Bathey buyer wants lower tag

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

A year after the Plymouth City Commission agreed to sell the 16-acre parcel off Mill Street commonly known as the Bathey site for $3.1 million to Connektiv Communities of Royal Oak, the developer is attempting to renegotiate the deal for a lesser amount of money

"This couldn't have come at a worse time, with the economy the way it is, Plymouth Mayor Dan Dwyer said. "I can understand why the builder isn't going at lightning speed. Minimally, we need to get the buildings on the property torn down. It's a terrible eyesore.

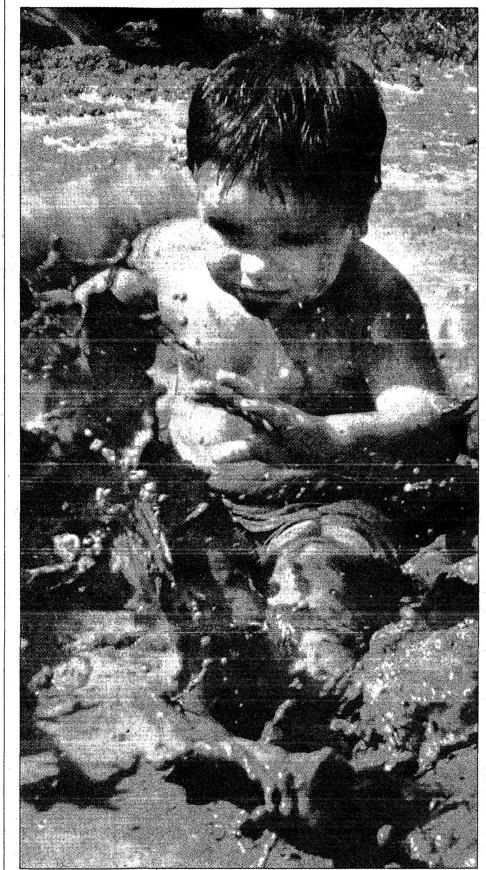

The city gained ownership of the Bathey property in January 2003 after a lengthy court battle with former owner William Flynn, who failed to pay $3 million in back taxes, interest and penalties over a 20-year period.

Connektiv bought the parcel in March 2006 after 21 Century Holdings of Southfield pulled out of a deal that would have given the city $4.5 million, citing market conditions and environmental costs associated with cleanup of the property.

At that time, Connektiv's Dennis Griffin announced plans for 180 condominium units that would sell for about $200,000 each, with about 30,000 square feet of commercial space.

'Connektiv continues to collaborate with the city," Griffin said. "We're still under purchase agreement and are working to redevelop the site.'

Jackson gets school board appointment

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Tuesday night named John Jackson of Plymouth Township to fill a one-year appointment on the school board.

However, the selection didn't come without some controversy as one of the four candidates for the vacancy, Kurt Heise of Plymouth Township, said "the fix was in" to keep him from being chosen.

Jackson was given the nod by five of the Jackson six trustees, who asked nine questions of the candidates before making their selection. John Nichols of Canton Township received the other vote. Heise and Greg Morrison of Plymouth, Heise, in his opening statement, told board members they should follow the lead of the voters in the May election. "It's time for new blood and board," said Heise, who moved into the district last fall. "Over 2,500 voters selected me as their choice for school board in May. It is time to set the record straight on the past election and let's do the DN right thing, and let's elevate the third-place

However, in the end, trustees said they wanted someone who has some history in volunteering in the district, paying $5,000 a month for the site.

"Our intent, all along, has been to recover the cost the city has incurred along the way, and get the builder to move on the project," said Mayor Dan Dwyer. "The No. 1 goal is to get the property on the tax rolls and make it a viable part of Plymouth again.'

Dwyer said he remains hopeful the project will become as successful as the Daisy Square development on Hamilton Street.

"Vacant lots have homes built on them, and people in the neighborhood are fixing up their homes," Dwyer said. "That part of town has been refreshed by that development. It's an awesome part of town."

The vacancy was created when Mark Slavens resigned at the May 8, 2007, board meeting to accept an appointment from the governor as a Wayne County Circuit Court judge.

Paula Robarge and her family have been making furniture out of tree branches for nearly 20 years, displaying their handmade goods at art fairs around metro Detroit. However, this will be the first time Robarge will be selling her wares at Art in the Park, scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday in downtown Plymouth. Robarge wanted to be part of the festivities so badly she and her family drove from their Livingston County home to deliver a chair for Art in the Park founder Dianne Quinn to personally view. Quinn liked it so much she bought the chair and gave Robarge one of the show's nearly

"It has a lot of people, and so we went for it," Robarge said. "Plymouth looks like a friendly place to do a show, and I've heard from other people how nice a fair it is.

Quinn said she received about 1,000 applications from exhibitors who wanted to be part of the three-day show, with fewer than half getting an invitation.

"We have a committee that looks at photos and slides from every application, and when we say 'wow,' those are the ones that get in," Quinn said. "Nobody is guaranteed just because they were in the show before. This year we have over 100 new artists.

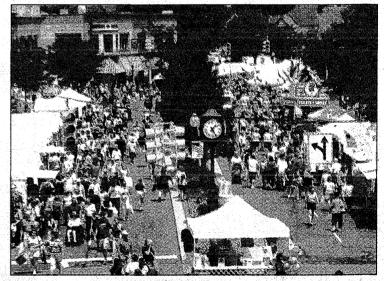

There will also be 20 child artists who go through the same process

"They'll be around the fountain with the things they've made all year, from handmade soap to rhinestone dog collars to painted rocks," Quinn said.

Quinn, whose father was the director of nurses for a former state home in Northville Township, said she's particularly pleased to have developmentally disabled exhibitors from Services To Enhance Potential (STEP) in Livonia selling their goods.

Michigan waits in line to charge cemetery owner in embezzlement

BY ALEX LUNDBERG STAFF WRITER

Michigan's case against an Oklahoma businessman accused of mishandling millions of dollars in cemetery trust funds will have to wait until he faces similar charges in Tennessee.

Clayton Smart, who owns cemeteries and funeral homes in three states, is being held in a Tennessee jail on a $4.2 million bond. Michigan will have a crack at Smart after Tennessee has had its turn.

Attorney General spokesman Matt Frendeway said Smart is facing much tougher charges in Michigan than he is in other states.

"He's still there," he said. "We're still waiting for his arraignment there to extradite him. That may not be until August.'

Smart is facing 39 charges in Michigan including 10 for embezzlement, one for racketeering and 28 for failure to trust cemetery funds. In all, the attorney general's office wants to get an accounting of more than $70 million it believes Smart mishandled.

There are two trust funds a cemetery has to keep: one for merchandise (monuments, caskets) and one for endowed care,' Frendeway said. "Both are handled differently."

If someone puts down $1,000 toward a casket and headstone before his or her death and the bill comes to only $900, the cemetery operator can keep the difference. The endowed care fund pays for cemetery maintenance forever and the only funds a cemetery operator can touch from that fund are through investments - and there are state-generated guidelines for what constitutes acceptable investments.

Prosecutors say Smart took $61 million in care and trust funds for investments in off-shore hedge funds, something that is illegal under Michigan law.

A total of 28 Michigan cemeteries are affected in the case including Cadillac Memorial Gardens in Westland, Mt. Hope Memorial Gardens in Livonia and United Memorial Gardens in Plymouth. The Michigan Attorney General's office filed an injunction against Smart in 2006 removing him as the operator of the Michigan cemeteries and putting them in the care of a conservator. People who have already purchased services (plots, care) will not see an interruption in their contracts.

Music boosters fund-raiser

The Plymouth-Canton Music Boosters and the Plymouth-Canton Marching Band are launching a summer fund-raising drive to raise enough money to purchase a new semi-trailer to replace the 50-foot trailer currently used by the nationally acclaimed band to carry all the large, front-ensemble instruments and equipment.

The public is welcome to purchase the $10 tickets for the special fund-raising raffle being held in conjunction with Plymouth Motorsports. Raffle tickets will be sold all summer long to win buyer's choice of a waverunner, motorcycle, snowmobile or four-wheeler.

The tickets will be on sale at the upcoming Art in the Park festival held in downtown Plymouth July 13-15. The Plymouth-Canton Music Boosters will have two booths at the event, where bottled water and the raffle tickets will be on sale. Band members will be on hand to meet with members of the community.

Raffle tickets will be sold throughout the summer, with the final winner announced at the Great Lakes Invitational Marching Band Competition hosted by the Plymouth-Canton Music Boosters at Canton High School Oct. 13. All proceeds will benefit the Plymouth-Canton band programs. To purchase raffle tickets, visit www.pcmb.net

Plymouth man breaks arm, leg in hit-and-run accident

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Michigan State Police are investigating a hit-and-run accident on I-96 near the Southfield Freeway that left a 36-year-old Plymouth man hospitalized at Sinai-Grace Hospital.

"The victim apparently ran out of gas and cut across the freeway, where he was struck by a vehicle that kept going," said Lt. Roderick Williams of the Taylor post. "The victim suffered a broken leg and broken arm." The incident occurred about 7:30 Monday evening. State police did not release the name of the victim.

Williams said witnesses, including a woman who was in the stalled car, gave different descriptions of the vehicle involved in the hit-and-run accident. The vehicle was alternately described as a blue van, a dark van and a car, perhaps a Grand Prix.

Anyone with information is asked to call Michigan State Police Trooper Marcus Wise at (313) 456-6600.

"She repeatedly told me to take my name out of consideration so I wouldn't be embarrassed, that another candidate would surface and she wouldn't support me because of the people I associate with," Heise said. "I think the vote was designed to keep me out. The fix was in."

Gonzalez said she met privately with the three candidates, but denied telling Heise the full board wouldn't support him.

"I pride myself on doing my homework and met with all three candidates," Gonzalez said. "I cast my vote for who I thought would do the best job. I think John Jackson will do the best job in these difficult times."

Heise said he would not run again if the next school board election is held in May "because the forces that are assembled against the minority viewpoint are overwhelming.'

"Following tonight's decision, I will remain in the public arena," Heise said. "We will need to look to Lansing for the real education reforms our kids and taxpayers need, and that is where I will be focusing my efforts in the coming years."

Parents give 'muddy' OK to this Tuesday in the park

BY JULIE BROWN STAFF WRITER

Observer & Eccentric | Thursday, July 12, 2007

Carrie Burch of Canton was with sons Kyle, 11, and Noah, 8, just waiting for the fun to start Tuesday at Wayne County Parks' Mud Day.

"Cause I want to get muddy," Noah said of his reason for showing up at the Nankin Mills area of Hines Park in Westland. Big brother Kyle said, "Pretty much because it's really rare for me to go in and get drenched with mud."

The park was flooded to just the right muddy consistency and at 11 a.m., with TV news crews and other photographers at the ready, the countdown from five started. Kids, divided by age up to 12, rushed into the mud, some doing belly flops.

"It's OK for today," mom Carrie Burch said of the mess. "It's fun once in a while."

With her was Pam Siesel of Canton with sons Matthew, 8, and Michael, 6, who showed up "so I can get all muddy." They were attending for the first time the event held yearly since 1988.

been out of town."

As Who Let the Dogs Out? blasted over the park loudspeakers, kids dove and rushed in. Watching with her camera was Michelle Gordon of Garden City who brought daughter Anne Buford, 10, and friend Savanna Turner, 10. It was

OUR VIEWS

Board chooses, hubbub must stop

To the surprise of absolutely no one, the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education Tuesday chose John Jackson to fill the open seat created by the resignation of Mark Slavens.

Jackson was chosen over Kurt Heise and John Nichols, both of whom had applied for an earlier opening and neither of whom apparently drew much interest from the six board members, who voted 5-1 for Jackson.

We think Jackson will do a fine job mixing in with the current board. He's a bright, intelligent man who has had plenty of involvement in the district. Board members liked him, obviously, at least in part because he was an ardent supporter of the failed bond issues and worked tirelessly to get the word out to voters.

John Jackson is a stand-up guy, active in the community and in his church. As a "band parent" he's been not only active, but a leader in one of the most active, ardent support groups in the school district.

The uproar over Jackson's appointment was never personal; no one thinks he's the "wrong" pick or that he won't do well in the job. The ruckus has been more about the manner in which his name surfaced.

He declined to run for election in May, he said because there were two quality candidates — incumbent Mark Slavens and Nancy Eggenberger, who were eventually elected — whom he could support. He didn't apply for the first opening after Slavens resigned (it went, and rightly so, to Eggenberger).

Jackson didn't enter the discussion until it became apparent Heise and Nichols were going to be the only other choices (a fourth candidate, Greg Morrison, applied but won't be interviewed because he's out of town). Board members don't like Heise because he's only lived in the district a short while and he apparently hangs out with the wrong crowd; no one is really sure why they didn't pick Nichols.

Did board members recruit Jackson? Although admitting board President Barry Simescu and Vice President Judy Mardigian are friends, Jackson says he went to them, not the other way around.

While we take him at his word — he's an up-front, honest guy — we concede it's an easy leap for conspiracy theorists to make that he was hand-picked, that the "fix was in," as former board candidate Larry Martin put it.

No one will ever know for sure, and you won't convince anyone on either side of the argument they're wrong. With huge challenges ahead — replacing a superintendent and shaving millions from the budget — it's time to put the arguments away and allow the board to get down to business.

Universities key

EMU leadership responsible

As the father of a current Eastern Michigan University student and the husband of an alumna of the same, I have been following the investigation of EMU regarding potential violations of the Clery Act with keen interest.

While I have been appalled by the initial results of the investigation regarding the lack of timely release of information, I am even more appalled by the potential punishment.

It seems unbelievable to me that the punishment for the university leadership's violation of this law is to fine the university or withhold federal funding. The only people punished by these sanctions will be the students.

This type of punishment will simply result in less money being available for education instead of punishing those responsible for the violation of the law.

I would ask our entire community to use the power of your collective pens to encourage our elected officials to minimize the impact to the students of Eastern Michigan University and instead hold accountable the leadership responsible for these actions. It seems to me that fining the university or withholding federal aid is analogous to holding depositors responsible for a bank robbery. It is time to hold the leadership of EMU responsible and deprive them, not the students, of their money or their liberty to send a clear message that violation of federal law will not be tolerated.

is to keep elections in May. What worries those people is the potential loss of control of the board to those that don't share their ideological background. Tip O'Neill said, "All politics is local."

Tip O'Neill said, "All politics is local." You can't get much more local than a school board race.

Who is served most by keeping school board elections in May? The status quo.

