Driver faces homicide charges in grisly crash

BY ALEX LUNDBERG STAFF WRITER

A 24-year-old Adrian man has been charged in connection with the grisly freeway crash that killed five members of a family Sunday night. A Redford girl was killed in the crash and her sister is still in critical condition

Michael Gagnon was arraigned Wednesday morning on five counts of aggravated vehicular homicide in Toledo Municipal Court. Bond was set at $1.25 million. Police reports said he had three times the legal amount of alcohol in his system at the time of the Before police were able to intercept him, Gagnon got onto I-280 going the wrong way in the southbound lanes, police said.

Meantime, 36-year-old Danny Griffin Jr. of Parkville, Md., was driving a minivan home from visiting family for the holidays in Michigan and heading south on I-280.

According to police, the two drivers tried to swerve, but Gagnon's pickup sideswiped the Griffins' vehicle and tore the right side doors off. Several victims were thrown into the road.

scene. Killed were 10-year-old Jordan Griffin of Redford, and 36-year-old Bethany Griffin and daughters, 7year-old Lacie Burkman and 10-yearold Haley Burkman, all of Parkville, Md. Eight-week-old Vadi Griffin was later pronounced dead at St. Vincent Hospital.

As of Wednesday, Beu Burkman, 8, and Danny Griffin Jr. were listed in stable condition and Sidney Griffin, 8, of Redford was in critical condition.

Charlotte Tripp, a friend of the Griffin family, said Danny Griffin was in town to visit his father and daughters with his family from Maryland.

Sidney was removed from a respirator Tuesday, Tripp said, and further treatment is being considered.

"She has blood on her brain and a lacerated liver," Tripp said. "She possibly has a broken foot as well, but they aren't going to do an X-ray until later. The doctors have said all of her injuries are healable."

Both Griffin girls attended Grandview Elementary School, where their mother, Jodie, is a paraprofessional. Tripp said the tight-knit school community is trying to support the family.

The girls had been going back east with their father and his family, Tripp said, to spend a few days before the end of winter break.

Charities report: Need is great, so is generosity

With the needs in some communities greater than last year, officials at area charitable organizations are keeping their fingers crossed as they total the results of holiday fund-raising.

Preliminary numbers appear to be on track, most say.

"I think we're close. God bless the people of the area," said Kelly Boelter, coordinator of the Plymouth Salvation Army's 2007 red kettle campaign.

"We did real well. We did a lot better than what I anticipated," said Hank Cable, chairman of the Garden City Goodfellows. "With the economy, I was a little bit leery.'

The Plymouth Salvation Army, Boelter said, had a fund-raising goal of $205,000. The group had bell-ringers at 19 different sites and, on many days, had all sites covered, she said.

"Yet again, I was blown away by the generosity of the folks in this area," Boelter said.

The Goodfellows — the No Child Without a Christmas people — didn't have a goal in Garden City; they just hope for enough to pay the bills, Cable said. He figures the group raised around $17,000, a little more than last year.

"The people that gave very generously this year," he said.

However, Cable said, requests for help nearly doubled over last year. The Garden City Goodfellows assisted 95 families, with about 225 children among them, this year,

In Livonia, Goodfellows president Bill Heaton estimated the group raised a little more than 100,000 — about the same as last year. "I think we did quite well," Heaton said.

Livonia Goodfellows provided a Christmas for 736 children in 281 families, he said. Children get toys and families get donated, nonperishable food and vouchers to shop for food and clothing. Some families — those that appear to have the greatest needs - were also "adopted" for Christmas, Heaton said.

NEEDS GROW 'ALL THE TIME

"The needs are just tremendous out there, and they're growing all the time," said Marie Morrow, president of the Plymouth Community United Way, which had a $1.3 million goal when it began its annual campaign in August. The campaign continues, she said.

The United Way in Plymouth also worked with local companies, service groups and individuals on holiday food drives, which, Morrow said, proved successful.

"It went very well. People were very helpful," she said.

As in Garden City, the Canton Township Goodfellows don't set a fund-raising goal. "We just pray to be able to fulfil the kids' wishes and get the food," said president Nancy Spencer.

Spencer estimated the group raised about $17,000; she credited the Chamber of Commerce and the business community for their support, and Meijer, Sam's Club and former resident Jamie LaGrow, who won $10,000 at a poker tournament, for sizeable

The Canton Goodfellows assisted 240 households, including 569 children — both records, Spencer said.

The group also works with individuals and groups to "adopt" needy children for the holidays, she said. "Everybody pitched in and it just worked beautifully," she said.

MONEY STILL COMING IN

Requests for assistance from the Westland Goodfellows were up this year, said president Jim Rachwal. Last year, the Goodfellows helped over 225 families with more than 600 children among them, according to the group's Web site.

Rachwal didn't have a fund-raising total for 2007, but said revenues were up thanks to the involvement of Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers, plus fund-raisers by the Westland Jaycees and the Wayne-Ford Civic League.

The Wayne-Westland Salvation Army set a goal of $135,000 for its red kettle campaign and mail solicitations, and Capt. Matt O'Neil thinks that goal will be met.

"We had a lot of good donations in our community," O'Neil said. Money is still coming in and some of the red kettles are still out, he said.

About 650 families sought help from the Wayne-Westland Salvation Army, O'Neil said. That's up about 100 over last year.

SMART General Manager Hayes Jones talks about the future he sees for the regional bus system.

SMART boss has vision, road map for bus system

STAFF WRITER

Hayes Jones wants people to ride the SMART bus system, even if it's not their only option.

Most riders of the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation bus system do so because they do not have a vehicle or they're unable to operate a vehicle due to physical limitations.

"But there are people who have options," said Jones, general manager of SMART. "I want to create an atmosphere where choice riders feel comfortable riding SMART. We want to provide a level of service they're accustomed to."

That service includes prompt, reliable bus schedules throughout the communities serviced by SMART.

"I don't want our citizens to stand at a stop and not know if the bus will arrive and if the bus will be on schedule," he said.

Easy access to bus schedules via the Internet is also a necessity, he said. SMART will unveil a program to make that a reality in 2008 through its www.smartbus. org Web site. Jones said riders should be able to map their bus route via the online schedule.

"It's those kinds of services," he said. "Time is money and we can't afford to have our customers standing at a bus stop wondering when it's going to come and if it's going to come.'

CONTIGUOUS SYSTEM

Jones, who took over as general manager in July, wants to see continuity in the system. Currently, all of Macomb County is serviced, at varying levels, by SMART, because a countywide vote was taken. In Oakland and Wayne counties, however, the "opt-in" vote is taken community by community.

The vote authorizes the county's regional transportation authority to levy a millage for SMART service. Past concerns such as the alleged lack of transparency, communication and responsiveness

An immigrant's story

Urgent Care founder bet his future on a new medical concept

BY KURT KUBAN

It was 10 years ago when Mohammed Arsiwala found himself at the crossroads. The immigrant from India, who had earned his medical degree from Wayne State, was working at Providence Hospital's medical facility in Livonia, when Providence decided to shut the center down for financial reasons

Arsiwala, who was living in Livonia at the time with his wife and a new baby, found himself out of a job. He had to decide what he was going to do, and he had to do it in a hurry. Instead of looking for another job at a hospital, Arsiwala decided to gamble on himself and an idea he had of creating a new type of practice called 'urgent care' kind of a mix between a traditional doctor's office, a clinic and a hospital.

He sold his home to help finance the venture, which he called Livonia Urgent Care. It was, and still is, located in the same building that housed the Providence medical center at 37595 Seven Mile Road.

Although there were some bumps in the road, Arsiwala said it took about two years before the business was a success. He subsequently opened eight other locations, including Western Wayne Urgent Care in Canton, which opened in May, and now has 168

"I lost my job, and decided I wanted to go into practice for myself. We just kind of grew from there," said Arsiwala, who has since moved from Livonia to Northville.

Arsiwala says he has about 80,000 patients at the nine centers, including 27,000 at the Livonia location alone. Business has been so good, Arsiwala is planning on opening 18 more facilities over the next three years in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

"When I started, this model was not there. Now there is a boom of urgent care facilities. That's because it's a good model," Arsiwala said.

Arsiwala describes urgent care as "a step above the doctor's office, and a step below the emergency

The facilities, which employ board certified doctors, offer a wide range of medical services for both children and adults, including diagnosing and treating illnesses and accidents. They also have a full service lab, offer chest pain evaluation with EKG, can treat broken bones, sprained joints, and fix cuts with staples or stitches, as well as offer flu and tetanus vaccinations.

In fact, they do just about everything short of primary care, according to Arsiwala.

"We don't do primary care, so we don't compete with primary care providers. We support them by sending patients to neighboring doctors," Arsiwala said.

The Urgent Care centers are also an inexpensive alternative for people who don't have insurance, a fact of life that is becoming more prevalent in Michigan as people lose jobs. At a couple of the Urgent Care facilities, including the one in Canton, Arsiwala offers a $50 examination for uninsured patients, which includes time with a doctor, X-rays, basic labs, a urine analysis, and EKG test.

Arsiwala said far too many people wait to get medical treatment until they visit the emergency room at area hospitals, which is not good for them or the hospitals.

As Arsiwala looks back at the success of the risk he took, he is happy he bet on himself when he was at those crossroads a decade ago. He calls it his "immigrant

"We're a Michigan-based company, and I'm so proud of it," he said.

The Urgent Care facilities, which accept most insurance providers including HAP and Blue Care Network, are open 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., seven days a week, every day of the year (including holidays). For more information, visit www.michiganurgentcare.com.

Seniors get wired

Westland seniors will have the opportunity to access the Internet from their homes at no cost through a new program being offered at the William P. Faust Public Library.

On Monday, Jan. 7, the library will unveil its program which enables senior residents to obtain free dial-up Internet access through the facility. The connection is made possible through 123. net, a network which provides stable connectivity by way of multiple Internet uplinks.

"This program will serve to lessen the digital divide of those who have access to information and those who do not," said library Director Cheryl Napsha.

In order to take part in the program, residents age 50 and older must visit the library's reference desk to set up an account.

While this program is only open to Westland residents age 50 and older now, all residents will be able to obtain Internet access through this program in April. Call the library at (734) 326 -6123.

Christmas fire hits home

A Canton house was burned by a Christmas Day fire that officials say started on the stove.

Shortly after 2 p.m. Tuesday, a 911 call led firefighters to a home in the 1300 block of Hampshire. When fire crews arrived, they could see light smoke coming from the home.

Wearing protective gear, firefighters entered the home and found the kitchen fully engulfed in flames. They quickly extinguished the fire.

According to fire officials, the fire damage was limited to the kitchen/dining area, with smoke damage throughout the home. Damage is estimated at $60,000 for the structure and $35,000 for the contents.

