. "When you get here, you already know you'll be working hard for those four minutes before you even get on the machine."

"But, it's worth it," she said. "The rewards here are immediate, if nothing else the pure energy level you get. I've seen fantastic results."

The ROM machines have both upper body and lower body stations. However, Whitaker said despite it being only a four-minute workout, he recommends doing the lower body one day, the upper body the next, and continuing the cycle for five or six days.

Theresa Beaver of Canton also liked the idea of a four-minute workout when she started working out at ROM Fitness in September.

"By the time you fit the structured routine of a fitness center, changing clothes and joining class, you've lost an hour-and-a-half," Beaver said.

However, for those who think the four-minute workout is a breeze, Beaver said, "It's the best four minutes you'll ever hate."

Beaver said she used to get winded walking up flights of stairs, but that's not the case now.

"I have more energy, and the body is repositioning to more desirable locations," Beaver said jokingly. "I'm very happy, otherwise I wouldn't keep coming."

"A lot of exercises become routine and you don't push yourself as hard," she said. "But, here, you reach a level and you push yourself to the next level."

Whitaker said even he needed to be convinced about the ROM fitness machines before investing $30,000 for two machines, much more than what it costs for a treadmill or elliptical machine.

"I struggled with my weight, having dieted when I was 10 years old," Whitaker said. "But, the machine — along with eating five meals a day — absolutely changed my life. I wouldn't start something so out-of-the-box if I didn't know it worked."

"The machine meets your resistance, instead of you meeting its resistance," he said. "If you're pushing it to capacity, at two minutes you're looking at the clock."

Jason Loverich began showing up at ROM Fitness because it was close to where his daughter takes dance lessons. Loverich, a marathon runner, only goes three days a week, but does both the upper and lower body exercises those days.

Loverich said even after the eight-minute workout, he hardly breaks a sweat, making it easy to go in before work or during lunch time because you don't have to go home and take a shower.

"I could probably come in my business clothes and then go to work," Loverich said. "At my job, I go into boiler rooms that are 110 degrees and I sweat worse in there than I do here."

"This is great if someone is trying to get into exercising," he said. "It's great because it can be as challenging as you want it to be."

School field forming as deadline nears

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

As the Tuesday deadline looms for candidates to file petitions to run for the Plymouth-Canton Schools Board of Education, two challengers have emerged for the May 8 election in which voters will fill two, four-year seats.

Canton Township residents Nancy Eggenberger and Bruce Coldys each paid a $100 filing fee instead of filing petitions with at least 40 valid signatures.

Incumbent Richard Ham-Kucharski said he will pay the $100 filing fee in seeking his second term. It is believed that board vice president Mark Slavens will also seek re-election.

Eggenberger, who has chaired the last two bond proposals and is president of the Community School Council, said her passion for education prompted her to seek a board seat.

"I thought it would be better to run when my kids are in school because it makes me more aware of what's going on," said Eggenberger, 48, who has two daughters at Plymouth High School and a son in seventh grade at Pioneer Middle School.

"I think the district is moving in a good direction, but there are challenges," she said, "like funding and how we are going to keep the quality of education we have now and keep it going. There's also going to be a superintendent search, and that's going to be very important."

Coldys said in his 28 years in public schools he's been a union president, substitute teacher and building custodian, as well as a child care worker.

"It's going to be very difficult for Plymouth-Canton to maintain an excellent reputation in the face of funding issues and Proposal A," Coldys, 53, said. "I believe with my background, I've already got the knowledge of how all the components in the district work."

Ham-Kucharski, who has a son at Gallimore Elementary, said it's no secret the budget will be the top priority in the coming years.

"I want to be there to help move forward and try to keep the district in a cost-efficient and fully functional path," Ham-Kucharski, 34, said. "I'd been hoping we could have made more cuts to get us out of the situation we're in this year and pending years. We need to find alternative methods in balancing our budget."

"But, there are plenty of other projects, like improving our alternative high school programs at Starkweather, if the bond passes, and it moves to Central (Middle School)," he said. "The latest MEAP scores in the elementary, middle and high schools were high, but we really need to find ways to help students who are struggling in the middle of the spectrum."

Petitions can be obtained from the clerk's offices in Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township. The petitions, or a $100 filing fee, must be turned in to the Plymouth Township clerk's office by 4 p.m. Tuesday. Those who file have until 4 p.m. Friday, Feb. 16 to withdraw their name from the ballot.

District residents who want to participate in the school board election have through April 9 to register with the clerk's office in the community in which they live.

the Biblical training program features bills from previous house sessions in the state.

Muffett told the students that lawmakers often have to "choose between individual liberties and social responsibility" while adding that legislative matters aren't always black and white.

"It requires thought, dialogue and listening," he said.

Charlotte Daly, 17, argued the need to display religious writings, such as the 10 commandments, in public buildings saying society has shunned its beginnings.

"We have become convinced there is no place for religion in the public arena," she said. "Religious writings are valuable pieces of history."