What is more important to education? A May election or busing children? The music boosters will maintain their board majority and make sure the $120,000 art coordinator position stays around. This administrator position was added last year, while critical teaching positions are being cut. Meanwhile, one athletic director has been cut, with another to come. Local politics. Band vs. athletics. Band wins.

Who is the largest contributor in school board races? The MEA. Local politics.

The chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Howard Dean, founded Democracy for America with the mission of supporting "socially progressive candidates at all levels of government - from school board to the presidency." The local Plymouth-Canton chapter president ran for P-CCS school board in 2006. Local politics. Michiganliberal.com was ecstatic on May 8, reveling in all their candidates winning school board races These examples aren't good or bad politics, but they are politics. Don't pretend politics doesn't exist in school board races. It is there. It has always been there. It will always be there. It is OK for politics to be there. Move the election to November where the true representative voice of the people can be heard.

to print such things in your editorial. Personally, I would not mind seeing more political diversity on the board.

Clearly, members who are favored by the MEA get elected, which is why they have decided to keep elections in May. But my personal feelings aside, it is wrong to use space in your paper to print political rumors, and I feel you owe the PCCS board a very sincere and public apology.

You know, if you had just made the case based on Mr. Heise's votes in the election, you would have been on fair and firm ground. But you taint your advocacy of him, and help him tarnish his own reputation, by printing careless rumors in your editorial.

Impeach Bush

I thought the president had gone too far when he blamed Iraq for 9/11. I thought he had gone too far when he appointed a torture advocate as attorney general. I thought he had gone too far when he set up the biggest, most wasteful department in U.S. history, so-called Homeland Security. I thought he had gone too far when he forced scientists to lie about global climate destabilization. I thought he had gone too far when he cut taxes for the obscenely rich for the fourth or fifth time while starving our public schools and veteran's hospitals of basic funding. I thought he had gone too far when he signed his 500th "signing statement" declaring that everyone but the president himself must obey the law, he has now signed over 750 of them. This week he has "commuted the sentence of" (read pardoned) Scooter Libby, yet another criminal member of his administration. He must be impeached. The vice president, secretary of defense, and attorney general as well. We have no excuse to delay and no time to waste. Unconstitutional laws passed during the tenure of this criminal president must be reviewed and repealed as soon as possible. I call on every member of the House of Representatives, regardless of party, to put democracy ahead of sycophancy and launch the impeachment process immediately. Thank you for your time.

to state's success

The key to a strong Michigan economy is a strong system of higher education.

Everyone agrees that for Michigan to remain competitive, it needs to maintain its reputation for solid research and teaching universities. Yet in the recent effort to balance the 2006-07 budget, Michigan's public universities took another hit. The governor and the state Legislature agreed to shift a scheduled $139 million August payment to state universities with a promise that it would be repaid by Oct. 1. This followed an earlier $26 million cut in an attempt to balance the 2007 budget

Universities have to make tuition decisions this month and many say they can't wait for the Legislature to act. Higher tuition rates are squeezing many prospective students from pursuing postsecondary education at the universities, even as the state's economic future hinges on a highly trained workforce.

Michigan is blessed with a wide range of postsecondary educational opportunities, from innovative community colleges to excellent private liberal arts colleges to private technical institutes. But it is the state's diverse field of 15 state universities that offers most students the best chance to become competent professionals and wellrounded citizens.

But just as the need for higher education becomes more critical, the state's budget problems are putting our state schools in a bind. Without adequate state funding, they must turn to their students for higher tuition and fees, even as those students and their families are strapped by Michigan's troubled economy.

In addition to training the next generation of leaders, several state universities are engaged in critical research in the social sciences, sciences and technology.

The state must make good its commitment to fund our public universities fully and the Legislature needs to move quickly before the universities make it cost-prohibitive for many young Michigan students to attend.

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers, nurture the hometowns we serve and contribute to the business success of our customers.

Fix was in

Congratulations to John Jackson for his appointment to the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education.

As I wrote this on July 3, I believed the appointment was a forgone conclusion. My condolences to the rest of the candidates. You never had a chance. Mr. Jackson is one of three foils the board could bring forward to beat the "appoint Heise" crowd.

Consider what Mr. Jackson brings to the table. He ran for school board in 2006, netting third place with over 3,300 votes (15 percent). That's more votes, but a smaller percentage than Kurt Heise received in this year's race (18 percent).

His unofficial "running mate" from last year is a sitting trustee. That endorsement is still posted at http:// electsteven.com. Mr. Jackson's campaign treasurer was the husband of the current board secretary. He also had the endorsement of the local MEA political action committee. His resume also includes being a past president of the music boosters. A position that at least one current board member has also held.

This isn't sour grapes. I ran twice for the position and lost twice, once to Mr. Jackson. I'm sure he will fit in perfectly with the current board.

The point of this letter is to point out the hypocrisy of those that lament that politics is forcing its way into school board races, and the only way to stop it Larry Martin Plymouth Township

Support is tainted

Apparently there is a snowball surviving in Hades, because I am writing a letter defending the Plymouth-Canton school board from your dismal editorial regarding the replacement of Judge Slavens on the school board.

Personally, it makes no difference to me who gets the appointment, because the current board is going to do whatever it wants, and one dissenting voice won't change their mind. Even if one brilliant voice was appointed, I do not believe the power structure of the board would care. That being said here is my defense

That being said, here is my defense. In paragraphs four-seven of your editorial, logic and decency are discarded for rumor peddling and the insinuation of political misdeed. You report accusations made by Kurt Heise and his supporters as if they are fact. Maybe Mr. Jackson was handpicked, but do we know for sure?

Mr. Heise says that a board member told him directly that he had no chance because of his political association? Which board member? If anyone in office had the nerve to tell me that to my face, I would definitely expose that person. Do we really know for sure what is going on? The answer is no.

Since we do not know for sure what is going on, it was highly irresponsible

State's leaders must protect our (Great) Lakes resources

've just returned from a week at my cabin on the south shore of Lake Superior. And as usual, I've come away bowled over at how extraordinarily fortunate we are to have the remarkable natural resources we do in this beautiful state.

Sure, there are lots of wonderful, lovely places in this country. The East Coast is historic and rock-ribbed, but very expensive and terribly overcrowded. Florida is warm and sunny, but it's very expensive, also overcrowded and much too humid for my taste. The Pacific Northwest is blessed with tall pines, great views and delicious seafood, but it's ever so chi-chi and getting moreand more trendy and pricey every day.

But in Michigan, we've got the Great Lakes (representing more than 90 percent of all the drinkable fresh water in this nation), miles and miles of coastline, thousands of pristine inland lakes, countless miles of sparkling rivers and who knows how many acres of deep green forests. They're all within easy driving distance for everybody, no matter where you live. And they're still within the means of most.

Phil Power

What this means is that the quality of life we have available right here in Michigan, along our "North Coast," is unmatched. That's important to remember in charting our economic future. It is a maxim that any economic development strategy worth considering, whether for a business or a state, requires identifying and preserving that entity's distinctive and competitive assets — and then investing in their promotion and development.

Our North Coast assets represent the best of what we've got going for us. They have to be an essential part of any economic strategy we develop, and must be seen as essential to the firm foundation we must construct to create Michigan's future prosperity.

But so far, the news is decidedly mixed. On the down side, the Legislature — in its frenzy to "balance" the state's budget without raising taxes — has managed to cut support for travel advertising promoting "Pure Michigan." This year, Gov. Jennifer Granholm and the lawmakers added $15 million to the Michigan Economic Development Corp.'s travel promotion budget. But next year, we're back to $5.7 million, which puts us in the bottom third of competing states. Promotion expenditures pay off big-time and quickly, so it's hard to understand why the Legislature is so hell-bent to pull money out of a program that's been proven cost-effective. On the plus side, Democrats in the Michigan House last week introduced a package of bills calling for much improved water conservation practices for big users such as utilities and cities. The proposed legislation also gets into the complex issue of bottled water: How much should bottling companies be allowed to take from springs and rivers? How much should be exported away from the Great Lakes basin?

All this raises another big question: Why don't we have better statistics on water use, when the task of writing a sensible policy demands a solid base of factual information?

While we're at it, Michigan needs to formally ratify the Great Lakes Basin Water Resources Compact with our fellow Great Lakes states and Canadian provinces — as soon as possible.

Canadian provinces — as soon as possible. This past February, bipartisan bills to do that were introduced in both houses of the Legislature, but they've gone nowhere. (One of the Democrats' water protection bills also calls for ratification.) Minnesota and Ontario have both moved forward, while Illinois awaits nothing more than the governor's signature. Come on, lawmakers! We should be ahead of the pack on this, not dragging up the rear.

Lastly, and maybe most importantly, the National Wildlife Federation, whose Great Lakes Office is located in Ann Arbor, led a group of conservation organizations last month in planning to file a suit against shipping companies that operate in the Great Lakes.

They will demand compliance with the Clean Water Act. The lawsuit is aimed at stopping the flow of aquatic invasive species such as the zebra mussel, the lamprey eel and a score of others that enter our lakes when ocean-going ships dump their ballast water in our harbors. The result is ruining the ecology of our waters.

"We're initiating legal action today because invasive species are killing the Great Lakes," says Andy Buchsbaum, the director of the wildlife federation's Ann Arbor office. "The threat is urgent, the solution is clear and the law is straightforward."

He says the federal Clean Water Act prohibits vessels from discharging pollutants, including biological materials, into U.S. waters without a permit. The suits will charge that the shipping companies have illegally dumped ballast water into the lakes for years.

According to the National Wildlife Federation, there are at least four effective, commercially available treatments available for ballast water, including chlorine treatment similar to that used in municipal water treatment plants. "There is absolutely no reason why ships cannot treat ballast water," says Joel Brammeier, associate director for policy for the Alliance for the Great Lakes.

Here's hoping they start — and that our lawmakers make sure they do so. Our Legislature needs to move now to treat our precious North Coast resources with the respect they deserve.

The courts — and the rest of us — need to move quickly to say enough, and stop ships from implanting unwanted species and fish-killing diseases like the new VHS virus, all of which are destroying our most priceless asset.

Even school buildings are an experiment in education ew things raise the ire of parents as much as the concept that schools are experimenting with their children. Any new program, technique, technology or change in curriculum runs the risk of being labeled as "experimental."

But in fact, education is a constantly evolving experimental process that is reflected in a lot more ways than we think.

That even shows up in building design, which is a rather hot topic these days in the Bloomfield Hill Schools. The district maintains that Lahser and Andover high schools are obsolete and need to be replaced.

You can debate the merits of that argument, but there is no question that schools do become obsolete. That was evident from the earliest days of public education. Officially public education began in Michigan in 1837 when we became a state and adopted a constitution, which called for a superintendent of public instruction and the creation of school districts.

Among other things, the superintendent was to oversee school building design.

Even in those primitive days (although folks were remarkably sophisticated in many ways then) it was evident that the old one-room school houses common at the time were inadequate.

Also at that time were a vast number of tiny school districts, some 7,000 by 1912, and the state began a program to combine districts. That led to the creation of "union," or unified schools. These often were two- or four-room buildings with movable dividers between walls which provided a degree of separation of different age groups.

By the 1850s the state's population was growing steadily and more attention was given to the specific educational needs of children of different ages. "Ward" schools were developed, which were essentially elementary schools. By the 1860s, high school were separated and kids were divided into grade groups of 1-6, 7-9, 10-12.

With the dawn of the 20th century, educators were becoming alarmed with the dropout rate of young teens, and determined that this group needed its own grouping, which became known as junior high schools, and now middle schools.

Also at this time more emphasis was being placed on health and safety issues. As Further refinements of school design came with the development of vocational schools, the addition of gyms, pools and physical education facilities, and later, the establishment of media centers, with classrooms clustered around them at the building core. Some schools in the early 20th century even had medical facilities, including doctors and dentists.

schools grew to multi-floor structures, staircases were moved to be alongside the outside walls so they would be near exits in case of fire.

It was even decided that the most effective lighting would come from windows located over the left shoulders of the students, so classrooms were designed with windows only along one wall and seats oriented to get light in that angle.

Further refinements of school design came with the development of vocational schools, the addition of gyms, pools and physical education facilities, and later, the establishment of media centers, with classrooms clustered around them at the building core. Some schools in the early 20th century even had medical facilities, including doctors and dentists.

Following World War II, with the Baby Boom, new schools were needed. While early 20th century schools were often ornate examples of Art Deco and Art Moderne styles, the then new schools were simple, straightforward usually squat buildings.

But they were not haphazard. Different designs were tried, like the "finger," plan in which the school is shaped like the letter "E" with outdoor spaces separating the lateral wings. Some schools incorporate interior courtyards; other have flexible designs so walls can be removed to change the floor plan.

We have come a long way from the old oneroom school house, like the stone school at the corner of Wing Lake and Maple.

And while you may not approve of a district's plan for a new school building, you can least appreciate that there is logic to the plan.

Rodney Longley President, HFCC honor society Phi Theta Kappa Henry Ford Community College Nursing Student, 2007

At Henry Ford Community College, we're all about you. After a layoff from a longtime job at a steel factory, Rodney Longley found a lot of things at Henry Ford Community College: A new career and new friends, a staff that helped him get financial aid and faculty members who helped him plan well beyond his associate degree. He also learned about himself - that he could compete with younger students and give back to the community. Visit us at www.hfcc.edu to find out how we can help you.

Dine With the Stars in style

The Observer & Eccentric and Mirror Newspapers are teaming up with Buddy's to present "Dining With the Stars" featuring Jay Towers, Shila and Bill McAllister host of Motor City Middays, on Live 97.1 FREE FM.

In 100 words or less, tell us why you're a fan of the Motor City Middays crew and would like to have lunch or dinner at Buddy's Pizza in July with the trio from 97.1 FREE FM.

Send your fan letter to BuddysDiningStars@gmail. com and be sure to include your name, address, daytime phone number and email address.

Deadline to enter the July contest is 5 p.m. Tuesday, July 17.

A photograph of you and your favorite stars will be published in the Observer S Eccentric and Mirror Newspapers and online at www.hometownlife.com.

"We want our winners to dine with their favorite stars and feel like a star, too," says Marcy Brontman of Buddy's Pizza.

Buddy's will also pres-

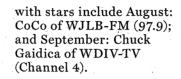

Shila, Jay Towers and Bill McAllister

ent at check for $500 to Children's Hospital of Michigan. July winners will be treated to a limo ride, courtesy of Pro Tran Transportation, makeover from Ruby Blu Salon in Farmington Hills, a $100 gift certificate to the Reaver Diamond Co. in Southfield and a dance exhibition courtesy of Fred Astaire Dance Studio in Bloomfield Hills.