Officials ruled the fire was acci-

A 58-year-old female, who was able to get out of the home and call 911, was the only occupant at the time of the fire. She was transported by the fire department to St. Mary Mercy Hospital in Livonia for minor smoke inhalation. There were no other reported injuries.

Bond rating lowered

The Garden City Public Schools ongoing budget woes has taken a toll on the district's bond rating.

Standard & Poor's Rating Services revised its outlook for the district's BBB+ issuer credit rating from stable to negative, citing Garden City's "weakened financial position following years of financial imbalances."

The negative rating is based on the district's weak general fund balance reserves and limited financial flexibility, declining enrollment projections and an above-average debt burden, according to S&P.

The school district is in the second year of a three-year deficit reduction plan aimed at erasing a budget deficit projected to be $2.1 million at the end of fiscal 2007-2008. It expects to have a balanced budget by the 2009-2010 budget year.

Purr-fect pets abound at Humane Society

BY JULIE BROWN STAFF WRITER

Once Christmas was over, thoughts turned to pets for a number of western Wayne folks, including Sam Leggat of Redford.

"Looking for two companions of the feline species," he said Thursday at the Michigan Humane Society's Berman Center for Animal Care Adoption Center. He'd had a cat that died in the spring; Leggat had rescued that cat from a co-worker.

"They're fun, they're entertaining," he said while looking at the cats up for adoption. "I've grown up with them."

Leggat has a roommate but no kids, and noted "Dogs are more needy than cats." He does consulting work, and finds cats suit him well. He'd had some work done on his house, and wanted to avoid exposing a pet to dust.

Leggat was in a day earlier and spied a cat that was adopted. "Good for him," he

The Michigan Humane Society got right down to business after Christmas, with the center in Westland open for pet adoptions. It's at 900 N. Newburgh in Westland, at Marquette, and can be reached at (734) 721-7300.

Hours are 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The MHS also operates adoption centers for pets in Rochester Hills and Detroit. The Web site is www.michiganhumane.

There are adoption fees for MHS animals, who arrive at the shelter consistently throughout the year. Animals are spayed or neutered as part of the adoption package.

Forms at the shelter tell people what the animal needs from them, and what current social skills the animal has. The Humane Society offers Pet Education Center classes at Westland and Rochester Hills, as well as off-site locations, for animals with problems like urinating on the carpet.

Fire destroys construction business

STAFF WRITER

Earl Hall said ringing in the new year is supposed to bring "optimism and a fresh approach."

Both will certainly be key for Hall after fire destroyed the building housing his company, E.G.H. Construction, and Van Buren Electric on north Mill Street near Amelia in Plymouth late Tuesday Plymouth Community firefighters were called to the building about 11:30 p.m., and remained on the scene until about 6:30 a.m. Wednesday morning. The fire department was aided by crews from Northville and Northville Township.

"I was surprised to see it this (Wednesday) morning and find the office completely destroyed," said Hall, who noted he was notified of the blaze about an hour after firefighters responded, but decided not to go watch it burn. "It was a sick feeling, it's

The Van Buren Electric and E.G.H Construction company in Plymouth suffered damage in the New Year's fire Tuesday night.

Hall said the fire is more of an inconvenience as his construction company remains in business, and he's already had offers of office space from several people.

"It's mostly an inconvenience of having to deal with relocation and setting up a new office," Hall said.

"Fortunately, no one was hurt in the fire, or any firefighters were injured."

Hall said no cause for the fire has been determined, "but it doesn't look to be anything intentional."

Livonia recently opted out, creating a gap in coverage between West Bloomfield and Farmington Hills, to Detroit Metro Airport, for example.

"There are serious concerns about the situation we're in," said Steve Brock, Farmington Hills city manager, who serves on the Oakland County Transit Authority, formed via Public Act 197 to collect the tax for the SMART service. "What if West Bloomfield opts out — we become a peninsula.

Novi and Canton are not in SMART, so there is a west-toeast disconnect. The opt-in or opt-out structure creates a checker board for SMART routes.

"When you have those misconnections, you don't truly have a regional service," Jones

To change that, Jones said it's up to the municipal leaders and the county commissions in each county to make that change.

"My hope, as general manager, is to share the vision," said Jones, who noted he wants to work with the counties to create a strategic plan. "We need a road map, where we are at and where we want to be.'

HIGH DEMAND

By 2030, the senior population is expected to double, creating a greater need for transportation services, Jones said.

"Our connector program and our community partnership program are growing by leaps and bounds," he said. "But it is very critical that we find a way to expand our services."

Ridership was up in 2007, Jones said, noting about 11 million people used the SMART system.

"This year is the first time in history that our ridership is going through the roof," he said. "We had to cut $2 million from our budget, yet ridership has gone up. High fuel costs are likely prompting people to ride the bus, he added.

"If we continue to grow the way we are growing now, we'll need to find ways to support this growth," Jones said.

SMART receives about 50 percent of its funding from the opt-in communities — via a 0.59-mill tax – and the other half from state and federal sources. The next SMART

A RENAISSANCE MAN

Jones has experience in business management, public service, government, politics, education, entrepreneurship and even the Olympic Games.

Before being hired as general manager of SMART in July, Jones, 69, of Pontiac, was director of Economic Development and Community Affairs for Oakland County, where he focused on business retention and expansion. He was also senior adviser for Automation Alley, where he organized global trade missions for small- to mediumsized businesses.

Prior to working for American Airlines and Pro Air for a combined total of 20 years, Jones was a school teacher at Denby High School in Detroit. He took a leave of absence when he was appointed to the Youth Empowerment Project by Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanaugh.

He accepted an appointment in 1968 from New York Mayor John V. Lindsay to be the city's first recreation director.

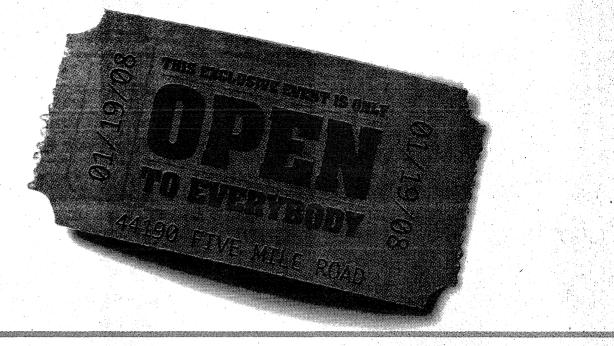

His experience also includes owning J&J Airport Services, a baggage service operation.

The political bug bit him in November 2006, when he ran for an unexpired term in the Michigan House of Representatives representing Pontiac and Auburn Hills. He lost the following election to the two-year term by 84 votes.

Jones is also an Olympic champion. He brought home a gold medal from the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo in the 110meter hurdles. Four years earlier, he competed in the 1960 Olympics in Rome and brought home a bronze medal in the same event.

Jones is married to Rhonda and they have two children and three grandchildren.

OUR VIEWS

BILL BRESLER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Every community is targeting new businesses and retaining businesses. An example of redevelopment is the collection of new shops at Wonderland Village, on Plymouth and Middlebelt.

New year will require plenty of resolve ften a time of optimism and resolutions, this new year begins with our state facing an economic recession pushed by the loss of jobs and mortgage foreclosures. Forecasters see more doom and gloom in 2008. Those of us with jobs and homes must increasingly realize our role in helping sustain our area's economy.

Whether it's visiting local restaurants from Livonia to Canton, shopping in downtown Plymouth or Westland, or even hiring a service company from Redford or Garden City, it's as important as ever to choose wisely the places we spend our precious dollars. Look at businesses that you'd want to keep around and choose those that invest in our community by who they hire, how well they serve, and what kind of corporate citizenship they display.

Livonia begins the new year with a new, though familiar, group of city leaders facing major challenges, mostly wrought by the difficult economy. We wish Mayor Jack Kirksey, City Council President Laura Toy, Clerk Linda Grimsby and Treasurer Dennis Wright success in trying to continue to provide Livonia with top-notch services and public safety protection amid the dwindling funding sources. Finding ways to retain and attract new businesses will be the key to the town's future.

We hope a new year brings a speedy resolution to the whistleblower lawsuit brought by a former controller against Livonia Public Schools and two top administrators. This is a serious allegation and the district says it's unfounded. A court decision on the issue should clear the air, one way or the other.

In Canton, township officials should continue to court retail and other businesses to move in along the Michigan Avenue corridor, which has seen a remarkable transformation in recent years and may someday rival Ford Road as the town's main thoroughfare. Ditto for Cherry Hill Village, which is finally starting to gain an identity for itself with new stores and some nightlife.

Let's hope the Plymouth-Canton Schools Board of Education can find a suitable replacement for popular Supt. Jim Ryan, who is retiring at the end of February. The new superintendent is going to have to deal with some big challenges, mainly cutting costs while trying to maintain small classroom sizes. Whoever gets the job, he or she will have some big shoes to fill and have to deal with huge expectations.

Political candidates in Plymouth and Canton townships should resolve to keep it clean. All the board seats in both towns are up for grabs this year. We're hoping the incumbents who get into the race, and their potential challengers, campaign on issues and keep personalities

The City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township need to resolve to settle the whole fire department issue. Individuals in both governmental bodies have said they believe a joint operation is the best option for both communities; however, when they sit down to negotiate, that thought seems to go out the window. Get it settled.

Garden City officials should continue to make local water and sewer improvements, while working within a five-year funding plan to remain solvent and avoid big rate increases.

Another big challenge for Farden City officials is to tinue trying to attract new businesses to town, while encouraging existing business owners to keep their locations looking attractive.

Redford Union Schools are staring down a dismal financial future, with the projected increase in the district's budget deficit. Given all the cuts needed to trim the deficit so far and knowing there's so much further to go, we urge district officials the fortitude to face this new challenge in ways that least impact the classroom.

As Redford Township faces an election year for township offices and state offices, we have an early message for all candidates: Let's keep it clean, stick to the issues, and not focus on tearing down the opposition. People want to know what you can do or have done, not how badly you can smear the other side. And please, no hiding behind outside groups to actually sling the mud.

Westland officials should continue pushing to clean up the contamination at Central City Park, which is the crown jewel of city's park system. They should work with the state and county to get this resolved as soon as possible, so residents can once again enjoy the park.

Westland officials should also make it a priority to try and lure new businesses to the city, particularly to fill the vacancies near Westland Shopping Center.

Bills are flawed

Regarding HR 1955 and S 1959, both versions of this bill are too flawed to consider making them law as they are written. I am sick to death of hearing President Bush state that he needs to be able to spy on Americans to protect and keep them safe from terrorism. This has already gone on too long and is too far reaching to be acceptable by the American people.

Please let this type of activity revert back to being covered under the current FISA laws and protect the American people from the unnecessary loss of privacy they have already been experiencing since early 2001, when George W. Bush first took office.

All we need is the government now deciding that we are guilty of crimes not committed, based on faulty information from eavesdropping on conversations or misinterpreting anything written in emails or blogs on the Internet.