Daly's opposition, senior Melissa Rich, 17, pointed to a scripture in the book of the Matthew as a reason not to display religious writings.

"The government clearly cannot favor one religion over the other," she said, adding that opening the door for the items such as the 10 Commandments would lead to the display of

The measure to display the writings passed by a slim margin.

Bekki Nill of Novi said she was floored by the students' perspectives on controversial issues.

"I thought this was amazing," she said. "It was a great learning experience for the kids."

Nill's son, a high school senior, participated in the event.

Bill Lawton and Natalie McLaughlin, Community Financial's Education Partnership Coordinator, package completed meals while Michelle Richards and Kathleen Hinchcliff, Community Financial employees, prepare them in the background.

Laptop donation aids Kiwanis Club program

Long known for its support of area non-profits and events, including the Music in the Air series, Fourth of July Parade, and Plymouth Symphony Orchestra in Plymouth, the Victorian Festival in downtown Northville, and Relay for Life in Canton, Community Financial has now donated a state-of-the-art laptop projector to the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth.

Community Financial's CEO, Bill Lawton, a member of Kiwanis who also serves on the board of the Plymouth Community Arts Council and Community Financial's Scholarship fund, anticipates the donated equipment will help with the promotion and coordination of Kiwanis projects, in particular their collaboration with Kids Against Hunger (KAH), a national non-profit agency which aims to ameliorate malnutrition in poverty-stricken areas of the United States, Central America, Asia, and Africa.

"With similar missions, both of which entail changing the world one child at a time, the collaboration was a easy fit, and the Colonial Kiwanis Club's four year involvement with KAH has yielded great returns," Lawton said.

With the assistance of local church groups, elementary, middle and high-school students and businesses — including Community Financial — throughout the area, combined efforts have produced more than 250,000 nutritionally balanced meals for export to hungry children worldwide.

The packaged meals consist of a casserole that has been developed by nutritionists that has all essential nutrients. It is made of rice, soy protein, chicken broth and dried vegetables and can be cooked in boiling water for 20 minutes. Each bag feeds six adults or 12 children. Using a van, Kiwanis donated to the cause to transport the materials, they average nearly 10,000 meals per every two hours.

be installed as part of the safety project scheduled to begin this spring. The light will be installed as part of a total intersection improvement program which will include center-turn lanes, through lanes and right-only lanes.

Plymouth Township Supervisor Richard Reaume said township officials convinced MDOT to move up work on those improvements, originally scheduled to be done in late 2008, to spring 2007.

He said MDOT is paying for the improvements, the contracts for which, Reaume said, are in the bidding process.

"We're delighted," Reaume said. "It's a dangerous intersection. Our residents have had to avoid it. We thought the traffic counts justified it, we know the danger of the intersection justified it, and now the study shows the light is warranted."

The intersection currently has a flashing signal that flashes yellow for traffic on Ann Arbor Road and red for Ridge traffic. The flashing signal was returned at the end of last year's M-14 construction, during a portion of which a full traffic signal was in place.

MDOT officials said at the time the flashing signal would be returned because previous studies didn't warrant a full signal, but agreed to conduct another study at the conclusion of M-14 construction.

That's where Del Col's frustration bubbles over.

"It still makes absolutely no sense to me it was OK to have that light there functioning while there was extra traffic for M-14 (construction)," she said. "We still have the same problems, maybe less cars, but the same issues. The kids still have to get out of there safely to get to school. I don't understand why they can't use it now while they're doing the improvements."

Budai said before the improvements can be done to the intersection, some utility poles in the area will have to be moved, meaning the light probably will have to come down temporarily. Aside from that, he said, the intersection doesn't currently meet design standards.

"The way the intersection is set up, if one vehicle stops to make the left turn onto Ridge in either direction, all traffic stops behind it," he said.

"During peak times especially, that can cause quite a problem."

Reaume said now that the light is going up, township officials would work on the next goal: lowering the speed limit from the current 55 mph.

"We'd like to see it drop to 45 in that area," Reaume said. "That would allow our citizens to get in and out of those subdivisions without having to risk accident and injury."

figure I'm paying my share, but I'm not getting any more services."

The proposed infrastructure repair program only identifies specific projects over the next five years, with no time frame for the remaining roads.

"Many communities do a five-year projection, and constantly update it," said Shawn Keough, vice president of WadeTrim, a municipal engineering consulting firm in Taylor. "It's a nice, foreseeable future, one you can get your hands around. We could project longer, but it would likely change."

Keough noted most of the roads in the five-year plan "are either bad or poor."

Six of the seven city commissioners have publicly endorsed a continuation of the road millage.

Local book store contest taps into Harry Potter mania

BY TIFFANY L. PARKS
STAFF WRITER

Those hoping to win the final book in the Harry Potter series are being asked to do their best Annie Leibovitz impression for a photo competition.

As The Page Turns, an online bookstore based in Canton, is participating in the Get Caught Reading 2007 Photo Contest.