Other upcoming dining

No purchase is necessary to enter. Buddy's Pizza will review all entries and select the top four "fan" letters. The stars featured for the month will make the final selection. Lunch and/or dinner date is to be determined with the winner and star by Buddy's representatives.

about a portfolio. The key to a successful portfolio

am frequently asked why someone should stay with bonds in their portfolio as opposed to increasing the investment in equities.

The last few years have been difficult for bonds. When you compare the returns of stocks vs. bonds, stocks have outperformed bonds the last few years. However, bonds play an important part of an overall portfolio.

Unfortunately, most people invest in what is hot at the time. It is this strategy - chasing returns - that has led many investors to unsatisfactory returns.

Chasing returns is a fool's game. In theory, it sounds great; however, in the real world, it doesn't work. People who follow this strategy saw a complete meltdown of their portfolios back in 2000 and 2001. These investors tended to have the bulk of their portfolio invested in technology-based investments. When the tech sector had its downturn, these investors were severely hurt.

On the other hand, investors who held bonds found that their losses were not nearly as severe. The bonds were able to cushion the loss. Bonds are an important part of a portfolio. One analogy is the recipe for chocolate chip cookies. You need a variety of ingredients, including chocolate chips, flour, sugar and eggs. The key to the perfect chocois the sum of ingredients, which is all the different mutual funds. When all the pieces are put together, you have one portfolio that will protect you and grow for the future.

Investors who constantly chase returns tend to let greed dictate short-term decisions. The key is to allocate your portfolio into a variety of different areas. Bonds are an important part of that diversification.

When it comes to bonds, it's important to diversify into different classes. I recommend international, Treasury Inflation-Protected Securities (TIPs), GNMA and even some high-yield bonds. Just like in a stock portfolio, you need to diversify in the bond portfolio in order to protect yourself.

When purchasing a bond fund, pay attention to costs and fees. After all, when the yield on bonds is the 5-percent range, an extra 1-percent fee can cost an investor at least 20 percent on the return side.

The return on bonds - just like stocks - has two separate components. In stocks, you have dividends and, hopefully, appreciation in value. In bonds, you have interest and appreciation in value.

In regard to interest paid, a general rule is the lower the investment quality of the bond, the higher the return. That is why high-yield bonds, or junk bonds, pay higher rates of returns than U.S. Government bonds.

In selecting bonds based upon maturity, there are three typical types of bonds: short-term, intermediateterm and long-term bonds. Long-term bonds will have the greatest volatility when it comes to value of the bond, while shortterm bonds will have less volatility. In today's market environment, I am keeping my exposure in short- and intermediate-term bonds.

In order to protect one's portfolio, an asset allocation strategy that will allow you to protect and grow your portfolio is needed.

Anthony Candito (from left), Ron Barck and Chris Walis stand by the cars they race occasionally at Milan Dragway. All three said the time and money they invest in the hobby is well worth the adrenaline rush that comes when the starting light turns green.

Canton resident Chris Walis' "Hot Wheels" car is a jet black, looks-likenew 1966 Chevrolet Chevelle that roars like a lion and runs like a cheetah. On a good day, it can go from zero to 136 miles per hour in the time it took you to read this sentence. Walis, who steered the vehicle he has nicknamed "Nighthawk" to a class championship at Milan Dragway in 2002, is one of several area drag-racing aficionados whose primary hobby consists of seeing how fast they can push their cars over a quarter-mile stretch of asphalt. 'There was one point in my life, when I was younger, when I would race at either the Detroit Dragway (which has since closed) or at Milan every weekend of the summer," said the 58-year-old Walis. "It's almost like an addiction; it's a lifestyle - keeping the car running as fast as it can.

very exciting for me." Need for speed

Anthony Candito can relate to Walis' passion for speed. The 28-yearold Plymouth resident has invested close to $20,000 (and maybe as many hours) into his 1992 Mustang, which he entered into the "Pinks" competition two weeks ago at Milan. All the time he spent leading up to the event tweaking the car - he guesstimates it was close to 30 hours per week -- was well worth it, he stressed. "I was bitten by the racing bug when I was young and it hasn't gone away," said Candito, who first learned how an engine works in an automotive class he took at Canton High School over 10 years ago. "It's such a big adrenaline rush when you're sitting there and the yellow lights start to light up on the tree. Plus you have to remember everything you need to do to get down the track as fast as possible. There's nothing else quite like it."

SPEED RACERS

Following is a list of Observerland residents who have competed at Milan Dragway this season

Plymouth/Canton: Mickey Adams, Ron Barck, Mark Bone, Brian Butler, Anthony Candito, John Cassar, Michael Kelley and Chris Walis;

Livonia: Lori Deuby, Richard Deuby, Drew Edwards, Marlon Howes and Kurt Urban; Redford: Robert Batha, Steve Heidt, Myron Hill, Keith Groves and Mike O'Rourke; and Westland: Karri Beebe, Jamey Carey, Jeff Christ, Jason Gibbs, John Kummer, Kevin Lithgow, John Olevnik, Orb McCov, Chris Robinson, Tracy Robinson and Dennis Spears.

Deepak Shivraman's first recruiting class appears to be already getting high marks. The new Schoolcraft College women's soccer coach has commitments from nine new players that will join six returnees off last year's squad, which finished 16-2-2 overall and reached the semifinals of the NJCAA National Tournament.

"I have a good feeling after watching them," said Shivraman, who takes over for Bill Tolstedt. "I think the personalities will click well with the players that are remaining."

Among the new area players in the fold include Clare Baptist, a forward from Plymouth; Ally King, a midfielder-forward who played two seasons ago at Livonia Stevenson; Emily Navas, a defender from North Farmington; and Margaret Mayer (formerly Margaret Wirth), a defender from Livonia Churchill.

Mayer, now 26, played two seasons for Shivraman when he coached at Farmington Hills Mercy before transferring to Churchill. Mayer got a full-ride scholarship to the University of Toledo and played a season before taking off to work full-time and get married.

"She has a child and a family, but we'll make it work with her schedule," Shivraman said. "She's the perfect fit and she looks phenomenal. Her work ethic is phenomenal and she'll be seen as a great role model."

King, meanwhile, took classes at Schoolcraft last year, but did. not play.

"She (King) was playing on a co-ed team when I ran into her at Wixom (Indoor Soccer Facility) and she said she missed it so much," Shivraman said. "She asked me is there anyway I can play again.' She's a great player who brings a high level of skill, experience and leadership to the team."

Ignition add pick

The Detroit Ignition acquired the playing rights to defender Chad Dombrowski from the Milwaukee Wave with the second overall selection in the 2007 Major Indoor Soccer League Expansion Draft.

Detroit acquired the pick in a previous trade with the California Cougars for netminder Sanaldo on June 5.

The 26-year-old Dombrowski recorded eight goals and three assists for 20 points as a member of the Wave during the 2006-07 regular season. The 6-foot-1; 175-pound defender from West Allis, Wis. was selected as a second-team All-American by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America in 2002 and named first-team All-Horizon League during his final two collegiate seasons at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

During the Expansion Draft, the Ignition lost forward Carlos Farias (Round 2) to the Chicago Storm as well as veteran defender Bill Sedgewick (Round 4) and midfielder Miodrag Djersilo (Round 5) to the Orlando Sharks. The second-year club,

"I've always enjoyed sports and competing, so the combination of going fast and trying to win has always been

Starting young

The racing fire in 36-year-old Canton resident Ron Barck's belly was lit more than 20 years ago when he first laid eyes on his older brother's '68 Camaro.

He was too young to drive at the time, but not too young to dream about what it would be like to put the pedal to the metal.

"I loved how fast that car could go and I couldn't wait until I was old enough to get one for myself," said Barck, who purchased his first car -a'68 Chevelle – when he was 17. "I grew up loving cars, loving speed and the adrenaline that went along with it.

Among the other prized recruits for the Lady Ocelots include center midfielder-forward Adrianne Guerrero (Dearborn High), forward-midfielder Amanda Bailey (Fenton), forward-midfielder Michelle Dowdey (Gibraltar Carlson), midfielder-defender Katelyn Gilbert, forward Kayleigh Maurer (Southgate Anderson) and midfielder Sam Harrington (Ypsilanti Lincoln) and Sally L'Esperance (Brighton), a defender who played for Shivraman in the spring.

Guerrero moved to the area from Texas and competed on the Under-18 Mexican National team, while Bailey played for the prestigious Michigan Hawks club team. "She (Guerrero) is a special

Lured from Day 1 Bass angler Barrows casts lot on FLW Tour

BY BRAD EMONS

STAFF WRITER

Redford's Kevin Barrows has been hooked since he was 16.

'I played baseball, but I've been fishing ever since my dad (Lynn) took me'out," said the 37year-old maintenance worker, who is among 200 co-anglers who will compete starting today in the Wal-Mart FLW Tour's Chevy Open on the Detroit River for a top award of $40,000 cash. "Bass fishing is a challenge because it changes every day. I fish both bass and walleye, but I really don't like bass, unless I'm practicing for a tournament."

In FLW Tour competition, pros and co-anglers are randomly paired each day, with pros supplying the boat, controlling boat movement and competing against other pros.

Co-anglers fish from the back deck against other co-anglers. The full field of 400 anglers competes in the two-day opening round for one of 10 slots in Saturday's competition based on their two-day accumulated weight. Weights are cleared for third day, and co-angler competition concludes following Saturday's weigh-in. The top 10 pros continue competition on Sunday, with the winner determined by the heaviest accumulated weight for days three and four.

"I'm really excited," Barrows said. "I hope to get a good draw and finish high."

The total purse for the Chevy Open is $1.5 million, including $10,000 through 60th place in the Pro Division. It's the most lucrative tour-level bass tourney ever hosted in Michigan.

The Chevy Open offers anglers the chance to fish a wide area all the way from Lake St. Clair through the Detroit River and up through Lake Erie.

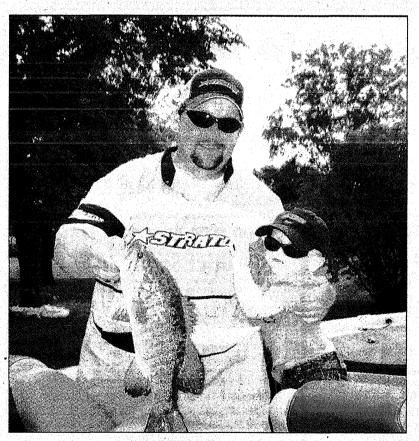

Barrows knows the waters well, but he's still considered an amateur.

Over the weekend, Barrows hit the water with two well-known regulars on the FLW Tour, Stacey King (Reeds Spring, Mo.) of Pro Bass Shops and Charlie Ingram (Santa Fe, Tenn.), the latter whom is host of Fishing University televised on the Versus network.

"Every time out you learn something, it helps because they know how to fish," Barrows said. "I

No-hitter sends Rams reeling as Cubs sweep weekend set

Observer & Eccentric | Thursday, July 12, 2007

The lovable first-place Cubs weren't so lovable as far as the Michigan Rams were concerned.

B2 (*)

The weekend series started Friday at Livonia's Ford Field with James Teas throwing a no-hitter as the 22-and-under Cubs earned a 6-1 victory.

The series was completed Sunday with the Cubs sweeping a Livonia Collegiate Baseball League doubleheader at Ford Field, 12-3 and 15-4.

The Cubs improved to 18-4-2 in the LCBL, five points ahead of the second-place Michigan Bulls, who are 15-5-2. The third-place Rams, a 20-and-under team, fell to 10-12-2, followed by the lastplace Detroit Eagles at 0-22-1. An 18-hit attack carried the Cubs to the first-game victory as Teas went 3-for-5 with four RBI. Matt Nickels added three hits and two RBI, while Bill Matock went 2-for-2 with three RBI and two runs scored. Rod Helson and Jeff Digati also chipped in with two hits apiece.

Frank Persichino, Andrew Stafford and Nick Urban each collected two hits for the Rams.

Persichino, Kyle Hurtt and Max Kelmigian all knocked in runs despite the loss.

Winning pitcher Lafe Burnett scattered seven hits over six innings. He struck out hitter. Lewis struck out eight three and walked two.

Losing pitcher Sam Yashinsky lasted 2.1 innings, allowing four runs on six hits and three walks. Reliever Mike Kaiser fared no better, giving up seven runs on 12 hits and two walks in 3.1 innings.

In the nightcap, Jon Zalenski went 4-for-5 with two runs and Nickels added three hits, including a double and triple to go with four RBI in a 14-hit Cubs attack.

Helson and Jeff Bultnick each contributed two hits and one RBI. Helson also scored three runs.

Mike Wiseman and Urban led the Rams with two hits and one RBI each. Kyle Gendron added two hits, an RBI and scored two runs, while Nick Plinka and Stafford also knocked in runs.

Winning pitcher Kevin Sabol worked the first four innings, allowing four runs on seven hits and three walks for the Cubs.

Losing pitcher Justin Mazur gave up six runs on four hits and four walks in just 1.2 innings.

On Saturday, the Cubs rolled to an 8-1 victory over the Rams at Ford Field as winning pitcher Josh Lewis tossed a complete-game sixand did not allow a walk.

Dustin Joffries led the Cubs with two hits and one RBI. Teas and Bultnick each contributed RBI doubles, while Nickels, Zalenski and Brian Tellish also knocked in runs. Persichino and Stafford had two hits apiece for the Rams. Losing pitcher Justin Collop (University of Toledo), went 6.1 innings, allowing seven runs (four earned) on six hits and five walks. The Wayne Memorial grad struck out five. Yashinsky walked three and gave up a run in twothirds of an inning of relief.

In the no-hitter Friday, Teas struck out four, walked two and hit two batters in seven innings.

Losing pitcher Shane McCatty gave up six runs on six hits and seven walks in 5.2 innings for the Rams. Closer Steve Karchefske allowed three walks and fanned one in finishing up.

Kelmigian's RBI groundout scoring Nick Urban, who was hit by a pitch and stole a base, accounted for the lone Rams runs in the first inning.

Nickels had two hits for the Cubs, including a home and three RBI. Bultnick went 2for-2 including a double and RBI. Helson also knocked in a run.

Canton Sports Center hosts USSSA world series

Canton will be the gathering place for more than 100 youth baseball teams from 10 different states next week when the Canton Sports Center hosts the USSSA 10U, 12U and 14U Boys World Series.