Seek information on candidates

We, at least some of us, will go on the 15th of January to the polls to cast our ballots. It will be for presidential candidates most likely chosen for us, promoted, and given the most exposure by those who control the mainstream news media and public opinion polling.

From past experiences, we can infer that the candidates who are the media's choices, when elected are likely to cater to the interests favored by those who are in control of the media that had been instrumental in their election, not necessarily to the best interest of the country. The voting public is hardly aware of the existence of other, truly worthy candidates who are largely ignored and often unjustly and purposively, it seems, detracted by the media. That is perhaps the reason why there is a dearth among hopefuls of good, capable, truly deserving persons willing to offer themselves as presidential candidates. Those of them who do, facing such formidable antagonists, likely stand not much of a chance of being elected.

Obvious promotion of a particular presidential candidate by controlled news media may be an indication to many of us that the candidate is perhaps not good to be our president. On the other hand, undeserved detracting from and largely ignoring of a candidate or candidates by the media may be a sign to us that he, she, or they are most likely to have desirable attributes, are worthy of being elected to the office of the president, and will do good for this country. The voting public, in order to make wise choices, should seek information about candidates from impartial, independent sources.

Paul: An honest politician

So-called "free trade" deals like NAFTA and CAFTA were supposed to bring millions of new jobs to the United States — so said former President Clinton. The residents of Michigan know the truth, though. They can see the devastation by looking around them.

Unfortunately, the leadership of both major political parties support these trade compacts and none question our membership to international governing bodies such as the World Trade Organization, the International Monetary Fund and World Bank, and the United Nations — all of which are a direct threat to our national independence and sovereignty.

But there is only one candidate who actually has a bona fide, pro-American voting track record. His name is Dr. Ron Paul. Dr. Paul understands that NAFTA, CAFTA, and the WTO are not about "free trade," but instead, about the redistribution of wealth from industrialized nations like the U.S., to the Third World. Meanwhile, the bankers profit and Michigan suffers.

During his nearly 20 (nonconsecutive) years in Washington, Dr. Ron Paul has never voted to raise taxes. He has never voted for an unbalanced budget. And he's never voted for a congressional pay raise - he even returns a portion of his salary every year to the Treasury. Ron Paul has been given the nickname "Dr. No" for his steadfast adherence to the Constitution - if a bill is unconstitutional, he simply will not vote for it, even if the resulting tally is Michigan voters have a unique opportunity to send a strong message in support of an unconventional politician: An honest one. That man is Dr. Ron Paul. Please vote for him Jan. 15.

Reject socialized medicine

The lineup on the Socialist side, oops, the Democrat side is Clinton, Obama, Edwards, Kucinich, and Biden. Pick one, get the second free.

None of the above carries a card, but their socialist inclinations are sure. Socialized medicine, sometimes euphemistically called universal health care is their bag. No debates need to take place on the left. They all seek to bring our economy to its knees.

Given the election of one of the socialists, how far behind will nationalization for the top ten industries be.

No need to scoff. England not too many years ago tried the socialization or nationalization of the 10 major industries, fell into decline, thousands hungry, thousands out of work, wages at a low ebb. Margaret Thatcher reversed the nationalization when she became prime minister, placing the socialized businesses in private hands once

A healthy economic system developed soon after. People were working and eating. Once again, socialism proved inefficient. It doesn't have to happen here

Why are taxes going up?

I happen to be a senior citizen. I've lived in the same home since I built it in 1966.

 $My\,2007\,homestead\,property\,taxes\,have$ increased by about 2.5 percent over the last year. The taxable value, according to the city of Farmington Hills, has increased over last year about 3.6 percent. However, the actual value of my home has decreased from that of 2006. In short, I have to pay more even though my property is worth

I guess it has something to do with Proposal A.

Question: Is the state of Michigan or the city of Farmington Hills going to lower my assessment for 2008 to bring it in line with what it should be? Were all Proposal A homeowners in Michigan affected the same way? Don't hand me a explanation. Just tell the truth.

Real reform needed

Expanding term limits completely misses the point. We need real election reform and that means it is imperative that we adapt public financed elections!

Let's get lobbyists out of this "game" of politics all together. It is time we ended the corporate purchase of elections/politicians. On the national level that means per person we would spend only $6 a year to publicly fund each and every election for the House, the Senate and the White House. Compare this to the pork barrel projects that cost Americans over $200 a year per person (check www.just6dollars.org for more info).

It's not only practical but far more fiscally responsible to have the public fund elections (politicians can still collect small donations from supporters).

Yes, decreasing term limits will lead to more experienced congressmen. But look where that's gotten us — on a death track in Iraq! We don't need "experience" if it's going to blow our country straight to hell. We need fresh faces and open access for everyday folks to be able to run for office. Expanding term limits is a joke. If we want representatives who actually represent us (and not the lobbyists and corporate powers that be) then we need to publicly fund elections. Let's start thinking about some real electoral reforms here.

Iran report unconvincing

The new U.S. intelligence report makes U.S. intelligence look like an oxymoron. If Iran isn't working towards nuclear weapons, why does it continue to violate international laws and hide its program from nuclear inspectors? Why would

Iranian leaders risk more economic sanctions if they don't have a weapons program? Wouldn't they allow International Atomic Energy Agency inspectors to fully access their sites if they weren't pursuing nuclear weapons? Iran claims to have 3,000 working centrifuges. If they continue to operate successfully they will create enough fuel for a nuclear weapon in a year. Why, given that the president of Iran has said he wants to dominate the world, would we think Iran's nuclear program is only for peaceful pur-Iran has been identified as the world's leading state sponsor of international terrorism, funding Hezbollah, Islamic Jihad and Hamas, as well as Shiite insurgent groups. Iran is even recruiting its youth and students across the Middle East for suicide operations against Western targets.

Religious extremism, particularly Islamic fundamentalism, is one of the key dangers in the world today. The Iranian president is a religious extremist who believes that it is his destiny to trigger a period of chaos, war and bloodshed in order for Islam to dominate the world.

Nuclear proliferation is one of the greatest dangers to world peace. We must act to stop Iran before it can develop nuclear technology, because the Iranian president has said that he would share nuclear technology with like-minded Muslim countries.

The new NIE report is ambiguous, contradictory, and hardly reassuring, but it clearly states that the time line for making a nuclear bomb has not changed.

Most Western countries continue to offer strong support for using economic diplomacy with Iran, led by French President Nicolas Sarkozy and U.K. Prime Minister Gordon Brown.

The president of Iran believes he is creating an Islamic "superpower," which will bring down the West, including the United States. He says that he will have hundreds of millions of Muslim "holy raiders" eager to become martyrs. The Iranian president calls the Holocaust a "myth" and frequently calls for the destruction of Israel.

If we do not act, we run the risk of placating an extremist and making the same mistake we made with Hitler, which led to World War II and the deaths of millions.

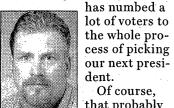

We must act now, using more economic diplomacy and greater economic pressure, to help prevent a war.

Two-party political system has stranglehold on our democracy inally! Iowa voters will go to the polls today, in what, thankfully, marks the beginning of the end of an incessantly long presidential primary campaign.

I don't know about everyone else, but for me this primary season has gone on far too long - so long that it our next president. Of course, that probably doesn't bother the leadership of either the or Democratic parties. It is clear they aren't really interested in getting more voters involved in the process.

Case in point, look at the sad situation we face here in Michigan. The national leadership of both parties decided to essentially void our primary votes, because we - gasp - chose to hold our primary at an earlier date than they thought we should.

Whether you agree with it or not, the leaders in the Michigan Democratic and Republican parties decided to move our primary up and hold it before the Iowa Caucus and New Hampshire Primary, which are the traditional forerunners of the primary season. Their logic was to make sure Michigan had more of an influence on who the nominees would ultimately be. If we went first, the nation would take notice of the results, and force the candidates to address the state's economic struggles and other Michigan-specific issues. The response of the national parties was swift and pretty brutal, even though Iowa and New Hampshire moved their dates up. The Democrats have stripped Michigan of its 156 delegates for this year's national convention, and the Republican Party will only count half of the state's delegates.

(Florida was hit with a similar penalty for scheduling it's Jan. 29 primary.)

So when Michigan voters, at least some of us, head to the polls on Jan. 15, it will really be a fruitless endeavor. Heck, there will only be four Democrats (Hillary Clinton, Sen. Chris Dodd of Connecticut, Rep. Dennis Kucinich of Ohio and former Alaska Sen. Mike Gravel) on the ballot, because all the other candidates decided it was best to go along with the party rules than to let Michigan voters have their say. Democrat candidate Joe Biden's campaign even referred to the Michigan primary as a "beauty contest."

Biden was partially right. The whole election process in this country has become a beauty contest - thanks to the Republicans and Democrats.

Just look at this primary campaign. How many times do we have to see the candidates answer the same questions? Of course, their answers change as pollsters tell them what they think the American public thought about their previous answers.

The two parties have essentially said to voters, abide by our rules or go somewhere else. Of course they have set up a system where there is nowhere else to go. They have essentially locked out any independent or third party candidates from the process. They don't allow third party candidates in any of their debates, and it is much more difficult to even get on the ballot for independents.

The question I have is how long will we as Americans watch the Republicans and Democrats flush our democracy down the toilet?

If they think the American people are happy with this system, they are mistaken. Look at voter turnout. In the 2004 presidential election. 64 percent of eligible voters decided to go to the polls. While that might seem fairly abysmal considering democracies like Australia and Malta (yes Malta) typically have a turnout of 90 percent or higher, it was actually the largest turnout we've had since 1968.

And in off-presidential elections, turnout it usually in the mid to high 30s. It is clear there is a growing disconnect between our electorate and our political system.

And just what have the Dems and Republicans done after the campaign is over? Their fervent partisanship has created a dysfunctional government that appeals to the far left and far right, while middle America is left in the dust wondering what happened to their government. And it's not just at the federal level. We in Michigan have had a front row view of the ugliness of Democrat/ Republican partisanship.

I know, I know. People have told me time and again, a third party will never work, that our problems must be solved in the two-party system we have now. But there is something seriously wrong with our democracy, and our twoparty system (or at least the two parties in it) is the main problem.

Our founding fathers never said anything about having to be a Republican or Democrat to get elected in this country. Yet, we are in a trap we don't seem to know how to get out of.

Think about that when you waste your gas and time to vote on Jan. 15. What a sad situation. Democracy indeed.

Here's hoping 2008 brings political results, not rhetoric romises, promises.

It's New Year resolutions time again. You know, those promises you make to yourself that are often forgotten or not acted upon until it is time for the following year's resolutions. According to Wikipedia, "a New Year's resolution is a commitment that an individual makes to a project or habit, often a lifestyle change, that is generally interpreted as advantageous."