Whether you capture your children, parents or neighbors, the goal is to catch someone reading and snap a photograph.

The competition is designed to encourage reading, said Nicole Jackson, the owner of the online bookstore.

"We're going for the America's Funniest Home Videos feel," she said. "We want people to have fun and be creative."

The first place winner will snag a copy of Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows. The much-awaited tale, which will be released July 21, is the last piece of author J.K. Rowling's Harry Potter puzzle.

Jackson said she's unsure if the winner will be able to get their hands on a copy before the release date.

"I don't want to make any promises," she said.

The second-place winner will get a canvas book bag with a character imprint and the third-place prize is a wrist band that says: "Open a Book Open a Mind."

In addition to the local contest, all entries will be entered in a regional contest that includes participants in Indiana, Illinois and Ohio.

The regional competition is being sponsored by the Great Lakes Booksellers Association. Submissions will be accepted through March 30.

For details, call Jackson at (734) 812-1045 or log onto www.getcaughtreadingphotocontest.com.

New owners of Scoopy's excited to be in Canton

BY TIFFANY L. PARKS
STAFF WRITER

Susan and Craig Primeau have discovered the secret to upping their cool factor with their grandchildren — they buy ice cream shops.

The couple has owned an ice cream shop in Trenton for the past seven years and recently became the owners of Scoopy's Ice Cream and Deli at the corner of Hanford and Canton Center roads.

"Our grandchildren love this," Susan Primeau said. "They think it's so cool."

The Trenton residents, who got into the ice cream business after their daughter began working at a Baskin-Robbins, went back and forth with each other about buying in Canton.

"We saw an ad in the paper (for Scoopy's) last summer, but we were right in the middle of our busy season so we decided not to look into it," Primeau said. "But then the second time we saw an ad, I told my husband that we should take another look at it and he said, 'Are you crazy?' but here we are."

The Primeaus are the fourth owners of the 1,200-square-foot shop.

always money left over for ice cream," she said. "But we've been fine so far. Everybody that walks in is so happy to see this place open again."

With more than 40 varieties of ice cream serving as a temptation, Primeau bangs her fist on a table in mock anger when asked if she still indulges in her own products.

"Everyday," she said, breathing out a long sigh. "I really thought I would be sick of ice cream by now but I eat some everyday."

Joking that her grandchildren, ages 2, 3 and 5, already have summer jobs lined up for their teenage years, Primeau said when she and her husband retire, their two daughters will take the reins of their ice cream operations.

"We will always be a family business," she said.

Scoopy's which offers lunch delivery for its soups, salads and sandwiches, sells Stroh's ice creams, homemade waffle cones, cakes, pies and ice cream cakes.

"We really like being in Canton and are very excited for (Spring)," Primeau said.

Valentine dinner not a diet-killer

If you plan to share a romantic dinner for Valentine's Day with your sweetheart, you can do it without compromising your diet. Almost all major restaurant chains have their menus online and many include nutritional information. CalorieKing.com and NutritionalData.com are great sources for nutritional information for individual foods and restaurants. Take a few minutes before you go out to use the Web to help you make a healthy choice ahead of time.

WHEN YOU GET THERE

- Order salad dressings and other sauces on the side. This way, you have control over how much or how little you add.
- When ordering grilled fish or vegetables, ask that the food either be grilled without butter or oil, or prepared "light," with little oil or butter.
- When ordering pasta dishes, look for tomato-based sauces rather than cream-based sauces. Tomato-based sauces are much lower in fat and calories. In addition, the tomato/marinara sauce can count as a vegetable!
- Drink water, diet soda, or unsweetened tea or coffee instead of regular soda or alcoholic beverages. This will save a lot of calories each day.
- Share a dessert with a friend. Half the dessert equals half the calories.
- Share an appetizer. Same rule as above applies.
- When having soup, keep in mind cream-based soups are higher in fat and calories than other soups. Soup serves as a great appetizer to a meal, or as an entree. Most soups are low in calories and will fill you up, so you eat less.
- Order steamed vegetables as a side dish instead of starch.
- Ask for salsa with a baked potato instead of sour cream, butter, cheese, or bacon. Salsa is low in calories and a healthy alternative with a lot of spice.
- Stop eating when you are full — listen to the cues your body gives you.
- Order sandwiches with mustard rather than mayonnaise or "special sauce." Mustard adds flavor with virtually no calories.
- Take half of your meal home. The second half can serve as a second meal! (Two meals for the price of one: What a deal!)
- If you want to eat less, order an appetizer and a salad, as your meal.
- If you have a choice of side dishes, opt for baked potato or steamed vegetables rather than french fries. Even if choices are not listed, ask your server to substitute vegetables or a baked potato for french fries.
- Look for items on the menu that are baked, grilled, dry-sautéed, broiled, poached, or steamed. These cooking techniques use less fat in the food preparation and are generally lower in calories.
- Don't be afraid to ask for special low-calorie or low-fat preparation of a menu item. The restaurant industry is one of hospitality and customer choice. They aim to please.
- Plain bread or yeast rolls are relatively low in fat and calories. It's the butter and oil you add that increases the fat and calories.
- Choose entrees with fruits and vegetables as key ingredients. Enjoy the flavors they offer. Fruits and vegetables are a good source of dietary fiber as well as of many vitamins and minerals.
- Choose foods made with whole grains.