The event, which is expected to attract 2,800 people to the area, will kick off Sunday at 6 p.m. with an opening ceremony that will feature the first ball thrown out by James Wisniewski, a Canton resident and defenseman for the Chicago Blackhawks. Sunday's ceremony, which is free, will also include a parade of teams, an honor guard and the National Anthem.

Games will be held Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. On Friday, July 20, and Saturday, July 21, games will be held from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. The championship contests on July 22 will run from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

A weekly admission pass for those 13 years old and up is $25 ($7 per day). Children 7 to 12 years old will be charged $20 for the week or $5 daily while kids 6 and under are free. The fee for seniors (65 and older) is $20 for a week-long pass and $5 per day. Schedules, lists of teams and results will be available this weekend on the www.miusssa.com Web site.

"He (McClain) loves fishing with dad," Kevin said. "My wife will go out and do book reading, she sits in the sun. I couldn't do it without her encouragement and help. She's been my biggest supporter."

Barrows dreams someday to be controlling the boat from the front end in a co-angler event.

"That's why we've gone down south to tournaments - to gain better knowledge," he said. "Some day I'm hoping to be at the (FLW Tour) level. My goal is to be at the pro level."

Livonian Ed Carew (left), pictured with fellow qualifier Ed Leavy (right) of Roseville, earned a fifth-place finish among 39 competitors in men's 75-79 singles bowling competition at the National Senior Olympics held July 2-4 in Louisville, Ky. During the qualifying rounds, Carew opened with an uncharacteristic 505 series on games of 161, 135 and 209, but rebounded the next day for a 608 series on games of 237, 191 and 180. During his 237 game, Carew opened with a couple of spares before reeling off seven consecutive strikes to earn a berth among eight national finalists, which included bowlers from Minnesota, New York, New Jersey, Tennessee, Delaware, Utah and Ohio. Carew eventually wound up fifth overall with a 569 series and received a Senior Olympics ribbon during the medal presentation ceremony. The overall champion, meanwhile, finished with a 666. It was Carew's second trip to the National Senior Olympics. He also placed fourth in the 1999 men's doubles with partner Ken Gage, a longtime Livonia resident. Carew earned a spot in the nationals after winning a gold medal in state competition last summer in Kalamazoo. Carew continues to plan to compete at the state level with hopes of qualifying for the 2009 National Senior Olympics in San Francisco, Calif.

Dr. Bruce Ruben has been in business for 15 years and one of our advertisers for just six months.

His practice, with its very long name-O2The Complete Hyperbaric, Infusion & Wound Care Center, is located in Farmington Hills on Northwestern Highway.

He says of his advertising results with our newspapers, "We have many people who see our ads and come in with wound care problems that we have treated to their satisfaction." He believes that advertising can be effective if it is done correctly.

We agree. We work with our advertisers to assist them in reaching their advertising goals.

We suggest advertising strategies and packages that enable our clients to cost-effectively reach potential clients.

Dr. Ruben wants to let people know about the convenience and ease with which their wounds can be treated.

We're proud to help him deliver that message through advertising in our hometown newspapers.

Red Sox claim third tournament crown

Three times this season the Michigan Red Sox have stepped up to the plate and delivered.

The Oakland County-based Red Sox, an 18-and-under Connie Mack travel baseball team, has won three championships in as many tries this summer.

The Red Sox captured all seven games in the Motor City Pride Tournament, June 22-24, in Adrian, beating the Michigan Dawgs out of Macomb County in the semifinals and the North Columbus (Ohio) Bruins in the championship game.

The following weekend took the Sox to Grand Rapids to the Midwest Showcase Tournament.

Michigan won all six games in this tournament, finishing the weekend against the U.S. Athletics out of Indianapolis in the championship contest, played at Fifth Third Ballpark, home of the Michigan Whitecaps.

This past weekend in Battle Creek, the Red Sox took the prestigious Gold Division championship of the Mayors Tournament. The Red Sox beat the Ypsilanti-based A Green team, 7-1, to advance out of their pool and face the Central Michigan All-Stars for the championship. The Red Sox jumped all over the Stars and won the crown with a 7-1 triumph.

The Red Sox were put together by Bill Hardin of the Waco Wolves and Mark Sackett, who founded the Michigan Red Sox organization. Sackett is assisted by field coaches Michael Kaline, Joe Horvath and Phil Magsig. Sackett and Kaline started the team 10 years ago.

The Red Sox consists of players from all over the state and includes seven players of All-State or Dream Team status.

All players except for the underclassmen have signed letters of intent to play baseball at the next level. Members of the team include up and the adrenaline starts flowing because you don't know what's going to happen. I've never been in a wreck, knock on wood, but I've seen some pretty bad ones."

RACING

Danger lurks

All three local racers acknowledged the element of danger that accompanies their hobby like a dark shadow. They're all well aware of what NASCAR driver Boris Said meant when he quipped: "When a race car hits a wall, the wall always wins."

"The cars we drive can break loose at any time and hit the wall," said Candito, talking about the fear factor that all drag racers must encounter. "I've never crashed, but a good friend of mine had the rear-end of his eightsecond car lock up and he smacked the wall hard.

"You can die when you're going as fast as we are. You just have to be able to control the car and know what you're doing when you're going this fast."

One of the beauties of racing at Milan is that just about anyone can do it — as long as you have a relatively fast car and the $40 per-race entry fee. The faster your car goes, however, the more stringent the rules become, Barck said.

"Once your car goes 11.49 seconds (over the quartermile track), you have to add a roll cage to it," he said. "At that point, you also have to wear a fire jacket for safety reasons,"

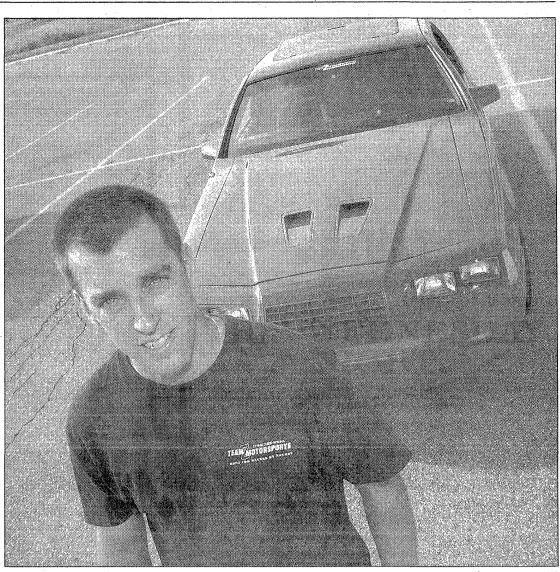

"The faster you go, the more money it costs," Walis said, chuckling. "I just retired after 40 years at Ford, so I have more time to put into racing. The problem is I don't have as much money. It's kind of a Catch-22."

Support at home

Candito, Walis and Barck all said their significant others are supportive of their speed-seeking hobby — to a point.

"My wife (Christina) is cool about it," Candito said. "But at the same time, I don't think she'd mind it if I spent a little less time working on my car." Walis' wife, Denise, shares his love for racing. In fact,

Road Runner Classic returning to twilight

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

B4 (*)

The 2007 Road Runner Classic is undergoing a change of seasons.

The 1-mile fun run-walk and 8-kilometer event, which has been held past five years during mid-fall, has been moved up to Saturday, July 28 at Maybury State Park, located in Northville off the Eight Mile Road entrance, one mile west of Beck Road.

"We replaced a cold, fall day for a summer fun run in the park," Northville Road Runner member Gary Haf said. "This year we decided to mix a great run with a party. We're going back to our roots being it's the twilight. Maybury is a perfect setting for a run and party. We also want to gave back to the community and its nature area."

All proceeds will benefit the Friends of Maybury State Park.

Formerly called the Redford Road Runners, the Classic became a mid-summer staple during the club's hey-days of the 1980s and 1990s. It was part of the old triple crown of races staged in the Detroit area which included 8K races at Allen Park and Trenton.

The group, now known as the Northville Road Runners, will be celebrating its 25th anniversary next month. It was decided that an early-evening event would satisfy the needs of many in the local running community.

"We want to integrate family activities, too," NRR member Bart Gregoroff said. "Everybody's a winner because we'll have a story hour, face-painting and hands-on activities for the kids. It's also chance to upgrade the park and restore its history.

Benny and the Jets will provide musical entertainment. The Classic will also serve pizza (from the Starting Gate), libations, baked goods and a stage a raffle.

Awards will go to the overall and masters (40-and-up) male and female winners. The top three finishers will also receive awards for the following men's and women's age groups: under-19, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-59, 60-69 and 70-and-up.

The 1-mile run-walk, all on paved trail, starts at 5 p.m. The 8K run-walk, a combination of dirt and paved trails, follows at 5:30 p.m.

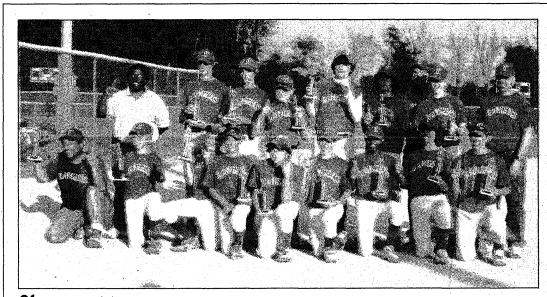

"The trails are not technically hard," Gregoroff said. "We've made it a fun run, yet it's competitive, too."

Pre-registration (through July 26) is $4 for the 1-mile run-walk and $15 for the 8K run-walk.

Late registration (July 27-28) is $5 for the 1-mile and $20 for the 8K. Race day registration starts at 3 p.m. Collectors T-shirts are also available for $8. A Michigan State Parks motor vehicle permit is also required to enter the park.

Runners and walkers can also pay directly or register online at active.com.

Visit www.northvilleroadrunners.org; or call Gary Haf at (248) 231-6114.

hy We Love Golf

By Jeff Lesson

Golf is one of the few games where players of all ability levels can play in the same game. Multiple sets of tees makes it possible for a scratch golfer to play in the same group as a 20 handicapper without missing a beat.

LESSON

ON GOLF

That also makes golf the best social game in the world. What other sport affords you the opportunity to spend four hours outside in a relaxed setting with some of your best (or worst) buddies, enemies or business associates?

Golf is the game we can play on the shores of an ocean, in the middle of a desert or in a tropical rainforest. Golf is the game we play on vacation at some of the nicest resorts in the world. It also is the game we play on the simplest municipal courses that you can play for under 20 bucks.

It is the sport where the price for 18 holes at a public access facility currently ranges from around $15 to $1,000.00 (see Shadow Creek in Las Vegas). It is also the game where you learn so much about others and even more about yourself. You learn how people deal with pressure and how they act when they are frustrated. And if someone cheats on a golf score, will they cheat you in business as well? COURSE OF THE WEEK

Tanglewood in South Lyon has long been a top ten "Lesson on Golf" public course. It is an outstanding 27 hole public facility in South Lyon with some of the

HOW LARGE COMPANIES APPEAL banquet at Begence. L have a lot more an org chart to

WORKWISE You might think that large companies appeal to employees because of greater perceived opportunity. That isn t always the case. Corie Raquel is a (virtual) health coach at the headquarters of The Regence Group in Portland, Ore. This $8 billion not-for-profit health insurance carrier has 6,500 employees in the Pacific Northwest and Utah. I support individuals with health issues, whether alcohol, depression, insomnia, diet or exercise, on the phone, he says. In his previous company, he was one of five employees. There, as a personal trainer in a gym, he helped seniors with problems ranging from strokes to joint replacements.

Rick Faulk, in corporate sales, moved from a company with 100 employees to another with 2,200 and now Cisco, with 30,000. He is chief marketing officer at the intermediate company, WebEx. Faulk commutes from Boston to Santa Clara, where he manages 150 employees on four continents marketing collaboration applications. He enjoys the greater resources typical of a large organization and, through the use of the collaboration tools, access to innovation. Faulk concedes, however, that he works longer days.

Raquel feels as if hes at a banquet at Regence. I have a lot more resources to use, and many more people to work with, he says, including health coaches and supervisors. In my previous company, people said I was more talkative.

I m in my cubie the whole time, he adds. Some co-workers are virtual. When we interact, it helps a lot. I find them more supportive. I get information from them when I have a problem. He also enjoys companysponsored training leading to certification for well coaching.

SIDE-BY-SIDE

Andrea, who asked not to use her name, works almost full-time with two part-time jobs in a governmental agency. One has well over 3,000 employees; the other, fewer than 100. This puts her in a unique position for comparison, because she gathers and generates information in both.

She says that navigating in large organizations is extremely difficult. For example, she recently felt like a tiny cog in a very large wheel when her organization went to D.C. for training. It was pretty much impossible to develop a relationship with anyone but my immediate co-workers, she explains. It s not a situation of being chummy. It s of understanding who people are, what their functions are, what department you need to go to for information you need.

She points out that titles often mislead people about a function. If you want to ask a question about an organizational issue, you have to look at an org chart to determine where to get the information, she states. A really large org can be difficult for people who value information. The government bureaucracy isn t the problem. She faced a similar predicament when she worked for a major retailer.

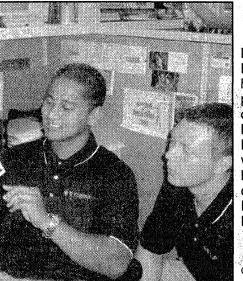

Andrea maintains that the work in a larger organization is more difficult, although the rules are clearer. It s much more detailoriented, she states.

The bar is higher. The smaller one is a stress-reliever, but I m glad I have the two to complement each other.

LEFT BEHIND

What do people miss about small environments when they re working in larger ones? Raquel misses the client interaction in his previous company, the face-to-face, one-on-one. I find myself seeking out my co-workers more.

Faulk comments that, in a large company, there is a whole new set of priorities. You have to figure out how to make sure you can deliver on your core business priorities while leveraging the resources of the larger organization. That is the key issue. He likes the fact that smaller companies are a more culture-centric team environment. He notes that his days were shorter there.

Faulk also comments that in smaller companies, you may experience the evolution of a culture rather than be required to adapt to one that exists in a larger company. He says that one goal of large organizations can be to operate as nimbly as their smaller counterparts.

Andrea concurs with him about the general espirit de corps in smaller organizations. If there ever were a conflict between her two, she d work for the large one -- which pays almost twice as much -- and volunteer at the small one.

NEW SUBARU TRIBECA IS A CROSSOVER VEHICLE TO MATCH

Advertising Feature

Observer & Eccentric Mirror Newspapers

AUTOMOTIVE.