Tom Watkins

During a recent presidential debate, the moderator asked the Democratic candidates to tell the audience their New Year resolutions. Predictably, we heard more campaign rhetoric from most of them. Gov. Bill Richardson got the laugh line of the evening when he said, "I am going to lose weight - again, this year!" As Wikipedia indicates,

"many resolutions go unachieved and are often broken fairly shortly after they are set." Here are some promises or resolutions that I hope defy the odds and are not only made for 2008, but are implemented.

■ The governor will call for a "shared vision and common agenda" conference. This meeting will consist of the diverse interests that comprise our state, including Republicans and Democrats; business, labor and academia; nonprofits and those struggling to make a profit; city, suburbs and rural from Saugatuck to St. Clair and from Monroe to Menominee. The Henry Ford should be used as the conference setting, using the backdrop of Henry Ford, Edison, Firestone and other innovative entrepreneurs as inspiration for us to build a new Michigan. We need leadership that has us rowing in the same direction if we expect to move forward in the future.

Are their political risks of such a gathering? Of course. But the risks to all of us by not coming together and taking action are

■ The rhetoric in our state capitol about reforming and restructuring government will be more than lip service and real change will be acted upon. This will mean putting the needs of citizens, the people that pay the taxes, above the special interests that are well-represented in Lansing. The structure and overhead of our governments at the state and local levels exist as if nothing has changed when the contrary, that everything has changed, is true.

■ The statement that "I will go anywhere and do anything" to brings jobs to Michigan will include China, Russia and India, countries with more than three billion new capitalists/consumers with the fastest-growing, largest economies in the world. Here we are at the beginning of the eighth year of the 21st century and no statewide elected official has traveled to these countries to "bring home the bacon" for Michigan. With an unemployment rate of nearly 8 percent and good-paying jobs fleeing our state, a job reconnaissance mission seems in order.

■ Budgets are statements of priorities. Politicians on both sides of the political aisle make the claim that education is the most important investment our state can make to help prepare our people for the transformational, technologically-driven, global, knowledge economy. Yet funding for education at all levels has been cut and increases have not kept pace with rising costs for several years in a row. Voters need to hold our elected leaders accountable. Don't just "read their lips" when it comes to educational funding — "watch their hips." The bulk of all new resources invested in our schools goes to pensions and health care for employees. Actions do speak louder than words and the actions have not caught up to the rhetoric when it truly comes to funding education.

■ Efforts that have been made to diversify our state's economy will continue and intensify. Tapping life sciences, alternative energy, homeland security and other 21st century knowledge-economy jobs like Google and E-Prize hold promise for Michigan. The University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University together with our other wonderful universities, can and should be utilized to help jump-start new, creative, innovative and entrepreneurial ventures.

Our system of community colleges will be recognized for the value they add to help prepare our traditional and nontraditional students for this fast-paced, ever-changing world economy. A summit should be held with the leaders of the 28 community colleges, from the western edge of the U.P. to Monroe, to stimulate their thinking on ways their talents can be better utilized.

Change is the most talked about and least acted upon concept in Michigan today. As a new year begins, we have the opportunity to embrace and lead change. Will we allow another year to pass without making commitments with the corresponding action for real change?

Resolutions, rhetoric or results — which will prevail in 2008?

HOLIDAY HOOPS EXTRAHAGANZA

Ladywood blazes to Loy Norrix title

Brad Emons, editor . (734) 953-2123 . bemons@hometownlife.com

BY ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER

While millions of Americans were taking down trees last week, members of the Livonia Ladywood basketball team were firing up threes.

And when it mattered most the Blazers found the bottom of the net with their long-range bombs en route to taking first-place honors at the talent-rich Kalamazoo Loy Norrix Holiday Hoops Tournament.

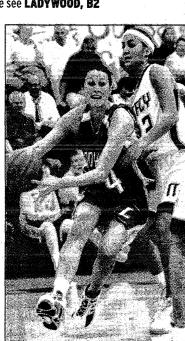

Ladywood hung on to knock off previously unbeaten and state-ranked Benton Harbor, 54-47, in Friday's semifinal contest before slipping past the host Knights, 59-54, in Saturday's title game.

The two-day effort gave Ladywood a 6-2 record, an impressive trophy and a dose of invaluable confidence heading into Friday's home game against Regina.

"Going into the tournament, we knew that no matter who we played, we'd get two good games in," said Ladywood coach Andrea Gorski. "Benton Harbor was a much bigger team than we were — they had two 6-foot-2 forwards — and Loy Norrix was quicker than us, but we made some big three-point shots and played out-

Community's pressure cooks Salem, 52-33

BY ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER

When faced with the best Michigan has to offer Friday night, Salem's girls basketball team fared rather well.

At least in the first half.

Visiting Detroit Community, which is regarded as one of the state's elite teams regardless of class, ran its record to 10-0 with a 52-33 decision over the Rocks, who trailed just 25-17 at the half.

"They're a very, very good team — probably the quickest team we'll play this year," said Salem coach Fred Thomann.

The setback dropped Salem to 5-2 heading into Friday night's Western Lakes Activities Association contest at Walled Lake Central. The opening tip is set for 7 p.m.

Salem only led briefly in the game's opening minutes, but the Rocks played toe-to-toe with the Hurricanes throughout most of the first half. Community, which routinely blows teams out with its high-intensity defense and well-orchestrated offensive scheme, led just 21-17 with 55 seconds left in the first quarter after Salem's Victoria Brotz swished a long triple.

However, the Hurricanes countered with a 25-8 run that left Salem looking up at what proved to be an insurmountable 46-25 deficit.

Nya Jordan was the Hurricanes' MVP on Friday as she consistently earned inside position on the Rocks' post players, received the ball deep in the lane then converted several short spin-and-bank layups for 19 points. Jordan also hauled down a team-high 10 rebounds — four on the offensive end

Hollowell leads Chiefs over Chieftains in OT

BY ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER

Baylee Hollowell had 20/20 vision Friday night - and as a result the Canton girls basketball team's three-game losing streak is out of sight.

Hollowell turned in a performance that was reminiscent of Canton all-time scoring leader Katie Cezat (Class of '04) when she overmatched visiting Okemos with 23 points and 20 rebounds to lead the Chiefs to a 39-34 overtime triumph in the Phase III gymnasium.

The victory — Canton's first since in almost three weeks - improved the Chiefs' record to 2-6. Okemos slipped to 4-4.

"It's always nice to get a win," said Canton coach Brian Samulski. "This one's big because it should give us some momentum heading into our (WLAA) divisional play on Friday (at home against Wayne Memorial).

"Okemos made a couple of runs, but the kids hung in there and kept battling. They showed a lot of confidence and poise.'

Sisters Marie and Kaylie Martin also turned in strong efforts for the winners as they both notched six points. Marie Martin added five rebounds as did freshman guard Mel Pickert, who also "did a nice job of running the offense," according to Samulski.

Canton surged to an 8-4 lead after one quarter and 21-16 halftime lead.

The Chieftains' Nicole Schero sent the game into overtime when she grabbed a rebound off a Hollowell blocked shot and deposited the ball into the basket as the buzzer sounded.

Kaylie Martin and Marie Martin converted hoops early in the extra session to put the Chiefs up, 35-31. Hollowell then sealed the win by sinking 4-of-5 free throws in the overtime.

Tracey Nogle paced Okemos with 18 points.

Canton was 7-of-11 from the free throw line while Okemos buried 6-of-12 from the stripe.

"I was pleased with our defense, holding a good team like Okemos to 34 points in overtime," said Samulski. "Actually, our defense has been sound all year. Now we just have to start picking it up on the offensive end."

standing defense.

"We had a couple kids who were injured and didn't even play, but some other players stepped up and played well in their place."

The Blazers set the tone for the weekend in the first half against Benton Harbor when they buried five triples. Alison Szczypka, who finished with a game-high 19, accounted for two of the threes while Mary Fitzgerald also swished a pair.

Thanks in large part to the red-hot perimeter shooting, the Blazer's raced to a 17-5 firstquarter lead and 31-15 halftime advantage.

The Tigers, who were ranked in the top five teams in Class A prior to the game, roared back to cut their deficit to 40-32 after three quarters, but Ladywood hung on for the big Fitzgerald finished with 12 points for the winners. Bethany Williams led the Tigers with 18.

Ladywood hit 7-of-10 free throws while Benton Harbor connected on 16-of-25 from the stripe.

"They started to go to the basket more in the second half and, as a result, they went to the line 18 times in the second half alone," Gorski said. "They're one of the top five teams in Class A, so that was a nice win for us.'

Ladywood's Alex Serowoky was the catalyst of the titlegame victory as she poured in a game-high 20 points. Szczypka contributed 18 while Fitzgerald added 10 to the winners' cause.

Barbara Johnson led the Knights with 17 points.

The game was knotted at 14all and 28-all after the first and second quarters, respectively. Ladywood grabbed the upperhand by outscoring Loy Norrix 18-10 in the third quarter before holding on.

"We hit three threes in the third quarter to kind of break it open a little bit," said Gorski.

led a strong Community back court with 13 and eight points, respectively. The duo's defensive quickness also was instrumental in throwing the Rocks out of their offensive rhythm, especially in the second half. Senior guard Alaya Mitchell was the lone Rock to hit for double figures with 10. Mitchell also added four steals on the defensive end. Sophomore guard Sara Stone added eight points and a team-high six points for Salem while junior forward Chelsea Davis chipped in with seven points. Brotz contributed five points and a pair of boards.

Salem's starting five — Mitchell, Davis, Stone, Brotz and Brett deBear — stayed on the floor throughout most of the opening three quarters until reserve Rachel Norman was inserted into the game with just over two minutes left in the third.

Franklin cagers drop pair at L'Anse Creuse tourney

The Livonia Franklin boys basketball team may not have unwrapped any victories at last week's L'Anse Creuse Holiday Tournament, but the Patriots received a ton of valuable experience against top-notch com-

Franklin dropped both of its game — 72-54 to South Lake on Thursday and 85-76 to Port Huron on Friday — to drop to 2-4 heading into Friday's WLAA Western Division contest against Walled Lake Western.

"These were our first real non-league games (the Patriots' previous opponents included WLAA foes Livonia Stevenson, Livonia Churchill and Plymouth), so it was nice to play some different teams in a tournament-type atmosphere,' said Franklin coach Jeremy Rheault.

The Patriots were hampered by shoddy free throw shooting in the loss to South Lake as they canned just half of their 30 attempts. Senior guard Ryan Matthey turned in a stel-

Jones led the winners with 21. South Lake led 16-11 after one quarter, 35-21 at the half and 57-35 with eight minutes to play.

"We didn't shoot well from the line and we had too many turnovers," Rheault said assessing his team's openinggame performance. "We came out a little flat like a lot of teams do when they play in the holiday tournaments. We dug ourselves into a deep hole that we couldn't dig out of."