ENJOY

Focus on the company and enjoy every bite. Food is wonderful and is meant to be enjoyed. Food is just food. It's how we use it that affects our weight and how we feel about food and weight. It's not the enemy. Learn to feel your hunger. Listening to your body will help you eat whatever you want and not gain weight.

Matchmakers help Cupid's arrows find their mark

West Bloomfield resident Andrea Caplan (center) gets advice from matchmakers Deborah and Irene Slobin.

Irene Slobin calls it intuition. Her daughter, Deborah Slobin, says it's magic. Whatever the definition, the West Bloomfield residents have successfully set up hundreds of couples through their business, Irene & Deborah's Old Fashioned Matchmaking Service. "Sometimes when you meet a person, you know who'll they match up with," Deborah said. "My mom is phenomenal at it. There's really no way to describe it, but it works. Basically, we love people." The dating service is "old-fashioned" because the pair doesn't use computer programs to make matches. Instead, they field telephone calls then meet their clients in person for lunch or coffee. "We want to know who you are first," Irene said. "We want to get to know the soul of the person." Clients are a microcosm of soci-

Indulge in favorite cookies of U.S. presidents at tea

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Did you know former President Jimmy Carter's favorite cookies were Pecan Squares or that George Washington often requested crab bisque during his years at the White House? Guests at a Presidential Tea will not only have the opportunity to taste these favorites, but take home a booklet with the recipes. The afternoon of delights takes place in the Alexander Blue House at Greenmead Historical Park 3-5 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 24. Tickets are $25 and sold only in advance. Proceeds go to restore and preserve Greenmead. Purchased by the city of Livonia in 1976, the historic site is home to 20 buildings in which early residents lived, shopped and attended church. It is divided into two sections - one reflecting the 1850s, the other the early 1920s. For tickets to the tea or more information, call (248) 477-7375. The menu includes tea sandwiches, desserts, tea, and scones with either blueberries and cherries or cranberries in keeping with the red, white and blue theme. "We're featuring presidential favorite cookies and compiled a variety of four to five different cookies," said Linda Wiacek, recreation supervisor at Greenmead. "We have about 25 favorite recipes. We've been collecting them over the years. The Jimmy Carter Pecan Squares we love them so much we serve them at every tea. They were introduced as Pecan Diamonds by the White House pastry chef Harry Haller and became a favorite of the family." Greenmead began presenting teas in the historical setting in 2004. "Our teas are very popular," said Wiacek. "We're really kind of fussy. We use real china, silver and little fancy covered dishes on the table set with red and blue linens with white napkins. There's a good selection of presidential china at each table, and a presidential exhibit of photos, prints, posters. "In keeping with the theme our speaker is Sandi Knollenberg, wife of U.S. Rep. Joe Knollenberg. She's been involved in first ladies' luncheons and will be able to talk about various White House experiences over the years." As a thank you for coming to the tea, guests will be given the booklet with favorite recipes and fun facts about U.S. presidents. "We have recipes for Chewy Macaroons from Lyndon Johnson; McKinley, who purchased the Alaskan territories, we have his Ice Box Cookies. The Lincoln cookies are not real pretty looking but oh, my gosh, they're delicious."

Take the stairs and aid American Lung Association research

Caleb Mitchell easily climbs the 170-step stairs during his Saturday workouts at Bloomer Park in Rochester Hills.

On Sunday, Feb. 25, he'll add 70 flights to his regimen.

Mitchell is among the teams and individuals that have signed up for the American Lung Association of Michigan's Climb Detroit, a fund-raiser that may tax even the toughest of athletes as they race to the top of the Marriott Detroit at the Renaissance Center, Michigan's tallest building.

"I'm just going to do it. I have friends at work and they're going to join in," said Mitchell, an adventure race athlete who has competed his way across Michigan and Ohio.

Adventure racing entails many different sporting activities, such as road biking, mountain biking, hiking, boating, canoeing and more. It doesn't generally include climbing stairs in tall urban buildings.

"If you stay active and do 10-15 hours a week and really focus on the core disciplines, you can pretty much do anything," he said, unfazed by the stair challenge. "I did two marathons last week and I'm not a runner by any stretch of the imagination. Just stay active and have realistic goals."

If a 70-story climb seems unrealistic, competitors can opt for a 40-story climb. The cost to participate is $35, with a fund-raising minimum of $65 for the full climb and $45 for the half climb. Those who raise $100 or more, including the registration fee, will earn a commemorative Climb Detroit shirt.

Climbers also will be awarded by age group and fastest time. Team awards will go to the fastest team, highest fund-raising team, most clever team name and most spirited team.

Participants must pre-register by Feb. 20.