By Dale Buss

The crossover segment of the auto market is still a fairly new one. Auto makers have only consciously been trying to field various hybrids of a car, SUV and minivan for a few years now, a trend that developed as a reaction to three different sets of consumer preferences.

The first was their hesitance to put up with the trucklike handling and awful fuel economy of large SUVs. The second trend in consumer thinking illustrated by the rise of crossovers was their desire to get more room and higher seating positions than those afforded them in most sedans. And, third, American car buyers were simply bored with minivans even though, arguably, they represented a very effective crossover concept in the first place.

And yet the relatively youth of the crossover segment means that there still aren't too many automakers who've gotten it quite right yet. One that has, fortunately, is the 2008 Tribeca, just on sale by Subaru.

The updated Tribeca sports a new six-cylinder engine, a curvaceous interior and exterior, sprite ride and handling, and (at least nominal) seating for seven – more on that later. Moreover, Tribeca, like all Subarus, only comes in an all-wheel-drive configuration, a mode that is rapidly becoming an industry standard anyway.

And yet, Subaru clearly has aimed this vehicle at the mainstream ranks of consumers who don't have any notion whatsoever of traversing offroad but, rather, want to use their crossover to perform any number of mundane tasks of urban and suburban living. That's partly reflected in the fact that the Tribeca name comes from Triangle Below Canal (Tribeca), a trendy district of lower Manhattan that also has spawned a film festival and many other "brand extension" of the area.

Styling-wise, Tribeca is Subaru's best execution yet. Subaru designers have never before come up with such a sleek, swept-back design, one that cleary positions Tribeca at the forefront of defining exactly what a crossover is supposed to look like. Unlike rivals' previous clumsy executions, such as the schizophrenic-looking Pontiac Aztek and the too-bulky Chrysler Pacifica, Subaru's new, windswept 2008 Tribeca represents a major news advance in the crossover segment.

Tribeca strikes just the right exterior stance between sleek and substantial.

Inside, too, there is a resemblance to Chrysler's Pacifica. In this case, Subaru's artistically striking interior motif is a positive echo of the curvy design of the interior of the Pacifica. The 2008 Tribeca sports a front dash that echoes the exterior's wingspread design, arcing around the occupants and converging in a well designed, curved center stack. Everything is so well executed that it doesn't seem gimmicky at all.

Electroluminescent dials and subtle ambient interior lighting provide a sophisticated touch, illuminating the front and rear footwells, the center console and cup holders. The center console is dominated by an information center that groups the readouts for the audio system, clock, fuel economy and outside temperature.

With the optional navigation system, Tribeca drivers get a seven-inch touch-screen information center, a feature that exceeds previous expectations for this category. The screen also doubles as a display for the backing camera, which activates whenever you shift into reverse with a remarkably sharp image that is shielded from solar glare:

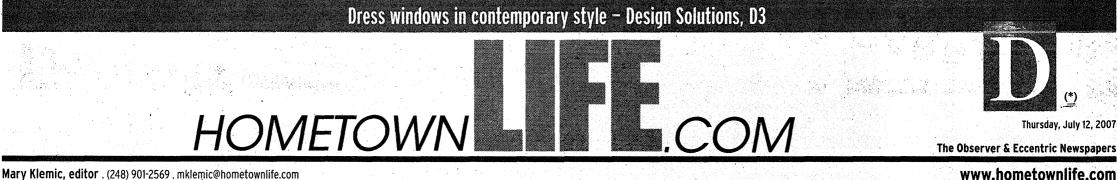

One feature of the 2008 Tribeca that Subaru likes to tout is the fact that it actually can seat seven passengers when you fold up a third row of seating in the rear. However, a "field trip" with members of my extended family gave me an unfortunate demonstration of how well Tribeca's three rows of seating work in actual experience.

Our conclusion: the third row is so tight that it's of little practical value when adults are involved, perhaps being suitable only for a couple of children. The space is so confined by Tribeca's admittedly sleek exterior lines that it really restricts the practical value of the third row. Moreover, to fit the third row in, it seems that Tribeca's designers may have cheated the second row of a little space, because my second-row passengers found the Tribeca's seats to be too small to be comfortable for average-sized people.

In any event, there's lots more about Tribeca to recommend itself. The 3.6-liter engine is new, with a goal of improving low-end torque and also lowering operation costs with a change to regular unleaded fuel. The larger engine displacement has increased engine torque to 247 lb.-ft., Subaru says, up from 215, and horsepower to 256 from 245, providing the desired extra low-end torque without sacrificing high-rpm power. And on our short family trip, Tribeca came through for me exactly as Subaru was hoping.

Stream music to any room

ast week I introduced you to services like Lala. com and nutSie, which allow you to access your digital music library from any Web-connected PC (and even a smattering of cell phones).

designed to bridge the gap between rooms and devices.

If money is no object, look no further than the Sonos Digital Music System (sonos.com). It's just a phenomenal product, but the $1,000 price tag (for a basic hardware bundle) puts it out of reach for most buyers.

Instead, consider the $299 Apple TV (apple.com/ appletv). This crafty little box connects to your PC via a wired or wireless network and syncs with your iTunes library.

You interact with Apple TV via your widescreen TV (a requirement - it won't work with regular tubes) and a small six-button remote, which operates a superbly simple interfac Indeed, it's not unlike operating an iPod writ large. And, like the iPod, the Apple TV does more than just music: It also serves up podcasts, photos and iTunes-purchased movies and TV shows. Furthermore, a recent update added YouTube viewing to the mix, and let me warn you: Surfing those videos from the comfort of your couch is insidiously addicting. It's one of my favorite Apple TV features. There are a couple of catches. First, you need to be an iTunes user. The software is free, but if your music library lives in a different program, you'll have to migrate (and be prepared: Songs bought from most other services won't play in iTunes). Second, you can't use the Apple TV to buy stuff from iTunes; for that you need your PC. Of course, you may not want to bother with videos at all, as they look a bit fuzzy when played via Apple TV.

cool off with a crisp summer salad

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA STAFF WRITER

In the sweltering heat of a summer day around metro Detroit, there is no good reason to start up the oven. Instead, chef Freeman Gunnell suggests it's the perfect time of year to experiment with the fresh ingre-example, he steers clear of using one type of green. Instead of sticking to just spinach, Gunnell adds a few other greens, perhaps endive and romaine.

That way, he said, "When the chicken hits it, it won't deflate."

When using a heated dressing, he opts to coat some of the salad and incorporate it into the rest of the bowl, to cool it off. "It does wilt on the plate, but it's a nice technique," he said. When choosing ingredients for a salad, Gunnell said, you can't go wrong with an onion. Grill or sauté a vidalia or red onion, or finely chop a raw onion to add tang to the dish. Leeks make a nice addition to a dressing, he said. As far as local produce is concerned, it's a good time to snag the last few spears of asparagus for a salad. Or, try grilling an eggplant. Tomatoes are almost ready, too.

Sample Sale

Michigan Design Center (MDC) in Troy will open its doors to indi-vidual consumers during its Sample Sale, Friday-Saturday, July 27-28.

The design center is at 1700 Stutz, north off Maple between Coolidge and Crooks. Call (248) 649-4772. MDC is usually open only to interior designers and their clients.

Sale hours are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. July 27 and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. July 28. Admission is $7, with a portion of the proceeds to benefit Gilda's Club.

Design seminars will be offered both days. Sample Sale participants may attend the seminars at no additional charge.

The topics include Mini-Makeover: Easy-toimplement Solutions to Revitalize a Tired Room (1 p.m. July 27, and noon and 2 p.m. July 28), and Developing An Action Plan For Your Kitchen Remodel (2 p.m. July 27, and 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. July 28).

During the sale, professional interior designers will be available to answe consumer questions and give advice. Sample Sale visitors will find savings of 60 to 70 percent off list prices on thousands of designerquality home furnishings, including furniture, rugs, lighting, original art and accessories. For example, the eightpiece dining room set shown here is from the English Manor Collection from Hickory White; available through the R.J. Thomas Ltd. showrooms at MDC. Regularly retail-. ing at $23,655, all eight pieces (table, bookcase * curio, four side chairs *: and two arm chairs) will be Sample Sale priced at $9,459. Merchandise will be sold as is, and all sales are final. Payment may be made by cash or check. Most showrooms will also accept Visa or MasterCard. A delivery service will be available, and arrangements may be made at the customer's expense. Delivery must be accepted within 10 days of purchase.

But for playing your tunes, it's an absolutely killer product. It's easy to set up, effortless to operate and a decent deal at $299.

dients in your fridge, and whip up a cool, crisp salad.

"In the summer I really like to eat light," he said. "We don't use the stove as much."

OUT OF THE KITCHEN

Gunnell suggests taking the cooking outdoors. Try grilling vegetables or roasting tomatoes. Grill up some salmon or chicken and add it to fresh greens like spinach or romaine lettuce. With so many options, it's easy to make this appetizing side dish into a healthy entree.

For those baffled by bagged lettuce or stumped by salad dressings, The Community House in Birmingham has you covered. This month, Gunnell will teach the tricks of the trade 7-9 p.m. Monday, July 16, during his class, Salads and Vinaigrettes.

Gunnell has worked with renowned chefs including Wolfgang Puck and handled everything from cuisine to pastry in gourmet restaurants like Detroit's Roostertail.

By day you'll find him in the Bakery Department at Royal Oak's Holiday Market. At night he teaches culinary classes like this one.

When making a salad, Gunnell said, he prepares all of the vegetables first. Then he moves on to grilling or sautéing a protein, like shrimp or chicken, which is added as a last step. For a veggie-friendly option, he suggests using white beans or chickpeas in the salad, or in the dressing.

Chef Freeman Gunnell opts for a roasted vegetable salad on a summer day.

SALAD SMARTS

Choose dark green lettuce and spinach for your salads. Both have far more nutrients than iceberg lettuce, especially valuable antioxidants, which may provide protection against cancer and heart disease. Remember, the darker the color, the more nutrients. Gunnell shared a few salad tips that promise to keep the greens from wilting right away when working with hot ingredients.

Salads aren't confined to vegetables, either. Think about a roasted corn salad or a fruit salad for a change. Add cherries or apples for a hint of summer.

DRESSING FOR THE OCCASION

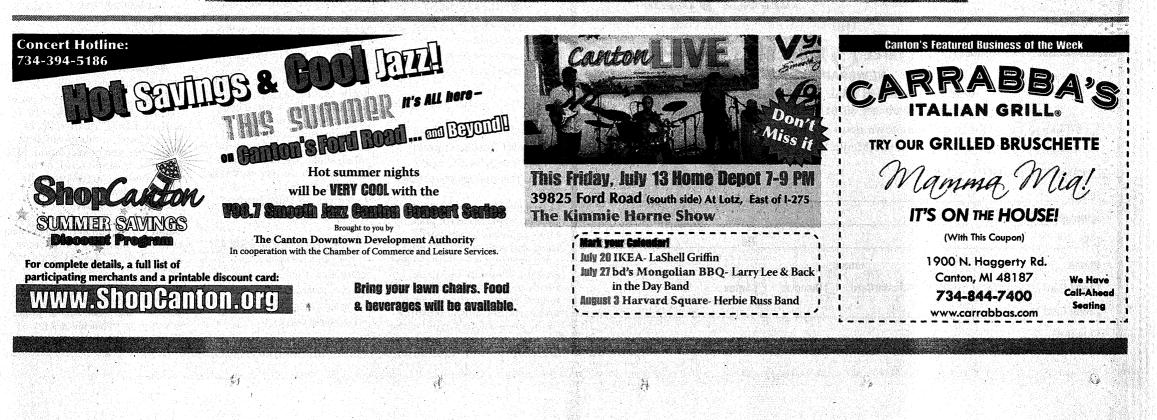

Gunnell doesn't keep bottled dressing on hand, except maybe a bottle of ranch. Instead he uses fresh ingredients to tailor a vinaigrette dressing to his salads.

Whatever he has in the fridge might be fair game, from red pepper hummus to mustard, orange marmalade to herbs. He chooses the flavor and adds in vinegar - often a balsamic or a red wine - and oil, preferably olive.

Water gardens on display in tour

BY MARY KLEMIC STAFF WRITER

Personal water wonderlands will be on display this weekend when the Michigan Koi and Pond Club (MKPC) presents its 10th annual pond/water garden tour.

The tour, showing water features and gardens at eight homes in the Rochester area, will take place Saturday, July 14, rain or shine (see related item).

It's a popular event," said Livonia resident Bruce E. Modetz, MKPC treasurer.

"It's a great tour," he said. Volunteers will be at each site to answer questions.

The tour could give visitors "an idea of something they might be able to do" at their own home, said MKPC member Gil Orris of Richmond.

The club, a not-for-profit organization, sets the tour in a different area each year. Locations of past tours include Westland/Garden City, Bloomfield Hills and Milford.

And every year the group donates some of the profits from the event to a different charitable organization or cause. This year's donation will go to the Older Persons Commission (OPC) in Rochester.

Over the years, the MKPC has given more than $15,000 to Corner Stone Schools in Detroit, the Hurricane Katrina relief fund for animals, koi back yards, or even outdoors - one is in a two-story conservatory.

Modetz has had a water garden for six years.

"I absolutely love it," he said. "Having a water garden is soothing, very relaxing. You go out there and it's beautiful."

Orris, founder of the MKPC, got involved with ponds and water gardens about 12 years ago when he tried to make a pond out of a hole left after some construction work at his house. He got the idea for the organization when he couldn't find information on the topic.

"I thought, there's got to be somebody who knows some-thing about this," Orris said.

About 100 families from throughout southeast Michigan are in the club. Not every member has a pond. Many people attend the meetings to learn about building a water garden from members and the visiting experts.

Meetings take place every month, usually between March or April and October at a member's home. Membership is $25 a year (June 1 to May 31). "We try to educate the general public," Modetz said.

The organization has developed educational presentations about pond design and construction.

"Cabernet grown on the valley floor tends to have black cherry and plum components with a very soft tannin profile," Hanna said. "Cabernet grown on Red Ranch soils with its higher elevation, tends to have more structure and complexity with notes of anise."

Slusser Road vineyard in the Russian River Valley is planted to sauvignon blanc, chardonnay and pinot noir.

"All three of these varieties thrive in the cool climate of the Russian River," Hanna said.

"These varieties like the marine layer in the morning, warm afternoons and a fog return in the evening. This ensures good acid levels and a long growing season. All three varieties are thin-skinned and present high-toned aromatics and that's the reason they thrive there.

"Chardonnay, for instance, shows a pineapple, green apple aromatic component that I identify with Russian River fruit. Without a strong aromatic profile, new French oak aging would dominate the wine.