The Patriots' offense was hitting on all cylinders against Port Huron, but they couldn't slow the talented Big Reds.

Three Franklin players excelled on the offensive end: Matthey, who tallied 23; and Poole and senior forward Israel Woolfork, who both twined

20. Chris Cotton (26) and Sam Seppo (24) paced the winners.

Port Huron led a tight game from the get-go, extending a 22-18 first-quarter lead to 40-35 at the half and 59-56 after three stanzas.

"We played much better on Friday than we did on Thursday," said Rheault. "We were down 12 at one point in the first half, but battled back to take a one-point lead in the third quarter. Turnovers cost us tonight. To their credit, they played good defense and we didn't finish."

Matthey and Woolfork both earned spots on the All-Tournament team.

"Ryan was extremely aggressive in both games," said Rheault. "He made some very good decisions against Port Huron's zone and against South Lake he was able to get to the rim.

"Israel played outstanding defense in both games. He made some incredible blocks and he hit his open looks on offense."

Senior guard Keshawn Martin paced the Rockets with 16 points. Earl Hardison chipped in with 11 while senior guard Stefan Marken added six.

Paul Williams led Renaissance with 18 points.

The Tars let from the outset as they outscored John Glenn 11-7 after one quarter and 31-18 at the half. John Glenn cut their deficit slightly to 42-31 with eight minutes to play, but couldn't close the gap.

The Tars were near-perfect at the free throw line, canning 11-of-12. The Rockets hit 6-of-11 from the stripe.

The Monarchs captured the Community Education Basketball League's girls 'A' tournament earlier this month, defeating the Storm, 38-35, in the title game at East Middle School. At one point, the eventual champs trailed 20-4 before battling back to post the dramatic win. Bowling Congress slates annual meeting Jan. 13 he Metro Detroit U.S. Bowling Congress announced that its annual meeting will start at 6 p.m.

Sunday, Jan 13, at Sunnybrook Lanes in Sterling Heights.

The meeting will include progress reports from

Ten Pin Alley the past year and elections of president, five Al Harrison adult members of the board, youth committee members and delegates to the United States Bowling Congress convention in May and state delegates to the respective state meetings. Two amendments to the MDUSBC bylaws will also be decided upon. All members of the MDUSBC are eligible and are invited to attend the meeting. Most of us just pay our annual dues and give in no further thought.

Perhaps there are things going on during the season that you wonder about but don't bother to follow up on or even ask questions.

This is your meeting, It is of the bowlers, by the bowlers and for the bowlers. each league should be represented and it does not necessarily have to be a league officer. The Metro Detroit USBC Association is the single largest of all local USBC organizations anywhere in the United States and along with the large membership, they can have a positive influence on the rest of our bowling population. This meeting is well worth the time and the short trip to Sunnybrook Lanes, it may very well enhance your bowling experience by knowing what goes on beyond the lanes.

I have often tried to remind bowlers to bring in the balls from the car in colder weather. The freezing temperatures may ruin any bowling ball. I now have another reason to not leave it in the car at anytime. This is from personal experience as my own vehicle was stolen a couple weeks ago, but they did not get my bowling stuff as it was safely in the house. The Dodge Caravan was recovered quickly by Detective Sgt. Crittenden of the Redford Police.

The high school varsity bowling season is well underway. Reports are starting to roll in now and one particular standout was the performance of Jennifer Maples of North Farmington High. She bowled a 299 game, starting with eleven consecutive strikes and leaving just a single pin on her attempt for the twelfth strike. On the boys team, freshman phenom Ryan Turner is turning heads. Now bowling on the varsity team, Ryan destroyed an opponent recently with a 247 game, and he's only thirteen years old.

The 2nd Annual Metro Detroit USBC Queens Tournament was held a couple weeks ago at Beech Lanes in Redford. Many of the gals from O&E cities fared well, led by Jenny Long of Livonia, qualifying 14th with 846 total pins; Kim Cox of Southfield qualified 16th, 816 total; Anuca Felton of Canton, 19th with an 807; Betty Trimper of Redford, 26th with a 787; Kendra Hopson, 30th, 779; Angela Wilt of Westland, 33rd with 769; Julie Halstead of Redford, 38th, 756; Erica Sharp of Redford, 43rd; Aleta Humphrey 52nd, 698; and Kathleen Bishop of Westland, 688.

Dunn, who was seeded No. 2 heading into the event, ousted No. 1 seed Dan Flowers of Dexter in the finals.

It may be a new season, but the forecast is a familiar one for the area's gymnastics teams: bright and sunny.

Canton lost several key performers — most notably All-Stater Alyssa Kelley — to graduation, but its shelves have been restocked with an array of talented freshmen.

Meanwhile, Salem should be much improved this season as nearly all of its key competitors return from last year's squad that barely missed qualifying for the state meet.

Following is a look at the upcoming season on the bars, vault, floor and uneven bars for the Chiefs and Rocks.

CANTON

The Chiefs graduated one of the school's best all-time senior classes — one that included Kelley, Kaitlyn Burns, Kate Staley, Courtney Ward and ${\it Chelsea~Selden-but~veteran}$ coach John Cunningham is nonetheless optimistic heading into the 2007-08 campaign.

"This could be a very good team potentially," said Cunningham, whose teams have three top-seven finishes in the state meet the past three seasons. "I've been very pleased with how well the girls have performed at our first two meets. We have good depth at all levels.

"There are five very good teams in our region, so the girls are going to have to perform well to make it back to the state meet. Salem has everybody back, so they're loaded, the two Livonia schools are always good and Northville has a lot of girls back. We'll have to beat at least one of them to get back to the state meet."

The Chiefs will be led by senior captain Jessie Murray, who has been a solid performer her first three years at Canton.

Key juniors include Olivia Stephens, Sam O'Flynn, Amber Smith and Kate Carroll.

The Chiefs' top sophomore is returning letter winner Mallory Hudak, who Cunningham predicts could be a 36-point all-around as the year progresses.

Among the most-promising newcomers are freshmen Robyn Piwowar, Cathy Huang, and Kali Pierce.

SALEM

The Rocks return four individual state qualifiers from last year's squad that barely missed qualifying for the state meet.

"We're looking good so far," said Salem coach Dana Driscoll. "We only lost one girl (Sarah Bugosh) to graduation and we added some good freshmen. The girls are working

The Rocks will be led by three senior captains: Brittany Young, Autumn Collins and Katerina Kariotis.

"Brittany is a good, allaround gymnast, but her best events are probably the beam and the bars," said Driscoll. "Autumn is another strong allarounder whose best events are the vault and the beam.

"Katerina has really improved her skills over the past four years. She's really worked hard over the summer."

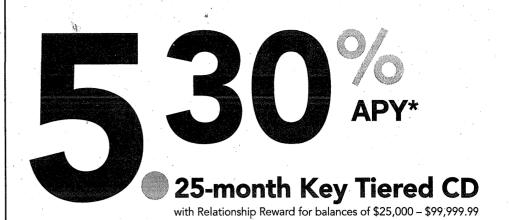

The Rocks' best junior is two-time state qualifier Katie Koetting, who is also a topnotch diver for the school's swimming and diving team.

"Katie will probably be our highest scorer in most meets,' said Driscoll. "She's very good in all four events, but the floor is probably her best and favorite event.

Jennifer Rice and Katherine Negele are also promising

Sophomore Kasey Wizchowski is a fast-rising all-arounder, according to Driscoll.

Food world will focus on safety, sex appeal in '08

Americans are getting increasingly intimate with their food, and 2008 likely will see the relationship deepen.

That's because two forces — the proliferation of foodie culture and its obsessive desire for provenance, and growing worries over food safety — have combined to create a whirlwind of information about food and drink.

American Heart Association's "Face the Fats" campaign.

s you make your New Year's resolutions this year, consider banishing bad fat from your diet. There's only one way to avoid the dreaded trans fats: take the matter into your own hands.

Both trans and saturated fats raise LDL ("bad") cholesterol levels and are linked to clogged arteries which increase the risk of heart disease and stroke, according to the American Heart Association. Trans fat is a type of fat formed when hydrogen is injected into liquid oils and made into a solid fat - like shortening or hard margarine. Food processors and manufacturers use it to extend shelf-life and some say give foods desirable

Food Network star Alton Brown, host of Iron Chef America and Feasting On Asphalt, is spokesperson for the taste, shape and texture. But, without trans fats, foods taste good. Oreo, for example, removed trans fat from its cookies and studies show the taste didn't

So, you study nutritional labels for the words "zero trans fat" and think you're safe, right?

Wrong. If the label says "zero trans fat," don't automatically believe it. If it contains the words "partially hydrogenated" or "shortening," then it has trans fat.

Here's why: According to regulations by The U.S. Food and Drug Administration, if "the serving contains less than 0.5 grams of trans fat, the labels shall express it as zero."

"Suppose a product contains 0.4 grams per serving and you eat four servings (which is not uncommon). You have just consumed 1.6 grams of trans fat, despite the fact that the package claims the product contains zero grams of trans fat per serving," says the public watchdog group www.ban-transfats.com. "Changing this rule is a high priority.

We are working on it." "Trans fat has received a lot of well-deserved scrutiny - at the same time, while it's critical that we continue to push aggressively to minimize its consumption, trans fat is just one part of the 'big fat picture,'" said Robert H. Eckel, M.D., AHA chair of Peanut butter powder?

Powdered peanut butter sounds like something only a person hiking the Appalachian Trail could love.

But PB2, as the new product from Tifton, Ga.-based Bell Plantation is called, isn't aimed just at the hiking set, and has real potential to win over the rest of us.

PB2 is an ultrafine powder made by roasting and pressing peanuts, a process that removes much of the fat found in traditional peanut butter. While you can simply reconstitute PB2 with water, this isn't where the product shines.

Instead, PB2 is perfect for tossing with warm oil or broth and hot noodles for a nearinstant peanut sauce. It also can be used in baked goods, giving the luscious flavor of peanut to recipes such as banana bread and sugar cookies.

If you do want to use it on a sandwich, take the label's advice and reconstitute it directly with the jam.

NEW TASTES: PB2 by Bell Plantation is available at www. bellplantation.com for \$11.96 for four $6\frac{1}{2}$ -ounce jars.

For anyone accustomed to Windows XP (or an earlier version of Windows), Vista can seem quite foreign. Let's look at some ways to fix, enhance, and embrace the new operating system.

MOVE YOUR STUFF The real challenge in adopting a new PC is moving all your stuff programs, data, settings, and the like — from the old PC.

Vista comes with a utility called Windows Easy Transfer that promises to help with the move, though it doesn't migrate programs, just settings, contacts, e-mails and other data.