Start times will be assigned a week before the event. Registration will start at 7:30 a.m. on climb day, with the first competitors starting at 8:30 a.m.

Jeff Watters, who runs an outdoor exercise session on Saturdays in Rochester, as well as Monday-Friday boot camps in downtown Birmingham, will lead free workout sessions for registered participants before the climb.

Register for the climb by calling the American Lung Association of Michigan office at (248) 784-2026 or visit www.climbdetroit.org.

Infection protection

Kits may reduce incidence of influenza

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Lyne Appel Downing isn't waiting until the height of flu season to safeguard her family. In late October, she purchased an infection protection kit consisting of 10 masks, seven sanitizing hand wipes and seven sets of synthetic gloves for under $10 while grocery shopping.

The Birmingham mother of one is doing everything possible to keep her family well especially during influenza season, and so far it's working. When daughter Kasey became sick in late December, she and husband, Keith, wore masks around the house so as not to catch the virus. A certified personal trainer and yoga instructor, Appel Downing believes in a healthy body and mind. She takes vitamins and supplements, and is always proactive when it comes to health.

After Kasey carried home six pages of prevention tips for the flu and pandemics from her third-grade classroom at Harlan Elementary, Appel Downing began researching the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Web site (www.cdc.gov) for information on infection protection.

"Just yesterday I was running around the house and heard my daughter hacking," said Appel Downing, 52. "I got our wipes and began wiping everything down. My daughter thinks it's funny so she put on the mask and put one on the dog, but I say better safe than sorry. If one is sick why should three be sick."

UNIVERSITY STUDY

Dr. Arnold Monto has no early indication if masks and hand sanitizers in the kits reduce the incidence of influenza but by 2008 the results should be in from a two-year study funded by the CDC to determine the components' effectiveness. In October 2006, 2,000 students living in the close confines of University of Michigan dormitories were divided into three clusters. One group of participants is wearing masks and using hand sanitizers. The second wears only masks. The third takes neither precaution to prevent influenza.

"The idea came about for national policy reasons," said Monto, professor of epidemiology, University of Michigan School of Public Health. "The CDC would like to have answers about some of these questions for flu and pandemics. In case of flu, we have vaccines and antivirals. In case of a pandemic we won't have vaccines so it's important to know if nonpharmaceutical interventions like closing schools could contain the virus. It's possible kits may help. Some studies of hand sanitizers have shown a reduction in respiratory infections. People wear masks in Asia, but we really have no idea whether regular surgical masks work. We know that the high level masks used in the SARS outbreak worked but were in short supply."

The CDC would like to be prepared in case of a pandemic whether caused by a common influenza strain or H5N1 (avian flu). At this point, the bird flu (H5N1) has not mutated and cannot be transferred from human to human. Barring a virus mutation, a person must be in close contact with an infected bird to acquire H5N1.

Some people actually live in the same building with chickens in Vietnam where cases of H5N1 have been reported. That's why Dana Marra took along a mask when she traveled to Vietnam on business for her adoption agency Adoption Options Worldwide. The Troy woman purchased masks not only to avoid contracting H5N1, but to protect herself from the chemicals she uses to clean her home.

"In Vietnam, the mode of transportation is a moped and they wear the masks while driving and walking," said Marra. "I found the masks cut down on being ill. I'm trying to do more preventive, live a healthier lifestyle, eat a healthy diet, exercise. I'm fighting every step of the way, trying to be aware of the environment in general."

PLANNING AHEAD

Janet Green purchased a kit after Appel Downing told her the product might help prevent the body aches, muscle soreness, congestion and cough a virus causes.

"We had talked about the flu, especially the bird flu because I live on a lake and we have a lot of birds and swans," said Green, 59, of Bloomfield Hills. "One of the birds hit one of our windows and my husband had to pick it up. After I went and purchased the kit. We're all responsible for our own health. I believe in having a strong immune system. I take vitamins, work out with a personal trainer. Prevention is the best medicine and being aware of your surroundings. My mom is 85 and we're always running around and using bathrooms when we do our shopping. We both use the wipes. When I go into a bathroom I use the sleeve of my coat to open the door and I always wash my hands."

Hand washing is one of the most important ways to prevent the spread of infections, says Dr. Roger Ajluni Jr., a Beaumont physician who treats patients in a Livonia office. Ajluni's first suggestion is to vaccinate against the illness. Neither Appel Downing, Green or Marra received flu shots. Ajluni has noticed a resistance by some of his internal medicine patients to the vaccine because of a fear of side effects. Ajluni estimates only about 5 percent of those receiving the vaccine suffer from mild flu-like symptoms that last eight to 24 hours.

Outdoor adventure

Fitness pro will take you out of your comfort zone and into the fresh winter air

BY SHARON DARGAY
COMMUNITY LIFE EDITOR

Never mind that the temperature hovered around a frostbiting zero degrees.

Or that a blustery wind made it feel more like Antarctica than Rochester Hills.