"It's possible to grow sauvignon blanc in Dry Creek Valley where it's a solid 15 degrees warmer in August than the Russian River. The wines feature melon and figs, but not grapefruit with brisk acidity. It will not exhibit that grassy, verdant, holy grail that we are looking for."

Hinchliffe said, "I had a hunch the cool Russian River Valley climate would be ideal for a stainless fermented style of sauvignon blanc. It allows the aromas and lively acidity to flourish unmasked by oak."

Hinchliffe gets credit for the Hanna style of sauvignon blanc that has earned the sweepstakes award for Best White Wine three times at the annual Sonoma County Harvest Fair.

It's closer to the Pacific Ocean, which means it's slightly cooler and a location producing pinot noir with an illusive earthy quality, identifiable in great pinot.

"Russian River pinot noir has cranberry-like fruit, but it also achieves a mushroomy, cuminlike earthiness that defines excellent pinot noir," Hanna said.

Bismark Ranch vineyard is located on the Sonoma side of the Mayacamas mountain range, which divides Napa and Sonoma counties at an elevation of 1,400 to 2,600 feet. All five Bordeaux varieties are planted there, plus syrah and zinfandel.

The mountain terrain required dynamiting to create terraces, and only 65 of 404 acres could be farmed. Planting began in 1991, but the first harvest wasn't until 1997.

Hinchliffe said, "Bismark Ranch fruit is powerful and intense, with a lot of herbal and mineral complexity under the core fruit flavors. Our challenge is managing that intensity."

WHAT TO BUY FROM HANNA

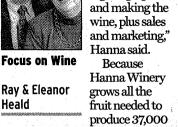

2004 Alexander Valley Cabernet Sauvignon $27 shows blackberry, black cherry and ripe plum characters with wellmanaged tannins. It's plush and generous on the palate with an extended finish.

2001 Bismark Mountain Syrah $40 boasts fresh black fruit characters with refreshing acidity. It's full, long and smooth ending with notes of cranberry, pomegranate and pepper.

2004 Bismark Mountain Cabernet Sauvignon $48 delivers a wonderful spice character over black olives, anise and herbs. Pair grilled steak with this cab.

2004 Bismark Mountain Zinfandel $48 shows a characteristic briar bush aroma followed by anise and cardamom in a full, rich style that calls for long-cooked meats like braised lamb shanks or Osso Buco.

SIT ON THE DOCK

If you're an iPod owner and want the same basic functionality for half the price, consider DLO's HomeDock Deluxe (dlo. com). It's a combination iPod charging station and dock, one that plugs directly into your stereo and TV.

Using the included remote, you can navigate your iPod from the couch: An onscreen menu system provides access to the music and video libraries. (No photos or podcasts, though - drat!)

It's a neat little product, and worth checking out if you want a more direct approach to melding your music with your home theater.

OPTIONS FOR OTHER ROOMS The Apple TV and

HomeDock both presume you want your tunes to travel to the living room. But what if you want music in, say, a bedroom or kitchen?

The Sony VAIO WA Wireless Digital Music Streamer (http://tinyurl.com/2vtlzt) answers the call. It's like a portable boombox, except that it streams music from your PC and Internet radio stations instead of the airwaves.

Because it has built-in speakers, the music goes where it goes. It's a nifty device that sounds quite good and features some nice extras, like a remote and an iPod input. The WA sells for $349.99.

Think sleek for contemporary look for windows

Amy from Royal Oak says: "I recently purchased a loft and am in the process of decorating it. I love contemporary and transitional design, but I just don't know what to put on the windows. I don't want fussy, traditional window treatments, and I also want to avoid the look of plain blinds. There must be a way to dress my windows in beautiful fabrics and remain true to contemporary style."

// es, you can definitely keep true to your contemporary leanings while adding beautiful window treatments.

Like you, I don't prefer the plain look of blinds standing alone on a window, but blinds can work beautifully as the first layer on your overall treatment.

Let the blinds take care of the light control and privacy needs. Then you can add a layer of fabric over the blinds.

With this layering method, you will be able to use less fabric on your soft, fabric treatments because they won't need to cover the entire window. The blinds will be taking care of that.

As far as contemporary style goes in draperies, think sleek and sophisticated. This can be accomplished with a monochromatic color palette and rich fabrics.

Start with simple, fixed side panels on a decorative rod. Hang the rod at least a foot over the window, if space allows. Then you can select your main fabric, making sure it doesn't have a fussy pattern.

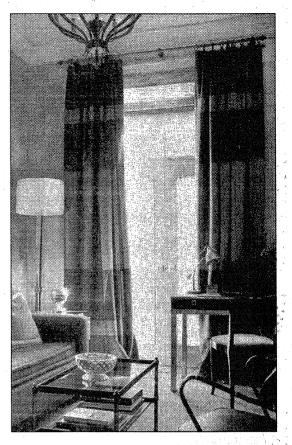

Once you have the main fabric, go ahead and add horizontal bands of another fabric, keeping with the monochromatic theme.

Wide fabric bands applied to drapery panels bring a horizontal emphasis and a contemporary edge to your windows.

Let the panels rest on the floor and allow the beautiful fabric to speak for itself. No need for tassels or beads with this design.

This is also a great do-it-yourself project that doesn't require complex sewing abilities.

The hook is then implanted into the homeowner because the plumber knows they can't sell the house without disclosing this type of information to a potential buyer. The homeowner has no choice but to get the repairs done no matter what it costs. The smooth-talking plumber then carries out the rest of the con-job. There is evidence to verify what I've just told you and it comes from the fact that several homeowners have been cautious enough to call another plumber for a second opinion.

law in force to help protect them from being ripped off.

In the last few days I've asked myself over and over again if I should even begin to write this column. You will know why as vou continue to read my story. which concerns the plumbing industry.

The recent news story where a plumber came to a home to give a customer a quote on a plumbing job and instead killed her for a necklace she was wearing may have something to do with my attitude these days, but I do know for a fact and recognize that most plumbers are hardworking individuals.

There are always a few who will tarnish the image of the industry and get away with it. Not anymore if I can help it.

It has been reported to me that certain plumbers are giving homeowners a quote to repair broken sewer lines in excess of $20,000 and there isn't one thing wrong with the sewer line.

You may think that something must be wrong, or why would they call a plumber? I'm telling you: Not one thing is wrong with their sewer line.

This all happens because someone is selling or buying a home and wants to know the condition of the sewer line.

A plumber installs a camera inside the sewer line, tapes the video on a monitor and plays it back to the homeowner. The tape is then given to the homeowner as evidence of the break or defect in the sewer line.

The switch is made almost in front of the consumer's eyes but they can't see it. The tape

This means that for every person who is wise enough to call for a second opinion. I would bet that there are many others who don't and go ahead and spend $20,000 or so.

The plumbing industry in the State of Michigan is a regulated industry that requires licensing, etc

Next week I am going to the Attorney General's Office, Better Business Bureau and Code Enforcement Division at the state level and see exactly what I can do to help prevent this sort of rip-off. I'll let you know. Stay tuned.

ONE-OF-A-KIND DESIGNS

As a self-confessed shopaholic, Dana Keaton often struggled to find the right fashions. So, she began creating her own for herself and her friends. Soon, Diva Groove LLC was born, allowing Keaton to bring fashionable clothing and accessories to people and their pets.

The designer's muses are Dylan and Remy, her Maltese pups who have become mascots for the clothing line. "I consider them to be like my children. I want them to be cute," Keaton says. "People just love to see them walk through the neighborhood."

As her client base continues to grow, so does the concept of pet fashions. "It's become a fashion statement to dress your pet," Keaton says. The latest trends for the four-legged crowd, she says, are little boots (for cats and dogs) and t-shirts that are personalized with names and sayings.

Keaton, who works with each client individually, offers a wide selection of fabrics in her Detroit design studio. The savvy designer is careful to create something that is suitable for a particular breed. For a big guy, such as a Golden Retriever, she recommends a bowtie. "With larger breeds, you want to keep it simple," she says.

LEADING THE WAY

The Uppity Puppy in Royal Oak was the first dog specialty store in the metro Detroit area. For more than five years, coowners Patty Livernois and Kim O'Brien have been offering incredibly fun and unique clothing, accessories and more for what they call "furry children."

O'Brien makes a lot of the clothing herself. The store carries a combination of custom and brand labels. They offer such fashionable items as name bracelets and necklaces for people and their pets.

Hot trends for summer include little dresses for females and short sets for males. Camouflage is all the rage with the traditional green for boys and pink for girls. The Uppity Puppy is proud to offer licensed Pistons, Red Wings and Lions jerseys for the four-legged crowd.

One of their celebrity clients is Channel 7 newscaster Val Clark who shops for her beautiful dog Uno (part Bijon and part Black Poodle). And Livernois' own puppy, Truffles "has more clothes than most people," she says.

FASHION AND FUNCTION

Moochie & Co. recently added metro Detroit to its list of locations. The store offers a wide variety of clothing and Another practical but pretty option is a backpack for your dog. Designed to be lightweight enough for a pooch to carry on his own back, they can store toys and water bottles for a hiking trip or a walk in the park.

"All of us who work here have pets," Brundle says of the fun environment. "Everyone who comes in is really excited to be here too."

Larger breeds will drool over the leather collars with hammered hearts and stars that come in a variety of colors. Or, for the dog who has everything, opt for an exotic beaded collar from Africa.

Shopping can be exhausting for man's best friend, so just in time for summer Shaggy Chic offers pet strollers.

And if there is one item Pullman wishes everyone would purchase, it would be a car seat for their pooch. Because it's not enough for your pup to look great, it's also about "being well cared for," she says.

Madonna University hosts Christopher Coppola's PAH-fest

HIDU

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

Digital technology is Christopher Coppola's paint brush.

And Coppola wants digital media fans of the latest technology to stroke that brush onto a canvas at PAH-Fest Motown.

TEKGL PAH-Fest (PAH stands for Project Accessible Hollywood) is a digital media festival that celebrates the stories and voices of everyday people through digital cameras, cell phones and tech portraits, set to run July 16-22 at Madonna University in Livonia. Coppola, movie director and the nephew of Francis Ford Coppola and older brother of Nicolas Cage, founded the festival to promote stories and messages of "common people." Hollywood filmmakers are under enormous pressure to create moneymakers, and those who don't produce, are subjected to fewer opportunities later, so creative and bold ideas are less likely to hit the big screen, Coppola said.

"The problem with Hollywood is it is such a big business that you need to be careful with it," Coppola said. "People are doing the same old thing. They have so much riding on it, and as a result, we've lost some of our fresh voices."

Coppola will assist six preselected teams of filmmakers for three days in their production of six-minute films as part of a competition. Coppola will discuss digital media Tuesday, July 17, and Elmore Leonard will screen the movie Out of Sight, based on Leonard's novel, on Thursday, July 19. Coppola started PAH-Fest after working on the Flicks on 66 Festival in New Mexico in 2004 and Duke City Shootout in 2006, both of which were digital media festivals. "Two years ago, I thought we should do a 'common man' category," Coppola said. "I was hoping to do something more refreshing.

Coppola's interests in telling the common man's story were further fueled by a construction worker, who read Coppola's blogs and responded to them. The man had suffered a horrible accident that disfigured him and his appearance made people shy away from

Harry Potter comes to IMAX in 3D

BY LANA MINI

Prepare your charms, spells and grab your wand. Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix opened nationwide in 35mm yesterday, July 11.

At the Henry Ford Imax, the explosive finale is in 3D.

There, just as the film reaches the peak of excitement, moviegoers are transported inside the film to experience the action, drama and wonder of Harry Potter. About 20 minutes of the finale was transformed into 3D for the magical ending. (An on-screen cue will alert moviegoers to put on the 3D glasses.)

In Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix (Warner Bros.), Harry returns for his fifth year of study at Hogwarts only to discover that much of the wizarding community has been led to believe that the story of the teenager's recent encounter with the evil Lord Voldemort is a lie, putting Harry's integrity in question.

Worse, the Minister for Magic, Cornelius Fudge, has appointed a new Defense Against the Dark Arts teacher, the duplicitous Professor Dolores Umbridge. But Professor Umbridge's "Ministry-approved" course of defensive magic leaves the young wizards woefully unprepared to defend themselves against the Dark forces threatening them, so, at the prompting of his friends Hermione and Ron, Harry is convinced to take matters into his own hands.

"It was exciting to me that this story takes place at a time in the students' lives when they are maturing and everything is becoming more complicated," said director David Yakes. "It is about rebellion and about understanding the limits of adulthood; it's about discovering how difficult the world can become and how sometimes you have to make your own way in that world."

Yates added that this film is a blend of the fun and magic that author J.K. Rowling puts into her books.

It stars Daniel Radcliffe, Rupert Grint, Emma Watson, Helena Bonham Carter, Robbie Coltrane, Warwick Davis, Ralph Fiennes, Michael Gambon, Brendan Gleeson, Richard Griffiths, Jason Isaacs, Gary Oldman, Alan Rickman, Fiona Shaw, Maggie Smith, Imelda Staunton, David Thewlis, Emma Thompson and Julie Walters.

This film has been rated "PG-13" for "fantasy violence and frightening images. Visit www.harrypotterorderofthephoenix.com.

The Henry Ford IMAX Theater is located at 20900 Oakwood Boulevard in Dearborn. For information on tickets and showtimes, please call (313) 982-6001 or visit the Web site at www.TheHenryFord. org.

Alain Resnais' epic French love story is wrought with loneliness

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA STAFF WRITER

By Director Alain Resnais' standards, love is a lonely endeavor. That's clearly the melancholy message wrapped in his 2006 drama Private Fears in Public Places. The Americanized title doesn't begin to capture the essence of this French film, originally called Coeurs, or heart. With a foggy Artwork by youth ages 7-17, including this whimsical barnyard scene by Karl Laub of Gibralter, Mich., will be on display in a special exhibit at Kellogg Park during Plymouth Art in the Park July 13-15.

Summer fairs cater to art lovers Plymouth Art in the Park kicks off season

BY WENSDY VON BUSKIRK STAFF WRITER

There's much to look forward to in the summertime, pool parties and outdoor cafes included. But for art lovers, hot weather means one thing - time to don comfortable shoes and get shopping.

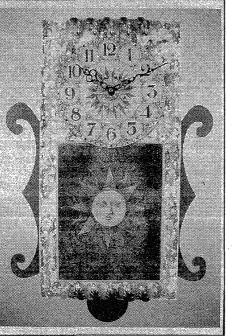

Michigan's rich art fair season is anchored by the Ann Arbor Art Fairs, Michigan's largest outdoor art scene by far. Yet its sheer scope and size shouldn't overshadow other offerings in metro Detroit.