Try to replace trans fat-laden partially hydrogenated vegetable oils with oils high in unsaturated $fats-monouns aturated \ and \ polyuns aturated$ as stated in today's Circulation: Journal of the American Heart Association.

Here's what you should know:

■ Fully hydrogenated oils do not contain trans

■ Be careful when consuming products with labels from outside the United States. Sometimes they contain partially hydrogenated oil but it's not on the label, according to Bantransfats.com.

■ In restaurants ask whether partially hydrogenated oil is used for frying, baking or in salad dressings. If they use vegetable oil, ask whether it is partially hydrogenated. Don't be shy.

unnecessary features, like the Windows Sidebar and Windows Aero. (Not sure how? A little Google searching will produce simple instructions.) You won't miss either Finally, turn off Vista's incredibly annoying User Account Control, which pops up whenever you try to install a program, change a setting, or do just about anything else. Yes, it's there to protect you, but it will drive you insane in the process.

You can find simple instructions for deactivating UAC here: http://tinyurl.com/ 2ehc5m.

THE NEW START MENU

One of Vista's best assets is its search feature, which appears immediately above the Start button when you click it. Type a few letters into the box and Vista immediately begins to display matching results: applications, documents, Web favorites and so

As an added perk, you can launch programs without ever taking your hands off the keyboard.

Just press the Windows button, type the first few letters of the desired application (such as "pic" for Picasa), then press Enter to launch it. Don't like the new Start menu? Right-click Start, choose Properties, and then select Classic Start Menu.

You'll lose the search function, but gain that familiar XP look and feel.

ADD A TV TUNER

The Home Premium and Ultimate versions of Vista come with Windows Media Center, which affords TiVolike TV viewing, recording, and timeshifting. To take advantage of these features, however, you'll need a TV tuner.

Keep it simple: Plug in a USB tuner like the ADS MiniHDTVUSB or Pinnacle PCTV HD Ultimate Stick. I've got both on my workbench for testing; watch for detailed reviews in an upcoming column.

In the meantime, trust me when I say that once you've experienced TV - particularly, HDTV — on your PC, you'll be more than willing to forgive Vista its various transgressions.

ral sweeteners, from honeylike agave syrup to ultrasweet stevia, are crowding grocers' shelves.

Many of these products once were limited to the lower shelves of natural foods stores. but now are showing up in mainstream markets and in a growing variety of products (including soda).

■ Grocery stores get increasingly sexy

The '90s were all about grocers becoming either massive superstores — offering onsite banking, dry cleaning and enough varieties of bread, ice cream and frozen dinners to induce culinary stupor — or sparse warehouses.

Today, the trend is toward glamming up the grocery experience. You'll see lots of attractive displays of prepared foods, as well as a deconstruction of the traditional aisle layout in favor of a more open market feel.

Safeway, for example, says it is overhauling it markets (or opening new ones) as "lifestyle" stores, which sport larger departments, wood-like flooring, specialty food bars and soft lighting.

DONALD R. BORGESON Donald R. Borgeson, 84, a resident of Naples, Florida and Bloomfield Hills, Michigan died peacefully following a long illness on December 28, 2007. The son of Walter and Florence Borgeson, Don was born on January 30, 1923. After growing up in Chicago, he enlisted in the United States Navy and in 1942 earned his gold wings at Pensacola. As a carrier based fighter pilot, Don flew combat missions in the Pacific and was a member of the squadron that escorted Air Force bombers on the first ever large scale air raid over Japan. After the war. Don attended Michigan State University where he met and married Cecile Ann "Cec" Grinnell. An active student, he was president of his class and majored in Business Administration. Throughout shared his enthusiasm for life, his varied interests and his incredible energy with his family. Adventure was always high on the agenda, so he led the family on frequent travels across the country. A licensed pilot, he flew his Piper Comanche for fun and family excursions and also explored the Great Lakes on Valkommen, the family's cabin cruiser. In recent years, the highlight of each year for Don (and for the entire Borgeson clan) was the annual family reunion that he and Cec hosted at Walloon Lake in Northern Michigan.Don also shared his talents and resources as a community volunteer he helped build houses for Habiatat for Humanity in Naples and recruited friends to join him each Christmas season in "ringing the bell" for the Salvation Army at the Pavilion Shopping Center. He even organized informal luncheon club for Michigan friends who wintered in Naples call th ROMEOS--Retired Old Men Eating Out--where a seat at the head table was always reserved for him. Proud of his Swedish heritage, for many years, Don was board memthe Swedish Council of America. He also along time supporter and board member of the Detroit Zoological Society and an avid birdwatcher, a passion that took him, binoculars in hand, on numerous bird watching expeditions. Never content to sit on the sidelines of life, Don was a robust man, both physically and in spirit. He had a thirst for knowledge and never stopped learning and exploring. He convinced Cec that they should see as much of the world as possible, and as a result, they traveled extensively including major trips to what then were relatively remote and undiscovered places such as New Guinea, China, Costa Rica, Turkey, Japan, Kenya, New Zealand and the Croatian Coast. An accom-plished athlete, Don played football in the Navy, enjoyed skiing in the Rockies and loved the camaraderie of golf. He was a member of the Royal Poinciana Golf Club and of Bloomfield Hills Country Club where he served as a board member and chair of many committees.Don is survived by his wife of 60 years, Cecile, three daughters, Bonnie (Mrs.

Robert C. Larson), Brooke (Mrs. Kent Gray), Laurel (Mrs.Dennis Lemons), six grandchildren, five great- grandchildren and a host of extended family and friends who also loved him dearly.

Get out your suits and gloves, the polished look is back

BY SAMANTHA CRITCHELL ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

NEW YORK (AP) - OK, it's time to get serious.

Fashion this year is about a proper suit, long leather gloves, an oxford shoe or a power pump, and a structured handbag. It completes the 180degree revolution away from the loose and carefree bohemian styles that were all the rage mere seasons ago.

The word that best defines the new look is polished — which is, of course, an old look.

"It really is a head-totoe look with matching handbags and shoes. When was the last time we saw that?" says Sandra Wilson, accessories fashion director at Neiman Marcus. "We feel good about ourselves when we dress like this. It just looks right. There's no more messiness - I feelthat's the period we're in

It's a reaction we've seen before: In the 1990s, for example, grunge in the early part of the decade was replaced by super-sleek styles as we headed toward the new millennium.

"We're coming off several seasons inspired by the '60s and the youthful mod look was in — babydoll and trapeze dresses all summer long. It's fun, but designers are always looking for something new and so are shoppers. The answer is a crisp, polished look," says Nicole Phelps, executive editor at Style.com. "It's a little bit 1940s with a sharply cut, nipped-waist suit. It's a little '80s with the strong shoulder."

Designer Elie Tahari thinks it's style with staying power. "Fashion always has a cyclical nature with past trends inspiring new collections. It is hard to gauge how long a cycle will last in the fashion world but the more polished, clean look is a classic one that never seems to go away."

It is, however, a dressier look than many women who've been wearing denim, loose layers and funky, chunky jewelry are used to. But it shouldn't be hard to acclimate to: This is practically a ready-made uniform to put on in the morning. The only thing missing are the personal touches.

With a suit as the centerpiece — Phelps chooses a pantsuit while Lucky fashion director Hope Greenberg suggests a men's style blazer that can be worn with wide-coat, like this rednumber with a shirred collar, from INC at Macy's.

> leg cuffed trousers, a shorter skirt or a gray daytime dress — you wake up with a ready-made uniform. Just add your acces-

"If you're afraid of the pant being too mannish, add a feminine bow-tie blouse, which are again pretty popular or something with a ruffle. Or, maybe a subtle metallic — that's a little less classic and a little edgier," says Greenberg.

Designer Tahari even thinks there is something sexy about this put-together look because it makes women feel confident. "My wife Rory is my inspiration, he says.: When she is dressing for an event, for instance, she usually bares a bit of her shoulders, decolletage or legs, never all at the same time. The best bet is to stav clean and tailored — slim fit trousers, a pencil skirt, etc. — and add sex appeal by wearing a blouse with an interesting neckline or even a sleeveless piece."

Greenberg envisions a style similar to Katharine Hepburn in "The Philadelphia Story."

"I think there's always an element every fall of classic, but I think that this fall, what makes it look modern, is it's a little less preppy and a little more sophisticated," she adds. "The twist to the blazer is that it's boxy, not fitted, and the shoe has a good substantial high heel."

Another wise purchase, she says, would be a gray dress. Women certainly showed their affinity with dresses this past spring when most retailers credited them for a boost in sales.

It's the color that's key this time around, not the shape or fabric. "It could be a heavier wool, wool jersey, even silk, just some type of sophisticated gray dress depending on what shape you are.'

The nice thing about gray is that it's easy to coordinate accessories: brown, black, navy, hunter green, purple and burgundy all work.

Neiman's Wilson, thinks the most effective punctuation on an outfit will come from opaque tights; an elegant pump shoe - either peep-toe, round-toe or pointy-toe – but with a straight and substantial heel; a structured handbag in an exotic skin, gray or patent leather; a fur collar for the neck and red lipstick.

"The finishing polish in accessories would be a long glove," Wilson says. "On top of the glove could be a cuff bracelet."

And don't forget fall-favorite boots or, more important this season, booties, adds shoe designer Bettye Mueller.

"I like sort of a loafer stretch boot with a little heel or a low bootie that wraps around and is held with Velcro," she says. "You can put your pant inside of it or wear it with a dress. It's a little wide at the bottom so it stands away from leg. It's cool but polished. You look like vou've made an effort." Mueller says.

Unlike other recent trends, such as the empire waists that don't flatter everyone or the teetering stiletto heels or chunky platform shoes that throw some people off balance, a neat appearance complement anyone — anywhere.

"I can't imagine a place where at least some elements wouldn't be appropriate." says Lucky's Greenberg.

The polished look also can go easy on that classy pocketbook you're carrying: "All of this is accessible, It's not just at the designer level so it's easy to find and all the pieces are easy to wear," Greenberg says. "You don't have to be especially tall or especially skinny. There are plenty of other trends when you do have to be those things."

Allure's Linda Wells predicts the face of '08

BY SAMANTHA CRITCHELL AP FASHION WRITER

There will be three Cs the face of 2008 will need to know: color, cream and caffeine.

Linda Wells, editor in chief of Allure magazine, predicts those will be the beauty trends in the new year. They all lend themselves to a move away from the very ladylike style that dominated in 2007.

"The overall look isn't quite as prim and proper as we've seen in the recent past. You don't need a protractor to apply products," Wells says. "It's a little looser, you can use a little creativity."

COLOR

Color cosmetics is such a strong category right now, with market researcher The NPD Group reporting makeup leading the prestige beauty category for the first three quarters of this year — and a enjoying a 5 percent increase in sales from last year.

Growth will continue, Wells says, as fashion also delves into candy and sherbet shades for spring.