Or that snow — and in some places, ice — covered every stair, trail and hill.

The 15 or so men and women who gathered on a recent Saturday morning at Bloomer Park didn't care much about wind chills and degree stats. They were on a 90-minute adventure to work out and work up a sweat outdoors.

"Once you try it, it grows on you," said Lisa Litinas of Rochester Hills. "I like running the trails. It's so pretty back there."

The 46-year-old woman said she was a "couch potato" until she arranged for professional trainer, Jeff Watters, to lead an exercise boot camp at her place of employment, Eisbrenner Public Relations, in Troy. Now Litinas attends the exercise sessions at work and Watters' Saturday Adventure in the Rochester Hills park.

"It's a craving, I just have to have it," she said.

Watters, a Ferndale resident, runs two urban boot camps year-round on the streets and in a parking deck in downtown Birmingham, where he builds exercise routines around available "equipment." That might include stairwells, park benches or planters.

"You find ways to use different things for resistance. You learn to make do with what you have," Watters explained. "I see a tot lot and to me it looks like a miniature gym."

EXERCISE IMPROVISING

He brings that same mentality to his Saturday class at Bloomer: A picnic table or fallen tree might assist with push-ups and other strength-building exercises; the park's bike velodrome becomes an impromptu climbing wall; the playground is perfect for pull-ups. The routine changes from week-to-week depending on the weather, participants' needs and conditions at the park. If it's dry, he might include a bit of mountain biking. Snowy? Everyone might spend some time walking in snowshoes.

"My wife and I are real big on the whole outdoor thing. We love to take other people out to experience the things we love to do," Watters said. "We encourage people to try new things."

"Where the boot camp is just focused on exercise, Adventure Saturday is exercise, but we try to employ different disciplines that we can't do in the city. It's a good way to try things that you may not even know are involved in an adventure race. Once you realize you've done it, you might be more apt to try something new."

By using a mix of exercise and adventure race activities on Saturday, he also draws an assortment of people. Some, like Maggie Surma of Royal Oak, attend Watters' Birmingham boot camp during the week. Others, like Gary Harrington, 52, of Waterford, only participate in Watters' Saturday session or his free Wednesday night boot camp, but also participate in adventure racing with groups like Inferra Sports and Tailwind Enterprises.

Adventure races can last anywhere from a few hours to several days and include biking, hiking, running, canoeing, orientation work with a compass, rappelling, kayaking — any sport activity the participant does under his own power — in a team format.

"What I like about it is Jeff improvises and you're outside. I like being outside, in the woods," Harrington said.

Surma, 27 and her cousin, Natalie Vujovich, 26, of Rochester Hills, signed up for week day boot camp last year to get in shape for their upcoming weddings. They religiously attend the Saturday Adventure sessions.

"It started out as motivation for my wedding. But now I want to continue because it has proven to me what I can do," Surma said.

"You get addicted," Vujovich noted. "I never ran the mile in gym class and a few weeks ago he had us run two miles and I made it all the way. I started crying. It's been amazing. You work at your own level and never feel pressured. It just takes a few times to get into it. What I love about this is that it is never boring."

Watters may tailor some activities to specific members if he knows they have an upcoming race, but beginners aren't expected to keep up with long-time participants. One person may run the 170-step staircase at Bloomer three times; someone else might try it only once.

"People do what they can, as long as they do more than the last time," Watters said. He asks participants to try a bit harder each session. But he also teaches them to listen to their bodies and rest or warm up when necessary. He builds a fire in the stone shelter at the park and encourages participants to dress in layers.

"The thing that's neat about this is that it's hard to get up and get going in the winter when it's cold out. Once I get out into the fresh air, I feel so much more invigorated than if I had gone to the gym," Watters noted.

Even Rob Moroni, 43, of Bingham Farms, who "doesn't really like exercise" prefers running a park trail in the bracing winter air to the treadmill at a gym.

"I was looking for something that might engage me. It really does," said Moroni, who won a year's worth of Watters' boot camp by bidding on a silent auction at a charity event.

"In six months I've gained weight, but it's all muscle."

Students explore careers in sports/entertainment marketing

Michigan DECA, a student marketing group, is based at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti. More than 1,400 high school students met there Jan. 11-12 for the district conference and competition.

The students were given sports and entertainment marketing as their topic. Their project required them to develop and present a plan to promote ticket sales for an amusement park in the fall. Students who excel have a chance to move on to the next round of competition.

Chris Pollum, conference planner for Michigan DECA and EMU staffer, was a key person in putting the district conference together.

"Sports and entertainment just happened to be one of several areas our students can compete in," he said. The goal is to teach marketing skills to students.

"They were all high school students, mostly juniors and seniors," Pollum said of the over 1,400 total, 700 each day, who attended. That conference was one of eight Michigan DECA will do around the state this year.

The students competed for the state conference March 16-17.

"It gives students the opportunity to interact with business professionals," Pollum said. "It gives them a unique opportunity to demonstrate their skills." Students can learn about marketing and careers before investing four years in college, Pollum said.