Plymouth Art in the Park will bring a talented pool of artists to Kellogg Park this weekend, and the Orchard Lake Fine Art Show is gearing up to celebrate its fifth anniversary Aug. 3-5. Like the artists who exhibit at them, each art fair has a unique flavor and style of its own.

PLYMOUTH ART IN THE PARK

For the 28th year in a row, Art in the Park will transform downtown Plymouth into a vibrant canvas of color and activity July 13-15. About 350 artists are expected to set up booths selling a wide range of art, including photography, fine art, glass, ceramics, clothing, jewelry, garden decor and more. There will be plenty of live entertainment and hands-on art activities for children, along with a special exhibit of work by young artists ages 7-17.

clocks at Art in the Park for years. Scherer has dabbled in mural painting, fine art gallery shows, metalsmithing, printmaking and music. He melds his expertise to create timepieces that defy classification.

"It's impossible to describe my clock line, there's so much going on with it," he said. "I incorporate so many materials and colors. I try to do things that are whimsical, traditional, funky and fun."

Scherer, whose clocks range in price from $29-$200, said he enjoys creating artwork people can afford, and said organizers of Plymouth Art in the Park do a great job of providing a variety of art at different price points.

"I think the thing that I really like about the show is that it's very well juried. I think it's becoming the best juried show in the region. It's very well attended, and there's a lot of really interesting things to look at. There's something for everyone."

ANN ARBOR ART FAIRS

The grande dame of art fairs, Ann Arbor will mark its 48th year July 18-21. Although it is made up of four separate fairs - the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair, Ann Arbor's South University Art Fair, the State Street Area Art Fair, and Ann Arbor Summer Art Fair - visitors will simply see a seamless spread of tents as more than 1,200 artists set up shop.

Among them are jewelry designers Marcy and Michael Feldman, owners of Heartwear Designs in Birmingham. They'll bring a wide variety of geometric creations from their shop, along with a batch of one-of-a-kind sterling silver earrings ($65-$90) made especially for the show.

Giraldo brings brash comedy to town

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA STAFF WRITER

Comedian Greg Giraldo claims he never laughed as a child. Not once.

"I became a vessel for God's laughter," he said in what sounds to be stone-faced seriousness.

But the brash comedian known for everything from stand-up to roasts of celebrities like William Shatner and Pamela Anderson on Comedy Central comes clean after a few friendly minutes on the phone July 3. "My first time doing stand-up, I knew that's what I wanted to do," he said, calling from his New York City home

Unlike some of his contemporaries, Giraldo said he was most inspired by the worst comedians. "Other people say they were inspired by Richard Pryor. That sounds amazing to me. I watched really bad comics at the Improv and said: 'Let me try this.' I'm sure I thought it went well. But your early tapes always suck at the beginning.'

Comedy might've been his calling after all. But it wasn't his first career. Giraldo > finished law school and spent enough time working as a lawyer to know he hated it. "I don't control my own life," he joked. "God wanted me to do comedy.'

SPICE He even kept his legal eagle past a secret for a while, never using his experiences in his stand-up. That is until he got the chance to develop and star in his own sitcom.

Common Law was a short-lived show on ABC, one of several pilots that promised a kick-start for his career. In his own tongue-in-cheek way, Giraldo said he blames his own "laziness, inability to focus and alcohol" for the success he's earned so far. No doubt he's striving for more, though, all while watching "very untalented people blow up huge," he said. But he's not so bitter.

When "roasting" earned national notoriety on Comedy Central last year, Giraldo was at the center of the storm. When asked who was the one person he'd most like to roast, Giraldo named the president of Iran, Mahmoud Ahmadinejad. "He seems like a good sport. Maybe through comedy we can avert world war. I try to have lofty goals," he explained.

Then he adds abolitionist Harriet Tubman to his "must roast" list. "I'd let her have it."

Though he is a regular on late-night television, a panelist on Comedy Central's Tough Crowd with Colin Quinn, has hosted The Stand Up Show with Greg Giraldo and has starred in two stand-up specials for the cable network, Giraldo's heart remains in stand-up. "It's my favorite thing to do, entertain people," he said.

That's the idea on July 14, when Giraldo hits the stage at Meadow Brook. He appears in comedy clubs and concert halls as regularly as possible - juggling a life in comedy all while married with three children.

He even has two new pilots pending. One, titled the Root of All Evil, stars Lewis Black as a judge and Giraldo and fellow funny friend Patton Oswalt as lawyers trying to prove who is the root of all evil. One argument pitted a pre-jailbird Paris Hilton against Vice President Dick Cheney. The other pilot is called Fresh Squeezed and it's for NBC.

Fans of the outspoken comedian can purchase his debut album, Good Day to Cross a River, or log onto his Web site for updates at www.greggiraldo.com.

Grecian Cafe is delish at any hour

BY WENSDY VON BUSKIRK STAFF WRITER

Whether you're craving a specialty omelet first thing in the morning, or a coney in the dead of night, Grecian Cafe has got you covered.

Located in Plymouth's historic Old Village, the family restaurant serves its extensive menu 24/7. Thanks to a recent renovation complete with floor-to-ceiling windows, flat screen TV and garden patio seating, the café has a bright and airy atmosphere no matter what the hour. Stop in around the clock for breakfast, lunch, dinner, appetizers or just a steaming hot cup of coffee. The only time the restaurant's doors are shut is from 3-6 a.m. Sundays for deep cleaning. Owner Victor Nikollbibaj didn't even close for long when he remodeled the entire restaurant, taking just 10 days at the end of May to re-do the floors, ceilings, walls, windows, lighting and booths.

The result is a modern and welcoming update to an old favorite.

Nikollbibaj also recently hired a chef to improve the dinner menu.

"Customers were asking for it," he said.

"We are investing in the community and giving customers what they want."

Grecian Café has long enjoyed a good customer base. 'Regulars' belly up to the coffee bar and chat with waitresses, nineto-fivers flock in for quick lunches, and families line up for weekend breakfasts. Extensive seating means there's rarely a wait, even after church on Sundays. Nikollbibaj has owned several restaurants throughout Metro Detroit, but never one that operated 24 hours. When he purchased Grecian Café more than seven years ago, he decided to experiment.

"I gave it a try at the beginning," he said. "A lot of people work at night at factories, the post office, cleaning offices, at bars. There's a lot of movement at night, you'd be surprised. It worked out."

Due to Plymouth's growing nightlife scene, there's also an influx of customers after the bars close.

Nikollbibaj is good at catering to people of all ages at any hour with a good selection of standard fare.

Italian dishes are very popular, he said, like Chicken or Veal Parmesan, Lasagna, Spaghetti and pasta tossed with alfredo sauce or garlic and oil. Also popular are drink with sports viewing, plus games and attractions. "We really saw Detroit as a great opportunity to launch this world sports grill concept," said Clint Manny, senior marketing vice president for Sega Entertainment. "It's a very sports-centric town. With the success of the Tigers, success of the Red Wings, success of the Pistons, it just goes on and on. We saw Detroit as a huge opportunity to take advantage of those loyal sports fans and bring them something new and different."

The menu will feature American and ethnic foods. Plasma, flat-screens will have full wall projection so games can be viewed from every seat in the house. There will also be regulation pool tables, dart boards and lounge seating. The venue will show all major and local sporting events.

The public is invited to the following grand opening events: Tuesday, July 17, World Sports Grille College Night, 8 p.m. and Wednesday, July 18, at 8 p.m. WRIF's Rock Hard Wednesday at the New World Sports Grille. Go baseball crazy where the first 101 guests receive a complimentary WRIF baseball hat. There will be a special appearance by Taylor, the 2007 WRIF Rock Girl, live music and prizes.

The restaurant will have plasma flat screen televisions and will celebrate Detroit's loyal sports fans.

On Thursday-Friday, July 19-20, Stoney & Wojo's Radiothon to Benefit the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society of Michigan, WDFN's Mike Stone and Bob Wojnowski will be on the air for 28 hours. Events include celebrity appearances, silent auctions, a midnight celebrity buffet, Rush Hour Happy Hour Sports Karaoke, kegs & eggs breakfast with Automotion (the Pistons Dance Team) and much more. Michigan Jazz Festival celebrates Lucky 13

It's the 13th year for the Michigan Jazz Festival and this year the musical theme is...well, there is no theme.

MUSIC

The lineup is as wide-spanning and eclectic as ever for the nine-hour, free festival on Sunday, July 15, at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. And that's intentional because the festival is all about Michigan's wide-spanning pool of jazz talent.

This festival showcases Michigan artists who are both already established and the "upand-coming" ones. Hot Club of Detroit, for example, performed here before many recognized the band's name.

The talent ranges from solo piano to small groups and big bands. There's 215 musicians performing on five stages, four of them indoors and air-conditioned.

Performing are Los Gatos, Bill Meyer Sextet, Johnny Trudell Big Band, the Jim Ryan Trio and many others.

> This is the festival where anything can happen on stage

- musicians jump on stage and improvise, and many don't flee the building after their gig. Here artists interact with each other and if you've wanted to chat with your favorite, this is where to do it. The Jazz Walk is where artists will mingle, socialize and sell their CDs.

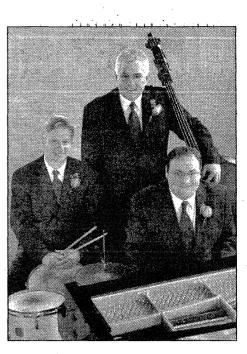

"It's a big love-in," said festival organizer Midge Ellis.

The festival again features the fun Steinway Cafe where guests can dine, listen to music and learn about how to listen to jazz - an art in and of itself.

This year's Michigan Jazz Festival is dedicated to Louis Smith. Smith, a trumpet player, has performed with many big names in jazz including Miles Davis and Dizzy Gillespie. A native of Memphis, Smith played for decades before teaching at the University of Michigan and Ann Arbor Public School system.

He began playing in 1944. In 1948 he entered Tennessee State University on a scholarship where he majored in music. Soon Smith joined the Tennessee State Collegians, which produced many jazz greats like Jimmy Cleveland and Phineas Newborn.

Schoolcraft College is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile in Livonia. For more information, visit michiganjazzfestival.homestead.com - Lana Mini

The Richko/Keller/Siers Trio will perform at 2 p.m. Sunday with a 12-piece band.

Enjoy Birmingham Jazzfest July 19-21 FAIRS

If you love jazz, head to downtown Birmingham next week.

The Community House will host its 15th Annual Jazzfest, July 19-21 in Shain Park located on South Bates Street between Martin and Merrill streets in the heart of downtown Birmingham. All concerts are free and open to the public. Each year, the three-day festival attracts an estimated 25,000 people to the city of Birmingham.

Flautist Alexander Zonjic returns as the artistic director for the three-day event. Zonjic has compiled a lineup which showcases national artists along with homegrown talent.

"The Community House Jazzfest 2007 delivers three days of world class music in an intimate outdoor setting. Whether you like your jazz straight ahead, smooth, funky or bluesy, this year's festival has it all. Terence Blanchard, Joyce Cooling, Ken Navarro, Dave McMurray, and Alexander Zonjic & Friends are just a few of the great acts you'll hear this year," said Zonjic.

Jazzfest is sponsored by Ford Motor Company, General Motors, Pepsi, Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs, Birmingham PSD, Trustinus, Azimuth Capital Management, Huntington Bank, Radisson Bloomfield Hills Hotel, Paul Cicchini Custom Clothiers, Michael Serling, Ernst & Young, The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Smooth Jazz V98.7 FM, Hour Media, Anheuser Busch, LaSalle Bank, Citizens Bank, Charter One, Level Vodka and Wesch Cleaners. Proceeds from Jazzfest benefit The Community House outreach programs.

"The 2007 Jazzfest promises to be an event you won't want to miss. Ford Motor Company is proud to be a sponsor for the 14th consecutive year," said Susan Pepper of Corporate Alliances, Ford Motor Company. "We bring the Ford Experience Tour to the streets of Birmingham this year, combining great musical entertainment with fun interactive games and exciting new products."

On Wednesday evening July 18, a fund-raising preview party for Jazzfest will be held from 6-9 p.m. at the Bloomfield Hills home of Jack Krasula, chair of Jazzfest. The evening includes a Latin themed strolling supper with entertainment provided by Orquestra Sensacional. Honorary Chairs are Jacci and Lem Barney and Robert Porcher. Reservations to the preview party are $75. For reservations, contact The Community House at 248/644-5832.

On Thursday evening July 19, Alexander Zonjic will be accompanied by The Motor City Horns to kickoff The 15th Annual Jazzfest in Shain Park, in downtown Birmingham.

Friday's concert opens with the DSO's Civic Ensemble followed up by the electrifying and visionary ensemble, Hot Club of Detroit. Eclectic guitarist/vocalist/songwriter Joyce Cooling will serve as the headliner for Friday evening's performance. Families won't want to miss the entertaining Kevin Devine and Family Fun taking the stage on Saturday morning.

Non-stop entertainment continues throughout the day with performances by the popular Gary Schunk Trio followed up by the talented guitarist Johnnie Bassett & the Blues Insurgents featuring Lady Sunshine and Leonardo.

Ken Navarro, recognized as one of today's leading contemporary jazz guitarists and composer will take the stage at 4:00 p.m. followed by Detroit-based saxophone great Dave McMurray at 5:45 p.m. Grammy Award winning musician and composer Terence Blanchard is Saturday evening's headliner.

The Community House Jazzfest was created to showcase exceptional jazz artists and to promote the work of local and national jazz musicians. The event is known for educating and exposing the community to a wide range of jazz styles; attracting a racially, ethnically and age diverse population to Birmingham; and creating a quality outdoor entertainment venue.

For more information contact the Jazzfest hotline at (248) 433-FEST or contact The Community House, 380 South Bates, Birmingham (248) 644-5832, www.communityhouse.com. "I love the Ann Arbor fair because it's like going to the biggest art museum, with fresh, creative ideas from the best artists from across the country gathered in one spot. It is an absolute phenomenon," Marcy Feldman said.

Ann Arbor Art Fairs spokesperson Linda Ashley suggests keeping an eye out for emerging artists.

"All of the art fairs are really emphasizing having special sections for young and even student artists who will be selling their work," Ashley said. "The directors believe these are ones to watch, so the fun for art lovers is to get to them early, and get some of their work before they become well known."