She expects women will be drawn to noticeable, not neutral, hues, including red matte lips and more color on the eye than we're used to seeing. "The colors sound intimidating – purple, orange, a peachy-yellow — but they will look really good. It'll be a sheer hint that gives you warmth," she says. If you do go with the more pigmented eye shadows, Wells recommends a delicate rose color on the cheeks and lips. If you wear the bright red lips, tone down the eye makeup. the rest of your face, that would are talking about." be clownish."

Applying a cream-based product, especially a cream eye shadow, allows you to easily control the intensity of the color. "You'll get a sheer wash," Wells explains. "It won't be vivid and frightening. It'll be just a hint.'

Don't be afraid to use your fingers, either. It helps put the color where you want it and spread out the edges so it's not a harsh look.

For lipstick, Wells says, put it on straight from the tube. "Makeup isn't sitting on top of the face like paint. It has a more organic look to it," she describes. If you do prefer pencils, brushes or sponges, don't be too perfect and embrace any smudges.

CAFFEINE

Caffeine is again causing a buzz in beauty circles. It's been used on its own as an ingredient for a few years to wake up tired eyes or stimulate skin cells. What's new, says Wells, is that so many caffeinated products have also made their way into skin creams, gels and lotions, including green tea, ground coffee and CoffeeBerry, the fruit of the coffee plant.

"Caffeine has been found to fight wrinkles, calm redness, reduce swelling — because it's a vasoconstrictor. It's the most prevalent ingredient in cellulite creams, and is being used more and more in eye creams, face serums, and rosacea treatments," Wells "You don't want a lot of color on says. huge re-openings like the new MGM Grand and Detroit Institute of Arts.

But then there's the smaller events that made our lives more enjoyable ... the local bars, local musicians and local restaurants that make metro-

Detroit interesting.

Here's the top 2007 moments; and if you missed them, don't worry. These are events that haven't stopped:

■ Gogol Bordello at The Majestic in Detroit. The gypsy punk band based in New York, blends punk, cabaret, reggae and Eastern European influences into their sound and loyal fans (mostly teenagers, who always discover music first) follow them with fierce loyalty. FILTERED TOP FIVE: FREER Formed in the Fall of 2005 Freer marks a wide-open collaboration between brothers Jeremy and Jeffrey Freer.

The Detroit-based band defies genre, ranging from influences of pure pop to bluesy ballads, as noted on its debut Secret Chorus. Before heading out on tour with The Von Bondies, Jeremy Freer took some time out to share his five favorite records of the moment. His picks are as sweeping as you might suspect, and don't discount the Best Of's of his own music collection. Here they are, his Filtered Top Five:

Fulfillingness' First Finale by Stevie Wonder

"Every song is beautiful even when it's edgy and funky. Stevie is one of the purest souls to ever record music."

The Best Of David Bowie by David

"White boy soul, sassy rock, strange pop. If you're a little weird and you like to feel good, Bowie makes the best weirdo feel good music ever."

A Night at the Ritz by Office

"These guys are from Chicago and they just released this record in September. If you want to hear true pop music with classically inspired arrangements, dance beats and original lyrics, you should go buy this record now."

Era Vulgaris by Queens of the Stone Age

"No other record sounds like this one right now. New-Wave, Punk Metal, Psychedelic Beatles music."

The Best Of Daniel Johnston by Daniel Johnston

"One of the most heartbreaking songwriters I've heard besides Billie Holiday. Go rent the documentary about him called The Devil and Daniel Johnston. To all open minds and hearts his music will be a revelation."

Don't miss Freer when they open for Detroit's The Von Bondies, along with SSM, 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 9, at the Blind Pig, 208 S. First Street, Ann Arbor. Tickets

Dancing with the Stars tour comes to town

BY WENSDY VON BUSKIRK
STAFF WRITER

It was a dramatic year for Dancing with the Stars. During the fifth season of the hit TV show, Marie Osmond collapsed on stage, then lost her beloved father. Jane Seymour was rushed to the hospital with food poisoning. And Melanie "Scary Spice" Brown waltzed her way to the final two while simultaneously rehearsing for the much-hyped, first-ever Spice Girls reunion.

All that amidst the swirl of sequined costumes, unbelievably fit dancers, and rumors of romance — it's no wonder DWTS is ABC's No. 1 unscripted show.

Now armchair fans will get to see some of their favorite celebrities and professional dancers in person as Dancing with the Stars — The Tour comes to Joe Louis Arena at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 5.

The one-night-only show features an all-star cast from the show's first five seasons.

Performers include season five's Wayne Newton with Cheryl Burke; season three's Joey Lawrence with Edyta Sliwinska and Monique Coleman with Alex Mazo; as well as professional dancers Derek Hough, Brian Fortuna and Kym Johnson.

Season five's unexpected winner, race car driver Helio Castroneves, will not appear at the show. But 'Cheetah Girl' Sabrina Bryan, who was voted off in a surprising upset, then said farewell by rocking what was arguably the most sizzling dance of the season, will perform at Joe Louis Arena with partner Mark

■ MOCAD - The Museum of Contemporary Art Detroit has become the place for performance and other indie artists to express themselves. MOCAD is so cool, and diverse, that one Friday night, actor Vincent Gallo performed his music there and a few weeks earlier, Windy & Carl played. Windy & Carl are based in Michigan but are known worldwide for their dreamy, ambient space music. Not all ambient is like Brian Eno. This duo's drones then check out their shows in 2008.

■ Tuesdays at The Black Lotus Brewing Company in Clawson. It's often standing room only, but if you arrive by 8 p.m., you can get a seat. Why the crowd? Everyone is there for the good micro-brew and to hear the sultry sounds of Detroit's best world jazz group Blackman & Arnold. Hear them at myspace.com/blackmanarnold or visit www.blackmanarnold.com

■ Sunday afternoons at La Dolce Vita in Detroit. Brunch is not inexpensive; but the ambiance is upbeat, the mimosas are flowing, crowd is eclectic and it's a good way to relax on Sunday as Blackman Arnold, once again, pleases the ears.

■ Turtleneck & Sweater Party that was and hosted by Drew Phillips & friends

- The eighth annual holiday party keeps getting bigger, more festive and weirder. Money goes to charity and the theme is cheesy Christmas attire. For example, the normally hipster men who frequent the Bag grow bad moustaches, wear leisure suits and top them off with bad snowmen type holiday sweaters. The women, dress as sexy elves, or puff their hair up 80s style and don themselves in often-intentionally bad glittery sweaters with reindeer and snowflakes.

Catch the party again next year.

Thursdays at The Bosco in Ferndale. For years, the New York style lounge owned by Daniel Haberman, has been the place for upscale ad-industry, creative types.

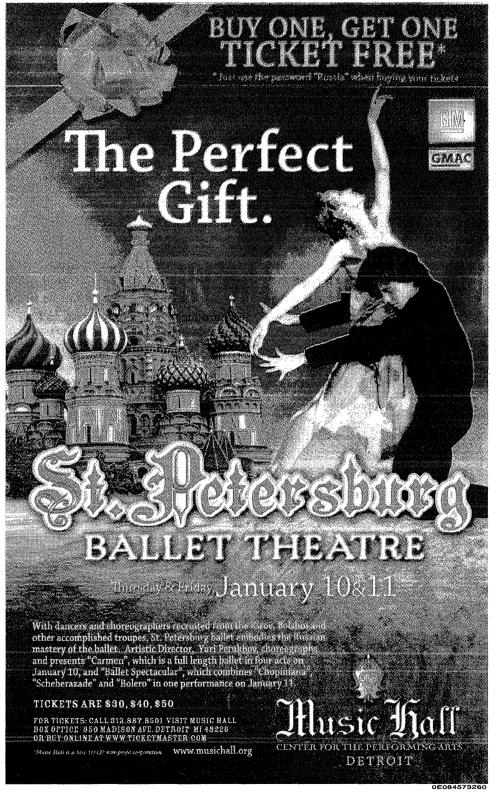

Best drinks in town. The groove-factor has increased since electronic musician John Arnold took residency there on Thursday nights a few weeks ago. Hear him at myspace.com/johnarnold ■ Rhythm Corps & Sponge - The 90s alternative bands, played to roaring crowds at the Royal Oak Music Theatre a few weeks ago. Rhythm Corps reunited for its first show in years.

And Sponge, the band that still plays occasionally in Detroit, eloquently was second on the three-band lineup. Rhythm Corps headlined and the crowd was surprisingly packed with older fans and new. We don't expect this show to happen again in 2008, but we can hope.

Happy New Year.

Whistle Down the Wind' makes its Detroit debut

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA STAFF WRITER

Carole Denise Jones began performing on stage internationally at the age of 13 - but she started as a violinist not an actor. When her orchestra traveled to London to perform she took in her first true musical - Andrew Lloyd Webber's Phantom of the Cover Opera in the West End - and her career path was forever changed. "I fell in love with it," she said, calling into Filter on

The actress is now traveling the country as Candy, a pivotal character in Webber's latest musical sensation, Whistle Down the Wind. The show became a bona fide hit in London and is for the first time touring the U.S. It opened in September in Houston and hits Detroit Jan. 8 for a two-week run.

"My agent submitted me for the part," said Jones, who resides in New York City. "I had heard about the movie before but I didn't know a lot about it."

Whistle Down The Wind marks a collaboration between Webber and rock lyricist Jim Steinman, known for his work with Meatloaf on the classic Bat Out of Hell and for Bonnie Tyler's 1980's hit Total Eclipse of the Heart. The show is directed and produced by Bill Kenwright, and was based upon a 1961 film of the same name, which starred Hayley Mills.

"Whistle Down the Wind is a fantastic story for a musical dramatist and it took me back to my rock roots," said Webber in a press release. "It's a primal tale about salvation and forgiveness that everyone can relate to. I'm absolutely delighted that Bill Kenwright's wonderful production is going to be seen in America.'

With a score that reverberates the sounds of the American South, including blues, gospel, country and rock n' roll, the production tells the tale of a young Louisiana girl who finds a mysterious stranger hiding in her barn. When she asks his identity, the first words he utters are "Jesus Christ" and she takes him quite literally.

Story

Jones said she nabbed a CD with music from the production to familiarize herself with the role of Amos's scorned girlfriend Candy. She was drawn to the "bad girl" role, one she said doesn't come naturally at all. Having portrayed Aida in the musical of the same name, Jones saw a kindred spirit in Candy - a girl who's determined to do as she wishes and happens to be in love with someone of a different race.

She won the role and began rehearsing for the show in August - just days after

While the main character, Swallow, is attempting to hide The Man, whom she believes to be Jesus, Candy threatens to unveil the secret. All the while she struggles with the knowledge that her boyfriend Amos is truly in love with Swallow.

Reaction to the show, so far, has been mixed said Jones. Audiences either embrace the story of faith and are moved by it or, she said, "they don't get it." "It's not a jolly musical," she noted.