Local schools represented Jan. 11-12 include: Belleville High, Garden City, Livonia Churchill, Franklin, Stevenson and Career-Technical, Plymouth-Canton, Redford Union, Wayne-Westland and others.

"We have events with apparel and accessories, travel and tourism. Basically they're giving a case study situation." Students prepare a presentation to make to the judge.

Michigan DECA has some 7,500 members, and more than 2,500 of those and their advisers will meet March 16-17 for the state Career Development Conference at the Hyatt Regency Dearborn. Students will then go on to international competition in Orlando, Fla., in April.

"We'll take about 600 students to Orlando," he said.

There is a DECA college division not administered out of his office; some Eastern students work in the office as employees.

"We're looking for business professionals to come judge on March 16 and 17." Additional information is available by calling (734) 487-3322 or online at mideca.org.

At the Dearborn event next month, judges will evaluate students in role playing, economic concepts, customer service, hospitality, e-commerce, food service management and market research.

DECA is an international association of high school and college students studying marketing, management and entrepreneurship in business, finance, hospitality and marketing sales and service.

LEXUS' NEW RX SUV IMPROVED FOR 2007

Advertising Feature

CAReport

By Dave Menard
Avanti News Features

Lexus, The RX 350 is a new version of the RX 330.

Since its introduction in 1988, the Lexus RX has been among my favorite SUVs. In fact, one of my favorite vehicles overall. I tend to prefer car-based SUVs for their ride and handling characteristics; if you're the type who buys an SUV for its off-road capability, you might want to look elsewhere to something based on a truck platform. For SUVs that mainly tackle everyday city driving, it's hard to match the combination of style, handling, ride and features of the 2007 Lexus RX 350.

The RX 350 is a new version of the RX 330, and comes in two- and all-wheel drive models. It's a nice, clean-looking design, with a front fascia that shares a common look with other Lexus vehicles, complete with the Lexus logo inset into the grille.

It's got a nice tapered roofline that flows into the power rear liftgate. 17-inch aluminum alloy wheels are standard; 18-inch aluminum alloy wheels are offered as a $495 option.

A full-size spare, fog lamps, daytime running lights and color-keyed, power heated outside mirrors are included, as well. The high-intensity headlights can include an optional Adaptive Front Lighting system, which uses vehicle speed and direction to determine when cornering is about to happen and swivels the headlights in that direction for better illumination. You can switch this feature off, if you don't like it.

Lexus has given the RX 350 more power than the RX 330 it replaces, and it delivers a little better fuel economy, too.

It's powered by a 3.5-liter, four-cam, 24-valve V6 engine with dual variable valve timing, rated at 270 horsepower and 251 lb.-ft. of torque. It's more than enough to move this mid-size SUV; the two-wheel drive version goes 0-60 in 7.3 seconds (7.4 for the AWD).

Completing the powertrain is a five-speed, electronically-controlled automatic transmission, and it shifts smoothly and quietly. The AWD version of the RX 350 has a viscous limited-slip differential that works with the traction control system to evenly distribute power to both axles with a constant 50/50 front-to-rear power split.

The test vehicle was a two-wheel drive version, so I can't give you a first-hand account of how it works, but based on past driving experience I'm willing to bet it'll give you a smooth and controlled ride.

Both versions of the RX 350 come with Vehicle Stability Control which helps in cornering and with sharp turns. The front suspension is a MacPherson strut system with coil springs and in the rear, it's a dual-link MacPherson strut system with coil springs. You can order an air suspension system that provides automatic leveling and driver-selectable options. In "normal" mode, the system automatically lowers the vehicle by 0.3 inches at speeds over 62 mph for better ride quality. In the "low" mode, the RX 350 is lowered by 0.6 inches to enhance handling, while the "high" mode raises the ground clearance by 1.2 inches for driving over rough surfaces at speeds under 30 mph. The test vehicle didn't have this option, but I'm not sure how much better ride and handling would be with it, anyway. It's already pretty good.

Power-assisted, rack-and-pinion steering is standard and a fairly tight turning circle means it's easy to park and maneuver. Four-wheel anti-lock brakes are standard, as well, and include Brake Assist. This system attempts to determine if a driver is attempting an emergency braking. If the system determines not enough pressure is being applied to the brake pedal, it will increase the brake pressure itself until the driver releases the brake pedal.

This is one of the many safety features of the RX 350. Also included are advanced driver and passenger air bags, a driver's knee airbag, and front-seat-mounted side airbags. Side curtain airbags are standard and include a roll sensor.

Inside, Lexus has loaded the RX 350 with luxury items. The leather power seats are comfortable and easy to adjust. The instrument panel consists of round analog gauges, with a tachometer to the left and fuel and temperature gauges to the right of the speedometer. The center stalk holds the climate control system, the audio system and the LCD screen that serves those functions. The screen will display trip information, your maintenance schedule, average speed and fuel consumption and outside temperature. That screen also holds the optional navigation system with back-up camera. The navigation system is fairly easy to use, and while you may not need it to get around town, the back-up camera is a great feature to have. You can't be too careful, especially with SUVs.