ORCHARD LAKE FINE ART SHOW

the show. Children will enjoy plaster painting, T-shirt tie-dying, sandy candy, and candle making hosted by Plasterworks of West Bloomfield, along with live artist demonstrations of glass blowing, painting and drawing. Another highlight is Target's Youth Art Competition. Andrew Wu of Birmingham will sell his blown glass bowls and vases ($100-$800) at the show. A professional violinist with the Michigan Opera Theatre, Wu took up glass blowing about seven years ago, and likens it to being on stage.

"I get a lot of satisfaction from a great performance, and I get the same satisfaction from the glass, because it's like a performance every time you sit down at the pipe," Wu said.

Wu does the Orchard Lake Fine Art Show for the personal interaction. "You spend so much time in your

Travis returns with new CD

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA STAFF WRITER

Travis made a name for itself in the late '90s, when four boys from Glasgow chimed in with an inspired brand of bittersweet Brit pop. But it's been five years since the melodic four-piece unveiled a new album. And even then, the landscape seemed saturated with the likes of Coldplay and Snow Patrol - each gaining ground thanks to Travis' success.

Finally following its 12 Memories, the band breaks its silence and declares "We're back."

The Boy With No Name marks a fifth studio album for Travis. Released last month. and titled after the slowprocess of naming singer Fran Healy's first-born son, Clay, this record weighs heavily with the events of years passed.

Having nearly lost their drummer, Neil Primrose, to an unfortunate swimming pool accident in 2002, the band nearly called it quits. But Healy, Primrose, guitarist Andy Dunlop and bassist Dougie

Name."

Payne pulled it together and crafted a dozen new songs that slide from one end of the pop spectrum to the other.

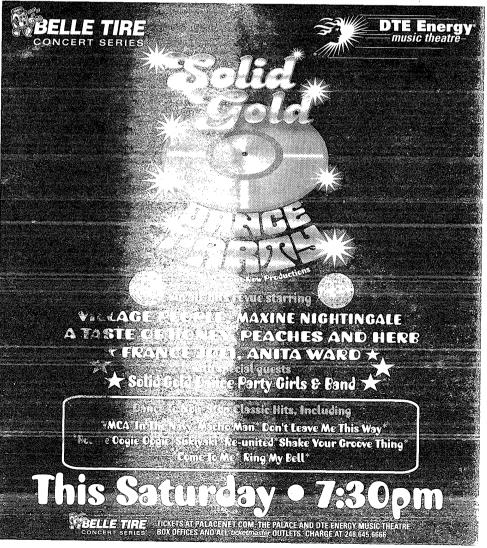

In some ways, The Boy With No Name sounds suppressed by melancholy. But maybe it's just the sound of a bunch of art school blokes who finally grew up. There is trace evidence of Travis's heyday, from the not-too-shy to rock of Good

Feeling to the breakout hits on The Man Who. And there are truly shining moments, too. Selfish Jean gives an emoting Healy the proper chance to show off his swoony vocals. Closer is classic Travis, a subtle, sleepy romantic number in the tradition of As You Are. Likewise, Battleships carries those characteristic shuffling guitar chords and calls to mind old favorites like Driftwood.

Travis fans will likely embrace The Boy With No Name, but newcomers would do well to delve into the band's back catalogue and trace this Boy's steps.

this week

BY LANA MINI STAFF WRITER

Every band out today can be lumped into a musical category except one: Gogol Bordello.

It's been years that a new genre of music has been formed - not since perhaps Radiohead, Jane's Addiction or Swans.

The eight-piece renegade members of Gogol Bordello have created their own sound that critics are calling Gypsy Punk. The band calls it New Rebel Intelligence, or NRI.

Listen to it on myspace. com/gogolbordello. Then check out the band performing Saturday, July 14, at The Majestic in Detroit.

And pickup their rebellious yet polished CD Super Taranta! (SideOneDummy Records) that just hit stores this week.

The band is one of, let's say none, that in recent years have actually crushed musical barriers. It's based on brutal gypsy two-step rhythms that sounds like an Eastern European cousin of ska, mixed with punk, metal, rap, roots reggae, Italian spaghetti Western twang, dub and Flamenco.

Yeah, that's right, Flamenco. Rebel music that rocks.

The celebratory gypsy style is accented with singer Eugene Hutz's heavy Ukrainian accent.

"Reggae and gypsy music were created by poor people with nothing to lose," said the charismatic vocalist Hutz. "They had to find a new way to look at the world, so the theme Super Taranta! (the CD name) is New Rebel Intelligence, a concept born in the band."

Hutz knows what it means to find a new way to look at a chaotic world. He came to the United States after escaping from Chernobyl's nuclear meltdown and living for seven years throughout Eastern Europe's refugee camps. This, of course, impacts the music.

"Looking at string theory, creationism, globalization, political cataclysms and the general chaos facing us means you have to find some way to survive."

The band uses instruments from throughout the world including violins, accordions and an array of percussions.

TAKING THE U.S. BY STORM

Be forewarned, get your tickets for the show in advance. Gogol Bordello is soaring through the underground scene and has a huge, loyal and wild following. Concerts at medium-sized venues are selling out. Just eight days before Gogol Bordello's Detroit show, they were in Ireland. Bass player Tommy Gobena, originally from Ethiopia and now from Brooklyn, said the U.S., Italy and Istanbul are some of Gogol's biggest audiences. "We aren't trying to look like anything," Gobena said. "And people respect that. Our music comes from an honest place.

"This CD is our music and talent at its highest level," Gobena said.

It's abstract yet focused, with dark humor. The dub is deep, the speed is faster, the fun is, well, more fun. Super Taranta! is Gogol's interpretation of Tarantella, a ritual music from Italy, Gobena said.

"It was said to be music that cures hysteria in women years ago... to put her into a trance. Well, we want to cure everyone of hysteria."

Producer Victor Van Vugt (Nick Cave, PJ

Harvey) produced it Super Taranta! Hutz said Van Vugt wasn't afraid to experiment with the sounds ranging from gypsy to metal.

Gogol's goal is to make the contradictions of life sound harmonious. Turn negative into positive.

And they do.

The shows have a strong reputation of audience involvement. They are tribal and communal. Everyone jumps and dances to the heavy drums and exuberant violin. The band has no problem bringing the stage right into the middle of the dance floor.

The energy of the CD is equally strong. Super Taranta! was recorded in a Massachusetts farmhouse, in just 14 days.

"A lot of good music came from that house," Gobena said. "Aerosmith, for example, recorded there. A lot of good energy."

The album was cut live with minimal overdubs.

"The people in the band bounce energy off each other and that's what we capture on the record. It's in-your-face music with the production more advanced, the song writing more mature, the humor darker. The songs all have musical and lyrical references to each other," Hutz said.

What's great about Gogol is that while him, Coppola said. The man told a story at one of the festivals, through Charlie Chaplin footage and poetry with the message that all people are here to help each other and "do good things." "It was a beautiful experience for me as it was for him," Coppola said of the man.

The festival (Coppola's eighth) allows anyone with digital technology at their fingertips to tell stories their own way, Coppola said. The Mobiflicks competition, the highlight of the festival, features six teams of four who will produce a six-minute digital movie in three days at Madonna. Each team will be provided a digital camera, editing system and coaches, and a one-day crash course with Coppola to help prepare for production. Movies will be screened at the end of the festival, and a cash prize awarded to the winner.

Coppola said Mobiflicks taps into the creative process of the local communities. "We're using digital technology as our paint brush," Coppola said.

CELL PHONE ART

The festival also features other events and contests for digital media fans. Members of the public can shoot a one-minute piece of video using a cell phone on Thursday or Friday. A topic will be given and the contestants will have two hours to make their video.

"Everyone will be given a topic, and they will go out with their phone or one donated, and make a one-minute video," Coppola said. "Just the act of doing that is fun."

Other events include Your Tech Portraits (featuring one-minute video portraits with Apple computers and Web cams) and learning seminars on high definition workflows and storytelling (with Josh White Jr.).

Coppola doesn't make money off the festival, but he is making connections between communities. 'The more things I do that help celebrate the creative process, the more I build my brand," said Coppola.

'If I can help digital (video producers) hone their craft and give them voices and not have the 'sameold, same-old,' we'll have something fresh."

Suzanne Boyd, TV facilities and production manager at Madonna, is responsible for bringing PAH-Fest to Madonna and the Detroit area, and has been a Coppola fan for a while. "I used to read Christopher's blog and I was intrigued by it," Boyd said

Boyd took three students to PAH-Fest in New Mexico last year. The three students (Katie Freier, Jeanette Henson and Rachael Moreri) and Boyd entered the Mobiflicks competition. "They did all the work," Boyd said of her students. "It was life-altering for them. It was a wonderful experience for them, and now they are helping others tell their stories."

Freier started her own production company, Henson works at a production facility and an ad agency and Moreri lives in Utah, working in film as a production assistant, Boyd said.

Boyd could not bring students to this year's event in New Mexico, because of scheduling conflicts with the event in June.

'So he (Christopher) said, 'What if we bring it there for you guys. We'll do the same thing in Detroit,' " Boyd . said, remembering Coppola's words.

And, of course, Boyd is thrilled that Coppola is bringing the festival to Madonna. "He's all about getting people to empower themselves. I've never met a nicer person in my life. When he does PAH-Fest, everyone is a part of it."

PAH-Fest is a Brave New World, a daring adventure that challenges individuals to buck convention and use their own thoughts and ideas in artistic ways.

"I just see this cyberworld as a whole another continent," Coppola said. "If Myspace was another continent, it would be the seventh largest on the planet."

more and more smitten with her employer each night. Lionel works as a bartender in a posh hotel restaurant, where he slings drinks to Dan, an alcoholic ex-Army man set to marry Nicole. It's a tangled web of relationships that grows ever-more involved.

While the characters are interesting, Resnais truly succeeds in capturing the mood of the film visually. He slices scenes with snowfall and favors voyeuristic camera angles, even a birds-eye view, to peer into their lives.

He peppers the sets with flowing fabrics and partial screens, half-hiding these people, just as they protect themselves from relationships, heartache and family. The most obvious example is Arthur, Lionel's invalid father. He's never shown. At most viewers catch a glimpse of the doorway to his bedroom, maybe a leg.

We learn more about Charlotte through the videocassettes she shares with Thierry than we do through her words or actions. Her cross-wearing, Bible-toting persona doesn't begin to scratch the surface. And Gaelle's hope and idealism is expressed not in dialogue, bit in washes of golden light. The visual effects speak volumes in this film.

Resnais lets his viewers in on a glimpse, but also leaves plenty of room to wonder.

We learn Dan was dishonorably discharged from the Army, and comes from a military family. He's depressed, out of work and in a bitter relationship. But we don't know exactly why.

The film raises delicate emotions and poses poignant questions about the state of life and love in an isolated place and time. But it remains very much on the surface of those feelings from beginning to end.

Adapted from a play by Britain's Alan Ayckbourn, Private Fears in Public Places is presented in French with English subtitles. Running time is 120 minutes.

"I am very honored to list the winners among the membership of the BIA. All of the winners should be proud of their sales and marketing efforts as well as their dedication to the residential construction industry," said SAM Chair Kim Bommarito.

Headquartered in Farmington Hills, BIA is a trade association representing more than 2,000 builders remodelers, multi-family property owners, developers and suppliers to the single family and multifamily residential construction industry. BIA is affiliated with the Michigan Association of Home Builders in Lansing and the National Association of Home Builders in Washington, D.C. Membership nationwide includes more than 235,000 individuals and companies.

No bona fide purchase under a forged deed

Q. Unfortunately, my mother took a deed from someone by way of quit claim and it turned out to be a forged deed to acquire the property. Does she have any chance to get the property which she bought in good faith?

A. No, because there can be no such thing as a bona fide purchaser under a forged deed as a matter of law. The holder of such a deed cannot claim any rights to the land even if he or she takes a deed for value without notice. She should obviously pursue the person who gave her the forged deed if that's at all possible.

Q. In this changing economy, our board does not wish to change its collection policy to increase the late charges and accelerate the time when we begin foreclosure proceedings and/or put a lien on the unit. I am trying to explain to them why that's necessary. What do you think?

A. Each association must adopt its own collection policy in accordance with its bylaws. On the other hand, the board must be resolute in ensuring that it has an aggressive and uniform collection policy that ensures that it is taking the maximum steps necessary to collect the assessments for the benefit of the association as a whole. In short, the longer the association delays in taking aggressive action to collect the assessment that is delinguent, the longer it will take to collect the assessment and, indeed, the association may lose out on its secured interest in being able to force the payment of the assessment. It is probably a good idea, therefore, for your association to re-evaluate its collection policy with the benefit of good legal advice.

Auction July 25

The Auction Services Group of Benj. E. Sherman & Sons, a Chicago-based national real estate auction company, will be conducting the sale of eight single family homes, seven condominiums and 56 home sites throughout metro Detroit. The auction will be held in the ballroom of the Troy Marriott, 200 W. Big Beaver Road, Troy, at 7 p.m. Wednesday, July 25. Neumann Homes Inc., a Chicago-based national home builder, has elected to auction these properties to reduce the marketing time necessary to sell them in a slow marketplace. "We have experienced the same slowdown that other builders have experienced throughout metro Detroit," said Neumann President and CEO Kenneth P. Neumann. "We've made a business decision to utilize the accelerated sales method to complete a close-out of several of our communities which will allow our team members to concentrate their efforts on our most recently developed communities in the four regions around the country that we are building in."

"This will be the second auction that we will have conducted for Neumann Homes in metro Detroit," said Robert Roggeveen, president of The Auction Services Group of Benj. E. Sherman & Sons. "Last year, we sold 66 properties for over $8,000,000."

All of the homes and condominiums will be open for viewing during the fol-lowing scheduled open house dates and times:

Location lures buyers

One doesn't have to look too long to be told, "It's a buyer's market" in metro Detroit real estate. But once they've determined what they want to spend, buyers focus on amenities, and SkyLofts MarketSquare in downtown Royal Oak offers a package like no other.

development in town," said New Homes Manager Michelle Harrier. "They ask sharp questions and they pay attention to the details. But what is it they say at Syms? 'An educated consumer is our best customer.' All the important things they want are included in the package here.

Prices at MarketSquare begin in the $220s. All lofts are fully built out with what were initially upgrades, including granite countertops, stainless steel appliances and hardwood or bamboo floors, and each of the lofts includes a fireplace. The fact that all of the lofts are finished means that buyers won't be tripping over construction crews, Harrier pointed out. They can also obtain a mortgage that covers the complete cost of the loft. When buying an unfinished space, buyers often have to pay up-front for their upgrade selections.