Her character endures an emotional struggle nightly.

Rochester Conservatory singers take to the Fisher stage

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA

Students from the Rochester Conservatory will join the touring cast of Andrew Lloyd Webber's musical Whistle Down the Wind when it premieres in Detroit this month. Instead of hosting an open call at the Fisher Theatre, Rochester Conservatory directors Cliff and Kay Ellen Wilkins were asked to assemble a children's choir for the show, consisting solely of local performers.

What began with more than 40 children auditioning in October has been narrowed to 14 students, all ranging in age from 7 to 11. The young singers had to meet specifications for height and age. Cliff Wilkins described the group "quick learners." By their second rehearsal late last year, he felt they were well-prepared to take the stage, Wilkins said.

"It's true what they say, 'It's a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity," said Kay Ellen Wilkins. "We're thrilled. We're proud of

The student choir includes: Ryan Blankenburg of Rochester; Chris Chen of Troy; Kristina DeBlasi of Shelby Township; Lauren Ellsworth of Rochester Hills; Annika Ey of Washington Township; Reyanna Fermin of Rochester; Michael Jenuwine of Troy; Brittany Johnson of Rochester; Kendall McNeely of Rochester; Olivia Millerschin of Rochester Hills; Olivia Motzer of Shelby Township; Clara Stine of Sterling Heights; Jennalise Wolschlager of Rochester and Andrew Wright of Rochester Hills.

They will sing seven musical numbers throughout the show. Kay Ellen Wilkins described the music as "real rock n' roll, a lot of fast, upbeat songs." At certain points the choir will be expected to sing a call-and-response portion of dialogue, which means their timing has to be per-

Carole Denise Jones, who plays Candy in the national tour, said the young performers will be "on stage for a good amount of time." She called the groups she's worked with so far on the tour "little sponges" and she noted their important role in the show. "It's all about their innocence and their belief," said Jones. "And that's what I think the show is all about."

The Wilkins' plan to be in attendance on opening night, if not additional shows to support their students. The Rochester Conservatory opened in its current downtown Rochester location in 1985. The Wilkins' took over in 1991, and the school has since grown by 400 students. "I believe music adds color to their lives," said Cliff Wilkins.

Several Rusty Bucket taverns now operate within Ohio, and the Columbus-based company has recently headed north to Michigan. Kurt Kramer, general manager at the inviting West Bloomfield location, says another tavern will open in Northville in a few months.

He smiled and explained, "I wish I could tell you an interesting story behind the name. Actually, as the concept developed, the investors just threw suggestions into a pot, kicked around ideas, and this one struck a chord."

Situated at Crosswinds Mall, the eatery offers a fun, fast, friendly atmosphere in which to savor English pub favorites and American bar fare. The innovative

The upbeat décor of natural dark wood furnishings is stylish. Walls are adorned with pennants, photos and other cool sports memorabilia. A mellow bar area also offers high-top tables, while cozy booths and standard tables fill the dining space.

For starters, sink your teeth into Bucket Bites, mini burgers on potato buns with grilled onions and yellow Cheddar cheese, topped off with pickle chips. Speaking of pickles, tickle your taste buds with a Deep-Fried Pickle appetizer, served with ranch dressing for dipping.

The menu is diverse in all categories. Other starters include Hummus,

The Texas Sirloin Chili and French Onion Soup are hearty, and several salads make for delicious entrees, like the popular Double Nickel Salad with mixed greens, tomatoes, red onions, chopped bacon bits, Bleu cheese crumbles, and signature dressing (chicken is optional).

House favorites include fresh beerbattered Fish 'n Chips, or a Codwich served with tartar sauce, lettuce, American cheese, tomato and onion. Many sandwiches, burgers and main plates are pure classics, while others take on contemporary flips.

Despite the pub atmosphere, children are welcome. "Kids often determine where families choose to go for dinner." Kramer said. So, a kid-friendly menu promises to satisfy the little ones.

Desserts "wow" with such choices as a Blueberry Stack, a mouth-watering blueberry and vanilla cream bread pudding, Strawberry Shortcake, Apple Brown Betty and Cookies & Cream – a sinful chocolaty surprise!

Daily drink specials are on offer, as well as imported and draft beers, artisinal microbrews, and an appealing wine list.

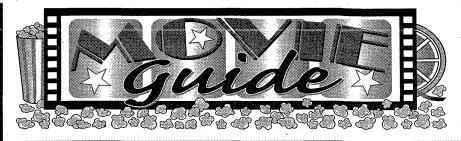

"And we welcome suggestions for more Michigan labels," Kramer said.

The restaurant group builds its taverns in neighborhood niches where people can walk from their homes in nice weather, Kramer said. "And we're now working on a patio," he added. The company is community involved, and participates in sponsorship programs with high schools and other local organizations.

"Just like on the sit-com 'Cheers,' we see lots of familiar, friendly faces. Ultimately, that's the best form of marketing," Kramer said.

Anti-Freeze Blues Festival benefits musicians

Music

The folks at The Magic Bag try to heat things up every January to get through winter.

Each year it's a success, accomplished with some sizzling blues to thaw us at the appropriately named Anti-Freeze Blues Festival, now in its 14th year, a benefit for the Detroit Blues Society.

The event helps keep the blues alive.

The festival is two nights, Friday and Saturday, Jan. 4 and 5. Each year the Bag creates a lineup completely different from the previous.

Highlighting Friday is the reunion of The Hodge Brothers (Catfish and Dallas), plus Thornetta Davis, The Erich Goebel Band, The Grandmasters and Mike Eyspy/Yakety Yak.

Saturday's show headlines with soul diva Bettye LaVette - with Johnnie Bassett plus The Laith Al Saadi Band, Count Bracey & The Pleasuretones and The Front Street Blues Band.

Blues rocker Bob "Catfish" Hodge was born and raised in Detroit. As a teenager he frequently snuck into Motown Records' Hitsville Studio to catch sessions by the Four Tops, The Supremes and The Temptations. Spurred on by soul and blues, Hodge formed his own band, Catfish, in 1970.

recorded and toured with Bonnie Raitt and Little Feat and released a series of solo LPs. He also formed bands like The Bluesbusters, moved to the Blue Ridge Mountains to take a break from the touring world and returned in the 1990s with more solo work, including the acclaimed 2002 album Let's Eat - which is an ode to food.

As for Dallas Hodge, he's described as the "bastard son of a Detroit roadhouse, born in the throes of late-night blues bands and primed in the house that built R&B guitar."

Dallas Hodge teamed up with brother Catfish to form the Catfish Hodge Band in 1970. Now, during the past six years, he's refined his craft both vocally and on the guitar as the front-man for boogie legends Canned Heat.

Dallas Hodge's tenure with Heat has taken him all over the world playing to sold-out venues. Splitting from the band in 2006, he released his first solo CD this summer titled I Need A Holiday and has been touring with his band The Modern Essentials.

BETTY LAVETTE

LaVette was one of the many soul divas who started her career in the Motor City.

She recorded her first song My Man, He's A Lovin' Man, as a teenager in 1962. It was a hit and she signed onto Atlantic Records. LaVette spent the following years recording for labels such as LuPine, Calla, Big Wheel, Silver Fox and SSS International before returning to Atlantic in 1972. She also did a stint on Broadway. In the late 1990's LaVette was rediscovered by the European Northern Soul fans which lead to her comeback album in 2003 A Woman Like Me, which earned the prestigious W.C. Handy Award.

State Orchestra. In 2006, he was named artist-in-residence of the Orchestre de Castilla y Leon in Spain.

Felix Mendelssohn was a child prodigy and prolific composer who wrote the Overture to Shakespeare's romantic comedy A Midsummer Night's Dream in 1826 at age 17. In 1843, because of the fame of the overture, he was commissioned to write incidental music for a German stage production of the play. The Overture was also added to it, and both were used in most stage versions through the 19th century.

The popular Wedding March is the final movement of the incidental music and has been used in countless weddings since its debut. However, most wedding-goers do not hear the different verses Mendelssohn composed that appear between the march's stirring refrain. While it might seem natural for Robert Schumann to write a piano concerto given the many compositions he composed for the instrument, he hesitated before tackling one due to Bach's proficiency. Schumann began several concerti before this one but never completed them for fear they could not hold up to Bach's works. The popular Piano Concerto in A minor started as a single movement completed by the composer in 1841. His wife, Clara, a renowned pianist, performed the piece and pronounced it "marvelous." In 1845 Schumann added the intermezzo and finale to finish the work. Its 1846 premiere was in Liepzig, Germany with Clara as soloist and remains the only actual piano concerto Schumann ever composed.

Also on the program is Johann Sebastian Bach's Violin Concerto No. 1 in A minor, one of only two violin concertos written by the legendary composer.

The A minor concerto was likely composed in 1720 when Bach was Kappellmeister for Prince Leopold of Anhalt-Köthen (Germany). The A minor concerto closely follows the Italian model, a three-movement, fast-slow-fast plan, as Vivaldi's concertos were widely copied and imitated during Bach's time. The original conception of this concerto was considered chamber music as Bach had an orchestra of about a dozen players in mind when composing the piece.

Jones. "But he won't commit."

Meanwhile, the character of Swallow undergoes the loss of her mother and she hopes that - in finding Jesus - she's found a way to bring her mother back.

"I love the music," said Jones. "It has this drive to it." She said you can hear both Webber and Steinman's influences in the music and lyrics, and to her surprise, audiences are quite familiar with the songs. She encountered a karaoke singer belting out Tire Tracks and Broken Hearts while on tour. "It was amazing," she said.

Adding to the experience of the show are the chorus of young singers who join the actors on stage in each city. In Detroit, the students have been selected from The Rochester Conservatory. Jones said the students blend in "like magic" and it's hard to say good-bye to them after the two-week run.

"It's fun to watch them progress," she said. "On the first night, they're nervous. As the run goes on I can see how they start acting... They have all been really great. It's a great opportunity." One, she said, she wished she would've had at the age of 8.

As for the show, Jones said "Everyone can relate in some way. It's a lot about having faith. No matter what you believe. It's important to have something to believe in."

ers will perform in front of such a large crowd - though it is the first major Broadway production the Rochester Conservatory has been involved with, Wilkins said. The students have sung Christmas carols at the Palace of Auburn Hills prior to a concert by Manhattan Steamroller. And they have performed at tree lighting ceremonies and the kick off to Rochester's Big Bright Lights along Main Street. But the Fisher marks new territory.

"I want them to have the thrill of it all," he said, "a little bit of fame along with the excitement. I want them to understand what it's like in the big time."

And Whistle Down the Wind, with two full weeks of performances, is about as big as it gets in Metro Detroit. The students sing in every show, twice a day on weekends. "They're determined to do it," said Kay Ellen Wilkins.

The show runs Jan. 8-27 in Detroit.