The cabin features wood trim all around, including the steering wheel, although you can order a leather-trimmed steering wheel and shift knob, if you prefer. That package also gets you a power sunroof, roof rack, the AFS headlights, and power tilt/telescoping steering column (a manual one is standard).

Automatic dual-zone climate control is standard, as are auto on/off headlights, a programmable garage door opener, power windows, keyless entry, and power rear door.

The standard audio system is an AM/FM/cassette/six-disc CD changer with eight speakers and it's pretty good. You can add a Mark Levinson "premium package" audio system that includes 11 speakers and 210 watts of power. A rear-seat DVD entertainment system is also available.

There's plenty of passenger room in the RX 350. Leg and shoulder room are very good. The rear seats fold down for more storage and there are three storage compartments under the cargo area floor.

The 2007 RX 350 starts at $37,400. Add the 18-inch wheels, navigation system, premium package that includes the sunroof, roof rack AFS headlights, and leather trim and you're looking at about $44,200.

Overall, the RX 350 gives you a pretty good package of features, ride, handling and comfort. If you're looking for a mid-size luxury SUV this is a good place to start.

Selecting a countertop you can count on (NAPSI) — Increasingly, homeowners are finding they can give a home a new look by updating one or two key elements in the kitchen.

New countertops, for instance, can dramatically transform the look of any kitchen. By choosing from a wide variety of materials such as granite, quartz, solid surface and laminate, homeowners are sure to find a countertop that fits their lifestyle and budget perfectly.

It is important for homeowners to determine the look they want to achieve before they begin. It's also essential for homeowners to know that the key to great-looking countertops and a well-polished kitchen is reliable, professional installation.

Professional installers ensure that the correct measurements are taken from the beginning. Additionally, licensed professionals can answer questions about warranties and maintenance techniques.

To help make the countertop selection and installation process a success from beginning to end, below are five tips from The Home Depot Home Services: n Countertop Selection.

Homeowners should research their options and identify the look they are trying to achieve beforehand. Homeowners might consider granite for a more traditional look and colored quartz for a more retro atmosphere.

Shoppers might also consider maintenance. For example, countertop surfaces such as Silestone® use materials that are scratch- and stain-resistant, making them virtually maintenance-free. Silestone is the first countertop with Microban (built-in anti-microbial product protection). Granite, with the exception of Stonemark®, needs to be resealed occasionally, and marble can stain.

■ Initial Store Visit. Bring

Experts say one key to having a great-looking countertop and a well-polished kitchen is reliable, professional installation.

measurements from existing countertop areas, plus design ideas for any layout changes or additions being considered.

■ In-Home Template. Once the new countertop material has been selected, a certified countertop installer will visit to verify measurements and create a template of the new countertop. (The template is the blueprint used to fabricate the custom countertop.)

The installer will review seam placement and edges.

■ Professional Installation. After the countertops are fabricated and inspected, the installer will set up a convenient time for installation. When the countertops arrive, it's important for homeowners to personally inspect them to make sure that they are in perfect condition.

■ Final Walk-Through. After installation, the installer will explain care, maintenance and warranties. This is the time to ask any last-minute questions or address concerns about the countertops.

For more information, go to homedepot.com/install or visit a local store.

A good workout just steps away at Royal Oak lofts

The fully equipped fitness center at SkyLofts MarketSquare in Royal Oak simplifies New Year's resolutions for residents, as loft resident Erin Bialas, 30, recently discovered.

Bialas met with trainer Art Little from Royal Oak's Fitness Unlimited to identify her fitness goals and develop an improvement plan. There they found an array of equipment that Little said could meet everyone's needs. The gym includes an elliptical machine, two cycles, two treadmills, a rowing machine, hand weights and a Nautilus machine that especially impressed Little.

"There's no excuse now not to work out," she said.

A mirrored wall aids accuracy and a flat-screen TV helps pass the time. Dropped hand weights won't be able to dent the specially cushioned recycled rubber floor, although the rubber coating on the ends of the weights already offers protection.

"We expected very active buyers in this building and in this market, and felt that a well-equipped fitness center would be an important amenity," said development manager Nico Schultz.

Schultz said the developers also considered the needs of residents with special mobility needs when choosing and placing the equipment.

While Bialas likes the sociability and encouragement of cardio exercise classes, she said she appreciates the fitness center's elliptical machine on days when time or weather prevents her from getting to class.

Bialas, a guidance counselor at Detroit School of Arts, moved into SkyLofts MarketSquare a year ago. She went to college at Loyola University in Chicago, where she came to appreciate the style and convenience of loft living.

"I like the restaurants," she said of Royal Oak, "and I love that I can get a drink or a cup of coffee just steps away." The MarketSquare location is just two blocks off Main Street. "It's close to everything, but far enough away at 2 a.m. when the bars let out," she said.
